Arrests Climax Investigation

AT DEATH SCENE . . . deputies investigate at Ma's Place east of Grimesland.

Murder Charged Rural Storekeeper

GRIMESLAND — Officers arrested a rural storekeeper last night and charged him with murdering Frank Taylor Jr. at Ma's Place near here early Sunday morning.

The arrests climaxed a week-end of investigation by Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and his deputies. It started around 12:30 Sunday morning when a shotgun blast felled Frank Taylor Jr. of Jefferson Drive in Greenville.

Taylor was struck by four 12 gauge pellets in the chest region. One of them severed an artery in the upper chest area. He died in Pitt Memorial Hospital emergency room about 15 minutes after arrival.

There was a delay in getting the injured man to the hospital as the vehicle which was carrying him was involved in a wreck at Boyd and Dickinson Ave.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the death apparently resulted from an argument Baker had with Taylor's brother Ralph Taylor.

Investigation showed Ralph Taylor and Baker were arguing at Ma's Place, which is located on U.S. 264 east of Grimesland. The sheriff said Baker left with Louis Hickman and Leon Hardee and went to his sister's home where he picked up his gun.

He came back and the argument resumed. Baker allegedly fired the shotgun and the pellets hit Frank Taylor in the chest. One pellet also grazed Ralph Taylor but the wound was not serious.

Hickman and Hardee were charged because they allegedly took Baker to his sister's for the gun and also carried him away after the shooting, the sheriff reported.

Sheriff Tyson and his deputies arrested each of the men separately yesterday afternoon and last night.

The wreck occurred as Ralph Taylor was bringing his brother to the hospital.

Greenville officers, who investigated, said heavy damage resulted in the mishap.

They identified the drivers as Ralph B. Taylor, 43, of Rt. 2, Grimesland, who was headed west on Dickinson Ave., and Gus Hardy Jr., 30-year-old Negro of 603 Howell St.

Damage to each car was placed at $400.

Gus Hardy, Joe Hardy, 37-year-old Negro of 212 Wade St. and Lacey Turnage, 26-year-old Negro, were treated for bruises and abrasions. Joe Hardy and Turnage were passengers in the Gus Hardy vehicle.

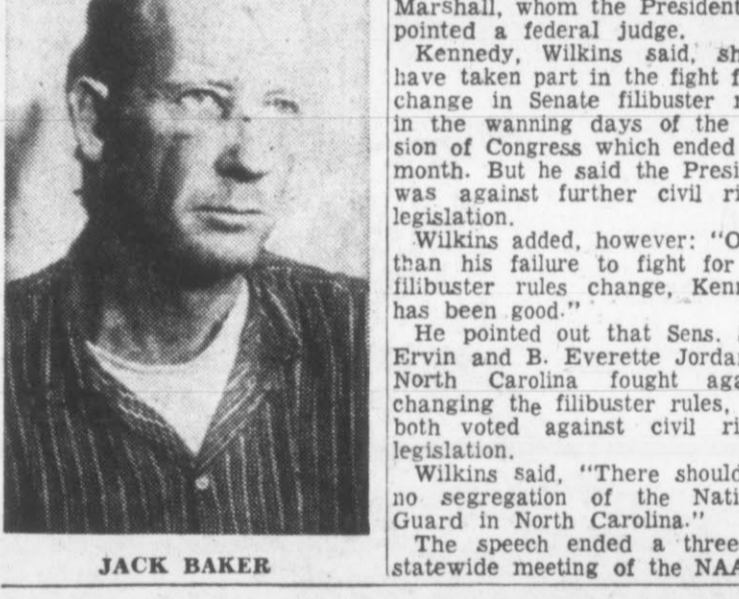

No charges were placed. Coroner Withers Harvey ruled Frank Taylor's death due to homicide. He said the pellets hit Taylor in chest, one in the collar

Shelter Meeting In Farmville

Community Fallout Shelter Program To Be Considered At Public Meeting

FARMVILLE — Civil Defense-minded Farmvillites, eager to "do something" about preparing for possible nuclear attack, are scheduled to gather here Thursday to set a local community fallout shelter plan in motion.

Twenty-three Farmville citizens Sunday visited Washington, N. C., to inspect a series of fallout shelters there. Local leaders plan to pattern Farmville's organization of citizens for fallout protection after the Washington plan.

Col. David W. Spivey, area Civil Defense director, is scheduled to speak to Thursday's 7:30 p.m. public gathering at Farmville High School.

Col. Spivey will describe the effects of fallout and will make a comparison of Pitt County's Civil Defense program with those of surrounding counties.

Local leaders of the move to obtain a community shelter program have urged all persons in the Farmville area who are interested in the plan to attend Thursday's meeting.

At the meeting, the machinery for the local shelter-building program will be explained and set into motion. Leaders say they are anxious to get an active program — construction work on community fallout protection — underway as soon as possible.

W. C. (Lum) Wooten, Mayor O. G. Spell, town clerk Harold M. Allred and Vassar Fields head Farmville's Civil Defense organization and have arranged Thursday's educational and organizational meeting.

Mrs. Lonnie T. Pierce, president of the Farmville Junior Woman's Club, is assisting local CD officials in urging attendance of the meeting. Mrs. Pierce and other members of her organization have planned to contact Farmville civic clubs and other organizations to request them to urge their respective memberships to attend the meeting Thursday.

'Sky Shield' Termed Big Success; B-52G Missing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The disappearance of a bomber carrying eight men has marred an otherwise highly successful major test of North American air defenses.

The B52G jet was one of more than 2,250 U.S., Canadian and British planes that participated Saturday in the 12-hour mock aerial war, Sky Shield II. The North American Air Defense Command said: "The exercise was 99.9 per cent effective, and the results were as good as we could possibly expect."

The eight-jet bomber, attached to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro, N.C., was believed to have run out of fuel. Air and surface craft swept a wide area in the Atlantic in search of plane declared missing early Sunday.

After the defense test ended at midnight Saturday, commercial air travel resumed across the continent. Except for mercy flights and a few other essential ones, no civilian planes were allowed to cross the skies during the mock war. Most of the larger airports in the United States reported passenger increases of 20 per cent or more on both Friday, the day before the exercise, and Sunday.

The exercise began with a simulated mass missile attack. Then more than 200 U.S. Strategic Air Command and British Royal Air Force bombers playing the role of "enemy" planes bored in for a follow-up assault. American and Canadian jets roared aloft in more than 6,000 sorties a head them off.

At the end of the test, an official at the air command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., said: "The warning systems worked like a charm."

The air defense commander, commander, Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, who followed the exercise from his headquarters, said: "This exercise was of inestimable value in improving the aerospace defense of North America."

Although detailed results were not announced on the assumption they could be useful to an enemy, Kuter said what was achieved in the exercise could mean success in fighting off a real aerial assault on the continent.

At Hayaannis Port, Mass., President Kennedy was informed that Sky Shield II was the best test yet of continental aerial defense systems and expressed gratification.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cancellation of a proposed Western European meeting underlined today the difficulties the Allies will face among themselves if they ever get into negotiations with Russia over Berlin.

The proposed meeting of senior diplomats from the United States, Britain, France and West Germany in London this week to work out a common negotiating position had been tentatively agreed on a State Department spokesman said Saturday.

Sunday the spokesman said there had been no decision on the high-level parley and, instead, the Big Four ambassadorial group which has been meeting here regularly on the Berlin crisis "will continue here in Washington."

The reason for the switch, informants said, was France, which objected that it would be premature to get into discussions on negotiations when the Kremlin has offered nothing the West can negotiate about.

The future of inter-allied talks remained obscure as the Western diplomats discussed what to do next. The United States had an invitation out to the proposed participants to come to Washington.

In London the Foreign Office said its delegate, Deputy Undersecretary Sir Evelyn Shuckburgh, would go to Washington. A West German spokesman said over the weekend the Bonn delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Karl Carstens, planned to leave for London Wednesday as scheduled. In Washington, Asst. Secretary of State Foy Kohler dropped his plan to go to London.

France's Jean Lalois, Director of European Affairs in the Foreign Ministry, apparently was going to no meeting on negotiations — either in London or Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post said today it had learned President Kennedy was assured by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that the shipment of surplus Saber jet fighters to Yugoslavia was in the national interest.

"Gen. Eisenhower is said to have told President Kennedy," the Post story said, "that the planes shipped to Yugoslavia were obsolescent and would never be a factor in a major war of the future."

"The decision to ship the planes to Yugoslavia was made before the change of administration last January and explained to the incoming president by the outgoing president, according to a source informed about the background of the affair."

Great Aerial Search Begun For Johnson AFB Bomber

NEW YORK (AP) — A force of 22 planes and four surface vessels resumed a search over the Atlantic today for an Air Force jet bomber that disappeared with eight men during Operation Sky Shield II.

Additional military and civilian elements probed inland areas of the east coast in the possibility the eight-jet B52G craft may have come down ashore. It was to have come in at low level somewhere between New York and Philadelphia.

The bomber, from the 4241 Strategic Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N. C., was listed as missing at 1 a.m. Sunday, an hour after the 12-hour nationwide air defense exercise had ended. It was at that time that the plane should have run out of fuel.

Eighth Air Force headquarters of the Strategic Air Command at Westover Air Force Base, Mass., said the plane's last known position was about 850 miles off the New York Metropolitan area.

A score of planes scoured the area Sunday without picking up a sign of the craft. A token force remained on the spot during the night, and orders were issued to increase the force to a total of one Coast Guard, two Navy and 19 Air Force planes at daybreak.

Four coast guard cutters — two from Norfolk, Va., and two from New York — also participated in the search.

Planes from Warner Robins Air Force Base, Ga., spearheaded the inland search, aided by elements of the Civil Air Patrol.

At Charleston, W. Va., Capt. E. H. Chieves of the West Virginia Civil Air Patrol said that organization would put three aircraft and half a dozen vehicles into the search of an area on either side of a line from Morgantown, W. Va., to Lynchburg, Va.

"That's our graveyard," he heavily said, referring to the mountainous area.

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP)—A postcard that went astray has given the American Peace Corps its first black eye in the field.

Nigerian university students demanded Sunday that the corps unit sent to teach Nigerians be expelled because of criticism of primitive living conditions in this year-old African republic written by an enthusiastic—but "thoughtless"—girl in the group.

Her postcard home, dropped accidentally on the campus, stirred 1,000 students at Ibadan University College to an angry demonstration denouncing the American volunteers as "agents of imperialism."

Margery Michelmore, 23, Smith College honor graduate from Foxboro, Mass., quickly apologized to the university authorities for writing the "thoughtless card" and offered to resign from the corps in an attempt to quiet the uproar.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver said in Washington he talked to the Nigerian ambassador and "he did not seem disturbed. He said it was the type of thing you could expect in this kind of operation, and I agreed with him."

The anti-American demonstration was organized after someone reportedly had found on the campus grounds the postcard that Miss Michelmore had written to a friend in Boston telling him: "With all the training we had, we were really not prepared for the squalor and absolutely primitive living conditions rampant both in the cities and the bush."

"We had had no idea about what 'underdeveloped' means. It really is a revelation, and once we got over the initial, horrified shock, it is a very rewarding experience. Everyone except us lives in the streets, cooks in the streets, and even goes to bathrooms in the streets."

She described the university as "great fun" but added, "I just hope they do not repeat last year's Lumumba riots." This was a reference to antiwhite demonstrations in Lagos, capital of this former British colony of 35 million people, after former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba was slain in Katanga.

The American girl's postcard was copies and circulated among the 1,500 students here by the Ibadan University College Students' Union, which described her comments as "damaging to our country."

Before the student rally got underway on the campus, Miss Michelmore, attractive daughter of a Massachusetts electronics company executive, left the college where 37 Peace Corps members are training for teaching assignments.

Greenville Rescue Squad Adds Laurels In State Meeting

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer

The winning of two state championships by the Greenville Rescue Unit, the selection of Greenville as the site of the first State Rescue School and the election of J. G. Purcell of Laurinburg as State Commander were the highlights of the fifth annual convention of the North Carolina Association of Rescue Squads, held here over the weekend.

The Greenville Fire Department's Rescue Unit became double "state champions Saturday" when the Squad's competition teams were awarded first place trophies in the state first aid and the state rescue contests.

This was the second year the local unit's first aid team has taken the first place state award. The team won the first place trophy last year in competition in Burlington.

Dr. Howard Gradis, President of the Pitt County Medical Society presented the team with the first aid trophy at the Saturday night Banquet. He was representing the North Carolina Medical Society who gives the prize each year.

Fire Chief George Gardner had the job of presenting the rescue trophy to his own team. The Greenville Rescue Squad donated the trophy to the State Association to be given to the rescue winner. It will be known as the Greenville Rescue Cup. This was the first rescue competition held in conjunction with the N. C. Rescue meet.

Goldsboro's rescue team took second place in the competition while a team from Danville, placed second in the first aid competition. Third place in the first aid contest, held at the East Carolina College Stadium, was won by the Goldsboro squad.

The Danville squad does a good part of their work in North Carolina and is a member of the N. C. Rescue association.

At the Sunday business session, J. G. Purcell of Laurinburg, who has been serving an unexpired term as State commander was elected to the post for 1961-1962, while Graham Johnson of Elkin was chosen vice-commander.

The school is tentatively set for June and will be held with the cooperation of East Carolina College.

Guest speaker for the banquet was Dr. Robert Wilder of Baltimore.

Miss Linda Killion of Salisbury, an 18-year-old ECC freshman representing the Rowan County Rescue Squad, was crowned the new Miss North Carolina Rescue queen.

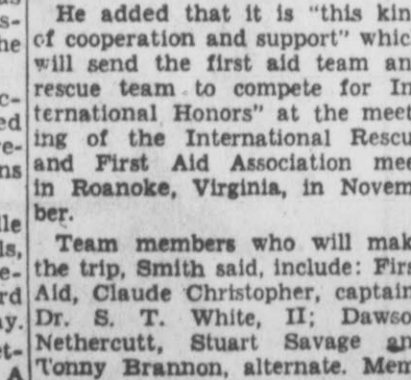

Miss Killion, crowned by Norma Carroll Summerlin of Mount Olive, who was named Miss N. C. Rescue last year, won out over a field of seven contestants for the crown.

Jimmy Smith, III, captain of the Greenville Squad said today that local rescue men were well pleased with the convention but noted that "a large part of the success" of the convention was due to the "many firms and individuals who helped" with the program.

He added that it is "this kind of cooperation and support" which will send the first aid team and rescue team to compete for International Honors" at the meeting of the International Rescue and First Aid Association meet in Roanoke, Virginia, in November.

Team members who will make the trip, Smith said, include: First Aid, Claude Christopher, captain; Dr. S. T. White, II; Dawson Nethercutt, Stuart Savage and Tony Brannon, alternate. Members of the champion rescue team making the trip include: Robert C. Blanton, Harold Ross; Melvin Hathaway; Tony Brannon; Claude Christopher, captain; Stuart Savage and alternate Robert Briley.

Ellens Feted At Tea Sunday

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Brimley, Miss Sarah Kirkpatrick, and Mrs. Roger Williams entertained at a tea Sunday afternoon in honor of Dr. and Mrs. John Ellen of East Carolina College, who were married in late summer.

More than 50 guests called at the Brimley home on Eastern Street, including members of the social studies department at the college and their wives and friends of the hostesses.

The living room, where host and hostesses received guests, was made attractive with a mantel decorated with white gladioli interspersed with feverfew and candles entwined with ivy. Elsewhere in the home, bowls of berries and flowers suggested the colorful fall season.

Mrs. Paul Murray and Mrs. Francis Adams poured tea in the dining room at an appointed table covered with a lace cloth. The bridal motif was carried out by a centerpiece of white chrysanthemums and carnations on either side of which was a silver candelabrum with white tapers.

Sandwiches in fancy shapes, white petits fours with green decorations, mints and nuts, and spiced tea were served.

Wives Reveal Way To Calm Husband

DEAUVILLE, France—(WNS)—How do you calm your husband when he comes home from the office in an angry mood?

French wives who were asked that question in a local contest gave these replies:

"I take his head in my hands, look him straight in the eyes and murmur: 'But I love you with all my heart.'"

"I keep a bottle of champagne but chilled for just such occasions. We pop it open, and that is that."

"I invite his friends in for the evening. When he gets his mind off himself, he's in fine spirits again."

"I tell him I've been thinking over our argument of the other day and now I can see that he was completely right and I was completely wrong."

"I bring him his slippers, smoking jacket, cigarettes, newspaper and a cool drink. Then I leave him alone until he comes searching for me."

"I say something so brutal that he slaps me in the face. After the smack he returns to normal, and there's a tender scene of making up."

"Can My Suede Jacket Be Drycleaned?"
 —Mrs. M. L. L.

Dear Mrs. M. L. L.:
 You, too, have been swayed by suede. I see. More and more of our fashion-conscious ladies have been intrigued by all varieties of leather trim as well as jackets and coats. Yes, your suede jacket can be drycleaned, and, perhaps, more readily now than ever. New soil resistant finishes have been introduced to leathers at the tanning stage and better cleanability has resulted. However, all leather and leather-trimmed garments require special care in wear and in cleaning. Your drycleaner knows how to handle your leathers to retain the colors or pearlized effects as well as show to care for the fur trim that adorns some of the dress-up luxury leather coats. Speaking of fur, man-made furs in addition to being used for full length coats are also used as linings, trim, hats and purses. While your drycleaner can handle these simulated furs, some manufacturers have used a plasticized backing for the material to give it a more fur-like feeling. When drycleaned the sizing in the backing may become sticky and cause the garment to ball up, and form creases that are impossible to remove. Some 100% Orlon has this result. Your drycleaner will be watching for troublesome man-made furs and will care for your garment as you would, yourself. Remember, he is trained in his profession to serve you.—(Adv.)

Quotations from many psalms were used to show the descriptive language of the psalmist. From Esar A. Guest and Edward Markham he brought out the truth that one of the important things in life is to learn how to get along.

From Wordsworth, Edgar Allan Poe, and Robert Browning he quoted to show beautiful expressions of love, and from hymns and the Bible, words of inspiration. He concluded by saying our main concern in life is to learn to share.

The hostess, during the Social hour, served a congealed sweet salad on lettuce, ham biscuits, ribbon sandwiches, coffee and mince meat tarts.

Terry Indicates Will Oppose Tax

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Gov. Sanford has indicated he will recommend repeal of the newspaper sales tax.

William F. Davis, whose two sons are newspaper delivery boys, wrote to Sanford complaining that the sales tax on newspapers was "discriminatory."

Sanford replied in a letter dated Oct. 3: "I had nothing to do with the tax being imposed and I think it is a very bad tax. The newspaper representatives helped a legislative committee write it. I intend to recommend that it be repealed at the next legislature." The law calls for a three percent tax on newspaper sales made directly to the consumer—counter sales, direct mail of subscription. But the law exempts newsboys who don't sell more than 1,000 newspapers a week.

at the Greenville Art Center during November and December.

The exhibit will include the Colonial and Revolutionary War Periods, the Anti-Bellum and Civil War Periods, and Pitt County's development in the New South.

Asks All Schools Seek Accrediting

TROY, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Sanford has suggested that all the state's public schools seek accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and not just the Department of Public Instruction.

"The effort toward improvement will mean as much as the accreditation," he said Sunday in ceremonies dedicating a new high school in Montgomery County.

The governor called on all citizens, from students to the public at large, to roll up their sleeves and pitch in to bring the state to "quality education second to none."

Revolution have been asked to be responsible for the Colonial and Revolutionary War Periods, and the United Daughters of the Confederacy have been asked to be responsible for the Anti-Bellum and Civil War Periods.

Various individuals and organizations will contribute to the period tracing Pitt County's development in the New South.

Anyone who has visible objects that will be of value in making these efforts a success is asked to contact Miss Tabitha M. De Visconti of Farmville, Mrs. T. W. Rouse of Greenville, Miss Venetia Cox or Frank Wooten of Greenville.

Items particularly wanted by the society are old deeds, the original land grant, photographs of old buildings and particularly of old plantations, old family homes, and household articles of the different periods. Of keen interest will be costumes, books, jewelry and "whatnot" items.

Indian relics, old bonnets and costumes also are on the wanted list.

As much as possible, the exhibit is intended to show the development of Pitt County since Jan. 1, 1761.

Frank Wooten, president of the Historical Society, named Mrs. De Visconti, Mrs. Rouse and Miss Cox to make arrangements for the exhibit. They are to be assisted in their plans by Herbert R. Paschal, Charles L. Price, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Mrs. John T. Thorne, Mrs. J. G. Lautares, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth and Mrs. E. W. Harvey.

The exhibit will open officially on Sunday, Nov. 5, at the Greenville Art Center.

Red Carpet Rolled Out For A Camel Driver

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson plans today to give a Pakistan camel cart driver the same gilded treatment that has charmed heads of nations.

Bashir Ahmad, 44, who sports a flowing black mustache, and Johnson arrived at the latter's central Texas ranch Sunday night. London fog and the grounding of American civil flights in Sky Shield II combined to cause a delay of almost 12 hours.

"Two of my prayers have been answered," Bashir told Mrs. Johnson, who met him and the vice president at the air strip back of the LBJ Ranch house. "One prayer was that our family was in good health and the other was that I would come to America."

The camel driver then was whisked to the ranch house in a jeep flying the Pakistan flag. "Ranchers and cattlemen here do not use camels, but we are familiar with the problems that face your country," Johnson told Bashir. "When you return, I hope you will feel much closer to the American people."

The vice president planned to take Bashir on a tour similar to sightseeing trips given President Kennedy, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Pakistan President Ayub Khan, and Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. Bashir's trip originally was scheduled for July 4 but was delayed until after the visit of the Pakistani President.

Today's schedule called for a visit to the Pedernales Electric Cooperative in Johnson City and a noon barbecue attended by some of Johnson's neighbors.

Johnson will take his guest Tuesday on a tour of Six Flags Over Texas, an entertainment center near Dallas, and then to the State Fair in Dallas where Bashir will be honored at a ceremony in front of the Hall of State. They will go to Washington by plane late Tuesday.

The vice president first greeted the camel driver when Bashir arrived in New York Sunday aboard a jet airliner from London.

Johnson—to whom Bashir refers as "the deputy king"—first met the camel driver while the vice president was touring Pakistan last spring. As he shook hands with Bashir, Johnson said, "Come over and see me," and Bashir accepted. American business men made the trip possible under the People-to-People program.

Reservists Now Able To Enlist

Army reservists ordered individually to active duty as part of the current buildup may now enlist or reenlist in the Regular Army up to within 72 hours of their reporting date, according to an important policy change just announced by the Department of the Army. Sgt. Eugene M. Hall, local Army Recruiter, said today that the order to report to active duty was binding on the reservist and he could not enlist after receiving his orders.

The new procedure change does away with the required clearance from the reservist's unit which was necessary before enlistment.

Under the new program the individual's appropriate US Army Corps will be notified immediately after the reservist has been qualified and enlisted.

Sgt. Eugene Hall may be contacted at the recruiting station in the Post Office Building, Greenville.

Couldn't Stand Lower Classes

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Nine headwaiters on the liner Queen Elizabeth quit their jobs Thursday because they couldn't stand the lower classes.

The nine all were classified as headwaiters in the liner's first class restaurant. They balked when told that under a rotation system one of their number would have to work the restaurant in cabin class and another in tourist class on each voyage.

Board Recognizes Hazard In Delays

Greenville's Board of Education is to be commended for moving ahead with its plans for providing needed school facilities without delaying longer to see whether the state or federal governments are going to provide funds for school construction.

It is evident to the school board, as it is to most other citizens, that the need for additional classrooms and other school facilities is becoming more serious with each passing year. It is also evident that it may be considerable time yet before it is known whether state funds or federal funds for school construction will be available. If local school officials hold off any action on their own to provide for local needs, the need for additional school facilities may become critical before any new facilities can be provided.

At the state level in North Carolina, the matter of issuing bonds for construction of public schools was postponed to wait and see if the proposed federal aid to education program advanced by President Kennedy would be approved by Congress. The program was rejected by Congress during its recent session, and the odds are heavily against approval of a similar program after Congress convenes in January.

Whether the state will undertake any sort of program for school construction is still a moot question, and at best will not be answered for another year or two.

The Greenville Board of Education has chosen the right course by deciding to go ahead with its preparation of plans for providing needed school facilities, without waiting longer to see what the state or federal governments are going to do. The School Board, we trust will follow through with the preparations of those plans with all deliberate speed, and formally present them to the people of the school district.

The people of Greenville, we believe, share with school officials the concern for the need of additional facilities. The citizens of the city, we believe, are anxious that these additional facilities be provided, and will be willing to approve additional school bonds necessary to provide for local school construction needs.

The responsibility for providing school facilities has rested primarily with the local government, and we trust it will continue to do so in the future. The community which fails to shoulder this responsibility penalizes its young people by failing to provide them with the educational facilities they should have, and at the same time increases the pressure for transferring the responsibility for schools to another level of government.

Behind the leadership of its Board of Education and its school officials, Greenville has always striven to provide its young people with the best possible public schools. It should be gratifying to every citizen to see that this leadership is continuing to point the way by refusing to sit back and allow local school facilities to become inadequate while waiting to see if someone else is going to do the job.

Potential Opportunity In The N.C. Trade Fair

North Carolina's Trade Fair in Charlotte is affording the state an unprecedented potential for showing its products to buyers from all over the country and from many foreign nations. It is an undertaking that has cost the state considerable time, effort and money, but one which should pay dividends for the economic development of North Carolina.

By attracting an estimated 3,000 or more buyers, the Trade Fair should bring about the opening of new markets for North Carolina products, and at the same time stimulate the consumption of Tar Heel products in markets in which they already are established.

Already the fair has attracted considerable attention of publications throughout the country and has garnered for the state and its development program a great quantity of favorable publicity.

The Trade Fair represents a new tool for North Carolina in furthering its economic development, but it is one which apparently will be effective.

Little Progress Cutting Ranks

By RALPH ROBEY

Everyone agrees that the total of unemployment is too high and that the number of long-term workers without jobs is one of the really serious problems facing the nation. The report for September, which has just been released, shows that no appreciable progress is being made in getting either total reduced to a reasonable level.

According to the report, the volume of unemployment declined only to 6.8 percent of the civilian labor force. This was a drop of one-tenth of one percent. Now it is true that there normally is a lag in the decrease of unemployment behind business improvement, but there is no reason to hope that this will solve the problem of long-term unemployment.

What are the causes of such unemployment and what can be done to eliminate it? There are many causes. Among these are: The changing character of production, and the need for more highly skilled workers. This is a process which has been going on for a long time, but in recent years the tempo of the change has increased. The importance of this is shown by the large number of unskilled who are among the long-term unemployed.

The ability to meet the market demand for a product with a smaller labor force. This has been true in automobiles, in steel, in coal mining, and in various other industries. In fact the total number of workers in all manufacturing is no greater today than it was ten years ago, but the volume of goods produced has increased sharply in the period.

The movement of producers from one section of the country to another. Textiles are the perfect example of this. When they moved from New England to the south there were many employees who could not, or would not, make the change. This is understandable because such a shift of employment would necessitate, not only liquidating the old home, but as unhappy over the fact that there are young people who cannot get along either with members of their own or the opposite sex.

The danger today of world catastrophe is great, but the fear of it does not cause as much poignant suffering every day as is caused by interminable squabbles between people who ought to be at peace with one another. The immediate cause of divorce is squabbling. Drinking, infidelity, quarrels over money enter in, but these things bring contention, bitter words, squabbling.

Cut it out! It takes only a little self-control to master a situation of that sort. We squabble because we let ourselves go. We squabble because we say the first thing that comes into our minds. We squabble because we fail to think. We squabble because we have not eaten properly or had sufficient sleep. Squabbling is one of those little-regarded realities which as a matter of fact is affecting the peace of the world more than the policies or actions of statesmen.

Cut it out, won't you?

There are about one million long-term unemployed at present, and fortunately the number will decline somewhat as the business curve continues upward. It is regrettable that this appears to be the nearest thing to a solution that anyone can devise.

Critic On Poor Grounds

It takes no courage to attack J. Edgar Hoover, particularly if one accuses the director of the FBI of not engaging in activities which the law does not make his realm. John Crosby, a writer for the New York Herald Tribune, does precisely that in an article entitled, "The FBI's Commercial."

Crosby takes offense at Hoover's statement that "the onslaught of crime is today at an all-time high." This is part of a paragraph by the FBI chief over the radio. The FBI is charged with law with the compilation of crime statistics but neither the FBI nor the federal government is permitted to engage in all forms of crime suppression, ours not being a national but a federal government, controlled by Constitutional limitations, acts of Congress and decisions of the Courts.

For instance, John Crosby says:

"Gambling, narcotics and industrial rackets are now among the biggest businesses in this country, and hoodlum money is now infiltrating all sorts of respectable businesses."

By what law is the FBI charged with police supervision of gambling, narcotics and industrial rackets? Gambling is, by law, none of the FBI's business except as a statistical item in uniform crime reporting. Gambling may or may not be an offense, depending upon local law. For instance, in New York State, roulette is forbidden but in Nevada it is permitted. The government of the United States collects an excise on gambling but does not permit gambling on army posts.

Narcotics are under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Narcotics, a small agency of the federal government which performs miracles on a small appropriation. The FBI is not charged with the suppression of either the importation, sale or consumption of narcotics. The importation is watched by the Bureau of Narcotics and the Customs; the sale and consumption are matters handled by local police forces.

Crosby knows this, for he says: "Ours is the only country in the world with organized crime on such a huge scale, and we are one of the few countries without a national police force." True, J. Edgar Hoover is opposed to a national police force which easily becomes a militia. Should Congress pass an act organizing such a force, the Supreme Court would, beyond doubt, reject it as an invasion of the authority of the states.

Originally, the FBI was not designed for police enforcement at all; its very title explains this. The Federal Bureau of Investigation. Over the years, Congress has assigned to this agency specific police activities, but Congress has also assigned police activities to other agencies, for instance, the work of the Secret Service which is in the Treasury.

Crosby asks: "How many big shots of organized crime has the FBI arrested in the last five or ten years? Are they looking for any? Has the FBI any program for trapping any of those well-organized and enormously rich racketeers. Mr. Kennedy talks about?"

Under what laws does Crosby expect the FBI to make these arrests? For instance, it is no crime to be a "rich racketeer," unless one specifically defines what is meant by racketeer. If a man commits a felony under state law, he may, if convicted, be called a racketeer which is a general term for certain types of criminals. The FBI is an agency of no state and may not enforce state laws, although it is permitted to assist state and municipal police agencies to enforce the law by providing fingerprint and other identification information. In fact, often when the FBI has investigated a felony, it turns the data over to local police for processing and arrest.

Do not know what John Crosby by knows about what he calls the crime syndicate. Actually, most gangs of criminals engage in felonies and misdemeanors which are not covered by federal law at all. For instance, prostitution is a local offense, but the transportation of a female for immoral purposes across state lines is a federal offense under the Mann Act. The FBI may not go into a city and close houses of prostitution. That is the function of local police. It may, however, step into a situation involving kidnaping under the Lindbergh Act.

There are a few other aids the SBA offers: it grants disaster loans when needed; it grants loans in areas of labor surplus; it grants loans for area redevelopment; it grants loans to dislocated businesses; it helps finance foreign trade exporters, and it helps local development programs, lending up to 20 percent of the money to expand or rehabilitate local economies.

Other Editors Saying Rural South Is Far Behind

(Hertford County Herald)

At the 1950-59 rate of growth, the per capita income of North Carolina citizens will not reach the national average within the next 100 years.

This is one of the conclusions reached in a study of southern incomes by Lee E. Martin, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Arkansas.

Prof. Martin reported on his study at an agricultural policy institute in Raleigh, N. C. State College was host for the institute.

In general, Martin said that the southern incomes compare more favorably with the national average now than they did in 1940.

He points out, however, that the South did more to narrow the gap between 1940 and 1945 than it has since.

In North Carolina, for example, the per capita income in 1940 was 55 percent of the national average. By 1945, it had reached 66 percent of the national average.

By 1950, North Carolina's per capita income had reached 68 percent of the national average. But by 1959, it had only reached 69 percent; a one percent rise in nine years.

Generally, other southern states have followed the same pattern followed by North Carolina: rapid progress during World War II and slow progress since.

In 1959, Florida had the highest per capita income in the South, 91 percent of the national average. Mississippi had the lowest—54 percent.

The differences in per capita income by counties were even greater. In 1958, the citizens of Wake County, N. C., had a per capita income 82 percent of the national average. On the other hand, the per capita income in Newton County, Ark., was only 17 percent of the national average.

In general, rural counties have a much lower per capita income than urban counties. Martin also found a considerable difference in the income by race and sex. In 1949, for example, the white southern male averaged $2,065. The nonwhite male averaged $1,033. The white southern female averaged $947, and the nonwhite female averaged $440.

Martin discounted the argument that "the people in the South are just as well off as people elsewhere" because they produce more of their own food and have lower costs.

He reported that from 1940 to 1958 farm items produced for home consumption declined 37 percent. He also cited studies which show that regional differences in consumer prices are not large enough to compensate for the differences in incomes.

In summarizing his study, Martin said no other region in the country has as much stake in a high rate of national growth as the South.

He also said that "No group in America would be more likely to benefit from increased expenditures on their education, training and health than rural farm families, especially in the South."

There's no money for the couple who just know they could run a successful gift shoppe without experience; there's no money for the fellow who plans to make a million dollars with a new play.

But there is, Mr. Horne will assure the bankers, a reasonable supply of equity capital to those who meet the basics of free enterprise.

"Fortunately for small businesses and for the national economy, many types of financial institutions are activity engaged in supplying them with funds," he will tell the bankers.

"These institutions include your own: commercial banks, investment banking firms; insurance companies, the new small business investment companies, and the SBA itself."

The SBA has for years been lending equity capital to small businesses who met the test for soundness (although some of them later were found to be unsound).

The SBA has also fostered the organization of small business investment companies, in which the government participates in capital stability. Almost 375 of these companies have been formed, making millions of dollars available to small businesses.

The SBA is also pushing a plan whereby banks can participate in loans to small business. In this plan, the bank puts up part of the money, the SBA the rest. The more the bank puts up, the further can the government share be extended.

This plan has been eased, Mr. Horne will explain, by the adoption of simplified procedure—in which every form is printed on a single page. Even banks who may not want to go along with his loan plan may want to swipe this simplification.

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Many people are puzzled when they see unemployment riding along at a high 7 percent of the labor force while employment keeps reaching one new peak after another. They see in this situation an indication that there is really the germ of a depression underlying the present recovery boom in business. The reasons for high unemployment in a time of top employment are, however, not that menacing. They are due to the natural population expansion and other related factors.

WHY UNEMPLOYMENT For one thing, some producers and retailers are pricing themselves out of business. Many investors are of the opinion that labor is chiefly to blame here. But actually, each group in the economy wants more and tries to take in additional money by raising prices or wages. The result: Consumers buy fewer goods; manufacturers lay off clerks; manufacturers cut production; workers. It is a vicious circle, with all groups helping to keep the spiral going.

Taxes, too, can cause unemployment in a roundabout way. The levies for defense, social security, old-age pensions, foreign aid, farm subsidies, and roadbuilding are never-endingly heavy. Such taxes make many employers so angry they take it out on labor by reducing staffs.

Foreign imports are another issue. Lower pay in Japan, Italy, Germany, and other nations permits those countries to export to us all types of products at prices that our manufacturers cannot meet, even if import duties. But if we were to raise such duties, the nations would be alienated and would turn to Russia. Hence, almost every store is carrying some imported goods. When you purchase them, you are actually putting some American wage-workers out of a job.

Finally, many of our manufacturers are either building plants abroad in low-wage countries or adopting automation. Retailers construct huge supermarkets, install self-service. These changes, of course, throw more wage-workers out of employment.

CURBING LABOR COSTS Labor costs are one of the biggest headaches for management. When they go soaring year after year, it becomes necessary for employers to cut back personnel totals in order to keep a safe margin of profit. Chiefly responsible for the exorbitant advances in wage rates are union leaders, who have to win big raises for their members in order to keep their own $20,000 or more. Such leaders can force the workers they represent to agree to unwanted strikes and unreasonable pay demands by a standing vote. Hence, Congress could help workers and consumers—and basic employment—by passing a law making all strike votes subject to secret ballot.

The U. S. Department of Justice should be urged to prevent monopolies in advance by discouraging unnecessary consolidation. Such combines, usually to raise prices or cut production costs, nearly always mean layoffs for some. Would it not be fair for stockholders to allow a period of time—agreed on in advance—after a consolidation before raising prices or discharging any employees?

It would seem simple to cut back unemployment by reducing the work-week to 35 hours, but here we have the danger of encouraging more foreign imports. It would help the employment situation greatly if more workers took advantage of social security and retired at 65. This would apply, too, for older employers and company officials. There might be a substantial reduction in unemployment in the younger age bracket if more young men and women were sent to college.

In conclusion, it is my feeling that the fundamental difficulty lies in the fact that both our employers and our workers are "stagnant" with those of other nations. Until the pay rates and working conditions of foreign workers are brought up to healthy and reasonable level, the economic battle will be an uneven one. Meanwhile, we must all abide by the Golden Rule and avoid economic violence on the home front; strikes are too often only legalized wars.

Factors Affect Political Scene

By LYNN NISBET

POLITICS — Oldtimers recall another instance when political activity was as much in evidence at comparable stage as it is now. Ordinarily the fall of the first year of state and national administrations is a rather dull time. With no Governor or President to be elected the next year politicians usually manifest only token interest.

It is different now and there is evidence of as much interest as usually maintains in the fall preceding a Governor's race. A number of reasons for this active interest might be cited. Although it is an off-year for Governor, there will be a United States Senator elected in 1962. The term of Sen. Sam Ervin runs out in January, 1963. So far there is no indication that he will have serious opposition, but he and his friends are already campaigning.

The death of Lieutenant Governor Clond Philpott has focused attention on the selection of a president of the Senate next time, and there is earlier than usual activity in a race for Speaker of the House. These elections will be confined to members of the respective branches of the Legislature, but there is general interest in them.

Chief reason for the aroused interest may be found in the greatly increased Republican strength manifested in the 1960 election. Republicans elected more members of the Legislature than at any time since 1928, and cut the majority of the Democratic Governor to the lowest point in more than 30 years. The result of this was to spur the Republicans to more vigorous action in hope of winning next time, and to convince the Democrats that they would have to fight harder than ever before to retain control of State government. That brought about more activity in both camps.

Another contributing factor, perhaps almost as significant as the Republican gains, is the new congressional district lines. In reducing the number of districts to eleven from the present twelve, lines of every district except the sixth were changed. In most instances the new lines did not seriously jeopardize the position of incumbent congressmen, although in the change lines meant working in new areas. In at least three instances the effect of redistricting was so seriously endanger incumbents. Either Charles Raper Jonas of the present 10th district or Paul Kitchen of the present 8th will be left out, since they have been put in the same new district. Political observers generally agree that Hugh Alexander of the present 9th had his Republican troubles greatly increased, and Roy Taylor of the present 12th was given new Republican worries.

ACTIVITY — Partly because of the reasons outlined but perhaps mainly because Terry Sanford is an organization man, the Democratic executive committee exercised the heretofore unused authority to name a full time executive secretary. For nearly a year Dr. Wallace Hyde has devoted his energies to perfecting the Democratic party organization in counties and precincts. He has staged local and regional rallies of party workers, a red letter occasion being the Aycock-Vance statewide dinner scheduled for Asheville the latter part of this month. Young Democratic Clubs and women's organizations have also been more active than usual.

At a recent meeting of the Democratic Women of Mecklenburg county when volunteers were called for to go with the president to demand that the county chairman comply with the Plan of Organization more than half the 100 women raised their hands.

Meantime, reports from all over Eastern North Carolina tell of enthusiastic Republican rallies attended often by more people than go to comparable Democratic meetings. And these reports come from areas where just a few years ago a Republican was almost like a sideshow freak which people would pay money to look at.

GIVE AWAYS — Madison county is having trouble with surplus property bought for almost nothing for use in the public school system. Misappropriation is charged against school officials. Mecklenburg county is having trouble with the distribution of free surplus foodstuffs. Charges there are inefficiency rather than malfeasance. Madison and Mecklenburg are not the only counties which have experienced with these particular projects and with numerous other phases of the overall welfare program.

Which recalls the observation by a wise rich man once upon a time that it is much easier to make money than it is to give it away—intelligently. Men like Buck Duke, Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Russell Sage and other made hundreds of millions mostly by their own efforts. When they got ready to give it away they required the help of foundations and commissions and what have you.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

... THINK IT OVER

Why squabble? There are a families which squabble through the years. There are business associates whose lives are made unhappy over the fact that in every day they squabble with someone—with an underling or with an associate. Seldom, if ever, do they squabble with a superior, else they would soon be listed with the unemployed.

There is the squabbling type of neighbor who is always at enmity with somebody across the street or across the property line. There are young people who cannot get along either with members of their own or the opposite sex.

The danger today of world catastrophe is great, but the fear of it does not cause as much poignant suffering every

No Bottomless Well Of Money

By ELMER ROESSNER

John E. Horne, Small Business Administrator, is to tell the American Bankers Association meeting in San Francisco later today that, with their help, there need no longer be any shortage of equity capital for sound small businesses.

Note that word "sound." Despite Congressional largess and the loans by bankers themselves, there is no bottomless well of money for the little fellow. He must first show that he has a bit of capital and a lot of know-how himself; he must then show he has a responsible and needed operation and, most of all, he must convince his townspeople—notably the town banker—that his business has the smell of profit.

The little fellow with only an idea is still sorely put—and so he will be at the end of time. There has to be more than imagination; assets, integrity, stability, and large portions of know-how and hard work.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WELLS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year the stored tobacco moth causes serious damage to stored tobacco on many farms. Most damage caused by this insect occurs between the time the tobacco is cured and the time it is sold. The attack of this insect is confined to flue-cured and Turkish tobaccos, preferably of the better grades—those high in sugar and low in nicotine.

The life history of the tobacco moth is similar to most other insects. The moth lays the eggs in or near piles of stored tobacco. The larvae are tiny when first hatched, but grow to about one-half inch in length. They are pinkish-white in color with a reddish-brown head. When the larvae is full grown, it spins a weblike cocoon in which it transforms into a pupae, then emerges as an adult moth. In summer conditions the life cycle from egg to egg averages approximately 50 days.

Usually the tobacco moth

RESCUE PARADE . . . Several rescue vehicles from visiting squads are shown as they paraded down Evans Street in Saturday's parade. The parade of rescue vehicles, beauty contestants for the title of Miss N. C. Rescue queen, bands and the East Carolina Air Force ROTC color guard and drill team was held in connection with the State Rescue Convention held here.

passes the winter as an adult larvae. In the fall most of the mature larvae leave the tobacco and migrate to cracks and crevices about the building, where they spin loose cocoons of silk in which to hibernate.

Most farmers have either finished, or are nearly finished, marketing their tobacco crop. Therefore, it is a good time to start control measures that will help keep the losses caused by the tobacco moth to a minimum.

As soon as the crop is graded and sold, the packhouse and grading room should be thoroughly cleaned. When cleaning, all slats should be removed from the walls, then the walls should be brushed down.

All scrap tobacco should be removed from the packhouse and destroyed. No seed, feed, or fertilizer, should be stored in the packhouse. If grain or feed is stored in the packhouse, the moths will breed in this material until tobacco is harvested.

After thoroughly cleaning, the packing and grading room should be sprayed with a five percent DDT solution, which can be made by mixing two quarts of 50 percent DDT emulsifiable concentrate with five gallons of water.

The walls, ceiling and floor of the packhouse and grading room should be sprayed again in the spring with a five percent DDT spray solution. This should be done at least one month prior to the beginning of the tobacco harvest, preferably in April.

ARRIVE AT COLONY

ST. LUCIA (AP)—Sixteen members of the U.S. Peace Corps arrived Sunday for service on this British island colony in the West Indies.

Rules Utilities Can Aid Stadium

CITY Attorney R. B. Lee told Utilities commissioners yesterday that the state attorney general has said the commission can support the James S. Ficklen stadium within the scope of its authority.

However, the attorney general said the commission cannot donate cash money directly to the fund. This is as City Attorney Lee told the commission Tuesday night. Since then Lee checked the opinion with the state attorney general and reported back to the commission yesterday.

Tuesday night the commission approved a resolution to support the stadium within the scope of its authority and this was allowed to stand.

The commission was asked to participate in the $250,000 stadium fund by contributing $10,000. In all

Pirates Fall Victim To Powerful Western Carolina

GRIDIRON BALLET? . . . Not exactly. Buc end Bobby Bumgardner (83) tries in vain to make connections with a Dan Rouse aerial during ECC's losing tussle with Western Carolina's Catamounts Saturday night.

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer
The scene: East Carolina College Stadium.
The year: 1960.
The event: East Carolina Homecoming, pitting the Pirates against Western Carolina.

The outcome: East Carolina 7, Western Carolina 6.
It was one year ago that the Pirates came from behind to whip the Catamounts of Western Carolina for their fifth straight win without a loss.

Mac Thacker intercepted a Ken Morgan pass on his own 15 yard line and raced 85 yards for a touchdown and Henry Kwiatkowski added the extra point to give Jack Boone's stalwarts their 7-6 win over the Cats. Thacker and Kwiatkowski were both seniors last year and have since graduated.

Not So Fortunate
On Saturday night, however, the Pirates were not so fortunate. Boone's forces found themselves faced with a 7-0 deficit and the gridders from the western section of the state had the upper hand.

The stage was set just as it was last year, with the exception that this fall's contest was not the Pirates' homecoming tilt. Nick Hilgert, a senior fullback from Elizabeth City, plunged over the goal line from two yards out on the third play of the final quarter, and East Carolina trailed, 7-6. Senior end Bob Muldrow's placement kick for the tying point was blocked by Jim Lovett, a 191 pound senior from Levittown, Pa.

As far as the scoring went, that was the end of the ball game, and the Catamounts had avenged their 7-6 loss last year with a 7-6 win this year.

Accompanying Rain
With Jerry Adams' opening kickoff to East Carolina came an accompanying rain, which fell throughout the contest, sometimes heavily and sometimes lightly.

After taking Adams' kick, the Pirates failed to move the ball, and on third down, freshman Gene Isenhour went into punt formation. Standing on his own 13 yard line, Isenhour did not make good contact with the already slippery ball, and his kick went only to the Pirate 31 yard stripe.

On the next of Western Carolina's running plays, freshman fullback Lew Bost slanted off his right tackle and raced 31 yards to paydirt to dampen the spirits of the East Carolina fans more so than the rains had done. Van Strayton, a native of Atlanta, Ga., booted the decisive extra point to give the visitors a surprisingly quick 7-0 lead with the game only one minute and fifteen seconds old.

Cat Territory
Most of the remainder of the initial stanza was played in Catamount territory, with the Pirates taking charge in the offensive department.

After Western Carolina's electrifying touchdown, the locals marched right back with a potent ground attack of their own, with Hilgert, Tommy Matthews, and Larry Rudisell paving the way. Matthews and Rudisell cracked off runs of 14 and 22 yards respectively in the first Pirate drive, which fell short on the WCC 38. The next time the locals got the ball, rotating halfback Frank Gallo-way and Hilgert sparked another march to the WCC 18. Gallo-way, a native of Wilson, churned out an 11 yard run, and Hilgert gained 19 yards to the Cat 18, where the drive was again halted.

In the second period, both teams spent the majority of the fifteen minutes punting across the middle field stripe. Each team did manage to penetrate deep enough into enemy territory for it to be called a threat.

The locals moved from their own 25 to the Western Carolina 37 with Matthews and Rudisell leading the way, but the big line of the winners bottled up the EC runners at the 37.

WC, behind the fast charging Bost, moved from their own 43 to the Pirate 25 before quarterback Morgan was stopped at that point. In the drive, Bost chucked up runs of 11 and 19 yards, but they were of no help as the halftime score remained 7-0.

Pirate Break
East Carolina got its first break minutes after the second half of play was under way. Forced to punt after three plays netted only one yard each, end Bobby Bumgardner recovered Morgan's fumble of Isenhour's punt on the WC 24 yard line.

The Bucs failed to cash in on the break, however, as four downs failed to gain a single yard against the stone wall Catamount defense.

Bost moved the winners out to the 27, but could push the Pirate defense no more. L. D. Hyde's punt was partially blocked, but a roughing the kicker penalty gave the visitors a first down on their own 42. WC still could not budge the Buc defense forces, but this time Hyde's kick boomed to the EC 7 yard line, where it rolled dead.

Longest Drive

From their own 7, the Pirates put together the longest drive of the evening, and one which produced the only local score. Matthews carried 11 yards to the EC 18, then Rudisell, playing his best game of the season, scampered 25 yards to the Pirate 43. Two plays later, Rudisell, a Hickory native, scooted 14 more yards to the WC 41.

Then EC quarterback Dan Rouse began loosening up his southpaw passing arm, despite the steady downpour. Rouse found sophomore flanker Richard Huneycutt open for a 12 yard gain to the 26 yard line, and on the last play of the third quarter, hit Matthews down on the WC 8 for an 18 yard gain, where it was first down and goal to go.

Reserve fullback Billy Strickland smashed for five yards on the winner's 3 yard marker on the first play of the fourth quarter, but was shaken up on the play and had to be helped from the field. Two plunges of one yard each by Tri-captain Hilgert produced the only six points for the Bucs for their evening's work.

Last Chance
After kicking back and forth to the winners for most of the last quarter, the Pirates got another break.

Hyde got a low pass from center when attempting to punt from his own 10 yard line, and it was partially blocked. Huneycutt, a native of Portsmouth, Va., recovered the pigskin on the WC 12, and the soggy-wet Pirate fans were screaming for a score with 3:25 left in the game.

But fate was against the locals as Rudisell fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and Dennis Dolinsky, a junior end from Fairless Hills, Pa., fell on the loose ball on his own 15. The Pirates got their hands on the ball one last time with only one minute left, but could not come up with the home run play. The game ended with the Catamounts at the midfield stripe.

The big man for Western Carolina was Bost, the fullback, but not only for scoring the only Catamount touchdown. The winners picked up a total of 168 yards on the ground, and 125 of those belonged to the Concord native.

Weatherly Survives Early Mishap To Win Nat'l 400

By BLOYS W. BRITT
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Little Joe Weatherly, who admits he is superstitious on or off the track, survived an early mishap and went on to win the $10,000 top money in the National 400 stock car race here.

Weatherly, called the "clown prince" of stock car racing by his friends, edged Richard Petty of Randleman by three car lengths before 43,000 at Charlotte Motor Speedway Sunday.

The two staged one of the most stirring duels in stock car racing history after Weatherly surged into the lead with five laps to go and Petty moved up from fourth position to challenge him to the finish line.

Weatherly, 39, of Norfolk, Va., a veteran of nearly 20 years as a race driver, averaged 119.950 miles per hour for the distance over the 1/2-mile high banked asphalt track.

Bob Welborn of Atlanta, Ga., who appeared to be a sure winner before fuel line trouble slowed him down, finished third. Cotton Owens, 36-year-old Spartanburg, S.C., veteran, made his first appearance of the year on a major track and finished fourth. Rex White, another Spartanburg veteran, was fifth.

Weatherly, winning his first major race of the year, took home $9,300 plus a sizeable chunk of lap money. Petty, who never led in the race, won $4,795. Welborn $3,030 and Owens $2,275. Welborn also will pick up some lap money.

The race was slowed by three caution flags, one resulting from a spectacular crash that took out Glen (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., the early leader. Roberts, who set a gruelling pace of better than 130 miles per hour from the start, was well out in front of the pack when his car brushed against Marvin Panch of Daytona Beach while coming out of the third turn. Roberts' 1961 Pontiac slammed into the guard rail and burst into flames. His steering mechanism gone, the fireballer careened along the track through the fourth turn. Tom Morgan, a rookie driver from Annandale, Va., ploughed into him at top speed.

Morgan was hospitalized with cuts and possible fractured ribs. Roberts was treated for scratches at the track infirmary.

It required 13 laps under the caution flag to clean up the mess. Later, big Junior Johnson of North Wilkesboro was sailing along with a comfortable lead when he lost a wheel, crashed into the guard rail and spun dizzily down into the infield apron. He was unhurt.

Weatherly's 1961 Pontiac came near going out early in the race. At the 75 mile point, he blew a tire and spun to the apron but managed to control the car. After a quick pit stop for a repair of the damage, he got back into the race and forged to the front.

"That little wishbone (a chicken breast bone) hanging on my dashboard did it," Weatherly said. "Without that little white bone shining in my face, I wouldn't have made it."

David Pearson, 24-year-old Spartanburg driver and the year's leading money winner, ran well for the first 20 laps but began experiencing engine trouble and never figured in the action. He finished 21st.

Wally Dunnabach of East Brunswick, N.J., won the 150-mile race for modified-sportsman divisions held at the speedway Saturday in conjunction with the National 400. His modified Ford averaged 115.335 m.p.h. for the victory, worth $1,600 to him.

Finishing second was Sonny Black of Forest Park, Ga., in a modified Chevrolet. He won $800. Third place and $700 went to Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C. in a Ford.

ECC Basketballers Begin Practice For New Season

The East Carolina College basketball team, with coaches Earl Smith and Wendell Carr at the helm, began their practice today in an effort to be in top form for the 1961-62 slate of action.

A quick look at the schedule shows the Bucs opening their 22 game regular season action with the Catawba Indians at Memorial Gymnasium on Dec. 1. The Pirates will also play road games with the Citadel, Richmond, William & Mary, and V.P.I., all members of the Southern Conference.

The Bucs will be out to better last year's record of 12 wins against 9 losses and this will not be an easy task. Lost from last year's squad will be All-Conference and All-District 26 N.A.I.A. Cotton Clayton. Clayton led the team in scoring with a 14.5 average and also led in rebounds with an average of 10 per game. Clayton, also an All-American baseball player, signed a professional baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles and thus will be ineligible for further college competition.

Returning to action this year will be three year veteran, Charlie Lewis, Lacy West, a junior from Asheboro, and sophomore Bill

Otte, the mammoth 6-6, 220 pound center from Hawthorne, N.J. Also returning from last year's squad will be Benny Bowes, a senior from Burlington and Danny Bowen, a guard from Winston-Salem.

Leading the freshman candidates this year will be Hoosiers Richie Williams and Fred Selvey and guard Billy Brogden from Wilmington. Williams and Selvey were both standout performers in the Indiana high school circuit and Brogden led Wilmington to the North Carolina 4-A championship last year.

Lewis, the phenomenal shooter from Kingston, averaged 14 points per game last year and is expected to again be among the leaders in the Carolinas Conference. Otte is expected to carry the rebounding load and West should provide the defensive spark.

West Virginia football Coach Gene Corum was perched on Cloud 9 today, happy as a lark but wondering now and then whether he hadn't better prepare for a long, steep tumble back to reality.

Corum's joy stemmed from remembrance of the past — last weekend's 20-6 upset of Pitt. His anxiety stemmed from contemplation of the future — for what do the Mountaineers do for an encore?

"We beat Pitt because some of the boys have grown up, because we eliminated the little mistakes that have been beating us, and because we were high as a kite for the game," said Corum.

"The Pitt game was certainly our best in years, but we're not out of the woods yet. We're just moving in the right direction."

It has been a long, painful climb upward for West Virginia, which went winless in 18 games before defeating Virginia Tech 28-0 on Oct. 7. Now the Mountaineers have won two in a row.

The Citadel's scrappy Cadets moved out front in this year's title race last Saturday with a dramatic 10-3 victory at William and Mary that boosted their conference record to 3-1.

George Washington (2-2) muffed a chance to keep pace with The Citadel when the Colonials bowed to Richmond (2-2), 16-15, Saturday.

Home Run Derby Moves To Durham

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—A four-day home run derby in North Carolina moves here today, with batting king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees hoping to improve the performance he made in Wilson Sunday.

Maris, crippled by a lack of sleep, knocked only seven homers Sunday, while Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins got 20 and Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles hit 15. About 2,500 fans looked on.

The tour moves to Greensboro Tuesday, Charlotte Wednesday and Winston-Salem Thursday.

Maris spent much of Sunday night waiting in a Kansas City air terminal, after his original 1 a.m. flight was canceled out.

In non-conference action, Furman whipped Howard College 21-14 and Davidson defeated Presbyterian 21-7, but Virginia Tech lost at Tulane 27-14 and VMI was nudged by Virginia 14-7 at Norfolk.

The Citadel has two more conference games and must win both to be sure of the conference crown.

William and Mary (1-2) goes to George Washington Friday night. VMI (1-1) is at Davidson (0-2) and Virginia Tech meets Virginia at Roanoke Saturday afternoon, Saturday night, Richmond is at Florida State and West Virginia tries for a third straight win at Boston University.

Could Be First Woman To Win 10 Tournaments

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Callifornian Mickey Wright will get a chance next weekend to become the first woman golfer in history to win more than 10 tournaments in one year.

Miss Wright, the defending ladies PGA champion from San Diego, got No. 10 Sunday with a nine-stroke victory in the $15,000 ladies' PGA championship here.

This week she goes for her 11th win at San Antonio, Tex., scene of the Civitan Tourney.

Betsy Rawls, who finished third here, won 10 tournaments in 1959 to set the record.

Italians Defeat U.S. Cup Team

ROME (AP)—Italy defeated the United States in interzone Davis Cup play today and won the right to challenge Australia for the coveted tennis trophy.

Nicola Pietrangeli scored the decisive third point by defeating Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Douglas and the 28-year-old Pietrangeli, Europe's top amateur, were matched in the first singles match as the Davis Cup interzone final went into its last day with favored Italy leading the United States, 2-1.

The Douglas-Pietrangeli match was scheduled to start at 6 a.m., E.S.T.

A victory for Pietrangeli would clinch the competition for Italy and put the Italians in the challenge round against Australia for the second year in a row.

A victory for Douglas would leave the teams tied 2-2, and all would depend on the second singles match between Whitney Reed of Ameda, Calif., and Italian champion Fausto Gardini.

Considerable drama was packed into the Douglas-Pietrangeli match.

Not only was it crucial, but it brought together the two players who so far have been the stars of their teams.

Douglas, of Santa Monica, Calif., won the lone U.S. point of the first three matches by beating Gardini, 4-6, 4-6, 7-5, 10-8, 6-0, last Friday.

Pietrangeli gave Italy two points by beating Reed in singles, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4 and by carrying the brunt of the load as Italy won the doubles match yesterday.

The husky Pietrangeli teamed with Orlando Sirola to defeat Reed and Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Last year Italy beat the United States in the interzone final. In the challenge round, Australia defeated Italy to retain the Davis Cup.

Tennis experts here think the Australians are likely to do the same again this year, whether the Italians or the Americans win the interzone final and go on to the challenge round.

Larese Is With Chicago Packers

GREENSBORO (AP)—York Larese, former University of North Carolina star, will be in the lineup for the Chicago Packers when they meet the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association exhibition game here tonight.

North Carolinian Walt Bellamy of New Bern also will be in the lineup. Bellamy, a 6-foot-11 center, was All-America at Indiana University.

The world's longest bridge tunnel is slowly inching across the mouth of Chesapeake Bay.

Until, at last, he edged up onto the point of the headland and there fell into a frenzy of fixing and placing his charges in such fissures or seams that he could find; then, with the lunging flames from below on a sudden seething into rampant crown fire above him, he made his way to the chasm that lay between the headland and the slide and, with the detonator in his arms, flung himself across the fifteen-foot yawning gap to crawl onward from his sprawling fall to the end of the fuse coil and there depress the plunger, and so bring the headland down in a massive, roaring combustion of raw, shattered stone, blasted rubble, and great pine bending down in fire from heaven—with every last ton of its numberless thousands falling in a smothering, killing crush upon the blaze underneath.

But in the tower of smoke and dust and small, flung stones that followed, lifting upward in a vast swelling cloud, there was just enough light remaining for Alec to find Claude, a small figure on the slide who waved his arms to show that he was unharmed. Alec blinked his eyes. As he stared through the window of Sam's cabin, the vent was still vivid in his sight, though it had happened three months ago. Only slowly did the smoke and flame and mounting debris recede and allow the ravaged cliff to stand gaunt and naked above the even press of snow and the blackened trunks of killed trees.

Alec learns the cruel truth of how his mother died as "Lion in the Hills" continues here tomorrow.

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross collected and disbursed $1,072 units of blood during the past year. This agency is part of the Pitt County United Fund.

CHAPTER 20
The clearing lay under two feet of snow.
Alec Temple, stepping onto the stoop of Sam Fellows' cabin, paused there a moment to scrape the soles of his boots and to sweep his trouser legs with the broom that leaned against the door-frame.
While in the last hour the snow had dwindled down to a random scatter of large, cottony flakes, there was still more to come—if the heavy, gray clouds boiling across the canyon meant anything. A good start on winter, he thought. He opened the door and stepped in.
"Still coming down?" Sam said. A smell of oil reached Alec, of oil and metal and leather and saddle soap—more signs of winter. "It's tapered off some now," he answered while he took off his mittens and hat.
"That don't matter," Sam said. "By the feel of her, we'll get more. She might even go for three days."
Sam was at the sink, Alec now saw, his vision having recovered from the brilliance of outdoors. At his elbow on the wooden drainboard, leather harness lay in limp, soapy coils. Collars for the hounds, already soaped and washed and wiped, were spread upon newspapers to dry, prior to oiling.
On the floor, a pair of boots waited their turn along with work gloves and a horsehide jacket, looking like old campaigners returned from service on the frontier.
On a table across the room, Sam had his knives spread out. All were made by hand. In their pat-

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

We have just received word of serious infestations of screw-worms in certain areas. The ARS livestock regulatory officials are mobilizing forces to check all livestock movements within and from the infested areas.

Please bring to the County Agents Office in Greenville any specimens collected.

The following information was received from the Animal Disease Eradication Division ARS, USDA, Washington, D. C.:

Screwworms have flanked inspection station lines along the Mississippi River and have infested Tennessee extensively in recent weeks. The infestation is now in numerous counties in the northern halves of Georgia and Alabama.

Infestations are particularly bad in Mississippi along the Mississippi River and are extending eastward. There is considerable danger of the overwintering area of the Southeast becoming reinfested, thereby again necessitating extensive eradication measures.

Immediate action is urgently needed in all counties in Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. Eradication officials need to know immediately:

- (1) Inspect his livestock thoroughly and as often as possible until extreme cold weather.
- (2) Take ten maggots from any maggot-infested wound, place them in alcohol or water, and immediately notify the County Agent.
- (3) Treat all wounds with EQ-335 at least once a week.
- (4) Do not move animals until they have been thoroughly inspected and all wounds treated with EQ-335 until extreme cold weather has arrived.
- (5) Notify the County Agent at destination if you move animals into the southern parts of Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina and any portion of Florida.

THE PRIMARY SCREW-WORM FLY:

The primary screwworm fly is a dark, shiny blue-green blow fly, about twice as large as the house fly, with three black stripes on the back between the wings and a reddish-yellow face. It is often mistaken for one of the two common carcass-breeding species of blowflies which have almost identical color markings, although as seen in nature it is more robust and has a darker color.

The injury this parasite does to animals is inflicted by the worms or maggots. Eggs are laid about the edges of wounds or sores and the maggots start to feed in the wounds but soon invade sound tissue.

Wounds are prevented from healing, and the sickened animal hides away, refusing to eat and usually dying if not found and treated. When the worms have reached their full growth they assume a pinkish color, leave the wound, and drop to the ground, where they dig beneath the surface and undergo a change to the pupa.

After the pupa has been in the soil from seven to 60 days the fly emerges. Under favorable conditions a generation averages about three weeks, and it is believed that there are commonly eight to 10 generations during a summer. A single female is capable of laying 3,000 eggs, which are deposited in masses of about 300 at four-day intervals. Cattle, hogs, horses, mules, sheep, goats, man, dogs and other domestic and wild animals are attacked by the screwworm fly.

Words cannot still the sorrow nor dry the falling tears, or tell in any sense the loss we feel in one so dear.

Tears in silence often flow. Memory keeps him near us, though he left us one year ago.

Farmville Joins In Joint Project

FARMVILLE — Farmville's Commissioners today entered a joint project with the State Highway Commission that will extend curbing and gutter and widen the pavement along S. Main Street.

In a special session at 8:30 a.m. the commissioners agreed to participate in the project, estimated to cost some $30,000. Farmville's share, however, will be $5,000 and the State Highway Commission will be responsible for construction.

The town's $5,000 payment is for drainage for the project.

Town Clerk Harold M. Alfred said today the date for beginning construction on the street project is indefinite. "That will be worked out by the State," he said.

The State offered to bare the majority of expense for the improvement project that includes installation of 1,940 feet of curb and gutter along S. Main Street from the present termination of the town's curb and gutter to the present city limits. S. Main's pavement will be widened to join the curb along the same strip.

Farmville's board was offered the opportunity to participate in the joint project a few months ago. The commissioners studied the matter at several sessions and nodded their approval today.

Tobacco Quality Declining In Final 2 Weeks

While volume on the Greenville tobacco market today was below Friday's prices advanced slightly over last week's level, according to sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee.

Overall quality of offerings, Whedbee said, "continues to decline daily as more and more non-descript, immature and damaged tobacco appears on our warehouse floors."

With today's sale, the Greenville market began its final two weeks of the 1961 auction season with a record high sales average. Whedbee noted, "Season sales so far . . . are $4,153,152 pounds for $34,845,354 and a sales average of $64.34." He continued, "The next approach to this came in 1953 when Greenville averaged $59.90 for its entire season."
