Khrushchev Tells Plan To Explode 50-Megaton Bomb

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev announced today that the Soviet Union will explode a nuclear bomb equivalent to 50 million tons of TNT Oct. 31.

He called once again for conclusion of a peace treaty with both West and East Germany and said both should be admitted to the United Nations.

He also demanded "genuinely equal rights in all U.N. agencies for the three groups of states that have come into being in the world—socialist (Communist), neutralist and imperialist."

Khrushchev said that judging from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's recent talks with President Kennedy and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, "we had the impression that the Western powers were displaying a certain understanding of the situation and that they were inclined to seek a solution for the German problem and for the West Berlin issue on a mutually acceptable basis."

Khrushchev said, "a serious obstacle to a normal world situation will be removed. Such thinking will benefit not only the peoples of our two countries alone but those of other countries and world peace."

Khrushchev's long speech was the highlight of the opening session of the congress called to give unanimous approval to the first new party program since 1919. This is a blueprint for communism to outstrip capitalism by 1980 and create a life in the Soviet Union so attractive that the non-Communist world will turn to communism by choice.

The competition between the socialist and capitalist systems has become the pivot, the main feature of world development in the present period of history Khrushchev continued.

Khrushchev predicted that the colonial system would completely disintegrate during the 1960s. He said the Soviet Union has been helping peoples struggling for national independence and that it would continue to do so.

Highlights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Highlights of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech today: TESTS—After announcing a nuclear bomb equivalent to 50 million tons of TNT will be exploded Oct. 31: "We have a 100-million-ton bomb but we do not intend to explode it. If we happen to explode it in the wrong place we might break our own windows."

Gov. Sanford Appoints 3 8-Year Trustees Of ECC

RALEIGH—Gov. Terry Sanford today appointed Fred F. Bahnon Jr., William A. Blount and Reginald F. McCoy to eight year terms on the board of trustees of East Carolina College.

Bahnon is president of Southern Steel Stamping Co of Winston-Salem; Blount of New York City is chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer of Liggett-Myers Tobacco Co.; and McCoy is executive vice president of John F. McNair, Inc. of Laurinburg.

Blount began work with Liggett Myers in 1923 at the company's plant in Durham. In 1925 he became factory superintendent at the Durham plant and in 1930 he moved to the company's New York offices.

At the University Blount was center on the 1922 UNC football team, which lost only one game. During World War I he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry.

Khrushchev proclaimed: "We are confident that socialism will be victorious in the competition with capitalism. We are confident that the victory will be won in peaceful competition and not through war. We have taken our stand, and always take our stand, on the peaceful coexistence of states of different social systems; we shall do everything to strengthen peace throughout the world."

Khrushchev in his opening review took a slap at Yugoslavia, accusing its leaders of communism's worst political sin, revisionism.

Flashes Of Light Raise Hope For Lost Airmen

NEW YORK (AP)—Two orange flashes of light in lonely North Atlantic darkness brought renewed hope today that the eight-man crew of an Air Force jet bomber might be found alive. The B52G disappeared Saturday during Operation Sky Shield II.

The bomber, attached to the 4241 Strategic Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N.C., was the only one of 2,250 U.S., Canadian and British aircraft that failed to return from the nationwide air defense exercise.

Treasury Secretary Announces Expected Deficit For Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon today broke the news of a further expected increase in the federal deficit. This year's budget, he said, will be "somewhat more than $6.75 billion" out of balance.

Dillon said that record harvests—requiring huge farm price support outlays—and the growing postal deficit have caused the red ink to run deeper than expected.

But Dillon, in an address for the annual meeting of the American Bankers Association, discounted the possibility that the excess of federal spending over receipts would in itself cause inflation. He also renewed the Kennedy administration's promise of a balanced budget for fiscal 1963, starting next July 1.

The secretary brought better news about the other deficit which has plagued both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations—the deficit in international payments.

Washington authorities wanted to withhold judgment of the speech until there is more opportunity to study his words and see what he means.

U.S. experts were quick to note that Khrushchev today, in saying Moscow will not insist on a peace treaty with Communist East Germany before Dec. 31, hinted this on a proviso that "the Western powers display readiness to settle the German problem."

United Church Women Sponsor Trick-Or-Treat

Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF will be sponsored again this year by the United Church Women of Greenville and carried out by its 12 cooperating churches.

The UNICEF "Trick-or-Treat" program, which President Kennedy has described as "an outstanding example of active citizen concern in the work of the United Nations Children's Fund" started in a humble, inconspicuous way. A few children decided that that year on Halloween, rather than candy and apples they would like to collect pennies—small coins that might help other children in need in other parts of the world.

They did, and sent about $36 to UNICEF. The year was 1950. A decade later, on Oct. 31, 1961, over two and a half million American boys and girls in some 11,000 communities Trick or Treated for UNICEF, and the "treats" they received totaled $1,750,000.

What America's boys and girls have been doing for 10 successive Halloweens acquires its full significance from the knowledge of what each dollar collected can mean in terms of the aid given to over 56 million needy children and mothers by UNICEF in more than 100 countries. It can represent the vaccine to protect 100 youngsters against tuberculosis, or a daily glass of milk for 17 hungry children for a month. A single dollar can mean the penicillin to cure 20 victims of yaws, a crippling tropical disease, or the antibiotics to save the sight of five children threatened by the blindness of trachoma.

But our children also know how much more remains to be done. Only one in ten of the 550 million boys and girls who are in need of help is being reached through UNICEF-assisted programs, and the world's child population increases every year.

This year on Halloween night, Tuesday, October 31, between the hours of 5:00 and 7:00 p.m., children and teenagers of Greenville churches will cover all of Greenville, soliciting "Trick-or-Treat" donations for UNICEF. All children participating will have proper identifying tags.

Mrs. Al Whitehurst of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church is chairman of this year's "Trick-or-Treat" for UNICEF program in Greenville. Mrs. Whitehurst states that the organizational meeting for this year's program has been held and plans made for covering all areas of Greenville on Halloween night.

Children in Greenville will be among more than two and a half million American boys and girls in over 11,000 communities who will devote their Halloween fun to saving other children's lives, states Mrs. Whitehurst.

New Life In Old Felt
With an old can, bowl, jug or block of wood, and plenty of steam, new life can be restored in an old hat. Mrs. E. M. Huffstetter of Elberse proved this to her friend, Mrs. Ralph Meacham.

Miss Martha Adams, assistant home economics agent in Richmond County, says the two ladies steamed and stretched old felt hats and then shaped them over an aluminum cookie canister. Colorful pheasant feathers were glued on the hats which are now fash-

Two 'Desegregated' Railroads Deny Practicing Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has announced that three major railroads have ordered racial desegregation of all their facilities in the South. But two of the railroads said later they hadn't been practicing segregation.

Kennedy issued the statement after Dr. Martin Luther King told a news conference that the Justice Department had told him of the desegregation orders put out by the railroads—the Illinois Central, Southern and the Louisville & Nashville.

King, Negro integration leader from Atlanta, conferred Monday with both President Kennedy and his brother, the attorney general. King said he had been advised the railroads had "issued orders, to go into effect immediately, that all facilities, all terminals be desegregated immediately."

As King was making his announcement, Justice Department officials were preparing a statement detailing the plan. They said the statement was to have been issued after confirmation that the order had gone into effect in 10 Southern states—Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy said Justice Department officials had held several meetings with the railroad operators to work out the voluntary desegregation program. In Chicago, Illinois Central President Wayne Johnston said his line had done nothing but continue compliance with a 1956 Interstate Commerce Commission ruling banning segregation in interstate transportation.

Warren A. McNeill, director of public relations for the Louisville & Nashville, said the railroad had maintained no segregation in its stations or passenger cars for the past year and a half.

There was no comment from Southern. Johnston said he knew of no meeting between the railroad and the Justice Department on the subject of segregation. And Joseph Wright, the Illinois Central's general manager and vice president, added "There never had been any meeting in Washington" on segregation involving the I.C.G.

Edison Thomas, L&N news bureau manager, said the railroad hadn't practiced segregation for years.

There were two qualifications, he said. In Alabama and Mississippi, where state laws require segregated waiting rooms for interstate passengers, the railroads took down "white" and "colored" signs over its waiting rooms but local and state authorities put them up again.

But the railroad made no effort to enforce observance of the signs, he said and they have been removed again. Another Illinois Central spokesman said the railroad had no control over concessionaire-operated lunch counters at terminals or where local authorities enforce segregation. He said passengers are loaded strictly by destination and have freedom of movement on all trains.

Kennedy said of the railroads: "Their action represents more than voluntary compliance with the law. It also represents acceptance of a great responsibility to the nation."

"There is the kind of acceptance of responsibility which we at the department of justice hope will help the nation continue to make progress in guaranteeing equal rights under the law to all Americans."

Is It Best To Withhold Verdict?

One cannot help but wonder about the question of why Sam Rayburn has not been told about his condition of cancer.

We are not sure whether such a decision to withhold this information from the patient is not a disservice, whether he be a Rayburn or one of the Smith family. In the case of Speaker Rayburn, the question seems to be more pointed, however.

Here is a man who has shown the strength and stamina evidenced by few men in his long years of public service. He has always insisted on straightforwardness, facing the facts squarely whether they are good or bad. It has been his nature to meet issues head-on, with no side-stepping, no half-heartedness. Throughout his career he has insisted on knowing every detail of the issue at hand in order that he could evaluate the situation and carefully plan his own course of action.

Facing a situation which doctors say will cost him his life, would he want it to be different? Is there information or advice he wants to leave with those who will follow in high places of responsibility after he is gone? Would he appreciate those close to him withholding information which would allow him to make last-minute readjustments in unfinished business, or permit a re-evaluation of matters in which tentative decisions have been reached?

Interstate Road Building Work

By LYNN NISBET

INTERSTATE — Many complaints have been heard about the status of work on the Interstate Highway System, especially the practice of building short sections of super four lane highway—which almost deadends in to a 22 foot pavement. The public is confused by completed bridges standing unused for months because no approaches or roadways have been built to make them accessible. Also there are news reports from time to time about so many miles of interstate roads having been completed or opened to traffic.

The Carolina Motor Club asked the State Highway Commission for clarification and for a report in lay language on status of the overall project. Here are some excerpts from the reply by James S. Burch, Planning Engineer, of the Highway Commission:

"The key to clarity is definition, e.g. only certain figures truly fit certain words. Such words as completed, standards, open to traffic, even miles, can have several meanings. Final right of way status may be legally delayed.

"All work is done in relatively short sections or segments—to best serve traffic intensities, and relieve obsolete sections of their traffic burdens. Also, each segment may involve several contracts, e.g. for structures, for grading, for paving, signs, etc. So it may appear as a hodgepodge to the usual traveler or writer.

"In North Carolina we were building interstate segments as early as 1949, e.g. Lexington-Thomasville, the Lumberton bypass and others. These were built to prevailing standards, and others were being built when, in 1956, the standards were changed.

"In some cases we had built only the first two lanes to the old standards, then built the next two to the new standards, and finally had to go back to the first two and remodel them to bring them up to the new standards. Examples of this type are found east of Greensboro. Many other complexities have arisen, not the least of which is that we must keep ever mounting traffic volumes moving, with never a delay, no matter how difficult this may be."

HOW NOW? — Engineer Burch explains that every State has an officer with duties comparable to his, that reports go into Washington from all these offices, where they are consolidated according to accepted terminology. Part of the confusion in the public mind stems from the fact that writers and commentators sometimes apply their own definitions, or those commonly used in their areas, to words which the Federal roads office uses only in its own sense. Stated in official terms, Engineer Burch has this to say about the situation in North Carolina:

"Our most recent complete tabulation is as of June 30, 1961, and shows the following for Interstate progress in North Carolina (all 4-lane, rural and urban combined):

"Class 1 (A) 1—completed to full new Interstate standards and opened to traffic, 181.2 miles, or 23.5 percent of the total;

"Class 1 (A) 2—open to traffic, current construction will provide full standards, 30.6 miles, or 4.0 percent of the total;

"Class 2 (A) 1—open to traffic, to standards adequate or partial for current traffic, and complete to these standards, 25.3 miles or 3.3 percent;

"Class 2 (A) 2—open to traffic, under construction for adequate standards, 24.5 miles, or 3.2 percent.

ONE-THIRD — These segments add up to 261.6 miles or 34 percent of the Interstate mileage in North Carolina. Other segments, not yet open to traffic or to the above standards aggregate 507.3 miles. That makes total mileage of the Interstate in North Carolina 768.9. Including his comment on the situation Burch says: "We customarily summarize the first four classes above into this statement: 'In North Carolina 282 of the ultimate 770 miles (34 percent) have been completed to final standards, or to standards adequate for current traffic, and open to traffic.' We may also add that, in these terms, North Carolina ranks seventh among the states of the nation."

COMPLEXITIES — One of the major complexities in the handling of Interstate construction is that the Federal government establishes the standards and furnishes most of the money, but the State must acquire the right of way, let the contracts and supervise construction. It is known that delay in finishing I-85 between Greensboro and Charlotte was due to right of way problems occasioned by changed specifications.

Even the highway folks confess they can't explain some of the prolonged delay in completing sections of I-40 between Durham and Greensboro.

Engineer Burch's "clarification" does not make it easy for the layman to understand some of the delays, but it does suggest that the engineers know what they are doing—and why.

Bethel Shows Way In United Fund Campaign

Citizens of Bethel have set a good example for their fellow citizens in other communities of Pitt County by becoming the first community to reach their fair-share quota for the major agencies of the county-wide United Fund. It is also significant that additional contributions to the Pitt United Fund are anticipated from Bethel even though their quota has been reached.

It is important that every community in Pitt County this year participate fully in the United Fund campaign in order that the goal may be reached. The $91,850 goal which has been set for the county-wide effort is realistic, and well within reach of the citizens of the county.

The agencies represented by the Pitt United Fund provide important services to every community throughout the county, and they deserve the kind of support from every community which has been shown by the citizens of Bethel. If every citizen will strive to meet his personal fair-share giving to the Pitt United Fund this year, no community in the county will have difficulty in raising its fair-share of the total budget . . . and more. And if the other communities of the county will follow the example which Bethel has set, Pitt County will have no difficulty in meeting and exceeding its United Fund goal before the campaign month of October ends.

A Valued, Respected Citizen Lost To City

Dr. J. A. Nimmo, for 32 years pastor of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, was a valuable citizen of Greenville, recognized and admired by citizens of both races of this community for his work over a long period of years.

During the more than three decades that he made his home in Greenville, Dr. Nimmo devoted himself unstintingly to work in behalf of his church, his race, and what he sincerely believed to be the best interest of all the citizens of this community. Day by day his life in this community reflected his untiring devotion to serving God and to serving his fellow man.

Not only was he a respected citizen of this community, but Dr. Nimmo was likewise recognized statewide for his services by the high offices he held in the General Baptist State Convention and the National Baptist Convention. Among the tributes to his work was the conferring upon him of the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity by Shaw University in Raleigh for his outstanding service as a minister.

The death of Dr. Nimmo this week has taken from Greenville one of its outstanding citizens.

Fearful Over Approaching 50?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you approaching 50 and feeling fearful?

Calm down, man. What's to be afraid of? You're just entering the payoff years.

Physicians say many men and women today approach the age of 50 with a gathering hysteria, a sense that they are leaving the sunshine years forever and entering a dark dismal tunnel leading nowhere.

Some can't even stand the prospect. They come apart, mentally and physically, and their courage for living becomes as limp and sodden as a paper bag in a rainstorm.

I had some of these fears, too. But after being 50 some eight months now, I find it has turned out to be a far less-shattering experience than turning 40 was. Or even losing your first love in kindergarten, for that matter.

Actually, if you have the sense to realize life at the half-century mark, and after has certain advantages. It adds a few flavorful bubbles to the foam on the beer of existence.

Such as? Well, such as— At 50 you don't have so much trouble finding a parking space. You leave the car in the garage more often.

You're no longer in danger of getting a heart attack from running after a bus. Why chase it? You can't catch it anyway.

Your clothing costs you less and less each year. As you get stinger and stinger, you hate to put out money for anything new.

Your wife's clothes cost less, too. She'd rather put up with her old coat another year than listen to you complain about how high everything is getting these days.

Instead of going to the barber every two weeks, you go every three weeks. After all, what's left to cut? You go to bed earlier and get more sleep. Why stay up and watch the late film on television? You saw it 20 years ago at the movies—remember?

You eat less and your food bills go down. You have finally learned the less you overload your stomach the less it has to gripe about.

You don't waste your energy on foolish things like chasing red-haired girls. You don't know any. And those you did know—well, their hair has turned to silver.

You give up the wasteful three-martini luncheons that used to leave you sleepy on the job all afternoon. You can now feel just as sleepy on one martini.

You get plenty of healthy exercise. Getting up in the morning and closing the window is all the exercise you feel you really need—besides bending down and tying your shoelaces.

You become wider and better informed on world affairs. This is because in the evening you'd rather stay at home and listen to your wife than go out on the town.

You no longer have to fret about the future. The boss has any. But you gain a wonderful golden goal. Your ambition is to reach 62 or 65 when you'll be eligible for a Social Security pension, and the government will have to start giving back some of the dough it has been taking from you all these years.

After 50 you turn away from big problems and see the beauty in small jobs, and at last you have the time to be kind, time to remember, time to even to grow young in heart again.

Who, on the summit of 50, would want to be 20, and have to start the long rocky climb again?

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

CAN WE RISE ABOVE TROUBLE

There is a great deal of complaint today about high taxes. This is natural. People never liked high taxes and never will. But we live in an age so replete with danger that huge military equipment is imperative. This costs money. Furthermore, it increases the cost of other branches of government. Everything pyramids until taxes are indeed staggering.

Of two things we can be sure—taxes will continue to be unacceptably high for the foreseeable future; also pension systems of all kinds will prevail. Inasmuch as it is practically impossible for a person to "make a fortune" today because of the tax system, something must be done to give people security in retirement. And this thing that will be done is some kind of pension system; some variety of the social security principle.

We should become aware of the fact that we are living both in a new world and in probably the most dangerous era that humanity has known, for this is the first time that the race as a whole has been in jeopardy. This means that we must make sure to support ourselves with inner forces which neither the insistence of the tax collector nor rain of bombs can destroy.

There will always be a remnant to carry on, and the remnant will be a "heart remnant"—that is, people who have that inner security and power which will rise above any calamity devilish man may think up to torture his fellows.

Little Bit Means A Lot

It's not the easiest thing in the world . . . in these days of a prosperous tobacco season and accompanying general atmosphere of well-being . . . to visualize local families in dire need.

Something like that seems pretty distant, as though one of those "depressed areas" you read about was involved; or, perhaps, related to one of our years when agricultural produce was in a generally poor condition; or a year when the general economic prosperity was something less than good.

Yet, we have families to whom a little bit means a lot . . . says Norm Garrison, who is in an oddly unique position to know these things.

Garrison is heading up the Moose Lodge clothing bank drive again this year as he has in the past. It's not a particularly big job, as such things go; but it is big in terms of what the clothing bank has done and can do for the truly destitute.

The clothing bank has been one of the fraternal organization's routine projects over the years. So it is not really extraordinary that requests for articles of clothing have already been received before the annual collection campaign got underway. Garrison says the first approaches began soon after the start of the new school term. Oddly enough, so too were the first scattering of contributions; though the actual collections don't start until next week.

What goes into the clothing bank

Shoes, coats, trousers, dresses, shirts, underclothing . . . you name it; all items that have been outgrown and still have some wearable value to someone else. As Norman says, "to someone who doesn't have anything, an outgrown pair of socks or a slightly outdated dress means a lot."

Once a year these outgrown or set-aside items are solicited, collected, cleaned and distributed to families within the county who are reduced to straits thankfully unknown to the vast majority. I'm told it is nothing unusual for this clothing bank that otherwise might be thrown away or "saved" in an old trunk or in the back of a closet for fruitless years, reaches 200 and more people from the clothing bank.

Items left over from each year's collection are contributed to the Salvation Army; which explains why the "bank" starts from scratch each fall.

You'll be reading about details on the collections later this week. I understand there will be a movie (admission price: articles of used-and-still usable clothing), and a city-wide canvassing Monday evening.

So, Mother, think twice before you throw out that scuffed pair of shoes . . . or that old dress. The clothing bank just might have somebody you can help. It costs you nothing and you'll never know but what it might have been awfully important to someone.

Other Editors Saying Image Of Our Country The Public Forum

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The image of America as seen by Europeans and Asians was created largely through the items we exported, items such as autos, TV sets, music, movies, and particularly the latter. Motion pictures probably have had more impact on the human mind than any other media during this century, and that would include television since TV is comparatively young and its influence is yet to be measured.

Vincent Price, a veteran actor and an astute observer of movie influence on people, has just returned from Europe and what he has to say about the subject is not very flattering, nor reassuring. According to Price—and we agree—a reappraisal is in order on the part of Hollywood leaders in the matter of selling America to our overseas friends.

Says Price: "Whatever good will Americans have engendered over the years is virtually wiped out by the kind of pictures we are sending to Europe nowadays. We used to give them entertainment. Now we send them problems."

And certainly Europe doesn't need problems; they have enough of their own without shipping them ours in the form of sick movies of the type turned out by Tennessee Williams and others of his kind. What we are doing is giving Europe a sort of Tennessee Williams view of America, and that isn't the true image of this country at all.

We know it, of course, but Europeans do not. They judge us, as Price pointed out, by our movies. Some Europeans believe we are in the throes of a huge depression because of the type of film junk we dispense over there. Some think all Americans are sick, neurotic, perverts or worse.

Well, if such pictures are undesirable, what kind should we send? Price has the answer for that. "Oklahoma" type movies would be ideal. It represents something out-going, healthy and more typical of an earlier America. These are light, glamorous type of stories, but that is what they used to be and from such films developed a healthier opinion of America.

Too many films have been going overseas of the type like, "I Want To Live," "Butterfield 8," "Inherit The Wind," and other such sick films. It is unfortunate if these are the only kind of films "Elmer Gantry," "The Fugitive Kind," that will make money. It was not always so. Once people went to movies for entertainment, not to witness a succession of weird characters, unhealthy relations, sick souls and minds.

If that is the preference today, then something indeed is wrong with America. We have the suspicion, however, that the bulk of such rot is centered in Hollywood, where it is poured forth from fevered minds not at all typical of the true America.

TO THE EDITOR:

The Sheppard Memorial Library welcomes the opportunity to recognize the DAILY REFLECTOR during this National Newspaper Week. We are proud of the role all newspapers play in protecting our country's freedoms.

This year's theme, "Your newspaper . . . Heritage of Truth, Frontier of Freedom," seems especially appropriate to libraries. We know that to gain a real understanding of what our country's freedom means, citizens must read newspapers, as well as books. The services which libraries and newspapers give each other help both meet their responsibilities to our country.

At all times, the DAILY REFLECTOR has played a valuable and valued role in the progress of the Sheppard Memorial Library. We are especially grateful to Patricia Moore, who has always given excellent coverage to every phase of our work.

We believe that the freedom to read and the freedom of the press are mutually dependent. We hope that we may always work together to preserve these essential freedoms.

Jewish Roots Cut Off

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Captain Joshua L. Goldberg, who for many years was the leading rabbi in the chaplain corps of the United States Navy, spent some time recently in Soviet Russia. Chaplain Goldberg, generally known as "Josh," came to the United States in 1917 and immediately enlisted in the Army where he learned English; in World War II he made an enviable record in the Navy. Besides English, he speaks Russian, Hebrew, Yiddish, French and other languages.

He did not go to Russia to make a study of conditions there, but speaking various languages and being of Russian origin, he was able to probe deeply into the life of the people who interested him most, the Jews, among whom he is respected as a rabbi. In an article in "Look" he discusses his experiences and the conclusions he has reached: "While the Jews in the Soviet Union are officially recognized as a distinct 'nationality,' their national life is devoid of any institutional or organizational expression. There are no Jewish schools, publishing houses, historical research or folklore institutes, although other Soviet nationalities enjoy these facilities as a matter of course.

"Religiously, too, the Jews find themselves at a distinct disadvantage. Other religions in Russia have regained some status in recent years; the Jews, however, have not. The few synagogues in some major cities are too small to accommodate Russia's Jews. The Jews are afraid to go to the synagogues lest their children lose their jobs; afraid to complain, lest they be accused of being counter-revolutionaries; afraid to ask for a visa to join families in the West, lest they be accused of participating in Zionist-capitalistic conspiracies; afraid to communicate with relatives in the United States lest they be dubbed potential spies. They have become a community of whisperers in a kingdom of fear."

Rabbi Goldberg says: "Being a Jew under the czars was only a disability—not a calamity. Within these restrictions, the Jews developed a rich intellectual, cultural and, most important, religious life. Great Talmudic academies, whose function was to preserve traditional religious material and educate rabbis, judges and teachers, provided outstanding leaders."

This has disappeared. Jewish life has its roots in the Hebrew language and literature; the language not only preserves traditions and manners but also binds the Jewish people together in five or six thousand years of history. This has been destroyed. Yiddish, a Jargon based on Low German, but including Russian and Polish words, has a limited relationship to Jewish traditional life and no relationship to the Jewish religion. This is permitted in Soviet Russia.

Goldberg's article is worth reading because it is the first on the subject which pierces deeply into the philosophy of Bolshevism and the psychology of the Jew. The evidence is well established that anti-Semitism is stronger in Communist Russia than it was in Czarist Russia, because whereas in Czarist Russia, anti-Semitism was physical, in Soviet Russia it goes to the roots of the very existence of the Jews as a culture. Czarist Russia kills individual Jews; Soviet Russia seeks to wipe out the Jews as a distinctive ethnic and cultural group. The Goldberg article's merit lies in its avoidance of superficialities, dealing only with fundamentals.

Mrs. Henrietta Goldberg, who accompanied her husband to Russia, wrote some articles for the DAILY REFLECTOR, "Star-Ledger" which tells of the shock at the sight of equality between the sexes, women shoveling snow or digging ditches. She writes: "Continuing along the route where the improvements were being made, I was startled to see a small unit of these trench diggers lying prone on the snowy sidewalk. For a moment I thought they were men, because they wore the same baggy dark pantaloons and heavy felt boots, but coming closer, these women were fast asleep. We call it coffee break in America."

A Guide On How To Avoid Taxes

By ELMER ROESSNER

We hear tell that the Kennedy Administration is cracking down on income-tax avoiders and that new rules are tightening up on the waxy of company funds in expense accounts.

But we read that those in the know have "eight" tested ways to increase travel and entertainment expense deductions."

A brochure at hand says, "Here's the help that can actually get you BIGGER legitimate deductions than ever before."

It offers a handbook with "eight big opportunities." They are: ROMANCE! 1. "It points out why it's a good idea to take your wife along to help on business trips . . . and how you may be able to deduct part of her share of the expenses even when she's along just for personal reasons."

have to keep receipts for some of these items."

3. "What seeming 'commutation' expenses (never deductible) may now actually be deductible travel expenses—shows how if you take home office homework you may have a big new deduction."

4. ". . . one simple step to be sure that when you use a credit card to charge a legitimate business expense that the charge is so notated, and the deduction will stand up. This can save you a large tax bill."

CHARGE OF HOUSEHOLD EXPENSES 5. ". . . nine deductible household expenses for those who use their homes for business entertaining plus five other deductible costs of home entertaining many men overlook."

6. ". . . the simplest, tax wise way to handle expenses that arise out of the use of your own car for business reasons — reminds you that though your vacation expenses are personal, there are four common vacation expenses that are deductible anyway."

6. ". . . one sure way for the top man in a closed corporation to get every deduction he is entitled to . . . how to automatically comply (six) with the government's tough requirements."

8. "If you make a trip that combines business and pleasure—or if you make frequent short business trips—here's how to add substantial sum to your 1961 tax savings—two plans so simple you'll wonder why you didn't think of them yourself."

GET IN ON GRAY 9. The company sending this brochure is one of the most astute tax guidance companies in the United States; it's material is reported to be checked by Internal Revenue specialists.

These tax escapements all seem to be based on government rulings. If you can afford this kind of advice, you can save a lot of money on your Federal taxes. If you can't, you pay through the nose. It prompts a revival of an old suggestion: that income tax forms contain a little box, "I take the exemptions." If the common variety of taxpayer checks the box, he gets a 25 per cent deduction.

Fair, isn't it? FALL PATRIOTIC, BUT DON'T FALL FOR BOND CHAIN The National Better Business Bureau is warning gullible Americans against a revival of the endless chain savings bond scheme.

A typical letter lists the name and addresses of 11 people, and is sold person-to-person. The sucker pays $18.75 to participate and sends the person whose name appears on the top of the list a $18.75 bond. The sucker then makes two copies of the list and sells it to two other people. The sucker is told that when his name reaches the top of the list he will receive bonds totalling $38,400. He doesn't, of course. But the promoters pick up quite a few $18.75 bonds. The seller of the bonds—the U. S. government — warns against the trick.

The contest closes midnight, March 15, 1962. All the entries are to consider and discuss the following points: "Fathers" of the U. S. A. in drawing up the Constitution; the "Bill of Rights" and its privileges and limitations; the individual's obligations "to a government which derives its just power from the consent of the governed"; can an individual's actions affect the fortunes of a nation—give an example of a nation whose fortunes were adversely affected by general indifference to patriotic ideals.

Also, comment on "I was born an American; I will live an American; I shall die an American; and I intend to perform the duties incumbent upon me in that character to the end of my career."—Daniel Webster, July 17, 1850. Papers must be of 4,000-5,000 words in length and accompanied by a bibliography and footnotes. Papers must be submitted on 8 1/2 by 11 paper, typed, doubled spaced, one original and two carbon copies. If the desired points are covered, the papers will be considered on their merits, even though the conclusions may not coincide with the Society's concept of patriotism. The decision of the judges is final.

First and second award-winning papers will become the property of the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, with all rights reserved.

All entries should be sent to The National Society of Colonial Dames of America, Post Office Box No. 125, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Final judges will be Miss Marguerite Appleton, Ph.D., national president of The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America; Admiral Alan Kirk, U. S. N. (ret.), former ambassador to the U. S. R. and to Belgium; Dr. Robert S. Johnson, A. B., LL.D., former president of Temple University 1941-59, chancellor 1959-61, chairman, Citizens Committee for Reorganizing Government, 1949-53.

Early Flight Test Of Saturn Rocket Slated

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Scientists plan to launch this week the first Saturn superrocket on an eight-minute flight which will start the United States on the long road to manned landings on the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reports the firing will take place within a few days if no problems arise. With 1.3 million pounds of thrust—about 30 million horsepower—the first Saturn is three times more powerful than any previous U.S. rocket.

The maiden flight will test the first stage only. Two upper stages will be filled with 3,000 gallons of water to simulate weight of the operational rocket.

The flight plan calls for the 162-foot, 462-ton Saturn to accelerate to a speed of 3,700 miles an hour during the 1 minute 57 seconds burning time of its eight big engines. In that time it will consume 300 tons of fuel.

When the engines cut off, the vehicle will coast upward on a ballistic trajectory to an altitude of 95 miles before plunging back into the Atlantic Ocean 235 miles to the southeast. No recovery attempt will be made.

The rocket has been wired to radio information on 510 aspects of performance during the flight.

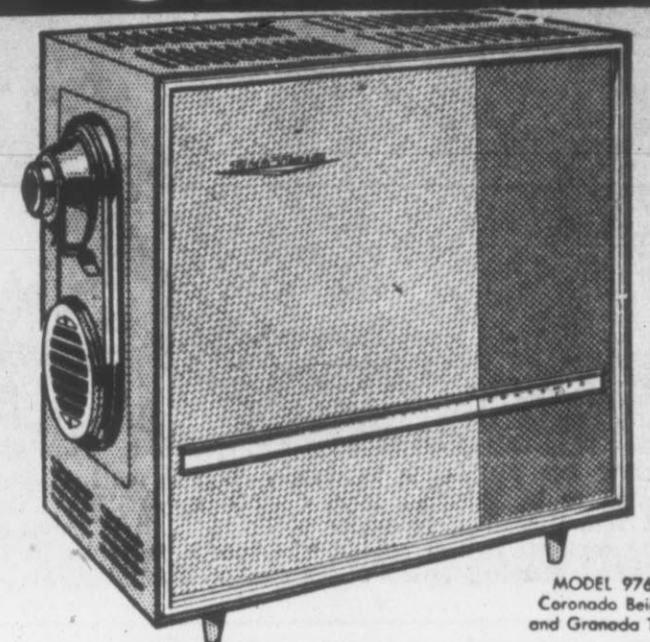

NASA said the upcoming flight is the first of 10 research and development launchings leading to an operational Saturn C1 rocket, with a thrust of 1.5 million pounds, in 1964.

Cautioning against overoptimism on the early tests, officials said: "It is reasonable to expect a total of 5 successes in the 10."

As midshipmen, 1,600 future Navy officers took part in summer training with units of the U. S. Pacific Fleet in 1961.

stage Saturn C1 will be capable will be able to send 40 tons into of placing a 10-ton satellite in orbit or 15 tons on probes to the earth orbit. Advanced C3 rockets moon, Mars or Venus.

Advices Critics Get In Politics

NEW YORK — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says those who feel politics is a dirty business should "get in and clean it up."

The governor says he has found the level of integrity in politics to be as high as that in any other field of endeavor.

Rockefeller spoke Monday at ceremonies opening the new Dartmouth Club in the Hotel Commodore.

The governor, a member of the Dartmouth Class of '30, accepted the Alumni Council's award — a silver bowl — and a citation describing him as an "outstanding leader in culture, commerce, international affairs and as governor of New York State."

Slum-Area Schools Said To Need 'Realistic Approach'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both money and a realistic approach to the task of slum-area schools are needed to head off an impending explosion, Dr. James B. Conant says.

Conant, former president of Harvard University, expressed the view in a new book, "Slums and Suburbs," published Monday by McGraw-Hill. It is an expansion of an earlier study he made of junior high school education in the public schools.

"The building up of a mass of unemployed and frustrated Negro youth in congested areas of a city is a social phenomenon that may be compared to the piling up of inflammable material in an empty building in a city block," he said.

"Potentialities for trouble — indeed possibilities of disaster — are surely there."

The main problem in city slum schools, he said, is to offer courses that have some relationship to the students. He stressed vocational education.

"Foreign languages in grade seven or algebra in grade eight . . . have little place in a school in which half the pupils in that grade read at the fourth grade level or below," Conant declared. Conant also criticized those who "have placed a taboo on the use of the word 'Negro.' I think this has proved to be a great mistake. How can we improve a situation if we are deprived by terminology from knowing what the situation really is?"

He said some cities have pressured Negroes to attend "essentially white schools," adding: "Those which have not done so, like Chicago, are more likely to make progress in improving Negro education. It is my belief that satisfactory education can be provided in an all-Negro school through the expenditure of more money for needed staff and facilities."

But Conant said he does not approve gerrymandering school district lines which "amounts to separating pupils solely on the basis of race."

An allied problem, Conant said, is opportunity. Once the aspirations and technical training for slum youth have been upgraded, there must be jobs for them.

He noted: "It is far more difficult in many communities to obtain admission to an apprentice program which involves union approval than to get into the most selective medical school in the nation."

Freedom Declaration Is Adopted By Elks Lodge

Jury Will Hear Tape Recording

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rumbling roaring tape recording of a 10-hour interrogation of Irvin C. Scarbeck by a State Department security officer will be played to a jury today.

Scarbeck's lawyer, Samuel Klein, dramatically offered the tape in evidence Monday in an attempt to back up his contention that Scarbeck was browbeaten by the security officer, Kenneth W. Knauf, into signing a confession: Knauf says the interview was basically friendly.

Scarbeck is charged with slipping secret U.S. Embassy documents to Polish Red agents in Warsaw after they caught him in bed with his young Polish mistress and threatened to inform his superiors. Scarbeck was second secretary of the embassy.

Klein, introducing the tape to be heard by the jury, stipulated that it was not to constitute a confession in open court.

The jury was excused for more than an hour while a tape recording machine was hooked up to the court room public address system.

It came out full of background noise with trucks starting up, mysterious bumpings and knockings, and a horn blating outside.

Greenville Elks, joining with the Elks Grand Lodge, have called on those "who believe in freedom to take the initiative, fight for what we believe in and stand against those who are against until freedom has defeated those who would destroy it."

A declaration to this effect has been adopted by the local Elks Lodge No. 1645.

"To rely on military power alone in this ideological struggle would be illusory and fatal," the declaration says. "Our paramount necessity is internal strength which can come only from unity of understanding and purpose and a willingness to place our nation's safety and welfare above personal interest."

"Freedom, the historic goal of mankind, is our Nation's basic principle. Freedom has been under steady attack by international communism for many years. Now freedom and communism are engaged in a struggle for survival. This struggle is not of our choosing, but has been forced upon us. Free men have no choice but to accept the challenge.

"We urge those in positions of leadership and influence—clergy, men, educators, business executives, holders of public office, leaders of labor, intellectuals, editors, radio and television producers, motion picture producers and all others—to assume a greater responsibility for the wider understanding of these principles and their practical application in the day to day lives of the people."

Two Ex-Senators Are 'Type-Cast' For Film Roles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two distinguished former members of the U.S. Senate emoted Monday on a Hollywood sound stage, scoring a series of examples of type casting.

Guy Gillette of Iowa and Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona are cast as U.S. senators—what else—in "Advise and Consent," the movie version of the controversial best seller about Washington politics. On their first day of shooting, the venerable pair got a real inside look at Hollywood. They were made up by Del Armstrong, Lana Turner's favorite makeup man.

Their director is Hollywood's most explosive—Otto (the Terrible) Preminger. Austrian-born Preminger has been labeled the only dictator ever to make a movie about a democracy. But he was all sweetness and light with the bona fide senators.

But nearly everybody else caught it. Three crewmen were fired—and later rehired—during one scene that required 15 takes. The many takes were needed because the Hollywood senators—Walter Pidgeon, Don Murray, Peter Lawford, Charles Laughton, et al.—had trouble with their lines.

The real senators, natural politicians both, had no such trouble. Gillette, a New Dealer who first went to Washington with Franklin D. Roosevelt, got a typical Hollywood twist with his casting.

"I play a Republican whip," he laughed somewhat sheepishly. And Ashurst, also a Democrat, who went to Washington when Arizona became a state in 1912, got an even bigger switch.

In his 28 years in the Senate, Ashurst was famed as one of its greatest orators. In the movie he spends much of his time sleeping in the Senate chambers. "The director spends most of his time teaching me how to snore," said Ashurst. "Me, who has made my living for years talking, now getting a fortune to keep quiet. What irony."

Neither Gillette, 82, nor Ashurst, 87, would reveal what Preminger is paying them as actors. But both agreed that it was way above the senatorial pay of $22,500 per year.

"But neither as long nor as steady," added Ashurst.

Ideal Weather For State Fair

RALEIGH — (AP) — Perfect weather was forecast today as the North Carolina State Fair continued its week-long run with Wake County Day and High School Band Day.

A full range of activities is scheduled for the J.S. Dorton Arena, the grand stand, the exhibition halls and the midway.

High school bands from the state participated in a grandstand concert and parade. Selected musicians from schoolboy bands were scheduled to give a concert early in the evening.

Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, acting fair director, has predicted a record-breaking attendance of 750,000.

By 6 p.m. Monday, the Highway Patrol estimated that 50,000 persons had clicked the fair turnstiles. There were no estimates of the night crowd.

The fair got under way Monday with three ceremonies at the ultra-modern arena. At noon, Gov. Sanford, Ballentine and Mexican Secretary of Agriculture Julian Rodriguez Adame participated in the official opening.

Later, the arena was dedicated in honor of Dr. J. S. Dorton, long-time fair director who died last year. An academic convocation ob-

50-Megaton Nuclear Blast Could Dig Hole Mile And A Half Wide

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 50-megaton bomb such as Soviet Premier Khrushchev says the Soviet Union will explode Oct. 31 would dig a hole 400 feet deep and a mile and a half wide and kill almost all persons within seven miles unless they were in well-constructed underground shelters. This was the estimate given by Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear scientist when questioned by a reporter after Khrushchev told of plans for firing a bomb with the equivalent of 50 million tons of TNT. Lapp used Washington for an example and the White House as an impact point in giving his estimate of damage. His figures would mean that most of the federal government buildings would be within the area he said would be instantly converted into a gigantic crater. He said all wood frame houses within 16 miles—all of Washington—would be destroyed. In addition Lapp continued, brick structures within 10 miles would be leveled and even big steel-reinforced buildings would be smashed for a distance of from 5 to 6 miles.

In addition, he said, a bomb would result in injuries to many persons from flying glass or debris for a distance of 30 miles from the impact point.

Lapp also said that radioactive fallout would contaminate an area of from 10,000 to 20,000 square miles depending upon wind conditions.

Heat from the detonation, he said, would produce second degree burns out to a distance of 35 miles in all directions, representing an area of 9,000 square miles.

He said well-built underground shelters would provide protection if located 3/4 mile from the blast. Underground locations of Atlas and Titan missiles, he said, would resist the blast if they were about 2 1/2 miles from it.

The scientist said he believed that in any test of such a weapon the Russians would use a rocket to carry it at least 100 miles above the earth before the blast.

Selling Oil Firm For $362 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An oil company which started 53 years ago because Capt. William Matson wanted the scarce new fuel for his pioneer shipping fleet is selling out Wednesday for the tidy sum of $362 million.

The reason: Oil has glutted the modern world's markets.

Since Matson drilled his first California well in 1908, his Honolulu Oil Corp. has grown to be the third largest, independent producer in America, with properties in six states, including Alaska, and in Canada.

The liquidation deal—beset for weeks by a federal antitrust suit and tax-ruling uncertainties—is scheduled to be completed in contract-signing ceremonies at Wilmington, Del.

Deciding to sell the producing and reserve properties and negotiating the purchase agreements with Tidewater Oil Co. and Pan American Oil Co., a Standard Oil (Ind) subsidiary, proved far simpler for Honolulu Oil's management and stockholders than winding up the deal.

With no refineries or retail marketing, Honolulu Oil depended almost entirely on selling its crude oil production to integrated companies.

With Crude prices depressed by high world production and increased foreign oil imports, Honolulu Oil's management and stockholders chose to sell out to integrated companies rather than risk trying to go into refining and marketing on its own.

Purchase bids were called for last February, and Honolulu Oil directors approved last May the offer by Tidewater, Pan American Oil and other companies totaling $362.1 million.

L. A. Cranson, president, advised stockholders the liquidation return would amount to about $100 a share on 3,748,000 outstanding shares.

Honolulu Oil's management had made a condition of the sale agreements that the proceeds be taxed at the capital gains rather than income rates.

On Sept. 15 this issue was clarified by an Internal Revenue Service announcement that it would resume rulings on transactions with arms-length bargaining between unrelated parties. Honolulu Oil's stock bounded up 10 points to 92 on this news.

On Sept. 19 the federal government filed an antitrust action to block the sale. The suit claimed that Tidewater and Standard of Indiana, among the largest U.S. integrated oil companies, would acquire with Honolulu Oil's properties "a decisive competitive advantage over their nonintegrated or less diversified competitors."

Honolulu Oil's stock slipped down to 72 1/2 on this news. Five days later Honolulu Oil stockholders, in a long delayed meeting on the sale proposal, overwhelmingly voted to proceed

Stands Alone In Hijacking Case

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Leon Bearden, 38, stood trial alone today in the hijacking of a Continental Airlines jet.

In a surprise move Monday, his son Cody, 16, pleaded guilty to a Dyer Act violation, interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

The defense had tried to enter a similar plea three weeks ago but the prosecution would not accept it.

The Beardens, of Coolidge, Ariz., were to have been tried together on charges of kidnaping, robbery and conspiracy.

Defense lawyer Frank H. Hunter said he had been prepared to bring into court Dr. Ann Damiani, an El Paso neuro-psychiatrist, in Cody's defense.

"He is a confused, mixed-up boy," Dr. Damiani told newsmen, "torn between loyalty to what his mother has taught him and loyalty to his father."

"The father's influence during the past year has been detrimental," Dr. Damiani said she will report to U.S. District Court on the results of her examination of Cody and recommend that he be confined to a custodial care institution until he reaches his majority.

The Beardens were charged with the attempted hijacking of the airliner Aug. 3 over Columbus, N.M., on a flight from Phoenix to Houston. There were 55 passengers and five crewmen aboard.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Garrett of Greenville announce the birth and death of an infant son on Oct. 16 in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Larger Allowance For Business Now Sighted

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The Kennedy administration and business are getting closer together today on at least one disputed issue: Tax allowances for the wear and tear on machines and plants.

The President has been urging speedier modernization of industry to promote economic growth. Industry has been charging it is held back by obsolete tax rules.

The Treasury now indicates it will be more liberal—as many businessmen have been asking—in allowing quicker depreciation writeoffs for tax purposes.

Freedom Riders Week In N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has proclaimed this week as "Freedom Riders Week" in the city.

In a brief ceremony Monday at City Hall, the mayor gave the proclamation to James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, originator of the Freedom Rides.

Wagner said the proclamation was issued to "impress with marked effect upon the public that all forms of segregation are wrong and that there is no place for it in our society."

TOOTHACHE
Don't suffer needlessly. Get speedy relief from throbbing pain of toothache with fast acting ORA-JEL. Pain goes in seconds. Guaranteed or money back. All drug stores.

It has taken the first step by cutting the writeoff time for many kinds of textile machinery to as low as 15 years from the previous 25 years. It is studying other industries burdened with plants and machinery made obsolete in recent years by the big speedup in technology.

In return for this promised shortening of depreciation time schedules where found justified, business leaders indicate they'll look with more favor on a Kennedy administration pet scheme: A tax allowance as a reward for the purchase of new equipment.

At first the President proposed a sliding scale giving the biggest tax allowance to firms making unusually heavy investments. This was changed by the House Ways & Means Committee to a flat reduction of 8 per cent of the equipment cost. The modified bill, which Treasury officials indicate the administration will accept, is docketed for first order of committee business in the new session in January.

But businessmen aren't primarily interested in this untried device. What they have sought is an updating of the depreciation rules, last revised in 1942. Today they are cheered by the concession to the textile industry and the assurance of Henry F. Fowler, undersecretary of the Treasury, that other industries are being studied.

This is how the shorter depreciation time works: If a company must write off a million-dollar equipment purchase over 25 years, it can take a depreciation allowance for tax purposes of $40,000 a year. But if it can write off the cost in 15 years, it can deduct about $67,000 a year.

With the corporate income tax rate at 52 per cent, this difference of $27,000 means that the company has about $23,500 more cash available each year.

The U.S. Treasury would get less taxes during the faster write-off period. But business spokesmen argue that shorter or longer schedules work out in the long run to the same total payments, assuming the machinery is in use throughout the allowed depreciation period.

Businessmen also contend that today's machinery becomes obsolete much faster than in earlier eras when the tax rules were made. A number of industries have told Congress they are stuck with obsolete machinery valued for tax purposes at the original price but which can't be replaced at even twice that cost.

Steel made a point of this in its dispute with President Kennedy over prices, saying earnings must rise to pay for costlier plants. Railroads bemoan the lack of tax aids in replacing their obsolete equipment.

Other U.S. industrialists note that most other nations permit faster writeoffs and that many grant other tax incentives in the year of a new purchase. American companies complain that their old plants can't compete with the modern ones recently built in western Europe and Japan.

Yugoslavs Concerned If U.S. Policy Shifts

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Yugoslavia was reported today to have asked the United States if it is changing its policy toward the Communist country and expressed the hope that it would not.

Informants said the Belgrade note came in response to the outburst here over the U.S. sale to Yugoslavia of 130 surplus Sabre jet fighter planes.

Yugoslav diplomats, the informant said, fear a change in U.S. policy toward President Tito's government might put Yugoslavia in a diplomatic no-man's land between East and West.

State Department officials would not confirm receipt of the note.

Informants said that Tito's government had expressed the hope there will be no change in basic relations—including U.S. economic cooperation—between the two countries.

White House press secretary

Pierre Salinger said Monday a current review of U.S.-Yugoslav relations "goes into all aspects of assistance to Yugoslavia."

The Tito regime recently asked the United States to consider selling to Yugoslavia some additional surplus agricultural commodities with payment to be in Yugoslav currency. To date the United States has not agreed to negotiate his request.

Further, U.S. officials said any new Yugoslav request for economic help would receive close examination, although the United States does not intend to stop any commitments now in the process of delivery.

It has been reported that President Kennedy was irked by Tito's stand at the Belgrade conference of 25 unaligned nations. Tito's speech at the conference tended to support Soviet policies.

Diplomatic sources said Kennedy had made known his views in a sharply worded memorandum handed to the Yugoslav leader by U.S. Ambassador George F. Kennan last month.

Belgrade replied in a memorandum stating that Yugoslavia's position had not changed. But this apparently failed to clear the atmosphere.

A meeting followed between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic. The meeting, held at the United Nations, was described as courteous but cold.

It is understood the Yugoslavs anticipate some loud abuse from Moscow during the current Communist party meeting in Moscow, probably from Soviet Premier Khrushchev himself.

Informants said Yugoslav diplomats here are wondering if the United States is intending deliberately to isolate the country this country that it should go forward."

One official said Eisenhower had pointed out that Sabre jets would not be of military value to the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower let it be known from his home in Gettysburg, Pa., that he would have no comment to make.

Pickup Truck For Pakistani Guest

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Bashir Ahmad, Pakistan's most famous camel cart driver, will get a new pickup truck when he visits the Texas State Fair today as a guest of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The smiling little man with the flowing black moustache was to arrive this morning from Johnson's central Texas ranch, where he got the royal carpet treatment received by heads of states.

His first stop today will be at a supermarket in suburban Irving. Then he will visit a motor freight terminal—the equivalent of a camel wagon yard in Pakistan. After the State Fair visit he will tour Six Flags Over Texas an entertainment center between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Later today Bashir flies to Kansas City, Mo., for a tour of the American Royal Livestock Show and a visit with former President Harry S. Truman.

Bashir, 48, grinned and often clasped his hands in pleasure as Johnson personally conducted him on a tour of central Texas Monday.

"When good fortune catches hold of a person, good fortune takes him all the way," said Bashir.

At the Johnson City School students swarmed around Johnson and the camel driver. Bashir told the crowd: "I have a little advice for you. When I was young, I did not have an opportunity to go to school. You have the opportunity. Please make the most of it so you can make this a better world. 'If you ever come to Pakistan, please look me up.'"

Johnson was on a tour of Pakistan when he stopped the camel driver in a crowd, shook hands with him, and invited him to this country. Bashir promptly accepted. A group of American businessmen made his trip to the United States possible under the People-to-People program.

'62 CORVAIR MONZA NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The amazing air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please, in complete control. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

And Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper. Another extra-cost option well worth considering is the heavy-duty front and rear suspension; it turns a Corvair into a real tiger.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?

very much." Alec pushed his boot at the soft, sun-moistened snow. All at once, he felt at sea, a stranger before the disclosure of strong and deep emotions, for they belonged to the adult world, and he did not yet know how to deal with them.

"Where was I, then?" he asked, and was glad to find relief from the sudden pressure of Claude's last remark. It was a point that he'd often wondered about, too.

"In Seoul," Claude answered. "Your mother left you there in the care of Army friends, and I've wished a thousand times that she'd stayed there herself. But, of course, she wouldn't. She had to come. She had to come, and she had to be in that cabin, too, when the canyon went up around her. It was almost like fate, except that it was my fault for letting her know what to do, or how to deal with it, that helpless sensation of exposure of things not wholly understood, came over him.

"Well, now you know," Claude said, raising his face once more. "I guessed it, I think." Alec said, "When we had the fire here."

"I've wanted to tell you many times," Claude said. "But somehow I couldn't bring myself to do it."

"It wasn't your fault," Alec said, and it was all he could think of. "I was afraid to, son."

"Afraid?" Alec looked at him hard, trying to picture fear in Claude's eyes. Claude nodded slowly, and he spoke slowly, too. "Afraid I'd lose you, your respect, your devotion. At the same time, I felt I did not deserve them."

All at once in Alec's mind the pattern of Claude's manner toward him, his attitudes and behavior during the past nine years, became more subtle in nature. Where he had doubted his own worth and appeal to Claude, he began to understand that the truth was quite different; in fact, it was wholly opposite of what he'd thought and felt for so very long, for Claude had felt the same way toward him.

A shocking experience involving Rusty awaits Alec. Continue the story tomorrow.

Hungary Decreases Wide Price Cuts

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary's Communist regime decreed unprecedented price cuts Monday on a wide range of clothing articles and some other goods.

The Ministry of Internal Trade slashed prices by 30 to 50 percent on men's, women's and children's knitwear, on rayon goods, dresses, boys and girls' suits, men's top coats, scarves, handbags, toys and cosmetics.

The ministry gave no explanation for its action, but presumably shops are not meeting their planned sales figures in these items, so the prices had to be brought more in line with the average citizen's spending capacity.

An all-wool lady's cardigan, for instance, previously cost around $54, which is more than a third of an industrial worker's monthly wage.

Tea Break Is On Company Time

LONDON (AP)—Four hundred building workers resume face-lifting operations on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's official residence Tuesday with assurance that they can continue to break for tea on company time.

The workers have been on strike for two weeks over employers' efforts to curtail morning and afternoon tea breaks and the lunch period. The employers dropped their threat when the men agreed not to dawdle over lunch or tea.

The workers are renovating the prime minister's residence at No. 10 Downing St. The prime minister, meanwhile, is living at Admiralty House nearby.

CHAPTER 21

The winter wore on. With each new storm Alec Temple's hopes sank, for the onslaught of each storm made Rusty's life harder and set the day further back when he and Sam Fellows might try to find Rusty's trail.

On the other hand, reason, as well as Claude Temple's manner these days, told him that, in the big scale of things, the country was bound to benefit.

Each storm made the snow-packs deeper; each flake that fell upon the watershed was in its way, however minuscule, a safeguard against the dry seasons that, in their own time, were bound to come.

"Unless the winds are bad in March," Claude said to Alec one day. "We could lose it yet, if they are. Or a lot of it."

"Would it be so bad to lose some?" Alec said.

Claude laughed. He seemed to laugh easily nowadays; since the fire, his whole manner had undergone a lightening.

"We could spare a little, maybe," he said. "But let's not push our luck. Your lion's all right in any event."

Alec was a little surprised to find that Claude knew what he was driving at, but then perhaps he ever minuscule, a safeguard against the dry seasons that, in their own time, were bound to come.

Gene Autry Shows A Baseball Profit, Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Autry rode to fame with his recording of "That Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine." I expected him to look like the song after a year in big league baseball.

But no. His sandy hair was merely flecked with gray. His step was sure, even in his high-heeled boots.

"I'm not hurting," he said calmly.

Numerous experts predicted he would be, after his first season with the Los Angeles Angels. He and associates put up $2.5 million—others invested a like amount—to found the new American League team. What they got was a grab bag of players from other teams and an undersized—20,000 capacity—ball park to play in, Wrigley Field.

"But we'll show a profit on our first season," Autry reported. "I think we did pretty good, considering."

"Lots of folks were predicting we'd only win 40 or 50 games. We won 70. I think we would have done even better except for some bad luck."

The team went East early in the season and got rained out several days. That meant they were not getting enough exercise, and then they had to play a lot of doubleheaders, which is hard on the pitching staff. By the time they got back here, they practically had to have spring training all over again.

Home attendance was a disappointment, he acknowledged—about 600,000 while 800,000 or a million had been hoped for. The location of the park was the principal cause, he said.

But wait until next year, Autry said, echoing a familiar phrase.

In 1962 the Angels become stadium mates with the National League Dodgers in Walter O'Malley's Chavez Ravine Stadium, capacity 56,000.

"I think we should draw a million next year," the cowboy star said resolutely. "We have the Yankees for nine games, and they should pull 50,000 a game. The location of the new stadium is much better, and it should give all our games a big lift."

Sitting behind the desk of his Toluca Lake office, Autry appeared to have more the figure of an umpire than a shortstop. But that is in keeping with his age (54) and position—several millions. Plus the fact that during the last year he has been out of the saddle and on the banquet circuit.

"I only made three appearances as a performer during the year," he remarked. "That's about all the time I could spare. I devoted a lot of time to the team, making speeches at little leagues and hot stove leagues. And we have a weekly meeting of the Angel management, where we discuss plans and problems."

NATIONWIDE OFFERS

ONE FOR ALL

—a single, low premium policy that covers your entire family... plus a special income provision for Mom and the kids!

IMAGINE... a single life insurance policy to cover everyone in your family. Father gets the most protection... up to $15,000 now, with liberal retirement benefits later. Mother and children are covered by term insurance, with a guaranteed right to convert to permanent plans in the future. New additions to the family are covered after 15 days... with no premium increase. What could be more sensible than one low-cost life insurance plan for the entire family?

and you can add this for income:

You can now add to the above package of family protection our popular Family Income Plan. It provides valuable income dollars for Mom and the kids during the "growing up" years. Example: On a $10,000, 20-year plan, your family would receive benefits totalling $35,200 should death occur in the first year. And you pay for no unnecessary coverage because protection tapers off as the kids grow up. No separate policy either. This plan becomes an integral part of your Family Policy. Check the nearest Nationwide office below for full details.

NEW YORK (AP) — Selective strength spread, erasing an early loss and leaving the stock market mixed early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 30 at 256.10 with industrials off 50, rails off 20 and utilities unchanged.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the general rule among key stocks but there were wider moves in an assortment of issues.

A more confident tone prevailed in Wall Street after the news sank in that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will no longer insist on signing a German peace treaty by the end of the year, as he has been threatening.

Autos rallied with Ford recovering strongly. Steels went narrowly to the upside. Rubbers were higher. Early flashes of power by issues in various groups became sustained. A number of blue chips, however, were down sharply, dragging at the market averages.

Ford recouped more than a point in active trading. General Motors and Studebaker-Packard rose fractionally. Chrysler and American Motors were firm. A pickup in auto sales for the industry was reported.

Most of the aircraft-missile stocks took fractional losses. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 57 at 702.58. Prices on the American Stock Exchange moved generally higher in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed in light dealings. U.S. government bonds edged to the upside.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The aircraft carrier Randolph and the Liberian tanker American Viscount collided Monday night, 325 miles east of Charleston, S.C., the Navy reported today.

Bloxam Speaks To Optimist Club

Greenville's new sewage disposal plant should begin operation between Nov. 15 and Dec. 1, Utilities Supt. Leonard P. Bloxam told Greenville Optimist Monday night.

At the local civic club's weekly dinner meeting, Bloxam said the modern plant would require about $103,000 annually for operating expenses.

He told his Optimist audience the "sewer tax"—a monthly rate for municipal sewage disposal services—would be about 50 per cent of the city's water rate. However, Bloxam said, there will be a "cut-off point" where a maximum monthly rate would be substituted for the 50 per cent formula.

He presented a comparison of Greenville's water rates and its proposed sewage rates with rates of seven other cities in the area.

Following the regular meeting, the Optimist Board of Directors signalled the club's membership to begin preparations for Youth Appreciation Week, sponsored nationally by Optimist Clubs. The special observance is slated for Nov. 13-19.

Optimist Walter Whitehurst is chairman of the club's Youth Appreciation Week committee.

Graham Renews School Aid Case

RALEIGH (AP) — United Nations Mediator Frank Graham has pointed to the land grant college system as testimonial to the value of federal aid-to-education programs.

Because of the work and influence of land grant colleges, Graham said, "the United States is today freer, stronger and more competent to meet the perils of the nations and express the hopes of the peoples of the earth in this age."

Noting the defeat in Congress of President Kennedy's education program, he said, "We should emphasize the struggles, defeats and ultimate triumph of federal aid to the land grant colleges."

Graham spoke Monday at an academic convocation in the J. S. Dorton Arena at the State Fair. The event was in honor of North Carolina State College's Diamond Jubilee and the centennial of the land grant college system.
