

Little Damage In Log Truck Mishap

MINOR DAMAGE . . . Only minor damage resulted when this log truck overturned yesterday at the intersection of N. C. 43 and U.S. 13-N.C. 11 about 1:35 p.m. Highway Patrolman W. L. Whitehead who investigated the mishap reported that the vehicle's driver, Freeman Allen, 46 of Enfield was charged "with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety. The officer said the truck overturned as it was traveling too fast to make a turn.

U.S. Shelves Yugoslavia's Wheat Purchase Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has shelved at least temporarily a request by Yugoslavia to buy 500,000 tons of surplus American wheat.

State Department officials indicated this was an outgrowth of the displeasures of President Kennedy toward the Tito government because of pro-Soviet positions Yugoslavia took at the recent Belgrade conference of 25 unaligned nations.

Officials said U. S. Ambassador George S. Kennan had outlined the policy of the U. S. government toward Yugoslavia in a meeting last week with Yugoslav Vice President Mijalko Todorovic in Belgrade.

The policy in effect continues all present commitments by the United States for economic assistance but halts consideration of new programs.

Kennan gave this answer after having been asked orally by Todorovic to clarify U. S. policy toward Yugoslavia, officials said. Earlier it had been reported that Yugoslavia sought clarification through a formal note rather than in an oral statement.

Belgrade has been asking Washington to consider the new request for the 100,000 tons of wheat, but the controversy in the United States over the sale of surplus Sabre jet planes has cooled American officials toward the request. There already had been surprise at the position President Tito took at the Belgrade conference while professing to be unaligned.

Officials here noted that surplus U.S. grain had been sold to Yugoslavia in each of the last three years.

Washington agreed earlier this year to sell Belgrade $60 million worth of cotton, vegetable oil and surplus wheat. The 400,000 tons of wheat involved totaled about $28 million. This agreement is now being carried out.

Although no official price tag was announced, the 500,000 tons of wheat requested later apparently would have amounted to $35 million, including transportation costs.

The United States also agreed last January to advance a $100 million credit to Yugoslavia to enable currency reforms to be made which would help orient Yugoslavia more toward the Western market.

The United States has given Yugoslavia a total of $2.2 billion in economic and military assistance since the end of World War II. Direct military grant aid was halted in 1957, but there have been sales of surplus military equipment since that date.

White House Calls On Russia To Reconsider Huge Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has asked the Soviet Union to reconsider its decision to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb, charging that the test would be unnecessary and could "only serve some unconfessed political purpose."

It said the United States had the materials and know-how to produce bombs in the 50-100 megaton range—and higher—but that such weapons are not essential to U.S. military needs and that full-scale tests are not necessary to develop them.

Assistant press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said today the White House has received no reaction from the Soviet Union to its stand.

A 130-word statement was handed to newsmen Tuesday night by press secretary Pierre Salinger, who said it should be attributed to the White House and not to President Kennedy personally.

The statement was the only official U.S. comment so far on Premier Khrushchev's announcement Tuesday that the Soviet Union would explode a 50-megaton weapon at the end of this month. A 50-megaton blast is equivalent to the force of 50 million tons of TNT and about 2,500 times more powerful than the U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

U.S. strategists hoped the White House statement, citing the lack of military purpose for such a test, would rally world opinion against the Kremlin.

From a diplomatic standpoint, Khrushchev's Moscow speech was seen as combining the carrot on a stick technique with the flick of a whip—mixing the lure of negotiations over Berlin while brandishing a mammoth nuclear threat.

A task force of State Department experts—including the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn E. Thompson—gathered to scrutinize all available textual matter to weigh the significance of what Khrushchev said, and what he didn't say.

The State Department said there would be no official assessment of the speech until Secretary of State Dean Rusk holds his press conference late this afternoon.

U.S. officials, however, re-examine any enthusiasm for the Soviet leader's conditional offer to lift his Dec. 31 deadline for signing a separate treaty with East Germany until they are certain what he meant. They indicated that his speech seemed to contain no basic change in his views on Germany.

Salinger said earlier that the President would "have absolutely no comment" Tuesday on Khrushchev's 6-hour and 20-minute oration before the Communist party congress.

A few hours later Salinger handed out the statement which said: "It is reported that the Soviet Union plans to explode a giant nuclear bomb—the equivalent of 50 million tons of TNT."

"We call upon the Soviet Union to reconsider this decision, if in fact it has been made. We know about high-yield weapons. Since 1957 the United States has had the technical know-how and the materials to produce bombs in the 50-100 megaton range, and higher. But we also know that such weapons are not essential to our military needs. Furthermore, full-scale tests are not necessary to develop 50-megaton bombs."

"We believe the peoples throughout the world will join us in asking the Soviet Union not to proceed with a test which can serve no legitimate purpose and which adds a mass of additional radioactive fallout to that which has been unleashed in recent weeks."

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman, asked how much fallout would be created by a 50-megaton blast, replied there was no way to make an accurate appraisal since such a device had never been tested. He said any estimate would be only a guess, for it is unknown how much potential fallout material might be contained in the bomb.

But from the harsh mathematics of nuclear weapons and with figures made public in congressional hearings, a picture of such a bomb's capacity can be projected.

It would carry more than twice the power of the more than 20 devices detonated so far in the current series of Soviet tests.

Its yield would come to nearly a third of that of all the nuclear devices exploded in war or tested by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain by the end of 1962 when these nations temporarily halted testing.

However, most U.S. military leaders and scientists have tended to discount the value of such huge weapons. They say two 25-megaton bombs dropped on scattered targets would do more damage than one 50-megaton bomb.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Tuesday that a 50-megaton bomb is "a very unnecessary type of bomb to have. Its usefulness is limited compared to its cost."

discussion and hope should therefore now begin."

In Paris, Le Figaro said the change in Khrushchev's tone "will give those people who in the West support East-West talks on Berlin and Germany a good argument."

But the newspaper cautioned: "One should guard against any excessive optimism. Mr. Khrushchev has hardly changed his position on the German problem."

Rome's independent Il Messaggero said that on Berlin Khrushchev "suddenly recouped a sense of responsibility and balance a statesman's prudence, a realism of those who bear a tremendous responsibility before all peoples."

Austrian papers also saw Khrushchev's latest line on Berlin as a retreat from old positions.

Indian government officials were privately critical of the Soviet proposal to fire a massive new nuclear blast but as usual had no public comment.

Japanese Foreign Ministry officials said the speech was a reiteration of basic Soviet policies and contained nothing new.

Khrushchev Speech Brings Dismay And Hope In West European Capitals

LONDON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's speech to the Soviet Communist party Congress aroused conflicting feelings of hope and dismay in the capitals of Western Europe today.

The fearful Europeans clutched at the straw he held out on Berlin. The announcement he had lifted his deadline for signing a peace treaty with East Germany. But some noted that was the only change in his Berlin stand.

Dismay was widespread at the announcement that in less than two weeks the Russians will explode a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb, the biggest man-made bang the world has ever known.

Four British pacifists invaded the Soviet Embassy in London and announced they would stage a sit-down there until the Russians called off the bomb blast. British policemen carried them out of the building five hours later.

X-15 Speeds At 3,920 MPH

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — In a scaring burst that turned its wings white hot, the X-15 rocket plane soared to a speed record of 3,920 miles an hour—about twice the speed of a rifle bullet.

The experimental craft designed for a top speed of 4,000 m.p.h. flew so swiftly Tuesday—about six times the speed of sound—that pilot Joe Walker had to put the flaps down to slow the needle-nosed plane.

The previous aircraft speed record was 3,647 m.p.h., set last week in an X-15 by Air Force Maj. Bob White.

British newspapers exhibited more concern at the prospect of the massive Soviet nuclear blast than relief over the possible delay in a Berlin showdown.

"There is no supreme military advantage to be gained in touching off so large a bomb," said the Times of London. "The purpose behind the announcement is largely political. It is meant to fill the Western peoples with fears of what may happen unless their governments concede points to the Russians over Berlin."

The Manchester Guardian said Soviet plans to explode the super-bomb "has destroyed the prospect of freezing weapons development and so limiting the arms race. It has also destroyed the attempt to start a pilot scheme for international control over disarmament. It has added to the pollution of the earth's atmosphere with new radiation. And it has brought Russia neither extra influence nor greater security."

The Conservative Daily Mail said Khrushchev "has not budged an inch" on the future status of Berlin.

On Berlin, said the Laborite Daily Herald, Khrushchev spoke

Tropical Storm May Be Forming

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau kept watch today on a tropical depression moving north from Cuba and showing signs of intensifying.

If it does become a tropical storm, it will be the season's seventh and will be called Gerda. Heavy rains hit the Bahamas, and above-normal tides struck the east Florida coast.

Farmville Looks For Big Turnout

FARMVILLE — Farmville's Civil Defense officials today indicated a "large attendance" for Thursday's mass meeting of Farmvillians to hear discussions of nuclear fallout and community fallout plans.

The local Civil Defense leaders said Farmville area residence have shown "much interest" in the meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Col. David W. Spivey, area Civil Defense director, is scheduled to describe at the meeting the effects of radioactive fallout and the county's surprise attack preparedness with the Civil Defense programs on other area counties.

Local officials have outlined Thursday night's program "so the most ground can be covered in the least possible time." They have announced that the machinery for a local shelter-building program will go into motion at tomorrow's meetings.

Heading Farmville's Civil Defense organization and completing arrangements for the educational end organization meeting are W. C. Wooten, Mayor O. G. Spell, town clerk Harold M. Alfred and Vasser Fields.

Again today, local CD leaders urged Farmville area residents interested in learning more about nuclear fallout effects and an active community fallout shelter program to attend Thursday's gathering.

Dr. Best Appointed To Advisory Council Term

RALEIGH — Governor Sanford appointed Dr. Andrew A. Best of Greenville to a two-year term on the Advisory Council to Chery Hospital and O'Berry School.

The Greenville Negro physician was one of seven persons named to a two-year term on the council. Others were H. V. Brown of Goldsboro, H. S. Robinson of Chapel Hill, Dr. O. L. Sherrill of Raleigh, William Gavin of Goldsboro, Mrs. W. L. T. Miller of Greensboro and Dr. L. H. Robinson of Greensboro.

The governor's press secretary, Graham Jones, said Dr. Best "has been active in mental health groups and has been actively interested in children with special needs."

The Advisory Council to the two state mental institutions exists as a board of advisors to the State Hospitals Board of Control which holds supervisory authority over the state's system of hospitals and mental health institutions.

Dr. Best, the Old North State Medical Society's "Doctor of the Year" for the 1961, is a Kinston native who established his medical practice in Greenville in 1953.

Since his residence in Greenville, the physician has spearheaded an organization called the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship. The organization was an outgrowth of a program instituted by Dr. Best in Greenville and Pitt County Negro Schools aimed at raising the moral standards of the students.

France Will Expel Algerian Rioters

PARIS (AP)—The French government decided today to expel 1,500 Algerians swept up in Tuesday night's curfew rioting, and said this is only the start of a giant weeding-out process.

Three persons were killed and 77 injured seriously in bloody battling between police and the Moslem North Africans protesting a curfew imposed on them.

The dead were two Algerians and an unidentified European. Thirteen policemen were among the injured.

Riot squads arrested 11,538 Algerians from among about 20,000 who boiled out in the streets.

It was announced that 1,500 would be returned to Algeria within 48 hours. As identity checks continue, others are to be expelled.

The curfew, imposed to cut down on Algerian attacks on police and warfare between rival Algerian gangs, brought a call for the demonstration from the rebel FLN—National Liberation Front.

It was headed in proportions which showed a broad and insistent support of the rebel government in its seven-year fight to break French rule in Algeria.

The curfew calls for Algerians and for all bars catering to them to close by 7 p.m. The demonstrations underlined the massive solidarity of the tens of thousands of Algerians in the Paris region with the rebel government.

Algerian men, women and children poured from subway stations buildings and side streets in various quarters of the city.

Riot-tossed police split them up in club-swinging charges that beat many to the pavements.

Police packed big vans and city buses with those arrested. They were taken to substations for a check of identity papers.

Those who cannot show valid identification will be sent back to Algeria, a policy police began when fighting between opposing

$10,000 Bond Is Set For Two

Bond has been set at $10,000 each for Louis Hickman, 21 of Rt. 2 Box 47, Grimesland and Leon Hardee, 49 of Rt. 3, Washington who are charged with being an accessory before and after the fact of murder.

Magistrate Luther Moore, who set the bond, allowed no bond for Jack Baker of Rt. 2, Grimesland, charged with murder. All three remained in Pitt County Jail today.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the three received a preliminary hearing Monday afternoon and Magistrate Moore found probable cause. The cases will probably go before the Grand Jury during the Superior Court term beginning Oct. 30.

The charges resulted from the shot gun death of Frank Taylor, Jr., Jefferson Drive, Greenville. Taylor received the fatal injuries early Sunday morning at Ma's Place east of Grimesland. He died in Pitt Memorial Hospital emergency room.

Cornorer Withers Harvey ruled the death a homicide. He said Taylor died to death and that an artery had been severed in the upper chest region.

Completes Filling Of Trusteeships

Three appointments to East Carolina College's board of trustees by Gov. Terry Sanford yesterday completed the four terms on the 12-seat board which expired this year.

Sanford announced the appointment of William A. Blount, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co.; Fred F. Bahnsen Jr., president of Southern Steel Stamping Co. of Winston-Salem and Reginald F. McCoy, executive vice president of John F. McNair, Inc. of Laurinburg.

Earlier he had named Mrs. Russell Kirby of Wilson to the board. All will serve eight year terms.

The new appointees replaced: Mrs. William Umstead of Durham, Fred Willetts of Wilmington.

Lyndon Johnson Visits Rayburn

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson spent an hour with Sam Rayburn Tuesday and later told newsmen that "it was sad to see him so sick."

The veteran House speaker, who has been at Baylor Hospital since Oct. 2, is suffering from incurable cancer.

Medical bulletins Tuesday said Rayburn, 79, was resting comfortably but that his condition remained serious.

Khrushchev Outlines Program Intended Make Soviet Supreme In Twenty Years

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress today that the downfall of imperialism and the triumph of socialism on a world scale are inevitable.

The Soviet premier took the rostrum at the second session of the congress to discuss the massive new party program—its first since 1919 — which the Kremlin claims will make communism supreme and irresistibly attractive to the rest of the world by 1980.

Khrushchev told the more than 4,000 delegates in the new Kremlin Palace of Congresses that the experience of a large group of countries had confirmed that the socialist system inevitably replaces the capitalist system.

Imperialism — the standard Communist term for Western capitalism—has irretrievably lost its hold on the bulk of the world's peoples, he declared, asserting that socialism is the main avenue along which mankind advances.

In the Soviet Union, he continued, socialism has been translated into reality and this 22nd party congress will go down in history as the congress of the builders of communism.

The premier said the Soviet people's living conditions have been radically altered as a result of these "colossal transformations"—that unemployment had been wiped out long ago, workers' real wages have risen 480 per cent, and the real incomes of the peasants have risen more than 500 per cent.

Khrushchev listed what he called three historical factors of the 20th century.

"The formation of the world socialist system is the principal result of the progressive development of society in our epoch," he declared.

"The crumbling of the colonial system is the second in historical significance among the results of world development.

"The third result of world development is an acute all-around weakening of capitalism and a fresh sharpening of its general crisis."

The party program before the congress was published July 30, and many Westerners immediately called it a pie-in-the-sky scheme.

With a target date of 1980, it calls for free rent, medical care, education, utilities, local transportation and factory lunches by then.

It also pledges to overtake the United States in per capita production, to maintain peaceful co-existence between socialist and capitalist states, to support independence movements throughout the world, and to keep Soviet military forces at top efficiency.

"American capitalism has passed its prime and is declining," Khrushchev declared, asserting that the "American financial oligarchy" does not have the strength or the means to implement its claims "to the role of savior of capitalism and its claims to world dominatin."

The premier said two intertwining trends are operating in the "imperialist camp": A trend toward joining all forces against socialism, and a trend toward mounting rivalry "between the imperialist powers and the other countries of the capitalist world."

"The United States has not succeeded and will not succeed in overcoming the latter trend," Khrushchev asserted.

He charged that imperialism is compelling mankind to spend at least $100 billion annually for military purposes.

If only 20 per cent of that sum were spent annually on helping the underdeveloped countries, he continued, power stations could be built to produce 230 million kilowatts, steel works could be built to produce 185 million tons a year, 247 million acres could be irrigated, and many other big things could be done to improve the lives of the peoples.

"All this demonstrates once again how urgent the struggle for disarmament is to all the peoples," Khrushchev said.

Turning to the new party program, Khrushchev said it was a concrete, scientifically motivated program for the building of communism, marking a new stage in the development of the revolutionary theory of Marx, Engels and Lenin.

He boasted that communism no longer has to contend with capitalist encirclement but rather is being built "under the conditions created by the existence of a world socialist system, the increasing supremacy of the socialist forces over those of imperialism, of the forces of peace over those of war."

Within 20 years, Khrushchev asserted, "a Communist society will be in the main built in the U.S.S.R."

"Once the Soviet Union will have become the first industrial power," he continued, "once the socialist system will have fully become the decisive factor of world development and once the peace forces the world over will have grown still greater, the scales will tilt once and for all in favor of the forces of peace and the barometer of international wealth will show: 'Clear. The menace of world war is gone never to return.'"

He outlined these goals he said the program would achieve for the Soviet Union in the next 20 years: Industrial production nearly twice as great as the present production of the entire non-socialist world; a living standard higher than in any capitalist country; the world's shortest working day; disappearance of low-paid industrial and office workers by 1970; full maintenance of all disabled persons at public expense; rent-free modern housing and free basic communal services for every family.

At the same time, Khrushchev declared, Soviet defenses will be maintained at a level adequate to "crush any aggressor who dares to draw the sword against the Soviet Union and the socialist world as a whole."

John Bede Student From Pakistan AAUW Speaker

The Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women met Monday at 6 o'clock in the Alumni Building on East Carolina College campus. The hostess committee, composed of Dr. Gertrude Soderberg, chairman, assisted by Dr. Ruth Modlin, Miss Lela Brown Stancil, Mrs. LeRoy Ross, and Mrs. Helen Synder served individual pumpkin pies and coffee from an appointed table.

Mrs. Johnson BPW Speaker

The International Relations Committee presented the program at the October meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Dr. Bessie McNeil, chairman, introduced Mrs. Lucille Rice Johnson who showed slides and spoke of her experiences in Laos where she and her husband worked under the auspices of the International Cooperation Association. This was of particular interest to the club members since Mrs. Johnson is a former member of the Greenville Club.

In giving a report for her committee, Dr. McNeil announced plans for United Nations Week and told of the progress of the nurses' project in Formosa, the national project for the International Relations Committee.

A report was given on the dedication of the state headquarters building in Chapel Hill by Mrs. Polly Dail, and Mrs. Virginia Spencer reported on the recent district meeting.

It was decided to bring patterns, needles, and buttons to the next meeting to be sent to a home agent in South America to help her with her work. This request was made by the district director.

Announcement was made that the imminent threat of Communism, the status of women, and drew many comparisons between Pakistan and the United States. At the conclusion of his talk he answered questions posed by his audience.

Dr. Kathleen Dunlop presided over a business meeting. She announced that the children's play, Robin Hood would be given on October 20, and on subsequent dates throughout the county. A committee composed of Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Katherine White, Miss Louise Williams, Miss Lois Grigsby, Mrs. Hugh Patterson, and Mrs. A. C. Bowen was appointed to assist at the Friday performances at McGinnis Auditorium.

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback spoke on the necessity of voting at the Bond issue election which is to be held on Nov. 7 and distributed literature explaining how the money to be voted on is to be used.

Delegates to the state convention to be held Oct. 20 and 21 at Eon College were named. They are Dr. Dunlop, Dr. Utterback, Miss Elizabeth Walker (representing the college); Mrs. Robert Fumber, and Mrs. Sprull Spain.

Book Reviewed At Clio Club

Mrs. Helen White Hawes was hostess to the Clio Book Club on Tuesday afternoon at her home. Guests for this occasion were Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. John Winstead, Mrs. J. L. Perkins, Mrs. Jack Spain and Mrs. J. V. Thomas.

After a short business session, Mrs. Hawes presented Mrs. W. S. Bost, club member, who gave the program. Mrs. Bost reviewed the book "That Certain Something" by Arlene Francis. In summation the speaker said that the author avers that each and every individual has charm, but the difficulty lies in allowing it to emerge out of our tensions and frustrations.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess and her daughters, Miss Helen White Hawes and Mrs. William H. Collier, served a salad course with coffee and sweets.

Books were exchanged and the club adjourned.

Bare Shoulder Styles Shown At Spring Market

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Cavemen started the style of leaving one shoulder bare. Jacqueline Kennedy okayed it by including a one-shoulder dinner gown in her state wardrobe.

Designer Rudi Gernreich made a good thing of it last year with his Tarzan-like bathing suits for women. Now he has designed an entire wardrobe for one-armed lady paperhangers and others who like one cold shoulder.

Suits, daytime dresses, cocktail dresses—with one sleeve cut short or off entirely and the other reaching the wrist—were introduced Monday to buyers here for the spring fashion market.

Because around the world was the California designers' theme, Oriental and Negro models joined the garment district regulars to pace the runway in gold Paisley print denim jacket suits; sundresses in such shocking color combinations as pink and brass; and flame red, skintight knit sailor suits designed to make Uncle Sam's boatboys blush the same hue.

Nevertheless, Gernreich also got plenty of inspiration from around the house. He borrowed red and blue checked table cloths for crisply tailored suits, sheath dresses, and lounge pants. Possibly from bed-spreads came his inspiration for trapeze dresses decked with two and three-foot tiers of polka-dot ruffles.

For the first time Gernreich introduced bikini bathing suits for men. Otherwise sure to attract attention from the Legion of Decency, these are quickly covered with surf length boxers or leg-covering skin diver suits reminiscent of the Gay Nineties.

Designer Vera Maxwell continued her war against beaded dresses, wispy chiffons, and "those awful minis" for middle-aged women. Her weapons are elegant, simple, wool and raw silk covered-up-everywhere dinner gowns.

Miss Maxwell does not vary much from her classic themes of last year or the year before. Coat and dress combinations, skirts with long, slightly flaring jackets, and the popular sleeveless, slightly blousing dresses all are interpreted in dignity with salad bowl greens, brilliant blues and vibrant reds.

Earlier in the day designer Herb Sondheim opened the spring buying season with a collection of figure-pleasing, ultrafeminine costumes. The collarless, sleeveless so-called "nothing" dress was in evidence, complimented by voluminous stoles, short and long jackets and form-fitting coats that also double as dresses.

Rouse Portrait Unveiled In Tuesday Farmville Ceremonies

FARMVILLE—Ceremonies here Tuesday saw presentation of the portrait of the late George Alexander Rouse, leading Farmville citizen for many years, to the organization he served for 36 years before his retirement.

Presented to the Security Savings and Loan Association, formerly the Farmville Savings and Loan Association, was a portrait by Mrs. Hallie Siddell of Raleigh, Mrs. Eva Horton Rouse, Rouse's widow, was the donor of the portrait.

H. Horton Rountree of Garner, assistant attorney general, opened the ceremonies with a summary of Rouse's biography. Also participating in the ceremony were the grandchildren of the late executive, Dail Dixon, Teresa Alexandra and Richard D. Harris Jr., who unveiled the portrait; John B. Lewis, attorney for the association, who accepted the portrait; Board member T. S. Ryan who presided; Rev. John T. Broome, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, who presented the invocation and benediction; and former Farmville Mayor Charles S. Edwards, who concluded the ceremony by reading Edgar Guest's poem, "A House by the Side of the Road."

Paying tribute to Rouse were J. B. Hockaday, publisher and business partner; Dr. P. E. Jones, Farmville dentist and former state legislator; and Dr. J. M. Mewborn, Farmville physician.

Board members and officials, in addition to Ryan, are J. O. Poliard, W. A. McAdams, Mrs. Ruth C. Gibbs, Dan R. Morgan, Manly Liles, Ed Nash Warren and A. W. Bobbitt.

Rountree, following his address, introduced Mrs. Siddell.

In his remarks, Rountree said of the late Farmville leader: "Friends and business associates of George Alexander Rouse have recounted here tonight the story of a long and eventful life; testified as to his vision and accomplishments and paid tribute to his perseverance, integrity and record to service to God and his fellow man."

Rountree said Mrs. Rouse, in offering the portrait as a gift to the association, "stated that she wished to do this in recognition of the dedicated service her husband had rendered to the association and to the contribution he made through the organization to the growth, stability and progress of Farmville."

Confer Highest Degree On 365

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction, has conferred its honorary 33rd degree on 365 Masons.

James Knight Davis, Wilmington; Joseph Daniel De Nardo, Asheville; Charles Ronald Gray, Robersonville; Colvin Eldridge Ingle, Asheville; George Roy Leifer, Charlotte; Richard Vincent McBryde, Fayetteville; Edward Oliver Rider, Greensboro; Louis Willner Shrier, Wilmington; James Oliver Thornton, Greensboro; Frederick Harding Tretthewey, Charlotte.

PITT SCHOOLS TURN OVER PLEDGES—Arthur Alford, assistant superintendent for Pitt County Schools, turns over to Joseph Moye the 279 pledges that Pitt teachers have made to the United Fund. These teachers pledged a total of $3,795.18. This partial report represents 59 percent of the county school teachers and additional pledges are expected this week. The pledges bring Pitt County United Fund total to $34,264. (Reflector Photo by Rosalie Moore)

Survey Exports To Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special House committee outlined plans today for a hard look at the rising volume of American goods being exported behind the Iron Curtain.

Rep. Paul A. Kitchin, D-N.C., chairman of the select group created by a House resolution, said that closed hearings are scheduled to start Oct. 25, with Secretary of State Dean Rusk as the first witness.

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, who has registered little enthusiasm for the inquiry will follow Rusk before the committee.

Kitchin said that officials lined up for testimony on Oct. 26 include John P. Duncan, assistant Secretary of Agriculture for foreign marketing, and Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

In line with Kitchin's view that "national security considerations" should guide the inquiry, the committee planned to begin its investigation by holding a closed-door policy discussion with Defense Department officials.

But Kitchin said that Pentagon officials will appear later in the closed-door phase of the hearings.

In December open sessions of the investigation will begin.

Kitchin told a reporter that the five-man committee wanted to "get, educated in the trade policies of the administration and, in turn educate the executive officials about the sense of Congress."

Kitchin said tobacco trade with Cuba was not a primary concern of the inquiry, but that direct and indirect trade relations with that country had to be taken into account because Cuba has become "the burr under the saddle of the Western Hemisphere."

Arthur Township Solicitation For UF Is Underway

Thomas (Sparky) McCaskill, chairman of Arthur Township for the Pitt County United Fund, announced today that members of his committee are now soliciting Arthur residents for the 1961-1962 Pitt County United Fund Campaign.

McCaskill urged the Arthur residents to give their full support to this campaign that meets the needs of seven Pitt County major agencies and Carolinas United. He pointed out that other townships were meeting their fair share quotas and he was confident that Arthur wanted to do its share in this drive that means so much to thousands of people throughout Pitt County.

Members of the Arthur committee are: Jarvis H. Allen, D. E. Baker, Kye M. Crawford, G. R. Gurganus, Rob Jones Jr. and Jack Tyson.

Pitt Supervisor Speaks At Meet

Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor of Pitt County schools, was guest speaker at the first meeting of the In-Service Training Program held last week at North Fountain Elementary School.

Mrs. Baker discussed practical methods to use in teaching spelling effectively in grades one through eight, toward the end of improving reading. She also stated that guide books should be used at all times, for they are essential to successful teaching. Booklets, pamphlets and other materials to aid in teaching were distributed by Mrs. Baker.

Committee reports also were given during the meeting.

NEW MEETING DATE

The Parent-Teacher Association of North Fountain Elementary School voted to change its meeting date to the fourth Sunday in each month at a meeting this month.

N.C. Tenor To Open ECC Series Tonight

When Walter Carringer, hailed as outstanding among America's young singers, appears at East Carolina College Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright Auditorium, it will be, as Paul Hume, the leading critic in the nation's capital, declared, "a bright evening for audience and critic."

The concert will be the first attraction of the 1961-1962 Entertainment Series on the campus.

Mr. Carringer, a tenor who grew up in Murphy, N. C., has already a remarkable record of important American premiere performances; appearances on nation-wide radio and television networks; and concerts in forty-seven states, Canada, and Europe.

With an enviable record as an oratorio singer and recitalist, he was selected as tenor soloist for the premier American performances of Handel's first and last oratorios. He also sang the New York premier of Lucas Foss' "A Parable of Death" in Town Hall, and the first American performance of the "Intimations of Immortality" by the distinguished composer Gerald Finzi.

Mr. Carringer was one of ten young artists from throughout America who in 1955 reached the final competition conducted bi-annually by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

In 1957 he won the auditions sponsored by National Artists Corporation to select the principals for New Faces in Music. This group toured nationally in the 1957-58 season under the auspices of Civic Music Association.

Mr. Carringer made his European recital debut in 1958 in London, and his New York recital debut in 1959. Critics were unanimous in declaring this "one of the most impressive debut recitals in New York in many years." Just prior to this he was among twelve young artists from throughout the world chosen to sing with the Experimental Opera Theatre of America under the auspices of the New Orleans Opera Company.

When he is not concertizing, Mr. Carringer fills the post of Music Director of the Halthcock School in Greenwich, Conn.

St. Luke's Day To Be Observed

Thursday is St. Luke's transferred Day in the Church Year. St. Paul's Episcopal Church will hold two services of Holy Communion commemorating the day. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7 and 10 o'clock a.m. by the Rev. John W. Drake Jr.

The 10 o'clock service will be a corporate communion for the Churchwomen. The Fall ingathering of the United Thank Offering will be presented. This action reflects the active gratitude for daily gifts given by God. The United Thank Offering is presented to the Church's Missionary Program each three years at the General Convention. At the Convention just concluded in Detroit the offering amounted to $4,339,190.18.

Tide Changing In War Of Nerves?

Has the war of nerves for the divided city of Berlin turned against the West? The question is being asked not only in this country, but throughout the world, and perhaps most frequently and most diligently by the people of West Berlin. The significant change in American policy toward Berlin and the German question in recent weeks has clearly raised doubts in the minds of people of West Berlin and perhaps West Germany as well as to the intention of the Western Allies to defend the Western half of the divided city and the divided nation.

It was only recently that the West asserted adamantly that the only course to follow in international affairs was one which eventually would reunite Germany into one nation rather than having it permanently split between East and West. This would likewise mean one Berlin which would again be the capital of the nation.

Recently, however, U.S. officials have impressed upon West German officials the importance of recognizing the de facto existence of the East German government and the fact that Germany is, in reality, now two nations rather than one. The talk of a united Berlin as the capital of the nation has been replaced by talk of a united Berlin as a cultural and university center as well as a bustling industrial city.

This change in American policy may reflect a more realistic appraisal of the situation which now exists in Germany than the old policy which held out for a united Germany with Berlin as the capital. At the same time, this new attitude on the part of the United States and its allies is bound to have had a decided effect upon the Germans of both the East and West sectors who have dreamed of the day when all Germany would be united again under one government. It is bound to have had an effect upon the outlook of the people of West Berlin who have looked

Goals Differ In Two Big Fairs

By LYNN NISBET

PAIRS — The number and quality of the exhibits, the number of people attending, and the exclamations of pleased surprise by most of them attest the success of both the Trade Fair in Charlotte and the State Fair in Raleigh.

No one could meander among the Trade Fair exhibits and not gain a new appreciation of the capacity of North Carolina industry to produce almost anything for comfortable modern living. Products were on display, but emphasis was on equipment and processes which brought these products from raw materials in their final completed state. Of necessity this appeal is to a restricted group—the men who want to buy finished products and also want to buy equipment to produce them.

A visit to the State Fair quickly shows the distinction between the two ideas. The State Fair has mass appeal—and the masses have been coming. The Charlotte event has no mass appeal except its designation as a fair. One weakness already discovered is that heavy attendance of the miscellaneous public at Charlotte has served to interfere to some degree with the prime objective of a merchandise display, and has occasioned disappointment on part of many visitors because the entertainment and "give-away" features were under emphasized.

While the Trade Fair displayed mainly machine and industrially process exhibits, the State Fair was showing quality items processed natural ways. Better live stock, better ears of corn, better cotton, better lumber, better flowers, and so on. A thing to remember is that at both Charlotte and Raleigh a major idea was to promote North Carolina beyond our state lines, but that at both places the major contribution has been showing our own people what this state can do.

NATIONAL — It doesn't take a lot of folks to represent a nationwide association. The U. S. 70 Highway Association staged its 1961 annual convention at Morehead City and Atlantic Beach this week. The highway runs from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific, from Cedar Island, N. C. to Los Angeles, Calif., nearly 3,000 miles. This meeting was scheduled within 40 miles of its eastern terminus.

The national meeting attracted only about three dozen people—but they came from Texas, New Mexico and points between there and here. That small group made up in interest and energy what it lacked in numbers. One of the items discussed was whether to designate this US-70 route as the "Lost Dutchman's Gold Route," to get some imaginative publicity.

US-70 has less significance as a cross-continent road than it has as the lineal descendant of the old N. C. 10, which for many years was called the "main street of North Carolina." The national association is interested in promoting travel along the route. Most North Carolinians are concerned about getting sections of the road, which may be integrated into the interstate system, completed to standard and ready for use, and uninterrupted passage from the coast to the mountains.

FLY-TRAPS — One of the exhibits in the State booth at the Charlotte Trade Fair last week was a pot of Venus fly-trap plants contributed by Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Elliott. Mrs. Elliott said she thought the State booth ought to have something distinctive and different. The fly-traps are that and they attracted as much attention as any exhibit in the building.

HAIL-CHILLED — Fred Patton, a public relations-advertising-showman from Santa Fe, New Mexico, brought some apples almost all the way across the continent for "give-away" at the US-70 Association meeting at Atlantic Beach. The boxes in which the apples were displayed were clearly marked "hail-chilled apples." Patton said he has displayed and given away a lot of apples in recent years under that label. Two or three times he had received mail order specifying hail chilled quality for the apples desired.

The gimmick in that deal is that "hail-chilled" is a trade term for hail-damaged, and means that every apple will have some bruise or blemish caused by hailstones.

forward to the day when their city would again be the capital of Germany.

Whether these new conclusions by the Western Allies will weaken the fiber of the morale of the West Germans to the extent that they will not be able to withstand the constant pressure and war of nerves being waged from the East remains to be seen. Whether it will be interpreted in Germany and in other parts of the world as a weakening of the cause of freedom and liberty is a moot question.

This new attitude on the part of the West may lead the way to an easing of international tension which has become the German crisis. But it might likewise lead to a new critical situation for the free world in which the sincerity of its leaders and their devotion to the causes they espouse is seriously questioned by those who have looked to them for protection from the creeping tide of communism.

Fortunate Indeed In Our Volunteer Rescuers

Fortunate indeed is the community which finds itself the beneficiary of outstanding volunteer services such as those rendered in this community by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad.

For the second consecutive year the Greenville Rescue Squad has distinguished itself by winning the state championship in first aid in competition with Rescue Squads from other parts of North Carolina. This year, in addition to winning the first aid competition, the Greenville Squad also took first place in the state rescue contest.

Members of the Rescue Squad are to be commended for these honors and for the recognition they have received state-wide. Of even greater significance, however, is the every day service which these volunteers provide for Greenville and its surrounding area. Hardly a day passes when this Rescue Squad is not called upon for emergency service somewhere in the county. Any hour of the day or night its members stand ready to answer a plea for help and during the course of a single year they put in countless hours of hard work in helping others. Their efforts over the years must be credited for saving many lives in this community which otherwise would have been lost.

The Daily Reflector commends the Greenville Rescue Squad for the new high honors it received at the fifth annual convention of the North Carolina Association of Rescue Squads held here this past weekend. At the same time we would express to the men who make up this important volunteer group our sincere appreciation for the outstanding service they render the people of this community day after day, year after year.

Contributor For New Dictionary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—I can see my high school English teachers getting the news now. "You mean to tell me," says the first one, "that Harold Boyle, that big-eared lazybones, always come to class in his tennis shoes, is quoted twice in the new unabridged dictionary?"

"I know it sounds impossible, but it's true," says the second. "This is the blackest day for literature since William Shakespeare died."

Many of my editorial coworkers couldn't believe it either when the massive, 2,720-page new dictionary arrived in our office.

But there in bright clear print—both on page 224 under "black-and-white" and on page 295 under "bum"—was the defining quote "black-and-white where a guy is either your pal or probably a bum." — Hal Boyle.

"How did this disaster happen to our beloved language?" asked a jealous conferee. "Oh," replied, "the editors decided to modernize the dictionary. So they threw out some of the explanatory phrases of a bunch of old mossback writers like J. Milton and Alex Pope, and replaced them with new quotes from 14,000 contemporary notables."

"What's a contemporary notable?" he inquired. "Well, according to the dictionary itself you're looking at one of them, Buster," I told him coldly.

Actually, I'm in a pretty classy crowd. Among the other "contemporary notables" are such renowned literary figures as Willie Mays, Ethel Merman, Ted Williams, Dinah Shore. They also managed to find room for quotes by Mickey Spillane, Winston Churchill, Douglas MacArthur, W. Somerset Maugham, and Ernest Hemingway.

The quote from Willie Mays is one of my favorites. Defining one meaning of "puff," it says, "Hit too many homers and people start puffing you up."

The new unabridged dictionary is the first new edition in 27 years, cost $43.5 million to prepare and has 450,000 entries, including 100,000 new terms.

"How does it feel to be quoted?"

In thinking of builders one naturally thinks of the great Greek Pericles, who was largely responsible for the glorious architecture of Athens. We think of such men in modern life as Carnegie and Ford. These are all quite valid examples of the capacity to create and build.

ed in the dictionary?" asked one of my coworkers.

"It doesn't really leave you much to live for, does it?" jeered a second.

But I'll tell you how it felt. To a boy who started throwing newspapers at the age of 10 and has loved words all his life, being quoted in the dictionary was like—well, it was like one who, lost in a wilderness, looks up and sees an airplane, and suddenly the airplane riles his name in giant letters against the eternal blue sky, and the letters hang there, fadeless and finer.

There's only one thing wrong. The dictionary costs $47.50. That's a lot of money—even for a "contemporary notable."

But the next time you drop into the public library, be sure and look me up. Page 224! Page 295!

Leathernecks Stayed On

The recruiting posters have hung in a metal frame in front of the post office for years. Most folks haven't paid much attention to the frame, however, for it has always been painted a drab color.

Now the frame attracts more attention than the posters. Seems someone has given it a coat of almost luminous bright orange paint.

There always has to be one in any given football season—a cold, rainy night, that is. East Carolina College got theirs for the year Saturday night in what turned out to be an ill fated game with West Carolina.

A goodly crowd, including several hundred marines on campus for Camp Lejeune Day, showed up for the kickoff at 8 o'clock. But, alas, that slow bone-chilling drizzle started about the same time.

First it beat on your face, then it dripped agonizingly down your collar and finally your teeth were chattering. Miserable is the way to describe such a night.

It wasn't long before the stands began to empty as it became obvious that the weather would remain that way. First on the reserved seat side, fans began to file out, then a few reluctant students gave up the ghost.

At half time more left. It appeared only the officials and football players would remain.

But the leathernecks lived up to their reputation. They stayed almost en masse, until the end of the game. What's more they cheered lustily until the end.

Your columnist knows. He could hear them on the radio, above the noise of the heater, that is.

That idea of constructing tremendous fallout shelters in the ravine along the eastern

Other Editors Saying Muscle Of Austerity

(The Columbia (S. C.) State)

All experience strongly suggests that Gen. Lewis B. Hershey is right when he said, as he did recently, that every country which "got to living pretty well" then faced a struggle to stay alive. Hence he believes in the austere life, one exposed to work and some of the hard facts of existence. It is a toughener of men.

The counsel comes from the director of Selective Service, a man who over the last 21 years has directed the drafting of no less than 13,000,000 young men into the Armed Forces of this country.

The general said nothing of the effect of "living pretty well" on the young American of today, but others have, and in critical terms. We struggle to improve the "standard of living" and then, with justification, complain of some of the by-products which actually lower it.

Raising the moral standards of living is not always conjoined to economic and cultural advance, but usually is believed to be. We have made those advances in this country, and in the process millions of men and women have built force and fortitude into their characters, only to see some of their progeny, the next generation, soften under the availability of the fruits of hard-earned progress.

The successful man who has, through his own experiences, learned the value of what Gen. Hershey calls the austere life, and who is able to temper the lives of his children through emphasis upon it, is the man who contributes to the strength of the succeeding generation.

Under today's devices and exposures man, no matter how strong, no matter how deeply imbued with the facts he has discovered and used successfully, faces difficulties his forebears were spared. It is often a stern task in these times to mix with inherited luxuries and conveniences a portion of disciplined and toughening "austerity" meaning work, a sense of prudence, a feeling of duty, an understanding of sacrifice.

Many heroic parents and other teachers nevertheless achieve it, even in the face of barriers their own parents and grandparents in less luxurious and tempting eras did not encounter. This is not entirely a moral problem for the country; it has its economic phase. The austere life must also be one of practical and reasonable thrift. Today's economy calls for spending. But the economy could adapt to that austerity which strengthens the character of the American.

boundary of the Shore Drive Redevelopment area is still in the works.

Civil Defense Director J. H. Rose approved of the idea at the last Redevelopment meeting. The stream which flows through the ravine would be ideal for removal of human wastes, he pointed out.

One problem brought up: Would the stream moving through the shelter bring radioactivity in? Probably not. It is covered a portion of the way and if this is not enough to eliminate the radioactivity additional shielding could be added.

Who would pay for it? Probably the city or private investors.

All-in-all it's quite an awesome idea and some day Greenville may boast of the nation's largest fall out shelter.

Opinions In Brief

"A silk purse, we're reminded, has indeed been made of a sow's ear—though the makers might have been richer today if they'd directed their efforts toward building a better mousetrap. For the truth of it is that the ladies never did seem to take to a sow's ear purses the way they've snapped up alligator shoes and squealed over pigskin gloves." — Winston-Salem Twin City Sentinel.

Accept Choice Of Evil

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"The Evening News" of Newburgh, N. Y., published the following comment by Rev. Ernest L. Howard, a Unitarian minister:

"There are some highly dangerous trends of thought behind certain slogans being bandied about in our country today. As an example take the motto, 'Better Dead than Red,' now beginning to crop up on bumper stickers. What kind of motivation could possibly lead to such a superficial and dangerous generalization? A martyr complex, irrational fear and hostility, ignorance regarding alternatives, emotionality, a basic nationalism; these are some of the possibilities that must be considered."

Mr. Howard might think of other slogans: "We cannot be half slave and half free." Or, "Give me liberty or give me death." Or, "I have but one life to give for my country."

Where these superficial and dangerous generalizations? Perhaps it would have been smarter for Nathan Hale to go to Canada with other Tories or for Patrick Henry to play it safe by saying nothing at all. We surely might assume that John Hancock and the other signers of the Declaration of Independence took a frightening risk when they signed that document, for which they declared:

"And for the support of this Declaration with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Was this rhetoric? Shall we attribute to Thomas Jefferson, who wrote those words, "martyr complex, irrational fear and hostility?"

Mr. Howard has raised many questions in his sermon, preached in a Unitarian church. He spoke of "ignorance regarding alternatives." The phrase fascinated me. Do not men have ideals for which they are willing to fight, even to die, or are we craven slaves to whom life itself is so valuable that to remain alive we are willing to accept every indecency and horror in life? What is the alternative to love, for instance? Would Mr. Howard say that men who, in many countries, have stood on the barricades and fought for human liberty, for the rights of man, had alternatives? What were they? Of course, they might have stayed at home to eat rabbit stew and drink a bottle of wine.

Mr. Howard spoke of "emotionalistic nationalism," by which we must assume that he means patriotism. It is possible for a man to have no emotions regarding his native land. To another, as meaningful as another. Such a man does not thrill at the sight of his national flag when he sees it after a sojourn in distant places nor does the national anthem mean more than a jingle that is usually badly sung and loudly played. Such a man does not understand the emotionalism of Walter Scott's poem:

"Breathes there the man, with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land! Whose heart hath never within him burn'd, As home his footsteps he hath turn'd, From wandering on a foreign strand! If such there breathe, go, mark him well; For him no minstrel raptures swell; High though his titles, proud his name, Boundless his wealth as wish can claim; Despite those titles, power, and pelf, The wretch, concentered all in self, Living, shall forfeit fair renown, And, doubly dying, shall go down To the vile dust, from whence he sprung, Unwept, unhonored and unsung."

The time has come to ask what is the alternative to nationalism, to patriotism. Howard's church is an American institution, founded as an expression of the right of the individual to worship God as he chooses, according to his own philosophy and precepts without interference by authority. It is a church which has played a great role in American history.

Eisenhower OKs Jet-Sale To Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower may have taken some of the steam out of the heated controversy that has rumbled over the U. S. sale of 130 surplus jet fighter planes to Communist Yugoslavia.

He declared Tuesday that the transaction was "in the best interests of the United States."

Eisenhower and the White House agreed that the former chief executive had not personally briefed President Kennedy on the plane deal. But the White House said military aides of the two had gone over the matter. There had been published reports that Eisenhower personally had given Kennedy information on the purchase agreement during the changeover of administrations.

The White House said the sale continues a program begun under former President Harry S. Truman and maintained under the Eisenhower administration. The jet deal itself was completed under the Kennedy administration.

However, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Tuesday called the deal fantastic and predicted that "when this matter is brought before Congress, the proceedings will be overwhelmingly repudiated."

The White House version of the sale's background and the statement issued by Eisenhower were in general agreement. Eisenhower put out the statement a short time after he had commented on the matter at a news conference.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the former president had left a list of things to be considered by the incoming administration and the jet sale was one of them.

"There were reasons advanced why the program should go forward, yes," Salinger said in reply to a question.

As outlined by Salinger, this is the chronology of the transaction: The Defense Department proposed the sale of the F86D sabre jets on Aug. 26, 1960; the State Department asked for clarifying information Oct. 25; the Defense Department supplied the information Dec. 14; the State Department approved the sale last Jan. 16—a few days before the Republican Eisenhower administration left office and the Democratic Kennedy administration took over.

Salinger said clearance by the Defense and State Departments was all the approval needed for the sale.

He added that President Kennedy could have stepped in and stopped the sale just as Eisenhower could have stopped the shipment of hundreds of planes given or sold to the Yugoslavs while he was in the White House.

Salinger said he knew Eisenhower wouldn't want to give any impression that this is the first time jet fighters have been given or sold to Yugoslavia.

The record shows, he said, that in the 1952-1957 period 405 planes were turned over to the Yugoslavs, of which 212 were jet fighters, 47 jet trainers, 126 propeller-driven fighters and 20 propeller-driven transports.

In 1958-1959, he said, the United States sold the Yugoslavs 78 F86E jet fighters and 70 T2V jet trainers. Thus by Salinger's tally the United States gave or sold 553 planes to the Belgrade government.

Salinger said Eisenhower had discussed this matter informally with President Kennedy. And it was not mentioned in formal briefings when he and I and several other members of our staff were present. Nor do I recall passing national security affairs, Brig. Gen. Andrew Goodpastor, had personally on any of the above gone over the matter with Kennedy's military aide, Maj. Gen. Chester V. Clifton.

"If there is a document evidencing my specific approval of this sale, I shall await its full release before commenting further."

Suggests Building Large Food Cache

WASHINGTON (AP)—A California scientist suggests the United States build up a national food cache so that food enough for two years would be available within easy walking distance of every American in the event of nuclear war.

Dr. Perry R. Stout of the University of California, speaking Tuesday to a component institute of the National Research Council, said a $15-billion emergency food supply should be widely distributed.

Stout said: "It will not be too much to follow the Biblical admonishment that the seven lean years will follow the good. As with the ancient Egyptians, let us take 20 per cent of each year's crop and store it—assuming we can get agricultural production up to such a level."

He added: "In this age of nuclear weapons, the United States is perhaps the most vulnerable of the large nations because of the dependence of her agricultural complex upon industrially supplied fertilizers, fuels and machinery."

"Consequently, in case of large-scale nuclear combat with primary targets being our concentrated industrial establishments, agriculture, even though highly dispersed, will become paralyzed immediately."

Adding that agriculture in the United States could not be restored until its industrial base was reestablished, he said food enough for two years should be cached for these reasons:

1. It would take a year to restore industry and transportation after a full-scale nuclear attack.
2. Another year would be required to allow new crops to come in and be harvested.

The agricultural scientist said a "two year survival kit" of food would require: supplies of animal protein; desiccated and compacted; carbohydrates and fats similarly treated; plus the vitamins necessary for adequate diets.

And, "as for our present surplus grains, they must be gotten out of the warehouses and converted to animal protein."

He said the resources of agricultural experiment stations and food preservation industries "must be called upon for all-out research programs to develop methods for keeping foods stored for indefinite periods in the future."

Council Form Of Govmt Voted By Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—A city council form of government, with seven councilmen to be elected at large was approved by voters here to replace the present 13 member board of aldermen.

The council system was approved Tuesday by a margin of 49 votes. Election officials said 2,275 ballots were cast, 1,162 for a council and 1,113 to retain the present board.

The referendum was the second one of its kind in six years. In 1955, voters, given the choice of four proposals, continued an alderman-city manager system. One lot was responsible for retaining the largest municipal governing board in the state for cities with over 25,000 population.

Under the new system, the city charter will be amended so that one councilman will represent each of the city's seven wards, but will be elected by plurality in the entire city. The city manager will be retained.

Nerves Affect Scholastic Skill

LONDON (AP) — Nervous children who bite their nails and suck their thumbs are poorer students than those without these habits.

That is the conclusion of a 15-year study of 5,000 children, published by Dr. James Douglas and Dr. David Mulligan in the October issue of the Royal Society of Medicine's proceedings.

The children have been carefully studied since birth by home visitors, parents, teachers and doctors, who kept records of nervous "symptoms."

The experts discovered that the more nervous children were more prone to be absent from school, had more trouble passing examinations, worked less and obeyed less.

Plans Changed By Road Project

ROANOKE Va., (AP) — Came the day for ground breaking for the new City Rescue Mission building, Howard Sigmon, president, wielded a shovel but his spading failed—the site was paved underneath the weeds. He tried again with a mechanical shovel and turned dirt.

At this point city manager Arthur Owens arrived and called a halt. He had just received a map from the highway department showing the lot would be taken for future Interstate Highway 81.

General Arrives In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, President Kennedy's special military adviser, arrived today to size up the Communist threat to South Viet Nam and expressed the Kennedy administration's "utmost confidence" in the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

A few hours after Taylor's arrival Diem proclaimed a state of emergency throughout the country in an apparent move to step up the fight against the Communist-led Viet Cong rebels.

The decree was signed last Sunday, but its announcement was apparently timed to coincide with Taylor's visit to determine whether it is necessary or advisable to send U. S. troops to assist Diem's forces.

The emergency decree suspended the application of all laws until further notice. The National Assembly was called into session and was expected to give Diem its usual solid support.

Taylor told newsmen his visit reflects Kennedy's concern over reports of stepped-up aggression against Viet Nam and that he would seek ways to assist the Diem government.

The general plans to tour mountain highlands near the Laotian border and the southern Mekong delta region, both rebel strongholds. Much of the concern that led to his mission centers around reports of heavy infiltrations of Viet Cong troops from North Viet Nam across the Laotian border.

Taylor's schedule has been announced only through Saturday, and there has been no indication of how long he may stay after that. He also is expected to visit Thailand, which fears Communist infiltration as the result of the growing Communist influence in Laos.

Berlin Garrison Is On Maneuvers

BERLIN (AP) — Nearly half West Berlin's 5,500-man U.S. garrison rolled out today for a three-day test of combat readiness.

Tanks rumbled through the streets at daybreak, followed by armored personnel carriers packed with steel-helmeted troops.

There was a cold fall wind under blue skies as the columns wheeled out of their barracks and headed for the Grunewald Forest, in the American sector southwest of the city proper, where the mock battles will be staged.

Berliners on their way to work waved to the Americans, who grinned and waved back, especially at the girls. An Army spokesman emphasized that the war games—dubbed Ever Ready II—were planned in July, well ahead of the Communist closure of the East Berlin border Aug. 13.

Approximately 3,000 men are taking part under the overall leadership of Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, the U.S. commander in Berlin.

The purpose of the major fall exercise is to practice attack and delay against an aggressor, to test the troops' ability to hold off an invading force until help can come from West Germany.

Taking part in the maneuvers are the 2nd and 3rd Battle Groups of the 6th U.S. Infantry Division, Col. John R. Deane Jr. commands the 2nd, Col. Wayne M. Winder the 3rd Battle Group. Since the Berlin wall went up Aug. 13 the U.S. garrison has been augmented by an additional ian theologian, who believed in total freedom of conscience, although he recognized that the state was to have some authority over the organized activities of churches. The Catechism of Rakau is an amazing document for its time or for any time because of its total recognition of freedom of conscience. Toleration was a fundamental principle with the Socinians. And in the United States, where they have always been called Unitarians, they practiced what they preached.

Unfortunately Mr. Howard goes beyond tolerance of virtuous alternatives; he proposes that evil (Marxism) be accepted as an alternative.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An odd finding on "Lou Gehrig's disease," a precaution about filling teeth of certain heart patients; and prospects for keeping GI's dryer from rain are subjects for focus on health.

TIP ON "ALS?"

From the faraway island of Guam has come a potential lead towards better understanding of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, the usually fatal muscle-wasting disease that killed Lou Gehrig, the immortal first baseman of the New York Yankees.

Among the natives of Guam, U.S. Public Health Service scientists have found an unusually high incidence of both "Gehrig's" disease and a newly-described neurological ailment called Parkinsonism-dementia complex.

Further, there's evidence of a close relationship between the two disorders. This suggests that some biological factor present in daily living of the natives—plus a possible genetic predisposition—may account for the relatively high rates.

Clarification of several features common to both maladies might help towards unveiling the causes of these ailments not only among the Guam natives but in other populations of the world, the scientists say.

DENTAL WARNING

All doctors and dentists have long known that dental extractions offer a prime means of admitting germs that can cause a disease called bacterial endo-carditis in people already suffering from rheumatic or congenital heart ailments. But this complication can be prevented by administering penicillin to such people before any teeth are pulled.

Now comes a team of Georgetown University heart specialists reporting that not only extractions but even the cleaning and filling of teeth by dentists may open a portal for B.E. bug, so they strongly urge dentists to give the penicillin prophylaxis to vulnerable heart patients. They also urge doctors and patients to make sure the dentist knows the patient already has a heart condition.

WATER-PROOF SOLDIERS
Researchers have come up with a new water-repellant and oil-repellant treatment for G.I. clothing, and the Army says it "promises" to keep soldiers dryer longer, yet maintain its moisture-proof properties throughout repeated washings.

The stuff added to the cloth consists of a mixture of ammonium and fluorocarbon chemicals.

ADDICT PREVENTERS
A new role for the tranquilizing drugs has appeared: helping reduce chances of narcotic drug addiction among patients who need narcotics to withstand unbearable pain. Some doctors have found that concurrent administration of a tranquilizer permits the use of smaller doses of narcotic pain-killers.

T.B. PREGNANCY
Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, apparently was on the right track when, centuries ago, he advised women with tuberculosis to marry and have children. His idea was that child-bearing might be good medicine for T.B.

Modern doctors, however, have oftentimes advised against children-bearing by such women. Recently, though, a University of Minnesota doctor, reporting on a 33-year study of 404 women with T.B. and their children, said there was no evidence "to indicate that pregnancy has either a beneficial or a deleterious effect on tuberculosis."

Longevity Level Continues High

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The average length of life in the United States reached an all-time high of 69.7 years in 1959 and appeared to maintain that level in 1960, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This figure represents a gain of about one-third of a year over that for 1958.

Based on mortality figures for the general population in 1959, persons who were 22 years old had a life expectancy of an additional half century; at age 40, one-third of a century; and at age 50, a quarter of a century. Those who had attained the age of 69 could expect to live an average of 11.7 years more, the statisticians said. White women in 1959 had an expectation of life at birth of 73.9 years, and nonwhite females could expect to live 66.2 years. The life expectancy for males was notably lower: 67.3 years for white and 60.9 years for nonwhites. The advantage for women over men, therefore, was 6.6 years for white females and 5.3 years for nonwhite females.

The gain in average lifetime in recent years has been relatively smaller than in prior decades. From 1949 to 1959 the average length of life rose by 1.7 years, whereas it increased 4.3 years in the period 1939-49 and 6.6 years between 1929 and 1939.

Earlier improvements resulted largely from the control of the infectious diseases. The slower gains in recent years are associated with the widespread outbreaks of respiratory disease and with the dominance of the chronic and degenerative diseases in the mortality picture.

Reuther Says He Is Trying To Avoid Chrysler Strike

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Walter P. Reuther indicates he is trying to wind up labor contract negotiations in the auto industry without striking the little brother in the Big Three automotive family—Chrysler Corp.

The United Auto Workers president soft-pedaled strike talk Tuesday when he personally took command of the final round of bargaining with Chrysler.

Reuther disclosed a new bargaining strategy designed to avoid at Chrysler the strikes over local issues that shut down General Motors Corp. for two weeks and Ford Motor Co. for 13 days.

Chrysler and the UAW agreed, Reuther said, to give priority to reaching agreements on working conditions at both the national and local levels.

In negotiations with GM and Ford, agreements first were made on a national economic contract covering wages and extra benefits. But local unions insisted on striking to back up their demands on noneconomic matters.

Reuther said wages and benefits will be taken up last at Chrysler. But he said the UAW will insist that Chrysler accept the wage and benefit pattern established in settlements the union now has with GM, Ford and American Motors Corp.

This gives UAW members an annual wage increase of 2½ per cent or 6 cents an hour, whichever is larger, and a cost-of-living wage increase tied to the government's consumer price index.

The GM, Ford and AMC settlements provide fully company-paid hospital-medical care insurance, higher pension levels and expanded supplemental unemployment compensation benefits. The AMC contract has a profit-sharing plan, but the union is not insisting that other companies follow suit on this.

Reuther was asked by reporters if he expected any difficulty in getting Chrysler to go along with GM, Ford and AMC on wages and benefits.

"I assume Chrysler knows how late the hour is and that three competitors have made a settlement," Reuther replied. "We do not intend to have Chrysler workers become second-class economic citizens. Chrysler is obligated to meet the basic economic pattern."

Chrysler, harassed by managerial problems earlier this year, now has a new top-level management trying to get the company on a money-making basis. Chrysler had a net loss of $15.7 million in the first six months this year and is expected to show a loss in its third quarter report.

Reuther said: "We don't intend to have Chrysler workers subsidize the corporation by accepting substandard conditions. When Chrysler buys a ton of steel, it doesn't get a discount because the company has problems."

In efforts to expedite negotiations, the bargaining committees split up into subcommittees to study noneconomic problems before reconvening in full session at 2 p.m. today.

The UAW represents 53,000 production workers and 7,000 salaried employees at Chrysler.

Moonlighting Is Not Robbing Others Of Jobs: Labor Dept.

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Workers holding down several jobs are not robbing fellow jobholders of a chance to earn a living, the Labor Department suggested today.

It made public a new survey on the prevalence and characteristics of dual jobholding—or moonlighting as it is commonly called.

Over three million persons, or 4.6 per cent of all those employed in the country held more than one job when the survey was taken in December, 1960. This means nearly one out of 20 held second jobs.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said, however, that the number and proportion of dual jobholders has not been increasing in recent years. Also, it was found for the first time, he said, that moonlighting is a misnomer.

More of the dual jobholders, contrary to popular belief, work on their extra jobs during daylight hours rather than at night.

Only 34 per cent of the dual jobholders were reported as working mostly at night on their extra job; 42 per cent worked mostly during weekday working hours; and 24 per cent primarily on weekends.

Goldberg had some comments on the agitation from jobless workers during periods of heavy unemployment of "there oughta be a law" banning anyone from holding more than a single job.

"The results of this survey give little support," the secretary said, "to the notion that the unemployment problem could be solved by prohibiting extra jobholding."

"The hours worked on the second jobs are usually very short, and a great many of these jobs—for example those in farming and the professions—would be unsuited to the unemployed or of little interest to them."

Only about 180,000 of the three million dual jobholders worked full time on both jobs. Typically, the total hours worked by the multiple jobholder added up to 50 on both jobs, with 11 hours devoted to the extra job.

Some examples of extra job-holding: The factory worker with a side job working evenings in a drug store, a postal clerk devoting off hours as a gas station attendant, and the office secretary doing weekend clerking in a department store.

About 850,000 of the extra jobholders had extra jobs operating their own farm or business. These are positions, the Labor Department said, that unemployed could not reasonably be expected to fill.

All in all, it was estimated that some 1.2 million of the 3 million side jobs wouldn't be suitable for unemployed for one reason or another.

Understandably, because of their family responsibilities, three-fourths of all multiple jobholders were found to be married men. Only two per cent of women workers held extra jobs.

Finally, although unemployment has been heavy among factory workers, only four per cent of them are multiple jobholders, and the extra jobs were generally outside the factories.

Will Not Endorse A Weak UN

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Gov. Donald G. Nutter said Tuesday that until the United Nations becomes "something other than a forum for the enemies of this country," he will not proclaim U.N. Day on the ground "this would constitute an endorsement of the present activities of the U.N."

The wartime bomber pilot told a news conference the United Nations has turned into a debating society, particularly since the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Some examples of extra job-

Home Is A Very Dangerous Place

NEW YORK — What's the most dangerous place on earth? A battlefield or a construction job?

No, say the experts. It's your own home.

Official statistics show that nearly as many lives are lost each year in home accidents as were lost in battle during the entire three-year Korean conflict.

According to the National Safety Council, 9,400,000 persons suffered disabling injuries in the United States due to accidents at home, public places and highways during 1960. More than 4,000,000 were injured in their own homes, while less than 2,000,000 were hurt at work.

Since the moment you started reading this story, for example, two Americans were injured in home accidents, and before you finish it another eight persons will follow them. One person is injured at home every 8 seconds.

Even chemical industry workers, who handle potentially harmful substances, are safer at work than at home.

Stanley F. Spence, director of a safety and loss-prevention at American Cyanamid Company, says that in 1960, a total of 63 on-the-job injuries and one fatality were recorded among 25,000 employees. At the same time, there were 376 off-the-job injuries and six fatalities.

Almost half of the off-the-job accidents occurred at the employees' home, Spence said, and were primarily due to falls and slips.

Defense Buildup Hitting Pro Athletes

Check Reveals Nearly A Score Already, More Still To Come

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer Football stars Paul Hornung and Ray Nitschke, both of the powerful Green Bay Packers, and baseball player George Thomas have been added to the growing list of professional athletes recalled to active duty in the Defense Department build-up.

The over-all list, a check revealed today, now totals nearly a score, and indications are many more are still to come. None of the call-ups, however, hit with the force of the announcement Tuesday that the Packers, defending Western Division champions of the National Football League, probably will be without halfback Hornung and linebacker Nitschke for the second half of the season. Their loss could cost the Packers of Vince Lombardi a chance to repeat as Western champion. Green Bay shares first place now with San Francisco.

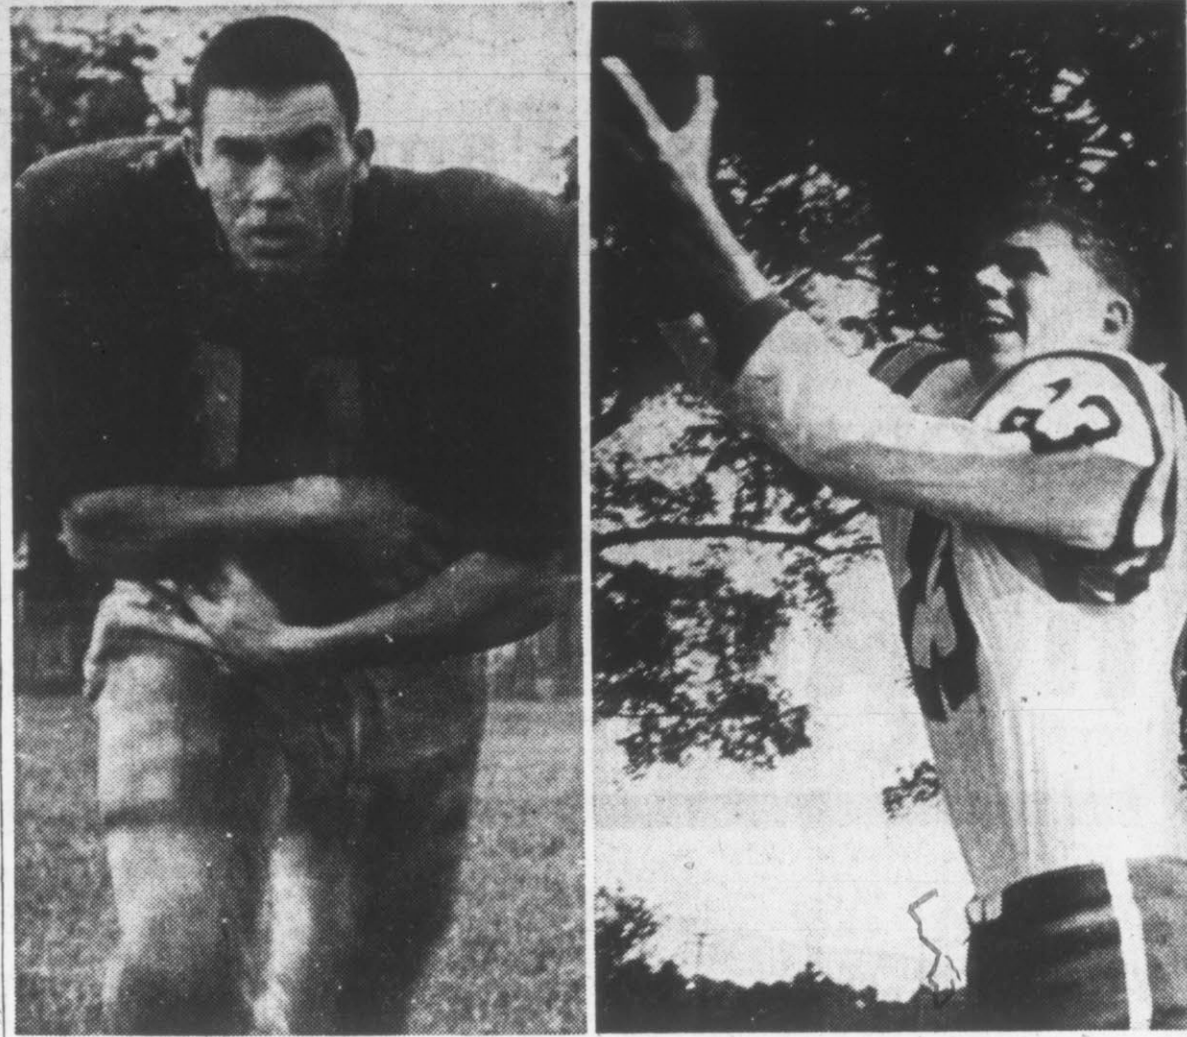

land Browns' halfback Bobby Mitchell, another former Illinois player, was recalled to active duty Monday, effective Nov. 2. In addition to Hornung, Nitschke and Mitchell, NFL players affected by call-ups so far include tackle Dick Schafrath of the Cleveland Browns, defensive tackle Lou Cordileone and guard Mike

Scouting Report Given To Pirate Club By Gero

The East Carolina Pirates Club heard Assistant Coach Sal Gero's scouting report on Newberry last night and all indications were that the newcomer to the Carolinas Conference could make things tough on the Pirates as they seek a comeback from Saturday's loss to Western Carolina.

Gero noted that the Newberry squad has an outstanding quarterback, Tom Gorman, who could make it hard on the Bucs. They also have two excellent fullbacks and an outstanding halfback to help round out a strong backfield. "Like Western Carolina, the Newberry club is fast and scrappy," Gero said. He pointed out that their two losses so far this season have been due to having some key men on the injured list. However, they should be in good physical shape this week. The losses have been in the last two games against Carson-Newman and Wofford, both non-conference contests. As far as the conference is concerned, Newberry is undefeated.

Coach Jack Boone told the club that the Pirates came out of the Western Carolina game in good physical shape. "Our defense was as good as it has been all year. The kick and the fumble cost us the game with the Catamounts," the coach added. Boone also stated that the team's spirits are very high this week and they are working hard for a comeback.

PIRATE FRESHMEN Dinky Mills (left) of Ayden and Layne Jorgensen (right) of Greenville will be among those playing in the Purple and Gold game Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the ECC Stadium. All proceeds will go to the new James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium building fund.

Frosh Benefit Game

The East Carolina freshmen football players have been divided into two squads for a Purple and Gold game Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the College Stadium. All proceeds of the contest will go for the benefit of the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium. The event, being sponsored by the East Carolina Varsity Club, promises to be an exciting one with some of the most outstanding 1960 high school football stars in Eastern North Carolina and from other states taking part in the event.

Local boys participating in the event include Layne Jorgensen, one of Coach Bud Phillip's boys from last year's Phantom squad. Pirate Coach Jack Boone says Jorgensen will play end and is turning out to be a fine pass receiver. From the 1960 Coastal Conference Champion team in Ayden, will be Dinky Mills, an outstanding halfback who is one of the more promising men on the Pirate Frosh roster this season. Another Pitt County boy who Boone feels is one of the most outstanding players is Mitchell Cannon of Farmville. Cannon was a Red Devil star last season under Coach Elbert Moyer.

Other boys who will see action Thursday night are Bill Kline of Valdese and Bill Bailey of Tarboro. Both of these boys played in the East-West All-Star Bowl game last December. A boy who Boone describes as one of the best linemen in the area last season is Ted Day of Washington. Day was All-State last season for the Pam Pack. Also seeing action tomorrow night will be four players who helped Coach Horace Billings of Edenton come through two undefeated seasons on the gridiron. They are Larry Hopkins, Leroy Spivey, James White and Jerry Tolley.

From out-of-state are four outstanding boys who should be real assets to the Pirate clubs of the future. From Virginia are Henry Cooper of Norfolk and Claud Britt of Cradock. Both were fine high school ball players and according to the Pirate coaching staff are coming along well in college. The other two out-of-state players are Dan Cogan of Berwyn-Wayne, Pa., and Ralph Edwards of Valdosta, Ga.

Phantom Homecoming Friday

This Friday will be homecoming for the local Rose High Phantoms with one of the most important games of the year taking place in the college stadium at 8 p.m. A conference championship could very well hang on this one, as the opponent is the New Bern Bears, the only undefeated team in the Northeastern Conference. The powerful Bears run the single wing with an unbalanced line and could give the Phantoms a great deal of trouble. Of course, we hope they don't, and according to practice reports this week, the Phants are going to be ready for them.

Coach Bill Kluttz of New Bern said he expects to get beat when the two clubs meet Friday, but we feel this is another one of the crying towel situations and that the Bears will be loaded and ready to go by game time. In addition to bringing the team to Greenville, the New Bern club is packing up its band and drill team to make the trip and help pull the Bears through. Kluttz also stated that the team has had an excellent following so far this season and they will probably have anywhere from 500 to 1,000 fans cheering the club in the College Stadium.

With a turnout like this for the visiting team, the Greenville fans will have to be out in full force if they want the best results possible. The team will be up for the game and the town will have to do its part too. The local coaching staff, of course, wants to win this one and so do the boys, but secondly, they want to see a large turnout.

Wolfpack Plays First Home Game After 10 On The Road

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS It will be an unofficial homecoming day for North Carolina State Saturday when Coach Earle Edwards' battered Wolfpack plays at home after 10 consecutive games away.

State will meet Atlantic Coast Conference rival Wake Forest for Wolfpack manpower at a premium after last week's 27-7 loss to Alabama.

"Alabama was our best game of the season," Edwards said. "But we don't seem to be able to shake loose from injuries. It looks like one of those things that comes in streaks."

"We haven't had what we figured as our first 11 players together for any game this season." First string guard Graham Singleton and defensive end Don Montgomery were the latest of Edwards' casualties. They were both lost for the season at Alabama—Montgomery with a broken leg and Singleton with a dislocated elbow.

Wake Forest, which upset Clemson 17-13 last week after three straight losses, won renewed respect from ACC coaches, especially Edwards.

"For a while nobody thought too much about Wake Forest," said Edwards. "Now that has changed. That's what makes football interesting."

Wake Coach Billy Hildebrand had his players concentrating on pass defense Tuesday to prepare for State's passing attack directed by quarterback Roman Gabriel.

Clemson worked to prepare for Saturday's game with Duke. Rejoice ran Blue Devils offensive plays against the first three units.

At Duke, the Blue Devils stressed ground and passing plays geared mainly to correct offensive errors made in last week's 21-0 loss to Georgia Tech. Duke gained only 67 yards offensively in that game.

South Carolina worked on perfecting an offensive spread formation to use in Saturday's game with North Carolina.

Coach Jim Hickey, whose Tar Heels upset Maryland 14-8 last week, said Tuesday, "The main thing I'm concerned with now is whether we'll play the same way this week. We can't sit back and think about the Maryland victory."

Virginia concentrated on defense against Virginia Tech, Saturday's opponent. At Maryland, Coach Tom Nugent said quarterback Dick Novak will be the only player in the backfield he planned to use against the Air Force Saturday. Fullback Bob Burton and halfbacks Dennis Condie and Jim Davidson all will be sidelined with injuries.

Virginia Tech Improving And Spirits Are High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS One of these crisp autumn Saturdays, Virginia Tech is going to win a football game—win it big. And when that day comes, there'll be a new and dangerous challenger for the Southern Conference championship.

The record won't show it, for Tech has lost two in a row since opening Sept. 16 with a 20-6 victory over William and Mary, but under the patient tutelage of Jerry Claiborne, the Techmen are coming on.

"We're improving right along, and the spirit is fine," says Claiborne, who inherited the job of rebuilding the middle of the Tech line when he became coach this year.

Though its 1-1 Southern Conference mark is not overly handsome, Tech still could challenge for the title this year—provided the current front runners — The Citadel (3-1) and Furman (2-1)—stumble along the way.

In practice Tuesday, the Techmen held 11 minutes of scrimmages with some players hobbled by minor injuries.

Richmond emphasized pass defense and held a live punting session against rushing tactics employed by this week's opponent, Florida State.

William and Mary's varsity looked at George Washington plays as run by the freshmen and third unit.

At George Washington, Coach Jim Camp demoted all-Southern end Andy Guida to the second unit and replaced him with Ed Dunkel, a sophomore who just returned to practice after missing two weeks with injuries.

Davidson set its defenses against the passes VMI is expected to toss at the Wildcats Saturday with Alex Gibbs and Joe Jones the standouts.

Halfbacks Tommy Edwards, out with a broken ankle since the season opener, and Early Eastburn, who's had a bruised foot, returned to work at The Citadel, where the Cadets held a rough, aggressive practice for Furman. For its part, Furman held stiff defensive drills against Citadel offenses. Bill Canty got off several passes to end Tim Walter in passing drills.

Sixteen Survivors In 2nd Round Of Tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Sixteen survivors of one of the tightest opening rounds in its 10-year history were on hand today for the second round of the North and South Senior golf tournament. Medalist Egon Quittner of Rydal, Pa., won one of the many squeakers. He parred the final hole with a 10-foot putt to edge James Kirkpatrick of Manchester, Conn., 1 up. The victory qualified Quittner for a second round match against Frank Ross, tourney-tough campaigner from West Hartford, Conn. Only one of the 16 first day matches ended before the 16th green. Two went 19 holes, five to the 18th and in the lower half of the draw seven of the eight matches went at least 17 holes. J. Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., runnerup last year and a former champion, met Frank English of Pompano Beach, Fla. in today's second match.

The balance of the pairings in the upper bracket: Dr. John Mercer, Fitchburg, Mass., vs. Martin McCarthy, Chevy Chase, Md.; Bradford O'Nard, Providence, R.I., vs. John Jacobs, Canton, Ohio.

Industrial Output Dip Isn't Whole Economic Picture

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Total industrial output has slipped a bit from its August peak.
But before you jump to the conclusion it's been a short recovery from the recession that bottomed out in February and March, remember: Most other segments of the economy have retained a reassuringly healthy glow.

And even in the industrial sector, the major setback can be traced to shutdowns in General Motors plants in September and in Ford plants this month, and to crippling of oil and chemical production by Hurricane Carla.
Also, latest reports show October sales of new cars picking up vigor. The auto industry hopes this means that production lost by labor troubles can be regained in coming weeks—and justified by good retail sales.

The output of most consumer goods, other than autos, gained during September. So did the production of many industrial materials, other than auto parts and oil hurt by labor troubles or weather mishaps.
The big question still is consumer buying, rather than industrial output, which in the long run is largely tailored to the former. And spending holds high for most services and many consumer goods.
Retailers count on the Christmas spirit to pep up this spending in coming weeks. They also hope that the uncertainties bred of the recession will fade in consumer minds, and that the Berlin crisis will ease and with it purse-tightening cautions.
Many economists think the public is likely to attach too much importance to the lasting effects

Guilford College To Enroll Negro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—A Negro will be enrolled as a regular student at Guilford College for the first time next January. Others will be admitted for the next academic year.

The Quaker college announced Tuesday that The Rev. A. M. Hall, 55, an African Methodist Episcopal minister of Greensboro, will be enrolled as a full student at the beginning of the next semester. He now is taking two Bible courses without credit.

Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of the 125-year-old college, said several well qualified and carefully selected Negroes from this area will be chosen for admission for the next academic year.

Guilford first admitted only Quakers, but later modified its admissions rules to accept students of other faiths.

Thrill Show For State Fair Fans

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina State Fair was the attraction today for fans of automobile thrill shows. The fair celebrated "Outdoor Sports and Thrill Day."

Highlights were a "Thrill Circus" by the drivers of Jack Kochman and a parade dubbed the "Cavalcade of Power" from ox cart to compact car.
In the procession were steam tractors, antique cars and new tractors and diesel farm power units. Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, acting fair director, said Tuesday patrons have expressed "unusual interest" in educational exhibits.
"Our exhibit halls are about as crowded as the mid-way," he said. "But for the people who want something lighter also, we've never had a better grandstand show."
Ballentine said he was sure the fair would open on Monday instead of Tuesday again next year. In the past it has run for five days but this year is a six-day affair.
Highway Patrol Sgt. R. C. Duncan said the crowd Tuesday afternoon topped 100,000.

Physicist Sees War 'Triggers'

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Nuclear war is "much too likely," says a Duke physicist who had a hand in the development of the atom bomb.

Dr. Henry W. Newson adds that Russia "knows that everyone would lose a lot in an all-out nuclear war."

The physicist took an active part in a meeting that convened in Chicago on Jan. 1, 1942 which led to the development of the atom bomb.

He says he is opposed to resumption of nuclear tests, whether by the Soviet Union or the United States, and whether above ground or below ground. "I think Russia did so (resumed testing) at the time of the Berlin crisis only for propaganda purposes," he added.

A nuclear war, he points out, could spring from these triggers: Russia applying too much pressure on the United States; the Soviets grossly miscalculating on how much bluffing they can get away with, or Russia might, however wrongly, conceivably come to think the U.S. has pressed her beyond the endurance point.

"Although neither side intends to start an atomic war, developments could bring it about," Dr. Newson feels.

Would any such war leave the world depopulated?

"I believe the winning side could recover although it might take many years," Dr. Newson says. "The big cities would be the targets."

The physicist notes that Russia has tested H-Bombs over land perhaps as large as any that practically could be used in a war, "and they've lost no one yet from radioactive fallout as far as we know."

Even if large cities in the two countries should crumble under bombs, Dr. Newson believes, persons in points far removed would survive, even without bomb shelters.

His fears of the awesome power of the bombs go back to the time the atom bomb was being developed and were shared by many fellow scientists.

"I think everyone around the laboratories who knew how the bomb worked would have liked to see the Japanese invited to a test demonstration," Dr. Newson recalls.

The feeling was that the Japanese, faced with the awesome power of the bombs, might have surrendered, making it unnecessary to drop the bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

"Some people are quite bitter this wasn't done," Dr. Newson notes. However, "Others have quite good arguments that it couldn't have been done."

The skeptical feel that it would have been impossible to have assembled enough responsible, influential Japanese leaders at a point where a test would have shown clearly the might of the bomb, he recalls.

Moreover, even if the Japanese could have seen the full power of the bomb, they might not have surrendered, some feel. Dr. Newson notes. Rather, they believe the steps to minimize the damage, he Japanese might have evacuated their major cities and taken other steps to minimize the damage, he adds.

"My own general feeling is that once the development of the bomb was begun, it was almost impossible to keep it from being used," Dr. Newson explains. He notes, that since only two bombs were dropped on Japan, these "didn't do particularly more damage than ordinary bombers were doing."

Dr. Newson believes that had the bomb not been developed during World War II, it would have been made shortly thereafter.

"It was something that certainly could be developed with enough time," he explains. "America gambled that it could be done early enough to use in the war and succeeded."

Explorer VII Is Still Chattering

WASHINGTON (AP)—Explorer VII is still plowing through space, chattering away as if nothing had gone wrong.

The U.S. satellite two years old Friday, is still radiating back information to scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by its solar-powered radio.

An automatic cutoff device that was supposed to shut off the transmitter a year ago failed. Consequently, Explorer VII is still faithfully reporting on its journey through space, although the information is largely repetition now.

Scientists now tune in on only two of the satellite's five passes a week.

Now that the 914 pound space vehicle has done its job, NASA officials wish it would shut up, so they could use the 19.9904 megacycle frequency for some other space vehicle.

But they say the only thing that will clear the frequency is for the transmitter to wear out or for the satellite itself to be damaged or destroyed, possibly by colliding with a meteor. Otherwise, the satellite has a life expectancy of about 20 years.

The satellite is whirling around an orbit of 340 to 670 miles from the earth at more than 17,000 miles an hour.

CHAPTER 22
It had been a long time since Alec Temple had seen Fred McMahon and almost as long since he'd thought about him.
But Alec was reminded of him once more one April afternoon when coming home from school. It was late, but the days stretched out longer now, and the clearing still contained enough light for him to see the truck before the cabin.

over coffee along with Claude and Sam Fellows.
"Well, son," Claude said, and all three men looked up at Alec. "Hello," Alec said, and then he stood hesitant while the eyes of the men touched upon him, telling him as surely as words might that he was involved.
"This concerns you more or less," son," Claude said. "You might as well sit in on it."
"All right," Alec said, and he moved toward the couch to set down his books and coat and hat. Behind him the talk resumed.
"I still say," Sam began, "that they won't do it at his age."
"By the sign, he did," Fred McMahon said. "It's a three-toed print. I marked it careful, you may remember, when you brought him calling on me."

"It goes against nature," Sam said.
"Not if he's hungry enough," Fred McMahon said.
"But there's been deer aplenty, and he's had easy pickings with them all down in low country."
"He had easy pickings on my mare, too," Fred McMahon said. Alec returned to the table at this moment. Fred McMahon's words poked at his memory, and he remembered again their journey to Battle Mesa, where a buckskin mare and her filly made him feel disloyal to Rusty.
"What mare?" he said.
"That Vixen mare of mine," Fred McMahon said. "Or was until that three-toed cat got it."
"He wouldn't!" Alec said in a breath. "Rusty wouldn't kill her!"
"That's what I been telling him," Sam said.
Fred McMahon ignored Sam. His glance fixed upon Alec.
"She's lying dead and half et. His tracks are all about. I marked his sign long ago, boy, you remember it."
"Now, hold on a minute, McMahon," it was Claude speaking now, getting into it for the first time since Alec had come in. "That lion lit out of here six months ago, during the canyon fire. Whatever he's done, it isn't Alec's fault. Don't make it sound so."
"I don't mean to," Fred McMahon said. "But he seems to doubt the truth. Just like Sam Fellows here, and maybe yourself."
Yet, to Alec's ear, rustle did lie in Fred McMahon's voice. "I'd not have happened if the cat had been killed as a cub," Fred McMahon said. "But right now I come to give Sam a job of work to do."
"That's about all you ever gave Fred," Sam said, slow and quiet and looking into his cup, "to me or anyone else."
To Alec, something new, or maybe old, had moved into the talk.

he startled himself.
"Well, I'll not argue it with you, boy," Fred McMahon said, and began to rise from the table. Bobbing his head at Sam while his eye remained yet upon Alec, he said, "But the proof is there, if you can get this old man here down to look at it. Falling that, I'll get Billy Shivers up from Verde."
Sam, at this, raised his head and speak, but only grunted after all, and in the end no one said anything until Fred McMahon had clamped his salt-stained hat on his mane of hair, swept them all up, and the room, too, in his half-blind blue-milky glare, and had stamped through the door.
Then Claude, after the old truck had sighed and coughed into life, closed the door on its departing clatter and smiled ruefully.
"He's wrong, isn't he, Sam?" Alec said, turning to the old man who was still seated with his coffee cup held before him in both hands.
Sam's head lifted slowly, as if the thoughts it held must first be summoned back from some distant place.
"It'd seem so. He ought to be for it don't add up to the way things are. I doubt your cub'd have the size and strength to take a mare just yet, even was he minded to; but he'd not be above feeding on one he found already dead."
It was a hope, Alec thought; but there was still the sign.
"Fred McMahon didn't say about any other," he said.
"Nor would he, having a one-track mind," Sam replied. "But I wonder if there wasn't. I wonder if that cat of yours mightn't have been working some other cat's travelway."
The hope in Alec's mind grew stronger, but at the same time the possibility seemed to diminish Rusty in stature.
"Why should he do that?" he asked.
"A cat ain't fussy, son," Sam said, "and he, being young and untutored, maybe found the usual winter harder on him than we figured. Not knowing his way about too well, he found fair pickings on the leavings of other lions. Of course, it's just a guess."
"What're you going to do, Sam?" Alec asked.
"Don't know as I'll do anything," Sam said, and looked into his cup.
"Why?" Alec said. "We can catch him. He wouldn't get away again. I'd build him a cage and not depend on a line."
But his glance, hitching from Sam to Claude to Sam, met the same doubt that he felt himself about caging Rusty—even to save his life. Yet the reluctance in Sam seemed to be made of more than that.
"If we don't go down there, then that Shivers will," Alec said. "Shivers couldn't find his own barn at high noon," Sam said, but his eye was still lowered, so that the sense of resistance, the feeling of Sam's holding back for special reasons, grew larger in Alec.

Wine Vat Fumes Fatal For Two

NEW YORK (AP)—Two workmen at a winery died Tuesday of fumes from a fermenting wine vat.
Police tried for 45 minutes to revive the two men, Alfred Ratz, 50, of Brooklyn and Meyer Rosenfeld, 46.
A spokesman for Schapiro Rotzer Wine, Inc., said that Ratz and Rosenfeld were building a wooden platform for a grape-crushing machine above a vat containing fermenting grape mash. A plank fell to the surface of the semisolid mash, and Ratz climbed down a ladder to get it. Police said Ratz collapsed while walking on the surface of the mash and Rosenfeld went to his aid but collapsed also.
Two policemen wearing oxygen masks carried the two men out about half an hour later and tried unsuccessfully to revive them.
HOME RANSACKED
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Thieves ransacked a newly built home in suburban Miramar and made off with everything but the kitchen sink. They did, however, get the bathroom sink. They also took the oven and range, hot water, water pump and filter system for the swimming pool, a toilet unit, and a built-in dressing table.
The hounds are loosed and the hunt for Rusty begins. Continue the story tomorrow.

Hodges Reports Belief In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, back in this country after a five-day trip to Europe, says most Germans now believe the United States intends to stand firm in Berlin.

West Berliners are "naturally extremely tense" about the Berlin crisis, he said, but they "understood that the United States intends to give full support to West Berlin."

Hodges and five members of Congress arrived by plane Monday night after visiting West Berlin, Frankfurt and Madrid, Spain.

Dinner To Host Foreign Students

A dinner to be held at the Greenville Woman's Club in observance of United Nations Week will have as honor guests Wednesday, Oct. 25, seventeen foreign students now attending East Carolina College. The event is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

A number of Greenville residents will entertain the students as their personal guests for the evening. The meal will feature foreign dishes.

Dr. Keener Frozer of the political science department at the University of North Carolina will speak at the dinner.

Peter Johl of Groton, Conn., East Carolina music student and a star of last summer's "Lost Colony" production at Manteo, will entertain guests with a program of music, including songs in several languages. He will be accompanied by W. Larry Griffin of Burlington, East Carolina graduate student of music.

Mrs. Howard Mims of Greenville is chairman of a committee on arrangements for the dinner. Other members are Miss Lelia Higgs of Greenville and Mrs. Marguerite Perry of the East Carolina foreign languages department.

Ahmad The Camel Driver To Visit Ex-President

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Bashir Ahmad, the Pakistani camel cart driver with the infectious grin, stopped in mid-America today to see a prize steer and visit with former president Harry S. Truman.

Bashir is on a tour which grew out of chance encounter with Lyndon B. Johnson when the vice president visited Karchi in May Johnson singled him out of a crowd, shook hands and invited him to visit the United States.

Today's schedule begins at the American Royal Livestock Show for the auction of its grand champion steer.

Maybe it, a big and blocky 1,000-pound Angus owned by Judy Vining, 17, of Osage, Iowa, won the honor Tuesday.

Bashir's schedule also includes a visit to the Liberty Memorial, receiving an honorary Kansas City citizenship, and the trip to the Truman Memorial Library in nearby Independence to see the former president.

Bashir arrived in Kansas City by jet tourist flight Tuesday night after a busy day in Texas.

"I am so tired I can hardly keep my eyes open," he said through an interpreter. "My face is full of fatigue."

He flashed his big grin. It is a production. The ends of his long mustache turn up. He shows his teeth. He looks straight into your eyes, and his face is all warmth.

"They told me when the camel cart driver got on the jet Comet he would have a heart attack," he said. "So I told them: 'I am going to see my friend Johnson. If I have a heart attack, then let it go down in history that this man had a heart attack while going to see his friend.'"

But he will not sell the camel. "It was through the camel that I met Vice President Lyndon Johnson," said Bashir. "I will not sell him. He will stay with me always."

Bashir and his entourage—the interpreter, a State Department escort and a member of Johnson's staff—will fly to Baltimore this evening. Bashir will start seeing Washington Thursday morning.

No Handicap If Justice Blind

LEE, Mass. (AP) — James E. Hannon, blind special justice of the Lee District Court, says blindness is no handicap on the bench, and sometimes it is an advantage.

Hannon says a blind judge doesn't form the habit of scribbling notes; he concentrates on listening. Furthermore, Hannon says a blind judge becomes sensitive to the difference between guilty nervousness in a voice and the simple nervousness of a first-time witness in court.

ANTI-FLU SHOTS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The surgeon general of the United States urges immediate anti-influenza shots for persons over 65, expectant mothers and persons suffering from heart disease and other chronic ailments. The official, Luther L. Terry, repeated Tuesday a prediction that an outbreak of influenza will occur in the United States this fall and winter.

Soviets Protest Visa Difficulty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union protested to the United Nations Tuesday night that Communist Outer Mongolia, its candidate for U.N. membership, is having trouble getting visas to end a delegation to New York.

The Russians complained about the visa difficulty in letters to the president of the Security Council and to Mongol Slim president of the General Assembly.

Mongolia's perennial application for membership is expected to come before the council again next week.

NEW YORK (AP)—An assortment of wide gains highlighted a stock market which advanced unevenly early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 at 236.90 with industrials up 1.20, rails up .50 and utilities up .30.

Most of the pivotal issues showed fractional gains but many stocks were unchanged or fractionally lower.

Some special issues rose 1 to 4 points. These gains were few and far between.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon's prediction of a larger than expected federal deficit tended to increase inflation talk. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's offer to withdraw the year-end deadline for signing a German peace treaty removed some nervousness in Wall Street. Although both these factors were bullish, there was no uniform response in the market.

Stocks and autos were unchanged to a bit higher. Aircraft missiles continued to fade. Some of the merger candidates among the oil made progress. Tobaccos were on the upside.

Eastman Kodak advanced about 3 points, apparently in further response to its improved third quarter earnings. Xerox spurted another 4 points or more. Crown Cork rose more than 3.

Helene Curtis fell about 3 points following news of an explosion at the company's cosmetics plant in Chicago.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.34 to 704.32.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange rose in quiet trading. Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. government bonds were steady.

Harried UN Officials Facing Showdown Over Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Harried United Nations officials trying to function without a secretary-general face a showdown over the U. N. Congo command's cease-fire agreement with breakaway Katanga Province.

Both the Soviet Union and the central Congo government warned they would challenge any attempt by the secretariat to ratify the agreement. President Mosis Tshombe's Katanga government refused to release 184 U. N. soldiers it is holding prisoner until the secretariat approved the truce pact.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin accused the U. N. Congo command Tuesday of bypassing the Security Council by agreeing on a cease-fire and threatened to take the issue before the council. He demanded that the U. N. Congo force take action to end Katanga's secession from the rest of the Congo.

Congo Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko called a news conference and denounced the cease-fire as blackmail by Katanga President Mosis Tshombe's regime. Bomboko hinted his government would seek Soviet aid to smash Tshombe's regime unless the U. N. acted against him.

The Congo diplomat said that if the cease-fire is ratified by the secretariat, "the trust we put in the United Nations may vanish."

The Katanga issue raised the real crisis since Dag Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash. It underlined the need for an interim secretary-general to make top-level decisions. Informed sources said top secretariat officials were wary of ratifying the cease-fire agreement for fear of incurring the wrath of both the Soviet bloc and the Congo government.

Western diplomats predicted that if the agreement were ratified, the Russians would go before the Security Council and challenge the action as an illegal seizure of power by secretariat officials.

In a letter to Council President Turgut Menemencioglu of Turkey, Zorin declared that now that a central government has been formed in the Congo, U. N. forces have no excuse for "not taking action to insure the strictest execution" of council resolutions calling for reunification of Katanga with the rest of the Congo.

Selection of a successor to fill Hammarskjold's unexpired term has been blocked by a Soviet-American deadlock over what areas his top advisers should be drawn from.

The United States has been arguing for five undersecretaries — an American, a Russian, an Asian, a Latin American and a West European. The Russians countered that if a West European were included, a sixth undersecretary must be drawn from Communist Eastern Europe. Asia would contribute the interim secretary-general, the Americans and the Russians having agreed on U. Thant of Burma.

The United States rejected the six-man lineup, calling it the original Soviet Troika proposal in disguise. It was reported Tuesday the United States was prepared to settle for four deputies with West European omitted. West European delegates were furious at the prospect of being omitted for

Conservation Notes

MARVIN HORTON, Jr. of Tarboro has seeded a mixture of small grains and grasses on 3,000 feet of open ditches on his farm on U. S. 258, one mile north of Farmville.

He got the idea from Hassell Thigpen, who suggested stabilizing the banks of the ditches by planting fescue grass. Horton had the contractor place the excavated topsoil on the field side while placing the rest of the soil on the woods side.

Horton plans to complete his conservation program by tiling the fields, and then start using fescue grass in his crop rotation.

ACCORDING TO ROY R. BECK, work unit conservationist, 44 district cooperators this week will receive Redears and Bluelegs fingerling fish to stock their ponds.

The fish will be delivered from the Fish and Wild Life Service Hatchery at Edenton. The fish are furnished free to farmers by the U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service. The Soil Conservation Service acts as agent in ordering the fish.

Novel Plot Ideas For TV Are Not Hard To Come By

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The trouble with television, they say, is that the producers are having so much trouble getting novel and bright plot ideas.

Well, I watch a lot of TV, and if they really want some fresh ideas never seen on the tube, I've made a list they are perfectly free to take.

A stirring, action-packed saga of the Civil War, with both brothers fighting on the same side.

A series about a quack doctor, dedicated to only to making a big pile of money fast.

A suspense drama about a girl, all alone in a big house on a stormy night. She hears strange noises in the attack, and immediately leaves the house, gets in her car and drives to a police station.

The time for the big showdown comes. The marshal and the slinger in the black hat start walking towards each other down the dusty, deserted main street. And the marshal drops before he can even get his hand on his six-shooter.

The pretty housewife in the situation comedy spends all day baking the banana cream pie for that dinner with the boss and his wife. And at dinner they all sit down and eat the pie.

The heroine in the daytime serial is sitting quietly in the living room when kindly Dr. John, the family physician, drops in and asks her how she feels. She smiles brightly and responds: "Just dandy, doc, and I don't have a problem in the world."

The newscaster stands before the camera and confesses: "There's really not much scary, earth-shaking news breaking tonight, so we thought we'd show you some old film clips a staff member made a couple of months ago in Uganda when we thought

Cosmetics Plant Blast Injures 68

CHICAGO (AP)—An industrial explosion shook a wide area of the West Side today and at least 68 persons were reported injured.

There were no fatalities confirmed immediately but Francis Leville, deputy police superintendent, said two persons were unaccounted for.

Eighteen were injured in the mixing room of the Helene Curtis Industries cosmetics plant, 4401 W. North Ave., occupying an entire city block. Leville said 50 persons were injured in a Zenith Radio Corp. plant nearby.

A heavy odor of sulfuric acid spread over the site and impeded rescue work. Heavy plate glass windows were blown from buildings in a radius blocks from the site of the blast.

The most seriously injured victim brought to Walther Memorial Hospital was a man painfully burned on the face.

Most of the other injured suffered shock and minor burns.

Dr. Samuel Grant, research director for Helene Curtis Industries, said he believes the blast was caused by a chemical reaction to mixtures involving alcohol. The workers were making resins for use in cosmetics, he said.

All first-floor windows in the four-story Zenith plant across the street were blown in and flying glass struck workers at desks and benches along the windows.

Police cleared an area a block around the explosion site as a precaution against further explosion of chemicals stored in the plant.

The Curtis plant is the main facility of the Chicago-based company that employs 2,000 persons in several plants. It makes beauty salon supplies and equipment and retail toiletries, primarily shampoo and hair spray.

ARCH J. FLANAGAN of Farmville, chairman of the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, has reported the following farmers' applications have been approved for basic soil and water conservation farm plans:

J. H. Harrell, Lonnie F. Evans, Morris E. Elks, W. T. Carson and S. C. Ives.

Light Damage In Traffic Mishap

James R. Norfleet, 29-year-old Negro of Route 2, Greenville was charged with falling to yield the right of way yesterday following a 11:34 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Truman and Ione Sts.

Police said the Norfleet vehicle collided with a truck operated by Melvin Lee Green, 38-year-old Negro of Grimesland.

Damage to the Green vehicle was set at $100 while damage to the Norfleet vehicle was placed at $200.

No injuries were reported.

Says Motorists Are Cooperating

Police Chief Guy C. Langston today said motorists and parents seem to be cooperating more and more with the local department in its drive to make Greenville streets safer.

The chief expressed his thanks to motorists for "slowing down, especially near schools and during the time children are traveling to and from school."

Chief Langston noted that strict enforcement of the law will continue, but added "that is not enough . . . motorists must want to prevent accidents and cooperate with law enforcement agencies" before wrecks will decrease.

He commented that three motorists were charged yesterday with speeding through school zones.

In addition to pedestrians, Chief Langston urged drivers to be more cautious and on the alert for bicycle riders. Many students ride bicycles to and from school, the official pointed out, and being "children, may not react to an emergency situation" and see danger in their actions.

He also requested that parents see that their children's bicycle is properly equipped with lights and reflectors if they are used at night.

The Police head said the Department's traffic department is doing all in its power to prevent mishaps in Greenville, and said "if drivers will cooperate" accidents in the city will be greatly reduced.

Ayden Men Study Shelter Program

AYDEN — Two representatives of Ayden, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor and Building Inspector Kenneth Branch, visited Washington on Friday to view the town's fallout shelter.

Paylor stated yesterday that some interest had been indicated by Ayden people in constructing a "100-habit shelter," and a site has been offered for such an installation.

Branch stated that even though other towns such as Washington have begun a shelter program, no such program has been underway in Ayden. He said he hoped Ayden could begin a project in the near future.

Church Is Sponsoring Barbecue Supper

PAKLAND — A barbecue supper, sponsored by the Grace Presbyterian Church for the purpose of building Sunday school rooms, will be held at the Pakland Community Building Thursday, Oct. 19, from 5:30-8 p.m.

Plates will be prepared to take out or served family style at the building.

Funeral Thursday For Allen H. Leggett

Mr. Allen Hoyt Leggett, 61, died at his home in the Wharton's Station Community Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. He had been critically ill for three months.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 by the Rev. T. N. White, his pastor. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Leggett, a native of Beaufort County, had lived in the Leens Community and the Whitehurst Station Community prior to moving to the Wharton's Station Community six years ago. He was a member of the Wharton's Methodist Church and was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jessie Ward Leggett; two sons, John G. and Guilford Leggett of the Wharton's Community; three daughters, Mrs. Chaucey Krumbill of Gordonsville, Va., Mrs. J. H. Whitehurst of Rocky Mount, and Miss Sandra Leggett of the home; 12 grandchildren; three brothers, J. C. and Roy Leggett of Washington and Guy Leggett of Washington; three sisters, Mrs. Lina Corey of Greensboro, Mrs. A. B. Ward of Washington; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. G. G. Ward of the home.

Street Crews Working On Fill

AYDEN—Street crews of the town of Ayden have been working this week on a fill at the sewage plant.

Workmen are scheduled to cement a spillway for the creek, with work ending today.

Yogi Concludes Nine-Day Trance

NEW DELHI (AP)—A 40-year-old yogi emerged from a trance today after being buried alive nine days to pray for world peace.

Swami Rama das was removed from his five-foot-deep pit and quickly recovered consciousness. He told newsmen he is convinced that the chances for world peace now are brighter.

School Patrols Being Organized

Among activities organized at the North Fountain Elementary School this year are school patrols, advised by Mrs. T. H. Vines and Miss R. H. Joyner, and basketball, glee club and guidance.

The patrols include the following: president, George Shirley; vice president, Avon Morgan; secretary, Dorothy Suggs; assistant secretary, Faye Dupree.
