Nikita Zeroes In U.S. Rockets Missile Detector Aloft On Enemies And And Radio-Reflecting Needles Cargo Heads Will Roll

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's heavy propaganda artillery is zeroing in on his enemies. The events at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow suggest he is winning his struggle and setting the scene for an announcement of a house-cleaning. It seems likely, in fact, that the purge already is well under way. Perhaps it was started well in advance of the 22nd party congress, at least at the lower levels. But Khrushchev wants, and apparently needs total victory. This means at a minimum the expulsion from the Communist party of those he labeled antiparty in 1957. The congress can provide the machinery for Khrushchev's purposes. Awaiting formal approval are some new ideas concerning the statutes by which the Communist party is supposed to govern itself. The changes may involve new methods for expelling and punishing members who have fallen into disgrace. There are indications that new sins will be invented, such as failure to show sufficient devotion to the Communist cause or lack of faithfulness to the principle of collective leadership. If Khrushchev has won, heads will roll. It will mean expulsion from the party and possibly worse for former Premier Georgi Malenkov, for Lazar Kaganovich, the one-time iron commissar of the Ukraine and a Stalin stalwart, for old former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, for former Premier Nikolai Bulganin and many others. There may be shocks outside the U.S.S.R., too. Those Communists in parties abroad, particularly in the satellite nations, who have failed to show sufficient devotion to Khrushchev's free-wheeling interpretation of Marxism-Leninism may be slated for the political ax. A new party declaration—one is expected from this congress—could well cover that phase of the purge, which could bring down such men as Walter Ulbricht, the Stalinist boss of East Germany, and others of his stamp. The sin that may be invented for such Communists is failure to show "fraternal solidarity with the workers of the whole world." This phrase already has shown up in the Soviet press, and seems to have a lot of hidden meaning. If the Khrushchev purge is unveiled, it is likely to have a shock effect in the ranks of world communism, which has been in a state of confusion for several years now regarding the newest revisions of Communist ideological scriptures. This confusion has been compounded by the events of 1960—with its two separate world Communist declarations from Bucharest and Moscow conclaves—and by the obvious tug of ideological war going on with the Red Chinese. The Chinese are going so far, in fact, as to level a direct challenge at Khrushchev's right to revise ideology and create new theory. The Chinese, with a show of something suspiciously like scorn, insist Khrushchev is far off base when he pronounces new doctrine. One such tenet rejected by the Chinese is that all "socialist" countries will achieve "communism" more or less at the same time. Khrushchev, the Chinese say by implication, is talking nonsense particularly since he shies away from the notion that war is inevitable. Every capitalist country in the world, however small, must be brought to its knees, the Chinese insist, before anybody can talk seriously about the achievement of communism in countries ruled by the Communists. A Khrushchev purge in his own backyard now can widen this sort of rift seriously. But Khrushchev may consider he has no choice if he is to retain his grip and put his internal program for the Soviet Union on the rails.

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A Midas missile-alarm satellite rocketed into a 2,100-mile-high orbit today and spewed out 350 million tiny copper needles designed to spread into a giant radio-reflective belt around the earth. If successful, the experiment will place in space a five-mile-wide band of hair-like reflectors which scientists can use to bounce radio waves half way around the world on frequencies not now available. The Air Force said Midas IV ejected the needles shortly after going into an almost circular orbit 2,100 miles high, completing the 30,000-mile circuit once every 2 hours, 52 minutes. It may be three to four days before radar can determine how well the needles, invisible from the ground, followed the planned pattern of dispersal in space. The Midas satellites carry an infrared eye able to detect the heat of a ballistic missile's exhaust seconds after launch. Some astronomers have opposed the experiment on the grounds that if the needles go awry in space they could interfere with optical and radio observations of the stars, or even damage satellites. Despite the controversy, approval for the test was given earlier this month by President Kennedy's scientific adviser, Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner. The tiny needles, each 7-10 of an inch long and one-third the thickness of a human hair, were in a six-by-20-inch cylinder in the tail section of the 30-foot long Midas. The 98-foot Atlas-Agena combination roared upward at 5:33 a.m. Ground observers lost it seconds later in the 500-foot overcast. The firing was a spectacular one as the missile's flames reflected from the overcast and lit up the countryside. Forty minutes later the Air Force announced the booster dropped away and the second stage fired on schedule. The cylinder, after ejection, was designed to throw out a cloud of needles that would stretch within 60 days into a 2,000-mile-high belt five miles wide and 25 miles deep. The canister of needles was a small portion of the payload of the Midas satellite, fourth launched in an effort to perfect a means of detecting missile firings from space. Only Midas III was successful. Officials said there was no relation between the Midas and the needle experiment, called Project West Force. The package was put in Midas simply because the satellite was going into a high orbit and had space available. After one successful experiment, scientists may try to put up another radio-reflective band around the equator. These two bands, officials said, would permit worldwide radio transmission on frequencies not now usable. Dr. John Harrington, head of the radiophysics division of the Lincoln Laboratory of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said the experiment called for this sequence of events, all invisible from the ground: After ejection from the satellite the tiny wires, embedded in a binding material which disintegrates swiftly in space, were to erupt into an expanding cloud. The cloud would then spread along the orbit of the satellite, gradually forming a 5-by-25-mile ring around the earth. If properly distributed, the tiny wires, called dipoles, should be a quarter mile apart in the band. They would be too far apart to obscure vision or damage satellites, he said. But if something goes wrong and they remain in a clump the wires could form a blot in the sky. A satellite passing through the clump might be scoured as if by meteorites. Harrington said that if all goes well giant radio antennas on each coast of the United States will try to send and receive signals bounced off the tiny dipoles. The antennas, at Parks Air Force Base, near San Francisco, and on Millstone Hill in Westford, Mass., have been tested by bouncing signals off the moon. Harrington said the band of dipoles, each capable of reflecting signals, would be of tremendous help in military communications and later might be adapted to civilian use. Commercial radio stations would not broadcast to the public in this way, but the system could replace expensive relays and wires which now carry network programs across a continent. One military advantage, Harrington said, is that it would be almost impossible for an enemy to listen to or jam the frequency. "There are so many of the particles in the band that it would be almost impossible for an enemy to tune in on the one we were using," he said. Harrington estimated the useful life of the bounce-band at two to three years. After that time, he said, the pressure of the sun's rays would begin to force the tiny needles down into the atmosphere. Here their speed—about 13,000 miles an hour—would cause them to burn up from friction with the air.

Prospects Of Special Assembly Fading Fast

By NOEL YANCEY RALEIGH (AP)—Prospects that Gov. Sanford will call the General Assembly back to Raleigh in a special session to consider a bond issue for school construction appear to be fading fast. Rep. Tom Woodard of Wilson, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee and a member of the Advisory Budget Commission, was in Raleigh during the week. He told newsmen he doesn't expect the governor to call a special session. At one time, a special session to act on school building bonds appeared a sure thing. The governor did not bring up the matter while the legislature was in session last spring because he wanted to see what Congress would do about providing federal aid for education. The governor said if federal money was appropriated he would like to see it used for school construction instead of for current school operations. But the federal aid legislation in Congress was defeated. As chances for its passage faded early last summer, it appeared certain Sanford would call a special session to make state money available to help local units build schools. However, the governor announced several weeks ago he would not call a special session before the Nov. 7 election in which voters of the state will decide on the issuance of $81.5 million in bonds for improvements at state institutions. It could be that the governor wanted to wait and see what happened in the election before deciding on whether to call a special session. It could be he already has decided; and if Woodard is right, the answer is "no."

Farmville Mart Tops Last Year

FARMVILLE — Farmville's tobacco market Friday saw its season total volume exceed total pounds sold here during 1960 as growers were paid $85,439.16 for 147,580 pounds. Friday's sales average was $57.89. The 147,580 pounds sold Friday boosted Farmville's season total to 25,546,711—more than 100,000 pounds above 1960's season total of 25,365,000. The local market is scheduled to conduct three more sales, closing its 1961 auction season after Wednesday's sale. Through Friday's activity here, the market had paid growers a total this season of $16,640,355.84 for a season average of $65.14 per hundredweight. Sales supervisor Louis Williams said offerings Friday consisted mainly of nondescript and un-sound tobacco. He noted, also, quantities of low and fair leaf grades, low cutters, and fair and good lugs.

Believes Half Of 'Vopos' Would Flee If They Could

By JOHN WEYLAND BERLIN (AP)—Two East German policemen who fled to the West say half of the police in the Communist zone would join them if they could. Horst Staebert, 19, and Bernhard Heinecke, 21, made the statement to newsmen Friday in telling of their escapes earlier this week the Red barricade dividing Berlin. Vopos (Communist People's Police) would desert if they got the chance," a newsman asked the two in an interview at a West Berlin refugee camp. "At least 50 per cent," said Horst. Then he asked Bernhard, "Wouldn't you say about that?" "Easily," the other replied.

Greenville Mart Starting Final Week Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission has stepped in to protect buyers of fallout shelters from false advertising. The FTC announced Friday that a special staff here and in 10 field offices would monitor all advertising media in an effort to check advertising for shelters and other civil defense items. The monitors will try to detect exaggerated claims that would mislead or defraud purchasers. The FTC said it was taking the action at the request of the Defense Department "to prevent irresponsible advertisers of shelters from damaging public confidence in the reputable manufacturers whose cooperation with the civil defense program is so necessary." While the agency has jurisdiction only over interstate advertising, it said any questionable claims found outside its authority would be referred to the Pentagon "for further action at state and local levels."

Greenville Mart Starting Final Week Monday

GREENVILLE'S tobacco market Friday sold 313,520 pounds for $190,999 to post a gross sales average of $60.92 per hundred pounds. Friday's sale brought the season's totals for Greenville to: pounds—55,488,224; receipts—$35,867,291; and sales average—$64.28. Sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee noted three price advances during the week that closed with Friday's sale. Advances came, he said, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. He said prices bid for medium quality smoking tobacco, green and nondescript, Friday. Prices on all other grades, the supervisor said, remained "firm and high" Friday. Whedbee cited "two outstanding features" of the 1961 auction season here. "First, the highest season's average in our entire history, and second, the large number of customers who live 100 to 150 miles away who have sold on our warehouse floors daily." Monday the Greenville market begins its final week of the '61 auction season. The market will close Friday, holding its final sale that day.

Won't Go Home Empty-Handed

NEW YORK (AP)—Urho Kekkonen, president of the only country in the world still paying back its World War I debt to the United States, hasn't asked for a dime during his current visit here. So Friday night, the president of Finland received a shiny silver dollar from George J. Bourque, mayor of Fitchburg, Mass., which has a large Finnish population. "You are one of the few foreign dignitaries to come here and talk to our President without asking for money," Bourque told Kekkonen at a Finnish-American Societies banquet. "Therefore, we don't want you to go back empty-handed."

Homecoming Has Its Attractive Aspect

GREENVILLE firemen responded to a false alarm about 2:20 p.m. yesterday, according to reports from fire officers today. Reports showed that fire equipment was dispatched to the intersection of Sylvan Drive and Hooker Road when box 331 was turned in at that location. No fire was found and no one was found at the box.

False Alarm Is Sounded Friday

Call For Russia To Abandon Plan Now Before UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A call for the Soviet Union to abandon its plan to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb seemed assured today of U.N. approval. Few nations are expected to oppose the appeal to Premier Khrushchev placed before the 101-nation U.N. Political Committee by six countries on the fringe of the Soviet test area. But an Asian-African group sought to widen the resolution into an appeal for a moratorium on all tests. India objected to the sponsor's demand that it be given top priority, and Guinea said it would not take part in the vote on grounds it was a cold war item. But most of the neutral, indicated privately they would support the move. The Soviet Union kept silent during Friday's debate on the appeal, which was put forth by Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Japan, Iceland and Norway. Diplomats speculated, however, that the Soviets might reject it on grounds that the tests concerned only the Soviet Union. "That's about the only way they could oppose it," said one delegate. The sponsors called for top priority on the appeal to get it to Khrushchev before the Soviet Union goes through with plans for the 50-megaton blast scheduled for Oct. 31. A group of Asian-African nations, including Ethiopia, Ghana, before the Communist regime clamped a lid on the border. Horst, wiry, blond and freckled, had joined up for a three-year stretch in 1959 because he got fed up with his tame life in his home town. Bernhard, open-faced and snub-nosed, had a job at a refinery, but signed up last year because of pressure from Communist zealots to serve East Germany. The youths learned to handle weapons—carbines, grenades, submachine guns, light and heavy machine guns, mortars—and got used to barracks life and discipline. They didn't find it so bad. The food—no heavy meal at noon, bread and spread in the mornings and evenings—was about the same as they'd gotten in their simple homes. Horst's father is a railroad worker in Saxony and Bernhard's a bricklayer on a collective farm in Thuringia. Suddenly, their companies were brought into East Berlin and ordered to keep anybody from crossing the border. Their officers said it was necessary to protect East Germany from spies, saboteurs and warmongers from the West. All the Vopos were put on seven-day duty, pulling eight hours on, 16 hours off. In pairs—one man carrying gas grenades to throw when taunting crowds built up on the other side—they watched for attempted flight. Horst once shot at a refugee but deliberately missed. In town during off hours there was a new atmosphere. Horst and Bernhard found girls at the dance halls giving them the cold shoulder because of their uniforms. Other little things also showed feelings against them. They both reached the big decision—desert and go over the wall, though it could mean being shot if caught. Last Tuesday night Bernhard scrambled over the barbed wire into West Berlin. Horst waited until early Thursday, when he jumped the wall and ran. There were no shots. The two plan to go to Cologne, where Horst has relatives, and get jobs.

West Virginia Town Is Melting Snow For Water

RICHWOOD, W.Va. (AP)—The 4,000 residents of this central West Virginia mountain community were melting snow to get their water supplies today. There was plenty of snow to melt. An unseasonable storm, which snarled utility services and communications over a wide portion of the state, dumped almost two feet of snow in this area Friday. Richwood and neighboring Summersville—pop. about 2,000—lost all electrical power. Emergency conditions existed. Municipal water service in both communities was shut down. Pumps used to move water from the Cherry River to the reservoirs are electrically operated and were shut off with the power failure. The two communities wanted to conserve the water they had—Summersville had 100,000 gallons—for use in the event of fire. At Lochely in Fayette County, 24 miners had to wait 24 hours at the bottom of a 525-foot shaft because the power failure halted elevators about the time they came off the midnight shift. Streets were blocked by snow; power lines pulled down by the moisture-laden blanket, and by toppled trees. Both Summersville and Richwood declared local emergencies, and curfews were in effect. Volunteer firemen helped police keep residents off the dangerous streets. Some homes also were without heat because thermostats on gas furnaces were electrically operated. The temperatures stayed near 40 degrees. Other snow depths in the state measured eight inches at Bluefield, four at Beckley and two at Charleston.

Unrest Boils In Dominican Republic; Night Of Rioting

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—This Caribbean island nation seethed with hostile anti-Trujillo rumblings today after a night of bloody rioting. Prospects heightened for a government proclamation of martial law. Unofficial sources listed at least two teen-agers dead and about 45 other persons injured in Friday night's rioting—the most violent outbreak here since the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo last May. The official police report mentioned no deaths but said an undetermined number were injured, including 15 policemen who suffered minor injuries from rock barrages. Police announced the arrest of 57 members of youth groups who hurled stones in clashes with steel-helmeted police units in downtown streets of the capital. Officers beat back the attacks with semiautomatic rifles, water hoses and tear gas, while hundreds lined the sidewalks and rooted for the youngsters. The exchange lasted about 25 minutes before police drove back the demonstrators and seized control. Offshoot demonstrations that formed later in nearby streets were quickly put down. The battle capped five days of antigovernment demonstrations set off by student protests against the appointment of a new rector for Santo Domingo University accused of being a Trujillo man. An association of professors at the school joined the students Friday in demanding his removal. The resolution approved by 141 of the university's 143 professors said that the closing of the school by the government following student demonstrations was no solution. Signs of the impending violence came when youths sealed off streets in a two-square-block area which they called the "free territory of the Dominican Republic." Some were seen loading rooftops with stones and metal objects. Four companies of police moved in later after several hundred demonstrators marched down a main street shouting "liberty!" A young woman carrying a child was among at least 20 bleeding and weeping injured led from the scene. Police claimed the woman was hit by a rock. There were reports that at least three members of the Trujillo family—all brothers of the late dictator—may leave the Dominican Republic this weekend. The departure of the family has been demanded by opposition factions before they will negotiate with President Joaquin Balaguer on his proposal for a coalition government. The Trujillos headed for exile were identified as Gens. Hector, Jose Arizmendi and Pedro Trujillo. Official sources would neither confirm nor deny the reports. Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., the dictator's son and chief of the armed forces, has declared his determination to remain here. The army has not put in a known appearance in the five-day-old riots. Opposition sources claim, however, that soldiers have been pressed into riot service disguised as police.

Expect 150,000 At Trade Fair CHARLOTTE (AP)—Total attendance is expected to climb to about 150,000 before the North Carolina Trade Fair closes its 10-day run here today. Officials planned to open two hours early today to accommodate expected large crowds. Through Thursday, the fair, sponsored by the state and local interests, drew an official 115,655. Backers proclaimed it a great success.

Castro Boasts Will Outpace All

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro says Cuba will reach in eight years the rate of economic growth that will take other Latin American countries 25 years under President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress plan. The Cuban prime minister painted that rosy future in an economic report to the nation Friday night. He also charged the United States with keeping Latin America in economic stagnation and with using the threat of war to impose "an imperialist system all over the world." Castro predicted all unemployment in rural areas would be eliminated next year. He acknowledged the prospects were not as encouraging in the cities. Since taking over power in 1959 Castro said his government has scaled down unemployment from nearly 700,000 to 214,000. He said Cuba's net income next year would reach more than 3 billion pesos—$3 billion at the official rate—next year, which is 65 per cent higher than it was in 1958. Declaring Cuba's economic growth has averaged 13 per cent yearly since 1959, he said, "If we keep this rate it will mean that we will double our standard of living every eight years."

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

The Scriptures on the subject "Growth in Christian Relationships" will be studied this Lord's Day at 9:45 a. m. at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Your concern for Christ, yourself and others should encourage you to be present. At the 11:00 a. m. worship the Senior Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Lloyd and with Mrs. Bill Taylor, organist, will sing the hymn anthem, "Make Me A Blessing", Schuler. The pastor's sermon topic will be "Divine Pressure", Acts 9:6.

A group from the church will conduct a worship service at 3:00 p. m. at the County Home.

The Free Will Baptist Leagues will meet at 6:30 p. m., under the direction of Mr. David Nobles. The church congregation will meet for worship at 7:30 p. m. and the theme of this service will be "Youth in a Christ-Centered Life". Mr. William Lloyd will lead the congregation and different groups from the choir in the singing. Mr. Mack Case will read the scriptures and hymns.

Pastor Crawford will be the evangelist for revival services at Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church, October 22-28.

Monday at 7:30 p. m. the Women's Auxiliary meets at the church, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. there will be visitation evangelism. Wednesday evening at 7:00 p. m. the Adult Choir will meet for a rehearsal. Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. the Chorus Choir will meet for a time of scriptures and songs. Prayer services will be held the same hour conducted by Mrs. Robert Peele.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m. the Junior Choir and Young People's Choirs will meet for rehearsals and at 8:00 p. m. the Senior Choir will meet for rehearsal.

Saturday, 10:00 a. m., the Union Meeting of Free Will Baptist Churches will be held with Hugo Church in Lenoir County.

Mrs. H. L. Brewer and Mrs. Verlon Joyner will be in charge of the nursing at the 11:00 a. m. worship.

Sunday, October 29, is Harvest Day for the entire church in behalf of the Church building fund. Pastor Crawford invites "Every one to bring a sum for this Christian Cause."

Commission Meeting

The Commission on Membership and Evangelism of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will meet Monday, October 23, 7:45 p. m. in the church office.

All About Town

With Anne Mattox

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross with the cooperation of Civil Defense is starting county-wide courses in the care of the sick and injured. Two courses have already been completed in Winterville with Mrs. James Keeter and Mrs. Brantley Speight teaching the classes.

Through the cooperation of Mr. Junius Rose, Civil Defense Director, a permanent Home Nursing classroom has been set up at the office of the Greenville City Schools, 431 West Fifth Street.

Two classes now in progress are being taught by Mrs. Doris Skinner, Dr. Ann Huienga and Mrs. Phillis Martin. The 14 hour course held twice weekly for two hours, runs for three and a half weeks. Classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday nights and Wednesday and Friday nights. Instructors for these courses have volunteered their time and their services for these courses.

The present courses being conducted are filled to capacity; but upon completion of these classes others will begin and anyone wanting to take the course may contact the Pitt County Chapter of Red Cross, PL 2-4222.

An organizational meeting of Senior Citizens will be held at Elm Street Park Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the Greenville Recreation Department.

During the past several years groups of this nature have become popular in various parts of our nation. North Carolina has active groups in several cities and towns.

All persons 60 years of age and over, or under 60 and retired, are eligible to become a part of this group. Senior Citizens groups, sometimes called Golden Age Clubs, may engage in any number of activities, according to the interest of the group. Activities may include hand-crafts, projects in community service, planned programs of entertainment, trips, and many other things.

Greenville Senior Citizens programs will be planned to meet once every two weeks. Any persons interested in attending this meeting who need transportation or desire further information may contact Mrs. Terry Agener at Elm Street Park Recreation Center.

Beginning tomorrow an Art Sale will be held for one week only at the Greenville Art Center. An Open House will be held Sunday from 12 Noon until four o'clock in the afternoon.

Local artists, East Carolina College Faculty and Students will be represented in a variety of media, paintings, drawings, prints, pottery sculpture, jewelry, etc. The amateur and professional artist will be represented at these sales. Prices will range from inexpensive items to those worth several hundred dollars.

The methods of expression will be as varied, from the realistic to the abstract.

There have been inquiries made for art work to be used in decorating offices and new homes, which indicates a need for some kind of Sales Gallery in this area, where the artist can place his work and the patron has a variety to select from. The trend to individuality in decorating has increased the demand for fresh original work. Pitt County is fortunate to have so many accomplished and professional artists in our community.

Sales will be made from 10:00 to 5:00 week days and 8:00 to 10:00 Wednesday and Thursday evenings. All sales will be made through Mrs. Jackson, Director of the Greenville Art Center.

A Greenville couple Mr. and Mrs. Jesse R. Laughinghouse are in Washington, D. C. attending the Arthur Murray National Dance Contest being held today in Constitutional Hall. There will be 500 Arthur Murray studios with their teachers and students participating in the contest. The Laughinghouses will participate as a couple in ballroom dancing with their teachers representing the Raleigh Studio. Trophies will be given first place winners and ribbons will be given for second and third place winners.

The Laughinghouses are the only couple from North Carolina who will be in the contest.

To Be November Bride

MISS CHRISTINE BRANTLEY . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Odell Brantley of Dothan, Alabama who announce her engagement to Kirby Boyd of Fort Rucker, Alabama, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Boyd of Greenville. The wedding is planned for November 19.

Engagement Announced

MISS JOANNE FOWLER . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney E. Fowler of Whiteville who announce her engagement to Edmond Otis Wall, also of Whiteville. Mr. Wall is the son of Thomas Glenn Wall of Route 2, Ayden, and the late Mrs. Wall. The wedding will be solemnized December 2.

December Wedding

MISS LOLA FRANCES WOOLARD . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Daniel Woolard of Route two Washington, N. C. who announce her engagement to Harrell Brooks Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mills of Route three Greenville. The wedding is planned for December 10.

New Members Initiated

Gamma Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta sorority at East Carolina College recently initiated Sharon McKean of Alexandria, Va., and Mary Alice Sellers of Wilmington as members of the sorority. At this time Kappa Delta also pledged eleven girls. The purpose of the sorority is to form close friends among college girls by instilling in them the principles of truth, duty, and honor.

The new pledges are Madge Stancil and Nena Duncan, both of Greenville; Joan Zachary of Greensboro; Constance Story of Newsoms, Va.; Linda Gale of Lumberton; Carolyn Hart of Grifton; Norma Carol Summerlin of Mt. Olive; Mary Helen Mumford of Kinston; Sarah Kay Epton of Red Springs; Pat Walf of Edenton; and Nancy Gilibert of Union Level, Va.

Rooks-May Vows Said In Catholic Ceremony

Mrs. Walter Ross Rooks

NORFOLK, Va.—In a Nuptial Mass at St. Pius X Catholic Church Saturday at 11:00 a.m. Miss Jo Anne Frances May became the bride of Walter Ross Rooks. The Rev. Frances X. Tonner heard the vows. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth J. May of Norfolk, Va. and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oliver P. Rooks, Sr., of Norfolk, Va. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Chesapeake Room of the NOB Officers Club. The couple will reside in Norfolk, Va. after a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and New York.

The Dix and Delve Garden Club met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. J. B. Kiltrell, Jr. with Mrs. D. B. Armistead as co-hostess.

Upon arrival the hostesses served coffee cake, Halloween candies, nuts and coffee.

The President, Mrs. Craven Hughes held a short business meeting during which she announced the District meeting is to be held in Washington, N. C. Oct. 31st and urged members to attend.

Pens with flower heads were given each member by Mrs. Morris Brody.

Mrs. Linda Stancil from Shepard Memorial Library presented a film on "Flower Arrangements for the Home."

Following this the meeting was adjourned.

News And Notes From Bethel

Birthday Dinner Honors

The family of Rev. D. W. Alexander honored him Sunday with a birthday dinner at home, celebrating his 70th birthday.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Whitehurst and children Sammy and Steve; of Stokes; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Alexander and children Margaret Rivers, Jan and Danny of Robersonville; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alexander and children Lynn, Angela and Wendy of Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. Miles I. Hart, Jr., and children, Iva III, Caroline and Mary Dennis of Raleigh; Rev. and Mrs. Carroll Alexander and children, Martha and Kenneth of Kinston.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Miles I. Hart, Sr., of Raleigh and L. O. Whitehurst of Stokes.

Two grandchildren were absent; Ronald Whitehurst of Fort Jones and Miss Carrie Lee Whitehurst of High Point College.

Mrs. Tom Newbold Conducts Service

At a recent meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service Mrs. Tom Newbold of Rocky Mount conducted a study on "Churches for New Times."

Members of the Robersonville Methodist Church and the Parham Methodist Church joined the Bethel group for this study.

The program was opened by the group singing the hymn "This is My Father's World." Secretary of Mission Education, Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst gave the scripture reading taken from First Peter 2:1-9. Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst sang a solo of her own composition pertaining to the subject taught at this meeting.

Miss Camille Staton, president, made announcements after which she introduced Mrs. Newbold, the teacher, for this occasion.

Mrs. Newbold in her presentation of this subject, spoke of the changes in the world and made it clear that the churches would necessarily have to adapt themselves to these changes. She also brought out the fact that modes of transportation, communication, scientific progress and population increase has greatly changed the world.

At this time Mrs. L. J. Manning told the group about Open Air Churches, and how needs had been met in Florida by using this method.

The study was brought to a close with an antiphonal reading given by Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst and Mrs. F. L. Bount Jr.

Society Of Christian Service Meets

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Bethel Methodist Church met in a joint session with the current Mission Study Course.

"Christian Missions in the Latin American Countries," is being presented by Mrs. R. J. White-hurst, secretary of Missionary Education.

Miss Camille Staton, president, announced to the group that the scheduled program on Methodist Missions in the Latin American Countries for February would be used in October in conjunction with the Study Course already in progress.

Mrs. Whitehurst opened the program with the hymn "Art I a Soldier of the Cross?" For her scripture she read Psalm 122 followed by a prayer.

Before presenting Chapters II and III of the Study Course, Mrs. Whitehurst reviewed the two outstanding points from Chapter I presented on Sunday night. The Latin American colonies set out for the New World in search of gold; leaving their families behind; later intermarrying with the Indians; making little or no effort toward agriculture, but rather leaning toward mining; creating no permanent government by the people and establishing no school facilities.

Mrs. Walter O. Latham gave several points on what the Methodists are doing in South America.

There are over five hundred ministers in South America, trying to proclaim the gospel to all men. Their sanctuaries range in contrast from mud huts to impressive edifices.

There is a tremendous challenge for Protestants. Schools are needed desperately. Forty percent of the population is illiterate, and the secondary and primary schools are the greatest need.

Social centers can help carry the message of Christ, Mrs. Latham said.

In conclusion, she suggested that an abundance of Christian literature be sent to these people, as messengers of Christ.

Book Exchange Club
The Book Exchange Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Highsmith with Mrs. Sylvia Jackson, co-hostess.

After a brief business session with Mrs. Dennis Hardy presiding, Mrs. Jackson introduced Mrs. Walter Latham who gave a program on literary efforts among eastern North Carolinians. She touched upon the history of literature in North Carolina and the state's difficulty in becoming recognized in a literary sense. A specific comparison of "firsts" in Pitt and Beaufort County was given and she concluded the program by urging book club members to write creatively of the things about them.

The meeting was adjourned and apple pie a la mode with coffee was served to fifteen members and one guest.

Miss Margaret Rose Edmondson is Miss Hardberger in the Hardberger Business College booth at the State Fair Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Edmondson, Jr., and son, Robbie, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Edmondson, Sr., this weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson are teaching in the Richlands High School this year.

Nursery Available
Beginning next Sunday Oct. 22, a Nursery will be operated at the Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church during the eleven o'clock worship service in order that parents may leave their small children to be cared for while they and the older children attend morning worship service. Mrs. E. F. Satterthwaite and a co-worker will be in charge of these children.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Moore of Norfolk, Va., were weekend guests of Mrs. Moore's mother, Mrs. W. E. Crisp.

Miss Ginger Young spent the weekend in Ahoskie with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young.

Mrs. Ashley Walker, Miss Pearl Walker of High Point and Mr. Alvin Walker of Ashboro visited with T. C. James last Thursday.

Mrs. James visited her sister, Mrs. H. L. Lewis in Greenville last Sunday and while there she visited patients in Pitt Memorial.

Mrs. W. E. Crisp and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Tetterton had as their guests for dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Connor, Jerry and Linwood, their children of Abbottsburg and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Nicholson of Williamson were guests of Mrs. R. L. Whitley. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Nicholson and Miss Sandra Nicholson last Sunday.

Mrs. Z. D. Whitehurst has been discharged from the hospital in Raleigh and is not at home.

Club Schedules U.N. Program
The Greenville Music Club is participating in United Nations Week by having as their program Monday night at 8:00 "Our Rich World of Music from other Lands."

Europe will be represented by Miss Catherine Labaume, a student from France. South America will be represented by Miss Julia Escalona, a student from Chile, and Miss Maria Haendel, from Montevideo, Uruguay. Asia will be represented by Miss Maggy Tamura, a Japanese student who has lived in Syria and in Egypt.

The meeting will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Moye and children, Jane and Jedd of Norfolk, Va., spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Letha Cherry

Mrs. Blanche Gray, Mrs. J. B. Conleton, Jr., Mrs. H. F. Conleton, and Mrs. G. H. Roebuck attended the Christian Union in Englehard last Wednesday.

Mrs. W. P. Harris and daughter, Ann of Robersonville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Slade Congleton Friday night.

Miss Joy Perkins of Durham spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Perkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Whitehurst of Wilmington spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Judson Whitehurst.

Mrs. Ester Hardison returned home Monday after spending a few days in Grifton with Mrs. Bruce Pittman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Collie, Mrs. Annie Collie, and Miss Lotie Shearin of Spring Hope visited Mrs. Callie Fleming Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and daughter, Gail of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Ward and daughter, Libby, and Mr. Bob Sydenstricker of Hamilton were the supper guests of Mr. and Mrs.

honor and Linda Lee Lemke of Norfolk, Va., as flower girl.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was George F. W. Lemke, Jr., of Hampton, Va. Ushers were William Dennis Lemke, Norfolk, Va.; Albert Emil Lemke, Norfolk, Va.; Franklin Delano Rooks, Norfolk, Va.; and Oliver Perry Rooks, Jr., of Norfolk, Va.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Chesapeake Room of the NOB Officers Club. The couple will reside in Norfolk, Va. after a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and New York.

Slade Congleton Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cherry and daughter, Tamy of Kinston, visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cherry Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stokes spent Monday and Tuesday in Wallace with their daughter, Mrs. Jim Norman, Mr. Norman and daughter, Sussianne.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Congleton and family, Mrs. Cora Page and Mr. and Mrs. Slade Congleton attended the homecoming of the First Christian Church in Robersonville Sunday.

Mrs. H. L. Watson, Mrs. Ray Fush and Mrs. J. C. Stokes attended the Methodist Church meeting in Williamson Tuesday.

Mrs. Hazel Bullock is a patient in Park View Hospital in Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Hardison Gives Program
The Oak Grove Ladies Aid met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Hazel Bullock. The president, Mrs. Thomas Leggett, presided over the meeting. After opening prayer by Mrs. Charles Hardy, a lesson on "Using Our Talents for Christ" was given by Mrs. Theibert Hardison, Miss Gail Bullock concluded the program with a poem, entitled "My Mission".

After a short business session the hostesses served jello, cold cakes, salted nuts, and cup drinks.

Others attending were Mrs. Joe James, Mrs. Kenneth Hardison, Mrs. Tracy Barnhill, Mrs. Zeno James, Mrs. J. C. Kirkman, Mrs. Jasper James, and Mrs. Ronald Bullock.

Hopeful Note As To Tax Structure

It should be reassuring to the people of North Carolina that in the opinion of top state officials the proposed $61.5 million bond issue for capital improvements should not affect the tax structure of the state.

If the bond issue is approved on Nov. 7, it will mean that the state will borrow $61.5 million which will have to be repaid with interest over a period of years. Gov. Sanford and State Treasurer Edwin Gill have asserted, however, that the present tax structure of the state should provide sufficient revenues for retiring these bonds without the necessity of increasing tax rates.

North Carolina needs the improvements which will be provided through the proposed bond issue funds. They include facilities for state hospitals and institutions, state-supported colleges and universities, and improvements for various state agencies. The issue also includes self-liquidating bonds for improvements to state ports which will be paid for out of the earnings of the state's ports at Morehead City and Wilmington.

As the people of North Carolina prepare to go to the polls to vote on the bond issue, many are greatly concerned with counting the cost in terms of whether approval of the issue will mean higher taxes.

From the statements of these two top state officials, there appears no reason to think the issuance of these bonds will mean any increase in taxes. Counting the cost, in connection with the proposed bond issue, should also include consideration of the situation in which many state agencies and institutions will find themselves if the bond issue is not approved.

How will state hospitals care for the increasing number of patients without additional facilities to be financed out of bond issue funds? How will our colleges and universities provide for the great number of new applicants for admission if they lack the dormitories, classroom buildings and other facilities needed to take care of a rapidly growing number of students? How will other agencies of the state meet the increasing demands being made upon them unless they are provided adequate facilities with which to work?

North Carolina and its people need the improvements proposed in the $61.5 million bond issue to be decided upon on November 7. We urge the citizens of this area to consider the bond issue proposals and to vote in favor of the bond issue when they go to the polls on that day.

The Individual Might Help Get An Industry

Many people often ask the question, "how can I help my community get an industry?"

There are many ways in which many individuals may help with the economic development of their communities and one is by helping the community to provide prospective industries with statistical information they need.

At present the Pitt County Development Commission is making a survey of the availability of potential workers for three industries which are considering Pitt County as a possible location. Whether or not adequate labor to meet the needs of the industries is available in this immediate area will surely be a determining factor in the final decision of these industries.

Persons of the county who may be interested in employment offered by one of these potential industries have been asked by the Development Commission and by the local office of the Employment Security Commission to answer questionnaires which have been published in the newspapers of the county and mailed to all of the boxholders of the county. From the response which is made to these questionnaires, the Development Commission will furnish information reflected by the response to the questionnaires will accurately reflect the availability of labor in this county.

Whether the information thus compiled will accurately reflect the labor situation as it exists in the county depends upon the cooperation these two agencies receive from persons who are interested in employment. The Reflector urges the people of the county who might be interested in industrial employment to cooperate with the labor survey now underway. By doing so they will be helping the Development Commission provide information which a prospective industry wants. They might also be helping to create a future job for themselves and a future industry for the county.

Full Separation Is Not Possible

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

After all the arguments about the separation of church and state, which means non-interference by one with the other, Congress passed Public Law 87-318 which reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That no priest, clergyman, rabbi, or other duly licensed, ordained, or consecrated minister of any religion authorized to perform a marriage ceremony in the District of Columbia or duly accredited practitioner of Christian Science shall be examined in any civil or criminal proceedings in the courts of the District of Columbia—

(1) with respect to any confession, or communication, made to him, in his professional capacity in the course of discipline imposed by the church or other religious body to which he belongs, without the consent of the person making such confession or communication, or

(2) with respect to any communication made to him, in his professional capacity in the course of giving religious or spiritual advice, without the consent of the person seeking such advice, or

(3) with respect to any communication made to him, in his professional capacity, by either spouse, in connection with any effort to reconcile estranged spouses, without the consent of the spouse making the communication.

I am not writing in criticism of the law, but the fact is that this is the protection of a religious rite by the state which is gainfully those who insist that the Constitution forbids any such relationship. This law is favorable to the Roman Catholic Church which specializes in private confession, although most churches have some form of public confession of sin. The Jews, for instance, do not practice private confession but they do on the Day of Atonement and on some other occasions, engage in public confession.

This Act, particularly Section Three, is an invasion of the authority of the courts, but is morally sound because unless secrecy were respected reconciliations would not be possible. In any form of marital troubles this is a very important consideration. We have here a conflict between those who insist that separation of church and state means a total lack of relationship between social agencies which exist in the same area and which must be related because they exist and those who insist that the emphasis upon separation of church and state cannot mean total separation.

Thus, those who oppose the cooperation of church and state in a society in which both exist raise a false issue because all institutions which exist in the same area must either cooperate or be antagonistic. It is unbelievable that in our society church and state should be antagonistic to each other; therefore, they must cooperate. The extent of such cooperation is a just subject for discussion.

In the armed forces this is carried on through in the chaplain services which are never divided as to religions but only as to services. In a Naval District, for instance, the chief chaplain may be a Jew, Catholic or Protestant, but all chaplains will wear naval uniforms and will perform services not only according to their own rites, but according to many rites. The highest form of religious cooperation is to be found in the chaplain services and the United States government and its military management.

If all this can be accomplished in the armed forces and in the District of Columbia, why should there be such an agitation for restriction of the relations of any church to other schools? The agitators for separation of church and state in relation to education fail to recognize that it is impractical to claim that religion should have no relationship to education when both religion and education exist in the same area and are, in effect, related to the same government. Besides, historical tradition in the United States is religious, this country having been founded by religious sects which migrated to it from England, France, Holland, Germany and other countries in pre-Revolutionary times.

The Marxists and other atheists have raised an unnecessary issue in our society with a view to increasing separations within our communities. It is essential to end these separations and to build a more cooperative society. Every effort at separation can only be designed to weaken the country and to substitute internal quarrels for cooperation. We do not need conformity but cooperation without compromise is possible.

Scraping The Barrel

When the big press lies idle and still during its accustomed hour of life, things just aren't the same.

For people habituated to the rumble, its absence is much like the stop of a heartbeat while other manifestations of life still function.

A late telephone call Thursday night informed me the breakdown was complete and the pages would have to be "closed out" at the least by 12:30. . . almost two hours earlier than the accustomed deadline.

We made it.

The mail brought a letter from Honolulu. . . a letter, of sorts, that is. It was said to have been written by a 17-year-old girl who sailed on the yacht Phoenix, for Vladivostok, to protest the testing of nuclear weapons.

Other Editors Saying Air Support Ready

(Henderson Dispatch)

Sky Shield II, the large-scale air defense test involving U.S., Canadian and British military aircraft last weekend, has been termed by authorities as fully successful and profitable. Few details as to degree or perfection attained or as to failures which perhaps were noted have been disclosed publicly, nor are they likely to be revealed in the near future.

That is as it should be, probably, since baring of information on Allied air strength to potential enemies would not be in the national interest.

One point, however, which was obvious but which drew apparently only casual notice was the cooperation between civil and military aviation in the mammoth test. For a twelve-hour period, all commercial and civil aircraft were grounded, thus allowing complete freedom of the sky for the military planes.

Despite the crowded schedules and heavy transportation load carried by the commercial airliners, particularly during a weekend period, almost no complaint against the air travel ban was voiced. The situation indicated harmony in the partnership between the military and scheduled airlines.

That partnership originated long ago and means the two phases of aviation are more than occasional allies. They have a partnership in national defense, providing an airlift which could clear weapons. The letter was more of an essay on Hiroshima and brotherhood. It was printed to simplify the problem of distribution. As are all such writings, this was sentimentalized to extremes.

Brutally speaking, the old-fashioned artillery shells, napalm, bombs and bazooka rockets can do the same kind of job the nuclear weapons this young lady protests. It just takes a little more time.

"Leading a dog's life" isn't all bad. Take our family dog for example.

During the past week his "entree" has alternated between roast beef and steak. This is pretty good; even for humans.

Other Editors Saying Air Support Ready

be a crucial factor in any national emergency. Prime support by the nation's airlines stands constantly available.

The role of the airlines in national defense goes back nearly a century to the National Aeronautics Act of 1938 in which Congress charged both the industry and the government with responsibility for developing a system which can serve in commerce and in national defense. Since then the industry has developed a worldwide system with resources including some 1,800 airliners of various types, 530,000 miles of well-established national and international air routes and, also, vast experience, 165,000 experienced men and women with millions of hours of training and experience.

In event of an all-out war, they would immediately be called upon to support the military through the Civil Reserve Air Fleet, made up of over 200 first-rank planes, and through the War Air Service Pattern (WASP). The CRAP planes are even fitted for quick switch from civil to military requirements.

The airliners make up no mothball fleet. They are in the air every day and manned by crews which remain at peak efficiency in training. They are on call 24 hours a day as part of the national defense. And that could be a vital factor in these times of repeated international crises.

ALUMINUM CAN IS COMING More light cans: The aluminum can has made some slow progress in the last decade, notably for oil, fish and a few other products. But many technical problems have been overcome and more and more products will appear in the light cans. Reynolds Metals is set to produce 30 million juice cans a month as fast as citrus concentrators order them.

Toppingest Christmas: This is a re-prediction. At the end of the last Christmas shopping season this column, just to be first, predicted that new records would be set in December, 1961. While there were moments when this forecast seemed rash, it now seems sounder than ever. To repeat: Christmas sales this year will set a new high mark.

Earlier blackberries: U. S. and Oregon experts have developed a new early-ripening blackberry for the Pacific Northwest. For details, ask the Agriculture Experimental Station, Corvallis, Ore.

PLASTICS TO RISE Higher polystyrene: Prices for general purpose polystyrene are to go higher in the month ahead. Costs of producing this versatile plastic have been going up and most producers are ready to boost prices; Dow has already taken the step. This portends rises in prices of other basic plastics.

Consumer spending to improve: Despite the rise in employment in late summer, retail sales increased modestly during the early fall. This has caused many observers to say the apparent upturn was not truly sound, and could wither away. Nonsense. Unemployment was heavy in the early half of the year and strikes were widespread. After such conditions, the upturn in consumer buying is naturally slow. Families have to pay off food debts and back rent before they can return to the market in force for autos, appliances and modest luxuries.

Finns' First Lady

By RAY KOHN
NEW YORK (AP) — When company is coming, Sylvi Kekkonen bustles about the premises giving final pats to pillows, reviewing floral arrangements, and checking on refreshments like all housewives. Only the "house" often is a castle in Helsinki.

A blue-eyed, petite, gentle lady—but with plenty of what her husband calls "aisu" determination — Sylvi combines homemaking, motherhood and writing novels with being the wife of the president of Finland.

A lover of the fine arts, and naturally more so if they happen to be of native origin, Sylvi had a field day Thursday while visiting a craft exhibit of Finnish artisans.

The 5-foot-2 First Lady strolled quietly through the exhibit, now softly touching an enamel plate, or patting a bird sculpture, or standing off to admire for a long moment another particular piece.

Until her husband, Urho Kekkonen, became president in 1956, Sylvi did all the housework and entertaining in their Helsinki home. Now she must maintain four official houses: the presidential residence and a castle, both in Helsinki; a weekend retreat about 60 miles from the capital; and a summer home on an island.

But, maintains Sylvi, "My day is no different from that of any other Finnish housewife."

Sylvi enjoys artistry representing both the present and the past. In her Helsinki home she blends 17th century antiques — some Finnish and some French — with other period pieces, plus modern art and accessories.

As she puts it, "I love new and old things."

Sylvi is admired in her country, not only as a pleasing personage, but as an author. She has written three novels and one book of aphorisms, and has an active literary following. One novel has been translated into Russian and is being prepared for a German translation.

Sylvi's English is excellent, and she chatted amiably with reporters in their language. Asked about her favorite Finnish and she diplomatically declined comment. With a twinkle in her eyes, however, she gave a verbal pat on the back to one by saying:

"I'm awfully glad Birger Kalplainen gave up working in Sweden and came home to Finland."

Any contrivance would have been glad to claim the outfit she wore: an off-white, homespun wool with flared skirt. As accessories, she wore gold earrings, a delicately wrought gold bracelet, and a gold and topaz pin with the look of an abstract sculpture.

She was especially pleased when asked about the latter. "Yes," she said, "it's a Finnish handmade pin."

On the subject of clothes, she related how, in the early days of her marriage, she made her own clothes and those of her twin sons, Matti and Taneli.

In Helsinki, it's a standing order every Saturday with son Matti, now a lawyer and member of Parliament, and his family.

The other son, Taneli, first secretary of the Finnish delegation to the United Nations, lives here with his wife and son, Timo.

This Saturday, Sylvi said, has been left free to devote to Timo, and she looks forward to spoiling him "outrageously."

Opinions In Brief

"The newspapers reported that members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress were eager for a chance to speak with President Kennedy during his visit to North Carolina yesterday. Since most of them habitually vote against the President's program in the House, wonder why they were so eager to hear the homflogs see them, chatting with Mr. Kennedy?" — The Raleigh Times.

"The average man has three colds a year, and these cold industry approximately 90 million working days annually." — Bishop (Calif.) Inyo Register.

on the fall-out shelter scare. "This is the plan that will save the men who count in America," he said. "You know that the public is slow to buy the shelter idea. I have a shelter plan, complete with blueprints, that will change all that."

"My plans provide for a fall-out proof shelter underground that can also serve as a cocktail lounge whether it falls or doesn't. It is equipped with a bar and cylinders of carbon dioxide as well as oxygen. It has sunken recesses for six weeks supply of drinking stuff and six weeks supply of carbonated water, so the inmates need not worry about contamination. There is also provision for free lunch and other food, air filters, Geiger counters and the other stuff that goes into the mixing—I mean the making—of a shelter. "The best part about this is that when the first bomb falls, another will never have to worry about where father is. He will be down in the shelter, conditioning himself for the worst."

As politely, as I could, I declined to put $10,000 into the project—only because I didn't have ten grand on me."

Quit Talking In General Terms

By LYNN NISBET

SPECIFICS — Governor Sanford evidently feels the time has come to quit talking in generalities about reducing traffic accidents and to get down to specific plans for eliminating hazards. He announced this week that he will appoint within a few days a Safety Engineering Coordinating Committee. The Committee will be composed of six to nine people—two or three named by the Director of Motor Vehicles, two or three each by the Director of Highways and the head of the Traffic Safety Council.

Significance in the announcement is not that another committee is being set up, but because this one has specific duties set out. It is not a conventional holding talking association, but a hard working small group.

It will be required to meet at least once a month, and to keep minutes of these meetings. The committee will review every traffic accident report made by officers with a view to determining whether engineering faults contributed to the accident. Special careful study will be made of situations where several accidents have occurred at the same place or almost identical accidents at different places. In such instances there is at least suspicion of engineering faults. Curves too sharp, visibility poor, inadequate signs, and numerous other major and minor deficiencies contribute to accidents.

The Governor made it clear this plan will not impose any additional burdens on the State or municipal officers. They will continue to make the same kind of factual reports. The key to the program is co-ordination.

THE TOGETHER — Final reports on every accident have gone into the Motor Vehicles Department and the several municipal police departments. They have been checked with respect to that particular event, and filed for reference by law enforcement officers, insurance agents and lawyers. But up to now each report has constituted a separate entity and there was no tie-in with other related or similar incidents.

Governor Sanford's co-ordinating committee will look at these reports from overall view, compare conditions and situations, especially where similarity is found in probable causes of the accidents. Recommendations then will be made for improvements at specific sites and now instead of waiting until a biennial composite report can be prepared and general recommendations based upon it.

This program would appear to offer more hope for immediate reduction in traffic accidents than all the big traffic safety councils and their publicity about how they are going to solve the problem.

OPTIMISTIC — Governor Sanford exuded optimism and courage at his weekly news conference. The State Fair at Raleigh was living up to its promise of being the biggest and best in history. The first State-sponsored Trade Fair in Charlotte was more than an unqualified success—it was an unexpected success. The number and quality of exhibits, the number and caliber of the people attending, were far better than most optimistic forecasts. Reports from over the state indicate that the $62 million capital improvement bonds will be voted, said the Governor. He was very happy about these developments. He was so happy, in fact, he did not want to be bothered with any unpleasant items, like internal administration controversy over the central payroll unit, or who was responsible for the admittedly nefarious newsboy-collected sales tax on newspapers.

TOO FAR — The Governor's exuberant optimism, plus the same type of egotism displayed by nearly every chief executive, led him to make a wild prediction. Answering a reporter's question as to whether the issuance of the $62 million bonds would increase the State tax rate, the Governor said it would not. He explained that the State tax program is geared to the economic situation, to such extent that when need is greater more money is available.

Then he said that in absence of a general depression there is no likelihood that the tax structure of North Carolina will have to be changed within a generation. He felt that the 1961 General Assembly at his instance enacted tax bills that will take care of all State needs for many years.

Unfortunately, things just don't work out like that, although each succeeding Governor with magnificent egotism seems to think so. The "permanent" revenue bill adopted in 1939 has been amended every two years since. Basic changes in what Governor Hoey thought was a "permanent" schedule were made under Governor Broughton in 1941, and in 1961 Governor Sanford went back to many of the sales tax features of the Hoey bill. The corporate income tax structure was materially changed in 1957 at instance of Governor Hodges from what it had been for many years.

Each of these Governors offered tax programs which they thought were best for the State, and the Legislature went along and enacted them. Each Governor also thought he had solved the problems for a generation or more, only to see the next chief executive bust up his plan.

YOUR NEWSPAPER TAKES ITS STAND ON THE FRONTIER OF FREEDOM

Delay Launching Of Spacecraft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technical problems forced postponement today of an attempt to launch a Ranger 2 spacecraft to try out techniques for sending future vehicles to the moon, Mars and Venus.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the postponement at 3:20 a.m. without disclosing the nature of the trouble. No new launch date was scheduled. If the trouble was minor, another effort may be made in a day or two.

Scientists have six days of a favorable seven-day launch period remaining in which to fire the Atlas-Agena rocket to put it on its desired deep-space trajectory designed to reach more than half a million miles away from earth. The purpose is to boost the Agena's second stage into a "parking orbit" 100 miles above the earth and, at the proper time, eject the 675-pound Ranger 2 on its highly elliptical orbit.

The spacecraft will test equipment to be used on later lunar and interplanetary spacships. The first Ranger launch in August was only partially successful.

YOUTHFUL GEORGE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A statue of George Washington at a lawyers' exhibit at the state fair spent one day decked out with brown hair.

Municipal Judge James Demopolis, handing out literature at the display, said a man grabbed a wig from the statue and ran. A brown wig was the best replacement that could be found immediately, the judge said.

Phantoms Roll Over New Bern In Comeback Fashion

PHANTOMS STOP BEAR . . . Rommie Brock and Alan McArthur put the slumps on New Bern tailback, Donald Davis in first half action of Greenville's 21-13 victory over the visiting Bears. Kroghie Andresen, Phant half-back, moves into the scene to assist. (Reflector Staff Photos)

COLLEGE STADIUM— Greenville's Phantoms, stopped cold in the first half of play against New Bern last night, retaliated with 21 points in the second half to hand the Bears their first Northeastern Conference loss by a 21-13 score before a packed house of screaming homecoming fans.

Bottled Up
The visiting Bears, pre-season picks along with Greenville to be the Northeastern frontrunners, bottled up the Phantom offense most of the first 24 minutes of the contest with a big forward wall spearheaded by flanker Roland Verrone and guard Leon Potter.

The locals received the opening kickoff and drove 55 yards to the New Bern 6 yard line, but on a crucial fourth down and two yards to go for a first, tailback Donald Davis crashed through into the Greenville secondary to throw Alan McArthur for a three yard loss to stifle the drive.

Bears Score
After a scoreless first period, the Bears got down to business, stopping another Phantom drive at the New Bern 33.

Verrone, also the New Bern punting specialist, booted one to McArthur at the Greenville 25, but the flashy Phantom halfback fumbled the ball and chased it back to the seven where he fell on it. Three running plays netted the Phantoms only five yards, and with a fourth and five to go situation facing them, McArthur went into punt formation.

Henry Ezzel, reserve tailback, gathered in the kick at the middle field stripe and returned it to the Phantom 35, and the Bears were deep in Greenville territory.

A 12 yard gain by Davis and an unnecessary roughness penalty which moved the ball halfway to the Phantom goal line gave the Bears a second and one situation on the Greenville 13. Davis plunged into the middle of the Phantom line for a first down on the 12. Davis carried 7 more yards to the Phant 5, then fullback Ronald Wallace took over. In two plays, the hard-charging Wallace was in the Greenville end zone with the first score of the evening. With 3:25 left in the first half, Verrone split the uprights with a perfect extra point kick to give the Bears a 7-0 halftime lead.

Phants Open Up
It didn't take the locals long to get something started in the third period. After stifling the visitors on their own 43, the Phantoms took over on their 32.

The Phantoms went 78 yards in two plays for their first score of the evening. Fullback Wayne Sumrell gained nine yards straight up the middle on the first play. On second down and only inches to go for a first down on the Phantom 41, quarterback Billy Neal James came up with what was probably the smartest call of the evening. With such a short distance to go for a first down, the New Bern defenders were naturally expecting a plunge straight up the middle. Instead James sent both of his ends, Jack Foley and Burney Morris downfield for a pass. James tossed easily to Morris at the New Bern 30 and he raced untouched to the promised land for the six pointer. Halfback Kroghie Andresen booted the extra point to knot the count at 7-7 after only two minutes and 30 seconds of the third period had elapsed.

Bears Bounce Back
The visitors bounced right back, however, with a scoring drive of 70 yards of their own. Davis and Wallace, a potent combination that picked up most of the 282 yards rushing that the Bears accumulated during the contest, shared in the touchdown drive which took about five minutes. The scoring play was by Davis, who took the snap from center, spun around, faked to his full-back, spun back around, and raced 42 yards for the score.

Verrone's placement attempt for the extra point was wide, and the Bears held a 13-7 advantage. James would not let his team fall behind for long, however, as he engineered another scoring play within three minutes.

Starting on their own 43, the Phantoms moved the ball on the ground to the New Bern 43. At that point, James hit his favorite target, Morris, on a jump pass to set up the second Greenville touchdown on the visitors'

22 yard line. The play covered 31 yards. On the next play, James took things into his own hands, juggling to the left and racing untouched into the New Bern end zone to tie the score at 13-13. Andresen booted his second extra point to put the locals out front, 14-13.

Phants Clinch Win
The locals put the icing on the cake in the fourth period. As soon as they got their hands on the ball, the Phantoms drove 49 yards for their third and final score.

This time James connected with another target, Andresen, for a ten yard scoring play. The play was a crucial one for the Phants, who were faced with a fourth and one situation. James faked back, spotted the stocky Andresen in the New Bern end zone, and hit him with a perfect spiral aerial. Andresen then stepped back to the 11 yard line and calmly booted his third consecutive extra point of the night.

New Bern, now desperate for a score with only five minutes left in the game, began to move the ball after taking the kickoff. A 40 yard run by Davis to the Greenville 24 put new life into the New Bern routing section. The flashy tailback, who is reported to have already signed a full grant-in aid to UNC, broke into the clear at the midfield stripe, and was finally brought down from behind by James, the Phantom safety man.

The threat was short-lived, however, as a 15 yard penalty for having an illegal receiver downfield on the next play sent the Bears back to the Phantom 39. Two more running plays netted nothing for the losers, and the Phants took over to claim the victory.

VANCEBORO—Farmville's Red Devils walked over the Vanceboro eleven last night 47-0 with the home team posing only one threat during the entire game.

The visitors took advantage of three Vanceboro fumbles, an intercepted pass and a 60-yard drive in coming home victorious. The chilly weather seemed to have no effect on the Red Devils as they played one of the hottest games of the season.

The first Farmville touchdown came after Rennie Turner recovered a fumble by Vanceboro quarterback Dewey Tripp on the Vanceboro 28 yard line. In three plays Rex Hodges and Danny Dilda moved the ball to the six yard line with Dilda running around right end for the score. The extra point try failed.

After a series of downs by Vanceboro and little gain, the Red Devils took over on the home team's 40 yard line. Dilda picked up 25 yards on a reverse and on the next play Robin Rouse went over from 10 yards out for the score. A pass from Dean Oglesby to Chester Outland gained the extra point for the Red Devils.

The Farmville eleven went on in the second quarter to score two more touchdowns. They recovered a fumble on the Vanceboro 25 which set up the first of these. A completed pass from Dilda to David Quinn for 34 yards put the Red Devils on the one yard line, but a penalty moved them out to the 16. On the next play Dilda ran an end sweep for the touchdown. The extra point was made on a pass from Oglesby to Dilda in the end zone. The next score came after halfback John King intercepted a Vanceboro pass and ran to the 22 yard line before he was stopped. After successive drives, a pass from Dilda to Outland was good for the touchdown. The conversion was made on a pass from Dilda to Outland.

In the third quarter Farmville started on their own 39 yard line and drove down for the score. The drive was sparked by a 17 yard run by Hodges and a 13 yard run by Rouse. After a 15 yard penalty the Red Devils took to the air and a pass from Dilda to Quinn gained the score. The extra point was made on a pass from Oglesby to Hodges.

In the final quarter of the game Farmville again scored two touchdowns. A punt by Farmville's Johnny Hardison went out of bounds on the Vanceboro one yard line and a few plays later Vanceboro's Charles Ipock fumbled on his own nine yard line with freshman David Ryon recovering for the Red Devils. On a second down play halfback John King scored from the eight yards out. The extra point try failed, making the score 40-0.

After taking over on downs Farmville marched to the Vanceboro 20 yard line with a pass from Dilda to Quinn moving them to the two yard line. On the next play quarterback Bobby Fiser sneaked across for the final touchdown of the game. The extra point was made on an end run by Dilda.

Ayden Defeats Contentnea For Eighth Straight Win

CONTENTNEA—Last night at the Contentnea Stadium, the Ayden Tornadoes overpowered Contentnea's Wildcats by a 36-0 margin. The contest was the Wildcats' homecoming game, but the outcome was not a desirable one for the returning alumni.

Cold Weather
In cold, biting weather, Contentnea won the toss and elected to receive the opening kickoff. William Edwards' kick was allowed to roll dead at the Wildcat 17. Contentnea gained 8 yards on two running plays, but a penalty put the ball back to the 20 yard line. After a one yard loss, the Wildcats' J. K. Hall went into punt formation, but his kick was partially blocked by Duane Gwynne and it was picked up by Ayden's Joe Harrington at the Wildcat 25 and returned to the 20. From there Harrington and halfback Rudolph Cannon carried to the six.

Lunn Passes
On second down and goal to go, quarterback Tommy Lunn lobbed a short pass to Emmitt Gibson in the Contentnea end zone. The try for the extra point failed.

Contentnea received the kick, but again they failed to pick up a first down against the rugged Tornado defense, and the winners took over on downs at the Wildcat 35.

A holding penalty set the ball back to the 49, where Edwards punted on third down. The husky All-Conference fullback's kick rolled dead on the Contentnea 2 yard stripe, where a Contentnea back picked it up but was tackled in the end zone by a host of Ayden linemen for a safety. The Tornadoes led at the end of the first period by a 8-0 score.

Ayden failed to get the needed yardage for a first down after taking the Wildcat kick from the 29 yard line, and Edwards kicked from his own 25 to the Wildcat 46. Contentnea's Hall threw to Raymond Phillips for an 11 yard gain, and Mike West ran for another first down to the Ayden 27. There, a 15-yard penalty set the ball back to the 42. On the next play, Edwards intercepted a pass on his own 27 to halt the Wildcat threat.

Ayden Drives
After an exchange of punts, the Tornadoes took over on their own 40. A pass from Dunn to Cannon placed the ball on the Wildcat 25. An 8 yard loss followed, but another pass from Dunn to Cannon put the ball on the 7. Dunn again hit Cannon on the next play for the touchdown, and then the little field general hit Gibson for the extra point.

More interceptions were in store for the winners. After receiving Ayden's kickoff, Contentnea moved to the Ayden 43, but Clem McLawhorn intercepted on his own 30 and raced 70 yards for another Ayden score. Dunn ran for the extra point.

The losers still tried their passing game, and Edwards intercepted another at the Ayden 45 on the last play of the first half. The Tornadoes took a commanding halftime lead of 22-0.

With Harrington, Ayden's leading ground gainer, and Rudolph Cannon leading the way, the Tornadoes smashed to the Contentnea 14 after taking the second half kickoff. Two passes to Cannon moved the ball to the Wildcat 6. From there, Harrington crashed over his right guard twice for the score. Cannon ran for the extra point.

Final Rally
The Tornadoes pushed across the final touchdown in the third period. After holding the Wildcats to no first downs, the winners took over on downs on the Contentnea 36. Cannon and Harrington carried to the 31, McLawhorn pulled down a short pass from Dunn on the 27 and raced to the Wildcat 6. On the next play, Dunn again teamed up with the lanky McLawhorn for the touchdown. Harrington ran for the extra point which gave the Tornadoes their eighth win of the current campaign against no losses.

Bulldogs And Darden Tie 8-8

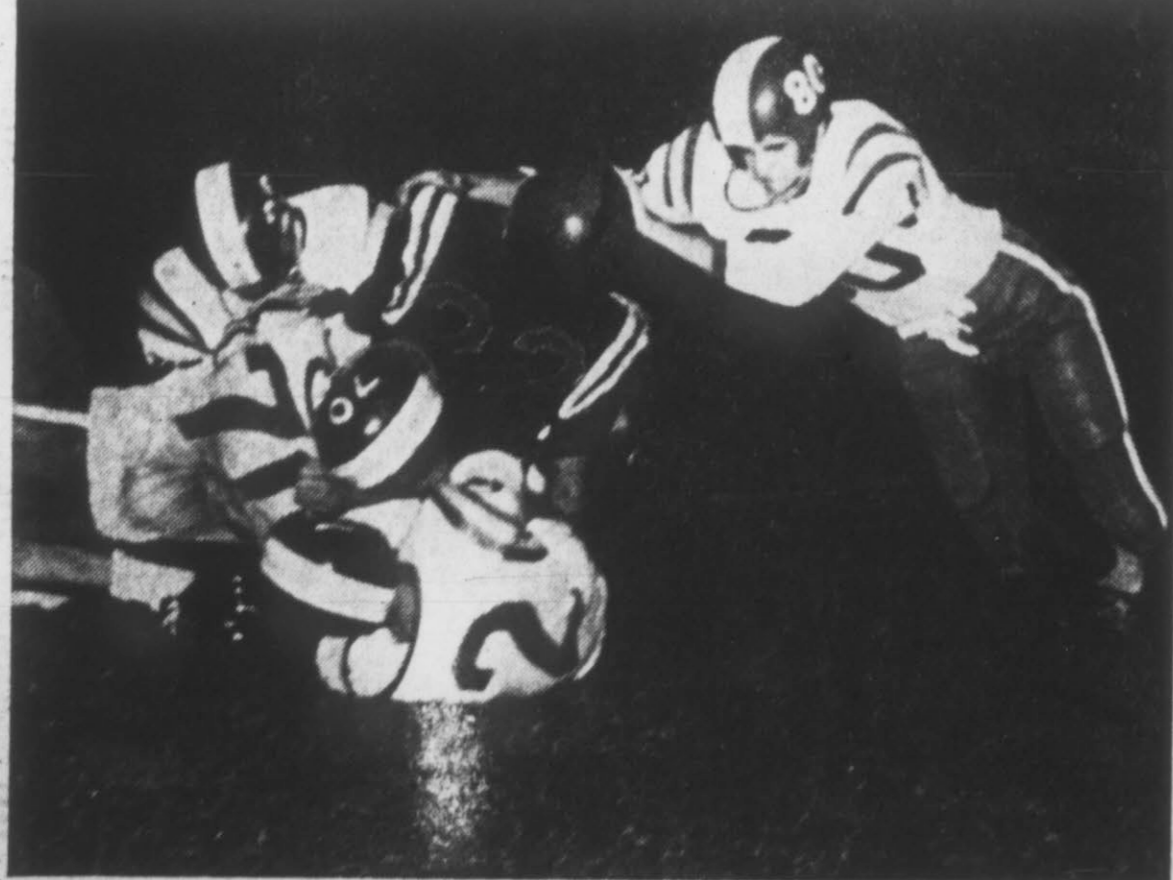

WILSON—The C. M. Eppes Bulldogs and the Darden High Trojans were evenly matched last night in a ball game which ended in an 8-8 tie.

The first half was a tragedy for the Trojans on their home field as they fumbled twice and the Bulldogs managed to recover the ball both times. The second recovery was on the Trojan five yardline. Bulldog quarterback Willie Blount gave the pigskin to fullback Marvin Anderson who ran through the center of the Trojan line for the touchdown. The extra point try failed and the Eppes eleven took the lead 6-0.

After a series of downs by both teams Blount received a Trojan punt on the six yard line but soon had a pass intercepted and it was the Trojan's ball again. As the home team's quarterback went back to pass, Bulldog halfback Johnny Tyson stopped him in the end zone for a safety giving the Bulldogs two more points.

The third quarter was a comeback for the Trojans. They were determined to score and they did after a 50 yard drive across the Eppes goal line. The extra point try was good, tying the game 8-8. In the fourth quarter neither team could get up enough steam to cross the other's goal line.

Score by quarters:
Eppes 6 0 2 0—8
Darden 0 0 8 0—8

YOU'LL NEVER GET AWAY . . . Four Greenville tacklers made sure that New Bern's ace runner, Donald Davis, didn't get much yardage on this play in the Phantom's 21-13 win last night. Putting the tackling touches on Davis are Billy Neal James (12), Alan McArthur (22), Rommie Brock (70), and Richard Taft (80).

West Virginia of the Southern Conference, on a two-game victory binge after failing to win 18 previous encounters, is a slight favorite over Boston University tonight, while Richmond's Spiders are underdogs at Florida State.

Conference teams have taken on 16 opponents outside the league so far this season and won only six times.

Virginia Tech's Gobblers had a chance to improve on the record today but were slight underdogs against Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference in the Harvest Bow, at Roanoke, Va.

The afternoon program also included two key league contests—but neither was expected to turn into a rout such as occurred Friday night when George Washington rebounded from last week's 16-15 Richmond defeat by mauling William and Mary's Indians 49-12 with halfback Dick Drummond running wild.

Budget of the afternoon encounters sent Furman's Paladins to the Citadel, with the loser eliminated from the conference race. Furman carried a 2-1 league record into its last league game. The Citadel boasted a 3-1 mark, best in the conference, with still another game to go.

Crucial Carolinas Loops Games Scheduled Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Newberry Indians, out to make their first year in the Carolinas Conference a big one, can take a big hurdle toward the football championship tonight by defeating East Carolina.

Newberry, 2 - 0 in conference play, already has defeated the pre-season favorite, Lenoir Rhyne, ECC and Appalachian are tied for second place with 3-1 records, but the Indians don't play the Mountaineers.

Lenoir Rhyne, in fourth place with a 2-1 mark, is at Western Carolina (1-2) tonight. Elon (1-2) was at Catawba (1-3) in a day game. In non-conference play, Appalachian, 4-1 overall, plays Carson-Newman at Lenoir, N.C. tonight. Guilford is idle.

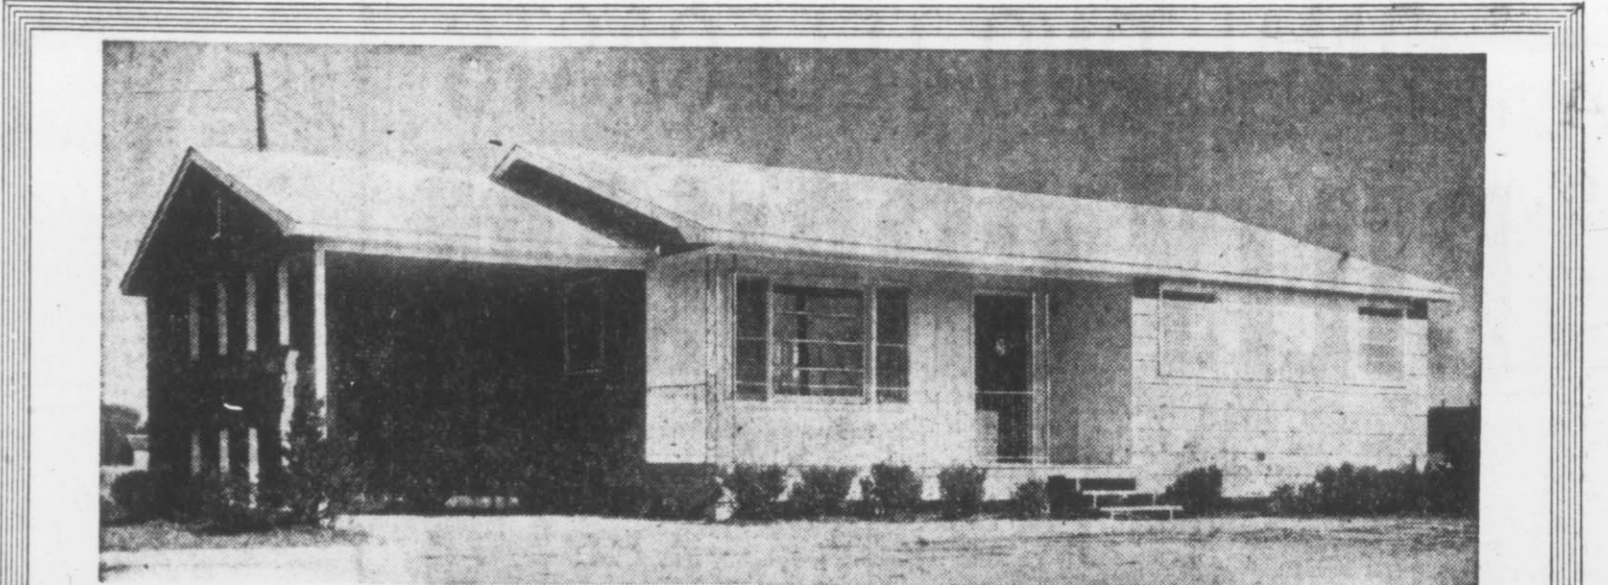

With three title contenders—Newberry, ECC and Lenoir Rhyne—in conference action tonight, these are the possible combinations:
ECC and Lenoir Rhyne victories—ECC takes over first place, Appalachian and Lenoir Rhyne tied for second, a half game behind; and Newberry another half game back.

Newberry and Lenoir Rhyne victories—The Indians retain top spot and hold a strong position for the stretch run, with games against second division teams—Guilford, Elon and Western Carolina. Lenoir Rhyne has ECC, Elon and Catawba ahead.

Newberry and Western Carolina victories—ECC and Lenoir Rhyne virtually eliminated from title contention.

In any case, Appalachian has only two league games left, with East Carolina and Guilford.

Always Urgency In Solving Juvenile's Problem

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

"You've got to do something about this one. Right away, too. Our community just can't settle down until something's done."
"Put him in a training school or somewhere. But whatever you do, do it now."
These are typical comments that hop along telephone lines leading into the Pitt County Welfare Department's Child Welfare Division or that bounce across a desk top squarely into the lap of a caseworker.

When a boy or girl younger than 16 goes astray and runs afoul of the rules of society, there's a tone of urgency in the pleadings and demands of the county's upright and law-abiding citizens to "put them away. . . now."

Pitt's Department of Public Welfare, that has recently provided a separate corner for its Child Welfare program, wrestles daily with the problem: "What to do with county's youth-in-trouble?"

Far heel child welfare laws provide authority to deal with the problems in specific ways. The statutes recognize that the youngsters must receive special treatment although the law classifies persons over 16 as adults as far as court treatment is concerned.

The very structure of the law and the program followed by the county's child welfare division angle toward a departure from the rigid rules of punishment that apply to adult society. Woven into the ideal treatment for youngsters under 16 is the idea of helping—the "let's try to give them another, a better chance" attitude.

The morning after a minor is apprehended for some violation, the process of treatment begins in the Child Welfare Division, located now in a suite of rooms on the second floor of the County Office Building.

— Ted Gartman for boys, Mrs. Bob Howell for girls—begin the process. Their tasks, quite often tedious and perplexing, most often soul-stirring and indelible, must be handled with the greatest possible deliberate speed.

While public pressure from many seems to urge immediate action to rid a particular community of a "menace," the child welfare program practiced in Pitt is pitched on a slightly different key. Gartman and Mrs. Howell, by definition of their jobs, are faced with the task of removing, at least temporarily, the young offenders from their normal social environments.

Subordinating the idea of "getting them out of our way," however, is the goal of seeking to correct the wrong paths being followed by the youths. Correct disposition of cases involving the youngsters is a vital segment of the process. Confinement for the teenagers is punishment. But activities for them during the confinement embrace the philosophy: "If you aught yourself (with our help and the grace of God), society needs you."

The right disposition to fit each case is the responsibility of the county's juvenile court judge, Dave T. House Jr. Judge House must decide at hearings what treatment is best for each youth in trouble.

A delicate procedure, however, precedes each juvenile court hearing. Accompanying Gartman on a typical assignment would reveal something like this:

A 14-year-old Pitt County boy is caught late at night in the act of some petty theft. Local police officers apprehend him and escort him to the police station. His parents are contacted first, if possible, and Gartman is notified the following morning.

In cases where parental consultation is unavailable or considered undesirable, officers contact Gartman or Welfare Department Director J. S. Grimes, who serves as chief probation officer for the county's juvenile court. In those cases, Gartman or Grimes responds immediately.

If parents are contacted, the 14-year-old offender is allowed to return home with his family, pending the investigation. In other cases, Gartman attempts to place the youth in a foster home, most of which are constantly full. Laws forbid jail confinement of minors charged with misdemeanors.

The following day Gartman begins his investigation. First he talks with the officers to determine the facts of the alleged misdemeanor (youths charged with felonies are treated more severely). After he talks with the police, Gartman is off to the school supposedly attended by the boy to talk with teachers and the principal.

"We always try to get the background of the boy before we actually see and talk with him," Gartman says. "Our idea is not necessarily to punish him. We want to help him if we can. We look at his grades in school, his physical and mental abilities or limitations. We look for his complete record so we'll have a pretty good idea of what he's like."

The next stop for Gartman is a visit with the youth's parents. "That's where our real casework comes in," he says. He surveys the youngster's environment at home. "We try to learn what he has been taught at home and how it has been taught to him. If there's a poverty situation in the home, we investigate to see if a public welfare grant could be used to help correct the conditions that have damaged the boy."

After this investigation, Gartman is faced with placing the boy somewhere to await disposition of his case. First he checks with Pitt's foster homes, limited in number to the extent that their total capacity ranges from 4-8. If Pitt's facilities are full, Gartman quickly begins to search for a foster home opening in another county. "We just have to do the best we can with what's available," he says.

Gartman believes an urgent need for the county is a juvenile detention center where the youthful offenders could be handled properly while awaiting hearings. Such a facility, he says, would also be ideal for conducting psychological examinations and other steps in the child program.

Before Judge House can hear the case against a youth, several steps must be completed. Gartman must obtain a petition, usually signed by the person or persons most familiar with the alleged offense. The petition is filed with Judge House and the judge proceeds in one of two directions: (1) he may issue a summons to the youth's parents to appear in juvenile court, or (2) he may order Gartman, as probation officer, to advise or summons parents to appear at the hearing.

Gartman, meanwhile, has prepared a social summary—the story of the boy's life—from his investigation that is submitted to the judge. Judge House reads the boy's social history to familiarize himself with the teenager's background.

The judge then sets the date for the hearing, not held in a regular courtroom but in separate chambers away from adult offenders. Judge House is empowered to close the hearing from all but the persons having a direct interest in or association with the case. Usually attending the hearing are the teenager's parents, the caseworker and perhaps a witness to the offense if deemed necessary by the judge.

Judge House may arrive at one of four decisions:

—Probation: The offender, for a period of not more than five years, may be placed in the custody of a parent, relative or guardian and will receive periodic visits by the probation officer.

—Welfare Department supervision: The youth can be placed in the custody of the welfare department to be placed properly, usually in a foster home.

Institutions for the mentally defective: He may be placed in the custody of the welfare department with a recommendation that he be sent to one of the state's institutions for mentally retarded youngsters. (This decision is preceded by an approved psychological examination.)

—Correctional institutions: He may be sent to one of the state's six training schools for youthful offenders for an indefinite term, usually ranging from 12 to 18 months.

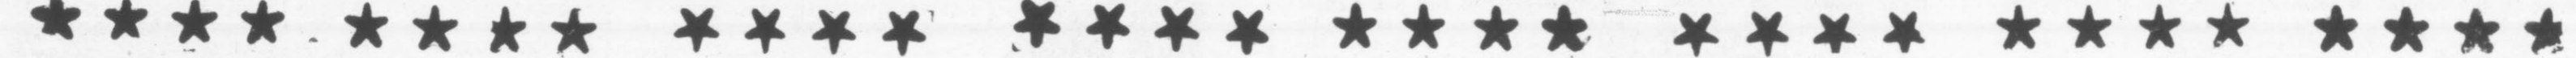

Following Judge House's decision, the parents or guardians may appeal his ruling within five days.

Regardless of how intense feelings of community residents or welfare and court authorities may be, the "due process" spelled out by the law is quite specific. The chain of events following a youth's arrest must be carried out in the correct sequence and during the period of time required, depending upon the case.

To citizens' demands that "something's got to be done right now" about youthful offenders, welfare officials are obliged to bend a sympathetic ear. They, too, wish to handle the matters as rapidly as feasibly possible. The difference that too often becomes quite obvious is in the attitudes of the persons concerned. In the face of demands from citizens that stray teenagers be removed from society, the child welfare worker must remember the ideal of his profession: To help as much as to punish.

Remembering this usually presents no great problem. "When you're associated so closely with these teenagers," says Gartman, "you're constantly aware of the help they need."

MRS. LUCILE RICE JOHNSON . . . in her garden by home in strife torn Laos.

Supposedly On 'Hot Seat' In Laos, But U. S. Couple Never Felt Sense Of Danger

By MARTI MARTIN
Reflector Staff Writer

"We were supposed to have been sitting on a 'hot seat' in Laos," said Mrs. Lucile Rice Johnson as she related some of the experiences she had had in the orient, "but at no time did I feel I was in any danger."

Mrs. Johnson was an East Carolina College faculty member in the science department from 1948 until 1958, when she married Maynard S. Johnson, an entomologist. She accompanied her husband to Laos where he was in charge of malaria control in the Public Health branch of the International Cooperation Administration of the U. S. State Department.

In describing her own personal feelings about the political upheaval while in Laos, Mrs. Johnson said that "it seemed to be almost a family affair—a Laos Civil War." She explained that the problem seemed to be due in large to the friction between the brothers and half-brothers and between the North Country and the city.

"The North Country wanted what the city had. How much it was egged on by other forces and groups, no one can say for sure. There was never any real evidence that Russia had anything to do with it in the beginning of the trouble, but again no one knows how much was instigated by other forces.

"One of the Laos groups felt that they should have received more American aid. They also felt that they were left out of a number of things and that they were not consulted on enough of the political affairs. In short, their feelings were hurt—they didn't feel important."

"I do not recall any instant where any of us were in any real danger," she recalled. "A number of Americans did become concerned when the French General's home was shot up right next door to where they were living. Yet, this in itself, shows how easy it would have been to have fired on the Americans there, but the chance was passed by."

—Saw Little of Army— Mrs. Johnson said that except for tanks and soldiers parading through the streets, she saw little of the army. "Due to unsettled conditions in Laos," she said, "all of the women and children were sent to Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, during August of 1960." She was in Laos when the capital city, Vientiane was first taken.

"Captain Kong Le marched into the city and took over the government offices while the new premier, Tiao Somsanith, and a number of other high officials were visiting another city, Luang Prabang, to make plans for the cremation of the old king. While they were away Captain Kong Le came into Vientiane and proclaimed a new government rule.

"A former premier, the first in the history of Laos as an independent nation, Souvanna Phouma accepted the offer from the Kong Le group to lead the nation with the approval of the King and the recognition of his new office by several countries.

"Relatives in power became more divided in their opinions over neutralism and pro-Communist movements. There were three basic factions of frictions: the government in the Western Laos section, the Neutralists and the Pathet group."

"So far as the Laos people themselves were concerned, they seemed to feel the quarrel was among themselves and the fight was meant to be among themselves. The general populace of Laos didn't seem to care who came in, just so long as they were left alone."

Various Opinions The former ECC faculty instructor pointed out that a number of opinions were formed as to the real cause of the difficulty in Laos and that hers was only one among many. She added, "People see it from different points of view and it is hard to tell for sure who or what is correct.

"Yet over and beyond the political aspect of Laos, there were many remembrances that won't go down in the history books," smiled Mrs. Johnson. "The monsoon climate with dry spells and torrential 'thunderstorm' type rains and the easy going type of people, with whom sign language was the fastest means of communication for the Americans. . . these constitute only a few of the interesting parts of Laos culture."

She laughed as she said, "One of the most puzzling things that happened to the American women occurred when they went to get their hair cut in the Laos beauty parlors.

"The operators would exclaim excitedly, 'No, you are not old enough to have your hair cut!' It wasn't until later that the American women found out just what was behind all the hair cutting business."

Mrs. Johnson said "In Laos it seems that when a native woman became past the child-bearing age she would have her hair cut and go out to find a new day celebrated by the throwing band. She would still stay with the family along with the younger wife and would remain "head wife" in the family. Many of the people of Laos practice polygyny."

"In the market places a number of the fruits and vegetables that we eat in the States could be found. Meat was scarce in Laos.

"The people raised only as much food as was needed. No plan for surplus foods was being followed, yet while I was there, I saw no great signs of poverty. Rice and teak wood were among the chief crops and resources. The Mekong river, from which we received our drinking water, has a great deal of potential in providing power. Some work with this, along with the betterment of communications are being done in the area by many groups.

"Leprosy and Yaws are common in this area of the orient, but I did not see any of the people afflicted with these diseases," said Mrs. Johnson. "I suppose they were to be found in some of the outlying villages.

"I found the general Laos populace to be quiet and likeable. The life of the people was built around their religious activities. The main source of education for the general public (male) was the Wats, a type of monastery. At the Wats they would study not only religion, but learn academic subjects as well. The well-to-do people of the area went to the French school in Vientiane."

She said, "There are a number of colorful festivities in Laos. I remember the Vixakha Bouxa, festival of fertility, which is something like our May Day celebrations. The festivities last for three days with the first day celebrated by the throwing of water on passersby on the streets in town. To the delight of several Laos boys threw cup of water on one young boy who was about to trench me."

—Met Dr. Tom Dooley— Mrs. Johnson said that she was privileged to have met Dr. Tom Dooley while in the orient. "He did a great deal of work establishing hospitals and training persons in those areas to work in the hospitals. Dr. Dooley was an energetic man—just couldn't sit still. He was full of life and had a wonderful personality. The people of Laos really loved him."

While in the Orient, the Johnsons visited Japan, Hong Kong, India, Cambodia and Thailand and saw such points of interest as the Khmer temple of Angkor Wat in Cambodia and the Taj Mahal at Agra, India.

In Laos, Mrs. Johnson occasionally assisted her husband in his work toward malaria control by examining slides. She and her husband took ten week courses in malariology in Jamaica and French in Washington, D. C., prior to their trip to Laos. She also taught mathematics and science in the American Vientiane School for the American children of Vientiane which established in Bangkok when they were sent there by order of the American embassy."

The Johnsons returned to this country in March, 1961. Mrs. Johnson has been teaching at ECC this past month in the absence of Dr. Christine Wilton, who has been on leave of absence at her home in Eureka Springs, Ark., because of the death of her father, Mrs. Johnson left Greenville this week for Frederick, Md., with her husband, now engaged in entomological research at Fort Detrick.

Age Proves No Barrier For 2 Veterans Of Reporting News

—By The Associated Press—

The oldest active news reporters? Well, neither Alpheus W. Drinkwater of Manteo, N. C., nor Jennie Hayden of South Middleboro, Mass., has claimed the distinction, but both certainly must be near the top of the list.

Drinkwater is 86 and probably the oldest string correspondent on the rolls of the Associated Press.

Mrs. Jennie Phillips Hayden is 87 and correspondent in South Middleboro for the New Bedford Standard-Times.

Both are correspondents in outlying districts, similar to the hundreds-of-all ages—who report news of their areas to their local newspapers.

Drinkwater, a salty character with a shock of gray hair, has been relaying news to the AP from the treacherous shores of North Carolina's Outer Banks for 60 years. He still calls regularly with the inevitable reports of lost fishermen and drowned swimmers. When Hurricane Ester brushed the coast in September Drinkwater was right on the job with details from his area.

Mrs. Hayden, who was graduated from Boston University in 1899, has worn out two typewriters and is now into her third since she began chronicling the passing scene in South Middleboro in 1921 or 1922—she isn't quite sure of the starting date.

Weddings, anniversaries, church and Grange activities are the grist of her daily correspondence, but Jennie knows how to turn out a feature story and practically everything in the village has been the object of her attention.

When Jennie reached 87 in February, the feature story was close at hand. She told how "the average old-ager" felt on reaching four score and seven: stiff limbs, rounded shoulders, a cane that falls down in unexpected places and gets lost. The "silver lining" at 87, she wrote is a youthful spirit—cultivated or natural. Pleasures are those of the mind.

"Values have changed and the importance of keeping up with the Joneses, has collapsed to insignificance," she told her readers. "A multitude of wants have shrunk to actual needs. Tensions have eased and resignation to circumstances has resulted. Regret for lack of accomplishment or thwarted ambition, has faded to reflection." Jennie says of her experiences in news writing:

"My typewriter is one of my best friends. A portable, which can travel with me from room to room is now indispensable. It can read my thoughts, for more than once I have started to write with an empty mind, but contact with the keyboard has aroused a train of thought and off she goes, clickety-click."

It has been a different world of news for Drinkwater on the Outer Banks. A retired telegrapher, he boasts he probably has seen more shipwrecks than any man alive. And he has vivid recollections of "two eccentric bicycle mechanics from Dayton, Ohio, who believed they were going to make a horseless motor carriage fly like a bird."

He referred to the Wright brothers who made their first flights on the Outer Banks. During his long career along the coast north of Cape Hatteras, Drinkwater manned the morse key for the U. S. Signal Service, the Weather Bureau, the U. S. Lifesaving Service, the Coast Guard and Western Union.

For years it was his job to sight ships in trouble and signal Norfolk for tugs to grab the distressed vessels before they went on the shoals.

On Dec. 3, 1903, one of the most sensational stories of the Outer Banks broke right in his lap. One of the Navy's two submarines, the U. S. S. Moccasin, snapped her tow line and washed aground at Carolla, N. C.

Drinkwater flashed the news to the Portsmouth Navy Yard then rushed to the wreck scene, set up his instrument on an orange crate and cut into the mah line to Norfolk. For two weeks he stayed at Carolla sending out daily progress reports on salvage operations.

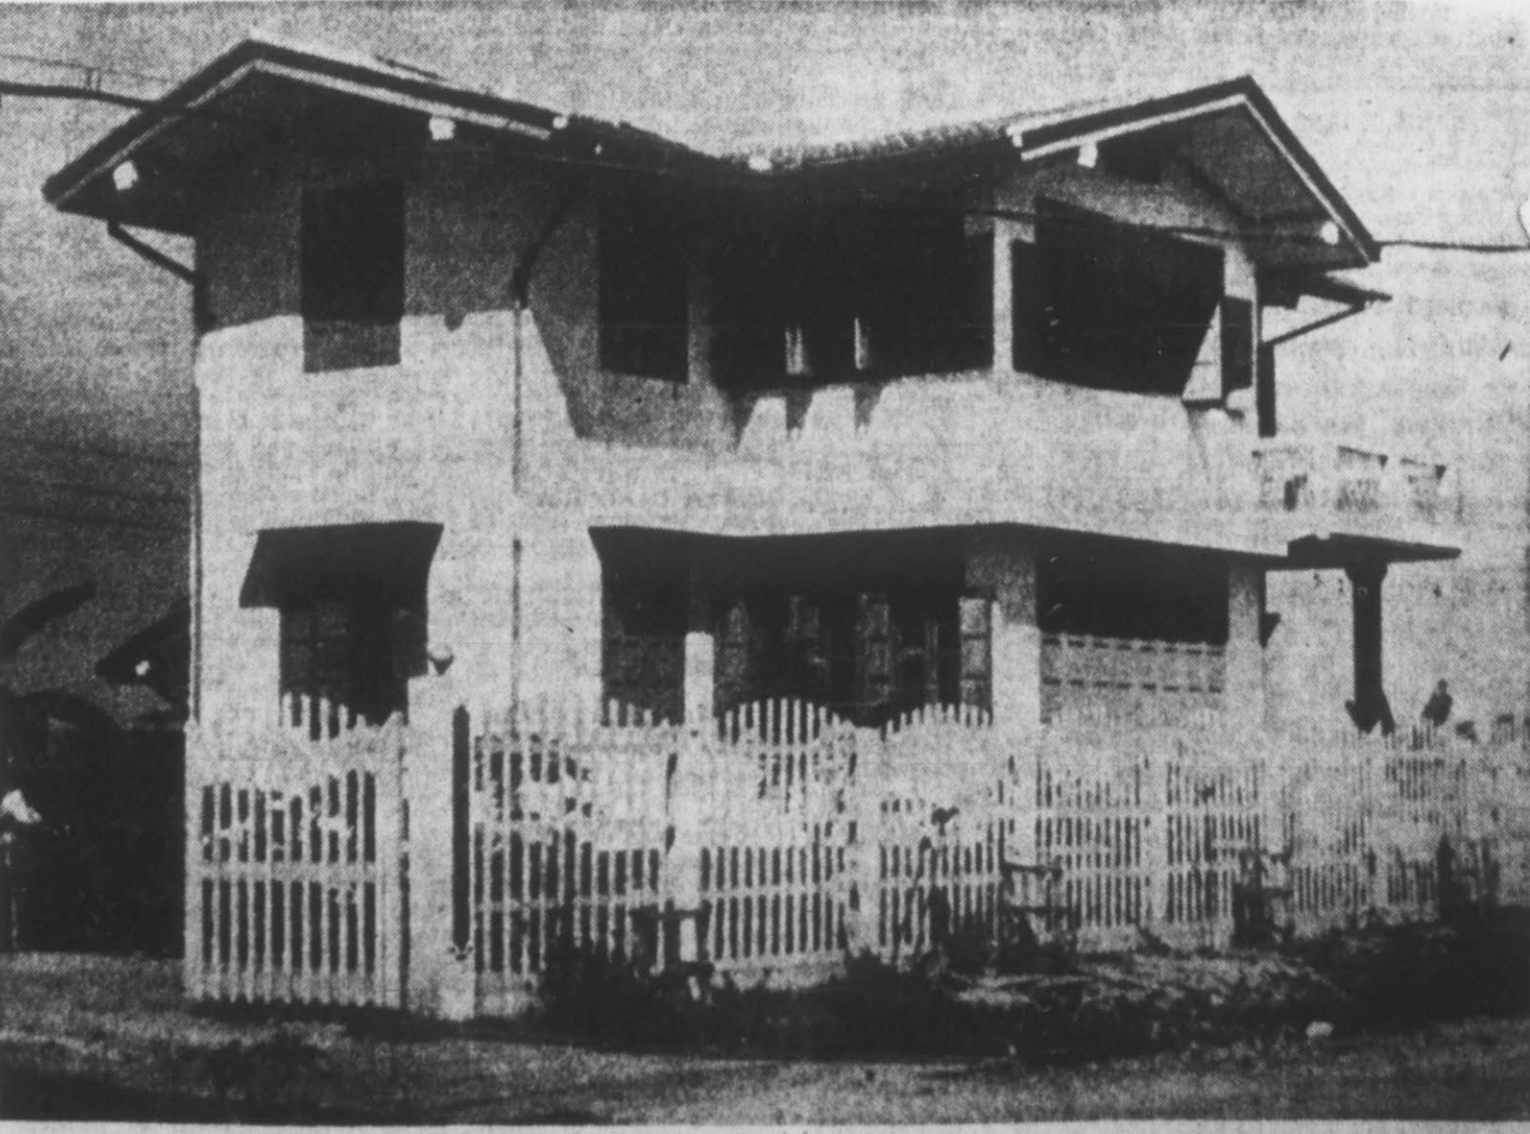

It was during the salvage of the Moccasin that the Wrights (continued on page 8)

FORMER ECC FACULTY MEMBER LIVED IN LAOS . . . this was Mr and Mrs. Johnson's home in the Oriental country.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED Teenager Alec Temple had wanted his father's company in his first raising experience since coming West to live with him, a U. S. Forest Service office. Claude Temple was "too busy" again. So Alec went after a mountain lion that had been making raids on ranch stock with old Sam Fellows who made him feel like a tenderfoot.

Sam shot a lion after it was treed by his hounds, but it was not the male they sought. The dogged Sam and Alec to the lioness' den where they found a lone cub that had survived a visit by the lion. Motherless Alec, feeling a close kinship to the orphaned cub, pleaded with Sam to let him take the infant home. Claude Temple also agreed, with misgivings, to the boy's undergoing the disheartening experience of seeing a gentle cub grown into a snarling lion.

As summer advanced and "Rusty" mated, incidents precipitated by campers forced Claude to impose a restriction on Rusty's free wandering. Then the feared moment of Rusty's burst his collar and chain and took to the hills in panic. In the spring, Alec and Sam went out to recapture Rusty to save him from death; an irate rancher had placed a bounty on the lion's head after another raid on his livestock.

CHAPTER 25 In Alec Temple's mind there was no doubt that Rusty was the creature whose downed and stricken body was being wrenched apart by the hounds. "Who!" Sam Fellows cried as he reached for the reins of Alec's mount, for Alec, unknowing, had started downlope. "It ain't him; Jupiter's know, if it was. It's the old tom!" With Sam's hand removed, Alec drew back on the reins and halted the mare. For the first time now, he noticed that Jupiter roamed apart from the other hounds, casting about for sign beyond the circle. He stared, not knowing what to think, until the hounds began to draw back, half ashamed it seemed.

"Confounded fools," Sam said, H started slowly down the slope. Alec trailed him. "Without Jupiter they'd hardly know their way around the kennel." Drawing up below, Sam said, "It's the tom all right." Heaving a breath, Alec held it deep inside of him a moment, then eased it out in relief. With the hounds moved back, his eye fixed on the carcass and he saw the worn, flat pads of the ears and scars in the hide from old battles, and the blunt shape of claws and fangs. The savage would that had brought it down in death were ragged and new, but all the rest were of other and earlier combats, and he knew that Sam was right. "It's like I finally came to see it," Sam said, "Rusty done it. He must have watched from the monument then come down when he seen the tom on the travellway."

tement and worry and doubt, he'd laid its end to the hounds even though it didn't seem quite right, quite normal. Now he knew it wasn't, for the blood, about the wounds was dark and had congealed some time before. "Un-huh." And Sam looked away to the west, along the line which the travellway might follow. "He maybe took all he could from the old tom and finally aimed to settle things. It looks like he runs this country now." He grinned at Alec. "I guess he's more lion than we knew."

No Barrier . . . (Continued from page five) made their successful flights on Dec. 17, 1961 at Kill Devil Hill, a few miles south of Drinkwater station. Drinkwater says that due to the break in the line at Carolina, he relayed the news to Norfolk Western Union that the first powered flight had been successful. Orville Wright was quoted in the book "Miracle at Kitty Hawk" as saying that it was J. J. Doshier, in charge of the Kitty Hawk station, who sent out the original message. Probably the best known marine disaster Drinkwater has covered was the wreck of the Belgian steam Antigon near False Cape in December, 1905. The struggle of the lifesaving unit from Little Island to rescue the crew by breeches buoy made newspaper headlines for days. In spite of his official retirement, Drinkwater works every day selling real estate and insurance and looking for news. He keeps a constant eye out for a change in the barometer and for wind out of the northeast that may mean action.

Representative Of Peace Corps To Visit B. James Kweder, field representative of the U. S. Peace Corps, will visit East Carolina College Monday, October 23, to address students and faculty members at a morning assembly and to interview people in the area surrounding the college who are interested in the Peace Corps. His arrival coincides with a nationwide information program conducted by the Peace Corps to explain the purpose of the new agency and the many opportunities it offers for overseas service in the newly developing nations of the world. Although he will speak primarily to students on the campus, Mr. Kweder would like to meet all persons in the area who are interested in the work of the Peace Corps. He can be contacted through the office of Dr. R. E. Cramer, Graham 3-603, East Carolina College. The telephone number is Plaza 2-6101. Ext. 256. Dr. Cramer has been appointed Peace Corps Campus Liaison officer by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College. Kweder will address students and faculty members at an assembly at 1:00 p.m. in Austin auditorium. Between 3:00 to 4:30 p.m. he will be in the Alumni Building to interview both students and local people who are interested in the Peace Corps. Kweder says that many Asian, African and Latin American countries, and some European countries, are asking the Peace Corps to send them American teachers, agricultural specialists, health and medical personnel, and persons with technical, trade, and industrial arts experience. These are the special skills, he points out, that the emerging nations need in their struggle for social, economic, cultural, and industrial growth.

The boundary lines of the Grifton School District are as follows:

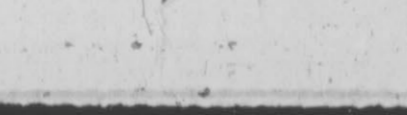

Beginning at a point on Little Contentnea Creek where the Ayden School District Line touches said creek at the J. R. Turnage place, southern boundary; thence southeast along Contentnea Creek and Lenoir County Line to Grifton; thence southeast along Lenoir County Line to Craven County Line; thence northeast along the Craven County Line to point where the Chiood School District begins; thence northeast along the Chiood School District Line to the point where Chiood and Ayden School District meet; thence in a westerly direction along the Sade Smith, southern boundary and across Swift Creek at the point where East Branch joins Swift Creek; thence up west branch to the point where the Cannon land, now owned by Bruce and Theibert Hart, touches west branch at the northern boundary; thence west along the northern boundary of the Theibert and Bruce Hart land to the Gum Swamp road, cross said road at the point where Theibert and Bruce Hart's land northern boundary touches this road; thence southwest along old tram road toward Littlefield and touching the Ayden-Hanrahan road at a point 4 of a mile north of Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church; thence southwest along road leading to Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church; thence west along public road, which is the Ayden District Line, through Littlefield to Highway 11; thence across Highway 11 along southern boundary of the Hart farm to the southern boundary of a R. Turnage farm on Little Contentnea Creek, which point is the beginning. Such territory of said District described above includes all the territory in Pitt County that was in the old Grifton School District and all the territory that has been attached thereto by petition by legislative enactment, and-or by order of the County or State Board of Education and likewise all territories immediately adjacent thereto that are not now listed for taxes in the Chiood Special School District or the Ayden Special School District. If the said $155,000 Bonds shall be issued, a tax will be levied on all taxable property within the Grifton School District sufficient for the payment of the principal of and interest on said Bonds. A new registration has been ordered by the Board of Commissioners for Pitt County, North Carolina for said special election, and no one will be permitted to vote at said special election unless registered anew as provided in the resolution of the Board of Commissioners of said Pitt County calling said special election adopted on October 2, 1961. The books for such new registration will remain open from 9:00 o'clock A.M. until 6:00 o'clock P.M. on each day, except Sundays and legal holidays, but including Saturdays, beginning Saturday, October 28, 1961 and closing Saturday, November 25, 1961. Said registration books for said new registration shall remain open at the times stated above at the Grifton Fire House, Grifton, North Carolina, the only polling place for said special election. The polling place, which shall be the only polling place and at which all qualified voters in said District shall vote, and the names of the election officers, subject to change as provided by law, are as follows: POLLING PLACE—Grifton Fire House, Grifton, North Carolina. REGISTRAR—Mrs. A. Tucker McGlohon JUDGES—W. L. Johnson and John Scarborough Alternate Registrar—Mrs. Louise Newborn Alternate Judges—Paul Bradley and Russell Bates. If a majority of the qualified voters of the District voting at said special election shall approve the issuance of said $155,000 bonds for the purposes aforesaid and the levy of a tax therefor as aforesaid, then said $155,000 bonds shall be issued for said purposes and a sufficient tax shall be levied on all the taxable property in said Grifton School District for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. By order of the Board of Commissioners for the County of Pitt, North Carolina. BLAIR C. WHEELS Clerk of the Board of Commissioners of the County of Pitt, North Carolina Section 7. That the persons whose names are set out in the foregoing form of election notice are hereby appointed registrar and judges for said special election, and said special election shall be held at the place set out in the form of said election notice, which said place to wit, the Grifton Fire House, Grifton, North Carolina, shall be the only polling place for said special election at which all qualified voters shall vote, and shall also be the place at which the registration books for said new registration of qualified voters for said special election shall be open during the time and for the period provided for in this resolution. Section 8. That the Saturday before said special election shall be challenge day, and said special election shall in all other respects not provided for herein, be held in the manner provided in the general laws of the State of North Carolina governing general elections. Section 9. That the form of the ballot to be used in said special election shall be substantially as follows: GRIFTON SCHOOL DISTRICT PITT COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA SPECIAL BOND ELECTION DECEMBER 9, 1961 OFFICIAL BALLOT FOR the issuance of $155,000 Bonds of Grifton School District, for the purpose of financing the cost of acquiring, erecting, enlarging, altering and equipping school buildings and purchasing sites for school buildings in said District and other purposes appurtenant, necessary or incidental thereto, and the levying of a sufficient tax on all taxable property in said Grifton School District for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. AGAINST the issuance of $155,000 Bonds of Grifton School District, for the purpose of financing the cost of acquiring, erecting, enlarging, altering and equipping school buildings and purchasing sites for school buildings in said

District and other purposes appurtenant, necessary or incidental thereto, and the levying of a sufficient tax on all taxable property in said Grifton School District for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. INSTRUCTIONS 1. To vote in favor of the proposed bonds, make a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of the word "FOR." 2. To vote against the proposed bonds, make a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of the word "AGAINST." Section 10. This resolution shall take effect immediately. I, Blair C. Wheelless, the duly qualified Registrar of Deeds and Ex-Officio Clerk to the Board of Commissioners for Pitt County, North Carolina, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of an original resolution now on file and of record in my office which was duly adopted by said Board of Commissioners on a regular meeting held on the 2nd day of October, 1961. IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I hereunto set my hand and the seal of said Board this 13th day of October, 1961. BLAIR C. WHEELS Registrar of Deeds and Ex-Officio Clerk of the Board of Commissioners for Pitt County, North Carolina W. W. Speight, Pitt Co. Atty. Oct. 14-21-30 Nov. 25 Dec. 2

NO, WE JUST RENT THE HOUSE. WE DON'T PAY ANY ATTENTION TO THE REST OF THE PLACE.

IT'S OLD, BUT THE RENT IS CHEAP AND THE ROOMS ARE COMFORTABLE MR. TRACY.

ARE YOU THREE THE SOLE OCCUPANTS?

YES, JUST SISTER, BROTHER AND ME.

I HAVE A SMALL PENSION AND WHEN THE CHILDREN'S PARENTS WERE KILLED IN A BOATING ACCIDENT, I TOOK THEM WITH ME.

WE FIND THIS MAKES US A VERY NICE HOME.

YES, YOU THREE LOOK VERY HAPPY. YOU KNOW THE HISTORY OF THIS PLACE, I PRESUME.

YES, BUILT BY ETAH, THE OLD CRIME KING, BUT THAT DOESN'T BOTHER GRANNY OR US.

WE DEAL WITH THE REAL ESTATE MAN. WE MIND OUR OWN BUSINESS AND ASK NO QUESTIONS. WE'RE VERY HAPPY.

IF YOU SEE US AROUND THE POOL AREA AGAIN DON'T BE ALARMED.

IT'S ALL RIGHT—MR. TRACY. IT DOESN'T BOTHER US A BIT.

IS HE A NICE MAN, GRAM'MA?

NICE? HIM?? WELL, HE'S THE NICEST MAN THAT EVER LIVED, FOR MY MONEY—

—BUT HE DIDN'T REMEMBER ME. THERE WASN'T EVEN THE REMOTEST SHADOW OF RECOGNITION IN HIS EYES.

HAS HE FORGOTTEN?

STAY CLOSE, DEVIL... EASY TO GET LOST IN THIS GRASS JUNGLE... THE LIMPER MAY BE CLOSE...

CLOSER THAN HE THINKS... DOWNWIND... SILENTLY STALKING!... "THE LIMPER!"

NO MAN ALIVE CAN FACE THAT TIGER WITH A SPEAR! WE'VE GOT TO HELP HIM!

GET A HUNDRED MEN WITH TORCHES... WE'LL GO IN THERE...

PHANTOM SAID... LET NO MAN FOLLOW...

IN THE HIGH GRASS... WHERE EVERY STEP MAY MEAN SUDDEN DEATH!

SLOWLY, DEVIL. THE LIMPER MUST KNOW WE'RE HERE... HE MUST BE HUNGRY NOW... STALKING US...

SUDDENLY, DEVIL FREEZES...

SILENTLY, SLOWLY, THE LIMPER MOVES FORWARD... FRESH, EASY GAME AHEAD...

HE MUST BE NEAR... WE'RE IN HIS BACK YARD... HE KNOWS IT BETTER THAN WE DO...

WE'LL MIND, SONNY.

HOW COULD A GREAT ATHLETE AND PUBLIC FIGURE LIKE LEFTY HOWARD VANISH WITHOUT A TRACE? DOESN'T MAKE SENSE. WONDER WHAT THAT KID WAS DRIVING AT.

THAT?

WE KNOCK ON THE DOOR, PASS THE TIME OF DAY, AND MAYBE DIG UP A LITTLE DOPE ON THE ELUSIVE LEFTY HOWARD. LET'S GO.

YES? WONDER IF YOU CAN HELP US, SIR. WE'RE LOOKING FOR SOME INFORMATION ABOUT A LEFTY HOWARD. HE WAS A VERY FAMOUS ATHLETE ABOUT TWENTY YEARS BACK, AND...

SORRY, GENTLEMEN. I'VE NEVER HEARD OF YOUR FRIEND. GOOD DAY.

Practice Starts Mon. In Bethel

BETHEL—Both the boys' and girls' varsity basketball teams, the "Indians" and the "Maidens" will begin practice Monday. Cheerleaders will also be selected this week for the varsity teams. Charles Matthews will again manage the girls team this year and Dan Wooten replaces veteran coach Walter C. Latham. Both the girls' and boys' varsity teams were county champions last year. Former coach Latham has been a basketball coach in Pitt county for 27 years and has led 20 teams to capture the county championship trophy. One of those teams went on to capture the state championship trophy.

Also in the Bethel High School news this week, Mrs. Hilda Carson, home economics teacher, and seven students recently attended the F.H.A. District I rally in Scotland Neck. The Bethel chapter was responsible for stage management for the program. Students from Bethel attending were Cherry Bonner, Sue Carson, Linda Davenport, Carrie Lin Gurganus, Sandra Lassiter, Marsha Pfifer and Teena Thiippen.

Seven Bethel High School students were recently initiated into the Beta Club. To be accepted in the Beta Club, students must maintain an average grade of 90 or above. Those selected were Mary Sue Watson, Patsy Joe Gurganus, Carol Manning, Betty Sue Manning, Ginger Young, Betty Lou Andrews and Ronald Everett.

Breakfast-Clubber Of Year Is Chosen

Miss Clara Seago was named "Breakfast Clubber of the Year" at the Credit Women's Breakfast Club annual bazaar night held in the Moose Auditorium last night. Ford McGowan, sponsor, presented Miss Seago the sponsor's trophy, a silver bowl. This award is given annually to the person with the most outstanding record in the club.

Mrs. Louise Carrigan, president, welcomed the bosses, sponsors, members of the Rocky Mount and Kinston CWBC, Miss Doris Matthews of Fuquay Springs, state president of North Carolina, and Mrs. Mary Lee Smith of Fuquay Springs, corresponding secretary for the state.

The perfect attendance report was given by Mrs. Martha Mills. Entertainment for the night included a pantomime skit, "Frankie and Johnnie," that included members of the local club, accompanied by Mrs. Florence

Scott, pianist and Elbert Bennett, soloist, Ford McGowan and Lloyd Mills.

Miss Lib Rogers did a baton act and hula dance and Mrs. Scott two pantomimes.

A Halloween theme was used for decorations.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Louise Carrigan, response by Morris Brody and invocation, A. B. Whitley Jr.

The installation of officers for 1961-62 will be held Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Plan Attending Inaugural Event

President Leo W. Jenkins will represent East Carolina College at ceremonies marking the inauguration of Dr. Thomas A. Collins as president of N. C. Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount Wednesday, October 25. Other members of the college staff will also participate in the event.

Carl E. Stout of the East Carolina department of music will act as organist at the inaugural program. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and dean of the Rocky Mount-Kinston Chapter of the organization, and organist and choir master of the Church Shepherd in Rocky Mount.

As representatives of colleges and universities of which they are graduates the following East Carolina College faculty members will attend the inauguration: Dr. Kenneth Bing, director of the industrial arts department, Nebraska, Wesleyan; Dr. Besse McNeil, director of the home economics department, Iowa State; and Mrs. Marguerite Perry of the foreign language department, Winthrop College.

Rites Sunday For Robert Daniel Cowan

Mr. Robert Daniel Cowan, 27, died in Beaufort County Memorial Hospital Friday morning at 5:30 following two weeks of critical illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home near Williamston Sunday afternoon at three o'clock and burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery in Williamston. The Rev. Norman Butts, pastor of Bethany Pentecostal Holiness Church, assisted by the Rev. Haywood Price, Pentecostal Holiness minister of Williamston, will conduct the services.

Mr. Cowan, son of Mrs. Mottie Bell Rogers of the Beargrass community, and the late John Hyman Cowan, was born and spent most of his life in the Beargrass community and attended the Beargrass schools. He was the operator of Cowan's Grill in Beargrass.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Peggy Goddard Cowan; his mother; a brother, Nathan Cowan of Norfolk, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. James Billy Rawls of Portsmouth, Va., and Mrs. John P. Rogerson of North Africa.

"God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." Acts 17:26

Anyone wishing to join us in fellowship will be warmly received.

Agribusiness Movie Is Shown At PTA Meeting

BETHEL—"Agribusiness Unlimited," a color movie of a trip to the Southwest area of the United States, is the program which was given at the October meeting of the Bethel P.T.A. recently.

The film illustrated the way agriculture in the Southwest differs from the agriculture methods in the South. A number of North Carolina men made the tour, sponsored by the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, among whom are three local residents, F. L. Blount, Jr., Harold Stoton and R. J. Whitehurst.

Giving some of the highlights of the trip as an introduction to the movie, F. L. Blount, Jr., stated, "It was a very well planned trip and a most enjoyable experience."

In opening the program for the evening, Mrs. Linwood Gurganus, president of the Bethel P.T.A., introduced Miss Iris Briley, a member of the student body, who gave the devotional and led the group in prayer.

Mrs. Donald Jenkins, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Catherine Manning gave the treasurer's report.

During the business meeting there was discussion concerning the growing hazard of cars using the elementary schools grounds as a short cut from Main to James Streets. A committee of three, Mayor J. M. Butterworth, Chief of Police Walter Gray and Principal Walter C. Latham, has been selected to investigate and decide the proper measures to be taken to remedy the situation.

Plans for the Halloween Carnival were discussed and a committee composed of Principal Charles Matthews, B. F. Manning, Jr., and John Rook, Jr., was selected to decide on the carnival plans and whether to have a dinner as the money making project for the year.

At the conclusion of the program, the parent count was taken with the first and eleventh grades winning the prize for having the largest percentage of parents present. With the adjournment of the meeting everyone was invited to the library for a social, where Mrs. Hilda Carson, home economics teacher, served punch.

Mrs. Janie Anders held conference with parents of her first grade pupils so that they might have a better understanding of the teaching methods used.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Grubella Nelson

FARMVILLE—Funeral services for Mrs. Grubella Nelson, daughter of the late Jim and Pearl Nelson, will be conducted here Sunday at 3 p.m. in the St. John's Free Will Baptist Church.

The pastor, Rev. F. L. Dixon, will officiate and burial will follow in the Willoughby Cemetery.

Mrs. Nelson died at her home in Washington, D.C., Oct. 15. She was a native of Farmville but had lived in Washington for the past 20 years. She was a former member of St. John's Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Horne, and a son, Samson Nelson, both of Washington, D.C.; a sister, Mrs. Bessie Barrett; and seven grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the church from 1:30 p.m. until the hour of the funeral.

Mrs. Elisha Parker Died Early Saturday

Mrs. Lena Martin Parker, 77, died early Saturday morning at her home in Bethel.

Funeral services will be held at Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church, near Bethel, Sunday at 3:00 p.m. by her pastor, the Rev. Willis Wilson, assisted by the Rev. I. B. Manning, a former pastor. Burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery.

The body will be taken from the home to the church one hour before time of the funeral.

Mrs. Parker spent all of her life in the Bethel community and was the daughter of Freeman and Della Follard Sessums. She was first married to Wesley Martin and he died in 1920. She was later married to Elisha Parker, who died in 1959. She was a member of Hickory Grove Baptist Church.

She is survived by three sons, John Roscoe Martin of Ayden, Robert Martin of Bethel, and J.C. Martin of Newport News, Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Walter E. Beverly of Bethel and Miss Rosa Martin of the home; 4 grandchildren; 2 great grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Lennie Parker of Ayden and Mrs. Dell Nelson of Robertsonville.

Homecoming Headlines Big Day For Rose High

By SHERBY EVERETT

Despite the cloudy weather Friday morning, homecoming festivities were still held yesterday beginning with a pep rally and parade and closing with a dance in honor of the queen, her court, and the football sponsors.

Wearing a green evening gown, Gigi Guice began her reign as Homecoming Queen yesterday afternoon. Dick Atkinson acted as Master of Ceremonies. In addition to reigning over the rally, Gigi also rode in the parade and was introduced at the game.

The queen's court, consisting of one girl elected from each class, were Miss Junior-Martha Henderson; Miss Sophomore-Melody Engle; and Miss Freshman-Barbara Keck. J. G. Proctor and Elaine Dunn were elected by the cheerleaders as Mr. and Miss School Spirit.

Before presenting a flower to Miss Maude Ann Webb, adviser for the cheerleaders, Dick introduced Wiley Forbes, the speaker for the occasion, who is president of the Touchdown Club.

"I would like to quote what Dizzy Dean says," Mr. Forbes stated, "When our teams go to the field tonight, they will get real confidential."

Mr. Forbes stated that the team really needed our support and to really give it to them.

Dick then presented the football team's sponsors, the homecoming queen, and her court.

A squad composed of junior varsity cheerleaders, who are sophomores, and varsity cheerleaders led the student body in several cheers. Betsy Coughlan headed the group.

35 Units in the Parade

Led by the Rose high band, thirty-five units including cars and floats were featured in the largest homecoming parade ever.

Riding in cars were the 18 sponsors, O. E. Dowd, J. H. Rose, and members of several clubs. Various clubs built floats which were judged yesterday and given first, second, and third place prizes.

The Future Homemakers of America float in the Homecoming Parade held yesterday was awarded first place. The Student Council, Freshman and Junior floats tied for second place.

Each class and the varsity cheerleaders were responsible for decorating floats for its class representative and the queen, respectively. The Future Nurses club, Future Teachers of America, Bible Club, and Student Council association were some of the clubst that sponsored floats.

Sponsors Represent Football Team

Each letterman on the football team and first-string senior players chose a girl to represent him in the parade and at the game. The girls, their title, and the boy they sponsored are as follows:

Ann Barbe, Miss Fullback, Jimmy Jenkins; Linda Davenport,

Southern Theme Used At Halftime

Displaying true Southern tradition, the band, majorettes, and Phantomettes presented a Southern half-time show Friday night.

Marching onto the field in a company front, the band, led by Marvin Buck, drum major, began to break on the forty yard line to form a Confederate flag. The Phantomettes, carrying streamers of blue with white stars attached, formed the cross section of the flag while the majorettes formed the flag pole. The band then gave their rendition of "Dixie."

In the shape of a Mississippi showboat, the band played "Robert E. Lee" while the majorettes and two members of the drill team; Dorothy Williams and Joan Briley; formed the revolving wheel of the boat.

As a salute to the past an future graduates of Rose High, the band led by director James E. Rodgers, ended the program with the "Alma Mater."
