Furniture Store Fire Loss Said In Excess $100,000

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville firemen, hampered by dense smoke and limited access to the building, worked until after daybreak today on a stubborn fire at Reese Furniture Company on 14th Street at the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

Detectors quoted the two as saying the fire was in a pile of furniture stored near the rear of the building under a canvas cover. They removed the cover, then turned in the alarm, officers noted. According to Fire Department Capt. Paul Nethercutt, who arrived on the first truck at the scene, the blaze had spread from the outside, into the upper story of the building, and was "well under way."

The fire moved from the old section of the firm to a newer addition through two fire doors which had been left open. Fire department officials estimated that 3,000 feet of hose was used to combat the fire, which at its height saw four trucks pumping water into the building.

Stalin's Body To Be Removed From Its Tomb

MOSCOW (AP)—Five thousand cheering delegates and officials at the Soviet Communist party congress voted today to remove the body of Joseph Stalin from its place beside Lenin in the big tomb on Red Square.

The congress action came in the wake of speeches by Premier Khrushchev and other denouncing the longtime Soviet dictator as a murderer and instigator of mass repression against Communist and army leaders. Khrushchev said as a result of Stalin's purges, the Soviet army's efficiency was at a low ebb at the time of the German attack in 1941.

Russian 'Superbomb' Said Exploded In Arctic Area

By BO JOHNSON UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—Scandinavian scientists reported today that the Soviet Union set off its 50-megaton hydrogen bomb—or possibly one even bigger—in the biggest man-made blast in history.

Dr. Marcus A. Baath of the Uppsala Seismological Institution said the explosion recorded there was "more than 2 1/2 times as strong" as last Monday's blast, which was estimated in the range of 30 megatons.

A megaton has the force of one million tons of TNT, and a 50-megaton bomb would be 2,500 times as powerful as the first U.S. atomic bombs exploded over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The Soviet explosion also was recorded at seismographic stations at the University of Bergen, Norway, and outside Copenhagen, Denmark. Danish scientists figured its force at two and a half times that of last Monday's bomb.

Russians Pushing World Toward Disaster, Warns Adlai Stevenson

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today accused the Soviet Union of pushing the world toward disaster by exploding its massive superbomb.

Stevenson charged that the Soviet Union had shown cynical disregard for the United Nations and its appeal to the Kremlin not to test a 50-megaton bomb approved last Friday night by a vote of 87-11.

Stevenson said there was no justification for the explosion of the gigantic bomb except "for intimidation."

He held the committee today's test apparently was even larger than the 50 megatons expected.

U.S. Troops Test Autobahn Lifeline

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. military units from West Berlin traveled to West Germany today on the autobahn lifeline without hindrance from the Russians, who stopped two American vehicles Sunday.

With the most forward armored units of both sides 2,000 yards apart, the Berlin tension eased and attention shifted to the diplomatic level.

Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., the U.S. ambassador in Moscow, was to seek a second meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today or Tuesday to press Allied demands for an end to the Communist attempts to restrict Allied rights in Berlin.

and 2,115 women. Working in the following areas are: 632 in primary education; 422 in grammar-grade education; and 2,490 in secondary education.

Some of the firefighters were still at this blaze when the alarm sounded for the Reese Furniture blaze, it was noted.

The Governor Relaxes In Washington

At this everybody cheered. Then, with the crowd whipped up, Sanford told them, "I appreciate the kind of spirit you have here. It's the kind of spirit you exhibit in moving North Carolina forward."

Sanford Displays Politicking Skills With Caravan

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

WITH SECURITY CARAVAN—Gov. Terry Sanford, who left no doubt as to his politicking ability in two primaries and an election last year, proved this weekend that he hasn't lost his fabulous touch.

The governor, traveling with the Security Caravan which left Greenville by train Friday, recaptured the fire of the campaign which swept him in office.

There were even a couple of whistle stops at Bethel and Tarboro where Gov. Sanford had the crowds on hand cheering. And incidentally, he plugged for the upcoming $61,665,000 bond election which is to finance capital improvements for various state institutions.

Simplicity The Key To Singer's Beauty

SINGER PATRICIA MORAND spends a minimum of time on beauty routines, puts hair and hand care first.

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
NEW YORK (WNS)—Patricia Morand is a young lady on the go. New York this month, Montreal the next, after that Kansas City and Houston. Yet in a life which "has no time" she must always look well groomed, a sophisticated "I don't, of course," said the brunette singer as we chatted at the Pierre Hotel, where she was starting in the current revue. "But I know a lot of tricks to fool people into thinking I'm always as well put together as I should be."

One of Patricia's tricks is a collection of jersey turbans in colors to match her entire wardrobe. Whenever her hair isn't in the best shape, she dons a sophisticated turban which hides it. "The secret of good looks all the time is simplicity," said Patricia, who is a definite sort of girl with clear-cut ideas. "I soon learned that elaborate hairdos, no matter how lovely, caused me nothing but grief."

Like many models and show business stars, Patricia goes to famed Enrico Caruso when she is in New York.

"I chose him because he is a cutter rather than one of those madly creative stylists who are always expressing themselves with your hair. With his cuts I can always take care of my hair myself when I'm on the road."

"My hours are always so crazy that I've had to set an ironclad routine for myself in grooming. I have a priority system—hair and hands come first. They're what an audience sees first."

During an engagement, therefore, Patricia finds time for a twice-weekly manicure, a twice-weekly shampoo and set and, in New York, daily comb-out by Enrico Caruso.

"One thing takes no time, thank goodness, and that's my diet. Eating right takes no more time than eating wrong."

Patricia has to watch her diet, too. Born into a family of Italian descent, she admitted to a dangerous love of good food.

"I just can't pick at lettuce leaves! After lots of trial and error I settled on a diet revolving mostly around steak and eggs. I need to eat for energy."

Fortunately, her husband is an Air Force major, who has to keep in constant good shape. So she faces no home conflicts in her own strict regimen.

"I don't take much formal exercise. My work provides plenty of activity. Between engagements, I eat extra carefully. Don't expect to work off excess pounds. You never do."

Patricia believes singing is a good prescription for good looks. "It expands the chest, creates good posture, increases oxygen in the blood," she explained. "Besides, it makes you feel so good. Almost anyone can learn to sing."

Patricia certainly has all the energy and joy in life that anyone could want. She works hard, takes things as they come, and "I've found simplicity is my key to health as well as looks. Do what's important, and let the rest go. Slacks at home, and gold brocade for the show. I buy clothes I like, whether they cost $22.95 or $225. I can't be bothered with fashion. If it looks good on me, I

"Why Did My Cleaner Remove My Dress Buttons?"
—Mrs. S.Y.N.

Dear Mrs. S. Y. N.:
You mention that you sewed your buttons on especially tight before sending your dress to the drycleaner. Then you learned he removed the buttons, cleaned the dress and sewed them back on. He made a charge for this, too. Well, Mrs. S. Y. N., he probably saved your very attractive buttons and saved himself from a reasonable complaint by you.

Buttons do strange things when drycleaned. Some take cleaning without a qualm. The majority, I'm afraid seem to resent drycleaning, especially those beautiful ornaments and buttons dreamed up by dress designers and made from the new plastic varieties. Drycleaners have learned to their sorrow that some of these buttons and ornaments will vanish completely when immersed in drycleaning solvent; some distort and take on crazy shapes; some soften, some color, some lose color or bleed color in the fabric. Then who gets the blame?

Taking buttons and ornaments off, sewing them back on, is a tedious process in some cases, Mrs. S. Y. N., especially if there are many of them. It takes time, and labor costs are rising constantly. Frequently drycleaners are forced to make a charge for this service.

To preserve your lovely buttons and ornaments, I would suggest instead of sewing them on tightly before sending a garment to the drycleaner, that you remove the buttons and reset them when your garment returns fresh and clean. Or be certain that your drycleaner does. He'll be glad to perform this service and you will be better satisfied. (Adv.)

Sanford Hitting Campaign Trail

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford hits the campaign trail Tuesday with a speaking schedule as rugged as those of 1960 when he was seeking the governorship.

This time Sanford will be campaigning for education with rallies in Brunswick, Columbus, Bladen and Robeson counties.

He also is expected to beat the drums for the $61.5 million bond issue up for approval in a state-wide referendum Nov. 7. Most of the funds would be used for construction at North Carolina colleges.

Sanford speaks to education rallies at 9:30 a.m. in Charlotte, at 1 p.m. at Whiteville, at 4 p.m. at Elizabethtown and at 8 p.m. in Lumberton.

Wednesday, Sanford will be in his home town of Fayetteville for a founder's day address at North Carolina Methodist College there. That afternoon, the governor will participate in oath-taking ceremonies in Raleigh for a host of persons recently appointed to state boards and commissions.

Sanford will speak Wednesday night to the Conference on Economic Development at Chapel Hill. After his weekly news conference Thursday morning, Sanford will address the South Central Piedmont Industrial Development Conference in Concord.

Saturday he will travel to Asheville to attend a homecoming observance for Miss America.

Good Samaritan Took His Cash

ATLANTA (AP)—William A. Higginbotham's car stalled at an intersection. Another drive came along, gave him a push and the car started.

Higginbotham stopped, got out and offered the good Samaritan a dollar for his trouble. Then, Higginbotham told police, the stranger flashed a knife and took all his cash—$31.

Sierra Leone, which recently became a country, had been an English Crown Colony since 1808.

Ten-Year-Old Now Has A Future; Months Ago, None

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Ralph Lee Lomax Jr. is a 10-year-old boy with a future. Six months ago he almost didn't have any.

On March 7 he underwent a second open heart operation at Baptist Hospital at Winston-Salem. Doctors plugged a dime-sized hole in his heart just as they had closed another and larger hole three years earlier.

Open heart operations will never be ordinary. And for Ralph Lee Lomax to have survived two successful ones makes him something of a medical rarity.

But the youth, known to his family and friends as "Junior," wants little of this medical notoriety. He wants to be just like any other 10-year-old.

Should you see the slightly built youngster walking on his way home from A. T. Allen School most any fall afternoon, it would be hard to find him any different from other students.

Outwardly, he looks the same, but ask him to show his scars and he will open his shirt to reveal two long, dark-fleshed lines. One begins at his collar bone and curves under his right arm to his back. The other is a straight line from his neck to his navel. . . almost 12 inches long.

A fourth-grade student, Junior can't run and play yet with his classmates. But he does a lot of watching and learning.

The day when he can run and play like the rest is fast approaching, but he can't hide a little impatience.

"I'd like to know when I can play football," he said one afternoon as he sat on the front porch of his home at 10 Park Avenue.

"Do you think maybe next year?"

So far, doctors have cautioned against rushing him into anything but limited activity.

There's no doubt in his mind about what he wants to be when he grows up.

"I'd like to be a doctor. They can operate," he said.

Junior was only six months old when his parents first noticed that his heart seemed to be beating loudly. He was three when the first hole was diagnosed.

On May 2, 1958, he spent 4½ hours on the operating table. Doctors patched a half-dollar-sized hole in his heart.

His case had been diagnosed as an atrial septal defect, a hole between the two major chambers of the heart that permitted blood to leak from one to the other. It reduced the amount of oxygenated blood that was pumped into his body.

Junior went back for another check Jan. 5 and a second hole was found.

"The doctors said if he didn't have the operation, the hole would be getting larger and Junior would be going down hill . . ." without any chance of recovery, said Mrs. Lomax.

Again the heart-lung machine did the job while surgeons repaired Junior's heart. The operation lasted 7 hours and took 14 pints of blood.

Early Start On The 1964 Campaign

Until the past year Democratic Party machinery in North Carolina has been taken out, dusted off, greased and put into motion only during election years. The change which has taken place in operation of the party machinery during the past year has not escaped the attention of any Tar Heel interested in politics.

Perhaps the change was prompted by the desire of leaders of the "New Day" in North Carolina to make sure their day last more than four years. Perhaps the change was prompted by the startling gains the Republican party has made in the state in recent years. Whatever the reason, however, a change has taken place in the operation of the Democratic party machinery in the state.

For the first time leadership has designated a full-time executive secretary to keep the machinery oiled and turning day-by-day. From one end of the state to the other various groups within the party are carrying on activities that in the past have been reserved only for election years. Active organizing campaigns have been evident in this non-election year as Democrats have set about to mend old fences and build new ones.

The big Vance-Aycock fund-raising dinner in Asheville this weekend received overwhelming support from throughout the state with turn-away crowds. It was the first event of its kind staged by the Demo-

Continuity In Appointees, Too

By LYNN NISBET
APPOINTMENTS — Governor Sanford, as have several chief executives before him, has had a good deal to say about the responsibility and the opportunity involved in the multiplied hundreds of appointments he is required to make. Almost daily since adjournment of the General Assembly in June the Governor's office has handed out news releases listing names of appointees to administrative positions and advisory boards and commissions. Casual look at these lists would give the impression that the Governor has put a new bunch of folks in control of the State's agencies and institutions. Certainly a number of new people have been added, particularly in the important policy-making positions. But also a lot of experienced men and women who have proven their worth in public service, have been retained. For example, the Governor announced this week the appointment of five members of the board of directors of the Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville. He had previously appointed the other two, making up the total of seven. Three of the seven were reappointments of members who have given years of loyal service to the job. It was noted that Mrs. E. R. McKelthan was reappointed, but no such note was attached to the appointments of Mrs. Henry L. Stevens and Charles G. Rose.

wrong and must not be allowed. Lanier has an equally controlling sense of right and wrong, but his attitude is softened by the influence of French and English heritage. Long experience in helping students at Chapel Hill get jobs they could handle to earn part of their college expenses and without interfering with their class responsibilities, will stand him in good stead in his new position. Governor Sanford had said that John McDevitt would be one of the most difficult men to replace in all the governmental set up. Opinion freely expressed around Capitol Square as well as in newspapers comment throughout the state is that the soft-speaking, smooth-working, firm-minded Ed Lanier will prove a replacement for whom no apology will ever be needed.

CANCER SURVEY — The North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society is one of the 29 state divisions participating in the most extensive health research study ever conducted in this country. It is being conducted by volunteer workers under supervision of physicians who also are giving their time free and the relatively small paid staff of the Cancer Society organizations. The scope for the nation is more than one million persons, in 590,000 families, living in 1100 counties in the 29 states cooperating.

The North Carolina breakdown involves 22,766 people, in 11,694 families, in 56 counties, and the work is being done by 1441 volunteers. These volunteer workers do not attempt to examine anybody or to determine whether or not treatment is indicated. The sole purpose is to induce the people to go to their doctors for periodic examinations. The survey has disclosed some interesting facts. More men than women (the percentage ratio being 62 and 54) reported one or more complaints usually regarded as cancer danger signals. But more women than men (the ratio being 18 and 12 per cent) reported they had seen a doctor about the specific complaint within the past year. It has not yet been determined whether cancer can be prevented or "cured." There is conclusive evidence from medical experience records that if detected early enough it can be stopped from spreading, perhaps completely eliminated as a health hazard, and even in advanced stages its ravages can be retarded — witness the Sam Rayburn case — through procedures discovered by research under sponsorship of the American Cancer Society.

crats in the far western part of the state. For a non-election year, it evidenced a new vigor in the Democratic party.

But while the Democrats have been considerably more militant than usual about routine party organization and activity in this non-election year, the same has been true of the Republican party in North Carolina. There have been more Young Republican Clubs organized in the state this year than ever before. The "Paul Revere" series of GOP meetings in the Western part of the state slated for this week will feature nationally known Republicans who will carry warnings to Tar Heels that policies of the present administration and Democratic-controlled Congress are placing the system of government in peril.

Such a pace of activity on both sides of the political fence a full three years before the next "big" election year suggests that North Carolina will witness unprecedented political activity at every level between now and 1964.

We Need A Challenge To Bring Out Best

It has been said many times, but should be said again:

Don't sell America short. The gloom-casters have a field day with each Russian accomplishment and each time the cold war takes an unfavorable turn. They close their eyes to this country's accomplishments and accomplished people.

We have been cautioned to expect more dark days before things get better, and it is reasonable to anticipate such will happen. But the bright side of the picture is already emerging.

It would be "no contest" if Russia scored no successes. There would be no competition, no spirit of rivalry, little or no incentive toward meeting the Free World's obligations to its own people and others, no working toward fulfillment of ideals, no effort to prove the place of these ideals in the world's society.

A rival . . . a real rival . . . was needed. We aren't doing so badly, either.

The space race that seemed all but lost a few short years ago has seen two recent leaps forward in our favor. The missile gap anticipated for late 1961 is now believed to have failed to materialize. The Free World's record of help to the newborn among nations, and to the poverty-ridden nations is unmatched.

Something else is happening. The Soviet image in eyes of the world is taking a turn for the worse. A few more months like October, and Communism is going to be more widely recognized for what it is.

The cause of Peace is a continuing stake in a mighty chess game, but thus far we have seen no panic, no wrong moves, no white feather. And if there is anything to insure keeping the peace . . . insofar as it lies within our power . . . those qualities will insure the peace.

We can and should expect further Soviet-inspired crises, but one can also sense a growing feeling of determination and willingness to meet those crises head-on.

History has shown a great challenge is required to bring out the greatness of individuals, cities, states and nations. We are in the process of meeting that challenge on a multitude of fronts.

Some nations were marked in their beginnings with a Destiny. Did you ever pause to consider this might be ours?

Predictions On U.S. Business

By RALPH ROBEY
Business forecasting, as everyone knows, is tricky and dangerous. If one is correct it usually is a matter of substantial luck; if one is wrong, it does little good to attempt to rationalize the error. But, in spite of the risks, every business, and every branch of government, has to have a forecast as a basis of its operation.

Nearly all of our large business firms, and many of moderate size, have special staffs to carry on this work. The head of this staff may be called the economist, the director of research, or he may be a vice president predictions on the economy as a whole, or it may limit itself to that portion of the economic system which is of particular importance to the company for which it works. Even these limited predictions, however, normally are made on the basis of rather firm convictions as to what is going to happen over-all.

In those organizations which do not have a specialized staff, the work of forecasting is done by the president and such fellow officers as he thinks may be of help. In both federal and state government there are budget officers who have the responsibility of comparing outlays and possible income, and in many instances these men exert a direct influence upon how much may be spent and for what purposes.

Finally it should be mentioned that we have many private organizations which, for a fee, make forecasts, both general and specific, for their clients. And we have many special letters put out by banks and other institutions which appraise the current trend and indicate what they think is going to happen.

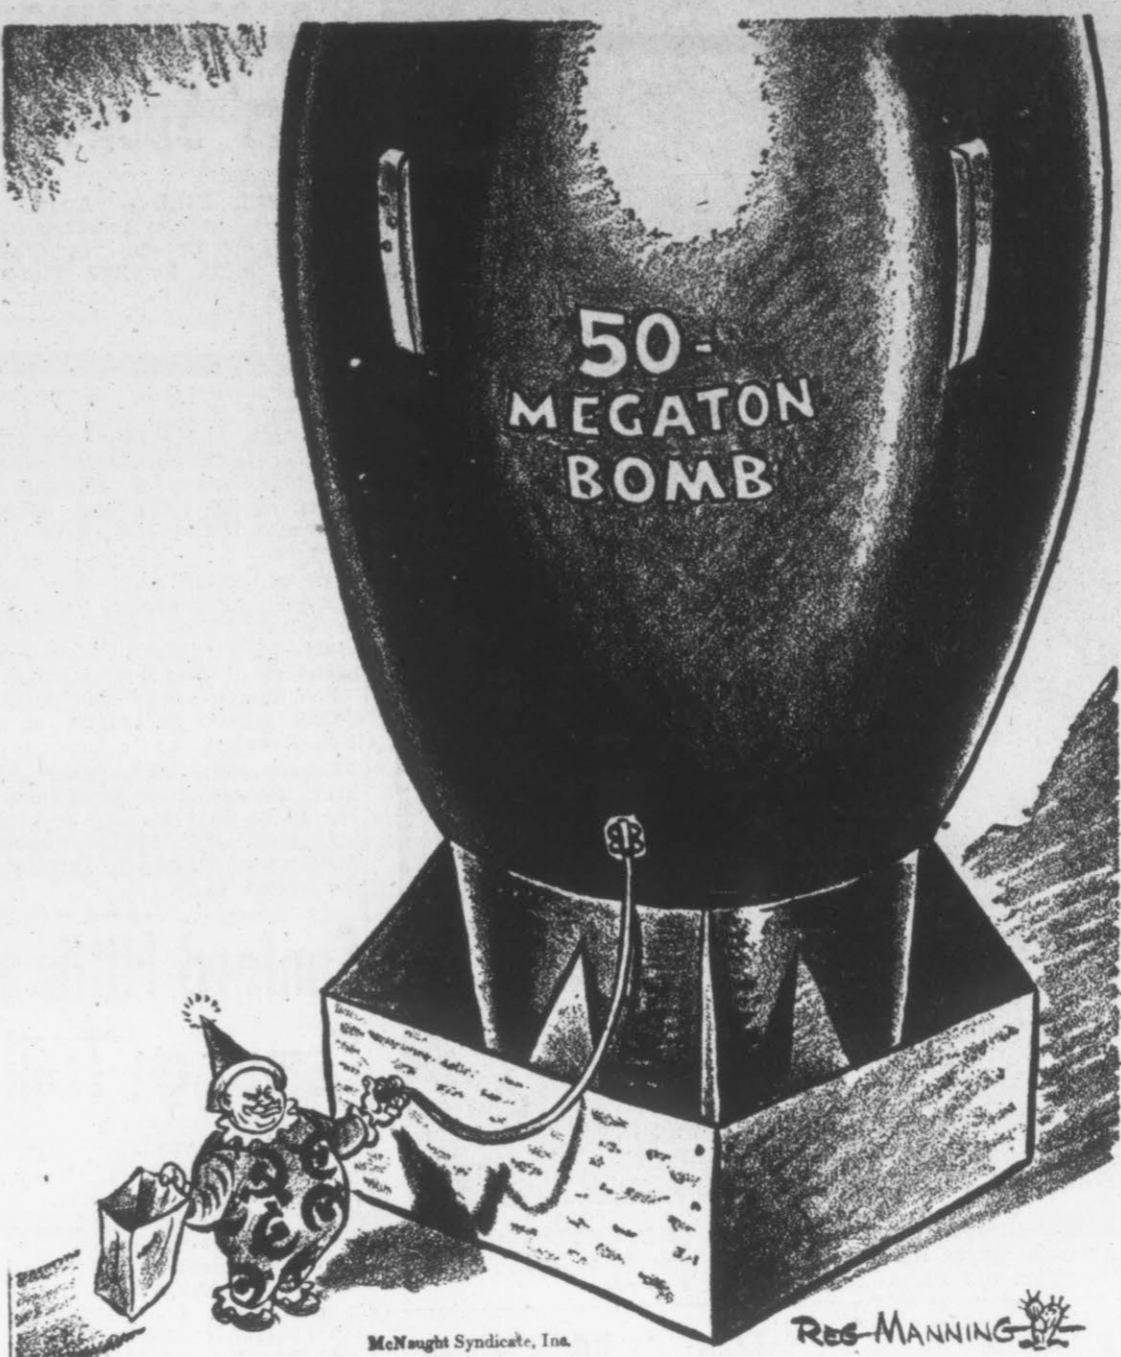

But in spite of how many persons are working in this field there is no standardized methodology, and no person or group whose opinion may be taken as certainly correct. Some rely solely upon statistics, some insist that public psychology and political action must be given rather heavy weight, and some search for particular business series which always precede the general trend.

Among the latter, the National Bureau for Economic Research has been outstanding. This is a privately financed organization which was set up over a quarter of a century ago, and it is known especially for the care with which it studies a problem and the high scholarship with which it always maintains. For years this institution has been comparing individual statistical series with the general business trend. Hundreds of such comparisons have been made and out of this total some eight were found normally to lead, another eight to be coincident, and the remainder to lag the broad economic trend. Most of the recent responsibility for this work at the National Bureau has rested on Dr. Geoffrey H. Moore.

The series as a whole has attained widespread respect and use by business forecasters, although no one accepts it as necessarily infallible. Further, the preparation of these various included and encouraged everybody else to do the same. The responsibility of "bassing" is great. We are all too prone to think of such situations only in terms of privilege. Yet one never takes a step upward but what God puts upon him added responsibility. The people who are at the head of everything — kings, prime ministers, presidents, commanders — in chief — are all bent low by a multitude of grave problems. They clutch at little opportunities for real happiness. Because they take their responsibility seriously, their responsibility weighs heavily upon them. We have gone a long way toward solving life's great problems when we think of life as a challenge and of its requirements as grave and heaven-sent responsibilities.

Trick or Treat

Letter Recalls History

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

History is made up of little scraps of paper which show up to correct immediate impressions. During all the years that Franklin D. Roosevelt was President of the United States he exhibited a strong distaste for Herbert Hoover. In fact, Roosevelt's press agent, Charley Michelson, devoted himself to tarnishing Mr. Hoover's reputation and undoubtedly brought upon him great misery. On the other hand, no sooner had Harry Truman become President than he enlisted Hoover's services and he kept him at work steadily during his administration.

I am minded of this by a letter from Franklin D. Roosevelt to Hugh Gibson who was then Minister to Poland. The letter is dated January 2, 1920. Roosevelt at that time was the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Hoover was the food administrator of the Western World. I shall quote two pertinent paragraphs of Roosevelt's letter to Gibson: "Many thanks for your Christmas card. It is good to hear from you and we get occasional scraps of news about you and your work in Poland. I envy you the experience in many ways, and congratulate you also on the splendid way you are handling things."

It must be wonderfully interesting — certainly far more so than in Washington at this particular time. I had some nice talks with Herbert Hoover before he went West for Christmas. He is certainly a wonder, and I wish we could make him President of the United States. There could not be a better one."

Other Editors Saying 'Fair Play' Takes The 5th

(Richmond News Leader)
The Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee of this week released Part IV of its leisurely investigation into an outfit known as the "Fair Play for Cuba Committee." Except as a contribution to the literature on taking the Fifth Amendment, the newly released testimony might appear to have small value.

Even this contribution is perhaps not to be scored. The Senate committee began these particular hearings with a very curious idea that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is a Communist front. Witnesses who were heard in Cleveland, by their clumsy and contemptible coverage, did much to confirm the impression.

The first witness to be examined was one Herman Kirsch (or Kirschbaum, Kirschbaum, or Kingsley). He didn't want to discuss the names he has gone by: "I refuse to answer that question on the grounds that it violates my right under the Fifth Amendment; I can't be compelled to give testimony against myself."

After a few minutes, the witness began to polish up his rough beginning: "I decline to answer on the grounds that I can't be compelled to be a witness against myself, on the constitutional grounds." There was some repetition there—a little redundancy that disappeared with practice: "I must decline on the constitutional grounds that I can't be compelled to be a witness against myself."

Mr. Kirsch, an amateur in these matters, was shortly followed to the stand by one Richard B. Tussey, a Cleveland labor leader who reportedly had found the Cleveland chapter of the Fair Play committee. Mr. Tussey exhibited better form. After a little fencing over the First Amendment, he swiftly took the Fifth when asked what his wife's name was: "I assert my privilege against self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment on grounds that the answer might tend to incriminate me." A few questions and answers later, Mr. Tussey was lobbing all inquiries back with practiced ease: "I assert my privilege against self-incrimination under the Fifth." Or more briefly: "I assert the Fifth."

Mrs. Tussey followed her husband to the stand. "Weren't you born Jean Yadransky?" asked committee counsel. "I wish to assert the Fifth," said Mrs. Tussey. That was about all the committee got from her.

On the surface, it might appear that the Cleveland hearings were a complete waste of time for Senators Dodd, Keating, and Johnston, and for the committee's astute counsel, J. G. Sourwine. We think there is some profit in them. The Cleveland chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee reportedly is one of the organization's most active groups. The witnesses were officers in the chapter. This was their opportunity to deny at the top of the lungs that the committee is in any way Communist controlled or Communist influenced. Forthright, truthful, informative answers, given under oath, might have tended to salvage the Fair Play Committee's tainted reputation.

The witnesses, in brief, were in a position where they could take the Fifth, or take the opportunity. They took the Fifth.

Banks And The Young

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — My column today is addressed to young people getting married, or to those in a position to advise couples starting out if life Newlyweds should place at least a part of their joint savings, after buying essential furniture, in straight life insurance. When they are young, they can get such insurance without difficulty and at a moderate rate. Next, I recommend building up credit and establishing good will at a local bank. It is a wise move to rent a small safe-deposit box for jewelry and important papers, including wills. Don't forget to make wills, even if you haven't much capital. BANK ACCOUNTS VALUABLE

It is important to keep a reasonable deposit in your local bank for emergencies, and a portion for possible later investment when conditions are less clouded and you have more funds. After you put money in the bank, don't withdraw it until the proper time comes, and then only after careful consideration. Think of your bank account as sacred, not to be disturbed except for these pre-considered contingencies. The young may think the idea unimportant, but there is no better way of building up a reputation for thrift, honesty, and hard work than by starting a bank account and making regular deposits. Become acquainted with an officer of the bank and speak to him every time you go in, so that he will come to know you and will be able to give you a good reference if you need one. Getting to know bank officials can be as valuable to you as your bank-account interest payments.

BANKS TODAY ARE SAFE
During the bank-closing emergency in the 1930's practically all the weaker banks were done away with, so that financial institutions today are in a safe and profitable position. This brings me to the question of bank stocks, which I recommend as an investment. Particularly the stock of your local bank with which you do business. Practically any local bank could be liquidated for more than its published assets, so that you as a stockholder would probably get more than you paid for your shares. Five or ten shares of such stock would probably be one of the very best investments for a young married couple.

INVESTING IN BANK STOCKS
If you are going to put more than a moderate sum into bank stocks, it would be wise to get the Annual Reports from at least two or three banks and go over them carefully. Any bank will give you an Annual Report, whether you are a customer or not, and in most states these reports must be published in the papers every year. After my father's death, I recall finding a scrapbook in which were pasted all the Annual Reports of our hometown Gloucester banks, clipped from the Gloucester Daily Times.

Most people look for the bank with the largest deposits, but let me give you a hint about this. When bankers talk to me about their "large deposits," I always say, "Well, you certainly owe a good deal of money!" Because it should be realized that a bank's deposits represent money that must be paid back to the depositors sooner or later. Therefore, when appraising bank statements, be sure to subtract the deposits from the total assets to find out what would be left for the stockholders.

LOOK BEHIND THE SCENES
In considering bank stocks, always check up on the character, integrity, and ambition of the men in charge of the bank's operations. Be sure that the officials are in good health, and that their judgment is sound. It is a good sign if they are churchgoing men. It is, of course, an extremely bad sign if they are addicted to liquor or indulge in known excesses. It is worth while to know the qualifications of the bank directors. Be sure, for instance, that these men have not taken their positions as a mark of distinction rather than as a responsibility. Of course, the bank's assets are under the constant supervision of the regular examiners, so there need be little worry on this score. Hence, if a depression strikes, I feel that bank stocks may be in a stronger position than perhaps any other category of stocks.

Commuting And Labor Surpluses

By ELMER ROESSNER
Three blocks from my front door is a parkway linking the city with the eastern suburbs. In the morning it's jammed in both directions. People are speeding out from the city to jobs in plants in former potato fields; people from housing developments in former potato fields are skittering in to jobs in the city.

This creates the illusion that people go where the jobs are and to a certain extent, they do. But a survey by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank indicates the extent is much less than parkway-watchers like I suppose. "Commuting problems still exert a heavy influence on the supply of workers to a firm," the Boston Fed reported. "Labor surpluses in one area do not readily flow into tight labor areas. Commuting costs create restraints which new highways may modify but not eliminate. At least this seems to be true of firms located near Route 128, Boston's circumferential highway and other major highways in Greater Boston." It study of conditions along Route 128 showed that over four years there was an increase in workers living near the plants at which they worked. The Fed did not find out how much of this was caused by moving near the plant, and how much by replacing quitting workers with labor nearer at hand.

However, if found evidence of worker resistance to increased commuting time in plants moving to new highway locations, there was an average personnel loss of 3.7 per cent on relocation. Furthermore, there was a direct relationship between distance and quits. "For distances of 5 to 10 miles, the loss was 2.1 per cent; 11 to 15 miles, 3.9 per cent, and over 15 miles, 5.6 per cent." WOMEN BALK AT TRAVEL
A firm seeking to employ a large proportion of women workers must give greater consideration to the effects of commuting," the bank found. "Women, particularly housewives, tend more than men to limit their employment to locations near their homes." In consequence, many firms have been circularizing women in their neighborhood urging them to apply for jobs. There is considerable ancillary evidence to support the bank's conclusions. Throughout New England there are many towns from which industry migrated to the South. But except for highly skilled workers, most of the disemployed residents have refused to follow the birds and jobs south. Downtown stores starting suburban branches generally try to recruit sales and other help in nearby areas. Employees so recruited do not have to be paid higher rates to cover costs of commuting, and they arrive fresher each morning. FLOW BACK TO CITIES
About ten years ago, there was a general migration of nonin-

Committee Approves 38 Tobacco Seed Varieties

RALEIGH—Approval of 38 tobacco seed varieties available to North Carolina farmers for this year was announced here today by agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine.

The Tobacco Seed Committee has notified him that 21 eligible growers are recording with his office one or more of these varieties declaring their seeds to be correctly identified. Among those growers is Brantley Speight of Winterville.

Under a 1957 amendment to the state seed law, Ballentine explained such declaration and recording are pre-requisite to the legal sale of tobacco seed in the state.

He emphasized that the committee's action does not constitute recommendation of the varieties. Its sole function is variety identification to insure correct labeling of the seed.

Speight Variety
Four new varieties are being recorded for the first time this year. They are Coker 80-F, developed by Coker's Pedigreed Seed Company; Reams 64, developed by Reams Seed Company; and Speight G-3 and Speight G-10, developed by Speight Seed Farms.

Six varieties on last year's list were not offered for recording this year. They are Big Leaf Hickory, Prior, B-11, Golden Will, Vesta 30, Watson Special and Yellow Special A.

This is an interesting page of history.

Robey ...

Geeks was an enormous job, and in many instances the figures were too late to be of maximum value and service.

With a view of correcting this tardiness, the President's Council of Economic Advisers in 1957 requested the Census Bureau to work with the National Bureau of Economic Research, and that has been done. The results have been highly successful, and by the use of large-scale electronic computers the period of calculation has been reduced to the minimum.

Julius Shiskin, chief economic statistician of the Census Bureau, was assigned the task of seeing what could be done to speed up the process and he has written a book describing the series and its uses and limitations which is being published by the National Bureau. In addition the U. S. Department of Commerce is starting a new monthly publication which will give a great deal of statistical information which heretofore has not been available.

This does not mean that the problem of business forecasting has been solved. Far from it. But at least, from here on, we shall have figures which are more complete and we shall have them faster.

They have two sons. He is a member and deacon of Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church in Tarboro, past president of the New Bern Rotary Club and former cubmaster of pack 138, Tarboro.

Baby Was Born In Choir Loft

THOMASVILLE, N. C. (AP)—More people came out of a church in the nearby Midway community Sunday night than went in.

During the services, a choir member, Mrs. Frances Tuttle, gave birth to a child in the choir loft. Both were reported in good condition later in a Lexington hospital.

An ancient trail over Great St. Bernard Pass was improved by the Romans in the first century A. D. and it became the most traveled thoroughfare over the Alps.

Nikita Apparently Won Fight For Leadership; Cost Is Heavy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev apparently has won his war with the internal Soviet opposition to his leadership, but the cost probably will be heavy.

Announcement that the mummified remains of Stalin will be removed from the gloomy tomb in Red Square can be viewed as a signal victory for Khrushchev after more than six years of struggle.

It probably means that while Khrushchev retains his position as leader, he has little prospect of being dictator. The dictatorship must be in the hands of a group. Khrushchev becomes the boss of an old-fashioned political machine which itself in some ways will be beholden to rank and file party opinion and even to Soviet public opinion as a whole.

Such a development can dilute the monolithic authority of the Kremlin and soften the hard shell of communism inside the U.S.S.R. For the Soviet people that would be all to the good. But it can have expensive effects.

The current Soviet congress shows the attacks on Khrushchev up to now were based on fear that his policies would lessen the authority of the party both at home and abroad.

Questionnaire On Fitness Issued

Over 235 seventh grade students of Greenville Junior High School completed and returned questionnaires concerning their physical fitness, it was reported this week by Dr. John Futrell, director of the Pitt County Health Department.

The questionnaires were prompted by the emphasis being put on physical fitness today. School and health officials wanted assurance that the students were qualified for the program.

Out of some 280 students, only about 45 did not answer the questionnaires, which covered the following areas: heart, lungs, hernia, orthopedic defects, underweight or overweight and other items including teeth, tonsils, skin and vision which do not have an immediate bearing on the program. Immunization was also covered in the questionnaire. Dr. Futrell noted that answers indicated the students are "fairly up to date in their immunizations."

Such questionnaires will be sent to fourth graders in the future. First graders generally are tested in order to gain admittance to school.

This program represents the broadening of the school health program.

This much is admitted in the reading of a letter attributed to disgraced V. M. Molotov. Molotov complained that Khrushchev's policies were deviationist and anti-Communist.

Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and others who opposed Khrushchev—and came within a whisker of overthrowing him in 1957—objected to his policy of relaxation in international relations and even more to his economic projects at home, including his frequently failing virgin lands program for agriculture.

The relaxations, they could argue, brought unrest in Poland, revolt in Hungary, setbacks for communism. The policy even lost real estate. Khrushchev gave up the first time communism ever voluntarily surrendered any important territory it had occupied.

Khrushchev's economic policies abroad included aid to countries with anti-Communist regimes, to the anger of the Chinese Communists. Such policies, along with Khrushchev's deviations from stoneware Leninism, contributed to the costly public display of Peiping-Moscow irritation.

The economic policies at home called for decentralization in Khrushchev's eagerness to get his 20-year program on the road. Decentralization of authority in industry and agriculture could remove bureaucratic roadblocks hindering swifter Soviet development. But it also represented a danger. It meant diffusing authority, the right of lower levels to make decisions without prior reference to the Moscow center.

In brief, the policies could imperil the Kremlin's iron grip on the whole country. They could foster such problems as regional rivalries—even national rivalries—within the Soviet Union itself.

In the U.S.S.R., the people for the first time learned details of Stalin's blood purges, known for so long to people abroad. Khrushchev's 1956 denunciation of Stalin it must be remembered, was not public property in the U.S.S.R. and the Communist bloc.

Now the men who for so many years collaborated with Khrushchev, both under Stalin and after

Christening For A New Kennedy

BOSTON (AP)—Edward M. Kennedy Jr., newest nephew of President Kennedy, was christened Sunday by Richard Cardinal Cushing in a brief ceremony at the cardinal's residence.

The baby, born Sept. 26, is the second child of Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President. A small family group, including former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, patriarch of the family, attended.

Stalin, are paraded publicly as murderers and monsters. Khrushchev had to be somewhat desperate to risk such a shock to the public of Communist countries. He must have needed so badly to win out that apparently he felt the risk was worth the result.

Demo Women To Meet Thursday

Bowling Gear In Egyptian Tombs

Early bowling equipment dating from 5,200 B. C. has been found in Egyptian tombs, Gail Elliot, manager of Hillcrest Lanes, told Exchange Club members Friday night during a history of bowling.

In Western Europe, medieval bowling was done out of doors on a grassy area and nine pins were used. England's Henry VIII had to prohibit his archers from the sport in order to keep up their skill as fighting men.

When the Dutch came to New Amsterdam, they brought the sport but later had to prohibit working men from "bowling for nine pins" in the interest of getting work done for the colonies. Elliot said. To circumvent this law a tenth pin was added and the sport went on.

Today, Elliot said some 25,000-30,000 Americans bowl; this is twice the number of 10 years ago. Organized bowling leagues have sprung up directed by the American Bowling Congress. Five hundred of its members bowl in Greenville.

Elliot was presented by George Smith, program chairman. During a business session president over by President Luther Moore, a request for endorsement of the forthcoming state bond issue was made by the Wilmington Exchange Club. The request was tabled due to the non-political nature of the local club.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Official sources said Sunday that Syrian troops along the 70-mile Syrian-Israeli frontier are prepared to "repel any Israeli attempt to change the course of the River Jordan."

Jurgensen Guides Eagles To Top Of E. Conference

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer... Jurgensen, who collected... and experience while Norm Van Brocklin was directing the Philadelphia Eagles...

The 27-year-old former Duke standout passed the Eagles into sole possession of first place in the East Sunday with a three-touchdown performance... the last a 41-yard heave to Tommy McDonald with 16 seconds remaining...

ciaco fell back, losing to Pittsburgh 20-10. Detroit whipped Los Angeles 28-10. Jurgensen started the Eagles' desperation drive with 50 seconds remaining after the hapless Redskins, who list their seventh in succession and 15th over a two-season span, had taken the lead on a seven-yard flip from rookie Norm Snead to first-year fullback Jim Cunningham.

The Eagles began from their own 20 after the kickoff with Jurgensen firing 19 and 20 yard strikes to Bobby Walston missing once, then arching the clincher to the speedy McDonald. Green's winning field goal against the Giants (-2) came after New York had come from behind to take a 16-14 lead on a five-yard touchdown pass from rookie halfback Bob Gaiters to Kyle Rote and Pat Summerall's three field goals. Eddie LeBaron had fired TD passes of 14 and 14 yards to Frank Clarke and Dick Bielski as the Cowboys (4-3) built a 14-0 lead.

A pass interference moved the Bears (5-2) to the 17 in the fourth quarter against the Colts (3-4) and set up the winning touchdown. Rick Casares got it on a five-yard run and Roger LeClerc kicked the all-important extra point. The margin of victory was provided by linebacker Bill George, who broke through to block a conversion attempt by Steve Myhra.

The Steelers (2-5) raced to a 17-0 first period lead against the 49ers (4-3) on a 30-yard TD jaunt by John Henry Johnson, an 11-yard pitch from Rudy Bukich to Tom Tracy and the first of Lou Michael's two field goals. Jon Arnet of the Rams (1-6) ran a kickoff back 105 yards, one yard shy of the league record, but the Lion's (4-3) well-balanced attack got the job done. All four Detroit touchdowns came on short runs with Dan Lewish scoring twice and quarterback Jim Ninkowski and Ken Webb once each.

Citadel Could Win Conference Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The unpredictable Southern Conference finds out this weekend whether the battle for its 1961 football championship is due for a quick ending or, at this late date, has virtually just begun.

All argument could be silenced no later than Saturday at Lexington—if The Citadel whips VMI's defending champs. In that event, The Citadel would reign as conference king for the first time ever. But if VMI downs the streaking Cadets, no one can know the identity of the champion until the last day of the season: Thanksgiving, Nov. 23, when VMI meets arch-rival Virginia Tech at Roanoke.

EC Pirate Club Meets Tuesday

The East Carolina Pirate Club will hold its regular weekly Dutch dinner meeting Tuesday night at 6:30 in the Buccaneer Room for the main campus dining hall. Coach Jack Boone and his staff will show films of the East Carolina - Appalachian game and will give a scouting report on Lenoir Rhyne, the Pirates' opponent this week. All visitors are invited to attend.

and Virginia Tech, 1-1. Saturday's game at VMI, homecoming for the Keydets, winds up The Citadel's conference slate. But dangerous Virginia Tech has three more league games to play, and VMI, Richmond, and GW two apiece.

Whatever happens at Lexington, one—perhaps two—contenders will forfeit their hopes Saturday afternoon when Tech visits Richmond and George Washington entertains West Virginia (1-1). West Virginia, now probably the best team in the conference, can't win the title because it plays only three circuit games. The Mountaineers upset Army 7-3 last Saturday at West Point. Virginia Tech, which may have become the conference's second best club, also caught upset fever in a 10-7 victory over Florida State.

In conference action, VMI got a touchdown run and a touchdown pass from sophomore Butch Nunally and nipped luckless William and Mary (1-4) by 14-7; and Richmond used a 14-point, 99-yard effort by Earl Stoudt to shut out Davidson (0-4), 20-0. The Citadel kept on winning the close ones in a 7-6 victory at Xavier that stemmed from Earl Eastburn's touchdown and invaluable Bill Gilgo's extra-point kick. Furman, 5-2 overall but 2-2 in the conference and out of the title picture, downed Wofford 12-7 on touchdowns by Tom Campbell and Elliott Keller and a pair of stirring goal-line stands. Davidson is at William and Mary for a scrap of tail-enders Saturday, while Furman tackles potent Memphis State at Memphis. Now Appalachian, 4-1 in the

Plastic Helmet Questioned

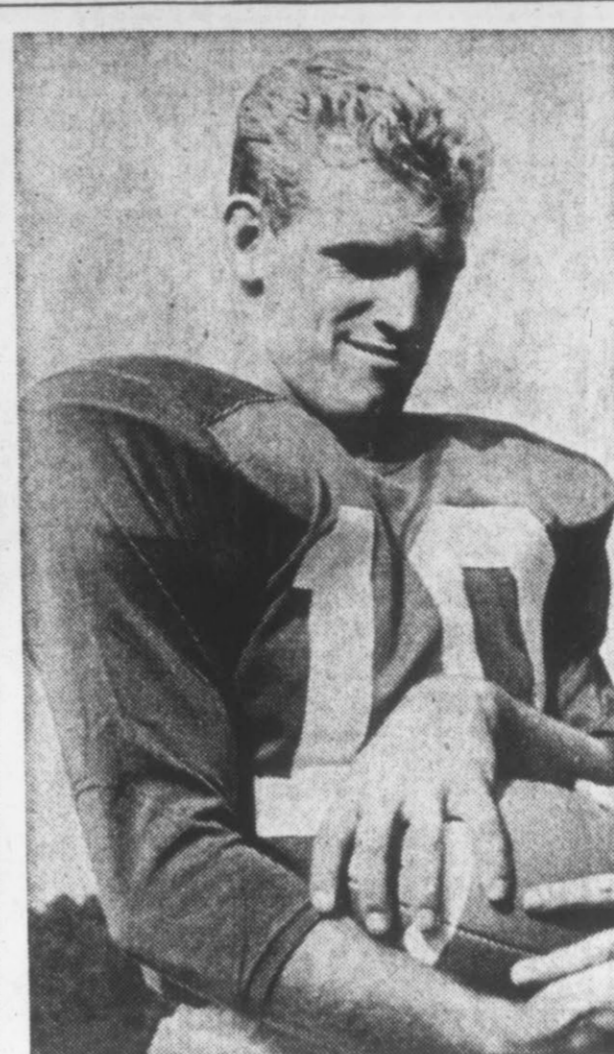

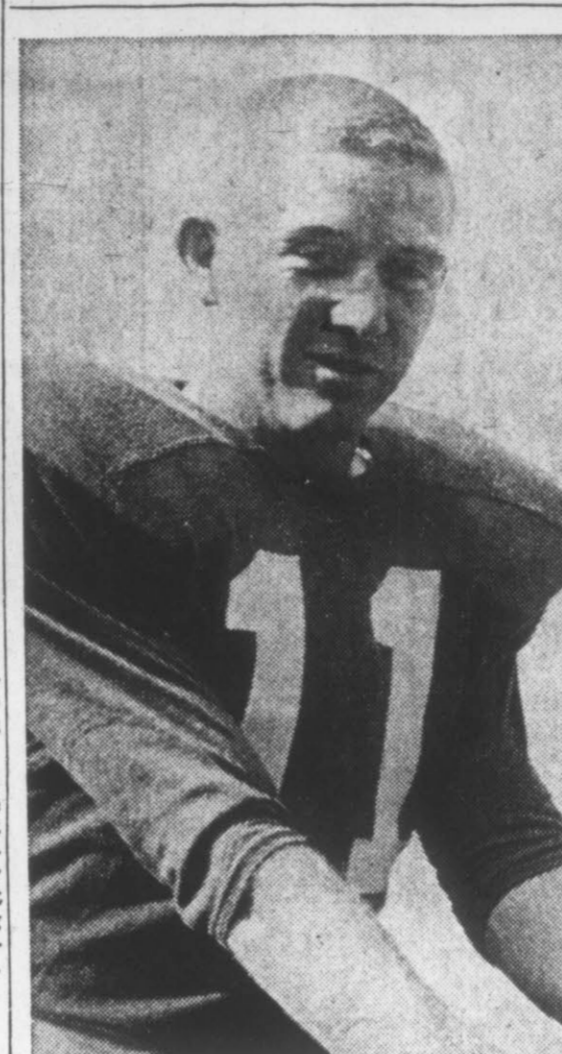

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Concerned by an increase in injuries on the playing field, college football's rules committee is exploring the possibility that the plastic helmet may be responsible. This was revealed Saturday by Gen. Robert R. Neyland, chairman of the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"There was an increase in injuries last year, particularly around the head and neck," Neyland said. We felt it might be the result of modern equipment. We decided to take another year to form a judgment. So far 21 football players have died in 1961, including four collegians, two semi-pros and 15 high school boys. "There is a real question whether plastic head guards are not the cause of an increased number of accidents. The accidents seem to be to the wearer of the helmet, not to his opponent," Neyland explained. Whatever Neyland's committee decides is biding on college football.

Champion Is Still 'Iffy' With Three Weeks To Go

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Picking the eventual football champion of the Carolinas Conference is still an "iffy" thing with three more full weeks of the season remaining. Right now Appalachian is at the top, having knocked East Carolina all the way from first to fourth by beating the Mountaineers 16-14 last Saturday. Now Appalachian, 4-1 in the

Pirates Drop To 4th, Apps Win

SATURDAY'S STANDOUTS . . . halfback Larry Rudisill (11) and quarterback Vince Eiduke (10). Rudisill caught a pass from Dan Rouse covering 40 yards for a Pirate touchdown. The conversion was made when Eiduke faked a kick and ran the end for two points. (Reflector Staff Photo) try failed and the Apps were leading at the half 9-0. As the second half got underway East Carolina tried desperately for a comeback. Quarterback Dan Rouse completed a pass to halfback Tommy Matthews on the 15 yard line who ran the remaining distance for the first Pirate score. The extra point try by Bob Muldrow was wide and the Pirates trailed by three points.

HICKORY — East Carolina's chances for the 1961 Carolinas Conference Championship were dampened considerably Saturday night by a strong Appalachian eleven which took advantage of the Pirate mistakes for a 16-14 win.

A nine point lead early in the game by the Mountaineers was the only thing that kept them in the conference running after East Carolina rallied in the second half and scored two touchdowns and two extra points.

The loss dropped the Pirates to fourth place in the conference standings with Appalachian on top, Lenoir Rhyne and Newberry are tied for second place with 3-1 conference records.

Pirates Have Fumbles The Pirates could not get started in the first half of the game and were suffering with fumbles. Out of four 'Buc fumbles the Mountaineers recovered three and also managed to block a punt which led to a field goal in the first few minutes of the contest giving them a lead which they kept all night. All of the fumbles and the blocked punt occurred in East Carolina territory.

East Carolina received the opening kickoff and managed to get to their own 26 line when fullback Nick Hilgert attempted to run the right end and was knocked for a 15 yard loss to the Pirate 11 yard line. The fourth down punt by freshman Gene Isenhour was blocked by end Orval Jaynes of Appalachian.

Gardner Kicks Field Goal Right Halfback Don Gardner managed to get away the 25 yard kick which was good for the field goal giving the Apps a 3-0 lead. Both teams played excellent defensive ball during the rest of the half and East Carolina held the Mountaineers until late in the third quarter when quarterback Eugene Styles completed a pass to right end Joe Hightower who ran the remaining five yards for the touchdown. The extra point

However, Appalachian widened their lead a short time later when Styles rolled out around the right end on an option play and ran the remaining 12 yards for the score. The extra point was kicked by Mike Chandler giving the Apps their 16 points.

In the fourth quarter East Carolina again scored on a pass play from Rouse to Rudisill which covered about 40 yards for the touchdown. With Vince Eiduke in at quarterback for the Pirates a faked kick play was turned into two extra points when Eiduke went around right end for the conversion.

The Pirates could not muster scoring steam again during the game and Appalachian took over the Carolinas Conference lead.

Hayes Outstanding Fullback Jim Hayes played an outstanding game for the Mountaineers. None of the rest of the App players were particularly outstanding, but all were consistent. The Apps took advantage of the East Carolina mistakes and they made few themselves.

The outstanding boys for the Pirates were Larry Rudisill on offense and Jones Lockerman and Clayton Piland on defense. Matthews also had an excellent night. With the Appalachian game behind them, the only chance the Pirates have of remaining in the running for the conference laurels is to beat Lenoir Rhyne next week. Of course, there are some complications here because Guilford would have to beat Appalachian and Newberry would have to lose one of its remaining games. And even this would only put the Pirates in a tie for first place.

The coming game with Lenoir Rhyne in Greenville Saturday is the big one for the Bears. They have to win this one to move to the top in the conference standings.

Acid Test For Leading FB Teams Comes This Saturday

Call it the moment of truth, or whatever, but Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 college football team, and bridesmaid Mississippi are each going to meet a team that will put them to the acid test this Saturday. And so will Ohio State, Colorado and Notre Dame, three others in the select circle that shook from the chain reaction of upsets last Saturday.

Michigan State, which hasn't allowed a point in Big Ten competition while rining up a 3-0 mark, takes on powerful Minnesota, last year's national champ and co-Big Ten leader. The Gophers, who beat Michigan 23-20 for the Little Brown Jug last Saturday, have won four in a row after a 6-0 loss to Missouri. The Spartans, 35-0 victors over Indiana, are 6-0 over-all, and have beaten Michigan and Notre Dame in other severe tests.

This Big Ten game, matching teams with identical 3-0 marks, plus Ohio State's encounter with Iowa, will clear some of the haze atop the standings. Ohio State is also 3-0 after beating Wisconsin 30-21 while Iowa now is 2-1, after being upset 9-0 by Purdue. Alabama, which leads the SEC with a 4-0 mark, and is 6-0 overall, is expected to hang on to its lead against Mississippi State. The Crimson Tide had some difficulty beating Houston 17-0. Colorado can pretty well snuff down the Big Eight title if it beats Missouri. The Buffalos are 4-0 in the conference after beating winless Oklahoma 22-14 while Missouri, defending champ, is 3-0 after its 10-0 dumping of Nebraska.

Notre Dame, one of many which fell before the upset synthe, may be in trouble again this week against Navy, another upset victim. The Irish lost their second after three straight victories, 12-10 to Northwestern, while the Middles, who had won four in a row after one loss, were surprised by Pitt 28-14. Texas (6-0) is expected to get its fourth win in the Southwest Conference against Southern Methodist after easily disposing of title contender Rice 34-7. Georgia Tech continues to pursue the lead in the SEC, beating Tulane 35-0, and now meets rebounding Florida. Elsewhere, Princeton is all alone in the Ivy League following its 30-25 victory over Cornell and Dartmouth's upset by Harvard. The Tigers take on winless Brown this week. The Citadel can wrap up the Southern Conference crown against defending champion Virginia Military. VMI is 3-1 after beating William & Mary 14-7 while The Citadel, 4-1, edged non-conference foe Xavier of Ohio 7-6.

Atlantic Coast leader Duke (4-1) is outside against Michigan but moved a half game ahead of North Carolina (3-1) with a 17-6 victory over N.C. State. Utah State can tie Wyoming (4-0-1) for the Skyline Conference lead with a victory over Brigham Young after the Cowboys ended Utah's first-place hopes with a 13-6 win. ## Kidnapping Trial To Open Tuesday

MONROE, N. C. (AP)—The trial of two Monroe Negroes and a white student from New York charged with kidnapping a white couple after an interracial riot on Aug. 27 begins here Tuesday.

All three were apprehended in Monroe. They are Richard Croder, 19, Negro former head of the Monroe N. A. A. P. Committee; Harold Reen, 20, Negro, and John C. Lowry, 22 of New York.

The trio is charged with kidnapping Mr. and Mrs. G. Bruce Seall of nearby Marshville, who were driving through a Negro area following the racial melee. The white couple's car was stopped and they were held captive at gunpoint for 2½ hours.

Solicitor M. G. Boyette will prosecute the case in Union Superior Court.

Mrs. Willie Mae Malory, 34, Negro from Macon, Ga. and New York also is charged in the case. She was arrested in Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 12 and is free under $7,500 bond pending a Nov. 22 hearing there.

A fifth suspect still is sought. Robert F. Williams, militant Negro integrationist from Monroe, has reportedly fled to Cuba.

Crowder was released under $15,000 bond Oct. 23. Reen and Lowry have remained in jail.

Adventists Gain Campaign Goal

The Greenville Seventh-day Adventist Church last night celebrated the reaching of its goal in the fifty-eighth annual campaign for funds to help support the denomination's world-wide medical, educational, evangelical and welfare program.

A victory banquet was held jointly with the congregations of the Adventist churches in Elizabeth City, Plymouth and Washington.

After the supper, Howard Boling, pastor of the district comprised by these four churches, introduced W. O. Coe of the Carolina Conference headquarters in Charlotte.

Mr. Coe presented a plaque for each of the churches, and reminded those present that the funds are used not only in 195 countries in missionary endeavors such as the denomination's 210 hospitals and clinics, but also to provide a summer camp for underprivileged children (non-Adventists) in this state, and shoes for needy children here in Greenville and in many other cities.

Another current project is the equipping of a disaster relief van, ready for dispatch to the scene of any disaster in the Carolinas.

Since salaries and channels are already set up, the funds gathered in this annual solicitation are free from overhead deductions. The goal was approximately $25 per member, that amount being what it takes to support the Adventists' humanitarian endeavors for one minute. Nearly six and one-half million persons were materially helped through these activities in 1960 alone.

The main aisle of St. Peter's is one-eighth of a mile long. Yet proportions in the church are so harmonious that things seem smaller than they are.

HALLOWEEN GOBLINS?—They're on the traditional trick-or-treat prowls but they're not exactly goblins. These three Greenville youngsters are among 2.5 million American boys and girls who will house-to-house canvass much of the nation Tuesday to collect donations for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund. In Greenville the youngsters will ring doorbells between 7 and 9 p.m. as their trick-or-treat venture for Halloween. ## Morganton Paper Opens New Home

MORGANTON, N. C. (AP)—The Morganton News Herald staff begins work today in a shiny new building. A weekend inspection by visiting newsmen and a public open house Sunday dramatized the move.

The new Collett Street headquarters was the dream of the paper's late publisher and editor, Miss Beatrice Cobb. She headed the afternoon daily for 43 years before her death in 1959. Newspaper executives and trustees of her estate transformed her dream into reality.

Fallout Protection Steps Are Advised For Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, now custodian of the civil defense fallout shelter program, has decided the military should do something about providing protection for its own people.

Since the department received the responsibility for the shelter program last summer, it has been busy telling civilians how to build their own shelters—and has done virtually nothing about increasing the handful of shelters the military had built.

In a new memorandum which came to light today, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric told the service secretaries and his own manpower and installations officials that: "Study should be initiated promptly to determine actions which are available to serve the dual purpose of protecting personnel and offering tangible evidence that the military establishment takes civil defense seriously."

Federal leadership will be enhanced, Gilpatric said, by "concrete and visible steps by the military establishment to provide protection for civilian employees, dependents and military personnel located in the United States."

A Defense Department directive issued in July 1960 says that reference to government-owned or government-sponsored housing that "fallout protection should be provided military and civilian personnel and their dependents in both new and existing construction."

Elsewhere, the 1960 statement of policy declares that: "The nation is not defended in fact by all readily available means of defense if civil defense measures are inadequate or neglected" and that "the vulnerability of our civil defense structure impairs the capabilities of existing military forces to serve their intended purposes."

However, the military's program hasn't gone much beyond the issuing of the policy statement more than a year ago and the new, prodding memorandum by Gilpatric.

A few posts, camps and stations have begun an attempt to provide shelter space for military and civilian personnel, and courses on radiation safety procedures are being taught. There is no money in the current fiscal 1962 budget for such shelters.

Gilpatric himself has built two fallout shelters, one at his home here, another at a summer home.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara hasn't built a shelter because, as he explains, he lives in a rented home here on which the lease expires next January.

Adam Yarmolinsky, McNamara's special assistant in charge of civil defense, is building a shelter.

The few really big radiation-tight fallout shelters the military now has are designed for personnel who would have direct part in the command machinery or the launching of weapons.

Headquarters of the Strategic Air Command near Omaha, Neb., is underground, protected against bomb blast as well as fallout.

The "alternate Pentagon," located in a cavern under a mountain near the Maryland-Pennsylvania border, is a stout, fallout-protected place. The Pentagon itself, with a daily population of about 27,000, has a command post located in a sub-basement, but not constructed with any particular guarantee against radioactive contamination. There is another alternate headquarters not far from Washington with fallout shelter features.

The underground sites at which intercontinental ballistic missiles are located have fallout protection features.

A few operational command headquarters for the services in the field have shelters.

But in each case, these shelters are for the specific purpose of protecting a few individuals who must make decisions, transmit commands or fire weapons.

Opposes Milk In American Diet

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — No one over a year old should drink milk, says the chairman of the Public Policy Commission of the American Academy of General Practice.

Dr. Walter W. Sackett Jr. of Miami, Fla., who admitted his is a controversial position, said he is a bitter foe of free milk distribution in public schools.

"I send notes to school for my own kids and ask that they be given tea or coffee instead of milk," he told the Louisville Courier-Journal in an interview Sunday.

"Why buy national suicide?" he asked.

Because they are high in cholesterol, milk and other dairy products should be eliminated from the American diet, he said.

Cholesterol is the saturated fat which sometimes piles up in coronary arteries and brings on heart attacks.

THE GREEN STONE

A suspense thriller by SUZANNE BLANC

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

On a lonely stretch of the Monterey - Mexico City highway, death struck like lightning. Mr. and Mrs. Randall, tourists from the United States, were motoring southward when, at a curve, an expertly placed bullet struck Randall, the driver, through the eye into the brain. The car careened into a crash that killed Mrs. Randall, too. Then three native Indians scurried from behind the rocks, and while the eldest searched for and took the pesos from the corpse of the man, his son Manuel, disobeyed by taking an emerald ring from the woman's finger. Rings could be traced, the father had warned, but pesos could not be.

That night, fearful of discovery by his father and police, the youth tried the emerald from its setting. Keeping the stone, he flung the setting from a hill, and as morning sunshine glistened upon the metal, a crow swooped down and carried it away.

CHAPTER 2

The prefecture of police in San Luis is on a side street, a large barn of a building that looks and smells like police stations all over the world.

Behind it, across a connecting courtyard, are the offices for the Federal branches of investigation.

On the night the Randalls were killed, it was to one of these offices, ambiguously marked "Tourist Section," that Sergeant Roberto brought the accident reports. It was late and he had merely intended to place the manila folder on Inspector Menendes' desk and leave for home, but, as usual when he was assigned to work with the inspector, he worried.

The inspector was an educated Indian, a unique product of his generation, difficult to work with, exacting, and, to the sergeant's city-bred mind, incomprehensible. He always wanted information for which there was no allowance on the official forms.

He would ask searching questions such as "What was your impression?" or "Did you feel that anything was wrong?" He had been thoroughly trained in established police methods, but often ignored them, relying instead on uncanny, primordial instincts that lay just below his civilized veneer.

Because of the protuberant blue eyes he had inherited from his German mother, Sergeant Roberto was inclined to forget his own Indian heritage. In the conscious reaches of his mind was a contempt for all Indians.

Beneath this, however, was a substratum of awe in relation to the inspector, a vestigial fear of the unknown that could be traced to one of his more distant ancestors, for the sergeant never looked at the massive Indian with his immobile face without being reminded of a grim Aztec idol.

Now, as he placed the folder on the inspector's desk, a vague consciousness nagged at him. "This is what comes of working with that educated savage," he decided in disgust at himself.

However, as though he had no volition of his own, he picked up the folder again and skimmed through its contents.

Everything was in order, the detailed description of the accident complete with diagrams and photographs, the report of the other accident that had happened at the same curve, the careful inventory of the tourists' belongings all neatly listed: clothes, entry permit, driver's license, camera, money. . . It was here the sergeant's eye stopped. Money.

Over fifteen hundred dollars was listed in American traveler's checks and twenty-eight dollars in United States currency—yet only a few centavos of change, and those had been found in the woman's purse.

Would rich North American be traveling without pesos? Possible, of course, but what if it were found that some money were missing? That would change this from an ordinary accident to robbery.

There was, of course, the truck driver, who could have robbed the bodies, but without knowing the money was actually missing was he justified in ordering the driver held for questioning? Best not take a chance. Roberto picked up the telephone.

Once he had ordered the driver brought in, he could no longer delay notifying the inspector. In the final analysis the case was Menendes' responsibility. He decided to drop in casually at the inspector's apartment and give him a rapid review of the events.

The apartment was brightly lit. Theresa Menendes greeted Roberto warmly at the door. Under a coating of powder his pleasant face was flushed with excitement. Over her shoulder the sergeant could see people sitting around the living room.

"I'm sorry, Senora Menendes," the sergeant said. "I didn't know you were having a party."

"It's all right, Sergeant. We're just celebrating Maria's first communion. Please come in."

"No, thank you. If I could just speak to the inspector for a minute."

To the inspector the sergeant's arrival was a welcome relief. When Theresa told him the sergeant was waiting, he eagerly seized the excuse to get away from the overcrowded room.

The two men went out together onto the patio where it was cool and quiet. Dryly, factually, the sergeant described the accident. The inspector stiffened to attention. "And no one helped? What about the Indians, didn't they hear the crash?"

"Not that we know of. We have apparently nothing in the car apparently nothing in the car was missing. If the Indians had found the wreck, you know how they are. . . He paused, and the words trailed off into embarrassed silence.

"You say apparently nothing is missing, but are you sure? Have you checked with customs to see if the tourists declared anything of value when they entered Mexico?"

"No, it seemed like a simple accident. The skid marks, show they were driving too fast. Even the sergeant the words sounded like a stumbling excuse."

The inspector began to pace the patio like a huge, restless, two-dimensional shadow. He was talking as if to himself.

"With tourists there are no simple accidents. There will be inquiries. Someone in the State will say that something was stolen. They will imply the police took it. There will be an investigation."

"If you thought it was so simple an accident, why did you come here tonight? Couldn't it have waited until morning?"

Embarrassed, the sergeant told him about the money. "It worried me, rich tourist raveling without Mexican pesos."

"It should worry you." The inspector sounded pleased, as if an idiot son had at last learned to tie his own shoelaces. "I suppose you picked up the truck driver."

"Yes, he should be at the station now." The sergeant continued apologetically. "It never occurred to me to hold him when he reported the accident. He's a short man, very fat, and he was crying, actually crying."

"Of course we don't know whether anything's missing," the inspector said. "That's one of the

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

Do you know that 49.4 per cent of all farm land in Pitt County is forest land? Income for this vast acreage, about 180,000 acres, can and should be increased many times. The 1960 Census of Agriculture reports only $1.10 per acre gross income from timberland.

Fire is the greatest enemy of timberlands. Ninety-five per cent of forest fires are caused by careless burning of ditch-banks, field borders, carelessly dropped lighted matches, burning cigarettes, etc. Controlled burning should be done after four o'clock in the afternoon, when the wind is quiet. Careful preparations should be made, such as plowing or disking a strip around the area to be burned. And you should be extremely careful about tossing away your lighted cigarette butts and matches.

Manage your timberland properly. Use undesirable wood for fuel for cooking and heating, for peanut and hay stack poles, and tobacco sticks, and after preservative treatment as fence posts. Also thick stands of young pines can be thinned and those cut used for fence posts after treatment.

Sales of timber often result in a greater money transaction than the land it is out from its worth. This suggests full use of sale contracts and timber deeds. Get ready for sale by determining the amount for sale by carefully estimating the volume and contracting several buyers to establish competitive bidding. Cutting and selling timber to a diameter limit is very destructive to pine stands. Sales of timber should be made to improve the growth and value rather than to destroy it.

If you have land not being used for other purposes, plant it with pine seedlings for timber or fence post production, or plant it with cedar seedlings for Christmas tree production. Over 3000 acres are left idle in Pitt County each year. Many of these acres could and should go back to forestry purposes.

Make a careful examination of your forest lands and prepare a simple management plan for your own use. This plan should be aimed at keeping each square yard busy producing marketable timber. When this is done, your income can be increased to $8-$10-$12-$15 per acre per year.

Timber is a crop. Treat it as such. You wouldn't think of selling your tobacco without first determining how much you have for sale. Do the same for your timber.

Wildlife is another important crop to your farm. It is planted, cultivated and harvested just like field crops—not in the same way, but with the same idea in mind. When we mention wildlife we usually think of hunting, trapping, or fishing. Actually, only a small percentage of the great number of birds, animals and fish which make up the wildlife resources are classed as game, but all of them contribute to the betterment of the farmer.

Are you wondering just how are wildlife resources a value to you and your farm? If there are not enough rabbits, which are a food item of foxes, foxes will catch your poultry for food. Yet too few foxes will permit an over supply of field rodents which will destroy much of the field forage necessary for livestock.

Many harmful insects are destroyed by beneficial insects and songbirds. Beneficial insects also pollinate legumes and fruit trees.

Fish in farm ponds make the ponds more enjoyable by feeding on mosquito larvae, as well as providing recreation and food.

Good land management practices include the use of border strips and hedgerows to prevent or correct erosion of soil; cutting down the possibility of fire which would destroy valuable timber and shrubs; proper timing of planting and cultivation which tends to retard the influences of disease and insects; and conversion of unproductive crop lands to a more beneficial use.

Carry out the best forestry and wildlife resources practices you can, not only for added income and pleasure for your self and family, but for future generations.

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

For the past few years farmers in Pitt County have participated in a tobacco variety performance survey. This survey is being conducted again this year. The purpose of the survey is to determine how various varieties compared in yield and value during 1961 on tobacco farms.

As many farmers as possible are being contacted so that the information reported will represent a sizeable portion of the tobacco grown in the county. Growers are being asked what total yield and value they received from each variety grown in 1961 on their farms.

Cards have been sent to all growers on our mailing list and growers are urged to fill out the card accurately and return it to the county agents office. Each grower should send in his or her card regardless of whether the yield is low, medium, or high. This is essential if the summary of the variety data is to represent the actual performance of a given variety in the county and state.

All farmers will receive a copy of the data on the performance of the different varieties as soon as the summary is completed.

Since a special effort was made by many growers to plant non-resistant varieties, or divide their acreage between one or more varieties, this information should prove particularly interesting and helpful this year.

Other counties are also accumulating this information from growers so that we will be able to compare our results with those of the entire belt and state.

REV. and MRS. ROLAND HARRELL are conducting revival services now underway at Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church through November 5. Services are being held nightly at 7:30. The public is invited.
