Knowing What To Do In An Atomic Attack, Increases Your Chances 100 Times

Professor Libby and his $30 backyard shelter.

Editor's Note: A Nobel prize winner who is America's best known authority on fallout and radiation has written for this newspaper 15 vital articles on what you can do if nuclear war strikes. Here is the first.

By PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

For $30, I built a fallout shelter in my backyard.

It gives my family 100 times more chance of surviving nuclear fallout than if I had done nothing.

This poor man's shelter is just one example of many practical things you can do—and especially KNOW ABOUT—for survival insurance if all efforts to keep peace fail.

The key to survival is understanding the hazards, the effects of nuclear weapons, so you can make intelligent decisions and take intelligent action.

The smart man has 100 times more chance than the man who doesn't know what to expect or do.

Ignorance can kill, just as it kills the little child who runs in front of an automobile. You can save your life easily. You can easily lose it.

Do you know, for example that:

Even if a bomb exploded nearby, you would have an hour or longer to take or prepare shelter before the fallout arrived?

Forty-eight hours after radioactive fallout comes down, it is only 1 per cent as "hot" or dangerous as when it fell?

Fallout is one of the biggest potential killers in nuclear weapons?

By this fallout, I don't mean the relatively small amount coming from high air bursts of nuclear tests. I mean the thousands of tons of radioactive dirt and materials vaporized and made radioactive by a great burst near or on the ground.

This fallout behaves like ordinary dust, except it is "hot." There are ways to clean up, brush or wash away this radioactive dust.

You could build a $30,000 shelter, and yet allow fallout to get in unless you knew what you were doing.

Fallout will not mean the end of all life on earth, even if hundreds of bombs were exploded.

All these are facts. They and other facts answer "Yes" to the many questions people are asking, which all add up to this: "Is there really anything we can do?"

I cannot tell you there is a simple, cheap way to protect yourself if you are in the very center of a target when it receives a direct hit.

And many thousands near the center of destruction could survive, with knowledge and protection.

Your First Move First, let us assume you are caught in the most defenseless position—out in the open, with no warning an attack is coming.

The first sign is a tremendous light, thousands of times brighter than the sun or a flash of lightning. There's no mistaking what it is.

If you sense it, don't look at it. It could blind you. Throw yourself instantly to the ground, and preferable behind some protection, such as a building, the curb of a street, a culvert, even a tree, anything to put protection between you and that flash. Lie as flat as you can.

With the light, the first effect is prompt or instant radiation from the nuclear burst. It is X-rays and neutrons flying out in straight lines in all directions from the burst. This is NOT fallout. The X-rays and gamma rays travel about 1,000 yards at most, then disappear.

With this radiation, at the same speed, comes heat. The heat from a 20 megaton bomb might cause second degree burns at a distance of up to 25 miles, unless you were protected.

A hole in the ground could save you from much or all harm from the radiation and heat. Thousands of Japanese in Hiroshima or Nagasaki would have survived had they known this in time.

Then, travelling at the speed of sound, comes the blast effect, made all the worse because it picks up all kinds of objects and hurls them about like missiles.

Hiding, making yourself small, increases chances of survival. The chances improve the farther you happen to be from the bomb center.

Survive this, and you have probably an hour before fallout arrives.

Why? Because it consists of the nuclear ashes or coals from the burst, and sucked-up material. And it shoots up to 20 to 25 miles high, and has all that distance to fall back to earth.

Greenville Rescue Squad 'Best' In U.S.; Third In International Test

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer ROANOKE, Va.—An eight-man Greenville Rescue Squad team took third place in World Championship Rescue Competition last Friday and thereby became the number one rescue team in the United States.

W. Gardner said today he is "mighty proud of the boys" for the way they performed in the competition . . . noting that their winning was due to "their many hours of practice."

Members of the winning rescue team included Claude Christopher, captain; Dawson Nethercutt, Tony Brannon, Robert C. Blanton, Dr. Sam White II, Harold Ross, Melvin Hathaway, Stuart Savage and alternate Robert Briley. First Aid team members included: Capt. Christopher, Nethercutt, Dr. White and Savage, with Brannon serving as alternate.

Next year's International Conference with the International First Aid and Rescue Competitions will be held Montreal, August 2-4, 1962.

The Third Place World Championship trophy was presented to the local team at a banquet concluding the 14th Annual Conference of the International Rescue and First Aid Association in Roanoke, Va. Saturday night.

The local team was one of eleven competing for the World Championship, which was won by the Chicoutimi Rescue Squad team from Chicoutimi, Quebec, Canada. Second in the rescue competition was the defending International Champion, the Dominion Bridge Rescue Squad of Lachne, Que., a suburb of Montreal.

The Chicoutimi team gathered a total of 317 points of the 350 possible, while the Dominion Bridge squad totaled 304 points. The Greenville team totaled 294 points in competition.

Intermittent rains hampered the contest in which the teams solved two problems—using a culvert, and a gin pole to raise a 1,000 pound weight and lowering an "injured man" from the top of a three-story fire station.

In addition to the first two places taken by Canadian teams, the fourth place in the contest was won by Rescue No. 1, Toronto, Ont., with 260 points, while in fifth place was an American team, the Riviera Beach, Md., Volunteer Fire Department with a score of 256.

The Greenville team traveled to Roanoke Wednesday for the three-day conference, representing the city and the N. C. State Association of Rescue Squads. The local group took first place in both the State Rescue and the State First Aid contests held here in conjunction with the North Carolina Association of Rescue Squads meeting three weeks ago.

The local squad had a four man team entered in the International First Aid contest but failed to place in the event, which saw Canadian teams take four of the top five places.

International First Aid winners were members of the Mount Orford Ski Patrol team of Magog, Quebec. Their score was a total of 559 from a possible 585 points.

The Dominion Bridge first aid team placed second with 536 points while in third with 532 points was the Metro Toronto Branch of St. John's Ambulance, Toronto, Ont. Fourth place was taken by the Canadian Ski Patrol System, Central Zone Men's Team, Toronto, Ont., with 529 points. The only U. S. team taking a trophy in the First Aid contest was the Whitestone, New York Rescue Squad, which placed fifth, scoring 501.

Top women's team in competition was the Canadian Ski Patrol System, Central Zone, Women's Team from Toronto, which scored 388 points.

The trophies were presented to the winners by William Johns, Washington, D.C., Assistant Safety Director of the American Trucking Association which furnished the prizes.

A total of 532 persons registered for the convention, including representatives from 19 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

Highlights of the conference included workshops on emergency first aid measures, emergency treatment for heart patients, air-craft crash rescue workshops and classes on heavy and light duty rescue practices.

Sanford Compares N.C. Bond Issues With Business Financing Methods

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford, compares bond issues on which Tar Heel citizens will vote Tuesday to the methods used by business to finance new buildings, and a family to purchase a home.

"These bond issues are sound. They provide improvements that our growing state must have. These improvements can be paid for as they are being used," the governor said in a statement Sunday.

He said he is confident the $61.5 million in bonds will get an approving majority in the election. The 1961 legislature authorized the bond vote.

Opposition to the bonds has been a p p a r e n t l y unorganized, State Republican Chairman William E. Cobb has spoken against bonds for port facilities, for new state buildings, for state parks and forestry, and for agricultural research. However, Robert Lee Gavin of Sanford, the GOP candidate for governor last year, has endorsed the ports bonds.

The Conservative party of North Carolina, which has headquarters in High Point, opposes all ten of the bond issues.

The largest amount would go for higher education purposes. This includes $31,000,000 for state-supported colleges, and $1,438,000 for community colleges.

The expansion of state ports at Wilmington and Morehead City would take care of $13.5 million of the amount. These bonds would be retired with proceeds from port operations.

Greenville Fire Chief George

A light vote has been predicted. Out of two million registered voters, Sanford has estimated a total of around 175,000 to 200,000.

The last bond election was in 1959, when about 110,000 persons cast ballots in approving seven of nine bond issues totaling just over $34 million.

In addition to ports and higher education, bond issues at stake Tuesday are:

- 1. Mental institutions, $7,396,000.
2. New buildings in Raleigh to house state offices, $2,858,000.
3. New buildings for State Library and Archives and History Department, $2,560,000.

4. State parks and forest protection purposes, Conservation and Development Department, 961,000.

- 5. Training school for youthful offenders, $1,110,000.
6. Agricultural research facilities, $299,000.
7. State aid for local hospital construction, $500,000.

Light Turnout Of Pitt Voters Is Expected On Bond Election

Pitt County voters go to the polls tomorrow to voice their opinions regarding issue of $61.5 million in bonds for state-supported capital improvements throughout North Carolina.

Pitt Elections Board Chairman D. S. Spain today forecast a light vote for the county in the election "if registration was any indication and if the Governor's prediction includes us."

Gov. Sanford has forecast a turnout of about 200,000 of two million voters. Spain said registrars saw little activity in the county.

Polls will open at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday and will remain open in all 25 precincts until 6:30 p.m.

Local school and other officials, civic clubs and other organizations have urged voters to approve the issue.

Perhaps the most vigorous public support for the proposed bonds in Pitt County has been exhibited by East Carolina College President Dr. Leo W. Jenkins. At his recent public appearances he has plugged the bond issue consistently.

East Carolina, if the bonds are approved Tuesday, will receive $3.4 million of a total $31 million earmarked for capital improvements at state-supported institutions of higher learning and community colleges.

Dr. Jenkins has emphasized that the figure to be received by East Carolina would be inflated to $4.6 million through receipt of a pair of federal loans for student housing.

The funds in the bond issue for East Carolina would enable the college to proceed on seven major projects including:

- $800,000 for replacement of Austin Building.
—$800,000 (75 per cent of total cost) for a 400-woman dormitory to replace Wilson Hall.
—$423,000 for additions to Joyner Library.
—$737,750 (50 per cent of total cost) for a 520-man dormitory and cafeteria.
—$274,000 (50 per cent of total cost) for an addition to Wright Building.
—$50,000 for outdoor athletic facilities.
—$217,000 for purchase of land.
The second largest item in Tuesday's election is $13.5 million for improvement of the state's port facilities at Wilmington and Morehead City.

The Greenville Jaycees have arranged to offer free rides to the polls for voters. Persons desiring the Jaycees' service have been asked to telephone PL 2-77.5.

U.S. Nuclear Tests Meet Veiled Threat By Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets have issued a veiled warning that further nuclear testing by the United States and its allies may compel the Soviet Union to prolong its program of tests, still numerically behind the West.

President Kennedy's announcement last Thursday that the United States is getting ready for possible resumption of atmospheric tests was the target of a statement issued Sunday by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

"The statement by the United States president does not meet half way the desires of those who are sincerely pressing for an end to the nuclear arms race," Tass said. "To the underground tests of nuclear weapons which are already being staged in the United States, nuclear tests in the atmosphere are to be added as soon as the U.S. government regards this as necessary."

"In the case of continuation of nuclear tests by the United States of America and its allies, all the more in the case of resumption of American nuclear tests to the atmosphere, the other side will watch these military preparations, primarily the steps in improving nuclear weapons, because it cannot permit the occurrence of such a situation in which the interests of its security would not be reliably ensured.

"This other side again will have to draw the appropriate conclusions for itself with regard to nuclear weapons tests. It gives without saying that full responsibility for the continuation of the nuclear arms race and for the cooling of nuclear tests will be borne then by the United States government."

The warning was coupled with another call for a general and complete disarmament Friday, long proposed by Premier Khrushchev, and a reiteration that the Soviet Union is ready to ditch all its nuclear weapons if other nations do the same.

The statement said such a treaty should provide for "most strict international control." It did not elaborate. The Soviet Union in the past has rejected proposals to establish what the Western allies consider would be an adequate inspection system before conclusion of a disarmament treaty.

"Tass has been authorized to announce that the leading circles of the Soviet Union reaffirm the readiness of the Soviet government to sign even today a treaty on general and complete disarmament, on the basis of such nuclear weapons tests too be ended for all time," the agency said.

"Is the government of the United States, with President J. Kennedy at its head, ready to say that? The peoples are entitled to expect an answer to this question."

The United States and its allies have staged considerably more tests than the Soviet Union, the statement said, and this gave "complete moral justification" for the Soviet test program launched Sept. 1. The series included detonation of one device of 50-plus megatons.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union had set off 55 announced tests prior to the present series, in which there have been 31, making a total of 86. The U.S. total, including four in the current underground series, is 157. Britain has fired 22 and France 4.

J.W. Joyner of Farmville, chairman of the ABC Board, showed the Commissioners his board's recommendation to purchase a site for $15,000 that includes 160 feet of frontage along Cotanche Street between Second and First Streets and 95 feet along Second Street east of Cotanche.

Joyner said in his opinion the offer by Joseph E. Waldrop to sell the property for $15,000 represented "a real good buy." He said the board hopes to begin work on the new building within the next few weeks.

In addition to quarters for relocating the No. 8 outlet,

Commissioners OK Plans To Relocate Pitt ABC Store

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County's Commissioners today gave the go-ahead signal for the county ABC Board to proceed with plans to relocate Store No. 8—one of two alcoholic beverage stores in Greenville.

The store will be moved from its present location on Evans Street between second and Third Streets to the northeast corner of Second and Cotanche Streets.

J.W. Joyner of Farmville, chairman of the ABC Board, showed the Commissioners his board's recommendation to purchase a site for $15,000 that includes 160 feet of frontage along Cotanche Street between Second and First Streets and 95 feet along Second Street east of Cotanche.

Joyner said in his opinion the offer by Joseph E. Waldrop to sell the property for $15,000 represented "a real good buy." He said the board hopes to begin work on the new building within the next few weeks.

In addition to quarters for relocating the No. 8 outlet, plans include providing office space for the board's operation. Its headquarters currently occupies space in the courthouse. Joyner said future plans could include construction of a stock warehouse on the site. "There's plenty of room for that," he said.

Joyner-credited board member Paul Davenport with heading negotiations for the property. Earlier attempts of the board to move the Evans Street store had met with little success.

On the eve of the state-wide bond election, the Commissioners urged support for the $61.5 million issue.

Voting on a motion by Robert L. Martin of Bethel, four of the five Commissioners approved the resolution calling for support of the bonds. Commissioner J. Vance Perkins of Greenville did not attend this morning's session.

Martin offered his motion after Chairman Robert G. Little had read a letter from the New Hanover County Commissioners asking support for the $13 million in bonds for improving the state's ports. Accompanying the letter was a resolution drafted and adopted by the New Hanover board.

Martin told the commissioners: "I think we should adopt our own resolution, not one mailed to us from Wilmington." The Pitt Commissioners' resolution was a brief statement of support for the entire $61.5 million to be presented voters tomorrow.

The board approved a $90,410 road plan supplement submitted by Charles Snell, second Division highway engineer. Snell's plan added six projects to an earlier plan for Pitt County secondary road projects during fiscal 1961-62.

Projects listed included: —Secondary Road 1558 — surfacing of a connection between SR 1558 and NC 30 in Pactolus on the north side of and adjacent to Hunting Run Creek at a cost of $4,100.

—SR 1232—grading, drainage and stabilization of the Bell Road (4 miles) from US 258 to SR 1240 near Fountain at a cost of $6,200.

—SR 1122—a concrete bridge on the Ross Allgood Road over Swift Creek near Ayden at a cost of $12,500.

—SR 1251—a concrete bridge over Litten Creek northeast of Fountain at a cost of $11,000.

—SR 1777, 1775 and 1753 — reinforcement of subgrade and repavement of pavement failures along the roads from Grimesland to Stokes town at a cost of $13,000.

—SR 1131—grading, drainage and paving of 2 1/2 miles of the Jack McLawhorn Road from NC 11 north of Ayden east to SR 1700 at a cost of $39,000.

In addition to the six projects $4,610 was reserved for additions and preliminary engineering.

board and render a full report for their consideration and appropriate action." The letter was dated Oct. 2 and was received since the last previous meeting of the commissioners.

Mrs. Capehart was suspended as home demonstration agent when Negro Farm Agent James Goode was fired. The commissioners upheld the action by concurring with a recommendation by the Extension Service.

In other action today, the commissioners expressed official appreciation to the Pilot Club of Greenville and the Eastern Carolina Cosmetologists Association for sponsorship of a program in the Pitt County Home to provide beauty parlor services for the women residents there. The two clubs collaborated to operate a portable beauty parlor at the County Home Oct. 8.

Pitt Rep. Frank M. Wooten in behalf of the Pitt County Historical Society requested another $200 donation for the current exhibit at the Greenville Art Center celebrating the county's 200th birthday. The commissioners told Wooten the matter would receive further consideration.

Civil Defense Program Given Woman's Club
 The Greenville Woman's Club met Friday at the club house. The hostesses for the afternoon served refreshments of coffee, cheese sticks, grapes and pumpkin tarts.
 The hostesses were Mrs. Norman Merritt, chairman, Mrs. P. E. Wells, Mrs. F. L. Diener, Mrs. K. F. Putrelle, Mrs. J. D. Aman, Mrs. J. L. Evans.
 The Public Affairs Department presented a program on "Civil Defense." In the absence of the chairman of the department, Mrs. James O. Bond, the speaker, Dr. Frank W. Eller, was introduced by Mrs. W. E. Rosevear, first vice president.
 Dr. Eller's subject was "Radiation Effects." He said that radiation was like invisible light, and that certain rays could penetrate walls. He exhibited on a screen charts, diagrams and pictures which demonstrated the damage done to the tissue of animals which had been subjected to radiation. He also showed children of the Marshall Islands who had been harmed by fallout, and the effect it had wrought on their bodies.
 Dr. Eller said there was need to be concerned about fallout, but not to panic. He pointed out that the Civil Defense program was causing the American people to become unified for one purpose, and that cooperation was developing among them. He said we are approaching the time when we are becoming conscious of one another's need, and are more likely to realize that living by the Golden Rule is possible—the time when each will consider the other's need before his own. He considered that building shelters for defense was as important as building battlements.

 A short period was set aside at the end of the talk for questions. During the business meeting, reports were received from various committees.
 New members, endorsed by the Board of Directors at the October meeting, and received by the club were Miss Venetia Cox, Mrs. G. Worsley, Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts, Mrs. J. R. Boswell, Mrs. R. W. Howard, Mrs. Tran Gordley, Mrs. Milan Johnston, Mrs. J. R. Hooper, Mrs. F. L. Davison, Mrs. George Fleming.
 The next meeting on December 1 will feature a talk by Mr. Douglas Mitchell. His topic will be "Flowers and Trees Symbolic of the Christmas Season."

Belvoir Club Meeting Held
 "Care of the Sick" was the demonstration given by Mrs. D. M. Hollowell when the Belvoir H. D. Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Claudelle McRoy.
 The devotions were given by Mrs. C. D. Clark.
 A talk on "Home Nursing Course" was given by Mrs. Hollowell. It was decided that the club begin a course shortly which would consist of 14 hours training, with two hours per week lasting seven weeks.
 The club Christmas party will be held at the home of Mrs. R. F. Clark at the regular December meeting.
 Card of Thanks
 We wish to express our thanks and gratitude for the food, cards, flowers, visits and words of sympathy and consolation which were extended to us during the recent illness and death of our loved one, God bless each and everyone of you.

Designer Jean Louis Shows 'Step-In' Dress
 By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
 AP Fashion Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — At least one designer does not underestimate the fury of a woman who cannot, despite her contortions, unzip the back of her dress.
 He is Jean Louis, a Frenchman from Hollywood, who brought a bevy of beautiful models and boxes of new fashion ideas for the debut of his spring collection here today.
 One such idea was the "step-in" tunic dress with a panel of buttons marching down the front far enough for easy entry, feet first, eliminating the need for zippers.
 Jean Louis' coat-dress is another zipperless style which not only preserves sacroiliacs. It is guaranteed not to deflate those bouffant hairdos which Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy did so much to make popular.
 Although it buffons down the front like a coat, the style resemblance ends there. Like other so-called coat dresses introduced at this spring market, the West Coast couturier's are too fitted and belted to be anything else but a dress.
 As the show hurried on, the wardrobe progressed from manish suits with bowler hats; to coats narrow at the shoulder and flared wide from the fitted bosom to floral pastel costume suits; to sultry black crepe cocktail dresses draped in back; and finally to chiffon and beaded formalwear.
 Except for those step-in dresses, most of Louis' styling was in retreat. The West Coast couturier obviously appreciates a tanned back, for some backs are scooped so low and wide they nearly eliminate the back bodice of the dress altogether.
 Another Franco-American from the East Coast, Jacque Tiffreau, introduced the Obi silhouette Thursday during the Monte-Sano spring show. Being much closer to the Orient geographically, it was only fitting that Jean Louis should do one better with the Kabuki costume.
 Those loose, slit sleeves of the Japanese kimono are in Louis' daytime dresses, theater suits, floating chiffon, rustling satin, and even sober black floor-length dinner gowns.
 Although other American designers seem to have deserted ostrich feathers as well as clicking crystals, blinding beads, shimmering sequins, Jean Louis with a Hollywood following could hardly eliminate the showy costumes. And to prove how well Jean Louis does at dramatizing a not-exactly-young figure, a grandmother modeled a glittering serpentine floor length gown, trailing a stole of twinkling silver sequins behind her. The crowd applauded wildly.
 The model was Marlene Dietrich.

Tryouts For 'Auntie Mame' On Nov. 8-9
 Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, Associate Director of the East Carolina Playhouse, has announced that try-outs for Auntie Mame, the next major Playhouse production, will be held in Rawl Auditorium on the evenings of Nov. 8 and 9 from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock.
 Described by New York critics as a "towering and tremendous hit" and "a thunderbolt of fun," Auntie Mame is based on the Patrick Dennis best-seller. The comedy was written for the stage by two outstanding contemporary dramatists, Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Both the Broadway and motion picture versions of Auntie Mame were phenomenal triumphs for actress Rosalind Russell who played the title role.
 Dr. Rives, who will be the director of the production, has noted that the cast for Auntie Mame will be large, including roles for 25 men, 12 women, and three young boys. He encourages both veteran actors and aspiring ones to come to the try-outs on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.
 Auntie Mame is scheduled for performance in the McGinnis Auditorium on the evenings of January 18, 19, and 20, 1962.
 A copy of the script for Auntie Mame has been placed on the reserve book shelf at Joyner Library in order that anyone interested may have a chance to become familiar with the various roles in the play prior to the try-outs.
 Assisting Dr. Rives as student director will be Sue S. Taylor of Greenville. Lois Garren, also of Greenville, will be in charge of costumes. Professor Paul Minnis of the Department of Art at the college is designing the set for Auntie Mame.

Stage Play At Eppes Tuesday

The last performance of the annual AAUW-sponsored children's play, Robin Hood, is scheduled for two o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at the C. M. Eppes High School Auditorium.

The production of Robin Hood by the East Carolina Playhouse has received critical acclaim by large audiences of Greenville and Pitt County students, teachers and parents. An enthusiastic audience composed of college personnel and townspeople attended a special performance presented in McGinnis Auditorium on October 20.

This year marks the twentieth anniversary of the presentation of a children's drama for local school children by the East Carolina Playhouse under the sponsorship of the local branch of the American Association of University Women.

Thomas C. Hull, senior student from Durham has served as director of Robin Hood under the supervision of Dr. Ralph Hardee Eaves, Associate Director of the East Carolina Playhouse, and Dr. Kathleen Dunlop, Co-ordinator for the AAUW.

Money received from Robin Hood is to be applied toward a scholarship for a girl graduate of East Carolina College to study in Europe.

Students Helped In Library Move

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Problem: How to move 120,000 books and hundreds of magazines from an old library in a new one.

Marietta College faced up to it with all the intellectual ingenuity expected of an institution of higher learning.

The answer arrived at by librarian Richard K. Gardner was surprisingly simple.

Organize the school's 1,500 students and faculty members into a giant book brigade, he said—one that could tote the 120,000 books from the old library across a street into the new $865,000 Dawes Memorial Library.

So that's just what will happen Nov. 15.

All of Marietta's students will be excused from classes when the bell in Erwin Tower rings at 8 a.m. to muster them.

The brigade will be divided into two groups, one for magazines and the other for books.

They will move in a continuous line, in one door of the old building, pick up books, out another door, cross the street into the new library deposit books, out another door, and back to the old library for another trip.

Each boy and girl will be limited to carrying a stack of books about 12 inches high, Gardner said, adding: "If the majority of the students turn out, each person will have to make only about 11 trips."

The librarian figures the majority of the books can be moved by noon. "We will finish up in the afternoon, straighten things out that evening, and be open for business the next morning," he said. All who work on the project will be compensated—a free lunch on the college.

Much Depends On Voters' Support

Tomorrow Pitt Countians will join other Tar Heels across the state when they go to the polls to decide whether North Carolina will issue state-wide bonds totaling $61.5 million.

In a realistic sense, voters who go to the polls tomorrow will be deciding considerably more than just whether the bonds will be issued. They will be declining whether state supported educational institutions will be provided capital outlay funds which are sorely needed to keep pace with the demand of Tar Heel youngsters for college educations. They will be deciding whether the state will provide additional facilities needed to care for the mentally ill of the state.

Voters will also be deciding whether additional facilities will be provided for agricultural research in order that further stride may be made in agriculture, still the mainstay of the economy in many sections of North Carolina. They will also be deciding whether other needed facilities will provide for state departments and agencies to enable them to carry on more efficiently the increasing load of work necessary to state operations.

Particularly in Pitt County, voters will be helping to decide whether East Carolina College will receive some $3.4 million for capital improvements which include new dormitories for men and women, a new classroom building, additional land, and expansion of buildings already located on the campus. Also hinging on the bond issue for East Carolina College is another $1.2 million in federal loans for capital improvements which will be forthcoming if the state bond issue is approved.

North Carolina needs the facilities which will be provided by this bond issue for capital outlay items. State officials have been careful to point out that anticipated revenues without the necessity of additional tax levies.

Voters of the state tomorrow will decide whether North Carolina takes another important step of progress for its people. An affirmative vote will enable the state to provide facilities that are needed in many fields if the state is to keep pace with its own growth.

A negative vote will mean that colleges will have to turn away additional applicants for lack of facilities. Our ports will have to continue losing prospective business because of the lack of facilities to handle it.

State mental institutions will have to do without facilities for caring and treating mentally ill because people of North Carolina have said "no" to their expansion.

North Carolina needs the facilities which will be provided by this bond issue, and the only way it can have them is for the voters to go to the polls and give their approval.

The Daily Reflector urges the people of Pitt County and surrounding numbers to go to the polls in large numbers tomorrow and vote in favor of the bond issues. We ask each individual to recognize his personal responsibility as a citizen of the state to make his voice heard in this referendum by casting his ballot.

Livelier Times In Mecklenburg

By LYNN NISBET

MECKLENBURG — Democrats in Mecklenburg county have long believed, at least they acted like they believed, they should be permitted to operate as they please without too much regard for plans of organization or platforms adopted by and controlling for the rest of the state. Three years ago the Mecklenburg folks sponsored and obtained adoption of an amendment to the Democratic Plan of Organization permitting any county to hold precinct meetings in the fall before an election year instead of in the late spring which is common time for the state.

News stories from Charlotte went into some detail to explain how the new plan would enable the Democratic party to police its ranks, to discipline defaulters, to give more prestige to women voters, and several other procedures designed to strengthen the Democratic party. Main trouble with these stories is that they just don't deal with the factual situation. Because none of the things ballyhooed have been approved by any responsible agency of the Democratic party. Maybe they will be, perhaps they should be, adopted by the Democratic party in North Carolina.

The fact remains that Mecklenburg county approval of some of the proposed changes in the Plan of Organization does not mean that these provisions have been already made a part of the basic policy of the Democratic party in North Carolina. Mecklenburg is by all odds the biggest county in the state, but it is not anything like as big or as powerful as all the other counties combined.

VICE CHAIRMEN — Publication here a few days ago of the list of chairmen of the Democratic State executive committee since the turn of the century led to request for a list of women vice-chairmen. Since the woman suffrage amendment was ratified in 1920, but too late for the convention that year to put women on the party committees, nine women have held the post of state vice chairman.

Party records are incomplete prior to 1944 and the information listed here was found in newspaper files. Most of the research was done by Mrs. Mary Laurens Richardson, long time vice chairman.

Miss Mary Owens Graham of Charlotte was the first woman named as vice chairman in 1922. She was followed by Miss Mary Henderson, who continued through the election campaigns of 1924 and 1926.

Mrs. Thomas O'Berry of Goldsboro was named in 1928 and served through the campaigns of 1930 and 1932.

Mrs. C. W. Tillett, Jr., of Charlotte came on in 1934 and served through 1936.

Mrs. J. B. Spillman of Greenville took over the 1938 campaign, and was followed in 1940 by Mrs. P. P. McCain of Southern Pines.

Mrs. B. B. Everett of Palmyra was elected in 1942 and held office through the 1944 and 1946 elections.

Mrs. D. A. McCormick took the post in 1948 and continued through 1950.

Mrs. John T. Richardson of Raleigh was named in 1952 and continued through the elections of 1954, '56 and '58, the longest tenure of any woman vice chairman of the State committee.

Mrs. J. Henry Cromartie of Charlotte replaced Mrs. Richardson last year and made the campaign circuit for the 1960 election.

The matter of precinct meetings was overshadowed in local interest and state publicity by the scrap over whether the committee would nominate a State Senator to replace Judge Spencer Bell, who resigned to take his seat on the U. S. Circuit Court. The final vote was 42 to 27 against nominating a senator now. In reporting on the meeting to the Charlotte News, Julian Scheer noted that the "vote did not come until after nearly three hours of sometimes strange deviations from Robert's Rules of Order."

The issue of policy or propriety got lost in the personal feud between James McMillan, past president of the N. C. State Bar, and "Ike" Belk, representative in the General Assembly, both of whom are active candidates for the senate seat.

Continuation of the rivalry between these leading candidates and two or three others who might come into the picture, is expected to enliven the precinct meetings on the 18th, at which time a new county executive will be named.

NEW PLAN? — Democratic leaders around capital square, and particularly Secretary of State Thad Eure, chairman of the committee charged with revision of the Plan of Organization, were surprised to note in the news stories from Charlotte that Mecklenburg Democrats had approved at least part of the new plan, and apparently were moving into operation under its provisions. Chairman Eure cannot understand how Mecklenburg could approve any part of a "plan" no part of which has been completed or approved by the State organization. At least one other meeting of his committee is necessary, and perhaps two, before the committee can report its findings. The final plan must be approved by either the State executive committee or the State convention before its provisions can be adopted or utilized by any county in its relationship with other counties and with the whole

Warning Of Decade Ago

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

On July 24, 1951, Bernard Baruch speaking at the Lord Mayor's Dinner in London, gave the British something to think about. Now, a decade later, what Baruch said has proved to be prophetic in many respects. I quote:

"Many have complained that heretofore we came only after success had been achieved. That criticism can no longer be leveled at us. We have already given of our resources. We have considerable forces here to join in the common European defense. These will increase. I do not and cannot speak for my government. But I would be less than frank if I did not tell you what I think and what the majority of Americans think too. Unless the peoples of Europe unite and quickly give their full all-out support to General Eisenhower in his efforts to bring about a common defense, you cannot count on America's economic and military aid continuing. We will meet more than generously whatever Europeans do. If you show no hesitation and undertake your full share, we will go to the limit. Then the burdens will be less for all concerned."

Baruch said is current public opinion in this country. Our people are very tired of carrying the heavy burden of military and economic aid, particularly as we have discovered that those whom we help most display the least gratitude; that they assume that we are morally and politically obligated to aid them; that if we do not come to their assistance, we shall be isolated and lost a leadership that we really do not care for. If the British or the French prefer to lead the world, let them do it. Europeans tend to assume that international leadership holds a great attractiveness to Americans. It may to a few political leaders who bask in the sun of alien applause. It may excite the egotism of some American diplomats who believe in their own greatness because foreigners speak well of them.

Other Editors Saying Not Even Dead Safe

(The Wilson Times) Communism will not allow the dead to lie in peace. Just consider that Stalin was a hero, idolized in theory, and feared in reality. Cities are named for him, his picture hung in every prominent spot in all Russia and in every satellite nation. These were the first to come down, then the monument of marble and granite.

Now he is booted from the tomb. There is something repulsive about it all. The God of the Communist belief is dethroned by one of his own men. For Khrushchev is deeply implicated in many of the wrongs including the mass slayings, during Stalin's reign. He was one of Stalin's henchmen. But as a man in charge of the exposure of the mass political murders, he is safe.

But by and large, the American people find this leadership a bore. It means next to nothing that Soapy Williams is applauded in Africa or Adlai Stevenson speaks to all the great men of Latin America. It does not even excite our people that the Europeans find that our President and his wife are well-mannered and wear appropriate clothes and can speak French to a cook.

Does this slowdown of the recovery indicate that the upturn is in the process of grinding to a halt? It certainly does not mean that the decline in the rate of improvement is accounted for, in large measure, by the following:

None of this appeals to an American as significant. The experience of leadership has not been pleasant or remunerative. The destruction of the Dutch, British and French Empires, which represents the specific mark of American leadership in international affairs, has brought us nothing. We have gained neither prestige nor profits from the confusion which followed calvary and we are now faced with a United Nations of 103 members, most of whom are incapable of supporting themselves economically and whose demands on us are enormous and constantly increasing and who friendship for us is diminishing as it gets from us.

There is no wisdom in the course we have followed. It has puffed up a few Americans but the wiser ones have at long discovered that from no standpoint have the gains been ours. Our dollar needs to be supported by those whose currencies we have saved from destruction, and with wisdom, they are calculating what benefits there are still to be gotten from us and what they can get from our enemies. Do we have allies? What have they put up to prove that they are allies? Ten years ago Bernard Baruch warned them:

General worry over the international situation, and a certain lack of confidence in the manner in which it is being handled. Few persons anticipate an actual shooting war, but many are less confident of this than they were a year or so ago.

For now the tomb is not sacrosanct. Who knows but that some day Khrushchev will be "detombed", cast to the propaganda wolves. The saying was that uneasy rests the head that wears the crown. This is mild in today's interpretation. For death holds no peace for those who are under Communist domination. The Communist yoke is heavy in life and in death.

There lies Stalin, enshrined in all his glory, the populace file by to pay him homage. Then he is taken from the tomb, accused of being a traitor of the people, the same man they were taught to worship for about half

Can a people be so numb with fear and subservient that they fear to think? Khrushchev is demanding a shift in thinking, and in the national conscience of the people. It is as though someone would order, the Constitution destroyed, and every book containing it. That is our foundation for government. Communism in Russia is as each ruler interprets it.

And so the arguing continues, round and round in the circle of unbelievable events. The answer will come later. For Khrushchev may not be as secure as he would like for the world to think. He has now made it impossible for him or anyone to rest in peace.

There lies Stalin, enshrined in all his glory, the populace file by to pay him homage. Then he is taken from the tomb, accused of being a traitor of the people, the same man they were taught to worship for about half

Slower Trend In Recovery Rate

By RALPH ROBEY

There is widespread discussion of the slowdown of business recovery. The trend in most fields still is up, but the rate of improvement is slower. Many facts bear out this conclusion. For example:

of our civilian labor force which is out of work continues to hover just under 7 per cent, and over 700,000 of these have been unemployed for over six months.

Over-all business profits are going up, but many firms are finding it hard to show an increase and the per cent per dollar of sales is still quite low.

This unquestionably is one of the reasons, but only one, for the industrial price average on the New York Stock Exchange hanging well below its high of some months ago. It also has an influence on the rate of business investment in plant and equipment. This continues to climb, but there is no zip in the rate of increase.

Needless to say there are some favorable factors in the present situation. We shall devote a column to them before long.

Does this slowdown of the recovery indicate that the upturn is in the process of grinding to a halt? It certainly does not mean that the decline in the rate of improvement is accounted for, in large measure, by the following:

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BOTH CORRECT What of evangelism? Among very sincere Christians there is a difference of opinion on this matter. Some people want their religious observances to be characterized by dignity and restraint that no emotionalism will ever rise to corrupt it. Others love the great evangelistic campaigns that appeal to the sinner to come forward and repent before the world. Those who disdain evangelism remind us of the Biblical caution that everything in connection with our faith should be done decently and in order, and to the edification of the saints. Those who favor evangelistic methods point to the undoubtedly good results which have followed the efforts to certain sincere evangelists.

Both points of view appear to be right, yet neither is right if accepted to the exclusion of the other. Worship and all religious practices should indeed be characterized by dignity and decorum. On the other hand, Jesus was a freelance preacher regarded by many in his generation as an evangelistic type of preacher. Wesley, Moody, and these latter days, Bill Graham, have certainly performed immense Christian service. We cannot cast men of this sort and teach work aside if we want to be realistic and just.

There was about Christ the Great Evangelist, a dignity which impressed even such a materialist and worldly man as Pontius Pilate. His utterances were characterized by a passion which stirred men to life-long devotion. Modern Christianity needs the dignity of established worship and the passion of evangelism.

Season For Pilferers Is Near

By ELMER ROESSNER

Retailing, now approaching a new high in sales, is probably approaching a new high in shoplifting and employee thefts as well.

There is no agreement on whether the outside or inside pilfering costs retailers most. The relative losses usually depend on the store. Where shoppers are encouraged to handle and examine goods; where aisles are crowded and the ratio of employees to customers is low, shoplifting is costly. Where checks on employees are loose, employee thefts are high. And where both situations exist, there's deep trouble ahead. At times, as many as 1 out of every 20 failures has been attributed to loss by theft.

2. Check references of all extra employees quickly. 2. Review controls and inspections of outgoing packages. 3. Tighten controls over employee discounts on damaged goods.

Why New High If Feared There are reasons for expecting a record-breaking total of shoplifting losses: 1. Unemployment, while diminishing is still high, some blaming society for their plight. Let that the world owes them Christmas presents.

4. Use cameras aimed down aisles. Even a dead TV camera can discourage thefts. 5. If losses warrant, hire a professional protection service. To reduce employee thefts:

4. Guard against another favored device: the throwing of good items into trash receptacles and retrieving them later with the connivance of store cleaners. 5. Double-check all sales to other employees and set up checks to prevent salespersons from selling items to accomplices at fractional prices.

There's a story told about a young man who picked out a $200 ring in a department store during a Christmas rush. The salesgirl made out a check for $20. When the man called her attention to the figure, the girl gasped and blurted out, "Gee—you aren't Gladys's boy friend, are you?"

Have your checks to prevent swindles as that one was intended to be? MONKEY IN INSTRUMENT PANEL MEANT A SIMIAN IN THE DIALS

On most airlines, when a plane is brought in the flight engineer lists points to check on a board, which is turned over to the ground crewmen. They check off each item, and leave the board for the next crew. One engineer recently examined the check-off, saw the listing, "Remove monkey from instrument panel," and a check after the item.

He summoned the ground crew supervisor and lashed into him. Such nonsense, he said, was out of place when lives were at stake.

The supervisor protested. There was a monkey in the instrument panel and his men had removed it, he said. The plane had just brought in a shipment of miniature monkeys from Africa. One had escaped and crawled into the panel. He could not be dislodged until a mechanic produced a ripe banana.

He summoned the ground crew supervisor and lashed into him. Such nonsense, he said, was out of place when lives were at stake.

Two Needless Causes Of Death Can Be Defeated

In view of continuing deaths in Pitt County attributed to whooping cough and cancer of the womb, Dr. John Futrell of the Pitt County Health Department has urged proper immunizations for children under six against whooping cough and medical examinations of women for cancer.

Following is this week's schedule of Pitt County bookmobile No. one:

Another death caused by whooping cough, of a child under six years, was reported to the health department last week.

Deaths from both these diseases are preventable, Dr. Futrell stated. There has been a high percentage of whooping cough deaths per capita during the past four months, and deaths of women due to cancer of the womb are also continuing.

The health director urged parents to have their infants immunized against whooping cough beginning at the age of six weeks, and no later than the age of three months. This immunization is entirely effective protection prior to the age of six. All the deaths in this category have occurred in children under six years of age. Protection against death due to cancer of the womb is available, also, if women will have proper medical examination, called "pap smear," Dr. Futrell said. Such examinations should be had every six months, but at least once a year. This is a "one hundred percent preventable disease," he stated. The examination would lead to early detection and cure.

East Carolina College alumni Saturday formally launched a drive to raise dollars for the school's graduates for the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium.

About 100 alumni representing nearly that number of different areas gathered in the Buccaneer Room of the school's cafeteria at 6 p.m. Saturday to hear pep talks from ECC President Dr. Leo W. Jenkins and Greenville insurance representative M. Louis Collie, head of the alumni fund-raising group.

Early results of the alumni campaign had netted at least $7,000 after several persons pledged $1,000 each, Collie said after the dinner meeting.

Dr. Jenkins told the group the drive to build a new stadium for the Pirates had reached $235,000 by Saturday. Original goal for the fund-raising effort had been set at $250,000 including $50,000 in Tuesday's state-wide bond election earmarked for new stadium trimmings.

The college president again urged support for the bond issue that goes before the people tomorrow morning. He said school officials may let contracts for the stadium "within the next week if the bond issue is passed."

He described the success of a recent intensified drive in Greenville that netted $212,000 from Greenville businesses. He lauded the response as evidence that "the so-called town and the so-called gown are partners."

Greenville's response, the president said, has received state-wide praise and recognition. Collie urged the alumni group to "return to your homes and go to work on this thing. If you don't have an alumni organization in your town, start one."

Pledge cards were handed to the alumni and tentative arrangements were made for mailing more cards to more alumni with the help of the 100 attending the banquet.

Collie said the campaign would end with November and urged the alumni to aim first at large numbers of donors. "Let's get as many of us to contribute to the stadium as we can," he said. Collie said the available alumni list includes names of about 14,000 ECC graduates.

The following $1,000 donors were recognized: Fred Matthews of Hertford, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ivan Bissette of Grifton, Roland Braswell of Goldsboro, Dr. Ledyard Ross of Greenville. Louis Collie and an "anonymous donor."

Vote Of Confidence On Watershed Protection

Landowners in the Conetoe Creek Watershed have given an overwhelming vote of confidence in favor of a proposed watershed protection and flood prevention project, according to Pitt Soil Conservation Service work unit conservationist Roy R. Beck.

Beck said only two dissenting votes were registered when the vote of confidence was given by the 150 landowners attending the meeting.

The session was held in the Edgecombe County Courthouse in Tarboro by tri-sponsors of the project — the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, the drainage district and Edgecombe County. Over 18,000 acres of the 64,139-acre watershed are located in the northwest corner of Pitt County.

Arch J. Flanagan, Coastal Plain District supervisor from Farmlic Law 566, the federal government would assume about 75 per cent of the total cost, estimated at $692,000 for construction phases of the project.

Coates explained that the federal government "cost-shares" the full cost of benefits attributed to flood prevention and up to 46 per cent of the drainage benefits costs. Local sponsors, he said, must bear all other costs plus that of continued maintenance.

The watershed planning party members are expected to begin helping the sponsors prepare a detailed project plan as soon as authority is received from U. S. Soil Conservation Service Administrator Donald A. Williams.

The complete master-type plan, including needed conservation treatment of farm lands to be done by individual landowners in the watershed must be submitted to Congress for approval. Public Law 566 allows 60 days for Congress to act on the project.

Pitt County landowners' consideration of the Conetoe Creek project represents one of eight such projects now under consideration and study by Pitt landowners.

By JACK BELL.
NEW YORK (AP) — Democrats and Republicans appeared likely today to share evenly in the spoils from two major election contests Tuesday that might have a bearing on 1962 and 1964 national races.

The Democrats went into these final battles, in New York City and New Jersey, with a weekend victory that demonstrated their party label represents money in the political bank in Texas when matched man-for-man against the kind of GOP conservatism represented by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Henry B. Gonzalez, a liberal Democrat who won a special congressional race from Republican John Goode Jr., in San Antonio, Tex. Saturday flew to New York to help Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner's bid for re-election. Gonzalez planned appeals to Spanish-speaking voters.

There was not much indication that Wagner needed Gonzalez' efforts to win over Republican State Atty Jouis J. Lefkowitz and City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, a Democrat running as an independent.

Gonzalez had said he hoped to campaign also in New Jersey for Democrat Richard J. Hughes in the contest with Republican James P. Mitchell for the governorship. But New Jersey Democratic leaders didn't show much enthusiasm for this idea. Hughes has canceled his remaining campaign appearances in view of the death of his 85-year-old father Sunday.

President Kennedy, former President Harry S. Truman and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower all have had a hand in the New York City and New Jersey contests. Kennedy gave a long-distance endorsement to Gonzalez and Eisenhower campaigned personally in Texas for Goode.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson got into the act with what some regarded as a pitch to help position himself for a possible 1968 bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. He did some on-the-ground campaigning for Gonzalez.

Johnson, who has endeavored in recent months to erase his segregationist voting record as a senator from Texas, pleaded for the election of Gonzalez, San Antonio native of Mexican-born parents, as proof that "a man can be elected to the U. S. Congress despite his race." Rep. D. S. Saund, D-Calif., a native of India, and Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Calif., an Oriental, seemed to have proved that point previously.

Goode, who ran as an ultra conservative of the Goldwater school, said he was "shocked to hear my vice president inject the racial and national origin issues into a campaign in which they were not originally issues."

Unlike Sen. John G. Tower, first Republican senator elected in Texas since Reconstruction days, Goode suffered from a paucity of Democratic opponents. Goode had only a handful running against him Tower more than 70.

Kennedy could claim something of a victory in the election of Gonzalez, a liberal Democrat of the stripe Johnson was not accustomed to associating himself with in Texas.

The President seemed likely to field a left-handed victory if Wagner wins re-election in New York City, as now expected. This would tend to simplify Kennedy's problems in dealing with the divided Democrats of the state.

In 1964 he would have to look to Wagner to reorganize the party and to supply him with New York's 45 electoral votes, without which Kennedy could not have won the Presidency in 1960.

Michael Prendergast, the Democratic state chairman, and Carmine V. DeSapio, the party's national committeeman, seemed to have become candidates for oblivion — if Wagner wins — with their opposition to the mayor.

Prendergast said he would vote for Gerosa. DeSapio said he wouldn't support Wagner, who had the backing of former U. S. Senator and Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Eleanor Roosevelt.

Lefkowitz was given only an outside chance to nose out Wagner, but GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller cheerfully put some of his 1962 and 1964 blue chips down on the line in the hope that the Republican candidate would make it close in a city that is 3-1 Democratic.

A good showing by Lefkowitz would be calculated to encourage Republicans in the metropolis to work harder for Rockefeller's own race for re-election next year and his possible bid for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

In New Jersey the journeys of the political Mohammeds to the mountains seemed to have had little outward effect on the outcome of a race for governor. Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman all visited the state with receptions that varied in enthusiasm.

Supporters of Hughes were predicting that their candidate would win by a whisker. Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said he is willing to bet that an upset is in the making and Hughes will be the winner.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said in a separate interview he is confident Mitchell, Eisenhower's former secretary of labor, will take it handily. Sam Zagoria, Mitchell's campaign manager, predicted a 100,000 margin for his candidate out of an expected 2,225,000 vote.

Elsewhere there were contests of compelling local interest but of little national significance.

New York State will elect 470 mayors. Michigan will fill a vacated Democratic congressional seat. Pennsylvania will pick a State Supreme Court judge and Kentucky will elect 100 state representatives and 38 state senators.

In Ohio, Cleveland's Democratic Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze is seeking a fifth term. The state votes on four constitutional amendments.

Virginia, as usual, is expected to elect a Democrat. Albertis S. Harrison, as its governor.

The storm, the worst in memory, crumbled houses and turned streets into rivers more than 8 feet deep.

"A biblical deluge," said one police officer directing rescue operations.

Storm damage was also reported in other parts of Greece, but details were lacking.

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—A British Cabinet minister arrived in Accra today to determine if bomb-planting opponents of President Kwame Nkrumah threaten the safety of Queen Elizabeth II, due Thursday for an official visit to this West African member of the Commonwealth.

Sandys' mission is to determine whether the queen and her husband Prince Philip, can safely undertake their scheduled 11-day visit in view of the bombings Saturday, which damaged Nkrumah's statue in front of Parliament and a freedom arch in Black Star Square.

"Why Did The Flowers Turn Color On My Dress?"
—Mrs. R.S.C.

Dear Mrs. R.S.C.:

Your dress is one of many colorful creations that are being brought into this country from over-seas. Japan and China are sending attractive dresses and cashmere-appearing coats into many of our shops. Unfortunately, they are not always labeled correctly or in sufficient detail.

Your particular dress carried light green brocaded flowers on a silk rayon satin garment. Somehow these flowers or some of them, were wet with water and permitted to dry before sending your dress to the drycleaner.

Green, of course, is made up of the colors yellow and blue. The yellow component in the green flowers was loosened by the water.

Then, when the dress was dry-cleaned, only the blue remained in the flowers that had been wet.

Yours is not the only discouraging report we've had from Oriental garments. We have heard of jackets with buttons that dissolve when drycleaned. Coats that appear and feel like cashmere, but when cleaned like cashmere, mat sadly. Actually, these coats are rayon and wool, not cashmere. The interesting Oriental label fooled the customer and the cleaner.

Buttons that dissolve in drycleaning are an old American custom. Now, both customers and drycleaners remove them before cleaning to be safe.

Your brocaded flowers turned color because of improper dyeing in a foreign country. Remember standards do not appear as high outside of the United States and foreign manufacturers aren't as careful as the better ones we are accustomed to here.

Predicts End Of Unemployment

HAVANA (AP) — Economic chief Ernesto Guevara says unemployment will be wiped out in Cuba by the end of 1962.

Fidel Castro's pro-Communist industries minister told a meeting of directors of state factories and farms there will be no pay increases for workers next year except for special cases. He said this would be necessary to create new jobs and to reduce production costs.

Lenoir Rhyne Topples Bucs In Final Minute Of Game

COLLEGE STADIUM — East Carolina football fans had been waiting for two years for Lenoir Rhyne's return to the local campus. It was here that the Bears, North State Conference champions for six straight years, had squeaked a last second 22-21 victory over the Pirates on a mud-soaked field on a controversial decision by an official.

Lee Farmer, an All-America tailback for the Bears who has since graduated, threw a desperation pass after being trapped behind the line of scrimmage, and it was caught by sophomore wingback Marcus Midgett in the East Carolina end zone. One official had blown his whistle to stop the play before the pass was thrown, and some viewers claimed there were illegal receivers downfield, but the play was counted.

Just As Exciting

Saturday night was the night the fans had been looking forward to, and this year's game proved to be just as exciting as the last one played in Greenville. When the smoke cleared after the rugged 60 minutes of football, the Bears of Coach Clarence Stasavitch had done it again. The westerners came from behind in the last two minutes and scored the winning touchdown to take a 24-19 victory over a hard nosed Pirate eleven.

The game ended much the same as the one two years ago. The Bears got ball possession at their own 6 yard line with just 2:45 seconds left in the game. Richard Kemp, Bear fullback, gained four yards to the 10, then wingback Odell White passed to Midgett for 43 yards and a first down at the Pirate 47. White broke through the EC line for an 11 yard gain to the locals' 36 for another first down. An incomplete pass and an off tackle run by White netted only one yard, making it third and nine at the EC 35 with just one minute showing on the scoreboard clock. Then tailback Tom Brown hit wingback Joe Rhyne with a 24 yard aerial to give the Bears another first down at the Pirate 11.

With only 55 seconds left in the contest, Brown tried a pass intended for White, but he over-shot his target. Twelve seconds later White circled to his left, saw no opening, then cut back to his right and plowed his way into the Pirate end zone standing up. On the try for the extra points, White was stopped short of the goal line, but the Bears had come up with the 24-19 margin of victory.

See-Saw Battle

After a scoreless first period, the game turned into a see-saw battle. The Pirates drew first blood on a 56 yard drive, which was climaxed by a one yard plunge to paydirt by Thomas Michell. Coach Jack Boone decided to try for two extra points, and quarterback Dan Rouse's pass to end Johnny Anderson was complete to give the Bucs an 8-0 lead.

The advantage was short lived, however, as the Bears bounced right back with a 65 yard scoring march of their own. A 20 yard pass from White to Midgett got the threat started, the play ending on the EC 46. A 14 yard advance by Richard Kemp and a personal foul against the Bucs moved the ball to the EC 16, but from there the Bears found the going a little rougher.

Three running plays netted exactly nothing and on fourth down, Dick Angel carried on the end around play for a first down at the Pirate five. The visitors still had their work cut out for them if they were to score, as halfback Frank Galloway broke through to throw Brown back to the seven. Kemp went six yards to the Pirate one, but White was stopped for no gain on the next play.

On fourth down and goal to go from the one, Kemp plunged over for the score to cut the Pirate lead to two points. Brown's pass to Angel for the extra points was incomplete, and the Bears left the field at intermission facing an 8-6 deficit.

Bear Breaks Loose

East Carolina received the second half kickoff and Tommy Matthews returned to the EC 26. On the first play from scrimmage, Larry Rudisell, a Hickory native (also the home of Lenoir Rhyne College), rambled 25 yards to the LR 49. Michell gained three to the 46, but two incomplete passes forced the Bucs into a punting situation.

Freshman Gene Isenhour's boot rolled dead six inches into the LR end zone for an automatic touchback, and the Bears put the ball in play at their own 20. On the first play, White ripped through the left side of the Pirate line, cut to the sidelines, and raced 80 yards for a touchdown. The Bucs stopped an attempted run for the extra points by Kemp, but the Bears led, 12-8.

The locals were not to be denied, however, as they drove right back at the National Champions. Matthews brought the crowd to its feet on the kickoff, gathering in Pat Odom's kick on his own five, and racing straight up the middle for 54 yards to the LR 41. Michell, who had scored four touchdowns prior to the LR tilt, began to make a menace of himself in the Bear secondary. The Alexandria, Va. native picked up first downs for the Bucs at the LR 35 and a

Browns Retrieve Kicked Pigskins

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns may have lost the football game but they won 4-0 in the battle with the bleacher fans over who gets the ball after an extra point or field goal is kicked.

The Browns roped off a section of 150 seats behind the goal posts for Sunday's game with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Thirty-three off-duty policemen were posted to make sure no fans got into the section.

This was not out of stinginess. The Browns' management took the drastic action to stop rowdiness and fighting over balls kicked into the stands.

Four balls booted fell into the bleachers section. All were retrieved by the Browns to be presented to youth and charitable groups.

crucial one at the Bear four. Rudisell plunged two yards to the two, then Matthews carried it over from there. Rudisell rolled to his right and raced untouched into the Bear end zone for two extra points to give the locals a 16-12 advantage.

Bears Stopped

The winners threatened once more in the third stanza, driving down to the EC 19, but a rugged Pirate defensive line, inspired by All-State tackle Clayton Piland and All-Conference center Charles Gordon, put the clamps on the Bruins as the third period came to a close.

The Pirates took over, and behind the running of Rudisell and Michell, moved out to their 44. Then Rouse dropped back to pass, but instead of hitting his intended receiver, Bobby Bumgardner, Midgett picked off the aerial at the midfield stripe and returned it to the EC 30.

White passed to Rhyne for a first down at the 16, then Kemp battered his way to the eight. On third down and two to go for a first, Kemp shot through the middle for the score. The wingback was stopped short of the goal on the attempt for the extra point, but the Bears were back on top, 18-16 with 40:15 left.

East Carolina fought back once more, driving from their own 37 to the LR eight, but were stopped at that point. Boone inserted his field goal specialist, Muldrow, and the Bishopville, S. C. native split the uprights with a 24 yard placement kick to put the Pirates back out in front by a slim 19-18 score.

Matthews Intercepts

Lenoir Rhyne received the kickoff, and returned to their own 34. On the first play, Matthews intercepted White's pass at the LR 40 and raced to the winners' 13 before White brought him down. Things were looking good for the Bucs at this point, for if they could manage another score, it would have clinched the first win over LR by Boone's forces since the 1954 season.

Rudisell smashed for six yards to the Bear seven, but Rouse fumbled on the next play and Eric White recovered on the six with two minutes and 45 seconds left, and in eight plays the smooth working visitors dampened any thoughts the Bucs may have had of an upset.

Score by quarters:

Lenoir Rhyne	0	6	6	12	24
East Carolina	0	8	8	3	19

EAST CAROLINA . . . halfback Larry Rudisell (20) is about to be stopped as the arms of an unidentified players reach around to halt his drive. Lenoir Rhyne's Don Smith (25) has already downed fullback Nick Hilgert (30).

Atlantic Coast Conference Ball Takes Funny Bounces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The football has taken some funny bounces in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Witness these examples from last weekend:

South Carolina, winner over a good Maryland club which had edged Syracuse, loses to lowly Virginia.

North Carolina which had beaten Tennessee only three times in 16 previous meetings, makes good a two-point conversion gamble and wins the Vols.

North Carolina will have a hard job this week, when the Tar Heels are home to LSU, a 10-7 victor over national power Mississippi. South Carolina is at Clemson in their traditional battle. Duke plays Navy at Norfolk, Va. North Carolina State is at Maryland, Wake Forest is home to Virginia Tech, and Virginia has an open date.

"I have never experienced a more satisfying win," said Coach Jim Hickey after the Tar Heels nipped Tennessee 22-21. With 81 seconds left in the game, North Carolina drove 80 yards for a touchdown. Quarterback Ray Faris hit Ward Marsliender with a 28-yard pass for the score, and then passed to Gib Carson for the winning two points.

Virginia's 28-20 victory over South Carolina was the Cavaliers' first conference triumph in 18 games extending over three years.

Mervin Bass, South Carolina coach, said, "They were prepared mentally and physically for us, and they beat us. There are no alibis. They were well prepared to stop our attack, and had one of their own."

Duke, which leads the conference with four league victories and one loss, couldn't overcome three Michigan first-half touchdowns, and lost 28-14. Duke outplayed Michigan in the second half, and scored on two long drives, Dave Burch going over twice.

Even without standout sophomore quarterback Jim Parker, Clemson beat a weak Tulane club, 21-6. The Green Wave has won only one of seven games this season. Parker, who hurt his right thumb against Auburn the previous week, was ably replaced by Joe Anderson.

Auburn found Wake Forest tougher than expected, but won the Deacons down for a 21-7 victory. Trailing 7-0 at the half, Auburn closed with a rush, quarterback Bobby Hunt figuring in all three touchdowns.

Dick Shiner hurled Maryland to three first-half touchdowns against Penn State. But the Terrapins had to hold on for dear life and a 21-17 victory over the Nittany Lions, who came within four yards of a tying touchdown in the final minutes.

North Carolina State scored a second-quarter touchdown on a 40-yard drive, and got a conversion boot by Jake Shaffer to edge a tough Mississippi Southern team 7-6 that comes from a small school but is nobody's doormat.

Shrine Bowl Picks 2 Phant Players

Two of Rose High's outstanding football stars of the season, halfback Alan McArthur and quarterback Billy James, have been selected to the North Carolina Shrine Bowl football team, Shrine officials have announced.

McArthur and James have been the mainstays in the strong Greenville offense which has an 8-1 record so far with one more game to go. Both boys have contributed a great deal to the team's total points for the season. McArthur has been an All-Eastern pick twice.

McArthur, believed to be among the top halfbacks in the state, has done an outstanding job of gaining yards on the ground as well as in the air. His speed and his football ability have been great assets to the Phantoms.

James, who moved to first string only this year after the graduation of quarterback Erskine Duff, has been able to pilot the Phantoms well with a good passing arm as well as running ability.

The two Greenville boys will be teamed with other outstanding North Carolina high school players for a Dec. 2 game in Charlotte against the top South Carolina stars.

In addition to McArthur and James being picked, Phantom Coach Bud Phillips will also appear in Charlotte with the North Carolina squad. He has been picked as an assistant coach for the Tar Heel team. Other coaches are Lee Stone of Asheboro and Clyde Walker of Raleigh.

Citadel Clinches Southern Loop Title

When they engrave The Citadel's name on the Southern Conference football trophy this year, they won't add a descriptive line. But if they did, it would read: "A team that wouldn't quit."

That's the thing which Coach Eddie Teague is proudest as he surveys a season that began in utter frustration, only to produce the Bulldogs' first conference championship in history.

Teague recalls, with pain, the 1961 opener in which The Citadel was humbled at Memphis State, 40-0, and the second game in which it lost its conference opener, 17-13, to George Washington.

"The finest thing you can say about the boys is that they didn't throw in the towel after those games," says Teague. "They were able to snap out of it, to come back. It showed they had the will to win."

Since the two early losses, The Citadel has won six straight games. Only a 24-6 rout of Richmond was easy. All the other victories have been by eight points or less—two of them by one point, one of them by two.

The title clincher came Saturday at VMI in a 14-8 triumph that lifted the Bulldogs' final conference mark to 5-1. For the fourth week in a row, the Bulldogs "perked up and hung on," coming from behind to win.

Weekend Fights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles — Von Clay, 183, Philadelphia, stopped Billy Hunter, 195, Detroit, 8.

Hamilton, Bermuda — Emile Griffith, 155, New York, stopped Stanford Bulla, 156, New York, 4.

Cagliari, Sardinia—Pierre Cossemyns, 117½, Belgium, outpointed Piero Rollo, 117½, Italy, 15.

Tokyo—Makoto Watanabe, Japan, outpointed Terry Flore, Philippines, 10 (welterweights).

The issue was settled when Bill Whaley passed The Citadel 73 yards for a last-period score. Three times in the drive, the Bulldogs kept moving by making good gains on their own. Once, at the VMI 44, it was fourth and one—and Early Eastburn barely made the vital yard.

Other conference games Saturday produced two surprises. Richmond (4-2) throttled Virginia Tech's offense and whipped the Techmen (1-2), 11-0, on Brent Vann's touchdown, a safety, and Earl Stoudt's 35-yard field goal.

Davidson (1-4) evacuated the basement in a dizzy 31-30 victory over William and Mary (1-5).

West Virginia (2-1) got a touchdown pass from Glenn Holton and a touchdown from Fred Colvard nudged George Washington (3-3), 12-7.

Furman, 6-2 overall, staged the biggest shocker, defeating Memphis State, 7-6, on a 60-yard touchdown run with a pass interception by Tony Carmichael and Claude Davis' clutch conversion.

This week's Furman leads off Friday night by entertaining East Carolina.

Saturday, Richmond visits unbeaten Alabama, William and Mary goes to Army, and West Virginia is host to Penn State in the headliners. VMI is at Buffalo, Virginia Tech at Wake Forest, Wofford at Davidson.

Riding Ace Sees Silver Lining In Nat'l Show

NEW YORK (AP) — United States riding ace Bill Steinkraus sees some silver lining in the wretched record his team is compiling in the National Horse Show.

"Like it or not," said Steinkraus today, "we have to start building for the 1964 Olympics and this is the year. We have some green horses and young riders. But it will pay off in the long run."

Of the 10 international events that have been run off, the United States — which was heavily favored to defend its team championship successfully — has not won one. Argentina has captured five Canada and Ireland two each and Mexico one.

"Another factor," said Steinkraus, who is one of the world's finest amateur riders, "is that a great deal of emphasis in this show has been on speed classes. These are tough on our young riders, Bill Robertson and Kathy Kusner. They also are difficult for our inexperienced horses, San Lucas and Lillibuck.

The United States riders, once they were disqualified from the three-day low score event early in the show, have been experimenting and schooling their mounts. Once out of the scoring race, they decided to try to rub off some of the rough spots.

Longhorns Edge Crimson Tide In Statistical Debate

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas has won the statistical debate—at least for the present—from Alabama as to who should get the No. 1 spot this week among the nation's college football teams.

The Longhorns, the movingest team in college football with 1.7 miles in yardage in seven winning games so far, have the over-all edge on the Crimson Tide, which has also won seven games and can't enhance its reputation much this week against Richmond of the Southern Conference.

The Longhorns should replace fallen Michigan State as the No. 1 team in the next Associated Press poll after the Spartans and second-ranked Mississippi got bitten by the jinx bug last Saturday. The Spartans (5-1) lost their fourth straight game to Minnesota in Minneapolis, 13-0, while Mississippi (6-1) failed to get by Louisiana State in their big one for the third consecutive year, and had its winning string broken at 21 games, 10-7.

Texas, ranked first in over-all offense and with a defense that is as stingy as its offense is mobile, racked up Southern Methodist 27-0 after being ranked third last week. This week the Longhorns, first in the Southwest Conference with a 4-0 mark, go against foe Baylor, gradually working its powerful offense back into condition after being riddled by early season injuries.

Alabama (No. 4), which will play Georgia Tech and Auburn after Richmond and lay its claim to national honors on those games, skipped through Mississippi State 24-0 and took over as solid Southeastern Conference leader with a 5-0 mark. LSU is 4-0.

Texas and Alabama, in addition to Ohio State, which knocked off Iowa 29-13 in a Big Ten battle, Colorado, atop the Big Eight after beating Missouri 7-6, and Georgia Tech, 24-0 victor over Florida in an SEC game, plus Ole Miss, LSU and Minnesota are solid bowl prospects.

Either Ohio State, ranked fifth a week ago, or the defending national champion Gophers, are the Big Ten's current favorites for the Rose Bowl, where Minnesota lost 2 year ago.

Alabama, if it wins the SEC, will probably be host in the Sugar Bowl, and play Louisiana State or Ole Miss, with the other to test Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

That leaves an opponent for Colorado in the Orange Bowl to be decided as well as spaces in the Gator, Bluebonnet, Liberty, Gotham and National Trophy bowls.

Minnesota's upset of Michigan State and Ohio State's victory over Iowa put the Big Ten into a two-way tie. Each has a 4-0 record but Minnesota plays one more conference game than Ohio State and the two clubs don't meet.

NCAA Accuses AAU Officers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A spokesman for the National Collegiate Athletic Association has accused officers of the Amateur Athletic Union of bad faith and a desire for power.

Wilbur C. Johns, director of athletics at the University of California at Los Angeles, heads the NCAA committee seeking to settle differences with the AAU. Johns issued a statement Sunday saying the NCAA believes there should be equal representation of all sports groups in the organization which represents the United States to the international federation governing each sport.

"It is apparent that the AAU officers have no intention of agreeing to any change which will in any way reduce their control of the sports they have traditionally represented," he said. "Under the NCAA proposal the AAU would be an integral part but not the domineering autocratic governing body. Anyone interested in the improvement of our situation should embrace this philosophy and welcome the change."

Shooting Titles At Stake Today

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—Titles will be decided today in three events at the United States International Shooting Competition — events in which Army marksmen hold slim leads.

Sgt. Major Harold A. Grewe of Amery, Wis., smashed 195 out of a possible 200 targets during the first two days of competition in the clay pigeon event.

Army Sgt. I.C. William B. Blankenship of Richlands, Va., the 1961 U.S. pistol champion, posted a two-day aggregate of 1183 out of a possible 1200 in the center fire pistol event. Army Sgt. I.C. Samuel W. Hunter of Warrenton, N.C., was third at 1179.

Colorado is 7-0 over-all and leads the Big Eight with a 5-0 record.

Other conference pictures are also clouded. Duke and North Carolina, co-leaders in the Atlantic Coast with 3-1 records, are both outside this week, against Navy and LSU, respectively, but settle things on Nov. 18. The Duke-Navy contest will be this year's Oyster Bowl in Norfolk, Va.

Duke suffered a 28-14 loss to Michigan Saturday, while North Carolina surprised Tennessee 22-21.

The Skyline Conference is tied up again after Utah State beat Brigham Young 31-8. Co-leader Wyoming lost to non-conference foe Arizona 20-15 and ends its season this week against New Mexico. The Aggies (4-0-1) play Western Michigan and also have one more conference game.

UCLA climbed atop the Big Five with a 2-0 mark after beating California 35-15 as Southern Cal and Washington played a 0-0 tie. The Uclans tackle non-league foe Texas Christian this week and USC (1-0-1) meets Stanford.

Princeton, after beating Brown 52-0, is 4-0 in the Ivy League and plays Harvard. The Citadel clinched its first Southern Conference title, beating Virginia Military 14-8, and Rutgers, the nation's other major undefeated team, made it 6-0 with a 37-6 victory over Lafayette.

Th battle for eastern supremacy remained a race after Syracuse (5-2) rolled over Pitt 28-9 and Maryland beat Penn State 21-17. Navy (5-2) made things even more difficult with a 13-10 upset of Notre Dame.

Terps May Go To Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maryland, on the strength of its 21-17 victory over Penn State, today appeared a top candidate for an invitation as host team in the third annual Liberty Bowl football game in Philadelphia Stadium Dec. 16.

Bud Dudley, head of the Liberty Bowl who watched Maryland's victory Saturday, said he planned to attend next week's game against North Carolina State.

"If Maryland wins that one," said Dudley, "we'll want to sit down and talk turkey."

Lenoir Rhyne Must Win Next 2 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elon knocked Newberry out of the running, 12-7. In non-conference games, Larry Thomas dived over for a final - quarter touchdown that gave Western Carolina a 10-6 victory over Emory and Henry, and Wofford routed Catawba, 35-14. Halfback Bob Roma of Wofford made three touchdowns.

Appalachian now leads with a league record of five victories and one defeat. Lenoir Rhyne is next at 4-1. Then in order comes Newberry 3-2, East Carolina 4-3, Elon 3-3, Catawba 2-3, Western Carolina 1-4, and Guilford 0-5.

Games this week are Elon at Lenoir Rhyne, Appalachian at Presbyterian, Guilford at Catawba, East Carolina at Furman, and Newberry at Western Carolina.

Appalachian ran its over - all record to 7-1 last Saturday by whipping Guilford 22-0. Lenoir Rhyne edged East Carolina 24-19 on Odell White's touchdown with 53 seconds remaining in the game.

THE GREEN STONE

A suspense thriller by SUZANNE BLANC

CHAPTER 8
Jessie Prewitt concentrated on the asphalt road, trying to think only of the miles that passed and those that lay ahead, measuring them against her dwindling supply of gas and her small supply of courage.

A scattering of adobe huts now edged the roadway. There was more traffic, people walking, riding burros, bicycles, carts, automobiles. She rounded a bend and abruptly, without transition, was in the outskirts of San Luis. Ahead was a gas station, brilliant white stucco in the sunshine with the familiar pumps in front of it.

Small boys clambered over her car when she drew up to the pump, each with a dirty rag with which he ineffectually dabbed at her windshield. The attendant, tall and thin in a dirty overall, started to pump gas into her car.

She was wondering how to ask him to check the oil when a young man in a handsome, light-tan coat came out of the office and approached the car.

"Welcome to San Luis, Senora," he said in perfect English that was tinged only by a slight, almost indiscernible, intonation. "Permit me to introduce myself. I'm San Luis' official guide."

"Thank you. Could you have the man check my oil?"

The barrage of Spanish that followed seemed quite out of proportion to the simple request, but after many questions the attendant apparently understood, for he raised the hood of her car.

"I need a hotel, too," Jessie said.

"There's a beautiful one with famous gardens," the guide said. "Run by a North American woman I've been told the food is excellent. You go to the main street, just this side of the square, turn right and follow the road out over the hill. The Villa Serena is on the right. You'll see the sign."

The attendant who had added oil to her car had now gone after change. A group of tourists in a blue sedan were at the other pump. Behind her a large black car pulled up with a single man at the wheel.

As she watched the guide lean toward her, in one hand he was holding a tobacco pouch, in the other a small heap of amethysts nestled against his chest. "These are very nice, Senora," he said urgently. "One hundred pesos, only."

He was so close that Jessie could see a wet film on his forehead and she wondered why he was wearing the warm coat. She didn't want the stones, but she was eager to get away. The attendant had returned with her change. The little boys were holding out sticky hands, clamoring for pesos. In her rear-view mirror she saw the man behind her impatiently open the car door and noticed that he was wearing a black uniform.

The guide was persistent. "Just fifty pesos, Senora. For you fifty pesos," and still leaning toward her, he poured the stones back into the pouch and tossed them into her pocketbook. More because she did not know how to refuse him for any other reason, Jessie gave him the money.

Again he repeated the directions to the hotel, talking loudly and gesturing with his arms as if to impress them on her. "Tell them I sent you, Senora, and if you need a guide ask for Luis Perez."

As she pulled out he was still standing near the pumps watching her, and when she looked back he waved with a broad, friendly grin.

The gas station served as Luis' business office. By paying a few pesos to the manager he was allowed to wait there for tourists. Usually in the late afternoon hours when the traffic was heaviest, Luis could pick up a few hotel commissions, or arrange a tour; often he could sell a bag of stones.

The only commission he made that afternoon, however, was from a woman traveling alone in a white convertible. She was a tiny woman, pretty in the delicate, colorless way of many North Americans, with light-brown hair and eyes that were as blue and clear as fine aquamarines.

At first he had thought she was very young, but then, when he looked more closely, he noticed the tired expression, the small feathery lines near mouth and eyes that come only with age.

It was while he was directing her to the Villa Serena that the police car drew up directly behind them. Sitting at the wheel was the sergeant of police who had been at the village this morning.

The presence of the police, which always evoked vague fears and terrors in him, this time represented present, immediate danger. Convinced that they were searching for the stone, his presence in his pocket urged him to panic. He knew that he must get rid of the gem quickly and could see only one safe way to do it.

There were doubt and disinterest in the tourist's face as she looked at the amethysts. Perspiration started on his forehead, in the palms of his hands. He could hear, without being able to control it, the unnatural urgency in his voice.

Through the rear-view mirror he watched the policeman impatiently open the car door. For a moment he thought she wasn't going to buy the stones, then reluctantly she handed him fifty pesos. His relief was immeasurable as he tucked the amethysts back over the emerald, drew the strings of the tobacco pouch and tossed it casually into her handbag.

Almost immediately his relief with regret at the loss of his treasure. He hoped he had not acted precipitously, but as the sergeant approached him, the regrets evaporated, leaving only relief.

The sergeant nodded in the direction of the departing car. "What did she want?" he asked.

"A hotel. I recommended the Villa Serena."

"But she paid you."

"A tip the tourists are generous."

Sergeant Roberto raised his eyebrows as though in perplexed admiration at the easy way the guide made his money. "Inspector Menendez would like to see you."

"Why me?" Luis asked. "I've done nothing."

"Something about your license, I think," Sergeant Roberto said vaguely. "You'll have to speak to him."

As the police car wound through the narrow streets of the town, Luis kept thinking of his lost jewels. He hoped he hadn't needlessly discarded it, but he did feel safer without it in his pocket. He forced himself to talk lightly about his work, his success with the ladies, but underneath his uneasiness remained.

They parked not in front of the regular police station but on a side street behind a long, low building. They followed the stone corridor and stopped at a door marked Tourist Section.

Inside, the room was little more than a cubicle with scarcely space for a large desk and a few chairs. The man behind the desk was mountainous with a broad, flat face that might have been copied from one of the ancient carvings.

On the desk was a small sign with gold letters which read: Inspector Menendez. After the first impact of the man's appearance, Luis' spirits began to rise. He'd had much experience dealing with the Indians and thought little of their intelligence.

Mother, Child Reunited After Sixteen Months

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Don't say a word, the judge cautioned. So, though she had waited 16 months for this moment, Mrs. Harley Sax, 23, walked into the FBI office without a word.

The 4-year-old blonde she found there looked at Mrs. Sax. In her blue eyes the watching judge saw a look of recognition.

The young Albuquerque, N.M., mother broke into tears. The child ran into her arms.

There was no question, said Judge Seward L. Hart after the reunion Sunday, that the girl was Brenda Marlene Jennings, daughter of Mrs. Sax by a previous marriage. She had disappeared from her grandparents' home in Guthrie, Okla., June 27, 1960.

The mother had sought the child in 14 states, but it was the FBI and Judge Hart, of the Omaha Juvenile Court, who finally brought them together.

Judge Hart and Thomas Gearty, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said they had pieced together this story:

The night Brenda disappeared she had been permitted to accompany Billy Don Nelson, 29, of Guthrie, a family friend, on an errand. Nelson and the child vanished.

In August, 1960, neighbors in Omaha reported a little girl crying at an upstairs window. The child officers found behind a double-paned door had dyed hair. She was healthy, but the room was filthy.

The man who posed as her father used the name of Jack Wilbanks. He had served a 10-day vasrancy sentence.

Brenda became a court ward and was placed in a juvenile home. When Wilbanks was unsuccessful in gaining her custody, he disappeared.

Working with the name Wilbanks, Judge Hart and the FBI learned of the missing girl in Oklahoma. Wilbanks is the name of Mrs. Sax's parents with whom Brenda had been staying.

That led to Sunday's meeting. The FBI said a comparison of pictures indicated the man who used the Wilbanks name in Omaha and Billy Don Nelson are the same individual. He is sought under a federal warrant charging unlawful flight. Gearty knew of no motive for taking Brenda.

Walls To Carry Hi-Fi Music

NEW YORK (AP) — High fidelity music in 1970 may emanate from living room walls painted with a special chemical paint that conducts sound waves.

The Institute of High Fidelity Manufacturers foresees a tiny audio instrument containing electronic moleculars (the next step after transistors) and a thin 2x2 inch sound cartridge containing a whole evening's music. The walls will tune into the music's frequency and you will be surrounded by true stereo sound. For a change in mood music, the wall colors will change, too.

Two Hepatitis Cases Reported

Two cases of infectious hepatitis have been reported to the Pitt County Health Department in the past week, Health Director Dr. John Futrell said yesterday. However, the source of the infection has not been determined yet, though health officials are working on the cases.

The department has provided gamma globulin for immediate members of the family and has recorded the cases in the vital statistics. The supply of gamma globulin, which is obtained from the blood, allotted to the health department is intended primarily for those who could not purchase it from other sources.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco is not highly mechanized as some other crops, but millions of horsepower are required to produce it. Modern machinery is rapidly replacing the horse and mule as the source of farm power being used. The tractor is the main source of farm power on the farm today.

In order to get the most benefit from your equipment it must be given proper care. Adequate and timely adjustments, repair, lubrication, and protection against rust and other weather hazards, will largely determine the life of farm machinery.

Lack of maintenance often causes breakdown which in turn can be costly both in loss of time in cultivating, spraying, dusting, or harvesting tobacco, and in expensive repair bills.

By using the information found in the operators' manual, the normal life of a tractor on the average farm can be doubled.

Dirt and dust are the worst enemies of the internal combustion engine. Use of proper grade of lubricating oil, and changing oil according to the manufacturer's recommendation, is very important. Oil filter cartridges should be replaced frequently to protect the moving parts of the engine and to reduce wear.

Also, proper servicing of the air cleaner is very important because the tractor engine uses approximately 9,000 gallons of air for each gallon of fuel burned.

When cultivation is complete, soil working tools should be cleaned regularly and protected from the weather. The use of rust preventative material on ground engaging parts will keep them in good shape for the next cultivation season.

Tobacco transplanters can be made to do a better job if they are properly adjusted and operated. After the crop is transplanted, the water tanks should be drained and stored in a dry place. All soil moving parts of the transplanter should be cleaned and protected from rust with a light coating of a rust preventative material.

Sprayers and dusters not properly cleaned when not in use do not usually work at the beginning of use in the next season. A machine that does not work properly will cause insecticide damage to leaves because of heavy and uneven applications.

One of the most important pieces of equipment on a tobacco farm is the curing system. Many barn fires and much poor grade tobacco can be traced to improperly operated curing systems. They should be completely checked before the first tobacco is barned. Information bacco farm is the curing system obtained from the manufacturer.

Farmville Girl Named For Trip

GREENSBORO — Edith Allen of Farmville is one of 16 girls selected to attend the National Senior Girl Scout Round-up to be held in Button Bay Park, Vermont, and was announced today.

The Selections Committee of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina made the announcement. The Round-up will be held during the summer of 1962.

Other representatives of this council will be from Jacksonville, Camp Lejeune, Goldsboro, Kinston, Bath and New Bern. Eight alternates also were selected.

Girls were selected on the basis of attitudes, abilities in camping and other Scouting skills, and ability to work and share with others. Among members of the Selection Committee was Mrs. David Proctor of Greenville.

The Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, a United Fund agency, serves approximately 7,000 girls in 20 eastern North Carolina Counties. Girls selected applied for the event, having met certain basic requirements. Applicants were then judged during two weekend encampments by encampments by observation and were judged on written reports as well.

The grower who takes proper care of his equipment will be repaid by its greater efficiency and longer life.

Fights Against Extradition

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Negro woman charged with helping kidnap a white couple at Monroe, N.C., told a rally here Sunday that "I know what will happen if I am sent back to Monroe, but I will give my life to help my fellow Negro."

Mrs. Mae Mallory, 34, of Macon, Ga. and New York City, told the rally the white couple merely was detained for its own protection. "They were not hurt and left of their own free will," she said.

Mrs. Mallory, militant integrationist Robert F. Williams and three young men were indicted for kidnaping at Monroe. The alleged crime climaxed a week of racial strife at Monroe in August.

A petition was circulated at the rally asking Ohio Gov. Michael J. Deane to halt extradition of Mrs. Mallory to North Carolina. She is to face an extradition hearing here Nov. 22.

The 5,400,000 people of the Malagasy Republic belong to more than 26 tribes. Anthropologists believe the original settlers came across the Indian Ocean, perhaps from Melanesia and Indonesia. Africans were imported as slaves in the 18th and 19th Centuries.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the amazing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy trading and higher prices prevailed in the stock market early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.00 at 261.30 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .30 and utilities up .60.

Gains of fractions to a point or so among key stocks outnumbered losers in the same range.

The performance was a continuation of late last week's resurgence of activity, a bullish movement which managed to move prices higher despite the cross-currents of year-end tax-loss selling and switching.

The advice was far from unanimous, some blue chips taking pretty fair losses. A number of large blocks were traded in various issues, reflecting further shifts in large portfolios.

Steels were moderately higher as signs of an improvement in the industry were reported. A rise in construction contracts awards was predicted for 1962 and the drop in unemployment reported Friday was another encouraging item.

Airlines, aircrafts, tobaccos, rails and utilities advanced on average.

The trading pace was heavier than it was on Friday when the New York Stock Exchange enjoyed its first four-million-share day since last August. Optimistic forecasts by advisory services, looking to a year-end rally, helped spark new buying.

The top steelmakers were content with fractional gains. Chrysler added about a point.

American Telephone encountered a new wave of demand and was up about 2 points. Union Carbide and air reduction were off about a point each.

International Business Machines — ex-dividend — was ahead around 8. Gains of a point or so were made by Litton Industries, Anaconda, Metrol-Goldwyn-Mayer, Eastern Air Lines, Johns-Manville and Merck.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.79 at 712.05. Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange in fairly active trading.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged in quiet trading.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to mostly 25 lower. Several Hundred Toured Exhibit

Several hundred residents from throughout Pitt County toured the Bicentennial Exhibition at Greenville Art Center yesterday, it was announced today.

The opening of the exhibition began at 3 p.m. and is to continue until Dec. 28. It will be open daily Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The center is closed on Sundays and Mondays usually.

Officials of the event yesterday termed it a "big success." Large crowds are expected to visit the Pitt County Bicentennial Exhibition, which covers the history of the county, during the next two months.

Periods covered include the Colonial, Revolutionary and Civil War periods, these ante bellum days, and progress from then until today. Authentic pieces from the past, including furniture and papers and personal items, are on display.

Director Marge Jackson has requested that large groups call the Greenville Art Center, PL 8-1946, for an appointment before making the tour.

Two Escapees Captured Saturday Night

FELONS CAPTURED EARLY SUNDAY MORNING . . . will face escape charges in Beaufort County Superior Court. (Greenville Police Photo).

Two felons, escaped from Beaufort County Prison Camp, were tracked down Saturday night after they allegedly attempted to enter a home at Elmiras Cross Roads.

The two were identified as Edgar Smith and Paul Graham. Both long-termers they will face charges of escape. Capt. L. L. Short of the Beaufort Prison Camp said both are expected to be tried this week in Beaufort County Superior Court.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Deputies Gerald Davis and Bill

Forrest were called to the Jimmy Sutton home at Elmiras Cross Roads around 9:30 Saturday night.

Mrs. Jimmy Sutton, who was alone, had reported that someone attempted to enter the house.

Deputies found tracks around the house which they identified as prison shoes. They called in prison authorities and bloodhounds from Greene County.

Deputy Forrest said the two men were tracked by their footprints for approximately ten miles to a point between the VOA transmitter site and Blackjack. There the bloodhounds were put on the trail. The dogs jumped a ditch and found the two men lying on their backs in the woods around 25 yards away.

Capt. Short said Smith was sent up from Bertie County for armed robbery for a 15-20 year term. He was also sentenced in Beaufort County for armed robbery to 16-20 years. He is 21 years old, was born in Virginia and lists no present address.

Graham is 31 years old. He was sent up on three charges from Scotland County. The sentences he received were: violation probation, 12 months; assault on a female, two years; breaking, entering and larceny, 7-10 years. Graham's address is listed as Laurinburg.

Capt. Short reported the two men escaped from a road squad on Thursday. They were working on U.S. 17 south of Washington.

Check Station Nets 25 Arrests

AYDEN—Twenty-five motorists were arrested Friday night at a Highway Patrol Floodlight Check Station located about a quarter-mile South of here on N. C. 11, officers reported.

Sgt. Lewis Lane of Rocky Mount in charge of the Patrolmen of Troop "A" District III, reported that five officers, under the direction of Cpl. J. G. Thomas of Greenville, set up the floodlight station and operated it for six hours.

Included in the violations found were six for speeding; five for having no operator's license; three each for improper registration and improper lights; two for improper mufflers and two drunken pedestrians. Other violations were for having fictitious license; operating under the influence of alcohol; reckless driving and failure to yield the right of way.

The floodlight check points, according to Sgt. Lane, are designed to give better protection for officers checking for violations such as the drinking driver, no operator's license, faulty equipment, and improper registration. It also aids in checking for stolen cars and acts as a warning for drivers who operate vehicles in a manner which would place them in the Patrol's "hazardous moving violations" class (speeding, failure to yield the right of way, operating on the wrong side of the road, etc.).

The sergeant noted that five officers conducting a Wolfpack patrol in Edgecombe County over the weekend arrested 26 violators.

The daily maximum temperature in San Francisco is 56.5 degrees.
