Commissioners Approve Buying 12 Additional Acres For Hospital

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

Purchase of 12 additional acres for Pitt Memorial Hospital was approved Monday by the County Commissioners. Estimated cost of the land was placed at $42,000.

The commissioners approved the purchase after the Overall Planning Committee at its Oct. 23 meeting recommended the commissioners allow the hospital to buy 15 more acres.

To be added to the west and south sides of the present 17-acre tract, the new acreage will "square up" the hospital site, donated by the Moyer family.

The westward expansion of the site consists of a 100-foot-wide strip whose north end borders NC Highway 43. Cost of the street frontage is $75 per foot with a 300-foot depth. Cost of the remaining area is $3,000 per acre. The commissioners' action on the matter Tuesday ended more than two months of consideration of the proposed land purchase. The hospital's board of trustees asked the commissioners for funds to buy the land. In October, the official board referred the matter for consideration by the Overall Planning Committee before the long-range study group handed the matter back to the commissioners with the 15-acre recommendation.

Discussion Tuesday showed the commissioners felt assured the land would be adequate for reasonable expansion of the county medical facility within the foreseeable future.

The commissioners approved a motion offered by B. Alton Gardner calling for purchase of the 12 additional acres. At the request of Pitt County Civil Defense Director J. H. Rose, the commissioners voted to make application through Civil Defense for a 10 kilowatt emergency generator to be installed for use in the courthouse in the event of a natural or nuclear disaster. County Auditor H. R. Gray was authorized to file application for the equipment. Cost of the generator is estimated at about $1,500 with federal funds footing half the bill.

Rose raised before the commissioners the question of whether citizens' fallout shelters should be exempt from county ad valorem taxes. He said a Guilford County group has advanced such a theory.

Discussion showed the commissioners felt such a law, if made effective in Pitt County, should be state-wide in scope. Gray said enactment of such a measure would be a matter for consideration by the General Assembly.

County Attorney W. W. Speight was not available at the meeting to discuss such a law with the commissioners. He and Commissioner J. Vance Perkins were in Washington, D. C. Sunday and Monday on official business.

Chairman of the Commissioners Robert G. Little reported that the Overall Planning Committee's Courthouse Committee has discussed potential methods of expanding courthouse facilities with at least six architects.

He said surveys and investigations of the courthouse and its offices are to be made by qualified architects. Results of the studies, he said, will be used to guide the county in its plans to enlarge office facilities for its governmental agencies. Little is also chairman of the long range study committee.

The commissioners set aside official holidays for county employes for Armistice Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Since Armistice Day (Nov.

11) comes Saturday, county employes will close their offices Friday in observance of the holiday. Offices will be closed again Thanksgiving and will close at noon Dec. 21 for Christmas to reopen again at the regular hour Dec. 27.

Tax Supervisor Robert S. Moyer reported his department during October collected $334,516.15 in taxes. Of that total $321,291 represented 1961 taxes, Moyer's report showed.

Collections through Oct. 25 this fiscal year totaled $977,030.94 — $50,785.46 more than the $926,245.48 collected during the corresponding period a year ago.

In other action, the commissioners granted a $400 appropriation to be used for an exhibit at the Greenville Art Center commemorating the county's 200th birthday. Pitt officially became a county in January, 1761.

The commissioners appropriated the funds after Pitt Rep. Frank M. Wooten presented a request for the funds from the Pitt County Historical Society.

The commissioners received the audit report for fiscal 1959-60 and a partial report for last fiscal year from D. H. Hollowell.

Discovered Crime, Made Arrest In Same Night

Suspect Arrested Soon After Theft

WINTERVILLE—Alert law enforcers brought about the discovery of a break-in and the apprehension of the man alleged to have done the job in separate Pitt towns last night.

Pitt Deputies Gerald Davis and Bill Forrest stopped at the Dixie Queen in Winterville around 4 a.m. while on patrol. There they found someone had forced a window.

The deputies called owner Leon Evans and Winterville officers Bill Ennis and J. E. Buck to the scene. It was found that merchandise valued at $43 and $25 to $30 in quarters, taken from a cigarette machine, were missing.

As officers investigated they received a radio message from Grifton policeman Edward Hudson. He had stopped a motorist and charged him with having no operator's license and improper equipment.

Officer Hudson found suspicious items in the car. He held the man until the officers at the Winterville scene arrived in Grifton.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Evans identified certain items as coming from his business.

The suspect, Wilbert Brown Jr., 19-year-old Negro of 1609 Garland St., Greenville was charged with breaking and entering and larceny. He was placed in Pitt County Jail.

Sheriff Tyson said Brown will face trial in Grifton Court Thursday on the motor vehicle violations. He will be tried in Pitt Court on the breaking and entering charge next Tuesday.

Now $10,000 To Go For Pitt's United Fund

Pitt United Fund Chairman George Coffman announced this morning that a total of $81,447.76 has been raised through the county.

"Our minimum goal of $91,350 is now certainly in sight," Coffman stated. "The success of the 1961 United Fund campaign will be insured if all the volunteer salesmen now holding uncompleted cards will finish their work in the next few days.

"Our increase this week is most encouraging and clearly illustrates that the people of Pitt County are 100 percent behind the campaign.

"I would like to make a personal appeal to all United Fund salesmen to please complete their work without delay and turn their results in to the United Fund office on the third floor of the State Bank Building.

He announced division totals to date as follows: Advance Gifts, Chairman W. M. Scales, $31,675.34; Special Gifts, Chairman James Sutton, $11,524.95; Leadership, Chairman W. M. Watson, $7,894.15; Public and Institution Employees, Chairman Joe Moyer, $13,882.39; all county divisions, $16,466.93.

"If the fair share quota for the participating Pitt County agencies is to be met, every person in the county must give his support to this drive."

He urged persons who have not contributed to call PL 8-1604. Someone will call for the contribution.

"I would like to urge all the citizens of Pitt County to make their annual United contribution in the next few days so that our total goal can be achieved."

Respiration May Have Saved Life

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Linemen Jim Andrews and Ernest Beck were working atop a pole here Monday, when Andrews saw Beck touch a 2,400-volt line with his finger and lose consciousness.

Beck's limp figure slumped, but his safety belt held him to the pole. Andrews grasped his companion and applied mouth-to-mouth respiration. Doctors said this probably saved Beck's life.

The man slowly began to gain consciousness. "You all right, buddy? You all right?" witnesses quoted Andrews as saying. "We'll get you down." The witnesses said this apparently warded off panic.

Firemen came with a ladder, truck, brought Beck down, and he was hospitalized.

California Fires Still Run Wild

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two disastrous fires threatened early today to join and burn oceanward on a 10-mile front that officials said would threaten a whole new community — fashionable Pacific Palisades.

The major multimillion-dollar blaze—the worst in Southern California history—already had destroyed more than 200 costly homes including those of such film stars as Burt Lancaster, Joe E. Brown and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Ex-Vice President Richard M. Nixon was among those who fled the flames Monday.

The larger fire sprawled out of control today like an ugly, flaming crown in the Hollywood hills-Santa Monica Mountains range above swank Bel-Air and Brentwood.

Eating through Topanga Canyon's explosively dry brush during the night, a companion fire that also broke out Monday moved to within slightly more than a mile of the Bel-Air fire.

The Topanga fire had raged through 4,000 acres, the Bel-Air through 3,200. Only Rustic Canyon, which has a few expensive homes, separated the two.

Officials said the fires probably will join, forming a 10-mile flaming front. If they continue burning southward, all of heavily populated Pacific Palisades, near the ocean, would be in danger.

The two fires already were only three or four miles from that community.

"We are making full preparations for the worst," said County Fire Chief Keith Klingler. Men and equipment in large numbers moved into the southern end of the Topanga Canyon holocaust. Twenty-four bombers, 12 for each fire, were loaded for daylight bombing of the flames with a fire-retarding borate solution.

Minor injuries to 10 firemen in the Bel-Air fire were reported.

The Weather Bureau predicted gusty northeast winds, decreasing slowly, in the mountains and below coastal canyons today.

More than 2,000 persons had been evacuated from one of the region's richest residential areas. Residents leaving the area with armloads of possessions, leading horses, pets and children, suggested refugees fleeing from war.

Wild animals scrambled along Beverly Glen Boulevard. Flames had ravaged their native haunts.

Magnates, movie stars, school children and housewives fled from homes and classrooms to escape the blaze Monday. Fire officials called it the most damaging in Southern California history.

Nixon, whose rented home escaped the flames, said: "I have seen trouble all over the world, but nothing like this."

Some of the movie stars' homes reportedly cost more than $100,000.

The main fire is in rugged, mountainous terrain extending westward to the sea and dividing the San Fernando Valley from Los Angeles and its western suburbs.

The sprawling blaze is roughly 10 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles and three miles northwest of Beverly Hills. Brentwood, Bel-Air and the Hollywood hills are suburban communities.

More than 1,300 men fought the fire, which started Monday morning and raced across Bel-Air and surrounding suburbs, studded with palatial estates, $200-a-day hotels and exclusive golf courses.

The blaze swept down dry, sun-burnt slopes, overran luxurious homes and quickly consumed 6,000 acres.

The worst previous fire in Southern California burned about 40,000 acres and destroyed 67 homes in nearby Malibu in 1954.

Homes damaged or temporarily threatened included those of Cary Grant, Red Skelton, Kim Novak, Maureen O'Hara, Fred MacMurray, Alfred Hitchcock, Ginger Rogers, Marlon Brando, Robert Stack, Steve Cochran, Bobby Darin, Greer Garson, Jascha Heifetz, Peggy Lee, Meredith Willson, Maxene and Laverne Andrews and Cliff Robertson.

Former Vice President Nixon was working on his forthcoming book, "Six Crises," in his rented Brentwood home when he and research assistant Al Moscow noticed flames a few hundred yards away. Nixon, hose in hand, clambered up the roof and watered the shingles. Firemen ordered him, Moscow and a house man to leave. They took his manuscript.

They returned later to recover personal effects and rescue Nixon's cocker spaniel Checkers, who figured prominently in his 1952 vice presidential campaign. The house, leased from producer Walter Lang, was saved.

Will Stop Testing When 'Others' Stop

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a cluster of newsmen at a reception that the Soviet Union will drop nuclear testing "when the others stop."

Earlier today, he acknowledged that nuclear testing is harmful to health.

"We will stop when the others stop," Khrushchev said in answer to a question by correspondents. "If the West continues testing there will be more tests here."

This was a reflection of the Soviet device of blaming the West for beginning the testing of nuclear weapons, although actually the Soviet Union.

To further questions at a party honoring the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, Khrushchev also said the Soviet Union does not want to hustle the West

Generally Light Turnout Is Light Vote Over State

RALEIGH (AP)—Predictions of a light turnout of voters apparently was being borne out during the early hours of balloting in today's $61,665,000 state bond election.

That was the general tenor of reports from over the state. "Voting extremely light during opening hours" was the word from Mecklenburg, the state's largest county. Much the same reports were received from Fayetteville, Greensboro, High Point, Thomasville and Asheville.

Raleigh, the state's capital city, and Wake County reported a bigger turnout in the early voting than had been expected. At several precincts, the vote—while not heavy—appeared to be running ahead of the number cast during the City Council election this spring.

Weather conditions were favorable. It was generally fair in the western section of the state and cloudy in the east, but there was no rainfall reported and little prospect of any.

As usual, tiny Catawbee precinct in mountainous Haywood County was the first to complete voting and the first to report results. All the precinct's seven voters had cast their ballots by mid-morning and they voted unanimously for each of the 10 bond proposals.

Light Turnout Is Counted By Noon

A light turnout of Pitt County voters was reported by many of the county's precincts about noon today.

A spot check by the Daily Reflector of 14 of Pitt's 25 precincts showed a total of 789 voters had cast ballots in the $61.5 million bond election.

Many poll holders predicted the numbers would increase during afternoon hours when the county's school teacher population finishes its day's work in class.

Six of Greenville's eight precincts reported a total of 354 votes cast by noon. Vote numbers ranged from a high of 198 at Greenville No. 7 to only six at Chocod No. 3.

Other noon totals reported were:

Ayden—83; Bethel—48; Falkland—22; Farmville—155; Greenville No. 1—10; Greenville No. 2—37; Greenville No. 4—25; Greenville No. 5—32; Greenville No. 6—52; Grimesland No. 1—27; Grifton—50; and Winterville—44.

Some poll holders predicted today's total vote in their precincts would represent as much as 20 per cent of registered voters. Other estimates ranged downward from that figure.

Voters across the state were casting ballots in the election to determine whether the $61.5 million in bonds would be issued. About half the funds were being sought for capital improvements at state-supported institutions of higher education. For state ports improvements, $13.5 million was included in the election.

Nehru Opposes Sending Troops To S. Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — India Prime Minister Nehru was reported today to have strongly advised President Kennedy against sending U.S. combat troops to South Viet Nam.

Three weeks ago, when Kennedy dispatched his military adviser, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, to the Communist-besieged nation, there was wide speculation that Kennedy might send a U.S. force to South Viet Nam. When Taylor returned Friday he had no public word of support for sending troops.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy and Nehru discussed both Laos and South Viet Nam in their first meeting Monday.

Nehru, a leader of the non-aligned nations, scheduled a mid-morning White House meeting with Kennedy today to discuss subjects ranging from Southeast Asia to Berlin to nuclear testing.

Their meeting at Newport, R.I., Monday was the first chance for the two men to take each other's measure. The atmosphere was described as friendly. They flew here together from Kennedy's vacation headquarters.

On his arrival here, Nehru stressed a peaceful approach to the problems of the cold war. "With us peace is a passion," he told Kennedy in an impromptu statement at Andrews Air Force Base.

The prime minister wished Kennedy "all success in his efforts to maintain peace and freedom in the world."

He also took note of recent U.S. criticism of Indian policies and said one purpose of his visit was to "explain what we have in our own minds."

Relationships between friendly countries, he said, are more basic than "temporary policies and events that happen."

The United States has hoped to win support from India in establishing a strong International Control Commission for Laos that would have authority to halt any new fighting there.

Kennedy also was reported to be anxious that India, as chairman of the International Control Commission for Laos, take a stronger stand against Soviet arms and supplies being moved across southern Laos to Communist guerrillas who are raiding in South Viet Nam.

Seek Review Of Housing Sites

A land planning representative from the Public Housing Administration will be called in by the local Public Housing Authority to review potential sites for public housing.

This was discussed at last night's monthly Public Housing Authority meeting and Chairman Charles Howard said a letter is being sent off today making the request.

Eisenhower Has Routine Checkup

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, looking hale and hearty after a physical checkup in Washington, voted in Pennsylvania's municipal election here today.

He underwent a routine medical examination at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The former president was alone when he voted. His wife, Mamie, has been ill with a cold and is recuperating at the couple's farm home on the outskirts of town.

Abandon Search For Survivors

TUNIS (AP)—Ships criss-crossing the Mediterranean north of Tunis today abandoned their search for survivors of the sunken British freighter in the Strait of Sicily.

Of the 83 crewmen aboard when the 7,120-ton vessel exploded and sank in a storm Monday, only six survived.

Ministerial Ass'n Officers Are Named

The Greenville Ministerial Association yesterday elected the Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr., pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, as their new president.

The Rev. Tom Davis, executive secretary of Albemarle Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, was elected vice president and the Rev. Richard Ottaway, curate of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was elected secretary-treasurer. Officers will be installed at the December meeting of the Ministerial Association by outgoing president, the Rev. Terry Agner of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Other outgoing officers are vice president, the Rev. Richard Gammon of First Presbyterian Church, and secretary-treasurer, the Rev. Howard James of Red Oak Christian Church.

The Rev. Mr. Hadden has served at the Eighth Street Christian Church for two and a half years, having previously served as pastor at the Clarksville, Tenn. First Christian Church for 10 years. Prior to that time, he served as pastor of Cork Street Christian Church in Winchester, Va. for three years.

He was a Navy chaplain during World War II.

He received the B. A. degree from Lynchburg College in Virginia and the B. D. degree at Vanderbilt University School of Religion in Nashville, Tenn. The Rev. Mr. Hadden also did post graduate work in Edinburgh, Scotland.

He holds the Master's Degree in education from Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn.

He is a member of the Board of Managers of the International Convention of Christian Churches, and a member of the Greenville Kiwanis Club.

Pointed Toes, Spiked Heels Held Ruining Women's Feet

By RUTH WINTER
Women's News Service
NEW YORK (WNS) — American women have the worst feet in the world, said Edgar A. Galvani, fashionable shoemaker.

Into Galvani's inconspicuous 14th floor office off Fifth Avenue, hobble some of the richest and most famous people in America.

"Most are women whose feet hurt so badly they can hardly walk," he said.

"A long time ago, American women got the idea that the French women had small, dainty feet. Since France was the fashion center, they wanted to imitate them. So American women got shoes several sizes too small for them.

Actually, Galvani said, French women have short, but broad feet. English women, he added, have the longest feet in the world.

Besides wearing shoes too small, American women began wearing spiked heels," Galvani said. "Then, to make matters worse, they went in for pointed shoes.

"When I first entered business 25 years ago, my clients were elderly women. Today, they are getting younger and younger with worse feet."

Galvani, whose shoes start at $150 a pair, originally wanted to be a priest. "I went to Italy to study. I became fascinated with the Italian shoemakers who used to do their work on the sidewalks," he said.

"I studied shoemaking at a school in Italy and then to France for a course in design."

He said European women have better feet today because, until recently, all their shoes were made.

"If you don't want your shoes to hurt, here is Galvani's advice: Don't wear a heel over two inches high.

Alternate the height of your shoes daily.

Wear pumps as little as possible. Be sure your toes have enough room.

Always wear stockings with shoes.

As far as flat heels being stylish, Galvani said one of his customers, who is consistently on the list of the 10 best-dressed women, wears nothing but flats.

"Women can be dressy without a spiked heel," he said.

"A woman can tell she is headed for trouble if she pitches forward on her heels or wobbles as she walks.

"American women lead very active lives but they would not be so tired all the time if they wore better fitting shoes. Improperly fitting shoes effect their spine, back muscles and calves, to say nothing of their disposition."

Galvani said American women's feet are getting larger.

"The average shoe size today is 7 to 7½. I believe when today's young girls are fully grown, their shoe size will be, on an average, 8½ to 10," he said.

State President At ESA Meeting

The Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha held a jewel pin ceremony Sunday at the Olde Towne Inn.

Mrs. Ann Johnson of Winston-Salem, president of the North Carolina Council of ESA, installed four new members. Mrs. Imogene Johnson of Burlington, chapter advisor, assisted. The new members of Gamma Delta to receive jewel pins during the candlelight ceremony were: Mrs. Helen Redd, Mrs. Helen Sermons, Mrs. Beulah Hale and Mrs. C. R. Sheppard.

Preceding the installation services, a turkey dinner with trimmings was served. Arrangements of yellow mums and dutch iris and yellow candles decorated the tables. The guests were presented yellow mum corsages. Mrs. John Cassick won the door prize.

Small-fry lunch: spoon creamed mixed vegetables over croquettes, then add a topping of hard-cooked egg forced through a fine strainer.

So Who Needs A Frenchman?

PARIS—(WNS)—Frenchmen do not like the voices or the smiles of American women, according to the French Public Opinion Institute.

A hundred French males questioned by the institute found the voices of American females "too strident and masculine—probably the result of coeducation."

As to American smiles: "too broad and too frequent. They should study the Mona Lisa."

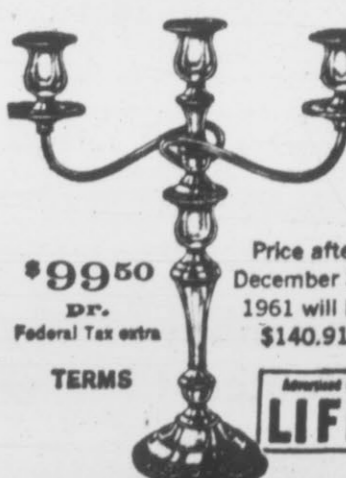

The Frenchmen found Scandinavian girls "boring."

And they called their own home-grown French variety "avaricious."

Can All Be Proud Of Rescue Squad

Greenville's Rescue Squad has received additional well-deserved honors and reflected additional credit on this city by being chosen the best squad in the United States and third in international competition of rescue units from the United States and Canada.

Most residents of this community have recognized the invaluable service these volunteers have rendered to Greenville and surrounding area in recent years with their tireless efforts in response to emergency calls. It should be a source of considerable local pride that the quality of service rendered by the Greenville Rescue Squad has been recognized in competition with the best in the North American continent.

Any community which has an active and well-trained rescue squad is fortunate indeed. But certainly the community which has the constant service of the best rescue squad in the entire country should count itself by far more fortunate than the rest.

The Reflector adds its congratulations to the members of the Greenville Rescue Squad for the coveted position they have won among the rescue squads of the United States and Canada. At the same time we join with other citizens of the community in expressing to these men who give unstintingly of their time and talents our heartfelt appreciation for the contribution they are making to the better of this community and its people.

Unlike many other Rescue Squads which were entered in the international competition, the Greenville squad has not been in operation for 10, 15 or 20 years. They have been organized a relatively few years, and most of their equipment has come from voluntary contributions by the community. But what they have lacked in the way of financial resources with which to acquire equipment and carry out their important work, they have more than made up for by their genuine desire to serve their fellow citizens in a time of dire need.

The same ability and determination which enable these men to devote countless hours day and night, month after month in volunteer service to this community enabled them to cop the coveted place they now occupy among the talented rescue squads in international competition.

Attention Is Called To Series In The Reflector

The Daily Reflector calls attention of its readers to the special series of articles by Professor Willard F. Libby which began with yesterday's edition.

This special series of 15 articles, written to inform the public of what they might expect in case of nuclear attack and what they might do to survive such an attack or subsequent fallout, has been carefully prepared by America's best known authority on fallout and radiation. It is a series designed to afford the public the best, possible information on how to prepare for such an emergency situation and what to do should such an emergency arise.

Many people of this area already have begun to take steps toward preparing themselves and their families for an emergency fallout. Many others have indicated interest in doing something to give their families a better chance of survival in case of heavy fallout, but have not known exactly what kind of preparations to make.

It is our hope that this series of articles by Professor Libby will provide answers to many questions the people of this area have about fallout, radiation, and practical steps which might be taken to give each family a better chance of surviving nuclear fallout.

The Reflector is happy to be able to present this outstanding series of articles on this timely subject to its readers, and we trust our readers will not only find them of interest, but will also find them helpful in making plans for the protection of their families.

New Vacancies In The Assembly

By LYNN NISBET
VACANCIES — Two vacancies in the membership of the 1961 Senate and four in the House of Representatives have occurred since the regular session adjourned.

Sen. Edward B. Clark of Bladen (10th district) was appointed a Superior Court judge by Governor Sanford, and Sen. Spencer Bell of Mecklenburg (20th district) was named to the Federal Fourth Circuit Court by President Kennedy.

Rep. Ike Andrews of Chatham was appointed solicitor; Rep. D. G. Bell of Carteret went on the highway commission; Rep. Charles Cohoon of Tyrrell became director of probation, and Rep. John R. McLaughlin of Iredell was named on the Industrial Commission.

So far as can be learned through official channels in Raleigh there has been no attempt to fill the vacancies in the House of Representatives. The Democratic executive committee having responsibility for nominating interim appointees apparently have reasoned that with the Legislature not in session, and with at least some question about validity of an oath administered during such recess, there was no point in getting excited.

More action was noted with respect to the Senate vacancies. Immediately upon learning that Senator Ed Clark has resigned to don judicial robes the executive committee of Bladen county met and nominated Chatham C. Clark to be State Senator. That name was transmitted to Governor Sanford for commissioning, and when the Governor's office seemed a bit slow the Bladen folks raised Cain.

Some of the "new senator's" (?) friends wanted to make a big do about swearing-in ceremonies in the courthouse at Elizabethtown. The Governor's office still declined to get excited. And for what seems to be very good reasons. The North Carolina constitution and statutes do not have the specific restrictions imposed on members of the Congress that legislators cannot take the oath of office except in the open session of the House to which they have been elected. But the constitutional provision that each House of the General Assembly shall be the judge of the qualifications and election of its "own members" raises serious question whether a Representative or a Senator could take a valid oath before his application for membership had been submitted to the full body. PROCEDURE — A vacancy occurred in the State Senate from the 10th district by reason of appointment of the incumbent senator to the superior court bench. The Bladen county committee moved in quickly to nominate a replacement for the resigned senator, and the recommended candidate has been commissioned by the Governor—but up to now has not been sworn in as a Senator.

A vacancy occurred in the State Senate from the 20th district by reason of appointment of incumbent Senator Spencer Bell to the Federal Circuit Court bench. The Mecklenburg county executive committee met and discussed the matter at length—and decided not to ask the Governor to appoint a Senator, since the appointment could be nothing more than a very empty honor, if that.

The constitutional amendment adopted in 1952 provided for nomination by the executive committee of the party and commissioning by the Governor of a fill-in member of the General Assembly. Prior to that time an election was necessary. Like so many constitutional and statutory provisions, this one was designed to take care of one situation only. That was to assure there would be no long drawn out vacancy in the legislature while the election process functioned. And, also like many other provisions, this one fails completely to deal with the situation of a vacancy in the Legislature when it is not in session. Apparently it was the sense of the people who proposed and adopted the fill-in member provision that legislative membership was not important unless the legislator had opportunity to vote or otherwise act as a state official.

ICONOCLAST — Ike London, veteran editor of the Post-Dispatch newspaper at Rockingham, is most times a conformist. But occasionally he likes to go on rampage and bust up a lot of idols. Like this week when he digs into old Colonial Records to uncover the origin of Queens College, the more or less sacred institution at Charlotte operated under supervision of the Presbyterian Church and dedicated primarily to the education of young women. The 1771 act establishing the school provided that it should be supported by a tax on all rum and alcoholic beverages sold in Mecklenburg county.

Door Is Opened To Skepticism

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russian people must now go through a revulsion and revolution in their thinking after seeing Stalin excommunicated and his body hauled from the shrine beside Lenin.

The result should be creation of a new skepticism about the absolute rightness of their Communist leadership and a softening of the party's rigid control over their minds.

But it does not follow this will mean a softening in Soviet foreign policy or any lessening of Premier Khrushchev's demands on Berlin. It should be remembered the Russians are intensely nationalistic, and have been.

So, no matter what their doubts about the wisdom of their leadership at home, they can be expected to rally around the flag when their government Communist or otherwise, deals with foreign nations.

By propaganda, edict, repression and reprisals, practically all Russians alive and able to read and write when Stalin died in 1953 had been conditioned into acceptance, muted or ecstatic, of his wisdom, rightness, goodness and Communist sanctity.

Now Khrushchev and others in the leadership have revealed Stalin as a pathological monster who—by his excesses, misuse of power and self-idealization—was in effect an enemy of the people and a betrayer of the revolution.

From these belated disclosures Russian people can draw one conclusion: They'd been bamboozled by Stalin and since his death—urtal now—by Khrushchev and others who withheld the truth from them.

They cannot avoid feeling like fools when they remember how by the millions since 1953 they stood in long lines to see the body of this man who had become of much their "little father" as an czar.

This will compel them to a more questioning and critical evaluation of their leadership. It demonstrates how propaganda can delude them. To this extent the revelations about Stalin are a liberating force. The leadership had to realize this before it permitted the denunciations.

Ironically Stalin himself had set loose the most liberalizing force of all with the broad educational system created in his lifetime. No doubt he felt strict party control could keep it in hand.

But controlling the millions of illiterate peasants he and Lenin inherited when they made their revolution stick is not the same as brainwashing an educated people, although Stalin did pretty well at it.

The more the education, the broader the intellectual class. The greater the intellectuality, the more the questioning, quietly or openly, of what the government controls tend to be medieval.

Sooner or later, therefore, there had to be a loosening up in Russia. There is no reason to think it wouldn't continue.

But when nationalism gets involved—as it will in Russia's relations with other countries—emotionalism begins to affect the judgment of intellectuals and peasants alike.

For this reason it would be wishful thinking to believe a slackening of party control at home means a softening of Russian policy abroad, particularly when it involves Russia's enemy, Germany.

If anyone doubts the force of nationalism, he can look closer than Russia.

In this country there are political disagreements over domestic policies but intellectuals and non-intellectuals alike close ranks against any outside force, like Russia, when they think America's vital interests are at stake.

Khrushchev no doubt had many reasons for disenchanting Russians about Stalin.

Some obvious ones come to mind: to silence the Communist party members who criticized him for not being more like Stalin at a time when he felt he needed new methods; to rebuke the Stalinist Red Chinese who now must criticize the entire Russian Communist party; to give the masses of the 220 million Russian people a greater sense of participation in the decision of the Russian Communist party which numbers only 9.7 million members.

Khrushchev at this time had a good reason for wanting all this. He is eager to build up Russia economically—witness his 20-year plan which says will carry Russia ahead of the United States—and this requires new resources of energy, dedication and participation.

As times goes on Russia, in the process of building up a well-fed, prosperous and contented society, will become more conservative. It seems to be moving on that road now. But communism is still in its experimental, formative stage.

It will be years before it can be considered truly conservative. But in time it may prove to be the most conservative force in history.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
RE-EXAMINE
Modern science loftily disdains the ancient belief in evil spirits. And of course, science would appear well justified in such a conclusion. Everything in the modern world points in precisely the opposite direction to that of the ancient belief.

But we are arrested, as we read the New Testament, to discover that Jesus seems to have accepted the existence of evil spirits without question. Many would account for this by saying that Jesus was a man of his age, and therefore he shared the beliefs of his age, even though some of these beliefs may have been mistaken.

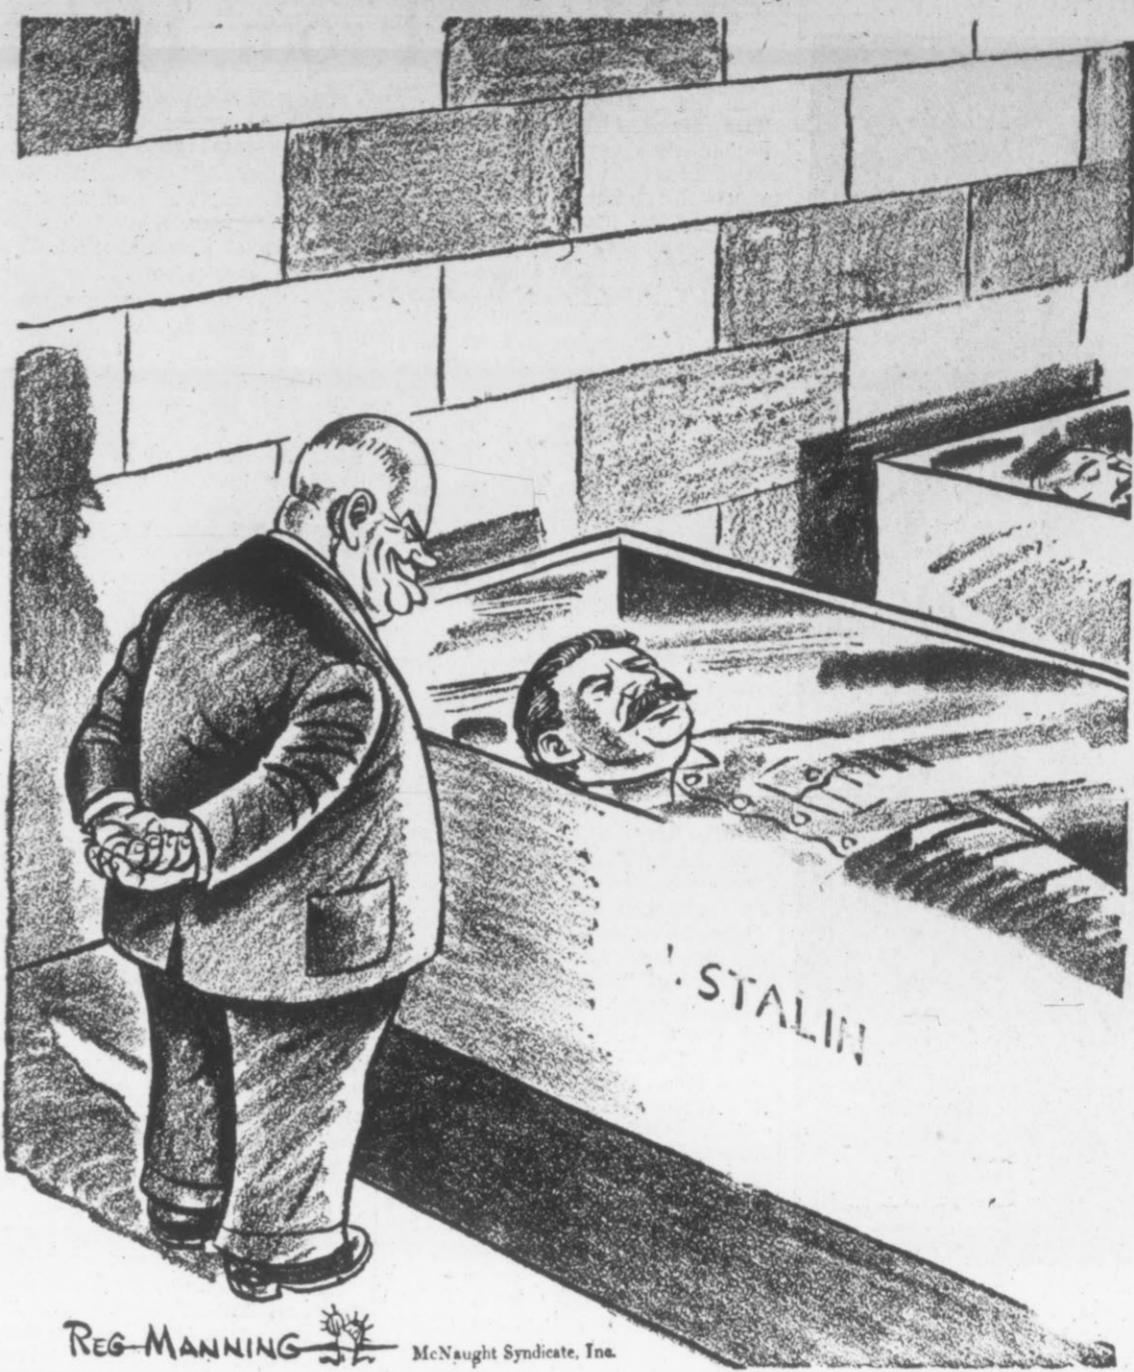

Others would say that Jesus well knew that there was no such thing as evil spirits, but used the concept because the people of that day could understand no other.

Nevertheless, as we ponder the problem there appears to be more to it than this. The people who disbelieve evil spirits, do, however, believe in angels, and if angels—good spirits—exist, may not their opposite numbers exist also? Furthermore, are we not continually impressed by the realization that there is a distinct personal element in the evil which continually assails us? If we believe that Jesus well knew his satanic majesty may have quite a lot of eager workers assisting him?

Modern, well-educated people do not—and probably cannot—believe in evil spirits, but neither, if they are as wise as they appear to be, can they deny the idea without considerable reflection.

Read the New Testament carefully and think this over as you do

International Cat Week

Do you like cats? Are you interested in their welfare? (ha ha) Would you like to "do" something about it? You guessed it—maybe you did. This is International Cat Week. Not state or national or North American but INTERNATIONAL Cat Week, sponsored by The American Feline Society, Inc., who boast some 23 years of selfless, unpaid, dedicated service to the Cat.

Wonder what they do about people who work against them? Anyway, while we are celebrating all kinds of events, we would never be the ones to overlook Cat Week. We will discuss the pros and cons of cats, their most distinguishing traits and the only favor we ask is NO cats. About the most distinguishing trait is their ability to multiply. Nobody will dispute that, we feel sure. Next, they shed hair. And they scratch. And scratch. That meow sound they make is music to cat lovers, but agony to the enemy, which may be a person, dog or bird.

They have an amazing ability to make mince meat out of the biggest dog, and what they do to birds shouldn't even be mentioned in a family paper such as this.

They love milk, as a rule. These are all common traits. There are some uncommon ones. Such as the cats that are best pals with the household dog.

Anyway, we haven't said anything good or bad about the cats. We've just brought the facts before you and you can make up your own mind, though in this column we do have the privilege of coloring things if we wish.

Other Editors Saying Durham's Nuclear Views

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
The general feeling in Washington is that sooner or later—mosty sooner—the U. S. is going to have to resume atmospheric nuclear bomb tests. That is in line with the feelings of North Carolina's former Rep. Carl Durham who says we will have to keep up with other countries—meaning the Soviet Union.

Durham knows something about atomic energy, having been a charter member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee which shepherded development of the first atomic bomb through all its red tape and obstacles. And Durham admits the prospect of resuming tests does little to cheer him up.

But if other countries insist on testing in the atmosphere it will be necessary that we resume such tests to keep up, he insists. These are just hard facts we must face. And one of the hard facts is that when we add our own tests to those of the Russians in the atmosphere, the air we breathe is going to be just that much more contaminated.

At the same time, there will be diplomatic repercussions. While Russia has poisoned the air and terrorized the world for the past couple of months with its own bombs, it will be Russia that will scream loudest when the U. S. resumes its own atmospheric tests. Neutrals, too, will have some loud words to utter, keeping in mind the fact that these same neutrals have not knocked themselves out condemning Khrushchev's newest bomb bursts.

The tragedy of the whole Eisenhower period. As most economists tell me, the rises and falls during the last three Administrations are largely cyclic and, while government action may round off rough corners, it cannot suddenly reverse trends.

The industry groups in the New York bank's summary, showed wide industrial divergences.

For example, the 31 iron and steel corporations had earnings in the third quarter that were 70 per cent higher than the third quarter of 1960. However, their profits in the first nine months of this year were 32 per cent below the first nine months of 1960.

At the same time, 46 machinery companies, closely related to the iron and steel companies, showed gains of 21 per cent in the third quarter over a year ago, and 16 per cent for the first nine months.

This is a surprise. We know one person who woke up one morning and couldn't find dear Kitty. Kitty cat was hiding in the mattress somehow managed to claw its way into the nice warm bed and was actually inside the mattress. After the cat's extraction, from the mattress that is, things were sort of different for le feline.

Anyway, we haven't said anything good or bad about the cats. We've just brought the facts before you and you can make up your own mind, though in this column we do have the privilege of coloring things if we wish.

Opinions In Brief

THE UNITED WAY

Soviet Nuclear Fallout

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Perhaps the most significant fact about the Fall-Out is that no one can guarantee precisely where it will fall. The huge cloud that is crossing Siberia must settle on parts of Red China as well as on other parts of the world. The Chinese are not only lured but frightened by the butchery of Khrushchev and they are alerting their people to the dangers that face them. This may be a cause for hysterical anti-Sovietism.

The geography of northern Asia needs to be studied very carefully to understand what the Russians are doing. The bombs are being exploded in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya which lies closest to the Arctic Ocean. Soviet Russia is using the tundra for its explosions to avoid affecting its own more densely populated area.

The cloud of Fall-Out moves southward to Mongolia and therefore must settle on the northern provinces of Red China. The Mongolian cities lie in both Russia and China, although Mongolia lies between Turkestan and Manchuria. Whereas the Russians might say that this area is not densely populated, it is impossible to guarantee that the Fall-Out will not drop down on Manchuria and the northern provinces of China which are very densely settled. Manchuria particularly has absorbed a large population during the past century.

To the west of the cloud lie Sweden and Greenland and it is the Russian objective that some of the Fall-Out will cross the North Pole into American territory. The likelihood is that it will cross Kamchatka to Alaska across Canada with a tail flying over the United States. American weather is made in Siberia and in the entire area affected by the Russian explosions.

Strontium 90 and other radioactive chemicals formed by the explosions of nuclear weapons are chemicals which do not ordinarily exist in nature but which come into existence as a result of these explosions. These chemicals are very damaging to all that lives upon the Earth because they convert both living and inert matter into radioactive material. The chemicals remain in the atmosphere after explosion, slowly moving in the form of a cloud. When the chemicals settle on rain clouds, they come down to Earth and penetrating the soil, they pollute it. The crops that grow in such polluted soil become poisonous and when eaten by animals that consume the crops, poison the animals, so that cows give off radioactive milk and meat which can have permanent devastating effects upon human beings who consume these commodities.

Genealogists are not yet absolutely sure as to the genealogical effects of Strontium 90 on human beings, but it is believed that if consumed in sufficient quantities, it will so affect the genes that an entirely new race will be procreated.

Much of the discussion on this subject is theoretical and cannot be substantiated by evidence. However, distinguished genealogists hold firmly to their theories and laymen accept their statements until they have better information, as the subject is extremely technical and most of us do not quite understand it.

This then is what the term Fall-Out means and it is naturally a cause for considerable fear and disturbance. Until the subject has been proved absolutely, no one can say what the effect of the Fall-Out will be, how much radioactive Fall-Out must drop down to do real damage. The amount varies with different reports.

At this moment, it must be said that Soviet Russia achieves no purpose in exploding bombs. These are not scientific experiments. While they do frighten the masses of any country, government know that we are far ahead of the Russians in atomic developments.

The explosions are acts of terrorization. The target is not fixed and actually cannot be fixed, which means that wherever a bomb may be exploded anywhere, the end result of the explosion is a puzzle to the shooter and to the victim.

Corporation Profits Still Down

By ELMER ROESSNER
The snap back from the late 1956 and early-1961 recession—what the Democrats today are calling the "Eisenhower recession"—has been less than hoped for, judged by corporation profits.

The First National City Bank's quarterly tabulation shows that the net profit of 791 leading corporations in the third quarter were 2 per cent less than in the second quarter, although 8 per cent above the third (or Eisenhower) quarter of 1960.

Furthermore, the net income for the first nine months of the year was 5 per cent less than the net in the first nine months of 1960.

It was, of course, unfair to characterize the 1960-61 dip as an "Eisenhower" recession. It is just as unfair to call the experience "so far" this year a "Kennedy slump" simply because corporation profits were less than in the last comparable

SO FAR THIS YEAR—
Among the gains during the first nine months of the year were 9 tobacco products companies, up 9 per cent; 27 petroleum companies, up 9 per cent; and 36 food and beverages companies, 63 electric power and gas companies, and 2 telephone and telegraph companies, each up 5 per cent.

Among the declines were 44 railroads down 44 per cent; 22 auto and parts companies, down 31 per cent; 32 electrical, radio and TV companies, down 23 per cent, and 29 textiles and apparel companies, down 21 per cent.

The changes are less drastic than the figures indicate, the bank suggests. "As usual, the most notable improvements in earnings performance over the 1960 period was scored by industries that were sorely depressed a year ago. . . . The auto industry, despite reduced sales because of early model

IF YOU HAVEN'T GOT ENOUGH TO SWEAT ABOUT NOW—
A company has been formed to bring the sauna to America. A sauna is a dry-heat Finnish bath with temperatures ranging from 180 to 250 degrees. After a sauna, Finns often run out and roll in the snow, but this will not be expected of soft-shelled American steamers. The company, International Sauna Corp., 350 Fifth Ave., New York 1, will import Finnish saunas, Finnish rocks and other equipment. It will franchise other companies to operate saunas.

Many Fallacies Behind Thinking On Fallout Dangers

By PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

Many Americans are deceiving themselves about H-bombs and their effects. What are the chief fallacies and the facts?

FALLACY: Defense is hopeless. Shelters cannot really help.

FACT: Ninety to 95 per cent of us survive, with proper protection.

FALLACY: Fallout "poisoning" after a war would kill all life, everywhere.

FACT: This is pure fiction. Deaths from local, close-in fallout could be very high if people didn't have fallout shelter protection. But the worldwide radiation levels, after a war, would have delayed effects just about comparable to those from the normal radiation levels in some parts of the world at present.

FALLACY: No other countries, including Russia, are building shelters or preparing real civil defense. We look silly.

FACT: The Russians are civilly defended, are preparing community shelters, and taking many steps to save lives. We are already far behind them. Sweden and Denmark also have done a great deal in preparing shelters.

FALLACY: There is no hope for me if a bomb explodes within a few miles of me.

FACT: While there is no hope if you're directly underneath, fallout shelters could protect from blast many persons at marginal distances from the center.

FALLACY: A bomb is bound to explode right over MY head.

FACT: Over the heads of each of 180 million Americans?

FALLACY: It would be impossible to set up civilized life again if cities and factories were destroyed, and farmlands dusted with fallout.

FACT: Great areas would not be touched, including many cities and towns. We could rebuild destroyed areas, if people had not been sickened or weakened by radiation. That CAN be avoided. Intense fallout would not cover our land, perhaps not more than 10 to 50 per cent at most. And there are means of decontaminating land, or of producing food while avoiding radioactivity hazards.

FALLACY: Anything touched by fallout dust becomes radioactive, including people.

FACT: The radiation passes through foods or water without changing them, or making them unsafe, unless the fallout dust gets INTO the food or water. Coverings can keep the dust out. X-rays from the fallout would not make people radioactive or "infectious" any more than chest X-rays do.

FALLACY: A fallout shelter is not good against blast.

FACT: Not against a direct hit. But most fallout shelters provide some anti-blast protection, and it can be very good protection.

FALLACY: The blast from big bombs totally destroys everything within 50 miles or more of the explosion.

FACT: Blast could bring down buildings eight miles to ten miles away, in the case of a 10-megaton bomb. A 100-megaton bomb's damaging blast effects would reach about 20 miles

FALLACY: Instant radiation from an H-bomb reaches out many miles.

FACT: About two miles from a 10-megaton bomb. If you were that close, and unprotected, the blast and heat would kill you first, very likely.

FALLACY: Only the government can act for us.

FACT: There is much the individual can do for himself. Strong government aid and funds could speed the building of public shelters, community shelters, and shelters in schools.

FALLACY: All children in the future would be stillborn or genetic freaks, due to postwar fallout.

FACT: Postwar fallout would produce some considerable rate of increase over the present rate of abnormal births, but most births would continue to be normal.

FALLACY: Fallout contaminates the air it passes through.

FACT: The air is contaminated only WHILE fallout is com-

Concerned Over Public's Complacency As To Bites

The subject of rabies and dog bites has been a concern of the Pitt County Health Department recently, principally because it appears the public is becoming complacent about the lack of the disease here for some 13 years, Dr. John Futrell, health director, said this week.

"It appears that there are certain persons in the county who have not known what to do in case of a dog bite," he said. He warned the public that even though Pitt has a good record in keeping free of rabies, there are dog traders who are constantly getting dogs from other counties which have had rabies in recent year.

And even though state law requires vaccination of dogs against rabies, the time that elapses between the vaccination and the built up protection is a susceptible time for rabies. The non-vaccinated group of dogs also is potentially dangerous.

Dr. Futrell suggested the following procedure be followed in case of a dog bite by any dog, strange or pet: The victim should immediately report any bite to his family doctor, who will determine medical attention; and the case should be reported to the health department: The dog should be confined for a period of 10 to 14 days, preferably by a veterinarian of the owner's choice; but if the doctor is assured that the dog will be observed on a daily basis, there is an alternative of confining the dog in a private area.

The case should be reported to the health department, in any event, Dr. Futrell urged.

Rabies may be the result of bites from other animals, as well as dogs, including cats, foxes, bats or any biting animals. Bats particularly are dangerous, since they are unique in that they can carry the disease without actually having it.

Pitt County has been a pioneer in the fight against rabies. Dr. Futrell said that recently representatives from other counties had been observing the program against rabies followed in this county.

Ricklen Attends Quarterly Meeting Of Children's Home Society Board

GREENSBORO—James S. Ricklen Jr. of Greenville attended the quarterly meeting of the board members of the Children's Home Society of N. C., Inc.

The meeting was held Nov. 3 at the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro with 45 members from throughout the state attending. George E. Perrin, chairman of the finance committee, announced the Society's annual Christmas Fund drive will be conducted throughout the state in areas and towns which are not a part of the Carolinas United Service Fund organizations.

A resolution was passed unanimously expressing deep appreciation for the dedicated services to the Children's Home Society on behalf of both the late Mr. Fielding L. Fry, a life member of the board and past president of the Children's Home Society, and the late Lt. Gov. H. Cloyd Philpott, board member.

Benjamin Cone, society president, announced that a resolution was passed to approach a national research foundation to finance research during the coming year by the Children's Home into the types of foster care for young babies awaiting adoption.

Local Issues Are Also At Stake In Today's Voting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Local elections in nine North Carolina counties today are likely to be just as heated as the statewide bond vote.

In Hertford County, the issue of legalized liquor vending will be decided by the voters. Lee County will vote on whether to combine its city and county school units.

A $5.5 million dollar bond issue for a new county hospital will be on the ballots in New Hanover County—probably one of the state's most hotly-contested local issues.

Hospital and school bonds will also be decided in Bertie, Johnston, Person, Scotland, Greene and Martin counties.

A $2,250,000 bond issue for sewer improvements and fire stations for the city of Wilmington will be settled there.

Cadillac

What a difference a year makes!

If anyone had told him, a short while ago, that his 1961 Cadillac could be improved on—he would have regarded them with disbelief.

And yet, after only half an hour in the newest "car of cars", he knows that a year of Cadillac progress has made a world of difference.

In fact, the list of Cadillac advancements for 1962 embraces each of the great motoring virtues.

For added beauty, there is a lower, longer silhouette . . . greater simplicity and dignity of line . . . and new interior elegance and luxury.

For improved comfort, there is increased spaciousness . . . new convenience of appointments . . . and a ride that is unbelievably quiet and smooth.

For finer performance, there is greater power . . .

more responsive handling . . . and a degree of all-around road ableness that is new even to Cadillac.

For increased safety, there is a new dual braking system . . . a new three-phase rear warning light system . . . and new cornering lights that illuminate your way around turns.

And we would like to say that even Cadillac quality has been enhanced for 1962. But the truth is simply that the car continues to be built to the highest standards that can be brought to the production of an automobile.

Stop by your dealer's showroom soon, won't you? He'll be happy to demonstrate to you what a difference a year can make—when the year is this one and the car is Cadillac.

FOR SIXTY YEARS THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

It Isn't Easy For West To Drop Reunifying Germany

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
BONN, Germany (AP)—Is the idea of a reunified Germany just a myth?

Some in the West say it is—that the Soviet Union backs Communist rule in East Germany and never will surrender it voluntarily.

Then the reasoning goes, why not admit that East Germany exists as a separate state, and get on with negotiations on other issues?

West German leaders are being told to be realistic, to use common sense, to recognize the futility of a policy of German reunification.

It's not as easy as it sounds. Abandonment of reunification as a goal could involve serious risks for the West.

The Kremlin, listening to the debate, seems to be acting accordingly. Soviet thrusts and propaganda zero in on West Germany as "the main threat to peace."

The Kremlin makes it plain it seeks, as one objective on the road to dominating Europe, the neutralization of West Germany. It wants West Germany out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It wants to divert the economically powerful nation from a development the Communists fear: a trend toward West European economic and political integration.

Some in the West contend nobody on either side, including the Germans, really wants unification in Germany, one gets some sobering thoughts on that score.

West Germans seem convinced Moscow wants reunification of Germany—but as a "peace-loving democratic state." Everyone knows what Moscow means—communism for all Germany.

West Germans trade with East Germany, deal with East Germans with regard to use of land routes to the east. But they argue that this makes no difference, that it is still all Germany, that they do not recognize the existence of another German state.

For a man in office or seeking office, it is considered an invitation to political disaster to re-announce the unification goal publicly.

"What would be your feeling," a West German asks an American, "if there were an Iron Curtain along the Mississippi and you were asked to regard it as permanent?"

Responsible Germans express fear that public abandonment of the unification goal would spur a resurgence of extreme nationalism. Even if the movement did not get within hailing distance of power, it could menace the West German government and the Western alliance.

Some say abandonment of unity as a goal would arouse fatalism among sections of the big middle class, where one finds mutterings about Germany going its own way—and a curse on both houses, Communist and West.

From a practical standpoint, unity seems unattainable short of war. The West does not want to go to war about it. But the West committed itself to the policy in the Paris treaties of October, 1954, which paved the way for Germany's entry into NATO and the Western European Union.

West Germany promised to shun force to secure unification. The allies promised to reject permanent division of Germany and Berlin.

As chancellor, flinty, 85-year-old Konrad Adenauer laid down a basic policy seeking self-determination for East Germany and Berlin. West Germany's force within NATO eventually is to consist of 350,000 men. About three quarters of this force is in being now, but only about 150,000 men thus far are fully trained.

West Germany is the only NATO member with no national force of its own. All its forces either are in NATO or ready to be assigned to it.

Adenauer apparently convinced he has a historic mission to hold back anti-Christian hordes from the East, seems determined to keep in his own hands the shape of West German foreign policy. He displays eagerness to bring about the common front so much desired of the West by Washington.

Information regarding lease and transfer of crop allotments has been handed to the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, office manager Livingston Roberts announced today.

In announcing the new provisions, Roberts said, "Economic flexibility which will not only be of great benefit to fine-cured tobacco farmers, but will also benefit all segments of our rural and urban population will now be permitted as a result of the recent legislation."

He said ASCS county offices have been receiving "many questions" about the new lease and transfer legislation.

Following are some general provisions regarding these transfers which will answer some of the questions farmers are now bringing to their local ASCS county offices:

(1) To be eligible to lease additional acreage a farm must already have a fine-cured allotment.

(2) The lease and transfer provisions do not permit the movement of allotments across county lines.

(3) The lease of a 1962 tobacco acreage allotment may not be entered into for any period in excess of the 1962 crop year.

(4) The lease and transfer shall not be effective unless a copy of the lease is filed with and approved by the ASC county committee.

(5) Where the normal yield of the lessor and lessee farm does not differ more than 10 per cent, the lease and transfer will be approved by ASCS on an acre-for-acre basis.

(6) If the normal yield of the receiving farm is more than 10 per cent higher than for the farm providing the allotment, the acreage will be adjusted downward accordingly.

Roberts further explained that the production of tobacco on transferred acreage will not be taken into account in establishing an allotment for subsequent years for the farms to which such allotment acreage is transferred.

In addition, he said, the law does not permit transfer of more than five acres of allotment acreage to any farm.

No 1962 new farm allotment may be leased or transferred and any allotment acreage leased shall not be subleased under the provision of the law, he said.

According to Roberts, the county committee cannot approve a lease agreement until 15 days after the mailing of tobacco allotment notices. Also, the final day for filing a lease with the county committee for approval is April 1, 1962.

Roberts urged persons with questions concerning leasing of tobacco allotments are invited to visit the county ASCS office.

Bashir Offered Lifetime Job
KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan's government has offered Bashir Ahmad a lifetime job at half his previous pay. The well-traveled camel driver has not decided whether to take it.

The Ministry of Oil and Gas offered Bashir the post of caretaker at a salary of $60 a month with a pension when he retires.

Bashir, who recently visited the United States, has said he was making twice that much as a camel driver.

Politics Behind Old Georgia Law
ATLANTA (AP)—The Georgia legislature in January will take up a bill to let the attorney general appoint his 23 assistants.

The governor appoints them now, under an old law letting the executive name all but one of the assistants paid out of the attorney general's appropriation.

The theory behind the system, oldtimers say, was that governors didn't want to take a chance on the attorney general building up backing for a governor's race.

Siltner replied that he didn't want to file charges, adding: "I'll just chalk it up to experience."

Car In Church, Driver To Jail
WASHINGTON, Ark. (AP)—Jonathan McPadden's car went to church, but he went to jail.

McPadden, 35, missed a curve and drove his car into a small Baptist Church in this south Arkansas town. The car ripped a gaping hole in a wall and plowed up several rows of pews.

McPadden was arrested for drunken driving. The church suspended services.

Crimson Tide Back Among Elite In College Football

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama's Crimson Tide, back among the elite of college football after a decade of mediocrity, have spelled success this year with a pair of Qs, and a couple of Bs stand for Pat and Mike. The Qs stand for "quarterback" and "quickness," the hallmark of its rapid-fire offense and a rock-robbed defense. The Pat is also the quarterback, Pat Trammell. Mike? He is a quick-driving fullback by the name of Mike Fracchia, who proves a perfect foil to the speed, deception and passing precision of his partner, Trammell.

This combination has led Coach Bear Bryant's team to a 7-0 record and has helped it to be ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press' latest poll after whomping Mississippi State last Saturday, 24-0.

All elements have blended precisely. Trammell is ranked fifth nationally in total offense with 956 yards running and passing, and 11th in passing with 730 yards in completing 54 of 93 attempts. Alabama is second nationally in total defense, allowing only 911 yards in seven games for a 130.1 average, and second in rushing defense with a miserly 55.1 per game average. It has allowed only 3.1 points per game, lowest in the nation.

Trammell has passed for five touchdowns, and scored eight. Fracchia has tallied four times and been the hatchet man on key yardage situations.

Both will be ready this Saturday when the Tide plays Richmond of the Southern Conference, causing the Spiders coach Ed Merrick to crack, "I hope my boys won't be overconfident."

Richmond may be without halfback Earl Stoudt, its All Conference halfback and leading ground gainer, who injured a knee in last week's 12-0 victory over Virginia Tech.

Texas, the No. 1 team, will have to face Baylor without fullback Ray Poage, out for the second straight week. Third-ranked Ohio State, playing Indiana, probably will be without quarterback Bill Mrukowski, who suffered a gashed finger in the Buckeyes victory over Iowa.

Penn State lost guard Bob Hart only 3.1 points per game, lowest in the nation.

Notre Dame is expected to have guard Nick Buonoconte and end Jim Kelly back for this week's game at Pitt, when the Irish try to break a three-game losing string. Notre Dame fullback Mike Lind may be out another week with a pulled back muscle.

Baylor quarterback Bobby Ply was listed as doubtful for the Texas game after suffering a knee injury against Texas Christian.

Secret Practice Sessions Are In Order For South Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of South Carolina's Gamecocks are holding secret practice sessions this week as they prepare for the 59th football game in a series with Clemson College's Tigers.

The game Saturday, in Carolina Stadium at Columbia, is expected to draw one of the largest crowds of the season. It's been that way since 1896.

The Gamecocks, who haven't beaten Clemson since 1958, are looking for a win this year. They usually take a breather on Monday, but they held a stiff drill Monday because, said Coach Marvin Bass, his players insisted on it.

The Tigers were also on the field Monday, working on offense and defense, then studying Gamecock tactics. Coach Frank Howard said sophomore relief quarterback Jim Parker, who suffered a broken hand in the Auburn game, may be ready for South Carolina.

If records count—and Bass says they won't for this game—South Carolina has lost three and won two in the conference while Clemson has a 2-2 ACC record. Overall, South Carolina is 2-5 and Clemson 3-4.

Elsewhere in the ACC, first-ranked Duke is preparing for an Oyster Bowl game against Navy at Norfolk Saturday. Assistant Coach Greg Mather, who has been scouting Navy, said the Mid-Idies have "good team morale," and the team "is generally impressive in all departments."

Top units of N.C. State's Wolfpack worked briefly on offense, getting ready for an ACC game with Maryland. But both the Wolfpack's top quarterbacks, Roman Gabriel and Tom Dellinger, missed the session. Gabriel's wife had a 9-pound boy, their second; and Dellinger is nursing a sprained ankle.

Meanwhile, Maryland, victorious over Penn State last Saturday, took a day off. But Coach Tom Nugent told his injury-ridden Terrapins they'll have to get back to serious work today. State is second in the league, and Maryland is second from the bottom.

Wake Forest took its usual light workout Monday, before really getting to work on building up a strong Deacon team to go against Virginia Tech Saturday. Assistant Coach Dick Hunter says he isn't looking for an easy win. "Virginia Tech has a fine team," he said.

The University of North Carolina's Tar Heels held one of their liveliest workouts of the year. They also heard a scout report on their foe for Saturday, Louisiana State University.

Virginia, idle Saturday, had no workout Monday.

Richmond To Meet Alabama This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond Coach Ed Merrick allows himself the luxury of a small, ironic jest when he talks about his Spiders' football game against second-ranked Alabama this weekend at Tuscaloosa.

"I just hope my boys won't be overconfident," says Merrick with a twinkle in his eye.

But the twinkle vanishes in a hurry for actually the Spider coach views the meeting with the unbeaten Crimson Tide as no joking matter.

"We know we'll be playing just about the finest team in the country," he says. "Nobody on our squad is under any illusions. We just hope we'll be able to give the spectators a game they'll enjoy."

This will be the first Richmond-Alabama meeting, and it comes at a time when the Spiders are hoping for a break-even season, at worst. The record now is 4-4 with two games to go: Alabama and William and Mary, which must tackle Army at West Point this week, had a light practice that included dummy scrimmages aimed at ironing out mistakes committed in last Saturday's loss to Davidson. Charlie Weaver, who's been injured, was back at his old halfback slot.

Virginia Tech, forced indoors by rain, was told by scouts that this week's foe, Wake Forest, plays sound football and moves the ball better than any team Tech has faced this year.

VMI skipped practice, watching game films. Coaches cited center Charlie Cole and tackle Bill Joehl for good work in last week's loss to The Citadel. VMI plays at Buffalo this week.

Star quarterback Bill Whaley sat out drills at The Citadel with a cold but is due back soon.

Guard Gene Dice won plaudits as "headhunter of the week" for fine play against VMI.

Furman worked on defense without fullback Tom Campbell, who was nursing an injury but is expected to be available for Saturday night's game with East Carolina. The Paladins were warned that East Carolina has lots of fast backs and that they can't afford a letdown.

At West Virginia, the freshman team ran Penn State-type plays against the Mountaineer varsity. Coach Gene Corum said the Nitany Lions will be the toughest offensive team WVU will face this season.

Suffering from injuries were fullback Glenn Holton and center Pete Golmarac.

Longhorns Still Lead In Rushing

NEW YORK (AP)—The powerful Texas Longhorns lead the nation's major college football teams in total and rushing yardage for the third consecutive week.

The Longhorns have an average 325 yards rushing and 431 overall while outpacing an unblemished record for seven games. They gained 431 yards—their exact season's average—in beating SMU last Saturday, according to statistics compiled by the NCAA Service Bureau.

Mississippi, which was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Louisiana State, remained the runner-up in total offense with a 417.7 average followed by Utah State 387.6 and New Mexico State 372.9.

The Detroit Titans still hold a commanding lead over Mississippi in passing. Detroit has averaged 218.2 yards a game to Ole Miss' 179.4.

Mississippi has passed for the most touchdowns, 15, and has the lowest average of interceptions, 2.8 on only four interceptions in 145 pitches.

Duke's Blue Devils retained their lead in aerial accuracy. Their passers have connected on 70 of 117 for a .598 percentage.

Utah State has the highest scoring average, 38.1 points a game for eight outings.

A Win Friday Is A Must For Phantoms

Rose High Coach Bud Phillips held last night a discussion with the Touchdown Club last night that a victory this Friday against Roanoke Rapids is a must if the Phantoms are to win the conference championship.

The veteran head coach noted that if the team comes home victorious Friday night the next game will be the eastern division playoff against Roxboro. Phillips said that the location of the playoff had not been decided yet.

Phillips also discussed the Wilson game and showed the films. He said that he was pleased with the way the team played and of course, with the outcome.

In commenting on the team Phillips said that reserve quarterback Dale Gidley was injured in practice yesterday and would be out for the rest of the season. However, he did not indicate who would back up Billy James at that position. Gidley suffered a dislocated shoulder.

In other business at the meeting last night a discussion was held on the possibility of chartering a bus to take the band to the game Friday. However, plans were not complete on this matter.

San Francisco was behind 30 points midway through the third period but a 3-point basket by Bell put the Saints ahead as the quarter ended. San Francisco never again relinquished the lead.

Texas Moves To First Place In Weekly Poll

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas marched into first place in the weekly Associated Press poll of a 45-man committee of sports writers and sportscasters today after both Michigan State and Mississippi were upended. Michigan State had ruled the roost for three weeks.

The unbeaten Texas Longhorns, 27-0 winners over Southern Methodist for their seventh straight, assumed the lead with only three games to play.

Alabama, also unbeaten in seven, took over second position by drubbing Mississippi State 24-0. Ohio State, 29-13 winner over Iowa, bolted into third place in the big shuffle.

Louisiana State, 10-7 conqueror of previously unbeaten Mississippi, advanced to the No. 4 slot and Minnesota, which knocked Michigan State out of the unbeaten class 13-0, took over fifth.

The points are figured on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second and so on down to one for 10th place. On that basis, Texas has 473 points and Alabama 410.

There are no pairings involving teams from the top ten in this week's schedule.

The only unbeaten, untied clubs in the top ten are Texas, Alabama and Colorado. Ohio State has not lost but was tied by Texas Christian.

The top teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Texas (35) 473
2. Alabama (6) 410

3. Ohio State (7) 365

4. Louisiana State 317

5. Minnesota 247

6. Michigan State 202

7. Mississippi 191

8. Colorado 173

9. Georgia Tech 164

10. Missouri 119

Others receiving votes: Syracuse, Utah State, Iowa, Maryland, Purdue, UCLA, Kansas, Arkansas, Northwestern, North Carolina, Rutgers, Rice, Auburn, Michigan and Navy.

Hayman Trial Is Scheduled Today

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Art Heyman, Duke University basketball star charged with slugging a premed student in a fraternity house, faces Recorder's Court trial today.

A warrant charging Heyman with assault was sworn out by Taylor Greenberg, 19, of Norfolk, Va. He said he suffered a bruised nose, eye injuries and a battered mouth when Heyman hit him Oct. 25.

Heyman, from Rockville Centre, N.Y., has been under a $500 bond.

Cheerleaders To Charter Bus

Head Cheerleader Gigi Guice has announced that the Rose High cheerleaders are planning to charter a bus to take them to the Roanoke Rapids game Friday night.

Miss Guice said that parents and other fans would be welcome to contact her or call the high school office if they wish to ride the bus to the game. There will be room for about 26 additional persons.

The departure time is not definite yet. However, they will probably leave between 5 and 5:30 p.m. from the high school.

Begin Another Red Cross Course Soon

Beginning Nov. 20, Miss Betty Eggleston, instructor-trainer in "Care of the Sick and Injured" for National Headquarters, American Red Cross, will conduct courses in the classroom at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Two classes for instructors in the course will be taught, one during the morning and one in the evenings. The local chapter of the American Red Cross is in need of instructors for this course, which is being taught here by the Red Cross in cooperation with the Civil Defense preparedness program.

To be eligible to become an instructor for the course, "Care of the Sick and Injured," a person should satisfy one of the following qualifications: registered nurse; teacher in a school system or in a Home Demonstration Club system; a college degree; or have special abilities and skills for teaching.

Those interested in the instructors' course may call the local chapter of the American Red Cross at PL 2-4222. Mrs. Walter Taylor

Mrs. Johnson Returns Book; Six Years Late

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has returned a library book she borrowed in 1955.

The book, "Elizabeth the Queen," by Marion Crawford, turned up when the vice president's wife was unpacking at the new Johnson home in Washington. It was marked due Jan. 3, 1955, at the Austin High School library.

Mrs. Johnson mailed the book to the school with a note.

"In moving I've found all sorts of things thought long lost," she wrote, "and in the case of the enclosed long overdue book, something I don't know how I came to have."

"Thank goodness all book borrowers aren't such slow readers."

Escort Russians To Annual Rites

BERLIN (AP)—British military police escorted some 200 Russians into West Berlin today to lay three huge wreaths at the Soviet war memorial near the Brandenburg Gate.

The 15-minute ceremony in the British sector was part of Soviet celebrations of the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Milk Drought In New York City Is Finally Ended

NEW YORK (AP)—A two-week milk drought in the city and Long Island ended on this election day with an agreement to submit to arbitration the last remaining issue in a Teamsters Union strike. The issue involves overtime pay.

An industry spokesman said home deliveries, beginning in some sections of the city at the breakfast hour, would widen to other sections later in the day.

Before the strike began Oct. 24, 6.5 million quarts were consumed each day in the city and another 1.5 million in the Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk.

The timing of the arbitration announcement—just 6½ hours before the polls opened—placed the strike smack in the middle of the city's heated mayoral battle.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Democrat seeking a third term, made the announcement on a paid political telecast. He had proposed arbitration.

State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, Republican providing the chief opposition to Wagner in today's balloting, said Wagner failed to mention a possible consumer price increase of from one to three cents a quart.

Wagner said the price increase would be no more than "half-a-cent on the average or a little over half-a-cent."

The chief negotiator for the milk industry said the increase would "approach" two cents a quart for home deliveries, but less in stores.

The greater increase for home deliveries apparently would result from negotiations on a question of overtime pay—a prime stumbling block throughout the talks and the issue which goes to arbitration.

A spokesman for one union local said, however, that it would not agree to whatever settlement was reached without membership ratification. This would include the "money issues"—which Wagner said negotiators had agreed upon.

Terms of the money agreements were not disclosed.

Quartet-Singers Help Glee Club

The Pitt County chapter of an organization for the encouragement of singing has handed some real encouragement to the East Carolina College Men's Glee Club.

Pitt's chapter of SPEBSQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) recently handed the campus men's singing organization a check to help defray its travel expenses in making trips for singing appearances.

Norwin Pierce, president-elect of the organization, presented the check to Charles Stevens, choral director for the Men's Glee Club. Stevens is also the county SPEBSQSA chapter's choral director.

The campus group, according to Stevens, serves a similar function for ECC men students as the SPEBSQSA chapter for Pitt County men who enjoy singing. Stevens is directing the campus group for the second consecutive year and says the Glee Club has sung for civic clubs and other organizations in Greenville, Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina.

The SPEBSQSA chapter meets weekly in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville. Its membership is open to all Pitt County men interested in singing. Stevens leads the members in harmonizing-barber shop style—at each meet-

Primary purposes of the organization, according to Pierce, are "to sing, experience fellowship and entertain other people."

From the SPEBSQSA chapter several quartets have grown. Probably the most notable of these is a group called the "Dixiecrats" headed by Frank Hill of Greenville, a former chapter president.

Officers of the chapter, in addition to Pierce, include Rev. John Broom of Farmville, first vice president; John Zeb of Greenville, second vice president; Russell Rogerson of Greenville, secretary; Charles O'H. Little of Greenville, treasurer; and Frank Hill, member of the board.

ECC Will Be Testing Center For Teachers

East Carolina College has been designated as a testing center for the 1962 nationwide administration of the National Teacher Examinations next February, E. M. Nicholson, Director of Testing, announced today.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations are eligible to take the tests. The examinations are prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

The designation of East Carolina College as a testing center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in Eastern North Carolina an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests in the nationwide administrations, Mr. Nicholson said.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Nonverbal Reasoning. In addition, each candidate may take one or two of the thirteen Optional Examinations which are designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter in the fields in which he may be assigned to teach.

Represents Pitt Clubs During UN Study Tour

Representing Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs on the United Nations Study Tour this week is Mrs. Ella Pate, who is president of the Simpson Home Demonstration Club.

She left Monday for the week's tour, which ends Saturday.

Delegates on the study tour have the responsibility of bringing back information to their communities and clubs in order to promote a better understanding of the United Nations. They will tour the United Nations and will hear addresses by noted persons.

Adlai Stevenson has been invited to address the group and there was a good chance that he will do so. Dr. Clark M. Eichel-

THE GREEN STONE

A suspense thriller by SUZANNE BLANC

CHAPTER 9

Police Inspector Menendes nodded casually from Luis Pérez toward one of the scarred, empty chairs.

Sergeant Roberto remained standing at rigid attention near the door as if he were guarding it. There was a long silence, then the inspector folded his hands and asked:

"You were at the Indian village this morning?"

Luis' body tensed. Elaborately he lit a cigarette. "Yes, with some tourists."

"Did you see or hear anything unusual?"

"No, nothing except the police."

"What about the police?"

"They came just as we were leaving. All the Indians ran."

The inspector glared at the sergeant with hard, meaningful eyes, then turned back politely to Luis. "May I see your identification card, please?"

Luis took the white card out of his wallet and handed it to the inspector, who examined it and then started tapping it softly on the desk.

"In order to deal with tourists as a representative of the Mexican government," he said, "a guide must be above reproach. You will not object, therefore, if Sergeant Roberto searches you."

Luis implied that refusal would mean the loss of his license, so obvious that Luis dared not protest. It was comforting to know that the jewel was no longer in his pocket, and he congratulated himself on his cleverness in passing it to the turista.

"Of course, Inspector, if it will help in any way."

Sergeant Roberto was thorough. When he found the remaining bags of stones, he emptied them eagerly.

"Just some trinkets I sell to the tourists," Luis explained.

Throughout the proceedings the inspector made no comment. He looked over Luis' belongings, slipped the license into the wallet and handed it back.

"I'm sorry we found this necessary," he said. "You must understand that we are faced with a serious problem. A very valuable emerald ring was stolen from some tourists. The estimated value of the ring is about twelve thousand dollars, one hundred forty-four thousand pesos."

Luis visibly started. His mouth was dry. "Why, that's a fortune!"

The inspector nodded. "A lot of money. We have reason to believe one of the Indians from that village took it." He watched Luis steadily. "There is a reward offered by the insurance company, half the price of the ring."

Luis sensed a trap. For the barest fraction of a second he considered telling the inspector about the jewel and collecting the reward.

But everyone knew that only police collect rewards, and anyone who protested was beaten, charged with a crime and thrown in jail.

The instant passed and Luis said nothing.

The inspector continued. "The tourists were killed at the bend just below the village."

Luis shrugged. "They drive too fast all of them."

The inspector lowered his voice confidentially. "It is not generally known, and you will understand how bad it would be for the tourist business, but the travelers were not killed accidentally, they were shot."

The pause that followed was a dramatic one. The inspector continued: "The ring is our only clue to the identity of the murderer."

Now Luis saw the jaws of the trap. His nebulous fear of the police became concrete. He thought of how close he had come to telling the inspector about the jewel.

If he had been that foolish, he would not only have been cheated out of the reward, but connected in some way with the murder. The police had brutal ways of solving a case.

Perhaps they planned to hold him, to torture him. No matter what happened he could no longer afford to tell them about the stone.

Inspector Menendes sighed. "Well, we're sorry we bothered you. We can't overlook any possibilities. You will find that we also took the liberty of searching your room. Desperate cases, desperate measures. I'm sure you understand."

The inspector stood up. "Sergeant Roberto will show you out. If you think of anything, anything at all that might have a bearing, come to see us."

"I can find my own way, thank you," Luis said as the sergeant opened the door.

As he walked down the corridor quickly, eager to be away, he felt as if the mind of the inspector were still following him—a strange Indian with eyes that seemed to probe his inner thoughts and an educated voice that contrasted eerily with his ungainly appearance.

Solely outside in the street, the inspector's aura evaporated and Luis' confidence returned. Surely if the police suspected him, they would not have let him go.

He thought of the jewel, the immense fortune it represented.

He weighed the risks and wondered whether he could recover it.

The desire for the emerald would not leave him.

wondering what he should do. It had grown dark outside and the restaurant, now brightly lighted had filled with diners.

A tall, slender woman sat down at the table in front of him. In her thick, dark hair she was wearing an attractive comb, and the sparkling ornament suggested a solution to Luis' uncertainties. He would buy a comb for Carmelita and take it to the Villa Serena.

Even though he had not visited her for several days, even if she had mentioned their quarrel to the gatekeeper, the gift would make him welcome. Once he was on the grounds, he would find a way to recover the stone.

Pleasantly he thought of the awesome image of the inspector, then scornfully dismissed it. The man was, after all, just an Indian and could see only what lay on the surface.

He could not know, as Luis did, that the jewel was in the possession of a tourist staying at the villa or that Luis was going after it.

Kennedy Meets Press Wednesday

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Kennedy will hold a news conference in Washington Wednesday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, who made the announcement Sunday, said there will be no live radio or television coverage of the conference.

At Turin, in the spring of 1861, Victor Emmanuel I was proclaimed king of the first united Italian nation since the collapse of Rome. Five months earlier Emmanuel and Garibaldi had met at Teano near Naples and agreed to join their conquests.

VISIT FROM THE SISTERS OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)—Mary Bartlett, a coed at the University of Kentucky, brought some friends home for the weekend recently—86 friends. All were members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which Mary is president. The girls brought sleeping bags and mattresses and bunked in the five bedrooms of the T. J. Bartlett home.

Prof Firmly Declares He Is No Scholar; Uses Unorthodox

By PAUL VALENTINE
Columbia Record Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
COLUMBIA (AP)—"I am not a scholar," violently asserts Dr. Havilah Babcock, University of South Carolina English professor and author of magazine articles and books.
"I don't really know exactly what I am," he apologizes, "but I'm not a scholar."
As a footnote, he adds, "Maybe I'm just a human being."
And Dr. Babcock, the unscrupulously Ph.D. carrier, this attitude into the classroom where he conducts his highly popular course in "vocabulary building."
He insists, "I'm completely spontaneous. I depend on the unexpected and the unorthodox."
"I could probably never pass a teaching exam, and if I did, I wouldn't teach anymore."
Dr. Babcock's informal and unorthodox manner in the classroom spreads like a prairie fire to the students, and he finds them as productive and cooperative as they would be under the traditional and more rigid rules of teaching.
To begin with, he says, when the students enter class, "I want them to feel they've stepped off the campus" and into a private, informal world of just plain general discussion.
One rule, however, is that he doesn't allow his students to take notes.
"A notebook," he explains, "too easily becomes a substitute for their brains."

One other standing rule, he continues, is that the class always votes to have a quiz. If the students aren't feeling quiz-minded, they can vote against it. But says Dr. Babcock, he usually finds his students ready to vote a willing "aye."
Of course, there are times when the students will slack off and not attend to their work, he says.
"I don't threaten to kill them when this happens," he says. "I just threaten to quit teaching."
He will bluntly tell them: "I don't have to teach this damned class if you don't want to work." Or, in a less vituperative moment: "If you don't want to work, we can all simultaneously take a nap."
He says the technique usually snaps the students back to academic reality in a hurry.
English 129, which Dr. Babcock has been nurturing at the university for nearly 30 years, is primarily a vocabulary builder, but also strays into semantics and some elementary phases of philosophy.
The basic text for the course is Dr. Babcock's own book, "I Want a Word," a brief summary of word usages, definitions, idioms and confusions.
Dr. Babcock contends that an adequate vocabulary is the only necessity in communication.
Grammar, spelling, pronunciation and other non-essentials are mere trimming.
Thus, one could easily say: "I ain't no sense, in phoolin' round with this here fancy language talk"—and still be understood.
The message is in the words, regardless of the grammatical and orthographical atrocities committed on them.
Dr. Babcock's author of "Education of Pretty Boy," "My Health is Better in November," and other books relating to hunting and dogs, has this piece of terse advice for hopeful writers:
"A writer's got to have something to say, or say it well."
In the classroom, Dr. Babcock encourages free association and general discussion in the hope that the student actually will have something to say.
"We have perfect candor," he proudly asserts, "and no hypocrisy"—or almost none.
Because, Dr. Babcock concludes, "we may all be made in the image of God—but none of us is God."

By Rights, Actor Leon Ames Should Hate Kids

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—By all rights, Leon Ames should hate children. After all, hasn't he spent a large part of his professional career playing papa to a succession of kid actors? He's now playing TV's "Father of the Bride," his second series as a famous father?

Yes to both questions. So I asked him pointblank: "Do you hate children?"
"No," he replied thoughtfully. "I don't hate children. How could I? I've got a son and daughter of my own. As for child actors, I've worked with some good ones, also some that were not so good. I don't hate them. I just hate their mothers."
Ames gave an eloquent shudder as he contemplated the stage mother. He has special memories of the brood he worked with in "Life With Father," his previous series outing in which he starred for two and a half years.
"But my new family is okay," he reported. "Myrna Fahey, who plays my daughter, is a bright girl. Ricky Sorenson is a nice boy; he's 14, so he's old enough not to be any trouble."
Ames, who leads a double life as actor and Studio City Ford dealer, is making "Father of the Bride" at MGM Studios. It's like old times for him, because he was under contract there from 1943 to 1950.

Ships Sail From Stricken City

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Four United States Navy ships have left British Honduras where they assisted residents of areas ravaged by Hurricane Hattie.
Atlantic Fleet Headquarters reported the aircraft carrier Antietam sailed Monday for Pensacola, Fla., her home port. The destroyers Bristol and Corry and the fleet oiler Nespelen sailed Sunday for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to resume operational training in the Caribbean.
Six U. S. Marine Corps helicopters and six medical officers on the Antietam remained in British Honduras to assist local officials in storm relief work.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours! New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription. Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

Blind Musician Marches In Band; Bells Guide Her

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The girl marches briskly with the band down the football field, guided by two bells and the ringing courage of her heart.
The blazing floodlights never bring squints to Leah Russell's blue eyes; the floodlights are black to her.
"I have only one terrible fear," said Leah, 16, blind since birth. "I'm scared that sometime I may not hear the sound of the bell-players and I'll go marching off by myself—alone, in the wrong direction. I would be so ashamed."
Almost three years ago Leah began studying the piccolo, painstakingly putting the music into Braille. Last year her Southwest Miami High band director, Marvin Mockabee, welcomed her into his 64-member unit.
"As a sitting member only," said Mockabee, "she practiced with us, played in concerts, but I was afraid to try her out as a marcher."
But Leah felt lonely sitting out the football game marches and finally pleaded to be taught to march. It was trying and often frightening for Leah.
"But her patience and determination almost brought tears to our eyes," Mockabee said.

The "left flank" and "right flank" movements gave Leah trouble. Then Mockabee hit upon the bell-player guides.
As the band struts down the field two husky bell-players pound their big shiny instruments with Leah marching between them.
With the radar-like hearing of the blind, Leah maintains a straight line of march—the sound of the bells measuring distance for her.
"When the bells stop momentarily, you can see her hesitate," said the band director. "But then the boys whisper, 'Leah, we're coming to the left flank. Or a right flank. Get ready.'"
Working alone in her world of darkness, Leah earns a near straight-A average. She does her homework in braille.
Someday, she said, "I will become a teacher and perhaps help other boys and girls to march in the dark."

WATCH FOR THE 88

Coming November 16 An all-new Ford... right size... right price... right between Galaxie and Falcon

Some cars have new names... this name will have a new car! The name is familiar—the Ford Fairlane 500. The car itself is totally new...so new you'll see nothing else like it this year. It is one of Ford's milestone designs—and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Wagon), the first four-passenger luxury car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon). Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before. Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It nuzzes a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates. Twice-a-year maintenance Service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't have to touch the engine coolant-antifreeze for two years—or 30,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves. All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader The hand that honed the Thunderbird—and sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honors—turned to a new problem here, the world's first economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As lively as you'd like...thrifter than you'd expect a V-8 to be...it's a natural powerplant for America's first eat-your-cake-and-have-it-car. For those who want even greater thrif, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a smaller car. In a car this size it's a downright delight. Preview America's newest car now As part of Preview Run U.S.A., new Fairlane 500's are riding the nation's highways and main streets right now. Watch for them. See what thousands have already seen—and raved about. Take a turn at the wheel—and perhaps do a little raving yourself. We think you'll agree: this all-new Ford is just right for just about everybody. No matter how many new cars you've looked at, you haven't seen anything like this one. It will be at your Ford Dealer's next week. If you miss it now, be sure to see it then. JUST RIGHT FOR JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY! FORD FAIRLANE 500 ONLY THE NAME'S THE SAME! SEE AMERICA'S NEWEST CAR AT YOUR FORD DEALER'S ON NOVEMBER 16

Former Soviet President Is Denied 'Taking Salute'

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—Former President Klement Y. Voroshilov was rebuffed today when he tried to force himself onto the Lenin mausoleum reviewing stand for the parade celebrating the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The 80-year-old marshal, who has been among those taking the salute from atop the tomb every year since the parades began, was denounced at the recent 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist party as a Stalinist. He apologized for his sins and Premier Khrushchev said he forgave him. But forgiveness did not get him his former place of honor overlooking Red Square.

Dressed in a black overcoat and a black astrakhan hat, Voroshilov moved slowly through the square just before the parade began. An officer in the elaborate blue and gold uniform of the Moscow garison barred his way near the entrance to the tomb. The marshal argued and gesticulated broadly. The officer just kept shrugging his shoulders.

Eventually the old marshal, a former army commander, was allowed to enter the tomb. There he argued again with men in civilian clothes.

After a few minutes he was escorted out by two men in dark blue overcoats and green plush hats, the usual uniform of the secret police.

Voroshilov was taken to a spot near the tomb where a middle-aged woman in a white uniform was selling ice cream. One of the green-hatted men stayed with him as he watched the parade from there.

As soon as Voroshilov was dispersed, Khrushchev and the other members of the Presidium mounted to the top of the tomb to take the salute.

Khrushchev was bare-headed. The others kept their hats on. The Soviet defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, made the keynote speech in which he boasted as usual that the Soviet Union now has weapons "powerful enough to smash any aggressor."

The military section of the parade lasted 21 minutes—normal for such parades—and included a nine-minute march past of weapons.

Only two new items were noted. One was a rocket, apparently short range and likely propelled by solid fuel, contained in a launching ramp shaped like a railroad oil tank car.

The nose of the rocket peeped out of the forward part. It appeared to be about two feet in diameter and the whole rocket plus carriage was about 45 feet long.

The other new item was an amphibious vehicle slightly larger than had been shown before on previous parades. In design it was like amphibious troop carriers everywhere, part boat, part truck.

Malinovsky also reiterated the standard Soviet policy on Berlin and Germany—that "the Soviet Union is insisting, in the interest of all peoples, on eliminating the leftovers of World War II, on signing a German peace treaty and normalizing the situation in West Berlin on this basis."

The military section of the parade lasted nine minutes. Western military attaches said they saw nothing with which they were not familiar, although the Radio Moscow announcer claimed the display included "huge new combat rockets never before seen by Muscovites."

There were only two things to which he might have been referring: a display of eight intermediate range ballistic missiles of the type Khrushchev says are permanently aimed at America's West European allies; and two intermediate-sized rockets concealed in heavy steel casings.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, also claimed the parade included new tanks capable of surmounting any obstacle on land or water and "fitted with devices which make it possible to discover the enemy in day time and night, rain, fog and snow." Presumably that means they have radar.

Among the marchers in the military parade were cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov. They walked with other students from the Aviation Academy.

After the military display came the usual march through the square by hundreds of thousands of civilians in what is called here a spontaneous demonstration by the working people of Moscow.

For some unexplained reason the crowd of onlookers in the square was smaller than usual. Only a few thousand people were crowded onto the sidewalks in front of the gun department store.

Coroner Rules Death Is Suicide
Pitt County Coroner Withers has ruled the death of an Ayden man, Jamie E. Lang, as a suicide.

Lang, 51, died of a blast from a double-barrel shotgun about 4:30 p.m. Friday. He was the owner of the Ayden Tractor and Equipment Company and is survived by a wife and son.

Report Total Of 122 Pitt Births
The Pitt County Health Department's section on vital statistics reported today a total of 122 births during the month of October, while 56 deaths were recorded.

Included were five deaths resulting from cancer, two white and three Negro; two deaths resulting from whooping cough, both Negro; two deaths under one year; and seven deaths under one month.

Illegitimate births totaled 14, one white and 13 Negro, according to the statistics.

Ecuador Military Revolt Beaten Down By Loyalists

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A military uprising by an engineer regiment objecting to the arrest of leftist Vice President Carlos Rosemena was beaten down by loyal troops today in a seven-hour battle in the southern part of Quito.

The regiment rebelled and left its barracks early in the morning and took up positions on the southern flank of the capital. Its officers said they were supporting Rosemena who was being held with nine congressmen.

There were no immediate reports of the number of casualties in the military action.

Arosemena, who appears to have backing of a majority in Congress, was arrested around midnight. Aides with him also were taken into custody and imprisoned in the federal penitentiary.

They offered no resistance when approached on the street by Gonzalo Jacome, director of national security, and informed they were under arrest.

The Chimborazo regiment of engineers rose as soon as news of the arrest spread. The soldiers marched out of their barracks in the southern part of the city with weapons ready.

Three air force planes took off from a base outside the city and flew over the city. It was not clear where they stood in the political fight between the two leaders, but they appeared to be making a reconnaissance.

Gen. Angel Zurita, the armed forces commander, issued a communique promising to maintain law and order and backing Velasco Ibarra in the president's severest test since he assumed office 14 months ago.

Officers of the rebelling engineer regiment said it was taking up positions in the city because the present government is not a legal one. They explained that in their belief the arrest of the vice president, who is legal freedom from arrest because of his office, was an unconstitutional act which outlawed the present government.

Tanks rolled up to the congressional palace and virtually sealed in legislators at odds with the president over economic policies that have led to growing unrest throughout this nation of four million on the northwest tip of South America.

Army leaders cut communications with the building and allowed no one to enter or leave. Reports filtered out that Congress had appointed a committee to seek a solution to the political crisis. Previously the bulk of the legislators had sided with Arosemena, who is also president of the Senate.

Both deny the charges. Recorder's Court Judge William R. Pope ordered them held at a preliminary hearing here Monday, and placed them under bond of $10,000 each.

The youngest, Thomas Morris Langlois, was found dead at his home near Mount Mourne Oct. 27. A physician who performed an autopsy says the child died of beatings. Iredell County Sheriff Charles Rumpie says 159 cuts and bruises were counted on the boy's body.

Langlois is a French-Canadian. He came here from the Saskatchewan Province five years ago to marry Louise Long. He works in a textile mill in Mooresville.

Bomb Planted At Mayor's Door
BASTIA, Corsica (AP)—A plastic bomb exploded late Monday night at the home of the mayor of this French island city, the first to be visited by President Charles de Gaulle on his forthcoming tour of Corsica.

The bomb was planted at the door of the mayor's downtown apartment. The mayor, Jacques Faggiarelli, senator of Corsica, was sleeping. He was not hurt but his home suffered heavy damage.

Graveside Rites Set For Ernest E. Lewis
Mr. Ernest Edward Lewis, 43, died in Beaufort County Hospital in Washington Monday night at 7:45. He was injured in an automobile accident while turning in his driveway at his home near Vanceboro, about two hours earlier.

Graveside services will be held at Palmetto Cemetery near Vanceboro Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 by the Rev. Everett J. Eaton, Pentecostal Holiness minister of Vanceboro.

Mr. Lewis, son of William G. and Dora Taylor Lewis of near Vanceboro, was a native of Pitt County but had spent most of his life in Craven County in the Palmetto Swamp community. He served in the U. S. Army in World War II and was in the South Pacific area.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hilda M. Lewis; three sons, Linwood, Allen, and Robin Lewis, all of the home; four daughters, Connie, Beatrice, Sandra, and Marilyn Lewis, all of the home; his parents; four brothers, Earl, Raymond, and Olin Lewis, all of Vanceboro, and Dah Lewis of New Bern; and a sister, Mrs. Oscar Chandler of Vanceboro.

Scattered, And Light Rains Came To County

Rain finally came to Greenville today, though as of noon it was light and widespread. With it came slightly cooler temperatures than the unseasonal highs of past days.

The noon temperature was 61 degrees, a slight drop from the usual daily low at 4 a.m. which was 62 degrees. Linwood Hudson of Greenville Utilities Plant reported.

The Tar River had dropped slightly today to three feet, Hudson said.

The weatherman had forecast cloudiness and cooler temperatures for today with possible rain. He has promised that in the next few days the community will get more general rain than today.

Firemen Respond To False Alarm

Greenville firemen responded to a false alarm yesterday at 11:45 a.m. from Box 76, fire officers reported today.

Officers said no one was found at the box, located at the intersection of Tyson and Davenport Sts. when fire units arrived, and no fire was found.

Fire officials noted a truck was sent to North Greene St. about 9:30 a.m. today when it was reported that an oil tanker might be on fire.

Firefighters who responded to the call said no fire was found.

Ayden Lions Hear Talk By Bill Whittington

AYDEN—Bill Whittington, former cabinet secretary of Lion's Club International and vice president of the Kinston Lion's Club, was guest speaker at the Ayden club on Friday night.

Speaking on "Lionism," he gave a brief resume of the state and international organization of the Lion's Club. He stated that he had been a member of the Lion's Club for eight years, during which time he has benefited from the experience and pleasure of working with and for his fellow men.

The Lion's Club is a non-profit organization composed of men who have dedicated themselves to the betterment of their communities, state and nation.

Reporting on the White Can Drive conducted here last Saturday, an D. Hatch said $53.75 was collected from contributions by citizens of Ayden. This drive is the means by which the N. C. association for the Blind helps to fill the gap between services rendered by the Lions Clubs and the State Commission for the Blind.

Members voted unanimously that funds from the treasury be withdrawn so that a total of $100 can be sent to the N. C. Association for the Blind as Ayden's contribution to help combat blindness and for the establishment of future Glaucoma clinics.

Guests for the evening were Shirley Greene of Harrisburgh, Va., Leslie Pearsall, Wyatt Nobles and Jack Alexander of Kinston.
