Disabled Veterans Benefit From Buddy Poppy Sale

On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, the annual Buddy Poppy Sale will be held in Greenville by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ralph Bailey, chairman of the sale, stated that the sale is one of the organization's most important programs of the year as the proceeds of the sale enable the group to carry on its work to aid the needy and disabled veterans and their families in this community. During the past year, food, medical supplies and rent was provided for families of needy veterans. Food and clothing for a baby, whose father was unemployed due to illness, were provided. The rent for use of a hospital bed and wheel chair for another veteran was paid. "All of these services and many others were made possible from the sale of Buddy Poppies," stated Mrs. Bailey.

In the organization's hospital program, birthday parties were sponsored at the Veterans Hospital in Fayetteville; and a contribution made to the Christmas Fund at Oteen to insure each patient's receiving of a gift. The local members attended the parties in Fayetteville. Mrs. Bailey stated that on the group's most recent visit in September that "it was heartwarming to see the smile on those veteran's faces when they were assured that they had not been forgotten." Mrs. Bailey noted that many of those men had been in the hospitals for a long time, and are still paying the price for the freedom we enjoy today. She said that many of them lost limbs, eyesight and others are helpless paraplegics.

"Many of us forget that these men are living examples of the sacrifices made for our protection," she remarked when she urged every person in our town to buy a Buddy Poppy on Nov. 11.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars maintain a home for the orphans and widows of deceased and disabled veterans at Eaton Rapids, Mich. The children live in a family type house with a housemother. Part of the money collected in the Buddy Poppy Sale goes toward the support of this home. Each child in the North Carolina cottage is remembered by the local auxiliary on his birthday, at Christmas time, and on special occasions.

Mrs. Bailey explained that the Buddy Poppy was assembled by the veterans in the hospitals throughout the nation. Each veteran is paid for making the bright little red flower of remembrance. This gives him a little income to provide personal needs as well as receiving beneficial rehabilitation therapy.

Mrs. L. E. Meeks, president of the Auxiliary and Joe Saad, commander of the local Post, join Mrs. Bailey in urging everyone to wear a Buddy Poppy on Saturday, Nov. 11. "It is our way of paying a tribute to those who fought for the cause of freedom," she concluded.

Town Is Facing Economic Loss

BERWICK, Pa. (AP)—An uneasy, nervous feeling hangs over this northeastern Pennsylvania community.

The 15,000 residents are stunned. There is disbelief. Some try to hide their doubts with a nervous laughter. The spirit of a community which just celebrated its 175th anniversary is low.

What has happened to bring this about?

American Car and Foundry Co. announced earlier this week it would close its railroad car plant here by October, 1962. The plant is the main industry here, employing 2,500 men when at peak production. The firm announced it was taking the action for economy reasons. Presently only 1,500 men are working, the others have been laid off.

"It's the greatest tragedy ever to befall the community," said the Democratic mayor-elect, Wayne Schuyler, today. "The reaction? Everyone is stunned."

"There had been talk off and on for 20 years that if the plant didn't make profits it would pull out but no one ever believed it would happen. It has happened."

"It might not seem like a lot in Philadelphia, or maybe some other large city. But we're a small community. It means the world to us."

It will take roughly 50 per cent of the spending power from the community at the time of closing. It will hurt merchants in Bloomsburg, Hazleton and Wilkes-Barre too because residents from the nearby areas work at the plant.

Schuyler, who will take office Jan. 1, is also an employee of the plant. He works as a buyer in the purchasing department.

"What he will do should the plant close?"

"I don't know," he said, adding with tongue-in-cheek, "It's embarrassing having the mayor walking around selling apples."

Then, to the serious side again, he said: "As long as God gave me health to make a living, I have my home here and my children in school, I'll find some way even if I have to commute."

Ports May Run Into Legal Snag

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Ports Authority, trying to improve its facilities at Morehead City and Wilmington, may run into a legal snag in its attempt to float a $13.5 million revenue bond issue.

The subject of the revenue bonds came up earlier in the week after Tar Heel citizens rejected overwhelmingly a state-wide bond issue which included $13.5 million for ports improvements.

Ports Authority Chairman John Reeves said his agency was considering financing the improvements by issuing $13.5 million of its own revenue bonds. Further discussion is expected when the authority meets here Nov. 20.

Dave Coltrane, director of the Department of Administration, Thursday questioned the legality of such a revenue bond proposal.

Technically, port revenues are pledged to the retirement of a $7.5 million bond issue floated in 1950. All but $2.9 million of that issue has been retired from the State's Sinking Fund.

The ports have contributed only $10,000 of the total.

The authority had been given permission by a previous legislature to use its revenue for capital improvements and maintenance rather than for bond retirement.

Immunizations Given By Health Dept. Increase

An increase in immunizations given by the Pitt County Health Department on Monday at clinics here and in Farmville was reported by Dr. John Futrell, health director.

A total of 756 immunizations were given. Dr. Futrell stated he believed the increase resulted from a public awareness of the importance of immunizations. The health department has attempted through the school health program and other means in recent months to make the public more aware of the importance of keeping up to date on immunizations.

The large number of immunizations given by the department on Monday, as well as those being given by private physicians, has led health officials to believe they are making progress.

"We are continuing to urge those who are able to go to their own physicians, and others to consult the health department" about keeping up to date on immunizations, Dr. Futrell said. A special target of the department has been tetanus protection, as well as other immunizations, and checkups for tuberculosis and cancer.

Dr. Futrell also announced that the pharmaceutical companies have increased their output this month of the flu vaccine and urged the public to get protection against certain types of flu before the flu season begins. It is especially important that persons who have chronic diseases, tuberculosis or women who are pregnant have the flu immunization.

It takes two months for the shot to be entirely effective, Dr. Futrell stated. Prior to that time, it may be partially effective. The immunization is good for everyone if given in time, he has stated.

Tickets for the dinner are now on sale in Greenville at the register of deeds office, Dink James' office, Frank Wooten's office, at the Greenville Art Center, and may be also purchased from members of the Jaycees. Tickets should be bought and reservations made not later than Nov. 14.

Two-Year Term Eased By Judge

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A father was sentenced to a 2-year prison term Thursday for chaining his 12-year-old son to a bed, but was granted a bench parole.

Roy Dean Hall Sr., 48, pleaded guilty to a charge of child mistreatment. He and his wife were arrested June 26 after neighbors complained and officers found Roy Dean Hall Jr. chained to a bed in the family's cellar home.

Hall told officers the youth had a habit of running away and he did not want the boy to be in bed company.

Charges against his wife were dropped after Hall accepted the blame. The boy, described by Circuit Judge Tom J. Stubbs as a discipline problem, is in custody of juvenile authorities.

Taste For Early Hours Confirmed

NEW YORK (AP)—Guess what, dad? Most babies are born in the early morning hours.

This fact, well known among many fathers, was confirmed on Thursday by Prof. Jiri Malek of Charles University in Prague and Dr. Irwin H. Kaiser of the University of Utah College of Medicine.

The researchers, who based their findings on birth records in the United States and Europe dating back to 1848, reported on their study at a New York Academy conference on rhythmic functions in the living system.

If your heir made his debut at some more reasonable time, that, says Kaiser, doesn't prove a thing. His own six children all were born between breakfast and dinner.

Unwed Mother Is Given Baby

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—A 16-year-old Jewish girl, unmarried because of religious difficulties, took possession of her baby son today after a judge ruled the child did not have to stay in a welfare home.

Neither 19-year-old Yaffa Ajami nor the father of the 4-month-old child, Abdul Rahim Majdaich, a Moslem, wants to change religion and as a result they have not been able to marry. There is no civil marriage in Israel.

The case stirred wide interest in Israel. Several weeks ago Yaffa abducted the baby from the welfare home, but it was taken away from her again.

Under the judge's ruling neither parent may take the child from the Tel Aviv area for the next 6 months.

Democrats Reveal No Weakening

Republican hopes for a clear indication that the past year may have brought marked changes in voter attitudes toward the two major political parties were dashed in the outcome of elections Tuesday in New York and New Jersey.

The contests for the governor's office in New Jersey and for the Mayor's office in New York City were the first major tests of party strength since President Kennedy took office in January. In both cases Republicans had asserted that the outcome would indicate the feeling of the people toward the two national parties and would herald the outcome of the 1962 congressional elections.

In New Jersey a little-known state judge won by a narrow victory over James P. Mitchell who served as Secretary of Labor in the Eisenhower cabinet and gained a national reputation. In New York City Democratic Mayor Robert Wagner defeated the GOP candidate Louis Lefkowitz and an independent democrat despite the fact that Lefkowitz had the forceful backing of Gov. Rockefeller.

The outcome of these two elections indicates that the Democrats have lost little, if any, strength in these two important strongholds. If the outcome of the two elections is a barometer for next year's congressional contests, the Democrats should have little trouble holding their present majority, and may well expect to gain seats in congress.

Republicans, on the other hand, who had been asserting that the Democratic party has lost favor since the Kennedy administration has taken power, obviously will have to re-evaluate the national picture in the light of the New York and New Jersey contests. The results may also afford members of congress an occasion to evaluate their own positions with respect to the Kennedy program in Washington between now and the time congress reconvenes in January. President Kennedy put his prestige behind the gubernatorial race in New Jersey and his hand was strengthened by the outcome.

What the Republicans had declared was to be an important election day for them backfired, and instead became an important day for the Democratic party not only in those two states, but on the national level as well.

Pitt's Vote Reflected Awareness Of Needs

It has not been uncommon in the past for Pitt County to find itself in the "losing" column after a state-wide bond election were tabulated.

Pitt was counted among the 18 of the 100 counties of the state which gave approval to as many as eight of the 10 separate proposals except those for additional buildings in the capital area. Pitt was in this latter group.

As the home of East Carolina College, the third largest state-supported educational institution in the state, it is not surprising that Pitt was among the 28 counties which voted in favor of the $31 million for educational institutions. In this respect, however, it differed from Wake County, home of N. C. State College, and Guilford County, home of the Woman's College of the Greater University which voted against the bond issue for colleges.

And although Pitt County voted in favor of eight of the 10 bond proposals, there was a wide difference of voter opinion as reflected in returns from the county's 25 precincts. Particularly is this true in the college bond election.

In the city of Greenville, the college bonds were approved by a margin of almost 5 to 1 with 1,247 votes for the issue and only 253 against. Outside Greenville, however, only five of the county's other 17 precincts voted in favor of the educational bonds, and those were by margins ranging from 26 down to four votes. Margins against the educational bond issue were as much as two to one or more in some of the precincts in Pitt.

Pitt County's vote, in our opinion, reflected a greater awareness of the pressing needs for capital improvements than was the case in most counties of the state. It likewise reflected a greater confidence in the fiscal policies of the state and in the state's future ability to push forward to higher ground than was the case on the state-wide basis.

Operating In A Very Low Key

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Undramatic, unsensational and, very often, uncolorful. Those are the three most consistent characteristics of President Kennedy's performance in 18 news conferences.

In other words, he operates in a low key, very often understating rather than overstating.

President Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower sometimes burst into anger, sometimes rocked the house with laughter. Kennedy doesn't get angry and his humor is generally sly or subtle.

Is this deliberate policy — a thought-out technique — or is it just Kennedy? It's so consistent it's probably just Kennedy himself.

He gave an early insight into this — although it wasn't realized at the time — at his very first presidential news conference, six days after becoming chief executive last January.

He started it by saying he had several announcements. The first was a statement about the resumption of nuclear test ban talks with the Russians at Geneva. Then he said this country would step up its famine relief to the Congo.

He reserved for last the announcement — and it made headlines later — that the Russians had released two American fliers whose RB47 bomber had been shot down by the Russians six months before.

Wednesday he had a chance to make some political hay, with broad swipes at the Republicans, when asked for comment on some Democratic victories in Tuesday's elections. He played this low-key, too, but not minimizing their importance.

He has done the same in the most critical foreign problems when, with very few exceptions, he has been nonbelligerent even though his opposite number, Premier Khrushchev, was tearing up the yard with threats and thunderings.

All this raises two questions: 1. What will be the long-range effect on the American people's attitude to a President who plays it cool and doesn't make their pulse beat faster once in a while except for some of the literary touches he puts into his speeches? 2. What will be the effect on

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BEWARE THAT CHIP Relax! Relax! Brother! Relax!

We hear this admonition a great deal today and there is plenty of wisdom in it. When we are tense, our mental energy begins to flow into channels which can easily destroy the power of good judgement. The tense person easily becomes angry. The tense person is unable to arrive at well considered judgement. Above all, the tense person is inclined to be querulous and ill-tempered.

Someone has said that we can never relax with a chip on our shoulder. To relax means exactly what the word indicates — to loosen all tensions, become approachable so that reasonable people and reasonable ideas can gain a hearing before our minds. Great art depends upon muscular relaxation. The athlete knows just what muscles to flex and what muscles to relax. The pianist has a relaxed forearm and wrist else he could not perform satisfactorily.

It is hard to tell parents to relax when teenagers — probably of every generation but particularly of this one — can think up as many things as they do to destroy adult peace and mind and arouse anxiety. But tension words do little — and probably always have done little — in the settlement of problems between parents and children.

If you find it hard to relax, just examine one of your shoulders or the other. You may find a chip thereon.

Money Is Losing Respect

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you been noticing how feeble your money is lately?

It doesn't go so far. Money is like people. As it grows older, it doesn't seem able to do as much as it did when younger. And therefore it doesn't command the same respect from those around it.

The dollar bill is showing its age. It has lost a lot of cents. As long ago as the Truman administration the 100-cent dollar had declined to 54 cents.

Today the portrait of George Washington would have to undergo a real face-lifting job to get the dollar back up even to that level.

The erosion of money continues in small almost unnoticed ways and goes on, it seems, no matter what we do or who runs the government.

Every now and then something happens, however, to call it dramatically to our personal attention.

A few weeks ago, for example, I handed the bootblack in our office a quarter for a shoeshine, as I have for many years. He shook his head.

"It's 30 cents," he said. "Thirty cents for a shoeshine?" I asked, a bit dazed.

"Why not?" he replied. "The price of everything else has gone up. I gotta raise my price, too."

A few days ago I asked him if his 30-cent scale had cost him many customers.

"No," he said. "Why should it? Business is as good as ever. What's an extra nickel to most people?"

Well, to one man at least that extra nickel was a disillusioning experience in basic economics. I can distinctly remember when, if you paid 15 cents for a shoeshine, it gave you the feeling you were a real sport and something of a patron of the fine arts. Now at 30 cents it was barely meeting the going rate.

Even as long ago as the World War I era a vice president of the United States could murmur nostalgically: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

But at that time you could still get a pack of cigarettes for six cents, a five-cent glass of beer, and buy a good serviceable topcoat for less than a medium-priced pair of shoes cost now.

Remember the $2 hotel room, the two-bit haircut, the nickel cup of coffee, the 15-cent shave, the penny postcard, the two-cent letter, the nickel hot dog, and the 15-cent ham and cheese sandwich?

All these landmarks of lower-priced living stand out in the memory of the average middle-aged, middle-class American. He dreams of them sometime as he drives to work in a car that cost him four times as much as the car he drove in his youth.

The jingle of coins in his pocket used to be a satisfying sound. Now a jingle doesn't mean so much. There has to be the crisp crinkling sound of folding currency.

It makes a man a bit sad to realize that both he and money have grown older, and neither will ever quite be again what they used to be—for time invisible wears down the value and promise of each.

When the Supreme Court ruled earlier this year that the court reform and other constitutional questions to be placed before the electorate could not be acted on until 1962, it meant the bond vote would bear the full brunt of any reaction to tax and other issues aroused in the 1961 Legislature.

It is obvious to us that North Carolinians are just as progressive as they were prior to the bond referendum. Periods of reaction usually follow a positive step forward. However, the people felt that this should be a wait-and-see period. If the sales tax revenues do not measure up to all the needs, then further consideration to the issues can be given. The people said in so many words: "Yes, we're for progress, but let's not issue a blank check yet."

The best thing about it is the fact that there was a good vote and the result was decisive. It should be helpful as the leaders and the people resume their joint task of moving North Carolina forward.

"Certainly the Salk vaccine was a tremendous medical advance which, in addition to sparing many lives, will save consumers dollars that would have gone for the treatment of polio."

Ruggles is on sure ground when he says that Salk vaccine represents more for the medical dollar and, hence, is deflationary. However, if the cost of vaccine reduces the average family's expenditure for polio treatment, that fact should have been reflected in the consumer price index. If people were paying less in that area, that factor in the index should have been down, not up.

The Yale professor did not bring in the disclosures of the Kefauver committee which indicated that the prices of many wonder drugs were inflated by the manufacturers.

"MORE FOR AUTO DOLLAR" He also quoted the testimony of Prof. Zvi Griliches (cq) of the University of Chicago who told a Congressional hearing that the actual value of autos increased so much from 1954 to 1960 that, although the list prices rose 11 per cent, buyers were actually getting as much as 27 per cent more for their money. (While Ruggles did not point this

Who Is A Real Liberal?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I am not a book-reviewer and shall probably get into some violent argument over "An Answer To Goldwater," which should be reviewed by someone who has nothing else to do. However, the publisher sent me this book without any request on my part and I assume that an unfavorable review sells as many books as a favorable one. In fact, an author once wrote to me asking that I attack his book as he thought that that would bring it circulation. I declined to perpetrate such an outrage.

"An Answer To Goldwater" was written by Millard L. Howell, Professor of American History, Evening College, Drexel Institute of Technology. Professor Howell devotes a page to "The Meaning of Liberalism" and that page is an argument, no Liberal agreement with another, each having a definition of his own for the truth of which he will fight—a battle of verbal violence.

Professor Howell's definition is:

"Real American Liberalism is the incorporation of man's innate rights and duties in contractual form in order to procure the best in life for the American people. This recognizes the democratic principle of majority rule with due recognition and respect for the rights of the minority. A real Liberal knows that a self-regulatory economy can produce nothing of permanent value. The opposite of the American-liberal way of life is the reactionary form of government, represented by the Conservatives. The results of reactionary government redound to the benefit of a small group of extremely wealthy people who rebel at government which represents all of the people rather than this small selfish group of the sons of Midas. A Liberal adheres to our Constitution and the Bill of Rights. A Liberal-American's creed is equality of opportunity. Our aim is to preserve our capitalistic system and to oppose any Communist or reactionary attempt to destroy it."

The first sentence puzzles me as a definition. For instance, what are man's innate rights? Let us say that we are referring to a cannibal—what are his innate rights? Or is this definition limited to an American? Surely an Uzbek has no innate rights which Soviet Russia recognizes as such. The Declaration of Independence recognizes that man possesses unalienable rights which come to him from Nature's God and Nature's Law. But are those rights innate as, for example, the genes are innate?

Let us go a step further. The professor himself finds his way to Rousseau and discovers "man's innate rights and duties in contractual form."

But where does government exist by contract? Government is the imposition of a rule of life and is either by force or accepted by consent. The American theory is government by choice which is unrelated to majority rule. In fact, throughout American history, power has been expressed by a vocal and powerful minority, the majority never asserting itself. The Constitution at no place delegates rights to the majority but rather protects the individual from the tyranny of the majority. The Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, in particular defend the rights of one human being from the possibility of control and domination by a majority. Majority rule is authorized nowhere in the Constitution. In fact, provision is made for the choice of the President by the Electoral College, for the choice of Senators by state legislatures, by the appointment of the Federal Judiciary for life—to avoid majority rule.

A statement that the opposite of the American liberal way of life is the reactionary form of government seems to me nonsense. The adjective, reactionary, is not applicable. Dozens of forms of government exist which are not in any way replicas of the "American-liberal way of life," and they serve their people advantageously. It all depends upon local conditions and

Other Editors Saying Here's What We Heard

(Kinston Free Press)

North Carolinians, some 300,000 strong, went to the polls on Tuesday and rejected an array of 10 bond issues for state projects totaling $61,665,000. There will be many post-mortems, citing reasons why the people acted the way they did. Here is one evaluation.

In the face of the three per cent across-the-board sales tax for improved education which became effective last July, the majority of the people wanted to wait and see if the borrowing of $61,665,000 more in capital improvement funds would be necessary.

Governor Sanford has assumed blame for the defeat of the issues, but can the Legislature escape its share also? Did it not reject other means of securing necessary revenues for schools and resort to the food tax at the suggestion of the Governor?

Cigarettes, tobacco, sodas and other items escaped serious consideration for the additional revenue programs.

The multiplicity of the issues created confusion. Two or three major items, such as the need for facilities at the colleges, the port terminal expansions and the needs of the mental hospitals could have been spelled out in detail without addition of the many other issues. Most North Carolinians could not understand why such items as tobacco research stations and additional rest rooms for tourist facilities at Mount Mitchell, when they were asked to pass on only a "fraction" of the multi-million dollar expenditure for a modern state house at Capitol Square in Raleigh.

There was lack of unanimity within the Democratic Party itself, hence some did not vote for the bonds, even though they supported the Governor's basic education program.

The Republican Party did not go all out for the bonds, although some of its leaders favored certain issues. The outcome of the bond referendum is virtually certain to have repercussions in the election of legislators next Spring.

When the Supreme Court ruled earlier this year that the court reform and other constitutional questions to be placed before the electorate could not be acted on until 1962, it meant the bond vote would bear the full brunt of any reaction to tax and other issues aroused in the 1961 Legislature.

It is obvious to us that North Carolinians are just as progressive as they were prior to the bond referendum. Periods of reaction usually follow a positive step forward. ## Less Inflation Than We Think?

By ELMER ROESSNER

The theory that we have less inflation than we think is advanced by Richard Ruggles, distinguished Yale professor, in the current issue of "Challenge" magazine, published by New York University.

In fact, under Professor Ruggles' theory, we may actually have been having deflation, at least since the Korean War.

Ruggles pointed out that the consumer price index has increased about 25 per cent since 1948. About one-third of the increase came in a single year at the beginning of the Korean affair and the rest was spread over the other 12 years, about 1 1/2 per cent a year.

And, he continued, there were many segments of the index that have not increased, consumer durables showing a decline of about 3 per cent. In other segments, he went on, the quality of items increased more than the price.

"In the case of medical care," he wrote, "the apparent 30 per cent increase in the last eight years must be qualified by considering the increase in medical knowledge, better drugs and the new preventative medicine.

"Certainly the Salk vaccine was a tremendous medical advance which, in addition to sparing many lives, will save consumers dollars that would have gone for the treatment of polio."

Ruggles is on sure ground when he says that Salk vaccine represents more for the medical dollar and, hence, is deflationary. However, if the cost of vaccine reduces the average family's expenditure for polio treatment, that fact should have been reflected in the consumer price index. If people were paying less in that area, that factor in the index should have been down, not up.

The Yale professor did not bring in the disclosures of the Kefauver committee which indicated that the prices of many wonder drugs were inflated by the manufacturers.

"MORE FOR AUTO DOLLAR" He also quoted the testimony of Prof. Zvi Griliches (cq) of the University of Chicago who told a Congressional hearing that the actual value of autos increased so much from 1954 to 1960 that, although the list prices rose 11 per cent, buyers were actually getting as much as 27 per cent more for their money. (While Ruggles did not point this out, some of this increase was in fins and frills, which were largely thrust upon buyers.)

Ruggles also pointed out that the addition of new commodities and the dropping of old ones do not affect the index, because the index was designed that way.

"The introduction of such things as television, synthetic fibers and plastic products has had no effect on the index. But the introduction of new products obviously does have an influence on consumers' standard of living," he wrote.

"One can safely suggest that, given the size of the average yearly increase in the consumer price index since 1948, quality and product improvement may well have been much greater, so that we may actually have had declining rather than rising prices."

A MILD DISSENT This ingenious theory is persuasive because it has some elements of truth in it. It is true that, in many instances, the public is getting more for its dollar because of technological and scientific advances. If $5 worth of Salk serum will prevent polio, no other serum will prevent polio, no other serum of the consumer price index matters: the consumer is getting more for one-sixth of an ounce of gold than ever before in human history. But few consumer expenditures are in that ratio.

For example: round steak was 90.3 cents a pound in 1955 and $1.05 a pound this year, and was no more tender nor tasty. Pork chops went from 79.3 to 86.8 cents a pound in the same span. Delivered fresh milk went from 23.1 to 26.2 cents a quart. Margarine went down, from 28.9 to 27.9 cents a pound (restrictions were lifted), but hydrogenated shortening rose from 34.9 to 86.8 cents a pound!

For another example: the price of homes and lots and of rent have gone up, from an index number of 117.9 in 1952 to 143.6 in mid-1961. In some instances, houses are better built and rented quarters have some refinements, such as a TV aerial. But in many cases dwellings built in 1952 are far better than they are today—and much closer to places of employment. The assessed value of the house I live in has gone from almost 50 per cent since 1952.

Prof. Ruggles has an interesting, happy theory. It's too bad there is not more substance to it.

Growth Through Stewardship ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 23:1-36; 25:14-30.

Christ condemns the scribes and Pharisees because they have not used wisely their stewardship of the Jewish people. They have striven for their own selfish ambitions instead of being leaders for God.—Matthew 23:1-36.

In the parable of the talents, He points out the rewards of good stewardship of God's gifts. When the master goes away he leaves his property in the care of his servants, giving each a number of money-pieces (talents).—Matthew 25:14-15.

When the master returns he finds that the first two servants have invested their talents and increased them for their master. He rewards them, as the Lord rewards His servants, with praise and more responsibility.—Matthew 25:16-23.

The third servant, however, was lazy and unfaithful. He buried his talent where it could not grow or do good. The master condemned him and gave his talent to one who had many.—Matthew 25:18-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—Romans 12:1.

Growth Through Stewardship

HOW WE ARE HELD ACCOUNTABLE FOR THE USE WE MAKE OF OUR GOD-GIVEN ABILITIES.

Scripture—Matthew 23:1-36; 25:14-30.

By N. SPEER JONES

THE FIRST passage assigned in today's lesson seems at first to have little to do with the subject cited. However, the scribes and Pharisees condemned by Christ may be considered prime examples of stewardship gone astray. These men, entrusted with the stewardship of the Jews, betrayed this trust by exercising selfish ambitions. Instead of growing through their trust to be true leaders of their people and more perfect subjects of God, they became "blind guides." Because their hearts and minds were not fastened on serving God, whatever humility they once had was soon eroded by the natural respect which men display toward their leaders. These scribes and Pharisees had their appetite for power and adulation whetted, and soon

In his fierce condemnation of these men, Christ repeatedly calls them "hypocrites." This word originally meant actors, those who acted out a part on stage. All of us are subject to the same pitfalls which trapped the scribes and Pharisees. Only by fastening our eyes steadfastly on God's objectives instead of on our own petty ambitions can we remain worthy stewards of the gifts He has given us. This is more clearly illustrated in the second passage in today's lesson, the famous parable of the talents. Our concept of the word "talent"—gift or ability—is traceable to this Biblical passage. Originally it meant a weight; later it came to mean a certain amount of gold or silver, a piece weighing that much. In our parable, the master gives his slaves such pieces of money, symbolizing our Lord's gifts to

GOLDEN TEXT

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service."—Romans 12:1.

we were busy concentrating—perhaps unconsciously—on those matters which would satiate their appetite. They encouraged others to call them "rabbi" (teacher) and to give them places of honor at feasts and such; they "do all their deeds to be seen by men," making great show of the phylacteries they wore. These phylacteries were small leather cases containing strips of parchment inscribed with certain verses from the Old Testament; they were strapped to the forehead and wrist, as they still are today by some orthodox Jews. The Pharisees came to place great emphasis on the letter of the law and on outward signs, neglecting "the weightier matters of the law, justice and mercy and faith"; they worried about many small gnat-like imperfections, blinded to the large camel-like evils which infested them (Matthew 23:23-24).

Also, when we tend to become proud of our abilities, we must remember that they are not really ours, but rather God's, which He entrusted to us so they might be properly employed and grow for Him. With this in mind, we can become neither jealous nor proud.

Pirates Take To Road For Tough Game With Furman

By GEORGE BRYANT
Reflector Sports Writer

Coch Jack Boone's East Carolina Pirates play another tough one this weekend as they travel to Greenville, S.C. to meet the Paladins of Furman in a non-conference game.

Going into the contest the Pirates have a 4-3 conference record and a 5-3 overall record. The opponents this week have a 3-2 conference record and a 6-2 overall record. The two losses for the Furman eleven were an early season defeat by William and Mary and a loss to the Southern Conference champions, the Citadel.

Losses Close

The three East Carolina losses this season have been close ones, by a total of eight points. They lost to Western Carolina by one point, Appalachian by two points and by a five point margin last Saturday night to Lenoir Rhyne when the Bears scored in the last minute of the game.

Coch Boone said today that his team has played very consistent ball all year. The losses have all been due to mistakes which "you always have with a club as young as ours," he said.

Now that the Pirates are definitely out of the running for Carolinas Conference honors the team and the coaches seem determined to keep fighting hard and end the two remaining games with two victories.

Three In One

When the Pirates come face-to-face with the Paladins tomorrow night they will be meeting three teams in one. This sounds strange, but it is true, according to all reports. The Furman team is three deep at every position. Coch Jack Boone said that there is really no first or second string players as they all have equal ability.

Assistant Pirate Coach Ray Pennington said that Furman Coach Bob King does not hesitate to put in an entire new line when he gets ready to substitute. The same is true with the backfield. However, Pennington added that quarterback Billy Canty and fullback Tom Campbell sometimes play the whole game. Both of these boys are ranked near the top in the national statistics along with right halfback Tony Carmignani.

Multiple Offense

The Paladins run from a multiple offense with a wide open attack, according to the Pirate coaching staff. Ends Bill Newman and Al Martin are excellent pass receivers along with Carmignani. The running game is built around Campbell. Coch Pennington said, "When they need a few yards Campbell will get it for them. He is their bread and butter man so as to speak."

Coch Boone said that he felt his squad has more speed than Furman and that the East Carolina backfield is just as deep as theirs is. "Where they have the edge on us is in the line," Boone said.

Hopes For Good Start

The veteran Pirate mentor said that he hopes his team can get off to a good start and get the lead. He said if he can hold the Paladins to two units the Pirates would have a chance of winning the game.

As far as physical shape is concerned, the Pirates are coming all right with the exception of Skipper Duke and Bill Burton. Duke was injured in the Newberry game and Burton received a dislocated elbow last week against Lenoir Rhyne.

Boone Satisfied

Coch Boone said today he is very satisfied with the way some of his freshman players have been doing. Among those mentioned were Larry Rudgill, Tom Michel, Frank Galloway and Gene Isenhour.

Others mentioned by the coach as doing outstanding jobs this season are Billy Strickland, Dan Rouse, Nick Hilgert, Clayton Pliland, Chuck Gordon, Bobby Bumgardner, Jones Lockerman, Earl Sweet and Bob Muldrow.

Pirate Backfield

In the backfield for the Bucs will be Rouse calling the signals at quarterback and Hilgert will handle the fullback position. The halfbacks will be Tommy Matthews on the right and Larry Rudgill on the left.

The backfield for the Paladins will most likely be Billy Canty at quarterback, Sammy Ploekens at left half, Tony Carmignani at right half and Tom Campbell will take care of the fullback spot.

The East Carolina squad left Greenville today at 12:30 p.m. and will arrive in Greenville, S.C. tonight about 9:30. The last practice session for the game was Thursday. The Pirates went over pass offense and defense, extra points and kickoff returns.

On July 9, 1959, Fred Hutchinson took over as manager of the Cincinnati Reds. The next day he shipped Luis Arroyo to Havana. Arroyo now is the star relief hurler for the Yankees.

Lighthorse Harry Cooper will become the golf pro at Miami's Doral Country Club which will open this winter.

Ayden In Playoffs With Camp Lejeune

AYDEN — The Coastal Conference champion Ayden Tornadoes tangle with the Waterway Conference champions from Camp Lejeune Saturday night in the first round of the single A playoffs in Kinston at 8 o'clock.

Coch Stuart Tripp's Tornadoes go into the game tomorrow night with a 10-0 season record and Coach Tam McGhee's Devilpups have a 9-0 record. This is the second year in a row that the Ayden eleven has come out on top of the Coastal Conference.

Allowed Only Five TDs

So far this season the powerful Ayden defense has allowed only five touchdowns. Four of these came on passes and pass interceptions. Seven of the Ayden victories have been shutouts. The defensive unit is led by Billy Bateman, Duene Gwynn and Hubert Jolly.

The Tornado offense has been piloted by quarterback Tommy Dunn most of the year. Coch Tripp cited Dunn as a "good thinker." The other offensive leaders are William Edwards, Rudolph Cannon and Joe Harrington. Cannon and Harrington are the halfbacks and Edwards handles the fullback spot.

Good Physical Shape

The Ayden team is in good physical shape for the game this weekend with the exception of Bud McLawhorn, the defensive safety, who will not be able to play because of an injury received in the Bath game last Friday night.

The Camp Lejeune team is led by quarterback Jim Barrett. Coch McGhee described Barrett

High School Football

The local Greenville Phantoms play their final game of the season tonight with Roanoke Rapids in a Northeastern Conference contest which is a championship game for the Rose High club. The Phants have a 5-1 conference record so far and an 8-1 overall record going into the contest. Last year the Greenville eleven finished second to Tarboro in the conference with a 9-1 record.

A win tonight by the Phantoms will make them conference champions this year. At the present time they are running sort of neck and neck with New Bern. However, a tie with New Bern would still put the Phantoms on top as they downed the Bears during the regular season. New Bern could come out on top if the Greenville team is defeated tonight and the Bears win their final game of the season.

The only Coastal Conference game in our area tonight is over in Robersonville where the Rams take on Bath for the final game of the season. The two Pitt County Coastal Conference teams finished their regular season last Friday night. Ayden won the conference championship for the second year in a row and Farmville finished second place.

Ayden goes into the single A playoffs this weekend when they face Camp Lejeune on the Kinston High School field tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Both teams have undefeated seasons and will be fighting hard to win the first leg of the tournament road.

The Pick Sheet

Last week we hit 11 out of 15 games for about a 73 per cent average. We hope to better that record this week, but there are some tough games in the offering. Our choices are as follows:

Rose High over Roanoke Rapids, Bath over Robersonville, Ayden over Camp Lejeune, Furman over East Carolina, Appalachian over Presbyterian, Catawba over Guilford, Lenoir Rhyne over Elon, and Newberry over Western Carolina. Among the Atlantic Coast Conference teams we are going to pick L. S. U. over the University of North Carolina, Clemson over South Carolina, Duke over Navy, North Carolina State over Maryland, and Wake Forest over Virginia Tech. (Virginia has an open date this week.)

Bulldogs Meet Florida State Saturday Night

The Citadel may be overjoyed by its first Southern Conference football championship in history, but that doesn't mean the Bulldogs will ignore the last two games on their schedule.

Florida State, which has split even with Southern Conference teams in two meetings this year, entertains The Citadel Saturday night, and Coach Eddie Teague for one thinks the Bulldogs will be ready.

Speaking of last week's 14-8 victory over VMI that gave the Bulldogs the league title and of quarterback Bill Whaley's assertion that his designation as conference player of the week couldn't have been accomplished without the whole team, Teague remarked:

"I agree with him wholeheartedly. . . the whole team did it. And they're ready to do it again Saturday. Knowing the boys, they won't suffer a letdown, they'll play their best — that's that it's going to take."

Of Florida State, Teague said, "Make no mistake about it, they are a top quality football team. . . in no way do we think anything but that we're stepping into a top echelon of football when we get into their league."

The game is one of two scheduled for Saturday night. Furman is host to East Carolina in the other.

Six afternoon games Saturday outside the league have Richmond at Alabama, ranked No. 2 nationally; VMI at Buffalo; Virginia Tech at Wake Forest; William and Mary at Army; Davidson entertaining Wofford; and West Virginia at home against Penn State. George Washington is idle.

Elmhurst Wins Regular Season

The Elmhurst Midget football team finished the regular season yesterday by defeating Third Street 13-0.

This leaves the Elmhurst team undefeated, untied, and unscored on for the season as they become league champions. Agnes-Fullilove was the regular season runner-up with a 4-2 record.

The city playoffs begin Tuesday afternoon on the Elm Street Park field. Elmhurst will play Wahl-Coates the first day and then on Thursday Agnes-Fullilove and Third Street will play. The winner of these two games will play for the city championship in a night game the following week at the East Carolina Stadium.

Top Teams In Danger Of Losing Lofty Standings

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas, the nation's top-ranked college football team, Minnesota, Michigan State and Georgia Tech all are watching their steps this weekend.

These are the top teams who are most in danger of losing lofty standing as the weekend schedule suddenly switches from its fever-pitch of a week ago to something closely resembling sanity.

Even tonight's schedule is interesting, though not power-packed. Texas Christian goes to the West Coast to battle Big Five leader UCLA, while Detroit, minus national offense leader Jerry Gross, plays a good Villanova team and Furman of the Southern Conference hosts East Carolina.

All eyes will be on Texas to see if the Longhorns can stand in the latest Associated Press poll. And they'll get a good test from Baylor, whose fine backs still are hobbling a bit from a rash of early-season injuries.

The Longhorns, leading the Southwest Conference with a 4-0 mark, and 7-0 overall, are the nation's offense leaders. The Longhorns' defense, ranked seventh with an average yield of 168.7, will have to cope with halfback Ronnie Bull of the Bears (3-3).

Minnesota (No. 5), off its thrilling 13-0 upset of then top-ranked Michigan State last week, now runs into Iowa, which has lost two in a row. The Gophers, tied for the Big Ten lead with third-ranked Ohio State (4-0), will have to cope with Iowa's speed and passing game, that has averaged 349 yards a game, ranking eighth in total offense. The game will be televised regionally (ABC-TV, 2:15 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.)

Michigan State, ranked sixth after its loss to the Gophers, has another toughie in upset-minded Purdue. The Boilermakers upset Iowa two weeks ago and are 2-1 in the Big Ten. The Spartans, with an offense that has averaged 331 yards a game, are 3-1, and still in the race.

Ohio State has a relatively easy task against Indiana, in another Big Ten game. The Buckeyes (No. 3), led by Bob Ferguson's charging ground attacks, are 5-1 overall, with the All-America fullback having gained 636 yards rushing so far.

Georgia Tech, one of four Southeastern schools in the top ten, has the toughest assignment. The ninth-ranked Engineers meet SEC-member Tennessee, with Tech just a step behind the leaders with a 3-1 mark.

Alabama, ranked second and leading the conference with 5-0, favored while fourth-ranked Louisiana State, which ended Mississippi's dreams a week ago, is expected to have a bit of trouble from North Carolina, co-leader in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Mississippi (No. 7), plays little Chattanooga.

Colorado, ranked eighth and first in the Big Eight, pits its 7-0 record against Utah of the Sky-line, while Missouri (No. 10), also of the Big Eight plays Oklahoma, only 1-3 so far, in a conference game.

The only important conference action is in the Ivy League where Princeton (4-0) plays Harvard (3-1), Columbia (4-1) and Dartmouth (3-1) also get together in New York.

Duke, the other co-leader in the ACC, meets Navy in the Oyster Bowl in Norfolk, Va., while Notre Dame and Pitt, Penn State-West Virginia and unbeaten Rutgers (6-0)-Delaware meet in other contests.

Jay Hebert went 50 holes without a bogey in the American Golf Classic at Akron, Ohio last summer.

PGA Opens Door To Everybody

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—The Professional Golfers' Association has opened its membership door to Negroes and to golfers from every country of the world.

Until the constitution was amended Thursday at the annual PGA convention, membership had been limited to Caucasians from North and South America. Now there are no restrictions based on race, religion or nationality.

Lou Strong of Rochester, N.Y., PGA president elected for a second two-year term, said the constitutional changes most likely would not be noticeable on the pre-tournament circuit.

He noted that three Negroes have participated in PGA-sponsored tournaments, as well as players from countries outside the Western Hemisphere. Now, however, these players will be able to join the PGA.

Strong said that the 85 delegates, in amending the constitution, demonstrated "a realization of changing conditions in the world situation" by enacting a constructive measure coinciding

UNC One Team Compared To Three Units For LSU

How does the North Carolina football team compare with Louisiana State, its foe Saturday?

"The big problem for North Carolina is that they have one good football team, and LSU has three," says Coach Marvin Bass of South Carolina, whose Gamecocks have been beaten by both teams.

LSU beat South Carolina 42-0, and the Gamecocks lost to the Tar Heels, 17-0.

"LSU will not outclass their first team," Bass says. "It's when they start substituting that you begin to see the difference."

"If one team is down, LSU can always call on one of the other two, and usually one or the other comes through," the South Carolina coach says.

The game at Chapel Hill is one of three non-conference games this week for Atlantic Coast Conference teams. In the others, Wake Forest entertains Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference and Duke plays Navy at Norfolk, Va. In conference games, Clemson plays at South Carolina, and Mary land is host to N.C. State. Virginia is idle.

Ray Farris, North Carolina's standout quarterback who rescued the Tar Heels from defeat last Saturday, says, "We respect LSU, but we do think we can beat them."

It was Farris who tossed a touchdown pass in the last minute of play, and then passed for a two-point conversion as North Carolina beat Tennessee 22-21 last Saturday.

Farris was in grade school and North Carolina had another standout performer — All American Charlie Justice — the last time the Tar Heels met LSU.

That was in 1949, and North Carolina was nationally ranked and unbeaten in four games that season. LSU was unranked and making relatively little noise in the football world, but beat North Carolina 13-7. North Carolina finished the season with a 7-3 record and lost to Rice in the Cotton Bowl, 27-13.

This year, it's North Carolina that has a so-so 4-2 record, while LSU is ranked fourth in the nation and fresh from an upset of mighty Mississippi.

ACC teams for the most part finished preparations Thursday for the games Saturday, with only limbering up drills or travel planned today.

Here's how the conference stack up:

Duke leads with a 4-1 record in ACC play, and a 4-3 record in all games. North Carolina is next with a 3-1 record in conference play, and a 4-2 record overall. Then come N.C. State and Clemson, each with 2-2 conference records and 3-4 overall mark.

South Carolina and Wake Forest each have 2-3 records in the conference and 2-5 over-all work-sheets. Maryland is 1-2 in the conference but has a 5-2 over-all mark, best in the ACC. Virginia is 1-3 and 3-4.

Russian, American Horses Are Entries

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The Soviets and Americans were at it again today over a $70,000 international prize.

The money will go to the winner of Saturday's 10th International race in which eight entries representing six nations will compete at a mile and a half on the grass.

"Zabeg will win the International," Soviet trainer Yevgeni Gontlieb stated flatly.

"The Americans will have a little to say about that," retorted wizened jockey Johnny Longden. Longden, 54, whose 5,556 race victories lead the world, will be astride T. V. Lark, one of the two U.S. entries. The other part of the formidable home team is Kelso, who has lost only four times in 20 races over a three-year span and is generally considered the best U.S. horse in training.

Carl Hanford, Kelso's trainer, smiled when informed of Gontlieb's boast. "That's what they came all the way over for," he said.

Zabeg finished third in last year's International, the best finish by a Soviet horse in three of the invitation affairs.

Zabeg was fouled in the stretch by runner-up Harmonizing of the U.S., but jockey Nikolai Nasibov failed to file his claim properly.

The second half of the Soviet punch is Irtysh, a chestnut with a reddish tint.

Zabeg has filled out considerably from his gangling appearance as a 3-year-old last year. His physical stature has impressed most onlookers.

But Kelso, who will have the superior riding talent of Eddie Arcaro, still will go off an odds-on choice. The track will post him at 4-5 to start on the board and the bettors probably will lower it to around 2-5.

Kelso was elected the best horse

Championship Boxing Match

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A world bantamweight championship boxing match is planned for San Francisco next Feb. 22 with Eder Jofre of Brazil defending against one of three challengers.

George Parnassus of Los Angeles and Lou Thomas of San Francisco announced plans for the fight Thursday.

Parnassus said Jofre's manager, Abraham Ketznelson, had agreed to a title bout. The foe would be Herman Marquez of Stockton, the California champion, Ignacio Pina or Jose Medel, both of Mexico.

The United States will be shooting for its third straight and fifth triumph in the International.

Pattern identifies engine deposits. Electrons are beamed at them. The beam is then diffracted onto film. From this picture, scientists learn composition of deposits, and how to neutralize them.

NEW TCP:

Weird electron "pictures" help Shell scientists develop improved TCP for today's Super Shell —to give your car top performance

Read how electron diffraction revealed the inner secrets of the combustion deposits in your car's engine. How new, improved TCP was developed to neutralize these deposits, prolong spark-plug life, increase mileage—and release up to 15% more power.

Here's the full story of today's Super Shell—and the nine ingredients that give your car top performance.

THE TCP in today's Super Shell does its job better than ever. It neutralizes certain effects of combustion deposits—deposits that can prevent you from ever knowing your car's top performance.

There's not a single engine with more than a few thousand miles on it that doesn't have this type of deposit in its combustion chambers. These deposits can cause trouble when you need power most. The deposits glow red-hot and set off the fuel before the spark plug has a chance to get into the act.

The experts call this pre-ignition. The explosion punches the piston on the way up. Two forces meet head-on. No wonder your power falls off.

Deposits can also cramp your car's performance by short-circuiting the spark. What happens? No firing—you get a miss.

Problem: How to add something to gasoline that neutralizes the effects of deposits. The answer: Shell Research.

A scientific detective story

Shell scientists announced the first TCP* additive eight years ago, after research had proved that it could virtually end this misfire problem once and for all. TCP was hailed as the greatest gasoline advance in thirty-one years. Now Shell has improved it.

Scientific detectives like the electron "photograph" (above) made new, improved TCP possible. They helped Shell scientists to look engine deposits right in the face. And to find how best to neutralize them.

What today's TCP can do

Tests have already proved that TCP can help you get up to 15 per cent more power, up to 17 more miles per tankful. And it can make plugs last up to twice as long.

Yet TCP is only one of nine ingredients in today's Super Shell. Read about the others. And how each helps your car deliver its top performance.

#2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—a chemical substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

#3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkylate—which took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds far better than anything else available.

NOTE: Speaking of high speeds, car engines frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7. Think of this next time you pass a car.

#4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

#5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather.

Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

NOTE: Super Shell is primed with Butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the quick-start dose.

#6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

#7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted up to eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. This frost can choke your engine dead.

#8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates the unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. No clotting—no gum problem.

#9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for our pocketbook and yours this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline. Energy that shows up as mileage.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs. That difference is top performance.

A BULLETIN FROM SHELL RESEARCH —where 1,997 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

THE GREEN STONES

A suspense thriller by SUZANNE BLANC

CHAPTER 12

Luis Perez felt the full bitterness of failure. Not to find the jewel was bad enough, but to know where it was and not to be able to get his hands on it—that was worse. For if the emerald was not in the room, it could only be in the tobacco pouch with the other stones still lying unnoticed at the bottom of the woman's handbag.

He considered remaining in the bushes until she came to bed. Perhaps if he told her he had sold her the wrong bag of stones, she would return them. No, it would never happen that way. More likely she would scream for the police.

His hopes of being rich, of having a fine house in Mexico City flickered and faded. Without the jewel there could be no house, no wife with hair that shone like spun honey. There could only be endless days of catering to tourists—and someone like Carmelita.

Later, sitting on the moonlit slope with her dark head on his lap, stroking the cool smoothness of her skin, Luis knew Carmelita would never be enough. Life offered better things to Luis Perez. The stone and the riches it would bring were rightfully his. He had bought it from the Indian, he had paid one hundred pesos for it, and he was determined to have it.

Carmelita looked up at him, her large, doe eyes velvety black. "What are you thinking of, querido?" she asked.

"Only of you, my dove," he murmured and leaned down to kiss her warm, moist lips, his eyes staring past her to the bulk of the villa, amorphous and indistinct in the darkness.

There, behind the dimly lit ribbon of walkways, one by one the bedroom lights were snapped out, leaving only the main building shining brightly into the night. There, through the large square windows of the lounge he could clearly see the little senora seated at a card table and although he could not see the pocketbook, he was sure that it was beside her.

The young policeman on the night desk was bored with his magazine. It was only seven o'clock and a long, empty evening stretched ahead. For a while he continued to leaf through the pages, but nothing captured his interest.

Twice he opened the desk drawer to look at the fat, brown envelope Inspector Menéndez had left for the commandant of police. Finally he took it from the drawer, studied the large red "Confidential" stamped across the front, hesitated a moment, turned it over and ran his finger across the sealed flap.

If Inspector Menéndez had not stamped the envelope "Confidential," it might have reached the commandant intact, but the young policeman was not only bored, he was also ambitious.

Like everyone else at the station, he knew that the inspector worked only on tourist matters, and cases involving tourists that were important enough to be stamped "Confidential" were very serious indeed.

After six months on the desk, it sometimes seemed to him that he would be there forever, that he would never save enough money to buy a motorcycle or a place on the Traffic Squad. His salary was small with rarely a chance to augment it. The few extra pesos he earned each evening by allowing the local reporter to examine the police blotter added up to a

British Beauty Wins 'Miss World' Title

LONDON (AP) — A British beauty who placed second in the Miss Universe contest in Miami Beach two months ago was named Miss World on her home territory Thursday night.

She was the first British girl to win a major beauty competition. The international contestants as usual indulged in considerable acrimony after an earl, a duchess and seven other judges awarded the title to brown-haired, blue-eyed Rosemarie Frankland, 18, a model. But the tantrums dissolved, probably temporarily, as the 37 girls danced and drank champagne until the early hours at the Cafe de Paris.

The U.S. entry, Jo Ann Odum of Huntington, W. Va., was among the seven finalists but didn't place in the money.

Comedian Bob Hope crowned Miss Frankland and saluted her as "the most beautiful girl I ever saw." When the girls started bickering, Hope commented soothingly: "Name any of these girls and I'll say they deserved to win. I want peace."

Balked At 2nd Wife's Picture

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Wilhelmina DeJonge, the third wife of Maurice DeJonge, won a divorce in circuit court here Thursday on her complaint that her husband insisted on having his second wife's picture in their bed.

She also charged that her husband, a 58-year-old chef, had their dog sleep with them despite the fact that she is allergic to dogs.

In the property division, Judge Robert W. Hansen ordered Mrs. DeJonge to heed her husband's request for the return of his second wife's picture.

needs.

The word, reactionary, means colloquially a restoration of a condition or procedure which existed at some prior time. It could be a reaction to current demands for change. Is the government of France under De Gaulle progressive or reactionary? He is apparently attempting to establish stability after the political chaos following World War II and the miseries brought on by the liberalism of proportional representation. Or is the current government of Ghana progressive, liberal or reactionary? Or is it indescribable?

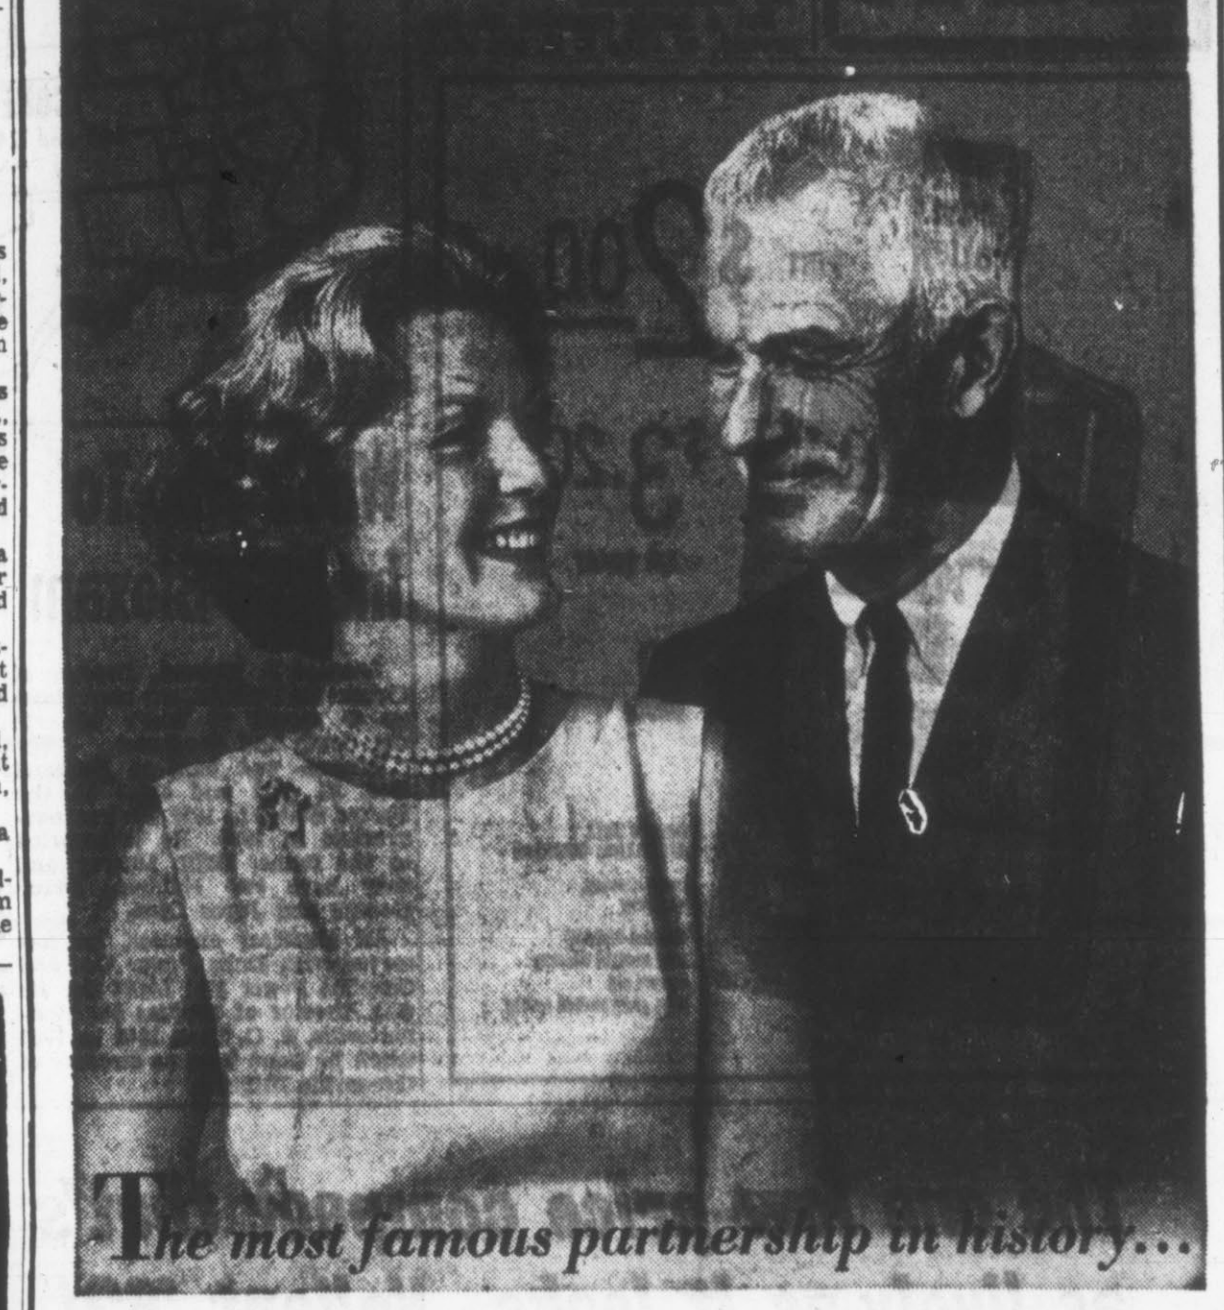

I did not read further in the professor's book because this attempt to adjective liberalism was enough for me. That definition would describe Barry Goldwater as a liberal which would be offensive to him.

Shelter-Stay Duration Keyed To 2 Factors

By PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

How can you know when it's safe to leave your shelter, on quick sorties to find food or help others, or to depart permanently yet safely? Or how can you know you're not foolishly hiding in a hole when there's no danger? Your fundamental guides must be a transistor radio, a radiation meter and an understanding of the danger. Civil Defense has set up an emergency radio broadcasting system, transmitting on 640 and 1240 kilocycles, called Conelrad to supply national and local information and advice to guide your actions. Experts will gather information near and far beyond the scene, and report fallout patterns. Part of the advice about the hazard you personally face, and how long you should stay inside, depends upon the size of a bomb and also where — on ground or air — it was detonated. We all need to know some of the fundamentals as to why altitude of the explosion is important.

Surface Blast Most Dangerous

First, a bomb exploded high in the air, as in a nuclear test, produces radioactive ashes just from the device itself. This fallout becomes widely distributed over a long period of time. It is too fine to fall quickly. It's the kind of fallout at issue in discussions of nuclear testing. So far, it has amounted to a few percent of the normal, unavoidable radiation we receive daily all our lives from cosmic rays, the earth, and naturally radioactive elements in our bodies.

In war, a bomb could be exploded over a city with the main intent of blasting down buildings, and setting fires. This happened in Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Those bombs did not produce local fallout.

Nor was the ground beneath made dangerously radioactive and uninhabitable. But a bomb exploded on the ground, or close to it, can suck up thousands and millions of tons of dirt and make it all radioactive to produce the widespread shower of intensive fallout which we are concerned here about. This is dirt that "shines" lethally, but it cannot be distinguished from ordinary dirt by sight, smell, taste or touch.

An enemy could choose to explode bombs on contact with the ground particularly to knock out underground missile bases, cities or industrial complexes. Such bombs would dig huge craters. The most intensive fallout would come down in an area of several hundred square miles, downwind after waiting long distances beyond the bombing site.

Exploded in air, but near the ground, the bomb could suck up dirt to spread radioactivity in stretches of hundreds of miles, with diminishing intensity as it fell hours later.

May Move Upwind
Don't assume you're safe from fallout because you are upwind from a blast, so far as surface winds go. Fallout is sucked 20 to 25 miles high, and varying and strong winds at these altitudes will produce unpredictable fallout patterns. Maybe you have nothing to worry about. But stay inside until compilations can establish the pattern of actual fallout.

A transistor radio is the only way of getting these reports. But local conditions enter in. Suppose the report is that houses in your general area received fairly heavy dust. Local rains could wash off enough dust to make rooms in your house habitable. Only your radiation meter could measure this for you.

It tells you, by looking at a scale on the meter, how many roentgens of radiation per hour you are receiving. An exposure of one roentgen per hour could be quite tolerable, if you were not exposed too long. Watch for installation 13). But, do be smart. Those same rains could have washed off dangerous dust from houses and streets only to have it collect in low areas by your house, or in storm drains near you. Your own meter could tell you whether this had occurred, and where it was safe or unsafe for you to be on errands, or to stay.

Unlike some compacts, Valiant will take off like a scared kitten at the drop of a "Scat!" You'd have to pay extra for an optional engine in most any other compact at Valiant's price to match Valiant's standard 101-hp Economy Six.

A modified version of this engine shot Valiant to victory over all American compacts competing in the 1960 and '61 Daytona Beach compact car competitions! Yet, for all its go, Valiant puts plenty of care-free miles between gas pumps. A Valiant scored 26.13 mpg in the last Mobilgas Economy Run!

And this new Valiant has the distinctive good looks to match its gumption. America's most famous artists recently honored the 1962 Valiant. For the first time in seven years, the Awards Committee of the Society of Illustrators has bestowed its coveted citation on a car—Valiant!

That's even more proof that the 1962 Valiant is indeed the Style Leader of the Compacts!

For looks and liveliness, you just can't match Valiant at Valiant's low initial price! And this year's Valiant offers a bundle of economy extras. # Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to move irregularly early this afternoon as trading fell off to the slowest rate of the week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 264.30 with industrials up .30, rails off .40 and utilities up .20.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were small, stretching to around a point at the outside. A scattering of more speculative stocks moved more widely.

It was the second straight session of what appeared to be consolidation following the market's upsurge earlier in the week. Technicians noted that the Dow Jones industrial average was near its record peak and a supply of stock at that level constituted a kind of upside resistance band. At the same time, ordinary preweekend caution came into play.

Tobacco was higher and the trend was higher in the upside among nonferrous metals but steels were mostly lower and motors were mixed.

Some drugs responded to news that dismissal of price-fixing and monopoly charges against six major manufacturers of "wonder drugs" had been recommended. Pfizer and Upjohn rose about a point each.

American Tobacco picked up more than a point.

Analysts regarded such action as a normal profit-taking following the big upsurge which began developing in the market a week ago and came to a halt, possibly temporary, Thursday.

Ford touched a new high by advancing a fraction. General Motors remained under investment demand and added another fraction while American Motors dropped about a point.

After initial hesitation, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric moved up close to a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .33 at 722.61. Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in fairly active trading.

Corporate bonds edged higher. U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP — NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets slightly stronger. Supplies barely adequate to adequate, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsorted eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 31-42¢; medium, whites 28½-29½; small, whites 22-23½.

He emphasized that Elks Lodges need local projects and commended the Greenville lodge for its interest and participation in the East Carolina College stadium drive. The lodge has voted to make a contribution to the drive.

Soviet Trawlers Near U.S. Coast

BOSTON (AP)—A fleet of 50 or more Soviet trawlers and two large mother ships are patrolling the fishing grounds barely 50 miles from the Cape Cod summer home of President Kennedy.

That was confirmed Thursday by Associated Press newsman Don Rothberg and AP photographer J. Walter Green.

They flew over the scene after the complaint of a Cape skipper that there were so many Soviet ships on Georges Bank "they're crowding us out."

The AP pair said some of the ships carry the Red flag and the painted insignia of the hammer and sickle similar to the ones carried in Moscow parades.

Rothberg reported that from 200 feet in the air, at least, it appeared some of the vessels were not interested in fishing for fish. Flying over the fleet, Rothberg said, the crews "stopped working momentarily, looked up grinning and waved at us. One of them was a woman."

"There were no military uniforms or guns or tanks, only a group of fishermen who looked like their American counterparts," Rothberg said.

"I could count 25 Russian trawlers in one group. A few miles beyond was another large group and in between were smaller groups of three or four trawlers. The whole Russian fleet covered a circular area about 50 miles in diameter. They work methodically in groups of three or four, covering every inch of their assigned area. "Looking straight down at one, I saw the sun reflecting on its catch which nearly filled the hold. "But when I looked at many others, I searched in vain for any sign of fish or net lines in the water. They were trawlers no different from the others, but from the air, at least, there was no sign they were fishing for fish."

The trawlers were located about 20 miles from Chatham, Mass., and no more than 50 miles from the summer White House at Hyannis Port.

Candidate Runs Very Close Race

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Odell Girdner, Democratic candidate for the office of magistrate, eighth district, Knox Fiscal Court, runs a close race.

Girdner, who won his party's nomination for the post by casting lots after his May primary race ended in a 61-61 tie, tied his Republican opponent, W. M. Bill Hughes, 500-500, in Tuesday's regular election. Vote-counting ended today.

The office will be decided by casting lots, which consists of either drawing straws, flipping a coin, or drawing numbers from a hat.

The race for Knox County Judge also ended in a tie—between Edward McDonald, Republican, and Democratic incumbent M. G. Bingham.

That race also will be decided by casting lots.
