

Nuclear Deadlock At Geneva Left In Deputies' Care

GENEVA (AP)—The top American and British delegates at the nuclear test ban talks have decided to return home Friday but will leave their deputies to continue the deadlocked conference.

The Soviet Union now regards all Western demands for international control and inspection as incompatible with its own security. The United States and Britain consider an elaborate control system the only guarantee against the violation of a disarmament agreement between nations who cannot and will not trust each other.

Little Chimp Paves Way For Next U.S. Space Step: Manned Capsule In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Heard by the world-circling space flight of a chimpanzee, the United States picked a man to take the next step up the long, dark stairway to the moon.

But it was Enos, a serious 37 1/2 pound chimp, who paved the way with his whirlwind trip, twice around the world Wednesday.

Just 3 hours and 21 minutes after he had ridden an Atlas rocket into the sky, Enos was plucked from the sea by a Navy destroyer 253 miles south of Bermuda.

Less than two hours later, space officials named U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. to ride a similar spacecraft three times around the world.

As the three-power talks resumed in Geneva, the Kremlin put forward a new plan for a nuclear test ban without any international controls at all.

Rev. Hadden Club Speaker

Mrs. T. C. Rowlette was hostess to the Pickwick Book Club Tuesday at her home on Elm Street. Arrangements of fall berries and flowers decorated the home. Mrs. Rowlette served a delicious chicken salad plate with coffee to members and guests. Mrs. B. A. Simpson of Charlotte and Rev. Bill Hadden, speaker for the afternoon.

In a talk on "Family Life," Rev. Hadden pointed out that the family as it existed in the early 1900's in America is gradually dying. At that time the home was the primary unit or institution for learning. Today other institutions and organizations have taken a large part of learning out of the home.

Rev. Hadden suggested several ways in which parents might reunite today's "sunburst" family. By bringing the family together socially through a scheduled family night each week, family trips and a leisurely evening meal with time for conversation, children are given a sense of security and well being. They begin to accept responsibility as a part of the family unit. Bringing the family together intellectually and mentally stimulates bigger ideas for learning in children. We should take time to study sources with them in answering their questions, which are challenges in learning.

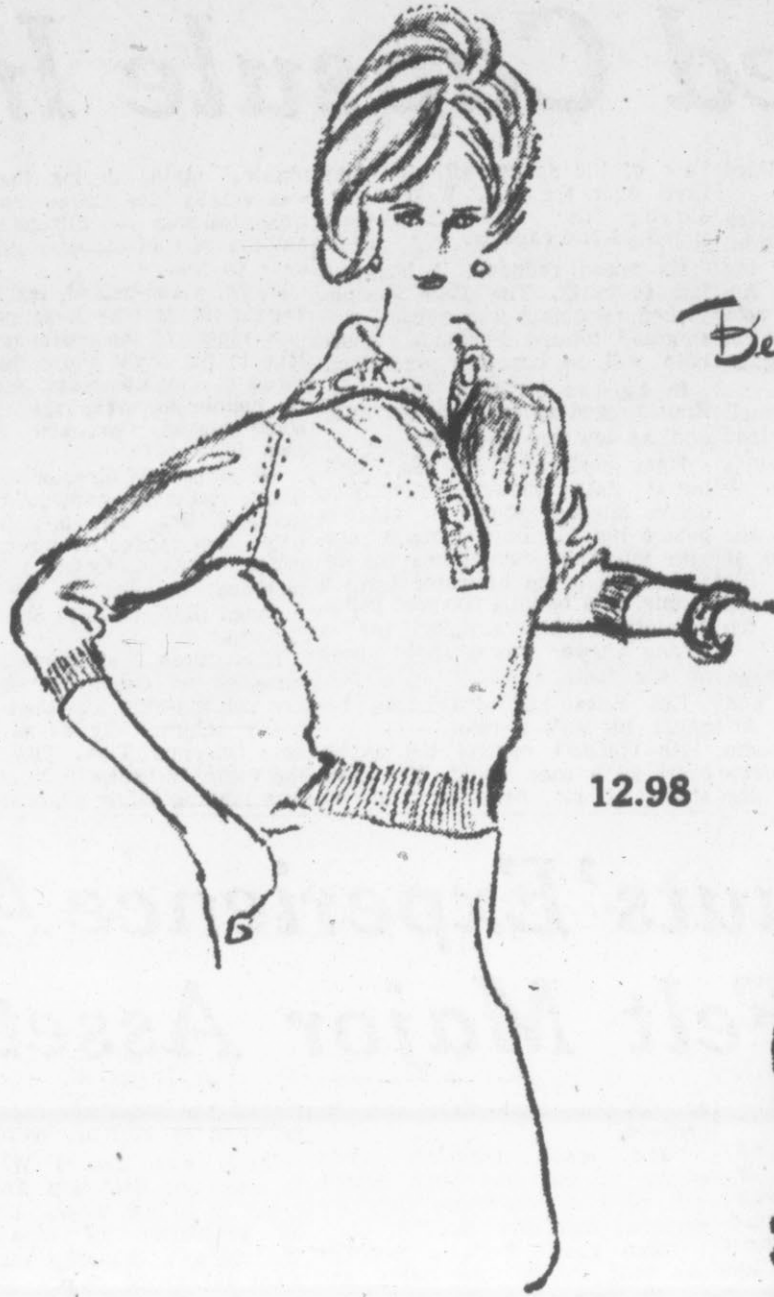

Rev. Hadden concluded by stating that a family must grow together spiritually, not just in Bible education, but in developing in each member a sense of spiritual belonging, a feeling of security, respect for other men and respect for self.

During the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Louis Boyd, president, plans for helping a needy family at Christmas were discussed. Mrs. J. H. Ward Jr. reported the progress made by the social committee on plans for the annual Christmas party. There being no further business, books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

All Can Take Pride In The Feat

A community never knows what it can do until it tries.

In the case of Greenville, we believe the old adage is pointed up vividly in the raising of more than a quarter million dollars for construction of the new 16,000-seat Ficklen Memorial Stadium on the East Carolina College campus.

The feat is a tribute to the college in that it reflects the solid and generous support East Carolina has in the businessmen and other citizens of Greenville and Pitt County. It is likewise a credit to the people of the community who have so generously come forth with such a large sum of money to be used to provide a new facility the college said it wants and needs.

When the campaign began there were probably many citizens in this community who seriously doubted that such a sum could be raised. It was not that they questioned the willingness of the people of Greenville to show their support of East Carolina College in this tangible way, but rather it stemmed from the fact that a quarter million dollars is a considerable sum of money to raise through public subscription in this community and this county.

It is an accomplishment in which all the people of this community and this county should take considerable pride. It means that here will be located a new facility which will be unmatched anywhere in the eastern section of the state, for nowhere east of Raleigh is there a stadium with a capacity for 16,000 people. It means that the college and the community

Public Reaction Very Favorable

By LYNN NISBET
REACTION—Reaction to Governor Sanford's "report to the people" the other night has been preponderantly favorable among residents and visitors around the capitol square.

His decision not to call a special session of the General Assembly has been unanimously approved, even by some who would have liked to have earlier legislative action than the 1963 regular session. The Governor made it clear he reached that decision reluctantly, and only after consideration of many factors. Admitting some good arguments for a special session, he said the most compelling reason for not calling it is that such action would not be "in keeping with the soundest principles of popular government."

It is understood, of course, that the prime purpose of a special session would have been to submit another bond issue to popular vote, and it was the second election rather than the legislative session per se that was not in keeping with sound principles of popular government.

He set out a series of steps to be taken to soften as much as possible the immediate impact of the money loss to institutions. He noted that during the next few months the members of the Advisory Budget Commission and the administrators of the institutions would have opportunity to thoroughly study the needs and evaluate them for priority consideration.

Thus through the orderly procedure established by our excellent budget control act," he said, "we will again have a chance to present to the General Assembly a program to be presented to the people."

CONFIDENT — One of the most significant and encouraging notes in the Governor's speech was sounded in his concluding sentences. He pointed out that expansion, growth and progress are responsible for most of our problems—and also for all our opportunities. It may be very difficult now without the bond money to meet the obvious needs, but in the long run we will in this way comprehend better our obligations to the future.

In the meantime, he said, we will stretch what we have, as the demand grows.

That is in the tradition of North Carolina government, and in contrast with the idea sought to be promulgated by some a few months ago that everything has to be remade according to a new pattern right now.

will have a facility which can be used not only for athletic contest, but for other events that will draw large crowds to Pitt County and to the East Carolina campus.

It is an accomplishment which has attracted state-wide interest and has focused attention on East Carolina College, Greenville and Pitt County. Of equal importance, it has shown the community that it can accomplish almost anything it desires if efforts of the citizens and the resources of the community are dedicated to achieving a worthwhile goal.

The success of this most recent community undertaking is one which will pay dividends to local citizens and this city and county in many ways in the years ahead.

Some Answers Needed On Future Planning

President Kennedy's news conference answered one question for men called into military service from reserve and national guard ranks this year, but it likewise raised other questions which the administration may elect not to answer.

The President's announcement that reservists and guardsmen called to active duty will be released within a year—maybe sooner—affords those now on active duty something definite to count on so far as their getting back to civilian life is concerned.

It also raises the question of what plans the administration has for the conventional military forces of the nation within the next year. Will other guardsmen and reservists be called up to fill the ranks of those who go back to civilian life? Does the administration anticipate a sufficient build-up of conventional forces without calling reservists to active duty within the next year? Does the administration anticipate the need of a lesser number of men in conventional military units a year from now than it feels is necessary now for the nation's security?

Certainly we must assume the international situation will have a bearing on what the administration feels is adequate in the way of military personnel on active duty during the coming year. The announcement might be interpreted as an indication the administration feels there will be an easing of international tension within the period. It might likewise be interpreted as meaning conventional military forces will be replaced to some extent by other military strength within the coming year.

It is doubtful that the administration has taken a short-range view of the military needs of the nation so far as the reservists on active duty is concerned. It would, of course, be folly for the administration to adopt a policy of calling reserve or National Guard units to active duty for short periods of time with the idea of calling up different units each time the international situation changes.

It would be in the interest of the country in our opinion, for the administration to spell out the answers on some of its long-range military plans in order that citizens would have a better understanding of just where the reserve units fit into the overall picture and what the administration intends their role to be in the future military preparedness picture.

Some Value In JFK Interview

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's interview with a Russian newsmen—published in full in Russia—didn't contain much that was new but it accomplished a few things.

1. He washed out for the West Germans any illusion they might have—or their politicians were keeping alive—that they might be reunited with Communist-held East Germany or that this country would put up a battle for reunification.

2. Kennedy assured the Russians—and this may have been a vital point in their hostility to West Germany—that this country not only would not give the West Germans nuclear weapons but expressed reluctance to see them make their own.

3. Since the interview was to be published in full in Moscow, it gave him a chance to get his views in detail across to the Russian people whose knowledge of the American position is probably very fragmentary.

4. By showing no belligerence at all he left the door open to amicable dealings with the Soviets while, because of the contrast it would provide, making it a little more awkward for Premier Khrushchev to sound extreme.

Khrushchev himself in recent months has been very mild compared with his statements on Berlin last summer.

5. Kennedy got in some propaganda against Communist expansion and its suppression of freedoms—specifically its not permitting free elections in the satellite countries—in the Soviet government's own newspaper, Izvestia.

But he did not have the propaganda field to himself. Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, the editor of Izvestia who interviewed him, got in licks against the support this country has given tyrants and reactionary regimes.

Since this wasn't an American-type news conference limited to questions and answers, Adzhubei was able to express Russian viewpoints, knowing they would be published in his newspaper side by side with Kennedy's.

Both Kennedy and Adzhubei had their thinking well-organized before they sat down together. So there was no stumbling. Their replies to each other were so quick and to the point it was as if each had seen what the other would say beforehand. But there was nothing sensational in the give-and-take, any more than there was in the three interviews Khrushchev gave this year to American newsmen in Russia.

Both Kennedy and Khrushchev used the interviews for getting across their viewpoint. But, since their viewpoints already were well known to each other, neither could be surprised by what the other said.

What could be considered new in Kennedy's interview were these two points:
1. The West will consider—

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DENOMINATIONS

Are denominations helpful? They have their disadvantage, the chief disadvantage being that they are somewhat divisive. Most people speak of the two hundred denominations. As a matter of fact, there are only forty denominations which have any considerable membership. It cannot be denied that if all these Christians were gathered together into one body, a certain effectiveness would be accomplished. But there would also be serious problems, and division, we can be sure, would still continue.

Each denomination emphasizes some special aspect of Christian truth. The idea of God as revealed to us in the Bible is so big that the best we can hope to do is to regard these different aspects from different points of view. Each denomination emphasizes some great religious truth. This does not mean that its members believe these things and the members of other denominations do not believe them. There is almost complete unity of belief among the denominations as regards basic Christian doctrine. They differ on theological details, on emphases, on forms of government, on the manner and time of performing sacraments.

We shall be most unwise if we plunge without thinking into some scheme for church union, the implications of which have not been carefully thought out. The United States would not be a better country if we erased the state lines. The cause of Christ will not be furthered simply by the erasing of denominational lines. The denominations still have a helpful part to play in the life of faith.

Civilization Is Fun!

On Meeting The Coach

A most pleasant interview with East Carolina's new football coach a couple of days ago had to be squeezed into a very busy schedule of a very busy man, Clarence Stasavich.

"Stas," as he is known in football circles, was visiting a former teammate in Kingston prior to speaking at Granger High School's annual football banquet.

It was quite a coincidence that the former Lenoir Rhyne head coach had scheduled a speaking engagement just 28 miles from the very day he was appointed new head coach at the Greenville school.

Stasavich commented thoughtfully: "That's really something, isn't it? When I agreed to speak at this banquet, I had no earthly idea of ever coming to East Carolina College as coach."

His visit with Bob Poovey—a

Lenoir Rhyne gridiron standout during Stasavich's playing days in Hickory during the early 1930s—precipitated a sort of chain reaction of remembering the good old days.

Poovey and Stasavich recalled aloud smattering of their experiences while classmates and teammates at Lenoir Rhyne.

When asked whether he owned a middle initial, "Stas" recalled his high school days back in his native Illinois.

"I was just a poor boy. When I got to high school, everybody else had a middle name, so I figured I might as well get myself one, too."

He remembers he played it by ear. "It just seemed like 'Phillip' sounded good with the rest of my name, so I adopted it and I was Clarence P. Stasavich."

The initial rode with him until he entered the Navy, "Stas" recalls. "They went strictly by official birth records and mine didn't have a middle name so my middle initial has been gone ever since."

During his years as a football player and coach, it's quite thinkable that many of his opponents might have ascribed Stasavich a realistic middle name.

His reputation in both roles would indicate a fitting middle initial for the 48-year-old pigskin engineer should be something like "T." (Triumphant), "V." (Victorious) or some such letter to stand for his outstanding football accomplishments.

But a brief interview with Stasavich—a quite powerful-looking man with an equally obvious gentle touch—can be convincing that the new captain of the Pirate ship is not only a football giant.

He professes, of course, intense interest in developing winning football teams. That's his profession. But he views college football as a means to an end.

A successful football program can be a decided benefit to a college's public relations activities. But, more important to Stasavich, football can be a useful vehicle for conveying to players a "real good education" and developing them into "useful citizens in a community."

Other Editors Saying... Some Sense Prevailed

(Greensboro Daily News)
Good sense prevailed in Governor Sanford's decision not to call special session of the General Assembly.

With obvious reluctance but a spirit of good sportsmanship, the Governor backed away from what previously seemed his determination to fight for another bond issue referendum. There was no lack of courage here. More courage, indeed, was required to execute an about-face than would have been manifested otherwise.

"To call another election now," the Governor said in his TV-radio message to the state, "would be to say when a democratic election is lost, call another if you can. This would be a bad precedent. It is haphazard. This is not conducive to the orderly processes of democratic government. The people made the decision and I will abide the decision. The people made the decision and the urgent needs must abide the decision."

The voice of reason, thus, spoke in the Governor's words. He had heard out his advisers who said, "Sock 'em again; retrieve your lost prestige; fight through and win." He had heard out, too, those who advised caution and restraint.

The latter won because they had the balance of judgment on their side. The timing of another bond issue, set in motion even before the canvassing of votes for the lately lamented referendum, would have been ill-advised, if not disastrous. By appealing to party loyalty of the Democratic majority, Governor Sanford might have bullied another referendum through the General Assembly. But whether the people, confronted again by issues they had previously rejected, would respond positively, that was the brutal and unpredictable question.

Governor Sanford's speech left no doubt in any mind that the Governor intends to fight for the more vital issues in the bond issue package with every weapon at his command. He will initiate planning on some of the badly needed dormitories at state institutions. He has asked all state agencies to save money in current budgets so that any surplus funds will be available for badly needed items.

In the meantime, the Governor has alerted the state to the nature of the unmet needs in a dramatic way. Some who listened to his speech wondered why something like it had not been delivered prior to November 7.

Whatever the mistakes of misjudgment and complacency, Governor Sanford has demonstrated no lack of balance and discernment even in the wake of defeat. Like any leader of ambition and vigor his first reaction was to fight back, tooth and toenail. But wiser second thought, based on a respect for democratic processes, decreed an acceptance of the people's will.

That kind of judgment will go far toward repairing the damage done on November 7. By accepting with grace the hard knocks of one major setback, Governor Sanford enhanced his own capacity for wiser leadership in the future.

Business Books For Christmas

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Christmas season has become a time of year for the publication of an increasing number of business books, as well as of general, children's and religious books. There's a bumper crop this year.

Outstanding is "Wall Street: A Pictorial History," by Leonard Lewis Levinson, a lavish book of 368 pages plus index, published by Ziff-Davis, New York, at $17.50. While there is considerable emphasis on the story of Wall Street, the book is actually a pictorial history of the whole city in old drawings, photos and maps. However, the Wall Street angle makes it appropriate for brokerage houses to send to customers wanted that much.

Other business books of note include:
"How to Create New Ideas," by Jack W. Taylor, director of management development for Packaging Corporation of America; 231 pages plus index, published by Prentice-Hall, New York, at $5.65. Taylor offers a what he calls a simple, systematic process for creating new ideas and the development of inspiration, which he says works in his company.

"The Secrets of Sell-a-Million Sam," by Samuel E. Gross; 64 pages, published by Fawcett, New York, at $3.75. This is a distillation of the devices used by a 50-year veteran St. Louis merchandiser to establish a reputation as a master salesman.

"How to Stop Pilferage in Business and Industry," by Charles P. Rudnitsky and Leslie M. Wolff; 84 pages, published by Pilot, New York, at $3. The authors say business itself is to blame for $2 billion in losses a year and offer ways to end them.

"Science and Technology Stocks," by Grant Jeffery, financial writer; 352 pages, published by World, New York, at $1.95 paper and $3.95 cloth. A guide for investors in these shares.

Systems and the Computer," by James D. Gallagher, a systems and data processing expert; 192 pages published by American Management Association, New York, at $6. A study intended to remedy the fact that the 2,000 larger electronic computers are not yet paying their way.

Phrase That Misses

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I am asked by M. J. Crawford of Ridgewood, New Jersey, to define an "extreme leftist." The questioner wonders what President Kennedy meant when he referred to such in a speech in California.

Unfortunately, it is a meaningless term, just as "extreme leftist" would be meaningless. No one can accurately define such terms. It is unfortunate that President Kennedy did not use a more precise phrase.

Any thinking people divide themselves into various segments of thought and response to public questions. Let us define some of them as they now exist:

1. The Middle-of-the-Roaders are those who always go along with what at the moment is popular and acceptable. When Eisenhower was President, they held that whatever Eisenhower said was inspired; now, they hold that whatever Kennedy says is inspired. They are never wrong because they never differ from the popular. They serve any master who seeks their service.

2. Among those who are not so pliable are many who hold differing principles of life. These may range on what is called the Right from 19th century Liberals who fear the spread of the power of government to conservatives who wish to preserve the traditions of the country to reactionaries to whom all changes are repugnant; and on what is called the Left are those who would accelerate change and reform at various rates of speed to the Communists who would destroy our system of life and adopt Marxism.

When President Kennedy refers to the Right Extremists, he could mean such groups as the John Birch Society or the Minutemen who decline to recognize the course of events since 1914 and the vast changes that have already occurred in this country. They sincerely would like to live in the world as it existed when they were born; they would like to ignore the drastic social and economic changes that have taken place since they were born. They find these changes hateful. They opposed Franklin D. Roosevelt and they refuse to recognize that the New Deal did manage to make a violent change in our lives.

President Kennedy finds such groups distasteful because they are unrealistic. They fail to recognize that the Marxist movement throughout the world altered many of the accepted ways of life. Their children and grandchildren can describe these changes and their effects upon them. For instance, they can tell their elders that whenever they have to consider marriage, college, careers, any phase of life, they must consider the prospect of war, the menace of war, the delays that war will bring to their lives. The younger generation cannot go back to 1900.

President Kennedy is himself of this younger generation. He has been to war. His back has been broken by war. He has made a success in life but he knows he has no old-time league and friends have become permanently crippled by war; he knows how many of them received "Dear John" letters; he knows the heart-break of unsatisfied aspirations.

But what undoubtedly shocks him is that the next generation to him, the youngsters, are conservatives to a greater or lesser degree. This younger generation rejects the cliches and truisms of the Liberals, the mouthings of the New Dealers. They seek to relate their ideals of progress to historic memory.

Just as the radicalism of the 1930's shocked the elders of that period, so the conservatism of youth today shocks the balding middle-aged of the 1930's. Adlai Stevenson may have been regarded as a philosopher of the 1940's; but in the 1960's youth seeks clearer definitions, a review of the relations of science and religion. They do not quote Thorstein Veblen or John Maynard Keynes, but they know such names as Martin Buber and Sydney Hook. Just as their forebears knew of Howard Fast, so today the youngsters know of William Buckley. Just as their forebears laughed at God, so do they in this period try to discover God. The world has changed, as it always changes, from generation to generation and only those stand still who are blind.

JAPANESE WORKING ON NEW COOLING SYSTEMS

Cooling and refrigerating systems without the use of compressors are being developed in Japan. The Sanyo Electric Co., Osaka, Japan, expects to have a commercial refrigerator using the system on the market in two years.

When D. C. electricity is passed across a junction of two dissimilar conductors, heat is emitted or absorbed. Up to the present, the amount of absorption has been small. But by using a new method to make bismuth telluride alloys, Sanyo claims to have produced commercially feasible cooling systems.

Miss Jolly Weds Mr. Whitford In Colorado Springs, Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—On Saturday afternoon, November 25, at 2 o'clock in the Chapel of Protestant Faiths, Fort Carson, Colo., Miss Judith Reid Jolly became the bride of Mr. Clio Preston Whitford Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Franklin Jolly of Greenville, N. C. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clio Whitford of Washington, N. C.

Lieutenant Kenneth L. Blunt, chaplain, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Kenneth L. Blunt as organist. Her selections included "O Promise Me," "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer" by Mallote as a benediction.

The bride wore a costume suit of Peacock blue with honey beige accessories and a tiny flowered hat. With this she wore a corsage of gardenias to complement her outfit.

The bride is a graduate of Rose

High School and East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C., where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Washington High School, Washington, N. C., and attended East Carolina College where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Whitford will be at home in Colorado Springs, Colo., until Mr. Whitford resumes his duties overseas.

Discussion To Be Held On Meats

Young homemakers have been invited to attend a discussion on "Economic Selection of Meats" to be held at 7:30 Monday night in the Home Economics Laboratory of the Agriculture Building on Johnston Street.

John A. Christian, meat specialist with the N. C. Extension Service, will direct the discussion. He demonstrates meat cuts and how to get more meat for the money.

Young homemakers and non-home demonstration club members are invited to attend.

Coastal Carolina Council Holds Semi-Annual Meet Here

The semi-annual delegate assembly of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina was held yesterday at the Moose Lodge in Greenville.

Board members, neighborhood chairmen, and elected delegates from 20 counties attended the meeting.

Mrs. Robert Cramer's Troop 430 presented colors. The meeting consisted of annual business. Mrs. M. M. Lownes and Miss Elizabeth Hawley gave an annual report with the object for the next two years of increasing girl memberships. The nominating chairman presented nominations to fill vacancies for district and board members. They were accepted by the delegation.

Mrs. Warren Hugg reported on a Regional meeting held in Jacksonville, Fla. in October.

Special awards were presented to Mrs. June Adams and Mrs. Jean Abbot for outstanding dedication to Girl Scouting.

Cleveland Bradner of East Carolina College was guest speaker. He spoke to the group on "Influence of Girl Scouting on Youth of Today."

The Mental Health Association, Emergency Preparation and Girl Scouting had displays set up for viewing.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Fisher were guests.

Shower Given Bride-Elect

Miss Edith Anne Harris, who will marry Harold Eugene Harris December 24, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Jesse Bullock near Belvoir.

Upon arrival, the bride-elect was presented a white mum corsage. The guests were greeted by Mr. Bullock, Miss Harris, Mrs. E. Taylor, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Charlie Harris, mother of the bride.

During the evening the 35 guests participated in playing of several games which were led by Mrs. Gene Tucker.

The centerpiece for the refreshment table was an arrangement of gladiolus and chrysanthemums, flanked on each end by a three tier silver candelabrum.

The guests enjoyed piano selections rendered by Tommy Harris while they were served party cakes, nuts, mints and punch, and during this the gifts were opened by the bride-elect.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Peter

New Bern Music Club Presents Local Program

The program of the Greenville Music Club Monday night was presented by members from the St. Cecelia Music Club of New Bern in an exchange program with the Greenville club.

After the reading of the Collect and the singing of the Federation Hymn, Mrs. Jimmy Lee presented the performers.

Mr. A. K. Snornieks, baritone, sang "I Would Like" and "Day or Night," both by Tchaikovsky; "The Carass," Medius; "The Soft Rain" by Kalms; "Ich Gralle Nicht," and "Die Belde Grnadriere," both by Schumann.

Mrs. Nora Snornieks, pianist, played "Variations on a Latvian Folk Song" by J. Witol and "Ballade in A Flat, Op. 47," by Chopin.

Mrs. Catherine Latta, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Gerda Rasmussen Turner, sang "Mandolins" and "Romance" by Debussy; "Nixon" by Cesar Frank;

Brown, Mrs. Ben Harris, Mrs. Wiley Clark and Mrs. Tucker.

"They told about Latvia, its music, and its composers.

The club president, Dr. Carl Hjortsvang, presided over a short business meeting during which Dr. Stanley Walter showed some material and distributed tickets to sell for the National Opera presentation, "Martha," by Von Flotow, which the Music Club will sponsor to help raise money for its scholarship fund on Jan. 12, 1962 at 8 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium.

The next meeting of the club will be the annual Christmas dinner to be held on Dec. 13 at 6 p.m. Members wishing to reserve places for themselves and their guests will call either Dr. Stanley Walter or Elizabeth Bodkin before Dec. 10.

There was a social hour following the meeting with the following serving as host and hostesses: Miss Elizabeth Hyman, Mrs. Sue Bowden, Mrs. Agnes Settle, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens.

THE GREEN STONE

A suspense thriller by SUZANNE BLANC

CHAPTER 29

Senor Aguinaldo took Luis Perce's watch, held it to his ear, examined the works with a jeweler's glass, then said, "Two thousand pesos, that's all I can give you."

Luis reached for his watch. "It's gold," he protested. "Solid gold. It's worth more."

"My friend, believe me, no one will pay more. Just yesterday I bought one like it for eighteen hundred pesos, only the band is not as nice as this one. . . . Where is that watch, Annamaria? Show it to the gentleman!"

His wife scrambled through the debris on the counter, trying to find the watch.

"You must excuse us, Senor," Aguinaldo said. "The place is in an uproar this morning."

"It looks as if it's been torn apart."

"It was," Aguinaldo's frown deepened and he lowered his voice although there was no one else in the store except his wife and the silversmith. "Lieutenant Jimenez was here just now—from the police. He's after a stone, an emerald. It belonged to a murdered tourist and the lieutenant says it's somewhere in San Luis. He threatened me. Imagine! He said he knew that I was a receiver of stolen goods!"

His volume increased with his indignation, but underneath there was a contagion of fear.

Strangely enough Luis was only lightly infected by the miasma of fear. Imperceptibly as his determination to get the jewel had hardened, Luis had also hardened. Al-

...cided everything. . . Today he was in a grim mood. He paced the width of his study glowering at all his lieutenants, but the brunt of his displeasure was focused on the commandant of police.

"Your men are a disgrace to my administration," the mayor began immediately. "The Communists are running wild. Last night, right here in my own neighborhood, a North American guest of my friend Ramon Morales had the tires of her car slashed."

The commandant, who had come directly to the meeting without stopping at headquarters, was taken completely unawares. "I knew nothing about it," he stammered.

"It's your business to know why should I, the mayor, know the details of this disgrace and the commandant of police be ignorant of it?"

"It concerned a tourist, you said." The commandant had found a hole to squirm through. "Tourist affairs are handled by Inspector Menendes. He's sent directly from the capital."

"I don't care who handles tourist affairs, or where he comes from," the mayor said, but his tone was a shade less belligerent. "We don't want to offend anyone from the capital, but this a local affair, an obvious attempt to discredit me personally. I want the matter investigated."

"It will be investigated. Within twenty-four hours you will have a detailed report," the commandant promised.

Sergeant Roberto has reason question the judgment of Inspector Menendes. Continue the story tomorrow.

in dealing with Russia about keeping West Berlin open to the West—an "international administration" on the highway linking West Berlin with West Germany.

The idea behind this is to set up machinery which would be in effect a Russian guarantee that people and goods could travel freely between the city and West Germany.

The West might consider an agreement between the Western Allies in NATO and Russia and its satellites in the Warsaw military alliance "to live in peace with each other."

Such an agreement, if made, wouldn't be any more than the expression of a pious sentiment since the agreement would go out the window any time either side said it wanted to attack the other.

All in all, while the 8,000-word interview didn't add much new, it may have done a little toward moving nearer reasonable relations on West Berlin, a subject Russia and the West have now been talking about for months.

It might not seem unreasonable if people everywhere now began to ask when the statesmen on both sides would get tired of talking at each other across oceans and frontiers and start sitting down to talk to each other.

The mayor of San Luis had been in office for many years and, with each succeeding term, his power and wealth increased until there was scarcely a decision that was made without his sanction.

The most powerful men in San Luis, each influential in his own sphere, all deferred to him. Once each week they met at his home to offer recommendations, but their suggestions were just a formality. It was the mayor who de-

Gov. Rockefeller Clings To New Guinea Miracle Hope

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was back home today—a sad and shaken father.

His long journey home from the Netherlands New Guinea wilds ended Wednesday night at Idlewild Airport.

Facing more than 100 newsmen, photographers and cameramen, Rockefeller expressed hope that a "miracle" would happen and that his youngest son, Michael, 23, would be found alive.

Most of the governor's words were a eulogy of Michael—"he always loved people and was loved by people. He loved the beauty of life, the beauty of people, the beauty of art and sculpture. He knew no fear."

Rockefeller's voice was soft as he spoke of his son, who disappeared on an art-hunting expedition in New Guinea.

His references to Michael were mostly in the past tense.

After telling what kind of lad Michael was—or is—and relating details of the trip half way around the world to aid the search for him, the governor left the airport in a car, saying he was going to see his estranged wife.

Accompanying him were one of his brothers, banker David Rockefeller, and two of his sons, Steven and Rodman. They were among those who met him at the airport.

Mrs. Rockefeller has been in seclusion at the family estate at suburban Pocantico Hills. The governor kept his wife informed of all developments while he was in New Guinea.

Michael was reported missing 11 days ago. That was two days after the Rockefellers—married for 31 years—announced they had separated and planned divorce.

The governor started the long plane journey to New Guinea shortly after he received word that Michael had disappeared. Michael had tried to swim 3½ miles to shore from a capsized raft.

Rockefeller, pale despite more than a week in the tropical sun, brought back some of Michael's belongings—a suitcase, boxes, and notes he had made on the expedition.

Rockefeller expressed his gratitude and the gratitude of all members of his family for the extensive help given in the search for his son. He said he and the family appreciated "tremendously" the message sent by President Kennedy and the cooperation of the U.S. government.

Kennedy had offered to send Navy ships to help in the search, but the governor declined the offer.

Among others the governor thanked were the Netherlands government, Australian officials and thousands of members of air, sea and land search units. The search is continuing indefinitely.

Rockefeller's daughter, Mrs. Mary Strawbridge, left New York with him and was by his side in New Guinea.

Mrs. Strawbridge, Michael's twin, left her father at Manila on the way home to visit her husband, Navy Lt. William Strawbridge. He is on duty with the Pacific Fleet, aboard the troop carrier Noble, but he received a week's leave in Manila.

One Hitch In His Insurance Policy

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—John Rowe is back at work after spending 19 days recovering from a fall into his fallout shelter.

The 12 x 36-foot underground shelter he built brought lavish praise from civil defense engineers. Such crowds came to see the model shelter that Rowe bought a $10,000 insurance policy as protection in case anyone got hurt around it.

He discovered a hitch in the policy after he fell through the escape hatch, cracking several ribs. He wasn't covered.

Their 10th Child 'On The House'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Charles G. O'Connor's 10th child, born during the weekend at St. Mary's Hospital, was "on the house."

O'Connor, a food broker, said

Report Advises Top Commander

NEW YORK (AP)—Creation of a supreme commander for U.S. commands all over the world is recommended in a secret report recently submitted to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the New York Times said today.

The story by Hanson W. Baldwin, the newspaper's military editor, said the recommendation is viewed by some Pentagon experts as a long step toward establishment of the controversial General Staff with a single chief to replace the existing chiefs of staff. The proposal is the salient recommendation in a report by a committee formed in September by McNamara to advise him about tightening and improving command and control channels in the missile and nuclear age.

Book Review At Chatham Club By Curate Of St. Paul's Church

The Rev. Richard N. Ottoway was the guest speaker for the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon when it met at the home of Mrs. L. H. Bowling on Summit Street.

Upon arrival of the club members and guests, Mrs. Bowling assisted by Miss Jane Hancock, served a salad course with coffee and individual orange cakes.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, the first vice-president, Mrs. P. K. Anderson, presided. She welcomed the guests, the Rev. Mr. Ottoway and Mrs. Ottoway, and recognized Mrs. N. S. Beard, who has returned from Mullins, S. C., and Mrs. T. M. Watson, a former member of the club now living in Wagram.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen, in charge of the program, presented to the group the Rev. Richard N. Ottoway, curate of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and Episcopal College Chaplain. He reviewed Will Herberg's book "Protestant, Catholic, Jew."

The book is a sociological review of religion in America. The thesis of the book as stated by Mr. Ottoway is "Both the religiousness and secularism of the American people derive from very much the same sources and that both become more intelligible when seen against the background of certain deep-going sociological processes that have transformed the face of American life in the course of the past generation."

He spoke of the waves of immigrations into America and the society produced by them. First came the Protestants, then the Catholics and, last, the Jews, each group coming with its own traditions. By the third generation, all of these traditions were lost but religion.

He pointed out ways in which all three of the Big Three have lost their original characteristics that they came to America with and how the American religion has emerged from the Big Three with each of them having an equal degree of value and worth.

Mrs. Andren conducted a short business session. She read a letter from the North Carolina Mental Health Association asking for gifts to be distributed at Christmas time to the patients in the State Mental Hospitals. It was voted to make individual gifts for this cause.

Plans were made for the Christmas meeting to be held December 19 at the home of Mrs. J. Bryan Brown with Mrs. N. S. Beard hostess.

The members exchanged books and the meeting was adjourned.

Luncheon Meet For Round Table

Miss Lella Higgs and Mrs. Howard G. Porter entertained at a three course luncheon at the Round Table for members of the Round Table and special guests, Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins, Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, Mrs. C. H. Allen, Mrs. Grover Everett, Mrs. J. R. Jackson, Mrs. Daisy H. Rogers.

The table was decorated with arrangements of Fall fruits, berries and flowers.

Mrs. L. P. Bloxam, program leader for the afternoon, introduced her husband, Mr. L. P. Bloxam, who gave a program on the office and duties of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States Government.

A brief life history of the present Secretary of the Treasury, Elizabeth R. Smith, was given. Then the history and growth of the department and bureaus was presented from the first act in 1775 to the present day. This office has the longest list of allied responsibilities of any office of Secretary of the United States Government.

During the business meeting, members voted to bring to the next meeting wrapped Christmas presents to be turned over to the local Mental Health Association for distribution at Cherry Hospital.

Sudsy "Oasis" Real
Out in the plains of South Dakota, far from "civilization," stands a bathtub! The rancher-owner found an artesian well there that gushes water warm enough for bathing, so he thoughtfully installed a tub.

Now, at sundown, "hands" from miles around line up to soak in warm soapsuds before heading for "home on the range."

Reflecting On SPORTS

By George Bryant

All-State Gridders

While the local Greenville Phantoms were unable to place any players on the Charlotte Observer's All-State team this year they did manage to get one boy on the second team, one on the third team and one in the honorable mention selections. For a 3-A school in the eastern part of the state this is a right good percentage.

Those who made the grade were Alan McArthur, a 5-foot 10-inch senior halfback, who placed on the second team, Russell Fields, a 5-foot 9-inch 175-pound senior guard, who made the third team and Billy James, a 5-foot 11-inch 170 pound senior quarterback, who was listed among the honorable mentions.

All three of these boys deserve a lot of credit for their outstanding efforts this season. They were on a team which will long be remembered here in Greenville. They aided in gaining the first football conference championship for the school and went on to win two playoff games for the Eastern District 3-A championship. Of course there were many others on the Phantom squad who deserve the same amount of credit, because without the rest of the team James, McArthur and Fields would never have been recognized for All-State honors.

In the All-Conference selections Greenville had four boys selected out of 23 players who placed on the list. This is a good average for any school when there are seven schools in competition with each other. Those making the All-Conference list from the Phantom squad were Jack Foley at end, Rommie Brock at tackle, James at quarterback and McArthur at halfback. We are in total agreement that Greenville should have had others on the list, but it is impossible to pick all of the players from one school.

In addition to the All-State and All-Conference honors won by Greenville players this year the team also had two boys selected to play in the Shrine Bowl this Saturday in Charlotte. In addition to the boys, Phantom Coach Bud Phillips was asked to help with the coaching of the North Carolina team. You can not ask for much more than that.

Support Was Big Help

We all know that the team did the actual work as far as coming out on top was concerned, but without the support of the town this could not have been done. From the very first game of the season the Phantoms had excellent support for a high school football team. And this support did not come just from the students in the school and parents of the players, but from many persons who had nothing to do with the school.

We are afraid that many folks do not realize just how much their support did mean to this year's ball club, or how much it means to any team. In many cases it means the difference between winning and losing.

Those boys have to have something to play for in addition to a trophy. They need to feel that they are working for the whole town in order to really do their best job.

Members of a football team or any team for that matter sacrifice a great deal in order to do a good job. When the rest of the students have free time after school is out or are working on a part-time job for extra spending money, the team members are knocking their brains out on the practice field. At the same time they have to do the same amount of school work that the other students are doing. In Greenville we are fortunate to have several boys on the high school teams who do outstanding jobs in the classroom and there are many others who are doing better than average work.

In addition to the practice sessions taking up a great deal of the players' time, the boys have a nightly curfew which must be obeyed. This is not worked on the honor system. The boys on the Greenville football team took great pride in calling each other as the 10:00 p.m. curfew hour passed to see if their fellow teammates were in the house. This was done without regrets on anyone's part and all enjoyed it or at least they did not let off that they did not. We feel this shows the spirit and desire of the team and it all goes back to the fact that they are working for the town and not individual or team honors.

Without the support of the towns' people this winning team would not have been possible. The boys who made the All-State honors and the All-Conference honors would not have been able to do so. Your support aided the team more than many can imagine and it will be needed by all future teams at Rose High School and any other school for that matter.

Kick Off Dinner For Shrine Bowl Game Is Tonight

CHARLOTTE (AP)—An awards dinner tonight will kick off the festivities for the annual North Carolina - South Carolina high school all-Star Shrine Football game.

There will be another banquet Friday night, and then the annual Shrine Bowl parade through downtown Charlotte Saturday morning. The game starts at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Charles Cullen, an industrial relations consultant, will speak tonight. Awards will be given by Stan Cropley, Shrine Bowl director of athletics. Friday night's speaker will be Galloway Calhoun of Tyler, Tex., president and chairman of trustees of all Shrine hospitals.

Guests of honor during the festivities will be Billy Brake, 9, of Henderson, N.C., and Sharon Lynn Jones, 7, of Greensboro. Both are patients at the Shrines Children's Hospital in Greenville, S.C. Benefits of the game go each year to the hospital.

Packers May Be Healthy When They Meet Giants

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers may be healthy after all when they meet the New York Giants Sunday in a clash of National Football League title contenders.

The Packer roster earlier in the week looked like a sickbay list. Today it shows a mostly healthy football squad—thanks to the rapid recovery of several key players.

As a result, the Packers, leaders in the Western Conference, will go into their final game in Wisconsin as three-point favorites over the Giants, pacesetters of the Eastern Division. The game is expected to draw a record, standing-room-only crowd of more than 46,000 to Milwaukee County Stadium.

Three Packer players, who were out of action in practice sessions earlier this week, returned for work Wednesday and reported they would be ready to go. In addition word was received that the team's leading scorer and ace kicker, halfback Paul Hornung, would be given a pass from his army duty at Ft. Riley, Kans., and be in action.

And the Packers were given assurance by veteran center Jim Ringo that he also would rejoin the team today.

When Coach Vince Lombardi called the role a practice Monday, he found fullback Jim Taylor and end Max McGee ailing with flu, defensive back Hank Gremminger still nursing injured ribs and Ringo in a hospital with boils on his face and neck.

Taylor, McGee and Gremminger reported for action Wednesday and are expected to be in shape to play.

The Packers need only one more victory to insure their second straight Western Division title. They have a 2½ game lead with three games to play. The Giants have a one-game lead in the Eastern Division. Both have 9-2 records.

As a result, the game is considered a preview of the playoff for the National Football League title.

GRIMESLAND — The Grimesland Panthers, under new head coach Henry Meares, have found the going rough in the current basketball campaign. To date, the Panthers have lost their first seven games. Their last defeat coming at the hands of Bear Grass by a score of 52 to 48.

Even though Grimesland has not been able to muster enough strength to win a game, Coach Meares foresees a few bright spots for the future.

Spark Of Light
One of these sparks of light appears in the form of an agile 5-8" guard, Billy Hardee. Billy has been averaging close to 12 points a game in his teams losing efforts. Being only a Freshman, Pitt County will see and hear a lot about Billy in the future.

Another bright aspect is the fact that the team is largely composed of freshmen and sophomores. The Panther squad has five freshmen, two sophomores, two juniors, and only three seniors. The three seniors are Carlton Hardee, Nile Dall, and Jimmy Cayton. All three boys have been starters for Grimesland in past games.

Curtis Hardee, a junior, has shown his ability by leading the team in the rebounding department.

ment. Curtis, the tallest man on the team at 6 feet, is also one of the teams co-captains.

Team Leader
The other co-captain is Carlton Hardee. He is cast in the spot of being the team leader. Carlton is the mainstay, both offensively and defensively. He is a fine shooter as well as a stalwart on defense.

Nile Dall and Jimmy Cayton, the remaining two members of the Grimesland starting five, have been worrying opponents by their fine defensive play. Nile, a returning letterman, and Jimmy have the ability to capitalize on any mistakes made by their opponents.

Coach Meares also mentioned the fact that a sophomore, Buster Hardee, is coming along quickly. "Buster certainly enjoys playing basketball and is constantly keeping the veterans on their toes," Meares noted.

Not Down And Out
As can be seen, the Panthers who have not found the road to victory yet, cannot be counted down and out. They are still hustling and are likely to upset a few of their huskier and more experienced opponents.

The girls' team, led by Sarah Tucker and Carol Haddock, are also winless. They are expected to jell together and spring some surprises themselves.

Ordinances Kill Off Birmingham Barons

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Birmingham, a charter member of the Southern Association when it was formed in 1901, will be without professional baseball next year for the first time in 61 years.

Baron owner Albert Belcher withdrew the team from the Double A League Wednesday.

Belcher gave the city's segregation ordinances as the reason. "I never regretted anything so much in my life," he said Wednesday night after returning from the minor league meeting at Tampa, Fla. "But I felt there was nothing else I could do."

"Due to circumstances beyond my control," Belcher told league directors, "the Barons will be unable to play in Birmingham this year, and for as long as the segregation ordinance is on the books."

A federal judge last August knocked down the ordinance requiring segregation in various sporting events—including baseball—but the city is appealing.

Asked about Rickwood Field, the Barons' home park, Belcher replied: "I'm just going to let it sit there for the time being. It will just lie there vacant. There's not any money owed on it."

Belcher and members of his family own about 80 per cent of the stock in the club.

Belcher will retain the baseball franchise here on an inactive basis.

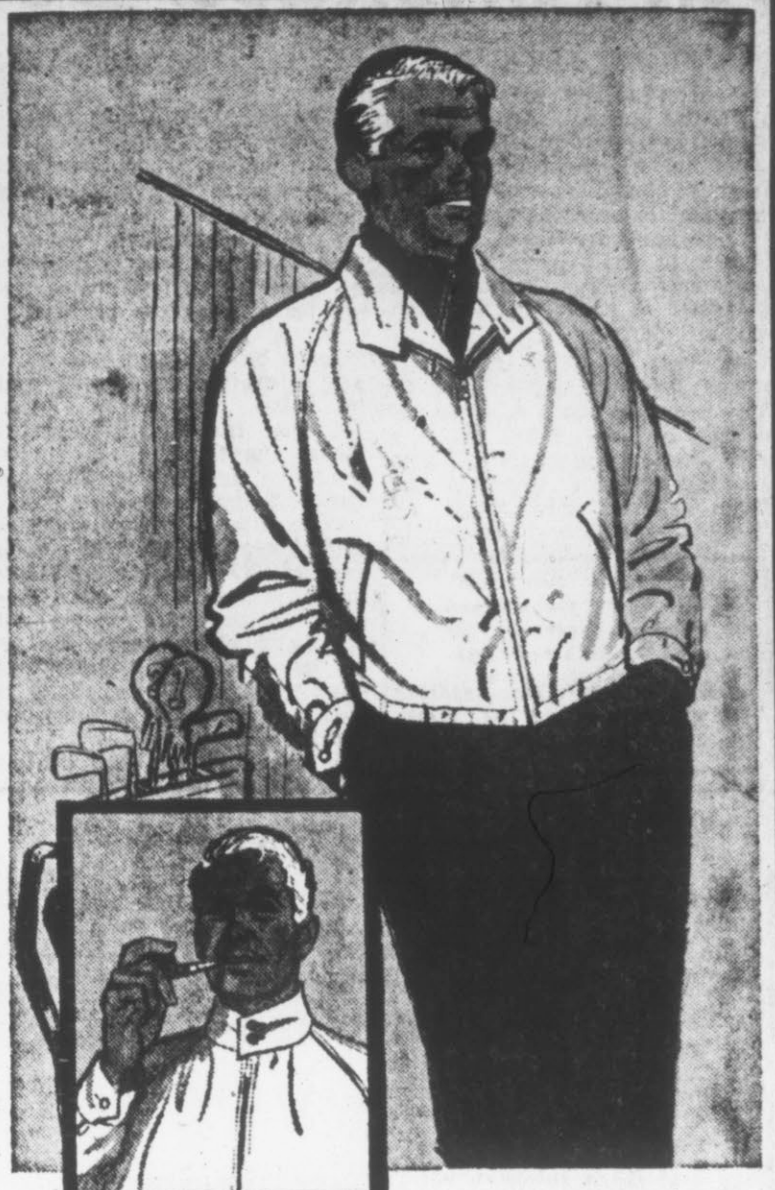

Belcher said when league directors first got together at Tampa Monday, "we all agreed we would go along like we have been—with no Negro players in the league."

"But," he added, "some of the other operators got to talking with big league farm system directors that night and became convinced working agreement couldn't be obtained for a segregated league."

"The picture changed overnight. So we had another meeting this morning, and I gave up the franchise."

WANDERING PLAYERS
GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—In this era of far-ranging football players, the Colorado State College team is something of an oddity. Only 4 of its 36 players are from outside Colorado. By contrast, of the 70 players listed on the University of Colorado roster at the season's start, only 18 were in their home state.

LATE START
CANANDAIGUA, N. Y. (AP) — The Finger Lakes Racing Association is off to a slow start. Its $4.5 million thoroughbred race track will open in the summer of 1962—a year late.

AL Expected To Vote For An Amended Bonus Rule

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Despite strong opposition by the Los Angeles and San Francisco National League clubs, the minors were expected to vote favorably today for an amended bonus rule designed to short-circuit what minors boss George Trautman has described as "the road to financial suicide."

At least 14 of the 22 existing minor leagues, appalled by the wild spending which cost baseball a reported total of $12 million in 1961 in bonus payments to untried youngsters, have indicated they have indicated they would vote "yes" for a proposal recommended by a committee of major league officials.

The new rule would result in the following:
1. A major league club would be allowed to farm out only one first-year man.

2. All others must either be kept on the 25-player roster or be subjected to irrevocable waivers for a set price of $8,000.

3. A first-year player not claimed by waivers would be subject to draft the following winter for $8,000.

4. The farmed-out player, although performing in minors, would be counted on the parent club's 25-player roster.

Opponents of the rule claim that while such a rule would curb the practice of excessive bonus payments, it also would stifle enterprise on the part of the more aggressive clubs, negate the need of large scouting staffs, and, most important, drive young athletes from baseball to other competitive fields.

All-ACC Grid Team Selected

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A backfield blending passing artistry with strong running and a line that compensates for a lack of beef by featuring rugged performers who can go both ways from the 1961 Associated Press All-Atlantic Coast Conference football team.

Roman Gabriel, sturdy quarterback who gained 1,133 yards for North Carolina State, has for backfield company halfbacks Alan White of Wake Forest and Gib Carson of North Carolina and fullback Bob Elliott, also of North Carolina.

Gabriel completed 99 of 186 passes for 937 while operating each week as the on-the-spot key man for a club that lost six games.

White led the conference ball carriers with 586 yards and drew added praise for his defensive work.

Elliott and Carson, with one game to play, already have clinched places among the top 10 AC ball carriers, combining for a total of almost 700 yards. Elliott also rocked them on defense as a linebacker and kicked extra points and field goals.

The No. 1 lineman is Gary Collins, Maryland's flashy flanker, who teams at end with Tommy King of Clemson. Both are good receivers and Collins, a three-year Terp Star, also punts well.

The tackles are juniors Jim Moss of South Carolina and Art

Gregory of Duke, with guards Jim LeCompte of North Carolina and Jean Berry, a Duke junior, and center Bob Hacker of Maryland rounding out a sturdy all-purpose line.

The line averages 206 pounds, 10 under last year's star team, and the backfield is three pounds lighter at 197. North Carolina leads with three places, Maryland and champion Duke two each, with four others schools each gaining one.

Gabriel and Collins distinguished themselves during the season by winning national recognition. Gabriel was Associated Press Back of the Week for his running and passing that resulted in four touchdowns against South Carolina two weeks ago. Collins was AP Lineman of the Week for his contribution to Maryland's upset of Syracuse early in the season. They are the only repeaters from last year's honor team.

The second team:
Ends—Bill Hull, Wake Forest; John Morris, N.C. State; Tackles—Roger Shoals, Maryland; Ronald Gassert, Virginia; Guards—Calvin West, Clemson; Bob Rowley, Virginia; Center—Joe Craver, North Carolina; Backs—Jim Parker, Clemson; Mark Leggett, Duke; Billy Gambrell, South Carolina; Ray Farris, North Carolina.

Honorable mention:
Ends—Jay Wilkinson, Duke; Coleman Glaze, Clemson; Tackles—Ronnie Osborne, Clemson; Dave Hynes, Clemson; Guards—Bill Kichiro, Maryland; Joe Bushofsky, N.C. State; Center—Ron Andreo, Clemson; Backs—Elmo Lam and Roy Scordato, Clemson; Dave Burch and Walt Rappold, Duke; Dick Shiner, Maryland.

GOOD SEASON AT POLLS
GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Coach Fritz Brennecke's Colorado Mines football team has taken its share of lumps this season but Fritz himself had no trouble in a race of his own this fall. He was unopposed for election to the Golden City Council.

Walter Blum won three straight Colonial Handicaps at Garden State, Camden, N. J. He won with Myrtle's Jet in 1956, with Venomous in 1957 and with Venomous again in 1958.

Three-Team System Has Navy Trapped Right Now

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Coach Wayne Hardin of Navy is trapped in a three-team football system he started out of necessity and he's not sure whether he'll stick to it next year.

He is certain to employ it against Army Saturday in Philadelphia.

"The system got us in it and it's going to have to get us out," he said.

Hardin decided last spring that with a lot of sophomores he couldn't fashion two teams to play both offense and defense and depend on them.

So he took the 11 top all-round players and made them his "two-way" eleven. Another group specialized on defense and still another on offense.

When the two-way team needed a rest, either the offensive or defensive team went in depending on whether Navy had the ball or the opposition.

Hardin felt it was easier to teach his youngsters just one phase of the game until they gained experience. When they did, he had planned to consolidate them into two elevens as in the past.

But as each team practiced more at its specialty, Hardin discovered they became so good at it he couldn't change.

Officials Still Present Problem

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP)—A rhubarb over fight officials broke out anew today as talk of the heavyweight championship bout between Floyd Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley edged slightly into the big fuss hereabouts over the Grey Cup football classic Saturday.

Most of the fans in this sports-mad town had been arguing over nothing but Wednesday night's Montreal-Toronto hockey game and the break up encounter between Winnipeg and Hamilton for the Canadian pro football title. The Grey Cup game stirs this town like a combination of Louisville on Derby week and Philadelphia on the eve of the Army-Navy game.

Canada's first world heavyweight championship fight almost had been overlooked until Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, and Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, Wednesday wrangled over an alleged agreement to use non-Canadian judges.

D'Amato shouted that McKenzie had okayed a contract approved last Oct. 16 calling for the employment of outside judges. McKenzie firmly replied he had done no such thing.

D'Amato said the fight would go on even if Canadian judges were employed. But he said today he planned to appeal to a higher authority. The manager said since McKenzie, the sole commissioner, is under the Canadian minister of labor, he would go and see him.

McKenzie already has hired a non-Canadian referee — former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott of Camden, N.J. It was difficult for those close to the scene to imagine why there would be so much concern over judges. Even Patterson and McNeeley agreed that only a referee able to count to ten will be necessary.

Patterson is a 10-1 favorite to win and the odds on a knockout probably would be prohibitive. Surprisingly both D'Amato and Pete Fuller, McNeeley's manager, quietly agreed to abide by the Ontario rules calling for the use of six-ounce gloves and the mandatory eight-count for knockdowns.

D'Amato favors the eight-count but doesn't care for the lighter gloves which help a puncher. Fuller liked the six-ounce gloves but wasn't happy over the mandatory eight-count.

INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS—DENVER (AP)—When Bob Loggins sold his interest in the Denver Bears baseball club and Denver Broncos football team, he was guaranteed $1,000 per month for 3 1/2 years — and four season tickets for all home games — during the same period.

The PGA golf tour in 1962 will be the richest in history. Events with $50,000 in prize money have been listed for Pebble Beach, Calif., San Francisco, Palm Springs, Calif., and Miami, Fla.

School Officials Crack Down On Exposed Knees

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (AP) — Brentwood High School officials have cracked down on girls' exposed knees, with 37 students being suspended for too-high hemlines.

Warnings didn't seem to do any good, so girls whose skirts were worn too short were sent earlier this week from their classes to the principal's office. The owners of the 37 pairs of knees were sent home for two days. Some of the girls may return today, and the remainder Friday.

Harvey S. Brickman, high school vice principal, said Wednesday night that he had received phone calls from a few irate mothers. "But in general," he added, "nearly all the parents are with us."

Brickman noted that the suspended girls don't have a leg to stand on, since a skirt-length ruling was drafted last spring with the aid of the student council, and the decision appears in the student handbook. The handbook states that skirts go no higher than mid-knee.

Many fashion experts say the current style puts hemlines just below the kneecap. A few fashion houses draw the line at mid-knee, and no higher.

Said Brickman: "Of course, many mothers look over their daughters before they leave for school, and their hemline lengths are all right. But some girls, after they get to school, roll up their skirts at the waist which, of course, makes them that much shorter."

When the "roll-up" girls are disciplined by their teachers, Brickman said, "by the time they get to the office the skirts are down."

Concerning the record number of suspensions, Brickman said teachers have been warning the high-hemline girls since the beginning of the school term in this Long Island community.

As is usual with suspensions, Brickman said, the parents of each student will be called in to talk things over.

Guidance Test By Titan Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Titan missile steered by a new inertial guidance system successfully flew a 5,000-mile course Wednesday night.

The guidance is being developed for the more powerful Titan II missile, which will begin test flights here early next year. It is contained entirely within the missile and requires no post-launch direction from the ground as does the radio-command guidance used on the earlier Titan I.

Boychoir Visit Set For College

The Columbus Boychoir of Princeton, N. J., one of this country's most popular and highly acclaimed vocal organizations, will appear at East Carolina College Friday, December 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

The concert by the singing boys will be presented under the sponsorship of the college Entertainment Committee as a major attraction of its 1961-1962 series of programs.

Founded in 1940, the Boychoir has for many years made annual tours which have been received enthusiastically by audiences in the United States and abroad.

The boys have sung with the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the NBC Symphony under Toscanini, and the Bach Aria Group. The RKO film "America's Singing Boys" told their story in 8,000 theaters at home and in foreign countries.

The State Department included the Columbus Boychoir School in one of its films for distribution abroad.

In 1957 the Boychoir was chosen by the State Department and the American National Theatre and

Consultant Here For Reading Demonstrations

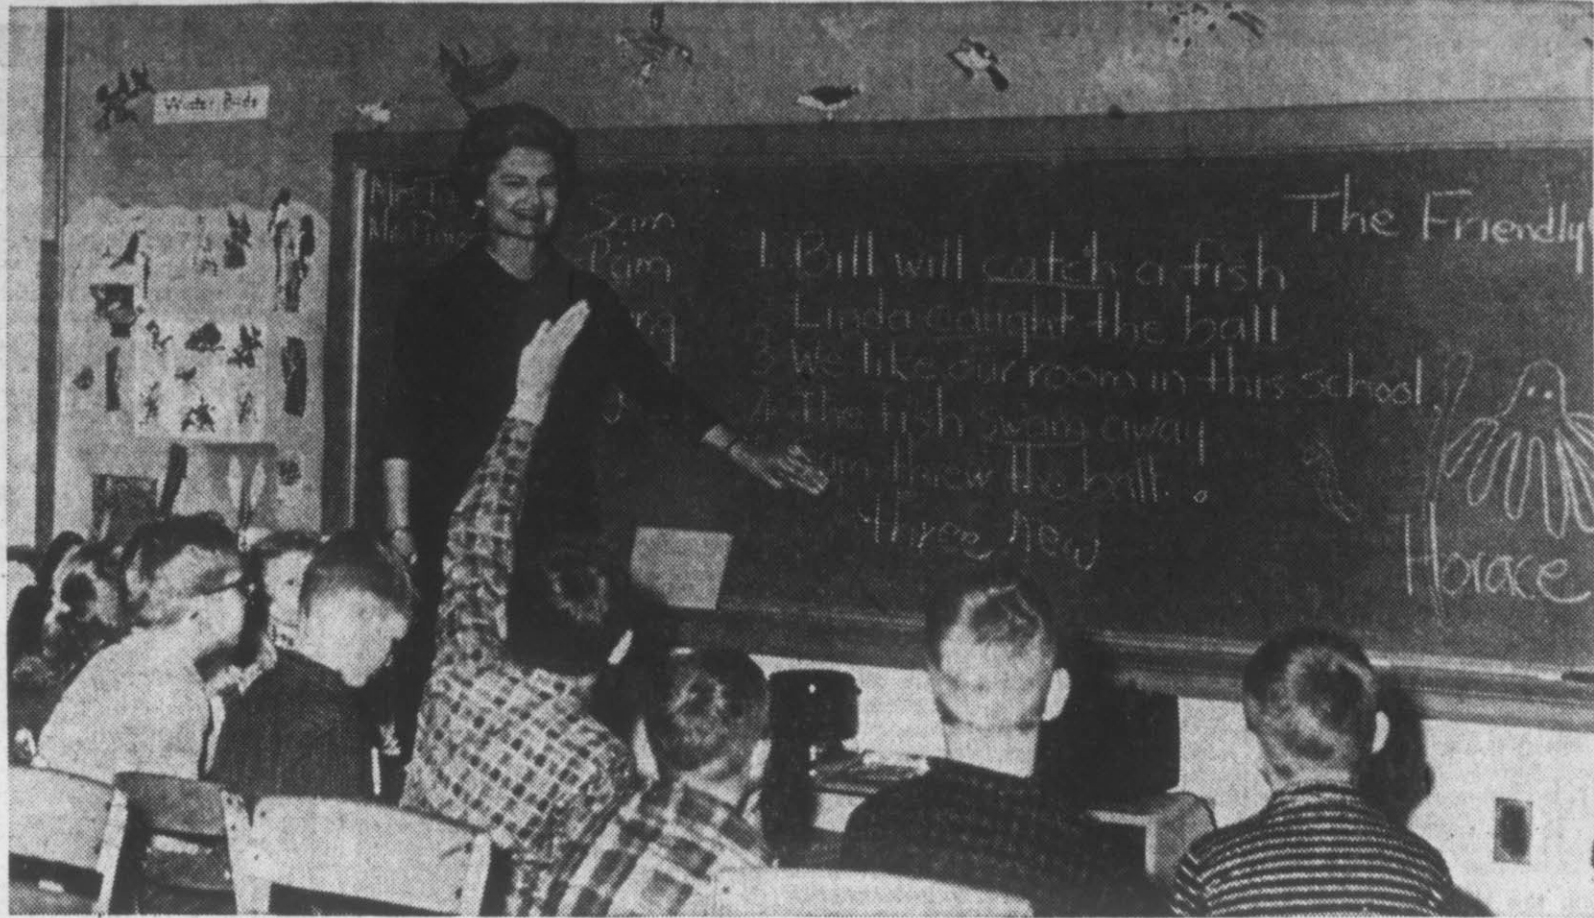

Demonstrations on reading are being given this week at Agnes Fullilove School, Third Street, Elmhurst and Wahl-Coates Laboratory School by Mrs. Inez W. Tanner, educational consultant.

Mrs. Tanner was to be here several days, working with small groups of children, so that their teachers and principals could observe the demonstrations. She was invited to visit the above schools by officials of the Greenville city school system.

She is working with students of the elementary grades.

Mrs. Tanner is an educational consultant with a textbook firm, working out of Atlanta, Ga. Books published by this company are used as supplementary textbooks in the local schools.

The consultant was accompanied to Greenville by Ray Pinion, state representative for the publishing firm.

New Supporters For Ship-Raising

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—Some new organizations entered the picture Wednesday and prospects for successfully raising the Confederate ironclad Neuse looked brighter.

The ship has lay at the bottom of the Neuse River here since she was scuttled by her owners in March 1865, to keep her out of the hands of approaching Yankees.

Completion of the job of raising her was turned over to the Lenoir County Confederate Centennial Commission Wednesday; and the Kinston Board of Aldermen and Lenoir County Commission voted $2,000 each for the project, to be combined with $2,000 from the Richardson Foundation.

The money will be turned over to three construction workers who started the project several weeks ago, Lemuel Houston, Tom Carlyle and H. C. Casey.

The three say their expenses already total $14,000. They have removed the mud and silt from the vessel.

The Kinston Junior Chamber of Commerce will also try to raise money to repay the three; and the centennial commission says if an admission is charged for viewing the ship, half the fees will go to Casey, Houston and Carlyle until the full $14,000 has been repaid.

Lenoir County Attorney Thomas White is conferring with Camp Lejeune officials about making the raising a Maine project on a public, non-profit basis.

Hamster Wasn't Really 'Sick'

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Cheeko, the pet hamster in the L. L. Ruzell household, wasn't feeling well Wednesday.

His eyes were glazed and blood-shot. He wobbled when he tried to walk.

The family thought about calling a veterinarian until they noticed a pungent odor coming from Cheeko's cage.

Several days ago Cheeko was given part of a fresh coconut. He ate his fill, then carried the leftovers into his cage.

The remains had fermented in a water dish.

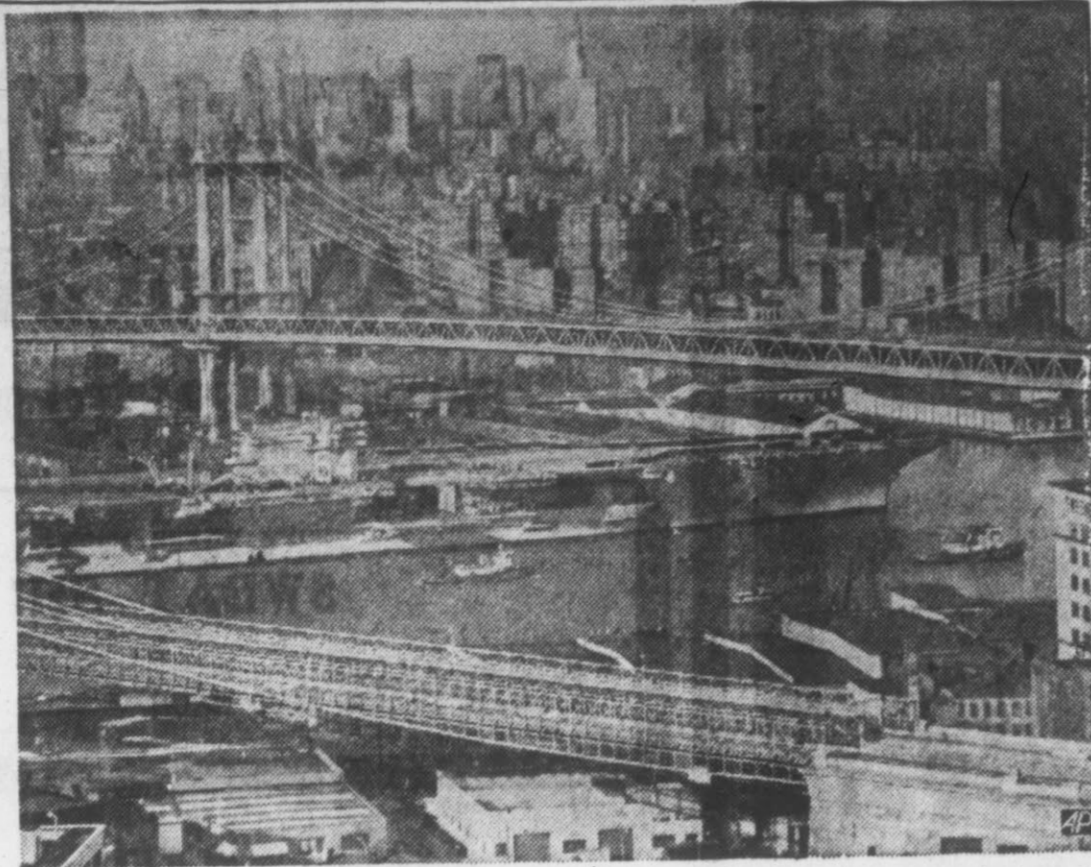

Cheeko wasn't sick—he was drunk.

Soldiers Mowed Down By Auto

FREJUS, France (AP)—An automobile mowed down a 45-man column of soldiers marching along the highway Wednesday injuring 35. Nineteen were reported in serious condition.

The soldiers were marching three abreast from a military camp to Frejus, where they were to embark on a train for Le Havre to sail for French Caribbean island service. Ambulances brought the injured to a hospital here.

Officials declined to say whether the driver of the car was being

Long Evening On TV For Viewer; Three Specials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If you stayed with NBC Wednesday evening, you visited a Manhattan "twist" joint, joined a Billy Graham crusade, heard Paul Anka sing A. E. Housman poetry and Doug Fairbanks Jr. read the preamble of the U. S. Constitution.

That's the kind of a night it was on NBC, with three hour-long specials one after the other. It was a long evening for constant viewer.

Taking up the program in reverse chronology, "The World of Billy Graham" showed a lot of film of the evangelist and his efficient team in action, but never fulfilled the promise of digging below the surface.

The "intimate glimpses" had a self-conscious staged air about them—and never once did we get a glimpse of the man behind the mellow voice and the flashing eye.

Perry Como's Roncom Production Co. obviously has the idea of selling an updated, TV version of "We the People" as a separate program and used Perry's variety hour to showcase a sample. It was an odd hodge podge of short features—including the aforementioned twist and Anka bits, a live parachute drop and—you won't believe it—a visit to the Museum of Modern Art in New York to hear a clarinet player improvise.

Spellman to visit Berlin.

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman says he expects to celebrate Mass Christmas day in Berlin this year during his 11th consecutive annual Christmas visit with U.S. troops abroad.

his reactions to the paintings. Finally, there was a history of Hollywood from its beginnings to the arrival of sound—"The Golden Years." The old film clips would have been more amusing if there had not been a lot of the same thing on TV recently, notably ABC's very good "Silents Please."

NBC, ABC and CBS are all showing three programs, each of special viewing interest, at the same time tonight. They are NBC's "Victoria Regina," ABC's "Yves Montand on Broadway," and a "CBS Reports" about a bookie raid. (And if I had to make a choice—which I don't because I saw a preview of the NBC show—it would be "Victoria Regina.")

Recommended tonight: "Victoria Regina," NBC, 9:30-11 (Eastern Standard Time)—adaptation of the Housman play with Julie Harris in the title-role; "Yves Montand on Broadway," ABC, 10-11—French and American tunes in a variety show with Polly Bergen and John Raitt; "CBS Reports," 10-11—documentary based on actual film of a raid on a Boston bookmaking establishment.

Students Moved Library Books

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Marietta College students braved freezing weather to carry 120,000 books and magazines from their old library to the new one Wednesday and had a big time doing it.

Roused out at 7:30 a.m. by the continuous ringing of the bell in Erwin Tower, nearly 1,200 of the school's 1,350 students formed into two lines for "Operation Book Brigade."

The job wasn't without its jokes. "Boy, what a guy won't do for a day off from school," one wag moaned.

Ten hours and 12 trips per person later and after a free lunch the student brigade was given the afternoon off to study—their

Crime Rate Has Continued Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Crime continued to increase in both urban and rural areas during the first nine months of this year.

This is the gist of the FBI's uniform crime reports for the period, announced today by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. City crime jumped 4 per cent over the same period in 1960, while the rural increase was 9 per cent.

In making his report, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover pointed out that the 4 per cent city rise is especially significant in light of substantial increases and new peaks in all crime categories in 1960.

A sharp rise in suburban areas helped account for the increased city crime. The over-all percentage rise in cities in the 25,000 to 50,000 population group, many of which comprise the country's suburban areas, was 10 per cent. An "alarming" 23 per cent increase in forcible rape was reported by cities with populations from 250,000 to 500,000. The 30 cities in this group reported 935 rapes, compared with 761 during the same period last year.

At the same time, forcible rapes for all cities reported declined 1 per cent, while increases were chalked up in all other crime categories. Included were a 4 per cent increase in murders, larcenies of $50 and over and auto thefts, a 2 per cent rise in robberies—and aggravated assaults and a 5 per cent increase in burglaries.

The statistics were supplied to the FBI by police agencies throughout the country.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. of A. was formed Nov. 29, 1950.

European Summer Tour Is Scheduled By ECC

East Carolina College through its Office of Public Relations and Extension announced this week its Third Annual Grand Tour of Europe, to be offered as a feature of the 2962 Summer Session.

Scheduled for June 9-July 17, the trip will take a group of student-tourists to nine European countries for visits to places famed for their historic, scenic, and cultural interest. Mrs. Myrtle B. Clark of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School at the college, director of the 1960 and 1961 Grand Tours of the college, will again accompany those participating in the 1962 event. Last summer 30 student-tourists made up the party.

After a short briefing session in New York City, tourists will begin their trip June 9 and will travel by Trans World Airlines jet plane to London. After three days in England, the group will cross the channel and go by luxury motor coach to Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Luxembourg, Italy, Switzerland, and France. The return trip to the United States will be on the new luxury liner to S. S. France.

Among the many places to be visited are Stratford-on-Avon and the Shakespeare Memorial Theater; The Hague and the famed flower market at Aalsmeer, Holland; the University City of Heidelberg; the great scientific Deutsches Museum at Munich; the Uffizi and Pitti Galleries at Florence; the Vatican and St. Peter's at Rome; the Italian Riviera; Lucerne and Berne in Switzerland;

Japan consists of four main islands.

by river steamer; travel along the Autobahn, Germany's super highway system; and motor trips through the Italian Dolomites to Venice and from Switzerland to Paris are included among attractions of the tour.

Those enrolled as students on the tour will, on completion of requirements, receive nine quarter hours of graduate or undergraduate credit, according to the type of work done. Those who do not wish college credit may also go on the tour.

Dazzling Goals For Higher Education Set For South

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—In an hour of crisis for the entire nation, the South must build a system of higher education capable of developing the varying talents of all its people. Such a system is essential to meet demands of the vast urban, industrial and technological society now rapidly emerging in the region.

This view, plus a dramatic, detailed blueprint for constructing that system of higher education in the South was presented here today by the seven-member Commission on Goals for Higher Education in the South. Dr. Colgate W. Darden, Jr., former governor of Virginia, was chairman of this group charged with recommending long range goals for Southern higher education. The report was released at an unprecedented meeting of 175 regional leaders including eight Southern governors, numerous state legislative leaders, more than 50 college and university presidents and scores of other state leaders concerned with higher education from the 16-state area.

Noting that land-grant colleges and state universities have laid the foundation for modern, scientific agriculture, the Commission charged Southern higher institutions now "to pave the way for new science, industry and technology" in the region. "Our universities increasingly must become the initiators, the prime movers of progress. From them must flow the ideas, the imaginative and creative plans, to be translated into action by the people of the South."

"Liberal education must be restored to a place of prominence in the undergraduate curriculum," the report continued. Southern colleges and universities "must develop young men and women alert to the needs of the time, capable of adjusting to constant and unrelenting change and equipped with the vision, energy and courage to shoulder the burdens which history has thrust upon our nation," the report added.

"If this region fails to cultivate its intellectual resources," the report warned, "it must abandon hope of directing its own economic destiny." The South can "expect to be economically healthy only if it has the technical training and intellectual development required to exploit the potential of the new science and technology."

The report, entitled "Within Our Reach," was delivered by members of the Commission. Presiding over the meeting were Governor Buford Ellington of Tennessee, chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference, and Governor Terry Sanford, chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board. The SREB created the Goals Commission and the Board's staff served as the staff for the Commission during the study this past year.

The Commission expressed the conviction that "the key to meeting the needs of region and nation is the creation or improvement in each state of a true state system of higher education." Such a system would provide a wide range of opportunities for "all its citizens through a variety of institutions and through coordinated

Silver Miners Likely To Approve New Policy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Silver—a commodity or a backing for money? And what price silver? Today the metal is under a spotlight perhaps more intense than at any time since the days of William Jennings Bryan's cry for 16-to-1 status for silver.

As a commodity, silver has been teetering on the edge of short supply. Miners say its official prices have been too low to encourage sufficient output. Users wanted the price held down.

As a backing for paper money it supports some $2 billion of paper currency, all $1 bills and some $2, $5 and $10 bills, known as silver certificates, and it circulates as coins.

President Kennedy has ordered the Treasury to stop selling it at a pegged rate of 91.5 cents an ounce. He also wants the silver certificates replaced gradually by Federal Reserve notes—now the most widely used form of folding money.

That makes miners happy, and many others in states where mining activity may perk up. It makes users unhappy, although many agree it seemed inevitable. Some silver dealers here say the price might jump above $1 an ounce, now that the Treasury isn't selling it at what they call bargain rates.

Commercial use of silver has been growing—while production of silver has been dropping. It goes into jewelry and silverware. But use has been soaring for photographic film and electronics equipment, for use in missiles, in organic chemistry, even food preservation, and for electrical circuits in such appliances as TV sets and radios.

Higher metal prices could in time affect the retail prices of such items.

Supplies have grown tighter because much silver output was closed down, miners saying they couldn't operate profitably at the legal price—90.5 cents an ounce—the Treasury paid for their metal.

The gap between demand and supply in this country has been bridged by the U.S. Treasury selling part of its supply. At the start of the year the Treasury had 123.5 million ounces not tied up as backing for currency. The steady commercial demand has whittled that down to 22 million ounces.

Now commercial users must look to the world market—where prices seem bound to rise, even if they fluctuate widely for a time. American silver producers—and those in other lands—contend that the expected higher price for the metal will start up production in mines now idle.

With more production, they argue, the metal will come back to adequate supply and the price will be stable.

Big users aren't so happy. Eastman Kodak uses nearly 28.5 million ounces a year to make silver nitrate for its films. It has tried to build up a stockpile, wishes it could have got more.

Some users are philosophical about it. At the rate the Treasury stockpile was dwindling, there wouldn't have been much left in it anyway, even if the President hadn't acted.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET THE GOOD WORD ABOUT THE '62 JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET

Jet-smooth ride 542

Jet-smooth ride, n. 1. The cloud-9 feeling of comfort that people in Chevrolets enjoy wherever they go. 2. A supple Full Coil spring flexing at each wheel of a Chevrolet to absorb road shock. These are teamed with over 700 noise and vibration filters throughout the automobile so that the total effect is a ride of supreme quiet and smoothness. 3. The reason why so many Chevrolet-owning families leave home ever so happily. 4. A habit-forming pleasure for which no cure is known, wanted or sought.

new V8-skedaddle, n. 1. The result of touching an accelerator that's linked to one of Chevrolet's new V8 engines (also known as "six-skedaddle" when engine is Chevrolet's trusty 135-hp. Six). 2. The moving power of Chevrolet's 1962 V8 engines. There are five of them, ranging from a standard 170-hp. version up to an optional-at-extra-cost 409-hp. powerhouse.

Body by Fisher craftsmanship, n. 1. The closest that a body manufacturer has come to the infinite care and skill of the jewelry maker. 2. The art and science of designing and forming metal into the strong, solid body structure of the 1962 Chevrolet. Typical hallmarks are long, smooth sheet metal shapes without ripples or blemishes, neatly joined seams, and doors and trunk lids that are carefully shaped and fitted into place for easy opening and closing. 3. Something you won't find in any other car in Chevrolet's field.

deep-well trunk, n. 1. The giant warehouse built into the rear of a 1962 Chevrolet. 2. A trunk that loads at the bumper level and has a capacity of 29.7 cubic feet. It is built with an extra-deep recession in its floor so that it can easily accept odd-shaped outside objects.

comfort-high seats, n. 1. Thought by many to be the most comfortable things to happen to the bottom side of the human lap since dad's overstuffed armchair. 2. Seats that are high enough to support and relax the thighs and weight-bearing muscles of the body (better for sitting, better for seeing). By providing resilient, deep-padded support throughout the backrest and seat itself, they bring on a remarkable feeling of comfort and well-being.

front fender underskirts, n. 1. An advance that's causing people to say things like "What won't those Chevrolet engineers come up with next!" 2. Sturdy steel linings that are under the front fenders of 1962 Chevrolets to add extra protection against flying stones, mud, slush, road salt and that old bugaboo, corrosion. 3. One of many ways the 1962 Chevrolet is built to stay beautiful.

rich new interiors, n. 1. One of the principal reasons why people step into the 1962 Chevrolets and promptly feel luxurious all over. 2. An arresting combination of lovely, long-lived materials used in an elegant way to decorate the new Chevrolet's passenger compartment and tickle the fancy of its occupants. 3. A harmonizing blend of the functional—such as the clean-cut, neatly ordered instrument panel—with the tasteful and the fresh.

slim-roof styling, n. 1. The clean-etched lines that typify the 1962 Chevrolet and contribute so much to its look of elegance. 2. Ancient Sculpture For Museum

"Madonna with the Protective Cloak"

RALEIGH — An outstanding 14th Century Swabian sculpture has been given to the North Carolina Museum of Art by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. it was announced today.

This is the only representation of this important theme in any American collection. Dr. Justus Bier, museum director, stated the gift culminates a long search by the museum and the tobacco company for an important and significant work of art for contribution by the Winston-Salem company to the museum.

The sculpture is titled "Madonna with the Protective Cloak." Already the statue has aroused the interest of scholars in the field. One of them, Ralph T. Coe, curator of painting and sculpture of William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Kansas City, Mo., stated, "It can be termed one of those great masterpieces that immediately sets a museum above the average."

Hyatt Mayor curator of prints of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, referred to the "Madonna with the Protective Cloak" as "terribly impressive—a great acquisition."

Finish Fuelling Nuclear Vessel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nuclear ship Savannah had a full load of atomic fuel aboard Wednesday, but months will elapse before the enriched uranium is used to propel the vessel.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced completion of loading 17,000 pounds of enriched uranium oxide fuel into the Savannah's reactor. The work, had started Monday at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. docks at Camden, N.J. Another month of testing lies ahead before a chain reaction is started in the ship's reactor, and still another month or so will be devoted to low-power tests at Camden limited to 10 per cent of capacity.

Parisian Crowds Shout For Peace

PARIS (AP)—Several hundred demonstrators surged through the streets around the City Hall Wednesday night shouting for peace in Algeria, but were clubbed and dispersed by police.

The crowds, mostly youths, gathered on a call from an organization called the Movement of Peace, published in the Communist newspaper Humanite.

President Bids Dulles Farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy dropped in at the Central Intelligence Agency to pay his respects to its retiring director, Allen W. Dulles.

Kennedy flew by helicopter on Tuesday from the White House to the CIA's headquarters at Langley, Va., to join in an unheralded ceremony for Dulles, 68, who leaves his post today.

The chief executive awarded Dulles the National Security Medal for distinguished service in the field of intelligence.

A NEW TWIST

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Douglas Solitto, 18, was doing "the twist" in front of a pizza shop's plate glass window Wednesday night when he lost his balance and crashed through the window. He suffered only a slight cut on the cheek.

Russian Ambassador To UN Walks Out On Johnson

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet ambassador to the United Nations walked out of a humanitarian award dinner Wednesday night after Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson warned the Soviet Union against any attack on Europe.

The ambassador, Valerian A. Zorin, left the dais just after Johnson said "any Soviet attack on Europe would be a most hazardous enterprise."

Zorin's walkout was joined by Luka Kizya, the Ukrainian representative, and Yordan Tchobanov, Bulgaria's ambassador to the U.N., and their wives. The ambassadors of Poland and Yugoslavia did not join Zorin in leaving.

Zorin refused to talk to newsmen in the Hotel Astor ballroom, where 800 guests were assembled to honor Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the U.N.

Later, at Soviet U.N. mission headquarters, Zorin accused Johnson of "embarrassing" him and making "political" remarks, adding: "At a dinner of a humanitarian function such a statement was out of place."

After the dinner Johnson, asked for comment, replied: "It's a speech, a speech."

Johnson, who read his speech, had called attention to the buildup of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and said: "Its forces have steadily expanded in numbers and efficiency. Any Soviet attack on Europe would be a most hazardous enterprise. The principal base of Western power outside the U.S. is vastly more secure."

Zorin said that he had no opportunity to reply at once to Johnson.

"If it were a political discussion or a meeting," Zorin said, "I would do so."

"I am sorry to have interrupted such a fine dinner," Zorin added. "There was nothing else I could do under the circumstances."

Johnson did not appear to have noticed that Zorin left the table.

Angier Biddle Duke, chief of protocol of the State Department and master of ceremonies at the dinner, said: "I didn't even know they'd left."

Stevenson, who was honored with Medico's "World Humanitarian Award," said he had no comment on Zorin's walkout.

Medico cited Stevenson as an "ambassador extraordinary whose deep concern for the liberty and dignity of mankind reflects the highest American ideals and inspires all men." The award consists of a crystal bowl set in a box with a silver plaque.

Medico is a non-profit organization founded by Dr. Peter D. Comanduras and the late Dr. Tom Dooley which sends American volunteer doctors and nurses throughout the free world. A Medico spokesman said the annual award need not be to a person in the medical field.

Johnson said in his speech critics of national policy "claim that we should have a national strategy and we should have some successes," adding: "And I am here today to tell you that we have both."

The vice president ticked off what he called decisive defeats for the Communists in Japan, the Philippines, Malaya, Burma and Indonesia. He conceded the Far East is not secure from attack, but said the Communist threat had receded except in Laos and South Viet Nam.

Johnson cited Free World "success stories" in the Middle East, in India and Pakistan. He said South Korea is free.

In South America, Johnson said, the Communists have been thrown back everywhere except in Cuba. As for Africa, he said, "We are now working closely with virtually every one of these newly independent nations."

He conceded that "staggering problems remain," but added: "We can lick these problems if we address them with vigor and confidence."

Kennedy Studies S. America Visits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy may visit Venezuela and Colombia next month to demonstrate his interest in Alliance for Progress, a program of aid and self-help for Latin America.

If Kennedy makes the trip—a final decision is expected within a week—it would be his first south of the border since taking office. He has visited Europe and Canada as President.

Discussions with the two Latin American governments are under way, the White House press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said Wednesday. But, he added, "no final decisions or plans have been made."

The United States has pledged $1 billion-plus for this first year of the program. The United States already has committed more than $800 million of this aid, Kennedy told a meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council Wednesday.

Salinger would not speculate on when Kennedy might start on the trip. Other Washington sources talked about mid-December, with Dec. 14 as a possible starting date.

Salinger said Venezuela and Colombia are the only two nations involved in present travel discussions.

Kennedy planned to attend the Inter-American Economic Conference in Uruguay last July. He later canceled the trip, giving as the reason pressing duties in Washington.

When Richard M. Nixon, then vice president, and his wife visited Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, in 1958 they were met by dedicating educational and housing projects launched with Alliance for Progress aid funds.

The program is designed to aid economic development in Latin American countries that undertake reforms to better the lives of their people.

White House sources indicated that if Kennedy goes to South America, Mrs. Kennedy will accompany him.

Both the Venezuelan and Colombian governments are friendly to the United States. If Kennedy visits the two countries he would dedicate educational and housing projects launched with Alliance for Progress aid funds.

The program is designed to aid economic development in Latin American countries that undertake reforms to better the lives of their people.

Marine Pilot Dies As Planes Collide In Air

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A Marine pilot was killed Wednesday night when two jet fighter planes on a routine training mission collided in the air near here and plummeted into the Newport River.

His identity was withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

The other pilot, Capt. Harris J. Fennell, 28, ejected safely. He was numb from exposure when picked up by a boat from nearby Crab Point, but was reported in good condition at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station Hospital.

The A4D Sky Hawk jets were a part of Attack Squadron 242 of the Second Marine Air Wing at Cherry Point.

Base Public Information Officer Capt. Ed Schultz said the planes usually pair in twos for such training mission, and that the planes which collided probably were grouped together.

Shortly before the accident, Schultz said, the men had been practicing landing approaches, one behind the other. It was not believed, however, that they were engaged in this type of training when they collided.

Capt. Schultz said a Marine Aircraft Accident Report Board will investigate to determine what caused the crash.

Several Coast Guard and Marine vessels searched the waters for several hours before finding the victim's body. What remained of both aircraft was found floating within a 1,000-foot radius.

Capt. Fennell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fennell of Gilmer, Tex. He lives on the base with his wife and their three children.

Authorities indicated he would probably be released from the hospital today.

Utilities Dept. Acquires Uniforms

UTILITIES HAS UNIFORMS . . . Meter Reader James Case, light brown trousers, dark brown shirt; Supervisor W. E. Hill, dark brown; Foreman Billy Weston, gray; Workman Hilton Nichols, green.

Greenville Utilities employees are sporting new uniforms these days resulting from a rental plan recently inaugurated by the commission.

Director Leonard Bloxam said supervisory personnel, meter readers, foremen and workmen each have identifying colored uniforms. Supervisors are wearing tan shirts and dark brown trousers, Bloxam said. Meter readers are issued tan shirts and trousers. Foremen are wearing gray shirts and trousers. Workmen and other employees are issued olive green shirts and trousers.

Identification is included on each uniform with the name of the employee and his department over the left pocket and the Greenville Utilities Commission identification patch over the right pocket.

The same coloring will be used for winter and summer uniforms. "The big reason for getting into this is to identify our workmen who are serving the public and to let the customer know to whom he is talking and what department he represents," Bloxam stated.

He said the commission has set up an annual appropriation of $5,000 to $6,000 with the actual

Decide Turnpike Is Big Success

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (A.P.)—The New Jersey turnpike is 10 years old and an unqualified success.

When sections of the 118-mile north-south toll road were opened late in 1951, the engineers predicted that 30 million vehicles a year would cross the superhighway by 1961.

The 30 million milestone was passed in 1958 and an estimated 52 million vehicles will use the road this year.

Since the turnpike was opened, more than 330 million cars, buses and trucks have transported over 800 million persons across the highway, the N. J. Turnpike Authority estimated today.

rental cost depending on the number of employees. Employees themselves also pay a weekly charge which basically covers the cost of laundering the uniforms.

At present, 122 Utilities employees are wearing the uniforms. Office personnel are not authorized them.

Employees have the option of obtaining jackets in their uniform colors by paying the rental fee involved. This has proved popular with outside workmen, according to Bloxam.

FOUNDATION ORGANIZED

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Disciples of Christ Historical Society is the latest of a number of church groups to set up an investment foundation. Cash donations to the foundation are invested, and earnings are used to support the society.

The first Baptist Church of America was founded in 1638 in Providence, R. I. by Roger Williams.

School Librarians Organize At Meet

BY CAROLYN BALDREE STOKES — The Librarians at Stokes-Pactolus High School have met and elected officers for the school year.

Elected at the group's meeting were Shirley Woolard, president, and Jean Paramore, secretary-treasurer.

Following the election was a discussion of the various duties of the librarians. Mrs. Thelma Switzer is advisor for the group. The Beta Club, at its meeting last week, was hosted by its president, Linda Warren. Delores Roebuck presented a program on "How to Study" and after a business session refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

Chapel was given by the Beta Club Nov. 16. Linda Warren, president, conducted the meeting. The devotion was given by Franklin Congelton.

Following the devotion Rosalyn Fleming sang the "Lord's Prayer." The parts of the Beta Club Creed were given by the following members: Margaret Lee, Rosalyn Fleming, Rosalie Bunting, Billie Briley, Delores Roebuck, Linda Warren, and Ella Grace Stokes.

The speaker for the meeting was the Rev. Terry Agner from Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Greenville.

The F.H.A. members met in the auditorium Nov. 21. Linda Henderson and Yvonne Hathaway gave the devotion. The program was presented by Jill Warren and Linda Knox.

Donnie Whitehurst was elected F.H.A. Sweetheart. Mrs. Harvey Whitehurst, Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill and Mrs. Heber Fleming were elected F.H.A. Chapter Mothers.

The Future Farmers of America met Nov. 21.

On Nov. 10, a Pep Rally was held in the school auditorium. Cheers were led by the cheerleaders and the coaches of the Stokes-Pactolus "Blue Jays." W. J. Edwards and William Harrison, introduced the basketball players. The Juniors sponsored a teen-age club dance for Thanksgiving Wednesday night in the Pactolus

Community Center.

Chapel was given by the 10th and 11th grades Nov. 22. The devotion was given by Elaine Buck, who read the 100th Psalm. Following the devotion Lois Haddock sang, "Bless This House."

The program was given by George Roebuck, Lois Haddock, Shirley Meeks, Dwight Bullock, L. E. Bullock and Clifton Butler.

Town Declares Holiday For Ape

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP)—Monkeys put Dayton on the map in 1925 with the Scopes evolution trial, so the town took an official holiday and cheered as Enos the space ape whirled through the skies.

World attention focused on this small East Tennessee mountain town when John Scopes was tried and convicted of teaching the theory of evolution in a high school here in violation of a still existing state law.

Dayton Mayor J. M. Abel issued an official proclamation as Enos was returned to earth safely Wednesday. It declared the remainder of the day a holiday in Dayton.

They acted "The Open Window." After the Program the Juniors sang ballads.

The Future Teachers of America met on Nov. 23. The devotion was given by Ella Grace Stokes, Jennie Forbes, Helen Briley, Rosalyn Fleming, Diane Whitehurst, and Sally Cascone participated in the program.

Mrs. Virginia Lang, advisor, was in charge of installation of the 22 new members. The officers for this school term are: Helen Briley, president; Jennie Forbes, vice president; Diane Whitehurst, secretary; Kathy Hardison and Brenda Hart, song leaders; and Margaret Lee, pianist.

Store Teeth For Cows Is Helpful

CHICAGO (AP)—A dentist who branched out into making store teeth for cows was credited today with boosting total milk production per animal as much as 48.8 per cent.

Dr. Ward C. Newcomb, a Chapel, Neb., dentist has a bovine tooth crown exhibit at the 1961 International Livestock Exhibit. Jerry Haynes, in charge of the exhibit, said a patient induced Newcomb in 1959 to "do something" for the cows in that vicinity, where grasses have an abrasiveness. Their teeth wore down in about 10 years. They couldn't eat properly, so their weight dropped and their milk production slumped.

Haynes said Newcomb has developed a set of steel tooth crowns that run from $20 to $35 per animal and extends their milk producing years.

Father Thrilled Over Space Trip

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—John H. Glenn Sr.'s excitement and enthusiasm is running about as high as his son will go in his planned orbit of the earth.

The son is Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 40, the Marine astronaut named Wednesday to make the first space orbit flight for the United States.

"He's thrilled to death and I guess we are, too," said John Sr. Wednesday. He said he and John Jr.'s mother weren't worried. "The better you know Project Mercury, the more confidence you have in it," the elder Glenn said, adding, "we're very happy for him. That is what he wanted to do."

New Insignia For U.S. Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force is issuing a new silver wing insignia for its astronauts to wear.

The first insignia will go to Capt. Virgil "Gus" Grissom, who qualified last July in his flight down the missile range from Cape Canaveral. The wings will be pinned on Grissom in a Pentagon ceremony some time next week.

To qualify for the insignia—a shooting star superimposed over the regular pilot's silver wing insignia—Air Force pilots must fly powered space vehicles to a height above 50 miles.

Mothers Cause Re-Routing Bus

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—A group of mothers won a battle Wednesday against use of an old wooden bridge on a school bus route.

Since Monday, the mothers have gone to the bridge each day, taken their children off the bus and walked them across. They contended the iron-shouldered wooden-planked bridge across Wappingers Creek is unsafe.

The Board of Education deferred to the mothers Wednesday with a decision to reroute the bus several miles out of its way.

The board wouldn't agree the bridge is unsafe but concluded the whole affair was emotionally disturbing to the children, especially those whose mothers didn't walk them across.

Algerian Police Unable Halt Riot

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — Roving bands of young Europeans attacked Algerians and set fire to Algerian shops Wednesday in the fourth day of a rampage that harassed police apparently are unable to quell.

Fears of a blood bath grew as terror in Algeria's second city mounted. Ten persons—9 of them Algerians—were killed and 40 injured.

A strike by European merchants—apparently to protest previous attacks by Moslems—accompanied the new outbreaks throughout this sprawling port city of 400,000.

Street fighting, in the past usually confined to one section, flared almost everywhere. Police and troops, supported by armored vehicles, tried unsuccessfully to isolate the trouble centers while spotter helicopters flew overhead.

One European gang stopped a bus, hauled out the Moslem passengers, stabbed one to death and beat up several others.

In another section, a shot was fired from a building under construction. Word spread that it was fired by an Algerian. Angry Europeans grabbed a passing Moslem and lynched him on the spot.

France Indicates Advance Toward Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — France may be getting close to becoming the fourth nation with atomic weapons.

This was hinted in a statement by the French armed forces minister, Pierre Messmer, that France is beginning to achieve significant results in nuclear weapons development.

The term significant results, he said Wednesday, could mean mastering techniques, actually manufacturing the weapons or having them in quantity.

Messmer declined to say at a news conference how far France has progressed. But the mastering of atomic weapons techniques—the earliest of the three stages he mentioned—would put France on the threshold of acquiring nuclear armaments.

So far, only the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have become atomic weapons powers.

Khrushchev Sent Pope Greetings

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev sent birthday greetings to Pope John XXIII last weekend, the first time any Soviet premier is known to have sent any greeting to a pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Vatican said the message had been received and a reply sent but would give no details. Presumably the reply was an expression of thanks.

Sharks Repelled By Electronics

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Hicks has invented an electronic device designed to repel sharks.

He went to the Miami Seaquarium Wednesday to test it. The Navy sent observers. News cameramen were on hand.

Sitting on a rubber raft in the shark channel, Hicks manned a control box. Wires fastened underneath the raft were supposed to impart an electrical shock to any over-interested shark.

A small, docile shark came along and Hicks gave it an electrical tinkle. Then he switched the charge to an 8-foot brute. The big shark butted the raft and almost upset it.

Hicks scampered quickly to safer grounds.
