City's Christmas Parade Tuesday To See 38 Units

Thirty-eight units will participate in Greenville's annual Christmas parade, which will begin at 4:00 p.m. Tuesday under sponsorship of the Greenville Merchants Association.

The parade will signal the official opening of the Christmas season here, with Christmas lights in downtown areas being turned on.

Local and out-of-town bands, professional and non-professional floats and marching units will compose the parade units. All participating units will organize at Ninth and Dickinson Avenue at 3 p.m. on Tuesday. An information center will be located on West Ninth Street at the rear of Winn-Dixie to assist unit leaders.

Units participating in the parade will include Mickey Rouse and his unicycle throughout the event, and leading the parade will be a motorcycle, police car and the R.O.T.C. Color Guard of East Carolina College.

These will be followed by some 200 Cub Scouts, the Rose High School band and "Bozo" the clown from WNCN-TV Station, Mount-Harvey's float and the V.F.W. Auxiliary float.

The Tarboro High School Band will follow, with Battonettes from Havelock, Exchange Club float, Planters Bank float, R.O.T.C. Drill Team, East Carolina College float, St. Raphael Chapel float and the East Carolina College band.

The Twirlettes, or "Ann Bradford Girls" will come next, followed by floats from Jenkins Motor Co., J. C. Sams' Claus, and Frosty Morn; also, Farmville High School band and floats from State Bank and Trust Co., Brownies, Girl Scouts, Lion's Club, H. B. Fugg High School Band and the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The Civitan Club will sponsor a clown riding a lawn mower. Other units will include a float from the Mount Olive Enterprise with Chimpanzee and clown, Epes High School Band, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, South Ayden School Band, Elks and Juvenile Drum Corps and Majorettes, Merchants Association float, and the Horse Guard, Rescue truck, fire truck and the Moose Lodge entry.

The parade will proceed down Dickinson Avenue toward Five Points, turn left on Washington Street, move on Washington Street to Third Street. It will turn right on Third Street and proceed to Evans Street, turn right on Evans toward Five Points, proceed from Five Points down East Fifth Street to the East Carolina College parking lot where it will disband.

Prizes will be awarded to the best professional and non-professional floats. Judges will be Mayor S. F. Peterson of Ayden, Marvis Speight, president of Farmville Chamber of Commerce, and George S. Gardner, member of the Washington, N. C. City Council.

W. C. Taylor Jr. is chief marshal for the parade.

Parade committees include J. A. Collins Jr., line up bands; Clarke Stokes, E. S. Webb, Mrs. Sam White II, Mrs. Clay Burnett, Charles Horne, C. W. Harvey Jr. and Jack Wallace, line up floats and other units; Charles Hudson, to obtain tractors to pull floats; Herbert Wilkerson and Jim Mallory, in charge of girls riding on floats; F. B. Johnson Jr., float entry committee; B. B. Drum, scouts; Regan Jones, line up horse guard.

Parking Meters Said Robbed

Greenville police reported today that a number of parking meters on Cotanche, Fourth and Third Sts. were damaged or broken into over the weekend.

Investigators said one meter on Fourth and Third Sts. and three on Cotanche St. were broken open and money taken. Several additional meters on Third Street were damaged, the officers noted. Total damage to the city property was estimated to be about $250, officers said. They estimated the money taken from the meters to be about six dollars.

Investigation of the thefts is continuing, police officials reported.

Stolen Merchandise Also Recovered

Youths Arrested For Theft Of Car

Three 16-year-old Negro youths, one from Grimesland and two from Washington, were charged with auto larceny and littering the highways after being stopped Saturday night in a stolen vehicle.

According to officials, the three were stopped just outside the Greenville city limits on Mumford Road, by Patrol Cpl. J. G. Thomas.

They were identified as Sherman

Crandall of Route 1, Grimesland, who was driving the auto; and Woodrow Wilson Jr. and Henry Rodman, both of Respass Street, Washington.

Officers said the three admitted taking the vehicle from Washington about 8 p.m. They were stopped with the stolen vehicle at 11 p.m.

Officers quoted the three as saying they had taken the car so they could go to Wilson.

Patrolmen, in addition to charging the three with the theft of the auto, charged them with litterbugging.

Officers explained that the three had thrown several hundred dollars worth of merchandise and literature out on the highway in at least two places between Washington and Grimesland. It was noted that an estimated $1,500 worth of auto radios, seat belts and other car accessories were in the auto at the time it was taken.

Crandall was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon when officers found two knives on him, one stuck under his belt, hidden under a shirt and sweater.

The three were convicted in a Pitt County Justice of Peace court this morning on the littering charges and were scheduled for a hearing in Washington on the larceny charges this afternoon.

Crandall is also scheduled for trial in Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday on the concealed weapons charge.

Grifton Counts 378 Registered For Bonds Vote

GRIFTON — The coming $155,000 school bond election here drew 378 persons to register within the prescribed time in order to vote in the Dec. 9 election.

Passage of the issue would lead to addition of an adequate high school wing, which "would fill all our classroom requirements for the next five years, at least," Sam Nelson, chairman of the Grifton School Committee, said today.

The committee and school authorities resorted to the bond issue as the only way to provide adequate classrooms to meet growth needs of the population at this time. Grifton's population grew from some 500 persons to over 1,800, according to the 1960 census which covered the 10-year period 1950-60.

Commenting on the registration for the special election, Principal E. B. Bright said, "I feel that this turnout means that a large segment of our community realizes the great need for increased classroom space."

Speaking of the bond election, a school committee spokesman said, "We cannot continue adding classrooms one at a time without bonding, since the financial sources we have used for this purpose in the past have been exhausted."

Taxpayers of the district will bear the burden of the bonds, officials of the school say. Nelson estimated that approval of this issue would necessitate an increase of 26 cents per $100 valuation in the current district tax rate.

The taxable valuation of property in Pitt County is 33 per cent of the appraised value. If the property in Grifton were valued for taxation at 60 per cent of the appraised value, as is the practice in a nearby county, the Grifton tax rate would be only $1.20 as compared to the current nearby county rate of $1.71, it was explained. "While an increase of 26 cents may seem like a lot, the increased rate will still compare favorably with our neighboring county, when compared on the same basis," Nelson stated.

The increase would amount to about 65 cents per month for the average owner of a $10,000 home or about $1.00 per month for a $15,000 home.

The possibility of obtaining federal or state aid for the construction and possibility of educational consolidation of Grifton High School with neighboring high schools has been considered in viewing necessary expansion of local school facilities. "With regard to Government aid, there is no possibility of such aid this year when our need is the greatest," Nelson said.

If financial assistance from sources becomes available some time in the future, the citizens of Grifton may be assured that the school committee will apply (Continued on page 16)

Commissioners Agree To Transfer Of HD Agent

By HENRY HOWARD

Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Commissioners today concurred in a proposal by the Negro Extension Service that would result in the transfer of Pitt Negro home demonstration agent Mrs. Amelia Capehart from Pitt to Moore County.

Acting on a motion by J. Vance Perkins of Greenville, the commissioners agreed to the transfer suggested in a letter from R. E. Jones of the State Extension Service.

Commissioners Chairman Robert G. Little said Jones was scheduled to appear before this afternoon's session of the official board to present the Extension Service's suggested replacement in Pitt for Mrs. Capehart and former Negro farm agent James M. Goode who was ousted from his job in September.

The commissioners commended Mrs. Capehart for her service to the county in approving the transfer.

In addition to Jones' appearance today, the commissioners were scheduled to conduct their annual reorganization this afternoon. They will elect a new chairman to succeed Little who was elected last December.

In other business today, the commissioners withdrew official approval of State Highway Commission funds allocated for a Pactolus road project pending further discussion with Second Division officials.

The project in question was protested this morning by George Cherry of Pactolus. Appearing along with Cherry were Paul Davy, report of Pactolus, John G. Clark Sr. of Greenville and J. Henry Harrell of Greenville, chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee.

Cherry said highway officials proposed to remove a half-century-old bridge in Pactolus and close the road involved, a short road connecting NC Highways 30 and 33 in the community. He said the closing of the road would be an inconvenience and would create a school bus hazard. Cherry said county schools Supt. D. H. Conley had also pointed out in a letter to Cherry that the proposed change would be hazardous to school bus operations to and from Pactolus Elementary School.

Clark called the proposal to remove the bridge and close the road "unreasonable." The former highway commissioner suggested the funds proposed for removing the bridge and constructing a substitute road be used instead for adding strength or improvements to the existing bridge, if such improvements were deemed necessary.

The commissioners were scheduled to meet with highway officials at 4 p.m. today. Their discussion this morning indicated they would discuss the Pactolus bridge matter at that time.

Pitt Sen. Robert L. Humber was appointed by the commissioners to investigate the possibility of obtaining a statute of Sir William Pitt—whose name Pitt County bears—to be erected on the Pitt Courthouse square.

Humber minutes earlier had requested such an investigation be initiated to "leave a permanent memorial" marking Pitt's 200th birthday this year. Humber proposed a statute by an eminent artist through which "our children would be reminded of our heritage."

In asking the commissioners to explore the possibility, Humber said Craven County spent more than $55,000 on a bi-centennial pageant and Halifax County appropriated over $40,000 to celebrate her 200th birthday. The senator said the proposed statute would cost less than either of the two cited appropriations and added: "... and a statute would be something of a permanent nature."

The commissioners heard a letter from Greenville physician Dr. S. L. Bartlett calling for a near-future planning meeting to consider plans for a county-financed nursing or boarding home.

Dr. Bartlett's letter said he had been notified by Mrs. Pauline Bartlett, Durham woman who had (Continued on page 16)

Chicod School District Vote Is OK'd By Board

A request from the Chicod School Committee that they be allowed to hold a special election to vote on raising the current expense levy of the district, was approved by the Pitt County Board of Education today.

The committee, in a letter to the board, stated it was asking the Board of Education and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners "to call a special election to give the voters of the Chicod School District an opportunity to voice themselves with regards to raising the current expense levy . . . from 10 cents to 20 cents to supplement the State support for better schools in the district."

The letter asked that the election be held during the month of April 1962 or as close to then as possible.

At the present time, the current expense levy of Chicod School District is 10 cents.

Superintendent of County Schools D. H. Conley told the board that the proposed additional levy is designed to balance the current expense budget of Chicod.

The matter was the principal subject of business during the board's monthly meeting today in the county offices of education.

In other business, a matter of lighting for the H. B. Sugg athletic field as introduced by G. E. Trevelthan, board member from Fountain. However, the matter was not brought up as a regular business item and no official action was taken.

Conley is to meet this week with Farmville authorities on the Negro athletic facility and will inform the board as to information given him.

Lighting athletic fields has not been a practice of the Pitt County Board of Education in the past, it was pointed out, though there is no official policy on the subject.

However, Chairman Moyer summed the feelings of other board members when he stated that "We need money so terribly for providing the essentials." He stated that if the board made itself responsible for lighting the Farmville facility, it would be more or less obligated to do the same for other schools' athletic facilities.

Reports of supervisors were reviewed by members.

It was reported that the annual dinner of county school personnel and the Board of Education is to be held Tuesday, Dec. 19 at the county garage.

Minutes of three previous board meetings, two of them special sessions, on Oct. 2, Oct. 26, and Nov. 20 were approved.

Winter Scene Places First In Parade

WINNING FLOAT . . . Ayden Rotary float was first place winner in Christmas parade.

AYDEN—Rotary Club's winter scene float was first place winner in Ayden's Christmas parade Saturday afternoon.

The club received $100 first prize for the float, which featured a snow man along with a mail box and Christmas packages.

The parade officially opened the Christmas season here. It began at the high school and moved through Ayden's business district. Judges awarded the $50 second prize to the Woman's Club for its float which included a sugar plum tree and fairies awakened by Jack Frost. Third prize of $25 went to the Jaycees for their float which featured a jack-in-the-box and clowns.

Five floats and three bands were in the procession along with other units. Included was the East Carolina College drill team and color guard.

Sponsor of the event was the Ayden Chamber of Commerce. Parade Chairman Lee Nane said most non-member merchants also made contributions to the parade fund.

Parade judges were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller and B. B. Sugg Jr. of Greenville and the Rev. Wayne G. Wegwart of Grifton.

Pitt Pedestrian Is Severely Injured In Weekend Accidents

Two injuries were reported by Pitt Highway Patrolmen in three collisions investigated in the county over the weekend.

Officers reported the most serious injury resulted when a pedestrian was struck by an auto at Simpson Saturday night about 7:30 p.m.

Pt. H. R. Winslow identified the pedestrian as Henry D. Clark, 45-year-old Negro of Simpson.

Driver of the car was listed as Jimmy Cole Mobley, 25, of Route 2, Greenville.

According to the Patrolman, an estimated $50 damage was done to the car from the collision.

Clark, who suffered a broken leg and other injuries, was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital. He was also charged by investigators with walking on the wrong side of the road.

A second Negro was injured Sunday about 9:10 a.m. on the Belvoir Highway four miles from Greenville.

Investigating Pt. Luther Long of Bethel said Daniel Brown, 30-year-old Negro of Route 6, Greenville was injured in the mishap.

Pt. Long said Brown's vehicle, headed west, traveled for a total of 810 feet out of control down the highway, then overturned at the edge of a deep canal.

He was charged with reckless driving and was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital suffering from minor injuries.

Damage to his auto was placed at $300.

A Stella, N. C. man, Don Ameche Freeman, 21, was charged with failing to secure a towed vehicle following a mishap two miles south of Farmville at 2:15 a.m. Sunday.

According to Pt. Winslow, Freeman was driving a truck and towing a car. The tow bar came loose and caused the truck to overturn in a roadside ditch.

Damage to the truck was set at $500 while damage to the car being towed was placed at $200.

No injuries were reported.

ECC Sororities Hold Convocation For Rushees

The eight social sororities on the East Carolina College campus met with approximately 200 prospective rushees Wednesday night in the annual Convocation which precedes Formal Rush.

The purpose of the Convocation is to familiarize rushees with the sorority system.

The president of each sorority stated the purposes of her organization, described the pin, and stressed the importance of choosing a sorority to suit personalities. Plans for the coming year were outlined, and the activities in which the sororities participate were enumerated.

East Carolina Dean of Women Ruth White, advisor to sororities, commented on the advantages of belonging to a sorority while in college. "All wish to belong and have close friends... friends to keep throughout life. Sorority life provides these friends," she explained to the rushees. "The importance of sorority life is that it presents a great challenge to every individual which continues through individual life," she added.

Panhellenic President, Mary Nell Shaw of Atkinson, introduced the presidents representing the eight sororities, who are as follows:

Alpha Delta Pi, Ray A. Lane of Greenville; Alpha Omicron Pi, Sarah L. Rogers of Greenville; Alpha Phi, Kay R. Faucette of Morehead City and Mexico City, Mexico; Alpha Xi Delta, Patsy A. Alexander of Jacksonville; Chi Omega, Betty H. Lane of Cary; Delta Zeta, Judith L. Berry of Hampton, Va.; Kappa Delta, Katherine A. Raynor of Greenville; and Sigma Sigma Sigma, Susie Street of Rocky Mount.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The land is about to put on its brown and gray overcoat. Trees shake with impatience the few leaves that seem to want to stay forever. Frosts are becoming daily visitors and the wind has worked its way north. The gardener turns his thoughts to the indoors, but there are still things to do in the garden.

Camellias

Check over your camellias for the big wax scales. The best way to get rid of them at this stage of the game is to pick them off. Dry weather has increased the chance of winter injury. Get all your plants well supplied with moisture before the ground freezes. Cut all die back out of the plants. Cut down into good wood and paint wound with a paste of Bordeaux-mixture and water. If your plants are mulched with peanut hulls, pull the mulch back before watering, then replace.

Last Spring's Plants

These are the plants that will suffer most from dry conditions during the wintertime. In most cases, they haven't made any firm contact with soil and are still contained in the burlap. Be sure these plants are watered well. Rebuild the saucers around them to catch rain when it does come.

Check all guying on shade trees, and make sure they are tight enough and be sure wire hasn't worked through rubber covering into bark.

Camera Study

To make the picture of your garden complete, get out your camera and take a few enlarged shots of the mums and late flowers the frost hasn't hurt too much. These film records of the garden will be treasured in years to come. Films of the garden in its four seasons are helpful in planning future plantings. These pictures help correct past mistakes and make gardening more of an adventure instead of a dull routine.

Correct Drainage

The next time we have a heavy rain, check your entire area for the standing water that means poor drainage. Mark them on a plan or put out small stakes to show where filling in is needed next spring. If water stands near house, remedy this next year, even if it means regrading and replanting. Get the leaves out of your gutters and rake them off the yard grass.

Bethel News

Woman's Society of Christian Service Meets
Miss Camille Staton, president, opened the November meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Bethel Methodist Church reading the purpose of the Society.

Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., program chairman, introduced Mrs. F. B. Andrews, Jr. who presented the program after a word of scripture and a prayer of Thanksgiving. Mrs. Andrews read a poem "Churches for New Times," prefacing the program topic, "Our Greatest Mission Field," which is a follow-up of a recent study course, "Churches for New Times," presented in October by Mrs. Tom R. Newbold of Rocky Mount.

The United States is experiencing a period of rapid change, for which we are unprepared, especially in the churches. Most Americans now live in metropolitan areas in contrast with the rural living of the past. The small Protestant churches of the pre-'50's were family churches, promoting continuity and stability. This pattern is unknown in the metropolis, consequently, the churches are caught napping at the impact. Since the population in general moves about once in every five years, and once a year in large areas, anti-Christianism and self-concern are born.

In small communities, or towns, where individuals are born, christened, and die, there is a closeness and bond to the same church, there can be found a closeness and bond to the church, which in turn flows over into the community. There is a spirit of cooperation and understanding that cannot and does not exist in the churches in large cities.

We should be aware and concerned with the needs of persons everywhere; their changing cultures and present problems. Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, Mrs. E. E. Dennis, Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr., Mrs. J. C. Wynne Jr., and Mrs. Andrews closed her program concerning these problems facing the church today, especially in the suburbs.

Where there is no vision the people fall, continued Mrs. Andrews, so we must fix our sight on visions that will not perish. The urban church must learn to serve its neighborhood. We need people across the length and breadth of the nation to pray and listen for the voice of God, and we need people with the courage to respond to the call from the metropolis. Will our church be empty, or take some action?

Mrs. Andrews, closed her program with the group reading the third stanza of the hymn, "The Voice of God is Calling," as a prayer.

After the secretary read the minutes, Miss Staton called for the various secretaries' reports and the treasurer's report.

In December, announced Miss Staton, a joint meeting of all the churches will meet at the church for a Christmas program.

After Miss Staton read a poem on Thanksgiving, the meeting was adjourned following the benediction.

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization of pupils who study homemaking in junior and senior high schools.

The motto is "Toward New Horizons." It is an infinite challenge and expresses the purposes of the organization, to learn to live better today in order that their lives and those of their families may be better tomorrow.

The F.H.A. emblem is octagonal in shape, and bears the name of the organization around the top of the plane; and around the lower side is the motto. In the center there is a house supported by two hands symbolizing that the future homes of America are in the hands of its youth.

The colors are red and white. Red, an intense color, suggests strength. White is recognized as the symbol of purity.

The flower is the Red Rose. The rose, due to its beauty, has always been a favorite flower. It represents the search of Future Homemakers of America for beauty in everyday living.

Future Homemakers are preparing for the time when they must accept the greater responsibilities of today's fastmoving world. They strive each day to make a bigger contribution to home life in order to become Future Homemakers of which America will be proud.

Mrs. Boyd Is Entertained

A stork shower was given Friday night by Mrs. Dolly Braxton, Mrs. Ed Braxton, Mrs. Claud Boyd and Nancy Braxton at the home of Mrs. Stanley Braxton honoring Mrs. Nellie Boyd.

White flowers with greenery and red roses were used in decorating the dining room. The refreshment table, which was covered with a cutwork tablecloth of white over pink, was centered with an arrangement of white flowers.

During the evening the guests participated in playing of several games which were led by Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr.

While guests were being served, Mrs. Boyd opened and displayed her gifts.

The goodbyes were said to the 50 guests by Liddle Braxton, Nancy Braxton and Mrs. Stanley Braxton.

Mrs. Spilman Speaker At Woman's Club Meeting

Friday, the Garden Club sponsored the program in a joint meeting with the Woman's Club.

The decorations, in keeping with the season, were bright with scarlet berries.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. John Carington, chairman, Mrs. Preston Cannon, Mrs. Theima Harris, Mrs. Claude Gaskins, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. W. J. Bundy.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman was the speaker for the afternoon, her subject being "Flowers and Trees Symbolic of the Christmas Season."

Mrs. Spilman had decorated a table with the flowers and branches of the trees she was to talk about. There were holly, bay leaves, poinsettias, mistletoe, white nois roses and other Christmas flowers. In the foreground, on the table, were miniature churches, and over all shone the Christmas Star amid the green foliage.

Before beginning her talk, Mrs. Spilman had members of the Garden Club read from the scriptures, four versions of the Christmas Story.

Stories and legends connected with each flower and tree were told.

The holly was known as Christ's thorn, while the mistletoe was used in sacred rites at the altar in olden times. The poinsettia was known in Mexico, from which it came, as "Holy Night."

Mrs. Spilman told the very beautiful story of the white rose. A little girl, disconsolate because she had no gift for the Christ Child, was weeping bitterly. Angels appeared, scattering around her white roses. These she gathered and presented as her gift.

In connection with the bay tree, legend has it that the Holy Family sheltered under it during a storm. From that time onward, it was decreed that this tree would never be struck by lightning.

Again, the story is told of Joseph of Arimathea, that he placed his staff in the ground on the top of a hill. From it grew a tree—the Hawthorn. This tree is sometimes called May Flower. Joseph was in Britain at the time of this happening and the name "Mayflower" was brought to this country by the Pilgrims many years later.

While Mrs. Spilman was speaking, Christmas music was being played softly on records.

Mrs. Claude Kidd was the soloist, her selection being "Holy Night." She was accompanied by Miss Grace Daughtridge.

There was an exhibit of Christmas decorations by members of the Garden Club.

In the absence of Mrs. Dink James, the business meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, vice president.

Growing Interest In Latin America

What is the United States doing for the long pull about its relationship with Latin American countries, our closest neighbors?

When he took office slightly less than a year ago, President Kennedy asserted that United States would devote considerably more attention to Latin America in its foreign policies than had been the case during the past administrations. From time to time in the past 10 months there have been major strides in building a better relationship between the United States and these countries.

Perhaps one of the most significant barometers to the increased interest in Latin American affairs on the part of the United States is the number of members of Congress, their staffs and other experts who have visited "south of the border" during the period since Congress adjourned in September.

During one three-week period, according to the Associated Press, 10 senators, 11 representatives and their staffs, government specialists of various kinds and a 180 man Air Force acrobatic team were scheduled to visit Lima, the capital of Peru. Throughout Latin America there has been a big influx of American officials, and if the count at Peru is an indication of attention being given most Latin American countries, there can be no question about the increased interest not only on the part of the administration, but in Congress as well.

At best, the United States policies toward Latin America have been haphazard in the past. We have lavished attention on the countries of Europe, Asia and even Africa while we have more or less taken our closest neighbors for granted. Policies have fluctuated frequently and have lacked sufficient continuity to assure the kind of genuine and long-lasting relationship most Americans would like to see.

We hope that this increased interest indicated in Latin American nations by Congress—as well as the administration—is not another flash-in-the-pan; but rather a part of a new, steady and positive program to build sounder relationships between this nation and the others of this hemisphere.

Relationships in Europe, Asia and other parts of the globe are important to the United States and the free world, but certainly the long view makes it clear that solid relationships between this country and Latin America are of equal if not greater importance to us.

A New Chapter Added Book Of Golden Deeds

Over a period of years the value attached to any annual award or recognition becomes related to the qualities displayed by the roll-call of its recipients.

Each honoree can add or detract from the significance attached to the recognition involved.

With this in mind, we think it truly remarkable that bestowal of the Book of Golden Deeds award has consistently added to its lustre.

In its eighth year of existence, the Book of Golden Deeds has attained a symbolic stature uniquely its own. And once again, as it has in each of its annual presentations, the community honor it represents has been increased by the choice of the citizen to be so honored.

The impressive record of community service by W. M. Scales, Jr. is something for which Greenvilleites may well be grateful. The hours of devoted, selfless work involved, were given from his own limited allowance of but twenty-four each day.

It is customary, on bestowal of signal honors, to offer congratulations; but in this instance we feel a very warm "thank you" is due to Scales, and congratulations are in order for Greenville.

A community is thrice-blessed by the selfless service of those citizens who give of themselves to the common good. Through the years Greenville has been enriched . . . has been made a better place to live . . . by a continuing spirit of selflessness within its citizenry.

The roll-call, of William C. James, J. H. Rose, Mrs. Helen Barrett, Mrs. James T. Little, Sr., Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale, James Boykin, Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, and W. M. Scales Jr. testifies to the variety and extent of services given Greenvilleites by Greenvilleites. We venture to say the Book of Golden Deeds selection committee encountered scores of other names to whom we owe a debt of thanks; but the eight we know are an impressive list.

Greenville can afford to take pride in such as these.

Production Has Been Climbing

By RALPH ROBEY

Industrial production reached a new all-time high in October. The previous high was in August. In September there was a slight drop as a result primarily of strikes in the automobile industry. Such a curtailment of production in this industry always backs up and affects the output at various other points in our economy.

Production in this nation is measured by the index of the Federal Reserve Board. It uses 1957 as equal to 100 and is extremely broad in its coverage. Further, the index is based upon physical output and hence is not influenced by changes in prices.

The recent low of this index was in February of this year at 102. From that it showed a month by month increase until it reached 113 in August. Actually the exact figure for that month was 112.9. In September there was a decline of one percentage point, and in October the index rose to 113.1—or two-tenths of a percentage point above the August high.

Those are seasonally adjusted aggregate figures. The recovery has been quite broad but there are still many industries operating below their previous high. Among these are the automobile industry, which was still troubled by minor strikes in October, and steel, which has been held back by lack of orders from the car producers. The largest increase was in utilities, and mining revealed a slight upturn.

This rise in production was only one of many favorable items which have been publicized in the past few days. Among others the following are important:

1. Overall construction in October was some 5 percent above a year earlier. Private non-farm housing starts also showed another rise and were at an annual rate of 1.4 million.

2. Retail sales, which have been sluggish and spotty for months, revealed a definite pickup. Much of the increase was caused by better automobile sales, but department and apparel stores turned in a better performance.

3. Personal income was up quite sharply in October. We have been having an increase of around $1 billion a month since the middle of the year. In October the rise was $4 billion, and this reflected a rise in almost all major categories.

4. Farm production this year has been high and this, combined with higher government support prices, is giving those in agriculture a slightly larger net income than in 1960.

5. Employment, seasonally adjusted, continues to advance. For various reasons, however, including a large increase in our labor force, the number of those unable to find work remains at close to 7 per cent of the civilian labor force.

6. Dividends being paid have increased slightly, although business profits still are too low for the good of the nation. Many companies are showing an increase in earnings, but many are finding it impossible to meet the level of a year earlier.

7. Industrial prices on the New York Stock Exchange have broken through their previous high, and they did it under the impact of large volume. The immediate reason for the breakthrough was an unexpected extra dividend by General Motors, but back of this was a large volume of funds waiting to be invested.

Those are merely some of the encouraging nation-wide developments. In the aggregate they

TATTOO MARKS

How often criminals have been apprehended because in a thoughtless—probably an intoxicated—moment—they allowed a tattoo mark to be made on body or limb. Then when the police call went out for their arrest, the tattoo mark was mentioned and described. There was no getting away from it. The pierced heart, and figure of a voluptuous woman, the initials were there to identify and bring the man into the hands of the law.

We all have marks on us—not put on with a needle but indelibly stamped on mind, memory, or soul but something we have said, thought, or done. The word knows nothing—or at least very little—about these marks. But we know they are there. We look at them and avert our faces. But that does no good. They are there, and they are there to stay.

We have good memories also, the knowledge of worthy accomplishments, the marks which years of some faithful friendship has put upon us and our nature. Nothing can make any difference with these. Furthermore we live in a universe where nothing ever happens just to disappear again and have no effect on us the world. Everything matters in God's world. We and God can make it happen to the good. We and Satan can make it happen to misery and disaster—especially our own.

Nine Points of the Law

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

No Reason For Rudeness

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I recently saw a photograph of myself in "The New York Times" giving the devil to a professional angry stockholder. According to the Anderson, South Carolina, "Mail":

"Stockholder meetings are always enlivened by the appearance of Lewis D. Gilbert, author of 'Dividends and Democracy' and other published works, who spends all of his time at annual company meetings. His family owns stock in over 600 companies! Gilbert is acid at meetings and sure the wrath of many corporation executives."

Of course, a stockholder is entirely within his rights when he asks a question politely; if he is ill-mannered, he should be thrown out of the room. The assumption that a man may be rude because he owns a share of stock is nonsense. When a man is rude, he should be treated according to his manners. It is not necessary to tolerate bad manners. Gilbert could be useful if he chose to be.

That, it seems to me, is the issue. The officers of a corporation are not sacrosanct personalities but no one needs to accept abuse, interruption, impudence from anybody. Too often officers of corporations are advised by their lawyers and public relations counsel to accept any abuse from stockholders on the assumption that a few words at a meeting will quickly be forgotten.

This theory is all wrong unless the officers are afraid of questions or criticism. If they have done nothing wrong, they need not accept impudence from anyone. Even if they have erred, the discussion ought to be orderly and gentlemanly. There are those who make it their business to go to stockholders' meetings for the fun of it. Busy men should not be subjected to that sort of nonsense and if they lack the courage to stand up and fight, they deserve what they get.

The fact of the matter is that the function of an industry is to make goods and profits. There was no question about profits in the 19th century but in the middle of the 20th century, industry finds itself managed not by those who own an industry but by employees whose collars are slightly whiter than those of their colleagues. These management-workers have come out of the supervisory and sales forces of a company and are too often altogether unrelated to ownership. Their attitude is identical to that of the worker. They seek fringe benefits rather than wages. Their fringe benefits often consist of stock options or pensions which grow increasingly more costly to industry. Often management develops tenure as the hourly worker does and having tenure, cares nothing about profits. He uses other people's money without recognizing that profits are the essential of industry and that it is not sound economics in the capitalist system for management to take the cream off the top—the cream that rightly belongs to the owner of the stock.

This situation arises from the fact that there is a startling shortage of able manpower in management. It is common practice in industry for a company to steal ability from other companies by offering special benefits for reputed capabilities. I say "reputed capabilities" because the reputation does not always go along with accomplishment. The assumption that a man can run a shop is meaningless unless that shop makes a profit. The only yardstick of ability is profit. If a foreman can earn a profit which his boss cannot earn, the foreman is a preferable person in management.

When we speak of our industry falling behind, what we actually mean is that the production is unprofitable, that the industry is not producing new and additional capital, that management is stuff-shirted but incompetent. This large enterprise, that look wonderful in reports, actually are failures and are sooner or later acquired by smarter entrepreneurs because they are unprofitable.

The word "growth" has moved into the industrial picture with the object of covering up failure to produce profits. In actual political fire.

Awaiting Report By Dr. Jenkins

By LYNN NISBET

BUDGETING—Some anticipated interesting developments in the budgeting set-up for the state have been deferred for a few days. The meeting of the Advisory Budget Commission scheduled for last Friday was postponed in order to wait for a report on the appearance of Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, before the Board of Higher Education on a dormitory project.

Failure of the budget group to meet Friday resulted also in failure to get Governor Sanford's expected announcement that David S. Coltrane, retired director of administration, had been appointed to the budget group. The Governor also had indicated he would name Coltrane as chairman of the advisory commission.

That statement aroused the ire of some members of the commission, which by statutory authority and custom has always chosen its own chairman. They did not relish the appointment of a man who is on the State payroll, and to all intents and purposes a member of the Governor's personal staff, to the commission. That has never been done before. And they resented even more the attempt of the Governor to dictate the chairmanship. Always the commission has selected its own chairman, and always—so far as can be learned—the Governor has been consulted in advance about the selection. But never before had it been announced in advance who the chairman would be.

PENNY WATCHER—The avowed and widely publicized purpose of the newly created $15,000 job to which Coltrane was assigned is to save money, to watch all expenditures and to cut out items here and there which the watchdog might not think essential. That is not the purpose of the Advisory Budget Commission. Its purpose is to carefully review all needs in the light of prospective available revenue, and to see that it is spent wisely—rather than not spent at all.

LEGISLATIVE—The primary function of the advisory commission is to advise the General Assembly. It is composed of the chairmen of the money committees in the House and the Senate and two members named by the Governor. The Governor is by statute the director of the budget, and he appoints a man as assistant director to whom most of the duties of carrying out, not formulating, policies are assigned. In recent years and by insidious encroachment the commission has assumed more policy-making authority when the Legislature is not in session, and the assistant director has acquired much larger executive powers than originally contemplated.

All six of the present members of the commission have had legislative experience. Senators Tom White and Jim Stikeleather, Representatives Shelton Wicker and Tom Woodard, are serving by virtue of their committee chairmanships. Ralph Scott, appointed by Governor Sanford, is a member of the present senate after three terms previous experience. The other members, whom Coltrane is slated to replace, is Kemp Doughton, long time legislator and former Speaker of the House. Even though appointed by the Governor, the experienced legislators have the viewpoint from that angle. In other years the Governors have sought good business men not directly connected with government as the "public" representatives. Just how impartial a man can be who is on the Governor's staff at a top salary and already assigned the task of cutting down on spending money previously recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission and appropriated by the General Assembly for specific purposes, is questioned.

That much control added to what the Governor already has as director of the budget would reduce necessity for any further meetings of the Advisory Budget Commission.

ELIGIBILITY—Questions keep bobbing up about the situation in the office of Lieutenant Governor. The immediate and chief question is whether or not the office can be filled next year, or if it must remain vacant until 1965. Another interesting question is whether a man in 1964 who might be elected to fill the unexpired term would be eligible for re-election to a full term in 1964. The constitution is even less explicit on that point than on whether or not an interim election can be held.

Popular opinion has been that no man could be elected to succeed himself as Governor or Lieutenant Governor if he had been once elected to that position. That construction would preclude electing a man in 1962. Doubt as to correctness of that interpretation stems from the language in the constitution: "nor shall the person elected to either of these two offices be eligible to the same (Continued on Page 5)"

Bright Future In Ads

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Throughout the course of the business recovery thus far, I have heard complaints from many areas that retail trade has not lived up to expectations. This is not to say that the dollar volume of retail sales has fallen off, as my studies show a slight upward trend in the seasonally adjusted sales curve. However, considering the rapid rise in incomes, merchants are disappointed that retail trade has not registered a larger increase.

IMPORTANCE OF ADVERTISING

My studies indicate that periods of prosperity are generally powered by increases in business expenditure for new plants and equipment. In like manner, this is true also of advertising. Well-thought out and forceful advertising campaigns can channel consumer interest to specific products, as well as increase the desire and impatience to buy generally.

Advertising can accomplish most of the selling job before the consumer even goes to the store. Agencies hammer away at creating the desire for the products or services they advertise, utilizing the appeal of basic need, social prestige, physical attraction, etc. Here, then, is the basic power of general business.

TRENDS IN ADVERTISING—Advertising represents a communication of ideas—from the seller to the buyer. Therefore, it is natural that advertising has followed the evolution of mass communication—from newspapers, to radio, to television. Even the increased dependence of our population upon automobiles has had a marked effect on advertising. As printed on cards and posted inside streetcars and buses were once an important form of promotion. Today, considerably fewer people use public transportation; hence, with fewer readers inside the streetcars and buses, the ads are now being placed or posted on the outside of the vehicles, where they are on open display to pedestrians and riders in private cars. Moreover, outdoor billboards are receiving increased emphasis to attract the attention to automobile drivers and riders.

Changes in consumer shopping habits also should create certain changes in advertising. The development of chain stores, supermarkets, and shopping centers radically affects consumer spending and shopping patterns. The trend toward self-service in retailing makes it highly important to have consumers pre-sold at home, since the smaller sales forces in such stores cannot sell effectively.

NEW EMPHASIS NEEDED—In total, business advertising expenditures continue to trend upward. My studies reveal, however, that for more than a year there has been a slowing down in certain phases of advertising. Except for television, most media in recent months have recorded declines from a year ago.

In prosperous periods, rising sales and profits permit businessmen to allocate larger sums to their advertising budgets. When business drops off, they tend to reduce advertising outlays as a part of their economy programs. This is a great mistake. There should be more advertising when business is depressed and when competition is keenest. This is necessary to stimulate buying interest and demand at a time when business most needs a helping hand. On the other hand, during periods of brisk business and buying impatience, there could be a slackening off in advertising pressure in order to build up funds for the next lag in buying interest. In this way, advertising can be a great stabilizer of business and economic conditions, and it can go far toward helping to eliminate periods of reckless booms and rackings depressions.

OPPORTUNITIES IN ADVERTISING—Let me say one more thing. I believe advertising offers good opportunities to young people. Rapidly growing suburban and "community" newspapers may be good employment sources for young folk interested in advertising, and having patience and genuine interest. These publications require advertising which ties in with local interests to the benefit of the community's businesses and its consumers.

Defense Of Christmas Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

The current issue of McCall's presents an article by Clare Booth Luce, former Ambassador to Italy and quite a girl about town, defending Christmas business and advertising against the charge of commercialization. She wrote that "business and advertising may be helping to keep the Christmas spirit alive in the West and spreading it around the world." If Christmas has become commercialized (and where did she get that idea?) it is the fault of selfish individuals, not business, she wrote.

Many Americans feel guilty, she said, "when we see a plethora of gifts, even though millions of people are in want. And it is easier to blame the gifts on the psychological and economic pressures brought on consumers by business and advertising, which combine to exploit Christmas. But when we think of it, the blame must fall on individuals."

THE SPIRITUALISM OF SALES—Mrs. Luce said that materialism at Christmas existed long before advertising. "There have always been families who exchanged handsome gifts, gorged on goodies, swamped the children with playthings, while neighboring families went without necessities," she wrote.

At Christmas, she added, advertising undergoes a remarkable change and emphasizes the idea of giving to others to make them happier.

"It is the task of the church and school to teach us spiritual and aesthetic values," she continued. "If they have failed us, or we them, this can hardly be blamed on advertising."

"We are free individuals. What is to prevent us from buying a few toys for the orphanage we pass every day? If we buy a pretty scarf, we are quite free to send it to the girl in our neighborhood whose mother just died and who is going to have a slim Christmas."

CHRISTMAS JOY—Mrs. Luce wrote that some aspects of the so-called commercialized Christmas are "pure joy."

"Who would do away with the giant tree in Rockefeller Center, or the smaller ones that march up Park Avenue, or the great tree on the Mall in Washington?" she asked. "Who but old Scrooge would vote against the holly festooned on lamp posts, the lights strung across city streets, the Christmas pageants?"

"Who could criticize commercialism for bringing these symbols to the public? Foreigners see more clearly than we do that the trees, decorations, and glamorous showwindows are the gift of a capitalist society to all its citizens, and the reaffirmation that Americans, including businessmen, still consider themselves to be men of faith and good will."

"Then there are the carols, often sung by magnificent choirs and great singers, broadcast with commercial sponsors—by radio and television. Is it not a remarkable, and happy, thing that at least one week a year, programs accent faith, hope, and charity, the strength of family bonds, generosity, and forgiveness, and innocent merriment?"

ENDORSES CHRISTMAS CARDS, TOO

On Christmas cards, she wrote "why is it not a good thing that every year people all over the world wish one another well and remind one another they are eternally joined in the mystery of their common faith?"

Mrs. Luce's article is undoubtedly producing reactions among those sponsoring "put Christ back in Christmas" campaigns. She is surely already the target of protests—and of prayers.

Those wishing to send Mrs. Luce commercialized Christmas cards may address her at McCall's, 280 Park Ave., New York.

It'll Take More Than A Ghost To Run Him Off

MENA, Ark. (AP)—It's going to take more than a ghost or a host of ghosts to run farmer C. E. Shinn off the land he has occupied for 46 years.

Shinn, 72, his wife, 70, and their grandson moved out of their five-room house Saturday night for a rest after the antics of a mischievous "ghost" left them sleepless.

But they moved back in Sunday and Shinn said he was going to stay.

"We just don't believe in ghosts," he said resolutely. "When something is done, humans have to do it."

For more than a year, something has been harassing the Shinn family in their house 3 miles west of this west Arkansas town. They say that the family Bible floats through the living room, furniture is suddenly overturned, chairs fly from the kitchen into the living room. Two figurines were smashed against the back of Shinn's head.

Charles Elbert Shaffer, 14, the grandson who lives with the elderly couple, says the cover has been jerked off his bed in the middle of the night.

Awakened one night by howling and hissing sounds, Shinn said Mrs. Shinn asked whatever it was to be quiet. It didn't. Then she asked it to go to sleep.

"I don't sleep," came the reply, Shinn said.

"Will you let me sleep?" Mrs. Shinn asked.

"You don't need to sleep either," was the answer.

Saturday night the Shinn family went to stay with relatives and Sheriff Bruce Scoggins took three officers and four newsmen to spend the night in the house.

They neither saw nor heard anything out of the ordinary. The Shinn family moved back in and the old farmer says he's there to stay.

Deputy Sheriff John Egger said: "There's no doubt getting things has been going on around here. I can't explain it. Of course, no one believes in ghosts."

A. G. Whichard Dies In California

Mr. Whichard was a native of Pitt County and resided in the Staton's Mill Community until he moved away 22 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eva S. Whichard; two sons, A. Guy Whichard Jr. and John A. Whichard of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Sam V. Morton Jr. of Greenville and Mrs. J. T. Williams of Suffolk, Va.; eight grandchildren; seven great grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. G. C. Andrews of Winston, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Thigpen of Florence, S.C., and Mrs. G. Otis Britt of Greenville, N.C.

The Farm Scene

By C. J. GOODMAN

Sanitation has always been a big problem to the swine grower. One of the biggest problems is that of removing manure from the growing pen. The first method used was that of a sloping concrete floor to facilitate washing. The lagoon system followed.

This system is to wash the manure from the pen into a drain or shallow basin. This basin should not be over five and one-half feet deep and fifteen square feet should be allowed for each pig fed out. This is an excellent system and there is very little odor from the lagoon.

The latest development in the search to take labor out of the job of cleaning up after pigs being finished in confinement, is to use slat floors and the principle that liquids seek their own level.

The manure drops through slats to a floor below, where it collects. To clean out the manure a plug at one end of the building is pulled and the manure flows into a tank for spreading, or into a lagoon. The labor involved is to pull the plug and to spread the manure if it is to be saved.

The surface under the slats can be a concrete floor or sand covered with plastic. The slats are a half inch apart at the top and one side of each is beveled to make the crack wider at the bottom than at the top. The slats are about one and one-fourth inches wide at the top and one inch wide at the bottom, giving an opening at the bottom of three-fourths inch. Dowels are run through the slats crosswise to give them strength and to keep them from warping.

Specialization
There is a trend toward greater specialization in the hog business. Within a short span of time the need for someone to grow feeder pigs for the grain farmer has developed.

The farmer who can grow a high yield of grain can utilize his land and labor force to a greater advantage than by maintaining a sow herd and pasture program. For this program to function properly the grain farm-

Plan Watershed Tour Tuesday

A tour of the Grindle Creek Watershed project now under construction is scheduled Tuesday at 9 a.m. for landowners in the watershed and others interested in the flood control and drainage project.

Pitt County agricultural agent S. C. Winchester announced the tour Saturday and extended an "enthusiastic welcome" to the landowners and "any person interested in the project."

Winchester said the tour would begin promptly at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the point where the long Grindle Creek canal crosses NC Highway 11 and US Highway 13 about one mile south of Bethel.

He said the tour would include the following:

"An opportunity to see the canal in construction, drop inlet culverts, woodland management, observe completed sections of the canal in construction, drop inlet year-old fescue in tobacco rotation, a complete conservation farm plan and other features of this large-scale conservation project."

Personnel from the county SCS office, district supervisors, drainage district commissioners, and others are scheduled to accompany the Tuesday tour to describe the operations and answer questions.

er must buy good sound feeder pigs and operate at full capacity. The big problem is getting enough farmers interested in producing feeder pigs. At a nearby feeder pig market, 40- to 50-pound pigs have averaged more than $13 per head during the past two years. A brood sow with an eight-pig litter, farrowing two times each year will gross more than $200 for her owner.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco is very sensitive to soil conditions. The difference in soils can cause a wide variation in the characteristics of tobacco produced in a given area or often on a single farm.

Although a farmer has no control over the type of soil on his farm a knowledge of the soils most suitable for tobacco production can help him to plan his cropping system more efficiently.

The main characteristics of soil suited to the production of high quality tobacco include: (1) Sandy or sandy loam topsoil, (2) Sandy clay subsoil, and (3) relatively low level of fertility.

Good drainage is one of the most important factors in considering a topsoil for good tobacco production. The topsoil should be of such nature that it will not harden when dry, or get sticky when wet. Such soils permit the roots to penetrate readily.

The most satisfactory subsoils for tobacco are yellow or reddish-yellow in color of medium texture. The subsoil should be a little heavier than the topsoil but should not be tight. This type of subsoil drains well, yet retains enough moisture for the plants. The medium texture lets the air reach the roots and also enables the root to penetrate deeply.

Because of the scarcity of ideal tobacco soil, many growers must use land that falls short in some respects. Proper management can help to overcome these disadvantages.

stead of a profit there is growth. Over a period of time, unless the growth produces profits, the enterprise becomes stagnant. Growth literally means nothing unless the company that is built by acquisitions produces profits. Too much energy and capital goes into piling up bigness which is useless if it produces no profits but looks big.

All this such an inquiring stockholder as Lewis Gilbert can say without turning a stockholder's meeting into a shenanigan.

GI's ODYSSEY--U.S. to BERLIN

1. Dennis' visit home lasted just three days. At the airport, he kisses his girl, Marjorie Nave, goodbye, as his father and brother Billy, 8, watch, and his mother turns for a moment to hide her tears.

2. After short stay at Ft. Dix, N. J., Dennis checks in at McGuire Air Force Base before boarding C118 plane for flight to Europe.

3. At his first stop in West Germany, in Frankfurt, Dennis is briefed by Capt. James Reid on his mission in Germany.

Dennis Donegan, 17, took his first plane ride a little over two months ago. It was from Ft. Jackson, S.C., where he had just completed Army basic and advanced infantry training, to Clearwater, Fla., his home. Dennis made the trip to bid goodbye to his family and his girl. He had received his orders—for Berlin—and he wouldn't be seeing them for 30 months.

After that, Army orders whisked him on his way—first, back to Ft. Jackson, then by early morning bus to Ft. Dix, N. J., where his records, papers, shot card and qualifications were checked and a personnel specialist from the Army's European command briefed him on his new assignment, and less than 24 hours later he was aboard an Air Force transport, on his way to Europe. A brief stop at Frankfurt, Germany, a 17-hour stay at the 261st Replacement Company headquarters in West Germany, and he was on the last leg of his mission to Berlin.

Now handling his new rapid fire M-14 rifle with the skill of a veteran, young Dennis is trained and ready to help hold West Berlin's front line against Communist conquest, one of 6500 fellow soldiers who are sharing the watch.

4. Another plane hop—this one on the C-47 courier plane from Frankfurt—takes Dennis into Berlin. As plane eases down, he takes his first look at his new home.

5. On way to join his new outfit, "Bear" company, Dennis stops to rest for moment outside U. S. Army headquarters in West Berlin.

6. Day after joining outfit, Dennis is briefed by his company commander, Capt. Jack C. Davis, who tells him, "If you're tough and confident, you'll be all right."

8. He has his new Berlin patch sewn by German seamstress in tailor shop in company area.

7. In bayonet drill, part of "Bear" company's daily training routine, Dennis, second from right, stands up with best of them.

9. On pass to see West Berlin sights, Dennis gets view of street activity through restaurant window...

Admits Killings On Death Bed

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — A 42-year-old jealousy-ridden husband, mortally wounded after a blazing gun battle with police, admitted on his death bed the brutal slayings of two young Kings Mountain men, police said.

Cleveland County Sheriff Haywood Allen reported that Paul Everett Hallman, a Cherryville truck driver, granted an admission when asked by officers if he killed Samuel Gunnells, 24, and James Wade Bagwell, 22.

Hallman died in a Shelby hospital Saturday night shortly after shooting it out with police in Cherryville.

Gunnells' body was found Saturday morning beside an access road to Interstate 85. Bagwell's body was found in Kings Mountain National Park in South Carolina, about two miles away. Both men had been severely beaten and shot several times from behind with a .45 pistol.

Police swore out a warrant for Hallman three hours before his death. They reported that one of the victims was believed to have been dating Mrs. Hallman while Hallman was working in Florida.

Hallman's car was spotted by Cherryville police and as Chief Yates McGinnis approached, Hallman fired with a shotgun. The blast tore through the roof of Hallman's car and whistled past McGinnis' head.

Minutes later Hallman was taken from his bullet-riddled auto and rushed to a hospital.

Hallman will be buried in Cherryville Tuesday. Funerals for Gunnells and Bagwell were scheduled for today.

Ed D. Britt Dies In Hospital Today

AYDEN—Mr. Ed D. Britt, 72, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville this morning at 8:30. He had been in declining health for several months and critically ill for two days.

Mr. Britt founded the Britt Furniture Company and Britt Funeral Service in Ayden. He was a deacon and trustee of the First Baptist Church, Ayden, a member of the Woodmen of the World and Improved Order of Redmen.

Mr. Britt moved to Ayden in 1916 from Rocky Mount and was associated with the Ayden Furniture Company.

Funeral services will be held from the First Baptist Church Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. conducted by the Rev. Bennie Pledger, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Hollowell. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lillie T. Britt; a brother, Abe Britt of Newton Grove; two grandsons, Jerry W. Britt of Ayden and Sydney Britt of Greensboro.

The body will remain at the Britt Funeral Chapel until 11 a.m. Wednesday and then will be carried to the First Baptist Church.

Oldtimers Concerned Over Hyde County Bomb Range

By MARGARET KERNODLE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Is Hyde County, N.C., for the birds and beasts? Or for birdmen and bombs?

The question is expected to come before a congressional committee or two early in 1962.

The Air Force, which has been looking for a bombing range on the east coast ever since the Korean conflict ended in 1953, thought it had found the spot in Hyde County. But it reckoned without the protests of the local citizenry.

Earlier this month the Defense Department announced the Air Force would acquire approximately 30,000 acres of land in Hyde County for a practice bombing range.

The Air Force said it costs about $2 million for bomber planes to go from Seymour Johnson AFB near Goldsboro, N.C., and Myrtle Beach AFB in South Carolina to Nellis Range in Nevada each year for practice. The proposed leasehold contract for the Hyde County property would cost about $70,000 annually.

But the announcement brought cry from North Carolina, like the wild goose gone crazy, at the very idea of the military invading territory so near the Lake Mattamuskeet Wildlife Refuge.

Rep. Herbert Bonner, D-N.C., carried his complaints to a House Appropriations Committee hearing.

And Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall notified the Air Force of his opposition to the proposed bombing range. He suggested the Air Force might find the concentration of water fowl dangerous to man's flying. He maintained the range area would be too near some of this country's most important conservation land for water fowl.

The Mattamuskeet refuge consists of 50,178 acres of federally protected property where as many as 100,000 Canadian wild geese winter. Also stopping there, apparently on a regular schedule, are up to 120,000 ducks annually. The majority of these are pintails, bald pates and black ducks from the prairie states of this country or Canada.

On a moonlight night the Canadian wild goose will fly near by for a feast on grain grown on several hundred acres just for water fowl food. But on a windy, cloudy day, the lake is covered with resting geese.

Hunting is the principal industry in Hyde County. Estimates of its value to the county range between $2 million and $3 million a year. Duck hunting started Nov. 21 and continues until Dec. 30. Open season for geese began Nov. 10 and closes Jan. 8, 1962.

Bonner and his administrative assistant, Henry Oglesby, say they're been astounded at the hundreds of communications from bird watchers and conservationists in opposition to the proposed bombing range.

Hyde County's deer population is probably just under 500, according to one conservationist. Occasionally a bear takes up residence there but the county is not really bear country. It's the land of the water fowl.

Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zucrer has retreated from plans for using the Hyde County land for practice bombing early next year, at least to the extent of notifying Bonner that the idea will be held up pending a public hearing.

Bonner said he hopes this means the end of the project. Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina and state legislators also filed official protests.

Sen. Sam Erwin, D-N.C., has asked the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which he is a member, to hold a hearing on the controversy in January. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., joined the opposition with a letter from abroad protesting. "The Air Force wants to use one of the finest water fowl refuges in the world," Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has asked the Air Force to withdraw its proposal for acquisition of the land, saying, "The proposed acquisition is obviously most controversial and requires additional study."

Some Hyde County folk have said that outsiders speculated with the land to get an Air Force contract. Others objectors point to the thousands of dollars that would be cut off from their lake country if the hunters and their quarry come no more. Some point out that migratory waterfowl are protected under international treaty.

Oldtimers in eastern North Carolina shake their heads and say, "The wild goose who gets treated badly doesn't come back."

Remains Street Of The Bad Boys

PARIS (AP)—Residents of the Street of Bad Boys—Rue des Mauvais Garçons—would like to have the name changed to Street of Good Boys. But the city government won't hear of it.

"The picturesque names of streets established in the Middle Ages remain in the old quarters of the capital and constitute a heritage just as important to preserve as the architectural vestiges and old landmarks," the government responded Friday to a petition of the residents.

As We Said Before...

many housewives love housework. They love to cook and wash and iron and make grape jelly and fig preserves. It is a source of inner satisfaction to them to know that they are a part of one big family working for the common good of all.

But there is another type, too. These good ladies hate cooking. Dishwashing drives them to distraction. Cleaning makes them want to cry. They would rather have a job uptown, meet different folks, read books, do church work, teach school—anything but keep house.

Well, it takes all kinds of people to make a world. But we have something to suit both: cleaning and laundry service unexcelled anywhere.

Try us. Most people do.

Winterville Coach Pleased With Cage Results So Far

WINTERVILLE—Coach Blaney Moye, head of the Winterville High School basketball team, comments on his current crop of basketball players with a sparkle of joy in his eyes.

Coach Moye has plenty to be happy about because he commands perhaps the tallest and most experienced team in the Pitt County Conference.

In the past eight years, Moye has produced winning basketball for the Winterville High School followers, and this year seems to be no exception. The Wolves have easily won their first three games of the season, the last being a 68-29 victory over Grimesland.

A Definite Threat
Coach Moye, a small man compared to his ball players, has built and put together a team that will be a definite threat to all conference opponents.

Co-captains of the 10-man team are James Braxton, a 6-foot 5-inch senior, and Bobby Hobgood, who is 5 feet 9 inches tall.

Double Post Offense
Winterville generally plays a double post offense which means they have two centers under the goal. One of these positions is played by Braxton, the other by 6-foot 4-inch Steve Worthington.

James Braxton, definitely a college prospect, leads the team in the scoring department with a 21.3 average. Because he is also one of the Wolves' leading rebounders, Braxton is looked upon as the team leader.

Braxton's high scoring average is made astounding by the fact that he triggers Winterville's fast breaking offense. He takes the rebound off the defensive board and throws it to his quick breaking teammates. This means that Braxton is usually the last man down the court.

Defensive Live Wire
Steve Worthington, not to be outdone by his taller teammate, boasts a scoring average of 12 points per game. Worthington is a fine all around basketball player. He is a live wire defensively as well as offensively.

Coach Moye expects both Braxton and Worthington to average at least 20 points per game as the season progresses.

Starting for the Wolves at the forward slots are J. Alton Hill and Alfred Gold. These two boys have been tremendous stalwarts for the team. Both boys are steady rebounders as well as the team playmakers. Gold and Hill usually set up the plays so the others can score.

Fine Backcourt Man
Winterville High School claims to have one of the finest backcourt men in the conference. Bobby Hobgood, the smallest man in the starting lineup, holds down the guard position. Steady and dependable performances make Hobgood a valuable player. Hobgood is known as the team's mainstay on defense. He has quick hands and is described as a "ball hawk." On the fast break, Hobgood is accurate and effective.

Rounding out the rest of the squad are Mitchell Avery, Graydon Jackson, Ronnie Worthington, Monroe Waters, and Dickie Allen. These five boys provide Winterville with good depth. Coach Moye feels that any one of the five can step into a ball game and display a highly creditable performance. This powerful bench strength will be a definite factor in the success of the Winterville Wolves.

Girls' Team
The girls' team, coached by Troy Jackson, has also been victorious in all three of their games—the last being a 43-25 win over Grimesland.

Carolyn Barnes and Andrea Whichard have been outstanding in leading their team along the road to victory.

CHARLESTON, S.C. — East Carolina's basketball Pirates suffered their second defeat of the season Saturday night at the hands of The Citadel's Bulldogs 85-73.

Coach Earl Smith's Bucs took an early lead in the contest and held it throughout most of the game until the final seven minutes when the Bulldogs under the direction of Coach Mel Thompson took advantage of East Carolina foul trouble and surged ahead for the win.

The Citadel went out in front during the first few minutes of the contest, but East Carolina wasted no time in pulling ahead and holding as much as a six-point lead during most of the first half.

Pirates Lead At Half
With about one minute left in the first half the Bulldogs cut the Pirates' lead and managed to tie the contest. Just as the half ended Billy Brogden, a 6-foot freshman from Wilmington, made one of his four free throws of the night to put the Pirates ahead at the half by one point, 42-41.

As the second half got underway the Pirates again got the jump on the Southern Conference team and increased their lead which they held until the final seven minutes of the contest. The Citadel took over when Gary Daniels hit two free throws putting his team ahead 60-59.

Bulldogs Increase Lead
The Bulldogs managed to increase this lead during the rest of the game with frequent trips to the foul line. They hit 33 of 54 free throws which won the game for the home team. The Pirates managed to hit 19 of 25 free throws, but this was not enough to give them a victory.

Topping the scoring column for East Carolina was Lacy West, a 6-foot 3-inch junior from Asheboro, who gained 17 points for the Bucs. Benny Bowes and Charlie Lewis, Pirate co-captains, were next in line with 16 points each.

Citadel High Scorers
For The Citadel the high scorers were Mike West with 19 points, Gary Daniels with 18 points, and Charlie Madrazzo with 17 points.

The Pirates ran into foul trouble early in the game when Richie Williams, a 6-foot 2-inch freshman from Muncie, Ind., had four fouls on him with 9 minutes left in the first half. Before the game was over, all five of the starting Pirates had fouled out and Coach Smith had to call on his reserves.

The final scoring margin was greater than it would have been if the Pirates had not tried to press to get back in the ball game. In doing this it aided the Bulldogs at the foul line and increased their lead.

The next game for the Pirates will be an away contest with Carolina's Conference foe High Point on Wednesday night.

Phant Cage Team Depends On Last Year's JV Players

Rose High School's basketball Phantoms will be depending on some help from last year's junior varsity standouts as the new cage season gets underway.

Veteran Coach Bo Farley, in commenting on the prospects for this year's squad, said, "The boys coming up from the JV team must come along fast if we are to better last year's record of 9-9."

In general, Farley seems to think that the Phantom hoopers will have a fair team this year if these JV boys materialize and play up to their "potential."

Three Lettermen
The Greenville club has only three returning lettermen this season and two of them have not been able to report for practice because of the football championship games and the Shrine Bowl game. These two are Alan McArthur and Billy James and the third boy is Kroghie Andersen. McArthur and James reported to practice today for the first time. In commenting on these three lettermen, Farley said, "If they are improved this season they will be a big asset to the team." However, he noted that all three were inconsistent last year even though they saw a lot of action.

Veterans Short
The three veterans are short as far as basketball players go. McArthur is 5-feet 9-inches, James is 5-11 and Andersen is 5-8, according to the Phantom coach. However, the three of them averaged low in the double figures last year. Coach Farley could not recall the exact figures, but they were about 10-11 points per game, he noted.

The big boys for the Greenville team this year as far as height is concerned were on the JV team last year. The three main prospects are Rodney Knowles, a 6-7 sophomore, Jack Foley, a 6-2 junior, and Kenneth Allen, a 6-foot sophomore.

May See Action
Other boys who will probably see some action are Elbert Felton and Jimmy Moye. Both boys were on the squad last year, but saw little action.

From last year's JV team Coach Farley also has five other boys who should add some depth to the squad and fill in as reserves. They are Richard Taft, a 6-2 junior; Kenneth Joyner, a 5-8 junior; Robbin Powell, a 5-10 junior; Red Hardee, a 5-10 junior, and Dale Gidley, a 5-9 sophomore. Gidley suffered a shoulder injury during football and will probably not be able to play before the first of the year. However, he is working out each day, according to Coach Farley.

The Phantoms play their opening game tomorrow night at home with Rocky Mount. Last year, Coach Bill Lundy's boys handed the Phantoms their first loss of the season when they won the non-conference event 43-31. This year, Coach Farley is hoping to reverse that situation.

South Carolina Shriners Glowing After 24-0 Win

By KEN ALYTA

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A South Carolina team that didn't believe what it read in the papers all week before the Shrine Bowl football game still had that warm glow today as it looked back on the 24-0 drubbing it handed favored North Carolina.

The Tar Heels were slightly favored because their line appeared strong enough to contain what admittedly was a superior South Carolina backfield.

But the Palmetto lads responded to the challenge Saturday with fierce line play and a pass defense that resulted in four interceptions, one more than belabored North Carolina backs were able to complete in 16 attempts.

Only once North Carolina moved beyond South Carolina's 45-yard line, pushing to the 30 in the third period.

Heroes were many in the South Carolina ranks, coached by Tommy Oates of Rock Hill, assisted by Bobby Giles of Olympia High at Columbia and Alan Shelton of Beaufort.

Two of the Sandlappers were singled out for outstanding player awards. Grady Bolton, 235-pound package of dynamite from Lewisville High in Richburg, who played guard, was named top lineman. Halfback Craig Baynam, the leading runner from scrimmage with 69 yards in 12 carries, was chosen top back.

Kinard Littleton, a 170-pound halfback from Clinton, gave the capacity crowd of 23,000 its biggest thrills. He had punt returns of 42 and 40 yards, a kickoff return of 36 yards, intercepted a pass and ran it back 16 yards and capped a great day with his end zone catch of a pass from Beaufort quarterback Richard Drawdy.

The major share of the glory had to go to the line captained by Bolton and Butch Williams, end from Eau Claire, which held North Carolina to 84 yards rushing while the South Carolina backs piled up 202.

The game netted $202,000 for the Shriners' Greenville, S.C., hospital for crippled children.

Va. Coach Bill Elias Is Coach Of Year

RALIGH (AP)—Bill Elias, who inherited a 28-game losing streak and went on to direct Virginia to its best football record in nine years, has been named Atlantic Coast Conference football Coach of the Year.

The 38-year-old Cavalier coach, won the same honor in the Southern Conference last year for his performance in leading erstwhile doormat George Washington to a 5-3-1 record, won the ACC laurels in a tight race with Bill Murray of Duke and Billy Hildebrand of Wake Forest.

Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association members gave Elias 16 votes, with 14 to Murray and 13 to Hildebrand. Tom Nugent of Maryland, Marvin Bass of South Carolina and Jim Hickey of North Carolina also received votes.

Elias quickly shook off Virginia's losing streak, leading his team to victory in its opening game. The Cavaliers finished with a 4-6 record. Their most outstanding achievement was a 28-16 victory over Maryland. Elias' old school, that knocked the Terps out of a possible Gator Bowl berth.

Elias played quarterback for Maryland. In each of his three varsity seasons he played under a different head coach — Clark Shaughnessy, Bear Bryant and the late Jim Tatum. From each he gained part of his coaching theory.

Murray, last season's Coach of the Year, won his second successive ACC championship at Duke and finished the year 7-3.

Hildebrand's Wake Forest team lost three games in a row, then finished with a 4-6 record, including upsets of Clemson and North Carolina.

The Young Men's Christian Association, originated in London.

Deacon Cagers Have Tough Week In Store For Them

Wake Forest, figured to be the cream of this year's crop of Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams, wasn't really tested in its opener Saturday night, but a couple of tough tests are on tap this week.

The Deacons, who opened by crushing Davidson 96-62, face North Carolina State, always a tough customer, in a conference game Tuesday night, and then entertain mighty Ohio State Saturday night.

Big Len Chappell paced the Deacons with 23 points although he sat out about eight minutes of the first half because of three personal fouls. Davidson's Bill Jarman had 30.

Wake Forest was one of four ACC teams to beat non-conference opposition. Clemson nipped Virginia Military 87-84, South Carolina beat Lenoir Rhyne 82-72, and N. C. State defeated Tennessee 71-64. Maryland lost 71-65, to Penn State in a non-conference game.

In Saturday night's only conference game, North Carolina crushed Virginia 80-44.

Duke was idle Saturday. The Blue Devils opened Friday with an 80-8 victory over Florida.

Virginia entertains Richmond tonight and South Carolina plays

Carbo Sentenced To Prison, Fined

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frankie Carbo, former underworld boxing figure, has been sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined $10,000.

Carbo and four others, also sentenced Saturday to varying terms, were convicted last May of conspiracy to muscle in on the earnings of former welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Federal Judge George Boldt also sentenced Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia boxing promoter, to 15 years and fined $10,000, and Truman Gibson Jr., Chicago attorney, to a suspended five-year term, fined him $10,000 and placed him on five years probation.

Tight Race In Carolinas Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A tight race for the Carolinas Conference basketball championship is virtually assured, if results of some of last week's games are any indication.

Lenoir Rhyne leads the conference with a 2-0 mark after the first week of the new campaign, but Elon could pull into a tie with a victory tonight over Atlantic Christian. That's the only game tonight for conference teams.

Lenoir Rhyne lost a non-conference bout Saturday night to South Carolina, 82-72.

Catawba, drubbed 90-72 by Pfeiffer in their opener, beat Newberry 72-52, East Carolina 78-74, and pumped Atlantic Christian 61-53 Saturday night. Catawba stands 3-1 in conference play.

Guilford edged favored Appalachian 64-63 Saturday night. In Saturday night's other games, East Carolina lost to The Citadel 85-73, Western Carolina was nosed

Duke Happy With Victory Over Irish And No Bowl Bid

Floyd Patterson Favored Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's Atlantic Coast Conference football champions aren't discouraged because they didn't receive a bowl bid.

"We're satisfied to take a closing victory over one of the outstanding teams in the country," says Blue Devil Coach Bill Murray.

He was referring to Duke's crushing 37-13 victory over Notre Dame. The Blue Devils won although their backfield was full of holes because of injuries and illness. Halfback Mark Leggett, the team's leading ground gainer, and fullback Red Burch didn't play at all. Halfback Jack Wilson was used sparingly, mostly on defense.

Duke, winner of the ACC title with a 5-1 record, finished 7-3 for the season.

Meanwhile, North Carolina nailed down second place in the conference with a 24-0 victory over Virginia. The Cavaliers finished in the cellar again.

The Tar Heels closed with a 4-3 ACC record and a 5-5 overall record. Virginia finished 2-4 in the conference and 4-8 in all games. It was their best over-all record in nine years.

Cavalier Coach Bill Elias, commenting on his team's record, said "I was hired to do a job and so far as I'm concerned it's only 40 per cent complete...before the season I predicted we'd win five games, and we came very, very close."

All the other ACC teams finished up a week earlier. Behind Duke and North Carolina in the conference came Maryland and Clemson, each with 3-3 conference records. N. C. State, South Carolina and Wake Forest each closed with 3-4 ACC records.

Lenoir Rhyne leads the conference with a 2-0 mark after the first week of the new campaign, but Elon could pull into a tie with a victory tonight over Atlantic Christian. That's the only game tonight for conference teams.

Lenoir Rhyne lost a non-conference bout Saturday night to South Carolina, 82-72.

Catawba, drubbed 90-72 by Pfeiffer in their opener, beat Newberry 72-52, East Carolina 78-74, and pumped Atlantic Christian 61-53 Saturday night. Catawba stands 3-1 in conference play.

Guilford edged favored Appalachian 64-63 Saturday night. In Saturday night's other games, East Carolina lost to The Citadel 85-73, Western Carolina was nosed

PLANNING, PLANNING, PLANNING But all of the plans backfired as South Carolina, the underdog in the Shrine Bowl, came out on top in a shutout over North Carolina. Tar Heel Quarterback Billy James of Greenville discusses the game with one of the coaches. (Photo by Joe Hughes)

TORONTO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is a prohibitive 10-6 favorite to hand strong and rough Tom McNeely Jr., the first defeat of his brief career in their 15-round title fight tonight at Maple Leaf Gardens.

There was every indication of a quick and explosive battle in Canada's first world heavyweight championship contest.

McNeely, a 6-2, 200-pound former Michigan State tackle, predicted he would win by a knockout "within six rounds."

"I'm going after him," said McNeely. "He won't have to go looking for me."

"I think McNeely might be the kind of a fighter who will gamble and try to take over the fight," said Patterson. "If he does, it could be up and down like the last (Ingemar) Johansson fight with nobody giving up. So I'll gamble in the first round if he's willing."

Patterson declined to make any predictions, but he said, "I will be 100 per cent better than I was in the last fight with Ingemar last March."

In that fight, his third with Johansson, Patterson rallied from two first-round knockdowns and kayoed the husky Swede in the sixth.

The Patterson-McNeely title fight will be the second half of a closed-circuit television double-header. The opening bout will match Sonny Liston, the re-saluted No. 1 contender from Philadelphia, and stocky Albert Westphal of Hamburg, Germany, in a ten-rounder at Philadelphia's Convention Hall. Spectators at the two arenas will see the other city's fight on four-sided movie screens. The doubleheader also will be shown in about 150 theaters and arenas in the United States and Canada, and may be seen in 150,000 homes via community antenna television systems.

There will be no radio broadcast in the United States. McNeely may collect about $125,000. Patterson could earn around $300,000.

McNeely's purse could be more than he has grossed in all 23 of his pro fights in a career of 3 1-3 years. He has won all them, 18 by knockouts. He is ranked ninth by Ring but is not included in the NBA's top ten.

Despite his impressive record, he is not rated highly as a puncher. His opponents have been inferior. He is a standup fighter who relies on his strength to overwhelm an opponent.

Patterson, trim and fast, has an overwhelming advantage in skill, power and experience. But he has been down 11 times in eight title fights. However, all of them have ended in knockouts. He won seven of them, losing to Johansson in the seven-knockdown third round of their first fight June 26, 1959.

The four trips to the post in the Garden State, jockey Eric Guerin won with Summer Tan in 1955, was second with Career Boy in 1956 third with Rose Trellis in 1957, and third with Sword Dancer in 1958.

CHAPTER 32

Darkness spread slowly across the sky until only a few pastel brush strokes were left to dramatize the western horizon. The usual evening breezes began to stir the bushes.

One by one by guests gathered in the lounge of the Villa Serena where Juan, immaculate in his white coat, was pouring cocktails. It appeared to be an evening just like any other evening since the Villa opened.

But for Carmelita it was different. Her hasty temper had betrayed her again. A few angry words to the pastry cook and she was banished from the kitchen, assigned to make up the rooms for the night.

Now, with a pile of towels beside her, Carmelita waited on a bench in the outer darkness until the sounds of gaiety moved from the lounge to the dining room.

Then, gathering up the towels, she started her chores. She told herself sullenly that she didn't really mind. One day soon she would marry Luis Perez. As Uncle Pedro said, he was a good catch. He would take her away from the Villa, and afterwards she would come back, dressed in fine clothes, and all the others would envy her.

However, ultimate triumph was no substitute for the present. Her movements were resentful as she moved from room to room, tidying the bathrooms, turning down the beds, lighting fires in each of the fireplaces.

Her good humor was completely restored when she found Juan waiting for her outside a door. Pretending not to notice him, she started toward the next room. At his touch she squealed as though in fright, but her heart was skipping with happy excitement and she was unable to conceal her pleasure. With only token resistance she responded to his importuning lips and forgot, instantly, her intention of marrying Luis.

From number twenty-four Luis could hear her plainly, the tiny screech of fright followed by the laughter and finally her voice, purring with excitement. "No, Juan, not now. I have to do the rooms."

There was the rumble of Juan's reply, sounds of a scuffle and Carmelita's voice again full of seductive promise. "Later, Juan, I'll meet you later."

Luis' mouth tightened into a narrow line. "The tramp," he thought. "The cheap tramp!"

He had been in the little senora's room for several minutes, padding restlessly around looking for the jewel. There had been no difficulty getting into the Villa grounds. He had chatted with Uncle Pedro until they were both certain that all the guests were in the dining room, then had stolen through the garden, crossed the lighted walkway and was once again in the large airy room that smelled faintly of violets. Here he intended to wait until the little senora returned and when she did, he would get his jewel.

Although it was contrary to his every instinct to expose himself so openly to danger, he felt that he no longer had any alternative. Direct action was all that was left to him. He could not afford the luxury of devious methods, which might be safer but could just as easily prove fatal.

Below the surface of his open mouth Luis knew that once he had the jewel he could not let the little senora live, yet on the surface he kept telling himself that he did not intend to harm her.

There was a chance, a slim one, that he really would be able to avoid violence—if only the emerald were hidden in the room. Quickly but thoroughly he searched the room, but it wasn't there. Once he was convinced that any further search was futile, he was strangely calm with a determination that was unlike him, as if, having reached the point of no return, excess emotion was superfluous.

He stood near the open window looking out into the darkness. He watched the lighted strip of the walkway. He noticed the faint, peppery scent of the air, the intermittent croaking of the bull frog who lived in the pool outside the window—and it was from here that he had heard Carmelita.

Listening to her slam the doors as she moved from room to room, Luis wondered how often after he himself had left the Villa and Juan had closed the lounge those two had met to lie together under the trees, maybe under the very tree where she had recently whispered lovingly to Luis.

Now she was in the next room. He could hear her banging around in there as if she didn't like the occupants. Something crashed to the floor.

He had an insane impulse to remain where he was to surprise her when she entered the room, but prudently he crossed over to the closet stepped inside, leaving the door slightly ajar so that he could watch her.

She came in, humming to herself, and snapped on the overhead light. Her face was flushed, her eyes glowing. She was smiling just as he had imagined she would be and in her thick, black hair she was wearing the sparkling comb he had bought for her.

He could see her only while she bent over the small fireplace to light the fire, then she moved away from his narrow range of vision. He could hear the sliding sound of the curtains as she pulled them against the night.

She was directly in front of him again, coming toward the closet door. Unexpectedly the sweat broke out in the palms of his hands and he was breathing heavily, yet his mind remained calm and precise. If Carmelita saw him, even for an instant, she would recognize him.

Without hesitation, slowly, noiselessly he slid the knife from his pocket, flipped open the blade and waited for her. When she opened the door he would plunge it into the hollow spot at the base of her throat, the spot he had so often kissed.

He knew, suddenly, that he wanted to kill her, that he hated her for her betrayal of him with Juan, without remembering that he, also, had betrayed her, forgetting, even, that he had cared nothing for her.

She was at the door and he braced himself to move instantly, grinning at the thought of her astonishment when she would see him there, an astonishment that would last only the instant that she remained alive.

Instead of opening the door, however, Carmelita shut it and Luis stood in muffled darkness, experiencing an immediate reaction of relief mixed with shocked amazement at his own traumatic urge for violence.

Dimly, as though from a great distance he heard the water running in the bathroom, Carmelita's footsteps passing the closet, the front door closing, and knew that she was gone. Still he stood in the closet, leaning weakly against the wall, shaken by the unacknowledged demons that stirred within him.

At last he re-entered the room, turned out the table lamp Carmelita had lighted and settled down to wait for the little senora. With the fireplace behind him he didn't dare stand silhouetted against the window. Instead he sat in the easy chair, relying on his ears to warn him against surprise, and he smoked the senora's cigarettes, enjoying the mild Virginia tobacco, reconciled to the waiting.

Because he did not want to think of what would happen when the little senora returned to her room, he thought beyond it, to afterward when he would have the jewel and it would bring him riches.

"Fragments of the frightening experience returned to trouble Jessie Prewitt, the odd feeling that she was being threatened for reasons she didn't understand." The story continues tomorrow.

12-Year-Old Claims Record In Pogo-Jumps

East Carolina College's pogo jumping champion has been challenged by 12-year-old Linda Spain of Greenville, who says she can jump at least 608 times compared to James Shuman's record of 501 times.

After reading about Shuman's feat in the Saturday paper, and his challenge for competition, Miss Spain manned her pogo stick and jumped 608 times. Her mother timed her at about 10 minutes.

In addition to just plain old jumping the pogo stick, Miss Spain can jump on her pogo stick and jump rope at the same time, by controlling the pogo stick with her legs, thus leaving her hands free to jump rope.

She first got her pogo stick several years ago and was jumping about two years.

It wasn't immediately known whether Shuman had any other challengers.

Miss Spain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton S. Spain of 1802 S. Elm St. and a student of the seventh grade at Greenville Junior High School.

Rocket Carrying Package 27,600 Miles Into Sky

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A 40-foot Blue Scout solid-fuel rocket roared into the sky today with a 29-pound package of instruments to measure radiation in space.

The Air Force said all four stages appeared to have fired as planned.

It was aimed at a point over the South Pole some 27,600 miles out in space—a journey the Air Force said would take about six hours.

The saucer-shaped payload was expected to fall back into the atmosphere and burn up some 12 hours after launch.

Besides instruments designed to measure low-energy protons originating from the sun, the payload includes a new telemetry system which can broadcast signals on less power than it takes to operate a flashlight bulb.

Twelve Unhurt In Tunnel Collapse

AOMORI, Japan (AP)—Twelve Japanese workmen walked unhurt today from a 1,600-foot railway tunnel in which they had been entombed for 60 hours.

The miners, trapped Friday by a cave-in, were tunneling food, water and other supplies through a six-inch pipe until rescue workers could reach them.

Asserts Crooks Stole His Wigs
WASHINGTON (AP)—A hair-rising sight greeted Marcel Cadeaux, 56, when he visited his second-story shop on fashionable Connecticut Avenue Sunday.

His stock in trade, some $6,000 in hand-made wigs, had been stolen.

The obvious question, of course, is why would anyone want an unfinished wig or toupee specially made for someone else.

"Crooks," explained the excitable Frenchman, sweeping off his own brown toupee and revealing a pate as devoid of growth as that of any of his customers.

He said a crime victim might declare at a police line up of suspects: "This guy has hair, the man who robbed me was bald."

Oversubscribed Record Budget
DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The First Baptist church of Dallas Sunday oversubscribed a record $1,218,600 budget, which officials believe to be the largest local church budget ever.

Total subscriptions were $1,233,810, or $15,210 over the goal.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain
New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Snatched $1,402 From A Table
SEATTLE (AP)—A young man who said he was waiting for his fiancée to show up to talk to the priest about their marriage plans paced nervously in a church rectory here Sunday, then snatched up $1,402 from a table.

"This would be enough for a honeymoon," he told secretary Rose Moroni, who had been counting for deposit in a bank.

"Yes, it would make quite a nice honeymoon," Miss Moroni agreed.

Then, she told police, the man dashed out the door with the bundle of money and disappeared.

Twenty-Seven Finish Red Cross Course Friday Night

Twenty-seven Pitt County residents were authorized to teach a course on "The Care of the Sick and Injured" following completion of an instructor-trainer course at Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday night.

Miss Elizabeth Eggleston, nursing representative for eastern North Carolina, from Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, D. C., authorized them to teach the course.

Mrs. Phyllis Martin and Dr. Ann Huiwenga were made instructor-trainers for Pitt County.

Assisting in instruction of the course were Dr. Ray Martinez and Miss Nell Stallings of the East Carolina College Physical Education Department, who gave demonstrations on artificial respiration to the classes.

Those who completed the courses taught here are as follows: Mrs. Pocahontas Jones, Mrs. Jane Cobb, Mrs. Marian Bartlett, Mrs. Inez Martinez, Mrs. Edith Regan, Mrs. Rachel Crawford, Rev. Garland Teasley, Rev. Charles Sapp, Mrs. Janie Joyner, Mrs. Mary Albritton, Mrs. Vera J. Brown.

Also, Mrs. Narcissus Jackson, Mrs. Beulah Mebane, Mrs. Lois McLawhorn, Mrs. Sarah Perkins, Mrs. Eva Rountree, Mrs. Sylvia Waters, John Taylor, David Smallwood, Melton R. Boone, Miss Anne M. Brown, Miss Betty Carney, Miss Mary Hawkins, Miss Elsie Seago, Miss Erma Staplefoote, Miss Ruth Staton and Miss Welhelmina Barrett.

Watched Tobacco Go Up In Smoke

CHICAGO (AP) — A crowd of 3,500 spectators—inhalings deeply—watched more than $250,000 in tobacco products go up in smoke Sunday night as fire destroyed the Galt Tobacco House, Inc.

The fire, of undetermined origin, burned large supplies of tobacco products stocked in the warehouse for Christmas sales.

Four Special House Elections For Seats Held By Democrats Are Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four special elections for the House of Representatives are coming up to fill seats formerly held by Democrats. Three of the contests will be held next month in the South.

Democratic campaign spokesmen say they believe all four districts will remain Democratic, but they have their fingers crossed. They say they no longer are taking the South for granted. A Michigan election also could prove tough.

Republican leaders appear none too optimistic, but say they are quite hopeful of breaking the long Republican drought in Louisiana where two conservatives are trying for the seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Overton Brooks. The other elections are Dec. 16 and 23 to fill vacancies in Texas caused by the resignation of Reps. Frank Ikard and the death of Speaker Sam Rayburn, and Feb. 13 in Michigan for the seat of the late Rep. Louis C. Rabaut.

In Louisiana's 4th District, the candidates are Democrat Joe Waggoner, oil products wholesaler, and Republican Charlton H. Lyons Sr., Shreveport oil dealer. They were named in a primary.

I. Lee Potter, the Republican National Committee's Southern spokesman, said he is quite hopeful about GOP chances in Louisiana, despite the fact that Democrats have 97 per cent of registrations. Potter said both Waggoner and Lyons are ultra-conservative and Lyons is conducting an aggressive campaign.

Although Republican Richard M. Nixon carried the Louisiana

4th in 1960, the vote was split three ways, with an uncommitted slate of electors polling about 35 per cent and President Kennedy getting 27 against Nixon's 38. Brooks won the district last year 3 to 1.

Republicans count their chances tougher in both Texas scraps. They say their best hope lies in a new Texas law requiring a winner to poll a majority, otherwise the top two go into a run-off. The Texas candidates were not named in primaries.

In each Texas election there is only one Republican running against a group of Democrats. Republicans hope the Democrats will split the vote sufficiently to let their man reach the run-off.

In the Texas 13th, where Rep. Ikard quit to become an official of the American Petroleum Institute, the lone Republican candidate is Joe Meissner Jr., a conservative businessman who resigned as a Wichita Falls councilman to make the race.

His Democratic opponents are Judge Graham B. Purcell Jr., and State Rep. Vernon Stewart, Wichita Falls; Dist. Atty. Jack Hightower, Vernon; and Jimmy P. Horany, Archer City lawyer-businessman.

In Rayburn's 4th District there are five Democrats against one Republican candidate. The last Republican to run in this district got 800 votes in 1946.

The Democratic candidates in this Dec. 23 race are David Brown, Roy G. Baker, and R. C. Slagle Jr., Sherman; State Sen. Ray Roberts, McKinney; and Jack Finney, Greenville. Conner Harrington, Plano, is the lone Republican.

The Michigan election is in the Detroit-Grosse Pointe area where Rabaut won 13 House races broken by a lone defeat in 1946. Democrats say Rabaut had a strong personal hold on the district and they are not going to get caught napping in what they call a potential danger spot there. Rabaut carried the district—the 14th—last year 132,602 to 78,548.

Candidates for the Rabaut seat will be chosen in Jan. 23 primary. Six Democrats, including Rabaut's son Louis, a tax attorney, have announced so far. The others are State Sen. Harold M. Ryan; William J. Coughlin, assistant Wayne County prosecutor; Martin W. Baginski, probate court official; Harold McLaughlin, president, 21st Ward Democratic Club; and Roland O'Hare, president, American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan. State Rep. Robert E. Waldron is the GOP candidate.

Area Churches Choose Principal Of Staying Separated From Business

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

The churches in Greenville and Pitt County apparently adhere to the old adage of church separate from business.

At least that's what the tax books say. Churches contacted in Greenville stay away from business type ventures even to the point of selling stocks and bonds or rental property given to them.

State law exempts "buildings with the land upon which they are situated, together with the additional adjacent land reasonably necessary for the convenient use of such buildings, lawfully owned and held by churches or other religious bodies or organizations, and used for the general or promotional offices or headquarters of such churches or religious bodies or organizations."

Thence, all properties used in connection with routine church work and parsonages are exempt. Any property that is used as rental for profit by the church is subject to tax.

Churches Here Exempt

In Pitt County, all church owned property is listed as tax exempt. Tax Collector Robert S. Moye stated. No church property is taxed here. As a matter of fact, most of the county's tax exempt property is owned by churches, schools and towns.

In some areas in the state, investigative digging has produced instances in which churches should be listing items for tax purposes. This would necessitate a long and hard type of "digging" on the part of the tax collectors, however, and sometimes they feel the end would not justify the means.

Several denominations in Pitt do have a connection with "business," but it has proved to be legitimate church activity which is non-profit.

For instance, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville previously bought land fronting Dickinson Avenue and Greene Street near the church for use as a church parking facility. After the church bought the property, the city wanted to make it available as a city parking facility during non-church hours, a church spokesman said.

Finally, an agreement was worked out and the city paved and metered the lot. The city gives the church "a very small part of the revenue which these meters produce," Sam Underwood, chairman of the official church board, said, but that revenue is small compared to the money still owed on the lot. The church is still paying for the lot, he pointed out.

The land originally was bought for use as church parking only. Underwood stressed Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, one of the largest in the county, has owned vacant lots which have been given by its members, but the usual policy is to sell as soon as possible. It has also been given rental property, which is also sold as soon as possible. The church is not in business, it was pointed out. The same policy holds true for the other churches here.

Another business-connected venture of a church in the county is that of the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church, which now rents its parsonage to a person not in the denomination.

The situation arose when the church appointed the Rev. R. A. Gaskins, resident of Ayden, as pastor. Since the Rev. Mr. Gaskins already owned his home in Ayden and the length of pastorate is undetermined and could change any time, the minister chose to remain in his own home.

He explained that the parsonage consequently has been rented, but with the understanding that the tenant may have to move at any time a new pastor might be appointed.

The house officially is the church parsonage, he explained. No taxes are paid on income from the rental.

This situation, referred to by churchmen as temporary, has been existing for about three years.

However, it was learned that the Rev. Mr. Gaskins does list real estate with the county.

Free Will Baptist Press

One of the largest businesses in Ayden is The Free Will Baptist Press, probably the largest printing and publishing firm in the county. This, though an extraordinary type of firm, is tax exempt because it is a non-profit organization operated by members of the Free Will Baptist denomination as a service agency.

The press is recognized as an asset in Ayden and is pointed to with pride by her citizens. It does some $250,000 to $300,000 in business per year. Its manager, the Rev. N. Bruce Barrow, says. About $16,000 was given to denominational agencies by the press last year.

The Free Will Baptist Press, which employs 23 people, publishes literature for the Free Will Baptist denomination for both the Sunday Schools and the leagues; also, hymn books, other books and periodicals relative to denominational work. This work embraces the entire denomination of some 400,000 people in the United States. The Ayden press is the only printing establishment and publisher for the denomination, though some of the member churches deal with independent printers.

In addition to those employed at the press itself, 15 persons are "piece" writers, or contributors.

Any profit of The Free Will Baptist Press goes into denominational agencies, since the organization is non-profit. At any rate, the press is highly successful.

A survey of the possibility of income producing properties, real estate or businesses belonging to Pitt County or Greenville churches, not related to church worship, revealed negative results. At most, the churches here own vacant lots to be used for expansion purposes.

It has been said that a few years back, one or two churches in Greenville rented rooms but were taxed on their rental income. The churches here do not follow such a policy now.

Fast-Broadening Rift Appears Between Labor's Top Leaders

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP)—A fast-broadening rift appeared to be developing today between two of organized labor's top leaders—AFL-CIO President George Meany and Auto Workers chief Walter Reuther.

It has been no secret the two men haven't gotten along particularly well for some time. Now they've taken to exchanging potshots publicly.

Meany told reporters over the weekend that Reuther, head of the old CIO until Meany got the top job of the merged labor movement six years ago, is chief among union leaders who have been negligent in organizing activities.

Reuther retorted today through a spokesman for his union that Meany's criticism was untrue and intended merely to cover up failure of the AFL-CIO itself to engage in new member recruitment.

The spokesman also said the Auto Workers Union has substantially organized its jurisdiction, except in the white collar field. The Reuther spokesman flatly denied an assertion by Meany that Reuther has sharply cut down his organizing staff. The spokesman said there had been no staff reduction since the 1958 recession era.

More sparring between the two union leaders seems sure to develop at the AFL-CIO convention opening here Thursday.

Meany had a problem on his hands in another sector. James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union also is holding an executive board meeting at nearby Miami Beach. Hoffa is taking advantage of the situation to call in AFL-CIO friends in an effort to get the Teamsters back into the federation.

Hoffa flatly predicted that an end of the four-year-old Teamsters exile is inevitable. His chances seem slim during the current union meetings, but Hoffa said he was encouraged by a conditional reaffirmation bid voted by the AFL-CIO building trades unions last week.

Meany was said to have written the resolution himself, and in such a way that Hoffa would have to quit as Teamsters president before his union could be considered for readmission.

Crosby Bringing His British Cook

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Nancy Melville, who cooked for Bing Crosby and Bob Hope when they shared a house here this fall, is going to America to cook for Bing.

The 55-year-old woman said Crosby had offered her a job in his California home and she had accepted it with pleasure.

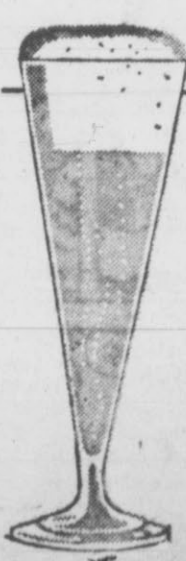

Crosby, Hope and their families shared a house during the filming of "The Road to Hong Kong."

Candidate Seeks Top Of Ballot

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Larson, candidate for Lake County sheriff, has lined up the supporters needed to put his name at the top of the ballot on election day. Larson's supporters are taking turns at the door of County Clerk Garfield R. Leaf to present petitions for his candidacy on the opening day of filing, Jan. 15, 1962.

In Lake County the candidate who gets his petitions in first gets the top ballot position.

a glass of beer
means many things

Every month of the year is an "outdoor" season in North Carolina and the pleasure of tramping the fields behind a good dog ranks high in many areas.

Outdoor living invites relaxing comfort and to many this means the added enjoyment of a glass of beer, at the end of the day. In those progressive areas which permit its "legal sale", a glass of beer also means important added tax revenues.

SPECIAL ELKS AWARD—Greenville. Elks Lodge yesterday presented a special award to the family of the late Jack Barrett. The award was presented during annual memorial services for departed Elks Barrett, who lost his life saving a drowning person, recently received a Carnegie award for heroism. Shown above are Alton Barrett, brother of Jack; Miss Jo Barrett, his niece; Exalted Ruler John Collins and William H. Watson, who made the presentation. J. Con Lanier, who made the address yesterday, paid tribute to departed lodge members. (Photo by Lee Rowland).

Photographs by winners in the national Fifteenth Annual High School Photo Contest, sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company, are now being displayed in the Hallway Gallery, Rawl building, at East Carolina College. The exhibition is sponsored by the college Department of Art and is open to the public.

The photography show will continue through December 15. Forty-six photographs are included.

The pictures are largely the work of boys and girls in this country who have explored photography as a hobby.

Among various types of work on view are action shots, landscapes, pictures of domestic animals and of wild life, and still also included in the current exhibition.

Bridge-Jumper In Critical Shape

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Francis Patrick Kennedy, the second person ever to survive a leap from the Golden Gate bridge, remained in critical condition today.

The 20-year-old Oakland youth vaulted over the railing Sunday and dropped more than 150 feet onto rain-soaked earth.

He suffered fractures of both arms and numerous internal injuries in the fall—the equivalent of an 11-story plunge.

In 1942, Cornelia Van Ireland, 22, jumped from the span and landed in the water 220 feet below. Her present whereabouts are unknown.

Funeral On Tuesday For Mrs. Paul Morris

Mrs. Leona Morris, 63, wife of Paul Morris of 422 W. Fourth Street, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday morning at nine o'clock. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. C. F. Hirsch, pastor of St. James Methodist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Morris, a native of Pamlico County, had lived in Belhaven and Washington prior to coming to Greenville in 1926.

Surviving are her husband; a son, Paul Fox Morris of Raleigh; three daughters, Mrs. Billy Street, Mrs. Ralph Cosentino and Mrs. Kenneth Warren of Greenville; and 14 grandchildren.

Lunik II hit the moon about 35 hours after launching by Soviet scientists.

Jefferson-Davis, a West Point graduate, served in the Black Hawk War and the Mexican War.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices mostly steady. Tops of 17.25 at Smithfield; 16.75-17.75 at Nabunsa, Wilson, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive; 17-17.50 at Spring Hope and Rocky Mount; 17-17.25 at Murfreesboro and Robersonville; 16.50-17 at Pembroke; 17.25 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Tarboro, Fink Hill, Enfield, Scotland Neck and Rich Square; 17 at Greensboro, Goldsboro, Albemarle and Dunn; 16.75 at Siler City, Lillington, Castle Hayne and Burgaw.

Wilson cash cattle prices slightly higher: Steers and heifers, choice 23.50-25, good 21.50-24, standards 18-21; beef cows 13.50-16, heavy cutters 13-14; light bulls 12.50-15, heavy bulls 15-18.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady, base farm price 12-13, mostly 13; f.o.b. plant price 12.75 to 14.50.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rose in heavy trading early this afternoon as industrial shares were buoyed by good news but the savings and loan stocks dropped sharply.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 267.10 with industrials up 1.20, rails up .10 and utilities up .60.

Gains of key stocks ran from fractions to more than a point, outnumbering losers in the same range.

Among the West Coast savings and loan issues, which ran into profit taking last week on their big gains, losses were more severe, going to several points in some cases and to about 10 points for the higher-priced financials.

Additional selling pressure was generated on the savings and loans by government authorization to commercial banks enabling them to pay interest rates as high as 4 per cent.

Reports of mounting orders for steel, a forecast of auto assemblies rising to a peak level for December, a prediction of an 8 per cent rise in housing starts next year and an increase in consumer installment debt in October helped other issues.

Gains of more than a point were scored by U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin while Lukens Steel picked up more than 2.

Ford advanced more than 1, touching a new high.

American Telephone matched its previous high of 15 and held a gain of around 2.

International Business Machines, aided by a forecast of record sales and profits, picked up 6.

The savings and loans were un-earlier indicated she might build such a facility in Pitt County, that her plans have become indefinite due to illness in her family. In his letter Dr. Bartlett reminded the commissioners the county's Overall Planning Committee had tabled its plans for possible construction of such a facility pending the development of Mrs. Bartlett's plans.

The commissioners received and accepted a resolution from the Pitt County Bar Association expressing "unalterable" opposition to removal of the Courthouse from its present site."

J. W. H. Roberts and William O. Brewer delivered the resolution that said:

"... while we have gone on record as favoring modernization and enlargement of the present Courthouse, and air-conditioning of the Courtroom, we are unalterably opposed to the removal of the Courthouse from its present site."

No action was taken by the commissioners after a discussion of a complaint by Thad Williams of Greenville that dogs had continually damaged his garden. Perkins said he had reports that the dog warden had been summoned to remedy the situation, but upon his arrival the dogs have been gone.

The commissioners accepted "with regret" the resignation of Ronnie O. Tharrington as assistant county agent. Tharrington, in his letter of resignation, expressed his appreciation for cooperation of the commissioners and gave as his reason for resigning his appointment to a position in the Greenville office of the Farmers Home Administration.

Rites Wednesday For Elton H. Byrum, Jr.

Mr. Elton Homer (Charlie) Byrum Jr., 27, 2814 Jefferson Drive, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday morning at nine o'clock following a year of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the West New Bern Presbyterian Church in New Bern Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock by his pastor, the Rev. Scott M. Poole, assisted by the Rev. Richard Gammon, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville, and the Rev. Thomas M. Davis, Presbyterian minister of Greenville. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park in New Bern.

Mr. Byrum, a native of Greenville, attended the Greenville City Schools and East Carolina College, and served with the United States Air Force during the Korean conflict. He had been manager of Larry's Shoe Store in New Bern for the past five years and was a member of the West New Bern Presbyterian Church. He was a past president of the New Bern Jaycees and was voted New Bern's Outstanding Young Man of the Year in 1960. Since March, 1961, he had been a member of the Greenville Jaycees.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Overton Byrum; two daughters, Karen Blair and Beverly Kim Byrum of the home; a son, Gary Lynn Byrum of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elton H. Byrum of Greenville; a sister, Miss Ann Byrum of Greenville; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Grover Byrum of Suffolk, Virginia.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of the New Bern Jaycees, the Greenville Jaycees, and men of the Covenant Class of the First Presbyterian Church in New Bern.

Six Traffic Accidents In City Over The Weekend

Heavy damage was reported by Greenville police in six traffic mishaps investigated in the city over the weekend.

Heaviest damage was reported resulting from the collision of two vehicles on Charles Street near the Norfolk and Southern Railroad overpass.

Officers said drivers of the cars were James Norfleet Caprell, 58, of 2815 Edwards St. and Murphy Randolph Carrow, 35, of 904 Cotanche St. Carrow, it was reported, was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Total damage in the collision was set at $700. The wreck occurred at 5:13 p.m. Sunday.

Officers noted that Caprell's wife suffered abrasions to her forehead, was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for the injuries and released.

Jordan N. Hatem, 65, of West Fifth St. was charged with hit-and-run driving following a collision on 14th St. near the intersection of Cotanche at 12:05 p.m. yesterday.

Investigators said the Hatem auto struck a car which had been parked by Mrs. Dorothy Spain McLawhorn, 309 Arlington Drive, causing an estimated $150 damage to the McLawhorn auto.

Damage to the Hatem vehicle was placed at $350.

An estimated $300 damage was done to a vehicle operated by Albert Rogers, 46-year-old Negro of Route 5, Greenville when it struck a utilities pole at the intersection of Albemarle Ave. and Fifth St. No damage was done to the pole in the 12:20 a.m. Sunday collision, officers noted.

Rogers was charged with careless and reckless driving.

Pump School Is Set This Week

A fire training school for pump operators will be held this week in Greenville for all Pitt County Fire Departments.

The pump school will run for four nights starting at 7 o'clock nightly. Each class will last until 10 o'clock and instruction will be furnished by training officers of the Greenville Fire Department.

Sponsored by the Pitt Firemen's Association, the school marks the second such training program carried out by the association in the past year. A basic fireman school was held for over 100 Pitt firemen last summer. The school is slated to be repeated this spring.

Pitt Firemen's Association President Roy Hardee said today that three key men from each fire department in the county have been invited to take part in the pump school. "The idea is to train at least this number from each department in the proper way in which their pumping equipment should be operated and they in turn can train other members in
