Miss Anthony Weds Mr. Smith

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene Thursday of the wedding of Miss Julia Brady Anthony and Gilbert Lee Smith. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Peyton Tunstall Anthony Jr.

of Greenville and the late Mr. Anthony. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Smith, also of Greenville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John William Drake, rector of St. Paul's. Barr Coleman served as acolyte. The program of wedding music was presented by Miss Venetia Cox, organist. Vocalist, Miss Jane Ross Bass, sang "O Perfect Love." Miss Cox also played other wedding hymns during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Peyton Tunstall Anthony, III, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon taffeta appliqued with restitched Alencon lace, featuring pompadour poufs at the back which extended into a cathedral train. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped square neckline with Alencon lace extending down either side of the dress. The long sleeves ended in calla lily points over the hands. Her veil was attached to a cap of lace and seed pearls and she carried her confirmation prayer book centered with a white orchid, showered with stephanotis.

The bride used an heirloom Duchess lace handkerchief which was used by her maternal great-grandmother in her wedding.

Miss Sara Louise Rogers, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of moss green velveteen and a matching pillbox hat. She carried a nosegay of peppermint carnations with red velvet streamers.

Bridesmaids, Miss Mary Catherine Anthony, sister of the bride, Miss Retha Elizabeth Rogers, cousin of the bride, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Teresa Gallagher of Mount Holly, N. J., all wore dresses identical to the maid of honor's. They carried nosegays of red carnations with red velvet streamers.

Flower girl, Miss Deborah Jane Gallagher of Mount Holly, N. J., wore a dress of white velveteen and a white hat similar to the other attendants.

She carried a miniature nosegay of peppermint carnations. Joseph Gallagher of Mount Holly, New Jersey served as best man. Ushers were Franklin Steinbeck, Phil Coleman, Richard E. Rogers Jr., and Gene Baker, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Anthony, mother of the bride, wore a street-length dress of cocoa-brown embroidery over taffeta. Her accessories were of varying shades of beige and she wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom, wore a street-length dress of beige brocade with brown accessories. Cymbidium orchids made up her corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Parish House of the church. For her wedding trip, the bride changed to a gray wool knit dress with black accessories. She wore a white orchid from her prayer book.

The bridal couple will make their home in Pinewood Forest, Greenville.

Rehearsal Party
Miss Julia Anthony and Gilbert Smith were honored at an after-rehearsal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Hudson in Englewood. The guests were greeted by the hosts and Miss Anthony and Mr. Smith.

To Present Play
A play, "Christmas Eve and All Is Well," will be presented Dec. 24 in the Black Jack Pentecostal Holiness Church at 7:30 p.m.

Starlings Speak Nuptial Vows

SHELBY—Miss Mary Evelyn Mauney became the bride of Leo Hardee Starling Sunday in a 4 p.m. wedding at Beaver Dam Baptist Church in Shelby.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mauney of Shelby. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Starling of Greenville.

The Rev. Oscar Funderburke officiated as the couple exchanged vows of the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Woodrow Funderburke, soloist, sang "Oh Perfect Love," "If I Could Tell You," and "The Lord's Prayer." He was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Woodrow Funderburke, who also played other nuptial selections.

Clarence Mauney gave his daughter in marriage. Her wedding gown of candlelight peau de soie was made by her aunt, Mrs. Alvin Blanton. The bateau neckline was richly appliqued with jeweled Alencon lace. Other features of the dress were long fitted sleeves and bell skirt with a train. Her tiered, fingertip illusion veil was attached to a crown of pearls, sequins and miniature Chantilly lace flowers. She carried a white orchid surrounded by roses.

Mrs. Edwin Lee Mauney of Charlotte, sister-in-law of the bride, was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Goldis Starling, Greenville, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Ellie Speckman, Charlotte, and Misses Carolyn Cornwell and Barbara Jo Philbeck of Shelby.

Street-length dresses worn by the attendants were of emerald green peau de soie. They wore matching half-hats and each carried a single, long-stemmed red rose.

Robert B. Starling of Greenville was his son's best man, Edwin Lee Mauney, Charlotte; John C. Reel, Madison, Fla.; and Franklin Puryear and Woody Smith, Greenville, were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a pink lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a green lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall, where white flowers and greenery were used for decoration. A white wedding cake on one end of the table and a crystal punch service on the opposite end were decorative features on the table. At the center was a triple silver candelabrum holding white flowers and white tapers.

Party refreshments were served during calling hours. The wedding cake was also cut and served.

Those who helped the hosts to receive and entertain were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Blanton, Mrs. Theron Jones, Mrs. Abram Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. George Rippey, Mrs. Kay Leonhardt, Mrs. A. V. Hamrick, Miss Carol Hamrick, Mrs. R. G. Stockton, Mrs. Floyd Allen, Mrs. Joe Philbeck, and Misses Brenda Jo Jones and Marcell McSwain.

The bride is a graduate of Shelby High School. She is a junior at East Carolina College where she is majoring in Spanish.

The bridegroom attended Rose High School in Greenville, and is now a student at East Carolina College where he is majoring in Accounting.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will reside on 14th Street in Greenville. They will continue their education at East Carolina College.

Richardson-Little Speak Vows Sunday

The marriage of Miss Daphne Jane Little to Baxter Allison Richardson was solemnized Sunday at Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Jerry Rowe heard the vows.

Mrs. Richardson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Little of Route 1, Greenville. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Richardson of Rockingham.

The church was decorated with bridal greenery consisting of standards of emerald and Dubia Philendrons. A 15 crescent branched candelabra in the center and on either side was a nine tree branched candelabra interspersed with large arrangements of white glads and large white mums. At the altar was a brass prieu dieu with white cushions where the bride and the bridegroom knelt for prayer. Extending from the altar was brass single candleholders and seven branched candelabra holding tall cathedral candles and brass floor baskets of large white mums and glads.

Pews were marked with white satin bows and plumose greenery.

Music was presented by Mrs. Paul Braxton, pianist, and Miss Joyce Jackson, vocalist, sang "Because," "Wherever Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of peau de soie with a fitted bodice, featuring a draped waistline, scalloped neck and long sleeves ending in a point at the wrist. A wide panel of scalloped Chantilly lace extended from the neckline to the hemline centered with a band of peau de soie. The full-blown skirt of unpressed pleats swept back into a flowing chapel train. She wore a mantilla veil of imported lace and carried a cascade bouquet of pure white orchids and variegated holly leaves tied with bridal satin.

Miss Gayle Little was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Charles Stuart Ward of Greenville served as matron of honor. They wore street-length dresses of emerald green peau de soie, featuring scooped necklines and bell skirts.

They wore emerald green headbands encrusted with seed pearls with matching veil of imported silk illusion. White bridal satin muffs centered with red poinsettias were carried by the honor attendants.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathryn Little, Miss Clarence Little, sisters of the bride, Miss Diane Whitehurst of Stokes, and Miss Marty Dixon of Greenville, cousins of the bride. They wore dresses similar to the honor attendants.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Jane Blue, Miss Ginny Lynn Thompson, Miss Ruth Jordan, Miss Clara Faye Crawford, sorority sisters of the bride, Miss Sandra Hunsucker and Miss Betty Ann Hardy of Winterville. They wore cocktail dresses and carried a single stem red carnation.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Charles Stuart Ward and Wilkie C. Burt of Greenville, Jack Ziegler of Florence, S. C., and John Watkins of Shelby.

The bride, a rising senior at East Carolina College, is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. The bridegroom, a graduate of East Carolina College, is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He is employed with the Vocation Rehabilitation in Greenville.

Following a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Greenville.

Nobles Give Nursery Party

Mrs. Betty Nobles and Miss Jean Nobles of Nobles Day Nursery had their Christmas party at the Nursery on Skinner Street, Sunday evening.

The Nursery was decorated throughout with colored lights, Christmas arrangements and a large gaily decorated Christmas tree.

Soft Christmas music was played as the guests arrived.

A welcome song was sung by the children and a film "Christmas with Peter and Carol" was shown followed by a program of Christmas songs by the children. As their voices broke into "Here Comes Santa Clause" the jolly old fellow, with his loaded pack, appeared on the scene. He was immediately surrounded by the children, each very eager to tell him what they wanted him to bring them Christmas eve.

Santa worked his way to the Christmas tree where he had personalized stockings, filled with toys and goodies for each boy and girl. As each child's name was called Santa gave him or her a stocking and a satchel of mixed candies, topped with a candy cane. As the children had drawn names each received a gift from a little friend of the Nursery. Santa presented the parents hand painted wall plaques, made by Mrs. Nobles, from their child.

Jolly old Saint Nick then wished everyone a merry Christmas and left amid shouts of joy and good-byes from the children.

Everyone was invited to the refreshment tables, which were covered with Christmas cloths and centered with Christmas arrangements. Misses Jean Bright, Pat Howell, Judy Cox and Debbie Hines served Christmas punch, decorated cakes, open faced sandwiches, rosettes and salted nuts.

With horns blowing, toy car wheels rolling and much jollity the children and grown-ups departed for their homes.

Finding A Course Of Joint Action

The conference between President Kennedy and Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan in Bermuda afforded the opportunity for the exchange of viewpoints on items of major importance to the leaders of the Western bloc of nations, but it did not eliminate all of the differences which have disrupted Western unity.

On key international situations, the United States and Britain are probably farther apart now than they have been on any occasion since World War II. Particularly in the case of the Congo situation where the United States is supporting the U.N. action in Katanga province, but where the British, French and Belgians have given support to the Tshombe regime. It is a situation which affords adversaries of the West an opportunity to drive another wedge between the nations to create more disunity, to following the old line of dividing and conquering, or at least preventing decisive Western action.

In the case of Berlin there are also points of disagreement, but in this case the British and the United States appear fairly well agreed on what action should and can be taken. DeGaulle, however, does not see eye-to-eye with his Western partners when it comes to the Berlin question.

The clarification of viewpoints on these and other matters between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan should contribute to finding a course through which the former Western unity can be more effectively brought to bear on the international situation. It would be foolish to assume, however, that all the kinks were ironed out in Bermuda these past two days, or that there remain no points

Few Changes In Christmastide

By LYNN NISBET

CHRISTMAS — There is a sameness about Christmas. This Christmas is very much like all others which have gone before. There are the same carols, soft and sweet and uplifting, or harsh and tinny and indelibly stamped with the dollar mark. There are the same kind of decorations, trees and wreaths and glittering ornaments.

Strangely enough this sameness does not bore us. To the contrary it is a delightful reminder of the permanence of the Christmas spirit, which all the commercialism in the world cannot completely dampen. Some of those who complain most loudly about the expensiveness and commercialism of the season are most happy in spending money to bring joy to others. The familiar Salvation Army kettles are on the street. Almost every business place has a replica of Santa Claus on display—and the same number of bright eyed kids thrill at contact with him. Large percentage of letters mailed bear in addition to the carrying postage another stamp or seal indicating that the sender has contributed to the war on tuberculosis.

On a recent rainy day in Raleigh, and the same kind of thing was happening all over the country, a group of find young business men had left their offices to take positions on the street and call on passers by to "help feed the poor at Christmas" as the Jaycees Good Fellows Club moved into action. And dollars were not scarce as the fund built up. A lot of families will not be hungry on Christmas because of this activity.

All of this is old and familiar. A Rip VanWinkle suddenly waking up after years of sleep, without benefit of calendar, would know that it is Christmas.

DIFFERENT — Paradoxically, every Christmas is different from every other. The changes sometimes are almost indiscernible from one year to the next. Other times they come with almost shocking suddenness.

Many of the old stories and songs about Santa Claus and his reindeer, about his coming down the chimney, about sleigh bells in the snow no longer have meaning. Very few of the children of Santa Claus age now have ever seen a horse drawn vehicle, and even fewer know the functions of a fireplace or a chimney.

Christmas activities are generally more practical than they used to be. There is less emotionalism. Perhaps less "religion," but not less of the spirit of Christianity, in the observance of the season. This is a delicate point, maybe a moot one, because almost every person has his own individual definition of Christianity. And hereabouts many otherwise very intelligent people insist that the terms "religion" and "Christianity" are synonymous.

In that connection it is appropriate to note that most of the Christmas observances — trees, greenery, colored lights, even the custom of singing carols — stem from pagan customs which antedate the coming of Christianity to northern Europe. It is unfair, of course, to compare customs of today with those of half a century or more ago. The comparison illustrates both the continuity and the insidious changes which have come over the Christmas observance. Toys for the kids then were small and cheap (in dollars and cents) and represented things the kids knew about. A horse or a mule, a fancy "surrey" for passengers or a freight wagon with hand-horses pulling them. Prices ranged from a dime to maximum of a dollar. But that wasn't cheap. The dollar meant more than a day's wage for the industrial worker, about the price of a calf or a pig for the farmer.

UNCHANGING — One thing about Christmas has not and will not change through all the years. That is its atmosphere and spirit of love and good fellowship, of the sharing of goodwill among men. That spirit so thoroughly permeates the time that men and women who recognize no allegiance to the Christ child or the Christ man which the season honors in Christendom join in the interchange of greetings and good wishes.

More people every day appreciate the fact that references to the Christ as the Prince of Peace does not necessarily mean that all warfare must stop if he is to be followed. So long as evil is rampant in the world, so long as the strong unduly oppress the weak, men and women of good will must be willing to fight.

Paradoxical as it may appear on the surface, the fact is that this Christmas, with warfare raging or imminent in many corners of the world, there is more evident desire for honorable peace than has prevailed in a long time.

of disagreement on international policy. It would also be folly to conclude that the Western dike does not still have cracks which might be opened by international tensions unless further repair work is done following this Bermuda conference.

A Word Of Caution To Those On The Highway

A word of caution of those who will spend a good part of their Christmas holidays on the highways traveling to and from visits with friends and relatives: Take a little extra time, exercise more than the usual caution, be sure you are in top condition for driving, and keep a close watch for the other fellow.

Holiday driving, whether Christmas, Labor Day or July 4 presents more than normal hazards of the highway. But during the Christmas holidays the hazards seem to reach their peak. There are more automobiles on the roads and more families moving on longer trips. Many who do not travel during other holidays take to the roads at the Christmas season when the heart is drawn toward "home", wherever it might be. During the Christmas season there is a greater chance of bad weather making the crowded highways even more hazardous than during other holidays of the year.

Whether the holiday trip covers a thousand miles, a few hundred miles, or just a couple of miles, the driver who gets behind the wheel should be keenly aware that in an automobile he and his loved ones are probably exposed to a greater chance of accident than they will be at any other time during the holidays. He should do everything in his power to keep the odds against him and his family at a very minimum.

If you're driving during the holidays, make sure you drive carefully . . . and have a happy Christmas, not a sad one.

Khrushchev Can Take A Breather

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The reason President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan could meet in comparative quiet at Bermuda is because Premier Khrushchev has a spell of diplomatic asthma.

He has stopped to catch his breath after working up a Berlin crisis. Last summer, spreading tension with every word he spoke, he said he wanted the problem settled by the end of 1961.

Then—with the trouble getting explosive after his agents built a wall around East Berlin and the Allies were plainly confused on what to do about it—he sat back and said the settlement could wait until 1962.

How to deal with him next year — and they'll have to — is the No. 1 dilemma at the Kennedy-Macmillan meeting. So, invisible in Bermuda but very much present at this Christmas-time, like a Santa Claus whose idea of fun is a bagful of cats let loose in a chimney, will be Khrushchev.

If dealing with this Russian has Kennedy and Macmillan slightly stumped, they're equally baffled about dealing with their tall ally, French President Charles de Gaulle, the haughtiest man in world diplomacy. He not only doesn't want to deal with the Soviets on Berlin, he doesn't even want to discuss it with them. He regards even a little negotiation on this as a mark of weakness. So he stands aloof from it all. This is nice work if you can get it, for a man in De Gaulle's position.

lin, he doesn't even want to discuss it with them. He regards even a little negotiation on this as a mark of weakness. So he stands aloof from it all. This is nice work if you can get it, for a man in De Gaulle's position.

He not only doesn't want the army or the atomic weapons to deter the Soviet Union in a showdown—he'd have to depend on this country for that—he can't even settle the fighting in Algeria.

He's just making life tougher for Kennedy and Macmillan. The sorry part of it is that, on something so vital as the future of Berlin, the Allies are split. Besides all this, Kennedy and Macmillan have been hit this week when they arranged their Bermuda meeting.

This is Prime Minister Nehru's invasion and take-over of the Portuguese colony of Goa. There's nothing Kennedy and Macmillan can do about making Nehru disgorge Goa. But the problem he created goes far beyond the realms of that tiny colony on the southwest coast of India. Portugal is a member of NATO, the Western alliance, along with the United States and Britain.

All in all, Khrushchev hasn't had it so good in years. No wonder he was willing to relax a bit after working the Allies into a tizzy on Berlin.

Opinions In Brief

"In a democracy, tax equity is no less important than public education. And the food tax will remain an issue in North Carolina politics as long as a sizable number of voters regard this tax as an unfair way of meeting the educational needs of the children." — Smithfield Herald.

"The fellow who's sitting on top of the world these days is in a precarious position." — Wall Street Journal.

"If your TV set is not working properly try opening the back and cleaning out all the dead cowboys in the bottom." — Farm Journal.

"Those of us in the free nations often not only don't think alike, but have no common ideology or world aim. We need a common ideology. One united goal that will overturn the advances of communism. We must not only think freedom, but must act it and believe in our actions." — Hartland (Wisc.) Lake Country Reporter.

"Why is it so terrible to dispatch a rabbit with a blow on the head? Cattle, hogs and sheep are readied for slaughter in the same manner every day in slaughter houses all over the world and these poor animals don't even have running room." — Shelby Daily Star.

"Congress and state legislators have for years played politics with the railroads. They have actually brought them to the point of economic death by failure to correct legislation which is as obsolete as the horse and buggy." — Cleveland (Tenn.) Banner.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
'NO DARKNESS AT ALL'
It is easy enough for us today to associate the Christmas season with light. Candles burn on altars, on Christmas trees, in the windows of thousands of homes. We have the testimony of centuries telling us of Jesus Christ as the light of the world.

But there was precious little light seen by anybody when Christ was born. To be sure, a group of shepherds had seen a great light and likewise the wise men came from the East seeking the king of the Jews. But King Herod saw no light. The high priests saw no light. The great mass of people in Jerusalem saw no light. They were conscious only of the heavy hand of the Roman oppressor upon them. They hated the glint of sunlight in the armor of the Roman soldier as he marched defiantly and impudently through their land.

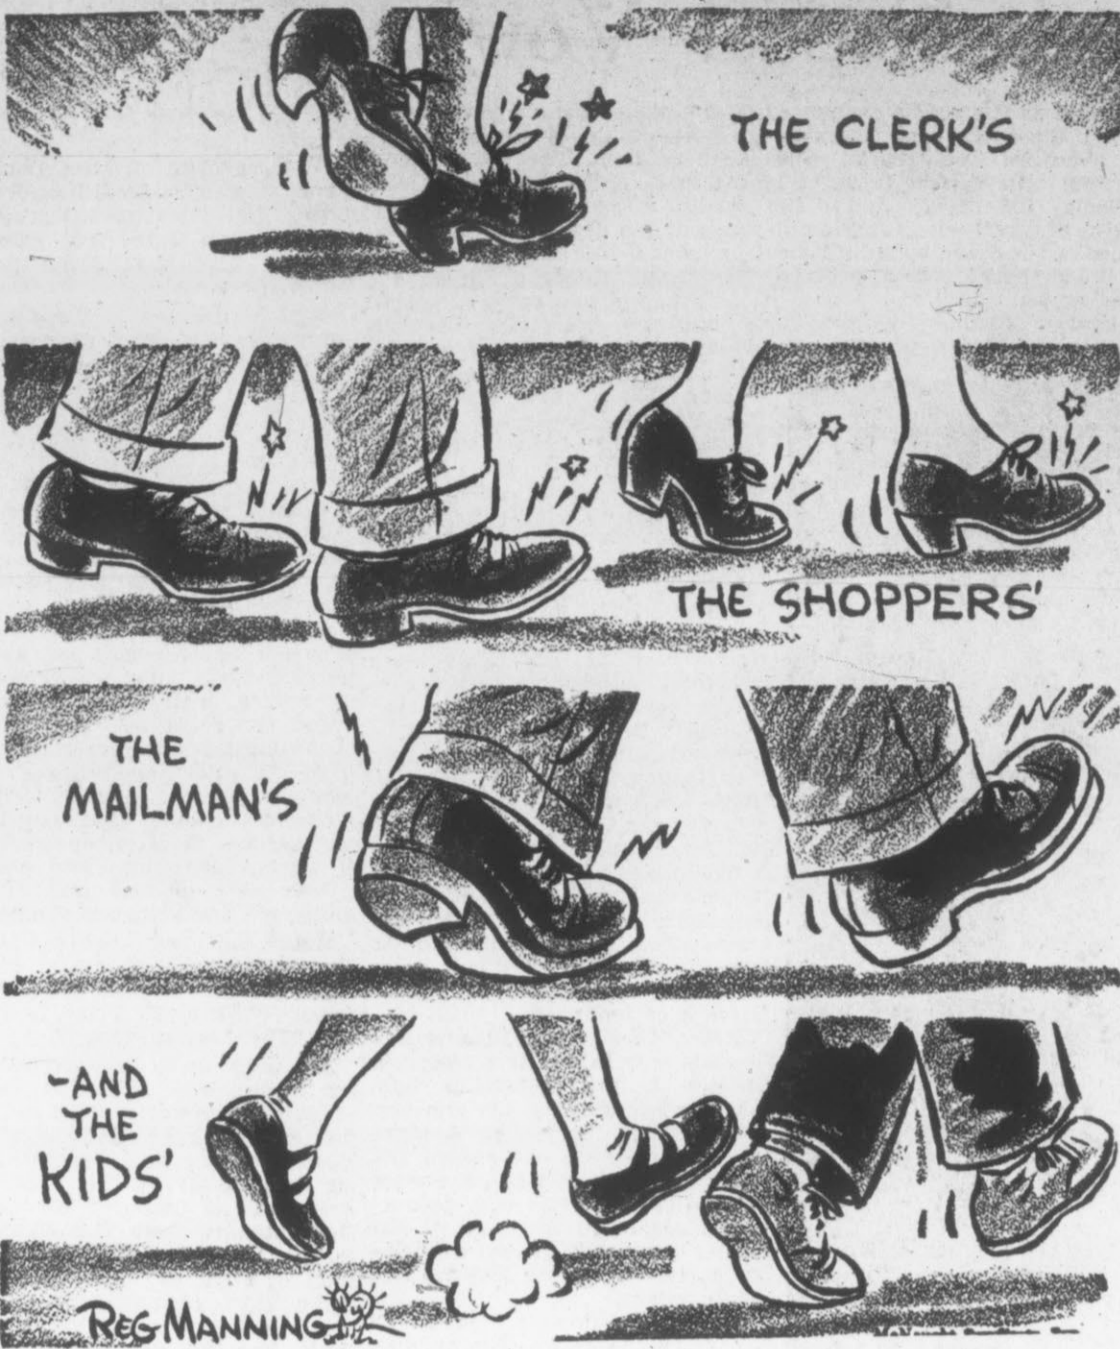

But today it is all different. "I am the light of the world," said Jesus. "He was a burning and a shining light," said the Apostle John. "God is light and in him is no darkness at all." "That was the true light which lighteth every man which cometh into the world." The Christmas season is the season of light. Civilization went on to a new and higher level when Christ was born. We who love him love him as the Lord of Light.

There is darkness in the world, but in him there is no darkness at all.

A Few Feet Till Christmas

By DON SCHLIENZ

A 'Special' In January

Remember the Grass Roots Opera? The name has been changed . . . they call it the National Opera Company now, but it's the same outfit. Born and reared in North Carolina, it is a ten-year-old idea that has enjoyed phenomenal success.

The company will present a performance of "Martha" in Greenville next month. Formal announcement will probably be made after the holiday madness.

Since its first performance, the organization has performed over 700 times in 130 cities and communities in North Carolina. Over 600,000 students in the public schools have learned the story of the operas and have seen up to ten different operas on their school stages.

Is this important? To some, yes; to others no. It depends largely on the individual's viewpoint.

If you are one who sees a value in mankind's cultural heritage, you will want to preserve it for the future. . . you will want your children to sample the field of opera and become perhaps tentatively acquainted with the subject. They may, in time, become opera buffs. Though such enthusiasm is not for everybody.

The youngsters' introduction to opera, through the Grassroots Co., is necessarily a fleeting one. But it could ripen into a friendship . . . and there is that opportunity to decide whether opera is something to enjoy or avoid.

Listening to opera on the radio, on tapes or records, or seeing it on a television screen, simply does not compare with attending a live performance. If opera's survival depended on recordings, radio or TV, it could not have lasted.

So a "live" performance is a pre-requisite for the young initiate.

And to make it more palatable, this touring troupe sings in English instead of the Italian, French or German original. The reception has been dramatic.

Some schools now include a brief orientation program prior to arrival of the company, with emphasis on the story of the opera and life of the composer. Student reaction has been largely favorable:

"It was a new experience for me," said one. "I didn't know what to expect. I had heard many people laugh at opera. When it started I knew right then I was going to like it."

And there you have it in a nutshell. Opera need not be, and is not, too "high brow" to be enjoyed.

The National Opera Company has been on tour, just recently returning from New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. In February it will make a tour of the Southeastern states.

There is every reason to believe that on this, their ninth appearance in Greenville, local audiences will be glad they came.

Other Editors Saying . . . Be Americans

(The Wilson Times)

Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post wrote his last editorial for the issue that is on the newsstands today. The title is "Let's Stand Up On Our Hind Legs and Be Americans." It is such a fine piece of writing and expression that we regret he is not going to write more for the Post.

We are not constant Post readers, we do not know why Mr. Hibbs is leaving. But in his last editorial he gives us much to think on and to do. He comes from the sturdy stock that built America. And you can read all through the lines that he does not have too much patience for those who are looking for easy living, security above adventure, and complacency before patriotism.

He recalls the days when there were flags flying, drums beating and oratory on the Fourth of July. Now there are trips to the beach or other pleasure jaunts. He takes you from the pioneer days to the after World War II days and the rebuilding of the world. He draws a vivid picture of America's generosity towards the peoples of the world and the criticism with which too often we are paid.

All this is just leading up to the point of the editorial, which is that there is more to shout about in America than in any place on this earth. He thinks we have become so sensitive "about what the rest of the world thinks of us that we are now inclined to lie down and roll over whenever the finger of criticism is pointed our way." He admits this nation has made mistakes as have other nations but it would be hard to match our decent idealism which we have brought to world affairs, he says.

To the present and future generations he pleads for a "few kind words for Uncle Sam" the words of Bernard Baruch. There must be a revival in the hearts of the young, a deep pride in our heritage.

From a Gallup survey, that was conducted among 3000 typical boys and girls of school and college on a variety of matters comes what many have known. This is that there is a general foggy attitude about our country, its history and its future. Too many are interested in security, an eight hour day and an easy life.

If we have lost the ability to fire our youth it is the fault of parents, not the schools. For as everyone knows children learn by example and by actions and by words.

We have not passed the day of dreams of adventure and of pride in achievement, that is if we are to remain a country where opportunities abound and men are men. In other words it is time to "stand up on our hind legs and be Americans."

A Good Idea Is Upset

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Sometimes a good purpose grows into a twisted operation. It is not unusual for public officials who have been retired to organize to keep their fingers in the pie. Sometimes this is due to nothing more serious than curiosity and backstairs gossip; at other times it is organized but camouflaged trade unionism with the object of controlling and dominating a public service.

The Foreign Service was established to guarantee that the State Department will have available at all times skilled, educated, competent officers, who can be moved from place to place. It was never intended that these officers should replace the President of the United States or the Secretary of State in the formation of policy.

The public holds the President and the Secretary of State responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs. It is true that these two officials must be supported by competent staff; but it is not true that such a staff are entrusted to replace the President or the Secretary of State. And as one looks at the State Department personnel, there is no one in whom the people are likely to prefer to place confidence than in John F. Kennedy.

However, no President and no Secretary of State can be stronger than the organized power of minor officials to resist their authority. It has been experience that minor officials do exert authority which the higher officials cannot politically afford to repudiate.

Dacor stands for "Diplomatic and Consular Officers Retired, Inc." It is an association of former Ambassadors and other public officials who have served their country in the field of foreign relations. It was incorporated in 1952 and exercises enormous power.

"Dacor" maintains a placement service, which puts qualified members in touch with firms, foundations and other organizations seeking such talent on either a full or part-time basis. This involves consultative work for either private or governmental organizations; advisory work concerning foreign trade or international relations; research, translation, and other activity in these fields.

In other words, its purpose is to perpetuate the services of those who are no longer of service, either because of age or ability. The organization has all the characteristics of a trade union, including group insurance and the publication of a special bulletin. This paragraph in one of Dacor's Bulletins is most significant:

"In cooperation with the Department of State and the American Foreign Service Association, Dacor keeps under review the effects of Foreign Service retirement legislation, proposing, when appropriate, improvements to keep it up to date or eliminate inequities. It played an important part in bringing about corrective legislation in 1956, 1958, and 1960. This includes relief for Foreign Service widows who were not receiving any annuities. Dacor is sponsoring legislation at the present time."

In other words Dacor is engaged in lobbying for social and other benefits for its members. What needs to be studied is the effect of this organization on policy. A dominant clique can destroy the policy of any President or Secretary of State. This happened in the China policy during the Truman Administration. It happened to the Cuban policy when the President hardly had his teeth in his desk and the Secretary of State was just about learning how to walk from the elevators to his office in the State Department building. Neither the President, the Secretary of State nor the Under Secretary of State was familiar with the Cuban situation and they chose to ignore information which came to them from Ambassadors Robert Hill of Mexico and Earl E. T. Smith of Cuba. The result was that when the Kennedy Administration took over it was immediately faced with the insistent need to meet a policy concerning which the (Continued on Page 8)

Tucker and Mrs. Roy Jackson scored high among the club members and Mrs. Joe Goolsby among the guests. Others playing were Mrs. Kenneth Talton, Mrs. Sam Nelson, Mrs. Roger Johnson, Mrs. Edward Hart, Mrs. Clay Burney, Mrs. Julius Chauncey, Mrs. Woodrow Smith, Mrs. Willie Padgett and Miss Carolyn Hart.

News And Notes From Grifton

Surprise Birthday Party
 Sunday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. James in Parmele, there was a setting with the Nativity scene in the entrance hall, a Christmas tree in the living room and arrangements of poinsettias, greenery and red berries throughout the rooms used for the occasion.
 The event was a birthday party honoring Mr. James on his 80th birthday. This was a surprise to Mr. James because his birthday was on December the twentieth.
 After the arrival of all the guests the dining room doors were thrown open and the honoree and guests were ushered in to a table centered with a handmade centerpiece on which a miniature Christmas tree flanked by burning red candles was used. At one end of the table was a large birthday cake decorated with white and red roses. On the opposite end and on the buffet were the gifts.
 After blowing out the candles on the cake, with the assistance of his four year old grandson, Jeff Gray, Mr. James made a response by giving a talk on the subject, "Growing Old."

Woman's Auxiliary Meets
 The Woman's Auxiliary of the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church held its annual Christmas meeting Monday night at the Parsonage with Mrs. Willey Clark and Mrs. George Abeyounis joint hostesses.
 The meeting was opened with singing the Woman Auxiliary song and Mrs. R. L. Whitley led the group in prayer.
 Miss Mary Rollins, president, presented various articles for sale to the group.
 Mrs. Jesse Gardner presented the program on "Traditions of Christmas". The lighted candle, the poinsettias, the mistletoe, the holly, Christmas carols, silent night, the Christmas tree, greeting cards, Christmas gifts were presented with their origin and meaning. Climaxing the program with discussion of the greatest gift; God sending his own Son to the world. The group sang "Silent Night" and "O Come All Ye Faithful".
 The gifts were passed and each member learned whom had been her "secret sister" for the year.
 During the social hour the hostesses served ham sandwiches, pickles, olives, potato chips, candy, cake, and hot spiced tea.
A Fellowship Party
 Mrs. Wadie T. Ward and Mrs. Russell R. Carson were joint hostesses at a neighborhood dinner given in the home of Mrs. Ward this week. A country style supper served at seven o'clock. Seasonal arrangements were used throughout the rooms, thrown in suit.

Present for the occasion were: Mrs. James Womack, Mrs. W. H. Andrews, Mrs. W. H. Rogerson, Mrs. Raymond Whitehurst, Mrs. R. B. Edmondson, Mrs. Clara Robertson, Mrs. D. C. Carson, Sr., and Miss Harriet Pollard.
 After supper reminiscing, jokes and television programs made the get together complete.
Annual Christmas Dinner
 A miniature Christmas Tree flanked by candles decorated each table at the Town and Country Restaurant when the Bethel Home Demonstration Club had their annual Christmas dinner Wednesday December the thirteenth.
 Mrs. Dennis Hardy, president, welcomed the guests and members.
 Following dinner, Mrs. Hardy gave some hints on safety in regards to Christmas trees and decorations. She advised using fresh trees and to buy them as late as possible before Christmas and keep them in a container of water. She also suggested the checking of wires and bulbs and extension cords. Mrs. Hardy concluded by urging each one to help make Christmas a safer and happier occasion.
 Mrs. J. P. Harris presented, "A Christmas Carol Retold Without Apology" by Husketh.
 Instead of exchanging gifts in the club, each member brought a gift to be sent to patients in the State Institution. Mrs. R. B. Edmondson requested prayer by the club members for these patients that they may be able to once again resume their places in their homes.
 Mrs. W. R. Bullock, Sr. gave a Christmas program, entitled, "Christmas Has A Greater Meaning". She said Christmas has a greater meaning than just bringing families together. It is Christ's birthday and we should never let the true meaning be stifled by the hustle of the season. She suggested that we make Christmas real by giving where giving is needed and not try to make it real by exchanging gifts.
 The recreation leader, Mrs. R. R. James led the group in several interesting games.
 The meeting adjourned after Mrs. Hardy presented a favor to the fourteen members and Mrs. R. R. Carson, a visiting guest.

NEW DOUBLE "TT" SIGN FLASHES 17,280 TIME-TEMPERATURE READINGS EVERY DAY!

Since the unveiling on Tuesday, our new "Time" and "Temperature" sign has become the talk of Greenville. We've received many congratulations and everyone seems to be happy that Greenville is one of the first cities in the country to display the double "TT" sign. Yet, there are lots of folks who just want to know "how it works." As it is always our policy to be of service . . .

Here's the answer to a few of your questions

Each numeral panel has 184 twenty-five watt bulbs, 112 silver contact points control the lamps. Four electric motors operate the mechanism which shows 17,280 times and temperature readings every 24 hours. The double "TT" unit weighs approximately 1,500 pounds and contains over two miles of copper wire. The time is controlled by a self-correcting synchronous motor and the temperature is electronically measured at the sign location by a device similar to those used by the weather bureau. Wind or sun have no direct effect on the temperature readings. It is designed to give the time and temperature answers on the double, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year . . . another "first" in service by First Federal Savings.

Shrine Players Visit Hospital

STUMP STEPPING — Tree stumps leading to a playground in Wuerzburg, Germany, are much more interesting for these youngsters, one of whom lends a hand to a girl companion. They prefer this entrance to regular steps on the other side of playground.

By HARRY JUPITER

Associated Press Sports Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Todd doesn't smile much," said the nurse, "but he's been waiting for you."

The lanky young man looked at the skinny little boy and picked him up.

"He's heavy with those braces on his legs," the nurse said. "Not for me, he's not," said Gary Barnes, an end from Clemson.

And Todd, 3, broke into a great big grin.

Forty-eight of the finest football players in the nation will play in the Shrine East-west Game at Kassar Stadium Dec. 30. They visited the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children Thursday, meeting the youngsters who will benefit from the game proceeds.

A tiny doll named Maria, just 18 months old, sat in her bed, all dressed up, watching the young giants walk in.

Irv Goode, a 6-foot 5 end from Kentucky, was heading toward a little girl in the next bed when he stopped and lifted tiny Maria into his arms. She blinked her big eyes, then rested against his big shoulders, daring the world to take her new friend away from her.

It was a big day for the players, their wives, the coaches and those crippled kids. And it didn't take long to see who was running the affair.

"I want my book filled with autographs," said a little girl.

Roman Gabriel, the North Carolina State quarterback—a fellow who's been chased by plenty of professional scouts—hurried off on a chase for signatures.

"Here they are, sweetheart," Gabriel said.

"Thank you," replied the 6-year-old. "Now get her book filled."

She jerked a thumb at the child in the next bed and Gabriel went scurrying off again.

Suddenly the nurses were telling the youngsters and the players that the players had to leave.

The kids hugged the brawny young men, kissed them and smiled.

The football players smiled back. And those big guys' eyes were glistening.

Coach Hopes To Find Out How Good Team Really Is

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer "Everybody thinks we're a much improved team over last year," Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was saying. "I hope to find out in this tournament just how good we are."

Rupp, who is supposed to be in a rebuilding year, referred to the Kentucky Invitational that opens tonight with Kansas State and Xavier meeting in the first game at Lexington, Ky., and the host Wildcats going against Tennessee.

It marks the second major test for the Wildcats, attempting to rebound from last season's 19-9 record, the worst in 32 years under Rupp.

Kentucky, with only one starter back from last year's team, failed its first big test, losing to South ern California, the nation's sixth-ranked team, in the second game of the season.

They'll face either Xavier (3-3) or Kansas State (5-0).

In Thursday night's top games, second-ranked Cincinnati bombed Colorado 84-67 on the Bearcats' home court, eighth-ranked Purdue outlasted Evansville 83-77 and Wichita's tough Shockers knocked Santa Clara from the unbeaten ranks, 60-48.

Cincinnati (6-1) used a first half scoring burst, triggered by sophomore George Wilson and Ron Bonham, to establish a 42-20 lead and coasted in from there. Colorado's Ken Charlton led all scorers with 23 points while Paul Hogue had 20 for the winners.

Purdue (5-1), beaten from the floor, used free throw accuracy and experience as the keys to its victory over Evansville's home-standing Aces. Purdue hit 29 of 30 free throws while the young Aces converted only 19 of 34.

In other major games, Georgia Tech surprised Missouri 58-57 at Atlanta; Homestanding Syracuse lost its sixth straight game to Pitt;

Presbyterian Coaching Job Given To Clyde Ehrhardt

CLINTON, S.C. (AP) — Clyde W. Ehrhardt and Frank Jones will now pursue divided careers after eight years of close football coaching relationship.

It was announced Thursday that Ehrhardt will remain at Presbyterian as head football coach and athletic director, succeeding Jones, who goes to Mississippi State as chief assistant football coach.

The successful Jones-Ehrhardt coaching combination began at Decatur (Ga.) High School eight years ago. Ehrhardt moved to Presbyterian with Jones as his chief assistant when Jones was named head coach here in 1957. "I feel honored to have been chosen for this position and I deeply appreciate the trust and confidence placed in me," Ehrhardt said after the announcement he will succeed Jones.

"Coach Jones and I have had a very close personal and professional relationship for eight years," he added. "He has done an outstanding job at Presbyterian and I know he will enjoy continued success at Mississippi State."

In announcing that Ehrhardt will take over as head coach, Presbyterian President Marshall

W. Brown said assistant coaches Vic Spooner and Charlie Musselwhite will remain at PC.

Jones announced Thursday he was leaving Presbyterian with reluctance because the Mississippi State offer was "too good to turn down."

Ehrhardt was a standout on the University of Georgia's Orange Bowl and Rose Bowl teams of the early 1940s. He played four years of professional football with the Washington Redskins after serving as a much decorated combat officer in Europe during World War II.

A native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and the son of a Baptist minister, Ehrhardt is married to the former Carolyn Dozier of Leary, Ga. They have two sons.

Brewington Returns From California

James Brewington, a former football star at C. M. Eppes High School, has just returned from California after completing his first season with the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

After graduating from Eppes in 1957 Brewington went to North Carolina College in Durham where he played tackle for four years. The 6-foot 5-inch, 280-pound grid standout was All-Conference in 1958 and was named to the Pittsburgh Courier All-American team in 1960.

Brewington received a B. S. degree in Physical Education this past June and signed with the Green Bay Packers. After the exhibition season with the Packers, he went with Oakland.

Brewington told the Reflector yesterday, "We had kind of a disappointing season this year at Oakland with a 3-11 record, but it was good hard-nosed football." He started all of the games at defensive tackle.

The 22-year-old football player said he plans to stay in Greenville until practice begins again next August. Brewington is married and has two children.

Chargers Prefer Not To Play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers would just as soon borrow a race track saying and throw out the last race as far as their American Football League championship game with the Houston Oilers Sunday is concerned.

In fact, they would prefer to toss out two of their last three efforts because they could run no better than second in a two-team race.

San Diego is still apparently both stunned and amazed at the last encounter, an unbelievable 41-0 loss to the Boston Patriots here Sunday.

And now comes the hottest squad in the AFL, coach Wally Lemms' Oilers, with the loop's leading passer, veteran George Blanda, the league's leading runner, Billy Cannon, and a definite winning frame of mind based on nine straight triumphs.

San Diego holds a 5-3 edge in its series with Houston. But in the title game between these same rivals a year ago the Oilers came out in front, 24-16.

Paying A Price To Play For Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ernie Davis "sacrificed a very substantial sum of money" in accepting an offer to play with the Cleveland Browns, according to attorney Anthony W. DeFilippo, adviser to the All-America halfback from Syracuse.

Arthur B. Modell, front-office boss for the Browns, announced Thursday night that Davis had agreed to sign a three-year contract with the Browns for $80,000—$20,000 salary plus a $15,000 bonus. This is the most the Browns ever have invested in a rookie, but Jim Brown, who reportedly received $31,000 this year still is the highest paid player on the club.

The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League also were bidding for Davis, and Dick Gallagher, general manager of the Bills, said Davis had been offered a three-year, deal worth "well over $100,000. Reports were that Buffalo offer was worth $135,000. Modell was delighted.

"There just aren't words to express my happiness now that Ernie has decided to play with us," the board chairman of the National Football League club declared. "It's certainly gratifying to know that young athletes like Davis consider their long-range future rather than immediate financial gain."

Brown preceded Davis at Syracuse, and many of the records the big fullback set there were broken by the 6-foot-2, 215-pound Davis. The two are friends. It was on Brown's advice that Davis went to Syracuse, and Brown presented the NFL club's case when Davis was trying to make up his mind on a pro career.

Modell and Coach Paul E. Brown had been sweating out that decision, for the Browns have gambled quite a bit on being able to sign Davis, Cleveland traded speedy Bobby Mitchell and a first-round draft choice to the Washington Redskins to get a chance at Davis.

Mantle Wins All Slugging Crown

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees won the American League slugging crown for the third time in 1961, the official averages released today disclosed.

Mantle collected 353 total bases in 514 official times at bat for a slugging mark of .687. Norm Cash of Detroit was second with .662 followed by Jim Gentile, Baltimore, .646. Mantle also led in 1953 and 1956.

Despite 61 homers, a record for one season, Roger Maris of the Yankees finished fourth in the slugging competition with .620. Maris captured the title in 1960.

A slugging average is determined by dividing a player's official times at bat into his total bases.

The Yankees repeated as the team slugging champions. They slugged a collective .441. Detroit was second with .421 followed by Cleveland with .406, Los Angeles .398 and Minnesota, .397.

Baylor Named To All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Elgin Baylor, Los Angeles' versatile performer, was the only unanimous selection on the all-star teams named today for the National Basketball Association's annual East-West game at St. Louis Jan. 16.

Baylor was picked as one of the forwards on the Western Division team which will face a squad headed by Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia, the league's leading scorer.

Here are the rival lineups chosen by a vote of sports writers in the nine league cities:

East — Dolph Schayes, Syracuse; Tom Heinsohn, Boston; Chamberlain; Bob Cousy, Boston; Richie Guerin, New York;

West — Baylor; Bob Pettit, St. Louis; Walt Bellamy, Chicago; Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati; Jerry West, Los Angeles.

Warmath Had A Lot Of Laughs

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Minnesota coach Murray Warmath had a lot of laughs with his Gophers at Disneyland Thursday, the day's biggest laugh he tossed at a rumor he might be in line for the Army head coaching job.

Warmath, whose Gophers face UCLA New Years Day in their second successive Rose Bowl appearance, had this to say of a report listing him high among possible successors to Dale Hall at West Point:

"This is surprising news to me. If there is negotiating being done, nobody has contacted me. I think this is just press guessing."

"I am real happy at Minnesota. My home is in Minneapolis and I hope to stay there a long time."

Good News of a Great Joy ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 2:1-12; Luke 2:1-20.

When Christ was born, certain wise men from the east came to Jerusalem searching for Him. They told people they had seen a star announcing Christ's birth and had come to worship Him.—Matthew 2:1-2.

When Herod, the king, heard of this he was disturbed and jealous. He called together his chief priests and scribes, who told him Christ's birthplace would be Bethlehem of Judaea.—Matthew 2:3-8.

The wise men found the newborn Christ lying in a manger of the inn's stable, where Mary and Joseph found lodging on their visit there. The wise men offered gold, frankincense and myrrh.—Matthew 2:11.

Not only men of wealth and learning got word of Christ's birth; to lowly shepherds in the fields an angel appeared to bring them the good tidings.—Luke 2:8-11.

GOLDEN TEXT: Luke 2:10-11.

Good News of a Great Joy

THE MAGNETIC POWER OF THE BABE JESUS SEEN IN DRAWING MANY DIFFERENT GROUPS TO BETHLEHEM

Scripture—Matthew 2:1-12; Luke 2:1-20.

By N. SPEER JONES
TODAY'S lesson concludes an annual subject of Christ's birth, begun last week. In the two Biblical records of Christ's birth reported by Matthew and by Luke, very little is duplicated. Matthew tells us about the visit of the wise men; about this several legends have grown up which have no basis in the Biblical version set forth by Matthew. The consensus is that the wise men came from Babylon, once the capital of the great empire of Babylonia. Centered between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, the land is now called Iraq. Babylon, south of Baghdad, was famous for its magnificence, culture and learning. One of the legends concern-

Red Sea used greatly by the Egyptians in embalming, carries a reference to death—Christ's death. Thus in the three gifts we may see a prophetic summation of Christ's life. In the record of Christ's actual birth (Luke 2:1-7), we read of a decree from Augustus Caesar that all the world should be "enrolled." Historical evidence now indicates that this was an epoch-making decree, marking the first of such enrollments, which were continued every 14 years for more than 200 years. In the Old Testament are prophecies that Christ would be David's son, born where David was born, in Bethlehem; the town's name itself means "house of bread." (See Micah ing these wise men is that there were three of them. Actually, Matthew mentions three gifts, but says nothing as to the number of wise men.

Another legend is that these men were kings; here, again, careful reading gives no such indication. Wilbur Smith in "Peloubet's Select Notes" (p. 426) offers a figurative interpretation of the three gifts: Gold may indicate deity, as it often does in the Bible; thus we see Christ set forth as God. Frankincense, a fragrant gum or resin from India, may indicate prayer and intercession, showing Christ's life as a fragrant hymn to God. Myrrh, a gum resin from the 5:2). It was also prophesied about when Christ would appear. (See Daniel.) The star which guided the wise men has received a great deal of attention from theological students and astronomers. It may have been a star specially created as a guide, and men withdrawn from the skies; on the other hand, it may have been one of the regular stars in the heavens today. It may have been a star-like, supernatural light, as Chrysostom asserted; it may have been high in the sky, or low enough to stand over one particular house. The story of the shepherds, told by Luke, completes today's lesson.

Red Oak Christian Announcements
A special benevolence offering will be received in each Sunday school class on Dec. 24. The amount of this Christmas offering will be divided equally between Atlanta Children's Home and Florida Christian Home in Jacksonville, Fla. The Rev. Howard James served on the Benevolence Board last year and visited each of the homes in October, 1960. The pastor will preach at Sunday's Morning Worship and Communion Service on the topic "The Prince of Peace." Flowers will be provided by Rev. and Mrs. Howard James, Glenn James and Mrs. M. B. Garris. "That Beautiful Name" will be the Sanctuary Choir anthem, Mrs. B. L. Tyson and Mrs. Howard James will be accompanists. Miss Joan Dell Evans will render a solo, "Lo, How A Rose Ever Blooming." A special Christmas Eve service will be held Sunday night at 6:30 for the whole congregation and visitors. The color sound filmstrip, "Bells of Christmas," will be shown. At 7 p.m. the Sanctuary and Youth Choirs and others will go "Carolling" to Pitt Memorial Hospital, Pitt County Home and several homes. At 6:30 p.m. on December 31 a Watchnight Service will be held on the theme "The Other Wise Man."

Unitarian Announcements
The Sunday school will visit the Pasti and Mintz homes this week. Parents and friends are also invited to the informal meeting which will begin at 11:00 at 610 Elm Street and continue at 108 N. Eastern Street.

data was then inadequate. I have been told that there are now about 125 unassigned Foreign Service Officers hanging around the State Department at the present moment looking for jobs. They become a problem to President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, because many of them have influential friends among members of Congress. There is nothing new in this. Every President has encountered this disease in one form or another. It needs to be made known to the public.

CHAPTER 12

One day, Mrs. Eastman swept into the office, beaming. She was a small, pretty woman who had once been likened to Billie Burke and who had never quite gotten over the compliment.

She dressed in pastel colors, usually with a floating bit of veil. Her manners were bright and gay, her voice a fluting one that sometimes rasped on the nerves.

Today she was at her most flutery—bright-eyed, eager, her crisp yellow frock much too young for her, her blonde curls fresh from the hairdresser.

"Oh, there you are, Lee darling," she fluted. "And you are a darling! I don't know how Holly and I are ever going to thank you! The check from the bank came this morning, and Holly and I feel so beautifully rich!"

"I'm very glad, Mrs. Eastman," Lee told her politely.

"I've decided to give a reception for dear Martin, and of course, Lee, you simply must come, since we owe it all to you." Mrs. Eastman's fluting voice went on. "Of course it would have been nice if you'd been able to get dear Martin to pay a few thousand dollars more, because the dear boy has such scads of money and would never have missed it."

"He paid more than the place in its present condition is worth, Mrs. Eastman," Lee reminded her, curiously.

A faint flicker of annoyance touched Mrs. Eastman's china-blue eyes for a moment, then was concealed by lowered eyelids. When she looked up again at Lee, her gaze was once more guileless and sweet.

"Of course, Holly and I are desolated that our beloved old home should have been taken from us," she cooed. "But since someone had to buy it, we are so glad it was dear Martin. He's such a darling, don't you think?"

"He's very nice," said Lee neutrally. "And so very rich, too," purred

Mrs. Eastman, and caught herself up as though she hadn't meant to let herself sound so mercenary. "Anyway, he is very fond of Holly, and she adores him, and they are out at Oakland every day planning what is to be done to the place."

"I'm sure Holly is very helpful to him in making his plans," Lee allowed a faint purr to sound in her own voice, and Mrs. Eastman shot her a swift, not too friendly glance.

"But of course she is. Naturally, a man knows so little about what needs to be done to a place like Oakland. It takes a woman to give it those decorative touches that make it really a home."

Uncle John came from court and paused as he saw Mrs. Eastman. But before he could follow his inclination to flee, Mrs. Eastman had cornered him.

"Oh, John darling, you're just the person I want to see," she told him sweetly, tucked her hand possessively through his arm and moved with him toward the door of his office. "I need some advice that I will feel safe in following. And from whom should I ask such advice but you, my dearest friend?"

As the office door closed behind them, Polly glanced up from her typewriter and there was a look of frank disgust in her eyes.

When Mrs. Eastman practically floated out of Uncle John's office, she carefully ignored Polly and insisted effusively that Lee and Kermit must come to the reception for Martin.

After she had gone, Lee went into Uncle John's office and caught him rubbing guiltily at a smudge of lipstick on his pink, well-shaven cheek.

"Why Uncle John Purvis!" she scolded him. "I'm ashamed of you! Such behavior, and during office hours!"

"Blast it," Uncle John exploded. "That woman's a menace! Do you know what she plans to do with the money that's left after paying off the bank mortgage?"

"I can't imagine what she plans to do with it; I'm quite sure she isn't planning to share it with poor Miss Cora!"

"You didn't really believe she would, did you?"

"Well, no, I didn't."

"She's going to use it to set a trap for Martin Whitfield!"

Lee's eyes widened.

"Oh, come now, Uncle John!"

"She thinks Holly can marry him," Uncle John snapped, still angry. "What do you think?"

Lee laughed and shrugged.

"I think she's got her work cut out for her, don't you?"

Uncle John's bushy white eyebrows bristled.

"Don't underestimate her, Lee! That's one very smart and devilish woman! And the girl is a beauty."

"Well, no one can deny either statement, Uncle John!" Lee pointed out reasonably, and reminded herself that she had no right to feel the least bit disturbed at the thought that Martin might marry Holly. "But Martin's a rather knowledgeable man. He's been around. I'm sure he has known a great many beautiful gals, some of them even more beautiful than Holly, and he's still a bachelor, remember?"

"There's a special tie between the man and the girl," Uncle John said sharply. "It's her old home that he is buying. Naturally, being the decent sort that he is, he feels a bit guilty at rooting her and her mother out of the place. What more natural, if Holly and Mammie play their cards right, than that he might feel that he owed it to them to marry Holly and take her and Mammie back to Oakland?"

"Oh, come now, Uncle John!" Lee protested. "You don't really think Martin would fall for anything like that?"

"Don't you?"

"Of course not!" She put a lot more vigor into the denial than she secretly felt.

"Well, I'm very uneasy about him," Uncle John said brusquely. "Mammie's plotting and planning a reception and dinner at the Club to 'introduce him to the best people in Lewisville.' Tie that, if you can! Why, everybody in town has already met him and likes him and has welcomed him to the place."

"That's ridiculous!"

"It's all of that!" snapped Uncle John. "She wants me to make the arrangements for her to have the Club, since neither she nor Holly is a member. And she also wants me to take charge of the decorations."

"So that's why she kissed you goodbye, you agreed, of course!"

"Would you care to know what she wants in the way of decorations?"

"You are dying to tell me!" Lee teased.

"Orchids!" Uncle John all but spat the word. "Orchids and carnations—lots and lots of them, and bother the cost!"

"Uncle John, you're kidding!"

"I wish to blazes I were! Or-

Don't Look Now, Wait For Attack

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A folded card on a bulletin board outside the offices of Chesterfield County executive secretary M. W. Burnett and Howard A. Mayo Jr., county planner and coordinator of civil defense, reads: "Important instructions. To be opened in case of emergency attack."

"What's inside?"

"Not yet, stupid," it says. "Wait for attack."

Some Of Santa's Mail Turns Up In Greenville Post Office

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer
Santa Claus, North Pole.

Invariably each year some of Santa's mail finds its way to the Post Office in Greenville. The letters are placed in every box in town, some addressed by the children themselves in pencil, and others carefully addressed by a parent.

One might surmise that it is the parent's plan to take the letter himself, never really mailing it.

Most of the children, however, take a special delight in mailing the letters themselves, sure that Santa will open them at his toy factory at the North Pole.

Consequently, Santa's letter may slip by without a stamp, so that the Santa at the dead end of office at the Post Office may receive a letter demanding in red writing, "Postage due 4 cents."

No one knows whether he pays it or not.

The letters generally are forwarded to a local radio station or television station to their Santa Claus, or to be read out loud over the air. Some come to the newspaper office, to come out in print—Santa is sure to see.

Some of these letters have been given to the Salvation Army or welfare agencies. Postmaster J. Knott Proctor says. The number of letters annually is not overwhelming and may amount to about 150 in the peak of Christmas mailing.

They are abundant in humor, childish fancy and everlasting love and faith in Santa.

Jerry Jones inquires to "Dear Santa, I hope it isn't too cold in the North Pole. This year I would like to have a Long Range Mariner, football, Ford Falcon, tennis shoes, and Texaco ship. I will have something to eat for you."

Others assure Santa that they have been good: "Dear Santa Claus, I have been a good boy. Please bring me these things—note book, lunch box, raincoat, gun, cowboy suit" and some other items Santa will have to decipher himself. The writer signs off as "your friend Myron Price."

The following letter is indicative of the creativeness and ingenuity of a youngster:

"Dear Santa Claus, My name is Tommy Chapin. I live at Greenville, N. C., with my mother and father, two sisters, two dogs and one cat. I will be five in January. I think that I've been a pretty good boy so will you please send me some toys for Christmas (most important are at top).

"Real sword—Civil War Cavalry Set; Banjo and ukulele set; bicycle; Roy Roger's ranch set; Popeye "Punch me"; typewriter, surprises, Tommy.

"P.S. My sister wrote this letter.

"P.S. I love you Santa Claus, and be sure to come to Tommy's house. Happy Christmas, Tommy.

"P.P.S. Bring Mommy and Daddy and Cathy and Debbie some presents and Honey and Sandy and Candy some nice, juicy, Christmas bones. We'll leave some cake and Pepsi for you and some hay for the reindeers. Happy Christmas again, Tommy."

Bob writes: "Dear Santa, I have tried to be a good boy. Please bring me a typewriter, coke machine, chiclet machine, magnastiks, talking book, deputy dog, picnic, cake set, coffee maker, magic eight ball, special agent set, break-a-plate, train set, dart set, kool air maker, car race set. Thank you I love you."

We'll leave the rest to Santa on Christmas morning.

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pursued an uneven course early this afternoon with further weakness in some utilities and industrials tugging at the averages. Trading was the slowest of the week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 50 at 259.29 with industrials down 70, rails up 10 and utilities off 40. Gains and losses of fractions to a point prevailed throughout the list. Quite a few Wall Streeters were starting off for a long Christmas weekend. The market will be closed Monday for the holiday.

After seven straight daily declines in the market, the financial community was in a state of doubt about immediate prospects. The business news background remained good. A slightly better tone in rails and airlines was the nearest semblance to leadership among stocks. Most groups were thoroughly mixed.

National Steel clipped about 1 from Thursday's 3-point spurt on stock split news. Pennsylvania Railroad was up a sizable fraction following news of another profitable month which cut the road's deficit.

Amerasia ran up more than 3 in another of this stock's wide moves. Texaco advanced more than 1.

In a generally lower aerospace section, Douglas Aircraft added another 1 in further response to word of a $50 million contract for work on the Saturn rocket. Xerox ran up about 7. Eastern Air Lines gained about 1.

Losses of more than 1 were taken by American Telephone and Southern California Edison. Consolidated Edison rose about 1. The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was up 0.4 at 720.14. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in quite active trading. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Undecided Over Infants' Graves

GREENSBORO (AP)— Authorities plan to investigate further before they seek a court order to open 19 graves found Monday in a wooded area near here. Solicitor Edward K. Washington visited the site Thursday. He was accompanied by four local undertakers and two officers of the State Board of Embalmers. Twenty graves were found, but animals had opened one of them. Two others were opened by unknown persons. The three graves yielded the bodies of nine infants, all apparently Negroes. Washington said he is reluctant to seek a court order to open the graves until he is certain the bodies in them can be identified. The investigation started Monday when a small car was found nearby buried in a hole near an abandoned house. Nathaniel Everet Hargett Jr., a Greensboro Negro mortician, had reported the car stolen earlier this month. Hargett was arrested and charged with giving a false report of a stolen car, and later with making false affidavits to recover insurance on the car. The graves were guarded from the time of their discovery until Wednesday night. Thursday morning, authorities found that two of the graves had been opened during the night. Washington said a guard would be posted until completion of the investigation. Washington, asked if it was a violation of state law to bury bodies in an unmarked grave, or to bury several bodies in one coffin, replied: "I have found no statutory law under which this would be a violation, but I haven't had time to make a more extensive search of the statutes. I intend to do so before seeking any kind of court order to open the graves."

PROSPEROUS DOG
GILBERT, W. Va. (AP) — Brownie, the hound dog who captured the sympathy of the nation as he spent 50 days trapped in an abandoned mine shaft, faces a prospering Christmas. Brownie's master, Richard Hatfield, 21, continues to receive mail from all over the country, much of it containing money.

Services Sunday at Fleming Chapel AME Zion Church will include Sunday Church School at 10 A.M. with Fred Teele in charge. And at 11 A.M. a special Christmas message will be delivered by The Rev. Tony O. Dawson, who is pastor of the Church. The public is invited to attend these services.

Mind Made Up

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno, who has ordered Indonesian armed forces to be ready to invade West New Guinea, today again rejected self-determination as a solution for the Dutch-ruled region. His air force stepped up its activities along the borders of the disputed territory on the world's second biggest island. Sukarno has demanded the Dutch leave the territory. In a speech to a mothers' meeting in Jakarta, Sukarno declared: "I call on the whole world not to bother trying to get us talking about self-determination for West Irian (West New Guinea). We definitely reject that sort of self-determination." Sukarno repeated that Indonesia is ready to enter into negotiations with the Dutch but only on the basis of a transfer of power over West New Guinea from The Hague to Jakarta.

Colder Weather Over Weekend

The weatherman has predicted a little cold weather and possible showers for late Christmas day, and temperatures two to eight degrees below normal for the period beginning today through Christmas. However, today was forecast to be slightly warmer than yesterday, though the early morning low at 8 o'clock was a degree lower than Thursday's low and registered 28 degrees. Vance Briley Jr. of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported. The midnight temperature dropped from 32 to 31 at 4 a.m. today. Highs were expected in the 50s. Thursday's high and low temperatures were 46 and 29 degrees respectively. The extended weather outlook for this area forecast somewhat warmer weather Saturday, turning colder again Sunday and the first part of next week, including Monday and Tuesday. Possible showers were predicted for Saturday and late Monday or Tuesday. In the mountains, there is possibility of some snow tonight.

Charge Officer Gave Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has charged a decorated officer with giving U.S. military information to foreign agents during a visit to Germany last year. The officer, Capt. Joseph P. Kauffman, 43, has been returned to Germany for investigation. The foreign power involved was not identified, but it was believed to be a Communist country. Officials here said they did not know whether any money had been paid or what the motives were. The Air Force said Thursday the investigations now under way will determine if Kauffman, a finance officer who holds the Bronze Star and several other World War II and Korean War decorations, will be tried before a court-martial. The possible penalty could be as severe as death, but Air Force officials said they doubted the extreme penalty would be imposed if there were a trial and conviction. The four alleged violations reported by the Air Force in response to inquiries were: 1. Conspiring with foreign agents to communicate U.S. defense information to a foreign country on or about October 1960. 2. "Wrongly" communicating information relative to the national defense with reason to believe the information would be to the advantage of a foreign nation. 3. Failure to notify his commander of attempts by foreign agents to get him to reveal security information. 4. Falsifying answers to a questioner by "denying that he had been employed by a foreign government or any agency of a foreign government."

Raid Two Stills In Pitt County

Pitt ABC officers and other lawmen destroyed two illegal stills yesterday, one just West of Greenville and the second about five miles East of Bethel. Officers said the first illegal unit was destroyed with dynamite at its site one mile west of Greenville in the Allen Woods, just off N. C. 43. The unit included a 100 gallon copper still complete with copper coil, cooler and doubler and three empty 50-gallon barrel-fermenters. Officers said the unit appeared to have operated about two times. They described the still as a "new outfit". Making the raid with ABC officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilly and Walter Taylor was Constable Livi Wilson. The second still destroyed yesterday was located about five miles East of Bethel off the Bethel-Stations Mill Road near the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad right-of-way. Destroyed at the site was a 60-gallon drum-type still with 150 gallons of mash. A 60-gallon cooler, coil and five gallon coupler were also destroyed. Dol Alphin, Federal ATU agent from New Bern assisted Pitt officers Ward, Lilly and Taylor in the raid.

Peiping Preaches Arms Build-Up

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China today said the most important thing for newly independent countries is "definitely not disarmament but to build up, expand and strengthen their armed forces." "The Chinese government supports the proposals for universal disarmament," it added. "But a call for disarmament without denouncing U.S. imperialism as the ringleader working against disarmament will not bring the masses into action to struggle for disarmament." The declaration of policy was made Monday by the Chinese delegate to the Communist-dominated World Peace Council in Stockholm, Liu Ning-yi.
