New Year Dawns With Hope For Peace At Home And Abroad

By PIERCE LEHMBECK Associated Press Staff Writer

The new year dawned in an air of guarded optimism today with the little fellow the world over sharing in a common hope that leaders can implement their pledges towards lasting peace.

For many, however, the road to that long-sought end appeared about as cloudy as the eyes of millions who celebrated the birth of 1962 with mirth and drink.

For Westerners, the major hope was that Soviet Premier Khrushchev meant it when he pledged that his country would "do everything possible to avoid the threat of war in 1962."

For those behind the Iron Curtain—those who got to read or hear it—President Kennedy's expressed hope for improved Soviet-American relations brought food for thought.

Kennedy ran in the new year at a party in Palm Beach, Fla., where he went to be near the bedside of his ailing father.

Khrushchev greeted 1962 at a traditional new year's reception at the Kremlin where he declared in a toast: "The main achievements during 1961 was that on most of the planet there was no war."

As the new year messages flowed among heads of state the world over, there were various other statements on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The Soviet trade union paper, Trud, flatly declared: "The world belongs to us." It said "the doomed world of capitalism will be unable to defend itself even with nuclear weapons, from the immutable course of historical development."

The Soviet Defense Ministry paper, Red Star, foresaw new Russian space successes in 1962 but added that questions of war and peace troubled the Soviet people.

As usual, the New Year burst upon most of the world in a tumult of blaring auto horns, shouted hurrahs, night club toasts and carefree street gaiety.

More than 700,000 persons—the largest crowd in recent years—greeted 1962 in New York's Times Square.

Many of them poured out of night clubs in the famed tourist area where they had paid $20 to $30 just to get in.

Champagne corks also popped in the capitals of Western Europe, where boys kissed strange girls in laughing street throngs.

The new year's spirit in Britain was chilled by one of that nation's worst onslaughts of snow and ice. It kept thousands from downtown revels and they celebrated at home instead.

London's Trafalgar Square and Piccadilly Circus, which usually pack 100,000 as the old year dies, collected only a few shivering thousands.

Even Big Ben was quiet as midnight came, its chiming, traditional herald of the new year, were silenced by the freeze.

The new year hit Paris in the glare of thousands of auto horns in a mass traffic jam on the brilliantly lit Champs Elysees. Cries of "Bonne Annee" echoed in famed Parisian night spots.

In Decazeville, France, 800 coal miners spent New Year's Eve in their pits, where they have been on a sit-down strike for 12 days. Sympathetic merchants sent down food and wine.

There was celebrating in Berlin, but the gaiety was dampened by rain and the continued presence of that grim wall.

On the Red side of the meandering structure, troops patrolled on the alert for demonstrations which the Communists said would be whipped up in the Western sector.

In Madrid and other Spanish towns, crowds gathered in the main squares for the traditional custom of eating a dozen grapes at midnight—an act the Spanish say brings luck for the coming year.

In Rome, Italians threw everything from dishes to toilets into the street to symbolize the discard of the old year.

Thousands paraded by torchlight in St. Peter's Square to wish Pope John XXIII a happy new year. The Pope imparted his blessings upon the throng.

In Japan, thousands of temple bells rang out the old year as part of a religious tradition practiced for hundreds of years. Each temple bell rang 108 times to atone for the 108 sins Buddhists believe man commits during the year.

Russians celebrated New Year's much as Americans did Christmas. Friends exchanged gifts, while children received them from the Soviet's nonreligious version of Santa Claus—Grandfather Frost.

Terrorists in Algeria took no holiday. The only noisemakers in that ravaged land were grenades and plastic bombs.

Sec. Rusk Sees Crises In 1962

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk looked into the coming year today and found "room for confidence" about international developments in 1962.

"Certainly there is room for effort and energy," he said. Rusk specifically pledged the United States will seek responsible contacts with the Soviet Union in efforts to reach some measure of agreement on Berlin and other issues.

Speaking in a filmed year-end interview Rusk said, "If 1962 should prove to be a year without crises, it would be a most remarkable and a most welcome year."

But he said crises can be expected because of the great changes from the emergence of new countries and the pressures from the Communist bloc.

He noted that "no one of the countries which have become independent since 1945 has become of the Sino-Soviet bloc."

Rusk made these comments on major trouble spots:

The Congo—"I would be inclined to be optimistic," that Congolese leaders will agree on a moderate government.

Laos—Laotian leaders have had difficulty agreeing on a neutral coalition government and "I would not want to predict what the outlook is in Laos at this time."

South Viet Nam—The Communists are mounting an aggression against South Viet Nam from the outside. "We suppose that in these next few months there will be considerable strife as the government attempts to deal with the guerrillas that are active there."

Berlin—"We have at the present time a first-class crisis over West Berlin."

"I think that the free world has taken an important first step toward a peaceful solution. They have made it quite clear that the free world considers that its vital interests are engaged in West Berlin, and that those vital interests will be protected with whatever it takes to protect them."

Gov't Is Issuing Booklets Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government begins mass distribution Tuesday of its long-delayed booklet on the deadly dust of radioactive fallout and how to survive it.

Some 25 million copies will be left in home mailboxes or shipped to civil defense offices.

In pictures and simple sentences the 48-page booklet tells of death by blast and fire that would come to millions in the target areas of a thermonuclear assault.

It offers positive hope of survival for millions more, describes the government's plan for community shelter spaces and tells how to build and stock home shelters costing $150 or less.

The experience would be terrible beyond imagination and description but there is much that can be done to assure that it would not mean end of the life of our nation," the booklet says.

The Defense Department, as author and publisher, expected criticism and quickly got some. Nuclear physicist Ralph E. Lapp said the booklet was a "fairly innocuous effort," telling nothing new and having limited value.

The basement shelters recommended, Dr. Lapp said, could be death traps for families within a few miles of a nuclear blast.

In anticipation of such comment, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara wrote in a brief preface that judgments on the civil defense program may differ.

"The factual information in this booklet has been verified by independent scientific authorities, and represents the best consensus of the scientific community that we can establish," McNamara said.

The pocket-size book is titled "Fallout Protection—What to Know and Do About Nuclear Attack." It was produced, after months of redrafting and internal controversy, at a cost of $825,000.

That's about three cents a copy. The booklet discounted the chances of nuclear disaster. It said government policies make such an attack "highly unlikely, and to keep it unlikely is their most important aim."

The appraisal of blast and fallout effects is in terms of a five-megaton weapon, smaller than some thermonuclear devices possessed by the Soviet Union, but probably the size of the warhead carried in present Soviet long range ballistic missiles. It equals the energy force of 5 million tons of TNT.

The book offers no hope for most persons within 10 miles if such a blast is delivered at ground level. Within a two-mile radius most buildings would be destroyed. Heat rays would kill unprotected people up to 10 miles away.

Weekend Traffic Toll In N.C. Low

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violence has claimed at least 11 lives in North Carolina during the long New Year's weekend which ends at midnight tonight. The relative light toll from traffic deaths stood at six.

Although the traffic death count was low, a tragic fire near Washington, N.C., claimed the lives of three children in the same family.

During the last New Year's holiday period last year, a total of 16 highway deaths were recorded. The North Carolina State Motor Club predicted 18 traffic deaths in the 78-hour 1961-1962 holiday period.

The number of highway deaths for 1961 was running just ahead of the 1,226 fatalities in 1960-61. Those who died of suffocation

Those reported killed in traffic accidents were: Linda Kink Grimms, 18, of High Point; Mary Ethel Wilson, a 5-year-old Negro girl of Warsaw; Foshier Harkins, 63, of Littleton; Carolyn Faye Boyd of Carrollton, Va.; and J. Kelly Lee, 56, of Rt. 2, Four Oaks.

Those who died of suffocation when a fire swept through the inside of their four-room frame house near Washington, N.C., were Freddie Lawrence, 9-months-old; James Lawrence, 4; and Virginia Lawrence, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Lawrence.

At Spencer, Mrs. Carrie Hickman, 87, a widow who lived alone, suffocated early today when an oil heater exploded in her two-room house. Firemen found her dead in the kitchen where she apparently went for water to extinguish the fire.

Defense Lawyer Giesler Stricken

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jerry Giesler, famed defense lawyer who rose to prominence as the top legal troubleshooter for movie stars, died today of a heart ailment. He was 75.

He was stricken at his Beverly Hills home.

A series of heart attacks had curtailed Giesler's activities since 1959. Nevertheless he managed to mastermind most of the important cases handled by his office.

Giesler, short and unimposing in appearance, showed up with predictable regularity at the side of celebrities in trouble.

His specialty was crimes of passion—a field which made him Hollywood's most famous and best-paid criminal attorney. Stars embroiled with the law made their legal watchword: "Get me Giesler."

Giesler's cases were seldom easy ones.

"If I have developed long, sharp legal teeth," he once remarked, "it is because I cut them on the gritty fare of cases no one else wanted. Most of my cases have been conducted in an atmosphere of prejudice against my client so thick it was almost stifling."

FIVE-ALARM FIRE

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-alarm fire that started in the kitchen of a Chinese restaurant spread Sunday through an entire block of stores in Queens. Three firemen were injured.

Nation's Traffic Death Toll Is Below Estimate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll since the start of the long New Year's weekend today appeared running a little below pre-holiday estimates.

The National Safety Council, which estimated 330 persons might die in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period, urged motorists to drive with caution as millions of persons head for home after holiday visits.

Since the start of the holiday period at 6 p.m. local time Friday, the count showed 203 persons killed in traffic accidents. Fires claimed the lives of 53 persons and 39 others died in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all toll of 295.

Council officials said Sunday if the accident rate continued to the end of the holiday period at midnight tonight, the traffic toll would be a record low for a three-day New Year's weekend. The lowest death toll was 269 in the three-day 1949-1950 New Year's period.

The highest number of traffic fatalities for any New Year's three-day weekend was 374 in the 1959-1960 period. The record traffic toll for any three-day holiday was 609 in Christmas 1955.

Average Teacher Pay In N. C. Up

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina jumped from 40th to 32nd among the states in average school teacher pay during 1961.

The National Education Association also announced over the weekend that Gov. Sanford's school improvement program moved North Carolina from 46th to 42nd in per pupil expenditure for public schools, from $241 to $290. This was the biggest gain in the nation.

The NEA said North Carolina teachers received the biggest pay boost during 1961 of any teachers in the nation. The Sanford program, the NEA noted, raised the average school teacher's pay from $4,185 to $4,877, an increase of 18 per cent. This was nearly four times the national average of 4.9 per cent.

To carry out the Sanford program, the 1961 legislature appropriated $460 million for public schools, for the 1961-63 biennium, a gain of $102 million over 1959-61.

A 3 per cent sales tax on food was enacted to pay for part of the increase.

Meanwhile, the North Carolina Education Association said North Carolina's public schools are receiving a smaller percentage of the state's tax dollar than in the past despite the big increases in school appropriations voted by the 1961 legislature.

Public schools will receive during the current biennium 59.1 per cent of the total spending from the state's general fund in comparison with 61.6 per cent in the past biennium, the NCEA noted in a year-end review.

Despite this, "The year 1961 has all the earmarks of becoming a milestone in the history of education for North Carolina," the NCEA stated.

Revelers In Reno Riot Two Hours

RENO, Nev. (AP)—New Year's revelers, choosing Reno's casino and night clubs, rioted for nearly two hours early today.

Police and firemen used tear gas bombs and streams of water to restore order.

Clusters of celebrators continued to block traffic and yell insults at policemen. Police said 25 arrests were made.

Hospital attendants estimated they gave emergency treatment to more than 40 persons injured in the melee.

Police said the rioting started when a teen-ager who had hurled an empty liquor glass at a patrolman was hustled into a patrol car.

A jeering crowd swarmed over the patrol car and bounced it until the windshield shattered. Police reinforcements and tear gas bombs failed to disperse the rioters and a fire truck was called to spray the crowds.

Better Chance Is Sanford Goal

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford says the No. 1 goal of his administration in 1962 will be to provide North Carolinians "a better chance to make a better living."

In a year-end statement released over the weekend, Sanford said he will seek "more profits for farm products, more trade for merchants, more economic opportunities for our people."

He added he will work to provide "more jobs for more money for more people."

Specifically, the governor said his administration will continue to improve public schools and plans to spend approximately $65 million on interstate and primary roads during the year.

He predicted the industrial development program will set a new record in 1962.

He noted that community colleges, mental hospitals, higher education, trade schools and correctional institutions will be improved in concept, scope and reach.

Large-scale arrests and a dramatic series of clashes as the hostages won their freedom.

Three were riding in the automobile of the PPS leader, Abdullah Saade when they were rescued. Saade was stopped at a roadblock and arrested. Scores of PPS members were under arrest.

The coup itself was crushed by the army in a few hours. By late Sunday afternoon it was finished, except for the flight of the captives.

The uprising began a few hours after midnight with moves on two main fronts.

One armed group stormed the Defense Ministry in southeast Beirut. Loyal army officers, alerted in advance by army intelligence, fought them off. Reinforcements arrived, surrounded the building and captured some of the rebels.

Another group had surrounded the homes of prominent military leaders and kidnapped eight of them. With some of their hostages they made their way to Wadi el Karm, a mountain village 30 miles north of Beirut they had turned into their stronghold.

A large force of loyal army tanks, armored cars and truckloads of troops converged on Wadi el Karm. Thus surrounded, the rebels gave up.

By the time most citizens awoke, Beirut was calm. Strong troop contingents and tanks at strategic points in the capital provided the only signs of trouble.

During the day parliamentary deputies, religious leaders and prominent citizens called on President Chehab to show their support for the government.

The army reported mopping up operations continued Sunday and said Abdullah Saade, chief of the Popular Social party, was arrested carrying the equivalent of $50,000 in "foreign money." Large numbers of suspected plotters were picked up.

Lebanese Uprising Crushed; Hunt Captains

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Security forces hunted in the Lebanese mountains today for two fugitive army captains who spearheaded an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Lebanon's government and put the nation in a northern Arab bloc.

The captains fled after leading 40 bewildered soldiers in an attack on the Defense Ministry Sunday and seizing eight high-ranking officers as hostages, including a cousin of President Fuad Chehab.

The plot, organized by members of the rightist Popular Social party, (PPS) led to five deaths, difficulties. Greenville's Christmas lights, burning brightly after midnight Sunday, were turned off this morning. Crews were scheduled to begin dismantling the decorations early this week.

Greenville Police Chief Guy D. Langston reported a quiet weekend for his department. Officers received a single telephone complaint about fireworks Sunday night, he said. Langston said the department received "quite a number of calls about fireworks, but they wanted to know whether it was a violation."

The Bethel Police Department reported minor isolated fireworks incidents as the town welcomed 1962 but no arrests were made.

Farmville Chief H. E. Epps said Farmville's weekend was "one of the quietest, most pleasant New Year's celebrations I've seen in my entire police career." He added, "We certainly appreciated the way our people conducted themselves."

Grifton Chief Luther Lewis reported minor violations of the fireworks law after midnight Saturday but said no arrests were made. "Other than that," he said, "we had a real quiet weekend."

Orderly Double New Year Celebration Over County

A double dose of New Year's Eve celebration came and went in orderly fashion for Greenville and Pitt County, according to county and municipal authorities today.

The two-day New Year's weekend, an occurrence in the calendar every seven years, provided an opportunity to double up on special New Year's activities. Many counted the seconds before midnight Saturday and again Sunday.

Drivers managed to avoid accidents Sunday after two minor traffic mishaps were recorded by officers Saturday.

The only reported serious injury that marred the county's New Year's weekend was a Greenville fireworks mishap in which a seven-year-old boy lost the sight of one eye.

Police officers in Greenville and other Pitt towns reported only scattered fireworks incidents. Ayden Police Chief W. D. Brooks said with a degree of surprise: "I haven't heard a single firecracker in Ayden."

Fire departments, standing by over the holiday weekend, were idle with no fire calls, not even false alarms, recorded.

With New Year's Eve coming on Sunday, many church-goers in the area attended services geared to a New Year's theme. Some churches conducted "Watch-Night" services Sunday to welcome 1962 in a reverent atmosphere.

Parties at various clubs and lodges around the city and county celebrated the New Year twice. Dance parties Saturday night were supplemented Sunday by additional gatherings of the party-goers to watch for the stroke of midnight.

Utilities crewmen on duty over the weekend reported no major

The Gastonia hospital reported two more babies were born within the next five minutes.

The first 1962 baby at Thomasville was a boy born at 12:05 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hayes.

The first New Year baby at Greensboro was another girl born at 12:02 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Dalton of Rt. 1, Summerfield.

It was 2:05 a.m. when Charlotte's first 1962 baby arrived, 14-ounce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Radford King.

Forsyth County's first baby of 1962 was a six-pound, four ounce girl born at 1:30 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ray Heisabeck of Tobaccoville.

The ending of the old year and the coming of the new brought sorrow to one Greenville family as their seven-year-old boy lost the sight of one eye in an accident involving a firecracker.

Involved in the accident was Edmund King, son of Greenville's mayor, Charles M. King of 521 West Longmeadow Road.

Parents of the child, saying "we don't want it to reflect on anybody," explained that Edmund was playing with two older children in somebody else's yard. Someone threw a "cherry bomb" and it didn't go off.

The three went to investigate and as Edmund got close to it the bomb exploded in his face. The older youths jumped back and were not injured, the Kings reported.

Eye specialists in Washington, N.C. treated the injury and removed his right eye, Saturday. The child was returned home Sunday.

Edmund, a second grade student at Elmhurst School, was

Stood In Line

At least 300 people stood in line here this morning to purchase state license plates during the first two hours of sale.

In spite of the New Year's holiday and a constant rain, a steady line of purchaser was reported at Home and Auto Supply, where the plates are being sold. The license tags went on sale at 9 a.m.

State license plates also are being sold in Pitt County at the Western Auto Store in Farmville.

The tags will be on sale from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily on office days up to the Feb. 15 deadline.

Ladies Aux. Has Meeting

At the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Thursday evening, Mrs. J. A. Joyner, Jr. gave a report on the visit of members to "open house" at Caswell Training School. The group attended the annual Christmas program presented by the children on December 20. Members of the VFW Auxiliary and Junior Woman's Club were special guests. These two organizations sponsor activities and provide supplies for the school which are not provided in its regular budget. After the Cantata, visits were made to the dormitories and other buildings. In addition to Mrs. Joyner, other Greenville members who attended included Mrs. Woodrow Boyd, Mrs. C. B. West, Jr., Mrs. L. E. Meeks, and Mrs. H. L. Vincent.

In the official communications read by the president and presiding officer, Mr. L. E. Meeks, the announcement was made of the pending visit of Mrs. Beulah Adamson, national president of the auxiliary, to North Carolina on February 3-4. Mrs. Adamson will attend the Council of Administration meeting in High Point.

The quarterly Second District meeting will be held in Grifton on January 21. Posts and auxiliaries in Greenville, Washington, Kinston, Pink Hill, Goldsboro and Farmville will be represented.

Mrs. Neva Fleming, member of the local auxiliary, gave a report on her recent visit to the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich. The Home provides for the dependent children and widows of deceased or disabled veterans. She said she was very impressed by the North Carolina cottage which is financed by the Department of North Carolina. Each cottage has a housemother and children of various ages live in the same cottage to insure a family-type environment. There are seven children in the North Carolina cottage at the present time. Mrs. Fleming said the children attended public school and church of their choice in Eaton Rapids, although there is a chapel for all faiths at the National Home. She concluded that she "would be proud for her child or grandchild to be there."

The children in the North Carolina cottage were remembered at Christmas time by the local auxiliary. A monetary contribution was sent to each child, and a box of Christmas goodies was sent. Mrs. L. E. Bullock serves as chairman of the local National Home committee.

Mrs. Clem Garner, chairman of the Gold Star committee, reported that cards were sent to the Gold Star mothers of Pitt County.

Mrs. C. B. West, Jr. has visited members who have been ill and cards were sent.

The members voted a contribution to be placed in the building fund. Transactions for the site of a Post Home have been completed and plans for construction of the building are being formulated.

Baby 1962 Arrives In N.C. Wearing Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Baby 1962 arrived on schedule today in North Carolina, garbed in a mantle of snow, garbed in a mantle of snow. Between four and six inches fell on most mountain sections in the pre-dawn hours. Hickory had four inches on the ground at 8 a.m. and it was still snowing heavily. Sweeping eastward, the snow measured three inches at Charlotte and Winston-Salem. It also fell at Greensboro, but moving further eastward to Fayetteville, Raleigh and Wilmington, it was raining. Hazardous driving conditions prevailed throughout the western mountains. The State Highway Patrol adviser chains for travel anywhere in the area, as well as in the north central Piedmont. Snow, mixed with rain, was expected through the daylight hours, with the temperature no higher than the mid-30s. Asheville reported four inches, with five at Hendersonville and six at Mt. Mitchell for a total of 10 on the ground. It snowed for about six hours at Charlotte, before changing to rain. At High Point after about an inch of snow, rain followed, only to give way to more snow in 33-degree temperature. Four inches of snow forced a day's delay in the scheduled opening of Gaston County schools, scheduled to resume classes today. Lows tonight were expected to dip to the upper 20s in the mountains, ranging to the upper 30s along the south coast, with clearing tomorrow and a little colder over the coastal plain. The snow extended into South Carolina, where Greenville and Spartanburg reported some, with rain over much of the remainder of the state.

Antiques For White House Are Itemized

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Walker C. Gartner of South Wellfleet, Mass. President Kennedy may have viewed with interest a Victorian rocker of 1865 vintage. It was described as similar to one President Abraham Lincoln used in his box at Ford's Theater, where he was fatally shot. The rocker, gift of Constance Duin of Grand Rapids, Mich., has been placed in the Lincoln room of the White House. Mrs. Kennedy's search for antiques has brought in more than 150 items — chairs, tables, sofas, lamps, beds, rugs, etchings, paintings and objects of art. About 100 gifts were acknowledged by her fine-arts committee in the second report since the First Lady started the program. Among the gifts, loans and donations that came from virtually every state, and from Canada and France as well, were pieces that once were the property of historic figures. A Chippendale looking glass used by the first president in his executive mansion in Philadelphia was loaned to the White House by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, guardian of Washington's Virginia homestead. Mrs. Edward J. Foy of Washington provided a pair of brass andirons and a fender from about 1850 that was the property of President Zachary Taylor. A 19th century mahogany desk used by Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant in the White House is back in the mansion, donated by Mr. and

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, former governor of North Carolina, says he is not interested in seeking elective office again. Hodges told a newsman Sunday. "I am not interested further, sir, in elective office. I have given the last 10 years to this sort of thing and I expect to continue working here in the Cabinet. "At my age I don't have any ambition to get back into elective office because I have had a full term as governor of North Carolina and I am not interested in the Senate race."

Australia Cites Past Assurances Of Indonesia

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The Australian government has told Indonesia it would regard the use of force gain control of West New Guinea as a breach of faith. Foreign Minister Sir Garfield Todd said today.

Todd said Indonesian leaders had repeatedly said in the past that they would not use force in pressing their claim on the area with the Netherlands.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies has sent a note to the Indonesian embassy here appealing for negotiations, preferably under the aegis of the United Nations. A note also was sent to the Netherlands outlining Australia's position. Australia controls the eastern half of the New Guinea.

Rain Followed 1962 Into City

Rain followed the New Year 1962 into Greenville and vicinity. In the mountains, and northern Piedmont, snow and sleet were forecast for the day.

The weatherman says the rainy New Year's greeting will not be lengthy. Rain is supposed to end here tonight and Tuesday will bring clearing skies and about the same temperatures. The coastal plain will be slightly colder than before the rain.

Snow in the mountains and east of the mountains was expected to accumulate up to four inches today, the weatherman said.

At the Greenville Utilities Plant, L. M. Bullock said the midnight temperature for today was 21 degrees. At 4 a.m. it was 35 and by 8 a.m. it had risen to 36 degrees. Sunday had a high of 35 and a low of 22 degrees.

As of this morning, the Tar River level was at a four-foot standstill. The barometer, slightly falling, read 30.05. No rain was measured prior to midnight here, Bullock reported.

Two New York City Bus Lines Tied Up By Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's two largest bus lines were struck at the birth of the new year today by the Transport Workers Union. The lines transport 1.3 million riders a day.

The strike declaration went out at 12:01 a.m., after last minute high-level conferences failed to bury the bone of contention — city concessions to ease the lines' financial plight.

Drivers en route when the strike went into effect continued on the job long enough to deliver their passengers, then returned to the garages, where pickets had been set up.

Altogether, 6,400 TWU employees are involved. The struck companies, Fifth Avenue Coach Lines and its subsidiary, Surface Transit Inc., operate in Manhattan and the Bronx. Another subsidiary, Westchester Street Transportation Inc., also was affected.

The strike will not be felt seriously before Tuesday, when the city's millions return to their jobs following the holiday weekend.

Even then, most regular passengers of the struck lines can find alternate transportation, via the city's subway-bus complex or the five private lines that didn't strike.

A strike threatened by Local 100 against the Yonkers Transit Corp. was called off at 1 a.m., when negotiators settled on a contract.

Recorder's Court Is Widely Noted

In recent months the recorder's court of the city of Greenville has attracted considerable attention in North Carolina and some other states for its handling of traffic cases.

We have read with interest a number of editorials from other parts of North Carolina which have commented favorably on the ground rules which Judge Charles Whedbee and Solicitor Eli Bloom have laid down for the handling of traffic cases.

The latest such editorial to come to our attention was the comment of the Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette. We feel the comments of that newspaper on the Greenville city court will be of interest to readers of The Daily Reflector.

The Charleston Gazette said: "In Greenville (N.C.) traffic officials in cooperation with the municipal judiciary have inaugurated a program which deserves the attention of all those involved in the business of making the public safety-conscious. "Any traffic violator summoned to court must

No Clean Page For New Year

By LYNN NISBET
NEW YEAR — Artists and poets portray the New Year as a naked infant, utterly helpless in a world of problems, but with a expectant hopeful gleam in his eye.

Or they depict the New Year as a bright new page in the account ledger, unmarred by carry-over items from the past with nothing to influence the writing of a record without mistakes.

It might be nice if those concepts were true. They are not, and it may not be entirely bad that there cannot be a complete break and an entirely new start. Some things we would like to forget. The clean page has some attractions. Many things we cherish in memory, and would not renounce if we could.

It would be terrible to start the New Year without friends upon whose friendship we can rely, or without beliefs in moral principles which have proven their value under severe tests. The recollection of sorrowful experiences will enable us to avoid the same conditions.

That little naked 1962 who moves onto the stage is not so lonesome or helpless as the artist would have you believe. He has the benefit of experience attained by his predecessors from 1961 back into the dim ages. Although he is sure to make some mistakes of his own, he is a pretty wise little fellow.

The new ledger page is not quite clean. There are some carry-over items, but they have been culled out so that only the credit or debit balance shows. The objective now is to have all the new entries increase the credit, reduce the debits.

The point is, there is something there to work on. The new year does not begin in emptiness but in hope.

U. S. 1 — A group of NBC cameramen have been in Raleigh for some days "shooting" scenes to go into a national network telecast entitled "U. S. Highway 1: American Profile."

Color views were obtained of the capitol, the Governor's Mansion, the historic old buildings around Raleigh and the modernistic structures at State College and the Fair Grounds.

The selections for pictures emphasize that old building often have attractions beyond any specific historic significance attaching to them. In the period between the Civil War and about 1910 North Blount street was the elite residential section of Raleigh. Many fine old homes still stand, although in some instances marred by proximity of ultra modern neighbors.

The Governor's Mansion still dominates North Blount street and retains for it the atmosphere of elegant home living. But adjoining lots are being taken over for State office buildings and apartments. Some of the oldtimers along the street are fighting to preserve the elegance of other years in their homes and yards.

The late Graham Andrews, who owned a handsome home on the street, when he was mayor led a one-man and unsuccessful campaign to have the address of the Governor's Mansion officially designated and commonly accepted as "200 North Blount Street." He was too late with his idea. His suggestion was that the White House in Washington was better known as "1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," and the Mansion here should be designated by street address. That was before the White House, rather than Capitol Hill, had become the actual political center of the United States and the world.

Now the address of the White House is of no significance. The name is a symbol, not a place. In recent years it has been accepted with equal authority at Warm Springs, Camp David, Gettysburg and Palm Beach.

GRASS ROOTS — The Washington Daily News is the latest of several North Carolina newspapers to insist that in revamping or re-writing the Plan of Organization of the Democratic party more consideration should be given to the opinions of the grass roots folks.

A few weeks ago Governor Sanford told a news conference that he was very happy at the interest being shown in the party reorganization plan, because it indicated that the Democratic party belongs to the people, all the people. Maybe the grass roots have not spoken as loudly as they may or can, but it is of record that some proposed revisions were abandoned when the precinct workers were heard from.

Nearly all the nomenclature of politics has the tang of the soil, emphasizing the rural concept of North America, although the census shows increasing urban population. As far back as Andrew Jackson the common people were identified by corn skin caps. In Georgia the common people were identified by corn skin caps. In North Carolina built his support on the branch head boys.

These terms, though applied sometimes in ridicule, actually have an honorable connotation. When it comes to town folks the term most often used is "ward heeler," of very unsavory connotation.

The grass roots designation helps some because it is more generally accepted as meaning the great mass of people, rural and urban, who do not claim special recognition or privilege, but who go about their duties every day with a view to building a better community.

Coonskin caps, wool hats, and branch head residences are rather limited. Grass roots folks are all over. They will be heard from, whether asked or not. It will be better for everybody if they are consulted before a new plan is announced.

put in an appearance. He cannot forfeit bond or simply plead guilty, pay fine and cost and proceed blithely on his way. In each case the judge hears the evidence then finds the defendant guilty or innocent.

"If the verdict is guilty, the judge invariably delivers a stern lecture along with the sentence. Also the local press in Greenville is cooperating with the program by printing the names of those involved and the disposition of their cases. Any teen-ager brought into court must bring a parent or guardian to court before the judge will hear the case.

"Admittedly, this program has drawbacks. For one, it's time-consuming for that individual who heretofore has wiped out a minor offense by the relatively painless method of mailing a check to the proper authorities or forfeiting a bond. For another it's humiliating to be hailed into court to listen to a stuffy old judge give a morality lecture on traffic safety.

"But it also should generate more respect for traffic laws in general and safe driving in particular."

New Pump-Priming Is Unlikely To Be Needed

Last January when President Kennedy took office and began to make recommendations to Congress on changes in the budget prepared by the Eisenhower administration, considerable attention was given to pump-priming recommendations.

This year the Kennedy administration has prepared budget recommendations which will go to Congress later this month and early reports indicate the budget will be balanced, but some $3 billion above the one adopted for the current fiscal year.

There is nothing yet to indicate whether the Kennedy administration in this new year will continue to lean toward programs to stimulate the economy as was the case a year ago. Conditions throughout the country have changed sharply in the past year so far as the economic pace is concerned. Whereas the nation was coming out of a recession in latter 1960 and early 1961, the recovery has been rapid and business activity for the most part has moved to new high ground. It would seem, therefore, that no pump-priming program would be needed in the new budget which will be considered in the next few months.

The economic experts are predicting a bright outlook in 1962 with a continuing decline in unemployment, and a continuing increase in production and business activity in every category. Some of the programs urged by the administration last year and approved by Congress have yet to make their full impact felt upon the economy of the nation, and when these come they will serve to push the upward economic trend even higher. Further pump-priming would appear both unnecessary and unwise under present circumstances.

If the new budget does contain extensive pump-priming programs, Congress should not hesitate to pare them down or remove them entirely from the spending program President Kennedy presents. At a time when the economy of the country appears certain to be headed to unprecedented heights, there is little need for anti-recession programs.

Forecasts For Coming Year

By RALPH ROBEY
There must now be literally tens of thousands of organizations and persons who make forecasts of business for the following year. Most of these already have appeared in one form or another for 1962. And this time there is such agreement among all of them that it is almost disturbing. This is especially true for the first six months of the year. For the second half there is some disagreement, but even here it is more a matter of shading than of basic differences.

Our own thinking is as follows:

Gross national product, which is the monetary value of all goods and services produced in the nation, will increase quarter by quarter in 1962 and for the year will average between $560 and $565 billion. The recent low of this aggregate was in the first three months of 1961 at $101 billion. We do not have the official figure for the final quarter of this year, but the Administration is estimating that it will be around $540 billion.

Inventories were liquidated in the first quarter at an annual rate of $4 billion. In the second three months there was a sharp turnaround, and since then the accumulation has been at a constantly increasing rate. Such additions will continue at least through the first six months of 1962. Currently such production is about 14 percent above 1957 and it will rise, say, a further 7 percent in 1962.

Over-all industrial production, as measured by the Federal Reserve Board index, has resumed its upward and this will continue in a mild way throughout 1962. Currently such production is about 14 percent above 1957 and it will rise, say, a further 7 percent in 1962.

Federal government spending will continue to rise. For the fiscal year ending next June 30 the outlay is estimated at $89 billion. No one yet knows what the figure will be for the following year, but $92 billion is commonly mentioned.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE FACE THE NEW YEAR
The Bible is the disclosure to man of God's law and purpose. We would know something about an infinite creator even if we did not have the Bible, but we would not know about God, the loving Heavenly Father.

The Bible from beginning to end contains patterns by which we are to be guided in matters of belief, faith, and conduct. It is significant that in the first four words of the Bible God sets forth one of the most important of these patterns. The Bible begins with the words, "In the beginning God."

On this first day of the New Year we are to remember that God's most imperative requirement of us is that we put Him

Business investment in plant and equipment is slowly increasing, and for 1962 it will be some $38-39 billion. The previous all-time high was a little over $37 billion.

Personal income will continue to rise and by the end of the year it should be above $450 billion, or some $24 billion higher than at present. This, plus an expansion of installment credit, will assure a moderate increase in retail trade.

Employment will advance to new high levels and unemployment will drop but not by enough to eliminate this problem. As compared to our present civilian labor force, we now have 6.1 percent unemployed. This will decline to 5 or 5.5 percent. Wages, of course, will continue to rise.

Corporate profits in the aggregate will continue to advance through probably the second quarter and then tend to level off. Currently they are about $47 billion pre-tax and they will rise another five or six billion. But it must be remembered that the federal government takes just about one-half of this amount in taxes.

The public appears to approve of the 1962 model automobiles and there is much reason to anticipate sales of about 6.5 million cars. This does not include imports.

Housing starts, still show no real zip. In 1961 we shall have about 1,275,000 private starts, and in 1962 the figure will be around 1,325,000. Construction as a whole is to be up some 7 percent, according to the F. W. Dodge Company.

Federal government spending will continue to rise. For the fiscal year ending next June 30 the outlay is estimated at $89 billion. No one yet knows what the figure will be for the following year, but $92 billion is commonly mentioned.

He tolerates our rebellion. He forgives our many sins, but what He will not endure is having anything or any person set before Him.

In the next to the last chapter of the Bible occur the words "Behold, I make all things new." Is this going to be truly a new year for us—a year of renewal, of opening prospects, of objectives achieved, of triumph? Only if we adapt our lives to the patterns laid down by God Himself. And the first of these patterns is, "In the beginning, God."

Put Him first in life and keep Him there. Then will life indeed be new. It will be renewed. It will be filled with triumph. For the power of the Omnipotent will be behind all we do, and think, and strive to achieve.

Now I Know What Happened to Her

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Management Is Changing

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

American industry was built by individuals investing their savings in enterprises, nurturing them, occasionally combining with other enterprises, expanding out of earnings, taking out limited profits and putting savings and reserves back into the business. It was a private enterprise, designed to provide a profit but conducted prudently to guard against a risk turning into a failure.

This is the capitalist system. It is often called the profit and loss system. Its essential is that the enterprise is privately-owned and originally was owned by those who managed it; latterly widely owned by individuals unrelated to management. Its growth depended upon the character, sincerity and ability of those who owned the enterprise. Ownership and management were identical. The final responsibility rested in ownership. However, as the corporation developed and as management began to assume the responsibility of ownership, the nature of industrial management changed.

Ownership became diverse and diffuse. Paid employees, assigned increasing authority, sometimes in disregard of the law, weakening initiative and absorbing parts of the profits by excessive wages, expenses, and other devices to entrench themselves in power.

In recent years, management has often neglected the principal function of the business which is to earn a profit for the owners, by burying earnings and other increments in what are called acquisitions which is the increase of an enterprise's value by purchasing other enterprises by the exchange of stock. It is often difficult to ascertain why Company B, obviously profitable, sells itself to another company, sometimes less profitable than Company B.

Often an acquisition is really an exchange of power within an enterprise without disclosing the shift of control. Sometimes the acquisition includes prosperous and unprofitable enterprises, the expectation being that by the acquisition the unprofitable enterprise will be buried. Sometimes, all these combinations are managed for a tax advantage, the management of the two companies taking advantage of the ownership which only reads of the astonishing rise of prospective annual income.

The emphasis on management is unsound and gives strength to those who should be subordinate employees. The emphasis is on management, not on management reason and tolerance. Management only is legally responsible for the affairs of a company to the extent that it serves on the Board of Directors which represent ownership.

The trick devised here is the appointment of an Executive Committee which usually consists of senior officers of management who meet between Directors' meetings and act for them. The Executive Committee often usurps the authority of the Board of Directors but none of its responsibilities. Theoretically, the Executive Committee meets because it is smaller and more mobile than the Board of Directors and can put over devices which the Board would resist, but which a Board can never ratify because steps have been taken and commitments undertaken from which withdrawal would be costly and, in fact, inappropriate. Thus management uses the Executive Committee to turn a Board of Directors into drones or into a crows' nest.

Thus, the Executive Committee hurls a report on the table which should take many hours to study. Somebody moves that the report is approved unread, unstudied, uncriticized. The result is hurried and unjustified action.

The cause for much of this is bigness — the lust for bigness, the show-offness of bigness. The worthiness of an enterprise is to be measured by its so-called size or growth. Profits prove competent management and prudent operations.

When management absorbs too great a share of the earnings in disregard of the interests of ownership and the reserves of the enterprise, the business is badly managed. Those engaged in acquisitions have to be watched closely because this word, acquisition, is a blanket for all sorts of queer practices, including the shifting of the control power of an enterprise without regard to the protection of ownership. In fact, ownership may find itself out of control without knowing what has happened for some time. The reason for this is that in a company ship, management can move swiftly to concentrate power through small devices and when the Board wakes up to what has

Better Year Ahead

By ROGER BABSON

1. I am hopeful for 1962; it should be a better year for my readers than 1961. Industrial production will exceed that of 1961.

2. There will be neither a nuclear war nor total disarmament in 1962. Considerable progress may be made toward a ban on atomic weapons.

3. Some thirty stocks may reach an average of 1000 during 1962, although these will not necessarily be the thirty Dow Jones stocks.

4. Retail trade will make new records during 1962. Increased newspaper advertising, especially in colors, will be a great boon to merchandising.

5. Commodity prices will set erratic during 1962. Agricultural prices will be held up by legislation, but many metals will sell for less.

6. The official cost-of-living figure will rise slightly in 1962, but there may be a scandal in Washington over how this figure is calculated or adjusted. The real increase in the cost-of-living will be due to increased wages demanded.

7. The only certain shortages during 1962 will be in land suitable for parking places and waterfront property readily accessible to building lots. Also for automobile "graveyards" near cities which have been zoned. The building of shelters will look silly before the end of 1962. Certainly the Federal Government will not underwrite the building of private shelters for individual families.

9. Good real estate must rise in price as the population increases. Elementary mathematics determines the price of suburban real estate. This is notwithstanding the claim of the "space companies" which are said to be interested in selling rights on the moon. These are probably a craze for speculators.

10. While the land on which your house now stands should increase in value during 1962, the building itself depreciates from the moment when it is first occupied. A possible exception would be certain very attractive ranch houses painted in color.

11. Automobile production will be the most important statistical indicator during 1962. This applied to both the number of automobiles and their sales value. We now have no reliable figures for the latter.

12. We will gradually approach an average of two cars for every family. The life of automobiles should gradually increase. The percentage of automobiles annually destroyed will decrease in 1962.

13. Automobiles and gasoline will be, increasingly, sources for raising money by taxation. These means will be extended to include an additional assessment on the manufacturers of automobiles.

14. Taxes, as a whole will continue to increase in 1962 for every family. Business net taxes, however, will decrease in 1962 through the granting of depreciation refunds which can be done by Executive order. The manufacturer may greatly increase his deductions for past investments and new machinery, plant, and equipment. Douglas Dillon feels that such tax reductions will increase the purchase of new equipment, develop greater efficiency, and result in a net improvement in the employment situation. This is good news for 1962.

15. Speculation in real estate and securities will be active during 1962; but good children will gradually be recognized as the best investment. Young people will be married earlier and will want to have large families.

16. Public education will gradually be reorganized during the years ahead. Schoolhouses will be built as places to "park the kids" while the parents are at work. New schoolhouses will be built so as not to be over one story high, with lots of sunshine.

17. Owing to the lack of airport facilities and to inadequate equipment, there will be increasing airplane accidents during 1962.

18. With all the above changes, plus increased public improvements and longer vacation periods, families must save somehow and cut somewhere. I (Continued on Page 5)

Other Editors Saying... Offering Ideas For All

(Goldboro News-Argus)

A plan in effect for the Greenville rescue truck operation is one worthy of consideration for adoption by all Rescue Squads.

Actually the idea would not be adopted by the rescue teams and management, but would be up to the courts and to the public conscience.

A year or so ago, Greenville Rescue answered a call to a wreck. There were injuries and apparently there had been excessive drinking among those injured. One became belligerent and attempted to assault a Rescue member.

When this information came out during trial in Recorder's Court of the cases growing out of the wreck in Greenville, the judge took note of the attack on the Rescue member. He ordered that court costs include a sum designated to go to Rescue.

Since then it has become general practice for Greenville Recorder's court to designate sums of costs to go to Rescue. Usually the amount ordered is $5 to $7.50.

Roy Hardee of Greenville, who has served as president of the Rescue Squad organization in the state, says that he knows of no other city which has adopted the Greenville cost plan.

Probably when the routine becomes knowledge over the state other cities and counties will adopt it.

Hardee says that approximately $500 to $710 a year can be anticipated for Rescue expenses as a result of the costs policy.

Actually we see no reason why Rescue should not make a reasonable charge for this service. Trucks wear out, equipment wears out. New materials must be bought.

The Rescue members perform a labor of love, as a public service. They would be the last to stand for commercialization of the Good Samaritan efforts.

He said to the credit of many of those who know the helping hand of Rescue in Goldboro or in the scores of cities where this service is offered, that many make a donation to the Rescue Squad.

Even those who make a donation, we think, would feel on surer grounds if they had some yardstick for determining what is a fair and reasonable contribution. Say so much per mile.

Rescue Squads everywhere must go back to the public for new donations periodically. If the operation could include the Greenville costs idea, plus some suggestion as to fair gifts for answering calls according to distance, such steps would give the Samaritans a stable source of financing.

Business And The '62 Calendar

By ELMER ROESSNER

The calendar will create many problems for businessmen in 1962. Six weeks will be split by holidays, the traditional summer vacation period will be four days shorter than in 1961 and Easter falls so late it will upset fashion sales. Scarcely offsetting this will be the fact that the Thanksgiving-to-Christmas shopping spell will be one day longer than in 1961.

Washington's Birthday falls on a Thursday; Memorial Day on a Wednesday; July 4 on a Wednesday; Columbus Day on a Friday; Thanksgiving, as always, on a Thursday, and Christmas on a Tuesday. Split weeks usually hurt retail sales.

Lincoln's Birthday falls on a Monday and this day and Columbus Day have become great sales days in many localities, which will offset some of the losses of the other split weeks. Veterans Day, Nov. 11, falls on a Sunday.

Lent begins March 7 and Easter Day will be April 22. The latest Easter can come is April 25. Easter was April 2 in 1961.

Experience in recent years shows that very early or very late Easter hurt apparel sales. If very early, inclement weather retards sales; if very late, many shoppers are most interested in summer fashions. The spring fashion sales thereby suffer.

With Thanksgiving on November 22, there are 27 shopping days until Christmas, compared with 26 in 1961. However, Monday, December 24 — is expected — of recent years is repeated — will be a dull day, with only last-minute sales. Many persons will take off from Friday, December 21 to Wednesday, December 26.

With July 4 on a Wednesday and Labor Day on Monday, September 3, the traditional summer vacation season, including the two holidays, will be 62 days. In 1961, the season got under way June 30 and went through September 5. That meant skipping work on Monday, July 3. But to get an early start in 1962 would require skipping both July 2 and 3. The 1961 season was 66 days.

FOUR FIVE-FRIDAY MONTHS

There will be four months with five Fridays: March, June, August and November. Friday has become the traditional payday of those paid weekly, and the months with five paydays yield what is often considered "found money." Sales in the last week of these months are likely to rise, especially in November, when the fifth payday comes within the Christmas shopping season.

Passover begins at sundown, April 18, a Wednesday, Rosh Hashana and the Jewish year 5723 begins at sundown Friday, September 28. Yom Kippur begins at sundown Sunday, October 7, and Hannukkah begins at sundown Friday, December 21.

THREE-WO BROADCAST MAY COST $5,000

Radio station KDAY, Santa Monica, Calif., has been warned that it is liable for a $5,000 penalty for broadcasting a three-second three-word commercial, "remember June 25." The date was that of the introduction of a new product, and the station uttered the commercial 171 times in May.

The Federal Communications Commission was not concerned with the monotony, but with the fact that the law prohibits commercials in which the sponsor is not identified. The station, which said it did not know of the law, has 30 days in which to make a formal reply.

INDIA URGED TO STERILIZE LOW-PRODUCING COWS

Sterilization of cows that produce little milk has been proposed by an Indian professor, the Foreign Agricultural Service reports.

Spaying cows can convert them into draft animals, he said, at a loss of insignificant amounts of milk. The cattle and buffalo of India, protected by religious rules, are a serious economic drain, since they consume forage on land that could produce crops, they produce little milk, and their meat is forbidden to believers.

Spayed cows become more masculine and work as well as oxen, the professor found.

think it will begin in 1962 with clothing. This will gradually become cheaper and more attention will be paid to color.

19. The time is approaching when the weaving of cloth will be greatly curtailed. Clothes will be made like paper. Plastic coats are already on the market. These are produced by feeding the cellophane into a machine which cuts to desired sizes and bonds (not sews) the material into beautifully finished goods of different colors.

20. We will hear more about automation during 1962. But the cost of building automatic factories is so great that the change is coming slowly. Even electronics has been overemphasized.

21. There need be no unemployment among steel workers during 1962. But Government unemployment figures will remain high. Foreign competition, due to low wages abroad, will be an important factor. Women will prefer to work in air-conditioned factories and have their home pantries filled with precooked foods.

22. Labor unrest will grow in extent and power. The Kennedy Administration is friendly to union leaders and their demands. There will be demands for more "fringes" in 1962. A steel strike is possible.

23. This means that with increased taxes, prices of retail products will be higher. This will be blamed on "inflation" of money; but it will be due to inflation of living standards.

24. The real value of the dollar will decline slightly during 1962, due to the decrease in the productivity of labor. The electronics industry will temporarily suffer in 1962 if atomic warfare is outlawed. But otherwise the electronics industry will increase for some years to come and hold up the dollar value. Watch polymer chemicals and "epoxy" cement.

25. There will be enough money for mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration in 1962. Plenty of money will be available for mortgages guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, although this supply varies with different sections of the country. Interest rates on conventional loans not having any government guarantees will be a little higher. Real estate people will worry about the public's desire to build, rather than about their obtaining mortgage money.

26. The kilowatt hours of electricity produced in 1962 will exceed the total of any previous year. This is favorable to utility preferreds.

27. Steel production in 1962 will exceed this year's 100 million tons, but the increase will come from producing steel in colors.

28. Cement production will be about the same in 1962 as in 1961, but the industry's capacity to produce is increasing too rapidly in view of the demand. The cement manufacturers must give more attention to colors.

29. Expenditures for plant and equipment in 1962 will increase, supplemented by large appropriations for repainting factories and offices in many colors.

30. Newsprint production depends upon the number of newspapers and the amount of advertising sold. I forecast a decline in the amount of newsprint sold during 1962, but advertising receipts may increase through the better use of colors. This may result in the increased use of coated paper to better take color printing — with a 50 per cent increase in advertising rates.

31. Furniture manufacturers are marking up prices so that young couples will buy furniture in the raw and paint same themselves.

32. There will be some increases in color TV sales in 1962. In fact, I think the present TV market is far from being saturated.

33. First-class postage rates will not be increased during 1962. Hence, most money will be spent on direct mail selling. This should help job printers in 1962, as their present margin of profit is very small. Bill-board advertising will increase during 1962, due to a new kind of paint.

34. Lumber will do well to hold its own in 1962 and much of it will be sold colored. Wall-to-wall carpeting will become even more popular, reducing the price of the best hardwood floors.

35. Fewer "scatter rugs" will be sold in 1962. Rug dealers must go to brighter colors, even for "orientals".

36. One of the greatest developments during 1962 will be the increased use of color in homes, offices, stores, and factories. This should increase both the demand for and the price of good paint.

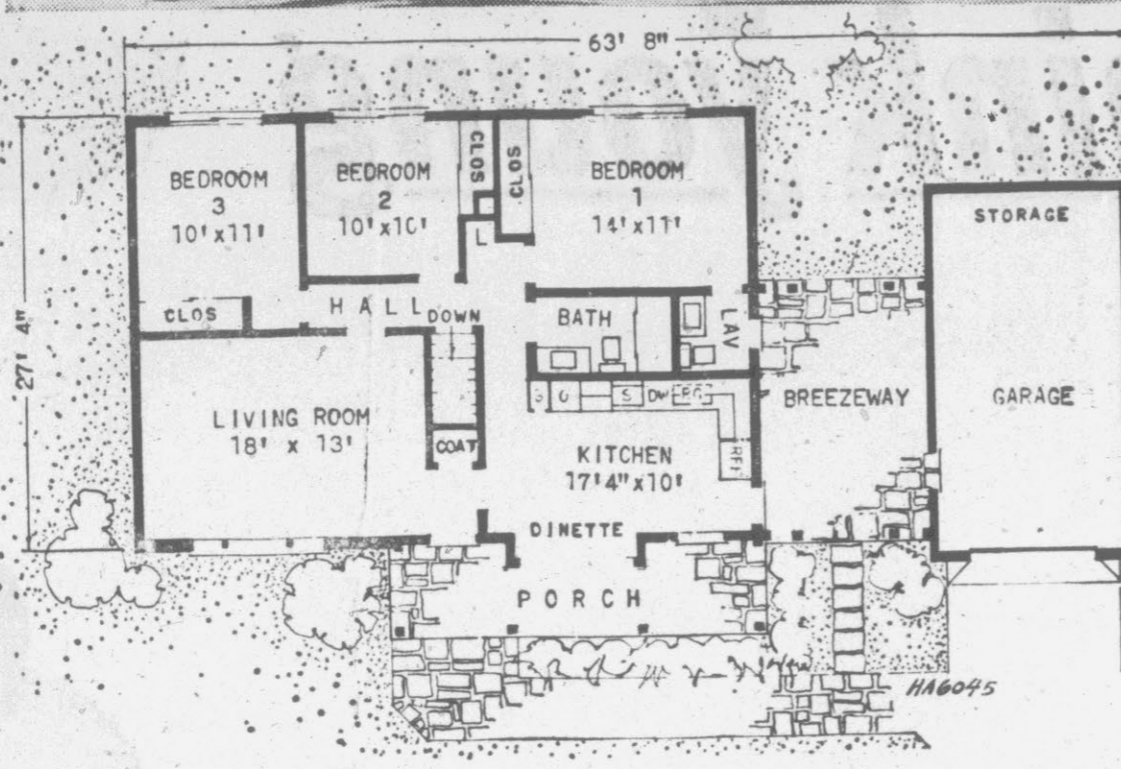

37. Exports will probably increase during 1962, but the surplus of trade in favor of the United States is constantly decreasing.

38. President Kennedy is encouraged by the recent elections in New York, New Jersey, and Texas. This Democratic trend will continue during 1962, notwithstanding former President Eisenhower's campaign speeches.

39. President Kennedy will be more favorable to "big business" in 1962 only when he is able to use big business to increase employment. Profit margins will not improve during 1962, although most industries will do better in terms of gross and volume.

40. Bond prices will not change much during 1962, except in the case of "non-taxables." European investors are buying American stocks and bonds feeling that their money is safer in United States industries and real estate. Even the first mortgage bonds of transcontinental railroads are being bought by Europeans. The manufacturers of West Germany are making huge profits through the use of new machinery and low wages. They are sending their money to the United States to be invested. They seem to prefer suburban real estate, shopping centers, and electric utilities. I hope they are not buying into too many "fly-by-night" new electronic companies.

41. Buying of Mutual Funds will continue to exceed selling in 1962. Considering that brokers make much more profit by selling Mutual Funds than by selling shares of individual stocks—and considering the thousands of salesmen selling Mutual Funds during 1962. Remember that the Mutual Funds operators must go to the New York Stock Exchange to purchase stock to support these Mutual Funds which salesmen are selling in the field.

42. The so-called "service industries" — including education, beauty parlors, travel, entertainment, and government positions—should prosper in 1962.

43. Among the fastest growing industries in 1962 will be the plastics and glass industries. These materials will gradually take the place of wood, stone, cement, and even some metals, —except as these are colored. Plastics and glass will become more important building materials and perhaps be used much more for automobiles.

44. Some unexpected event or discovery will cause the Dow-Jones Industrial Average to sell much higher during the next few years. As an illustration of what one of these unexpected events will be, I mention the polymer developments in chemistry, including "DNA" and "RNA", which may provide the source of life and extend it—yes, perhaps restore it, in special cases.

45. I am bullish on Canada for safe investments during 1962. Canada has a small population of only about 18,000,000, but it is rich in natural resources and has a sound, progressive government. I do not expect a nuclear war to be started by Russia; but if it comes, Canada will be a good place to live and to have your money invested.

46. South and Central America also have great natural resources; but most of their countries are ruled by selfish dictators. I believe most of our southern neighbors will suffer from serious inflation during 1962 and become a great problem for the United States.

47. Although the countries of Europe could be the greatest sufferers in case of World War III, the people I meet in Europe fail to realize this. I forecast that they will look at the situation more realistically during 1962.

48. West Germany is very prosperous; East Germany is in terrible condition. Much unemployment exists in Italy, France, and even Great Britain. I advise against investing money in Europe during 1962.

49. I am uncertain how to advise about Africa. But it is very rich in natural resources—including gold, diamonds, and almost every metal — as well as having the greatest undeveloped waterpower in the world. Barclays Bank I am personally acquainted with and recommend. Both Barclays and the Standard Bank are owned in England and have a great many branches; the latter has over 350 branch offices in Africa. Readers who are interested in keeping in touch with Africa may secure free of charge the Standard Bank Monthly Review by writing the Standard Bank of South Africa, 10 Clement Lane, London, EC 4. The banking of Northern Africa is controlled by the French. I would advise against putting money into Northern Africa during 1962.

50. The final result of 1962 whether it will make us a stronger or a softer nation—spiritually, physically, and mentally—depends upon our parents, teachers, preachers, and newspaper publishers. These, and not Russia, hold the future of the United States in their hands.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Many of the home builders concepts as we know them today will be obsolete in the next 10 years or so. But changes in homes, as in people, rarely come overnight. The changes are gradual, almost imperceptible from day to day or even year to year, but decidedly sharp over a period of time.

Some of the materials and building techniques and ideas that will be incorporated into homes in 1962 are not entirely new. They've been tried in test structures and a few houses and found to be workable. Others have been used in hundreds and thousands of homes but are still unknown in the large majority of residences. And still others may be getting their first airing during the year outside of a laboratory.

We've been talking to builders and manufacturers and looking over industry journals to see what's ahead for the buyers of new homes during the next 12 months. Here is how things shape up:

More maintenance-free materials will be used. . . kitchens will be slightly larger. . . more colors will be used in bathroom fixtures.

Approximately 600 deaths of ill-fed and ill-clothed Indians were attributed in unofficial reports to the near freezing weather in an area where summertime temperatures average 110 degrees.

A Year To Be Remembered For Sports In Pitt County

NEW COACH . . . Clarence Stasavich (third from left) discusses the coaching job with East Carolina officials back in November. Two days later it was announced that he had accepted the position.

Hog Jowls And Black Eyed Peas For ECC Football Coaching Staff Today

Hog jowl and black eyed peas has been no recruiting done for next year. "We must get some football players if we are going to play," he said.

However, the next most important thing right now, according to the new coach, is to make preparations for winter drills. Stasavich said he plans to seek the advice of his associate coaches on the winter drills.

NAIA CHAMPIONS East Carolina Basketball Coach Jim Mallory and his Pirate sluggers went all the way in 1961.

Officials Had A Rough Time In Packer Contest

GREEN BAY (AP) — The officials had a rough time in the third period of yesterday's Green Bay-New York football game. The play-by-play showed the Packers were allowed five downs on one sequence and a five-yard penalty actually was marked off at only two yards.

South Rose Again '61 Is The Year

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The year 1961 goes down as the year that the South rose again in the Blue-Gray classic and football reconstruction ended.

THEY MEET AGAIN JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Mayor Joseph Galagaza of nearby Franklin Borough was giving a free chance on a 20-pound holiday turkey to each parking meter violator who paid his $3 fine.

By GEORGE BRYANT Reflector Sports Editor With the year 1962 almost one day old, it is time to wrap up the past sports season here in Pitt County and put it away for memories of the future to look back on with a smile.

The Pitt County sports year for 1961 was a good one with many things happening that will long be remembered. It is hard to pick a story that might be placed at the top of a list as there are several which all deserve the same merit.

Four Biggest The four biggest sports stories of the year are East Carolina's winning the 1961 NAIA baseball title, Lenoir Rhyne Coach Clarence Stasavich accepting football coaching at East Carolina, Rose High Phantoms winning the conference championship and the Eastern 3-A title and East Carolina joining the NCAA and working toward membership in the Southern Conference.

All four of these stories are big and all four also have other incidents which accompany them helping to make them the top sports stories of the year in Pitt County. The year 1961 will be hard to forget for the sports fans of the area and other persons as well.

NAIA Champs The first big event of the year came back in the spring, when East Carolina's baseball Pirates won the North State Conference championship for the third straight season. The victory came on May 6 when Coach Jim Mallory's Bucs downed the Catawba Indians 4-2.

Big Welcome for Bucs On returning to Greenville the Bucs received a big welcome from the college and the town. In addition, the victory played a big part in an honor which was presented to Coach Mallory during the Christmas holidays.

The next big thing that happened to East Carolina during the year was its acceptance in the NCAA as one of the steps in joining the Southern Conference which also came about during 1961. The move toward the Southern Conference brought about the fund raising campaign for the new Picklen Memorial Stadium to which the people of Pitt County so generously contributed.

Stasavich Comes to ECC The Southern Conference also could have played a part in the hiring of Lenoir Rhyne Coach Clarence Stasavich as head football coach at East Carolina. Stasavich accepted the offer in the later part of November and began his new duties today.

Next on the list, is Rose High's winning the football championship in the Northeastern Conference and then going on to win the Eastern 3-A championship. At the beginning of the season Coach Phillips and many of the fans seemed concerned over the fact that the Phantom line might be weak, but this proved wrong.

Phantoms Have 9-1 Record The Greenville eleven won nine games and lost one during the season which put them on top of the conference and gave them the right to go into the playoff game with Roxboro one week before Thanksgiving.

placed on the All-Conference, All-State and All-Eastern football teams at the end of the season. Award Time When award time came in December many of the team members were honored along with Coach Phillips. "Bud," as he is known by most of the local fans, was presented a new automobile and a scrapbook of the season.

The success of the Phantom football team during 1961 helped place two boys, Alan McArthur and Billy James, on the Shrine Bowl team from North Carolina along with Phantom Coach Bud Phillips who was selected as a coach back in the summer. In addition some of the team members were top of the conference and gave them the right to go into the playoff game with Roxboro one week before Thanksgiving. This game proved to be tough for the local Phants, but they came through and went on to play Sanford on Thanksgiving day for the Eastern title which they won, but by the skin of their teeth on a two point safety early in the game.

In addition to the success of the Rose High team, the Ayden Tornados coached by Stuart Tripp won the Coastal Conference championship with a 10-0 record. The Tornados then met Camp Lejeune in the first round of the single-A playoffs and went on to meet Rohanon for the Eastern title. However, the Ayden eleven was unable to survive the final game, and Rohanon took the title home with them.

Other Stories Other stories which must not be forgotten are Kinston's winning of the Northeastern Conference basketball championship and Bethel's winning of the Pitt County basketball championship last March. There are bound to be many other stories that should be mentioned to complete a review of the year, but that would be impossible to do. In all the 1961 sports year in the Pitt County-Greenville area was a success and it is hoped that there will be many more years like it.

A SMILING COACH . . . Rose High's Bud Phillips, holding the ball used in the 3-A title game, was in for a bit of hand shaking immediately following the Phantoms' victory over Sanford on Thanksgiving day.

How to invest in freedom on the installment plan

You can't buy freedom. For cash or installments or any other way. It's not for sale.

You can make a sound investment in freedom, though, by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. Just $4.33 a week on payroll savings where you work will buy a $25.00 Bond each month.

As your savings grow, built up by 3 1/2% interest, you get closer to financial freedom—a desirable state for each of us if America is to be financially strong.

At the same time, your dollars go to work for another kind of freedom . . . the kind you'll find fully described in a document conceived nearly two centuries ago at Independence Hall.

Start buying Bonds where you work now. When you do, you'll be joining 8 million Americans who have signed up for a regular share of freedom each month.

CHAPTER 19
Saturday morning, Lee Folsom eschewed a fluttered and apprehensive Miss Cora in her own apartment, reassured her soothingly that all would be well and hurried out.

She wanted to be at Miss Cora's cottage when Holly and Mimi Eastman arrived, which would give her at least a slight advantage.

Miss Cora had cleaned painstakingly while Holly and Mimi were gone, and the little place was in shining order. There was nothing for Lee to do but settle herself and wait.

A rueful smile tugged at her mouth when, shortly after one o'clock, she heard a car stop at the gate.

She peeked between the curtains and saw that it was Martin Whitfield's car. She waited, unseen, while he got out and helped bring a great many packages and their suitcases up to the veranda.

She flinched as she heard Mimi's gay, fluting voice saying, "We'd ask you in for a cup of tea, Martie darling, except that there's no telling what mood the old curmudgeon is in. And the house is probably a mess!"

"Thanks just the same," Lee heard Martin say lightly, "but I'm anxious to get out to Oakland and see what's been going on while my back was turned."

Holly and Mimi thanked him sweetly for the trip and assured him again how much they had enjoyed it.

Martin departed, promising Holly he'd give her a call the next time he was back in town.

When he had gone Mimi and Holly turned, picked up some of the packages and came into the hall. Mimi paused to call out, "Cora, we're home."

Lee stepped out of the small sitting room and said with a pretense of cheerful welcome, "Well, hello there. You must have bought out the stores. Let me help you set the loot inside."

Mimi stared at her, openmouthed, and Holly's eyes flashed.

"What are you doing here?" Mimi demanded. "And where's Cora?"

"Oh, Cora's gone away for a little visit," said Lee sweetly.

"Well, thank goodness for that!" said Holly ungraciously. "Now we can have a little peace around here."

"That's funny," said Lee quietly. "That's exactly what Miss Cora said when she was packing."

Mrs. Eastman and Holly exchanged startled glances, and Mrs. Eastman asked frostily, "Where did Cora go?"

"She's visiting a friend," Lee told her.

"Well, I knew she couldn't afford a trip anywhere," snapped Mrs. Eastman. "When will she be back?"

"Why, that's up to you," Lee answered.

"What do you mean?"

"Miss Cora will be back home as soon as you and Holly leave," Lee told her.

Mrs. Eastman's eyes flew wide.

"But Holly and I aren't going anywhere!" she protested.

"I'm afraid you are," Lee told her evenly. "Miss Cora has her choice of two alternatives. Either she can sell this property and move into an apartment; or you can move into an apartment and give her back her home."

The two women stared at her, thunderstruck.

"So you see, while she has two alternatives, you really have none at all," Lee told them. "If the property is sold, you will have to leave. And if it isn't, you will have to leave."

Mrs. Eastman flung up her head, her eyes frosty with anger and her manner extremely haughty.

"This is outrageous," she snapped. "What business is it of yours, I'd like to know?"

"None, except that I'm very fond of Miss Cora and very sorry about the way you are imposing on her," Lee answered swiftly.

"Also, Uncle John is her legal advisor and can have you evicted by due process of law. I thought perhaps you might prefer to hear from me that you have exactly three days to vacate."

"Evict? Vacate? Lee Folsom, how dare you speak to me like that?" Mrs. Eastman said furiously. "Cora wouldn't dare do this to us."

"I know," Lee nodded. "That's why I'm doing it for her."

For a moment the three of them gazed at each other, furious, embattled.

"I simply cannot believe that Cora would do this to her own flesh and blood!" Mrs. Eastman managed at last. "Why, it would create a scandal in the family; and Cora is so wickedly proud of the family name she wouldn't allow that."

"Mrs. Eastman, you and Holly had already created a scandal in the town by moving in on Miss Cora and literally taking her home away from her," Lee pointed out. "I can assure you that the town's sympathies are with Miss Cora. They'll rejoice when you and Holly walk out of here and leave the place to its rightful owner."

"But where will we go?" Mrs. Eastman was touched with panic and unable to conceal it.

"There are apartments available where I'm sure you and Holly can be quite comfortable," Lee began.

"But we haven't any money!" Mrs. Eastman wailed.

Lee eyed the numerous packages, some of them marked with the names of Atlanta's smartest shops.

"Those are very good shops," she said dryly. "I'm sure, if you return the purchases, they'll refund your money and then you'll have funds again."

"Return these?" gasped Holly, outraged. "Don't talk like a fool, Lee. We need these things, every single one of them. The first nice clothes I've had in ages—and you want me to return them? I won't!"

Lee lifted her hands, palms upward, in a shrugging gesture.

"Well, that's up to you, Holly," she said evenly. "But Miss Cora wants her house back, or else she wants me to put it up for sale within three days."

Mrs. Eastman flung a disparaging, scornful glance about the little house.

"Sell this shack? You couldn't get five hundred dollars for it!" she snapped contemptuously.

Lee smiled sweetly. "Oh, yes, I can! It's directly in the path of the new shopping section and will bring an excellent price, enough to take care of Miss Cora for the rest of her days."

"But she's got her pension," Mrs. Eastman pointed out. "She doesn't need any more money. She wouldn't know what to do with it."

"Her annuity is quite sufficient for her, because her needs are modest," Lee pointed out with bitter clarity. "But it will not stretch to cover the extravagance of two women like you and Holly. No, I'm afraid there is no other way. Either you leave so she can come back home—or the place will be sold."

A Better Year For Going To Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was a good year to go to the movies. In recent years a reviewer has had to scrounge to find enough entries for his annual 10 best picture list. In 1961 it was different. At least 20 films had qualities that might warrant a place on the best-list.

The accent was on entertainment. This had commercial advantages—and artistic drawbacks. So while there were a score of films that offered pleasure in the theater, there were few that could cause a critic to whoop it up.

Also, during 1961, there were fewer films for the whole family. But it is refreshing to note that the movies that did eschew sex and savagery were among the biggest moneymakers of the year.

Here are the top 10 as seen by this movie fan:

1. "The Hustler." Downbeat but not depressing, it was studded with fine performances.
2. "West Side Story." Ballet, opera and juvenile delinquency combined, not always successfully, but the young people performed with verve.
3. "Guns of Navarone." A preposterous wartime mission that still held the viewer from start to finish.
4. "Fanny." Josh Logan at his sentimental best, aided by the great old pros, Chevalier and Boyer.
5. "Hoodlum Priest." The sleeper of the year, filmed with a tight sense of reality.
6. "One, Two, Three." Spraying jokes with a machine gun, Billy Wilder managed to make the Berlin situation funny—most of the time.
7. "Majority of One." A good-hearted East-West comedy with Rosalind Russell as the reverse Madame Butterfly.
8. "El Cid." Gorgeously photographed, it offered medieval romance, pure and simple.
9. "Children's Hour." The tale showed its age, but the acting of Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine was right up to date.
10. "Parent Trap." It had faults as a comedy, mainly overlength, but the whole thing was carried along by that winsome twosome, Hayley Mills and Hayley Mills. She played two sisters.

Tourists Decide Stay In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Russian-born American tourists have decided to remain in the Soviet Union rather than return to the United States, Tass reported today.

The two were identified by Tass as Galina Vasko, a woman, and her male companion Danilo Danko.

The Soviet news agency did not list their places of residence in the United States but stated that the woman had lived in America for 22 years.

Crop Production Costs Pretty Well Known

What does it cost per acre or bushel to produce a crop? Thousands of Tar Heel farmers ask themselves questions like that about their enterprises. Many of them know exactly how much their costs are. Others don't. Or they don't know the other farmer's costs—especially the better farmer—on the same enterprise, to compare with their own.

The farmer can do little about the prices he receives for his products. This is determined by the market mechanism. His only opportunity for greater profits lies in reducing his per unit costs of production—by improved technical practices and larger volume of production. His main concern is then increasing the profit margin on each unit he produces.

Guides to North Carolina farm enterprise costs and returns have been prepared by the Department of Agricultural Economics at N.C. State College. Authors are Dr. A. J. Coutu, associate professor, and Fred A. Mangum, Extension farm management specialist.

The guides were made up after months of intensive study of the top 10 per cent of the state's farmers. Coutu and Mangum consulted with a great many experts in all phases of farm management and agricultural economics before finishing the guides.

The major result is the "Farm Management Manual," which furnished data on primary farm products in the state. This is a master guide, for use by agricultural workers in every county. It's not available, because of publication expense, for public distribution. But farmers may use it with the help of their county agents.

Parts from the manual have been made into two booklets which farmer may have on request to the Department of Agricultural Information at the college. One booklet concentrates on crops, the other on livestock. The titles are "Costs and Returns Worksheet for Selected Livestock Enterprises in North Carolina."

"As with any attempt to predict the costs and returns per acre or per unit, no system can be devised to fit every situation," notes W. L. Turner, who heads Extension farm management at the college. "The budget should be looked upon as a guide and, by all means, adjusted to fit the situation at hand."

Space is provided in the booklet for the farmer to record his own costs and returns.

Here are examples of information in the booklets:

FLUE-CURED TOBACCO — net income per acre to the operator's labor and management is $244.05. This figure is based on a yield of 1,800 pounds per acre, a sale price of 58 cents per pound—which makes the gross income per acre $1,044.

Net pay per hour to the operator is $2.38.

COTTON — net income is $64.11 per acre, based on yields of 625 pounds of lint and 1,060 pounds of seed, and a price of 30½ cents per pound. Gross income is $185.09.

Net pay per hour is $4.61.

CORN — Net income is $27.65, based on yield of 70 bushels, a price of $1.20 and a gross of $84.

Net pay per hour is $3.37.

PEANUTS — net income is $148.16, based on 3,000 pounds per acre, a price of ten cents and a gross of $300.

Net pay per hour is $8.14.

The figures are based on full or partial mechanization of the crop, whichever is possible at the present time.

"A key figure for the farm operator to consider is the 'net pay per hour' to himself," the authors point out. "An acre of flue-cured tobacco would pay him $2.38 per hour, while an acre of peanuts would net him $8.14 per hour. "If the farmer finds that these enterprises are paying him much less than this, he may decide to take a hard look at his costs and cut them down to size, or he may rearrange the use of his time."

The figure also may be used to help the farmer decide just what enterprise to undertake to gain the maximum income for the time and ability he has to put into his work.

The Farm Scene

By C. J. GOODMAN

Beef cattle production in Pitt County is on the increase. A good livestock program will include a good pasture. This is especially true in cattle raising.

In many areas of Pitt County, the soil is too light, or too sandy to grow clovers. We find in these areas that a good pasture in July to September is possible when planted in Coastal Bermuda grass.

Coastal Bermuda is rapidly becoming one of the major hay crops in the South. It is similar to common Bermuda but is larger and more vigorous in its growth habits. It does produce a tremendous amount of forage for hay or grazing. It is adapted to sandy, dry soils, and will not spread rapidly from field to field, since it seldom produces live seed.

This grass is resistant to disease and root knot nematode. More of our pastures should be planted to this grass for the following reasons:

1. It is more dependable than any other hay crop in this area.
2. It will furnish more grazing than any other plant during the hot summer months.
3. It uses fertilizer efficiently and produces more hay per dollar invested and is tolerant to dry weather.
4. It contains less water when cut for hay and will cure faster in the field.
5. Leaves of this highly nutritious plant will not fall off if rains fall on the windrows of grass.
6. It is our most dependable pasture grass for sandy soils during the hot summer months.

Coastal Bermuda must be started from sprigs. Certified sprigs are available, and they should be planted in March.

One successful method in establishing a sod of Bermuda is to set the sprigs out in rows. One bushel of Bermuda sod will contain from 1,000 to 1,500 sprigs. You will need four to eight bushels of sprigs per acre.

Rows three and one-half feet apart and sprigged three feet in the row will form a complete cover in one year if it is properly handled.

A tobacco transplanter can be used to set the sprigs. They may be broadcast on the land and disked in the soil with fair to good success.

A soil test should be made to determine the fertilizer needed. A general recommendation is to prepare a good seedbed and add 400 pounds of 0-14-14 per acre in the row, prior to planting. Add 30 to 40 pounds of nitrogen in early May and again in July.

After the sod is established, apply 250 to 500 pounds of 0-10-20 and 50 to 100 pounds of nitrogen in April. An additional 50 to 100 pounds of nitrogen should be added to the Bermuda in July.

During the first year, cultivate the Bermuda once or twice to keep the weeds down. For further information, call your county agricultural agent.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

An ample supply of good vigorous plants available for transplanting early in the season is a very important factor in producing a good tobacco crop. The need for successful growth of seedlings in the plant bed cannot be over-emphasized.

By this time most farmers have already selected a plant bed site and the preparation of the seed bed has started. The small tobacco seed demand a seedbed fixed "just right". Special care at this point pays off handsomely later.

After the soil is broken it should be disked, harrowed and raked until it is well pulverized, smooth and free of clods. The use of a tractor and other heavy equipment should be kept to a minimum to prevent packing of the soil.

It is well to prepare the seedbed so that the center of the bed will be at least eight or 10 inches higher than the edge of the bed. This will help prevent water from standing on the bed. A trench should be cut on all sides of the bed to facilitate better drainage.

Two pounds of 4-9-3 or 14 pounds of 8-10-4 fertilizer applied to each square yard should be used when either methyl bromide or drench treatments have been used for weed and nematode control. Since this is an extremely high rate of application, it is very essential that the fertilizer be thoroughly mixed with the soil.

Nitrogen top dressing is recommended when plants are showing a definite yellow color due to nitrogen deficiency. Three to five pounds of nitrate of soda per 100 square yards is suggested to correct this deficiency. Too much nitrogen top dressing may harm the plants by causing them to be too tender at transplanting time.

A suggested seeding rate of 1-6 to 1-4 ounce per 100 square yards has proved to be satisfactory with many growers. The exact seeding rate should be based on how well the bed is prepared and managed.

A plant bed cover made up with a minimum of 28 x 24 threads per square inch should be used. Better grades of cover have 32 x 28 threads per square inch. The better grade of cover pays off in cold, windy springs. The cover should not be held more than four to six inches

Farmland Value Based On Crop

By TOM WOOD
Flue-cured tobacco land in North Carolina commonly sells for about $4,000 an acre, according to farm economists at N. C. State College.

As most Tar Heels know, the high price is due to the allotment that goes with the land when sold. It wouldn't be tobacco land, in this day of crop controls, without the government allotment curb.

The same thing is true with burley tobacco, cotton and peanuts. Most common sale value per acre of land allotted to these crops is: Burley—$3,000; Cotton—$650; Peanuts—$650.

A prime reason for the high value of these lands is the high net income the better farmers realize from growing the crops. For flue-cured tobacco, it's $2.38 per operator man hour; for burley, $3.84; for cotton, $4.61; for peanuts, $8.14.

The major reason for the big price, of course, is that farmers can't grow flue-cured, burley, cotton or peanuts without an allotment.

The most common sale price of other lands in the state, from studies made by the economists: Choice cropland: $400 an acre. Other cropland: $250. Pasture: $200. Established woodland: $150. Abandoned land: $100. Estimated annual rental rates of the nine types of land are: Flue-cured tobacco: $254; burley—$189.75; cotton—$41.11; peanuts—$41.11. Choice cropland—$24.65; other cropland—$15.40; pasture—$12.33; established woodland—$9.24; abandoned land—$6.16.

above the ground. In 1960 plant beds covered with straw gave good results. Remember that tobacco plants are started from very small seed. The young seedlings are subject to damage from many weather and soil conditions; therefore, your plant beds need to be looked after and managed very carefully.

Greenville Moose Lodge members and their wives and dates—like many welcomed of the New Year—managed a two-night stand Saturday and Sunday.

It wasn't planned exactly the way it turned out. Sunday's program had called for merely an opportunity for "just those who want to" to gather at the lodge for an informal reception for the New Year.

The lodge's annual official New Year's Eve party and dance Saturday night—planned as a climax of the New Year's Eve celebration—was attracted more than 350.

Since New Year's Eve fell on Sunday, the Saturday celebration—complete with a countdown at midnight—was to be the formal welcoming party for 1962. An informal gathering was planned for Sunday for "watch-birds" eager to celebrate the New Year at the authentic hour.

Sunday's affair almost spontaneously turned into a full-fledged New Year's Eve party. Nearly 300 flocked into the Moose auditorium and Twilight Room to keep the vigil until midnight.

Saturday's dance was complete with a band, the Highlighters. The affair had been carefully planned for weeks. But Sunday's crowd—many of them repeaters from the official New Year's Eve party the night before—brought with them a more enthusiastic air of celebration.

When master of ceremonies El Bloom ordered the juke box dance music halted and began the 10-second countdown to the strike of 12, the crowd was poised with jolt-makers and other New Year's paraphernalia.

Then when Bloom shouted, "Happy New Year!" a rousing celebration broke loose that surpassed Saturday's "formal" welcoming of 1962.

Publicly Voices Gratitude For Aid To Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigeria's gratitude to the United States for an offer of $225 million in economic aid was publicly expressed today by Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

The money is to be used for Nigeria's next five-year development program. Total cost of the program has not been disclosed but some estimates put it at over a billion dollars.

"The condition under which this grant is being made is that Nigeria should continue to enjoy social justice and freedom for all. There can be no better evidence of justice and confidence in what we are doing than this. Throughout history the more technologically advanced have always lent a helping hand to the less-developed. The proposed aid is to be given without any condition inimical to the interests of our nation," said Abubakar said.

"We are deeply grateful to the American government and people."

$2 Millions To N.C. Institutions

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation has announced grants totaling nearly $2 million to colleges and hospitals in North Carolina.

The biggest share went to Wake Forest College. It received a regular yearly grant of $300,000, plus $50,000 for equipping a new life sciences building.

Wake Forest College's Bowman Gray School of Medicine received $150,000 to provide eight scholarships for medical students and $20,000 for medical research.

Two grants announced previously were confirmed by the foundation. These include $300,000 to North Carolina State College for a faculty recreation center and $125,000 to the city of Winston-Salem to help build a swimming pool and additional nine-hole golf course at Winston Lake Park.

Other big grants included: $180,000 to Summit School, Winston-Salem for an expansion program; $112,000 to Tanglewood Park, at Clemmons near Winston-Salem, to complete a development program; $100,000 to Bennett College, Greensboro, for an expansion program; $50,000 to Moore Memorial Hospital, Pinehurst, for construction of an orthopedic section; $50,000 to Queens College, Charlotte, toward an endowment to improve faculty salaries; and $42,000 to St. Andrews College, Laurinburg, for a new library.

Officers said the subject of the charge, assault on a female, was a 40-year-old Negro, Clinton Burnett of 509 Boyd Ave.

Burnett was taken into custody by officers after his wife signed a warrant, charging that he assaulted her with his hands and fists, officers reported.

He was released under bond later this morning, officials said.

Burnett's wife was identified as Ella Mae Burnett of the same address.

Investigators said the alleged assault followed a family argument.

Common Market Dangers Noted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The European common market poses a serious threat to American tobacco exports, Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) declared Sunday.

Cooley said U.S. tobacco exports already are feeling the effect of the common market setup and predicted the squeeze would become more serious if the United Kingdom should join it.

This, Cooley added, would permit Great Britain, now the biggest importer of U.S. tobacco to import duty-free tobacco produced in common market countries and it would open up duty-free markets in Western Europe for tobacco produced by British Commonwealth nations.

The common market countries are France, Italy, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—some of which have been among the best customers for U.S. tobacco.

"The stakes are high for the U.S. tobacco growers and exporters even in the original common market countries," Cooley declared. "These six countries took 27 per cent of all U.S. exports of unmanufactured tobacco in 1960."

"The U.S. position in the common market tobacco import picture already has begun to deteriorate as manufacturers there take into account the effect of the tariff structure on their costs," Cooley added. "On the basis of the best data that is available, the United States will have a decreasing share of an increasing market."

Couldn't Resist Detective Outfit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police said they jailed Arthur Drinkwater, 36, Sunday because he couldn't resist using a toy detective outfit he had purchased for his nephew.

Officers said Drinkwater, of Pine Hill, N.J., started flashing the toy badge and identification card and drew out a toy pistol to impress patrons of a taproom. Someone called the real cops.

Specialists See Future Tobacco Prices 'Steady'

RALEIGH (AP)—Specialists at North Carolina State College look for flue-cured and burley tobacco prices to remain steady to slightly higher for the next three to five years.

They say domestic use of flue-cured and burley is expected to increase during the next three to five years, mainly due to the increase in population.

These were some of the conclusions reached by the extension farm management and marketing specialists at State College after studying the outlook for North Carolina's major crops.

They believe that cotton growers are in a good position to increase their income if they will take advantage of improved technology.

Other conclusions reached by the specialists:

Peanut and soybean farmers appear to be heading for an over-production problem.

Wheat and feed grain acreages are falling under the impact of government programs.

Cattle prices are expected to hold relatively stable during the winter months of 1962 and then drop slightly during the spring and summer.

Domestic use of flue-cured and burley tobacco is expected to increase 2 to 3 per cent in 1961-62 as a result of increased cigarette consumption.

The world's oldest national anthem is thought to be the Netherlands' "Wilhelmus van Nassouwe."

FBI Checks Convict's Story Of 'Leave' Granted By Prison

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—A Mississippi convict was incommunicado today as FBI agents checked his story he was given leave from prison, an expensive car and a loaded weapon to recover robbery loot of $500,000.

Kimble Berry, 24, of Greenville, Miss., told his story to Lynn police after coming to Massachusetts to stay with a brother.

He said he was promised a pardon if he would get the loot from a Keiser, Ark., bank safe deposit box. But he said when he went to the bank, with a power of attorney to open the box, he was frightened away when he saw two men apparently armed, in front of the building.

An official of the bank reported that there are no safe deposit boxes in the bank, the only one in the town.

Berry said he was called to the Parchman, Miss., prison office where the proposition was outlined in the presence of a man who identified himself as a Mississippi state official.

Lynn police impounded the car and papers Berry brought to Lynn. They said they were impressed by his story, and that the FBI was investigating it. The FBI offices in Boston and Washington refused comment.

In Greenville, Prison Supt. Fred Jones called Berry's story a lie, though he confirmed that Berry had been a fellow prisoner of Aubrey Botts, who is serving a 59-year sentence for the $500,000 robbery of a Hattiesburg, Miss., construction firm last May 8.

Jones said Berry was released from the prison on a routine 10-day Christmas leave. He said Berry was overdue, and that a bench warrant had been issued for him.

Jones said Botts apparently wanted to get the loot back so he could seek a reduction in his sentence.

Shotgun Blast Kills Sheriff On His Last Day

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP)—Rowan County Sheriff Sam L. Green was to have gone out of office today. A shotgun blast ended his life Sunday.

State police Sgt. Eugene C. Shy said Green, about 58, and a Morehead policeman, Carl P. Johnson, 44, went to a home to serve a warrant charging drunk and disorderly conduct on Orville Perry, 38.

When they arrived they found the door locked. Forcing it, they were met by shotgun fire. Green fell and Johnson, wounded in the hand, shoulder and neck, made it back to the patrol car and radioed for help.

Shy and other officers found Perry behind a woodshed near his home. Perry had a shotgun with him but did not resist, Shy said.

Morehead Police Chief Callis Coyle said the warrant for Perry was sworn out by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Zora Stafford. Perry was alone at the house when Green and Johnson arrived to serve it, the chief said.

Under Kentucky law, sheriffs cannot succeed themselves and Green's term was to end at midnight.

Steel Production Expected To Rise

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel production in the United States during the first half of 1962 should be higher than it was during the first half of 1961, according to Board Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel Corp.

In a year-end statement released Sunday night, Blough forecast the nation's steel industry will turn out 58 to 60 million tons. This would be 30 per cent higher than the production during the first half of 1961.
