President Calls For Tax-Cutting, Tariff-Slashing Powers; Massive Program Laid Before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked for unprecedented tax-cutting and tariff-slashing powers in laying before Congress today a massive legislative program he described as keyed to "fulfill the world's hope by fulfilling our own faith."

schools and for civil rights legislation. Many had developed the notion that the administration would soft-pedal these issues this year.

requests—for creation of a new Cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs, for higher postal rates, for a new farm program. Details on most of these were left for elaboration in later special messages.

"While no nation has ever faced such a challenge, no nation has ever been so ready to seize the burden and glory of freedom," the President said.

The President's theme was an appeal for freer commerce with the rising European Common Market and shared growth with Latin America and the whole free world.

Kennedy proposed "a bold new instrument of American trade policy"—a rewriting of the trade agreements act to let him gradually wipe out some tariffs entirely and reduce others by 50 per cent.

Growth of the European Common Market poses the greatest of all challenges to increasing exports which he said are essential to paying for U.S. commitments abroad.

he would lay down a new five-year trade expansion act to permit gradual elimination of tariffs on items which the United States and Common Market together supply 80 per cent of world trade.

Two Greenville Business Buildings Destroyed In Early Morning Blaze

FIRE ON BITTER COLD NIGHT . . . water freezes on street and hose as fireman fights Edwards Hardware blaze. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage).

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer Greenville firemen, hampered by dense smoke and battling extremely low temperatures, fought a pre-dawn blaze here today which destroyed two local business firms.

Buildings housing C. H. Edwards Hardware and the Pitt Tile Company were victims of the raging fire. They are located in the 900 block of Dickinson Ave.

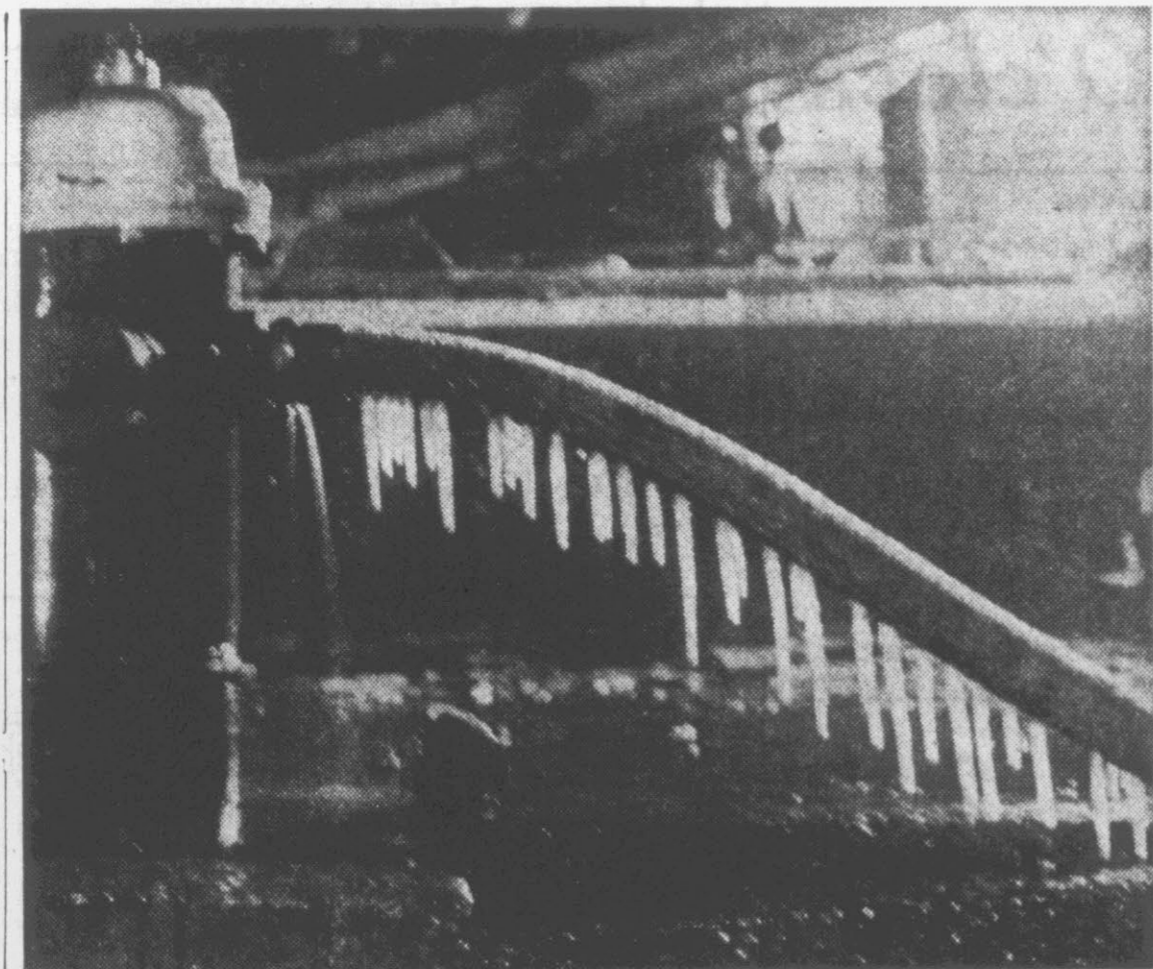

Firemen, fighting to maintain a foothold on the ice-slick pavement, had the blaze under control within an hour after a Greenville Police patrol car discovered the fire at 2:15 a.m., according to Chief George W. Gardner.

The fire department head said firefighters were met by dense smoke when they arrived at the scene of the blaze. Within a short time, the fire had broken through the roof.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started between the ceiling and roof of the hardware store then spread to the tile firm. The blaze was stopped at a fire-wall separating the Pitt Tile Company and the H and M Radio Shop.

The fire was considered "out" at 6 a.m. but weary and cold firefighters remained at the scene until after noon today "killing out" small blazes in the buildings, Chief Gardner noted.

Spray from fire hoses froze to the firemen's clothing as it struck, covering most of the men with sheets of ice. Hoses and nozzles left unattended for short periods also froze, firemen reported. Over 2,100 feet of hose was used to combat the fire.

Four trucks from the city's central station, including the aerial ladder truck and two new 1,000-gallon-per minute pumpers, and 51 firemen were at the scene.

Damage to the Edwards Hardware building and stock, which was considered a complete loss, was set at between $150,000 and $200,000 according to unofficial estimates.

This loss was only partially covered by insurance.

No estimate of damage was given for the Pitt Tile Company building or contents.

Firemen praised two volunteers, Mrs. Edna C. Evans and Mrs. Mavis S. Carrow and members of the Salvation Army who supplied coffee during the fire. Chief Gardner emphasized that "we certainly appreciate their efforts. . . . It helps a lot."

Superbomber Sets New Record In Long Flight

MADRID, Spain (AP)—A new U.S. B52H superbomber roared into the Torrejon airbase near Madrid today after a record-smashing 12,519-mile flight from Okinawa without refueling.

The plane and its eight-man Air Force crew headed by Maj. Clyde T. Evelyn, 39, of Petersburg, Va., broke the old world distance mark of 11,235.6 miles without refueling. It had been held through the first 15 years of the jet age by a propeller-driven U.S. Navy plane named the "Truculent Turtle."

Aviation experts here called the flight a potent example of the new plane's ability to deliver a cargo of nuclear-armed missiles almost anywhere in the world. The huge Boeing superbomber had been in the air 22 hours and

10-Degree Cold For Greenville During Morning

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer It was 10 degrees cold in Greenville early this morning. Though people may have been shivering at this winter's coldest blast, some of the old timers may have recalled Jan. 4, 1918-44 years ago—when Pitt County had its coldest recorded temperature of zero degrees.

Nevertheless, by any standards Greenville experienced a cold night, and there is to be more of the same for a day or two, which may prevent rapid melting of the ice and snow. Sherman Husted of Television Station WNCN recorded about two inches of snow yesterday for Pitt County. The snow, which began early in the morning, continued until about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, then stopped.

There is a slight possibility that more snow flurries may occur on Saturday. The North Carolina weatherman has said an upper air disturbance which will cause increasing cloudiness makes the outlook for Saturday rather uncertain. Some indications prevail to indicate precipitation, either rain or snow, over a portion of the state on Saturday.

Friday's forecast is for increasing cloudiness and not so cold.

The Greenville Utilities Plant recorded today's coldest reading at 10 a.m., when the thermometer struck 10 degrees. Husted's official station registered 11 degrees as the lowest for the day, but temperatures may vary slightly in different locations. For yesterday, the highest temperature occurred at 4 a.m. and was 37 degrees. From that time on, the temperature dropped 10 minutes and had spanned two oceans and the North American continent when Evelyn set it down on the base's 15,000-foot runway, the longest in Western Europe.

Mormons Plan Build Skyscraper

NEW YORK (AP)—The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) has announced plans to build a skyscraper center in midtown Manhattan.

The structure, expected to be between 30 and 40 stories, will be erected between West 57th and 58th Streets just off Fifth Ave. G. Stanley McAllister, president of the New York state diocese, said Wednesday the building will serve as a major administrative base of operation for the two-million-member church.

The Message In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here at a glance are points President Kennedy stressed today in his State of the Union message. The United States must meet the challenge of the European Common Market by lowering tariffs. The economy is healthy but the President should have anti-recession authority to lower taxes and increase public works spending. A department of urban affairs is needed to help cities solve their complex problems. A new comprehensive farm program will be submitted, designed "to prevent chaos with a program of common sense."

Fear Avalanche Kills Thousands

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A giant avalanche of snow and water caused by a thaw roared down on the town of Ranraicha and several ranches in northwestern Peru Wednesday night. Authorities said they feared between 3,000 and 4,000 persons lost their lives.

The avalanche rushed down the Huascaran Mountains, ripping up trees, crushing farm houses and sweeping aside livestock in its destructive path. The village of Ranraicha, about 200 miles northwest of Lima and 30 miles north of the commercial center of Huaraz, was feared to have been wiped out.

The town has a population of about 3,000, and police said about that many persons were missing. One unconfirmed report said a small mountain lake was pushed from its banks, flooding the surrounding area. Meager information from the scene said enormous ice chunks were torn from the side of Mt. Huascaran, a 22,295-foot peak, highest in Peru. The ice melted, and at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday a great mass of ice, snow and water broke loose and rumbled like thunder down the mountain and crashed onto the agricultural community below. It sped to the edge of the Santa River and smashed into Ranraicha. Communication lines were destroyed in the deadly swath, hampering rescue and preventing accurate reports on the extent of the disaster. The first news reaching Lima just after midnight said the avalanche was more than half a mile wide and 12 yards deep. Other reports, received by radio in Key West, Fla., said the slide was spread over a front of more than seven miles. Huaraz, the nearest major town, was the scene of a similar disaster in December 1941, when an avalanche-dammed river broke through its barrier and cost the lives of 4,000 persons. Ice forms in gigantic proportions during the winter in the Andes. Avalanches often occur in the summer when the equatorial sun loosens masses of snow and ice that tumble into deep, narrow canyons, forming temporary lakes. A telephone call from Yungay, a hamlet near the crest of Huascaran, broke the first news of the catastrophe at Ranraicha. Then communications were cut, presumably when lines were broken by the slide.

Rhode Islanders Don't Agree As To Findings

RALEIGH (AP)—Two Rhode Island officials have disagreed with a lawyer from their state, who said he found inhuman conditions in North Carolina prisons. Asst. Atty. Gen. F. T. O'Halloran and State Police Capt. Arthur Newton called on Gov. Terry Sanford Wednesday night, before returning to Providence, R.I.

They took exception to comment by William G. Grande, attorney for two fugitives resisting extradition to North Carolina. Grande said in Providence Wednesday night he is convinced it would mean "living death" for his clients to be returned to prison in North Carolina. "I'm not in agreement with it," O'Halloran said when he was told of Grande's remarks. The assistant attorney general added that for Grande to "allege prison officials sought to show him the showplaces of the prison system is very unfair."

Newton said Grande had made "a gross exaggeration." Sanford said he felt Grande weakened his case by his refusal to visit the Jackson County Prison Camp in Western North Carolina. It was from this camp that John A. Powers, 30, of Nashville, Tenn.; and James Hammond, 35, of Dallas, Tex., escaped Nov. 23. They were arrested a few days later in Rhode Island. Grande sent a telegram to Gov. John A. Notte Jr. Wednesday, asking an opportunity to play for the governor's pardoners serving time in North Carolina. One point checked Wednesday by the Rhode Island officials was the claim that Hammond had been denied a lawyer at his trial in Lexington, early in 1955. O'Halloran said Hammond contended his request for a court-appointed lawyer was denied by Judge F. Donald Phillips in Superior Court. Hammond and Harold J. Sobel were tried for stealing five typewriters from a Lexington school and sentenced to 10 to 20 years. Lexington police and a deputy sheriff said the two men did not have a lawyer at the trial, although Hammond requested one.

Available

The new Civil Defense handbooks released by the federal government are available now at the stamp window of the Greenville Post Office, Postmaster J. Knott Proctor reported.

The public may call for the handbooks during post office hours which are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays, and Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

The books are 48 pages long and contain information on what to know and do about nuclear attack, as well as information on fallout shelters and protection from fallout.

Sam White Club Speaker

The Cosmos Book Club was entertained by Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. at her home Tuesday. Arrangements of flowers suggesting spring were placed throughout the house. After luncheon, Mrs. Rawl introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Sam White III, who gave a talk on the Rescue Squad. Dr. White, a member of the Greenville Rescue Squad, told of the part the squad will play in Civil Defense, helping wherever needed. However, in case of nuclear attack everyone must help himself. Being able to stop severe bleeding and to start one breathing again are most important.

Dr. White told also of the helpful training sessions and lectures which were held at the convention at Roanoke, Va. and of the problems the team was given to carry out.

The president, Mrs. Don Calloway, welcomed the guests, Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr. and Mrs. Herb Paschal.

Following the business meeting, the books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

a buffet supper. The table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and held a fruit arrangement with yellow candles, on the buffet were snapdragons in yellow and white.

A fried chicken supper was served and later fruit cake and stuffed dates passed as dessert.

Club Hears Mrs. Withey

The Chiora Book Club met at the home of Mrs. John Messick Tuesday, January 9. After a dessert plate and coffee were served, the meeting was called to order.

The speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Joseph Withey, told the club of her experiences while in Burma with her husband, a Fulbright scholar, and her children. They stayed in Rangoon, the capital of Burma.

Mrs. Withey explained that Burma is a republic with a union government, having as its president U Win Maung and as its prime minister U Nu. There are numerous tribes in Burma and 11 main language groups. Despite this difference in tribes and in languages, 93 per cent are Buddhists. The most important festivals are the Festival of Lights and the Water Festival.

Even though Burma is the rice bowl of Asia, the people enjoy their gifts without letting them become their master and, therefore, retain their spiritual peace.

Mrs. Withey's talk was further illustrated by showing the club some things she brought back from Burma and by showing film slides.

After a question and answer period, the meeting adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wegwart have returned from Lexington where they made a short visit with Mrs. Wegwart's parents.

John Duncan Club Speaker

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. R. G. Culbertson Tuesday, with Mrs. Robert Hunt co-hostess.

Mrs. W. M. Reading, president, called the meeting to order and welcomed all the members. Mrs. Henry Harrell called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Mrs. Reading turned the meeting over to Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, program chairman, who introduced Mr. John Duncan, the guest speaker. Mr. Duncan gave a talk on "Propagation of Plants." Following Mr. Duncan's talk, a question and answer period concerning plants was conducted.

At the conclusion of the program, committee reports were heard, Mrs. Harry Billica, awards and rating chairman, reminded the members to turn in all Garden Club award work they have done during the year.

April 12 was voted on as the date for the annual Spring Garden Fair. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Robert Hunt gave a talk on "Save The Blue Bird."

or fabric belts—some perhaps a foot wide—and curves up under the bosom to buckle or tie. For a kimono effect, sleeves are seamed below the shoulder, yokes are gathered in back, skirts have front panels.

Two women designers showing the same afternoon, however, decided to let women make up their own minds about silhouette, no matter how ruffled they got.

Anne Klein of Junior Sophisticates did it by bringing in the sheaths, the pincess and the overblouse dress. Semi-fitted front and loose fly-away back gave jackets an easy, yet determined look. Skirts were often pleated or bias-cut.

Jo Copeland's well-bred dresses sometimes showed up with a ruffle from shoulder to hem, or with scarves and stoles. The Pattullo Jo Copeland collection also featured the cutaway shaped jackets fitted in front and loose in back that are cropping up all over the lot this spring.

Thumbs Down On New Debt Limit

Congress, in our opinion, should turn thumbs down on the question of increasing the ceiling on the national debt from the present limit of $298 billion.

In recent years, Congress has been called on repeatedly to increase the legal limit of the national debt in spite of the fact that generally speaking this higher national debt has come about during the most prosperous period in the nation's history. And as the debt ceiling has been increased, the national debt has found a new high level just within the ceiling.

If a new ceiling on the national debt is raised a couple of billion dollars, we may be sure that the debt of the nation will increase to match the new ceiling.

It is time, we believe, that Congress set its mind on reducing the national debt rather than increasing it. If the United States cannot reduce its debt in times of prosperity, how can it expect to live within its means if leaner years come upon us?

In the current session of Congress, we would like to see the representatives undertake a careful consideration of some method of reducing rather than increasing the national deficit. This, of course, would not only mean adopting a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year, but likewise including in that budget funds for retiring some of the principal as well as the interest on the current debt. This idea has been mentioned many times in recent years, and some consideration has been given it by Congress. In most cases, however, the end result has been the expression that so much money is needed for so many other things that we can't afford to live on less borrowed money than we now have. Indeed, we have found it necessary year-by-year to borrow more money with which to operate the federal government.

If, as the President predicted when he took office a year ago, Americans may expect to live in perilous times for a generation or more, there will be no opportune time to begin retiring the debt the nation owes. It would seem therefore, little logic in continuing to put off the matter of beginning to reduce the debt. It probably would be no more "dangerous" to the welfare of the nation to begin reducing the debt in the coming fiscal year than it would be five years, 10 years, or 20 years from now.

Kennedy Name In N.C., Too

By LYNN NISBET

KENNEDY — The name of Kennedy bids fair to occupy about as much attention in North Carolina political news this year as it does in the nation. John Pressley Kennedy, not John Fitzgerald, is the star of the Tarheel show.

After an almost positive statement that he was retiring, for the present at least, from active politics to devote his attention to legal aspects of banking, Mecklenburg's representative John P. Kennedy has decided to get in the running for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the eighth district. Formal announcement is scheduled for around February 1.

There would be news value in announcement that any member of the General Assembly was moving onto the congressional battlefield. The entrance of a Mecklenburger in the eighth district has peculiar news value. In the gerrymandering process by which the 1961 Legislature rearranged the congressional districts Lincoln and Mecklenburg counties were put in a newly formed district with Anson, Lee, Montgomery, Moore, Richmond and Union counties. The effect was to put Rep. Charles Jonas, North Carolina's only Republican congressman, in the same district with Rep. Paul Kitchin. The Democratic majority in the General Assembly was openly honest in confessing the purpose was to get rid of the Republican. They were warned at the time that they were taking a big chance of increasing Republican strength.

Nearly all the talk around Capitol square last spring was about the upcoming race between Jonas and Kitchin in the fall of 1962. There was casual and utterly groundless supposition that both Jonas and Kitchin would seek re-election and that they would face each other in November.

NOT SO SIMPLE — It isn't working quite that way. There is growing doubt that Jonas will seek re-election to congress, although at this stage odds are that he will. Also, at this time odds favor Kitchin to win the Democratic nomination but it would not be smart to bet big money on it. There is possibility of other entrants in the Democratic race and that would tend to split the votes. What Democratic leaders fear is that it would tend also to split the party and that resentments might carry over from the primary into November.

That is why many people in the other counties of the new eighth district and some Democratic leaders in other parts of the state regret the entry of a Mecklenburger in the first primary to be held in the district. The other counties in the district have not been used to one big boy with strength to kick everybody else out of the way and take what he wants.

VOTING HISTORY — In the 1960 general election Mecklenburg county cast more votes for the Democratic candidate for congress than did all six of the counties from the old eighth district now incorporated in the new eighth. Mecklenburg also was the only county in the new district line-up to give the Republican candidate a substantial majority. It did such a good job on that point that Jonas' lead in Mecklenburg was more than 13,000. The other counties came through with Democratic margins sufficient to give a final advantage to the Democrats of about 7,000.

The Democratic counties like to boast about their majorities saving the party ticket. The fact is, however, that last November Mecklenburg county put nearly 600 more Democratic votes in the boxes than did the six counties of Anson, Lee, Montgomery, Moore, Richmond and Union. Without these Democratic votes from Mecklenburg all the others would have been wasted.

PHILOSOPHY — Geography and personality of candidates have some influence on voting, but the main issue is the political philosophy of the candidate. Jonas was first elected in the old 10th district in 1952 because of the trend then toward conservatism. It was almost certain, too, before the election that the national administration would be Republican. As Republican control continued in Washington he was re-elected in 1954, '56, '58 and '60. Now there is a Democratic administration in Washington and a Republican congressman has lost prestige.

And the conservatives in Charlotte, who gave that philosophy as reason for their support of Jonas, have an equally able and conservative candidate in the person of Paul Kitchin. (One newsman wisecracked a few weeks ago that the only difference between Jonas and Kitchin was that Jonas did not have a mustache and had an R after his name, while Kitchin did have a mustache and was designated by a D.)

The conservative appeal in Mecklenburg and the small county against the big sentiment in the rest of the district are the two main factors which at this time appear to give Kitchin an advantage over any challenger in the primary.

Whether that seeming advantage will prove real in the face of the powerhouse of votes in Mecklenburg remains to be seen. The primary also will test the relative influence of geography and political philosophy on popular voting.

There will be other interesting congressional races, but because of the unique situation in the eighth district, the only one with two resident incumbents in congress and the only one with a Republican, this district race is expected to capture main headlines.

Just Enough Snow To Please Its Enthusiasts

Pitt County's first real snow of the winter was one of those snows which was "just right".

There was sufficient snow to please the kids, cover the ground for sledding and provide an abundance of snow men.

At the same time the snow was light enough not to cause any great inconvenience to the normal family routine, the movement of traffic, the continuation of business and school and other routines.

It is true, perhaps, that the kids and snow-lovers were disappointed that once the snow had covered the ground, it didn't continue in Pitt County to build up several inches deep. It is also true that for some people any snow is too much.

By and large, however, Pitt's first real snow of this winter came about as close to suiting everybody as could be expected. For the snow-lovers there is the consolation that at least the ground got covered in white whereas there have been other occasions when snow was predicted and it didn't materialize. For the snow-haters there is the consolation that the snow here didn't get as deep as the forecasters had led us to believe.

Congress To Be More Political

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — What kind of Congress opened Wednesday?

It will be noisy and more political than usual. This is an election year for all House members and one-third of the Senate.

It will be stubborn. Already some of the key figures have come out against some of President Kennedy's ideas for 1962. It will be rather complacent and slow-moving about home problems. With the country prosperous, Congress won't feel pressured by urgency.

Biggest rumpus: Most likely foreign affairs — on foreign aid, help for the United Nations, and various trouble spots.

Numbers can be deceptive. Democrats outnumber the Republicans 258 to 174 in the House and 64 to 36 in the Senate.

Any time enough Democratic conservatives, particularly Southern Democrats, team up with enough conservative Republicans they can block their own administration's programs. And they do.

It will be a conservative year. While there are liberals and reactionaries in both parties, the dominant force in both is conservative.

The members are as varied as America. Some are millionaires, some anything but.

Each member brings to Washington out of his own personal social, cultural and economic background his own set of prejudices, desires, attitudes and inclinations — in addition to trying to reflect the interests of the people who gave him his job and can take it away.

Brains don't always count. Committee chairmen, holding vital positions of power over legislation, are not chosen for brilliance, imagination, flexibility or sensitivity but for seniority.

A member assigned to a committee in time will become chairman — if he can stay around long enough by getting re-elected often enough — by moving up through the deaths or retirements of those ahead of him.

The will of the majority doesn't always prevail. In the Senate on any given issue a minority through a filibuster can keep the majority from voting.

In a very real sense, however, this is not blocking the majority will. Any time enough Senators want to join forces to kill a filibuster, they can do so.

Each senator knows that tomorrow he may be in a filibustering minority on something. Therefore, each is reluctant to throttle a minority.

Some of the speeches are predictable before they begin. There will be speeches against: leftwingers, rightwingers, communists, Democrats (by Republicans), Republicans (by Democrats), creeping socialism, government interference, government controls, too much spending, too much foreign aid, too little foreign aid, cutting tariffs, medical care for the aged, federal aid to education, and Fidel Castro.

Outstanding figure: No one in either House this year is in the same league as a dominant force or rallying point — with some of the big names of the recent past.

There were three such strong personalities in recent sessions: Speaker Sam Rayburn, Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. The first two are dead and Johnson is vice president.

Outlook: Congress will probably get a lot of work done — it usually does — but it isn't apt to be along very new paths. Unless, perhaps, it gives the President unusual tariff-cutting powers.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A TRULY COMMITTED LIFE — Anyone who has ever visited the church in Assisi, where St. Francis labored and lived for God and his fellows many centuries ago, must be impressed by the simplicity and effectiveness of this man's service. He did not have much to give the Lord, but he gave him all he had. And because he did, millions of Christian believers of widely differing church affiliations have been blessing him through the centuries. He is an example of what a simple, honest man can do who gives everything he is and has to God.

"Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace," prayed Francis. "Where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy. It is in Thee that we are born to eternal life."

Astronomers tell us that into the heavens at times swing bodies from outer space, to add to the glory of the starry heavens. Into the milling mass of humanity comes occasionally an individual who by his consecration, love, and devotion to all that is holy and righteous makes the world in which he lives shine with a new splendor and causes succeeding generations to speak of him with reverence and awe.

Such a man was St. Francis of Assisi. He is the saint of every believer. He is brother of every needy man. He is an example of what God can do through a truly committed life.

Worrying Didn't Help

Tuesday evening was a time of apprehension.

The weather forecast was one of probable snow all over the state, which no longer sets the Schlienz imagination aglow.

(Is it the conservatism that accompanies years?)

Pitting chains on the family chariot is no longer an adventurous prospect but (the way I do it) a miserable ordeal.

Driving along a street covered with snow, ice and slush calls for extra care, super-alertness, and if it's more than a light snowfall there is always the possibility of getting stuck blocks from nowhere. Two blocks of such equals five miles of ordinary driving.

Nor is the memory of walking in the snow, with footwear designed for milder conditions, a happy one.

In short, the writer no longer dreams of a white Christmas or a white January 10. Besides, snow is cold stuff.

Tuesday's apprehensions and worries did no good, as anybody who looked out of doors on Wednesday can tell you.

Other Editors Saying... Pioneer In Education

(Henderson Daily Dispatch)

Louisburg College has just completed a four-day program marking the 175th anniversary of its founding in 1787 as a private institution of learning. To have survived one and three-quarters centuries without tax assistance is high tribute to management, and is an evidence that education can be sustained without much of the billions of dollars the over-zealous drum beaters are advocating in these modern times. There has never been a time in this country when young people yearning for an education could not get it.

The Louisburg school has had its ups and downs. There were times when it was threatened with closing and dissolution, but always friends and supporters came to its assistance and prevented such a tragedy. It has been owned and operated by the North Carolina Methodist Conference for many years after transferring from private ownership. Even within the memory of many residents of the area the college was on the verge of suspension. But help from the church and private sources saved it and breathed new life into its activities. Today the college is on a firmer foundation than ever before in its history and with a record enrollment.

Louisburg is a junior college but one of the best. At its present rate of expansion it should develop into a four-year school in the not too distant future. Like so many others in its status, it is greatly needed as part of the educational system of a growing State. The Methodist Conference has done itself credit in taking over the institution and giving it the stimulus that was so much needed to send it on its way to greater service and achievements.

The college through the years has had able and determined leadership. Men of learning and spiritual inspirations have guided its destinies. One of the greatest of these is Dr. Cecil W. Robbins, who is now in his sixth year as president. He has brought to the task devotion, dedication and vision for service, with a rich background of learning and administrative ability.

Prominent leaders in education and public life, as well in the Christian ministry, lent their presence to add dignity, prestige and forcefulness to the anniversary program.

Of the thousands of educational institutions in America today, comparatively few have behind them the long and distinguished history of Louisburg, which stands out as one of the most honored and respected seats of learning, attained in the hard way and all the more deserving because of that.

Henderson and Vance county people share the pride of their sister town and county in recognition of so great a record of achievement by this old college. Many young people of this immediate area attend classes there, and many others have given their sympathy and loyal support through the years of struggle. They rejoice with President Robbins, the Methodist Conference, the trustees and other in the success that was so properly emphasized in the anniversary celebration. It was a most fitting observance and one peculiar to only a few of the educational institutions making so rich a contribution to the cultural life of the region and to the State.

Bitterest Battle Over Tariff

By ELMER ROESSNER

Far the bitterest battle in the reconvened Congress will be over the tariff. It will split blocs, cross party lines. By June, many Congressmen won't be speaking to old friends.

How we got into it: The major cause is the European Common Market. A year ago, this alliance was regarded as a floundering experiment in idealistic economics. While it didn't founder, and still may be floundering, it poses a tremendous and intricate problem for the United States.

What it is: As every kid in '78 knows, the Common Market consists of France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy. Britain is considering joining. Members have agreed that tariffs between each other will be gradually lowered.

What that does to us: That will promote trade between members of the Common Market and it will discourage trade with other nations. For instance, if an Italian company needs a new hydroelectric plant, it can save on tariffs by buying it from Belgium or West Germany, instead of from the United States. So will it be with cheese, textiles, appliances and countless other commodities. So the United States will lose exports.

WHAT WE CAN DO

What does this mean? Cutting off foreign sales will mean loss of sales, an increase in the outflow of gold, and the loss of jobs in manufacturing and export.

What can we do? The best step, one explored by the Administration, is to make a deal with Common Market nations. If they will reduce tariffs on American imports, we will reduce tariffs on their exports to the United States. All will sell and buy.

How can this be arranged? The Administration is asking Congress to allow the President to lower tariffs when necessary to promote trade.

COMPLICATIONS

It's that easy? Not quite. If the U. S. cuts tariffs on goods from Common Market nations, it will have to give the same advantages to Latin American nations and Japan — or lose some of the best friends we ever had. George W. Ball, Under Secretary of State, told Congress that the United States could grant no tariff cuts unless they applied equally to Japan and Latin America.

That complicates matters. Cutting tariffs on Common Market imports would stir up protests from broad segments of American industry and labor. They would complain that competition from Common Market industries, with wage scales under American levels, would ruinous.

Worse difficulties. But if the same advantages were spread to Latin America and Japan, the protests would be multiplied. First, imports from those nations would double the number of industries affected. Second, the even lower wages in Latin America and Japan would intensify the fears, if not the competition itself, of American manufacturers and workers.

Dilemma: Unless the U. S. reduces tariffs on Common Market products, it will lose part of that rich, growing European economy. But if it reduces tariffs on those products, it must reduce tariffs on the same products from other countries. If it does that, it is in danger of being swamped with cheap foreign products. But if it doesn't, it will lose markets for U. S. products in Europe, in Latin America and Japan.

The Consequence: High-tariff lobbyists have massed in Washington. Every Congressman with a single factory in his district is under pressure by constituents to fight the lowering of tariff barriers. Every Congressman with industrial unions in his district is under the same pressure.

Counter pressure: At the same time, every Congressman is under pressure from exporters, and many will be under White House pressure to permit the Administration to handle the tariff.

The outcome: Compromise legislation is likely. The Administration will get some of the powers asked, but they will be hedged with various restrictions to appease labor and those industries fearful of foreign competition.

Press Scare Theme

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Lord Beaverbrook, a Canadian who has become a leading British newspaper publisher, has built circulation by scaring himself and the British people. "The Sunday Express" in London carried a headline, "Must We Always Take Orders from America?" Since the days of Canning, there have been Americans who have asked, "Must we always take orders from Great Britain?" In fact, when Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt maintained a private alliance that eventually rescued Great Britain from the voraciousness of Hitler, there were Americans who wondered whether Churchill was not governing this country.

In the article to which I refer appears the following: "If the Government persists in its present course we shall this year enter the Common Market. What does this mean? It means the end of Empire, the end of the British Commonwealth. We shall cease to be an independent country. We shall become members of a European federation. Our lives, our jobs, our security will depend on decisions taken by others. No doubt we shall prosper. But no longer according to our will."

It is so unfortunate that many Britishers do not realize that the British Empire began to disappear in World War I and that the British people willingly gave up their Empire because it was too expensive to maintain it, too risky to continue to make war to prevent it from falling apart. Also, the writer of the "Sunday Express" article forgets that the British can no longer depend upon Asians and Africans to do their fighting, that they would have to depend upon the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

The British Government is wiser than this chauvinistic newspaper, which says: "From the moment Winston Churchill came to power in 1940 he saw in alliance with America the key first to survival and then to victory. Though he stood up for his own views, in the end he always conformed to American wishes."

The historic fact is that when the United States entered upon World War II, the British Empire was smashed. It was the American factory, the American mine and mill, American dollars which finally did Hitler in. Some Britishers complain that we came in too late; nevertheless we rescued Britain.

There are many in this country who shiver too, but not too many and actually they do not count. When Khrushchev banged his shoe on the United Nations desk, we did not shiver; we laughed, we were not frightened.

It is important at this stage that the United States and Great Britain and all the Western World unite to stand together in the face of what is happening. There are those who believe that the United States cannot afford to abandon Western Europe are mistaken; the United States, at this stage in history, can afford to adopt a position that will give it greater strength by any means possible. This is not a selfish policy; it is a conception of the Western World as a unit, to be held together because the preservation of our civilization depends upon that.

The peril to Great Britain is that Americans will take seriously to sour notes of British writers who do not understand the middle of the Twentieth Century. They do not realize that the era from Elizabeth I to Elizabeth II has run its course and that the Earth has turned on its axis so that the center of power has shifted from the North Atlantic to the South Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

While the British Empire was being built by brave men, it was also being destroyed by the course of events against which no man can stand. When the United States was formed in 1776, the British Empire began to collapse. When the Kuomintang showed the British out of the Concessions in China in 1926-27, it was obvious that Britain's days in Asia were counted.

Sokolsky ... Bomb Hoaxer Halts Jet Flight

The writer in the "Sunday Express" says:
"A truly independent Great Britain could again speak at Washington with firm, decisive voice. The more we take our own line the more anxious the Americans will be to co-operate with us."
The writer errs. The United States can get along without Great Britain but prefers not to. It is possible that we may still have to fight one more war to preserve ourselves. Whichever way we or the British go, it looks as though we shall have to go together.

Bomb Hoaxer Halts Jet Flight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A TWA jet airliner bound non-stop from St. Louis to Los Angeles made an emergency landing here Wednesday because of a bomb hoax.
The threat of an anonymous telephone caller was received at St. Louis and relayed to TWA Flight 69 over Kansas City.
Pilot Seth Strachan jettisoned 15,000 pounds of fuel to bring the Boeing 707 down to its landing weight.
Police and TWA maintenance personnel searched the airliner but found no bomb.
Eight FBI agents interrogated the 92 passengers and the crew of eight. After four hours delay, the airliner took off for Los Angeles.

Pitt Sanitarian Addresses Club

WINTERVILLE — E. L. Kilpatrick, chief sanitarian for the Pitt County Health Department, spoke to the Winterville Kiwanis Club Thursday about services of the health department.
He emphasized the fact that a large percentage of the people have no idea of what the health department does or what services are available. In citing statistics, Kilpatrick stated that there is an excellent rabies program in Pitt County. This record is not due to luck, Kilpatrick said, but to an excellent program.
He also discussed the milk program, number of immunizations and the importance of chest X-rays at least once a year from a private physician.
He noted that the health department belongs to the people, and it is hoped they will support and publicize it.
Norman Worthington is president of the Kiwanis Club.

Rings Will Stay In Foundation

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Helen Martin mixed the concrete as her husband, Tom, laid the foundation blocks for a two-room addition to their home.
The next day, Mrs. Martin missed her diamond engagement and wedding rings valued at $350. Then, she remembered.
The last time she saw the bands was on an unfinished block where she had put them while helping her husband.
Asked if he intended tearing into the foundation in search of the rings, Martin said: "The wall cost more than the rings."

Leaf Surplus Plan Is Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina's representatives in Congress have presented Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman a plan to dispose of a part of the 120-million-pound tobacco surplus.
Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., said it would permit a five per cent increase in this year's tobacco allotment acreage.
Cooley added he is urging Freeman to withdraw an order doing away with the sales memorandum on tobacco. The secretary gave the order last week, saying it would cut red tape in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service.
The North Carolina State Grange, Farm Bureau and Warehousemen's Association are opposed to the order, Cooley said, adding that if Freeman doesn't withdraw it, he'll hold hearings on the matter before the House Agriculture Committee. Cooley is chairman of the committee.
The memorandums were designed to make it unprofitable for a farmer to overplant his allotment.
On the surplus matter, Cooley, speaking for North Carolina's entire congressional delegation, said the Department of Agriculture which have attracted national interest, the program is expected to draw a large audience from the college, Greenville, and other localities in the state. The meeting will be open to the public and will take place at 8:15 p.m. in the Austin Auditorium.

The program is the second in a series of lectures made possible at East Carolina during the 1961-1962 term by grants from the Sperry and Hutchinson Company of New York and the Student Government Association at the college.

Buckley, editor of "National Review" and a noted conservative, first provoked public attention in 1951 by his best-selling book, "God and Man at Yale." In it he raised the searching question, "What are today's students being taught? The book was probably the most widely reviewed book of the year.

The same was true of his second best-seller, "McCarthy and His Enemies," which he co-authored with L. Brent Bozell. "McCarthy and His Enemies" was a scholarly examination of loyalty and security practices in Washington, and the controversy over Senator McCarthy that rocked the nation.

As editor of "National Review," he has led a team of the greatest conservative writers in America, including Whittaker Chambers, John Chamberlain, Max Eastman, John Dos Passos, Frank Meyer, and Brent Bozell. The magazine has sought to revitalize the conservative faith.

Asheville Closes Burley Market

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Asheville closed its burley tobacco market Wednesday after entering two new records in the books.

Sales Supervisor Alton Boswell reported the average price for the season was $66.75 per 100 pounds. The old record, set last year, was $65.40 per hundredweight.

The other new record was in total money paid out to farmers—$7,572,752.54.

SBI Delays Report On Highway Sign Problem

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation, hampered by snowy weather, may wait until Friday to report on its probe highway sign purchasing.

Meanwhile, Gov. Sanford was expected to hear questions on the investigation at his weekly news conference this afternoon.

SBI Chief Walter Anderson, who had said he might have something to release today, said Wednesday work of his agents had been slowed by the snow storms and cold wave. "It may be Friday now before we'll be able to release something," he said.

Sanford has fired Robert A. Burch, veteran traffic engineer for the State Highway Commission, on the ground he was too closely associated with Kidd Brewer, Raleigh businessman who has connections with companies selling highway signs to the state.

In a statement released through his attorney Wednesday, Burch said he does not feel "I have done anything wrong or unlawful."

In his work concerning specifications for sign contracts, Burch added, "no specifications or plans were ever made to favor any company or to the prejudice of any company."

Thus far, there has been no comment from Brewer.

Sanford said, in dismissing Burch, that sign companies dealing with the state paid about $80,000 to Brewer's company, Interstate Services Inc., organized in 1958. In turn, said the governor, about $40,000 was turned over to Burch's son, Bobby, a student at Duke University.

Burch did not mention his son in the statement.

Eight-Week Series Of Art Classes Is Begun

This week an eight-week series of art classes at the Greenville Art Center opened.

Classes are scheduled as follows: drawing on Wednesday, 8-9 p.m., Nelson Dudley as instructor; drawing on Thursday, 10-11 a.m., Marilyn Gordley as instructor; painting on Thursday, 1:15-3:15 p.m., Marilyn Gordley as instructor; painting on Thursday, 8-10 p.m., Sarah Speight as instructor.

Art for children will be available Saturdays at 10 a.m. All classes are to begin this week.

The center is interested in hobby collections suitable for display in an inclosed case. Those who have such items are asked to contact Mrs. Bernard Jackson, director of the center.

Membership dues and donors' gifts are necessary to support the activities of the center. Mrs. Jackson pointed out, individuals and organizations who wish to participate in this way may contact Mrs. Jackson at the center. All gifts and membership dues are tax deductible.

Currently showing at the center are paintings by Effie Raye Bateman of Beihaven; ceramics by Forrest Matheson; decorative antiques from Woodside Antique Shop; and Jugtown Pottery from the Greenville Art Center's permanent collection, a gift of Mrs. Lindsey Savage.

Firemen Ass'n Meet Postponed

Reflecting On SPORTS

By George Bryant

Pirate Cagers

Coach Earl Smith has described his East Carolina basketball team's victory over Carolinas Conference foe Elon last Saturday night as a "overall team victory". The Pirate Coach attributed the win to Co-Captain Charlie Lewis' shooting and to the fact that Bill Otte outplayed Dewey Andrews on the boards in the rebound department. Other factors were Benny Bowes' good job of holding Jesse Branson to six points, Lucy West's good job under the boards, Richie Williams sparked the team during the first half and Billy Brogden sparked the team during the second half. All of these factors played an important part in the victory for East Carolina. The defeat was the first conference loss of the season for Elon and knocked them out of first place in the conference standings this week.

However, Coach Smith is still not over-confident, even though the team has managed to defeat several of the toughest clubs on its schedule. Earlier in the season, the Bucs downed top ranked Lenoir Rhyne, the defending conference champion. The Pirate coach says that his club is still not a solid team and that it will have some ups and downs. However, Smith stated, "We have proven that we can beat the better teams." The coach also noted that barring injuries the team should be tough later in the season on the final stretch.

The Pirate coach mentioned that the success his team has had so far this season is not all him or the boys. "Assistant Coach Wendell Carr had done an outstanding job of scouting this year," Smith said.

The next outing for the Pirates will be Saturday when they begin a three-day stay in Western North Carolina to meet Lenoir Rhyne for the second time and also take on Western Carolina. "This is the toughest jaunt we take all year," Coach Smith says. "When you make this trip and come back with even one win you have accomplished something," he noted.

Lenoir Rhyne is a different team on their home court and they could give the Pirates more trouble this time than when they came to Greenville. Western Carolina is also a tough team and according to Coach Smith, last year was the first time East Carolina had downed them since 1938 in basketball.

Don't Tread On Me

We got this bit of information in the mail the other day:

Horace A. Cahoon, wildlife protector in Perquimans County, can play end on anybody's football team. He is 6-foot 4-inches and tops the scales at better than 200 pounds.

During the holidays Cahoon apprehended a couple of college students shooting ducks after hours and proceeded to lecture them on the evils of breaking the law. One of the students gave Cahoon considerable lip, then asked, "Is this against the law?" Whereupon he fired his shotgun, once on either side of Cahoon's feet.

The self defense Judo training wildlife protectors get at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill paid off. About half a second after the shots the student was lying flat on his back with all 200-plus pounds of Cahoon sitting on top of him and holding the shotgun.

"Please get up, mister," said the student meekly, "you're too big for me."

NCAA Expected To Further Open Break Between Colleges And AAU

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The powerful council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is expected to open further the break between the colleges and the Amateur Athletic Union today by approving programs for creation of new federations for U.S. track and field and gymnastics.

South Ayden Tops Robinson

The South Ayden boys defeated the Robinson Union boys 64-26 Tuesday night with W. Kilpatrick making 15 points as high scorer for the winners.

Seattle Tyson was the high scorer for Robinson Union with eight points.

In the girls game the outcome was reversed with the Robinson Union girls winning the South Ayden team 19-11.

Lillie Robbin topped the scoring column for the winners with 0 points. D. Williams was the high scorer for South Ayden with five points.

the two sports by the NCAA's executive committee.

In its endorsement at Wednesday's third session of the NCAA convention, the executive committee—NCAA Executive Director Walters Byers reported — felt "these new federations will greatly advance and improve these sports in the United States in all of their phases."

The executive committee acted on recommendations submitted by the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association, the National Association of Gymnastics Coaches and a special committee on AAU-Olympic relations headed by Wilbur Johns, athletic director at UCLA.

The council, policy-making arm of the NCAA, last August approved creation of a U.S. federation in basketball.

All three are steps in the power struggle that has been raging for more than a year between the colleges and the AAU over control of U.S. amateur sports, particularly as they relate to foreign competition including the Olympics.

So serious has the break become that President Kennedy has expressed concern over the situation and the NCAA has asked a delay until the first of next month of possible federal intervention. No structure of the proposed track and gymnastics federations was announced, but the AAU would have representation on both.

"We have proposed equal representation for the AAU with the colleges, high schools, YMCA, and armed forces in basketball," Byers said, indicating the same lines of thought would be followed in track and in gymnastics.

The colleges claim the AAU, which controls the delegation of international groups in the sports and others, dictates policy in regard to international competition in the formation of teams, selection of coaching staffs and related matters. The colleges want more say because they furnish the bulk of the athletes in most sports.

The new step in the NCAA-AAU squabble climaxed a busy day that also included four more recommendations by the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association, two decisions by the council on reviews of infractions, and nine recommendations from an AFCA committee on football injuries and fatalities.

The council ended the one-year probationary status of the University of Arizona, which had been slapped for football recruiting violations, but refused to lessen the four-year penalty on all sports handed to Indiana in April of 1960.

Wake Forest Downs UNC 91-72 Taking ACC Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest, a favorite among pre-season prognosticators, showed it was quite a team after all Wednesday night by taking the Atlantic Coast Conference lead away from the Tar Heels of North Carolina.

Swim Meet And Clinic At EC

East Carolina College will hold its third annual Joyner Memorial Library competitive swimming clinic at the college this Saturday.

In addition to the clinic, there will also be the seventh annual Invitational High School Swimming and Diving Championships sanctioned by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations for North Carolina and Virginia.

The preliminary rounds of the swimming meet will be conducted Saturday morning at 9 o'clock with the finals beginning that night at 8 o'clock.

The clinic will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday with an introduction by Dr. Ray Martinez, coach of swimming at the college.

The program consists of discussions on physiologic basis of strength, recent research in competitive swimming conducted at East Carolina, some thoughts concerning motivation, the fundamental principles of motivation and the laws of motion applied to swimming.

Entries which have come in for the swimming meet are from defending champion Myers Park of Charlotte, Page High of Greensboro, Needham Broughton High of Raleigh, Millbrook High of Raleigh and Rose High.

Phant Swimmers Have Meet Fri.

The Rose High School swimming team will have a meet Friday night at 7 o'clock in the East Carolina pool with Myers Park High School of Charlotte.

This is the first meet of the season for the local team. However, Myers Park has already had several meets and last week they downed Needham Broughton of Raleigh, 70-25.

Rose High Coach Reggie Edgerton has announced that the following boys will be in the meet Friday. However, Edgerton was unable to give a complete lineup.

Billy Brown will swim the 200 and 400 yard freestyle, Russ Bartlett the 100 yard butterfly, Jehu Taff the 50 and 100 yard freestyle, Don Pierce the 100 yard backstroke and the 200 yard individual medley, Chuck Bissetts the 100 yard breaststroke, Mac Davis the 100 yard breaststroke, David Carley the 100 yard butterfly, and Buddy Waters the 100 and the 50 yard freestyle.

Jehu Taff is the captain of this year's Rose High team.

Sparked by the 30-point performance of 6-8 Len Chappell, the Demon Deacons showed their fire in the second half and at one time held a 23-point lead before winning 91-72.

Wake Forest, ranked third in the nation in a pre-season poll, fell from the ranks of glory when the going got rough. The Deacons now have a 6-4 overall record with four wins and one loss in the conference.

North Carolina has a 3-2 record with two victories and one loss in the conference to tie Duke for second place.

In other games Wednesday night, South Carolina defeated Furman of the Southern Conference 93-84. The Gamecocks are now 2-2 in the conference and 9-5 overall.

South Carolina was outplayed under the boards, but its scoring, led by Art Whisnant with 27 points turned the tide.

George Washington Gorham, 36-year-old Negro of 603 Clark St., was charged with failure to keep a proper lookout while backing yesterday following a collision on Clark St. near the intersection of Dickinson Ave. about 11:45 a.m.

Police officers who investigated the mishap identified the driver of the second car as Henry Wade Cayton, 25 of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage to the Cayton auto was set at $150. Officers said no damage was done to the Gorham car.

Ayden PTA To Meet Tonight

AYDEN—The Ayden Parent-Teacher Association will meet tonight in the high school auditorium, with Dr. Philip Nelson, psychiatrist with the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic, leading the discussion.

The subject of discussion is to be "Preparation of Our Children for a Changing World." Mrs. M. P. Bailey, recently elected executive secretary of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, will also be present.

She will arrange a display of materials, including pamphlets concerning mental health, which those interested may order.

COATED LAMP—Familiar objects such as this yard lamp take on new shapes under the soft fall of snow flakes. It was a cold—and slippery—Greenville today with the lowest temperatures of the winter recorded.

WHITE SHRUBBERY—Evergreens become white as falling snow carefully coats each leaf. The snow began before morning yesterday and continued until around noon. Today Pitt County was wrapped up in a frigid white blanket which was expected to remain for awhile as temperatures remained well below freezing. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage).

SNOWFALL—A pile of wood becomes white under the snow which fell on Pitt County yesterday. An estimated two inches blanketed this area followed by a general cold wave which sent temperatures down to 10 degrees last night.

CHAPTER 28

When Lee Folsom reached the office on Friday morning, John Purvis was there. She greeted him with affection and delight.

"You've missed quite a bit of action, Uncle John," she told him when she had run through the business affairs that he needed to be filled in on.

"Tell me about it," suggested Uncle John, his freshly barbed face pink and shining, his eyes twinkling with affection.

"Well, to begin with, I evicted Holly and Mimi Eastman from Miss Cora's cottage," said Lee cheerfully.

"Good girl! That must have been fun!"

Lee laughed ruefully.

"Well, I don't know that you could call it fun, exactly," she confessed. "I felt like a worm, a very spiteful and nasty one; but poor Miss Cora—" She went on with a full account of what had happened.

Uncle John's bushy brows went up in surprise when she related how Martin had paid for a year's lease on an apartment for Holly and Mimi.

And because it was all a part of the story that he should learn from her, rather than secondhand through gossip as he inevitably would, she told how Holly had tried to maneuver Martin into announcing their engagement.

The only thing she did not tell him about was the unpleasant scene with Martin when he had come in to lease the apartment.

When she had finished, Uncle John studied her thoughtfully.

"So what happens now?" he wondered aloud.

"Oh, Martin's fiancée is arriving tomorrow, and I imagine the next thing that will happen is their marriage," Lee tried to sound very casual.

"And what about you and Kermit?"

She lifted her hand in a little gesture of dismissal.

"Oh, that!" she said, determinedly nonchalant. "We've agreed to disagree—permanently."

"I see," said Uncle John, his tone gentle and his eyes compassionate. "Should I say I'm sorry?"

"I'm not! Frankly, Uncle John, I'm enormously relieved," she answered with such utter sincerity that Uncle John nodded understandingly.

"So now you know once and for all that you are not in love with him," he sighed as though he found that good to hear.

"And never was!" Lee said firmly. "But if it hadn't been for you, Uncle John, I might never have realized it."

Uncle John shook his head.

"I think you would, but whether or not it would have dawned on you in time is the question," he pointed out gravely. "I was very much afraid you'd let him persuade you to give up your work. I knew you'd never be happy living the way he wanted you to unless you were deeply and sincerely in love with him, with an 'all for love, and the world well lost' kind of love."

"Is there any other kind?" asked Lee quietly.

Uncle John studied her with a sudden sharpness.

"Oh, you've discovered that, too, have you?" he asked.

Lee nodded and stood up. "Well, now that I've given you a run-down on what happened while you were away, I've got to get to work."

She went back to her desk, and Polly Wickett looked up from her typewriter.

"Feel like a bit of gossip?" she asked cheerfully.

Lee grinned at her and held up three fingers, turning one down with each question. "First, is it true? Second, is it kind? Third, is it necessary?"

Polly's pert, pliant face darkened with a scowl.

"Now I ask you, how much gossip could get itself told if it had to pass those three tests?" she demanded. "The answer to the first is, yes, it's true. But whether it is kind or necessary is for you to judge. I just wanted to tell you your boy friend was out on the town last night with a dazzling female!"

"You mean my ex-boy friend, of course, and the dazzling female wouldn't be any chance by a certain Miss Eastman?" mocked Lee. Polly's scowl deepened.

"Oh, somebody told you," she accused Lee.

"Nobody did," Lee answered. "Just put two and two together and came up with Kermit and Holly. And frankly, Pollykins, I couldn't care less. And that, so help me, is the unqualified truth."

Polly stared at her, round-eyed.

"Well, forevermore!" she breathed. "I honestly believe you mean that!"

"I couldn't mean it more!"

"You mean you and Kermit have really called it quits?"

"Really and truly!"

Polly nodded thoughtfully, still eyeing Lee curiously.

"Well, I admit I've heard rumors that dreamboat Whitfield has muscled in on Kermit's territory with you," she began.

Lee froze, her gaiety vanishing.

"That's about enough of that, Polly," she said crisply. "Mr. Whitfield had nothing whatever to do with my breakup with Kermit. It was entirely between Kermit and me, and no outsider had anything whatever to do with it. And when you are retelling gossip, you might pass the word along."

"Well, golly, sure, Lee," said Polly, very subdued. "If that's the way you want it."

"That's the way it is, Polly, so naturally, that's the way I'd like the rumors to run," Lee answered evenly. "For Kermit's sake as well as my own. Understand?"

And Polly, unaccustomed to such firmness from Lee, said sulkily, "Well, you bet," and returned to her typing.

Lee was cleaning her apartment Saturday morning when the telephone rang and she answered it, to hear Martin say gaily, "Oh, hello. I tried the office, but there was no answer. Look, Hilda is here, and I want very much for you to meet her. How about me running in to fetch you, and we'll have a picnic lunch out here?"

Lee steadied her voice and answered, "Oh, that would be fine. I'd love to meet her. I've been looking forward to it!"

"Well, I'll run right in!"

"Oh, give me time to wash my face and comb my hair! This is housecleaning day," she protested, laughing. "Come in about an hour."

"Well, if it must be an hour, I'll see you then at eleven-thirty," Martin said, and the telephone clicked.

Swiftly she searched the contents of her wardrobe, debating what to wear; and then her heart fell. What difference would it make whether she looked her best or not? Hilda was sure to be pretty special.

At last—Lee is going to meet Martin's Hilda. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Billy Graham Film To Be Shown

Billy Graham's 17,000 mile "Safari for Souls" across Africa, is the theme of a new feature length motion picture, "Africa on the Bridge," which will be shown in Greenville on Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Baptist Church.

Photographed in authentic sound and natural color in 17 principal cities across Africa from Monrovia, Liberia to Cairo, Egypt, the document captures the spirit of Africa during these crucial years. Africa is depicted to be in a transition period—on a bridge—between ancient tribalism and the goal of independence. During this period, American Evangelist Billy Graham was accorded an unprecedented welcome by Africans.

Climaxing the story is a tribute to the missionaries, whose years of labors were responsible for the spiritual harvest experienced by the Evangelist.

Jorgensen To Serve Workshop

Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of the Department of Health Physical Education at East Carolina College, has accepted an invitation to serve as a discussion leader at a national workshop for directors of athletics in Louisville, Ky., March 22 and 23.

The meeting is sponsored by the Joint Committee on Physical Education, representing the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation; the College Physical Education Association; and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

New Series of Pitt Red Cross Classes Slated

New classes in "Care of the Sick and Injured" are being scheduled throughout Pitt County by the Pitt County chapter of the American Red Cross, in conjunction with Civil Defense preparedness in Pitt, Home Nursing Chairman Phyllis Martin announced.

Already a course on "Care of the Sick and Injured" has been organized this week in Grifton, with Mrs. Sylvia Waters as instructor. John Taylor and Miss Bettie Carney will begin a course at Robinson Union High School in Winterville today.

Other courses scheduled to begin soon include several on Tuesday, Jan. 16, with Mrs. Marian Bartlett and Mrs. Ray Martinez as instructors of one; Mrs. Doris Skinner, instructor of another;

Flee Homes As Gas Leaked Out

RISCO, Mo. (AP) — About 500 residents of this southeastern Missouri village fled their homes Wednesday when propane gas began leaking from a 12,000-gallon tank at Risco High School.

About 1,200 students at the school joined the exodus in zero weather.

The townspeople were to return today but the school will remain closed until Friday. The tank can't be repaired until all the gas has escaped.

Most of Risco's residents took shelter in Malden and other nearby towns.

Leo Hawkins, supervisor of the Missouri Liquid Petroleum Co., recommended the evacuation. A north wind blew the gas away from Risco but officials feared a shift in wind direction would send the gas billowing down upon the village.

Russian-Cuban Trade To Grow

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban-Soviet trade for 1962 will total $700 million under an agreement signed Tuesday, foreign ministry sources said Wednesday night.

The sources said the figure represents a $150 million increase over last year's trade between Moscow and the Fidel Castro regime.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market milled irregularly in rela-tively quiet trading early this after-noon. Ford steadied.

The Associated Press averaged 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 255.00 with industrials off .10, rails off .20 and utilities unchanged. Gains and losses of key stocks were mostly fractional. A scatter-ing of stocks moved a point or so either way.

Ford held a fractional gain after recouping a point or so of Wednes-day's 4-point decline.

Brunswick dropped 2%. Its rival in the bowling equip-ment field, American Machine & Foundry, held a fractional gain. Losses of around a point were taken by Lorillard and American Tobacco. Ahead of a point or so were Liggett & Myers, U. S. Gypsum and Eastman Kodak. General Motors lost nearly a point.

St. Regis Paper was fractionally lower following a report that it had lost more than a million dol-lars through credit operations by top officers of a Brazilian sub-sidiary.

The Dow Jones industrial aver-age at noon was unchanged at 706.02.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate and U. S. government bonds were mixed.

Cold Blankets Most Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harsh cold covered almost the entire nation today.

It blanketed the entire country, except the peninsula of Florida and a strip along the Pacific Coast, with freezing temperatures. The mercury shrank below the zero level in at least 17 states.

Snow fell in Pensacola in north-western Florida. Mobile, Ala., close to the Gulf of Mexico, felt the pinch of a above zero—the lowest for January there in records that cover 90 years.

But the worst was over in sec-tions that had been hit hardest. A rising trend began in the West and Midwest and little snow was reported.

Cold and snow that began to spread across the country last week was a factor in more than 100 deaths.

A late tally showed a total of 116. Included were 17 attributed to exposure, 66 in heart attacks suf-fered while shoveling snow or shoving automobiles and 33 in mo-tor vehicle accidents on snowy or icy roads.

It still was frigid even in areas where moderation had begun.

Some sample temperatures ear-ly in the day: Laramie, Wyo., -39. Pueblo, Colo., -25. Milwau-kee -12. Des Moines, Iowa, and London, Ky., -11. Chicago -10. Minneapolis-St. Paul and Blue-field, Va., -9. Amarillo, Tex., -8. Albuquerque, N.M., -6. Denver -5. El Paso, Tex., -4. Pitts-burgh 0.

The mercury dove to 8 below zero in western Pennsylvania and to 10 below at Big Savage Moun-tain near Frostburg, Md.

Downtown Louisville, Ky., had a light coating of ice crystals caused by condensation of moisture in the air. Temperatures of zero or below were general in Kentucky during the night.

Last Rites Held For Velvin Ray Dennis

GRIFTON—Mr. Velvin Ray Dennis, 34, died Tuesday night at 11 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted at the Riverside Christian Church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 by the pastor, Rev. James Hemby, assisted by the Rev. Ellis Bedsworth, Methodist minister of LaGrange. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Members of the Cherry Point Lodge No. 688, A.F.&A.M., had charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Dennis was a native of Craven County and he attended school in Winterville and Grifton and was graduated from Grifton High School in 1945. He had been employed at the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point for the past 12 years and was living in New Bern.

Mr. Dennis was a member of Cherry Point Lodge No. 688, A.F.&A.M., at Havelock. He was an active member of the Naval Reserve Training Unit at Norfolk, Va.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Annie Ruth Dennis; four daugh-ters, Dianne, Teresa, Ronda and Wanda Dennis, all of the home; his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Arnold of near Grifton; three brothers, Cpl. Bobby Arnold of the U. S. Army, now stationed at Anchorage, Alaska, Billy Arnold of near Grif-ton, and Earl Arnold of Ayden.

Wachovia Report

Record high resources, deposits, capital funds, loans and earnings were reported Monday for Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

Resources on December 29 were $906,440,293 compared with $808,205,634 a year ago, R. W. Howard, Senior Vice President, said.

Deposits at the end of 1961 were $774,789,834 compared with $680,826,724 in 1960 to maintain the bank's ranking as largest in the Southeast.

Capital accounts totaled $58,575,611 against $52,320,900 last year. Loans increased to $470,729,166 from $381,917,894.

Operating earnings before taxes totaled $13,149,492, or $3.16 per share, compared with $12,418,869, or $3.13 per share, for 1960. Net operating earnings after taxes were $6,675,363, or $1.60 per share, compared with $6,273,301, or $1.58 per share.

It was Wachovia's best year of growth in correspondent bank and savings deposits as well as in total deposits, resources and trust assets. Deposit of banks at the year end were $144,122,247 against $122,312,735, and savings increased 35 per cent during the year to $108,292,770.

Trust assets increased by $300 million to $1,235,000,000 to make Wachovia the first billion dol-lar trust institution in the South.

Whichard Joins State Bank W. Kenneth Whichard Sr. will join State Bank and Trust Co. Feb. 15 as manager of its Circle Office at West End Circle.

Whichard recently completed duties as special Social Security representative for Pitt County. He recommended that the job be terminated when it was announced that a district Social Security office would be estab-lished here.

Whichard is a retired U. S. Army lieutenant colonel having entered the army in 1927. He served in various enlisted and commissioned grades retiring Oct. 31, 1955. In addition to United States assignments he served overseas in Hawaii, Pan-ama, China and Japan.

Following retirement he was hired by the Pitt County com-missioners to conduct a public service program of information education and assistance on So-cial Security.

Whichard is a member of the Mason, Lion and American Legion member. He is presently serving as chairman of the Pitt Red Cross Blood program.

He is married to the former Edna Louis Short and they have two sons, Willis Kenneth Jr., a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force and Robert Staun-ton, a sophomore at N. C. State College.

Candidate For Naval Academy

Charles William Hargett Jr., grandson of Mrs. Lela Bell Hoell of Grimesland, has been appoint-ed primary candidate to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., for the Third Congressional district, it was announced by Rep. David N. Henderson re-cently.

Hargett, active in athletics at his hometown of Jacksonville, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hargett Sr. He spent last summer with Mrs. Hoell in Grimesland and attended East Carolina College.

Presently a freshman at Wake Forest College, Hargett is sched-uled to undergo physical examination in the spring together with other nominees. He may also take a series of written examinations, though his scores on College Board examinations were high enough to qualify him for acceptance.

At Jacksonville High School prior to his graduation, Hargett won letters for football, basket-ball, baseball and track. He also played American Legion base-ball. He is now a member of the Wake Forest freshman basketball squad and has seen court action against Duke and Oak Ridge Col-lege.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congo Parliament scheduled debate Friday on left-ist Deputy Premier Antoine Glezenga's refusal to return to Leopoldville to answer charges of seces-sion.

Members of Parliament were far from pleased with Glezenga's rejection of the lawmakers' de-mand that he quit his headquar-ters in Stanleyville, capital of Oriental Province 775 miles north-east of Leopoldville. Observers predicted a motion to censure the former favorite of the Soviet bloc would be introduced.

Parliament's approval of a cen-sure motion presumably would be followed by his dismissal from Premier Cyrille Adoula's govern-ment. There were some predic-tions his arrest might be ordered, but an arrest order would be difficult to carry out as long as he remains in Stanleyville.

The new State of Malta con-sists of the main island, 94.9 square miles, plus the lesser known islands of Gozo and Com-ino, and two uninhabited rocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Case were return-ing to Greenville from their honeymoon at the time of the accident. They were married here Saturday.

The vehicle in which the Case couple was riding was described by Tayloe as a total loss.

Eride Injured In Highway Wreck; Groom Charged

Mrs. Hilda Gray Case, 20-year-old Greenville newlywed, suffered a broken collar bone and a dislocated shoulder in Wednesday's car-tanker traffic accident at Bruce, according to investigating officer R. E. Tayloe of the State Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Case's husband, 21-year-old Larry Joseph Case, emerged unharmed from the collision, but was charged with operating a motor vehicle on the wrong side of the road, Tayloe said.

Donald Wiggs of Wilmington, the driver of the oil tanker, was not injured, the trooper noted.

The accident occurred about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at Bruce on NC Highway 43 west of Green-ville.

Mr. and Mrs. Case were return-ing to Greenville from their honeymoon at the time of the accident. They were married here Saturday.

The vehicle in which the Case couple was riding was described by Tayloe as a total loss.

An Announcement of INTEREST To Savers and Investors....

We call your attention to the advantages of saving with The Planters National Bank and Trust Company . . . now, more than ever!

*Since January 1, 1962, all savings on deposit for 12 months pay 4% guaranteed bank interest, compounded QUARTERLY.

Please note that 4% compounded QUARTERLY is equivalent to slightly more than $4.06 per $100 per annum. This is an effective yield of 4.06%, which many other savings institutions do not pay.

You'll note, too, that this rate of interest is the highest paid by any bank insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation—and this F.D.I.C. safeguard, someday, may be a vitally important factor to you!

*Savings deposits made on or before the 10th of any month will earn interest as of the first of that month. (This means that right now is an ideal time to start or add to a Planters National savings account—especially if you plan to transfer savings from another institution.)

*Since January 1, 1962, all Planters National savings accounts pay DAILY INTEREST; that is, your savings earn interest EVERY DAY from deposit to withdrawal.

In some cases, DAILY INTEREST is far more important to you than the rate paid on savings.

DAILY INTEREST is the modern, new way of computing returns for savings accounts, designed to put more money in YOUR pocket.

A deposit in a Planters National savings account begins earning interest the same day you put it in the bank! With an old-fashioned savings account, you can lose as much as two-thirds of a month's interest if it is made by the 10th of the month.

With DAILY INTEREST, your deposit can be made on any date and will begin earning interest for you immediately.

No matter when you make a withdrawal from a Planters savings account, the full amount of your account will earn interest right up to the same day you make the withdrawal, so long as your balance is at least $25.

With an old-fashioned savings account, interest is paid on the lowest amount in your account (depending on the plan) during the interest period. If you make a withdrawal just before the "day of reckoning," you lose your interest on that money for the entire period.

With DAILY INTEREST, earnings are paid every day; you can make a withdrawal on any date, so long as your balance is at least $25, and not lose one penny in interest.

*AUTOMATIC SAVINGS—For most folks, the secret of a successful savings plan is in making regular, systematic additions to their savings account. After they finally get set up to "pay themselves first," they're usually well on their way to becoming real savers.

*YOUR FINANCIAL BASE—There just isn't any better way to balance your financial program than by having an active, health savings account at a Full-Service Bank like Planters National. You're assured of any excellent financial reference; preferential consideration for your borrowing needs—often at lower-than-average rates; and access to all the financial services that only an alert banking connection can provide for you.

If you haven't already, why don't you activate your savings program at PLANTERS NATIONAL — NOW!
