Ayden JCs Honor Tom V. Wheless

AYDEN—Tom V. Wheless, president of the Jaycees during their campaign to build a Little League ball park in Ayden, last night was presented the annual Distinguished Service Award, which is based on community service.

Highlights of the banquet meeting, held at the Community Building, were the presentation of the award and an address by Clarence Stasavich, new football coach at East Carolina College. Stasavich discussed in general community service.

"Any man who helps another man live better is doing a service to God," Stasavich said. Competition is the heart of America's democracy, and "we need to encourage it, and have more of it, particularly for our young people," the speaker said. It is necessary in order for them to develop their talents.

The talents he spoke of included development of personality, intellect, and the physical and spiritual aspects.

"We need to demand more from our young people in relation to their performance, so that they will develop their talents to the utmost and not depend on being given things," Stasavich said.

He quoted from the Greek philosopher Socrates, "Giving a child everything he needs and not developing his talents is like having a fine race horse and keeping him in the stable and feeding him."

Stasavich congratulated the Ayden Jaycees on their service to the community and told them, "We are looking forward to working with you as our neighbors in causing the program at East Carolina College to go forward. We will depend very heavily on you for support of our program."

Stasavich was introduced by Cecil Heath of East Carolina College.

Approximately 75 persons, including Jaycees and others interested, were on hand to hear Stasavich and observe the presentation of the D.S.A. Award. The award was presented to Wheless by Marvin Balderre, last year's recipient, and consisted of a plaque and a certificate.

Wheless, owner and operator of a local jewelry store, was president of the Ayden Jaycees for the term 1960-61. During that time, the organization spearheaded the project to build a Little League ball park. It was an unusually large project for a small club.

Wheless now serves on the Board of Directors of the Jaycees, as immediate past president.

He was a charter member of the club. Active in other organizations also, he is on the Board of Directors of the Ayden Rotary Club, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce and on the Board of Deacons of the First Baptist Church. He is also past treasurer of his church.

A native of Spring Hope in Nash County, he graduated from high school there and moved to Ayden in July of 1954, opening his business here. Wheless is a veteran of World War II.

Bill Stroud, president of the Jaycees, opened the meeting and welcomed guests. Russell Wooten gave the invocation.

Birchite Claims Growth In West

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Founder Robert Welch of the John Birch Society says the militant anti-Communist organization now has more than 200 chapters in California.

Each chapter has 10 to 20 members. Welch said in a luncheon address Monday. He said the society is growing rapidly throughout the nation, but didn't mention the total membership figure.

The founder said the three-year-old organization has membership in every state and chapters in most. It has 35 paid coordinators. Welch said, but he again denied that it's a secret body.

Wachovia Bank And Trust Co. Shareholders, Directors Meet

William E. Hudson, formerly assistant cashier of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, was elected assistant vice president of the bank here today.

His election was announced following the bank's quarterly directors' meeting this morning in Winston-Salem by R. W. Howard, senior vice president, who reported "significant" gains for the bank last year and a favorable outlook for the area and national business in 1962.

The directors, who met following the annual shareholders meeting, elected two senior vice presidents, Richard B. Menius, head of the Correspondent Banking Division and Richard G. Page Jr. who was designated senior officer in charge of the statewide trust department.

A year ahead of general advances, expanding opportunities increasing earnings and a higher standard of living was predicted for most North Carolinians at the meeting of Wachovia shareholders.

During recent years, Howard said, the rate of gain in per capita income in the Southeast has set a fast pace for the nation. The area also benefits from significant industrial expansion, continuing increases in productivity of both industry and agriculture and importance advances in the marketing of regional products.

From a low of 107.3 in January 1961, the Wachovia index of southeastern business advanced during the year to 113.5 per cent of the 1957-59 level of business and is expected to rise in 1962 to 120 per cent.

Contributing to the brighter economic picture for 1962, he said, are improvements expected in leading area industries. Production and sales of tobacco products set new records last year and are expected to make further gains this year, with earnings continuing to reflect the increases.

In the report of the bank's operations in 1961, shareholders were told of substantial growth in volume of business including better than a 40 per cent increase in new deposit accounts opened. Resources of the bank at the end of the year were $909 million compared with $806 million in 1960. Deposits were $774 million compared with $680 million, capital accounts totaled $58 million and loans were up $470 million from $381 million. With these gains, the shareholders were told, Wachovia retained its rank as the Southeast's largest bank in volume. (Continued on page 10)

Massacre Of 18 Missionaries And Natives Reported In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Eighteen Roman Catholic missionaries were killed by Congolese soldiers at Katanga in north Katanga on Jan. 1, church authorities reported today.

A dispatch from an Associated Press correspondent at Bukavu, a Kivu Province town 225 miles northeast of Katanga, said missionaries who escaped the massacre reported the violence to the bishop at Bukavu.

The bodies of the 18 were recovered, the dispatch said. Another missionary was taken away and has not been heard from.

The report to the bishop said troops of the Congo central government attacked missionaries living near Katanga, beat them and then killed them.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga reported on Jan. 1 that his forces had abandoned Katanga and that the invaders were killing hundreds of civilians and burning villages as they advanced on the town.

Tshombe claimed that the invading troops were under the orders of the Central Congo government in Leopoldville, but reports since have indicated that they were loyal to pro-Communist Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, who was put under virtual house arrest in Stanleyville Sunday by central government troops.

Gizenga has been accused of dispatching troops into north Katanga in an effort to establish his own state in the northeast Congo. Units of Gizenga's Stanleyville force were blamed for the murder of 13 Italian U.N. airmen in Kivu Province in November.

The troops in north Katanga and adjoining Kivu Province constitute the bulk of the Stanleyville army which took orders from Gizenga and Gen. Victor Lundula when it took orders from anyone.

Lundula switched his allegiance to the central government and commanded the troops in Stanleyville who put down an insurrection attempt by Gizenga over the weekend and disarmed more than 300 of his gendarmes, his only military force in the leftist's former stronghold.

The central Congo government of Premier Cyrille Adoula is expected to strip Gizenga of his deputy premiership and possibly even put him under formal arrest in Leopoldville, and diplomats in the Congo capital fear there may be an adverse reaction from the troops in Kivu and north Katanga.

The United Nations announced the capture of 18 more Gizenga soldiers at Stanleyville. This brought to more than 300 the number rounded up since the central government moved against the pro-Communist leader last week-end.

Gizenga is now believed to be without military support in Stanleyville.

The United Nations said its Ethiopian troops who surrounded Gizenga's residence in Stanleyville have withdrawn, leaving him under the guard of central government soldiers.

In Elisabethville, the U.N. Command and the Katanga government announced the exchange Monday night of all prisoners captured in December fighting in that secessionist province. Ten Swedish, two Norwegian and two Irish soldiers were turned over by Katanga authorities, and the United Nations gave up 33 Katangans.

The exchange was seen as evidence of the growing cooperation between the U.N. Command and the secessionist government headed by Tshombe.

France Considers New Measures In Algerian Violence

ALGIERS (AP)—French authorities studied new and harsher measures today to cope with the tide of violence in Algeria's clandestine war.

Three killings in Oran boosted the overnight death toll to 20. Half a dozen persons were wounded in combat between European and Moslem terrorist organizations.

Louis Joxe, French minister for Algerian affairs, met with the territory's top officials at the new seaside administrative center of Rocher Noir, 30 miles from Algiers.

They were reported to be discussing the possible proclamation of a state of siege, which would clamp tighter restrictions on Algeria's already closely regulated civil life.

The day's events included a daylight holdup of an Algerian bank by five Europeans. They escaped in a motor car with the equivalent of $18,000. This may have been nothing more than an ordinary crime, but in the tense atmosphere of Algiers it was immediately assumed the Europeans were robbing the bank on behalf of the right-wing French Secret Army Organization.

In Oran, three Europeans were slain and another wounded in a series of attacks attributed to Moslems on the rebel National Liberation Front.

In Algiers, two Moslems were wounded by bullets fired by European terrorists. In Bone, a young Moslem was injured by the explosion of a plastic bomb. In Mostaganem, near Oran, two Moslems working for the French were wounded by gunfire.

Civilian and military officials in a manifesto Monday night called on Europeans and Moslems to "say no to murder and terrorism."

Unless bloodshed and terror are stopped, the manifesto said, measures will be taken that "would limit the exercise of public freedom and restrict your lives."

Government sources said authorities are ready to proclaim a state of siege—even if it means further disruption of Algiers' economic life—to combat terrorism by both Europeans and Moslems.

Among the measures under consideration are a paralyzing curfew, the closing of bars and cafes, and heavy restrictions on the movement of cars.

The warning, broadcast over Algiers radio throughout the day and published in the city's two daily newspapers, was issued after another evening of death and violence. Between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., seven persons were killed and nine wounded in grenade and submachinegun attacks in Algiers.

State Bank And Trust Report Growth In '61

State Bank and Trust Company today announced election of 11 new members to its Board of Directors and reported increased deposits and earnings for the year 1961.

Stockholders elected Dr. M. W. Aldridge, Tom R. Andrews, J. H. Blount, Jr., John R. Hardy, Howard L. Hodges, Jr., Charles W. Howard, Jr., J. B. Kittrell, Jr., Dr. Ray D. Minges, W. M. Scales, Jr., B. B. Sugg, Jr., A. Hollie Van Dyke, who have for the past three years served as members of the Circle Office Advisory Board to full membership on the Board of Directors which was increased in number from 10 to 21. They will serve with A. R. Barrett, M. K. Blount, W. S. Bost, John T. Marston, Jr., Reynolds May, Dr. K. B. Pace, B. B. Sugg, J. B. Webb, Jr., and W. W. Wooten, who were re-elected by the stockholders.

President J. T. Marston, Jr. reported to Stockholders at the Bank's 30th Annual Meeting, that the Bank continued to show growth in all departments. Deposits at year end increased to a record $9,162,000.00 from $8,457,000.00 in 1960. Earnings advanced to $52,764.29 (2.54 per share) from $49,164.44 (2.37 per share) in 1960.

Marston attributed the increase to "the evident preference of our people to do business with a locally owned institution, a steady growth in Greenville, the progressive heart of Eastern North Carolina and to another good agricultural year for most of Pitt County." He added that "economically, our area appears in a sound position and all indicators point to continued forward progress."

Following the Stockholders Meeting the Board elected the following officers to serve for the coming year: John T. Marston, Jr., President; M. K. Blount, Jr., Vice President; John R. Hardy, Vice President; B. B. Sugg, Jr., Vice President and Trust Officer; V. M. Forrest, Cashier; Margaret E. Purvis, Assistant Cashier; W. A. Ross, Jr., Assistant Cashier.

Airlifting 6,000 Men To Europe

Vanguard Of Army Force Lands In Germany As Part Of Vast Test

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The first elements of an Army force of 6,000 men arrived here from the United States today to test American ability to airlift troops abroad in a hurry.

A C135 transport carrying 72 officers and men of the 4th Infantry Division touched down at sprawling Rhein-Main base after a non-stop polar flight from McChord base in Washington.

Lt. Col. James Grimsley, 40, of Florence, S.C., divisions operations officer, headed the first 18 officers and 54 men who arrived by way of Greenland on a flight of 10 hours, 7 minutes.

"Welcome to Europe," said Gen. Charles D. Palmer, deputy commander in chief of U.S. forces in Europe as he stepped forward to greet Grimsley. "How was the flight?"

"Just fine," said Grimsley. Another C135 is due later today. From Wednesday until the airlift of the 6,000 men is completed next Saturday midnight planes will be landing here around the clock.

It is a major test of U.S. capability to rush troops to Europe in an emergency—such as could arise from the Berlin crisis.

The first arrivals were welcomed by a group of officers headed by Gen. Charles D. Palmer, deputy commander in chief of the U.S. European Command, and a French colonel representing Gen. Pierre Jaquet, commander of NATO forces in central Europe.

"Long Thrust" involves three reinforced battle groups of the 4th Infantry commanded by Maj. Gen. William F. Train, who is due in Frankfurt Wednesday. The troops will take part in a four-day NATO field exercise in eastern Bavaria.

A total of 87 transports—10 of them C135 stratojets—will be involved in the airlift, flying four different routes. Some will make several trips.

From Frankfurt the troops will proceed by truck to the Mannheim area to collect their equipment, jeeps, trucks, Patton tanks, armored personnel carriers and guns.

The troops will remain in Mannheim, the U.S. Army's major supply and maintenance area in Germany, for about 10 days. Then they will go to the Hohenfels training area, in eastern Bavaria, for a four-day maneuver in which planes of the 4th Allied Tactical Air Force will also take part.

Following the field exercise, one battle group will fly back to McChord. The other two will join U.S. forces in Europe for several months' duty.

Tariff Accord

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—An agreement was reached today for broad tariff reductions between the European Common Market and the United States, it was officially announced.

Howard Peterson, President Kennedy's special assistant for trade matters, and W. Walton Butterworth, U.S. ambassador to the Common Market, emerged from the office of Jean Rey, member of the Common Market Executive Commission, after a 20-minute meeting and announced the agreement.

The agreement will have to be submitted to GATT, Common Market's Council of Ministers and the U. S. Congress.

'Heartened' By Surge Of Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says failure to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on a nuclear test ban was the biggest disappointment of his first year in the White House.

"This," he said, "could have been a very important step in easing tensions."

The most heartening development, he believes, was a "great surge for unity" among the Western Allies and in Latin America.

In his first news conference of the year—five days before the first anniversary of his inauguration—Kennedy touched on nearly a subject a minute Monday, roaming from the farm problem at home to Laos and Berlin abroad.

Steel — He hopes for a quick agreement between industry and the union to avert a strike and the hasty stockpiling of steel that might impede the nation's economic recovery. Contracts expire in June.

Laos—The risk of war is the alternative to the risk of Communist control of coalition governments in Southeast Asia, he said. "We are taking a chance in all of Southeast Asia. We are taking a chance in other areas also."

In his judgment "it is in the best interest of our country to work for a neutral and independent Laos."

Farm—Kennedy set a goal of reasonable balance between farm output and demand to insure that the farm income "will not be broken by surpluses, as it was to a substantial extent in the '20s."

In his State of the Union message, he promised to present Congress a new farm program geared to the times.

Civil rights—Kennedy said he would issue an order against racial discrimination in federally aided housing when he believes it will serve the public interest and advance the cause of civil rights. He claimed more progress in the field during the last 12 months than the previous eight years and said his record may be judged properly at the end of this year "and at the end of our term."

Foreign trade—"When the educational job is done," Kennedy declared, the country will support his request for broad authority to negotiate tariff cuts. He said figures are being prepared in an effort to persuade Congress members that his program would be "most helpful to the United States."

Berlin — Despite reports that U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson has made little progress in talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Kennedy said the discussions would continue in an effort to find a solution for the Berlin crisis. A more precise judgment will be made after the talks have gone on "for a reasonable period."

Clubs To Host Commissioners

WINTERVILLE—Winterville's Kiwanis and Ruritan Clubs will host the municipal government will play host Wednesday to the Pitt County Development Commission for its January meeting.

Members of the 17-man official industry-hunting and economic development body, members of the county's Board of Commissioners and representatives of the Pitt's legislative delegation are scheduled to begin arriving here about 5:30 p.m. for the program, engineered by Vernon White, Winterville's member of the Development Commission.

The town's guests will be taken on a tour of Winterville before a dinner at the town's Community Building at 7 p.m. The commission's regular meeting will follow the dinner.

Wednesday's meeting here marks the fourth occasion in five months when the commission has shifted its meeting site to different communities in the county.

The rotating meeting site policy was initiated in September in Grifton as a means of bringing the operations of the tax-financed organization closer to the people. Meetings in October and November followed in Farmville and Ayden before the commission returned its December meeting to Greenville to end the calendar year.

Find Haven For Feb. 4 Calamity

CLEATOR, Ariz. (AP)—Predicting a world catastrophe on Feb. 4, a group which calls itself Understanding Inc. has taken a 10-year lease on this Bradshaw Mountain mining camp 50 miles northwest of Phoenix.

Cleator, they say, is one of 12 locations that will be unaffected by havoc created at the conjunction of seven planets.

Mrs. Tahahita Mantzuarini, a spokeswoman for the 22 adults in the group, says an astrologer forecast a disaster that would be "hell in nature—with storms, tidal waves, earthquakes."

Henry Giclas, an astronomer at Lowell Observatory, said the planetary conjunction Feb. 4 is unusual only because the planets will be in the same part of the sky.

He will exert only a barely perceptible force upon the earth," he said.

American Wives Spoiled, Lotte Lenya Likes It

By MILICENT BROWER
NEW YORK — (WNS) —
"Dreamland—that's what an American wife gets in marriage," says Lotte Lenya, a Viennese-born actress featured in the Tennessee Williams hit film "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone."

"American husbands are dream husbands. They come home at night, and off they go into the kitchen with the apron. They do the dishes, help feed the children, clean up. Marvellous," sighed Miss Lenya. "It's not surprising that German girls were so eager to marry the American soldiers during the war."

Miss Lenya, who was blissfully married to the late composer Kurt Weill for 24 years, said that while European men never don an apron, they have their merits. They are much more sophisticated in the ways of love.

For example, a marriage between an older man and a much younger woman is entirely accepted in Europe, and though accepted here to an extent, is still frowned upon. But in Europe, if a 60-year-old woman married a 24-year-old man, that too would be completely accepted. Here, it would be considered "not nice."

When a woman makes more money than her husband in the United States, the men dislike it and the marriage often goes on the rocks. In Europe, men do not get hysterical if their wives make more money or have more to begin with.

Also, when a man is in trouble financially, and perhaps the wife has to go to work, in Europe, the man does not feel ashamed, "This kind of crisis seems to shatter a man in this country."

European marriages may have a slightly better chance to succeed than American marriages, because in Europe, it is not at all uncommon for couples to live together before marriage. "It is a test that works both ways. I have seen people quit such an arrangement, and I've seen others go ahead and marry and live happily ever after."

Americans also tend to be too clinical about love. They examine and analyze and try to figure everything out. "They should fall in love, and just let it happen."

"There is too much reliance on things like taking courses in marriage and psychoanalysis. People have gotten lazy. It's easy to go to an analyst and lie down and let him do all the work. I am all for psychoanalysis, for people who are ill and need it, but the others should try harder to work out their own problems themselves and not dash off to an analyst every time some little thing bothers them."

Miss Lenya, a hazel-eyed blonde with bangs that have been her trademark for years, is also playing a prominent role off Broadway in "Brecht On Brecht," an evening devoted to the works of the late German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

She was catapulted to stardom when she first appeared as the wicked Jenny in "The Threepenny Opera" in 1928 in Berlin. When Hitler came into power, she and her husband left Germany for the United States.

Miss Lenya retired in 1945, and lived a happy life "just being a wife," but after her husband's death, she was called on to do a memorial concert of his works.

Science Club To Have Meet
The Science Club of East Carolina College will meet Thursday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Flanagan Building, Room 317, on the campus of the college.

"Radiation Biophysics" will be the topic to be discussed by Dr. D. J. Fluke. Dr. Fluke is a professor in the zoology department of Duke University, Durham.

in 1951. Her career began anew, and she repeated her earlier success as Jenny in the New York production of "The Threepenny Opera."

J. H. Rose Is BPW Speaker

At the meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club on Thursday night, J. H. Rose, chairman of Civil Defense for Pitt County, spoke. He was introduced by Mrs. Eva Warren, chairman of the National Security Committee of the club, whose theme for the program was "Providing for Human Survival."

Mr. Rose outlined the organization of Civil Defense. He stated that Civil Defense is a "state of mind." It is necessary for people to know what they want and be willing to be trained in order to have an effective organization. He announced that Home Nursing and First Aid courses are now in progress under the sponsorship of the Red Cross and the Civil Defense Council. There will be a fallout shelter survey in 1962 in Pitt County to find the best places which might be made into shelters. Following his talk, Mr. Rose answered questions from club members.

Miss Gladys Stokes, president, presided over the business session. It was announced that February would be International Month in the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and members were urged to contribute to the International Project, The Nursing Training Center in Taiwan. Dr. McNiel, International Relations Chairman, reported that the box of supplies for the home agent in South America had been packed.

The Legislative Committee reported that changes would be made in the by-laws because of changes in the State and National By-Laws.

The next meeting on Feb. 8 will be the Birthday and Guest night.

Mrs. David Grimes Sr. was hostess to the Book Lovers' Club Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clinton House, the guest speaker for the afternoon, gave an account of "The History of Fashion" from the "Flintstones" to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. The speaker brought out the fact that climate has always been a decisive factor, together with the need of all mankind throughout the centuries for three things: food, shelter and clothing.

Some of the by-products of such a study will necessarily carry one into history, culture, sociology, economics, morals and archeology. Egypt, Greece, Rome, England each had its effect on world fashions, giving us styles that lasted for hundreds of years.

The Crusades, the Renaissance, the Cavaliers, the Puritans, the French Revolution, Marie Antoinette, Queen Victoria, Empress Eugenie Josephine made women raid their husbands' purses. The American sewing machine made the greatest impact of all as it made mass production possible along with $398 copies of $1,000 Paris creations.

During the social hour, the hostess served a sweet course. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. Abram Roberson.

East Carolina College Playhouse Presents 'Auntie Mame' This Week

MINNIE GASTER of Route 1, Elon College (above), will be seen as the quixotic and captivating heroine of "Auntie Mame". Miss Gaster, a junior specializing in English and speech, made her debut with the East Carolina College Playhouse last March in "Separate Tables" and was selected for the title role of Auntie Mame by Dr. Ralph Rives, director of the comedy.

"Auntie Mame" will be the attraction at the McGinnis auditorium at East Carolina College Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, when the East Carolina Playhouse presents the long-run Broadway comedy hit as one of its major productions for the school year. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Minnie Gaster of Rt. 1, Elon College, junior at East Carolina, will appear in the title role of a wealthy, sophisticated playgirl of the 1920's who suddenly inherits a small nephew and has eighteen years of fantastic and funny adventures making him into a man.

Written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, the play is an adaptation of the novel of the same name by Patrick Dennis. It remained 80 weeks on the best-seller lists as a cloth-bound book and then was sold by hundreds of thousands in a paperback edition.

The plot begins when a ten-year-old nephew of the effervescent Mame, with C. Thomas Jackson of Washington, N. C., in the role of Patrick Dennis, is delivered unexpectedly while she is hosting one of her glittering parties. He has just been orphaned and placed by his father's will in her inexperienced custody.

Miss Gaster, as the fabulous Auntie Mame, will whirl through 24 scenes in more than a dozen stunning costumes, scattering caustic wit wherever she goes.

Among a supporting cast of fifty actors and actresses will be Shirley Morse of Hamlet as Vera Charles, Mame's flamboyant actress friend; William E. Rackley of Goldsboro as the gentleman from Dixie who is briefly her husband; Reida Ann Poe of Brunswick, Ga., as a Southern minx meanly jealous of Mame's conquest.

Dr. George Cook and Ruth Lambie of the college faculty and Loretta Foster of Peconic, N. Y., will appear as a family the nephew thinks he wants to marry into until Mame nails them for their prejudices and their general stuffiness.

Earl Barnhill and Tommy Sugg, sixth grade pupils in the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, have been "borrowed" by the Playhouse as members of the cast of "Auntie Mame."

The production is being directed by Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives of the college faculty. Its multitude of scenes, ranging from Mame's splendid menages to a Southern plantation, from Macy's to the Matterhorn, from at heater where Mame begins and catastrophically ends her acting career in one evening to a split-level house in suburban Connecticut have been designed by Paul Minnis and Donald Sexauer of the East Carolina art faculty.

Miss Gaster's striking and beautiful wardrobe was designed by Mrs. Lois Garren of Greenville, as were other costumes for the comedy.

Dominican Air Force Display

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Dominican air force staged a brief show of strength on the capital's main street Monday night as President Joaquin Balaguer and his military chief struggled with new efforts to unseat them.

Four air force tanks and a half-track loaded with about 40 armed troops roared down the nearly deserted main street just before midnight.

Oppositionists interpreted this as a show of strength by Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, chief of the armed forces. Within half an hour over a dozen autos filled with people shouting, "Down with Rodriguez Echavarria" were driven through the area.

Later, about 20 youths marched down the street, shouting Fidel Castro slogans and screaming invectives at U.S. correspondents.

At midnight, armed forces trucks posted riflemen in front of a building housing two radio stations used by the leftist 14th of June political party. A band of pro-Castro youths, it was learned, tried unsuccessfully to take over the studio Monday to broadcast a manifesto against Rodriguez Echavarria and in favor of pro-Castro political leader Maximo Lopez Molina.

Rodriguez Echavarria has been accused by opponents of planning to install a military dictatorship. He denies this. He also has been accused of trying to keep Balaguer in office despite the Trujillo-named president's pledge to quit after the Organization of American States lifted economic and political sanctions it voted against the Trujillo dictatorship.

Snow Brings An Early Death To Many People Over Forty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today, this winter, you may throw your life away.

Or, to put it precisely, shovel or push yourself into the grave.

It probably won't be easy to do; you'll have to put your heart into it—literally.

But you won't be expecting it, or you wouldn't be shoveling snow, pushing a stalled car out of a snowbank, climbing up a snow-mantled hill toward the deer stand, or doing one of a dozen other strenuous activities in the snow.

For snow-crystallized water vapor—is bringing death to many persons—death by heart attack, and at times, by stroke.

That's the warning the American Heart Association has for you this winter, especially if you're one of the nearly 55 million Americans over the age of 40.

To stay alive, don't overexert yourself in snow. That's the first rule, the association says. During last week's big storm more than 50 deaths were attributed by authorities to overexertion in shoveling snow, car pushing and similar activities.

"Don't let winter be your Waterloo," says Dr. John W. Latimer Jr., president of the Washington Heart Association.

Approach snow-handling with common sense, and first get a health and heart check, he says.

Don't, for example, try to push your stalled car out of a snowbank singlehanded. Don't tackle the job of snow shoveling with the vigor of a teen-ager, unless you are a teen-ager, and a healthy one at that.

People are lured to their deaths because snow looks innocent enough, says Latimer's association.

A physiologist has calculated the energy cost of shoveling snow with the usual 5 pound shovel.

A shovelful of snow usually weighs about four pounds. Shoveling 10 loads per minute is equivalent to walking up three flights of stairs in the same period of time. Wet snow, which is heavier, makes the job equal to climbing to the seventh floor in one minute.

Latimer says the unaccustomed exertion of snow work can play havoc with flabby muscles.

If you're overweight, get rid of the excess, he says. Even putting on bulky winter wraps can be a strenuous job for portly men.

Latimer says overexertion in the snow can cause death by cerebral hemorrhage (stroke), but heart attacks are the big killer.

He makes these other points—

"If you have heart disease (whatever your age), don't shovel snow without your doctor's approval.

"It's better to shovel before eating or wait an-hour after eating.

"Never shovel to the point of exhaustion.

"When you shovel, lift with your entire body, letting your back and legs share the hard work with your arms.

"Probably the best piece of advice: hand the snow shovel to an ambitious youngster and go to the nearest skating pond for your exercise."

Phi Kappa Tau Frat Accepted To 'Go National'

The East Carolina College colony of Phi Kappa Tau has just received word from its national headquarters in Oxford, Ohio, of its acceptance to become affiliated with the national Phi Kappa Tau organization.

Ceremonies for Phi Kappa Tau, the eighth social fraternity at East Carolina to "go national," will take place in Greenville Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 3-4.

Harold E. Angelo, president of the national chapter and dean of men at the University of Colorado, will address the "brothers" and present the charter to Phi Kappa Tau's newest chapter at a banquet Sunday night, Feb. 4. Guests of the fraternity for the occasion will include wives and dates, members of the college faculty, townspeople, and national officials of the fraternity.

Events highlighting the weekend in addition to the banquet will include a formal dance Saturday night, Feb. 3, and a reception Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4, at the Greenville Art Center. During the reception the national charter will be signed by members of the new chapter.

Dr. Donnelly To Address Meeting

Dr. James Donnelly, in charge of the personal health section with the N. C. State Board of Health, will speak here Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Mental Health Department.

Dr. Donnelly, an internationally recognized authority on maternal and child welfare, will speak on "Problems of the New Born." All those connected with the medical profession and interested in hearing Dr. Donnelly are invited to attend the talk.

Dr. John Putrell, director of the Pitt County Health Department, said today.

He noted that Pitt County was fortunate in having a man of Dr. Donnelly's stature to speak here.

Firemen Called To Burning Car

Greenville fire units were called to 1710 South Pitt St. about 7:25 a.m. when a car caught fire.

Officers, who said Box 226 at the intersection of Pitt and Brown Sts. was sounded for the blaze, reported light damage to the car. The blaze started from a backfire they noted, and was confined to the engine compartment.

Unemployment Remains With Us

For all its economic progress and the creation of new jobs through industrial expansion during the past year, figures on the average jobless benefit claims filed across the state show that North Carolina still has much to do to eliminate its unemployment problem.

It probably came as a surprise to most North Carolinians to learn that claims for unemployment benefits in the state last year averaged 46,000 per week and a total of $46½ million dollars in unemployment benefits were paid to jobless people in the state. Also surprising was the fact that the rate of unemployment in North Carolina during 1961 ran slightly higher than was the case the year before.

The increase in the claims for jobless benefits came in a year when North Carolina set a new record so far as industrial expansion was concerned with $279.4 million being invested in new plants and plant expansion programs, and a total of $5,000 new jobs created in the state through this expansion.

Without the industrial expansion and the resulting new jobs, the number of unemployment claims filed in the state obviously would have been higher. Even with the 35,000 new jobs, however, it is still obvious that North Carolina still needs additional jobs to take up the present employment slack as well as to provide jobs for the additional young people who seek permanent employment for the first time.

In North Carolina—as in the nation as a whole—seasonal changes in operations, the elimination of old jobs as new ones are created, constant changes in the economic picture mean that at any given moment there will be some unemployed persons actively seeking employment. In North Carolina, too, there has probably developed what the national experts have come to call the “hard core” of permanently unemployed people. These things mean, of course, that even with “full employment” there would still be unemployed and jobless persons in the state.

With its vast resources of workers, the great transition of people from the farms into the cities and towns in recent years, North Carolina has the population potential for filling many more jobs than it now has available on a year-round basis.

The fact that claims for jobless benefits averaged 46,000 weekly in the state during the past year is shocking enough; but to be realistic the state must realize this figure reflected only a portion of those who were not gainfully employed and who were seeking employment. In addition to those who made claims for benefits there were others who had exhausted their benefits under the employment security or for some other reason failed to make claims for compensation.

It behooves each county and community of the state to examine its own unemployment situation and seek a solution to the problems which face its jobless people.

Lining Up The District Races

By LYNN NISBET
CONGRESS — Word from the first congressional district is that Walter Jones of Pitt county, who ran against Rep. Herbert Bonner two years and was expected to make another try, has been scouting the area lately and probably will make the race, although it does not appear quite as certain now as it did a few months ago.

From the seventh district comes word that Judge Heman Clark of Cumberland has also about decided not to challenge Rep. Alton Lennon. Another one-time threat to Lennon, Ed Clark of Bladen, has been appointed to the superior court bench.

In the fifth district there seems less assurance now that prevailed a few weeks ago that Bill Wood, Forsyth legislator, would try to unseat Congress Ralph Scott. He has not made up his mind but does not seem as interested now as he did.

On the other side of the picture time increases prospects that Jimmy Simpkins of New Bern will try to unseat Rep. David Henderson in the third district. Simpkins ran against Graham A. Barden for the third district seat in 1956, dropped out in 1958 to come to the State Senate, and tried again in 1960 for the congressional post which Barden was relinquishing. He ran second in a field of five and pushed Henderson in the run-off.

The eighth district is more complicated because the new district has two incumbent congressmen — Paul Kitchin, Democrat, third time representative of the former eighth district; and Charles R. Jonas, Republican, coming over from the old tenth district. Kitchin has announced his candidacy. Jonas has not fully decided whether to run or not, but John P. Kennedy, Mecklenburg legislator, has virtually announced opposition to Kitchin in the primary.

STATUS — The other incumbents apparently have little to worry about right now—so far as the primary is concerned. Several of them recognize serious threat from Republican opposition in November. The status of the districts is about like this:

FIRST—Comprising Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington. Sitting representative Herbert Bonner of Beaufort county, with serious opposition unlikely either in May or November. Bertie was added to this district from the old second.

SECOND—Edgecombe, Franklin, Greene, Halifax, Lenoir, Northampton, Vance, Warren and Wilson. In the redistricting shuffle this district lost Bertie to the first, gained Franklin and Vance from the old fourth. Incumbent congressman L. H. Fountain of Edgecombe. No opposition in sight for primary or general election.

THIRD — Carteret, Craven, Duplin, Harnett, Jones, Onslow, Pamlico, Pender, Sampson and Wayne. Only change here is addition of Harnett from the old seventh district. Incumbent congressman David Henderson threatened by Jimmy Simpkins of Craven.

FOURTH—Chatham, Davidson, Johnston, Nash, Randolph and Wake. This district lost Franklin and Vance to the second, gained Davidson from the old eighth. Incumbent Harold D. Cooley of Nash is in no trouble. Dean of the North Carolina delegation and long time chairman of the agriculture committee, he is not expected to have opposition in the primary and the Republican vote in November is not a serious threat.

FIFTH — Caswell, Forsyth, Granville, Person, Rockingham, Stokes, Surry and Wilkes. Wilkes was added from the old eighth. Incumbent Ralph Scott of Stokes may have to defend his seat against Bill Wood of Forsyth, but odds favor his winning in May and November.

SIXTH — Alamance, Durham, Guilford and Orange. No change. Incumbent Horace Kornegay of Guilford not expected to have primary opposition, although there is some chance of it. November may be close.

SEVENTH — Bladen, Brunswick, Columbus, Cumberland, Hoke, New Hanover, Robeson and Scotland. This district lost Harnett to the new third, but added Hoke and Scotland from the old eighth. Incumbent Alton Lennon of New Hanover apparently “safe.”

EIGHTH — Anson, Lee, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Moore, Richmond and Union. This district was the chief victim of gerrymandering so far as geography is concerned. Politically, one or two other districts may have been equally victimized. The new eighth district has Lincoln and Mecklenburg added, while it lost Davidson, Davie, Hoke, Scotland, Wilkes and Yadkin. It has two incumbent congressmen. Jonas of Lincoln and Kitchin of Anson. Hotly contested primary and general election campaigns expected.

NINTH—Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Davie, Iredell, Rowan, Stanly, Watauga and Yadkin. Davie and Yadkin were added from the old eighth. Incumbent Hugh Alexander comfortable in the primary, faces a real fight in the general election.

TENTH — Avery, Burke, Catawba, Cleveland, Gaston, Mitchell and Rutherford. The district lost Lincoln and Mecklenburg to the new eighth, picked up Cleveland, Gaston and Rutherford from the old eleventh. Incumbent Basil Whitener of Gaston has no immediate primary troubles, but will have big hurdles in November.

ELEVENTH—The far western district, numbered 11 instead of 12, contains four counties — Buncombe, Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Haywood, Henderson, Jackson, Macon, Madison, McDowell, Polk, Swain, Transylvania and Yancey.

Madison, McDowell, Polk and Yancey counties were added to this district, and still it is one of the smallest population wise. Incumbent Roy Taylor of Buncombe appears fairly safe from primary opposition, although there is some chance that the small counties may try to gang up on big Buncombe. The four added counties are almost 50-50 in Democratic - Republican voting. The larger area will make campaigning more difficult.

We're Dividing The Communists

Human Mind Is Oddity

Looking through material we have accumulated on our little desk-cubbyhole, we came upon some facts about mental illness; you hear them all the time, but what an impression re-reading makes.

For instance, half the cases a physician (general practitioner) sees are involved in a mental or emotional disorder. The same is true for one out of three hospital patients.

One in every 10 Americans is suffering from a mental or emotional disorder.

And at the present rate, one out of every 10 children will need to go to a mental hospital sometime during his life because of a SEVERE mental illness.

(Possibly half of us will crack mentally before any nuclear attack ever hits us.)

There are now some 750,000 patients in mental hospitals in this country — as many as in all other hospitals combined.

The one bright light is that with adequate care and treatment, seven out of 10 mental patients leave the hospital improved or recovered.

Through all this muddle, the Federal Government says we probably need at least 350,000 more mental hospital beds.

In the near future, there are supposed to be some of these beds available at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Taking these figures for what they are worth, one will deduce that out of the people he knows and comes into contact with, one out of 10 is mentally or emotionally ill. Perhaps you've not realized this. Perhaps it explains why someone seems a little on the nutty side.

There are so many people justly afflicted that pretty soon more and more of you will know people who have experienced knowing an acquaintance or relative who has been mentally ill.

And mental and emotional illness knows no bounds. It affects the young, teenage, college age and on to young adulthood, middle age and the older people. It affects the rich and the poor. There are many illnesses we have long associated as being purely physical, which now may have some connection with the mental health, such as certain heart patients.

It's a curious thing, the human mind.

Sometimes the mind's counterpart, the body, doesn't react too well in unusual situations. Snow might be termed one of those situations.

As we sit here, we can recall numerous stories about people we know who were injured during last week's snows, most of them in sledding accidents. It ain't funny, McGee, either sprained arms and legs, stitches in noses and knees — we don't get that kind of weather too often, and when we do, people seem to want to take advantage of it, whatever the consequences.

Tomorrow perhaps the sun will shine.

TRIVIAL THINGS
“All these little things are devouring me alive. My eyes cannot see, my ears cannot hear, Even my brain is being destroyed. Only the husk of me smiles wearily on and on.”

Thus wrote James G. Gilkey as he emphasizes those trivial things in life which often defeat us when God really intended that they should be to us a source of power and joy. After all is said and done, life is made up of a multitude of trivial things. We can imagine that even our Lord's life for thirty years appeared frequently to be a series of trivial incidents — sawing and hammering in the carpenter shop, repairing here and building there. Yet through these years God was preparing the

Roots Are In History

Those governments which have a system of continuity survive longest. Until World War I, such countries as Russia, Great Britain, the Austro-Hungarian Empire could point to a thousand or so years of history. No nation in Asia has had a continuous record of so many years. China, for instance, has had a record of changes of dynasty which indicates a total lack of continuity. Many of the dynasties were foreign in origin. For instance, the great Tang Dynasty was foreign in origin. The Yuan was Mongol, the Tachung was Manchu. The history of India is one of constant conquest of different parts of the country, leading to varieties of form of government.

Those countries which have been continuous have been most stable and their people have been protected from the startling shifts and changes of government by violent revolution. Russia had a continuous history from the conquest of that country by the Mongols (1207-1238) to 1917. The Czarist government was not progressive nor was it, on the whole, beneficial to the Russian people, but its successor, the Soviet Government, faces domestic problems which it may not be able to meet without further revolution. The loss of the Hapsburg Dynasty has been a disastrous episode in European history. Not a single successor nation has been able to stabilize itself, although little Austria is moving forward better than was expected during the past two decades.

The United States is a comparatively new country politically but it has had a continuous form of government for three centuries. The Revolutionary War did not alter the form of government. It only intensified its nature. The Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution did not change the nature of government or the social habits of the people; they strengthened a form of government which had been continuous among the Anglo-Saxon peoples in principle since the Witenagemot, the earliest parliament, the conception of which was some form of representative government that ultimately, through many stages of evolution, produced the idea of government by choice.

And so, we come down to the year 1962 in the United States with John F. Kennedy at the head of a continuous government as he stands before a Congress chosen by the people to report on the State of the Nation. Not all the people favored or favor Kennedy. Not all the people agree with the policies of the present Administration, but those who agree or disagree are united in support of a continuing government. As the President stood before Congress, all parties applauded him.

There are always those whose opposition reaches extremist and unpleasant attitudes. Since the beginning of American history, there have been little movements of intensified opposition such as Shays' Rebellion, or the violence of Aaron Burr

“All these little things are devouring me alive. My eyes cannot see, my ears cannot hear, Even my brain is being destroyed. Only the husk of me smiles wearily on and on.”

Thus wrote James G. Gilkey as he emphasizes those trivial things in life which often defeat us when God really intended that they should be to us a source of power and joy. After all is said and done, life is made up of a multitude of trivial things. We can imagine that even our Lord's life for thirty years appeared frequently to be a series of trivial incidents — sawing and hammering in the carpenter shop, repairing here and building there. Yet through these years God was preparing the Carpenter of Nazareth to go forth and to become the Saviour of the World.

“He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much,” declared our Lord on one occasion. A little profit on a mighty volume of goods makes the merchant rich. A life given to apparently trivial things which have contributed to the happiness and welfare of others adds up to a big and noble life in the end. If trivial things appear petty to us, or if we make them so, then a series of trivial things can make life almost unbearable. Yet upon the trivial we can build great superstructures which we will contemplate at the close of our lives with joy and to which our friends will point with admiration and joy.

Trivial things are insignificant only if we handle them insignificantly.

New House Speaker May Face Challenges

With Congress getting back to routine business after its first week of the new session, there is reason for speculation on the impact new Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives will have on the outcome of legislative proposals this year.

For the first time at any mid-term meeting since 1940, the House of Representatives does not have the late Sam Rayburn as its Speaker. In his place now sits Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts who served as Democratic floor leader under Speaker Rayburn.

By his long experience not only as a member of the House, but as its presiding officer, Speaker Rayburn appeared to have mastered most of the problems of steering the House of Representatives in the way he wanted it to go. Rep. McCormack, with long experience in the House and in his position of floor leader, is likewise well versed in the ways of the House and his party's representatives in that body.

It is doubtful, however, that he can, for the time being at least, wield the influence which Speaker Rayburn did. Particularly is this true in dealing with many of the key committees headed by Democrats from Southern states. It is also well-known that Rep. McCormack and President Kennedy, though both are from Massachusetts, do not see eye-to-eye on many problems. They have had the political differences for years, and it is quite likely that it will take time for a close relationship to be developed between these two important officials ... if it does at all.

Under the new leadership in the House, there may be a greater tendency on the part of members to challenge Democratic leadership ... and this may come from members of both parties.

The new Speaker of the House will face many problems in his initial session in that important post, and the administration likewise may face greater difficulty in getting House approval of its program than was the case last year.

Soul-Searching By Republicans

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans, after several days of public soul searching in this congressional election year, are still trying to figure out where they stand and what for.

They can't find a hat to fit all of them. They are looking for a formula to beat the Democrats but they've been inept in this department over the past 30 years.

The Democrats are a divided lot, too. They sometimes give the impression of being not one party but two parties that merge on some issues and then fly apart again.

The evidence is plain enough that for most of the past 30 years the Republicans have been out of step with public thinking. Since 1932, the Republicans have held the White House for only eight years — under Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He was so popular that if he had run as a Democrat he probably would have won just as overwhelmingly, if not more so. In his case the party label hardly meant much.

The consistent test of public favor showed up in Congress where, in the 30 years since 1932, voters elected a Republican majority only twice, for a total of four years, in 1946 and 1952. In Eisenhower's last six years—including 1956 when he was re-elected—the voters gave Congress to the Democrats. About a year ago a Republican committee began a study to see what ailed the party. At Oklahoma City last week the head of this committee, a top Ohio Republican, Ray Bliss, had gloomy news.

He told the Republican National Committee there that in the big cities Republicans were “generally outmanned, outorganized, outspent and outworked” by their Democratic and union opposition.

Bliss outlined a 19-point program for rebuilding the party. His committee — commenting on the 1960 presidential defeat — said Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy because Democrats “got tremendous majorities in 27 of the 41 big cities.”

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a hero to some Republicans and probably a candidate for the party's presidential nomination in 1964, said Nixon lost in 1960 because “we were not Republican enough.”

But what is Republicanism? National Committee Chairman William E. Miller of New York said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label.

New York's GOP State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York may be Goldwater's rival for the nomination in 1964—got

Asks Business Ignore Defenses

By ELMER ROESSNER

“Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg's warning that it would not be ‘in the public interest’ for an artificial build-up of steel in fear of a steel strike is one of the most amazing utterances from an Administration rapidly achieving attention for amazing utterances.”

The injunction against business not to protect itself against a very probably catastrophe is comparable to warning business to take its money out of banks, to cancel its insurance and to forget all this nonsense about fall-out shelters.

In telling business not to build up inventories against the probability of a steel strike this summer, Mr. Goldberg is asking that business pass over the normal, common sense defenses against a cutoff of essential supplies.

STRIKE LIKELY

Contracts between the United Steel Workers and the leading Negotiations will soon start.

The steel companies have not yet recovered the wage increases granted under the 1960 contract. White House pressure has been exercised to prevent a steel increase to offset the wage increases that went into effect last fall. Unless the steel companies get assurances they can pass on any new wage increases June 30, they will be forced to resist demands for pay rises — which is what the United Steelworkers are there for in the first place.

That means a strike — and most observers say a strike is an odds-on probability. Suppose steel buyers — auto makers, bridge builders, road contractors, construction companies and the thousands of others — take Mr. Goldberg's advice and do not stockpile steel.

As June 30 nears, the Steelworkers will be in an invincible position.

If they strike, all industry without steel to work with, will come to a halt. Unemployment will spread like mold after a long rain. Businesses will shut down. Some will never open again.

SETTLE OR DIE

The Steelworkers can make their own terms. If they are not accepted, industry will wither and die. If they are accepted, prices of steel—despite President Kennedy's strictures—will rise, and so will costs of almost everything else. (“Nothing is made without steel,” steel companies keep reminding us.)

Wages will be forced up in all other industries. L. the end, most of the Steelworkers' increases will go for higher costs of consumer goods, and only the slow droning on pensions, annuities, insurance and savings will suffer.

But suppose steel buyers do stockpile steel.

When labor contracts come to critical stage union negotiators will know that steel-using industries are set to ride out the strike. They will know that a strike can be long, and that gains will never make up for pay lost during the strike.

With no stockpiling, Steelworkers will be in a position to gain any demand—even a 20-hour work, which electricians in New York have been insisting upon. But with stockpiling, they will be forced to negotiate within bounds of reason.

So, stockpile!

CANADIANS HELPING BUILD CUBAN ECONOMY

Our Canadian neighbors, probably because there is money in it, are shoring up Castro's Cuban economy.

The U. S. Agricultural Service reports that Canadians are selling Cuba $2 million worth of cattle and $7 million worth of chickens, turkeys, rabbits, sheep, pigs, seed and farm machinery. The Cubans say they export Canada to buy more Cuban sugar, tobacco, molasses, cigars and tomatoes.

Byrd Says $10 Billion Hike In Debt Limit Requested

'One Of Best Years' For Scouting Reported In Pitt

One of the best years in the history of Boy Scouting in Pitt County has just been completed, according to Scout Executive Alexander. Alexander has released figures to show a gain in total membership of 10 per cent for 1961. At the end of the year there were 1,804 boys in the Scouts, compared with 1,640 at the end of 1960. Of the total, 1,061 were white and 743 Negro.

Along with growth in number, participating, there has been a rise in advancement of 67 per cent. This means that there are not only more boys in Scouting but that they are working as never before to move ahead in rank.

The only category in which there has been a decline in participation is that of Explorer. This program, designed for older boys, attracted 151 in 1961 contrasted with 157 in the previous years.

There are 614 Cub Scouts and 1,039 Scouts in the county. A year ago there were 562 and 928 in the two categories.

In addition to Alexander, leaders in the Scout program are M. E. Cavendish, district chairman, and Harry Billica, commissioner, who is in charge of the program for the District which comprises Pitt County.

Assisting them are 502 adults in 13 Pitt communities who take Scouting to one-third of the white boys of the county, organized in 42 units.

Leading the Negro division are James W. Crimes and his 119 adult associates who assist one-fifth of the Negro boys of the county with their Scout programs in 31 units.

In 1961 these leaders helped stage 22 troop camporees. There were 34 county-wide activities, such as courts of honor, campouts and rallies, and 134 boys attended summer camp under Scout auspices.

During the year 18 training courses were set up to help leaders learn to carry on their work with the Scouts more effectively in a program which has not suffered the discontinuance of a unit for six years.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said today President Kennedy is requesting a $10-billion increase in the national debt limit.

Byrd announced a sweeping inquiry into the nation's financial condition.

The Virginia senator said in an interview he will ask the Senate Finance Committee, which he heads, to go into all aspects of federal spending and taxation before it acts on a proposed boost of the limit from $298 billion to a record-breaking $308 billion.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said in a memorandum to Byrd and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, that such an increase is necessary if the Treasury is to meet its future bills.

Dillon asked for a boost of $2 billion before March 1 and $8 billion for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. He said this would cover an estimated peak debt of $304.5 billion next Dec. 16 and give the Treasury about the $3 billion elbow room it needs to operate under the ceiling.

Byrd said he is willing to go along with the temporary increase to $300 billion because "the President told me personally that otherwise the government couldn't pay its bills."

"But before we make any further increases, I think the country should be told exactly where we stand financially," he said.

"We have gone along the road of reckless spending and debt increases as far as we can go. I know of no more pressing duty on the Congress than to obtain as clear a picture as possible of these unconscionable debts and then appraise the situation to find out what can be done about them. Our tax burden is the highest in history and to increase it substantially would have serious repercussions."

Noting that the country has been on a deficit financing basis in 26 of the last 31 years, Byrd said he thinks this year's bulge of expenditures may climb as high as $10 billion above receipts. The Treasury has forecast a $6.9-billion deficit.

"The President estimates a nominal surplus in the year beginning next July 1," Byrd said. "I predict another deficit because I do not believe revenues will rise by the $11 billion he is estimating."

Byrd noted that the permanent debt ceiling fixed by Congress is $285 billion. This has been raised annually but on a temporary basis. During World War II the limit was $300 billion, but the debt never reached a peak of more than $275 billion.

Ex-Queen Can't See Daughter

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A palace spokesman had only a cool brushoff today for ex-Queen Dina's public plea to be allowed to see her daughter, Princess Alia.

The spokesman said King Hussein will continue to look after his daughter's upbringing himself. The former queen, 33, was divorced shortly after the girl was born five years ago and now lives near Cairo.

Regional Workshop On Communications Set

Approximately 100 superintendents, principals, supervising teachers, audio-visual coordinators, and school-board members from 22 public-school administrative units in Eastern North Carolina are scheduled to attend a Communications Media Workshop at East Carolina College Thursday.

Discussion and demonstration of communications in the classroom and of new developments in teaching tools will be emphasized on the program. Plans for morning and afternoon sessions have been announced by Mary Thomas Smith, supervising teacher in the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School at East Carolina and chairman for the Eastern Region of the N. C. Committee on Newer Media of Instruction.

Paul S. Flynn, Audio-Visual director, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, will open a morning meeting at 10 o'clock in the McGinnis auditorium. He will present an "Overview of the Conference."

Dr. Walter Bell, director of Audio-Visual Education in the Atlanta, Ga., Public Schools, will discuss "The History and Importance of Communications Media in the Classroom." Dr. Bell was formerly president of the Audio-Visual Education Division of the National Education Association.

Other speakers on the morning program and their topics will be Dr. Robert E. Cramer of the East Carolina Geography Department, "Effective Utilization of Visual Aids in Teaching Geography," and Dr. Corinne Rickett, director of Closed-Circuit Television at East Carolina College, "Closed-Circuit Television."

Participants in the workshop will attend a luncheon at noon in the Buccaneer Dining Hall on the college campus.

At an afternoon session in the Rawl building demonstrations of such tools of instruction as projectors; display boards, lettering devices, and mounting technique; audio and special tools, including remedial reading devices and language tape recordings; and films, filmstrips, and slides.

Familiar Queries Confront President

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—In this changing, uncertain world, at least one political fact stays sturdy and constant.

A president always has his problems. Like bad dreams that won't go away, week after week they tend to remain basically the same.

Since Kennedy is winding up a year in office, it was time to drop around and see how he is fielding the hot ones.

At his first news conference, on Jan. 25, 1961, the questions ranged all over the world: Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, had conferred with the Soviets—how about this, Mr. President?

Cuba—What's to be done with Castro? Laos—What will happen to that tormented country?

Appropriately, the first question Monday dealt with Ambassador Thompson who is still conferring with the Russians. Before the 32-minute conference had finished, Castro and Laos had come up too. The answers were no more positive.

Hearing Set In Stabbing Case

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A preliminary hearing will be held Thursday for Joel Lee Saye, 22-year-old ex-paratrooper charged with stabbing a pretty young ice skating instructor here Jan. 2.

Saye is charged with attempted rape, first degree burglary—a capital crime in North Carolina—and assault with a deadly weapon in an attack on Penelope (Penny) Christine Moore, 19, a student at Weomen's College in Greensboro.

Saye, who called his parole officer late the night of Jan. 3, and gave himself up, was the next-door neighbor of Miss Moore in a small duplex apartment.

Miss Moore was attacked after guests had left a party. One of the guests, Andre Drolet, a member of the Charlotte Checkers ice hockey team, returned to find her bleeding from stab wounds.

Curb Outbreak Of Smallpox

LONDON (AP)—The smallpox outbreak in England's industrial north is under control, health officer John Douglas of Bradford said today.

Douglas, whose Yorkshire textile town is the center of the scare, said 100,000 people living in the area have been vaccinated. More vaccine was hurried to Bradford as a precaution.

The disease was brought into Britain last month by immigrants from Pakistan, where an epidemic is raging. Five deaths have been attributed to smallpox in Britain and a sixth may have been due to the disease. A number of suspected cases are under observation in isolated hospitals.

MORE CHAPLAINS SOUGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Yeshiva University has launched a stepped-up program of chaplain recruitment for the armed forces, to help fill a call for at least 90 Jewish chaplains in the three branches of service.

Sokolsky

or the War Between the States. But no antagonistic movement has survived the strength of a continuous government. The result has been stability and strength.

When President Kennedy expressed his opposition to extremist movements, he anticipated for his country not revolutionary movements but a partnership in progress. What we must expect is not only political but economic stability. This has been the genius of the American system. While we do not have perfection in a free society we do labor to maintain a society in which freedom approaches equality.

The President's State of the Union message attacked no previous Administration; it did not assert superiority over its predecessors. It offered a program for the future continuity of the American system of freedom and equal opportunity.

He spoke long but his speech can be summed up in a phrase, equal opportunity for all in a free society which in all sections of the country builds a partnership for freedom.

Despite political differences, this speech was a continuation of one made by Abraham Lincoln, of another party. But in 1962, a President of the United States can take advantage of science and technology to establish a better life for all our people.

There are those who are so prejudiced that they refuse to recognize new needs and new developments; who insist that this nation can grow in wisdom and strength without anybody doing anything about it. To these, it needs to be said that greater strength comes from constant renewal of strength. This is not radicalism. It is a constant movement in the direction of continuity and stability.

On Verge Of Economic Union

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Economic Commission for Africa said Monday that independent Tanganyika, the British colony of Kenya and the British protectorate of Uganda "are on the threshold of full economic integration."

The commission's latest economic bulletin for Africa said those three eastern African neighbors had the same income tax system and excise rates, formed a customs and currency union and enjoyed "almost complete internal freedom of trade."

in his view.

"The Republican party must re-emphasize its position as a dynamic forward-looking movement with answers to the people's problems. It must fight being erroneously labeled as the party which is against change and new ideas," Morhouse said.

The usually happy forecasts on this year's congressional elections were given but the Bliss committee report and the Republicans, setbacks in the 1961 off-year elections blew a cool wind over the meeting.

Blast Sweeps Explosives Plant

BILBAO, Spain (AP)—Seven workers were killed and two injured Monday when a blast swept an underground section at the Union Espanola de Explosivos company at Galdacano, near here.

The plant manufactures explosives. Reports said the victims were handling powder in a subterranean plant especially designed to localize any possible blasts.

Fast Rebuilding Job For Kentucky

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
If this is a building year for Kentucky, what kind of a basketball powerhouse will the Baron have with his finished product?
At last counting, his po' little Wildcats from the Bluegrass were ranked second behind Ohio State had won 13 of 14 games and 12 in a row, and were leading the Southeastern Conference with a 4-0 record.
This was not supposed to happen. Over a span of three decades Rupp's Kentucky teams have dominated their conference, but the Wildcats have been shut out of the title the last three years.
Larry Pursifull was the only starter returning from last year, and Rupp had only three other lettermen — seniors Carroll Burdett, Allen Feldhaus, and Jim McDonald. Mostly, Rupp was expected to rely heavily on sophomore talent, notably a crewcut blond from Lake Charles, La., named Cotton Nash. This 6-5 teenager was tabbed as a "can't miss" prospect—and he has been

Collier Returns To Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Blanton Collier, who was fired by the University of Kentucky as head football coach, will return to the coaching staff of the Cleveland Browns, where he says he spent his "happiest coaching days."
Coach Paul Brown of the National Football League team, sounded equally delighted when he announced Monday that Collier will serve as offensive coach.
An original member of the Browns' coaching staff in 1946, Collier was defensive coach until 1953, when he left for the job at Kentucky. Two weeks ago, the university fired him and bought up his three-year contract, reportedly at a cost of more than $50,000.
"I'm pleased and grateful Paul wanted me back," Collier, 55, remarked from his home in Lexington, Ky.
"I'm tickled to death to have him back on the staff and know he'll be a tremendous help to us," said Brown. "I have a lot of confidence in his ideas."
MONTREAL TO BERMUDA
TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—Jules Huot, golf pro at Laval Sur le Lac Golf Club in Montreal, is the new winter pro at the Castle Harbour course. Huot won the Canadian PGA title three times. He is 52.
Highest winning score during the 1961 PGA tour was the 284 total by Jack Burke when he won at Flint Mich., last summer.

CULLOWHEE — A 20-foot jump shot in the last two seconds of the game by Bill Otte gave East Carolina's basketball Pirates a 62-60 win over the Catamounts of Western Carolina.

The victory for Coach Earl Smith's Bucs gives the team a 5-3 conference record. At the present time the Pirates are in fourth place in the conference with Lenoir Rhyne holding the number one spot.
At the end of the first half East Carolina was trailing by four points with the score 37-33. However, in the first 10 minutes of the second half the Bucs tied the score 46-46.
The lead changed hands several times during the remainder of the contest. The game was tied again with two minutes left to go 58-58. Free throws by Tommy Lavelle and Danny Tharpe put the Catamounts back in front 60-58.
Neither team was able to score again until the last 26 seconds of the contest when Lacy West stole the ball for East Carolina assisting Charlie Lewis in dropping in a field goal which tied the score again 60-60.
The final basket by Otte giving East Carolina the win was set up on a traveling violation against Western Carolina allowing East Carolina to regain possession of the ball with 10 seconds left.
The high scorer of the night for East Carolina was Otte with 27 points. The 6-foot-7-inch sophomore hit 11 field goals and five out of eight free throws during the game. The next high scorer for the Pirates and the only other East Carolina player to hit in the double figures was Lacy West with five from the floor and three from the line for 13 points.
Topping the scoring column for Western Carolina was Mel Gibson with 19 points. He hit eight field goals and three free throws. Other Catamount players to score in the double figures were Roy Tharpe with 14 and Gaston Seal with 11.
East Carolina will be idle for the next ten days until they meet Western Carolina here on Jan. 26.

Slim Chance For NCTCA To Get Power From AAU

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—What are the chances of the newly formed National Collegiate Track Coaches Association wrestling power from the AAU?
Mighty slim, one authoritative source who asked that his name not be used, told The Associated Press today.
"Look at it this way," he said. "The coaches can do all the howling they want. They can form all the new federations they want and even conduct meets. But who is going to recognize them? If they want to send their athletes into international competition, and that includes the Olympics, they must gain recognition from the International Amateur Athletic Federation. This outfit certifies the governing bodies in all sports."
"The AAU is recognized by the IAAF now and always has been. So the coaches' association sends a delegate to the IAAF convention and asks to be recognized. Do you know who one of the executive committee members of the IAAF—and one of the most powerful men in the organization is? Dan Ferris of the AAU."
"Does anyone think the IAAF would vote against Ferris? Not in a million years," Ferris, himself, has something to add.
"It should be noted," he observed, "that this new organization will have no standing anywhere. Athletes should take note that they automatically disqualify themselves from all international competition if they take part in any meet sponsored by an outlaw outfit."
The coaches' association, with the backing of the NCAA, threatened last week to hold a national championship in competition with the AAU championship in June.
The Metropolitan Track Coaches Association expressed no enthusiasm over the splinter group.
"I can't see any necessity for a new federation and I can't see any need for the battle," said Metropolitan Coaches' President Joe Healey of New York University. "Most of us coaches are not involved in the politics of the AAU and NCAA."
Joe McCluskey, coach of the New York Athletic Club, pointed out that the AAU clubs were the ones that should be gripping.
"It seems to me that every Olympic coach and every coach of a foreign team has been an NCAA coach," he said. "I don't recall a New York A.C. coach ever having been even an assistant on an important foreign team."
Both the NCAA and the AAU say they hope to come to some sort of agreement before things get out of hand.
"We're always willing to sit

Tradition Is For Veteran

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Young golfers have captured the first two big prizes on the 1962 professional tournament trail, yet tradition points to a seasoned veteran winning this week in Bing Crosby's $50,000 production here.
Phil Rodgers triumphed at the Los Angeles Open to start this year's cash parade and Tommy Jacobs came through at San Diego. A youngster could also win here, but it hasn't happened in the last dozen years.
Byron Nelson won in 1951 followed in order by Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Dutch Harrison, Cary Middlecoff twice, Jay Hebert, Billy Casper, Art Wall, Ken Venturi and Bob Rosburg, current defending titlist.

UNC, Wake Forest And Duke Tied For First Place In ACC

Lenoir Rhyne Seeks Seventh Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lenoir Rhyne, leading team in the Carolinas Conference basketball race, seeks its seventh straight victory tonight in Charlotte against a rugged Belmont Abbey team.
Elsewhere, Elon is at Guilford in the only conference game of the night, and Newberry is host to non-conference Presbyterian.
A victory over Belmont Abbey would present Lenoir Rhyne coach Billy Wells with his 100th victory against 33 losses. But the Crusaders are hungry for victory, too, trying to snap a slump which has caused them to drop four of their last seven games.
The two teams met once before this season and the Abbey came out on top 65-52. Lenoir Rhyne has an 8-1 conference record and is 10-4 over-all.
Since the Dec. 14 loss to the Abbey, Lenoir Rhyne has lost only one game. Jerry Wells has led the team in scoring with an average of 17.9 points per game and is high rebounder with an average of 15.7.
Second place Elon, sporting a 6-1 conference record and a 14-3 over-all mark, is favored over 10th place Guilford which has a 2-8 conference record and is 5-8 against all-comers.
The nearest challenger in the conference race after Lenoir Rhyne and Elon is Newberry, which has a 3-2 conference record.
Monday night, sixth place Pfeiffer won its fifth straight game by defeating seventh place Appalachian 65-58. Bobby Frank was high for Pfeiffer with 26 points and Jim Richardson scored 16 for Appalachian.
Pfeiffer now has a 6-5 league record and is 10-6 over-all. Appalachian is 4-5 in the league and 4-7 over-all.
In another Monday game, fourth place East Carolina slipped by ninth place Western Carolina 62-60. Bill Otte, high man for East Carolina, scored 27 points and made the winning basket with two seconds to play.
East Carolina is now 5-3 in the league and 8-6 over-all. Western Carolina is 3-5 in the league and 9-7 over-all.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Tar Heels of North Carolina moved into a three-way tie for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race Monday night with a 83-71 victory over South Carolina.
The Tar Heels, now 4-1 in the conference and 5-2 against all competition, share the top ACC berth with Duke and Wake Forest, who were both idle Monday.
In a non-conference game Clemson beat Furman of the Southern Conference 86-63. The Tigers are now 1-4 in the conference and 6-7 over-all.
Tonight, Maryland (2-3, 5-7) takes on George Washington, defending champion of the Southern Conference.
South Carolina played a dogged type of game Monday, matching the Tar Heels point for point in the first half. At one time, the Gamecocks led 29-22, but the half ended in a 36-36 deadlock.
North Carolina got a healthy boost from husky Jim Huddock, who as high man, scored 16 of his 26 points in the second half as the Tar Heels pulled ahead.
North Carolina scored on 30 of 65 field goal attempts for 46.2 per cent, its worst shooting average of the year. South Carolina hit 43.3 per cent of its shots and out-rebounded the host team 39-33.
Art Whisnant was high with 29 points for the Gamecocks who now have a 3-3 conference record and a 10-5 over-all mark with good showings against seventh-ranked Duke, DePaul and Michigan State.
Clemson took revenge on Furman Monday for its 89-63 loss to the Paladins during the Poinssettia tournament in December.
Furman had only three field goals in the first 14 minutes of the game — all scored by Jerry Smith, closely guarded by Mike Bohonak, scored only 18 points for the night.
Nick Milasovich and Jim Brennan each rang up 27 points for Clemson, which played without starter Gary Burnisky who is hospitalized with influenza.
Maryland goes into tonight's game as the favorite against

George Washington. In their only other meeting this season, the Tarps beat the Colonials 67-56.
Both teams lost Saturday to teams in their respective conferences. George Washington suffered a shattering 120-68 defeat by West Virginia and Maryland bowed to Duke 84-68.
The Tarps will be depending heavily tonight on the scoring touch of Jerry Greenspan, a constant high man, who scored 13 points in the Duke game.
Wednesday, North Carolina State 2-2 in the conference and 3-2 overall takes on arch-rival North Carolina.
There are no games Thursday and Friday, but Wake Forest is at Duke Saturday and Clemson is at N.C. State.

Table Tennis Club Opens

The Greenville Table Tennis Club, the first of its type in North Carolina, is now in operation and is open every week night from 7 until 11 p.m. at 815-B Dickinson Ave., above the Railroad Express Office.
The new club has four top quality table tennis tables and excellent lighting in addition to other features desired by top calibre players.
Free coaching is offered to members each night by registered players of the U. S. Table Tennis Association. The club is also affiliated with the same organization.
A membership fee may be paid for monthly privileges or "play as you play" may be done on a nightly basis.
The new club is run on a non-profit basis. For further information, interested persons may stop by the club or call Bowie Martin at 8-2374.

Signs Of Relief In Southern Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Those loud and heartfelt signs of relief audible in Southern Conference basketball today could be traced to West Virginia's Rod Thorn and The Citadel's entire squad.
At opposite ends of the conference map, Thorn and the Cadets both erased bitter memories last night—Thorn in West Virginia's 82-79 escape past Richmond, The Citadel simply by winning a game.
Thorn's memory was oldest, dating back to the night of March 3, 1961, and the semi-final round of the league's title tournament at the Richmond arena.
That night, William and Mary ended WVU's quest for a seventh consecutive conference championship, 88-76 — and just when the Mountaineers needed him most, Thorn was no help at all. He didn't score a point.
On the same arena floor Monday night, Thorn achieved vindication, pouring in 32 points as the Mountaineers stood off the stubborn Spiders for their ninth conference victory without a loss.
The Citadel's bitter memory, dating back only to last Dec. 29, was a six-game losing streak. Beginning that day in the finals of the Canton Invitational tournament, the Cadets inexplicably dropped successive games to Westminster, Richmond, Davidson, Furman, VMI and William and Mary.
Monday night, though, the tailspin ended as Gary Daniels pumped home 33 points and the Cadets routed Mississippi Southern 79-67.
The Citadel, however, still has a lot of ground to make up. Because of the losing streak the Cadets, a top-rated team in early speculation, are in the conference cellar with a 1-6 record and are only 4-9 against all comers.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

In a crisis-ridden world, and after all his experience as No. 007 in the British Secret Service (revealed in the books Casino Royale, From Russia, With Love, For Your Eyes Only, Goldfinger, Moonraker), James Bond should not have been surprised by any assignment or what it entailed. Still he got a job when his superior, "M," dispatched him to a nature-cure clinic in England, "Shrublands," to submit himself to two weeks' regimen—presumably to remedy effects of profligate, softening living in which Bond indulged when not on a danger spot.

Awash with vegetable juices he loathed and facing mailings and rackings on treatment tables, Bond took note of his surroundings with rebellious concentration and a yearning to escape. On the next table a stranger addressed as "Count Lippe" objected to removing his wrist watch for a massage. When he did, Bond espied an odd tattoo mark that the watch had concealed. Curiosity was not all that impelled him to check with his service's hq. about the tattoo identification.

CHAPTER 2

After his hour on the massage

table, James Bond felt as if his body had been run through a wringer. He put on his clothes and cursing M, climbed weakly back up the stairs.

At the entrance to the main lounge were two telephone booths. The switchboard put him through to the only Headquarters number he was allowed to call on an outside line. He knew that all such outside calls were monitored.

He gave his number to Head of Records and put his question, adding that the subject was an Oriental probably of Portuguese extraction. After ten minutes Head of Records came back to him.

"It's a Tong sign," His voice sounded interested. "The Red Lightning Tong. Unusually to find anyone but a full-blooded Chinese being a member. It's not the usual semi-religious organization. This is entirely criminal. Station H had dealings with it once. Lost a couple of top men. It was a double-cross. Hell of a mess. Since then they've dropped up from time to time in drugs and gold smuggling. They're big people. We'd be interested if you've got any kind of a line."

Bond said, "Thanks, Records. No, I've got nothing definite. First time I've heard of these Red Lightning people. Let you know if anything develops. So long."

Bond thoughtfully put back the receiver. How interesting! Now what the hell could this man be doing at Shrublands? Bond walked out of the booth.

A movement in the next booth caught his eye. Count Lippe, his back to Bond, had just picked up the receiver. How long had he been there? Had he heard Bond's inquiry? Or his comment? Bond had the crawling sensation at the pit of his stomach he knew so well—the signal that he had probably made a dangerous and silly mistake.

On the third day at Shrublands, after the massage, and the shock of the sitz baths, Bond had on his program "Osteopathic Manipulation and Traction." He was directed to a new section of the basement, withdrawn and silent.

When he opened the designated door he expected to find some hairy H-man waiting for him with flexed muscles. (H-man, he had discovered, stood for Health-man.) He stopped in his tracks. A good-looking girl stood waiting for him beside the couch. He closed the door behind him and said, "Good Lord. Is this what you do?"

She was used to this reaction of the men patients and rather touchy about it. She didn't smile. She said in a businesslike voice, "Nearly ten per cent of osteopaths are women. Take off your clothes, please. Everything except your shorts. Then lie face downward on the couch."

Bond soon realized that she was an extremely powerful girl. His muscled body, admittedly unresistant, seemed to be easy going for her. Bond felt a kind of resentment at the neutrality of this relationship and a half-naked man.

At the end of the treatment she told him to stand up and clasp his hands behind her neck. Her eyes, a few inches away from his, held nothing but professional concentration. She hauled strongly away from him, presumably by the object of freeing his vertebrae.

This was too much for Bond. At the end of it, when she told him to release his hands, he did not do it. He tightened them and pulled her head sharply toward him, and kissed her fully on the lips. She ducked quickly down through his arms and straightened herself, her cheeks red and her eyes shining with anger.

Bond smiled at her, knowing that he had never missed a slap in the face and a hard one at that, by so little. He said, "It's all very well, but I just had to do it. You shouldn't have a mouth like that if you're going to be an osteopath."

The anger in her eyes subsided a fraction. She said, "The last time that happened, the man had to leave by the next train."

Bond laughed. He made a threatening move toward her. "I thought there was any hope of being kicked out of this place I'd kiss you again."

She said, "Don't be silly. Now pick up your things. You've got half an hour's traction. That ought to keep you quiet." She held open the door.

Bond picked up his clothes and went out, almost colliding with a man coming down the passage. It was Count Lippe, in slacks and a gay windcheater.

The girl said to him briskly, "Just get ready, please. I shan't be a moment putting Mr. Bond on the traction table." She moved off down the passage with Bond following.

She opened the door of a small anteroom, told Bond to put his things down on a chair, and pulled aside plastic curtains that formed a partition. Just inside the curtains was an odd-looking kind of surgical couch in leather and gleaming aluminum. Bond didn't like the look of it.

In front of the raised portion where the patient's head would lie, and approximately level with his face, was a large dial marked in lbs.-pressure up to 200. After 150 lbs. the numerals were in red.

"Lie face downward here, please," The girl held the straps ready. "This is simply a machine for stretching your spine. You've got mild spinal lesions. It will help to free those. It's very soothing, really. Quite a lot of patients fall asleep."

"This one won't," said Bond firmly.

"I shall be starting you at only 90 pounds," the girl said. "In a quarter of an hour I shall come and see how you're getting on, and probably put you up to 120. Now come along. I've got another patient waiting."

Reluctantly Bond climbed up on the couch and lay on his face. He felt the straps being tightened around his chest and then round his hips. The motor began to whine. The straps tightened and then relaxed, tightened and relaxed.

Bond felt as if his body was being stretched by giant hands. It was a curious sensation, but not unpleasant. With difficulty Bond raised his head. The needle on the dial stood at 90.

"Are you all right?"

"Yes." He heard the girl pass through the plastic curtains and then the click of the outer door. Bond abandoned himself to the feel of the leather at his face, to the relentless intermittent haul on his spine and to the hypnotic whine and drone of the machine.

It was perhaps five minutes later when a movement of the air against his face made Bond open his eyes. In front of his eyes was a hand, a man's hand, reaching softly for the lever of the accelerator.

Bond watched it, at first fascinated, and then with growing horror as the lever was slowly depressed and the straps began to haul madly at his body. He shouted—his whole body was racked with a great pain.

Desperately he lifted his head and shouted again. On the dial, the needle was trembling at 200! His head dropped back exhausted. Through a mist of sweat he saw the hand turn slowly so that the back of the wrist was just below his eyes. In the center of the wrist was the little red sign of the zigzag and the two bisecting lines.

A voice said quietly, close up against his ear, "You will not meddle again, my friend."

Then suddenly there was blackness.

Depreciation Action Pledged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has announced sweeping cuts in the taxable "life" of apparel machinery and equipment.

The tax depreciation cuts, announced Monday, follow by three months similar action on spinning and weaving machinery and equipment.

And faster depreciation schedules for other industries will be announced this spring, the White House statement said.

The cuts announced apply to both new and used equipment. Sewing machines and allied equipment, described as the most important single items in the manufacture of clothing, can now be written off after nine years instead of 15 years, a 40 per cent cut.

The reductions for two other major categories, cutting equipment and pressing and finishing equipment, is considerably more than 40 per cent. For instance, the "life" for tax purposes of power cutting machines will be reduced from 30 to 8 years; creasing and form machines from 25 to 9 years.

Kennedy said the new depreciation schedules will enable garment makers to "speed up modernization of their equipment to meet foreign competition and provide jobs for American workers."

The old schedules have been in effect since 1942.

Proves Point, But Sentenced

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Mary Laflamme, mother of two, testified she wanted to prove school board elections were not properly supervised so in the election last Dec. 5 she voted at four polling places.

That was three votes too many, a Common Pleas Court jury ruled Monday in finding her guilty of violating state election laws.

Attorney Charles Gregory argued in vain that Mrs. Laflamme was trying to call public attention to a bad situation. He said she had no criminal intent.

Judge Dwain Box sentenced her to 30 days in jail and a $1,000 fine. Gregory said he would appeal.

"This one won't," said Bond firmly.

"I shall be starting you at only 90 pounds," the girl said. "In

Will Issue Order On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says he will issue an executive order prohibiting racial bans in federally assisted housing—one of his campaign pledges—when he considers it will be in the public interest.

The order will come, he said Monday during his news conference, when in his view it would make "important contributions to advancing the rights of our citizens."

Kennedy claimed that "this administration in the last 12 months made more progress in the field of civil rights on a variety of fronts than were made in the last eight years."

Two Republican senators took issue with him. Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., said in an interview that "I am not interested in getting into a partisan comparison of the past records of this and previous administrations. The important thing is whether this administration is doing everything it could and should do to advance civil rights now. Regrettably, in my judgment, it is definitely not."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said Kennedy "overlooks the fact that in 1957 and again in 1960 (the Eisenhower) administration got through Congress the first civil rights legislation enacted since the Civil War. It is under this legislation all of the voting suits have been brought."

"I see no justification for further delay in issuing an executive order banning discrimination in any program financed with federal funds. What I am waiting for is the bold stroke of the pen which the President repeatedly promised during the campaign."

This was a reference to Kennedy's campaign oratory that President Dwight D. Eisenhower could "toll the end of racial discrimination" in all federal housing program "by the stroke of a pen."

Kennedy has been urged to follow through on these promises by the Americans for Democratic Action and officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Noted Psychologist Will Visit College January 23

Dr. Harold Seashore, director of the Testing Division of the Psychological Corporation, New York City, will visit the East Carolina College campus Monday and Tuesday, January 22 and 23, and will address students and faculty members of the Psychology Department and their guests during his stay at the college.

Dr. Seashore's visit to East Carolina is sponsored by the American Psychological Association and the college Psychology Department.

On Monday night Dr. Seashore will speak at 7:30 in the McGinnis auditorium at a meeting open to those who are interested in attending. His topic will be "Aptitude Tests and the Utilization of Talent."

On Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon Dr. Seashore will meet informally in Room 105, Ravi Building, with friends of his aunt, Miss Laura Rose of Marine-on-St. Croix, Minnesota, who retired from the faculty of

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Defenders Of Groundhog Up In Arms Over Critics

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Defenders of the groundhog cried out in protest today against charges that, instead of being a weather forecaster, he is a lazy hibernator who sleeps through his big day.

His human allies say the groundhog is a toponch weather prophet. They are sizzling at the assertion he is interested only in food and romance when he finally awakes.

Groundhog clubs in this eastern Pennsylvania community and in Punxsutawney in the western part of the state charge foul play by the National Geographic Society, which said the groundhog sleeps right through groundhog day, Feb. 2, rather than emerging from his cozy quarters and looking for his shadow.

The old belief is that if the groundhog sees his shadow Feb. 2 there will be six more weeks of winter weather and poor crops; if he doesn't cast his shadow it means an early spring and good harvest.

The Geographic Society said the groundhog hibernates from mid-autumn until March, living off food he eats in the summer. When he emerges, said the society, he isn't thinking of weather but only of romance and food.

"Oh, foul deed!" exclaimed Robert Herr, chairman of the Board of Hibernating Governors of the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs in Quarryville.

"Never have we been taken to task like this even by those Punxsutawney fellows who have heaped ridicule on us in the past," said Herr. "This is quite upsetting. This calls for a special convocation of the board of governors."

The Punxsutawney fellows joined the Quarryville group in lashing back at the National Geographic Society.

"They don't know anything about the habits of the groundhog," said Sam Light, president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Light said the Punxsutawney groundhog positively emerges from his den every Feb. 2 to predict the weather, "and if the National Geographic people would come up here we would prove it to them."

Remains Of Ten In Single Casket

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)—A single casket bearing the remains of the 10 members of the Andrew Paladino family will be carried today for funeral services.

Paladino, his wife and eight children died in a fire that destroyed their rambling farm home while they slept early Monday. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The Paladinos were leaders in their community. In 1958 they were named Conway County farm family of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Paladino were 40. Their children were Phillip, 12, David, 11, Beverly, 10, Daniel, 9, Carolyn, 8, Ralph, 6, Jan, 5, and Terry, 3.

Kovac's Funeral Quiet, Simple

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Ernie Kovacs' funeral was quiet and dignified in keeping with the comedian's off-expressed wish.

In addition to the star-studded congregation inside the Beverly Hills Community Presbyterian church Monday, an estimated 600 of Kovacs' fans stood respectfully outside.

Admission to the church was by invitation.

Jack Lemmon, Frank Sinatra, Billy Wilder, Dean Martin, Joe Mikalos and Mervyn LeRoy served as pallbearers.

Graveside services at Forest Lawn's Hollywood Hills Cemetery were private — attended only by the widow, singer Edie Adams, and other members of the immediate family.

WOMEN WEIGHT LIFTERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University reports that a woman lifts her iron about 200 times an hour while ironing. Based on use of a three-and-a-half pound iron and six hours to do the ironing for a family of four, she lifts a total weight of more than two tons.

Investors Buy Silo Restaurant

Sale of the Silo Restaurant and plans for constructing a 60-unit motel to be operated along with the restaurant were announced here today.

A group of investors has purchased the Silo from Wilbur Hardee who founded the restaurant. According to the announcement the group will construct a 60-unit, executive type motel on the outside perimeter of the present Silo property.

The restaurant and motel will be operated by a national chain. Construction will begin within the next two or three weeks, weather permitting.

The purchasers anticipate taking over operation of the restaurant April 10, at which time the motel is expected to be completed. Total cost of the project is to be an estimated $600,000.

National Associates, Inc. is building motels throughout the eastern United States and Central America.

The motel will be owned by a group of investors which include Ned P. Laughinghouse, president and R. C. Stokes III, vice president of National Associates, Inc. Facilities will include a swimming pool.

New Manager Of Lost Colony

RALEIGH—F. Edgar Thomas Jr. of Chapel Hill is the new manager of the Lost Colony symphonic drama at Roanoke Island. He was named by the board of directors of the Roanoke Island Historical Association at a Raleigh meeting Monday. He succeeds J. Sib Dorton, who resigned a few weeks ago after two successful seasons.

Thomas is a native of Wadesboro, graduate of the University at Chapel Hill, and for several years has been connected with the general alumni association there.

This summer will mark the 25th year since the Lost Colony was launched. Shows were suspended for two years during the war. A high spot of the coming season will be special observance of the 375th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare.

The waterside theatre in which the drama was given was destroyed by storms last summer and more adequate theatre is now under construction by the National Park Service.

Marine Corps Is Also For Women

"It's not entirely a man's world, even in the United States Marine Corps," remarked Marine recruiter Staff Sergeant Leo Smith as he arrived in Greenville Monday to interview qualified women for enlistment in the Women Marines.

Standards to be accepted as a Woman Marine are very exacting, according to Sgt. Smith. And only those qualifying may be accepted for travel throughout the United States and many foreign lands.

Single women from 18 to 30 can receive full information on the Women Marine enlistment programs by contacting Sgt. Smith at the Pitt County Court House in Greenville every Monday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Police Chief's Car Is Stolen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police of Prince George County in nearby Maryland are keeping a sharp eye out for a dark blue 1961 four-door sedan reported stolen—It's their chief's official car.

Chief George J. Panagoulis said his county-owned Chevrolet cruiser was taken Saturday night from a parking lot at Bladensburg.

The car chief hot-wired the ignition to get it started, police said.

Films May Tell Flaw In Project

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Television and movie films taken in space are expected to pinpoint the trouble which caused a big space balloon to split apart high above the Atlantic Ocean.

Project officials theorized after the breakup Monday that perhaps the balloon carried too much air when it was launched, folded neatly in a canister aboard a single-stage Thor rocket.

A small amount of air was left in the bundle of plastic to help start the inflation process.

Last Act Was To Save Children

OVIEDO, Fla. (AP)—A Navy pilot's last act swerved his blazing plane safely away from 200 children, and the jet bomber crashed several hundred yards from a crowded school playground.

Killed in the plunge Monday were Lt. Charles Hodgate Jr., 29, and two crewmates whose names were withheld. A fourth man, Belton E. R. Wilson, 33, of Sanford, Fla., a bombardier, parachuted to safety.

Hodgate, who lived in Sanford, leaves a widow and three children.

Role In TV Serial Show Another Actor Assuming

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Constant viewers of CBS' long-playing daytime serial, "Secret Storm," are in for a mild shock next Monday. The face and figure of the principal character will be different—although the name will be the same and the plot will go on and on.

After eight years of playing problem-dogged Peter Ames, department store owner and widower with three children, actor Peter Hobbs has decided to quit the show after next Friday's episode.

He is giving such short notice—his departure is not entirely amicable—that there's no time to wind up the current story line, and, as is the usual practice, send the character to India or some remote place to cool off before bringing on the new actor playing the old role.

"I'm sorry to lose Hobbs," said Roy Windsor, producer of the show, "but his leaving isn't a real problem. There's just one answer: re-cast the part. In a daytime serial, it's the character, not the actor, that counts. And if viewers are disturbed about seeing a new face and write in, we'll explain what happened—without going into the contractual situation, of course. It's happened before and will again."

Hobbs says he's leaving—"after all, eight years is enough"—largely because he has some television ideas of his own he wants to pursue.

"In daytime serials," he remarked, "the actor doesn't really matter. In the show I have three children—and over the past eight years they have been played by five different boys and eight different girls."

CBS was proud and happy when, recently, it announced a special hour show on Wednesday, Feb. 14 during which Mrs. John F. Kennedy would take the viewers on a tour of the White House.

Now, the First Lady's conducted tour is an all-network show—at the request of the White House itself. NBC also will broadcast the show, still produced by CBS, from 10 to 11 p.m. (EST) that night.

ABC, which has a temporary vacancy on Friday nights to fill with news shows anyway, will re-broadcast the program from 7:30-8:30 two nights later. That will give younger viewers, many of whom would miss the late shows, a chance to see the official residence of the President.

Recommended tonight: "Premiere" Theater, ABC, 10-11 (EST)—"The Hour of the Bath," a story about a member of the Peace Corps, with Robert ("Laramie") Fuller and Barbara Luna.

Cotton Institute Calls For Effective Trade Accord

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute asked Congress today to help in the development of an "effective and statesmanlike" international textile trade agreement.

The appeal, by R. Dave Hall of Belmont, N.C., was to a hearing of the Senate Commerce subcommittee on textiles headed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

He said the President's proposal to restore confidence in the future of the American textile management and labor could be served if the international agreement contained these items:

Definite ceilings on textile shipments into the United States; a formula by which other nations could share in growth of the U.S. market, with proportionate reductions in the event of a U.S. market decline; provisions for absorption of products from emerging nations, and machinery to enforce agreements when exporting nations violate quota levels.

Hall also commented on a case now before the Office of Emergency Planning in which the industry seeks a ruling that textile imports are adversely affecting national security and the projected Tariff Commission consideration of placing a fee on the cotton content of textile imports to offset a raw cotton cost differential disadvantageous to U.S. mills.

A favorable finding in the OPE case, Hall said, would give the President "the flexible powers he needs in working out varying remedies," not only for cotton textile imports but also for wool, man-made fiber, and silk textile and apparel imports.

Khrushchev Believed In Difficulty At Home

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is apparently facing considerable difficulties at home, say U. S. specialists in Soviet affairs. But they add that the United States and its allies have no reason to rejoice.

This is the specialists' evaluation of such Kremlin riddles as the strange story of V. M. Molotov, the rift between Moscow and Peiping with tiny Albania in the middle, the whereabouts of Khrushchev himself, and a reported speech he made but which was not printed in the Soviet press. The speech, in Minsk, was described in Moscow last week as a big one but there was no account at the time of what Khrushchev said.

Today Moscow radio came up with a story of a speech in Minsk—presumably the same one—which gave no indication the address was an earth-shaker.

These and other signs, say the observers, point to a struggle between Khrushchev and a strong Stalinist group in his party's Central Committee and possibly also in the secretariat, the inner sanctum of the party bureaucracy.

The Stalinist elements, the belief is here, do not form an organized group, but their number may be large and they exercise power both in the hierarchy and in the lower level of the party apparatus.

But this interpretation of Soviet goings-on does not particularly please Western observers. Though it is expected that Khrushchev will ultimately overcome any Stalinist opposition, he might be forced to take into account its views or return to Stalinist terror and eliminate the opposition.

It is questionable, however, that he could choose this second course.

Khrushchev, it is now believed here by many officials, does not exercise such a personal control over formulation of policy as Stalin did.

partment—with the idea of combining quarters for the post office in a structure that would serve as a fire station as well—re-submitted its bid. Roebuck said the second bid was similar to the first.

Commenting today on Monday's announcement, Roebuck said the fire department still has not been returned its initial bid. He said fire department membership had expressed a desire "to get it back so we'll be sure we're not under any obligation to the Post Office Department."

The fire department had proposed a structure east of the site on which the new post office is to be constructed. The site was east of the intersection of NC 903 and NC 33 and on the north side of 903.

In his announcement Monday, Day said: "We are continuing to build new post offices where they are needed, but we are constantly re-assessing our lease construction program to determine whether present buildings can be altered or remodeled to take care of our expanding volume of mail."

"We now have about 45,000 post office locations throughout the country, handling a volume of 65 billion pieces of mail a year. By 1970 it is expected to rise to 90 billion. It is clear, therefore, that we must redouble our efforts, not only in expanding our capacity but also in devising new postal techniques to meet the demands of our growing population."

According to the postmaster general, the department's capital investment is limited substantially to postal equipment, while the building remains under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes. This is the agreement of the Stokes contract.

"This formula," Day said, "utilizes the resources and investment funds of private enterprise for needed postal buildings."

Optimists Hear Raleigh Man

A representative of the North Carolina Insurance Information Service, L. G. Weaver of Raleigh, discussed "Youth on the Highways" at Monday's regular meeting of the Greenville Optimist Club.

Pointing out that drivers between the ages of 16 and 25 are "by far the most dangerous group of drivers," Weaver urged the Optimists to become living examples of safe and courteous driving practices.

He said brief lectures about driving habits "don't do a bit of good when our young drivers see us turn right around and violate safe-driving codes."

In his address, Weaver cited figures furnished by the National Safety Council corroborating his statement that young drivers are the most dangerous.

Prior to Weaver's speech, Optimist President H. Thomas Money told the club its annual Christmas tree sale had been successfully conducted. He said local Optimists collected a greater profit than in either of the previous seasons in which the three-year-old club has conducted the sale.

He also urged members of the local Optimist group to attend the Feb. 3 Optimist District 18 meeting scheduled for Rocky Mount. Plans for the district meeting, he said, include attendance by himself, the club's two vice presidents—Dee W. Vinson and Johnny May—and local Optimist Secretary-Treasurer Billy Ross.

Money announced the Optimists' public-speaking contest for girl students at Junius H. Rose High School would be conducted at the club's regular meeting—at the Silo Restaurant—next Monday night at 6:45 p.m.

The contest for girls, he noted, was added to the Optimist agenda this year as a supplement to the local competition in Optimist International's Oratorical Contest, scheduled for February.

Portuguese Face Bitter Attacks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

—Portugal faced bitter attacks from the Communist and African blocs today as foes of her policy in Angola pressed for condemnation and possible punitive measures by the United Nations.

Poland, cosponsor with Bulgaria of a resolution calling on the Security Council to consider harsh penalties against the Lisbon government, was slated to take the floor as the 104-nation General Assembly's Angola debate went into its second day.

The former French Congo also was expected to blast Portugal's administration of Angola and to demand freedom for the West African territory.

Informed sources expressed belief the African group would not seek penalties against Portugal but would limit its proposal to a call for condemnation and a demand for Angola's independence.

Any resolution will need Western support to ensure the two-thirds majority required for adoption. The United States reportedly has made clear it does not favor any call for economic sanctions against its NATO ally.

Diplomats said U. S. delegates had told them the United States wants to see a moderate resolution which would prod Portugal to grant self-determination for Angola.

Portuguese Ambassador Vasco Vieira Garin walked out of the debate with his delegation Monday and said he would take no part in discussions of charges of Portuguese terrorism in Angola.

In a heated address, Garin accused the United Nations of bias and described the debate as "mischievously designed, from which only evil can come to Angola and to this organization itself."

He said his delegation would not take part in "illegal, pointless and wasteful" debate, but would reserve the right to return to the rostrum "to clarify matters or reply to the accusations which might be leveled against my country."

He indicated Portugal would not feel bound by any resolutions the assembly might put through against her policies in Angola.

Indonesia Scoffs At Claim Of Invasion

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's government admitted today it lost a torpedo boat in a clash with Dutch forces off West New Guinea. But it scoffed at Dutch invasion charges and claimed the Dutch deliberately launched the attack in international waters.

Maj. Gen. Achmad Jani, head of Indonesia's recently created New Guinea operational staff, gave no indication of Indonesian casualties other than to say that only one vessel was lost.

In Hollandia, capital of Dutch New Guinea, the Dutch navy said Dutch naval and air units sank one Indonesian torpedo boat Monday night and probably a second, drove off others, and took 50 Indonesians prisoner. A communist said rubber landing craft were recovered, indicating an invasion attempt, and that the clash occurred in New Guinea's territorial waters.

Dutch sources said the boat known to have been sunk carried 70 to 90 men—far more than a normal crew—and that presumably 20 to 40 men were not rescued.

The Dutch charged that the incident was "clear evidence of Indonesian military aggression to get a stronghold on New Guinea territory and to plant the red and white (Indonesian) flag."

Indonesian officials claimed their boat was sunk 25 miles off the New Guinea coast. They said Indonesia would accuse the Dutch of provocation in a complaint to U.N. acting Secretary-General U. Thant.

At the Hague, Dutch Prime Minister Jan de Quay said after an emergency Cabinet meeting his government also would express to the United Nations "our concern about the Indonesian attack."

He said the Dutch would assure the United Nations "that we remain willing to start negotiations at once" with Indonesia on the future of West New Guinea, which Indonesian President Sukarno has threatened to take by invasion if the Dutch do not give it up. Thant, in similar cables to Sukarno and De Quay, expressed deep concern over the clash and again urged both countries to seek a peaceful settlement.
