Resignation Of City Manager Is Accepted By Council Today

Called Session Held At Noon; Taxi Operator's Permit Also Revoked

City councilmen formally accepted, with regret, City Manager Louis Scheipers, Jr. resignation shortly after noon today.

The action was taken in a called session of the council at noon today.

Mayor Charles M. King read Scheiper's letter, dated Jan. 5 to the council. In it, the former city manager agreed to serve in an advisory capacity for at least 30 days.

Councilman Ford McGowan offered the motion to accept the resignation and Councilman Ralph Brimley seconded it after asking that "with regret" be included in the motion. It was approved unanimously.

"We wish you the best of luck, Mr. Scheipers," Mayor King told the former city manager.

"Thank you, sir," Scheipers replied.

Scheipers revealed Jan. 5 that he planned to submit his resignation. Subsequently he made public his letter of resignation and submitted it to the council. All that remained was the formal action on it that was taken today by the council.

Scheipers came to Greenville last June from Southern Pines where he had served as city manager.

The council also revoked a taxi operator's permit for James Marshall Williams on recommendation of Chief of Police Guy D. Langston.

In a letter Langston reported that Williams was convicted in City Court Jan. 15 on charges of selling tax paid whiskey Judge Charles Whedbee sentenced Williams to 90 days, suspended on condition that he not violate the liquor laws for two years and pay a $25 fine, cost deducted.

Councilmen unanimously approved a motion that the license be revoked.

Damage Costs Soared In Cold

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Last week's record cold wave sent the temperatures in Mobile down to 7 degrees and damage costs up to $1.75 million or more.

Plumbing fixtures received the worst clobbering. Repairs have cost about $1 million and plumbers say they still have about 4,000 calls to go.

Congress Seen Willing Accept Army Shake-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears willing to accept President Kennedy's plan to streamline the Army's high command.

The reorganization program caused little surprise and no declared opposition when it was announced by the Pentagon Tuesday. Its major provisions were known beforehand to key members of both House and Senate, either of which could kill it by passing a resolution.

The plan—the first major Army reorganization in nine years—involves creation of two new commands under which will be concentrated (1) research, (2) development, (3) procurement and (4) other functions now performed by such individual technical services as the Ordnance, Quartermaster and Signal Corps.

It does not affect the Army's combat structure or any of the field command organizations.

"The prime purpose of this reorganization is to develop an army with the best possible command structure, management, training, doctrine, weapons, equipment and morale," said Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr.

A House Armed Services Committee member said he had heard of no strong opposition to the scheme and doubted whether any member would even go through the motions of offering a disapproving resolution.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., member of the Senate Armed Services committee, commented that "I am convinced that the proposed changes will give us a better Army—and also the maximum return for the taxpayer's dollar."

The Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va., will take over the training of technical manpower, a job it already does for combat personnel.

The Army will also establish an office of personnel operations to exercise central control of all Army assignment and promotions.

STERILIZING MAIL

ROME (AP)— The Italian Post Office Ministry Tuesday night ordered sterilization of all mail coming from Asian countries as an anti-smallpox measure.

School's Activity Bus Hit By Car

Forty Ayden Negro school children emerged unharmed from a close brush with serious injury near here Tuesday night when the activity bus in which they were riding crashed into an automobile driven by a Greenville man.

The collision occurred at the intersection of old NC 11 and US 13 just north of Greenville about 7 p.m. The Ayden students were reported enroute to a high school basketball game in Bethel.

Investigating officer W. E. Williams of the State Highway Patrol said the bus crashed into a vehicle operated by 31-year-old Royce Franklin Phillips of Greenville when Phillips attempted a left turn across the path of the bus.

The impact of the crash threw the Phillips car into the front of a 1958 model auto operated by Robert Lee Tucker, 61-year-old Greenville Negro. The Tucker vehicle, Williams noted, was stopped at the intersection waiting to enter US 13.

Total damage to the three vehicles involved was estimated by Williams to be about $900, with most extensive damage to the Phillips car.

Williams said Phillips was charged with failure to see if his intended move could be made safely.

At the time of the accident, the Ayden bus was headed north on US 13. Phillips was traveling south on 13 and was attempting to turn onto old 11. Tucker's vehicle was stopped, Williams said, at the intersection when the Phillips car smashed into it.

Damage to the Phillips car was set at $500 by the patrolman who said its entire right side was heavily damaged. The Tucker car was damaged in the front at an estimated loss of $250 while damage to the bus was estimated at about $150.

Sub-Zero Cold Heads Eastward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Subzero cold stung the snow-covered Midwest today and headed eastward toward New England. Freezing weather spread south to Texas and the Gulf Coast area.

Fargo, N.D., recorded a —40 reading at 5 a.m. and the —30 temperature at Bemidji, Minn., tied the record low for the date set in 1943.

The Boston Weather Bureau issued cold wave warnings for northeastern New York and Vermont predicting overnight lows of 5 to 10 below. Below-zero cold also was forecast for Maine and New Hampshire.

The core of the arctic air held an icy grip over North Dakota and Minnesota. Temperatures fell to nearly 40 degrees below zero in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. It was 3 below this morning after a high of -14 Tuesday in the northern Minnesota city.

Freezing weather chilled Southern sections as far as central Texas and eastward through Arkansas, Tennessee, much of North Carolina and in parts of Georgia and Alabama.

The subzero belt stretched across the northern and northern central Plains, the Upper Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes region. Some ice-box readings: -30 in Duluth, Minn. -20 in Minneapolis; -28 in Minot, N -26 in Fargo, N.D., and Alexandria, Minn.; -22 in Bismarck, N.D. and -16 in Eau Claire, Wis.

No immediate break in the severe cold was indicated. Even colder temperatures were expected in the frigid belt. Cold wave warnings were issued for northern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and western New York. Weather Bureau forecasters said the icy air will hold tight through the Middle Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley and the middle Atlantic states.

Chicago had its second straight morning of subzero weather with the mercury dropping to -5. It was 5 degrees lower in nearby Joliet, Ill.

Temperatures in the South ran from 20 in Crossville, Tenn., 27 in Birmingham, Ala., 29 in Augusta, Ga., Memphis, Tenn., and Asheville, N.C., to 31 in Atlanta.

Temperatures dropped into the 30s in parts of northern Florida, mild weather continued in southern sections, with readings in the 60s.

Plea Of 'Guilty' By Quiz-Whiz

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Van Doren, big-winning contestant on a rigged television quiz show, pleaded guilty today to second-degree perjury and was given a suspended sentence.

His plea, admitting that he lied in testimony before a grand jury, also amounted to an admission that he had been given answers to questions on the now defunct TV program, "Twenty-One."

Special Sessions Justice Edward F. Breslin gave a suspended sentence to the 35-year-old former Columbia University instructor.

Van Doren, son of the noted poet and writer, Mark Van Doren, was among 10 other TV quiz contestants whose cases were on the court calendar for today.

For Science, He Milked A Rhino

BRISTOL, England (AP)—Stan Evans said modestly today that as far as he knows he is the first person ever to milk one of the world's shortest-tempered beasts—a rhinoceros.

Evans, 30, a keeper at the city zoo, is milking two-ton Stephanie, a recent mother, in the interests of science.

UN Displays Concern Over Congo Massacre

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations displayed concern today over reports of the massacre and mutilation of from 18 to 20 Roman Catholics by bands of Congolese troops and youths at Kongolo, in North Katanga.

Reports received by the U.N. said 20 European priests were killed. Vatican representatives said, however, 17 European priests and a lay brother were the victims.

Neither the United Nations nor the central Congolese government could confirm the report of an African seminarian who fled from Kongolo after the attack. But in passing the account on to Premier Cyrille Adoula the United Nations noted that the story was told under oath in the presence of the Roman Catholic bishop for Kivu Province.

The seminarian said the troops were inflamed against the Roman Catholic priests because they were "poisoning the minds" of young people in the area.

The priests—believed all Belgians—were lashed, the report said, and shot by the troops; their bodies mutilated by the youth groups; the thrown into a nearby river by young seminarians who had been arrested by the soldiers and forced to assist.

No nuns were attacked, according to the report.

The troops involved apparently were the same contingent that massacred 13 Italian U.N. airmen in Kindu last November. Normally based in Stanleyville, they were sent by leftist leader Antoine Gizenga to invade North Katanga, and since their rampage in Kindu have been considered a disorderly, undisciplined band under no one's control.

Dominican Riotings Put New Junta Into Power

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Pressured by bloody rioting, President Joaquin Balaguer resigned Tuesday night and a new civil-military junta was sworn in to rule this troubled Caribbean island nation.

The junta was installed at the National Palace several hours after air force tank troops fired into a defiant crowd of hundreds in the heart of the capital, killing at least four persons and wounding a score more.

The shooting touched off the most violent rioting in the city in months, and demands mounted for the resignations of Balaguer and his armed forces chief, Air Force Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, who had been accused of planning to set up a military dictatorship.

(News dispatches from Santo Domingo were subject to censorship and made no mention of the fate of Gen. Rodriguez Echavarria. However, he told newsmen of the government change and Balaguer's resignation after a long emergency meeting of the State Council, and it was assumed he was still in control of the armed forces.)

The junta — four civilians and three military men — took over the government from the all-civilian seven-man council which had ruled for only 16 days. The council, headed by Balaguer, was installed Jan. 1 to guide the nation for 13 months toward its first free elections after 31 years of iron-fisted rule by the late dictator, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo.

The change in government drew immediate fire from the National Civic Union, the largest anti-Trujillo faction, and leader of the opposition to Balaguer. A spokesman called it a military coup d'etat and said all Civic Union membes in government posts would resign. However, associates of one of them, Foreign Minister Antonio Bonilla Atiles, said he had no plans to step out.

Radio Caribe, a government station, said the new junta will rule until Feb. 27, 1963, the date Balaguer had set for an elected government to take over.

(In Washington, a State Department spokesman described the situation in the Dominican Republic as fluid and withheld immediate comment. The United States resumed diplomatic ties with the Dominican government after the installation of the State Council.)

The junta, to rule without a presiding officer, retained two members of the deposed council—Antonio Imbert and Luis Amiamatio, prominent businessmen and the only survivors of the band of 12 that plotted Trujillo's assassination last May.

The other members are Maj. Wilfredo Medina Natal, Lt. Col. Neil Rafael Seija and Rear Adm. Enrique Valdez Vidaurre, and two government officials during the Trujillo era, Armando Oscar Pacheco and Huberto Bogaert.

Unconfirmed reports said three members of the old State Council were placed under arrest. They are Rafael Bonnelly, lawyer-teacher who had been scheduled to replace Balaguer as head of government; Dr. Nicolas Pichardo, president of the University Professors' Association and a Civic Union member; and Eduardo R. Barreras, second vice president of the council and former president of the Supreme Court.

Building Record For N. Carolina

RALEIGH (AP) — Building activity, measured by permits issued in 36 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population, rose to a record high in 1961.

The State Labor Department said today the $229,766,286 annual total was a 4 per cent gain over the 1960 figure.

While it was the fourth consecutive year in which building permits have set a new high over previous years, the gain was modest in comparison.

State labor commissioner Frank Crane gave these comparative figures: 1958, $171 million; 1859, $205.6 million; 1960, $221.1 million.

Commissioner Crane said the cities reported $17,419,978 in permits for December, 1961, 16 per cent over the same month of 1960.

Finns Re-Elect Pres. Kekkonen

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — President Urho Kekkonen today looked forward to a new six-year term as chief executive of Finland after solidly beating Communist and Social Democrat candidates at the polls.

Kekkonen, who has had a ticklish time keeping Finland neutral in the face of recent Soviet pressure, was assured of victory when his electors polled 45 per cent of the popular vote in this week's election. The electors will meet later to name him president officially.

'Does Injustice' To The Term

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Judge Raymond W. Graham granted Evelyn Jones, 27, a divorce from Ernest Jones Tuesday but said the basis for the petition was "the most amazing I've ever seen."

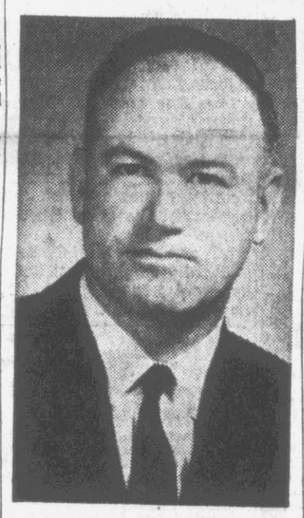

"That a husband and father of 11 children should be guilty of incompatibility does injustice to the term," said Judge Graham.

The couple married when Mrs. Jones was 13 and has children aged 12, 11, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1.

Solicitor Rouse Not Candidate For Re-Election

Fifth District Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr. of Farmville announced today he will not be a candidate for re-nomination and re-election to the job he has held for two consecutive four-year terms.

Rouse released this statement: "After careful consideration, I have decided not to seek re-election to the office of Solicitor."

ROBT. D. ROUSE, JR.

In answer to questions regarding his political future, Rouse stated that he had none at this time. He said he expects to "devote full time to the practice of law." Rouse is a partner in the Farmville law firm, Lewis and Rouse. His partner is John B. Lewis, also of Farmville.

Rouse's announcement leaves the Fifth Solicitorial District Democratic nomination race this spring without an incumbent candidate and, therefore, "wide open."

While the Farmville attorney was unopposed in the 1958 election, he emerged victorious in 1954 only after a five-man first primary battle and a second primary tussle with Luther Hamilton Jr. of Morehead City.

Among the field of 1954 candidates were one of Rouse's fellow townsmen, H. Horton Rountree, and Greenville attorney J. W. H. Roberts.

The solicitor completes his current four-year term as 1962 ends. His successor will take office in 1963, following the November general election.

The Fifth Solicitorial District is composed of Pitt, Pamlico, Greene, Craven, Jones and Carteret Counties. Duties of the district solicitor include preparation and prosecution of cases in the Superior Courts of the six Eastern counties.

Photography In Court Hit

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina State Bar Council says photographing, broadcasting and televising courtroom proceedings is undignified, distracting and degrading.

It adopted a resolution asking the State Supreme Court to bar such activity.

At present, Superior Court judges may permit courtroom photography if they desire.

A Supreme Court spokesman said Tuesday the resolution has not yet been discussed by the justices.

The Bar Council, an agency set up by state law, is the executive arm of the North Carolina Bar. It can approve or reject credentials of attorneys wishing to practice in the state.

Pitt United Fund Drive Concluded; All Requests Met

Pitt County's 1961-62 United Fund Chairman Walter B. Jones of Farmville announced today this year's drive successfully met the requests of participating agencies.

In announcing the official end of the 1961-62 drive, Jones said the agencies at a meeting Tuesday officially accepted their respective shares of the $91,350 budget.

The general chairman expressed appreciation to persons and organizations who aided in the campaign and termed the 1961-62 drive the most successful ever.

"For the first time in our history," Jones said, "we (the United Fund) were successful in meeting the requests of the participating agencies."

The agencies include the American Red Cross, the Mental Health Association, the Salvation Army, the Association for Mentally Retarded Children, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Association for the Blind, the Carolinas United Community Services and Pitt County Community Services.

Jones said that, although the final figures "did not quite reach the expected goal," the favorable result of the campaign was affected by "economies within administration and the fund-raising campaign.

"Utilizing these economies," Jones pointed out, "we were able to make the campaign a financial success as far as the budget for the agencies is concerned."

Continuing, Jones said, "I would like to publicly express my appreciation to George Coffman, chairman of the fund-raising campaign, for a job well-done and to the many public-spirited citizens who gave their time and energies."

The general chairman also expressed his gratitude to the "many firms and corporations throughout the county which cooperated, especially those whose personnel participated 100 per cent."

As chairman, Jones launched the United Fund campaign last fall. Coffman, a Greenville merchant, engineered and directed the fund-raising campaign that included systematic canvassing of the county for donations.

Jones, Farmville office equipment supplier, former State legislator and 1960 candidate for Congress, as general chairman of the drive coordinated the entire countywide United Fund program for 1961-62. His announcement today formally closed this year's United Fund campaign on an optimistic note.

Joseph Ivan Dew, 31, of 614 South Salisbury St., Raleigh, is being held in the City Jail without privilege of bond. He is charged with a 1958 break-in at Wagner-Waldrop Motor Company and with breaking and entering and larceny from Brown-Wood last Saturday.

Officers, noting Dew escaped from Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax County January 3, was taken into custody by uniformed officers, Sgt. E. G. Cannon and Ptl. T. G. Darden near the intersection of Dickinson and Boyd Aves. about 11:40 last night.

The events leading to Dew's arrest started last night about 8:13 p.m. when the Police Department was notified that someone was attempting to break into Wagner-Waldrop Motors, Inc. on Dickinson Ave. at West End Circle.

Detectives reported that an employee of the firm, Wilber Bailey was inside the building when someone broke through a window of the firm.

Chanel Bag Becomes Paris Rage

PARIS (AP)—Every woman worth her fashion salt this winter has what is popularly known as a Chanel Bag.

The object of the widespread desire is a medium-sized, soft-leather, quilted envelope with a long chain handle. Although Coco Chanel has made the same bag with slight variations for seven years, the fad, with a will quite its own, literally unleashed itself in the fall.

The purse, with its characteristic quilting and chain, has been copied by Paris' two biggest department stores, by specialty handbag stores, even by Monoprix dimestores.

The real Chanel bag is made of softest chamois leather. Navy and black versions are lined in red. Chanel's double C trademark is stamped on the inside flap. It is roomy, opening like an accordion to disclose three separate compartments.

To top it off, a current refinement entwines a fine leather strip through the loops of the delicate chain handle.

The ultimate is a white jersey quilted version which no honest shopgirl could afford to own. Cost of the real thing: $60-$100.

True to her principles, couturiere Chanel does not resent being copied. "If people can't afford to buy a real Chanel, I'd rather they bought a fake Chanel with the idea of Chanel in mind," she has said.

Paris' big Printemps department store has been authorized to call its quilted models "Chanel style" and has decorated its windows with the slogan "I love chains." Five hundred copies which ranged in price from $14-$25 were sold the first month.

The dimestore version, also leather, ingeniously quilts only one side of the purse, thus charging a mere $4. Three thousand dimestore "Chanels" have been sold.

There's no doubt the little purse has become a new Paris uniform.

Savings Accounts Convenient But Have Some Disadvantages

NEW YORK — (WNS) — Now that the interest rate on savings accounts is beginning to reach the highest levels in a generation, it's a good time to compare savings with other kinds of investments.

Here are the advantages of a savings account:

1. Your money is safe. Government authorities protect your funds by requiring the bank or savings and loan association to deposit them in high-grade securities, by setting the maximum interest that may be paid so the institution won't become insolvent, and by providing for deposit insurance so you are reimbursed in the unlikely event the bank closes its doors.

2. Savings accounts are convertible to cash on short notice. Therefore they are ideal for money needed to handle emergencies.

3. A savings account is an excellent place to keep funds earmarked ultimately for other purposes. Your funds will be available virtually at the moment that the opportunity for a likely investment arises.

4. A savings account is a place in which to accumulate profitably the sums necessary for a major investment elsewhere. There is just about no minimum on deposits, nor need your deposits be of any specific amounts. On the other hand there are ceilings, but you can get around these by using more than one bank.

5. Although the interest rate varies among types of savings institution, and from bank to bank of the same type, the careful investor can select the highest rate.

6. Since banks are found in almost every community in the country, savings accounts represent probably the most convenient form of investing.

7. Management of funds is transferred from individual investors like ourselves and placed in the hands of experts, thus giving us all the benefit of skill that otherwise would probably not be ours.

8. Our funds are placed in a diversified portfolio of investments.

On the other hand, there are some disadvantages to investing your surplus funds in a savings account:

1. As an investor shopping about for the highest yield, you may have to deposit your funds outside your own community. And although it's only a short trip by airmail to withdraw funds from any point in the country, that sense of immediacy in going down to the corner is gone.

2. Your deposited capital remains fixed. If there is inflation, the purchasing power of your deposited dollars is reduced. This is the lesson that holders of the popular U. S. Savings Bonds of World War II found. As they cashed in their holdings, they discovered that the $100 they received was often worth less in buying power than the $75 they originally had paid in.

3. There is no tax advantage on interest or dividends from savings accounts. For tax purposes they are considered full income, and therefore you pay taxes at the highest rate.

4. Interest rates generally lag behind increases in interest elsewhere on the economic scene. So, even though the 4 per cent rate now allowed the nation's commercial banks is the highest in many years, it's not unlikely that other rates will rise as well.

Right now, though, this 4 per cent compares favorably with other types of investment, as witness these averages: life insurance, 3½ per cent; U. S. Savings Bonds, 3¾ per cent; bonds, 4 per cent; stocks, 4½ per cent; mortgages, 6 per cent; real estate, 8 per cent.

Pre-Dawn Alarm Clock Starts 'Easy' TV Job

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK — (WNS) — The next time you turn on your TV set and see some pretty wench earning money with a bright smile and a few witty remarks, don't turn green. The poor girl may be working as hard as you are.

Consider Mary Fickett, who is one-half of the CBS-TV national "Calendar" show. On your television screen, Mary doesn't seem to be laboring — she just sits there, her brunette hair nicely combed, exchanging chit-chat with newsman Harry Reasoner or some visiting celebrity.

But Mary put in five hours work before you turned the knob. For one thing, she gets up at dawn.

"I resent having to get up at 5 or 5:30 a.m.," she admitted, "but that's the way it has to be, Monday through Friday. I shower and dress and have coffee, then read all the papers and listen to the radio. Everyone else on the show is an egghead and we're always discussing world-shaking affairs, so I have to be prepared.

"Then I grab a cab and get to the studio by 7. The hairdresser is waiting; so's the wardrobe woman and make-up man. By 7:45 we're on camera for run-throughs. We rehearse till 9:30 and at 10 a.m. we actually go on the air."

Considering she became a dramatic actress so she could sleep late, Mary is not too happy with her hours, particularly when she sees her husband, actor James Congdon, blissfully snoozing as she goes to work. But except for the alarm clock, she thinks being on a TV show is "just great."

This tall, blue-eyed girl who wowed the Broadway critics a few seasons back as Mrs. Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello" is one of the few legitimate stage actresses who doesn't bite the TV hand that feeds her.

"It's staggering how much more attention you get on TV," she admitted frankly.

"On stage I usually played older women because I'm too tall for an ingenue — and it's wonderful to have people write 'oh, you're so much younger than we thought.' It's nice to get mash notes for the first time in my life, too.

"Financially, TV is much steadier than Broadway. Think of all those weeks of rehearsals on practically nothing and then the show might flop. I've got a lengthy contract with CBS, and I'm sold on TV."

Mary, who's 31, didn't think of television as a career when she was young. Her father was the late Homer Fickett, who created radio's famous "March of Time," and she grew up admiring all her dad's actor friends.

"I had visions of a life of ease, acting by night and sleeping half the day," she said, laughing, "and here I am on a news show, getting up early. It's still show biz, and still a performance, but playing Mary Fickett is harder than playing Mrs. Roosevelt."

Mary conceded she yearns for a crack at a good Broadway part, but meantime she's devoting her energies to learning how to nap.

"Otherwise, I have to go to bed at 9:30 because I'm so tired," she said. "Weekends I sleep till noon.

"The only thing that worries me is what happens if my husband gets a part that means he'll work nights. I guess we'd just have to make appointments for Saturdays and Sundays."

Cooking Is Fun

BUTTERCREAM LAYER CAKE

1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup water
2 large egg whites
2-3 cup butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
Two 8- or 9-inch chocolate cake layers

In a medium saucepan stir together the sugar, cream of tartar and water. Cook and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves; cook without stirring to 240 degrees on candy thermometer or to soft-ball stage in cold-water test. Beat egg whites until stiff. Very slowly beat syrup into egg whites. Cream butter and vanilla; beat in egg-white mixture, a few tablespoons at a time; beat thoroughly after each addition. Use as filling and frosting for cake layers. Refrigerate until serving time.

HAM AND EGGS FLORENTINE

1 bag (10 ounces) washed, trimmed spinach
¼ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons heavy cream
¼ cup thin strips cooked ham
4 eggs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Wash spinach and drain. In a large saucepan over medium heat cook spinach with salt in water that clings to leaves; when water shows in bottom of pan, reduce heat, turn spinach with a fork several times and cook covered until wilted—5 to 10 minutes. Turn into a colander to drain and press spinach dry with a spoon; right in colander, with kitchen scissors, chop spinach into short lengths. Turn into bowl and mix in salt and 4 tablespoons of the cream. Turn into 20 individual shallow baking dishes; sprinkle with ham. Break 2 eggs into each dish; sprinkle with remaining cream and cheese. Cover with foil and bake in slow (325 degrees) oven until eggs are set as much as desired—15 or 20 minutes. Makes 2 servings.

You can add finely chopped apples to griddle cake batter for a delicious flavor change. Leave the apples as is or pare them—whichever way you like.

Indian Fabrics Among Designs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-three home furnishings designs were selected for American Institute of Interior Designers awards for 1962.

The designs were chosen from more than 650 entries to emphasize good design available to the consumer, and to serve as a source of encouragement to designers of furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, wall coverings and decorative accessories.

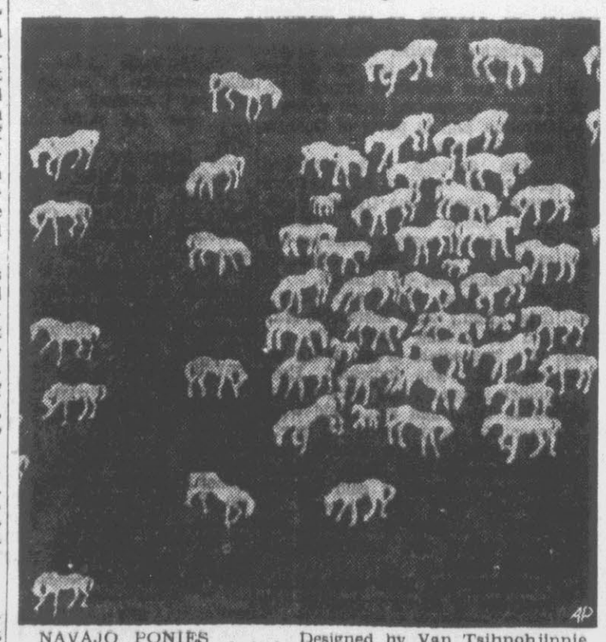

Fabrics designed by Indian students at the University of Arizona include a handsome sand colored rayon with white Navajo ponies by Van Tsihnohjinnie and a hand-dyed silk with cactus flowers by Bahah-Zhonie.

Other awards include "giant cloth" upholstery fabric selected for its new texture. The cloth designed by Robert Webb of Pasadena looks like a large-stitch knitted fabric. A rope cloth for wall use by the same designer achieved honors also for the use of an existing fiber in a wall covering.

Among the furniture designs were popular metal and wood combinations. One was a sideboard in walnut and pollard oak with a bronze base in the new "Northwest Look." The piece designed by Winsor White of Grand Rapids has a bronze base, coinciding with the trend to collaborate wood and metal.

A Peruvian table and open armchair designed by John P. Davies of Lima combines mahogany and palm with silver inlay tain and architectual cylinder planters.

An award for research and development cited a colorful window and patio screening, an innovation for the home. The screening made from coated fiberglas yarns is available in white, yellow, coral, beige, green and aqua and was designed for use in patios, windows, doors and porch screening. It has all he advantages of conventional screening.

NAVAJO PONIES . . . Designed by Van Tsihnohjinnie of Scottdale, Ariz., student of Southern Indian Art project of University of Arizona. Won A.I.D. award for new concept of color, design, giving basically American look to fabrics suitable to contemporary and traditional decor.

Widow Health 1961

BERNE, Switzerland—(WNS) — Rosa Graf, 85, who hasn't spent a sick day in bed since childhood, has been named Widow Health of 1961.

"People say I'm lucky because my health's so good," remarked the small, robust great-grandmother. "Then they do the opposite of what I advise and get sick."

She is against overheated homes, hot grog drinks, heavy meals, confining overcoats and too many blankets.

She offered these suggestions for coping with bad weather:

Avoid fats, but eat more cheese than usual.

Concentrate on fruits and green vegetables that have the vitamins to protect you from flu.

Get out into the cold, fresh air for a half-hour hike even if it's snowing or raining.

Don't cover yourself with heavy clothes.

"The woman who bundles u in furs catches the winter colds," the widow Graf said, "Why don't we copy the animals instead of trying to be comfortable?"

Ayden Rotary Reminded Of Heavy Accident Toll

AYDEN—Twenty-five times as many boys and girls are killed in automobile accidents as die from polio, Lt. Ernest Guthrie of the State Highway Patrol, stationed in Greenville, told Ayden Rotarians Thursday.

Citing the tremendous number of deaths resulting from automobile accidents, Lt. Guthrie noted that four times as many boys and girls are killed in autos as are dying from cancer and 15 times as many as are dying from heart disease. Cancer, heart disease and polio are three major disease killers.

Lt. Guthrie said the auto is the worst killer.

The chief causes of accidents, the speaker said, are speed and drunkenness, in order. A bad attitude and impatience on the part of the motorist hampers in reducing the bad driving record.

"We have to be directly affected to realize just how terrible a killer" the automobile is, Lt. Guthrie said. One thousand people per year for the past 10 years have been killed in automobile accidents. The highway patrol needs public support to do its job.

He noted it is a big job for 622 men to patrol 70,000 miles of paved highways and supervise the driving of one and a half million people.

It is not the purpose of the patrol to punish anyone, and "it is not a pleasure to arrest anyone, especially a drunk," Lt. Guthrie said.

Lt. Guthrie, a native of Harker's Island and stationed in Farmville several years ago, was introduced by Program Chairman Hal Moore.

During the meeting, held at the Community Building, Guy Corbitt, chairman of the 4-Way Test under the Vocational Service Committee, reported that copies of the 4-way test had been distributed to all school children in Ayden.

Lt. James Ross of the Ayden Police Department was the guest of Cleveland Paylor during the meeting.

President Gwynn Merritt was in charge for the evening.

Pershing Rockets Tops 400 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Pershing artillery missile has scored its longest test flight success to date, racing more than 400 miles down the Atlantic range.

Longer burning of both solid fuel stages and a reduction of instrumentation gear enabled the rocket to travel the longer route Tuesday. Longest previous Pershing flight was about 250 miles. The weapon is scheduled to be deployed in Western Europe later this year.

Emmett Kelly Thinks Circus Is Coming Back

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—That great institution, the circus, in recent years has fallen upon hard times. Other forms of entertainment, including broadcasts, reached parts of the country that once depended upon an occasional visit of the traveling tent shows.

But now, in the measured opinion of Emmett Kelly, probably the nation's most famous clown. television is reviving interest in the big shows.

Kelly, whose "Weary Willie" character has delighted cotton candy-eating crowds for two generations, said that around 1950 he felt the circus had really "started to go." Crowds were no longer turning out, circuses were combining and sometimes not even leaving winter quarters.

"But now things seem to be picking up," he continued. "People seem to want to go to the circus again. And I think TV is completely responsible—particularly because the children are interested."

Kelly will be narrator Sunday night of a Project 20 documentary showing behind-the-scenes -circus life on NBC's "Show of the Week."

"But today's circuses aren't like the old ones," he conceded. "A lot of us can fly to play special circus dates, and then fly home again. We live in houses, not trains, and our children can go to school. It's not like the old days —but it's still the circus."

ABC will follow NBC's lead by running full length feature films regularly in prime time. Starting April 8, the network will put old movies with big star names in a two-hour spot on the Sunday evening schedule. There are reports that the plan will dislodge "Bus Stop" and "Adventures in Paradise," neither of which have been getting good audience ratings.

NBC's Saturday night movies—two hours of old films—have done fairly well, but their popularity seems to rise and fall with the quality of the movie and the size of the movie-star names involved.

ABC's decision to go ahead on Jan. 23 with the taped comedy special made by Ernie Kovacs shortly before his death could be a mistake in view of the tragic circumstances. It will be difficult for viewers to catch the spirit of his comedy. It may be a pretty morbid half hour.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—Polly Bergen is guest star; Circle Theater, CBS, 10-11 — "Securities Are for Suckers," about stock forgeries.

The phone in one early phone booth required no money to operate but the caller had to deposit a coin to get out of the self-locking door.

WHEN AUNTIE MAME visits the family of her amiable Southern fiance, Beauregard Jackson Pickett Burnside, she meets some very funny though disagreeable characters. A scene from the comedy to be presented January 18, 19 and 20 by the East Carolina College Playhouse, pictures Wm. E. Rackley as the gallant gentleman from Dixie to whom Mame is briefly married (left); Lucile Dew, who recently starred in the Playhouse production of "The Glass Menagerie", as Burnside's essentric and domineering mother (seated); and Reida Ann Poe as Sally Cato Macdougall, a scheming Southern belle. The play will be presented in the McGinnis auditorium with 8:15 p.m. curtain time, and on January 23 at the Base Theater at Camp Lejeune in a special performance for Marines stationed there.

Barking Collie May Have Saved Grifton Family

GRIFTON—A barking collie, warning his family of danger, may have saved them from near tragedy by fire last Sunday morning.

The persistent barking awakened the W. A. Hines family, who found the attic portion of their house on St. David Street here afire. Though it didn't take Grifton volunteer firemen long to extinguish the blaze in 20-degree weather, damage was estimated to be in the thousands of dollars to the house and furnishings.

The fire reportedly started in the attic from the furnace workings, Police Chief Luther Lewis stated. The blaze began about 5 a.m. Snunday.

Wan, But Jolly Bing Goes Home

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A wan but jolly Bing Crosby left St. John's Hospital Tuesday after a 16-day stay following a kidney operation.

He joked with newsmen and waved to fans as he came down the stairs. A newsman asked: "Are you going to the Pebble Beach golf tournament?"

"Going?" said Bing with mock disbelief, "I'm going to win it."

Each Rate Hike More Than Offset

The administration is ready with another round of postal rate increases which will be placed before Congress and pictured as at least a partial answer to the staggering deficit which the Post Office Department manages to deliver every year.

An extra penny would be added to the cost of first class stamps and upward adjustments would be made in rates for some other classes of postal matter. These increases are calculated to jump postal revenues by millions. And it is a good bet that even if Congress granted all the increases the administration is seeking, the Post Office Department would still be able to deliver red figures at the end of the next fiscal year.

In the past decade as postal rates have been hiked time and again, there have followed just as consistently increases in postal expenditures which more than off-set the additional revenue. In this election year will Congress be just as inclined to boost expenditures as they have seemed to be in other election years? Will emphasis be on more revenue and more spending rather than effecting savings in operations of the Post Office Department and other agencies of the government?

Congress, it seems to us, could bring about a reduction in the postal deficit by insisting on more economical operations that would not appreciably affect the calibre of service now being given by the Post Office Department. If, on the other hand, Congress determines the requested increases in postal rates are essential to reduce the deficit, it should be just as determined that subsequent increases in expenditures by the Department should not more than off-set the additional revenue as has been the case in the past.

In the past the postal rate increases have done very little toward achieving the goal of reducing the net deficit of the Post Office Department's annual operations.

Risk Is Small, But Still A Risk

By LYNN NISBET

CONTINGENCY — There was nothing unusual about the fact that Governor Terry Sanford and Secretary of State Thad Eure rode together to Richmond last Saturday to attend the inauguration of Governor Harrison. It was a routine experience and nothing unusual happened. But—

But if the car or plane in which they were riding had been wrecked and all passengers killed — which all too tragically is also becoming routine — North Carolina would have been without a Governor and without any established process for obtaining one. The State constitution prescribes that in event of the Governor becoming incapacitated for any reason the Lieutenant Governor shall assume the office. In case both the Governor and Lieutenant Governor are incapacitated, the secretary of state shall convene the Senate for the election of a president, who shall assume the duties of governor. There is no further provision for succession to the top office.

North Carolina does not have a Lieutenant Governor now, since the death of Cloyd Philpot some four months ago. If the Governor and the secretary of state should both be knocked out, chaos in State government might result.

Most constitutional lawyers agree that in such circumstances the previously elected president or president pro tem of the senate probably would take over as chief executive. It is conceded that his assumption of authority might be challenged.

These considerations add to many others in support of the belief that the vacancy in the office of Lieutenant Governor should be filled as quickly as possible. If present constitutional and statutory provisions do not permit an election this year, a large segment of public opinion thinks the rules should be changed so that prolonged vacancy could not exist in the future.

DISTINCTION — As candidates are beginning to formulate campaign strategy, one of the chief problems is money. Every year elections become more expensive. The outright buying of votes has never been extensive in North Carolina, and most observers think the practice has declined in recent years. But advertising and printing, precinct workers, and other entirely legal aspects of campaigning have become very costly.

That is why candidates solicit more than votes from their constitutents. Which calls to mind the story about Henry Coley in Richmond county some years ago. Coley's influence was recognized by everybody who knew Richmond county politics, and out-of-county candidates also sought his help. One day an up-state candidate came by and had a very satisfactory talk with Henry — he thought. As he started to drive away he said: "It was nice meeting you, Mr. Coley, and I certainly appreciate your support."

"Wait a minute," said Coley, "I just promised to vote for you. If you want me to 'support' you, we'd better go by the office."

That is a distinction a number of new entrants into politics are discovering long about now."

WHOLE — Numerous similarities and parallels have been cited in the Kennedy national and the Sanford state administrations. One point of similarity has not been emphasized, although in some respects it is very significant. That is the basic recognition that despite factions and cliques, and sometimes apparent favoritism shown personal friends, both men accept obligation to all the people not just to one segment.

President Kennedy is a member of the Roman Catholic church. It was argued during the campaign that he would be subservient to the Pope and the Cardinals and would put the wishes of churchmen ahead of the good of the country. Among his bitterest critics now are these Catholic prelates who resent the President's attitude of Federal aid for parochial schools.

Governor Sanford is a member of the order of Ancient Free & Accepted Masons, which refuse to recognize or associate with a Masonic order of the Negro race. It is also true that the Catholics and the Masons have no dealings with each other. So when Governor Sanford accepted invitation to make a speech at a meeting of the Negro Masons he was soundly berated by some of his brethren in his own order. The Governor explained that he was not speaking as a Mason, but as the chief executive of all the people, white and black Masons, Catholics and protestants, Democrats and Republicans.

It is difficult for some people to make distinction between the personal and official acts of men with varied duties. Terry Sanford is a very prominent Methodist, and holds high official position in some Methodist institutions. When he attends those meetings, he does not go as Governor, but as a Methodist. And when he goes to his office in the capitol, he does not go as a Methodist or a Mason, but as Governor of all the people.

The late Governor Gregg Cherry made this distinction when Governor Strom Thurmond of South Carolina came to Raleigh during his 1948 campaign as the State Rights candidate for President. Cherry completely ignored him. "Any time the Governor of South Carolina or any other state comes to North Carolina in that capacity I will show him every courtesy and honor of which I and the State may be capable. When he comes as a politician, seeking to defeat the party which represents majority of North Carolinians, he is on his own."

Rumblings Expectable In Any New Changes

Army reorganization proposals made by President Kennedy already brought indications of resentment among some of the top brass, which is typical of every move since World War II to streamline military organization in the United States.

The reorganization proposal eliminates some of the traditional offices in the Army and creates two new commands. It will leave the present Army general staff largely in a planning and policy-making role.

Unless they are vetoed within 30 days by Congress the changes will become effective, although it will take some 18 months to complete the transition.

There have been growing indications in recent years that a greater streamlining of Army commands is needed to enable the military to cope with changing international conditions and with new military concepts. There have been a number of changes in the make-up of lower echelons within the Army, development of new types of forces and the like in recent years. It seems wise that, following the course of making the military more readily able to meet emergency conditions, a reorganization at the top level should also be had.

According to spokesmen for proponents of the reorganization measure, it has been under consideration for some time and diverging viewpoints have been thoroughly aired. It appears, nevertheless, that there is still in store the traditional struggle between the various commands to perpetuate themselves. These in all probability will come to the fore again as Congress considers the proposals.

From the broad view, the reorganization appears to offer advantages which far outweigh its disadvantages, and if that is the case, it certainly should be made effective in spite of the objections of some top military men who may disagree—for one reason or another with the proposed changes.

Similarity In Two 1st Years

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a bumpy first 12 months both Presidents Kennedy and Eisenhower headed into their second White House year in a kind of temporary twilight between afternoon and evening storms.

This was reflected Monday in Kennedy's first news conference of 1962. Neither the questions nor answers had a jumpy sense of tension. As news conferences go, Monday's was pretty dull.

It was much the same on Jan. 13 eight years ago when Eisenhower had his first 1954 meeting with the press.

Both men in their first year had been through a grinding chopper. Worse was to come for Eisenhower as it certainly will for Kennedy. The mid-January doldrums for both were an illusion of quietude.

In 1953 Eisenhower had brought the Korean War to an end but the battle between his administration and Sen. Joseph McCarthy already had begun.

Eisenhower in 1953 didn't have as much to worry about from Russia as Kennedy does now. It wasn't until late summer of 1953 that Russia had its first hydrogen explosion. It didn't have missiles then, either.

That very difference was at the root of Kennedy's most critical problem in 1961: how to keep Russia from taking over Berlin without getting into war.

Both men, by the time they had held their first news conference in January of their second year, had already delivered to Congress the outline of their second year's program in their State of the Union message.

There was a similarity between these messages. Much of both was routine although both suggested pushing the country's welfare programs forward a bit.

The response both men got from Congress could hardly be called overwhelmingly enthusiastic, particularly on Eisenhower's ideas about a new farm program and Kennedy's plea for tariff-cutting powers.

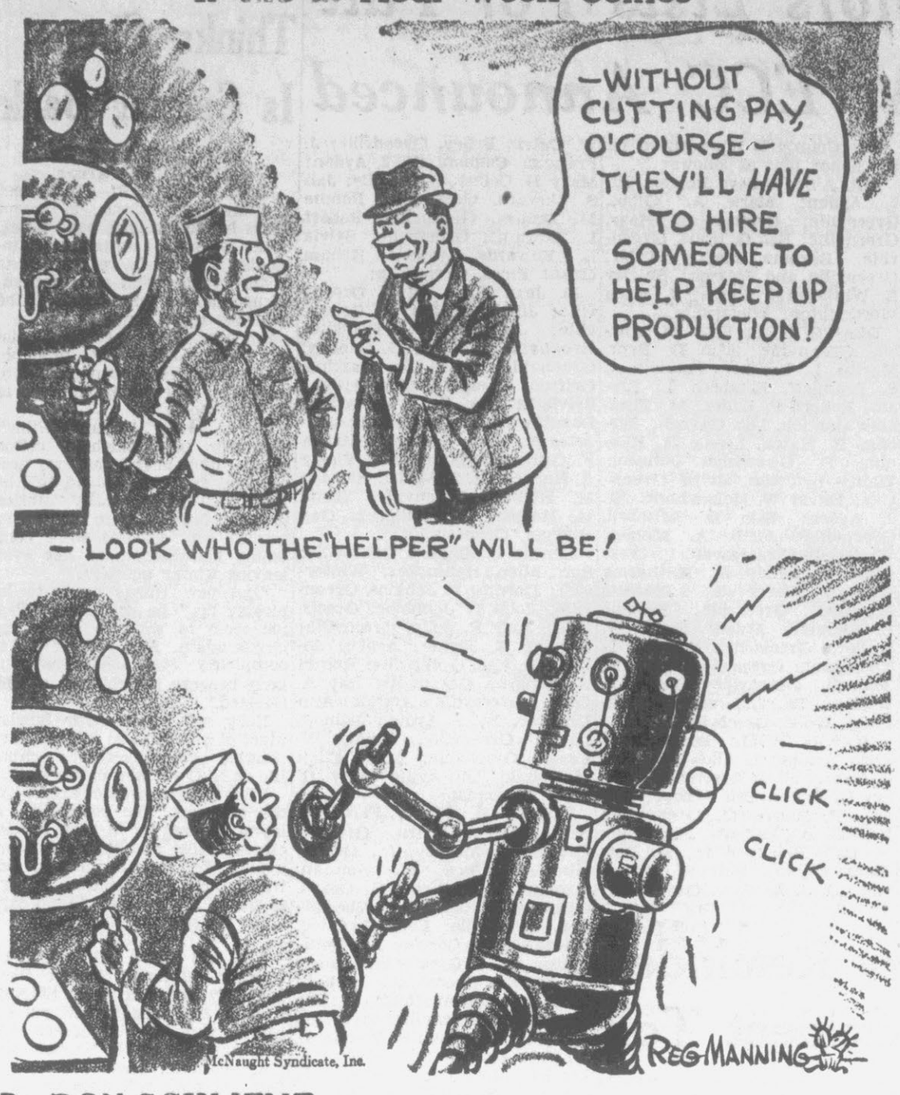

Both men delivered their messages at the beginning of a congressional election year. That explained, but only in part, the mixed reaction they got from Democrats and Republicans.

Kennedy, despite what looked like a great zest for news conferences when he took office, has lagged behind Eisenhower who made less to-do about them.

It was only a few weeks after Eisenhower's first and unexciting news conference of 1954 that his administration's knock-down-drag-out fight with McCarthy really got under way.

Kennedy at this time can only guess at what is in store for him. He knows he will have some more difficulty with Premier Khrushchev. He doesn't know how much. He doesn't know what may explode in Asia.

If the 20-Hour Week Comes—

By DON SCHLIENZ

It's Free; It's Waiting

It is free.

It was prepared with you in mind.

You'd do better to have one than not have one in the case of emergencies it is designed to meet.

What is it?

The new government booklet of suggestions and advice on matters pertaining to civil defense.

A copy can be picked up at the Post Office. (Sorry, one to a customer.)

I acquired one to see if anything new had been added to the old OCDM manuals; to learn if things were "better" or "worse" than depicted six months ago.

This pocket-size 48-page booklet doesn't pretend to give all the answers, but it does seem to have a little more stability and less extremism than its forebears.

Sensationalism is avoided, a matter-of-fact approach to the more common exigencies is indicated.

Yes, there are directions for a relatively low-cost fall-out shelter. But there is other information that should be kept available on a kitchen shelf or in a den . . . just in case, you know.

Twenty-five million copies of the pamphlet were printed by the government, and it's up to the individual family to see they get one.

Most people today feel "the heat is off" on the nuclear war fear. So do I. At the same time, it can be turned on again any time.

When one knows what to do, or has at hand some informed advice on what to do in the event of an unexpected emergency, there is less likelihood of getting rattled or panicking. In the long view, panic is about as bad as anything else that could happen in a national emergency.

Firemen, policemen, rescue squad men . . . they continuously study and drill to cope with the unexpected.

Civil Defense doesn't require that of the average family . . . just a knowledge of what you can do in a pinch, and what contingencies you might conceivably face.

Get a book.

In addition to guarantees of the right to pursue happiness, each Tar Heel child seems to claim the right to get out in the snow (when it snows) and chill their toes, their fingers and nose, to the freezing point.

Tell them it's wet, that even dogs have enough sense to stay under cover and smart birds have gone South . . . and you are an unreasonable tyrant.

Tell them that three sweaters, boots and a hood and gloves can't keep out the biting chill; that their noses will turn pink (and run, as well), that their fingers will hurt with the cold, and their toes, too; tell them they run the risk of catching pneumonia, a virus, the sniffles; tell them the ice is slippery, and as sure as shootin' they are going to fall down . . . hard and with all this advice based on years of experience in a cold, cruel world, what do they want?

Dull routine, the colorless, the staid quality of conformity may be our lot; but they way is lighted by imaginative bits and pieces.

Recent months have provided some flashes from an unexpected source . . . the once good and gray Saturday Evening Post. That magazine has been a part of the family since childhood and of late has seen a degree of rejuvenation unlikely among mortals.

For instance, there was the "Adventures Of The Mind" series which heralded an injection of hormones. This was followed by "the new look" and addition of the "Speaking Out" department . . . which is my new love.

In this, one may read of debunking baseball as the national pastime, a defense of the cocktail hour, a broadside at conformity, essays on danger on the right and left.

One's reaction, to any of this, is tinted by individual proclivities. Still, the end result is a refreshing assault on the mind.

The "Letters" column of the current SatEvePost issue includes an even dozen comments on a Speaking Out article I somehow missed last month, and my curiosity has been roused to the boiling point.

Subject: Let's Put Women In Their Place.

Now there's a writer wearing the mantle of a hero or a blithering idiot . . . and quite probably interesting reading.

Other Editors Saying ... Should Become One City

(Goldsboro News Argus)

The best thing that could happen for the progress of Carteret County and the mid-central beach country would be for Morehead City and Beaufort to incorporate as one city.

The jealousy, the fighting, the bitterness between the two Carteret towns puts the brakes on business, industry, culture, education and everything else.

The continual looking with jealousy one town at the other sets up a climate in which the full potential of a wonderful area cannot be realized.

If Morehead City and Beaufort had been pulling together on this most important decision on site for a new bridge connecting the towns, that bridge would have been built long ago. It would have been built at a site which opened the way for a new period of industrial growth and freed the State Port at Morehead and Beaufort to make the most of an unexcelled location. Here the state for its people and its business interests has a good deep water port within two miles of one of the busiest ocean truck lanes in the East. That port is just beginning to come into its own. Its growth will be well bottled up if a new bridge hems it in or fails to provide space for passage of ships of the largest size.

More immediately and regrettable is the current difference between Morehead and Beaufort over where a new county hospital shall be built. Bonds for the hospital were authorized months ago. But jealousy between the two towns has delayed a start and seen factions fighting with such bitterness that the whole county scene is handicapped.

And all this is all so childish and illogical. Morehead and Beaufort are one and the same except for the Newport river separating them. They complement each other. Together they add up to one of the most inviting coastal areas anywhere. Beaufort has its green and ancient charm and a good back country trade as well as sizable industry. Morehead has greater variety with its beach and fishing attractions predominating. Both towns could realize more on their special potentials if they quit fighting each other and joined for fullest progress.

The cool heads of both towns should be able to see this. They should be able to harness a great new power and promise by incorporating the cities as one.

Faith In The Future

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It is interesting to study a recent poll taken at Yale concerning the Cold War. The students differ from the President, who is more optimistic. The students get a side-glance view of the picture, but what they say is not to be ignored. For instance, the Yale boys answer thus:

"Which side is gaining in the Cold War?

10 per cent—U. S. and the West

75 per cent—Russia and the Communist bloc

11 per cent—Neither

4 per cent—Don't know."

The President's State of the Union speech has the United States way ahead in the Cold War, although a year ago we were behind. His data is conclusive and encouraging. The students could not know until the President told them what he had done to achieve such a result as this:

"But our strength may be tested at many levels. We intend to have at all times the capacity to resist non-nuclear, or limited, attacks as a complement to our nuclear capacity, not as a substitute.

"Thus we have doubled the number of ready combat divisions in the Army's Strategic Reserve, increased our troops in Europe, built up the Marines, added new sealift and airlift capacity, modernized our weapons and ammunition, expanded out antiguerrilla forces and increased the active fleet by more than seventy vessels and our tactical Air Forces by nearly a dozen wings."

Maybe the President should have spoken earlier because what he says is what the students want to hear. It is heartwarming that our young people are neither discouraged nor frightened. In fact, we are ready to meet the problems that face us. These Yale questions and answers are exciting:

"In regard to the overall military strength of the two blocs, do you think that the U. S. is:

2 per cent—Much stronger than Russia

38 per cent—Stronger than Russia

15 per cent — Weaker than Russia

0—Much weaker than Russia

7 per cent—Don't know

"Should the U. S. become more aggressive in the Cold War?

86 per cent—Yes."

Anyone who listened to President Kennedy's speech cannot possibly assume that he believes that the United States is weaker than Soviet Russia. In fact, every statement he made gave the prospect and the hope that we can meet every obstacle that Soviet Russia places in our path. We are ready to meet Russia—not to wait for others to lead. The President agrees with the students that 1962 is the time.

It is interesting that when older generations are questioned, they express fear of another war; the younger people, who have to give their lives in any war to come, do not fear war. They fear only the loss of freedom. It grows increasingly clear that youth in this country has moved far away from the Communist propaganda of the 1930's. Although it is too early and too optimistic to believe that the Communist effort in the United States has utterly failed, it is correct to believe that the Communists no longer are making headway.

Youth has gone conservative as compared to the 1930's. The danger is that it may be misled by reactionaries who are a wild peril to any nation, as great a peril as the Communists. Nevertheless there is hope that the reactionaries will be met as effectively as the Communists have been. Under the Presidency of John F. Kennedy, it is to be hoped that a conservative realism will rescue this nation from the menace of reaction. At any rate, one battle seems to have been won; we shall not lose the other.

This the Yale survey makes clear. In the 1930's and 1940's the response to the identical questions would not have been the same. In fact, Yale was one of the universities where conservatives found themselves unwelcome. The ghost of Hitler lay like a shroud over the minds of teachers and students alike. This attitude is now lessened if not gone.

In some universities the attitude is one of indifference, of apathy, of resentment at wasted years because of war and

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

MIND AND BODY

The world today appears to be fascinated by the study of psychology and psychiatry. A generation ago Johnny, if he could not read, was taken by the ear, set down on a chair, and sternly asked by his parents "How come?" Today he is whisked off to a psychiatrist. Mothers read books on psychology. Corporation presidents call in psychologists to consult with the board of directors. Your boy or girl gets into college now if the I.B.M. machine tape has certain perforations, and is rejected if it does not. All of which, although definitely mechanical, is based upon certain capacities which the perforations are supposed to represent.

Psychology is undoubtedly a marvelous branch of knowledge and without it the world would be infinitely poorer. But we can go daffy about almost everything, (even religion), and this generation appears to have gone daffy over psychology and psychiatry.

We claim no authority in any branch of knowledge, and particularly not in any of the sciences, but we venture the prediction that some years hence the craze will be not for phychology but for physiology.

In other words, we are going to appreciate the fact that everything that happens to us has a physical cause or produces a physical effect. We may face the grim possibility of entering an age when there will be pills for everything, (which is almost true today). But certainly the fact that we are physical beings is going to play an increasingly important role in many of our conclusions in the future.

Under Seige By The Lobbyists

By ELMER ROESSNER

Washington is surrounded. Its defenses are infiltrated. The Administration may not hold out.

The besiegers are not the British, who once burned the White House and chased the squirrels from the lawn, nor the Confederates who once harassed the outskirts of the capital.

Now the capital is completely surrounded by lobbyists. They have taken over most of the big-name hotels and have occupied most of the better motels.

Many of the lobbyists are there to fight against giving President Kennedy power to lower tariffs. They represent industries not dependent on exports for sales. They do not want cheaply made Japanese or European components sent into the United States without heavy, searing duties.

SEEKING TAX BREAKS

An almost equally large contingent of lobbyists want business taxes reduced — whether done by the hand of John F. Kennedy or by Congressional action.

They are sweet-talking to Congressmen, holding parties and doing their best to create the feeling that what the economy needs to soar are wings cut from tax savings. Among the objectives:

1. A speed-up of depreciation allowances for production machinery. Last year the Kennedy Administration reduced the depreciation of textile machinery by one-third to one-half previous schedules. This was intended to encourage the industry to replace old equipment. Now lobbyists for almost every other industry are arguing that the faster depreciation be extended. The familiar contention: each industry cannot afford to replace old machinery because it has not yet accumulated tax savings to pay for replacements.

2. A tax credit for new investment in business property. A bill already introduced would give companies an 8 per cent tax credit for money spent on new equipment.

3. Maintaining status quo on the taxation of foreign subsidiaries. The Treasury has presented proposals for greater taxation of earnings of foreign subsidiaries, and lobbyists for many companies with subsidiaries abroad would like to see action on these postponed.

4. Taxation of co-operatives. Private corporations are taxed on the net earnings; co-operative generally are not. Retailers would like to see this situation changed, but lobbying may be in vain. The co-ops have lobbies too.

5. New laws to restrict state taxation of interstate companies. Recent Supreme Court decisions have given states latitude in taxing out-of-state companies doing business inside states. As a result, out-of-state companies say they could be taxed as much as 105 per cent of their earnings. A strong lobby will ask Congress to reassert its powers under the Constitution and vigorously regulate traffic between the states.

6. No postage rate increase. This lobbying drive may be the most vigorous of all, since so many interests are involved, ranging from giant corporations to smallest businesses.

However, as things look now, the best the opponents can win is a postponement. With all other costs going up—and inflation stalking those least able to meet it—it is certain that higher postal rates are only a matter of time.

For that matter, higher prices for what you sell (or buy) are also only a matter of time.

Knight's Exit Tightens Up Calif. Governorship Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Goodwin J. Knight's exit from the 1962 campaign tightened up California's race for governor today.

Political leaders differed on the eventual effect, but most agreed it enhanced Richard M. Nixon's already bright chances for the Republican nomination.

Knight, 65, announced Tuesday he would not file for his old job in the June 5 primary. He was stricken last November by infectious hepatitis—a liver disease. His doctor, he said, advised against a strenuous campaign.

The decision by the colorful ex-governor removed the prospect of a Republican slugfest between Nixon and Knight, who had pledged a "real gloves-off fight."

It installed a hard-charging state assemblyman, Joseph C. Shell, 43, of Los Angeles, as Nixon's chief challenger on the Republican ticket.

Shell, an avowed conservative, has been making evident headway against Nixon's early commanding lead in polls. A wealthy oilman, he has delivered at least 400 talks throughout the state while Nixon has been busy on a book and other matters.

A third GOP candidate, former Lt. Gov. Harold J. (Butch) Powers, made a pitch for Knight's votes, saying "he and I always saw eye to eye." Knight, governor from 1953 through 1958, remained silent on whether he'll take sides in the Republican primary.

Democrats probably were disappointed by Knight's action. They had hoped that a serious cleavage in Republican ranks would help Gov. Edmund G. Brown in November.

Brown, who is expected to announce his own candidacy next Wednesday, got a lift in 1958 when Knight gave up his bid for re-election under heavy Republican pressure and handed the party's nomination for governor to former Sen. William F. Knowland. Brown defeated Knowland by more than a million votes.

The Democratic governor said the latest development means that the moderates voting on the Republican primary "apparently are left without a candidate."

He aligned both Nixon and Shell "to the right of center" and said "it seems to me this puts the burden of expression of the moderate viewpoint upon 'Butch' Powers."

Knight had made no secret of his overwhelming desire to trounce Nixon and settle some old scores. They tangled bitterly last year when Knight charged the 1960 presidential candidate, through emissaries, offered him any job to get out of the governor's race. Nixon denied it.

In his statement Knight said: "It is with greatest regret that I now follow the advice of my doctor. I shall not file as a candidate for governor in March."

Nixon, in a statement, extended his sympathy to Knight and best wishes for his recovery.

"I know," he said, "this is a difficult blow to a man who has been such a vigorous and tireless campaigner."

Little Town Is Booming After Big Embezzlement

SHELDON, Iowa (AP) — Business is booming in Sheldon—has been going great guns for the past year in fact.

That's remarkable when you consider that this northwest Iowa prairie town of 4,250 was hit just a year ago with a $2-million embezzlement which closed for liquidation the highly respected Sheldon National Bank — the town's oldest banking institution.

It landed two of the town's most prominent citizens in federal prisons and brought bankruptcy to the Northern Biochemical Corp., the biggest industry in town.

It was just a year ago today that townspeople heard the news that Burnice Geiger — assistant cashier of the bank, a member of its board of directors, daughter of W. P. Iverson, bank president, and widely known as the town's benefactress — had admitted the embezzlement.

The exact amount, according to scrupulous records kept by Mrs. Geiger herself, was $2,126,859.10, taken over the 35 years she had worked in the bank.

It was disclosed that $900,000 of the bank's money apprently went into the coffers of Northern Biochemical, manufacturer of enzyme-based livestock feeds.

Its president, free-spending Harold Kistner Jr., ultimately was convicted on federal charges of aiding and abetting the embezzlement, fraudulent sale of Northern Biochemical stock, and conspiracy. Mrs. Geiger, 58, was sentenced to 15 years. Kistner, 36, to eight.

Closing of a bank and a major industry can't help but have a tremendous impact on the economy of a town Sheldon's size.

But looking back on the year past, Mayor Merrill Fritts concludes, "We've come along pretty well. I don't think the town has been hurt too badly."

A new bank—the Citizens State Bank—has opened in the location formerly occupied by the Sheldon National. It bought the building for $40,000 after the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. started liquidating the old bank.

One thing that has helped, says Mayor Fritts, is that the FDIC originally paid off all the Sheldon National deposits in full up to $10,000. Depositors who had more than that in the bank now have received payments of exactly 50 per cent of their additional deposits. They may receive more as the FDIC completes the liquidation.

Northern Biochemical has reopened under new management much more conservative than the defunct firm's officers who gained a reputation for lavish parties and flying trips over the country in four company-owned twin-engine planes.

Robert McAlpine, the Sheldon Chamber of Commerce president, says: "Our recovery has been very strong. It has been a very good business year."

How do the people feel about doing business with a new bank?

"We feel," says Fred Campbell, president of the Citizens State Bank, "that acceptance has been very good. Our deposits are well over $1.5 million. People here have overcome this thing very well."

You don't hear much about the embezzlement on the streets any more, McAlpine says. "The people have more or less forgotten about it," he explained. "I think it's kind of a thing of the past."

Mrs. Geiger's aged parents live here quietly among their life-long friends and neighbors.

"Nobody here holds what has happened against them," said McAlpine.

Mrs. Geiger's husband, Wallace, died last year. His health had been failing since before the embezzlement was uncovered.

Would Like U.S. Pull Out Of UN

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he would like to see the United States pull out of the United Nations.

He also criticized anew the Kennedy administration, but the Arizona conservative said Tuesday night he has no intention of running for the presidency.

Goldwater said, "There are too many extremists or people on the left in government. There are never any on the extreme right in government."

The Republican senator spoke to an audience of students and townspeople at Miami University.

As for the United Nations, he said, "Let's forget the whole thing and join up with our allies and induce the neutrals to join us.

Didn't Bother Report Robbery

UNION, S.C. (AP) — Gainer Kemper of Union County had only $225 to show for his 105 years of life. The money was to "help on his buryin'."

That was last Sunday. Kemper was feeding his livestock last Sunday night when someone slipped up behind him and covered his face with a towel.

"He wasn't much stronger than I was and we fought for several minutes before he got my billfold away from me," the amazingly spry Kemper said.

The theft was not reported until Tuesday when two friends learned of it while visiting Kemper. Kemper had not bothered to report the theft.

the prospect of war. Nevertheless, the Russian effort to win American opinion for its inglorious gospel has made no forward strides. Our youth has turned upon the deviltry of Communism with hate for something ugly and hopeless.

This is a hopeful sign for the future only if some equally ugly reactionary movement does not arise to stimulate hate.

THUNDERBALL

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

In a crisis-ridden world, and after all his experience as No. 007 in the British Secret Service, James Bond should not have been surprised by any assignment or what it entailed. Still he got a jolt when his superior, 'M', dispatched him to a nature-cure clinic in England, "Shrublands", to submit himself to two weeks' regimen—presumably to remedy effects of profiligate, softening living in which Bond indulged when not on a danger spot.

Awash with vegetable juices he loathed and facing maulings and rackings on treatment tables, Bond took note of his surroundings with rebellious concentration and a yearning to escape. On the next table, a stranger addressed as 'Count Lippe' objected to removing his wrist watch for a massage. When he did, Bond espied an odd tattoo mark that the watch had concealed.

A covert telephone call by Bond identified the mark as a Far Eastern terrorist group insignia. On guard now, Bond saw Count Lippe using a phone and wondered if his own conversation with hq. had been overheard. His question was answered later when he was strapped in the spine-stretcher device for treatment. A hand bearing the tattoo reached up and turned the dial regulator to full speed. Screaming in pain, Bond blacked out.

CHAPTER 3

James Bond never seriously considering telling Headquarters about Count Lippe and what he had done to Bond. The whole thing, against the background of Shrublands, was so unlikely and so utterly ridiculous.

Weakened by a diet of hot water and vegetable soup, the ace of the Secret Service had been tied to some kind of a rack and then a man had come along and just pulled a lever up a few notches and reduced the hero of a hundred combats to a quivering jelly! No! There was only one solution—a private solution, man to man.

Later perhaps, to satisfy his curiosity, it might be amusing to put through a good trace on Count Lippe. But for the time being Bond would stay quiet, keep out of Count Lippe's way, and plan meticulously for juust the right kind of payoff.

By the time the fourteenth day the last day, came Bond had it all fixed—the time, the place, and the method.

At ten o'clock Mr. Joshua Wain received Bond for his final check-up. Wain's smile was elastic with good-fellowship. "And how's the world treating you, Mr. Bond? No ill effects from that unhappy little accident? No. Quite so. The body is a most remarkable piece of mechanism. Extraordinary power of recovery. Now then, shirt off, please, and we'll see what Shrublands had managed to do for you."

Ten minutes later, Bond, blood pressure down to 132-84, weight reduced by ten pounds, osteopathic lesions gone, clear of eye and tongue, was on his way down to the basement rooms for his final treatment.

As usual, it was clammily quiet and neutral-smelling in the white rooms and corridors. It was nearly twelve-thirty. Bond lay face down on the massage table and listened for the authoritative voice and the quick slap of the naked feet of his prey.

The door at the end of the corridor sighed open and sighed shut again. "Morning, Beresford. All ready for me? Make it good and hot today. Last treatment. Three more ounces to lose."

"Very good, sir." The gym shoes of the chief attendant, followed by the slapping feet, came down the corridor outside the plastic curtain of the massage room and on to the end room of all, the electric Turkish bath. The door sighed shut and a few minutes later sighed again as the attendant, having installed Count Lippe, came back down the corridor.

Twenty minutes went by. Twenty-five. Bond rolled off the table. "Well, thanks, Sam. You've done me a power of good. I'll be back to see you again one of these days, I expect. I'll just go along and have a final salt rub and a sitz bath. You cut along to your carrot cutlets. Don't worry about me. I'll let myself out when I've finished."

Bond wrapped a towel round his waist and moved off down the corridor. There was a flurry of movement and voices as the attendants got rid of their patients and made their way through the staff door for the luncheon break.

Now the petty-officer voice of Beresford sounded down the corridor, making certain that everything was ship shape: "Windows, Bill? Okay. Your next if Mr. Dunbar at two sharp. Len, tell the laundry we shall need more towels after lunch. Ted. . .Ted. You there, Ted? Well, then, Sam, look after Count Lippe, would you, Turkish bath."

Bond had listened to this routine for a whole week, noting the men that cut minutes off duty and got off early to lunch, noting the ones that stayed to do their full share of the last chores.

Now, from the open door of the empty shower room, he called back, in Sam's deep voice, "Okay, Mr. Beresford," and waited for the crisp squeak of the gym shoes on the linoleum.

There it iwas! The brief pause halfway down the corridor and then the double sigh as the staff door opened and shut. Now there was dead silence save for the hum of the fans. The treatment rooms were empty. Now there was only James Bond and Count Lippe.

Bond waited a moment and then came out of the shower room and softly opened the door to the Turkish bath. He had had one session in the place, just to get the geography clear in his mind, and the scene was exactly as he remembered.

It was a white cubicle treatment room like all the others, but in this one the only object was a big cream metal-and-plastic box. It was closed on all sides but the top. The front of the big cabinet was hinged to allow a patient to climb in and sit inside and there was a hole in the top with a foam-rubber support for the nape of the neck and the chin, through which the patient's head emerged.

The rest of his body was exposed to the heat from many rows of naked electric bulbs inside the cabinet and the degree of heat was thermostatically controlled by a dial at the back.

MORE MORE MORE

The cabinet faced away from the door. At the hiss of the hydraulic fastener, Count Lippe said angrily, "Dammit, Beresford. Let me out of this thing. I'm sweating like a pig."

"You said you wanted it hot, sir." Bond's amiable voice was a good approximation to the chief attendant's.

"Don't argue, dammit. Let me out of here."

"I don't think you quite realize the value of heat in the H-Cure, sir. Heat resolves many of the toxins in the blood stream and for the matter of that in the muscle tissue also. A patient suffering from your condition of pronounced toxemia will find much benefit from the heat treatment." Bond found the H-lingo rattling quite easily off the tongue. He was not worried about the consequences to Beresford. He would have the solid alibi of luncheon in the staff canteen.

"Don't give me that rubbish. I tell you, let me out of here."

Bond examined the dial on the back of the machine. The needle stood at 120. What should he give the man? The dial ran up to 200 degrees. That much might roast him alive. This was only to be punishment, not a murder. Perhaps 180 would be a just retribution. Bond clicked the knob up to 180. He said, "I think just half an hour of real heat will do you the world of good, sir." Bond dropped the sham voice. He added sharply, "And if you catch fire you can sue."

The dripping head tried to turn, failed. Bond moved toward the door. Count Lippe now had a new voice, controlled but desperate. He said woodenly, concealing the knowledge and the hate. "Give you a thousand pounds and we're quits." He heard the hiss of the opening door. "Ten thousand. All right then, fifty."

Bond closed the door firmly behind him and walked quickly down the corridor to put on his clothes and get out. Behind him, deeply muffled, came the first shout for help. Bond closed his ears. There was nothing that a painful week in hospital and plenty of gentian violet or tannic acid jelly would cure.

But it did cross his mind that a man who could afford a bribe of fifty thousand pounds must be either very rich or have some very urgent reason for needing freedom of movement.

James Bond was right. The outcome of this rather childish trial of strength between two extremely tough and ruthless men, in the bizarre surroundings of a nature clinic in Sussex, was to upset, if only in a minute fashion, the exactly timed machinery of a plot that was about to shake the governments of the Western world.

Bonner Urges Surplus Action

WASHINGTON — Congressman Herbert C. Bonner today announced that he had written a strong letter to the Secretary of Agriculture, Honorable Orville L. Freeman, urging that an immediate program be instituted to offer for sale on the foreign world markets nondescript surplus tobaccos taken over by the Stabilization Corporation several years ago.

This tobacco is not attractive to manufacturers and has, therefore, remained in stabilization warehouses at a tremendous cost to the Stabilization Corporation in storage and interest. This tobacco depresses the market and should be moved at world competitive prices or even cheaper than similar tobaccos grown in foreign countries. There is a danger of deterioration to a point where these tobaccos would be of no value whatsoever if retained in Government storage.

Bonner stated to the Secretary of Agriculture that a program of this type would be beneficial both to the growers and the Stabilization Corporation and would save the Federal Government millions of dollars. The Congressman further stated that he hoped the Secretary would initiate a program of this type prior to the coming marketing season.

Scrub City Hall For Relief Cash

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A crew of 10 work-relief recipients today began scrubbing years-accumulated grime from the floors, walls and ceilings of City Hall.

"The condition of City Hall is a disgrace," Mayor William F. Walsh said in ordering the "stem to stern, soap and water" operation.

Walsh, Onondaga County welfare commissioner until he became mayor Jan. 1, said time spent on the job would be credited to the workers to enable them to receive their welfare checks.

Police headquarters is slated for a similar cleaning job after the job at City Hall is completed.

Hunters Needn't Go Home Empty Handed, Now

GRATIS, Ohio (AP)—Pheasant hunters in southwest Ohio know they don't have to go home empty-handed.

They need only stop at Dan Petry's farm west of Gratis to buy a few of the 3,000 or so birds he has on hand.

"Most of my orders are for commercial game preserves," he says, "but I get a lot of orders for single birds, especially around Thanksgiving and Christmas time."

Petry raises the birds carefully from chicks, and at 16 weeks the nearly grown birds get the run of the farm — with a small strap over a wing to prevent flight.

Some hunters say they get a better meal by buying Petry's pheasants because they are raised on special feed and are tender, since they can't fly.

He'll also sell them dressed, ready for the oven, and that goes over a lot better than a wild bird with the hunter's wife.

Glenn's Flight Put Off One Day

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The attempt to launch astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into round-the-world orbit has been postponed one day, until Jan. 24, because of a faulty valve in a unit designed to cool Glenn's space suit.

Reliable sources reported the delay. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced a specific date for the launching and had no comment on the report.

Two previous launching dates, Dec. 20 and Jan. 16, slipped by because of other problems. Glenn is scheduled to orbit three times around the earth in 4½ hours.

'Second Wind' Has Kept Cincy And Falcons Going

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The unbeatable "second wind" that separates the good basketball teams from the ordinary has kept Cincinnati's Bearcats and surprising Bowling Green rolling right along among the nation's top college teams.

It worked for tough little Western Michigan, too, as the Broncos hammered down favored Detroit Tuesday night on a sparse college program curtailed by midterm examinations.

The paucity of games continues tonight, with 10th-ranked Mississippi State the only top team in action. The Maroons take on Alabama in a reschedule of a game postponed because of snow last week.

Cincinnati, ranked third, hit 18 of 30 field goal attempts in the second half en route to a solid 80-61 victory over Dayton at Cincinnati. Bowling Green's eighth-ranked Falcons also got hot late as they belted down Kent State 68-56. Bowling Green nailed 16 of 28 in the second half on the visitors court, and now lead the Mid-America Conference with a 5-0 record.

Cincy, now 12-2, trailed 33-26 at halftime after a miserable 9-for-32 first-half shooting performance A 16-2 spurt at the start of the second half sent Dayton (10-4) feeling. Paul Hogue led the Bearcats with 21 points before fouling out and Bill Chmielewski tossed in 17 for the losers.

Bowling Green (13-1) had 16-point performances from Bob Dawson and Elijah Chatman as four of five starters hit double figures.

Soph Manny Newsome, a 5-foot-9 whiz, tossed in 28 points in Western Michigan's upset of Detroit (9-5). Dave Debusschere had 31 for the Titans, who trailed 37-32 at halftime and faded for good on a 7-point spurt by the winners now 8-6, in the final minutes.

Notre Dame snapped out of the doldrums with an 88-80 upset of DePaul but Syracuse continued its winless (0-13) ways, losing 86-78 to Cornell, which raised its record to 11-2 behind Gerry Szachara's 26 points. Soph Carl Vernick topped all scorers with 39 points for Syracuse.

Elsewhere, Bob Duffy hit 22 points but Penn State won over Colgate 80-65 behind Gene Harris' 24; Bruce Kelleher and Bill Stasulatis each tallied 20 in Maryland's 81-67 victory over George Washington. Virginia Military defeated William & Mary in a Southern Conference game, 75-71 as Bill Blair led the winners with 27.

Los Angeles Loyola beat Pepperdine 64-54 in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Elon Within One Game Of Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elon has narrowed its margin of challenge in the Carolinas Conference basketball standings, pulling within one game of front-running Lenoir Rhyne in a race which is strictly a two-team affair.

Elon beat Guilford 88-53 Tuesday night to boost its conference record to 7 wins and one loss while Lenoir Rhyne, 8-1 in the conference and 11-4 over-all, beat Belmont Abbey 77-66 in a non-conference battle.

In another non-conference game Newberry beat Presbyterian 77-55.

The Lenoir Rhyne victory was a big one for the Bears even though it wasn't a conference game. The Abbey beat the Bears 65-62 Dec. 14 on Lenoir Rhyne's home court in Hickory, N.C., and the Bears were hungry for revenge.

The win also gave Coach Billy Wells his 100th basketball victory against 33 losses since he took over the Lenoir Rhyne team in 1958.

The Bears won the game, played at Charlotte's Park Center, at the foul line, making 29 of 33 free throws. Jim Wiles was high for Lenoir Rhyne with 20 points, followed by Jerry Wells with 18.

In the Elon - Guilford game at Guilford College, N.C., Elon never trailed after jumping out to a 5-0 lead before the Quakers scored. Dewey Andrew was high for Elon with 33 points. Elon now has a 15-3 over-all record.

In Newberry's non-conference tussle with Presbyterian, at Newberry, S.C., sophomore center David Hawks lead the way for the Indians with 18 points before a home court crowd. Newberry now has 8-5 over-all record and is third in the conference with a 3-2 mark.

In tonight's game, Catawba, fifth in the league, will seek to improve its 5-4 conference record. Western Carolina is ninth in the league with a 3-4 record.

Va. Tech Could Move Into Upper Echelon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia Tech's sophomore-dominated Gobblers, already one of the big surprises of the Southern Conference basketball race, begin a stretch run at home tonight that could carry them well into the league's upper echelon.

The Gobblers already have compiled a 6-4 over-all record and a 2-2 conference log — but have played only one game at home.

Twelve games remain on the Tech schedule, nine of them in the new Tech fieldhouse that was opened Jan. 3. Of the eight conference encounters left for the Gobblers, six will be at home.

Providing the opposition tonight for only Tech's second home tussle will be another surprise team, Richmond's Spiders. Although the Spiders are only 5-10 over-all, they stand 4-3 in league competition.

All league teams except Richmond and Tech are idle tonight.

VMI's Keydets tightened their grip on seventh place and enhanced their chances for a berth in the conference tournament with a 74-71 victory last night over William and Mary's Indians as sophomore Bill Blair led the way with 27 points.

The triumph boosted VMI's league record to 3-5 and its over-all record to 4-7. William and Mary now is 2-7 in the conference and 4-10 over-all.

There were 15 deadlocks and 16 lead changes, and the biggest margin by either team was six points. Sophomore Bob Watson's jump shot with 2:15 left gave VMI a 68-66 lead the Keydets never surrendered.

Inconsistent George Washington had one of its bad nights and dropped an 8-167 verdict to Maryland of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Colonials now are 5-8 over-all.

West May Catch The East In NBA All-Star Series

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The West holds an edge in top talent with the likes of Oscar Robertson, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, and with youth on its side, soon may catch the East in the National Basketball Association All-Star game series.

That's the opinion of Fred Schaus of Los Angeles, who coached the West in its convincing 150-130 victory over the veteran East stars in the 12th annual game before 15,112 here on Tuesday night. The East still leads the series 7-5.

"Understand, I'm talking about individuals, not teams," Schaus said. "You have to concede the Boston Celtics still are the best team in basketball."

Bob Pettit, 8-year veteran of the St. Louis Hawks, won the game's most valuable player trophy with a record 27 rebounds. Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-1 Philadelphian who holds a 49-point scoring average, set an NBA All-Star scoring record with 42 points.

Yet most observers felt the catlike Robertson was the difference with his smooth play making and 14-point third-quarter burst that put the West out of reach.

"Oscar got us running again in the third quarter and that broke open the game," Schaus said "but I won't argue that Pettit deserved the MVP award. Anytime a man gets 27 rebounds over the heads of Chamberlain and Bill Russell (of Boston), you have to hand it to him."

Pettit had 27 votes from writers, Robertson 11 and Baylor 5.

Baylor, playing on an Army pass from Ft. Lewis, Wash., after a two-week layoff, led the West with 32 points. He admitted, "I was tired and a little out of shape." Robertson had 26 points and Pettit 25.

Schaus said 6-11 rookie Walt Bellamy of Chicago was a major factor with 23 points and 17 rebounds.

"Walt took over from the start" Schaus said. "You expect great ball from Pettit and Baylor, but Bellamy's tremendous game was too much to count on."

Boston's Red Auerbach, coaching the East for the 6th straight year, thought Cincinnati's Jack Twyman "really killed us" with nine third-quarter points.

The West had conceded a rebounding edge to the East but despite Chamberlain and Russell, the West had a 95-80 bulge. New York's Richie Guerin was the No. 2 East scorer with 23 points.

The West won last year 153-131.

Crosby Golf Production To Open Thursday

By JACK STEVENSON

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf production opens Thursday with a bulky field of 324 scattered over three courses and nature providing treacherous problems in a picturesque setting.

Celebrities in fields of entertainment, business, profession and sports team with golfing pros, who also shoot individually for a top prize of $5,300.

Crosby's event formally is known as the National Pro-Amateur, with the field boosted this year to 162 teams. Each pro has an amateur as his partner.

Bob Rosburg, former PGA champion, defends his individual title. He captured last year's event with a 72-hole total of 282.

Pro Wes Ellis teamed with San Francisco attorney Frank Tatum Jr. to take the pro-amateur crown with a best ball score of 252. They are seeking to defend a championship no team has won two years in a row.

Each golfer plays one round over Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach before the field is reduced for Sunday's final at Pebble Beach.

Fingers are crossed for good weather, but rain is no novelty here, and winds whipping off the Pacific Ocean compound the problems on the trick courses.

Eleven pros who have won the Crosby are in the field. They face a host of young challengers including 1961 amateur champion Jack Nicklaus, Phil Rodgers who won the Los Angeles Open, and Tommy Jacobs who captured the top prize Sunday at San Diego.

The former champions, in addition to Rosburg, are Ed Furgol, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Dutch Harrison, Cary Middlecoff, Jay Hebert, Billy Casper, Art Wall, and Ken Venturi.

Nothing To It Says Giese

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Is Warren Giese, now athletic director, formerly head football coach, leaving the University of South Carolina?

The 38-year-old director told the Associated Press Tuesday "there's nothing to" the report or to one that he will step down as athletic director and be on the faculty of the physical education department.

Persons close to the university's athletic situation insist that Giese will either leave or step down as athletic director in the next few weeks.

They also say assistant coaches Jack Scarbath and Elroy Hottinger are leaving. Scarbath to go into private business. Scarbath was unavailable for comment and Hottinger had no comment when contacted.

Also reported is the planned departure of Red Canup, athletic publicity director, to return to his work with the daily newspapers at Anderson. He has been with the university two years.

Marvin Bass, former university assistant coach, came from an assistantship at Georgia Tech last year to succeed Giese as head football coach. Reports are he will be made acting athletic director.

Maris' Record Thrill Of '61

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The exploits of Roger Maris and his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record were overwhelmingly acclaimed the top sports thrill of 1961 in the annual Associated Press yearend poll.

Maris hit home run No. 61 on the last day of the baseball season to break Ruth's standard and climax the drama and pressure that had mounted as the New York Yankee slugger approached the record.

Of the 107 sports writers and sportscasters participating in the poll, 71 tabbed Maris' drive toward Ruth's mark of 60 home runs as the most thrilling sports story in 1961.

A distant runner-up in the balloting wast he University of Cincinnati's basketball team capturing the NCAA title last spring. The Bearcats ended Ohio State's 32-game winning streak with a 70-65 overtime victory in the finals. The feat received six votes.

Jerry Barber's winning the PGA championship in a playoff drew five votes. Barber, at the age of 45, defeated Don January by one stroke in the 18-hole playoff to become the oldest player ever to win the PGA title.

UNC And State Battle Could Mean ACC Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Altantic Coast Conference's two "deemphasized" basketball teams—North Carolina and N.C. State — battle it out tonight in Chapel Hill, giving the Tar Heels a chance to jump into the league lead ahead of Duke and Wake Forest.

The Consolidated University of North Carolina limited the schedules of both teams to 16 games and invoked certain recruiting regulations after former members of both teams were involved in last year's basketball gambling scandal.

The Tar Heels, sharing the league lead with Duke and Wake Forest, have a 4-1 league record. N.C. State is 2-2 in conference play.

The Wolfpack hold the season's biggest upset with a 61-60 victory over seventh-ranked Duke, but it also dropped a game to South Carolina last Saturday by a score of 62-56. The Tar Heels beat South Carolina 83-71 Monday night.

North Carolina was tied with South Carolina for second in team point production in the ACC. Each had averaged 79.2 points a game through last Saturday night's action.

N.C. State was second to Duke in defense with an average yield of 66.2 points.

The Tar Heels, with the second best average margin over the opposition, 9.9 points a game, are setting an ACC record pace in field goal production. They hit 49.4 per cent of their shots from the floor as compared to the conference record of 47.3 per cent by Duke's 1960-61 team over a complete season.

South Carolina and Duke are trailing in field goal shooting with 45.6 and 45.5 per cent, respectively.

North Carolina depends heavily on three men for its offensive punch. Six foot-8 inch Jim Hudock was ranked eighth in scoring in the conference through games of last Saturday with a 16.2 average. Guards Larry Brown and Don Walsh had 16.0 and 13.7 scoring averages, respectively.

N.C. State's Jon Speaks was ranked sixth in the conference with a 17.8 scoring average and two other Wolfpack members, John Punger and Russ Marvel had 13.0 and 11.2 point scoring averages, respectively.

In the only game involving an ACC team Tuesday night, Maryland beat George Washington of he Southern Conference 81-67.

Bruce Kelleher and Bill Stasiulatis each scored 20 points to lead the Terps to its second victory of the season over George Washington.

Maryland, whose record is now 6-7 over-all and 2-3 in the conference held a 44-30 lead at intermission. The game was close in the early stages, changing hands five times in the first 7½ minutes.

The score was 23-17 with about seven minutes left in the first half when the Terrapins made nine straight points to widen the gap 32-17.

Molotov Again Is Target Of Pravda

MOSCOW (AP)— Pravda today accused former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of waging dogmatic and stubborn opposition to Premier Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence.

The attack in the Soviet Communist party newspaper was the first propaganda blast against the old Bolshevik since the Soviet government announced Jan. 8 that he would return to his former post as permanent Soviet representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna.

The blast was so strong that foreign observers in Moscow felt the battle against Molotov and his so-called anti-party group could still be under way.

"Lenin's views on questions of foreign policy," said Pravda, "and above all on problems of war, peace and peaceful coexistence are being distorted not only by bourgeois ideologists but also by people who slip from the living and creative Marxist-Leninist position to the path of dead dogmatism.

"This refers directly to the anti-party group headed by Molotov, (Lazarus M.) Kaganovich and (former Premier G. M.) Malenkov. As is known, Molotov, in his dogmatic stubborness, slips down to making statements alleging that Lenin never and at no time spoke about coexistence of states with different social systems."

Molotov, now 71, returned home from Vienna Nov. 12 to fight a move to expel him from the Communist party after Khrushchev had denounced him and other members of the anti-party group once again at the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress. It was generally assumed that Molotov would be expelled from the party and at best would be allowed to live out his days in obscurity.

The announcement that he was returning to Vienna aroused immediate speculation in diplomatic quarters that Khrushchev had suffered a setback.

The Foreign Ministry at first said Molotov already was en route to the Austrian capital. Later that week the ministry said it did not know when he was going back. The ministry now will not even discuss the matter with Western correspondents. Neither will the headquarters of the Soviet Communist party.

Pravda's article declared peaceful coexistence is absolutely necessary now because a new world war would be suicide.

It praised Khrushchev for having made more than 30 visits to countries in Europe, Asia and America in support of his policy of peaceful coexistence.

"It is hard to guess what might be the effect upon Christendom if the stores of spiritually in Eastern Orthodoxy, long isolated from the West and represented by historical experience utterly unlike our own, came into vigorous contact with the other parts of Christendom," said Dr. Arthur Ramsey, head of the Church of England.

Tobacco Tips

by S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

One of the greatest hazards facing the flue-cured tobacco grower is caused by nematode diseases. There are only a few fields in which tobacco is grown that parasitic nematodes are not a problem.

Nematodes generally damage tobacco in two ways. They either enter the roots and feed internally, or they puncture the roots and feed from the outside. They rob a portion of the food supply from the tobacco plants when attacking the roots.

During the feeding process, nematodes inject substance into the plants that may kill part of the root tissues, cause swelling, or stunt growth.

A "Sick" root system results and eventually the entire plant may be stunted and the leaves begin to "fire" around the margin and tip. The would made by the nematodes also makes it easy for disease producing organisms to enter the plant.

Tests have shown that the presence of certain nematodes will make black shank and Granville wilt worse even when using resistant varieties of tobacco.

There are three different types of nematodes that attack and tobacco plant. There are ten or more species within these three groups. This fact makes nematodes more difficult to control.

The crop preference of the different nematode species is such that each may attack a wide variety of crops. Any given crop may be resistant to one kind of nematodes and susceptible to another.

It is believed that root knot and meadow nematodes cause much more damage to the tobacco crop than stunt nematodes.

Nematodes do most damage when high numbers are present in the fields at transplanting time. This fact makes it important for farmers to do everything possible to prevent a big carry-over of nematodes from the previous season. High infestations at transplanting time may stunt the tobacco plants so severly that they may not recover.

If you do not know that your nematode population is low enough to prevent injury to the tobacco plants, you should fumigate your soil with one of the recommended fumigants. Do not overlook the importance of transplanting a nematode-free plant in the field. Be sure your plant bed is fumigated for nematode control.

Crop rotations which include crops that are not susceptible to nematodes will help the nematode population. For example, in crop rotation experiments conducted at the Oxford Station, produced a per acre value of $1,009 in comparison with a per acre value of $799 where tobacco was grown continuously.

The nematode population can also be reduced by plowing out the roots as soon as harvest is completed. In experiments where this practice was tested for four years, the root knot-index was reduced from 90 in the plot where the roots were not plowed out, in comparison with 58 when the roots were plowed out.

Let's plan to carry out the vest possible nematode control program on your farm.

Art Gallery Now Picture-Lending

LEEDS, England (AP) — This textile city has started a picture-lending library in an effort to stimulate interest in art.

Residents who yearn to hang a Klee or a Matisse on their home walls can have one for one pound ($2.80) a year.

Rental works include 160 original paintings and many more prints. There also are reproductions.

Most of the loan collection was a gift to the Leeds Art Gallery from the Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation. The gallery's permanent art collection will not be available for rentals.

"We believe we are the first gallery to lend original artists' prints and actual paintings," said Dr. John Sweetman, curator of the print room at the Leeds Gallery.

Could Be Called Luckiest Loser

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The area's "luckiest loser" title may belong to Harry Howard of Whitehaven. He was en route to the bank when a high wind scattered his 77 checks and $220 cash over a parking lot.

With the help of friends, Howard recovered the 77 checks—and $221 cash.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

There are approximately 700 irrigation ponds and stock watering holes in Pitt County. These ponds are furnishing many millions of gallons of water for crop irrigation and as such are a great asset to the farmer.

One word of caution to those growers who are using these ponds also for a water supply for livestock. In extreme cold weather as we experienced the last half of last week, these ponds freeze over, cutting off the supply of drinking water for livestock.

When this happens, growers should take these precautions: Provide another supply of water for the livestock or keep the frozen water on the pond broken up so water can be had, or fence off the pond to keep livestock from walking out on the frozen pond.

One grower's cattle walked out on his frozen pond, broke through the ice, and were drowned. He reportedly lost $1,000 worth of cattle.

The latest U. S. D. A. estimate for farm prices is that the 1962 farm income will be equal to 1961 with a possibility of a slight rise. Demand will be strong because of rising consumer incomes and spending. Farm exports are expected to rise above last year.

The livestock producer can expect a good year. Hog prices should show some strength from this past fall's prices. Prospect is for only a four per cent increase in farrowings.

If this happens the market price average for the year should be near the 1961 average price.

Cattle prices should rise above the 1961 level by May, and remain above most of the summer. Weakest cattle market is expected in late summer and fall.

Egg prices should be about the same or some lower than 1961.

Milestone In Accident Data

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The year of 1961 established a milestone in the accident record of the American people.

It was the first time that the accident death rate in the United States dipped as low as 50 per 100,000 population, which is about 3 percent under the previous low set in 1960, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Provisional figures show that the actual accident death toll was about 91,500 lives in 1961, which represents a decrease of approximately 1,500 from the year before.

This relatively favorable record reflects to a considerable degree a reduced number of deaths from accidents in and about the home, the statisticians said. About 26,500 persons were killed in such mishaps during 1961, or approximately 1,000 below the number of similar deaths recorded the year before.

Motor vehicle fatalities, which numbered about 38,000 in 1961, also dropped under the 1960 toll. And it appears that the motor vehicle accident death rate per 100 million miles of travel fell slightly below the previous low of 5.3 established in the preceding year, the statisticians reported.

Although Americans are getting taller and heavier, hat manufacturers report that most people still buy hats size 7⅛ or smaller.

The Truth About Hormones To Make Skin Look Young

As I write this article, I can look through the doorway and see a woman of 45 waiting in the outer office, The light is good and I see her clearly.

She looks 10 years younger today than she did a month ago. What brought about this amazing change? Estrogenic hormones. Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they are 20 again? Only in a way I shall explain later.

* * * * *

To know the truth about hormones you need to learn just two simple facts 1. The beauty of a woman's skin starts breaking down as signs of menopause begin, because the female organs fail to supply enough estrogenic hormones to feed the skin—less and less as you grow older. 2. Estrogenic hormones can be supplied to the skin through formulations containing hormones.

* * * * *

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied.

These are the reports in simple words:

Skin lines (dry-skin wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out.

Blotches and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck.

Skin was softer, clearer, seemed to lose its chronic dryness, and take on revived freshness and vitality.

All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no changes occurred on the other side. The same withered, lifeless complexion.

Still another scientist reports in effect, improvement in the skin of women past menopause was striking. These women looked like the years had been turned back toward their youthful "pre-change" appearance.

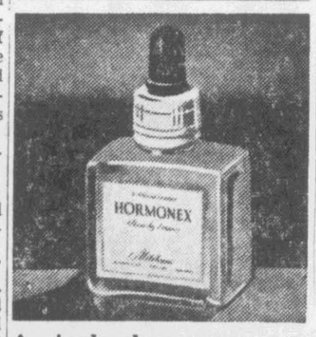

I've seen this myself. I have seen the improvement so rapid that in just two days women looked younger. And, what a lift to the spirits! I cannot truthfully say that women of 60 felt like they were 20 again. But I have seen the light come back into their eyes—their chins raised with proud confidence—the zest for living return—because—I presume—to look younger is to feel younger.

Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparation must appear on the label. The recommended daily allotment for the skin is 330 Units.

The base should be as rich as possible in moisturizing lanolin and penetrating vegetable oil— and when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky. On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a 40-year-old laboratory that has produced over 80 million packages of pure, fine cosmetics. HORMONEX is so effective in revitalizing aging skin that over 500 leading department stores and thousands of drug and cosmetic outlets recommend it to their customers.

What is more, it is guaranteed to bring you joyous, noticeable results in 5 days or your money back. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is really a bargain at $3.50. So, if you want to see if your dreams of a younger-looking skin—with these wrinkles dimmed, color and texture improved, can come true, I suggest you get a 100-day supply now. Use HORMONEX Beauty Serum for 5 days—then look for amazing results.

A single drop is so potent
A 100-day supply costs only $3.50 plus tax

Now you can concentrate your hormone treatment on spots that need it most because Hormonex Beauty Serum is so powerful a drop of it gives skin over three times as many hormone units as a dab of cream. Wonderful about the eyes and mouth, on the throat.

The most potent hormone preparation we know of for beauty culture—33,000 I. U. per ounce—equal to three and one-half 1-ounce jars of standard hormone cream. One bottle lasts about 100 days. Just 7 drops daily gives you the maximum allotment of female hormones. Contains large percentage of Lanolin and penetrating Sesame Oil to help replace natural oils of the skin and make your face and hands look younger.

Officially, Now 2 Houses Equal

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official now. The House and the Senate are equal branches of Congress and from now on will share top billing in the official Congressional Record.

No longer will the official proceedings of the so-called "upper body" appear first in the record, to be followed by a recital of what happened in the House.

At the instigation of Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, new speaker of the House, the Government Printing Office has agreed to rotate first billing between the Senate and the House.

SBI Report Is Expected Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation expects to turn over to Gov. Sanford's office late today a preliminary report of its probe which followed the firing of highway traffic engineer Robert A. Burch.

SBI Director Walter Anderson said the report would not be made public by his agency, but would be handed to the governor.

Sanford, in Washington for the day, may not get a look at the report until late tonight or Thursday. He is not due back to Raleigh until late tonight.

Anderson stressed it would be only a partial report. He said Tuesday that the investigation is nowhere near being completed.

Gov. Sanford fired Highway Engineer Robert A. Burch for being too closely associated with Kidd Brewer, Raleigh businessman, in dealings involving highway department sign procurement.

Sanford said a firm formed by Brewer received $80,000 from sign companies dealing with the state and turned over half that amount to Burch's college - student son, Robert M. Burch.

Meanwhile, the Institute of Traffic Engineers confirmed Tuesday that it had removed Burch from his post as vice president pending outcome of the investigation.

Officers Track Down Bootleg

So, on Sunday, Police Chief W. D. Brooks and ABC Officer H. B. Lilly set out to do some tracking—for bootleg liquor, that is. They went to some unidentified houses and followed footprints through the snow right to 10 half-gallon jars of bootleg.

Naturally the officers destroyed their "hot" find.

There were no arrests made. But there were 10 half-gallon jars less of white lightning drunk that day.

Local Officers . .

Police units arrived on the scene too late to stop the fleeing man but discovered a 1961 model car parked near the firm. Further investigation disclosed that a second business in the West End Circle area, Farrow's Auto Body Works, 105 Ione St., had been entered, and the vehicle found in the street taken from the building.

Greenville police, along with officers from the Sheriff's office and ABC enforcers began checking all auto firms for possible break-ins. While patroling, Sgt. Cannon and Ptl. Darden spotted a man running from beside Brown-Wood Motor Company at 1205 Dickinson Ave. They gave chase and caught Dew.

Dew was first arrested on charges of breaking and entering and larceny of Brown-Wood January 13.

Dew, who was identified through fingerprints, allegedly entered the auto dealer firm by breaking a window, then unlocking the window and crawling in. Two coin operated machines were opened and change taken from them. The intruder was in the process of placing cigarettes in a late model vehicle when a company salesman surprised him. He ran from the building and escaped.

In addition to the break-in at Brown-Wood last weekend, officers reported entries, following the same pattern of breaking through a window and robbing coin machines, then taking cars at White Chevrolet Company and the North Carolina Equipment Company at West End Circle.

The pattern was identical also to a break-in at the Chevrolet firm January 8. The car taken from the firm January 8 was recovered in Raleigh while the vehicle taken during the weekend was recovered Monday in Wake Forest by the Wake County Sheriff's Department.

The charges in the 1958 case stemmed from Dew being identified as the man found in the Wagner-Waldrop Motors building one night after closing time.

Dew, identified from pictures at that time, was found in the building by one of the firm's owners. He told that he had fallen asleep in the rear of a car while waiting for someone. When he awoke, he was "locked in."

He walked out of the building and disappeared before police could be summoned.

Dew, an honor grade prisoner when he escaped from the Caledonia camp January 3, denies any knowledge of the local robberies.

The escapee has a long record for breaking and entering ranging from 11 cases in 1944 and 1945 when a juvenile and including six through his conviction for larceny of an auto and stealing in May of 1961. He was serving time on a four to six-year sentence for that conviction from Raleigh when he escaped. He also has a record of escape, including a 1946 escape while a juvenile and two other escapes.

Driver Charged Following Wreck

AYDEN—As the result of a traffic accident at the intersection of Third Street and West Avenue here last Thursday morning, an Ayden driver was found guilty of driving with no operator's license and driving under the influence, police said this week.

Eddie Newton, 32-year-old Negro of 815 Venters St., Ayden, was found innocent of a third charge of temporary larceny of an automobile when the case was tried Monday in Ayden Recorder's Court. Judge Larry Davis presided.

Police Chief W. D. Brooks said the accident occurred when Newton sideswiped the back of a 1960 automobile legally parked on Third Street, owned by Fred J. Skinner of Ayden, and then veered across the street and struck another legally parked automobile owned by Paul Gibson. Damages were estimated at $200 to the Skinner car and $300 to the Gibson auto, a 1961 model station wagon.

Auto Collision Injures 3 People Early Today

FALKLAND—Three rural Macclesfield residents were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital early today following an auto collision on NC Highway 43 near the Pitt-Edgecombe County line north of here.

A hospital spokesman said Jessie Deans, identified by the highway patrol as driver of one of the two vehicles involved in the accident, had been admitted for observation and treatment. The nature of the 38-year-old Macclesfield man's injuries was not disclosed but it was understood his condition was not serious.

The other two persons, Deans' wife, Mrs. Ruby Deans, 37, and nine-year-old Joseph Moore, were being held at the hospital for observation, the hospital reported. Mrs. Deans and the youngster were passengers in the car driven by Deans.

Investigating officer D. L. Minshew of the State Highway Patrol said the Deans vehicle failed to stop before entering NC 43 from a private drive at 7:45 a.m. Minshew said the car entered the highway in the path of a 1956 model panel truck operated by 18-year-old Benny Carraway of 2710 E. 4th St., Greenville. The truck, Minshew noted, was owned by Shack's Electric Co. of Greenville, young Carraway's employer. Carraway was not injured, according to the officer.

The patrolman said no charges have been made but the investigation is continuing. He said he has not yet talked with Deans. Minshew quoted Carraway as saying the speed of the panel truck seconds before the accident was about 45 or 50 miles per hour.

The officer said the Deans car, a 1954 model sedan, was demolished. He estimated damage to the panel truck at between $400 and $500.

The location of the accident is about 13 miles northwest of Greenville on NC 43.
