JFK Submits $92.5 Billion Budget, Wobbly Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in the first federal budget of his own making, called today for record peacekeeping spending of $92.5 billion and a wobbly surplus of $463 million—a margin possible only if revenues rocket and the price of mailing a letter is increased.

Unprecedented level $11 billion higher than this year's income. Highlighting the 7,400-word budget message which Kennedy sent to Capitol Hill were these recommendations: A defense program of $52.7 billion, up nearly $1.5 billion. Allocation of $2.4 billion for space research, an increase of $1.3 billion.

Repeal of the 10 per cent tax on rail, bus and boat fares, with later adjustments in aviation taxes. Enactment of a new farm bill designed to cut farm program spending from $6.3 billion to $5.8 billion.

Anticipating this, Kennedy said a $463 million surplus would result "the best national policy." He said deficit spending might promote inflation while a larger surplus would risk choking off economic recovery and contributing to a premature downturn.

Even the defense program felt the economy ax. The Pentagon was allotted $48.3 billion for military activities and, while this represented a hike of nearly $1.5 billion over current levels, it was well below the combined requests of the separate services.

In addition to Pentagon spending, $2.9 billion was earmarked for the atomic energy program $1.4 billion for arms aid and $100 million for other defense-related activities. Thus total defense outlays were budgeted at $52.7 billion, or 57 per cent of all federal spending.

Other significant increases were indicated for interest on the national debt (up $400 million to $9.4 billion), health, labor and welfare programs (up $400 to $5.1 billion), and education activities (up $400 million to $1.5 billion). Outlays for natural resource programs would be boosted by $200 million to a record $2.3 billion.

Economies were forecast in such fields as agriculture if the new farm bill, not yet detailed, is enacted, commerce and transportation (down $400 million to $2.5 billion) and veterans benefits (down $300 million to $5.3 billion).

Sanford Says Additional $148,000 Paid Brewer

By REESE HART RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford disclosed today that Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer had received $148,000 from a company selling products on specifications prepared by former Highway Engineer Robert A. Burch.

1961, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. paid about $148,000 to Parkway Co. Inc., a small retail hardware store operated in Boone by Paul Armfield Coffey, a nephew of Burch.

Sanford's disclosure today came from a State Bureau of Investigation preliminary report. Asked if there had been any criminal violation, Sanford replied: "I'm not sure. This is a matter to be determined by the solicitor. It is in the hands of the court and out of the hands of the Governor."

Moon Shot And Glenn Flight Set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States will try next week to send a Ranger 3 spacecraft on a 66-hour trip to the moon to take closeup pictures and land an instrument package to record moonquakes.

Winterville Hosts Meeting

Winterville, N.C., will host a meeting of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greenville on Friday, Jan. 19, at the Winterville Hotel.

THE YEAR'S REPORT... Rhode Island Governor Ok's Extradition Papers

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Rhode Island Gov. John A. Notte Jr. has signed extradition papers for two escaped North Carolina convicts after his attorney general warned Rhode Island might become a haven for felons who flee Southern prison camps.

Hammond, William G. Grande, also made the trip to North Carolina, tape recording interviews with convicts there.

Powell, who was serving a 20-year sentence for check forgery and Hammond, serving a 24-year sentence for breaking and entering, receiving stolen goods and for a 1955 escape, are scheduled to appear today in U.S. District Court for a hearing on charges of being fugitives from justice.

Russian Tanks In Berlin Pull Back

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army started pulling its tanks back from the Berlin wall Wednesday and during the night the Soviets removed theirs.

The breakup of the rival tank camps about a mile apart at Friedrichstrasse crossing point was taken as a symptom of lessening tension in this divided city.

The Soviet tanks quietly slipped out of their bivouac in the ruins of a former royal palace near the Unter den Linden during the night, reliable sources said. It was not known whether they left East Berlin entirely or merely taken up new positions farther inside the city.

Court Photo Ban Plea Rooted In Cutter Case

A request that the North Carolina Supreme Court ban photography, radio broadcasting and telecasting from Superior Court proceedings had its roots in the conduct of the news media during last fall's trial of a Charlotte millionaire, according to Greenville Attorney Albion Dunn.

Traditionally, Superior Court and other judges have held discretionary powers to grant or deny admission of photographers during court proceedings.

In various instances, Superior Court judges have allowed photography. In the 1959 trial of Thomas Abner Stocks in Greenville, resident Judge William J. Bundy granted the Daily Reflector photography permission in the courtroom, but only during recesses.

His opinions, subject to review and possible revision by his committee and by the Council, are published quarterly by the "North Carolina Bar." Of his 369 authored opinions, however, Judge Dunn has seen only two revised.

Dr. Greene Reports On First Year Of Development Commission Work

WINTERVILLE — The Pitt County Development Commission in a joint meeting with the Kiwanis and Ruritan Clubs of Winterville, the county commissioners and other guests heard a report by Dr. C. Sylvester Greene, on the first year's work of the Commission.

Greene, executive director of the PCDC told the group that he was pleased with the results during the past year. Of the 1,010 leads the commission has had during the year, six are now operating in Pitt County.

Other leads were put before the director Wednesday. After taking a close look at the statistics and the work of the commission during the year Dr. Greene said that there are at least three areas in which concentration and action are needed to aid in the development of the county. The three areas are, "Sites, buildings and finances."

At least three reliable contacts advise me that any available building in Pitt County could be rented almost immediately," Dr. Greene said. Two questions were put before the group in Dr. Greene's report. They were, "Should we reconsider the construction of shell buildings, and or encourage owners of a few adaptable buildings to rebuild these for industrial use?" Dr. Greene said he could affirm that at least four companies sought ready buildings here this past year and found these buildings elsewhere in North Carolina.

Sailor Is Taking Wife Along On His Sea Duty

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Lt. (j.g.) Jack Vivian, unlike other sailors, didn't leave his wife home when he went to sea this week. She went with him.

First Federal Savings And Loan Assets See Big Growth

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greenville marked its Silver Anniversary recording a 16 per cent rise in total assets—its largest annual increase—according to a report given the organization's shareholders at their 25th annual meeting Wednesday.

On the matter of finances, Dr. Greene said that many communities do make outright cash gifts to industrial prospects. However, Greene noted, "I believe this practice is unwholesome and unsound and I hope unnecessary."

James of Greenville was the first president of the institution. James was re-elected again last night. Two additional board members were cited as members of First Federal's original board of directors. Alton R. Barrett and J. A. Collins Sr. were members of the organizing board in 1937.

ECC Ceramics Dept. Instructor Speaker At Jay-C-Ette Meeting

The Greenville Jay-C-Ettes held their monthly dinner meeting at the Greenville Woman's Club Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

After dinner, Mrs. Martha Coffman, program chairman, introduced Paul Minnis, chairman of the Ceramics department of the East Carolina College Art Department. He informed the group of the rapid growth of the department and told of plans for expansion. He told the club how art products by East Carolina art professors and students could be purchased.

Mrs. Brinn Cheatham, III, and Mrs. Jean Chappell were welcomed as visitors.

Mrs. Dickie Gaines and Mrs. Ginger Baker were recognized as new members. The club voted to pay $20 monthly for five months to help defray medical expenses of a needy Pitt County arthritic victim.

Mrs. Beverly Haynes was appointed chairman of the annual Valentine Dinner Dance, held in honor of the members' husbands. Working on her committee will be Mrs. Jane Laughinghouse, Mrs. Jean Taylor, and Mrs. Peggy Moore.

Mrs. Gretchen Cochran was recognized as the high salesman for the candy sale which took place during October.

Mrs. Mary Winkle reported that the crippled children's fund provided transportation for a Pitt County deaf child to and from the State School for the Deaf in Raleigh.

Mrs. Lilly Lewis and Mrs. Mary Winkle will serve milk and cookies at the crippled children's clinic on January 19th.

Peace Corps Topic Of Round Table Speaker

The Round Table met with Mrs. W. W. Howell January 16th at 3:30 p.m. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. D. C. Wade, Mrs. Kenneth Whichard, Mrs. C. R. Prewett and Mrs. A. C. Craft of Toccoa Georgia, mother of Mrs. Howell.

Mrs. R. B. Lee, vice president of the club, presided over a brief business session. Mrs. E. E. Rawl read an original Christmas poem by Mrs. Robert L. Holt.

Miss Lelia Higgs gave the program using as her subject, "The Peace Corps". She said, "No other proposal of President Kennedy's New Frontier seemed to stir the imagination of America and the world as his idea of establishing a Corps of Ambassadors of Peace. The public response—overwhelming for it was a direct appeal to altruism and American youth recognized it as a personal opportunity to join in the global war against poverty and ignorance." The plan of the Corps is simple: Send men and women armed with skill and truth to the undeveloped countries of the world. President Kennedy might have given the clarion call to the Peace Corps in his inaugural address on Jan. 20, 1961 when he said, "Ask not what your country can do for you: Ask what you can do for your country." Robert Sargent Shriver was named to head the program and with a 30 million dollar budget it was in operation in six months. There are 700 members of the Peace Corps working in 12 countries, and they have 17 projects underway. March 1, the project was an idea. Today, the world sees the idea at work.

During the social hour, the hostess assisted by Mrs. D. C. Wade served a delicious salad course with cake and coffee complemented with original favors.

French Student Speaks To Club

At the meeting of the Inter Se Book Club on Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Ercell Webb, a French student from E.C.C., Mademoiselle Katherine La Baume, gave the program. She was born in Southern France and her family is now living in Paris. Her father serves as a Lieutenant Colonel in the French Army.

Miss La Baume told about the political and economic situation in France and compared the educational system of the United States and France. Most interesting, too, were her comments on family life and social customs of the French family and her impressions of life in the United States.

She has been in Greenville for 16 months on an extended scholarship and is a business graduate student at E.C.C. She teaches French at Wahl-Coates School and also is an instructor of French at E.C.C.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown presided at the meeting and books were exchanged.

Mrs. Webb invited the guests, Mrs. Hoover Taff, Miss La Baume and Mrs. Collier Cobb, and members of the club into the dining room where the table, centered with a mixed arrangement of colored gladioli and heather, Mrs. Robert Thompson and Mrs. Wyatt Brown served a frozen salad with coffee and dainty party accompaniments.

Dr. Rives Is Guest Speaker

On Tuesday, Mrs. R. W. MacKenzie was luncheon hostess when the Lector Book Club met at her home on Forest Hills Drive. Guests for the occasion were Mrs. P. R. Masten and Mrs. M. E. Sutton.

Mrs. Kenneth Phillips presided over a short business meeting. Dr. Ralph Rives of the East Carolina College English Dept. was introduced by Mrs. Holly VanDyke, and entertained his audience with an account of his experiences while studying and traveling in Europe.

Some of the highlights of his tour abroad were meeting Lady Astor, attending a July 4th celebration party given by John Hay Whitney, and observing a meeting of the House of Commons, on invitation from Scotland's only member of that ruling body. He also spent some time in Luxembourg visiting friends.

Dr. Rives spoke of the close kinship of English-speaking peoples, and how the British customs, manners and religious feeling is so similar to those in the United States, particularly in the South.

In closing, Dr. Rives, who is director of the East Carolina College Playhouse production of "Auntie Mame," gave a few highlights of the show.

Books were exchanged by Mrs. Charles King, librarian, and the meeting adjourned.

Green and white salad: mounds of raw cauliflowerets and mounds of cooked artichoke hearts, on lettuce. Serve with Russian dressing.

Exchange Student Is Club Speaker

On Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at her home in Brookgreen, Mrs. R. G. Lang entertained the members of the Clio Book Club. Special guests for this occasion were Mrs. Louis Broussard, Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. D. H. Sincindiver and Miss Maria Haendel.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Jake Hadley conducted a short business session at which time minutes were read and approved. Under old business, a report on the Christmas family was given by Miss Jane Hadley.

Mrs. Lang introduced Miss Haendel as guest speaker. She is an exchange student from Montevideo, Uruguay, and is teaching a course in Spanish at East Carolina College while working on her Master's Degree.

The guest speaker talked about her country, its size, cultural background, customs, religion, education and politics. Uruguay is a small country with a high literacy rate. Its chief industry is cattle raising. It is predominantly Catholic in religion and its universities are all located in its capital city, Montevideo. Its government is democratic and it is a very picturesque country. Miss Haendel also gave her impressions of the U. S. and Greenville which are very favorable. She likes our warm friendliness and our food.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jack Gates and Mrs. Jesse Moye, served a sweet course with coffee.

Changing Emphasis In New Budget

Of significance, aside from the huge figures in the President's budget proposals to Congress, is the apparent change of emphasis among the broad fields of interest to the federal government.

The budget proposals reflect reductions during the coming fiscal year in expenditures for the farm program (down 500 million) an anticipated reduction in the postal deficit (brought about by increased postal rates) and a reduction of federal expenditures for the temporary extension of unemployment benefits. In the place of these reductions, according to the budget proposal, there will be increases in spending for education, health housing and natural resources program "without raising significantly total expenditures for domestic civil functions . . ."

A year ago the "new" Kennedy administration placed its emphasis on extending unemployment benefits for persons rendered jobless by the recession, and for agriculture which was suffering similar effects of a sagging economic situation. This year the emphasis has moved from these particular problems on the domestic front to education, housing and health programs which appear to be moving up so far as federal expenditures are concerned.

In the field of foreign affairs, the emphasis of federal spending proposals appears to have shifted from military assistance to friendly nations to economic aid which is expected to put those nations into a stronger position, less vulnerable to communist take-overs.

It is important to note these changes in the budget compared with the past, not so much from the standpoint of the millions involved, but rather from the standpoint of the administration thinking behind them. They represent a departure from the past, and indicate, perhaps a theme which will be followed, at least by the Kennedy administration, in the future.

In an era in which red figures at the end of each fiscal year have been the rule rather than the exception of federal budgets, it is significant to note that the current budget anticipates a surplus of some $500 millions in June, 1963. This is in spite of the fact that the budget proposals total some $3.4 billions more than the budget for the current year. To offset this increase in expenditures, the administration is forecasting an increase of $10.9 billions in federal revenues, reaching a total of $93 billions in the coming fiscal year.

It is also significant, perhaps, that the administration which in recent months has been urging both management and labor organizations in major industries to hold prices and wages in line to prevent inflation, is now calling on Congress for a new salary schedule for all federal employees to "enable the government to obtain and keep high quality personnel".

By the time the budget is finally adopted by Congress, it will doubtlessly be changed considerably. It is, nevertheless, important for the citizens of the nation to note not only the figures involved, but likewise the apparent changes of emphasis within the administration which are reflected in the new budget proposals.

Uniformity In Traffic Control

By LYNN NISBET

SIGNS — Recently publicity has made North Carolina "sign conscious." Taking advantage of that aroused interest Governor Sanford is urging all local government officials to adopt and use the recommendations of the "Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices." The State Highway Patrol has adopted these provisions, as have a number of other states. There remains a wide diversity of signs and rules for traffic in the municipalities.

Traffic signs, including center-lining of pavement and signal lights, have assumed tremendous importance in the past few years. Not so long ago there was no uniformity in shape or color of stationary signs or in the arrangement of signal lights. These varied from state to state and among communities within one state.

One of the first steps toward uniformity came when the national association of highway officials which designates routes to bear the U. S. numbers made mandatory for every state that shield shape sign with name of the state at top and number of the road below. Now every motorist knows when he is on that class of highway regardless of what state he may be in.

The shape and size of numerical signs designating numbers of State highways varies from the diamond in North Carolina, to the outline maps of Tennessee, Virginia and other states, to the almost illegible narrow strips used elsewhere.

It took a long time to achieve it, but it appears now that every state uses the same size and shape of license tab on automobiles — a 6x12 inch rectangle. Some years ago North Carolina adopted the black and yellow color scheme for its automobile signs and practically all of the municipalities have followed suit.

UNIFORMITY — For a long time there was as much confusion in the diverse and completely unreasonable arrangement of traffic lights as in any other directional devices. There still is confusion in most towns, including Raleigh, where on the same street one intersection will have traffic lights suspended above the middle of the traffic lane and another will have them on the corners. But notable advance in safety was made when the legislatures of North Carolina and a number of other states enacted laws fixing the position of the green and red lights at the top, middle or bottom of the signal posts. One argument used to get this legislation through was the plight of the color blind driver. He could tell whether the light was on at the top, middle or bottom of the sign — but he could not tell the color. In North Carolina now, and it is understood the same is true for nearly all the states, the red light is at the top, the orange light in the middle, and the green at the bottom.

Uniformity has been obtained in the shape of other roadside signs. An octagon sign means stop, a round sign means a railroad or dangerous highway crossing, a triangle means to yield, right of way to traffic in other lanes. A double line in the middle of the pavement means no passing. These signs can be "read" by the utterly illiterate and the words on or about them are not important. Most other signs must be read to be understood, but even here the shape of the sign conveys a message. The diamond means hazards ahead, the square or rectangle has information about speed or distance, the long narrow board gives directions and distances.

After all of the sizes and shapes and colors of the signs have been made uniform, there remains the important job of uniformity in placement of the signs along the highways and streets.

SELECTED — Many of the news stories about the fact that U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr. is up for re-election this year emphasize the point that he was appointed to the Senate by Governor Umstead upon the death of Senator Clyde Hoey, that, of course, is true. But it is also true that he was nominated by the Democratic committee and duly elected in the general election of 1964 to fill out that term, entered the primary in 1956 and won the nomination and subsequent election for the full term ending next January. Although first appointed, he has been twice elected by the people.

Similar conditions surround the two Supreme Court Justices up for election this year. Justice William H. Rehnquist was appointed to the high bench by Governor Umstead in early 1954, was nominated by the Democratic committee both for the unexpired term to which Justice M. V. Barnhill had been elected and for the full eight-year term following. He was duly elected and has served on the high court ever since.

Justice William B. Rohman was appointed to the court in the summer of 1956 upon resignation of Justice Jeff Johnson, was nominated by the committee and duly elected that fall for the remainder of the term expiring December 31, this year. Although he had no opposition in the election he received 733,169 — which was 142,000 more than Adlai Stevenson got for President.

Although Senator Ervin and Justices Rehnquist and Rohman first came to office by appointment, they are not running now as appointees. They have been elected by vote of the people and hold their present positions under that title.

Surprising Decision By District Solicitor

The decision of Fifth District Solicitor Robert D. Rouse, Jr. of Farmville not to seek re-election this year to the post he has held for the past seven years apparently caught political leaders and citizens alike by surprise.

He was re-elected for his current term without opposition in 1958 after having won in an initial five-man field for the post when he first sought the office in 1952. In view of his outstanding record in the office of District Solicitor, and no previous indication from him that he would not seek re-election, most citizens, we believe, had assumed he would be a candidate for the post again in the May primary. Coupled with this, there has been no talk in the district of any candidates who might be seriously considering contesting with Rouse for the post.

During his two terms in office, Rouse has made for himself an outstanding record as solicitor. He has proved himself not only a capable and hard-working prosecutor for the state, but he has likewise proved himself a devoted public servant in the post to which he was elected.

His service to the court and to the six counties which comprise this solicitorial district is deserving of commendation.

Big Budget In Two Volumes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most awful things about the federal budget — and it is awful if you're not good at arithmetic — is that it will monopolize Washington conversation for quite a while.

In two plump volumes President Kennedy at noon today unfolds for Congress the national budget, his estimate on the cost of running the government another year.

One of the most delightful things about Kennedy's budget, in a gruesome kind of way, is that it is supposed to be more simplified and streamlined than any budget of the past.

The only one likely to think so is the superintendent of a digit factory. Nobody could enjoy this budget; or any other budget, except an accountant. Having to read it is like being sentenced to frustration.

Many people in government, thousands, have been putting this estimate together since last summer.

The all-time peak for budget spending in any one year — $98,416,000,000 — was reached in 1945. That was the big, climatic year of World War II: Kennedy's budget is expected to be around $92.5 billion, the highest of any peacetime year. It is for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 and ending June 30, 1963.

If it seems like a shocker, it needn't be. The cost of running the government has been going up. In the fiscal year ending next June 30 spending will probably top $89 billion.

The budget trend under President Dwight D. Eisenhower was up, too, although it dipped a couple of times. It had been that way ever since President Harry S. Truman's time when, after a postwar lull of point of $32,955,000,000 in 1948, there was an almost steady march up.

In the various departments and agencies of government, beginning last summer, officials began estimating their next fiscal year cost. Department heads went over the figures. They were supposed to cut where they can.

When all that is done, the figures go to the Budget Bureau, which not only is supposed to reduce dollars to pennies but insist that department heads justify every dime they say they need.

After that the President and his advisers go over the estimates. The final, finished bundle, covering everything from pencils to missiles, is what Kennedy hands Congress.

Then the fun begins. Some members of Congress have

"How much are you worth?"

"None of your business," you reply angrily. "I'll take up matters of that sort with my banker and with the income tax man when he comes to check my 'turn'."

No, brother, you'll take it up with me, and with the people who live on either side of you, and with the people who live in your own house. In dead earnestness we ask, "How much are you worth?"

You may keep your lips sealed and glare back in anger, but in doing so you have at least half answered the question already. You may declare to whom you consider the proper persons that you are worth ten

It's Almanac Time Again

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Turner's Almanac is back again. That's not really surprising, for Turner's Almanac has been appearing in Eastern North Carolina since the early days of this nation.

Actually Turner's Almanac is now published by another company—Blum's which John Christian Blum began in 1828 at Salem.

About the same time the Turner family founded their almanac in Raleigh. The Turner almanac struggled along through the years, at one time asking a subsidy from the N. C. General Assembly to continue operating.

In 1921, its publishers sold out to Blum's. Now Turner's carries much the same material as Blum's but with the different cover which is so familiar in this area east of Raleigh.

The almanac company is now operated by the Goslen family with J. B. Goslin Jr. handling circulation and advertising and his father, J. B. Sr., gathering material for its pages.

In the next few weeks, more than 250,000 copies of the 1962 almanac will be placed on sale at newsstands in 12 states and by mail throughout the world.

Like almanacs have historically, Turner's devotes much of its space to forecasting the weather and along with this, gives recommendations for planting.

For instance the almanac forecasts for Jan. 16-19 — which includes today — local storms. Warmer in the Mississippi Valley, becoming unsettled, fair weather further east.

How about last Friday when it snowed? Well, the almanac had this to say about that period. Clearing time. Rain in the southeast.

If Turner's is right you can look out for Jan. 28-31. The forecast for this period is: Cold spell. Frosts in the lower Atlantic states.

As for planting, Turner's says January is a month for making plans for the year's operations.

"Very little work can be done in the garden beyond securing a supply of seeds and manure and preparing compost heaps and hot beds for next month, getting poles, brush and sticks for beans, peas and tomatoes. Clean up the garden."

Turner's has jokes, too, just as any good almanac should. Here's one:

Doctor: "Well nurse, how is the patient?"

Nurse: "I gave him the figs you ordered, doctor, but he keeps asking for dates."

And there are the household hints, such as: To remove stains caused by a leaky faucet, use cream of tartar and a few drops of hydrogen peroxide.

Other Editors Saying... Price Of Protectionism

(Wall Street Journal)

Let us suppose that the U.S. decides to end its reliance on foreign coffee. A tariff is imposed at such a high level that it is prohibitive. No more coffee is imported, and an enormous incentive is given to American coffee growers.

Coffee thrives only in warmer climates, so the pro-tariff American coffee growers were feverishly rushing out to buy more land, much of it less suited to coffee cultivation than the land they are now working. Higher wages were paid to workers from other activities in the islands and even drew some from the continental U.S. Large amounts of capital are invested in new machinery and warehouses.

The market looks so attractive that some entrepreneurs on the Southern fringes of the U.S. are encouraged to run the risks of recurring frosts; some producers elsewhere even put up greenhouses to simulate tropical temperatures. Again, massive amounts of capital and labor are diverted from other activities. The average cost of producing coffee is high and the retail price shoots up to around $10 a pound.

This exaggerated example illustrates the impact of tariffs and other trade restrictions, for it differs only in degree from the real world of today. It thus helps to explain why President Kennedy, in his State of the Union message, promised to ask Congress for new and broader powers to dispose of these artificial restraints on trade.

Any tariff, whether levied on British automobiles, Japanese textiles or Swiss watches, is in effect of subsidy to American producers of such products. As such, it has a significant effect on the policies and practices of those producers.

Behind a tariff wall, companies in a protected industry may and often do compete fiercely among themselves. But the tariff makes it possible for the industry to maintain a higher level of prices than world otherwise be feasible. Its incentive to modernize its plants and improve its products is less.

Producers become accustomed to relying on the artificial fence that has been erected around their market. When foreign producers threaten to scale the existing fence, the domestic companies incline toward building it higher, rather than fighting to get their costs down.

And who finances the fence? It's the consumer, of course. He pays the bill through higher prices, whether he buys domestic products or such foreign goods as can get in. The burden of this consumer tax isn't lessened one whit by the fact that it's a hidden levy.

But the worst aspect of tariffs is not that they impose hidden taxes and award hidden subsidies. It is that they dangerously distort and debilitate the whole domestic economy.

A protected industry is able to bid capital and labor away from industries where they could be more efficiently employed. Its higher prices restrict its markets both at home and abroad; this is reflected by the problems of U.S. agriculture, which enjoys the questionable benefits both of complex direct subsidies and tariff protection. Some American farm products can be marketed abroad only after the Government pays still other subsidies to exporters to permit them to lower their prices.

With the sales of protected industries thus limited and with much of the nation's resources employed inefficiently, the inevitable result is a severe restriction on the growth of the economy. Both national output and national income are held well below levels they might otherwise attain.

Admittedly, elimination of tariffs would lead to temporary economic problems in some industries. Because of this, an argument can be made for gradual removal. But however it's handled, the future health of the economy demands that a new beginning be made.

Tightening Grip On The Cities

By ELMER ROESSNER

Creation of a Federal Department of Urban Affairs would result in tightening Washington's grip on American cities.

It would give the Federal government as much control over the cities as it now exercises over the farmer. Its impact would be greater. Farmers no longer swing Presidential elections. Big cities do.

The Administration is seriously proposing a new Cabinet position, that of Secretary of Urban Affairs. At the start, it would administer Federal public housing, Federal slum clearance and Federal urban renewal. As it grew — and bureaus and departments always grow — it would probably take over direction of more and more local activities and might possibly get into such areas as desegregation, utility rates, zoning, expansion plans and other areas of civic responsibility.

"Every time a city has accepted a Federal aid program, it has lost some of its rights to a central government bureau," stated the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. A department of Urban Affairs, it added, would lead to Federal control over "projects involving new factories, new stores, new streets, new water mains, new sewers — you name it."

"Spokesmen for an Urban Affairs Department are urging its creation despite the barren results that can be seen in almost every city with a Federal renewal program. Buildings have been razed. Brilliant construction plans have been announced and on the empty, silent acres in the hearts of many cities weeds flourish.

In ten years only 5 per cent of urban renewal programs have been completed."

The chamber might have added that of the housing projects completed, many will be the ugly, packing-case-design slums of tomorrow. Some, in fact, are already slums.

DICTATES LOCAL LAWS

Even without an Urban Affairs Department, the government is already forcing cities to alter laws to please bureaucrats.

When a community applies to the Housing and Home Finance Agency for urban renewal assistance, its building code is compared with four model codes. Local requirements which fall short of the minimums in the codes must be changed to conform, or Federal funds will be withheld.

To be sure, many local building codes stink. They have been shaped by pressure of politically powerful contractors, suppliers and labor unions. Satisfactory products have been barred — or approved after cash contributions — while products of insiders have been approved.

At the present time, the chemical industry is trying to gain Federal approval of plastic pipes in houses financed by the Federal Housing Agency. Vent and drainage pipe of acrylonitrile-butadiene styrene has already been approved and hopes are high that pipes of this plastic and of polyvinyl chloride will be approved for interior use. Cities would then be forced to change codes — or lose new FHA-financed construction.

In this situation, building costs might be lowered, since many cities require more expensive copper, brass and steel. But in many other situations, FHA specifications exceed local regulations, adding to building costs.

He said stock options perform a useful function and are essential to proper compensation. But criticism is rising, he said, against the sales of option shares to finance the purchase of other shares, and the reduction of option prices when the market price of the stock drops.

Living In The Present

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962. King Features Syndicate, Inc.

One of the exciting evidences of these days is the reaction to President John F. Kennedy. Many conservatives are annoyed over the fact that he will be in that position for at least three more years and possibly seven; that the Constitution gives him certain powers and that others come to him by virtue of his office and by the fact that he grows increasingly popular and influential.

What they can do about it, they do not know but they do get excited over Cuba and Katanga and say of those who favor Kennedy that they have sold out. I was so bold as to ask one such person where and what is Katanga and apparently upset the apple-cart because the place is only a name and it is difficult to explain what the excitement is about.

No man, not Khrushchev or De Gaulle or Kennedy, is a free master in our very complex world! Events move swiftly and become interrelated and the course of events moves more swiftly than anyone can estimate in advance. According to Lenin's estimate, the capitalist system should by now be collapsing. As a matter of fact, it is gaining strength, particularly in Europe and Japan where the production of new goods has altered the economy of nations. According to Communist calculations the United States and Great Britain should have destroyed each other in an economic competition; instead, the United States poured billions of dollars into the British, French, West German and Italian economies, making those countries stronger than they were prior to World War II and saving them from collapse at the risk of collapsing itself.

In fact, most calculations were incorrect because it was difficult for small minds to foresee the capacity of the American mind to respond generously to historic misfortunes. It is the same lack of prescience which makes it difficult for us to grasp what is ahead. The line is broad and generous in critical periods.

For instance, President Kennedy was elected by a small majority after a fairly popular presidency of President Eisenhower who had no particular program but who moved along as events would permit. Kennedy's program was not particularly clear. In fact, it seems that his proposals were stronger than his actions. Nevertheless, a year ago he indicated that he had maintained peace without compromise, that he has strengthened the economy of the United States without conceding to foreign powers, that he has safeguarded the dollar without imperiling its value.

President Kennedy tripped over Cuba, but it is becoming clear that Castro has failed to achieve anything beneficial to Cuba by his cupidity. It was believed that Kennedy's Democratic overtures were incorrect; but it is working out. The Russians attempted to bog us down in Cuba, Laos, Vietnam, the Congo and other places but failed. We have prepared to meet the future but we have not been tricked into being required to accept their battlefield.

There is much to say about Kennedy that is encouraging but most of all, he has apparently set before himself a program which might be called "Democratic Conservatism." Unexpected and he, himself never quite defined it.

There are those who violently oppose the President's domestic policy, suggesting that he is throwing our wealth down the drain. They despair of the future. They are frightened by his enormous proposed expenditures. But his basic task is to provide jobs for our workers. This is no easy task at the present time because of the export of jobs to Europe and Japan during the past Administration. In his speech on the State of the Union, the President recognizes that jobs is our problem, that so-called automation must not mean the destruction of jobs, but the creation of new jobs by abolishing

'Gold Flow Problem' Discussed At Meeting

The Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women met at the Alumni House on the E.C.C. campus, Jan. 15th. The speaker for the evening was Dr. James Stewart of the Social Studies Department of the college who was introduced by Miss Lois Grigsby, chairman of the Social and Economic Issues Committee.

Dr. James Stewart spoke on "The Gold Flow Problem of the U.S." His talk centered around four questions and his answers to them. His four questions and answers were: (1) What is the gold flow? He explained this by saying, "The gold flow problem is the loss of ownership of U.S. Treasury gold, that is, our monetary gold stock." Twenty-five years ago, after the devaluation of the dollar, our monetary gold stock amounted to $6 billion. With the outbreak of World War II and the need for a safe haven for European-held gold, and European purchases for military and other supplies in this country, American-held stock of gold increased to $25 billion. The gold supply remained at this level until 1949. The stock of gold then began gradually to erode by a small amount each year until 1960 when the balance was at $17½ billion. The trend of the outflow of gold was somewhat stopped in 1961, but it has once more begun its outflow.

(2) Where does it (the outflow) come from? Dr. Stewart stated that the outflow was and is due to a number of factors. Among these factors were and are the high costs of maintaining installations abroad, U.S. past and present economic aid programs to help foreign countries develop and to deter communism, and a long period of years of adverse balance of payments. The latter has been caused by the fact that in terms of all types of goods and services, and capital accounts, we owe more to foreigners than they owe to us.

(3) What does it matter? Dr. Stewart reported that the present stock of gold isn't dangerously low if measured historically, but the short-term outflow constitutes a trend of outflow that could be dangerous if continued. If we continue to lose gold it will affect the value of our dollar and our competitive position in markets abroad, domestically gold is tied to the dollar in that gold acts as a restraint in the total amount of money and credit available. This affects individuals in terms of investments, employment opportunities, business conditions, and price inflation. Then, too, foreign-owned accounts in this country amount to $22 billion, or more than the $17½ billion gold supply.

(4) What can be done? Dr. Stewart stated that he believed the solution to the outflow of gold was in selling more abroad, reducing tariff rates, encouraging more foreign investments in this country, having countries where American military installations are located paying more of the costs, and in having more foreign tourists coming to our shores.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Many gardeners don't go in for roses, because of the amount of work that has to be taken in their care. At the present time rose growers are trying to make the rose more of a pleasure than a burden.

They have two main goals for which they are shooting. One of these is the getting of disease resistant plants on the market. They hope to come out with a rose or group of roses that won't have to have such a rigid spray schedule. And the other goal is a rose that has flowers that will last longer on the bush and in the house without fading. Let's hope they will come through with these plants real soon.

Meanwhile a trip to the pages of Will Tilloston's rose catalog may be helpful or at least interesting. Here you may find a rose or two for your garden.

Yesterdays Rose
In planning your rose planting, put in a few of the favorites of years past. One of the favorite of pioneer days was Harrison's Yellow (1830). It is a rampant grower and reaches a height of between 6 and 8 feet. They say you can trace the trail of the pioneers by following the path of this rose from East to West. Great thickets of them are found in old ghost towns. These might make a good screen or hedge. But they will be too wild in the formal rose garden.

Austrian Copper (1890), a real old one, has single blooms — orange scarlet on upper side and yellow on reverse sides of petals. The catalog states this rose "dislikes 'pruning and fussing'."

A lavish spring bloomer is the Alain Blanchard (1839). After its spurge of fragrant crimson velvet flowers, it takes for granted you will be satisfied with its graceful spreading shrub-like growth.

Archduke Charles (1840) grows from 3 to 4 feet and has fragrant double flowers of "marbled flesh and rosy pink that gradually turn red." As the flowers do not all change at once, the bush looks like a bouquet of several colors of roses.

A plant with lettuce green foliage and four inch flowers with hundreds of rose colored petals is the Baronne Prevost (1842). This rose reaches a height of from four to five feet.

For a spot where a mound of gold eight feet in diameter would be in keeping, plant the Beauty of Glazenwood (1845). Unless you have plenty of room, just be content to read about this giant from China. It grows from 20 to 30 feet in height.

A real beauty is the Camaleut (1830) with its striped flowers. It is white to bluish pink striped with China rose. This rose grows from three to five feet.

Captain Christy (1873) grows from three to four feet. The flower, composed of delicate flesh-like petals, is a welcome sight in any garden.

The Catherine Mermet (1869) is noted for the long cutting stems. The flower is flesh pink and has a long season.

Charles de Mills is a very old rose. The plant grows from four to five feet in height. It has fled four inch blooms composed of hundreds of small petals with a color range of deep purple at its center to shades of lavender as it spreads outward.

Another rose that can serve as a screen hedge, or just a runaway on an old fence, is Cheroke Anemone (1896). It will grow 12 to 15 feet in height. It has rose pink flowers four inches wide.

A small rose bush is De Meaux (Before 1700). It grows from two to three feet. Its miniature blooms are one inch and are colored clear pink. This rose has very fragrant flowers.

Sum Up
These are but a few of the roses that have for years been a part of gardens past and present. Bring back a touch of yesterday, plant one or two this spring.

For real enjoyment, get a copy of Will Tilloston's rose book; it costs 50c. Not only will you have a welcomed addition to your garden library, but a true history of roses. The book is filled with little quotes here and there. An example of these is one from the Chinese.

"If you would be happy for three hours, get drunk. If you would be happy for three days, kill a pig and eat it. If you would be happy for three months, get married. If you would be happy your whole life long, become a gardener."

A bit of oriental advice along the perfumed pathway of the roses of yesterday.

NEXT WEEK — TODAY'S ROSE.

Next week's rose is the "Rose of Sharon" (1840). It is a rampant grower and reaches a height of between 6 and 8 feet. They say you can trace the trail of the pioneers by following the path of this rose from East to West. Great thickets of them are found in old ghost towns. These might make a good screen or hedge. But they will be too wild in the formal rose garden.

Mrs. Spilman Reviews Book

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The Sappho Book Club held its monthly luncheon meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. M. Gibbs on Sherwood Drive, with Mrs. E. C. Dupree assisting hostess. Nineteen members and the club sponsor, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, were present.

After luncheon, served by candlelight, Mrs. Spilman reviewed Jean Kerr's new book, "The Snake Has All the Lines." It was entertaining and humorous which is typical of the author's collection of parodies and hilarious commentaries on suburbia, marriage, children, the theatre, and the state of the nation "The Snake Has All the Lines" is Mrs. Kerr's answer to the cries, "More! More!" which greeted her enormously popular "Please Don't Eat The Daisies."

The president, Mrs. L. E. Ward, presided at a short business meeting. A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. J. C. Gallo-way, Mrs. Stanley Hathaway, and Mrs. Worth Baker, was appointed to select a new slate of officers for the coming year.

Books were distributed and the meeting was adjourned.

An attractive ending for a company supper; rainbow-colored mints.

10 EXTRA YEARS OF LIFE!
A baby born today can look forward to a life expectancy of almost 70 years. Back in 1930, the insurance people figured life expectancy at only 60 years. Chiefly responsible for those 10 extra years of life are today's wonder drugs — drugs that did not exist in 1930. That's why we say:

Cooking Is Fun

CASSEROLE RED CABBAGE
1 head (2½ pounds) red cabbage
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion (finely diced)
2 medium green apples (sliced thick after coring but not peeling)
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup cider vinegar
1-3 cup rose wine
1 cup water
½ teaspoon caraway seed
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
Discard cabbage's extremely dark tough outer leaves because they will darken too much in cooking; halve cabbage and slice into long ½-inch wide strands, removing and discarding core. In a large (at least 6 quart) deep heavy baking dish (that may be used on surface heat), melt the butter; add onion and cook gently until golden. Add apples, sugar, vinegar, wine and water to casserole; the caraway seed in a small cheesecloth bag and add. Bring to a boil. Add cabbage, packing down. Cover and place in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 2 hours, stirring mixture up from bottom every half hour. Remove caraway bag. Mix in salt and pepper. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

ZUCCHINI ROMANO
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 medium onion (sliced thin strips)
1 pound zucchini squash (about 5) sliced thin with ends removed ¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
Pinch of oregano
2 tablespoons each minced parsley and grated Romano cheese
In a medium skillet cook the onion lightly in the hot salad oil. Add squash, water, salt and oregano. Cover and simmer until tender—about 5 minutes; increase heat to evaporate any liquid. Sprinkle with parsley and cheese. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN SALAD PLUS
4 cups cubed cooked chicken
1½ cups finely diced celery
1 cup halved seeded grapes
½ cup (or more) mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt and white pepper to taste
Mix all the ingredients; cover and refrigerate for several hours (or longer) before serving so flavors combine. Serve on salad greens and garnish as desired. Makes 6 servings.

IAN FLEMING'S Greatest Thriller THUNDERBALL

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
In a crisis-ridden world, and after all his experience as No. 007 in the British Secret Service, James Bond should not have been surprised by any assignment or what it entailed. Still he got a jolt when his superior, 'M', dispatched him to a nature-cure clinic in England, "Shrublands", to submit himself to two weeks' regimen—presumably to remedy effects on profligate, softening living in which Bond indulged when not on a danger spot.

Bond noted his surroundings with rebellious concentration and a yearning to escape. On the next table, a stranger addressed as 'Count Lippe' objected to removing his wrist watch for a massage. When he did, Bond espied an odd tattoo mark that the watch had concealed.

A covert telephone call by Bond identified the mark as a Far Eastern terrorist group insignia. On guard now, Bond saw Count Lippe using a phone and wondered if his own conversation with him had been overheard. His question was answered later when he was strapped in the spine-stretcher device for treatment. A hand bearing the tattoo reached up and turned the dial regulator to full speed. Screaming in pain, Bond blacked out.

Bond, luckily freed by a nurse, alertly evened the score. With Lippe alone in a Turkish bath, he turned the machine up to 200 degrees. Thus Bond unknowingly delayed the workings of a plot that was about to shake the governments of the Western world.

CHAPTER 4
The Boulevard Haussmann is very long and very dull, but it is perhaps the solidest street in the whole of Paris.

It is appropriate that among the extremely respectable company of tenants, suitably diversified by a couple of churches, a small museum and the French Shakespeare Society, you should also find the headquarters of charitable organizations. At No. 136, for instance, a discreetly glittering brass plate says: "F. I. R. C. O." and, underneath: "Fraternalite Internationale de la Resistance Contre l'Oppression."

The aims of the Fraternalite? To keep alive the ideals that flourished during the last war among members of all Resistance groups. The funds come from modest subscriptions from members and from private persons.

On the day after James Bond had completed his nature cure and had left for London, an emergency meeting of the trustees of FIRCO was called for seven o'clock in the evening. The men, for they were all men, came from all over Europe, by train or car or airplane, and they entered No. 136 singly or in pairs, some by the front door and some by the back.

Each man had his allotted time for arriving at these meetings—so many minutes, up to two hours, before zero hour—and each man alternated between the back and the front door from meeting to meeting. Now there were two "concealers" for each door, other less obvious security measures, and complete sets of dummy FIRCO minutes, backed up one hundred per cent by the current business of the FIRCO organization on the ground floor.

Thus, in necessary, the deliberations of the "trustees" could, in a matter only of seconds, be switched from clandestine to overt—a solidly overt as any meeting of principals in the Boulevard Haussmann could possibly be.

At seven o'clock precisely the twenty men who made up this organization strode, lounged, or sidled, each according to his character, into the workman-like board room on the third floor. Their chairman was already in his seat. No greetings were exchanged. They were ruled by the chairman to be a waste of breath and, in an organization of this nature, hypocritical.

The men filed round the table and took their places at their numbers, the numbers from one to twenty-one that were their only names and that, as a small security precaution, advanced round the rota by two digits at midnight on the first of every month. They sat very still and looked up the table at the chairman with expressions of the sharpest interest.

This man's name was Ernst Stavro Blofeld and he was born in Gdynia of a Polish father and a Green mother on May 28th, 1906. After matriculating in economics and political history at the University of Warsaw he studied engineering and radionics at the War saw Technical Institute and at the age of twenty-five obtained a modest post in the central administration of the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs.

This would seem a curious choice for such a highly gifted youth, but Blofeld had come to an interesting conclusion about the future of the world. He had decided that fast and accurate communication lay, in a contracting world, at the very heart of power.

PAR TIME 25 MIN. AP Newsfeatures 1-15

He was doing very well on this theory, watching the cables and radiograms that passed through his hands at the Central Post Office and buying or selling on margin on the Warsaw Bourse—only occasionally, when he was absolutely certain, but then very big—when the basic nature of the postal traffic changed. Now Poland was mobilizing for war and a spate of munition orders and diplomatic cables poured through his department. Blofeld changed his tactics. This was valuable stuff, worth nothing to him, but priceless for the enemy.

Clumsily at first, and then more expertly, he contrived to take copies of cables, choosing, for the ciphers hid their contents from him, only those prefixed "MOST IMMEDIATE" or "MOST SECURET." Then, working carefully, he built up a network of agents.

By the time Blofeld had made $200,000 he decided that war was getting too close for comfort. It was time for him to be off into the wide world—into one of the safe bits of it.

Blofeld carried out his withdrawal expertly. First he slowly pattered off the service. Security, he explained, was being tightened up by the English and the French. Then he went to his friend on the Bourse and, after sealing his lips with a thousand dollars, had all his funds invested in Shell Beas Bonds in Amsterdam and thence transferred to a Numbered Safe Deposit box in Zurich.

Next he paid a visit to Gdynia, called on the registrar and on the church where he had been baptized and, on the pretext of looking up details of an invented friend, neatly cut out the page recording his own name and birth.

It remained only to locate the passport factory that operates in every big seaport and purchase a seaman's passport for $2,000. Then he was off to Sweden by the next boat. After a pause in Stockholm Blofeld flew to Turkey on his original passport, transferred his money from Switzerland to a bank in Istanbul, and waited for Poland to fall.

When, in due course, this happened, he claimed refuge in Turkey and spent a little money among the right officials in order to get his claim established. Then he settled down. Ankara Radio was geared to have his expert services and he set up an espionage service.

Blofeld wisely waited to ascertain the victor before selling his wares, and it was only when Rome had been kicked out of Africa that he plumped for the Allies. He finished the war in a blaze of glory and prosperity and with decorations or citations from the British, Americans, and French.

Then, with half a million dollars in Swiss banks and a Swedish passport in the name of Serge Angstrom, he slipped off to South America for a rest, some good food, and a fresh think.

And now Ernst Blofeld, the name to which he had decided it was perfectly safe to return, sat in the quiet room in the Boulevard Haussmann, gazed slowly round the faces of his twenty men who waited patiently for him to speak. They were a curious mixture. All experts in conspiracy, in the highest ranges of secret communication and action and, above all, of silence, they shared one supreme virtue—every man had a solid cover. Every man possessed a valid passport with up-to-date visas for the principal countries in the world, and an entirely clean sheet with Interpol and with their respective national police forces.

That factor alone, after a lifetime in big crime, was his highest qualification for membership of SPECTRE—The Special Executive for Counterintelligence, Terrorism, Revenge, and Extortion.

The founder and chairman of this private enterprise for profit was Ernst Stavro Blofeld.

Likes Sentence To Night School

NEW YORK (AP)—A youthful, non-English speaking first offender in this city of many tongues is apt to find himself sentenced to night school.

General Sessions Judge Charles Marks says he believes the language barrier often is a main cause of this type of problem.

At the start of the year he began sentencing youthful defendants who appeared good risks to attend school to learn English. He said the program has been so successful that other judges had agreed to give it a try.

Senators Going To OAS Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will accompany Secretary of State Dean Rusk to the Jan. 22 meeting of the Organization of American States at Punta del Este, Uruguay. Sanctions against Communist-aligned Cuba are too considered there.

The senators are Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of a Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin American affairs, and Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, the subcommittee's ranking GOP member.

Some 36,000 Americans live in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Calgary is the center of Canada's oil industry.

Now—
Ford frees you forever from the expense and bother of frequent car servicing. Twice-a-year maintenance is here—and only the cars from Ford have it!

In a new Ford Galaxie or Fairlane, the odometer rolls off a long 6,000 miles between every service stop. Compare this with other '62 cars and here's what you'll find: many cars still have to check in for service every 1,000 miles; some every 2,000 miles; others every 4,000 miles. Only the cars from Ford need service only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles.

When you own a '62 Galaxie or Fairlane, you don't have to drive with one eye on the odometer to make sure you're not forgetting an oil change or a grease job or other servicing. Ford's twice-a-year maintenance saves you time, saves you money. Just one stop every 6,000 miles takes care of servicing. You'll go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications, 2 years or 30,000 miles without changing engine coolant-antifreeze. Brakes adjust themselves.

Why buy a service headache when Ford is ready with the cure? See your Ford Dealer—and see how close Ford has come to the fill-it-and-forget-it car!

Anti-Semitism Being Probed

KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP)—Police are investigating an outbreak of anti-Semitism. Anti-Semitic slogans have been scrawled repeatedly in the Jewish cemetery of this capital of Carinthia Province.

Graves of one Jewish family were smeared with excrement, tombstones were damaged and a member of the family received threatening letters.

Ike Urges Help For Heart Ass'n

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called Wednesday upon all citizens to join him in supporting the American Heart Association.

Eisenhower termed heart disease "our nation's most serious health problem" and added: "Each of us has a highly personal stake in the conquest of heart disease. There are few families who do not live in its shadow or have not met it face to face."

Eisenhower, who suffered a heart attack himself while he was president, is honorary chairman of the heart association's board of directors.

The annual heart fund campaign begins Feb. 1.

Would Divorce Willie Mays

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—The wife of San Francisco Giants baseball star Willie Mays, Scarlett Wendell Mays, has filed for a Mexican divorce, charging incompatibility.

She appeared before Civil Court Judge Carlos Uranga Munoz Wednesday of the coming date. The petition said the couple separated Sept. 26, 1951, that a property settlement had been reached and that Mays had agreed to the divorce.

Mrs. Mays asked for custody of their adopted son, Michael, 2. Her attorney said Mays had agreed to an undisclosed alimony and support for the boy.

The Mays were married Feb. 14, 1956 at Elkton, Md.

The Declaration of Independence was placed in the care of the National Archives in 1952.

Auntie Mame In High Style

When Minnie Gaster of Elon College (right, seated) appears in the title role of "Auntie Mame" at East Carolina College this week, she will wear more than a dozen stunning and original costumes. With Mrs. Lois Garren of Greenville as designer, Mame's extensive wardrobe will give a note of "high fashion" and will contribute to the interest and attractiveness of the production by the East Carolina Playhouse. The long-run Broadway comedy hit will have three performances here—tonight, Friday and Saturday, January 18, 19, and 20 at 8:15 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. In the photograph above, Mame, in an exotic outfit, charms Patrick Dennis (C. Thomas Jackson of Washington, N. C.), the little nephew who has just come to live with her. He arrives in the midst of one of her rollicking parties, at which her actress friend Vera Charles (Shirley Morse of Hamlet) and M. Lindsay Woolsey (G. Carroll Norwood of Black Mountain), shown in the rear, are guests. The photograph was made in the home of Mrs. R. M. Garrett, Sr., of Greenville. United Nations Speaker's Topic

The Thalian Book Club met on Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. John Drake in Brookgreen. A two-course luncheon was served. After lunch the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. H. L. Hodges. Following a short business session, Mrs. Hodges turned the meeting over to Mrs. George Wilkerson who had the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Wilkerson introduced Dr. John Howell from East Carolina who spoke on the United Nations and its role in world affairs. Dr. Howell urged that everyone support the $100,000,000 bond issue coming up, which will be used to continue the work of the organization. A group discussion followed Dr. Howell's talk. At the conclusion of the program, the books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Senior Citizens To Tour Local TV Station

The Senior Citizens of Greenville will hold their regular bi-weekly meeting Thursday, at Elm Street Park. The group is asked to meet at 11:00 a.m. at the Recreation Center, to leave from there for a visit to the local TV station. A tour of the facilities of WNCN will be conducted for the group, following which they will remain to watch a local broadcast. Transportation will be provided for all who desire it, if those interested will call Mrs. Agner at Elm St. Park, PL 2-2355. The Senior Citizens of Greenville is affiliated with the national organization of Senior Citizens of America, and is open to all men and women in the retired age group. Meetings are held on the first and third Thursday mornings of each month.

French Youngsters Don't Kwai

PARIS—(WNS)—A poll of 3,000 French children taken by the "Loisirs Jeunes" association has revealed that girls prefer reading to movies. Boys prefer sports events. One hundred and fifty teen-age girls reported that no film has been sad enough to make them cry. Favorite films of French youngsters: "Bride Over The River Kwai" and "Les Misérables."

Jenkins Says Decision On Carolina Conference Will Be Made Jan. 22

By GEORGE BRYANT
Reflector Sports Editor

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, said today that he was advised by the Athletic Committee after a meeting yesterday that it would not be to the college's best interest to go along with the scholarship limitations of the Carolinas Conference.

However, Jenkins stated, "A definite decision as to whether or not ECC will remain in the conference will not be made until the meeting of the conference presidents on Jan. 22."

The college head noted in December that he was not in favor of remaining in the conference under the limitations that go into effect next fall. "It is not feasible for us to go in two directions at the same time and we therefore prefer to place our athletic program in a position where it should be for a college of this size," Jenkins said.

The school is expecting an enrollment of 6,000 in the fall and is building a new football stadium in line with its recent efforts to qualify for membership in the Southern Conference.

Stasavich Favors Action - New head football coach Clarence Stasavich told the Reflector today that he is in favor of the action taken by the committee yesterday. "I think they acted wisely," he said.

However, Stasavich noted that he does not make the policies and that he would conform to whatever the Faculty Athletic Committee and Director of Athletics Dr. N. M. Jorgensen set up.

Stasavich noted that the thing East Carolina needs to do now is work in the direction of the Southern Conference. "However, we will not be that good next fall," the coach noted. Stasavich said he is hoping for a 500 season next year as this is a period of rebuilding and rebuilding is done from the foundation up, not from the top.

According to Stasavich, East Carolina has a lot to do in organizing the new program and must feel its way along. "At least we know what direction we are going in," he said.

The coach also noted, "We will not meet our objectives right away. The plans are long range and could take four or five years." The decision not to go along with the limitations is to give us guidance in making decisions in the future.

When asked if leaving the conference would cause trouble in scheduling games both Jenkins and Stasavich said they did not know.

Jenkins said, "We are anxious to continue our athletic relationship with all of the colleges in the conference, but this is something that must be decided by each college concerned."

Stasavich said, "Most of the coaches are interested in competing with East Carolina in the future, but I don't know how the administrations of the schools feel."

Minor Changes In Football Rules

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The rules of college football got a minor touchup but no major alterations this year from the NCAA rules committee, which keyed its efforts toward curbing injuries.

The committee left unchanged the existing substitution rule after considering coaches' requests for permission to use as many as three "wild card" subs.

Fritz Crisler, former Michigan coach who served as acting chairman, said he believed most coaches would find the committee's actions acceptable.

"The small colleges favor one rule, the universities like another," Crisler said. "I think, however, the majority do not want free, unlimited, unrestricted substitution."

The committee adjourned its three-day annual meeting after holding a special session Wednesday night to consider the substitution rule.

One other action came out of the night session, however—a decision to request stricter enforcement of a rule against piling on a tackled player.

The committee left unchanged the regulations governing player equipment. It said that before changes are authorized, a thorough assessment should be made of numerous player-injury surveys now under way or completed.

Crisler said the chairman of the NCAA injury committee, Ernie McCoy of Penn State, will be asked to survey all studies on football injuries, including one done by the Army, one by Cornell and Michigan and others.

More rigid enforcement was asked of rules against clipping, and words or signals that would rattle a team preparing to put the ball in play.

The penalty for illegal shift was reduced from 15 to 5 yards to make it equal to the illegal motion penalty.

A team kicking the ball will be authorized to touch it within the opponents' 10-yard line and make it dead. Previously, such action was ruled a touchback and the

Lenoir Rhyne Meeting 10th Place Guilford

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

League-leading Lenoir Rhyne, the powerhouse of the Carolinas Conference, meets tenth-place Guilford tonight in the only conference game scheduled.

Lenoir Rhyne's players will take the floor sporting bruises suffered Tuesday night when the Bears defeated Belmont Abbey 77-66 in a non-conference battle in Charlotte. The going became rough in the final minutes of the game when the Abbey made a desperate attempt to stop the Bears from scoring. Jim Wiles suffered a broken jaw.

Guilford, 2-9 in the conference, suffered its last defeat Tuesday when it lost to second-place Elon 88-53 at Guilford College.

Elon's Dewey Andrew, who scored 33 points in that game, has taken the individual scoring lead in the conference with an average of 22 points a game.

Former individual scoring leader Mel Gibson of Western Carolina, who scored 19 points against Catawba Wednesday night, fell to third place in the scoring race with a 20.9 point average. In second place is Bobby Frank of Pfeiffer with a 21.3 average. Phil

Musgrave of Newberry is fourth with an 18.6 point average and Jerry Wells of Lenoir Rhyne is fifth with a 17.9 point average.

In Wednesday night's other game, Appalachian rallied in the second half to build up a decided 100-79 defeat over Newberry. Western Carolina got avengeful 80-55 victory over Catawba.

Appalachian didn't get ahead until the first minutes of the second half. At intermission Newberry led 33-32. The Mountaineers however, held Newberry to three points for the first five minutes of the second half while they sprinted ahead.

Newberry's Musgrave paced both teams with 28 points. Jim Richardson and Wayne Duncan had 25 each for Appalachian.

With three men in double figures, WCC took the lead over Catawba early in the game and never ceased to widen it. Gaston Seal and Gibson scored 49 points each for the Catamounts and Gary Tharpe had 14.

Jim Sessoms of Catawba led the scoring with 20 points. His nearest teammate was Al Johnson with 11.

There are no games Friday night.

North Carolina has taken the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race and it will be a week and a half before Duke and Wake Forest can do anything about it.

The Tar Heels jumped out ahead in the ACC race by beating N.C. State 66-56 Wednesday night. Until then, they had been in a first place deadlock with Duke and Wake Forest, all with 4-1 conference records.

ACC case action is in the doldrums now because of semester exams, but fans can look forward to a Wake Forest-Duke battle Jan. 27. North Carolina doesn't play again until Feb. 3.

That Wake Forest-Duke game will be a battle of the giants with 6-8 Len Chappell leading the restless Deacons and 6-5 Art Heyman the big man for seventh ranked Duke.

Heyman and Chappell are first and second, respectively, in the conference scoring race. Through games of last Saturday, Heyman averaged 28.6 points per game and Chappell averaged 27.3.

Playoffs Earned More In 1961

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina High School Athletic Association received $17,290 in 1961 from its football playoffs despite reduction in championship competition.

In 1960, when champions were crowned in all five classes from 4-A to eight-man, the association received $11,143.60 as its 75 per cent of the net receipts.

Chappell was a big man when he first set foot on a basketball court. As a high school freshman he stood 6-4. Between his freshman and sophomore years he sprouted to 6-7 and returned to school to average 21 points a game on the high school varsity.

Last Saturday, Wake Forest played St. Francis at Johnstown, Pa., just 15 miles from Chappell's home town of Portage. The Deacons bowed to the Pennsylvania team 65-63, but Chappell scored a healthy 24 points.

After the game, Jim Hess, Chappell's high school coach said, "When Lennie averaged 21 points as a sophomore, I know he was on his way, and I'll guarantee you it couldn't happen to a nicer guy."

"In high school he was very self-conscious," Hess recalled. "If the opponent had a big fellow, Lennie would keep watching him and measuring him with his eyes. He would maneuver around until he had a good idea how much bigger he was than the other fellow."

Heyman will be the man for Chappell to measure when the Deacons next meet the Blue Devils. At their last meeting, Dec. 30, Chappell scored 37 points and Heyman 33. Duke won 75-73, but the game, scheduled to fill a void left by the discontinued Dixie Classic, did not count in conference standings.

In Wednesday night's game, the Tar Heels fought off a second half comeback by N.C. State, going scoreless for six minutes late in the game as State hacked away at a 16-point lead.

With 4½ minutes to play, State pulled to within three points of UNC, narrowing the gap to 58-55.

before the Tar Heels regained their shooting eye.

Junior Larry Brown led North Carolina with 21 points. Jon Speaks led State with 20.

The Tar Heels now have a 5-1 conference record and are 6-2 against all comers. State, fifth in the league, is 2-3 and 3-3.

There are no ACC games tonight or Friday night. Saturday, Maryland is at N.C. State and Virginia Tech is at Virginia in a non-conference game.

Gobblers Gain First Division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia Tech's Gobblers have moved into the first division in the Southern Conference basketball standings and — with five of their seven remaining league games at home — they probably won't be dislodged.

A 67-54 victory over Richmond Wednesday night, the Gobblers' last seven games, and the only defeat in that string was by only 85-81 to front-running West Virginia (9-0 in the league) on the Mountaineers' home court.

At that, the surprising Spiders — who have been making things uncomfortable for a lot of teams lately — didn't succumb without a battle. Richmond led by 28-25 at halftime and upped the margin to 32-26 in the second half.

But the Gobblers turned from a zone to a pressing man-to-man defense and outscored the Spiders 22-2 over the next 10-minute period with senior Bucky Keller, junior Lee Melear and sophomore Howard Pardue leading the way.

Melear and Richmond sophomore Buddy Enck wound up with scoring honors, Melear poking in 20 points to 21 for Enck.

It was the only game Wednesday night involving league teams, and tonight's only activity has Furman (8-5 over-all) playing host to Belmont Abbey in a non-conference affair.

May Drop Playing Traditional Rivals

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The rough house basketball game his Lenoir Rhyne College team won from Belmont Abbey here Tuesday night might be the last in the series between the schools, says Billy Wells coach of the Bears.

Although Wells wouldn't say definitely relations would be suspended, he said it was "very possible."

Lenoir Rhyne won 77-66 cashing in 20 of 22 free throws in the last 10 minutes as Belmont Abbey committed 13 personal fouls in a desperate effort to come from 10 points behind.

Wells said, "Those last 6½ minutes weren't basketball. I realize

Stengel Hints At Brief Tenure

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Casey Stengel has indicated that his job as manager of the newly organized New York Mets may not last too long.

The former Yankee manager also issued a warning that ball players picked up by the Mets won't be around long if they don't produce.

The 71-year-old manager spoke to 2,100 Wednesday night at the 14th annual Manchester Union League baseball dinner. He met a barrage of questions about the chances of his new National League entry.

"We've got nine starters," Stengel said, "and I plan to tell them that if this is their last chance at playing regularly, they'd better step on the gas and really give their best."

Wilma Training For Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ten pounds heavier and fighting a head cold, Wilma Rudolph Ward, Olympic triple gold medal winner, is training here for Saturday night's invitational indoor track meet in the Sports Arena.

She flew in Wednesday night from her home in Nashville. Accompanying her were her Tennessee A&I teammates, Jean Holmes; Coach Ed Temple and broad jumper Ralph Boston.

Wilma and Miss Holmes are entered in the 60-yard dash.

"I plan to win," said Wilma, a recent bride. She admitted that she gained weight during the winter on the banquet circuit.

Alan MacArthur Named To Prep All-American

Duquesne Gets Chance To 'Stay' In Top Rankings

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Duquesne, a team that "didn't belong" according to the pre-season experts, gets a chance to "stay" tonight when it tackles third-ranked Cincinnati in one of the week's top college basketball attractions.

Duquesne, with 12 victories and only a loss to Villanova in the Quaker City Holiday Festival last month, is ranked fifth. Cincy is 12-2, after beating Dayton Tuesday night. The Dukes won over Toledo on Monday.

Elsewhere tonight, fourth-ranked Kansas State plays Missouri in a Big Eight game and Missouri Valley leader Bradley (10-2) ranked ninth, takes on conference foe Drake.

The only ranked team in action Wednesday night was 10th rated Mississippi State, which beat Alabama 67-40.

In other action, North Carolina took over first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 66-56 victory over North Carolina State. Virginia Tech won over Richmond 67-54 in a Southern Conference game. Louisville surprised Xavier (Ohio) 88-60. Harvard gained sole possession of fourth place in the Ivy League with a 76-72 victory over Dartmouth. Penn beat St. Joseph's 66-60 for the first time since 1946, and Army ended Williams' unbeaten streak at 12 with an easy 72-58 victory.

Alabama went into a first half stall, but Mississippi State showed the Tide how it should be done and gained a 21-5 halftime lead. Both changed tactics in the second half and the Maroon ran away from 'Bama 46-35. Leland Mitchell, with 20 points, and J. D. Stroud with 16 paced Mississippi State, which had a 45.6 shooting average from the floor. Alabama shot only 27.6, paced by Gary Blagburn's 16 points.

The Tar Heels almost lost a 16-point lead, going scoreless for six minutes in the second half before regaining their edge. Larry Brown's 21 points paced North Carolina, now 5-1 in the ACC, while Jon Speaks led N.C. State with 20.

Joe Deering's 17 points led Harvard while Penn came from an 11-point deficit as all five starters, paced by Dave Robinson's 17 points, hit double figures. Stu Sherard's 23 points paced Army's victory.

ALAN MacARTHUR

Rose High School's ace half-back Alan MacArthur has been named to the 1961 All-American Prep Team.

The 5-foot 10-inch senior football standout received a certificate from the Wig Wam Wise Men of America stating that he had been named to the team and a letter asking him if he would be interested in playing in an All-Star game May 13.

McArthur also received a letter of congratulation from Sporting News for the honor he had won and his outstanding job on the gridiron.

In addition to the All-American Prep honor, McArthur has received other awards for his excellence on the football field. He was named to the News and Observer's All-East football team for the third year in a row, he was All-Conference in the Northeastern Conference and played on the 1961 Shrine Bowl team.

After being approached by five or six colleges, McArthur decided to accept a grant-in-aid with the University of North Carolina. Assistant Coach Ernie Williamson came to Greenville last Friday to complete the arrangements for UNC.

McArthur said he doubted that he would play in the May 13 All-Star game. In order to do so he would have to miss a good bit of school and he would also have to have permission of the University before he could agree to play.

Oklahoma has 12,581 teams affiliated with the American Bowling Association.

Weather Eyed At Crosby Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby's 21st national pro-amateur golf tournament opened today with 324 players sharing attention with the weatherman.

While golfers and fans alike hoped for continuance of the clear skies of the past week, the forecast called for overcast tonight with possible rain Friday.

Defending champion Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., headed the bulky field in quest of another $5,300 top prize for the leading professional in this $50,000 production.

Another $3,000 goes to the play-for-pay shooter on the winning pro-amateur team. Crosby's format calls for each pro to have an amateur partner with celebrities of entertainment, business and sports adding spice to the competition.

Art Wall, who won in 1959 with a 72-hole score of 279, indicated he expects to be in contention again as he commented, "I'm playing better. I was just one stroke behind the winner at San Diego and that helped my confidence."

Young Phil Rodgers, who won the Los Angeles Open by nine strokes two weeks ago, continued his hot shooting in his practice round Wednesday.

The field was split into three groups for today's opening round. One played Monterey Peninsula Country Club, another Cypress Point and the third at Pebble Beach. By Saturday night each will have played all three courses with the low scorers continuing in Sunday's finals at Pebble Beach.

All three courses play to par 72. Most consider Monterey Peninsula to be less difficult since tall trees break the wind. Yet the foliage will cost strokes on erratic shots.

Frick Calls For Pepping Up Of Baseball Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick insisted today he is not alarmed over the rapid rise of professional football, but urged major league club owners and the rules committee to do something about "pepping up the game."

Ice May Block River Traffic

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—A congestion of ice floes blocking the Mississippi River since Friday may prevent resumption of river traffic for at least five days, the Weather Bureau said Wednesday.

More than 250 barges have been berthed at this junction of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers while tugs and towboats hack at the stubborn ice. The gorge extends 10 miles downstream from Fayetteville, and is 10 feet thick in some places.

The bureau said the gorge is creating a minor rise in the river upstream. The river rose 4.5 feet in 24 hours at Thebes.

Los Angeles Angels pitchers led the American League in strikeouts in 1961, fanning 973. They also led in walks with 713.

"What baseball needs is few delays and home runs and more snappy plays and stolen bases," Frick said. "Not enough is being done in this respect."

His comments were prompted by the results of an Associated Press poll. In the balloting by 215 sportswriters and broadcasters, 109 voted "yes" to the question "will professional football in 10 or 20 years replace baseball as our national pastime?" there were 106 dissenters.

In addition, 25 voters insisted that pro football already has knocked baseball out of the box as America's No. 1 sport while another 15 predicted the grid game will take over in fewer than 10 years.

"I'm not alarmed that pro football is going to take baseball's place," Frick said. "We did have a slight decrease in major league attendance (5.6 per cent) last season. But don't forget that 30 million people watched professional baseball games and that the game is being played in more high schools and colleges than ever before."

Big league baseball attendance in 1961 was 18,893,000. The National Football League hit a record high of close to 4,000,000 while the rival American Football League also showed an increase at the gate in its second year of operation.

Frick predicted that more major league teams would be added within the next few years.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—One of boxing's three disputed titles will be cleared up tonight and Brazilian fans think their Eder Jofre will emerge as the undisputed bantamweight champion in his match with Ireland's John Caldwell.

Jofre, a knockout puncher with 40 victories and three draws in 43 fights, is recognized in South America and by the U.S. National Boxing Association as world champ. Caldwell, 23-year-old boxer who also is unbeaten, holds the European version of the same world title.

There are dual claimants in both the middleweight and light heavy classes with Gene Fullmer and Terry Downes splitting the middle title and Archie Moore and Harold Johnson holding shares of the light heavy crown.

The bantam dispute arose after Mexico's Joe Becerra retired following a knockout by Eloy Sanchez in a non-title fight, Aug. 30, 1960. Jofre was recognized after he stopped Sanchez, Nov. 18, 1960. Caldwell gained the European nod by whipping exchamp Alphonse Halimi March 30, 1961 and repeating last Oct. 31.

Brazilian fans have made Jofre, 25, a top heavy favorite on the strength of a superior punching power. They think they spotted a chink in the Irishman's defense during his workouts. Jofre has stopped 30 opponents, including the last 10 men he faced. Caldwell has 12 knockouts in his 25-0 record.

The 15-round match is scheduled for 9 p.m. EST.

Rescuers Probe Tunnel Maze

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Rescue workers probed a maze of tunnels today in hopes that one of them might lead to two boys believed trapped by a rock fall in an abandoned clay mine 15 miles south of Clearfield.

Sheriff James B. Reese of Clearfield County and State Mine Inspector Perry B. Baddis led rescuers in searching the underground labyrinth opened Wednesday by a bulldozer.

The boys, Larry Husted, 10, of West Decatur and Wesley Lowe, 13, of Morgan Run have been missing since they entered the mine last Sunday.

The last time two Midwestern teams battled for the National Football League championship was in 1957 when Detroit beat Cleveland, 59-14.

CHEVY II WINS AWARD FOR ENGINEERING EXCELLENCE !!!

This is the Nova 400 Sport Coupe, just one of 11 Chevy II models you can pick from.

The men who know cars best put Chevy II to the test. And, after they had compared it with the rest of the '62 crop, the editors of Car Life magazine picked Chevy II for their coveted Engineering Excellence Award. Why? Here are some of the reasons in the editors' own words: "The Chevy II, in either 4- or 6-cylinder form, represents an important development in the American automotive field. The car is maximum transportation at minimum cost..." And throughout the editors' reports on the engineering and road testing you'll find accolades like "easy maintenance"... "long wearing ruggedness"... "simple elegance"... "reasonable size"... "delightful car to drive." Get the full story in the February issue of Car Life. Better yet, see your Chevrolet dealer. U Thant Pushes New Guinea Peacemaking Effort

N.C. Has Two Solutions For Its Unruly Convicts

By E. J. PERKINS
Raleigh Times Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Chains and shackles, and spoiled beans for North Carolina prisoners? "Poppycock," snapped Col. Robert A. Allen, assistant director of the North Carolina Prisons Department.

His denial came close on the heels of such charges by two Tar Heel escapees who did not want to be sent back from Rhode Island to finish out their terms here.

Just what punishment does the state use for its unruly prisoners? Solitary confinement and a monotonous diet, says Allen.

Does it work?

"Well, we don't have many repeaters in the cells," said Allen. Recalcitrant prisoners generally get a 3-to-30 day sentence so officials can have some discretion in the punishment. Chief passport to the punishment cells is balking or refusing to do what the guards say.

A tour of the Camp Polk medium security unit in Raleigh found two men in the solitary cells.

One explained he was in for raising his hand at a guard. How did you raise your hand, he was asked.

The prisoner demonstrated by raising his clenched fist in a striking position.

The other solitary explained he was in for taking a drink while working in a state building downtown. A friend gave him the drink while he was downtown on an errand, he explained.

"I'm never gonna get in here again, once I get out," he vowed. He neither liked the monotonous diet nor the bare cell. The empty room seemed to prey on him worse than the food.

The monotonous diet is a special concoction, mostly liver, whipped up by the State Health Department at the request of W. F. Bailey, about five years ago when he was director of prisons. It's produced at Women's Prison in Raleigh. Chief ingredients are liver, corn meal, onions, tomatoes and shortening. And the emphasis is on liver.

It isn't too bad to taste. But the taste lingers on, and on, and on.

Col. Allen maintains he would rather have the monotonous diet for several days in a row than to take some other food such as turkey. "Just cleaning up the Thanksgiving turkey gets me mighty tired," he said.

The monotonous diet replaced the old prison standby of bread and water or a restricted diet. It was brought into use because it makes sure the prisoner's health is not impaired.

The bread and water or the restricted diet (the regular fare in smaller portions) might cause illness, officials felt.

Before a prisoner gets solitary and the diet, he is checked by a doctor. If it is felt the diet would not agree with the prisoner, he gets a diet prescribed by the doctor.

The prison doesn't save money on the diet. It costs 57 cents to feed a prisoner two meals a day. Regular meals often cost less, an official said.

The segregation cells are seven by 10 feet and contain a bed, a toilet set in concrete so it can't be torn up, and a wash basin. Prisoners in the solitary cells aren't allowed any reading matter except a Bible.

Light comes from bulbs in the hall.

The rooms are designed so the prisoners cannot see outside nor see each other. They can talk with each other or with any one who might come in from the outside.

The diet and solitary cells coupled with loss of time off for good behaviour are the chief tools used to keep the men in line, Allen said.

For any crimes the prisoners are taken into the regular courts for trial.

Few of the prisoners give trouble, Allen said. He pointed out that of the 525 prisoners at Camp Polk only two were in solitary confinement at the time of the visit.

Why would prisoners tell stories of shackles and chains?

"Well they have to justify their action in running away and not wanting to go back," said the assistant director.

By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant pressed a peacemaking effort today to bring The Netherlands and Indonesia together for negotiations to settle their dispute over control of West New Guinea.

Thant cabled identical appeals to Indonesian President Sukarno and Dutch Premier Jan de Quay to accept his services as go-between. He asked both to hold off from any drastic action in retaliation for Monday's naval clash off the coast of New Guinea.

"I earnestly appeal to your excellency and your government," Thant's cables said, "to refrain from any precipitate action following the clash of naval vessels which took place on 14 January. (The attack actually occurred on Jan. 15). I would also request that your permanent representative in New York be instructed to discuss with me the possibilities of a peaceful settlement of the whole question in conformity with the purposes and principles of the charter of the United Nations."

Later Thant talked with Dutch Ambassador C. W. A. Schurmann and Indonesian Ambassador Sukardjo and told them formally of his cables to their governments.

Sukardjo told newsmen that Indonesia was "flexible." He added, however, that his government favors negotiations only if the Dutch government commits itself in advance to transfer administrative control of the disputed territory to Indonesia.

An informed source said he expected the Dutch reaction to Thant's overture to be favorable.

De Quay cabled Thant Tuesday that his cabinet had expressed readiness as early as Jan. 2 to negotiate with Indonesia "under your auspices and without any preconditions." He said the offer still stood but he warned that his government reserved the right of self-defense if Indonesia attacked Dutch territory.

The Dutch reportedly are reconciled to giving the Indonesians control over the territory. But apparently they are withholding an advance pledge in hopes of obtaining some assurance in the negotiations that the Papuan population of West New Guinea ultimately will be allowed a plebiscite to determine whether they will be independent or Indonesian.

A dispatch from Jakarta said Sukarno's cabinet was pinning its last hope of avoiding war on the U.N. chief. The cabinet was said to feel that Thant alone could manage to bring Indonesia and The Netherlands to a conference table — something the United States and other big powers have been unable to accomplish.

Thant has been working behind the scenes for nearly two weeks seeking a bloodless solution to the New Guinea crisis. He has met with Dutch and Indonesian representatives and with many other diplomats including U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

New Guinea is certain to get a thorough going-over when President Kennedy comes to New York Friday to confer with Thant on U.N. issues in general.

The State Department has called on both the Netherlands and Indonesia to try to resolve their dispute through peaceful negotiations. A State Department official said the U. S. government welcomed Thant's "commendable initiative" and hoped it would meet with a "speedy and positive response."

The Indonesian government meanwhile continued to arrest political opponents of Sukarno in an attempt apparently to prevent rallying of opposition to an invasion of West New Guinea should Sukarno order it.

Sultan Hamid of Pontianak, whom the Dutch installed as head of the West Borneo State in 1947, was the latest reported taken into custody. Sukarno's government had imprisoned him for a time in 1950, accusing him of masterminding a revolt, and his state along with the other Indonesian states abandoned the semi-autonomy which they had when they first won independence from the Dutch.

Informed sources indicated 16 political leaders in all had been arrested but it was believed more would be taken in.

The Indonesian navy announced that its deputy chief of staff, Commodore Soedarmo, 35, was aboard the torpedo boat sunk by Dutch warships off New Guinea Monday night and is missing. The announcement said Indonesian navy ships were searching for the officer although Dutch navy ships were still in the area south of the New Guinea Coast.

The Indonesians previously had reported that only one torpedo boat was sunk in the clash. Today they said a second boat was set afire but the extent of the damage was not yet known.

The Soviet military newspaper Red Star declared today that the clash between Dutch and Indonesian naval vessels was a "brazen provocation" by the Dutch instigated by "certain elements in Washington."

"The provocateurs shall not evade responsibility for their aggressive actions," said Red Star. "The instigators in Washington shall not go unpunished."

Carson Yearns For Jack Paar's Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Carson, nimble-witted master of ceremonies of the daytime show, "Who Do You Trust?" opened his program the other day by announcing sarcastically: "This is ABC, the network with a heart."

Carson, quite frankly, is disenchanted with the network. He has been offered the job of Jack Paar's replacement when Paar leaves his NBC show at the end of March. But Carson's contract for the ABC audience participation show runs to the end of next September, and, at this writing, ABC is refusing to release him.

The Iowa-born comedian, 36, years for the NBC job.

"I know it would be very difficult for anybody to follow Paar," he said. "But I think that show is just about the last outpost of television where a free exchange of views and conversation and where spontaneous comedy is possible."

Carson will take a vacation from his show next week, and his fill-in will be a Los Angeles TV personality, Bob Crane. Carson devoutly hopes Crane will do so well that ABC will change its corporate mind about releasing him.

Meanwhile, NBC is reported to be considering holding the permanent job open for Carson until October by using him frequently as host, hiring other personalities to hold the fort for a week or two at a time and also re-running some "Best of Paar" tapes.

There's a very good chance Lucille Ball may be back on CBS next season starring in a new comedy series. That would be very nice for the viewers, good for CBS and, perhaps, best of all for Desilu, the production company "I Love Lucy" built (and of which Lucille remains a vice president despite her divorce from Desi Arnaz). Desilu has been running into hard luck selling new series recently although its vast studio facilities are in great demand by other producers.

ABC and the cigar sponsor expect to go ahead with the Ernie Kovacs special Tuesday night, but only after approval from the comedian's widow, Edie Adams. The half-hour show will eliminate all commercials.

It is expected that Miss Adams will give her approval for the program taped Dec. 2, because most of Kovacs' friends feel sure he would have wanted the show to go on as scheduled.

After all the kidding sketches in TV variety shows about the weekly opening of ABC's "Ben Casey"—the wild ride of a stretcher case through hospital corridors—the producers have quietly abandoned it. Now Ben, looking worried, steps away from an operating table and rips off his surgical mask. It will be hard to kid that.

Liquor Ban On Airlines Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., introduced a bill Wednesday to ban service of free alcoholic beverages on any passenger plane doing business within the United States.

"The first-class passenger seeking expeditious transportation and nothing else is having to bear the expense of the distribution of free cocktails and champagne to others," Johnston told the Senate.

Atlas Launched By SAC Crew

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The 14th Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile launched by a SAC missile combat crew here was successfully fired Wednesday from a "coffin" pad.

The distance covered by the missile and the target area for the Strategic Air Command training and testing exercise were not disclosed.

The roof of a protective concrete-and-earth structure slid back and the horizontally stored Atlas was raised to a vertical position for firing.

To Resume Talk On Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The 18-nation disarmament committee established by the United Nations has set March 14 for resumption of negotiations in Geneva.

The United States and the Soviet Union, as leaders of the committee, formally notified U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant Wednesday of their meeting date and asked him to set up the facilities.

SHELTERS FOR ALL---IN SWEDEN

ON GUARD. A Swedish civil defense guard, armed with a light sub-machine gun, stands at the entrance to an underground shelter.

The 7 1/2 million people of Sweden, who have been at peace since Napoleon's time, today seem better prepared against nuclear attack than any other western nation.

If war did come, the entire populace would begin moving to already prepared rural evacuation sites or into nuclear blast and fallout shelters, some carved into solid rock.

Disorder would be at a minimum because a trained civil defense corps is on duty in every square mile of the nation. Every citizen, if not formally trained, has been advised how to behave and what to do in case of attack. Today the active corps numbers 220,000 men and women. They are organized into special units—rescue, fire, medical, police and protection.

While Sweden's elaborate CD organization began to take shape in 1944, its shelter program dates back even further—to the beginning of World War II.

Much of the country's terrain is of solid granite, and the government began at that time blasting out massive subterranean rooms. Today 14 huge shelters have been built in Sweden's nine major cities. All serve some peacetime use, if only as a parking garage or a storage place.

Sweden's shelters and civil defense activities are pictured here.

Below sign reading "Rock Garage," Stockholm citizens stream out from underground shelter into the snow-covered street.

This huge man-made cave near Stockholm can provide shelter for hundreds.

Health Director Speaks To Pactolus School PTA

Dr. John Futrell, director of the Pitt County Health Department, discussed services available at the department at the Pactolus School P.T.A. meeting on Monday evening.

He said that although the health of the school age child is primarily the responsibility of the parents, community groups, namely the schools and public health department, share this responsibility. The improvement of the education and health of every child depends upon a singleness of purpose by leaders in these groups.

A well planned school health program is "what we are striving to attain," Dr. Futrell said. Screening of school children helps to spot troubles such as impaired hearing, poor eyesight, poor dental health, malnutrition and other problems that can be referred to the school nurse. With cooperation from parents, teachers and health officials, Dr. Futrell said much could be done to improve the health standards.

He emphasized that citizens should become acquainted with all the facilities available and take advantage of the services.

In varied other points, Dr. Futrell pointed out that more deaths result from red measles than from polio, citing the 410 deaths in the United States from measles in 1961, compared to 260 deaths from polio. An effective measles vaccing is only months off, he said.

With the possibility of a vaccine against cancer over the horizon, past history with effective vaccines against polio as an example where there has been gross indifference to its use leads one to wonder if it would be accepted when and if it were discovered, Dr. Futrell stated.

Dr. Futrell also pointed out that many cases of infectious hepatitis are not diagnosed as such and many cases that are recognized are not reported. Since close contacts of infectious hepatitis cases should have gamma globulin, it is highly desirable for every case to be reported to the health authorities.

He also talked about President Kennedy's physical fitness program, importance of teachers having yearly physical examinations, yearly examinations for men and women, important advances in American medicine in 1961, cancer of cervix deaths in women, time lag between medical discoveries and use, tuberculosis, intramuscular saik vaccine and other points.

President Billy Wynne of the P.T.A. conducted the regular business session after the program. Important points concerned the erection of a school sign identifying Pactolus School. Discussion was held concerning the employment of a school music teacher.

Bethel Firemen Answer 2 Calls

BETHEL — Bethel Fire Chief George Abeyounis reported today that two fires and one rescue call have been turned in over the past week.

The first call came last Thursday at 9:25 a.m. when a fire in a corn house backfired and corn silk and husks about the motor ignited. The corn house belongs to Manson Cansel of Hassell. Approximately $520 damage occurred.

At about 4:20 p.m. last Thursday, Bethel firemen were called to the residence of Bob Young on Jefferson Street who reported an oil stove explosion in his workshop. Approximately $50 to $75 damage resulted in the fire.

The Bethel Rescue Squad was called Friday to move Willie Harper, Negro, from the M. K. Blount farm to the Pitt Memorial Hospital. Harper was suffering from internal bleeding.

Thief Changed Mind On Offer

A thief, who stole a quantity of foreign currency then welched on a ransom offer by saying "No Dice," is being sought by the Greenville Police Department.

Detectives investigating the incident report that the offices of lawyer J. Con Lanier, in the Lee Building on East Third St., were entered Monday night or Tuesday morning. The thief gained entrance through an unlocked window and removed a roll of stamps from a desk and a box full of foreign money.

Then, apparently realizing the foreign money was unspendable in the U.S., the thief left a note offering to exchange the foreign tender for good American dollars.

The typewritten note, left on an office desk read: "LANIER, box of money (foreign) will be returned if $25 dollars reward is put up."

The correspondence was signed, "MR. AMOUNT."

That was not all, however, for at the end of the note, the robber showed a change of heart by adding, "P. S. NO DICE".

Police said the money, taken from an unlocked safe, had been collected by Lanier during trips abroad. Included among others were coins and currency from Poland, Spain, France, Germany and Italy.

Exchange at U.S. banks would net an estimated $20, officers estimated.

Believes Fire Involved Arson

ROBERSONVILLE — Police Chief William T. Smith stated yesterday that "fire which gutted the Casablanca Club here Tuesday was believed to have been started by an arsonist."

The fire, which broke out in the early hours of the morning, was discovered by neighbors nearby who turned in the alarm. The building had been closed since Sunday night and the owner Robert Roberson was out of town at the time of the fire.

Robersonville firemen answered the alarm, turned in about 1:30 a.m., and found a stepladder leading up to an open window, one empty gasoline can, and one full container of gasoline at the scene. Damage was estimated at $2,000 to $2,500.

DINE FOR DIME

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The sign, "Boneless Chicken Dinner, 10 Cents," appeared recently in a Nashville restaurant. Upon ordering the advertised dinner, a customer was served a hard-boiled egg.

Samoa, he was transferred back to the U. S. and was discharged from the service in 1945.

Graduating from Furman University where he majored in Sociology, Huneycutt attended the New Orleans Baptist Seminary where he graduated in 1954. He had been ordained in December 1951 while still at Furman.

Following his graduation from the seminary, Huneycutt re-entered the service, this time as a Naval chaplain, and was stationed at Brooklyn, New York and Cherry Point, N. C.

Came to Greenville

His first pastorate following his discharge as a Lieutenant in 1958 was at the Olivet Baptist Church in Wilmington. In April of 1960 he left the Wilmington church and came to Greenville.

"There was a strong compelling force within . . . I believed that's what God wanted me to do with my life", Rev. Huneycutt explained. That is why he chose the ministry as his life's work.

Rev. Huneycutt is primarily concerned with preaching, administration and visitation, as the pastor of the Arlington Street Church.

Of the three he enjoys preaching the most.

"In reality . . . living a Christian life . . . setting an example for others to follow . . . is preaching the word of God."

Many people may not come to church to hear a minister, but "they see your life", Huneycutt emphasized.

Guide Fellow Man

A minister is responsible and expected to guide his fellow man and "My desire to be a good minister," he said.

Fishing and gardening . . . "seeing things grow" . . . are the principal hobbies enjoyed by Rev. Huneycutt, who is a member of the Greenville Ministerial Association.

The Baptist clergyman married the former Florence Meggs of Marshville in Union County. They have four children, Margaret, 18; Carolyn, 15; James 13 and Linda 7.

Business Notes

Attend Convention
Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Whitley Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gay Gnagey and Miss Joyce Paramore represented the firm of A. B. Whitley, Inc. at the 13th Annual Convention of the Carolina Council, Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, held January 12th and 13th in Charleston, S. C.

Gnagey was re-elected secretary and treasurer of the council. Whitley is a past president of this trade association and the present president of the East Carolina chapter, which will be host to next year's convention.

Guest Speaker
J. Frank Strawn, general agent for the Franklin Life Insurance Co., shared honors as guest speaker with Francis J. O'Brien, vice president of the company, at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Division of Franklin Life.

The meeting was held at the Plantation Inn, Raleigh, last Thursday.

Strawn was honored for qualification as a life member of the Franklin Million Dollar Conference and was presented ten shares of Franklin Life stock in recognition of his outstanding achievements.

Mrs. Strawn accompanied her husband to Raleigh. They also left last Saturday for Montgomery, Alabama, where Strawn was one of the featured speakers at the annual meeting of Franklin's Southeastern division. They were accompanied on this trip by Regional Manager and Mrs. Henry J. Grady of Raleigh.

Sales Leader
Clayton A. Gray has been named a "Sales Leader" for proficiency in automotive salesmanship. W. B. Grete, Washington, Lincoln-Mercury district sales manager, has announced.

Gray is a salesman with Wagner-Waldrop Motor Co., Inc. He was one of 84 Lincoln-Mercury salesmen in the nation selected for "Sales Leader" awards.

Gray received a $100 U. S. Savings Bond given by the Lincoln-Mercury Sales Council.

Oil Heat Council to Meet
Miss North Carolina and Glenn L. Werly, president of the National Oil Fuel Institute of New York City, were present to greet oil dealers who attended the annual meeting of the East Carolina Oil Heat Council, according to John G. Clark Sr. of Greenville, director of the local oil dealers group.

The meeting was held in Goldsboro yesterday. Miss North Carolina, Susan Kay Woodall of Roanoke Rapids, assisted Werly in the receiving line in greeting members and guests as they arrived.

V-C President
Charles T. Harding, a veteran of 44 years in the fertilizer industry, has recently been named president of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Industry.

Harding started with the company in 1918 as a laborer in a Washington, N.C. fertilizer plant. He is the only man at V-C who has been both a plant superintendent and a sales manager.

Harding was elected vice president in March, 1959; executive vice president in May, 1959 and a director two months later.

CEMENT SITTER

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—A West Des Moines girl was engaged as a sitter—to sit by a freshly poured cement patio to see that youngsters didn't finger their initials in it.

Smoking In Bed Fatal For Two

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP)—Two elderly cigarette smokers were found dead Tuesday in their smoke-filled homes.

Authorities said both fires presumably were started by cigarettes smoked in bed and that the victims were suffocated.

Jasper L. Hutchins, 71, perished in his blazing cabin at Jenner. Mabel Brush, 73, died in her Santa Rosa home.

Prelates Oppose Death Penalty

LONDON (AP)—Bishops and archbishops of the Church of England called Wednesday for abolition of the death penalty or at least its suspension for five years.

They also urged the government to introduce a bill providing compensation for the relatives of murder victims.

AMA And Blue Cross Propose Insurance Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — A new low-cost medical and surgical insurance plan for the aged has been announced by Blue Shield, a nationwide insurance program, and the American Medical Association.

The plan, announced Wednesday, would provide benefits for all persons over 65 for as low as $3 a month. It must be approved and worked out by the 69 Blue Shield affiliates and local and county medical groups.

The AMA said it is recommending that all state medical societies cooperate fully with their local Blue Shield affiliates to put the plan into operation as soon as possible.

First reaction from a few officials of medical groups was generally in favor of the program. Most officials withheld comment pending a study of the details.

The proposal, with one agreed upon less than two weeks ago by the American Hospital Association and the Blue Cross Association, completes organized medicine's answer to President Kennedy's plan to place health care for the aged under Social Security.

The AHA and Blue Cross agreed on a private hospitalization plan for retired persons over 65—to cost $10 to $12 per person a month—and which the federal government would be asked to pay the premiums for all those unable to do so.

The principle of ability to pay, with the most assistance to the needy, is involved in both plans. Blue Cross is a hospitalization insurance plan while Blue Shield covers specified medical services.

John W. Castellucci, executive vice president of the National Association of Blue Shield Plans, said the Blue Shield program will pay the full cost of medical-surgical services for a single person over 65 with an annual income of $2,500 or less and for a husband and wife with combined income of $4,000 or less.

He said enrollees with income above these limits could be subject to an additional charge at the discretion of the individual physician.

The cheaper monthly charge for Blue Shield is made possible, a plan spokesman said, by the willingness of physicians to lower their fees for the aged. This already is being done in several Blue Shield plans covering the aged, he said.

Castellucci said the plan would provide payments for anesthesia, radiation treatments, X-ray examinations and laboratory tests and pathology services, in addition to surgery, whether performed in a hospital or licensed nursing home.

Baby Boom Will Be Felt By '65

RALEIGH (AP) — The impact of the overcrowded nurseries of the baby boom of 1947 will hit Tar Heel colleges and universities in 1965 and continue for many years.

This was the gist of a report released Wednesday by Dr. Horace Hamilton, North Carolina State College rural sociology professor.

The study was prepared for a meeting of the long-range growth committee of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

It was designed to bring enrollment projections up to date those made in 1957 already have proven to be too low.

Dr. Hamilton said North Carolina college enrollments will amount to between 110,000 and 126,000 students by 1970 and possibly 175,000 by 1980.

Hamilton's study showed that North Carolina births jumped from 94,640 to 119,435 between 1945 and 1947. And the total of high school graduates is expected to leap from 48,171 to 62,074 between 1963 and 1965.

He said that during the 1963-65 period, the number of college freshmen will likely increase from 22,862 to 30,945.

Elm St. Property Owners Invited To Public Hearing

Mayor Charles M. King has invited property owners along Elm Street to a meeting for discussing payment of street improvement assessments.

Mayor King announced that he had sent letters to the property owners inviting them to attend a public hearing on Jan. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the court room of City Hall.

Included with the letter is a questionnaire in which property owners are asked to indicate whether they will or will not participate in the cost of street improvements.

A group of citizens along the four-lane thoroughfare street appeared before the council in December to protest payment of paving assessments. They maintained that they had paid for the original paving on the street. At the time they had no objection to paying the curb and gutter assessment.

However, City Attorney R. B. Lee informed the council that the assessments could not be legally collected since the property owners did not sign a petition requesting that the improvements be made.

Mayor King pointed out in his letter that a bond issue was approved in 1960 for street improvements.

"In the process of compiling the preliminary data, the petition requiring your signature for street improvement was overlooked," the mayor stated.

"It is the opinion of the Governing Body that a majority of the property owners would have signed the petition requesting the street improvements, had it been circulated prior to the work commencing."

He invited the property owners to attend the meeting "for the purpose of expressing your opinions with the City Council concerning the street improvements adjacent to your property."

Daughtry Trial Is Held Today

Ralph Dixon Daughtry, 25-year-old Smithfield man, was on trial at noon today on charges of assault in connection with an early morning shooting incident Dec. 14 in which a Greenville man was wounded in the foot.

Charges lodged against Daughtry were discharging firearms within the city limits and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. The shooting took place during a scuffle in front of the Riggs House Restaurant here.

Injured in the fracas was Robert L. Abbott of Greenville who was shot in the foot by a .25 caliber revolver. When he was hit, officers reported, Abbott was standing about 20 feet from Daughtry.

The trial was originally docketed for Greenville Municipal Court about two weeks ago but was continued by Solicitor Ed Bloom until today's session.

Three Named To Conduct Survey

Three Pitt County residents will conduct a survey here to find out what people buy and how much they spend, it was announced today by Henry L. Rasor, state agricultural statistician.

These interviewees have been selected and will be trained by the State Agricultural Statistician. They are John H. Flanagan and Mrs. Geraldine W. Flanagan, both of Greenville and Mrs. Emma Lee Jarvis of Ayden.

They will attend a training school for interviewers at the office of the State Agricultural Statistician in Raleigh during the week of Jan. 22 and will begin their interviews of local families on Jan. 29, continuing until about the end of February.

Pitt County is one of the 126 counties chosen from the nation's 3,000 counties for the survey. It is part of a nationwide survey, and approximately 30 families here will be asked to cooperate with the Federal government by reporting on things they have bought during the past year.

The survey is being conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Labor. Information will be used as a new basis for calculating the Consumer Price Index, a number published each month by the Department of Labor to show changes in the cost of living.

It has been 20 years since purchases by families living on farms and in towns of less than 2,500 people were surveyed for this purpose.

Found Fire Out On Arrival

Greenville firemen, responding to a call at Greenville Tire Builders at 1620 North Greene St. today, found the fire out on arrival.

Fire Department officers said the blaze in the building started from an electrical short circuit. Only light damage resulted.

Box 422 at the intersection of Greene St. and Mumford Road was sounded for the 10:25 a.m. blaze.

Five Fugitives Are Recaptured

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Five men who escaped from the Gaston County, N.C., jail Monday were back behind bars here today after their capture Wednesday near the Florida border.

The five were Boyd Eaves, 35; Joe R. Boone, 21, both of Gastonia; Sidney J. Muckenfuss, 31, of Rock Hill, S.C.; Joseph T. Woods, 22, of Charleston, S.C., and Roy Carswell, 25, of Gastonia. Sheriff W. E. Smith of Camden County, Ga., said the escapees were arrested in a stolen car without a struggle. They were turned over to the FBI on charges of transporting a stolen car across state lines.

Police said Eaves, a trusy, had access to the jail keys and left a rear door to the jail open. He reportedly placed the keys back and led the other four prisoners out Monday night.

Talk Crackdown On San Domingo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported planning political sanctions and probably an economic crackdown against the Dominican Republic if the new government there proves to be a military dictatorship.

Officials said the Kennedy administration, with a policy of promoting democracy throughout Latin America, is determined to oppose a revival of strongman rule at Santo Domingo.

The major step under consideration is denial of recognition to the junta formed Tuesday upon the ouster of President Joaquin Balaguer.

State Department officials said the seven-man junta appeared to be completely under the power of an air force general, Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, 37.

Other steps may include economic sanctions, among them denial to the Dominican Republic of U.S. sugar purchases in the first six months of this year amounting to $45 million.

Officials reported Wednesday night that the United States already has postponed steps toward restoration of normal trade with the Dominican Republic and has stalled policy decisions on a new U.S. aid program which had been designed to bolster progress toward democratic rule.

Suspended action in these fields of aid and trade could readily be hardened into more permanent anti-Echavarria policies if, in the U.S. government's view, the fears of a developing military dictatorship are borne out.

Washington officials obviously hope, however, that the unusually speedy reaction from here, embodied in a strong statement of disapproval issued by the State Department Wednesday, would result in changes in the political situation at Santo Domingo.

One evidence of change, they said, would be the restoration to positions of real power of Rafael Bonnelly, a leader of the National Civic Union, and other former officials regarded by Washington as exponents of eventual democratic government for the Dominican Republic.

The United States restored full diplomatic relations with the Caribbean island nation only 12 days ago. U.S. aid experts were dispatched to survey the possibilities of assistance and development of an aid program was undertaken.

The Kennedy administration, as one official put it, was anxious to demonstrate its support for democratic elements in the country. It is now no less anxious to demonstrate, this official said, its determined opposition to a revival of military rule.

New Town Clerk Is Named For Grifton

GRIFTON — Mrs. Nannie W. Smith has been employed as town clerk in Grifton effective March 3, replacing Mrs. Joyce McCoy who resigned as of March.

Mayor Wiley Gaskins announced this week. "We are delighted to have Mrs. Smith, with her experience and personality, in this most responsible position with the town. Our townspeople can be assured that our office will be in good hands, as we move into our water and sewer expansion program."

Mrs. Smith is the wife of L. W. Smith, and they reside at 304 E. Queen St. They have several children.

Mrs. McCoy submitted her resignation at the Jan. 9 meeting of the Grifton Town Board, after service as town clerk since June 15, 1959.

Funeral Friday For Thaddeus E. Cooke

Funeral services for Mr. Thaddeus Elwood Cooke, 74, will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Friday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. C. E. Westmoreland, pastor of the Greenville Church of God. Burial will be in Maple Springs Baptist Church Cemetery near Louisburg at two o'clock.

Mr. Cooke, a native of Franklin County, had been living in Greenville for the past five years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Willie Hackney Cooke; a daughter, Mrs. Earl Riggs of Greenville; a son, Elwood Cooke of the U. S. Air Force, now stationed at Biloxi, Miss.; four grandchildren; a brother, Staley Cooke of Rocky Mount; and two sisters, Mrs. Laura Harris of Raleigh and Mrs. M. F. Williams of Columbia, S. C.

Holding Traffic Workshop Here

The first of four one-day Traffic Inventory Workshops to be held in North Carolina is scheduled to meet at Highway Patrol Troop "A" headquarters here today.

The workshops, sponsored by the National Safety Council and opened to officials of communities of over 5,000 population, allows a city to take stock of its traffic activities and discover deficiencies and measure year-to-year progress.

Community activities are evaluated in nine areas at the meetings: death and injury record, traffic ordinances, accident records and analysis, traffic engineering, police traffic supervision, traffic courts, school traffic safety education, public education and organization for traffic safety improvement.

According to officials, the four one-day sessions are designed to enable local governments to increase the effectiveness of the Inventory as a tool for improving local traffic safety programs. The workshops will cover terminology, question interpretation and reporting procedures to be used in compiling the detailed Inventories of their 1961 efforts.

Conducting the workshops will be James E. Civils, District Director of the National Safety Council; Major C. A. Speed of the Highway Patrol and Robert J. Allen and H. V. Hawley of the N. C. Traffic Safety Council. The meeting is scheduled at Fayetteville on January 23; Charlotte on January 24 and in Asheville on January 25.

Skirmishing In Laos Picks Up

SKIRMISHING picking up along the cease-fire lines in Laos, Western military sources said today. They reported a gradual increase in the intensity of fighting at half a dozen points over the past two weeks.

Moreover, the informants said the best available intelligence here—based largely on reports of defectors—indicates between 6,000 and 7,000 men from Communist North Viet Nam, including troops, advisers and technicians, are in rebel-held territory.

The clashes are mostly resulting from probing by both sides and have not reached a point where these sources consider the over-all situation alarming or indicating a major pro-Communist offensive is imminent.

But Westerners appeared to be swinging around toward viewpoints expressed earlier this month in royal Laotian government communiques which they had discounted at the time.

Those communiques, reporting heavy Red Vietnamese infiltration and increased military activity, had been issued in a period while the United States was putting pressure on the pro-Western premier, Prince Boun Oum, to get together with neutralist and pro-Communist princely rivals to complete a coalition government.

Boun Oum finally agreed to go to Geneva for a meeting. But he has been adamant there in his insistence that rightists retain the key interior and defense ministries which the neutralist premier-designate, Prince Souvanna Phouma, wants run by neutralists.

Prediction Of Precipitation, Rain Or Snow

A prediction of some form of precipitation—rain or snow—spreading over the state late tonight and Friday has been forecast by the weatherman.

The snow prediction has not come as a definite possibility for Pitt County and the east as yet. However, cold temperatures of 30 degrees early today prevailed due to an existing cold wave in this part of the country.

Skies should begin to become cloudy today, the weatherman said, with continued cold tonight and Friday.

Temperatures for Wednesday ranged from a low of 27 to a high of 50 degrees. The midnight temperature was 27 degrees.

The Tar River today was at a nine-foot level, falling, David Sutton of the Greenville Utilities Plant said.

Tickets Going Fast On Comedy

Only a few tickets are left for each performance of "Auntie Mame," being presented tonight, Friday and Saturday by the East Carolina College Playhouse at McGinnis Auditorium.

Director of the play, Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives said today that tickets "are going fast." However, reserve tickets for the Saturday evening performance may be bought now. Seats for tonight and Friday night, if available, may be purchased at the box office.

Reserve seats for Saturday may be obtained by contacting the Playhouse Ticket Bureau, Box 894, East Carolina College. Curtain time for the play is 8:15 nightly.

"Auntie Mame" enjoyed tremendous popularity as a Broadway comedy a few years back.
