Daily Reflector And Staffers Win Awards Of N.C. Press Association

The Daily Reflector last night received third runner-up honors for the North Carolina Press Association's Community Service award while its staff writers were recipients of three individual prizes.

The Reflector was commended by the judges for recognizing the urban renewal and public housing need.

Branch here in October.

The judge of the 71 entries, Robert P. Studer, managing editor of the Post-Advocate in Alhambra, Calif., commented: "Excellent spot news report, particularly outstanding because of its extensive detail which was achieved despite the lateness of the hour at which the story broke. As a working editor, I can appreciate the pressure under which the reporter was working."

Savage won first place photography prize for his picture of a Coast Guard cutter fighting an oil tanker fire at Morehead City. There were 32 entries.

The judge, Dr. James A. Fosdick, chairman of Journalism Extension Services, The University of Wisconsin, commented: "Effective composition, action-drama, and a self-contained story are demonstrated in this news picture. Whereas many many night shots are mere blobs, this one is able to tell a dramatic story even through the half-tone screen, thanks to good technical quality supplementing the picture content."

Taylor won third place in feature writing for a column he wrote on Ruth Bostian. Paralyzed in an accident 12 years ago, Miss Bostian sent a donation to East Carolina College's stadium fund. She was a student at the college when the accident occurred.

Howard won his first place spot news award for his coverage of the armed robbery of Wachovia's West End

The Community Service runner-up honors came to the Reflector for its editorial support and news coverage of the urban renewal and public housing campaign which led up to the May referendum. The two projects were approved by Greenville voters in the referendum.

Gov. Sanford was speaker at the Thursday night session of the North Carolina Press Association's 27th annual Newspaper Institute. Following his address, he presented certificates to winning individual newsmen and newspapers.

Winner of the Community Service Award was the Charlotte Observer for its coverage of the municipal election last year.

First runner-up was the Winston-Salem Journal and Twin City Sentinel for coverage of educational news. The Charlotte News was second runner-up for its study of school drop-outs.

Experts Believe Man Can Justify Flights Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Why spend millions to rocket man into space, billions to send him to the moon? This question certainly must be on many minds as the United States prepares to launch Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit about the earth next week. Wouldn't it be better, many ask, to use the money to make earth a better place on which to live, to find cures for many diseases, to develop nuclear power for commercial use? Or, if the United States must explore space, why risk human life? Why not send instrumented payloads? The more than 60 unmanned satellites sent aloft by this nation have unraveled many mysteries of the universe. Nonetheless, space experts believe man can justify space voyage because of the many intangibles to which he may prove much more adaptable than any collection of instruments. Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, explains: "While instruments can perform certain tasks of sensing and transmitting statistical information gathered from space, man is necessary for understanding the larger realities of space. The most advanced apparatus can perform only as it is programmed to do. Instruments have no flexibility to meet unforeseen situations. Scientific data acquired in space mechanically must be balanced by on-the-spot human senses, human reasoning, and by the power of judgment compounded by these human elements. President Kennedy is convinced man has a role in space. Last year he asked the American people to sacrifice an additional $7 to $9 billion to put a man on the moon in this decade. The suborbital flights of Astronauts Alan B. Shepard and Virgil I. Grissom and next week's scheduled around the world orbit ride by John H. Glenn Jr., are steps in this direction. There are three main reasons, the experts say, for manned space flight. They are science, worldwide prestige and military security. The military angle has received increased emphasis in recent months. Many U.S. leaders have become convinced that the Soviet space program is directed toward military domination of space. Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, said recently that the present situation in space is like that prevailing in the air at the start of World War I. When opposing pilots waved at one another on their reconnaissance missions,

LeMay declared it would be naive to expect this to continue and cautioned that the first nation to develop a manned space system with "complete mission flexibility" could possibly dominate the space above the atmosphere. To this end, NASA will broaden its Apollo man-to-the-moon program, heretofore a purely scientific venture, to provide the Air Force with much of the capability needed to develop defensive and offensive manned military spacecraft. Seamans says, "We must recognize that manned flight in space has a much greater impact on the world's populace than unmanned flight. The United States has congratulated the Soviet Union on the orbital flights of cosmonauts Gagarin and Titov. These achievements were expected because the Russians have a significant lead on large boosters. We should all be prepared for other Soviet 'first's' in space in the immediate future. This serves to underline the urgency of President Kennedy's decision to accelerate our own manned space program." Seamans added: "Man cannot, by his very nature, be kept out of space. The same drive that led Columbus to explore the outer reaches of the known world will induce modern man to explore the outer portions of the solar system."

East Carolina College has renewed an option on 73 acres of land, owned by Miss Louise Tucker and her brother, Lloyd Tucker, of Greenville, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins announced today. This land, he explained, was included in the recent bond issue which was defeated and "is very much needed in connection with the expansion of the men's campus and athletic fields to the south and the west." Dr. Jenkins expressed his appreciation to Miss Tucker and to Mr. Tucker for their cooperation in extending the option and thus giving the college until September 1, 1963, to try to purchase the land. "We are grateful to the owners of this land for their interest in the college," he said, "and also to an alumnus, Representative Frank Wooten, for working out the necessary details of this transaction." A small parcel of the land under option lies between Forest Hill subdivision and Highway 43, adjoining Greenville Boulevard. This includes the old Tucker home place. The larger part of the land lies on the west side of Highway 43 and adjoins the Greenville Boulevard. Dr. Jenkins stated that the enrollment of the college has doubled in the past seven years. The rate of growth is increasing, each year, he said, and, in order to be assured of room for future expansion, the college should acquire additional land while it is available.

Extend Option On Property Sought By ECC

U.S. Blessings Given New Dominican Civilian Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials said today the government newly returned to power in the Dominican Republic has ready-made U.S. recognition and will get full diplomatic and economic support from this country. Work was resumed at the State Department and in the Agency for International Development on an aid program designed to bolster the Dominican economy. Plans were made to clear away the last barriers to resumption of normal trade by wiping out finally the sanctions once imposed against the regime of the late dictator Rafael L. Trujillo. Administration officials were obviously delighted at the speed with which the junta dominated by Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarría was overthrown Thursday night. The development came with stunning suddenness 48 hours after the Dominican air force chief's hand-picked group had taken power upon the resignation Tuesday night of President Joaquín Balaguer. "We consider that what has occurred now is a resumption of constitutional government in the Dominican Republic," one official said. In the State Department, the decision was to "forget about the two days they were out of power" and simply continue with the recognition previously accorded. That means a renewal of normal diplomatic relations whereas the department had threatened to deny recognition—a stronger gesture than breaking of diplomatic ties—if Echavarría established a military dictatorship. The would-be strong man was overthrown, officials said, because he clearly had no base of popular support, had little if any strong backing among the military leaders and even lacked effective support among the country's top political leaders. Rafael Bonnelly, the new president named to succeed Balaguer, is leader of the National Civic Union, a political organization regarded by U.S. officials as the main hope for development of democracy in the nation which suffered for 30 years under Trujillo dictatorship. As former vice president under Balaguer, Bonnelly succeeds normally to the presidency upon Balaguer's resignation, Washington officials said, so that no constitutional question arises. The new overturn exceeded even the best hopes that had been voiced privately earlier this week by U.S. officials. But, there have been so many ups and downs in the small country since Dictator Rafael Trujillo's assassination last May 30, U.S. officials tend to be cautious in their reactions. Programs of U.S. aid and trade for the Dominican Republic had been suspended while a junta headed by Gen. Rodriguez Echavarría held control of the Santo Domingo government for only two days. The threat that Echavarría, 37, might have been setting up a military dictatorship was feared here. Now that the Bonnelly group has recaptured control, steps presumably will be taken again to restore normal trade with the Caribbean country and to set in motion a new aid program. At a news conference Thursday a few hours before the Echavarría junta was overturned, Secretary of State Dean Rusk made clear the United States was using all its influence to try to obtain the return to power of what he called "moderate elements." Earlier in the day, Washington reported planning political actions and probably an economic crackdown if the junta proved to be a military dictatorship. In talking with reporters, Rusk avoided a direct reply to the question whether the U.S. Navy might once more be used in making a show of force near the Caribbean country. A flotilla of U.S. warships stood offshore last November until two brothers of the slain dictator left the Dominican Republic. Rusk simply said: "If it (the Navy) were to be so employed, I am sure it would be known publicly immediately."

Bulletin

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A United States attempt to rocket a payload to the moon, scheduled for next Monday, was postponed today for at least a month because of technical troubles with the Atlas booster rocket. A brief statement said: "The Ranger 3 lunar launching scheduled for January has been postponed due to technical difficulties in the launch vehicle booster. No new launch date has been set." The Ranger 3 firing was one of three major U.S. space efforts scheduled from Cape Canaveral next week.

Pitt Achievements In Education Praised By State Superintendent

By PATRICIA MOORE "You people in Pitt County deserve a special word for your achievements in education," Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, said here last night. "It is my theory that education begets education. Over the years you have had widespread interest in education and as a result the school system has improved and will improve in the future," Dr. Carroll stated. There is a growing motivation for better schools, and a growing tendency to ask questions about education, Dr. Carroll said, linking the importance of raising questions with improvement of education. The raising of questions indicates interest in education. Dr. Carroll told those attending a City Council P.-T.A. sponsored program held at Elmhurst School. As the public answers questions about education they will find: 1. There is an emerging demand for not only better education but also for more education. 2. There is . . . an emerging concern for more thoroughness in education. 3. Securing and obtaining sufficient personnel to train our youth is a problem touching all others. 4. "As effective answers are found to questions I've asked, you will find the costs of education will rise," Dr. Carroll commented. Throughout his discussion of the importance of raising questions as a means to improve education, the speaker asked his audience, What makes better schools? What is the purpose of the schools? Of education? What is the function of the schools? What is quality education? Other questions related to teachers, educational facilities and curriculums, community attitudes and other areas. Dr. Carroll commented that in Greenville, the quality of teachers is high, noting that 36 per cent hold the graduate certificate, compared to the state average of 18.2 per cent. The speaker pointed to several special projects and educational programs here, including the industrial training school under construction, the program for the academically talented, as well as other projects.

In expressing interest in education through questioning it, Dr. Carroll said the public has indicated that "fundamentally we have great faith in education" and there is the suggestion "that we are continually trying to find a better way." Commenting on the function of the school and why we have the school, Dr. Carroll said the school can help in helping each child to develop tools and attitudes with which to live better. The very existence of the civil society demands the presence of the schools. "Education is a means of national security and survival as well as a means to individual enhancement," the speaker said, relating to education in the year 1962. Recognizing the school as an important community institution, Dr. Carroll asked, "What are the purposes of the school within the institutions of the community as opposed to other institutions (church, family, recreation, etc.)? Are the schools attempting to do too much? Are they succumbing to pressures, to undertake too many programs for too many people? Should the school day be longer? What about the school year? Referring to quality education, Dr. Carroll defined it in terms of personalized education. Quality education, in general terms, is affording each child the kind of education most commensurate with his needs . . . and the needs of society. Quality education "acquires meaning only when it is said in terms of what happens to the individual child," Dr. Carroll stated. He challenged parents to motivate their children towards a desire for education. Dr. Carroll was introduced by Superintendent of Greenville Schools J. H. Rose. Mrs. Amos Evans, as president of the City Council P.-T.A., presided at the meeting and recognized special guests, who included officers of the City P.-T.A., P.-T.A. presidents, and others including D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools. The Rev. John Drake led the devotional period. Last night's meeting concluded this year's study course programs as sponsored by the city-wide P.-T.A.

Spring Hats, Hairdos Head Toward Side

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
NEW YORK—(WNS)—Spring winds will blow in a new hair direction this year. Hairdos, newly soft, sometimes longer, will look as if a breeze had swept them to one side of the head.

The sideswept hairdo, introduced just before the end of 1961, has caught on in fashion centers from Paris to San Francisco, and for good reasons.

For one thing, it has brought back the part, a device too long absent as far as many women are concerned. Parted hair with the irregular masses of hair it divides, can do wonders for many a face which is helped not at all by the rounded bouffant hair styles.

On the other hand, sideswept hairdos can be done just as easily without a real part, by roller setting close to the scalp, brushing the hair up so the part disappears.

Variety is endless in sideswept looks. There is the simple device of brushing all the hair from one ear over to the other side, where it curls round onto the cheek, with crown ends casually falling over one half of the forehead.

There is the low side part, with the smaller side in one deep wave, the crown smoothly high, the full side deeply wave-sculptured, little wisp curls at forehead line. This is an excellent version for the more mature woman.

A young sideswept style is also parted low to one side, brushed over the crown with less height, feathered out in delicately curling ends on the full side for a halo effect.

Length of sideswept coiffures varies a great deal, reports the Lilt Reference Service in its annual survey of style trends.

In one of the shortest versions, done by John Fonda, the back is tapered, sides just touching eartips, with a gamine look to sideswept uncurled ends. Mr. Fonda makes this into an evening style by simply pinning to the crown a hair piece done in a high pouff.

Fortunately, this is a season when hats will be going right along with the hair styles. Most important hat shape will be side-tilted. It is one of the most flattering for women of all ages and faces.

Side-tilted hats come in all sizes, materials and degrees of tilt. Mr. Caruso's college girl sideswept style fits perfectly under Madcaps' side-tilted soft straw beret. The fluffed-out halo side-parted style, more sophisticated, takes a Sally Vetter tilted cloche, perhaps in tucked chiffon.

Devotees of straight-on hats, however, will find that such styles as the pillbox look equally well on side-parted coiffures. The pillbox should be deep rather than shallow, with enough hat to complement the side fullness of the hair.

Whether you go to the salon or try new styles yourself, body in the hair is needed to keep the soft, full look. These new styles are still set largely on rollers, both over the crown and at sides. For many women, a body permanent is necessary, or the coiffure will soon collapse.

If your home permanent has been giving you too much curl, try the one labeled "For Hair Easy to Curl." On normal hair, this will give body rather than curl. The Lilt Reference Service warns that directions for smooth winding on rods of the correct size is vital to getting body without end frizz.

If frizz appears anyway, try cutting the hair AFTER the permanent. Ends with too much curl will then disappear, while the right length will still be attained.

Spring hats and hair styles both are heading towards the side. Sideswept hairdo, by Lilt stylist Julius Caruso, is marked by new longer length, low side part, shadow waves. Madcaps hat tilts to one side to frame profile, show one side of hair almost completely.

Playhouse Offering Of Auntie Mame Proves To Be 'Winner'

By MARY H. GREENE

"Aunt Mame" ran for 639 performances in the original Broadway production. Even then, a lot of people who wanted to see it missed the chance.

When the success of the opening performance of the hit comedy by the East Carolina College Playhouse last night spreads around Greenville and its environs, it's likely that performances tonight and tomorrow night will be presented before sold-out houses and that late ticket seekers will be left empty-handed.

In spite of a cold rain and predictions of snow and sleet, there were few unoccupied seats last night in the McGinnis auditorium when the lights dimmed for curtain time at 8:15.

Staged under the able direction of Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives of the college faculty, the Playhouse "Auntie Mame" is a winner. It's funny and high-spirited as all get-out.

The core of the whole thing is Auntie Mame herself, "an odd but loving woman," "a free-wheeling, ageless belle, avant-gardist and wit in a world of glitter." Minnie Gaster, junior from Elon College, as Auntie Mame shares honors in the production with C. Thomas Jackson, Washington, N.C., freshman, as Patrick Dennis, the nephew whom she "inherits" and rears erratically, but successfully.

Miss Gaster, with only one role in the Playhouse behind her—a mousy character in "Separate Tables"—came into her breezed through the comedy with the gusto and zest for life demanded by the role of the madcap heroine.

She was at her best in the scene at Peckerwood when, no horsewoman, she barely escaped death during a fox hunt; as a baffled telephone-booth operator during the depression; as a visitor to her nephew's prospective in-laws in exurban Connecticut; and as an actress whose ineptitude, plus her jangling bracelets, close out a theatrical production.

If her Auntie Mame lacked something of the underlying, if wacky, wisdom and the essential warm-heartedness of the character, her sophisticated charm, her good looks, and her flair for comedy and "high fashion" compensated.

Jackson, as Patrick Dennis, gave "heart" to the play. In his first role with the Playhouse, the freshman actor played admirably Patrick as a boy, a youth, and a mature man. His comforting of Auntie Mame after the debacle in the theater and his acceptance of the rattlesnake canape as the dinner for his fiancée's parents ends both disastrously and triumphantly among evidences of his promise as a serious and talented amateur actor.

Rachel Marshbourne of Wendell almost stole the show in the role of Agnes Gooch, Mame's secretary who "lives" and then wonders what to do about it afterwards. Almost as good as Miss Marshbourne was Jim Rocky of Omak, Washington, as Bryan O'Bannon, Irish poet who hangs around as literary advisor to Mame and assists Agnes into the role of unwed mother.

Charge Israeli Is Spy For U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Trade Union paper Trud accused Israeli diplomats today of spying on the Soviet Union for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and using synagogues as contact centers.

Pratt was out of Moscow, but the Israeli Embassy said no official action had been taken against him and there had been no Soviet request that he leave the country.

Should Be Up To Presiding Judge

The matter of determining whether news photographs should be taken in Superior Courts of North Carolina should remain in the hands of the presiding judges of the courts who have effectively—and in most cases wisely—handled the situation in recent years.

The proposal of the Ethics Committee of the State Bar Association that all news picture taking should be barred from Superior Courts—even during recesses of the court—cannot, in our opinion be justified.

Camera equipment now used by news media enables photographers to obtain their photographs without the slightest interference with the court proceedings. In most cases neither the judge, attorneys, witnesses or jury is even aware when a shutter clicks and records in available light on today's fast film a picture of the court proceedings of the moment.

Certainly photographers should not be allowed to interfere with the court proceedings any more than a reporter with a pencil and pad, or a private citizen who wants to know what is going on in open court. By the same token, however, the public is entitled to picture coverage of the business conducted by the court just as it is entitled to a written new report of the proceedings in the courts of the state.

Equipment used by experienced photographers today permits them to make their records on film without detracting from the "dignity and decorum" of the court. Certainly the Ethics Committee cannot justify that the taking of photographs, the broadcasting or telecasting of court proceedings are "calculated" to detract from the dignity of the court, to degrade the courts or district the witness. Certainly the Committee cannot justify its insinuation that these methods are "calculated" to create "misconceptions" by the public of what goes on in the courts of the state.

The people of this and every other state are entitled to full and complete coverage of what goes on in the courts, and this includes photographs, broadcasts and television of the proceedings if that is necessary, in addition to the more traditional written account of court happenings.

The State Supreme Court should not bar photography, broadcasting or televising in the Superior Courts of the state as the Ethics Committee of the Bar Association has declared. The Supreme Court should—and we believe it will—recognize that photographs have become an important part of providing public with information on court proceedings, that the taking of photographs does not detract from the dignity or decorum of the court, and that the public is fully entitled to pictorial as well as written accounts of what goes on in the courts of North Carolina.

A Listing Of Coming Events

By LYNN NISBET

CALENDAR — The calendar of political events in an election year includes many items required by statute and almost as many events required by the plans of organization of the main political parties.

First date in the statutory list is March 2, the deadline for state chairman of the parties to file nominations with the State Board of Elections for members of the county boards of elections. Each county board has three members and it is provided that not more than two shall be of the same political party. The state chairman of each party has the right to recommend three members for each position, and the State Board must appoint from that list practical effect of these provisions is that every county elections board has two Democrats and one Republican. The law has nothing to say about how the state chairman shall obtain the names he puts in nomination, but the Democratic Plan of Organization provides for the county executive committee to approve nominees to be forwarded to the state chairman before March 2. The required "fifteen days before the tenth Saturday before the primary election is to be held."

Next official date is March 16 when the State Board of Elections will meet to appoint the county boards and also to formally close the lists for filing notice of candidacy for state and district offices. In cases where only one candidate has filed he will be certified as the nominee of his party to go into the general election. If more than one files for any office in either party the names will go on the ballot for nomination in the primary on May 26.

On March 24 the newly appointed county boards of elections will meet in the courthouses of the respective counties to take the oath of office, elect a chairman and a secretary, and perform such other duties as may be required in setting up an organization.

REGISTRARS — On the seventh Saturday before the primary, which this year is April 7, the county boards meet to appoint a registrar and two judges of election in each precinct in the county. On or before this date the county board must make such changes in precinct lines as may be appropriate.

April 13 is the final date for filing notice of candidacy for county and township offices and for the General Assembly.

Next important date fixed by statute is May 26, the primary for the nomination of candidates for all offices from township up to the state at large. Four weeks later, June 23, a second or run-off primary will be held if necessary.

On November 6 will be the general election at which voters will choose between the candidates nominated by the parties in the primary.

Six counties in this state have the continuing permanent system of voter registration whereby any citizen may register any time in the county board of elections office. These counties are Cumberland, Forsyth, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Wake and Wilson. In the other 96 counties registration books open at the polling places at nine o'clock on the fourth Saturday before the election and close at sundown on the second Saturday before the election. For the upcoming primary that means opening on April 28 and closing on May 12.

NON-OFFICIAL — Events not required by statute but just as essential to good government are a number of functions scheduled by the political parties. Republicans lead off with these events. The Republican state convention will be held at Durham on Saturday, March 3. Prior to that the precinct meetings, county and congressional district conventions will be held throughout the state, but at different times.

In most counties precinct meetings will be held the last week in January and county conventions around the middle of February. The early state convention date is necessary because Republicans usually "nominate" candidates at the convention and that must be done in time to get the names on file before March 16.

DEMOCRATS — The Democratic Plan of Organization calls for the executive committee to meet in Raleigh on or before March 10 to fix the time and place of the state convention, county and precinct meetings. Usually the convention is held in May one or two weeks before the primary, but after close of filing time for all state and local candidates. Traditionally the state convention is held on Thursday, with county and precinct meetings coming one and two Saturdays before.

This year the Democratic committee meetings will be far more than the perfunctory deal it has been many times before. Besides fixing the conventions dates the committee this time will discuss and vote upon the most thorough revamping of the Plan of Organization since 1918. Drastic changes are proposed by the committee which is headed by Secretary of State Thad Eure. Some of the recommendations are highly controversial.

INTERESTED — From all sections of the state and from all parties come reports showing much greater than usual interest in politics. Attendance at party meetings, both Democratic and Republican, has been better during the past few months than for several years. One instance pretty well illustrates the livelier interest. Wake county has a right good scrap coming up between two men seeking chairmanship of the county Republican committee — a post that not so long ago almost had to be forced upon somebody who was not present to defend himself.

Another Barometer Of Growth In N.C.

A new record of building for North Carolina during 1961, as reflected by construction permits issued in cities of more than 10,000 population, is another barometer reflecting continued growth throughout the state.

According to the State Labor Department the record figure of $229.7 million in new construction last year represented a 4 per cent increase over the previous year. While the increase was not great in terms of percentage points, it does indicate North Carolina is continuing to increase the sum annually spent for new homes, new commercial buildings and other structures.

From the commercial standpoint of activity generated by construction generated in the various communities, Greenville compared favorably in 1961 with other comparable cities in this section of North Carolina. It must be recognized that new construction on the campus of East Carolina College for the past few years have been included in the Greenville figures, but at the same time, these projects represent construction activity within the city.

For 1961 Greenville issued building permits valued at $4.1 million, compared with $2.9 million for Kinston, $2.7 million in Rocky Mount, $3.8 million in Wilson and $963,000 in New Bern. Only Goldsboro among the cities close to Greenville's size in this section of the state reported a larger amount of construction permits with $5.7 million.

The total amount of building permits issued annually by a city do not tell the full story of the community's growth, but at least in part reflect a comparison of the building activity taking place within the corporate limits of the various cities.

You Never Know What's Ahead

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — A simple little motto-like "one never knows from one day to the next" — if taken in capsule form — three times daily might dissolve too much optimism welling up in secretaries of state.

All the secretaries from President Wilson's day, at least, had reason to think from time to time things were looking better than they turned out to be. Only Wednesday Secretary Dean Rusk, who has established himself as a man more given to understanding than oversteering, had a short, sharp twinge of hope. He didn't let it last long.

He described the world today as "full of many elements of encouragement and assurance." But he quickly balanced that by adding there are also "problems of concern."

True, the Russians have quieted down a bit on Berlin, which might be called encouraging. It's even possible Premier Khrushchev's trouble with the Red Chinese could lead to a Communist split.

But Southeast Asia is in danger. Latin America is far from quiet. No agreement on disarmament or banning the bomb, or even banning nuclear tests, is in sight.

And Khrushchev may not only stir up the Berlin rumpus at any moment but even smooth over his disagreements with the Red Chinese.

What is true in President Kennedy's time was also true in President Eisenhower's day, and in President Truman's, too.

Just seven days after he went into office with Eisenhower in 1953, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles went on radio and TV to talk to the people and was far more optimistic than realistic.

He told the people in the Russian satellite countries "you can count on us" and he said the Russian terror tactics were a "sign of weakness."

Three years later, in 1956, when the Hungarian people revolted, the United States didn't live up to Dulles' promise of "you can count on us." The United States kept hands off and the Russians crushed the revolt.

And just a few months after Dulles talked of Russian weakness the Soviets had their first hydrogen test and went on to (Continued on Page 5)

YES — THEY RUN THE WORLD

Who was the greatest teacher you ever had?

That's easy — your mother. She may not have had much education, and you may have fifty diplomas on your walls indicating you have been taught by the great masters of the world. But she was the greatest teacher of all.

Who runs the world? Humanly speaking, the world is run by its women. They are usually not heads of state, nor presidents of fabulous boards of directors, but they both teach and manage the world.

and administered in the daily walks of life, the more we appear that womanhood holds the most important place in the whole human scheme. Woman may appear to be in the background, and so she is, but she runs the show. She does everything but lower the curtain — God does that on the last day of our lives.

As we reflect upon the meaning and significance of life, never let us make the mistake of underestimating the power and importance of womanhood. Sometimes women look with longing eyes at the active and assertive life which men live and wish earnestly that they could have been born into that sex. The woman who does this is foolish. She can run the show if she wants to, and if she isn't running it, it's her fault.

Appointment Required

NEW YORK (AP) — It's getting so you have to make an appointment in our house to be sick.

Not that I'm a hypochondriac, but I do have my pet little aches and pains I like to trot out into the limelight now and then. The trouble is, the limelight is usually already occupied by the big aches and pains claimed by other members of the family.

The juiciest cold I ever had coincided with a case of chicken pox contracted by our daughter. Instead of being able to take miserably to my bed I was forced to spend my days at her bedside reading dry fairy tales punctuated by wet sneezes.

I can't even have a headache in peace. Before the aspirin has time to open negotiations with the small hammer pounding inside my head my two children are hitting each other with large hammers in the first fight they have had in weeks.

There was the time I persuaded my doctor to let me go home from the hospital a day early, on the promise that I would stay in bed and be waited on. Well, that was the night both my husband and son came down with sore throats and temperatures alarmingly in the red. I spent the night commuting from one bedroom to the other as nurse instead of nurse.

The day that I burn my hand while cooking dinner is inevitably the one when nobody else can possibly do the dishes. Hubby has a meeting, the young lady of the household is taking a music lesson and a suddenly studious son has an important test coming up the next day. Awfully back, though, I really had it made. I had been chewed on by a king-size virus bug and for once I was sick enough for even my family to take notice. In fact, I was so laden in the feet and light in the head I did something I'd never done before—called my husband at the office with a feeble plea for help.

"Hang on, honey," he offered encouragingly. "I'll be home just as soon as I can get there. Then you can just take it easy while I take over."

"At long last," I thought smugly as I waited, "now I'll be coddled and fussed over."

Soon I heard a jaunty step, followed by a cheery greeting.

"Now," said my husband, "everything is under control — you just—"

Suddenly he paled and shot out of the room. Sometime later he reappeared, dragging himself weakly to the bedside.

"Move over," he muttered shakily. "Looks like I've got the virus too."

Guess who took care of whom that day?

Other Editors Saying... Begin With The Lawyers

(The Raleigh Times)

The Council of the North Carolina State Bar has, by formal resolution, stated that: "Proceedings in court should be conducted with fitting dignity and decorum." Well, good for the Council. It is good to hear a group of lawyers take such a stand, and it is to be hoped that the lawyers will see to it that such is the case.

In this case, the lawyers are using that bit about fitting dignity and decorum to whip life into their tired attempts to get somebody in authority to lock newspaper photographers out of Superior courtrooms.

The lawyers resolved in this latest effusion that the taking of photographs during court or during recesses are "calculated to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, distract the witness in giving his testimony, degrade the court and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should not be permitted."

This is hogwash of the purest rare, and the learned lawyers who wrote it should have known that it is just that. Today's photographer works with a very small camera and with the natural light available in a courtroom. The witness, the judge, the jurors never know the photographer is at work.

No photographer should be permitted to detract from the dignity of the court's proceedings. No photographer should be permitted to distract the witness. No photographer should be permitted to degrade the court. No photographer should be permitted to create misconceptions with respect to the court in the mind of the public.

The lawyers ought to look after the fitting dignity and decorum of the court. And before they start making unwarranted attacks on photographers, they ought to clean their own house of at least some of the things some lawyers do to hurt the dignity and decorum and effectiveness of the courts.

The assumption that doing business in Europe needs no special preparations can be fatal, according to Dennis P. Riley, president of Stewart, Douglas & Riley, Ltd., a London management consulting firm.

Writing the leading article in the Management Review, published by the American Management Association, Riley lists seven assumptions that have led United States firms to failure abroad. His warning is especially timely in view of the Kennedy Administration's program to increase trade between United States and the European Common Market.

These are the most common assumptions about Europe's uncommon markets, he writes: 1. "Europe is one or possibly two common markets. All we have to do is to get ourselves inside the big tariff wall and we'll be all set." (Non-communist Europe consists of 19 countries with 330 million people and each country has its own wants, its own tastes and its own sense of values.)

2. "We'll get the facts on the European market the same way we do here — through some well-planned market research."

3. "European businessmen won't share market information and even shoppers won't tell what they intend to buy."

4. "Distances are so short that we can get a lot done much faster in Europe."

5. "National boundaries slow down trade, communications and travel. Telephone service is incredibly inefficient; air service is poor and often booked long in advance."

6. "MADE IN U.S.A." MAY MEAN "SO WHAT?"

7. "Europe is hungry for U.S. products."

8. "Everyone that I'll have to deal with in Europe will be able to speak English."

9. "Not true. Even those who speak English are uncomfortable doing business in a foreign tongue."

10. "I'll find out all I need to know in a combined business-pleasure trip to Europe with my wife."

11. "This is as bad business-wise as it is tax-wise. Information gathered haphazardly can be misleading. Only a stroke of great luck could bring worthwhile results."

12. "Since we already have distribution in Europe, we should be able to get all the information we need through our own channels."

Inept Means Weak

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Government is weak when men are appointed to administrative jobs who have had little or no administrative experience. The politician can serve to help someone be elected but that does not mean that he knows how to manage an important office or that he has a breadth of view which serves the country.

To cite a case, Salvatore Anthony Bontempo was appointed to be Administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs of the State Department, a position of outstanding significance. A man appointed to such a position should have a broad view of the world, a knowledge of geography and of commerce, an understanding of espionage and the techniques of security. It turned out that Bontempo, before he was appointed and resigned, had no such experience. He was a lawyer who had not practiced law; he had been a welfare worker and a store inspector in Newark and managed a company of his own, Miller and Bontempo, Inc. in Dayton, Ohio, which dealt in surplus war materials.

In May 1953, Bontempo, after returning to Newark, became a City Commissioner and eventually Director of the Division of Veteran Services, New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development. In 1958, he became Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

What all these political jobs have to do with training for the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs of the State Department, it is hard to say. If a top FBI or Secret Service or long-experienced consular service man were appointed to this position, it could be understood. The man has to do with immigration matters, the proper conduct of consular offices, the operations of foreign spies against the United States.

Bontempo was apparently appointed because he was an active and effective politician in Newark. Be that as it may, he had no prior training to serve in this office. It is further reported that Bontempo was appointed because he is Italian-American. It is very dangerous for this country for men to be appointed because of racial or religious relationships. There been too much of this in municipal, state and local appointments and the time has come to oppose this because it is definitely antagonistic to American principles.

The purpose of this account is not, particularly to call attention to Bontempo but rather to emphasize the need for a reorganization not only of the State Department but of the entire federal organization which has grown in size and character since the beginning of World War II and which requires immediate reorganization. Two Presidents have appointed Herbert Hoover and very effective commissions to accomplish such a reorganization. God Is Spirit

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:4-6; John 4:15-26.

In His Second Commandment, God tells the Israelites that they must not make or have any images of anything or any being which they worship. "For I . . . am a jealous God," loving in spirit and seeking a return of spiritual love.—Exodus 20:4-5.

Early in Christ's ministry, a journey takes him through Samaria, enemy territory to Jews. His disciples go to a city to buy food, while Christ rests by the well given by Jacob to his son Joseph. A Samaritan woman approaches to draw water.—John 4:15-7.

Christ asks her for a drink. She is surprised that a Jew should ask her a favor. Christ replies that if she but knew who He was, she would be asking Him for a drink of "living water" which quenches thirst forever.—John 4:7-14.

The woman begs Him for such a drink; she recognizes Him as a "prophet." He tells her that the place of worship is unimportant, for God is spirit and worship must be in spirit.—John 4:15-24.

GOLDEN TEXT: John 4:24

God Is Spirit

THE ONLY WORSHIP ACCEPTABLE TO GOD IS SPIRITUAL WORSHIP; ALL ATTEMPTS TO MAKE IMAGES OF GOD ARE CONDEMNED BY GOD HIMSELF

Scripture—Exodus 20:4-6; John 4:15-26.

By N. SPEER JONES
GOD'S Second Commandment is the subject of today's lesson—and there is no more important or provocative subject for any study, for it includes the character of God Himself and our relation to Him.

F. W. Farrar draws this interesting parallel: "The First Commandment bids us to worship the one God exclusively; the Second bids us to worship Him spiritually. The First Commandment forbids us to worship false gods; the Second forbids us to worship the true God under false forms." (Quoted in "Euboea's Select Notes," p. 21).

As we have indicated before, this second commandment was more of a bombshell in Moses' time than it is now, due to the preeminence then of image worship.

The term "graven image" is all-important words, "God is spirit." The essence of proper worship is therefore not material, but spiritual. When Christ says it matters not whether God is worshiped in Samaria or Jerusalem, He means that the visible trappings of worship are not important; worship takes place when the soul of man tries to meet the soul of God.

The manifold meanings of the word "spirit" (in Greek, pneuma) are apparent when we see that one lexicon lists no fewer than 29 different definitions. William Hendriksen suggests ("Peloubet's," p. 27) that worshipping "in spirit and truth" (John 4:24) means both having a humble, spiritual attitude and attempting to understand doctrine or revealed truth.

The word "essence" may come closest to interpreting the "spirit" of God. Essence implies a specific Being, not merely an particularly telling. Physically it meant any piece of stone, metal or wood carved or engraved (graven) into the form of a deity. The word "graven" also means deeply impressed or firmly fixed, and symbolically this indicates the true detriment of such image worship.

When one associates with an image, one eventually and inevitably comes to mistake the qualities of the image for those of its model.

The character of God is difficult enough for us mortals to comprehend, with our limited vision; by attempting to represent it in physical form, we limit our vision still more, by discouraging the imagination and by "firmly fixing" in our minds those characteristics of the image as those of God. Such images thus act as dampers, fettering our souls to material specifications, rather than encouraging them to rise to meet the unknown. They attempt to lower God to our terms.

This is emphasized by Christ's idea. An idea is the product of man's mind, and not an active Being which affects other beings. Thus those whose concept of God is of an Absolute Idea or of Tendancy for Righteousness support a religion which lacks this vitality.

A few sidelights: The jealousy of which God speaks is revealing of His love for us, for jealousy is the pain of unreturned or slighted love. God has condescended to love us, and looks for our love in return.

It is interesting that Christ makes one of His profoundest revelations about God to "the woman of Samaria." Women were considered inferior; a Samaritan was a Jew's worst enemy; furthermore, the conversation makes it plain that this particular Samaritan woman was common and uninspired by ideals, for she was living in adultery after five marriages. Just like Christ's humble birthplace, this passage is one of many signs that greatness may often touch the commonplace.

Its trend, there is a secret hearing, but the so-called Executive Session passes like a whisper in the wind. The latest news is that the Eastland Committee fears the very great power of Senator Fulbright. This may not be so at all. It may simply be passing the buck.

The public wants to know what facts are and delay is intolerable. Enough of the data is available so that it can be forced out. The public has a right to know and those who are suppressing the truth should be disclosed and unboundedly will be.

Americans Bring Their Bibles Too

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—More and more Americans are combining travel with religion. They are going, Bible and camera in hand, to Old Jerusalem and Bethlehem in Jordan, to Galilee and Nazareth in Israel. And they are going to Europe as well—to see the shrines at Lourdes, Fatima, Rome, Assisi, Padua, Paray-le Monial.

Approximately 20,000 Americans went to the Holy Land in 1960 and 21,000 in 1961. David Lee, director of religious travel for American Express Travel Service, reports: "I think it would be conservative to say there will be between an 8 to 10 per cent increase over 1961 this year."

Tom Broderick, director of the Guild of Catholic Travel says, "There are no official figures of the number of Catholics traveling. But interest in Catholic pilgrimages and Catholic-interest tours to Europe and the Holy Land have expanded considerably over the past few years."

"I would say they're increasing at a greater rate than general-interest travel is. "We had a very, very active year in 1960—with the passion play at Oberammergau, an international eucharistic congress in Munich and the Olympic games in Rome. There's always an anti-climax in Catholic travel after a big year. I think '62 will be almost as good as '60."

Broderick adds that most American Catholics touring Europe combine their visits to shrines with stops of historic, scenic and cultural interest.

A study done for the Jordan Tourism Information Service notes that in Jordan, most visitors are interested primarily in the holy places. However, a high percentage don't stay more than two or three days in the country because they are on world tours.

Studies indicate that most of the religious travelers are from small towns, are women, and are over 50 years of age.

But of course there are many exceptions. "On our shorter tours—three weeks for example—we get younger people, often from offices," Lee says.

"And one time I went out to the airport to see a group off to Jordan. And there stood a slender young man in a pair of tight pants. He told me he was a cowboy from Montana and he'd read about the tour in a Catholic weekly magazine one night in the ly magazine one night in the luncheon."

"He said when he wasn't reading that magazine, he read the Bible, and he had a great curiosity to see the places in it. "I don't know how much cowboys make, but he told me he had borrowed $800 from the rancher he worked for in order to go and he'd promised to pay back the money from his wages when he came back."

Concerned Over Family Tensions
STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Stanford University has decided to say nicer things about some of its graduates in an effort to lessen tension between so-students and their parents.

A "C" is to become "satisfactory" instead of "fair," while a "D" will be known as "minimum credit," rather than "barely passed."

"Failure by (parents) to recognize the changing demands on our students accounts for a large part of parental dissatisfaction with their offspring's performances," a university committee said Thursday

BELVOIR — The Belvoir-Falkland Eagles, under new head coach George James, have found it difficult to get on the path to victory. Belvoir has lost six of their seven conference games in addition to losing their only non-conference contest.

James stated, "I will make no excuses for the team's record, but there are one or two reasons behind our losing season. Belvoir-Falkland lost through graduation last year such stars as Joe Jenkins and Willie Wallace, along with seven other ball players." The coach also remarked, "We have the makings of a fine ball club, mostly juniors and sophomores, but we are crucially lacking in experience."

When asked about the future, Coach James replied, "We are improving with every game, and we should start winning a few soon. Next year, after our boys acquire a little experience, we should have a real good ball club."

Junior Steve Cobb has been leading the team offensively by taking control of the game. Cobb, along with Steve Little, has also been a big factor defensively.

Belvoir-Falkland has their two seniors leading in the scoring department. They are Melvin Nelson and Alan Werthington, both averaging about 13 points per game. These two boys are the only seniors on the squad. According to Coach James, neither of them played an entire game last season. Coach James later remarked, "Sophomore Eugene Hudson and junior Robert Norville have also been playing a real fine ball."

Coach James later noted that the team has only one boy six feet tall. "We are lacking in height and experience, but we have some real good prospects for the future," James said.

Coach Bob Warren and the Belvoir-Falkland girls' basketball team have been very impressive so far this season. They have won five conference games, while losing two.

The girls have been led by Mary Pollard and Frances Stepps, who average 20 and 16 points respectively. Pollard is a junior, and Stepps is the only senior. Warren stated, "Neither of them" have much experience, according to the coach. Warren later remarked, "Andrea Woolen, a sophomore forward, is also becoming a real good ball player."

Coach Warren said that this year is strictly a building season, as they have little experience. The team has four sophomore starters, who are all doing a fine job.

The final quote by Warren was, "Even with our lack of experience, we should have a fairly good season."

Heyman In A Class With The Best Says Teammate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How good is Art Heyman, the 6-foot-5 Duke basketball star and leading scorer in the Atlantic Coast Conference?

"He's in a class with the best basketball players I've ever seen," says teammate Jeff Mullins, and he says that includes Oscar Robertson and Jerry West.

Heyman and Mullins make up the one-two punch that has put Duke among the nation's top teams with an 11-2 record. Duke is ranked seventh this week.

Heyman is the ACC's leading scorer with a 28.6 average, and Mullins is fourth at 20.5. That accounts for the fact that Duke is the offensive leader in the conference, averaging 82.6 points a game.

Heyman also has a high opinion of Mullins. "He's an All-American if I ever saw one," says Heyman of the 6-4 sophomore ace from Lexington, Ky.

Heyman, a junior, says Mullins is a better player than he himself was a sophomore.

That's saying a lot, because Heyman was runner-up for scoring honors in the conference last year with a 25.2 average. Len Chappell, the 6-8 Wake Forest star, was the leading scorer with a 26.6 average, and was the ACC's player of the year.

Chappell and Heyman are again fighting for the scoring title and player of the year honor. Chappell is second in scoring this season with a 27.3 average. Both are among the nation's leaders. Heyman is fourth and Chappell sixth.

Any coach will tell you it's next to impossible to stop Duke's one-two punch of Heyman and Mullins.

Mullins explains it this way: "We play on opposite sides, so that if they sag off on one of us it leaves the other free. And if they sag off on both of us, then there's bound to be two men free somewhere. I guess it takes the pressure off both of us. I know if it weren't for Art, I'd certainly have it a lot tougher."

Heyman also takes it in stride when the pressure is on. For instance, he scored the clinching points in the last seconds in the Blue Devils 75-73 victory over Wake Forest, and scored 26 points in the last 12 minutes as Duke beat South Carolina 76-69.

Heyman and Chappell will renew their battle when Duke and Wake Forest collide on Duke's home court Jan. 27. The two teams meet again at Wake Forest Feb. 15. Their holiday game didn't count in the ACC standings. Chappell outscored Heyman in the holiday clash, 37-33, though Duke won on Heyman's last-minute heroics.

No ACC teams were in action Thursday night, and none play tonight at Belvoir-Falkland, Winterville at Grimesland and Grifton at Farmville.

Anything Can Happen In Second Round Of Tourney

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Anything can happen and probably will today in the second round of Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament as the huge field chases two youngsters and a sharp-shooting old timer.

Former national collegiate champions Joe Campbell and Phil Rodgers had the lead to themselves at 67 until Chuck Congdon, 52, came along to equal it and wrap the first round of this 72-hole event in a three-way deadlock.

All three fired over the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course. Today they tee off at Pebble Beach, a layout considered two to three strokes tougher.

Rodgers of San Diego, the 1958 NCAA champ while at the University of Houston, continued the spectacular golf that won him the Los Angeles Open by nine strokes two weeks ago. Campbell, the collegiate titlist at Purdue in 1955, fired five birdies in the final nine holes to put himself on the top run.

Then Congdon, of Tacoma, Wash., who was playing tournament golf before the other co-leaders were born, blazed in with his 67 that included birdie putts of 40, 20 and 18 feet.

Even with their five-under par rounds, the leading trio could count only a one-stroke lead over Jackie Cupit, Bill Casper, Mason Rudolph and Harry Umbinetti, the latter a pro from North Bend, Wash., who was invited by Crosby himself.

Cupit and Rudolph both played at Monterey Peninsula but Casper and Umbinetti played at more rugged Cypress Point. By Saturday night all players will have toured each of the three par 72 courses.

At Cypress Thursday PGA champion Jerry Barber and South Africa's Gary Player were soaring to 79's there while Arnold Palmer had a 76. Jack Nicklaus, the 1961 national amateur champ and now a pro, had a 71.

Defending champion Bob Rosbur shot only a 75, the same as Art Doering who carded a hole-in-one on the 110-yard seventh at Pebble Beach in the first foursome to play it.

Bradley Is In Driver's Seat

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

This doesn't come under the heading of earthshaking news in college basketball circles, but the Bradley Braves are whooping it up as if they meant to shake their runner-up role in the Missouri Valley Conference.

That's been said of the Braves in other years, of course. And they still have a way to go before writing a happier ending for themselves this time around. But there's no doubt they're in the driver's seat as of now.

Thursday night the nationally ninth-ranked Braves rapped Drake 77-65, giving them ten straight victories and running their conference record to 4-0. Tulsa upended second-place Wichita 86-77 and defending Missouri Valley champion Cincinnati beat Duquesne 62-54 in a non-league game. Wichita is 4-2 in the conference and Cincinnati is 3-2.

Chet Walker again played a key role for Bradley in the victory at Drake, pumping in 19 first half points in leading Bradley to a 43-34 edge. He ended the evening with 26 points.

Tulsa slipped through, over and around, Wichita's heralded zone defense with some clever floor play and fast breaking in its upset of the Wheatshockers.

Cincinnati's Cincinnati (13-2) spent most of the night chasing Duquesne's fifth-ranked Duke, 12-2 at Pittsburgh, then capitalized on its chances from the foul line and pulled away in the final ten minutes. The Du'bes had 21 field goals to 10 for the Bearcats, but Cincinnati decided it on foul shooting, 22 to 12. Tom Thacker scored 17 for the 'Cats. Ron Bonham had 15 and Paul Hogue 14.

Gary Marriott's blazing finish paced fourth-ranked Kansas State 13-2, to a 69-66 Big Eight decision over Missouri. The 6-5 junior fired in the Wildcats' last 14 points.

Utah's Skyline Conference leaders nipped Montana 68-66 on a basket by John Allen with 20 seconds left.

Bobby Jackson hit the clinching basket as Western Kentucky shaded Morehead 80-79 in overtime and took over the Ohio Valley Conference lead.

Spahn Signs With Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's only active 300-game winner—southpaw Warren Spahn—and a right-hander who once was one of the best in the major leagues, have come to terms for this season.

Spahn signed with Milwaukee Thursday for what may make him the highest paid pitcher ever. And Ron Roberts, the once-great right-hander of the Philadelphia Phillies, signed with the New York Yankees.

Spahn last season made about $75,000. He is believed to have received a raise that would make him the game's top wage-earning pitcher.

"We came to terms rather quickly," Braves President John McHale said. Spahn, who will be 41 before the season starts, admitted to being "very happy."

The previous high paid a pitcher was about $30,000 to Bob Feller when he was at the peak of his career with the Cleveland Indians.

Spahn, who won 21 games last season and now has 309 for his career, led the National League with an earned run average of 3.01 last season and also led in complete games. He also pitched the only no-hitter, the second of his extraordinary career.

Roberts, 35, who won 234 games in 14 years with the Phillies, came to the Yankees Oct. 16. The purchase price was believed to have been about $22,000. The American League contract he signed Thursday is believed to call for about $30,000.

He had a 1-10 record last season, by far the worst of his career. "I just didn't have it last season," he said.

Swim Meet And Clinic At ECC Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The East Carolina College third annual Joyner Memorial Library competitive swimming clinic originally scheduled for last week will be held tomorrow.

The preliminary rounds of the swimming meet will be conducted Saturday morning at 9 o'clock with the finals beginning that night at 8 o'clock.

The clinic will begin at 2 p.m. in the Library Auditorium with an introduction by Dr. Ray Martinez, coach of swimming at the college.

The program consists of discussions on physiologic basis of strength, recent research in competitive swimming conducted at East Carolina, some thoughts concerning motivation, the fundamental principles of motivation and the laws of motion applied to swimming.

Some of the schools entered in the swimming meet are defending champion Myers Park of Charlotte, Page High of Greensboro, Needham Broughton High of Raleigh, Millbrook High of Raleigh and Rose High.

Sophomore Stars In Southern Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern Conference basketball this season has produced a big contingent of precocious sophomores who might be labeled "stars of tomorrow" if they weren't so busy being the stars of today.

It may be that none of these newcomers will make the All-Southern team when the votes are counted next month, for they haven't yet outshone the established "names." But there's giving it a good try.

Virtually everybody in the nine-team conference has at least one sophomore of exceptional talent. Perhaps the most outstanding, though, have been Virginia Tech's Howard Pardue, Davidson's Terry Holland, West Virginia's Tom Lowry and Richmond's John Telep.

Pardue, a 6-7 stringbean, is averaging 19.1 points per game.

Holland, another 6-7 soph, started out slowly for Davidson but caught fire in late December and now has a 16.9-point average.

Telep perhaps has been the most pleasant surprise of all. After averaging less than 14 points for Richmond's frosh last year, he now is the varsity's top scorer with a 16.7 average.

Lowry, a bruising 6-8, has misleading statistics but at West Virginia they're calling him the best Mountaineer center since Lloyd Sharrar held the pivot job in 1958.

Other sophomores around the league who've done well in their first varsity year include George Washington's 6-8 Joe Adamiotis, owner of a 14.9-point scoring average; VMI's Bill Blair (14.6); and Furman's Leroy Peacock (13-0).

Conference clubs take tonight off. There was only one game Thursday night. It saw Furman, now 8-6 for the season, lose a 61-59 thriller to Belmont Abbey on the Furman court.

Joe McDermott's basket with 6 seconds left won the game for the Abbey, which led from the start although Furman tied the score four times — the last time at 59-40 on John Lemmond's two foul shots with 27 seconds remaining. Smith led Furman with 16 points, far below his average of nearly 25 per game. McDermott had 20 for the winners.

Jofre Is New Bantam Champ

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Jubilant little Eder Jofre is the undisputed bantamweight boxing champion of the world today.

The hammer-fisted little stylist, unbeaten in 44 professional fights, solved the squabble over the 118-pound crown with a 10th round technical knockout of Ireland's Johnny Caldwell Thursday night and became Brazil's first undisputed world champion.

Caldwell, 23, unbeaten in 20 previous fights, held the European version of the title going into the bout before a turn-away crowd of about 20,000 in Ibirapuera Stadium. Jofre claimed recognition in South America and by the United States' National Boxing Association.

They're tentatively scheduled for a rematch in London, but the date is uncertain.

Jofre, 25, a 5-foot-5 slugger who has stopped his last 11 opponents and owns 31 knockouts in his 41-0-3 record, was in control throughout and had the Irishman on the floor twice.

Jofre's vicious left hand put Caldwell down for a nine-count in the 10th of the scheduled 15 rounds.

That sealed it.

Caldwell pulled himself to his feet and Jofre swarmed to the attack. Caldwell staggered back to the ropes.

Jofre smashed home a right to the face and an uppercut to the chin. Caldwell's arms sagged to his sides and he appeared confused and helpless. At this point his manager, Sam Docherty, vaulted through the ropes. That stopped it at 2:45 of the 10th.

Jofre, ahead on the cards of all three judges, previously had Caldwell down for a three-count in the fifth, and opened a cut on his nose in the third and eighth.

The three judges, Tony Petronella of Providence, R.I., Edmar Teixeira of Brazil and Peter Wilson of England, all had Jofre ahead. Petronella called it 89-83, Teixeira 90-73 and Wilson 88-82. Willie Pep was the referee.

Jofre said he hoped to fight Mexican bantamweight Herman Marquez in Los Angeles before a return with Caldwell. No date was mentioned.

Jofre weighed 117½, a half pound less than Caldwell, who had to exercise for almost an hour to make the 118 pound limit.

Royals Have Improved A Lot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati's great scorer, rebounder and defensive stalwart in the National Basketball Association, said today the Royals have improved over last year because the team is "working together more, playing together."

The former Cincinnati University All-America also voiced the opinion that the Royals are better balanced in scoring than the Philadelphia Warriors in the NBA.

Thursday night's game between the Royals and Warriors, the second of a doubleheader at Convention Hall, made Robertson look like a prophet.

Cincinnati, scoring the most points in its history, defeated the Warriors 151-133 as Robertson dumped in 28 points, Wayne Embury 27, Jack Twyman 26 and Arlan Bockhorn 19. In the opener Syracuse beat the Chicago Packers 118-111.

The Royals managed to win by 18 points despite the fact that Will Chamberlain of the Warriors went over the 50-point mark for the 28th time this season. Chamberlain scored 54 points.

New NBA Team Has Big Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — Owner Dave Trager says his new entry in the National Basketball Association, the Chicago Packers, lost $150,000 in the first half of the season.

Trager blamed the loss on a losing team, bad weather and a schedule which had the Packers making only 12 home appearances in the International Amphitheatre.

"I feel certain things will get better in the second half of the season," he said.

Lenoir Rhyne Still On Trail To Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lenoir Rhyne continues merrily down the victory trail, and nobody beats the Bears these days.

They chalked up their eighth straight victory Thursday night, 69-60 over Guilford.

The secret is a balanced scoring combination. When one player isn't hitting, two others are. Most of the time, everybody hits.

The Bears have three players among the top 10 scorers in the Carolinas Conference. No other team has more than one.

The latest statistics show Jerry

Wells the No. 5 scorer in the conference with a 17.9 average. So who was the top scorer against Guilford? Jim Wiles, the conference's No. 10 scorer. Lenoir Rhyne's Tommy Burton is No. 9 in the individual scoring race.

Wiles netted 21 points against Guilford. Eddie Holbrook, who's not among the conference leaders, had 15, and Burton and Wells 12 each.

Guilford, paced by John Burwell with 20 points, made a game of it until the Bears took the lead for good at 40-39. Holbrook then hit three straight field goals and the issue was never in doubt after that.

Lenoir Rhyne is now 9-1 in the conference and 12-4 over-all. Guilford is 2-10 in the conference and 5-10 over-all.

In other games Thursday night involving North Carolina's small college teams, Belmont A b b e y scored a 61-59 upset victory over Furman, while Pembroke lost to Presbyterian, 77-54.

Belmont Abbey's 6-6 Joe McDermott scored with six seconds left to beat the Paladins. McDermott finished with 20 points. Jerry Smith was high for Furman with 16 points, far below his average of 26.

Presbyterian took the lead at the start and went on to an easy victory over Pembroke. George Acritelli scored 16 points to pace Pembroke.

Four games are scheduled in the Pitt County Conference tonight with the only remaining school, Bethel, idle.

The games tonight include Stokes-Pactolus at Chicod, Ayden at Belvoir-Falkland, Winterville at Grimesland and Grifton at Farmville.

Greenville's Rose High Phantoms have been idle all week due to exams. They will resume play in a home contest Tuesday night with Elizabeth City.

Exams have also affected Robersonville and Bear Grass. Both of these teams will also resume action Tuesday night. The two teams will play each other at Robersonville.

East Carolina, who defeated Western Carolina Monday night, will have a waiting period before their next game. The Pirates are idle until they meet Western Carolina for the second time in Greenville on Jan. 26.

Putter Of Year Goes To Barber

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — Golf's "putter-of-the-year" is Jerry Barber, the small 45-year-old pro who tamed the big guys in the 1961 National PGA meet with a heavily loaded 18-ounce putter he has carried for 13 years.

Barber, who came off a farm near Jacksonville, Ill., to carve a spot for himself in the golf ranks, collected 13 of the 17 votes for the putting honor cast by officers and directors of the Golf Writers Association of America.

The third annual award, announced Thursday, previously had gone to pro Art Wall and amateur Deane Beman.

Barber had a phenomenal putting streak in the PGA at Olympia Fields near Chicago last summer. On the final three holes of the regulation tournament he sank successive putts of 20, 40 and 60 feet to tie Don January and force an 18-hole playoff which he won.

Sea Island Journey Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—The Sea Island Women's Invitational opens today with a field of 26 professionals, including nearly all the big names and scores of amateurs.

Most observers predict a duel between Louise Suggs of Atlanta and Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., for top honors.

Miss Suggs is the defending champion of the $6,000 event. Miss Wright won three in a row here until Miss Suggs stopped her string.

FIGHTS

Sao Paulo, Brazil — Eder Jofre, 117½, Brazil stopped Johnny Caldwell, 118, Ireland, 10. (Jofre won undisputed world bantamweight title).

Yakarta, Japan — Kenji Yonekura, 119, Japan, outpointed Marling David, 117-3-4, Philippines, 12. (Yonekura retained Orient Bantamweight title).

The price of horse shoes has gone up. Owners at Hialeah Park now pay $18 instead of $16 for a set, with resets raised from the $10 to $14. Blacksmiths cite the rising cost of steel and aluminum as the reason.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

In a crisis-ridden world, and after all his experience as No. 007 in the British Secret Service, James Bond should not have been surprised by any assignment or what it entailed.

A covert telephone call by Bond identified the mark as a Far Eastern terrorist group insignia. On guard now, Bond saw Count Lippe now a phone and wondered if his own conversation with him had been overheard.

CHAPTER 5

Ernst Blofeld completed his inspection of the twenty faces at the long table. He began to talk in a soft, resonant, and very beautifully modulated voice.

"I have a report to make to members about the Big Affair, about Plan Omega." (Blofeld never prefaced his words with "Gentlemen," "Friends," "Colleagues," or the like. These were frigidities.)

tant Boscombe Downs airfield where the bomber squadron is under training. He was to report at intervals on the airman's fitness and morale. His reports have been satisfactory, and the airman, by the way, continues to be willing. But Sub-operator G was also required to post the Letter on D plus One, or three days from now.

"Unfortunately this foolish man took it upon himself to become embroiled in a head-to-head fashion with some fellow patient at the clinic, as a result of which, and I need not go into details, he is now in Brighton Central Hospital suffering from a second-degree burn. He is thus out of action for at least a week.

"This will involve an irritating but fortunately not a serious delay in Plan Omega. Fresh instructions have been issued. The airman Petacchi has been provided with a phial of influenza virus of sufficient strength for him to remain on the sick list for one week, during which he will be unable to accept his test flight. He will take the first flight after his recovery and alert us accordingly.

"The date of his flight will be communicated to Sub-operator G and he will by that time be recovered and will post the Letter according to plan. The Special Executive"—Blofeld glanced round the table—"will readjust their flight schedules to Area Zeta in accordance with the new operational schedule. As for Sub-operator G"—Blofeld bent his gaze, one by one, on three ex-Gestapo men by this an unreliable agent. The German section will make arrangements for his elimination within twenty-four hours of the posting of the Letter. Is that understood?"

The three German faces stood unanimously in attention, "Yes, sir." "For the rest," continued Blofeld, "all is in order. No. 1 has solidly established his cover in Area Zeta. The treasure-hunting myth continues to be built up and has already gained full credence. The crew of the yacht, all hand-picked sub-operators, are accepting the discipline and the security regulations better than had been expected. A suitable land base has been secured. It is remote and not easily accessible. Your arrival in Area Zeta continues to be minutely planned.

"And now," continued Blofeld, "I would like a report from the Sicilian section on the preparations for the bullion drop."

Fidello Sciaccia was a gaunt, cadaverous Sicilian with a closed face. He might have been, and had been, a schoolmaster with communist leanings.

He said, in a careful, expostory tone of voice, "The chosen area has been carefully reconnoitered. It is satisfactory. I have here"—he touched the briefcase on his lap—"the plans and detailed time table for the information of the Chairman and members. Briefly, the designated area, Area T, is on the northwest slopes of Mount Etna, above the tree line. This is an uninhabited and uncultivated area of black lava on the upper slopes of the volcano more or less above the small town of Bronte. For the purpose of the drop, an area approximately two kilometers square will be marked out by the torches of the recovery team."

"And the recovery team?" Blofeld's voice probed softly but with an urgent edge to it. "The Capo Mafiosi of the district is my uncle. He has eight grandchildren, to whom he is devoted. I have made it clear that the whereabouts of these children is known to my associates. The man understood. At the same time, as instructed, I made him the offer of one million pounds for total recovery and safe delivery to the depot at Cantania. This is a most important sum for the funds of the Union. The Capo Mafiosi agreed to these terms. He understands that the robbery of a bank in question. He wishes to know now more.

"The delay that has been announced will not affect the arrangements. It will still be within the full-moon period. Sub-operator 52 is a most capable man. He has been provided with the Hallicrator set issued to me for the purpose and he will listen on 18 megacycles in accordance with the schedule. Meanwhile he remains in touch with the Capo Mafiosi, to whom he is related by marriage."

Rusk Believes Policy On Cuba Will Be Backed

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk confidently hopes to rally strong Inter-American support next week for condemnation of Cuba as a bridgehead for Sino-Soviet "political aggression" in the Western Hemisphere.

At an Inter-American foreign minister's conference he intends to press also for agreement to impose sweeping political and economic sanctions against Cuban communism unless Prime Minister Fidel Castro breaks his close ties with the Soviet Union and Red China.

Rusk will leave Saturday night for the conference which opens Monday at Punta del Este, Uruguay. He told a news conference Thursday that he believes "without any doubt" the foreign ministers will review the record of events in Cuba and declare it to be "an unacceptable penetration of this hemisphere by forces from outside the hemisphere."

As part of this prediction, Rusk declined to forecast the outcome of the meeting. It is known that the United States hopes to obtain an agreement to impose sanctions unless Castro changes his ways. According to one U.S. formula, sanctions would be automatically instituted if after 60 days from the end of the meeting the Organization of American States did not report, by two-thirds vote, that Cuba had complied with a demand to break its Sino-Soviet ties.

Reports Heard By Pitt Cancer Board

Board members of the Pitt County unit of the American Cancer Society last night heard quarterly reports of chairmen and discussed some matters relevant to the coming April crusade.

Crusade coordinator Roscoe King announced materials for the April education-solicitation program in Pitt County had been ordered from offices of the North Carolina Division in Raleigh.

Dr. Ed Clement reported the Conquer Uterine Cancer program among Federated Women's Clubs of Pitt was drawing a measure of increased interest.

Service Committee Chairman Herbert Wilkerson told the board that since November four patient requests had been brought to the attention of his committee, and help had been provided in the form of X-rays, drugs and transportation.

The 1961 recipient of the Pitt ACS unit's scholarship to the two-week Health Education Workshop at East Carolina, Mrs. June Tripp, praised the value of that aspect of the American Cancer Society's educational program. The scholarship is given each year to a teacher or Public Health nurse. The workshop, held last June, counted sixty-seven participants.

Two special guests attended last night's board meeting. They were Mrs. Eva Warren and Mrs. Mary Steele. A documentary film on colonial cancer and its detection was shown. President Howard Gradis presided at the meeting.

N. Y. City Electricians Negotiated First 30-Hour Week In New Drive

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Success by several thousand New York City electricians in negotiating a 25-hour week is the first result of a new labor drive to create more jobs by reducing working hours.

The drive was kicked off only a little more than a month ago in an AFL-CIO convention resolution calling for strenuous union efforts to reduce the present standard 40-hour work week — both through legislation and contract negotiations—and thus share with more individuals the available work opportunities.

President Kennedy has repeatedly stated opposition to reducing the work week in the present economic situation and state of world trade competition.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has said the same thing. But he has added that the administration has no objection to employers and labor unions negotiating shorter work weeks if they deem it wise for their own particular firms or industries.

The shorter work week just negotiated by the New York electricians is sure to be a major talking point in an AFL-CIO economic-legislative conference here next week. It is to be keyed to reducing the nation's $4.1 million unemployed. Goldberg is to be a speaker.

In New York, contractors agreed under pressure of a strike to reduced working hours for members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union had sought a four-hour day.

In place of a six-hour day plus a seventh hour at overtime pay previously worked by the men, they will henceforth have a five-hour day, with a sixth hour at overtime. Because straight-time pay was raised from $4.40 to $4.96 an hour, their five-day earnings will be about the same.

The union made clear that it was worried about the inroads of automated construction methods and wanted to share the available work among more men. There is actually a shortage of electricians in New York, but the union said it will recruit 1,000 apprentices.

In that connection, union officials here pointed to a Labor Department report issued this week which said that "the failure of the 1961 recovery to generate an expansion of jobs in construction, even with the sharp upturn in construction expenditures, is unprecedented in post-war experience."

Negotiations due to get under way soon in the big steel industry may become the next battleground for a shorter work week. The steelworkers union has indicated it will be a major goal because of the dwindling number of workers required to operate the mills.

Reducing regular work hours is not necessarily a way to make more jobs, however, because most workers prefer more income than more leisure and would rather work extra hours at premium overtime rates than take the time off. Recognizing this, the recently adopted AFL-CIO resolutions said that work hours could also be reduced by providing more holidays, longer vacations or earlier retirement. Giving a worker an additional four weeks paid vacation, it was suggested would amount to cutting his work week 3 hours.

Reducing work hours has long been a major union goal. One of the nation's earliest recorded labor strikes was by Philadelphia carpenters for a 10-hour day. Congress legislated the 40-hour week in 1938.

According to government statistics between 15 and 20 per cent of all plant and office workers have less than a 40-hour work week—about one of every five or six. This is most prevalent in the printing, clothing, brewing, rubber, lumber and fur industries.

A government survey of office workers in New York City last April showed that 87 per cent worked less than a 40-hour week. About 54 per cent were on a 35-hour week. In fact, throughout the nation many more office workers are on short weeks than are plant workers.

Gene Kelly Wanted 'Going My Way' Job

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why would a star like Gene Kelly take on a weekly television hour?

The question has puzzled Hollywood since the announcement that Kelly would star next season in the TV version of "Going My Way."

"I wanted to do some acting this year—the ham in me has to come out now and then. And with the baby coming, I wanted to settle down in one place for a little while."

"The idea of doing Father O'Malley appealed to me, having loved the picture. And my mother likes it. This is the first time she has really approved of anything I've done in the movies."

Money. There — I mentioned it!

"Yeah, I know," Kelly said. "The announcement was to be a $5-million deal. So everybody said, 'Uh-huh, he's going for the buck.' Honestly, I'm not. I'm doing this series because I want to do it, not that I mind money."

Kelly said Revue Productions and ABC agreed to arrange the shooting schedule so it would take only six months of his time. That will take some fancy arranging, since they plan to film 35 of the shows for the first season.

They'll be doing two of them soon, then all will study the product to see what is needed. Right now they are seeking the two other important actors. One will play the older priest—and Barry Fitzgerald is a tough act to follow.

Something new will be added for TV—a former high school buddy of Father O'Malley who is a Protestant minister.

pregnant wife Jeanie fetched Gene a glass of sherry, he being of a no-booze diet to get in shape for his "Going My Way" rigors.

"The proposal for the series came just after I had learned we were going to have a baby in March," he explained. "It seemed to fit in with how I was thinking."

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemala and Britain will open talks in April on Guatemala's claim to British Honduras.

The Old Testament refers to Byblos, Lebanon, as Gebal. The town's Phoenician name is Jubayl. But Greeks and Romans called it Byblos because of the scrolls of papyrus (biblos) manufactured there.

Sen. Ervin To Be Speaker At Griffon Event

GRAFTON—U.S. Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr. will make the featured address at the Griffon Jaycees Annual D.S.A. banquet Saturday evening in the Griffon High School.

Plans for a reception for the senator are uncertain, pending his arrival here, Jaycee President Bill Ray said today. However, if Sen. Ervin arrives in time, a reception will be held at the Ray home here.

Ray said Sen. Ervin plans to fly from Washington, where Congress is in session, to Raleigh and then drive to Griffon. He will be accompanied by Jack Spain, his administrative assistant. Sen. Ervin's topic has not been announced.

Joe Paget, vice president of the Jaycees, will introduce the speaker.

Last year, Gov. Terry Sanford made the keynote address at the banquet, speaking on education.

The Distinguished Service Award, presented to an outstanding young man of the community, will be made following Sen. Ervin's talk. Ed Bright, a former recipient of the award, will make the presentation. George Saleeby was last year's winner.

Special guests for the event will be Mayor Wiley Gaskins and president of civic clubs, Floyd Harris, chairman of the event, will serve as master of ceremonies and Ray will issue the welcome and recognize special guests.

Some tickets are still available for the dinner and those interested may obtain them by contacting a member of the Griffon Jaycees.

The banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m. Some 200 persons are expected to attend.

Investigator Named In Burch-Brewer Case

RALEIGH (AP) — Solicitor Lester Chalmers, in the midst of an investigation of the basketball scandal, has been given the assignment of continuing the state's probe into the Burch-Brewer affair.

Gov. Sanford released a preliminary report by the State Bureau of Investigation at his news conference Thursday and said the matter has been turned over to Chalmers to determine whether there have been criminal violations.

Chalmers was in New York City Thursday on basketball business but told his office he would get to work on the Burch-Brewer case when he arrives here Sunday.

Sanford fired Robert A. Burch from his job as Highway Department engineer in charge of sign procurement for "being too closely associated" with Kidd Brewer, Raleigh businessman.

Thursday the governor said a small hardware store at Boone was used to channel $148,000 to Brewer from a company which sold road sign materials to the state. The company was identified as Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing.

The State Division of Purchase and Contract said that since 1955, when the $148,000 began going to Brewer, Minnesota Mining supplied more than $1.7 million in business with the state in reflective materials used in making highway signs.

Earlier Sanford said sign companies dealing with the state had paid $85,000 to a firm organized by Brewer and it, in turn, disbursed half of the sum to Robert A. Burch, the former engineer's son, a senior at Duke University.

Sanford and Duke spokesmen also said Brewer donated scholarship funds to the institution specifically earmarked for young Burch.

The SBI report said Burch was responsible for writing specifications for all the Highway Department's sign projects. Sanford said Burch also was in charge of drawing specifications for reflective materials on signs.

The governor said Minnesota Mining paid the $148,000 between August, 1955, and Dec. 15, 1961 to Parkway Co. Inc., a hardware store in Boone operated by Brewer's nephew, Paul Armfield Coffey.

The funds, said the governor, went from Parkway to Underwriters Insurance Co. of North Carolina, Brewer's insurance firm here. Sanford said the payment checks were endorsed "for deposit only to Kidd Brewer."

Sanford announced that Minnesota Mining and seven other sign companies had been suspended from doing further business with the state. The other seven also had made payments to Brewer, he explained.

A Minnesota Mining spokesman said Brewer's contract "is being terminated." The spokesman said Brewer had been an agent on a commission basis.

The governor said there was no evidence Minnesota Mining knew about payments to Burch's son, but he included this notation from the company's files:

"As you may know, in his capacity as traffic engineer for North Carolina, Mr. Burch has been very influential for a number of years in getting our products used by that state."

Sanford said, "We want companies to know they can get a fair break in this state without influence peddling."

Massive Snow Storm On Way To Southeast U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — A massive snow storm plodded across the Midwest toward the Ohio River Valley and the southeastern states today.

It piled up record-breaking amounts of snow in eastern Kansas and western Missouri—an area that has taken a heavy pounding all winter. It also caused five deaths.

A cold wave was expected to thrust down across the Midwest behind the snowfall today, dropping temperatures to below zero in Kansas and Missouri and bring near-zero readings into Oklahoma, parts of Texas, Arkansas and southern Missouri.

There also was danger of heavy drifting in eastern Kansas and in northwestern Missouri.

The prospects caused scores of schools in the Kansas-Missouri snow belt to remain closed. Most school children depend on buses, and officials were reluctant to expose them to the dangers of all coming trapped in the drifts. All public schools in Wichita and Kansas City were closed.

Wichita, in south central Kansas, measured 15 inches of new snow through Thursday night, the previous record was 12 inches on the ground in Wichita March 9, 1909.

Kansas City had 14 inches of new snow and a total cover of 21 inches. The city has had 30 inches this month, 8 inches more than any previous January. Since Dec. 8, Kansas City has had 47 inches of snow.

Only one highway, a state road between Cottonwood Falls and the Butler County line, was closed in Kansas. All Missouri roads were open.

The snowstorm was a factor in a two-car collision that killed four persons and injured three others near Great Bend, Kan.

Killed were Mrs. Leonard Unruh, 36, of Denver, and her children, Amy Beth, 9 weeks, David, 8, and Allison, 6.

Unruh, the husband and father, was in critical condition with head and back injuries and a broken leg.

Injured in the other car were Earl Cregger, 18, and George Fanatia, 26, both of Great Bend. At Newton, Kan., John W. Bafus, 70, died of a heart attack after shoveling snow.

Snow, sleet and rain also hit most all other sections of the country but the weather was as blustery as in the Lower Missouri Valley.

Cold weather clung to broad areas from the Midwest into the Northeast, with sub-zero temperatures in most northern areas, including -30 in Bozeman and Drummond, Mont. Temperatures generally were below normal over the major part of the country as the cold spell showed no indication of a general, immediate break.

Heavy snow fell in Clarksville, Tenn., and two to five inches was indicated for the northern mid-state area. Sleet and rain fell in other sections. Freezing rain and rain pelted much of Georgia.

In the slightly warmer air in the Southeast, skies were overcast and rains were general over East Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas.

Light snow fell in Kentucky, across wide sections of the Midwest, the central Rockies, the central Plateau region, Oregon and Northern California. Flurries dotted the North Atlantic States.

Warmest weather again was in the Florida Peninsula, with readings in the 60s, with 69 in Miami and 71 in Key West and Homestead.

The club, meeting in conjunction with the North Carolina Press Association, adopted resolutions urging that proper accommodations be provided in the new legislative building, at Raleigh for newsmen, and expressing "deep regret" regarding the State Bar Council's request that photographers be barred from courtrooms.

The club also honored three newspapers for outstanding performances in gathering and reporting news from other members of The Associated Press.

For newspapers with circulation above 15,000, The Asheville Citizen won in both categories; best performance on a single story and best continuing news protection. In the below-15,000 circulation division, The Shelby Daily Star was cited for best continuing news protection, and The Goldsboro News-Argus for best performance on a single news story.

The phenomenon called seiche which sometimes happens in lakes can be likened to sloshing water back and forth in a tub. When pressure or wind suddenly rises on one side of the lake, it can literally chase water to the other side.
