Two Rooms Suffered Damage

"PEANUTS" IS SAVED . . . as fire guts two rooms in Meadowbrook apartment. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage).

Rescue Pup In Apartment Fire This Morning

"Peanuts," a light brown pup, crawled under a bed during a Meadowbrook fire this morning and nearly suffocated as a result.

Assistant Fire Chief Berry Sumrell said the dog was brought out of the smoke filled apartment at 204 Mumford Rd. and was alive when firemen left the scene.

Two rooms of the apartment were gutted by fire, the assistant chief reported while two bedrooms received heavy smoke damage. The apartment was occupied by Gerald Pollard, the fire official reported. The adjoining apartment, occupied by J. C. Pollard, received heavy smoke damage.

Firemen said the blaze started in the kitchen, apparently from a radio on top of the refrigerator. Sumrell said the radio was completely burned and welded to the top of the refrigerator.

Firemen used about 300 feet of one-and-a-half inch hose line and extinguished the blaze in about 30 minutes. Three trucks answered the 10:30 a.m. telephone call to the fire and an alarm was turned in from the station.

"Peanuts," the dog, crawled under the bed during the excitement and inhaled some smoke. Later he was brought from the house, wrapped in blankets and appeared to be reviving.

Mass Break Out Of East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — An informed source reported at least 28 people from Communist territory broke through to West Berlin Tuesday night. About half were women and there were three children. Shareholders Told Of Growth By Home Savings And Loan Shareholders of Home Savings & Loan Association at their 56th annual meeting Tuesday were told the Greenville financial institution grew in total assets by 11 per cent during 1961.

Executive vice president and secretary H. W. Lee cited the gain in his annual report which also included a prediction that Home Savings & Loan would move into its planned new quarters across Evans Street from Sheppard Memorial Library by October or November this year. Lee said the Dec. 31, 1961, total assets figure of $8,291,037.06 represented the 11 per cent gain over 1960's total figure. The 1961 total, he said, showed a 58 per cent increase over total assets five years ago and 291 per cent more than the organization's total 10 years ago.

The gain during 1961 of $821,204.94 in total assets, according to the secretary, marked the largest absolute increase for one year in the 56-year history of Home Savings & Loan. The 1960 total assets figure was recorded as $7,469,832.12. During 1961, Lee said, Home Savings & Loan drew a total of $629,021.29 in new savings, the amount by which savings receipts exceeded withdrawals. "This new savings gain," the secretary said, "brought our total savings capital to an all-time high of $7,273,254.53."

Lee's report noted 186 loans during 1961 that totaled $1,547,255, a 15 per cent jump above 1960's loan disbursements. The funds were categorized by Lee in these approximate amounts: financing of new homes—$900,000; purchase or remodeling of existing homes—$400,000; and financing purchase or construction of commercial property—$200,000.

In reviewing 1961's home loan business, Lee pointed out that the institution during the past decade has disbursed a total of $11,305,404 for construction, purchase and remodeling of 734 homes in Greenville and Pitt County. In his report, Lee told the shareholders: "To insure strong liquidity and reserve positions we held cash and government bonds at the end of the year totaling $652,244.44. Our reserve accounts were increased to 7.7 per cent of total withdrawable capital."

The secretary said the association's dividend rate of four per cent "is likely to remain constant for some time." He said the institution paid $277,600.82 in dividends during 1961. The shareholders re-elected the association's 10 members of the board of directors including: K. W. Cobb, D. A. Evans, J. S. Ficklen Jr., C. Heber Forbes, R. M. Garrett Jr., H. W. Lee, James T. Little, W. W. Speight, W. H. Taft and N. O. Van Nortwick Jr.

Following the shareholders meeting, the re-elected board members re-elected the following officers for 1962: C. Heber Forbes, president; James T. Little, vice president; H. W. Lee, executive vice president and secretary and Mary H. Seymour, treasurer.

OAS Is Warned Of Steps Against Cuba

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—A leader of the drive for stern punishment of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba warned the hemisphere today some nations may intervene in Cuba on their own unless the Organization of American States acts forcefully.

The warning was delivered by Colombia, sponsor of the resolution which produced the Punta del Este conference of Inter-American foreign ministers on Cuban communism.

General debate opened a few hours after Latin America's two most powerful nations, Argentina and Brazil, joined in a common front proposing hemispheric coexistence with Cuba while condemning Castro for embracing communism.

Opening the debate, Colombian Foreign Minister Jose Joaquin Calcedo Castrilla demanded a collective economic and diplomatic break with Cuba by all 20 nations sitting in judgment here. His call was echoed by Guatemala.

Calcedo did not say which nations might intervene in Cuba. Countries such as Colombia and the Central American nations have felt heavy pressure from Castro communist infiltration tactics.

The Colombian stand expressed feelings of a group, including the United States, which seeks the strongest possible action against Castro. The speech won prolonged applause from the delegates, many of whom have been working for milder action.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Jesus Urrutia Murillo, denounced Cuban ties with the Soviet Union and Red China and called the current OAS attitude suicidal.

He contended it is farcical to talk about the principle of self-determination with regard to Cuba, a communist state. Guatemala, a target of Cuban attacks, provided one of the training grounds for the anti-Castro force which staged the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba last April.

The agreement between Argentina and Brazil, who have led rival blocs at the Inter-American foreign ministers conference, came in the early morning hours in advance of the conference's first full-dress public debate.

Argentina and Brazil pushed ahead with a compromise proposal to bar Fidel Castro's government from a vote in deliberations of the Organization of American States on the ground that the revolutionary regime does not represent Cuban people. The door would be left open for Cuba to return to the hemispheric fold should Castro change his ways or should an anti-Communist government emerge in Cuba.

Isolation from the OAS is a penalty far milder than the diplomatic and economic sanctions President Kennedy's team had hoped for when it came to the Inter-American foreign ministers' meeting. Despite fears of congressional anger that would produce opposition to Alliance for Progress appropriations, the U.S. delegation could do little in the face of the opposition from Brazil, Mexico, Argentina and Chile to stiff penalties.

A joint proposal to isolate the Castro government from OAS activities was reported worked out early today after a three-hour conference of the foreign under-secretaries of Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Ecuador, Bolivia and Haiti, a group which has come to be known here as the "outer seven."

Sheriff Tyson Decides Against Re-Election Bid

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson announced today that he will not seek reelection this year, thus ending 24 years' association with the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

The veteran official said he had decided not to run on advice of his physician.

"My gratitude is beyond measure of expression to the voters of this good county of Pitt who the very best law enforcement possible—without fear or special favor to any person.

"Out of this desire to serve the citizens of Pitt County has come not only a deep and abiding affection for all the friends I have made during these years, but also a profound respect for Pitt County people.

"They are the finest to be found anywhere in their respect for law and order and in the manner in which they cooperate with peace officers generally.

"For all these reasons, it gives me special concern, but my physician advises that it is unwise for me to conduct another campaign for reelection.

"It is with deep regret and special sadness, I therefore announce that I will not be a candidate for reelection as Sheriff of Pitt County.

"I plan to fulfill the duties of the office for the balance of my term and shall continue, with the assistance of the very fine staff of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, to render to Pitt County the most excellent law enforcement service possible."

Tyson began working as a deputy June 25, 1938 under Sheriff J. Knott Proctor. He continued as a deputy until Nov. 1, 1943 when Proctor was named postmaster. Tyson was appointed sheriff to fill the unexpired term.

He was elected to a full term in 1946 and re-elected in 1950, 1954 and 1958.

Flu Bug Expected Next Week

The flu bug is expected to reach here next week.

Dr. John Futrell, Pitt County health director, said the flu "apparently is migrating in this direction." Already various types of the flu have caused high rates of absenteeism in some of the state's public schools.

Areas already hit are Burlington, Hickory, Charlotte, Kings Mountain, High Point, Greensboro, Raleigh and Dunn. Individual schools in some areas are reporting as much as 40 and 50 percent of enrollment absent due to influenza and related ailments.

Though flu here has not reached those high proportions, numerous cases of chicken pox, mumps, and measles have been reported, Dr. Futrell said. As for bad colds, since they are not a reportable disease, the health director isn't sure about the prevalence.

Most flu outbreaks last three to six weeks in a state and two to four weeks in a community. The types expected to hit here are A, B and possibly some Asiatic, Dr. Futrell commented.

There is still some influenza vaccine available, and there is time before the germ gets in the air for it to do some good here. People with chronic conditions particularly should use the influenza vaccine.

Bed rest and fluids are helpful for flu, but Dr. Futrell advised that physicians be consulted, especially in cases of measles, mumps and chicken pox.

BOSTON (AP) — Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr., told a Boston audience today "we must all face up to the fact that we're in a tough spot, and before we work our way out of it, we may have to fight; and if we do, somebody will get hurt."

He was addressing a joint meeting of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Association of the United States Army. "It's up to us to see that the United States and its friends, and generations yet unborn, aren't the ones who suffer fatal consequences," he said.

East Germany Approves Draft

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany's Parliament approved a military draft today without a dissenting vote. Men between 18 and 26 will be called up for 18 months of training. The defense minister, Gen. Heinz Hoffman, said the draft was introduced "at the demand of the workers" as a shield against Western aggression.

East Germany has so far relied on volunteers for its armed forces. Considerable pressure was applied to youths to make them sign up.

Plan Self-Rule Of Bantu State

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd has announced his white supremacy regime plans to give internal self-government next year to a segregated state of two million blacks in the Transkei area on the Indian Ocean.

Verwoerd told Parliament Tuesday Transkei would be the first state set up under his government's program of separate development for Bantu (Negro) states within a South African commonwealth.

Transkei will have a wholly black Parliament and Cabinet with authority over agriculture, education, lands, roads and other internal matters, Verwoerd said. External affairs, defense and certain aspects of the administration of justice will remain in the hands of the all-white South African government for the time being, he said.

Verwoerd's announcement drew fire from Dr. Bernard Friedman, leader of the Transvaal Progressive party. He termed it window dressing to disarm foreign critics of South Africa's apartheid policy of strict racial segregation.

The Transkei is an area of 16,000 square miles on the Indian Ocean south of Durban. The government says it has a population of 2,060,770, all Bantus except for 17,369 whites and 13,716 "colored" persons of mixed origin.

Fraudulent Coin Rolls Traded For $360 In Kinston

KINSTON—Lawmen today are looking for a blond headed white male, 10 to 20 years of age who hit three local banks for an estimated $360 by trading fraudulent rolls of quarters for currency.

According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the law breaker traded rolls containing one quarter at each end and lead filler in the center, for the cash.

One of the banks was taken for about $150 while a second was "traded" out of $110. The third, the FBI reported, was soaked for an estimated $100.

Federal agents described the man as being 19-20 years old, five feet six inches tall and weighing 160-170 pounds. He needed a shave, according to witnesses, and wore a short coat.

Fire Takes Lives Of 3 Children

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

KINSTON — A 12-year-old Negro youth lost his life in a fire near here last night in a futile attempt to save two younger brothers from the blazing inferno that had been the second floor of their home.

Chief Joe Hally of the Kinston Fire Department said Cecil Fordham, 12, was found dead about 10 feet from the stairway on the second floor. His body was about six feet away from those of his two younger brothers.

Two Pitt County men, off-duty Highway Patrolman R. E. Tayloe of Grifton and a second Grifton resident, Marvin Knoles, saw the blaze and attempted to rescue the children but were hampered by a too short homemade ladder and finally driven back by intense heat.

The bodies of the other two children, Darris, three, and Freddie, two, were found within two feet of the window at which Tayloe and Knoles made their approach to the blaze.

According to Chief Hally, Cecil was downstairs with his mother in the two-story home. They heard crackling noises, looked up and saw the whole east side of the home on fire above them.

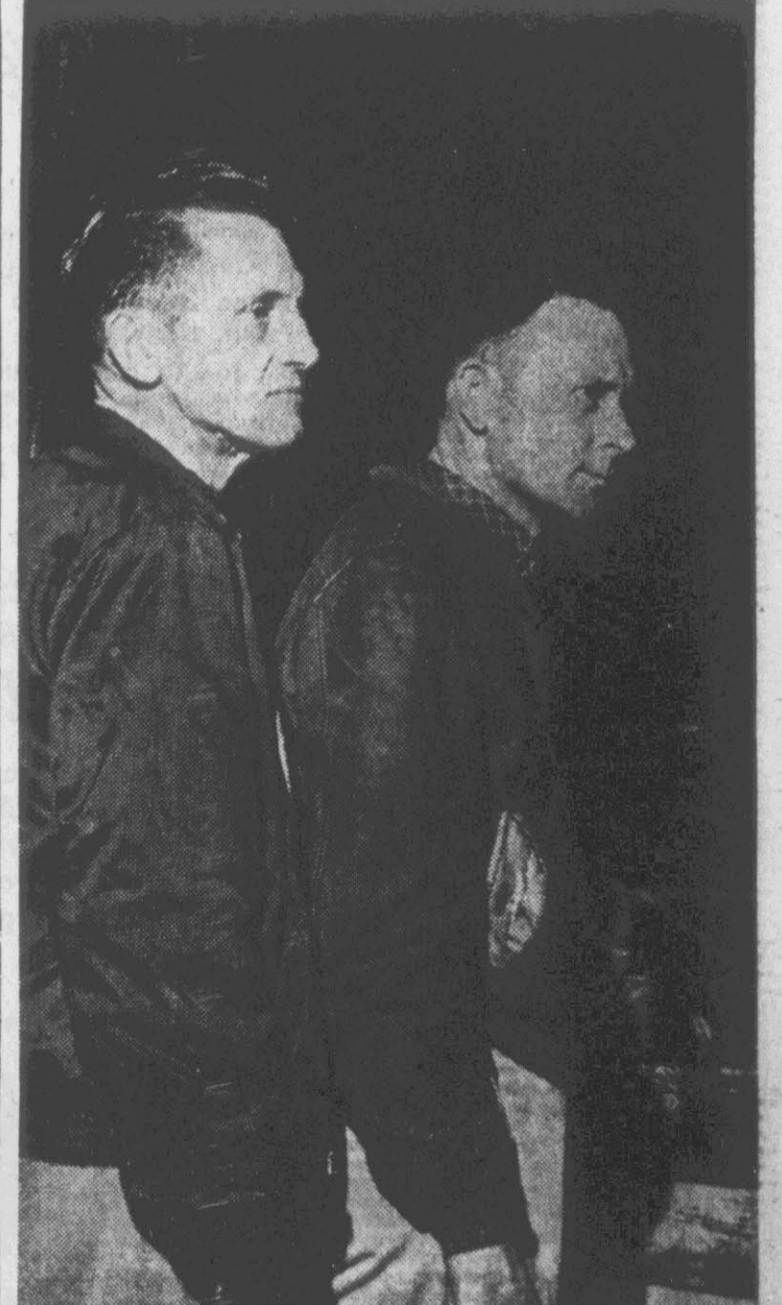

Cecil went upstairs to get the sleeping children, who were in bed on the west side of the dwelling.

He was apparently overcome by smoke, the fire official noted.

The father, Julius Fordham had gone to a nearby store. As he was leaving the business, he saw his home in flames and had the store owner notify the Kinston department.

The Fordham's six other children were downstairs at the time the fire was discovered and escaped unharmed.

Meat Specialist Club Speaker

The Home Life Department of the Woman's Club met Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. C. M. Respass, 1904 Sheraton Drive.

Mrs. J. E. Ricks, chairman, called the meeting to order and called upon Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., program chairman, to present the speaker for the afternoon, Dr. John Christian, who is with the North Carolina State College Extension Service. Originally from Illinois, Dr. Christian has worked in several of the Southern states and has been for the past seven years in North Carolina. He has worked with the Animal Husbandry Department of the N. C. Extension Service, and also with consumers, processors and producers on growing, processing and selecting and using of meats.

Dr. Christian has worked with the country ham business in North Carolina, and with county programs on selection and usage. He is Meat Specialist with the New Science and Food Processing Department of the N. C. Extension Service.

Slides were shown of the different types of animals, from which the different grades of beef were obtained, and also the different cuts of beef from these animals. He explained how important meat was to the balanced diet, giving the number of pounds of beef, pork, veal, and lamb consumed per capita per annum. The United States ranks fourth highest in the consumption of meat. The life spans tends to be longer in countries where much meat is eaten. Children and older people need more protein, such as found in meat, than the middle aged group. Malnutrition is possible in families of higher income groups, for the diet does not contain a sufficient quantity of meat.

Dr. Christian showed by demonstration how a piece of beef could be cut, so that each different portion of it, which varied in tenderness, could be used to best advantage. The best part of the meat could be cooked by dry heat, while the less tender required moist heat and prolonged cooking time. The bone, with some meat left on it, could by the addition of vegetables make nourishing soup. Dr. Christian took a pork loin, cut it in various pieces, and showed how each part could best be used. He told how the cheaper cuts of meat, with the proper cooking method, could be just as tender and flavorful as the more expensive pieces.

At the end of the talk, questions from the members were asked, and answered by Dr. Christian. A short business meeting followed, presided over by Mrs. J. E. Ricks.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., Mrs. J. C. Galloway Sr., Mrs. Scott Forbis, Mrs. K. T. Futrelle, Mrs. D. R. Davis, Mrs. S. E. West, Mrs. W. J. Bundy.

Youngsters Facing Surgery Hypnotized, 'See' TV Shows

By ANN LERNER

NEW YORK — (WNS) — Youngsters facing surgery at the Hospital for Joint Diseases here are being hypnotized before the operation. The hypnosis reduces fears and cuts the amount of anesthetic needed. In many cases the child "re-runs" old television shows in his mind.

Dr. Albert M. Betcher, director of anesthesiology at the hospital, reported at a medical symposium that he has used hypnosis as an adjunct to conventional anesthesia in some 1,000 children in the last four years.

The result: Hypnosis cuts in half the amount of anesthetic needed for the surgery. It often eliminates altogether the need for a sedative after surgery. And it prevents personality changes that occur in 17 per cent of all children who undergo anesthesia.

"Even if the child has been told all about the operation, he will sometimes be fearful," Dr. Betcher said. "And if he has not been told, his fear will be much greater."

What's more, he said, "taking leave of home to enter a hospital burdens a child with additional emotional distress."

Children are easily hypnotized, Dr. Betcher said. Even an infant who cannot understand words "can receive assurance from the doctor's voice."

Hypnotic techniques vary with the age of the child.

Infants and children up to the age of 3 are hypnotized by the sound of a warm, soothing voice — "The way a mother holds a child's attention with soft, endearing words as in a lullaby," Dr. Betcher said.

"The infant will cease crying to listen and its attention will be held."

Children from 3 to 8 enter the world of make-believe easily and eagerly. So the anesthesiologist becomes a story-teller, using characters from nursery stories or television puppet shows to put his little patient to sleep.

He might recount the story of the Three Bears who are "so sleepy, so tired."

Or he might say, "See that rabbit over there? He's so tired. Show him how to close his eyes and go to sleep."

Always the stories are interlaced with the words "sleepy" and "tired." Always the anesthesiologist emphasize the idea of sleepiness by actual yawning at crucial points in his story.

"If it's done in a monotone," Dr. Betcher said, "the child will soon begin to yawn, close his eyes, and go to sleep."

In children between 9 and 14, television is a great help — even the commercials.

"This group was the largest and most rewarding of all," Dr. Betcher said. "The modern age of television lends itself admirably as a means of producing hallucinatory imagery."

The child is put into a light trance and told to think of his television set at home.

He is told to turn the set on and to inform the doctor when the picture comes on the screen.

He is told he is watching his favorite program — a Yankee ball game, a wild western, anything he chooses.

"He becomes so involved with what he is 'watching' that he can describe the balls, strikes and hits of the game," Dr. Betcher said.

"Often youngsters recite not only the action they 'see,' but even the commercials." One boy reported his program was in color.

Another boy, a 12-year-old who was to undergo surgery to correct a clubfoot condition in both legs, was hypnotized the afternoon before his operation.

At that time, he was told to "turn on" his television set and watch his favorite show. He described it vividly, including the "turn off" the set and repeat the TV-watching the next morning in surgery.

He arrived in surgery the next day without fear, eager to "watch" his television program. "His postoperative course was completely free of discomfort and required no analgesics or sedatives," Dr. Betcher reported.

"He re-entered the hospital a month later for correction of the other extremity. The same eagerness to start the television program was again evident.

In the group of 14- to 20-year-olds, a standard hypnotic "patter" is used.

The patient is told to lie down and fix his eyes on a point on the ceiling.

He may be told he is floating on a warm, soft cloud, becoming more drowsy, more relaxed, more sleepy all the time. This patter continues until he falls into a hypnotic sleep.

In patients from 9 to 20 years posthypnotic suggestions are given, too. These patients are told they will have little or no pain or discomfort when they awake.

"Most of them require no sedation postoperatively," Dr. Betcher said.

Children, he said, are not afraid of hypnosis.

Unlike grown-ups, they have not had time to build up the tensions and fears that adults feel may be revealed through hypnosis.

Indeed, Dr. Betcher noted, hypnosis is popular with the kiddies at the Hospital for Joint Diseases.

"Many who must undergo a series of operations — after being hypnotized once — will break in to a grin when they see me," he said, "and go into a trance even before I start talking."

These youngsters have no fear nor any recollection of a traumatic experience in surgery.

"He tells his parents about his 'game,' 'trance,' or whatever it was he experienced and grins at you on postoperative rounds."

In major surgery, Dr. Betcher emphasized, hypnosis is used as an adjunct to chemicals to induce anesthesia.

However, hypnosis alone may be used in minor procedures such as dislocations and simple fractures, repair of lacerations, changing painful dressings and dental extractions.

Dr. Betcher described the case of a 10-year-old girl, critically hurt with third-degree burns on her neck, chest and arms.

The change of dressings after skin grafting was frequent and painful. Hypnosis was used to eliminate the pain at each dressing.

The child's successful excursion into hypnosis during a surgical procedure, is "due to the rapport established between the patient and the operator," Dr. Betcher said.

"It is the ideal of being in sympathy with another human being, a friend, a confidant that brings about the relationship which is labeled 'hypnosis,' but which more descriptively could be called 'hypersuggestibility.'"

Dr. Betcher, who is also a professor of anesthesiology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York, said a doctor's success with hypnosis in youngsters "is based on a fundamental love of children and a cultivated tolerance of their fears."

Find Life Too Complex To Face With Dumb Wife

By YVETTE DE LA FONTAINE

GRENOBLE, France — (WNS) — College men in France have revolted against the traditional French idea that the perfect bride should "sols belle et tais-toi" ("look pretty and keep quiet").

A poll at six universities reveals that life today is too complicated to face it with a dumb wife.

The Frenchman of 1962 is looking for a mate who is:

1. an excellent housekeeper and cook.
2. prepared to raise a big family.
3. attractive and chic.
4. intelligent.
5. equipped with a profession (but not career crazy).
6. emotionally sound and adult.

7. cultured.
8. in good financial health.
"I want a wife who will understand my business problems, be smart enough to advise me on them, and have the courage to tell me when I'm wrong," said typical student Bernard Pilon, 20.

The girls are willing but not happy about it all.

"Marriage will be eight times more difficult than it was for our mothers and grandmothers," said student Francoise Martin, 18, who's agreed to marry Pilon.

Drill Never Boring

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—(WNS)—Dr. Sidney Rootenburg, a dentist here, has found a way to keep a small child still in his dental chair. When about to drill a child's tooth, he ties a ball of cotton thread to the driving belt of his handpiece and tells the youngster to imagine that the ball is a racing car speeding around a track.

Banker Husband Tolerates Actress's Venomous Role

By MILLCENT BROWER
 NEW YORK — (WNS) — A man who marries an actress must be a saint, declared Mildred Dunnock, star of the new Broadway play "The Cantlevered Terrace." Mrs. Dunnock has been a successful actress for 20 years, successfully married for 24.

"An actress is influenced by the part she is playing. Especially during rehearsals, when she is exploring a new role, her mood may vary from elation to depression."

"The husband must be patient and understanding if the wife comes home from rehearsal with a different character from the one she had in the morning."

Miss Dunnock's husband, Keith Urmy, is an executive with the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company.

"His career, like that of most men, has been built slowly and now he is at his peak. I sometimes feel that because of my career I can't really be there to help him as much as I should."

"It was my husband who encouraged me to go ahead with my career, and I sometimes think he regrets it now."

The slim, gentle-voiced Miss Dunnock did quit summer stock because of the frequent role changes were confusing for her married life.

"One week I'd be playing a sweet role, and I'd be simple, kind, loving and understanding the following week, I'd be playing a nasty mean woman. The change was too much. That's why I quit."

Miss Dunnock frequently plays the kind of woman who is unobtrusive but has inner strength and goes about her business without projecting her personality or needs.

Her recent credits include the films "Sweet Bird of Youth" and "Butterfield 8" and, on stage, "Death of a Salesman" and "Another Part of the Forest."

But in her present role, as a strong-minded mother in a family of twisted souls, she "pours forth the venom," as one critic puts it, "with all the relish and joy of a fine actress who is delighted to find herself in a role where she doesn't have to be sweet and noble for once."

By this time, she said, her husband is adjusted to the effects of her roles on her, and if she brings any drops of venom home, he does not mind.

"I am enjoying the role," she admitted. "It's a change for me."

"But I personally feel closer to the quiet woman with inner strength. People say to me, 'But you are not such a woman. You chose a career.' I do not see that one cancels the other."

Her husband is now accustomed to her character changes, she said, and her marriage is one of bliss, recently made more joyful by the marriage of her 21-year-old daughter.

"But of course," she added, "my husband is a saint."

Local Attorney DAR Speaker

FARMVILLE — The regular monthly meeting of the Major Benjamin May chapter, DAR, was held Saturday, January 20, at the home of Mrs. W. E. Hudson in Greenville, with Mrs. Dorothy W. Johnson, of Greenville, and Mrs. J. B. Eagles of Wilson as joint hostesses.

Miss Elizabeth Lang, regent, presided and led in the recitation of the American's Creed and the Pledge of Allegiance. Following rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," with Mrs. M. V. Jones as accompanist, Mrs. Jones, in the absence of the chaplain, read the exhortation of St. Paul to the Philippians to wholesome and inspirational thought, 4:8-9, and a selection, "Recipe for a Happy New Year."

A period of silence was observed in tribute to the passing of a highly esteemed Farmville citizen and chapter member, Mrs. Paul E. Jones, and Dr. Mary Martin Sloope, a founder of Crossnore School (a DAR-sponsored institution), known as "the grand lady of the Blue Ridge" and named in 1951 as "North Carolina Mother of the Year."

The regent appointed Mrs. E. P. Bass and Miss Nancy Lewis as a committee to send birthday cheer to the chapter's Crossnore student, sponsored in part by this group.

Mrs. John B. Wright gave the secretary's report. Mrs. J. O. Pollard, in the treasurer's report, announced a recent substantial gift received and the purchase of a vacuum cleaner for the chapter house. Committee reports were given by Mrs. B. P. Lewis, chairman of conservation, and Mrs. M. V. Jones of the DAR magazine.

Announcement was made of the selection of Miss Annette Moseley by the faculty and senior class of Farmville High for the Good Citizenship award offered by the chapter, and of the luncheon and tour of Tryon Palace honoring the district delegates. Mrs. S. H. Aycock Jr., DAR Good Citizens chairman, will accompany the Farmville delegate to the affair, at which announcement of the district winner will be made.

Mr. Wooten is president of the Pitt Historical Association, an Episcopal vestryman and a member of the Exchange Club.

The speaker made an able and comprehensive address on legislative bodies, their responsibilities, duties and functions under the subject, "Who Makes Today's Laws?" The spotlight was held over the lobbyist.

The regent announced that the February meeting would be held on the 10th at the home of Mrs. Jack Gates in Greenville, with Mrs. Lynn Edwards and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor as joint hostesses.

Following adjournment, guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. The table bore a centerpiece of mixed flowers with snapdragons predominating and beautiful appointments. Mrs. J. # Want To Gain Weight? Add Some Quick Curves

By JUNE WILSON
 Women's News Service

Are you weak, nervous, tired? Do you have the Grey-Blue Sickness? Can you add to all this the fact that in a world where 3 of every 5 people you know are on liquid reducing diets, turned sideways you become completely invisible?

Have you tried everything? Hot milk with sherry and lots of sleep. Have you swallowed vitamins, patented "body-builders" to no avail. When it comes to meat and potatoes, do you feel, every time you see a steak, that you should lie down beside it?

Stop trying so hard to gain weight. It isn't necessary any more and besides, you'll live longer than your plump pals — if that's any comfort.

There is a fella named McIninger who specializes in a variety of foam-rubber padded foies and afts which, in less time than it takes to make a milkshake, will round out hollows with foundation garments engineered to curve a deficient derriere, bony hips or flat bottom.

If this seems too, too dishonest to you, remember that lipstick, mascara, hair tint and eye shadow are only less fraudulent because everyone sees and everyone knows. Keep a couple of cards in your hand.

The subtle thing that happens to you in those padded in just the right places is that certain look you get on your face when you walk down a long hall in a wool jersey sheath. You can't help it — you just get it!

Foam rubber is a warm, friendly substance. It becomes such a pad that it's almost part of you. You relax; you're able to eat your meals in peace and you lose the compulsion to consume everything in sight in the faint hope that it will stick with you and perhaps even land in a vital spot. Eventually, if you relax on your foam-curved bottom, it might.

There are the chances you take, like tripping on a grate and tearing loose the moorings of the pad on your left hip. Or sitting down so hard you dislodge your curvy bottom so that it appears you've been into the helium. But remember that the finest French mascara runs when you cry hard enough, and regardless of how often you color your locks, the shade you're born with grows always at the roots.

And while you're about it, remember that men like to be fooled, expect to be lied to, and that the American male is package-oriented. This makes the wrapping strictly up to you.

Dieticians Advise Suitable Breakfast

NICE, France—(WNS)—Dieticians in convention here have condemned the big American and English breakfasts. But they also turned thumbs down on the meager French breakfast of coffee and a bun.

"It takes several hours for your body to return to normal action after a night's sleep," said Dr. Andre Michault. "If you overload the stomach first thing in the morning, you risk indigestion and overweight."

His recommendation for the morning meal: "Indispensable: a glass of fruit juice. Vital: two lumps of sugar. Necessary: a warm drink of coffee, tea, chocolate or milk."

Farmers and heavy laborers should begin the day with a bowl of hot soup, a neat plate and a glass of wine. At 11 a.m., they should stop for a snack.

His preferred breakfast for children and adolescents: orange juice, a bowl of warm milk into which is dissolved three lumps of sugar, three buttered rolls to dunk into the milk, and a piece of fresh fruit.

"Twice a week they should have an egg during the morning, too," he said. "And if they don't like warm milk, let them have hot chocolate."

Ever add a pinch or two of ground ginger to red cabbage that is being cooked sweet-sour style?

Ex-Model Starts Self Haute Couture

PARIS—(WNS)—Marie Helene Arnaud, former star model and manager at Chanel, has brought do-it-yourself into haute couture by creating her own spring wardrobe to be worn only by herself.

"Any woman of taste and ability can do it," she said at her Paris apartment on the Rue Michel-Ange.

"All couturiers today try to impose a silhouette upon us. They have their own tics, phobias, mannerisms, exaggerations and decorations which make women look alike instead of individual."

Mlle. Arnaud wants to dress in a conservative fashion: "simple, supple, neat and constructively new."

"Since my ideal is not being presented by any couturier, I'm designing it myself. I think that other fashionable women should do the same."

Many elegant Parisiennes have asked the suave, sophisticated Frenchwoman for copies of the gowns she has already worn to balls and theatrical openings.

"I've given them my permission, but it's impossible for me to make the copies myself. Besides, you appreciate your clothing more if you have to make it yourself."

Moving Up Is Not Overemphasis

Increased emphasis on the athletic program at East Carolina College at a time when many other colleges and universities are de-emphasizing their athletic programs is causing considerable comment throughout the state.

Predominant among the opinions expressed in other sections of the state is that ECC is trying to move into the "Big Time" with its athletics. For some reason this seems to carry with it an unwholesome connotation. Editorials in some newspapers have warned that placing greater emphasis on athletics is a move in the wrong direction for East Carolina. Others have pointed out the headaches which have come to many schools in connection with "Big Time" athletic programs.

In our opinion President Leo W. Jenkins and his staff at East Carolina are to be commended for their forthright assertion that they hope to bring the athletic program of the college to a level more in keeping with the size of the institution and its place in higher education.

It is a misconception, we believe, to assert that East Carolina is seeking to push its way into the "Big Time" by placing greater emphasis on its athletic program. True, the college is seeking to improve its status in intercollegiate athletics, but it doesn't mean that it is seeking a position competitive with ACC teams, those of the Southern Conference, the Big Ten, of the other Big Leagues of college athletics.

It is unreasonable, we believe, for those who are critical of the move by East Carolina College to base opinions on the fact that East Carolina is bucking the predominant tide among many of the colleges of the nation which in recent years have de-emphasized their athletic programs. In most cases these have been the largest schools where athletics became the tail which wagged the dog, or schools at the other end of the scale which were already competing over their heads and decided to bring athletics into a position more in keeping with the remainder of the college program. And in the case of ECC it means that the athletic program has to be improved rather than curtailed.

By moving from the Carolinas Conference into the Southern Conference, East Carolina will be joining a conference regarded more highly in athletic circles. Even so, if East Carolina does become a member of the Southern Conference in the next couple of years, it will be, on the day of its admission to that conference, one of the three or four largest colleges in the conference. Although it will be in a conference with colleges with larger enrollments than its own, it will likewise be in a conference with colleges which have enrollments less than one-third the size of its own.

The current move at East Carolina is not a program to put athletics ahead of other programs of the college, but rather to bring athletics to a position more in keeping with the other programs of the institution. This is as it should be.

Basic Question Is Constitution

By LYNN NISBET

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—The question of whether or not there can be an election for a Lieutenant Governor this year is now up to the Supreme Court. Judge William Y. Bickett in Wake Superior court Saturday admitted the demurrer filed by the office of the Attorney General and denied petition for a writ of mandamus to require the State Board of Elections to accept the filing fee and permit Senator Max Thomas to enter the primary this year.

The hearing developed when the board of elections declined to accept Thomas' proffer of the filing fee and registry as a candidate, basing its action on a ruling of the Attorney General that an election could not be held for that office until 1964. Thomas went into court to obtain an order requiring the board to recognize him as a candidate. The hearing was held in the Wake county court room on a cold and rainy Saturday, with all outside doors of the courthouse except the side entrance to the sheriff's office locked. Even so, there were some 30 or more interested spectators present, in addition to the litigants and lawyers.

Among the visitors were three members of the State Board of Elections, including the two Republicans — Robert S. Ewing of Southern Pines and Dan S. Judd of Asheville. Democrat Joseph Jantown of New Bern was also on hand. Chairman and secretary, David McConnell and Warren Williams, did not show.

The Republican board members were interested for more than one reason. They were made parties to the action brought by Thomas, but they also resented the role in which this situation cast them. The answer to the complaint set out that Raymond Maxwell, executive secretary of the board of elections, refused to accept the Thomas filing "in behalf of and at direction of" the State board of elections.

QUESTIONED — Ewing and Judd said that so far as they knew no meeting of the board had been called to pass on this matter and both agreed they had not been contacted in person, by mail or telephone about it. Prior to the hearing Saturday it was rumored that Sim DeLann, veteran Republican political leader of Davidson county, might appear and ask to intervene as a friend of the court in support of the Thomas petition. He failed to show, and the lawyers did not bring out the question of how the board gave its directions.

LAW — It was conceded by all parties before the hearing that the sole question was one of law. There was agreement on all the facts — the tender of the filing fee, the refusal, the institution of court action, etc. The question of law hinged upon interpretation of the constitution, its implications as well as its specific provisions.

There was also agreement upon the urgency of the matter. Judge Bickett said he felt that to decide the matter now was almost as important as to decide it at all. The judge joined with lawyers on both sides in asking the Supreme Court to advance its attention to this case to the first week in February. In regular order, the appeals from this district would not be heard until April. It is felt that it is important to get this issue cleared in time for candidates to file before March 16 — if the court should open the race this year. It was emphasized throughout the hearing that this was not just a personal action involving only Senator Thomas, because if he is permitted to file the door will be open for any citizen to file for the same office. It is known that three or four men are watching developments very closely and they are ready to jump in if the door is opened.

AT STAKE — Irving Carlyle and Joe Branch, attorneys for Thomas, and Attorney General Wade Bruton and Asst. A. G. Ralph Moody, agreed that the basic question involved is the integrity of the spirit of the constitution. It was conceded by both sides that the constitution is not very specific in its language spelling out just what the procedure should be. The attorneys general argued that the same rules should apply to election of Governor and Lieutenant Governor, since qualifications for the office are the same. The private attorneys argued that there is distinction between the two offices and the fact that the constitution gives blanket authorization for interim election of "all other elective officers" mean that vacancies in the office of Lieutenant Governor should be filled by election at first opportunity after the vacancy occurs.

One interesting phase of this whole business is the many of the people who vigorously insist there cannot be a legal election of a Lieutenant Governor this year, still wish there could be. Almost unanimous opinion is that the constitution should be amended and new laws written so that such a situation as the present one cannot arise again.

Sudden Death Leaves City A Big Vacancy

The sudden death of former City Manager Louis Scheipers, who since his resignation early this month has been serving as a consultant for the city, emphasizes the importance of the City Council filling the post of manager with another competent man as soon as possible.

Although Louis Scheipers had been in Greenville as City Manager for little more than six months, he had performed important services for the city and its citizens during that period as chief administrative officer for the local government.

In submitting his resignation as city manager, he offered to continue to serve the city for a period of time as a special consultant to help with administrative affairs during the period of transition while the city sought another person to fill the City Manager's post. His sudden death Sunday cut short his service as consultant and leaves the city without a City Manager or a special consultant in its administrative matters.

We presume the City Council, since receiving Scheipers' resignation on January 5, has already set in motion efforts to secure another qualified person to fill the post. We are aware it takes time to seek out and find the right man to fill such an important post in municipal government, but the death of Louis Scheipers makes it more urgent now that Greenville officials expedite the matter as rapidly as possible.

If the city's operations are to be kept moving in a proper manner, the City Council must exercise both care and speed in filling the important City Manager's post.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trouble is all around but it's the trouble inside world communism which in the end may affect history most.

Latin America is split on punishing Fidel Castro; African nations are split into rival blocs; France holds aloof from her allies in dealing on Berlin. Laotian princes can't agree on running their country; Algerians are slaughtering one another; There's guerrilla war in Viet Nam and murder in the Congo.

Communism's trouble-starting with Russian-Chinese differences on how to handle the West — could, if it got bad enough, shake communism to its roots.

In 1947 George Kennan, now ambassador to Yugoslavia but then head of the State Department's planning staff, made a prediction on communism's future.

He was basically right, although proof may have to wait, when he said: Hold the line tight enough long enough around world communism and internal tensions of the system will shake it.

The reasoning had to be based on this kind of understanding of groups and nations, that whenever people get together, so long as they have individual views, problems and ambitions, there will be disagreement, as there is within a family, and perhaps conflict.

NATURE OF INSPIRATION
We speak of the Bible as being inspired. The verb "to inspire" means literally "to breathe into." Anything inspired, therefore has a spirit breathed into it. There is inspiration in the best literature of all ages, but the fact that the Bible deals with man's relationship to God and the will and purpose of God for man means that the inspiration of the Bible has about it a quality of inspiration superior to the inspiration of classical literature.

The authority of the Bible comes from the fact that it is so inspired. God has breathed into His words that spirit of truth which causes it to be a spiritual power in our lives.

The Bible is the only book which has remained at the head of the best-seller list for generations. The probability is that it will always be so, because it deals with the most important things in life, those matters about which people are making the most searching inquiry.

Humanity has been coming to this fountain of spiritual wisdom through the centuries. No one is truly educated who does not know what the Bible teaches. Important as secular knowledge is, it can never take the place of religious knowledge. And in the field of religious knowledge there is nothing so important as the conviction that in the Bible we encounter God speaking to us, holding up a solemn promise of triumph and salvation.

The settlement of the New York construction electricians' strike will have repercussions not unlike a string of Chinese firecrackers set off across the country.

It puts American industry on the spot; it puts almost every labor leader in the nation on an even smaller spot. The settlement provides for a five-hour day, with a sixth hour to be worked at overtime. This means a daily wage of $4.40 an hour for the first five hours and $6.60 for the sixth hour. Because of the shortage of union workers, many may be working a seventh and some an eighth hour at the $6.60 overtime rate.

Incidentally, don't drop what you are doing and dash to New York to join the union, unless you are a son of a member. It has the toughest apprentice rules in the nation and makes the old Rockefeller Standard Oil look like an un-trust or a non-monopoly.

DELAYED WEATHER REPORT — (From a distant point): A couple who drove into Greenville Saturday said they left their Michigan home when the temperature reading was 11-below, and they had had 44 inches of snow since the first of the year.

Seems their television weather forecaster suffered the same problem of all forecasters; he had been predicting snow well before Christmas, and as the days marched inexorably along to the great day he assured the kiddies they would have a white Christmas and to have their sleds ready. His optimism didn't falter until after Christmas passed. . . and still no snow.

But from all accounts, the "bottom dropped out" on the snow situation around the first of the year.

Surveying Greenville's sun-bright Sunday and mild temperature, one of the visitors appreciatively remarked: "Just like Michigan in April!"

TWISTING has sometimes been jokingly called the newest boon to the medical profession.

But, the Hospital Care Association announced this week it had paid its first claim for a member doing the Twist.

So it isn't entirely a joke.

The announcement says the casualty was 14-year-old Patricia Plummer of Route 1, Chapel Hill. Patricia was hospitalized for 6 days for surgery and treatment of a fractured kneecap suffered while Twisting.

Her mother now quotes Patricia as saying "I don't want to hear anyone even mention the Twist again!"

I hear that locally a psychology student is conducting a survey dealing with motivation etc. of the dance craze.

LOOKING OVER cases disposed of last week by Pitt County Recorder's Court, staff writer Henry Howard and myself come to the conclusion courts wouldn't have so much to do if it wasn't for the Automotive Age.

Yesterday's Reflector carried a report of forty-two cases in the county court, and of those there were twenty-four which involved some kind of violation on the automobile front.

For lack of time and space, Henry held back on a report of thirty-eight other traffic violations which is supposed to be in today's paper. Think of it. . . out of eighty cases, only eighteen did not involve automobiles.

A lot could be said about significance of such figures, but you probably have conclusions of your own.

YESTERDAY'S WIRE reports told of a "very contagious" virus sweeping the Kings Mountain schools. And after press-time there was a story to the effect that North Carolina is in the beginning stages of an epidemic of influenza.

The cases are running in the thousands. Forsyth, Guilford, Wake, Scotland, Robeson and Halifax counties are all hit. The assistant state health officer thinks we're nowhere near the height yet.

Symptoms are including headache, severe cough, fever, muscle and eye pain. If I didn't have the flu before reading its symptoms and spread, I do now.

Tariff Issues Ahead

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

President Kennedy's proposal to reduce the tariff could eliminate certain industries altogether. Some American companies, which have exported huge sums to Great Britain or Canada, for the building of industries there would benefit by exporting their products from those countries to the United States. It would appear that they are competing with themselves. Actually, they are not competing with themselves because while we speak of exporting capital, what has been exported are jobs and what is imported are goods manufactured by cheaper labor costs, cheaper tax costs and even cheaper raw material costs.

How can American jobs be safeguarded under such conditions? There can be no question but that President Kennedy seeks to build up the economy of Western Europe as an offset to the building up of the economy of the Soviet Universal State. But while that is being done, what becomes of the American economy? Certain industries would inevitably be shut tight within the United States because they have no export market and cannot compete in the American market unless protected.

We face here a dichotomy which is not answered by a rule of political necessity. It is necessary to find a solution which answers both problems; namely, 1. How to continue to build Western European and Japan's industries so that the United States has effective allies, and 2. How to sustain jobs in the United States so that the American worker is protected.

In any discussion of the tariff, Americans are accustomed to speak of protecting infant industries. But the industries are no longer infants. What we are dealing with today is the protection of jobs, with the social problem of maintaining a uniform standard of life, with the avoidance of peaks and valleys of production so that there will be no depressions.

To achieve this constructively, we must be able to maintain an export ratio which will keep our people at work or we must stimulate the domestic consumption of goods so that we will keep our people at work. Unemployment is the socially most disturbing problem. The reduction of our standards of life is intolerable.

We face therefore a very serious social problem which cannot be solved by politics alone. This problem requires an immediate acknowledgement that the center of American domestic and international politics depends upon the availability of jobs in the United States and the value of the money that those jobs bring to each family. If the family is accepted as the unit for consideration, it is impossible to tolerate unemployment for any reason whatsoever. The concentration of planning must be focused on jobs.

Unemployment is not likely to produce a revolution in the United States such as a famine produces in an Asiatic country. The reason is that in the United States we can eat even if we are forced to barter food for manufactured goods or if we become dependent upon the state. But a depression would force upon our people price controls and price controls eventually mean controls of every economic media. We have had enough experience with that to know that it results in social unrest and unnecessary changes. How long such controls can be exercised without an unfavorable concentration of power, no one can estimate. Concentration of power stimulates political strife.

Of course, political changes are moving so rapidly that much happens while one discusses what might happen. This swiftness is frightening and it has the curious effect of producing a political apathy which tends to fob the politician that the public is satisfied with his conduct. But is it a political apathy or is it a waiting period for a new leadership? This too needs to be studied, for much of President Kennedy's strength comes from the inherent weakness of the Republican Party.

Other Editors Saying ... Human Attrition

(The Asheville Citizen)

Anybody who feels complacent about educational progress in North Carolina ought to listen to Dallas Herring, chairman of the State Board of Education. He lives with the problem, day and night, as few men ever have. He sees, in our young people, the state's greatest potential resource. He's convinced it is underdeveloped.

In a speech before the Faculty Club of the University of North Carolina Herring pointed out that, of every 100 boys and girls who start in the first grade of the public school system, only 45 graduate from high school 12 years later. Of this number only 16 go on to college. And of the 16 only five graduate from college four years later.

Of all the 50 states, only Mississippi has a lower percentage of its college-age youngsters enrolled in college.

The President's Commission on Education beyond the High School estimates that 32 per cent of American boys and girls are capable of benefiting from a college education. North Carolina sends only half that percentage, and only one-third of those who go finally graduate.

These figures are shocking. They represent an appalling waste of human talent. True, we are not two generations away from a great deal of illiteracy; many of today's useful citizens received their education in schools that operated for only 90 days out of the year. But this is a new age, with demands unthought-of in an earlier time and needs that can only be satisfied by an ample number of alert and educated minds.

The dropout rate along the way is, of course, far too heavy. School dropouts can be lowered by better enforcement of the Compulsory Attendance Act and especially by legislation raising the age for compulsory attendance from 14 to 16. This would bring it into a more reasonable relationship with the minimum age for labor and industry.

But the problem goes deeper. We need improvement at every educational level. Elementary schools can do a better job of preparation and a more effective work of arousing students. High school teachers need to stir the minds before them and to impress on their able students the importance of graduating and going to college. The colleges, which suffer a heavy mortality rate in their freshman and sophomore classes, need to improve their work, particularly in the first two years.

The home plays a vital part in furnishing stimulus for this 16-year educational road. The path is easier for a boy or girl who grows up in a home in which the importance of college education is understood and stressed.

Part of the problem is also financial. The number of scholarships varies at different colleges. Some are woefully short of scholarship funds. All could use more.

Rather than dishearten us, these facts should spur parents, teachers, college professors, even philanthropists — to intensify their efforts in their respective fields during the years ahead. The human dividends are needed and they can be large.

ward position. Can he insist that government workers shuffle through a seven-hour day if stalwart unionists are working only a five-hour day, with overtime sugar plums? What can the Administration's position be if government employees demand equality with civilian scales? Incidentally, civilian scales have been written into the law in many governmental areas, strengthening the position of government employees who may demand equality with the New York electricians.

The seriousness of the situation is great. The strike was made effective by the co-operation of other building trades unions. These will promptly demand similar benefits.

At every dip in the economy, unions have increased demands for a shorter week. The next dip will swell these demands into a bellowing chorus.

The continuing raise in wages will result in greater inflation, especially since the government is taking no fiscal or budgetary action to check it.

Airline Merger Could Create Biggest System In U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines will combine into the nation's biggest system if stockholder and government approval is forthcoming.

They announced plans to merge Tuesday.

The consolidated line would be called American Airlines, erasing the name of the pioneer Eastern Air Lines from the roster of American carriers.

The proposal to create a system with $800 million in assets, 39,000 employees and 400 aircraft will be submitted to stockholders of both companies and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The board, which has generally encouraged mergers, had no immediate comment.

There was no mention in the announcement of Eddie Rickenbacker, 71, famed World War I air ace who is chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Eastern.

An Eastern Air Lines spokesman said only that Rickenbacker would continue to hold those posts as long as Eastern remained an entity.

The merger would be another step in the quickening scramble to tie together competing transportation lines in an effort to pull out of a financial morass.

United Air Lines and heavily-indebted Capital Airlines merged last May, making United the biggest of the domestic carriers. On the rail front, the New York Central and Pennsylvania systems agreed last week to merge. Other proposed combinations are being pushed.

The 11 trunk air carriers lost an aggregate of about $30 million in 1961. Eastern went deeply in the red while American earned $6.8 million.

C. R. Smith, president of American, and Malcolm A. MacIntyre, president of Eastern, jointly announced that the aim of the merger was to provide a stronger system "which can survive today's financial crisis, meet its obligations to the public and cope with the technological demands of the future."

They estimated savings of $50 million a year could be effected by eliminating duplicating flights and other services and by better utilization of equipment and facilities.

Charles W. Tillinghast, president of Trans World Airlines, commented that merging of the biggest east-west carrier (American) and the biggest north-south carrier (Eastern) might "aggravate competitive imbalances and thus increase rather than diminish the problems of the remainder of the industry."

Before Eastern chose American as a partner, there had been preliminary TWA-Eastern merger talks. There also has been talk of a possible TWA merger with Northeast Airlines, which is struggling to stay ahead of its creditors.

Howard Hughes, who owns 78 per cent of TWA's stock, has indicated that if he is successful in obtaining control of Northeast, he will endeavor to effect consolidation of the two airlines. Hughes' TWA stock is now in a voting trust.

Smith would be chairman and chief executive officer of the Eastern-American combine with MacIntyre president and second in executive authority.

The merger terms provide that Eastern stockholders would receive for each Eastern share held 1.3 shares of American, plus warrants good for five years to purchase an additional one-third share of American at $28 a share.

American, now No. 2 in size behind United, basically is a trans-continental line but also serves points in the Midwest, border, middle Atlantic and New England states and into the Southwest as far as Dallas-Fort Worth.

Fourth-ranked Eastern's routes are concentrated mainly along the Eastern seaboard. It also flies northwest to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Baptist Board Declines Take Over Campus

RALEIGH (AP)—The Baptist State Convention's general board has declined to take control of Flora Macdonald campus at Pei Springs.

The board accepted unanimously Tuesday a recommendation of a special committee that the offer made recently by the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina.

The synod had offered the college, lock, stock and campus, plus $40,000 in assets to the Baptists if they would take it over and operate it.

The board allocated $190,458 to mission objects within the state and gave Mars Hill College permission to borrow up to $300,000 for a new women's dormitory. The college said it expects to raise $250,000 toward the project.

LONDON (AP)—Britain's first space satellite will probably be put into orbit by the Americans from Cape Canaveral at the end of March, informed sources said Tuesday.

The satellite, U.K. 1, weighs 150 pounds and will be loaded with instruments. It is expected to remain about 600 miles out in space for some time.

Marlow ....

A much deeper reason, perhaps, is rivalry in Asia and a Chinese belief that Russia has done far too little, economically, industrially and scientifically to help Peking in its "great leap forward."

That's only one side of the conflict. Apparently there is discussion inside Russia over policy between Khrushchev and the hard-nosed old Stalinists like V. M. Molotov.

In addition there are signs Communist parties are choosing up sides; the Asian parties with Red China, the European ones with Russia, except for Albania, which is Red China's puppy.

On top of all this there seem to be conflicts between the Communist parties in the non-Communist countries, and perhaps even growing pressure within the satellites for more freedom from Russia.

One of the great ironies of our time has been the discussion between this country and Russia on disarmament and a ban on nuclear testing without including Red China. There could be no agreement without her.

It is unthinkable that China, with a population three times greater than that of Russia and the United States, would ever cease trying to become an atomic power equal if not superior to those two.

This is the last thing Russia would want for her Chinese ally. And yet without at least equal power Red China could hardly escape domination by the Soviets.

IAN FLEMING'S Greatest Thriller THUNDERBALL

CHAPTER 9
Plan Omega had gone exactly as Ernst Blofeld had known it would and Phases I to III in their entirety had been completed on schedule and without a hitch.

Giuseppe Petacchi had been well chosen. At the age of eighteen he had been co-pilot of a Focke-Wulf 200 from the Adriatic anti-submarine patrol, one of the few hand-picked Italian airmen who had been allowed to handle these German planes.

The group was issued with the latest German pressure mines charged with the new Hexogen explosive just when the tide was turned in the Allied battle up the spine of Italy. Petacchi had known where his destiny lay and had gone into business for himself.

On a routine patrol, he had shot the pilot and the navigator, very carefully, with one .38 bullet in the back of the head for each of them, and had brought the big plane skimming in, just above the waves to avoid the anti-aircraft fire, to the harbor of Bari. Then he had hung his shirt out of the cockpit as a token of surrender and had waited for the R.A.F. launch.

He had been decorated by the English and the Americans for this exploit and had been awarded £10,000 from special funds for his presentation to the Allies of the pressure mine. He had told a highly colored story to the Intelligence people of having been a one-man resistance ever since he had been old enough to join the Italian Air Force, and he emerged at the end of the war as one of Italy's most gallant resistance heroes.

From then on life had been easy — pilot and later captain in Alitalia when it got going again, and then back into the new Italian Air Force as colonel. His secondment to NATO followed and then his appointment as one of the six Italians chosen for the Advance Striking Force. But he was not thirty-four, and it occurred to him that he had had just about enough of flying.

He especially did not care for the idea of being part of the spearhead of NATO defenses. It was time for younger men to provide the heroics. He wanted Out — out of the pale green corridors of NATO, out of the Air Force, and, therefore, off to new worlds with a new name. Rio de Janeiro sounded just right. But all this meant a new passport, plenty of money, and "organismo" — the vital "organismo."

The organismo turned up in the shape of an Italian named Fonda who was at that time No. 4 in SPECTRE and who had been casing the personnel of NATO, via Versailles and Paris night clubs and restaurants, for just such a man.

It had taken one whole careful month to prepare the bait and inch it forward toward the fish and, when it was finally presented, No. 4 had been almost put off by the greed with which it had been gobbled.

There was delay while the possibility of a double-cross was probed by SPECTRE, but finally all the lights were green and the full proposition was laid out for inspection. Petacchi was to get on the Vindicator training course and hijack the plane. (There was no mention of atomic weapons. This was a Cuban revolutionary group who wanted to call attention to its existence and aims by a dramatic piece of self-advertisement. Petacchi didn't mind in the least who wanted the plane so long as he was paid.)

In exchange, Petacchi would receive $1,000,000, a new passport in any name and nationality he chose, and immediate onward passage from the point of delivery to Rio de Janeiro. Many details were discussed and perfected, and when, at eight o'clock in the evening of that June 2nd, the Vindicator screamed off down the runway and out over St. Alban's Head, Petacchi was tense but confident.

For the training flights, a couple of ordinary civil aircraft seats had been fixed inside the roomy fuselage just back of the large cockpit, and Petacchi sat quietly for a whole hour and watched the five men at work at the crowded dials and instruments.

When it came to his turn to fly the plane he was quite satisfied that he could dispense with all five of them. Once he had set George, there would be nothing to do but stay awake and make certain from time to time that he was keeping exactly at 32,000 feet, just above the transatlantic air channel.

There would be a tricky moment when he turned off the east-west channel on to the North-South for the Bahamas, but this had all been worked out for him and every move he would have to make was written down in the notebook in his breast pocket. The landing was going to need very steady nerves, but for $1,000,000 the steady nerves could be summoned.

For the tenth time Petacchi consulted his watch. Now! He verified and tested the oxygen mask in the bulkhead beside him and laid it down ready. Next he took the little red-ringed cylinder out of his pocket and remembered exactly how many turns to give the release valve. Then he put it back in his pocket and went through into the cockpit.

Petacchi asked some questions, verified the course set on George, checked the air speed and altitude. Now everyone in the cockpit was relaxed and drowsy. Five more hours to go.

Petacchi stood with his back to the metal map rack that held the log and charts. His right hand went to his right pocket, felt for the release valve, and gave it three complete turns. He eased the cylinder out of his pocket and slipped it behind him and down behind the books.

He went through the open hatch, got back to his chair, clamped on his oxygen mask, and turned the control regulator to 100 per cent oxygen to cut out the air bleed. Then he made himself comfortable and watched.

In about two minutes the man nearest to the map rack, the navigator, suddenly clutched his throat and fell forward, gargling horribly.

The radio operator dropped his earphones and started forward, but with his second step he was down on his knees. He lurched sideways and collapsed. Now the three other men began to fight for air, briefly, terribly.

The co-pilot and the flight engineer writhed off their stools together. They clawed vaguely at each other and then fell back, spreddleagled.

The pilot groped up toward the microphone above his head, said something indistinctly, then thudded down on top of the body of his co-pilot.

Petacchi glanced at his watch. Four minutes flat. He took rubber gloves out of his pocket, put them on, and pressed the oxygen mask tight against his face and trailing the flexible tube behind him, went forward, reached down into the map rack, and closed the valve on the cylinder of cyanide.

He verified George and adjusted the cabin pressurization to help clear the poison gas. He then went back to his seat to wait for fifteen minutes. Then, still with his oxygen mask on, he went forward again and began slowly for the oxygen made him rather breathless, to pull the bodies back into the fuselage.

He eased his oxygen mask away and took a small cautious sniff. There was no smell. But still, when he took over the controls and began easing the plane down into the traffic lane, he kept the mask on.

Revolutionary New Lubricant For Space Use

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A dry lubricant no thicker than the wave length of green light has been developed for use by space ships traveling far into the solar system.

The revolutionary new lubricant, known as GLD 5940, was developed at CBS Laboratories here and already has been tested successfully in weather satellites.

One of the major problems involved in deep space travel has been the failure of conventional lubricants when subjected to high vacuums.

For example, one of the best lubricants on earth is graphite. In space, however, graphite simply disintegrates and becomes an abrasive.

Even the best of oils and greases evaporate quickly and the end result has been a cold-welding of moving metal parts from the heat of friction.

The laboratory said the space lubricant was developed by Alfred P. Kaspaul and Erika F. Fere.

Essentially, said the laboratory announcement, the lubricant consists of special, multi-layer metallic deposits which have a thickness of less than one-half micron — the wave length of green light. Twenty million of these layers would equal one inch.

Kaspaul said the lubricant would operate at pressures up to 600,000 pounds per square inch and would withstand accelerations up to 40 times the force of gravity.

So thin and effective is the lubricant, said Kaspaul, that it does not interfere with the tolerances of even the finest precision bearings.

One of the major advantages of the dry film lubricant is said to be that space instrument systems using it will require less power than those encased in heavy packages of conventional grease thus reducing weight.

CBS Laboratories is under contract to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to investigate space lubrication problems.

Hero Pigeon Is Museum Piece

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J. (AP) — "GI Joe" is now on display at the Army Signal Corps Museum here — stuffed and mounted in all his feathered glory.

"GI Joe" is the World War II hero pigeon that saved the lives of 1,000 British soldiers by flying an urgent message in Italy. The heroic flight occurred Oct. 18, 1943, and averted an Allied bombing over Colvi Vecchia, an Italian town just captured by British troops.

When the Army inactivated the training of homing pigeons more than three years ago, the bird was shipped from Fort Monmouth to the Detroit Zoological Park. "GI Joe" died June 3 and now has been returned here from Michigan.

Phantoms Down Elizabeth City 63-44

The Greenville Phantoms marched to their third conference victory last night by defeating the Elizabeth City Jackets 63-44.

Early in the first quarter, the Phantoms registered a six-point lead by going ahead 8-2. However, the Jackets came back to tie the game 10-10 with three minutes left in the first quarter. In the remaining moments of the first period both teams scored four points to tie the score at 14 all.

Jackets Come Back Elizabeth City came back fast in the second quarter to gain the lead for their first time 16-14. However, Greenville went back in front on a field goal and a free throw by Jack Foley. These three points put the Phantoms out in front 17-16 and they went on to stay in the lead for the remainder of the contest.

At the end of the first half, Greenville led the Jackets 30-20. Kenneth Allen gave the fans something to cheer about as he scored for the Phantoms on a half-court jump shot just as the buzzer went off.

Phants Take Control The Rose High Phantoms returned in the second half to take complete control of the contest for the rest of the night. Paced by Billy James in the third period, Greenville increased their lead to 50-30. The Elizabeth City boys missed a series of easy "snow-birds" in the first part of this period, while the Phantoms were making the best out of their opportunities.

Jackets Rally The Jackets rallied in the fourth quarter to outscore their opponents by one point, but this was not enough to overtake the Phantoms. Elizabeth City was able to get within 16 points of the high-scoring Phants, before Greenville began hitting the basket consistently. Greenville went on to win the game by a score of 63-44.

The Phantoms were led by Kenneth Allen and Billy James, who scored 16 and 12 points respectively. High scorer for the Elizabeth City Jackets was James Ball with 14 tallies. Greenville plays its next game Friday night when it meets the Red Devils of Kinston.

Will Wynne Award Given Baseball Coach Mallory

RALEIGH — East Carolina College baseball coach Jim Mallory was presented the Will Wynne Award here today at the 12th annual baseball banquet sponsored by the Raleigh chapter of the Hot Stove League.

The award is presented each year by the Raleigh Hot Stove League to a North Carolinian who has made an outstanding contribution to baseball. It is usually given to a professional baseball player. In 1960 the honor went to Smoky Burgess, a catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The presentation of the award at the luncheon today was made by Walter Rabb, University of North Carolina baseball coach and winner of the Will Wynn Award in 1958.

Other persons attending the banquet from East Carolina were Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Dr. Robert Holt, Dr. James Tucker, Allen Nelms, Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, Clarence Stasavich and Cecil Heath.

Coach Mallory was responsible for bringing to North Carolina the only major national athletic title won by a Tar Heel senior college last year. His Pirate baseball team won the NAIA championship, Wilmington Junior College was victorious in national junior college tournament play in baseball.

Mallory, during his eight-year tenure at East Carolina, has guided the baseball Pirates to six North State Conference championships. His 1961 team marched through its regular season with a successful record before winning five of six games in Sioux City, Iowa, to bring home the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball trophy.

The ECC coach was an All-America baseball star at the University of North Carolina and was selected as the outstanding amateur player in the United States. He played professional baseball with the St. Louis Cardinals, the old New York Giants and the old Washington Senators.

Mallory coached at Elon College for seven years prior to assuming his position at East Carolina in 1953. While at Elon, Mallory won six conference championships.

Feller, Robinson Are Elected Hall Of Fame

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the major leagues, today is the first of his race ever elected to baseball's highest honor—its Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

The graying former Brooklyn Dodgers infielder was enshrined Tuesday along with Bob Feller, the quiet farm boy from Iowa who blazed a fast ball through the American League for nearly 20 years.

Both won election to the hall the first time they were eligible, a five-year retirement from baseball being mandatory. It was the first time the Baseball Writers of America had named anyone on their first eligible shot since the original five — Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson—were tapped in the first election in 1936.

Candidates needed 75 per cent of the 160 votes cast. Feller, now an insurance executive in Cleveland, received 150 votes.

Robinson, vice president of a restaurant and coffee company, got 124 votes, four more than the minimum needed.

"It's a once in a lifetime thrill," said Robinson at his Stamford, Conn., home. "It's hard to describe my feelings fully at this time. I am pleased and honored. My family is so excited no one wants to eat."

Feller, typically, was less emotional but nevertheless just as thrilled. "Naturally, I'm happy about it," he said. "But now it's almost as if I had nothing to look forward to—except going to Cooperstown this summer. I thought I might have to wait longer. Joe DiMaggio had to go around a couple of times. But then maybe the competition was rougher than I thought."

Robinson broke baseball's color line in 1947. Branch Rickey, then general manager of the Dodgers, had started the baseball world the year before when he signed Jackie to a Brooklyn farm contract. Robinson, who had been an outstanding football player for UCLA, was with the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League at the time. He spent one year of seasoning at Montreal, leading the International League in batting and fielding and then joined Brooklyn as a second baseman.

Quiet, hard working and always both an offensive and defensive threat, Robinson flirted with the 300 mark his first two seasons and batted a lousy .342 in 1949 to lead the National League.

His fielding and baserunning always were joys to behold. In one season he committed only seven errors, still the major league record, he participated in 137 double plays that same season, 1951, setting a National League mark.

Jackie was the most feared baserunner around in the decade from the late '40s to the late '50s. Once he stole home in a World Series game.

"I think it was recognition purely on merit," Rickey said of his protegee's selection to the Hall of Fame. "It is well deserved."

"I think it also means a lot to our whole country. We are in serious disrepute in some of our international relations, and I think this will help a lot. All of our people should be very happy."

Feller was a 17-year-old farm boy who had sharpened his eye by throwing at a bullseye painted on a barn when he arrived in the majors in 1936. He was what the game needed—a blazing fastball pitcher who packed in the crowds.

Twenty years later—with four years out for Navy service during World War II in his pitching prime—Rapid Robert Feller had compiled 236 victories.

Among those wins were three no-hitters, a dozen one-hitters. Only two other pitchers had three no-hit games. No other ever tossed 12 one-hit jobs.

As exciting as Feller's low-hit games were, his strikeouts were even more dramatic. He struck out 2,581 batters, including 15 in his first major league starting job.

"Feller must be ranked among the top five pitchers I ever faced," says American League President Joe Cronin. "Everybody talked about his fast ball but he had a tremendous curve."

Six times Feller won 20 or more games. His high came in 1940 when he notched 27 triumphs. He set the modern mark of 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game against Detroit, Oct. 2, 1938, though Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers since has tied the record. Feller's 348 strikeouts in 1946 still stands as a major league mark.

The two baseball greats were the first elected to the Hall of Fame by the writers in their biennial polls since 1956 when Cronin and Hank Greenberg were chosen. Billy Hamilton and Max Carey were elected last year by a special "Old Timers" committee.

"Will he turn pro?" said Mikan in repeating a question—"There's no question in my mind that he will. He's already gotten himself an agent in the guy that handles golfer Jack Nicklaus. If you're not going to play for money what do you need an agent for?"

Mikan, now 37, was picked as the greatest basketball player of the half century in an Associated Press poll in 1950. He first starred in 1934 after hanging up many scoring records. Mikan, a lawyer in Minneapolis, was interviewed while in New York this week.

St. John's Again Seems Assured Of Tourney Bid

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. John's University, consistently one of the nation's leading independent major college basketball powers, once again seems destined for a postseason tournament bid.

The New York Redmen polished off touring Canisius of Buffalo 81-68 Tuesday night for their fifth straight victory and 11th in 14 games. LeRoy Ellis, St. John's 6-10 center, produced most of the scoring punch with 31 points, 21 in the first half. The swift senior also snared 15 rebounds.

Two of the Redmen's losses came on the road against Kansas State and Temple. The other defeat came at the hands of Cincinnati, ranked third in the weekly Associated Press poll, in the ECAC holiday festival.

St. John's next two games are in the Midwest and will test the Redmen against a pair of solid independents. Coach Joe Lapchick's charges visit Chicago Loyola Saturday night and travel to Notre Dame Monday night.

The Redmen have appeared in 15 National Invitation tournaments and three times have been selected for at-large berths in the NCAA championships.

With most of the schools taking midyear examinations, action was again sparse in college basketball circles Tuesday night. In games involving major teams, Wisconsin outclassed North Dakota State by 102-50. Auburn throttled Georgia Tech 52-40. Virginia Tech subdued Tennessee 83-73. Chicago Loyola rolled over New Orleans Loyola 96-73. Georgia humbled Georgia Southern 70-58. Ohio University whipped Muskingum 83-68. Akron snipped Kent State 71-70, and Tennessee Tech turned back Middle Tennessee 61-58.

Ellis' 31-point scoring output for St. John's, his season's high, gave him a career total of 1,009, and he became the seventh Redman player to reach the 1,000-point mark.

The Redmen experienced little difficulty with Canisius as they jumped to an early 21-6 lead and led at intermission by 51-27. The Buffalo Griffins closed the deficit to 68-58 in the second half before St. John's pulled away for good.

Bill O'Connor sparked in a losing cause for Canisius with 25 points. He powered the Griffins comeback with a 10-point spurt.

Wisconsin of the Big Ten ended a two-week layoff in boosting its record to 9-3 at the expense of the nonleague foe North Dakota State.

Ron Jackson, who will be ineligible in the second half of the season, was high for the Badgers, who led at the half 51-27.

Auburn's shuffle offense clicked in the second half against Georgia Tech, and the Tigers recorded their ninth victory in 14 outings, a game that does not count in the SEC standings. Auburn overcame a 25-23 halftime disadvantage, while limiting the cold-shooting Yellow Jackets to only 15 points after the intermission. Layton Johns of Auburn garnered scoring honors with 15 points.

Virginia Tech switched successfully from a zone to a man-to-man defense for the third straight game, and the maneuver again worked against Tennessee. The victory was the Gobblers' 29th in a row at home and lifted their record to 9-4. Lee Mclear provided VPI's scoring impetus with 22 points, and Howie Pardue contributed 21 as the Gobblers led at halftime 41-32. Orb Bowling led the Vols with 18.

Chicago Loyola coasted to an easy victory over host New Orleans Loyola, racing to a commanding 61-31 bulge at the half. Jerry Harkness set the scoring tempo for the Chicagoans with 29 points, and sophomores Les Hunter and Vic Rouse chipped in with 24 points apiece. The Ramblers' record is 11-2.

Sugg Lions Top Bethel, 78-53

BETHEL — The H. B. Sugg Lions downed the Bethel Union basketball team last night 78-53 after taking the lead early in the first period and holding it for the rest of the game.

At the end of the first quarter Sugg was leading 19-10 and by halftime they had increased their lead and the score was 31-20. In the third period Bethel was able to narrow the margin by three points, but Sugg came back in the final quarter and scored 32 points to the 15 scored by Bethel.

The high scorer of the night for Sugg was Edward Pitt with 38 points. Other players hitting the doubles mark were Joe Harris and Theodore Dupree with 12 points each and William Burge with 11. For Bethel Union the top man was Robert Stokes with 15. He was followed by Sterling Bond and Louis Wynan with 12 points each.

Sugg also came out on top in the girls game by downing the Bethel Union girls 23-17. Sugg took a two-point lead in the first period and at the half they held a 10-8 lead. During the second half the Lions also outscored their opponents to win the contest.

The high scorers for the Sugg girls were Celestine Mix with eight points and Clemetine Ebron with six points. The only two girls to score for Bethel Union were Geraldine Smith with 14 and Lillian Whitehurst with 3.

Gobblers Switch Tactics, Win Over Tennessee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At the rate things are going, Virginia Tech's Gobblers may start a basketball game one of these days by using a man-to-man defense.

On the other hand, Coach Chuck Noe may figure he's getting better mileage by starting with a zone and then changing.

The Gobblers, who've won four in a row and eight of their last nine games, pulled a defensive switch last night for the third straight game and were rewarded with an 83-73 victory over Tennessee's Volunteers of the Southeastern Conference. It was Tech's 29th consecutive home court triumph.

Lee Mclear, a southpaw shooter, led the Tech attack with 22 points but sophomore Howard Pardue had 21 and senior Bucky Keller 15. Orb Bowling and Jerry Parker led the Vols with 18 and 16, respectively.

The game was the only one for Southern Conference teams, who now have no more action scheduled until Saturday.

Denies Seeking Easier Schedule

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech plans to stop playing Alabama and LSU in football after the 1964 season, but Coach Bobby Dodd denies that the Yellow Jackets are trying to soften their schedule.

He said Tuesday a new series with Florida will replace the Alabama rivalry and announced Tech would play the Gators here and at Jacksonville in alternate years. However, Florida coach and athletic director Ray Graves said Tuesday night no final decision has been reached on the site of the games in Florida.

"It is merely a part of a long-range adjustment in our football scheduling," Dodd explained, and Tech President Edwin D. Harrison concurred. Alabama and LSU are football powers in the Southeastern Conference.

Detroit's Frank Lary completed 22 of his 36 starts, best American League figure for 1961.

score 17-13. In the second half Robersonville advanced their lead in the end of the third quarter and went on to win the game 73-51.

The high scorer of the night was Van Parker with 29 points for the Bears. Butch Brown was high scorer for the Rams with 15 points while his teammate, Wayne Britton sank 10 points.

Earlier in the night, the Bear Grass girls defeated Robersonville by a narrow margin of 35-33. This was the Bears' first conference victory.

Robersonville took the lead with three minutes left in the third period on a three point play by Norma Williams. Late in the fourth quarter, Bear Grass came back to tie the game at 33-33. Jackie Leggett, of the Bears, sank a field goal just as the buzzer went off signaling the end of the contest. This provided the Bears with a 35-33 victory.

Norma Williams was high scorer for the losers with 22 points while Jackie Leggett led the winners with 16 tallies. Friday night Robersonville remains home to play the Alummi, while Bear Grass plays host to Jamesville.

Red Rift Seen Out Of Control

EDITOR'S NOTE—How intense is the cold war within the Soviet bloc and what are the chances that the Communist leaders will smooth over their differences? John M. Hightower, chief of the AP's State Department Staff, analyzes the Moscow-Peking row in this article.

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The row between Russia and Red China over Communist strategy for communizing the world has become so intense neither the Soviet nor the Chinese leaders have the power to put an end to it.

U.S. officials said that the dispute could lead to an outright split between the two huge Communist powers although they do not think this is at all probable, at least in the foreseeable future.

What they do expect is a continuation of the bitter argument which has produced a sharp ideological division between Moscow and Peking with a steady but slow worsening of relations between the two Communist governments.

The U.S. policy toward this cold war within the Red bloc is to sit by and see what happens; officials feel that any open effort to exploit the Communist differences would probably backfire.

Evidence is found in a Moscow broadcast to China last week that the Soviet leaders may now be trying to reach over the heads of the Red Chinese leaders and persuade the Chinese rank and file Communists that Soviet policy is right.

The broadcast, made in the classical Mandarin Chinese which is widely understood in China, demanded in effect that Communists everywhere recognize the primary position of the Soviet Communist party in leading the Red international movement.

The Moscow broadcast bitterly attacked the Communist rulers in Albania, who are supported by the Chinese Communist leaders, and predicted that "the Albanian people will overcome the danger created by the Albanian workers party leaders."

The broadcast has attracted considerable interest in the State Department and other government agencies where developments behind the Iron Curtain are under constant study.

Considerable interest also was aroused here in an editorial from the Chinese Communist newspaper Peoples Daily that made a bitter attack on President Kennedy's State of the Union message. Among other things the editorial indicated that the Chinese Reds are building up a new anti-American campaign—at a time when Soviet Premier Khrushchev still is talking about peaceful co-existence with the Western powers.

But the editorial was also considered significant here because the Chinese admitted in it that all is not well within the Communist bloc.

Kennedy has put his stakes on a split of the Socialist camp," the editorial said. "He and his ilk gloated over the dark clouds that temporarily overcast the Socialist camp; they openly indicated that the prospects were more encouraging than previously to the Western world."

What intrigued the government experts was the admission that "dark clouds temporarily overcast the Socialist camp." Just how dark they are is something that even the best informed men in the U.S. government are unsure of.

But the tendency in official quarters here is to discourage any hope of any real weakening in the Communist bloc or any early gain for the rest of the world from the dispute.

The reason is that Moscow and Peking are really arguing about the best way to try to bring the rest of the world under control.

Khrushchev's contention is that Communist strategy must rely on methods which fall short of nuclear war. Red Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung advocates a more militant and aggressive policy and is willing to risk all-out war if necessary to achieve his ends.

Moscow and Peking still agree, however, on their major goals and their hostility toward capitalism.

Court Decision Due By Mar. 16

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether an election of lieutenant governor will be held this year.

In order to have any effect, the ruling must be handed down by March 16, the deadline for filing for the primary and general elections.

State Sen. Max Thomas appealed to the Supreme Court from a ruling Saturday by Judge William Y. Bickett in Wake Superior Court.

In his appeal, he asked the court to advance the case on its docket. The Supreme Court is expected to rule Feb. 2 on whether to honor that request.

In a normal procedure, Wake County appeals are docketed for hearing April 10, nearly a month after the filing deadline. Judge Bickett ruled in favor of Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton who contended that the office of lieutenant governor, vacated last summer by the death of H. Cloyd Philpott, should go unfilled un-

House Okays Postage Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has tentatively approved a bill raising postage a penny per letter and increasing "junk mail" rates. Final action is expected today.

The bill raises first class and air mail rates by a penny, to 5 and 8 cents, for a total increase in those categories of $455 million. It also calls for $53 million more in the rates paid by newspapers and magazines, $171 million more in third-class rates—those used mostly by direct mail advertisers—and about $20 million more in miscellaneous increases.

All increases would be effective next July 1. It was in third-class rates the administration got more than it asked for. The administration and the House leadership, in a compromise bill, had asked for third-class increases totaling $93 million, which would have covered about 85 per cent of the handling cost of such mail.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., offered an amendment increasing the total to $171 million, covering full cost. A surge of resentment against bulk mail advertising—some called it "junk mail"—carried his proposal by a voice vote.

No More KP At Missile School

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Kitchen police is over for soldiers at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal.

Col. William J. Macpherson, the commandant of the school, said KP duty was taking too much time away from troops sent here for technical work on maintenance of missiles.

In the future, he said, civilian contractors will take over the job of washing dishes and swabbing floors.

Recover Body Of 7-Year-Old

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP)—The body of a 7-year-old boy, seventh victim of Sunday's avalanche on Colorado's highest mountain, was recovered Tuesday.

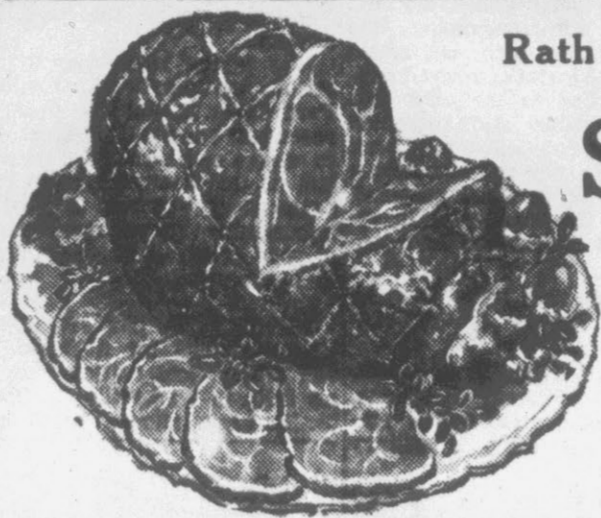

The body of Mike Adamich was found about 10 feet from where searchers found the body of his brother, Billy, 9, after the massive snowslide swept down 14,341-foot Mount Elbert and destroyed their home.

The boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Adamich, were rescued from the rubble.

Pentagon Censorship Probers Will Quiz General Who Felt Blue Pencil

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate group investigating muzzling charges against the Pentagon questions today one of the officers whose anti-Communist speeches were censored, Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau.

Censoring of Trudeau's speeches by the Defense Department was one of the main examples cited by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., in forcing the investigation by a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Thurmond complained of 10 instances in which, he said, anti-

Mortality Rate Of Elderly Cut

NEW YORK, N. Y.—More among older people has increased in the United States and in many other countries of the world in the last two decades, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

In the United States the death rate among white males at ages 65 and over dropped from 81.7 per 1,000 in 1936-40 to 72.2 in 1956-58. The corresponding reduction in the death rate among women was more rapid, having fallen in the same period from 68.9 to 51.5 per 1,000.

Comparing the sex differences in mortality trends at the older ages in this country, it is seen that the excess mortality of men compared with women rose between the two periods from a little less than 20 percent to 40 percent.

In other countries the mortality trend was not substantially different. In England and Wales, for example, mortality among the older men was 89.8 per 1,000 in the earlier period and 81.8 in 1956-58, while among females it decreased from 69.3 to 54.9.

The male death rates from 1936-40 to 1956-58 in other countries listed by the statisticians were:

Australia	81.0 to 78.0 per 1,000
New Zealand	74.3 to 72.1
Canada	71.9 to 67.3
France	96.4 to 75.6
Switzerland	89.7 to 74.1
Netherlands	73.4 to 62.2
Denmark	75.8 to 64.1
Norway	66.7 to 57.2
Sweden	72.7 to 64.0 per 1,000

Conservation Notes

WADIE T. WARD of Bethel, N.C. is thinning his wood as a part of the work toward completing his Basic Soil and Water Conservation Farm Plan. The woodland part of the plan was worked out with Wadie and the North Carolina Service Forester, in cooperation with the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District.

The pulpwood brings in cash, but the main benefit comes years from now, when the saw logs are sold.

Now is the ideal time to give serious consideration to woodland. Farm labor is available to do the necessary woodland treatment, also snakes and insects are no problem at this season. Proper management of woodland is just as important as proper management of your cropland, if maximum is to be realized.

VANCE T. COREY JR. applied to the district for a Basic Soil and Water Conservation plan for his farm in Winterville Community. His basic interest was to drain money required in sowing a cover crop to do the same job.

Also she plans to leave this crop residue on the surface in summer. This increases bacteria action in the soil, and also soil moisture. This practice keeps the soil cooler and also helps open up tight soils.

ARCH FLANAGAN of Farmville, chairman of the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District has announced that the following farmer's applications have been approved for Basic Soil and Water Conservation Farm Plans:

Ernest Carraway, J. R. Taylor, Bertha B. Weisner, Emmett J. Whitaker, James E. Bullock and Vance T. Corey.

Caught Up In Maze Of Tickets

OKLAHOMA CITY — A traffic violator explained in traffic court he was issued more tickets than he could handle.

The first was a traffic ticket, which he mailed with the fine to the traffic court clerk with instructions he be mailed a receipt.

Somehow his money wound up at Municipal Auditorium and he was mailed a ticket to the stage production of "The World of Suzie Wong."

The judge allowed the man to apply the purchase price of his theater ticket to his traffic fine.

Good Neighbor Policy Talked At Rotary Meet

AYDEN — "The Possibilities Next Door," a discussion of a good-neighbor policy between the U. S. and Canada and Mexico, was the topic of Bob Booth's talk at the Ayden Rotary Club meeting here last Thursday.

Booth, who presented his own program as chairman for the meeting, asked the question, "What do we really know about our neighbors to the north and south of us?"

Both used as the basis of his comments a recent issue of "The Rotarian." He concluded with the question, "How far are we willing to cooperate to make the world safe for all people?"

Guests for the evening included three Greenville Rotarians, Joe Taft, Bill Taft and Lyman Ormond Jr.

On Monday, about 10 members of the Ayden Club attended a meeting in Greenville.

Three Honor Grade Prisoners Flee Pitt Work Unit

GRIFTON—A search is continuing today for three honor grade Pitt County unit prisoners who ran from a work unit near Hanrahan about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Captain L. F. Dail, superintendent of the Pitt prison, identified the three as Marvin Tew, 27, of Kinston; Warren Ray Thompson, 26, of Swansboro; and Lloyd Brannock, 30, whose home is Winston-Salem.

The three jumped from the rear of a state truck near C. P. Jackson's Store, according to Capt. Dail.

Owner of the auto was listed as George Davis of Grifton.

The superintendent said there is no proof that the three took the vehicle but noted the probability is very high.

The car was reported taken sometime before 7:30.

Tew had served about 15 months of a five-to-nine-year sentence for breaking, entering and larceny. He was sentenced from Greene County.

Thyson, who would have been released May 1 from a three-to-five-year term for breaking and entering, was convicted in Onslow County. Brannock was serving a seven-to-10-year sentence from Winston-Salem for forgery and larceny of an auto.

All three had been trustees for some time, according to Capt. Dail.
