Arrest Quickly Followed Theft At Farmville Store

FARMVILLE — A 23-year-old Farmville Negro was in jail here today under $500 bond facing charges of taking merchandise valued at $150 from a local jewelry store Thursday night.

Eddie Mack Diggins, George Street resident, was arrested at his home about 9:05 p.m. Thursday after three watches, a birthstone ring and a pair of earrings were taken through the broken display window of Marvin's Jewelry Store on Main Street here. Diggins' arrest, made by Farmville officers Lyman Eason and Elbert Hawkins, came about 20 minutes after the robbery, according to Farmville Chief H. E. Epps.

A hearing was set for Diggins tomorrow morning at 9:30 in Farmville Mayor's Court.

Chief Epps said the goods taken from the store's window were recovered at Diggins home. He said the thief was pursued as he ran from the scene. According to the chief, the display window was broken with the robber's shoe and the merchandise was taken through the broken glass pane. The store, Chief Epps noted, was not entered by the thief.

Epps praised the rapid work of the Farmville officers in arresting Diggins.

The store is owned and operated by Mrs. D. R. Marvin of Farmville.

Ambassador To Cuba Recalled By Argentina

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina today recalled ambassador Julio Amoedo from Cuba, the Foreign Ministry announced.

The step had been expected as President Arturo Frondizi sought to appease military critics of his soft line toward the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba at the recent inter-American foreign ministers' conference.

Recalling the ambassador does not constitute a diplomatic break, but morning newspapers here had suggested that the crisis between the president and the nation's leading military men was nearing an end. They predicted a gradual break in relations with Cuba.

However, many officers were reported still demanding the immediate complete break which the nation's military leadership demanded in an ultimatum to the president Thursday night.

The latest crisis for Frondizi's government, now in its fourth year, stemmed from Argentina's refusal at the inter-American conference earlier this week to vote with the U.S.-supported majority to oust the Castro regime from the Organization of American States.

Published reports said the service chiefs had threatened to resign unless Frondizi swings his foreign policy to the right, breaks with Cuba and fires Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Carona and other officials responsible for putting Argentina in the go-slow bloc at the inter-American conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

McNamara has ordered his staff not to answer any questions which would reveal the identity of individuals who censored specific speeches of military officers denouncing communism.

Some of the censoring is under vigorous fire in the inquiry. Stennis announced today that he and some other subcommittee members would meet with McNamara in Stennis' office. McNamara had suggested the meeting in an effort to resolve the conflict.

The Defense Department says it censors speeches because of presidential directives requiring that public statements of government people, military or civilian, be cleared in advance to make sure they don't conflict with national policy.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., forced the investigation with charges that censoring has muzzled those who want to denounce communism.

W. C. Taylor Jr. appeared before the council at its last meeting to request annexation of his property and lots between his and the city limits. He presented a petition requesting annexation signed by the property owners.

The matter was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission and the annexation was subsequently approved by that body.

U. S. May Ask Allies Back Stand

Full-Scale Isolation Of Cuba Is Expected Goal Of American Govm't

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was expected today to direct prompt and urgent appeals to its NATO allies and other Allied countries to cooperate with the newly-adopted inter-American policy of isolating Cuba.

The U.S. government itself is reported ready to make more extensive use of its naval forces in an effort to cut off Cuban arms shipments to subversive groups in other Latin-American countries.

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk also are looking into the possibility of slapping a total embargo on U.S. trade with Cuba, one effect of which would be to deny Cuba a source of income amounting to about $15 million a year at the present rate of trade.

In connection with the possible abolition of all trade with Cuba, Rusk charged Thursday at a news conference that Cuba was using American dollars to promote subversion in other countries. He didn't explain the remark.

The possibility of some move by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro against the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo is also under careful watch here, it was learned. In event of serious harassment, U.S. dependents at the big base would be brought home.

Three huge aircraft carrier, the Enterprise, Forrestal and Constellation, are cruising in the Caribbean and could be deployed speedily in the Guantanamo area if necessary.

Officials discount the chance of a Castro decision to attack Guantanamo directly since that would involve open conflict with the United States. But a battalion of Marines is said to be in the vicinity of the base in case trouble brings a need for reinforcements. More could quickly be flown in from Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Seeking Avoid All-Out Clash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said today he will try to see whether "something short of an all out clash" with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara over Pentagon censorship is possible.

Stennis said sternly, however, that his special subcommittee investigating censorship practices "is going to assert itself" in demanding information which McNamara has forbidden subordinates to give the group.

McNamara has ordered his staff not to answer any questions which would reveal the identity of individuals who censored specific speeches of military officers denouncing communism.

Area Is Accepted By City Council For 'Upgrading'

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

An area west of Dickinson Ave. and Greene St. was accepted by the City Council last night as the first section for upgrading under the neighborhood conservation ordinances.

John Barnhill, a member of the Neighborhood Conservation Committee, appeared before the council to submit its recommendation for the area. He said it is bounded by Greene St. and Dickinson Ave. to West End Circle, then by Memorial Drive to the Tar River and then back to Greene St. This excludes the portion of the Shore Drive Redevelopment area which overlaps, he indicated.

"We don't want anybody in the area to feel we picked out the worst part of town," he declared.

He said the committee simply felt this was the best place to start, "the best place to inspire other areas to improve."

Mayor Charles M. King asked if the portion of Shore Drive which lies in the Neighborhood conservation area was excluded.

"We are not concerned with the area over which there has been so much discussion," he answered. "Along with whatever is done to the area you are referring to, we feel this program should be carried on."

The Shore Drive Redevelopment program is being done with the Federal government paying a portion of the cost. Its borders extend from a ravine east of Side St. to the ACL railroad. However, recent plans have dropped the portion on Third St. from Pitt to the railroad.

Final payment to the contractor for installation of a heat pump in Sheppard Memorial Library was authorized by the council last night subject to the mayor determining the installation is satisfactory.

Action was taken after Mayor Charles M. King reported that he had received word from a consulting engineer that the job was acceptable.

Mayor King said items cited by the engineer have been corrected and "it looks like everything is in good order."

The mayor was asked if the Library Board is satisfied. He replied that he would see the board "but I feel we should take the engineer's word."

The Library Board had requested an inspection by an outside heating engineer and the Council subsequently retained a Wilson firm to make the inspection.

Councilmen tabled a request for annexation of a section of property at the intersection of Memorial Drive and the Stanfordsburg Road at the western city limits.

W. C. Taylor Jr. appeared before the council at its last meeting to request annexation of his property and lots between his and the city limits. He presented a petition requesting annexation signed by the property owners.

The matter was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission and the annexation was subsequently approved by that body.

Mayor King said the area should be re-submitted with a proper plat as a subdivision. Both City Engineer C. A. Holiday and City Attorney R. B. Lee indicated they were of the opinion that the area was not technically a subdivision.

Taylor is presently building a brick warehouse on the property to be used for furniture storage and offices for his business, ABC Moving and Storage.

Councilmen took under study the purchasing of rescue ambulances for the Greenville Rescue Squad.

Councilman James Lee told the group that the squad presently has two trucks on a loan basis from White Chevrolet Co. and Stafford Oldsmobile Co.

Changes in this arrangement are expected to be made and Lee suggested that Mayor King should look into Neighborhood Conservation Committee chairman Charles Cobb for his efforts on the plan. He said Cobb did most of the work in preparing the recommendations.

Cobb explained that with council approval of the area, his committee would consult the Planning and Zoning Commission, the Recreation Commission, the Utilities and other planning bodies for their recommendations. Then if the FHHA approves, the area will be certified for long-term FHA loans as an assisted urban renewal project.

Cobb has already appeared before the Planning and Zoning Commission concerning street planning in the area. At that time he said that the city would be divided into five basic areas for neighborhood conservation purposes. This will be the first of the five areas.

Councilmen adopted a neighborhood conservation ordinance at the Dec. 14 meeting of the City Council. The ordinance was originally proposed last March during the urban renewal public housing referendum campaign.

Among its requirements are inside running water, tub or shower, toilet, adequate wiring and heating, screens, structural soundness and minimum room sizes.

There are also penalties provided for occupants who do not keep the premises clean or who maliciously damage facilities.

The ordinance provides for the hiring of an inspector to carry out the program. A $50 fine is provided for each day of offense under the requirements of the ordinance. Damage to property carries a $50 fine for each offense.

the matter and recommend some action to the council.

Jimmy Smith, captain of the Greenville Rescue Squad, then recommended to the council that it purchase trucks from White Chevrolet and Stafford. He said the two companies had agreed to sell the vehicles to the city at cost.

Smith reported the city would obtain a GMC truck which lists for $2,950 at a price of $2,229 and a Chevrolet listing at $2,903.46 for $2,276.53, resulting in a $1,248 savings to the city.

Mayor King pointed out that the council could not legally promise to budget funds in the 1962-63 budget until the overall budget is prepared.

However, the councilmen indicated individually that they would be in favor of purchasing the vehicles when the next fiscal year's budget is prepared.

Council also approved a proposal by James Lee that the city call on the Underwriters Bureau to survey the city and recommend a site of a new fire station.

Funds have already been voted for a station in east Greenville in a bond issue. Lee said he had consulted with Fire Chief George Gardner on the matter.

Chief Gardner said he agreed it would be best for the Fire Underwriters to work with the city on the location.

Paris Is Alerted To Block Coup

Tanks And Riot Police Standing By To Forestall Secret Army Attempt

PARIS (AP) — French army tanks converged on Paris today to forestall any attempt by the right-wing Secret Army to overthrow President Charles de Gaulle as reports of an imminent peace pact for Algeria persisted.

With mounted machine guns, two squadrons totaling 32 tanks moved on the capital to give armored support to 25,000 riot police alerted against the threat of an uprising by the rightist underground.

De Gaulle will address the nation by radio and television Monday night in what 'shaped up as a crucial statement on the long secret negotiations with the Algerian Nationalist Liberation Front to end the seven-year rebellion.

French public opinion was being prepared for a deal with the rebels to carry out De Gaulle's policy of putting Algeria on the path to independence.

Well-informed diplomatic sources said the agreement already had been drafted and needed only the formal signatures of both sides.

France's allies reportedly have been notified that the De Gaulle regime seriously fears an attempted coup by the right-wing extremists either in France or Algeria—or in both places—when the peace accord is announced.

There were reports that some French officials hoped to provoke the Secret Army into an uprising in advance of a peace announcement on the theory that a premature putsch would be easier to crush—at least in metropolitan France.

Security forces also were reinforced in hotbeds of rightist terrorism in Algeria. Two hundred crack assault commandos moved into Algiers Thursday to reinforce French troops already put on emergency footing.

The Algerian rebel cabinet was meeting today in Tunis, reportedly to take up the projected peace accord before putting it before a special session of the National Revolutionary Council—a sort of rebel parliament—in Tripoli within the next two weeks.

Approval by the French Parliament is not necessary. In a referendum in 1961 the French voters gave De Gaulle a free hand on Algerian policy.

Diplomatic sources said the draft agreement would provide:

A transitional period of six months during which Algeria would be governed by a French-Moslem provisional executive. It would organize and supervise the referendum to let the territory choose its political future, and the Moslem majority in the territory is certain to choose independence.

French troops would remain in Algeria until the post-independence government raises its own forces for the maintenance of law and order.

European residents of Algeria would have the option of choosing either Algerian or French nationality.

More Messages Being Prepared

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy plans to send Congress next week messages on communication satellites, defense and civil defense, and education, the White House reports.

Pierre Salinger, press secretary, said Thursday that the exact dates are still to be fixed. He declined to speculate on the contents other than to say the defense message would emphasize civil defense.

Pitt County Firemen's Ass'n Maps Plans For Improvement

BETHEL — The Pitt County Firemen's Association in session here Thursday honored its first president, Delton E. Perry of Bethel, and mapped plans designed to improve the effectiveness of the county's firefighting units.

Perry was presented a plaque in recognition of his services in aiding the organization of the association. He served as president for the association's first two years. Current President Roy Hardee of Greenville made the presentation.

In other matters, the association renewed a request for an official committee to study rural fire protection in the county, began a study of traffic congestion problems at fire sites, and initiated an exploratory study of a possible county-wide communications network.

The association had previously asked the County Commissioners to appoint a special committee to study problems of fire fighting organizations throughout the county. Its action last night requested again that the Commissioners report on the status of the requested committee.

Hilary Phelps of the Simpson Fire Department was named chairman of the committee to study the possibility of establishing the county-wide communications system.

Perry of the Bethel Department and Gentry Porter of the Simpson Department were appointed co-chairmen of the committee to appraise the traffic problems. In naming the committee, Hardee said, "This problem is beginning to get out of hand and just this past week one department was delayed in reaching the scene of a fire."

The study group is expected to meet with various law enforcement officials to attempt formulation of a plan to control rural traffic at fire scenes.

The firemen heard a report on the first annual pump school held in Greenville in December.

A total of 25 men attended the school and the project has been approved as an annual event.

Chief Ed Hemingway of the Station House Department was appointed chairman of the Spring Firemanship Training School. Other committee members will be selected from county departments. The event, attended by more than 100 Pitt firemen last year, is scheduled prior to the beginning of tobacco harvest season this year.

It was announced that the Pitt association will furnish fire protection for the Pitt District Scout Exposition to be held in Greenville Feb. 10.

Last night's meeting recognized three firemen in the county who have been elected officers of the Eastern Carolina Firemen's Association: Win Donat of Farmville, president; Curtis Flanagan of Farmville, treasurer; and Roy Hardee of Greenville, secretary.

A program of slides showing various Pitt County fires was presented by President Hardee and a discussion was held on proper methods of controlling fire situations represented in the slides.

The next meeting of the Pitt Association is scheduled for April 12 at Mt. Pleasant Church.

SNOW HILL, N.C. (AP)—Democrat Herbert Hardy of Green County announced today he will seek his fourth term in the State House of Representatives.

Gov. Sanford recently appointed Hardy as a safety officer for the Highway Department. The Governor said he will grant Hardy's leave of absence without pay should Hardy be re-elected.

Impact Of Flu Is Still Being Felt By City Schools

City school enrollment is still feeling the impact of flu, with 418 students absent from classes today.

The picture in county schools is still sparse, with only Winterville reporting a large number of cases. Their total was 57 for yesterday, Superintendent D. H. Conley said. Grimesland was next highest in absenteeism, reporting 15. Several schools, including Chilch, Falkland and Sally Branch, reported no absences due to flu. Ayden, Grifton and Farmville schools were not checked.

Total absences in city schools this week have declined from the situation on Monday, but since then have remained about the same. On Monday, day of greatest absenteeism in city schools, 523 students were out.

Tuesday, 434 were absent; Wednesday, 412; and yesterday, 390.

The absences today included 175 white and 243 Negro in the city.

No Kisses For Miss America

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Miss America and Vancouver's official greeter swayed toward each other for a light buss on the cheek at the airport. It didn't come off.

"Here now," snapped chaperone Angela Petchsch, "there'll be no kisses."

Blushed Miss America, Maria Beale Fletcher of Asheville, N.C.: "It was slightly embarrassing."

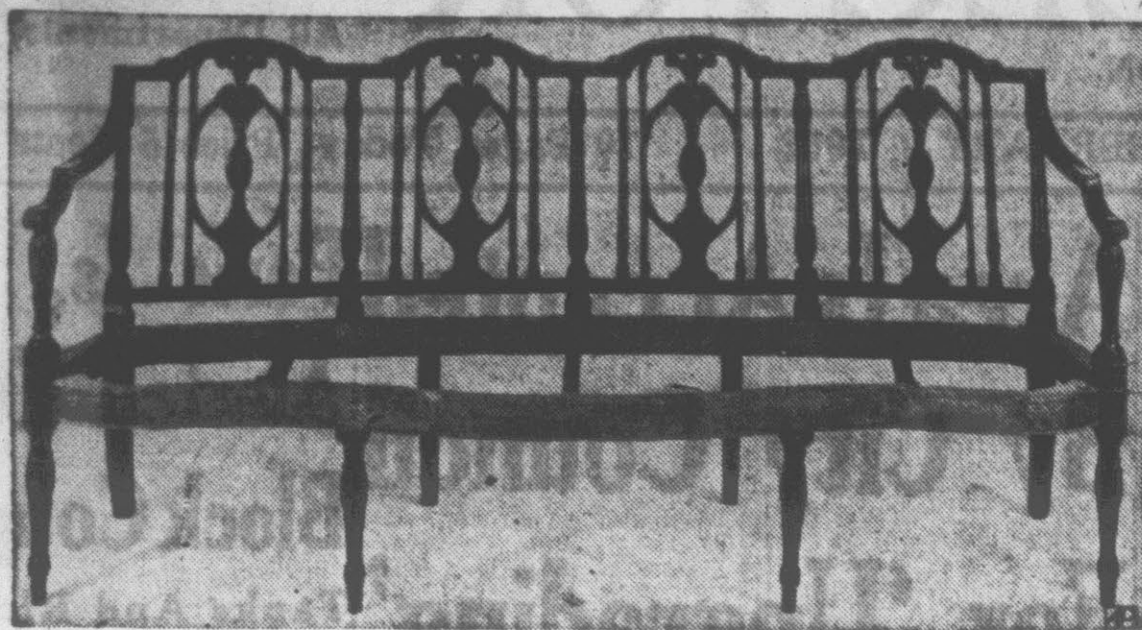

"Really disappointing," murmured Alderman Frank Baker. Grey-haired Miss Petchsch remarked that "kissing strangers is not becoming for our Miss America. It's downright undignified."

Miss America arrived Thursday for a two-day fashion show.

NO PLACE TO SIT DOWN . . . But this situation will be corrected before this bowed back Sheraton mahogany settee, made about 1800, finds its proper place in the White House. Antique collectors consider a complete set of this Federalist period a rare find.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Two bottomless seating pieces and a clock inspired by a Boston lighthouse will probably find their way eventually to the Red or Green Rooms of the White House.

These rare antiques were presented by the Americana Foundation, established two years ago by Detroit industrialist Adolph H. Meyer to preserve authentic American art.

Mrs. Lorraine Pearce, White House curator, confirmed the White House Fine Arts Committee's acceptance.

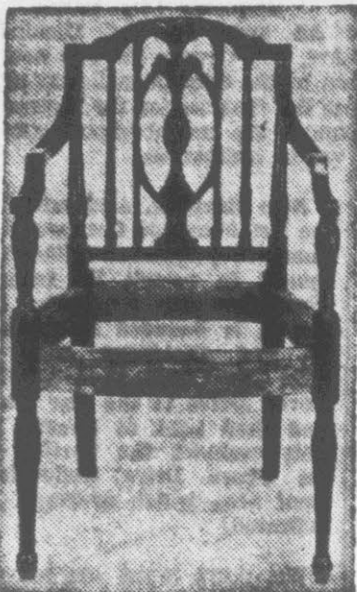

"Mrs. Kennedy was just delighted," Mrs. Pearce said of the First Lady's reaction to news of the gifts in Washington.

The gifts include a five-piece Sheraton mahogany set made in Philadelphia, circa 1800-1810. It will be refinished according to the wishes of the Fine Arts Committee.

Because the furniture is of the Federalist period, a spokesman of the foundation said, they presumed that the pieces would eventually become a part of the decorating scheme in either the Red or the Green Room of the White House.

Israel Sack Inc., New York antique specialists who obtained the set, claims it is an important example of Philadelphia classical furniture because it is possibly the only complete set of its kind in existence.

FOR HER TV APPEARANCE . . . Mrs. John F. Kennedy wears two-piece red nubby wool dress as she conducts audience on White House tour.

One dress in the First Lady's wardrobe seems destined for repeated public attention.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy conducts a television audience on a tour of the redecorated White House Feb. 14, she'll be wearing a dark red nubby wool two-piece dress by Chez Ninon.

Chez Ninon, a New York custom dress salon that has made other apparel for Mrs. Kennedy, says it's the same dress she quickly changed a couple of months ago to avoid one of those embarrassing fashion incidents all women dread.

That was when Mrs. William S. Paley, wife of the chairman of the board of the Columbia Broadcasting System showed up for tea at the White House in an outfit almost exactly like the one Mrs. Kennedy was about to wear to receive her. The only difference was a more pronounced cowl neckline on Mrs. Paley's dress. The First Lady wore a two-piece black velvet to tea.

The red wool has a slim A-line, bateau neckline, side-buttoned overblouse and slot-seamed flared skirt. She's worn it on several public occasions.

Mrs. Kennedy's accessories for the taped TV presentation consist of a triple strand of pearls, which she tucks inside the neckline, and gold earrings. Black lizard pumps with a bow and medium heel complete her costume.

The tour, on which she's accompanied by CBS news correspondent Charles Collingwood, covers the principal rooms on the ground floor and the first and second floors of the White House.

Dr. Batten Club Speaker

The Round Table Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. R. Browning in Brookgreen.

Mrs. Fountain, president, called the meeting to order and then turned the program over to Mrs. Browning, leader for the afternoon. Mrs. Browning in turn introduced Dr. James W. Batten, Dept. of Education, E.C.C., as the speaker. Dr. Batten helped train the astronauts. His topic for the afternoon was "The Space Age," continuing the club's study for the year of "The New Frontiers." Dr. Batten gave several illustrations to help define space and what one might expect to find in outer space. He felt that exploration of space might lead to the future progress on the earth.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. Browning served a delicious dessert plate attractively decorated with rosette favors.

Mrs. Douglas Jones was guest for the afternoon.

CHAPEL HILL—Mrs. Lucille Tucker, Mrs. Elvin R. Jones, Mrs. John C. Coughlan, and Mrs. Edwin D. Griffith of the Pitt County Health Department are attending an institute on "Nursing in Radiation in the Atomic Age" at the University of North Carolina School of Nursing.

There are some 150 nurses attending the institute from throughout North Carolina and neighboring states.

The institute, one of a series of continuation education programs offered by the UNC School of Nursing, is designed for professional nurses and allied health workers.

Dr. Albert Marshall, a member of the Indiana State Board of Health, states that the chief preventive of dread infectious hepatitis is frequent and thorough washing of the hands with plenty of soap—especially before meals.

Thanks to the energetic, 24-year-old Aga Khan, some of Europe's gilded set have had skis on for the first time ever this season. The handsome Aga Khan, one of the world's richest and most eligible bachelors, can be approached only on the ski slopes.

He is never seen in the apres-ski lounges or at the after-dark diversions of this glittering winter resort. But he spends every moment on the slopes.

Now he has achieved his life's dream—he has been picked to represent Britain in the World Ski Championships at Chamonix next month. In the process, Aga Khan has made it fashionable and sporting to be seen on skis instead of bar stools.

Those following his example include the Earl of Warwick, who has built a new chalet in Gstaad and makes all of his daytime appointments for the ski slopes. Lord Bruntisfield, the British is a patient at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville.

Miss Martha Hart, a student at UNC in Chapel Hill is here for a few days following examinations at her home on Dupont Street.

Miss Marian Nelson returned to Wake Forest in Winston-Salem on Tuesday after a weekend visit with her mother, Mrs. Richard Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McLawhorn have returned to Raleigh after a weekend here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke McLawhorn and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jackson.

shipping magnate, also has a new chalet and policy of avoiding apres-ski sociability.

The Duke of Kent has just arrived with a group of British Army friends and the Duke, too, is cultivating the company of Aga Khan on the slopes.

There are more stunning international beauties at Gstaad this season than ever in the past, and many are linked by the avid local gossip with Aga Khan. All of which annoys him enormously.

For four years the young leader of 12 million Ismail Moslems has been working with almost fanatical dedication on his job. But he finds it difficult to live down the playboy reputation of his late father, Aly Khan.

Karim Aga Khan complains, "Some people, and particularly some newspapers, refuse to believe that I am more interested in my work than in young women."

"Almost every month one newspaper or another reports I am engaged or about to become engaged to this girl or that. Sometimes I've never met the girl involved. The truth is that I am busy with my work — too busy even to think of marrying now."

Aside from the few months of the year he spends on the ski slopes, Aga Khan devotes his full time to his position as 49th Imam, or spiritual leader, of the 12 million Ismail Moslems scattered throughout Africa, the Middle East and central Asia on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Since 1957, he has traveled 350,000 miles in 22 countries, visiting his followers or on Ismaili business.

Handling his own affairs could be a full-time job for the Aga Khan, if he chose to make it so. For he inherited an estate worth nearly a billion dollars.

But what about Aga Khan's romances? For many months now the girl most often seen with him is Annouchka von Mecks, 20, a Parisian beauty and art student whose parents were members of the Russian Czarist nobility.

It is said that if they marry, as many predict they will, then she will already have learned the art of staying in the background. Wherever there is Aga Khan, there is, it seems, Annouchka — but well in the background.

It is that way now at Gstaad. She is at Gstaad, but she makes no effort to compete with the ski slopes for his time during the days. Most people here think it is his seriousness about his religious duties that causes the Aga Khan to be so reticent about his affection for Miss Mecks.

Mrs. Rockefeller Arrives In Reno; Divorce Assumed

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller has arrived in this divorce capital—apparently to end her 31-year marriage to New York's governor in a quick and quiet way.

They separated in New York several months ago.

Mrs. Rockefeller's attorney, William K. Woodburn or Reno, would not confirm that she came to Nevada for a divorce. "She's here in Reno—period," he said after her arrival Thursday night.

Woodburn, a former Democratic national committeeman, has handled many divorce cases but is not generally known as a divorce specialist.

Six weeks' residence in Nevada is required for filing suit for divorce, which may be granted by a county judge on many grounds.

Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York state, and many New Yorkers establish residence in other states to obtain divorces on different grounds.

Rockefeller is in Des Moines, Iowa, where he attended a Republican dinner Thursday night, and was not immediately available for comment on his wife's move.

Mrs. Rockefeller was accompanied by her widowed sister, Mrs. Philip Wallis of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., a fashionable suburb of Philadelphia. Mrs. Rockefeller flew from New York to San Francisco. Woodburn met her at San Francisco and drove her on a 300-mile trip here because fog made air travel impossible.

Neither Rockefeller, 53, nor his wife, 54, has given any public hint of the cause of the breakup of their marriage. They had five children and eight grandchildren.

Their separation—described as amicable—was announced by a family spokesman last Nov. 17.

Two days later they were struck

Chicod Pupil Is Essay Winner

Linda Evans, with an essay entitled "How Industry Is Dependent upon Agriculture," was selected winner of the Cooperative Essay Contest at Chicod School on Tuesday.

Competing in the Cooperative Essay Contest sponsored by the F.F.A. was Douglas Cashion, representing the F.F.A. Cashion was second place winner.

The award was made last week at Coastal Plain's home offices in Rocky Mount when the annual meeting of managers, assistant managers and special agents was held.

Bullock began his employment with the company in 1948, shortly after it was incorporated. At present there are 14 men working out of the Greenville office under the supervision of W. M. Tucker and H. S. Hardee, assistant managers.

The Greenville office was also recognized by President W. W. Shaw for outstanding service to the people of Pitt County. He noted that the Greenville district is the second largest in the state.

Both students were commended on their presentations by the judges, Mrs. Oethia Brickhouse, Mrs. Kloth, Cain and Mrs. Frances Edwards.

This contest is open to any rural boy or girl not over 21 years of age and who is enrolled in regular high school work. Requirements are that the essay be not less than 1,200 words or more than 1,500 words on a subject selected each year by the board of directors. Essays are written under supervision of a home economics or vocational agriculture instructor, county agricultural agent or home economics agent.

The state winner will receive a prize of a one-year college tuition scholarship and $350 in cash. In addition, substantial cash awards will be made to runner-ups in the state finals and to district and county winners.

School winners are given a special medal.

The Rockefeller family were living apart when the separation and divorce plans were announced.

Mrs. Rockefeller, the former Mary Todhunter Clark of Philadelphia, is heiress to a railroad fortune. Her maternal grandfather was George Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad for many years.

Her personal wealth, however, ranks far below the millions that have come to her husband from the vast fortune started by his grandfather, oil king John D. Rockefeller.

The separation announcement said a property settlement had been reached. The terms were not disclosed.

Grand Jury And 2 Commissioners Enjoyed Dinner

Members of the Pitt County Grand Jury and a pair of County Commissioners were treated to ham, collards and cornbread Tuesday at the Pitt County Home.

Horace Hardee, superintendent of the county's institution for the aged and infirm, invited the 18-member body and the county commissioners to the luncheon, spread before the officials by Nelson Hopkins, a veteran caterer.

The reaction of the Grand Jury's foreman, Charles L. McLawhorn of Winterville: "It was a real good dinner. All of us enjoyed it very much."

Following the meal, whose menu also included chicken stew, cheese biscuits and potato pie, the Grand Jury made its regular inspection of the premises.

"We inspected and found the county home in good shape," McLawhorn said.

Pitt Health Director Is Speaker At Belvoir School

BELVOIR—Outstanding students were recognized yesterday and awards presented during a student assembly at Belvoir High School, with Dr. John Futrell, Pitt County health director, making the presentations. Later, Dr. Futrell was presented as speaker for the afternoon.

The student of the month, selected by teachers on the bases of scholarship, cooperation and attitude, was Becky Harris.

Students selected by teachers in each department for the best work during the six-week period are as follows: Becky Harris, English; Beverly Gaynor, English; Waylan Whitley, foreign language; Ray Harrell, math; Alan Witherington, social studies; Dorothy Clark, business department; Audrey Harris, home economics; Chuck Mangione, agriculture; Paul Bright, science; Barbara Rackley and Jimmy Bell, health and physical education.

Recognition for the best kept room in high school went to the 11th grade homeroom of Mr. Warren. The grade in high school with highest average was homeroom 10B, with an average of 86.1.

Principal Ed Warren introduced Dr. Futrell as guest speaker.

Dr. Futrell discussed the importance of good posture, cleanliness, dental attention and especially adequate sleep and balanced diets for teenagers.

To eradicate disease, Dr. Futrell said the public must modify the environment in addition to having early diagnosis and treatment for disease. By modification of environment, he explained, he meant public attitude, such as public acceptance and use of the polio immunization before the disease could be eradicated. Community immunity is also important, he said.

Good grooming is necessary for good health. Dr. Futrell told his audience. Though skin diseases, and acne in particular, often require doctor's help, students can do much at home to help acne by drinking water, shampooing their scalps twice a week and washing their faces twice daily.

In the modern day, there is great need to continue education beyond high school, Dr. Futrell said, for girls as well as for boys. Dr. Futrell complimented the program of driver's education used at the school.

Discussing the value of developing a feeling of well being, Dr. Futrell said, "I put a premium on happiness."

During the years of rapid teenage growth, high protein, well balanced diets are good for health, along with the adequate sleep and cleanliness habits.

Student Council Vice President Sue Pierce opened the meeting and recognized devotion leaders Frances Stepps and Ann Proctor. The Senior Glee Club rendered "Oklahoma," "Kentucky Babe" and "Climb Every Mountain."

Milk Producers Of Nine Counties Meet Here, Discuss Consumer Use

Some 40 milk producers from nine Eastern counties met here Tuesday to consider means of promoting consumer use of dairy products.

The dairymen, members of an area milk-producers association formed for promotion purposes, heard a discussion by Dr. Joe Pou, vice president and agricultural manager of the Greenville office of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co.

An annual meeting, Tuesday's session included representatives from Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Edgecombe, Greene, Lenoir, Craven, Hyde and Onslow Counties.

Dr. Pou stressed the value of dairy products as important elements of a nutritious diet. He said dairymen should associate themselves to employ modern promotional techniques.

The producers, according to Errell Webb of Carolina Dairy, Inc., Greenville dairy products company, produced milk during December valued at $95,000.

H. Van Dorp of Terra Ceia in Beaufort County is president of the producers' association. Burney Baker of Pactivus and Charles L. McLawhorn of Winterville, two of at least 14 Pitt County dairymen, are Pitt's representatives on the organization's board of directors.

Japan Avoiding Any Involvement

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch government apparently has been forced to change flight schedules for planes carrying military personnel to West New Guinea because Japan refuses to let them land in Tokyo.

A defense ministry spokesman said only that the personnel will be flown by an undisclosed route at unannounced times.

A Japanese foreign official spokesman said in Tokyo earlier that a request for the landing of chartered KLM planes carrying Dutch military personnel had been turned down.

Tokyo informants said Japan indicated it did not want to be involved in the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert told senators Thursday he hopes tests can start by the end of this year on the 2,000-mile-an-hour B70.

Zuckert said the big bomber "could be the next generation of flying machines."

Testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee, Zuckert said the plane's "indicated performance is in line with our feeling that the manned military aircraft has not reached the ceiling or limit of its capabilities."

Deny Plans To Invite Tito

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said Thursday there is no plan to invite Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia to visit this country.

The award was made last week at Coastal Plain's home offices in Rocky Mount when the annual meeting of managers, assistant managers and special agents was held.

Bullock began his employment with the company in 1948, shortly after it was incorporated. At present there are 14 men working out of the Greenville office under the supervision of W. M. Tucker and H. S. Hardee, assistant managers.

He won membership in the Investors Sales Executive Club for this achievement. He also received membership in the Presidents Club for 1962, an honor group of Investors leading sales representatives.

Cooperation Of Area Is Urged

Residents of the Winterville and Chicod areas have been urged to cooperate with the Ayden visit of the bloodmobile on Feb. 12, blood program chairman Kenneth Whichard stated today.

Persons in the Winterville and Chicod areas are being asked to give blood in Ayden, rather than in Greenville, for this collection. The bloodmobile will be stationed in Ayden at the Community Building from 12 noon until 6 p.m., on Monday, Feb. 12, with Tom Wheless and Grady Dixon in charge of operations.

Persons in the Greenville area who participate in the club program have been asked to fill out their pledge cards and return them to the Red Cross office here in care of Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, executive secretary.

Fullest cooperation is being asked Greenville citizens on the coming visit, since the bloodmobile will not return to Greenville proper until June 27.

On April 24, the bloodmobile will visit Grifton and on April 25 it will be stationed at East Carolina College. Farmville is scheduled for a visit June 26.

Their sales proficiency placed them among the top third of all Lincoln-Mercury salesmen and earned them special recognition.

Pitt Has Case Of Meningitis; Child Improving

A three-month-old child suffering from meningitis was reported "making progress" at Pitt Memorial Hospital today.

The child's condition is improving, Pitt County health director Dr. John Futrell said. The organism causing the meningitis was described as meningococcal.

The case was revealed through a routine check with the Pitt Health Department, since meningitis is a reportable disease. Dr. Futrell noted that modern antibiotics have reduced the danger of this disease.

As for other reportable diseases, there are still some cases of infectious hepatitis being reported in the county, as well as measles.

Egg Noodle Must Involve An Egg

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—To be an egg noodle, an egg noodle must have egg in the noodle, says the U.S. government.

Or, as the Food and Drug Administration said after seizing and condemning 26 tons of noodles Thursday: "The noodles were 'adulterated' in that the 'valuable constituent egg or egg yolk had been wholly or in part omitted therefrom.'"

The government said the noodles made by the Paramont Macaroni Manufacturing Co. of Brooklyn, N.Y., were labeled "egg noodles" but didn't contain the required minimum of 5 percent egg solids or egg yolk.

Airlines Raise Domestic Fares

WASHINGTON (AP)—All the 11 U.S. domestic trunk airlines raised their passenger fares 3 percent Thursday.

Most of the 13 local-service airlines also increased fares, but not all of them took full advantage of the 3 percent hike authorized by the Civil Aeronautics board last Dec. 28.

In the Dec. 28 ruling authorizing a 3 percent increase for a six-month trial period, the CAB suspended a proposal of United Air Lines to increase fares 6 1/2 percent, and plans of six other trunk airlines for other increases.

Twist Outdraws Survival Course

At the same time the board announced an "individual and family survival course" given free under Civil Defense sponsorship.

With only six persons signing up for survival, the school canceled the course.

Sight 2 Whales Close To Shore

MARINELAND, Fla. (AP)—Two large black whales were sighted just outside the breakers in the Atlantic Ocean off Marine-land.

F. G. Wood Jr., curator of Marine Studios, identified them as North Atlantic Right whales—so named because oldtime whalers considered them the right kind of whale oil.

He said the whales normally migrate south in the winter but rarely come close to shore.

One of those sighted Thursday was about 5 to 60 feet long and the other about 25 feet.

Blast Of Sirens Rip Missiles In Durability Test

DENVER (AP)—You've heard of ear-splitting noises.

Three sirens built at the Martin Co. plant southwest of Denver could do more than split eardrums. The concentrated blast of sound from any one of them could tear a man to pieces if he got in front of the horn.

Men working around the sirens during tests wear protective headgear similar to football helmets.

Martin engineers, who say the sirens are the most powerful in the world, use them to find out how much vibration missiles and outer spacecraft can withstand.

The tough aluminum alloy skin of a missile can be torn like paper if subjected to the siren blast for eight minutes. This is punishment far more severe than missiles encounter in actual launching.

Up To Boards Of Six Counties

It is up to the County Boards of Commissioners of Pitt and five other counties of this section to take the next step in effecting an area development group which will be able to work for improvement of the section as a whole.

For some months now representatives of the six counties have been working on organizational plans for such an area development group, and this week they completed their plan of organization. The representatives recommended adoption of the plan by the Boards of Commissioners of the six counties, and asked each to appoint three members from their county to membership of the area organization.

The Coastal Plain Planning and Development Commission—the name selected for the new body—will fill an important gap that has existed in development efforts in this section. While most counties and many communities have their own organizations devoted to economic development, there is a need for greater coordination of area efforts in dealing with problems common to the area as a whole. If the Boards of Commissioners of Pitt, Wilson, Martin, Beaufort, Edgecombe and Nash approve the new organization, it can become an effective instrument in aiding the economic development of the entire area.

The Boards of Commissioners should approve the proposal as recommended in order that the organization can begin its operations no later than July, the beginning of the new fiscal year for county governments.

Previous efforts in this part of the state to organize similar groups have been unsuccessful. For one reason or another the efforts sputtered and died before any lasting organization was effected. With the support of the County Commissioners of each of the six counties, and with the organization which has been proposed, the new group offers important new advantages to the area as it seeks to improve its economy.

It is an undertaking which deserves the full support of each of the six counties involved.

Boat And Travel Show Amazes

By LYNN NISBET
EXPOSITION — The Sportsmen's Boat and Travel Show of the Carolinas is attracting large crowds to the Charlotte coliseum. Many of the visitors have expressed amazement at the exhibits of equipment and attractions.

The show was formally opened Tuesday night by Governor Terry Sanford who took occasion to welcome the joint participation of South Carolina. The Governor commended the activities of private enterprise in sponsoring travel promotion to the point it is the third largest industry in this state. He suggested that by working together the two Carolinas and neighboring states could attract many more visitors to this part of the southeast.

Outstanding among the exhibits was the mobile information unit of the N.C. State advertising division, loaded with literature about the state and manned by the attractive young ladies from the advertising division staff. The literature was so much in demand it required almost full time work of an assistant to keep the racks and shelves supplied. The mobile unit being hauled as a trailer by a pick-up truck had an eventful trip from Raleigh to Charlotte Sunday afternoon. Battling a six-inch snow between Asheboro and Concord the trailer slipped off the road into the ditch. Damages were about four hours time lost and some frazzled nerves on part of the men who were handling the unit.

Before the formal opening of the show Governor Sanford posed for pictures in the door of the information unit and in or in front of each of the individual resort exhibits from North Carolina.

SOUTH CAROLINA — Although this is a boat and vacation travel show, the exhibit of the State of South Carolina is an industrial promotion item. Emphasis on panels in the revolving wall display is on the availability of good industrial plant sites. Some of the farthest rivals were amused at one panel which proclaimed that South Carolina is the "exitment state." All the letters in that sign are purple except S-I-T-E which are white. What the North Carolinians smiled about was the ex before the SITE. They wonder if that means good sites in South Carolina are things of the past.

BOATS — The display of boats and boating equipment emphasizes the tremendous development of interest in water based recreation during the past few years. Until fairly recent times boats were associated with the coast, the ocean and sounds and maybe some low country rivers. That is all changed now. Man-made lakes and reservoirs upstate provide still waters for boating and allied sports. Once the turbulent swift flow of mountain streams permitted only canoes and very small hand-manipulated craft. Now the Little Tennessee, the Catawba, the Yadkin and other fast flowing rivers have been harnessed by electric power producing and flood control dams, forming large artificial lakes upon which outboard speed boats and de luxe cabin cruiser types can operate.

Boat exhibits dominated the Charlotte show, ranging from small outboards to large houseboats on pontoons and without power of their own. And the surprising feature, surprising to your reporter at least, was that while there are some exhibits by big nationally-famed manufacturing firms, most of the boats shown were made in North and South Carolina.

POSITIVE — Governor Sanford has made it clear that he intends from now on to "accentuate the positive" with respect to the tax program which he sponsored in the 1961 Legislature. Several times recently the Governor has indicated that purpose, but he made it more specific in a statement at Charlotte the other night. Occasion was a small dinner party given by the Travel Council of North Carolina with Governor Sanford as honor guest. It was a private affair only in the sense that there was an invited guest list, but there was nothing secret about it. The guests included three or four prominent newsmen.

There was no program and the Governor spoke for only three or four minutes and very informally. But in that short time he announced that he is going on the offensive to support his program, and will have no part of apology or defense attitude. He repeated figures used before showing that North Carolina ranks almost at bottom of the list of States in per capita cost of State and local government and claims an overall very low tax rate. Despite this low per capita cost and tax rate, he says North Carolina has an enviable position in public schools, welfare and other State social services. He challenged newsmen to give more publicity to these positive factors about North Carolina, less about the low per capita income and rating of the state on other points.

There was definite implication, without specific commitment, that Governor Sanford will exert whatever influence he can in the upcoming legislative primaries to get nominees who are in full sympathy with his program. That will be an essential feature of the offensive policy. How that will affect the election remains to be seen.

Punta Del Este Shows Partners Want Voice

Results of the Punta Del Este conference of Inter-American foreign ministers should impress upon the United States that while most of our Latin American neighbors are anxious to be our partners in hemispheric undertakings, they are not willing to be partners without an equal voice in decisions.

The meeting emphasizes the need for the United States to be aware itself—and make others aware—that inter-American affairs have become a partnership between the United States and other nations of the hemisphere. It is no longer a relationship in which the big brother calls the shots and the smaller ones follow the course without question.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk did an excellent job of representing the position of the United States at the meeting of American foreign ministers. He was forceful in presenting the points the United States felt essential to protect the intra-American relationships from inroads by communists through the Cuban government. At the same time the steps called for by Rusk were not presented in a dictatorial manner, and obviously they were not accepted by other American nations as being presented as such.

The net result of the conference was a staggering blow to the position of Castro's Cuba in its relationships with other nations of this hemisphere. It is a blow which cannot be taken lightly by either Castro or his supporters in the communist orbit. Aside from being a victory for the United States in that it dealt a blow to Cuba, it was a victory for this country in that it reflected a truly cooperative spirit between this country and other countries of the hemisphere which are dedicated to freedom. It helped to impress more firmly the idea that the countries, large and small, in the hemisphere are partners in undertakings designed to improve the position of each individually and the group collectively.

Although the conference did not bring forth a collective position toward Cuba as strong as that for which Rusk initially asked, it must be recognized as a successful conference in strengthening the relationships between the free nations of the Americas.

Stockpiling Has A Sizeable Role

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Government policies of stockpiling materials that might be needed in an emergency have played a sizeable and varied role in private business since World War II.

At all times the stockpiling has afforded an increased market for a large number of commodities. Occasionally the stockpile has been tapped — or acquisitions suspended — to ease a critical shortage in civilian industry. Sometimes government buying has frankly been used to maintain production when lack of civilian demand for one or more items would otherwise have caused a shutdown and unemployment.

Changes in stockpiling policies — or rumors of impending changes — have at times upset commodity markets and affected prices of stocks of particular companies involved, either as producer or user.

The stockpile includes metals, rubber, opium, diamond dies, sperm oil, castor oil, feathers, quinoline, talc — to name but a few.

The stockpile's role in private industry could be stepped up sharply as the result of President Kennedy's ordering of an inquiry into its size and procurement practices.

Some domestic producers would be affected if Congress orders a halt to further stockpiling. Overseas suppliers doubtless would complain loudly. U. S. government contracts are still in force to buy many materials which the President says the stockpile already has to excess. Some contracts run to 1965.

If supplies the President calls excessive are put on the market, price disruption is a real threat — although the President promises "We will take no action which will disrupt commodity prices." Reducing the stockpile without affecting markets and prices will be a neat trick for the Administration and Congress to consider.

'Ballad Of A Soldier'

Several hundred East Carolina College students sat through a 90-minute Russian movie, "Ballad of a Soldier," in Austin Auditorium the other night.

It was another in the series of films in the exchange program through which Russian movies are viewed in this country and, in turn, American-made films are available on Russian movie screens.

"Ballad of a Soldier" was just what its title implies. The story depicted about four days in the World War II military life of a 19-year-old Russian boy. During three of those days, the youth struggled through problem after problem on a motor and rail journey to visit his mother.

His single-handed mastery of two Nazi tanks was a sufficient contribution to the Russian cause to persuade the youth's commanding general to issue a six-day pass for the long trip home. The young soldier, after the long and arduous journey, enjoyed a five-minute visit with his mother.

A moving story, to say the least, "Ballad of a Soldier" was not technically perfect by American standards. Some episodes of the young soldier were viewed as quite far-fetched by the ECC students. Their reaction at times indicated that view.

But one idea effectively presented by the film certainly made its impression upon the minds of the students. A powerful patriotic image of the young soldier could not have been overlooked.

Still, films in exchange programs between nations could reasonably be expected to be crammed full of extreme patriotism and loyalty.

Augmenting the young patriot image of the soldier, however, was an element that may be more difficult to uncover in American films going into the Soviet Union.

The hero in "Ballad of a Soldier" was unquestionably a person with an individual moral standard that would be considered outstanding in this country.

Still, the story made no great fuss about this. It was assumed that the young soldier represented the typical Russian 19-year-old.

A striking example of the strength of the young soldier's moral backbone came when he had stowed away in a boxcar loaded with hay dispatched to the Army's cavalry. Suddenly, the door flung open and a pretty young girl joined him inside.

This episode led to strong emotional ties between the soldier and the girl. But there was never even a kiss. Could a similar result be found in an American movie in which a teenage couple suddenly found themselves isolated together in a dark hay-laden boxcar? Well, maybe. But only maybe.

To me, the movie — seemingly another particle among

Genius Of The World

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

To have known Fritz Kreisler was to have tasted of the richness of centuries of human culture. During recent years, he and I spent our summers in the Berkshires and it was a joy to be with a man whose genius knew no limit. He was as much at home in Greek, Latin, and Hebrew as in the modern languages. He could discuss world politics in amazing detail. His knowledge of music was overwhelming and withal he was a modest man who was interested in the aspirations of the simplest, Tanglewood student.

During his last years, he was partially deaf and blind, the result of an accident when a truck hit and knocked him down and he lived in darkness. Even so, he did not lose his interest in the affairs of the world and a conversation with him was always an everlasting memory.

Two tragic occasions stand out in my memory. One was at the Dutch Treat Club when Fritz decided that he would try to play the piano and he could no longer strike the right notes. He was full of fun that night and could laugh at his mistakes.

The other was at Fiddletop, the home of Zino Francescatti in Monterey in the Berkshires. Our families were gossiping after lunch. Mrs. Harriet Kreisler always watched over Fritz motherly, fearful that he would be made miserable by his disabilities but the two violinists got into a corner and had what might vulgarly be called a jam session. They played on and on, Kreisler showing Francescatti how he played Beethoven's Violin Concerto.

It was probably the last time that Kreisler played either the violin or the piano. He was a very happy man. He loved the Berkshires; he adored Francescatti; he was among friends. He let himself go.

I do not recall Kreisler coming to a Tanglewood concert after that. In fact, when I called on him during the following summer, he was already suffering from the numerous ailments that beset him. But we talked of the many worlds he loved.

To Kreisler, music was not something apart. It was a manifestation of life in all its richness. He composed perhaps 200 pieces in his lifetime, everything from the noblest music to a light opera, "Apple Blossom." For such a sentence as this, Fritz would have reprimanded me. He would have said that all music that is beautiful and that adds to the richness of life is good and that snobbery is always intolerable.

He loved the United States. Although during the frightful years of World War I, he suffered from a divided loyalty, he really never could think of his beloved Austria and his beloved America as separate or as enemies. In front of the Heaton Hall Hotel in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, stands a flagpole, erected in honor of Fritz Kreisler. I was present at the ceremonies and made a short address. The American flag was raised and flew each day during the season. It will be a permanent memorial to a noble soul. It will be his American memorial.

Fritz Kreisler was beyond doubt the greatest violinist of his day and although younger generations cannot hear him play, the phonograph and radio will continue to bring him to them as it will continue to bring him to future generations. He loved life and he loved humanity and he knew no rancor or envy, expecting the next generation to be more wonderful than the one he would leave behind. His sense of humor was as rich as his understanding of man was keen.

To him music was not a profession but an art that brought light and love into a world that was cursed by hate and prejudice and war. Music was for him the antithesis of evil

Other Editors Saying ... Of Great Concern

(Washington Daily News)

Recently Governor Terry Sanford asked the North Carolina Utilities commission to look into the power rates now charged by Virginia Electric and Power company.

This company, commonly known as VEPCO, serves Washington and surrounding areas. We have no criticism of the service given. We do have great concern about the rates charged, the apparent indifference of the company toward industrial progress for our area, and the attitude of the company itself toward public relations.

Some time ago we read a list of comparable rates between VEPCO, Carolina Power and Light company, and Duke Power company. On the basis of the printed list, VEPCO rates were the highest on the list. Why is this so?

Today Roanoke Rapids is making a determined effort to get some measure of relief from the high rates being charged by VEPCO. We now read where Elizabeth City is interested in joining hands with Roanoke Rapids. It might be a step in the right direction for Washington to join these two cities.

For a long time now people of this area have been complaining about the high electrical rates being charged here. The city of Washington must make its electrical rates on the basis of what it has to pay VEPCO. If rates are high in Washington, it is because Washington itself is having to pay a high rate.

One factor which might help VEPCO a lot is a better program of public relations. In recent months many industrial prospects have come to Beaufort county to look us over as a prospective site for some industrial. We have had no help whatsoever from VEPCO. In fact, we have on occasion been afraid to ask for help because of the high rates now charged.

Is VEPCO interested in Washington and Beaufort county? We wish we could have the answer to that question. Because VEPCO sells power directly to the city of Washington and not to the individual users, it appears that VEPCO feels that no public relations program is necessary here.

We have no way of knowing just what steps the Utilities Commission will take in the effort to find out why VEPCO charges more than two other competing companies. And we do not know what steps might be taken to give relief if indeed it is found that VEPCO rates are too high.

Has VEPCO made any attempt to explain to the people of Washington just why its rates are so high? Our answer is that insofar as we know, no effort has been made.

Is VEPCO interested in increasing its own business, or does it feel that it can take a self-satisfied attitude now because it has Washington behind the well known eight ball? Offhand, it would appear that the company does have a cold and indifferent attitude toward us.

The entire electric power story is of great concern to us. It is of great concern because we are paying a higher rate than many other communities are now charged.

It is our hope that the Utilities commission will move with proper dispatch in this matter. This is not time for dilly-dallying.

And besides relief in the matter of rates, it appears to us that VEPCO could well stand a good public relations program

Problems Of West Compounded

By ELMER ROESSNER

In choosing oil as its economic weapon in the cold war, Russia compounded problems for the West. It could not have used grain, because there are no great surpluses in Russia and there are tragic shortages in China, a presumptive ally. It could not use steel or machine products because Russia itself is short. But in using oil, it uses a commodity that is abundant, especially with the supplies from captive Rumania. And it uses a commodity that can most embarrass the West.

By dumping oil on the world, it harms the economy of Venezuela and hence aids the communists there to enlist dissenting people; it hurts the Arab kingdoms which Russia hates because communism is ruthlessly suppressed there, and it hits the United States, where the economy is based largely on petroleum and electric power.

The West and the United States are not entirely helpless. We can alert Western and neutral nations to the danger in reliance on the Soviets for oil. And we can take vigorous counteraction.

"COMPETE ON PRICES"

Senator A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.) at a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute late last year, proposed a five-point program:

1. Exist the aid of our natural allies to resist the challenge to the free world, especially the petroleum-producing nations.
2. Compete with the Soviets by developing reserves.
3. Compete on price.
4. Compete by furnishing a market for basic commodities from under-developed countries.
5. Restrict the flow of Western equipment and technology to the Soviets.

The third point is the most difficult. Labor will not agree to lower wages, certainly not to Russian levels; the Arab kingdoms are asking higher royalties at a time when a reduction is the only hope of meeting the Red price competition. Perhaps technological advances are the only hope.

ACTION IN JAPAN

The United States has taken some competitive reactions in Japan.

Russia wants the Japanese market more than any other. It is close to Vladivostok and other Siberian ports; winning a share of the Japanese market would be driving a wedge between Japan and the United States. Furthermore, Japan is a big customer.

To gain this market, Russia offers tremendous bargains. Oil from the Arab states sells around $2 a barrel; Russia offers it at less than $1.50 a barrel to Japan.

Some Japanese companies are buying. But the U.S. Defense Department reacted quickly. When it learned that the Idemitsu Kosan Co. was getting 30 per cent of its crude from Russia, the Department refused to renew its contract to buy 600,000 barrels of jet fuel a year from Idemitsu Kosan. Defense also announced it would take similar action against other suppliers who deal with Russia.

Mitsubishi Oil, one of the largest oil companies in Japan, has pointedly announced that it will buy no Soviet oil. The company is 49 per cent owned by the Tidewater Oil of America.

George F. Getty II, president of Tidewater, declared in Tokyo that while Russia eyes Japan as a big potential market, "there is every possibility of the product being used as a principal weapon for its planned economic aggression of the free world."

Meanwhile, NATO has been warned that Russia is planning to sell 40 million tons of crude oil a year to NATO nations by 1960, more than tripling present sales.

In the oil world, that is only a mildly alarming figure. The United States still leads Russia in the production of oil, although Russia has already nudged Venezuela out of second place as an oil-producing nation.

PERFUME MANUFACTURERS WATCHING COTY CASE

Other manufacturers, packagers and distributors of perfume are closely watching a Federal Trade Commission action against Coty, Inc., charging that the company failed to comply with an order requiring it to disclose that its French-named perfumes were made in America.

The government charges that Coty's advertising did not make it clear that "L'Alman" was of domestic make. The government demands $5,000 penalties for each alleged misleading advertising over 11 television and 21 radio stations, and in two magazines.

The broadcasts were made in 1958, and the magazines published in 1960. Since early last year the FTC has been urging the perfume industry to comply with this three-year old case therefore appears to be a gesture against the entire industry.

Right Use of the Sabbath

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:8-11; Mark 2:23-3:6; Luke 4:16-20, 31-40; Nehemiah 13:15-22.

God instructed the people to rest on the seventh day of the week, keeping it a holy day for Him. Later, Christ's disciples were criticized by the Pharisees for picking wheat on their journey on the sabbath.—Exodus 20:8-11; Mark 2:23.

Christ rebuked the Pharisees, pointing out that the sabbath rules were made for man, so he could worship God more fully; man's needs superseded the rules, as illustrated by David's eating of the showbread when he was hungry.—Mark 2:25-28.

Later in a synagogue Christ found a man with a withered hand. Defying the critical, rule-conscious Pharisees, Christ used his power to heal the cripple on the sabbath. Doing good is man's most important job.—Mark 3:1-6.

Unlike these examples of need on the sabbath, Nehemiah finds the Jerusalem Jews using the sabbath with feverish commercialism. To end it, He closes the gates of the city on the sabbath.—Nehemiah 13:15-22. GOLDEN TEXT: Exodus 20:8.

Right Use of the Lord's Day

THE SABBATH DAY: ITS ORIGINAL PURPOSE AND HOW JESUS OBSERVED IT

Scripture—Exodus 20:8-11; Mark 2:23-3:6; Luke 4:16-20, 31-40; Nehemiah 13:15-22.

By N. SPEER JONES

LAST WEEK'S lesson concerned keeping God's name holy; this week's, the Fourth Commandment, stresses keeping a special time holy for God. Our word "sabbath" derives from the Hebrew word "shabbath," which means "to cease or rest." This is related to the Hebrew word "shebah," which means seven; on the seventh day of creation God rested.

It is interesting to note that this is the only commandment which begins with the admonition "remember." God does not say, "Remember not to kill" or "Remember not to steal"; He simply states the rule not to do so. It would seem that one is not so in danger of forgetting these commandments as of the

The passage from Mark in today's lesson is but one of many instances of Christ healing on the sabbath. (See Mark 1:21-27, John 9:1-16, Luke 6:6-11, Luke 13:10-17, and Luke 14:1-6.) That He did so much healing on the sabbath was probably intended to point up the fact that "The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath."

This does not mean that man's needs and wants should be put before God, but rather that the welfare of man, made in God's image and likeness, is God's greatest concern. And man's true welfare depends on his thoughts about, and communication with, God. Any interpretation of the sabbath law which leads to man's suffering rather than man's welfare is obviously contrary to God's purpose. Christ's healing of the cripple on the sabbath illustrates the principle that NOT to do good when one can, is to do evil; not to ease pain or save life when one can, is to hurt and kill. Some versions of the Bible render the translation of Mark 3:6, "the hardness of their heart"; the more accurate is "the hardening of their heart." What we are today is not nearly so important as what we are in the process of becoming. If one does not strive to become something more than he is, as a person, he is dead; he has not the vitality and high purpose which supposedly render him human and, therefore, more and more God-like. Thus it is the process, the becoming, which makes the essence of our life.

GOLDEN TEXT "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy."—Exodus 20:8.

apparently simple request to keep God's day holy. God knew, however, how easy it is for other thoughts and events to creep in and crowd out man's all-important time with God.

This commandment seems also to have been designed with the poor working man in mind. If all labor ceased, even the lowliest of servants in those days would have an equal chance, with their masters, to communicate with the greatest Master and renew their energies.

The whole purpose of the Fourth Commandment was to turn man's thoughts inward to the truly great things, arresting the dizzy whirl of daily details of living. One wonders if this might not be one of the best medicines for ulcer patients, or one of the best preventative for some heart attacks or mental breakdowns.

Reflecting On SPORTS

By George Bryant

Pirate Cagers

The East Carolina College basketball Pirates have moved into second place in the Carolinas Conference this week which is something that few persons would have told you during the early part of the season. The Bucs got off to a real rough start at the first of the campaign losing their first three games to Catawba, The Citadel and High Point.

After these three rather disappointing outings Coach Earl Smith and his boys seemed to find the trouble and went on to win the next three games with Lenoir Rhyne which is in the number one spot in the standings now, Richmond and Appalachian.

What seemed to be the trouble with the Pirates? Prior to these three wins that question was asked by as many people and as many times as you can possibly imagine. The answer was a simple one if you looked over the score book. During the first three games of the season the Bucs were averaging 30 or more fouls per game. When they started winning this number had dropped down in the high teens where it has remained since.

The next loss suffered by East Carolina was at the hands of Southern Conference foe William and Mary on Dec. 15. But the Pirates came right back and put up a good showing in the Christmas tournament at Camp Lejeune. Since then their only loss has been to Lenoir Rhyne's Bears in Hickory on Jan. 13.

We feel like the Pirates have done an excellent job so far this season and we feel safe in saying that there is a good chance that they will be able to stay at the top of the race. Their main threat on the remainder of the schedule is Elon on their home court. The Bucs handed the Christians their first conference loss of the season when they played here on Jan. 6.

Tonight the Pirates take on their last Southern Conference team of the season. They will meet Virginia Tech on their home court in Blacksburg, Va. VPI is feeling high and mighty now after defeating powerful West Virginia Monday night.

Tomorrow night the Pirates will tangle with their neighboring foe from Wilson. Atlantic Christian will probably be fired up for the contest and will be fighting hard to gain a win. There is a lot of rivalry between the two schools which always adds to the excitement of a game.

"Pool Parents"

The "pool parents" as someone has called the group of Rose High School swimming team members should be highly commended for their interest and determination in gaining support for the Phantom tankmen.

We understand that there was a good turnout at their first organizational meeting Wednesday night and that a great deal was accomplished toward supporting the team morally and financially. Both of these things are necessary for a top notch team and if the good work is kept up there is no doubt that the Greenville school can make a fine showing in the pool as well as in other sports.

East Carolina Faces Southern Foe Tonight

East Carolina, which is leaving for the Carolinas Conference and hope to become a member of the Southern Conference soon, faces a tough job tonight when it plays Virginia Tech.

The Pirates, 11-5 over-all, will be facing the only Southern Conference team which has beaten powerful West Virginia this season. The Gobblers accomplished that feat Monday night on their home court, where tonight's game will be played.

Guilford plays at Charleston College in the only other game tonight for a Carolinas Conference team.

Meanwhile, Elon pulled into a tie with East Carolina for second place in the conference with a 70-64 victory Thursday night over High Point. Both Elon and ECC now have 8-3 league records.

High Point now has an 8-6 league record.

Dewey Anderson paced Elon with 27 points and Jesse Branson netted 21. Barry Smith led High Point scoring with 13 points.

Elon led 42-29 at the half, and then withstood a second half rally in which the Panthers trimmed the lead to five points late in the game.

Pfeiffer, meanwhile, defeated Campbell 72-65. Pfeiffer was paced by Dennis Hottinger with 19 points. Mike Reidy of Campbell was the game's high scorer with 25 points.

In other small college basketball Thursday night, Pembroke lost to Norfolk William and Mary 65-56. The Virginians came from behind in the last four minutes to score the victory.

Pembroke led 33-29 at the half, and held on until the Monarchs went ahead on the shooting of Ray Dougan and Bobby Hoffman. W. K. Morgan led Pembroke with 17 points.

ECC Is Object Of Attack

Virginia Tech Seeking 31st Home Court Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Coach Chuck Noe summons his Virginia Tech basketball team down from cloud 9 tonight long enough to bid for a 31st consecutive victory on its home floor at Blacksburg.

The intended victim is East Carolina, which aspires to become the 10th member of the Southern Conference and probably will win admission before very long.

Unless Noe finds his club still dreaming sweet dreams of last Monday's 85-82 upset of West Virginia, the visiting Pirates should discover quickly what conference lodge members have known for years — that Tech is mighty tough to whip at Blacksburg.

Nobody, in fact, has managed to outscore the Gobblers there since

Feb. 7, 1958, when George Washington turned the trick 70-54.

Tech won its last four games in Blacksburg that season, won eight more in 1959-60, added six victories in 1960-61, and eight more in 1961-62. All these wins were in cozy Memorial Gymnasium.

This winter the Techmen are playing in a brand new $4.5 million coliseum which seats 10,000 or so paying customers, but only the scene has changed. Tech 4-for-4 in the Coliseum for the 1961-62 season.

The Pirates, testing out the league they plan to join, already have played three Southern Conference teams, but have beaten only Richmond, 81-70. They lost at The Citadel, 85-73, and at William and Mary, 81-60, in December.

Two conference clubs — Furman (10-8) and Davidson (10-6) — joined Tech in the 10-victory class Thursday night.

Furman, hitting the hoop at a furious 54 per cent pace, downed home-standing Richmond 72-65 in a conference bout while Davidson, unbeaten since Dec. 19, won its 10th successive game by defeating non-conference Erskine, 71-57, on the Davidson court.

Jerry Smith, banged in 26 points and Gerald Glur scored 26 and hauled down 19 rebounds in Furman's victory at Richmond, which solidified the Paladins' hold on second place in the conference standings.

Furman now is 5-2 in the conference, Richmond 4-5 (5-13 overall).

Bill Jarman had 21 points and sophomore Bill Keeman 15 for Davidson as the Wildcats took charge in the second half and coasted past Erskine. The score was 29-29 at intermission but the 'Cats found the range down the stretch.

Five Road Games For Suffering Deacons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wake Forest basketball Coach Bones McKinney commented earlier this week that his club's current five-game road trip "will give us an opportunity to see whether we can do the job or not."

The Deacons, defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions, thus far have suffered on the road. They have a 7-7 overall record, and six of the seven losses came away from home. They have won only two of eight road games. The other loss, incidentally, was to top-ranked Ohio State.

They lost to West Virginia, 101-99, Wednesday night in the first game of the current road trip. However, McKinney praised his players for their showing, saying they "proved to me they were a ball club."

That brings Wake Forest to its game at South Carolina tonight, with the Gamecocks starting a three-game home stand. All three games are against ACC foes.

South Carolina has a 3-4 conference record and a 10-7 over-all record. Wake Forest is third in the ACC with a 4-2 mark.

The Gamecocks will be on the rebound after two straight losses, the latest to league-leading Duke Tuesday night, 89-73.

Tonight's game, the only one for ACC teams, will be the first meeting of the season for the Deacons and the Gamecocks.

It also brings together Wake Forest's high-scoring Len Chappell and South Carolina ace Art Whisnant. Chappell is running second to Duke's Art Heyman in point production, and Whisnant is third. Chappell has a 27.7 average and Whisnant is 21.8.

Should Wake Forest beat South Carolina tonight, and Clemson Saturday night, it would put the Deacons into either a tie for second place, or in sole possession of second place in the ACC, depending on the outcome of Saturday night's game between Duke (6-1) and North Carolina (5-1).

The standings don't determine the champion, but they do determine seedings for the tournament in which the title is decided. As McKinney puts it, "Tournament seeding will mean a lot. The first and second place teams will be in good position, and we don't want to finish third or fourth."

Cincy Adds Another Victim To Its List

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati has another victory to add to its impressive season's record—thanks to some sparkling play by Ron Bonham and George Wilson, two of the sop omores whose performances brightened Thursday night's college basketball action.

Bonham and Wilson turned in major roles in the top game on the program. Cincinnati's 60-52 decision over Houston. Among other starring sophomores were Vic Rouse and Les Hunter of Chicago Loyola, Miles Aiken of St. Bonaventure, Nick Workman of Seton Hall, Rodger Twitchell of Massachusetts, Tom Lynch of St. Peter's (N.J.) and Davidson's Bill Beerman.

Cincinnati's Bearcats built up an 11-point halftime lead behind the scoring of Bonham and Wilson and then stayed off the Cougars' determined comeback after intermission. Houston pulled to within three points toward the end before the Bearcats put it away with six straight foul shots in the final two minutes.

Bonham had 20 and Wilson 18 for Cincinnati, now 16-2. Houston took its fourth loss in 19 games.

Loyola (14-2) blasted Baldwin-Wallace 109-68 at Chicago, with Rouse scoring 25 points and Hunter chipping in with 24. St. Bonaventure put together several sports and outlasted Seton Hall in a scorcher 113-110 at New York's Madison Square Garden. Aiken paced the Bonnies with 29 points while Werkman totaled 40. In the other half of the Garden double-header, Massachusetts rapped St. Peter's 94-75. Twitchell was high for Massachusetts, scoring 20, and Lynch had 18 for the losers.

Davidson made it 10 straight by whipping Erskine 71-57. Beerman had his biggest game so far, finishing with 15 points.

Detroit rolled over Michigan 82-74 at Ann Arbor as Dave Debuschere led the Titans with 23 points and the same number of rebounds.

Tulsa beat North Texas 76-61 in the Missouri Valley conference. Eastern Kentucky put a further damper on Morehead's Ohio Valley title chances, tripping Eagles 93-85.

Louisiana State topped Loyola of New Orleans 77-61. Georgetown out loose in overtime and overcame Fairleigh-Dickinson 84-77, and Cal Poly upset St. Mary's (Calif.) 74-68.

Prairie View Tops Small Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Prairie View Texas, the nation's No. 1 small college basketball team, was the only outfit to retain its position as the remainder of the top ten underwent a wholesale shuffling in the weekly associated press rankings today.

Prairie View, which had a 14-1 record through last Saturday's games, drew six of the eight first-place votes in the balloting by eight regional selectors.

Prairie View wound up with 68 points on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc., and an edge of five points over runner-up Grambling, La. Tennessee State was third followed by Hofstra, N.Y., and Westminster, Pa.

The second five has this lineup: Southern Illinois, Wittenburg, Ohio, Kentucky Wesleyan, Georgetown, Ky., and Mt. St. Mary's, Md.

Others receiving votes included Lenoir Rhyne.

Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan, winner of all seven races as a 2-year-old in 1961, was purchased as a yearling for $11,000 by the owner's husband.

Grifton Bulldogs Have Had Troubles This Year

By CHARLES VAUGHAN
Reflector Sports Writer
GRIFTON — Coach Alston Burke and the Grifton Bulldogs have had their share of troubles this year. Grifton has lost nine games so far in the current season, and they have won four.

However, in the last three outings, several of the Bulldogs have been missing due to illness.

Burke, in his seventh year of coaching at Grifton, is a native of LaGrange. After graduating from East Carolina College, Coach Burke went to Chicago for two years and then to Dixon for one year.

Riley Leading Team
Co-captain Tommy Riley, has been leading the Bulldogs in the scoring department and is also the rebounding leader. A senior, Riley has been starting for Grifton for the past four years. Coach Burke noted that until the last three games, Riley had never missed a game.

Another mainstay for the Bulldogs is junior Ben McLawhorn who is the other co-captain of the team. McLawhorn, in his second year of starting for Grifton, has been the team's second highest scorer. Coach Burke remarked, "Both McLawhorn and Riley have the potential to be real good players, but they have been a little slow getting started this year."

Burch A Stalwart
Warner Burch, Grifton's six-foot junior center, has also been a stalwart for the Bulldogs. Burch played very little last year, but has been counted on heavily this season.

The other two members of the Bulldogs' starting five are Kenny Tindel and Eddie Dixon. Dixon, who is a sophomore, is the shortest man on the team at 5-feet, 8-inches tail.

Coach Burke stated, "Billy Lehman and Jerry Butler, a couple of sophomores, have the potential to become two of our best ballplayers. Butler is probably our best defensive man on the team."

Rebuilding Year
The coach later remarked, "We have been going through a rebuilding year, but so far we have been disappointed. Last year we lost two boys that were All-County." Burke also noted, "We are going to win some more ball games this season because our sophomores are starting to come around real well."

Coach Burke and the Grifton Bulldogs, travel to Belvoir-Falkland tonight, to meet the Indians.

Greenville Site For Tournament

The first of what is hoped to be an annual Batters-Up Golf Tournament for baseball coaches and sports writers in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Southern Conference area is scheduled to be held here March 6.

The affair is aimed at getting the 1962 baseball season off to a good start and is being arranged by Reynolds May and other Greenville citizens who are interested in college baseball.

Plans call for a golf tournament to be held on the afternoon of March 6 and a dinner at the Greenville Country Club that night.

CHAPTER 17

James Bond's taxi had arrived at the airport. Bond told the driver to wait and walked into the long low entrance hall just as the arrival of Larkin's flight was being announced.

He knew there would be the usual delay for customs and immigration. He went to the souvenir shop and bought a newspaper. It was still leading with the loss of the Vindicator aircraft. Bond was reading when a quiet voice in his ear said, "007? Meet me."

Bond swung round. It was it was Felix Leiter!

Leiter, his C.I.A. companion on some of the most thrilling cases in Bond's career, grinned and thrust the steel book that was his right hand under Bond's arm. "Take it easy, friend. I'll tell all when we get out of here. Bags are out front. Let's go."

Bond said, "What damn! You old so-and-so! Did you know it was going to be me?"

"Sure, C.I.A. knows all."

At the entrance Leiter had his luggage, which was considerable, put aboard Bond's taxi, and told the driver to take it to the Royal Bahamian. A man standing beside an undistinguished-looking black sedan led the car and came up. "Mr. Larkin? I'm from the car rental company. This is the car you ordered. We hope she's what you want. You did specify something conventional."

Leiter glanced casually at the car. "Looks all right. I just want a car that'll go. I'm here to do a property work—not jazz it up."

"May I see your New York license, sir? Right. Then if you'll just sign here. . . and I'll make a note of the number of your Diner's Club card. When you go leave the car anywhere you like and just notify us. We'll collect it. Have a good holiday, sir."

They got into the car. Bond took the wheel. When they were out of the airport Bond said, "Now go ahead and tell. Last time we met you were with Pinkerton. What's the score?"

"Drafted. Just plain drafted. Hell, anyone would think there was a war on. You see, James, once you've worked for C.I.A., you're automatically put on the reserve of officers when you leave. Unless you've been cashiered for not eating the code book under fire or something. And apparently my chief just didn't have the men to go round when the President sounded the fire alarm. So I and twenty or so other guys were just pulled in—drop everything, twenty-four hours to report."

"Hell! I thought the Russians had landed! And then they tell me the score and to pack my bathing trunks and my spade and bucket and come on down to Nassau. So of course I griped like hell. So then they unbuttoned and told me I was to team up with you down here and I thought maybe if that chief of yours, N or M or whatever you call him, had sent you down here there might be something cooking in the pot after all. So I picked up the gear you'd asked for from Admin., packed the bow and arrows instead of the spade and bucket, and here I am. And that's that. Now you tell, you old sleuth. Hell, it's good to see you."

Bond took Leiter through the whole story, point by point from the moment he had been summoned to M's office the morning before. When he came to the shooting outside his headquarters, Leiter stopped him.

"Now what do you make of that, James? In my book that's a pretty funny coincidence. Have you been fooling around with anyone's wife lately? Sounds more like around the Loop in Chicago than a mile or so from Piccadilly."

Bond said seriously, "It makes no sense to me, and none to anyone else. The only man who might have had it in for me, recently that is, is a crazy man I met down at a sort of clinic place I had to go to on some blasted medical grounds."

Bond, to Leiter's pleasure, rather sheepishly gave details of his "cure" at Shrublands. "I bowled this man out as a member of a Chinese Tong, one of their secret societies, the Red Lightning Tong. He must have heard me getting the gen on his outfit from Records—on an open line from a call box in the place."

"Next thing, he damned near managed to murder me. Just for a lark, and to get even. I did my best to roast him alive." Bond gave the details. "Nice quiet place, Shrublands. You'd be surprised how carrot juice seems to affect people."

"Where was this lunatic asylum?"

"Place called Washington. Modest little place compared with yours. Not far from Brighton."

"And the letter was posted from Brighton?"

"That's the hell of a long shot."

"I'll try another. One of the points our chaps brought up was that if a plane was to be stolen at night and landed at night, a full moon would be the hell of an aid to the job. But the plane was taken five days after the full. Just supposing your roast chicken was the roasting force—ed him to delay sending the letter while he recovered. His employers would be pretty angry. Yes?"

"I suppose so," Bond replied.

"And supposing they gave orders for him to be rubbed for inefficiency. And supposing the killer got to him just as he got to you to settle his private account. From what you tell me he wouldn't have lain down under what you did to him. Well, now, just supposing all that. It adds up, doesn't it?"

Bond laughed, partly in admiration. "It's a damned good sequence for a comic strip, but these things don't happen in real life."

"Planes with atom bombs don't get stolen in real life. Except that they do. You're slowing down, James."

Bond said seriously, "Well, look here, Felix. Tell you what I'll do. There's just enough sense in your story, so I'll put it on the machine to M tonight and see if the Yard can get anywhere with it. They could check with the clinic and the hospital in Brighton, if that's where he was taken, and they may be able to get on from there. Trouble is, wherever they get, there's nothing left of the man but his shoes, and I doubt if they'll catch up with the man on the motorbike. It looked a real job to me."

"Why not? These hijackers sound like real pros. It's a pro plan. It all fits all right. You go ahead and put it on the wire and don't be ashamed of saying it was my idea. My medal collection has got to looking a bit thin since I left the outfit."

They pulled up under the portico of the Royal Bahamian and Bond gave the keys to the Parking attendant. Leiter checked in and they went up to his room and sent for lunch.

"The major decision is to pay a visit to the Disco—now," Bond said. "When we've done that, we'll have to decide whether or not these people are hunting pieces of eight or 100,000,000 pounds. Then we'll have to report progress."

Bond waved at the packing cases in a corner of the room. "I've got the loan of a couple of rooms on the top floor of police headquarters here. The Commissioner's cooperative and a solid character. These Colonial Police are good, and this one's a cut above the rest. We can set up the radio there and make contact this evening. Tonight there's his party at the Casino. We'll go to that and see if any of these faces mean anything to either of us. The first thing's to see if the yacht's clean or not. Break out that Geiger counter."

Bond all by themselves. The story continues here tomorrow.

City Hall Again To Fly UN Flag

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—The United Nations flag will fly again outside City Hall—despite Mayor Wallace Puchalski's objections.

Two weeks ago, the mayor, a soda shop proprietor, had the flag removed. He said the U.N. had given the United States nothing but the Korean War, a large debt, an eroded currency and an uneasy peace and that the flag would never fly here again.

However, the City Council voted 8-1 Thursday night to replace the flag.

Puchalski, 31, said he had received hundreds of letters and, only four were against his action. The flag was donated by the Northampton League of Women Voters.

The Rebel yell, a cry adapted from the Civil War battlefield to the Southern football stadium, was once called a "fiendish yell" that "froze the blood."

A crucial decision has to be made by Felix Leiter and James Bond.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE BY TRUSTEE NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the authority contained in that certain deed of trust executed and delivered by Joe Carr Jr. and wife, Annie Laurie Carr, dated the 4th day of March, 1961, and recorded in Book H-32 at page 442 of the Pitt County Public Registry; and because of the default in payment of the in-

Detroit Symphony Here On February 9

With Paul Paray as conductor, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will appear in concert at East Carolina College February 9 at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. The program is an attraction of the 1961-1962 Entertainment Series sponsored by the college Student Government Association.

The Detroit Symphony has won a position of respect among the foremost musical organizations of the world. In terms of quantity of performances, it is one of the busiest. Its musicians provide great music for nearly ten months of the year both in Detroit and on tour.

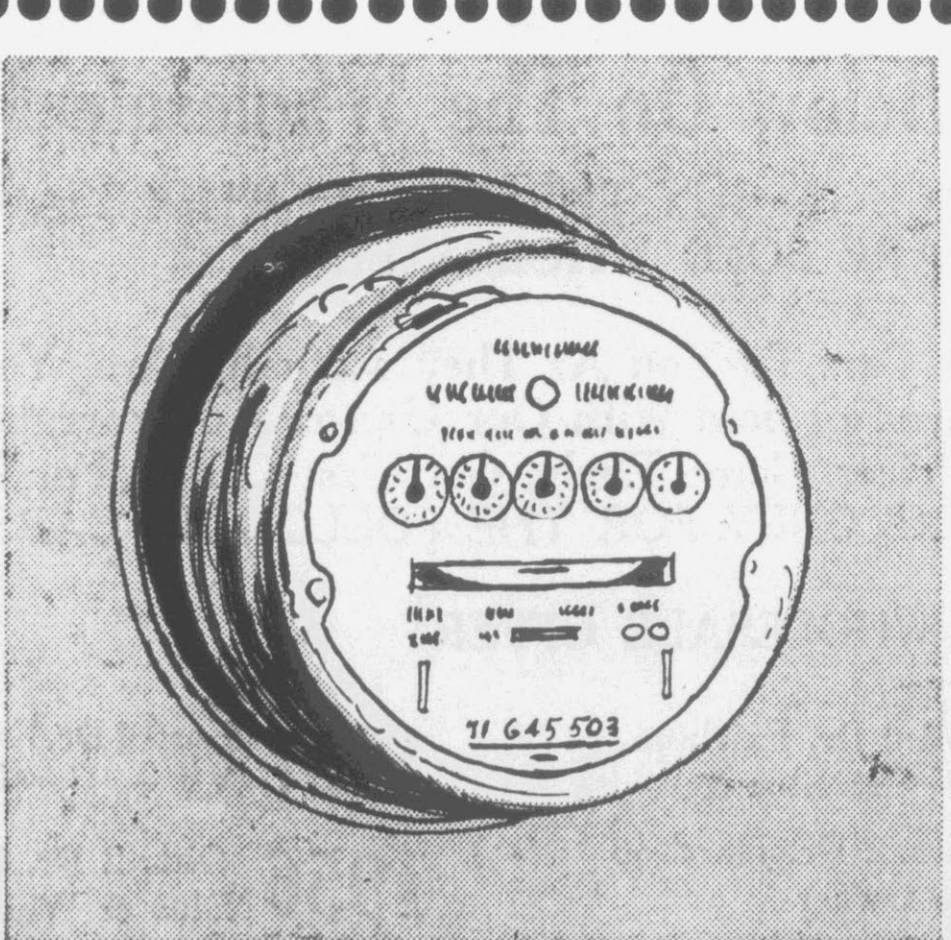

In addition to almost 100 concerts performed in Detroit each year, the orchestra on a tour of the nation's music centers plays 35 additional concerts. Since 1958 it has presented six concerts annually as official orchestra for America's oldest music festival at Worcester, Mass.

The total yearly attendance for this ambitious concert schedule is in excess of 700,000 persons.

Through broadcasts the Detroit Symphony has extended its influence on music in this country and has brought entertainment of a high order of excellence to thousands of people. Thirty recordings, one of which Florent Schmitt's "Tragedy of Salome" won the Grand Prix du Disque of France in 1961, increased the orchestra's reputation internationally.

Paray, distinguished French musician, became permanent conductor of the Detroit Symphony in 1951 and has developed the orchestra into an outstanding ensemble. Before joining the Detroit organization, he had established an enviable reputation abroad as conductor of the Lamoureux Orchestra, the Municipal Orchestra of the Casino de Monte Carlo, and the famed Concerts Colonne. From 1932 until his Detroit appointment he was frequently called on to conduct Wagnerian works at the Paris Opera.

meters can't measure the value of better living... electrically

Your electric meter, remarkably accurate device that it is, just can't measure the untold convenience, comfort and pleasure that electricity brings to you and your family. The ease of electric cooking... the miracle of good lighting... entertainment from radio and TV... the marvels of dishwashers, clothes dryers, washers, water heaters... the savings with refrigeration and food freezing. The meter can only hint at the big fact: the more ways you use electricity, the more value you receive... and the better you live!

Clark To Speak Tuesday To Pitt YDC Meeting

John G. Clark Sr. of Greenville, former chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, is scheduled to speak Tuesday to a meeting of the Young Democrats Club.

Pitt YDC President William F. Tyson of Stokes announced the meeting, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Respass Brothers Restaurant on North Greene Street in Greenville.

Tyson said county chapter members, during a business session, will discuss plans for a state-wide YDC rally to be held in Greenville in March. Further plans for the rally, Tyson said, would be announced following Tuesday's meeting.

Clark, a prominent member of the North Carolina Democratic organization, headed the Pitt executive committee for about 17 years before resigning the post about a year ago.

In announcing Tuesday's meeting, Tyson urged all members of the Pitt chapter to attend the dinner session.

Impatience Cited As Factor In Accidents On Road

AT SAFETY COUNCIL MEETING . . . Lt. Ernest Guthrie, Chairman Luther Moore and Troop "A" commander, Captain S. H. Mitchell.

"Don't drive fast to save time that you won't live to enjoy!"

That is what Highway Patrol Lt. Ernest Guthrie told members of the Pitt County Safety Council yesterday while emphasizing, "more has to be done than . . . meeting, eating and giving a little lip service to safety."

As executive officer of Patrol Troop "A" which has its headquarters here, Lt. Guthrie told the council that "what we are working for now is one of the most important things . . . the saving of life."

Commenting on the importance of the Safety Council, the Patrol officer said "membership of this group should double in the coming year" and noted, "You have to stimulate a definite interest to get a job done."

"More has to be done than . . . meeting, eating and giving a little lip service to safety,"

"The Patrol is sincerely interested in saving lives of people," he emphatically stated.

"We have inaugurated a program of highway pedestrian safety" for the coming year, he pointed out.

Reason for this special project, he explained, is the fact that "in Troop 'A' (24 North-eastern N.C. counties) last year 35 percent of the persons killed on our highways walked themselves to death or died riding bicycles."

In Pitt County alone in the past 22 years, 283 persons have died tragically on Pitt county roads, an average of 13 each year.

"It's not always teenagers or the so-called 'bad people' that cause these deaths . . . it's us!" Many times it is the person who is "unconsciously" breaking the law that is the killer . . . the person who is not paying attention to what he is doing.

The lawman gave two reasons for his stopping for stop signs. "First because it is the law," he said and secondly, "because I am afraid that someone may be watching," he explained.

"We should set an example for others to follow."

He urged, "Stop at a stop sign and look at your watch. See how few seconds it takes." "Driving is the greatest gamble you ever take. Think how close to death you are each time you pass a car."

"Many times while passing a car you are only eight inches from injury or death," the 'coat of paint' you talk about sometime.

Human factors account for 80 per cent of the accidents, he reported.

Illustrating what is spent for traffic safety, the Patrol officer reported that an estimated $40,000 is spent on research for each police patrol while only $2.50 per victim is spent for traffic safety.

"We need public support," he exclaimed.

"You pay our salary, elect the lawmakers who make the laws, then get mad with us for doing our job when we arrest you?"

"Why do we violate the law? Is it because we as free Americans don't like to be told what to do?"

Impatience and lack of courtesy are the two greatest factors in traffic accidents, he said. "Impatience . . . the same kind that makes a driver blow his horn for the fellow in front of him just as soon as the stop light turns green."

"It looks like some people just can't wait to get killed."

Luther Moore, chairman of the council, presided at the regular session.

Dunn Expects Court To Reaffirm Stand

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

When the North Carolina Supreme Court convenes Monday for its first 1962 session, the chances are it will be confronted with a fresh request from the N. C. Bar Council to restrict photography and air media coverage of Superior Court proceedings.

Judge Albion Dunn of Greenville, chairman of the Council's Ethics Committee, predicted this week the Council would reaffirm its position at its meeting in Raleigh Saturday. Judge Dunn's committee was scheduled to meet in the State Capital tonight as a preliminary to tomorrow's session of the 33-member Council.

Recent news accounts described a Council resolution, adopted last October, which asked the Supreme Court to incorporate into the procedure in Superior Courts a rule banning photography and radio and television coverage of court proceedings.

In his prediction, Judge Dunn cited a similar restriction already effective in at least two federal district courts in North Carolina. Judge Dunn noted the lack of publicity given the adoption of the federal court rule in comparison with publicity of the Council's request.

A prime consideration for the Friday and Saturday meetings, according to Judge Dunn, will be the consideration of federal district court rules banning photography and radio and television coverage of court proceedings.

Judge Dunn cited the rule adopted by both the Middle and Eastern N. C. Federal District Courts as of Jan. 1.

Rule 11, entitled "Photography and Reproducing Court Proceedings," reads: "The taking of photographs in the courtroom, or court offices or in the corridors immediately adjacent thereto, during the progress of judicial proceedings, or any proceeding ancillary or incident thereto, or during any recess of the court, and the transmitting or sound recording of such proceedings for broadcasting by radio or television, introduces extraneous influences which tend to have a detrimental psychological effect on the participants and to divert them from the proper objectives of the trial, and shall not be permitted.

"Proceedings, other than judicial proceedings, designed and conducted as ceremonies, such as naturalization proceedings, administering oaths of office to appointed officials of the court, presentation of portraits and similar ceremonial occasions, may be photographed in or broadcast from the courtroom with the permission and under the supervision of the court."

Members of the committee, appointed by the Eastern District judge to recommend rules for court procedure, were:

Chairman, Francis E. Winslow of Rocky Mount, John H. Hall of Elizabeth City, John C. Rodman of Washington, Claud R. Wheatley Jr. of Beaufort, George Rountree Jr. and Alan A. Marshall of Wilmington, Ozmer L. Henry of Lumberton, James R. Nance of Fayetteville, W. T. Joyner and John H. Anderson Jr. of Raleigh and Charles P. Green of Louisville.

The Eastern District committee of attorneys recommended adoption of Rule 11 as it appears among the rules of the Middle District.
