Pitt Man Spent 6 Hours In Car Wreck Before Found

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

FALKLAND—A 22-year-old local man spent approximately six hours in a wrecked auto only 400 yards from his home before being found early today by a passing motorist.

William Robert Baker, 22, of Route 1, Fountain, suffering from a broken leg received in the crash, was discovered in the wreckage about 6 a.m. after a night which saw temperatures drop as low as 28 degrees.

Patrolman W. K. Chapman who investigated the incident, said Baker was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Fire Department's rescue unit, where he was treated for the injury, and admitted for observation.

Baker was quoted as saying he was headed home at the time of the mishap and apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the car. The officer continued by reporting that Baker said when he "got straightened out" and looked at his watch it was 12:05 a.m.

A futile effort was made by Baker to summon aid by blowing his car's horn to attract attention, Trooper Chapman noted, until the battery was run down. He noted that a house about 150 yards from the scene was occupied, but apparently no one heard the signal.

Baker's own home was only about 400 yards from the accident scene, on Rural Paved Road 1245, about a mile from Dupree's Cross-roads.

Patrolman Chapman, who charged Baker with operating on the wrong side of the road, said the vehicle traveled 297 feet after going out of control before crashing head-on into a three-foot high ditch bank.

The vehicle bounced off the bank, the officer explained, and came to rest part in the ditch and partly over the roadway.

Damage to the 1958 model car was set at $550.

Law Enforcer's Radio Is Stolen

Police today are investigating a theft . . . from a Pitt County Sheriff's Department car.

Officers said a report was received about 11 p.m. Wednesday that someone had taken a portable transistor radio from one of the law enforcement vehicles while parked in front of the Pitt County Court House.

The radio was left on the front seat of the vehicle while its owner entered the Sheriff's office to secure flashlight batteries. He returned to find his radio gone.

Weather Satellite Put In Orbit; Already Transmitting Pictures

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States put a new weather satellite, Tiros IV, into orbit today, and its cameras and electronic equipment promptly began sending back photographs of the earth's cloud cover.

A 90-foot Thor-Delta rocket, blasting off from this base at 7:44 a.m., put up the 285-pound satellite.

In Washington, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced shortly before 11 a.m. that pictures of cloud cover had been received, and that "indications are that these are good."

A spokesman for the space agency said pictures were received at 9:32 a.m. at the Wallops Island, Va., monitoring station.

Officials of Radio Corp. of America said pictures from the satellite were also received at their Princeton, N.J., station.

A spokesman for NASA said these pictures were made during the satellite's first whirl around the earth. In this initial orbit, he said, the satellite was slightly tilted and the quality of pictures would not be expected to be as good as those received during later orbits.

The job of putting up the satellite went smoothly.

At a news conference later, project official Robert Gray gave the report that all looked well. He said that radio signals from the rocket indicated all three stages performed normally. He said signals were picked up from the payload by a station in Winkfield, England.

The target of the shot was an orbit path about 400 miles high. A definite conclusion as to whether orbit was achieved could be made ahead of the completion of the first 100-minute circuit.

Shaped like a tall drum, Tiros IV is almost identical to the three earlier weather-eye satellites. The major difference is an improved lens system in one of its two television cameras to reduce distortion and provide clearer cloud pictures.

The U. S. Weather Bureau planned to make greater forecasting use of the Tiros IV pictures, funneling them to weather agencies in many nations within two or three hours after receipt.

The early portion of flight appeared normal as the 90-foot booster arched toward the northeast and sped swiftly from sight.

The launching came after postponements Tuesday and Wednesday because of minor technical difficulties with the rocket.

Project officials said the new Tiros, if successful, would be used to help predict the weather for next week's scheduled orbital flight of Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.—as Tiros II did for Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. on his sub-orbital flight last May.

For a few days on either side of Glenn's intended Feb. 14 launching date, Tiros IV would be able to photograph cloud cover over the main Atlantic recovery areas. Weather can prove a considerable problem in those areas this time of the year. Heavy clouds above the Cape forced one postponement of Glenn's flight.

Saarbruecken Mine Blast Toll Rises To 279 Dead

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP)—The Saar State Mining Office announced today that 279 miners were killed and approximately a score are still missing in one of Germany's worst coal mine disasters.

A spokesman said 275 bodies had been removed from the tragedy-stricken Lulsenthal mine near here, and four men had died in hospitals. Another 81 miners are in hospitals, many in critical condition.

The spokesman said 100 men escaped unhurt from Wednesday's explosion and cave-in, leaving about 20 men unaccounted for among the 480 who were in the pit at the time of the disaster.

Efforts continued more than 30 hours after the accident to find the missing, who possibly are buried under tons of coal and rock.

The bodies of many miners were found burned, gassed or crushed under the debris of caverns from the massive firedamp blast on the fourth level 1,800 feet underground.

Earlier rescue authorities gave widely varying estimates of the number missing, because of the possibility that many survivors had not reported to the state-owned mine office.

Many of the rescuers were among the 200 miners who escaped when a sheet of flame shot through the main shaft and set off a terrific blast that sent timbers flying and brought tunnel walls and ceilings crashing down 1,800 feet below the surface.

"It felt like being hit by a giant's fist," said Georg Kneip, 21, who was in Gallery No. 2.

"Grey, dirty clouds filled the part of the Gallery I was in. I could barely see my hands even if I raised them to my face. The lamps at the top of our helmets just did not get through this thick cloud."

Kneip said he managed to reach No. 4 gallery where the explosion occurred and found a scene of horror.

Anxious relatives and friends gathered at the mine gate through the night. Wives and mothers of missing miners rushed from hospital door to hospital door in a desperate effort to find their husbands and sons. Inside, doctors administered blood plasma brought by police cars and U.S. Army helicopters following an emergency appeal through the Red Cross.

The disaster came in the middle of the gay pre-Lenten carnival season traditionally observed in this part of industrial Germany. Saarland authorities proclaimed official mourning throughout the state. West Germany's second largest coal and steel center. An official funeral ceremony was set for Sunday.

Stennis Accepts Executive Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy invoked the doctrine of executive privilege today to forbid Pentagon personnel to tell a Senate subcommittee the names of specific anti-Communist speeches. The chairman promptly upheld the plea.

"I am convinced this executive plea applies and the chair sustains it," said Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss.

Up to the time of the presidential intervention Stennis had been one of those attempting to elicit answers on the point.

The only subcommittee member objecting to the chair's ruling was Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., whose charges that the military had been muzzled against anti-Communist statements set off the subcommittee's study.

Thurmond did not appeal Stennis' ruling immediately to the subcommittee membership, a course which would have been open to him.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara read to the subcommittee a letter from the President invoking the executive privilege and directing Defense Department personnel from top to bottom not to disclose the information about any individual changes in texts.

The President held it would not be "in the public interest" to permit the subcommittee to question the censors, and on this basis Stennis sustained the chief executive's right to invoke executive privilege.

Since the days of George Washington, Stennis said, neither the courts nor the Congress ever has overridden pleas of executive privilege by a president.

Revising Aid Plans

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Major reorganization of the U.S. military aid mission in South Viet Nam is expected within the next few days to give the United States much more influence over the conduct of South Viet Nam's war against the Communist Viet Cong.

The nature of the reorganization is a closely guarded secret. But among changes expected is the appointment of a full general to head the U.S. Military Advisory Assistance Group here. The mission now is commanded by Lt. Gen. Lionel C. McGarr.

Another expected change in organization would bring the U.S. forces here into much closer liaison with the Vietnamese forces they are assigned to train and support. Presumably this would mean creation of joint U.S.-Vietnamese command teams.

At present the 4,000 U.S. officers and men serving here are at the disposal of the Vietnamese military commanders and are being used as the Vietnamese think they are needed for training, communications, general support and transportation.

The anticipated change would give the U.S. advisers and support groups a much stronger say in the conduct of the war against the rebel guerrillas.

The reorganization would coincide with an increasing military involvement of the United States in the war here. U.S. servicemen are being exposed increasingly to combat, and although technically their function is only to train, advise and support, nearly every day they are trading shots with the Viet Cong in self-defense.

So far, U.S. casualties have been negligible. But U.S. Army helicopters are drawing fire almost every time they fly missions and field advisers are subject to ambushes, sniping or grenades, along with their Vietnamese trainees. The casualty rate is expected to increase sharply as more and more American forces are exposed to the Communist guerrillas.

Merchants Seeing One Of Biggest Dollar Days

As shoppers swarmed into downtown Greenville today for "Dollar Day," merchants were estimating this to be the biggest dollar event ever held here.

President of the Greenville Merchants Association Morris Brody stated that, "All I can say is that I have seen the biggest crowd from out-of-town that has ever been to any Dollar Day." He commented that the shoppers are coming from a larger outlying area than usual, including other counties.

Crowds in the downtown stores have been heavy all morning, and indications are that the afternoon will see an equally heavy crowd of shoppers.

Traffic has been unusually heavy today due to the trade event of the Merchants Association. B. D. Johnson, chairman of the Trade Promotion Committee for local merchants, said Dollar Day "is going very well, I think." He noted crowds in his store were so heavy that he had been unable to go elsewhere during the morning hours.

Shoppers were reported waiting at doors of stores when they opened this morning.

Free parking has been provided for this event, one of two annual Dollar Days sponsored by Greenville merchants.

IT'S DOLLAR DAY . . . and parking is free as the bags over downtown parking meters announced today.

Pitt Register Of Deeds Dies

FARMVILLE—Mrs. Blair Cox, 44, register of deeds of Pitt County, died at her home in Farmville early Thursday morning following an illness of six weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 3 p.m. from the First Baptist Church in Farmville by the Rev. E. W. Holmes, assisted by the Rev. Roy H. Silvers.

Interment will follow in the Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville.

Mrs. Wheelless had been register of deeds of Pitt County since 1951, having started to work in the office in 1944. She succeeded her father, Roy T. Cox who died in 1951.

At the time of her death, she was first vice-president of the North Carolina Register of Deeds Association. Mrs. Wheelless attended East Carolina College for two years and graduated from Woman's College, University of North Carolina. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Farmville, being active in both church and Sunday School affairs.

At the time of her death she was superintendent of the nursery department, treasurer of the church building fund, member of the church choir and active in YWA and Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Wheelless had worked in the AAA office in Greenville, 1939 to 1942 and was secretary to the home agent's office from 1943 to 1944.

She is survived by her husband, R. P. (Bob) Wheelless of the home; her mother, Mrs. Roy T. Cox of Winterville; one sister,

MRS. BLAIR C. WHEELLESS

Mrs. Dixie McGlohon Jr., of Greenville; two brothers, B. Vernon Cox of Winterville, and W. Riley Cox of Greenville.

The family requests no flowers. Memorial gifts may be sent to the Cancer Fund or the building fund of the First Baptist Church in Farmville.

County Officials Cite Great Loss

Pitt County officials today mourned the death early this morning of Mrs. Blair C. Wheelless, register of deeds since March 1951.

B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt Board of Commissioners, issued a statement: "In the death of Mrs. Wheelless, the county has suffered a great loss. Mrs. Wheelless was a devoted public servant and she will be sorely missed by the officials and employees of Pitt County."

But in spite of the shock of Mrs. Wheelless' death, the commissioners were immediately faced with the duty of appointing a successor.

Acting under a ruling obtained today from the Attorney General's office, the commissioners ordered the register of deeds office closed and locked until a successor to Mrs. Wheelless is appointed. Gardner said arrangements for a meeting of the official board to consider an appointment will be made immediately.

County Attorney W. W.

Speight, who contacted Ralph Moody, an assistant in the Attorney General's office, said the office had previously ruled that a register of deeds office vacancy "precludes deputies or assistants who act in the name of the register of deeds from service and prevents the office from remaining open until a successor is appointed . . . to fill the . . . unexpired term of the register of deeds."

The term of Mrs. Wheelless, re-elected in 1960, expires Dec. 31, 1964.

The statement issued by Gardner expresses its deepest sympathy to the family.

"The office of register of deeds will be closed in accordance with state law until a successor is appointed to fill the vacancy of the register of deeds, due to the death of Mrs. Wheelless."

"All county offices will be closed at 12 noon Friday, Feb. 9, in respect to Mrs. Wheelless."

Can Get Leave If Proven Dead

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—City commissioners planned to take steps tonight to correct an ordinance covering city administrative offices.

Under a section of the ordinance, passed last fall and effective since Nov. 12, three days' leave of absence with pay was to be granted any city employee who submitted proper proof of his death.

Trace Of Snow

A light snowfall began in the Greenville area about 1 p.m. today with the temperature standing at about 37° greens.

Fairly large-sized flakes began to settle gently as shoppers crowded Greenville's business streets seeking "Dollar Day" bargains.

Earlier during the morning reports of brief snow flurries had been received from points in and around Pitt County.

County CD Shelter Survey Now Underway

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Engineers are now closely screening public and commercial buildings which might afford shelter in the event of nuclear attack or other disaster, the Pitt County Civil Defense Council learned last night.

Representatives Thomas Rivers and Frank Hicks of Rivers and Associates Inc., engineering firm of Greenville, appeared before the council to explain steps being taken in connection with the shelter survey project. The meeting was held in the offices of the Greenville Board of Education with Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, officiating.

Only public buildings which have a protection factor of 20 and a capacity for 50 persons are being examined. Engineers working on the survey are primarily concerned with location, use and physical characteristics of each building at the present time.

In Pitt County, people have been "very cooperative" with engineers working on the shelter survey project, Rivers stated.

Rivers and Associates Inc. is a part of a five-firm group, with L. E. Wooten of Raleigh as contractor, holding a contract with the Navy to make the shelter survey in an 11-county area, including Pitt, Lenoir, Wayne, Wake, Chatham, Hertford, Bertie, Martin, Greene, Wilson and Johnston. About half the area is being worked out of Greenville.

One of the major problems encountered in ascertaining most useful locations of potential shelters is determining where the population will be at night and during the day. Since the 1960 census was based on nighttime population, surveyors are faced with finding out where the people are during the day.

Determination of daytime population is complicated by the fact that working people migrate from one town to another for their jobs, so that the daytime population could be more or less than the nighttime population for a given township, Rivers stated. Assumption will be the basis for determining nighttime population where figures are not available.

The number of school children going and coming from communities has been obtained accurately from Superintendents D. H. Conley of county schools and J. H. Rose of Greenville schools. The first step in the project involved reviewing the area under assignment. This second step, of course, involves actually entering and examining the building. Detailed cards on each building will be filled out and fed to an IBM machine which will aid in computing safest shelters. Rivers explained to the council. Private homes are not being included in the survey, though apartments are, in the event they are applicable.

Asked if there would be enough approved shelters in Pitt County without building additional ones, Rivers and Hicks answered, "We do not know yet. We are not far enough along and we don't know what protection factor will be chosen." Officials connected with Civil Defense expressed the opinion that in the final steps of the shelter survey project, the protection factor will be much higher than the figure 20 now being used.

Members of the council also asked if buildings of East Carolina College would be restricted to college population. They were told that buildings on the campus might afford shelter for other than college people.

In other business last night, Civil Defense Director Rose asked CD officials to incorporate towns to indicate if they had warning sirens and where they were located. He circulated information sheets concerning CD work and personnel in each community and asked that they be completed and returned, in order that the countywide plan be printed as soon as possible.

Decisions will have to be made as to where radiological monitoring equipment and personnel will be stationed. Rose cited need for more personnel to be trained in this area. Storage space for CD materials and supplies must be selected.

Rose announced that Claude Christopher and Dawson Nethercutt of the Greenville Rescue Squad are scheduled to attend the Canadian Civil Defense Rescue School in Ontario, Canada for three weeks of instruction. They will be available for consultation upon their return.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The groundhog didn't see his shadow in this part of the country. So it seems that spring isn't very far away. And a ride through the countryside almost convinces you that we are on the doorstep of this the most welcome of all seasons. Of course it is only the early part of February, and there will come days that knock notions of spring clean out of your mind.

Signs
But there is a quince growing near Cecil Satterthwaite's store at Pactorius showing red. And tractors are plowing under cover crops in fields along the roadside. And in the farmyard, you can see folks tinkering with tractors and other farm equipment. And that dull grayish brown smoke that seems to hover over the woodlands of hardwood trees has a slight tinge of green. And along the river banks near the Grimesland bridge, there is activity among the small boats. And on the campus at East Carolina College, there are a few venturesome yellow pansy blooms that didn't even notice the snow or cold. These are signs that tell of spring, or at least a hope of it.

The Gardeners
But the sign that tells you spring has come isn't visible at least for a car driving along the road. Nowhere do you see the home gardener at work on his grounds. There is too much chill in the air for much venturing out among the growing things. Most of the gardening done for quite a while yet will be done in the mind and by putting plans down on paper. But now is a good time to get some things ready equipment-wise for the growing season that is only a few weeks distant.

Check Equipment
Get out the lawn mower and see if it is ready to go. If not, get it to a repair shop for a complete overhaul job. Chances are you have left it in the same condition it was after the last mowing job. Look over your spraying equipment. Check for leaks, hose, loss of pressure, clogged nozzles, etc. Fill it up with water and try it out. Check garden hoses for dry rot, leaky places, etc. Sharpen saws, hand clippers and other pruning tools. If you have an electric hedge cutter, be sure wire isn't worn or insulation torn. Discard all worn out shovels, spades and replace splintery wooden handles on all that have future use.

Pest Moss
If you are going to use peat moss as a soil conditioner, buy several bales now. Put them out of doors in some place where they won't be too unsightly. Break them open and let the rains soak the moss thoroughly.

ECC Student Represents State At Convention

Anne Vickery of Winston-Salem, senior student of music at East Carolina College, will appear as representative of North Carolina in a recital by college-age performers at the Southern Division Convention of the Music Teachers National Association in New Orleans.

The program will take place Tuesday, Feb. 13, 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the Hotel Sheraton-Charles. A soprano, Miss Vickery will sing arias from operas by Mozart and Puccini.

She will also participate during the convention in a panel discussion at a meeting of the Student Activities Section.

The Convention of MTNA in New Orleans February 13-16 will be attended by musicians from all parts of the South. The program will feature appearances by concert and opera stars, college and university performers, and the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony.

Miss Vickery was chosen through auditions conducted by the North Carolina Music Teachers Association as an outstanding competitor among student musicians in colleges in North Carolina and, through winning the honor, was presented in a program of songs at the annual convention of the organization in Greensboro last month. She was also selected in the auditions as North Carolina representative at the New Orleans Convention. On Saturday of this week, Feb. 10, Miss Vickery will appear as Margarita in a performance of Gounod's "Faust" by the East Carolina College Opera Theater at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus.

A major in voice at East Carolina, she has studied under Paul Hickfang and Mrs. Gladys White of the faculty.

In college activities she is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, music organization for women, and of the College Choir. At present she is serving as vice president of the Opera Theater. On April 15 she will be presented by the Department of Music in an "honors recital," a recognition given to a small group of talented seniors.

Miss Vickery is a graduate of Wilkes Central High School in North Wilkesboro. At East Carolina, her name has frequently appeared on the college Honor Roll.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Vickery, 835 Westover Avenue, Winston-Salem.

'A View Of Japan' Given Club

Fred Mattox, local attorney, was the speaker for the afternoon when the Thetis Book Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roy Hardee Jr. in Lakewood Pines.

After a short business session presided over by Mrs. Bill Howard, president, and exchange of books, the hostess introduced the speaker.

Mattox, who was stationed in Japan with the U. S. Air Force for several years, gave the club "A View of Japan," illustrated with color slides.

The slides depicted the Emperor's Palace, traditional tea making ritual, puppet performance, Japanese Opera, and numerous temples. The colorful Japanese attire for festive occasions was shown as well as the student's uniform.

The slides and narration by the speaker gave an insight into the Japanese way of life, traditions, religious practices and mode of dress.

At the conclusion of the meeting members and guests were served a dessert course. Yellow roses were featured in the decorations for the occasion, the yellow rose being the club flower.

Invited guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Stuart Shinn, Mrs. Donald Freeman and Mrs. Fred Mattox.

Mrs. Withey Club Speaker On 'Burma'

Valentine cards marked the places of the 21 luncheon guests of Mrs. Stanley Hathaway and Mrs. Dalton Vainwright when they entertained the Sappho Book Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hathaway.

Red and white decorations were used throughout the home to carry out the Valentine motif. A luncheon was served to the club members and guests, Mrs. Bob Russ and Mrs. J. A. Withey.

Mrs. Withey, guest speaker, spoke on "Nine Months in Burma." The Witheys spent nine months in Rangoon, Burma in 1960-61. Dr. Withey received a Fulbright Grant for study and research at the University of Mandalay. Mrs. Withey told of her family's home life and the culture and customs of the Burmese people. She said 93 percent of the natives were Buddhist.

She spoke of the Burmese as "rich-poor" because they do not depend on material things for happiness.

Following her talk, Mrs. Withey used color-slides to help us visualize her "home away from home." Many useful and ornamental Burmese souvenirs were on display.

While in Burma, Dr. Withey obtained permission to produce Prime Minister U. Nu's play, "The Wages of Sin." It is a political drama developing the theme of the menace of Communism. Dr. Withey will direct its first production in the United States in McGinnis auditorium, East Carolina College, February 22-24.

The president, Mrs. Eugene Ward, conducted the business meeting. The following slate of officers was read and approved: president, Mrs. Boyd Cox; vice-president, Mrs. Jarvis Allgood; recording secretary, Mrs. Nelson Bowden; corresponding secretary and reporter, Mrs. W. H. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Bentley; and custodian, Mrs. Aubrey Taylor. The new officers will assume their duties in April.

Books were distributed and the meeting was adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Jet Ellis of Crisp and Mrs. James Whitley and daughter, Gail of Walsenburg, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Easter Langley.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gay held open house Saturday night honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Dilda, Miss Upton, and Mr. W. F. Mayo were honored guests.

White flowers and tapers and silver candelabra were used in decorating the dining room. About 100 guests registered.

Mrs. Harold Bowen and Miss Bessie Bishop poured punch. Assisting in serving were Mrs. G. W. Gay, Mrs. D. R. Mercer, Mrs. G.W. Jefferson, Jr., Misses Sylvia and Lou Gay, Mr. and Mrs. David Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jefferson.

Mrs. Trevathan Entertains Recent Bride and Bride-elect The home of Mrs. G. E. Trevathan was the scene of a coffee hour Saturday morning honoring Mrs. John Bishop Gay, Mrs. Johnny Ruel Dilda, and Miss Delores Upton.

Mrs. Gay and Mrs. Dilda are recent brides. Miss Upton will be wed to Mr. William Frederick Mayo in Washington, N. C. on Feb. 11. Mrs. Mark Owens and Mrs. Hardy Johnson shared honors with Mrs. Trevathan as hostesses.

Greeting guests at the front door were Mrs. Trevathan and the honorees, who were presented corsages of pink asters by the hostesses.

In the dining room, Mrs. Jesse Parks poured coffee from a silver service. The uncovered table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of yellow mums. Refreshments consisted of ham biscuits, chicken salad patties, assorted sandwiches, cheese wafers, nuts, and party cakes.

Assisting in receiving in the dining room were Mrs. Henry Turnage Trevathan and Miss Martha Hardy Johnson.

Throughout the home where chairs were arranged for the social hour, were arrangements of pink glads, camellias, and greenery.

The honorees were presented hot roll covers by the hostesses. More than 50 guests attended. Out-of-town guests were from Washington, Bethel, Ayden, and Rocky Mount.

Shower Given Carolyn Langley Honoring Miss Carolyn Langley, bride-elect of Feb. 9, to Mr. Joe Exum, Mrs. Paul Langley, and Mrs. William Barnes entertained at a miscellaneous shower. The shower took place in the Fountain community building Friday evening, Feb. 2. The building was decorated in pink and white. The honoree was wearing a magenta suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations presented to her by the hostesses.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth centered with arrangement of pink carnations. The guests were greeted by Mrs. William Barnes and registered by Mrs. J. E. Woodward. Miss Baldy Barnes received the gifts. Mrs. Adrian Gardner and Mrs. Paul Langley served refreshments to the 70 guests. Mrs. Daisy Baker, grandmother of the honoree, and Mrs. Estell Exum said good-bye.

Farmville Girl Reigns Now As 'Miss Wilson'

WILSON—Miss Virginia Wright Allen, 5-4 blue-eyed Farmville beauty known to Farmvillians as Gina, was crowned Miss Wilson of 1962 here Saturday.

Miss Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wright Allen of Farmville, competed with 10 other girls for the Wilson beauty title. All contestants appeared before the audience and a panel of five judges in swim suits and evening gowns and each contestant staged a three-minute talent presentation.

The new Miss Wilson, a freshman at Atlantic Christian College here, presented a song-and-dance routine and entertained the audience with a lively version of the "Charleston." She wore an aqua flapper costume.

Finalists in the competition, in addition to the Farmville beauty, were Miss Judith Wilson of Wilson and Miss Barbara Long, also of this city.

Miss Allen's last hurdle to the pageant's crown included two questions.

To the question: "What qualities would you look for in the man you marry?" Miss Allen replied: I would want the man I marry to be ambitious and willing to love me for what I am. He must be a good father, and always walk hand in hand with me and God.

Her second question: "What would you serve if your best beau were coming to dinner?" drew this reply: "I would prepare a simple meal, a meal he wouldn't have difficulty in eating, one that would make him feel comfortable and welcome."

Wilson's beauty queen of 1961, Miss Julia Carol Meadows, crowned the pageant's winner.

VIRGINIA ALLEN

Miss Allen will carry Wilson's banner into the Miss North Carolina competition later this year.

Miss Allen, a Farmville High School graduate of 1961, was Farmville High's homecoming queen in 1960. An outstanding member of her graduating class, she has served as vice president of North Carolina's United Christian Youth Movement.

Along with the "Miss Wilson" title, Miss Allen received prizes worth more than $1,500 and a $500 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Cane-Swinger To Pay Damages

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—A 12-year-old boy who suffered a broken arm when he was whacked by a cane-swinging 93-year-old man received a verdict for $1,500 damages from a jury Wednesday.

Pitt November Sales Tax Rose

Gross retail sales in Pitt County last November were more than 500,000 above the November 1960 total, according to figures released by the Greenville Merchants Association.

The 1961 figure of $7,462,333 for November was substantially higher than the sales in Pitt during November 1960—a total of $6,940,418.

Sales tax collections in Greenville reflected a similar but brighter pattern. Last November, Greenville merchants reported a total of $93,173.52 in sales and use tax collections. That figure was nearly $26,000 above the $67,250.50 recorded for November, 1960.

The pattern indicated in Greenville was uniform for five other Eastern North Carolina cities for which figures were furnished.

Greenville, Kinston, Wilson, Goldsboro, New Bern and Rocky Mount each showed increases from November to November. The figures (for Nov. 1961) and Nov. 1960, in that order) were:

Greenville — $93,173.52, $67,250.50; Kinston — $110,865.24, $86,615.86; Rocky Mount — $138,303.02, $98,655.84; Wilson — $105,518.25, $79,608.26; Goldsboro — $144,587.44, $107,120.18; New Bern — $84,139.95, $65,456.64.

Detroit Symphony Plays At College Friday Night

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, one of this country's most noted music organizations, will be presented in concert Friday night as an attraction of the 1961-1962 Entertainment Series at East Carolina College. The program is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. Paul Paray, internationally famous French musician who joined the orchestra in 1951 as conductor, will appear with the Detroit Symphony here as it performs works by Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Wagner, Saint-Saens, and Prokofiev.

Friday's program will open with Mendelssohn's colorful overture "Fingal's Cave." The great Symphony, No. 7 by Beethoven, with its pulsating rhythm and marvelous melody, will follow. Other numbers to be performed are Wagner's Overture to "The Flying Dutchman," the "Classical" Symphony in D Major by Serge Prokofiev, and the Bacchanale from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah."

People Must Be Willing To Pay

There are few people who question the need for additional financial aid to education as outlined by President Kennedy in his special message to Congress.

The best way to provide this aid, however, is through state school systems rather than under a federal aid to education program as outlined by the President.

President Kennedy's proposals submitted to Congress this week are similar to those he made last year and which were subsequently rejected by Congress. In his proposals this year the President gave top priority to his recommendations for pumping federal monies into public schools and made his proposals for higher education take a back seat to the public schools.

It is well enough that the people throughout the nation be well aware that statistics indicate the number of children in public schools will increase some 30 per cent or 14 million by 1970. It is imperative that by their awareness of the need for new schools and classrooms because of this increase, the people will move to provide the necessary facilities.

Full Agreement On Basic Facts

By LYNN NISBET

ARGUMENT — Lawyers argued the law and the constitution before the Supreme Court this week on the question of whether or not an election can be held this year to fill the office of Lieutenant Governor. Both sides agreed upon the facts, which are essentially these:

Clyde Philpott, who had been elected Lieutenant Governor, died in August of 1961. Question arose as to whether the vacancy could be filled before the regular gubernatorial election in 1964. Cognizant of the fact he probably would have to appoint an interim officer if an earlier election could be had, Governor Sanford asked the Attorney General for an opinion. The Attorney General ruled that the vacancy could not be filled until 1964. A number of citizens, including some eminent lawyers, held different view.

Last December Sen. Max Thomas of Union prepared a notice of candidacy in the 1962 primary and tendered it along with the appropriate filing fee to the State Board of Elections. The board declined to accept it, on the ground that the Attorney General had ruled no election could be held. Thomas appealed to the Superior Court of Wake County. The matter was heard by Judge William Y. Bickett on January 20. Bickett sustained a demurrer by the Attorney General, and Thomas further appealed to the Supreme Court. The high court acceded to requests of all parties for an early hearing and it was set for the first item when the court convened for the Spring term on Tuesday of this week.

Chief Justice Wallace Winborne did not sit with the court. Senior Associate Justice Denney presided. Sitting with him were Associate Justices Hunt Parker, William H. Bobbitt, Carlisle Higgins, Wm. B. Rodman and Clifton Moore.

QUESTIONS — It is hazardous business to attempt forecast of judicial opinion, but questions asked by the Justices as the lawyers were making their appeals rather clearly indicated support of the Attorney General and Judge Bickett.

Justice Parker asked, if the argument of appellants is sound, was it not the duty of the Governor to appoint someone to fill the vacancy. He later asked, again with the "if the argument is sound", would not requirement for an election of a Lieutenant Governor also apply to the Governor and require an election in case of a vacancy there.

When Assistant Attorney General Ralph Moody argued that there is provision for succession to the governorship, the lieutenant governorship and the president of the senate, Justice Rodman asked if, in the event the president of the senate succeeded to the top office as acting Governor would his term in that capacity continue for the duration of the term to which the Governor had been elected, or only for the duration of the time for which he had been elected president of the senate. It was the first time that point had been raised. Another question for which no answer was forthcoming was whether a senator under 30 years of age could function as acting Governor, when the constitution required a Governor to be 30 years old.

UNIQUE — Justice Rodman also asked why this question had not been brought to the court before, in view of the fact there have been several instances since the constitution of 1868 was adopted in which a vacancy occurred in the Lieutenant Governor's office by reason of the incumbent moving up to top place upon the death of a Governor.

Time ran out before Attorney Floyd Crouse could elaborate on that point. The present situation is different from all the others in two respects. It is the first time a vacancy has occurred by death of the Lieutenant Governor instead of by promotion. More significant, it is the first time a vacancy has occurred in time to enter candidates in an election.

Tod Caldwell became Governor in December of 1970, when W.W. Holden was removed by impeachment. That was after the 1870 election and at the next election in 1872 a full term Lieutenant Governor would be named.

C.H. Brogren moved to top place upon the death of Governor Tod Caldwell on July 11, 1874. In that instance the next regular election of a Governor and Lieutenant Governor was to come in 1876. There might have been time to get a candidate in the election of 1874, but no effort was made to do so.

Thomas J. Jarvis became Governor in February of 1879, with the next election in November of 1880 being the regular time to elect a Lieutenant Governor.

Thomas M. Holt moved to the Governor's office in April, 1891, and again the next election in 1892 was the regular time to elect a Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

Luther Hodges went to the highest office upon the death of Governor William Umstead in November of 1954, after the general election of that year and the next regular election in 1956 being the time for full term election of State officers.

Clyde Philpott's death during the first year of his term and well more than a year before the next regular election, which was not the time for election of State officers, puts this situation in different situation.

It is also important, we think, that the responsibility of providing these facilities, together with salaries for the additional teachers remain at the state and local level rather than being assumed by the federal government.

Some of the wealthier states would put considerably more into the federal aid to education programs through taxes than they would get back for their schools in terms of financial assistance. Many others—and North Carolina probably would be included in this group—would gain more in the way of financial assistance for schools than they paid in additional federal taxes. Even so, the poorer states probably could do a considerable school improvement job on their own if their proportionate cost share of the overall federal aid to education program were funneled directly by the state into its own schools.

The depletion of each tax dollar would be considerably less if the money were collected and spent by the states than if it is collected by the federal government, then doled back to the states for paying teachers and building schools.

In spite of the needs of public education throughout the country, and in spite of the high cost of meeting these needs in the years ahead, it is our opinion that the needs can best be met and the schools best administered from the state level rather than from the federal level.

The needs cannot be met, however, if the people themselves are not willing to pay the cost of providing adequately for the education of the youngsters.

A Time To Show We Appreciate Scouting

For many years the Boy Scout program has played an important part in the life of Pitt County and its communities. Through the program, literally thousands of youngsters—many of them adult citizens of the county today—have learned Scout crafts and skills, and have also learned the basic rules of good citizenship.

On Saturday some 28 Scout units of Pitt County including cubs, scouts and explorers, will put on one of the most ambitious expositions undertaken here. A seven-hour program has been planned in connection with the exposition which is designed to show the public the kind of work being done by the various scout units and the kind of training being received by the youngsters through the Scout organization in Pitt County.

It is an exposition which should prove well worth the time of those who visit it. The Greenville Kiwanis Club which is sponsoring the exposition, the Scout leaders and youngsters who have prepared the program for the exposition are to be commended for affording the public of this county such an exposition.

There could be a no better way for the citizens of the county to show their appreciation for Scouting and what it has meant to Pitt than to attend the exposition here on Saturday.

Full Of Respect For Each Other

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are times, and this is one of them, when President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev look very considerate of each other.

They're like two heavyweights determined to go the distance but so full of respect for each other's Sunday punch they feel things are tough enough without getting personal about it.

About this time last year, when Kennedy was new in his job and up to his neck in problems with Congress, Khrushchev caused him practically no trouble at all. At least, no extra trouble.

This changed later, about the time Kennedy was finishing up with Congress. Khrushchev suddenly began building a crisis on Berlin. He began talking tough. So did Kennedy. This lasted all summer.

Khrushchev climaxed his temporary unpleasantness by building a wall around East Berlin and abruptly cutting off talks on banning nuclear tests in order to start Soviet nuclear tests. All through this period Kennedy and Khrushchev batted the ball back and forth. It was a tense and unhappy period for everybody including them. It turned out to be their climax for the year with each other.

Came mid-autumn and there was a change in Khrushchev. It was his turn to get up to his neck in problems with a congress, in his case the Communist party congress. He said a settlement on Berlin could wait.

He denounced Stalin and his tactics and, in so doing, rammed heads with the old Stalinists and so irked the Red Chinese that they quit the congress meeting. To the hard-nosed Chinese, Khrushchev was too soft.

He wasn't being completely soft, of course. It was in this period that he set off Russia's super-super bomb and put the heat on Finland to soften her up and perhaps, through Finland, all Scandinavia.

But at least he had pulled back a bit from the Berlin furnace, like a man who figured he had made some progress and didn't want to push his luck.

Meanwhile, communism and the West were still locking horns around the world: in Berlin, Laos, South Viet Nam, the United Nations, Latin America.

That was par for the course and had been for years. It was just the Kennedy-Khrushchev relationship which had become more gentlemanly.

Gradually Khrushchev, as his differences with the Red Chinese deepened into what the West hoped would be a fervent split, talked less and less on foreign affairs. In fact, he talked so little it caused speculation he might be ill. One Paris newspaper even guessed he might have suffered a stroke.

Kennedy did nothing in his public statements to embarrass Khrushchev at a time when embarrassment might have strengthened his enemies in Red China or at home.

Khrushchev even sent his newspaperman son-in-law over here to interview Kennedy—an interview which was published in Russia—and let his son-in-law come back last week for lunch with the President.

Now once again, because it's that time of year, Kennedy is fully busy with Congress. Khrushchev, just as last year, isn't adding anything extra to his problems.

All the problems remain, of course. Nothing has been solved. Neither Berlin, nor Laos, nor Viet Nam, nor nuclear test.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

DIPLOMAS IN THE SKY

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the medical missionary in Africa whose consecrated life has called forth the wonder and admiration of the world, was said one day to have thrown up his hands in despair and groaned out: "What a blockhead I was to come out here to Africa to doctor savages like these!"

Whereupon one of the doctor's African assistants remarked, "Yes, doctor, here on earth you are a great blockhead, but not in heaven."

Do you have any diplomas on your walls? Perhaps you have friends who have them hung up everywhere. But what do diplomas signify? Simply that a person has finished certain academic requirements or has done things of a useful degree. But let it never be forgotten that these diplomas do not represent wisdom, and even if they did it would be earthly wisdom.

There are some poor folks who never got through grammar school but who will have a big diploma in a gold frame awaiting them in the world beyond. Why? Because they have heavenly wisdom. They thought in terms of God and His purposes. Their main object in life was to live according to God's will and to be as helpful as they could amid human need. Some of them may have appeared blockheads to their worldly associates, but we can be pretty sure that in heaven they have a good, big diploma and a grade card there that would make your eyes pop out.

As Colors Go, It's OK

By HENRY HOWARD

A question arose in the newsroom yesterday that reflected the development of what I regard as a very grave situation.

It all started when I made a special request of our news editor, Don Schlenz (who does our headline writing around here), to inject into a specific headline for Wednesday's edition the use of "Red Carpet."

In the traditional sense of the term, there was no question about whether the two words were called for. "Red Carpet" conveyed the proper meaning. It seemed to be Don's considered opinion (merely for the sake of creating a mock issue) that using the word "Red" could have Communist connotations. I'll admit he had a very good point. Particularly was this true since the "Red Carpet" would be used in connection with an old institution.

Naturally our discussion was all in fun. As a matter of record, our headlines have on numerous occasions made use of the word "Red" and the term "Red Carpet" in connection with stories not even remotely associated with the Communies.

Ideally, the Communists should have been branded with another color, and preferably a word not describing any portion of the spectrum.

There are simply too many words in this world to waste the values inherent in the traditional use of the term "Red." And when I say "traditional," in the traditional use of "Red" that overwhelmingly outdates the Communists' so-called traditional use of it.

We could go on and on in this vein. But to get to the vital question:

Should we abandon the use of "Red" in its intended sense to free ourselves from association with the Communies; or, should we increase the use of the most colorful term we have to such a degree that the Communist association with "Red" would be buried by a profusion of the term's true color?

To answer this question, we need to know something about how the Communists adopted "Red." One version has it that the Bolshevik Revolution boys rallied 'round a "Red" rag or flag. Later, when the Communists took over (after the 1917 revolution was successful) they took the rallying flag and added to it the hammer and sickle. Thus the Communist "Red" was born.

It goes without saying that the Russian Revolutionaries selected "Red" for the color of their rallying flag not at all by chance. They certainly recognized the value of the richest of all colors.

As far as I'm concerned, it would be an utter shame for us to surrender the word completely without a struggle. Granted, the Communists have a secure grip on a use for "Red" that rings a note of fear in souls of men the world over.

My contention is that the intended meaning of "Red" must be maintained in our free society. Its meaning as the most brilliant color in the spectrum

Surprising Drop In 1961 Sales

By ELMER ROESSNER

Total retail sales in 1961, the first year of the Kennedy boom were less than in 1960, a year many Democrats called the Eisenhower recession.

According to the Department of Commerce, which keeps on turning out imperfect but still the best national statistics in the world, total retail sales last year were $219,145 million, compared with $219,529 million in 1960.

Since prices generally rose during 1961, and since the number of consumers also rose, the average person got considerable less of the nation's goods last year than they did in the last year of the Eisenhower administration.

There are no immediate explanations. Perhaps consumers, reading the news about Russia, decided to save some of their money for shelters. Perhaps, because of earlier weakness in profits, Christmas bonuses were lower. Perhaps people doubted that the November surprise in income and employment would continue. Perhaps people wanted a second look at autos they planned to buy. Or perhaps merchants, confident of a boom Christmas period, cut back on promotions. Or perhaps each of those reasons and many more worked together to slow sales.

set a new high.

In fact, sales volume was running ahead when Thanksgiving arrived, and there was considerable enthusiasm as the biggest shopping season of each year began.

But buying did not keep up with the previous period. Sales in December were actually 1 per cent below those of November on a seasonally adjusted basis.

There are no immediate explanations. Perhaps consumers, reading the news about Russia, decided to save some of their money for shelters. Perhaps, because of earlier weakness in profits, Christmas bonuses were lower. Perhaps people doubted that the November surprise in income and employment would continue. Perhaps people wanted a second look at autos they planned to buy. Or perhaps merchants, confident of a boom Christmas period, cut back on promotions. Or perhaps each of those reasons and many more worked together to slow sales.

WHERE THE BUCKS FELL

Sales by nondurable goods stores increased almost $3 billion last year, while sales of durables dropped a little more than that amount. Durables are long-lasting products, such as autos, furniture and the like; nondurables are those quickly consumed, such as food, clothing, etc.

Here are some comparisons of the more important groups, in millions:

	1960	1961
Grocery stores	48,339	49,960
Eating, drink places	16,096	16,423
General merchandise stores	24,007	24,932
Dept. stores	13,942	14,489
Gas service stations	17,594	17,962
Drug & proprietary stores	7,530	7,713
Apparel stores	13,708	13,669

Second To None In Music

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Really to know a man, is to watch him work. For 20 years or more, I have watched Richard Burgin at work. I had never spoke to him. He is a fiddler and my specialty among human beings has not been fiddlers, although I claimed, pride, the friendship of the greatest of all, Fritz Kreisler. Summer after Summer, however, I have sat, hour after hour, under many conductors, watching Richard Burgin act as a Sergeant-Major, or as the musicians prefer to say it, Concert-Master of the Boston Symphony, than which there is no superior.

And now, Richard Burgin is partially to separate himself from the Boston and he will be conducting orchestras as a guest which is apparently what so many musicians find a delightful occupation. He will no longer be given orders but will lead the men to glory. The Boston is to be taken over by Erich Leinsdorf, who astounded lovers of Wagner this Winter by his conducting of the Ring at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The skill of a concert-master lies in his ability to build an orchestra into a unit so that the conductor can lead it interpretatively. You have noticed, if you go to concerts, that soloists, after they have done their part, shake the hand of the first violinist. That is not only to show respect for the entire orchestra, which he represents, but also as recognition of his skill in keeping the string section together which means that the entire orchestra has a foundation.

I once witnessed an orchestra fall apart. The conductor was not a leader of men although an excellent musician, and I witnessed the unusual scene of the concert-master pulling it together with his elbow. When I tell this to musicologists, they do not believe it possible, but it did happen. Richard Burgin's string section never fell apart in all the 20 years that I have sat at his feet, no matter who conducted. Koussevitzky, Munch, Montoux, Bernstein, Copland, and a dozen others.

Richard Burgin was born in Warsaw, a town that has some memories for me, for there my father married his first wife and there some of my numerous brothers and sisters were born. The Polish atmosphere is very different from the Russian. Warsaw was once a gay city and its people were among the most cheerful in Europe. Burgin studied under Joachim Copland, and in entire generation of violinists studied under Auer and among them, Burgin is known not only as a violinist and a conductor but also as a teacher. In Boston, he is the Chairman of the String Department of the New England Conservatory and then, during the Summer, he heads the Chamber Music Department at Tanglewood. Undoubtedly, he will continue in both positions. Who ever heads a Department at Tanglewood is an acknowledged master musician.

More happens in this world than politics and economics. The realm of music is expanding in this country beyond anything that could have been expected half a century ago. American leadership is expressing itself in every field and in that Tanglewood plays the unusual role of combining a Festival and a school, a rare opportunity for young Americans to live, during the Summer weeks, in a rich musical atmosphere. Although Tanglewood is young, it already has its traditions and its memories and personalities. Among them Richard Burgin is one of the most beloved musicians and it is to be hoped that he will continue at Tanglewood where an American school of music is developing.

During about three decades of its existence, Tanglewood has already added much to the story of American music in the developing of such composers and conductors as Copland, Bernstein, Schippers and Diamond. Only last week did I discover who dreamed up the original idea of Tanglewood-on-Parade which has been somewhat ruined in recent years but which in its beginning was so organized as to conceive of a musical festival as thoroughly American as a football game.

Grifton Given Clear Deed To Site For Well

GRIFTON—The way has been cleared for work to begin on a new water well for Grifton, with some 50 property owners signing their approval of a well site on DuPont Street here, Mayor Wiley Gaskins announced yesterday.

The town received a clear deed on the well property without resorting to condemnation proceedings.

The property on which town officials wanted to build the well was owned by Joe Quinerly, who was willing to sell to the town. However, the project hit a snag because the area had been zoned for residential use only.

The town, in order to get the site, would have had to obtain a clear deed to the property by obtaining signatures of all adjoining property owners, or instigate condemnation proceedings.

Mayor Gaskins indicated he was highly pleased that the method of clear deed had been obtained through approval of the neighboring property owners, rather than through condemnation.

The mayor pointed out that there won't be a tank on the site—only a well and possibly a small building.

Grifton voters approved a $235,000 water and sewer bond issue last May.

Jail Release On Paying Big Fine

James Robert Stancill, Penny Hill section farmer, was released Tuesday from Pitt County jail upon payment of a fine-restitution and court cost totaling $10,982.42.

The 45-year-old Pitt County man, who pleaded guilty to dual charges of receiving stolen property in Pitt Superior Court last week, submitted through his attorney a check to the office of D. T. House Jr., clerk of Superior Court.

Stancill was released under conditions of a five-year probationary term which allows law enforcement officers to search without search warrant his farm or other property during the five-year term.

The total bill includes an $8,000 fine imposed by Judge Joseph W. Parker of Windsor last Thursday. It also includes $2,500 restitution to Edward L. Owens of Plymouth for 4,000 pounds of ready-for-market tobacco stolen last August. Rounding out the bill was a court cost figure of $482.40. Judge Parker allowed Stancill to pay the fine, restitution and costs and have two consecutive five-to-eight-year sentences suspended.

Weekly Paper Begun In Pitt

AYDEN—"The Ayden News-Leader," a weekly newspaper, began publication here on Friday with J. Russell Wooten as editor.

The paper will be published each Friday at 115 West Ave., Ayden. An office will be maintained on West Avenue and will remain open each afternoon until 5 o'clock and all day on Saturdays.

In its first editorial, the paper declared itself Conservative Democratic "with due respect to the people of all races and creeds in their God-given and legal right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Its purpose is to promote the community, including the civic interests of the people, as well as business and industry.

Staff members listed on the masthead include, in addition to Wooten, J. E. Wooten, religious affairs; Frances Suggs, associate editor; Charles Skinner, sports; Joyce Dennis, school.

Secrets Of Trujillo Terror Still Unknown

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo has been dead eight months, but even today many of the secrets of the Trujillo terror are yet to be disclosed.

Some of the grim aspects of the dictatorship can be pieced together, on the basis of available information. The whole story, including exactly what happened to various victims, is not likely to be known for years, if ever. The key to many secrets apparently rests among Trujillo followers or kinfolk who got out of the country fast when the Dominican people started mapping a route down the road to democracy. Scores of these people now live in the United States, Canada and Europe.

Two of the most discussed victims were Gerald Lester Murphy, of Eugene, Ore., a pilot, and Jesus de Galindez, Spanish-born associate professor of Columbia University, New York.

A generally accepted story is that Murphy was involved in transporting De Galindez, a former employee and arch enemy of Generalissimo Trujillo.

De Galindez dropped from sight in New York in March 1956. He supposedly was brought here on orders of Trujillo and was killed shortly after his arrival.

Murphy was not seen after early December 1956.

Their bodies have not been found. Last month a businessman claiming to have been a former student of De Galindez said a body unearthed in the nearby village of San Jose de Ocoa appeared to be the professor's. Authorities dismissed the claim. No formal investigation was made.

The attorney general's office says there are no current plans to reopen the Murphy-De Galindez case.

Attempts to determine the fate of Trujillo opponents who disappeared have yielded only a few live political prisoners and some unidentified remains from unmarked graves and hidden wells.

There is dark talk about the municipal incinerator as a possible instrument of total liquidation. The waters off the south coast are alive with sharks, and there are lonely stretches of wild country only a few miles from Santo Domingo.

Murphy's car was found abandoned near the shore in 1956. The Trujillo government attempted to link his disappearance to a Dominican military officer, Octavio de La Masa, with whom, it alleged, Murphy had a violent argument and fight. Family friends say De La Masa was last seen Dec. 23, 1956, when he was called to testify on Murphy's disappearance.

ance. De La Masa is said to have denied any connection with the American, whom he knew.

De La Masa's body was dumped from a speeding car on Jan. 7, 1957. The government claimed he had committed suicide. Family associates said the body showed signs of strangulation and a deep wound at the waist.

Friends of Murphy still here describe the Oregonian as an outspoken young man who bragged vaguely to intimates about a connection with the De Galindez case.

According to most versions available from those purporting to have been close to developments, the drugged and unconscious De Galindez was flown from New York. He is then said to have been revived, taken before Generalissimo Trujillo, and forced to eat page after page of a copy of an anti-Trujillo manuscript the professor had written. After this, it is said, he was lowered alive into a vat of boiling water.

Other stories of brutality by Trujillo's agents far surpass De Galindez death versions in sheer horror.

De La Masa's implication in the Murphy disappearance reportedly was not purely accidental. Family associates say the young officer first got in trouble with the generalissimo while in the diplomatic service at London in 1954. He shot and gravely wounded a fellow diplomat close to the official family in what is said to have been a personal quarrel. Perhaps a chance to eliminate him arose with the need to erase Murphy because of the then widening investigation into the disappearance of De Galindez.

A nurse, Gloria Viera, who allegedly made the flight with Murphy from New York, died in a mysterious automobile accident early in November, 1956.

This is said to have had a sobering effect on Murphy, who made belated but never fulfilled plans to leave the country.

Ironically, the De Galindez-Murphy case may have set forces in motion that subsequently led to the liquidation of Trujillo himself last May.

One of the key plotters in his assassination was Antonio de La Masa, a brother of Octavio.

The results were costly to the De La Masa family. Brothers Ernesto, Bolivar, Mario and Pablo were tortured and killed immediately following the generalissimo's assassination. Antonik was shot dead on the street June 4.

There still is a reluctance to talk openly about the case, even among members of the families involved.

Those who say they formerly worked with or knew Murphy are even less disposed to reveal much.

"There are many people alive and abroad who know the whole story. Let them talk," one said.

For Carolyn It's A Busy Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over heard at a White House reception Wednesday for children of diplomats was this conversation between a young guest and Caroline Kennedy, 4-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Kennedy: "What do you do around here?" asked the visitor.

"I walk my daddy to the office every morning."

"Then what do you do?"

"I walk back again."

Honor Students Named At Belvoir-Falkland

By MELBA EVERETTE
BELVOIR — Distribution of report cards to students here has marked the end of the first semester at Belvoir-Falkland High School.

Three BFHS students qualified for Honor Roll listing by receiving grades of A on all academic subjects and grades of H (honor) on conduct.

These three included one senior, Dorothy Clark, a junior, Melba Everette, and freshman Becky Harris.

Students receiving grades of A on at least half of their academic subjects with no grade less than B and at least S (satisfactory) on conduct qualified for the Principal's List.

The 15 BFHS students qualifying for the Principal's List were:

Future Homemakers
Under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Mayo, advisor, and Miss Sandra Jeanette, student teacher, the Future Homemakers of America Club is making plans for its annual Mother-Daughter Banquet to be held in the school lunchroom on Thursday night Feb. 15.

Guest speaker for the program will be Arthur S. Alford, assistant superintendent of Pitt County Schools.

Senior Joan Windham and junior Sue Pierce are striving for State Future Homemakers of America Degrees.

FFA
A group of the Future Farmers of America Club members recently toured the fertilizer plant of the Farmers Cotton Oil Company in Wilson. They later toured the Southern Testing and Research Laboratories.

Eugene James and Dick Brewer accompanied the FFA members on the educational tour.

Beta Conventions
The Belvoir-Falkland Beta Club is making plans to attend the District Beta Club Convention, to be held in Bethel Feb. 23.

Plans are also in progress for the club's attendance at the State Beta Convention in Raleigh on April 7-8. The club's popcorn project, now underway, will finance this trip.

Councilman Lee Approves Interest In Government

JAMES W. LEE . . . member of the City Council of Greenville.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Greenville native, James W. Lee was elected to a seat on the Greenville City Council last May and since that time has been "glad to see so many people taking an active interest in the city government."

Lee, who graduated from Greenville High School in 1947, attended Wake Forest College for two years before entering the U.S. Air Force near the start of the Korean conflict.

During his active duty with the military branch, Lee was stationed at air bases in Texas, Virginia and California, as well as in Korea.

During his six-month stay in the Asian country, Lee, a squadron bombardier (navigator-bombardier) on a B-26, flew 15 combat missions from a base near Pusan. He was separated from the Air Force as a first lieutenant in 1955 and now holds the rank of captain in the Air Force Reserve.

Lee returned to Greenville following his military service and has been manager of a local real estate and insurance firm since that time.

Lee has also been a part time student at East Carolina College and at present lacks only a few hours of completing work toward an A.B. degree in social studies.

The 1960 election was his first political venture, and as he explains, "I ran for city council because I believed in the growth and progress of Greenville. I feel that this same growth and progress

"I am glad to see so many people taking an active interest in the city government. In the past year, more people have shown an interest in the city government . . . definitely a good sign," Lee said.

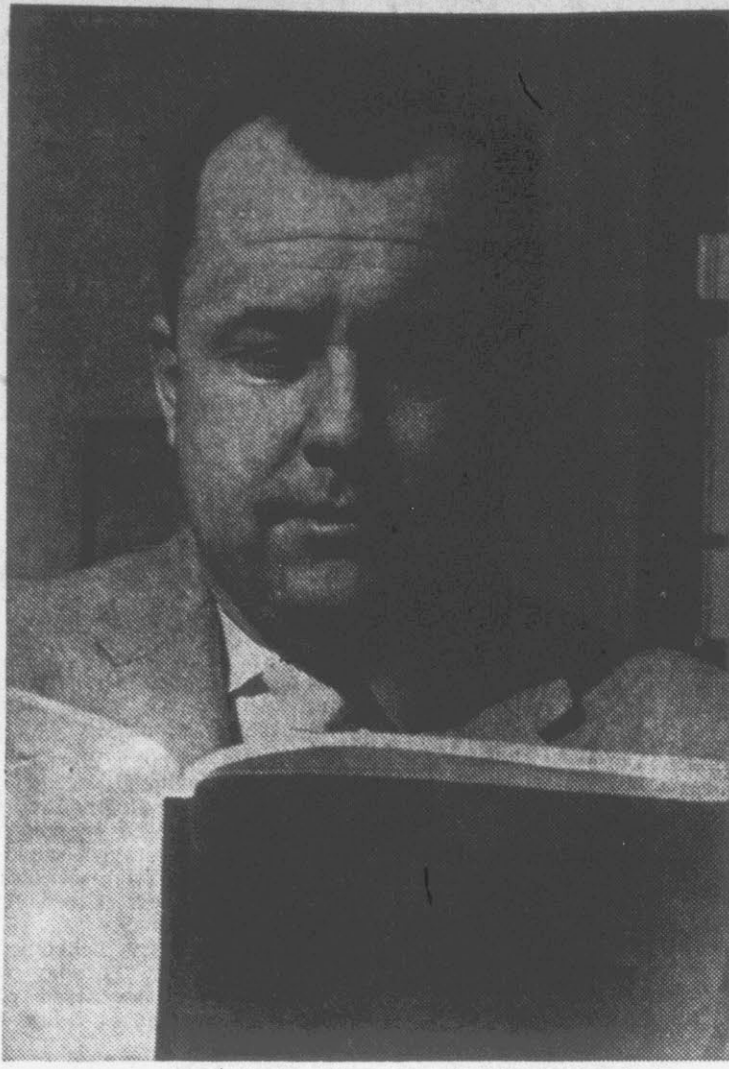

"We have had a good turnout at the council meetings," the councilman said, as he urged: "If a person has never attended a meeting . . . come see how it is run. It's open to the public."

Lee's favorite hobby is fishing, with reading running a close second.

The city official is a member of the local Moose Lodge, Kiwanis Club, the Pitt Insurance Exchange and a past president of the Pitt Board of Realtors.

He is a member of the Memorial Baptist Church, where he is a Sunday School teacher.

ECC Drops To Second Place Loop Ranking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The top rankings in the Carolinas Conference basketball race got thoroughly shaken up Wednesday night. Before the dust settled tonight, there could be still more shifts.

East Carolina dropped out of first place, yielding to Lenoir Rhyne, as the Pirates bowed to Catawba 85-72. Western Carolina dumped High Point 86-66 and replaced the Panthers as the No. 4 team.

Catawba also improved its position, moving into a tie with High Point for fifth.

The top six teams, with worst records, now line up this way: Lenoir Rhyne 11-4, ECC 9-4, Elon 6-5, Western Carolina 9-6, High Point and Catawba 9-7.

Tonight, Elon is at Appalachian, Pfeiffer at Lenoir Rhyne and Atlantic Christian at Guilford. A loss by Lenoir Rhyne would put the Pirates right back in second place, five percentage points behind ECC; and Pfeiffer would pull into a tie for seventh or eighth place, depending on outcome of the Elon-Appalachian game.

If Elon wins the Christians strengthen their hold on third place and Appalachian drops out of its seventh-place tie with Newberry, if Elon loses the Christians drop into fourth place and the Mountaineers hold seventh place alone.

Guilford (2-12 in the league) and Atlantic Christian (1-12) will be battling it out for the cellar. The order of finish can't be predicted, but the eight teams who'll take part in the conference championship tournament Feb. 21-24 at Lexington, N.C. have been established. They are the present top six plus Appalachian and Pfeiffer.

Newberry, a latecomer to the league, doesn't play enough conference games this season to qualify. Neither Guilford nor ACC can make it even if one of them wins the rest of its games.

Catawba was led to victory by Bucky Pope and Jimmy Dew, who scored 22 points apiece. ECC was topped by Charlie Lewis with 21 and Billy Brogren with 19.

Mel Gibson's 29 points led Western Carolina's scoring parade, in which Darrell Murray scored 18, Tommy Lavelle 12 and Roy Tharpe 11. Wolfy Unger scored 17 and Dave Neel 10 for High Point.

Deacons To Tangle With Va. Tech Away Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anytime a basketball team wins 32 in a row on its home court, the reason probably boils down to one of two possibilities: —Nerve gas is piped into the visitors' dressing room.

—There is something a little unusual about the court itself.

Assuming that the last 32 home opponents of Virginia Tech give the har-har to the nerve gas bit, they will line up behind the reasoning of Wake Forest's assistant coach, Charlie Bryant.

Duke Drills Begin Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring still is some six chilly weeks away, but Duke's hardy Blue Devils open "spring" football drills Saturday.

Barring delays because of bad weather, Duke will have completed its chores on March 17, well in advance of the vernal equinox.

Coach Bill Murray, after a third successive ACC title, loses only three of his top 14 linemen by graduation. But two of the departing stalwarts are right ends and filling that place will be one of his major tasks. Seven backfield replacements also must be found, four at fullback where the casualties are heaviest. Thirteen lettermen will be gone, but 26 will be available.

The traditional intra-squad game on March 17 will complete the drills.

South Carolina is second to get down to business. Coach Marvin Bass greets his Gamecocks Monday. They'll go at it until the night of March 9 when they wind up their squad game. An interesting experiment will be the planned shift of halfback Billy Gambrell to quarterback. Bass has excused most of his other rising seniors from the drills.

Other practice dates: North Carolina, Feb. 17-March 24; N.C. State, Feb. 24-March 31; Virginia, March 1-31; Clemson, March 12-April 14; Wake Forest, March 31-May 12, with a week off for Easter vacation; Maryland, April 5-May 12.

Wagman To Be Sentenced Fri.

NEW YORK (AP) — With another figure in the 1961 basketball scandals admitting complicity with a guilty plea, the court spotlight next focuses on the man termed the master fixer.

He is 28-year-old Aaron Wagman of New York, called the key man in the point-shaving scandals that have involved 37 players from 22 colleges. Wagman pleaded guilty last Nov. 30 to 38 counts of bribery and conspiracy and is due to be sentenced Friday in General Sessions Court. His possible penalty—370 years and up to $370,000 in fines.

Wednesday another New Yorker, Joseph Hacken, entered a guilty plea to two counts of bribing college players to juggle points. Hacken was arrested with Wagman last March 17 at the outset of the scandal disclosures and indicted two months later on 11 counts of bribery and one of conspiracy.

Judge Joseph A. Serafini continued Hacken free in $25,000 bail and set March 14 for sentencing. He faces a maximum of 10 years on each count.

The Deacons, who hold down second place in the Atlantic Coast Conference, takes on Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference Thursday night in their last non-league game of the regular season.

Bryant told a basketball luncheon this week:

"In that new field house they have there (at Blacksburg, Va.), it's like playing in a pit. The construction is such that it appears the fans are pasted on the walls and that 100-piece band blares out during timeouts. You can't talk to your team."

"They make North Carolina look like patsies when it comes to noise. And," added Bryant, "VPI has probably as good a shooting team as there is in the country."

Tech is 12-5 for the season, compared to Wake Forest's 9-7. This will be the two teams' 19th meeting since 1912, a series in which each has won nine games.

North Carolina State, upset victor over fifth-ranked Duke Tuesday night, made it five in a row over conference foes Wednesday night by trouncing Virginia 88-68. The Wolfpack, which took over third place in the ACC Tuesday night, could move into second if North Carolina beats second-place Wake Forest Saturday. The Pack is now 7-3 in the league, Wake Forest 6-2.

Virginia would not be awed by SALISBURY — A fired-up Catawba cage team knocked East Carolina's Pirates from the top of the Carolinas Conference standings in an upset victory 85-72 last night.

The Pirates, who had been in the number one spot since Saturday, dropped down to second place in the league standings and Lenoir Rhyne's Bears moved back on top with an 11-4 record compared to East Carolina's 9-4 record.

Pope A Big Help

The win was Catawba's fourth in the last five outings and left the Indians with a 9-7 record. Much of the recent success of the Indians can go to Bucky Pope. The 6-foot 5-inch sophomore from Pittsburgh became eligible on Jan. 17 after transferring from Duke. Pope was a member of the Blue Devil freshman team along with Art Heyman.

In addition to Pope, senior Jimmy Dew helped provide a great deal of the offensive thrust for the Indians. Both Pope and Dew were the high scorers for Catawba with 22 points each.

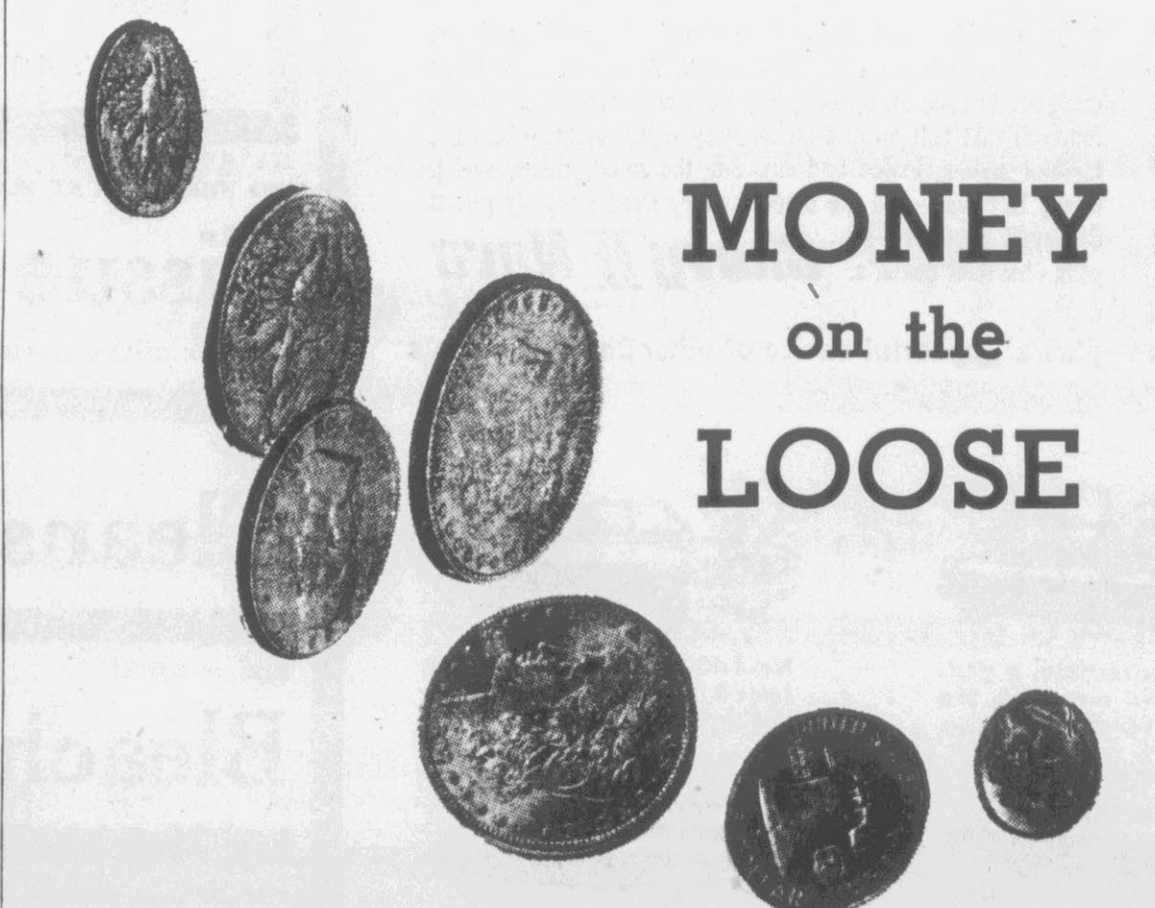

The first half of the contest was a nip and tuck affair with the score being tied 32-32 at the end of the first stanza. The 13-point winning margin came during the last period of the game with the Indians outscoring the Pirates 53-40 in this second half.

Catawba Lead

The Catawba lead did not come until the clock showed about 16 minutes remaining in the game. At this point the Indians surged ahead and never trailed again.

TURLEY TAKES A PRACTICE TWIRL—Manager Ralph Houk, left, and coach John Sain watch pitcher Bob Turley throw as the New York Yankees start spring training at Fort Lauderdale. However, the Pirates got hot and closed the Catawba lead to two points with about three minutes left in the game. But the Pirates could not overtake the Indians and the shooting of Pope, Dew and Al Johnson added to the Bucs' troubles as the trio added 12 points to the margin with about two minutes left putting the Indians out in front 80-68.

Dew did not enter the game until about halfway through the first half. He wasted no time in helping the Indians overcome a 10-point spread to tie the game at the half. The 6-foot 3-inch senior from Bailey picked up seven points in a row to give his team their first lead of the night at 39-38 after two minutes of the second half.

Wroblewski Big Help To Kansas This Year

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Mike Wroblewski has taken over a starring role for Kansas State after two seasons as understudy, and he's proving a resounding success in the Wildcats' drive for a fifth straight Big Eight basketball championship.

Wednesday night the 6-8 senior equaled the conference scoring record by pouring in 46 points, just over half Kansas State's total in a 91-72 romp over Kansas.

While the nationally fourth-ranked Wildcats were winning with ease, the two other rated teams in action were being toppled. Villanova rapped sixth-ranked Duquesne 82-63 and Toledo scored eighth-ranked Bowling Green 70-59.

Wroblewski, a clever jump shooter from South Bend, Indiana, moved in as a Wildcat first stringer this season after playing two varsity years in the shadow of Ced Price and compiling a 67.7-point scoring average.

Tex Winter's Kansas State club, 16-2 overall, suffered their lone conference loss at Colorado Jan. 6 and trail the Buffaloes in the Big Eight, 7-0 to 6-1.

Bubbe White, Wally Jones and George Leftwich alternated as chief gunners for Villanova (16-4) as the Wildcats beat Duquesne (16-3) for the second time in three games this season. The Wildcats took charge midway in the opening half and held command the rest of the way. In the opener of the doubleheader at the Philadelphia Palestra, St. Joseph's (Pa.) drew away in the final 10 minutes and trimmed Georgetown (D.C.) 81-70.

Toledo broke in front early and stayed there in its upset of Bowling Green (15-2), pinning the first league loss of the season on the Mid-American Conference leaders. Larry Jones' 26 points led the Rockets in their home-court victory.

Loyola of Chicago, fast becoming recognized as one of the Midwest's top independents, pushed its record to 15-2 by running off from Western Michigan 102-79. DePaul outlasted Louisville in triple overtime 79-78 on key points by M. C. Thompson and Jesse Nash.

John Speaks netted 30 points and led repeated rallies for North Carolina State's Wolfpack in an 88-68 Atlantic Coast Conference victory at Virginia. Richmond ran up eight straight points in overtime and tripped VMI 82-81 in their Southern Conference game. St. Mary's of California took over first place in the West Coast Athletic Conference from Los Angeles Loyola, shading the Lions 72-71.

Holy Cross bombed Seton Hall 111-84. West Virginia slaved off a Pitt drive in the closing minutes and beat the Panthers 80-76.

Other results—Navy 76, Penn military 40; Army 70, Colgate 63; LaSalle 91, Bucknell 78; Rutgers 102, Muhlenberg 83; Eastern Kentucky 84, Tennessee Tech 72; Iowa State 72; Oklahoma 66; Ohio University 87, Morehead 73; Air Force 62, New Mexico 56.

A Double Salary For Gentile This Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Roger Maris was producing his 61 home runs last season, Jim Gentile's heroics for Baltimore didn't exactly go unnoticed by the Orioles' front office.

The slugging first baseman received a 100 per cent salary hike when he signed his 1962 contract Wednesday calling for $30,000. Gentile's pact a year ago was for $15,000.

The 27-year-old Gentile drove in 141 runs last season and belted 46 home runs—five of them grand-slamers. He placed third in the balloting for the American League's most valuable player award behind Maris and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees.

Other players signed Wednesday included: pitchers Frank Baumann, Cal McLish and Mike Degerick and catcher Sherm Lollar of the Chicago White Sox; pitcher Ken Hunt and outfielder Joe Gaines of the Cincinnati Reds; Phil Ortega and Jack Smith, first baseman Tim Lincecum, infielders Ken McMullen and Dick Tracewski and outfielder Dick Smith of the Los Angeles Dodgers; infielder Leo Burke, outfielder Ken Walters and pitcher Don Ferrarese of the Philadelphia Phils; pitcher Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins.

Also pitcher Bill Stafford and outfielder Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees; pitcher Sherman Jones and first baseman Ed Bouchee of the New York Mets, first baseman Larry Osborne of the Detroit Tigers and infielder Tommy Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves.

There Are Signs Of Slump In The U.S. 'Sin Market'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Is sex losing its box office appeal? There are some signs that it is. Doom-criers who believe that America is heading for the fate of decadent Babylon, Sodom and Gomorrah may now take heart. There seems to be a definite slump in the sin market. Moralists cling to the theory that anyone can get rich quick by making a dirty film or writing a dirty book. Well, it just ain't so. Its bedrock tradition of puritanism still has a strong hold on America. It is easier to make a fast buck in this country selling a new detergent, filter cigarette, or headache cure than in the leering portrayal of sex. You can probably even make more money by starting a one-day diaper laundering service. It is true that the country has been flooded with lurid-covered paperback novels dealing with the racier aspects of sex, as well as foreign and homemade movies that bring a blush to the cheeks of old maid censors. But their market is still limited. The golden harvest is reaped by writers and producers who deal in the wholesome themes that have always appealed most to the hopeful and normal nature of the majority of mankind—adventure, religion, family life, comedy and romantic love. Here are a few proofs: A headline in the anniversary edition of Variety, the bible of show business, reads: "Sex not Whammy in 1961." The six biggest-drawing films of last year were: "Guns of Navarone," "Exodus," "Parent Trap," "Absent-minded Professor," "Alamo," and "Swiss Family Robinson." The top foreign import of 1961, "La Dolce Vita," criticized widely for its suggestive scenes of society orgies in modern Rome, placed 12th in box office appeal. Variety in the same issue listed the top cinema box office hits of all time. Here they are: "Birth of a Nation," "Gone with the Wind," "Ben-Hur," "10 Commandments," "Around the World in 80 Days," "The Robe," "South Pacific," "Bridge on the River Kwai," "Greatest Show on Earth," "Guns of Navarone," "This is Cinerama," and "From Here to Eternity."

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Sarah Powell
ROBERSONVILLE — Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Powell, 69, were conducted at the home Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. by Elder A. B. Ayers, assisted by Elder W. E. Grimes. Burial was in the Robersonville Cemetery. Mrs. Powell died Sunday morning. She was a member of the Spring Green Primitive Baptist Church. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Bob Taylor and Mrs. Harrell Warren, both of Robersonville; two sons, Ed of the home and Vance of Winston-Salem; one sister, Mrs. Mary Reeves of Enfield; 17 grandchildren; and 11 great grandchildren.

Six of these dozen films deal with either historical or religious themes. Only the 12th, "From Here to Eternity," had scenes of questionable taste even for a child's eyes. Now let's take a look at the literary scene. The two fiction books that have been longest on the best seller list of the New York Times are "To Kill a Mocking Bird," by Harper Lee, 79 weeks; and "The Agony and the Ecstasy," by Irving Stone, 45 weeks. The first is a picture of life in a small Southern town as seen by a child; the second is a novel about Michelangelo, the artist.

Leaving Friday For New York Seminar
Ronald Watson of Goldsboro, a sophomore at East Carolina College and an active member of the Wesley Foundation, will leave Friday for New York to attend the 13th Annual Christian Citizenship Seminar, sponsored by the Methodist Student Movement, February 11-17. Methodist Student Movement of North Carolina was allowed to send in three recommendations to the 1962 Christian Citizenship Seminar. Ronald Watson was chosen by the National Screening Committee. Watson's expenses to the Seminar are being paid by the Board of Directors of the Methodist Student Center and St. Luke's Methodist Church in Goldsboro, of which he is a member.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The growing safety of a baby's life; the question of whether human birth is only a half-way point to readiness for life; and a study of blood for 75,000 mothers are subjects for focus on health.

IT'S A BABY, AGAIN
For the anxious, prospective mother and father, the birth of a first child is probably the most important, exciting milestone in life. They might calm themselves with this: Since man first appeared on the earth some 600,000 years or more ago, some 77 billion babies have been born. "Until recently, at least a half of all babies born died before reaching maturity," says the Population Reference Bureau. "Man's quest for some formula to avert death included magic, incantations and prayers, but none of these had shown any efficacy against the major killers. Then, with the advance of modern science, the mortality pattern of a million years was broken." Now, the bureau points out, 95 out of every 100 babies born in Western, industrial society live to become adults.

TOO LITTLE, TOO SOON?
For some scientists, the idea that the gestation period for man is 267 days is only half the story. Dr. Ashley Montagu, Princeton University anthropologist, says the human baby is ushered into the world before he is really ready for it. In fact, birth may be the halfway point.

While it takes the infant some 267 days to develop in the womb, it's about 267 days after birth before the child learns to crawl. Montagu feels that the human infant has to be born when he is, or he would not be able to be born at all. The infant's brain needs only increase slightly to make passage through the birth canal impossible. In fact the baby's growth rate is such that it just can't continue inside the womb. It must continue outside.

This natural progression, Montagu says, is reflected in the mother, too. At birth, the mother needs to care and support her child. Her whole body is ready to minister to the infant's needs. Yet mother and child are isolated from each other in many modern hospitals, just when they need each other most. Comments Montagu: "We live in the logical denouement of the machine age when not only our things are made by machine, but human beings are turned out to be as machine-like as we can make them."

SECRETS IN BLOOD
Are there secret viruses in an expectant mother's blood that cause mental retardation or some other brain or nerve disorder in her yet unborn child? To find the answer, scientists at the National Institutes of Health have begun a study to sample the blood of more than 75,000 expectant mothers. The study will cover 15 medical centers across the United States. Pregnant women and their babies will be studied. It will last some 10 years.

Workers Named For Bloodmobile
Service League volunteer workers for the Feb. 13 visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile have been announced by Mrs. Frank Longino, chairman, as follows: Mrs. J. H. Tucker, Mrs. Milo Smith, Mrs. Ed Parkinson, Mrs. F. A. Atkinson, Mrs. Clay Burnette, Mrs. Louise Ficklen, Mrs. Charles Howard Jr., Mrs. W. S. Corbett, Mrs. W. R. Guice, Mrs. C. L. Lupton, Mrs. John Drake, Mrs. Boley Farley, Mrs. D. C. Wade Jr., Mrs. Dwight Garrett, Mrs. Ralph Brimley, Mrs. Thelma Hilton, Mrs. J. W. Shannonhouse, Mrs. H. H. Bryant, Mrs. Ralph Garrett Jr., Mrs. Ed Harris.

The bloodmobile will be stationed at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

List 134 Births During January

CHAPTER 22

After coffee and a stinger at the bar of the Nassau Casino, James Bond and Felix Leiter separated to give their attention to the gaming tables.

Emilio Largo was playing chemin de fer. Domino Vitali sat behind him chain-smoking and watching the play.

Bond observed the game from a distance. Largo was playing expansively, banking whenever he could and letting his own banks run. He was winning steadily, but with excellent manners, and by the way people looked at him and applauded his coups he was obviously a favorite in the Casino.

Domino was looking morose and bored. The woman on Largo's right, having banded him three times and lost, got up and left the table. Bond went up and looked across the room and slid into the empty place. It was a bank of eight hundred dollars.

It is good for the banker when he has got past the third banco. It often means the bank is going to run. Bond knew this perfectly well. He was also painfully aware that his total capital was only one thousand dollars. But the fact that everyone was so nervous of Largo's luck made him bold. And, after all, the table has no memory. Luck, he told himself, is strictly for the birds.

He said, "Banco."

"Ah, my good friend Mr. Bond," Largo held out a hand. "Now we have the big money coming to the table. Perhaps I should pass the bank. The English know how to play at rail-way trains. But still," he smiled charmingly—"if I have to lose I would certainly like to lose to Mr. Bond."

The big brown hand gave the shoe a soft slap. Largo eased out the pink tongue of playing card and moved it across the balze to Bond. He took one for himself and then pressed out one more for each of them. Bond picked up his first card and flicked it face up into the middle of the table. It was a nine, the nine of diamonds.

Bond glanced sideways at Largo. He said, "That is always a good start—so good that I will also face my second card." He casually flicked it out to join the nine. It turned over in mid-air and fell beside the nine. It was a glorious ten, the ten of spades. Unless Largo's two cards also added up to nine or nineteen, Bond had won.

Largo laughed, but the laugh had a hard edge to it. "You certainly make me try," he said gaily. He threw his cards to follow Bond's. They were the eight of hearts and the king of clubs. Largo had lost by a pip—two naturals, but one just better than the other, the cruellest way to lose.

Largo laughed hugely. "Somebody had to be second," he said to the table at large. "What did I say? The English can pull what they like out of the shoe."

The croupier pushed the chips across to Bond. Bond made a small pile of them. He gestured at the heap in front of Largo: "So it seems, Mr. Italiano. I told you this afternoon we should go into partnership."

Largo laughed delightedly. "Well, let's try just once again. Put in what you have won and I will banco it in partnership with Mr. Snow on your right. Yes, Mr. Snow?"

Mr. Snow, a tough-looking European who, Bond remembered, was one of the shareholders, agreed. Bond put in the eight hundred and they each put in four against him. Bond won again, this time six against a five for the table—once more by one point.

Largo shook his head mournfully. "Now indeed we have seen the writing on the wall. Mr. Snow, you will have to continue alone. This Mr. Bond has green fingers against me, I surrender."

Now Largo was smiling only with his mouth. Mr. Snow survived and pushed forward sixteen hundred dollars to cover Bond's stake.

Bond thought: I have made sixteen hundred dollars in two coups, over five hundred pounds. And it would be fun to pass the bank and for the bank to go down on the next hand. He withdrew his stake and said, "La main passe."

There was a buzz of comment. Largo said dramatically, "Don't do it to me! Don't tell me the bank's going to go down on the next hand! If it does I shoot myself. Okay, okay, I will buy Mr. Bond's bank and we will see." He threw some plaques out on the table—sixteen hundred dollars' worth.

And Bond heard his own voice saying banco! He was banking his own bank—telling Largo that he had done it to him once, then twice, and now he was going to do it, inevitably, again!

Largo turned round to face Bond. He looked carefully, with a new curiosity, at Bond's face. He said quietly, "But you are hunting me, my dear fellow. You are pursuing me. What is this? Vendetta?"

Bond thought: I will see if an association of words does something to him. He said, "When I came to the table I saw a spectre." He said the word casually, with no hint at double meaning.

The smile came off Largo's face as if he had been slapped. It was as if once switched on again, but now the whole face was tense, strained, and the eyes had gone watchful and very hard. His tongue came out and touched his lips. "Really? What do you mean?"

Bond said lightly, "The spectre of defeat. I thought your luck was on the turn. Perhaps I was wrong." He gestured at the shoe. "Let's see."

The table had gone quiet. The players and spectators felt that a tension had come between these two men. Suddenly there was the smell of ennui where before there had been only jokes. A glove had been thrown down,

See Big Rise In Enrollments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's schools and colleges have an enrollment of 47.7 million for the current academic year, the Census Bureau estimated Wednesday.

The enrollment total, covering all persons between the ages of 5 and 34, compares with 39.4 million five years ago.

The estimate was based on a survey made last October.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly stronger. Supplies generally short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged Grade A large, whites 36½-37½, medium, whites 33½-34½, small, whites 30-31.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices mostly steady. Tops of 16.75-17.75 Wilson; 17-17.50 Rocky Mount; 16.50-17.50 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove; 16.75-17.25 Smithfield, Spring Hope; 16.50-17 Pembroke 17.25 Murfreesboro, Robersonville, 17 Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel, Scotland Neck, Washington, Dunn, Rich Square, Castle Hayne, Burghaw; 16.75 Greensboro, Goldsboro, Albion, Siler City; 16.50 Lillington.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady: Steers and heifers, choice 23-25, good 21.50-24, standards 17-21 beef cows 14.50-16.50, heavy cutters 13-14.50; light bulls 12.50-15, heavy bulls 15-18.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its climb, despite further resistance, bringing the rally into its eighth straight session with trading active early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .20 at 261.50 with industrials up .20, rails off .20 and utilities up .50.

Gains of fractions to about a point outnumbered losers in the same range, but the upside margin was slender.

Steels, rubbers, oils, electrical equipments and utilities were mostly higher. Rails eased a bit. Chemicals and motors were mixed. Aerospace issues were unchanged to a little higher.

The flashiest piece of corporate news was Hershey Chocolate's proposal for a 5-for-1 stock split and dividend boost. Delayed by an influx of buy orders, the stock rose 15½ points to 197½ on a delayed opening, then trimmed about 4 points from the rise.

Union Carbide added more than a point. American Telephone made a similar gain.

Some of the airlines improved. Pan American gained about a point and American a fraction. United was down about a point.

Small gains were made by U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Allied Chemical, New York Central, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .37 at 716.10. Prices moved generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly higher.

WINTERVILLE — The Pitt County Fat Stock Show and Sale, Inc., announced plans today for its 12th annual exhibit and auction to be held April 16 at the Pitt County Fairgrounds.

J. H. Mobley of Winterville, president of the organization, announced the date for the event — to feature a night sale this year — as a livestock specialist from N.C. State College met with Winterville Future Farmers of America.

Bob McGuire met with 18 members of Winterville High School's FFA chapter at the farm of Leland Forlines west of here. McGuire demonstrated to the boys proper methods of the grooming steers for the sale. He used for demonstration purposes a steer being raised by Forlines' son, Stuart.

In announcing the April event, Mobley said showing of steers will begin at 1 p.m. with the swine show scheduled for 3:00 o'clock. The sale of steers and swine will be conducted at 7 p.m.

Formerly, the organization has required two days for the annual show and sale with the showing of steers the first afternoon of the two-day event, the swine show coming during the morning of the second day and the sale during the second afternoon.

With few revisions, rules for entering swine and steers in the show and sale are the same as in past years. Details of the regulations and other information will be published within a few days.

Entering steers in the show again this year will be members of the nine FFA chapters in Pitt County's schools. Mobley, in announcing the event's date, urged Pitt farmers to enter swine in the show and sale.

Sister Of Farmville Woman Is Stricken

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Carrie R. Denny, sister of Mrs. Joseph A. Forbes of Farmville and mother of the late George V. Denny Jr., founder and first moderator of the radio program, "America's Town Meeting of the Air," died in an Asheville nursing home last night.

Mrs. Denny operated a kindergarten here for many years. She was the widow of the late George V. Denny Sr.

Her son won national recognition for his lectures and his radio work for more than 20 years. He died in 1959.

In addition to Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Denny is survived by three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Recover Purse With $1,846

Greenville detectives reported that $1,846 was found and returned to its owner about 1 a.m. today as officers were investigating a complaint that the cash was missing.

Officers said Mrs. Ruby Brown of Brown's Furniture Store reported the cash, which was contained in her pocketbook, was missing at 5:15 p.m. yesterday.

Officers said the money and billfold was located in an alley behind the West End Circle firm early today.

They said the cash was returned to Mrs. Brown. The report was concluded by saying Mrs. Brown was "very happy."

'Lucky' Had But Two Mourners

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles (Lucky) Luciano, New York vice lord a generation ago, has been buried in his family's $30,000 mausoleum in St. John's Cemetery, Queens.

The body of the 64-year-old exile arrived by plane Wednesday from Italy where he died of a heart attack Jan. 26.

He had been deported to his native Italy 16 years ago after serving 10 years in prison on prostitution racket charges. There were only two mourners at the mausoleum — his brothers Bartolo and Joseph.

Searchers Find Missing Actress Safe On Island

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A U.S. Coast Guard search plane found actress Jayne Mansfield, her husband and a friend on the eastern tip of Rose Island today.

The trio was spotted by a Nassau Development Board plane which notified the Coast Guard. A chartered fishing boat, the "Blades," picked up the three and left for Nassau.

Their condition was not reported.

The search began Wednesday when the three, Jayne, her husband, Mickey Hargitay, and their Fort Lauderdale, Fla., companion, Jack Drury, failed to return from a day-long water skiing trip.

The U.S. Coast Guard at Miami, Fla., sent a big Albatross amphibious plane at dawn to help Bahamas rescue units and volunteer yachtsmen sweep the seas in the area and scan the nine-mile-long, half-mile-wide island which has no telephones and only two or three seldom-used cottages.
