BERLIN (AP)—U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was exchanged today for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel in a hush-hush operation on a Berlin bridge and soon afterward Powers flew off to Washington.

Informed sources gave this account of the secret exchange of Powers for Abel: Just before 8 a.m. about 10 Americans arrived at Glienicke Bridge. They rode in German-made sedans bearing license plates issued to private cars of U.S. civilians in Germany.

West Berlin, the two men were exchanged. With the Americans was a clean-shaven man in a fur coat, dark suit and dark overcoat. This apparently was Powers.

the Church Family Robinson

Symbolic—that's what I call this picture! The Church for all... ALL FOR THE CHURCH The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

All About Town With Anne Mattox

The Service League Seal was designed by a charter member, Miss Jesse R. Moye, and presented at the first meeting of the League in October, 1939.

The seal has as its center a woman's hand holding high a lighted compass—a torch to light the way to service. The compass is in the form of a star—a star of hope and faith signifying the work of the Service League which is broad in scope, its interests leading into many directions.

This is the basis upon which the Service League of Greenville was founded in October of 1938. The past 24 years has seen this public spirited organization become a vital factor in the welfare of our community.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown, first director of the Thrift Shop from which the Service League evolved, was instrumental in creating the interest in the broad type of social service for which the League stands. The first Advisory Board was composed of Mrs. J. H. Blount, chairman, Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Mrs. J. L. Hassell, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, the late Mrs. T. A. Person, and the late Mrs. J. S. Everett. The present Advisory Board members in addition to Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Blount and Mrs. Hassell, are Mrs. Ralph Garrett, Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, Mrs. T. I. Wagner, Mrs. Walter Harrington, and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell.

The late Mrs. R. C. Stokes Jr. was the first president of the Service League. In acknowledgement of her effective leadership and grateful appreciation of the life, ideals and work of the late Dr. Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse, the League dedicated the Laughinghouse Bed Fund. This fund provides hospitalization for worthy people in the community, who are not on charity, upon the recommendation of their doctor. Its support is through public donations and liberal public patronage given all affairs sponsored by the League for maintenance of the Bed Fund.

In February, 1951 the League opened the Coffee Shop at the hospital and celebrated its tenth anniversary in February of 1961 upon moving into new quarters. Mrs. James T. Little has been Coffee Shop Chairman for these 11 years and has ably guided and directed this project. All profits from the shop are used for the League's hospital activities, such as, making tray favors, decorating for special occasions, providing decorative accessories for patients' rooms, the Doctor's lounge, the nurses' lounge and the Bed Fund. They have also been able to place a record player in the first floor Pediatric Ward, and gave the first insulin use at the hospital. Along with the memorials given in memory of our local doctors, the League has provided the background furnishings for the Hospital Memorial Chapel located across the hall from the Coffee Shop.

This group assisted in laying the pioneering foundation for the Pitt County Work for the Blind, Pitt County T. B. Association, Pitt County Health Clinic, and the Public School Nursing Program.

Currently the League is engaged in many other worthwhile projects. Among these are, staffing the Bloodmobile for each of its visits to the community, administering the Emergency Charity Fund for the Community, providing Girl and Boy Scout Camperships, maintaining a Lending Chest of hospital items, such as crutches, wheel chairs, etc. for community use, assisting at the Art Center, participating in the Civil Defense program, assisting with the United Fund Drive, T. B. Seal Sale, Blind Sale and many members help with other charitable drives.

Past Presidents of the Service League in addition to Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr. include, Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. W. S. Bost, Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Mrs. J. T. Little, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Mrs. E. H. Williford, Mrs. J. H. Moye, Mrs. C. W. Harvey, Jr. and Mrs. George Lautares. Present officers of the League are: Mrs. D. C. Wade, Jr.—president; Mrs. W. S. Corbett, Jr. first vice-president; Mrs. E. E. Rawl, Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Clay Burnetts, secretary; Mrs. W. R. Guice, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Brimley, treasurer.

A former Greenville girl now living in Raleigh was recently named Teen of the Week in The Raleigh Times. Judy Tripp a Broughton High School senior is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Tripp of Saint Mary's Street in Raleigh. The Tripps formerly lived on Longmeadow Road in Brookgreen.

H.D. Family Night Held

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club held their annual family night on Wednesday at the Red Oak Community Building.

A joint demonstration on Home Economics and farming trends was given by Mrs. Lily Hall, Home Economics agent, and Sam Winchester, farm agent, to the 70 people attending.

As the guests arrived they were greeted by Mrs. James S. Allen, vice president, and after the invocation by Rev. Howard James, a covered dish supper was served.

The building was decorated carrying out the Valentine motif.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Amos J. Evans welcomed the group. J. T. Manning responded. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Charles Jackson and Mrs. B. L. Tyson who led the recreation, which began with a group sing. Solos were rendered by Rev. Howard James, Joyce Jackson and Danny Wynn. A quartet composed of Jessie Jomp, Thurston Wynn, Sam Winchester and Leonard Waters sang several numbers. Humorous skits were given by Mrs. Leota Tyson, Mrs. Lucy Allen, Mrs. Charles Jackson, John Ray Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Amos J. Evans.

Home Life Dept. To Have Party

On February 14 at 8 o'clock, the Home Life Department of the Woman's Club will have an Old Fashioned Valentine Party at the club building.

Fellowship, music and homemade cake and ice cream will be served.

Members are invited to bring their husbands as guests.

Hostesses for this occasion will be Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Mrs. J. R. Carrington, Mrs. Preston Cannon, Mrs. Marie Clark, Mrs. H. R. Rogers, Mrs. J. R. Jackson, Mrs. J. L. Bishop, Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Clara Shackell and Mrs. N. L. Garrison.

Developing Community Resources' Topic Of Talk

Dr. Sylvester Greene, Executive Director of the Pitt County Development Commission, was the speaker at the birthday meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday night.

He was introduced by Mrs. Arlene Mallison, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee. The subject of his talk was "Developing Community Resources." He said that citizens should first evaluate the resources in the and other contributions of the community should then be projected in such a manner as to make the community the best possible community.

Miss Gladys Stokes, president, welcomed the guests, after which greetings were brought by Mayor Charles King, Mrs. Grace Ayscue, state treasurer, and Mrs. Willie Johnson, district director. Guests were recognized and introduced from clubs in Goldsboro, Morehead City, and New Bern.

Dr. Bessie McNeil conducted a candlelight ceremony for the observance of International Night. February was named as International Month by the National Federation and members were asked to make their contributions to the Dr. Minnie L. Maffett Chinese Nurses Home at the National Defense Medical Center in Free China (Taiwan). Dr. Maffett originated the idea for this project when she was president of the National Federation.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the club collect by Mrs. Daisy Rogers.

Delphian Club Hears Mrs. Moye

Mrs. Charles Moye was hostess to members of the Delphian Book Club on Tuesday at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles Moye Sr., on Lewis Street.

After a brief business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Bob Messner, the speaker for the afternoon, Miss Mavis Mitchell, was introduced. Miss Mitchell, who is a teacher in the Physical Education Department at East Carolina College, chose "Physical Fitness" as her topic. Miss Mitchell discussed the body's need for exercise and how one can get this in a variety of activities. "Physical fitness," she said, "is important in one's social and mental growth as well as physical growth."

Miss Mitchell also discussed the North Carolina fitness tests which were given recently in the Greenville Elementary Schools and pointed out that nearly half of the boys as well as the girls in this city fell below the average in this test of power, strength, agility, and speed. A brief question and answer period followed.

The hostess then served cherry pie and coffee.

The next meeting is to be a dessert bridge at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Lee.

Books were distributed and the meeting was adjourned.

Signs Of Life In Area Demo Activity

In past years we have glumly reflected on area political apathy between elections. Such lassitude, we felt, did nothing to enhance party loyalties, excite enthusiasms, gain recruits, draw appreciative interest of state party leadership. In short, the Democratic Party stood to move backward rather than holding its own in eastern North Carolina.

Casting back over the past several months, and with an eye fixed on the YDC rally here in the near future, our hopes are rising. Democratic party activity in the East, and particularly in Pitt County, is giving signs of life.

Make no mistake about it . . . the traditional voting power of Democrats in the East needs spurring. The reasons are fairly obvious:

The face of our population is changing with more new families making their homes among us; youngsters of yesterday are voters today, and their partisan loyalties must be sought and earned to a

Practice Lacks Justification

By LYNN NISBET

LEAVES — Herbert Hardy, several times representative from Greene county in the General Assembly, has announced his candidacy for another term. Since adjournment of the 1961 session Hardy has taken a high salary job as director of safety for the Highway Department. Technically employed by the director of highways, it was understood at the time that Governor Sanford asked that he be given the post.

In connection with his announcement of candidacy for reelection to the Legislature he said that Governor Sanford had agreed to give him leave of absence from his highway duties during the session — and also for the period of the primary campaign if he should have opposition.

This incident points up a practice that has been common in this and other states, but which has little justification in ethics. That granting of leaves of absence to government employees from their regular jobs so they could take on temporary legislative work. Members of the General Assembly have been involved, but main use of this device has been in the area of legislative clerks.

Hawley Poole of Moore county has been a member of the State Board of Agriculture for well more than 20 years — off and on. In that same time he has served five or six terms in the General Assembly as representative and senator from Moore county. He did not technically seek leave of absence from his agriculture post, but every time he took the oath as a legislator the board position was vacated. Then by agreement succeeding Governors from Broughton on held the post open and reappointed him after the Legislature adjourned.

Similar procedure was followed by Sam Worthington of Pitt who took time off from his Public Utilities Commission seat to serve in the House of Representatives.

JUDGE — Judge Don Phillips, resident judge of the present 20th superior court district, sought leave of absence to accept an appointment to the war crime trials in Japan several years ago. He discovered that a constitutional officer cannot be given leave of absence, so he resigned and W. G. Pittman was named in his place. A few months later when Judge Phillips returned to this country, Pittman resigned and Phillips was appointed to his old seat on the bench.

Undoubtedly there have been instances, although your reporter cannot cite them right now, of high ranking officials and employees being excused from performing their regular duties in order to serve in some other capacity where no oath was necessary and no question of dual employment could be raised.

degree unknown among members of the generation that preceded them.

There is good evidence, close at hand, that Democratic leadership on the local level should and must see to it that a year-round activity is provided or risk loss of that comfortable margin of votes enjoyed in the past.

Token local activity will not suffice. Needed is a studying and interest in issues as they arise . . . the giving voice to criticism and approval, or suggestions, instead of letting questions lie unanswered and molding under a rug until election season rolls around.

Too, there is room for organizational work . . . a continuing process if there ever was one.

Without question, the past year has witnessed a greater degree of Democratic Party stirrings in Pitt than is the ordinary rule. And with the approach of spring, interest in the primary races is sure to grow. So things, politically, are looking up.

Staunch Democrats of our area can take satisfaction in past election showings, but they offer little room for confidence in future tests.

It is no longer enough to sound the party's rallying call at election time; all signs today indicate the need for some degree of activity at local levels during that interim of vast quiet.

No Passive Role In South Viet Nam War

Official sources just aren't saying much about the details of American involvement in South Viet Nam's low-powered war, but newsmen at the scene have provided a pretty good picture of policies that are far from passive.

To be sure, some months ago there was formal announcement U. S. guerrilla warfare experts would provide on-the-job training for anti-Communist troops; that support aircraft and necessary personnel would be provided; that technicians and whatever advisory people were needed would likewise be assigned. That, in addition to supplying necessary hardware, comprised the essence of the announcement.

Not much else came out of Washington except infrequent asides that we could not and would not allow South Viet Nam fall to the Reds.

This kind of reticence is welcome.

There was quite a to-do about saving Laos from being overrun; which turned out to be more talk than a firm policy stand. The Laos debacle shook confidence of a lot of people, Americans included, in U.S. determination. Today there is less talk and more positive measures.

It has been made clear that U.S. personnel are under orders not to shoot except in self-defense; but such orders leave a lot of leeway, as one can well surmise on reading of the helicopter envelopment raids in recent days.

The continuing buildup of support aircraft, best suited to the terrain and style of combat, lends hope that this time Washington's decision is on a solid foundation.

Inevitably there comes to mind thoughts of risk in terms of individual lives of our servicemen and in terms of an irrevocable drift into major conflict.

Counterbalancing these, the risks of doing nothing are immeasurably greater and in sum invite disaster of vast scope.

If and when there is fighting to be done, let it be done to win . . . and as far from our own shores as possible.

Deeper, Deeper In Asian Fight

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your guess is about as good as anybody's on what's going to happen in South Viet Nam and, eventually, the rest of Southeast Asia. It's getting more tense by the day.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were much concerned about the "falling domino" theory in Southeast Asia. It was an idea which went like this:

If one country in that area were to fall to communism, the others would be that much easier to push over until in the end all might topple.

But when the North Vietnamese Communists crushed the French and took half of Indochina in 1954 the United States did not intervene. Dulles said this country would not go it alone.

Now, eight years later, the United States is up to its neck in South Viet Nam. Reports that Americans are fighting there have been denied. But the United States now has built up its forces in men and planes.

If the United States gets into the fighting, the Red Chinese may get in. If that happens, it's Korea all over again and maybe worse. That is what President Kennedy has to worry about in deciding how far to go.

He shares Eisenhower's view — which is probably everybody's view — that if Viet Nam goes, the other nations of Southeast Asia are lined up like sitting ducks.

Kennedy's trouble got under way early in his administration last year when Communist guerrillas began to overrun Viet Nam's next-door neighbor, little landlocked Laos.

On March 23, 1961, he told a news conference that unless the Red guerrillas agreed to a cease-fire, the United States would have to act.

Eventually there was a cease-fire — repeatedly broken — during which this country agreed to setting up a coalition government headed by a so-called neutral Laotian prince.

That was months ago and Thursday Kennedy sent a general, Paul D. Harkins, to Viet Nam to direct American efforts there. Day by day the United States gets deeper in this war.

What Are You Against?

NEW YORK (AP) Who are you?

You can tell a person not only by what he is for but also by what he is against.

If you want to play an interesting game with yourself, sit down sometime with a pad of paper and write down a list of things you dislike.

It is a form of poor man's psychiatry. It will help tell you what kind of a person you really are. If the list is too long, maybe you're finicky. If it is too short, maybe you're wishy-washy.

Here is an off-hand catalog of things I've found distasteful in my first 50 years of living — things that rile me up, annoy me, or make me wish I were somewhere else.

People who argue religion, or try to sell you their own shortcut to God.

Bus drivers who, when you give them a dollar bill, hand you back 20 nickels in change.

Lamb, mutton, brussels sprouts, venison and caviar.

Hostesses who introduce you to another guest with the remark, "You two should get along famously — you have so much in common."

Shipboard costume parties at which fat ladies show up as underdressed Cleopatras with a giant rhinestone on their navel.

Middle-aged lovers with a passion for necking in public.

People who try to top your last funny story — and do.

Chihuahua dogs, German shepherd dogs that growl, Great Dane dogs that want to sit in your lap, and hot dogs that aren't all beef.

Military officers who try to put civilians in their place by ostentatiously addressing them as "sir."

Husbands named Smith or Brown who always speak of their wives as "Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Brown" instead of "my wife."

Doctors who invariably treat you with two-color capsules. Why is a pink-and-brown capsule any more effective than a plain green or a plain white capsule?

People who wouldn't donate a dime to feed a starving bum but brag about how much blood they have given to the Red Cross.

Women who automatically think any man who wears a beard is trying to cover up an inferiority complex.

Letters that begin, "As a recognized leader in your community, you have been chosen among a select few for this unusual opportunity to —

Women who talk about baseball and politics as if they know more about them than I do — and it turns out they do.

People who —

But enough about me. "Now tell me about yourself." What's on your list of favorite dislikes?

Ghosts Raised By Lust

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

We are again being scared by ghosts. Again, we are being told that if we are not careful, the ghost of Hitler will emerge to bring misery upon all the world. This particular gambit is being used to attack West Germany, to weaken the influence of Adenauer, to justify attacks upon individuals as anti-Semites who are not. It is the old story all over again of stirring up discontent and dissatisfaction to aid Soviet Russia. Many who do it may not be conscious of the game they are playing, just as in earlier years they supported Communists without realizing it.

Another ghost that is being raised in many quarters is Joe McCarthy. For quite a few years, we heard little about McCarthy. The man is dead. He organized no political party. He left behind him no mass force. Whatever he did, history will judge or he may pass away without much notice.

But nowadays whenever the issue of Communist activity is raised, the name McCarthy and McCarthyism are injected into the discussion as evidence of prejudice. The ghost of McCarthy serves the Communists well. He is involved in political action, shiver and shake at the thought of McCarthy who at no point of his career justified the attacks now made upon his ghost. What they say is that he destroyed the innocent and when one asks for the name of an innocent, it is never forthcoming.

Then there is John Birch, an innocent martyr in China. John Birch was murdered by the Chinese Communists. He organized no society; he headed no movement; he pronounced no political doctrine. His name was picked up as a symbol of the viciousness of the Chinese Communists. There were a number of American missionaries and businessmen who were killed by Chinese Communists, but the name, John Birch, was selected by Robert Welch as the ghost that he would use as the symbol for his movement.

And so the ghost of John Birch, like other ghosts, stalks the land to frighten those who seek a variety of explanations for the events of the day.

Hitler and McCarthy were activists, but John Birch played no role in any agitational movement. A quiet, peaceful man he served his God in his own way. He was a citizen in the United States, thousands of persons who never knew John Birch, who never heard of him while he was alive, belong to a society that bears his name and associate him with principles of politics and economics of which he knew nothing when he lived. It is like John Brown's body which ever marches on.

This is the nature of agitational movements. I recall that when Sun Yat-sen was alive he was not a popular political leader. He had no great following. He lived quietly in a house in the French Concession of Shanghai and saw large numbers of visitors each day; he wrote articles and lectures which became books.

But the moment he died an enormous mausoleum was built in his honor in Nanking. It took a great human effort to take the body from the bottom to the top of that mausoleum. When one reached the top, he bowed before Sun's photograph. Then he descended the steps. When he reached the bottom, he had paid his obeisance to a new god. What often irritated me was that so many who walked to the top of those steps had opposed Sun during his lifetime. Now, he was a political ghost whom men worshipped and his name is fought over between the Nationalists and the Communists, each claiming monopolistic ownership.

It was much the same with the mausoleum of Lenin in Moscow. When Lenin was alive he was the leader of a small, hated, but successful revolutionary movement. His ghost stalked the land and today men worship him as though he were a god. When Stalin died, he was given a room in the mausoleum and those who came to worship Lenin also worshipped Stalin, but time passed and the ghost of Stalin was hurled from the mausoleum and the ghost of Lenin lies alone. Those who seek to worship, find a god.

Other Editors Saying... A Worthwhile Campaign

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The Institute of Government published a special issue of Popular Government in February which is entitled "The Governor's Call." It concerns the efforts in North Carolina to promote highway safety. Now there are a great many different facets of promoting safety, many different reasons why people stop living because of road tragedies.

One of those safety factors not mentioned in the "Governor's Call" was the use of safety belts in motor vehicles. The Junior Chamber of Commerce of North Carolina is conducting the sale of automobile seat belts beginning with a mid-March statewide campaign.

The belts will be offered at a reduced, non-profit price. It is an opportunity for drivers to equip their cars with a device that has proven to be useful in accidents. Tests by engineers at Cornell University have shown without doubt that seat belts reduce the number of fatal accidents, and the number of injuries.

Autos are equipped with brakes, lights, turn signals, windshield wipers. They are safety factors. Seat belts are safety factors, too, but are not compulsory yet. They should be; someday they will be. The North Carolina Traffic Safety Council has offered its cooperation to the Jaycee project for two reasons:

First, the Council knows seat belts save lives and can reduce the death and injury toll on North Carolina highways; second, the Jaycees have one of the most comprehensive and active organizations which could accomplish this type of project. The Safety Council is providing guidance in the form of operational plans news releases, kits, seat belt brochures and bumper strips for 160 Jaycee clubs throughout the state.

Consider these facts: 34,000 people have been killed on the streets and highways of North Carolina in the past 60 years. Some 330,000 were injured during that period. The word IF is a great one. IF most of these victims had used seat belts, many would still be alive and healthy today. On some autos today seat belts are optional equipment. It should be made standard equipment.

The call of the governor on the traffic problem in 1962 in North Carolina concerns many problems. Steps to be taken toward increasing safety should include the wide use of seat belts in autos to help protect lives.

More Business Look-Aheads

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-aheads in business:

Aid for business: It is becoming increasingly certain that the Administration will push strongly for two benefits for business: a measure to provide tax credit against investments in new facilities, and the granting of faster depreciation on plant and facilities.

The tax credit, probably around 8 per cent, will enable manufacturers to cut income taxes in ratio to investments in new facilities.

The administration, by granting faster depreciation charges on existing facilities in the textile industry, has cleverly obligated Congress to make equivalent concessions in other industries.

In the end these two measures will generate considerable business expansion.

HIGHER LOAN RATES
Interest rate rises: The consensus is that interest rates will rise during this year. Predictions are close to being official. The increase in capital investment, as indicated in the preceding paragraphs, will increase the demand for borrowed money and that tends to firm interest rates.

Drop in commodity prices. President Kennedy's blast at the oversize stockpile failed to shake prices of commodities that have been stored away by the government. However, this sturdiness was largely due to speculators' conviction that there would be no dumping of commodities for months or years.

And while that conviction still prevails, eventually overstocked commodities will be poured on the market and prices will sag. The action will be glacier-like: slow but inevitable.

Hopper year: Government studies strongly indicate that there will be an upsurge of grasshoppers and Mormon crickets in the West this year. These abundances will continue in 17-year cycles until Americans, like other nationals, learn to eat them.

OLD PROMOTER PROPOSES POSTAL LOSS SOLUTION

There was a big grin on the puss of the Old Promoter when he came in today. "I have solved the American postal problem," he said with an air of finality.

"Railroads have survived on commodity rates," he said. "Why not apply commodity rates to the mail? Under my plan, love letters would go at a rate of 1 cent an ounce. Letters between husbands and wives would cost 3 cents an ounce. Ordinary business letters would go for 5 cents an ounce, but bills, complaints, petitions and the like would cost 8 cents an ounce. Dunning letters, threats and chain mail would cost $1 an ounce."

New Bern Defeats Greenville 71-59

By CHARLES VAUGHN
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Bo Farley and the Greenville Phantoms suffered their fourth conference setback of the season last night at the hands of the second ranked New Bern Bears, 71-59.

Rodney Knowles once again led the Phantoms in the scoring department with a total of 21 points. Also in double figures for Greenville were Billy James and Krogel Andresen with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

The Bears were led by Speed Bunting, a junior, who tallied 21 points for the winners. Glenn Dunn sank 13 points for New Bern, while his teammates Charles Toler and John Flynn scored 11 and 10 points respectively.

Phants Take Early Lead
The Greenville Phantoms

jumped to an early lead by going ahead of the Bears 7-4 after three minutes of the first quarter. However, the Bears rallied to take the lead 10-8 with three minutes left in the first period. New Bern managed to maintain their advantage for the remainder of the quarter and at the end of the first period, the Bears led by a score of 17-12.

With six minutes remaining in the second quarter, Greenville rallied to take the lead 19-17. However, Glenn Dunn hit the nets for three straight points to give the Bears the advantage 20-19. New Bern went on to increase their lead over their opponents to 32-28 at the end of the first half.

Bears Increase Margin
Rodney Knowles, Greenville's talented sophomore, hit the basket for the first two points of the second half and this put the Phantoms within two points of the Bears 32-30. The Phantoms were unable to keep pace with the high scoring Bears however, as New Bern increased their lead to 13 points with three minutes left in the third period.

Roland Verrone led the Bears to a 55-36 third quarter lead by scoring eight points during this period. New Bern out-scored Greenville 23-8 in the third quarter which proved to be the difference in the ballgame.

Bunting Cushions Lead
In the last period of play, Greenville was able to get within ten points of the Bears. However, New Bern was not to over-taken as Speed Bunting dropped in six points in a row to cushion their lead. The Bears went on to win the contest by a score of 71-59.

Phant JV Wins
In the junior varsity contest the outcome was reversed with the young Phantoms coming out on top by a score of 60-45.

The young Greenville team was led by Chester Walden who scored 23 points. He dropped 11 field goals and five of seven from the line for the total. The only other Greenville player to hit in the double figures was Sonny Taylor who dropped in seven from the floor and one of one free throws for a total of 15 points.

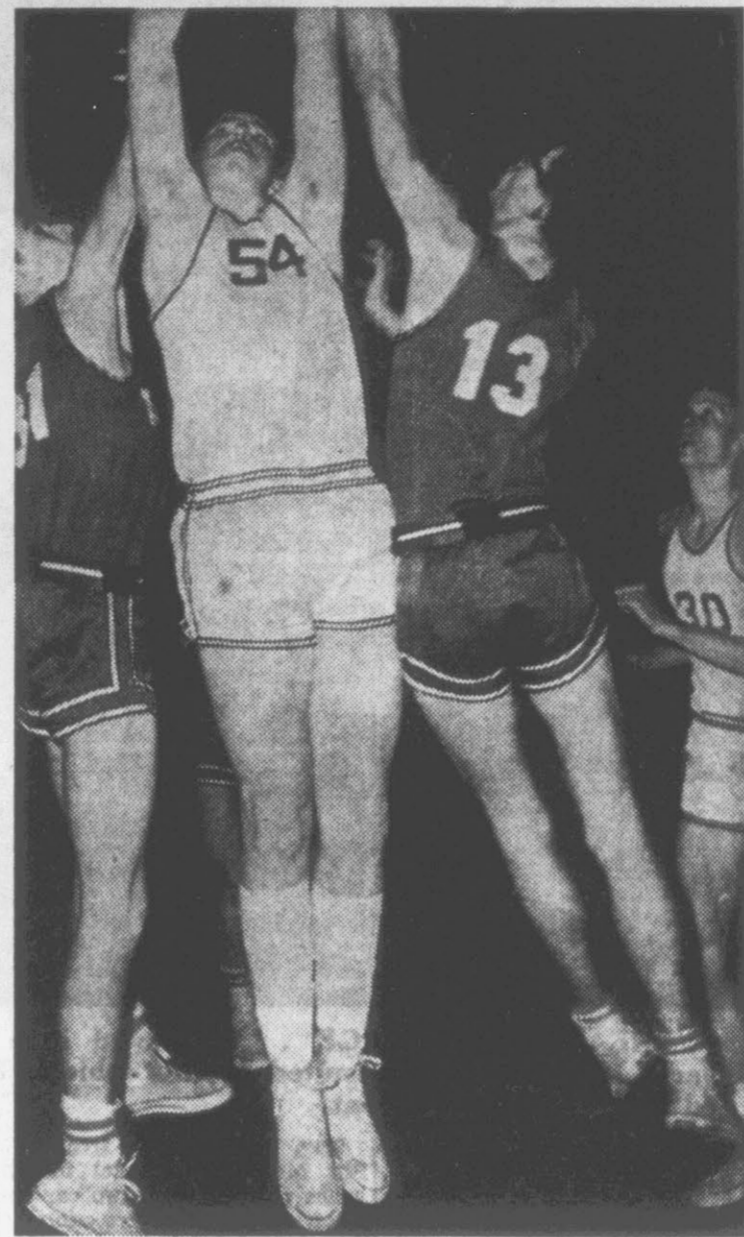

The Phantoms travel to Roanoke Rapids tonight to take on the first ranked Yellow Jackets in a makeup game. New Bern will host Elizabeth City next Tuesday.

Prep Scores

Chicod Upsets Bethel 78-68

CHICOD—Coach Bob Howell and the Chicod Hornets won their eighth conference victory of the season last night defeating the second place Bethel Indians 78-68. The loss was Bethel's third loss of the current campaign.

Ephraim Smith led the high scoring Hornets with a total of 23 points. Also in double figures for the winners were Ray Hardee, Douglas Hudson and Billy Elks. The trio scored 19, 12, and 17 points respectively.

The losers were led by Tex Everett who scored a game high total of 24 points. Jimmy Lewis tallied 19 points for the Indians, while Benny Alexander scored 14 points.

The Indians jumped to an early lead in the first quarter behind the sharp-shooting of sophomore Tex Everett. At the end of the first period, Bethel had increased their lead to 21-16. However, Chicod rallied in the second quarter to come within three points of their opponents. The half ended with Bethel leading the Hornets 36-34.

Chicod returned in the third period to outscore the Indians 26-15, and to take the advantage for the first time in the contest. At the close of the third quarter, the Hornets led Bethel by a score of 60-51.

Earlier in the night, the Chicod girls lost their ninth conference game of the year to the Bethel girls 43-30. Bethel took a first quarter lead of 11-5, and were never threatened by Chicod for the remainder of the contest.

The winners were led by Janet Cobb who scored a total of 16 points for the night. Also in double figures for the Indians were Mary Chesson and Carolyn Manning who scored 15 and 12 points respectively.

High scorer for the losing Hornets was Pansy Jones who tallied a game high total of 24 points. She was the only Hornet in double figures for Chicod.

Tuesday night Chicod travels to Farmville to meet the Red Devils while Bethel plays host to Grifton.

Heyman Might Play If Doctors Okay It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's Art Heyman is "rarin' to go," according to Coach Vic Bunas, but that doesn't mean the 6-5 scoring star will play in the Blue Devils' Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game with Virginia tonight.

Bunas says a decision on whether Heyman will play probably won't be made until tonight. "It's not my decision. We'll be guided by the doctors," Bunas says.

Heyman, who has a sprained right ankle, has worked out lightly the last two days with splints on the ankle. Heyman didn't play in Duke's last game, against N.C. State. Duke lost, 71-55.

The Blue Devils take a 7-2 conference record into tonight's game at Durham, N.C. Virginia is in the ACC cellar with a 1-9 mark.

With Duke favored to beat Virginia, Bunas might decide to give Heyman more rest for next week's games at Maryland and Wake Forest.

Duke might go against Virginia tonight as co-leader of the ACC. Wake Forest, second in the conference with a 6-2 record, can

Catawba's Indians Meet Lenoir Rhyne

The Catawba Indians, on the warpath of late in the Carolinas Conference basketball scramble, go after Lenoir Rhyne's pace-setting Bears, tonight at Salisbury in the feature game of a full schedule.

Runnerup East Carolina, knocked out of the lead earlier in the week when it played at Catawba and was bumped 85-72, visits Elon to play the sumping Christians.

Third place Western Carolina, the only other team still in the running for a first place regular season finish, is host to cellar-dwelling Guilford.

Pfeiffer is at Atlantic Christian and Appalachian at High Point in other league games. Newberry is at home against South Carolina Little Four rival Wofford.

Lenoir Rhyne leads the league with a 12-4 record; ECC is second on a 9-4 record and WCC third with 9-6.

The regular season ends next week, with Lenoir Rhyne playing only one league game, ECC four and WCC two.

Catawba started its surge two weeks ago with an overtime victory over Elon, at that time in the thick of the fight for the lead. That game marked the start of Catawba's upward surge and Elon's downhill plunge. Catawba has won four of its last five for a 9-7 league record and Elon has lost four of five to drop to 8-6.

Lenoir Rhyne, after losing the lead to East Carolina, routed Newberry and Pfeiffer earlier this week to climb back into the top spot. The Bears have the highest scoring club in the league.

No games were played Friday night.

Winterville Tops Farmville 73-58

FARMVILLE—The Winterville Wolves successfully invaded Farmville last night defeating the Red Devils by a score of 73-58. This was Farmville's fourth loss of the season, while the win was Winterville's tenth of the year.

The Wolves outscored their opponents 23-7 in the first quarter, and were able to maintain their advantage for the remainder of the contest. At the end of the first half, Winterville had surged out in front by a score of 40-19.

However, the Red Devils came back in the third quarter to outscore the Wolves 17-15. This rally by Farmville was not enough however, as the Wolves coasted home to victory 73-58.

Winterville was led by high scoring James Braxton as he hit the nets for a game high total of 28 points. Jay Hill, Steve Worthington, and Alfred Gold scored 12, 10, and 10 points respectively for the winners.

William Reason led the Red Devils in their losing effort by scoring 12 points, while Ben Monk tallied 11 points for Farmville.

The Winterville girls were also successful in their game earlier in the night, as they won over Chicod 37-32. The Wolves ran to a first half lead of 21-10, and they went on to win the contest 37-32.

Cora Worthington led the Wolves with a total of 20 points. She was the only girl in double figures for Winterville. Farmville was paced by Kay Allen and Betsy Allen who scored 15 and 13 points respectively.

Tuesday night Farmville plays host to Chicod, while Winterville travels to Grimesland to take on the Panthers.

Grimesland Downs Bel-Falk 68-59

GRIMESLAND—The Grimesland Panthers won their second conference game of the season last night defeating Belvoir-Falkland 68-59. The loss was the Belvoir-Falkland Eagles' eleventh defeat of the year.

The Panthers jumped to an early lead behind the sharp-shooting of Carlton Hardee. At the end of the first quarter, Grimesland held the advantage 19-10. The Panthers were able to increase their lead to 38-27 at the end of the first half.

When the two teams returned to the court for the third period, it was Grimesland who continued to increase their lead as they jumped to a 59-43 third quarter advantage. The Panthers, who were outscored by the Eagles 16-9 in the last period, managed to hang on to their early lead to win the contest 68-59.

Carlton Hardee was the high scorer for the Grimesland Panthers with a total of 21 points for the night. Billy Hardee was also in double figures for the Panthers with 19 tallies.

The losers were led by Alan Witherington and Steve Cobb who scored 21 and 12 points respectively. They were the only Eagles in double figures for the losers.

Earlier in the night, the Belvoir-Falkland girls defeated the Grimesland girls 59-35. The Eagles took a 12-1 first quarter lead and were never threatened by the Grimesland Panthers.

Mary Pollard led the Eagles with a game high total of 23 points for the night. Francis Stepps was also in double figures for the Eagles with 20 points.

The only Panther to hit double figures for Grimesland was Mary Mills with a total of 18 points for the contest.

Tuesday night Grimesland plays host to the Ayden Tornados, while Belvoir-Falkland does not play until Feb. 16 when they host Grimesland.

Unbeaten Ohio State To Take On Minnesota

By JIM HACKLMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State, undisputed king of the hill in college basketball, shoots for another mark tonight — and odds are high the Buckeyes will make it.

The unbeaten Bucks can tie the Big Ten winning streak record with a victory over Minnesota. In a span dating back two years, Ohio State has won 22 straight in the power conference, bringing the Bucks to within one of the number put together by Wisconsin in 1912-13.

Also in the numbers game, Ohio State will be after its 18th victory of the season, its eighth in the Big Ten and its 32nd in a row at home.

Kentucky's second-ranked Wildcats, on a bit of a tear themselves with 15 consecutive victories, seek to protect their Southeastern Conference lead in a home game against Mississippi. The Wildcats are 16-1, with their lone loss by two points to Southern California. Also in the SEC, ninth-ranked Mississippi State (17-1) is at Tennessee.

Fifth-ranked Duke (14-3), having trouble keeping ahead in the Atlantic Coast Conference, enters tonight's game at Virginia.

Two hot races in the Midwest resume with Big Eight contenders

Indoor Games Held Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Internationally famous track and field stars compete tonight in the third annual Los Angeles Times Indoor Games, with much interest centered on New Zealand's sensational Peter Snell.

Snell, who shattered the mile and half-mile world outdoor records within 10 days, is the name runner in the 1,000-yard event, one of a handful of feature attractions.

This will be Snell's first experience running on an indoor board track but few will be surprised if he betters the indoor record of 2:07.9 held by ex-Stanford star Ernie Cmilife.

Snell's countryman, Murray Halberg, 1960 Olympic champion, is favored to win the 2-mile and perhaps break his own American indoor mark of 8:34.3 which he set January 14, 1961, at Portland, Ore.

Bill Crothers of Toronto is expected to give Snell the best chase while Halberg faces such excellent distance performers as 18-year-old Bruce Kidd, also of Toronto.

He took it easy. To me he looked very impressive.

Ahliquist said Johansson might have one more fight before challenging for the European title — a crown long held before winning the world title.

Johansson Easily Wins First Comeback Fight

By BO JOHNSON
GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, former world heavyweight champion, said today, "I've won my first comeback fight and I'll win a lot more in my bid to get back to the top."

Johansson toyed with Joe Bygraves of Jamaica, former British Empire heavyweight champion, before a sellout crowd of 6,200 at the Maestshallen Stadium Friday night. Irish referee Andy Smythe stopped the fight in the seventh round.

At that point Bygraves, who had taken a four count in the second round from a short right from Johansson, was almost out on his feet. His left eyebrow gushed blood from a barrage of punches taken in the sixth round. Bygraves' hands dropped to his side in the seventh and referee Smythe stopped the fight after 2:08 of the round.

It was Johansson's first fight since last March, when he lost on a six-round knockout to heavy-

Pirate Freshmen Down Phantom Swimmers 44-42

The Rose High School swimming team lost a close meet with the East Carolina freshmen Friday afternoon 44-42.

The Phantom tankmen were able to win three of the 10 events. Billy Brown won the 200 yard freestyle and the 400 yard freestyle and the Phantom 200 yard freestyle relay team also came out on top.

The relay team consisted of Buddy Waters, Billy Brown, Tommy Taft and Jehu Taff.

In addition to the three wins, the Rose High team picked up six seconds. Those boys who came in second were Jehu Taff in the 50 yard freestyle, Don Pierce in the 200 yard individual medley, Russ Bartlett in the 100 yard butterfly, Tom Arthur in the 100 yard freestyle, Pierce in the 100 yard backstroke and Mac Davis in the 100 yard breaststroke.

East Carolina had six first in addition to winning the opening 200 yard medley relay. Members of the relay team were Harry Sober, John Behr, Bob Bennett and Chuck Norwood.

Picking up firsts for the Pirates were Sober in the 50 yard freestyle, Bennett in the 200 yard individual medley, George Ressigue in the 100 yard butterfly, Sober in the 100 yard freestyle, Norwood in the 100 yard backstroke and Eddie Harrington in the 100 yard breaststroke.

The complete outcome and the times are as follows:

200 yard medley relay: Won by East Carolina. Harry Sober, John Behr, Bob Bennett, Chuck Norwood, 1:53.6.

100 yard freestyle: 1. Billy Brown (R) 2. George Ressigue (EC) 3. Jack Derrick (R) 2:08.

Bethel Rotary Elects Officers

BETHEL—Walter Gray was elected president at the Rotary Club meeting this week and will succeed Linwood Briley, past president, who was named to serve on the Rotary Board of Directors.

Other new officers are Roscoe Everett, vice president; Stanley Peel, secretary and treasurer, and R. F. Manning, Charles Ives and D. O. Speir, new Board of Directors members.

Bill Pickette, prominent cotton farmer of Scotland Neck, gave a talk to the club on his past year as a cotton farmer in Halifax County.

"The high yield was something over three bales per acre with some 40 bolls per stalk," said Pickette. "I planted as soon after April 1 as possible."

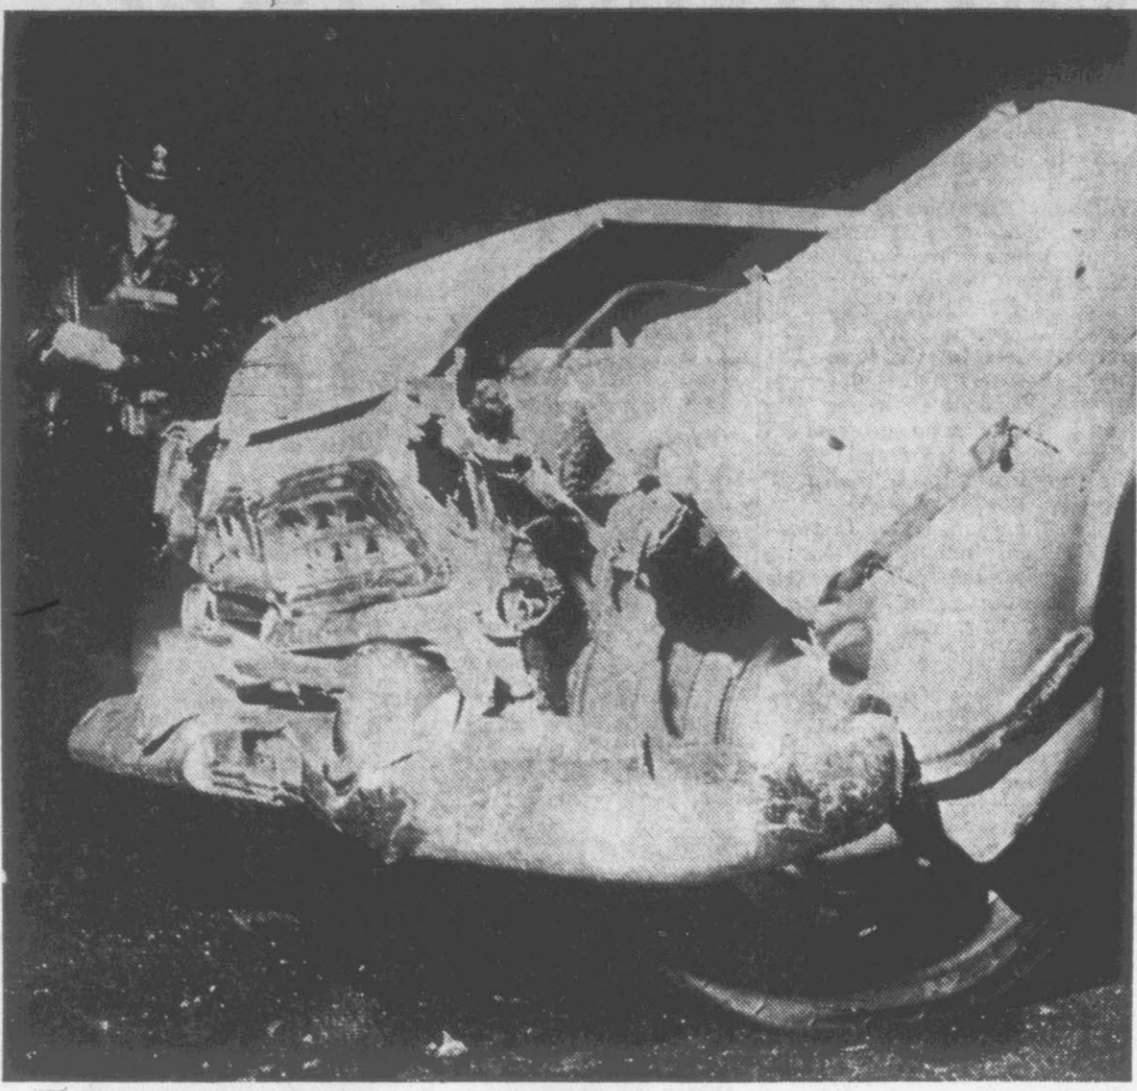

Pickette also discussed the steps in the production of cotton. He was the guest of program chairman Tom Taylor and was presented by Dave Speir.

Abbott McWhorter, who on this meeting was completing 25 years of perfect attendance, was given a standing applause by the club.

President Linwood Briley presided at the meeting and Carl Barbee gave the invocation.

Urging Bethel's attendance at the Boy Scout Exposition being held in Greenville today was Russell Hunnicutt. John Mayo was a visitor at this week's Rotary meeting.

Deadline Set For Pool Club

BETHEL—Closing date on paying membership fees for the proposed $25,000 private swimming pool club have been announced as Feb. 15, according to a spokesman for the club.

No one will be accepted into membership of the club after Thursday. Cost of membership stock will be set at no less than $200 and no more than $250 with annual dues being not more than $25. Membership is open to persons living within a 10-mile radius of Bethel.

Y. Z. Foss, chairman of the organizing group said that the club's roll will be terminated at 125, with arrangements made to include persons moving into the Bethel area in the future.

The club's pool facilities will include a bathroom, a shallow wading pool for members' youngsters and two diving boards. Swimming instruction will be made available and a lifeguard will be on duty at all times.

The pool is expected to measure 70 by 35 feet and will be installed within the Bethel city limits. Completion of the club's pool is expected by June 1.

Funeral Sunday For Henry L. Turner

Mr. Henry Leon (Red) Turner, 50, of Farmville died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Saturday at 2:30 a.m. He had been ill for the past five months.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home on Wilson Street in Farmville Sunday afternoon at 3:30 by the Elder A. P. Mewborn, Primitive Baptist minister of Farmville. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville.

Mr. Turner, a native of Pitt County, was reared in the Bell Arthur community and had lived in Farmville for the past 15 years. He was employed by the Parker Grain Company in Farmville. He was a member of the Bell Arthur Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mattie Baker Turner; four sons: Earl Baker of Ft. Rucker, Ala.; Walter Leon Turner of Greenville; Otis D. and Rennie Gerald Turner of the home; two daughters: Mrs. Henry Mills of Farmville and Sandra Faye Turner of the home; a brother, John W. Turner of Greenville; four sisters: Mrs. C. G. Morgan and Mrs. J. L. Nanney of Farmville, Mrs. Mark Hardee of Greenville, and Mrs. Ruth Miller of Baltimore, Md.; and one grandchild.

School Will Sponsor Negro History Week Program Feb. 12-16

Sallie Branch School will sponsor a Negro History Week program Feb. 12-16. The national theme is "Negro History and a New Birth of Freedom."

The featured activities will include a special chapel program on Monday at 10 o'clock. Rev. L. A. Miller, pastor of York Memorial Methodist Church, will be guest speaker.

Other activities will be a Negro History Exhibit and a program given by the fourth and fifth grades on Friday at 2:30 p.m. Each class will discuss various phases of Negro life and achievements during the daily devotional periods.

The public is invited.

Dutch Airliner Searched By Jap Officials

TOKYO (AP)—An unwelcome Dutch KLM commercial airliner carrying New Guinea-bound Dutchmen refueled at Tokyo Haneda Airport today and was given a thorough search by Japanese officials.

They said they found "nothing dangerous, no arms, no ammunition."

The Japanese government, angered by Dutch insistence on using the airport but unable to prevent the brief stop because of an international agreement, protested to the Dutch ambassador while the DC7C was on the ground.

A Japanese spokesman said: "It is difficult for us to consider all the passengers as civilians. Most of them were young, husky boys. They do not look like tourists or merchants."

Mexico Silencing Radio Station

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican Government said it is canceling the operation license of radio station XERF of Ciudad Acuna, in the state of Coahuila.

A spokesman said the action is being taken because 95 per cent of the transmissions coming from the station in northern Mexico were made in English.

The spokesman added that American speakers were used exclusively in the station and a great amount of the transmission time of XERF was dedicated to religious-type programs contrary to the Mexican broadcasting laws and the constitution.

The Ministry of Communications said the station was found to be operating with American capital.

Fear Explosion Killed 7 Airmen In Tanker Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A U.S. Air Force KB50 tanker plane with seven men aboard exploded in the air and crashed into the Atlantic Friday.

An Air Force spokesman said no parachutes were seen and it was assumed none of the crewmen bailed out. But an air-sea search for possible survivors was launched.

The plane, part of the 62nd Refueling Squadron, was based at England Air Force Base in Louisiana. It was returning to Kindley Air Force Base here from a refueling mission when it went down.

The men aboard the plane were identified by the Air Force as Capt. Rowan J. Pallow, 38, St. Cloud, Minn.; Capt. John B. Tracy Jr., 25, Syracuse, N.Y.; Capt. Gaines G. Wilbanks, 30, Decatur, Ga.; T. Sgt. Era P. Horton, 36, Memphis, Tenn.; A. I. C. Guy L. Powell, 25, Puyallup, Wash.; A. S. C. Ralph E. Reutzel, 19, Fremont, Neb.

The seventh man, from Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina, was identified as Lt. Johnny G. Pitts, 25, Panama City, Fla.

Language Class Visited College

Spanish students of Mrs. John Larkin of the Washington Senior High School visited Friday, Feb. 9, the laboratory of the Department of Foreign Languages, East Carolina College. Language majors from the Department of Foreign Languages from time to time do their student teaching under supervision of Mrs. Larkin at Washington Senior High School.

The Washington students spent several hours in the language laboratory, a three-way monitor type consisting of a console and 30-student booths each of which contains complete tape recorder, microphone, and earphones.

The visiting students as they used equipment in the laboratory gained information on the teaching of foreign languages in a laboratory. They heard programs from the console, from which five different programs may be played at one time to the student positions and two-way communication between the teacher at the console and any individual student is possible at all times.

'More Realistic' School Curriculum Urged Here

Dr. Gerald B. James, director of the division of vocational education in the State Department of Public Instruction, proposed a "more realistic high school curriculum" for the state in an address at East Carolina College yesterday. He told 65 school administrators attending an Industrial Arts Conference at the college that no society will long remain in a position of leadership if the curriculum is geared primarily to meet the needs of the college-bound student.

The curriculum, he said, must consider the 86 percent who will probably not attend college. He recommended high quality vocational and technical programs.

The conference opened this morning with a two-hour panel discussion on Relationship of Industrial Arts to Industrial Education Centers. Dr. H. B. Moore of the East Carolina Industrial Arts Department acted as moderator.

Dr. James declared that industrial arts is a part of general education and is an action-type guidance and exploration course. Its aim, he said, is to help students gain sufficient knowledge to make them capable of arriving at intelligent decisions about selection of high school courses and choice of careers. In contrast, industrial education courses, he said, are vocational in that they are designed to train for specific occupations.

In the state's transition from an agricultural economy to an economy characterized by a better balance between agriculture and industry, he stated, "Schools should provide leadership in a changing society. — they must be more than reactionary, more than sensitive and responsive. . . . Schools should aim toward developing individuals to the fullest of their capacity, irrespective of the area in which one's greatest potential may lie and irrespective of the depth of one's capacity."

The impact of advancements in farm mechanization, innovations in tobacco production, and further automation in the textile industry will, according to present trends, strike simultaneously, James pointed out.

These changes mean, he said, that North Carolina schools have a challenge to educate the masses to meet new conditions. Improved economy, improved social conditions, and improved citizenship will be furthered, he maintained, by industrial arts and trade and industrial education courses for those students who will not enter college.

Director Kenneth L. Bing, T.J. Haigwood, Frederick L. Broadhurst, and other members of the Industrial Arts Department, directed the day's program.

Horne And Helms Join Rivers And Associates

CHARLES O'H. HORNE

BOB F. HELMS

Charles O'H. Horne of Greenville and Bob F. Helms, native of Concord, have joined the firm of Rivers and Associates Inc. as associate engineers, it was announced today.

Horne formerly operated an electrical contracting and fixture sales business here and has been chairman of the Greenville Utilities Commission for the past two years. His term expires in March of 1963.

Active in community work, Horne is a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, member of the Greenville Moose Lodge and a junior warden at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He is a past president and past member of the Greenville Jaycees.

Born in Greenville, the son of Mrs. Charles Horne Sr. and the late Mr. Horne, he graduated from Greenville High School in 1938. He attended East Carolina College, later transferring to N.C. State College where he graduated in 1943 with the B. S. degree in electrical engineering.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served in the Army Signal Corps. At the time of discharge in 1946 he was a captain. Horne worked for a year in the electrical contracting business in Wilson, returning to Greenville in 1947 to open his own business.

He is married to the former Dorothy Pearsall of Wallace and they have two daughters.

Helms, before coming to Greenville, worked with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in research in space structures and materials for two and a half years. He is a 1959 graduate of The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., receiving the B.S. degree in Civil Engineering.

He had previously attended N. C. State College, entering the U.S. Navy in 1952 for four years. He was discharged with the rank of quartermaster.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Helms of New Bern, he graduated from Concord High School in 1950. He is married to the former Lynn V. Lewis of Lillington and they have a son and a daughter. The Helms are making their home at 106 S. Library St.

Helms is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society of Military Engineers.

Site Of Old Ft. Branch May Become Historic Camp Site

By MARTI MARTIN
Reflector Staff Writer
Fort Branch—It is quite hushed now...

from progressing upstream to that point. The Fort may have also served as protection for the Wilmington-Richmond railroad line.

Letter Describes It

J. Innis Randolph, First Lieutenant, Engineers, in a letter to his Captain dated Oct. 3, 1862 and recorded in the Official Records—Union and Confederate Navies in the War of the Rebellion...

Interested parties in Martin County have made plans for establishing a historic type of park on the Fort Branch camp grounds. Publicity chairman for the group, Mrs. Katherine Harrell of Hamilton said that the group had received a $1,000 grant from the Richardson Foundation and donors all over North Carolina were contributing to the Fort Branch project.

The group intends to construct roads into the Fort area, put a fence around the cliffs and erect signs designating various points about the camp as indicated on an original drawing of the old Fort.

Mrs. Harrell stated that the group started the project last fall and it is hoped that such organizations as the Boy Scouts will use the park as a picnic area after it has been improved.

Among those who have been instrumental in getting the Fort Branch project underway are F. M. Manning and Dr. J. McCallum, both of Williamsport; Mrs. Katherine Harrell of Hamilton, J. C. Manning, Martin County Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Clayton House.

The farm on which the Fort is located belongs to Rufus Coltrain and Henry Winslow.

The fort is located two miles down the Old Poplar Point rd. (Road No. 1416), which intersects U. S. 125 about one mile east of Hamilton. There are no signs to indicate the Fort within the wooded area, located on the left.

Fort Branch was built at Rainbow Bend along the Roanoke River to keep the Yankees from going up the river to where the Albemarle Ram was allegedly being built. Supplies were also landed at Hamilton, thereby making it necessary to protect the enemy are no guns facing up the river and no traverses in the rear of the batteries.

"The reach commanded by the batteries is less than three-quarters of a mile long and 150 yards wide; the Martin County side is bluff and higher than the batteries. The Bertie County side is flat and overflowed at very high water.

"About 200 yards below the battery the obstruction should be placed. This would be in full view of the battery and all along the bluff above sharpshooters, perfectly protected, could lie to prevent any attempt to remove the obstructions.

"At that point, too, there is a bar, thereby making obstructions easier. The obstructions could be best made by piling. There are no old craft lying in the river except some that are too valuable, and pens can be used, as there is no stone or gravel to be found in that country.

"There is not a pile driver on the river, but I suppose the essential parts of one might be brought from Richmond by rail.

"The piles can be cut on the brink of the river above and floated down. Tight boxes filled with mud or sand might be used, but the current is so rapid that they might be swept away or a new channel cut. Piles would enable the current to pass, and in a great measure obviate that danger.

"The works are defended from a land attack by a line of rifle pits extending from the river to Conho Swamp, and another short line to prevent a passage through Hamilton to the rear."

And so Lt. Randolph advised his captain in making a reconnaissance on the Roanoke River. Fort Branch served more as a training camp than as a battlefield. The more significant battles of the area were at Spring Green and Butler's Bridge.

At one time or another during the Civil War, files indicate over 15,000 men were stationed at Fort Branch for training or regular duty.

In the 1930's the cannon balls were hauled away by truckloads. None are seen about the Fort grounds today; some perhaps lie unnoticed in dusty attics of early twentieth-century homes about Martin County.

Breastworks, high ridges and the bluffs remain to mark the site of the Fort. A family graveyard, indicated in an original map of the fort, is almost gone.

The campgrounds will soon awaken to the sound of human voices... but this time the sounds will be of laughter... families and their children on a picnic, visitors and natives of North Carolina.

NO BLUFFING HERE . . . This photo, taken halfway down the embankment, of the Fort Branch bluffs along Rainbow Bend on the Roanoke River were almost steep enough to be called cliffs. The bluffs protected Confederate sharpshooters and cannon soldiers as they fired on Yankee ships attempting to reach Hamilton in 1862.

OLD CANNON SOUGHT . . . A group of men in March of 1961 searched at one of the old wells for one of the cannons which was supposed to have been pushed into one of the wells in the Fort Branch area. The search proved fruitless, however.

By JIM POINDEXTER

February 12 will mark the 150th anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens.

In the history of letters this is a fairly good span of time, and it is becoming apparent that Dickens will rank permanently as a writer of prime importance. This in spite of his sentimentality and frequently slipshod workmanship. Perhaps his secrets were vitality, humor, and a tremendous interest in people.

Anyhow, a writer is a good candidate for immortality when, a century and a half after his birth, many people, having given up current fiction, read books like "Pickwick" and "Bleak House" over and over again. And there are many such people.

Enlightened Citizenship

Recently, James Reston, the influential Washington correspondent for the New York Times, has become concerned about participation in politics at the grass roots. In one of his columns in January he suggested that local women's organizations could do a piece of good work by pushing Congress to pass a decent Federal aid-to-education bill.

In his January 28 column, he noted that many private citizens have been writing him asking what they could do to "understand and help" in these confused and tense times.

Reston's response was that the society which will best weather the present storm is the one which shows the greatest capacity for adjustment to new needs and pressures. He suggested that "the thoughtful, detached private citizen has an important role to play in his own community," and he further suggested that such a citizen should be provided with a series of good, factual study guides on the important issues of the age.

To supply these guides might be a project for one of the great foundations.

As a matter of fact, the Ford Foundation is already contributing to such an enterprise to some extent through the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. This Center has already distributed a great many pamphlets dealing with public questions. They are sent to anyone who requests to be placed on the mailing list of the Center. Its address is Santa Barbara, California.

Computer Revolution

As an example of the work of the Center, its latest release is "Cybernation: The Silent Conquest," by Donald N. Michael. The term "cybernation" is derived from a coinage of Norbert Weiner, "cybernetics," and is used here to refer to all uses of automation in industry and of computers in problem solving.

As Michael points out, computers can even now do remarkable things if properly programmed. So far, they have been made "to write mediocre TV drama (by manipulating segments of the plot), write music, translate tolerably if not perfectly from one language to another, and simulate some logical brain processes"—even making the same mistakes in reasoning that people do.

As though this were not enough, the most remarkable thinking machine is the Perceptron, which can see and use its sight perceptions to develop practical generalizations. The model being built at present will be equipped for hearing as well, and the other senses may well be built in as needed.

In other words, man has created automata which soon will be performing tasks outside the laboratory which require a considerable degree of thinking.

Michael tries to come to grips with the possible effects of this revolution, and his conclusions run something like this: On the plus side will be great economic advantages in efficient operation, planning, and placing of industry, as well as a reduction of "personnel problems." On the minus side will be unemployment or underemployment for manual workers, salaried people in routine jobs, and the middle echelons of management, in addition to complex psychological problems.

At the same time Michael believes that more work and more power will be concentrated in the hands of an elite class of managers—the people who can use the computers—in both industry and government. As he says, even now, much of our defense planning is based upon computer solutions; an understanding of which is beyond the scope of the average Congressman, not to mention the average voter.

It looks as if Reston had better take another look at the possibility of an educated citizenry in the light of all this.

The Calendar

The calendar for the coming week will feature music.

The music is the opera "Faust," by Gounod, to be presented by the College Opera Theater this weekend. Performances will be tonight and Sunday night, 8:00, McGinnis. Paul Hickfang will direct and sing, and Don Hayes will direct the orchestra. The cast will include such local favorites as Martha Bradner and Allison Moss.

Farmville Association Plans Await Fallout Shelter's Site

FARMVILLE — Construction of a $5,400 fallout shelter shell is expected to get underway here in the near future if present plans materialize.

A 170-member association of Farmvillites investing in the shelter project now awaits the disposition of the Town Commissioners regarding a probable construction site.

The association hopes the commissioners will agree to sell a portion of municipal property for the project. The land involved is located behind the new National Guard Armory. Originally a part of the armory site, the land has been deeded to the town by the N. C. National Guard.

To be constructed is a prefabricated metal structure 20 feet wide and at least 100 feet long. Construction of the facility is expected to require only about two weeks.

Cost of the shell, the $5,400, does not include equipping the shelter with beds, medical supplies, radiological detection equipment and other items. Families and individuals joining the association were assessed at the rate of $125 per person.

Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald, Farmville physician who is president of the community shelter association, reported to an association meeting here Wednesday that many of the 170 members have already paid their pledges of $125 per person.

His report indicated more than $10,000 has been collected. Other pledged members, he said, have indicated their payments will be forthcoming soon.

The association has laid careful plans for a self-sustaining community within the fallout shelter in the event of a nuclear attack. Arrangements have been made to plan for medical care, indoor recreation, communications, adequate food supplies and radiological detection.

Farmville's community fallout shelter association was organized here at a mass meeting last October when local reaction to the nuclear war threat culminated in systematic attempt to "do something about it."

More Mink for Working Girls than ever Before

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

AP Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Mink is so accessible today that a secretary can blink mink lashes, carry a mink beer opener, or even punch her time clock fully clad in it without causing office gossip.

Yet, paradoxically, the fur that makes up 85 per cent of the market remains a status symbol. It is not only expensive now (averaging $3,000 for a coat), but by Fall it will be 10 per cent more so.

Stars

The pelts of these vicious, well-fed, short-lived animals drape around the shoulders of more working girls than ever before because, as Edward Langefeld says, "more working girls earn enough to afford it."

In fact, the president of the Emba Mink Association (an organization of mink ranchers) claims the mink market is a remarkably accurate measure of the health of the nation's economy.

Approximately two dozen times during the winter months auction houses here test the economy, and also at the wave of a gavel, improve or shatter the fortunes of some of the country's 25,000 mink ranchers.

The ranchers often accompany their bundles of blonde, brown, and tan mink skins to the auction house to learn immediately how much return they will get on an investment of four mink meals a day from April through November.

The graders stamp, code and arrange them in bundles of about 36 pelts and tie them to racks. There they hang like eerie phantom trees in the bluish light. After that the ranchers' fate, and the eventual cost of a mink coat is up to the fur buyer.

He dons a white coat, although it isn't necessary, just a carryover from less efficient days when greasy, untanned skins got their surroundings soiled. After examining the bundles, he notes their numbers in his market book, and descends to a long, narrow auction room many floors below.

The auctioneer, with three spotters on each side, stands behind the long, high bench. Overhead a sign indicates the name of a mink on sale, above that a neon sale number blinks.

The buyers at their tables hunch over code books like horseplayers with racing forms, scribbling and sending secret signals to vigilante spotters.

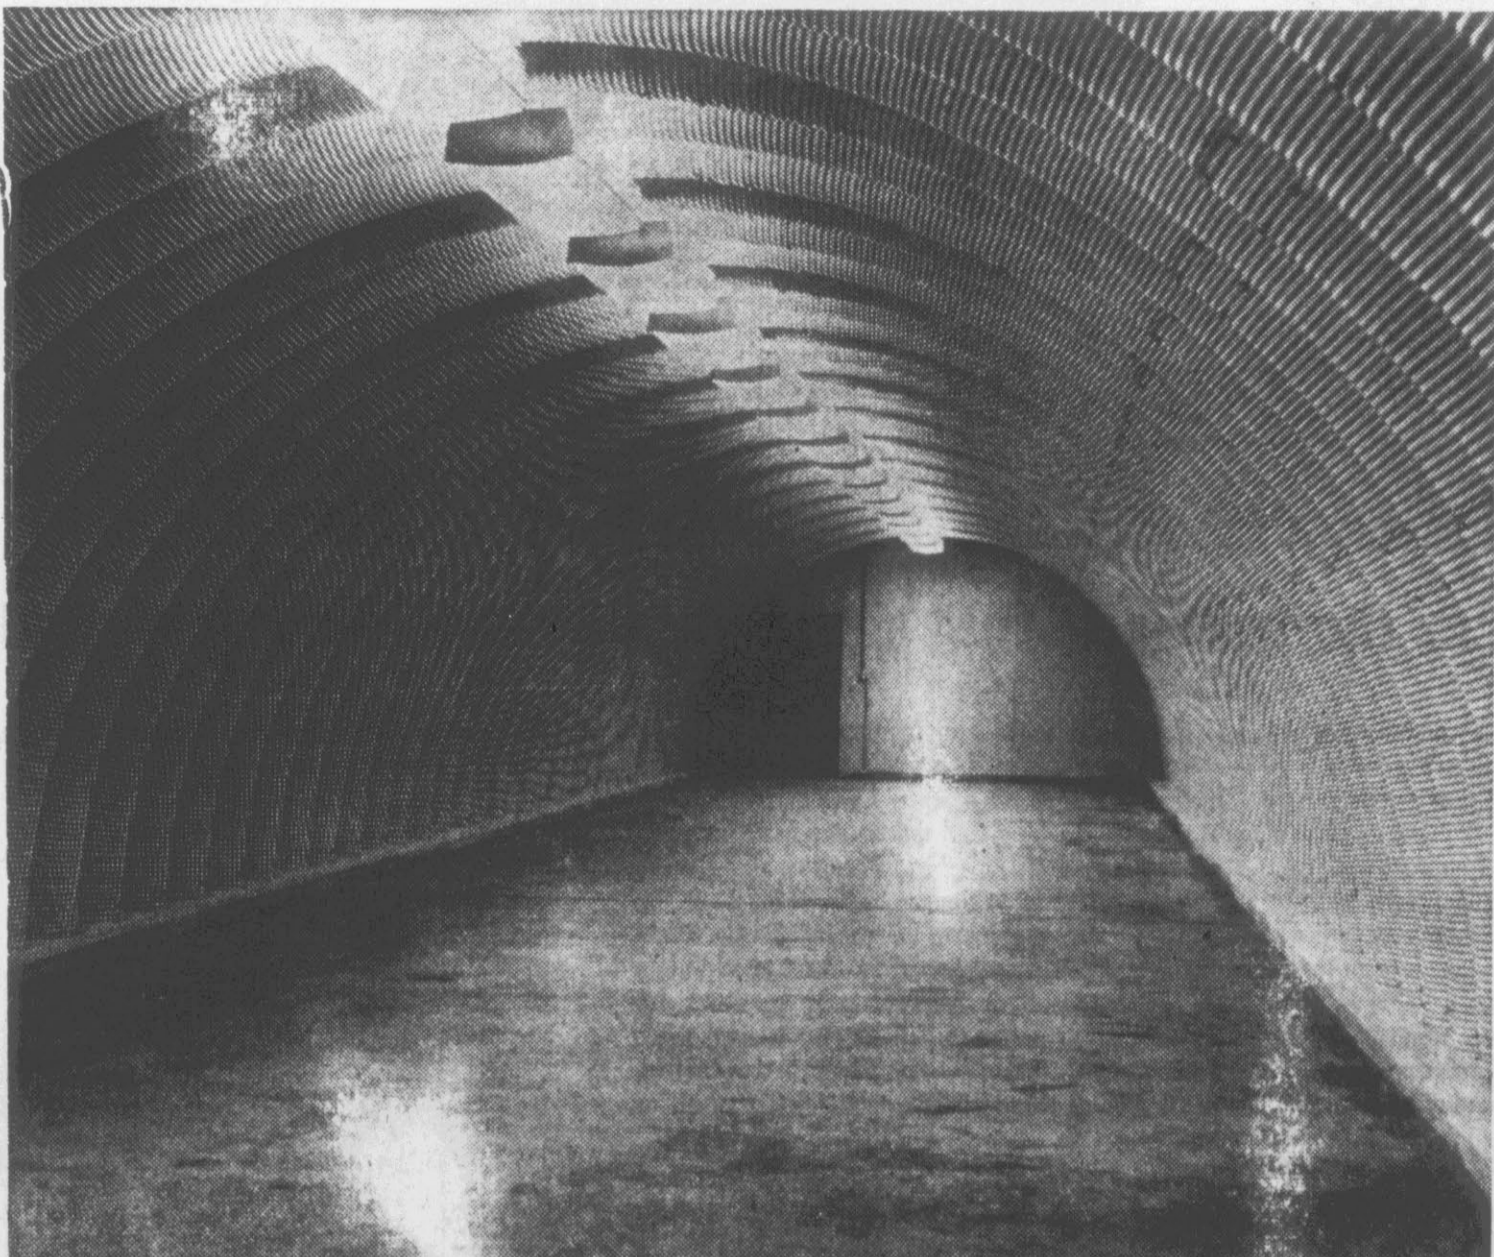

Somebody drops his eyelids, another a pencil. Or another tugs at ear lobe so that a competitor won't know what he's paying for his minks. When the well-trained spotter sees the signal, he shouts "Up!"

Each "Up" raises the pelt price 25 cents on a female skin, 50 cents for larger skins. The unceasing cry of "Up, Up, Up" sounds like popcorn popping.

The auctioneer's shoulder high flourish with his gavel signals the end of bidding.

Within a day the auctioneer moves more than a million dollars worth of minks out of the fur forests upstairs to the back shops of skilled furriers everywhere.

And in another month, some working girl is making her first payment on her first mink, a symbol of national prosperity.

FALLOUT SHELTER SHELL . . . A structure like this is scheduled for construction in Farmville within the near future. A $5,400 installment on the finished product, the shell will be equipped with necessary facilities. The shelter pictured above has been constructed in Thomasville, Ga.

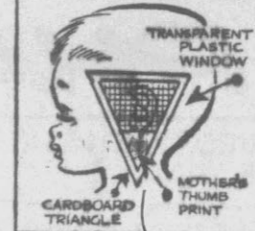

LITTLE MINK WENT TO MARKET Graders give them the thumb test.

IS THE PHANTOM MARRIED? WHO IS HE? HOW OLD... THINGS LIKE THAT.

HE IS NOT MARRIED. HE HAS SWEET-HEART FAR AWAY... THE LADY DIANA...

...PHANTOM IS RULER OF JUNGLE. WISEST OF MEN... STRENGTH OF TEN TIGERS... MAN WHO CANNOT DIE!

WHAT?

TRUE... GHOST WHO WALKS CANNOT DIE. YOU ASKED HOW OLD? BY NOW 400 YEARS OLD... COME, NOW... YOU CAN'T BELIEVE THAT. I'VE SEEN HIM. HE'S A YOUNG MAN... ASK GRAMPS...

TRUE... TRUE... I AM OVER ONE HUNDRED NOW... WHEN I WAS LITTLE I SAW HIM... I WAS WITH MY GRANDFATHER WHO WAS THEN OVER A HUNDRED...

...WITH HIS GRANDFATHER WHEN HE WAS A SMALL BOY... AND HIS GRANDFATHER SAW PHANTOM WHEN HE WAS LITTLE BOY... AND...

WHAT'LL THE QUEEN THINK ABOUT THAT STUFF? NONSENSE. BUT HE'S "STRONG AS TEN TIGERS" AND NOT MARRIED. THAT'S ALL SHE WANTS TO HEAR!

CHAPTER 24

The dark water below the police wharf sucked and kissed at the rusty iron stanchions.

In the latticed shadows cast through the ironwork by the three-quarter moon, Constable Santos heaved the single aqualung cylinder up onto James Bond's back and Bond secured the webbing at his waist so that it would not snarl the strap of Leiter's second Geiger counter, the underwater model.

He fitted the rubber mouthpiece between his teeth and adjusted the valve release until the air supply was just right. He turned off the supply and took out the mouthpiece.

Santos was a huge man, naked except for his swimming trunks. Bond said, "What should I expect to see at this time of night? Any big fish about?"

Santos grinned. "Usual harbor stuff, sah. Some barracuda, perhaps. Meebbe a shark. But they're lazy and overfed. They won't trouble you—less you bleedin' that is. The bottom's mostly seagrass on bits o' iron from wrecks and plenty of bottle and suchlike. Mucky, if you get me, sah. But the water's clear and you'll be hokay with this moon and the lights from the Disco to guide you."

"All right, let's go then. See you in about half an hour." Santos felt for the knife at his waist, shifted the webbing, and put the mouthpiece between his teeth. He turned on the air and, his fins slapping on the muddy sand, walked down and into the water. By the end of the wharf he was up to his ears. He quietly submerged and launched himself forward into an easy leg crawl, his hands along his flanks.

The mud shelved steeply and Bond kept on going down, until, at about forty feet, he was only a few inches above the bottom. He glanced at the big luminous figures on the dial of his watch—12.10. He untensed himself and put his legs into an easy, relaxed rhythm.

Through the roof of small waves the pale moonlight flickered on the gray bottom, and the refuse—motor tires, cans, bottles—cast black shadows.

It was like traveling across a moon landscape, an odor under which many mysterious creatures lived minute lives. Bond watched it all, carefully, as if he had been an underwater naturalist.

Now the pale moonlight changed. A meadow of soft seagrass showed up ahead. In the deep, slow currents it waved languidly, like deep fur. The hypnotic motion made Bond feel slightly seasick.

Amongst the waving grass, the black barb on an eel under looked like an enemy. The trailing chain rose from the bottom and disappeared into the upper mists. Bond followed it up.

The long hull of the ship grew out of the upper mists and took shape, a great Zepplin in the water. The folded mechanism of the hydrofoil looked ungainly, as if it did not belong. Bond clung for a moment to its starboard flange to get his bearings.

Far down to his left, the big twin screws, bright in the moonlight, hung suspended, motionless, but somehow charged with thrashing speed. Bond moved slowly along the hull toward them, staring upward for what he sought. He drew his breath.

Yes, it was there, the ridge of a wide hatch below the water line. Bond groped over it, measuring. About twelve feet square, divided down the center. Bond paused for a moment, wondering what was inside the closed doors.

He pressed the switch of the Geiger counter and held the machine against the steel plates. He watched the dial of the meter on his left wrist. It trembled to show the machine was alive, but it registered only the fraction Leiter had told him to expect from the hull. Bond switched the thing off. So much for that. Now for home.

The clang beside his ear and the sharp impact against his left shoulder were simultaneous. Automatically, Bond sprang back from the hull. Below him the bright needle of the spear wavered slowly down into the depths. Bond whirled.

The man, his black rubber suit glistening like armor in the moonlight, was pedaling furiously in the water while he thrust another spear down the barrel of the CO-2 gun. Bond hurled himself toward him, flailing at the water with his fins.

The man pulled back the loading lever and leveled the gun. Bond knew he couldn't make it. He was six strokes away. He stopped suddenly, ducked, his head, and jackknifed down. He felt the small shock wave of the silent explosion of gas and something hit his foot. Now! He soared up below the man and scythed upward with his knife.

The blade went in. He felt the black rubber against his hand. Then the butt of the gun hit him behind the ear and a white hand came down and scrambled at his armpit. Bond slashed wildly with the knife, his hand moving with terrifying slowness through the water. The hand let go of the mask, but now Bond couldn't see. Again the butt of the gun crashed down on his head. Now the water was full of black smoke, heavy, stringy stuff that clung to the glass of his mask. Bond backed painfully, slowly away, clawing at the glass. At last it cleared. The black smoke was coming out of the man, out of his stomach. But the gun was coming up again slowly, agonizingly, as if it weighed a ton, and the bright sting of the spear showed at its mouth. Now the webbed feet were hardly stirring, but the man was sinking slowly down to Bond's level.

Bond could see the bare teeth round the other man's rubber mouthpiece. The gun was at his head, at his throat, at his heart. Bond's hands crept up his chest to protect him while his flip-flops moved sluggishly like broken wings, below him.

And then, suddenly, the man was hurled toward Bond as if he had been kicked in the back. His arms spread in a curious gesture of embrace for Bond and the gun tumbled slowly away between them and disappeared. A puff of black blood spread out into the sea from behind the man's back and his hands wavered out and up in vague surrender while his head twisted on his shoulders to see what had done this to him.

And now, a few yards behind the man, shreds of black rubber hanging from his jaws, Bond saw a barracuda. It was lying broadside on, seven or eight feet of silver and blue torpedo, and round its jaws there was a thin mist of blood, the taste in the water that had triggered its attack.

Now the great tiger's eye looked coldly at Bond and then downward at the slowly sinking man. It gave a horrible yawning gulp to rid itself of the shreds of rubber, turned lazily three-quarters on, quivered in all its length, and dived like a bolt of white light.

Bond, as if in a dream, began swimming away from the scene. He had not gone many yards when something hit the surface to his left and the moonlight glinted on a silvery kind of egg that turned lazily over and over as it went down. It meant nothing to Bond, but two strokes later he received a violent blow in the stomach that knocked him sideways.

It also knocked sense into him, and he began to move fast through the water.

the water, at the same time planing downward toward the bottom. More buffets hit him in quick succession, but the grenades were bracketing the blood patch near the ship's hull and the shock waves of the explosions became less.

The bottom showed up — the friendly waving fur, the great black toadstools of the dead sponges and the darting shoals of small fish fleeing with Bond from the explosions. Now Bond swam with all his strength. At any moment a boat would be got over the side and another diver would go down.

With any luck he would find no traces of Bond's visit and conclude that the underwater sentry had been killed by shark or barracuda. It would be interesting to see what Largo would report to the harbor police. Difficult to explain the necessity for an armed underwater sentry for a pleasure yacht in a peaceful harbor!

Bond's narrow escape thrusts him into deeper peril. Continue the story Monday.

Eighth St. Christian Announcements

Entire Family On Assignment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Cort family of Boston—11 in all—are headed for the Philippines to reinforce the Peace Corps. John C. Cort, 49, his wife, Helen, 39, and their nine children arrived by plane from Boston Thursday night and hope to head soon for Manila. They hope, too, they can find a house there big enough to hold the brood—Barbara, 14, Nicholas, 13, twins Paul and Rebecca, 12, Lydia, 9, Mary Elizabeth, 8, Alice, 7, David, 5, and Susan, 3. His assignment is to maintain communication between the field workers and Washington. He has been administrative secretary of the Boston Newspaper Guild.

Arlington W. M. U. Course The Arlington Street Baptist Church W. M. U. will have a course from their Home Mission Study Book entitled "Glimpses of Glory" by Dr. O. C. Warren, Thursday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the church. The lecture will be given by Rev. John Moore, South Roanoke Association Missionary. All ladies of the church and friends are invited. Mrs. John Moore is WMU president.

FWB Mission Services Sunday school of the Winterville FWB Mission meets at 10 a.m., followed by worship service at 11 o'clock. Rev. R. J. Kennedy will deliver the sermon and render vocal selections. Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Gene Manning.

Tuesday, 8:00 p.m. with Mrs. Milton Faulkner; 10. Tuesday, 8:00 p.m., in the Church Parlor with Mrs. W. N. Moore and Mrs. H. L. Lewis co-hostesses. The public is invited to worship at this church. The Session will meet Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Red Oak Christian Announcements
There were 18 at the Youth Week meeting on "Teenage Problems" last Sunday. Filmstrips and discussion were followed by a supper. February 11 will be observed as Boy Scout Sunday. Troop 398, sponsored by the Men's Bible Class of Red Oak Christian Church, will be in uniform and sit together for the 11 o'clock service. The Scout Law and Promise will be given in unison by the troop. The Rev. Howard James will preach on "The Touch of the Master's Hand." The Sanctuary Choir will sing "Master, the Tempest Is Raging." Mrs. Bert Dearen will provide flowers for Sunday's services. A nursery is held during morning worship. Christian Women's Fellowship circles will meet on Monday, February 12, at 8 p.m. as follows: Odell Evans Circle with Mrs. Carl Crawford; Jean Garris Circle with Mrs. Lillian Jenkins; Audrey Jordan Circle with Mrs. Charles Manning. Sanctuary Choir rehearsal will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Boy Scout Troop 398 will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Rev. and Mrs. Howard James will be attending sessions of the Disciples Ministers and Ministers' Wives Institute at Wilson beginning Tuesday evening. Guest lecturer will be Dr. George Stuart of Detroit, Mich.

Unitarian Announcements
Sunday school will meet as usual at 10 a.m. in the "Y" Hut. The Adult Fellowship will meet at noon this Sunday in order to enable families to attend as units and to plan the program for the coming quarter. Luncheon will be served. E.C.C. students are urged to attend this important meeting in order to present their program suggestions and to join us in an informal fellowship gathering.
