New Register Of Deeds Sworn In

NEW REGISTER OF DEEDS—Mrs. Harold M. Allred of Farmville (left) takes oath of office administered by Clerk of Superior Court D. T. House Jr. (right) as Pitt County Attorney W. W. Speight looks on. Mrs. Allred was appointed Saturday by the Pitt County Commissioners in a special session. A veteran deputy in the register of deeds office, she succeeds Mrs. Blair C. Wheelless whose death last week created a vacancy. Mrs. Allred took the oath of office around 10:45 a.m. today and the register of deeds office was open again for business by 11 o'clock. The office had been closed, according to state law interpretation, upon the death of Mrs. Wheelless Thursday morning.

West Expected Reject Russian Summit Bid, Offer Later Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has proposed an 18-nation summit conference on disarmament to meet in Geneva in little more than a month. The West seemed certain to turn down the proposal, though a later summit session seems a definite possibility. The Soviet news agency Tass announced Khrushchev's plan today. The proposal was contained in a letter to President Kennedy delivered at the State Department Sunday morning. In the letter Khrushchev proposed that the 18-nation disarmament conference—scheduled to begin March 14 in Geneva—start work at the summit level. It was understood that the session would be confined to the single subject of disarmament, based on a set of principles agreed to by the United States and the Soviet Union at the United Nations last September. What stand the United States and its allies, and perhaps a number of non-aligned countries, will take in response to the Khrushchev proposal will be determined in urgent consultations expected to begin immediately. The White House and State Department declined any immediate comment as word of the reported new Khrushchev maneuver quickly circulated through the capital. There appeared to be no likelihood whatever that Kennedy would agree to a meeting with Khrushchev and other government chiefs at the outset of the March 14 talks. The President often has said there must be adequate advance preparations for a summit conference. He told a recent news conference he did not think a meeting with Khrushchev would be advisable under present conditions. However, if the Geneva disarmament group can make progress toward translating general principles of disarmament into concrete programs of action, there is reason to believe Kennedy might be willing to go to a summit meeting at a late stage of the negotiations. The Geneva group is to report to the United Nations June 1. The new Soviet proposition reportedly was delivered when Mikhail N. Smirnovsky, ranking official at the Soviet Embassy, met Sunday morning with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the State Department. Smirnovsky reportedly gave Rusk a seven-page letter from Khrushchev addressed to Kennedy. Rusk immediately got in touch with the President, who was spending the weekend at Middleburg, Va. Late in the afternoon Rusk called in the ambassadors of Britain, France, Italy and Canada. The Khrushchev letter is said to have been sent in reply to a proposal which Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made to him last Thursday. It called for the Geneva meeting to be opened by foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. In effect, Khrushchev raised the bid by suggesting that the 18-nation session be opened not by foreign ministers but by heads of government. The Soviet leader is reported to have told Kennedy that the issues involved in disarmament were far too serious to be left to "bureaucrats"—by which he made clear he meant the foreign ministers. The set of disarmament principles on which the United States and the Soviet Union agreed last fall calls for various stages of supervised disarmament aimed to totally dismantling national military forces and arsenals. The United States at the time pointed up at the United Nations the failure to agree on the critically important requirements of an international inspections system. The inspection problem, in the western view, poses the major obstacle in the way of the forthcoming Geneva negotiations. Khrushchev's letter to Kennedy reportedly made no direct reference to nuclear test ban negotiations. The Kennedy-Macmillan proposal last week that the disarmament negotiations begin with foreign ministers was announced simultaneously with word that Britain had agreed to let the United States use Christmas Island in the Pacific for possible nuclear atmospheric testing. Khrushchev may have decided that the two Western leaders were engaging in a diplomatic maneuver partly to offset criticism of their agreement that if they do go into atmospheric testing the action will be justified by military necessity.

Oliver W. Powers, of Norton Va. The Central Intelligence Agency was believed to be setting up a board of inquiry to look fully into the Powers case. CIA Director John A. McCone will determine the board's composition. Another figure in the unprecedented exchange arrived home Sunday, James Britt Donovan, the New York lawyer who defended Abel in his 1957 espionage trial and then negotiated his deportation in a trade for Powers and student Frederic Pryor, brought west still another American imprisoned in the Soviet Union may win his freedom. Marvin W. Makiinen, 22, a student from Ashburnham, Mass., is serving an eight-year sentence in Kiev on espionage charges. The secrecy that shrouded Powers' return was in sharp contrast to the homecoming of Pryor, the third principal in the trade. The 28-year-old student arrived in Detroit Sunday on his way home to Ann Arbor, Mich., and talked freely with reporters. He described himself as "just a bonus in the deal" and said he was "happy and grateful to be here." Pryor had been seized in East Berlin last August and held 5½ months in prison in the city for investigation of possible espionage activities. There is still much mystery surrounding Powers' flight, and military, diplomatic and intelligence officials are expected to join in the questioning. Only when this is completed, it is believed, will Powers be able to fully pick up the threads of his private life.

U-2 Pilot To Be Closely Quizzed

WASHINGTON (AP) — American U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers faces detailed grilling from U.S. intelligence agents when he completes a secret rendezvous with his wife. Among questions awaiting the flier, free after 21 months in a Soviet prison, are: What really happened the morning of May 1, 1960, when he was downed deep inside the Soviet Union? How much did he tell the Russians about his mission? Preliminary questioning presumably began shortly after the 32-year-old pilot crossed a Berlin bridge into American hands Saturday in a two-for-one trade for Soviet spy Rudolf I. Abel. Official sources are not saying Powers is in military or government custody, but ever since he crossed a white line where Communist East Germany ends and West Berlin begins, a carefully contrived secrecy has cloaked his movements. All the White House would say in a brief announcement Sunday was that Powers was home again and that he had been reunited with members of his family. In a far-flung game of hide-and-seek dogged newsmen tried to find out for themselves where Powers and his wife, Barbara, were holding their reunion. Various leads pointed to Maryland's Eastern Shore, but the exact meeting place could not be pinned down. The White House declined to say what family members Powers saw but presumably he met also with his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Youth Is Captured During Break-In

An attempt to hide from lawmen failed to pay off for an 18-year-old burglar Saturday night as police caught the thief inside a building the youth had just entered. The youth, now facing five charges of breaking and entering and larceny, was identified as Edward Earl Short, 18-year-old Negro of 204 Reade St. He admitted four other break-ins to officers following his capture. Detectives reported that officer H. V. Chandler discovered a break-in at a Cottage and Third St. service station at 9:40 p.m. Entrance to the firm had been gained through a side window. Other officers were called and after entering the station police discovered Short, hiding on top of the heating unit in a storage room. After being pulled from his near-ceiling perch, Short was charged with breaking and entering and larceny of the station. Officers, who found the cigarette machine in the building had been broken open, said $10.50 in change was found in Short's pockets. Officers also noted that cigarettes from the machine, as

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed at Greenville Moose Lodge tomorrow from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Quota for the visit is 125 pints of blood. Kenneth Whichard, blood program chairman for the county, has urged donors to give blood. "The need is urgent," he said.

Pitt County Republicans re-elected as chairman X. E. Manning of Bethel and newly elected Mrs. John Behr of Greenville as vice-chairman at their annual business meeting here Friday. Approximately fifty persons attended the Pitt County Republican meeting for the election of officers and the appointment of delegates to district and state Republican conventions. Elected to the Executive Committee of the county organization were John Scarborough, John Behr, Frank Steinbeck, Henry T. Smith, Wellington Gray, and Clyde Pretty. Those who will attend the state convention in Raleigh on March 3 are John Scarborough, Frank Steinbeck, Wellington Gray, John Behr, Speight Wadford, and X. E. Manning. After the elections James Vosbaugh of Greenville spoke on the Republican responsibilities on the state, county and local levels. He also gave a brief run-down on the accomplishments of the Sanford administration and predicted a large Republican turnout in 1962. "The hard work will have to be done here in the precincts," he said, "but the 'door-knockers' have succeeded in the Piedmont and we can succeed here in Pitt County!" John Radcliff and Frances Radcliff of Pantego were recognized as special guests for the evening. Miss Radcliff announced her campaign for the vice-chairmanship of the North Carolina Republican party, and she stressed the importance of attending the state convention on March 3.

Spain, Joyner Are Named To Serve Elections Board

The Pitt Democratic Executive Committee today recommended that D. S. Spain of Greenville and Eli Joyner of Farmville be reappointed to the Pitt Board of Elections. The recommendations were made at the executive committee's luncheon meeting which began at 12:30 p.m. Motion was made by Lloyd Fornes of Chocod and seconded by George Cherry of Pacolus. The committee will forward its two recommendations to the State Party Chairman Bert Bennett, who, in turn, will relay the recommendations to the State Board of Elections, the appointing agency. A third member of the board of elections will be recommended by the Republican Party executive committee. Spain is serving as chairman of the board of elections. At today's session, Chairman J. Henry Harrell announced that Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner will be held March 31. He said Pitt's quota is again $800 for 16 tickets. Last year Pitt was fifth in the state in funds raised with two townships being "especially outstanding," Harrell stated. These were Grifton with seven paid tickets and Carolina township with five. "We want to shine again this year," Harrell declared. He and Secretary Gilbert Peel announced that three tickets have already been sold. Harrell urged the committee to begin stirring up enthusiasm for the dinner. "And we have no credit in Raleigh," he pointed out. "Our money comes first, then they send us the tickets." Harrell recognized Pitt Young Democrats president, William Francis Tyson of Stokes who discussed the statewide YDC rally to be held in Greenville Saturday. Attending will be national YDC president Allan Howe. The rally is sponsored by the Pitt and East Carolina College YDC clubs.

Thousands Turn Out For Boy Scout Exposition

A festive air more than overwhelmed Saturday's icy winds as nearly 6,000 persons turned out to view the Pitt Scout District Exposition, the largest and most elaborate show event in the history of the district. Portable heaters worked overtime to spread warmth among the rows of demonstration and display booths as the overcoated hundreds viewed the evidence of skills in district Cubs, Scouts and Explorers. An estimated 2,000 braved the evening cold to watch an Indian pageant, presented on a makeshift stage in the Raynor-Forbes tobacco warehouse by more than 100 members of the Order of the Arrow and Greenville Girl Scouts. Cub scout games, cub, scout and explorer display booths and cooking demonstrations drew constant attention during the afternoon-and-evening program. Excitement was a part of the program during the Pinewood Derbies for district cubs. The Exposition, this year's community service project of the Greenville Kiwanis Club, saw participation by most of the scouting units in Pitt County. Ed Rawl, chairman of the Exposition and president of the Kiwanis Club, presided at an awards ceremony, conducted just before the 8 p.m. Indian pageant.

Blue, red, yellow and white ribbons were awarded to the units with booths, exhibits and demonstrations. Lists of the winners, judged by a committee headed by John T. Barnhill, were expected to be announced later today. Grifton Troop 24 handled the opening ceremony at 2 p.m. Troop 160 of Belvoir-Falkland erected the entrance rig at the warehouse's front door. Farmville Troop 25 was declared winner of the cooking contest and was awarded a cooking kit. A den in Cub Pack 205 won the competition among the game booths. Rodney Gray of Greenville

A Light White Mantle This Morning

COAT OF WHITE . . . as surprise snow moves in on Pitt County area during night.

Cold And Snow Reminds That Winter Has Not Run Course

Winter touched Greenville with a snowy, cold hand during the weekend, bringing lowest temperatures down to 20 degrees on Sunday. Snow which fell here during the night measured less than an inch and mostly was confined to yards and rooftops. The local Highway Patrol station said light snow was general over most of the state, with all roads open. Some ice existed on bridges and in spots on highways, but warming temperatures were expected to melt it. However, motorists were cautioned to use care in driving due to the icy spots. Temperatures throughout the night never got above freezing.

At midnight, the Greenville Utilities Plant recorded a high of 32 degrees, which dropped to 29 at 4 a.m. and to 28 at 8 a.m., L. M. Bullock reported. The storm system which brought the snow and sleet to the state was short lived. A large cold and elongated high pressure area which covered the Eastern states during the weekend split in two, with one center over Florida and the other over the St. Lawrence Valley. A low pressure area then pushed eastward between the two highs toward the mid-Atlantic states, causing light sleet and snow. Warmer weather now is on the agenda, though, as the high pressure area over the Southeastern states is expected to dominate for the next few days. The forecast is for variable cloudiness and milder temperatures. In the Greenville area today, winds were from the northwest about 3 to 5 miles per hour, and the barometer reading was 30.1, Bullock said. The Tar River was 5.8 feet. In other parts of the country, weather situations formed a seesaw as to temperature. In Albany, for instance, people were feeling the effects of temperatures of minus 8 degrees. At the other extreme was Miami, with a high of 71 and recorded low of 54 degrees. Balmey Honolulu was cloudy with a high of 82 and a low of 67, much warmer than Greenville, N. C.

Miss Harris Weds Mr. Venters

Mrs. Allen Thomas Venters

Mrs. Lola W. Harris of Pamlico announces the marriage of her daughter, Martha Ellen, to Mr. Allen Thomas Venters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Venters of Ayden.

The private ceremony on Sunday, Feb. 11, was held at the home of the bridegroom, amid a setting of mixed bridal flowers and lighted tapers. The vows were heard by the Rev. John Goff, pastor of the groom.

The bride was dressed in a beige wool suit, accented with matching fur collar in the wedding ring design. Her accessories were in shades of brown, and she carried a bouquet of orchids.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Harris chose a navy blue silk ensemble with matching accessories, and wore a shoulder corsage of white mums.

Mrs. Venters was dressed in an ice blue suit with pink accessories, and her shoulder corsage was of pink mums.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Ayden on West Haven Drive.

The bride attended Pamlico County Schools, and is presently employed by E. I. DuPont in Kinston.

The bridegroom attended Ayden Schools, and is associated with Leo Venters' Motor Company in Ayden.

Sweet Touch

PARIS—(WNS)—French subways, which began to be perfumed last year, desisted when Parisians couldn't agree on an odor. M. Massenet, subway director, is ready to try again with a new perfume created especially for underground riding by Mme. Piguet. Advance tests indicate there will be no complaints.

Church Starting Special Series

The Rev. L. H. Garner, pastor of the Hampton, Va., Pentecostal Holiness Church, will be guest preacher in the mid-winter evangelistic campaign of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church in Greenville.

The series of special services, announced by the host pastor, the Rev. W. E. Thompson, will begin next Wednesday night, Feb. 14, and will continue through Sunday, Feb. 25. The nightly services will begin at 7:30 o'clock and on Sunday, Feb. 18, and Sunday, Feb. 25, the Rev. Mr. Garner will preach at the morning worship services.

REV. L. H. GARNER

A native of Richmond, Va., the Rev. Mr. Garner has been pastor of the Hampton church for several years. During his pastorate in the Tidewater Virginia community he has led the congregation in the building of a new and modern church edifice. The Rev. Mr. Garner is a member of the official board of the Eastern Virginia Conference of the denomination.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson said special music will be a feature of the evangelistic campaign. The public is invited to all the services.

Romney Is Given Political Leave

DETROIT (AP) — Directors of American Motors Corp. today gave George Romney a leave of absence to seek nomination as Republican candidate for governor of Michigan and gave his cross as chairman to Richard E. Cross and his job as president to Roy Abernethy.

Before resigning his dual jobs, Romney was elected a vice chairman of the board and then was granted a leave. He will remain as a director without salary or bonus.

Cross, an attorney and director, will be chief executive officer as well as board chairman. Abernethy, currently executive vice president and general manager, will be chief operating officer as well as president.

Church Group Files Reply To Conference Statement

The General Conference of Original Free Will Baptists, a new movement in the denomination that describes itself as the "revived General Conference," has issued a statement of its position in reply to a statement of the Central Conference more than a week ago.

Through its clerk, the Rev. R. Eugene Waddell of Garner, elected clerk of the General Conference at a Greenville meeting in late January, the General Conference statement asserted that the conflict which caused the breach within the denomination is based on differences between the National Free Will Baptist Association and the N.C. State Convention of Free Will Baptists.

In stating the General Conference's position, Rev. Waddell said the "official statement of the General Conference" was issued "due to conflicting claims and in fairness to both groups."

The Central Conference's executive committee about 10 days ago in a 700-word statement said, in part: "The revived General Conference is not representative of any of the true Free Will Baptists in North Carolina."

It also said: "This new movement within the Free Will Baptist denomination is made up of those who rebelled against disciplinary rights of the conference."

In releasing its statement, the General Conference said that 10 of 15 Free Will Baptist conferences in North Carolina support the National Association's stand on "connectional" versus "congregational" government of local churches.

The National Association at its last convention asked the North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptists to repudiate its adoption of "connectional" principles. The convention did

Protector Gets Lengthy Leave

BOONE, N.C. (AP)—The Methodist minister who knelt in front of the White House to dramatize efforts to obtain executive clemency for Morton Sobell has been given leave of absence from his job as director of the Wesley Foundation here.

The minister, the Rev. David Andrews, will leave the job Friday. His salary is to continue. The leave is effective until the Western North Carolina Conference meeting in June.

Directors of the Wesley Foundation, which serves Methodist students at Appalachian State Teachers College, approved the leave Saturday on recommendation of the Methodist Inter-Conference Commission. This commission supervises Methodist student activity on college campuses.

The Rev. Mr. Andrews was arrested three times in December for kneeling in front of the White House in behalf of efforts to obtain clemency for Sobell, who is serving a 30-year sentence for espionage.

Jaycees Name 3 Outstanding Men

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—A lawyer, a college president, and the owner of a laundry and dry cleaning business have been chosen by the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce as the state's outstanding young men of 1961.

The three are C. T. (Red) Leonard Jr., 32, a Greensboro attorney; John N. Crowder, 33, who owns a laundry and dry cleaning business at High Point, and Dr. W. Burkette Raper, 34, president of Mount Olive Junior College.

They were selected from among more than 100 winners of distinguished service awards presented by Jaycee chapters in the state, and will be among those from whom the Jaycees will select the 10 outstanding young men of the United States.

not comply with this request. A General Conference spokesman said the nine conferences standing with the General Conference include the Pee Dee, Piedmont, Jack's Creek, Rock Fish, French Broad, Blue Ridge, Coastal, Toe River and Southern Conferences. Other N. C. conferences include the Central, the eastern, the Western, the Cape Fear and the Albemarle.

The statement of Rev. Waddell for the General Conference follows: "There are several clear distinctions in practice and procedure between the present Central Conference and the General Conference."

"The General Conference of 100 years ago, operated under a treatise known as 'An Abstract of the Former Articles of Faith Confessed by the Original Baptist Church, Holding the Doctrine of General Provision, with a Proper Code of Discipline for the Future Government of the Church'. The present Central Conference operates under the Statement of Faith and Discipline for Original Free Will Baptists of North Carolina, as written in 1916 and revised in 1955. This North Carolina Statement has very little similarity to the 'Abstract of 1812'. In fact, less than ten per cent of the old Abstract could be found in the present treatise. This North Carolina treatise, written in 1916, is based on the 1899 Cape Fear Conference discipline which never was used by the Old General Conference of Free Will Baptists. Therefore, the present Central Conference operates under a discipline foreign to the General Conference. The present General Conference has adopted as its rule of faith and practice that discipline which for 100 years was used by the Old General Conference."

"The General Conference method of ordaining ministers, as given in 'the Abstract of 1812', was this. The local church called a council of three regular ordained Free Will Baptist ministers and perform the service for the local church. The General Conference had no ordaining council elected by the Conference. The council was selected by the local church wishing ordination for one of its members."

"The present Central Conference uses a different procedure all together, based on the North Carolina treatise. The Conference appoints the council, makes the rules, sets the standards, and performs the service. This was not the General Conference method."

"In the General Conference individual elders (ministers) had the right to constitute or organize new churches. Not so, in the present Central Conference. The Conference must organize new churches."

"The General Conference took no authority over local churches, but stated that the majority vote in each church should carry the point. The present Central Conference Statement of Discipline says 'The annual conference or association being the highest tribunal, shall have final disciplinary authority over the local church'. This is not the Old General Conference way."

"For a number of years the Central Conference laid no claim to being the continuation of the General Conference. In 1906 the minutes of the Central Conference are entitled the 'Eleventh Session of the Central Conference'. That would mean the Central Conference had its first session in 1895."

"The conflict between the North Carolina State Convention is in reality a conflict between the National Association of Free Will Baptists and the North Carolina State Convention. The National Association requested the State Convention of repudiate all forms of connectional church government, and to affirm its belief in our historic form of congregational government. The State Convention has refused to comply with this request. The present Central Conference has sided with the State Convention in its rebellion against the National body. It is upholding connectional church government, and non-support of our National Association."

"The General Conference has complied with the National Association's request and is determined to maintain affiliation with and support of our denomination as it is represented in our National Association."

"By practice, customs, doctrine, discipline and procedure, the General Conference of 1962 is essentially the same as the historic General Conference of Original Free Will Baptists of North Carolina."

"The General Conference has complied with the National Association's request and is determined to maintain affiliation with and support of our denomination as it is represented in our National Association."

"The General Conference has complied with the National Association's request and is determined to maintain affiliation with and support of our denomination as it is represented in our National Association."

Hunt Victim Of Plane's Crash

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The Coast Guard cutter Nike and a patrol boat are searching for an overdue private plane near an oil slick in Mobile Bay.

Authorities believed the plane was piloted by Dr. G. W. Melchior, formerly of Wilson, N.C., who practices in Pascagoula, Miss. He was reported to be flying alone.

A man tentatively identified only as a Mr. Melchior of Wilson was reported to have filed a flight plan from Vidalia, Ga., to Mobile. The Coast Guard said.

Melchior reportedly left Vidalia in a Cessna 172 between 6:15 and 6:45 p.m. Saturday, an airport spokesman said. B. E. Nobles of Skyways, Inc., Vidalia, said Melchior reported he was heading west and might fly over water to save time. At Wilson, N.C., Municipal Airport sources said Melchior was in radio contact with Pensacola, Fla., Saturday night and said his fuel gauge had been registering empty for 20 minutes, the spokesman said.

Melchior is a native of Memphis, Tenn. He was graduated from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond.

Dr. Melchior has been practicing in Pascagoula for the last year. His license was revoked in North Carolina in 1957 for "unprofessional conduct" but was renewed Jan. 13, and he planned to come back to Wilson.

Before revocation of his license, Melchior and his wife, Dr. Josephine Melchior, operated a clinic at Wilson. She still does.

Charge Driver In Saturday Mishap

Greenville police reported that Mrs. Sallie Easterling Mann of 207 Arlington Drive was charged with operating to the left of the center line following a Saturday afternoon collision at 421 Pittman Drive. Traffic officers said the Mann auto collided with a vehicle being driven by Raymond Kay Lockhart, 34, of 421 Pittman Drive. The Lockhart vehicle was backing out of a drive at the time of the 1:20 p.m. accident. Total damage in the collision was set at $150 by investigators. No injuries were reported.

A Reasonable Farm Price Program

President Kennedy's farm program recently presented to Congress bears out an assertion he made when campaigning in Eastern North Carolina some 17 months ago for the presidency.

He asserted then that he felt the government program for tobacco, with its rigid production controls and price supports offered a model after which most of the nation's farm program could be patterned. That pattern is reflected today in the agricultural program now before Congress, and it is causing considerable controversy in other sections of the nation even among farmers.

The President has proposed extension of marketing quotas for dairy farmers and he has offered wheat and small grain growers the choice between price supports with production controls or no marketing controls and no price supports. In some quarters the program is being viewed as a drastically new concept so far as government control of agriculture is concerned. For those who are familiar with the tobacco program, however, the concept is one which has been in use for decades.

Some of the critics of the President's new agricultural program have asserted that the government should not exercise such control over farm production. Reading between the lines of some critical statements, one gets the impression that some farmers believe the government should guarantee high prices for farm productions, and that along with these price supports the farmer should be allowed to produce as much of the crop as he desires. Such a program would be folly indeed.

We believe that President Kennedy has offered a reasonable proposal so far as price supports and accompanying control on production of farm commodities are concerned. The only practical alternative to this proposal, in our opinion, is to let the law of supply and demand apply its own restrictions in the free market place.

This latter alternative would bring about high production and falling prices which would drive many farmers into bankruptcy. It would bring back to agricultural areas the disastrous consequences of the depression years. And it might also result in an eventual lowering of agricultural production in the nation to levels which would endanger the security and welfare of the nation.

President Kennedy has set forth the matter forthrightly in proposing his current farm program to Congress.

If producers of the various farm commodities expect the government to guarantee adequate prices for their production they should be willing to abide by the production controls which the government sets up along with those price supports. If the farmers choose instead the unrestricted right to produce as much of a commodity as they wish, they should expect to take their chances in the market place without the government underwriting their losses.

Back To Tradition In Spook-Hunting Field

It's a nice change of pace to read of a spook-hunter who takes a real interest in his work. Tends to get one's mind off taxes, H-bombs, parking tickets and overdue bills, you know.

Saturday's wire report told of Tony Cornell, Cambridge University's leading and hopeful investigator of the supernatural. Cornell uses such unghostly devices as stroboscope, infrared film and ultraviolet light in his work. But four attempts to intercept a jaywalking spirit on a winding country road near Huntingdon (England, that is) have met with no success.

The report says a phantom lady has been seen, or is suspected to have been seen (this part is not at all clear) on the road and is considered a likely cause for several fatal auto accidents.

Now everybody knows a winding country road on a moonless night can be hazardous to a driver racing home from a late date or who has been socializing with another kind of spirits at Ye Olde Inne.

But whispers of a phantom lady add color as well as security to holders of beverage licenses at nearby pubs; and for the sake of all ghost-hunters (and pub patrons?) we prefer to think there is a ghost of a chance the phantom lady rumor holds more substance than spooks are wont to claim.

We all know England as a land of traditions; and even their ghosts are bound to have an extra aura of tradition which gives them something you find nowhere else.

For that reason, Cornell's failure should come as no surprise to ghostophiles . . . (no, don't bother to go to the dictionary).

This matter of tradition may explain why he may never go far in his wish to "get a foot in the door of the abnormal."

Infrared image converter . . . stroboscope . . . light filters, indeed! He'd do better with traditional means, proven by time.

Seance, anyone?

Administration Wage Policies

By RALPH ROBEY
In the annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers there is the most definite statement for the determination of wages that has ever been issued by any portion of the federal administration.

This statement is as follows: "The general guide for non-inflationary wage behavior is that the rate of increase in wage rates (including fringe benefits) in each industry be equal to the trend rate of overall productivity increase."

The council does not maintain that every industry should give just this amount of wage increase each year. That would be impossible. But this is to be the average wage increase for the industry as a whole. The variations would be because, in relation to the labor supply, some wages already may be relatively too high or too low. No details or indications are given as to which industries fall within either of these classes.

At first glance this formula is rather appealing. However, when it is analyzed with care the idea is found to be thoroughly unsound. Here are some of the more important defects:

1. It assumes that there should be an increase of wages each year. This is a practice we have been following in general for a long time, and it would be pleasant if it could be continued. But in many industries it is imperative that such annual increases be stopped - because it is necessary to have the maximum reduction of prices in order to widen markets and to meet foreign competition.

2. The determination of productivity or output per man-hour, is not something upon which even the experts in this field can agree. The council li-self says "there are a number of conceptual problems in connection with productivity measurement which can give rise to differences in estimates of its rate of growth." Extraordinary efforts have been made to eliminate these differences, but little progress has been made and we still have wide variations among sincere students as to how rapidly productivity is increasing.

3. Multiple-year contracts are becoming more and more common in wage settlements. Such contracts normally provide for a wage increase and change in fringe benefits for each year. To apply for formula of the council in such circumstances would necessitate forecasting the increase in productivity for the nation as a whole for the life of these contracts. That simply cannot be done with any hope of accuracy.

4. Not all companies in an industry can pay the same wage, or give the same increase when an adjustment is made. There have been repeated efforts by some union leaders to force such a nationwide equality of wages, and in a few instances substantial success has been attained. But as long as there is a difference in the equipment, efficiency of management, nearness to markets, and so forth, there must continue to be variations in the wage rates as between companies.

5. The rate of productivity increase is not the same year after year. This is true regardless of how it is measured. It is customary for the increase to be relatively rapid as business moves out of a recession. This is the result of more complete use of existing machines, of having held the more efficient workers, and so on. Then, as the total of business continues to climb, productivity tends to ad-

Anti-Marxist Influence

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Many years ago, when I was very young, I read Peter Kropotkin's "Memoirs of a Revolutionary." I also read other works of Prince Kropotkin and was deeply influenced by this Russian who was anti-Marxist.

It is difficult for us to realize that the Russian Revolution, in all its forms, originated in the Russian aristocracy. Peasants and workers were not among the first opponents of autocracy. Some came into the various movements but the leading figures were aristocrats and intellectuals, often members of the Czar's Court, who sought for an improvement of the life of the Russian people.

Peter Kropotkin was both an aristocrat and an intellectual.

Born in 1842 and dying in 1921, his life spanned a long and interesting period of change not only in Russia but throughout Europe. His memoirs, recently republished as a paperback Anchor Book, presents the background of the Revolution which now affects our lives. Many Russian revolutionists were anti-Marxist. It is important to us to understand this if we are to appreciate the force exercised by the Communists to take control of this country. Referring to Karl Marx's "Das Kapital," which is the basis of Marxism and is too often not read, Kropotkin wrote:

"I read this book while still in St. Petersburg where it appeared in 1872. The pretentiousness of the book, together with its unscientific nature (the theory of value, for example, is not proven scientifically at all and must be taken on faith) and its abuse of scientific jargon I did not like at all. The excursions of Marx into the realm of quantitative expression and algebraic formula were ridiculous. They prove his complete incompetence to think concretely quantitatively. I laughed a great deal with N. Tsiinger (the astronomer) at the 'formulas' of Marx which he so importantly wrote out, not even suspecting how ridiculous they would appear to mathematicians who are accustomed to the idea of units of measure. To express by formulas what a formula does not express is indeed ridiculous."

It is curious that in the 20th Century, Marxism has had such an appeal to the intellectuals and scientists of all countries. In the 19th Century, few intellectuals could accept Karl Marx's sociology or economics as scientific. In many respects, his doctrines were based upon primitive material available in the 1840's and 1850's in the British Museum. Some years ago, an attempt was made to restudy the material available to Marx and the task was unsatisfactory because Marx appeared on the scene too early. What he sought was not available.

Kropotkin, who came later, also worked in the British Museum, as did so many German and Russian revolutionists. Constitutionalism made a great appeal upon some revolutionists. They were particularly interested in the British Constitution. The truth was, however, that the Russians did not understand British Constitutionalism, an utterly alien form of government.

Kropotkin is often regarded as an anarchist. A study of his work discloses that what he sought was an expression of the will of the people. He joined the Chalkovsky Circle which was a group of intellectuals who devoted themselves to an understanding of the social forces that would save the Russian people from autocracy. Kropotkin found little hope in Constitutionalism, which gave the state authority over man.

In the struggle among various revolutionists, the Social Democrats prevailed. This gave Lenin his opportunity for leadership. During World War I, Kropotkin supported the Allied cause, but he was opposed to Allied intervention in Russian affairs. Of this, he said:

"I protest with all my strength against every kind of armed intervention of the Allied (Continued on page five)

Other Editors Saying... Telling And Selling

(Washington Daily News)

At a recent meeting of educational superintendents in Washington, some discussion was made regarding public information given to the people in this matter of education.

Some superintendents feel honestly that the full story is not being told. We go along with those sentiments to a point. Much more could be told, and sometimes it is difficult to get educational officials to write articles for fear that some controversy might be stirred up, or for some other reason such as a lack of time.

To ask a teacher or a school official to write an educational article means that the teacher or official must work above and beyond the call of duty. Merely writing the article does not do the whole job. There are statistics often to get, information to study and compile, and often a great deal of time is spent in preparing and writing such an article.

Newspapers have not always done the job they should do either. But by and large this editor feels that it is not alone a case of not telling the educational story but rather a case of not selling it.

Somehow the educational stories do not have the dramatic appeal, and the reading interest we need to have to get the public response needed at this time.

A story can be told over and over again, but if it does not impress the readers sufficiently, then what has really been accomplished.

Stories can tell over and over again of classroom shortages, teacher shortages, curricula needs, discipline troubles, and the like, but until the stories are told with sufficient depth to impress, then we are not doing the successful job of selling.

We agree that more could be told and more could be written. But as of now the biggest challenge, as we see it, is to do a better job of selling. When the people of North Carolina become sufficiently aware that educational needs are pressing, then the people will join wholeheartedly in the effort to realize them. So long as people have the feeling that taxes are being wasted, that taxes are too high, and that we'll have educational opportunities automatically, then we have little hope of wholesale acceptance of the quality education program.

We must do a better job of selling. We must awaken the conscience of people all over North Carolina. We must make the people want to improve education enthusiastically - not begrudgingly and with bitter resistance.

Attitudes must change, and when the people of North Carolina finally make up their minds that we must have certain facilities, they will come surely.

When we do a better job of selling, then attitudes will change.

Department Store Sales Figures

By ELMER ROESSNER

While total retail sales last year failed to top 1960 highs, department store sales went on to a new record and were 2 per cent above 1960 marks.

Federal Reserve figures show that of the twelve Fed districts, San Francisco and Kansas City did best, with 3 per cent gains. The St. Louis district did worst, with a 1 per cent loss, and the Chicago district was even with a year ago. The other districts showed 1 or 2 per cent increases.

Of shopping areas, Albuquerque, N.M., showed the largest gain - almost atomic - of 19 per cent. And those gains have been sustained into 1962. San Diego came next with a 16 per cent rise and it, too, has been showing sustained strength, gaining 48 per cent in the week ending Jan. 20, this year. Suburban Boston recorded a 13 per cent rise, although downtown Boston held even.

SURGES IN SALES

Other shopping areas showing impressive gains, and the gains were:

Sacramento, Calif., 12 per cent; Lincoln, Neb., 11; Omaha, 9; Cincinnati, 9; San Jose, Calif., 6; Miami, 6; Houston, 6; Akron, 5; Louisville, 5; Denver, 5; and Boston including suburban, downtown, Cambridge and Quincy, 6.

The most painful loss was shown by Oklahoma City, down 8 per cent. Downtown Cleveland showed a drop of 6 per cent, and Youngstown, Ohio, downtown Pittsburgh and El Paso each showed declines of 5 per cent.

SIGNIFICANCE LIMITED

While the gains or losses are important, they are often the results of special local conditions rather than regional trends. The establishment of a new energy project can fatten sales in the nearest metropolitan area; the closing of a government plane facility can reduce shopping nearby.

Sometimes an economic misfortune in 1960 can make 1961 figures look rosier than they are, or a local boom in this year can make this year's figures unimpressive.

Situations within an area can also effect the figures. For example, while the San Francisco-Oakland area showed a gain of 3 per cent, San Francisco itself showed no gain while Oakland, which is having some economic troubles, showed a 4 per cent gain.

And Washington, D.C., showed a 4 per cent gain, downtown Washington showed a 1 per cent drop. You could consider a hundred theories to account for that.

Crafts Being Ignored

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—One of the paradoxes of recent years, and particularly during the last recession, has been the growing unmet demand for specialists and highly skilled workers during a time of heavy unemployment. We don't have to look very far for the answer: There is a large segment of the labor force having little or no basic economic education, and even more who have developed no special skills. Even in the deepest part of the recession, there were over 3,000 unfilled openings in the heavy-hill Los Angeles area, with employers unable to find enough skilled or technically trained workers. ELEMENTARY EDUCATION AND SPECIALISM

I advise my readers to make their children and their grandchildren start training for special occupations early in the education game. This has been one my theme songs, and it becomes clearer every day that the time of the specialist is upon us. Industry is still hard put - even during a period of high unemployment - to find enough trained craftsmen. For every 100 skilled men and women employed in industry today, there will be 125 needed by 1965, and 150 by 1975 - partly in spite of and partly because of the spread of automation.

The Labor Department believes that this "age of computer" will create a tremendous increase in job openings for professional, office, and sales workers. In fact, it expects that industry will need some 8,400,000 more workers in such branches between now and 1970. Many of these will be sought by skilled mechanical and construction crafts, and many will be needed in the rapidly expanding office field.

NEW JOB PROBLEM

Let me bring up a problem that already faces the employer and will become steadily more difficult over the years ahead. This involves the dizzying pace at which changes in specialization becomes necessary in the mad race of research and development that leads automation ever onward. Some intelligent observers of the machine-to-run-machines revolution think that intensive specialization is basically unsound. What will happen, they ask, to a student trained to run a complex machine when that machine and his job suddenly become obsolete? This is something that is going to happen numberless times in the years ahead. How am I to tell my readers the best way to face it?

Frankly, I think it is as simple as this: Insist upon broader education along the way for your dependents. In this way their discipline will be improved and their minds will be made more responsive to a wider variety of good influences. Once an aspiring young man or woman learns how to think, it will be an easy thing to adapt as demand requires. Changes will not then loom as insurmountable barriers, but will be new and stimulating challenges. There will be a million-and-one such challenges in the coming years, and you will want your children educated in the way that will help them to meet these changes.

PRESENT SCHOOLS INADEQUATE

While getting a broad education the arts should not be neglected. In fact, they should be encouraged with an eye to influencing a worker to think he is not busy at his job. Creative thinking is the great need. This is the only way we will lick Communism. Those who pooh-pooh time given to the study of literature, painting, theater, and music simply do not understand the richness and imagination which can be thus instilled into a young person growing up in a highly materialistic world. Needless to say, sane religious education is of the utmost importance from the very earliest "learning" days of every child.

In closing, may I say that I have not abandoned my attitude toward the real need for specialization. But I think it is essential to base this upon a sound, broad education that will lay the groundwork for the de-

Astronaut John Glenn Not Taking Joyride

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight will be no joy ride. He will be a busy man as his spacecraft zips around the globe at five miles a second.

The finely tuned pilot will have a number of tasks to perform as he seeks an answer to the question: how well can man perform in space, especially during prolonged weightlessness. For Glenn this will be all but about 20 minutes of the intended 4-hour, 50-minute ride.

Man's ability to function in a weightless state is one of the major enigmas of space flight which Project Mercury launchings aim to solve.

When Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov made 17 circuits of the globe in the spaceship Vostok II last August, he suffered vertigo sickness, or dizziness, much of the time. The first man to orbit the earth, Yuri Gagarin, reported no such discomfort on his one circuit. Nor did Americans Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil Grissom on their suborbital trips last year.

Glenn will keep constant watch on his instruments; control the attitude of his spacecraft, turning it upside down at times; confer with ground stations; make star and earth observations; eat, drink and even exercise in space.

He will begin logging instrument readings as he waits in the capsule for the Atlas to boost him aloft.

Through the critical five-minute powered portion of flight just after blastoff, he will be pressed against his contour cocoon by gravity forces eight times his own weight.

He is to report his impressions by radio to the Mercury control center at Cape Canaveral. On the receiving end, and able to talk to Glenn, will be fellow astronaut Shepard.

Once in orbit at 17,500 miles an hour, Glenn will look at the earth 100 to 150 miles below through a large window or through a special periscope. Each glance will afford a stunning panoramic view stretching 1,800 miles. Or he can narrow the periscope view to 80 miles square. A camera mounted near his right hand will enable him to snap pictures through the periscope. He will try to identify earth landmarks, such as rivers, deserts, mountains.

If a malfunction occurs in the spacecraft, he will switch to a backup system. If the satellite clock fails to signal firing of the spacecraft reverse rockets near the end of flight, he will fire them manually.

At times, Glenn will move the attitude control stick to roll his two-ton craft over for a peek at the stars and heavens. Undistorted by the earth's atmosphere, the stars will appear in their true, brilliant red, blue, yellow and white hues. He also will maneuver the capsule on its pitch and yaw axes.

Continents and oceans will skip from sight in seconds as the capsule streaks through alternate periods of daylight and darkness, from winter in the United States to summer in Australia.

As he passes over Perth, Australia, he may see the entire town lit up. The telescope plan to light every lamp in the city.

When Glenn whips over the Indian Ocean tracking ship Coastal Sentry on the second orbit—2 hours, 14 minutes after launching—the ship intends to launch a set of flares by balloon to an altitude of 30,000 feet to see if Glenn can spy them.

Glenn is scheduled to eat twice during the mission, as he approaches the West Coast of the United States on his first orbit and over Australia on the second. He will squeeze a baby food-type mixture of beef and vegetables from a tube and sip water from two flat squeeze bottles.

The astronaut also plans periods of exercise, pulling on a device described as a kingsize rubber band. After each exercise period he will take a blood pressure reading, then rest two minutes and take another reading.

Medical men, who will monitor every second of his flight electronically, feel weightless periods of several days or weeks might rob a spaceman of his muscle tone, make him flabby. They say exercises, like Glenn's, may be necessary on long space jaunts.

Student Panel Backs Consolidation Steps

AYDEN—A panel of students, discussing quality education here on Thursday night expressed the opinion that consolidation would serve to improve the quality of education.

The discussion of quality education from the student's viewpoint and the role of the teacher and parent in quality education, was presented by Ayden High School seniors, William Edwards, moderator, and Joyce Dennis, Barbara Greene, Emmitt Gibson, Pat Braxton and Harry Dail, panel members, who presented the P.T.A. program in the high school auditorium.

Consolidation would serve to improve the quality of education, the students said, by offering a variety and specialization in subject matter and by allowing teachers to teach the subject matter they know best.

Need for physical fitness in the United States was advanced, with the idea that a broader physical education program might be beneficial to students.

In the area of responsibility of teachers towards quality education, the panel suggested that a teacher maintain an atmosphere for learning in the class by commanding the respect of the students, by being thoroughly prepared in subject matter, by allowing the students free expression of opinion and by presenting free expression of opinion. Presentation of subject matter in an interesting manner was also suggested.

One student said she expected a quality teacher to be one with whom she could consult about her problems, with assurance that the teacher would be interested and helpful.

Suggestions for parents in obtaining quality education were that they should be interested in subject matter taken by their children as well as grades; express interest in activities of the school; provide a quiet place for study; encourage study time in the child's schedule; and encourage in the child the desire and ability to read.

The panel concluded by pointing out that students must accept the responsibility of getting an education. Students should take advantage of the opportunities which are given through adequate facilities, dedicated teachers and interested parents.

Students composing the panel were seniors from the composition class of Ayden High School.

Gales Battering North Europe

LONDON (AP)—Roaring gales battered northwest Europe today and spread a trail of wreckage across Britain with at least four dead.

The Meteorological Office said a 123-mile gust recorded at Lowther hill, 2,377 feet above sea level at Lanarkshire in Scotland, was probably the fastest gust ever recorded in the British Isles.

Huge waves swept the North Sea and Baltic but by mid-morning no ships were reported in major trouble.

The winds boosted a Pan American jet into London from Los Angeles an hour and 26 minutes ahead of schedule.

Southwesterly gales with gusts up to hurricane strength battered Germany's North Sea and Baltic coasts, whipping up 10-foot waves in some ports. Virtually all German shipping was at a standstill. Harbors were jammed by small ships seeking shelter.

Gales also raged along the rugged southwest coast of Norway while snow and rain poured down over the southern parts of the country. Continuous gale warnings were issued to shipping in Skagerrak Channel between southern Norway and Denmark.

Gale winds and rain whipped most of Denmark. A tornado, a rare phenomenon in Europe, injured two people and caused extensive damage in the north Jutland town of Hosterbro Sunday. The Mediterranean was calm and sunny.

The Soviet port of Vladivostok had a 24-hour blizzard with twice the monthly snowfall, Moscow radio reported.

Snake Hunters Cleaned Up Area

WHIGHAM, Ga. (AP)—From dawn until late afternoon Sunday snake hunters tracked through the woods of this south Georgia area. When the counting was done, there were 131 rattlers, a few coachwhips and other non-poisonous varieties.

The roundup, designed to reduce the area's snake population, was inaugurated last year after a teenager suffered a severe snake bite.

Russians May Free Another American

NEW YORK (AP)—The only American known to be still behind bars in the Soviet Union may soon be released, says the Brooklyn lawyer who negotiated the U.S.-Soviet spy swap.

But, he added, it is contingent upon an improvement in relations between the two countries.

The prospect of freedom for Marvin Makinen, 22, a Fulbright scholar serving eight years on spy charges, was expressed Sunday night by James Britt Donovan.

Donovan said the subject of Makinen's release came up during his talks with Ivan Shishkin, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Communist East Germany.

The negotiations resulted in the United States' freeing Col. Rudolf Abel, a Soviet master spy serving 30 years in prison; the Soviet Union freeing Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 pilot serving 10 years, and East Germany freeing Frederick L. Pryor, an American student who had been held without trial since Aug. 25.

Donovan, who was Abel's court-appointed American lawyer in the colonel's 1957 trial for espionage, said he viewed the Soviet and East German actions as "a genuine attempt to secure better relations."

He added: "I have what I believe to be assurance that if the better relations contemplated by this exchange should develop, the Soviet Union would contemplate extending clemency to Makinen."

This may be expected "in the near future," Donovan said. "I regard the negotiations as concluded."

Officials at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow said they had no information about the possibility of Makinen's release.

Makinen, who was studying at the Free University in West Berlin, was seized last July 27 and accused of photographing military installations in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Ukraine. He was convicted of espionage, and is in prison at Kiev.

N.C. Democrats Begin Oiling 1962 Machinery

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel Democrats began oiling their 1962 campaign machinery today with executive committee meetings scheduled for each of the 100 county organizations.

Each executive committee was to recommend two Democrats for each three-member county board of elections. The State Board of Elections is to meet next month to approve the recommendations.

A higher echelon of Democratic officials will be in Raleigh Friday for a meeting of the 228-member State Executive Committee.

State Chairman Bert Bennett called the meeting to select dates for precinct meetings, county conventions and the state convention.

Also up for consideration will be a report by a special study committee which has hammered out a proposed plan of reorganization for the state party.

Third Red Bid For Air Route

BERLIN (AP)—For the third time in less than a week, the Western Allies today rejected a Soviet bid to take over part of the air corridors into Berlin. Flights were normal and no Soviet planes were reported sighted.

The Soviets in the Berlin air safety center had asked for exclusive use of the Hamburg to Berlin and Hannover to Berlin corridors up to 7,500 feet altitude for two hours and 23 minutes. The U.S., British and French commands considered this another attempt to weaken their access rights to Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Pilots for commercial air lines flying into Berlin reported conditions turbulent and uncomfortable at that level, with driving rains and gusts of nearly 60 miles an hour.

The Western Allies rejected the Soviet demand for "block booking" of the corridors and said the four-power rule in force for the past 17 years would have to be followed—that individual flights would have to be followed—that individual flights would have to be reported to the Berlin air safety center and clear.

Returnee Is Opposed To 'Cheap Propaganda'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—There is an opportunity to make a lot of cheap propaganda slandering East Germany—don't do it in my case," said Frederic L. Pryor, 28, Sunday on his return home after his release from a Soviet prison.

"After tomorrow, forget me," he said.

His graying mother, Mrs. Millard H. Pryor, beamed, "This is what I have been waiting for. She had been waiting five and a half months.

The scene was nearby Willow Run Airport with a New York-Detroit airliner a backdrop.

Less than 48 hours earlier Frederic had been released by East German Communists who had picked him up as an espionage suspect in East Berlin last Aug. 25. His mother and father, who learned of his detention three weeks afterward, had spent most of their time since in Berlin.

Frederic said he "assumed" was just a bonus in the deal in which American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was swapped for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel early Saturday morning.

The lean, tallish Frederic told newsmen he was "happy, grateful to be home." He said he had not been physically mistreated by the Communists.

Pryor still was wearing the suit in which he had been taken as prisoner. There were no buttons on it. The threads had become so frayed the buttons had trickled off.

His father, chairman of Barnes Manufacturing Co., of Mansfield, Ohio, a pump-making firm, pleaded with newsmen: "Please, no more than five minutes."

He explained Frederic hadn't slept since his release and had sat up after his arrival in New York early Sunday talking with relatives and friends.

The Michiganian said he did not know of the Powers-Abel trade until after his own release.

Pryor was a graduate student at the Free University in West Berlin when he was detained by the Communists. He had gone into East Berlin, he said, to listen to a speech by Communist leader Walter Ulbricht.

Pryor had taken with him a copy of a doctoral thesis he was writing on East European Communist trade. It contained facts and figures gathered from many sources, but Pryor insisted none of them were of a military nature.

Pryor described the unofficial charge against him as "economic espionage," but said he never was shown any official warrant or indictment.

While he was not physically mistreated and had "eaten worse" fare in college dormitories, Pryor said he was questioned daily by the Communists, sometimes as much as 10 hours or more.

Lincoln Family Member Isn't Observing Day

By ARTHUR RISTAU
MANCHESTER, Vt. (AP)—The mistress of "Hidene" planned "nothing special" today as millions of other Americans remembered the 133rd anniversary of the birth of her great-grandfather, Mary Lincoln Beckwith, 63, says she is proud to be a member of the distinguished Lincoln family but thinks it illogical to "plan something for a relative who was dead before you were born."

Since 1938 she has operated the 1,000-acre dairy farm built by her grandfather, Robert Todd Lincoln, only son of the 16th president to reach maturity.

"We're milking 20 head this year," Miss Beckwith said. "Prof- it? Well, I'm in danger of running out of the red but don't tell the tax collectors about it."

Her neighbors say Miss Beckwith doesn't much care about her distinguished ancestry.

"It always provokes me," she said, "when people stare and say: 'There's Lincoln's great-granddaughter.' It's just my luck he was related to me."

Her farm was built at the turn of the century, 30-odd years after Robert Lincoln first visited this southwestern Vermont town with his mother, Mary Todd Lincoln, while he was a Harvard undergraduate.

Her cousin, Lincoln Isham, 68, lives in nearby Dorset where he works on his collection of Lincolniana, much of which has been donated to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Her brother, Lincoln Beckwith, operates a farm in Virginia. None of the three Lincoln descendants has children.

Their great-grandfather was said to have visited Springfield, Vt. during his first term.

Stephen Douglas, the famed "Little Giant" with whom Lincoln engaged in the memorable series of debates, was a native of Brandon, Vt., and a graduate of Brandon Academy.

Abe carried Vermont handsily against native son Douglas, winning the state by 25,000 votes in the 1860 election.

Today was a legal holiday for state employees and most banks in Vermont remained closed. But for Mary Lincoln Beckwith, indifferent, but proud of her ancestor, it was just another work day.

A 'Good Year' For Disney Stockholders

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The annual stockholders meeting of Walt Disney Productions was called to order at 2 p.m., just as the notice said.

Present in the studio theater were 200 stockholders, mostly middle-aged and middle-classed, but with a sprinkling of juvenile capitalists. The latter remained silent during the meeting, except for one 12-year-old boy who seconded a motion.

The meeting was called to order by company counsel Gunther Lessing, a man who looked and sounded like Judge Hardy. He suggested waiving the reading of the minutes of the last meeting as well as the annual report.

"Is that satisfactory?" he asked.

"Very satisfactory," said a voice from the stockholders. The cheerful atmosphere may have been due to the firm's profits: $4,465,496 vs. a $1,342,037 loss the year before.

President Roy Disney made his report in down-to-earth Missouriian tones. Production chief Walt was not present; "We've got to keep him working," explained his brother.

"We had a very good year and we're on the way to another good year," Roy said reassuringly. He mentioned that "Pinocchio" on its fourth re-issue might double its original release in 1940.

"We operate without any big names from the outside," he said. "A lot of people in our business are enamored with names. We think the important thing is the picture itself."

There was a report on Disneyland—attendance going up, $6 million in improvements this year. Then Roy fielded some questions from the stockholders.

What about returns from TV? "We're still about breaking even," he said. "We don't make money directly from TV, but use it to exploit our product in theaters. TV is a difficult game; you're limited by the sponsor's budget. You can't have a big pay-off."

What about selling old films to TV? "We're in show business," he answered. "Why sell your old clothes to a competitor? After 39 years, we still own all our negatives. And I might add that all our films would have no censorship problems on TV."

Pay TV? "We're watching it," Roy said. "We see no reason why pay TV couldn't operate side-by-side with commercial TV. But pay TV is years down the road yet."

Lessing drew chuckles with his denial that Nikita Khrushchev was in the employ of Disneyland as a press agent. "He tells that one every year," confided the man in the next seat.

The annual report was accepted and the directors elected, there being quorum of 88 per cent of outstanding shares—the Disneys own 750,000 of the 1,626,023 total. Stockholders were invited to pick up two free tickets to the park and stay in the theater to see "Moon Pilot."

Meeting adjourned at 3 p.m.

Cheer Catching 4-Ounce Perch

COLMAN, S.D. (AP)—Some 1,200 participants and more than 3,000 spectators cheered Sunday as Rich Closs landed the biggest fish in the annual ice fishing derby at Lake Madison.

The De Smet, S.D., angler won first prize, a 14-foot boat, on his catch—a four-ounce perch.

Other prizes were awarded by lot. Closs's perch was the only fish caught.

Teeners Began Twisting In Aisle

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police were called to a downtown movie theatre Sunday when teenagers began twisting in the aisles during a showing of "Twist Around the Clock."

Two fights broke out and a man and a teen-age girl were slightly injured, police said.

Patrolmen escorted a few teenagers from the theater but no arrests were made.

Africa's Upper Nile is so badly clogged with the lavender water hyacinth that natives can walk on top of the river.

Big Birthday For The Mayor

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Quite a birthday party is in store for Mayor George Chacharis today.

Aides have scheduled a $25-a-plate special honoring Chacharis, who was 54 Sunday. A Democrat, he was born in Thebes, Greece.

City Controller John Visclosky said more than 2,000 tickets have been sold which will bring the mayor at least $50,000.

What should you look for in a health protection plan?

You want a wide range of benefits and services to choose from, of course. But there are other advantages available to you that you won't find printed in any contract.

Look at the financial stability of the plan, for instance. You'll discover Hospital Saving Association of Chapel Hill has paid over $62,000,000 for subscriber benefits in the past 5 years alone.

And check executive experience. Hospital Saving administrators, with an average of 17 years of company service, assure you sound management of your health protection fees

... the kind of planning that brings you more for your money.

Include, too, the committee of doctors that works with Hospital Saving Association to review your Blue Shield benefits and keep them as liberal as possible. This partnership guarantees the most up-to-date doctor bill protection for you and your employees.

Ask any representative of Hospital Saving Association—North Carolina's Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plan—about these worry-saving advantages—and about the new In-Hospital Medical Endorsement that many companies are now adding to their coverage.

Art Heyman returned to action scoring 25 points against Virginia, but Duke hardly needed his points as the Blue Devils whipped Virginia by 26 points.

ELON COLLEGE—Coach Earl Smith's East Carolina basketball Pirates suffered their fifth conference loss of the season here Saturday night when the Christians of Elon downed the Bucs 78-66.

However, the loss did not change East Carolina's place in the Carolinas Conference standings. The Pirates remain in second place with a 9-5 record behind Lenoir Rhyne with a 13-4 record.

East Carolina was a victim of foul trouble throughout the contest. Elon was able to take advantage of a one and one situation for 14 minutes of the first half and nine minutes of the second half.

ROANOKE RAPIDS — The Rose High School Phantoms were unable to stop a losing streak Saturday night when the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets handed them their fifth conference loss of the season 72-61.

The loss leaves the Phantoms with a 3-5 record in league action and a 5-9 overall standing. The Yellow Jackets hold the top position in the Northeastern Conference at the present time.

Roanoke Rapids appeared to have a well balanced team Saturday night with all of the players doing their share of the work. The high scorer of the night was Graham Dean with 18 points.

Phant Swimmers Top Durham YMCA 55-12

DURHAM — The Rose High School swimming team downed the Durham YMCA tankmen Saturday afternoon 55-12 by winning seven of the eight events.

This was the second victory for the Phantom tankmen since their regular season meets started Feb. 3. The only loss so far was to the East Carolina freshmen Friday afternoon by a score of 44-42.

PCIA Tourney Starts Tuesday — The Pitt County Interscholastic Athletic Association tournament starts at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday night in the H. B. Sugg gym in Farmville.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Lenoir Rhyne will be seeded No. 1 in the Carolinas Conference tournament but the Bears may consider it a dubious distinction.

Over the years the Carolinas (formerly the North State) Conference tournament has proved a giant-killer. The top-seeded team has won only five of 18 tournaments.

Lenoir Rhyne's 83-73 victory over Catawba Saturday night clinched the top position for the Bears. They now have a 13-4 conference record.

The Agricultural Foundation leaders, along with the Dean of Agriculture and his staff at N. C. State College, are holding a series of 26 meetings throughout North Carolina.

The purpose of these meetings is twofold: (1) To report to the people of North Carolina the objectives and accomplishments of the Agricultural Foundations Program — particularly as it relates to the production of tobacco, and (2) To provide opportunity for an interchange of ideas and plans between our local people and the personnel in Research and Education at North Carolina State College.

The meeting for our area will include Pitt, Martin and Beaufort Counties. It will be held Thursday night, Feb. 15 at 6:30 p.m. in the South Dining Hall at East Carolina College in Greenville. This will be a dutch dinner. Food will be served cafeteria-style to allow those attending to choose their menu.

Since we are the host county, we are anxious to have a good representation at this meeting. Persons desiring to attend should write a card to the County Agents Office, P. O. Box 602, Greenville, or telephone the office—Plaza 2-6111—and state their intentions to attend.

For purposes of planning, we would like to know the approximate number who desire to attend; however, those who do not know whether they can attend until the last minute we urge to attend the meeting anyway.

Officials attending the meeting to conduct the discussion include: Lex L. Ray, director of foundations at N. C. State College in Raleigh; Dr. H. Brooks James, N. C. State dean of agriculture; Dr. Roy L. Lovvorn, N. C. State's director of research; Dr. E. W. Glazener, director of instruction for N. C. State's school of agriculture; and R. W. Shoffner, director of the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service headquartered at the Raleigh college.

Already invited to attend the meeting also are Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of N. C. State College, and Dr. William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Houses Burn In Chain Of Fires

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—A trash fire Sunday ignited grass, which set fire to a garage, which set fire to three houses.

One of the houses was a parsonage being used for a church service by Father William Snyder. The church burned last year. The congregation took chairs, a piano and other furnishings outside, where Father Snyder continued the service while male members of the congregation of 24 put out the fire.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average several degrees above normal Tuesday through Saturday with little or no precipitation indicated. Somewhat warmer tonight and Tuesday with no large day-to-day change indicated for remainder of week.

(Editor's Note: The legal firm of Frank M. Wooten Jr., in Greenville has for about four years specialized in matters related to cooperative farm drainage organizations. Mr. Wooten, whose father served as attorney for many drainage districts, is currently furnishing legal services to about 10 Eastern North Carolina drainage projects. The following article was prepared by the Greenville attorney as an explanation of cooperative drainage through law.)

By FRANK M. WOOTEN JR.

The problem of draining farm land existed at the time our State was created. One of the first laws relating to farm drainage was passed by the General Assembly in 1795. This law is

'Old Men' Won't Be Backed By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is reported to have told Republicans he has no intention of campaigning for "old men" in this year's elections.

Eisenhower, who is 71, was represented as pressing party members to work for the nomination of young candidates for governor and Senate and House seats. Some confidantes quoted him as saying he wanted no "gray-haired old men" running on the GOP ticket if it could be helped.

This serve-the-youth movement apparently led the former president into some difficulties in his adopted state of Pennsylvania. He convinced Sen. Hugh Scott in a telephone conversation that Scott ought to make himself available for the party nomination for governor.

Scott reported that Eisenhower said he could support actively a ticket on which Scott was a member but could not campaign for a ticket on which Judge Robert E. Woodside of the State Superior Court would run for governor and Rep. James E. Van Zandt would oppose Scott, Joseph S. Clark, a Democrat, for the Senate seat. Somehow the word got out that Eisenhower considered this a "miserable ticket."

What was reported was that Eisenhower said privately that he thought the Woodside-Van Zandt ticket too old. Woodside is 57; Scott is 61 but looks younger.

Subsequently Eisenhower felt constrained to say in a telegram to Van Zandt, who is 63, that what he had said was not "in any way intended as personally derogatory to you."

Whatever happens in Pennsylvania, Eisenhower has some complaints. Accident surveys among farm people show that during the summer and early fall the accidental death rate is about 23 per cent higher than during the remainder of the year.

purpose of it is to enable a landowner to go upon his neighbor's land to obtain a "fall" for his, the upper landowner's water. The law provides that upper landowner petitions the Court for the right to go upon or cross the lands of the lower landowner with a ditch or a canal, a commission, a jury, of three men is appointed by the Court to fix the location of the canal or ditch and to assess damages, if any, after allowance for benefits to be derived by the lower landowner from the ditch or canal. The law has provisions to prevent drainage through yards, springs, mill runs, etc. There are provisions for maintenance.

Corporation Ditch
The proceedings for this type organization are generally designed for a neighborhood, and are usually practical for use in areas up to approximately 7,000 acres. This proceeding may be instituted by a single landowner, however, before the Court will make a final judgment it must find that (1) the lands on the lower level will be increased twenty-five (25) per cent or more within one year, (2) that the total cost will not exceed three-fourths of the present estimated value and, (3) that the proprietors of at least one-half in value of the land to be affected, consent to the improvement.

Three persons are appointed as commissioners to locate the canal, design it, and prorate the cost. The Clerk of Court must approve all of the findings of the commissioners.

The Corporation is operated by a Board of Directors, with a president and other officers. The powers of the board are similar to those of other corporations. Stock is issued, as for ordinary corporation. The basic duty of the directors is to assess the land, have the canal constructed and then maintain it.

The principal reason this type organization is not suitable for a large area of land is that the law does not provide a simple way to classify the degree of benefits received. The problem is illustrated by the fact that land close to the canal usually receives the greatest benefit and the land farthest from the canal receives the least. The law relating to corporate canals does not refer to this problem. The commissioners consider it in prorating the costs or benefits received. The benefit or cost is usually stated in a percentage figure.

Drainage Districts
This type of proceeding is the most recent development. North Carolina adopted this law in 1909. Our law generally follows that of Indiana. This proceeding is designed for a large area of land. The basic requirement is that the owners of three-fifths of the land area or a majority of the resident landowners must consent to the proceedings. If this requirement is met, the minority landowners are bound.

This proceeding provides for two hearings before the Court. The other types of proceedings require only one hearing. All landowners have the right to appear and be heard.

The proceedings provide for the appointment of three men who are called Viewers. These men determine the location and size of the canal and prorate the benefits. The two hearings are for the purpose of enabling the landowners to know what the Viewers report and to object if they so desire. The fact that a landowner signs the petition asking for the creation of the district does not prevent him from withdrawing his name and objecting at a later date.

The Viewers are directed to place each acre benefitted in one of five classes of land. A drainage district usually embraces an entire watershed, which frequently contains 50,000 acres. The law recognizes that some land in the area benefits more than other land. Therefore, the five classes. The canals of a drainage district are usually designed to furnish a main outlet for other canals and ditches. It is not unusual designed to furnish a drainage system for individual farms.

The drainage district is permitted to issue bonds or notes to provide long-term financing of the assessments levied to pay the cost of construction. The Farmers Home Administration is now financing these projects at an interest rate of 2.724 per cent. The financing may extend from a period of 4 to 50 years.

The district is governed by a board of three commissioners. Their duties are to (1) levy assessments to provide funds and (2) to construct the canals as approved by the Court and to maintain them. They are authorized to levy annual maintenance assessments, as approved by the Court for this purpose.

ishes information and technical skills to enable the landowners, individually and collectively, to determine the drainage needs of their farms, community and watershed.

The landowners have the legal means to provide drainage systems for their farms. By cooperating with Soil and Water Conservation Districts, landowners receive the assistance of technicians who are specialists in the various phases of soil conservation, employed by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, in improving and conserving their soil, and thereby increasing annual earnings and the value of their land.

James Bond, putting on his clothes, dogged the comments of Constable Santos.

It seemed there had been sort of underwater explosions, with eruptions on the surface, on the starboard side of the yacht. Several men had appeared on deck and there had been some kind of commotion. A boat had been lowered on the port side, out of sight of the shore.

Bond said he knew nothing of these things. He had cracked his head against the side of the ship. Silly thing to do. He had seen what he had wanted to see and had then swum back. Entirely successful.

The Constable had been a great help. Thank you very much and good night. Bond would be seeing the Commissioner in the morning.

Bond walked with careful steadiness up the side street to where he had parked Felix Leiter's car. He got to the hotel and telephoned Leiter's room and together they drove to police headquarters. Bond described what had happened and what he had discovered. Now he didn't care what the consequences might be. He was going to make a report.

It was eight a.m. in London and there were under forty hours to go to zero hour. All these straws added up to half a haystack. His suspicions were boiling like a pressure cooker. He couldn't sit on the lid any longer.

Leiter said decisively, "You do just that. And I'll file a copy to C.I.A. and endorse it. What's more, I'm going to call up the Manta and tell her to get the hell over here."

"You are?" Bond was amazed at this change of tune. "What's got into you all of a sudden?"

"Well, I was sculling around the Casino taking a good look at anyone I thought might be a shareholder or a treasure hunter. They were mostly in groups, standing around trying to put up the front of having a good time—sunshine holiday and all that. "They weren't succeeding. Largo was doing all the work, being gay and boyish. The others—never seen such a bunch of thugs in my life—were dressed up in tuxedos and smoking cigars and drinking champagne and all that—just a glass or two to show the Christmas spirit. Orders, I suppose."

"Well, none of the faces meant anything to me. I knew I'd seen it before somewhere. You know how it is. So after puzzling for a bit I went to the reception and told one of the guys behind the desk in a cheery fashion that I thought I'd located an old classmate who'd migrated to Europe, but I couldn't for the life of me remember his name. Very embarrassing as he seemed to recognize me. Would the guy help?"

"So he came along and I pointed this feller out. Seemed he was a man called Traut, Emil Traut. Swiss passport. One of Mr. Largo's group from the yacht." Leiter paused. "Well, I guess it was the Swiss passport that did it." He turned to Bond. "Remember a fellow called Kotze. East German physicist? Came over to the West about five years ago and sang all he knew to the Joint Scientific Intelligence boys? Then he disappeared, in Switzerland."

"Well, James. Take my word for it. That's the same guy. The file went through my hands in Washington. There's absolutely no doubt about it. That man's the hell is a top physicist doing on board the Disco? Fits, doesn't it?"

"They had come to police headquarters. Lights burned only on the ground floor. Bond waited until they had reported to the duty sergeant and had gone up to their room before he answered. He stood in the middle of the room and looked at Leiter. He said, "That's the clincher, Felix. So now what do we do?"

"With what you got this evening, I'd pull the whole lot in on suspicion. No question at all."

"Suspicion of what? Largo would reach his lawyer and they'd be out in five minutes. Democratic process of the law

Farmers Self-Employment Tax Has Special Rules

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Final in a series of articles by Internal Revenue Commissioner Caplin explaining by answering likely questions requirements of farmers in reporting annual income and filing federal income tax returns.)

By MORTIMER M. CAPLIN
Commissioner of Internal Revenue

You stated previously that there are special rules regarding the self-employment tax on farmers. Would you elaborate on this?

The self-employment tax, of course, provides social security coverage for self-employed persons. Normally a person must have net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more before this tax is due.

An optional method for farmers enables them, under certain circumstances, to pay the self-employment tax and obtain social security coverage even though their net earnings from self-employment are less than $400.

Or, in other cases, it permits the payment of a larger self-employment tax than would be due under the regular method, thereby enabling the farmer to receive a larger credit towards social security benefits.

What is the optional method? The optional method differs depending on the amount of gross income. If a farmer's gross income from farming is more than $1800 and his actual net earnings from farming is less than $1200, then $1200 is considered under the optional method to be the net earnings from farming.

For example, if the gross income were $1500 and net earnings were $850, then $1200 may be treated as the net earnings from farming. If gross income is $1800 or less, then two-thirds of the gross income can be treated as the net earnings. If the gross income were $1500, then two-thirds of that, $1000, would be treated as the net earnings under the optional method.

However, if the gross income were less than $600, then two-thirds of gross income would be less than $400 and no self-employment tax would be due under the optional method.

Of course, if his actual net earnings were $400 or more, the self-employment tax would be due if he used the regular method. The optional method is only to be used for determining the self-employment tax, and then only if the farmer wants to use it; it is not to be used for determining your income tax.

Who can use the optional method?

All farmers can use the optional method except those who have gross income from farming of more than $1800 and net earnings from farming of $1200 or more. If either of these conditions is not present, the optional method may be used; other persons must use their actual net earnings.

How much income is subject to this tax and what is the rate? The self-employment tax rate for 1961 is 4½ percent of the self-employment net earnings, whether computed under the regular or optional method. However, only the first $4800 of self-employment net earnings is subject to the self-employment tax, so it could not exceed 4½ percent of $4800 or $216.

If you received wages subject to social security taxes, then the maximum amount subject to this tax would be $4800 less these wages. Let me give you some examples here; first, for a farmer who has not earned any wages subject to social security withholding.

If the 1961 net earnings is $5500, then the amount subject to the self-employment tax is the maximum of $4800, and the tax would be 4½ percent of that amount, $216. If the net earnings were $3500, then only that amount would be subject to the tax, and it would be 4½ percent of that figure.

Now assume the farmer has earned wages of $800 subject to social security withholding. The maximum amount subject to the self-employment tax in this case is $4000.

If his 1961 net earnings from farming is $4000 or more, the tax would be 4½ percent of $4000. If it is between $400 and $4000, the tax would be 4½ percent of his net earnings. There is an optional tax table in the Farmer's Tax Guide which lists the self-employment tax for any net earnings figure; this saves the trouble of the actual computation.

Even where the optional method is not used, the net earnings figure, on which the self-employment tax is paid, is not always the same as the farmer's net income. Certain adjustments often must be made to net income to determine net earnings.

These adjustments are explained in detail in the Farmer's Tax Guide.

Are participants in a crop-sharing arrangement liable for this tax?

The share farmer is considered to be a self-employed person and is subject to the tax. The landlord is subject to the tax if the arrangement provides that he will materially participate in the production, or management of production, of the crops and this participation actually takes place.

Results of experimental tests and farm demonstrations have shown that the source of nitrogen in tobacco fertilizer is very important. These results show that best tobacco can be grown when 40 to 60 per cent of the total nitrogen used is in the nitrate form. This is especially true when tobacco is grown in fields that have been fumigated for nematode control.

Organic nitrogen cannot be used by the tobacco plant until it has been changed to either ammonium or preferably nitrate nitrogen. Ammonifying and nitrifying bacteria are required in the soil in order for this important change to take place. Soil fumigation greatly reduces the number of these beneficial organisms.

Due to the chemical properties of the different ingredients used in fertilizer, only a maximum of 35 to 40 per cent of nitrogen used can be in the nitrate form.

In order to use a higher percentage of nitrate nitrogen the mixed fertilizer should be kept to a minimum of about 1000 pounds of 4-8-12 or 1250 pounds of 3-9-9 per acre.

The remaining nitrogen requirements can be met by using nitrate of soda. If potash is needed in addition to the amount in the mixed fertilizer, it can be supplied by using sulfate of potash or sulfate of potash-magnesia.

Farmers that have fertilized their tobacco crops using 40 to 60 per cent nitrate nitrogen have found their tobacco cured with a richer orange color than when lower percentages of nitrate nitrogen were used.

Says Stockpiling In Steel Begun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg says stockpiling has begun among steel users in anticipation of a strike later this year.

"The stockpiling has not reached dangerous proportions yet, but by every indication it has commenced," Goldberg said Sunday in a CBS television interview — "Washington conversation."

EXCHANGE REJECTED

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Southern Baptists in Illinois have rejected a plan for an exchange of pastors between their churches and those of other Baptist bodies. The Illinois (Southern) Baptist State Association said it did not want to participate in the nationwide program for trading pulpits planned by seven Baptist denominations this year.

Growing Taste In U.S. For Reading Technical Books

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Weekend writers among the nation's 900,000 scientists and engineers are making a good thing out of Americans' growing appetite for technical books.

Publishers are printing some 2,000 new technical and scientific books each year. Textbooks aren't included in this.

If the book sells at least 10,000 copies within five years, the goal of all publishers, and bears a price tag of $10 or more—and some sell for more than $25—the author stands to collect between $12,000 and $15,000.

But very few technical authors write a second book. One publisher estimates repeaters at one in 100.

"It's hard work," he says, "and anyway, most people can't learn enough in a lifetime to fill up more than one comprehensive book."

Partly because so few repeat, and partly because the demand for the books is so good, another major technical publishing house has 30 scouts looking for qualified persons willing to invest the time and energy of putting down on paper in their off-job hours what they have learned as an engineer or scientist.

The technical book market is expected to be around $20 billion this year. This is only a small part of the billion dollars Americans spend annually for books of all kinds, including textbooks and paperbacks. But publishers find their technical book business growing and lucrative.

In the last five years sales of technical and scientific books have risen nearly 40 per cent. Out of the 18,060 new book titles issued by U.S. publishers last year, technical books—including new editions of earlier volumes—came to 2,275, or 13 per cent of the total.

Space research is the hottest topic currently. A few years ago electronics dominated the field.

In mid-1957 Carsile Adams of Atlanta, Ga., offered a manuscript on space flight which publishers termed unbelievable. Then Sputnik I reversed editorial thinking fast. The Adams manuscript, once forlorn, was snapped up. It has sold nearly 20,000 copies. In the field of technical books, that's a red-hot best seller.

Motor Couldn't Handle The Load

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A motorist drove into a garage outside Odense and complained his car wouldn't go as fast as usual.

The attendant found another car hanging on to the rear bumper. It had caught on when the motorist maneuvered out of a parking space two miles away.

Edenton Sees NAACP Protest

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — About 300 Negroes marched from a local NAACP meeting Sunday night to sing and pray in front of a drugstore, where six Negroes were arrested during a sit-in demonstration Saturday.

A spokesman said the "prayer pilgrimage" was to "ask forgiveness" for the owner of the drugstore, Mayor J. A. Mitchner. No incidents occurred.

The six arrested Saturday were

Fire Damages Auto Slightly

Greenville firemen, responding to an alarm from Box 124, at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Center St., Sunday found a car at the intersection of Boyd and Dickinson Ave. on fire.

Owner of the vehicle was listed as William Earl Taylor, Negro. Cause of the 12:21 a.m. blaze was listed by officers as a backfire in the vehicle's carburetor. Light damage was reported.

Earlier during the night, at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, a Greenville fire unit was sent to Pactolus School, a county-owned building, was on fire.

The firefighting unit returned to its station when it was discovered that a privately owned tenant house near the school grounds was on fire and not the school.

Greenville officers noted that the Carolina Township fire department, with headquarters in Stokes, also responded to the fire with a unit and confined the fire to the immediate area of the dwelling.

released pending hearings. Two will appear in Juvenile Court. Four adults were released under $50 bonds pending a hearing in magistrate's court tonight.

Cotton History And Allotment

Maintenance of cotton history and allotment is an important issue during the next few weeks, according to Livingston Roberts, office manager for the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service program.

"Every farmer should ask himself this question," Roberts said: "Do I want to maintain my cotton history and allotment?"

According to the Pitt ASCS Office manager, farm cotton allotments will be reduced where the farmer fails to plant at least 75 per cent of his allotment or where he fails to release his allotment to the ASC county committee.

For farmers who plan to plant their allotment, no action is needed. However, where the farmer knows that he will not plant 75 per cent of his allotment, he can help himself and at the same time help other farmers in the county by releasing this allotment for reapportionment.

If the cotton allotment is released to the county committee, this preserves not only the individual farmer's planting history, but the planting history of the county and state. This prevents loss of allotment to individual counties and to the State of North Carolina.

Roberts urged farmers who know now that their allotment will not be planted, to visit their local ASCS office and preserve their history by releasing their allotment for use by other farmers within the county.

The deadline date for acceptance of this released acreage by the county committee is March 23. However, where farmers now know that their allotment will not be planted, they should not wait for the deadline. This point "should be emphasized," Roberts said, because "the sooner the acreage is released the more time the county committee has to reapportion this acreage to requesting farmers in the county."

Conservation Notes

ARCH J. FLANAGAN, chairman of the Pitt County Unit of the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts being held in Philadelphia Feb. 4-7.

Mrs. Flanagan also attended this meeting and participated in the activities of the Women's Auxiliary of the Association.

CLIFTON E. MILLS, government representative of the Soil Conservation Service, reports that construction on the Grindie Creek Watershed Project will probably be completed this week.

The construction started in September of 1960 for the clearing and deepening of the canal from Bethel to Tar River. It will probably take the contractor several more days for some cleaning up work, such as removal of stumps, trees and other debris.

Mills stated that the channel is now open from Bethel to the Tar River.

Pitt County Drainage District No. 2, and the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District are co-sponsors of the Grindie Creek Watershed Project. Drainage District Commissioners are: X. E. Manning, S. C. Ives, and J. P. Davenport.

Manning is serving as contracting officer for the construction work.

Memorial Fund Role Explained

In response to a number of recent inquiries as to functions of the American Cancer Society's Memorial Fund, Mrs. C. L. Lupton today cited it as a means whereby people can tell those in sorrow they are honoring the departed by giving help to the living.

Mrs. Lupton is chairman of the Memorial Fund program of the Pitt County ACS unit.

"When a memorial gift is made to the American Cancer Society," she says, "a Memorial Card is sent to the family of the deceased. The card gives the name of the person in whose memory funds have been donated, and the name of the contributor."

An acknowledgment of memorial contributions is always made.

"We are likely to feel too helpless and hopeless when cancer claims the life of one dear to us, a relative or a friend. We feel a need to act, to do something, to strike back at the disease which has caused so much misery."

"The Memorial Program demonstrates our most practical approach in meeting this need," she continued. "In the laboratory, in the hospital, in the clinic, the medical school . . . and in our own communities, the American Cancer Society is working to fulfill the great hope of eventual triumph over the menace of cancer."

Organized within the recent years in Pitt, the Memorial Program is said to be gaining in popular acceptance.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices moved unevenly today in a slow, semi-holiday trading atmosphere.

Most changes were fractional and the averages showed a tiny edge to the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 to 261.40 with industrials up .40, rails ahead 20 and utilities unchanged.

Friday's downward trend, which halted eight straight advances, evidently was checked for the present.

The big investors, such as banks, insurance companies and other industrial concerns, were mostly closed because of Lincoln's birthday.

Rails and oils were the major sections showing a plus advantage. Steels, aircrafts and chemicals slipped into the minus column. Mixed were motors, electronics, rubbers, utilities, tobacco and metals.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Jones & Laughlin were all down fractions.

New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio posted small gains.

American Motors declined a small fraction.

Pfizer added a point.

Showing small plus signs in the oil group were Standard (New Jersey), Texaco and Royal Dutch.

Up over a point were Woolworth and Zenith. IBM picked up over 3 while Liggett & Myers fell about 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 37 at 714.64.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher.

Although most bond trading was halted for the holiday, corporates were mixed.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25¢ lower. Tops of 17.25-17.75. Rovers Mount, 16.75-17.75. Wilson, 16.50-17.50. Kingston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, 16.75-17.25. Children Watched Slaying

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a mother, apparently angry because her husband had stayed out most of the day, killed him with a shotgun blast Sunday night as some of their seven children watched.

Mrs. Doyle Frary, 32, then telephoned police, detectives said. Police found her in shock and unable to talk when they arrived.

Her husband, 54, was shot once in the stomach, detectives said. Asst. Dist. Atty. Sidney Hewes said Mrs. Frary would be charged with murder.

Eight American Servicemen Die In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Searchers today found the burned and scattered wreckage of a Vietnamese military C-47 transport plane that apparently carried 10 men—eight Americans and two Vietnamese—400 miles from a leaflet dropping mission Sunday. Bodies of nine men were found with the wreckage in a mountainous area 80 miles northeast of Saigon. Rescue teams assumed the 10th also perished, despite a report that parachutes had been seen in the area.

All the Americans aboard were personnel of U.S. Army and Air Force. At least one was assigned to psychological warfare work in South Viet Nam.

Names were withheld. It could not be determined immediately whether the two-engine plane had crashed or been shot down by Communist Viet Cong rebels operating in the area.

The leaflets being dropped carried the text of President Ngo Dinh Diem's lunar New Year message to the nation, which reviewed accomplishments of his government in the past year. The plane had been flying from Saigon to the coastal town of Da Nang.

It was the fourth crash in recent weeks of military aircraft carrying Americans. Previous plane casualties in mop-up operations destroyed in Viet Cong and a twin-engine transport which crashed Feb. 2 while making a defoliation dry run. Defoliation planes spray thickly foliated areas along roads and railroad tracks to destroy the cover used by the Viet Cong for ambushes.

Union Vote Set For This Week

FARMVILLE—Labor unions again seek a foothold at Formica's Flakeboard plant here Tuesday and Wednesday when production workers and maintenance and laboratory personnel cast ballots.

Defeated by about 3-1 two years ago, organized labor—represented by two large unions—will have their fate at the local plant decided by Wednesday morning when tabulation of the balloting is expected to be complete. About 180 workers are eligible to vote.

Unions involved are the United Mine Workers (District 50) and the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, an affiliate of AFL-CIO. The UMW was the union defeated here in 1960.

Plant manager Tom Canning said the company did not contest the holding of the election. The management agreed to a consent election, one in which the union is not required to solicit signatures of employees calling for the vote.

The balloting will be conducted in the company lunchroom between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and between 6:30 and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Renews Call For German Treaty

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has called again for a peace treaty with Germany but still without setting any date for it.

In a greeting to a meeting of the society for German-Soviet friendship in East Berlin which ended Sunday he said: "The struggle for the conclusion of a German peace treaty, and on the basis of it, the normalizing of the situation in West Berlin, has at this time become the supreme concern of international political life. The success of this struggle will have a powerful significance for the solidifying peace in Europe and in the whole world."

Six-Year-Old Is Hit By Bullet

AYDEN—A six-year-old child was accidentally shot in the back at his home near here Saturday night.

Deputy Sheriff Duke Andrews identified the boy as Johnny Ray Hart, Negro. His condition is not considered critical.

Deputy Andrews said investigation showed the shooting occurred when the boy's nine-year-old brother Luther Earl got a .22 pistol out of a wardrobe. The father of the children, Luther Earl Hart, Sr., said he got up to take the pistol away from the child and it discharged.

The bullet struck Johnny Ray in the back. He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment and admitted.

Crime Prevention Week Launched

The Greenville Exchange Club Sunday launched its local observance of Crime Prevention Week with a campaign called "Go-To-Church Sunday."

More activities, aimed at curbing the development of conditions leading youngsters into criminal acts, were on tap beginning today.

Under the chairmanship of Exalted for another address, Greenville Crime Prevention Week Committee—composed of nine Exchange members—had plans ready for the week-long observance.

Koonce said his committee had urged Greenville area ministers to incorporate in their Sunday sermons the importance of building character that would repel criminal activity.

A major portion of the committee's program for the week consisted of addresses on crime prevention before seven Greenville civic clubs and in three local schools.

Scheduled for tonight were addresses by El Bloom, solicitor in Greenville Municipal Court, to the Optimist Club; James B. Mallory, East Carolina College basketball coach and dean of men, to the Rotary Club; and County Court Judge Dink James to the Lions Club.

Two addresses Thursday were scheduled: Greenville Police Chief Guy D. Langston is scheduled to speak to the Civitan Club and Richard Ottaway, local Episcopal minister, will address Thursday's meeting of the Jaycees.

Friday's schedule calls for an address to the Kiwanis Club by Greenville Attorney M. E. Cavenish and another by Superior Court Judge William J. Bundy to the Exchanges.

At the Junior High School Wednesday, Bloom was scheduled to speak to the Boy Scouts, and Charles Manning, Municipal Judge Charles H. Whedbee was scheduled to address students of Junius H. Rose High School Friday with Chief Langston scheduled for another address, this one before a student assembly at C. M. Eppes High School.

In addition to Koonce, members of the Crime Prevention Week committee are: Ed Parkinson, Jack Wallace, Luther Moore, Hoyt Narron, Charles Manning, Charles Cobb, Dick Ottaway and Frank Wooten.

New Cloudbursts Flood Saturated Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's sixth day of saturation started spectacularly today as cloudbursts opened up on parts of the Los Angeles area, creating lakes up to seven feet deep.

There were flash floods in the Hollywood Hills and a house at 2934 Beachwood Dr. was torn loose from its foundation and pushed into the street.

Storm drain covers were popping open from excessive pressure in many parts of the city.

A woman at 6456 Deep Dell Place in the Hollywood Hills reported water was rushing through her living room.

At the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Pacific Coast Highway early this morning the water was seven feet deep.

It was four feet deep on Vermont Avenue between 88th and 90th streets in Los Angeles. It was over the rooftops of automobiles at some other points.

The police flood control office said all major streets in the Hollywood area were awash.

More than 20 deaths had been attributed to the storm—one of the heaviest in the area's history—before today's violent downpours.

Nearly eight inches of rain had fallen in Los Angeles since the storm started last Wednesday.

Two children died Sunday under tons of mud. An elderly man fell into a 55-foot well shaft and was believed dead. Three other persons were presumed drowned.

Earlier in the storm a boy drowned in a flood-control channel and a woman was crushed to death by a tree that had been undermined by rain.

Youth... Will Ask State Funds To Push Alcoholics' Care

BUTNER, N.C. (AP)—The 1963 General Assembly will be asked to appropriate funds to build a multi-million dollar central unit, possibly in Raleigh, for the treatment of alcoholic patients.

Dr. Donald E. MacDonald, medical director of the North Carolina Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center here, said plans call for the unit to have some 200 beds.

It would house patients now treated here and at the Dorothea Dix State Hospital in Raleigh. Dr. MacDonald said a big central unit is needed to take care of expanded needs in the years ahead and to replace the old building here.

The state-operated center here, opened in 1950, can accommodate 46 men and 12 women. It offers a 28-day treatment program at a cost of $75 to the patient. Admission is on a voluntary basis.

MacDonald emphasized the center is not a "drying out" place for drunks.

"Patients must be sober when they come here. We depend mainly on psychotherapy, group discussions and movies to help the alcoholic understand his illness."

Graham Preaches In A Bull Ring

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Billy Graham preached to 15,000 Peruvians in a bull ring Sunday night and afterward hundreds came forward in answer to his call to make "decisions for Christ."

The mayor of Graham's home town, Stanford Brookshire of Charlotte, N.C., attended the service with a delegation of 25 business leaders and officials who are on a good-will mission to Peru.

Knife Wound For Pactolus Man

PACTOLUS—Charlie Brown, Negro operator of the Pactolus Inn, was stabbed in the shoulder Saturday night. Deputy Duke Andrews reported to Pitt Memorial Hospital and released Sunday. Deputy Andrews said investigation of the case is continuing.

Weather Hazards Again Menace Astronaut's Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The worst sea conditions of the winter in the central Atlantic today cast doubt on whether astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. will make his scheduled orbital flight on Wednesday.

The gloomy weather forecast came as Glenn planned to don his space suit for what he hopes will be his last make-believe trip around the world before the real thing. He was to run through a full 4-hour-50-minute simulated flight in the capsule.

With the towering Atlas missile and its complex Mercury spacecraft reported in go-condition for the flight, clouds and waves appear to be the only thing that could stand between Glenn and his off-postponed rendezvous with the stars.

Clouds over Cape Canaveral could force another postponement, as they did on Jan. 27 just 20 minutes before takeoff. Heavy seas in the key recovery areas off Bermuda also could cause a scrub.

This time, however, weather forecasters are in a position to get the inside dope on worldwide weather conditions from outer space. Tirox IV, the weather satellite that went into orbit just a week after Glenn's last-minute postponement, is busy sending back televised accounts of cloud formations around the world.

"We regard Tirox IV as an important new addition to the team," said Lt. Col. John A. Powers, spokesman for the Astronauts, who as usual was optimistic about getting the shot off as planned at 7:30 a.m. (EST) Wednesday.

Friendly and unruffled as always, Glenn showed no signs of strain from the long delays when he attended Sunday services at the Riverside Presbyterian church in nearby Cocoa Beach.

Chemistry Prof To Be Speaker

Dr. Malcolm Dole, professor of chemistry at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, will be the featured speaker at the February meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society. The meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Kinston Du Pont plant.

The speaker, who holds degrees from Harvard University, has long been a prominent researcher in the field of physical chemistry. During the Second World War Dr. Dole worked on the Manhattan Project and was Director of the Chemical Warfare Service Laboratory. He has held offices in many scientific societies and served on the editorial boards of a variety of technical publications.

Dr. Dole will discuss some of his recent research involving the physical chemistry of high polymers.
