Winter Rally Of YDC Expected To See Record Turnout Here

National President Due Here Saturday Afternoon; Sanford May Appear

A record-breaking attendance is predicted for Saturday's winter rally of North Carolina Young Democrats in Greenville...

Howe, administrative assistant to Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), told the Daily Reflector today he expects to arrive in Greenville via motorcade from Washington, D. C., about 4 p.m. Saturday.

The 34-year-old national president is scheduled to address a 7:30 p.m. banquet at the Greenville Moose Lodge to be attended by a predicted 400 Young Democrats and a long list of Democratic dignitaries.

David E. Reid Jr., Greenville attorney who is chairman of arrangements for the affair, said today the Pitt County YDC and the East Carolina College YDC, joint sponsors of the rally, expect at least 400 Young Democrats from across the state.

In addition to a formidable group of leading Democrats who have planned to attend, there is a possibility Gov. Sanford may put in an appearance Saturday evening, according to local Young Democrats.

The program of the day will be divided between the ECC campus and the local fraternal lodge. A series of meetings for Tar Heel Young Democrats are scheduled during the afternoon at East Carolina with a president's reception, the banquet and a dance to follow Saturday evening at the Moose Lodge.

Dignitaries who have said they would attend the affair include: State Treasurer Edwin Gill; Secretary of State Thad Eure; First District Rep. Herbert C. Bonner; Attorney General T. Wade Bruton; Tom I. Davis, executive secretary for the N. C. Democratic Executive Committee; Gene Theroux, executive secretary for the National Federation of College Young Democrats.

State Rep. Tom Woodard of Wilson; former State Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville; former State Sen. Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville; State Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine.

William E. (Dub) Graham, Tar Heel YDC president; Albert House of Roanoke Rapids, NCYDC national committeeman; Lou Constantino of Chapel Hill, NCYDC national committeewoman; Flo Robinson of Wake Forest College, NCYDC secretary; John Wright of Manteo, treasurer.

Among some 25 Capital City area Young Democrats expected to accompany Howe to Greenville are Robert Putrell of Goldsboro and Washington, N. C., administrative assistant to Rep. David Henderson; and Ned Everett of Robersonville, general counsel for the House Maritime and Fisheries Committee, the group of which Rep. Bonner is chairman.

Representing East Carolina College will be its president, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, its dean, Dr. Robert L. Holt, and student body president Otis Strother of Wilmington.

Registration for the annual winter rally gets underway at the Moose Lodge at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Secession Move Dropped By Katanga's Parliament

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—After a stormy four-hour session, the Katanga Parliament agreed today to end the province's secession bid...

The Katanga assembly met in a shabby building still showing the scars of last December's fighting. Most of the windows had been broken by bullets and shrapnel...

The legislators were called by Tshombe's government to approve the Kitona agreement—subject to three pages of conditions and Katanga authorities have since demanded.

Tshombe signed the Kitona agreement with Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula at the end of last December's two-week battle with United Nations forces.

Katanga legislators today gave Tshombe the green light to open new negotiations with Leopoldville. Katanga's conditions may not be completely unacceptable to the central government...

Communist jets were heard breaking the sound barrier over Berlin today.

Passengers flying on a Berlin-Frankfurt airliner said that jets believed to be Soviet or East German flew close to their plane today.

Wednesday Soviet MIGs buzzed several Western planes, including a light Royal Air Force transport carrying Sir Christopher Steele, British ambassador to West Germany.

Four times during the past week the Soviets have sought to reserve portions of the three air corridors to West Berlin for maneuvers.

Each time the Western Allies have rejected the Soviet move, emphasizing that by four-power agreement every plane in the corridors must be separately announced and cleared by the four-power air safety center in West Berlin.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A select group of citizens Wednesday tested U. S. coins made in the Philadelphia and Denver mints...

The mints make pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars. Denver samples were shipped here for inspection.

Under federal law an assay commission appointed by the President must meet annually to check whether America's coins are of the proper weight and fineness.

President Kennedy appointed 17 persons to the commission.

GREENVILLE: Building inspector J. W. Wilson said, "Shell homes may be built in the city limits of Greenville if they meet city building standards."

Occasionally dealers do not obtain a building permit for homes built within the city limits and build too close to other homes. I have also found that in the construction of a majority of shell homes in the county where a permit is not required, the sills and studs are too far apart.

Electrical inspector Guy Dunn said that both city and county homes must meet the minimum North Carolina Electrical Code. Kingston: Building and electrical inspector Deyo Southerland stated that no shell homes may be built in the Kingston city limits or within a one mile radius of the city limits.

The exception occurs when application is made giving specifications as drawn to scale of building and lot and is completed at the time of construction, meeting the city building code.

"In my opinion, said Southerland, "none of the county shell homes I have seen are satisfactory. Often companies do not use standard material to meet the North Carolina Building Materials Code. I have often found the materials used in a shell home to be inadequate in spacing and size."

"In Lenoir County, the rural homes must also have a permit for septic tanks and must have an electrical inspection. The shell homes meet the minimum wiring requirements only. Contrary to a (Continued on page 12)

U.S. Astronaut's Flight Set Back By Bad Weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Weather-plagued scientists prepared today for another attempt Friday to rocket astronaut John B. Glenn Jr. into orbit but the odds still were heavily against them.

A 54-mile-an-hour gale sweeping across the central Atlantic forced the United States to cancel the effort early today. It was the ninth postponement.

Prospects for Friday were just as ragged and the Weather Bureau said Saturday would be "very much of a lost cause" so far as weather is concerned.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the operations director, Walter C. Williams, would take another close look at the weather at midnight tonight and make a decision then on whether to go ahead with the Friday launch attempt.

In discussing the status of the project at morning briefing, space officials held out the possibility of an extended delay if Glenn's mission does not come off Friday.

Postponements through Saturday, they said, would allow the rocket and capsule checks to "go back for detailed checks on the system beyond those allowable during the day-to-day delays."

The central Atlantic storm today, covering 27,000 square miles, was driving 18-foot waves through the area where Glenn would have had to land in event of an emergency during the first few minutes after liftoff. It was centered 950 miles east of Bermuda.

A 30 per cent weather improvement was forecast for that area Friday, leaving conditions still undesirable for a launch.

Indications were, the weather men said, that conditions in the recovery areas after one, two or three orbits probably would be satisfactory if not good.

A big problem looming is the expected weather in the Cape Canaveral area. It has been good all week except for early morning fog and low clouds which disappeared before mid-morning.

This same condition is expected Friday, but a new front also is moving in which would bring high cloud cover.

The problem will be to get the shot away after the low clouds dissipate and before the high cover moves in.

A cloud cover over the cape launching area forced a postponement Jan. 27 after Glenn had been in his capsule five hours and 13 minutes.

Paul Haney, NASA news director, announced today's scrub at 1:18 a.m.

As it did Wednesday, the "scrub" came after a special weather briefing for Project Mercury Director Walter C. Williams at the Cape Canaveral control center. The briefing began at midnight.

Immediately after the decision was made, the White House was advised of the further delay in the planned launch which was first scheduled for Dec. 20.

Glenn was awakened at 1:05 a.m. by his doctor, William Douglas, and advised of postponement. Subsequently Douglas said that Glenn appeared to be somewhat disappointed and the doctor quoted Glenn as saying:

"Everything is still go but the weather. When we get weather we will go." The doctor said Glenn then went back to bed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The big new disarmament conference set for Geneva March 14 appears to be in serious trouble a month before it opens.

Just how serious the trouble is should be determined in the next week or so by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's next move in his campaign for a summit level meeting.

If Khrushchev insists on going personally to Geneva for the opening sessions, U. S. officials said today, his action will be taken here and in other Western capitals as evidence that he is concerned only with propaganda aims.

If, however, he is prepared to put off his summit proposal until some later stage of the negotiations, officials said that his action could be taken as an indication that he is interested in making a serious start on disarmament, even at the cost of some small concession to Western views.

In view of the speed with which the situation has developed during the past week, the expectation in government quarters here is that a new Khrushchev message to President Kennedy, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and other leaders involved in making preparations for the Geneva talks should be forthcoming in a few days.

At the moment, top officials believe there is a better than 50 per cent chance that Khrushchev will go to Geneva, even though Macmillan and Kennedy have argued against starting the talks at the summit, and Kennedy is reported to be personally determined not to go under any circumstances.

This estimate of Khrushchev's probable action is based, among other things, on a belief that he probably wants a forum of international importance in which to sound off against the prospective new series of atmospheric nuclear weapons tests by the United States.

Kennedy made clear at his news conference Wednesday that he intends to make the final decision on atmospheric tests around the end of the month. It is widely expected that he will decide in favor of testing and that the first shots will be fired in early March prior to the Geneva conference.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says Hindu astrologers' warnings of ill effects from a recent lineup of planets was a hoax that made the world laugh at India.

In a political speech at Vidisha in central India Tuesday, Nehru said it was a callous waste to burn butter in an effort to propitiate gods when people were hungry.

Nehru was addressing an audience of country people who had been frightened by warnings of doom from a conjunction of the planets from Feb. 3-5.

Red Oak's Fire Dept. Firms Up

RED OAK—About 40 Red Oak community residents gathered here Wednesday night, elected a fire chief for their fledgling volunteer fire department and scheduled another organizational meeting for Monday.

Robert Allen was named chief. In this capacity, Allen will have custody of the new fire company's truck, expected to be ordered within a few weeks.

The meeting scheduled Monday's session for the Community Building here when reports from boundaries, assessments and constitution and by-laws.

Discussion Wednesday primarily involved the establishment of boundaries. It was learned that Bell Arthur and Falkland plan to organize fire-fighting units, a factor in considering Red Oak's boundary.

Winterville Fire Chief Lloyd Worthington and Ed Hemmings, chief of the Staton-House Volunteer Fire Department, again met with the group and said they would also attend Monday's meeting.

According to reports last night, the organization has attracted between 300 and 400 commitments from area residents interested in participating in the Red Oak fire protection effort.

WOULD OUTLAW REDS

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Rep. George Carruth introduced a bill in the Mississippi House Wednesday to outlaw the Communist party in the state. His bill would set up a $5,000 fine and a 5-10 years imprisonment for membership in the party.

Sanford Favors Stiffer Penalties

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford told his news conference today he favors stiffening the penalties for state income tax evasion.

"It is inexcusable," Sanford said, "that we haven't prosecuted income tax evasions. We can't have income tax evasion laws if we can't enforce them."

He said North Carolina is hampered by a two-year statute of limitations. The statute on misdemeanor crimes bars any prosecution if charges are not brought within 24 months of the alleged commission of the evasion. No such time limit pertains for felony charges.

Sanford told The Associated Press later that he favors broadening the statute of limitations...

Recommendations to be presented to the 1963 Legislature are being worked out, he indicated, by State Revenue Commissioner William A. Johnson.

Johnson said Tuesday that he plans to ask the Legislature to stiffen the criminal tax evasion penalties. The need for removing the statute of limitations was emphasized, Johnson said, when his agency had to work fast to meet a deadline when it brought charges against Robert A. Burch, who was fired as state highway engineer.

Sanford said Burch was dismissed because he was "too closely associated" with Kidd Brewer, Raleigh insurance executive.

Burch was charged this week with attempting to evade 1959 taxes. He filed his return on Feb. 13, that year. Revenue Department lawyers felt that the charges would have been barred if they had been brought before Feb. 13.

Two women, and they disagreed. One said, "They did all they promised and everything is satisfactory. It's wonderful to have a place to call your own."

The other said, "They made it seem too easy. I didn't know what to expect and found myself short of money in a hurry."

These two comments sum up the general reactions of home owners to one of the most controversial housing projects in America: the shell home.

With its mushroom-like boom over the past few years, the shell-type home has become a familiar part of the American scene. In the Greenville area alone there are at least three dealers who offer buyers the shell home in a variety of finished stages.

The shell home contract is essentially a building arrangement in which the dealer agrees to put up the outside shell of the home, with foundation, floors, walls and roof.

The buyer then takes over the responsibility of either finishing the construction or hiring someone else to do it for him.

From the outside, it is almost impossible to tell that the home is not finished. However, inside the typical shell home resembles an unfinished attic, with its exposed walls, ceiling joists and beams. Finishing the interior of the shell is very similar to finishing an attic.

Under the regular purchase plan, whereby the buyer intends to finish the interior of the home, the floor has been completed; yet no sheet rock, wiring, plumbing, or heating have been installed.

The buyer assumes the responsibility for installation and purchase of septic tanks, water and electrical hook-up. Some companies require that the buyer obtain a building permit himself and see that his lot is staked out.

Origin of Dealers There are hundreds of dealers in North Carolina who offer the shell home or partial shell home construction. Some of these dealers are owned by lumber companies or architects or contractors who have found the demand for this type of housing sufficient to offer the building of a shell home as part of their services.

Some shell dealers are old established builders who offer the shell home as a supplement to their business. Others are new companies who specialize in the shell home. Many of the new and old dealers are reliable. Others are the "fly-by-night" type of businesses.

Pitt Mental Health Association To Participate In State Meet In Durham

Officials of the Pitt County Mental Health Association will participate in the annual meeting and program conference of the N. C. Mental Health Association Inc., to be held Friday and Saturday at the Jack Tar Hotel in Durham.

Assuming duties as members of the state board of directors at this session will be Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll and Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, recently appointed by Dr. Frank Fuller, president of the Pitt association. Mrs. Carroll is director of instruction for Greenville city schools and Dr. Prewett is chairman of the Psychology Department at East Carolina College.

Dr. Philip Nelson, director of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic, and Mrs. J. B. Spilman, executive director of the state association, will participate in a panel discussion of "Inter-Agency Communication for Better Mental Health" to be held Friday afternoon.

The Pitt association will sponsor the "President's Reception" at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Hill Room of the Jack Tar Hotel.

Also participating actively in the annual meeting will be Mrs. M. P. Bailey, executive secretary of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, who will host a discussion on education Saturday morning. Mrs. Lula Belle H. Rich, chief, Health Education Section, State Board of Health, will be leader. Several discussion groups will be held simultaneously.

Charles D. Cobb of Greenville, member of the Pitt association, is treasurer of the North Carolina Mental Health Association and will also attend the conference.

Pitt's Mental Health Association is one of several which will send exhibits to the conference. Three murals, designed by Mrs. Frank Davison of Greenville, will depict the purpose of the Pitt association as it concerns education. The murals show how the local association reaches the public through education.

The first panel concerns mental health as beginning with prenatal care, the church, and education through radio, television and newspapers. The second panel deals with the psychiatrist, a mental health clinic and the well adjusted family; the third panel will depict the role of the courts and process of law, as well as P. T. A., nurses, clinical psychology and will picture emotionally disturbed and well adjusted children and other elements involved in mental health.

The Pitt County Medical Auxiliary has participated in the mural project through the following members: Mrs. Charles Adams, in charge of organizing participation; Mrs. Edward Monroe, Mrs. Herbert Hadley, Mrs. John Putrell, Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. Joseph Ward and Mrs. Howard Gradis; also, the following volunteers: Mrs. Robert Goodin, Mrs. Samuel Sewall, Mrs. Roy Beck, Mrs. John Behr, Mrs. Dink James and Mrs. Daniel Saleed.

The display will be used at the state meeting, and probably will be used at other mental health conferences to depict the local association's purpose.

Valentine Dance Given For Husbands

Valentine's Day is traditionally the girl's day to pick up the gifts. Returning the favor of their husbands' gifts, the Jay-C-Ettes entertained them at a dinner-dance last night.

Arriving at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, the guests were greeted by Jay-C-Ette President Mrs. Bob Windle and Mrs. D. F. Haynes, chairman of the annual affair, with their "Cupids." A cocktail hour was held prior to the fried chicken dinner. Little Pete and his Combo were the featured musicians at the dance.

A Valentine motif decorated the clubhouse. Heart bursts were hung over the mantel, flanked by Cupids and red tapers. Red ribbon streamers draped the wheel-shaped chandeliers.

Assisting Mrs. Haynes with the dinner-dance preparations were Mrs. Billy Laughinghouse, Mrs. Carlton Taylor, Mrs. Phil Moore and Mrs. Charles Lewis.

Fire Prevention Speaker's Topic

On Tuesday afternoon, Miss Annie Shields VanDyke entertained the Clio Book Club at the home of Mrs. Holly VanDyke on Rock Springs Road.

Following a brief business meeting, the hostess presented Lyman Nethercutt who is fire inspector for Greenville. He gave a talk on the Fire Prevention Bureau. There are 30 codes used for the 600 business properties for which he is responsible.

The most prevalent causes of fires are listed as: over-fused switch boxes, extension cords, shorts, furnaces and heaters.

The Greenville Fire Department has 21 paid firemen and 38 on the volunteer squad. A false alarm costs the city approximately $50 and a fine of that amount is imposed on a person who is responsible for a false alarm. In closing, Mr. Nethercutt stated that "good house cleaning is actually fire prevention."

The hostess served a salad and sweet course, assisted by Mrs. Holly VanDyke. Mrs. VanDyke's mother, Mrs. LeRoy Marshburn, was a guest for the afternoon.

Art Instructor Speaks To Fine Arts Dept.

Paul Minnis, art instructor at East Carolina College, was the speaker for the afternoon when the Fine Arts Department of the Woman's Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. R. Phillips.

Mr. Minnis spoke on "Pottery," defining the three areas of this art as earthenware, stoneware and porcelain. High tribute was paid the North Carolina clay deposits, yet seldom used in local pottery. In the ceramic field at the college, stoneware is the material used. He explained the steps of "throwing a pot" by showing a film strip in which he was the leading character and narrator. At the conclusion of the film strip, specimens of his work were examined by the members.

Mrs. Troy Rouse presided at a short business session when announcements were made. From the tastefully decorated tea table, Mrs. H. R. Phillips, assisted by her co-hostesses, Mesdames R. P. Rogers and W. C. Harris, served Valentine punch, gaily decorated heart sandwiches, cakes, nuts and candy. Mrs. John Barker was an invited guest for the afternoon.

Public Health Work Discussed

The Semi-Cent Book Club met at Mrs. Frank Strawn's with Mrs. Richard Balzer, hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Norman Little. After the business meeting the program was turned over to Mrs. Balzer, who introduced Mrs. Ed Griffith, health nurse from the Public Health Department.

Mrs. Griffith discussed what public health is and the work of the Public Health Dept. She gave the club a birds-eye view of the personnel and their duties. The different clinics carried on by the health service were discussed.

Statistics were given concerning the number of patients served yearly and the amount of money used yearly.

The School Health Program was given particular attention. Screening done by the teachers and then followed up by the health nurse was stressed. Records are carefully kept on each child by the nurse and doctor.

Mrs. Griffith told the club that tuberculosis was the major concern in Pitt County.

Books were exchanged and delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Author Learns To Wait and See

PARIS—(WNS)—Pierre Guenin has called off publication of a sequel to his "Game of Truth" book because "modern life changes so fast that nobody, particularly women, knows what the truth is."

The French author interviewed European celebrities six months ago by tape recorder to learn the truth about their private lives. Among the results:

Dany Saval, star of Walt Disney's "Moon Pilot," said she shed everything to her husband. She has since sued him for divorce.

Yoko Tani, the Japanese star, declared that the only romantic man she had ever met was her husband, Roland Lesaffre. She has left him for an Italian director.

Gloria Lasso, the Spanish singer, reported that she had solved all of her problems by marrying a French hairdresser. Today she has the problem of collecting alimony from him.

Francoise Brion, the French star, claimed to have the happiest marriage in Europe. But five months later she divorced husband Paul Guers.

Gardening Today

JOHN G. DUNCAN

There are times when the gardener needs outside help in caring for his plants. This is true in the case of the home owner who has large shade trees growing on and around his place. In a lot of cases the tree surgeon is only called in after many years of tree neglect. The following suggestions may be helpful if you are one of those fortunate to have large trees.

Yearly Inspection

An inspection done each year by a reliable tree man may insure healthy trees. This yearly inspection can head off a lot of trouble and make the tree work required less costly. This inspection covers everything: malnutrition, tree disease, pruning, and other phases of tree care.

The cost of such an inspection may vary with the tree men consulted. However, be sure the man knows his business and represents a reliable company.

When Done

The inspection should be left up to the discretion of the tree company. They know best when to look for and spot trouble in its incipency or at work. Their trained eyes can see things the average gardener easily overlooks. He knows the symptoms of diseases. He knows the insects that trouble trees. He knows the telltale signs in leaf and low vigor.

Pruning He knows the part dead wood removes plays in the health of a tree. He knows how corrective pruning can better balance root and crown output and requirements. He knows how to make proper cuts on a limb or tree trunk in order to insure quick and correct healing of wound.

Cavity Work

The honest tree surgeon will not advise costly cavity work on a tree that hasn't a chance. He also knows the kinds of trees that respond to this type of treatment. He knows how to open the cavity, install proper bracing, insure proper drainage and what materials will seal cavity correctly.

Feeding

The reliable tree man will only recommend the right tree food and try to sell you the amounts needed for tree feeding. He knows where to place the food in order for the tree to utilize it.

Spraying

Proper spraying equipment and knowing what spray materials to use are also marks of the tree man who knows his business. He knows when to apply the material and when to put it on the foliage.

Advantages

While tree work done by the firm that has more than just one more job at stake will cost more, it is far better to employ one than to try to undertake the work yourself or hire just anyone with a ladder and a saw. These firms have trained men. They have insurance to cover both personnel and property damage.

So this spring get an inspection of your trees. It will be a break for your trees.

Next Week: Some favorite flower of gardeners.

News And Notes Fountain

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ellis of Raleigh and Miss Louise Owens of Macesfield were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Britt and children, Beverly, Dalton, and Gregory of Tarboro were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Saddle Liley.

Mrs. E. P. Whitaker, Mrs. J.W. Staples, Mrs. Joe Pinnex, and Mrs. Carolyn Staples were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Fountain. Mrs. E. P. Whitaker will remain with the Fountains for a three week's visit.

H.D. Club Meets

The Fountain Home Demonstration Club held a joint meeting at the Fountain Community Building on Feb. 8, inviting husbands and other special guests to a covered dish supper. An address of welcome was made by the club president, Mrs. J.W. Gay.

Following the supper a program was given by Mr. S. J. Weeks, Assistant County Agricultural Agent, on "Trends in Agricultural Production." A discussion was given by Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics agent, on "Trends in Home-Making."

A recreational period was provided by the club music chairman, Mrs. Carlton Gardner, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Reddick Celebrates 80th Year

Mrs. R. L. Perley and Mr. and Mrs. Carter Smith honored Mrs. Perley and Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Mollie Reddick with an afternoon get-together and a dinner party Sunday. Mrs. Reddick was celebrating her 80th birthday.

Among those present during the afternoon and evening were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. G. C. James of Parmele, Mrs. N. O. VanNortwick Sr. of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Van Taylor, and Mrs. Bertha Crane, Mrs. Lottie Taylor, Mrs. Matena Powell, and Mrs. Maggie Moore of Bethel.

The youngsters will enjoy making colored sugar to sprinkle over frosting on cookies. Just sprinkle a few drops of food coloring on some granulated sugar, then let your small fry have the fun of spreading the color with their fingers.

An End To Carteret Bridge Delays

Active participation by Gov. Sanford in seeking to settle the long controversy over locating the proposed highway bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort offers new hope that the dispute may be resolved even though many Carteret citizens obviously will not be satisfied with whatever decision is finally reached.

For many months now, the proposed new bridge between those communities has been stalled because of the inability of the Highway Commission to firmly decide on its location. During the latter part of the Hodges administration the Highway Commission gave its approval to one of the proposed locations of the bridge. Subsequently the new Highway Commission appointed by Gov. Sanford renewed consideration of the location and has not yet made a firm decision on the proposed bridge's location.

In the meantime this important project has been stalemated while opposing forces in the Carteret area have continued to press for their particular point of view becoming the official point of view of the present Highway Commission.

The matter has been kicked around long enough without any concrete decision being made. Now that Gov. Sanford has stepped in personally to try to resolve differences, it is to be hoped that some definite action can be taken in order that construction on the project may be undertaken.

Sufficient time has elapsed for thorough study of the situation by highway officials. The progress of the section of the state to be served by the new bridge is not being enhanced by the continued delay in reaching a decision on where the bridge should be located.

State officials have an obligation to the people of Carteret County and the rest of the citizens of the state to settle the matter without further delay and get on with construction.

Republicans To See One Issue

By LYNN NISBET

REPUBLICANS — Republicans do not anticipate anything like as widespread revision of their party plan of organization as do the Democrats, but information is there may be a real fight on one proposed change at the State convention next week. The present plan provides that two delegates to each district and one delegate to the National Convention shall be named from each congressional district.

The Republican plan, like the Democratic, provides for the selection of two delegates to the national convention for each member in Congress—four elected at large for the senators and two from each district for the representatives. It is proposed to reduce the regular allotment to one delegate for each district and select the others "more in accordance with Republican voting strength across the state."

Delegates to county and state conventions in both parties are now appointed on basis of votes cast for the party's candidates for Governor in the latest election, but when it comes to national delegates the apportionment is entirely geographic. That means a congressional district which has never voted Republican, and in which the candidate for President cannot hope for much, has as much voice in his nomination as one where the party majority is heavy. The proposed change would seem to make a lot of sense and fairness, but the sparse counties which have ending in the past may be expected to resist.

So far as has been learned there will be no real contest for chairman or other officers in the party organization. Except possibly for vice chairman, a renewal of the scrap of two years between Miss Stella Rutledge of Charlotte (who won then) and Miss Frances Ratcliff of Pantego for vice chairman is expected.

REGISTRATION — The law books set out in some detail the "qualifications for voting" on part of citizens. Actually, there is only one requisite for voting. That is proper registration. No matter how well qualified by age, education, residence and all the other items, no person can vote unless his or her name is properly entered on the registration books of his home precinct.

To encourage and facilitate registration of all eligible voters Democratic Chairman Bert Bennett has set up a Statewide Democratic Registration Committee with John R. Jenkins, Jr., of Aulander as chairman. The plan is to have a committee in every congressional district and then in every county to search out unregistered voters, especially the young ones, and get their names on the books as Democrats.

Six counties in North Carolina—Cumberland, Forsyth, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Wake and Wilson—have a permanent registration system under which books are open all the time at the courthouse, except for a few days immediately before elections. The other 94 counties require voters to register in their home precincts only during the period of two weeks before an election. This makes it necessary for the workers to keep on the alert.

Their permanent registration system is relatively inexpensive and it affords much better opportunity for citizens to get in position to vote and to participate in party affairs as fully qualified voters. A further advantage is it gives an opportunity to register before the heat of the campaign interferes with orderly thinking and planning.

PAY DAY — Wide publicity has been given the fact that Judge Richardson Preyer has been confirmed by the Senate as judge of the Middle District N.C. Federal Court. He was appointed last fall too late to have the matter handled by the Senate before adjournment, and it came through just last week. What the news stories did not tell is that the confirmation meant a happy pay day for the judge. Under the rules he assumed the duties of the judgeship and began holding court immediately after his appointment. But he could not draw any pay until confirmed by the Senate. Once confirmed, the pay is retroactive to the beginning of his service. So last week Judge Preyer became eligible to collect at the rate of $22,500 a year for judicial services rendered since early October. Incidentally, if he had not been confirmed he could not have drawn any pay—but his judicial acts would have remained in full force and effect.

DAVIS — When Archie K. Davis announced the other day that he would not seek reelection to the State Senate from Forsyth county he threw the local politicians in a tizzy. Also occasioned some concern throughout the state. Men of his capability and moderate conservatism are needed in the General Assembly and other places of leadership now more than ever. His retirement caught the citizens of Forsyth by surprise and there has been some fancy political footwork in lining up an acceptable successor.

Forsyth has reason to be proud and jealous of its past representation in the Senate. The fact often has been noted that the big counties have not furnished their proper share of legislative leadership. Forsyth is an exception to that rule, so far as the Senate is concerned. Just a few picked at random — Gordon Gray, Robert M. Hanes, Irving Carlyle, Calvin Graves, Archie Davis.

Military Installations Bolster Our Economy

Eastern North Carolina often fails to realize that it has one of its larger industries in military installations scattered throughout the area.

It is generally recognized, we think, that the Marine Air Station at Cherry Point is one of the foremost economic influences in the life of Craven County; that Fort Bragg is the mainstay of the Fayetteville economy today; that Camp Lejeune is the economic giant in the Jacksonville area; and that Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base has made the economy of Goldsboro blossom in recent years. To a much lesser degree it is recognized that these military installations spread their economic influence throughout the entire eastern section of the state.

Without them, Eastern Carolina as a whole would be in much poorer shape from an economic standpoint than it is today.

It is of significance that the Defense Department has asked Congress to authorize construction projects totaling more than $10 million for military bases in this part of North Carolina during the coming fiscal year. While, in terms of total military spending by the federal government, this is not considered a large amount, it will be sufficient to have added impact upon the economy of Eastern North Carolina.

Aside from spending for construction on the military bases, however, Eastern Carolina cannot fail to recognize the millions of dollars monthly pumped into the economy of the section through payrolls of military personnel and civilian employees of these military bases.

Although military installations were not initially a planned part of the economic development of this area, they have become an important factor in the economy of the region.

In Comparison, It's Easy Going

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is hip-deep in dilemmas but, compared with some of the other top men's difficulties, he is operating in an atmosphere almost as calm as his own rocking chair.

The President, while struggling with a decision on resuming nuclear testing, had to try to draft an adroit answer rejecting Premier Khrushchev's call for an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament.

He couldn't afford to brush off the summit proposal lightly since any embarrassment to Khrushchev would ruin his present agreeableness; he couldn't let Khrushchev have a propaganda edge; and he had to leave the door open to a summit meeting later.

That's a big order. But at home the President is getting only a little criticism from the Republicans, most busy criticizing themselves, and practically none from his own Democrats.

It's different with Khrushchev. He doesn't have that kind of domestic quietness while trying to concentrate on out-maneuvering Kennedy abroad. He has had to wrestle with his Red Chinese allies and even Russian Stalinists who won't buy his soft-sell on communism.

Even Kennedy's two biggest allies, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle, are in trouble at home and abroad.

Macmillan, working with Kennedy on dealing with Khrushchev, has been under sharp criticism in Britain. De Gaulle, trying to bring peace to Algeria in Africa, faces the possibility of civil war at home between left and right.

There are some solid reasons for Kennedy's not dashing off to a summit meeting, just because Khrushchev wants one next month.

Kennedy, like President Eisenhower before him, takes the position that before the top men go to all the trouble of meeting their representatives ought to iron out most of the details.

In the first place, if 18 heads of state went to Geneva March 14 they'd waste days just making speeches before they got down to business at all. That would be inevitable.

In the second place, an international audience such as Khrushchev has in mind would give him a chance to perform. It's not unfair to think that's exactly what he'd do, just as he did when he went to the United Nations.

In the third place, the only thing that counts is the big powers, earnestness — or lack of it — in wanting to reach a disarmament agreement. In the more than 16 years since the war they haven't done it.

If they are earnest now, they can instruct their regular negotiators to get down to cases. If the earnestness is demonstrated by the negotiators bog down, Kennedy, Khrushchev and others can have a summit to settle the deal.

Sparky says: They'll play safe when left with a trained sitter

Don't give fire a place to start!

The Competition Is Met

COMPETITION, that is the opportunity for it, still is the basis for the spice of life. Things could get pretty drab and lifeless without it. And, as we all know, it's America's economic mainspring.

A good example: There's a service station out our way that has enjoyed semi-secularism from other service stations for several years. While there were others in the general vicinity, there was no competition within a half-mile.

Like we said, thing's rolled smoothly along for several years. Then, just recently, another service station went up — right next door.

The new service station, embarking upon its competitive career beside the older business, installed as a part of its newer design a tremendous umbrella.

The great red-and-white-paneled shelter was so large a rope-and-pulley rig was necessary to open it. Being perhaps the largest umbrella in Greenville and certainly the largest at any Greenville service station, the tremendous and colorful canopy naturally drew attention of passers-by.

Naturally the senior service station took note of the huge umbrella. Its operator began to seek a competitive means.

For motorists in the vicinity, his answer to the huge parasol was apt indeed. Shortly after the new service station was open for business with umbrella spread above the gasoline pumps, the elder establishment was adorned with its own umbrella.

Posted above one pair of gas pumps — and centered among the beams of several spotlights —was a regular-sized, red-and-black-paneled umbrella.

EXCHANGITES in the Greenville club are dealing this week with a serious problem.

In sponsoring Crime Prevention Week, the Exchange Club has taken the approach that criminal activity must be attacked with a positive program — and at a proper level.

Reasoning of the Exchange program is primarily based upon the assumption that our next generation can be better prepared than the present generation can be cured.

This seems to be sound reasoning. Their contention that proper influence upon youth can direct the next generation away from criminal involvement is nothing more than a common sense deduction.

Greenville is fortunate to have among its civic clubs an organization such as the Exchange Club to make an active effort to exert influence toward better individual character among our young people.

While citizens of our community cooperate with the Exchanges in Crime Prevention Week emphasis, however, it should be remembered that the task they are calling attention to is not merely a one-week job. It lasts all year long, every year.

Those who expect President Kennedy to achieve perfection immediately are generally among those who voted against him. Those who favored him, recognize that the President is a competent administrator who is building a doctrine of government which may give to younger people a program of government for their generation. This will result in a very interesting intellectual struggle between conservatives and liberals. In the course of the next few years, American youth because they are dissatisfied with the radicalism of the 1930's and 1940's must seek a new doctrine. The Extreme Right really have no leadership and no program, and therefore cannot be taken too seriously. But the conservative Right should not be ignored because they express a notable intellectual assertion of thought which cannot be ignored. It is not impossible that before long Attorney-General Bob Kennedy will assume a leadership of the younger generation which will be based upon traditional American ideals.

The young people who are seeking a Rightist leadership find the Extremists distressing because they represent no (Continued on Page 6)

Other Editors Saying... The Juvenile Problem

Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier

The problem of treating juvenile delinquents in Charleston seems about to receive a long overdue airing. This is an issue of national extent. It has provoked violent controversy between those who regard the principal, if not only, concern as the wayward child, and citizens who on the other hand maintain that society as a whole has prior consideration.

The first group has by and large taken control of the machinery for dealing with juvenile problems. Their rise to power has coincided with the worst outbreak of youthful crime in American history. There is even evidence that methods of the social worker approach to controlling juvenile delinquency has aggravated the problem. The sociologist Hobbs cites studies showing that young people receiving "help" were less likely to mend their ways than were the un-counselled.

Most arguments on the subject seem to get lost in generalizations about rehabilitation and prevention and understanding. Sentiment sometimes spills all over the place, as when a certain occupant of the U. S. Supreme Court bench tenderly referred to a confessed rapist as "this 19-year-old lad."

All thoughtful Americans want troublemakers rehabilitated, whether young ones or old. And these Americans genuinely rejoice when any crime is prevented. They also make allowances for youthful spirits and incomplete social education and training.

But — such people are far from convinced that firmness (translated "get tough" by the bleeding hearts) is incompatible with returning errant young feet to the right path. Nor does it appear likely that adequate punishment is without preventive effect. Few burglaries are committed by those undergoing detention, for example.

As for sympathy and understanding, it is the rare adult in our experience unwilling to give the child or young person the benefit of doubt and a second chance. Few parents have not had occasion to say, "There but for the grace of God..."

But there is a point at which the aggressive "lad" becomes the vicious brute, when the neighborhood gang becomes a pack of marauding young toughs. All the difference in the world exists between the boy casually picking a couple of peaches from a neighbor's tree, and the organized raid that strips the orchard and threatens bodily harm to the owner should he try to interfere.

We often feel that both sides in the controversy lose sight of these vital distinctions. Rage as well as softness of heart and head can blur judgment. Clear vision as well as determination will be needed if the problem of the youthful offender is to be brought under control.

Time To Review Postal Outlays

By ELMER ROESSNER

The possibility of increases in postal rates makes it important for all businesses to review mail operations. Even if increases are not voted by Congress—a thin possibility—review can result in savings at today's postal rates.

Congress is considering an increase of 1 cent an ounce in first class and airmail postage, a 1-cent increase on post cards and second-class mail. There would be a cent increase on the minimum third-class mail.

Robert Kaye, president of Agency Publishing Co., and a mail sales expert for more than twenty years, suggests the following:

1. A thorough check of mailing lists, eliminating wrong names and addresses and other "nixies," and removing names of those not interested in your offers. Savings in printed matter, etc., may be many times the savings in postage.
2. Check postal scales. An error as small as 1-64th of an ounce can cost hundreds of dollars a year.
3. Consider using the third-class bulk rate for advertising instead of first class, if the material qualifies.
4. If not, consider using unsealed envelopes for advertising, saving a cent a letter.
5. Use certified mail instead of registered mail when practical, saving more than 30 cents a letter.
6. Review use of airmail. Do not use it when first class is faster. (First class between New York and Washington is up to 24 hours faster than air mail, for instance.) Do not use domestic airmail late Thursdays or on Fridays unless you are sure the addressee will not get first-class mail on the following Monday.
7. Do not send special delivery letters to post offices that do not provide this service, or to mail addressed to box numbers.

Wiser To Sit And See

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I receive a critical mail that infers that anyone who believes that President Kennedy is not doing badly has in some manner lost all his principles and has become a slave to this young man. It is an absurd conclusion reached by those who decline to recognize the difficulty of our times.

For the first time in decades we are having a debate on basic issues. Let the people decide. If the President is incapable of holding his own, he will be defeated. And nobody is called upon to agree with everything that the President says and proposes. No citizen is called upon to be a sycophant. We are a free nation and the President is our servant but he is entitled to respect as long as his conduct deserves respect. Some assume that the President needs to be opposed because he belongs to an opposition party. That is, in the United States, too narrow a reason for opposition which must be based upon moral criticism.

To date it is difficult to find a justifiable cause for opposition to President Kennedy. There are some who are bound to find his attitude towards Negroes is excessively friendly. It is impossible, however, at this time to complain about a man who recognizes the 14th Amendment as binding upon him when he has sworn to uphold the entire Constitution of the United States. There may be many who resent President Kennedy's attitude toward the policies of the Roman Catholic Church. This is a very complex matter, first because the President is himself a Roman Catholic and secondly because many oppose federal participation in education altogether.

There may be some who object to the President's position on tariffs. This is a matter that must be discussed in Congress and it is impossible to assume other than a partisan position on the question, based upon self-interest. For instance, whereas I can accept most of President Kennedy's program, I cannot at all go along with his tariff question and what is more, the labor and liberal groups who basically support him, will increasingly oppose him on the tariff question. In our system, a President cannot be regarded as altogether unfit unless his broad attitude toward the American system is antagonistic.

For instance, it was impossible to be neutral about Franklin D. Roosevelt. He attempted to introduce a novel and different social and political system in the United States, offensive to American traditionalism. Many people favored Roosevelt's approach to public problems. Many opposed him. He has been dead too long for anyone to take a personal view of the Roosevelt policy.

On the other hand, John Kennedy is just starting and it is not necessary to love or to hate him. It is much wiser to see what he can do with the exceedingly complex situation that he has to handle.

Those who expect President Kennedy to achieve perfection immediately are generally among those who voted against him. Those who favored him, recognize that the President is a competent administrator who is building a doctrine of government which may give to younger people a program of government for their generation. # Jackie Kennedy Scores In 'Tour'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Wednesday night's "Tour of the White House" produced by CBS and shared by NBC, gave every American an opportunity to stroll through the historic home of our presidents in the most informed company possible. Its current mistress, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, obviously reveres the old place and has accumulated a vast store of information about its history. She thus was a marvelous guide. It was informative, entertaining television at its very best and credit is due largely to the easy, authoritative commentary by Mrs. Kennedy as the cameras traveled through the public rooms of the President's house. It was not all meat for the history and antiques lovers, however, although much love and labor obviously is going into the current restoration project. Mrs. Kennedy recalled how they found a valuable Monroe pier table serving as a saw horse in the carpentry shop and located a primitive bust of Washington in a downstairs wash room. Andrew Jackson's portrait has been restored to its original position in the Lincoln Room because Mrs. Kennedy and her aides spotted it

Dr. Ridley Keynotes Bruce-Falkland School Event

The third annual banquet of Bruce-Falkland School was held Monday evening with Dr. Walter Ridley, president of Elizabeth City State Teachers College, as keynote speaker. Dr. Ridley's theme was "Am I, My Brother's Keeper?" from Genesis, fourth chapter, verses 1-9. Certain moral standards should be set by parents, Dr. Ridley said, and those standards should be high enough to give children something to strive for. "We should love everybody, good or bad, even the Communists" if we are to survive in this modern day and time, the speaker stated.

The democratic form of government is based on the Ten Commandments from the Bible, Dr. Ridley said. "If we are to be our brother's keeper, we must base our standards and patterns of living on the Bible's teachings," he added.

"Here," commented Mrs. Kennedy, "is what the White House did to President Lincoln." It was definitely a non-political tour. President Theodore Roosevelt emerged as a hero for his 1902 restoration of the White House and elimination of Victorian clutter. Mrs. Eisenhower was credited with bringing "superb" American antiques into the diplomatic reception room. Most impressive was the care shown in restoring a sense of history and continuity to the mansion. The Red Room is furnished in American empire pieces; the Blue Room with Monroe decor; the Green Room will be restored to its 1800 style.

Ayden Chief At SBI School

AYDEN—Chief W. D. Brooks recently returned from a two and a half day S.B.I. School, during which he received instruction in investigation, handwriting and firearms.

The school was held in Raleigh, and was conducted by John Boyd and Jim Durham, S. B. I. agents.

Dr. Ridley concluded, "There is a destiny that makes us brothers, none goes this way alone; all that we put in the lives of others comes back into our own."

Mrs. Virginia Odell Mills, second grade teacher at Bruce-Falkland School, introduced the speaker.

Other highlights of the banquet included awards and citations. Mrs. Dannie R. Gay received the P-T-A award for outstanding work in the fields of child care and education. Mrs. Gay attended the P-T-A district meeting in Pantego and the state meetings in High Point, Asheville and Kinston for three consecutive years.

Others receiving certificates of appreciation for having done outstanding work in various fields were Mrs. Johnnie Jordan, Mrs. Sadie Randolph, Mrs. Annie B. Johnson and Willie Carney. K. D. Gorham was cited as an outstanding patron in supporting the projects of the school.

Miss Viola Vines, eighth grade teacher, was presented an award as the teacher having done the most outstanding work with the P-T-A. She has served as P-T-A chairman for three and a half years.

W. G. Monk, principal of Bruce-Falkland School, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Beasie Dupree, president of the P-T-A, gave the welcome address. Remarks were made by D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools. Music for the evening was furnished by the school band and choral groups on tape.

Special guests included A. S. Alford, assistant superintendent of Pitt County schools; F. D. Sledge, county supervisor; Miss Hazel Jordan, president of the Pitt County Teachers Association; Mrs. Violet Jones, public health nurse; Mrs. Lillie R. Taylor, state district chairman of the P-T-A; Ed Warren, principal of Belvoir-Falkland School; Miss Mary Hawkins,

Nuclear Power Prosperity Hits Sleepy Village

ROWE, Mass. (AP)—In this sleepy mountain village, population scarcely 300, a two-room village schoolhouse with 37 pupils will be abandoned March 1 for a new half-million-dollar structure. This boost to education was made possible by taxes, a great hunk of taxes. Money may not grow on trees but it multiplies with fission—as Rowe found out when Yankee Atomic Electric Co. was added to the tax list. New England's first nuclear power plant, built a year ago on the shores of the Deerfield River at a cost of about $50 million, now pays 93 per cent of the town's taxes, says Wendell Bjork, postmaster and owner and operator of Rowe's only store. Bjork's wife is town treasurer and he has two school-age children. With the advent of the atomic age in Rowe the tax rate has dropped from $68 to about $30 per $1,000.

As prosperity dawned, arguments on "to spend or not to spend" waxed hot when the new school was first proposed last year. The need was dire. Two grades are meeting in Town Hall for lack of space in the little schoolhouse which accommodates only four grades. Grades 7 and 8 are farmed out in neighboring Chalemont. The new school-for-Rowe faction won. Perched on a knoll with a view of rolling hills and lovely Pelham Lake, the new one-story brick veneer building, 132 feet long, is large enough to accommodate 125 children in its five ultramodern colorful classrooms. The actual number attending will be 43 when grades 7 and 8 are brought back from Chalemont.

Besides classrooms, a 50 by 60-foot assembly room that doubles as a gym, a large stainless steel kitchen and cafeteria, tile plumbing, a health room, an activity room where dabblers can let the finger-paint fly, and administration offices are a far cry from the century-old schoolhouse of yesteryear.

Come summer there will be a baseball diamond and athletic field.

Total cost—$565,000, financed by a 20-year bond issue with a small part to come from the state. "It's worth it," says Mrs. Arvon Palmer, mother of four school-children and chairman of the school committee. "We are all thrilled. In fact those who bitterly opposed the new school are now eager to take credit."

(Continued from Page 4) ideals. The Extremists only represent actions, but action is insufficient if it is not based upon ideals and aspirations. Robert Kennedy is an idealist who affords the on-coming generations a principle of life for which it is encouraging to fight for. That is what is needed in the United States for the next generation and it does not matter about the name of the personality so long as we are able to find a force and a leadership.

EC Breaks Losing Streak; Tops Panthers 81-66

By CHARLES VAUGHAN
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina Pirates won their tenth conference game of the season last night defeating the High Point Panthers 81-66 to break a three game losing streak.

The victory puts the Pirates in third place in the conference standings and drops High Point with an 11-3 record to fifth place in the standings. Lenoir Rhyne is on top at 13-4 and Western Carolina is second with 11-6.

The Pirates, playing without the services of Lacy West who has the "flu", trailed High Point for the first 13 minutes of the game. However, substitute Russell Knowles and co-captain Charlie Lewis teamed together to send the Buc's in front 26-20.

Bucs Lead At Half

The Buc's outscored the Panthers 25-5 in the last ten minutes of the first stanza to go ahead 38-25 at the close of the half. East Carolina, managed to maintain the advantage for the remainder of the contest.

Co-captain Charlie Lewis led all scorers with 10 field goals and five free throws for a total of 25 points for the Pirates. Bill Otte tallied 23 points for the Pirates while teammates Billy Brodgen and Russell Knowles sank 12 and 11 points respectively.

Keith Lead Panthers

The High Point Panthers were led by Joe Keith who scored a total of 13 points. The only other Panther in double figures was Dave Wickham who sank five field goals and one foul shot for a total of 11 points.

Early in the first stanza, High Point surged in front of the Pirates by a score of 8-2. With twelve minutes remaining in the first stanza, the Panthers increased their lead over the Buc's to seven points, 20-13. However, at this point, the Pirates started their tremendous rally.

Knowles Hits

East Carolina scored four straight baskets to cut High Point's lead to two points. Russell Knowles, a six foot five inch sophomore, then sank a two pointer to tie the score at 20-20 with seven minutes left in the half. Charlie Lewis scored ten points in these last few minutes to put the Pirates in the lead 38-25 at the end of the first half.

The Panthers came onto the court in the second half and began to gradually narrow the Pirates 13 point advantage. After five minutes of the second stanza, High Point had managed to pull within seven points of lagging East Carolina. The Panthers then cut East Carolina's lead to five points, 49-44 with 13 minutes remaining in the contest.

Pirates Increase Lead

However, the Pirates were not to be overtaken as they once again began to increase their advantage over their opponents. Bill Otte, East Carolina's 6'7" sophomore center, scored 11 points in the last ten minutes of the ballgame to help seal the victory for the Bucs, 81-66.

Although veterans Charlie Lewis, Bill Otte, Billy Brodgen, and Richie Williams were outstanding for the Pirates, credit must be given where credit is due. A big factor in the East Carolina victory was substitute Russell Knowles who scored five field goals and one free throw for his total of 11 points. Several times during the game, Knowles came through for the Bucs with crucial baskets. However, the scoring of the sophomore forward was not the only event that stood out. Knowles also grabbed a large share of the rebounds.

Saturday night, Coach Earl Smith and the Pirates travel to Wilson to meet the Bulldogs of Atlantic Christian.

Greenville Is Likely Site For Eastern All-Star Football Game

With the plans for an annual high school all-star football game for Eastern North Carolina in the making Greenville will more than likely be the site for the contest.

Walter Jones of Farmville, veteran high school athletics official and operator of the Northeastern Officials Booking Office, announced the tentative plans for the event Tuesday.

Jones said that the original idea came up several years ago when a group of Greenville men toyed with the possibility. "Erskine Duff and Jack Boone are two of the names that come to mind," Jones noted.

The former legislator also stated that the idea was discussed, but nothing came of it at the time.

However, last fall Jones conceded the idea of resurrecting the thing and talked to school officials on a local and statewide basis. According to Jones most of those contacted seemed to be in favor of the project.

Jones then went to the Boys Home of North Carolina, Inc., at Lake Waccamaw and proposed the possibility that all proceeds go to the home. The matter was put before the board of trustees of the home and was approved.

In commenting on the idea in general Jones said that the East should create its own all-star game because so many of the eastern boys are "overlooked" in the Shrine Bowl selection and other honors.

"We have a lot of kids in this part of the state in small schools that could become good college ball players if they were only seen," Jones said. He also noted that an all-star game such as this would give them the chance to be seen.

Thus, the affair would serve two purposes. The Boys' Home would benefit financially and the high school football players here-to-fore unnoticed would have a chance to be seen.

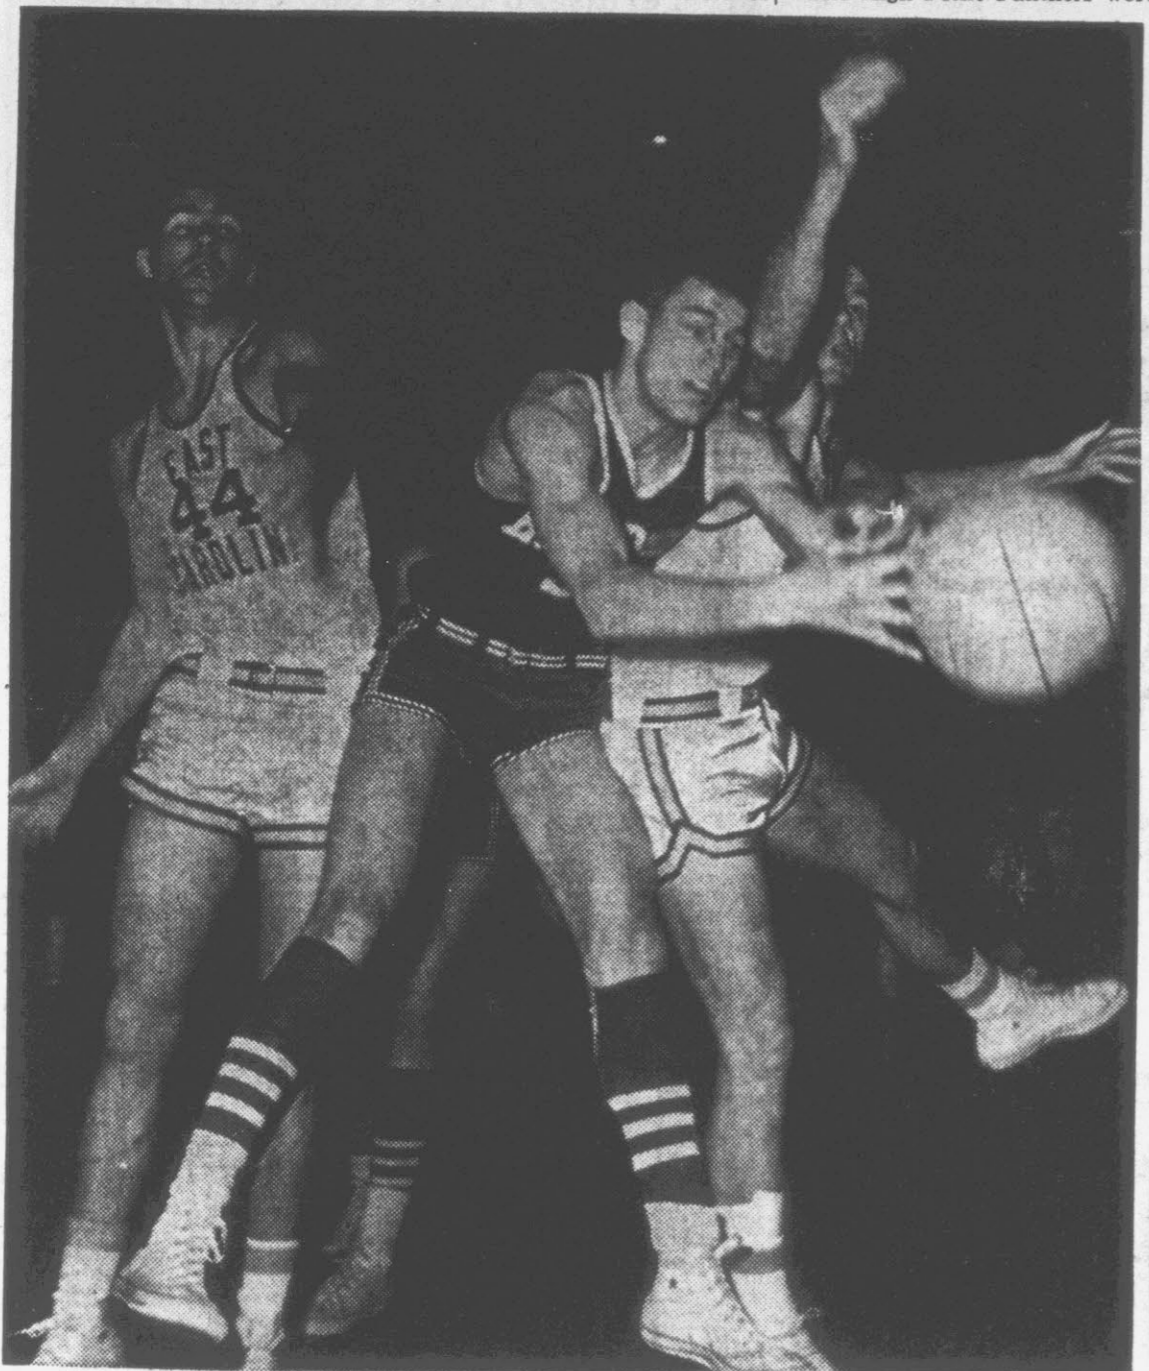

Many of the civic clubs in the state have helped support the Lake Waccamaw Home and many have built cabins there to house the boys. The job of selling tickets to the game has been turned over to the State Jaycees and they voted at their annual meeting in Rocky Mount last Sunday to undertake the job.

Jones also noted that President Leo Jenkins of East Carolina College and head football Coach Clarence Stasavich have donated the college's facilities and assured their complete cooperation.

The time for the game is tentatively set for Thanksgiving weekend. According to Jones most of the high school playoffs are over on Thanksgiving Day or by Friday night and that would leave Saturday for the all-star game. "This date would practically do away with being absent from classes to attend the game," Jones noted.

All boys chosen to play in the game would have to have a C average and would have to play in the game for a certain period of time.

ONE FOR THE PANTHERS . . . High Point's Dave Wickham grabs this rebound as East Carolina's Bill Otte (44) and Benny Bowes try desperately to interfere. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Although veterans Charlie Lewis, Bill Otte, Billy Brodgen, and Richie Williams were outstanding for the Pirates, credit must be given where credit is due. A big factor in the East Carolina victory was substitute Russell Knowles who scored five field goals and one free throw for his total of 11 points. Several times during the game, Knowles came through for the Bucs with crucial baskets. However, the scoring of the sophomore forward was not the only event that stood out. Knowles also grabbed a large share of the rebounds.

Deacons Get Last Chance At Blue Devils Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest gets its last good chance tonight to derail the Duke Blue Devils' express moving toward the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season basketball championship.

The Deacons, who ended an 8-game road series last week, will be playing seventh-ranked Duke on their home court at Winston-Salem.

Duke now holds first place in the ACC with a 9-2 record. Wake Forest is second at 8-2 and North Carolina State third at 8-3. A victory by the Blue Devils tonight would put them a game and a half ahead of Wake and State with two games to play.

If Duke won only one of its remaining games — against Virginia and fourth-place North Carolina — the Blue Devils could do no worse than tie for first place at the end of the regular season. Wake Forest and State will have three games left after tonight and one of them would have to win all three to tie Duke.

The regular season title is strictly unofficial, however. All it really counts for is first seeding in the conference tournament at Raleigh March 1-3, and the privilege of facing what purports to be the weakest opposition in the first round. The conference championship hangs completely on the outcome of the tournament.

If Duke is to keep on the tracks, however, it must do a little derailing of its own tonight. Wake Forest's Len Chappell is on a scoring binge that has produced 223 points in his last six games, of which the Deacons have won four. His average for the six games is better than 37 points, and for the season is 30 points, tops in the ACC.

Art Heyman of Duke, an earlier scoring leader, is second with 26 points per game. He was slowed recently by an ankle injury.

Duke won both previous meetings this season. The first, which did not count in the conference standings, was by a 75-73 score. The Blue Devils won the other one 82-68 almost two weeks ago.

The Duke-Wake Forest clash is tonight's only game. Friday night

North Carolina meets Clemson and N.C. State plays South Carolina in a double-header at Charlotte. Saturday night they switch opponents in another twin bill, UNC against South Carolina and State vs. Clemson. Other Saturday games have Maryland at Wake Forest and Navy at Duke.

N.C. State drubbed North Carolina 85-57 Wednesday night in the only ACC game ending a five-game losing streak by the Tar Heels. The Wolfpack led almost all the way and held a 74-43 advantage with about 4½ minutes to go.

State scorers included John Pungner with 20, Jon Speaks 17, Ken Rohlf 15 and Pete Aukzell 14. For North Carolina, Jim Hudock had 14 and Bryan McSweeney 10.

North Carolina clung to fourth place with a 5-5 record, but now shares that place with South Carolina, also 5-5.

Hunting Season Closes Today

The 1961-62 hunting season which began last September came to a close today after a safe five months for local sportsmen.

The open season on doves, ducks and geese has been over a month now.

Today, Feb. 15, is the final day for rabbits, quail, raccoon and opossum in Pitt County and many other counties in the state. However, in several counties in the state the season has already come to a close.

The trapping season for furbearing animals also closed today in most of North Carolina. In 15 western counties trapping is allowed until Feb. 28 and in Fruitville Township in Currituck County the season remains open until March 15. However, the season did not open there until Jan. 1 compared to Nov. 15 and Dec. 15 in the other parts of the state.

White House Historical Role Underscored

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says his wife's White

House refurbishing project will bring Americans more intimately in contact with the men who lived there.

After all, he points out, history is people, and seeing such items as President Grant's table, Lincoln's bed or Monroe's gold dinner set makes these men "more alive."

Kennedy said he considers U.S. history a source of strength and anything that dramatizes the great story of America, "as I think the White House does," is worthy of the closest attention and respect.

Joining Wednesday night at the end of Mrs. Kennedy's hour-long television tour of the White House and the restorations she has made, the President said he was glad his wife had undertaken the project.

He said he hoped future occupants, like past First Ladies, would continue to try to make the White House "the center really of a sense of American historical life."

The President confided that he thinks history is sometimes "a dull subject" with so much emphasis on dates.

If American boys and girls come to the White House, he said, and "in a sense touch the people who have been here, then they'll go home more interested, and I think that they'll become better Americans, and some of them may want to someday live here themselves, which I think would be very good."

Even the girls," he added with a grin.

Kennedy noted that the White House is becoming more and more important to the American people and last year a record total of 1,300,000 "passed through our home." He said he hoped the number would double this year.

Ozone is more prevalent at an altitude of about 65,000 feet.

Here's what QUALITY has done:
At last count there were 1,499,927 Chevrolet trucks over 10 years old still working—424,381 more than any other make.

1962 CHEVROLET JOBMASTER TRUCKS
built better...work longer!

When Chevrolet builds a truck, it builds a quality truck. This policy makes sense. Chevrolet trucks work a long time... cost less than many other makes to operate and maintain over the years... consistently bring a higher trade-in price... and, as a result, are bought by more people.

We invite you to come in and examine this quality closely and to take a 1962 demonstrator out for a good long test-drive. Note the cab comfort, the good visibility, the smooth ride, the solid feel of its quality. Compare Chevrolet truck features with those of other makes. Then decide which are your wisest investment. We're sure it will be Chevrolet's.

Note how this Chevrolet cab roof is made of two sheets of metal, instead of one, with a layer of felt in between as insulation against cold, heat and noise.

A Chevrolet truck tailgate is sturdier because it has double-wall construction and strong steel chains in tough rubber casing to support it.

Quality independent front suspension fights road shock more effectively than other types—provides more protection for the truck, load and driver.

The standard 235-cu.-in. 6-cylinder Chevrolet truck engine has worked more miles than any other. There are nine more engines to choose from.

IAN FLEMING'S Greatest Thriller THUNDERBALL

CHAPTER 28

When James Bond got on the phone to Domino Vitall out at Palmyra, she said anxiously, "Where have you been all morning, James?"

It was the first time she had used his Christian name. "I want you to come swimming this afternoon. I have been told to pack and come on board this evening. Emilio says they are going after the treasure tonight. Isn't it nice of him to take me? But it's a dead secret, so don't tell anyone. When will you be back. He said something about Miami. I thought—she hesitated—"I thought you might have gone back to New York by the time we get back. I have seen so little of you. You left so suddenly last night. What was it?"

"I suddenly got a headache. Touch of the sun, I suppose. It had been quite a day. I didn't want to go. And I'd love to come for a swim. Where?"

She gave him careful directions. It was a beach a mile farther along the coast from Palmyra. There was a side road and a thatched hut. He couldn't miss it. The beach was sort of better than Palmyra's. The skin-diving was more fun. And of course there weren't so many people. It belonged to some Swedish millionaire who had gone away. When could he get there? Half an hour would be all right. They would have more time. On the reef, that is.

Bond's sandwich came. He sat and consumed it, looking at the wall, feeling excited about the going to do to her life that afternoon. It was going to be a bad business—when it could have been so good. He remembered her as he had first seen her, the ridiculous straw hat tilted down over the nose, the pale blue ribbons flying as she sped up Bay Street. Oh, well.

Bond rolled his swimming trunks into a towel, put on his coat, and slung Leiter's Geiger counter over his shoulder. He glanced at himself in the mirror. He looked like any other tourist with a camera. He felt in his trousers pocket to make sure he had the identification bracelet and went out of the room and down in the lift.

The ripple-edged tarmac and the pitted bends of Nassau's coastal road were tough on the springs of the Land Rover and the quivering afternoon sun was a killer. By the time Bond found the sandy track leading off into the casuarinas and had parked the car on the edge of the beach, all he wanted to do was get into the sea and stay in it.

The beach hut was a Robinson Crusoe affair of plaited bamboo and screw pine with a palm thatch whose wide eaves threw black shadows. Inside were two changing rooms labeled HIS and HERS. HERS contained a small pile of soft clothes and white doekin sandals. Bond changed and walked out again into the sun.

The small beach was a dazzling half-moon of white sand enclosed on both sides by rocky points. There was no sign of the girl. The beach shelved quickly through green to blue under the water. Bond took a few steps through the shallows and dived through the blood-warm upper water down into the cool depths.

He kept down there as long as possible, feeling the wonderful cold caress on his skin and through his hair. Then he surfaced and crawled lazily out to sea, expecting to see the girl skin-diving around one of the headlands. But there was no sign of her, and after ten minutes Bond turned back to the shore, chose a patch of firm sand, lay down on his stomach, and his face cradled in his arms.

Bond reached down and put one arm under her knees and another under her armpits. Her arms closed round his neck. Bond picked her up easily. He stood for a moment in the lapping water and looked down into her upturned face. The bright eyes said yes. He bent his head and kissed her hard on the mouth.

The soft lips moved slowly away. She said rather breathlessly, "You shouldn't take your reward in advance."

"That was only on account." Bond walked out of the water and up the beach into the shade of the casuarinas. He put her down gently in the soft sand, then knelt down and picked up her right foot. He wiped away the specks of sand and uncurled the toes. Holding them back, he bent and put his lips to where the broken ends of the black spines showed. He sucked hard for about a minute. A small piece of grit from one of the spines came into his mouth and he spat it out.

He said, "This is going to be a long business unless I hurt a bit. Otherwise it'll take all day and I can't waste too much time over just one foot. Ready?"

She said dreamily, "Yes."

Bond sunk his teeth into the flesh round the spines, bit as softly as he could, and sucked hard. The foot struggled to get away. Bond paused to spit out some fragments. The marks of his teeth showed white and there were pinpoints of blood at the two tiny holes. There was almost no black left under the skin. He said, "This is the first time I've eaten a woman. They're rather good."

She squirmed impatiently but said nothing.

Bond knew how much it would be hurting. He said, "It's all right, Domino. You're doing fine. Last mouthful." He gave the sole of her foot a reassuring kiss and then, as tenderly as he could put his teeth and lips back to work.

A minute or two later and she spat out the last section of

Robt. Kennedy Challenges Answers Hecklers

By PETER ARNETT

JOGJAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy drew a mixture of cheers and jeers today after challenging student hecklers "if you disagree with any aspect of American policy step forward—come up here and tell me."

Only one student of Jogjakarta's Gadjah Mada University came hesitatingly forward with a long question referring to the American "capitalistic and monopolistic society."

Jabbing his finger toward the youth, the U.S. attorney general launched into a long statement on U.S. life and politics. Showing flashes of anger, Kennedy told the students at one point to grow up when they attempted to pin him down on the U.S. attitude toward Indonesia's claim to Dutch-held West New Guinea.

After reiterating that the United States felt ownership of the disputed territory should be determined by negotiations, he added heatedly: "You should be more mature. Here, you've had the benefit of an education and you cannot expect the United States to agree with everything you do."

The attorney general said his brother, President Kennedy, was injured in the Pacific during World War II partly to free Indonesia and during the same time American soldiers were seeking to free Holland.

"We retain ties with both countries and we want a peaceful settlement between you," he said, repeating the theme he has been stressing since arriving in Indonesia with his wife on Monday on a good-will tour.

A member of the Kennedy party emphasized that the attorney general "is under no instructions" to mediate the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea.

The spokesman's comment came in reply to newsmen who asked about Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio's statement Wednesday that Kennedy and President Sukarno were "seeking a speedy solution" to the dispute.

Kennedy and the Indonesian president met Tuesday and Wednesday and are scheduled to confer again on Sunday when Kennedy returns from his tour of central Java and Bali.

Minutes later, something made Bond open his eyes. Coming toward him across the middle of the quiet bay was a thin trail of bubbles. When it passed over the dark blue into the green Bond could see the yellow single cylinder of the aqualung tank and the glint of a mask with a fan of dark hair streaming out behind. The girl beached herself on one elbow and lifted the mask. She said severely, "Don't lie there dreaming. Come and rescue me."

Bond got to his feet and walked the few steps to where she lay. "You oughtn't to aqualung by yourself. What's happened? Has a shark been lurching off you?"

"Don't make silly jokes. I've got some sea-egg spines in my foot. You'll have to get them out somehow. First of all get this aqualung off me. It hurts too much to stand on my foot with all this weight." She reached for the buckle at her stomach and released the catch. "Now just lift it off."

Bond did as he was told and carried the cylinder up into the shade of the trees. Now she was sitting in the shallow water, inspecting the sole of her right foot. She said, "There are only two of them. They're going to be difficult."

Bond came and knelt beside her. The two black spots, close together, were almost under the curl of the middle toes. He got up and held out a hand. "Come on. We'll get into the shade. This is going to take time. Don't put your foot down or you'll push them in further. I'll carry you."

She laughed up at him. "My hero! All right. But don't drop me." She held up both arms.

Napp Says U.S. Decision On Bridge May Come In Week

RAYDEN—"The fall of Berlin would not only be a threat to West Germany but to all of Europe," Ralph Napp, member of the East Carolina College social studies department, told members of the Ayden Rotary Club last week.

"We can no longer defend the Monroe Doctrine of isolation, Napp said. Stressing the need of understanding the Germans, who are likeable people, Napp said it is necessary to "force ourselves" to understand the language as well as the people.

Germany today is not the Germany of Hitler, in that the old timers are out, but Russia would have people believe that old Germany is the enemy, thus capitalizing on the propaganda of dividing and conquering.

Due to the German labor force, West Germany has been able to rebuild itself in an astounding manner in spite of the destruction of World War II. This has been done also in spite of the fact that Russia and Poland took out all the machinery of the country. This machinery has set back the latter two countries because it is now obsolete and no parts are available for it, the speaker stated.

Program chairman for the evening was Leslie Stocks. In charge of the program for this week is Warren Kinlaw, who will discuss automobile liability insurance.

Club president Gwynn Merritt presided at the meeting. The Rev. John Goff gave the invocation.

RALEIGH (AP) — Carteret County residents may know within a week or two the location of a proposed bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort.

Gov. Sanford called a meeting Wednesday of interested parties in his office, declaring, "We are going to make a decision immediately." But after the session he said, "There is some additional information we need and some additional engineering investigation which I have requested."

Sanford said he hoped the bridge's location could be fixed within a week or two.

C. S. Winslow, assistant chief highway engineer in charge of bridges, said the present structure which carries traffic across the Newport River "is entirely inadequate."

He warned that it may be necessary to restrict loads or even close the bridge completely.

More than a year ago, former Highway Commission Chairman J. Melville Broughton Jr. said a new bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort was the state's No. 1 highway need.

Broughton, who served as highway boss under Gov. Luther Hodges, was chairman when the commission decided to build the bridge close to and parallel to the present span. This followed recommendations by highway engineers.

However, various groups argued that the new bridge should be placed further to the north to leave more room for expansion of the state port facilities at Morehead City.

Highway engineers have estimated the new bridge at the recommended location would cost $2 million. They said it would cost considerably more if the structure is built further north.

Sanford said, "I do not know where the bridge should be built, but I am satisfied we must build it without further delay." He met with representatives of the Highway Commission, Ports Authority, Army Engineers, U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, Southern Railway and Dr. John Morris, described by Sanford as an interested Morehead city citizen.

Eisenhower To Open Library

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted an invitation to return to Abilene for dedication and opening of the $3 million Eisenhower Presidential Library May 1.

Officials of the Eisenhower Library Commission made the announcement. The library is across the street from the Eisenhower Museum and the general's boyhood home.

The former president and Mrs. Eisenhower are now residents of Gettysburg, Pa., but are presently vacationing at Palm Springs, Calif.

Recognized His Coat In Court

The prosecutor suddenly stopped court proceedings and stared at the defendant, Raymond Roberts, on trial Wednesday for burglary.

Turning to Judge Riley Graham the prosecutor said: "The coat this man is wearing is mine. It was stolen from my home a few weeks ago."

Roberts, 34, was held for a grand jury on the case which sent him to City Court—and later was charged with burglarizing the home of prosecutor Joe DiRisio.

Party Honors Mrs. Davenport

Mrs. W. L. Davenport, overall chairman, was honored recently by members of the Booster Club of Eppes High School at a birthday party held during the regular meeting.

Mrs. Mary L. Butler gave a discourse on "The Power of Divine Love." Miss Sylvia Goins sang "Bless This House," and Dannie Watts, Tehree Moore and Rudy Vines, trio.

A special presentation was given to Mrs. Bertha Wooten for her work in the club by Mrs. Mayme Barnhill. Gifts of appreciation were presented to the participants for their part in the program.

After Mrs. Davenport opened her gifts, the group was served ice cream, cookies, nuts and candies.

Mrs. Barnhill presented Mrs. Davenport with a birthday cake. Members, visitors and new members were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Lucile Gorham.

Bank Robbery Is Based On Time

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Two armed men, their faces heavily smeared with makeup, spent less than five minutes in robbing the five points branch of First National Bank of $24,000.

They walked into the bank at 1:40 p.m., Wednesday, and ran out when one robber shouted, "Time."

One man held the bank employees at bay and acted as timekeeper; the other moved from cage to cage cleaning out the teller's receipts.

"Time" came while the collection bandit was still gathering up money. He stopped immediately, turned, and ran out the door with his companion. They fled by car.

Ayden C-of-C Elects Officers

AYDEN—Floyd Rowe Jr. was elected president of the Ayden Chamber of Commerce last night, at a dinner meeting held at the Community Building. Other officers elected were Tom Wheelless, vice president; Standell Sumrell, treasurer; and Mrs. Virginia Johnson, secretary.

New directors, elected prior to the election of new officers, included the following firms: Chauncey Sinclair Station, operated by Tillman Chauncey; Bruce's Drug Store, operated by Bruce Ridenhour; Fashion Shop, operated by Mrs. Louise Baldrice; and J. J. McClees Co., operated by Rhoderick Sumrell. At the dinner meeting, members were asked to introduce their guests. Outgoing president Warren Kinlaw presented a summary of the year's work. Following discussion and a revision of plans for the annual Christmas parade, new directors were elected. Kinlaw will remain on the Board of Directors for one more year as past president.

Shell Homes . . .

number of other types of homes I inspect, the shell homes have never risen above the minimum wiring requirements in any of the Lenoir County homes I have visited. "The big problem," added Southerland, "comes when the buyer is not able to finish the home he moves in." Farmville: Building Inspector Curtis Flanagan said, "The North Carolina Building Code is generally followed in the building of homes within the city limits of Farmville.

"I have found the shell homes in this area to be good homes in proportion to the cost and in some cases to be built better than many of the older and more expensive homes in the area, as knowledge of sound structure has been advanced greatly over the past 25 years. "I have found the shell home to be sound. They weather hurricanes, better than some of the older more expensive homes. "The reason for this is that they are single story constructions and have good bracing and normally have the pier type of foundation. This type of foundation keeps pressure from building up and causes the hurricane damage to be less.

"One thing I do encourage," said Flanagan, "is that a spread type of foundation (called footers by some contractors) supports be used under the pier columns. "The soil in this part of Eastern North Carolina is quite soft under the crust, and foundations tend to sink after a period of time.

Other Officials Speak Since many of the shell homes are built in the county, Pitt County Farm Agent S. C. Winchester was consulted. He said, "I have nothing against the shell home as such, but the rate of financing is way out of line when you compare it with the rates of agencies that loan money to rural families for building home construction." Another issue in the controversy about the shell home is that buyers are not always able to finish the interior. A spokesman from the Pitt County Health Department was questioned about families that are not able to install bathroom facilities in their home prior to moving into the unfinished structure. The Health Department representative said, "Not only in shell homes, but in all new homes, the sanitation section of the Pitt County Health Department would like to see inside bathrooms on approved septic tanks as a better public health measure."

Two Three-Car Mishaps Reported Here Yesterday

Damage, set at an estimated $1,700 resulted yesterday from two three-car collisions, both of which occurred within a two-hour period. Investigators said heaviest damage resulted from the first of the mishaps, at the corner of Fifth and Holly Sts. Drivers in the 3:03 p.m. mishap were identified as Linda Sue Carroll, of 1106 Cotanche St., Richard Lawrence Perkins of 400 Summit St., and David Joseph Poe of 103 South Warren St. Officers said the Perkins and Carroll vehicles were headed south on Holly St. The Perkins auto was stopped at the intersection, and was struck in the rear by the Carroll car, police noted. The collision forced the Perkins car out into Fifth St. where it collided with the Poe car.

Damage to the Carroll vehicle was set at $400 while an estimated $450 damage was done to the Perkins vehicle. Officers estimated damage to the Poe auto at $50. Miss Carroll was charged with following too closely. In the second mishap, which occurred at the intersection of 10th and Charles Sts. at 4:25 p.m., police charged Mrs. Dorothy Robinson Brandon of 405 East Fifth St. with having improper equipment (brakes). Officers said the Brandon car struck a vehicle operated by Mrs. Doris Little Richardson of 2708 Edwards St. which in turn hit a car driven by Miss Gay Elizabeth Hogan of Route 2, Chapel Hill, an East Carol' College student. Both the Richardson and Hogan cars were stopped for a traffic light.

Officers quoted Mrs. Brandon as saying she was en route to a garage to have her brakes inspected. Total damage in the mishap was set at $800. Both Mrs. Richardson and Miss Hogan were treated by doctors for minor injuries, following the collision. District No. 20 NCSNA includes the following counties: Nash, Edgecombe, Pitt, Martin, Beaufort, Washington, Hyde, and Tyrrell.

Report Case Of Salmonellosis

A case of salmonellosis has been reported to the Pitt County Health Department. Dr. John Futrell, director, said this week. The child stricken with the disease is "doing better," however. Salmonellosis is a reportable disease and resembles typhoid. The symptoms are similar to typhoid fever. Sanitarians of the health department and other divisions are participating in investigation of the case and the local department is receiving help from the state health department in Raleigh. Dr. Futrell said a report from Raleigh should be forthcoming. To illustrate this type of activi-
