ASTRONAUT GLENN ORBITS EARTH

U. S. Still Plans Attend Space Capsule Safely Lands In 18-Nation Geneva Parley Caribbean; Glenn Said 'A-OK'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States still plans to attend the 18-nation Geneva disarmament conference even though French President Charles de Gaulle has called for a nuclear disarmament meeting by just the Big Four atomic powers, U.S. authorities said today.

The negotiating so far has been done by the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union. France consulted with her allies before the message was sent to the Kremlin. A copy was made available Sunday to officials here.

There was no announcement after Grewe's 90-minute White House visit on details of his discussion with the President.

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—Skilfully demonstrating man's ability to perform in space, steel-nerved astronaut John Glenn flew three times around the earth today in 4 hours 50 minutes and landed safely in the Atlantic Ocean.

around the earth at 17,530 miles an hour. The three-orbit mission was to last four hours, 50 minutes.

This would bring Glenn down for a landing near Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas about 2:37 p.m.

Glenn said he felt no such discomfort. Dr. William Douglas, the astronaut's physician, reported that medical instruments in the control center showed that Glenn is "in a completely normal situation and proceeding in excellent condition."

Flight Chit CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. kept his sense of humor as he rocketed through space at more than 17,500 miles an hour.

Alton Gardner To Seek Re-Election

Commissioner B. Alton Gardner, now serving as chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, today announced his candidacy for re-election as District 5 commissioner.

He said this morning he had talked to D. S. Spain, chairman of the Pitt Board of Elections, and will pay his $10 filing fee tomorrow. He will then officially become a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the May primary.

JFK Asks Pay Hikes In Govm't

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged Congress today to provide a billion-dollar pay raise over three years for the government's white collar workers.

The East-West argument on use of air corridors linking West Berlin with West Germany continued. The Kremlin made public a blunt rejection of Western protests against Soviet jet buzzing of Allied aircraft in the Berlin air lanes.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., scoring a stunning space triumph for the United States today, became the first American to orbit the earth.

There are three ways the spacecraft can be controlled. One is the regular automatic system, one is all manual, and the third is the fly-by-wire system which is a combination of the two.

Glenn reported to the Cape control center that some trouble appeared to be too much thrust in a hydrogen peroxide jet controlling the left yaw, so that it drifted over slightly.

Freeman Avers No Regimenting WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman told senators today it is ridiculous to contend that the administration's new farm program would regiment farmers.

Hair Stylist Brings Twist To New Method Of Cutting

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
NEW YORK — (WNS) — It was probably inevitable that the Twist would come to hair styling, but Mr. Mack of Denver swears that his new method of cutting has nothing to do with the dance.

"When I invented what I call the Relaxcut, but which others began calling the Twistcut, I hadn't even heard of the Twist," said Mr. Mack (real name, William A. McAtee), in New York for the annual convention of the Hair Council, whose presidency he had just relinquished.

"What I was looking for was a new method of cutting which would keep soft hair settings in their original bouffant fullness. Many women have fine hair which collapses all too easily, even when it has been helped out with a body permanent."

To prove he hadn't gotten the cutting idea from the Twist, Mr. Mack mentioned that he had been experimenting with his new method for about three years. Most modern hair cutting begins with layering. Many cutters pick up the strand and taper it by giving a series of little upward motions with a razor.

Others, when they are cutting fine hair, simply cut the strand ends across with a scissor. This is known as blunt cutting, and doesn't taper hair that is already fine.

Mr. Mack's improvement is to twist the strand slightly, back comb it a bit, relax it and then cut above the twist.

The result is to fan out the ends. In ordinary cutting they are left either slanted toward each other or straight across.

"With the Relaxcut, I get the maximum body of which the hair is capable," explained Mr. Mack. "Most sets today are done on rollers to get the soft, bouffant look. These sets allow moisture to get into the hair. With my method of cutting, the ends resist moisture much better and hold their curl."

Since he had devoted so much attention to a cutting method, I asked Mr. Mack what importance he gave to cutting.

"Importance? In modern styling, cutting is everything. Twenty years ago the permanent was the basis of styling. At that time styles lay close to the head, were set on pin curls. Unless hair was naturally curly, the permanent gave the necessary curl."

Cutting at that time was thought of simply as shortening. Today the cut itself is the basis of the style.

"Permanents are given as much as ever, but they are used now to give body to hair. When a permanent is finished today, it should be possible to comb the hair into the general shape of the set."

I asked him whether Denver women visited salons often, or wanted sets they could keep themselves.

"Every woman wants her set to keep between visits. She has to be able to comb it herself daily. That's another reason for the importance of cutting. The shape of the set is cut in, so that even if the set relaxes a little, it's still there."

Mr. Mack then took me on a short tour of the exhibit room where members of the Hair Council were preparing sets on models for the evening's competition. He pointed out how they were putting styles into the models' hair without having to wash and roller-set at all.

"The scissors does most of it. Our methods differ, but each of us shape a style into being. We don't torture it into existence."

I asked him what he thought about back-combing. This technique is often used by stylists on the final comb-out.

"A little of it goes a long way," said Mr. Mack. "Fine hair will break from too much back-combing. That's one advantage of my Relaxcut. I find I have to do very little final back-combing."

Marriage Announced

Miss Goldis Starling Honored

Miss Goldis Starling was guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower Saturday night at the Red Oak Community Building. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Jackson, Miss Joyce Jackson, Miss Beulah Harrington and Miss Marie Hale.

Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Beulah Harrington. The hostesses presented a corsage to Miss Goldis Starling, who is to be married to John Reel Jr. on March 3. Corsages were also given to Mrs. Robert Starling, mother of the bride-elect, and to Mrs. Leo Starling, a recent bride.

Miss Marie Hale presided at the registration table which featured an arrangement of flowers. The building was decorated with green, white and yellow as the color scheme. There were arrangements of yellow roses, mums, jonquils, white glads and lilies-of-the-valley. The center of the stage featured a basket of yellow roses in a green shadow box heart. On each side two green hearts were decorated with yellow roses and ruffled net. White candles accented the bridal theme of the party.

The guests were invited to a refreshment table, covered with a lace cloth over green. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white glads and yellow mums in a crystal bowl. The flowers were flanked by six burning tapers in crystal candelabrams. Miss Joyce Jackson served punch from one end of the table, while Miss Kathryn Winchester served decorated cakes from the other end. Guests helped themselves to cheese straws, nuts and mints.

Mrs. Charles Jackson appeared in true television fashion and announced: "Almost everyone would like to know how it feels to be a celebrity. Tonight one of our guests will have that honor. Miss Goldis Starling, please come forward, because THIS IS YOUR LIFE!"

The bride-elect was given a seat of honor.

The four hostesses had composed a poem which reviewed highlights in Goldis Starling's life. Mrs. Charles Jackson was narrator, while Miss Beulah Harrington and Miss Marie Hale flashed pictures on a screen that showed Goldis from her baby days until now.

About seventy-five beautiful shower gifts were then opened and enjoyed.

Mrs. Mann Is Club Hostess

The Dig and Deive Garden Club met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Roger Mann. Mrs. Jim Sutton was co-hostess. Upon arrival members were served hot coffee, sweet rolls and brownies.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Craven Hughes, president, in which the nominating committee was appointed. Each member was urged to participate in the workshops that will be held Feb. 28 and March 7 at the Woman's Club. At these workshops each member will gain useful information in preparing themselves in making their arrangements for the Standard Flower Show to be held March 14 at St. Paul Episcopal Church.

Mr. Wesley Crawley presented a program on the origin of sculpture. The meeting was then adjourned.

Wedding Invitation

Mrs. Annie S. Joyner requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter, Eleanor Maureen Joyner, to Mr. Davis Casvel Evans on Sunday, the twenty-fifth of February, nineteen hundred and sixty-two, at three-thirty o'clock at Grace Free Will Baptist Church, Watauga & Spruce Streets, Greenville, North Carolina. No invitations are being sent.

If you like a suspicion of sweetness in your French dressing, try adding a little honey. This combination is especially good on fruit salads.

MRS. HAROLD ALBERT KENNEDY is the former Edith Ray Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lancaster of Greenville who announce her marriage on February 17 at 2:30 p.m. in South Mills. The couple will reside in Norfolk, Va.

4 out of 5 homes need a wiring checkup!

It's a fact: the wiring system in most homes (even many newer homes) is out-of-date. You use electricity in many more ways than you did just a few years ago... and you may be overloading your wiring system. Here are some symptoms of overloading: fuses blow frequently... TV picture shrinks... lights dim when your refrigerator starts to run... you have to unplug one appliance to plug in another. If your home has these symptoms, it needs a wiring checkup. Your electrician can tell you whether you need more modern wiring — for safety, for convenience, for better living, electrically.

Women's News Service

Here are accessories popularized by the new Paris fashions: Tiny berets worn on one ear. Hairnet-type snoods in ribbon or openwork straw. White ostrich feather kerchiefs tied under the chin (for a bride). Tortoise-shell bow on tortoise-shell headband. Close-fitting high beaded boots matching above-the-ankle beaded dresses.

Toes snipped off square or diagonally, or round toes. Twist heels at Dior. Belts with golden eyelets and gold buckles, gold buttons. Raincoats and matching umbrellas. Bibs of gold chains or dark-colored beads for neckline fill-ins. Three-inch pearl scarves thrown over one shoulder. Pastel beads matching pastel crepe or chiffon dresses. Perfumed necklaces. Chains still popular — either gold or mixed with colored beads. Large stones worn mid-bosom. Big square jet brooches. Round clips. Starfish pins. Shell earrings. Deep-colored brooches or clips in strange underwater shapes. Huge gamet hearts (worn on forehead at St. Laurent).

Mrs. Belcher Named Third Vice President

Mrs. Richard A. Neely, president of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, Inc., announced today the appointment of Mrs. J. P. Belcher, of Kingston, as the third vice president of the council and Dr. Rowena Sidbury Hall, of Wilmington, as a member-at-large of the Board of Directors of the Council. Both appointments are subject to ratification by the Delegate Assembly of the council when it meets in April.

Under the Girl Scout Delegate Assembly Plan, representatives of all geographic areas of the council elect a Board of Directors to administer the broad concerns and policies of the entire council area; provide better programming to girls by seeking out resources beyond the reach of the local areas; and by coordinating training programs for Girl Scout adult volunteers.

The council is currently serving 8,267 girls in eastern North Carolina. Financial support for these services is derived predominately from United Funds in the 20-county area.

The Board of Directors meets monthly in order to fulfill its delegated responsibilities.

Shower Given Bride-Elect

Miss Maureen Joyner, February bride-elect, was honored at a miscellaneous shower Friday night, Feb. 16, at the home of Mrs. Donnie Wynne. Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Lonnie Evans, Mrs. Annie Joyner, Mrs. Mack Ray Haddock, Mrs. Jerlene Brannon and Mrs. Donnie Wynne.

Upon arrival, Miss Joyner was presented a corsage of red carnations which complemented the red and white dress she was wearing.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen tablecloth and centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations and candles. Guests were served bridal cakes, nuts, and punch.

Approximately 65 guests were present.

Hotel Keeps Tabs On La Difference

NEW YORK—(WNS)—Statisticians at the Hotel Edison got a few surprises when they checked their figures recently.

Most startling facts: Men talk longer on hotel phones than women. They also ask twice as many questions of the operators. And they get more things in a suitcase than women do.

Less surprising: It's tougher to wake women than men via hotel wake-up calls.

Debatable: Men give more notice when checking out than women. They also make reservations farther in advance.

Odd information: One out of every 1,000 women guests insists on making her own bed.

Don't Smother That Yawn; It Keeps Actress In Shape

By OLGA CURTIS

DENVER—(WNS)—Actress Arnes Moorehead thinks every woman should start the day with a great big yawn.

"The kind of yawn where you stretch in bed," she explained. "Stretching keeps your muscles toned and makes you alert."

If this is the formula that keeps Miss Moorehead looking good, it might make stretching a national hobby. The regal-looking redhead, now heading for Broadway in the new suspense play "Rx: Murder," is her own best ad.

If you believe statistics instead of your eyes, Miss Moorehead is 55 years old, weighs 118 pounds and stands only 5 feet 3 inches tall. But on stage or screen, unless she's playing a character part, she looks tall, slim and not a day over 40.

Nature gave me a long neck, which helps," says Miss Moorehead, "but any woman can look taller and slimmer if she practices good posture."

For her, posture lessons began in childhood, when her father—a Boston minister—sent her to ballet school at the age of 6 to teach her to "stand up straight." Miss Moorehead was a ballerina at 12, and when she switched to dramatic acting after college, she kept up her ballet work.

"Certain exercises I've done all my life," she noted. "I'm a great member of the stretching school. I just stretch more slowly as I grow older."

Her pet exercise is a side stretch: first she stretches her right hand to her left ankle with her left hand held high, then she slowly moves her right hand up. "Hold, relax and switch arms," she says. "It's wonderful for the whole body."

Miss Moorehead, who has a wardrobe of lush clothes by California designer Don Loper for "Rx: Murder," doesn't have to wear a corset to make her dresses fit right. On stage, she wears a light giraffe and strapless bra because "it's my duty to look good before the public in good clothes."

Off stage, she's equally conscious of the need for looking good.

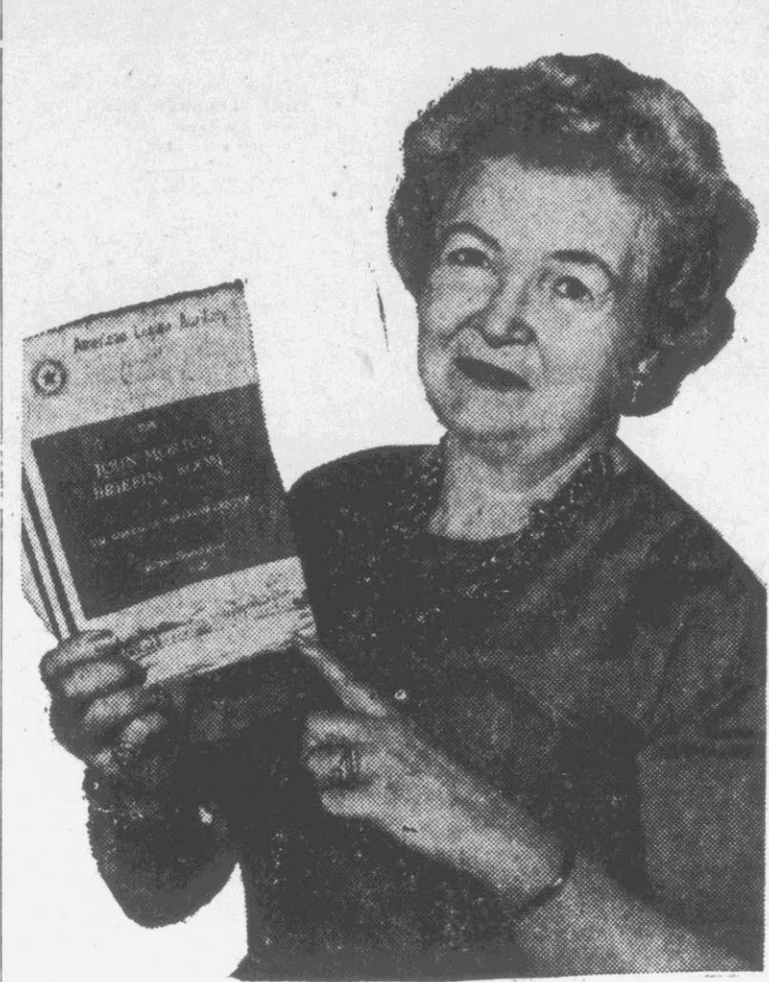

"No woman can afford to get careless no matter how old she is. There's no age at which you can say, 'Oh, what's the difference' and become sloppy."

Miss Moorehead, who has been alternating movie and TV jobs with stage tours across the U. S. since 1949, thinks the constant travel helps her keep in shape.

"Naturally, I do most of my eating in restaurants," she explained, "I have a good healthy appetite but the camera puts on 15 pounds, so actresses have to be a little thinner than they should be. I eat my big meal after a performance, and there are few restaurants in many towns open that late at night. That helps me eat less. And if I do put on a few pounds, I try to take them off again right away."

Miss Moorehead owns a home in Beverly Hills but seldom is in it. Unmarried, she travels with her family, a one-and-one-half pound Yorkshire terrier named Gammy. She thinks women could learn a lot from Gammy or any other pet.

Mrs. E. P. Satterthwaite, chairman, presided and opened the meeting. Mrs. Mary Kathryn Wilson led the group in the study, "Little Flames Start Forest Fires." From James 3:5-6, Phillips' translation, she quoted, "Before studying what James says in chapter 3:1-2, James 1:26 was reviewed. There we found the author had said, 'If any man among you seem to be religious, and brideth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is in vain. It was also stated, 'Nero set fire to Rome to see the grandeur of the spectacle and he fiddled while the city burned. Similar irresponsibility is seen often in the reckless use of our tongues.' In Psalm 34 it is said 'Keep thy tongue from evil.'"

The meeting was closed with the Psalmist's prayer.

At the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

Cooking Is Fun

LADIES LUNCHEON

Toasted Cheese Sandwiches with Broiled Stuffed Peaches and Watercress

Filled Ladyfingers Beverage

BROILED STUFFED PEACHES
1 can (1 pound) cling peach halves

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon curry powder
1-3 cup finely diced celery

Turn peaches into a strainer to drain well; use peach syrup another time. Cream butter and curry powder; return to refrigerator or freezer to harden so you can cut it in tiny pieces. Just before serving, place peaches on small oven platter or shallow baking dish (lined with foil if you like). Add celery with bits of curried butter. Broil until hot through. Makes 4 servings.

Adapted from a Dutch recipe, this dish made a big hit with some visiting toddlers!

Dutch Fondue Green Peas Scalloped Tomatoes Fruit and Cookies Beverage

DUTCH FONDU
6 slices bread

½ pound Edam cheese (grated medium fine)

4 eggs

½ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon paprika

2½ cups milk

Toast bread; remove crusts; cut into 1-inch squares; arrange in one layer in a buttered shallow 6-cup baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese (there should be 2 cups), reserving 3 tablespoons. Beat eggs slightly with salt and paprika; add milk and beat to combine. Pour over cheese; sprinkle reserved cheese over top. Bake in a pan of hot water in a slow (325 degrees) oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean—about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Disadvantages In Standby Program

Authority President Kennedy seeks from Congress to set off a $2 billion public works program in case of a business slump appears to us authority which could best be granted if and when the situation warrants.

The administration and other proponents of the pump-priming standby powers argue that in case of a business slump Congressional action may be too slow to stem a tide of recession. They assert that the standby power is needed in the hands of the President so public works projects can be instituted in the early stage of any decline in business activity.

Among the limitations on use of the standby authority, however, is the requirement that the President could not use his authority unless unemployment had risen in three out of four or four out of six consecutive months by more than one percentage point. This would mean that from the beginning of a decline it would be at least three months and possibly six months before the President could trigger any ready-made pump priming program even if he were granted the standby authority.

It seems to us that this period would allow Congress sufficient time to study the situation as it developed and authorize such public works and other programs that appeared necessary to stem a tide of recession. There would be little time gained, in the final analysis, even if the President had the standby powers which have been requested for the public works program. There is also the matter of fitting such a program to meet the need that exists at the time the program may be put to use. Could this not be better done with Congressional help at the beginning of a business slump than now?

The proposal for standby power for the President to institute a gigantic public works program in case of a business decline is now without its good points, but the proposal now before Congress appears to us to have disadvantages which far outweigh any advantages which might be gained from it in the future.

Cuban-Type Tobacco Might Be U.S.-Grown

It is not unlikely that somewhere in an agricultural region of the United States there is the right combination of climate, water and soil to produce cigar tobacco like that which has been flowing from Cuba into this country for many decades.

It is possible that somewhere in North Carolina—with its wide variety of climate, soil and water conditions—it might be feasible to produce Cuban-type cigar tobacco to fill the void left by the embargo which has sealed off Cuban tobacco producers from American cigar manufacturers.

North Carolina has enjoyed the distinction as the tobacco capital of the world for many years. Primarily it is known for its flue-cured leaf, but in the western section of the state Burley tobacco is produced and we have read of Turkish tobacco also being grown commercially in the state.

In view of the change in national policy toward importing Cuban tobacco, North Carolina is missing a bet if its farmers and agriculture experts do not give attention to developing Cuban-type cigar tobacco that can be produced in Tar Heelia.

Without ready access to Cuban-grown cigar tobacco, American cigar manufacturers will be looking elsewhere for new sources of supply to fill their needs. If North Carolina's vigorous agriculture could fill the need, it would provide another boost to the farm economy of this state.

Velvet Touch In Political Arena

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is a period in American politics of the presidential velvet touch in handling Congress where members of both parties often mull around like orphans.

President Eisenhower started the smooth and rather soft approach. President Kennedy followed it. This avoidance of head-on clashes and nagging brawls may explain their high standing in public opinion polls.

They might have gotten more from Congress by being tougher. That's a guess. President Truman was tougher but he had troubles. Where he used a constant harpoon, Kennedy employs only a needle, and then infrequently.

The Truman-Eisenhower-Kennedy troubles with Congress have had a single origin and no change is in sight.

All that those who call themselves Democrats have in common, and the same goes for Republicans, is a rubbery party label. Both are split into liberals, middle-roads and the very conservative.

The result is a political mish-mash and a kind of general befuddlement for voters who don't keep records.

If they did, the record would show: The liberals of both parties have more in common than they have with their own conservatives while the latter enjoy a far more instant affinity than they do for the liberals or middle-roads in either party.

In the House the Democrats, overwhelmingly outnumbering the Republicans, could put through any Kennedy program if they voted as a party. But only Sunday House speaker John McCormack acknowledged: "Right now Kennedy doesn't have enough votes in the House to avoid rejection of his plan for creating a new department of urban affairs and housing."

He predicted approval for the President's free trade program, federal aid for universities and colleges, and not much chance for Kennedy's program of aid to public schools. The Republicans, in this congressional election year when their best hope for picking up a few seats is some indication that they know what they stand for, are split among themselves six ways from Sunday.

The difference in their views is just the current example of the American political hash in which party labels mean something only sometimes.

For instance, Arizona's Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater, who is making a career of being a conservative, has more in common with some conservative Southern Democrats than with another leader of his party who has shown more liberal views. New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

It was on Rockefeller that Kennedy recently used one of his infrequent needles when he jibed that he wasn't sure any more that the governor wasn't moving to the right of Goldwater.

Opinions In Brief

"Communists believe in communism and preach it. Do we believe in our capitalistic system of private enterprise in which our industrial strength was built? If we do, we'd better preach it."—Industrial News Review.

"The delays in getting men into orbit in outer space are particularly understandable this time of year when so many of us have trouble even getting to the office."—Florida Times-Union.

"The Administration leans toward a program of community shelters. Not only will this be expensive, but think of the cost of parking lots, since it's obvious that nobody could be expected to walk to safety."—Kansas City Star.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THINK IT OVER

Is trouble necessarily punishment?

Sometimes we are tempted to believe it is. We know that the wages of sin is death. We know that in a God-created and managed world it is impossible for anyone continually to get away with evil. We look upon the forbidding walls of prisons and houses of detention and we know that within are sad, disillusioned, mixed-up people who are only too conscious of the fact that wrongdoing at last catches up with the wrongdoer.

We watch the health of the heavy drinker gradually slip away until there is no health left. The over-eater knows that someday he will have to confront a day of reckoning. The person who hates bitterly finds his hate coming back to sting and poison him. Much of our trouble — much of the world's trouble — is the result of evil. But not all of it. Some trouble — as the Book of Job abundantly shows — is the result either of God's will or permission in order to allow us to be disciplined, to come to know life better, to learn how to put our trust in powers higher than our own.

Invariably when trouble comes upon us we ask, "Why?" Whether our trouble is leading us is also a matter of importance. What it is signalling us to do or to stop doing may be part of God's great plan.

Many troubles take the form of tribulation — the separating of the wheat from the chaff. Think it over.

Smoke Gets in Your Eyes

Devotional By Pitt Man

A Pitt County native, now chaplain of Batey State Hospital in Rome Ga., has written a devotional for the March-April issue of The Upper Room.

He is Chaplain Zesely B. T. Cox who was born near Ayden and who served as pastor of Farmville Christian Church for several years.

Many readers will recognize The Upper Room as a daily devotional publication. It has a circulation of over 3,250,000 copies and is printed in 40 editions and 34 languages. It is distributed in more than 100 countries.

Chaplain Cox attended Johnson Bible College in Tennessee and then Phillips University at Enid, Okla., where he worked his way.

He was a chaplain during World War II in England and also a chaplain at Walter Reid Hospital for a time. He has eight living brothers and sisters.

He is the son of the late Biggs and Jutry Cox.

Each day's reading in The Upper Room includes a Bible reading, a Bible text, a meditation, a prayer and a thought for the day. Because of the wide readership and popularity of The Upper Room, it is considered a high honor to have a meditation selected for publication. It is estimated that 70,000 churches provide copies of The Upper Room as a part of their ministry.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts had the Jaycees howling with laughter at their last meeting, as he talked to them in connection with Crime Prevention Week.

The Jaycees were laughing, not at the serious message on crime prevention, but at the asides the judge put in.

He told his audience he had been called upon to teach a Sunday School class at the prison camp recently but cautioned not to mention anything about prison or serving a sentence.

"I did that, and nobody there ever knew they were in prison the whole time I was talking."

Judge Roberts has known the joys of winning as well as the sorrows of losing in running for political office and he told the Jaycees, "Some few of you have had the pleasure of voting for me in the past." He paused, then added, "... a pleasure which I assure you you will never have again."

When the laughter died down, he continued, "Age and arthritis have forced me to withdraw from sin and politics."

The judge was at his best for the Jaycees that night.

Other Editors Saying ... Poor Philosophy

(Washington Daily News)

A sign posted in a store reads, "Oppose that which you do not understand." The very wording of the sign might impress a lot of people of the fact that it is an American philosophy in so many cases to oppose something hurriedly without making any effort to find out the pros and cons of the proposition.

It is a poor philosophy to oppose something simply because one does not understand it. Yet, it happens in America every day. It happens right here in the Pamlico area ever so often.

Sometimes men will study a matter carefully, come up with a proposition designed to bring great benefits to people, and without trying to find out the truth, many people will say immediately, "Oppose it."

We have felt for a long time that opposition to both issues and candidates is usually more pronounced than one finds among those favoring either a proposition or a candidate.

In a Democratic primary right here in Beaufort county all so often people will openly say, "I am voting against Mr. So and So." By voting "against" one candidate, of course the ballot is marked in favor of another candidate.

Those who vote "against" a certain candidate feel more strongly in their actions than the "for" vote of the other candidate. It happens often that in a political race those opposing one candidate will work much harder in opposition than will those who favor a candidate work for him.

It is a strange philosophy, but it is one we have, and it is one which is with us in about every primary or election.

A man might consider whether or not to run for an office. He might figure his possibilities of being elected. He might even conclude, "Well, I can figure on receiving so many 'pro' votes and I can also figure on receiving so many votes from people who vote against the other candidate.

A man who is holding an office and who runs for re-election or reelection often figures, "Well, I'll lose 25 percent of the votes automatically from people who will vote the 'anti' philosophy." It is surprising sometimes just how strange and even how unorthodox thinking sometimes becomes when it pertains to politics.

A man who has held an office for a long time naturally makes some friends and in the process of service he makes some enemies. When primary time rolls around, it makes little difference about the qualities of one candidate or the other to many people. They are going to vote "against" the man in office.

The voter who takes time to study qualifications of candidates, merits of issues, and look at both sides of every proposition is the man who votes intelligently.

Opposing something on the grounds that "oppose what you do not understand" is a defeatist philosophy. It is a sad commentary on American intelligence. The challenge is there to all of us to vote through knowledge and not out of ignorance.

Unity Never Nearer

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Never since the Congress of Vienna (1815) has Western Europe been closer to unity than at the present time. It has been characteristic of Europe to split up as Asia and Africa are permitting themselves to be split into all sorts of small countries. It is to be recalled that prior to the advent of Napoleon, Europe was broken into little principalities and baronies, the final leavings of feudalism. Napoleon's political genius was his reorganization of Europe into larger states and the abolition of the small countries.

After the Congress of Vienna, the countries of Europe strengthened their colonial possessions and managed to maintain the peace of the world for nearly a century, although some small wars did affect all countries. The nationalistic revolutions which occurred in the 1830's and in 1848 actually enlarged the European countries, such as a nation as Italy and eventually Germany coming into existence, although the Austro-Hungarian Empire fell apart. By 1914, Europe was again ready for war and disunion.

For nearly half a century, Western Europe has been pressed between the United States and Russia in this terrific conflict between unification and disunity. The League of Nations, following World War I, was a conception of unity that perished out because of African resistance to Europe (the Ethiopian War) and American opposition to the growth of the Japanese Empire.

Then came World War II and the emergence of the nations of Asia and Africa to equality with the nations of Europe. In this, Soviet Russia and the United States played the identical roles of lessening the power of Western Europe, the United States building an enormous economic power which set out to weaken the authority of the growing countries of Western Europe, while Russia sought to build a new imperialism in the Eurasian world that would ultimately reduce Western Europe to a secondary position. Russia as an Asiatic power sought to destroy the political and economic power of Great Britain, France, Holland, Spain, Portugal and Japan; the United States, as a non-imperialistic power, devoted solely to economic development and expansion, found no reason to limit local production.

Thus, the end of World War II found European countries made smaller by the pressure of the two giants until Europe felt itself altogether pushed out of the world picture. With startling resilience, Europe responded to rebuilding itself, first by creating the Common Market as an economic force and now under the leadership of De Gaulle and Adenauer the probability of the building of a political as well as economic unity which will unify Western Europe into a population and economic complex equal to the United States and Soviet Russia. This will change the historical picture of modern Europe.

Meanwhile both Africa and Asia are being fragmented. Large colonial countries have been broken up into smaller states and their economies suffer from the loss of unification. Fragmentation means increased poverty and civil war. It means loss of population, lessening productivity and purchasing power. Thus, Western Europe is moving in the direction of growth, while Africa and Asia are moving toward increasing confusion.

This is the picture of the moment and while it cannot be said that the United Nations is sufficiently strong to meet the challenge of the moment, it can be said that so far as Western Europe is concerned, sharp progress is being made. If we include the United States and Great Britain into the Western European complex of peoples much has been accomplished since 1945 toward rebuilding the Western world.

It is very easy to become discouraged by statistical data. (Continued on page five)

Small Enterpriser Can Survive

By ELMER ROESSNER
The small businessman, the inventor and the individual with the hot idea can play a part in American industry's drive for new products and methods.

Industry, as reported here yesterday, is spending from $5 billion to $10 billion a year in research and development. Furthermore, companies are looking beyond their own R&D departments for new products and better techniques.

Sums in billions make this seem a formidable, discouraging field for the small enterpriser. Can he survive in the patent jungle, where giant corporations spend millions attacking each other's patents? And if his idea is original but not patentable, can he look forward to anything less than piracy?

HOW TO ASSURE FAIR PLAY

The answer, on the record, is yes. There are many traps — and a few pirates. But the chronicles of the advancement of industry in the United States show that a man with an idea can assure himself of protection.

Anyone, sitting at a desk or lounging in an easy chair, need only to look around him. On every side are inventions that are yielding royalties to the inventor. In fact, our sinner help-every body bought a patented article.

When an idea explodes in the brain of the small enterpriser, he must first decide whether it is patentable. If it is patentable, his first step should be to get a patent. While he could do this himself, it will be safer and no costlier in the end to retain a patent attorney. His own lawyer or his local bar association will suggest one or several names.

After he applies for the patent, he can try to find a lessor or a buyer, and at this point his patent attorney can be his best advisor.

Suppose the idea can't be patented, even though it is original. Suppose it is a slogan that could sell a thousand more cars, a trademark that will sell one hundred thousand more jars of cold cream, or a new use for a patented product that will make a million for the manufacturer?

There are many more pitfalls. One of the best steps is to retain a lawyer, preferably one who is familiar with this field. A recent case shows why:

In 1958, Gunther Brewing Co. of Baltimore was sponsoring broadcasts of baseball games. James Noahson wrote a letter suggesting the sports-caster refer to home runs as "gun runs" or "Gunther runs." Later the brewery used the idea. Noahson sued for $500,000, complaining he was not paid for his idea.

The suit was dismissed last year. Judge Dulany Foster held that while Noahson had disclosed an original idea, he did so without first notifying the brewery that he expected payment.

IDEAS MUST BE KEPT SECRET
There are other related cases. Courts have held that not only must an idea-man notify a possible user that the idea is for sale, but also make sure the idea is not previously disclosed. In fact, if an idea-man wakes up tomorrow morning with a slogan that will bring back red flannel drawers, if he tells it to his housekeeper, or relates it to a few friends on the bus, he may never be able to sell it. In general, an idea once publicly disclosed loses its property value.

That is why legal advice early — right after birth — is important in the idea maternity ward.

For individuals who would profit from their ideas, I have written a booklet, "How to Sell Your Ideas," outlining methods of getting patents, protecting literary and musical ideas, and marketing those ideas that can't be patented.

For a copy, send 50 cents to this newspaper, to cover cost of printing, mailing, etc., making sure to ask for "How To Sell Your Ideas," and giving your complete name and address. This is a revision of a report that originally sold for $1.

Paratroops Fly In 70 Transports To War Games

By EDWARD CRISSELL JR.

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Seventy giant troop transports left today with 1,200 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division for tropical war games in the Panama Canal Zone.

Thirty of the 130 Hercules transports loaded with men and assault gear were put down in Puerto Rico and 40 at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida for last-minute preparations before the Thursday drop over Rio Hato drop zone outside Panama City.

The war games, called Exercise Banyan Tree III, are designed to test the speed and mobility of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC).

In command of the reinforced battle group is Brig. Gen. Edward Rowney, 44, who planned the Inchon invasion during the Korean War. Maj. Gen. Theodore Conway, commander of the 82nd, is to jump with the group as an observer.

The combat team will maneuver for three days in the jungles against a make-believe aggressor force from the Caribbean Command. The games assume that Panama has been invaded and has called on the Organization of American States for assistance.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This article on a fallout survival program being conducted at the Iowa State Penitentiary was written for the Associated Press by Don Reynolds, editor of the prison magazine, the Presidio, by arrangement with State Penal Director Ben Baer. (Reynolds is serving a five year term for Embezzlement).

By DON REYNOLDS
Editor, The Presidio

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Here at the Iowa State Penitentiary, 20 prisoners are undergoing a stiff ordeal to test a program that one day may help a nation survive a nuclear attack.

The 20 inmates, selected from a large group of volunteers, are testing the dietary needs of a person confined for an extended period of time in a fallout shelter.

There is no fallout shelter here. The three-week program, which started last Wednesday, is being conducted in individual cells in Cell House 19 under the close supervision of special guards.

The men are being paid $25 each per week. If they should be removed from the test because of medical reasons they will be paid for the actual time they participated.

The volunteers have varied reasons for taking part in the program.

"To send the money home to my wife and family," one inmate said.

"To attempt to make this test so that at a later date all society could benefit from it," said another.

One prisoner volunteered to lose weight; another because of curiosity.

Dr. Robert Hodges, who is conducting the test, said the plan is to find the simplest food people could survive on in the event they had to live under fallout shelter conditions.

Dr. Hodges, of the University of Iowa Hospital staff, said he is interested in determining the least amount of water that people could get by on while on a shelter-type diet.

The 20 volunteers are limited to one quart of liquid daily.

They are testing three types of survival rations—a cracker type food, a jelly bar and a formula diet.

The inmates were given a chance to test the rations before deciding whether to go on with the experiment.

The diets are handled by Miss Joanne Spalde of the University Hospital. She is distributing them separately as breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The quart of water the men receive daily is distributed as coffee and water in equal portions during the meals.

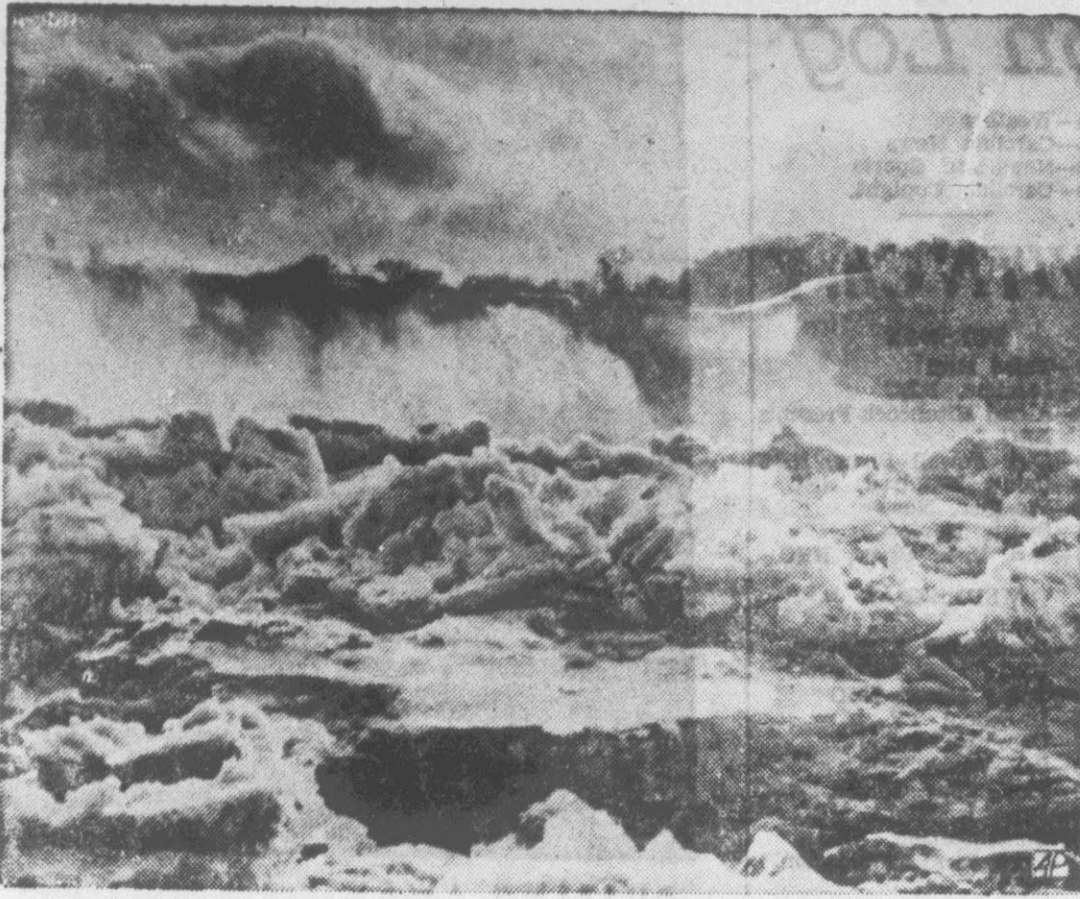

The men are allowed to smoke and continue with their hobbies.

No showers are permitted, but they are given some soapy water with which to wash and shave.

The volunteers are checked daily of their weight, reflexes, pulse and blood pressure. Once a week they are given a blood test and electrocardiogram.

Thus far, each man is enjoying the test. The hardest part, they say, is being confined.

Art Exhibition To Open Here Sunday

Following a week of activity in art circles, an exhibition sponsored by members of Associated Artists of North Carolina will open Sunday at the Greenville Art Center.

Judging for the show is being conducted this week by noted artist Francis Speight of East Carolina College.

The exhibition will have its formal opening Sunday with a reception at the art center, following a meeting at 3 p. m. at Eighth Street Christian Church. William G. Mangum, assistant professor of art at Salem College, will be principal speaker at the general meeting.

Mangum will discuss "Tradition in Modern Art." He received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from the University of North Carolina, and also has studied at Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D. C., Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and the Art Students League of New York.

The speaker has won prizes for his painting at the N. C. Museum of Art in Raleigh, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond and Atlanta Art Association Museum. He won a prize for his drawing at the Isaac Delgado Museum in New Orleans and one of his sculptures took the "best in show" award at the Associated Artists of North Carolina open exhibition.

The exhibition by members and artists approved by the Associated Artists will continue at Greenville Art Center through March 16.

Earlier in the week, the East Carolina Art Society will hold its annual meeting at 6:30 p. m. on Wednesday to elect officers and directors.

Begins Term For Stabbing

CHARLOTTE, (AP) — Joel Lee Saye, 22-year-old unemployed plumber's helper, began serving a 16-20 year prison term today for the stabbing Jan. 2 of a pretty ice skating instructor here.

Saye pleaded guilty to felonious assault on Penny Moore, 20, a Woman's College student who was teaching skating at the Charlotte Coliseum during the Christmas holidays.

Saye also pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, for which he received 8-10 years. He pleaded no contest to a charge of assault with intent to commit rape and was sentenced to another 8-10 years. The terms will run consecutively.

Saye also pleaded no contest to a charge of second degree burglary and was given the minimum sentence of 16-20 years by Superior Court Judge J. Will Pless. Saye had been indicted for the capital crime of first degree burglary but the state did not press for conviction.

Miss Moore, the daughter of Mrs. George R. Moore of Ann Arbor, Mich., testified Saye forced his way into her apartment shortly after a party there broke up and assaulted her.

Music Program For PTA Meet

A program of music by elementary students of Greenville schools and other musicians was presented to members of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School Parent-Teacher Association last week in McGinnis Auditorium.

A string orchestra composed of elementary students presented several selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mary Pasti. Mrs. Theresa Shank is instructor for string music.

Mrs. Pasti later rendered a solo on the violin, with accompaniment at the piano by Mrs. Paul Hickfang.

Nancy Van Veld and Betty Taylor, two band students of James Rodgers, played a duet on the flute. Miss Taylor also played a flute solo. Mrs. Dickie Pierce accompanied the girls at the piano.

Following a short business session, presided over by Mrs. Clay Burnette, president, the meeting adjourned. The Rev. John Drake gave the invocation.

PEACE BUILDUP

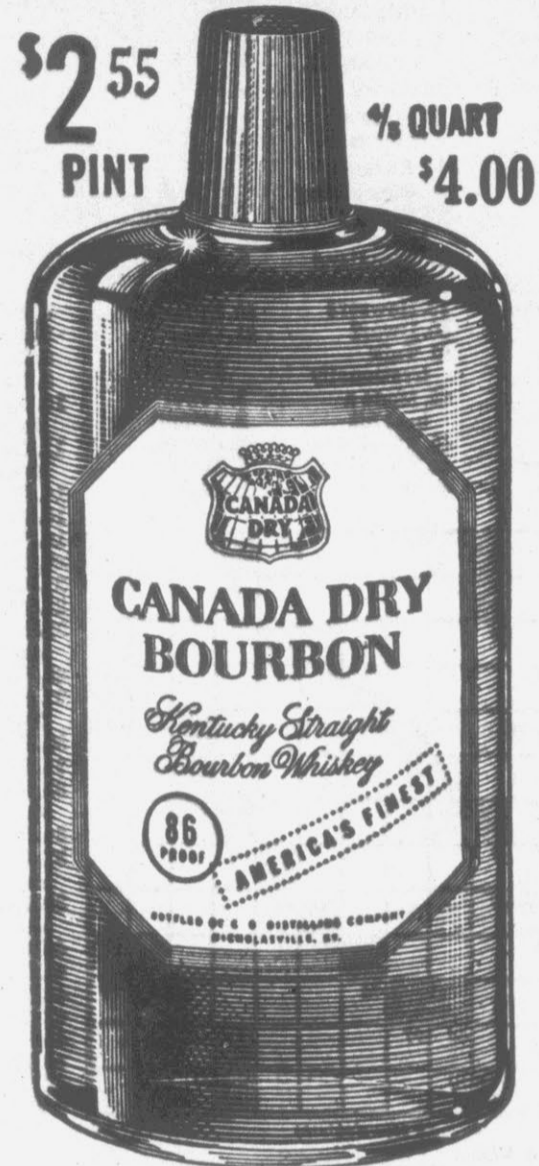

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Methodist Church, launching a nationwide "Race for Peace" program, reports that the program won strong grass roots support in a trial run in the denomination's Southern California-Arizona District.

On the other hand, it is surprising how swiftly the human race responds to immediate developments. Before the Common Market, we had no device to pull Western Europe together; before the advent of De Gaulle, it seemed as though Germany and France would never join forces for the rebuilding of a European society; when the last Summit Conference collapsed and Eisenhower returned to the United States humiliated by Khrushchev there seemed no hope of meeting the Moskovite.

Yet today the West is stronger and grows stronger every day because it has a resilient, meaningful program and even in our own country, the people speak a new and more hopeful language.

These changes do not occur by accident. They represent the ebb and flow of history. We are no longer afraid.

Only Falcon can Out-Falcon Falcon!

Falcon Futura — with twin bucket seats and handy personal console.

Looks like everybody and his kid brother is trying to build a compact like the Falcon, but who's being fooled? They haven't yet caught up with Falcon's lowest prices . . . record gas economy . . . man-size room . . . quality and value! And now for '62, Falcon jumps even farther ahead with many great improvements!

When somebody builds a car that overnight is the greatest success in history with over a million happy owners, some folks are bound to try and get on the band wagon! But as anybody can see, they're not even close! Only Falcon has the lowest price for a real 6-passenger sedan or a 6-cyl. station wagon . . . only Falcon has the widest choice with thirteen models . . . only Falcon has record-breaking gas economy!

And this year, Falcon has even more surprises. Now it goes 6,000 miles between oil changes! Now it has a coolant-antifreeze good for two years or 30,000 miles! Now it has more insulation for an even quieter ride!

Falcon's quality outshines its competitors—from the attractive stainless steel trim of its windshield to the sweetest ride this side of the cradle!

You bet we invite comparison! It's the only way to recognize the genuine article—Falcon, King of the Compacts!

Standard equipment includes an improved version of the Falcon 812 that broke every gas mileage record for 6- or 8-cylinder cars in Motogaz Run's 25-year history! (Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices, including taxes.)

CHAPTER 32
The P. A. system in the ceiling of the Manta spoke clearly. "Watch Officer to Captain. Police officer with urgent message for Commander Bond."

Commander Pedersen pressed a switch and spoke into a desk microphone. "Bring him below. Prepare to cast off lines. All hands prepare for sailing."

The captain waited for the acknowledgment and released the switch. He smiled across at James Bond and Felix Leiter. He said to Bond, "What's the name of that girl? Domino? Well, Domino, say the good word."

The door opened. A police corporal, his hat off, crashed to attention on the steel flooring and extended a stiff arm. Bond took the envelope and slit it open. He ran his eyes down the penciled message signed by the Police Commissioner. Unemotionally he read out:

"Plane returned 1730 hoisted in-board, Disco sailed at 1755, full speed, course northwest. Stop Girl did not Repeat not reappear on deck after boarding."

Bond borrowed a signal blank from the captain and wrote:

"Manta will endeavor shadow via Northwest Providence Channel Stop Fighter bomber squadron from Fort Lauderdale will be asked through Navy Department to cooperate within radius of two hundred miles off Florida coast Stop Manta will keep contact through Windsor Field Air Control Stop Navy Department and Admiralty being informed Stop Please inform Governor also Admiral Carlson and Brigadier Fairchild on arrival."

Bond signed the message and passed it to the captain, who also signed it, as did Leiter. Bond put the message in an envelope and gave it to the corporal, who wheeled smartly and clanked out in his heavy boots.

When the door was shut, the captain pressed down the switch on the intercom. He gave orders to sail, surfaced, course due north, at ten knots.

Bond sat and worried about the significance of the Commissioner's message and about Domino Vitali. It looked bad. It looked as if either the small plane had not brought back the two bombs or one of them, in which case the mobilization of the Manta and of the fighter bombers was a pretty meaningless precaution, hardly justified by the evidence.

It could easily be that the crasher of the Vindicator, and the missing bombs were the work of some entirely different group and that, while they chased the Disco, the field was being left clear for SPECTRE. But Bond's instincts refused to allow him to accept this possibility. As cover, the whole Disco-Largo set-up was one hundred per cent watertight. It could not be faulted in any respect.

That in itself was enough to arouse Bond's suspicions. A plot of this magnitude and audacity could only have been conceived under faultless cover and down to the smallest detail.

Bond, fretted with indecision and the fear that he and Leiter were making majestic fools of themselves, forced himself to face on certainty—he and Leiter and the Manta were engaged on a crazy gamble.

If the bomb was on board, if the Disco veered north for the Grand Bahamas and the missile station, then, by racing up the Northwest Channel, the Manta might intercept her in time.

But if this gamble paid off with all its possibilities of error, why hadn't Domino made her signal? What had happened to her?

The Disco, a dark torpedo leaving a deep, briefly creaming wake, hurtled across the indigo mirror of the sea. In the big stateroom there was silence save for the dull boom of the engines and the soft tinkle of a glass on the sideboard.

Although, as a precaution, the storm shutters were battened down over the portholes, the only light inside came from a single port navigation lantern hung from the roof.

The dim red light only just illuminated the faces of the twenty men sitting round the long table, and the red-and-black-shadowed features, contorting with the slight sway of the top light, gave the scene the appearance of a conspiracy in hell.

At the top of the table, Emilio Largo, his face, though the cabin was air-conditioned, shining with sweat, began to speak. His voice was tense and hoarse with strain. "I have to report that we are in a state of emergency. Half an hour ago, No. 17 found Miss Vitali in the well deck. She was standing fiddling with a camera. When No. 17 came upon her she lifted the camera and pretended to take a photograph of Palmira, although the safety cap was over the lens. No. 17 was suspicious. He reported to me. I went below and took her to her cabin. She struggled with me. I was forced to subdue her by drastic measures. I took the camera and examined it."

Largo paused. He said quietly, "The camera was a fake. It concealed a Geiger counter. The counter was, very naturally, registering over 500 milliroentgens. I brought her back to consciousness and questioned her. She refused to talk. In due course I shall force her to do so and then she will be eliminated. It was time to sail. I again rendered her unconscious and roped her securely to her bunk. I have now summoned this meeting to acquaint you of this occurrence, which I have already reported to No. 2."

Largo was silent. A threatening, exasperated frown came from round the table. No. 14, one of the Germans, said through his teeth, "And what, Mister No. 1, did No. 2 have to say about this?"

"He said we were to carry on. He said the whole world is full of Geiger counters looking for us. The secret services of the whole world have been mobilized against us. Some busybody in Nassau, the police perhaps, was perhaps ordered to have a radiation search made of all ships in the harbor. Perhaps Miss Vitali was bribed to bring the counter on board. But No. 2 said that once we have placed the weapon in the target area there will be nothing to fear."

"I have had the radio operator listening for unusual traffic between Nassau and the Coast. The density is quite normal. If we were suspected, Nassau would be deluged with wireless traffic from London and Washington. But all is quiet. So the operation will proceed as planned. When we are well away from this area, we will dispose of the lead casing of the weapon. The lead casing will contain Miss Vitali."

No. 14 persisted: "But you will first obtain the truth from this woman? It is not pleasant for our future plans to think that we may be under suspicion."

"Interrogation will begin as soon as the meeting is over. If you want my opinion, those two men who came on board yesterday — this Bond and the man Larkin — may be involved. They may be secret agents. The so-called Larkin had a camera. I did not look at it closely, but it was similar to that in the possession of Miss Vitali. I blame myself for not having been more careful with these two men. But their story was convincing.

"On our return to Nassau tomorrow morning, we shall have to be circumspect. Miss Vitali will have fallen overboard. I will work out the details of the story. There will be an inquest. This will be irritating but nothing more. Our witnesses will be unshakable."

A living nightmare awaits Domino Vitali. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Little Hope For A Piano Tuner

NEW YORK (AP)—The city school system, with 5,000 pianos and many of them badly out of tune, advertised not very hopefully Monday for a full-time piano tuner.

Dr. Peter Wilhousky, the Board of Education's director of music, isn't expecting a flood of applications for the piano-tuner examination May 2. The job requires years of experience and has a starting salary of $3,750.

Pianist, Trombonist In Joint Recital Thursday

Two senior students of music at East Carolina College will appear in a joint graduating recital Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Austin auditorium. Sponsored by the college department of music, the program will present Irene Sain Patten of Hildebrand and Mount Olive, pianist; and Jerry M. Liles of Belmont, trombonist, each in a series of selections by outstanding composers.

Betsy B. Orr of Robbinsville will be accompanist. Appearing as instrumentalists with Mr. Liles in the quartet "Scherzo and Dirge" by Sanders will be James Myrick of Roanoke Rapids, Franklin Smith of Fayetteville, and Brett T. Watson of Darlington Heights, Va.

Among Mrs. Patten's selections will be Beethoven's "Bagatelles," op. 119, no. 3; Debussy's "Mists"; and "Three Rondos," No. 1, by Bartok. In addition to the quartet, Mr. Liles will play Marcello's "Sonata in G Minor" and Busser's "Cantabile and Scherzando."

At East Carolina Mrs. Patten is a member of the College Band and the College Choir and acts as student director of the Chapel Choir, a 60-member organization. She also participates in the work of the student chapter of the Music Educators' National Conference and the Baptist Student Union and has served on the staff of the "Buccaneer," college yearbook.

Connie Haines Divorces Pilot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Connie Haines divorced test pilot Robert M. De Haven Monday (testifying he locked the refrigerator when her mother was in the house).

Miss Haines, 40, charged cruelty. She said De Haven, 39, chief test pilot for an aircraft company, was sarcastic and belittled her in front of her friends and family. The court ordered De Haven to pay $700 a month for support of her and two children, Kimberly Marie, 6, and Robert Jr., 5. The couple married in 1951.

Over 275 persons will participate in a door-to-door solicitation to be conducted here on Heart Sunday, Feb. 25, culminating the 1962 Heart Fund Campaign.

Co-chairmen for the Heart Sunday event are Gifford and Vivian Worsley, assisted by team captains representing the Pilot Club of Greenville and the Credit Women's Breakfast Club.

Kits for the door-to-door canvass were packed by members of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority of East Carolina College.

The door-to-door campaign will be conducted between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday. At the end of the canvass, team captains will report to State Bank and Trust Co., headquarters, and turn in their solicitations.

Mrs. Jean Clark.

Another Heart Fund event to be conducted this week is Coffee Day, sponsored by Alpha Phi Sorority, on Thursday, when local merchants will be asked to give their coffee receipts to the Heart Fund.

Last Saturday, members of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity conducted a stunt with Mayor Charles King "in jail" to solicit donations for the Heart Fund. Members of Alpha Phi also helped with Heart Tag Day on Saturday.

Others responsible during the campaign include Mr. and Mrs. Ike Riddick, downtown solicitations; Dr. John Futrell, fund chairman for Pitt County; Dr. Edwin Monroe, medical advisor; Mrs. Rosalie Phillips, downtown solicitation kits; Dr. B. G. Clark, heading various divisions in Greenville; Mrs. Albert Bell and Mrs. Lyman Mills, Pitt County chairmen.

Bob Messner is in charge of publicity.

Jack Tyler, owner and pharmacist of the Pavillion Pharmacy, is chairman of the Heart Fund for Pitt County this year.

If, for some reason, a solicitor does not knock at a resident's door on Sunday and he wishes to contribute to the Heart Fund, he may call State Bank at PL 2-3151 and someone will go by his house to collect the donation.

Jimmy Dorsey's Widow Dies

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Jane Porter Dorsey, divorced wife of the late bandleader Jimmy Dorsey, died from injuries received in a fall, according to police.

Mrs. Dorsey, 50, died Sunday in Glendale Sanitarium from an intercranial hemorrhage. Police investigated when it appeared she might have been struck on the head. Officers said Monday there was no foul play.

Mrs. Dorsey lived alone and apparently fell at her home Saturday.

She married Dorsey in 1928 and divorced him in 1949, complaining he listened to his own records as many as a hundred times in a row.

The bandleader died of cancer in 1957. The couple had one child, a son, John.

Francis Powers Agrees To Lie Detector Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has agreed to take lie detector tests during interrogation by U.S. intelligence officials, informed sources said today.

Use of a polygraph, or lie detector, is not unusual in such sessions, the sources reported.

The informants also said that Powers is not being injected with "truth serum" during his extensive questioning and that he is cooperating fully with intelligence agents.

Where Powers is being questioned has not been disclosed. He has been kept under wraps since his release by the Soviets Feb. 10.

The sources said Powers' period of interrogation may take longer than had been expected. Officials at first figured the questioning would last about two weeks.

Qualified sources say now it could take longer than that for experts to piece from Powers' story an accurate picture of what caused his high-flying reconnaissance plane to go down during a flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960.

How he was shot down was one of the critical mysteries surrounding his ill-starred flight because of the question whether the Soviets had developed a high-altitude anti-aircraft rocket.

The Soviets said they had shot Powers out of the sky at a height of 68,000 feet.

U.S. officials challenged that claim, believing the plane was out of reach of any Soviet weapon. They were inclined to think the U2 was felled by mechanical trouble.

In September 1960 while he was in a Soviet prison, Powers wrote a letter tending to support the Soviet rocket claim. He said in the letter to the New York Times, and published in the Soviet Union by Pravda, that he believed the plane was wrecked by the shock wave of an explosion that glowed as an orange burst that was in the rear of the plane or maybe on the right side.

"Although I did not see what caused the explosion," he wrote from his cell, "I am sure my plane did not blow up by itself."

"All the indicators which register the performance of the engine were in good order until the very moment of the explosion, which I felt and heard."

The plane then began falling apart, he said, and he managed to bail out at 14,000 feet.

Seven Attended Tarboro Session

Seven Pitt County 4-H'ers participated in a 4-H Project Training School in Tarboro recently. It was announced today by Miss A. E. Gore, Negro home agent.

They included Peggie Perkins of Bethel Union School; Amy Mills and Lillie Robbins of Robinson Union School; Annie Tyson of H. B. Sugg High School; Daniel Brown of South Ayden High School; Miles Wilson and Amos Mills of Pitt County Training School.

The purpose of the meeting was to give 4-H'ers training in individual projects and to teach them how to keep records.

Special Election In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A Republican and two Democrats contested today for a vacant seat in the House of Representatives.

The special election was in the 6th congressional District in Queens where enrolled Democrats outnumber Republicans by about 2½ to 1.

One of the Democratic candidates, Benjamin S. Rosenthal, 38, Elmhurst attorney, has the blessings of President Kennedy, Mayor Robert F. Wagner, and the Liberal party as well as his own party.

The other Democrat, Emil Levin, 56, a Flushing lawyer, is running as an independent.

Republican candidate Thomas F. Galvin, 35, a Flushing architect, is making his first try for public office. He received a telegram Monday from Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller wishing him luck in the election.

The House seat in contention was made vacant when Rep. Lester Holtzman, a Democrat-Liberal, was elected to the State Supreme Court.

Rosenthal is regarded as a heavy favorite.

State Sen. Seymour R. Thaler, a Democrat running as an independent, was disqualified when his nominating petitions were ruled invalid because they failed to name a committee on vacancies.

Surprised That Movies False

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Nine Japanese housewives are beginning to think they have seen too many American movies.

"We discovered to our great surprise that mothers and children are very close and that great emphasis is put on the importance of family life," said Mrs. Tomeno Kudo, leader of a study team from Hokkaido Province.

The women are on a tour of the United States to study a great American problem — the family budget.

"We have visited a number of American homes, three in San Francisco and two in Los Angeles," Mrs. Kudo said through an interpreter Monday.

"Maybe we had seen too many high life movies but we thought American mothers were not so close to their families as they are."

The women started their Houston visit by delving into the mysteries of the charge account. They visited a bank, a downtown department store, a supermarket, a discount house and Houston's largest shopping center.

"We have found that American women are very frank and natural in their homes and they are perfectly at ease with us talking about their budgets and their problems," Mrs. Kudo said.

She said Japanese and American women have a common problem—keeping up with the Joneses. "In Japan we call it monkey-like mimicry," she said. "It is causing some housewives to suffer."

Mrs. Kudo, who is president of the Muroran-ski Kanan Women's Association, seemed particularly interested in knowing if steps are taken to make sure American women can afford the things they buy on credit. "Japanese women are not so well protected because we have no bodies like your Better Business Bureau," she said.

WINTON, N. C. (AP)—One hundred years ago today this Hertford County seat was put to the torch by Union troops, the first North Carolina town to be burned in the Civil War.

The raid was preceded by Union occupation of the Outer Banks and control of Albemarle Sound. U. S. gunboats shelled Winton from the Chowan River and troops and the citizens evacuated.

Union forces came ashore and burned about 20 houses and all but a couple of the public and business structures.

Records show that the Oly Smyrna Methodist Church just outside town was converted into a temporary courthouse. The church building was moved into the town about 1870 and made a part of a rebuilt hotel.

Greenvilleite Named To Fraternity Post

William E. Brinkley of Greenville, sophomore school of business major with a minor in mathematics at East Carolina College, has been elected as corresponding secretary of the N. C. Kappa Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, social fraternity at East Carolina, for the 1962-1963 school term. Brinkley will replace Jack Riddick of Belhaven, past corresponding secretary, and will assume his new duties during the middle of spring quarter.

A graduate of J. H. Rose High, Brinkley is an outstanding student at East Carolina. He has completed academic work well above average and for this honor his name has appeared on the Honor Roll during the fall quarter of 1960 and the spring of 1961.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl Brinkley of 1913 East Ninth Street, Greenville.

Pirates Down Guilford 62-54

IT'S AWAY... Charlie Lewis puts in a jump shot after stealing the ball in the Guilford contest last night. The senior co-captain scored 10 points in his last home game for the Pirates. (Reflector Staff Photo)

By CHARLES VAUGHAN Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Earl Smith and the East Carolina Pirates gained their eleventh conference victory of the season last night defeating Guilford 62-54 after the Quakers used possession tactics almost the entire game.

The victory leaves the Bucs with an 11-6 record in the conference and in third place. Lenoir Rhyne finished in the number one spot with a 14-4 record and Western Carolina was second with a 12-6 record.

In the tournament pairings which were drawn Sunday East Carolina will meet fifth place Catawba Thursday night at 7:30. The tournament begins Wednesday night in Lexington with Elon playing Pfeiffer at 7:30 p.m. and Lenoir Rhyne meeting High Point in the second game.

Co-captains Charlie Lewis and Benny Bowes, who were playing their last game on their home court, turned in a fine performance for the Pirates in the victory over Guilford. Bowes grabbed a lion's share of the rebounds as well as stealing the ball several times. Lewis, an outstanding ball player for the Bucs throughout the season, scored a total of 13 points. He was also credited with setting up opportunities on several occasions for his other teammates to score.

Control Game Guilford surprised the Pirates last night by playing a strictly control ball game. The Quakers took only about ten shots the entire first half which gave the Pirates few opportunities to score. However, the Bucs managed to pull ahead of Guilford 26-17 at the end of the first half.

The Quakers came back to the court in the second half to begin to speed up the contest. East Carolina easily maintained their lead and Coach Smith found the chance to send in all of his substitutes. Lacy West scored 12 points in the second stanza to lead the Pirates to victory.

Early in the first half, Mike Alldred sent the Guilford Quakers into front of the Pirates by a score of 2-0. With 16 minutes remaining in the first stanza, Lacy West sank a field goal to tie the game 2-2. East Carolina then went on to increase their lead 8-5 with 12 minutes remaining in the half.

The Quakers refused to play a fast ball game as they froze the ball for the majority of the half. Jon Burwell sank a field goal for Guilford late in the initial stanza to pull the Quakers within one point of the Bucs. However, Charlie Lewis hit the nets for six points in the last two minutes to send the Pirates to a 26-17 half-time lead.

Second Half FASTER The two teams returned to the court for the second half beginning with a much faster contest. The Pirates managed to increase their lead to 12 points early in the second stanza on a basket by Lacy West. However, Guilford managed to cut the Pirate lead to 9 points with 12 minutes remaining in the contest. Lacy West then scored four straight points for the Bucs to send them ahead of the Quakers 48-32.

Sends In Subs

Coach Smith withdrew all of his starting five from the ball game with eight minutes left on the clock and began playing his substitutes. Russell Knowles, sophomore forward, immediately scored two points to give East Carolina its largest lead of the night, 50-32. With five minutes left in the contest, Guilford rallied its forces to score four straight baskets and pulled within 11 points of the Pirates. Coach Smith then returned his starting five and they went on to win 62-54.

East Carolina was led by Lacy West who scored a game high total of 18 points. Also in double figures for East Carolina was co-captain Charlie Lewis with six field goals and one free throw for a total of 13 points.

Jon Burwell and Mike Alldred led Guilford with 18 and 11 points respectively. They were the only men in double figures for the visitors.

Incidentally, both teams had a remarkable shooting percentage from the free throw line in last night's contest. Guilford scored eight for eleven from the foul line, while East Carolina hit eight for nine.

East Carolina travels to Lexington Wednesday night to compete in the Carolinas Conference Tournament. The Pirates meet Catawba Thursday night in their first game of the tournament.

It's Tenth In Row For Ohio

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer

For the tenth straight week Ohio State's brilliant Buckeyes are the unanimous choice today as major college basketball's No. 1 team.

The Bucks, who pushed their record to 20-0 with two more victories last week, drew all 43 first-place votes again in the 11th weekly balloting by the members of The Associated Press' special nationwide panel of sportswriters and sportscasters.

Ohio State wound up with a 60-point edge over Cincinnati, which moved up to second place after the runner-up of the last few weeks, Kentucky, was beaten by Mississippi State. Kentucky fell to third, just ahead of Kansas State, which held its position of last week.

Mississippi State moved up to fifth, Bradley dropped a notch to sixth, Bowling Green jumped from tenth to seventh. Duke slipped one position to eighth. Colorado—on a 10-game winning streak after losing five of its first nine games—entered the Top Ten in ninth place, and Oregon State fell from sixth to tenth. Duquesne, beaten by Westminster (Pa.) and Dayton, dropped out of the select group.

The Top Ten based on games through Feb. 17, with first-place votes in parenthesis, balloting on 10-9-8-7-6 etc basis:

- 1. Ohio State (43) 430
2. Cincinnati 370
3. Kentucky 309
4. Kansas State 289
5. Mississippi State 239
6. Bradley 227
7. Bowling Green 135
8. Duke 116
9. Colorado 64
10. Oregon State 42

Boston Red Sox Sign Gary Geiger Monday

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox have signed outfielder Gary Geiger, who'll be trying to storm up the comeback trail after a 1960 season in which his lung collapsed and a 1961 campaign in which his batting average did the same.

Geiger, who agreed to terms with the Red Sox Monday along with pitchers Gene Conley and Billy Muffett, has had an uphill climb since he reached the majors with Cleveland in 1958 and was converted from a pitcher to an outfielder.

Traded to Boston in 1959 in a deal that sent outfielder Jimmy Piersall to the Indians, Geiger hit at a .245 clip for the Red Sox, and zoomed through the first half of the 1960 season with a .302 average. Then his lung collapsed.

Geiger, who will be 25 in April, had to sit out the rest of the season. When he returned last year he was only able to compile a .232 mark although he hit 18 homers. Now fully recovered, he is being given first shot at the center field berth.

Conley, a hard-throwing, 6-foot-8 right-hander who has had moderate success both as a pro basketball player and as a pitcher, apparently is making baseball No. 1 this year.

He has arranged to leave New York of the American Basketball League in time for spring training. In the past, playing for the National Basketball Association, Conley has waited to start baseball after basketball ended.

Conley, who posted an 11-14 record last year, had his best season with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1959 when he compiled a 12-7 mark.

The Minnesota Twins got home run slugger Harmon Killebrew on the dotted line and the Chicago White Sox landed three key players—second baseman Nellie Fox, outfielder Floyd Robinson and baseman Al Smith. Pitcher Stan Williams signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers and outfielder Felipe Alou with the San Francisco Giants.

The Twins said Killebrew, who hit .288 and smacked 46 homers, received a "substantial increase" over his 1961 paycheck. Fox took a slight cut from his salary of about $50,000 after hitting only .251. Robinson was the top White Sox hitter with a .310 average while Smith hit .278 and led the team in homers with 28 and runs batted in with 93.

Williams, who struck out 204 batters last season, had a 15-12 record and a 3.91 earned run average. Alou, whose brother Matty still is on the Giants unsigned list, batted .289 with 18 homers and 53 RBI.

GW And W&M Contest Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two dragon-slayers of the 1961 Southern Conference basketball tournament meet tonight in a game that can go a long way toward deciding whether both will be present when the 1962 tournament starts next week.

It's George Washington versus William and Mary in the pivotal tiff at Ft. Myer, Va., which throws into sharp relief the low ebb to which some of the conference mighty have fallen since last season.

A little less than one year ago, GW and W&M were the finalists in the title tournament at Richmond. GW won, but the Indians provided the tourney's biggest shocker by knocking off potent West Virginia, which was seeking a seventh straight championship. In the second round, George Washington barely squeezed into the 1961 tournament field with a dismal 3-9 record; W&M made it easily. But tonight the positions will be precisely reversed.

GW already has clinched a tournament spot with a 5-6 conference record. William and Mary, on the other hand, has a 4-10 conference mark that leaves the Indians in dire peril of missing the trip to the Richmond Arena.

The Colonials will be favored, largely because they're 7-3 on their home court and because the explosive offense that W&M flashed in a 102-84 blitz of VMI last Saturday may not be exportable from the Indians' cozy home court in Williamsburg.

William and Mary (6-2), Richmond (5-9) and The Citadel (3-8) currently are engaged in a fierce, last-week battle for seventh and eighth places in the conference standings. The ninth-place team doesn't get to Richmond for the all-important tournament.

Richmond, which lost its latest opportunity to nail down a tourney berth Monday night when the Spiders bowed at Furman (8-4) by 79-54, goes to Davidson (4-5) tonight in another key conference match.

West Virginia's regular-season champions, meantime, go after their 20th victory of the season in a non-conference game with Penn State on the WVU court at Morgantown. The Mountaineers are 19-5 overall.

Richmond didn't put a single player in twin scoring figures Monday night in its lop-sided loss at Furman, which by winning clinched at least third place in the final conference standings.

Jerry Smith matched his season average by dumping in 27 points for the Paladins, and Gerald Glur collected 18 points plus 18 rebounds. Danny Higgins paced Richmond with nine points.

No other conference clubs played last night.

S. Ayden Boys And Girls Win Tourney

FARMVILLE—The South Ayden Eagles captured two victories in the final round of the Pitt County Interscholastic Athletic Association Tournament here Saturday night with the girls' team downing the Robinson Union girls 25-14 and the boys defeating H. B. Sugg 54-43.

In the boys' game South Ayden took the lead in the first period and by the end of the half they held an eight point lead with the score 29-21. The Eagles managed to increase their lead in the second half to win the contest and the championship.

The high scorer for the winners was J. Brown with 24 points. He was followed by C. Becton with 17 points and W. Kilpatrick with 10 points. For Sugg the high scorer was T. Dupree with 15 points and the second man was E. Pitt with 10 points.

Gamecocks Meet Fourth Place Clemson Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The strutting Gamecocks of South Carolina, itching to get into the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament after a commendable weekend showing, meet Clemson tonight in a game that should stir plenty of action.

South Carolina came out of the weekend pair of North-South doubleheaders in Charlotte, N.C., with a 6-6 fourth place tie with North Carolina, winning one and losing one. Clemson, twice defeated in the doubleheader, settled in seventh place with a 2-9 loop mark.

Meanwhile, Monday night, the Duke Blue Devils slipped into a second place tie with North Carolina State by defeating Virginia 97-71. Duke and N.C. State now have 10-3 league records, following first place Wake Forest (10-2).

In another Monday night game, North Carolina beat Maryland 70-67 at Chapel Hill, avenging a 79-62 defeat by the Terps at College Park, Md., Feb. 6. The Tar Heels jumped ahead of South Carolina for undisputed fourth place with a 7-6 league record.

South Carolina led N.C. State most of the way last Friday night before losing 76-75 then beat North Carolina 97-82 Saturday night. Clemson also lost in the final seconds to N.C. State 73-71 last Saturday night after bowing to North Carolina 69-59 Friday night. The Tigers came out of the doubleheader with a 2-9 league record, settling in seventh place.

Earlier this season, South Carolina beat Clemson 89-74 at Columbia, S.C., putting the Gamecocks ahead 57-32 in the long and hard-fought series between the South Carolina rivals. Tonight, the Gamecocks will be fighting to slip back into a fourth place tie with North Carolina.

Larry Brown sparked the Tar Heel attack Monday night with 26 points. His backcourt buddy, Don Walsh, scored 16 points.

Maryland lost a nine-point lead in the first half then fell behind by the same margin with five minutes left in the game. Jerry Greenspan was high for the losers with 21 points. The Terps now have a 3-9 conference slate and are in sixth place.

In the Duke - Virginia game, Duke's Art Heyman scored 32 and Jeff Mullins 31 in the Blue Devils' 18th victory of the season.

Virginia's Tony Laquintano, held to eight points in a previous loss to Duke, scored 25 points. It was Virginia's ninth consecutive defeat. The Cavaliers are now in the league cellar with a 1-11 loop record.

Wednesday night, Virginia is at Maryland and Wake Forest is at N.C. State.

Carolinas Tourney Begins Wednesday

By KEN ALYTA

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—High Point's Panthers won't have long to wait for another crack at Lenoir Rhyne's Bears who clawed out a double overtime victory over them last Saturday night.

The two Carolinas Conference rivals meet in the first round of the league basketball tournament opening Wednesday night at Lexington's YMCA.

Lenoir Rhyne, with a 14-4 record, won regular season honors and top seeding in the tournament. High Point tied for fifth with Catawba at 11-9.

High Point gave the Bears two rugged games this season, beating them 71-69 at High Point and losing at Hickory 98-92 in the marathon three nights ago. The second game was one of the most unusual of the season. High Point bucketed 40 baskets, 10 more than Lenoir Rhyne. But a 38-45 free-throw line job against High Point's 12 of only 17 attempts, gave Lenoir Rhyne the edge.

Jerry Wells of the Bears stuffed 44 points through the nets, including 22 foul shots on 25 attempts. High Point won last year's tournament, but the title was declared vacant later after it was learned the Panthers used an ineligible player.

The High Point-Lenoir Rhyne game at 9:15 Wednesday will follow.

Phants Travel To Kinston

Greenville's Rose High School Phantoms travel to Kinston tonight for their second meeting with the Red Devils and their next to last game of the season.

At the present time the Phantoms have a 6-6 record in the conference and a 6-10 overall record. In the last contest between the two schools Greenville came out on top in the final second of play 52-51.

Friday night Greenville will host Washington in their last game of the current campaign and next week all teams in the 5 Northeastern Conference will get ready for the tournament to be held in the East Carolina College gym.

At the present time Roanoke Rapids is leading the conference and New Bern is in second place.

Will Not Defend His Title

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—A new titleholder will be determined in the tournament of golf club champions getting started at the Ponce de Leon course today.

Larry Beck of Greensboro, N.C., winner last year, has joined the professional ranks and will not be back to defend his crown. A 36-hole qualifying round — 18 holes today and 18 Wednesday — will be shot by the field of approximately 100.

The low 32 scorers will be placed in the championship flight for match play that starts Thursday. The title round is scheduled for Sunday.

County Games

One conference game is scheduled tonight in the Pitt County Conference tonight. Chicod will host Farmville in a makeup game that was originally scheduled for Jan. 12.

Belvoir-Falkland will host Oak City and Stokes-Pactolus will travel to Bear Grass for non-conference games tonight.

In nearby Martin County Robersonville will host Williamston in a non-conference contest.

UNC's Track Coach To Help Cubs Next Week

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—A soft-spoken college track coach who last summer saw his first professional baseball game in 10 years hopes to help lift the Chicago Cubs out of the second division doldrums in which they've been ensnared for 15 years.

Dale Ranson of the University of North Carolina, whose prize track pupil of a few years ago now is the country's premier pitcher, Jim Beatty, is going to spend next week at the National League club's Mesa, Ariz., training camp to help prepare the Bruins. He believes that improved physical condition also means a better mental approach to the game.

He emphasizes, "We're not planning to make trackmen out of the Cubs. It's just that we want to improve their quickness and agility, both on the bases and in the field."

"You know, if a runner can get down to a base two feet sooner or an infielder can get the ball away an instant sooner it can mean the difference between a good and a bad inning."

Ranson made the Cubs a special project last year when Gene Lawing, secretary of the Chicago team's minor league club operations, asked him if he knew of a college track coach who would be interested in teaching the Cubs how to improve their running.

Ranson, a 36-year veteran of the coaching profession, told Lawing he'd like a crack at the assignment. The Cubs were especially interested in improving the condition of their pitchers.

Ranson prepared a detailed series of spring training running exercises for the entire squad. Cub Vice President John Holland was enthusiastic over the results.

He recalled that Ranson had the players jog across the field, then step it up to a sprint, then back to a jog, but never were they allowed to walk.

Ranson spent a month observing the Cubs in action last summer. Then he spent another month watching their farm teams at Morristown, Tenn.; St. Cloud, Minn.; Carlsbad, N.M.; San Antonio and Wenatchee, Wash.

He studied the players' physical makeup, their moves and their speed.

A couple of months ago he sent each Cub a letter with personalized instruction aimed at keeping him in shape in the off-season.

"We want to develop stamina as well as speed, to enable pitchers to go all the way," Ranson asserted.

Holland pointed out, "Ranson is stressing flexibility and quickness of movement, such as an infielder requires. One fellow he helped greatly in that respect was (third baseman) Ron Santo."

When the Cubs report to Ranson next week they'll be put through a daily schedule of running exercises.

It's another experiment for the Cubs who startled the baseball world last year by operating with a staff of coaches rather than a manager assisted by coaches — and finishing seventh.

Ranson concedes that Cubs' problem is not just physical. He's hoping that by boosting their agility he will add to their power and strength and effect a change in attitude that will be reflected in a higher standing.

"They have a talented group of players," he observed. "Their capabilities are not too far behind those of the other major league teams."

MIT Emerges As A Tourney Contender

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—From the land of the cyclotron and the super-scientist comes an athletic wonder. Massachusetts Institute of Technology's basketball team has emerged as a tournament contender.

The Engineers never have produced a team like the current record-shattering five. The ground rules are the same as when Tech undertook the game in 1900—no recruiting, no athletic scholarships.

And there is no charge for the public to watch this "gung ho" band temporarily swap their slide rules for set shots.

MIT's 12-4 record puts it in a bracket with St. Anselm's of Manchester, N. H., and Fairfield (Conn.) University among the top New England candidates for the regional NCAA small college playoffs March 9-10.

If a tournament bid is offered, MIT won't hesitate to accept.

"Our policy is that we'll support a group of athletes as far as their ability will take them," an athletic department spokesman said today. "The students must not suffer an excessive loss of class time, of course, but we do not feel a basketball tournament would result in such a loss."

MIT's 10-game winning streak and 12-victory total are school records. Captain Dave Koch of Wichita, Kan., a 6-foot-5, 180-pounder typical of the lean, hungry Tech athlete, and Coach Jack Barry are the leading figures behind an unusual success story.

Through the years Tech teams have won about 40 per cent of their games but in the decade preceding Barry's arrival it fell to 30 per cent.

Barry was hired before the 1959-60 season from Methuen, Mass., High where he took his teams to the Eastern States Tournament seven straight years. At MIT, Barry found a relaxed family atmosphere with the basketball emphasis on mass participation through an intermural program permitting 700 of the 3,700 undergraduates to play.

The boys whose varsity careers started with the Barry regime "are my seniors now," the coach proclaims proudly. "Koch set a single game scoring record with his 41 points against Middlebury last week and his career total of 895 points is another," Barry says.

"Little Chuck Gamble (5-9, 150, Littleton, Colo.) is our playmaker. The two have backboned us."

Juniors Jeff Peary (6-0, 165, Broomall, Pa.) and Kent Groninger (6-1, 170, Akron, Ind.) plus sophomore Bill Eagleson (6-5, 200, Washington, D. C.) are the other starters with senior Steve Smith (6-1, 180, Woodstown, N.J.) the sixth man. Senior Tom Burns was to have been a regular but was sidelined by illness.

Although MIT's starting five works as a unit 80 per cent of every game, no player is cut and all 15 squadmen who started still report faithfully.

Frank Leading CC Scoring

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Bobby Frank of Pfeiffer goes in to the Carolinas Conference's annual basketball tournament opening at Lexington Wednesday night as the No. 1 scorer.

Frank, 6-8 senior from Greensboro, completed the regular season for the Falcons with an average of 21.9 points per contest.

Eilon's Dewey Andrew is the No. 2 scorer on a 21.0 average and stands a chance of overtaking Frank in post-season activity.

The final scoring championship depends upon how far the teams go into post-season play and upon how well they do in the scoring action.

David Hawk of Newberry leads the conference in field goal accuracy, hitting 159 of 262 attempts for 60.6 per cent. Roger Snow of Catawba has hit 43 of 48 tosses the free throw line for 89.6 per cent.

Frank leads in total points scored with 593 and in rebounds with an average of 19.1 per game.

Leif O. Nordlie is in his 16th season as coach of West Point's lacrosse team.

ly atmosphere with the basketball emphasis on mass participation through an intermural program permitting 700 of the 3,700 undergraduates to play.

The boys whose varsity careers started with the Barry regime "are my seniors now," the coach proclaims proudly. "Koch set a single game scoring record with his 41 points against Middlebury last week and his career total of 895 points is another," Barry says.

Cincinnati Back In Running

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ever since last March, the University of Cincinnati has been pointing to the current basketball season with just one thought in mind—to get another shot at Ohio State in the NCAA postseason tournament.

The Bearcats have had their ups and downs and just a month ago, appeared ready to roll over and play dead when they lost to archrival Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference.

But they're back in the running today and, in fact, unless the fates go against them they should make the NCAA tournament again.

Monday night, they turned the tables on Bradley, 72-57, on their home court and pulled into a tie with the Braves for the conference lead, each with 9-2 records. Each has one more league game.

Should Cincinnati win the Missouri Valley title and the NCAA berth, Bradley probably would wind up in the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

The NCAA needs 10 at-large teams to round out its list of conference champions. The MIT field consists of 12 teams. Each took four in the opening blasts Monday.

Here is how they line up:
NCAA—Oregon State (17-3), Creighton (16-4), Detroit (14-7) and Villanova (16-6).

NIT—Providence (16-5), Duquesne (16-5), Loyola of Chicago (16-2) and Houston (18-5).

Ron Bonham and George Wilson, a couple of sophomore flashers, were the main architects of the Cincinnati triumph. Bonham scored 20 points, 16 in the first half, and Wilson chipped in with 16, along with 14 rebounds.

The Bearcats held Chet Walker, Bradley's All-America, to 16 points, 11 less than his average.

Kentucky had its troubles, but managed to hang on for an 87-80 victory over Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference game—mainly through the efforts of Cotton Nash, who scored 38 points.

Two other members of the top 10 also won. Mississippi State, No. 5, also had its problems before subduing Georgia, 83-74, to stay in the SEC lead, while Duke, No. 8, rolled to an easy 97-71 Atlantic Coast Conference decision over Virginia.

Both Creighton and Loyola of Chicago celebrated their NCAA and NIT bids with victories. Creighton ran its winning streak to seven by whipping Centenary of Louisiana, 77-70, and Loyola trampled St. Norbert, 105-52.

Western Kentucky won the Ohio Valley Conference crown by defeating Morehead, 77-51 to join Arizona State University (Border) and Bowling Green Mid-America) as an automatic qualifier for the NCAA tournament.

In the Big Ten, Iowa outlasted Michigan State, 59-51; Wisconsin remained in second place behind undefeated Ohio State by edging Illinois, 103-101, and Indiana cut down Michigan, 86-77, with Jim Maryland, 70-67, in the only Atlantic Coast Conference game of the night.

Runyan Win PGA Seniors Tourney

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Old timers will remember Paul Runyan as one of the greatest golfers, but at the age of 53 he has just earned the biggest prize of his life—$2,000 first money as the PGA Seniors champion.

It was a repeat performance for Runyan, a former PGA champion and twice top money winner on the pro tour. But those were the days before World War II when prize money was small.

The La Jolla, Calif., veteran finished with a 278 Monday, 10 under par for 72 holes and tied the record he set in this tournament for pro 50 and over last year.

The PGA National Course played to a tough par 72 in the final round and not many of the veteran pros cracked it. Runyan closed with 33-37—70 for a tourney card of 71-69-68-70—285.

And it was far better than the 75 by Jimmy Demaret of Houston and by Joe Brown of West Des Moines, Iowa, who were leading after 54 holes.

Brown, E.J. (Dutch) Harrison of San Francisco and Ernie Ball of Oak Park, Ill., who finished with 71, tied for second at 281.

Junior High Tops Farmville

The Greenville Junior High school basketball team finished its regular season action Friday night by downing Farmville 56-36.

The win left Greenville with a 6-5 record for the season and the loss was Farmville's first leaving them with a 9-1 record for the season.

In the Farmville game Friday night Ricky Webb, Steve Fuller, and Brantley Register led Greenville in the scoring department. Webb had 17 points, Fuller 13 and Register 10. Jeff Jenkins and Frank Owens were the defensive leaders for Greenville.

Webb also led the Greenville team for the season with a 16 point average. Jenkins and Register both had seven point averages.

Fuller and Register were the rebound leaders for Greenville and Owens headed up the defense for the season.

Other boys on the team were Dickie Wade, Billy Ippock, Ben Coleman, Danny Keel, Van Harrington, and Bobby Tripp.

In commenting on the season in general, Coach Earl Castellow said, "The boys worked hard and I am proud of them."

Littler Leading In Top Money

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Gene Littler still leads the pack among the professional golf's top money winners, thanks to a third-place finish in last week's Tucson Open.

The $1,175 payoff gave Littler a total of $15,361 for the year.

Phil Rodgers, who won at Tucson, jumped a notch in the standings—from third to second. His $2,800 victory check gave him a total of $13,633. Arnold Palmer is third with $12,425.

Prep Scores

STOKES—Coach Blaine Moye's Winterville Wolves gained their eleventh victory of the season last night in a makeup game with Stokes-Pactolus when they downed the Blue Jays 56-39.

Winterville took the lead early in the first period of the game and at the half held a 14 point margin with the score 29-15. The Wolves went on to increase their lead in the second half for the win.

The high scorer of the night for Winterville was Jay Hill with 18 points. He was followed by Bryan Hobgood with 10 points. Topping the scoring column for Stokes-Pactolus were Clifton Butler and Franklin Conleton with six points each.

Earlier in the night the Winterville girls also came out on top by a score of 54-25 as they gained their ninth victory of the season.

The Wolves also took an early lead in this contest and were leading at the half 25-16. In the second half Winterville managed to increase their margin for the victory. The loss was the sixth of the season for the Blue Jays against seven wins.

The high scorer for the winners was Cora Worthington with 25 points. The only other player to hit the doubles mark was Carolyn Barnes with 11 points. The high scorer for Stokes-Pactolus was Jennie Forbes with 11 points.

Tonight Stokes-Pactolus will play at Bear Grass in a non-conference game. Winterville is idle until Friday when they host Farmville.

Heavy Snow For Border Regions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy snows which whipped across the Midwest into the Northeast diminished today as cold air spread across northern border regions.

More rain doused the water-soaked areas of Southern California but tapered off after Monday's heavy downpours.

The belt of snow or snow flurries extended from Indiana and the eastern upper Great Lakes to the Atlantic Coast from Maryland and New Jersey northward into New England. Skies were mostly clear in the Midwest snow belt.

The storm abated in southern New England but fairly heavy snow continued in coastal sections of Maine. The storm dumped snow ranging from 8 to 12 inches atop last Thursday's heavy covering of up to 20 inches.

In New York State, snow amounts ranged up to 20 inches on the ground in Glens Falls in the northeast, 16 in Albany and 7 in Plattsburgh. Roads and streets were generally slick or slushy.

Arctic air from Canada dropped temperatures to below zero in the eastern Dakotas and northwestern Minnesota.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 8 below in Aberdeen, S.D., to 74 in Key West, Fla., and 70 in Brownsville, Tex., and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Wife Divorces 'The Rifleman'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"He didn't seem to need the family any more," said Elizabeth Connors as she divorced actor Chuck Connors, a former major league baseball player.

She blamed his inattention of transition from the diamond to television's "The Rifleman" series. "I guess all the adulation and stuff was what he needed more than anything," said Mrs. Connors, 33, at the hearing Monday.

She told a Superior Court judge that Connors "broke up the house and contents on several occasions," said he didn't love her, wished he hadn't married her and couldn't even stand to look at her. They married Oct. 1, 1957, while Connors was playing for Montreal of the International League. The couple separated July 28, 1961.

Connors, 40, agreed to pay $2,150 a month support and give Mrs. Connors the couple's Woodland Hills home and half of his 10 per cent interest in "The Rifleman."

Cave-In Trapped Seven 26 Hours

TOKYO (AP)—Seven workers were rescued today after being trapped for 26 hours by a cave-in inside a tunnel under construction at a dam site in northern Kyushu, police reported.

Eight workers were entombed by the cave-in Monday but one was rescued shortly afterwards. The other seven were supplied with fresh air through a pipe.

Shell engineer uses stethoscope to help detect noise the ear alone can't hear. Today's Super Shell fights three different engine noises to give you top performance.

NOISY ENGINE?

Super Shell's nine ingredients include 3 noise-fighters for top performance. Alkylate fights high-speed knock. TCP fights wild ping. And an anti-knock mix fights ordinary knock.

Here are the facts on 3 pesky engine noises. Why they may be signs of trouble. How one of them could be pounding away in your engine without your knowing it. And how today's Super Shell fights them all.

SHELL scientists will tell you that good gasoline should fight these three engine noises:

- High-speed knock—a form of knock that can be damaging, even though it's often hard to hear. Our picture above shows one way that Shell scientists check for it.

- Wild ping—a sudden, erratic clatter that's usually caused by gasoline igniting before it should.

- Plain, old everyday knock—the familiar, irritating noise that has plagued motorists for years.

Each of these problems calls for a different solution. That's why Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend includes 3 different noise-fighters. If you value your car's engine, the few minutes it takes to read about these noise-fighting ingredients may be well worth your while.

Noise #1. High-speed knock—how Super Shell fights it

High-speed knock makes a sharp, high-pitched noise—like metal tapping against metal. And because it's most likely to occur in hot engines at turnpike speeds—when the wind is really whistling past your car—high-speed knock may be difficult to hear.

But even though you may not hear it, high-speed knock can be bad for your engine. It can pound away at pistons—even lead to costly damage.

Fortunately, high-speed knock isn't too common. But Shell scientists have known about it for a long time. Ever since they pioneered the development of a substance called Alkylate. That was over 20 years ago. Alkylate was used then to combat hot-engine knock in aircraft—a very serious problem at that time. Today, Alkylate is an ingredient in Super Shell gasoline.

Noise #2. Wild ping—how Super Shell fights it

Wild ping doesn't last long. Usually just a few seconds. It sounds like the erratic beat of a nervous drummer.

This clatter is actually a series of premature explosions. Not very good for your engine.

They're caused by glowing deposits that ignite the fuel too soon.

Super Shell's famous TCP* additive tackles this problem at the source.

It acts to "fireproof" deposits that might glow and cause trouble. Result: chance of wild ping is greatly reduced.

Noise #3. Ordinary knock—how Super Shell fights it

Most people have heard ordinary knock at one time or another. A Shell expert describes it this way: "Sounds like marbles dropping into an empty oil drum."

Super Shell's anti-knock mix is so powerful that a teaspoon per gallon is enough to raise anti-knock rating a full five points.

This anti-knock mix helps regulate the combustion of today's Super Shell. Thus, each piston gets a firm, even push. Not a sharp, jarring jolt. Result: your engine runs more quietly.

IMPORTANT: If your engine knocks persistently, it could be that your ignition timing is out of adjustment. Ask your Shell dealer to take care of this for you!

Now that you know how Super Shell's three noise-fighters work, take a moment more to read how the other ingredients in Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend help your car give you top performance.

How Super Shell's other ingredients help you get top performance

Cat-cracked gasoline helps you get smooth, even power. It's made by actually tearing petroleum apart.

Gum preventive helps keep carburetors clean inside.

Platformate is for extra mileage.

Butane is the quick-starting ingredient. It's so lively it could even boil on ice.

Pentane mix acts like kindling in a log fire, helps speed the warm-up process.

Anti-icer (added in cold weather) helps check carburetor icing that can stall you fast.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U. S. Patent 2889212.

MONKEYING with ROCKETS

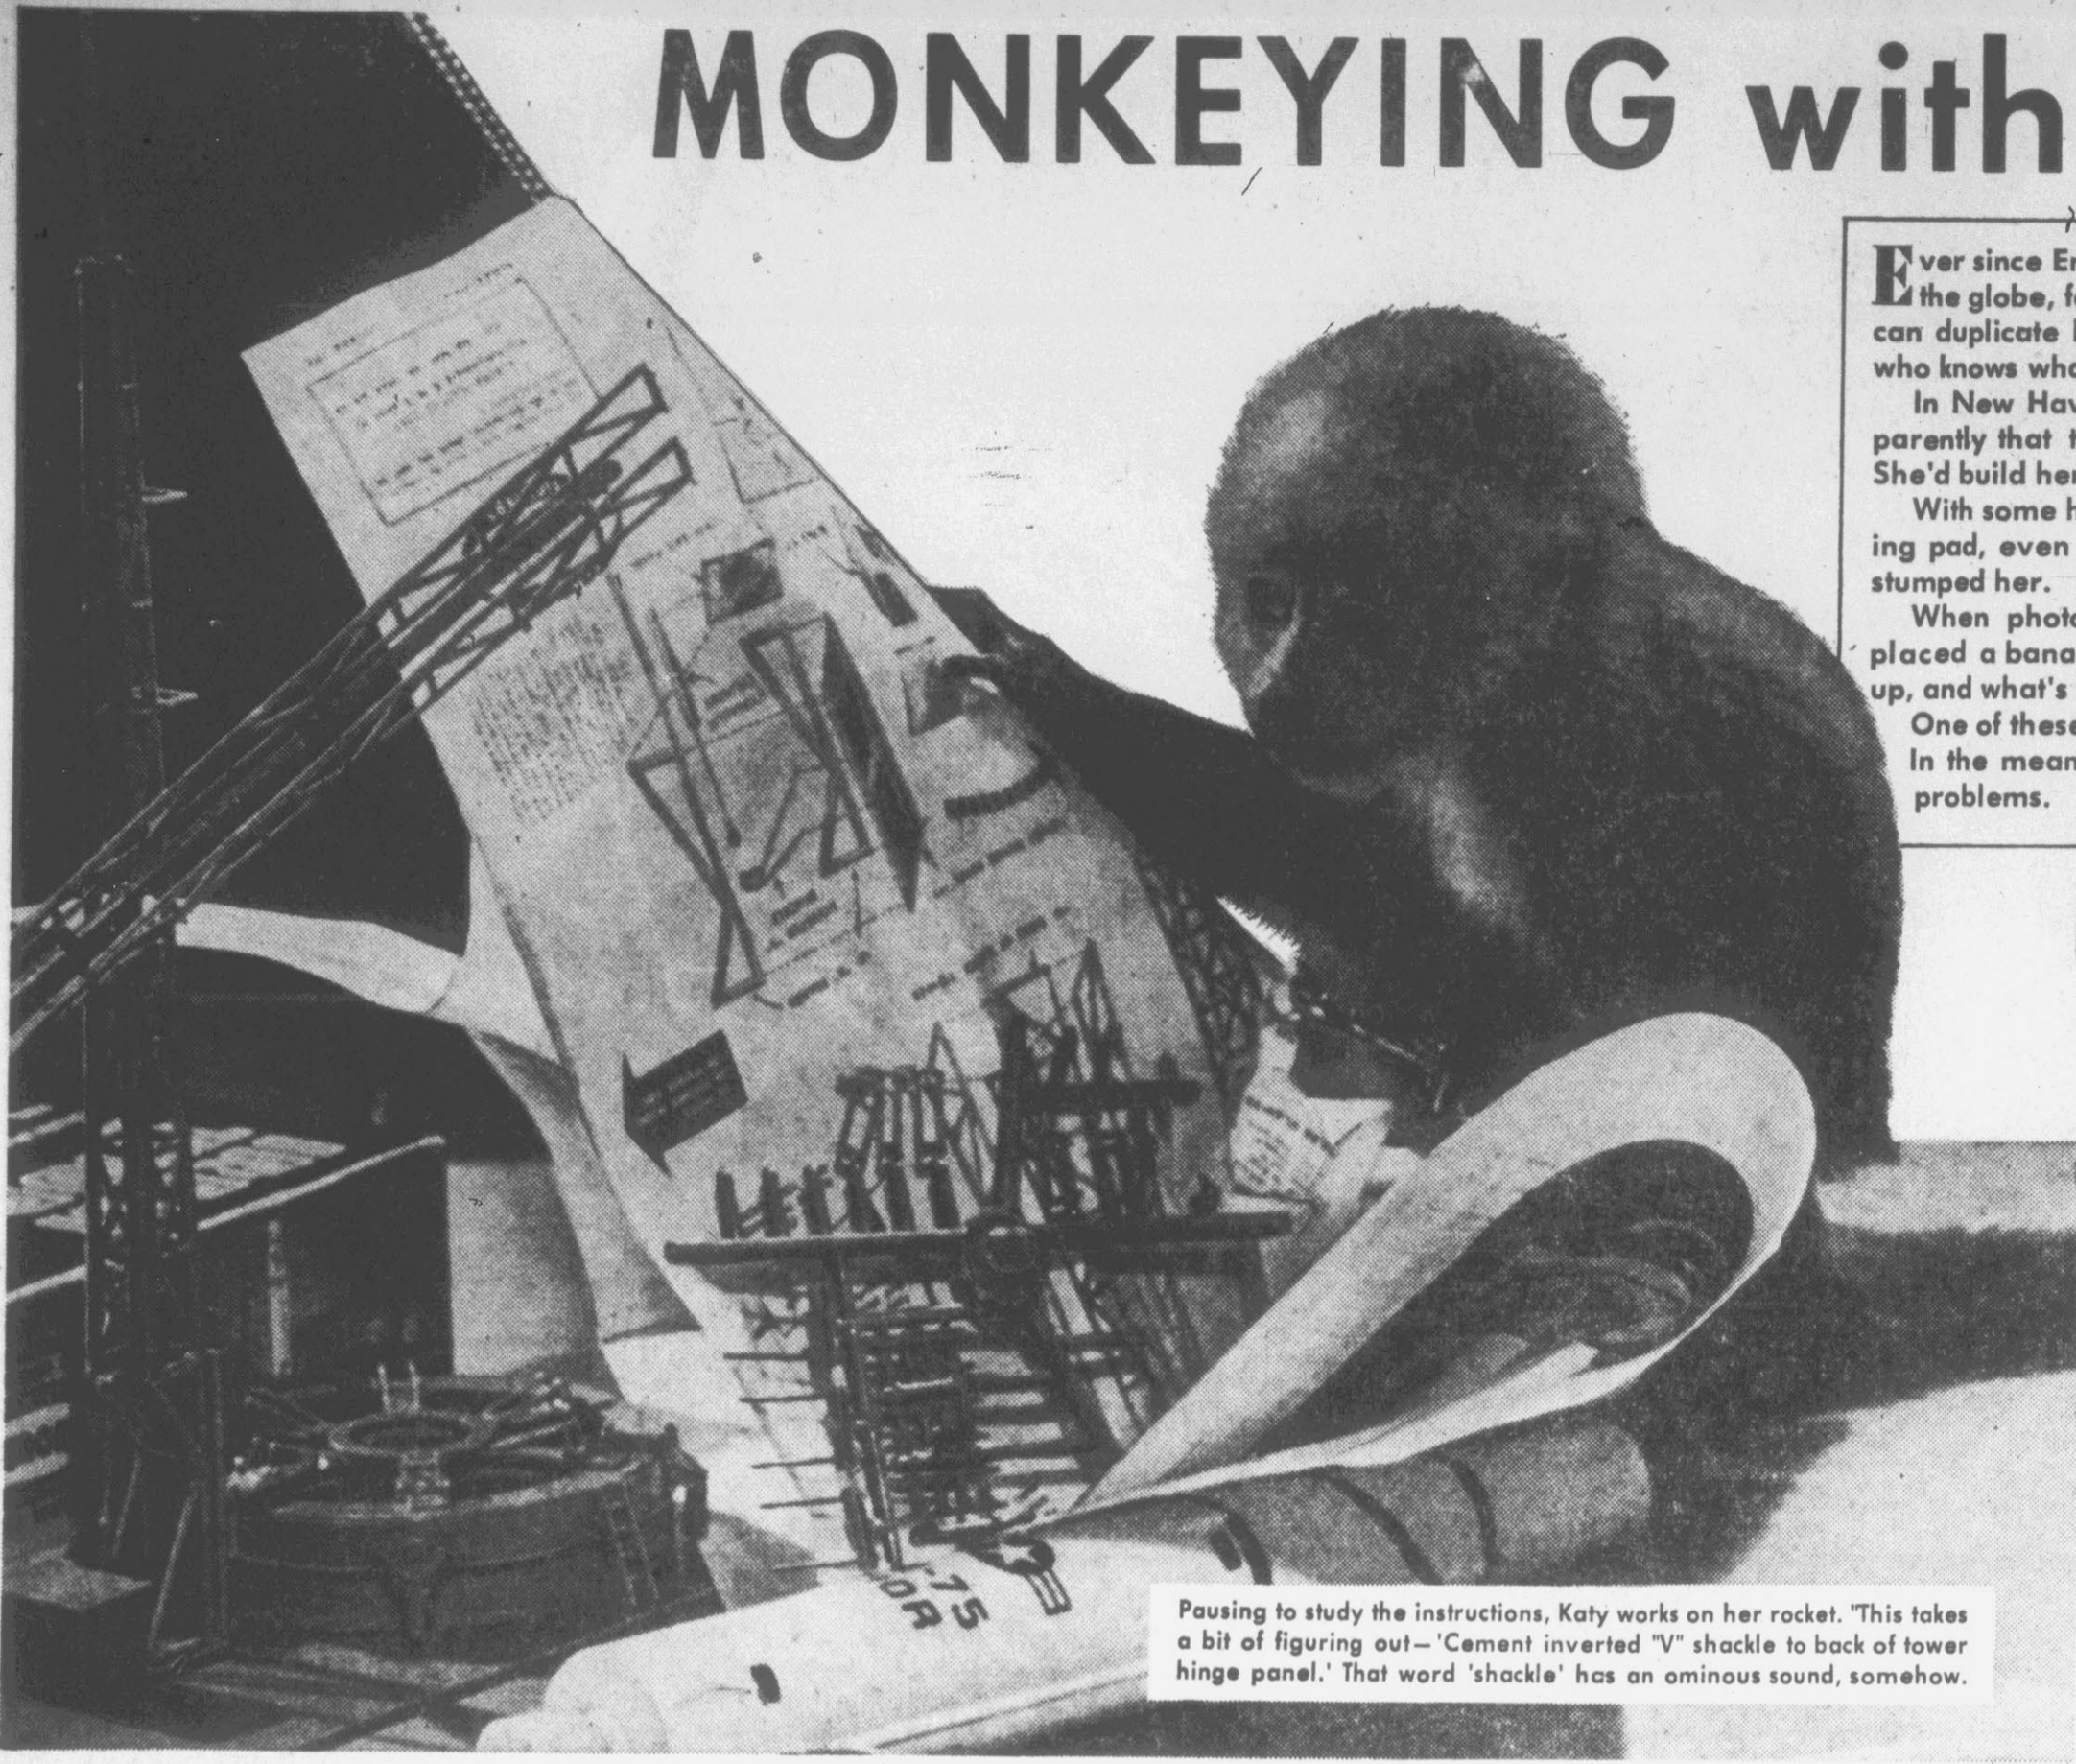

Ever since Enos, the astrochimp, made those two spectacular hops around the globe, fellow simians may have been cherishing the hope that they can duplicate his feat, or even better it. . . perhaps a trip to the moon. . . who knows what.

In New Haven, Conn., Katy, a cinnamon ring-tail monkey, decided apparently that the distaff side of Monkeydom should be one up on Enos. She'd build her own rocket.

With some human assistance, Katy assembled the rocket and the launching pad, even though some parts like levers, hinge panels, and what not, stumped her.

When photographer Donald Fitch turned aside for a moment, Katy placed a banana on the launching pad. After all, one must eat on the way up, and what's better than a banana or two?

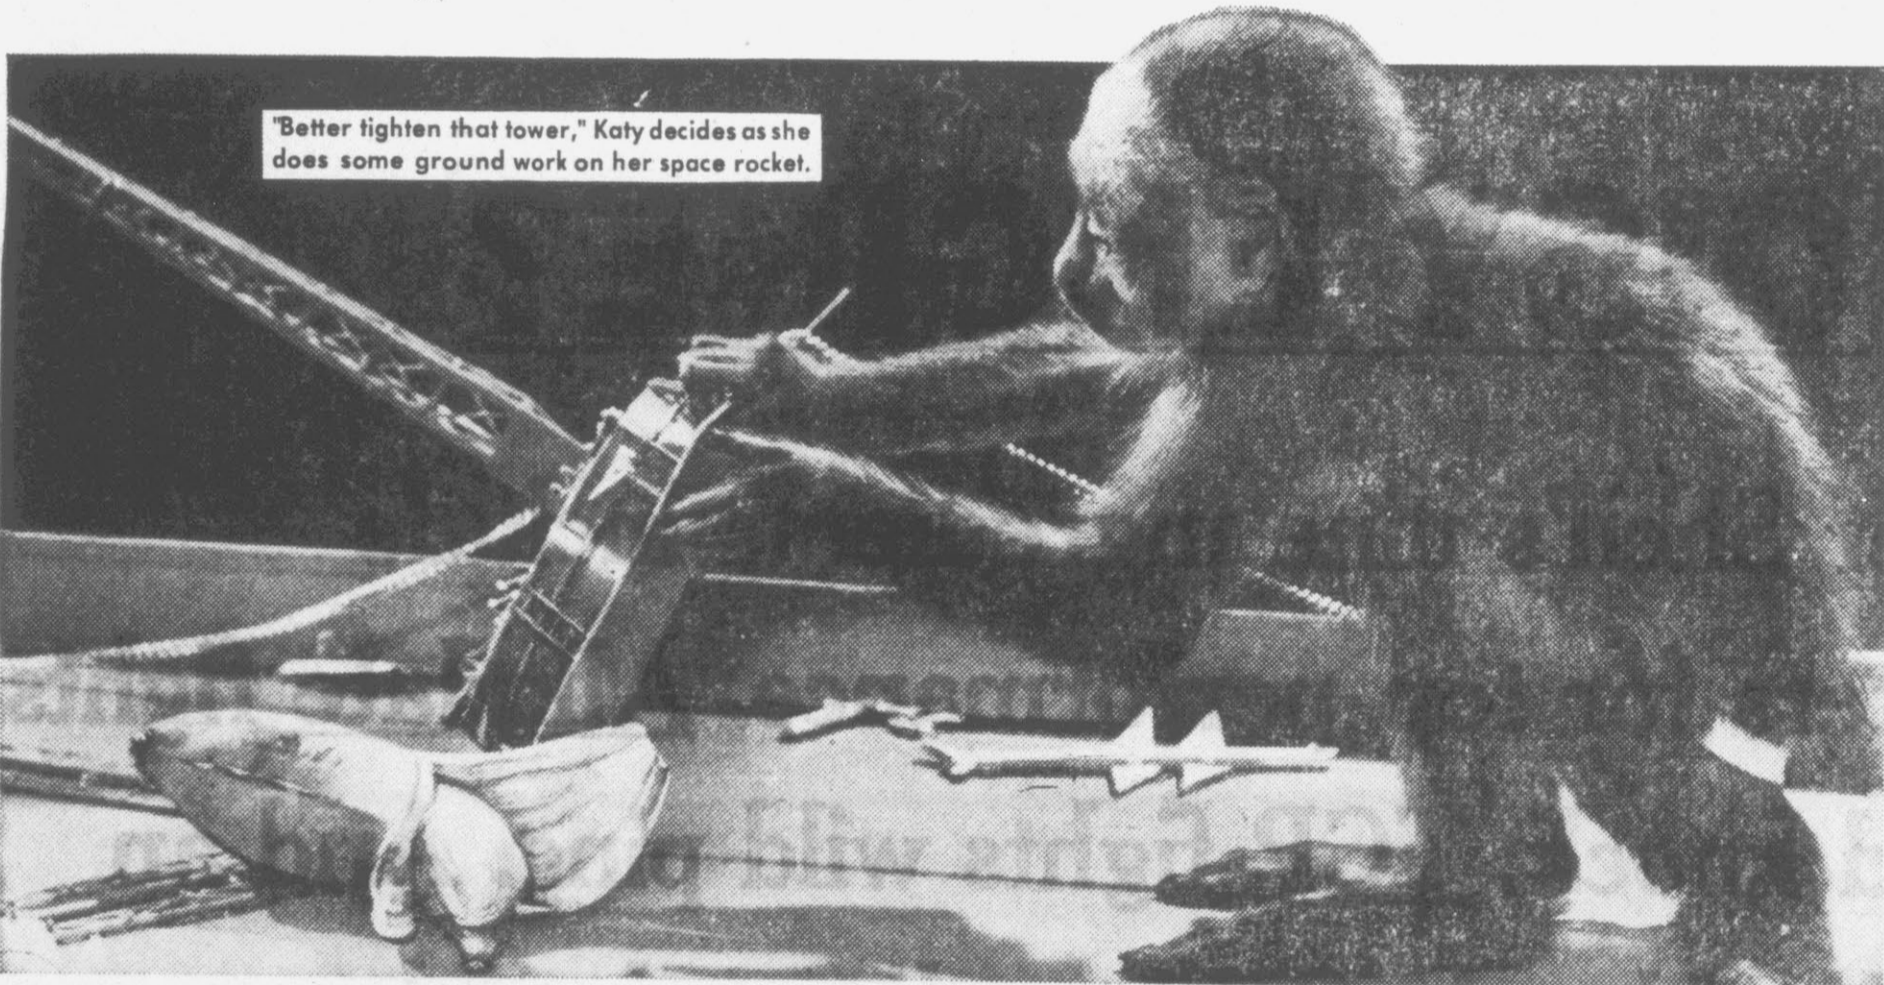

One of these days Katy will be ready. So, Enos, watch out! In the meanwhile, Katy's pictured here, wrestling with all her rocketry problems.

Pausing to study the instructions, Katy works on her rocket. "This takes a bit of figuring out—'Cement inverted "V" shackle to back of tower hinge panel.' That word 'shackle' has an ominous sound, somehow.

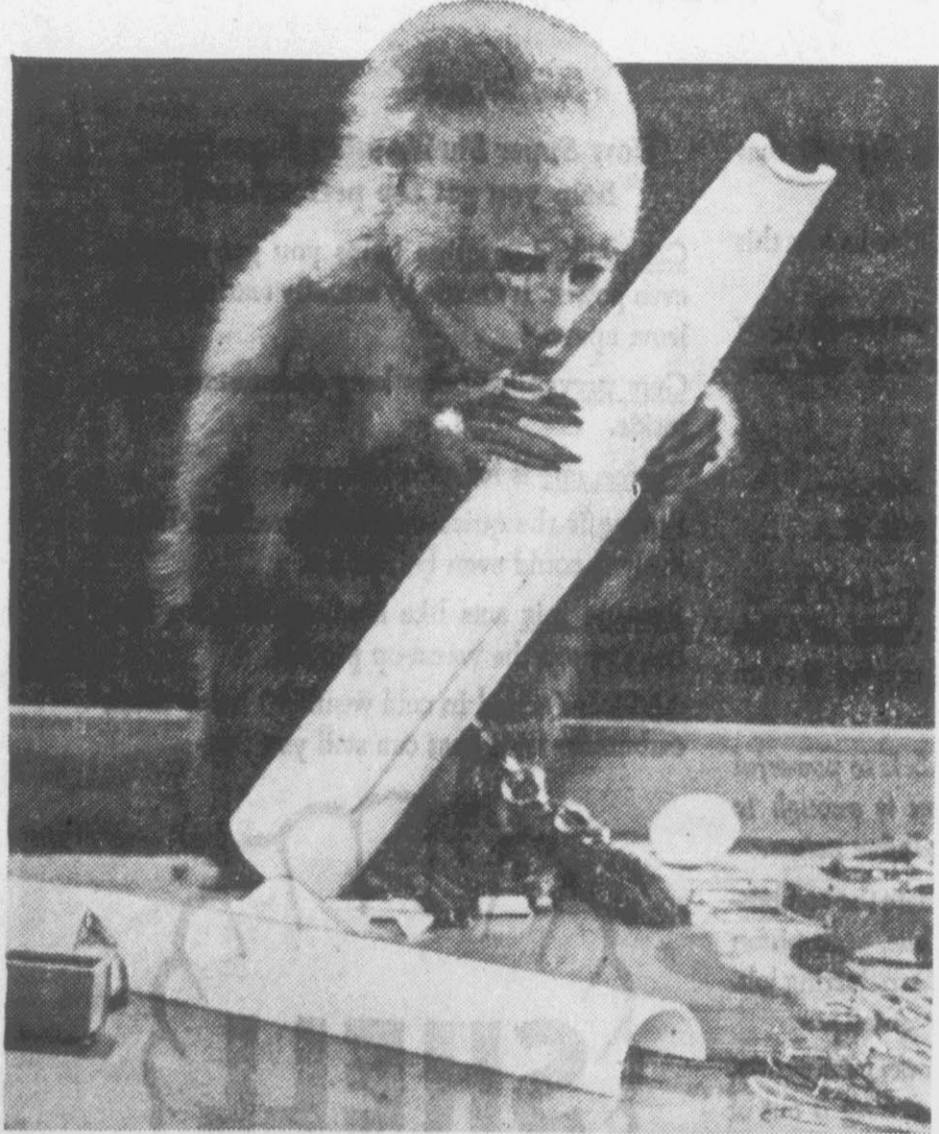

"This metal ring looks like something to play with—but where do I put it?"

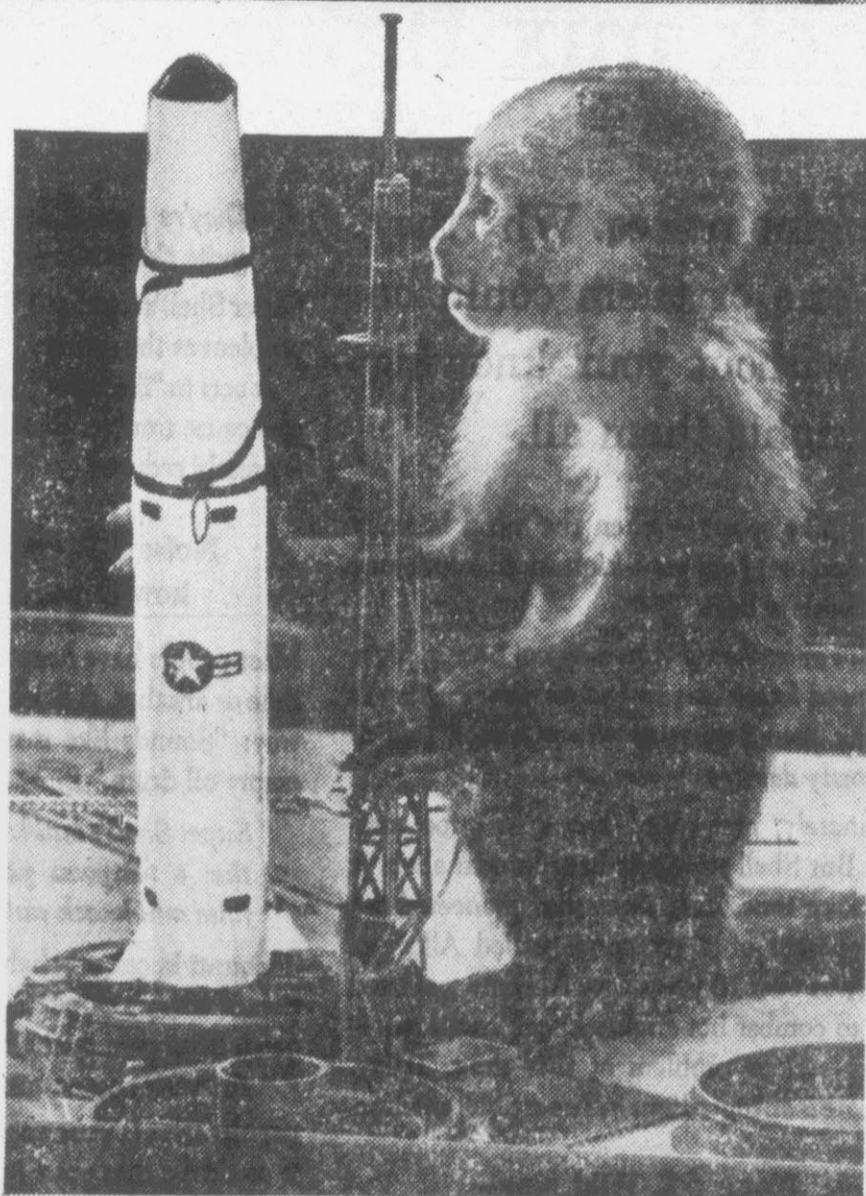

"Better tighten that tower," Katy decides as she does some ground work on her space rocket.

"Doesn't this look better on the launching pad?" One must eat on the way up, and what's better than a banana or two?

Katy's puzzled. "This MUST be part X."

"Stay straight, darn it."

Dedicated John Glenn Keeps His Date With Destiny

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—John H. Glenn Jr. today kept a personal date with destiny, a date he worked unswervingly toward for a long time.

In all ways since his selection as a Mercury astronaut three years ago, Glenn drove himself hard—dedicated and determined to ride into space and contribute to man's knowledge. So far as anyone could tell nothing could corrode his from nerve. All those postponements, including the heartbreaker of Jan. 27, when he spent 5 hours and 13 minutes strapped down in a capsule that wasn't going anywhere, could have unhinged a lesser man. But not Glenn. Modesty also stood out all over Glenn's make-up during his long training. In vain, he pleaded with the world to take the spotlight off him and his family and focus it on the worthwhile things to be done, and learned, up there in the skies. Why was Glenn, a family man with two children, willing to risk his life in a space capsule whirling about the globe at 17,500 miles an hour?

"We've got to do it," he once said. "We're going into an age of exploration that will be bigger than anything the world has ever seen. People are afraid of the future, of the unknown. If a man faces up to it and takes the dare of the future, he can have some control over his destiny. That's an exciting idea to me, better than waiting to see what's going to happen." Glenn, a balding 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel, wanted desperately to be the first American space pilot. He lost the call on the first two flights to Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom. For each of these brief sub-orbital flights, Glenn was the backup astronaut.

He rated his backup experience, in which he worked closely with Shepard and Grissom for weeks before each flight, as invaluable for his round-the-world orbit mission.

Also invaluable was his experience as a combat pilot in World War II and later in Korea. He shot down three Communist MIG fighters in the final days of the Korean War, and after one dog-fight returned to base with more than 200 bullet holes in his plane. He won five Distinguished Flying Crosses and an Air Medal with 18 clusters.

After the war he became a top test pilot. "Experience in dangerous and unexpected situations is even more valuable than good conditioning," Glenn said. "If you have successfully controlled your airplane in an emergency, or dealt with an enemy whose prime object is to destroy you, your chances of making the proper decision the next time are increased."

In every possible way, Glenn drove himself hard to prepare for space flight. Worried about his weight soon after his selection as an astronaut, Glenn regimented his diet and exercise and slimmed down from 195 pounds to a muscular 165.

Always very close to his family, Glenn nevertheless decided early that the Mercury program was so important he would live in bachelor quarters at Langley Air Force Base, a., seeing his wife and children only on weekends. The wife, Anne, David, 16, and Carolyn, 14, live in a comfortable home in Arlington, Va.

"I think it's good for John to be alone," said Mrs. Glenn, "to work out his studies and get a good night's sleep."

During his training period in their minister about possible religious blocks to manned space travel. The minister assured them there were none.

He said that religion should not be a sometime thing, handy only in emergencies. When he was being considered for Project Mercury, he and Anne consulted their minister about possible religious blocks to manned space travel. The minister assured them there were none.

Anne once said she didn't remember when she met John—but it was while they were playmates together in New Concord, Ohio, before they were six years old.

Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn, still live in New Concord, where they moved from Cambridge, Ohio, after John was born July 18, 1921.

Some New Faces Among Candidates Seeking High Federal, State Jobs

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pulitzer prize-winning author, a Lutheran minister, a former two-star general and another Herbert Hoover are among the new faces seeking high federal and state office this year.

The urge to serve also has bitten sons of three former U.S. senators and a one-time basketball star.

The Pulitzer-winning candidate is James A. Michener, who won the award in 1948 for Tales of the South Pacific. He will run for the Democratic nomination for a seat in Congress from Pennsylvania.

The House seat he is after is in Bucks and Lehigh counties and has been held for three terms by Republican Willard S. Curtin. Michener, 55 who lives near Doylestown, a suburban Philadelphia community, has never sought office before.

Then of course there's George Romney, the Detroit auto maker, who has announced for the Republican governorship nomination in Michigan. If he wins this first try for public office, there is talk he might be a GOP presidential possibility in 1964. Romney won't discuss that.

Herbert Hoover has announced for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate from Iowa, but there's a catch. He's an Oska-loosa farmer, not the former president, a native of West Branch, Iowa. Farmer Hoover says he's a distant relative of the 31st president.

Another presidential relative, Edward M. Kennedy, brother of President Kennedy, Monday night added to speculation he might seek the Democratic senatorial nomination from Massachusetts. Questioned about this in Warsaw, Poland, he said he didn't think that was the place to make such an announcement.

His most likely opponent is Edward J. McCormack Jr., Massachusetts attorney general and a nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack. Neither has announced.

A congressman's widow, Mrs. Corinne Boyd Riley, 47, has just won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. House in South Carolina to fill out the rest of her late husband's term expiring in January. The special election is May 8.

Mrs. Riley says she will not seek the full two-year term, but her primary opponent, another woman, State Rep. Martha Thomas Fitzgerald, is expected to seek the Democratic nomination for the full term in a June primary.

In California, Loyd Wright, Los Angeles attorney and former president of the American Bar Association, has announced for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate.

John Joseph, 46, brother of writers Joseph and Stewart Alsop and president of the Mutual Insurance Co. of Hartford, is among the announced candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Connecticut.

In Georgia, Republicans will be trying to elect their first governor since Reconstruction days. They are backing A. Edward Smith, a prominent Columbus attorney.

A motel operator at Boothbay Harbor, Maine, 53-year-old Edward F. Hutchinson, will oppose Gov. John H. Reed for the GOP nomination for governor.

In Maryland, Rogers C. B. Morton, a beef cattle farmer and multimillionaire, has announced for a congressional GOP nomination. He's a brother of the former GOP national chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, and has lived in Maryland 10 years.

George C. Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, former ambassador to the United Nations and Massachusetts senator, is seeking the Republican senatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

R. Crosby Kemper Jr., Kansas City banker, wants the GOP nomination for the U.S. Senate in Missouri.

For congressman-at-large in Ohio there are two familiar names among Republican candidates: Robert Taft Jr., majority leader of the state House and son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, and Lowell Fess, a state senator and son of the late Sen. Simeon D. Fess of Ohio.

Controversial former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker is among the announced candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Texas. He said he's running as part of his fight against international communism.

A Lutheran minister, the Rev. Richard G. Christensen of Edmonds, seeks the Republican nomination for the Senate from the state of Washington. In Wyoming, Kenny Sailors, former University of Wyoming and pro basketball star and now a Jackson Hole dude rancher, has announced for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Pres. Kennedy Saw Launching Of J. Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy watched the launching of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit today and was described as very pleased that the first phase of the flight had gone off very successfully.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy paid close attention. The President, with Mrs. Kennedy at his side, began watching the launching preliminaries at 7:15 a.m., on a television set in his bedroom. Kennedy continued to watch in his bedroom until 8:50 a.m.

He then went to the small dining room on the first floor of the White House to join Democratic congressional leaders who were there for their usual Tuesday morning breakfast-conference.

A small portable set was kept on picture, with the sound turned down, while Kennedy conferred with the legislative leaders.

Fifteen minutes before the blastoff, a direct telephone line was opened to Cape Canaveral, Fla. First Salinger talked with O. B. Lloyd, information officer of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, who was at Cape Canaveral headquarters.

The President took over the phone about three minutes before the launching. Lloyd filled in Kennedy on some of the details. At one point, Kennedy heard Glenn's voice over the phone but Salinger said the President did not speak with Glenn.

Library Plans Mark 2nd Year

AYDEN—Charlotte Hawkins Brown Memorial Library of Ayden will hold its second anniversary observance on Thursday at 8 p.m. at Zion Chapel Free Will Baptist Church with Miss A. E. Jackson as keynote speaker.

Miss Jackson is a faculty member of Grifton Elementary School. The program will also feature Annias Smith, president of the Library Club, with a "History of the Library." Others participating and their topics are "What the Library Has Done and Is Doing for the Community," by Lena Outlaw; and "The Library and Its Value" by William Aytch. Both are members of the Library Club.

Music will be presented by the Gospel Cordettes under the direction of the Rev. Jesse Wilson, with Shirley Coward as soloist. Miss Linda Kay Walston will be mistress of ceremonies.

The Charlotte Hawkins Brown Memorial Library was organized in February of 1960 with Mrs. M. B. Dixon as librarian and Mrs. J. M. Reaves as chairman of the library board. The Library Club was organized in March of 1960 with Annias Smith as president and Lena Outlaw as secretary. The first anniversary of the library was celebrated in February of 1961.

One of the most important future plans of the library is to arrange books in the library according to the Dewey Decimal System.

Robert Kennedy Arrives In Rome

ROME (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived today for a two-day visit during which he will have a private audience with Pope John XXIII and see top Italian governmental leaders.

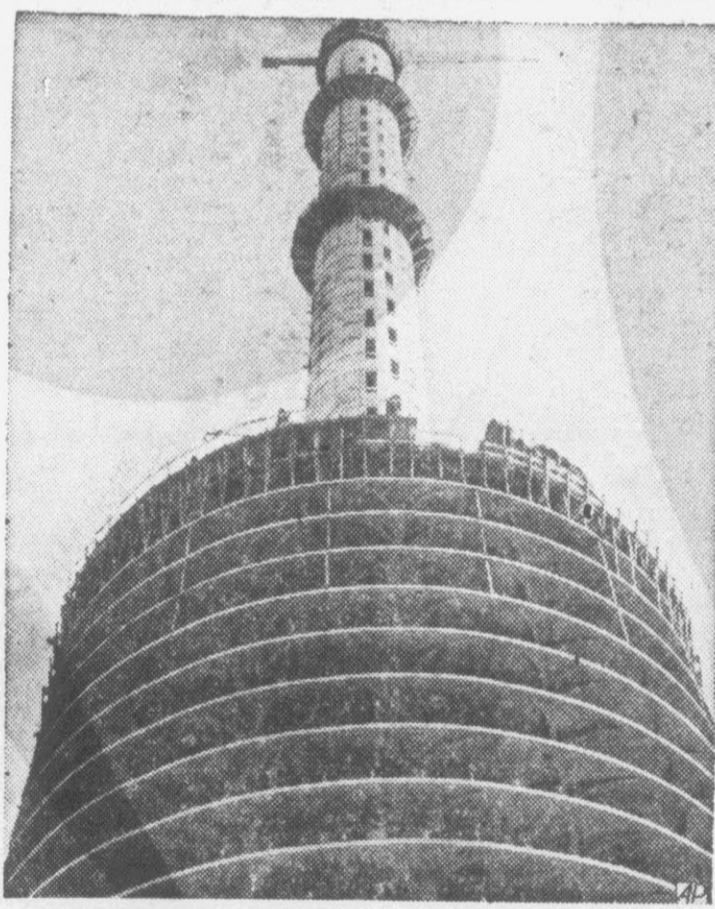

The U.S. Embassy described Kennedy's visit here as private, but said he will make courtesy calls on Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani, Foreign Minister Antonio Segni and Justice Minister Guido Gonella before leaving for Berlin Thursday. Kennedy's appointment with the Pope is for Wednesday.

Kennedy was accompanied by his wife, Ethel, presidential adviser Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and a party of 15 on the flight here from Bangkok, Thailand, via Beirut, Lebanon.

The sun is in total eclipse only four hours and 50 minutes every century.

Businessmen Watching Treasury Tax Revisions

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—It's tax time again—both for figuring up what you may owe federal and state governments on last year's income and for federal and many state legislative bodies to debate new rates or new kinds of taxes to hit you with next time.
Congress is worrying out a revision that will affect many businesses and individuals. Legislatures of 16 states will consider tax measures—mostly to increase the take but some, strangely enough, to cut it.
And whatever is finally worked out at the federal and state levels, one thing's for sure. Most government units in the nation will be spending more this year — and looking for more revenue, from one source or another.
Put off as of now until next year is a more general revision of the federal tax laws, with the faint hope of some relief for individuals.
The one now under discussion in Congress which individuals take most interest in is the plan to withhold 20 per cent of dividends and some kinds of interest at source. The Treasury says this will give it a much better idea of the total amount being paid and to whom. It hopes this way to pick up a lot of taxes on income that has gone unreported in the past.

Opposition—that is, that of the open kind—centers mostly on the costs of the withholding and on the deprivation of individuals of this income, which might not be enough to call for a tax, while they wait for months to file for a refund.
Many businessmen are closely watching the Treasury's battle to allow businessmen to claim tax deductions for only half of their costs of entertaining customers. In the financial field, there's stiff opposition to the plan to increase taxes paid by mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations. Other increases are sought in taxation of cooperatives and of mutual fire and casualty insurance companies.

Flu Fatalities Rise In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Health officials today reported 13 new flu fatalities, bringing the total number of deaths from Tokyo's current epidemic to 93.
They said 1,203 schools in the capital are totally or partially closed because of the epidemic.

Avoids Being Pulled Into Issue

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy refused today to be drawn into any give-and-take with newsmen on Kashmir, the touchy long-standing Indian-Pakistan issue.
The touring U.S. attorney general and his wife paused here for about an hour en route to the Middle East.
Pressed as to his opinions on Kashmir, he said he was not a traveling expert on everything. He said his brother, President Kennedy, was the spokesman for the U.S. government.

Duo Pianists To Offer 'Fun Show' At College

Ferrante and Teicher, duo pianists and popular concert, radio, TV, and recording artists, will be presented Thursday in a "musical fun show" on the Pops Entertainment Series sponsored by the Student Government Association at East Carolina College. The program is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium on the campus.
Arthur Ferrante and Louis Teicher are two energetic young concert pianists who through their recordings, concerts, and broadcasts have become widely known as an exciting and popular duo. Since their first performance with the Toledo Symphony in 1947, they have played in 43 states and Canada, appearing with leading orchestras and giving unique recitals. Their performances combine classical music with their own arrangements of tunes of Gershwin, Rodgers, Kern, Porter, and other popular composers, often with new sound effects, for which they have devised original gadgets to extend the tonal range of their pianos.
Both pianists were graduated from the Juilliard School of Music as piano majors and, after a brief period of concertizing, returned there as faculty members teaching theory and composition. In 1947 they resigned and since then have devoted full time to concert work.

Speeds In And Out Of Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mickey Cohen, whose cell almost needs a swinging door, sped in and out of county jail again Monday.
The former gambling figure's latest trip home required only a $1,050 bond—practically unnoticeable compared to the $100,000 bond it sometimes takes to get him free.
A complaint charges Cohen with two counts of battery and two counts of disturbing the peace. Police said he hammered a Teamsters Union picket with the man's own sign Saturday and shoved another man.
"This is too ridiculous to even make a statement," said Cohen. "Picket line? There wasn't no picket line."
But police called it "an entirely unprovoked attack."
Capt. Joseph Stevens said: "Here is a man—Cohen—who is constantly complaining that his civil rights are being violated. Yet less than 24 hours after he gets out of jail, he jumps on these men who were peacefully picketing a place and violates their constitutional rights."
Cohen had been freed on $100,000 bail pending his appeal of an income tax evasion conviction.
Police said Cohen drove up to the Keystone Plating Co. in Van Nuys where Thomas Spivey, 39, and Burford Parrish, 54, were picketing.
"What union you belong to?" Spivey quoted Cohen as yelling. Spivey said he told Cohen he was in Teamsters Local 389. Van and Storage Drivers, and Cohen shouted: "I own the local and you are out."
Then, witnesses told police, Cohen grabbed Spivey's sign, hit him over the head, grabbed Parrish and shoved him.
Two men jumped from a nearby car and ushered Cohen to his vehicle. "There isn't no more union," the pickets said Cohen yelled as he drove off.

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the aerospace issues received a shot in the arm but the stock market as a whole was very uneven in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 261.30 with industrials off .10, rails off .20 and utilities unchanged.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among most key stocks.

Chrysler was strong as Big Three motors showed plus signs. Steels, oils, rails, and chemicals were irregular.

General Dynamics, prime contractor for the Atlas missile, rose more than a point. McDonnell Aircraft, maker of the Mercury space capsule, made a similar gain.

North American Aviation gained more than a point and Lockheed a fraction.

Republic Aviation fell about a point and others in the group were fractionally lower.

Chrysler was up about 2 points. Ford was up a fraction and General Motors was steady.

Amerada was down about 3. Texaco and Royal Dutch edged higher while Jersey Standard eased.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .76 at 715.12. Prices were mixed on The American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Calling No Inquest Into Traffic Death

WILSON — No inquest is scheduled into a Saturday night traffic death involving a Farmville woman, which took the life of an eight-year-old bicycle rider six miles east of here.

Driver of the auto was identified as Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll. Mrs. Carroll is Director of Instruction for the Greenville City School system.

Highway Patrolman W. E. Saunders reported the fatal mishap occurred about 8:20 p.m. He identified the victim as Johnnie Garmel Baker, 8-year-old Negro of Route 3, Wilson.

Mrs. Carroll was quoted by the officer as saying she was meeting an oncoming car and dimmed her lights. "The next thing she told me, she saw, was the boy going up in the air over the hood of her car," Saunders commented.

The trooper quoted the operator of the vehicle meeting Mrs. Carroll's car at the time as saying he saw sparks flying out from under Mrs. Carroll's car and thought it was on fire.

The bicycle, the patrolman reported, was dragged for 157 feet from the point of impact, to the spot where the vehicle stopped.

Cause of death, according to Wilson county coroner Dr. Robert E. Goudy, was a broken neck. The child was killed outright, he noted.

"The bike did not have any lights or even a reflector," Patrolman Saunders pointed out. "Physical evidence indicated he was riding just to the right of the center strip in Mrs. Carroll's lane," he said.

Damage to the Carroll vehicle was estimated to be about $50. Baker was a third grade student at the Speight High School in Wilson County.

U.S. Military Aid Effective

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, returning from his third conference with Pacific military commanders, said today he found that U.S. military assistance to South Viet Nam is becoming more and more effective.

He told newsmen that his meeting with Adm. Harry D. Felt, the Pacific commander, and U.S. officials from South Viet Nam, left him delighted with the progress made since his last conference a little more than a month ago.

McNamara said this trip, like the others, was to discuss the problems and progress in the program to help South Viet Nam "meet the very savage attack by infiltrators from the North."

W. Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs who made the trip with McNamara, said he was very much impressed with the reports of progress in the assistance program.

Harriman noted that the problem of guerrilla warfare has been encountered by the United States in its assistance programs in several places, including Greece and the Philippines.

Referring to Viet Nam, Harriman said that "I want to underline that it is going to be a long, slow pull."

Planning Meets Scheduled To Begin In Pitt

The first in a series of program planning meetings was held during the weekend by Negro extension agents, it was announced today by Miss A. R. Gore, home agent.

Purposes of the meetings are to study throughout the county agricultural production and management, home economics, youth, marketing, and public affairs and to arrive at a program of work in the above five areas for the 1962-63 year.

A second meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Tucker Building.

At the first meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Dupree of Greenville community; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leary, Mrs. Janie Williams, Mrs. Estella Edwards, Mrs. Decie Pollard and Mrs. Rebecca Chapman, Calico; Arthur Council, Sally Branch, and Mrs. Willie M. Hawkins of Grimesland.

Two To Attend CD College

Claude Christopher and Dawson Nethercutt of the Greenville Rescue Squad will attend a three-week school at the Canadian Civil Defense College in Arrnprior, Ontario, beginning March 12.

The necessary approval for their attending the school came from national Civil Defense headquarters recently, local CD Director J. H. Rose announced.

At the school, Christopher and Dawson will receive instruction in heavy duty rescue methods.

DIDN'T LAST TAPEL, Formosa (AP)—Wu Kum-fa, 17, lost his job as postman his first day at work and landed in jail. Wu was arrested after a passerby saw him dump the contents of his mail bag, more than 200 letters, into a stream.

'Frustrated' By Quiet Students

ATLANTA (AP)—Southern college students are more interested in the serious problems confronting mankind than ever before, and the trend is frustrating to college deans.

Deans of men from about 20 Southern institutions are meeting at Emory University. They noted the trend away from college pranks as well as outward concern over worldly social causes.

Most Southern college students, the deans agree, want to be left alone. They are docile, to some degree, but are showing more concern for high grades and what education means to them personally.

Southern students do not paddle out in a canoe to protest nuclear submarine weapons.

They do not run through the streets, or lie down in front of paddy wagons in "ban the bomb" exhibitions.

In short, except for sit-in demonstrations in which they rarely get involved if they are white, they display little social concern for the frantic world about them.

And that is what is frustrating to the college deans, who say the student is keeping the old idealism bottled up. "Inside, he is a turmoil of concern," said one dean.

Wm. C. Brewer New President Of Toastmasters

William C. Brewer, attorney, has become president of the Toastmasters Club.

He succeeds Sherrill Bryant who resigned when he took a job in Norfolk, Va.

Brewer said C. B. West, Jr. has been named educational vice president replacing Brewer in this position.

The new president announced that Toastmaster District Gov. Perry Weaver will attend tomorrow night's meeting which will be held at Olde Towne Inne beginning at 7 o'clock.

Also attending the ladies night meeting will be Jake Strother, area governor from Kingston and Capt. Dick Moore of Cherry Point, lieutenant governor for the coastal sub district.

The officials will show a color film on Toastmasters International.

There are more than 2,400 Toastmaster clubs located in every state of the Union, every province of Canada and 42 other countries.

The Greenville Toastmasters meet each Wednesday night at the Olde Towne Inne.

Controversial Film On Program

Rozwell Cooper, of the Belhaven Post, will present the program at tonight's meeting of American Legion Post 39 at the Rotary Club.

Cooper is said to be planning to show the controversial film "Operation Abolition," following the dinner. The program is expected to get underway at 8 p.m.

Red Oak Fire Dept. Plans Solicit Needed Support

PLANS MADE FOR RED OAK AREA . . . volunteer fire department members look over county map. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

RED OAK—Plans were made last night for soliciting financial support of the Red Oak Volunteer Fire Department among property owners in its area.

The department is now drawing up by-laws in preparation for purchasing equipment and furnishing fire protection for a rural area.

The Rev. Howard C. James is president of the department and Robert Allen has been named fire chief.

Rites Wednesday For Henry Meadows

AYDEN—Henry Meadows, 57, of Rt. 1, Ayden, died Monday. He was a lifelong resident of the Ormondville Community of Greene County. Funeral services will be held at the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Chifton Rice, assisted by the Rev. Don Bryan. Burial will follow in the Snow Hill Cemetery.

He was a member of the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church, a member of the Improved Order of Red Men and a member of the JOUAM of Hookerton.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucy Monzingo Meadows; a son, Bobby Meadows of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Faye Sugg of Rt. 2, Snow Hill; and a brother, Seth Meadows of Rt. 1, Hookerton.

Pitt Firemen's Association Pres. Roy Hardee and Vice Pres. Ed Hemingway showed color slides to the group concerning various types of equipment and fire training programs.

Hardee commended the group for its efforts. He told them that with the formation of the Red Oak department and departments at Falkland and Pactolus, the only section of the county not protected would be an area south of Greenville along N.C. 43.

He pointed to a need for two or three departments in that area. He said he hoped some community organizations in that section would see the need for departments. "Since the life of rural community is centered primarily around churches and schools, in Pitt County we can expect there is a tremendous need to see that these facilities are protected along with thousands of residential and rural buildings," Hardee continued. "Only if we have completely organized around churches and schools, in Pitt County can we expect the county commissioners to make available funds to these departments."

Street Work Is Shown By Slides

Color slides of street paving projects were shown on the Greenville Lions Club last night by Ken Beatty, superintendent of public works.

The slides primarily featured the Elm Street project. The report of the caseworker for the blind, Pitt County Welfare Department, was given by John Biggs. During the month of January the Greenville Lions Club arranged for payment of glasses for seven persons, an artificial eye for one, gave Christmas baskets to 24 blind persons and their families; and approved payment of glasses for seven others.
