South Viet Nam's President Is Uninjured In Palace Bombing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem's palace was bombed today but the 61-year-old anti-Communist president escaped harm. The government said the attack was carried out by two air force officers acting on their own. The planes swept in low just after dawn and attacked the palace with fire bombs, rockets and machine guns. One pilot was captured. Six hours after the attack this capital resumed its normal outward appearance except for soldiers guarding street corners. There was no sign of a revolt to add to the difficulties of the South Viet Nam nation already fighting a war with Communist guerrillas. Naval anti-aircraft guns just outside Saigon shot down one of the two American-made fighter-bombers which blasted the palace. Its pilot, Lt. Pham Quoc was captured alive. Civic Action Minister Ngo Trong Hieu announced. The pilot of the second plane was identified by the minister as Nguyen Van Cu, a sublieutenant. His plane, riddled with anti-aircraft fire, was reported to have crashed landed at Phnom Penh airport in neighboring Cambodia. Cambodian authorities arrested the pilot. The civic action minister told a news conference the "two rebel officers" stationed at the big military airfield at Bien Hoa, 20 miles northeast of Saigon, staged an "isolated action." He said nothing was known yet as to their motives. The U.S. Embassy announced that one American died as an indirect result of the attack. He fell from the roof of his apartment while watching planes swooping at tree-level height. He was identified as Sidney Ambrose, 59, a contractor from Portland, Ore. Shortly after the attack, Diem went on the air and broadcast "Thanks to divine protection I myself and my close collaborators were not in danger." Two of Diem's brothers, Roman Catholic archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc and Ngo Dinh Nhu, and Nhu's wife, who acts as the bachelor president's first lady, were in the palace at the time. She was reported to have suffered a slight arm injury. Ngo Dinh Nhu is a close adviser to the president, who has been accused by critics of running a family dictatorship. Diem said loyal armed forces had the situation "completely under control throughout the national territory." He came safely through a short-lived uprising by five paratrooper battalions 15 months ago but there was no sign that the air at-

Long, Wet And Happy Day For Astronaut John Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a long, wet, happy day on the glory trail for John H. Glenn Jr. and his family—a triumphal day of trumpets and thunderous applause and tears of pride. It didn't end until they were home in suburban Arlington, Va., listening to their neighbors singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Then the Glenns slipped into their house and put their feet up in front of the fire. They had a lot to talk about, both of the past and the future. For Monday's celebration in the capital for astronaut Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, may be only a taste of what is to come. As one woman among the parade crowd put it: "America has needed a hero, and now we really have one." Glenn spoke with poise and easy humor. He introduced his parents, children and wife and they were cheered as they stood in the gallery. Glenn brought the house down with a humorous reference to Caroline Kennedy, 4, who had asked him earlier, "Where's the monkey?" He said her concern over the chimpanzee astronaut who preceded him into space "really cut us down to size and put us back in the proper position." But Glenn had serious words as well. He paid high tribute to his fellow astronauts and the thousands whose tasks backed up the Mercury flight. "From the original vision of the Congress to consummation of this orbital flight has been just over three years," he said. "This in itself states eloquently the case for the hard work and devotion of the entire Mercury team." Glenn smiled and shook a hundred hands as he made his way out of the Capitol, down the broad steps and off to a luncheon at the State Department. Excited children of some members got a special grin and a few personal words from the first American to orbit the earth.

Algerian Rebels Said Accepting Peace Accord

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—The Algerian rebel parliament has accepted a peace agreement with France to end the 7 1/2-year Algerian war, well informed sources said today. The sources said the National Council for Algerian Revolution, the rebel parliament, met here today to draft an announcement of its acceptance of the accord worked out by French and rebel representatives in secret negotiations in Switzerland. But the sources said the announcement would not be made public until after the Algerian leaders leave Tripoli. The rebel council has been discussing the peace agreement for the past five days in Tripoli. The French government already has approved the agreement, which calls for a cease-fire, a transitional period during which a self-determination referendum will be held in Algeria, and guarantees for the European minority in Algeria, French use of the naval base at Mers-el-Kebir outside Oran, and French interests in the Sahara oil fields. In preparation for announcement of the agreement and the anticipated violent reaction from die-hard European opponents of Algerian independence, French Premier Michel Debre ordered French military commanders in Algeria to deploy reserve forces through the major cities swept by waves of terrorist killings. Debre reportedly ordered commanders to deploy forces which had been held in readiness for any attempt by the Secret Army Organization of European settlers to overthrow the government. Thirty-seven persons were killed Monday and 49 wounded in Algerian cities. In Algiers alone 22 died. The government seemed helpless to stop the killings, mostly of Moslems shot by European gunmen. Authorities sent a battalion of infantry and three squadrons of Mobile Guardsmen—about 1,000 men—into the heart of Algiers Monday. Soldiers lined the Rue Michelet, a street of shops and cafes where Europeans strolled despite shots and speeding ambulances.

Rural Fire Dept. Boundaries Discussed At Meet

Representatives of 8 Pitt County Volunteer Rural Fire Departments met last night to firm boundaries between the various departments. The meeting was called by Roy Hardee, President of the Pitt Firemen's Association in order that several new departments would know exact boundaries for assessment of members. Three new departments, Red Oak, Bell Arthur and Falkland have ordered or have plans for fire equipment to be placed in service. The three would join at various points and with other departments around the Greenville area. President Hardee said "I think that last night's meeting was of utmost importance and a lot of problems were worked out. In addition we will have complete coverage between the eight departments. Anyone living in the sections covered by those departments will have a chance for membership in one or more departments." Several departments picked up additional area of coverage last night while some shortened their boundaries in the interest of more effective protection of its members and operation of new departments. Effective rural fire fighting range is based at five miles and, this will place nearly all the departments within those limits. "Any property owner who has not had fire protection or is in doubt about what department would cover his area should contact the nearest fire department and the boundaries can be determined," Hardee pointed out. "We are most happy that the community of Bell Arthur has started plans for a department and it is very much needed to complete the fire protection plans as outlined last night," Hardee stressed. When the Falkland, Red Oak and Bell Arthur departments are placed in active service the only sections of Pitt County which will not be protected will be a strip running from NC 43 at the Greenville city limits to the Pitt-Craven County line. "There is need for at least two and possibly three departments in this rural section," Hardee pointed out and the Firemen's Association (Continued on page 10)

Heavy Sales Of Astronaut Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is still a phenomenal demand for the four-cent stamp commemorating the space flight of John H. Glenn Jr., the Post Office Department reports. To meet the requests of collectors, the first-day cover issue has been increased from 1 million to 1.6 million.

Pitt School Official Jailed On Rape Charge

A 55-year-old Pitt County School official has been jailed in Greenville on charges of raping a 15-year-old Negro girl Sunday afternoon, Police reported today. Following this, the girl said she was brought back into Greenville, put out at the intersection of Ford St. and Colonial Ave. and told: "Don't tell anyone." Officers said the child told an aunt of the incident who in turn (Continued on page 10)

Russia Extends Death Penalty

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced the extension of the death penalty to cover the crimes of bribe taking, rape and attacks on policemen. The new measures were announced in three decrees published in the latest official bulletin of the Supreme Soviet.

Hurt Selves In Dynamite Blast

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Two young furniture workers were nursing burns and injuries today after a dynamite charge they planted to frighten a Burke County constable blew up as they stood nearby. Burke County Deputy T. S. Cline said Jimmy Lee Brittain and Eulen Brittain, both 19, were injured early Sunday morning when the prank they planned to play on Constable Bill Lowman backfired. Cline said the Burke County youths, who are distant cousins, said they planted a dynamite charge in a tree about 100 yards from Lowman's house. They said they took cover but returned to the tree thinking the fuse had gone out. The charge went off. Police said a flashlight, blood and shirt buttons were found at the base of the battered tree. Jimmy Lee Brittain was in a Morganton hospital with splinters of bark and wood imbedded in his right arm and his hearing impaired. Cousin Eulen was in a Valdese hospital suffering from burns. His hearing was also affected. Cline said Lowman had testified against the boys Feb. 13 when they were charged with damaging public property by driving over the lawn of a school. Eulen paid a $60 fine. William was acquitted.

Arrest Three For Thefts In Vance

Three persons were arrested locally and a quantity of merchandise stolen in Vance County recovered last night with Pitt and Vance County sheriff's offices cooperating. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson identified the three placed under arrest as William Gardner Carlisle, 24, of 412 Mumford Rd.; Johnny Carlisle, 17, 909 Howell St.; and Nathan Earl Lee, alias Buddy, 17, 1027 23rd St., Newport News. Each of the three was charged with breaking and entering and larceny. They were returned to Vance County where they will be given a preliminary hearing on the charges. Vance County Sheriff E. A. Cottrell said three other arrests are expected to be made in Henderson. He said the merchandise was taken from Herbert Lloyd's Store located on U.S. 1 about four miles from Henderson. The break-in of the store occurred between 10 and 11 o'clock Sunday night. He estimated the value of the merchandise at $250 to $300. In Greenville the officers recovered some tires, oil, tools and various merchandise believed taken from the Vance County store. Sheriff Tyson said the local deputies received word from Vance County concerning the robbery and recovered some of the items upon searching houses here. Deputies Ralph Tyson and Gerald Davis with Vance officers arrested William Gardner Carlisle on U.S. 13. The sheriff reported the suspect jumped from a car in which he was riding and ran down into a swampy area along the highway. The officers found him lying in water and took him into custody. The other two youths were arrested in local homes. Sheriff Cochrell and Deputy Linwood B. Falkner came to Greenville to take the three into custody last night.

President Sends Health Message To Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today sent Congress a new and urgent plea for health insurance for the aged, "self-financed" by a $1 billion boost in Social Security taxes. In a special health message urging lawmakers to bring the miracles of modern medicine within reach of all Americans, Kennedy also proposed: 1. A three-year, nationwide immunization drive to stamp out polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, with Uncle Sam footing the whole bill for vaccine for every child under 5. 2. Federal loans to help build and equip centers for group practice by doctors and dentists, to stretch the supply of medical skills and improve the quality of care—especially in small towns. 3. New and expanded federal outlays totaling $182 million for mental health, control of pollution, medical research and other programs. Two new White House bills were due to reach Congress right after the message—the mass-vaccination plan and a broadened governmental attack on air and water pollution and radiation hazards. "We can now save one out of every three victims of cancer," Kennedy told lawmakers who are just now grappling with some of his earlier health proposals. " . . . full prevention of many forms of heart disease seems increasingly within our reach," he added. "The discovery and widespread use of tranquilizing drugs in the past six years has resulted in an unprecedented reduction of 32,000 patients in the census of our state mental hospitals. "But far more needs to be done." The $182 million hike in appropriation requests includes $35 million for the immunization drive, but not the costs of another program close to Kennedy's heart—an attack on mental retardation in children. His panel on mental retardation will make its reports by the end of the year, Kennedy said. With it in hand he will offer a program to discover, treat and prevent the many and obscure causes of this affliction of five million Americans.

Expanded Peace Corps Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the Peace Corps must be expanded to meet a big demand, and he asked Congress for more money to do it. He called for authorization of $63,750,000 for the corps in the fiscal year starting July 1. Last year he asked for $40 million and got $30 million. Kennedy had provided for the increase in his budget and Monday he sent Congress the legislation needed to authorize the request.

Annual Rabies Control Program Opens Mar. 1

Pitt County's annual two-week-long Rabies Control Program gets underway Thursday as the traveling clinic makes a swing through the northwestern section of the county. On the schedule Thursday are stops at House's Station (1 p.m.-1:30), Belvoir (1:45-2:15), R. D. Pollard's Store (2:30-3 p.m.), Rufus Jenkins' Store (3:15-3:40), Bruce (3:55-4:20) and Dupree's Crossroads (4:35-5 p.m.). Regulations are published by the Pitt County Health Department as follows: "The General Statutes of North Carolina were amended in 1957 to allow dogs over six months old to be vaccinated every three years with the Chick Embryo Vaccine. In keeping with modern advancements, the Pitt County Rabies Control Department will continue this program. All dogs four months old or older are to be vaccinated. "Dogs between four and six months old are to be vaccinated now in 1962 and in one year in 1963. "Dogs over six months old which never have been vaccinated or which have never been vaccinated with the Chick Embryo Vaccine are to be vaccinated now and again in 1965." The county regulations also require owners to attach vaccination tags to the dogs' collars for identification purposes. The schedule: Thursday, March 1—House's Station, 1-1:30; Belvoir, 1:45-2:15; R. D. Pollard Store, 2:30-3; Rufus Jenkins Store, 3:15-3:40; Bruce, 3:55-4:20; Dupree's Crossroads, 4:35-5. Friday, March 2—Falkland, 1-1:30; Willie Owens Store, 1:45-2:10; Fountain, 2:25-2:55; Kings Crossroads, 3:10-3:40; Bell Arthur, 3:55-4:25; F. V. Stocks Store, 4:35-5. Saturday, March 3—Bateman's Animal Hospital, Memorial Drive, Greenville, or Willow Grove Animal Hospital, Farmville, 11 a.m.-12 noon. The schedule for March 5-14 will be announced in the Daily Reflector later.

Huge Reception For Astronauts

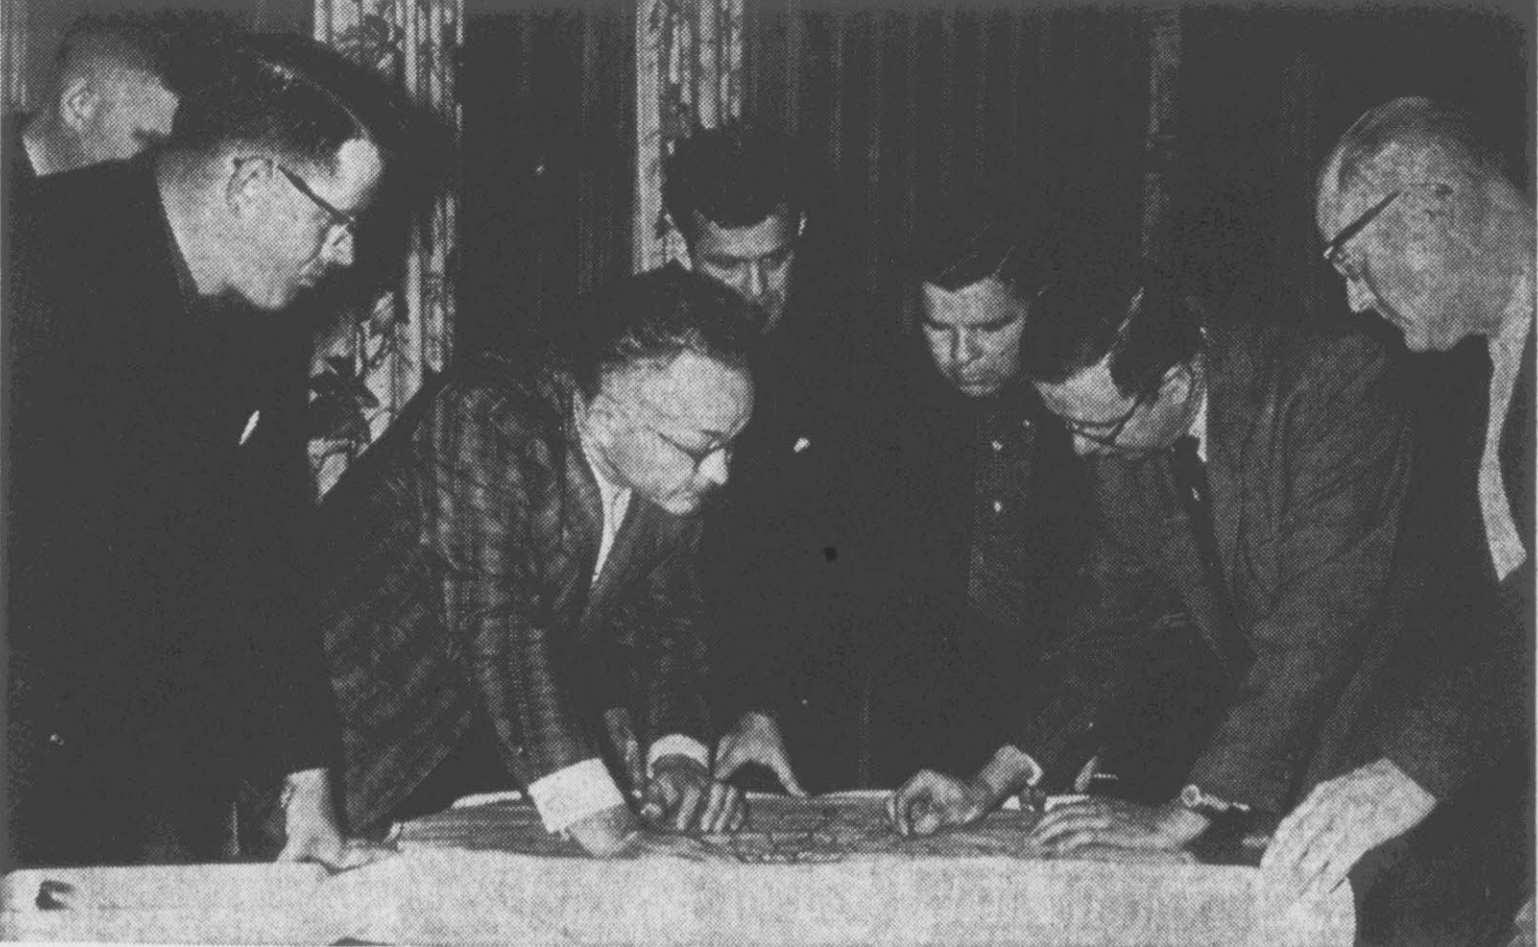

NEW YORK (AP)—The package of gratitude this city will present John H. Glenn Jr. and his six fellow astronauts Thursday will include ticker tape, fireboat salutes and thousands of holidaying school kids. These, plus the formal welcomes of city fathers and the cheers of the city's millions, may add up to the greatest celebration of its type ever staged here, city officials said. Lt. Col. Glenn, the Marine who became the nation's first astronaut to orbit the globe, will be accompanied by his family—as will the six other American spacemen.

Airliner Skids Off Runway

DURHAM (AP)—A Piedmont Airlines F-27 turboprop, carrying a crew of three and four passengers from Norfolk, Va., skidded off the end of a runway at the Raleigh-Durham Airport Monday night. No one was injured. A light rain had fallen shortly before the plane landed and a light fog covered the field. The aircraft was not damaged, but mired in four inches of mud.

Hymnody History Traced, Illustrated By Music Club

Continuing the theme "Our Rich World of Music," the Greenville Music Club met last night in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church. The program was in charge of Charles Stevens, a member of the music faculty at East Carolina College, and dealt with "Our Rich World of Music as Found in Our Churches."

History of the hymnody of the church was traced and illustrated by hymns from various periods. The hymns were sung by those attending or presented by a church choir. The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Choir, directed by Dr. Carl Hjortsvang and accompanied by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist, sang an anthem arrangement of the 16th Century hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," arranged by Carl Muller; and the 17th Century hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God."

The Memorial Baptist Church Choir, with Mrs. Stevens directing and Miss Craig Daughtridge accompanying, sang an anthem arrangement of an 18th Century hymn, "Rejoice, the Lord Is King," arranged by MacDougal; and a 19th Century hymn, "Lead On, O King Eternal," the words of which were written by an American minister, Ernest W. Shurtleff.

Leading up to later hymns and hymn tunes, the Eighth Street Christian Church Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Carter, rendered two spirituals, "My Lord, What A Morning" and "Let Us Break Bread Together." Mrs. Cleveland Bradner was soloist in the latter presentation.

Following the program, a social hour was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Miss Elizabeth Walker, Dr. and Mrs. James Butler, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Fisher, and Miss Elizabeth Drake were hosts and hostesses.

Clothes More Feminine At Paris Fashion Showing

By GABRIELLE SMITH
PARIS (AP)—Women looked more like their feminine selves at the spring and summer Paris fashion showings.

Each designer seemed to feel a need to feminize his models, but each did it differently. This spring, whether you are tall or short, slim or not, you can wear what suits you like best and stay in style.

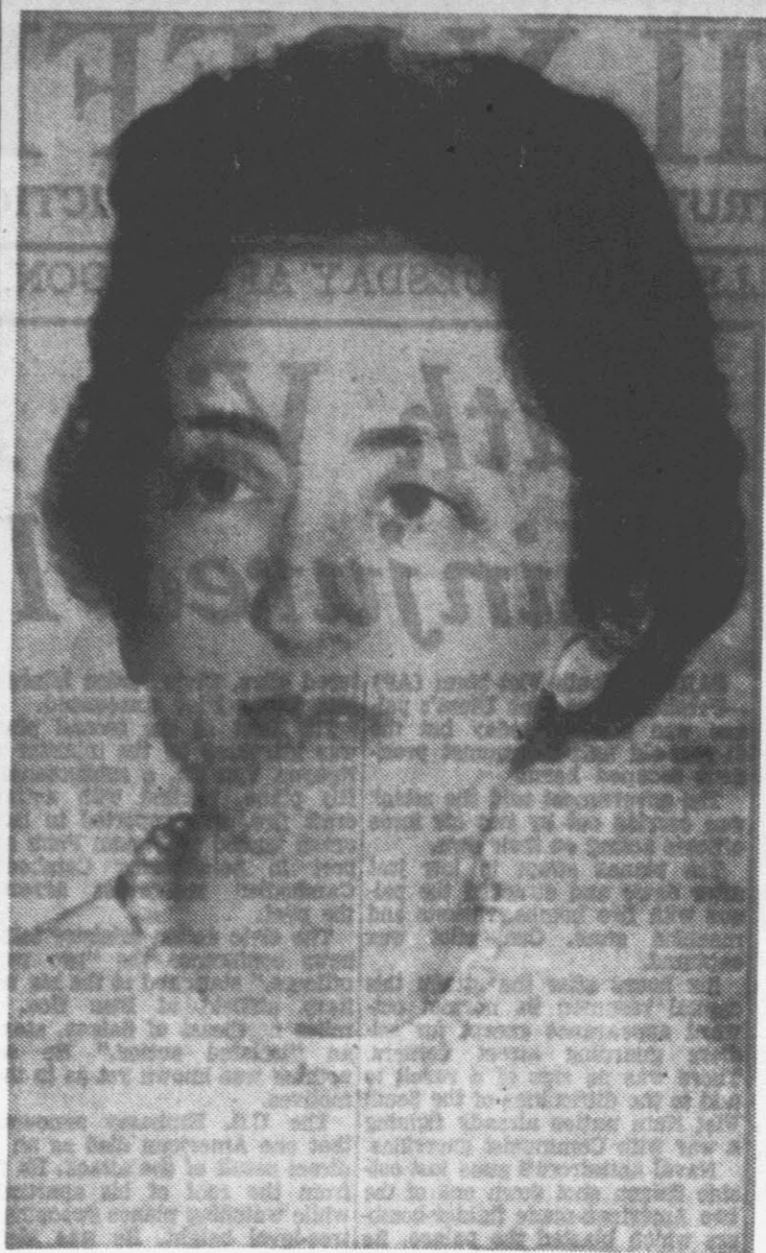

The only rule to follow is a short skirt, just below the knee. Yves Saint-Laurent provided the fashion suspense this season. He opened his own house following two seasons underground after leaving Dior, where he had been chief designer. His look reached from Far West to Far East, giving girls cowboy hats and scarves for day, and Balinese cocktail outfits topped by turbans for evening. He even introduced the harem with his short at-home trousers.

Club To Sponsor Fashion Show, Luncheon

Mrs. Robert Balboni, chairman of the Fashion Show Committee for the Greenville Garden Club, has announced that the Annual Fashion Show-Luncheon-Card Tournament will be held this year at the Woman's Club Building, Thursday, March 22, beginning at noon.

MISS RUTH ALORA GRABER of Greenville is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Homer Graber of Landenberg, Pennsylvania who announce her engagement to Edwin Page Shaw of Elizabethtown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zelah Buren Shaw of Elizabethtown. The wedding is planned for April 22.

Goldis Starling Entertains

Bride-elect Miss Goldis Starling invited her bridesmaids, honorary bridesmaids, candel and soloist to dinner Saturday evening. The dinner was given at the Cinderella Restaurant at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Starling, the bride-elect's mother, assisted in entertaining.

The table was covered with a white cloth which featured a bridal arrangement of white flowers and green leaves with silvered leaves and white net.

Speights Are H. D. Hosts

The Renston-Nobles Home Demonstration Club members and their husbands met with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Speight last Wednesday.

The meeting was called to order and guests welcomed by Mrs. Wiley Waters.

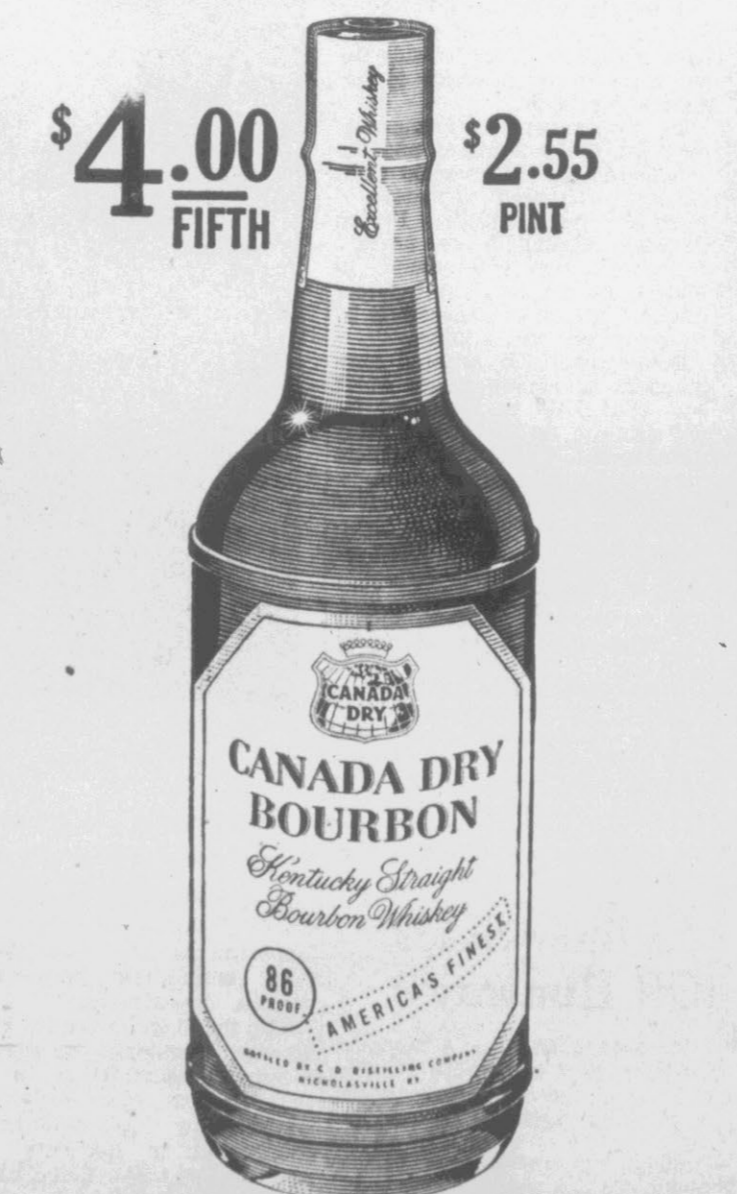

Mrs. Don Langston and Mrs. Obed Castellone gave the devotion, using "Make Love Your Aim" as the theme.

Mrs. Spilman To Give Club Program

The Woman's Club will meet at the club house Friday, March 2, at 3 p.m. New members will be honored at tea preceding the meeting.

The Home Life Department, sponsoring the program, will present Mrs. J. B. Spilman, whose subject will be "Mental Health In Your Community."

The Bethel Beta Club, Host The Bethel Beta Club, sponsored by Mrs. Jerry Bunting, was host to the Northeastern District Beta Club for their annual convention held in Bethel, Friday, with Don Dewar, district president of Bethel, presiding.

Registration began at nine o'clock. After the schools arrived and all were seated in the auditorium, Don Dewar called the meeting to order. The Rev. Carl Barbee gave the invocation. "He" was sung by Rev. Wiley

Clark. Afterwards the district secretary, Ronnie Edmondson, read the minutes of the last meeting held in Greenville. The minutes stood approved as read.

A motion was made and seconded that the Northeastern D.B.C. establish a treasurer and that he be appointed by and from the same school as the incoming president. The motion was carried.

A second motion was made that the candidates elected at the district meeting be supported by the district at the State Convention. This motion was killed since it was stated in the constitution.

A third and last motion was made that a committee be appointed to report the Northeastern D.B.C. meeting at the State Convention. It did not receive a second.

After roll call and the reports of the different clubs represented came the nominations of candidates. The candidates for president were: Jeanette Gardner, Child; Jimmy Hill, Murfreesboro. The candidates for Vice President were: Bobby Williams, Grimesland; Ricky Mitchell, Windsor. The candidates for Secretary were: Mary Jo Quinley, Grifton; Brenda Fairless, Colerain; Janie Jackson, Winterville.

The candidates were recognized. Following this Walter Latham, principal of Bethel High School, introduced the speaker, the Honorable Herbert C. Bonner. Mr. Bonner began his talk with these questions. How do you go about preparing a boy or girl for life successfully? What's right? What's wrong? Time is moving on, he said, and the big responsibility is bringing others into the world and helping the newcomers to solve these questions on their own.

He also emphasized the importance of education in stating that the strong are not the only ones who succeed. The weak will be successful too if they will only apply their minds. He pointed out that life goes on and the world doesn't stop changing "just because we would like for it to."

Bonner committed that man was in space today as a result of those willing to learn.

Mr. Bonner told the Beta members to "never take for granted the vote you have as a citizen of the United States. With this vote you have some control of your destiny and you shape your country by the men you put into office."

In answer to the question "What can I do for my country?" Bonner said "to say informed and informed well, vote carefully when the opportunity is offered and be concerned with those around you."

"With this, Mr. Bonner stated, "you can tackle any job"

After announcements, lunch was served in the gym by the Methodist women.

Begin Site Preparation For New ABC Store

Ayden Rotary Elects Officers

AYDEN — Lee Nance was elected president of the Ayden Rotary Club last Thursday, following a report of the nominating committee.

Also elected were Tom Whelless, president-elect; Bill Johnson, vice president; MacDonald Edwards, secretary; Guy Corbett, treasurer; and directors, Gwynn Merritt, Curtis Cavileer and Jim Abernathy.

New officers will assume their duties in July.

Dr. Sully Nelson presented the program for the evening on the Rotary magazine. Through color slides and a commentary, he discussed the preparation and growth of "The Rotarian."

During the business session, presided over by Gwynn Merritt, the club voted an expenditure of $35 out of the special activity fund to sponsor a team in the Little League program.

Visitors for the evening were Dr. Fred Irons and J. H. Rose from the Greenville club. The Rev. John Goff had the devotion.

This week, the Rotary members will hold their Ladies Night at 6:30 at the Community Building, with Charlie McCullers as guest speaker. District Governor W. T. Ralph and Mrs. Ralph of Belhaven will be special guests.

Grading operations began Monday as a preliminary to construction of a new location for the Evans Street outlet of the Pitt County Alcoholic Beverage Control system.

J. W. Joyner of Farmville, ABC Board chairman, said the City of Greenville had asked to move soil from the construction site, the northeast corner of Second and Cotanche Streets.

Joyner said plans for the new store, which will also include the administrative offices of the board now located in the courthouse, have not yet been finalized.

The architectural firm, Dudley and Shoe of Greenville, was expected to present the plans to Monday's regular meeting of the board. Joyner said board members would review the plans and specifications then.

The chairman said his members "want to get a building up as quickly as possible." The project will be advertised for bids as soon as final plans have been approved, he noted.

Purchased at a cost of $15,000, the construction site extends 160 feet along Cotanche Street between Second and First Streets and 95 feet along Second Street, east of Cotanche.

Joyner has said the site is spacious enough for the eventual construction of an ABC storage warehouse, not called for in the present project.

'Samaritans' And Purse Disappear Recreation Center Plan Is Outlined To Students

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Margaret L. Ellis, 45, said her car stalled two blocks from home Monday night. Two men drove up and offered to help. One took over the wheel. The other pushed the stalled vehicle with his car. The car started. Mrs. Ellis said she was very grateful—until she noticed her $25 purse containing $68 had vanished from the rear seat. Then she called police.

By SANDY ALLEN
FARMVILLE—At a special student assembly here recently, Jim Lancaster and Tom Anderson, members of the Farmville Kiwanis Club, proposed plans for operation of a recreation center to the some 300 Farmville High School students.

The Kiwanis Club adopted the idea of the youth recreation center and has developed to the point that participation of the high school students is the last remaining factor to make the activity operative.

Anderson and Lancaster explained to the student body that a membership card system has been devised to limit attendance at youth center activities to the proper age group. Each member of the organization, they said, would be allowed to invite a limited number of visitors for Saturday night events.

The recreation center, located in the local Boy Scout hut, was opened for the first time Feb. 17. Hours on Saturday nights are 7:30-10:30. Dancing and table tennis highlight the Saturday programs and more activities and facilities are to be added by the Kiwanians.

Business Trip
One of Farmville High's two business classes has completed a business trip. The group toured Hardberger's Business College and the Occidental Life Insurance Co., both in Raleigh.

Purpose of the excursion was to view in progress automotive bookkeeping. While at Hardberger's, the students watched the IMB process. The elaborate Data-Processing Department of Occidental was next on the student itinerary.

Accompanying the dozen Farmville business students were Mrs. S. H. Aycock, business teacher, and Jim Kirkland, student teacher in business.

The East Carolina College Men's Chorus visited Farmville High's Student Government Assembly recently and presented a sacred and popular music program.

No-Dumping Sign By Roadside Is To Be Installed

AYDEN—The State Highway Commission has notified town officials here that a "no dumping" sign will be placed on Secondary Rd. 1122 north of town and west of Highway 11 in response to a request from Town Manager Cleveland Paylor.

Paylor explained that people had begun dumping their garbage at this point along the roadside and that it is not a garbage dump. He had asked the highway commission for help. The letter also stated that the local highway patrol will be notified regarding enforcing the regulation.

It was also brought out by Paylor this week that people from outlying areas of Ayden have begun bringing garbage and leaving it just inside the city limits.

He asked that those who do not have garbage collection services take their refuse to the city dump, which is open to the public, and is located northeast of town.

More Tags Sold Than Last Year

GRIFTON—More town automobile tags have been sold to date this year than were sold last year at the corresponding periods, it was reported yesterday.

Town officials noted that as of the Feb. 15 deadline, 417 tags were sold this year compared to 385 last year at the same time.

Since then, more tags have been sold, bringing the present total to 473. The total for all of last year was 484.

PRISONERS FREED

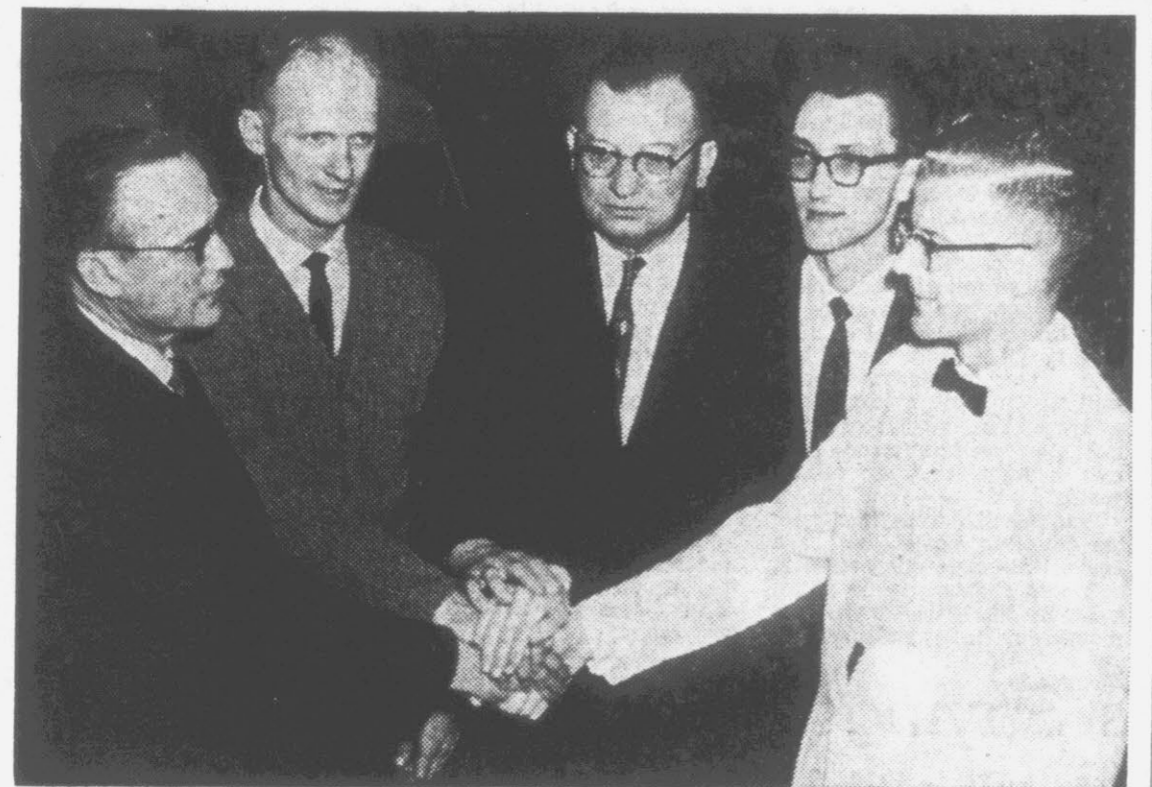

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—The last 11 political prisoners in Sudan were freed Monday by order of President Ibrahim Abboud. They were mostly university students who had been convicted last year of anti-government activities.

Victor Schoelcher, when he became France's under secretary of state for the colonies in 1848, freed Martinique's 72,000 slaves.

Moose Membership Drive Is Booming

TWO FATHER-SON COMBINATIONS are welcomed by Lodge Governor Charles McAndrew. Left to right, Frank and Franklin Brown, Walter and James Briley, Gov. McAndrew.

With the goal of 250 new members for the June 24 extravaganza set firmly in its sights, Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose, last night added the names of 23 new members to be formally enrolled during the visit of Supreme Lodge officials enroute to the International Convention at Atlanta.

According to Lodge Secretary E. M. Baldree, the current membership campaign has now 75 candidates to date for the anticipated ceremonial involving all North Carolina lodges east of Raleigh. "We can get in under the wire if the present recruiting rate is maintained," says Baldree. A class of 500 new candidates, perhaps half of which will be brought to Greenville by other North Carolina lodges, is planned.

Last night's meeting included the annual drawing of a lifetime membership (won by Ralph Bailey), and announcement of the nominating committee which will present a list of candidates for election to Lodge positions at the first meeting in April. The new officers are installed at the last meeting night in April.

The nominating committee consists of the current officers: past governors J. G. Proctor, John Behr, Percy Cox, Lee Rowland and Dr. Howard Gradis; and members from the floor, Sam R. Brooks, Henry Flake, Jack Wallace, Ernul Willis and Charlie Mohle.

Seven Greenville Lodge members attended Sunday's district meeting held at New Bern. They were: Gov. Charles McAndrew, S. L. Rowland, James Harris, Max Pollard, S. R. Brooks, Frank Fuller and Edwin Baldree.

The district meeting was largely concerned with discussion of plans for the big Moose gathering in Greenville scheduled for June.

In addition to the host New Bern lodge, and Greenville, lodges in Wilmington, Havelock, Williamston, Washington, Elizabeth City, Kinston, Jacksonville and Wilson were represented.

Educators Alone Can't Solve It

Educators alone in North Carolina cannot solve the approaching crisis they see in higher education in the state. It will take the efforts of the educators, state officials and the citizens of North Carolina if the crisis is to be met and successfully dealt with.

President William Friday of the Greater University, speaking before the Board of Trustees of that institution, has asserted that the growth rate of enrollment at the state-supported institutions of higher learning has brought the state to a crisis.

Said President Friday:

"We must act now. The young people now in the public schools have the right to expect that a place will be made for them. There is a great task at hand."

While some citizens may jump to the mistaken conclusion that the educators have most to gain in North Carolina's meeting its crisis in higher education, such is not the case. Capable educators are in great demand throughout the country. If they elected to do so, the capable educators North Carolina has could move elsewhere rather than battling here to overcome the crisis which looms immediately ahead.

It is not the educators, but rather the citizens of the state as a whole who have most to gain through meeting successfully the needs of higher education in the state. If those needs are not met it will be the citizens as a whole, not the educators of the state, who will suffer the greatest loss.

Some well-meaning citizens have the attitude that the needs of education at both the public school and college level is the concern of officials of the state and local governments and the officials and faculties of the schools. To be sure, it is of primary concern to these officials and educators. But in the final analysis, these officials and educators can do relatively little to meet the needs at the public school or college levels unless the people as a whole also concern themselves with meeting these needs.

If North Carolinians as a whole take a passive attitude toward meeting the crisis in higher education that President Friday has pointed to, it is entirely probable that the crisis will not be effectively met, and that our colleges and our young people who desire the benefits of a college education will suffer. In turn the state as a whole will likewise suffer the consequences of inadequate higher education facilities to meet the needs of its young people.

If, on the other hand, the people as a whole evidence their concern for the crisis facing higher education in the state, and move to meet the crisis, we may be sure that a solution will be found before it is too late. We may be sure that capable young people who desire a college education in the years ahead will find there is room for them in a college in North Carolina.

Citizens of the state as a whole will gain or lose, depending upon the course they choose to follow in the face of the crisis in higher education in North Carolina.

No Satisfying Answer Found

By LYNN NISBET

BOOSTER ROADS — The question of just how far the State or any municipality should go in spending public money for access roads, water lines, etc., for industrial plants has been debated for many years — and no satisfactory answer has been found. Experiences of Raleigh, Statesville and other municipalities which extended water lines far beyond city limits for what at the time seemed a special favor to big business, have proven the wisdom of the policy. Developments in the areas around the new plants has more than repaid the initial cost.

The State now is faced with a slightly more than usual aggravating phase of this problem at two proposed installations in the northeast. There was great rejoicing a few weeks ago when it was announced that the Hayes Corporation would establish a military plane rebuilding plant on the site of the old navy airbase at Weaverville in Pasquotank county. The State highway commission readily promised to build an access road. Later it developed that the type of road necessary to hold up the excessively heavy equipment would be entirely too expensive — to construct and maintain. Faced with danger of losing the plant unless access could be provided, the State is now trying to work out a plan for building a ramp from the water to the factory yard. Can highway funds legally be used for this type construction? Governor Sanford thinks so and is proceeding with that objective in mind, under terms of a general clause in the highway act providing for services to "related air facilities." Highway funds were used several years ago for construction of a landing strip on lower Hatteras Island, mainly for the convenience of visiting fishermen. There were some objection voiced, but no formal protest.

COROLLA — Another and slightly different problem arises in connection with proposed establishment by the Atlantic Research Corporation of a sort of secret-operations laboratory at Corolla on the outer banks across Currituck Sound. Again a prime consideration is an access road. The State rather glibly promised such a road from the village of Duck northward to the plant.

The site of the proposed laboratory is right on the line of the long proposed highway connecting Virginia Beach and Nags Head. At first this looked an opportunity to make a real start on that road. Some kinks have developed.

The research corporation insists that its work is so secret

it cannot be conducted where there is general public access or passing by. The company wants a road from Duck to Corolla, period, and over which it would have considerable control of traffic. The C&D Department and the Governor's office are inclined to go along with that idea. They have worked long and hard to get the plant to accept that location, and they contend the State should cooperate to help it get started.

Highway Chairman Merrill Evans has little enthusiasm for any dead end privately controlled access road. He says if the State is going to spend that much taxpayers money for a highway everybody should have equal and free use of it.

The two projects, at Weaverville and Corolla, are estimated at about three quarters of a million dollars. They would be of immediate benefit to the business corporations operating the plants. But—they would bring many thousands of dollars of payroll money into North Carolina and the whole state benefits from the enhanced economy of any area.

TRAFFIC — Not closely analogous but having some of the same phases is the question of extending existing roads or adding new roads to the State maintenance system to serve new suburban residential areas. The tax-paid roads is a big boost for the sale of real estate by the promoter; but — the homeowner who lives there is entitled to the same service accorded citizens elsewhere.

Then there is the matter of determining whether a road should be widened or a bridge built, based on the traffic using the route. How can anyone tell? A traffic count of ten or fifteen cars a day certainly does not justify road improvement; but who knows how many cars would use a decent road if one were built? The question comes back mainly to the discretionary judgment of the highway authorities, which must take into consideration the further factor of total common good beyond the direct users of the highways.

Because highways contribute so much to the total economy highway users are beginning to ask why general fund taxes should not share in the building and maintenance of public roads. Instead of the policy now in effect of highway revenue contributing substantially to general fund and non-highway purposes. The gasoline gallonage tax is earmarked — and the designation is pretty well respected — for highway purposes. But the sales tax on automotive vehicles, tires, batteries, et cetera, goes into the general fund.

Public Needs A 'Scorecard'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of it is tricky, some of it is propaganda, and some of it seems to make no sense.

You need a scorecard to follow the Russian maneuvers — the soft and tough — an disarmament, nuclear testing, summitry, Berlin and the exchange of spies and relatives.

Premier Khrushchev's latest call for a summit, and President Kennedy's rejection of it Sunday, at least for the time being, is only the most recent in a mishmash of events.

If a whole series of friendly gestures had been followed by harsh ones, they could be listed separately and an obvious conclusion drawn: That Khrushchev had switched his tactics.

But they're not separate. They're so mixed up they sometimes make Khrushchev look mixed up. Take this past year.

Shortly after Kennedy took office in 1961 Khrushchev released two American RB47 bomber pilots shot down off the Russian coast in 1960. That was a friendly start.

It remained pleasant, except for some jarring minor episodes, until June 1961, when Kennedy and Khrushchev met in Vienna and the Russian made his demands on Berlin. Then for months he built a crisis.

He climaxed it Aug. 13 by setting up a wall between East and West Berlin. Then he let the crisis dwindle, as if he felt he had established unchallenged the principle of the separation of East and West Germany. He began a crisis elsewhere. For three years the United States, Britain and Russia had stopped nuclear testing while they talked in Geneva about agreeing to a permanent ban on it.

Then on Sept. 1, with only one day's warning, while the talks were still going on, Russia resumed testing. No nation can test suddenly. So Russia had been planning this for months.

In October, Khrushchev had a mean split with his Red Chinese allies. Whether this had something to do with what followed for months is not known, but from October until this year Khrushchev remained almost silent.

In the meantime, as a friendly gesture, in November he let his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, editor of Izvestia, interview Kennedy and permitted the interview to be published in Moscow.

Telefonica for the Peasants

By HAL BOYLE

Our Middle-Aged Hero

NEW YORK (AP) — At last the country has what it long needed — a good, middle-aged hero.

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. fills the bill perfectly. By orbiting the earth three times last week he did more than merely lift America's scientific prestige in the eyes of the rest of the globe.

He made every middle-aged man in the nation stand half a head taller — and feel like there was a place in the world for him after all.

Yes, sir, Lt. Col. Glenn of the U. S. Marines made middle age downright respectable in a land which for too long has placed too much emphasis on the value of being young.

John Glenn has been dry behind the ears for some time now. He is 40, has acquired a few wrinkles, and shows considerable scap.

If two weeks ago he had sought a new job, many firms would have automatically rejected him because of his age. Many have a policy against hiring men 40 or over. Such men are regarded as "too old."

Too old? At 40 John Glenn, who still conditions himself by running two miles a day, made the greatest leap into space of any American in history. He gave us all a badly needed lesson — that the judgment and skill which come with maturity are at least as important as the blind self-confidence and raw courage that go with youth.

Traditionally, from Alexander the Great to Romeo, we have tended to expect our heroes in both war and love to be young men. At least those who win renown by individual feats in action.

Other Editors Saying To Serve Or Stumble

(Raleigh News & Observer)

There has been much talk about community colleges in North Carolina.

Also, since the failure of the bond issue proposals last fall, there has been much talk of an overcrowding in the State's institutions of higher learning which could deny educational opportunity to many young men and women.

The Consolidated University, however, has shown no inclination to use all its existing resources to open classroom doors to those said to be clamoring for admission. It could do this without great cost if it made its units at Greensboro and Raleigh true community colleges as has been done in the case of the central unit at Chapel Hill.

No one would propose, of course, that dormitories for men be built in the Greensboro unit like the great array of dormitories for women at Chapel Hill which has grown with the steady reduction of barriers against co-eds there. Men could, however, be admitted as day students in Greensboro where no community college now exists. And without great expansion of staff or facilities young men—and women—should be able to seek a basic college degree in general studies at State College.

There can be no question that the community college system is growing in public favor. Such a system would be cheaper for both the State and the students than a small number of State institutions to which students have to go and where provisions must be provided for their living as well as their instruction. And young people in Raleigh and Greensboro will certainly demand such opportunities as community colleges are provided in Charlotte, Wilmington and other towns. As a State institution East Carolina College has faced this need and met it for hundreds—maybe thousands—of young people in the area around it.

The Woman's College at Greensboro today provides at a high standard all the courses a community college should provide. But its doors are tightly closed to men while those at Chapel Hill are opened wider and wider to women. State College already has employed the teaching staff which could provide general education leading to a basic undergraduate degree. But it remains a collection of specialized schools not really even trying to become a coordinated institution of higher learning.

The community colleges are coming—and they will be coming in Raleigh and Greensboro as we as in other towns. The Consolidated University has recognized that in an expansive way so far as the Chapel Hill community is concerned. If it does not recognize it in the two other units, it can expect to see community colleges growing in those cities at greater expense to the State and probable loss of appropriations to the Consolidated University.

Even Thomas Stonewall Jackson, one of the most admired leaders of the Civil War, was dead at 39.

Set Alvin C. York, the most publicized hero of the first World War, was a young man. In the second World War, Audie Murphy had won about every combat medal in the books before he old enough to vote.

Perhaps because we still think of ourselves as a young people, the accent on youth has been almost as pronounced in peace as in war in this country. We have blindly venerated the young at the expense of the middle-aged and the elderly.

Thus parents come to stand in awe of their own children, and many of us begin to think that growing old is the worst of all diseases — if not a positive cure.

We cling desperately, and often ridiculously, to youth as though it were a salvation in itself — and all beyond it darkness. And the rest of the world sensibly laughs at us for this national obsession.

At 40, Glenn did more than prove himself. He opened a new vista of hope to millions of time-fearful men and women by showing them that achievement and heroism are not the property of youth, but are available at any age.

From now on any teen-ager who doesn't show proper respect to our years and gray hairs is likely to get himself bopped.

For in all us middle-aged there is a hero trying to get out — if he can only find the way.

He opens a new vista of hope to millions of time-fearful men and women by showing them that achievement and heroism are not the property of youth, but are available at any age.

18,000 In 'One Team'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Now that we know that the Glenn Team consisted of at least 18,000 persons scattered over the face of the Earth, we have some better understanding of the problems involved in astronautics. The entire machine is a complex of systems, involving enormous mathematical and physical knowledge and those who attend the various instruments must be trained to neverness so that their personal reactions do not produce instantaneous disaster.

We know that the astronaut is not a robot who sits in a cage controlled by buttons. We have heard him at work; we have listened to evidences of intelligent direction of his enterprise and we can witness that he has engaged in intelligent, articulate reporting of his work for permanent record. This was not a "push button" effort but rather the mobilization of intelligence and expertise in many fields and the disciplining of the human will to a selfless goal.

In a word, it is the mind and the spirit of man that still prevails and these enormous accomplishments in new scientific fields, dramatic as they are, come down to the simplicity of an organization chart and the selection of the personnel capable of split-second thinking and decisions that are based not on prejudice but on accurate scientific data.

But there is something more that has to be added — that is the spirit to serve, the subordination of oneself to the judgement of the expert, a willingness to overcome private prejudices for the general good.

In our social system, the reward for labor is money compensation. When that reward is unsatisfactory, the laborer strikes. The astronaut receives piddling monetary reward for his services and knows when he enters upon such a career that it is not money he is looking for; that his wife will not wear mink coats and that his children had better look about them for scholarships.

This is going to make a tremendous change in the outlook of a generation whose hero got $245 for the ride. The monetary compensation just does not count and those who stood at the various machines were sweating it out for the success of a rewardless enterprise. A few of their names and occupations come to us but not one will get a rich movie or TV contract or will sell his life story. This was a selfless contribution to the country and to human knowledge.

And that is important to emphasize because a tremendous social change is occurring in this land which cannot be ignored. While we are still complaining in many quarters that the government is impoverishing us by its brutal taxes, which is true, the young people of the country are mostly going in for public service, in the Army, Navy, Air Force, space, research, public health, nursing and a hundred other public occupations.

For years, we objected to the employment of an enormous personnel by the government. But when we realize that the Glenn Team—one team—consisted of at least 18,000 persons, we have to adjust our thinking to the size of government employment as long as the government is engaged in these enterprises. It must mean that the number of persons to be employed by the government will increase and that they will be more expert from year to year.

The military forces will require more scientists of every kind. The public has seen for itself how the scientists worked on the Glenn Team. We saw a little of it but it does not require much imagination to realize how much scientific knowledge has gone into every phase of the astronautic endeavor. Ambitious boys and girls will be wanting to enter such service not for the money return that it will bring but because it opens the door for increased study and for greater experience. In many fields, the best equipped laboratories will be government operated or attached to private enterprise companies almost exclusively engaged in government contracts." — (Continued on Page 8)

To the Editor:

I wish to join the many loyal friends who have fought this Urban Renewal so valiantly.

First, because I am one of its victims. Secondly, because it is such an inhuman, unchristian act, one that we've never had perpetrated against us before. I wonder if any one, if those who voted for this Urban Renewal ever considered being one of its victims. I am sure not, or they never would have voted for it, not if they really knew how secretive they were, not letting the public know just what their intentions were. When the appraiser came to my door, I did not let him in, and told him it was just communism. He replied he was as much against it as I, or any one else, but that he was being paid and needed work. He also said he wasn't allowed to tell me the amount my home would be appraised for. I am not sure, but I think he said he was a contractor but doing this for Mr. D. G. Nichols, who was the appointed appraiser.

I am nearing my 87th birthday and in very poor health, so much so, I haven't been able to attend any of their meetings, but I do get a first hand report from them, I'd like to know, if they think this is what our town needs to improve it, and if so, let the public know its intentions, not work secretly among themselves. This seems fair and just to me. This isn't the American way that our Government was founded on. It was founded on freedom for all.

I want to thank all who have fought this Urban Renewal and especially Dr. John Wooten, Mr. J. J. Perkins, and Dr. Allen Taylor for their loyal support against it.

What we need most is Christian unity, love and justice for our neighbors.

I am still praying that God in His Infinite, wisdom and goodness, will intervene in some way, and save our town from this Urban Renewal.

Most sincerely,
Mrs. Helen D. Scott

Economic Education For U. S.

By ELMER ROESSNER

Economic education for Americans, as planned by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, appears to be a useful project. Mr. Hodges has asked Commerce experts to draw up a program whereby Americans will be informed about basic economic facts and terms.

While the Secretary is planning to acquaint citizens with the meaning of such terms as the "gross national product" and the "consumer price index," it may be more useful to teach the public some of the even more basic facts of economics.

Half a century ago a large number of Americans believed that if the government needed more money, all it had to do was to print more. Taxes, they thought, were a lot of nonsense; let the printing presses roll!

Economists of the time tried to point out that this wasn't so but many people were reluctant to give up the dream of printing money. When Germany resorted to this system after World War I, and thereby plunged into bankruptcy, many Americans finally understood why simply printing money makes everybody poor instead of everybody rich.

A few clung to the old idea, however. They supported the Townsend plans, and similar pensions and welfare schemes that were variations of printing money plans. The public grew wiser, however, and the "30 every Thursday" proposals were never enacted.

More recently, a comparable economic fallacy has arisen. It appears to be spreading. What is worse, it is being cultivated by political leaders and others who surely know better.

This is the proposition that the Federal government is an endless source of money. "LET SAM DO IT!"

The corollary is that if a city wants to get rid of some slums, or that a state wants some new highways, or that if a university wants to study the molecular structure of a cell, the Federal government can readily put up the money.

"We can't afford it so Washington will have to do it," is a statement that has been heard in every village and metropolis in America. And politicians both in home towns and Washington have been encouraging this. Almost every state and subdivision at this very moment is working on some plan to get money from Washington for some expensive project. And in Washington, vast bureaucracies have been set up to dispense Federal funds to states, subdivisions and individuals.

This proposition ignores the fact that all Federal funds must come from the people. When a state puts up a sign reading, "$100 million highway construction—$90 million U. S. funds, $10 million state funds, it is fooling the public with the truth. Probably the entire $100 million — and perhaps more — comes from the state's own people.

Part of every tax dollar sent to Washington must be used for national defense and other Federal expenses. Another part goes back to states and subdivisions for highway and other local benefits. But this part undergoes considerable shrinkage, because there must be a lot of the top for the bureaucracies that take in and give out the money.

Every cent spent locally by the Federal government must come out of taxes. Federal tax rates have not risen. It is true. That is because collections are higher because incomes have gone up, and because the government is borrowing more. The national debt ceiling has just been increased again.

"BANK HELD REALLY INVESTMENT COMPANY

The New York State Supreme Court has temporarily enjoined the Dollar Industrial Bank Ltd., of Nassau, the Bahamas, from doing business in the state. Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz charged it was an investment company posing as a bank to get deposits.

West Virginia's Thorn Is Captain Of All-Southern

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — West Virginia's Rod Thorn today was named captain of the 1962 All-Southern Conference basketball team, for which he was the only unanimous choice.

The 6-2 Mountaineer junior, following in the footsteps of All-America Jerry West, was the league's most versatile player this season. He led his team in scoring, rebounding, and in assists.

West Virginia partisans also cite Thorn's courage. Though hobbled by a foot injury and later by a severe charleyhorse, he missed only one game while pacing WVU to first place in the conference standings.

"A whole basketball player" is the way Thorn's coach, George King, describes the slim 176-pounder from Princeton, W. Va., who was sought by more than 80 colleges when he graduated from high school.

Joining Thorn on the 1962 all-conference were two other repeaters from the 1961 all-conference five, Jerry Smith of Furman and Gary Daniels of The Citadel, and two newcomers: Bucky Keller and Howard Pardue, both of Virginia Tech.

Daniels and Keller are the only seniors in the lineup. Smith and Thorn are juniors, Pardue a sophomore.

All the honored players are 20-point-plus scorers and all are outstanding rebounders. Each comes from a different state.

Daniels, 6-5, is from Canton, Ohio; Smith, 6-2, from Corbin, Ky.; Keller, 6-3, from Newport News, Va., and Pardue, 6-7, from Jonesville, N. C.

Their collective scoring averages total 119 points. Smith with a 27.5-point average, paced the conference for the regular season and was followed in order by Thorn (23.8), Daniels (23.8), and Keller (22.5). Pardue was the league's No. 7 scorer with a 21.6-point average.

Eighty-five votes were cast in the all-conference balloting among conference coaches, area sports writers and radio-TV sportscasters, and Thorn was named on every first-team ballot.

On the basis of five votes for a first-team vote and three for a second-team vote, the West Virginia star garnered a perfect 425 points. Smith was right behind with 413. Keller had 387 votes, Daniels 304, and Pardue 287.

Pardue, the splendid long-range bomber who helped Virginia Tech to a 17-5 record, nosed out West Virginia's Jim McCormick for the last all-conference berth by a mere six points. McCormick had 281.

With McCormick on the second team were Norm Halberstadt of VMI, with 266 points in the voting; Jon Feldman of George Washington, 255; Bill Jarman, Davidson, 256; and Gerald Glur of Furman, 124.

Honorable mention went to Terry Holland of Davidson (62); Danny Higgins (42); John Telepo (39); and George Grodzicki (27), all of Richmond; Tom Lowry of West Virginia (39); Roger Bergey of William and Mary (36), and Lee Mclear of Virginia Tech (21).

Furman's Smith Tops Southern Scoring Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When it came to putting the ball through the hoop, there was no one in Southern Conference basketball this season in a class with Furman's Jerry Smith.

The 6-foot-2 Paladin junior from Corbin, Ky., ended the regular season last Saturday night with a 27.5-point average in 26 games—far and away the highest in the nine-team league.

Smith poured 714 points through the nets and made 257 field goals, both figures tops in the conference. His 200 points from the free-throw line was second only to the 203 by The Citadel's Gary Daniels, but in free-throw accuracy (82.3 per cent) Smith was No. 1 again.

Rod Thorn of West Virginia, with 595 points in 25 games, and Daniels, with 523 points in 22 starts, finished in a virtual tie for second place in the conference scoring race with 23.8-point averages.

No fewer than five other conference players also scored at a clip of better than 20 points a game. They were Bucky Keller of Virginia Tech, 22.5; Norm Halberstadt of VMI, 22.3; Jon Feldman of George Washington, 21.9; Howard Pardue of Virginia Tech, 21.6, and Bill Jarman of Davidson, 21.4.

Rounding out the top 10 for the regular season were Terry Holland of Davidson, 15.8, and Jim McCormick of West Virginia, 15.4.

McCormick, unfortunately, will miss the conference's championship tournament starting at Richmond Thursday. X-rays showed Monday that calcium deposits on an injured thigh muscle, which had kept the WVU floor leader out of action for a week, still are too severe for him to play in the tournament at Richmond.

The other leading conference scorers, however, will be on hand to square off in some interesting personal duels.

The 2 p.m. Thursday opener between George Washington and Davidson, for instance, matches Feldman and Jarman. At 4 p.m. Daniels will try to offset Keller and Pardue when Virginia Tech meets The Citadel.

Thorn will face no individual scorer of his talents in the 7:30 p.m. clash between West Virginia and Richmond, but the Smith-Halberstadt duel should be a dilly when Furman and VMI meet at 9:30.

RALEIGH (AP) — The 10,000 fans who streamed into the Charlotte Coliseum for a basketball doubleheader 10 days ago weren't aware of it then, but they were watching a preview of half of the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

North Carolina State nipped Clemson 73-71 on John Pungler's basket as the final horn sounded in the first game and South Carolina's speedy Gamecocks ran by North Carolina 97-82 in the nightcap.

"The same pairings hold when the conference championship tournament begins here Thursday with four games.

N. C. State and Clemson start the fireworks at 2 p.m. North Carolina plays South Carolina in the final game at 9:30 p.m. In between, second-seeded Duke engages Maryland at 4 o'clock and top-ranked Wake Forest meets Virginia's tailenders at 7:30.

In his six years as Clemson coach, Press Maravich has won only 53 games against 95 losses. None of the defeats hurt more than the one inflicted by N. C. State on Feb. 17.

His underdog Tigers, beaten 80-64 in a game on N. C. State's court three weeks earlier, played well enough to win at Charlotte. Seven times they had tied the score, the last time after being seven points down with seven minutes to play.

But Pungler's 15-footer as time ran out killed the Tigers. Earlier this season, Pungler's last-second basket beat Duke, 61-60.

Clemson came back from that disappointment by beating Virginia and Maryland on successive nights on the road last weekend to finish sixth in the conference with a 4-10 record. The Tigers' overall 10-14 record is Clemson's best since 1952.

The Charlotte doubleheader also demonstrated that South Carolina coach Bob Stevens has a dangerous array of shooters who can run all night and will be trouble in the tournament for anybody.

The Gamecocks, after leading N. C. State by 14 points the first night, lost a 76-75 squeaker. The following night against North Carolina they got even for an 83-71 loss on the Tar Heels' court with a strong offensive display in which six men hit in double figures.

In each of the other first round tournament pairings the seeded team twice walloped its foe over the regular season.

Wake Forest ran up 200 points against Virginia, mauling the Cavallers 116-67 two weeks ago. In this game Len Chappell, conference scoring leader, hit a season's ACC high and Wake Forest school record of 50 points. Two months earlier he scored 35 as the Deacons won at Virginia 84-65.

Duke polished off Maryland 84-68 in January behind a 38-point outburst by Art Heyman on the Duke Court. A month later the Blue Devils went up to Maryland and made it more convincing, 79-53, outscoring the Terps 19-1 on one stage of the first half.

The tournament will produce the ACC representative in the NCAA Eastern Regional playoffs, starting March 12 at Philadelphia. The ACC winner will play the Ivy League champion, most likely Yale.

Some Revisions But Not For Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were some revisions in this week's edition of The Associated Press college basketball rankings, but Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes remained unchallenged as No. 1.

For the eleventh successive week the unbeaten Buckeyes were unanimous choices for the top, collecting the first-place votes on all 47 experts on AP's nationwide panel.

Kansas State advanced one notch, moving into third place. Kentucky and Utah supplanted Oregon State in tenth place. Oregon State was upset by Idaho last Friday night for its third straight loss. Voting was done on the basis of results through last Saturday.

Otherwise, rated teams held their positions.

Ohio State is the Big Ten chamion, Bowling Green has wrapped up the Mid-American title and all eight of the other ranked squads are contending for major conference championships.

The rankings, based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 tabulation with first-place votes in parentheses:

|----------------------|-----|
| 1. Ohio State (47) | 470 |
| 2. Cincinnati | 345 |
| 3. Kansas State | 345 |
| 4. Kentucky | 340 |
| 5. Mississippi State | 273 |
| 6. Bradley | 183 |
| 7. Bowling Green | 183 |
| 8. Duke | 121 |
| 9. Colorado | 69 |
| 10. Utah | 30 |

Yankee Payroll Soars As Maris Signs For $72,000

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The skyrocketing New York Yankee payroll, highest in the major leagues, reached unprecedented heights today following the signing of Roger Maris to a $72,000 contract for 1962.

With four players earning $50,000 or better and 10 others receiving $20,000 or more, the Yankee payroll is a record $800,000.

The mighty rajah, who hit 61 home runs in '61, for a one-season major league high, received a 96 per cent increase Monday. He was paid $37,500 last year, when he led the American League with 142 runs batted in, 366 total bases and was voted the Most Valuable Player for the second straight time.

The 28-year old left-handed slugger thus becomes the fourth highest salaried player in Yankee history. Joe DiMaggio drew $100,000 a season in 1950 and 1951. Babe Ruth was paid $80,000 a year in 1930 and 1931, and Mickey Mantle reportedly is getting $82,000 this season.

"This easily is the largest payroll in the history of the Yankee organization, or that of any other organization for that matter," said Roy Hamey, the Yankees' general manager. "We are happy to pay it. The Yankees enjoyed a good year in 1961—both financially and artistically—and the players were responsible. I hope we have an even better year in '62 and we will gladly pay the fellows accordingly."

Whitey Ford, who led the pitchers with a brilliant 25-4 record, was boosted to $50,000, the same salary commanded by Yogi Berra, the veteran catcher turned outfielder. Elston Howard, who enjoyed a spectacular season both at bat and behind the plate, was given a $10,000 raise to $42,000. Moose Skowron, the slugging first baseman, got a small raise to $35,000.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson received a $5,000 raise to $25,000; pitcher Ralph Terry for $24,000; outfielder Hector Lopez for $23,500; and pitcher Bob Turley for $23,000. The latter, a $30,000 performer last year, accepted a 12 per cent cut.

Others in the $20,000 category include relief ace Luis Arroyo ($22,000); handyman Johnny Blanchard ($21,500); and third baseman Clete Boyer ($20,000).

Maris refused to predict how many home runs he would collect this season.

"I'll take them as they come," he said. "I don't believe in counting my chickens before they are hatched."

Pro Fighter For 14 Seconds

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph (Ace) Falu was a professional prize fighter for just 14 seconds.

"All I wanted to do," said the 22-year-old Puerto Rican middleweight today, "was to have a few fights. I didn't want to be a champion. I'm a business man."

Falu's lightning career started and ended Monday night in St. Nicholas Arena when he was knocked out by Norman Cassaberry of Brooklyn in 14 seconds of the first round of a scheduled four-round preliminary.

Not since St. Nick's opened its doors in 1902 has a fighter gone down faster than Falu.

But it wasn't all his fault.

Just as the bell rang, Falu, an ex-Golden Glover, came out to the middle of the ring and put his glove out to shake Cassaberry's hand.

Wham!

Cassaberry, who had three fights behind him, fired a left-right combination to Ace's chin and down he went. Referee George Coyle tolled up to seven and Ace staggered to his feet.

Coyle took one look at him and pronounced Cassaberry the winner.

The fastest knockout on record came Sept. 2, 1952, when Bob Robert, a welterweight, stopped Teddy Barker in 10 seconds of the first round at Maestag, Wales.

Three Cs Still To Sign '62 Contracts

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the Yankees have the M&M tandem neatly under contract, the major league signing spotlight can swing to C. C. & C. Roger Maris' decision to sign with the Yankees for $72,000, joining Mickey Mantle, (who long ago settled with pleasure for an $82,000 contract) left baseball with three key players to satisfy — Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito of the Detroit Tigers and Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants.

Ironically, each of the C's is included in the select company most think might challenge the record 61 home runs Maris clubbed last year to set himself up for the nearly 100 per cent raise he got from Yankee Gen. Mgr. Roy Hamey in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday.

Both Cash, who led the American League in hitting with a .361 average, and Colavito, who crashed 45 homers and drove in 140 runs, are working out informally with the Tigers at their Lakeland, Fla., base. But Colavito particularly is being tough to deal with.

"I've reached the saturation point with Colavito," said Rick Ferrell, the Tiger vice president who handles the salary negotiations. Ferrell said he has counted Colavito's rejections with three increases without reaching the figure Rocky has in mind. Colavito reportedly wants at least a $15,000 raise to $50,000.

Cash, who outhit Maris by nearly 100 points, slugged 41 home runs and drove in 132 runs. As a reminder to Ferrell the husky first baseman rapped one drive over the right field fence during workout Monday.

Cepeda, who hit 311 and powered 46 home runs and drove in 142, wants the Giants to double his salary to $50,000.

Beside Maris, who will begin

Working Out With The Yanks Wednesday, Signers Monday

working out with the Yanks Wednesday, signers Monday included fiery Jim Piersall, for the Washington Senators; first baseman Joe Adcock and right-hander Bob Buhl with the Milwaukee Braves; infielder Billy Goodman with the Chicago White Sox; and outfielder Whitey Herzog with the Baltimore Orioles.

Piersall's contract represented about a $10,000 increase over the salary he drew last season with the Yankees when the madcap centerfielder hit .322 — hit first year over .300. The $45,000 is a record for the Senators—old or new. Roy Sievers, now with the Philadelphia Phillies, was paid $38,000 in 1958 before the club switched to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

May Be Tried In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Frank L. (Lefty) Rosenthal, arrested last week in his plush Miami apartment on a charge of trying to fix an NCAA regional tournament basketball game here in 1960, may be tried in Mecklenburg County instead of in Raleigh.

Mecklenburg Solicitor Kenneth R. Downs said Monday he will ask the county grand jury to indict Rosenthal on a charge of attempting to fix the NYU-West Virginia game. Rosenthal was arrested on a warrant from Wake County.

Downs refused to comment on the possibility that the Wake indictment might not be valid, but said he is seeking an indictment here "because there will be no problems that way."

Rosenthal is free on $20,000 bond, awaiting extradition proceedings.

Retirement Is Now Official

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He has been hinting at it for some time and now Parry O'Brien has made it official: He is retiring from shot putting.

The 30-year-old former University of Southern California weight man said Monday he is giving up the shot but will maintain his amateur status and throw the discus in several meets this year.

O'Brien formerly held the outdoor mark of 63 feet, 4 inches for the shot and did 63-5 only to have Bill Nieder do 65-10 the same year (1960). O'Brien still holds the recognized indoor mark, 63-1½, but Gary Gubner recently did 64-11¼.

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Kate Lawson was waiting apprehensively at a London airport to meet her fiancé, Maurice Holmes. They had been apart two years, while he was on business in the U. S. After so long a time did Maurice still have the same affection for her that had led to their becoming engaged? His letters hadn't appeared to change in tone, but they had been arriving further apart. Possibly that was only because of business demands and distractions.

The plane landed and her heart beat faster. Straining her eyes for a sight of Maurice as the passengers disembarked, Kate was bowled over viciously by an Alsatian dog. Sprawled on the ground, she was conscious of being hit on the side of her head, and then blackness came over her.

She regained consciousness with a doctor attending her. Looking around, her first thought was Maurice. There was no sign of him.

CHAPTER 2

"But where is he?" Kate Lawson exclaimed as she struggled up. Then she realized what must have happened. She had been lying down in this corner. Maurice had come in, looked round, seen no sign of her, and gone off. It was the most mortifying thing imaginable.

"Now don't get excited," the young doctor cautioned.

"Excited?" Kate echoed, hopelessly. "If you only knew—"

Five minutes later she was being escorted to a small office. She felt more herself, except that there was a bump at the side of her head which beat rather painfully. The sergeant was saying: "I'll have a call put out for Mr. Holmes. Unless he's gone by taxi, we'll find him. The terminal bus hasn't left yet."

He bustled off, and the young doctor ordered coffee for Kate. He had a rather casual, non-chalant manner, was not really good-looking, and had only a little down hair at the front of his head, although it was bushy enough at the back.

"You're very good," Kate said. She heard a voice over the loudspeaker, but there was not one in this room, and she could not distinguish the words.

"There goes your message," the doctor declared. "It's ten to one that you'll find Mr. Holmes."

"How long was I lying there?" demanded Kate.

"About twenty minutes altogether," the doctor answered. "And they don't lose a lot of time these days with the Customs. No one was held up for special questioning tonight, I gather. Anyhow, Mr. Holmes knows where to find you at home, doesn't he?"

Kate said: "I suppose he'll go straight to my flat." But obviously she couldn't be sure, and in any case Maurice would not only be disappointed, it would feel badly let down. She had said in her last letter that she would be at the airport that she couldn't wait to see him.

"He'll know it's unavoidable, anyhow," the doctor soothed, and then the door opened and a girl appeared, carrying a tray with coffee and lump sugar.

The doctor put in three lumps of sugar, stirred it thoroughly into the coffee, and was obviously trying to keep Kate's mind off the waiting. She had nearly finished the hot coffee when the door opened again and the sergeant appeared.

"He's not on the bus and doesn't appear to be on the airport," he announced. "Very sorry about that, miss, but there isn't anything else I can do."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," declared the doctor. "I was just going off duty when the call came, and I'm in a heck of a hurry to get to London. I'll get your home almost as soon as Mr. Holmes arrives there, if not before."

The doctor's car was small, sleek, and bright red. Smoothly but at a considerable speed they went along the wide roads of the airport, through the tunnel, out on the main road. The doctor swerved in and out of traffic and kept Kate sitting on the edge of her seat.

He slowed down towards a corner. "No need to think we'll crash," he reassured her. "I think too much of my young life." He glanced at her, smiling pleasantly. His round, pinkish face with its small, snub nose, still gave the impression of youthfulness, and yet the bald patch at the front of his head made him seem quite old. "Meeting boy friend?" he inquired.

"Yes."

"How long's he been away?"

"Two years."

"Has he, b'gosh?" The doctor looked away from her. From then on, either he drove more slowly or else had managed to ease her fears, for she sat back, quite relaxed; but she almost wished that were not so, because immediately she began worrying about Maurice again.

Then a new, disturbing thought entered her head. If she had been unconscious for twenty minutes, he hadn't waited very long, and had made no allowance for the possibility that she had been held up in traffic. If he were as impatient as that, it might be a bad sign. Why did she feel that everything was not as it should be?

They neared Hammersmith.

"Where is your place?" asked the doctor, at last.

"Oh, I'm sorry. In Chelsea."

"That's good. Not far from me. I've a place in Victoria." He grinned, and grinning his nose looked snubber and his face looked younger than before. "Fulham way best?"

"Yes."

"We should be at your place in twenty minutes flat from the airport," the doctor guessed. "If any taxi gets there before us the driver ought to go to jail. With a bit of luck, you'll be on your doorstep to welcome Mr. What's-his-name."

They turned into King's Road, Fulham.

"I've a studio flat in Gillivry Street," Kate explained.

"I know the very street," the doctor told her. "Do you paint?"

"No. I have a small business in Knightsbridge."

"Really?"

"Making and selling hats."

"Well, well!" exclaimed the doctor, and shot a glance at her, grinning again. "I would have sworn it was millinery, clothes or art. Will you think it impudent if I tell you it's a real pleasure to see someone not only worthy of good clothes but dressed in them?"

Kate was startled into a laugh.

"I knew you would have a kindly nature, too," the doctor said. "My name's Kennedy—Mike Kennedy, one of the staff doctors at the airport. Yours was the most unusual job I've had to do. I think. You must have fallen down in a queer way."

"Why?"

"The worst bump's on the side of your head."

As he spoke, Kate remembered being struck on the side of the head after she had fallen. She told Kennedy this, and he hummed a little, remarked again that it was queer, and came to the conclusion that someone had probably gone to her help and fallen over her. Then he turned in Gillivry Street, and Kate said: "Number 17—just past that lamp post on the right."

"Right. Mind a little more advice?" Kennedy went on. "Don't take any alcohol tonight, treat that bruise and bump with proper respect. It isn't anything serious but it will be tender for a few days. I shouldn't put anything on it, but bathing in cold water won't do it any harm. I shouldn't model any hats for a week, anyhow."

He chuckled as he drew up outside the tall, grey, grimy-terrace house where she had her flat, and she had an impression that he was talking to try to help her over the moment of disappointment.

Also, a new type of business firm that becomes important in this effort is an altogether different complex of productivity. As their names came over the air, they rang no familiar note. They are scientific firms and the men who manage them are scientists rather than salesmen. Their principal customer is the government. It takes them a year or two to produce a single item and then they are not sure that it will work. It's a new world.

Fidel Says—

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro has sent a communique to the Soviet Union promising to claim the U. S. naval station at Guantanamo Bay, Havana Radio said Monday night in a broadcast monitored here.

The broadcast quoted the note as saying: "Cuba will demand its legal right to claim the U. S. Guantanamo Naval Base as the only foreign military outpost in its territory, and has no intention of permitting military establishments of any nation within its boundaries."

The broadcast did not elaborate.

The note also expressed gratitude to the Soviet Union for its recent declarations of solidarity with the Cuban people.

Can Measure Torso-Twisting
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A device that measures the torso torque and shake rate of dancers doing the Twist has been developed at the University of Toledo.

The "twistometer" is the brainchild of Dr. Edward T. Kirkpatrick, head of the mechanical engineering department. It was built as a stunt for a university dance.

Kirkpatrick says the device measures both quality and quantity. An enthusiastic but ragged performance causes jagged lines on an oscilloscope. A more experienced and seductive twist produces an even pattern.

Boys rate high in effort, but the girls are more skillful, Kirkpatrick said.

NOTICE OF SALE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust executed and delivered to J. Claude Gaskins and wife, Hester P. Gaskins, to Kenneth G. Hite, Trustee, dated January 2, 1961, of record in Book E-32, page 47, of the Pitt County Registry of Pitt County, North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured thereby and other provisions of said instrument violated and at the request of the holder and owner of the note secured by said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash before the Court-house door in Greenville, North Carolina, on Friday, March 23, 1962, at 12:00 o'clock noon, all the following described tracts or parcels of land:

Lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

PARCEL ONE: That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, about four miles west of Greenville on the south side of Tar River and on the north side of the Greenville-Falkland hard surfaced road, and bounded on the north by Tar River, on the south by the Greenville-Falkland hard surfaced road, on the east by Lot No. 1 in the Division of lands of Edward and Gordon Evans, on the west by the lands of Gus Forbes, containing 86 acres, more or less, and being Lot No. 2 in the Division of the lands of Edward and Gordon Evans land, as shown in the Division in Special Proceeding No. 2726 in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County.

PARCEL TWO: That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, about four miles west of Greenville, North Carolina, adjoining Lot No. 2 in the Division of the lands of Edward and Gordon Evans, and bounded on the north by Tar River, on the south by the Greenville-Falkland hard surfaced road, on the east by the lands of Mrs. Nannie Evans, on the west by Lot No. 2 in the Division of the lands of Edward and Gordon Evans, and containing 61 acres, more or less, and being Lot No. 1 in the Division of the lands of Edward and Gordon Evans made during the year 1926, as shown on map of W. C. Dresbach, C. E., dated September 17, 1926, and filed in the Special Proceeding No. 2726 in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, to which map and proceeding reference is hereby made for a more accurate and complete description.

The interest to be sold in PARCELS ONE and TWO described above is a one-half undivided interest.

PARCEL THREE: That certain lot or parcel of land together with the permanent improvements thereon lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, at the northeast corner of Sixth and Maple Streets in "Wilson Acres Subdivision" and being more particularly described as follows: BEGINNING at the point of intersection of the northern property line of Sixth Street with the eastern property line of Maple Street and running thence north 8-45 east along the eastern line of Maple Street 140 feet; running thence south 84-50 east 93 feet; running thence south 8-33 west 140 feet; running thence north 84-50 west 93.1 feet to a stake the point of BEGINNING and being all of Lot No. 5 and part of Lot No. 6 in Block "B" of the "Wilson Acres Subdivision" according to map of same of record in Pitt County.

The interest to be sold in the Third parcel is a fee simple interest. PARCEL THREE will be sold subject to two prior deeds of trust against the premises of record in Book F-27, page 410, and Book W-30, at page 350 of the Pitt County Registry, reference to which is hereby directed.

All parcels will be sold subject to outstanding taxes and assessments.

Highest bidder required to deposit ten percent (10%) of bid. Sale remains open ten (10) full days for confirmation.

This 20th day of February, 1962.

NEW YORK (AP) — Improvement in the industrials gave an irregular stock market a slightly higher drift early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose .20 to 258.30 with industrials up .80, rails unchanged, utilities off .10. Selected gains of fractions to about a point emerged late in the morning from a virtually trendless list. The higher tone prevailed in dull trading.

Oils and chemicals moved moderately higher. Steels were barely ahead. Aircrafts were unchanged to lower. Utilities, nonferrous metals and rails were spotty.

Amerasia snapped back more than 3 points and MGM recouped 2 or more.

Du Pont came back a couple of points. Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak and Air Reduction were up fractions.

Ford and Chrysler showed gains of around a point while GM and American Motors were about unchanged.

U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers were among the gainers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.84 at 709.66. Prices were irregular on the School Official . . .

(Continued from page one) notified the girl's parents. In the warrant issued yesterday and signed by the mother of the girl, Sledge is charged with "maliciously, feloniously and forcibly" ravishing and committing rape against the girl's will.

A medical examination showed the girl had been penetrated, detectives explained, but doctors, from their examination were unable to say if it had been a forcible act.

A preliminary hearing on the charges is tentatively scheduled for Greenville Recorders Court March 1. Court officials noted, however, that there may be a special session of court called before that time.

Sledge, who is married and has one son, is a native of Warren County. His wife is a teacher in the Greenville City School system.

He has held teaching positions at Greenville's C. M. Eppes High School and at schools in Troy, New Bern, Rowland and Asheville. He graduated from high school in Greensboro, and received his B.S. degree from A & T College in Greensboro in 1933. He completed his Master's Degree requirements at Menominee, Wis. in 1950.

Sledge is in his fifth year as consultant and coordinator for the County's Negro schools. Investigation of the incident is continuing, detectives said.

Plaque Presented W. Clayton House

W. Clayton House of Bethel, recently retired supervisor for Pitt County in the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, was honored Monday by presentation of a plaque.

Chairman of the supervisors Arch J. Flanagan of Farmville made the presentation to House at a luncheon meeting of supervisors from the four counties in the district, Pitt, Edgecombe, Greene and Martin.

House was succeeded by Hugh Winslow of Greenville last fall in the Soil Conservation Service elections. He first became a district supervisor in 1948 and had served continuously until his retirement last fall.

In making the presentation, Flanagan expressed the gratitude of the supervisors and of the "valuable and faithful service in helping us conserve our resources." The plaque cited House for "distinguished service" to the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District.

Also at Monday's meeting, 42 Pitt Counties were honored for their contributions — totaling $1,500 to the Hugh Bennett Professorship Fund, a memorial to the late Dr. Bennett designed to enhance the quality of professors in soils at N. C. State College.

Six of the 42 attended the luncheon and received their citations. They were Flanagan, Winslow, J. V. Taylor of Bethel, Billy Phillips of Grifton, C. C. Bernabey of Greenville and J. Brantley Speight of Winterville.

Lon Edwards of Snow Hill, chairman of the four-county district's Board of Supervisors, addressed the meeting, urging increased and continued support for the professorship fund which has an eventual state-wide goal of $100,000.

Edwards told the meeting Pitt County and the Coastal Plain District should be leaders in the effort to raise the necessary funds. Pitt County presented its $1,500 contribution to the fund in Edenton last fall.

Monday's luncheon meeting followed a morning gathering of supervisors from the four counties. The morning meeting was held at the Pitt County Office Building in Greenville.

Departments attending the meeting included: Belyvoir, Station-House, Falkland, Farmville, Eastern Pines, Winterville, Red Oak, and Bell Arthur.

NEW YORK (AP) — Improvement in the industrials gave an irregular stock market a slightly higher drift early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose .20 to 258.30 with industrials up .80, rails unchanged, utilities off .10. Selected gains of fractions to about a point emerged late in the morning from a virtually trendless list. The higher tone prevailed in dull trading.

Oils and chemicals moved moderately higher. Steels were barely ahead. Aircrafts were unchanged to lower. Utilities, nonferrous metals and rails were spotty.

Amerasia snapped back more than 3 points and MGM recouped 2 or more.

Du Pont came back a couple of points. Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak and Air Reduction were up fractions.

Ford and Chrysler showed gains of around a point while GM and American Motors were about unchanged.

U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers were among the gainers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.84 at 709.66. Prices were irregular on the

Grifton Teacher Speaks At Library Observance

AYDEN—Mrs. A. E. Jackson, teacher of the Grifton Elementary School, was keynote speaker at the second anniversary observance of Charlotte Hawkins Brown Memorial Library, observed Thursday at Zion Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Four other speakers appeared on the program, with other remarks by library officials.

Mrs. Jackson discussed the organization of the first library and described the different library systems.

Mrs. Lizzie Cox, adult discussed "What the Library Means To Me," emphasizing the use she and her family had made of the library during leisure time.

Lena Outlaw, student, told "What the Library Has Done and Is Doing for the Town and Community." William Aytch, also a student, spoke on "The Library and Its Values," comparing the value of a library with the value of shoe polish.

He said, "The value of shoe polish is to brighten the shoe; the value of a library is to brighten the knowledge."

Annias Smith, president of the Library Club, presented a history of the local library, recalling that it came into existence in February of 1960 with Mrs. Mary Belle Dixon as librarian. The library has celebrated National Book Week, put posters in the library and staged clean-up campaigns in and out-

Biology Teachers To Give Award

The National Association of Biology Teachers is inaugurating an Annual Award Program to select the Outstanding Teachers of High School Biology, in each state, it has been announced by Donn L. Dieter, state director-award program, of Charlotte.

The award will be a plaque or certificate and appropriate local, state and national recognition. In addition, the state winners of each region will be evaluated by The American Institute of Biological Sciences and a regional winner will be selected.

Any person interested in the recognition of a worthy high school biology teacher may nominate. A person may nominate himself.

The offering was raised by Mrs. M. B. Dixon and was followed by pledges toward the purchase of a lot for a new library site. Pledges totaling $300 were taken. The future site of the library is on Venters Street.

Also participating in the program were the Rev. W. M. Dixon, scripture; the Rev. O. J. Harris, prayer; Linda K. Walton, mistress of ceremonies; Mrs. M. T. Burney, welcome address on behalf of the church; Miss Jacqueline Jackson, welcome address in behalf of the library; Roger Ingram, pianist, presented the prelude. Music was rendered by the Gospel Cordettes.

At the conclusion of the program, supper was served in the church's dining hall with Mrs. Mattie Norcott, Mrs. M. T. Burney and Mrs. Catherine Davis as hostesses.

Dr. Trevathan Voted New President Of Rotary Club

Dr. G. Earl Trevathan, Jr. last night was elected president of the Greenville Rotary Club for the coming year.

Other officers elected were J. B. Kittrell, Jr., vice president; Wendell W. Smiley, secretary-treasurer; Harold Thomas, sergeant-at-arms; and directors Hugh Winslow, Guilford Worsley, Dr. Sam White, II, and Dr. John Wooten.

The new officers will assume their duties July 1. Three past district governors of Rotary International who are members of the Greenville club presented a program commemorating the 57th anniversary of the founding of Rotary. Dr. James W. Butler, Dr. Howard McGinnis and Dr. Sylvester Green made brief talks on different phases of Rotary and its work.

Dr. McGinnis traced briefly the development of Rotary in this section of North Carolina and the growth of Rotary International. He pointed out that there are now more than 11,000 Rotary clubs throughout the world with more than half a million members.

Over the years, he said, the Rotary district of which the Greenville club is a member has eight different designations. At one time the district covered three states, but with the growth in the number of Rotary Clubs, the district now includes more than 40 clubs in 22 counties of Eastern North Carolina.

Dr. Green asserted Rotary is the "spirit of service" and that it emphasizes good citizenship, service to ones fellow men both within the community and throughout the entire scope of Rotary International. It is a progressive organization, he said, and seeks to push things forward. It is an organization short on creed and long on character.

Dr. Butler touched on the international aspects of Rotary, pointing out that through its clubs and members in many parts of the world its activities have contributed greatly to better understanding between citizens of different nations.

Inquest Wednesday In Robersonville Shooting

ROBERSONVILLE — A coroner's inquest into the fatal shooting Saturday of a New Bern man is set for the city courtroom here at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Martin County Coroner Billy Biggs said today the six-man panel will investigate the death of a patient at the Robersonville Clinic, Roland Glenn Moore, 40.

Reports here today were that Biggs would not select jurors from Robersonville because of intense feelings concerning the shooting among townspeople.

However, Biggs said he knew nothing of such a situation. He said he selected the six jurors from Martin County on the basis of convenience.

According to law officers, Moore died on the porch of the home of Jesse Earl Wynne, 43, about 6:30 a.m. Saturday. It was reported that Wynne had admitted shooting Moore with a .22 caliber revolver.

Wynne, whose residence is about 100 yards from the clinic, was required to post $1,000 bond pending his appearance at Wednesday's hearing, postponed from Monday to avoid a conflict with Moore's funeral.

According to a story of the shooting attributed to Wynne by Police William T. Smith and Martin County Sheriff Raymond

One big dazzler... one little gem... now join the world's greatest V-8 collection

405-HP THUNDERBIRD V-8—Thirty years of Ford experience culminate in this startling V-8. Available in every Galaxie, it puts 405 horses under the throttle, a dazzling level of acceleration that cannot be imagined but must be felt. A super-performance option, it comes only with the four-speed gear box. But, unlike some "special" engines that require delicate tuning and modification, it puts out its potential right off the showroom floor. Even more impressive, Ford skill has made it a docile tiger; it idles smoothly, it is durable, its super capacity does not come at the expense of harshness and noise. Among expert drivers, it is praised as a true high-performance V-8 in America . . . the pace-setter for 9 other V-8's tailored to every driving need.

NEW FAIRLANE CHALLENGER "260" V-8—When the 221-cubic-inch Fairlane V-8 appeared last fall, automotive writers hailed it as a great basic advance, a compact jewel of design. Now, the "260" V-8 proves their prediction. With 164 hp, 19 more than the standard version, Fairlane gains a new brilliance of performance—but it still runs on "regular," still outsaves any standard-size Six. It has the durability of time-tested cast iron, slimmed and lightened by Ford's precision-casting technique. Created by the one maker who has built 30,000,000 V-8's since 1932, it brings the sparkle and smoothness of V-8 power well within the thrifty budget's reach, puts truly sophisticated engineering at the service of truly economical motoring.
