Survey Turns Up Possible Shelter For 93,190 In Pitt Available

Not All Sites Adequately Ventilated; Emergency Food Supplies To Be Ordered

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

Some 93,190 persons could be sheltered in Pitt County in buildings with a safety factor of 20 per cent, provide they are adequately ventilated, according to the first part of a Civil Defense shelter survey conducted here.

Results of the first step of the survey showed that in Greenville and Pitt County, 39 buildings were found with a safety factor as high as 20 per cent. Most of the buildings are located on the campus of East Carolina College. Civil Defense Director J. H. Rose pointed out.

Providing all these buildings have adequate ventilation, 93,190 people could be sheltered in them in the event of nuclear attack, with a safety factor of 20 per cent.

However, further study shows some of the buildings rated with the above safety factor do not have adequate ventilation. 500 cubic feet would have to be allowed per person instead of 10 square feet, the allowance with adequate ventilation. This consequently would reduce shelter space.

The first step of the shelter survey has been completed here, Rose said, by engineers including the local firm of Rivers and Associates Inc. Now engineers must approach the owner or owners of each of the 39 buildings and obtain written agreement to make further inspection and complete the second step of the survey. In this phase, engineers will make a study of what can be done to upgrade each building to make it safer.

The determining factor of safety in the buildings was mass above the structure, Rose said. He pointed out that a building such as Rose High School—which was not rated with the 20 per cent safety factor—lacked mass above the building. Most modern school buildings are constructed similarly.

The only 100 per cent safe building in the county at present would be George Cherry's fall-out shelter in Pactolus, which has been designated an alternate CD command post in the event of emergency.

While 10 square feet per person should be allocated in a well ventilated building, one cubic foot per person should be allowed for food supplies in each shelter. Supplies will be shipped to Rose in Greenville and will be stored at the Pitt County fair grounds.

"I will order the supplies after the engineers finish with phase two and tell me how many people will be allowed in each building and provided the owners will allow me space to store a 14-day food supply in those buildings," Rose stated. He noted that the owners of the buildings would not be responsible for supplies stored in the buildings for Civil Defense.

At present, the only CD items requiring special care are the radiological monitoring kits. The list of 39 buildings with a safety factor of 20 per cent included only one outside Greenville: a portion of the Ayden High School, with an estimated capacity of 150.

Other buildings, located in Greenville, and it should be pointed out that portions of some of these buildings are included, rather than the whole: Dorm No. three, E.C.C.; Paul Jones Dorm, Wilson Hall Dorm, Jarvis Hall Dorm, Ragdale Hall, Garrett Hall, Umstead Hall, Slay Hall, E.C.C. library, E.C.C. gymnasium, Graham Building, Austin Building, E.C.C. Cafeteria, Wahl-Coates Training School at E.C.C. Wright Building, E. B. Aycock Dormitory, E. E. Rawl Building, Flanagan Hall, Administration Building, Cotten Dormitory, Fleming Hall, Erwin Hall, Infirmary and Maintenance Building, all located at East Carolina College.

In Greenville—Rivers Building at 201 Evans St.; Pitt County Court House, Pitt County Jail, U. S. Post Office, Proctor Hotel, City Hall Building, Wachovia Bank (main branch), Planters Bank, Methodist Student Center, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Imperial Tobacco, VOA building, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, Water Purify.

Some of these buildings which would have capacity for a large number of people, if adequately ventilated, would be the Pitt Memorial Hospital, Imperial Tobacco Co., Jarvis Methodist.

Heavy Fire Loss For Local Firm

Building Almost Complete Wreck

Greenville firemen worked for several hours early today extinguishing deep smoldering embers in the remains of the United Glass and Top Works Building on May Street following a blaze which almost destroyed the firm's building and stock.

Fire Chief George W. Gardner said the department was first notified of the fire by telephone about 11:47 p.m. The caller, according to the official, said flames were breaking through the roof at that time.

When fire units arrived on the scene, they found the building totally engulfed by fire, the chief explained.

Over 1,800 feet of hose was used in fighting the blaze. Fire officers said the destructive fire apparently started in the middle part of the wood-and-tin building next to the offices. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Fire Prevention Bureau head, Capt. Lyman Nethercutt quoted J. L. Jackson, owner of the firm as saying stock, machinery and building were valued at $45,000. The loss was only partly covered by insurance, Jackson was quoted as saying.

An investigation will be made in an attempt to determine the exact cause of the fire, officers noted.

Robersonville Man Is Indicted For Murder

WILLIAMSTON — Jesse Earl Wynne, 43-year-old Robersonville man, was indicted for murder here Monday by the Martin County grand jury.

Wynne, charged in the fatal shooting of Roland Glenn Moore, 40, of New Bern at the Wynne home Feb. 24, was released under $2,000 bond pending trial in Superior Court here during the June 18 term.

The grand jury met here Monday as a term of Superior Court got underway with Judge Rudolph I. Mintz presiding.

Moore, a patient at the Robersonville Clinic, was reported to have wandered away from the clinic and tried to enter Wynne's house near the clinic. The shooting occurred about 6:30 a.m. Feb. 24. Two .22 caliber bullets struck and killed Moore, a New Bern forester.

Russians Resume Harassment

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians resumed harassing flights in the Berlin air corridors today after a two-day pause.

An informed source said the Soviets sent several transports through the air lanes. But Western Allied aircraft flew on schedule without incident, the informant added.

British Offer Cut Nuclear Ban Enforcement Terms

GENEVA (AP)—Britain told Russia today that it is willing to cut enforcement machinery to the absolute minimum in order to get agreement on a nuclear test ban.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home made an urgent appeal directly to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in the 17-nation disarmament conference to accept a reasonable compromise.

There was no immediate Soviet reaction. Gromyko has been adamant against any inspection. However, he said Monday it would be "insulting" to suggest the Soviet Union would violate its word.

"We will cooperate both in the field of nuclear tests and of general disarmament in dividing the absolute minimum of verification. Home said. "But verification there must be, for without it we shall not gain the confidence even to begin to ban tests, let alone tackle the problems of wider disarmament."

Home's emphasis on the possibility of concessions to Russia on the inspection issue tended to confirm reports that the British government was pressing the United States to cut back on its demands for policing machinery. But there were indications of a British hardening on some key aspects.

Home said "we have no evidence from the scientists to support" the Soviet argument that all nuclear explosions could be detected and identified by outside instruments so that international inspection teams were unnecessary. However, Home introduced the idea of inspection by "sampling." He said he would like to know if Gromyko would accept the "sampling technique of inspection."

Disarmament experts use this term to cover a check by inspectors visiting at random some areas of a nuclear power but not checking the whole country.

A British spokesman said the concept of control posts in a nuclear country had not been dropped, however.

Indian Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon then put forth a compromise plan of his own, based on Russia's concept of national inspection systems to police a test ban.

He suggested that national inspection systems, such as those of Russia and the Western powers, be supplemented by a system to be set up in neutral countries. But Western officials considered the weakness of his plan was that it would not send international teams inside a country to verify the findings of outside detection stations.

Swedish Foreign Minister Olof Udden, also probing for some means to put a halt to the testing phase of the nuclear arms race, suggested that the Western powers and Russia seek to negotiate a provisional treaty which would lead into a permanent treaty later.

The pressure obviously continued to build up on the United States to avoid resuming atmospheric nuclear weapons tests next month, even though there may be no agreement with Russia in meantime as demanded by President Kennedy.

Krishna Menon repeated what Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Monday—that India begged the great powers not to test while the Geneva conference is under way.

Apparently with an eye on this block-the-tests campaign, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued a statement saying the critical problem is how to get "the necessary amount of objective international scientific information and inspection."

He denied that international inspection would involve spying in Russia and declared: "What it would do would remove suspicion and provide confidence that agreements not to test are being adequately maintained."

In offering to cut enforcement machinery to a minimum, Lord Home said Britain is prepared to let Russia keep the military knowledge and advantage gained from its tests last fall if tests can be ended forever under an adequate minimum system of verification.

Moslem Rioters, French Troops Clash In Algeria; Scores Are Dead

ALGIERS (AP)—French headquarters said Moslems rioted in scores of Algerian towns and villages Monday and today and fired on French forces in at least four areas.

Highly placed sources said 52 were killed in St. Denis du Sig in western Algeria in one incident alone when Moslem crowds clashed with Moslem soldiers in the French service. Authorities released no over-all casualty figures.

The incidents came close on the heels of Monday's cease-fire halting the 7½-year Algerian nationalist rebellion. Moslems had been under orders from their leaders to avoid incidents, and there was no immediate explanation for the disorders.

The army said its troops "were forced to answer fire" and "an undetermined number of persons were killed and wounded. Among those wounded was a French army officer."

The incidents flared up several hours after the cease-fire in the Algerian war went into effect at noon Monday.

The army stressed, however, that most demonstrations in towns and villages of the Algerian interior were peaceful and that in general organized rebel guerrilla groups were observing the cease-fire.

"There has been no operational clash between our troops and rebel bands since the cease-fire went into effect," one French army officer said.

One of the gravest incidents took place in the town of Voltaire, about 100 miles southwest of Algiers. The army said several hundred Moslem civilians led by rebels in uniform swooped down on European sections, screaming nationalist slogans and brandishing weapons.

French troops dispersed the demonstrators with gunfire after being fired on first, the army said. Similar clashes took place in the west Algerian town of St. Denis du Sig and Orleanville.

The army said no more than 2,000 persons were involved in the individual demonstrations.

All the demonstrations were led by rebel officials and the green and white nationalist flag was displayed, the army said.

The European Secret Army Organization plastered Algiers and Oran with posters calling "citizens to arms" but so far there was no sign of the new upsurge of European violence expected after proclamation of the cease-fire.

Electric power was restored in Algeria's major cities at the end of a 24-hour general strike called by the secret army to protest the cease-fire. But most stores in European sections of Algiers remained closed and a week-long strike of transport and gasoline dealers continued.

During the night-long blackout, explosions rocked Algiers and thousands of Europeans whistled and beat the secret army rallying cry of "Al-ge-rie Fran-caise" (Algeria is French) on dishpans. A Moslem was shot and wounded in the suburbs. But it was a relatively calm night.

Almost Spring

If today has seemed like spring—well, spring is almost here.

At 9:30 tonight the season of flowers and warmth will arrive. For Wednesday, the really first day of spring, the weatherman has predicted considerable cloudiness and warm. He indicated that there is a slim chance of scattered showers today.

Thursday will probably have continued warm weather.

For today, temperatures were warm and rising. The low for the night came at midnight, when the thermometer was 51 degrees. For Monday, the high temperature was 64 and the low was 38.

David Sutton of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported the Tar River level was 9.7 feet this morning, falling.

F.D. Sledge Is Indicted Monday By Grand Jury

Frederick D. Sledge, 55-year-old Negro, was indicted by Pitt County's grand jury Monday on charges of raping a 15-year-old Negro girl in late February.

Sledge, a Pitt County school official until shortly after his arrest Feb. 26, was free under $3,000 bond pending trial in Pitt County Superior Court during the April 23 term.

Following his arrest, Sledge was bound over for grand jury consideration after probable cause was found in a hearing before Greenville Municipal Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee.

He was supervisor of the Pitt County Negro schools before the Board of Education terminated his services.

The incident from which the charges grew occurred Sunday, Feb. 25. He was arrested after the mother of the alleged victim signed a warrant the following day.

Peronist Activity To Be Outlawed Again

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi moved today to outlaw all Peronist activity in Argentina again in an effort to stave off military leaders angered by the election gains of the ex-dictator's followers.

Government sources said Frondizi was drafting a decree to nullify all victories of Peronist candidates who scored a nationwide sweep in gubernatorial and congressional elections Sunday.

Frondizi already has decreed federal control in five of the 10 provinces where followers of deposed dictator Juan D. Peron won governorships and placed army commanders in temporary control.

The beleaguered president was reported drafting a new decree which would not only cancel out Peronist election victories but ban singing of Peronist songs, displaying of Peronist banners and any other demonstrations by followers of the ex-president.

Frondizi moved swiftly as a two-headed regime emerged in the nation threatened with civil chaos. The president struggled to keep his four-year-old civilian regime alive, but across the street from his executive mansion in the War Ministry, the chiefs of the armed services forged a three-man junta to coordinate military plans to deal with the gravest crisis Argentina has faced since Peron's ouster in 1955.

Cancer Crusade Chairman For Pitt Is Formally Announced

The appointment of Jack White, of Greenville, as Pitt County Cancer Crusade Chairman was formally announced today by Dr. Howard Gradis, president of the Pitt County unit of the American Cancer Society.

"I am sure I speak for the officers and board of directors of the Pitt County unit," said Dr. Gradis, "in voicing appreciation for acceptance of the responsibilities Mr. White has assumed. We anticipate another long step forward in the continuing fight against cancer on the local level, on the state and national levels, during April, the month of the annual Cancer Crusade."

White, office manager of the Home Credit Co. in Greenville (a division of the Home Finance Group with home offices in Charlotte), is a native of Harrisburg, Pa. and graduate of Mt. St. Mary's in Maryland. He served in Army Intelligence in the Korean campaign, and has resided in Greenville for well over a year.

An active member of Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose, he was approached by that Cancer Crusade-sponsoring organization and accepted the Crusade Chairmanship. Looking back on the 1961 Crusade in Pitt County, White recalled that "Pitt contributions toward the combatting of cancer amounted to $0.108 per person. If we look at this from the practical standpoint of how much help we can provide individual cases of cancer here at home, last year's figure tells how much more we should be contributing to the common cause.

"Cancer is no respecter of persons, it will strike one of every four persons living today. Our best weapons in this fight against a deadly disease are all research and education of the public . . . alerting everyone to the early warning signals of cancer. The odds for victory rise impressively when early detection is added to our present knowledge for fighting cancer."

The Crusade Chairman added that community chairmen and special events chairmen for the April campaign would soon be announced. "A final briefing and 'kick-off' meeting for Crusade workers is tentatively scheduled for April 3," he said. "But well before that date I anticipate having organizational details ironed out and ready to go."

Edwin M. Baldree, board member of the Pitt Cancer unit, and secretary of the Greenville Moose Lodge, looked back on the 1961 Crusade as "most satisfying." And added, "Inasmuch (Continued on page 12)

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Couple

On Sunday afternoon, March 18, at six o'clock, Miss Gloria Janet Dilda became the bride of Charles Augustus Overton in a double-ring ceremony at St. James Methodist Church. The Rev. Carlton F. Hirschi officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Benjamin Dilda of Wilson. Mr. Overton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vance Overton of this city.

The church was formally decorated with basket arrangements of bridal flowers. A candelabrum holding 14 burning tapers centered the church. Two pairs of candelabras with burning tapers stood on each side of a prie-dieu upon which the couple knelt to receive the wedding prayer.

The traditional wedding marches were used for processional and recessional.

Mrs. Alison Moss, accompanied at the organ by Miss Julia Mosser, sang "Because" by d'Hardelot and Gounod's "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee." The wedding prayer by Dunlop was softly sung as the benediction.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, John David Cannon, wore a floor length gown of lace appliqued in the rose pattern. The bodice which featured a scalloped neckline with iridescent sequins and pearls fell into a princess skirt of lace and taffeta. The back featured a bustle of the same material. She wore elbow length gauntlets which ended in points over the hand. Her two tiered fingertip veil was attached to a crown of tear drop pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of Georgiana orchids and bridal roses showered with white satin ribbon and Stephanotis.

Mrs. John David Cannon, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her street length dress was of pastel pink taffeta, styled along princess lines. Her headpiece, which featured a flat bow with short-fluff veil, was also in pastel pink. Her arm bouquet was of Happiness Roses tied with French satin ribbon.

Miss Anna Overton of Greenville, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donald Parnell of Goldsboro were bridesmaids.

They were attired in dresses like that of the matron of honor. They also carried arm bouquets of Happiness Roses tied with French satin ribbon.

William Vance Overton served as his son's best man. Ushers were Mr. Parker Overton, brother of the bridegroom, Charles M. Overton, uncle of the bridegroom, Ernie Scott, all of Greenville, and William Mills of Simpson.

The mothers of the bridal couple wore dresses of blue with matching accessories. Their shoulder corsages were of red roses.

The bridal couple received their guests in the vestibule of the church.

For traveling, the bride changed into a two piece dress of blue and white, with blue and white accessories. She lifted the orchids from her bouquet for her corsage.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will be at home at 509 East Second Street in Greenville.

The bride attended Saratoga Central High School, Saratoga. She is employed at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom attended Junius H. Rose High School and East Carolina College for two years where he is majoring in business. He is in business with his father.

Cake Cutting
Following the Overton-Dilda wedding rehearsal, the wedding party and their families were entertained at the cake cutting in the home of Mrs. John David Cannon, sister of the bride, on Cedar Lane.

She Founded A Package Policies Cut Cost Of Home, Auto Insurance New Way Of Life

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK (AP)—She was a small woman, and she once said she was able to work 18 hours a day because she kept the Sabbath and had a cast-iron stomach. She was Henrietta Szold, who 50 years ago founded Hadassah, women's Zionist organization of America, with 12 women. Today its 318,000 members begin a year-long celebration.

The national chairman of the golden jubilee, Rose Halprin, ranking Zionist woman in the world outside Israel, recalls Miss Szold as "very quiet, but with a bit of a temper; without ego, tremendously creative."

Born a rabbi's daughter in 1860, Miss Szold was as militantly devoted to American democracy as she was intensely Jewish. "She was a good example of the synthesis of two cultures," Mrs. Halprin points out.

A teacher, writer, translator, historian, Miss Szold established in Baltimore the first night classes for immigrants.

In 1909 she visited Palestine and was appalled at the high mortality rate of mothers and babies. Back in this country she organized Hadassah—which is Hebrew for Queen Esther—and in 1913 sent two trained American nurses to Palestine to begin mother-child care as a start of a health program.

During World War I Hadassah was asked to send a medical unit. A group of 44 doctors, nurses, dentists and sanitary engineers landed in 1918, set up hospitals in five major cities and a nursing school in Jerusalem.

"That was at a time in a part of the world where a girl was trained to stay in the home as wife and mother," says Mrs. Halprin.

Hadassah's medical unit was to Miss Szold the beginnings of "countrywide constructive institutional medical service," and in effect laid the groundwork for public health in what later became the state of Israel.

Today the huge medical center at Kiryat Hadassah—Hadassah Town—on Jerusalem's outskirts carries on the original preventive-curative approach by consolidating its healing, teaching and research facilities.

And we've turned our eyes to the emerging countries of Africa that need help desperately," explains Mrs. Halprin. Israel is teaching African doctors and nurses in special courses and sending out medical teams to assist and advise.

After Hitler came to power, Miss Szold, then 73, started a career in child rescue and rehabilitation. To date more than 100,000 Jewish youngsters have been saved, educated and made a part of the community.

She lived to be 84, still fighting for the Zionist dream of a Jewish national home in Palestine and at the same time trying to establish friendly understanding between Arab and Jew.

"She was the greatest Jewish woman of our generation," says Mrs. Halprin, "and a greater one than this generation has produced or is likely to."

Mrs. Halprin, mother of two and grandmother of six, has been active in Hadassah for 30 years.

"We're not an organization, we're a way of life. It makes us reach a little higher. If you make an organization old on to the high principles it had at its founding, you can not only reach 50 years, but go on and on."

Package Policies Cut Cost Of Home, Auto Insurance

By MORTON YARMON
NEW YORK (WNS)—Want to cut down on your insurance costs? Buy package policies.

Most popular package these days among those who insure their homes is the Homeowners policy. This is a package policy that, at one time, covers you three different ways:

1. It protects you against fire and windstorm damage, theft and other perils.
2. It protects you against the lawsuits of others injured on your property—for example, if someone trips over Johnny's bicycle.
3. It gives you additional living expenses for above-normal expenditures should you be forced out of your home by partial or total damage.

If you bought the same kind of coverage in separate policies, you would pay 20 to 25 per cent more than the Homeowners will cost you.

You can pick among four different types of Homeowners policies, depending on how extensively you want your home covered.

When the Homeowner plan was first introduced some years back, a fixed ratio was set between the insured value of your home and insurance of its contents, your possessions. Under this ratio, contents were automatically insured for 40 per cent of the insured value of the home (except under one, more comprehensive, policy, which set a ratio of 50 per cent on the contents). Thus, if your home was insured for $10,000, its contents were insured for $4,000 no matter what they were actually worth.

This, though, has been eased

Seat Belt Sale Delayed; Order Not Received

Greenville Jaycees plan to sell safety seat belts but, because of heavy orders throughout the state, belts for the local club have not yet arrived.

This was announced today by Nick Simonowich, co-chairman of the sale, along with Howard Winslow.

The auto seat belt campaign is being conducted by North Carolina Jaycee clubs and Simonowich said 70,000 belts have been ordered from the firm which is furnishing them.

The Greenville club placed an initial order for 500, Simonowich reported. He has received a letter from the manufacturing firm stating that it will ship 131 to start the local drive off.

"We are looking for them any day now," the chairman stated. Originally the sale was to begin March 15 and was to continue until April 15 but failure of the seat belts to arrive caused the delay.

Simonowich said the sale will continue for 30 days from the day the belts are received.

Plans are to sell the belts at $4 per set which is a cost figure, Simonowich said. Various local auto dealers, garages and service stations have agreed to sell the belts and some will install them on a cost basis.

The belts will be available in a variety of colors to match auto interiors. They have been approved by various testing services and the Department of Motor Vehicles. The project is being carried out with the cooperation of the N. C. Traffic Safety Council, Inc.

Greenville Jaycees will also sponsor the sale in Bethel and will cooperate with the newly-organized Jaycee club in Farmville to conduct the sale there.

Multiple Death Fire Toll Rises

BOSTON (AP) — Casualties in multiple-death fires reached a record high of 982 last year in the United States and Canada, the National Fire Protection Association reported today.

It said, "a single sweep of fire through their homes virtually wiped out more than 100 families."

The annual life-safety analysis by the nonprofit, educational and engineering organization said: "There were 115 fires in dwellings and apartments in which four or more adults and children died simultaneously, with fatalities totalling 570. Over 80 per cent of the deaths were children—among them 102 whose parents had gone out and left them without supervision."

There were 412 additional casualties in 54 hotel, industrial, mercantile and transportation fires and explosions which individually took four or more lives, the report continued.

The 1961 figure of 982 victims in 169 multiple-death fires is a 15.5 per cent increase over the 850 lives lost in 151 similar tragedies the previous year.

Coach Stasavich Discusses Work At Rotary Meet

Clarence Stasavich, head football coach at East Carolina College, spoke to Greenville Rotarians last night discussing work with the Pirate football squad.

Coach Stasavich told Rotarians he is pleased with the enthusiasms shown by members of the ECC football squad during the winter drills and during the scrimmage game Saturday.

"They made many mistakes, but they had good spirit and that means a great deal," he asserted.

He said the players have much to learn about the single-wing offense which will be employed by ECC next fall and considerable emphasis will be placed on fundamentals.

Stasavich said he would not make a prediction as to how many games ECC would win and lose next fall during the football season. "We're going to play the games to see," he said.

What People Believe

Splinter System Would Weaken

Two prominent factors emerging in North Carolina point to the fact that considerable pressure will mount in the next few years for more and larger community colleges scattered in cities throughout the state.

First of all there is the increasing demand among young people graduating from high school for college educations. North Carolina, which now ranks near the bottom in the number of its youngsters of college age who are actually in college, is trying to keep more of its youngsters in public schools until they finish high school. This will, if it is successful, increase the number of those eligible to attend college. At the same time there is likewise a state-wide effort to interest more of the high school graduates in furthering their formal education in college. Add to these the fact that more youngsters are entering public schools each year, and it is readily apparent that many more college classrooms will be needed in North Carolina during the next decade.

The second important factor is that cities of North Carolina which do not now have colleges are coming to recognize the great economic and cultural importance a college can have upon the community in which it is located. As an institution of higher learning, it automatically adds prestige to the community in which it is located. Its presence affords many youngsters of the community who otherwise might not get a college education an opportunity to do so. As an "industry" a college adds important payrolls to a community and its growth potential is equal to if not greater than that of other "industries" which might be sought and secured.

Goldsboro, Kinston and Elizabeth City, among the cities of Eastern North Carolina, already have indicated more than a passing interest in having a community college in their respective cities. Rocky Mount, in the past few years, put forth a tremendous community effort in terms of both money and work, in order to be selected as the site for a new church-related college. Charlotte, the largest city in the Carolinas, is making a bid for establishing a major college.

For the most part the efforts of these and other cities probably will be built around the idea of a state-sponsored community college as the cornerstone for the program. With time and effort some of those begun as community colleges may reach a size and scope of activities far beyond what is now the common idea of a community college.

This set of circumstances which is developing in North Carolina offers both a great opportunity and a great challenge to higher education. The interest of individual communities may open the door for considerably more local support for higher education than has been evidenced in these communities previously. If it can be properly harnessed, additional facilities—far beyond that which the state alone could provide—may be in the offing for higher education.

At the same time the state government must not allow its system of state-supported colleges to become a conglomeration of un-coordinated tiny segments which gobble up a disproportionate part of funds available for higher education to the detriment of established institutions.

A practical program should be worked out in North Carolina which will enable the state to take advantage of the increasing interest in establishing more colleges, and at the same time obviate the possibility of a splinter system of institutions which in total concept would weaken rather than strengthen higher education in this state.

Young In Heart At 81

She was white haired but spry, this lady in the Trading Post Antique Store in Wilson. Obviously she had seen many years on this earth but it was apparent that she had remained young in spirit, as they say.

"You know, I'm 81 years old," the lady volunteered. I told her, in all honesty, that she didn't look it. "A lot of people tell me that," she answered with a smile. "I just got my driver's license renewed the other day."

that struck the coast earlier this month.

Lt. Corey was among 131 Naval Reservists who were called from jobs in and around Washington last October when the Keller was re-activated and sent to Norfolk as a unit of Escort Squadron 12.

The ship was on maneuvers when it was seized by the worst storm to be brewed in the western Atlantic in many a year.

The Norfolk Ledger-Star reported the ship limped in after the storm. Her forward lifelines were jury rigged, her midship deck doors were missing from both sides, her torpedo launchers were twisted.

"We're happy," Lt. Corey told a Norfolk reporter, "just to be here."

"Seized is the word for it," Corey said of the ship's bout with the winter storm. "I've never seen anything come up so fast."

"The seas were like nothing I had ever seen before," another officer said. "They averaged around 60 feet with some that must have run as high as 80. The wind was full hurricane strength."

"Personally, I cannot get too excited about these fears. I do fear Communism, not only abroad but here at home. I fear the deterioration of human character under the stress of Marxist materialism overlaid on American pragmatism. I fear that the checks on human conduct, the moral restraints on human lusts are much more important than quarreling over which ideology is superior."

Each man has his own enthusiasms, his own antipathies, and his own expression of views. "I am, at this moment, interrupted by a young lady, representing a dance studio, who chose to call me on the telephone to offer me free dancing lessons, which is an old come-on to get me involved. I bawled at her and told her never to disturb me again because I am busy at work. She said she had her work to do, that that apparently is her opinion of her rights and she gets paid for it."

But some people hold opinions and express them, not because they get paid but because they live in fear. POAU apparently lives in fear that Pope John XXIII will take over the U. S., just as Brigadier General Holdridge of the Minute Men writes voluminous letters to all and sundry to denounce the evils of Roman Catholicism and a little paper (Continued on page five)

"Still, if parents don't keep up with their children, who else will?"—Greensboro Daily News.

"We'd all enjoy tax freedom, in whole or in part, and borrowed money at a rate far below that of the market. But if we all had these privileges, who'd dig up the taxes to pay the government's huge bills?"—Industrial News Review.

"All these things mean something to me," she told your columnist as we both looked at an ancient music box. "You young folks don't understand it but a lot of these things we had right in our homes when I was young. I saw a table in here. We had one just like it and we didn't think it was anything special."

I thought that it would be marvelous to be that active at her age. She drifted off but later I saw her again as she was leaving. The 81-year-old lady climbed into a 1962 baby blue Thunderbird.

A former Greenville man James Corey was on the destroyer-escort Keller which was battered in the sudden storm

I gazed at the price tag on some of the antiques and wondered how much the table would sell for today.

Other Editors Saying... Immunity Is Available

(Henderson Dispatch) Warning against the menace of polio is being sounded anew by the Medical Society of North Carolina, and citizens generally will be wise to heed the appeal and comply with the admonition. To do so could avert years of suffering, immobility and costs of treatment, and might even save human life, which could be yours.

record that shows half the deaths, but only one-tenth of the cases, were persons over twenty years of age. Therefore, immunizing of children under five prevents most of the paralysis, but vaccination of teenagers and adults prevents death.

In North Carolina, Salk vaccine is compulsory by law for children two months to six years of age, though, unfortunately, most parents wait until near the school age to have their children immunized against the disease.

Before the Salk vaccine became available, with its guarantee of immunity from polio in 90 percent of cases, we wrung our hands in desperation in hoping for some remedy or preventive. But since it was discovered and its value determined beyond all doubt there has been a lessening of concern and a laxness about assuring the protection which is now available. Perhaps that is human nature, but it is a deplorable commentary on the indifference of millions of individuals in safeguarding themselves against a crippling ailment which can absolutely be prevented in nearly all instances.

When indeed will we come to our senses in the interest of our own wellbeing? The Salk serum is of little value after polio strikes. Its greatest effectiveness is as a preventive. Carelessness is ignoring the treatments borders on stupidity, since immunity may be assured.

National statistics are cited showing that one-third of children up to five years of age, half the women and two-thirds of the men in the age group of twenty to forty have not had the vaccine. In recent years, the figures show, half the paralytic patients have been five years of age and under, but very young adults have been the most seriously paralyzed. Equally startling is the foreclose, but school districts, lighting districts and other tax-leaving bodies do the same. The tax shark has to cover more offices, but his opportunities are broadened.

An even greater extension consists of the great amount of property that states and subdivisions condemn and then sell. A school district, for example, may condemn five acres for a new school site and then sell off fragments to reduce the plot to a two-acre by two-acre square.

The fragments are usually auctioned, and some tidbits go for a song. A few dollars may buy a strip of land an adjacent business needs and will pay handsomely for.

One expert digged nicely when an Eastern City condemned 20 feet along a street about to be widened. Home owners were paid well. Then the expert bought from the city the five feet of each house that projected into the strip. Owners, all of whom wanted to move their houses back on their lots, were offered the five-foot sections at enormous prices.

More Tax Sharps Circulating

MORE ESTATE BUSINESS The old, funeral sharps used to watch estates. Often, to divide an estate among several heirs, a piece of property had to be auctioned. He was there with his bid and, because heirs did not expect a cash competitor, he would get valuable property at a few cents on the dollar.

This can still be done in many counties, and more operators are specializing in this field. The possibility of fat profits on tax foreclosures, sales after condemnation, and state sales have attracted many young operators, often lawyers, into this field.

It's not easy work. The sharps—or sharks—must be constantly vigilant, combing legal records to spot opportunities. Even then, they must be canny in assessing the value of property to be snatched. Many will not bid on a tax-sale plot or surplus land until they have a cash-in-hand investor.

Can anyone play? Sure! But the requirements include a wad of cash, because most sales are largely for cash; a willing-

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The circulars keep piling up on all sorts of subjects and indicate an increasing excitement among our people over the course of events. In came one from Americans United for Separation of Church and State (POAU). I do not know how to pronounce POAU, but that does not matter. This circular, like so many others, asks for money and apparently they want the money to educate Senators, Congressmen, State Senators and Assemblymen, newspapers, columnists, etc.

It is not altogether clear in the circular what POAU is about except that it says:

"Thousands turned out to cheer John Glenn. Will you come out to cheer for Separation of Church and State?"

"Your chance to show how you feel will come in a few weeks—at two public rallies with Dr. C. Stanley Lowell, from Washington, D. C."

I do not see the connection between John Glenn and the quarrel over Separation of Church and State, except that the name of John Glenn attracts attention the way Marilyn Monroe used to.

We can skip the pitch and go on with the very general subject of public excitement over what people believe to be true. POAU believes that Church and State should be separated in this country and I have never come across anyone who disagreed with that general notion, but as is usual among free men, the definitions are varied:

1. Some hold that any relationship between the government and a religious founded and conducted school is a negation of the doctrine that no religion should become an establishment in this country, even to giving small children orange juice.

2. Others hold that the Roman Catholic Church has destroyed our educational system and plans to take it over.

3. Still others do not object to the Catholics running their own schools because it reduces taxes but object to Catholic children riding in municipal school buses.

4. Some are avowed atheists and desire that their children should not be corrupted by being told about God.

And there are many other variations on this general theme. None of these folks object to anyone teaching the children about Karl Marx or about a sane nuclear policy, or a biological interpretation of sex such as recently appeared in a magazine telling girls how to prepare themselves for eventual husbands. Nothing is said about numerous offenses to good taste; to say nothing about public or private morals. But there is a terrifying fear that Pope John XXIII will take a plane, fly over here, and install himself in Blair House.

Personally, I cannot get too excited about these fears. I do fear Communism, not only abroad but here at home. I fear the deterioration of human character under the stress of Marxist materialism overlaid on American pragmatism. I fear that the checks on human conduct, the moral restraints on human lusts are much more important than quarreling over which ideology is superior."

Effectiveness Rests At The Local Level

Regulations issued by the State Board of Health for assuring sanitary conditions in migrant labor camps in North Carolina are commendable, but county health departments throughout the state will determine through their enforcement of the regulations how effective they are.

Conditions in these labor camps have become a matter of grave concern in recent years, and there is ample proof that many such camps have been far below what might be considered standard or even reasonable. Efforts by the state to up-grade living conditions for migrant farm workers should not end with issuing a set of regulations.

We are confident most of the county health departments will endeavor to see that the regulations are met, but in many counties health departments are understaffed. Demands upon the time of their employes already have them spread too thin for the jobs they are supposed to be doing. It is not unlikely that the counties which have most of the migrant labor camps will also be the same counties which have limited staffs to take on the additional chore of seeing that the camps are operated in accordance with the state regulations.

If the new program is to be effective, the state might well consider having a stand-by group of its own workers to give assistance to county health departments where checking on the migrant labor camps imposes still another burden on an already overloaded departmental staff.

JFK Lucky If Half Successful

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—There's been something for everybody in President Kennedy's flood of proposals to Congress this year and the year is young.

He will probably feel lucky, even surprised, if Congress approves half of what he has asked. But he has asked so much, for so many different kinds of people, it can't fail to do him political good.

There's something for old people, city people, farm people, young people (children and students), Negroes, migrant workers, federal workers, unemployed workers, the unemployed, doctors, dentists, communities, cities, states, business, industry, colleges and, under one big tent, the whole works: consumers.

In his State of the Union message on Jan. 11, he outlined at least 41 proposals. He has expanded on them, and then some, in 15 follow-up messages to Congress so far.

They are too broad and too many to be totally achieved this year but they will make a wonderful talking point for the rest of his tenure.

Because they have such built-in appeal in all directions he can, win or lose on them, always point to what his administration got or tried to get. They would be even more impressive if now, unlike last year, Kennedy fought for all of

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THE DIVINE ANSWER The whole answer to life is love. We never take the first step in the direction of wholesome and robust living until we learn how to love.

The Bible is a study in love—God's love for man and man's love for his fellow creatures. When man find God they find love; until they find God, no devotion to church or creed will avail them anything.

Do you have some domestic problem that day by day stares you out of countenance? God's answer to that is love. Do you have some twist in your nature that causes you to lose them instead of just some. But he is dealing with a Congress which, run by Democrats far outnumbering Republicans, is dominated by enough conservatives of both parties to frustrate him.

There are enough Democrats in House and Senate to ram his programs through, if they stuck together. But they don't. Yet this is election year for a new Congress.

So, unless this Congress puts over a majority of his requests, it will be embarrassing and unconvincing at election time when Kennedy asks voters to send even more Democrats to Congress.

Some of Kennedy's programs, by accident or design, are politically shrewd since they throw bones of special interest to groups or individuals who otherwise would have no hesitancy in opposing him.

Critics of the so-called welfare state and of centralized government may complain his programs would greatly widen the government's responsibility for the general welfare. Indeed, they would.

But acceptance of this role of government has been a consistent and developing part of American history for almost 30 years under three former presidents.

Kennedy can remind his critics that Congress itself, in the Employment Act of 1946, believed that.

hope in winning victory over self? The answer to that is love. Does your heart burn with jealousy and your eyes look with envy? The answer to that situation is love. Do you hate someone until the words of forgiveness catch in your throat and will not come out? The answer to that dark and foreboding reality is love.

God so loved the world that He did something about it—He gave his only begotten Son that whoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Christianity is the religion of love. It is God's love in redemptive action.

Tons Of Food In School Lunches

(Note to Readers: Lynn Nisbet is out of the state, visiting in Tampico, Mexico.)

By WILLIAM H. GULEY Department of Agriculture Guest Writer

What will it be? A piping hot lunch, a full-balanced meal with all the trimmings including plenty of milk—or a soggy sandwich, packed along with the books early in the morning?

The choice is natural with some six hundred thousand school children in North Carolina each school day.

The school lunch program in the state, fourth in size in the nation, feeds an average of 621,208 children a hot meal once a day. Imagine feeding the entire populations of Raleigh, Greensboro, Durham, Charlotte, Asheville, High Point and Winston-Salem for lunch five days a week.

Moving the tons of foods to the school kitchens is no small task. And the job is carried out by the N. C. Department of Agriculture's markets division where J. P. Davis heads up commodity distribution.

Davis points out that the program provides school children with a well-balanced hot meal as well as provides an outlet for the many agricultural commodities farm abundance provides.

The program helps local trade too, Davis says. For every dollar value of commodities supplied the schools by the U. S. Department of Agriculture through the NCDA, three dollars worth are purchased locally to complete the school menus. In addition to the local purchases, many food items come to the program through purchases by the USDA directly from North Carolina concerns.

In 1961 some 30,992,000 pounds of food were received by 1,046 schools. The value of the food totaled more than $7,545,000. The foods are handled out of warehouses at Butner. Many shipments made to larger school units are in boxcars loaded directly to unloading points for the schools.

In all thirty-two items are supplied through the program. They are: Flour, lard, non-fat dry milk, creamery butter, dry eggs, canned grapefruit, canned beef and gravy, frozen ground beef, rolled oats, canned olives, canned peaches, corn meal, dry beans, rice frozen lamb, canned pork and gravy, peanut butter, frozen chicken, canned chopped meat, Irish potatoes, canned apricots, canned green beans, canned cherries, frozen turkeys, process and natural cheese, canned green peas, canned corn, canned tomatoes, fresh cranberries, canned sliced apples and apple sauce.

The section under Davis is responsible for determining the eligibility of the schools and other units which can receive foods under the program, for the unit does not furnish foods to schools alone.

Institutions, nurseries and summer camps are provided foods from surplus supplies, too. Last year they received 2,280,187 pounds of food items valued at $431,997.

Davis and his personnel, in supervising the distribution program, visit some 1,500 schools, nearly 200 county and city school superintendents, around 80 other institutions and about 60 summer camps each year. Their inspections include freezer lockers where frozen items are kept and other storage facilities to make sure they are adequate.

With the advent of the needy food program in the state, storage facilities had to be expanded and include space at Salisbury. Foods are distributed to needy persons in 35 counties, and some 145,631 persons are receiving the federally donated surplus foods made available through the USDA.

Davis said that in 1961 some 23,703,000 pounds of food valued at more than $5,852,000 were distributed in the state under this program.

Commodities going to needy families include canned meat, oatmeal, peanut butter, butter, lard, corn meal, flour, dried non-fat milk, dried whole eggs, rice, dried beans and processed cheese.

Under this program the state aids the counties in getting the food to the recipients through funds allocated for that purpose.

The vast quantities of food moving into the stored in the state provide a valuable resource in the event of an emergency. Foods donated to the school lunch program, for needy persons and institutional use can be made available in the event of disaster. Davis explained that in the case of an emergency, the donated foods in warehouses in the state are available for immediate use and then would be replaced as soon as possible by the USDA.

Foods moving by rail into the state at the time of disaster can be rerouted directly to most any point for emergency (Continued on page five)

Nixon Enraged Only Once Over JFK's Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he became enraged only once at John F. Kennedy during the long, hard days of their 1960 presidential campaign. That was when Kennedy called for a stronger stand against Cuba and, says Nixon, put him in a corner.

Kennedy, claims Nixon, had been briefed that the Central Intelligence Agency was helping to train refugee troops to invade Cuba.

"I thought that Kennedy, with full knowledge of the facts, was jeopardizing the security of a foreign policy operation," comments Nixon. "And my rage was greater because I could do nothing about it."

Nixon tells about it in his new book, "Six Crises" to be published soon (by Doubleday, at $5.95).

The former vice president says he was the chief advocate in the Eisenhower administration of a tough stand against Fidel Castro's Cuba. But when Kennedy stumped for a strong line, Nixon claims he was forced to take a softer line — to say publicly something entirely different from what he had been saying privately.

"There was only one thing I could do. The covert operation had to be protected at all costs," says Nixon. "I must not suggest even by implication that the United States was rendering aid to rebel forces in and out of Cuba. In fact, I must go to the other extreme: I must attack the Kennedy proposal to provide such aid as wrong and irresponsible because it would violate our treaty commitments."

The presidential campaign is one of the six crises in his political life that Nixon tells about in his book.

The others: —

The Hiss case, which raised him to national prominence as a freshman congressman.

The blowup in 1952 over political funds raised by his friends.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower's heart attack, in which "my problem was to provide leadership without appearing to lead, or 'how to walk on eggs without breaking them.'"

Nixon's goodwill visit to Caracas when he was stoned and spat upon.

His tour of the Soviet Union and the kitchen debate with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Each of the crises was extensively reported at the time. But Nixon adds interesting sidelights and occasional comments that offer new insights into Richard M. Nixon.

One of the sidelights has to do with the famous secret meetings in New York between Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, just four days before the Republican convention.

It was then that Nixon suggested Rockefeller take second place on the ticket. There is a hint Nixon thinks the GOP may have lost the election when Rockefeller said no.

Nixon says he told Rockefeller his name would strengthen the slate and that even if they lost

Home Ec Weekend To Host High Schoolers

More than 300 juniors and seniors and thirteen teachers from a large number of high schools in North Carolina will meet at East Carolina College Friday and Saturday, March 23-24, for the third Home Economics Weekend to be sponsored by the Department of Home Economics at the college.

Miss Ruth Lambie, chairman of Home Economics Weekend, stated that response to the invitation to attend has been enthusiastic, and acceptances are still being received.

Hostesses for the occasion, a co-operative project, will be members of the East Carolina College Home Economics faculty and the college Home Economics Club, of which Audrey Holloman of Harrellsville is acting president. Visiting students will be entertained in college dormitories during their stay on the campus.

The program for the weekend, arranged by students and faculty members of the Home Economics Department at the college, will begin with registration and an informal tea in the lobby of the Flanagan building from 4 to 7 p.m. Friday. A free movie "Gidget Goes Hawaiian" will follow during the evening as well as visits to the College Unions and dormitories on the campus.

On Saturday from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. a buffet breakfast will be served. At 10 a.m. in the Flanagan Auditorium, a play "College Visit," which concerns a variety of careers in home economics upon completion of a four-year college preparation, will take place.

From 10:45 to 11:30 a.m. guests will visit the home economics laboratories and campus buildings. President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina will be the keynote speaker at the 12:30 luncheon in the South Dining Hall.

New Plan For Overdue Books

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Memphis public library officials are trying out a new system of collecting overdue books.

Western Union messengers are sent to pick up books more than six weeks overdue. They also collect the two cents a day fine and a 75 cent service charge. No one can be forced to pay the fine or service charge but those who refuse lose library card privileges.

Initially, in the event of a disaster such sandwich items as butter, chopped meat and peanut butter would be used in feeding stations operated by the American Red Cross and other welfare units. Later other items could be added for mass feeding.

The primary objectives of the distribution program are to aid the USDA in its surplus removal and price support programs by providing outlets for agricultural commodities purchased, by furnishing balanced diets to school children and training them to eat unfamiliar foods. In addition it furnishes basic commodities for needy families, raising their health level.

If your car won't start, don't use the starter in a long steady grind—or pump the accelerator. See tips 1 and 7 for the right things to do.

Shell dealers suggest 7 things to try if your car won't start

Many times the solution to a starting problem is surprisingly simple. You don't need any mechanical ability to use these simple starting tips from Shell dealers. Only one of them calls for a tool.

Why not keep this page in your glove compartment? Someday, one of these 7 tips might save you time, aggravation and money.

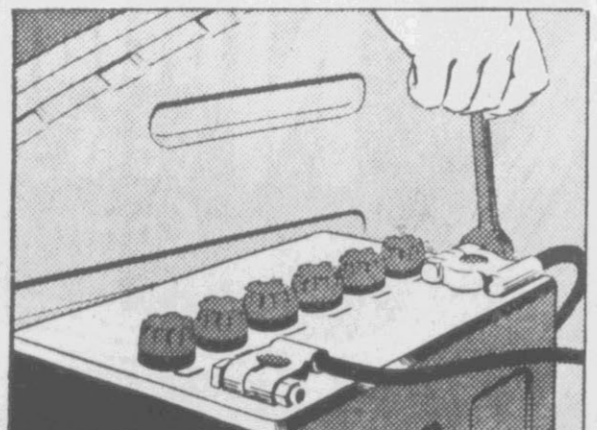

ANY TIME you have trouble getting your engine going, the first thing to do is check the obvious.

For example, the fuel gauge. It's astonishing how often an empty fuel tank is all that keeps the engine from starting.

According to American Automobile Association figures, motorists run out of fuel more than 5,000 times per day.

If you have an automatic transmission, make sure you're starting in "N" and that the selector lever is right at the letter. A fraction of an inch either way can mean the difference between starting and sitting there. NOTE: Some cars can also be started in the "P" or park position.

Next step is to run through these seven tips

from Shell dealers. Any one of them could help you get started.

1. Use the starter in short bursts. A long, steady grinding runs your battery down drastically. In fact, if the car won't start in the first few attempts, it's a good idea to wait several minutes before trying again. This lets the battery recover some of its life.

2. If you have a manual shift, keep the clutch pressed all the way down when you're trying to start. This helps to take some of the strain off the battery, particularly in cold weather.

NOTE: An engine in good mechanical condition should start in 3 or 4 seconds. Today's Super Shell gasoline can help. During coldest months, it contains an extra dose of a special quick-start ingredient.

3. Tighten battery connectors. If battery connectors are loose, you may not get full battery voltage when you try to start. With reduced voltage, the engine is harder to start. Sometimes the starter won't even turn the engine.

There's no trick to keeping the connectors tight. All you need is a suitable wrench (see picture at left). Even pliers will do.

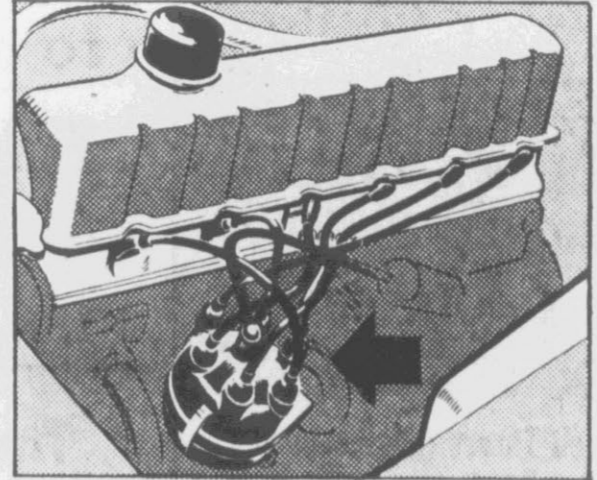

If you have repeated starting troubles, your battery may be weak. Your Shell dealer can recharge it—or install a new one if needed.

4. Get maximum value from your choke. If you have an automatic choke, give the accelerator pedal a helpful tap before you start. This sets the choke in the correct position—the way it should be for easy starting.

NOTE: A small adjustment of the automatic choke can often cure cold weather starting troubles. Your Shell dealer can take care of it for you.

If you have a manual choke, remember to use it! When you pull the choke out, you increase the proportion of fuel in the air-fuel mixture. Could be all your engine needs for a start. After you've started and warmed up, be sure to push the choke back in.

5. Wipe moisture off the distributor, ignition leads and the ceramic tops of spark plugs. Condensed moisture on these parts could keep you from getting started. And moisture can be a frequent problem in cars that are left outdoors overnight.

NOTE: The arrow in our picture (above) is pointing to the distributor. The distributor can be located in several different places, depending on the make of car you drive, but it looks the same. To find it, just follow the ignition leads—the wires that run from the spark plugs to the top of the distributor. Before you wipe the moisture away, make sure the ignition is turned off and nobody works the starter.

6. Turn off the lights, radio, heater, heater fan. This way there are no extra demands on the battery. It can devote its full power to starting the engine. Don't forget to turn lights on again when you start up.

7. Never pump the accelerator if you suspect flooding. It only makes the flooding worse. Instead, try this: Wait 2 or 3 minutes. Then press the accelerator to the floor once and hold it there while the starter cranks the engine. When the engine does start, gradually let the accelerator return to idle position.

Here are the 9 ingredients in Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

- #1 is Butane for quick starts. It's so eager to get going it could boil on ice.
- #2 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knocks.
- #4 is gum preventive to help keep carburetors clean inside.
- #5 is TCP* for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
- #7 is an "anti-icer" (added in cold weather) to help check carburetor icing stalls.
- #8 is Alkylate to help control "high-speed knock."
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

Tornados Meet Tryon At 7:30 Wednesday

Ayden Prepares For Tourney

Reflecting
On SPORTS

By George Bryant

Ayden Has Done It Again

Coach Stuart Tripp and the Ayden Tornados have done it again. Their victory over Windsor Saturday night in the District One Class A Tournament earned them the right to represent the district in the State Tournament which begins Wednesday night in the Durham High School gym at 7:30.

This is the second championship team from Ayden during the 1961-62 school year. The football version of the Tornados had an undefeated season until they met Rohanon in the State playoffs at Mount Olive.

The Tornados are paired with the District Six winner, Tryon High School of Gaston County. Coach Howard Saine's Tryon cagers are a member of the Little Seven Conference in Gaston County. The team, like Ayden, was also the regular season winner and the tournament champions in the county.

Tryon Principal, H. F. Lovingood, told your columnist in a phone conversation this morning that he expects the school to have several chartered buses making the trip to Durham to carry the fans.

Buses Planned For Fans

Coach Tripp also mentioned that buses would be provided for Ayden fans who wished to follow the team. The Coach noted that the team is traveling in cars so that the school activity bus along with a chartered bus would be available for the fans. No starting time was available at the time for the buses as plans were still in the making. However, the team will leave at 9:30 Wednesday morning.

Ayden is taking a 21 game winning streak with them to the State meet. Their only loss during the season was in their opener with Winterville. Coach Tripp said that this could have been due to the fact that the team was late starting practice because of the football playoffs.

Ayden Has The Material

We feel the Tornados have the material to make a good showing in the Durham tournament. Their defense has been especially good so far and their offense has been adequate. There appears to be no one individual that has kept the team going, which is the case with so many teams. Most of the wins have been team victories and we feel this is a big help. A team that relies on one or two can often get in trouble when they meet strange competition in a tournament. The big man can be pressured to the point that he is almost useless compared to his action during the regular season.

Support Is Big Factor

Support from local fans plays an important part in tournaments, more so than during the regular season. The team is playing in a strange town, on a strange court and in this case, a team that neither the coach or other persons connected with the team are familiar with.

It is our belief that a strong turnout on behalf of a team can win a ballgame and it plays a big part in another team losing if they know they do not have the backing. We are not referring to the backing of the folks at home, but the support of those who made the trip and are there fighting along with the team.

Phant Golfers Win Opener

The Rose High School golf team won their opening match of the season yesterday with a aggregate score of 351, three strokes better than the second place team.

The Phantom golfers, coached by Bo Farley, were participating in a Northeastern Conference match held at Elizabeth City. Seven of the eight teams in the conference were present for the match.

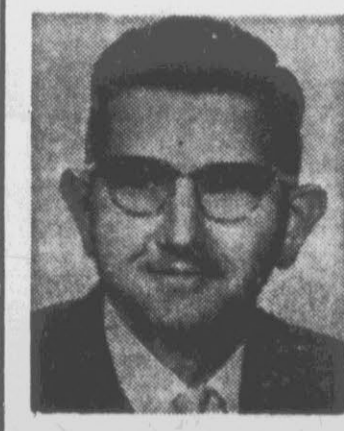

Jacksonville was the only team that did not participate. The Cardinals, along with Roanoke Rapids and Elizabeth City, were granted permission to miss two matches during the season because of the travel distance involved.

Competing in the medal play tournament for Greenville were Bobby Thomas, Charles Vincent, Sonny Parkinson and Jimmy Moye. Thomas shot 39 on the front nine and 40 on the back for a total of 79. Moye had a 44-40-84, Parkinson a 43-46-89 and Vincent a 40-49-89.

Coming in second in yesterday's opening match was Kinston with a 354 and Washington placed third with a 361.
Greenville will host the next conference match at the country club on March 26.

Coach Stuart Tripp and the Ayden Tornados are practicing this week for the State tournament which begins in the Durham High School gym Wednesday night at 7:30 with the Tornados meeting Tryon in the opener.

Should the Ayden club defeat their opponents in the opening round they will meet the winner of the Warrenton-Yadkinville game at 7:30 Friday night.

Coach Tripp's team has been practicing in the Grifton gym this week in preparation for the tournament because their own court does not have glass backboards and it is hoped that practicing against the glass at Grifton will improve the team's shooting.

However, Coach Tripp said that he does not feel the team needs too much practice right now. "We have had two rough tournaments in a row and this will make the third one," the coach noted. He seemed to feel like the team needs some rest before going into the state meet.

Tripp said, "The boys have tremendous spirit right now and I think that has been a big factor all year. We have a real good defensive team and the spirit has been a big help on offense."

When asked if he thought the team was beginning to tire after playing in two tournaments, Tripp commented, "This bothers me. However, we slowed practice for the flu and I feel that has helped us some. It gave the boys a rest which they need." The coach added, "This rest might have kept us from being burned out. We were fortunate during the flu to be playing weak teams and weren't pushed to be in top shape."

The tallest men on the Ayden club are Clem McLawhorn and Duane Gwynn at 6-foot 1-inch, William Edwards and Wayne Dail top 6-feet and the fifth boy on the starting team, Tommy Dunn, is about 5-foot 9-inches.

Coach Tripp said the 21 game winning streak which the team has had this season is the longest he has had in his 16 years of coaching at Ayden. Tripp piloted his Tornado team to the district championship four years ago, but they lost out in the first round of the State Tournament.

The coach plans to take 12 men to Durham with him. Although there are 13 men on the team, the state allows only 12 to go to the tournament. Ayden's thirteenth man will go along as a manager.

The team will leave at 9:30 Wednesday morning by car for Durham. They will remain in Durham that night if they win, but if they lose, they will have to return home after the game.

How ya gonna keep him down on the farm when he wins ball games for you—especially when he's 19 years old and powders 380-foot home runs?

You're not, concedes Los Angeles Angels' Manager Bill Rigney.

His current phenom is rookie shortstop Jim Fregosi, from Woodside, Calif. All Fregosi has to do to nail down a job with the Angels is finish the exhibition season with a .250 batting average.

That shouldn't be too hard at the rate he's going. He whacked a 3-run inside the park home run Monday—a 380-foot shot—in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie and propel the Angels to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, at Palm Springs, Calif.

Fregosi also had a single in four trips to the plate and that brought his average up to .417. Last year, he spent most of the season at Dallas-Fort Worth and finished with a .254 average and only a half-dozen homers. The Angels took a look at him at the end, and in 11 games he compiled a .222 mark.

The Angels had several shortstops in '61 and none showed enough to exactly stupify Rigney.

Fregosi is a good fielder and if he produces even a moderate bat, he has a good chance of grabbing the job.

Dean Chance and Jack Spring divided the pitching for the Angels, who brought their exhibition record up to 5-5.

The two New York clubs, the Yankees and the Mets, continued their streaks but in opposite directions. The world champions clobbered the Milwaukee Braves, 10-4, at Fort Lauderdale, for their ninth victory without a defeat.

The Mets dropped a 1-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles at St. Petersburg to extend their losing skid to five. Skinny Brown and Tom Baker pitched the shutout. In other games, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, at Scottsdale, Ariz.; the Houston Colt 45s outlasted the San Francisco Giants, 12-9, at Phoenix; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Kansas City A's, 4-1, at West Palm Beach; the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, at Tampa, and the Washington Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox, 15-12, at Pompano Beach.

Roger Maris, who still has not had a home run, collected a double and a triple to lead the Yanks' assault.

Bob Miller and Bob Bolz combined to pitch a good game for the Mets, but they had no support. The only run came in the fifth off Miller on Brooks Robinson's triple and a fielder's choice.

Pete Runnels broke up the Boston-Cleveland game with a 2-out single in the ninth to drive in the winning run.

The Colt 45s combed Jack Sanford for 11 runs on 10 hits in the first four innings. As it turned out, they needed the barrage because the Giants came back strong.

The A's blanked the Dodgers behind Ed Rakow for six innings. Bill Fischer, who came on in the seventh, was the victim of all the Dodgers' runs.

Jim Maloney, plagued by a sore arm last season, started for the Reds against the Cards and in three innings walked seven men and was tapped for three hits, good for four runs.

Washington blasted off to a 15-0 lead against the White Sox, but then fizzled and had to stagger to the triumph. Pete Daley (grand slam), Dale Long and Chuck Hinton hit early homers for Washington. The White Sox collected a half dozen runs in each of the eighth and ninth with Al Smith connecting for a grand slammer and Sherman Lollar hitting a homer with two on.

EC Baseball Team Opens With Yale Wednesday

By GEORGE BRYANT
Reflector Sports Editor

Coach Jim Mallory's East Carolina baseball Pirates open their 1962 campaign Wednesday afternoon with Yale at 3 p.m. on the old college field.

"I am looking forward to the season this year because it is definitely a year of challenge and I feel like the boys can meet this challenge," Coach Mallory said.

Last year the Pirate baseball team brought home the only national championship to the state when they won the NAIA National Tournament in Sioux City, Iowa. The team won the North State Conference championship and went on to win NAIA district and regional tournaments, gaining their berth in the national event.

In commenting on this year's schedule, Mallory said that the team plays nine games before their first conference battle which is with Atlantic Christian on April 10.

The team faces the problem of inexperience this year and Mallory is hoping that the rough opening schedule of non-conference games will help the younger boys a great deal. Only five boys returned from the team that won the championship last season.

The seasoned veterans are Spencer Gaylord at second base, Lacy West in left field, Merrill Bynum in right field, catcher Charlie Johnson and pitcher Nathan Greene.

Mallory, a veteran coach who won the 1961 Will Wynn award for his contributions to baseball in North Carolina, said that Gaylord is a senior who has been on the team four years. He is the only veteran infielder on the squad, Johnson, the coach said, is a senior with three years' experience and is one of "these old reliables who goes a good job."

According to Mallory, the number one pitcher is Greene. "He is tough and was our pitcher in the final game at Iowa against Sacramento State." This game gave the team the National Championship.

West was a pitcher on last year's team, but he was switched to the outfield in the NAIA tournament because Gary Pierce, the Pirates' leading hitter, was unable to make the Iowa trip.

Outside of Greene and Earl Boykin, the pitching staff this season is made up of freshmen. "I plan to use some of the freshmen in the games with Yale this week," Mallory said.

Greene is scheduled to start the game with Yale on Wednesday, followed up by Pete Barnes of Wilson. Boykin will most likely start the second game with Yale on Thursday, followed up by Tommy Norman of Plymouth. Mallory said he could always call on West or Billy Dunn of Greenville to fill in on the mound when necessary.

The coach noted that one of his better freshmen, Mike Smith, of Providence, R. I., was in a serious automobile accident during the quarter break and will be unable to pitch in the opening games.

"This boy has a tremendous high school record. His team won the state championship," Mallory stated.

Mallory also mentioned that the team has been hampered at practice because of the weather. However, he noted that the practice sessions the last four or five days have gone well.

Another problem the team has faced is the field. It was thought that they would play on the new field near the James S. Picklen Memorial Stadium site, but because of the failure of the bond issue the team is going to have to use the old field back of the gym.

The infield required a lot of work to get it in shape and Mallory said about 25 loads of dirt have been hauled in. This has hindered the practice sessions, but Mallory said the field should be in good shape for tomorrow's opener.

The starting lineup for the Wednesday game as it stands now will be as follows:

Tommy Kidd at first base, Spencer Gaylord at second, Junior Greene or Jimmy Scott on third and Carlton Barnes at shortstop. The outfield will consist of Lacy West in left field, Merrill Bynum in right field and Bobby Joyce in center field. Catching will be Charlie Johnson and Nathan Greene will be on the pitcher's mound.

All of the home games begin at 3 p.m.

Nationally Ranked Braves Play Tonight

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley's nationally ranked Braves and St. John's of New York open their drives for the 1962 National Invitation basketball tournament tonight against a pair of eager opponents who could prove extremely hard to handle for the two seeded powers.

Bradley (21-6) meets Duquesne (21-5) in the opener of the quarter-final doubleheader at Madison Square Garden and St. John's (19-4) plays Holy Cross (20-5) in the second game. The winners advance to Thursday night's semifinals, which also match Loyola of Chicago against Dayton.

While Bradley and St. John's were sitting out the first round with byes, Holy Cross and Duquesne were impressively busy. The Crusaders disposed of Colorado State University 72-71 in a rugged squeaker Saturday afternoon and the Dukes followed with a 70-58 rout of Navy.

Bradley's chief threat, of course, is two-time All-America star Walker, the versatile 6-6 star who paced the Braves to the 1960 NIT title as a sophomore. Ed Wodka, Lee Edwards and Mickey Tiemann are Bradley's other seasoned regulars while backcourt men Lavern Tart and Rich Williams are sophomore standouts.

Willie Somerset, a bull-shouldered 5-10 driver, spearheads Duquesne. He showed flashes of mastery in all phases of the game against Navy, including exceptional coolness for a sophomore.

Duquesne was hardly tested against Navy and its performance was something less than inspired. But Bradley coach Chuck Orsborn was not lulled—and for good reason.

"We know how good they can be," Orsborn says. "They beat us (73-72) two weeks ago—and on our own floor."

St. John's Redmen, who haven't been in action since nailing down supremacy of the New York area with a conquest of NYU 11 nights ago, has the problem of spiking a potential double-barreled weapon in its game with Holy Cross. Jack Foley, as usual, showed his patented scoring bursts with 34 points against Colorado State. But the Crusaders had a surprise gunner in Bob Foley, no relation to The Shot, who went 13 points above his average with 21 points and also was a bruiser under the boards.

Holy Cross' main project will be containing LeRoy Ellis, a 6-10 pivot with fluid moves and sprinter's speed. Ellis teams with spunky Kevin Loughery and sturdy Willie Hall up front, while Ivan Kovac and Donnie Burks handle St. John's playmaking.

Joe Lapchick, who has coached St. John's to three NIT championships, figures his team's long lay-off was a mixed blessing.

"It could cause us to let down, or get stale. I would have liked for us to have been in this from the start. But on the other hand, it's given us a chance to see everyone else first hand before we have to play them. It's just impossible to say how a layoff like this will affect the boys."

He'll find out tonight.

Young Man On Way Up In Golf Is Nichols

By DUKE FERGUSON
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Nichols, winner of the $20,000 St. Petersburg Open, appears to be a young man on his way up in the golfing world.

The 25-year-old professional, playing out of Midland, Tex., picked up a $2,800 check after posting an 8-under-par 64 in the final round Monday and headed for the $50,000 Doral Open in Miami. Nichols' blazing finish gave him a 272 and a two-stroke edge over runner-up Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Boynton, who finished with a 67, led the first two rounds and was tied for first at 54 holes.

Nichols was consistently among the front-runners. His cards read 71-67-70-64—272 en route to his first pro victory.

Boynton, who won $1,900 for second spot, turned in scores of 69-73-67—274.

Defending champion Bob Goaly of Crystal River, Fla., finished third, two strokes behind Boynton. He closed with a 66 for 276 and $1,400.

Veteran Mike Souchak of Groesinger, N.Y., toured the 6,215-yard Lakewood Country Club's par-72 course with a 66 on the final round for a 72-hole total of 277 and $1,200.

UCLA Not Given Much Chance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA Bruins aren't given much chance to upset defending champion Cincinnati in the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Friday night at Louisville.

But Bruin Coach John Wooden is conceding nothing. He's the man who took a group of players who were picked to finish third in the Big Five Conference and molded them into the NCAA Western Regional champs.

"We won't be able to run on Cincinnati like we did against Oregon State," Wooden told the Los Angeles basketball writers Monday. "They're a bit quicker than Oregon State and they play good defense."

But, says Wooden, the Bruins are a lot less awed than determined.

Scene: checking house plans
Subject: house wiring
Solution: be sure it's adequate!

The time to get good wiring in your new home is that crucial hour when you're going over your house plans.

Right then—and no later—is the time to make sure you have ... plenty of outlets, for convenience in plugging in electric appliances and lighting all over your home.

... enough circuits, for today's uses of electricity, plus—and this is important—plus spare circuits for easy adding of wonderful new electrical equipment.

... a big-enough switch box and service entrance, big enough for you to add to your electrical load without overloading your wiring system.

Once that new home is built, it'll be tough to change your wiring ... to add circuits ... to add outlets.

Get adequate wiring when it's easy to get it! Get a good wiring job while your home is building—and you'll be set for better living, today and tomorrow.

ELECTRICITY TODAY'S BIGGEST BARGAIN

Maris Not Talking To Press

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Roger Maris slumped on a bench in front of his locker in the New York Yankees clubhouse, wiped the perspiration from his brow and reiterated his newest edict: "No more interviews."

A newspaperman walked toward Maris, and with his face showing he had heard of Maris' declaration of policy concerning reporters, mumbled, "Hello, Roger."

Maris looked up. "I'm fairly certain you've already been asked this question a thousand times," said the reporter. "but—what kind of a year do you expect?"

"I don't know," replied Maris. "Do you think you'll reach 61 home runs this year?" "I don't know," said Maris. "How many home runs will you be satisfied to hit?" "Don't know."

"Sure hot today isn't it," the reporter remarked, making his exit.

Maris looked at his companion. "Well, what did you expect me to say?" he growled. "New guys but the same old questions. How the dickens do I know what kind of a year I'm going to have. And if there's anybody who can predict how many homers I'm going to hit, he doesn't belong on this earth. He belongs up there."

Maris continued. "Look, I'm not going to change. I can't even if I wanted to. And I don't want to. I'm me, Roger Maris. I could have fed him a whole load of baloney. But I'm no politician. I can't say things I don't mean. And when I've got nothing to say, I say nothing. If the guy wants to get sore let him. I can't help that."

Maris hasn't been treated kindly by the fans here. He has been booed, and when he left a game after suffering a rib injury, he was jeered. He blames a bad press. Maris reciprocated by clamping up.

"When I came down here," he said, "I had made up my mind I would try to answer every question, no matter how silly, as best I know how. So what happens? I pick up a paper and see where I'm uncooperative and unfriendly. The people read this trash and believe it. I don't blame them. That boing I got made me feel terrible. "So, no more interviews. The writers are going to rip me if I talk or if I don't. So I'm not going to say anything and let them write what they please—they're going to write what they want anyway."

Will Testify Today In Antitrust Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Carroll Rosenbloom, president of the Baltimore Colts, were expected to testify today as the National Football League continued its defense in a $10 million antitrust suit.

The American Football League filed the suit, accusing the NFL of monopolistic practices and of expanding into Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul in an effort to undermine the new league.

The trial before Chief U.S. District Judge Roszel Thomson without a jury began Feb. 26.

The judge dismissed several charges at the conclusion of AFL testimony. The NFL began its defense Monday, and attorney Gerhard Gesell said he expected to wind up the case next week.

One of the first witnesses called was Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager of the NFL's champion Green Bay Packers.

Lombardi testified that he advised two AFL coaches on how to get their teams started. He identified them as Lou Rymkus, former coach of the Houston Oilers, and Hank Stram, coach of the Dallas Texans.

The two men, Lombardi said, spent three days each with Packers officials in March and April of 1960. That was after the NFL had voted to expand into Dallas.

Two NCS Cagers Leave School

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — John Pungler, North Carolina State's leading rebounder, and Charles Grob, an outstanding freshman player, have dropped out of school.

Pungler a 6-foot-5 forward from Rockville Center, N. C., averaged 12.7 points a game this season along with being top rebounder.

Grob, 6-foot-9 from Roselle, N. J., averaged 13.9 points a game for the frosh team.

Will Not Run

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Meadow Stable's Sir Gaylord, early Kentucky Derby favorite after winning the Bahamas and Everglades stakes in February, will not run in the Florida Derby March 31.

Sir Gaylord has been out of training since late February with an injured ankle. Trainer J. H. (Casey) Hayes said today it is very doubtful that Sir Gaylord would be ready for the mile and a furlong Florida Derby.

Later C. T. Chenery, owner of Meadow Stable, said at his Palm Beach home that Sir Gaylord definitely will not start in the race.

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

CHAPTER 20

"Nothing personal about it," Richard Rollison told James Wedlake, "but I know and you know that Holmes was summoned back to London because of some emergency reason. Something's up. I'm far too busy to be pushed around, so—"

He was near the door, but before he could touch the handle it opened and the sleek girl appeared carrying a silver tray with coffee and biscuits; she looked startled at the sight of him so close to the door.

"Put that down and shut that door," Wedlake ordered. "Rollison, let's stop fencing. You're quite right."

"Ah," said Rollison. "Thanks." He moved back to his chair, put his hat and stick back, and saw how astounded the girl was. Wedlake was beginning to grin.

"All right," he declared, "we'll play it your way. If I can't answer your questions because of policy reasons, I'll say so. Anything I tell you will be the blunt truth. Holmes was called back for emergency consultations."

"Why?"

"Complications with American distribution of a new and secret Malling model."

"What complication?"

"That's a policy question which I can't answer."

"Let me see if I can," said Rollison, musing, and Wedlake stopped in the act of pouring out coffee, and looked round sharply.

Rollison stretched out his legs, and went on, musingly: "Holmes was in the States to work on the distribution of a new Malling model, probably to be called the Guided Missile. He had a very specialized and important job to do and certain parts of it were under conditions of absolute secrecy."

"I imagine that he supervised the distribution for the standard Malling models, but his real job was with the secret model. Recently, he—or you—have had reason to believe that the secret is out. You were relying on hitting the American market for six with it, provided you had absolute secrecy. I suspect that you believe the leakage could have sprung from Holmes, hence the summons. No sugar, thanks."

Wedlake was about to speak, checked himself, poured out coffee, and brought a cup across to Rollison, who thanked him.

Wedlake gulped. "How did you find out all that?"

"Guesswork and some luck." "I don't believe it." Wedlake gulped again. "You must have access to confidential files, you said."

"He broke off. 'You've got this from Holmes.'"

"I've never met Holmes."

"Then it's utterly impossible, unless you've had access to 'secret correspondence.'"

"I haven't had access," said Rollison, softly. "Holmes was spirited away from the airport last night. His briefcase was found, with some correspondence and some documents in it, but I saw nothing that looked confidential. If there was anything, it was taken out."

"Good heavens!" Wedlake exclaimed. "He was due at my house last night, at half past eight. When he hadn't arrived by ten o'clock, and—"

He broke off, and stood squarely in front of Rollison, demanding roughly: "How do you know these things?"

Rollison said: "He was met at the airport by Kate Lawson, his fiancée, but she was prevented from seeing him. I was asked to try to find him on her behalf. One thing followed another. She was attacked, and nearly killed. A man named Bennett was arrested and charged with attempted murder. A girl who might be Bennett's sister was found strangled. A dog was killed."

Rollison brought all of this out smoothly, and then slid the photograph of the dead girl out of his pocket. "Do you know her?" he inquired.

Wedlake stared for a long time before he answered. He said: "Yes, I know her—and I know her brother." He closed his eyes, as if the realization was painful, and then swung away from Rollison and leaned against the desk. "Bennett used to work for us. He started by driving cars to and from the works to our distributors, and became one of our key salesmen. We had to dismiss him, two years ago. We—"

He straightened up again. "Do you say his sister was murdered?"

"If that is his sister?"

"This Bennett, the police arrested," said Wedlake, gruffly. "Is he a man of medium height, dark-haired, nose broken and flattened?"

"Yes."

"That's the man, so that's his sister," Wedlake said, and his voice became hoarse. "Did they have anything to do with Holmes' disappearance?"

"Yes."

"I knew it," Wedlake said, and suddenly crashed his fist on the big desk. "I knew that man was utterly unreliable. We brought out some modifications in our Magician model two years ago. The modifications appeared on two other manufacturers' models almost at the same time. I was sure there was a leakage of information, and it was thought that this was from the technical staff, but I never trusted Bennett."

"He was one of the few salesmen who knew what was coming along, and he always seemed to have more money than he should have had. Lots of people liked him, though. Attempted murder, and—"

Wedlake seemed to boggle at the next words.

"Was he fond of his sister?" inquired Rollison.

"I would say so. He was a pretty gay spark, often had a different girl friend. I used to see him at expensive restaurants and nightclubs, that's what first made me suspicious. We introduced another modification, and laid a trap for him—he fell right into it. He was selling out to a small firm of engineers who passed off the modifications to the other manufacturers as their own. Bennett went out on his crooked neck."

"So he would hate your guts," murmured Rollison.

"He might well do," agreed Wedlake. "Yes, he was the type who would do anything to get even. He still has friends in the offices, too, he's got a clever tongue."

"Could he have known that Holmes was coming home?" Rollison asked.

"Oh, he'd pray that out of someone at the office," Wedlake answered.

"Then probably Bennett fixed Holmes' disappearance—unless Holmes knew he ought to be wary of him."

"Holmes would know Bennett had left the company but wouldn't be likely to know the whole circumstances," said Wedlake, heavily. "No reason why Holmes shouldn't go off with him, if Bennett was at the airport. And Holmes had most of the details of the new Rocket," he broke off, and a faint shadow of a grin appeared at his full lips. "You got the name wrong, we're calling the new model Rocket, not Missile. We—but how did you know we had this new model with that kind of name?"

"There was one in London, last night," Rollison said.

"Oh, no, there wasn't," denied Wedlake. "It's physically impossible. There are only a dozen models, all of them in our Watford factory."

Rollison has to decide if seeing is believing when he witnesses a test run of a 'Rocket.' Continue the story here tomorrow.

DIFFERENT?

What's different about Rambler's rustproofing?

It goes all the way up to the roof. Only Rambler has Deep-Dip rustproofing—entire body immersed in primer paint right up to roof—plus 8 other body rustproofing steps.

What's different about Rambler's brakes?

They stop when other brakes can't. Double-Safety Brake System has tandem master cylinders. If front brakes fail, rear brakes still work and vice versa. Self-adjusting brakes standard, too.

What's different about Rambler's headroom?

It's greater than any other American car's. Rambler Classic 6 and Ambassador V-8 beat all other makes in front-seat headroom (even Cadillac)—can seat six 6-footers easily.

What's different about Rambler's muffler and tailpipe?

They won't rust out. Ceramic-Armored muffler, tailpipe guaranteed against defect as long as you own your new Rambler. If either rusts out, collision damage excepted, a Rambler dealer makes free replacement.

What's different about Rambler's prices?

They're America's lowest. Only Rambler brings you America's lowest suggested retail prices for convertible, 2-door and 4-door sedans and wagons—all quality-built with Rambler excellence.

District Science Fair Set March 23 At ECC

The Northeastern District Science Fair for junior and senior high school students will take place at East Carolina College Friday, March 23. Students from 22 counties in this section of the state are expected to enter their work in the fair. Dr. Frank Eller of the East Carolina Science Department, district director of the event, has announced.

The fair at East Carolina College is one of seven similar events which will be staged this week in North Carolina colleges and universities as preliminaries to the State Science Fair at the University of N. C., Chapel Hill, April 6-7.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of Science, the fairs have the purpose of discovering and encouraging boys and girls who are interested in the various fields of science and who become scientists, mathematicians, teachers, doctors, nurses, or engineers in industrial and research laboratories.

Students chosen in preliminary local fairs to participate in the district fair here will enter projects in the Junior Division of the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades or in the Senior Division of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. Work in both the biological and the physical sciences will be judged.

Emphasis in the ratings by competent judges will be placed on the creative ability, scientific thought, skill, thoroughness, clarity, and dramatic value shown in the student projects.

Publication of a book by Dr. James W. Batten of East Carolina College has been announced by the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill.

Title of the 32 page colorful book is "Our Neighbors in Space." The profusely illustrated publication provides a synthesis of knowledge about the solar system adapted specifically for use by elementary and high school teachers and students, as well as for laymen.

Dr. Batten, a native of Johnston County, was a narrator at the Morehead Planetarium before joining the East Carolina College staff and was one of the instructors of the Mercury Astronauts, including Col. John H. Glenn Jr., in celestial recognition.

The book contains invaluable references and a bibliography of pertinent, up-to-date books, periodicals, films, filmstrips and audio visual aids.

The original sketches in the book were done by Miss Cheryl Stowe and Mrs. Pat Ridenhour of East Carolina College, and the illustrations by Randy Jones of Durham. The book and illustrations in four colors was printed by Colonial Press, Inc. of Chapel Hill.

Doctors Seeking Employee Status

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Four St. Louis doctors are seeking to form a corporation under which they and other doctors could practice medicine as employees. The purpose is to get a tax break.

Applicants for the corporate charter are Drs. Robert H. Lund, Willard B. Walker, Lawrence O'Neal and Richard V. Bradley.

Their attorney, William A. Boles, said the incorporation would get the doctors equal treatment with employees of other corporations under tax laws, particularly on employer pension contributions, which are tax deductible.

The application was filed last June. It came to light this week when Missouri Atty. Gen. Thomas Eagleton ruled the proposed corporation would be legal.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said today that indications are that an inquest will be held in the traffic death of an 18-year-old Tarboro youth killed near Bethel Saturday night, but said nothing positive has been decided.

The official made the statement while commenting on the death of Herman Lawrence Briley, 18, who died in a one-vehicle crash two miles west of Bethel on US 64.

A second person in the car at the time of the crash has been hospitalized with injuries received in the wreck. He was identified as a Route 1, Robersonville man, Leroy Beach Jr., 20.

Coroner Harvey noted "it has not been fully determined" who the driver of the death car was and said the investigation of the fatal mishap is continuing.

The Saturday traffic fatality was the fifth for the county so far this year.

Cancer . . .

(Continued from page one) as our Lodge membership is well spread out over the county, it seems particularly fitting we should undertake to again sponsor a county-wide drive that touches the lives of all Pitt citizens, either directly or indirectly.

"We earnestly ask for the interest and help of each Pitt County family," he said. "I feel sure last year's Crusade reached many people that hitherto were unaware of their personal stakes in the fight against cancer. More must be reached, and the Moose will do their part in the common cause."

Moose Lodge Governor Dr. Charles McAndrew reaffirmed the American Cancer Society's insistence that it is "in business to go out of business."

"It is our hope and intent," he said, "that the Cancer Crusade will not be a continuing thing. The help our Cancer Society unit can give a Pitt County cancer patient, the amount of assistance we can give to research, the extent to which we can educate the public in its own role of combatting cancer . . . all are directly linked to this once-a-year effort."

Church Site Is Purchased Here

The Greenville Church of Christ, organized here last July, purchased land today as a site for a church building to be constructed soon.

Minister of the church, Mr. C. E. Mannon, said plans include beginning of construction on an educational building is expected within three to six months.

The site purchased, containing about 13 acres, was bought from D. G. Nichols of Greenville and is located on the US 264 bypass near Eastwood subdivision.

In addition to the educational unit to be built soon, Mr. Mannon said, the church's plans include construction of an adjacent auditorium in the future. Also included in the church's plans is construction of a minister's home near the church.

Since the Church of Christ was organized here last July, the members have met for their regular services in the Greenville Rotary Club on Johnston Street. Mr. Mannon said the church would continue to meet at the Rotary Club until the educational building has been completed.

Survey . . .

The general scope of the survey in its entirety is to locate, evaluate, mark and stock acceptable fallout shelters in existing facilities. It will also locate potential fallout shelters and determine the nature and cost of the work necessary to improve their quality and or capacity, according to a statement by the Department of Defense, office of Civil Defense.

The department noted that building owners who are requested to sign license agreements should be notified that such an agreement does not commit the government to marking and stocking space in their buildings unless that shelter space meets the criteria of a protective factor of 100 or more.

It is further stated that building owners who have the licensing agreement will be given the engineering evaluation and cost estimates. "The Federal Government will not contribute to such possible modification except under the proposed shelter incentive program for educational, health and welfare institutions," the department said.

Fifteen Hundred Chicks Distributed

Fifteen hundred quality chicks of the Harco Red Strain were distributed today to 15 Negro boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Club work in Pitt County.

According to Milton Merritt, assistant Negro Agricultural Agent, this is the seventh year this Poultry Chain has been in operation by Negro club members.

The 4-H'ers participating in this chain use all of the recommended practices in growing the chicks to pullets in five and one-half months.

The purpose for operating the chain is "to give some deserving boys and girls an opportunity to learn by doing with a project that not only has some educational value, but will also aid in the establishment of a good home flock of chickens," according to Merritt.

Of the 100 chicks each club member receives, 12 of the pullets are to be returned to the county agent's office in September. The returned pullets will be entered in a county poultry show and sale with the money received from the auction sale being used to purchase chicks for other 4-H'ers next year.

The following club members received chicks from the chain today:

Milton Suggs, Joyce Dupree,

Donald B. Reid, Jessie L. Knight, Mary Carmon, Betty Wooten, Samuel Ward, James Johnson, Brenda Faye Hopkins, David Gray, Bobby Ray Brown, Edith Gay, Jimmy Jones, Wilbert Jordan and Margaret Barnes.

It's hard to tell the depth of the well by the length of the handle of the pump!

There were 13,947 banks in this country on January 1st. 10,939 of these had fewer deposits than our bank. Our deposit increase moved us up 65 places on the list.

The point we make, however, is not our relative size—3008th out of 13,947. Size is not our project. Rather, we prefer to call attention to the fact that we are MOVING and that our direction is UPWARD.

In fact, our most significant progress is not shown by statistics . . . that is, our growth in DEPTH—to give you the best in banking on a personal basis. This is the real reason for our expansion.

Increased services, additional skilled manpower, modern electronic equipment . . . all these have enabled us to attract a growing number of new customers. As a result, we can continue providing the additional financing necessary in a growing community.

We have a keen personal interest in our single objective: the forward march of Pitt County. This is the explanation for the busy atmosphere of expectancy you sense when you walk into our bank. This is the nerve center where plans of eager business men begin and it is the ticker-tape of their progress.

It is no wonder, then, that our officers and employees have a warm sense of pride in serving our customers. It is not possible to work in this electric environment without a consciousness of being a vital part of the vibrant life of this community.

Once more, we want you, the people of Pitt County, to know that this is YOUR bank. The President's office is always open to everyone. Other senior officers are easily accessible. All of us welcome you.

Come to see us!
