Argentina On Verge Of Coup

Military Units Take Up Positions But Stop Short Of Ousting Frondizi

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Combat-ready troops carried out the first stages of a plan to overthrow defiant President Arturo Frondizi today, but stopped just short of an outright coup.

Military units occupied Government House in Santa Rosa, capital of La Pampa Province.

Other units in battle dress rushed to guard positions at communications and other nerve centers in Buenos Aires and key provincial cities.

Troops at Government House, who Tuesday changed from their red, blue and gold uniforms for battle fatigues, stationed themselves just outside Frondizi's office for the first time in the 11-day crisis. These guards carried submachine guns.

Grim and gaunt from the 11 days of crisis, Frondizi drove to his office from his suburban home. He smiled wanly as reporters asked him for comment but remained silent.

The military occupation of radio stations, central telephone offices and public works plants obviously was a move to thwart any disturbance and to be in a position for a military takeover of the nation if it is ordered by the army, navy and air chiefs.

Military sources said the combined armed forces at a pre-dawn session decided to put into action plans for the forcible ouster of the embattled president after he again rejected their demands that he quit.

But at midmorning there was a sudden halt in the plans, apparently to give Frondizi one more chance to resign.

As the situation grew more tense, Interior Minister Hugo Vaca Narvaja told newsmen "calm prevails throughout the nation, at least externally."

The minister said that if any measures had been adopted in the armed forces "they have not found expression outside the barracks."

The military occupation of such places as telephone exchanges, he said, was a "precaution to avoid the possibility of attacks against communication centers."

Reports from garrison cities in the interior said all was quiet at those places.

Shortly after midnight, Frondizi again refused the demand of the military chiefs that he resign, and said his decision was "final and irreversible."

Defense Minister Rodolfo Martinez was reported ready with a compromise that would keep Frondizi in office while giving the military a veto over his decrees.

Although the plan was not to be presented formally until later today, a military official confirmed that no service would accept any proposal to share the government responsibility with Frondizi.

The military official said the commander in chief of the army, Gen. Raul Pogni, had ordered "Plan 3"—the overthrow of Frondizi by force—executed at 7:30 a.m. The navy reportedly began plans to move. The army and air force reportedly requested a postponement until noon.

There was no immediate word from Frondizi, who went home from government house and presumably to bed after rejecting the military demand that he resign.

Defense Minister Martinez refused to tell newsmen the details of the president's compromise proposal, but its main point was believed to be that the secretaries of the army, navy and air force would be required by law to sign each presidential decree before it could take effect.

Dutch Warships And Troops Are Sent To Scene

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Dutch warships and troops rushed toward West New Guinea today to counter stepped-up Indonesian infiltration of the disputed territory.

The Dutch government dispatched four warships and airborne troops after receiving word of increased military activity in the area following a breakdown in U.S.-sponsored negotiations between the Hague and Jakarta.

The Dutch began airlifting an estimated 1,200 troops to New Guinea in DC3 airliners chartered from KLM, the Dutch airline. A plane load of 138 marines left Amsterdam today, and airport circles said one of KLM's two daily flights to New York had been cancelled for the next nine days to accommodate the airlift.

A DC8 transport left the Caribbean island of Curacao Tuesday night with a 70-man unit. Sources said at least six other planes ferrying troops from Amsterdam to New Guinea were to make stopovers at Curacao in the next few days.

The planes, carrying the troops as tourists in civilian dress, are flying to West New Guinea via Lima, Peru, and the French Pacific island of Tahiti, the French official said.

The military official said the commander in chief of the army, Gen. Raul Pogni, had ordered "Plan 3"—the overthrow of Frondizi by force—executed at 7:30 a.m. The navy reportedly began plans to move. The army and air force reportedly requested a postponement until noon.

There was no immediate word from Frondizi, who went home from government house and presumably to bed after rejecting the military demand that he resign.

Spring Sunshine Spurs Farmers

With spring weather now apparently stabilizing itself, Pitt County tillers of the soil have buckled down in earnest to their annual task of whipping the land into shape for its top production potential.

Today's second straight day of spring sunshine and balmy breezes brought land-breaking operations in increasing numbers onto the county's damp fields.

Land preparation was underway in fields to produce the county's 26,298-acre flue-cured tobacco crop, accentuated this year by a 4.3 per cent allotment increase. Farmers were "breaking" the land that will meet its tobacco plants in May.

At the same time, farmers converged on their fields with tractors and some mule teams, with disks and harrows to launch soil-churning operations for the county's cotton, corn and peanut crops.

This crop year, Pitt farmers will be planting about 8,000 acres of an 8,974-acre cotton allotment. Peanuts scheduled for production in Pitt will come from a total allotment of 6,625 acres.

Corn production in Pitt, reduced somewhat for the second straight year by the feed grain program, will involve about 62,000 acres this year, according to Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service figures. About 24,000 acres of a county-wide corn base acreage of about 86,000 has been diverted from corn production under the feed grain program.

While fields were undergoing preparation procedures for the major allotted crops, farmers were also shaping their fields for planting of secondary commodities, including Irish and sweet potatoes, cucumbers and, later in the spring, the county's estimated planting of 20,000 acres of soy beans.

Girl Returns

AYDEN—Kay Frances Bradshaw, 15-year-old Ayden girl reported missing by her father Monday night, returned yesterday about 12:30 p.m. and told police she had left home voluntarily, Chief W. D. Brooks said.

The girl, a companion and another couple left the Bradshaw home by automobile Monday evening for Jacksonville, police said. The father, Thomas Bradshaw, reportedly had asked his daughter not to go and had later told local police she was missing from home, touching off a search by local police and authorities from neighboring counties.

Rusk Reports On Geneva Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk met at the White House today to review what the Geneva conference and talks on Berlin have produced so far.

Rusk flew back from Geneva Tuesday night. He went to the White House this morning to make his first report to the chief executive. He walked in through a side door to executive offices with a tan attaché case in his hand. He had nothing to say to newsmen at that point.

Kennedy and Rusk conferred privately for about 25 minutes.

Wingers generally opposed to socialist measures instituted by the U.A.R. regime. Since the early days of the civilian government that took over from the junta, army officers had been reported split over the government's cancellation of popular nationalization measures.

The Parliament elected El Koudsi president for a five-year term on Dec. 14. A 55-year-old moderate rightist, he had been a former premier, foreign minister, speaker of the House, and Syrian minister to Washington for a year in 1944. Damascus radio said today he had resigned "for health reasons."

The radio also announced the resignation of Premier Dawabli and his 16-man Cabinet of moderate right-wingers and independents. Dawabli last weekend had announced he was willing to step down in favor of a government of national unity.

Federal Aid In Program To Be Aired Thursday

Representatives from the Urban Renewal and Housing and Home Finance Agency in Atlanta, Ga. will discuss the feasibility of a federally assisted neighborhood conservation program in Greenville at a public meeting Thursday night.

Mayor Charles M. King announced that the meeting will be held in the City Hall courtroom beginning at 8 o'clock. The mayor urged all interested citizens to attend.

The HHFA representatives were invited here to explain such a program by municipal government officials.

A neighborhood conservation ordinance, which provides for upgrading of substandard dwellings, was approved by the council. Subsequently the council designated an area bounded by Greene St., Dickinson Ave., Memorial Drive and the Tar River as the first area to be upgraded.

Since then, however, city officials have learned that Federal funds can be made available for such projects under certain conditions. As is true with the city's present urban renewal project, the Federal government would pay three-fourths of the project cost with the city to pay one-fourth.

It is the assisted neighborhood conservation program that the HHFA representatives will be asked to explain.

Mayor King pointed out that certain phases of the federally assisted type program "tie in with our present plans in substandard areas as far as improving private property, paving, curb and gutter, drainage, sewage, water and recreation are concerned."

"I feel that much would be gained for the good of our city in seeking further information on this program," the mayor stated.

He said that those attending the meeting will have an opportunity to ask questions about the program after the Atlanta representatives have spoken.

Top Commander And Leader Of Irregulars Meet

BINH HUNG, South Viet Nam (AP)—America's top military commander, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, flew deep into Communist-threatened territory today to discuss problems with a Chinese soldier-priest.

The chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff spent the afternoon at this isolated village near the southern tip of the country.

Most of the 1,200 residents of the village, their self-taught force of irregulars, and their commander, Rev. Nguyen Lac Hoa, turned out under the blazing sun to meet the general.

Father Hoa, a Roman Catholic priest who escaped when China became Communist, established Binh Hung three years ago as a fortified home for other refugees and Vietnamese terrorized by the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Father Hoa's "sea swallows," as he calls his 915 fighting men, are the only irregulars in Viet Nam receiving military aid from both the government and the United States.

Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission Plans Ask CAB Review Decision

Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission last night decided to petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for review of its decision denying air service to Wilson-Greenville.

The commission will contact Wilson officials concerning the petition in order to make it a joint effort.

Wilson and Greenville had entered a request in the Piedmont Local Service Area investigation for air stops to serve the two cities. The plan was to construct an airport to serve both.

However, the CAB last week announced its decision to deny service to Wilson-Greenville while granting additional service to Rocky Mount and Kinston and new service to Goldsboro.

The CAB in its decision maintained Wilson-Greenville did not show that Rocky Mount, Kinston and Goldsboro are not reasonably accessible to Wilson-Greenville.

"The new services authorized at these nearby points should be sufficient to satisfy the air service requirements of Wilson-Greenville," the CAB statement read.

The local Airport Commission took its action after Attorney W. W. Speight informed them that Rep. Herbert C. Bonner would protest the decision.

"Mr. Bonner called and said he hadn't given up," Speight reported today. "He is vitally interested and wants to do all he can."

Speight said the congressman told him in a telephone conversation that he plans to contact CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd and FAA Chairman N. E. Halaby to express his disappointment.

Speight reported Congressman Bonner was disturbed that the Wilson-Greenville position and the concept of a regional airport to serve the whole area was not considered or even discussed in the board's decision.

This was especially true, he said, since the CAB had itself announced a policy of certifying service to a central airport to serve an area, where possible.

Under CAB procedure participants have 20 days following the decision to file a petition of review. Already Rowan County, where service was denied to Salisbury, has announced it will file a petition asking reconsideration.

Thus the fight for area air service in Eastern Carolina, which has been under way for a decade, bids to continue. The CAB decision was handed down March 20 which would mean the 20-filing period would end April 9. More hearings are expected to be held by the CAB on the petitions.

work done on streets and other improvements including facilities installed by the municipally owned Greenville Utilities.

However, it is expected that there will be some cash outlay involved for the city in meeting its share of the cost.

The Redevelopment Commission voted unanimously to forward the application to Atlanta. Once it is returned with Federal approval, the Redevelopment Commission will hold a public hearing on the Shore Drive plan. Next the plan will go to the Planning-Zoning Commission for its approval. Then it will be forwarded to the City Council which holds another public hearing before the council takes final action.

ALGIERS (AP)—The French massed 60,000 troops in Algiers today to bring the city's 300,000 defiant European settlers under control.

Reinforcements rolled in from the countryside to guard against any new outbreak by the Secret Army organization fighting to sabotage the cease-fire agreement between France and the Algerian nationalist rebels. Armored cars and halftracks patrolled the streets of the Algerian capital.

The Secret Army Organization is known as the OAS. The settlers' cause appeared hard hit by the heavy army fire into a crowd of European demonstrators Monday in which 45 Europeans were killed and 120 wounded in the heart of the city.

"We are so stunned we cannot think of any reaction," said one secret army agent.

Secret army terrorism continued unabated, nevertheless. By midnight Tuesday the day's toll for all Algeria stood at 17 dead and 88 wounded, all Moslems except two of the dead.

In Oran, French troops killed a young European on a motor scooter who they said had just slain a Moslem. Authorities in Oran also announced the arrest of former Lt. Cmdr. Pierre Guillaume, a sector chief of the secret army, and the only navy man convicted of participation in the general's revolt in Algiers last April. He was flown to Paris to join his former secret army chief, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, who was seized Sunday night in Oran.

The French army command said an investigation of Monday's shooting showed that before the troops opened fire on the crowd of demonstrators, troops at four points in the heart of the city were fired on by snipers.

As reinforcements rolled into Algiers from the countryside, the French authorities disclosed the list of three Europeans and nine Moslems, headed by Abderrahmane Fares, a Moslem Socialist, who will administer Algeria until the self-determination vote in three to six months.

One of the chief tasks for the provisional government will be to prepare and supervise the referendum, backed by a largely Moslem "local force" of some 60,000 men.

The list included several men long associated with the National Liberation Front (FLN). Fares, once president of the now defunct Algerian Assembly, was in jail as an FLN fund collector until the peace agreement between the French and the nationalist rebels took effect March 19.

Clinics for the countywide tetanus immunization program to be held here April 4 and April 25 have been announced for 13 points in Pitt County and seven in Greeneville in addition to East Carolina College.

The Pitt County Medical and Dental Society is sponsoring the project, in an effort to provide countywide tetanus protection. A materials fee of 50 cents will be asked from those who can pay. Those who cannot pay will be given the immunization free.

The clinics will be in operation from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Wednesday, April 4 and Wednesday, April 25.

Immunization will be given at the following points in Pitt County: Farmville Armory; Bethel at the Rotary Building; Fountain at Dr. Bruce Bessley's office; Ayden Clinic; Winterville Community Building; Grifton, health department building; Child, at Gardner-Brunson Store; Grimesland Town Hall; Simpson School; Sallie Branch School; Falkland Community Building; Pactolus at Davenport's Store; Stokes at Congleton's Store.

Immunization points in Greenville will be at the Pitt Court House, Fleming Street School, Agnes Fullilove School, South Greenville School, Third Street School, Elm Street Recreation Center and Farmer's Warehouse. Students and faculty of East Carolina College will also be given opportunity for tetanus immunization.

Permanent records will be given to each person getting tetanus immunization. Dr. Tom Patterson of Farmville is overall chairman of the planning committee for the project, with Dr. Earl Trevathan of Greenville in charge of publicity.

Already some 10,000 pamphlets on tetanus have been distributed to the public through the schools.

Sanford Wants Congress Okay Flood Insurance

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford wants Congress to establish a program of federal insurance to cover property damaged by floods.

He urged the state's congressional delegation Tuesday urging support of a measure along the lines of one enacted in 1956.

The 1956 bill, called the Federal Flood Insurance Act, was not implemented, however, because no funds were appropriated.

Sanford told the congressmen that private insurance firms do not provide coverage against floods.

He noted that the North Carolina coast has been battered by several hurricanes and coastal storms for several years. Earlier this month, a vicious Northeast storm inflicted about $12.5 million in damages on the Outer Banks.

"We must find insurance protection to partially offset these tremendous devastations of private and public assets," he said.

NASA Planning Pick Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wanted: Five to 10 young men for imaginative, wide-ranging outfit with room at the top. Those who qualify will go far but the faint-hearted need not apply.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is planning to select more astronauts soon but it's unlikely it will have to take to the classified advertising columns with such an appeal to get applicants.

Anyone can apply, including civilians. Space Administrator James E. Webb said Tuesday.

The age limit for the new space candidates, he said, should be somewhat lower than now, indicating 35 might be the limit. Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., oldest of the present group of seven, is 40.

The original group was named in April 1959. All were military officers with experience as test pilots.

Syrian Military Oust Gov't, Seize Control

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Syrian army command took over the government today in a lightning coup avowedly aimed to swing Syria back from right-wing rule to neutralist Arab socialism.

President Nazem el Koudsi and Premier Marouf Dawabli's Cabinet were ousted and the Constituent Assembly set up after Syria broke from the United Arab Republic last fall was dissolved.

Communications signed by "The General Command of the Army and Armed Forces" said a provisional government composed of honest and sincere elements would be set up later.

Until then, it was announced, "the command takes over the legislative and executive powers in the country."

Syria's frontiers, airports and harbors were ordered closed until further notice. The people were instructed to "avoid any demonstrations of support or any groupings whatsoever."

Radio Damascus said the coup was bloodless.

An army general staff statement broadcast from Damascus accused the right-wingers of nullifying social reforms to regain lands they had lost to the peasants and workers while Syria was joined with Egypt in President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The statement said the coup was a continuation of the Sept. 28 army revolt which broke Syria's tie with the U.A.R. and "an internal affair to correct conditions in Syria." It said the army's aim at home was "establishment of constructive Arab socialism," the same term used by Nasser to describe his program.

The army command also called for "the establishment of comprehensive Arab unity on a clear basis, especially with beloved Egypt and brotherly Iraq and considering the Palestine problem as problem number one of the Arab nation."

It affirmed as its international aim "positive neutrality and non-alignment and respect of international charters including the United Nations charter."

Damascus radio said "the army command would hold both legislative and executive power until a transitional government is formed. It said the government once more was headed by the same junta that carried out the Sept. 28 revolt.

The junta originally was formed of six colonels, but one of them, Col. Haydar Kuzbari, was dismissed from his command last December. It was believed he leaned too far to the right to suit the other junta members, and he also was believed to have interfered in the December election campaign.

The 172-man Parliament elected Dec. 1 was dominated by right-wingers generally opposed to socialist measures instituted by the U.A.R. regime. Since the early days of the civilian government that took over from the junta, army officers had been reported split over the government's cancellation of popular nationalization measures.

The Parliament elected El Koudsi president for a five-year term on Dec. 14. A 55-year-old moderate rightist, he had been a former premier, foreign minister, speaker of the House, and Syrian minister to Washington for a year in 1944. Damascus radio said today he had resigned "for health reasons."

Rouse Jr.; Mrs. A. W. Smith Jr.; Mrs. D. Emerson Smith; Mrs. Marvin Speight Jr.; Mrs. John T. Thorne and Mrs. John B. Wright Jr.

Pitt's Democratic Women were organized last fall with 67 charter members in cooperation with a state-wide movement for women's county chapters to strengthen the party in North Carolina.

Miss Janice Hardison of Greenville is president of the organization, whose executive committee meets monthly.

The constitution provides for a four-year series of general meetings. The second is scheduled for late April and planned as a reception at which Pitt Democratic candidates running for office this year will be special guests.

The first meeting was a dinner meeting in January with State Democratic Chairman Bert L. Bennett of Winston-Salem as honored guest.

Educational Foundation Is College Faculty Program

Announcement has been made by the American Association of University Women of a new program to train women for a career in higher education. The AAUW Educational Foundation offers financial support to able, mature women college graduates in an 11-state area, including North Carolina, who are interested in teaching, research, or administration in colleges or universities and who need assistance with the necessary graduate work.

Sorority Holds Monthly Meeting

The North Carolina Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority held its monthly meeting at the Silo Restaurant Thursday, March 22, with the president, Elizabeth Savage, presiding.

The devotional on the theme "Relaxation" was given by Evelyn Blue and Theima Allen.

Margaret McCullers, president of the North Carolina Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority of Kinston, and Bertha Mae Stroud, Kinston, vice-president of the State Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority, installed the following officers: president, Elizabeth Savage; vice-president, Mary Rose Stocks; treasurer, Josephine Brookshire; recording secretary, Frances Tyson; corresponding secretary, Kara Lynn Pennell; chaplains, Evelyn Blue and Theima Allen; sergeant-at-arms, Elizabeth Taylor; historian, Lily Carr; keeper of archives, Lou Cavendish.

Handbooks were distributed and committees were appointed.

During the business session the membership approved the operating of a refreshment concession April 13 for the two performances of Suzari Marionettes sponsored by the Pilot Club.

The program is designed for women college graduates over 35 who have not recently been enrolled as students and who have not recently been on the faculty of an institution of higher education. The objective of the College Faculty Program is to increase the resources of qualified personnel for higher education in the fields of teaching, research, or administration by offering financial support to women who wish to re-establish themselves in the academic world.

The project is supported by a $225,000 grant from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. Full tuition and grants-in-aid not to exceed $600 for one academic year will be awarded to fifty women during each year of the three-year program. A successful candidate will attend the graduate school of a college or university within commuting distance of her residence in the 11-state area: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia. Further information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Rachel H. Kilpatrick.

Chi Omega Elects Officers

Dinah Ray Nibbelink of High Point, sophomore student at East Carolina College, has been elected as president of the Rho Zeta Chapter of Chi Omega, social sorority at East Carolina, for the 1962-1963 school term. Miss Nibbelink succeeds Betty H. Lane of Cary, past president, and will assume her new duties in April.

An English major at the college, Miss Nibbelink is a member of the Young Democratic Club, a club stimulating in students an interest in better government and encouraging more active participation in politics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Nibbelink of 1001 Montlieu Ave., High Point.

The Rho Zeta Chapter of Chi Omega was pledged at East Carolina College November 12, 1959. The purposes of Chi Omega are the attainment of superior scholarship, the development of womanly character, and participation in social and civic services.

Other officers elected to serve with President Nibbelink are Judith F. Smith of Rocky Mount, vice president; Barbara Ann Ellis of Faison, secretary; Sara Lou White of Windsor, treasurer; Catherine (Cathy) Shesso of Jacksonville, pledge trainer; Judith A. Doyle of Raleigh, personnel chairman; Elaine Brewer of Rt. 1, Siler City, and Donnie Hicks of Raleigh, both Panhellenic representatives; and Cella May of Bailey, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Kennedy Presides At Meet

A meeting of District two of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Aurora Methodist Church.

Mrs. Alfred Kennedy of Greenville will preside.

Mrs. Sam J. Welborn of Thompsville, Department president, who will be guest speaker at all of the meetings, will have the Department Membership Chairman, Mrs. T. L. Noe of Wilson, traveling with her.

10 Ways To Increase Spring Prom-Ability

By JEANNE SAKOL
Author of the book "What About Teen-Age Marriage?"

NEW YORK—(WNS)—The Spring Prom—music, dancing—everyone all dressed up and having a wonderful time! Will you be invited?

If you're not sure, now is the time to start thinking of ways to increase your prom-ability and insure your chances of an invitation. Here are 10 ways to help you gain social poise, broaden your circle of friends and make you a highly desirable date for the Spring Prom—or anything else.

1. HAVE AN OPTIMISTIC ATTITUDE. Squelch those pessimistic feelings of defeat. If you woefully tell everyone, "Nobody's going to ask me," you'll probably be right because your long face will scare the boys off.

2. COUNT APPEARANCES. Look your best no matter what, no matter where. Get up earlier so that hair, make-up and clothes are in good shape when you get to school. When you know you look awful, your manner is stiff. The boys will not only think you look like a witch—but a stuck-up witch at that.

3. GIVE A FUN PARTY NOW. Make it a big one so you can include lots of boys. The bigger the crowd, the more natural you can be in asking boys you don't know very well. As hostess, you get to know them better.

4. MAKE FRIENDS WITH SHY BOYS. No point moping over the football captain wishing he'd ask you. He probably won't. Remember that many young men are more afraid of girls than girls would believe. Look around you. All a shy boy needs is some encouragement, such as a cheery, friendly "hello." You may discover a Troy Donahue or George Hamilton in hiding.

5. SERVE ON A PROM COMMITTEE. Working on the dance, selling tickets, getting decorations, entertainment and so on, you have a good excuse to discuss the Prom with lots of people, boys included. One is sure to get the message—and invite you. In some schools, committee members are given a free pair of tickets. If this is so in your school, you are perfectly correct inviting your own escort.

6. CURB SARCASTIC. Don't be known as the girl with the knack for finding people's sore spots. This is guaranteed to keep you home Prom night. Boys are rightly afraid of sharp-tongued vipers.

7. HAVE A HOBBY BOYS ENJOY. Photography, for instance, is a good means of bringing people together. Lasting friendships can come from a mutual interest, often grow into something more romantic.

8. SMILE A LOT. This may sound silly but makes you appear warm and friendly. When you're sulky or glum, boys don't try to find out why. They think you're a snob.

9. PERFECT YOUR DANCING. A really good dancer always gets invitations. Practice at home or with girl friends. Show off your skills at get-togethers between now and Prom time.

10. DON'T BE A PASSION FLOWER. Necking with everyone is not the key to popularity. In fact, it can boomerang. A boy wants to be proud of the girl he takes to the Prom.

Spring is the time of awakening. While life seems dull as winter creeps to an end, the first warm weather will bring a surge of awareness between boys and girls. As Prom time nears, the girls often feel the excitement in the air first. Just give the boys time plus the right encouragement and they'll get into the act, too.

Is Bleached Blonde Sick? MD, Beauty Man Disagree

By ESTHER TZIEREL

NEW YORK—(WNS) — A woman's neurosis may go to her head, showing up as flashy platinum tresses, a Cleveland doctor says.

But a New York beauty specialist disagrees. Overdone coiffures, he contends, are just a sign of poor taste.

The Ohio authority is Dr. Leonard Lovshin of the Cleveland Clinic, who expounds his views in the professional journal "Consultant."

He holds that extreme theatrical effects — store-bought platinum blonde hair, for example — bespeak a neurotic woman. As an example of the overdone, thus neurotic, female Dr. Lovshin cites the elderly woman who tints her fading gray hair jet black.

Overplucked and painted eyebrows are other clues to emotional trouble, he finds. Although these are acceptable for models and showgirls, secretaries and housewives normally will hew to a more conservative line where their eyebrows are concerned, the doctor thinks.

However, Jack Miller, general manager of a beauty salon in New York, poo-poo's the idea that women let their neuroses shine through when they effect exotic hair colors or styles.

"The color and style of a woman's hair is a matter of her personal taste," Miller said. "The flashy hairdo indicates poor taste rather than an emotional disturbance."

What's more, he said, "A woman who takes advantage of the methods available for beautifying herself is just being sensible."

"I'd say the woman who walks around looking like a beatnik is probably emotionally upset—not the woman who tries to color and arrange her hair becomingly," he added.

As for the girls who like their thatches very bleached blonde, it is "just a matter of poor taste and not very elegant."

Furthermore, Miller said, the older woman who dyes her gray hair black "is trying to maintain a youth full appearance, something necessary in today's business and social world. Even men dye their hair these days."

A highlight of the musical "Guys & Dolls," now running for six nights at East Carolina College, March 26 through March 31, at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium, is the more than 26 talented dancers.

Particularly effective are the dances in El Cafe Cubano, and the strip-tease "Take Back Your Mink" number. With Donald Hayes of the college faculty as producer and conductor of the orchestra, and Mrs. Lois Garren of Greenville as choreographer and director of the production, the musical is sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Ingrid Huffman of Spencer; Donna Cain of Greenville (face half shown) and Dianne Nesbitt of Black Mountain. Sue Ayres Little (foreground) of Roanoke, Va., plays one of the leading roles as Adelaide, a nightclub canary, who for 14 years is engaged to Nathan Detroit, played by C. David Miller of Greenville, a crap-game proprietor.

Tickets for performances Monday through Friday may be obtained at the McGinnis Auditorium box office on the nights of performances. Tickets for reserved seats for Saturday night may be obtained from Dr. James W. Butler or Allan Nelms, East Carolina College. (Photo by East Carolina College News Bureau Photographer Vaughn Gwyn)

Nothing Like It Since Gov. Aycock

Gov. Sanford's recent itinerary of speeches in behalf of better education in North Carolina reads more like the schedule of a hard-riding candidate for office rather than that of the chief executive of the state.

A small news article in most North Carolina newspapers Monday noted that the governor was scheduled to make 18 speeches at educational rallies during a two-day swing through the eastern section of the state. Starting as 18 speeches in two days may seem, this is only part of the full story.

Instead of making nine speeches Tuesday as his original schedule called for, Gov. Sanford managed to start earlier in the day and appear before two additional audiences in behalf of better education.

Even if this marathon of speech-making by the governor in behalf of education were a one-shot campaign, it would be of significance. It is of greater significance, however, because it is only a small part of a much broader and continuing program.

A check with the governor's office brought forth the information that Gov. Sanford in the past 35 days has made no less than 54 addresses on education within the state. These, of course, were in addition to addresses on other subjects.

Since he came to office in Raleigh, Gov. Sanford has made literally hundreds of addresses on education throughout the state. And the pace he has set shows no sign of letting up.

During his campaign for the state's highest office, Gov. Sanford asserted that even though the governor by himself could not provide North Carolina with better schools, the influence of that office could be a great factor in bringing better education to the state. There can be no doubt that Gov. Sanford has used the influence of his office in behalf of public education to a greater degree than any chief executive since Aycock. Neither can there be any doubt that this effort on the part of the governor has brought positive response both from other state officials and from the citizenry as a whole in North Carolina.

The people of North Carolina are more keenly aware of the needs of public education today than they have been in decades. There is more widespread concern for upgrading public schools than has ever before been the case. And there is also more determination among individual citizens to provide youngsters with better educational opportunities.

The Stakes Are Now For Time

By LYNN NISBET PERSONAL — I lost a bet—but I'm still in the game. The glib statement made the other day that after two weeks absence I was back in routine orbit was made without proper reckoning of facts. The same afternoon that statement was written the doctor put me in the hospital for a couple days and it was necessary to resort to further use of guest columns. I'm betting now that I'll be on the job regularly, although in probably restricted orbit. Cancer not only is malignant, it is damnably persistent. The game we're playing is for time. We know who'll win in the end.

While on the personal note here's an experience at the hospital. Private rooms are scarce, and for most times when patients are not really sick it is nice to have a companion. They brought a man into my room rather late Friday night. A stranger, 83 years old, who soon was left alone by the friends who brought him. Nurses were very attentive and all night long they were at hand adjusting oxygen and what have you. Next morning just as I was leaving the room and while a nurse was doing something for his comfort, he gasped and quit breathing. It wasn't by any means the first person I've seen die, but it occasioned a sort of weird feeling.

DIVIDEND — The most significant part of the report on the travel promotion mission to Europe made last week by Chairman Charles B. Wade had to do with the extra dividends derived from the project. Wade said he expected a number of people from Europe, particularly the travel agents, to come to North Carolina next fall and later, and that this vanguard would be followed by a lot of traveling tourists and vacationers. That was the purpose of the mission, and the anticipated dividend.

The extra pay off comes from the inquiries and the promises of visits by people in the United States, particularly New England, who read the stories about the mission in the New York newspapers and for the first time had their interest aroused in North Carolina. Dozens of these people have asked for more information and have indicated they will visit the state within the next few months. This is in essence a repetition of the experience following the industry-seeking safaris conducted through Europe three years ago by Governor Hodges and the C&D department. It is not known whether any European financed industrial plants have been located in North Carolina as a result of that trip. Certainly there has been a pick-up in shipping through the State ports. But there are several big industrial plants built by American companies whose origin can definitely be traced to the publicity about the state incident to the European safari.

Both excursions paid handsomely both in direct returns on the major purpose of the project and in the extra dividends from stimulated interest on part of fellow Americans.

For the most part this healthy situation in North Carolina is due to the personal interest and personal effort of Gov. Sanford.

If Overdone, Negative Reaction At Home

World travel by members of the Kennedy family, while serving an excellent purpose in building good will for the United States, should not be carried to excess.

Already there has been criticism of tax money spent for the round-the-world tours taken by Attorney General Robert Kennedy and his wife, and more recently the tour of Mrs. Kennedy, the wife of the President.

While we question the validity of criticism leveled at the President for the recent good-will trips by these members of his family, if such journeys become a pattern, often repeated, negative reaction at home could do much to mar the good impression which has been left abroad by these top echelon visitors from the United States.

A Far-Reaching Day In Court

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — No wonder people need a lawyer. Monday was one of the most angry and explosive, and most far-reaching, days in the Supreme Court in years.

It wasn't only that a majority of the nine Justices ruled a lower federal court had misunderstood the nature of previous Supreme Court decisions.

Nor was it the whole story when the Justices opened the door for federal courts to step further into the operations of state legislatures than ever before.

Nor was the explosion limited to Justice Felix Frankfurter who disagreed. It was not the lower court which had misunderstood but the Supreme Court which was reversing itself and, in effect, him, too. But Monday's action is bound to anger rural politicians — in Congress and the states — against the court as they see, or think they see, power slipping from them as a result of the action.

Most state legislatures today are dominated by rural senators and representatives. In the eyes of almost every state must reapportion, or redistrict, periodically for representation in the legislature.

This is to prevent any group of voters, rural or urban, from getting a monopoly on power in a legislature by having more representatives and senators there than their number entitle them to.

In practice the theory is ignored. Rural lawmakers keep a firm grip on the power they got years ago when the population of cities was smaller and the rural population proportionately larger than now.

Tennessee is an example. Its state constitution calls on the legislature to require a census of qualified voters every 10 years and then, based on these findings, reapportion the senators and representatives. But the Tennessee Legislature hasn't done this in 61 years.

The result: Tennessee's rural population, despite the growth of cities, dominates the legislature as it did in 1901. But the federal Constitution guarantees all citizens equal protection of the laws.

A group of Tennessee citizens, backed by some city mayors, argued they are being denied their constitutional rights and appealed to a three-man federal district court to straighten out the legislature.

For the federal courts to get embroiled with one state legislature in a case like this could involve litigation and many years for years, cries that the federal court was extending its authority too far, and attacks on the court for years by politicians.

The three district court judges, believing all previous Supreme Court opinions had been against interfering in a situation like this, threw the suit out, although significantly they agreed the Tennessee Legislature had violated the state's constitution.

They could well remember a famous and often-cited case in 1946, involving the Illinois Legislature, when Frankfurter had said: "Courts ought not to enter the political thicket. The remedy for unfairness in districting is to secure state legislation that will apportion properly, or to invoke the ample powers of Congress."

But the Tennessee voters, refusing to be beaten, appealed to the Supreme Court, where Monday a majority ruled: Sure, the court can step into a case like this. It said the lower court had made a mistake in thinking it couldn't. Instead of giving a decision pointing out what the Tennessee Legislature should do, the Supreme Court sent the case back to the lower court to be tried.

But the attack on this decision already starting in Congress, began first in the Supreme Court itself. Frankfurter cut loose on the majority in just about the most overheated, acidulous and flamboyant language this writer can remember reading in Supreme Court opinions in almost 20 years.

He called the majority opinion, which made mincemeat out of his desire to stay out of the "political thicket," a "massive repudiation of the experience of our whole past in asserting destructively novel judicial power."

"It may well impair the court's position as the ultimate organ of the 'supreme law of the land,' in that vast range of legal problems, often strongly entangled in popular feelings, on which this court must pronounce," Frankfurter said.

That's just the start. Frankfurter sizzles when he gets warmed up, a colorful demonstration that the split which has been growing in the court for years never was wider.

Justice John Marshall Harlan, agreeing with Frankfurter, let go at the majority. Justice Potter Stewart, on the majority side, teed off on Harlan.

Justice Tom Clark, also with the majority, first criticized the majority for not handling the case instead of bunting it back to the lower court, then accused Harlan of "chasing rabbits" and took a verbal belt at Frankfurter.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS NOTHING TO BRAG ABOUT How much do you poor mortals know? Very little as a matter of actual fact. The planet on which we live is somewhat insignificant even compared with the other planets of our solar system. The sun, which is the center of all we know about life, has been termed by a prominent astronomer as "just a run-of-the-mill, pale, yellow star."

Taken the world over, the people who can read and write are in the minority. So few people ever receive higher education that we can put them to one side in a little area comprising a very small percentage of the total population of the world.

We happen to be living in an age which has experienced tremendous increases in knowledge, yet with this great increase we know very little compared with what there is to know. Medical science has made tremendous strides, yet medicine stands helpless today before certain diseases. What is more, medical science admits that it knows practically nothing about some of the commonest of human ailments. The astronomers have scanned the heavens, yet when they have estimated the distance of the furthest star, they confess that there may be countless universes beyond our own.

Let us never get into the habit of throwing our weight around and talking about the marvelous achievements of these present days. They are marvelous compared with the past. They are insignificant compared with what we believe to be the whole truth — human and divine. Let us be modest and stay modest.

He Demands Equal Time!

Something In The Air

THE MAN said it looked to him like Spring was here after all, the way everybody was either frolicking around or else dragging from place to place like something had removed their bones.

That was Tuesday afternoon. There was a gentle, fresh breeze rustling the shrubs and budding trees. The sun was warm and, like the man said, just about everybody showed some kind of effect.

A more than casual scanning of the area failed to turn up any impressive numbers of people either frolicking or ragging around, but something was in the air all right.

IT CAME to mind then that one of the boys in the newspaper had sailed nonchalantly through a rather unusual episode during the morning.

There was a need to contact a Mr. What's-his-name, Jones, I believe it was. Anyhow, the telephone was dialled absentmindedly. The Spring-effected caller had directed thoughts, not dialing finger, toward the East Carolina College switchboard. The finger dialled simply: "Zero."

The answer came: "Operator. May I help you?" "Mr. Jones, please."

"All right. What town is he in, please?"

BUT THERE were more indications.

On the East Carolina campus, the baseballers seemed greatly gratified for a pleasant afternoon to what their talents.

After sitting indoors, watching three consecutive scheduled baseball games washed away by cooler-than-Spring rains, Tuesday's bright, fresh weather was more than welcome.

Two or three of the boys clad in light warm-up jackets were stationed near the leftfield fence taking their warm-up tosses.

Just across the fence, in the Rawl Building parking lot, was a vivid explanation for the marked absence of students sprawled on the green grass for after-lunch sestas (or whatever they are).

A pair of size 12's, crowned by brown-and-red argyles, hung lazily through the open window of a 1960-model sedan. Whoever it was who belonged to those feet was sawing his sista logs inside. He knew the ground was just too wet.

BUT SOME indications are at best slightly baffling. A high school teacher told me once that she was utterly amazed (and somewhat elated) at the feeling for Spring displayed by one of her students in these lines:

"O Golden rod you're gone, and rightly so. Jack Frost is, too, and Winter's sprightly snow. Tin cans are buried deep by River's edge, and Spring's a-peepin' at me o'er th' hedge."

"Ain't that just grand?" she asked me.

I admitted to myself that I must lack that feeling for Spring or else I missed the point. But I didn't tell her so.

Quote "There is a prophet crying in the wilderness today. He is the 'Spirit of '76'. He is telling you — he is telling me — that freedom now hangs in the balance. Liberty, that priceless jewel, can be lost forever in a haystack of wasteful and unwanted harvest. You can't buy liberty. You can only consider it a gift of God brought about by the blood, sweat and tears of fellow Americans. You can only look at those without hope, with their crushed will and bruised flesh, and remember now and as long as you live — that there, be for the grace of God, go I." — Gadsden (Ala.) Times.

"Government service has never been an inducement to Americans on the grounds that one can make more money or as much as in private business—if he succeeds. It never should be an inducement on this ground." — Clarksville (Tenn.) Leaf-Chronicle.

from City Tool. Tool and die shops use large and expensive types of equipment, costing up to $50,000 a machine; no small partnership could hope to own them. Hence City Tool became a sales, purchasing, and leasing corporation which provided customers, raw materials, and facilities for its enterprising sub-contractors. The machines were equipped with coin boxes and time-meters; for five minutes use, put a nickel in the slot; for fifteen, a dime, and for heavier equipment, a quarter.

When City Tool gets an order, each small company gets a chance to bid on the job. If it chooses, the group of partners must get the whole job done and pay the expenses. The men have become very familiar with the three pressures which every businessman knows: To increase quality, to lower prices, to lower costs.

Meanwhile City Tool has slashed its overhead 40 per cent and been able to win many more bids because of its aggressive and cost-conscious subcontractors.

About half of the original 95 workers could not adapt to the new responsibilities and left; their place was soon taken by others, who found that they were able to make up twice as much as they had as employees. Still, they could lose instead of gain. If they don't do it right the first time, they will have to put another nickel in.

Realizing that the success of a free enterprise depended on the enterprise of its owner, Claude Wilson, Jr., looked around his City Tool Corporation and saw that he was but one, but his employees were 95. That was spreading the enterprise a little too thin. Why not make each of his employees an independent businessman?

Wilson's solution was no share-the-profits plan. Instead, groups of two and three workers organized themselves into small corporations and partnerships which subcontracted the work

PRE-TICKETING CASE UP TO SUPREME COURT

Pre-ticketing has reached the Supreme Court.

Pre-ticketing is the practice of manufacturers of putting price tags on their products in the factory.

In many cases, unconscionably high prices enable discounters or other retailers to offer goods at a fraction of the so-called regular price.

The Federal Trade Commission, starting back in the Eisenhower administration, has opposed pre-ticketing and proceeded against Baltimore Luggage Co., charging that its pre-ticketing prices were not the usual prices for the area in which they were sold. The result: the FTC has issued cease-and-desist orders and deceptive prices.

Baltimore Luggage insisted that its pre-ticketed prices were valid, and said that of 1,276 retailers, only 387 were proved to have sold for less. The case has been appealed through the courts to the Supreme Court which eventually may rule on (1) the legality of pre-ticketing generally and (2) the facts in the Baltimore Luggage case.

Study Of Tax Reforms

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

President Kennedy desires the United States to accelerate its rate of growth. Under the capitalist system, which is our way of life even with the current modifications, it is not possible for our industry to grow or to replace obsolescent machinery or equipment except by private means. The alternative is a Socialist state.

For many years, Benjamin Javits, the elder brother of the New York State Senator, has been seeking for a method of meeting the problem of the receding confidence of investors in the growth of American industry. I have for many years watched Benjamin Javits' growth from one who believed originally in what I regarded as a fascist approach to the problem of industrial reorganization to one who now takes a strictly capitalistic attitude. He has organized the "United Shareowners of America, Inc." which is designed to recognize the capitalist, that is, the person who has invested his surplus possessions in the growth and development of the American economic structure.

The principal goals of the United Shareowners of America are stated to be:

1. Eliminating double taxation on corporate dividends.
 2. Taxing corporate earnings at the same rate as individual income.
 3. Revamping the presently unclear and contradictory anti-trust laws.
 4. Eliminating the unnecessary governmental controls.
- That the tax system in the United States retards the possibility for growth and for active competition in world markets is obvious from the continuing flight of capital, which in reality means the transfer of jobs from the American worker to workers in foreign lands. Should this trend continue, it could create a crisis from unemployment which is already the principal social problem of our time. The most hateful day of the year for most Americans is April 15, a day of an outrageous impoverishment. It is not only the corporation that suffers, but every person, from the smallest wage earner to the collector of the largest dividends, wonders what he is working for.
- Also a moral degradation sets in as the hard-working and honest person discovers that benefits go to the marginal operator — the disorganizer and the schemer, the fellow who manages to get his money over to Switzerland or some such country. For a while, other countries, particularly Panama, competed with Switzerland for this dishonorable tax-haven business, but no place is quite as safe as Switzerland.
- It is not envy that is aroused; rather it is wonder that the tax structure is not revised to protect Americans and the method of collecting taxes is not humanized. At present it is so brutal that the decent, honest citizen lives in terror of the tax-collector who has become the most disliked of public officials, although he is quite innocent, for he only obeys a very wicked, unscientific law which benefits the crook and penalizes the loyal and obedient citizen.
- Benjamin Javits and his group are then performing a useful service by beating the drums for a restudy and a revision of our tax system. Similarly, the so-called anti-trust laws no longer fit our problems. They are antiquated even with such revisions as were made in the Clayton Act and some decisions of the Supreme Court. The purpose of the anti-trust laws is to protect the American economic system from the perils of monopoly and cartelization. But alien monopoly industries compete with American industries and European cartels operate in this country unhampered.
- In fact, the NRA was an attempt during the Roosevelt Administration to organize the entire American industry into a group of cartels and then to associate these cartels with labor unions not unlike the Italian syndicates arranged by Mussolini. Such a program was (Continued on page five)

New Kicks In Home Gardening

By ELMER ROESSNER

Home gardening may get off on a new kick this year.

For a million years, give or take a few hundred thousand, home gardeners have been experimenting with seeds, cuttings, bulbs and so on. Corn as we know it today exists because Indian home gardeners in Central America experimented with grasses, replanting seeds from the fattest stems until they had developed stalks with ears as big as an anchovy. A California home gardener, finding a red streak in a poppy, developed the red flower. The eggplant, a garden item, was once the size of an egg.

All this amateur experimentation may be multiplied this year. There may be an atomic boom in home gardening. Right: atomic.

GAMMA RAYS Since the early days of X rays, it has been known that certain radiations produce changes in living matter. This was confirmed at Hiroshima, where those exposed to radiation showed a high incidence of leukemia and other cancers. It was confirmed when the Atomic Energy Commission irradiated seeds with gamma rays and produced sports.

Studies of just what happens when plant life is irradiated have progressed slowly. There have been more important things to demand the attention of the atomic scientists; experiments take many years to complete.

First experimental work has done with grains. Grasses had been done with radium, first at Brookhaven National Laboratory and later at other atomic installations. Other experiments showed that roses with irradiated roots would grow to a height of eight feet and produce four different colored blooms. Marigolds grew 10 feet tall.

Experiments have spread to other plants and in the next few days irradiated bulbs, shrubs and roses will be put on the market. First items, introduced through supermarkets and other chains, will be gladioli, rose of Sharon, climbing roses and hybrid tea roses.

SURPRISE, SURPRISE! There is no guarantee about the color of the blooms. The gladioli, for example, are said to grow six feet tall or higher, but the colors of the blooms are unpredictable. Roses will grow fast, but there is no telling what the colors will be.

In the fall, irradiated crocuses, tulips, hyacinths and daffodils will be on the market. Experimenters are working on fruit trees. Cherries the size of apples and peaches no larger than blueberries may be developed, but it will take years to determine what gamma rays can do to trees.

This spring's marketing will be of shrubs and bulbs from Mentor Nurseries, Mentor, Ohio; irradiated at New York Central Research Laboratories in Cleveland, and distributed by San-Speed Manufacturing Co., 1364 E. 47th St., Cleveland 3.

Hot bulbs and plants are likely to boom garden sales this year and for many years to come. There is no monopoly, and dozens of other companies will arrange for radiation of plants, etc., and growing the incredible may become the big outdoor sport in the 1960's.

Desegregation Order Is Given New Orleans Church Schools

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Roman Catholic schools in the New Orleans archdiocese will be desegregated next fall.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry Bezou, superintendent of the 75,000-student archdiocesan school system, read the announcement from Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel Tuesday night.

The statement did not use the words Negro or desegregation. It said merely that "effective at the time of registration for the 1962-63 school session, all Catholic children may apply for admission to the Catholic schools of the archdiocese according to accepted educational standards."

Registration dates for all Catholic schools were set for April 13-14.

State Sen. E. W. Gravolet said the announcement "may have a severe reaction from a segregated-minded legislature."

Gravolet, a Catholic himself and vice chairman of the joint legislative committee on segregation, predicted a "mass boycott will greet the integration" of Catholic schools in the city.

"I don't think the parents in these parochial schools will take this lying down," he said. "Catholic schools are a lot different from public schools. Parents of that parish built those schools and consider them private schools for their children."

"Parochial education is a church affair," Gravolet said in a telephone interview from his home in Pointe a la Hache. "However, the state is somewhat interwoven by supplying books, transportation, lunches and other fringe things. It is a state problem also."

There were reports earlier that the archbishop, who termed segregation morally wrong and sinful in a pastoral letter in 1956, had decided on the desegregation move.

A handful of pickets paraded in front of the archbishop's residence during the afternoon. They carried signs indicating the Bible preached the doctrine of segregation.

The city's 93,000-pupil school system was desegregated under federal court order in November 1960. Name-calling, police restraint lines and street gatherings that reached near-riot proportions greeted the integration of William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 schools.

Last fall, the start of classes was far more orderly, but only 12 Negroes are enrolled in six white schools.

Msgr. Bezou said there were 7,254 Negroes in the archdiocese's 15 elementary schools and another 1,724 in the three Negro high schools. Among the 1,100,000 persons in the area the archdiocese covers, there are 547,000 Catholics.

Etherington New Exchange Prexy

NEW YORK (AP) — Edwin D. Etherington, 37, a broker who served as special counsel to a reform committee that investigated the American Stock Exchange, will become president of the Wall Street institution Sept. 4.

He was elected unanimously by the board of governors Tuesday to succeed Edward T. McCormick, who resigned under fire last Dec. 11 after the Securities and Exchange Commission brought forth charges of trading irregularities on the exchange.

As president, Etherington will have the job of carrying out various measures recommended by the reform committee to remove what the exchange commission described as manifold and prolonged abuses of trading rules.

Etherington is a partner in Pershing & Co., a member of both the New York and American exchanges. Before joining Pershing in January 1961, he had been a vice president of the New York Stock Exchange since 1958.

Edwin Posner, 71, chairman of the American Exchange, will continue as president pro tem until Etherington takes over. Etherington will get $80,000 a year with a five-year contract.

McCormick, who had served as president for 10 years at $75,000 a year, submitted his resignation before the commission issued its final report on the American Exchange investigation. The probe began in early 1961 after a father and son team—Gerard A. and Gerard F. Re—had been expelled for trading irregularities.

Although McCormick was never charged with any wrongdoing, he and other officials were widely criticized for not enforcing the stock trading rules more vigorously.

Another factor in his resignation was believed to be the discovery by the reform committee that imprisoned financier Alexander L. Guterman had paid a $5,000 gambling debt incurred by McCormick in Havana.

Joseph Reilly, who became president pro tem after McCormick's resignation also was forced out in the widening shakeup.

Etherington, married and the father of two sons, aged 3 and 5, is a resident of Upper Montclair, N.J. He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Wesleyan University and a former instructor and assistant to the dean there. He later graduated from Yale Law School.

While practicing law in Washington, D.C., and New York, he became interested in legal matters concerning the New York Stock Exchange. He was named assistant secretary of the New York exchange in 1956.

first proposed to Herbert Hoover who turned it down as unconstitutional. The NRA is now forgotten and many companies who abided by President Roosevelt's economic assumptions found themselves in anti-trust suits.

At any rate, this subject requires restudy and an adaptation of it to modern needs and conditions. It is important for the small businessman to continue to exist, for out of his efforts grows big business. It is important to protect industries once started which require sustenance and strength until they are acquired by group-industries.

This brings up the intervening danger of the inheritance tax which is making the family business non-feasible. In a word, there is much to do if the capitalist system is not to be permitted to fail.

Witnesses List Appointments

Wilbur Ray Nichols, presiding minister, announced today the appointments of the following named men as servants in the local congregation by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

Dean Fields employed by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, as capacity of a Field Engineer, to the assistant Presiding Minister. Mr. Fields will help the Presiding Minister in looking after details and oversight of the congregation.

Clarence Manning Sr., business man and farmer was appointed as the Bible Study Servant. Mr. Manning will aid in the Bible Study work, and will help start new studies in the homes of interested people.

Ray Nichols, employed by the Coasta. Plain Life Insurance Company as the Ministry school servant. He will conduct a school each week in aiding students to become more effective public praiser of God.

Blind But He Has Advantage: No Distraction

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Arthur M. Dye brought his own cards with him to the national spring tournament of the American Contract Bridge League. They are marked.

In the corner of each card are two markings—in Braille—to denote the suit and value of the card. Dr. Dye is blind.

His handicap has some drawbacks, he says, such as making it necessary for those who play at his table to call out the suit and value of each card they play. But it has advantages, too.

"I don't have distractions," he quipped, "even if a pretty girl walks by the table, I don't have trouble keeping my mind on the game."

Dr. Dye is an osteopathic physician at Charlotte, N.C., but notes that his practice "sometimes interferes with my bridge a little bit."

He attends the national tournament every year, he says, and plays in "six or eight or 10 or 12—I've never counted — tournaments annually."

To each tournament, Dr. Dye, a life master at the game, brings 72 specially marked decks. Fellow players find the cards slightly thicker than normal playing cards, but Dr. Dye said he has had no complaints about them.

Dr. Dye, 65, is the father of two boys and the grandfather of three. His eldest son and his wife "don't play bridge. My son has three children and is far too busy with them for bridge."

"My wife just doesn't care for the game. But she comes along on all of the trips," he said.

The game thrills him, but the travel of tournament bridge means nearly as much.

"I have more fun than anybody at the tournaments," he said. "I've met thousands of people this way and every one of them are wonderful."

He hasn't done well in the tournament here, he said, "but it isn't over until next Sunday and there's plenty of opportunity here yet."

Comedy Workshop Has An Audience To Test Wares

By ANDREW MEISELS
NEW YORK (AP)—"My girl is so bowlegged," said the young comedian, "that when she sits around the house she REALLY sits around the house."
Another hopeful new comic offered this one: "The trouble with Russian roulette is not enough Russians are playing it."
Still another told of the Texas oilman whose dentist told him his teeth were perfect but who urged: "Drill anyway, I feel lucky."
These are among the dozens of jokes and routines told the other night by a small group of earnest people who meet every week in hopes of answering the question: What makes people laugh?
For them, it is a deadly serious question.
They are comedians, most of them unknowns currently struggling along at other jobs while waiting for their big break. The group is called the "Gagwriters-Comedy Workshop and meets on Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in a second-floor studio at 225 W. 46th Street in the heart of Manhattan's theater district.
The public is invited—even encouraged—to come. This is a place where the comedians try out their new material, and the audience reaction is their only laugh meter.
"In the old days," said workshop founder George Q. Lewis, "young comedians could use burlesque as a training ground. Today there are fewer and fewer places for them to get their practical schooling."

Lewis, a former playwright, press agent and gagwriter, now acts as personal manager for several comedians and publishes books on humor. He explains the group's function thus: "This is a place where comedians can be bad."
A couple were pretty bad the other night.
Quite a few, though, were rather good, and the audience roared approval.
In all, about 10 comedians performed. Ad libs from the audience were encouraged, and some of these were pretty funny too.
There were no holds barred, but for the most part it was all within the bounds of taste. When a comic stepped beyond the boundary, the audience let him know it—which is one of the reasons the audience was there.
The jokes were good and bad, depending on one's sense of humor. Some were brand new. Others had a faintly familiar ring.
On God—"So Moses asked God, 'How do I know you're God?' So God said: 'Who else would be in a burning bush?'"
On girls—"I wouldn't say my girl friend is unattractive. She looks something like an ugly boy."
On wives—"I keep telling my wife to wear her dresses longer—about three years longer."
The cold war and the current world situation were favorite topics. One said, "The last time Khrushchev was in this country, his translator misunderstood a few words and freed a satellite state."

Another space-age comedian offered, "The Russians have been stealing so many of our secrets, now they're two years behind."

Spring Floods In Parts Of Iowa And Nebraska

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Flood workers battled the surging waters of many rivers and streams in parts of Iowa and Nebraska today as early spring overflows forced hundreds of persons from their homes.
Mild weather increased the melting of the heavy snow cover in the flood-stricken areas. The season's warmest weather also extended across most of the eastern half of the nation.
In Nebraska, the most severe flooding appeared to be in Pierce, on the Northfork River in the upper northeast section of the state. The river had spilled over more than 30 blocks of the town of some 1,200 persons. Evacuation of residents continued throughout the night.
Minor flooding was reported in Norfolk, a town of about 12,000 some 12 miles downstream from Pierce, and water covered farm lands between the two communities. Other danger spots were in Waterloo and Kings Lake on the Elkhorn River, and near Bellevue a south suburb of Omaha, at the confluence of the Missouri and Platte rivers and Pappio Creek. About 300 of the 620 residents of Kings Lake left their homes but only a few were evacuated at Waterloo. Some 400 persons in the lowland area of Bellevue left their homes.
The Floyd, Big Sioux and Little Sioux rivers flooded areas in northwest Iowa. The Floyd River was expected to crest at six to seven feet above flood stage in Sioux City by late Thursday. Sandbags lined the banks of the Floyd River which twists through the eastern part of the city of 85,000 population.
The Little Sioux was on a rampage and menaced Spencer, a town of about 7,500 with a possible 20-foot crest, 10 feet above flood stage. Floodwaters covered farm lands in northern counties.
In the nation's weather, showers sprinkled the Dakotas while a mixture of wet snow and rain pelted sections of Montana. Light rain fell in many parts of New England as cloudy skies persisted from eastern New York northeastward.
A southerly flow of mild air kept temperatures far above seasonal levels in a broad belt from New Mexico northeastward into the Missouri and upper Mississippi River valleys.

Nuclear Blasts In Stratosphere Is Likely

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nuclear blasts from devices hurled several hundred miles aloft, to test out theories about antimissile techniques, probably will be included in the U.S. series of tests over the Pacific scheduled to start late next month.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, without giving details about altitudes or other factors, says such tests would help in the search for a defense against an enemy ballistic missile attack.

President Kennedy announced March 2 the United States would resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere unless the Soviet Union agreed before then to a fool-proof test ban agreement.

Appropriations subcommittee, the House Appropriations subcommittee, the transcript of which was made public Tuesday night, McNamara was asked if atomic explosions were needed to test the Zeus antimissile system.

He replied: "The explosion of nuclear weapons in the atmosphere under properly controlled and planned conditions will add to our knowledge of nuclear effects, the effect of one nuclear explosion on another nuclear weapon; the effect of nuclear explosions on radars and other electronic devices, all of which can be of value conceivably in the development of anti-ICBM systems."

This was as far as McNamara's published remarks went in discussing what would be sought in the Pacific test series as related to antimissile development.

However, McNamara appeared to be referring to three facets in the anti-ICBM study:

1. The radar effect—A nuclear explosion, particularly one of high force, can produce an ionized cloud. This cloud can cut off the penetration of radar waves essential in tracking missiles and directing anti-missiles. This shielding effect can extend as far as 100 miles and last up to several hours. Moreover, deliberate creation of ionized clouds perhaps could be used for decoy purposes, to present false targets for the defending system.
2. Electro-magnetic effect—Some of this effect on guidance and other instruments might operate in the air, although the primary effect probably would be on the ground. An enemy missile exploding on the ground or up to several thousand feet above it could cripple cable and control systems temporarily, even though the blast and heat of the explosion left them physically undamaged.
3. The effect of one nuclear explosion on another—This seems to point to several possibilities. One is the idea that a neutron flux, produced by nuclear explosion, would neutralize and render impotent the warhead of an enemy missile. How well this operates would depend on several factors, including the type of warhead and how close the Zeus or other type of intercept missile exploded to the enemy rocket.

McNamara repeated in his testimony what he has said before—that there are serious questions as to the practicality of Zeus, and for that reason the Defense Department refuses to permit the Army to go into production of some component of the Zeus until the system can be tested thoroughly. About $1 billion has been invested in the project.
McNamara said that the Zeus test, in which the antimissile will be fired up from Kwajalein Island against Atlas missiles to be launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., would be a "very important milestone" in development of the system.
It will test the tracking radar, the detection radar and the performance of the Zeus battery itself. But, McNamara said, this would be "under controlled conditions" differing substantially from those of actual combat.

Kennedy 'Army' Of Children At Circus
WASHINGTON (AP)—If the supply of popcorn and sugar candy is a bit depleted at the greatest show on earth today, there's a reason. A small army of junior Kennedys saw the circus Tuesday.
It being a balmy March day, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy took 14 small fry to the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey show at the Washington Coliseum.
"You never saw such conspicuous consumption of everything from hot dogs to soft drinks. The loot the youngsters carried home—in the form of pennants, clowns-on-sticks, baby turtles and plumed hats—could hardly fit into the limousines."
The 14 children were not all the attorney general's, of course. He has only seven, who were all there from Kathy, 11, to Mary Kerry, 2. There were some nieces and nephews, Bobby Shriver, 7, Maria Shriver, 6, and Timothy Shriver, 3. Also—outside the family ranks—Kathy Fay, 14, and Sally Fay, 5, daughters of under-secretary of the Navy Paul B. Fay Jr. Also Francis Ormsby Gore, 8, and Alice Ormsby Gore, 9, children of the British Ambassador, Sir David Ormsby Gore.
The attorney general could not have managed the safari single-handed. Strong man though he may be, he would have broken down without the presence of his wife, Ethel, and his sister, Mrs. Robert Shriver.
Mary Kerry so smeared her face with sugar cotton candy that mother Ethel found dry cleansing tissue wholly inadequate for the mop-up. She had to go out to the hot dog stand and ask the man to wet some tissue.
It was wonderful to see the aplomb of the mothers. With a couple of kids apiece in their laps, with cokes threatening to deluge them, with children crying "mummy, can I buy a horn?" the two women just sat there and compared brands of nail polish.

Wait Dog Was Given Big 'Day'
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—No one knows her name, or where she came from. She apparently doesn't understand English. Perhaps she was booted off a foreign freighter, or perhaps she missed her ship.
For a time, she had to scrounge in garbage cans for food. She often went hungry. Dock workers saw her at times, dirty and unkempt, and spoke, but she was frightened.
Before long, though, the food they offered was being snatched up and she thanked them with a wag of her tail.
She quickly made friends. She was a homeless, nondescript dog who had found a home on the docks.
The dock workers chipped in nickels and dimes to buy dog food.
One day the port workers decided that something should be done for their new-found friend. They began collecting money—even the local humane society donated—to send the waif to a dog hospital for a week for a complete treatment, including a badly needed bath.
Every dog has its day, and today was the day for the black and white foreign pooch.
She was to be released from the dog hospital and welcomed back to the docks.
"There's only one thing lacking," port manager Al Smith said. "We've tried to look after the dog but we've never named her. So she'll get a name as soon as she comes home. It seems she'll be a permanent fixture at the Wilmington port for a long time to come."

Await Arrival Of Elephant Calf

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Belle, the pregnant elephant, may be only about three weeks away from having a calf.
Dr. Matthew Maberry, Portland Zoo veterinarian, made that estimate Tuesday, nine weeks after the first report that Belle was in labor.
She still is, said Dr. Maberry. "She has periods of real misery."
Belle, a 10-year-old, was bred to Thonglaw, 14, in July 1960. There is considerable lack of knowledge about elephant births. Dr. Maberry said. He said the last one of record in the United States that he recalls was in a circus at Salt Lake City in 1918.
But an accepted time of gestation is 641 days, he said, and Belle is now in the 615th. Belle could deliver in about 26 days, maybe sooner, he said.

Jackie's Visit Held A Success

NEW YORK (AP)—John Kennedy Galbraith, United States ambassador to India, describes Mrs. John F. Kennedy's recent trip to that country as "an enchanting visit."
"This is the first time to my knowledge that anyone in a high position has been received, not by most of the people, but by all of the people," he said Tuesday upon his return to this country for State Department consultations.

Red China Hails Czech Treaty

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China hailed the fifth anniversary of the Chinese-Czechoslovak treaty of friendship and cooperation on Tuesday.
The New China News Agency said Communist China's Mao Tse-tung told Antonin Novotny, first secretary of the Czechoslovak Communist party, in a message that the treaty "played an active part in promoting the common cause of building socialism in the two countries, in consolidating the unity of the Socialist camp, and in safeguarding world peace."

Nikita Bows To Incentive Pay

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev acknowledged today that the appeal of money can't be denied.
In a speech carried by the party and government press, he emphasized to a meeting of party members the importance of proper payment for workers.
"If a man has earned additional pay he should receive it without fail," said Khrushchev.
"Communists understand the power of material stimulation and think much of the principle of material incentives."
The speech was made Tuesday before the Russian Federation Bureau of the Soviet Communist party.

Individuals Can Be Incorporated
CHICAGO (AP)—Professional people in 14 states now can incorporate for pension and tax purposes, the Commerce Clearing House reports.
Upsetting a long-established tradition against any incorporation of licensed doctors, lawyers, accountants, dentists, engineers and others, state legislatures legally gave these people permission to incorporate so they could adopt pension plans which offer federal tax-deduction on sums set aside for retirement.
The states are Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin.

A New JOHN CREASEY Thriller

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

CHAPTER 27

In Kate Lowson's flat the policeman had only to throw his great strength against the kitchen door and it crashed in.

Gas billowed gently out, and the policeman began to cough. Richard Rollison saw a kettle burned out; gas was hissing beneath it. The constable was bent double with coughing. Holding his breath, Rollison pushed past him.

Kate Lowson was sitting on a small chair in front of the open gas stove, and Mike Kennedy was leaning against the wall, supporting himself by the gas stove. Neither of them moved.

Rollison bent forward, gripped Kate by the arms, and dragged her out of the room. The policeman had recovered enough to go in for Kennedy. Cool air was coming in, and Rollison carried the girl halfway into the big room, and then turned her over on her stomach on the couch; artificial respiration might be the only way to save her.

The policeman came out with Kennedy over his shoulder. Rollison raised the girl's eyelids, saw that the pupils were pinpoint, realized she had had morphia, and then began to apply artificial respiration, while another policeman and Ebbutt's man came in.

The policeman turned off the gas, then strode to the telephone. Half an hour afterwards, both Kennedy and the girl had been taken away in an ambulance with a noncommittal doctor in attendance. Superintendent Grice of Scotland Yard hadn't yet arrived, but there was a detective sergeant from the local Division, who had said very little so far.

Policemen watching from the back had been questioned but none of them had seen anyone enter the flat by a window. Everything pointed to one thing, that Kennedy and the girl had tried to kill themselves, first by drugs, then by gas.

His head swimmy from breathing in too much gas, Rollison did not argue with the Chelsea inspector and the police surgeon who put this down at once as murder and suicide, or a suicide pact. Had it been Holmes, such a pact was conceivable, but unless Kennedy and the girl had known each other much more than anyone had suspected, it did not make sense.

Had they met for the first time at the airport?

Kennedy's eagerness to help, the fact that he had come to solicit aid from him, Rollison, all suggested that he had been extremely anxious for Kate Lowson.

Would a man be so concerned about a casual acquaintance, even if she had a face and figure that were quite out of the ordinary? Had he, Rollison, allowed himself to be fooled? Even if he had, even if these two were old acquaintances, what had caused this new crisis? Had it been a suicide pact—was there any possible reason for one?

"No," said Rollison abruptly, and saw the Chelsea inspector glance at him. Rollison said to him: "How could anyone get in, apart from the door?"

"Talking to yourself, that's the first sign of insanity," the Chelsea man said, almost with satisfaction. "That window's in full sight of the garden at the back where our chaps were watching. No one came in, Mr. Rollison. It's no use beating your head against a brick wall."

"No," agreed Rollison politely. "How about the roof?"

"Well, there is a little loft, just large enough for the water tanks," the other man informed him, "but you mark my words, Mr. Rollison, it wasn't used for this. It couldn't have been."

"It's worth checking," Rollison said.

"The truth is that you don't want to believe that Kennedy was responsible, so you won't face up to the evidence," Superintendent Grice declared when he had talked to Rollison and the Chelsea in-

man. "That's right," Rollison admitted.

"It isn't like you not to face facts."

"No," agreed Rollison, firmly. "But I like to be sure of them before calling them facts. Mind if we check with the hospital for the latest report?"

"There won't be any news yet," Grice said, but he went to the telephone, dialled the Yard, and instructed them to check with the West London Hospital where the two victims of the gassing had been taken.

When he rang off, Rollison was standing in the kitchen door and looking at the gas stove; then suddenly he spun round, eyes glinting, and rushed across to the bedroom. He seemed to have recovered completely from the damage to his knee. He thrust open the door, went down on his knees, and pushed up the bedspread where it fell to the floor.

Grice was just behind him.

"Rollison—"

"Bill," called Rollison in a muffled voice, "come and have a look at this." He edged himself out a little and Grice, frowning, joined him on the floor. They stretched out on their stomachs, to the obvious annoyance of the Chelsea inspector.

"See," said Rollison, "the film of dust under there had been disturbed a lot. There are some scratches on the varnished boards, obviously recently made, probably made today. Look over by the wall—the paintwork has new scratches, too. Get your chaps to go through this room thoroughly. Bill, they'll find that someone was under here and had to find a way in other than the street."

Grice said thinly: "No, damn it—"

"It would be possible. Whoever it was could have crept out by night. Remember that Kate Lowson was sleeping under a drug."

"I've got to admit that it could conceivably have happened," said the Chelsea inspector, reluctantly, and as he turned round, the telephone rang. Rollison watched him lift the receiver, and studied his face; he sensed that whatever else, the news wasn't bad.

"That's good," the Chelsea man said. "No change, then." He put down the receiver, and in his slow way, went on: "That was the hospital. There's no change in their condition, but they're hopeful that neither of them will die. They took morphine all right."

"So we've got a chance of hearing what they say," Rollison remarked, and pressed his hand against his forehead. "Bill, talking of facing facts—it's a fact that the only people whom we know and who might be able to help—apart from Bennett—are Kennedy, Kate Lowson, the unknown Thompson and his men, Carby and Bell. Plus, of course, the Malling Motors people. Wedlake might know more about the campaign against them."

"I suppose so," conceded Grice.

"And here's a determined effort to make sure that Kennedy and the girl can't talk," went on Rollison. "If the man was hiding here before Bennett made his attack, it means that he intended to make absolutely sure about the girl. And he was here to finish off Kennedy, too."

"If Kennedy came into this affair for the first time last night, then anyone waiting here to kill Miss Lowson couldn't have known about him," Grice argued.

"Good point," Rollison agreed, and the familiar glint was in his eyes. "Isn't it amazing that with all the shenanigans going on, no one in the flat below seems to have been disturbed. I think we'd better check that flat, Bill."

Big Discovery In Chemical Field

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Make a note of N6-benzylamino purine. In the opinion of Dr. S. H. Whitver, professor of horticulture at Michigan State University, N6-benzylamino purine probably was the most important discovery of 1961.

The chemical doubles the storage life of harvested vegetables. Whitver told a science meeting at the University of Tulsa. It's astute and doesn't affect the nutritional qualities of food, he added. He said the federal Food and Drug Administration has given it temporary approval.

"What the chemical does is inhibit respiration of the plant—slow up its breathing," he said. "That's all—and it works."

"No matter what the temperature of storage, such products as lettuce, celery, cabbage and broccoli keep their freshness twice as long," he said. "If a head of lettuce normally keeps fresh three days in a refrigerator, then it will last nearly a week if it has been treated."

He said an East Berlin scientist discovered the food-preserving qualities of N6-benzylamino purine about six months ago.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

By S. C. WINCHESTER, County Agricultural Agent. Here's a list of recommended practices for production of high yields of top-quality sweet potatoes:

VARIETY: Copperskin, Goldrush, Nugget, Centennial—Bed 25 bushes for each acre to be planted unless pre-sprouted—then bed 15 bushes. Porto Rico is low yielding by comparison with those above.

GOOD SEED: Grow your own plants. Use certified seed, or seed of certified quality. Bed only potatoes one inch in diameter or larger. Examine each potato before bedding it. Use only those roots free of scurf and black rot.

BEDDING: Locate bed where none have been bedded in 4 years and where bed can be watered. Treat with Methyl Bromide (MC-2 Gas) 2 weeks before bedding. Use 12 ounces 8-8-8 fertilizer per sq. yd. on the bed. Use 3 ozs. per sq. yd. Nitrate of Soda after each pulling of plants and water bed. Don't bed before March 15—preferably March 25. Pre-sprout seedstock—Start 30 days before bedding date (about Feb. 25).

Give seedstock 85 degrees F. and 90% relative humidity conditions, if possible. Treat seed with Puritized Agricultural Spray (a dip) at the rate of 1/2 pint per 10 gals. of water, or use Semesan Bel (1 lb. to 7 1/2 gals. water). Spacing in bed: Allow one inch between potatoes two inches in diameter or smaller; width of finger between those over two inches. Use plastic covers—spread on top of bed without a frame. Keep temperature under 100 degrees F. Ventilate beds every two or three days for a few minutes.

Remove covers during the day after plants emerge.

SOILS: Select best tobacco type soils—well drained sandy loam and silt loam preferred with a pH of 5.8-6.2.

SOIL TREATMENT: Control wireworms with: Aldrin (spray, dust or granular).

Broadcast at least 2 weeks prior to planting. Use 2-3 lbs. (technical) per acre. Nematodes: (1) Use broadcast or row treatment. (2) Use DD, EDB or Telone. Aerate 3 weeks before planting. (3) If organic matter is 2.25% or higher, EDB may injure plants.

FERTILIZER: Have soil tested and follow recommendations. If no soil test made, use 500 lbs. 6-12-6 in the row; sidedress with 500 pounds 8-0-24 tobacco top dressing at last cultivation and 20 lbs. Nitrogen broadcast on top of plants while dry, about August 1.

PLANTING: Plant only strong healthy plants. Rows 42 in. wide. Spacing: 8 in. in May. This takes 18,700 plants per acre using 42" rows. Early planting and close spacing are the way to produce high yields. Precision-type transplanters best for transplanting. Take care when hand transplanting to space properly and evenly. Water plants when set. Plant a seed patch from vine cuttings for next year's seed.

CULTIVATION: Cultivate early and lay-by when vines are about 8 in. long. Topdress as recommended by soil test.

HARVESTING: Harvest when you can get most U.S. No. 1's... this means trial digging. Use Clemson, Howard, or GBM digger. Handle potatoes like eggs. Field grade—Pack No. 1's in new baskets, filled properly. Put lids on in field. Haul to market or store same day as dug. No. 2's ideal for canning—big ones flaking.

NEGRO COUNT RISES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Enrollment in Catholic Negro mission and parish schools rose 5 per cent last year to 97,887, says a report of the Commission for Catholic Missions Among the Colored People and the Indians. The figures do not include Negro students in predominantly white schools, but only those in 349 almost entirely Negro schools.

St. Louis Has Been Impressive

PIRATE CATCHER . . . Senior Charlie Johnson will catch for the Bucs tomorrow afternoon when they meet Ithaca College.

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Could this be the year of the Cardinals? St. Louis hasn't flown a National League pennant in 16 years, the Cards aren't anywhere near being favorites now, and it's a sure bet they won't be when the season opens in two weeks.

But they have been very impressive in Florida—and the NL has produced three surprise winners in the last three pennant scrambles.

The Cardinals have been steaming in exhibition games, with a winning string that now numbers nine after Tuesday's 8-7 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Overall, St. Louis is 12-4 and leader in the preseason standings.

Scoring three times in the fifth inning with the aid of three balks by Pittsburgh left-hander Bob Veale, the Cards tied it at 4-4. They added three more in the sixth, the clincher in the seventh and withstood a Pirate rally in the ninth. John Anderson, gunning for a berth on the St. Louis staff, turned in three scoreless innings and was the winner.

On the hitting side, slick-fielding shortstop Julio Gotay got three singles, rookie Rex Johnston had a triple and double, and Ken Boyer homered.

If the Cards have been a surprise this spring, Houston's new Colts have been a stunner. They won the 11th of their last 13 Monday, belting the San Francisco Giants 11-4 with a 16-hit barrage that included two homers apiece by Roman Mejias and Hal Smith.

On the other side of the coin, the Milwaukee Braves took their 12th setback in 16 exhibitions, losing to the Chicago White Sox 3-1. Ray Herbert went six innings for the White Sox and rookie Joel Horlen three, scattering nine hits.

The Cincinnati Reds came out of a three-game losing string, beating the Minnesota Twins 6-3; the New York Yankees squeezed by the New York Mets 3-2; the Chicago Cubs romped against the Cleveland Indians 12-3; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Kansas City Athletics 5-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4; the Detroit Tigers pounded the Washington Senators 10-4; and the Los Angeles Angels beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1.

The Twins got to Jim O'Toole for their three runs in the first inning, but the Cincinnati southpaw set down the next 15 in a row before he was forced to withdraw with a blister on his left hand. Dave Hillman and Bob Miller finished for the Reds, stopping the Twins with one hit.

The Yankees nipped the Mets when Elston Howard's potential double play grounder in the eighth inning hopped over Felix Mantilla's head for a single. John Blanchard took third on the play and Bill Skowron delivered the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

Lefty Jack Curtis went the distance in the Cubs' rout of the Indians, pitching an eight-hitter. Ken Hubbs swatted two homers for the Cubs while Lou Brock poked a homer and a single. Another southpaw, Billy Hoelt of the Orioles, permitted only two singles in his seven innings against the A's.

Dodger right-hander Stan Williams held the Phils hitless for six innings before yielding a run in the seventh. The Phils managed three unearned runs against Larry Sherry in the eighth—but it was too little, too late.

Steve Boros continued his hot hitting for the Tigers, pasting Washington pitching for a homer, triple and double. Purnal Goldy chipped in with three more Detroit hits and Al Kaline smacked a three-run homer.

The Angels beat the Red Sox on the pitching of George Witt, Dean Chance and Jack Spring, who gave up a total of five singles. They cashed in one unearned run, got two more runs on a long fly that fell in for a triple and added their fourth on three walks and a wild pitch.

Phant-Tiger Game Tied; To Continue On April 27

TARBORO — In the first baseball game of the season here yesterday the Rose High Phantoms and the Tarboro Tigers remained tied 4-4 at the end of the first overtime inning when the game was called because of darkness.

The game is scheduled to be continued when the two teams meet again in Tarboro on April 27.

Coach Bud Phillips' Phantoms were leading 4-3 going into the sixth inning. Tarboro's Gus Andrews connected for a double and stole third. He was knocked in on a single by H. Cannon in the middle of the sixth.

Neither team was able to break the tie in the next two innings of the contest.

The Rose High club took an early lead in the game when they picked up three runs in the first inning. Spencer Harrington was safe on first on an error and Billy James connected for a single. The next batter, Alan McArthur hit a line drive to second base and Harrington was put out on third.

Rommie Brock, the fourth batter for Greenville, hit a three-bagger bringing in James for the first Phantom run.

Kroghie Andresen walked and stole second. Ed Smoot hit a single which brought Brock and Andresen in for the second and third runs.

Tarboro rallied in the second inning when Hall got a hit off Greenville's Burney Morris and then Gus Andrews walked. Morris struck out on a next batter and walked H. Cannon, loading the bases.

B. Cannon connected for a fly deep into left field and Hall and Andrews came in scoring Tarboro's two runs in the second inning.

In the second inning Greenville's Harrington got a single and then James tripled bringing Harrington in for the final run of the game for the Phantoms.

Neither team scored again until the fifth inning when Tarboro's Hurst went all the way on a single aided by Greenville errors.

Doing the pitching for Rose High were Morris, Harrington and Rodney Knowles. Morris allowed one hit, struck out one and walked four. Harrington allowed two hits, struck out one and walked four. Knowles allowed one hit, struck out five and walked none.

Pitching for Tarboro were Andrews and Beach. Andrews allowed five hits and two walks and Beach walked four and allowed three hits. The Tiger pitching staff struck out five men during the game.

Beaufort County To Honor 'Stas' Tonight

Beaufort County will welcome East Carolina's new head football coach, Clarence Stasavich, tonight at a "Welcome Stas" event to be held at the Washington High School cafeteria at 7 o'clock.

The new head coach took over the Pirate coaching duties on Jan. 1 and has just finished what he termed a "successful" spring practice.

The Beaufort County affair is being sponsored by a group of Washington businessmen and sports enthusiasts who got together last week to plan the event. The committee is hoping for a large turnout at the supper get-together.

Attending the supper will be members of the coaching staff from the college, four Washington boys playing football at ECC—Ted Day, Jerry Paul, Skipper Duke and Cecil Cherry—along with Dr. Leo Jenkins, East Carolina president, who will introduce the new coach.

Coach Stasavich and Dr. Jenkins are expected to discuss some of the plans for athletic expansion at ECC. Among them will be the plan for membership in the Southern Conference and the new stadium.

Stasavich coached at Lenoir Rhyne 15 years before taking over at East Carolina. He brought with him an unmatched record in football. During the past seven seasons Stasavich's teams have won seven straight conference championships and have lost only six games in the last 70 outings. The coach had an overall record at Lenoir Rhyne of 120 wins, 36 defeats and seven ties.

The new ECC coach was runner-up in the voting for small college National Coach of the Year honors in 1960. He was a National Coach of the Year among NAIA schools in 1959 and was runner-up for the honor in 1961.

Stasavich has been highly successful with the single-wing type of ball during his coaching career and during the spring drills the Pirates team spent most of the time converting to this system.

Spring Problem Plagues Pizzaro

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Spring usually is the loneliest time of the year for Juan Cordova Pizzaro of Santurce, Puerto Rico. He wows them in the summer and he goes home and knocks them dead in the winter. But each year has a spring.

Although the 25-year-old left-hander finally "arrived" last year with the Chicago White Sox, he still had that same old spring problem. He didn't win his first game until June 13. At the end of the season he had won 14 games.

"The only difference was that I pitch every fourth day in Chicago," he said, attempting to explain his previous failures with the Braves. "When I was with Milwaukee, I pitch every seven days. You can not keep your control like that."

The Braves finally gave up on Pizzaro and traded him to the White Sox in the deal for Gene Freese (who wound up in Cincinnati), Dec. 14, 1960. He never had won more than six for Milwaukee. He reported late to the White Sox last spring and edged his way toward Manager Al Lopez' doghouse before he got well acquainted.

Lopez, hard-pressed for pitching when he collapsed of his regulars, called Pizzaro from the bullpen, June 13. He struck out ten Los Angeles Angels and won a starting job.

From 0-0 on June 13 to 14-7 at the end of the season represented a convincing triumph for this young man who created such a tremendous stir in 1956 when he broke into pro ball at Jacksonville in the Sally League by striking out 318 while winning 23 games.

Lopez tried a new approach with Pizzaro this year. He had pitched all winter in Puerto Rico (won 12, lost 5) so the White Sox let him report a week late, a vacation bonus.

"Every starting pitcher has got to pitch every fourth day," said Pizzaro. "If you do not, you are not sharp with your control. In Milwaukee they gave me a couple of chances but I booted them, so they had to give somebody else my turn. Maybe I waited so long that I tried too hard when I got a chance."

"Lopez and Berres (coach Ray Berres) helped me with my control. They made me get my arm away from my body more. Every time I crook my elbow I get wild."

Pizzaro's pattern with Milwaukee was predictable. Flop in the spring, burn up a minor league in the summer and finish up with the Braves.

If he can escape his spring jinx, this young speed merchant could join the 20-won club next fall.

The last three captains of the Columbia wrestling team have come from Teaneck, N. J. They were Brian Milesi, Phil Suraci and the current Lion leader, James Balquist.

Paret's Condition Is Improved Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Dethroned welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret was reported slightly improved today but still in critical condition from brain injuries as the New York Legislature was poised to launch an investigation of professional boxing.

The investigation shaped up at Albany only a few hours after release of a report by the State Athletic Commission that upheld the referee's judgment and the medical precautions in the near-fatal bout at Madison Square Garden in which Paret lost his title.

Paret, 25 and Cuban-born, was battered senseless by Emille Griffith in the 12th round last Saturday night.

The latest medical bulletin on Paret from Roosevelt Hospital said:

"His coma has lessened. He has made some purposeful movement with his arms. His condition still remains critical."

A resolution to create a joint legislative committee to investigate boxing in the state was endorsed today by leaders of the legislature.

The committee would determine whether adequate measures were being taken to:

1. Protect the safety of boxers.
2. Prevent domination of boxing by "racketeers, gamblers, convicted felons, and other unsavory elements."

Under point 2, the sponsors of the probe did not make any accusation against the Paret-Griffith fight or any one connected with it.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who had ordered the rush report from the State Athletic Commission, released it to the public at Albany Tuesday night with this comment: "I and my staff are giving full consideration to the report."

The commission told the governor in the report:

"It is our opinion that all possible medical precaution had been taken prior to the contest and Referee (Ruby) Goldstein acted in good judgment in stopping the fight when he did."

Colorado Gets New Grid Coach

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—"I can do the job." William E. (Bud) Davis said today after University of Colorado regents decided to entrust their football fortunes to a newcomer with only five years of high school coaching experience.

The 33-year-old Colorado alumni secretary took less than an hour to end the first threat to his appointment as head coach.

He met Tuesday night with members of the football squad, angered and some threatening to rebel over his assignment, and emerged saying, "I think that any talk of a revolt is over. It was a pleasant meeting."

Then Davis said he is accepting the coaching job offered him nine hours earlier in the day.

Bitterness continued to prevail, however, in the wake of the firing of Everett (Sonny) Grandelius earlier this month for violating Big Eight and NCAA recruiting rules.

The man earlier believed to have the inside track, end coach Bob Chiofetti, resigned from the football staff after the regents settled on Davis.

Pirate Golfers Lose To Elon

East Carolina's golf team coached by Ray Pennington lost their first meet of the season yesterday at the country club 13-14 to Elon.

The low medalist for Elon was Bobby West with a 74 on the 18 holes. Billy Brogden and Rick Saueve both shot 78 for East Carolina.

Elon now has a record in the Carolinas Conference of one and one. The next match for the Pirates will be at home on April 3 with Atlantic Christian of Wilson.

VETERAN PITCHER . . . Nathan Greene will be on the mound for East Carolina against Ithaca College tomorrow.

Nicklaus And Hogan Favored

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—A good parlay in next week's Masters Golf Tournament, says Fred Corcoran, is 49-year-old Ben Hogan and 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus.

"Hogan is playing beautifully," the tournament director of the International Golf Association said today, after watching the final tuneup at Miami. "He really looks like the Hogan of old. And that boy, Nicklaus—his power scares you."

Corcoran, the man credited with building the PGA tour into a million-dollar enterprise, watched most of the game's present greats take their swings last weekend in the Doral Invitational.

"From tee to green, Hogan is still the greatest golfer in the world," the thick-necked executive, a onetime Boston caddy, said. "For 18 holes, I'd match him against anybody. Unfortunately, his putting lacks the authority of his heyday."

"The six and eight-footers don't drop for Ben the way they used to. It's not the legs that go first in this game. It's nerves, and putting ability. But Hogan is a tremendous competitor and a marvelous golfer. He could win another Masters—and another Open."

"Young Nicklaus is very impressive. I saw him hit the green with a 7-iron on his second shot on a 550-yard hole. He is strong as a mule, is loaded with confidence and has only one problem that I can see—weight. He may be inclined to get fat."

Hogan, in his first tournament start of the year, made an impressive showing at Miami, firing rounds of 74-72-71-69 for 286, and a tie for fourth place. Nicklaus was a stroke better at 285. The title was won by Bill Casper Jr., with 283.

"Most of the fellows down there consider Doug Sanders the new hotshot of the tour," Corcoran said. "He has a great temperament but that short swing may give him trouble."

Arnold Palmer impresses me as being less relaxed than usual. He seems tense and nervous and bothered by business affairs. Gary Player isn't nearly the golfer he was a year ago. He's lost his putting touch.

"Sam Snead, who like Hogan will be 50 this year, also gets the jumps on his putting, but he still looks better shooting an 80 than other golfers do shooting in the 60s and the crowds continue to flock to his heels."

UNC Plays First Home Game Today With Yale

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Lafayette and Duke in the Rollins, Fla., tournament. In Tuesday's action, North Carolina State beat Yale 6-5, giving State a 3-1 record for the young season. Duke beat Princeton 9-6 in the Rollins tournament and Maryland battered Dartmouth 12-3 as the Terps opened at College Park, Md. Duke now has two wins, one loss and one tie.

Maryland scored nine runs in its last two times at bat to beat Dartmouth and three sophomore Terp hurlers gave up seven hits.

Third baseman Frank Martz, who led Maryland in hitting last season with a .349 average, knocked in four runs and all-conference outfielder Tom Brown, who hit .325 last season, had three innings for Maryland, with Kivac gaining the victory.

Duke put on a late-inning rally to score four runs and defeat the Princeton Tigers. Blue Devil pitcher Bobby Brown registered his first victory of the season in hurling two innings of shutout relief.

At Raleigh, North Carolina State bunched four hits in the fourth inning to score three runs and tallied two times without a hit in the fifth inning. John Boughan was the winning pitcher. Thursday, Virginia opens at home as host to Yale and Duke plays at Rollins again.

Bowlers Lose Six-Game Series

BOB DASH

Greenville's traveling bowling team sponsored by Grady-White lost a six-game series by 252 points to the Bank of New Bern team Sunday-afternoon at New Bern.

The Bank of New Bern had 5431 pins compared with 5079 gained by the Grady-White team.

The Greenville team now has a record of winning one and losing two. The highlights of the Sunday match occurred when LeRoy Price of New Bern rolled five consecutive strikes, had a pocket hit in the sixth frame, but left the 10 pin, picked it up for a spare and continued to strike out for the high game and series of the match. He had 279 for the game and 720 for the series.

Bob Dash of the Grady-White team was the high man for Greenville with a 243 game and a 602 series.

The two teams will meet again at 2 p.m. April 1 at the Hillcrest Lanes in Greenville.

"Something New In '62" Is The Milwaukee Slogan

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves have a slogan this year. It is "something new in '62."

Warren Spahn, who will be 41 next month, likes to remind people of the slogan.

"Do you think they were trying to give me a hint?" he laughed. The baseball world knows of the brilliant left-hander's mound accomplishments last year, his 16th with the Braves. For the benefit of those who do not, Spahnie not only registered his 12th 20-game winning season, but chipped in with his second no-hitter.

The raw-boned Oklahoman, whose only concession to age is a retreating hairline, didn't promise another 20-victory season but don't get against it.

"We've got a new manager," he said meaningfully, "and I want to prove to him I can still win."

Also, we've got some good young pitchers in camp this spring and I've got to set an example for them."

How long will he go on?

"That's up to the hitters," Spahn replied. "I haven't gotten the message yet."

When he finally gets the message, what will he do then?

"I'd like to get a shot at managing in the big leagues," he said, his long lean face taking on a serious look. "Baseball is not only my bread and butter but a lot of my life. I've given managing a lot of thought. I think I can handle it."

"I've played under such managers as Casey Stengel, Billy Southworth, Charlie Grimm, Fred Haney, Charlie Dressen and Birdie Tebbets. I think I've learned something from each.

Actually, a fellow doesn't know if he can manage until he tries it. I'd like to get the opportunity.

"Incidentally, did you hear the Spahn slogan for 1962?"

"Something old, but not yet ready to fold."

Sues Policemen For Jail Stay

GREENSBORO (AP) — A Lexington man has filed a $50,000 damage suit against two Charlotte policemen he claims caused him to be illegally jailed for 18 days.

Herman L. Buchanan charged in a suit filed Tuesday in U.S. Middle District Court here that W. H. Mosley and W. B. Broome, Charlotte policemen, wrongfully arrested him Nov. 17, 1961.

Buchanan claimed the officers arrested him on suspicion of larceny of an automobile and that they did not take him before a magistrate or seek to have bond set as required by North Carolina law. He claimed Broome testified he had sworn out a warrant against him, although Broome was not the arresting officer or a witness.

The Lexington man alleged he was arrested on nothing more than suspicion based on the fact he was wearing a light colored sports jacket. He was found innocent of the charge Dec. 4, 1961, in Mecklenburg Superior Court.

Courtesy Visit To Pope Today

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII received the Rt. Rev. Dr. Archibald Campbell Craig, moderator of the Church of Scotland's general assembly, in a courtesy visit today.

Their meeting was the first between a supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church and a head of the Church of Scotland, which is considered the "mother church" of Presbyterianism in English-speaking countries. In Scotland it is recognized as the established state church, although self-supporting.

The meeting was the third by Protestant church leaders with Pope John within the past 15 months.

The series was started on Dec. 2, 1959, by Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, then archbishop of Canterbury and primate of the Church of England. It was followed last year by a similar visit to the Pope by Bishop Arthur Lichtenberger, head of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

Pope John and Dr. Craig talked for 35 minutes in a visit that the Vatican press office described as very cordial. No details were given.

Noted Composer-Pianist To Be Music Festival Consultant

The Music Department of East Carolina College in association with the Carolina Composers Group will present a Contemporary Music Festival on the East Carolina College Campus April 6, 7 and 8. The distinguished American Composer Vincent Persichetti will serve as guest composer and consultant for the event.

Mr. Persichetti is on the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music and is one of America's foremost composers. He is a virtuoso pianist, artist teacher, and the author of one of the most important books on the art of music. He has received many awards and commissions from the Guggenheim Foundation, the Naumburg Foundation, and other outstanding organizations.

During his visit to the East Carolina College campus Mr. Persichetti will conduct the East Carolina Band, lecture and illustrate his lecture by improvising a piano sonata, and be available to members of the Carolina Composers Group for consultation.

The Carolina Composers Group was formed this year by many of North Carolina's prominent composers, including Martin Mailman, Gordon Johnson, and James Parnell of the East Carolina College faculty. Two concerts on Saturday, April 7, will feature works by members of the Carolina Composers Group as well as music by Vincent Persichetti.

Federal Land Bank Ass'n Stockholders To Meet

WASHINGTON — The Federal Land Bank Association of Washington will hold its annual stockholders meeting in the agricultural building here at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The association furnishes long term credit to farmers in Pitt, Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Tyrrell, Washington and Dare Counties. The Federal Land Bank Association here is a major stockholder in the Federal Land Bank of Columbia.

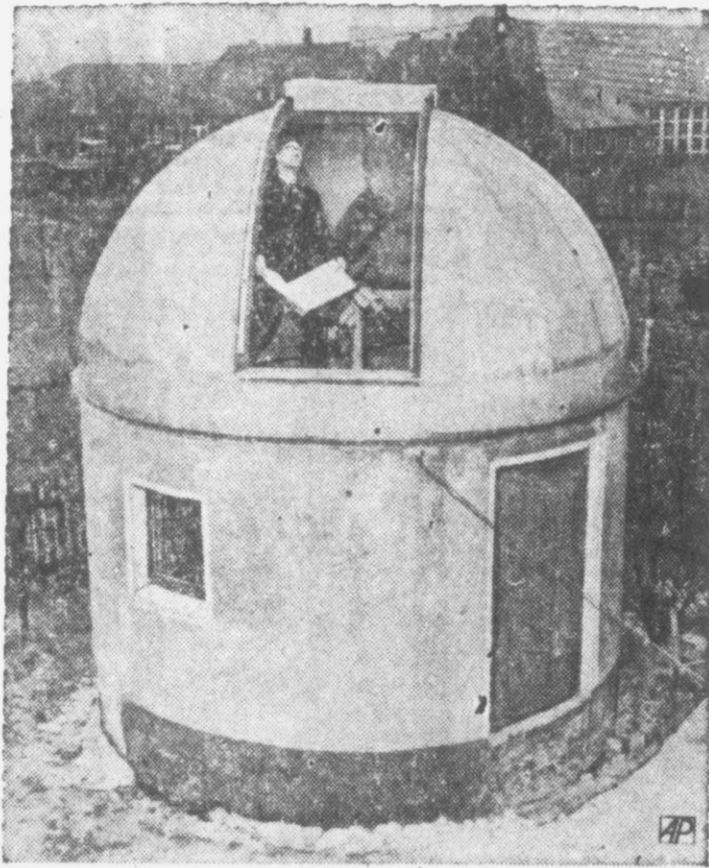

Officers of the Washington Association recently turned from the annual Conference of the Federal Land Bank Associations held in Durham.

R. G. Coburn of Jamesville, president of the Association, reports that a new record high in credit service to agriculture was rendered by the Federal Land Bank Associations in 1961.

March 16, 1962 marked the 45th Anniversary of the chartering of the Federal Land Bank of Columbia in 1917. From organization to February 28, 1962, the bank has made 139,863 loans for a gross amount of $555,392,416.

Other officers who attended the Federal Land Bank Association Conference in Durham included W. G. Stancill, vice president, of Washington; Nathan C. Barnhill, director, of Stokes; Thad L. Little, director, of Ayden; and M. B. Morris, manager of the Association.

High School Publications Workshop Slated Saturday

More than 350 staff members of newspapers and yearbooks of high schools in the eastern counties of the state will attend Saturday, March 31, the Second Annual High School Publications Conference at East Carolina College.

At morning programs and afternoon workshops journalists, personnel of publishing companies, faculty advisors of school publications, and teachers of journalism will appear as speakers and consultants and will share their knowledge and experience with students.

Tim Parker, Chief of Bureau,

Associated Press, Charlotte, N. C., will be principal speaker at a luncheon in the South Dining Hall. His topic will be "Publications as a Communication Medium in 1962." David J. Whichard III, editor of the Greenville Daily Reflector, will introduce Mr. Parker.

Jack Hamilton, head of the design department of the Taylor Publishing Co., Dallas, Texas, and Alma Murchison, yearbook advisor at Rocky Mount Senior High School, will speak at a program on yearbooks Saturday morning. Miss Murchison will discuss "A Superior Yearbook." Mr. Hamilton's topic will be "Yearbook Design."

Students interested in newspaper work will hear talks on various phases of journalism Saturday morning. Speakers and their subjects of discussion will be Donald C. Schlenz, Greenville Daily Reflector, "Lay-out"; Mrs. Elizabeth C. Swindell, editor of the Wilson Daily Times, "News Writing"; Jake Strother, associate editor of the Kinston Free

Greenville Is SGA President

Clyde Thomas Mallison Jr. of Greenville will head the Student Government Association of East Carolina College as president during the 1962-1963 term. Results of a campus-wide election held March 23 were announced today by Woodrow W. Shepherd of Wilmington, Del., chairman of the Elections Committee of the SGA.

All major student officers were chosen in the election except the secretary and one member-at-large of the Women's Judiciary. These positions will be filled in a run-off election this week.

A junior at East Carolina, the new president is a graduate of the Junius H. Rose High School in Greenville. At the college he is majoring in the social studies.

He has acted as freshman and sophomore senator in the SGA, vice president of the organization for the 1961 Summer Session, and chairman of the Entertainment Committee for 1961-1962. He is a member of the campus Young Democrats Club and of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Mallison, 310 Clairmont Circle, Greenville.

Other SGA officers for 1962-1963 are William P. Eyerman of Chapel Hill, vice president; Jimmy W. Chestnut of Turkey, treasurer; David L. Shearin of Waffrenon, assistant treasurer; and Ann Adkins of Rocky Mount, historian.

Robert S. Washer of Remick, N. Y., will serve as chairman of the Men's Judiciary; Henry B. Cantrell of Morganton, as vice chairman; Lawrence C. Sneed of Yanceyville, as secretary; and William W. Carroll of Dunn and Marion B. Godbold of Rt. 4, Bennettsville, S. C., as members-at-large.

M. Elizabeth Glover of Gastonia was elected chairman of the Women's Judiciary; Joan Wetherington of Rt. 5, Clinton, as vice chairman; Veronica Anne Gay of Rt. 4, Zebulon, as secretary; and Jackie Hammond of New Bern, as member-at-large.

Olin Johnson To Seek Reelection

COLUMBIA (AP)—Olin D. Johnston, South Carolina's senior U. S. senator, formally announced his renomination candidacy Tuesday, standing on his seniority and his record.

He will seek renomination in the June 12 Democratic primary. His opponent will be Gov. Ernest F. Hollings, who announced last week. The senator's announcement made no mention of Hollings, who had said, "The question is how long can we tolerate" Sen. Johnston.

Johnston stood heavily on his seniority in the Senate in his announcement. He ranks ninth among Democrats after 18 years in the Senate.

This seniority, he said, has made it possible for "determined Southern senators to kill a vast amount of Socialist, irresponsible, and unconstitutional proposals."

And, he added, "If the South changed its senators as frequently as Northern states, we would be overwhelmed at every turn." Commenting on his Senate record, the 65-year-old former governor said that, as one of four Southern members of the 15-man Senate Judiciary Committee, he has waged "successful fights against civil rights bills."

Noting he is a member of the committee's Constitutional Rights proposals from being reported to the Senate floor.

And, he said, he has taken part in "endless investigations and hearings pertaining to activities of Communists at home and abroad" as a member of the Internal Security subcommittee.

Artificial Heart Said On Horizon

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Surgeons will be able to replace defective hearts with complete artificial hearts in a few more years, a surgeon predicts.

"It's a lot closer than you think," Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel of Washington said Tuesday at a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons.

Ten years ago, he said, people with diseased valves of the aorta could not be saved, but now "surgeons can replace any of the valves of the heart."

Hufnagel is professor of surgery at Georgetown University Medical School.

Old pickup trucks converted to buses by the addition of an open wooden body, canvas side curtains and rough plank seats are the major link between West African villages.

Actress Enjoys Job As A Surgeon's Aide

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At 9 o'clock every night, Mary Beth Hughes makes her entrance wearing a bathing suit in a sexy farce called "Pajama Tops" at LeGrand Theater.

At 8:15 every morning, she enters a Vermont Ave. doctor's office in nurse's white, beginning her full day as a surgical assistant.

The strange double life of Mary Beth Hughes comprises no hard luck story, as with Veronica Lake—discovered last week working as a cocktail waitress in New York. With Miss Hughes, it was a question of knowing what she wanted and going after it.

"The picture business has changed," said the actress, a 20-year veteran in films. "On the last three television films I worked on, the producers were former prop men."

"The directors were not just amateurs; they were incompetent amateurs."

"I felt the need of a change not merely because I didn't like how the business had changed. It was also economically unsound for me. Two years ago, I worked eight days in films during one year. I've got a 15-year-old son and a house to support; my expenses run $550 a month. I could not keep dipping into my resources."

She happened to meet a plastic surgeon at a cocktail party. He recommended an operation to remove smallpox and acne scars and lift drooping eyelids. She had said—"I don't mind admitting I had a face lift; it's good for business."

She urged the surgeon to give her a job. He tested her sincerity by asking her to accompany him on a couple of operations—a skin graft on the legs of a burned girl; removal of a cancer from the head of a 70-year-old.

Miss Hughes watched both with no adverse effects, and the surgeon hired her last October. She underwent hospital training and soon was assisting the surgeon in operations.

"Doctors and nurses tell me I am a natural," she said with unhidden pride. "I learn quickly and my reactions are right. Believe me, this gives me more satisfaction than anything I ever did in show business."

Siamese Twins Die In Operation

LONDON (AP)—Siamese twin girls born here last week died during an emergency operation Thursday night.

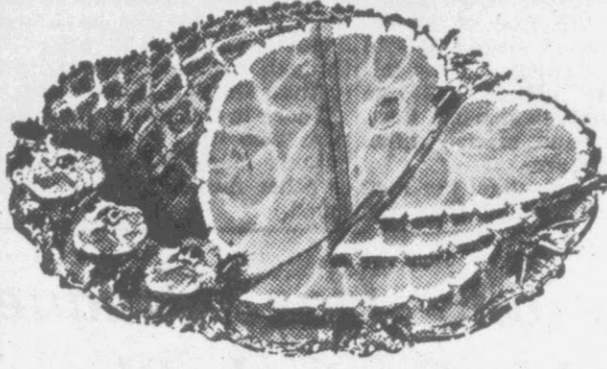

Doctors decided to operate after the condition of the five-day-old twins worsened during the day, but they died before surgery was completed. The name of their mother has not been made public.

PLANE AND PUNCH—Here's a sampling of what in the way of bombs, rockets and missiles can be carried, not all at once, by the U. S. Navy's new Grumman A2F Intruder. The attack aircraft is scheduled for delivery to the U. S. fleet next year.

Grifton Rescue Squad Polio Vaccine By Spoon Is Offered Ambulance Cleared By U.S. Agency

GRIFTON—The newly organized Grifton Rescue Squad has been offered a gift which is like a vitamin shot—an ambulance from the Howard and Carter Funeral Home in Kinston.

Captain of the local squad, Leigh O. Vanneman, said today that the offer of the ambulance "is a complete surprise." He said squad members had thought that acquisition of such a vehicle would be a major hindrance to their progress. The ambulance is about nine years old and in "excellent shape," Vanneman said.

The movement towards organization of a rescue squad began here about the first of March. Now there are 18 members, with Vanneman as chief, and the following other officers: George McArthur, first lieutenant; Kenneth Waters and Marion Allen, second lieutenants.

At the present time, the men are receiving training from the Red Cross office in Greenville in first aid. Mrs. Nell Stallings, physical education instructor at East Carolina College, is instructor. Mrs. Walter Taylor, executive secretary of the Red Cross of Pitt County, is assisting the squad.

The need for a rescue squad in Grifton is "major," Vanneman said. "We will cover some 200 square miles without overlapping any other rescue squad service," he stated.

Major tasks confronting the squad now are acquisition of equipment including resuscitators, inhalators, radios and other equipment. Vanneman stressed the feeling that the local squad hopes to obtain all its equipment through voluntary efforts, rather than through solicitations.

Those in Grifton or other locations who wish to make contributions may contact Vanneman or other members of the rescue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Children, and adults, too—will soon be able to get protection against all forms of polio by the spoon as well as by the needle.

The way was cleared Tuesday when the government approved production of Type III oral polio vaccine for general use—the last of the series of vaccines given by mouth needed for protection against all three kinds of polio.

"We now have two effective vaccine weapons to fight this disease: the killed vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Salk and the live oral vaccine prepared from strains developed by Dr. Albert Sabin," said U.S. Surgeon General Luther L. Terry.

He called it "another step forward toward final conquest of paralytic polio."

Types I and II of the oral vaccine were licensed last year by the Public Health Service but were not recommended for general use because without Type III they did not offer what health officials call complete protection. Persons using the oral vaccine would have to take all three types.

Licenses for manufacture of Type III were issued Tuesday to two manufacturers—Pfizer, Ltd., of Sandwich, England, and Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y.

The Salk vaccine—injected by needle—protects against all three strains.

The oral, or Sabin, vaccine is made of weakened living polio viruses. The Salk vaccine contains killed viruses.

Surgeon General Terry said, "Individual physicians and health officers will decide which of the two vaccines to use on the basis of their own appraisal of the special factors of their own practice or the circumstances within their own health jurisdictions."

Availability of the vaccines may be the determining factor, said Terry. The Salk vaccine is being turned out at a rate of 5 million to 6 million doses a month. Terry said it was too early to say when the oral vaccine will be produced in large quantities or how soon it will appear in substantial amounts in local outlets.

Seven In AFROTC Group At ECC Are Promoted

Seven members of the 600th AFROTC Cadet Group at East Carolina have received promotions on the Group Staff, which is the highest echelon of command on the Cadet level.

Assuming Command as Group Commander is Cadet Lt. Col. Erhard G. Weis, Jr., of Rt. 14, Richmond, Va. Cadet Colonel Weis is a senior, majoring in geography, and has been enrolled this year in the Flight Instructional Program, designed to help prospective pilots for the Air Force learn to fly at the local airport. Upon successful completion of this program, Cadet Weis will receive his private pilot's license.

During his AFROTC career he has been a member of the Ritee Team, and was awarded the Sons of the American Revolution Award for outstanding achievements as a sophomore cadet, and is presently a member of the Arnold Air Society.

Cadet Col. Weis is also past president of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and past president of the Interfraternity Council. Active in AFROTC and related campus functions, he was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges this year.

Aiding Cadet Col. Weis in the performance of his duties are six new group staff officers: Cadet Major Lendy C. Edwards, of Rt. 3, Greenville; Deputy Group Commander; Cadet Major Murray E. Hodges, of Dunn; Personnel Officer; Cadet Major James T. Ferrell, of Fayetteville; Operations Officer; Cadet Major Roland W. Edwards, of Rt. 1, Chocowinity; Inspector; Cadet Major Harry E. Smith, of Kelly, N. C., Material Officer; and Cadet Captain James Zuill Bailey, of Bishopville, S. C., Administrative Officer.

The great majority of American Indians learned the practice of scalping their slain foes from the white man.

Military Giant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist-supplied arms have made Cuba a military giant of the Caribbean, the State Department reports.

The department said an estimated $100 million in Communist military aid "has turned the Cuban military establishment into one of the most formidable in Latin America. It has introduced a military capability hitherto not present in any of the Latin American countries of the Caribbean area."

Most of the arms have come from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, the department reported Tuesday.

"I never gain weight," said Miss Gindgold calmly. "I have a system."

The Gindgold system of avoiding avoidpulis is, like its inventor, highly unusual. But, while it works for her, it might not be quite so effective on others.

"Dame Edith Evans has always been one of the most beautiful women ever to walk on a stage," Miss Gindgold explained. "And it always amazed me to see her because when she was off-stage she never seemed quite so well-beautiful. But one day many years ago I walked into her dressing room when we were appearing in the same play in London. And she was sitting in front of her mirror, talking to herself. She was saying over and over, 'I am beautiful. I am beautiful.'"

Someone, he said, had sawed them through, then filled the cracks with soap, getting ready for flight. Prisoners were transferred to another cell.

Hermione Has Unique Weight Control Plan

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In show business circles, where a slim figure is often as important to a performer's employment as talent, weight-watching is a way of life.

Thus Hermione Gindgold, who has a trim, slim and svelte figure, presented a most unusual spectacle as she sat comfortably and happily at luncheon, slathering butter on a rich piece of French bread, and digging into an entire compound of chicken livers, savory and highly caloric sauce and butter-dripping potato and vegetables.

"NBC's '87th Precinct' is slated to disappear next fall, with a story about a newspaperman, 'Saints and Sinners,' starring Nick ('Rebel') Adams, replacing it, but earlier on Monday evenings.

Jack Paar is maintaining his battle lines right through his final late-night show; newspaper people will be barred, as usual, from the studio during Thursday night's taping of the last program—although NBC is allowing them to watch the show from another part of the building—via monitor sets, of course.

Sanford Making 9 More Talks

TRENTON, N.C. (AP)—Nine more speeches were on the schedule today as Gov. Sanford took his campaign for improved education to Tar Heel students.

Sanford made appearances at 11 schools and an orphanage in eastern North Carolina Tuesday, speaking to an estimated 7,000 youngsters.

Today's round of speeches called for appearances at Jones High and Jones Central High in Trenton; Richlands High; Jacksonville High and Georgetown High at Jacksonville; Swansboro High; Havelock High; King High at Morehead City and Beaufort High.

The governor is to take time out between the Havelock and King High speeches to attend a North Carolina Education Association banquet at Morehead City.

Sanford told his audiences Tuesday, "We need to use education to bring people together in peace rather than to blow them apart in war."

Recalling his high school days, Sanford said, "Education is more important in a day of rockets and television than in the days of Buck Rogers and ice wagons."

Cuban Airliner Crash Kills 22

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A Cuban airliner crashed into the sea Tuesday night as its pilot tried desperately to return to the airport. Havana Radio reported today. All 22 aboard were reported killed.

The broadcast, monitored here, said the pilot told the control tower just before going down that he was having trouble and intended to turn back to the Santiago de Cuba landing field from which he had just taken off.

However, the "mechanical defects" blamed by the radio for the crash proved critical and the Cuban Airlines flight 853 plunged into the water less than a mile from shore.

Cuban navy boats have been unable to recover any bodies so far, the radio said.

The plane was en route to Havana from Santiago de Cuba, the nation's second largest seaport. The crash scene is on Cuba's southeastern coast about 40 miles west of the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo.

All the victims and crew members had Spanish names. Their hometowns were not given. The crew included a pilot, co-pilot, steward and an armed guard. Guards have been assigned to all Cuban commercial flights for some time as a precaution against hijacking.

ECC Senior In Piano Recitals

Mary Craig Daughtridge of Scotland Neck, senior student of music at East Carolina College, will appear in Scotland Neck April 1 and in Rocky Mount April 8 in recitals of works for the piano.

The program in Scotland Neck is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the city high school. In Rocky Mount Miss Daughtridge will play at 4 p.m. at Wesleyan College.

Her program will include Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, Mozart's Rondo in A minor, a Brahms intermezzo, a ballade by Chopin, and two Rachmaninoff preludes. With Miss Drake she will play Cesar Franck's Symphonic Variations.

Masonic Notice

Junior Colleges Ask Switch To 4-Year Status

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Faced with a growing demand for expanded higher education facilities, community junior colleges in Charlotte and Wilmington have asked to be converted to four-year state supported institutions as soon as possible.

The requests were made here Tuesday at a meeting of a state committee surveying the state's college needs. The committee is to report to the governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School by June 1 what it thinks the state should do to meet future higher education needs.

Live Coverage For Press Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's news conference Thursday morning will be carried live on radio and television.

The White House said ABC and CBS television networks and ABC, CBS, Mutual and NBC radio networks will be on live with the conference at 11 a.m. NBC-TV will carry it an hour later.

James & Hite, Attys. Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4-11

The genuine 46-inch waistline experts have mostly one reaction. They ask you how would you like a punch in the snoot. But maybe some nice old lady in tennis shoes gives you a serious answer.

"It depends," she says, "on whether the saloon is on fire." So by Milwaukee, as they say along the shores of the Klunkinik, the feeling generally is that the market for nonalcoholic beer is just one notch ahead of the call for flat tires. Twice the demand, maybe, for burned out light bulbs.

So what happens? So by Milwaukee, they are starting to make a nonalcoholic beer, and it's got a better head on it than the experts. Well, not exactly in Milwaukee. It's next door in Waukesha.

The brewery that has got into this nonalcoholic thing has been turning out the real dynamite for 125 years. It is geared to produce 300,000 barrels of the new brew. Hyman Gale, president of the sales agency, says they expect to sell it—100,000 barrels this year, and more later.

Now, while this isn't so much when you figure that the beverage which continues to make Milwaukee famous comes out of the kettles at the rate of six million barrels a year, plainly the sales can't be accounted for entirely by saloon fires and nice old ladies in tennis shoes.

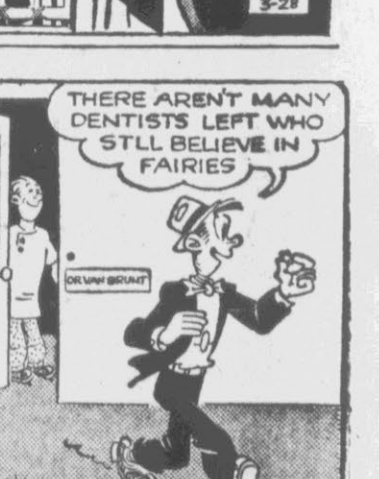

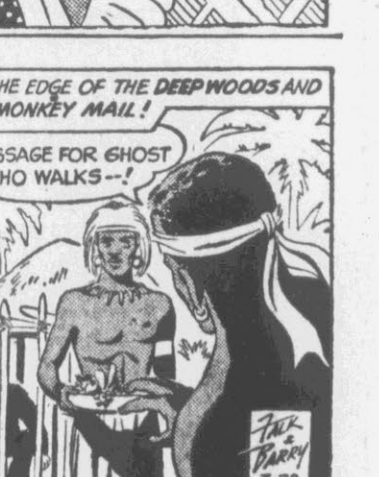

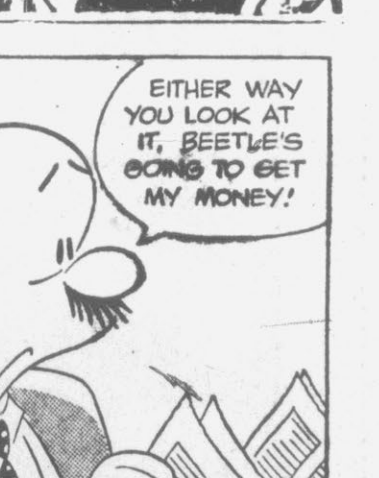

Howard Hartman, who is the president of Fox Head Brewing Co. of Waukesha, says the biggest initial demand has come from markets where the brewing industry couldn't make schneider that's a schaafskopf term, if it's any help to you—with the real McCoy.

For instance, a freighter risked frostbite thrashing up the lakes this winter to take on 2,000 cases for an emergency order in Saudi Arabia. Hartman says the orders are coming in from Morocco, Libya, Bahrain, Iraq, Lebanon, Jordan, Egypt, India, Burma, Pakistan and Eritrea—places where people get at least as thirsty as they do in Milwaukee, but where religion or social practice forbids use of alcohol.

Gale says the company hopes to have 50 foreign bottlers start operations within the next 12 months, along with about that many in this country.

While the nonalcoholic product is made out of the same grain and hops and the like as beer, is produced like beer, bottled and canned like beer, and looks, smells and — Milwaukeeans avert their eyes—tastes like beer, the absence of alcohol makes possible all sorts of shortcuts.

Without alcohol, the federal taxes that make up the bulk of beer price no longer are applied. Without alcohol, the beverage can be shipped as a syrup and brought up to volume at a local plant or even charged in a vending machine.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market yoked to the upside early this afternoon in moderate trading as it made a bid for its first advance in eight sessions. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 at 258.80 with industrials up .90, rails up .30 and utilities off .20.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional, some going to around a point. Most tobaccos seemed to have met support. Steels, motors, rubbers, farm implements, aerospace issues, electronics, electrical equipments, oils and rails were generally higher. Building materials, chemicals and nonferrous metals were mixed. American Tobacco rebounded more than a point and Lorillard was up nearly a point while Liggett & Myers continued easy. Gains of a point or so by Jones & Laughlin and Republic Steel highlighted the steels. Bethlehem and U.S. Steel added fractions. Motors pushed higher by minor

Grand Opening Set For Friday

A drop of more than a point by Du Pont and near a point by Allied Chemical muddled the trend among chemicals. American Cyanamid and Pfizer were fractional gainers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.94 at 709.22. Prices moved generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to higher.

Reese Furniture Co., burned out last November, will stage its grand opening in a new and completely-stocked building Friday.

Jonah Reese, owner and operator of the 14th Street retail furniture business, said the doors of his new 10,000-square-foot building will open at 8 a.m. tomorrow.

The new masonry-and-steel structure stands on the site of Reese's 6,000-square-foot store that was described as a brick loss after the Nov. 28 fire.

Construction on the new brick building was completed earlier this month and Reese began moving stock into the new quarters.

During the four-month period following the fire, the furniture business was operated at 631 Albemarle Ave. Reese began construction of the new facility in late January.

Special features of the new building include complete air-conditioning. The entire 10,000 square feet of display space is in rectangular shape.

Reese said highlights of Friday's grand opening event will be special customer prices on all furniture in the store.

Army Forming New Air Cavalry

WASHINGTON (AP) — After eight years of preparation, the Army is forming its first troop of helicopter-borne air cavalry.

Air cavalrymen — like their horse-mounted forebears — would scout ahead of moving columns, reconnoiter for flanks, seek out targets for artillery and rockets and spring raids behind enemy lines.

The first troop of 147 men and 27 observation and transport type helicopters is being organized at the Ft. Knox, Ky., armored center. It is expected to be combat ready by the end of summer.

A second troop will be created at the infantry center, Ft. Benning, Ga. The third and fourth will be attached to the two new regular Army divisions now being trained at Ft. Carson, Colo., and Ft. Hood, Tex.

Ultimately, the Army hopes to integrate an air cavalry troop with each of its 16 regular divisions.

The helicopter companies now operating with South Vietnamese troops against Communist guerrillas are a much different breed of unit. They are essential transport outfits and are not intended to fight, although the choppers in Viet Nam have been equipped with machine guns.

Air cavalry troops would be tactical combat units, their helicopters armed with machine guns and antitank guided missiles.

The Army considers its air cavalry concept suited to both nuclear war battlefields, on which surface units would be widely spaced, and guerrilla-type wars, where mobility, speed and surprise are at a premium.

A Cookie-Eater In Coat Lining

MEMPHIS (AP) — The youngest squirmed and wiggled so in his church pew that the whole family was embarrassed by his misbehavior. He defended staunchly that there was something dreadful wrong with his new coat.

And, by golly, he was right. A search conducted later in the privacy of home turned up a mouse in the lining nibbling on cookie crumbs left in the pocket.

UN Bond Fight Next Action Before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freed from a two-week tangle over an anti-poll tax amendment, the Senate headed today toward another scrap—whether to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds.

The way was cleared for action on the bond issue Tuesday when the Senate by a 77-16 vote approved the constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

The U.N. bond proposal was made the pending business before the Senate quit Tuesday night. But Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said debate on it may not get started until Thursday.

President Kennedy has asked authority to buy half of a $200 million U.N. bond issue to help pull the organization out of financial troubles. Some senators have objected strongly to the plan.

Mansfield indicated he would seek action first on a House-passed appropriation bill for the Treasury and Post Office departments and a batch of minor measures.

Prolonged speeches by Southern senators against the anti-poll tax amendment had held up committee meetings and other business. But the Southerners abruptly broke off their speeches and when the vote came approving the amendment, it was even more one-sided than the 72-16 margin by which the Senate adopted a similar amendment two years ago. It was well in excess of the required two-thirds majority.

The proposed amendment, one of two civil rights measures urged by Kennedy, now goes to the House. If approved by a two-thirds majority there, it will be to be ratified by three-fourths of the 50 states before becoming effective.

Extend Time On Excess Acreage

State officials have extended the deadline for releasing or requesting unused cotton acreage until Friday, April 6, the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office announced today.

Livingston Roberts, office manager, said the State ASCS office has received a total of 11,773 acres of cotton, released to county ASCS offices by farmers but not requested as additional acreage in the counties.

Roberts said portions of the pooled acreage may be requested at the Pitt ASCS office in the County Office Building on Johnson Street in Greenville before next Friday's deadline.

Originally the deadline had been set last Friday, but ASCS officials were anxious for farmers to plant the 11,773-acre excess allotment if they so desired.

Roberts said the Pitt office received today a notice from Raleigh authorizing apportionment of the released acreage among farmers requesting it. There were no maximums or minimums, Roberts noted.

Pitt cotton growers accounted for 850 acres of the state-wide excess. Of a total county allotment of 8,974 acres, a total of 2,261 acres was released and Pitt producers requested a total of 1,411 acres, leaving the 850-acre excess.

Scout Pancake Supper Plans Are Completed

Plans were reported today complete for Friday's pancake supper at St. James Methodist Church, conducted by the Pitt Scout District's Order of the Arrow chapter.

The affair is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday with a menu including pancakes, sausage, milk and coffee, all prepared and served by OA members. Funds raised through the project will go into a Croatan Lodge (East Carolina Council organization of OA) fund for building a meeting lodge at summer camp.

Knott Proctor Jr., ticket sales chairman, said tickets are available from any member of the Pitt chapter of the honorary scouting society. Friday's supper, to continue until about 8:30 p.m., is another of several similar events sponsored by district OA chapters in the Croatan Lodge to finance construction of the summer camp building.

Senator Doubts Impact On Conservative Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., took issue today with those who see the Supreme Court's action on legislative apportionment as a blow to political conservatives.

Goldwater, a spokesman for GOP conservatives, called the court's ruling which opened the field of urban-rural representation to federal judicial review "a proper decision."

"I know there are those who say that the conservatives' political strength will be reduced if the cities gain more representation in the legislatures," he said in an interview.

"But I don't agree with that. I don't think it will make any change. There are proportionately just as many conservatives in the metropolitan as in the rural areas."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who regards himself as considerably more liberal than Goldwater, said in a statement speculation that the Democrats would gain by legislative changes giving a greater voice to city voters is premature.

Supporting the court's action, he said surveys have shown that the cities—where the Democrats have proved themselves strong—have had improved representation while the suburbs—where Republicans have been more numerous—have suffered.

"It is evident from such studies that the suburbs of America, rather than the cities, would be the most likely beneficiaries of an apportionment overhauling," he said.

Italian Offers Partial Disarmament Program

GENEVA (AP) — Foreign Minister Antonio Segni of Italy today put forward a four-point program of partial disarmament beginning with an agreement prohibiting the use of outer space for military purposes.

The 17-nation disarmament conference also received a memorandum from Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki outlining his five-year-old proposal for a nuclear-free zone through the heartland of Europe. He called for a limitation of armaments as well as a ban on nuclear weapons in West and East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Segni told the conference the need now is for confidence-building agreements to serve as a prelude to a bigger program of general and complete disarmament.

The Italian's four-point program called for:

1. An agreement to prohibit the use of outer space for military purposes.
2. An early cutoff of nuclear weapon production, leading to the gradual destruction of stockpiles, and the creation of a uranium bank for peaceful uses.

3. Action to guard against accidental war or surprise attack.
4. Adoption of measures to break down "the wall of misunderstanding that separates East and West and thus restores the psychological climate of trust."

Segni's program was in line with proposals to the conference by other Western leaders, including U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Canadian Foreign Minister Howard C. Green.

Grifton Firemen Answer 2 Calls

GRIFTON — Grifton firemen answered two calls on Saturday morning, one at a home near Edwards Bridge in Lenoir County and the other at the intersection of Pitt and McRae Streets where an automobile engine was aflame.

Fire Chief Wilbur Murphy reported that little damage resulted from the fire at the home of Floyd Whaley near here, and that neighbors had the fire out by the time firemen arrived. The fire apparently was caused by a faulty kitchen flue in the chimney, Murphy said.

The automobile, owned by A. T. Forrest of the Gardenville section of Pitt County, also received little damage.

No Charges In Tuesday Mishap

No charges were placed by police following a two-vehicle mishap near the intersection of Grand and Dickinson Aves. yesterday about 8 a.m.

Investigators said a car driven by Richard Anderson, Jr., 33 of 110 Hooker Road was in the process of parking his vehicle on Dickinson Ave when he opened his car door.

A passing car, driven by Annie Mildred Turner of 1304 Forbes St., struck the door.

Damage to the Anderson car was estimated to be about $125 while an estimated $75 damage was done to the Turner vehicle. No injuries were reported.

Warm Weather Is On Agenda

The weatherman was predicting that today might be spring's warmest so far, with temperatures reaching the low 70s.

Only sunshine and warm weather were on the agenda. For Thursday, however, some cloudiness with a chance of scattered showers is expected. Thursday may be even warmer than today.

Yesterday the high temperature in Greenville reached 67 degrees as recorded at the utilities plant. L. M. Bullock reported the low was 38 degrees.

The Tar River level today was at a 105-foot standstill. Winds were out of the northeast, about five to eight miles per hour.
