MILES OF JONQUILS LINE "TAR ROAD" (Evans Street Extension) and they have reached the peak of their bloom. This stretch of floral beauty saw its inception approximately 30 years ago when Miss Lottie Ellis planted 12 bulbs. Subsequent plantings and natural multiplication has produced today a carpet of bloom. Miss Ellis says the jonquils this year have bloomed more profusely than ever before. One More Slum Clearance Plan Introduced Here

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Assisted neighborhood conservation, still another type slum clearance project, made its bow on the local scene last night.

Representatives of the Housing and Home Finance Agency Atlanta office appeared at a meeting in the city court room to explain the program at the request of Mayor Charles M. King.

Discussing the program were field representatives Lucius C. Williams and William Turner and chief of the conservation and rehabilitation staff, Joe C. Behrens.

The mayor, who recently made a trip to Atlanta where he discussed such a program, explained that the city could receive federal assistance in carrying out its neighborhood conservation program.

A neighborhood conservation committee has designated an area bounded by Greene St., Dickinson Ave., Memorial Drive and the Tar River for its first upgrading program.

Conservation ordinances have been adopted by the council but, without federal assistance, the public improvements in the area would have to be financed fully by the municipal government.

Mayor King explained that with an assisted conservation program federal funds would pay three-fourths of the project costs with the city to pay one-fourth.

He pointed to major recreational improvements, a new Carver Library building, school additions at Eppes, Fleming St. and other school areas as examples of benefits the city could receive. In addition, there would be street improvements and other public projects which would be credited toward the project cost.

Behrens explained that under a federally assisted conservation program dwellings in the chosen area would be upgraded. The only houses demolished would be those beyond rehabilitation and those in the way of projected streets or other public projects.

The Atlanta representatives pointed out that the assisted conservation program differs from the Shore Drive project, which is a clearance type program. However, both are done under the overall Urban Renewal program.

Thus such a program as the one under consideration would be administered by the city's Redevelopment Commission.

"Urban renewal is, in total, a large and complicated program designed to help cities to help themselves," Behrens told the group.

There were several questions by John Barnhill, member of the Neighborhood Conservation Committee, who later explained that he was asking questions which had been asked of him.

"I feel you fellows are presenting something to us that is of great value," Barnhill told the Atlanta representatives.

At one time the committee member loosed a blast after statements by Mayor King and Councilman James Lee.

"If we quit talking to get votes in these meetings we can get a great deal done," he declared. Barnhill said he had agreed to serve on the committee after being requested to do so.

"My one purpose is to try to get something done," he continued. "I don't' care whether anybody believes it or not—I do."

In answer to questions, the Atlanta representatives explained that if the Shore Drive project were voted down by the council and the program disbanded, the advance loan costs would have to be absorbed in future project. This would include an assisted conservation project such as was under discussion.

Behrens emphasized that his agency was not trying to push the assisted conservation program on the city.

"What action you take after we leave here tonight is entirely up to you," he declared.

King expressed his appreciation to the representatives for visiting Greenville to explain the program.

At the outset of the meeting the mayor said he was "terribly disappointed" that members of the city's various commissions were not present for the discussions.

Mayor King had sent letters to committee and commission members whose work might be involved notifying them of the meeting.

He suggested that the council should "do something about these commissions."

All members of the City Council attended the session last night, although it was not a called council meeting. Among others present were Charles Cobb, chairman of the Neighborhood Conservation Committee, and Badger Johnson, chairman of the Redevelopment Commission, as well as other representatives of these two groups.

Argentina Military Keep Check On New President

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Jose Maria Guido formally assumed the office of president today under the watchful eye and guiding hand of Argentina's military leaders — and amid a few shouts of "Viva Frondizi!"

The oath-taking ceremony was the second for the former Senate president.

The military chiefs were not happy that he took the oath before the Supreme Court Thursday without informing them. For a time it appeared some officers might not recognize the military's own first choice for a constitutional successor to Arturo Frondizi, deposed Thursday and flown to a prison island.

The second ceremony was decided upon after Guido was reported to have agreed to a set of military demands including outlawing of Peronistas, Communists and Castroites and placing all Argentina under federal control.

The president's office already was being used by the military to issue its communiques when Guido, staring solemnly through his hornrimmed glasses, went through the six-minute ceremony.

Shouts for Frondizi were heard from a few persons present at the ceremony in the pink-walled palace.

The act of succession was first signed, with all ministers of Frondizi's last government also affixing their signatures. The military members of the Cabinet were the last to sign.

The act declared that, in view of the facts known by the public which have produced the vacancy of executive power, Guido had assumed the office.

The military signers were Gen. Raul Poggi of the army, who masterminded the bloodless coup which ended Frondizi's stormy rule; Brig. Cayo Antonio Alsina of the air force and Rear Adm. Agustin Penas of the navy.

For hours there was uncertainty and the prospect of a new crisis over whether Guido actually would become chief executive of this nervous nation, ridden by political and economic crisis, even though the military, in a communique, had finally announced that Guido would be installed at today's ceremony.

Although the communique did not say so, it implied that Guido had agreed to six military demands for a virtual veto over his administration and sharp curbs on the Peronists, Communists and the labor unions.

Guido had been the military's original choice for the presidency, since as Senate president he was next in line of succession under the constitution. But for nine hours after the arrest of Frondizi, his close political ally, Guido balked at assuming the presidency as a figurehead for the military.

Then, apparently without bowing to the military's demands, Guido went before the Supreme Court and was sworn in as president. His sudden action touched off a wave of anger among the military.

The air ministry messaged all its bases that Guido had acted without the knowledge of the commanders in chief. Reports swept the capital that the military might forcibly vacate the presidency for the second time in 24 hours and completely take over the country.

Guido reportedly was called before the military chiefs to explain and told them he decided to act under pressure from his political party, Frondizi's Intransigent Radicals.

1,100 Prisoners Of Castro Said Pleading Guilty

HAVANA (AP)—Havana's three morning papers said today all of the more than 1,100 prisoners on trial for participating in the crushed Cuban invasion last April have admitted their guilt.

The press accounts said the president of the tribunal, Commander Augusto Martinez Sanchez, told the prisoners Thursday, the first day of the trial, they could state their case.

The paper Hoy said all admitted "having invaded their fatherland, having participated in an invasion prepared, organized, trained and financed by Yankee imperialists, and said they did not want to make any further declarations."

The press accounts said the prisoners faced a court tribunal whose members sat on long benches in a basketball court within a prison compound.

Western newsmen, barred from the trial, had been told it was being held in a courtroom.

The three Havana morning papers carried a long letter they said was a confession of Capt. Jose A. Perez San Roman, identified as a leader of the invasion forces. The letter said the invasion prisoners were naive and foolish if they thought they were coming ashore to save Cuba. The letter was dated May 10, 1961, and the papers said it was delivered to Prime Minister Fidel Castro the next day.

A photograph in the paper Revolucion showed prisoners sitting in the front row. The prisoners, wearing light-colored shirts and denim trousers, appeared to be in good health.

N.C. Democrats Raleigh-Bound For J-J Dinner

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Democrats, anxious to get their 1962 campaign rolling at high gear, began arriving here today for Saturday's Jefferson-Jackson Day activities.

About 1,400 party faithful were expected for the day-long round of events to be capped by the annual $50-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at the Dorton Arena on the State Fairgrounds.

Key speaker will be New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is expected to arrive early Saturday. Accompanying him will be Toney Randall, movie star making his first appearance on the political circuit.

Among the ticket buyers was Raleigh attorney I. Beverly Lake, unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1960, who was sharply critical of the selection of Wagner as speaker.

Party headquarters reported that more than 1,200 tickets had been sold by Thursday and a few counties have not yet reported.

Also on the schedule for Saturday is a coffee hour from 11 a.m. until noon honoring county vice chairmen, and a luncheon for county chairmen at the governor's mansion.

Terrorists Slay Four Moslems

ALGIERS (AP)—Four Moslems were slain and five wounded today in a new upsurge of terror by European Secret Army Organization gunmen.

The Secret Army Organization is known as the OAS.

The shootings followed a night of plastic bombings, in which six persons were injured and heavy property damage was caused.

Today's terrorism began with shooting of a Moslem. Then a car sped by a group of Moslem passers-by in the suburb of Maison Carree and three were slain by gun fire. A few minutes later another carload of gunmen opened fire on a group of Moslem workers, wounding five, four seriously.

Thursday night 10 mortar shells exploded in the vast gardens of the Palais D'Ete, former residence of French administrators in Algeria. No one was injured.

The violence during the night was directed mainly at Moslems. Five were wounded in an attack on a Moslem housing development. Railway switches were blasted near a suburban station and other charges burst in a downtown intersection.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 2 to 6 degrees below normal and rainfall one-half to three-quarters of an inch Saturday through Wednesday. Mild Saturday, cooler Sunday and warmer about Wednesday. Rainfall occurring as showers or occasional rain over the weekend.

Seek Additional Hospital Funds

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Hospitals Board of Control will ask the Advisory Budget Commission and the 1963 Legislature for more than $11 million in construction funds for North Carolina mental institutions.

The figure includes about $7.4 million earmarked for hospital construction but defeated by the voters Nov. 7 in a statewide bond referendum.

The board met Thursday night and heard Chairman John Umstead of Chapel Hill say the needs of the mental hospitals were "a must in 1960 and will be imperative in the next two years."

Gagarin Says A Surprise Coming

LONDON (AP)—Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin said today that the next Soviet space flight will surprise the world.

Moscow Radio said Gagarin told a conference of Komsomol, the young Communist league, Soviet cosmic flights for the future will be strictly scientific and "the whole world will be surprised and will again warmly applaud the achievements of the Soviet people."

Senate Expected See Hot Fight On Tax Revision Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders in Congress hailed today President Kennedy's tax revision bill victory in the House and turned their attention to a Senate fight expected to be just as hot.

An almost straight party-line vote saved the bill in the House Thursday. Passage by a vote of 219 to 196 came a few hours after the President at his news conference, made a personal plea for the measure. The House action was considered his biggest triumph of the 1962 session.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic whip, said "this sets the pattern for the Kennedy program this year. These were Democratic votes."

On final passage, 218 Democrats and a lone Republican, Rep. Richard H. Poff of Virginia, supported the bill, while 162 Republicans and 34 Democrats voted against it.

House Democratic Leaders said privately that when the day began the bill lacked the necessary votes to survive. Up to voting time the leaders worked furiously, buttonholing all Democratic House members.

The key test was a Republican effort to strip the two most important provisions from the measure—$1.2 billion in annual tax cuts to business that buy modern machinery and equipment and a withholding system or interest and dividends.

The administration won this fight with the support of 225 Democrats. Voting to strip the bill were 163 Republicans and 27 Democrats.

The Senate Finance Committee will lose no time in getting down to work on the bill, but floor debate in that branch is many weeks away.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon will be the opening witness as five weeks of public testimony begin next Monday. Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said more than 200 witnesses are listed and the hearings may run even longer.

The committee is sharply split on the bill. Liberals are anxious to strengthen loophole-closing provisions and add many more, while conservatives feel that the bill already goes too far.

One veteran member told a reporter privately he felt these conflicting pressures might cancel out and leave the bill pretty much in the form in which the House passed it.

Besides the business investment and withholding provisions, the bill as it cleared the House increased taxes on mutual banks and savings and loan associations, on mutual fire and casualty companies, and on cooperatives. It also tightened present regulations on entertainment expenses and on foreign income.

Republicans argued the bill would cost about $1 billion in revenue the first year because of the business credit.

Democrats claimed that the over-all effect was about a standoff, with the credit offset by new revenues from all the other provisions.

FIRST REACTOR

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea today dedicated its first atomic reactor, a 100-kilowatt research unit. It cost $520,000, and the United States supplied $330,000.

N.C. FWB Convention Leaves Nat'l Association

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — The 50,000-member North Carolina Free Will Baptist Convention, unable to resolve differences over church government with the National Association of Free Will Baptists, has resigned from the national body.

Meeting in special session here Thursday, 400 ministers and delegates heard a committee report it had been unsuccessful in trying to settle problems with the national association.

The delegates passed a resolution which read:

"At its recent session the national association asked the North Carolina State Convention to repudiate its long-established and historic form of church government.

"We believe the recent actions of the national association and its leaders constitute a radical departure from the long-established and historic customs, practices and usages of original Free Will Baptists."

A convention spokesman said the problem centered around the fact the national body advocates the independence of each Free Will Baptist church, but the state group recognizes the jurisdiction of the state convention in matters which cannot be settled in local churches.

The state convention, which is over 200 years old, claims to be the oldest in the nation. The national association is 25 years old.

Local Church To Keep Affiliation

Grace Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville will maintain its affiliation with the National Association, according to Rev. Rashie Kennedy, pastor of the church.

Rev. Kennedy said the Grace membership voted to stay with the National Association prior to Thursday's meeting of the N.C. State Convention in Wilson in which the State Convention pulled away from the National Association.

In addition to the Grace Church, Rev. Kennedy said, "there will be about 10 conferences and associations with many local churches across the state which will stay with the National Association."

Alabama Voter-Registration Amendment Test Due May 1

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama, facing continued federal intervention, votes May 1 on a constitutional amendment with a far-reaching effect on voter registration procedure.

It was submitted to the voters by the Legislature in the wake of Justice Department suits charging discrimination against prospective Negro voters in three counties, and indications of court action elsewhere.

The proposed amendment would create a state board with sold authority to write the questionnaires which applicants must answer before they can get on the voting list. The board would grade the papers, with no racial identification.

The present questionnaire, unchanged in a decade except for the order of the questions, was prepared by the State Supreme Court. Voter registration boards in the counties check the answers and determine whether the applicant is qualified to vote.

Curiously, the threat of further court action is being used as an argument both for and against ratification of the amendment.

Sponsors contend the change in the state's organic law is necessary to give the county boards more uniform and higher standards and a choice of questionnaires to keep prospective voters from memorizing them, and to protect registrars from damage suits.

If the state board grades the questionnaires with no knowledge of race, they reason, there can be no question of discrimination; consequently, county boards would be less liable for personal damage.

Opponents say they are fearful that the amendment would give the federal courts a legal foot-in-the-door to put all 67 county registration boards in Alabama under injunction at one time. They base that contention on the fact that county boards would depend on the new state agency for their questionnaires.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. in Montgomery, who enjoined the registration authorities from discriminating against Negroes in rural Macon and Bullock counties, prohibited those boards from changing the present questionnaire or even rearranging the order of the questions.

He may invoke the same restriction when he rules after June 1 in a similar suit against the Montgomery County board.

Silver Anniversary Celebrated By Chatham Book Club Members

The members of the Chatham Book Club gathered at the home of Mrs. R. H. Evans, 614 Oak Street, Tuesday night at 6:30 for a buffet dinner in celebration of their Silver Anniversary.

Joining the group were Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, club sponsor, Mrs. Harvey Clayton, a former member of the club, and Mrs. Florence Markle, both of Wilson.

The Evans home was festive with profusions of jonquils and camellias, setting the tone for a gay, happy occasion.

Upon arrival of the group, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. L. T. Shotwell and Mrs. J. Bryan Brown, the committee in charge of arrangements, served tomato juice with accompaniments.

The club members and guests were invited into the dining room where they served themselves from an appointed table. Silver candelabra with yellow tapers on either side of a massive arrangement of jonquils centered the dining table, across which was a ribbon streamer with the inscription, "Silver Anniversary 1937-1962," in silver.

The guests found their places in the den where three round tables, each seating six, were overlaid with green linen cloths. Clustered in the center of the tables were camellia corsages for each one present. Places were marked by large white paper napkins bearing the inscription, "Chatham Club 1937-1962," in silver.

Following the three course dinner, the hostess removed the tables and the group settled for an evening of fun.

Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, club president, greeted everyone present, paying special tribute to Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, club sponsor. She dispensed with the usual routine business but called for a report of the nominating committee. Mrs. R. W. Stark, chairman, reported the following slate of officers for 1962-1963: Mrs. P. B. Upchurch, president; Mrs. P. A. Bendall, vice president; Mrs. R. H. Evans, secretary; and Mrs. E. Lee Moore, treasurer and librarian.

Mrs. Upchurch read her list of committees for next year.

Mrs. Ruffin turned the meeting over to the hostess, Mrs. Evans, who was in charge of the program for the evening.

Mrs. W. P. Moore, a charter member of the club, delved into the minutes of the past 25 years and, scanning the scrapbooks, gave events and important happenings of the Chatham Club.

The club was organized April 16, 1937 at the home of Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, who has continued as sponsor. The name Chatham was chosen as an appropriate name for the club. The club motto, "While We Live, Let Us Live to Some Purpose," colors green and gold, and flower jonquil, were adapted.

As Mrs. Moore reviewed a number of highlights of the club and the part it has played in the civic and cultural life of the community, it was evident that the members had lived up to its motto.

Mrs. Evans, who had read the Reflector microfilms at Sheppard Memorial Library, told of a few of the things that were happening in the community 25 years ago.

Shirley Temple was making the headlines in the movies. East Carolina College was asking for a yearly appropriation of $220,000. The Greenville schools were operating only eight months a year. Oysters were selling for 39c a quart and butter was only 39c a pound. Sirloin steak was 22½ cents a pound and hamburger only 15c. Tobacco averaged $23.60 per hundred pounds.

Each member had been asked to bring her photograph of 25 years ago. These had been numbered and Mrs. Evans passed them around for each one to be identified. This brought forth much mirth. When the final results were tallied, it was found that Mrs. Kittrell had the best score, having failed to identify only one of the Chatham "girls."

Mrs. Ruffin presented Mrs. Kittrell, from the club members, a gift of appreciation, an individual silver casserole. Mrs. Kittrell, in turn, presented to the club a book, "The Outer Banks," by David Stick. She thought this significant because the club had been inspired to have for its first study, North Carolina history. She expressed her thoughts through the reading of an original poem.

Greetings were read from the End of the Century Club and from Mrs. N. S. Beard, Mrs. Earl Forbes and Mrs. William Tyson, former members. Mrs. C. E. Blair sent the club a new gavel with "Chatham Club 1937-1962" inscribed on a silver band.

In closing the program, Dr. Elizabeth Utterback offered an original toast to the Chatham Club.

Dr. Rives Speaker At Clio Book Club

Dr. Ralph Rives, faculty member of East Carolina College, spoke to the members of the Clio Book Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson in Brookgreen.

Dr. Rives has been recently honored with an invitation to visit England this summer for a series of lectures under the auspices of the British-American Associate for the primary purpose of promoting good relations between the English-speaking people of the world. He chose for his subject "The Years Between World War I and World War II," one of the proposed lectures he will use while away. He began his talk with 1913 "when the boys came marching home" and the year Woodrow Wilson hoped this war would end all wars. Low morale and physical scars existed everywhere and powerful countries in Europe destroyed.

Dr. Rives related all historical events, the League of Nations, the elections and platforms of the presidents and reforms. Americans were fatigued from war and sought gaiety, placing emphasis on youth. The "twenties" were marked as "the lost generation"; bathing suits were rather riske', dresses were above the knees; light stockings replaced dark brown and black ones; the Gibson girls changed to the sophisticated, the flapper and the career girl; speakeasies replaced the old saloons and the Shimmy, the Charleston and Black Bottom were the rage.

The speaker mentioned plays, songs, books and inventions and, in so doing, captivated his audience for so many remembered those pleasant years as well as the sad ones. Then came the "early thirties," which ushered in the unforgettable depression, the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the birth of W. P.A., C.C.C. and many others. Then, on Sunday afternoon on Dec. 7, 1941 the radio was interrupted by the startling news of Pearl Harbor. Again, America was at war! But America met its challenge valiantly as always.

Miss Agnes Fullilove, newly-elected president, presided over a short business meeting.

Mrs. Wilkerson, assisted by Mrs. W. S. Bost and Mrs. Jesse Moye, served chicken salad with party accompaniments and coffee followed by an assortment of sweets and nuts.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. A. C. Dacons of Monroe, Ga. and Mrs. Steve Bartlett of this city.

Personal

Mrs. Ed Batchelor has returned from Pitt Memorial Hospital where she has recently been a patient.

Council Of Garden Clubs Nominations Announced

Executive board members of the Greenville Council of Garden Clubs enjoyed a special treat Wednesday at their bi-monthly business meeting.

Mrs. Harry Billica showed color slides of the standard flower show which was held here March 14. These were taken by Dr Sam White, and the Council is most grateful for his time and talent. The slides now belong to the Council, and are available to all member clubs for future programs and study.

Mrs. R. P. Heller, Council president, called on Mrs. P. L. Goodson, Jr., nominating committee chairman. She presented the following slate of officers for next year:

President, Mrs. John Grier, Elmhurst; Vice-President, Mrs. Roger Mann, Dig and Delve; Treasurer, Mrs. Howard Mims, Forest Hills; Publicity, Mrs. Joe Miller, Greenville; Advisor, Mrs. R. P. Heller, Lakewood Pines.

The Brookgreen club will provide next year's secretary,, but as yet she has not been selected.

The Council is interested in the formation of new garden clubs in the city. As the new sub-developments grow it is likely that several more clubs will be organized. One of the functions of the Council is to lend assistance and encouragement to these new groups.

The annual Fine Arts Festival will be held April 28-May 5. The Festival will open April 28 with a luncheon in South Dining Hall at East Carolina College at 12:45. Mrs. Elizabeth Coker, author, will be guest speaker. The public is invited. Another highlight of the week will be the Sidewalk Art Show May 3. The six Greenville garden clubs will provide fresh flower arrangements for the Art Center during that week.

The following committee was appointed to work with Mr Kenneth Beatty, Director of Public Works, concerning the landscaping of the Elm Street median: Mrs. Howard Moye, Chairman, Mrs. John Grier, Mrs. O. W. Coefield.

Snorer Puts It On Tape

AP Newsfeatures

If your husband insists he doesn't snore, let him prove it.

Mrs. Don Fitch of New Haven, Conn., insisted her husband was a heavy snorer. He disagreed.

One day he decided to put an end to the controversy by showing his wife that she exaggerated his nocturnal rumblings. He put a tape recorded at his bedside, and fell off in a sound sleep.

The playback was a revelation to Fitch, who now has 1½ hours of snoring time recorded.

The experiment proved to be an entertaining one, also. The Fitches use the tape recording to amuse their friends.

"It never fails to get a party off to a good start," says Fitch.

Twist Accessories

PARIS—(WNS)—Twist accessories are the new craze among the young French twisters.

Very Charleston and very 1925, they include beads, drop earrings and pendants that flip and fly, swing and sway, jump and jerk, and twist and tease when you move energetically.

They are worn with dresses cut with flares that fling as you move and "flying" skirts that fly through the air with the greatest of tease.

"It's a tumultuous fashion, a perfect expression of our time," enthused Left Bank twist stylist Martine Saval. "The dance, the accessories, the gowns and the girls are all calculated to cause as much tumult as possible."

Don't let bangs or an on-the-face hair style interfere with thorough face-washing. Either tie your hair back, or slip on a shower cap to make sure that your entire face is exposed to those cleansing soapsuds.

THE PRODUCTION of "Guys and Dolls" on the East Carolina College campus continues to draw full houses with each performance seemingly gaining in momentum. Proceeds from the final performance on Saturday night will be given by the Student Government Association to the Ficklen Stadium Fund. Above is the fabulous "crap-shooting" scene in the last act of Damon Runyon's story. The musical production is given a big lift by the 23-piece orchestra which backs up the chorus and songs such as "Bushel and a Peck" by Adelaide; "I'll Know" by Sarah and Sky; and "Sit Down You're Rockin' the Boat" sung by Nicely-Nicely Johnson and the male chorus.

FAMILY DINNER

Ever use a standard meat mixture, extended with rolled oats, to make miniature loaves?

Miniature Bacon Meat Loaves
Baked Potatoes Broccoli
Stewed Tomatoes Bread Tray
Frosted Cake Beverage

MINIATURE BACON MEAT LOAVES

2 eggs
2-3 cup milk
1½ pounds ground beef chuck
3-4 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup (1 small) minced onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
8 slices bacon

In a medium mixing bow, beat the eggs until yolks and whites are combined; add milk and beat to combine. Add beef, oats, salt, pepper, onion and mustard. Mix well with a mixing fork or your hands; chill so mixture will get firmer, if necessary, for shaping. Shape into 8 small oval loaves. Wrap a bacon slice around the crosswise center of each loaf; secure with toothpicks. Place loaves in a shallow baking pan leaving space between each. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 35 to 45 minutes — bacon should be pretty well crisped. Makes 8 servings.

Youth Nite Feature At Mt. Pleasant

Sunday night at 7:30 is Youth Night at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church. A special feature in the evening service is a program, "The Effect of the Church," to be presented by the Junior High Class of the Sunday school under the direction of Mrs. Linwood Harris. Members of the class who will be participating are: Larry Godwin, Billy Kelly, Sidney Scott, Harold Barnes, Ethel Hulon, and Frances Powell. Following this program the minister will bring the youth sermon, "About Faces." As he brings the message, he will draw the different kinds of faces which a minister can see in a church.

Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Grace Free Will Baptist Church met at the church Monday night. The president, Mrs. Lois Wagner, welcomed the members and visitors.

The meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Norris. Several of the ladies had parts in the program. The program was centered around the Cross. Mrs. Lois Wagner, president, presided over the business session. Report from our penny a meal for missions, G.T.A.'s, B.A.'s and other committees were made. At the conclusion of business session, Mrs. Kennedy gave the closing prayer.

An Extra Effort By Our Doctors

Most people, when they are feeling ill, seek out a physician for advice and treatment.

And most people go to the doctor with the idea of following his advice or the treatment he prescribes—even though it may not be what they expect or hope for—because they have confidence that he knows better than they what is wrong with them and what may be done to cure the ailment.

The Pitt County Medical and Dental Society has undertaken sponsorship of a countywide tetanus immunization program in order to provide the largest possible number of local citizens protection against tetanus. The doctors are putting forth an effort to set up numerous clinics throughout the county to make the immunization shots available to the people.

We may be sure that the doctors are not undertaking this additional chore just because they will enjoy poking needles into thousands of arms in a few days. They aren't looking for something extra to do, for most of them already find their days and nights filled with their normal work routine.

They have undertaken this effort because they feel that with public cooperation this innoculation program can do a great deal to prevent sickness among the residents of Pitt. It is something they feel is needed in Pitt County, and they are seeking to fill the need by taking the program to the people.

The success of the program will depend upon the public response.

Many Pitt Countians probably don't relish the idea of taking a shot when there is nothing wrong with them. But most of them recognize the wisdom of following "doctors' orders".

We urge the citizens of the county to cooperate with the Medical and Dental Society in making this program successful. It can be successful only if the people of the county take the tetanus immunizations the doctors have asked them to.

Discretion Of Board Queried

By LYNN NISBET

BARBERS — The State Board of Barber Examiners is being brought into court by a Greensboro man seeking a license to operate a barber school. R. P. Julian, a veteran of 20 years as a barber, claims that the board acted arbitrarily and discriminated against him in refusing to grant a license to operate a school for training barbers. He appealed the board's decision to Wake county superior court, and this week Judge Heman Clark ruled that the matter did not come within the purview of the courts, but that relief sought would have to be obtained through legislative or administrative channels. Julian gave notice of appeal to the Superior Court.

Julian charges the board has acted arbitrarily and unfairly in declining to give him the examination required of applicants for teacher license, but board members stated that there was no need for additional barber schools. To combat that, Julian says no new school has been established in 28 years, that existing schools have waiting lists of six to ten months, and that when news that he was asking for a license was published he received dozens of student applications.

He contends his educational qualifications cannot be challenged. He holds an AB degree from Elon College, has just about earned a law degree from a college in Alabama, and has a practicing barber license in North Carolina, and both a practicing and teaching license in Maryland.

This is not the first time the barber board has been in court. Two or three examining and licensing boards have been ruled out by the Supreme Court — dry cleaners, photographers and real estate — but the approach in this instance is different. It is the discretion rather than the authority of the board that is challenged.

SCHOOL BOARDS — The anomalous status of the county boards of education in North Carolina is much in evidence right now. There is great interest manifested in almost every county in membership on the board of education. Candidates are filing to participate in the primary and in some instances real campaigns are underway. Yet the members of the county boards are not elected by the people. They are appointed by the General Assembly.

Candidates file and campaign in the primary just like they do for county commissioner or the Legislature and are voted upon in the primary the same way. But that ends the elective process for them. The other nominees have their names on the ballot in the November election and the people choose whether they want Democrat or Republican officers. The primary results on board of education voting goes to the General Assembly as information and recommendation only. In most instances the legislators respect the wishes of the voters and appoint the persons receiving the highest number of votes. But they are not bound by law to do so.

ELECTION — Theoretically, county education boards are appointed by the whole Legislature. Actually, of course, they are named by the one to five legislators from the affected county. The practice is bad; the theory is very good.

The public school system is basically a function of State government, as distinguished from matters which the county commissioners deal with affecting only one count. That is justification for state selection rather than county election of school boards.

NO DELAY — Road contractors have complained about the slowness with which the highway commission gets out results of bid lettings and awarding of contracts. They can't quarrel with the record this week. The commission opened bids on nearly four million dollars worth of construction work Tuesday morning. Wednesday morning bids were accepted and contracts awarded for all but two of the projects involved. Chief Engineer Lee said the action was speeded so that contractors would have advantage of good weather for completion of the work.

BUDGETS — Most of the State agencies, departments and institutions are getting their "A" budgets for the next biennium into the hands of the budget officers. The "A" budget, as most people know by now, is the amount estimated to be required to hold the line, to maintain service at its present level for the next two years. Its preparation is fairly easy. Budget officers are gratified that all agencies seem determined to hold this amount to the barest minimum.

The "B" budget is a different matter. This is where the needs for new and expanded services are listed. This is the area that reflects progress and growth. The "B" budgets are not in, but will be within a few weeks. Officials are expected to anticipate conditions and needs as far ahead as June 30, 1965.

If some of the increased requests for funds seem fantastic, just remember that it is a three year projection — in an era when conditions undergo complete revolution in a few months.

Entirely Proper That A Review Be Sought

It is entirely proper that the Pitt Greenville Airport Commission petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for a review of its decision in the Piedmont Airlines case which denied commercial air service recommended for a joint Wilson-Greenville airport.

Certainly the Wilson-Greenville petition for joint service presented sufficient data to show that air service to this immediate area is justified. The CAB examiner who gathered information on air service needs in Eastern North Carolina recommended that service be included for a Wilson-Greenville joint airport. There was the further factor of the policy statement by the CAB and the FAA asserting that joint service for use of several cities would be given consideration by their bodies.

Whether the CAB will give favorable consideration to the Wilson-Greenville case in a review of the situation is a moot question. Even so, it appears evident that the petition for air service is justified and the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission would not be carrying out its duties if it did not exhaust every possibility for obtaining this service before it gives up.

Information presented in the initial petition of this joint air service proposal justified the allotment of service, and certainly the area needs commercial air service if it is to realize its development potential.

The Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission is to be commended on its action calling for a review by the CAB of its recent decision.

Human Side Of High Tribunal

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has an Olympian air about it: nine justices, dressed in black, sitting in a row behind a high bench in a marble palace, dispensing wisdom.

What makes them human is what made Zeus look human: it's the scrapes they get into. They not only get attacked from the outside but from inside by one another.

The court has just emerged from a decade of major decisions and tremendous criticism. And now, because of a ruling this week, new criticism is beginning.

This was last Monday's decision that federal courts have a right to step in if states refuse to give their citizens fair representation in state legislatures.

This will affect politicians and, to no one's surprise, politicians are already screaming.

The criticism may chill the court a while, as criticism in the past seems to have done, but this won't deter the court from getting into new controversy later.

President Jackson got into a dispute with the court in 1833 when it told Georgia not to try to take over Cherokee Indian land. Georgia defied the court. Jackson, sympathetic to Georgia, told the court to try to carry out its decree itself.

And the court brought the House down on its head in 1857 when it said, in the Dred Scott case, Congress couldn't outlaw slavery in the territories.

But the biggest head-on clash came in the 1930s when the highly conservative court, which President Franklin D. Roosevelt said was living in the horse and buggy days, ruled against one piece of New Deal legislation after another.

Roosevelt focused so much national attention on the justices, particularly when he tried to add new ones to the court, that the nine men may have been rendered self-conscious.

At any rate, thereafter they began approving Roosevelt's legislation.

The South is still denouncing the court for its 1954 decision outlawing segregation in public schools. But all these events involved criticism of the court from the outside.

Disputes among the justices themselves on their decisions—and biting criticism of one another because of them—has been going on a long time.

None of them was more scathing than Justice Felix Frankfurter who disagreed with the majority this week on the legislative representation case. He didn't think the court should get this deeply into political problems.

But Frankfurter has a long record of sounding off when he disagrees with his fellow justices, even though, like a phonograph record someone forgot to turn off, he repeats himself even to using the same words.

Last week, for instance, he accused the majority with which he disagreed of "asserting a destructively novel judicial power." Back on Feb. 7, 1944, in another disagreement, he accused the justices with whom he disagreed of "resorting gratuitously" to a "wholly novel doctrine of constitutional law."

Frankfurter was used here as an example of in-court fighting not because he's the only one who does it but only because he consistently seems to be the shrillest. Yet he has been through some of the most far-reaching moments in the history of the court.

It was in the 1950s that criticism really piled up on the justices, not only for their desegregation order on public schools, but for their decisions on Communist activities.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BE CAREFUL OF ITS USE

"I resent that."

"Oh, you do, eh?" Have you ever stopped to think what resentment is? Old Dr. Samuel Johnson whose wisdom illuminated the eighteenth century declared that resentment is "a union of sorrow and malignity." The word itself is derived from a Latin word which means "to feel." On the whole the word has unpleasant connotations. When we utter it there arises before our minds avision of angry eyes, tense features, clenched fists.

But resentment, like most other factors of life, has a function to perform and only becomes unpleasant or harmful if it gets out of hand. If we can confront tyranny or injustice without resentment, then our souls are indeed dead. If we can see cruelty being practiced upon our fellows and not resent it, then the good God has indeed forsaken us. We all need to have a spirit of resentment. There are times when the cheek needs to flame with anger. There are moments when silence is betrayal.

Again and again we need to remind ourselves that every factor in life has some use but that everything can be overdone or misused. The Bible does not forbid us to be angry. Its counsel is "Be angry and sin not." Resentment, which so easily gets out of control, can be our ally if we wish it so to be.

Use but not abuse. Passion turned into channels of purpose. In this direction lies life. After this fashion we build with purpose.

Backyard Garden Time

If this is the season for renewed activity on the farm front (and it is), it is likewise the time for home gardeners to launch upon those labors sometimes crowned by a veritable cornucopia accompanied by a feeling of deep satisfaction.

Win, lose or draw, the backyard agriculturalist finds a degree of contentment. His field is unencumbered by allotments, quotas, measuring, grading, surpluses and price supports.

He is a free agent, free to grow whatsoever his heart desires, be it broccoli, squash, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, corn, potatoes, six different kinds of beans, cabbages, parsnips, carrots, radishes, beets, collards and callouses. There is no one to say him nay.

As long as he (and sometimes, she) has the time and energy, the equipment and know-how, the backyard garden provides plenty of opportunity for investing those assets.

Sometimes the rewards are remarkable.

Even if the weather conditions prove unfavorable, or insects gain the upper hand, or the final product only remotely resembles illustrations on the seed packet, the gardener can knowingly tick off his troubles and look to his next venture with some degree of optimism.

He has found some measure of reward in the satisfaction of working in what is probably the oldest science known to man. Otherwise idle hours were filled with activity; nervous tensions found a release, energies were devoted to meeting a challenge.

My neighbor, a man of vast energies, has his small garden patch in a beautiful state of preparedness. By summer those few square feet will be, as in the past, a model of what most amateur gardeners strive for. Barring one of nature's more exteme blows that plot will have a remarkable yield.

By contrast, our 1961 patch has been consigned to grass. Experience has proven I am much more adept at writing about gardens (twice a year) than working in one.

The asparagus bed, last spring's tiny venture into the unknown, is being kept.

Knowing nothing about asparagus except that it is good eating, the writer planted three very short rows. This spring produced the first shoots; and if what I'm told is true, asparagus looks after itself once it gets a good start. On that basis, we'll keep that bed.

Otherwise, for me . . . a big yard, a few flowers, a few bushes, a few trees, two children and one dog . . . after-work hours can be full ones without a garden.

Other Editors Saying . . . Support For Schools

(Kinston Free Press)

Governor Terry Sanford's current tour of the public schools provides a three-way emphasis on what is required to assure excellence in public education. His appearance at the schools in this area has resulted in a grateful response from the rank and file and the two rallies here Tuesday night were no exception to the rule.

The first major emphasis is that of the increased investment by the State in public education. The three percent sales tax on food imposed last summer provides some $25,000,000 in additional revenue per annum for increased pay for teachers, reduction of classroom loads, clerical personnel and other improvements.

The second emphasis comes in the realm of unfinished business. There is no community in the State that we know of which has no further needs in the realm of educational improvement. The Governor's visit merely accentuates these needs and reminds local leaders of their responsibility in meeting them.

The final emphasis deals with the intangible asset of public support and pride in education in general. There isn't a taxpayer in North Carolina or the Nation for that matter who does not appreciate the fact that education is far more advanced today than in his own school days. He is proud to be able to send his children to better schools than he attended. The hope is that such provision will lead to better trained citizenry for every aspect of life in our democratic society.

The result of such a threefold emphasis is to remind North Carolinians that there is no special season for educational support. It is a constant and continuing thing. The outlook for the future is for an even greater investment of taxes, time and interest if we make our schools second to none in the Nation, which is the Governor's goal for this decade. But it also reminds us that all Tar Heels in this Century have been conscious of education's vital role in development of our State and Nation.

To continue that support in this and future generations is in reality the best way we can show our appreciation for men like Governor Aycock, Edwin Aldermen, Dr. J. Y. Joyner and other pioneers who gave us the, initial impetus some 60 years ago. Thus Governor Sanford seeks to stimulate and to expand the desire for educational excellence which has been imbedded in the minds of the people for two generations.

Must Absorb Cubans

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A mother telephones:

"My son was one of those in the Bay of Pigs. He is now in prison. Castro will kill him. We need $2,000,000 to exchange tractors for lives. Will you help?"

Who can answer this plea? Who knows how to reach the heart of a Communist? We permit Americans to rot in Chinese prison because we know no way to get them out. How can we do anything for the Cubans whom we abandoned to a cruel death in the Bay of Pigs? Shall we blame ourselves? Shall we blame them? Shall we merely say that some live and some die?

Each week, nearly 2,000 Cuban refugees arrive in Miami. There are all sorts of schemes to help them. Some of the schemes are feasible, some fade from the memory of their authors. What is most important is to educate those who need to continue their schooling and to provide Cuban schools for the very young.

But will these refugees ever be able to return to Cuba or will they become elements in the American melting pot? Rich and cultured Cubans have lost all their possessions. Some have already reestablished themselves in the United States; others face all the problems and difficulties of refugees.

But when the men who went to fight for Cuban freedom in the Bay of Pigs are murdered by Castro, who will speak in their memory? Perhaps a memorial to them will be erected in Miami, but a mother asks: "Can you help?" And one does not know how to help.

As it appears at this moment, the Cuban refugees in the United States are not likely to go back to their homes any more than the Russian or Hungarian or Polish refugees have been able to return to their homes. Nothing short of war will solve the Cuban problem any more than 40 years of talk wiped out Communism in Soviet Russia.

The refugee problem is one of resettlement. They cannot all crowd into Miami, which has no industry for them. They need to find work in all parts of the United States so that they are not ghettoized as the Puerto Ricans have been in New York City. Whatever skills they possess should become a valuable asset to the United States Resettlement is the approach to this problem by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, but such a program will be resisted on the very ancient sociologic truism that birds of a feather flock together, which the professors call "community of kind."

The reason that we have ghettos in our large cities is that people of a kind in the first generation like to live together because they speak the same language, are accustomed to their own particular foods, like to see familiar faces on the streets and in movies, and hate to be ridiculed by those who came before. In the third generation, the ghetto begins to break down. And these erstwhile newcomers look down upon still more recent immigrants. It is surprising how many Italo-Americans do not know a word of Italian and that many children of Jewish parents speak not a word of Yiddish.

Resettlement takes time and patience and in a country where unemployment is the principal social problem, there will be resistance to giving the newer refugees jobs. Our labor unions are not always without discriminatory practices. Nevertheless, over the years, those discriminated against break through to get the jobs and even to hold positions in the unions and then they, in turn, discriminate against newcomers. And so the wheel goes round, but meanwhile human beings suffer.

The question also arises as to how many people this country can hold. Our population will soon reach 200,000,000 in 4,000,00 square miles of territory. The racial composition of our people grows constantly different and more mixed. Anglo-Saxon traditions disappear and not only have Eastern European traditions and habits infiltrated, but Latin, Asiatic and African concepts of life have become part of the American amalgam.

In half a century, this will give us a totally new American

Points Of Value To Retailers

By ELMER ROESSNER

Eighty-five ways by which department and specialty stores can meet discount competition are offered by J. Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Merchants Association in the current issue of the association's magazine "Stores."

It's no secret that discounters have been giving department stores a hard time. By eliminating, or charging extra for delivery, credit, refunds and other services, discounters have been able to undersell other stores. In fact, there are now about 1,500 discount stores in the United States, so many that they are giving one another a hard time.

Mr. Dakin's 85 points are too long to be reprinted here, but there is space to record those that may be of more general use.

HINTS FOR ALL

The following suggestions may be useful not only to department store managements but to executives of other stores as well, including discount houses.

- Examine price lines by departments and be strong in your best selling lines.
- Check the amount of your paper work. Is it absolutely necessary?
- Mechanize where you can.
- Build customers' confidence in you.
- Stand by manufacturers' guarantees.
- Play up your brand names.
- Establish strong cost controls.
- Make yours a friendly store
- Through your buying office, pool your buying power with others for lower cost of volume purchases.
- Don't try to meet all competition; meet it on identical items.

KEEP CREDIT CLEAN

- Maintain a top credit rating with your suppliers. In periods of scarcity, or for close-outs, this will be remembered.
- Seek better discount terms, dating and F.O.B. store delivery.
- Convert to check-out selling where possible.
- Lengthen store hours.
- Never advertise merchandise unless you have an adequate supply to meet the demand.
- Merchandise trade-ins.
- Train salespeople to explain to customers what the difference in prices represents.
- Display prominently your best selling items with informative signs.

Those points should benefit a hardware store, a toy factory or almost every other kind of business as well as a department store across the street from a discount house.

Mr. Dakin had one point of value largely to department stores: When a discount house is about to move into your area, shop other units of the discounter to determine the featured promotional items, then offer them at the same or lower prices before the discounter opens.

BEAUTYREST CIRCUIT ATTRACTS PERFORMERS

Motels are now adding floor shows, Variety reports. Some motels on the outskirts of big cities figure their guests may go into town to spend money at night clubs and entertainment spots that might just as well be kept down on the farm—or what used to be a farm.

Some are adding variety acts to attract daytime business from the surrounding area. Dozens of large, luxury motels run elaborate lounges and dinner spots with top entertainers. Vaudeville isn't dead; it lives on in television, in night clubs, in hotels and, now, in motels.

STATE CIGARETTE TAXES DEDUCTIBLE IN CALIFORNIA

California has joined the list of states which levies its cigarette tax on the customer instead of the distributor. This makes the tax deductible in calculating Federal income taxes.

Christ, Center of Faith

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Timothy.

Paul, writing to Timothy, confesses that he was once, as a Pharisee, a persecutor of Christians a blasphemer, and injurious, although he "did it ignorantly in unbelief."—I Timothy 1:12-13.

He gives thanks that he received God's mercy through the faith and love of Jesus, who "came into the world to save sinners." In saving him, He provided an example to believe in.—I Timothy 14-17.

God wants all men to be saved, he says. "For there is one God, one Mediator also between God and men, Himself man, Christ Jesus, Who gave Himself a ransom for all."—I Timothy 2:3-6.

Paul urges Timothy to shun such temptations as a love of money, and to "follow after righteousness" and "lay hold on the life eternal."—I Timothy 6:11-12.

Christ, Center of Our Faith

HOW THE APOSTLE PAUL WRITES TO TIMOTHY CONCERNING THE SALVATION PROVIDED FOR US IN CHRIST

Scripture—I Timothy

By N. SPEER JONES

WITH THIS LESSON we begin the second quarter of our studies, entitled "Letters of Faith, Counsel, and Courage."

The letter assigned for today, Paul's first letter to Timothy, concerns itself primarily with the practical conduct and organization of a church; the great apostle Paul is instructing his spiritual son, Timothy, in the things he must know to carry on Paul's great work of organizing Christian churches.

Much of the letter comprises specific, practical rules and suggestions for Timothy, such as the choosing of church officers and the conduct which he, as a young man, must have toward the various members of his congregation — the elderly, the widows, etc.

In addition, however, we find many passages of Paul's deep, basic philosophy, which centers on his concept of Christ. In a very real sense, Christ has been the bridge between Paul and his God.

Paul, you remember, was formerly a Pharisee — one of those legalistically minded Jews whom Christ rightly criticized for their concentration on the letter of the law, rather than on its core of godliness. Paul, as a zealous and fiery member of this sect, had once been a great persecutor of the very Christians he was now leading.

This was an experience Paul was never able to forget or forgive himself for completely, even though he "obtained mercy, because (he) did it ignorantly in unbelief." (I Timothy 1:12-13.) He considers himself a "chief sinner," still. (I Timothy 1:15).

Likewise, Paul never forgot that despite this persecution he instigated, Christ "counted (him) faithful" and appointed him to His service. Through God's limitless faith and love, which flowed through His Son to Paul, he found his salvation.

Often in Paul's letters we find the word "grace" — considered by some authorities to be the greatest word in the New Testament. As Kenneth Wuest says (in "Peloubet's Select Notes," pp. 113-114), ". . . grace is love in action, and therefore includes it."

From grace stem both faith and love. William Hendriksen ("Peloubet's," p. 115) reminds us that "faith and love" is a favorite phrase of Paul's. "With him grace is ever the root, faith and love are the trunk, and good works are the fruit of the tree of salvation." When Paul speaks of the "faith and love which is in Christ Jesus" (I Timothy 1:-14) he means they are centered in Him.

Paul considers that his salvation was wrought not only for his own benefit, but so that through it others might see an example of Christ's "longsuffering," and would "thereafter believe on Him unto eternal life." (I Timothy 1:16).

Paul uses the word "mediator" to describe Christ — "one mediator . . . between God and men," Who removed the contention between God and man by personally making reparation on the cross for the wrongs of mankind, and restoring harmony between them. In order to be this, Christ had to be both man and God.

No wonder Paul exhorts Timothy—and all of us—to "lay hold on the life eternal, where unto thou wast called." (I Timothy 6:12).

Dallas Pastor To Be At Special Services

The Reverend Thomas A. Fry Jr., D.D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Dallas, Texas, will be the guest speaker for the "Week of Spiritual Enrichment" to be held at the First Presbyterian Church, April 1-5. The special services will begin with the regular Sunday morning worship at 11:00 o'clock, and continue each evening through Thursday at 8:00 o'clock.

Dr. Fry has served as pastor of three prominent and influential churches—in Bristol, Tennessee, Atlanta, Georgia, and now in The First Presbyterian Church of Dallas, one of the leading churches in the nation. Earlier pastorates include Blackstone, Virginia, and Red Springs, North Carolina. In addition to his pastoral ministry, Dr. Fry has made contributions to his denomination through serving on the General Council of the Church and other committees. In 1952 King College conferred on him the honorary "D.D." degree.

Reared in Decatur, Georgia, Dr. Fry attended Georgia Tech for two years before transferring to Davidson College, from which he was graduated in 1940. He received his ministerial training at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia graduating in 1943. He later earned the Master of Theology degree from that same institution. He is married to the former Louise Sullivan, also of Decatur, and they have two sons, Tom and Charlie.

The Reverend Richard Gammon, pastor of the host church, has expressed particular pleasure in securing Dr. Fry for these services, as the two ministers are close friends. The friendship began at Davidson; at Seminary they were roommates; later each was a groomsman at the other's wedding and through the years have kept in close touch.

Musical Guild Suspends Singer

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Guild of Musical Artists has suspended Italian soprano Antonietta Stella from singing in this country for one year, it was disclosed Thursday night.

The guild found her guilty of breach of contract with the Metropolitan Opera.

The dispute occurred in April 1960, after Miss Stella had sung leading roles at the Met for two years. She canceled her final performances and left the company's tour. Then she returned to Italy and sang nine performances at La Scala during a six-week period starting April 19.

The Met accused her of canceling her performances here under false pretense and filed a complaint with the guild. She had complained of a physical ailment.

PLEASANT HILL CHURCH REVIVAL BEGINS APRIL 1

characteristic. Those who refuse to recognize the nature of this change, do not understand what is happening in their world and those who try to resist this assimilation are bound to fail now as such resistance has always failed throughout history.

These are among the major problems of resettlement. The alternative is genocide.

Bucs Defeat Ithaca 12-2 In Opener

PIRATE SENIORS . . . Left to right are catcher Charlie Johnson, pitchers Nathan Greene and Earl Boykin, and second baseman Spencer Gaylord along with ECC Baseball Coach Jim Mallory (kneeling). All four boys are seniors. Greene and Gaylord played in yesterday's opener and Boykin was expected to pitch today.

East Carolina's defending NAIA National baseball champions won their opening game of the 1962 season yesterday when two homeruns out of the park accounted for five runs in their 12-2 win over Ithaca College.

The game was scoreless in the third until the Pirates' veteran righthander, Merrill Bynum, slammed the ball deep into centerfield for a double with the bases loaded bringing in Carlton Barnes, Nathan Greene and Lacy West for three runs.

The next batter for the Bucs, Tom Kidd, knocked a homerun out of the park between left and centerfield bringing in Bynum and adding two more runs to East Carolina's tally, making the score 5-0 as the fourth inning got underway.

The next scoring for the Pirates came in the sixth frame on a homerun over the leftfield fence by Bobby Joyce bringing in Kidd off third and Green from second.

Ithaca failed to score until the eighth frame when Wanderway connected for his only hit of the contest, a double, bringing in Monje for Ithaca's first run of the afternoon. The next batter, Ed Farquhar, hit a grounder down the third baseline for a single, bringing in Wanderway. These were the only two runs for the visiting nine.

East Carolina wasted no time in increasing their lead over Ithaca in the bottom of the eighth when C. Barnes hit a high fly against the centerfield fence with the bases loaded. Barnes got a double and Joe Edwards, Buddy Wyatt and Spencer Gaylord got home safe. Edwards and Wyatt were both walked by Lindomer and Gaylord hit a single to the shortstop on an error.

Lacy West, following C. Barnes at the plate, slammed a long one into the leftfield fence for a double bringing in Barnes from second for the final East Carolina run making the score 12-2.

In the top of the ninth, with West on the mound for the Pirates, East Carolina succeeded in putting out three men in a row to end the game.

Coach Jim Mallory used three pitchers during the contest. Greene went the first four innings, followed by Pete Barnes for the next four. West came in to finish up the contest.

Greene allowed no runs, four hits and walked three. Barnes allowed two earned runs, five hits and walked none. West allowed no runs, no hits and walked none.

Ithaca also used three pitchers during the game. Roger Frieze allowed five earned runs, four hits and walked two. Darling, huring three and a half innings for Ithaca, allowed three earned runs, four hits and walked one. Lindomer, pitching the last two innings, allowed four runs, two hits and walked three. Three of the four runs were earned. The unearned run came when the Ithaca rightfielder made an error in the eighth frame.

Both teams struck out three men during the game. The two clubs were scheduled to meet again today. Tomorrow afternoon East Carolina will host Wake Forest.

Virginia Bows To Yale 9-7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sophomore - studded Virginia, whose coach hopes experience comes with time, was to play its second baseball game against Rutgers today after learning its first lesson the hard way Thursday by losing to Yale 9-7.

Coach Jim West's pre-season view of Virginia's future this season in the Atlantic Coast Conference was full of those all-important "ifs."

"As the season goes on and we get some game experiences behind our sophomores," West said, "We'll win some ball games if the pitchers come through. If everyone develops like I think they will, we'll have a good year and will be able to make it tough for everyone."

Virginia was the third ACC club to bow to the touring Bulldogs. Yale beat Duke and North Carolina, but lost to Wake Forest and N.C. State.

In other games today Virginia Tech was at North Carolina, Syracuse was at Maryland, Duke was to play again in the Rollins, Fla., Tournament and Clemson was at Florida State.

In Thursday's games which 11 innings, Yale used two walks, two singles and a double to earn two runs that spoiled the Cavaliers' debut.

In the Rollins tournament, Duke trimmed Amherst 5-4 to tie the Massachusetts team for top honors in the tournament. The Blue Devils have a 3-2 record.

Saturday, Virginia Tech is at North Carolina, Duke plays again in the Rollins tournament, Clemson is at Florida State and Wake Forest visits East Carolina.

Steve Barber Is The Key To Baltimore's Chances

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The key to the Baltimore Orioles pennant chances in the 1962 baseball campaign could rest in the hand of Steve Barber—to Uncle Sam just a private, but to American League Hitters "the pitcher they least like to hit against."

The unqualified praise for Barber, 23, a left-hander who was the Orioles' top winner last year with 18 victories, comes from the observations of Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees. Barber has made every effort to make it stick this spring.

On Furlough, Barber took the mound for the second time Thursday and allowed St. Louis only two scratch infield singles in a six-inning stint, striking out two while walking none in the Orioles' 7-2 exhibition victory at Miami.

It was the second outstanding performance for Barber, now in only his third season in the big leagues. He checked Detroit on a bad-hop single in a three-inning outing a week ago and has allowed just one earned run in nine innings.

Barber will be sprung from his Army post to pitch for the Orioles on weekends during the regular season.

In other Florida games, Cincinnati walloped Philadelphia 15-6 at Clearwater, Minnesota beat Detroit 7-4 at Lakeland, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings at Vero Beach, Milwaukee defeated the New York Mets 6-2 at St. Petersburg, Chicago's White Sox walloped Pittsburg 11-5 at Sarasota and Kansas City bopped Washington 6-1 at West Palm Beach.

Boston whipped San Francisco 4-2 at Scottsdale, Ariz., the Chicago Cubs nipped Houston 7-5 at Mesa, Ariz., and the Los Angeles Angels knocked off Cleveland 7-4 at Palm Springs, Calif., with favorite fan former President Dwight D. Eisenhower looking on.

Three-run homers by Gordon Coleman and Jerry Lynch powered the Reds to their win over the Phils, who got a three-run circuit shot from Roy Sievers.

The Dodgers won it in the 10th when Lee Walls doubled home Wally Moon with the deciding run after the Yankees had lost an early lead built on Mickey Mantle's two-run homer and John Blanchard's two RBI. The Braves snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth to clip the Mets as rookie Mack Jones knocked in Eddie Mathews with a triple.

The Chicago White Sox pounded the Pirates' Bob Friend for seven hits and eight runs in the first inning for all the runs they needed. Dale Long hit his seventh homer for the Senators, but that was all they got against the A's as Jerry Walker, Dan Pfister and Dave Wickersham combined to fashion a seven-hitter.

The Red Sox beat the Giants with Frank Malzone accounting for three RBI with a homer and two singles. Outfielder George Altman stroked three singles and added a two-run homer, his sixth this spring, that brought in the Cubs' winning runs in the sixth inning against the Colts.

Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, who has 309 lifetime victories, also leads the National League's pitchers with 195 lifetime defeats.

Farrier Leading Azalea By One

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Old campaigner Jim Ferrier, 47, recaptured the putting wizardry of his balmier days and nursed a one-stroke lead going into today's second round of the Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

Ferrier, back on the tour for about a year after six years as a Hollywood, Calif., club pro, put together nines of 35-32, with the aid of seven birdies, to lead his four nearest rivals in the field of 135 Thursday.

Big Jim's 67, five under par for the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, put him one ahead of Gary Player, the youthful South African who defends his Masters title at Augusta, Ga., next week; Jay Herbert, stylist from Miami, Fla.; Dave Hill of Denver and Tom Nieporte of Locust Valley, N.Y.

Back in 1947 when Ferrier, a native of Australia, won the U.S. PGA title, he was known as a fine putter. Ferrier canned three putts of 18 to 20 feet and three more from eight feet Thursday to take command in a field of 135 in this $20,000, 72-hole tournament.

All told, 25 men shattered par and 10 more equaled it under near perfect conditions — warm and sunny with just an occasional midafternoon breeze.

Sharing sixth place, two strokes off the lead at 69, were Jim Riggins, former touring pro now stationed at Goldsboro, N.C.; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla.; Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and Sam Love, rookie pro from Shreveport, La.

Tied for the amateur lead at 72 were Ed Justa, Rocky Mount, N.C. and Leon Crump of Charlotte. Ferrier said, "I'm not hitting the ball as far as I once did, but I'm hitting it straighter. I missed only two greens. It's good to be back on tour."

Nieporte, 15 years younger than Ferrier, is giving up the touring life to settle down to a new club assignment at Piping Rock, Long Island. He, too, wielded a hot putter in his last tournament fling. Nieporte, winner here two years ago, but without a victory since, rolled in three putts of 10 to 15 feet and twice chipped in for birdies.

Player, nearing the top of his form; hit the ball exceptionally well and used only 26 putts.

Hill, with a pair of 34s, played steady golf unmarred by a bogey and listed a 45-foot birdie putt among his accomplishments.

All told, 25 men shattered par and 10 more equalled it under near perfect conditions — warm and sunny with just an occasional mid-afternoon breeze.

'Kid' Paret Remains In A Moderate Coma

NEW YORK (AP) — Former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret remained in a moderate coma, his condition still critical, today while his mother prepared to fly here from Cuba to be at his bedside.

Arrangements were completed Thursday night in Havana for Paret's mother, Mrs. Maxima Crespo, to fly to Miami sometime today. Mrs. Crespo, who speaks no English, said she had no funds to continue on to New York but was confident she would get here.

"My place is beside my son," she said, after bitterly denouncing boxing as "a question of animals" and complaining that Paret's manager, Manny Alfaro, did not notify her of her son's condition until Monday — two days after he was savagely beaten in a title bout with Emile Griffith.

Mrs. Crespo said she believed her son would recover. "I have delivered (my hopes) to the great power of God," she said.

Thursday night's hospital bulletin said, "There has been no change in the condition of Paret throughout the day. He continues in moderate coma. He is being maintained under hypotermia. His general systemnic condition remains good."

Foyt Wins Top Auto Money

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A. J. Foyt Jr., the handsome young man in the flying autos, was well paid for winning his second straight big car championship last year.

The United States Auto Club completed its tally of 1961 race statistics today and reported the 27-year-old Houston driver won purses totaling a record $171,760.

He drove three different kinds of race cars — championship, sprint and midget — in almost 50 races. His only mishap was getting a black eye from a flying stone in an August race at Langhorne, Pa.

Foyt picked up $153,168 on the championship circuit, $13,595 in sprints and $4,997 in the midgets.

Although Foyt probably got to keep only 45 to 50 per cent when he was driving somebody else's car, as he did most of the time, he had his own vehicle in the sprints.

In addition to taking the Indianapolis 500 at a record speed, Foyt won championship races at Langhorn; Duquoin, Ill., and the Indiana State Fairgrounds.

Eddie Sachs, Boyertown, Pa., had the second-high total of USAC purses with $80,064.

Many Names Figure In Court Appointment

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was believed today to have practically made up his mind on a Supreme Court appointee to succeed retiring Justice Charles Evans Whittaker. But he kept his own counsel amid a swirl of speculation.

The many names figuring in the guesswork included two Cabinet members — Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff, 51, former governor of Connecticut, and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, 53, of Chicago.

Ribicoff once served as a police court judge in Hartford. Goldberg has had no judicial experience, although he has practiced law extensively, especially in the labor field.

In announcing Whittaker's retirement because of physical exhaustion, Kennedy said Thursday he would name a successor shortly. This was taken to mean he had someone in mind, because it takes time to winnow possibilities.

Some lawyers speculated that since Kennedy has an eye to history, he might name a legal luminary such as:

1. Paul Abraham Freund, 54, law professor and legal historian at Harvard, author of "On Understanding the Supreme Court," and other works about the high tribunal. Kennedy is reported to have offered him the post of solicitor general at the start of the administration but Freund is said to have turned it down. Archibald Cox is now solicitor general.

2. Eugene Victor Rostow, 48, lawyer-economist, dean of the Yale Law School and brother of Walt Whitman Rostow, chairman of the State Department's policy planning council.

Some thought that Kennedy might name a Negro to the Supreme Court for the first time, but others felt he would wait until later before taking this historic step.

In case he decides to take it now, a name prominently mentioned is William Henry Hastie, 57, former governor of the Virgin Islands and since 1947 judge of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, with headquarters at Philadelphia.

Another Negro figuring in the guessing game is Thurgood Marshall, 53, of New York City. As chief counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, he was a leader in the legal fight that led to the Supreme ourt's decision against school segregation.

Kennedy gave Marshall a recess appointment last October to the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals, with headquarters in New York. His short tenure on this bench, plus the fact that the Senate has not yet taken up his nomination, might work against his elevation.

As for Ribicoff, he is reported to have told friends he does not expect to get a Supreme Court appointment at this time. Anyway, he is an all but declared candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination from Connecticut, and might find it difficult to change pace now.

Goldberg has so impressed Kennedy with his work on labor-management disputes, and otherwise, that the President might want to keep him in the Cabinet.

Prof. Freund has long been talked up as a successor to Justice Felix Frankfurther when the latter leaves the Supreme Court. However, Frankfurther at 79 displays undiminished zest for his work and gives no sign of retiring.

Since Freund now lives in Massachusetts, as did Frankfurter before he came to Washington, geographical considerations could militate against his appointment now. This might also be the case with another possibility, Solicitor General Cox, 49, also of the Bay State.

However, Freund was born and went to college in St. Louis, so Missouri might rightfully claim him as its son. And Cox was born in Plainfield, N.J.

If geography is a big factor, which it sometimes is not, Kennedy might want to tab somebody from well west of the Mississippi, since Whittaker hails from Kansas City, Mo.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, 42, an Arizonan, was getting some mention. So also was Byron R. (Whizzer) White of Colorado.

White, 44, one-time All America halfback at the University of Colorado, Phi Beta Kappa and Rhodes scholar, is now deputy attorney general. As such, he has an important part in picking federal judges.

Last month White had a bit of an argument with attorney Bernard G. Segal of Philadelphia, who as chairman of the judiciary committee of the American Bar Association helps the Justice Department screen judgeship possibilities.

Segal said that as of Feb. 19, Kennedy had appointed Democrats to 82 out of 85 judgeship vacancies, and that this created an imbalance. White replied that Kennedy made selections on the basis of ability, not politics.

The capital is watching to see how the forthcoming appointment affects the so-called conservative-liberal division of the Supreme Court. Individual members at times shift from one bloc to another. But so far as any such division can be figured out in loose designations, Whittaker tended to vote with the more conservative bloc—often composed also of Justices Frankfurter, Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart.

A Spade Is A Spade To Movie Reviewer

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "How come they call it 'The Children's Hour' and then say it's not for children?"

This was the perplexed question of my 10-year-old as she searched for a movie to see at the Saturday matinee. Perplexity is compounded on the part of many parents who don't follow the movies enough to know what films are suitable for tender eyes.

Readers of the California Parent-Teachers magazine are never in doubt, thanks to a remarkable reviewer named Ruth B. Hedges. She has never been reluctant to call a spade a spade, or a turkey what it is.

Here are some of Mrs. Hedges' recent decisions:

"The Children's Hour"—"Distasteful."

"Sergeants 3"—"Waste of time and money."

"The Three Stooges Meet Hercules" — "Waste of time and money."

"A Walk on the Wild Side"—"Trash."

"Too Late Blues"—"Distasteful trash."

"Lover Come Back"—"Sophisticated trash."

Obviously these comments don't have the same ring as the ones you see quoted in the movie ads. But Mrs. Hedges' criticisms are quoted in California P-TA meetings (1962 membership: 2 million). And she says there is increasing evidence that her views are being heeded by parents, if not movie producers.

"I am getting a tremendous reaction from parents," says Mrs. Hedges. "People are beginning to give a great deal of thought about the kind of movies their children are being exposed to."

Mrs. Hedges also finds some films to enthuse about. Almost all of the Disney product gets a boost, and she has also given endorsement of such films as "A Majority of One," "Second Time Around," "Light in the Piazza," "Errand Boy," "King of Kings," "Flower Drum Song," "The Outsider" and "Question 7."

Mrs. Hedges, a Los Angeles mother of a grown daughter, is herself exposed to more than 200 films a year, all kinds. That's easier than a decade or so ago, when she had to review 300 to 400 films from Hollywood. She has been reviewing for 30 years, having first become interested in visual education studies when studying teaching in Oklahoma.

All This, In Busy Four Hours

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Police reported Johnny Ellis, 34, of Lookout Mountain did all this in a busy four hours Thursday night:

Went to jail charged with drunkenness.

Went to a hospital for treatment of a headcut.

Overpowered a hospital orderly and escaped.

Held up a liquor store attendant across town and took $46.

Backed out the door of the store into the open arms of a detective.

Went back to jail charged with armed robbery.

First Lady Enjoyed Trip, But Rather JFK Along

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy says her journey through the storied lands of India and Pakistan was fascinating and valuable—but she'd rather go abroad with her husband next time.

President Kennedy, proud and beaming, welcomed the First Lady home Thursday night from her 16,000pmile, semi-official tour. When the family plane, "Caroline," taxied to a halt at Washington National Airport, Kennedy hurried up the ramp to greet his wife inside.

A few minutes later, the smiling First Lady emerged. An airport crowd of about 200 applauded as Mrs. Kennedy, wearing a black suit, walked down the stairs. The President followed, hat in hand.

As she winged homeward from London aboard a commercial jet airliner, Mrs. Kennedy said the kindness shown her abroad "was because I was the wife of the President — so the people were showing this affection for him and he should have been there to receive it."

The 20-day tour took Mrs. Kennedy to Rome, for an audience with Pope John XXIII; through India, where she viewed the Taj Mahal by day and moonlight and cruised the Ganges River to the holy Hindu city of Banares; to Pakistan, where she saw the fabled Khyber Pass and was given a thoroughbred horse named Sardar; and London, where she had lunch with Queen Elizabeth.

It was, Mrs. Kennedy said, "The most fascinating experience imaginable." But she said it didn't seem natural to make such a trip without the President. And she added she belongs at home with her family.

That's where she went Thursday night, after a brief hello at the airport to U.S., Indian and Pakistani diplomats on hand to greet her. J. Kenneth Galbraith, U.S. Ambassador to India, gave the First Lady a kiss on the cheek.

Smiling broadly, the President and his lady drove back to the White House for Mrs. Kennedy's reunion with the children, 4-year-old Caroline and John Jr., 16 months.

Mrs. Kennedy made her homecoming statement aboard the flight from London to New York, where the Caroline was waiting to take her to Washington. A reporter asked: "Would you like to make a trip like this again?" And Mrs. Kennedy gave a written reply.

"I would not have missed one second of it," she said. "However, it feels unnatural for me to go on such a long semiofficial trip without my husband. I have missed my family and have no desire to be a public personality on my own."

Mrs. Kennedy, who made the tour with her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, said, "We will never forget all the people who were so kind to us, but our husbands were the kindest of all for letting us go."

"It was an unusual trip because it was neither official nor private," she said. "The reason it happened is because my husband knew how much I had always longed to see India and Pakistan. This was my only chance so I'm grateful to him—and to my brother-in-law (Prince Stanislas Radziwill)—for letting us, two sisters, be away from home where we belong for so long.

"They were wise," she added, "because it has taught us so much, our lives and our thoughts will have been enriched and deepened by this experience."

Social Security Office Has New Contact Set-up

Greenville's new Social Security district office has announced a new contact station schedule to become effective April 1.

Icen Wilson, district manager, said the new schedule is necessary since the Greenville office is now responsible for counties formerly served by three different offices. Some counties, he said, will continue to be serviced on the same days and with the same frequency as previously by the Rocky Mount, New Bern or Norfolk district offices.

The schedule:

Pitt County—served by Greenville office at 814 W. Fifth St. Office hours are from 8:45 a. m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Beaufort County—contact station in City Hall courtroom, Washington, N. C., Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Hyde County—contact station is courthouse, Swanquarter, second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 9:30 a.m.

Martin County — contact station at courthouse, Williamston, each Thursday at 9:30 a. m.

Bertie County—contact station in courthouse, Windsor, each Monday at 10 a.m.

Washington County — contact station at courthouse, Plymouth, three Wednesdays each month, following first, second and third Tuesdays, at 9:30 a. m.

Tyrrell County—contact station at agriculture building, Columbia, first and third Tuesdays of each month at 11 a.m.

Chowan County — contact station Employment Security Commission office, Citizens Bank Building, Edenton, each Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

'Parent Trap' Sold Popcorn

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The film "The Parent Trap" inspired more popcorn sales than any other movie last year, popcorn tycoon Jim Blevins announced.

Blevins, who keeps close tab on national theater popcorn sales, annually awards a "popscar" to the movie personality who inspires the most munching by movie audiences. This year Hayley Mills and Maureen O'Hara will each receive the bronze statue plus their weight in popcorn, Blevins said Thursday night.

SCS SUPERVISORS

Pitt County's Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisor Board has scheduled its regular April meeting for 1:30 p.m. Monday in the offices of the Soil Conservation Service in the Pitt County Office Building on Johnston Street, Greenville.

A New JOHN CREASEY Thriller

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

Published by arrangement with Harold Ober Associates; Copyright © 1958, 1962, by John Creasey; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 29

"Switch on that tape recorder before Mr. Wedlake arrives," Richard Rollison told his man Jolly. "Keep a door ajar, and be at hand in case you think it would be wiser to have you around. No, I do not necessarily suspect Mr. Wedlake," went on Rollison, grinning, "but I don't like him much. All right, Jolly, thanks."

He stood up in turn, as Jolly pressed a switch on the trophy wall, which connected to a microphone hidden inside a mask which the Toff had acquired in one of his cases. As Jolly turned away, the telephone bell rang.

"I'll answer it," Rollison said, and picked up the receiver. "Rollison," he announced, and heard Superintendent Grice's voice at the other end of the wire.

"Now I really have news for you," Grice said, quietly. "We've had a message from the New York police, who want us to pick up a certain Maurice Holmes for murder."

"Murder!" Rollison exclaimed.

"That's it," Grice declared. "An engineer working for Malling Motors' chief distributors in New York. They've sent cabled fingerprints, and they're identical with some found on Holmes' briefcase."

"Well, what do you know," said Rollison, heavily. "Thanks, Bill. Anything else?"

"No," said Grice. "I must get off, now, I've a lot to do. But I thought this might interest you."

"Interest," echoed Rollison, and then heard the front door bell ring. "I'll be seeing you," he said, and rang off as Jolly came into the room.

"If that is Mr. Wedlake, he is one minute early," Jolly announced, and moved towards the door.

"Make sure it is Wedlake," Rollison advised, "I don't want any more surprises in this case."

Jolly stepped into the lounge hall, and Rollison hesitated, wished he had a little time to breathe, then followed his man and glanced up at a periscope mirror which was fixed close to the ceiling, and betrayed anyone standing outside the front door. This was a notion of Jolly's, and had the purpose of making sure that they could not be caught by surprise.

Wedlake was there.

Three well-dressed men, two elderly and one young, were with him.

Rollison stared, and Jolly stared—and Rollison thought: "Morehead, Assen, and Bailey, the three millionaire investors in Malling Motors." Then he saw Jolly look at him in consternation, and realized that Jolly was horrified because such guests as these should be received in a dressing gown.

"Two minutes," Rollison breathed.

"Very good, sir," Jolly whispered back.

For his man's sake, Rollison slid into his bedroom, slipped into a white shirt and a dark suit, and within two and a half minutes he was dressed. During his lightning change he heard Jolly talking respectfully.

There was nothing abnormal about Jolly, who had firm democratic principles, but there was no doubt that his attitude to millionaires was not quite the same as it was to lesser mortals. And Jolly was a specialist with an almost inexhaustible knowledge of Mayfair society and the city's tycoons; he would have recognized at least two of the men on sight.

Rollison wondered what these men would say if he calmly announced Grice's news, but he did not try to find out.

Wedlake was the largest of the four visitors. He wore a dinner jacket which was slightly too small for him, and his face was very red, his bulging neck even redder.

Sir Mortimer Bailey was elderly, grey-haired, tall, painfully slim, with a nose and mouth which seemed to be set in a continual sniff. He was neatly dressed in a dinner suit of a style thirty years old.

Simon Assen was an older man still, in his seventies although he might have passed for fifty-five. He had made most of his money prospecting for uranium and oil, fifteen years ago, and looked rugged enough to fit the part, with close cropped iron grey hair, a hard, tough-looking brown face, thin lips, a body which still seemed to be in perfect trim.

Morhead was very different from either of his companions—he looked forty, but was in fact thirty. He had inherited not only twenty million pounds but also his father's capacity for doubling money almost overnight; according to report there was no richer man in the British Commonwealth.

All three of these men had the reputation, too, of being very mean indeed with their money.

Wedlake greeted hoarsely: "Here you are, Rollison. I want you to meet. . ." he named the men one after the other.

Rollison gave them a kind of communal bow, a wave and a smile, and asked: "What will you have to drink, gentlemen?"

Each man named his drink, Jolly moved to the open cocktail cabinet to serve them. Morhead and Assen studied the trophy wall, and only Wedlake and Bailey appeared not to take any notice of it.

"Rollison, I've brought the Rocket's financial backers along to re-emphasize the vital importance of finding out who's behind this sabotage," Wedlake declared. His manner seemed even more aggressive and almost overbearing; had he seen the glance Jolly gave him, even he might have toned it down. "Everyone here stands to lose a fortune if we don't find out who's behind this soon, and if we don't make sure that the Rocket is kept secret until we're able to release it in large quantities. Isn't that so, gentlemen?"

"It is indeed," said Bailey, and he rubbed his thin, cold-looking hands.

"Sure is," declared Assen.

"I would go as far as to say that it is absolutely essential to find out the truth of what is happening quickly," Morhead said. He would always be a little too self-assured, a little too inclined to believe that millions made masters. "Mr. Wedlake informs us that he has offered you the sum of ten thousand pounds to ensure obtaining the solution quickly. He has our authority to double that sum."

Rollison said: "Generous of you." He paused as Jolly handed the drinks round.

"Do you know anything else about our problem yet?" demanded Wedlake.

"A little."

"Have you any idea who is behind it?"

"No," answered Rollison. "Quite honestly, no. But inspiration has been known to dawn. Tell me—"

"It is extremely urgent," Morhead declared. "Have you dropped everything else and concentrated on this? I could lose a fortune if anyone else learns that secret."

"Ah," said Rollison softly, and his lips tightened. "That would be a great pity. One young woman has had the life choked out of her in this affair already. Another was saved from death by sheer chance. Another man might die before the night's out. I'm much more interested in trying to make sure that such things don't happen again than I am in saving you your fortune, Mr. Morhead."

Morhead looked utterly taken aback. Wedlake actually opened his mouth in protest, but Assen gave a broad grin, and said: "That's what I like, straight talk! We don't care what your motives are, Mr. Rollison. All we want is to stop this leakage."

"Have you been trying to buy Scotland Yard?" Rollison has to ask his four guests. Continue the story tomorrow.

Alive Despite Razor, Bullets, Sleeping Pills

OCEAN RIDGE, Fla. (AP)—"I already shot myself twice, but the bullets did not penetrate. I am trying to use a razor blade but it is too dull. I can't find a sharp one. I am taking this half bottle of sleeping pills."

Police found that note in the trailer home where Mae Morgan, 86, lived alone. A neighbor discovered Mrs. Morgan lying on a couch Wednesday, a .22-caliber pistol, some razor blades and an empty pill bottle nearby.

Mrs. Morgan's condition remained critical today.

A doctor said he found what could be a bullet wound in the roof of Mrs. Morgan's mouth. No razor slashes were found.

Police said Mrs. Morgan had told neighbors she was unhappy and had nothing to live for.

The long, thin cigars known as "stogies" got their name because they were designed for the needs of the Conestoga, Pa., wagon drivers who wanted a large inexpensive cigar.

Kluxers Barred From Mountain

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The chairman of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association says the Ku Klux Klan will not be allowed to burn any crosses atop the granite mountain northeast of Atlanta.

The Klan had announced plans to stage a cross-burning rally there while the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is in convention here July 2-8.

The mountain used to be private property and was a favorite cross-burning site during the klan's heyday. But the state now owns Stone Mountain, and memorial chairman Matt L. McWhorter said Thursday, "We have not permitted any meetings of that kind and do not intend to."

COMMISSIONERS MEET

New Testament Published With Pictures, Maps

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The New Testament is now being published with pictures on every page.

It looks very much like a magazine. Pages are 8¼ by 11 inches, with a slick, heavy paper cover. Price is $1. But this is no magazine, no collection of Biblical stories for children. It is the entire New Testament, King James version, with 566 black and white photographs, nine maps and six diagrams.

In keeping with the present trend to make the Bible a book to be read and understood as well as owned, the American Bible Society is making an important contribution with this "New Testament with Pictures." They also are publishing it in Spanish, the second most-used language in this country.

The Gospel of St. Luke, for example, begins with a full-page picture of a boat on the Sea of Galilee. The second page contains a map of Palestine in the time of Christ and short discussions of the history and geography of Palestine and Jerusalem.

"These pictures make Christ's world live for children," says Dr. Gilbert Darlington, consultant to the society.

On the page with the parable oft he sower, there is a picture of a man sowing seed. It shows the man's clothing. How his head is protected from the sun, how he carries the seed, his method of scattering the seed, how the ground has been prepared and the topography of adjoining land. On a page which contains both Jesus' teachings about paying tribute to Caesar and the widow's mite, there are representations of three Roman coins translated in the Bible as pence and two referred to as mites.

Another point besides the pictures is the method in which the Scripture is presented. It is written in paragraphs, and in sections according to subject.

An index to the illustrations is a quick guide to both pictures and text. Passages illustrated are actually on the same page as the illustration. And the subject titles make verses easy to find.

Glum View Of Peace Outlook

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — "I have spent several years of my life studying the history of disarmament and it is gloomy reading, indeed, for a lover of peace."

The speaker was Dr. James Pinney Baxter III, former Williams College president and now senior fellow of the Council on Foreign Relations.

He delivered the annual Weil Lecture Thursday night at the University of North Carolina, warning his audience that the United States must constantly keep up its nuclear guard.

Continuing on the prospects of nuclear disarmament, he said, "It is not difficult to get the powers to rule out a weapon that holds little hope of a large military payoff, but it is quite another thing to rule out one that does."

Baxter said, "Our nuclear strength must be sufficiently large that the enemy would no risk a sneak attack." Deterrence of full-scale war, he continued "depends on what the enemy thinks about our second-strike ability."

Actor Sought, Mother Ailing

SAN DIEGO, Calif. AP) — Actor Van Johnson's mother has suffered a stroke and is in critical condition at Mercy Hospital.

Loretto Neumann, 70, was found lying helpless in her home Tuesday by a telephone repairman. Her telephone receiver had been knocked off the hook, evidently when she reached for it to call for help.

Doctors said the stroke resulted from a heart condition. Attendants said her condition had changed little since she was hospitalized.

Johnson's whereabouts weren't known. His mother sued him for support in 1954 and was granted $400 a month. Johnson said then that his parents were divorced when he was 3 and he lived thereafter with his father. He said he became reacquainted with his mother in 1946 and had given her $70,000 since then.

BIG DIFFERENCE!
When you kill soil insects with aldrin

You can see the difference at harvest when you knock out soil insects with aldrin. Aldrin kills rootworms, wireworms, seed corn maggots and other soil insects for an entire season.

And it's easy to use as a spray or granules, or mixed with fertilizer. All methods give you effective control. And it's economical—mere ounces per acre is all you need.

Get bigger profits this season—knock out soil insects with aldrin.

GROUNDBREAKING for a new sanctuary for Grace Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville was accomplished Sunday afternoon. Above is the pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy and a group of youngsters with their hands on the shovel that broke ground for the building. The new structure is planned to measure 60 by 135 feet with nursery, balcony, choir room, pastor's study and baptistry. Estimated seating capacity will be about 1,000 when complete. A large crowd was in attendance for the groundbreaking.

described property has been seized for nonpayment of delinquent internal revenue taxes due from W. Lloyd and Ella Mae Winslow, 1807 Greenville Blvd., Greenville, N. C. The property will be sold in accordance with the provisions of Section 6335 of the Internal Revenue Code, and the regulations thereunder, at public auction on the 12th day of April, 1962, at 11:00 a.m. at Pitt County Courthouse, East steps, Greenville, N. C.

Description of property: That certain lot or parcel of land lying and being situate in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina and more fully described as follows:

Beginning at a stake in the northern right-of-way of the truck lane connecting N. C. Highway No. 43 and U.S. Highway No. 264 (said truck lane being now designated as U.S. No. 264), said stake being located S. 83-45 E., 220 feet from the southwest corner of the O. S. Kittrell property and the southeast corner of the A. R. Barrett property, running thence, N. 7-45 E., 200 feet to a stake; thence running almost parallel with the aforesaid truck lane, S. 83-45 E., 100 feet to a stake; thence parallel with the first line, S. 7-45 W., 196 feet to a stake in the northern right-of-way of the aforesaid truck lane; thence with the northern right-of-way of said truck lane, N. 86 W., 100 feet to the point of beginning, and being a part of the property described in that certain deed from L. S. Hardee et ux. Addie L. Hardee, to O. S. Kittrell et ux., Effie C. Kittrell by Deed of Record in Book H 27, at page 10, of the Pitt County Registry, being the identical property conveyed to O. S. Kittrell and wife, Effie C. Kittrell, to Dunn Building Supply Company, Inc., by Deed of Record in Book H 28, at page 131 of the aforesaid registry.

Only the right, title, and interest of W. Lloyd and Ella Mae Winslow in and to the property will be offered for sale.

The terms of payment will be cash.

Piedmont Airline Routes May Be Set By June 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — Piedmont Airlines said today that with skill and luck — "in roughly equal quantities" — it will have all its newly authorized routes in operation by the effective date of June 18.

The airline said in a summary of its position that its officials are hard at work on the job of adding 2,000 miles to the present 4,000-mile route.

The company said the Civil Aeronautics Board ruling of March 20 "was the most significant and far-reaching route authorization ever given Piedmont."

The CAB authorized Piedmont to add eight cities to its system: Atlanta, Baltimore, Goldsboro, N. C., Jacksonville-Cap Lejeune, N. C., Blacksburg-Radford - Pulaski, Va. — served by the New River Valley airport — Florence and Columbia, S.C., and Augusta, Ga.

The airline said that there is a good chance it will establish a maintenance base at Atlanta, and perhaps one at Baltimore, by late June.

Piedmont currently operates maintenance bases at Norfolk, Wilmington, N.C., Louisville, Cincinnati and Columbus, Roanoke, Va., Washington and Winston-Salem, N.C.

The company has 17 Martin 404 aircraft which it purchased from Trans World Airlines last fall, and eight Fairchild F27 propjet planes.

The company has estimated it may have to hire about 75 new ground employees, 40 co-pilots, and 20 more pursers. About 50 employees may have to be transferred to other communities.

In Memoriam

In memory of our mother, Mrs. Missie Moye, who passed away one year ago this month:

She walks in beauty, like the night,
Of cloudless climes and starry skies.
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes,
Thus mellowed to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

Leasing Arrangements Completed For New Motel

NEW MOTOR HOTEL . . . Similar to Towne House Motor Lodge of Greenville, scheduled for opening July 1.

Leasing arrangements were completed Wednesday for construction of a million-dollar, 120-room motel on the Silo Restaurant property in west Greenville.

The transaction's papars were filed in the Pitt County Courthouse and J. H. Arnoult Sr., vice president of Intercontinental Motels, Ltd., announced construction on the project would begin in late April.

National Associates, Inc., of Charlotte, headed by Ned Laughinghouse, will construct the new Towne House Motor Lodge, complete with a swimming pool. The new motel will be constructed in two phases of 60 rooms each. First phase will be an L-shaped arrangement with the completed project forming a U-shaped structure around the present Silo Restaurant.

Arnoult also announced that the Silo Restaurant will be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Anthony, beginning April 11, and that the restaurant will continue operation under its present name.

Owner of the new motel is J. A. Hutchinson Jr. of Thompson, Ga., who will lease the property to Intercontinental Motels for operation.

Intercontinental Motels is a publicly held corporation which operates motels in several states. Motels are now under construction in Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Pensacola, Fla. Other motels are operative in Danville and Martinsville, Va.

The new Greenville Motel will be built using a new concept in motel construction — Unitized Cellular Structure, designed and sold by National Associates, Inc., and built by Knox Homes Corp., a division of National Homes.

The motor hotel will have complete hotel services including a 24-hour switchboard, direct dialing from rooms, bonded baby sitters, limosine service, room service and courtesy coffee in all rooms.

Intercontinental Motels has plans for a total of 24 motels, making it the fourth largest motel chain on the East Coast.

Expected opening of the Greenville facility — to be operated by Towne House Motor Lodge of Greenville, Inc.—is July 1. A member of Intercontinental Motels' executive office in Martinsville will be transferred to Greenville to manage the motor hotel when it is completed.

Decor of the Greenville motel will be handled by American of Martinsville, using Fitisimo grouping in white. Architectual services are supplied by Edward K. Sheppard and Associates of Charlotte.

Present at the Wednesday transaction, in addition to Hutchinson, Arnoult, Laughinghouse and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony, were W. P. McPhilamy Jr., president of Intercontinental Motels and of Towne House Motor Lodge of Greenville, and Frank Paley, executive vice president of Intercontinental Motels. Hutchinson is vice president of Knox Homes Corp. and Laughinghouse is president of National Associates, Inc.

Jaycee Election Nominees Listed

Dr. Badger Clark and Curtis Hendrix will be opposing each other for the office of Jaycee president.

The nominations were announced by committee chairman George Coffman at last night's club meeting. The election will be held April 26.

Dr. Clark is a dentist and Hendrix is assistant cashier at State Bank and Trust Co.

Warren Whitehurst, Jack Whichard, Roy Hardee and Gilbert Hopkins were nominated for vice president, with the top two men in the voting to serve as the club's vice presidents.

Running for treasurer will be Reide Tripp and Tommy Norris. Nominated for secretary were Milton Foley and Claude Plyler. Running for state director will be Dick Greene and Carlton Taylor.

Ten Jaycees were nominated to run for the five seats open on the club's board of directors. They are: The Rev. Terry Agner, Alvin Taylor, Melvin Buck, Ray Harris, Dr. Ed Clemons, Charles Chappell, Jim Cheatham, Buddy Lee, O. J. Smith and Wyatt Tucker.

Revival To Be Held

The Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church, near Ayden, announces its Spring Revival to begin April 2. Rev. Winford Floyd of Elizabethton, Tenn. will be the evangelist. Rev. Norman W. Ard, pastor-elect of the church, will be present for these services.

There will be special music each night.

Everyone is given a cordial invitation to attend these series of meetings. A nursery for small children will accommodate parents who attend.

The Gulf Stream runs closer to the coast at Cape Hatteras than at any point north of Miami.

Greenville Native Dies In Warrenton

Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Holt, wife of Hugh W. Holt, died Thursday at her home in Warrenton.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Morton of Greenville and a native of this city.

Mrs. Holt was a graduate of Meredith and East Carolina College, and taught in the John Graham High School for a number of years. She was a member of the Memorial Baptist Church of Greenville.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home in Warrenton at 4 p.m. Friday by the Rev. John Link. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

In addition to her husband and parents, Mrs. Holt is survived by one sister, Mrs. William W. McDowell of Tarboro and one brother, W. Z. Morton Jr. of Greenville.

TO ADDRESS PTA

E. L. Kilpatrick, Pitt County sanitarian, will speak at the Simpson School P.T.A. meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Parents and other interested persons are invited to attend.

Too Busy

He awoke that morning at five, as was his custom, and in the few moments before sunrise, eyes half closed, he began to go over the projects in progress in his business which he must attend to that day.

Head upon his pillow, he checked off in his mind detail after detail, an obstacle here, a stepping stone there, a contract, a lease, a prospect, a sale, a purchase, a mortgage. Then, unaccountably, as the first rays of the sun crept over the crest of the hill outside his window, the startling thought of what would happen to his affairs if he should die at that moment hit him hard.

Beads of perspiration formed on his forehead, and he thought for a moment he might be ill. Quietly he arose and closed the door softly behind, leaving his wife sleeping. In the back room, the children began to stir as the familiar sounds of morning began, a dog barking at the milkman, the rattle of a garbage can, a chorus of sparrows in the magnolia tree.

He lit a cigarette and noticed a slight trembling of his hands. Slowly he exhaled. Walking to the kitchen, he lit the burner under coffee of the night before. As the pot warmed, he thought again of his wife. Busy from morning till night, she hadn't the slightest idea what his business was about. Four little children — all her household tasks— how could she possibly have time for anything else!

A thump of the morning paper slung on the grass brought another uproar of barking dogs, and then a yelp as the newsboy kicked one on the nose. His cup of coffee down, he felt better.

Quietly, he dressed without shaving, and decided to eat down town. The cool morning air was invigorating and dispelled some of his fears.

It was with some relief that he saw Doc at the counter, himself unshaven, after a night at the hospital. They talked quietly under the muffled roar of the gas grill and Doc told him he was working too hard. He laughed gently. That, coming from Doc! Doc had also said they both weren't as young as they used to be, and asked him casually if he had made a will. No, he hadn't. He'd been too busy. Then Doc had told him if he was too busy to make a will, he was too busy.

In the barber"s chair later, he relaxed beneath the warm face-towel, suspended in space and time in the pleasant afterglow of massaging fingers, skin tonic, and the nostalgic aroma of shaving soap. In a corner, the rythmic slap of a bootblack's cloth on leather shoes seemed far away. A radio blared, unheard. Overhead, a creaking fan droned slowly. Suddenly the chair was lifted from its horizonal position and he was abruptly jerked from his peaceful reveries. It was over now and the day must be faced.
