All About Town

With Anne Mattox

It all started approximately 30 years ago when Miss Lonnie Ellis who lives on the Tar Road planted 12 jonquil bulbs, of the Sir Watkins variety. The next year she had 17 plants to come up. From then on they multiplied and she would transplant the bulbs along with natural multiplication in the yard and along the road. She gave neighbors bulbs and they set them out in their yards and along the road banks until now it is just one massive sight of jonquils for several miles on the Tar Road.

Miss Ellis said that the jonquils have a blooming season of approximately four weeks and that this weekend would be about the peak for them.

It is a beautiful sight to see and well worth a drive out into the country for this stretch of floral beauty that grows profusely everywhere.

Miss Ellis, who lives together with her sister Mrs. R. E. Boyd and her family in their home place, the first part built in 1842, said that some years the jonquils had more foliage than blooms but this year they have the most blooms we have ever had.

If you're thinking about a drive out into the country and would like to see this stretch of floral beauty here is how you get there. Go out past the television station on South Evans Street until you come to the junction of 1700 and 1711. Take 1700 for a mile or so and that is where you see this abundance of jonquils.

Surpluses Didn't Just 'Happen'

In the discussion of how much excess material has been accumulated in the nation's strategic stockpile, we trust Congress will not overlook the all-important question of why such surpluses were accumulated.

Although Congress is disturbed because there is an excess of most items in the nation's stockpile, there would obviously be much greater concern if the government had less of any strategic material than it would need in case of emergency.

From the long range point of view the most important thing is not that we have more in the national stockpile than we need, but the question of how the stockpiling program got out of hand to bring about such a situation.

It is evident that the program has cost the taxpayers of the nation millions of dollars unnecessarily in purchase of materials over and above the amount needed. It has likewise cost the taxpayers for storage of this excess of material, and in all probability the additional cost will go higher than it is now before Uncle Sam can trim his stockpile down to size.

It will be difficult to avoid repercussions in certain categories of industry and commerce as the government seeks to dispose of its excess of strategic materials. The castor oil market probably would suffer considerably if the government suddenly dumped the $25.7 million worth of the product it does not need in the stockpile. The same would be true of the price of quartz crystals if Uncle Sam suddenly moved into the market with his surplus amounting to some $79 million worth.

The wisdom of stockpiling strategic materials is generally recognized, but the fact that the program was not carefully regulated should be disturbing to Congress and the American people. The stockpile surpluses didn't just happen. They came about either because the stockpiling plan itself was faulty, or because somewhere down the line there was not sufficient care taken to see that the program was carried out properly.

Congress should look beyond the surpluses in the strategic stockpile to determine the basic cause for their existence. Such a probe may avoid the waste of additional millions of taxpayers' dollars in future programs.

Neighboring Counties Appreciate ECC, Too

Citizens of our neighboring city of Washington this week gave another expression of their sincere interest in and support of East Carolina College.

The occasion was a "Welcome Stasavich" supper meeting arranged by several leaders in the city to honor the new football coach at East Carolina.

Although Coach Stasavich was the honored guest and much of the talk centered around football, the spirit behind the meeting indicated considerably broader interest in the welfare of East Carolina College than just its prowess on the gridiron.

Washington Mayor Tom Stewart took advantage of the opportunity to comment on the feeling of closeness which the people of his city have for the college in Greenville. Chairman Sam Moore of the Beaufort County Commissioners pointed out that East Carolina has meant a great deal to that county. Both men asserted that people of Washington and Beaufort County feel that East Carolina College is of great importance to them. Editor Ashley Futrell asserted that many young men and women in Beaufort County have received college educations because the services and facilities of East Carolina College were readily available for them.

The spirit of support and cooperation indicated by the people of Washington and Beaufort County for East Carolina College is an important factor in the growth and development of the college. It is the kind of support and cooperation on a broad geographical basis which will enable the college to reach the high goals set for it by its present leadership. It is the kind of cooperation and support from outside the community in which the college is located that is so essential to the building of a great educational institution.

The demonstration of friendship for East Carolina staged in Washington is evidence of the feeling that East Carolina is genuinely a part of the life of many communities of this section, not just Greenville.

Fronzizi Story Is An Old Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — What happened to President Arturo Fronzizi of Argentina was an old story which this time had a painful ending for the United States.

The things he tried to do—like getting deadheads off the government payroll, trying to save a bankrupt country, permitting free elections and then canceling them out—had all happened before.

And what happened to him—being thrown out by a military junta—wasn't new, either, although a bit of a shock to this country which had been banking on better relations from 1955, when Dictator Juan Peron got bounced, until 1958 when Fronzizi was elected. From then until Thursday, when he was sacked, Fronzizi went through perhaps 50 different crises.

His big mistake was in thinking he had been so successful in restoring the Argentine economy, and was so appreciated by the masses, that he could afford to take chances. Peron's strength had been in the masses to whom he gave repeated wage raises, social security and other benefits. After he was bounced, the Peronists and Communists were barred from running for office.

Fronzizi this month persuaded the military it was safe to let them return to the polls. Nine million of the 21 million Argentines voted March 18 on representatives in the General Assembly and officials in the provinces.

The result: The Peronists won 43 of the 86 assembly seats and scored a number of victories in the provinces. This meant that while the farmer might not have gotten more for his products, the price of them sold abroad was higher and made competition tougher.

He tried to get the government-owned railroads—Peron's doing—back into private hands and ran head-on into trouble with governors in the provinces.

He encouraged foreign oil companies to go into Argentina to help develop its own natural oil resources and this rekindled some of the anti-foreign feeling.

Meanwhile both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations, hoping that Argentina under Fronzizi might do all right and line up against communism, had pumped in aid.

Argentina under Fronzizi got over $400 million in American aid.

The only thing which seems sure about Argentina's future is that it is unsure.

Look for These Headlines—April 1st

By HAL BOYLE

'Ought To Keep Busy'

NEW YORK (AP) — "I feel I'm a little lazy myself," said James Stewart, "but I think a man ought to keep busy."

Although graying a bit now, Jimmy still wears the shy, deceptively easy-going air of "the boy next door" that has been his acting trade mark for a generation.

The record shows he has kept pretty busy. In addition to a series of Broadway plays, he has been in some 70 films, won an Oscar and been nominated for an Academy Award three other times.

Outside his profession, he has done everything from flying bombers in wartime to shooting tigers in India.

Currently he is a trustee of Princeton University, a member of the board of the Air Force

Association, a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve, a regional Boy Scout executive, and participates in a number of community affairs.

He also enjoys half a dozen hobbies, ranging from hunting, fishing and photography to flying his own airplane.

Jimmy came here for a little Broadway sightseeing after completing his latest film, John Ford's production of "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," in which he is costarred with John Wayne, Vera Miles and Lee Remick.

Over a huge chunk of luncheon roast beef, Stewart discussed the philosophy of living that has enabled him to stay on top in show business for so long.

"I place tremendous importance on physical health and well-being," he remarked.

"Health is the reservoir of any achievement. It is so important anyone ought to do everything he can to keep it."

Everyone pays lip-service to this goal, but how can you stay healthy in a world of deepening tensions of every kind?

Here is Jimmy's recipe: "First, exercise. Don't necessarily make a big thing of it. Just make it a part of your daily life, even if you only walk around the block."

"Second, allow for a certain amount of relaxation from your work. Do something that is completely foreign to your way of earning your living, or the needs of taking care of your family."

"Third, and this is very basic, get a real enjoyment from your work."

"A man is tremendously fortunate if he likes his work—if he is not bored with his job."

"Boredom is a terrible thing. It destroys more people than anything else. I can think of. But if you like your line of work, and try your best to be good in your job, it's unlikely you'll be bored at it."

Other Editors Saying 'Friction' And The Board

(Greensboro Daily News)

Doubtless there are more than phantom uncertainties in the overhaul of the State Board of Higher Education proposed by two committees of the Carlyle Commission, and if so they should be fully sounded out before any change is endorsed or made.

Still, the proposal to enlarge the board is not frivolously made. In the beginning the board of Higher Education was to be a referee of the "institutional imperialism" (as Major McLendon calls it) which inspires one state-supported college to poach on the assigned tasks of another.

In the mid-Fifties, for example, there was considerable talk duplicating elsewhere the Ph.D. program in liberal arts which had long existed at Chapel Hill. There may now be, as certain Raleigh interests are saying, a case for duplication of degrees at the undergraduate level—specifically a case for State College's offering B.A. degrees in the liberal arts, along with degrees in engineering and agriculture. But that is another matter, and certainly one for the Board of Higher Education to consider.

Through all this, two common sense considerations remain: As Dr. O. C. Carmichael said at Friday's Board of Higher Education meeting in Raleigh, where the matter would be a disaster if North Carolina's system of higher education languished at this crucial time, a guided hand to make sure that "gaps" are not left through which the state could dissipate its resources.

The board is needed as a co-ordinator. The question now is whether the present board is an adequate co-ordinator, and apparently many members of the Carlyle Commission are convinced that it is not.

The members of the board, all busy men and women, have other obligations and lack time for close day-to-day scrutiny of the state colleges and the Consolidated University. They sometimes find themselves at cross-purposes, if not open disagreement, with the college administrators who have that day-to-day perspective.

The proposed enlargement—which would place the Consolidated University president, one chancellor, two community college heads and two four-year college heads on the Board, along with "lay" members and private college representation—may not be perfect. But it improves on the present situation.

The college heads know their problems; and a Board of Higher Education which could thrash out differences within its own membership, then present a united front to the Legislature and the people of the state, would be infinitely more persuasive than the divided counsel that now exists. Maybe there will be "friction" within such a board, as was feared Friday. But better this friction, than friction between the board and the institutions it presides over.

Doubters on the Board of Higher Education must find better arguments than those presented Friday, if North Carolinians are to be persuaded that the Carlyle Commission committees have not hit on a sound suggestion.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS GEOGRAPHY IS SECONDARY

Many years ago James A. Garfield, who was to go down in history as one of the three martyred presidents, declared that "territory is but the body of a nation, the people who inhabit its hills and valleys are its soul, its spirit, its life."

We speak of the continent of North America as if it were a hunk of land. It is that, but it is something vastly greater. It consists of nations, and the nations are broken up into provinces and states. The breakdown becomes more significant when we get down to cities, sections, avenues. We have reached the core of the matter when we get down to the inhabitants of these areas.

A nation can indeed have a soul. In fact, if a nation does not have a soul then it is unworthy to be called a nation. We are being carried around the earth's axis at the rate of eighteen miles a minute, and around the earth's orbit at the rate of eighteen miles a second. But this movement is not end. But this movement is not end. The significant thing about our planet is that there are human beings living upon it and these human beings are created in the image of the Creator Himself.

"The people who inhabit the hills and valleys of a nation are its soul, its spirit, its life."

A nation is its people. Geography is secondary.

More Small Cars, Cut Editions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-a-heads in business, based on analyses of developing trends and sprayed with a few advance leaks.

More small cars: That Ford is planning the smallest American-made auto couldn't be hushed up. But what hasn't been told is that other makers have plans of their own. General Motors will try to undersell (if that's a word) Ford, and Rambler will not give up its present position without a competitive struggle.

More dropped editions: The bolt manne in which Curtis Publishing cut the frequency of editions of The Saturday Evening Post, The American Home and the American Home has encouraged other publishers to consider similar economies. A dozen publishers may telescope summer and Christmas editions.

INSURANCE DEALS: More insurance packages: Success of combination insurance policies in the last year has prompted almost every insurance company to study possibilities of new deals, combining protection against various kinds of hazards in single policies. Note: Insurance companies' interest in combo deals is not, repeat not, that low risks offset high risks, but that package deals tend to sell more insurance in each sale. Note: Most states require clearance of new deals, slowing down this trend. But eventually people may buy all insured protection, even including life, in single packages.

Little minor legislation: If you have a pet bill pending in Congress, forget it and start trying to get some Congressional reintroduction in 1963. Congress is in a tussle. Behind the pressure to deal with the Kennedy program, ahead are the primaries and the November elections. In consequence, very little more than must legislation will be enacted this term.

LOBBYISTS PARADE: Pressure on Congress: Despite the foregoing paragraph, Congress will be under more pressure from lobbyists than ever between now and adjournment. The Kennedy Administration has denied any anti-business bias, but the tax bill and other legislation makes business believe otherwise, and strenuous efforts will be made at this session to stem what appears to be a trend. Executives are calculating that unless they can dissuade Congress at this session, they may be powerless in succeeding sessions.

Rail consolidation: There was a strange lack of protest by the railroads against the recommendation of the Presidential Railroad Commission's recommendation that the five operating brotherhoods unite in the near future. Even if the union merger does not come off, the lines will use the recommendation as justification of their own merger. Note: Since preliminary talks must be in secret, no one knows how many rail mergers are in talk stages. But the number may be more than you think.

EVERYBODY TAKES IN SMOEDDY ELSE'S WASHINGTON: "I hope," said the Old Promoter, when he dropped in today, "that my little girl in Washington is paying her income taxes."

"No idea of what you're talking about," I said. "The government has notified all employees that if they don't pay their own income taxes, they will be fired," the Old One said. "I've calculated that my taxes are just enough to pay the salary of a sten in Washington. So if she isn't paying her taxes, whoever she is, my taxes will be in vain. I'll be supporting her, but she won't be supporting me. A messenger someplace else in Washington."

Equal Rights Myth

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It would seem that despite all the laws on the status books, women are still struggling for absolute equality with men. As a matter of fact, most men would grant them absolute equality, provided the man could get some himself. In the good old days, a man was at least allowed to believe that he was the boss of the house, but these days, no woman threatens out and gets a job, depriving the bread-earner of some family of his hereditary rights and dignities.

So I read in the newspapers that some mothers want to be astronauts, although my experience is that if two parents bring up three children and maybe a dog, they have a very tough time on their hands. This is surely true when the children reach the age of indiscretion, when they doubt whether the old-timers know what it's all about. These days a woman can so cover herself with good that it would take an X-ray to produce the truth. As to age, it is amazing what eye-shade and nail polish and a pancake finish will do to a gentle person who really has nothing to hide. And as for hair, sometimes I can hardly recognize girls I know well after they have covered themselves with dyes and sprays and the outpourings of hissing tin cans.

However, what really started me off on this delightful subject is that I have received a couple of pamphlets from Texas which show a dame with ball and chain and it really tells how tough they are down there on women. For instance, as an example of inequality, the pamphlet says:

"If your husband kills a man 'taken in adultery' with you, it's justifiable homicide. But if you kill your husband's girlfriend—that's Murder!"

As I see it, from a man's standpoint, the men in Texas must love their wives or they would not kill anyone who wants to take a wife away from a husband. On the other hand, I must say that if a husband has a "girl friend," the wife must be a nag, or a shrew, or a jealous. Otherwise, why would a comfortable, contented man do such a mean thing to his one and only?

The pamphlet also says: "A girl in Texas may legally marry at 14 years, and may marry a 16-year-old boy. Being a minor, the boy-husband cannot manage or convey his own separate property or the community property, but being a husband, he can join in the conveyance of his 14-year-old wife's separate property and pass valid title."

Where did the kids get all this property? It must clearly be the fault of the parents who are too generous. Then there are lists of things that a married woman in Texas cannot do, like, for instance, "Manage, sell or give away your own property without your husband's say-so, unless you make your assets a matter of public records," or "Go into business with your own funds without your husband's permission and signature."

As I read the two pamphlets, I wonder if any women ever got married in Texas, and as I have some friends in that state who are married and seem to be about as happy as could be, I must say that there is some kind of paradox. For instance, the Vice President Lyndon Johnson, and his Lady Bird are Texans and proud of it. They look like a delightful, up-standing pair and from what I hear Lady Bird is a smart businesswoman while the Vice President goes about politicking.

I have no desire to be an astronaut and I do not begrudge John Glenn his honors, nor does my wife who does not practice equality in our household, she being the boss. Also I have a young daughter who is the assistant boss. But my dog, Joe, is a male and he has no rights at all which is why he barks all the time. I am a hen-pecked, abused husband who is deprived of all the good things he likes to eat by a loving wife who has decided that she wants to keep him alive.

When they order a poor man to wear a blue instead of a red necktie, who has equality?

Travel Session To Be Big Day

By LYNN NISBET

BIG DAY — Next Friday, April 6, will rate as a "big day" in North Carolina. The main event will be the Regional Conference on International Travel to be held at the Queen Charlotte Hotel. This is one of six regional conferences sponsored by the United States Travel Service to promote international travel as a booster to the national economy. Similar conferences have been held in New York, San Francisco, Cheyenne and Chicago, and one is scheduled for Dallas next Monday.

The Charlotte meeting provides for the District of Columbia and the nine states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. At least half a dozen governors are expected to attend, but the program will have a distinctive Tarheel flavor. Voit Gilmore, head of the U.S. Travel Service, will be actively in charge. Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, to whose department the Travel Service is attached, will have prominent place on the program, and Governor Terry Sanford will welcome the visitors to this state.

Members of the recent travel promotion mission to Europe are expected to contribute a good deal in the way of information about what Europeans want when they visit this country and what we can do to provide the services desired. Experts from the staff of the U.S. Travel Service will discuss technical details of making entertainment plans effective.

This conference is a part of a long range program to narrow the margin between amounts of money spent by American tourists abroad and amounts spent in this country by foreign visitors. The selection of Charlotte as the place for the regional conference was largely influenced by North Carolina's forward-looking approach toward developing travel as a major industry.

COUNCIL — Immediately after adjournment of the regional conference the board of directors of the Travel Council of North Carolina will hold the organizational meeting for the 1963 activities program. T. E. (Ed) Pickard Jr., of Charlotte, will be installed as president of the Council, along with other officers and directors. He is expected to name most of his important committees and to outline the main objectives of his administration.

The fiscal year of the Travel Council begins on April 1. This will be the eighth full year of the Council's service to the travel industry. It has made many contributions, perhaps the chief one being to take the guess work out of what travel business is worth to the total economy of the state. For years there have been guesstimates on what the "tourist business" was worth to North Carolina, ranging from $250 million to nearly a billion dollars. A thorough survey made by a recognized authority in the field for the Council has established the value at around $800 million a year — with a billion dollar limit easily in sight.

From inception of the travel survey project Ed Pickard has guided it, affording him special qualifications for the office of president. Other matters to be discussed and decided at the organization meeting include the extent to which the Council will continue to participate in travel shows, hospitality seminars (commonly called "host schools") and general safety programs.

Next Friday will be a big day for travel at Charlotte.

AZALEAS — The Wilmington area is not going to let Charlotte cop all the publicity for Friday, the sixth. The far-famed azalea festival will be underway and hundreds of thousands of visitors from all over will converge on Wilmington and its adjacent beach area.

The North Carolina azalea country probably cannot justify claim as the "azalea capital of the world" as some super patriots have proclaimed. Last week at New Orleans your reporter saw signs about an azalea festival and an azalea trail that would seem to outdo Wilmington. But there is nothing in this part of the country that can compare with Wilmington in its display of multi millions of azaleas in formal gardens like Greenfield, Orton and Airlee, and millions of others growing in disordered abandon all over the countryside.

NEWSPAPERS — Getting down from the international and state levels on travel promotion, and from the ephemeral beauty of the azaleas, newspaper folks in this part of the state have another reason for putting a red line around April 6. That's the date of the meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Press Association at Goldsboro.

Then of course there are lots of other meetings scheduled for that date, which will occasion a conflict of interest among the people who would like to attend — like the engineers' fair at State College, the garden tour of homes at Winston-Salem, and many more.

East Carolina Loses To Ithaca 5-3

By CHARLES VAUGHAN
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina Pirates suffered their first defeat of the 1962 baseball campaign yesterday at the hands of Ithaca College by a score of 5-3. Frank Vandeweghe was the winning pitcher for Ithaca while East Carolina's Earl Boykin was credited with the loss.

Ithaca Scores Early
After dropping the first game of a two-game series to the Pirates on Thursday, Ithaca began to revenge their loss in the first inning of the ball game. Leadoff man, Bob Valesente, led off in his first trip to the plate to set up Ithaca's first inning score. Tom Terrania then singled into rightfield and was followed by a double off the bat of Jim Baker. Valesente scored on Baker's two-bagger to give Ithaca a 1-0 lead over the Bucs.

Boykin Faces Four
Earl Boykin, one of East Carolina's better pitchers, faced four batters in the second inning. After walking the first man, Boykin retired the next three on two infield grounders and a fly ball to centerfield. East Carolina tallied a hit in the bottom half of the inning when Junior Green singled to leftfield, but they were unable to score.

Two Runs For Ithaca
Ithaca came to life in the third inning, adding two runs on three hits. Dick Rockwell and Bob Valesente led off in the top of the third with two successive singles to centerfield. Both men scored on Ed Farquhar's single to left later in the inning. The Pirates were held hitless during the bottom half of the third inning as Ithaca pitcher Vandeweghe continued to work hard for the victory.

Vandeweghe Strikes Out Three
Ithaca College rang up another big inning in the fifth as they tallied two runs on two hits and two walks to go ahead two in the Bucs 5-0. Once again the Pirates were set down by Vandeweghe as he struck out all three of the men he faced.

double by Merrill Bynum. Lacy West gained first base on an error by Ithaca third baseman and then went on to second when the ball was overthrown at first. Bynum then stepped to the plate and sent a long fly to rightfield. The ball hit at the base of the fence and rolled under for a ground rule double scoring West. Vandeweghe then retired the next two batters to close the inning.

Pirates Tally
Both teams went scoreless in the seventh frame, however, the Pirates broke loose in the bottom of the eighth. Merrill Bynum accounted for one East Carolina run when he hit his first homerun of the season. Tom Kidd doubled to centerfield and later with two away. Junior Green walked to put Pirate base-runners on first and second. Bobby Joyce singled to leftfield and gained an RBI when Kidd scored on the hit. Buddy Wyatt kept the Bucs' hopes alive by beating out an infield hit. However, Spencer Gayland grounded out to retire the side.

In the ninth and final frame, Ithaca connected for two hits but they were unable to score. Vandeweghe retired the top of the East Carolina batting order to gain the victory.

ECU Pitchers
Earl Boykin allowed five runs, seven hits and four walks. Lacy West allowed no runs, two hits and no walks while Tom Norman allowed two walks, no runs. Frank Vandeweghe, Ithaca's only pitcher, allowed five walks, eight hits and three runs. However, one of these runs was unearned. Vandeweghe also was credited with eight strikeouts for the contest.

Phants Defeat Yellow Jackets

ELIZABETH CITY—Coach Bud Phillips' Rose High Phantoms gained their first win of the season here yesterday when they defeated the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets 6-3.

The Greenville team picked up two runs in the first frame, three in the third and one in the fifth for their winning score. The Jackets scored their only three runs of the contest in the third inning.

The winning pitchers for the Phantoms were Burney Morris and Wade Summerlin. Morris hurled the first four innings and Summerlin, a freshman, finished up the contest. Morris struck out two, walked six and allowed three hits, while Summerlin walked three, struck out two and allowed one hit.

Greenville's first two runs of the contest, in the first inning, came when Spencer Harrington got on with a single and Billy James with an error. Alan McArthur went to first which loaded the bases. Harrington went home for the first run on a bunt by Ed Smoot and McArthur was brought home on a hit by Kroghie Andersen after James was put out on second base.

In the top of the third the Phantoms managed to score three runs when McArthur, the first batter of the inning, hit a homerun. Rommie Brock got a single into rightfield. Andersen connected for the Phantoms' second homerun of the inning, bringing in Brock for the second and third runs of the inning.

In the bottom of the third, Elizabeth City matched the Greenville scoring. The Jackets' three runs came when Morris walked Jimmy Flowers and Jim Epley. The next batter, Don Matthews, got a triple scoring Flowers and Epley for two of the three runs.

Eugene Scott got a single bringing in Matthews for the third Yellow Jacket run of the game and as it turned out, the last.

The Phantoms failed to score in the fourth frame, but were able to pick up another run in the fifth. The first two fly ball batters for Greenville, Smoot and Andersen, were walked. Dale Gidley got on with a fielder's choice forcing Smoot out at third. The next batter, Bill Williamson, hit a single scoring Andersen for the Phantoms' final run.

In the final two and a half innings neither team was able to score. In the bottom of the fifth Elizabeth City put up two batters, but Summerlin struck out one, another flied out to the catcher and one was forced out on third.

In the top of the sixth the Yellow Jackets' pitcher, Ronnie Dail, hit Rodney Knowles putting him on first. But James and Brock both flied out as Smoot was put out on a throw from third to first.

In the bottom of the sixth the Phantoms took advantage of a double play when Flowers flied out to James on second and a quick throw put Glenn Sivills out at first. The third out was a fly to the catcher by Dail.

In the top of the seventh the Yellow Jackets put out Andersen on first and struck out Gidley and Williamson. The Phantoms retired three batters in a row in the bottom of the seventh to end the contest.

Daniels Will Most Likely Pitch Senators' Opener

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Determined Bennie Daniels, a 29-year-old retdread who became a winner in the majors for the first time last year, likely will get the honor of firing the first official pitch in baseball's celebrated Presidential Opener at Washington.

The strong-armed right-hander reached opening day form Friday when he became the first member of the Senators' staff to go nine innings and blanked the Kansas City A's 3-0 on a three-hitter in an exhibition at West Palm Beach.

Daniels came to the Senators from Pittsburgh after the 1960 season and became the Nats only winner in the 1961 campaign with a 12-11 record and a 3.44 earned run average.

Now in his 10th season in organized baseball, Daniels never gave up on the way to becoming a winner, reaching the majors for the first time in 1957 and hanging on with the Pirates until he was traded. His career record up to that time was an unimpressive 8-16.

But he's No. 1 with the Senators after his second fine performance in succession—he spun a three-hitter for six innings in his previous outing—and probably will be tossing the first pitch toward the plate at Washington's new D.C. Stadium, April 9.

Daniels struck out three and walked only two as he set the A's down while Dale Long furnished him with the only run he needed. Long, the leading home run hitter on the exhibition trail with seven, knocked in the Senators' first run in the first inning for his 21st RBI.

Meanwhile, Houston edged San Francisco 6-5 in 10 innings at Phoenix, and the Chicago Cubs outslugger Boston 10-8 at Scottsdale to remain in a tie for the top spot in the National League with 13-7 records. The New York Yankees, who lost to Baltimore 9-3 in a night game at Miami, lead the AL with a 14-6 mark.

In other games, Cincinnati beat Detroit 8-1 at Tampa, Chicago's White Sox edged Minnesota 6-5 at Orlando, Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 5-4 at Fort Myers, the Los Angeles Angels beat Cleveland 4-3 at Palm Springs and the New York Mets nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 10 innings at St. Petersburg.

Orlando Cepeda's fifth homer gave the Giants a 2-0 lead, but a homer barrage by the Colts put it away. Merritt Ranew connected twice, hitting the game-winner in the 10th. A 14-hit attack plus four Red Sox errors got the job done for the Cubs despite two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Carroll Hardy.

Skinny Brown and Wes Stock checked the Yankees on six hits while a two-run homer by John Boog and Earl Robinson's bases-loaded triple paced the Orioles' 12-hit offensive. Rookie Joe Gaines hit two homers and Wally Post and Don Pavletich connected once to support the seven-hit pitching of Sam Ellis and Johnny Klippstein in the Reds win over the Tigers.

Camilo Carreon, who doubled in the tying run, scored the deciding run for the White Sox in the ninth on Don Mincher's error. Bob Allison accounted for all the Twins' runs with three homers. The big blow for the Pirates was a two-run homer by Bob Clement, but the Cards' Gene Oliver took hitting honors with four hits, including a homer and triple and three RBI.

Lee Thomas and Earl Averill singled across the tying and winning runs as the Angels scored two in the ninth off Indians' reliever Art Kay to win it. Gus Bell knocked in the deciding run in the 10th for the Mets with a double after Art Mahaffey's departure. Mahaffey went nine innings, longest for the Phils this spring and

Referee Will Be On Spot Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger, the British Empire middleweight champion, and the referee will be on the spot tonight when Tiger meets hard-hitting Henry Hank of Detroit at Madison Square Garden.

Tiger, a 32-year-old Nigerian, will be risking a promised middleweight title fight against either Gene Fullmer or Terry Downes, the cochampions, in his 10-round television-ABC-TV 10 p.m. EST. bout with Hank. Tiger is the 8-5 favorite, but the odds won't help him if the stiff-punching Detroitier hits him on the button.

With the Benny Kid Paret tragedy of last week still very much in the news, the referee, who will be named at fight time, will be in the hot seat. The chances are that he will be quick to end the fight if one of the boxers is cut or jarred by a blow.

That's what wife referees and ring physicians have reacted in the past following a fight in which a boxer has been seriously injured or killed. Paret, who was battered senseless last Saturday night at the Garden, still is in a coma.

Tiger, a vastly improved fighter in the last two years, has won six straight, including four by knockouts. In his last start, he stopped the formidable Florentino Fernandez of Cuba in the sixth round. Tiger has a 44-12-2 record, including 13 knockouts. He is ranked No. 1 contender behind champion Fullmer by the NBA and No. 2 contender behind Britain's Terry Downes and Fullmer by Ring Magazine.

Hank, 27, has a 52-14-3 record, including 36 knockouts. He is ranked fourth by the NBA and fifth by Ring.

Despite Tiger's hot streak, Hank was confident of victory.

"Tiger is a cumbersome fighter and a slow thinker," he said. "He can beat the slow thinkers but when he runs up against someone as fast as me he has trouble."

"He's welcome to that thought," said Tiger. "We'll see what happens when we get into the ring. I see a chance of getting a title shot after all these years and I'm not going to lose it now."

Paret Remains In Coma Today

NEW YORK (AP)—While Benny (Kid) Paret continued to fight for his life, the bitter controversy over who was at fault in sending him into the ring against Emile Griffith continued today.

Paret, who was battered senseless just a week ago in losing his world welterweight championship to Griffith, continued in a "moderate coma," according to a hospital bulletin.

"There has been no change in his condition," the bulletin added. Meanwhile, Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro, and the New York State Athletic Commission hurled charges and counter-charges at each other.

Alfaro said he agreed to the third in the series of Paret-Griffith bouts because the commission "kept after me."

He added that he did not want Paret to fight Griffith. Paret had been knocked out by Gene Fullmer in a middleweight championship bout in December. When he was carried out of the Madison Square Garden ring after the Griffith bout, speculation immediately arose that he was back too soon after the Fullmer fight.

"I wanted him to stay out of action for another three months then fight Jorge Fernandez of Argentina," said Alfaro.

Gen. Melvin L. Kruevitch, chairman of the commission, denied exerting any pressure on Alfaro.

Paret's 56-year-old mother, Mrs. Maxima Crespo, arrived by plane from Havana Friday night and rushed to her son's bedside. She said she would remain until Paret gets well.

Mrs. Lucy Paret, the boxer's wife, who also has been maintaining a vigil at her husband's bedside, said she thought he looked "much better."

Duke Gets Only ACC Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Of five Atlantic Coast Conference baseball teams in action Friday, only Duke was able to register a victory, and the Blue Devils had to come from behind after spotting Princeton a 10-run lead.

Princeton scored its 10 runs in the first three innings, and Duke did all its scoring in the next three to win, 12-10. Merrill Ambler hit a three-run homer for the Blue Devils, who collected 14 hits off five Princeton pitchers.

Jay Hebert Holding 1-Stroke Azalea Lead

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Jay Hebert, a professional with perhaps the most mispronounced name in golf, moved into the third round of the $20,000 Azalea Open Tournament today with a one-stroke lead.

The 39-year-old Louisiana native, who pronounces his name "aye-beer," carded a 69, 3-under-par, for a 137 total to lead National Open champion Gene Littler by one stroke.

Back of them at 139 were Jim Ferrier, the first round leader, and Dave Marr, whose second round 66 was the best round of the tournament.

Tied for fifth at 140 were Dave Ragan, Mason Rudolph, and Billy Maxwell.

feet for another bird. All told, he took 30 putts, missed four greens and came up with important chip shots when they were needed to save strokes.

Jay, older brother of Lionel, said he felt his ability to play in the wind helped him vault into the lead. He conceded that he didn't particularly like to play in the wind, but that his knack of keeping the ball low on gusty days gave him an edge over many players.

He's a 39-year-old former Marine lieutenant who has been a pro 14 years, the last seven on the full pro tour.

Littler, still not satisfied with his putting (he says he's not stroking the ball firmly) shot a second round 68 for his 138 total. Veteran Jim Ferrier tied a par 72 after leading the field of 135 with a first day 67 over the Cape Fear Country Club course measuring 6,700 yards. It gave him a 139 total and a tie for third place with Dave Marr, whose 66 was the best round of the tourney. Marr shot eight birdies, two from 15 feet, as his sparkling iron play, left him six putts of six feet or less for birdies.

Sees Churches Retaining Ties

GARNER, N.C. (AP)—An appreciation of some Original Free Will Baptist churches will remain with the national association, rather than follow the state convention's exodus, has been made by a Garner minister.

A statement issued Friday by the Rev. R. Eugene Waddell, clerk of the General Conference, said each church should be free to determine by majority vote whether to follow the national or state group.

The statement also charged that at special session of the State Convention in Wilson Thursday night, "A credentials committee was authorized to keep the opposition from being seated."

It was at the meeting that the State convention voted to withdraw from the National Association of Original Free Will Baptists.

"We do not intend to be isolated from the worldwide ministry of the National Association of Original Free Will Baptists," said the statement from the Rev. Mr. Waddell.

"Certainly the majority of Original Free Will Baptists are not going to forsake the 23 Tar Heels who are working in the mission fields under sponsorship of the National Association of Original Free Will Baptists. Neither will Original Free Will Baptists disclaim the over 60 North Carolinians now enrolled at Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn.," the statement added.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials are searching for four escapees who are wearing their customary black and white attire.

The four fugitives are Humboldt penguins. They and five others made their dash for freedom Friday from the Columbus Zoo after someone left the gate to their temporary quarters ajar.

Five were captured after an all-day chase up and down the Scioto River, which borders the zoo. They were herded into a cove about two miles upstream and caught in a large dip net.

Physical Development Program For Rotarians

BETHEL—Coach Dan Wooten and Principal Walter Latham demonstrated good physical development before the local Rotary Club this week.

Participating in the demonstration were two junior boys, Phillip Michaels and Charles Whitehurst.

Good physical development was emphasized as the two boys were taken through tests by Wooten.

Both Latham and Wooten pointed out that today the nation has far too little exercise.

They made a plea for parents to give more attention to good physical development of their children urging parents to give their children activities that would require exercise.

"We have more potential in youth today than ever before, but we are not using it," said Wooten.

He told the Rotarians children are being termed "invalids" due to the three weaknesses of soft living brought about by machinery which takes the work away, by losing too much sleep looking at TV programs and other things. They are also not eating proper foods, he continued.

The speakers stated that parents should understand what physical fitness means and help children understand the importance of good physical training and development.

President Linwood Briley presided. F. L. Andrews Jr. gave the invocation. Fred Weeks was a visitor from the Wilson Rotary Club and Hal Manning was a local visitor.

The club was informed that Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Briley and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray attended the recent Rotary District Conference meeting at Fayetteville. C. W. Everett is in charge of the program next week.

He carries out research in a variety of areas, publishes articles to a number of technical journals and contributes to the Encyclopedia of Chemistry and several texts.

The speaker will trace the progress of organic chemistry through the past 100 years, and predict what developments chemistry holds for the future.

Bruce-Falkland 4-H'ers Take 1st

A judging team composed of William Monk, Harold Williams, Edith Gay and Mark Olds, won first place honors in a contest held at the Eastern North Carolina Market Hog Show and Sale, according to Milton Merritt, assistant county Negro agricultural agent.

The boys, all from the Bruce-Falkland Elementary School 4-H club, competed against 13 teams from eight counties.

One 4-H'er, Mark Olds, along with a senior 4-H'er from Bertie County, were tied for first place honors in the individual rankings.

"Although we are happy that the 4-H'ers from Pitt County won first place, winning was not the sole purpose for taking part in the contest," Merritt stated.

"It is hoped that by taking part in this judging contest the boys will develop ability to make wise decisions in meeting the many complex problems they will be faced with later in life."

John Hardee Saw History In Making

ONE OF DOORS . . . from old Pitt Courthouse still serves as door to shed behind the Hudson home.

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
John Hardee was one of the most prominent men who settled in Pitt County. He came here before the county was formed, where the land was a wilderness and under the yoke of Britain. He saw the transition from Colonial status to statehood and the birth of a new nation.

Early Days
They say John Hardee came down this way from up in Chowan. He settled in what is now the Hardee Creek area. In 1745, he was a member of the River and Road Commission for the territory south of the Tar from Chocowinity to the Edgemore line. In a military census taken in 1754 on the order of Gov. Dobbs, the county (then Beaufort) had one regiment. John Hardee was captain of one of the companies. There was no action at this time on part of the Indians nor from any other source. It is just as well, for the census shows that although the public storehouse contained fifty pounds of powder and 150 pounds of large shot, there were no firearms. Captain Hardee was a member of the assembly in 1754.

Pitt County
In May 1760, the assembly meeting at New Bern was presented with a petition of "Sunday Inhabitants of Beaufort" asking that a division of the county be made. They have as their reason for requesting this division, the fact the county was "a hundred miles or more, and divided by a boisterous and tempestuous river." Those against the measure, contended this wasn't true — that the river wasn't the formidable obstacle as pictured. However, the measure was passed in the November assembly.

On the first day of January, 1761, "the upper part of the said county of Beaufort, beginning at a line between the said county and Tyrrell, running south, southwest to Cherry Run, where the main road crosses the said run; thence down the said run to Tranters Creek; thence down the said creek to Pamlico River; thence down the said river to the Fork Point on the south side of said river; thence up to Chocowinity Bay and Creek to the head thereof; thence south southwest to the dividing line of the said County of Craven; thence along the dividing lines of Craven, Dobbs, Edgemore and Tyrrell; so that all that part of Beaufort County to the westward of Cherry Run, Chocowinity Bay and Creek, shall and is hereby declared to be a separate county and parish and shall be called and known by the name of Pitt County and St. Michael's Parish, with all rights, privileges, benefits and advantages, etc."

So after many thence and said, the county Pitt was born. John Hardee was one of the commissioners for building a courthouse, prison, pillory and stocks.

These were to be built on Hardee's lands. "A tax of two shillings on each taxable poll in the county was levied for two years, to pay for these items. Until the courthouse was built, the courts were held in John Hardee's house."

"Illegal Conduct in Office"
When the Governor's council met in Wilmington on Feb. 20, 1764, Edward Salter presented a "remonstrance" against John Hardee and other Justices of the Peace.

Thereupon one of these justices made a counter "remonstrance" against Edward Salter, who also was a Justice of the Peace. These "remonstrances" began to cancel each other out. For when the matter was referred to the court of justices at New Bern, nothing more was heard of it.

Meeting in Martinsborough
On August 15, 1774, the freeholders of Pitt County met at Martinsborough (Greenville) and John Hardee presided. During this meeting, two resolves were put forth:

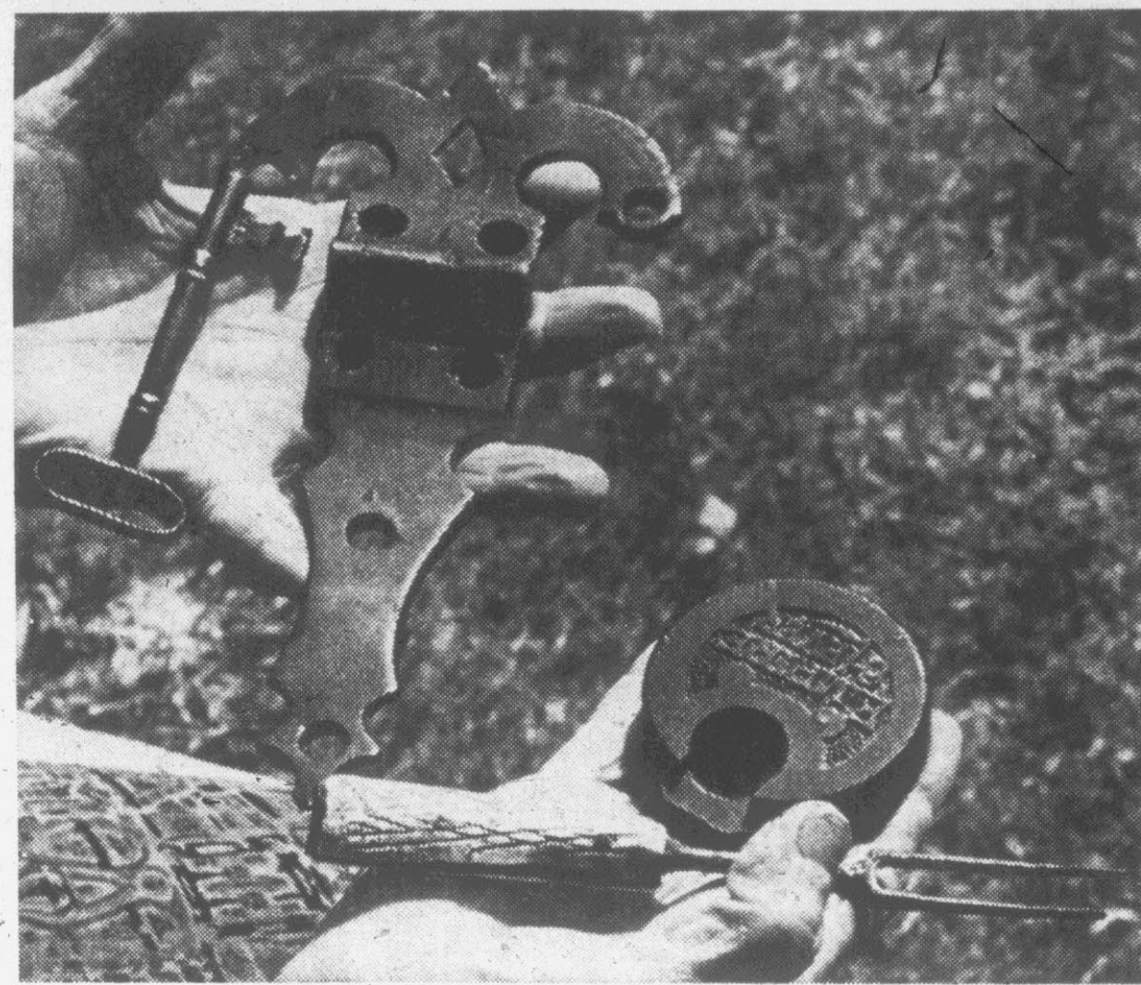

"Resolved, that as the Constitutional Assembly of the colony are prevented from exercising their rights of providing for the security of the liberties of the people, that right, again reverts to the people as the foundation from whence all power and legislation flow."

"Resolved, that John Simpson and Edward Salter, Esqrs., do attend at the town of New Bern on the 25th instant in general convention of this province and there to exert their utmost abilities, preventing the growing system of ministerial despotism, which now threatens, and that you, our deputies, may be acquainted with the sentiments of the people of this county, it is their opinion that you proceed to choose proper persons to represent this Province in a General Congress of America to meet at such a time and place that may be hereafter agreed on. That these delegates be instructed to a declaration of American rights setting forth that British America and all its inhabitants shall be and remain in due subjection to the crown of England and to the illustrious family of the throne, Submitting, by their own voluntary act, and enjoying all their free chartered rights and liberties as free British subjects. That it is the first law of Legislation and of the British constitution that no man be taxed but by his consent, Expressed by himself or by his legal Representatives."

"The Poore of Boston"
John Hardee, esq., among others was appointed to assist the gentlemen of the vestry of St. Michael's Parish in collecting for the support for "the poore of Boston." The people of Pitt came through to help their fellow Colonists to the north. The fire of freedom was burning in the land and the men of the land along the Tar were ready to back up their gifts with guns and if needbe, their lives.

Colonel Hardee
In the county committee of July 15, 1775, Captain John Hardee, company of Millie, was ordered to meet and choose officers for "two" companies. At this division of his company, under different captains, "he was no doubt" promoted to the rank of Colonel. Ahead lay the war with the mother country, and Colonel Hardee and his men, despite strong ties to England, took their part in the building of a new country.

Freedom
When peace came, and independence of the United States was assured in 1783, Col. John Hardee was 76 years old. He had seen the land settled. He was there at the birth of Pitt County. He took an active part in all the affairs of the county and helped it grow from a wilderness to a place of thriving farms, and starting places for later towns and cities. He helped steer it through the wild seas of war to the shore of freedom and independence. Time was running out for the Colonel.

MRS. HUDSON . . . holds items, including key, hinges and lock which came from old court house. The fork, found on the old building site may have come from the jail's kitchen.

Dec. 4, 1784
The land was at winter. The leafless trees along the Tar stood in their brown and gray silences. It was a Saturday, and the pale sun was probing at the thick clouds. The air held a strong hint of snow. The bell at Hardee Chapel, spoke in brassy tones to the bleak country side.

It spoke a truth that it tells for every human at the closing out of a life time — the squire was dead. John Hardee was finished with this life.

Retrospect
John Hardee's old house stood for many years on the Washington road. Mr. Leon Hardee, a descendant of John Hardee, says it was a two story house, "with a large hall and winding stairway, two large rooms on the first floor and three upstairs." In 1890, it was operated as a pay school. The teacher and founder of the school was Miss Ada Hardee of Greene County. Mr. Hardee says it cost five cents a day to attend the school. There were fifteen pupils enrolled. The life of the school was brief — it lasted one month.

They say it was haunted and many stories were spread about the bloodstains on the floor of the upstairs front room. They always freshened up when it rained. Two men were said to have been hanged from the oak tree that stood at the west side of the building.

Today
In 1926, Mr. Jesse Hudson had the old building removed. His present home sits about on the same spot. Some of the sills from the old house were used in it, and one bedroom is floored with timber taken from the old flooring.

On a slight hill made by the digging out of the earth for a roadway — on Tenth Street in Greenville, across from the new A&P parking lot is an old burying ground. Here in the bustle of modern life, sleep Col. John Hardee, his wife, Susannah, and young Isaac Hardee, their son who died the year the county was formed and twenty-three years before the land was free. He was 25 years old.

Library Shelves Carry Wealth Of Information

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Reference books have been written for just about any and every subject one can think of. There are reference books containing information on all the books in print, coins, flags of the world—volumes on Indians—and encyclopedias on a vast variety of subjects, such as on child care and guidance, among others.

All these and more are a part of the hundreds of reference books at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Those already using these resources may be familiar with the many reference books, and those not so familiar may find a guide to areas which already have interested them.

Generally the reference books are divided into classifications of general, technical, social sciences, foreign languages, science and technology, fine arts, literature, history and travel and biography. Librarian Elizabeth Cleveland explains.

"General" is the heading under which one would find a "Biography Index" with a cumulative index to books and magazines. If anything has been written about a person, one could find it in this index.

Under general references, a person might find information not only to assist in research or a special hobby, but information of a practical nature. "Subject Guide to Books in Print" lists all the books in the English language in print, who published the book, the cost and if the book is still in print. A subject guide lists the books according to title and author after-breaking them down according to subject.

A reference book which might come in handy is the "Subscription Books Bulletin" which analyzes current reference books. This might help a family who is trying to decide whether or not to subscribe to a new encyclopedia. It is an unbiased publication. Miss Copeland noted.

One reference familiar to many people is the "Book Review Digest," which lists reviews of books and other pertinent information, as well as giving excerpts from the reviews.

The major encyclopedias included in Sheppard Memorial Library's collection are the Britannica, Americana, Collier's, World Book Encyclopedia, Compton's and several one-book encyclopedias such as the "Columbia Encyclopedia."

Other encyclopedias are on such subjects as "Kane's Famous First Facts," of things that happened and when; "Museums Directory of the United States and Canada"; "Ayers Directory to Newspapers and Periodicals."

Theological
Here are to be found all the various types of the "Bible," standard dictionaries and encyclopedias of theological subjects, concordances, Bible commentaries, Bible atlases, and large works such as the 13-volume "Hasting's Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics" and a 12-volume set of the "Interpreter's Bible." The latter is a foremost Bible volume which has been printed. There are further books, including those on Bible quotations.

Social Sciences
This vast area includes subjects like "Negro Year Book," U. S. Congressional Directory, "Political Handbook of the World," North Carolina State manuals—many of them. Also, volumes on investment companies, yearbooks on world affairs, the United Nations, legal dictionaries, an authoritative resume of activities and statistical data of American Cities in the "Municipal Yearbook."

Here, too, are to be found school guides, including books on private schools, preparatory schools, colleges, junior colleges, and others.

Information on the Post Office, election laws, etiquette, folklore, mythology and legend, superstitions, American proverbs and many others.

One of the more impressive is a 15-volume set of the "Encyclopedia of Social Sciences." There are, in addition, a number of one-volume reference books such as the "Information Please Almanac," "World Almanac" and "Statistical Abstract of the United States."

Languages, Foreign Languages
There are handbooks on pronunciation, books on abbreviations of symbols, the "Oxford Dictionary of English Place

Little Club With A Large Heart

By MARTI MARTIN
Reflector Staff Writer

Twenty-one years ago a group of Negro men united in a cause, organized the Bachelor Benedict Club and established as their purpose in life sharing with mankind that which they may have to give—their compassion and efforts.

The activities of this Greenville club over the past 21 years has shown that this organization were not content to just talk about doing things; the club has proven to be one of action.

Aid for the underprivileged has been the main function of the club since it was organized. The Benedict members have distributed boxes of groceries to needy families, both Negro and white, and during Christmas have purchased crutches and two wheelchairs for those who needed them but could not afford to buy them.

The club gave shoes and clothes to school children and this week the club has ended its fifth consecutive week in furnishing food to 50 Fleming Street School children who would otherwise be without meals.

"Many of these 50 children," said Miss Sadi I. Sautler, principal of Fleming Street School, "would be absent from school because they had no food to bring for their lunches. I have noticed a marked increase in attendance since the Bachelor Benedict Club began this project."

No Lunchroom
With the club furnishing all of the food, Mrs. Mary Paton prepares the food at her home, since the school has no lunchroom, and brings the food up to the school auditorium where disposable paper plates, forks and napkins have been distributed among the children.

Mrs. P. P. Jackson, Fleming Street Second grade teacher, said, "The teachers and principal certainly do appreciate the work that the Bachelor Benedict Club has done for the school over the past few years. It isn't hard to tell that the children enjoy the meals that the Benedicts are donating. It's really a treat to most of these children who aren't used to hot meals and balanced diets."

Four of the Fleming Street teachers have been helping the Benedict Club with the serving of the meals. Besides Mrs. Jackson, there is Mrs. Julia Davis, first grade teacher; Mrs. Elsie M. Williams, third and fourth grade teacher, and Miss Ruth Johnson, a second grade teacher.

The 50 underprivileged children receiving these meals are selected according to need from the first through fourth grades. Besides the above activities of the club, the Bachelor Benedicts were instrumental in the development of the South Greenville Park and have assisted the welfare department on different occasions.

They have also made contributions to the Heart Fund, the TB Fund, Polio Fund, School Athletic Department, and the United College Fund. The club has sponsored debutante balls to raise money for scholarships and has contributed to students who are experiencing financial difficulties in school.

The Bachelor Benedict Club has sent gifts to Mental Hospitals and Retarded Training Schools. To list all of their activities would be impossible.

Most of the club funds come from dues and various drives and one married man when the club first organized. We couldn't call it just the Bachelor's Club—so we decided to couple the name Benedict with it, which means a newly married man, one who had been a confirmed bachelor.

"We are a non-denominational group," said Foreman, "and were organized as a social and civic group. Now we are mostly a civic group."

From All Walks Of Life
The present membership of the club come from all walks of life. Their occupations include mechanic, assistant, stock clerk, teacher, taxi operator, chauffeur, insurance agent, barber, custodian and policeman.

Ernest Adams is vice president of the organization; David Barnhill, secretary; Henry W. Payton, treasurer; and William E. Myers, financial secretary. Other members of the club include Charles Davis, James Wilkes, William M. Myers, William E. Jones, Edward Thompson, Reuben Vines, John C. Johnson, Robert Chance, Alfred Barnhill, John H. Bizzell, Roscoe Norfleet, Gerald Jenkins, Robert Bellamy, George Gorham and James Hagan.

"We would like to extend an invitation to any organization who would like to join our forces to continue with the food project at Fleming Street School," said Foreman. "It's a big project and a definite challenge. We'd like to have some civic group accept our offer of combined forces so that the children at Fleming Street School can continue to have hot, well balanced meals."

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM FORDKETER

With the income tax deadline so near, everybody who has anything is either feeling poor or preparing to feel so by April 15.

Therefore, this is a good time to remind those who are convinced that a man just can't make any money these days, that statistically, things are not so bad — for some people, at least.

The data for this comforting message comes from a new work by Robert Lampman, economist at the University of Wisconsin. Professor Lampman's figures attack at least three widely cited myths.

Myth 1: That there is no great concentration of wealth in the U. S. anymore. Facts: Twenty-eight per cent of our wealth is owned by one per cent of our people. The figures have not greatly changed since 1933, though the trend is slightly in the direction of greater concentration.

Myth 2: That we have a people's capitalism, since virtually everyone now owns stock in corporations. Facts: In 1953 seventy-five per cent of all stock was owned by one per cent of our people. In 1953, when ownership in the hands of a few was supposedly at a peak, sixty-five per cent of all stock was owned by one per cent.

Myth 3: That since taxes are so high, there are fewer and fewer millionaires. Facts: The number of millionaires in the U. S. has almost quadrupled since 1953. At present there are more than 100,000 millionaires in this country.

With Dr. Lampman's statistics in mind, everyone should face the tax forms with an optimistic spirit. After all, some people seem to be doing all right in spite of them.

College President. Some people may vaguely remember Dr. Arthur Flemming as a rather colorless and indistinct Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare in Eisenhower's Cabinet. It is difficult to imagine that man embroiled in controversy. But he is.

Dr. Flemming is now President of the University of Oregon. He is in trouble because he allowed Gus Hall, secretary of the U. S. Communist party, to speak on his campus the other day at the request of some student groups.

Patriots in Oregon have raised a howl and naturally they have probed deeply into the background of Dr. Flemming to try to understand how he could do such a thing. The most revealing fact discovered about him is that he once served as a vice-president of the National Council of Churches.

As for Dr. Flemming, he says that he actually believes in freedom of speech.

Language Control There have been some nasty things said recently by some of the reviewers about the new "Third International Dictionary." To these people, its tolerant approach to the problem of standard English is quite alarming and infuriating.

What such critics actually need is an organization like the French Academy to regulate our speech and write our dictionary.

Founded in 1635 under a royal patent and commissioned with the task of defending the language against "grammatical negligence, anarchy, and ignorance," the Academy consists of forty of France's immortals (there's some difference of opinion about this).

They are now working on a new dictionary of the French language. In fact, they began working on it in 1935, are now almost through the C's, and plan to complete it in 2125. If all goes well, their work every Thursday afternoon, when they sometimes pass on ten words.

That's one way to keep a language conservative. New England Tradition Sometimes Robert Frost reminds one strongly of great earlier New Englanders like Emerson and Thoreau in his attitudes and what he says.

For example, in an interview reported in the Herald Tribune the other day, Frost tells about a meeting which he had with a delegation of visiting Russian poets in these words: "They didn't speak English and one kept taking my hand and shaking it every thirty seconds. He embarrassed me. There was another Russian I liked better. We did not speak but we exchanged hard looks, and we were men together."

People interested in acting should know that the College Playhouse will be holding readings for parts in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" April 4-5, in the basement of Ragsdale, 8:00. One does not have to be a student to take a part in the play. Everyone is invited to read for a role or to do stage work for the production which will be given May 9, 10, 11.

Music The ECC music department aided by the Carolina Composers Group is bringing the composer Vincent Persichetti to town next week for lecturing and conducting.

Of special interest to the public will be two concerts on Saturday, April 7. One will be held at 2:00, McGinnis, featuring chamber music works of local members of Carolina Composers.

At 8:30, Wright, the other concert will feature work by the Carolina Composers and Mr. Persichetti. Performing will be the College Band and Choir. Admission free.

Library . . . (Continued from page 7) Names' and dictionaries of curious words, foreign words, phrases and new words in English. The local library has all the standard dictionaries, both abridged and unabridged, and a thesaurus of slang, "Slang and Unconventional English."

Dictionaries in other languages are to be found—French, German, Spanish and Latin, as well as other references. Pure Sciences Pure sciences means just that, and volumes are to be had. The Sheppard Memorial Library has some of the best in a reference collection: 11 volumes of the Smithsonian scientific series, and they have added to their collection McGraw Hill's "Encyclopedia of Science and Technology," a 1960 publication of 15 volumes.

Some titles to be found in this section include "Chambers' Technical Dictionary," "Van Nostrand's Encyclopedia," "Encyclopedia of Astronomy," "American Institute of Physics" handbook, "International Dictionary of Physics and Electronics," and in addition, encyclopedias of chemistry, handbooks of chemistry, physics and several one-volume handbooks on nature—mammals, insects, bugs and others.

In the applied sciences are medical dictionaries, encyclopedias, a rocket encyclopedia, farmer's handbook, "Standard Encyclopedia of Horticulture," "Encyclopedia of Child Care and Guidance," "Thomas' Register of American Manufacturers" as well as "Henley's Twentieth Century Book of Formulas, Processes and Trade Secrets" and "Jane's All the World's Aircraft."

Fine Arts Keeping up with the times, Miss Copeland noted the library has the first four volumes which have been published by McGraw Hill on "Encyclopedia of World Art." This is a new publication. Other encyclopedias also are available on the arts, as well as single volumes of art treasures in museums. Many of these are in the library's general circulation.

Under this heading come coin books, musical directories (a new set of Grove's music and musicians), encyclopedias of and directories of music as well as composers, both yesterday and today; an encyclopedia of opera and concert music; guide to long playing records.

A surprise is also here—sports and recreation. So, encyclopedias of sports and games are to be found, many of which are in the general circulation.

Literature This area is vast: dictionaries of phrase and fables, encyclopedias of world literature, world's best essays, world's best orations, all the books of quotation, handbooks of humor, thoughts, indexes to poetry and to children's poetry, best plays, indexes to plays and short stories, books of speeches.

The library has all the single volumes on American and English literature, such as the "Cambridge History of American Literature," "Oxford Companion to American Literature," "Oxford Companion to English Literature" and others.

History and Travel More encyclopedias and dictionaries are here, except that they tell of history and travel, and there are geographical dictionaries and references. Also, historic atlases and current world atlases, N. C. atlas, atlases of the ancient world, and hotel directories, as well as directories of American counties with a record of names, area, population, and history.

Here will be found census information and other handbooks, such as the South American handbook and a number of special volumes on North Carolina, including Bill Sharp's new geography of North Carolina.

Biographical Here are the Who's Who volumes of every kind, current biography of magazine references in cases where books have not yet been written, as well as biographies of composers, authors, American Congress, people now in the news as well as others; North Carolina authors; and "Who Was Who in America."

More unusual biographical data is to be found in the book on American genealogy, guides to origin of names, American nicknames and volumes on Indians.

Civil War dictionaries as well as a four-volume set of battles and leaders of the Civil War are also contained here. Whatever it is, you are likely SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korea's military leaders published today a second political purge list barring 1,285 men from political activity for six years.

Social Security Trust Fund Income Is Reported

Income to the two social security trust funds exceeded outgo by $409 million during fiscal year 1961, according to the 22nd Annual Report, sent to Congress recently by the trustees of the funds.

Icen E. Wilson, district manager of the Greenville Social Security Office, said today that the official figures given in the trustees' report, show that income to the two funds during the rest of this decade and on into the long range future will be sufficient to cover all outlays for benefits.

Income to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund during the past fiscal year amounted to $11,814 million, including $522 million interest on invested assets, Wilson said. Total disbursements for the year were $11,743 million. At the end of June 1961, the fund stood at $20.9 billion.

Total income to the Disability Insurance Trust Fund during fiscal 1961 came to $1,082 million, including $60 million in interest on investments. Disbursements were $745 million and the assets of the fund at the end of the fiscal year totaled $2,504 million.

The three trustees of the funds—the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare—are required by law to make a report to Congress each year on the operations and status of the funds during the previous fiscal year and on their expected operations and status for many years into the future.

According to the trustees' estimates, disbursements from the President Plans Visit To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carlos Julio Arosemena of Ecuador will come to the United States in July on a state visit.

President Kennedy announced Thursday that Arosemena had accepted his invitation to visit this country. The Ecuadorian chief executive is scheduled to reach Washington July 24.

The assets of the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund are expected to amount to $22.2 billion by the end of December 1965. By December 1970, they will have increased to $53.7 billion. At the end of 1975, it is estimated that the fund will amount to $99.6 billion. By the end of 1975, assets of the Disability Insurance Trust Fund are expected to total $2.9 billion.

Wilson said that the Greenville Social Security Office has a new booklet which describes in simple language how the social security program is financed. Free copies of this booklet are available upon request, he said, at the Greenville office, located at 814 W. Fifth Street.

Women Line Up On Side Of Cats
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A dog may be man's best friend, but the women are lined up on the side of the cats.

Under pressure from a group of women called the Animal Haven's League, the City Council voted 5-0 Thursday against applying to cats a city ordinance that punishes owners of dogs who soil public sidewalks or private lawns.

MULTIPLY SEVEN BY ONE MILLION and you'll get some idea of the amount of money retailers and other local advertisers invest in daily newspaper advertising EVERY DAY!

These advertisers know that the more than $7 million they invest daily in newspapers* is a wise investment that regularly pays off in buying action at the cash register. People want and look for advertising messages in the daily newspaper, and no other medium equals daily newspapers' ability to move merchandise out of shops and showrooms into homes and onto shelves.

A New JOHN CREASEY Thriller

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

CHAPTER 30

"Tell me," Richard Rollison said to his four guests, "why are you here instead of at Scotland Yard?"

The question seemed to take them completely by surprise. Assen and Morhead glanced at Wedlake, who gulped down most of his whiskey and soda, looked round almost helplessly, and then spoke hoarsely:

"You're working with police, aren't you? You brought that fellow from Scotland Yard, Grice, down to Watford. We believe that you can get results more quickly than they can, and we're quite prepared to pay—"

Rollison began to smile.

"What in hell's funny?" roared Wedlake.

"Isn't it all?" inquired Rollison with a chuckle in his voice. "Have you been trying to buy Scotland Yard? He saw Bailey sculp, Morhead, madden his lips, and Assen grin; Assen was by far the most likeable personality of the three millionaires.

"So you have," Rollison said. "They sent you away with what we know as a flea in your ear." He chuckled more heartily. "I can imagine what—"

"We didn't come here to be insulted," cried Wedlake.

"I can believe that," agreed Rollison. "Gentlemen, Mr. Wedlake has made a common mistake. He seems to think that the word 'money' has a magic which will open all doors. He's quite wrong, you know, but we needn't go into the ethics of the situation. As Mr. Assen rightly said, it doesn't matter why I want to find the answers to your problems; but I do. I don't yet know where Holmes is. I do know that a man named Bennett, an ex-employee of Malling Motors—"

"That swine" choked Wedlake.

The three millionaires stared at him.

"The swine," repeated Wedlake, as if the name would choke him. He turned to the three men, and went on in a shrill voice: "He was one of our trusted employees. We discovered that he had been selling secrets, and fired him—oh, it must be about two years ago. He had associates in the factory, but we thought we'd root them all out. If he—Rollison! Where is Bennett? Let me talk to him."

"He doesn't like you very much," Rollison murmured. "He thinks you misjudged him. He thinks that someone else actually sold these secrets. I suspect that he thinks that it was your man Holmes."

"What?" breathed Wedlake.

"He's crazy! Holmes was kidnapped. He—"

"He was kidnapped, and Ben-

April Deadline Faces Ministers

Icen E. Wilson, manager of the Greenville District Social Security office, today reminded ordained ministers of the April 15 deadline for filing waiver certificates.

In issuing a reminder to ministers, Wilson noted: "Ministers are one of the groups who have the option of electing social security coverage. To elect coverage they must file a certificate waiving their exemption from the tax. Income from ministerial duties may then be reported as self-employment for social security credit."

Explaining further, Wilson said the April 15 deadline is for "ordained ministers who have already had net self-employment of $400 in two taxable years to file waiver certificates."

He continued: "It is also the deadline for those ministers who have been reporting their earnings for social security without filing a waiver. These persons have the opportunity to file a waiver by April 15 and get coverage for income already reported and for future years."

Ministers desiring to file the waivers, Wilson said, should contact the social security district office here, 814 W. Fifth St.

Tryouts Slated For Play Roles

People in the Greenville area who are interested in taking part in the production of "The Merchant of Venice" at East Carolina College May 9, 10, and 11 are invited to attend tryouts April 4 and 5. Director Joseph A. Withey of the East Carolina Playhouse said today.

The Shakespearean play, to be presented in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater, is one of a series of outdoor productions given annually at East Carolina.

"As you may remember," Dr. Withey said in extending an invitation to try out parts, "for this production we expect participation not only of students, faculty, and staff, but also of members of the community. We will appreciate it if you spread the word to your friends in Greenville and its environs."

Informal readings for parts will be held in the Dungeon (basement of Ragsdale) April 4 and 5 at 8 p.m. Those wanting to help on committees may come at the same time to indicate how much time they can afford. Dr. Withey said.

As in the past, the Shakespearean play will be on the program of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

Another Jury To See That Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge ruled that a pretty model who appeared before a jury in a red bathing suit to show scars she suffered in an automobile accident must go to court again.

Red-haired Eileen Anderson, 25, won a $18,293 judgment, but it was set aside Friday by Superior Court Judge Richard C. Fildev. He said a new trial was necessary because of errors she committed while acting as her own attorney.

The defense attorney contended the judgment was excessive and that the jury had been influenced by passion and prejudice.

Pregnancy Upset His Time Table

CHICAGO (AP)—Christine M. Juranek, 25, was granted a divorce Friday after she testified in court that her pregnancy upset her time table for retirement at 35.

Among the Scriptural passages to be read is this verse from Psalm 107: "He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (p. 355): "Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal; divine, eternal. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious, or eternal."
