Walker 'Regards' Rusk As Part Of Group Bent On U.S. Sell-Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edwin A. Walker, former Army major general, testified today that he regards Secretary of State Dean Rusk as a link with a mysterious secret apparatus bent on a "sell-out" of this country.

Walker also named Walt Whitman Rostow, a top State Department planner, as influential in a secret "control apparatus" which the ex-general said always followed "the soft line on communism."

Walker named these two in response to questions by Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

Bartlett was pursuing details on Walker's general charge Wednesday that shadowy forces hand in hand with communism are eating at the American way of life.

For seven hours in the witness chair of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee, Walker had blazed away Wednesday at government officials from President Kennedy on down and contended the nation was following a policy of "no-win and retreat from victory."

These shots at Rusk and Rostow highlighted Walker's second round of testimony at the Senate inquiry into charges of alleged muzzling of anti-Communist military officers.

In his closing words, Walker said: "I was framed in a den of iniquity." This was represented, he said, by a coexistence, no win, soft policy. It's a hidden State Department policy, he said, being withheld from public view.

In the policy, he said, "We are digging our own grave for Khrushchev to bury us in. It's three feet deep now."

The hearing ended with Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., paying tribute to Walker as "a great American who understands the international conspiracy in communism."

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told a reporter Rusk, Rostow and Adam Yarmolinsky, a Pentagon aide who came under Walker's fire Wednesday, would be heard in reply if they wished.

He contended too that he had been summarily removed from his command and defamed because of his "hard hitting line against communism."

Walker resigned from the Army last fall with a bitter blast at his superiors after being removed from command of an Army division in Germany and admonished for making derogatory statements publicly about prominent Americans.

He is now living in Texas and is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor of the state.

The subcommittee called him as a witness in its inquiry into charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that military leaders wanting to speak out against communism have been censored and muzzled.

When Walker returned to the witness chair today, Bartlett asked what the former general meant Wednesday when he said, "It is evident that the real control apparatus will not tolerate militant anti-Communist leadership by a division commander."

What did "real control apparatus" mean? Bartlett asked. Walker replied that the "real control apparatus could be identified by its efforts and what it is doing."

He said the soft-line on communism had let the Communists take over Cuba and part of Korea and spread into the Congo.

Walker said this apparatus accomplished its propaganda through the United Nations, adding:

"The United Nations is the nearest thing to the Tower of Babel that's ever been built."

Walker said the effort was "to sell out our traditions, our constitution, our sovereignty, our independence."

Bartlett told Walker that if the country faced such a peril the Senate investigators were entitled to the names of those involved.

"Will you name these people?" the senator pressed.

"I cannot identify those who are completely in control of the apparatus," Walker replied, but added that he could identify those who follow the soft-Communist line.

Finally Walker said, "Dean Rusk" and quickly added that he understood Rusk was on the staff of the late Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell in China.

Walker said the "arrrarian reform highlights" led to a takeover of mainland China by the Communists.

The ex-general said Rusk had been a member and supporter of the Institute of Pacific Relations, adding that its activities and those of Owen Lattimore were a matter of record in reports by the Senate Internal Securities subcommittee.

"Are there other names?" Bartlett asked.

"Walt Rostow, who has been in control of operations of the CIA since 1954," Walker replied.

Bartlett asked for other names but Walker said he believed Rusk and Rostow had so much influence, additional names were unneeded.

"I want to unify the greatest force in the world," Walker said. "It is the only circumvention to war."

Walker had named some figures at the Pentagon in his first day of testimony.

Army Braces For New Attacks On Cutting Reserves, Nat'l Guard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressmen opened fire today on the Army's controversial plan to break up eight battle-starred National Guard and Reserve infantry divisions.

Meanwhile, the Army braced for a salvo of objections from another flank—governors of some of the 21 states affected.

Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., predicted the plan would touch off a major battle in Congress. He said it was another example of the administration's "flaunting the will of the Congress."

Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa., said "they've tried to do this before and we stopped them." Van Zandt says he feels sure this will happen again.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said he hoped Congress would be able to prevent the action, which the Army announced last Wednesday as part of a major reorganization scheme designed to build a trim, trained and ready to fight Reserve and Guard.

The plan contemplates reorganizing much of the manpower in the four Guard and four Reserve divisions into eight more flexible brigades of between 3,000 and 4,500 men each. Many units now part of the divisions would be assigned to support the regular Army, if needed.

Although the Army avoided the term "eliminate," officers acknowledged that would be the practical effect. All that would be left would be their headquarters, which would supervise certain training and support operations.

The eight divisions—some with histories dating back to the revolution and most with many battle streamers:

Guard—34th Division of Nebraska and Iowa; 35th of Kansas and Missouri; 43rd of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont; 41st of Florida and South Carolina.

Reserve—79th of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware; 94th of Massachusetts; 96th of Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Washington and Nevada; 103rd of Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

At the same time, the Army plans a six-division force of priority National Guard divisions that would be ticketed for early call-up in an emergency to back up the 16 regular Army divisions.

These first-ranked outfits would be kept at 75 to 80 per cent of their authorized strength, which will total about 15,000 when their structure is revamped. Most of them now number only about 9,000 men.

The Army did not name the priority divisions, but they are expected to include the 26th Infantry of Massachusetts, the 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania, the 32nd Infantry of Wisconsin and the 49th Armored of Texas.

The 32nd and 49th now are on active duty and are the best trained and equipped of all the Guard divisions. The 26th and 28th were picked last fall as the next to be called in the Berlin crisis. They have been built to nearly 100 per cent of strength and have been outfitted with much new equipment.

If the plan goes through, it will reduce the Guard divisions to 23 and Reserve divisions to six.

There was some question as to whether Congress could block the reorganization, since it could be achieved within authorized manpower limits.

The Kennedy administration has proposed cutting total paid drill strength in the Guard and Reserve by 58,000 to a new total of 642,000.

These cuts would not come out of the eight divisions but out of some 8,800 lesser units.

Army officials hoped to split the cuts on a four-three ratio, with the Guard taking the heaviest reductions.

The aim is to do away with such nondivisible outfits as anti-aircraft gun batteries made obsolete by anti-aircraft missiles and such excess support units as truck companies.

Some congressmen suggested the Army broke faith with the House Armed Services Committee in unveiling the plan before that group opened hearings April 16 on Reserve policy.

The Army said Wednesday the reorganization plans "may not be considered as final until completion of congressional hearings on the subject." It carefully did not say that Congress could prevent implementation of the plan.

The Army has been working on the politically touchy problem for a year. Its studies were given new impetus by difficulties and disappointments in mustering 120,000 Army Guardsmen and Reservists last fall.

Missile Profits Distorted?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials of the Douglas Aircraft Co. have bitterly denied they reaped excessive profits from the Army on Nike missile contracts.

Donald W. Douglas Jr., the company's president, accused aides of a Senate Investigations subcommittee Wednesday of manipulating figures to picture profits as too high.

"The numbers are accurate, but nobody puts their numbers together that way," Douglas said in challenging documents prepared by the subcommittee staff. These purported to show that Douglas Aircraft's profits on 17 Nike contracts in 1952-61 totaled $45.58 million but that subcontractors did most of the work.

Robert E. Dunne, staff investigator, said this was equivalent to a 44.3 per cent profit on the portions of the contracts performed by Douglas at its own plants.

Dunne said the profits, figures against the work done by Douglas and its subcontractors combined, would be 7.6 per cent on the 17 contracts totaling $952.74 million for producing various components of the Nike missile system.

Douglas, armed with stacks of charts and flanked at the witness table by a half dozen subordinates, called this "arithmetic manipulation which borders on economic frivolity . . . a gross distortion."

He said the contracts actually totaled $939 million, "and our profit from those sales before federal income taxes approximated $2.8 million, a rate of less than 3.2 per cent of sales." Income taxes took more than half of that profit, he added.

Douglas said he had no apologies to make for the company's work or its profits as the chief subcontractor under Western Electric Co. in developing the anti-aircraft missile system.

Douglas officials take the stand again today, the third day of hearings into what subcommittee chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has called profit pyramiding by missile contractors.

Dunne testified he didn't know of much the Douglas company had done to earn profits it charged the government for work farmed out to its subcontractors.

Dunne said Douglas paid its subcontractors their costs plus a profit, then added on millions of dollars of profits for itself before submitting the bills to Western Electric. He said Western Electric, in turn, added on more millions as profit to itself, with the Army paying the total bill.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two civil liberties leaders announced today that a petition bearing the names of 450 signers had been submitted to President Kennedy urging him to pardon Julius Scates, 42, one-time North Carolina Communist leader.

Doctor Needed As Aftermath To Police Chase

A high-speed chase through Greenville streets last night turned out to be a case for doctors as well as "the law."

Pitt ABC officer H. B. Lilley and Constable W. H. Crandall were patrolling on Boyd Ave. near the AGL Railroad crossing when they jumped a vehicle carrying a man and woman.

The car sped away with the officers in pursuit. The chase led down Boyd Ave. and Tyson St. to Douglas Ave., then to Sheppard Street and down Sixth back to Tyson before the fleeing vehicle was finally brought to a halt.

As the lawmen jumped from their car the woman passenger said "I'm so shook up I'm going to have my baby."

She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital and admitted.

The driver of the vehicle, David Cannon, 40-year-old Negro of Route 2, Grimesland, was charged with "excessive and transporting" of an unpaid whiskey, careless and reckless driving and failure to stop for a siren and red light.

Officers said a half-gallon of non-taxed booze was recovered, which had been thrown from the vehicle as it rounded a corner during the chase.

Kennedy Proposes Help To Traffic Strangled Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed a $500 million handout to traffic-strangled cities today and dangled hopes of eventual bargain rates before the nation's air, rail and bus travelers.

Kennedy bundled up his ideas in a 10,000-word transportation message and sent it off to Congress. He ignored former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recommendation for creation of a government department of transportation.

The $500 million would be only a first installment, spread over three years, to be given to public agencies. They would put up some partially matching funds and use the combined federal-local money for "the revitalization and needed expansion of public mass transportation."

For the traveling public and for bulk freight—grain, coal ore—and farm and fishery products, Kennedy recommended that Congress end minimum rates prescribed under federal regulation. Just what passengers on what lines might get lower rates in time was not spelled out. But federal officials said they hoped for some "bargain rates to attract people away from cars" as well as for congressional action to prevent price wars.

The rate and mass transit recommendations, and a string of others, were parts of a vast, long-range attack on complicated, controversial problems Kennedy said "are burdening our national transportation system, jeopardizing the progress and security on which we depend."

In general, Kennedy spoke for continued reliance on private transport and for what he termed fundamental, far-reaching reforms in federal policies—reforms designed to downsize regulating and subsidizing and make carriers "fit, lean and progressive by vigorous competition and innovation."

Four Suffocate As Bed Burns

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Four children suffocated Wednesday night in a fire that filled a third-floor apartment with smoke but burned only a bed.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Halloran, had left the apartment briefly when the fire broke out in the unoccupied double bed.

Killed were Barbara Jean, 8 months; Nancy Kay, 3; Gary Lynn, 2; and James Thomas, 4. Cause of the fire was not determined.

year, the transportation message was the last of a series Kennedy planned to offer to the present Congress in amplification of his program for the country.

Facts of it may stir up storms of discord in Congress and outside. But Kennedy nevertheless urged Congress to get started as soon as possible.

The recommendation for exemption from minimum rate regulation for carriers of passengers, bulk commodities and farm and fishery products, Kennedy said, would get at the most critical and controversial problems of all in the area of unneeded regulatory curbs. For airline passenger traffic, Kennedy said it might be a good idea to start on a gradual, trial basis.

As things stand now, only water carriers have the exemption with respect to bulk freight and only motor carriers and freight forwarders with respect to agricultural and fishery products.

Five Persons Unaccounted For

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Five persons still were unaccounted for today as firemen prepared to tear down the walls of the fire-ravaged New Golden Hotel.

The only body recovered so far was identified as that of Gertrud Holbrook, 68, of San Francisco.

Old Hit-Run Case Solved By Inquiry Into Accident

A 5 p.m. collision here yesterday led officers to the solution of a four-month-old hit-and-run case and brought multiple charges against a 17-year-old Greenville youth.

Traffic investigators identified the youth as Emmet Harrell Boseman, 813 Washington St.

Officers said the Boseman car went out of control yesterday as it was making a turn into Pennsylvania Ave. from Dickinson, struck a tree then it traveled 114 feet and collided with a second tree before coming to a stop.

Boseman was cut on his chin and damage to his car was placed at $800. He was charged with reckless driving in the case. Boseman, after further investigation, was charged with hit and run driving and operating without an operators license after admitting he struck a pedestrian here in January.

Officers said a vehicle had hit nine-year-old Shelly Piver of 1308 Myrtle Ave. at the intersection of Myrtle and Paris Aves. here on January 8 and failed to stop. Witnesses described the driver of the car as 17-18 years old.

Officers quoted Boseman as saying he had no drivers license, at that time and became frightened and ran.

The young victim, returning home from school, was not seriously injured.

FARMVILLE — Farmville's Commissioners voted 3-1 Tuesday to allow Farmville Emergency Fallout Shelter, Inc., to construct one or more fallout shelters behind the local National Guard Armory.

Voting against the proposal was Oliver D. Murphrey, the lone hold-over from the current board's predecessor. Joseph D. Joyner declined to vote while Dr. S. H. Aycock, Tommy Lang and Sam Wainwright favored authorizing Mayor O. G. Spell and town clerk H. M. Allred to deed the site to the fallout shelter association.

With Tuesday's board action, the community's shelter organization was expected to begin construction of a fallout shelter within two or three weeks, following a board of directors meeting probably next week. The shelter organization was formed here last fall by a group of Farmville citizens who paid a $125 assessment for each person to be afforded protection of the proposed shelter. Land involved in the Tuesday split vote is the rear portion of a spacious site adjacent to the Country Club's golf course and Horne Avenue. Completed on the Horne Avenue front of the site is Farmville's new National Guard Armory. Tuesday's action means the shelter corporation will exercise full control over the property unless it would be mutually decided by the commissioners and the shelter group's board of directors that a national emergency no longer existed. Under those conditions, the town would automatically reclaim the deed to the property.

In another matter, the commissioners asked town attorney John B. Lewis to prepare for the board's consideration a proposed town ordinance that would affect more regulation by the town of new construction in areas where no subdivision maps are available.

Full Agenda For City Councilmen

A PTA group which has been studying the sales of certain type literature on newsstands will appear before the City Council tonight.

Mayor Charles M. King said the meeting will be held in the court room of City Hall beginning at 8 p.m.

The committee has been urging newsstands to drop the sales of certain magazines which it considers undesirable. Recently it announced that the voluntary efforts had gone as far as possible and the committee planned to approach the council for action.

A group of citizens is also scheduled to appear concerning the tentative sites for public housing recently announced by the Public Housing Authority.

The councilmen will consider the establishment of a policy for curb gutter and paving costs to be paid by property owners.

A public hearing on the annexation of Forest Hills Addition No. 1 is on tonight's agenda. Councilman Ralph Brimley will report on plans for a new Carver Library building and City Clerk W. N. Moore will report on privilege licenses for oil distributors.

The council will be asked to authorize the city clerk to advertise the sale of 1961 unpaid real estate taxes.

Claim Sergeant Was 'Abusive'

FT. JACKSON, S.C. (AP)—A sergeant is accused of using abusive language to a group of new trainees here.

Brig. Gen. Charles D'Orda, commanding this Army infantry training post, said he is directing an investigation of the alleged incident, and that there will be no report until the probe is complete.

The sergeant was identified as Clyde Hinkle Jr., 29, of Columbia, Pa., who has about five years of service. He is married and has three young children. Hinkle is lodged in the stockade pending the outcome of the investigation, the post said.

T-Day Turnout Delights Doctors

Close to 8,000 persons received tetanus immunization here yesterday during the first of two countywide tetanus immunization clinics sponsored by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

"This was a tremendous success," Dr. Charles P. Adams, president of the society, said today. "I think we had 100 per cent participation as far as the doctors in the county were concerned."

However, he stressed the fact that "one of these injections, if it is the first one, is of no value unless a second is given within a three to 12-week period."

The medical society will hold its second clinic on a county-wide basis on Wednesday, April 25, to give the second part of the tetanus toxoid immunization, and also to give booster shots to those who need them.

For awhile yesterday it seemed that the dosage of material on hand would not be enough to handle surging crowds, which turned up from the time the clinics opened at 10 a.m. and continued until closing time—4 p.m. Special material was sent from Lee County by plane.

Clinics will be operated from the same points in Greenville and Pitt County on April 25.

Nothing Stopped Gus Except His Friends

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—If you don't think dog's best friend is the postman, just ask a dog named Gus.

Through sleet and snow, rain or shine, Gus trotted faithfully beside the postmen on Route 1424 in Iroquois Park. Nothing stopped the mail—or Gus.

For 12 months, each morning when the doors of the Iroquois branch post office were opened, there was Gus waiting. He never missed a day. Who he was or where he came from, nobody ever learned.

Sometimes Gus would hup aboard the parcel delivery truck. Sometimes he checked on things around the office. But most of the time he preferred to trudge faithfully beside his pals who carried the mail from house to house.

Recently he found a girlfriend named Suzy. But duty was stronger than love, so Suzy had to tag along the route to be with Gus.

Last Tuesday troubles caught up with Gus. Mistaking a dog pound truck for a post office parcel truck, Gus crossed the street to say hello.

Instead, without a license around his neck, Gus fell into the hands of the law and quickly was hauled off to the pound.

But not for long. His friends back at the post office saw to that. While girlfriend Suzy took Gus' place on the route, his postmen friends started a "save Gus fund drive."

Three postmen showed up at the pound Wednesday with $9.03. That was 47 cents short of Gus' bail but they dug up the remainder among themselves.

Gus is fine now but his postmen friends have decided it's time he retired from the route. From now on he will be living with Willard Carpenter behind a wire fence and with a brand new dog license.

"But it won't be the same out on the route now with Gus gone," one of the postmen said.

This was the second time within a week a dog has emerged from his roll as the postman's most dreaded adversary.

Benjie, part Boxer and part hound, came to the fore in New Haven, Conn., this week.

Benjie appears five days a week to make his rounds with postman Ed Bowers but declines to go along with a substitute carrier.

Australia Told Nothing To Fear

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Australians were told today that the impending U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific are "critically important" and they have nothing to fear from radioactive fallout.

Foreign Minister Sir Garfield Barwick reported to Parliament that a radiation advisory committee had satisfied the government that the tests at Christmas Island would not constitute a danger to Australia, New Zealand or other areas in the South Pacific.

Mrs. Heller Gives Program

Mrs. R. P. Heller was guest speaker when Mrs. Franklin Brown was hostess to members and guests of the Thetis Book Club on Tuesday afternoon.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Bill Howard, president, reminded members of a Bridge Tournament sponsored by the Art Center to be held on April 24th.

Mrs. Lilly Lewis, representative to an organizational meeting of a Book Club Council, reported on the events of the meeting.

The hostess introduced Mrs. Heller who talked on "Flower Arranging." She illustrated her talk by showing the group how to make one type of arrangement and talked about the mechanics of other types. She also gave many helpful hints on the conditioning of various flowers. Her talk was followed by an informal question and answer period.

Mrs. Bill Deavours was a guest for the afternoon.

Official Couturier Comments On Criticism Of First Lady

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Associated Press Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Her official couturier, Oleg Cassini, said today the unfavorable criticism that Jacqueline Kennedy received at the Fashion Forum in Philadelphia was in "appalling bad taste."

Other topnotch designers in the garment district here also rushed to the defense of the First Lady, who twice has been on the world's best dressed lists.

Designer John Moore touched off the controversy as a panelist on the subject of "what is a well dressed woman?" when he declared, among other things, that Mrs. Kennedy's clothes appeared twisted and ill-fitted, and that her skirts were too short. He said that her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, was much more elegant. "Actually, the people involved should not be dignified by a statement," replied the irate Cassini. He said he had been sickened by the whole incident. "The appalling bad taste involved only showed bad manners, which are truly a discredit to the industry. I don't wish to comment further," he said.

John Vasdekis, executive vice president of the Cassini organization also took exception, saying: "Ill-fitting dresses for Mrs. Kennedy are completely out of the question. She has many, many fittings. Every dress we make fits her like a glove. This is a girl who has a very beautiful figure. She would look marvelous in any dress out of a stockroom, but her clothes are made especially for her.

"As for her skirts being short is her own damned business. With people going to the moon and with atom bombs to worry about, I don't see why her hem lengths are so important.

"Elegance is a personal matter. Just because a woman is wife of a king or a president... well, she's still a human being. And she still has the right to please herself."

Bill Blass, designer for Maurice Rentner, defended Moore's right to criticize, but didn't agree with his views.

"I think both the ladies (Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Radziwill) are extraordinarily well dressed," he said.

Jacques Tiffeau, French-born designer with the Monte-Sano dress house, said, "Well, in a way I agree. But what can you say?"

Who is perfect? Her skirts are a bit too short. Oh, how I would love to dress her. How beautiful I would make her. She is typical of the young generation... what is the word... casual?"

"I don't permit myself to judge anyone I don't know," Pauline Trigers said of Mrs. Kennedy. "There may be truth to what he (Moore) says. I've seen her pictures, but you can't judge that way."

Mamie Eisenhower's favorite designer, Mollie Parnis, had nothing but praise for the lady who has taken over the White House closet.

"I think Mrs. Kennedy is a really great first lady, the greatest influence on fashion we have ever had," she said.

"She is the epitome of perfection without even trying, and that's hard. She is natural and right whether she is wearing a sleeveless dress on a boat, or has her hair pulled back, or has a scarf tied around it.

"The secret to Mrs. Kennedy's talent with fashion is that there is nothing contrived or planned."

Local Auxiliary Attends Meeting

When the annual meeting of the Second District, North Carolina Department, American Legion Auxiliary, was held at Aurora on Friday, March 30, there were 20 members from Greenville Unit 39 in attendance.

The meeting was held in the Aurora Methodist Church and lunch was served by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the church. Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, Second District president, presided. Among other distinguished guests she recognized the 18 Gold Star Mothers present, seven of whom were from Greenville.

The address was given by Mrs. Sam J. Welborn of Thomasville, the department president. Mrs. R. L. Mohler of Washington was elected district president to succeed Mrs. Kennedy who has served two terms, and Mrs. Raymond Douglas of Aurora was elected to serve as alternate district president. Greenville Unit No. 39 received a cash award for the most mileage of members present.

Greenville Unit also presented four new members to the department president whose project for the year is increased membership. The four new members are: Mrs. Grace B. Forrest, Mrs. Margaret W. Mellon, Mrs. Norman W. Wilkerson and Mrs. Carolyn B. Jackson.

The Second District in the first area was the first to make their quota in membership.

Initiates Of Sororities Honored

Four East Carolina College women students were announced this week as new members of the college social sorority, Sigma Sigma Sigma. At an initiation ceremony at the St. James Methodist Church in Greenville, the students wore attractive white ensembles.

One of eight social sororities on the campus, the Gamma Beta Chapter encourages high academic standards and carries out a program of social service with emphasis on work among children.

Initiates of the sorority have just completed the requirements of a 12-week pledge period, which included studying the history of the chapter and learning their responsibilities in the sorority. Chosen for her excellence, each initiate also maintained a scholastic average of C on all work taken during this pledge period.

Among other events highlighting the initiation was a dinner party prepared by sisters of Sigma Sigma Sigma and served in the sorority chapter house on East Fifth Street in Greenville. Guests for the occasion included patronesses and graduating members of the sorority.

Initiates honored were Polly L. Bunting of Rt. 2, Williamston; Mrs. Mary Hayes Collier of Greenville; Barbara Jenkins of Wilson; and Elizabeth Glover of Gastonia.

Chi Omega Sorority
The Rho Zeta Chapter of Chi Omega, social sorority at East Carolina College, has announced this week nine pledges of the sorority. In honor of the pledges, a formal dance—the White Carnation Ball—was given by sisters of the sorority Friday, March 30, at the American Legion Hall in Ayden.

During intermission, pledges, attired in long white evening gowns, were escorted, along with their big sisters, into a Chi Omega formation. After each pledge was presented, she was recipient of a bouquet of white carnations, the sorority's flower, which was tied with bow ribbons of cardinal and straw, the color of the sorority.

Music for the dance was furnished by The Continentals.

Among guests for the occasion, including escorts of the sisters and pledges, were Dr. Cleveland Bradner, Professor of Humanities, and Mrs. Bradner; Dr. Richard C. Oldenburg, Associate Professor of Psychology, and Mrs. Oldenburg; and Gene Lanier, assistant librarian of the East Carolina College faculty.

The nine pledges are Donna Bingham of Cary; Brenda Brown of Charlotte; Donna Cain of Greenville; Anne Campbell of Raleigh and Arlington, Va.; Gayle Carmichael of Norfolk, Va.; Carol Daugherty of Norfolk, Va.; Sandra Denton of Norfolk; Gregory Michael of Silver Springs, Md.; and Julia (Judy) Payne of Bassett, Va.

Bride-Elect Entertained

Honoring Miss Nelson Blount, bride-elect, a luncheon was recently given by Mrs. H. L. Ormond Jr., Mrs. Paul V. Reinartz Jr. and Mrs. H. L. Ormond at the Ormond home on East Fifth St.

Upon arrival the guests were served a fruit appetizer.

The dining room table was centered with a bride doll flanked on either side by wedding bells and nosegays of pink camellias. Auxiliary tables placed throughout the home were laid with pink cloths and centered with wedding bells and pink camellias.

The hostesses presented Miss Blount with a gift and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Curb Market Opens Friday

The Curb Market will re-open this Friday from 3:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. on the front porch of the Greenville Art Center.

Mrs. Marge Jackson, director of the Greenville Art Center, said, "This is an opportunity to sell those extra cabbage, tomatoes and pepper plants to the backyard gardener. Canned fruit and jellies are in demand at the Curb Market for anyone interested in selling an over-supply they might have."

"The Curb Market gives an opportunity to sell home grown and homemade things and buy the unusual from the artists of the kitchen and garden."

"Cakes, cookies and homemade breads will be for sale. This gives the busy mother a chance to treat her family to special desserts from someone else's kitchen."

Mrs. Waldrop Thalian Hostess

On Tuesday, April 3rd, Mrs. J. E. Waldrop entertained the Thalian Book Club at the Greenville Country Club.

The long luncheon table was set on the porch overlooking the golf course. A massive arrangement of tulips, iris and daffodils centered the table, and similar arrangements were used elsewhere in the club house.

While the guests enjoyed a two-course luncheon, Mrs. P. A. Taylor Jr. provided a varied program of piano music.

Mrs. H. L. Hodges Jr. presided at a brief business session, after which books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Chapter Celebrates Founding

Celebrating the founding of Chi Omega, sisters of the Rho Zeta Chapter at East Carolina College entertained at a banquet in honor of five founders of Chi Omega Saturday, March 31, at the Cinderella Restaurant of Greenville.

Chi Omega, founded April 5, 1895, at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark., was the first strictly national Greek

Red Banks HD Club Has Meet

Is your living room arranged so that it has balance, proportion, unity and contrast? Do you have your furniture arranged to have conversational groups and traffic lanes? This was discussed by Mrs. Mavis Johnson, assistant Home Economics agent, at the April meeting of the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club.

The meeting was held at the Eastern Pines Community Building with Mrs. Worth Hardee presiding and giving the devotion.

Mrs. Herman Adams gave a report encouraging everyone to read more books. Mrs. Karl Hardee gave a report on the County Council meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Vernon Hardee and Mrs. R. H. Heath Jr.

Advice Offered For 'True Parisiennes'

PARIS — (WNS) — Jacques Chazot of the Comedie Francaise is delivering lectures on good manners to Paris models, hostesses, saleswomen and secretaries. His recommendations for public behavior of "true Parisiennes:"

1. Never sit curled up on your feet.
2. Never put your hands on your face.
3. Never scratch yourself.
4. Never smile at a stranger who pretends to know you.
5. Never get angry or lose your temper.
6. Never stand to greet someone (unless it's a very old lady).
7. Never wait for a man to put out his hand first before offering yours to shake.
8. Never fall into the arms of another on the pretext that you are just trying to be friendly.
9. Never scream with laughter, howl with delight, or snap back loudly with annoyance.
10. Never use the lame excuse that you are ill to escape from a cocktail party or other difficult situation.

Shouldn't Stand In Way Of Bids

The Department of Administration should immediately heed the request of the Board of Conservation and Development to clear the way for taking bids on leasing bottoms of Pamlico and Pungo Rivers for phosphate mining.

Efforts to develop a phosphate mining industry in our neighboring Beaufort County were blocked several years ago in the high echelons of state government when officials refused to sanction leasing the river bottoms for mining operations. Since that time several large companies have continued their interest in phosphate deposits in Beaufort County. It should be evident now as it was several years ago, that the companies will not put out the capital outlay for extensive phosphate mining operations in the area unless they can secure leases to mine the river bottoms as well as the privately owned high ground.

Proposals for the phosphate mining operations several years ago indicated the operations would pump several million dollars annually into the economy of Beaufort County in terms of many new jobs and other expenditures in connection with the operations. There is every reason to believe that state approval for leasing the river bottoms for mining operations will open the way for an important new industrial operation in this section of Eastern North Carolina.

State Property Guidance Rules

By LYNN NISBET
CONFORMITY — Ralph Sutton, vice president and business manager, and Harley Shelton, engineer, have been forced to resign their positions at Western Carolina College at Cullowhee for violation of rules and regulations for the handling of State property. Apparently they did not steal anything or benefit themselves by wronging the college, although it is conceded that the manner in which they handled some transactions lent itself to wrongful personal profit. It was a matter of officials on the inside buying for their own use college property, which the institution no longer needed, without publicity and without going through channels established for disposition of such property. There is no evidence that they did not pay market price for the material.

This incident further illustrates the necessity for strict regulations and close adherence to them in dealing with public property. In a multi-million dollar business like the State of North Carolina with some 60,000 employees handling various phases of it, individual judgment cannot be tolerated—even though in many instances it might save money for the State. There was an instance a few years ago of a minor clerk being severely reprimanded for violating regulations because he had bought a dozen lead pencils which suited his particular needs and put the item on his expense account, instead of obtaining the pencils through the division of purchase and contract which had executed a blanket order for all the pencils needed by the State.

IRREGULAR — There are many people who doubt that Dr. Leon R. Meadows did anything criminal as president of East Carolina Teachers College some 20 years ago, although he was convicted and imprisoned for misuse of State property. It is of common knowledge that the late Dr. B. B. Dougherty built a great institution out of a struggling little mountain school at Boone by resorting to all kinds of short-cut money-saving practices without too much regard for established rules of procedure. Someone said the other day that if budget controls had been as tight in the 1930's and '40's as they are now, Dr. Dougherty would have found himself in very serious trouble.

About two years ago Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government, was embarrassed when the State Auditor discovered discrepancies in his cash account. There was never any suggestion that Coates had taken for his own use money which did not belong to him. What he had done was to collect fees and other charges and put the money in an account out of which he paid certain obligations of the Institute. That saved time and bookkeeping but it did not fit into the overall plan for handling State accounts.

State auditors are alert to catch these infractions and deviations because in some past instances the ease with which rules could be bypassed resulted in actual criminal activities. The requirement for strict conformity to regulations not only assures protection for the public but often protects the official or employee from temptation to venture beyond the pale.

WILDLIFE—What looked one time like it might develop into an exhibition of wildlife in action toned down Sunday night and Monday when proposals to replace Clyde Patton as director of Wildlife Resources were sidetracked.

It seems that some members of the Wildlife Resources Commission tended to resent the fact that Director Patton went ahead to do his job in personnel matters without consulting the commissioners. This was another instance where the state-wide concept and the district autonomy idea clash. That same problem bobs up every once in a while in the highway commission, the board of education and other agencies which have territorial limits on appointments.

Fortunately all parties in the wildlife group got together and harmony prevails. This incident recalls a story current at the time Dr. Clyde Patton came to Raleigh back in 1947-48. The newly formed N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission, divorced by the 1947 Legislature from the Department of Conservation and Development, was building up a staff. Advertisements had gone out over the country for a director, a public relations man and other top level positions. Patton came down from Virginia to interview the N. C. commission about the public relations job. The commissioners were so impressed they offered him the top job as executive director. He accepted, and has been on that job ever since.

that the Beaufort County area may contain one of the most extensive untapped sources of phosphate along the east coast. If this important natural resource can be developed through successful mining operations, there can be no question that industries—such as fertilizer producers—which use great quantities of the material will be interested in locating in the area. Opening the way for the mining operations could also be opening the way for an unprecedented economic growth for the area.

When state officials several years ago blocked efforts toward developing this potential economic growth in Beaufort County, we felt they made a grave mistake; one that was detrimental to the area involved and detrimental to the state as a whole. We feel they will be making another grave mistake if for the second time they stand in the way of the development of this potential in our neighboring county.

Shocking Charges Are Due A Proper Inquiry

Former General Edwin A. Walker's assertion that he "was a scapegoat of an unwritten policy of collaboration and collusion with the international communist conspiracy" falls just short of outright charges that the Kennedy administration of deliberately betraying the nation into the hands of communism.

Certainly the charges made by the former general are among the most serious ever made against an administration or high officials of the nation.

While he is within his right to speak his convictions before a Senate investigating committee, neither Gen. Walker nor the public should take lightly the charges he has made. Members of the Senate should not allow the charges to go without notice.

By all means the Senate, now that it has heard the shocking charges by the former high military officer, has the responsibility of giving the public the benefit of its opinion of the charges, based on investigation.

If Gen. Walker's charges have any foundation, the United States would be in dire circumstances.

If—as we suspect—the charges are unfounded, and certainly it is the responsibility of the Senate investigating group to tell the people of the country so.

It is one thing to disagree with the policies of officials, high or low. It is quite another to charge them with actions which closely border on treason.

Help For UN Is Still Undecided

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—How to snatch the United Nations out of a financial jam has been going through the congressional wringer for months. It's still wet.

President Kennedy thought he had a compromise worked out with Senate Republicans. It turned out this was with just some Republicans. Others had second thoughts.

The United Nations charges its members regular dues but adds special assessments when it runs into extra expense as it did in putting troops into the Middle East to keep peace or into the Congo to restore peace.

Various countries — Russia, the Arab states, France, Belgium, Portugal — refused to pay the assessments because, for different reasons, these particular U. N. operations ran counter to their interests.

This put the United Nations in a hole. At the end of 1961 its deficit was $114 million. By next June it was expected to be $170 million. To get out of it decided to sell $200 million in bonds, repayable in 25 years at 2 per cent interest.

President Kennedy thought the United States should buy half these bonds, or $100 million worth. He said so last January. Opposition started at once, not only from Republicans but from some Democrats, too.

There was anger at the thought that in a world organization of 104 members the United States should feel it ought to buy half the $200-million bond issue.

There was so much anger at the nations — some of them American allies, like France, Belgium, Portugal — who refused to pay their assessments that Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield referred to them as "deadbeats."

When Kennedy suggested this country buy $100 million of U. N. bonds, to be paid off in 25 years at 2 per cent, he got hit with a variety of proposals from senators who wanted to give more restrained help.

Sen. George Aiken, Vermont Republican and no enemy of the United Nations, has been the most persistent for more restraint. He's been consistently seconded by Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa.

Aiken and Hickenlooper thought up this one: Let the United States buy the $100 million in bonds for three years at about 3 per cent instead of Kennedy's willingness to buy $100 million for 25 years at 2 per cent.

All this went around and around for weeks. Finally, a compromise was worked out with Aiken and other Republicans. This week Mansfield and his opposite number, Everett Dirksen, offered the Senate a plan. The President would have the choice of buying bonds, or lending the United Nations money up to $25 million as a start-up, plus another $75 million if other countries bought at least $75 million worth. They have already pledged themselves for $50 million worth.

The President could set the interest rate at 2 per cent. If he wished, and make the deal for 25 years. But this wasn't spelled out in the Mansfield-Dirksen proposal to the Senate.

But Tuesday Republican senators had a conference and some of them didn't seem to like the compromise plan agreed to by Dirksen and Aiken. Hickenlooper, for instance, hemmed and hawed and said he wasn't in on the compromise. So it's still battling around.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NATURE OF REWARD
Many people believe that there is something unworthy about award. Whatever we do, they say, we must do without any anticipation of reward. We must do a thing simply because it is right to do. Whether it helps us or hurts us is not a matter of any consequence.

This is high and exalted philosophy indeed. It is true in large measure, but very difficult to live up to. All of us have, to some extent, a longing for reward. If we do well, we want people to appreciate the fact and give us at least modest praise. If we perform some useful service, we want to be paid for it at the highest rate the traffic will bear. If we love our neighbor as ourselves, we want both the neighbor and everybody along the street to know this, to appreciate it, and above all to appreciate us.

Now there seems to be a lot of unworthiness in all this. Not a matter of fact, there is not. There may be a little of childishness in it, but we are all half grown youngsters. The desire for reward is perfectly legitimate if it is not put first in life or if it does not occupy too broad a section of our horizon.

Jesus spoke of reward frequently. "Great is your reward in heaven," he declared to his disciples on one occasion. We all long for at least a little bit of reward — and we should get it.

Bit Of Greenville's Past

The old house next door to The Daily Reflector building is being dismantled, and the finding of some hand-hewn timbers in the structure has recalled a bit of Greenville's past.

I wouldn't have guessed, for instance, that the building now being torn down, and the building still in use next door to it, were once a part of the old Macon Hotel. And the frame building that once stood on the present site of the newspaper plant and torn down shortly before the property was purchased by the newspaper, was the third segment of what had been once Greenville's leading hotel.

As told to me, the Macon was built on Cotanche Street before the turn of the century and operated by the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner. It closed sometime around the mid-19-teens, when the Proctor Hotel was in process of being built.

That section of the Macon Hotel where the Reflector now stands was devoted to the hotel's lobby, dining room and kitchen. The two still-standing structures comprised the bedroom section.

The hotel was a two-story affair with maybe sixteen rooms, and had a two-decker porch fronting the street.

When the late Dr. L. C. Skinner, son of the operators, acquired the property, he cut up the hotel and made three houses of it sometime prior to 1920.

These odd bits of old Greenville lore are probably tucked away in the minds and scrapbooks of a number of our people. But it takes something like the turning up of hand-hewn timbers in dismantling of an old structure that stirs memories and the familiar words "I remember when..."

Other Editors Saying... New Science Office

(Richmond News Leader)
A new office is in the works to knit up the ravelled sleeve of the nation's scientific programs. President Kennedy has sent to Congress a reorganization plan that would create an Office of Science and Technology in the White House intended to upgrade the unwieldy President's Science Advisory Committee. The plan will become effective unless vetoed by Congress.

The burgeoning of governmental scientific research activities was completely unexpected. In 1956, for example, the Federal government spent $2.4 billion in research and development; now expenditures run to $9 billion annually and will probably go up to $12 billion in 1963.

The Science Advisory Committee was set up in 1957 to give the President advice and direction on civilian science programs, yet it has no overseer which are distributed throughout 30 or 40 Federal agencies. A study presented to the 86th Congress revealed appalling duplication and misdirection in these agencies, for want of some head man to define aims and coordinate programs.

The problem of the layman—and the President and Congressmen are laymen—is that in many scientific decisions the basic propositions have to be taken on faith from the scientists. In the recent controversy about the RS-70 reconnaissance bomber (formerly called the B-70), both sides had to base their policy decisions on the new scientific word. Secretary McNamara's decision resulted from an elaborate scheme of computer-programmed predictions. His arguments could be attacked only by analysis of the assumptions and logic of the computer program, a job for a team of highly-trained programming experts.

In this situation both the President and Congress have been at a loss. The President's advisors serve only as part-time help since the best men are engaged in their own studies. At the same time, with these best men pre-empted by the President, Congress loses access to necessary information. Scientific advisors are not appointed by statute, and they cannot be called upon to testify on their recommendations to the President.

For this reason, there has been strong pressure in Congress to create a cabinet-rank Department of Science and Technology, despite the fear of scientists that the accompanying bureaucracy would hamper creative scientific thought. Only last month, Senator John McClellan urged passage of a bill having this aim.

The Kennedy proposal pulls most of these threads together. Despite the hanky-panky surrounding the last reorganization plan, proposing a Department of Urban Affairs, the procedure followed by the President is the normal way to create such an office: Since the Reorganization Act of 1949, sixty-six plans have been submitted to Congress. The President would have a full-time officer and a full-time deputy to pull varying points of view together; Congress would have the right to subpoena them to get pertinent information and data. The office would direct over-all planning, but little else; hopefully, it would avoid the abuses of bureaucracy. An office of Science and Technology would demand a first-rate man at its head—someone of the caliber of Lewis Strauss. If such a director can be found, the plan might save money. It's worth a try.

Isn't the simple cumulative effect of birthdays that adds gray to my hair and new circles under my eyes.

Rather, it's the little things that wear editors down. Take Tuesday's boo-boo...

A little story, not more than three inches in length, about two local doctors returning from an educational seminar in Charlotte. There was nothing wrong with the first three paragraphs, every word correctly spelled, the spacing was perfect... and then...

"It was emphasized that doctors of chiropractic are not recognized by over 500 insurance companies for the care of their policy holders."

Notice that "not"? It should be N-O-W, not N-O-T. But it came out in type as N-O-T. One letter makes a lot of difference in the message.

I have wondered why it is that typographical boo-boos crop up in the most improbable and unwanted places.

That errant "T" could have appeared in any one of several hundred other places and passed over without subsequent nightmares and wringing of hands, loss of appetite and high blood pressure. A misspelled word, due to any number of reasons, occasionally appears in the many thousands of words printed daily in a newspaper. It is not often that entire sentence meanings are changed by such mishaps.

Most of the time, most of the typographical errors are caught before the paper goes to press. The ones that do get into print are mourned more by the editors than the reading public.

Competition Forced Settlement

By ELMER ROESSNER
The steel wage settlement has been hailed as a triumph of labor willingness to avoid a strike, of President Kennedy's diplomacy and/or the steel companies statesmanship.

Bunk. The moderate settlement was reached because both labor and management knew that foreign competition has American producers on the run and that new price increases resulting from jishu wages would mean abandonment of our already shrunken share of the world market dropped from about 17 per cent to less than 10 per cent, according to the current issue of "Steelways," the official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

SLOW GROWTH
This drop occurred while the international steel trade was rising from 16 million tons to 42 million tons a year.

The magazine points out that in the same period, the Japanese increased their production by 357 per cent; West Germany by 143 per cent, Czechoslovakia by 127 per cent and Brazil by 176 per cent.

In that same period, the United States increased its output 3 per cent, from 96.8 million tons to 99.2 million tons. During the decade, U. S. capacity was increased 40 per cent, which suggests that the steel companies were expecting a lot of new business they did not get.

Steelways offered two major reasons for the U. S. loss of the expanding market. They are the "scaring" costs of domestic producers and the enormous growth of foreign steel production since the war.

JAPAN RISES TO 4TH PLACE
War-damaged mills in other countries have been replaced with more and larger modern facilities. This process is continuing. Japan, for example, became the world's fourth largest steel producer in 1961, putting out 31 million ingot tons. Not satisfied, it has launched a program designed to bring production to 53 million tons a year by 1970, which would put it in third place, topped only by U. S. and Russia.

Because Japan cannot possibly consume the projected increase, the magazine points out that the nation must compete more aggressively for foreign markets.

Curiously, the U. S. is now buying 23.2 per cent of Japan's iron and steel exports.

COST DIFFERENTIAL ALREADY ENORMOUS
American labor costs are from three to seven times as great as those of foreign competitors, Steelways said.

What About Kids

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Everyday, when I pick up the newspapers, I see articles and photographs about the private lives of Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher and somebody called Burton. And I am strictly bored. Does that make me a square?

According to the publicity and the photographs, the aforementioned Liz and Burton are in a picture called "Cleopatra" which, 'tis said, costs $32,000,000, which is a whole of a lot of money and which will take some doing to get it back. The also aforesaid Eddie is not in the picture.

Yes, I am told that all around there are eight or nine children involved in this exhibitionism and that sooner or later they will read the press items and see the pictures and they will, if they are properly reared, be ashamed or maybe they will become juvenile delinquents out of hatred and spite, or maybe they will go and do likewise when they grow up on the principle that it happened to them, why not to me?

The adults in this business have become a bore. Every time this Liz Taylor gets out of one husband and procures another, the publicity becomes fierce. I recall the woman when she was much younger and prettier. I saw her walking down Park Avenue, holding hands, with someone she was about to marry, also young. It looked very romantic.

Then I saw her on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf with another husband and she looked more womanly and harder. I never saw her in the company of the late Mike Todd, which I am told was an experience for the onlooker.

Eddie Fisher I only saw once, in the Stork Club. He was about to marry Debbie Reynolds, and her people were with them—nice, simple, American people. It all looked so sentimental. Burton, I never saw face to face and therefore cannot say anything about him.

As I get the story, Fisher has two children by Debbie Reynolds; he has adopted Mike Todd's child by Elizabeth Taylor and an Italian child; Taylor had two children by her second husband, Wilding, but none by her first husband, Nicky Hilton, son of the hotel keeper. There is no offspring from Fisher but Burton has two children by his current wife.

Since the time of Nell Gwyn, it has been notorious that some ladies of the stage are more interested in their post-theatrical lives than in thespian responsibilities. In our age, this is encouraged because it brings the curious to the theater to see who the person looks like. Often the bark is worse than the bite, manufactured by press agents because it has heretofore been good business to have a bad reputation. Undoubtedly a leading opponent of the vilification of Hollywood's reputation has been Walter Wanger, the producer of "Cleopatra." Time after time, he has protested against the breaking up of families by press agents.

It is therefore difficult to believe that Wanger would be a party to the publicizing of the love affairs of Elizabeth Taylor, now in his fifth edition. However, whoever put up $32,000,000 to make a picture of the utterly amoral Cleopatra, who was married to her brother and then cavorted with the Romans as they came into her country, may have an interest.

Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw wrote footnotes to Cleopatra's career and were it not for that, the main would undoubtedly be forgotten by now, when we have Nasser, the Puritan, in control of her country. But the movies will rehabilitate her as the Queen-courtesan, and young ladies will be carried into her country, may have an interest.

Must there be so much sincerity that one who plays a part, must also live the part? The great Sarah Bernhardt or even greater Rachel did feel their parts movingly and Anna Held, back in the days of the Rumanian Yiddish Theater, was as they say, carried into her country, may have an interest.

Most of the time, most of the typographical errors are caught before the paper goes to press. The ones that do get into print are mourned more by the editors than the reading public.

A revolutionary step in 8mm sound movies was revealed in Chicago recently when the photo industry gathered to show its latest developments.

A compact unit which instantly applies a high fidelity magnetic sound track to any 8mm movie film was demonstrated by Mansfield Industries. It can be used by a movie fan in his own home to make his movies immediately ready for recording.

This step signifies a tremendous breakthrough in an 8mm sound system which will eventually reach the average home movie fan. It should make a more immediate impact on schools, institutions, camps and resorts, business and industry, for training and educational films, documentaries, sales messages and photographic records.

Until now a magnetic sound-stripe could be applied only by laboratory specialists at approximately 6 cents per foot along with the usual delay involved in shipping and returning film. The new Mansfield-Syntronic Soundstriper comes in a self-contained carrying case which weighs less than six pounds and costs under $60. It uses a refill plastic tube of iron oxide to add a standard 30-mil stripe to a maximum 400-foot reel of 8mm film in 15 minutes. The film dries as it is applied and is ready for recording.

Mansfield also demonstrated a new 8mm sound projector with its own recording and amplifying equipment which was priced under $200. The sound head is re-usable to permit recording, erasing and re-recording and superimposing of sound on sound.

In addition, an 8mm unit designed for playback only is to be available, priced under $100. It

Record Proves Safety Seat Belts' Value When Life And Death Close

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A woman drove the family car along a city street, it veered slightly, a wheel struck the curb and a door swung open. She bounced helplessly to the concrete. Cause of death fractured skull.

On a country road, a Wisconsin traffic patrol squad shrieked after a fugitive at speeds close to 100 miles an hour. Another car blundered out of a side road, the patrol car slanted off the road, struck a utility pole, spun through a field and back onto the highway, upside down and a total wreck.

But the patrolman inside crawled out, finished his tour of duty in another car.

Those are two moments when life and death were very close together. Only a seat belt separated them. The woman had none, and died. The officer was belted in and lived.

That summarizes the record of the past six months, since Wisconsin became the first of the 50 states to require seat belts in new automobiles.

"I am proud to have signed the bill into law," Gov. Gaylord Nelson says simply. "It can save many hundreds of lives in the coming years and prevent thousands of serious injuries."

Since the act requires belt installation only in new cars, it has given authorities an effective grim-field test of the safety factor worked out previously in limited surveys.

The state has 1,338,876 passenger cars registered. Some 70,000 1962 models have been sold since the law went into effect last October. During the six months ended April 1, 376 persons have died in Wisconsin traffic accidents.

But with five per cent of the state's passenger automobiles equipped with seat belts, only one of the 376 accident victims during the period, according to State Motor Vehicle Department files, was wearing a seat belt.

The record is not complete enough to draw any extravagant conclusions. The accident report form still in use by state, county and local traffic officers does not provide space for reporting whether a car is equipped with belts and whether they were in use.

But after passage of the law, various newspaper and radio groups—including the Wisconsin Associated Press Radio-TV Association and the Wisconsin Associated Press Association, an organization of AP-member newspaper editors—undertook a campaign to include such information in news stories of fatal accidents.

The motor vehicle department was flooded, in the first days of the law, with complaints from new car customers. Hardly any passenger cars were equipped with the safety belts before last October, and few dealers had any experience with installations.

Prices ranged up to $40 for the required pairs of belts in the front seat.

But the combination of competition and increasing demands have changed that. Most belts still are dealer-installed but the going price for utility belts of approved style now probably is under $20 for two pairs. Garages and filling station operators are doing an increasing business with owners of older cars at still lower prices, and a metropolitan supermarket chain recently profiting a rush of business by offering seat belts at $4.95 a pair—including installation—as a premium with big grocery orders.

There even is a beginning demand for the shoulder harness type of safety webbing usually worn by race car drivers.

of his in London by the name of Ziegfeld, whose son in due course became such a glorified figure in the American theater.

But what of the children of these smashed homes? What becomes of them? It is a sociological problem in the formation of character.

Wants Fancier License To Wed

CHICAGO (AP)—With a pretty bride and a handsome groom, it's a shame to have a plain marriage license, says Edward J. Barrett, Cook County clerk.

"The marriage licenses we've been issuing over the years aren't fancy enough," said Barrett. "They look too official."

Barrett, whose office issued 42,715 marriage licenses last year, said he's looking into redesigning the licenses and having them filled out on special typewriters using elaborate type faces. Colored ink in the typewriter ribbons, also would help, he added.

"Your own birth certificate, in most cases, is a lot more attractive than your marriage license," said Barrett. "And you don't have a thing to say about being born."

TWO OTHER TRANSLATIONS MEMPHIS (AP)—A gun fancier walked into a bookstore here and asked the woman clerk if she had a copy of "The Shooter's Bible."

"Why, no, sir," she said cheerfully, "but we have the King James and the Revised Standard."

A New JOHN CREASEY Thriller

A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

CHAPTER 34
 "Does anyone yet know why Mike Kennedy and Kate Lawson were on the danger list?" Richard Rollison asked Superintendent Grice of Scotland Yard.
 "Not yet," Grice said, "but when Wedlake has had time to recover, and when he knows that his wife owes her life to you, he will probably tell us a lot we don't know. Anyhow, he'll spend the night at the Yard. Bailey will spend it at his home, closely guarded, and you'll spend it in bed if you're any sense."
 When Rollison made no comment, Grice went on: "Did you suspect that Holmes was Thompson before you found those passports?"
 Rollison had handed the passports over.
 "It was in the cards as soon as we knew that Thompson had taken the Park View house, furnished—as it was Holmes'—to let, and he had to give permission," Rollison answered. "Don't pretend you didn't suspect it, once

Bennett gave us that description. Here was a man of Holmes' build and coloring, who knew Holmes' house thoroughly.
 "There was some indication that Holmes had been held in the cellar at Park View, but none that he'd been seriously hurt. That looked like a blind to me. Obviously someone was building up a fake identity so that he could slip out of it whenever he wanted to. It had to be someone whom Bennett would know by sight if he weren't disguised, someone Kate Lawson would know for certain if she ever saw the back of his neck with the scar uncovered."
 Grice looked puzzled. "Scar?"
 "The scar, from an old shrapnel wound," Rollison reminded him. "That was the explanation of the major mystery. Bill—why Kate had to be killed. She would be able to identify her Maurice from every angle, and although a scar can be concealed with powder or long hair part of the time, it shows up sooner or later. And that scar made his identity beyond all doubt. A chance meeting, even close questioning by the police, would have revealed it as an identification factor.

 "I think we'll find that Holmes Thompson realized that Kennedy would be bound to come round to the fact that he had a key to the identity. He's seen Holmes before, of course. So had a lot of airport officials, but they weren't important. Kennedy was the moment he became involved in the case."
 "Then Bennett was lying?"
 "Bennett daren't name Holmes as Thompson, and he lied about that, but he told us about the scar to make it seem as if he was being frank," Rollison said. "We'll probably find that Bennett hoped Thompson would see him all right when he got out of prison."
 "I expect that's it," said Grice quietly. "And Kennedy had seen Holmes before, travelling under the Thompson passport."
 "Can you think of anything more likely than that he's often been to and fro?"
 "No," Grice admitted thoughtfully. "As they were so determined not to allow the possibility of being caught, I can't. But I can think off—"
 "I really don't wish to intrude, sir," Jolly said, from his point of retirement in a corner of the room, "but I feel that this is not the time for conjecture. It will be very much better if Mr. Rollison is able to have a night's rest, and in the morning—"
 "In a minute, Jolly," Rollison said. "Thanks. What can you think, Bill?"
 "I can think that only tremendously high stakes would explain ruthless murder like this," Grice said, and went on very intently. "Almost from the beginning there was cold-blooded murder. What made it worthwhile? If Wedlake got a few thousand pounds for the secret—say ten thousand—it would be as much as any small manufacturer was likely to pay. Wedlake might have felt that his whole future was in jeopardy, but—I can't see it as a motive. Rolly. Can you?"
 "I cannot," agreed Rollison, mildly. "Do you believe Wedlake?"
 "Oh, he told some of the truth."
 "Yes," agreed Rollison again. "Some of the truth, Bill. And you couldn't be more right. This kind of organization, this kind of cold-blooded murder, this premeditated laying-on of a fire to make sure we couldn't examine the documents—there's our problem."
 "Mr. Rollison—" began Jolly.
 "All right, all right, we'll sleep on it," said Rollison hastily, and went out with Jolly, who had found the Rolls-Bentley, and who drove him back to Mayfair. He dozed and pondered all the way.

 As they entered the flat on the top floor, Rollison went through to the living room, stared at the Trophy Wall and, after what seemed a long time, said: "What I need and what that wall needs is a Rocket, Jolly. Remind me of that in the morning, will you?"
 "Do you mean that you wish to inspect one of the new cars?" asked Jolly.
 "Yes," answered Rollison. "And there's only one place to do that—at the Malling Motors plant. And I'd like to see what the other directors look like after they know that Wedlake's under arrest."
 "It is bound to be a very great shock indeed," Jolly observed.
 "The greatest," agreed Rollison. He had been asleep for what seemed five minutes when he heard the telephone bell ringing harshly, and it would not stop. He struggled to open his eyes, and found that it was nearly daylight. He stretched out a hand for the telephone and the bell stopped ringing, but he picked the instrument up and heard Jolly announce himself in a voice heavy with sleep.
 "Wake Mr. Rollison, Jolly, at once," Grice said.
 There was a moment's pause, before Jolly said "Mr. Grice, I do beg you—"
 "It's all right, Jolly," Rollison said into the extension. "Hallo, Bill, what's the trouble?"
 "The whole of the experimental sheds at Malling Motors are going up in flames," Grice announced. "I thought you might like to see the end of this Rocket business."
 In the early morning, the roads were empty. A detective sergeant drove Grice's car. Rollison and Grice sat in the back, saying very little. Grice had told Rollison that Bennett had admitted lying about Thompson's identity because he had believed that as Holmes, the man would see him all right when he came out of prison.
 "If I'd named him, I would have had nothing to hope for," Bennett had said.
 They were ten miles or so from the plant when they first saw the black smoke in the sky, and as they drew nearer, the smoke seemed to become blacker, and to cover a much wider area. Now and again, a fire engine roared past them.
 There was no need to look for signsposts; they headed for the plant on the outskirts of Watford, and little more than an hour after leaving London, turned into the gates.
 One thing became obvious immediately; the experimental sheds were absolutely gutted.
 Now it's up to Rollison to prove who started the fire. The story continues here tomorrow.

Presenting the cars for the lively life: 3 New Lively Ones from Ford!

New Galaxie 500XL!
 Start this one and you really start something. Available with Thunderbird V-8 power up to 405 hp (coupled to a 4-speed stick shift), the XL outperforms America's most expensive cars. Standard features include all-new bucket seats with a Thunderbird-style console in between. The XL needs service only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles. Hardtop or convertible. Definitely not for pedestrian tastes!

New Falcon Sports Futura!
 Here's a hot new number from the compact leader. The tempo starts fast with foam-padded bucket seats and a handy console in between... hits a new high note with a stylish new Thunderbird roof (vinyl-covered if you want it)... then goes into the lively melody of an optional 170 Special Six engine. Economy with a flair is the Sports Futura idea... it's priced below many standard compacts.

New Fairlane 500 Sports Coupe!
 Don't flirt with this one unless you mean it. It has foam-padded bucket seats with a console in between... and an all-new optional "260" Challenger V-8 that packs 164 hp. Fairlane's room, ride and performance are bigger in every way, but this new fine car costs less than many compacts.

Europeans Leave Uneasy Algeria

By RODNEY ANGOVE
ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Some 250 Europeans boarded planes for France Wednesday night as French troops stood guard to counter Secret Army Organization (OAS) efforts to prevent the departure.

The French air force took over administration of civilian flights to France to break the grip of secret army agents trying to keep Algeria's European population from departing.

The terrorist underground had threatened retaliation to those who left without their visas. Before air force took over most planes left with empty seats.

For the past two days, big crowds of passengers have gathered at the Oran airport shortly after dawn and waited for planes. The air force checked in their baggage and gave out boarding tickets on a first-come, first-served basis. Tickets were paid on arrival in France. Civilian crews flew the planes.

Few people would talk about their reasons for leaving. Some travelers were businessmen on routine trips. Many were families obviously anxious to escape from the terrorist-plagued city, where the secret army is making one of its strongest fights to sabotage the Algerian cease-fire.

"We want to go anywhere, just to get out," one family said.

There was no sign of overt secret army efforts to prevent people from leaving. But unidentified European men circulated in the crowd and took down names of some people leaving.

Six Moslems and a European woman married to a Moslem were killed in Oran today.

Officials in Algiers said 15 persons were killed and 37 wounded in terrorist attacks in Algeria Wednesday. Of the dead, 13 were Moslems and two Europeans. The wounded included 36 Moslems and one European.

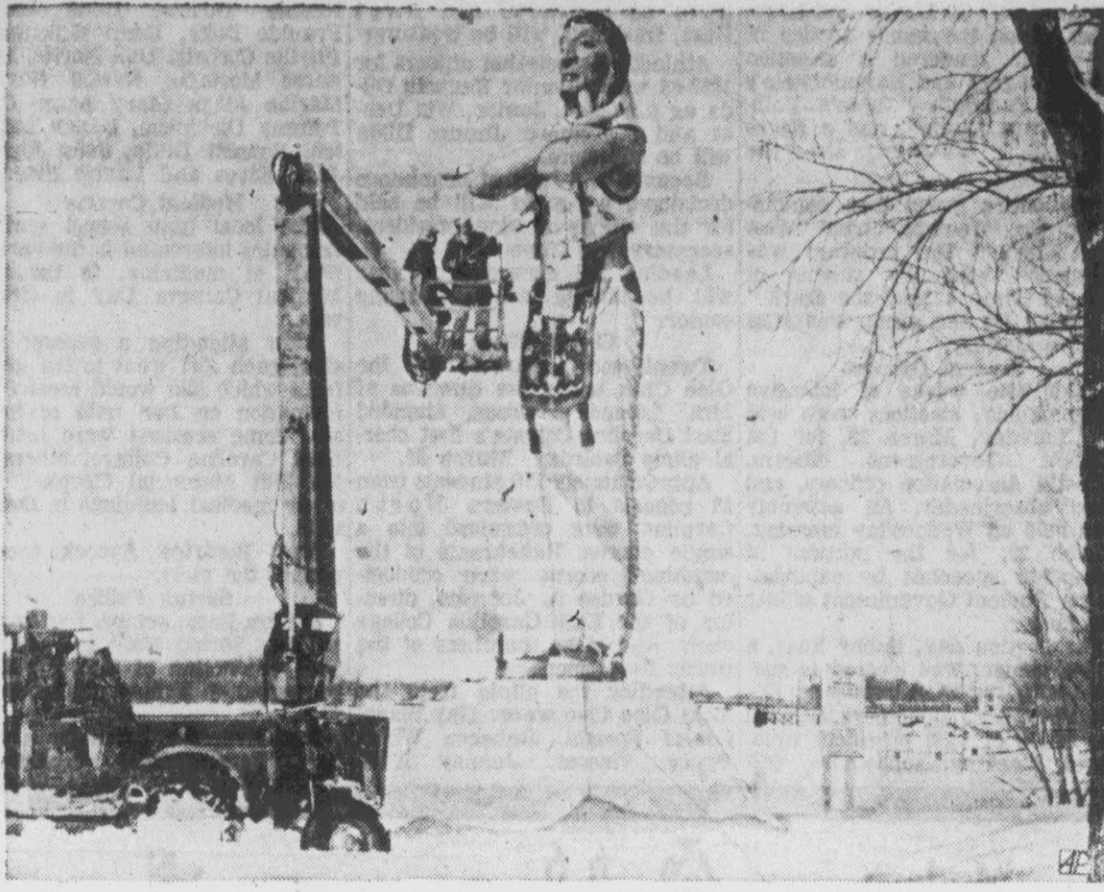

Three Children Die In Flash Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Three children died Wednesday in a flash fire that destroyed their Coney Island home. The fire wrecked three adjoining bungalows before it was brought under control.

Burned to death were Carlos Delgado, 4, his brother, William, 3 and a sister, Lidia, 2. The tots had been playing in a bedroom that contained a gas heater.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Delgado, in another bedroom when the fire broke out, were unable to rescue the children. They were treated for burns at a hospital.

Five Face Hearing On Passing Phony Money

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Five Georgia residents, captured after an alert supermarket checker spotted a sloppy counterfeit job, were to be given a hearing here today for possessing counterfeit bills.

The three men and two women were captured Wednesday after a high speed auto chase by Charlotte police. Officers said a paper bag containing $4,150 in counterfeit $10 bills was hurled from the car.

Investigators said the bills, all with the same serial number, were printed on paper similar to slick magazine paper.

Police identified the five as Clyde Robert Loftin, 25, and Gloria Jean Loftin, 23, both of Macon, Ga.; James Ellis Trollinger, 49, and Julia Hayes Trollinger, 41, both of Rt. 1, Shellman, Ga.; and Bobby Norris, 31, of Macon.

Mrs. Millie Bush, a checker in a Rock Hill, S.C., supermarket set off the alarm when a woman used a $10 bill to pay for a small purchase, and returned to pay for another small purchase with another $10 bill.

Mrs. Bush told police she sent a bag boy to get a description of her car. A nearby bank confirmed the bills were counterfeit, but the car was gone before the woman could be apprehended.

The description of the car was broadcast to other police departments in the area. The chase here went on for 20 minutes as the

Nervous Bandit

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An alert is out to police officers in four states today for a daring, but nervous, gunman and his accomplice who pulled the first bank robbery here in more than three decades.

Shortly after the $6,000 robbery Wednesday, the FBI joined officers in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina in a search for the pair who escaped in a stolen car, burned it and fled—perhaps in still another stolen car.

The bandits drove up to a branch of the Pioneer Bank in suburban Brainerd about noon. One of them handed teller Don Sparkman a note which read: "This is a robbery. I have a gun and will not hesitate to use it. Put all the money in your drawer in this sack and do it quick. I'm not playing."

"I believe the bandit was almost as nervous as me," Sparkman said.

Fourteen-Man Group To Attend NG Ass'n Meet

A 14-man delegation is scheduled to leave Greenville Friday morning for Durham and the annual convention of the North Carolina National Guard Association of the U. S.

Greenville Guardsmen and their wives are expected to arrive in Durham in time for registration; business meetings and committee meetings Friday afternoon. The plan to attend tomorrow night's banquet, to be followed by a dance.

Members of the Greenville unit will display their 100 per cent membership in the state association by wearing jacket emblems and red artillery ties.

Scheduled to leave Greenville about 9:30 a.m. Friday for the convention are:

Goulart Pledges Compensation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brazilian President Joao Goulart has promised his government will make fair compensation for expropriated utility properties.

And, President Kennedy has accepted an invitation to visit Brazil sometime this year.

Those were the two major developments in two days of talks between the heads of state.

Goulart goes on to New York today.

The Brazilian president made his pledge of fair compensation in a joint communique issued Wednesday.

There have been protests in this country over seizure recently in Brazil of a subsidiary of the American-owned International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the attempted expropriation of a Canadian telephone firm's subsidiary.

Although the communique did not go into these instances it declared Goulart intends to maintain conditions of security which will permit private capital to perform its vital role in Brazilian economic development.

No date was set for Kennedy's visit to Brazil, but White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that Mrs. Kennedy planned to accompany the President.

Brazilian sources said August has been tentatively fixed as the date.

Farmville School Notes And News

By SANDRA ALLEN

FARMVILLE — Seven Farmville High School students attended and participated in the second annual East Carolina College Publications Conference in Greenville last weekend.

The event attracted more than 300 Eastern North Carolina high school students.

Jean Allen and Bud Donat were among students honored at a Saturday luncheon when awards were presented for excellence in student journalism. Winners were selected from entries submitted to judges by schools represented at the conference.

Miss Allen won first place in the editorial division for her editorial, "Parents League Criticized." Donat received honorable mention for his sports story reviewing Farmville High's chances in the Pitt County Basketball Tournament. Both entries had appeared in Farmville's student newspaper, "News 'N' Views."

Attending the conference from Farmville were: Sandy Allen, Melba Dixon, Alma Worthington, Carol Blackley, Johnny Phillips, Paul Allen, Elaine Gardner and Lewis Lawrence, faculty advisor for Farmville's student newspaper.

New Bern Seeks New Deadline On Hospital Closing

NEW BERN (AP)—Negotiations will continue between New Bern and Craven County officials and the Sisters of St. Joseph for continued operation of St. Luke's Hospital here.

A conference was held Wednesday with George Fargiss of New Bern, N. J., attorney for the religious order which operates the hospital.

The order has announced that patients will not be accepted after April 10, and operations will end April 15.

Fargiss said he would try to arrange an extension of the deadline, to permit efforts to work out a solution.

The hospital is the only one serving white patients in the area. A new county hospital is scheduled to go into use in March, 1963.

The Sisters of St. Joseph said the structure housing St. Luke's is unsafe. Repairs would cost an estimated $13,500 to $35,000. There was talk at the conference of the possibility of the city doing the work to keep the hospital in operation.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker has ridden five or more winners on a single day's program five times at New York tracks. His best effort in the East came April 4, 1959 — six winners in eight races at old Jamaica.

"Brigadoon" by Lerner and Lowe, after which the men's section of the choir rendered a selection from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific." "There's Nothing Like a Dame," and a Negro spiritual, "Climbin' Up the Mountain."

The entire group then combined to sing "Tonight," from "West Side Story." The program was concluded with the singing of "Every Time I Feel the Spirit." Pianist for the group was Miss Sandra Gatling.

College Choir
Ending a week's tour, the Chohan College Choir, directed by James Chamblee, presented a program to Farmville's student body on Friday, March 30.

The program consisted of religious music, Negro spirituals and hits from Broadway.

"O Come Ye Servants" by Tye, opened the program and was followed by the singing of "Agnus Dei," "To Thee We Sing," "Salvation is Created," "I Just Come From the Mountain," and "Deep River."

George Seymore from Elizabeth City intervened with a solo, "O Come To Me," a selection from

Because of a lack of unanimous decisions, a run-off will be held for the offices of vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Leading the cheers next year will be Marion Allen, a rising senior.

Choral Clinic
Twenty-one members of the Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Lehman Holmes, attended East Carolina College's first choral clinic Saturday, March 31.

Approximately 270 students from 23 schools in Eastern North Carolina were organized into a single chorus. Rehearsals of the combined chorus were conducted by Gordon A. Johnson, director of the East Carolina College choir, and other members of the music department.

Attending the clinic from the local Glee Club were: Gay Bland, Louise Speight, Rebecca White, Bruce Vincent, Johnny Ellis.

Rennie Turner, Irene Baker, Frankie Duke, Dean Willoughby, Phyllis Corbett, Dail Harris, Margaret Moringo, Newell Harper, Marion Allen, Mary Agnes Gay, Tommy Dickinson, Danny Langston, Bennett Dilda, Judy Joyner, Julia Rives and Laurie Fiser.

Medical Careers
The local high school sent 27 delegates interested in the various fields of medicine, to the first Medical Careers Day in Greenville.

After attending a general session, each girl went to the group from which she would receive information on her field of interest. Some sessions were held at East Carolina College, others at the Pitt Memorial Hospital and other medical buildings in Greenville.

Mrs. Beatrice Aycock accompanied the girls.

Spring Follies
Sandra Bass, senior, was crowned Miss Spring Follies at the annual production of Spring Follies presented on Friday night, March 23.

Ann Everett's baton-dance routine, "Bonanza-Beat," received a first place in the talent division for the senior class. Second place in the talent division went to the sophomore class for their musical presentation by "The Swinging Sophs."

"Victor Rings the Bell," a literary skit by the freshman class, received a first place in the stunt division. The junior class' production of "The Fashion Show" placed second.

Other talent numbers were a baton number to "When the Saints Go Marching In" by Sandy Allen; "Twisting Makes the World Go Round," and "Sad Movies" sung by Brenda and Peggy Moyer; a song and dance number to "Up A Lazy River" by Phyllis Corbett; and the freshman class presentation of "Amateur Show."

"Quality Education," the senior stunt, and "The Astronaut," the sophomore stunt, were the other stage presentations.

Last year's Follies' queen, Linda Moseley, crowned her successor, Mary Agnes Gay was runner-up.

Prizes of $5 and 25 points for each first place and $3 and 15 points for each second place were presented to the winning classes.

Science Fair
Open house was a scheduled feature of tonight's regular Farmville Parent-Teacher Association meeting. All classrooms at both schools were to be open for visits by parents.

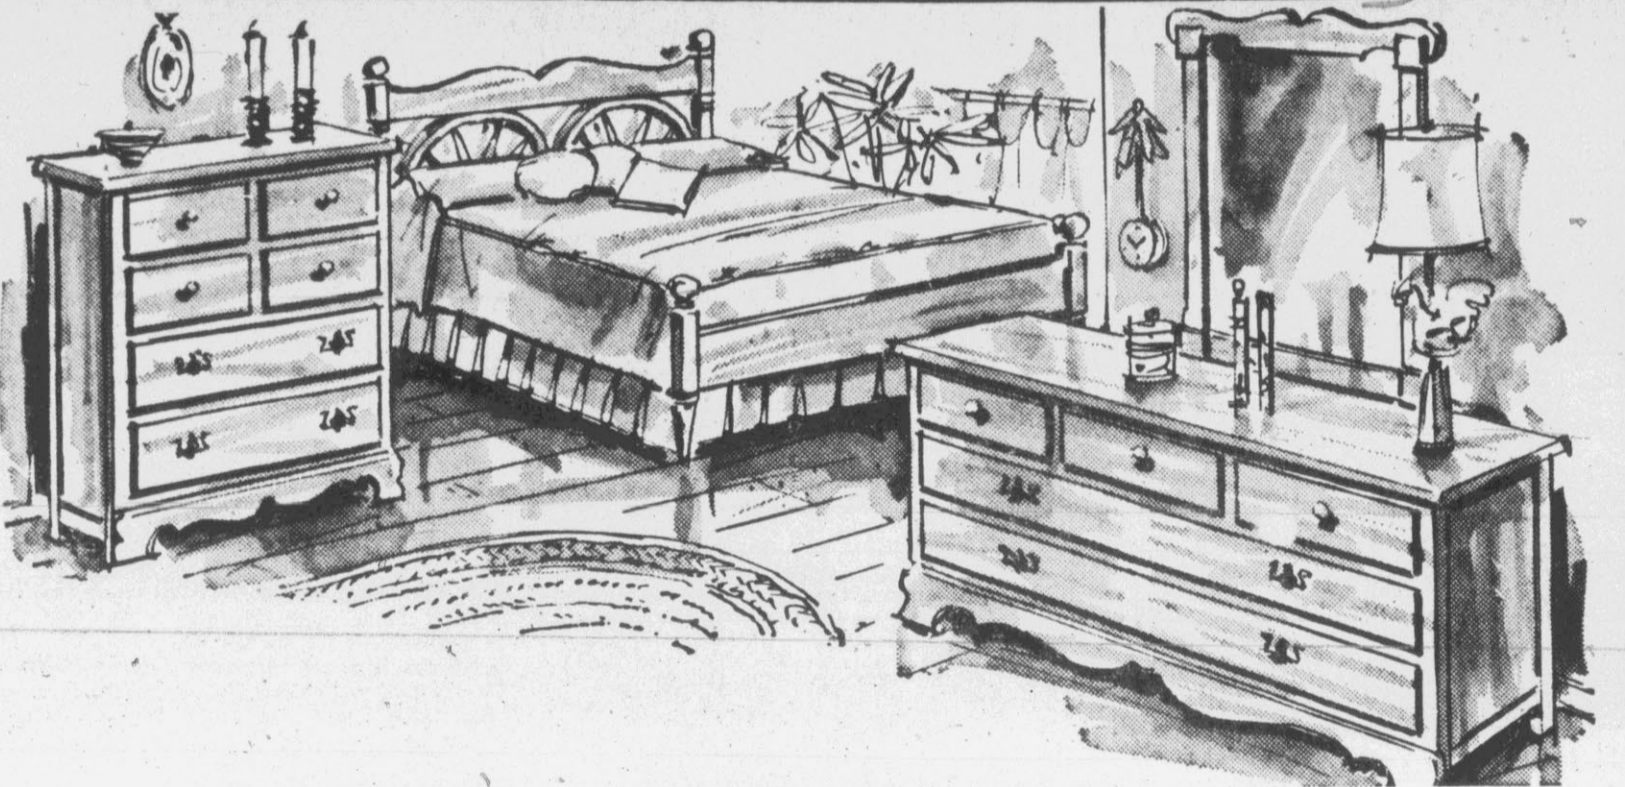

The high school band and glee club were scheduled to present the program for the meeting. Immediately following the PTA meeting, the annual Farmville School Science Fair was scheduled for the high school gymnasium.

Presentation of cash prizes for first- and second-place projects in the junior and senior physical science and biological science divisions was scheduled.

The projects were judged Wednesday by three professors from East Carolina College's science department.

Cardinals' Hopes Are Up Some

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Ernie Broglio, plagued by arm trouble last year after winning 21 games in the 1960 baseball campaign, has pushed the St. Louis Cardinals' rising pennant stock up another couple of points with his strongest pitching performance of the exhibition season. The 26-year-old right-hander, taking a giant step along the comeback trail, fired em up Wednesday, flashing his 1960 form as he went seven innings and scattered six hits in the Cardinals 7-5 victory over Philadelphia at Clearwater. ... Now he's got Manager Johnny Keane hoping a winter's rest has taken care of the problems and put him in shape to take his place alongside Larry Jackson, Ray Saadeck, Bob Gibson, Curt Simmons and newcomer Ray Washburn as a starter for the pitching rich Cardinals. The victory for St. Louis—hottest team over the last half of the 1961 season with a 47-33 record after Keane replaced Solly Hemus at the helm—kept the club on top of the National League standings with a 16-8 mark. In other fine pitching efforts, Ed Rakow went the distance for Kansas City to beat Cincinnati 3-1 at Tampa, Minnesota's Jack Krack and Dick Stigman shut out Baltimore 5-0 with a six-hitter and Pittsburgh rookies Bob Veale, Jack Lamabe and Diomedes Olivo stopped Washington 2-0 on two hits at Fort Myers. ... Meanwhile, the hitters lashed out as Houston thumped the Los Angeles Angels 20-5 at El Paso and San Francisco walloped Cleveland 18-17 in 11 innings at Phoenix for an amazing total of 60 runs and 74 hits in the two games. ... Elsewhere, the New York Yankees edged Detroit 2-1 at Lakeland, Milwaukee defeated Boston

9-2 at Scottsdale, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 at Mesa and the New York Mets beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 at St. Petersburg. ... Rakow checked the Reds on eight hits while batterymate Haywood Sullivan gave the A's the runs they needed with a two-run homer off Joey Jay. The Twins used five walks, a two-run double by Bob Allison and Jim Snyder's two-run single for five in the eighth off Jim Lebew after the Orioles' Steve Barber had hurled four-hit ball for seven innings. ... Bill Mazeroski's homer and Larry Elliot's third hit accounted for the Pirates' runs in their victory over the Nats. Roman Mejias, 3-for-3, slammed two homers and Hal Smith, Norm Larker and pitcher Dick Giusti each connected for one in the Colts' 21-hit attack. Giusti and Dean Stone limited the Angels to eight hits. ... Home runs by Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Bob Perry, Manuel Mota and Jim Davenport paced the Giants' 25-hit outburst but it took a single by Matty Alou to drive in the winner in the 11th. Willie Kirkland hit two homers in the Indians 20-hit offensive. Home runs by Tom Tresh and Elston Howard off the Tigers' Phil Regan got the job done for the Yankees. ... The Braves, leading 3-2 on Del Crandall's two-run single, put it away against the Red Sox with a six-run spree in the fifth as Lee Maye and Ed Mathews powered homers. The Cubs won it with a 4-run ninth, capped when Dodgers' rookie Nick Willitt walked in the winner with two out. ... Trailing 4-3 in the sixth, the Mets beat the White Sox on Felix Mantilla's inside-the-park homer with a man aboard as Mike Hershberger and Floyd Robinson collided while chasing the ball.

EC Track Team Loses To Atlantic Christian By 1

WILSON — East Carolina's track team coached by Odell Welborn lost their first meet of the season to Atlantic Christian College here yesterday 65 1/2 to 64 1/2. ... Public At Fault Says Dupas ... NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "It's the people all around who are to blame—the public. That's who I blame—the public." ... That's the comment of Ralph Dupas, No. 1 ranked welterweight boxer, on the death of former welter titlist Benny (Kid) Parot, who died Tuesday from injuries received in his March 24 fight with Emile Griffith. ... "People are blaming the referee and the manager for not stopping the fight," Dupas said. "But you didn't hear anybody at ringside yelling to stop the fight." ... The 26-year-old veteran New Orleans fighter said public demand for sluggers has made managers turn fighters into punchers rather than boxers. ... "Boxers are booed, so managers teach their kids to be aggressive, to please the TV crowd."

Jockey Throne Up To Longden

By JOHN CHANDLER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — It may be up to old Johnny Longden to determine just how long Willie Shoemaker, the crown prince of jockeys, occupies the throne abdicated by Eddie Arcaro. ... "I plan to retire when I'm about 35, unless Longden is still riding," the 30-year old Shoemaker said today. Longden is now 65, and still riding. ... "He was riding before I was born, and darned if I'm going to let him outlast me," the Shoe said. ... The soft-spoken Shoemaker moved into Arcaro's top-ranked riding boots when "The King" retired Tuesday. ... He immediately latched on to two of the big horses in racing, the Bohemia Stables' Kelso and George D. Widener's Jaijur. Both were the private property of Arcaro, who retired as the greatest money winning jockey of all time after more than 30 years of racing. ... Shoemaker's credentials as the new No. 1 man are impressive. He rose to stardom faster than any rider in American history. ... Arcaro retired after riding winners worth $30,039,543. Shoemaker's horses had collected $24,466,796 through 1961. Through 1961, Shoemaker rode 4,199 winners, third behind Arcaro's 4,779 and Longden's 5,500-plus. ... Shoemaker, a native of Fabens, Tex., who was raised in El Monte, Calif., rode his first winner, Shafter V, at Golden Gate Fields, Calif., April 20, 1949. Seven years later he rode his 2,500th winner, the fastest ever to hit that figure.

UNC Gridders Scheduled To Play Alumni Saturday

CHAPEL HILL—With only a couple of more practices scheduled before the game with the Alumni in Kenan Stadium Saturday, North Carolina's football Tar Heels are awaiting the whistle to wind up off-season workouts. ... Meanwhile local plans for the contest, which takes the place of the old Blue-White game, have been completed by the sponsoring Carolina Monogram Club. President Joe Davies says there is no way of estimating what the size of the crowd will be but adds that response of alumni in buying tickets in advance has been excellent. ... The "old grads" will have only one full workout, that on Friday. Alumni coach George Barclay said that of the 50 or more returning for the game, thirty or more will suit up and he will pick his team from this group. ... Among those who have indicated they will take part in the game are halfbacks Larry Frederick, Danny Droze, Skip Clement, Daley Goff, Charlie Justice, Moyer Smith, Wade Smith, Gib Carson; quarterback Ray Farris; fullback Joe Davies; ends Tom Higgins, Jeff Newton, George Knox, Danny Lotz, Paul Pulley; John Schroeder, Rabe Walton; tackles Phil Blazer, Earl Butler, Wilson Shoulers, Jim Shumate, Dick Smith, Don Stallings; guards Joe Augustine, Chris Carpenter, Frank Riggs, Bob Shupin, Fred Sweatring; centers Andy Miketa, Gary Truver. ... Barclay said he would shift some of the players to other positions and also that two or more teams on the varsity squad would play for the Alumni. ... The varsity should be in good shape following their off-season practice which Coach Jim Hickey thinks has been most successful. ... Co-Captains Joe Craver and Ward Marslander will head up the varsity. Hickey has not announced a starting lineup but it possibly will consist of Craver at center, Marslander at halfback; John Runco, John Hammett, ends; Jim Alderman, Vic Esposito, tackles; Duff Green, Jack Tillery, guards; Sandy Kenney, quarterback; Joe McLamb or Ronny Jackson, the other halfback; Barry Westfall, fullback. ... The Tar Heels really will use three platoons with one group considered about as important as the other, and all the candidates, except those who might be injured, will take part in the game.

Course Tougher Than A Man

By WILL GRIMSLEY AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It's tougher to battle a course than to battle a man in golf, says Bob Jones. ... "I used to lose 10 to 15 pounds every time I played in an open championship," the Grand Slam king from Atlanta recalled today. ... "I could compete in the match-play amateur tournaments and never lose an ounce. ... "In match play golf, where it's man against man, there are plenty of opportunities to relax and blow off steam. In the stroke-play opens, where it's man against the course, one loose shot can cost you the title. ... "I guess I worried off the pounds when I played in the opens." ... Jones, who swept to 13 British and U.S. national championships before his retirement at the age of 28, said the pressure built up tremendously in 1930 when he scored the game's unparalleled Grand Slam—winning the U.S. Open and Amateur and the British Open and Amateur in 12 months. ... "It was the waiting and not the tournament themselves which got me," Jones added. "This was the most exasperating feature of it. You see, I had to wait from July to September between the British and the U.S. Amateur." ... Jones, just turned 60, is on hand for another Masters. ... Crippled by a spinal ailment and partially paralyzed, Jones can no longer swing a club. He watches the game's new breed pass by from a wheelchair on the porch of his white cottage, alongside the 10th fairway at Augusta National. Occasionally, he wanders out on the course in an electric cart. ... Cumbersome television equipment has made its appearance at every Florida ball camp. As Joe Garagiola, St. Louis master of ceremonies says, "Expression counts more nowadays than hitting."

Rosenthal Faces Extradition

TALLAHSSEE, Fla. (AP) — An extradition hearing for Frank Rosenthal (Lefty) Rosenthal, charged with four counts of conspiracy to bribe and attempting to bribe a college baseball player in North Carolina, will be held April 18. ... Rosenthal allegedly attempted to bribe New York University player Ray Paprocky during the 1960 National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs in Charlotte. ... Gov. Ferris Bryant has assigned an aide to conduct the hearing at which Rosenthal is expected to fight extradition.

Masters Tourney Started Today

By MERCER BAILEY AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The largest field in history—and one of the strongest—sets out today over the beautiful but deceptive Augusta National Golf course in quest of the 1962 Masters golf championship. ... Almost everyone who is anyone in the game of golf, headed by golden boy Arnold Palmer, is among the record 110 competitors. The pairings include such current stars as: ... Gary Player, the defending champion from South Africa and one of the best players ever to win this storied event; Bill Casper, the round California whose power and putting combined are what the doctor ordered for mastering the long—6,990 yards par 36-36-72—long, multilevel greens; Doug Sanders of Cedarwton, Ga., whose trademarks are an abbreviated backswing and a ready quip—and usually a fistful of long green when the prize money is passed out; and Jack Nicklaus, 21, a powerful Ohioan who won the National Amateur crown last fall and then decided to turn his tremendous game into a money-maker. ... Palmer in the past four years has won this tournament twice and twice missed by a total of only three strokes. He had victory in his grasp on the 72nd hole last year, only to lose it with a sand trap blast that carried across the green and cost him a double-bogey six. A par would have won it, a bogey would have forced a playoff with Player. ... An Augusta oddsmaker has installed Palmer as a 3-1 favorite, quite a tribute to the strongman from Latrobe, Pa., for even in his heyday the odds on Ben Hogan seldom were shorter than 6-1. Although the once-feared Texas hawk will be 50 in August, Hogan is rated a respectable 10-1 for this Masters despite his semiretirement from competitive golf. ... Player, who is searching desperately for the putting touch essential to a return to his winning form, is listed at 4-1 along with Casper, this season's top money winner, and Sanders. Nicklaus is 5-1.

Public At Fault Says Dupas

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "It's the people all around who are to blame—the public. That's who I blame—the public." ... That's the comment of Ralph Dupas, No. 1 ranked welterweight boxer, on the death of former welter titlist Benny (Kid) Parot, who died Tuesday from injuries received in his March 24 fight with Emile Griffith. ... "People are blaming the referee and the manager for not stopping the fight," Dupas said. "But you didn't hear anybody at ringside yelling to stop the fight." ... The 26-year-old veteran New Orleans fighter said public demand for sluggers has made managers turn fighters into punchers rather than boxers. ... "Boxers are booed, so managers teach their kids to be aggressive, to please the TV crowd."

Paret's Funeral Set In Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of former welterweight boxing champion Benny (Kid) Paret is scheduled to be flown to Miami tonight for funeral services and burial near his adopted home. ... The 25-year-old Cuban died early Tuesday of brain injuries suffered in a title fight with Emile Griffith at Madison Square Garden on March 24. ... More than 17,000 persons viewed the body at a Bronx funeral home Wednesday and police estimated nearly 2,500 persons were either inside the home, waiting in line or loitering nearby. ... Earlier in the day Paret's widow, Lucy, learned from the New York State Athletic Commission that she will collect some $28,000 before taxes as Paret's share of the $50,000 purse from the Griffith fight.

Spring Training Notes On Variety Of Fronts

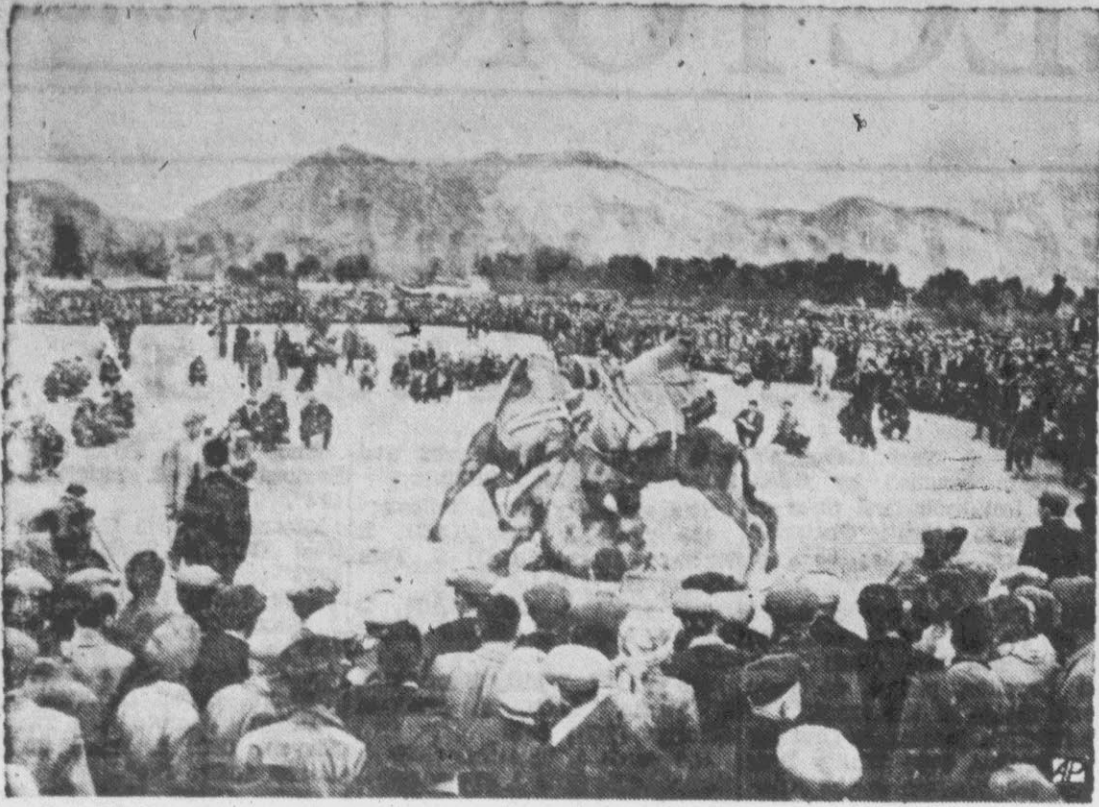

By TED SMITS Associated Press Sports Editor Jottings from the notebook of a reporter covering baseball's spring training: ... Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Mets is always surrounded by a circle of newsmen and radio men before every game. He talks nonstop and is a rich source of stories, doubletalk and all. His pregame appearance at the plate to give the umpire his lineup always draws a round of applause from the fans. ... Something never seen during the regular season is the rigorous causthetics all clubs go through at the start of each practice session. These vary all the way from the elaborate tortures devised by Coach Otis Douglas of the Cincinnati Reds "He must have worked in a concentration camp," his players mutter down to a few laps running around the field and setting up exercises used by some clubs. ... Cumbersome television equipment has made its appearance at every Florida ball camp. As Joe Garagiola, St. Louis master of ceremonies says, "Expression counts more nowadays than hitting." ... Spring training is the time of eternal hope and goodwill. Everyone knows but no one talks about, the fact that six months from now a couple of today's most genial managers will be on the skids, a handful of veterans will have broken down and be benched, a great mass of "phenoms" will have been sent to the minors, and almost from nowhere will have emerged stars not now figuring in the lineups.

Indian Tribes In Greenville Girl At Arthritis Study Chicago Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists are comparing two tribes of American Indians to determine the effect of climate and heredity on arthritis and rheumatism.

The U.S. Public Health Service, in announcing this today, noted that for hundreds of years physicians had recommended changes in climate in hopes of helping sufferers of the diseases.

"Yet," the service said, "there is no conclusive evidence that transplanting patients from one location to another has any lasting value—and medical texts on the subject sometimes read more like folklore than presentations of scientific data."

Now, the service said, the study among the Indians may allow the government researchers — representing the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases — "to pin down finally the relationship between climate and arthritis and rheumatism."

CHICAGO—Miss Anne Daniel of Greenville, N. C. was among 160 delegates from 23 states attending the National Youth-power Congress here last weekend that saw election of a Tar Heel as one of four All-American Teenagers for the third straight year.

Miss Karen Cash of Monroe was chosen by the delegates along with teenagers from Indiana, Tennessee and Illinois.

Miss Cash was chosen on the basis of her participation in nutrition discussion groups.

Miss Daniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Daniel of 2506 Sunset Ave., and Miss Cash were among eight North Carolina teenage delegates to the congress.

Miss Daniel is a junior at Junius H. Rose High School. Each delegate to the congress was chosen on the basis of outstanding work and leadership in such organizations as 4-H Club, FFA, FHA, YMCA, Youth Fitness Commission and Girl and Boy Scouts.

As one of four All-American Teenagers, Miss Cash follows Rusty Taylor of Greensboro and Miss Dianne Monroe of Rockingham who won the honors in 1960 and 1961.

More than 11 million Americans are afflicted with the painful diseases. The affliction is called arthritis if the joints are involved, and rheumatism if muscle tendons, ligaments or similar structures are concerned.

The service already has completed a study of more than 1,000 Blackfeet Indians living in Montana, where the year-round weather is relatively cold.

Next year, service researchers plan to undertake the second phase of the project—a comparative study of a Southwestern tribe in hot, dry, Arizona desert, 1,500 miles from the Blackfeet country. The second tribe was not identified.

O'Dea Dies 1 Day After Named To Hall Of Fame

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patrick John O'Dea, Wisconsin's famed punter and drop kicker at the turn of the century, died Wednesday just one day after it was announced he had been elected to Football's Hall of Fame.

Ninety years old last St. Patrick's Day, March 17, O'Dea received a personal letter of commendation from President Kennedy.

Records show he could punt the length of the field, 110 yards, and drop kick accurately into the teeth of a blizzard.

But a fact known to few sports-writers was the sensation created in 1934 when O'Dea was discovered in the northern California lumbering community of Westwood after a disappearance of 17 years.

It was Bill Leiser, sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who revealed O'Dea's new life as a lumber company accountant in Westwood under the name of Charles J. Mitchell.

O'Dea had come to San Francisco in 1906 and practiced law. He was supposed to have joined an Australian army unit passing through San Francisco in 1917. Instead, he told Leiser, he quietly went to Westwood and became an accountant for the Red River Lumber Company.

"Why?"

"He said he couldn't afford to go on being a famous ex-athlete," Leiser recalled. "He didn't like living in what were to him mere staid days of the past."

Death at the University of California Medical Center followed a lengthy illness. Friends said that knowledge of his selection to the hall of fame had brightened his final days.

O'Dea was born in Australia. He attended Melbourne University and established a reputation as a great back before coming to the United States.

After enrolling at Wisconsin, he played fullback and halfback on the Badger teams of 1896 to 1899. He was captain the last two years and was named to Walter Camp's second All America in 1898 and to the third team in 1899.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Tom Ireland, three grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

No ACC League Games Today

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Atlantic Coast Conference baseball teams were to meet non-league competition today with Delaware at North Carolina and Colby at Duke.

Colby split a doubleheader with Wake Forest Wednesday, taking the first game 4-1 and losing the nightcap 6-5. Delaware beat Duke 12-7.

In the only other game involving an ACC team Wednesday, South Carolina beat Washington & Lee 10-6.

In the first game of the double header, Colby rapped Deacon started Ed Mandy for two runs in the sixth inning to give right-hander Jim Bridgeman a winning margin which he protected by retiring the last nine men who faced him.

In the second game, Wake took an early 5-0 lead behind the pitching of left-hander Jerry Fardue, but the sophomore hurler weakened in the sixth and was tagged for four runs.

Wake Forest's record is now 5-2. Duke scored three unearned runs in the eighth inning to tie Delaware 7-7, but the visiting team came back with five runs in the top of the ninth to take the game.

Delaware batters got 15 hits from three Duke pitchers, with Stan Crisson the loser. He pitched the last frame.

The loss gave Duke a 5-3 record. South Carolina whipped Washington & Lee, for the second time this week, in spite of six errors. The Gamecocks grabbed an early lead by scoring four runs in the first and three more in the second.

Frankie Knox, who pitched the final five innings for South Carolina, was the winner.

Title Fight Set Saturday

BOSTON (AP) — Saturday night's middleweight bout between champion Terry Downes of England and former champ Paul Pender of Brooklyn (Kid) Paret was beaten to death in the ring against Emile Griffith.

How will this affect the referee in the fight here?

Two members of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission say it will remind them that competent refereeing is a must in any fight — title or otherwise — but it will not make them tend to over-protectiveness.

"Stopping the fight too early, because of a cut that the ring physician does not deem too serious, would be an injustice to the fighters," said Tommy Rawson, a commissioner, a former boxer and referee.

"The Paret fight will serve only to keep them doubly careful to make sure the fight is handled correctly. It won't have any affect, I'm sure, on stopping the fight prematurely."

"It will be a ticklish situation," said Commissioner Eddie Urbec, also a former boxer and referee.

"We certainly don't want the bout stopped too hastily, and likewise we don't want it stopped too late. We are going to be careful."

Prison Escape Brings Firing

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The getaway of three convicts from a road gang near here has brought the dismissal of Guard Wally Dew. State Prisons Director George Randall said in Raleigh Wednesday Dew was fired for "major custodial negligence." The prisoners, including two brothers, bolted during lunch hour from the gang working near Yatesville, between Washington and Belhaven.

They were William Crawford, 39, of Portsmouth, Va., serving 6 to 8 years; Leland Crawford, 42, of Goldsboro, serving 6 to 10 years; and Shelton L. Beasley, 33, of Elizabeth City, serving terms totaling 12 to 18 years.

A Tight National League Race; Dodgers Are Picked

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) — National League expansion to 10 teams and Los Angeles' move to a home park more suited to its talents should combine to bring a pennant to Walter Alston's Dodgers.

It figures to be another typically tight National League race, with at least four clubs hurling challenges at the Dodgers. San Francisco has the most power, St. Louis the strongest pitching, Milwaukee the best infield and Cincinnati the confidence of a defending champion.

The Dodgers lack one commodity to break the race wide open. They can't match the power of their rivals, excepting St. Louis, but they have better overall personnel, pitching, speed and defense than any other club.

The Giants, who could take it all if they get the pitching, probably will present the most formidable opposition to the Dodgers. The Reds still are a strong threat despite the loss of Gene Freese, the hard-hitting third baseman, with a leg fracture.

The Braves, short of front-line pitching despite the presence of the durable Warren Spahn-Lew Burdette duo; and the Cards, relying on oldsters Stan Musial and Minnie Minoso to supply much of the power, appear slated to battle it out for fourth place.

Pittsburgh, still uncertain of the availability of sore-armed Vern Law, their former pitching ace, seems doomed to finish at the top of the second division. A four-team scramble is envisioned for the seventh spot.

The predicted finish:
1. Los Angeles
2. San Francisco
3. Cincinnati
4. Milwaukee
5. St. Louis
6. Pittsburgh
7. Chicago
8. Houston
9. New York
10. Philadelphia

McGill Named Scoring Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy (the Hill) McGill, 6-9 Utah All-American was certified today as the scoring champion of major college basketball for the 1961-62 season.

McGill, first national scoring champion from the Skyline Conference, finished with 1,007 points in 26 games for a 38.3 average, according to statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

McGill had a clear edge over the runner-up, Jack Foley of Holy Cross, who had a 33.3 average with 866 points in 26 games.

Jerry Lucas, three-time All-American from Ohio State, became the first major collegian ever to gain five national titles in a collegiate career. Lucas, who scored for a 21.8 average, led the nation for the third straight year in field goal percentage with .611, and wound up the No. 1 rebounder for the second time, with a 211 percent of recoveries.

On the team level, Chicago Loyola won the team offense title with a 90.2 average to 90.1 for Arizona State U. and Santa Clara led in team defense with 52.1.

Wilmington And New Bern To Appeal Order

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two eastern North Carolina cities, New Bern and Wilmington, facing the loss of air service will appeal to the Civil Aeronautics Board to change its order allowing airlines to bypass the coastal cities.

The governing boards of Wilmington and New Hanover County voted Wednesday to petition the CAB to rescind or delay its recent order authorizing National Airlines to suspend service on June 18, to Wilmington, Fayetteville and New Bern. Deadline for the petition is April 9.

The boards also voted to hire attorney Oliver Carter, a former CAB employe, to prepare the petition.

The National petition for suspension of service sought to show it was losing revenue in its Wilmington operation.

In New Bern, Wednesday, Mayor Dale Millns said he and two other members of the New Bern Airport Committee will go to Washington Friday to ask for a change in the CAB order concerning that city.

The CAB granted Piedmont Airlines authority to operate a new route from Atlanta, Ga., to Baltimore, Md., with a stop at Jacksonville, N.C.

At the same time, the CAB gave National authority to discontinue its north-south service to New Bern instead of Jacksonville-Camp Lejeune and to rescind the authority given National to halt service.

Mayor Millns said Jacksonville has no municipal airport and had counted on using the Marine Corps air facility at New River. However, Millns said, the Marine Corp has not given its permission for scheduled flights to land there.

Four Initiated Into Fraternity

Honoring brothers of Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity at East Carolina College, was a "Farmers' Party" given by pledges of the fraternity Saturday night in the Phi Kappa Tau Chapter Room at Five Points in Greenville.

Four members of the winter pledge class of Phi Kappa Tau were initiated into the brotherhood of the fraternity Sunday. Among the pledges was F. D. Saleed of Greenville.

For the most original party costumes, prizes were awarded Johnny Parker of Conway and Miss Nancy Whitehurst of Greenville.

Awards Given At ECC Senior Dinner

Outstanding seniors were recognized for their scholarship at the East Carolina College Senior Class dinner Tuesday evening, following an inspirational address by Edmund H. Harding of Washington, N. C.

Class President Kenneth Trogdon of Fayetteville presented "Put Husband Through" certificates to wives of graduating seniors, 135 students qualifying for this citation.

Dr. Robert L. Holt, dean of the college, awarded scholarship citations to 28 honor students from the 16 departments and Dr. James H. Tucker presented certificates to 37 seniors included in the 1962 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A cash gift from fund-raising projects of the class was presented by Trogdon to Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, college president, to be added to the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium Fund. Dr. Jenkins commended the seniors upon their achievements and their interest in the stadium drive. Trogdon presided and introduced Harding.

Area Marked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has marked off a wide area in the Pacific for the expected nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Establishment of the area will become effective April 15 "in preparation for such actual tests as may be ordered later in the month," the commission said Wednesday.

Christmas Island is close to the center of the area, 600 miles wide and 800 miles long. It also embraces Fanning Island, Waikington Island, Palmyra Atoll and Kingman Reef.

President Kennedy has said that later this month he will order a resumption of U.S. air tests unless agreement with the Soviet Union is reached before then banning nuclear weapons testing.

Japan's Coal Miners Strike

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's 100,000 coal miners struck for an indefinite period today after failing to reach agreement with management on pay increases and better job security.

The walkout, culminating night-long negotiations, was one of a series of strikes called by the 3,500,000-member Japan Trade Union Council (Sohyo) in its spring labor offensive.

The miners are demanding increased job security and a $13.89 monthly pay raise.

Rev. and Mrs. Willis Wilson of Robersonville, Mrs. John Dixon and Mrs. Lester Whitehurst of Robersonville joined the group in the afternoon.

The 22nd annual meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Rocky Mount District convened in the Bethel Methodist Church on Thursday. There were 200 registered for this meeting.

The theme used was "The Factors That Confront Us." Miss Camille Staton presided at this meeting. Mrs. W. R.

Hunnecutt was organist. After the organ prelude, the group joined in singing the conference hymn, "O Master of the Waking World."

Meditation was led by Mrs. Rom Parker Jr.

Miss Camille Staton gave a cordial welcome to all. This was followed by the reading of the 1961 minutes, the introduction of officers and visitors, the roll call of sub-districts and the presentation of memberships, at which time Mrs. D. T. House Jr. and Mrs. R. L. Goodall received Honorary Life Memberships in the W.S.C.S. Presentations were made by the local W.S.C.S. through Mrs. Wadie T. Carson and Mrs. R. H. Staton.

A solo, "Consider the Lilies," Scott, was rendered by Mrs. T. R. Andrews Jr. The inspirational message was given by Mrs. William C. Smith.

Following the offering and offertory prayer, the group sang "God of Grace." A model program committee meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. K. Wright. Those taking part were: Mrs. E. H. TV Audiences Warned They May See Death

CHICAGO (AP)—Television audiences must be prepared to witness death in space flight efforts, the administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration warns.

The administrator, James E. Webb, speaking Wednesday at the 40th annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, said men died while exploring the earth's unknown regions, and it is foolish to ignore this possibility in the far more hazardous regions of space.

"If we are to ride 'into space with our astronauts via television, we cannot avoid being there if tragedy strikes," he said. "Perhaps as a nation we can learn that some of the most valuable lessons of space flight come from failures."

The NASA chief noted that by far the largest daytime audience in television's history watched Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s space flight on Feb. 20, and he praised broadcasters for their extensive coverage.

At one time or another during Glenn's three-orbit trip the flight's progress was followed on television in nearly 44 million homes, Webb said.

"Not since the flight of Charles A. Lindbergh (in 1927) in the Spirit of St. Louis has such a feeling of participation been generated around the globe."

Red Harassing Tactics Ceased

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviets have flown no harassment flights in the air corridors to West Berlin for a week, raising cautious speculation that Moscow for the time being has called off its campaign of irritation on the West's access routes to the city.

The Russians last scheduled flights through the corridors on March 30. They then advised the Berlin Air Safety Center they would send eight transports on night flights at times when Western commercial aircraft were using the corridors.

These flights were canceled and none have been scheduled since. Patrolling Soviet MIG fighters have been spotted by crews and passengers of Western airliners, but that is not unusual.

Western officials could not say the Soviets have stopped their harassment permanently. Irritant tactics on the access routes—air, road and rail—are turned on and off without warning. But in Western circles there was speculation that the Russians might be holding off to see how the next round of U.S.-Soviet talks on the future of West Berlin and Germany go.

School System Probably Will Include Kindergarten

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH (AP)—Are kindergartens in the future for the North Carolina public school system? The step may be years away, but most educators are convinced it will come. The mushrooming growth of kindergartens across the state, they point out, is evidence of sharpening interest in the education of the 5-year-old.

As more and more parents send children to kindergarten, pressure is certain to build up to give the public schools the job. Money is the big immediate barrier. Counting kindergarten as a duplication of the first grade, annual operating costs for the state would amount to something like $23½ million. That very rough estimate doesn't include the cost of the many additional classrooms and other facilities that would be required for an average daily attendance of about 107,000 children.

Neither does it count the approximately $7.6 million that would be needed from local sources, based on the present proportion of state-local school expenditures.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, noted the Legislature already has given authority for local units to move into kindergarten operation on their own.

Under the law, local city or county school units may provide kindergartens within their system when a tax is voted to support it. So far, no local unit has taken the step. There have been reports it is being considered by several.

"I would be happy to see some local units move into this new area," Dr. Carroll said.

Since they are privately operated, kindergartens are an unknown quantity in the educational picture. A study which may fill in some of the answers now is under way.

Dr. Richard S. Ray of Winston-Salem is director for a Kindergarten study by the North Carolina chapter of the Association for Childhood Education. The survey is expected to produce figures on the number of kindergartens in the state, the number of children enrolled, and something on their standards.

Despite the lack of statistics, there is agreement that the ranks of kindergartens are swelling.

"I know, because of the correspondence that comes over my desk," said Nile F. Hunt, director of instructional services for the Department of Public Instruction.

"It's almost a daily matter. I get inquiries on how to go about setting up a kindergarten program, how to get state approval and help," he explained.

There is a procedure by which kindergartens, by meeting certain standards, can obtain approval from the State Department of Public Instruction. It amounts to sort of an accreditation procedure.

About 35 kindergartens have taken the trouble to obtain approval. While this represents only a portion of the total, Hunt said, "there have been more inquiries recently than we've ever had before."

Approval gives a measure of prestige and "helps to identify the kindergarten as an educational facility," explained Hunt. Supervisors check to see that minimum standards are maintained.

In the vast majority of cases, new kindergartens are operated under auspices of local churches. Once in operation, it becomes a rule a non-denominational, community project with widespread support.

Growth of kindergartens complicates the job for the first grade teacher. She must handle children with no experience in group activity, and those prepared by kindergarten to take their place in an organized classroom.

It has been estimated that the child prepared by kindergarten will stay ahead of his unprepared classmates for the first three grades. By the third grade, the difference tends to level out.

Actually, the problem involved in kindergarten comes, as far as the first grade teacher is concerned, when the kindergarten teacher infringes onto the first grade province. For example, when a child begins to read in kindergarten, he finds it hard to fit into a first grade of non-readers.

Placing the kindergarten into the state system would meet both these situations. It would assure that all 5-year-olds get the benefit of kindergarten preparation for first grade. It also would assure that kindergarten training remain within its proper bounds.

Some opposition to state operation of kindergartens could be expected from among the ranks of private operators. However, Hunt said he believes "the real professionals would welcome it."

Noted that activities of the North Carolina Kindergarten Association, headed by Mrs. John E. Hedrick of Winston-Salem, have aimed at cooperation with the state agency in setting standards for kindergartens. Traditionally, kindergartens have flourished in the urban areas. Within a city they often are found in the higher income sections, and are absent in the under-privileged areas.

In recent years, more and more small towns have set up kindergartens, drawing pupils from the surrounding rural areas.

So far, no one has given any thought to mechanics whereby the state system might be expanded to include kindergartens. There have been suggestions that present ones might continue in business, with state aid. Such a step might cut down on capital expenditures, but likely would head-on into the church-state issue since many kindergartens are run by churches.

No matter when or how, the educational crystal ball suggests the downward reach to five-year-olds for the public school system will come eventually.

New Installment Credit Increase

By SAM DAWSON
AT Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—As welcome to many businessmen and manufacturers as the first crocus is a spring rise in installment credit. And a sizable gain is reported to day. It could be a harbinger of better days ahead in the retail stores and dealers showrooms.

If the rise in debt continues it means that the average American again is acting in traditional average American style—buying on the cuff.

In February outstanding consumer installment credit swelled by $236 million to $42.6 billion. This debt was $970 million higher than a year ago, according to Federal Reserve Board figures.

This helps offset other figures on spending and saving interpreted by some as meaning consumers are holding tight to their purses and preventing the economy from growing as fast as officially hoped. And the late winter gain in time-payment debt encourages those who believe that spring will see a neat upsurge in consumer spending.

The big gain in February was L. auto installment credit, up $127 million to a total outstanding of $16.9 billion.

This form of consumer spending, the optimists hold, will spill over into allied fields that have their big selling season ahead. This includes a long list of recreational items ranging from boats, trailers, golf carts and vacation cottages to backyard swimming pools.

The building industry also takes heart from a rise of $2 million in February in outstanding installment loans for repair and modernization. Gains in this field have been counted upon to help offset some slackness in new home buying. Repair loans dropped in January and December, so the rise in February is doubly encouraging.

While consumers were increasing their confident assuming of monthly payments, business itself was reporting record levels in its own sales figures.

The Commerce Department reports that February saw total volume of sales in manufacturing, wholesale and retail lines rise one per cent over January to a record seasonally adjusted $64.7 billion. Retail sales, which had slipped in January, are now revised to $19.1 billion in February, up one per cent from the previous month. The record set in November was just above $19.1 billion.

On such statistics businessmen are building confidence in healthy spring activity—not as glamorous perhaps as some had hoped, but a sound and prosperous period.

Healing Service Planned Tonight

The monthly healing service held at St. Paul's Church will be conducted tonight at 7:30 p.m. This is a regular event for the first Thursday in each month. The service is held in the church and is open to persons of all faiths.

The Rector, the Rev. John W. Drake Jr. will offer a meditation on Romans 5:1-11 as a portion of the service. In a very informal service prayers will be offered for healing and health; hymns will be sung about the strengthening grace of Jesus Christ; intercessions for the sick will lift up their names before God; the ministrations of laying on of hands will be preferred to those assembled. These persons can come for their own need or in behalf of others.

Actor 'Prefers' Bachelorhood

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Brad Dillman, who played the title role in the film "St. Francis of Assisi," was divorced Wednesday. His wife declared he "wanted to be a bachelor and never should have gotten married."

Mrs. Frieda Dillman, 31, testified in Superior Court her husband "ignored me most of the time and didn't talk about anything."

"I loved him. He did not respond. Nobody could communicate with him. He lived in his own little world."

Dillman, 31, did not contest the action. He was ordered to pay $750 alimony per month and $250 support monthly for the couple's two children, Jeffrey, 4, and Pamela, 2.

Big Auto Union Turns Back Reds

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Workers in the giant Fiat auto works once again rejected a determined bid by the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor to gain power.

The Fiat union election is regarded by many as a barometer of political thinking among Italian workers. The CGIL was in control until 1955, but it has been waging a losing battle ever since. In the election Wednesday it polled only 2.5 per cent of the vote among the firm's 93,000 workers.

India's President Needs Surgery

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's President Rajendra Prasad, 77, may enter New York's Memorial Hospital for brain surgery some time after he lays down his office May 13.

However, the spokesman said Wednesday, "there are no immediate plans" for him to go to the United States for treatment.

Prasad sustained a head injury in 1937 when police struck him with an iron-tipped baton. He was then a participant in Mohandas K. Gandhi's nonviolent civil disobedience movement against British rule.

Castro Assails Ecuador's Chief

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro called Ecuador's President Carlos Arosemena a drunken coward Wednesday night and predicted he might meet a worse fate than Argentine President Arturo Frondizi.

The Cuban prime minister said that Arosemena was on his way to becoming "a prisoner of the military" who, Castro said, forced Arosemena to break diplomatic relations with Cuba Tuesday.

"Any day they'll grab him and take him to an embassy," Castro said in a televised speech to the first National Congress of Young Communists.

"Any day he'll wake up in an embassy. It is possible that the military will act with him worse than with Frondizi as he has been more cowardly than Frondizi."

Argentina's military leaders ousted President Arturo Frondizi last week and imprisoned him on a naval base island off Buenos Aires.

Castro said Arosemena spent long days "completely inebriated" and that he had been known to remain intoxicated for a week. He added that photographs of the Ecuadorian president during drinking sprees exist.

There had been speculation that Castro might announce sentences for 1,179 captives of last year's Bay of Pigs invasion but he made no mention of the prisoners, whose trial ended Tuesday.

NOTICE OF SALE
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust executed and delivered by Willie James Coward and wife, Louise J. Coward, to C. B. Tugwell, Trustee for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greenville, Greenville, North Carolina, dated January 25, 1960, of record in Book N-31, page 221, of the Pitt County Registry of Deeds, the following property, called "let all flowers bloom," let 100 schools of thought contend." For one starting month critics of Communism, of Mao, had their public say. Then they were subjected to ruthless persecution as "rightists."

In recent months the Chinese Reds have made plain that the "great leap forward"—the crash program to make China a world industrial power—has been shelved because of agriculture failures, Mao's agricultural program of rural communes, grouping millions of peasants into communized colonies, has been drastically modified because the peasants didn't produce in the communes.

As it did in the "let all flowers bloom" period, the People's Daily now says that party members should be encouraged to criticize higher ranking members.

"Say anything you know," the editorial said, "express whatever you are thinking, and if there is nothing wrong in a person's opinion, it should be taken as a lesson to the listener."

This time the flowers may not bloom so freely. Such criticism got many of the critics into deep trouble before.

Criticisms Could Herald Purge Inside Red China

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP)—Red China's leadership today castigated members of the Chinese Communist Party who it said have become bureaucratic, insolent and self-satisfied.

The unusually sharp denunciation may be the prelude to a new purge of the Chinese party of more than 12 million members. The purged may become whipping boys for the present chaotic condition of Chinese agriculture, which has created hunger and unrest on the mainland.

The attack was published in the official Peiping People's Daily midway through an ultra-secret meeting of the National People's Congress, the Chinese Communists' rubber-stamp parliament.

"There are persons," the paper said, "who have become steeped in bureaucracy, exhibit feelings of insolence and self-satisfaction, forget realities, estrange themselves from the masses and do not care to discuss things with the masses."

The paper said that party members today exercise leadership during a period of great gravity

Shower Belt Has Wide Expanse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Showers and thunderstorms dampened sections from the southern and south central Plains into the central part of the nation today and headed eastward.

The showery belt extended across the middle Mississippi Valley and the southwestern Great Lakes region. Thunderstorms rumbled across areas in central Texas and showers spread into the lower Mississippi Valley. Heaviest rains were in Texas, with one-inch falls in a six-hour period reported in Amarillo, Palacios and Austin.

The rain was expected to extend over the southern and central Midwest and the Ohio Valley with showers and occasional thunderstorms from the eastern half of the southern Plains to the southern Appalachians.

Mostly fair weather prevailed in areas east of the Appalachians, the northern Plains, the southern Plateau and the central and southern Pacific Coast. Skies were cloudy in the Rockies and the central Plateau while light rain sprinkled sections of the North Pacific Coast and the northern Plateau.

Cooler weather, a little below freezing, was reported in the North Atlantic states. Temperatures in the 30s and 40s prevailed in most sections, with 50s and 60s in southern Florida and the southern Plateau region.

SHOWER BELT HAS WIDE EXPANSE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has proposed a federal tax on pleasure boats as one means of financing the purchase of additional land and water areas for public recreation.

Revenue measures recommended Wednesday by Kennedy in a bill he sent to Congress would bring in more than $1 billion approved.

The Interior Department estimated that the boat tax alone would bring in about $45 million a year.

In an accompanying message Kennedy noted that Americans consider the outdoors free. "In fact, however," he wrote, "outdoor recreation programs have been supported through a combination of general revenues and special levies such as national park admissions, fishing and hunting stamps and licenses, and federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and sporting arms and ammunition."

In the bill Kennedy asked Congress to create a land conservation fund to "expand existing recreational resources to meet our present and future needs."

The President, who likes to go boating for relaxation, proposed a $5 a year tax on boats 14 to 16 feet in length, with an additional levy of $2 for each additional foot.

KILL WIREWORMS with CHLORDANE IN TOBACCO TRANSPLANT WATER!

Wireworm larvae damage tobacco transplants by feeding on the roots and stems. Unless wireworms are controlled, it may be necessary to replant large areas, or settle for greatly reduced yields. It's easy to control wireworms, though. All you have to do is add Chlordane to your transplant water. No extra work is required. The cost is just a few cents per acre, and increased yields more than pay for it! All principal tobacco growing states recommend Chlordane for wireworm control. Use it this year to protect your crop!

NO EXTRA WORK/VERSATILE/ECONOMICAL LASTING ACTION/NO OFFENSIVE ODOR!

Chlordane in transplant water kills wireworms, most cutworms, flea beetles, and many other insects.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly stronger. Supplies adequate in most instances, demand generally good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: grade A large, whites 29-30; medium, whites 24-25 1/2; small, whites 18-20, mostly 18-19.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market groped unevenly in moderate trading early this afternoon. Motors made narrow gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .30 at 254.70 with industrials up .60, rails off .20 and utilities up .40.

Gains and losses of key stocks were pretty well balanced. Most movements were small, some going to a point or so.

Most of the major stock groups were thoroughly irregular. General Motors recouped a fraction of Wednesday's loss.

Ford, Chrysler and American Motors made similar gains. Steels were unchanged to narrowly mixed. Rails were a bit lower. Baltimore & Ohio dropped about a point.

Oils, tobaccos, chemicals and drugs were very uneven. Aerospace issues tended to decline. Douglas Aircraft, mentioned prominently in Washington investigations of missile contracts was off around a point.

Amerasia and IBM picked up about 3 points. General Tire rebounded more than a point.

International Harvester, reportedly closing some plants, was down about a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .44 at 696.44. Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds advanced in moderate trading.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices steady to 25 cents higher. Tops of 16-17 Wilson; 16.25-16.75 Rocky Mount; 16-16.50 Smithfield; 15.75-16.25 Pembroke; 16.50 Murfreesboro. Robbers on v. lile. Goldsboro; 16.25 Bethel, Greensboro, Rich Square; 16 Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Siler City, Washington, Burgaw, Castle Hayne 15.75 Dunn.

Wisconsin cash cattle prices, steady, steers and heifers, choice 23-25, good 21.50-24, standards 17-21; beef cows 14.50-16.50 heavy cutters 13-14.50, light bulls 12.50-15, heavy bulls 15-18.

Adopted Infant Caught In Wreck Of Marriage

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A 15-month-old German girl—adopted by Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor only a few months ago—was caught in the ruins of their marriage today.

The child, Rome reports said, was taken from a Munich orphanage in January and given to Miss Taylor and Fisher by the German Embassy in Rome.

German adoption officials refuse to confirm that the girl—said to be known as Maria—had been turned over to the stars. And they would not say what would happen to Maria now.

Adoption lawyers, however, said it probably would be up to the divorce court to decide whether Fisher or Miss Taylor would keep Maria, or whether she would be returned to German authorities.

The blonde girl, Rome reports said, has a congenital dislocation of the right hip—a condition that can be corrected only by long and expensive care. The ailment was reported to have persuaded Miss Taylor and Fisher to adopt her. She arrived in Rome with a cast on her leg.

Raccoons which have been marked and released by wildlife management personnel have been known to travel as far as 75 miles from the point of their release.

Substation Bids To Be Reviewed By May 4

Bids on a post office substation for Greenville, to be located in the vicinity of Tenth Street between Charles and Elm Streets, will be reviewed in the office of Max B. Trout, real estate officer located in Columbia, S. C., not later than May 4, it was reported today by Greenville Postmaster Knott Proctor.

Announcement was made on Monday by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner that a new post office substation, to be known as Station A, would be located in Greenville. The new substation will supplement the main station located downtown at Evans and Third Streets.

Proctor said today that he had been provided with a bidder's package, which will be retained at the post office as a demonstration for interested parties. If interested parties desire their own packages, they may submit their names and addresses to him, or write Trout asking for packages.

Proctor noted that Trout has thorough information on the new project. Bids and inquiries may be directed to Max B. Trout, real estate officer, at P.O. Box 1586, Main Post Office, Columbia, S. C.

Proctor was notified by letter that this advertisement for bids "varies from many which we have had in recent years in that we do not specify any certain site; therefore, each bidder must propose a location which he owns or can secure."

The new substation has the following desired specifications: enclosed net space, 5,600 square feet; platform space, 405 square feet; driveway, parking and maneuvering area, 11,118 square feet; sidewalks and landscaping, 423 and 1,893 square feet.

Proctor commented that the substation was "badly" needed for the reason that the main post office here is operated under very crowded conditions. He added that he felt the main post office, plus a substation, would more adequately serve the public.

PTA Banquet Is Held Tuesday

The North Fountain School PTA held its banquet Tuesday night in the school auditorium. Dr. P. B. Weaver, principal of Willow Grove School, Whiteakers, was the guest speaker. His topic was "What We Owe To Our Children."

He stressed parental responsibility to children. This responsibility, he said, includes: Christian leadership, moral and physical protection, faith. He urged teachers to teach for today and tomorrow in order that the child may meet the challenge of the future.

Dr. Weaver was introduced by E. L. Smith, principal of North Fountain School. Music was presented by Mrs. Ethel Arrington, Mrs. Daisy Mix, PTA president, welcomed the guests, and Mrs. Doris Morgan gave the PTA highlights of the year.

Mrs. Margaret Pick presented the school a gift in the form of a check from the association. D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, made remarks. Recognition was given to the following guests: A. S. Alford, assistant superintendent of Pitt County schools; Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor of Pitt County schools; Herman Baker; Mrs. Violet Jones, public health nurse; Ervin Jones, of the Pitt County Agricultural office; Leroy James, Milton Merritt, Miss A. R. Gore, Miss Betty Thompson, Gaston Mack, principal of Bruce-Palkland School, and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. McGlone.

Mother Kills 2 Of Three Children

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—A mother shot and killed two of her three children, police reported today.

The woman, held for questioning, was identified as Mrs. Florence Staples, 39.

Police said a daughter, Lola, 6, was shot about 30 Wednesday night in the Staples home. Two sons, Daniel, 17, and William, 19, came home about midnight and went to bed unaware of what had happened, police said.

Early today William was awakened by a gunshot and found his brother had been killed in his bed. The older son said he disarmed the mother and called police.

Mrs. Staples is separated from her husband, police said.

Plan New Model Of Cleopatra

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—The manager of a museum here says a new wax figure of Cleopatra to be added soon to the museum's collection will have a cute nose and look more like Elizabeth Taylor than the present model.

"Cleopatra had a big nose," Bus MacTaggart, the manager, explained.

Miss Taylor is portraying Cleopatra in a film being made in Rome.

Elwood Nobles New Clerk In Winterville

WINTERVILLE—Elwood Nobles of Ayden has accepted appointment as town clerk of Winterville to succeed T. E. Cannon. It was announced today by Mayor Walter Dail.

Nobles has been employed as an assistant in the Ayden Town Office for the past two years. He is scheduled to report for his new position on May 1, and will work with Cannon until he retires during the summer.

Nobles will be in complete charge of the town office, including tax matters, water and light billing. Dail noted that Nobles has taken a course in tax supervision with the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill.

Mayor Dail said today, "I think we are fortunate in getting Mr. Nobles." At the same time, he noted that the Town Board, in announcing the hiring of Nobles, commended Cannon for his work as town clerk during the past 10 years. Cannon is now 80 years old.

Nobles, a native of Pitt County near Winterville, is the son of the late C. B. Nobles and Mrs. Nobles. His mother resides at Rt. 1, Winterville. He graduated from Winterville High School.

Following high school, he entered the U. S. Navy and received honorary discharge in May of 1946. He pursued farming interests from that time until 1953, when he joined F. R. Taylor and Co. in Ayden as a dry goods salesman, and later joined the Ayden Town Office. He was married in 1947 to the former Lila Loftin of Ayden.

He was a charter member of the Ayden Jaycees and served as a member of its Board of Directors, treasurer and first vice president. For many years he managed the Jaycees' ball club.

He has worked with the Ayden Recreation League for some time

New Bridge Due About April 20

RALEIGH (AP) — A temporary bridge over the storm-outlet on Hatteras Island may be completed by April 20.

The date was mentioned Wednesday by State Highway Chairman Merrill Evans, who said the inlet widened another 150 to 200 feet a couple of weeks ago.

The March 7 storm cut the inlet between Avon and Buxton on the Outer Banks island. Evans said the cut now is close to 800 feet wide and 10 to 15 feet deep. "It disrupts the whole community down there," he added.
