Negotiators Hope Fidel Castro To Lower Ransom On Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban exile negotiators will fly to Havana Tuesday in hopes of inducing Prime Minister Fidel Castro to reduce the $62 million set as ransom for his sons and husbands captured at the Bay of Pigs. A spokesman for the Cuban Families Committee said Castro replied favorably Sunday night to a cable seeking an audience with him. The vice treasurer of the committee, Enrique Liaca, said the committee already has raised $26 million in cash and pledges in four months to aid the prisoners. The 1,179 prisoners, captured in the abortive invasion last April, were sentenced to 30 years imprisonment each pending payment of ransoms ranging from $25,000 to $500,000. The unusual verdict came Saturday night by a five-man military tribunal, Havana newspapers reported. The trials were closed to the American press. Prosecutor Jose Santiago had called for the severest penalties. The maximum penalty is death, but Castro had been reported wary of imposing it. Some exiles here believe the sentences and ransom provision resulted from the family committee's offer to negotiate for the captives' release. A cable offering to negotiate was sent Saturday. The price for prisoners has more than tripled since Castro made his startling offer last May to swap the prisoners for 500 tractors. A committee of U.S. citizens organized at that time to try to arrange the trade. It was estimated that it would take up to $17 million to buy enough tractors or bulldozers to free the prisoners. The prisoners now may be released one by one on payment of ransoms or indemnities ranging from $25,000 for a man in the ranks to $500,000 for a leader of the invasion. In New York, the chairman of the International Rescue Committee, Leo Cherne said his organization would not negotiate with the Cuban government to ransom the prisoners. Cherne compared the ransom offer to that made by the Germans during World War II (10,000 trucks for the lives of 100,000 Hungarian Jews). The families committee, which took over efforts to free the captives after the International Rescue Group gave up the project, told Castro "the concrete offer we are ready to make you does not refer to tractors." Sentiment among Miami's 100,000 or more Cuban exiles did not appear unified. Antonio de Varona, a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, called the sentences political blackmail. "It is a verdict that could have been hatched only in the mind of a paranoic," he said. One exile who asked not to be named said, "Instead of spending $62 million to ransom them, let's use the money to buy arms. In any event, Castro won't last 3 years (the length of the sentences). Expected to make the trip to Havana are Alvaro Sanchez, chairman of the families committee, Liaca, and two other committee members—Virginia Betancourt de Rodriguez and Ernesto Freyre. Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., said at Indianapolis that the sentencing is "strictly 100 per cent communistic blackmail." He said that he wasn't surprised at the new hint that money for the prisoners' release should come from the United States. "If we have a moral obligation to put up $62 million," he said, "then we should do what we should have done many months ago—take over Cuba militarily and establish free government down there."

France Endorses DeGaulle Peace

PARIS (AP)—French voters have overwhelmingly approved President Charles de Gaulle's peace pact with the Algerian nationalists. The Secret Army Organization, fighting to keep Algeria French, replied with more terrorist killings and defiant proclamations printed in newspaper plants occupied at sunpoint. Sixty-five per cent of the 25,963, 275 voters in metropolitan France endorsed De Gaulle's Algerian policy Sunday in response to his plea for a public show of confidence. Only 25 per cent of the registered voters failed to cast ballots, and 90 per cent of the valid ballots were cast in favor of the peace agreement. There was no voting in Algeria itself. European extremists there killed at least 26 persons and wounded 67. Commando bands raided plants of the Oran Echo and Oran Republican in the west Algerian port city early today and forced pressmen at gunpoint to run off thousands of copies of the papers labeled "Special Secret Army Edition." The rightist secret army was dealt a psychological setback, however, by the French people's thunderous endorsement of De Gaulle's Algerian policy even though it means the end of the once-far-flung French empire. Incomplete returns from metropolitan France and Corsica were: yes-17,505,473; no-1,794,553. A total of 1,102,477 ballots were invalid. De Gaulle's supporters heralded the verdict as a ringing vote of confidence in all aspects of his four-year-old regime. Socialists and Communists, however, emphasized they were backing only his Algerian policy. De Gaulle put before the voters a two-point proposal. One called for confirmation of the cease-fire signed with the Algerian rebel command at Evian on March 19. The other asked for blank-check powers to make Algeria an inde-

Miss America Here For Miss Greenville Pageant

Marla Beale Fletcher, Miss America of 1962, will be present for the Miss Greenville Beauty Pageant to be held in Wright Auditorium April 17. Eleven contestants are entered in the local competition to choose the beauty who will represent Greenville in the Miss North Carolina Pageant. Winner of the state pageant will compete nationally for Miss America honors. It is the same route traveled by Miss Fletcher who comes from Asheville. She went on to win the Miss North Carolina title, then in Atlantic City, N. J., she was crowned Miss America. Milton Foley and Curtis Hendrix are co-chairmen of the Jaycee-sponsored Miss Greenville Pageant.

Car Hits Bridge Abutment, 3 Hurt

INJURED . . . were three persons when the vehicle crashed head-on into this bridge Saturday night.

Three persons were injured Saturday night when a car spun out of a driveway on N.C. 30 about seven miles from Greenville and crashed head-on into a cement bridge abutment. Harvey Gray Whitehurst, 23, of Route 1, Greenville, was identified by Patrolman Luther B. Long of Bethel as the driver of the car. Whitehurst was charged with reckless driving. Trooper Long said the vehicle spun out of the driveway for 59 feet before crashing into the bridge. Value of the vehicle, which was said to be a total loss, was placed at $1,100. Injured in the crash included Whitehurst, Betty Williams, 16, of 203 South Washington St., and Mary Gibbs, 18, of Route 1, Winterville. All received lacerations of the face. Miss Williams was the only one admitted to the hospital, however. A fourth person in the 11:25 p.m. wreck escaped uninjured.

Twelve Escapees Still At Large After Big Break

JESUP, Ga. (AP)—South Georgia's biggest manhunt in recent years was pushed today for 12 convicts still at large after 25 prisoners broke out of a state prison branch without a shot being fired. Thirteen of the escapees were recaptured within 24 hours after they fled Wayne County State Prison Camp near this southwest Georgia town. Nearly 100 police officers and volunteers helped round up the fugitives, some of whom fled into dense woods and swamps. The prisoners fled on foot after overpowering the only two guards on duty at the fenced-in prison branch Saturday night. They emptied the prison arsenal of two dozen shotguns and pistols and ammunition and locked the guards in a solitary cell after cutting wire separating them from a guard's catwalk. Eighty-four prisoners refused to join the break and stayed in their cells, said state prisons director Jack M. Forrester.

Terrorists Will Continue Their Random Killings

ALGIERS (AP)—A source close to the rightist Secret Army Organization said today, "Our fight continues unabated." The Secret Army Organization is known as the OAS. Terrorists working with knife and gun pursued their random slaughter of Moslem civilians in the wake of the French electorate's vote for President Charles de Gaulle's peace pact with the Algerian nationalists. Two killings were reported in Bab el Oued, a European workers district of Algiers. One Moslem was shot with a pistol. Another was stabbed in the back. Three plastic bomb explosions heavily damaged the University of Algiers Sunday night. The university was the scene of a major operation Saturday night, when French troops arrested a number of terrorists and seized arms and explosives there. It has been one of the main centers of rightist agitation intended to keep Algeria French.

Japan Protests Nuclear Tests

TOKYO (AP)—Japan protested today the U.S. announcement of establishment of a nuclear test zone around British-owned Christmas Island in the Pacific. The United States has announced it intends to conduct nuclear shots in the atmosphere this month. A protest note handed American Embassy Counselor John Good-year at the Foreign Office expressed deep regret at the U.S. announcement. The protest also said Japan reserves the right to claim compensation from the United States for any damages or losses resulting from establishment of the danger zone.

MEET TONIGHT

The Greenville Recreation Commission will meet tonight at 8:00 at the Elm Street Recreation Center. Recreation Director Gordon Goodman urged all members of the Commission to attend the meeting.

Drag River For Four Persons

COLERAIN, N. C. (AP)—Dragging operations were begun on the Chowan River today for four persons missing since Sunday and feared drowned. The group included Clyde Ward, 42, his two sons, Joe, 15, and Blakey, 13, and a Negro friend, Clarence Askew, 42, all of Powellsville. They were in Ward's new boat.

City's Sale And Use Tax Figures Show Increase

Sales and use tax collections in Greenville during January showed a 60-plus per cent increase from the January 1961 figures, according to a bulletin issued by the Greenville Merchants Association. The bulletin reported Greenville merchants collected $87,160.03 in sales taxes during January, compared with the previous January's total of $53,427.01. Gross retail sales for all of Pitt County rose from $5,257,407 in January 1961 to $6,449,015 last January. Greenville's tax collection figures were reported with those for nine other Eastern North Carolina cities. Each showed large gains from January to January. A portion of the respective increase could be accounted for by the sales tax exemptions removed by the 1961 General Assembly and placed into effect last July 1. January figures for the 10 cities (with January 1961 collections in parentheses) were: Greenville—$87,160.03 ($53,427.01); Goldsboro—$120,339.38 ($79,527.69); Kinston—$103,491.51 ($65,871.01); New Bern—$79,929.05 ($52,595.12); Rocky Mount—$119,213.71 ($78,155.97); Wilmington—$186,174.02 ($127,433.72); Wilson—$93,889.63 ($62,347.52); Elizabeth City—$54,019.68 ($32,633.88); Raleigh—$495,440.54 ($308,344.72); Jacksonville—$60,937.70 ($44,731.04).

Car Recovered From Tar River

Members of the Greenville Fire Department's rescue unit recovered a car about noon today from the waters of the Tar River at the north end of Washington St. The search for the vehicle was begun last night when Greenville police received a report that a 1952 car had rolled down a hill and into the river. The search was resumed this morning. Investigators said the vehicle is owned by Alexander Clemons, 27-year-old Negro of Route 4, Greenville. Officers said Clemons reported that he parked the vehicle on a hill in Greene Street Alley, about 20 feet from a slope leading to the foot of Washington St. and the river bank. The hand brake was set, Clemons told investigators. Witnesses, who saw the vehicle after it had started rolling down the steep bank, said the car struck a small ditch near the end of Washington St., which caused it to change direction and head into the river. The incident was reported about 8:35 p.m. last night and rescuers, hampered by high waters, searched until about 11 p.m. for the vehicle. The submerged vehicle was located about 11:45 a.m. today, down river from the spot it entered the water. It was pulled onto the river bank about 1 p.m.

Gusts Up To 75 MPH Here In Sunday Morning Storm

A short but violent windstorm with gusts up to 75 miles per hour struck here about 9:15 Sunday morning, knocking out power in some areas and causing damage to tobacco barns and other outbuildings in rural areas. The storm had indications of being a tornado, but there was no funnel, Leonard Bloxam, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, reported. An unconfirmed report stated that an airplane at the Greenville Municipal Airport had been damaged, when winds blew an anchor chain loose and it tipped over on one side. The landing gear was reported damaged. At Pitt Memorial Hospital, two windows located on the back side of the fourth floor were blown out, but no one was injured, hospital administrator C. D. Ward said today. The windows were replaced early this morning. Ward said wind also blew over the large Christmas tree in the center circle in front of the hospital, splitting it in half. One small magnolia tree was lost to the wind. Power at the hospital was knocked out for a short while yesterday but emergency power worked in the meantime, Ward said. Considerable difficulty was experienced by utility crews here during the short period of high winds. Bloxam said two feeder circuits serving the town were out during the blow. The circuit serving Lakewood Pines, Fourteenth Street area and Brookgreen was out of commission for about an hour after wind blew the top of a tree into it. The No. 8 circuit was cut for about 20 minutes after winds blew limbs in it, Bloxam said. In other damage, winds knocked out a street light circuit in West Greenville and in other sections of the county. Winterville's current was out about an hour and a half when a tree was blown into a line. A tobacco barn was blown into lines in the Renston section. The gusts ranged from about 45 miles per hour to 75, the Greenville Utilities Plant reported. In spite of the short storm, temperatures were mild yesterday, the high reaching 73 degrees. For today, the weatherman forecast temperatures in the 70s. Temperatures will average near normal all week, with little day-to-day change. Intermittent shower activity is predicted about Wednesday through Saturday and is expected to average one half to about one inch. During the weekend, 1.54 inches of rain fell here. The Tar River level today was 11.3 feet.

Four Exposed To Radioactivity

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP)—Three men remained hospitalized today after being exposed to a burst of radioactivity at the Hanford Atomic Works. A fourth man was released Sunday. Doctors said the men were in good condition and showed "no clinical evidence of radiation injury." H. B. Lindberg, a public information officer for the General Electric Co. said they were expected to remain in the hospital for a few days for observation. The accident Saturday occurred when an overconcentration of fissionable material collected in a waste tank. It was the first such accident in the 18-year history of the plant, operated by G.E. for the Atomic Energy Commission. Lindberg said the cause has not been determined. He said the four men, working near the tank were exposed to gamma rays and neutrons. About 16 other men in the same building were evacuated as a precautionary measure. Glenn Thoennes was released from the hospital. Remaining for observation are Harold Aardel, F. R. Lohednick and J. R. Williamson, all of Richland.

Marine Rite Is Halted

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The commandant of the Marine Corps has ordered a halt to the drumming out of disgraced Marines, a ceremony revived by a Norfolk commander. The commandant, Gen. David M. Shoup, said Saturday he had ordered an inspector general's investigation of the matter. "The local commander neither asked for nor was given authorization for the ceremony," said Shoup. Col. William C. Capehart revived the practice in August 1960 at the Norfolk Marine Barracks, and since that time at least seven Marines have been drummed out of the corps. In the grim ceremony, the disgraced Marine is marched before a formation of troops while the "death march" is slowly tapped out on the drums. His bad conduct discharge orders are read aloud. Then an officer of the guard comments: "Escort this man from the confines of this U.S. Navy reservation." The ex-Marine is marched down the line of troops. As he reaches each unit, the commander orders "About face" and the passing Marine is presented with a row of unfriendly backs. Capehart said the ceremony was not intended "to humiliate or degrade the individual," but "simply to impress on other Marines who might be headed to a bad conduct discharge the seriousness and ultimate consequences of their actions." Most Marine commanders handle bad conduct discharges simply by publishing the discharge order and reading it during a company formation, a Marine Corps spokesman said in Washington. A Marine drummed out of the service officially has already received his bad conduct discharge.

Shipwrecked Americans Hope They Can Leave Cuba Tuesday

HAVANA (AP)—Seven American shipwrecked off Cuba on a treasure hunting expedition hoped to get a plane for Miami Tuesday, after being freed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government. Gordon S. Patton, 62, of Ocean City, Md., leader of the party, said they had been treated very nicely by the Cubans, who arrested them when they made it to shore on the north coast of Cuba. The Americans are staying at a luxury hotel with the Castro government apparently footing the bill—even for a night club outing Saturday night. Cuban authorities were suspicious when they seized the skin divers last week on the coast of Oriente Province. They cleared them after an investigation. The Americans said their 46-foot yacht, the Pisces, broke up and sank in a storm off Baracoa near Cuba's easternmost tip last Thursday while they were on the way to Jamaica in search of sunken Spanish treasure. "We came ashore at a very remote place," said Bernie Nistad of Brooklyn, N.Y. Cuban suspicions apparently were aroused by the equipment they carried—dynamite to blast coral rock off sunken ships, a two-man submarine, a pistol and a rifle. The United States does not have diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, but the Swiss ambassador interceded for the men on behalf of the State Department. The Swiss offered to pay the Americans' hotel bill but the hotel declined any money and indicated everything was being taken care of by the Cuban government. With Patton and Nistad on the expedition were Fred Dickson Jr., formerly of Ocean City, N.J.; Mike Freeman, 37, of Washington, D.C.; John Sterry, 28, of Brewster, N.Y.; John E. Johnson, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, of Washington, D.C.

Book Reviewed At Club Meet

Mrs. Thomas Bentley and Mrs. Jack Toley entertained the Sappho Book Club with a luncheon Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Bentley, Mrs. Homer Compton and Mrs. Dick Evans were guests.
 Arrangements of white jonquils and yellow tapers centered the dining and auxiliary tables. Following a two course luncheon, Mrs. Bentley introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Dick Evans. Mrs. Evans reviewed the book, "A Woman Wants God," by Mary Lou Lacy. Mrs. Evans told the group how the writer through a series of personal and deeply human messages, invites the reader to join her in seeking God. The speaker related instances of Mrs. Lacy's search for God in the perpetual activity that makes a woman's world. Quoting the author, Mrs. Evans said, "In these busy times it is easy to lose God in the clutter of housekeeping or leave Him home if He doesn't mix well with our social life. A woman wants and needs God because she knows deep within herself that she cannot live alone. God is always with us, a constant companion in every fear, doubt and aspiration. We need only to open our hearts to Him."

 Concluding the review, Mrs. Evans said that, "A Woman Wants God" is a book to inspire women to a deep, strengthening faith, a faith that will grow with every year until it spills over on everyone around her.
 During the business session, Mrs. Boyd Cox, president, appointed the various committees for the coming year. Several announcements were made, books were exchanged and the meeting was adjourned.

Woman's Department Rules

In order to be of the greatest service possible of brides-to-be the Reflector's Woman's Department asks that the following rules be followed in submitting engagements and weddings for publication.

Photographs should be 5 x 7 inches in size and black and white glossy print.

Engagement photographs for Saturday's edition of The Daily Reflector should be in the Woman's Department by Thursday noon. Wedding write-ups should be submitted two days in advance of the wedding date. Material which does not give exact date of wedding will not be accepted.

Weddings, like other news, have a time value, therefore the amount of space devoted to weddings turned in late will be determined by their demeriting news value. Club write-ups and other Women News will not be accepted more than a week after the event occurs.

Waste No Pity On Academy Award Maidens In Distress

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Don't feel too sorry, mister, for that poor little maiden in distress at tonight's Academy Awards.

Take it from Edith Head, awards costume consultant for the last 10 years: "The gal who loses her petticoat is bound to be some little startlet who didn't lose it accidentally."

Vicki Dougan, the little startlet started the trend to no back, no bluish, when she turned up almost all dressed up at the awards a few years ago.

It doesn't happen often enough to make it uninteresting because, as Hollywood's biggest event nears each year, the word is out to "keep it dignified."

Miss Head adds, "Genuine mishaps are very rare."

"It's usually the younger, more ambitious actresses who display a little too much epidermis—and we take care of that."

The lady picks a gown for tonight. She swoops into Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, hurries backstage—and catches her heel in her skirt. Or maybe, after all, that high television camera looks too far down her neckline. Or perhaps she has, 'er, lost something.

Edith will have a crash unit lined up backstage to take care of these and other emergencies. There will be:

Hairdressers with spray to plaster down errant strands of hair.

Costumers with spray to dull the camera-dazzling glitter of diamonds.

Dressmakers with hundreds of different bits of cloth to fill in plunging necklines.

Other assistants with everything from extra eyelashes to extra falseies.

Missing from the backstage ranks of hairdressers will be Sidney Guillaroff, MGM stylist, who is coiffing Natalie Wood, Geraldine Page, Debbie Reynolds, Cyd Charisse and Marilyn Monroe earlier today.

"Once I do their hair, I'm finished," says Guillaroff.

Guys Can Cook Sunday Breakfast

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Even men who say they spurn cooking will, on gentle prodding, reveal a secret recipe.

It was just such prodding that got us this really excellent rule for griddle cakes.

The man who gave it to us never goes near the kitchen on week days. But come Saturday or Sunday, he's likely to get up earlier than the rest of his family and produce a simple breakfast that includes these pancakes.

Our Man is efficient, takes shortcuts—and enjoys himself. First thing he does when he gets into the kitchen is to start the coffee. That's so he can sip a cup of the strong hot brew in luxurious quiet while he's cooking.

Next bacon goes on his electric griddle. Then out comes a can of frozen concentrated orange juice from the freezer to be diluted and aerated. Yes, Our Man is great on aeration. He says that if you pour the orange juice at a height from one container to another, you aerate it and improve the flavor. Maybe yes, maybe no; try it and judge for yourself.

When the bacon's crisp, he drains it on brown paper and keeps it hot in the warming oven. Then he carefully wipes off (with paper toweling) the salted bacon grease from the griddle and re-anoints the surface with vegetable oil.

While he's cooking the bacon, he dumps the pancake ingredients into an electric blender. When the griddle's ready to receive the batter, he whizzes it together and starts his baking.

No calling the family necessary! By this time the good smell of percolating coffee and frying bacon have sent their messages. Everyone's in the kitchen grinding orange juice. Bacon and griddle cakes are ready! Plates in hand, the family's ready to eat, grin and praise.

MAN-MADE PANCAKES
2 cups milk
1 cup flour
1/2 cup wheat germ
2 eggs

1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons salad oil

Put all the ingredients, in the order given, in the electric blender. Blend until well mixed. Let batter stand a few minutes to reduce aeration. Ladle pancake batter onto a hot (380 degrees) electric griddle that has been greased with vegetable oil. When the top surface of the pancakes is almost dry, turn the cakes. If you haven't an electric blender, use a rotary beater (hand or electric) to beat all the ingredients together thoroughly.

Food Editor's Note: Don't worry if this griddle cake batter seems on the thin side. It bakes beautifully. For a regular size two or three eaters, halve the family, use the recipe as is. For ingredients.

NOTE TO BRIDES: Leave this recipe for Man-Made Pancakes around. Your man might just get interested and produce breakfast for you.

Soaps & Detergents Get Equal Billing

Here's just one more indication of how important so-called detergents have become in recent years. The members of the Association of American Soap & Glycerine Producers, Inc. recently voted to change its name to The Soap and Detergent Association.

This sounds like pretty conclusive proof that detergents, as well as soaps, are here to stay—and that nobody can get along without both types of products when it comes to keeping people, clothing, homes, and surroundings clean.

Consider Location For Your Curtains

Before buying curtains for windows which face the south sun, consider the fabric's sunlight resistance.

Colorful fabrics of man-made fibers and mercerized cottons usually resist sunlight the best. These fabrics are also noted for their good washability—another big advantage to meticulous and thrifty homemakers.

Cleanliness Protects Bed Linens

In order to protect bedsheets and pillow cases from the deep soil which wears them out, check up on the children's cleanliness before putting them to bed.

Also make sure all the family hair is shampooed regularly, so dirt and oil don't grind into pillow covers. And wash off make-up before going to bed—to protect both your beauty and your sheets.

Card of Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all my friends, doctors and nurses for prayers, flowers, cards and other kindness shown me during my stay in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Marionettes Are Coming April 13

"Mr. Fuss In Boots" will be presented Friday night in McGinnis auditorium when the Suzer Marionettes come to town. The Pilot Club will sponsor the Marionettes when they come to Greenville. Curtain goes up at 4:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.

The players in the company are: Sally Armour, Henry DeShields and Byron Whiting. All are professional actors who have appeared on the legitimate stage and in summer stock.

"Mr. Fuss In Boots" is a marionette version of the French classic by Charles Perrault. They sing and dance their way through a story full of fun and fantasy.

Tickets are available in advance at Biggs Drug Store and Worsley's Fine Shoes.

H. D. Women Met Recently

The Reedy Branch community Home Demonstration Club held its April meeting at the community building April 4 with 14 members present and two guests, Mrs. Delia Jackson and Mrs. Roy Cox.

Mrs. Eugene Averette, president, presided and urged each member to read more books.

Mrs. E. C. Davenport gave the devotional, using Easter as her theme. She also urged members to take the tetanus shot.

A "Plan for Better Living" was discussed by Mrs. Mavis Johnson, assistant home economics agent. She suggested that furniture arrangement be for family pleasure and expansion. According to Mrs. Johnson, the five keys to good living are: convenience, usability, versatility, order and practicality.

After the demonstration, refreshments were served by Mrs. Roger Six and Mrs. Marvin Boyd.

Proper Care For Vinyl Tile Flooring

Vinyl tile is a durable flooring with a high resistance to stains and wear. To retain the strikingly clear colors and patterns which make vinyl so popular, damp-mop it daily or as often as the traffic indicates.

Also wash it thoroughly once a week, using a mop wrung out of thick soap or detergent suds—followed by rinsing with a mop wrung out of clear water. When the floor is thoroughly dry, apply a light coating of either ordinary or self-polishing wax.

Highway Toll Still Taken For Granted

Carnage on the highways of the nation is taken more or less for granted by most people these days. Over a period of years, with the constant toll in highway accidents, the public has become accustomed to the high death rate as a part of the cost of our highly mobile society.

Occasionally, however, an accident that for some reason is more spectacular or apparently more tragic than the run-of-the-mill highway accident, attracts attention and causes the public to pause for a moment to consider the highway hazard which confronts them individually and presents a problem for the nation as a whole.

Such is the case of the accident last weekend which snuffed out the lives of five Duke University coeds who were returning from a Florida vacation. The tragic accident shocked the university community in Durham. To a lesser extent it has had its impact in other college communities in this and other states, primarily because the victims were college students. But other than the identity and number of the victims of this particular accident, it wasn't unusual. Young people's lives are snuffed out every day across the nation in highway tragedies. The combination of a wet highway, a skidding vehicle and the sudden crash of grinding metal . . . they are familiar to all of us in connection with our highways.

Perhaps that is one of the troubles with our highways.

Perhaps that is one of the troubles with our highways today. Tragic accidents have become so much a part of the overall picture that we accept them with a moment of pity for the victims and their loved ones. We accept them with the idea that nothing can be done to cut down the toll and prevent repetition of the story day after day.

Victims become statistics, and the human suffering and the great loss which go to make up those statistics tend to be hidden behind bare numbers of dead, disabled, injured.

It is not enough to seek to place the blame here or there. Unless the American people are to pay an increasing toll in lives year by year for use of the highways a better answer must be found to our highway problem.

It is not enough for the public to read the daily story of tragedy, shake their heads and shrug that there is nothing which can be done about it.

Chilling Implications In System's Breakdown

The phrase "It can't happen here" has probably echoed time and again in the minds of the villagers of Sneedville, Tennessee.

But in what one would presume to be the least likely of "can't happens," it did happen.

There was a breakdown in the judicial process . . . a jury could not be seated to try two men with the slaying of two deputy sheriffs. So murder charges against the pair were dismissed.

The implications are chilling. We would assume the great majority of our citizenry rarely if ever are involved in courts of law; yet, all rely on the judicial machinery as their ultimate safeguard against injustice.

In turn, government by law rests upon the will of the citizenry, and the machinery of the law can only fail us when the people themselves decline to support it.

When we first read Saturday's account of two men accused of murder being freed because no jury could be seated, our initial sympathies were with the men who must live out their lives under gruesome question marks. Second thoughts shifted that sympathy to the townspeople of Sneedville who demonstrated to themselves and to others that the machinery which safeguards their lives and property is not impervious to human failings.

Court's Ruling And Economics

By RALPH ROBEY

It is not customary for this space to be used for a discussion of legal developments. But when there is something in that field which is certain to have an influence upon the financial and economic life of the nation, it properly falls within the scope of this column. In the past few days there has been a decision of the United States Supreme Court which is of this character.

This was the decision giving federal courts the power to rule upon apportioning of seats in state legislatures. Heretofore, the Supreme Court has refused to have anything to do with this problem. The current decision thus breaks new ground, and it is being said that it is the most important finding since the one ordering desegregation in 1954.

The case arose because in the majority of our states, rural voters have substantially more power in selecting members of legislatures than their proportion of the population indicates they should have. The correct means for handling this would be reapportionment by the states themselves. But in many cases the state have refused to do this, and the urban and suburban voters have become increasingly aroused.

The particular case which was brought to the Supreme Court was from Tennessee. The constitution of that state requires reapportionment every ten years, but it has not been done since 1901, because of the strength of rural voters.

Economic importance of the decision arises from the fact that rural voters are more conservative than those from urban or suburban areas. That is true in every section of the country. Weakening this conservative strength will have ramifications of extremely broad character. And since the decision may also result in forcing changes for congressional districts, the effects may involve national legislation.

One of the almost certain results at the state level will be to require rural citizens to pay larger taxes. This would come about by putting an end to the unrealistically low real estate assessments on farms and farm equipment and buildings. Such a change would give the states more funds, but it does not follow that less demands will be made upon the federal government. Both conservatives and non-conservatives tend to regard federal funds as free money, but the non-conservatives are the larger spenders. The net effect, thus, probably will be increased demands for federal aid.

Another result that must be expected is less effort to keep labor unions under reasonable restraint. Specifically those states which have right-to-work laws will be under increasing pressure to eliminate them, and the chances of getting additional states to pass such laws will be appreciably diminished. We believe in properly-run labor unions, but in neither the union shop or the closed shop, and a curtailment of the conservative current in state legislatures will enhance such compulsory membership.

It is also the non-conservative who believe in concentrating power in the hands of government. We already have moved far in that direction, both at the state level and in the federal government. In the Congress, conservatives today have a hard time fighting off unsound measures, and if still more non-conservatives are elected to either the House or the Senate, such victories will become impossible.

Now all these are long-term effects. It will take years for the particular case which was brought to the Supreme Court was from Tennessee. The constitution of that state requires reapportionment every ten years, but it has not been done since 1901, because of the strength of rural voters.

The Scorpion Would've Stung Him

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

How Could This Get By?

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When one hires researchers and writers to assist him in preparing a speech or writing a book, he takes the chance that the other fellow's ideas will creep into his work. Few professional writers use such assistance, sometimes called ghosting and at other times, editorial assistance.

Richard Nixon in his book, "Six Crises," acknowledges Alvin Moscow, "for his skilled professional services in directing research and organizing material. . . . Precisely what that means I, who have spent nearly half a century in the business of writing, do not know, but it is apparent that Moscow did not know enough about the Hiss Case not to miss a point.

There are few people in this country who know more about the Hiss Case than Richard Nixon. Why did this particular error creep into his book? The manuscript was apparently read by Bill Henry, Earl Mado, Charles McWhorter, Raymond Moley and Kyle Palmer. Why did they not catch the error? Of course, had the manuscript been read by Judge Thomas Murphy, Judge John McGohey, Judge Irving Saypol and Thomas J. Donegan, the error would have been obvious to them. Had it been read by J. Edgar Hoover, the error would have stuck out like a sore thumb.

The error has to do with the Woodstock typewriter which Hiss had owned and on which some of the Pumpkin Papers had been typed. The error that the researcher apparently made was to the effect that FBI agents found the typewriter on December 13, 1948. On December 15, "the critical last day, an expert from the FBI typed exact copies of the incriminating documents on the old Woodstock machine and had them flown up" to the New York Grand Jury, according to the Nixon book. The case came to trial on May 31, 1949. Government witnesses had sworn that the typewriter had never been in their possession. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy so holds. In this book, "In the Court of Public Opinion," Hiss claims that "the Woodstock we found before the trials was a fabricated replica of our old machine. . . ."

Hiss claimed in his book that the typewriter had been found by the defense in "Lockey's house." Nevertheless, an attempt was made to assert that the Pumpkin Papers were forgeries. It is not necessary to go into this question now; it is sufficient that Vice President Nixon admits that his research-erred. There seems to be an advantage for Alger Hiss in this error. He has served his term in prison. His notable career has been ruined. Whittaker Chambers is dead; his book, "Witness," is an American classic. Hiss might petition for a pardon because of this error in Vice President Nixon's book, but subsequent editions will correct the error.

Alger Hiss had one of the most brilliant careers in our government. Had things gone well with him, he might today be our delegate to the United Nations or our Secretary of State. He had moved swiftly from the Nye Committee, which should have aroused suspicion, to the State Department. He accompanied President Roosevelt to the Yalta Conference where infinite damage was done to the United States by the errors President Roosevelt made. He was the organizer of the United Na-

JFK's 2 Big Issues

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — President Kennedy is up against two "stone walls." The first is that dividing East Berlin from West Berlin; and the second is how he can reduce unemployment.

JFK IS CONSERVATIVE BUT WORRIED

Employment is increasing in practically all lines—manufacturing, building, merchandising, and other important segments; but unemployment continues to plague us, and no solution is yet in sight. Before going into further details, let me say that JFK is getting fed up with his "intellectual" advisers. He is willing to listen to them; but he has decided to make his own decisions and not leave them to anybody else—not even to Vice President Johnson.

Some Administration officials are picking up big labor's theme that the government should do something soon to decrease heavy unemployment in the U. S. There is increasing talk of considering the problem an "emergency," calling for drastic steps by Uncle Sam. These would include advancing public works projects, creating make-work programs—possibly a modern WPA. So far, JFK has balked at grandiose proposals, mainly because they would be too costly and would throw federal budgets even farther out of whack. . . . to say nothing of the adverse impact on our already-sick balance of foreign payments. However, pressure from within and without the Administration is increasing, and 1962 election-year politics may force the President to send some stringent new proposals for reducing unemployment to Congress before too many more months have passed.

SELLING MORE GOODS THE ANSWER

JFK is emphasizing to both management and labor that the great need for the United States is to sell more U. S. manufactured goods—at home and abroad, and to keep prices down. He believes this demands an entirely new brand of tariff powers, — an ability to "trade." This is especially important in view of the "European Common Market." JFK believes that only as he is given dictatorial powers will he be able to meet dictators in Russia and other countries. I believe in a strong President.

In addition, the United States is faced with a rising imbalance of international payments and a resumption of the gold outflow. The nation really sits astride the horns of a dilemma: If the unemployment problem is met by inflationary spending, our gold outflow may become a flood; if we try to prevent gold loss through higher interest rates and lowered spending, business may slump and unemployment soar. The President is trying to boost foreign trade—is on the right track. . . . but he will need to be a supersalesman to sell Congress on turning over to him dictatorial powers.

THE COMING STEEL CONTRACT

The President is anxious to establish the principle that wages per hour will increase only as production per hour increases. Management wants the new machinery also to get some "wages." This may be okay for the steel corporations, but the trouble will come when all of the other unions want the same "deal" that the steel workers receive. Many corporations claim that, for various reasons, they cannot reduce costs further than they are now. All of this means that labor's standing may improve as it pushes for a socialistic system as far as production, prices, wages, depreciation, etc., are concerned. This, of course, is the big danger.

Meanwhile, the President's Labor-Management Committee has been conferring on automation dilemmas, but no workable program for dealing with automation - created unemployment and retraining has been proposed. Nor has a plan for stemming economy numbing strikes yet been aired. Internal union dissensions further complicate the situation. The Meany-Reuther-Hoffa triangle may not be eternal, but it will make for rough-and-tumble discussions on the labor front during 1962, with many a headache for employers.

School Crusade Shows Results

(By Dr. William C. Archie, Director, State Board of Higher Education)

Governor Sanford's crusade for quality education is showing constructive results all over the length and breadth of the Tar Heel State. It is difficult to imagine that any citizen has not been made more aware of the importance of and some of the problems concerning education. In spite of all that has been said there remain many of our boys and girls, as well as many of our older citizens, who do not appear to understand the basic reason why our young people must have an education. No one would deny that reasonably good health is necessary for a fruitful life. It is no less true that an education is equally necessary for a meaningful and full life.

Several years ago, President Harold Case of Boston University said "In 1932 27 per cent of our nation's work force needed a college education; by 1958 58 per cent of the population should be college trained; and . . . by 1970 we shall need a work force of whom 75 per cent hold college degrees."

It is not likely that as a nation we shall soon achieve Dr. Case's prognostication. Surely, we shall not in North Carolina for we are lagging seriously behind. Even so, to know this unhappy fact is not without importance.

What is our current situation in North Carolina? We are not only behind the national level of education of our people, we are nearly at the bottom of all of the fifty states. Only a half of our eighteen-year olds achieve a high school education and only 37 of this half manage to get to college. This means that no more than 20 percent of our college age boys and girls (age 18-22) achieve a college education.

This miserable record is all the more poignant when one thinks of the relationship of the high school "drop out" to juvenile delinquency and youth crime. (The college drop out problem is also related to this State and national problem but in a much lesser degree.)

Increasingly, we are being forced to concern ourselves with the "drop out" who cannot find a job and who bring idle hands frequently joined the gang in the devil's workshop. The titles of two pieces which recently appeared in magazines of national circulation indicate the problem and our concern: "We Waste a Million Kids a Year" and "Drop Outs to No Where." The simple truth is that there are increasingly fewer jobs for the uneducated, and the "drop out," especially in our cities, is a growing problem to himself, the State and the nation.

The "drop out," growing unemployment among the uneducated, young and old, and the rise in juvenile delinquency and youth crime may not be precisely the same problems but clearly all are first cousins. To keep our young citizens in school in appropriate programs will undoubtedly lead to improvement in all three areas. It is therefore painfully manifest that parents, school teachers, other educators, and indeed all people who claim affection for the future of our children and our State must join forces as they have never done in the past to do whatever must be done to lift the level of education of our high school and college-age citizens.

It is easiest to demonstrate the need for an education in the economic area, but this falls far short of the full story. A higher level of education will undoubtedly lead to a larger measure of economic security, but of greater importance, it will lead to a richer and much more satisfying personal life, characterized by broader and deeper cultural and social interests. Happily, too, we can hope for a greater measure of political insight, and wiser political decisions. When we have achieved a college education for 75 percent of the people, the demagogue will be a rare bird, and the red-galvanized political hoodlums will have to find some other way to make a living.

In fine, a high school education, once regarded as quite an achievement, will be less and less sufficient for the future. A college education, once regarded as a luxury for the few, has become all but a necessity. These undeniable facts must be "burned into the consciousness" of all the people.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NO FOOLING

There is a lot of talk today about the necessity of getting to know communism better. If we know it better, if we will get together and discuss it with our neighbors, perhaps the tensions between east and west will be lessened.

The truth is that we understand communism very well. From the standpoint of economics it is hokus-pokus. Politically, it is not a government but a criminal conspiracy. Let us not waste our time discussing communism, let us do something about it. What we should do is to crush it from off the face of the earth. But this is not possible. We are members of a nation, and nations move slowly. We are handicapped, and we must admit those handicaps. But let us not be deceived by the appeasers, the academicians, the sentimentalists. These profess to believe that the situation will be made right if we will just set ourselves to making it so. The only way to be safe in a world in which communism plays any part is always to be well prepared from the military standpoint, ready to defend our rights, willing to die rather than to submit to some things people of the world have submitted to already.

People of the twentieth century are believed to be realists. Let them show that they really are. Communism will not only bear watching — it will bear nothing else unless we want to be exterminated. There can be no fooling here. Let us take our stand and do our best.

Other Editors Saying Slippage On Mainland

(Christian Science Monitor)

Speculation as to whether Fidel Castro is being swallowed by his own revolution has been animated in recent weeks. And, since the bearded leader has confirmed such a swallowing attempt by his Cuban Communist allies, the speculators have moved on to the subject of a possible break between Castro and Moscow.

At the moment this subject is open only to fascinating but impractical guesswork. A more profitable inquiry—and one of profound importance—would be into the effect on Latin America of what has already happened in Cuba.

Only two months ago Castroism remained a potent enough popular doctrine to sway the shrewd politicians trying to hold their balance in Brazil, Argentina, and Chile. What has since happened in Cuba could—without any dramatic and unlikely resurgence of Castro as a Nasser-style independent or demise as a Nagy-type martyr—sharply alter the sway of Castroism on the mainland. And with it severely damage the prospects of Latin-American Communists.

Since the end of the war these Communists, always a small minority, have sought vainly to find a popular coalition on which to ride. They tried anti-Yankeeism, but it was too much common currency for them to patent. They tried specific issues like the Panama Canal and lit no sparks. Then Castro arrived. His coattails provided their great chance. At the outset he was a triple-threat: he was anti-Yankee; he had a coterie of genuine reformers in his court; and he was sympathetic, he expressed the longings of the landless peasants in a rushing, stream-of-consciousness demagoguery.

Total wages and salaries in 1961 were a little more than 3 per cent higher than in 1960. The average weekly gross earnings per worker in all manufacturing establishments in 1960 was $89.72 and in 1960, $92.34, a rise of slightly less than 3 per cent.

The net income of America's 3,557 leading corporations was $21.1 billion in 1960 and $21.4 billion in 1961, a gain of 1 per cent. The last figure is by the First National City Bank's annual tabulation of corporate earnings, which appears in its April bank letter.

However, many of the groups of corporations increased their net profits at a much better rate than did factory hands. Thirty construction corporations increased profits by 625 per cent. Other groups did not do as well. Seventeen air-transport corporations went from a profit of $30.6 billion in 1960 to a loss of $9.49 billion in 1961, a decline of 130 per cent. This group was the only one to show a 1961 deficit.

MANY GROUPS INCREASE EARNINGS

First National City divides the corporations into seven broad groups. The first, 2,138 manufacturing corporations, showed less than 1 per cent gain in profits. Fifty-one mining companies scored a 9 per cent gain; 331 trading corporations increased profits 2 per cent; 248 public utility corporations increased profits by a handsome 6 per cent; 181 service companies, boosted by that construction group, had a 26 per cent gain; 408 finance companies did 3 per cent better, and 205 transportation corporations, dragged down by air-transport losses, averaged a 17 per cent loss.

Among manufacturing groups, 42 aircraft and space companies did the best, with a 69 per cent rise in profits for the year. Next best were 22 office and computing equipment companies with a rise of 29 per cent. However, there were many declines among the manufacturing groups, among them: 23 shoe, leather, etc. corporations, down 36 per cent; 14 railway equipment companies, down 23 per cent, and 18 meat packing corporations, down 25 per cent.

COAL PROFITS RISE

Coal companies, generally considered to constitute a sick industry, made the largest increase among mining companies. Twenty companies increased aggregate profits from $61 million to $70 million, a rise of 15 per cent.

Rises in the big consumer outlets were modest. Gains of chain stores, supermarkets, department stores, specialty shops and mail order houses ranged from 1 to 4 per cent.

In the transportation group, 18 common carrier trucking corporations did almost as good as the air transport companies did badly. These truckers' profits increased 18 per cent — and rest assured that Jimmy Hoffa is reading this column too.

In the service division, 47 amusement corporations gained 6 per cent while 27 hotel and restaurant companies declined 3 per cent.

In the finance division, 56 fire and casualty insurance and 214 investment trusts each averaged 6 per cent gain; 82 sales and service companies increased profits 5 per cent. However, 51 real estate corporations made 16 per cent less. A Federal Reserve report on 6,113 banks, not included in the First National City totals, showed a gain of 1 per cent.

These figures constitute clues as to which industries are a growth industries.

BATTERIES, WIRING CAUSE MORE AUTO BREAKDOWNS

The American Automobile Association offers car manufacturers a clue to where improvements are needed: Of 65 million AAA service calls last year, battery and electrical failures accounted for 16.5 million, or 25.4 per cent. This was the fifth year that battery and wiring problems led the list. Second was tire troubles, accounting for 127 million calls, or 19.58 per cent of the total.

Cancer Message Aimed At Each Household

With activities of the Pitt County Cancer Crusade expected to move into high gear this week, Crusade Chairman Jack White reminded anew the primary goal is to get cancer education material into each household.

"By calling attention to the danger signals of cancer we make early diagnosis possible; and with early diagnosis the chances of a cure are immeasurably greater," he said.

Headquarters of the Pitt Crusade are being maintained in offices of the Greenville Moose Lodge, sponsors of the 1962

Crusade. Additional materials and needed information may be obtained there from Edwin M. Baldree.

Canvassing of white residential areas in Greenville is under the overall direction of Mrs. Belle Harrell.

Community chairmen of white and Negro divisions are as follows:

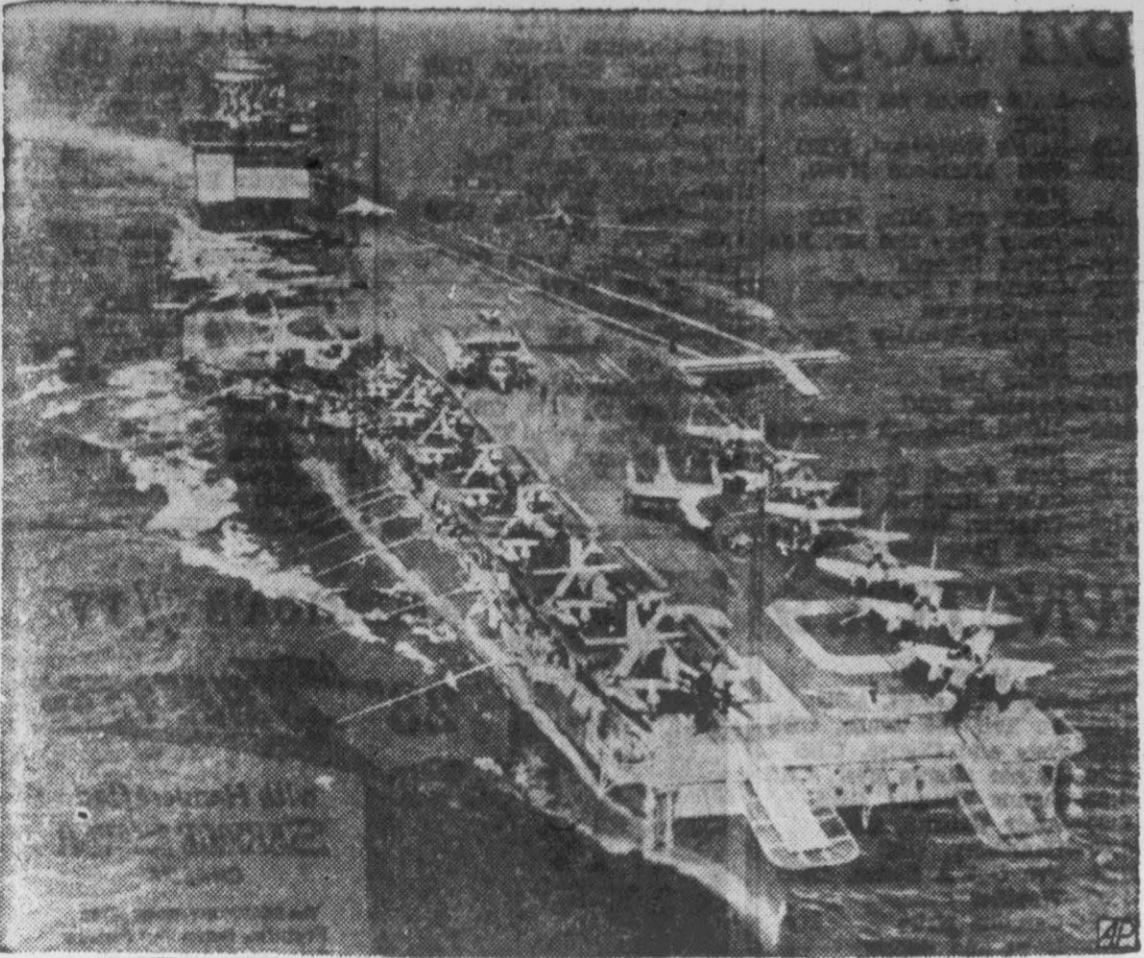

- Bethel—Horace Tetterton and Edmond Elliott;
 - Ayden—William T. Moore and John W. Ormond;
 - Fairland—Frank Peaden and Gaston Monk;
 - Farmville—Mrs. Lonnie Pierce and Francis Mebane;
 - Grifton—Clyde Simmons and Herman R. Reaves;
 - Grimesland—L. B. Whichard and Melvin Rountree;
 - Stokes—Mrs. Virginia Roebuck and Stephen A. Bow;
 - Winterville—Thomas McCaskill and co-chairman W. A. Forbes; and John W. May;
 - Farmey Moore will serve as chairman of the Negro division in Bell Arthur.
- The Special Events division will be headed up by James Harris and Samuel Brooks. These will be purely fund-raising projects as contrasted with the combined educational and canvassing features of the Cancer Crusade.

The tentative schedule of projects planned to date:

- A Bridge and Canasta tournament at the Moose Temple, sponsored by Greenville Women of the Moose, on April 10;
- A games party at Moose Temple, sponsored by the Greenville Moose Lodge on April 18;
- "Red Sword Day" on April 21;

"Bowl Down Cancer" week, beginning April 22, conducted by the Bowling Center;

A downtown promotion is planned for April 28 and on that same date the Women of the Moose will give a "tacky party" to benefit the Cancer Crusade, at the Moose Temple; A road block will conclude April's activities on the 29th.

Today's Grandma Is Going Back To Work

By A. I. GOLDBERG
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—American grandmas are going back to work.

By 1970, more than 4 out of every 10 women over 55 years of age will be holding down paid jobs in the United States.

The statistics given the U.N. Commission on the Status of Women also told of the increasing challenge to men in the labor market all along the line.

In 1950, there were 18-million women in the U.S. labor force.

They represented 29 per cent of the total. In 1962, there were 23,616,000 or 34 per cent of the total. More than half are married.

By 1970, the entire U.S. labor force is expected to increase by 12-million workers, half of whom will be women.

It was estimated there will be a 25 per cent increase among women workers as compared to a 15 per cent increase for men.

Rachel Nason, adviser to the U.S. delegation on the commission, reported the figures recent session of the group, which approved a study by the International Labor Organization of vocational training being given women throughout the world.

Improvement of educational standards ranked right along with the commission's quest of equal pay for equal work in the battle of men vs. women.

Mrs. Nason told the commission American women were employed in more than 400 types of work with the largest number in the clerical field.

"In the United States," she said, "there is a continuing trend toward the employment of older women."

"In 1960, close to half of all women in the population between 45 and 54 years of age were in the labor force, as compared with only one-third 10 years before," she said.

"By 1970, we expect that more than half of all women in the 45-54 age bracket will be in the labor force."

"The number of working women 55 and over also is steadily increasing, she went on. We expect 43 per cent of women over 55 to be working by 1970."

Sure Enough, There Was A Lion In The Streets

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—"Close the door," shouted the bartender, "there's a lion out there."

And there she was on the hood of Sgt. Bernard Moliner's cruiser, roaring and licking raindrops off the windshield.

She was Carmen, the largest of the pair of circus lions which had escaped from a truck at the edge of the main Omaha business district Saturday night. She had cuffed but not seriously injured a pedestrian.

Moliner had trapped her in the entryway to the bar by driving his cruiser onto the sidewalk to block the exit.

Police with riot guns trained on the big cat formed a semi-circle around the entrance. They brought in dogs to hold back a crowd of 500 or more curious.

"If that cat had taken off into the crowd it's hard to say what would have happened," said Sgt. Eugene Scarpino. "Some of those people must have been simple idiots. They just wouldn't move."

At the City Auditorium a block away the wrestling matches had just ended and nearly 5,000 fans had started for the exits when word spread that the lions were free.

"We had to lock them in the lobby until the animals were caught," said manager Charles Mancuso. "It was a real panic."

Guy Gossing, Carmen's Belgian-born trainer, arrived with a net and a chair. The shouting crowds and barking dogs made the lion more unruly.

"Please, quiet," he pleaded. "After almost an hour Carmen finally was coaxed into a police paddywagon which had replaced Moliner's cruiser. Gossing was on the point of collapse."

Meanwhile, a man had breathlessly informed police: "I may be mistaken but I think there's a lion in the stairway behind the Ace Bar."

It turned out to be Diane, Carmen's missing companion. Her cage was brought from the truck and Gossing coaxed her in—an hour and 45 minutes after the first lion alarm.

Hiroshima Pair Protest Testing

NEW YORK (AP)—A young man and a young woman, both residents of Hiroshima, Japan, visit Soviet United Nations officials here today to deliver a petition against Russian nuclear testing.

The pair are Miss Miyoko Matsumura, 29, who is employed in a Hiroshima home for the blind, and Hiromasa Hanabusa, 18, a high school student.

They plan to visit a number of cities in this country and to leave Boston April 21 for Geneva to carry their protest before the disarmament conference there.

Book Overdue 43 Years Turns Up

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A book that has been overdue at the public library for 43 years turned up in a book drive Sunday.

Head librarian Clarence Graham said there is no way to tell who borrowed it. At the usual 5-cent daily overdue charge, the borrower would owe $784.75.

"But, of course, we would never charge more than the book was worth," Graham said.

Will Auction Off Glenn Writings

NEW YORK (AP)—The Parkes Bernet Galleries will auction off postcards and letters by astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. Tuesday. The missives deal with the spaceman's transportation problems down here on earth.

A spokesman for the gallery said the material includes cards concerning Glenn's automobile and letters complaining about failures of his car generator, battery and speedometer.

Richard Nixon asked Whittaker Chambers: "Is there any grudge you have against Mr. Hiss over anything he has done to you?"

Chambers replied: "The story has spread that in testifying against Mr. Hiss I am working out some old grudge or motives of revenge or hatred. I do not hate Mr. Hiss. We were close friends, but we are caught in a tragedy of history. Mr. Hiss represents the concealed enemy against which we are all fighting, and I am fighting. I have testified against him with remorse and pity, but in a moment of history in which this nation now stands, so help me God, I could not do otherwise."

Perhaps this is a good moment for Alger Hiss to stop picking on errors of others and re-tell his story as he must, in his conscience, know it to be. He needs to write another book—one like "Witness."

CHAPTER 1

Only the wealthy could afford to dine at the Sign of the Red Roan, one of London's most elegant taverns, and only the sophisticated felt at home there. But Hugh Spencer, who was neither worldly nor rich, was completely relaxed as he sipped a rum toddy in a private booth.

He could hear occasional snatches of the conversation of extensively dressed, heavy-set gentlemen in powdered wigs who had made their fortunes in the East India trade or in the American colonies, but the somber discussions of merchants meant nothing to a young man who was thinking about a girl.

"If the House of Lords had any voice," someone with a deep voice was saying, "the Earl of Chatham would be turned away at the door. Earl of Chatham, indeed. He was a damned radical when he was plain William Pitt, and he's still a radical. And a traitor, sir. He must know those inflammatory speeches he makes are reprinted in pamphlets and read in Boston and Philadelphia and New York. He actively encourages the Americans to revolt when he supports their cause. His conduct is disgraceful. He flirts with the colonies like a brazen wench who is trying to induce a man to pprose marriage to her."

Sara Dean, Hugh thought happily, flirted with him expertly but subtly, and she was a lady, not a wench. She was so charming and lovely that she undoubtedly received proposals of marriage regularly, and Hugh had good cause to believe that she was favoring his suit.

In the past fortnight they had spent every evening together, and she had been pleased to be seen with him at theaters and taverns. Their growing intimacy had not been marred when he had told her frankly that the estate he had inherited from his late parents amounted to less than three thousand pounds.

She had made it obvious that she realized he planned to ask her mother for her hand, and knew he was anxious to meet Lady Dean when she returned from Bath, where, Sara had told him, she was enjoying a holiday as a member of the Prince of Wales' entourage.

"I'm sorry I've kept you waiting," a soft, faintly husky voice said.

Hugh jumped to his feet quickly, surreptitiously straightening the lace frills on his shirtfront.

Sara smiled, accepting his admiration gracefully, and was not embarrassed when he stared at her. Like all great beauties, she accepted the tribute as her due. It was not accidental that her silk gown matched her deep green eyes.

"I enjoyed waiting for you," Hugh said honestly. "When we aren't together, I think about you."

A dimple appeared above the right corner of Sara's mouth when her smile deepened. She sat down opposite Hugh, smoothed her skirt, and made no attempt to withdraw when their feet touched under the table. "This is one of the few taverns in London where a respectable woman can spend an hour alone without being molested."

Hugh grinned at her. "They're so respectable I was afraid they'd throw me out because I'm not wearing a wig." He smoothed his dark brown hair and tugged at his queue, which was tied down with a small strip of black ribbon. "The man who brought me up here glared at my head so hard I felt as though I'd been scalped by an Iroquois."

"That was Paul. He's very proper, but he's been very sweet to me ever since my father and my uncles started bringing me here years ago. I do owe you an apology for causing you such inconvenience. Hugh, but I was called to our solicitor's office unexpectedly."

They were interrupted by a middle-aged man in black who looked more like a Pennsylvania parson than a London waiter. He was carrying a silver tray on which he balanced a glass filled with a pink liquid. He placed the glass on the table in front of Sara.

"Thank you, Paul."

"It's always my pleasure to serve you, ma'am." The man bowed gravely and backed out of the booth.

"This is West Indian fruit punch," Sara said. "Paul lived in Nevis many years ago, and brought the recipe back with him. There are only a few drops of sack in it, to give it flavor, but it's a harmless concoction."

Hugh reached for her hand and she withdrew it quickly, but smiled so he wouldn't think she was rebuking him. Then, suddenly, she became serious. "Hugh, could I ask a favor?"

"I'll do anything in my power to help you," he replied eagerly.

"My solicitor gave me some money," she said. "Actually it's a rather large amount, as I must settle a number of accounts before Mamma comes home from Bath. Please don't laugh if I confess something to you. I don't usually carry more than a few shillings in my purse, and I'm afraid I'll be robbed before I can put the money in my strongbox."

"Forgive me if I boast," Hugh said soothingly, "but in the colonies I was the best swordsman in His Majesty's Dragoons. Your funds will be safe, and so will you."

"I'm afraid a cutpurse might sneak up behind us without our knowledge," she persisted. "So I wonder if it would be an imposition to ask you to carry the money for me until you take me home."

"The favor is trifling." He enjoyed her display of emiline helplessness.

"Thank you," Sara said gratefully, and opening her beaded handbag, removed a large number of notes, which she handed to him quickly.

Hugh rifled through the pack, saw that each bill was worth ten pounds and realized she had given him a considerable sum for safekeeping. "Shouldn't we count this before I put it away?"

"There's no need for that. It's either three hundred pounds or three hundred and fifty. It doesn't matter. I trust you, obviously."

Three hundred pounds was a small fortune, and her carelessness surprised him. He removed a worn leather wallet from the inner pocket of his coat, and placed the money inside. "You can forget your funds until I see you to your door." He drank the last of his rum toddy.

"Would you like another drink before we eat?" Sara asked solicitously.

"One is my usual limit. Besides, you must be hungry."

"The real pie here is excellent. Paul says that Dr. Johnson comes here frequently for it."

There was a commotion outside as Hugh reached for the bell rope, and before he could pull it they heard angry male voices and heavy footsteps ascending the stairs from the taproom on the ground floor.

The diners in the outer room stopped talking, and Sara looked at Hugh questioningly, but he smiled, even though he had no idea what was causing the disturbance.

A hired man wearing the blue scarlet-trimmed uniform of a crown bailiff stood in the entrance to the booth; two deputies, armed with pistols, crowded close behind him. "Your identity, sir!" the bailiff said in a loud voice.

If Sara had not been present, Hugh might have lost his temper, but he wanted to spare her embarrassment. "Hugh Spencer, Esquire, lately Lieutenant and Second Brigade Adjutant in the King's Light Dragoons."

The man turned for an instant and exchanged exaggerated, satisfied winks with his assistants. "You admit it, brazen and open as you please, eh?" Drawing a sabre, he flourished it clumsily. "In the name of King George III, I place you under arrest!"

Same Record For Identical Twins

NEW YORK (AP)—Identical twins, with identical criminal records, were held in $7,500 bail each in court on burglary charges.

The twins, Irvin and Edward Lichtman, 21, dressed identically in court, were accused Friday of breaking into an apartment and stealing a television set, jewelry and cash, with an over-all value of $2,000.

Police said the twins, both truck drivers, previously had been arrested together four times since 1959—three times on narcotics charges and once on a robbery charge. They were sentenced to one six-month jail term. Both were released last April.

So Far, No Aid From Brothers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward McCormack says he assumes President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will do all they can to help their younger brother, Edward, in his bid for the U.S. Senate.

But so far, McCormack said Sunday, he has seen no indication that the older Kennedy brothers have intervened in the Massachusetts Democratic battle.

McCormack, Edward (Ted) Kennedy, Harvard Prof. H. Stuart Hughes and William E. Higham are seeking the Democratic Senate nomination in the Sept. 18 primary election.

McCormack, nephew of Speaker of the House John W. McCormack also said in a television interview NBC "Meet the Press" that he is in the race to stay at least through the Democratic convention of June 7, which will endorse one of the candidates.

He said he holds a 2-1 lead in the delegates chosen to date and "I am going to win the convention. If I don't win, my decision as to whether to go further will depend on whether the delegates had a free and independent choice."

McCormack said he fully expects his uncle to campaign in his behalf and "I would assume that the President and the attorney general would do everything they can to see that their brother's ambitions are recognized."

Heavy Property Damage In Weekend Accidents

An estimated $1,300 property damage was reported by Greenville police in two traffic mishaps investigated over the weekend.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle collision Sunday near the intersection of Douglas and Tyson Sts.

Police, who made no charges, said cars driven by John Cox, 23-year-old Negro of 406 West Sixth St., and Rowland Preston Harris, 42, of 1208 Church St., collided almost head-on as they attempted to pass each other between two cars, parked opposite each other on Tyson St.

One of the parked cars, owned by John Ward Jr., 33-year-old Negro of 613-B Tyson St., was damaged when the vehicles collided, then struck his vehicle.

Damage to the Cox vehicle was set at $700 while an estimated $200 damage was done to the Harris car. The parked Ward auto suffered an estimated $100 damage in the 4:32 p.m. mishap.

In the second mishap, also a three-car crash, Roy Lee Denning, 37, of 212 Arlington Drive, was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision, following investigation of the wreck.

Police said the Denning auto struck the rear of a car driven by Ola Ray Waters, 107 South Woodlawn Ave., and forced the Waters car to strike the rear of a third car, driven by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Karraker of 2700 Jefferson Drive.

Damage to the Karraker vehicle was set at $100 while an estimated $150 damage was done to the Waters auto. Damage to the Denning car was set at $100.

The mishap occurred about 11:48 a.m. Saturday on Dickerson Ave. near the intersection of Clark St.

File 5 Charges Against Driver

Five charges have been lodged against a local man by Greenville Police following a Sunday night arrest.

Officers said Thomas J. Williams, 24, of 619-B Coopers Lane was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, having no liability insurance, improper registration, having no city license plate and larceny of a state registration plate, after being picked up last night.

Investigators said Williams was stopped about 11:30 and subsequent investigation led to the multiple charges.

The larceny charge stemmed from the theft of a license plate from a trailer at a local garage.

Two juveniles were in the car with Williams at the time he was arrested but they were not charged.

Maola Introduces New Wax-Free Container

A new wax-free plastic-coated milk container is being introduced here this week by Maola Milk and Ice Cream Company.

The package is considered a revolutionary development in the improvement of sanitation and efficiency in the distribution of fluid milk products.

Kenneth G. Reesman, general manager, said the improved milk container has received enthusiastic approval from both food stores and homemakers in other markets where it is now being used.

According to Reesman, this carton represents "a basic step forward in the safeguarding of milk between the pasteurizing process at the dairy and the kitchen table."

Maola's new carton is the result of 11 years of research and development by the Sealright Company, Fulton, N. Y., packaging specialists for the dairy industry. It is shipped to the dairy in the form of flat pieces which have been sterilized in the mill operation.

At the dairy, the various pieces are automatically fed into the Sealing machinery, which sterilizes them a second time, forms them into cartons, fills, seals and releases them ready for delivery.

Floyd Hartley, manager of Maola's Williamston branch, emphasized the advantages of the twin-pak design of the half-gallon package. The half-gallon twin-pak separates into individual sealed quarts for easier storing and longer freshness, according to Hartley.

He added, "The twin-pak is the modern half-gallon carton and features the 'pour one, store one' convenience which marks today's trend toward fractionalized packaging."

Hartley also stressed the importance of Maola's new no-wax and double-sterilization features of plastic-coated car-

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, Associated Press Religion Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of four major Christian denominations meet today to explore prospects for merger.

Involved in the first joint session of its scope looking toward a possible united Protestantism in America are four denominations with nearly 19 million members. They are:

The Methodist Church, the nation's largest Protestant body, with 10,046,293 members.

The Protestant Episcopal Church with 3,500,000 members.

The United Presbyterian Church with 3,249,011 members.

The United Church of Christ, a recent merger of Congregational, Christian and Evangelical and Reformed Church, with 2,015,037 members.

No decisive actions are expected at the initial two-day conference, which plans only to set up organization and procedures for continuing negotiations.

The opening get-together appeared likely to provide some clues as to just how much steam there is behind the historic proposal.

Other denominations may be invited to join in future negotiating sessions.

The goal, if agreements can be reached, is establishment of a united church "truly catholic, truly reformed, and truly evangelical."

The move was originally sparked on Dec. 4, 1960, in a sermon at San Francisco's Episcopal Cathedral by the Presbyterian leader, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia.

"Our separate organizations," he declared at the time, "present a tragically divided church to a tragically divided world."

Last year, as he urged, governing bodies of the United Presbyterian Church and the Episcopal Church joined in issuing invitations for the talks to the other two denominations.

Merger of the four communions would bring together Christians retaining age-old creeds and traditional liturgies, and those with more informal non-ritualistic customs.

However, the roots of all four groups intertwine back in the early days of the Protestant reformation 450 years ago.

Dr. Blake has estimated that even if good progress is made, it would take at least 10 years to form the merger. With the exception of the Episcopal Church, the other three denominations are products of previous mergers themselves that have developed in this century in the momentum for fuller Christian unity.

Chairmen of the negotiating teams are:

Methodist Bishop Glenn R. Phillips of Denver; the Rt. Rev. Robert F. Gibson Jr. of Richmond, Va., Episcopal bishop of the Virginia diocese; the Rev. Dr. David G. Colwell of the First Congregational church of Washington, D. C., of the United Church; and the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, heading the Presbyterian group.

Man-Eating Birds In Next Hitchcock Thriller

By BOB THOMAS, AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 1962 schedule of the versatile Alfred Hitchcock takes him from man-eating birds to Princess Grace. Quite a parlay. But then, Hitch is quite a showman. He was his puckish, chubby-cheeked self as I visited him on the set of his present production, "The Birds."

"This might be called 'the birds' revenge,'" he commented. "After all, birds have been put in cages, shot at and shoved in ovens by human beings for centuries. It's only natural that they should fight back."

They do in his movie, quite horrifyingly. The scene is Bodega Bay, Calif., a weekend spot for San Franciscans. People don't notice at first that the local bird life is getting aggressive. They notice after a while.

"We'll have some fine scenes of birds pecking people's eyes out," the director said with relish. "I can see it now—squeezed grapes hanging down the cheeks."

Hitchcock said his research had uncovered numerous incidents of birds' attacking man.

"Why just a year ago there was an incident in La Jolla (Calif.) in which a thousand finches invaded a home in the period of a half-hour," he cited. "The man and woman tried to light a fire to smoke them out, but the birds caught their wings on fire, flew against the drapes and burned the house down."

Who wins this birds vs. humans struggle?

"The birds," he declared. "Our two main characters (Rod Taylor and a Hitchcock discovery, model Tippi Hedren) manage to escape, but nothing is said about what future dangers they may face."

I asked Hitchcock if the picture resulted from a deep-seated enmity toward bird life on his part.

"Oh, no," he said airily. "I'll leave them alone if they'll leave me alone."

His next film is "Marnie," starring Princess Grace of Monaco. "Kelly," he calls her.

I asked him how he carried on the negotiations for hiring her.

"Oddly enough, I've never had any communications about it with her," he said. "It was all done through her agents. When the deal was announced, I did send her a cable. All it said was: 'That's an interesting development.' Nothing else."

What about the rumor Grace will be guarded by American Secret Service agents during her stay here?

"I hadn't heard," he said. "If they feel it's necessary, I suppose it's all right."

But he made it plain he wouldn't stand on protocol: "I've been out with her and the prince in Paris and elsewhere, and it's all very casual." Besides, he has directed Kelly before.

Asks 'All Tools' To Handle Hoods

NEW YORK (AP)—"We must stop handcuffing the police by forcing them to handle all young criminals as if they were merely juvenile delinquents," says Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Addressing the annual Roman Catholic communion breakfast of the Holy Name Society of the city police department Sunday, Dodd said policemen must be given the tools "to make these criminals feel the full weight of restrictive law enforcement."

There wasn't a pessimistic manager in the pennant picture as major league baseball opened the 1962 season on two fronts today with the other openers to follow Tuesday.

Traditionally, the American League stages its inaugural in Washington, D.C., where the Senators launch the season in spanking new 43,500-capacity District of Columbia Stadium.

After President Kennedy tosses out the first ball, Bennie Daniels, a right-hander, will take the mound for the Senators. He will be opposed by southpaw Don Mossi.

Another capacity crowd was expected to attend the National League's sneak preview at Cincinnati's Crosley Field, where the defending champion Reds take on the Philadelphia Phillies.

The other clubs swing into action Tuesday.

For the first time since 1889, the National League will field 10 teams, thus joining the American in an expansion program that eventually may be enlarged to either two 12-team leagues or three 8-team leagues.

In addition to presenting two new teams in Houston and New York, the majors will unveil three new stadiums—in Los Angeles, Washington and Houston—four new managers and dozens of new faces which the owners hope will keep the turnstiles clicking through 162-game programs.

The pennant races, of course, hold the greatest interest, but a great deal of attention will be paid to individual players with the fans hoping to witness another stirring home run duel similar to the power show staged last year by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle.

Congress will be in session, but absenteeism usually is high on the day of the opener.

For Kennedy and many spectators, it will be their first look at the new $20-million stadium which supplants again Griffith Stadium as the home of the Senators. It was opened last fall and the Redskins of the National Football League played their home games there.

Ex-Buc Cage Star Picked Head Coach At Enloe High

RALEIGH — J. D. Thomas, former star East Carolina College cage star, has been named head basketball coach at Raleigh's new Enloe High School, scheduled to open next fall.

Thomas, a star prep cager for Raleigh's former Hugh Morson High School before enrolling at East Carolina, comes to Raleigh's new high school from a head coaching job at Winston-Salem's Gray High School.

Softball Meet Tuesday Night

There will be a meeting Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Elm Street Recreation Center for anybody interested in having a team in this year's Industrial Softball League.

another wide-open race seems to be in the offing.

The Dodgers have the over-all talent, the Giants have the power, and the Reds the pitching.

The two new National League managers, Harry Craft at Houston and Casey Stengel at New York, don't figure to maneuver their teams higher than seventh place, a remarkable feat if either can do it.

The Orioles have added John (Boog) Powell, a young man who is expected to supply much needed power to the club.

The Indians through off season trades, have strengthened their pitching staff with the acquisition of Dick Donovan and Pedro Ramos.

The Tigers have the same club as last year while the Yankees have made a change at shortstop because of Tony Kubek's recall to the Army.

Rain Makes ACC Schedule Heavy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After the rain comes the deluge in Atlantic Coast Conference baseball.

Because of previous rainouts, the schedule this week is particularly heavy, with 18 games to be played in 11 of them league games.

Duke, Wake Forest, Clemson and South Carolina have each played one league game apiece so far, won it, and are tied in the standings.

Thursday — Duke at Clemson, Camp Lejeune at North Carolina, Virginia Tech at Wake Forest.

Local Semi-Pro Team Wins 5-2

Greenville's Eastern County League baseball team won its opening game of the season yesterday by defeating Leggett 5-2.

The Greenville club picked up one run in the first frame and four in the second to gain the win. Leggett's two runs came in the third inning.

Pitching for the winners were Paul Brohawn and Tommy Braxton. Brohawn hurled the first three innings and Braxton finished the contest.

Tom Boyd led the Greenville team at the plate when he connected for a homerun in the second frame bringing in T. Brohawn, Walter Smith and Paul Brohawn for four of the five runs. Boyd also scored the first run of the game in the opening frame.

Scoring the runs for Leggett were Andrews and C. Pollard. Both came in on a fielder's choice in the third inning.

The first pitcher for Greenville, P. Brohawn, struck out three men, walked two and allowed three hits. The next pitcher, Braxton, struck out two, walked three and allowed two hits.

with the acquisition of Dick Donovan and Pedro Ramos.

The Tigers have the same club as last year while the Yankees have made a change at shortstop because of Tony Kubek's recall to the Army.

"I see no reason why we shouldn't win again," Houk said, "although I'm not taking anything away from the other clubs. Detroit has a strong team while Chicago and Baltimore have improved. However, we are solid everywhere and we are going into the season with a stronger pitching staff than we did last year."

Freddie Hutchinson, who did a magnificent job piloting the Reds to a surprise championship last year, thinks his team is capable of repeating despite a crippling injury to third baseman Gene Freese.

"We fooled a lot of experts last year, and we may fool 'em again," he said. "Our players are confident and capable."

Palmer, leading Finsterwald by two shots and Player by four going into Sunday's fourth round, made the playoff only by staging another of his fantastic finishes.

After straying tee shots and a balky putter apparently had knocked Palmer out of the running, the strong boy from Latrobe, Pa., rallied spectacularly on the last three holes. He chipped in for a birdie-duck on No. 16 and after two fine shots on 17 stroked an eight-foot beauty for another birdie.

Finsterwald, one of the game's yeomen who is better known for close misses than his 1958 PGA championship victory, already was in by this time with a 73 and 280 total.

Palmer's 75 and Player's 71 forced the Masters into its first three-way playoff.

Neither Palmer, Player or Finsterwald has a very impressive playoff record. In 18-hole play-offs, Palmer has won one and lost two. He has won five and lost one sudden-death affair. Player never has been in an 18-hole match, but lost all four of his sudden-death play-offs. Finsterwald won his only previous 18-hole, and lost three sudden-death battles against one

Only Gene Littler, the current U.S. Open champion, was in the thick of things with the three leaders in the final round. When Finsterwald bogied the 17th hole—and that was a costly bogey—Littler got a birdie and pulled within one shot of the leader. But he bogied the final hole and finished with a 71 and 282.

The playoff, which starts at 1:45 p.m. (EST) will go into sudden-death in case of a tie after 18 holes. CBS-TV will telecast the playoff between 5 and 6 p.m.

The 1962 Masters carried a record purse of $109,100. The playoff will determine who gets the $20,000 top prize, second money of $12,000 and third prize of $8,000. Littler got $6,000 for fourth

Palmer Favored In The Playoff For Masters Title

By MERCER BAILEY AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, who again has proven he is the game's greatest pressure player, was favored over Gary Player and Dow Finsterwald in today's 18-hole playoff for the 26th Masters golf championship.

No less an authority than Player, the little defending champion from South Africa, made that appraisal of the dramatic matchup head-to-head battle.

"Personally, I feel that on this course, his distance off the tee gives Arnie an advantage," Player said. "But you never know what will happen in a round of golf. I'm not giving up."

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP) — Boxer Tunney Hunsaker has awakened from a coma after a second brain operation. However a physician warned that the heavy weight's condition still was critical.

"I believe he'll come out of it now," said Hunsaker's wife, Phyllis.

Moore Wins Weightlifting

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Kenny Moore of Lenoir won the 165-pound class weightlifting title and the "outstanding lifter" trophy Saturday night in the Carolina AAU senior tournament here.

Moore pressed 250 pounds, snatched 225 and lifted 290 in the clean-and-jerk—a total of 765 pounds. The 250 pounds was a record here for his weight class.

Robert Wooten of Olin won the "Mr. Carolinas" physique contest. Runners-up were Cooter Thames and Clint Barwick, both of Sumter, S. C.

Impressive Hitting Ends Exhibition Ball Season

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

A rookie who isn't even on the roster and a well-established catcher closed out the major league exhibition season with two of the spring's most impressive hitting performances.

Rookie Bob Sadowski blasted three home runs and a single and drove in five runs for the Chicago White Sox Sunday when Earl Battey of the Minnesota Twins drove in four runs on a homer, two doubles and two singles.

Their were the standout performances in a rain-troubled closing exhibition schedule that included a couple of rare ties—Cleveland and San Francisco 4-4 in 5½ innings at Salt Lake City, and Philadelphia and St. Louis 3-3 in 10 innings at Atlanta, Ga.

The tie, which doesn't go on the exhibition records, left the hopeful Cards with an 18-8, 692 record for the spring, tops in the National League and best in the Grapefruit, composed of those teams which trained in Florida.

The Chicago Cubs, who registered an 8-7 victory over Boston at Wichita, Kan., finished with a 18-9, 667 mark that was best in the Cactus League, those teams training in Arizona and California. The New York Yankees, rained out in their game with Detroit at Richmond, backed into the American League lead.

Chicago, tied with New York with a 17-10 record going into the final game, lost to Cincinnati 6-6 at Indianapolis in spite of Sadowski's inspired hitting.

Sadowski, a second base understudy to the Sox' aging Nellie Fox, got a three-run homer off Dave Sisler and one-run job off Sam Ellis and Dave Hillman.

Battey, Minnesota's regular catcher, did his belting at the expense of Kansas City at Jacksonville and led the Twins to an 8-4 windup victory.

In the others, all final exhibitions, Mack Jones' solo blast and Home runs by Minnie Minoso and Ken Boyer produced all the St. Louis runs in the tie with Philadelphia. The game was called at the end of the 10th so the teams could catch planes.

Pender, Fullmer Southern Loop Teams To May Fight Soon Get A Look At Richmond

By BOB SALMON
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)—It appears that Paul Pender and Gene Fullmer will finally resolve their middleweight title dispute in late spring or early summer.

Only the site seems to be in dispute now that Pender, a former fireman, has doused the title flame in the heart of Britisher Terry Downes.

Pender, 31, regained his portion of the crown with a unanimous 15-round decision over the tough Cockney at Boston Garden Saturday night, drawing invitations from Fullmer's manager and promoter Norm Rothschild to battle out their title claims.

"Gene would like a fight in May or June and is perfectly willing to meet Pender then if the site and terms can be worked out," said Mary Jensen from West Jordan, Utah.

"If Pender can't make it that soon, we'd also be willing to meet Denny Moyer or perhaps Downes," Jensen said.

Promoter Rothschild said he is ready to offer both claimants a large chunk of money for the fight, with television interested in providing a large percentage of it. "It's going to take at least $125,000 each for Pender and Fullmer to close this," he said, and I'm ready with that kind of bidding."

Rothschild, who operates out of Syracuse, N.Y., said he already has talked with John Cronin, Pender's attorney, and Los Angeles promoter George Farnassus.

A $125,000 figure for Pender would be more than triple what he earned while settling an old score with Downes. The craggy-faced stylist pocketed more than $40,000 in their rubber match, with the 25-year-old Briton receiving an identical figure. Pender had won the first fight but lost his crown when he retired after nine rounds in London last July.

Jensen said Pender and Fullmer should share equally—probably 30 per cent apiece—in their fight since each claims the title.

Pender is recognized as champion in Europe, Massachusetts and New York. The National Boxing Association proclaims Fullmer as middleweight king. Fullmer won a 10-round decision over Pender at Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1955.

Southern Conference baseball teams get their first chance this week to gauge the strength of Richmond's Spiders, who perennially offer a challenge for the league championship.

Richmond, under the tutelage of Mac Pitt for a 28th consecutive year, plays three times against conference opposition during the week after breaking even in four starts against outside foes.

All the games are on the road—At The Citadel Tuesday, at Furman Wednesday, at Davidson Thursday. And, says Pitt, "We'll know all about ourselves by the time we get back home."

Richmond's road trip features a 17-game schedule for conference clubs this week. Ten of the games are conference affairs, with the first two coming up this afternoon when William and Mary visited Furman for a doubleheader. Both teams are making their conference debut.

VMI's Keydets, thanks to a 2-0, 3-1 sweep past Davidson last Saturday on the Wildcat field, lead the conference standings as the week opens. They have a 2-0 record to a 1-0 log for runner-up George Washington. Davidson is 2-10 over-all.

Only three of eight scheduled conference games were played last week because of rain, which washed out nearly all weekend action. Besides the VMI-Davidson twir bill, George Washington nudged Virginia Tech 3-1 last Tuesday.

This week's conference schedule: Today—William & Mary at

Wednesday—VMI at Virginia; Richmond at Furman; Concord at Davidson.

Saturday—William & Mary at VMI; Davidson at Virginia Tech (2); The Citadel at West Virginia; Furman at Newberry.

Sally League Team Should Be Improved

By DAN FOSTER
Greenville Piedmont Sports Editor

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Because of the manner in which the Los Angeles Dodgers operate their system, the Greenville Spinners can not yet point to specific reasons they'll be better in 1962. But because of that same system, they almost know they will be.

The Spinners, who led the Sally League early last year, will not know the names of their players until they leave Vero Beach, Fla., later this week. The reason is simple. The Dodgers have two class triple A teams, who get first crack at the minor league talent.

Manager Roy Hartsfield's team as it is now listed in Vero Beach, has played to his tastes. They won five straight games in the intra-Dodgerstown league, including some against bigger cousins Spokane and Omaha.

Bill Berrier, a 299 hitting outfielder last year, probably will be back. So will Bobby Catton, a dandy receiver who hit long but not regularly last year.

Luis Alcaraz, from Puerto Rico, has been impressive at second base. The Spinner question is whether he has been so impressive that Spokane or Omaha might take him. Brax Bailey, who finished the season with Greenville last year, may be back in the outfield.

Pitching should be a strong Spinner suit. Bob Arrighi, a fast-baller of proven double-A ability would be a big winner under two "ifs." If he comes to Greenville, and if he is not bothered with arm trouble which kept him out of baseball most of last season.

Since the World Series, Cincinnati's National League pennant winner has added four players from other major league teams or affiliates. They are Moe Drabowski, drafted from Louisville; Dave Sisler and Dick Keough from Washington and Jesse Gonder from the Yankee roster.

Rain Hinders Steeplechase

TRYONE, N. C. (AP)—Rain, mud and tumbles brought mingled disappointment and excitement to a relatively small crowd of 2,000 that witnessed the 16th annual Blockhouse Steeplechase race program here Sunday.

John Doe, ridden by Tommy Walsh, won the featured $1,500 Blockhouse in which four of the seven entrants had been scratched. His time was 4:18.4.

Frank Chapot, a member of the U. S. Equestrian team, brought Hurst Park in for second place, getting up from two spills to do so. The race was two miles over brush.

Burraid won the $1,000 North Carolina Hunt Cup race, three miles over timber. Ridden by Joe Mangione, the favored horse came home in 6:36.2 after Fox Fair, also ridden by Chapot, fell on the 17th and last hurdle.

Epevier, ridden by Norman Funk, won the $600 Paocote Plate, 1½ miles over hurdles.

Forth Below, ridden by Tommy Walsh, took the $600 Doncaster, 1½ miles over hurdles, and Cool Cash, ridden by Roy Peacock, won the Tryone, one mile on the flat.

Mike Adams, riding Smokey in the non-sanctioned Pink Coat race, fell in the stretch and suffered minor back injuries. The race was won by Goodlyn, ridden by Beth Robinson.

Fourteen of the field of 47 horses were scratched because of the soggy turf.

1 Win Each In NBA Playoffs

BOSTON (AP)—Jerry West and Elgin Baylor are sending Los Angeles home all even with Boston in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

West scored 40 points and Baylor, the Army private on leave, added 36 in a 129-122 victory Sunday which knotted the best-of-seven series at one game apiece. The next games are on the Lakers court Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

"We came here to win two games but we're happy to leave with a split," said Laker coach Fred Schaas.

He praised Baylor for his play, particularly because he never has a chance to practice with the team and the best he can do while performing his Army duties is to keep in condition.

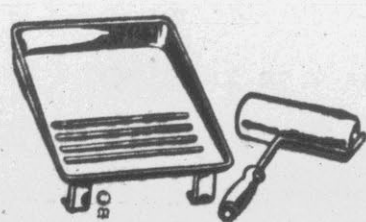

Schaas added that Baylor's timing is off. "That's a blessing in disguise."

Baylor was due to learn today at Ft. Lewis, Wash., about his availability for the mid-week games, expecting his accumulated leave will be okayed.

COLLEGE GYMNASTS:

HERE'S ONE WAY TO "KEEP FIT"

GIANT LEAP. Ken Black set the audience on edge with this leap over eight men held up on horse by other teammates. Black used a small round trampoline to make his leap-frog jump. Leon Mackiewicz is at bottom of heap, bravely bearing weight of the others.

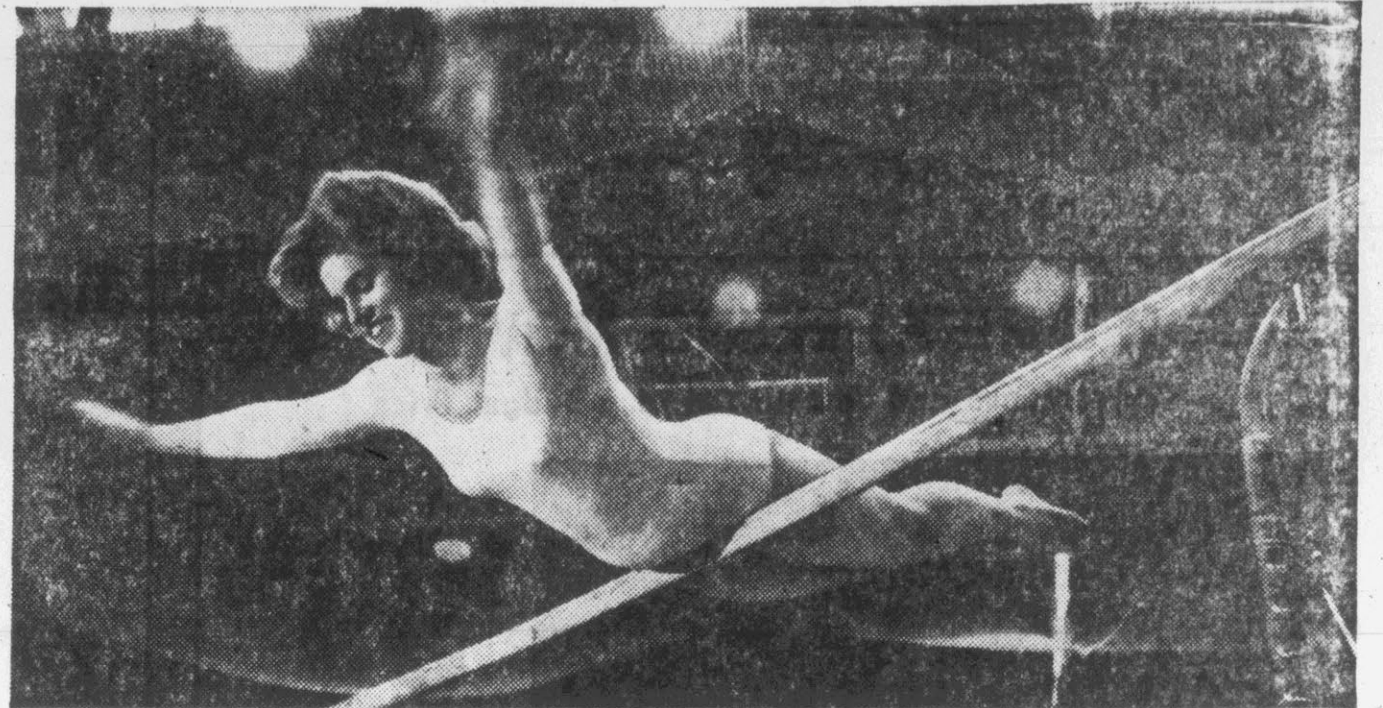

When President Kennedy advised American youth become more physically fit, he might have had the Springfield College at Springfield, Mass., in mind. The school has stressed physical education for years. Gymnastic exercises are part of the rigorous training.

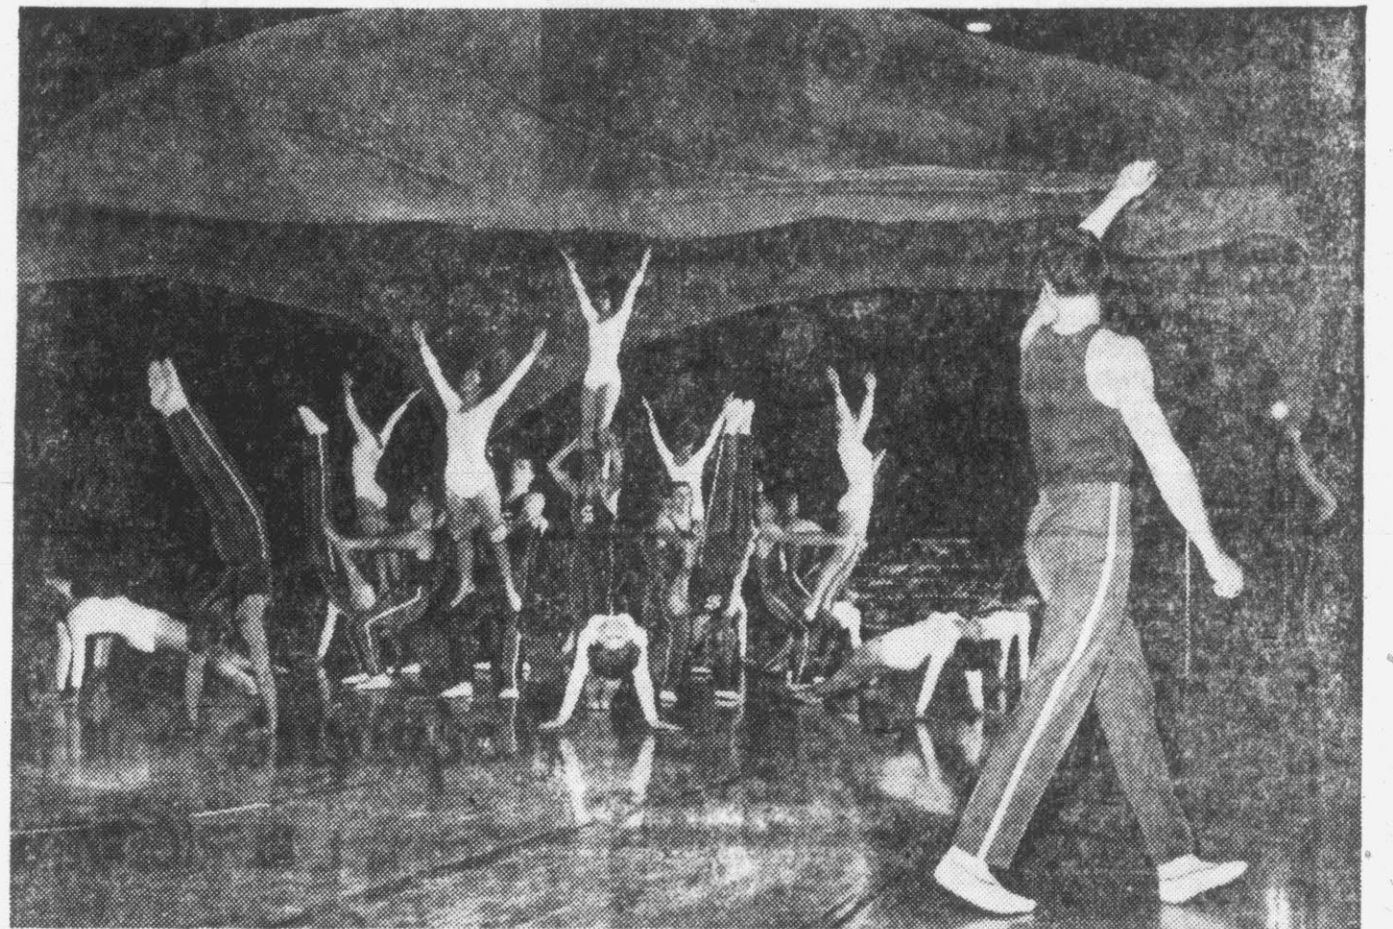

Each year the school puts on a gymnastics team exhibition. The 1962 show, held in the campus hall and pictured here, was one of the biggest. Students, most of them majoring in physical education, performed with professional skill and daring. They hung from flying rings, straddled bars, vaulted wooden horses, built human pyramids, and juggled Indian clubs. As a side attraction, they presented half a dozen tableaux. This year, for the first time, 18 girls participated.

Although gymnastics at Springfield College got its start back in 1891-2, it wasn't until 1904-5 that an organized team with a coach, team captain and manager brought about the birth of the present-day gymnastics exhibition team. With the exception of three World War II years, the exhibition has been held each year. During the fall and winter, the team performs in towns and cities throughout the Northeast.

Among the students who were members of the 1891 gymnast squad were two who later won national fame in sports. They were Dr. James Naismith, inventor of basketball, and Alonzo A. Stagg, the "Grand Old Man of Football."

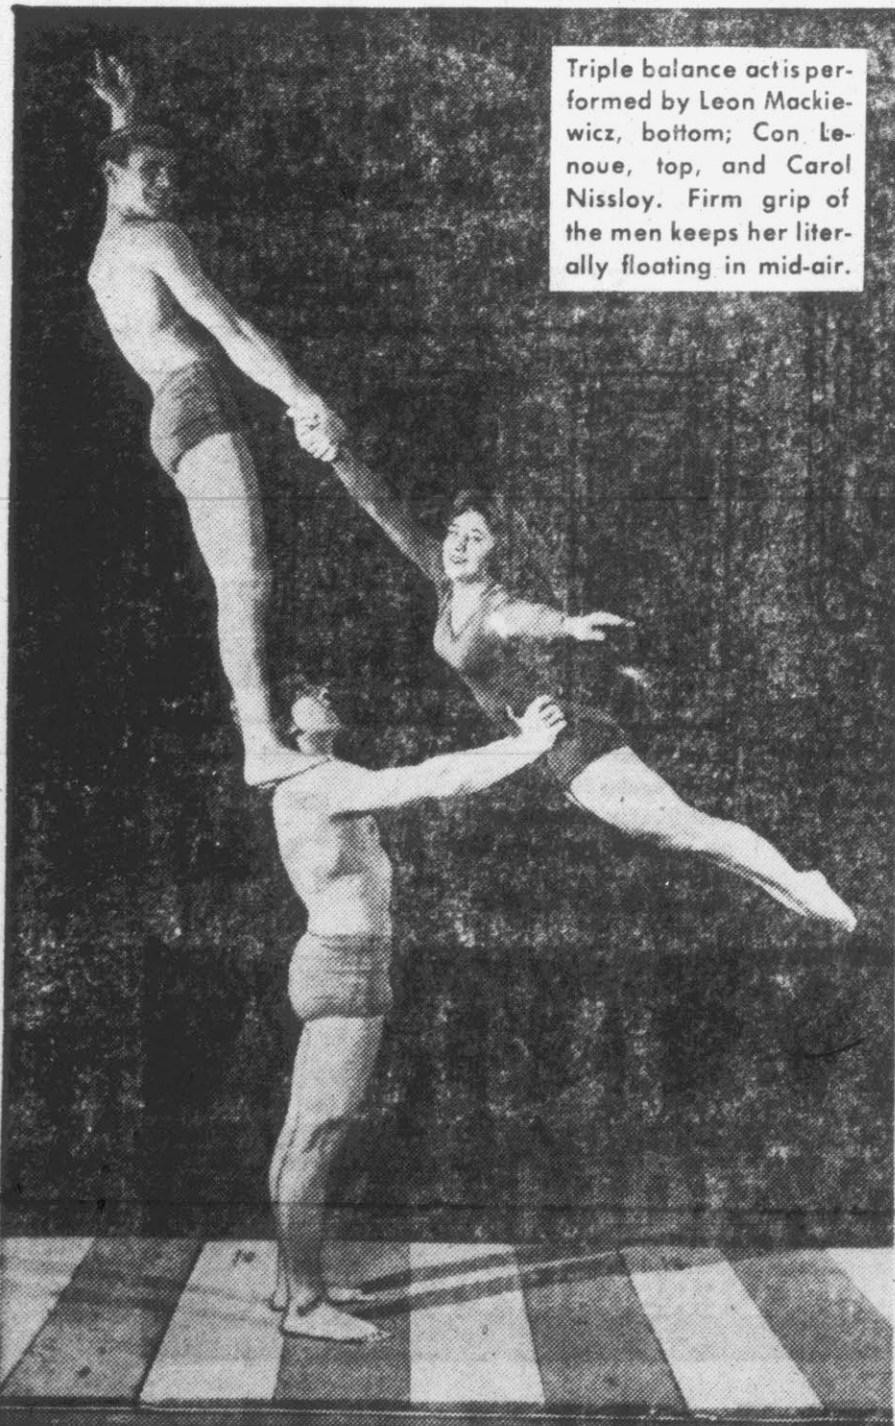

With lovely grace, Gail Williamson balances herself on one of the uneven parallel bars.

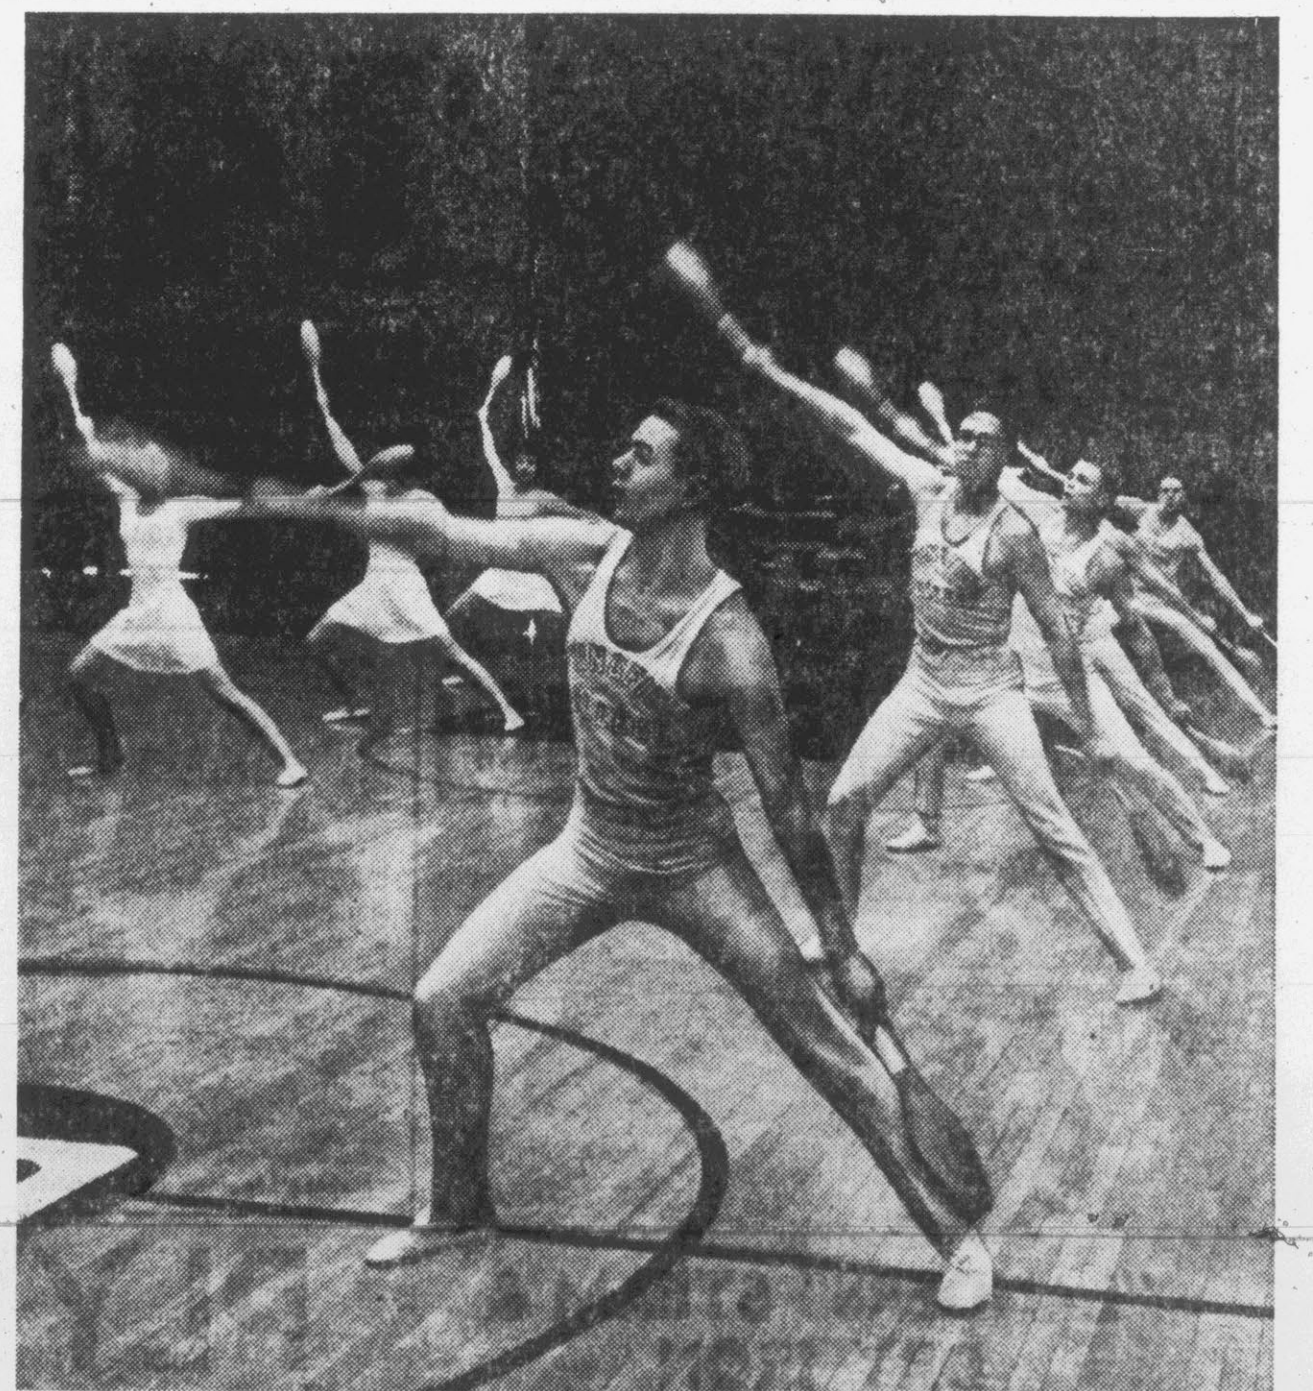

Under a wide, very light silk canopy, held up by four youths, the team puts on series of gymnastic formations. After silk falls, it's forced up again, and another set of acts is performed.

Triple balance act is performed by Leon Mackiewicz, bottom; Con Lenoue, top, and Carol Nissloy. Firm grip of the men keeps her literally floating in mid-air.

With plenty of space to spare, Wendy Condyleaps nicely over horse, while coach watches. Girls in back have completed their jumps.

Swinging their Indian clubs in unison, the boys and girls stage one of their fine exhibition drills.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco wireworms cause serious damage in many fields each year. Some plants are killed by the wireworms while others are severely injured. Quite often these injured plants are weakened to the extent that they are readily attacked by harmful disease organisms such as pythium fungus which causes soft rot or pythium rot.

Wireworms can be effectively controlled by applying one of the recommended insecticides. During the past three years the use of broadcast insecticidal treatments for soil pests in tobacco have increased considerably. Aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor or chlordane will control wireworms effectively when applied as a broadcast treatment.

Each of these insecticides can be applied as a spray dust, or as granules. They should be applied to the soil surface three to four weeks prior to transplanting.

The recommended rate of application is as follows: (1) Aldrin — two pounds actual ingredient per acre, (2) Dieldrin — one pound of actual ingredient per acre, (3) Heptachlor — two pounds actual ingredients per acre, and (4) Chlordane — four pounds actual ingredient per acre.

These insecticides have been used as a transplant solution for wireworm control. Experimental results indicate that more satisfactory control can be expected when the insecticides are broadcast than when they are used as transplant solutions.

This is especially true when mechanical transplanting equipment is used to transplant the tobacco in the field. If transplant solutions are used, the mixtures should be stirred or prevented from settling in the water tank. It is very important to do everything possible to get a good stand of tobacco early and to avoid as much replanting as possible. Controlling wireworms is one way of helping assure you of getting a good stand early.

Make plans now to attend the tobacco fertilization meeting which will be held on the Edgar Warren farm, Thursday, April 12, at 2 p.m. This farm is located on the Greenville-Belvoir Road approximately two miles east of Belvoir.

Their Wedding Put Emphasis On The Wheat

CLEARWATER, Kan. (AP)—When Cheryl Kay Heitman, 18, and James O. Kunkel, 27, were married Sunday the bride wore a veil and white tiara made of wheat grains and carried a wheat bouquet.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore wheat corsages. The groomsmen and ring bearer wore wheat boutonnieres, and the flower girl carried a basket decorated with wheat sprigs.

Wheat sprays and bouquets decorated the church.

The wedding was attended by officers of the Kansas Wheat Commission and wheat industry officials. As they dashed from the church the newlyweds were showered with grains of wheat.

At a reception afterward the 350 guests were served delicacies made of wheat.

Almost needless to say, the bride's father is a wheat farmer. The groom works for a chemical company.

NEW 'TALKING BIBLE'
NEW YORK (AP)—The John Milton Society, Protestant agency for world-wide service to blind people, has released a "talking book edition" of the New English translation of the New Testament. Recordings of the new translation were made by Dr. Robert J. McCracken of New York's Riverside Church.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

By C. J. GOODMAN
Assistant County Agricultural Agent

For maximum muscle development and most efficient performance, growing pigs, from weaning to 100 or 125 pounds, should be full-fed. Maximum feed intake during growth provides maximum deposition of lean tissue.

During the finishing period, or the stage between 125 lbs. and 200 pounds of body weight, more fat than lean tissue is being deposited in the pig's body. Much is now being done on restricting the energy intake during this finishing period.

At the University of Illinois a limiting feeding experiment was conducted by Becker, Jens and Breidenstein. They found that by adding fibrous feeds to the ration of finishing pigs depressed both rate and efficiency of gain; whereas, restricting feed intake reduced only the rate of gain. By feeding bulky or restricting feed intake increased the percentage of lean cuts.

Recently another experiment was conducted to compare two methods of restricting the feed intake of finishing pigs. The treatments were as follows: Lot I—full fed; Lot II—Limited-fed 70 percent of full feed; Lot III—Limited-fed, five pounds of feed per head daily. These groups were equally divided between rations containing 12 and 18 percent protein. The following is a summary of this experiment:

1. Restricting the feed intake of finishing pigs to 70 percent of full feed or to a constant level of five pounds per head daily reduced rate of gain about 20 percent. This slower rate of gain increased by 10 days the time required to attain a slaughter weight of 200 pounds.

2. Both methods of limiting feed intake increased efficiency of gain. The feed required per pounds of gain was 11.0 and 8.4 percent lower for pigs fed 70 percent of full feed and the rate, respectively, than for the full-fed pigs.

3. There was no difference in response to level of protein in the diet. At the recommended level of protein for full-fed pigs (12 percent), there was no evidence that the limited-fed pigs may have been protein deficient.

There appears to be merit in the idea of feeding a constant level of feed to the finishing pig, or the pig from 100 to 200 pounds of bodyweight. This method would be simple to adapt to an automatic feeding system.

The limited-fed pigs had a higher dressing percentage, larger loin eye, longer carcass, higher percentage of lean cuts, and less backfat thickness.

Planning Haul People Again
ARCADE, N.Y. (AP)—With so many big railroads in the country cutting passenger service, the little Arcade & Attica says it is going to start hauling people again.

To do it, the A&A has bought a 40-year-old steam locomotive and two used coaches. A parlor car that President Grover Cleveland used on his honeymoon trip will be wheeled out of the A&A barns in this western New York village to make a third car.

The railroad runs 13 miles between Arcade and North Java, the A&A's other terminal.

The Soviet Union is the largest nation on earth, followed by Canada, China, the United States and Brazil.

Americans Slain In Red Ambush
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas killed two American military advisers to South Viet Nam troops and apparently captured two others Sunday in an ambush near a U.S. helicopter base 360 miles north of Saigon.

The four enlisted men were ambushed on a training mission with Vietnamese soldiers near the town of An Chau, on the South China Sea, U.S. military authorities said.

Reports reaching Saigon said the four were with a group of 35 Vietnamese soldiers at a government outpost when a large Viet Cong band attacked. One Vietnamese was also killed and four wounded.

The Communists withdrew 15 minutes after the raid, apparently expecting a government air strike, the reports said. A government relief force arrived too late to engage the guerrillas.

The ambush brought American casualties in South Viet Nam since last Dec. 1 to 18 killed, 2 wounded and 3 missing. Only one of the previous dead was killed by the Viet Cong. The other American deaths were accidental.

South Vietnamese troops killed 25 guerrillas in a weekend attack near the Cambodian border, the semi-official news agency said.

Reports He Did Not Die At All
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Paul E. Johnston of Louisville says reports of his death 19 years ago are exaggerated out of proportion. In fact, he says he didn't die at all.

A book about the first United States air raid on Nazi Germany's oil center at Ploesti in the Balkans, Aug. 1, 1943, lists Johnston as one of those killed in the action.

He became aware of this report when a review of the book was printed in a local newspaper.

His plane was shot down during the raid, he said, but he escaped and was captured by enemy troops.

April 15 has been set aside as the deadline for releasing and requesting additional peanut acreage. The Pitt County Committee has received requests for 176.1 additional acres, and only about .073 percent of this request will be met due to the small amount released. So, if you are not planning to plant your peanut allotment, now is the time to release it to your County Committee, so that your peanut history will be preserved for 1962.

In order to receive history credit for planting your peanut allotment you must pick and thresh at least 75 percent of your allotment. You do not receive any history credit if your peanuts are left in the ground or hogged. There are no provisions in the peanut regulations for automatic preservation of history because of peanut failure.

Cuban Refugees Reach Mexico

MERIDA, Mexico (AP)—Fourteen refugees from Cuba arrived in the Yucatan port of Progreso Sunday after five days in a small boat.

The group included a woman and her 11-month-old daughter. "I could not even find milk for my child any longer in Cuba," she said.

The refugees said they left Coloma, on the south coast of Pinar del Rio Province, the night of April 3 because "we could not stand the situation of our country any longer."

Mexican authorities withheld names of the refugees until their status is decided.

or conditions beyond your control, you are unable to pick and thresh your peanuts, you should make a statement in writing or appear before your County Committee, giving the reasons why you were unable to harvest your peanuts and request that your history acreage be adjusted. In 1962 Pitt County producers lost a total of 13.3 acres of peanuts by not planting and harvesting 75 percent of their peanut allotment.

Farmers who do not have a peanut allotment, are permitted to plant one-acre of peanuts, providing they or their tenants do not share in any peanuts produced on any other farm in the county or in the United States. If they share in peanuts produced on any other farm, both farms are considered excess peanut farms.

Producers with excess peanuts should make certain that all excess acreage has been destroyed, and witnessed by a representative of the County Committee, before digging their peanuts.

If any of the excess are dug, picked or threshed, the producer must have the approval of the State ASCS Office before the excess peanuts can be disposed of.

If the peanuts are to be left in the ground, the farm operator shall notify the county office, and, after the peanuts can no longer be removed from the ground by digging, a representative of the County Committee will visit the farm to determine that none of the excess peanuts has been dug.

If the excess acreage is to be hogged-off, the farm operator shall also notify the County ASCS Office before digging, and the farm will be visited to determine that none of the excess acreage has been or can be dug.

There is one important thing to remember, and that is, if you are in excess of your effective farm allotment, or the one-acre permitted, notify your County ASCS Office before digging.

Cotton
Now is the time to protect the cotton history for Pitt County and North Carolina. Pitt County farmers harvested only 7,874.6 acres of cotton in 1961, compared with 8,143.3 acres harvested in 1960. This resulted in the cotton allotment for Pitt County being reduced by 89 acres in 1962.

There were six cotton farms dropped due to not planting or releasing any of their allotment in the past three years. There were 67 farms with effective cotton allotments that did not plant any cotton in 1961. So you can understand why we, the Pitt County ASCS, are concerned about the cotton history for Pitt County and North Carolina.

Pitt County Cotton Producers should not be satisfied if less than 95 percent of the 1962 cotton allotment, (after release and reappointment) is planted, since the kind of job done in the county on the release program directly reflects in Raleigh and Washington.

If, after requesting that additional cotton acreage be reapportioned to you, you do not plant it, it will appear to your Congressmen in Washington that the Pitt County cotton producers are just not interested in retaining the cotton allotment allocated to the county, and the results of this could mean a reduction of the county's cotton allocation for 1963.

The County's cotton allotment for 1962 was 8,909.9 acres. After releasing and reappointment, the effective allotment will be approximately 8,129.4 acres, which leaves 780.5 acres released, which was not reapportioned in the county. This acreage was submitted to the State ASCS Office to be reapportioned to other counties for 1962.

There are several important reminders in regards to the cotton program which we would like to emphasize. First, plant your cotton acreage for 1962. Second, if you plant your cotton acreage, and, due to conditions beyond your control, you have a cotton failure, be sure that when the Pitt ASCS Reporter visits your farm this summer to measure your other allotted crops, that you report your cotton failure to him.

Also, be sure that the reporter measures the field in which your cotton was planted. Then you will be given credit for having planted your cotton acreage for 1962.

Remember, we, the Pitt County ASCS, are depending on you to retain the cotton allotment for Pitt County.

Knock out nematodes
WITH NEW, D-D SOIL FUMIGANT

The right start for a bigger, better vegetable yield is a nematode-killing treatment with D-D Soil Fumigant.

New D-D Soil Fumigant is now easier to use than ever before. It is a clean, clear liquid which flows freely—will not clog spray nozzles. Apply D-D Soil Fumigant directly to the soil with gravity-flow or pressure-feed tractor attachment.

In the soil it becomes a potent gas which kills root-knot and other harmful nematodes. Economical, too, one treatment lasts an entire season.

For a bigger, better vegetable harvest this season, start with a nematode-killing treatment of D-D Soil Fumigant. Order your supply today.

IT'S JUST DOLLARS-AND-CENTS SENSE that people value what they pay for more than what they get free. Just human nature...but it helps make the daily newspaper a superior advertising medium. People pay for newspapers because they want to read the big national and international news, the important hometown news, and the vital shopping news they find in the advertising columns. To get all this, last year they paid $1.7 billion for their daily and Sunday newspapers.* Advertising media like mail throwaways, radio, TV, billboards come free—and often unwanted.

When you place your advertising in the daily newspaper, you know it will reach a guaranteed, paying audience. That helps make the daily newspaper the safest, surest advertising investment.

White House Tours Booming

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tourist business at the White House is running at such a clip that the Saturday visiting hours have been extended.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said that starting today sightseers will have two extra hours to parade through the executive mansion on Saturdays. The hours have been 10 a.m. to 12 noon every day except Sundays, Mondays and holidays when the executive mansion is closed to tourists. Through the summer, the new Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Salinger said Friday that so far there have been 40 per cent more visitors this year than last. Last year set a record.

In the first three months of the year, 154,156 visitors paraded through the mansion.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all — results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H® at all drug counters.

Public Notices

NOTICE NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by J. C. Cox and wife, Cassie Moore, and recorded in Book H-32 at page 448 of the Pitt County Registry, default having been made in the payment of the debt therein secured and the owner of the debt having called upon the trustee to foreclose thereon, the undersigned trustee will, on Saturday, the 28th day of April, 1962, at 12 noon at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, subject to all prior liens thereon, the following described tract or parcel of land, to wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Factious Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the north side of Tar River and on the east side of Great Swamp Canal and located on the Creek Road about 4 miles northeast from the City of Greenville and being bounded on the north by Lot No. 8 of the R. D. Harrington-Langley Subdivision and on the east by the Creek Road and on the west by the Creek Road and the Farm Road; and being Lots Nos. 6 and 7 of the R. D. Harrington-Langley farm subdivision containing 62 acres, and being more particularly described according to survey and map made by W. C. Dresbach, E. and Surveyor, dated December 12, 1934, and being the same land described in a certain deed of trust executed by Walter Moore et al. to W. O. McGibony, Trustee, dated February 8, 1961, and recorded in the Pitt County Registry.

The successful bidder at this sale will be required to deposit with the trustee 10% of his bid pending the confirmation of said sale by the Court.

This the 27th day of March, 1962.

R. B. LEE, Trustee
Apr. 2-9-16-23

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the power and authority upon him conferred by a certain deed of trust dated May 9, 1960, of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Beaufort County in Book 508, page 607, and Register in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book 831, page 395, from Eastern Brick & Tile Company, Inc. and Milton S. Brown and wife, Amanda M. Brown, default having occurred in the payment of the indebtedness secured by said deed of trust, and demand having been made upon the undersigned by the owner of said indebtedness, for the foreclosure of said deed of trust, the undersigned will offer for sale and will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash on the 27th day of April, 1962, at 12:00 o'clock noon at the door of the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, in Pitt County, and described as follows:

First Tract: That certain tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, containing 524 acres, conveyed to Eastern Brick & Tile Company by W. P. Moore and wife, Elma Tucker Moore, by deed dated January 3, 1951, of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina in Book V-25 at page 12 to which instrument reference is hereby specifically made and the description therein contained herein incorporated as if the same were at length fully herein set out.

Second Tract: That certain tract of land lying and being in Grimesland Township, Pitt County, North Carolina described as follows: Beginning in the center line of a branch the dividing line between Oscar Hardee and Pat Wilson, and being the South-east corner of Lot No. 4C and running along the dividing line between Lots Nos. 4C and 2C N 20 West 800 feet to the center of the County Road; thence continuing N. 20 West 947 feet to the center of a branch, the dividing line between Oscar Hardee and Gladstone; thence going down the branch N. 36-40 East 142 feet, N. 86-15 E. 190 feet, N. 23 E. 217 feet to the Northwest corner of Lot 5C; thence along the dividing line between Lots Nos. 2C and 5C, S. 20 E. 1141 feet to the center of the county road and continuing S. 20 E. 549 feet to the center of a branch, the dividing line between Oscar Hardee and Pat Wilson, thence running up the said branch S. 53-30 W. 50 feet, South 38-30 W. 200 feet, S. 23 W. 194 feet, South 35-20 W. 73 feet to the beginning, containing 15 acres of woods land, more or less, and being Lot 2C, as shown on map made by Joe M. Dresbach of the Oscar Hardee division of record in the office of the Pitt County Registry, excepted from the above description is that part of land conveyed to Joe Allen Boyd by deed recorded in Book C 28 at page 344, Pitt County Registry. Being the identical tract of land conveyed to Milton S.

Brown by Karl Hardee by deed of record in the aforesaid Registry.

Together with one Bucyrus-Erie Shovel with Standard track shoes and 2-cylinder GM Diesel Engine and standard counterweight Serial No. 47045.

The sale will be subject to property taxes due Pitt County and prior liens. The sale of both the real and personal property will be made subject to the confirmation of the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, pending which the highest bidder will be required to make a deposit on the amount of his bid in the amount required by law as an earnest of good faith.

This the 27th day of March, 1962.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hay prices steady to 25 higher. Tops of 16-17 Wilson, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove; 16.25-16.75 Rocky Mount; 16-16.50 Smithfield, Spring Hope; 15.75-16.25 Pembroke; 16.75 Goldsboro; 16.25 Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Bethel, Albertson, Greensboro, Rich Square; 16 Siler City, Lillington, Castle Hayne, Burgaw; 15.75 Dunn.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady, steers and heifers, choice 23-25, good 21.50-24, standards 17-21; beef cows 14.50-16.50, heavy cutters 13-14.50, light bulls 12.50-15, heavy bulls 15-18.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers, offerings adequate at most points, barely adequate to short in a few instances, demand fair to mostly good. At farm quotations 14 cents with some sales under contracts and agreements up to 1/2 cent higher. Delivered plant prices ranged from 14 1/4 to 15 3/4.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobacco and steels were weak as the stock market declined in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .50 at 255.20 with industrials down 1.30, rails up .30 and utilities off .20.

Losses stretched to 3 or 4 points among tobacco and to well over a point among steels. Elsewhere in the list most changes were fractional.

The increasing anti-cigarette campaign abroad, capped by Italy's ban against cigarette advertising, jolted the tobacco stocks. Steels were depressed by reports that incoming orders for steel are not likely to show improvement until fall.

Chemicals, drugs, nonferrous metals and aerospace issues also were mostly lower.

American Tobacco fell more than 4 points. Losses of 3 or more were taken by Lorillard, Liggett & Myers and Reynolds. Philip Morris sank more than 2.

Among the steels, Jones & Laughlin fell about 2. Down more than a point were U.S. and Republic Steel. Bethlehem lost a fraction.

Aside from a drop of nearly a point by Chrysler, autos didn't do too badly. Ford gained a fraction. General Motors was down a bit.

A drop exceeding a point by Union Carbide was about the worst among chemicals. Du Pont rose fractionally.

The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was off 4.04 at 695.59. Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange in moderately active trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds edged lower.

Two Crash-Out Of East Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Two East Berlin building workers rammed their way through the Red wall in a heavy truck today and escaped to the West in a hall of bullets, the West Berlin government reported.

The escape was made at Boyenstrasse, in the French sector. Neither man was injured.

The two men drove the heavy truck full tilt at the wire barrier, broke through and then slammed the dump truck into the wall itself.

The truck smashed down about 15 feet of the wall and came to a stop. The two men jumped out and ran desperately across an open, bombed space to a house about 50 yards on the west side of the border.

While they were trying to open the door of the house to get cover, East German border guards opened fire with submachine guns.

Neither man was hit before they got into the house.

The East Germans towed the truck away and posted armed guards at the gap in the wall.

Club Clean Up Old Cemetery

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
The Ruritan Club of Pactivus has undertaken an important step in the restoration of one of Pitt County's historical spots. They are cleaning off the brush and brambles that have for quite some time hidden the graves and tombstones in the old Colonial Cemetery at Yankee Hall.

Names long wrapped in the undergrowth, have come to light. Names like — Toole, Telfair, Stewart, Ellison, Ralston, Speir, Miles and others. Some of the inscriptions are hard to read. Cecil Satterthwaite is trying to find out some sort of solution to us the old stones to make them readable.

The men doing the cleanup job found the missing slab of Col. Cleander Stewart lying on the ground. It took eight of them to put it back in place. Sam Ralston's slab was broken.

The muscle work on removing fallen trees, cutting out brush, cutting out briars and brambles as well as putting the slabs back in place has been done by Ruritan Club members, and others interested in the project.

It is hoped that the example set by the Pactivus Ruritan will be followed by others in the county. Many places could be cleaned up for public viewing. Perhaps, some day, markers will help in the telling of Pitt County history.

Arrest Suspect In Theft Of Hams

Officers have arrested Willie Junior Williams, 30-year-old Negro of near Bethel, on breaking, entering and larceny charges in connection with the theft of five hams and shoulders.

Williams is accused of entering the smokehouse of Lemb Highsmith about a half mile from Bethel, according to Deputy Duke Andrews, Highsmith lives on the Buhting farm.

Officers recovered a ham and a shoulder.

Williams has been placed in Pitt County Jail under $500 bond pending trial.

Deputy Ralph Tyson investigated assisted by Bethel Chief Walter Gray.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. A. R. House

Mrs. Melle Harris House, 76, widow of Archibald R. House, died Saturday night at six o'clock at Eastern N. C. Sanatorium in Wilson. She had been critically ill for a week.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Monday afternoon at 3:30 by Dr. Edgar B. Fisher, her pastor. Burial was in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. House, daughter of the late John and Melle Langley Harris, was born and reared in Greenville. After her marriage to Mr. House in 1909 they lived in Louisiana and in 1917 returned to Greenville to live. She had been a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church since childhood and was presented a life membership in the Wesleyan Service Guild of the WSCS of the church. She was a charter member and past worthy Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 149, a member of the White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 7, and The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons. Mr. House died in 1953.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin of the home; a son, Col. Daniel Murray House, U. S. Army, of Oak Park, Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Ft. Chaffee, Arkansas; three grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. Charles F. Blanchard and Mrs. Lena H. Christian of Greenville.

Postal Substation Investment Limited

The Post Office Department, announcing further information on Greenville's new substation to serve the East Carolina College area, said that the department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day said the building will remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Under the department's Lease Construction Program, a contract will be awarded to the bidder who designates a building suitable to the department's needs and agrees to improve it (or provide a new building) according to departmental specifications and then lease it to the department for a basic period of 10 years with two five-year renewal options.

Bidding documents may be obtained from Max B. Trout, regional real estate officer, Post Office Department, P. O. Box 1586, Main Post Office, Columbia, S. C. The real estate officer will supply bidding forms, specifications, lease provisions and other information. Bids must be submitted to the real estate officer by May 4.

Two Arrested On Liquor Counts

AYDEN — Two local Negroes were arrested on liquor-law violation charges by officers here yesterday.

Charged were Dick Harp and Herbert Cox.

Harp was arrested as he poured out a quantity of non-taxed whiskey. He was charged with possessing the booze for the purpose of sale and placed under a $200 bond.

Cox was charged with possessing illegal spirits when officers found a pint of non-taxed whiskey on his premises. He too was placed under a $200 bond for appearance in Ayden Recorders court.

Making the Sunday morning arrests were Ayden Police Chief W. D. Brooks and Policeman Edward Hudson; Pitt ABC officer H. B. Lilley and Constable W. H. Crandall.

'Newsboy' Ends 32-Year Service

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — A fable Ike Wilson, 77, the newsboy old enough to be the great-grandfather of the average youngster delivering newspapers, has made the final round of his 289 Hagerstown Daily Mail customers in nearby Funkstown.

Two generations of Funkstown residents can't recall the Mail coming, to their community other than in the canvas bag slung on Ike's shoulder, or in the cart that he pulled in recent years.

Ike became a newsboy at the age of 35 after an illness forced him to give up a job as night superintendent at an industrial plant.
