All About Town With Anne Mattox

Eight years ago Peg O'Neal was teaching history in the Junior High School at Atlantic City, N.J.; today she is traveling around the world with Miss America.

It all started 18 years ago when she began working with the Miss America Pageant on a volunteer basis. Then eight years ago she was asked to work as a professional chaperone. As a representative of the Miss America Pageant she has traveled with the past seven Miss Americas.

Mrs. O'Neal has served as President of the Charity League, President of the Travelers Aid and four years on the Community Chest Board. She is a native of Atlantic City where her family was connected until recently with the local newspaper and radio station.

Having returned last week from Europe with Maria Beale Fletcher, she said, "This was the first time I have taken a Miss America abroad since 1958. We were the guests of Philco Corporation while in Europe and toured army camps, hospitals, mess halls and service clubs in Germany, France and England. I think half the boys in the army are from North Carolina.

"The tour was an interesting experience for me as I worked for the USO in Cornerbrook, Newfoundland a number of years ago; and I also taught skiing. On this trip I sat down beside a sergeant in a service men's mess in Germany and I said, 'It is good to be back among the GIs.'

He asked when and where I was with the GIs and I told him I was with the USO in Newfoundland a number of years ago. We talked on and he remembered me as the woman with long blonde hair." He had stayed in her USO in Newfoundland a number of times and she had checked him in and out. "I thought this was quite unusual to meet the GI ten years later on another continent."

"We had one free day on the tour and we spent that in Berlin, as I had never been there before and I wanted to see it."

The chaperone travels approximately 200,000 miles a year with Miss America. She has only the month of February off when someone else takes her place for the month. One of her favorite pastimes when she has an opportunity is skiing. She also enjoys water skiing, reading and sewing. Of the present Miss America, she says, "Maria is developing an interest in art. She is a very serious girl, very religious; a thing people don't realize. She loves to go to church, sing, dance and read poetry and any other thing a normal girl enjoys doing if she had the time."

Mrs. O'Neal says "When people tell me they hope that the year won't change Miss America, I tell them I hope they are a wiser person by the end of the year. These years in a girl's life are very important."

Commenting on the North Carolina Beauty Pageant, she said, "North Carolina has the largest state pageant and we always have more bookings in North Carolina than in any state. Miss America has been to five North Carolina cities already and the Greenville Pageant is the sixth."

Chaperoning is not all Mrs. O'Neal is prolific at, she is also a good judge of beauty. Out of the last four Miss Americas, she has judged three of them in their local pageants, one of them being Maria.

In commenting on the contestants entering the Miss America Pageant each year she says, "We get more and more talented girls who are entering for the scholarship which have reached a total of over $300,000, given on the local, state and national level. This is the dream of Miss Lenore Slaughter, to build the scholarship program."

A former Greenville girl, Lois West Eaton, engagement is announced today. She is a graduate of Greenville High School, 1957. Miss Eaton spent her Junior year in France at the University of Paris, and graduated from the University of Kansas in 1960. She is now studying for the degree of Master of Arts at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York. Mr. Bueler graduated from the University of Colorado in 1958 and is now doing his graduate study at Cornell University.

The Dawn That Changed The World

It was a Sunday morning of darkness and despair for the handful of Christians at Jerusalem that first Easter. Their leader had been executed by one of the most horrible methods imaginable. The world about them had crumbled. The one they looked to and loved, the Son of God, had been sealed in a tomb, his three years of incomparable ministry had suddenly ended.

The one who had come to save the world had been slain by it.

But as the new day dawned that Sunday it brought with it a new meaning for mankind. The Christ had overcome the tomb. The bonds of death had been forever shattered for those who followed in his path, for those who accepted his name and sought to do his bidding.

From bloom and despair the day suddenly became one which held out hope and eternal promise for those at Jerusalem and for others down through the centuries in every corner of the world. Life suddenly had new meaning and a new code for living set before the people by Jesus was evaluated in its eternal qualities.

As another Easter morning dawns tomorrow there will be millions of followers of Jesus throughout the world who will gather in praise and thanksgiving for the love of Christ and his supreme sacrifice for the gift of eternal life made possible by his death and resurrection.

Important Day Of Christianity

By LYNN NISBET
EASTER—Easter is the most significant festival of the Christian calendar. It commemorates the central item in the Christian faith — the resurrection of Jesus. Although it has not been as generally observed as Christmas, it is in fact far more significant. There is mystery surrounding both the birth and the death and resurrection of Jesus. There is evidence outside of purely Christian literature about the birth and life of the Man of Galilee. But nowhere except in the writings of the apostles is there any support for the concept of the resurrection.

It has been suggested that one reason for the less popular and exuberant celebration of Easter is the series of tragic events immediately preceding. For weeks in advance the advent of Christmas is joyously celebrated and the great day when it comes is often anticlimactic. For six weeks before Easter Christians are asked to observe the Lenten season with sacrifice and self denial. The darkest, saddest day of the year is Good Friday, two days before Easter, which is the anniversary of the tragedy on Calvary. Then Easter bursts with all its glory, proclaiming new hope and new life to mankind. It is impossible to prepare in advance for joyous participation in this festival without violating the sanctity of the Lenten period and Good Friday.

But without Easter the Christian religion would be no more than just another sect among all the religions on earth, depending for its vitality only on a code of morals. The mystical religious significance there are many interesting things about Easter. One is the date, which varies between March 22 and April 25. (It is late this year, coming on April 22.) The World Almanac gives this information on that point:

In A. D. 325 the Council of Christian churches met at Nicea in Asia-Minor and accomplished at least two historic achievements. It drew up the Nicene Creed and also decided that Easter shall be on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon which falls upon or next after March 21. Principal reason for this timing was that the pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great Easter festivals.

The dates for Easter have not been changed since, despite efforts to stabilize it by the British Parliament some 35 years ago. The Paschal full moon in the fourteenth day of a lunar month reckoned according to an ancient ecclesiastical computation and not the astronomical full moon. Because of this and because of the wide spread of 35 days on which Easter might fall, the Parliament in 1283 passed a permissive statute to fix the observance of Easter on the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April. Implementation of this statute required international consent — and such consent has not been given. So Easter still comes sometime between March 22 and April 25.

Selection of the time for the Easter observance and tying it in with the vernal equinox was influenced by the fact it took the place of an ancient heathen festival celebrating the coming of spring, the new birth of nature.

JORDAN—Dr. Henry Jordan of Cedar Falls, former highway chairman and State senator, was in Raleigh the other day. He said he was getting a lot of encouragement from many quarters, some unexpected, to run for Governor. His name has been included in nearly every list of potential candidates. He confesses some interest in the proposition but says his interest as of now is not nearly so strong as it was when he was proposed as a candidate several years ago. He told this little story.

When the 1960 political campaign was just getting warmed up a friend asked Dr. Henry if he had heard the rumor "that you might be our next Governor." "Have I heard it?" snorted the doctor. "Heck, man, I started it."

UMSTEAD—Some 300 to 400 friends of John Umstead assembled at a dinner party in Chapel Hill the other night to pay tribute to the veteran legislator for his contribution to the cause of good government, education and improved treatment of mentally ill. It was a significant event. John Umstead has never held an office higher than membership in the General Assembly of North Carolina — where he has served for 13 terms. Yet at the dinner the other night Governors and U. S. Senators and University presidents vied in paying tribute to his outstanding service to his state and its people.

On mountain tops, and bare plains, in huge cathedrals and in humble homes the words of Christians will be lifted up as men contemplate the meaning of Easter. Children whose spiritual eyes are just beginning to see the new light in the life, the death and the resurrection of the Christ will glow brightly. The eyes of the elderly, though seemingly dimmed by their earthy years, will see more clearly the meaning of another Easter morn and the promise it holds for them as it does for all others.

It is the morning which made Christianity live for all generations because of the living Christ.

Little To Gain, Much To Lose By Giveaway

North Carolina has little to gain and much to lose if it should decide to venture into the road of granting tax concessions as bait for new industries seeking locations.

For more than a decade this state has enjoyed unprecedented progress in economic development through its industrial growth. It has been able to realize this growth by selling the advantages North Carolina has to offer industry—not through giveaway gimmicks in the form of tax concessions.

By and large the industries which have moved plants into North Carolina have proved to be good citizens and have showed through their actions their desire to carry their share of responsibility as corporate citizens. North Carolina has concentrated on attracting industries which wanted to pay their own way on a permanent basis, and this policy has paid off for the state many times over.

Although some other states are increasing their tax concessions to new industry in an effort to gain additional plants and more industrial jobs, such a policy appears to us shortsighted indeed. Most good industries ask nothing more than to be treated fairly. Those who demand more in exchange for locating a plant in a specific state or community usually contribute little to the long-term welfare of the state or the community. They come in to take advantage of what they can get out of a community or state and then are ready to move at the drop of a hat to some place which offers more.

North Carolina's policy of treating industries fairly without offering them such things as exemption from taxes, government financed buildings and the like has proved to be of sufficient merit for the policy to be continued.

Time To Keep Fingers Crossed

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twice in a row Easter for President Kennedy has been a time of calm and quiet, when even bunions looked safe and there were no broken eggs.

But now as he rocks in the Florida sun he probably keeps his fingers crossed. Right after Easter in 1961 the lid blew off and kept popping almost until Easter this year.

He was in office less than 75 days then. He's been there 455 days now. All the days in between kept him jumping. If the past is any criterion for the future, he'll be jumping soon again.

Nothing sensational had happened in those 75 days. Kennedy had been wrestling with Congress. There was still murder in the Congo. Communists were still advancing in Laos. Premier Khrushchev was sounding off.

Then, only 10 days after last Easter the Russians sent their first man into a space orbit of the earth, unpleasant news for U. S. prestige. Within 15 days Kennedy banged into disaster—the Cuban invasion.

The States recovered some of its prestige in a hurry by sending its first man into space but only on a short hop last May 5, not an earth orbit. It was another nine months before this country could orbit a man.

But trouble piled up for Kennedy. He met with Khrushchev in Vienna and the critical seeking over Berlin began. Kennedy to show there was no American softening, built up defenses, called up Reservists.

Disarmament talks got nowhere. The Russians stunned Kennedy by suddenly resuming nuclear testing, a move now driving Kennedy to new nuclear tests.

In between times the United States poked its nose deeper into Latin-American affairs when Dictator Rafael Trujillo was assassinated in the Dominican Republic.

And it got deeper into Asia

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE DARKEST HOUR
There was darkness over all the earth as Jesus expired on the cross. The earth trembled. Even the pagan centurion in charge of the execution declared that this man must indeed be the Son of God.

But never has human sadness and despair reached lower depths than on the day which followed. The disciples had fled and left their Master alone. Peter had denied that he ever knew him. In their homes there were twelve companions, who in many ways had tried hard to be faithful but who for the most part failed their Master in the hour of need, must have wept as they saw their hopes for the kingdom toppling in ruin about them. Their best friend was being executed. They had largely failed him in an hour of need. The great hope toward which they had all pressed was evidently fruitless and vain.

What a day that Saturday! What misery, what heart searching, what regret, what despair! It was a day when, from their standpoint it was. But at dawn on the first day of the week something was to occur — something which would change these despondent and despairing disciples into joyful proclaimers of a new faith, a new hope, a new day.

We often hear that the darkest hour is just before the dawn. The darkest hour in human history was just before the dawn of Christ's glorious resurrection.

with stepped up help for Viet Nam against Communist guerrillas, help that included American fighting men who are not supposed to be fighting unless attacked.

Kennedy had to reorganize the State Department, do some shifting around in his own White House staff, try to get along with some difficult allies like French President Charles de Gaulle, push a new trade program on Congress, plus all the other things he tried to do with Congress.

Almost until this Easter the Russians kept up a dangerous pressure on Berlin and then Kennedy got hit with one of his greatest tests here at home when the steel industry raised prices. He won that fight.

He won it just in time to be able to fly to Florida to relax, which was just about the time the Russians began to take some of the heat off Berlin.

No other crisis is in sight at the moment.

That can hardly last long in a world where, despite a slight pause for Easter and its lesson of unselfishness and a new hope, there is so much lunacy, savagery, chicanery, larceny, rapacity, duplicity and stupidity.

The drumming out ceremony is an interesting anachronism. No doubt, the local commander thought of it as a dramatic way to emphasize the great traditions of honor which belong to membership in it and to the wearing of its uniform. But in simple truth the ceremony has

attitude toward business. It is difficult to dismount a tiger. OTHER LOOK-AHEADS
Here are more business predictions:
Newsprint to continue steady. Publishers in the annual meeting in New York next week will have one bit of cheer: no rise in newsprint prices are in sight. Production and demand are in balance and the paper companies are making comfortable profits at present rates.

Uniform highways: A six-year-old plan is nearing fruition. Long talks between State and Federal road officials on standard rules and practices are coming to conclusion. If agreements are reached, both contractors and governments can save money.

Net petroleum market: A water emulsion of petroleum resins, under development for three years, is nearing the market as an agricultural mulch. It has increased the yield of plants up to 110 per cent. It may result in spectacular increases in yields in arid lands, since it holds available moisture in the soil. MORE INSTITUTIONAL JOBS

Banks, corporations to hire more: Dividend and interest payers are quietly lining up available clerical employees. The new tax proposal requiring the withholding of 20 per cent of dividend and interest will increase clerical work for banks, corporations and other affected institutions and there may be a shortage of intelligent personnel if the law is passed. Although the effective date is far off, the time required for training will cause institutions to act promptly after passage.

Seeking construction, demolishing, highway, maintenance contracts: Buddy up to state and local officials. Their contracts may rise about $3 billion this year, which means gravy for many. Purchases of supplies for state, county and city institutions are also increasing.

Beyond The Hobby Stage

NEW YORK (AP) — Lots of people collect stamps as a part-time hobby. For me, collecting stamps has become a full-time job — and a full-time headache.

I don't save plain old postage stamps. That's easy. My kind of collecting takes planning, energy, concentration, cunning, patience, strategy, footwork and time — mostly time.

You see, I collect trading stamps and all of a sudden it has become a way of life.

More and more stores are enticing me with stocky squares in all colors of the rainbow. Recently another nationwide grocery chain joined the battle, brandishing a plaid sword, and I surrendered meekly.

I'm a prisoner of the stamp war.

Time was when I needed milk or bread or eggs I just trotted over to my friendly neighborhood grocer. He gave me the food and I gave him the money. It was a simple transaction which I remember with nostalgia.

These days, when I need groceries, I have to do some fancy figuring that would make a computer flash its tubes in admiration.

Other Editors Saying Drumming Out Drum Out

(The Washington Post)

Gen. David M. Shoup, the civilized and sensible commandant of the United States Marine Corps, has put a swift end to the ancient practice, inexplicably revived at the Norfolk Marine Barracks, of drumming out of the service. By order of the commander at Norfolk, a young marine, discharged by court martial after he had served a sentence for larceny, was marched in front of four platoons in dress uniform last week and then escorted off the installation to the sound of the "death march" on rolling drums, while his former comrades about-faced and stood with their backs to him.

The drumming out ceremony is an interesting anachronism. No doubt, the local commander thought of it as a dramatic way to emphasize the great traditions of honor which belong to membership in it and to the wearing of its uniform. But in simple truth the ceremony has

Items, sporting goods, jewelry and hardware — almost anything money can buy—stamps can get you free.

Latest inducement in one wishbook is tours to glamorous places all over the globe.

New products have even sprung up as a result of the stamp-pasting craze.

Personally, I have my eye on a trading stamp safe, just introduced by a mail order house. It's a small wooden box to hang on a wall or stand on a shelf. There's a drawer for loose stamps and under its lid are filing compartments for full books and ones underway.

It costs $1.98, but I'm not going to be too quick with the cash. In no time at all it will surely be offered as a stamp premium.

Opinions In Brief

"The suppression of unnecessary offices, of useless establishments and expenses, enabled us to discontinue our internal taxes. These, covering our land with officers, and opening our doors to their intrusions, had already begun that process of domiciliary vexation which, once entered, is scarcely to be restrained from reaching, successively, every article of property and produce." — Thomas Jefferson.

"It is difficult to find anyone who does not display stress in certain circumstances, and psychiatry is not such an exact science, that it can provide an infallible yardstick for normality. 'Who's loony now?' used to be quite a byword. Maybe it includes social psychiatrists — times we all — and this includes social psychiatrists — seem a bit peculiar to others." —Roanoke (Va.) Times.

"There's a new do-it-yourself kit on the market called the 'Divorce Kit.' It includes several strands of peroxide hair, a few loose pearls, and some fur and millinery bills marked 'Paid.'" —Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

"Some folks demand the benefit of the doubt when there is not any." —Anderson (S.C.) Independent.

Flavius Josephus says of Matzah: "Quitting the country by the shortest route they arrived on the third day at Beel-sephon, a place beside the Red Sea. Being bereft of any sustenance from the barren soil, they kneaded the flour, baked it with merely a slight heating and subsisted on the bread so made; on this they lived for thirty days, for they could make what they had brought from Egypt last no longer, notwithstanding that they rationed the food, limiting the portions to bare needs without eating to satiety. Hence it is that, in memory of that time of scarcity, we keep for eight days a feast called the feast of unleavened bread."

"The whittle hootle?" I asked. "The vertical motel. Hotels are having a tough time competing with motels," he said. "Hotels think it's layout, parking space, freedom from downtown traffic and things like that that give motels the edge. But I have figured out the real reason — and I have invented a hotel that can beat motels."

"How?" "No tipping," the old one said. "The American boob is tired of being a sucker, tired of dishing out tips for nothing. In my tipless hotel, I think I can pack more people in at $14 a night than a motel can at $11." "I'll believe it when I see it — but I'd like to see it."

Custom Of The Matzah

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Matzah is eaten on the Passover and has been for several thousand years and is the center of ritual during the Passover. The Matzah is an unleavened bread, made of flour and water and containing no other ingredients. Actually, it was in vogue as far back as Abraham, as anyone can know who reads Genesis.

However, on the Passover, it has a special purpose, namely it reminds the Jews of the Exodus from Egypt where they were slaves until liberated by Moses.

The Hagadah, which is read on the first and second nights of the Passover in every properly conducted home, begins with the words:

"Lo this is the bread of affliction, which our ancestors ate in the land of Egypt; let all those who are hungry enter and eat thereof; and all who are in need come and celebrate the Passover."

The youngest child then asks why this night is different from all other nights, and among the questions he asks is why unleavened bread is eaten. The father then answers:

"Because we were slaves unto Pharaoh in Egypt, and the Lord our God brought us forth from thence, with a mighty hand, and an outstretched arm; and if the most Holy, blessed be He! had not brought forth our ancestors from Egypt, we and our children, and our children's children, had still continued in bondage to the Pharaohs in Egypt; therefore, although we were all wise, all of us men of understanding and experience, all of us having knowledge in the law, it nevertheless is incumbent upon us to discourse of the departure from Egypt; and all those who largely discourse of the departure from Egypt, are accounted praiseworthy."

This is an old custom and goes to the very heart of historic memory. But Khrushchev objects to it. He objects to the State bakeries baking Matzahs for the Passover, and as there are no other bakeries in Russia, the Matzahs may only be obtained in government stores, the Jews living under the control of Khrushchev will have no Matzahs. The Russians call that separation of Church and State. Actually, it is the persecution of religion by the state.

Khrushchev will also forbid the baking of wafers used in Christian Communion services. Thus Khrushchev shows his contempt for the emotional and intellectual rights of others. Of course, there will be Jews in Russia who will find ways and means to make Matzahs, for in Jewish history there have been many Khrushchevs and they've very small people have somehow managed to overcome their enemies and to survive. Also, they have, in good times and in pleasant countries, lost many of their population who have changed their names from Hebrew to fit the language of the country where they happened to be; who changed their faces and even became converts to other religions.

Amazingly, Stalin never interfered in such matters and even Hitler ignored the prospect of pin-prick persecutions. He slaughtered outright.

The worshipping Jew is uncompromising in his attitude toward his God and the faith of his fathers. Flavius Josephus says of Matzah: "Quitting the country by the shortest route they arrived on the third day at Beel-sephon, a place beside the Red Sea. Being bereft of any sustenance from the barren soil, they kneaded the flour, baked it with merely a slight heating and subsisted on the bread so made; on this they lived for thirty days, for they could make what they had brought from Egypt last no longer, notwithstanding that they rationed the food, limiting the portions to bare needs without eating to satiety. Hence it is that, in memory of that time of scarcity, we keep for eight days a feast called the feast of unleavened bread."

Rose High News

By SHERRY EVERETT
Changing from the usual tradition of having a minister to speak at the Easter assembly, senior Ross Clark gave the Easter message to the student body Friday morning.

"The celebration of Good Friday first had its beginning in the 300's in the time of Constantine," she stated giving some background history. "It has continued up until today when many churches have three-hour services to symbolize Christ's agony on the cross."

After reading the scripture, Ross read "The Crucifixion" by Mrs. L. Peiser and ended with a prayer.

The glee club, directed by Mrs. Vivien Beach, presented some Easter music including "Fairest Lord Jesus," "Open Our Eyes" by Macfarlane, and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones" by Colin. The student body joined in singing "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Christ The Lord Is Risen."

The glee club will sing these selections and "Beautiful Savior" by Christians at the U.C.Y.M.-sponsored sunrise service Eastern morning at 5:15. The Reverend Richard R. Gammon will bring the message.

Three to Attend Youth Conference
Diana Hodges, Anna White, and Rayde Harrington have recently been chosen by the student council to represent Rose High at the Civitan Youth Conference.

The three will attend the "mountain-top" assembly at Little Switzerland, North Carolina, either June 17-23, or July 3-9. Students from all over the state will meet to discuss current problems in the community and in the world.

Dividing into small groups each led by an adult, they will discuss such topics as family relations, a teenager's place in his community, race problems, and religion. At night everyone will gather around the fire and report what his group discussed. Aside from the discussions, the students will take hikes in the mountains.

The Rose High chapter of the Future Teachers of America proclaimed this week as teacher appreciation week in honor of the teachers at the high school.

Activities of the week included giving daily devotions over the intercom, having a coffee break for the teachers on Thursday, presenting the teachers with apples, preparing a showcase in education, and placing in room mottoes concerning education.

Sherry Everett chaired the week's activities and was also chairman of the mottoes subcommittee. Franklin Jolly was in charge of the coffee break. Judy Webb, the devotions; Peggy Ipeck, the showcase; and Karen Martin, the apples. Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin is the advisor of the F. T. A.

News-Briefs
Wednesday, April 25, the Pitt County Medical and Dental society will sponsor the giving of tetanus shots to all students who received the first shots two weeks ago and to those who missed the first shot April 4, but who wish to have the inoculation now. The students will take the shots at the Elm Street Recreation center. Over 300 Rose high students received the inoculation two weeks ago.

The Pitt County Health department has finished giving physical examinations this week to the ninth grade girls.

Only five more weeks of school are left this year. The fifth marking period ended Monday and reports were issued Thursday.

Cuban Exile To Address Club

A refugee from Castro's Cuba, Dr. Nicolas Gonzales Mendoza, is scheduled to address next Tuesday's 7 p.m. meeting of the Pitt County Executives Club in East Carolina College's New South Dining Hall.

Trail Drive Of Old Era Revived

PAWHUSKA, Okla. (AP)—The trail drive of another era was revived in the Osage Hills when 115 head of horses were driven 32 miles to market Friday.

The trip took about eight hours. Glen Herren, owner of a Pawhuska clothing store, said it was the largest trail drive in this area in many years.

Religion is deep in the hearts of men. Khrushchev, who is an atheist, would wipe out the power of religion by force, may find that he runs against all historic experience. Perhaps that is Khrushchev's major weakness; he apparently knows no history and therefore does not understand the emotional depth of those who live by faith.

Committees Named To Operate Leagues

Local Little Leagues Explained

Wake Forest Tries To Regain Top Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wake Forest, knocked out of a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball lead Friday, tries to regain top spot today in a game with front-runner South Carolina.

punching bag the league ever had, went down to its ninth straight loss, 3-1 at the hands of North Carolina. It represents a new rut for the Terps. Last week they lost their third in a row by one run. Friday's loss was their third straight by two runs.

W. C. James, supervisor of the Greenville Little Leagues, held a meeting of the parents and players last night that the leagues are designed to teach the boys to become good citizens as well as providing a competitive sport for youngsters.

James also explained that the leagues are supported by parents of players and that the parents must contribute their services in running the games and keeping up the parks, as well as supporting them financially.

The opening date for Little League this year is scheduled for May 16 and will run through the middle of July. The Greenville Little League program consists of two leagues with six teams in each league.

The supervisor also went into the history of Little League play in Greenville, noting that the local league was started in 1951 with one league and six teams. He added that as interest increased there was need to divide the league into two divisions and add teams so that today there are 12 teams compared to the six original.

James explained to the parents and boys how players are chosen. He noted that there are 15 boys on each team which means that only 180 boys can participate. However, he added that for those who do not make a team there is a baseball program sponsored by the recreation department and that this program gives all boys from age 7-12 a chance to play ball.

This year there are 64 openings on Greenville teams and these will be filled at a meeting Thursday night at which time the coaches will bid on the boys. Each coach gets 10,000 points per year with which to buy players and any points left over may be carried over to the next year.

The players are bought by the coaches at an auction which James said runs just like any auction sale. He emphasized the fact that because one boy brings more points than another it does not mean that the boy is a better player.

A team is allowed to carry seven 12 year olds, at least two nine and 10 year olds and the rest is made up of 11 year olds. This also explains why some player might bring more points at the auction than another.

Tryouts have been conducted all week and will continue through Thursday so that the coaches will have a chance to view the boys who are trying out for Little League. James noted that any nine year old who makes a team should consider himself "very fortunate" and for those who do not make a team can play with the recreation department to gain experience and tryout again next year.

James also reminded the parents and players of the annual Little League supper which will be held this year on May 23. All proceeds from this supper go towards the support of the league along with the money from the sponsors and the small fees charged the parents. Prizes are given to the players who sell the most supper tickets.

At the meeting last night the parents approved a new constitution for the Greenville Little Leagues which was drawn up by the executive board. The new constitution was needed because of the rapid growth of the local leagues.

James also read out a list of committees that have been set up to help run the program this year. They are as follows:

Maintenance: Ollie Harrington and Bob Fleming. Concession Stands: Mrs. J. D. Wilson, Mrs. F. H. Longino, Mrs. W. C. James and Mrs. Jack Foley.

Umpires: Ken Bradbury, Francis Worsley, Joe Exum, Charlie Yates, L. W. Gaylord and Charles Odum.

Supper committee: W. E. Utley, Ken Hite, Sam Price, V. E. Joyner, A. B. Taylor, Carl Abee and Mrs. Charles King. Ticket chairman: Mrs. L. E. Tipton, and Mrs. Bob Lee.

Sponsorship: Bill Bilbro and M. E. White.

Brown Risking His Lightweight Title

By BOB MYERS Associated Press Sports Writer LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — World lightweight champion Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., risks his crown for an unprecedented twelfth time tonight. The experts think he will keep it in a 15-round match with brash young Carlos Ortiz of New York.

The champion gets a guarantee of $50,000 or 40 per cent of the live gate and the $60,000 television revenue. Ortiz has a flat guarantee of $17,500.

The venerable 35-year-old titleholder, who began boxing professionally in 1946 and finally won the championship almost 11 years later, figures to be an 8-5 betting favorite at ringside.

Nevada does not recognize rematch agreements. But it's a safe bet Brown will get a return bout if he loses.

Ortiz, 25, who has been demanding a chance from Brown for three years, calls this the most important of what will be his 41st ring engagement.

The record books will note that Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., defeated Mrs. Helen Sigel Wilson of Gladwyn, Pa. 6 and 4 in the final Friday.

A near-capacity crowd of 7,000 is expected to sit in on the duel, plus a national television audience — ABC — starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Ortiz is no slouch as a puncher himself. He has punished his sparring partners viciously in training. His record shows 12 knockouts in his 40 matches.

Ortiz has never been knocked out while Brown has been stopped four times.

Ortiz is no ordinary caddy. He is Sam Snead's favorite and always works for the Slogger when he is in the state.

Brown's twelfth title defense adds a new number to his record of defenses. Benny Leonard held the record for the division physical education teacher.

McGuire Can't Get A Release From Warriors

COLUMBIA (AP) — The University of South Carolina will have to find someone other than Frank McGuire to be its basketball coach.

Stevens, who accepted the head basketball coaching job at the University of Oklahoma.

In a copyrighted story today, the Columbia State said McGuire could not take the job because he was unable to get the Philadelphia Warriors to release him from the remaining two years of a 3-year contract.

"He was, of course, our top candidate for the job," Bass added. "Our next step is to go through the list of applicants in an effort to secure the best man available to handle our basketball program."

Sports Editor Jake Penland said McGuire indicated to him in a telephone interview that he would have taken the job at USC if it had been offered him.

The athletic subcommittee of the university's board of trustees indicated early this week it would offer the position to McGuire should he become available.

McGuire met here with USC Athletic Director Marvin Bass after the former expressed dissatisfaction with plans to move the Warriors to the West Coast.

The coaching vacancy was created by the resignation of Bob Ormondville.

DICK TRACY

CRIMES TOPPERS TEXTBOOK

THE NEUTRON ACTIVATION ANALYSIS PROVES YOUR SUSPECT RECENTLY FIRED A GUN.

DESCRIBED BY ROBERT WATKINS, RADIO-CHEMIST, SAN DIEGO, CAL.

A NEW METHOD OF SCIENTIFIC CRIME DETECTION THAT EMPLOYS ATOMIC ENERGY TO EXPOSE INVISIBLE BITS OF EVIDENCE IS IN USE TODAY.

GUIDED BY THE WIGMAKER'S X-RAY FILM, JUNIOR HAS COMPLETED A SKETCH OF WHAT HE BELIEVES TO BE A LIKENESS OF THE BRUSH.

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO ADMIT SMYTHE TO HILLCREST SANITARIUM SOME TIME TODAY.

BUT, OFFICER—

WHAT HAVE YOU IN THE BAG?

SPAGRONIE, THE WIGMAKER IS THE ONLY ONE WE KNOW WHO EVER SAW BRUSH WITHOUT HIS FACEPIECE.

YOU DIDN'T GET MUCH HELP FROM THAT TAILOR, DID YOU?

NOT MUCH. HE KNEW HINDRIX VERY WELL, BUT HED NEVER SEEN BRUSH.

JUST MY EARTHLY BELONGINGS, THAT'S ALL. I WAS USING 'EM FOR A MATTRESS.

WELL, GO TO THE SALVATION ARMY OR SOMEPLACE.

SHOW THE SKETCH TO HIM. SEE IF HE THINKS IT'S A GOOD LIKENESS.

LIZZ AND I WILL CALL ON MR. SPAGRONIE RIGHT AWAY.

WE SIMPLY DON'T HAVE AN EYE-WITNESS WHO'S SEEN BRUSH, EXCEPT THE WIGMAKER.

YOU CAN'T SLEEP IN THE PUBLIC PARKS.

IT'S AGAINST THE LAW.

WHAT ABOUT HIM? WE CAN'T KEEP HIM HERE.

LATER, A POLICEMAN IS MAKING THE ROUNDS ON THIS, ONE OF THE FIRST WARM SPRING NIGHTS.

OKAY, MOVE ON, BUDDY—MOVE!

WHERE CAN A PERSON GO WITH A LAUNDRY BAG FILLED WITH 1 MILLION ONE-DOLLAR BILLS?

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 12
Hugh Spencer searched desperately for an excuse to avoid following Jordy Fleming to his office over the stable, but his fear was too great.
Jordy could become dangerous if she knew of his meeting with the patriots, so it would be wise to humor her, within reason.
Jordy perched on the edge of the desk in the small office, smoothed her skirt, and smiled brightly. "You'll tell me your information first, naturally."

"What would you like to know?" He remained near the ladder.
"Oh, many things, but I won't be greedy. I understand you better than you know, Hugh. I've watched you when you haven't realized I was looking at you. I've seen you so angry at Papa that you've wanted to kill him. Don't bother to deny it."
Under the circumstances he thought it best to say nothing. If she was trying to trick him into revealing information, silence was his best weapon.

haven't kept my part of the bargain yet," she murmured. "I said I'd exchange information with you. Papa is sending me away."
He continued to hold her firmly, but realized that she might be telling him something of importance.
"He's afraid the rebellion may spread, so he's sending me to New York for a few months. He has reason to believe that the Admiralty will send a fleet to teach the rebels their place, and if necessary the army will be strengthened, too. He says I'll be safer in New York, where people haven't forgotten they're subjects of the king. Now you know why I came to see you today. I wanted to say good-bye to you. There was an expression of mock innocence in her eyes as she gazed up at him."

Union Easter Sunrise service will be held at 5:15 a.m. on the St. James Methodist Church lawn. The Greenville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m. to study the Scriptures on the subject "Christ Reigns." Mr. Stephen Walters, superintendent, urges a large attendance to honor the resurrection of Lord Jesus Christ. At the 11 a.m. service, which will be broadcast over WGTC, the Senior Choir, under the direction of William Lloyd, with Mrs. Bill Taylor, organist, and Mr. Curtis Paul, pianist, will present the Easter cantata, "We Have Seen the Lord," by Forrest G. Walters.

"You've been so annoyed with me that you've been tempted to strike me, too. But far more often you've wanted me."
Her candor startled him.
"You want me right now. That's why you won't look at me." Jordy clasped her hands around her legs. "I do wish you'd stop looking so embarrassed. Surely you must realize that I'm flattered by your attention."
"I'm at a disadvantage. I'm cautious, not embarrassed. I haven't forgotten that your father has forbidden me to admire you."
She flirted with him boldly. "Papa is at the other side of the colony, a two-day journey from home."
Hugh shifted uncomfortably. "In all the months you've been here, I've never seen you look really happy—until today." Jordy said. "You've had little enough cause to be pleased with your life. I'm sure, but today you were changed. The light I saw in your eyes as you rode across the grounds to the stable intrigues me." She leaned forward and stared at him intently. "Well?"

It was clear that she was inviting him to have an affair with her before she left, and he could not control his desire any longer. He kissed her, and Jordy responded with an urgency and fervor that matched Hugh's. They stood locked in a tight embrace, swaying slightly as they strained against each other.

The League with David Nobles as general director meets at 8:30 p.m. At the 7:30 p.m. worship service the pastor's sermon topic will be "Three Worlds" (II Peter 3:1-14).

"I didn't tell you all of Papa's plans. If the rebellion in Virginia grows worse, he's going to form a regiment of men loyal to the crown. You've had experience as an officer, so he'll need you. He thinks you'll be pleased to join him, but I know you better than he does." She laughed again. "You won't have any choice now."
Hugh stared at her.
"Papa can't force you to take up arms for the king, but I can. When he offers you a place in his regiment, you'll either accept it or I'll tell him about us."

Jordy's laugh interrupted his thoughts, and he stared at her in the gloom, aware of something in her attitude that put him on his guard.
"You thought you were clever when you wouldn't tell me about the girl you visited earlier today, but I didn't reveal everything I knew, either."
In the half-light Hugh could see a hard smile on her face.

At 3:00 p.m. the Laura Bell Barnard Circle of the Woman's Auxiliary will conduct the County Home service.

"Apparently she knew nothing about his meeting with the militia-men, and Hugh relaxed. "I suppose," he said, "I was enjoying my first holiday in a year and a half."
"You were with a girl," Jordy retorted. "You took one of the slave women to your house." Apparently it didn't cross her mind that she had no right to become jealous of him, and that the scraps of a private that he could piece together were his own business.

Hugh shook his head. "I've spent no time at my house or elsewhere with a slave girl or any other woman," as Dr. Campbell can tell you." He saw that his reply left her unsatisfied, and decided to elaborate. "A man who has been free most of his life can never become accustomed to bondage. I had no duties to perform today, so I must have been enjoying my comparative freedom. And that," he added firmly, "is the only answer I can give you."

First Church of Christ, Scientist

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard in Christian Science church services Sunday.

This statement of the Master's teachings (John 10: "I and my Father are one. . . . If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do though ye believe not me, believe the works: That ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him.")

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will be read: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love."

Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility." (p. 18).

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

"The most interesting thing I learned from books is that some stories are written mistakes and some are beautifully done."

Thus wrote a New York child the other day in a contest in which he was supposed to tell what he had gained from his reading. A critic couldn't say more.

Fortunately, there are still some works around which aren't "written mistakes." One such is Sir Charles P. Snow's novel, "The Affair." It can be said at once that the affair in question is not a boy-girl intrigue. Sir Charles' interests run more to science, and the affair which he describes is the scandal that all but engulfs a Cambridge University college when the discovery is made that one of its Junior Fellows has apparently falsified the results of some physics research, thereby creating minor tremors in the international scientific brotherhood.

of its Junior Fellows has apparently falsified the results of some physics research, thereby creating minor tremors in the international scientific brotherhood.

Relaxed Readers
Sir Charles works his plot out neatly, without forcing a storybook ending. His characters are cleverly drawn and complex enough to be convincing. Best of all, in a way, this is a comfortable old-fashioned book, in which the reader always feels that he has a grasp of what is happening without having to work his way down through concentric layers of symbolism. Furthermore, the work is drenched in British atmosphere, reminiscent of some of the writers of the nineteenth century. Yet, at the same time, Sir Charles shows something of the strictly contemporary tensions, class and ideological, which are seeping through British society today.

Southern Education

The latest issue of "Humanities in the South," a publication devoted to liberal education, has some interesting remarks on the state of post-graduate studies in this region. It borrows its facts from a national poll of educators in leading universities who were asked to rate the major graduate schools by departments. Some of the results are compared with those derived from a similar poll conducted in 1925.

In "over-all standing" no Southern university was listed among the first 20, though in 1925 the University of North Carolina stood 18th.

In history, no Southern university made the list at all, though in 1925 Texas had been 15th.

Since 1925, when it rated 10th, North Carolina has slipped completely off the list in English.

On the bright side, Carolina was rated 8th in Romance languages, 11th in music, 11th in classical studies, and 19th in "the Humanities" generally. All these ratings mark improvements over 1925. No other Southern university was listed at all in any of these categories.

Of course, there is nothing definitive about such ratings. Many people in education would question the singling out of Carolina among Southern institutions. Still, the point here is that it is pretty clear that educators outside this region consider even our best graduate schools comparatively inferior. We still have a great deal of catching up to do to make "Southern education" the equivalent of "American education."

Literary Luncheon

A week from today the annual Fine Arts Festival in Greenville will open with the Literary Luncheon at 12:45 in the ECC South Cafeteria.

The speaker for the occasion will be Elizabeth Coker, well-known South Carolina author. Among her works are such novels as "India Allan," "Daughter of Strangers," and "La Belle."

The affair is being sponsored by the Woman's Club and the East Carolina Art Society. Tickets for the luncheon cost $1.75. They may be reserved by calling Mrs. J. C. Galloway, Jr., 2-3958, or Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts, 2-2845.

Poets in Quantity

As-part of its contribution to the Festival, the College will present two famous poet-critics in a morning and an evening program, Tuesday, May 1. These are Karl Shapiro and Mark Van Doren. More on that next week.

Next week, a young poet, X. J. Kennedy, from the University of Michigan, will give a reading at the College, 7:00, Austin. Kennedy's book is "Nude Descending a Staircase," a work from which individual works have been widely reprinted. He comes under the auspices of the E. C. English Department, working in collaboration with the Carolina Poetry Circuit, which is sponsored by the University Press. It takes collaboration to move poets around.
