Weatherman Cooperates, Easter Proved A Perfect Day

Services, Egg Hunts, Spring Finery, All Shared Exceptional Day

By virtue of splendid cooperation from the weatherman, Easter Sunday in Pitt County turned out to be perfect for large church attendance and for showing off the madame's spring finery.

The temperature here rose to 86 degrees, by far the fairest day of spring.

Some 400 children turned out in Winterville yesterday for the Kiwanians' first Easter egg hunt, and there were at least that many parents, from all over the county.

The dogwood and the Easter lilies bloomed as symbols of the religious season, the crucifixion of Christ and the tears shed by Mary at His death.

Light, spring clothes made their debut at church, as women dressed for the traditional advent of spring, a month after the actual seasonal change.

Friends and relatives were home for the holidays. There was turkey at many a family table.

The weatherman has said it is spring indeed. Starting with yesterday, he has predicted a week of warmth and sun, with temperatures expected to average two to six degrees above normal.

Rainfall will be light for the next five days, averaging about one tenth of an inch and occurring as widely scattered thundershowers. There is a chance of scattered thundershowers on Tuesday.

Today's temperatures will probably extend into the 80s, as the early morning temperatures had risen to 69 degrees by 6 o'clock.

The Tar River level was 5.6 feet and dropping, James Dixon of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported.

Police and fire departments agreed with the weatherman that it was a nice weekend, but in a different way. Assistant Fire Chief Jasper L. Jones said the fire department had recorded no rescue or fire calls on Easter Sunday.

At the police department, Major R. T. Rogerson said that very few arrests had been made for the entire weekend and things were quiet today—so far.

Today was a holiday throughout much of the county. By order of the Board of County Commissioners, all county offices and the courthouse were closed. Banks were closed, and some grocers took a holiday.

Both city and county schools were closed until Wednesday. However, there were those whose doors remained open today—federal offices and many of the merchants.

Six Killed In African Rioting

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Six persons were killed Sunday in mob rioting in the African township of Chifubu. Police patrols moved into the area to restore order.

The cause of the fighting was not known but the township has been aflame with political tensions over forthcoming elections.

Cottages Afire

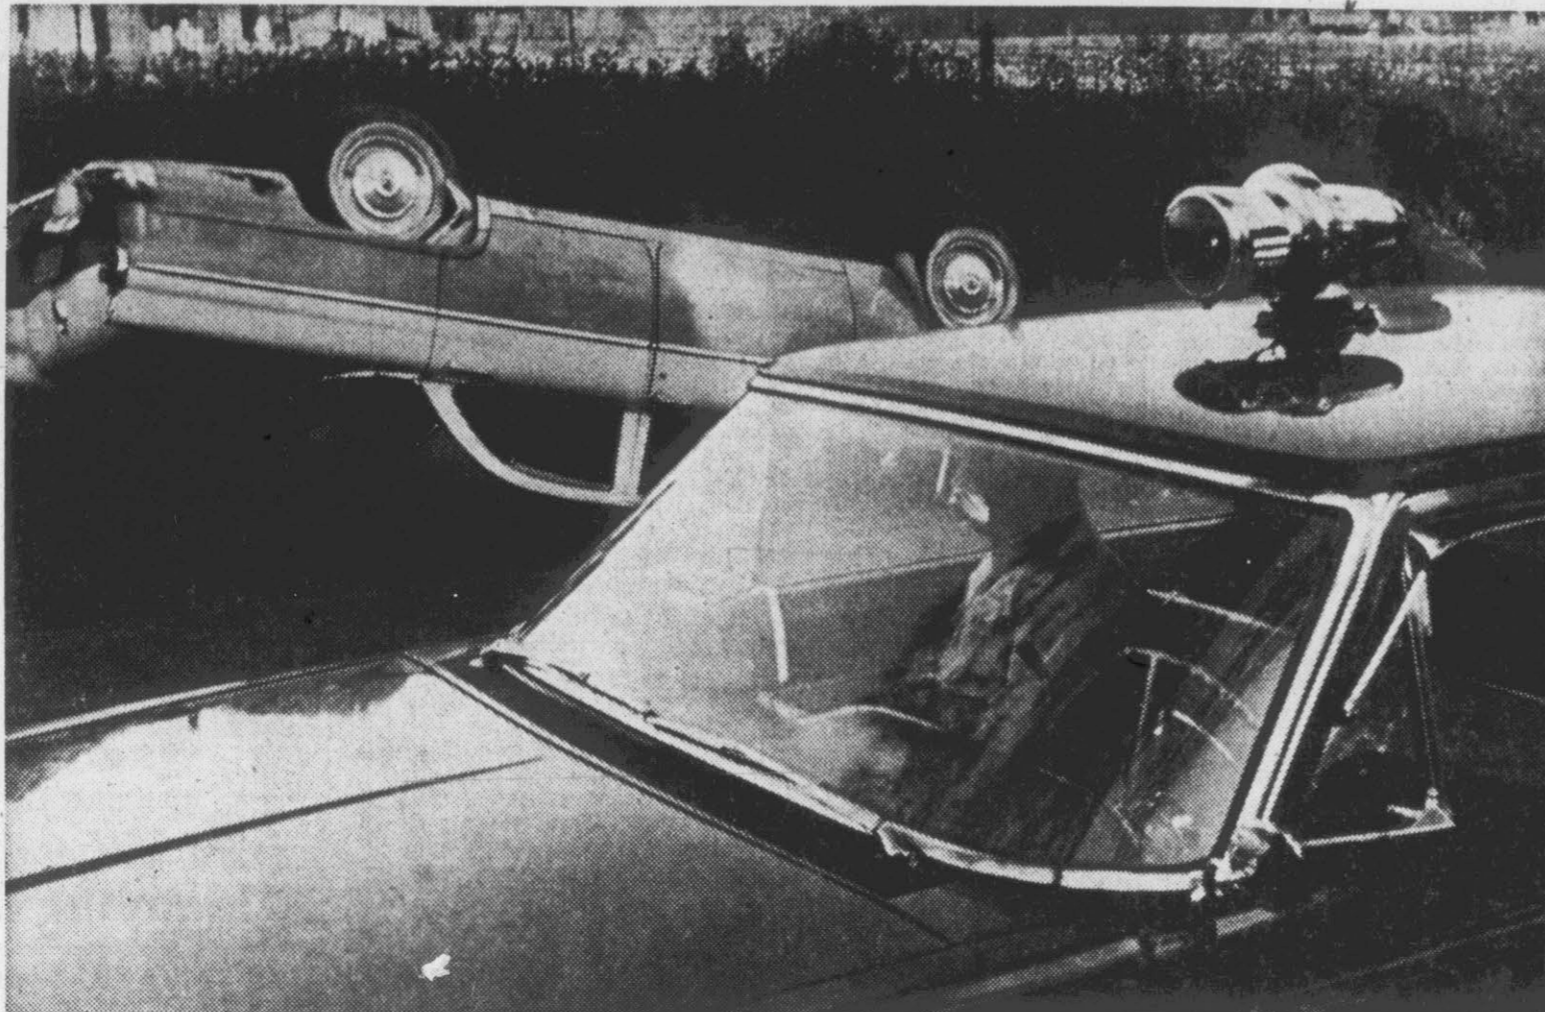

ATLANTIC BEACH—Two of three cottages were burning on the west end of Atlantic Beach around 1:30 today.

Several fire trucks were at the scene fighting the blaze. The cottages in flames are located on the south side of W. Atlantic Blvd within a block of the Atlantic Beach Hotel.

There had been a fire around 3 a.m. in a cottage in the same area. This was brought under control. However, the second fire broke out this morning.

The flames, whipped by a high wind, could still be seen at 1:30 p.m.

No Injuries Reported, But Car Upside Down

TOPSY TURVEYDOM prevailed for the driver of this vehicle which overturned on a rural paved road near Simpson Saturday afternoon. Patrolman W. L. Whitehead who investigated the crash charged the driver, Zeno Little of West Third St., Greenville, with operating under the influence of alcohol. Damage in the 5 p.m. crash was set at $400. No injuries were reported.

Wednesday Sees Windup Of Pitt's Big Tetanus Immunization Program

By PATRICIA MOORE, Reflector Staff Writer. Doors will open Wednesday at seven points in Greenville and 13 in Pitt County to wind up the countywide tetanus immunization program.

The purpose of the project, sponsored by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society, is to immunize as much of the general public as possible against tetanus. Dr. Charles Adams, president of the society noted that the present program is aimed more at adults than children since most children have received their immunization in the school health program.

The adult population here is believed to be inadequately immunized against tetanus, Dr. Adams says. Physicians point out that immunization against the disease is almost 100 percent effective and generally has no ill effect on the person, whereas the survival rate of those stricken with tetanus is about 40 percent.

Dr. Adams has said, "tetanus is still a real medical problem." Out of six tetanus cases at Pitt Memorial Hospital since it opened, two have died.

Another reason for obtaining the tetanus immunization is danger of reaction to the tetanus antitoxin, which is given to a person who has suffered an injury and who has not been properly immunized against tetanus. Dr. Adams again cited a fact from the local hospital records: in a two-and-a-half-year period there were 11 admissions at Pitt with acute or severe reaction to tetanus antitoxin.

Tetanus, commonly referred to as lockjaw, may be caused by a dirty wound. It may come from a scratch, an infected mosquito or chigger bite, superficial cuts or scratches on the wrist, palm or back of the hand, sole of the foot and slight abrasions of the knee or elbow.

A person who has been immunized against tetanus is usually given a "booster" shot at the time of such injury by his private physician to protect him further against the disease.

The person without such protection has to be given the antitoxin, which may result in hives, allergy or more serious reaction actually requiring hospitalization. Tetanus is caused by action on the nervous system of the poison produced by tetanus bacteria. First signs of the disease may be a local muscle spasm around the wound—but often a nerve and muscle of the face are affected, resulting in difficulty in opening the mouth—hence, the name lockjaw.

Immunization against tetanus lasts four years and possibly as long as 10 years in some people. Every man, woman and child, ages six months to 100 years, should be immunized.

Clinic points in Pitt County are staffed by a registered nurse and in most cases also a doctor. Physicians are giving both the tetanus toxoid immunization and booster shots for those whose immunization is up-to-date enough.

Those persons who are completing their tetanus toxoid immunization particularly are urged to go Wednesday to the clinic of their choice.

A materials fee of 50 cents is being asked, but immunization will be given regardless of ability to pay, Dr. Adams stated.

The immunization program here is part of an effort being made on a statewide basis and endorsed by the N. C. Medical Society, American Academy of General Practice and the N. C. State Board of Health. Several other counties in North Carolina have already held their programs while others, such as Wake, in the process of beginning the tetanus immunization drive.

Missiles And Warheads Figure In Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile and the submarine-launched Polaris rocket are expected to get their first trials with nuclear warheads in the new U.S. test series about to begin in the Pacific.

Pitt Man Killed In Auto Wreck

WASHINGTON — Beaufort County Coroner Bonner Paul reported a Pitt County man, Roosevelt Mills of Black Jack was instantly killed in an auto crash five and one-half miles south of here early Sunday morning.

According to the Coroner, Mills was alone in the vehicle at the time of the 1:15 a.m. accident on U.S. 17 near Chocowinity.

Paul explained that Mills lost control of the vehicle as it rounded a curve. The car hit a roadside ditch, then entered a wooded area where it struck a large stump. It then traveled 60 feet and crashed into a tree, wrapping the vehicle around the tree.

The vehicle was out of control for an estimated 100 yards, Paul explained. He ruled the death "accidental" due to an automobile collision.

Highway Patrolman Wesley Boykin of Washington investigated the fatal wreck, the coroner reported.

Death was due to a fractured neck and multiple injuries.

Informed sources suggested this probability today as T-day — the date for triggering the first U.S. atmospheric tests in nearly four years—appeared imminent.

The Minuteman and Polaris rate ahead of all other weapons, since they will form the core of U.S. nuclear striking power in the years ahead.

Both missiles have been tested with dummy warheads, but never mated with their nuclear tips.

Other rocket-type weapons developed since the 1958 test series also are due to be tested with nuclear warheads.

The Polaris, with a range of about 1,300 miles, is carried by eight submarines already in commission. The United States plans to deploy 41 of these submarines by 1967, each mounting 16 advance Polaris missiles capable of reaching 1,725 miles.

The Minuteman is scheduled to become combat ready in a few months. The first base for these 6,300-mile-range rockets is taking shape in Montana.

Ultimately 800 Minutemen will be deployed in underground bases about the United States, poised to strike back if this country is attacked.

Thousands of men and scores of ships of U.S. Task Force 8 are speeding preparations for the nuclear explosions in the air over the Pacific. The tests are expected to begin this week.

Some officials said the first blast could come within 48 hours, as the United States is getting set to conduct its first nuclear weapons test in the atmosphere since 1958, officials said they were convinced the Soviet Union was getting ready to fire off another series of its own. Last fall the U.S.S.R. set off about 50 atmospheric tests.

Indications are there will be perhaps three dozen U.S. tests in the next two or three months, all above the earth's surface and some probably hundreds of miles aloft.

Speculation on possible fields of U.S. testing has centered on missiles armed with warheads, the effects of nuclear blasts on radar and communications, the effects of a nuclear explosion might have on an enemy nuclear warhead, and research on a neutron bomb—a device which theorists say could destroy life without demolishing buildings.

One of the tests, the New York Daily News said today in a copy-right story will be the world's first live firing of a nuclear-armed, long-range ballistic missile—a Polaris launched under water from a nuclear-powered submarine, the fuse set for an air burst.

The search was renewed today for an outlaw fugitive who has threatened he won't be taken without killing someone.

Jack Harvey Davis, 29, was the object of a big posse which spent much of Easter Sunday combing through a wooded area.

Davis fled from the Weldon jail Friday night, after sawing through bars with a hacksaw which officers said was supplied by his mother and two brothers, who were charged with aiding and abetting in the escape.

He telephoned threats on the life of Police Chief Floyd Whitman from two stores which were broken into. Whitman said he considered the escaped prisoner armed and dangerous.

Superior Court Judge Joseph Parker of Windsor signed an order designating Davis an outlaw, thus giving any private citizen the right to shoot him if he fails to heed a warning to give himself up.

GRIFTON—The bloodmobile will be here tomorrow to collect 125 pints of blood. It will be stationed at the Christian Church from 12 noon until 6 p.m. under sponsorship of the Grifton Jaycees.

On Wednesday the bloodmobile will move to East Carolina College in Greenville, where it will be stationed at Wright Auditorium, with a quota of 125 pints of blood. Chairman W. K. Whichard said.

Mightiest Space Rocket Readied By U.S. For Try At Close-Up Moon Photos

By HOWARD BENEDICT, CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States readied its most powerful space rocket today for an attempt to propel the Ranger 4 spacecraft to the moon to snap television pictures and record scientific data.

The launch crew has an 87-minute period to fire the 10-story-tall Atlas-Agena B vehicle to put the spidery spacecraft on course for the 229,541-mile journey to the moon.

The shot is one of three major launchings scheduled this week by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The second test flight of the Saturn super-booster is set for Wednesday, and a U.S.-British international satellite is ticketed for firing Thursday.

The maiden flight of the high-energy Centaur rocket, postponed a fifth time Saturday, also may squeeze into the crowded schedule.

The complex Ranger 4 mission involves launching the Agena B second stage into a parking orbit 100 miles high. At the precise moment, the engine must be re-started to boost the spacecraft speed to 24,500 miles an hour to start it on its 60-hour trip.

Sixteen hours after launching, if all is going well, a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif., will send a signal to fire a midcourse motor to correct the vehicle's position and jockey it onto a collision course with the moon.

Early Thursday morning, when Ranger 4 is to be 5,000 miles from the moon's bright side, the 730-pound craft is to execute a terminal maneuver to point its television camera at the lunar landscape.

The camera begins operating at an altitude of 2,400 miles and transmits a picture to Goldstone every 10 seconds for 40 minutes down to an altitude of 15 miles.

The spacecraft then ejects a 12-inch sphere wrapped in a 24-inch coating of shock-absorbent balsawood. A tiny reverse rocket attached to the 89.3-inch ball slows the speed so it will land at a velocity of 80 to 120 miles an hour. The main body of the payload crashes at 6,000 miles and is destroyed.

The instrument package contains a seismometer, temperature gauge and radio transmitter designed to relay data to earth for at least 30 days.

The body wave data produced by moonquakes or meteor hits could determine if the moon has a crust similar to the Earth's.

Two other devices attached to the main body are to take measurements up to the point of impact. They are a gamma ray spectrometer to detect uranium, thorium, radium and potassium radioisotope emissions, and a radar antenna to test the moon's radar reflectivity.

If Ranger 4's capsule impacts, it will be the first active payload to land on the moon. Russia's crashed Lunik II on the moon in 1959, but it was destroyed instantly.

The Soviets also took the first pictures of the moon's previously unseen backside in 1959 with Lunik III, a wide-swinging earth satellite that zipped around the moon on its initial orbit.

The United States has fired seven previous rockets toward the moon in attempts to hit it, circle it or pass close to it. All failed.

Five Arrested In Investigation Of Counterfeiting

JACKSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Five men, two of the previously implicated in alleged counterfeiting operations, were arrested during the weekend and more than $100,000 in bogus $20 bills was seized.

Vernon D. Spicer, head of the Secret Service office in Charlotte, said these men were arrested: William Earl Baysden, 44, Jacksonville businessman; Glenn Humphrey, 38, and Norwood Whaley, 34, of nearby Richlands, employees in Baysden's furniture store; Edward D. Sparrow, 62, a printer arrested in Kinston; and Edward E. Thorpe, 55, arrested in Richmond, Va.

Baysden and Whaley were charged with possession and transfer of counterfeit money, the others with conspiracy, possession and transfer of counterfeit money. All waived preliminary hearing. Baysden was jailed in lieu of $75,000 bond, the others in lieu of $25,000 each.

Spicer said photographic negatives of money and counterfeit $20 bills were found at Sparrow's home. Sparrow has served two sentences on bad money charges.

On Sept. 9, 1958, Secret Service agents raided Baysden's store here and found $776,680 in counterfeit $20 bills in a deep freeze. He was convicted of manufacturing and possessing counterfeit money, but the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction because a search warrant was improperly drawn. Baysden has not been tried again.

Spicer said Baysden's arrest at 4 a.m. Sunday was "the result of several months of intensive investigation." The agent added that Baysden "passed" an estimated $100,000 of the counterfeit money late Saturday night to an unidentified person.

Baysden's wife disappeared from their home in 1952, and 24 hours later was found strangled in the family car, parked at Carolina Beach. Officers said $7,000 in cash that disappeared from the home at the same time never was recovered. The case is unsolved.

Another Large Forest Fire In Western N.C.

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (AP) — A hundred firefighters, aided by Forestry Service planes, appeared to be making progress today against a forest fire raging up the side of Dugger Mountain, five miles from the Blue Ridge Parkway.

The blaze broke out Sunday on the southeast slope of the 3,000-foot mountain. It's in the southwestern corner of Wilkes County, near the Watauga Line, and south of U. S. 421 which traverses Deep Gap.

The fire was reported to have started in a forest preserve owned by American Furniture Co. The preserve contains valuable hardwoods. Except for thinning, it had not been logged in 22 years.

The firm called its North Wilkesboro plant employees back to work today to join the fire brigades. They would have been off on Easter Monday.

The fire destroyed several hundred acres before the firefighters, using bulldozers, could cut fire blocks to check it and to protect the little settlement of Darby.

A report from the North Carolina Forestry Service early this morning said the fire appeared to be under control.

A check with one of the fire towers in the Rendezvous Mountain-Pore's Knob system at mid-morning indicated that there was still considerable fire, but that an observation plane spotting for the firefighters reported the situation looked much better.

About 75 men fought the fire Easter Sunday.

It was the latest in a series of forest fires in the foothills of North Carolina. On Thursday, a 57-year-old logger perished when trapped in a fire on Huckleberry Mountain, near Rutherfordton.

All burning permits in 33 counties in the mountains and Piedmont were cancelled Friday because of what the State Forestry Commission called "hazardous forest fire conditions."

Officials said the ban on burning will not be lifted until it rains.

Khrushchev Slated To Be Re-Elected

MOSCOW (AP) — The newly elected Supreme Soviet met today to reelect Premier Khrushchev and perhaps to hear him deliver a major policy speech.

Tass, the Soviet News agency, reported "stormy and prolonged applause" for government and Communist party leaders as they entered for the opening session.

Jan Pleva, president of the Academy of Sciences in Latvia, was elected chairman of the Soviet of Nationalities — the house which is chosen by regions — and Iran Spiridonov, a secretary of the Communist party's central committee, was chosen president of the Soviet of the Union — the chamber chosen on the basis of population.

Soviet leader, who said last week said he is working harder than ever, could be expected to review domestic and world issues.

American plans to hold new nuclear tests in the atmosphere were expected to come in for another tongue lashing from the Soviet premier. On the domestic front, Khrushchev's main worry is to give a boost to the nation's ailing agriculture.

The Supreme Soviet session is the first since elections last month, and more than 50 per cent of the members are new. They also will approve a new Soviet Cabinet. It is expected to be largely the same as the one Khrushchev has been heading but the only woman member, Minister of Culture Ekaterina Furtsava, may be dropped.

Miss Blount Bride Of Dr. Sellers Crisp

In an early evening ceremony at 6:00 o'clock on Saturday, April 21, Miss Florence Nelson Blount became the bride of Dr. Sellers Luther Crisp at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Dr. Edgar Fisher, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Key Blount of Greenville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Sellers Mark Crisp of Greenville and the late Dr. Crisp.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Paul Tull as organist and Mrs. Allison Hearne Moss as soloist.

The church was decorated with brass candelabras and palmella palms framed the vases of calla lilies on either side of the altar. Pews were marked with white satin bows and calla lilies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie with elbow length sleeves and a scooped neckline embroidered with tiny pearls which formed a floral design extending down a front panel on the bell shaped skirt. Her mantilla style veil of Brussels lace extended the length of her chapel train. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Melissa Peden of Raleigh was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Taft, Greenville; Miss Diana Hodges, Greenville; Miss Leigh Harvey, Kinston, all cousins of the bride, and Miss Grayson Waldrop of Charlotte. They wore roseberry pink silk organza gowns with pale pink and white appliques on the skirt. Their bouquets were of pale pink tulips and French lilies tied with pale pink satin.

Miss Carolina Warren, niece of the bridegroom, of Tyler, Tex., was the flower girl. She wore a white organza dress with a pleated bodice and a satin design of leaves and rosebuds at the waist. She carried a white satin basket trimmed in pink sweetheart roses filled with rose petals.

Dr. Frederick Warren Jr., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Tyler, Tex., served as best man. Ushers were Dr. John Wooten, James Little Jr., Edmund Hoover Taft III, cousin of the bride, and Charles Taft, cousin of the bride, all of Greenville.

Serving as groomsmen were Marvin Key Blount Jr. and William Gray Blount of Greenville, brothers of the bride; Cecil Bishop, Baltimore, Md.; Henry Paison, Charlotte; William Wooten, Chapel Hill; Dr. Charles Pace, Charlotte, Va.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Blount wore a dress of blue chiffon with sequined bodice complemented with a white hybrid orchid. Mrs. Crisp wore a chiffon dress of crystal fire with back panel of ruffles and a white orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip to Saint Thomas Island in the Caribbean, the bride chose a blue silk suit trimmed in brown with brown chignon blouse and blue straw hat.

The bride is a graduate of Saint Mary's Junior College in Raleigh, Duke University, Durham, and did graduate work at East Carolina College, Greenville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va.; Davidson College, Davidson; University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; and Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. At present he is fulfilling his residency in surgery at Baltimore City Hospital in Baltimore, Md.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a dinner and reception at their home on Rock Spring Road. The home was decorated with pink roses and spring flowers.

Guests were received in the formal garden, which was illuminated with firefly lights, by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Key Blount, and the bride and the bridegroom.

Small fountains were in the garden borders of shaded pink azaleas.

Dinner was served on the gallery, French lattice screens with mirrored panels formed the background for the buffet tables and silver punch fountains.

Guests were seated at small tables on the patio adjoining the gallery. The patio was lighted with torch flares and on the tables spring flowers and pink cloths were used.

In the lower garden a pagoda, decorated with garlands of greens and pink roses, was where Donald Hayes and his orchestra played for dancing.

Wedding Breakfast
Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taft, Mr. and Mrs. William Taft, Miss Anna Taft, Charles Taft, all of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Dudley III of Danville, Va. honored Miss Florence Nelson Blount and Dr. Sellers Crisp at a wedding breakfast Saturday at 12:00 noon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The hosts, honored couple and bridegroom greeted guests on the patio where fruit juice was served from a silver punch bowl. Guests were served a three-course luncheon buffet style. Individual tables set up for the guests had center arrangements of wedding bells and hosta ivy. The bride's table, which was in a horseshoe shape, featured a center arrangement of white snapdragons, sweetheart roses and baby's breath with other flowers on the bride's table in cupid vases. At each place was a rice bag made of net tied with ribbon and lilies-of-the-valley.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of white sweetheart roses. Following the luncheon toasts were made to the bride and groom.

Those present were members of the wedding party, families, and out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Leighton Blount of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Leighton Blount Jr. of Bethel, and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Harvey III of Kinston entertained at an after-rehearsal party for members of the Crisp-Blount wedding party and out-of-town guests at the Greenville Golf and Country Club on Friday night.

The club house was decorated with a green and white color motif. The appointed table featured a five-branched candelabra as the centerpiece, flanked on either side by old English candelsticks with epergnettes holding white bridal flowers. During the evening a buffet dinner was served.

Buffet Dinner
A buffet dinner party honoring the out-of-town guests and the wedding party of the Crisp-Blount wedding was given Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoover Taft in Brookgreen. Mr. and Mrs. Taft and Mr. and Mrs. Moulton B. Massey Jr. were the hosts. Receiving at the front door were Mr. and Mrs. Taft, Miss Blount, Dr. Crisp, and Mr. and Mrs. Massey.

Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Blount, aunt and uncle of the bride-elect, directed guests to the terrace where punch was served. Serving punch were Miss Anna Taft, Miss Diana Hodges, Hoover Taft III and Charles Taft, cousins of the honoree. The punch table, overlaid with a white lace cloth, was decorated with wedding bells and candles.

Massive arrangements of spring flowers were used in decorating the home. In the entrance hall on the console table was an arrangement of azaleas, lilies, iris, and hyacinths in shades of pink to purple. The focal point in the living room was an arrangement of tulips, pink perfection camellias, grape hyacinths and pink dogwood centering the mantel. Elsewhere in the living room were similar arrangements carrying out the pink color motif.

In the dining room Mrs. M. K. Blount, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Fred Warren, sister of the bridegroom, served the three-course buffet from either end of the table. Mrs. W. H. Taft and Mrs. Wither Dudley poured coffee. Centering the dining table, overlaid with an imported lace cloth, was an arrangement of white snapdragons, azaleas and roses in an antique silver epergne, and on the sideboard in a silver compote were white azaleas, iris and tulips.

Guests were seated at auxiliary tables set up in the living room, library and porch.

Stag Luncheon
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah and Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner were hosts at barbecue luncheon Friday honoring Dr. Sellers Crisp and his groomsmen, ushers and close friends. The luncheon was served in the garden of the Hannah home on the Ayden Highway.

Aware Of Job That Must Be Done

Action of the State Advisory Budget Commission in approving financing for a new women's dormitory for East Carolina will put the college in a considerably better position to meet demands being made upon it by young people seeking a college education.

The decision of the Commission in approving application for a $1.1 million federal loan for constructing the dorm reflects a sound, farsighted realization that institutions of higher education in North Carolina cannot do the job expected of them unless they are provided necessary facilities with which to do the job.

Originally the proposed women's dormitory was to be financed half by a federal loan and half by state bonds. Defeat of the bond issue last November, however, eliminated the proposed state financing. There remained only the alternatives of financing the entire cost through a federal loan or shelving plans for the dorm until such time as state funds might be available for the construction.

Officials at East Carolina are to be commended for their recommendation that the dormitory be financed entirely through a federal loan rather than indefinitely pigeon-haling plans for the much needed facility. The Advisory Budget Commission is likewise to be commended for having the courage to give its approval to the procedure rather than following what might have been an easier course of turning down the request.

Party Machine Is Ready To Roll

By LYNN NISBET
MACHINERY Democratic party machinery is being inspected and oiled up ready to begin rolling on Saturday of next week, May 5. That is the date set for meetings of Democratic voters in every precinct in North Carolina to complete the local organization and name delegates to the county conventions.

This first step in the party process is also the last one in which the individual has a full vote. For that reason it is highly important that every registered Democrat attend the meeting in person.

New rules of procedure adopted by the State committee some weeks ago will apply to all party meetings this year, but the precinct continues the unit of action, the starting point for all activity. At the meetings next Saturday the voters of the precinct will select an executive committee of five members, at least two of whom must be men and two women. This committee then will elect a chairman and a vice chairman, one man and one woman, who automatically become members of the county executive committee.

The precinct also will elect delegates to the county convention on the basis of one vote in the convention for every 50 votes cast in the next preceding general election for the Democratic candidate for Governor. If desired double the number of delegates can be chosen with half a vote each.

In other words, the precinct which cast 600 votes for Governor Sanford in November of 1960 will have 12 votes in the county conventions and may name 24 persons to cast them. DELEGATES The precinct is the only place an individual voter can make his ballot count. After that the whole process is handled by delegates. The delegates are bound to support action of the precinct when instructed to do so, but many questions will come up in the county convention on which the delegates will have to vote their own conviction. Attendance at precinct meetings has been better in recent years than it used to be, but is still far from representative. It is not unusual for precincts with 1,000 or more registered voters to have less than two dozen at the precinct meeting. Small precincts have had difficulty getting enough participants to elect the required committee and delegates.

Besides being the most important of all party meetings, the precinct offers the best opportunity for "monkey business" in event someone wants to pull a trick. Meetings are held at times and places fixed by the county chairman. They usually are held at the voting place, at two o'clock in rural precincts and eight o'clock in large towns and cities. It behooves every voter to ascertain the hour set for his meeting, and to determine the exact place. There have been instances when the meetings were called for a school house or a fire station without designating the room. Rival groups have been known to assemble at the same time in different rooms, each claiming to be the official meeting. Such conflict and confusion is easy to avoid by every voter watching out to see that the rules are complied with.

REGISTRATION—Next Saturday also is the starting point in the process of electing public officials. In that process both Democrats and Republicans participate. Registration books will be at the polling places at 6:30 that morning and will remain open for registration of voters until sundown on Saturday, May 19—though not required to be at the polling places except on Saturdays. Just as party machinery starts at precinct the whole process of election depends upon action taken there. The precinct ballot box is the only place any citizen can cast a vote. Even absentee ballots marked in some far away military post come back to the home precinct of the voter before they can be counted. All voters except those in military service must appear in person at the polling place and cast his ballot—and he cannot cast a ballot unless he has been properly registered as a qualified voter.

In the April monthly election of the bank there is a tabulation of 3,557 corporations for 1961 and 1960. The broad classifications used by the bank and the number of companies are: manufacturing (2,139); mining (511); trade (331); transportation (205); public utilities (248); services (181); and finance (403).

Total net profits after taxes for this group was $21.1 billion in 1960 and $21.4 billion in 1961. This is an increase of only one percent. We say "only" because 1960 was a period of generally declining business, and 1961, after the first quarter, was on the upgrade, and ended the year at the highest level ever.

Such aggregates are important primarily from the viewpoint of taxes, and for revealing how business as a whole is getting along. For all other purposes one needs to look at more detailed figures, and here one finds enormous variations. In the manufacturing field the greatest increase was aircraft and space (69 percent) and second was office computing equipment (29 percent). At the other extreme was shoes, leather, etc. (down 36 percent), followed by railway equipment and automotive parts (each down 28 percent). Incidentally, 72 iron and steel companies revealed a drop from 1960 to 1961 of 15 percent. For manufacturing as a whole there was no change between the two years.

Mining revealed a 9 percent increase and trade a 2 percent rise. In transportation there was a drop of 14 percent for 106 class-

In order to repay the loan for the new dormitory, rental charges to students will have to be increased slightly by East Carolina College. It is evident, however, that the increase will not be sufficiently large to be regarded unreasonable and there is little possibility that the difference between the new rental charge and the old dormitory rentals will be sufficient to put a college education out of the economic reach of any prospective student.

On the other side of the coin, facilities will be available for more students. The merits in favor of the proposition far outweigh any shortcomings that one could find in the plan for financing the new dormitory.

Could Be Beginning Of The End For OAS

Capture of ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, leader of the Secret Army Organization in Algeria could spell the beginning of the end for this terrorist military organization which has bathed the North African country in blood in recent months.

Salan's capture was the latest of severe blows to the OAS which has carried out its terrorist activities in an effort to prevent establishment of a free Algeria. His removal from the Algerian scene leaves the Secret Army without the strength of a known leader who could be a rallying point for supporters of the effort. Coming on the heels of evidence that French forces in Algeria are making a real effort to stamp out the OAS, Salan's capture must be viewed as an incident that will significantly shorten the days of the terrorist group as an effective organization.

There will still be terrorism, wanton slayings and the like by the Secret Army in Algeria for weeks and perhaps months to come. It should be expected, however, that these will gradually decline and that the movement will be more quickly crushed now that Salan is in the hands of French authorities under the direction of deGaulle.

For Algeria Salan's capture is another ray of sunlight through the dark clouds that have hung over the country and its people for more than seven years.

Corporations Profit Report

By RALPH ROBEY

Government figures on corporate profits always are late in relation to the period covered. As this is written, for example, the latest data released by the Administration are for the third quarter of 1961. This is not a deliberate delay on the part of the government. It is merely that since there has to be substantial estimation, the Administration is extremely careful in publishing a figure.

Fortunately, the First National City Bank of New York for many years has been making a tabulation of profits from corporate annual reports. There is no estimation involved in the bank's work. It is a sheer classification and addition, and although the bank may reflect a point of view in its editorial comments, the figures are as given by the corporations involved. In the April monthly election of the bank there is a tabulation of 3,557 corporations for 1961 and 1960. The broad classifications used by the bank and the number of companies are: manufacturing (2,139); mining (511); trade (331); transportation (205); public utilities (248); services (181); and finance (403).

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
GLADNESS IN THE CITY OF GOD

When the army of King Sennacherib was besieging Jerusalem centuries ago, the first thing he did was to cut off the aqueduct that supplied the city with water. We can imagine his saying, "I'll starve them by cutting off their water supply. This will bring them to me." But what Sennacherib did not know was that within the city was the Pool of Siloam made by an unfailing spring which was adequate to keep the people from perishing. It is believed that about that time were written the words of the 46th Psalm: "There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God." We may take "the city of God" to mean the church of Christ, or the reli-one railroads and an increase of 85 percent for 18 common-carrier trucking companies. For the industry as a whole, the result was a 17 percent decline.

Public utilities had a 6 percent increase, and services, which include construction, rose by 26 percent. All branches of finance, except real estate, enjoyed an increase, the average being 3 percent.

The bank also calculates the rate of return on net assets. For the manufacturing group as a whole the rate dropped from 10.6 percent in 1960 to 10.1 percent in 1961. For the entire list of companies covered the decline was from 9.1 percent to 8.7 percent.

There also is a tabulation on profit per dollar of sales. Some concerns do not give enough detail in their annual report to make possible such a calculation, but the bank says about nine out of ten do. Again manufacturing shows a drop—from 5.5 to 5.4 percent. For the list as a whole, however, the figure was unchanged at 5.6 percent.

For the economy as a whole this is not an encouraging profit picture. Some companies, of course, are doing quite well profitwise, but others are having great difficulty making enough profit to meet their dividends, and far too many are finding it impossible to equal the level of a year earlier. This necessarily curtails the incentive for capital investment which we, as a nation, must have.

Inflation Affects Silver

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Talking about inflation, it has been historical experience that when there is no metal support for currency, inflation occurs and the currency loses in value, that is, in purchasing power. I know of no data which upsets this basic principle and experience about money. Perhaps the United States Treasury has come into possession of such data.

On November 27, 1961, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon wrote a letter to the President in which he explained the present position of silver in the world and in the United States. He then made the following proposal to the President:

"I propose that we now begin an actual though gradual, withdrawal of silver bullion from the currency reserves, permitting substitution of federal reserve notes for the silver certificates withdrawn, and using the bullion thereby released to meet our continually heavy coinage requirements."

It would seem to me that this is another step in the withdrawing of metal support for the dollar. On November 23, 1961, President Kennedy wrote Secretary of the Treasury Dillon as follows:

"On the basis of your recommendations and the studies conducted by the Treasury and other departments, I have reached the decision that silver metal should gradually be withdrawn from our monetary reserves."

"Simultaneously with the publication of this letter, you are directed to suspend further sales of 'free' silver, and to suspend use of 'free' silver held by the Treasury for coinage. In this way, the remaining stock and any subsequently acquired can be used, at your discretion, to contribute to the maintenance of an orderly market in silver and for such other special purposes as you may determine. In order to meet coinage needs, the amount of silver required for this purpose should be obtained by retirement from circulation of a sufficient number of five-dollar and ten-dollar silver certificates.

"Pursuant to this general determination, I intend to recommend to Congress, when it reconvenes, that it repeal the acts relating to silver of 1934, 1936, 1939, and 31 July, 1946. The existing tax on transfers of interest in silver bullion has been necessary only to provide reinforcement for this legislation. I will therefore simultaneously propose that the relevant portion of the Internal Revenue Code also be repealed."

"These actions will permit the establishment of a broad market for trading in silver on a current and forward basis comparable to the markets in which other commodities are traded. Our new policy will in effect provide for the eventual demonetization of silver except for its use in subsidiary coinage."

Although the potential supply of silver now embodied in the outstanding five-dollar and ten-dollar certificates will be sufficient to cover coinage requirements for a number of years, I believe this is an appropriate time to provide for the gradual release of the silver certificates. I shall therefore also recommend that legislation be enacted to accomplish this purpose and authorize the Federal Reserve Banks to include these denominations in the range of notes they are permitted to issue.

Sincerely,
John F. Kennedy

The publication of this letter, indicating "the eventual demonetization of silver except for its use in subsidiary coinage," did not startle Europe where the American inflation is being watched both as a political and an economic phenomenon. The end of the year 1961 brought to a virtual end bi-metalism in the United States and as gold cannot, under law, be exchanged for currency by an American but may be by a European or an Asiatic, the American dollar has only such metal support as the Treasury owns gold.

During the Hoover and Roosevelt Administrations, Senators Borah and Pittman fought valiantly for bi-metalism in the (Continued on page five)

List Of Special Stocks

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — A book has recently been prepared by Mr. H. G. Olson of my organization, giving charts, earnings, prices, etc., for the common stocks of 100 well-known companies. In view of the high level of the Dow Jones Industrial Average (up from 262 ten years ago to around 700 today), I have made a partial analysis of these 100 stocks. The book should interest every investor.

RAILROADS AND AIRLINES Of course, the principal railroads are in this list, with the Pennsylvania & New York Central included. No wonder they are trying to merge today as their only salvation. Among the other railroad stocks which have had a hectic record are the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific; the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; the Reading Co.; and the Erie - Lackawanna.

The stocks which have suffered the most are the airplane stocks. Trans-World Airlines one of the largest, sold at $80 per share in 1946 and is selling around $10 today. When we consider the aircraft manufacturers, we find that Douglas Aircraft Co. which I consider one of the best, sold at $95 in 1956; but sells for less than $40 today. Eastern Air Lines sold at nearly $60 in 1955; but sells today at nearly half that price.

AUTOMOBILES AND FOOTWEAR

Among the active high-grade automobile stocks is that of the Chrysler Corporation, which comes next, in my opinion, to General Motors and Ford as the best three. Chrysler stock has dropped from about $100 in 1952 and 1955 to around $50 today. The Ford stock was brought out at about $70 a share in 1956, but soon slumped below $40 due to sales by "free riders" looking for a quick profit. Ford climbed above $90 in 1959; again fell to $60, but is now near $100.

Whether or not the increase in automobile riding has raised havoc with the shoe industry, I leave to you readers. The stocks of two large shoe manufacturers — International Shoe Co. and Endicott Johnson Corp. — have had an unfortunate record. The International Shoe stock has dropped from about $50 to less than $30; while Endicott Johnson has declined from $50 to $20 today. The same trend applies to men's and women's clothing as shown in the record of Bond Stores, Inc., and to floor covering companies such as Congoleum-Nairn.

FARM AND OTHER MACHINERY STOCKS

I am sorry to see that J. I. Case's stock has declined from nearly $40 in 1951 to less than $10 today. It has paid no dividends since 1955 but manufactures a full line of good farm and earth-moving machinery, such as the farmers prosperous and the great roadbuilding campaign ahead, it seems to me this company should do better or else change its management. I think it is now taking needed action. Let us hope so.

Another machine company which is being honestly operated, at Waterbury, Conn., is the Scovill Manufacturing Co. The stock of this company sold at nearly $50 per share in 1945-46, had "downs and ups" since then and now sells at about $25 per share. The Rheem Manufacturing Co.'s stock sold at $45 in 1955, dropped to $10 in 1957, and now sells around $15. Foote Mineral's stock sold at $60 in 1957 and now sells around $20 per share. I have faith in this company.

NEW MINING COMPANIES

One of the most interesting mining stocks is that of the U. S. Smelting, Refining, & Mining Co. This sold at over $80 per share in 1946 and again in 1952. It has sold at $40 or lower since 1957. New Jersey Zinc sold at over $80 per share in 1951 but now sells for less than half this. Island Creek coal sold at over $50 per share in 1956 and now sells for about half this. Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting sold around $100 in 1956; now sells for $55. Consolidated Mining & Smelting showed a similar trend. Most of the steel companies are doing well; but the stock of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., which sold above $35 in 1956-57 has recently sold at $10.

Politics As Seen By Businessman

By ELMER ROESSNER

Arnold H. Maremont, president of Maremont Corp., and Allied Paper Corp., chairman, appears to be striking out as a maverick among industrialists.

In a discussion before the American Association of Industrial Editors meeting in New York, the Chicagoan declared "I am completely against the idea of businessmen entering politics or government merely as spokesmen for business. We have enough lobbies and associations and chambers of commerce protecting business interests as it is without individual businessmen corrupting themselves as human beings."

Mr. Maremont, who has been active in the Democratic Party, said that he had heard the argument that since the government will not stay out of business, business has to assert its wishes before it is clobbered by more regulations. "This, of course, implies that business has no faith in lobbyists or its chambers of commerce.

"As a businessman I have no faith in these associations either. Our Chamber of Commerce is caught up in a kind of McKinley administration attitude of 'no regulations' that it is about as effective as a eunuch."

"Actually the businessman does have a business concern in government and should be naive to pretend that he doesn't. But there's a vast difference between going into politics to protect vested interests and becoming involved politically for human interests — as a human being, a citizen, an American. "Never forget that this is how democracy functions — by the reconciliation of the best interests of many conflicting groups. He who wants a voice in the legislation which shapes — not merely his business but the totality of his life — has a legitimate reason to want to make his ideas heard."

"WHAT'S GOOD FOR GENERAL MOTORS"

When a corporation gets into politics, it is always because it has an axe to grind, he said. "The axe is the wish to advance the business ideology of the corporation. And while this is understandable, it is a thoroughly perverse reason. It's not good for the corporation and it's certainly not good for the country."

"What is best for General Motors, or General Foods, or General Electric, or general business self-interest is not necessarily best for everyone else. "Somehow we have become prey to the cliches that the less government the better. In a nation of 180 million people, with all the attendant complexities, there just cannot be less government. What there can be is less inefficient government. Like it or not, we are living in an era of big government and big restrictions. "Regardless of our political affiliations, we have just got to accept this fact. But we do not need to accept mismanagement in government, corruption in government, or foolish decisions in government. We, as businessmen, must be realistic enough to see that we cannot abdicate our responsibilities in government, for, if we do so, we resign from participation in regulations that affect us from cradle to grave."

TAPE FILE TO CHECK ORIGINALITY OF TRADE-MARKS

A million trademarks registered in the United States and 21 other countries are being recorded on magnetic tape by the Service Bureau Corp. of Detroit. When the task is completed in September, the company will be able to determine quickly whether a proposed trademark conflicts with any registered.

Within two years, trademarks of almost all other countries will be added to the tape file.

Final Rehearsals For Dixieland Minstrelmen

"DOIN' WHAT COMES NATURALLY" is the name of the number, and six men of the Greenville Moose are shown rehearsing one of the dances in the Dixieland Minstrel scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday nights. The dancers include, Bill Smith, Sam Brooks, Lloyd Wilson, Frank Kilpatrick, Boyd Cox and Charles McLawhorn. (Photo by S. L. Rowland)

The 1962 Dixieland Minstrel heads into its final rehearsals with every indication of entertaining presentations Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Starting at 8:00 p.m., the production includes a number of "firsts" in producer-director Eli Bloom's minstrel career.

For the first time, says Bloom, there will be a mixed chorus of 24 voices, with the male contingent coming from the Society for the Preservation of Barber-shop Quartets.

Another "first" will be utilization of a professional musical organization, the Bob Jones Orchestra, in the program. Special numbers include a five-string banjoist, and Elbert Bennett is programmed for vocal numbers. Dance groups figure heavily too, in the entertainment, as do six end-men to sustain the comedy department.

Inclusion of "strobolite" techniques in certain numbers promises a surprise for audiences, and Bloom terms the stage sets designed by Donna Tabar as "the most elaborate I've ever seen in an amateur production."

The stage in the air-conditioned Moose Lodge auditorium has been enlarged especially for the minstrel and parking space poses no problems.

Sponsored for the first time by Greenville Women of the Moose, this nineteenth minstrel directed by Bloom is described as having qualities of variety and tempo that will make it a standout event.

Of all these stocks Montgomery Ward shows one of the widest fluctuation. It sold at $50 per share in 1955 and 1959; but is now again about $35. Of the variety stores, S. S. Kresge Co., operating nearly 800 stores, sold at $45 in 1950 and is now selling around $30. Let me close by saying that the stock of the United Fruit Co. sold above $70 in 1951; is now about $25.

In the above review I have mentioned only about twenty-five or so of the one hundred depressed stocks which Mr. Olson has selected. Of the remaining issues, there are many which are probably more attractive than those described above. An investor should study all in order to realize these two facts: (1) Just because the Dow-Jones Average has been going up almost constantly during the past ten years, this does not mean that all stocks have been going up in price. (2) There must be some great bargains in the popular listed stocks which have money-making possibilities for those who will search for them.

Non-Farm Jobs Hit March High

RALEIGH (AP) — A record for the month of March was set by non-farm employment in North Carolina last month.

State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane reported today the total of 1,199,900 was up 21,000 over the total for March, 1961.

However, the figure represented a slip of 300 from the previous month of February, according to the Labor Department report. Crane blamed seasonal declines in tobacco stemmings, and in food products.

Both factory employment of 506,800, and non-manufacturing jobs of 693,100 were record highs for the month of March. Compared with the same month last year, it represented a gain of 12,900 in factory employment, and 8,000 in non-manufacturing lines.

There was a two-cent advance in average hourly earnings of factory workers, which stood at $1.64 in March. The average factory workweek increased slightly to 40.9 hours, and average weekly earnings went up $1.31 to $67.08. March employment gains included: apparel industries, 500; chemicals, 400; machinery, 300; cigarette factories, 200; retail trade, 500; service industries, 500; federal government, 600; and finance, insurance and real estate, 200.

Incident Signals 'Together Again'

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A teen-ager dashed from a crowd of onlookers onto a platform Sunday and kissed the pretty winner of an Easter parade at a shopping center.

Just as quickly, the boy left the platform and disappeared.

The startled winner, Janice McKnight, 15, said the unexpected buss came from her boy friend, Don Hutcheson of Huntsville.

"We just broke up today," she said, "but I guess we're back together again now."

As recently as the end of 1960 and the beginning of 1961, the London market reported a large exodus of silver from China.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco Mosaic is one of our oldest known diseases. It is caused by a highly contagious virus. The virus is spread by contact and has been known to live in cured and stored tobacco for 50 years.

Mosaic usually originates in the plant bed and is caused by the Mosaic virus in manufactured tobacco coming in contact with the young tobacco seedlings. Once the infested plant is transplanted in the fields it is easy to spread the disease to other plants by contact.

Losses caused by this disease vary to some extent between seasons but little progress has been made in reducing losses during the past 25 years.

Considerable research has been done on the use of plain, ordinary milk for the control of Mosaic of tobacco. It has been found that the use of milk in any form at transplanting time will greatly reduce losses. Two types of treatment have been used:

(1) Spraying — This consists of spraying the plant bed 24 hours before pulling the plants with five gallons of whole or skimmed milk, or five pounds of dried skim milk mixed with five gallons of water applied to 100 square yards of bed.

(2) Dipping — This consists of dipping the hands about every 20 minutes in whole or skim milk, or a mixture of one pound of dried skim milk to one gallon of water. The hands are dipped during pulling and transplanting in the field.

In experiments conducted to test the effect of milk in controlling this disease, hands of workers handling tobacco plants were contaminated with the Mosaic virus. Plots of tobacco were planted where treatment was not used, where the plants were sprayed, where the hands were dipped and where spray and dip was used.

At the Whiteville Station the spray treatment produced 446 more pounds of tobacco per acre and sold for $326.00 per acre more than the tobacco grown in the untreated check plot. The dip treatment was more effective than the spray.

When both spray and dip treatments were used the per acre yield and values was higher than when either spray or dip treatments were used.

If Mosaic has been a serious problem on your farm in the past, it would probably be a good idea for you to try the milk treatment on your farm this year to help prevent the losses caused by Mosaic.

New Pitt Demonstration House To Open Thursday

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County's first extension demonstration house, designed for modern country living and built by Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Worthington of the Ballas Crossroads Community, will be open to the public on Thursday.

The Worthingtons, in return for planning assistance received from the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service in the building of their new home, plan to show it to other people at an open house from 3 until 5 p. m. and 7:30 until 9:30 p. m. on Thursday.

Mrs. Sue B. May, Pitt home economics agent, and Sam Winchester, farm agent, will be present with other extension personnel to answer questions about the house.

The home consists of three bedrooms, two and a half baths, a large family room area and modern kitchen with built-in appliances, utility room and living room.

After living in a trailer for seven years the Worthingtons began looking for suitable house plans but found most of them were designed more for city than country living. They then consulted the Extension Service, which occasionally gives the advice of its experts for extension demonstration homes. The local home agent's and farm agent's offices worked consistently with the Worthingtons, lending advice and assistance where it was desired in selection of wall paper, tile, linoleum, and colors, as well as landscaping and making of curtains. The extension service furnished the house plans.

The result has been pleasing to all.

Family Room

One of the most attractive features of the home is the spacious family room, which carries out an early American decor, and the adjoining kitchen which has all the cabinets women yearn for.

In the kitchen, the stove and oven are both built in and are finished in coppertone. The refrigerator fits into a neat space made especially for it. Patty Jean Worthington pointed out that she tried to get a refrigerator with as little freezing space as possible, since she and her husband have purchased a large stand-up freezer for the utility room.

The shelves in the kitchen are of all types and sizes—there is a tray shelf cabinet, a sliding dough or cutting board and cabinets large and small, wide and narrow. There is one for every imaginable item in the kitchen.

Birch Paneling

All the paneling in the family and kitchen area is of birch, with floors of inlaid linoleum carrying out the beige color scheme with a touch of yellow and pumpkin. Curtains in the family room are oxburg, an oatmeal color.

The effect: light, airy and clean looking—a room one might like to copy.

An accompanying picture shows the dining area of this room, plus all the cabinet space and a built-in desk. The round dining table is maple, with six matching chairs. Not in sight are the sofa and chairs, of early American design, covered in green and brown print material.

There is a fireplace, which Patty Jean says is for use rather than for show, and a built-in cabinet for television beside it.

The utility room is another homemaker's dream, with an upright freezer, double sink, more cabinets and a built-in sewing compartment. Here print curtains were used. A fresh-looking half bath adjoins it, carrying out a green color scheme.

Of the three bedrooms, the master bedroom carries out the early American theme, while the others are used as a nursery for young Donna and a guest room furnished with French provincial furniture.

Adjoining the master bedroom is a whole bath, featuring a round sink, glassed in shower and oatmeal color scheme. The guest bath is pink tile, with white wall paper and a touch of pink, and all pink utilities. Patty Jean pointed out that the wall paper affords relief from a "too-heavy" pink atmosphere. This was one of Mrs. May's suggestions, she said.

Patty Jean made all her curtains, after members of the local home agent's office showed her how. They also helped her in selection of colors and fabric for draperies.

C. J. Goodman of the farm agent's office suggested the landscaping, which accents the home by use of white and watermelon-red azaleas.

The extension service designed the house plans after conferring with the Worthingtons, who made only slight changes afterwards. Construction of the home is of Roman brick, and the walls and ceiling, which are insulated, are plaster. The house has a heated area of about 1,880 square feet. In addition, there is a 76 square foot porch and a 440 square foot carport.

The Worthingtons are members of Red Oak Christian Church. Worthington is a well known Pitt County farm manager.

Two Stricken In Easter Services

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Two members of St. John's Evangelical church suffered fatal heart attacks during Easter services Sunday.

George Frederick Kretschmer, 73, a retired manufacturer, collapsed first. While he was being given first aid, Catherine Smith Tretz, 75, a retired seamstress, was stricken.

Both were dead on arrival at a hospital.

SITTING SECTION . . . of the family room area carries out an early American decor, used also in other rooms of the home. Patty Jean and Chester Worthington noted they plan to use the above fireplace—it's not just for show! (Photo by N.C. Extension Service.)

Palm Tree Crop Ruined, He's Back To Rags Again

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Henry C. Soto stood forlornly in the dust, staring at his millions of little wilted palm trees—row after row of them. They represented his biggest dream.

From rags to riches and now, almost overnight, back toward rags. "That's the story of my life," he said.

"About the time you think you have it made, the sky falls on you."

Gone, he says, is his hope of putting miniature palm trees and other tropical plants into homes all over the United States and Canada—of getting Americans to plant tropical gardens in their homes—and of making himself a mint in the process.

"It's all down the drain," he said, "five years of work and investment shot. We're washed up."

Until a week ago the ex-Arizona farmer considered himself rich and by most folks' standards, he was. He is one of the largest landscape contractors in the business, lives in a home worth several hundred thousand dollars with a sweeping ocean view. He hoped to net at least a million dollars a year from indoor palm trees sold through supermarket and department store chains.

He employed 100 people to package the 30-inch palms in airtight wrappers, sold more than 100,000 trees last year sampling public demand. He hoped to sell palms at a 10,000-a-day clip. He waited for his palms to reach the age of 4 years, when they could be sold.

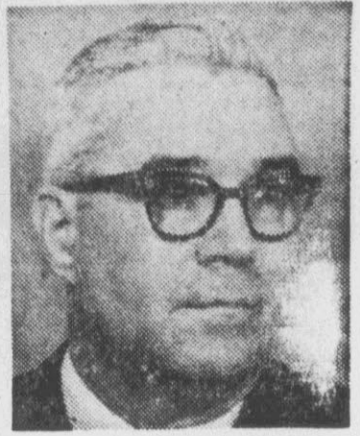

The rains were heavy this year. Weeds grew between the rows of thickly planted palms. Last month the 30 acres was sprayed for weed control. Five weeks ago trees began to wither. Soto says. One month later: 100 per cent loss.

Nobody knows what went wrong, Soto says. Experts are trying to find out. He tried the one thing specialists said might save the crop: flooding with water. It made the young trees die even faster. Insurance prospects are up in the air, he says. It would take four years to recoup in any case.

Soto estimates he lost 8 to 10 million little palms worth $3 million wholesale.

BAD SEEDS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Amateur gardener Carl Lee Noble couldn't understand why he was arrested. He said a friend gave him some seed and he put them in a flower box to grow. Narcotics agents said they grew into marijuana plants.

Indians Climb To Lead As They Defeat Yankees

By JACK BAUER Associated Press Sports Writer Who said Yankee Stadium is an graveyard for Cleveland managers? Mel McGaha must think the old hoodoo was just a paper tiger. It was 2 1/2 years and three managers ago that the Indians last won a doubleheader in the Bronx until McGaha brought the 1962 Cleveland club to town. In fact they hadn't won a single game here since May 12, 1960 in the last days of the reign of Joe Gordon.

The Indians didn't win only a doubleheader. They vaulted all the way into the American League lead by 25 percentage points over Baltimore. They shot the New York Yankees' vaunted pitching staff full of holes, collecting a total of 28 hits while winning two 7-5 and 6-3.

While the Cleveland club was enjoying the fine Easter weather in New York, Norm Cash continued on his home run binge at Boston. The Detroit first baseman now has six homers in eight games. At that rate he could wind up with a 120 for the 162-game season. Cash hit his two during an 8-6 Tiger victory.

Even Hank Bauer must have been amazed at his Kansas City A's who swept an entire four-game series at Chicago by taking a Sunday doubleheader 7-1 and 7-5. In the weekend series, 18 Chicago pitchers were battered for 80 runs and 49 hits, including six homers.

Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins turned in the best pitched job of the day in the league with a four-hitter against Los Angeles. With a little help from a three-run homer by Harmon Killebrew, Kaat won easily 5-0 as the Twins swept their first series in Chavez Ravine. They had lost five straight before meeting the Angels.

enjoyed a delightful day at the new D.C. Stadium in Washington. Jim Gentile, Jackie Brandt, Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson all hit homers. Brandt's was the longest hit in the four games played in the new park—a drive of over 390 feet in Baltimore's 8-3 romp and Washington's sixth straight defeat.

In the National League, Pittsburgh tied a major league record by winning 10 straight at the start of a season with a 4-3 verdict over the New York Mets who tied a National League mark by losing their ninth in a row. The previously unbeaten St. Louis Cardinals lost two to Chicago, 11-5 and 5-1. Milwaukee downed Los Angeles 6-3, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 6-4 and Philadelphia shaded Houston 4-3.

Jerry Kindall, ex-Chicago Cub, was the big man for the Indians in their first victory at the stadium with a bases-loaded triple in the five-run third inning attack that floored Bill Stafford. Willie Kirkland's two-run single broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning of the second, shortly after Luis Arroyo arrived on the scene in relief of Jim Coates. The Yanks' M&M Boys were held to one single—a bunt by Mickey Mantle over the pitcher's head.

Playoff Today In Houston Classic

By CHARLES GREEN HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two youngsters and a lawyer who are neophytes on the pro golf tour were set to play off a 72-hole tie in the $50,000 Houston Classic today.

This is the fourth time in a row an extra round has been needed to decide the champion of the 16-year-old tournament—a PGA record. Scrambling for the $9,000 prize were: Jack Nicklaus, 22, the former Ohio State golfer who was 1959 and 1961 National Amateur champion. He is in his first year as a pro and has won money—but never first place—in his 12 previous tournaments.

Bob Nichols, 26, of Midland, Tex., the veteran of the trio with three years of tournament competition. He won his first pro contest earlier this year at St. Petersburg but picked up $15,000 in the tour last year.

Dan Sikes, 30, a lawyer who decided he liked to play golf for money better than he liked a courtroom. From Jacksonville, Fla., he is in his second year on the tour and has never done better than eighth before.

The two losing the playoff will be credited with a second place tie regardless of their scores. In sharing second and third place money they will collect $3,800 each.

They tied with two-under-par 278 for the 72 holes at the 7,100-yard par 70 memorial park

ACC Coaches Do Not Stay Home On Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS What do baseball coaches do on Sunday? They don't stay home. At least Atlantic Coast Conference coaches don't.

Calls to six of the eight coaches for some first hand information on what to expect this week produced no results. The baseball coaches, being outdoor types, likely were out in the balmy spring weather.

Coach Jack Stallings, whose Wake Forest team now rides in first place in the standings, was in Statesboro, Ga., where his team opened a two-day stand today with Georgia Southern.

Wake Forest jumped into first Saturday with an 8-4 victory over South Carolina. The Deacons (4-1 in the conference) also face fifth place Virginia (2-2) Friday and last place Maryland (0-5) Saturday, and thus stand a good chance of holding their position.

Cash's slugging resurrected the tired conversation about how many games is somebody ahead of Babe Ruth—and now Roger Maris. For the record Ruth hit his sixth in game No. 16 in 1927 and Maris got No. 6 in the 30th game last year. Bill Mombouquette, the loser, and Ike Delock were the victims of Cash's hits. Ronnie Kline won in relief of Jim Bunning.

Two strangers to headline writers, Ed Rakow and Diego Segur, won for Kansas City over Ray Herbert and Truk Low. The best of a long string of White Sox pitchers was Dave DeBussche, the basketball star from Detroit, who worked a scoreless inning in his debut. Charles and Gino Cimoli homered for the A's, and Nellie Fox hit one for Chicago.

Killebrew's homer at Chavez Ravine was a 400-footer into the left field pavilion off loser Red Witt. Steve Barber, the Orioles' Sunday pitcher, won his second straight on a weekend pass from Ft. Bragg, N.C. He allowed Washington only six hits. Ron Hansen, on 30-day leave from the Army, started his first game at short stop for Baltimore and had three errors and also dropped a pop fly that was called a hit.

Bears Leading CC By Slim Margin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Lenoir Rhyne, whose pitching staff seems to consist of Gary Hinkle and a couple of guys named Joe, may run into trouble this week in the Carolinas Conference baseball race.

The Bears, leading by a slim margin 6-1 over Catawba's 6-2; play three league games in as many days. The first comes Thursday at third-place Pfeiffer (5-2).

Hinkle has won seven of the Bears' 10 victories in overall competition this season, and can hardly be expected to handle more than one of this week's games.

Ranking next in order behind Pfeiffer are Newberry, 4-2; East Carolina, 3-2; Western Carolina, 3-3; Appalachian, 4-3; Elon and High Point, 3-4; Guilford, 1-5; and Atlantic Christian, 1-7.

The week's schedule: Today — High Point at St. An-draws, Elon at Ft. Lee, East Carolina vs. Florida State at Chapel Hill.

Tuesday — Newberry at Erskine, Pfeiffer at Catawba, Elon at Ft. Lee, East Carolina at North Carolina, Guilford at Atlantic Christian.

Wednesday — Atlantic Christian at Catawba.

Thursday — Newberry at Catawba, Elon at Guilford, Lenoir Rhyne at Pfeiffer.

Friday — High Point at Elon, Western Carolina at Lenoir Rhyne.

Saturday — Guilford at High Point, Newberry at Wofford, Catawba at Appalachian, Western Carolina at Lenoir Rhyne.

Norm Cash set a record for a Detroit left-handed hitter when he poked 41 home runs in 1961. Charley Maxwell, his teammate, had the former record of 31 in one season.

Jim Beauchamp, rookie outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, pronounces his name "beechum."

Stengel Says Mets Will Win

Full Week For 7th Place W&M

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS William and Mary stands seventh in the Southern Conference baseball race and isn't generally rated a threat for the championship.

But the Indians could project themselves into the picture this week as they play five games—all at home at Williamsburg—against four of the six clubs that outrank them.

The first opportunity comes as early as today when William and Mary (1-3) entertains third-place West Virginia (2-1) in a doubleheader. Virginia Tech (2-2) invades Williamsburg on Wednesday, second-place Richmond (3-1) is there Friday and George Washington (2-2) moves in on Saturday.

Only front-running Furman (4-0) and fourth-place Virginia military (3-2) aren't on the Indians' schedule this week. Furman plays just one conference game, invading West Virginia on Saturday.

All told, 11 conference games are scheduled this week with only last-place the Citadel (0-3) not playing inside the league. West Virginia, like William and Mary, meets five conference foes Tech, Richmond and VMI face three each, George Washington two.

Today's only action aside from the WVU-W&M twin bill has the Citadel, beaten 12-4 and 5-2 Saturday at Mercer, playing at Rollins.

The remainder of this week's schedule: Tuesday — Virginia Tech at Richmond, West Virginia at Hampden-Sydney, the Citadel at Stetson, Vermont at George Washington.

Wednesday — West Virginia at VMI (2), Virginia Tech at William and Mary, the Citadel at Jacksonville, Mercer at Davidson, Furman at South Carolina.

Thursday — George Washington at Richmond.

Friday — Richmond at William and Mary, Belmont Abbey at Davidson.

Saturday — George Washington at William and Mary, Furman at West Virginia, Virginia Tech at

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer "Someday pretty soon," Casey Stengel declared, "we're gonna beat somebody pretty bad."

But the grizzled old manager of the New York Mets didn't say when. Nor how.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," Casey muttered after his Mets lost to Pittsburgh 4-3 Sunday, setting a record in reverse and helping the rampaging Pirates to a record of their own.

It was the 10th straight victory for the unbeaten Pirates and tied the modern National League record for most consecutive victories at the start of a season, set by the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers.

It was the ninth straight loss—five of them to Pittsburgh—for the Mets, who have yet to win, and tied the modern league record for consecutive losses at the start of a season.

The Pittsburgh triumph also gave the Pirates a 2 1/2 lead over the previously unbeaten St. Louis Cardinals, who dropped a rain-delayed double header to Chicago, 11-5 and 5-1. Philadelphia won its fourth straight over Houston, 4-3, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 6-4 and Los Angeles took Milwaukee 6-3.

In the American League, Cleveland took over the lead with a double header sweep of the Yankees in New York, 7-5 and 9-3. Kansas City swept two from Chicago 7-1 and 7-5. Baltimore beat Washington 8-3. Minnesota blanked Los Angeles 5-0 and Detroit edged Boston 8-6.

"We haven't done too well with hitting; we haven't done too well with fielding. But when we catch somebody when we play pretty good, we're gonna beat them."

The Mets played "pretty good," but a run-scoring triple by Bill Mazeroski in the eighth broke a 3-3 tie and brought the Pirates their 10th straight. Bob Skinner homered in the sixth as Pittsburgh came from behind a two-run deficit. Jim Hickman drove in two New York runs and scored the other.

Lefty Bob Veale (1-0) went the distance for the win and Sherm (Roadblock) Jones (0-1) took the loss in relief.

The Cubs hadn't won in St. Louis since Sept. 3, 1960 until

What makes one health plan better than the other?

Chances are you'll choose the plan with benefits that start with the first dollar of cost—not only for hospital coverage, but for doctor bills too! That's only one of the many advantages you get with the doctor bill protection which is endorsed by the Medical Society of North Carolina—Blue Shield.

Because Blue Shield is sponsored by doctors, Hospital Saving Association of Chapel Hill works closely with a committee of doctors to review your benefits regularly and thus make sure your coverage is always kept as liberal as sensible rates allow.

making their sweep and ending the Cards' seven-game winning string. They punished Ray Sadecki (0-1) with three runs in the first and added five in the fifth of the first game, with Ernie Banks and Ron Santo stroking homers. Dick Ellsworth (2-0) won it, but Dick Ellsworth (2-0) won it, but Chicago also got off to a quick start in the nightcap, chasing in three runs—two on Billy Williams' homer—in the first inning. That was all they needed behind Cal Koonce (1-0) who spaced nine hits in going the distance. Bob Gibson (0-1) was the loser.

Stan Musial singled in the first game and moved into second place in the all-time total bases list. He now has 5,794, one more than Babe Ruth and second to Ty Cobb, 5,863.

Bob Shaw's five-hitter and the lusty hitting of Del Crandall keyed Milwaukee's decision over Los Angeles. Shaw (1-1) committed an error and allowed two of the Dodgers hits, one a homer by Tommy Davis, in the first inning and limited Los Angeles to three singles the rest of the way. Crandall had a homer and two singles as the Braves handed Don Drysdale (2-1) his first loss.

Vada Pinson, Johnny Edwards and Wally Post hit homers for Cincinnati and Tom Haller for San Francisco in a free-hitting, wind-plagued affair that also produced seven doubles. Joey Jay (2-2) got the win for the Reds and Jack Sanford (1-1) took the loss.

Jack Baldschun stopped a budding Houston rally for the second time in as many days and saved Philadelphia's victory for Jim (Bear) Owens (1-1). He stranded the tying run on third after the Colts had closed to within one. Tony Taylor's run-scoring single produced what proved to be winning run in the seventh. Dave Giusti (0-1) lost.

Greenville ECL Team Loses Two

HOBGOOD — Greenville's Eastern County League team lost both games of a double-header yesterday with Hobgood 7-6 and 9-8.

The losing pitcher for Greenville in the first game was Billy Dunn who allowed seven hits, walked eight and struck out five during the contest. Winning pitcher L. L. Causway of Hobgood allowed seven hits, walked two and struck out seven.

In the first contest, Hobgood took an early lead when they scored four runs in the first inning with Doug Jefferson, Jim Johnson, Earl Johnson and Cecil Savage doing the scoring.

Greenville managed to pick up one run in the second when Billy Cooper walked and was brought home on a hit by Harve Strickland. However, in the bottom of the second Hobgood boosted their lead when they scored another run.

Winfield Tingle and John Harrison both scored for Greenville in the third frame, but the local club still trailed at the end of the inning when Hobgood scored two more runs making the score 7-3.

The sixth frame saw Greenville score three more runs, but they were unable to get across one more to tie the game giving them a chance to pull ahead.

In the second contest Hobgood again took an early lead with five runs in the first frame compared to three for Greenville. Greenville pulled ahead in the second inning when they scored four runs making the score 7-6 in favor of Greenville.

Greenville was able to score one more in the third, but Hobgood pulled ahead in the last inning when they put across three runners to take the lead 9-6 and win the game.

On the mound for Greenville in this second contest was Haywood Outland. He allowed eight hits, walked eight and struck out seven. Winning pitcher, Cecil Savage, allowed 11 hits, walked three and struck out six.

The two losses broke a two-game winning streak for Greenville giving them a 2-2 record so far this season. Next Sunday the two teams will meet again when Greenville hosts Hobgood at Guy Smith Stadium.

Four Fights Are Set In Star Studded Program

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer Cassius Clay, Eddie Machen, and Ralph Dupas are the featured fighters tonight on a star-studded card arranged by Joe Louis in his debut as a matchmaker for the recently formed United World Enterprises.

Louis has arranged four 10-rounders which will be held at the Sports Arena in Los Angeles and telecast by closed circuit to outlets in 19 cities.

Clay, Olympic light heavyweight champion and unbeaten in 12 professional bouts, faces strong George Logan (22-6-1), of Boise, Idaho, in the top bout. The cocky, 20-year-old Clay, of Louisville, Ky., has a 12-0 record including nine knockouts. He is ranked 10th.

Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender from Portland, Ore., meets veteran Bert Whitehurst of Baltimore. Clay insists he would like to fight Machen so this will give fans at the Arena and at the piped in outlets a chance to compare the two.

Dupas, top-ranking welterweight contender from New Orleans, takes on Everardo Armenta of Mexico and lightweight Eddie Garcia of Los Angeles opposes Tony Perez of Mexico in the other two tens.

Jabbing Joe Giambra of San Francisco will put Florentino Fernandez' repaired nose to the test

Saturday night in the television ABC-TV, 10 P.M., EST fight of the week at the Miami Beach, Fla., Auditorium.

The Cuban's Hawk's beak was busted by Dick Tiger when the Nigerian stopped Fernandez in the sixth round of a slugfest match on Jan. 20. This is Florentino's first outing since the third-ranked middleweight contender has a 30-4 record including 24 knockouts. Giambra, once a leading contender but no longer ranked, has a 64-7-2 record, including 30 knockouts.

CHAPTER 13

Early in June of 1776 Osbert Fleming left his estate, accompanied by an armed escort provided for him by the royal governor. He returned late in the month, accompanied by his daughter Jordy, whom he had decided to bring home from New York where riots and street fights were adding to the tensions of daily living.

Jordy paid only one visit to the stables after her return. She went for a brief canter, and when she rode back to the stables, she found an opportunity to speak a single word to Hugh Spencer. "Soon," she said, and he knew from her hard, bright smile that she was prepared to carry out her threat.

At the end of the first week in July the crisis came suddenly. Hugh was summoned to the great house where a slave in livery was waiting to conduct him to Osbert Fleming's study.

Jordy was sitting in a parlor a short distance down a corridor, pretending to be reading a book, and she raised her head for an instant as Hugh was led through the chamber.

Her tight smile warned him that his hour of decision had arrived, and he braced himself as he passed and tapped at the study door.

Fleming was pacing up and down the room, and Hugh, who had seen it infrequently, thought it resembled an arsenal. Several muskets were stacked in a corner a saber and two lighter swords hung from a wall peg, and a heavy pistol rested on the top of a stack of papers on the desk.

Fleming paused at the desk, picked up a letter, and waved it angrily. "That congress of traitors in Philadelphia has done it," he said. "They've issued what they call a Declaration of Independence. The rebels have set up an independent nation they're calling the United States of America."

Hugh's temples throbbed, and he made a supreme effort to conceal his elation.

"But we're ready for them," Fleming continued, "and before we're done, we'll send the head of every last one of them to London." He paused and looked sharply at Hugh. "What have you to say to all this, Spencer?"

"In my position I've had very little chance to learn much about politics," Hugh replied carefully.

"But you were once a soldier. You wore the king's uniform!" If the pistol were loaded it would be the most effective weapon in the room, Hugh decided. "You may be as indifferent as you appear, Spencer, but it doesn't matter. You're going to wear a uniform again."

Hugh waited silently. "General Howe hasn't seen fit to send any of his troops to the southern colonies yet, so we've made plans to defend ourselves. A brigade of loyalists is being formed in Virginia, and there's a place for you in a cavalry troop as a sergeant. You and four of my other overseers will leave today for Richmond with two young gentlemen from Fairfax who have been visiting me. They'll be your superior officers, and both of them are pleased that you'll be serving with them, even though you're a bondsman. They believe you can perform a valuable function as a drillmaster."

Hugh's mind was working quickly, and he realized at once that, if he started past as a member of an armed party, it would be far more difficult to escape than it would be to make his way alone into the hills.

"The other overseers were delighted," Fleming's eyes narrowed. "I realize that I can't expect real patriotism from a man of your stripe, but I'm willing to offer you an incentive. If you serve faithfully, I'll reduce your indenture by five hundred pounds after the rebels are beaten and you come back here."

The seemingly generous gesture was meaningless, as the sum Fleming had paid for Hugh was so large that even a five-hundred-pound reduction of the total would be insufficient to cut Hugh's term appreciably.

"I've been authorized to accept indentments and administer the oath of allegiance to King George," Fleming moved to the desk.

Hugh followed him, taking care to stand near the pistol.

His lack of enthusiasm annoyed Fleming. "Your ingratitude surprises me, Spencer," he said harshly.

"Perhaps," Hugh replied quietly. "I'd be more grateful if I had been given a choice."

"Oh, you have a choice," Fleming laughed unpleasantly. "Either you'll accept or you'll become a stable groom again."

"There's a third choice," Hugh said, and picked up the pistol, which he pointed at the man on the far side of the desk.

Fleming astonished him by laughing. "Now I know how you stand."

"That's right." "Unfortunately for you, I set a trap. And you've walked into it. That pistol isn't loaded," Fleming reached down into an open desk drawer and drew out a short, ugly whip. "You need to be taught appreciation."

Hugh, still clutching the useless pistol, sprang at him and caught Fleming's right wrist before the whip could be brought into play. The grappled and fell together on the desk.

The unexpected attack had taken Fleming by surprise, but he reacted vigorously, and in spite of his compulsion he proved to be a man of considerable strength.

Hugh's fingers closed around the barrel of the pistol, and using it as a hammer, he raised it and brought the butt down sharply on the back of Fleming's head. Fleming slumped, gasped, and slid to the edge of the desk. Hugh looked at the man whose head was hanging toward the floor and wondered if he had killed the master of the estate. He bent down, saw that Fleming was still breathing, and, aware that time was precious, started toward the door.

GAL TWO—SERIAL Remembering that Jordy had been sitting across the corridor, he straightened his rumpled shirt, ran his fingers through his hair, and raised the latch. As he had suspected, Jordy was still sitting on a small divan from which she could see the entrance to her father's study. She raised her head when she heard the door open, so Hugh knew he had to play-act if he hoped to escape.

"I'll return at once, sir," he said to the unconscious man behind him. "And I'll be honored to serve His Majesty again." He closed the door and stepped out into the corridor.

Jordy rose quickly and came to the door of the parlor. "You've accepted Papa's offer?"

"I'd be foolish to refuse," Hugh countered.

"Very foolish. I was ready to swear that you seduced me, you know."

Every moment that Hugh lost increased the chance that he would be captured, but he didn't dare leave Jordy too abruptly. "Do you hate me so much?"

"Certainly not," she smiled at him intimately. "Surely you know by now what I think of you. But I loathe traitors, and if you have been disloyal to the crown, you'd have deserved hanging."

JET SERVICE DRIVE-IN

East 14th Street

ASCS
Note Book
By ELISE HANNAH
ASCS Performance Clerk

One of the most important functions of an ASCS County Office is that of assisting the farm operator in filing an annual report of acreages of all planted crops planted, and determining if the acreage is within the farm allotment, or if an adjustment is necessary. This must be completed before it is known whether the commodity is eligible for price support.

Each year the ASC County Committee offers pre-measurement services to the farmers of Pitt County. This service is at the producers expense.

During February, March and April 15, we premeasured 716 tobacco farms, 241 cotton farms, 201 peanut farms, and diverted acreage on 13 farms, 241 cotton farms, 201 peanut farms, and diverted acreage on 13 farms under the Wheat Stabilization Program and 29 farms with diverted acreage under Feed Grain Program. This is a total of 13,416 acres.

These farms will be checked in regular performance to determine if the producer has planted according to his pre-measurement.

We held our annual instructional meeting for experienced reporters on Saturday, April 21. These reporters will receive field training and be ready for work about May 10.

We will hold an instructional meeting for new reporters April 23. These reporters will be given field training prior to May 10.

In order to achieve a better performance job, we divided the county into four areas. Each section will have approximately 21 reporters and a qualified assistant supervisor under the direction of the county performance supervisor.

For the past two years, we have used cut-outs in our performance work. A cut-out means a portion of a photograph showing one farm. These photographs are on a scale of 330 feet to an inch. This enables the reporter to measure the entire farm even though it is located on several photographs. To make the initial measurements the reporter plots on the cut-out the actual areas planted to each crop, and gives credit for deductions such as tilled rows or sled rows in tobacco. A farmer using a sled row pattern in tobacco must start each field with half the number of rows being served by the sled row and end with not more than the number of rows being served. For example, a fifth-row pattern producer starts with two rows and ends with not more than four rows. The cut-out is then returned to the county office where the actual acreage in the field is determined. The measured acres must be computed and notices mailed to each producer showing the number of acres which have been planted.

A home especially designed for modern country living is what Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Worthington feel they have to show their friends at an open house on Thursday, April 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Worthington, who live in the Ballards Community and are members of the Red Oak Christian Church, have built what is commonly referred to as an extension demonstration house.

That is, in return for planning assistance received from the Agricultural Extension Service, they plan to show the house to other people. The objective is to stimulate interest in good rural housing.

Mrs. Sue May, Pitt home economics agent, says the open house will be 3-5 and 7-9:30 p.m. on April 26. Mrs. May, Agricultural Agent, Sam Winchester and other extension personnel will be on hand to answer questions about the house.

The new home ends seven years of trailer living for the Worthingtons. Mrs. Worthington, the former Patty Jean Crawford of near Greenville, said the trailer was adequate until Donna Jean came along two years ago.

A study of existing house plans showed most of them were designed more for city than country living. Finally, they tried Extension, and now believe they have what they wanted.

Farms that are measured in excess on the initial measurement may request a second measurement or disposition of excess in order to comply with production and adjustment regulations. The second measurement or disposition is made at the producers expense.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels sagged in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .60 at 255.10 with industrials up .60, rails up .40 and utilities up .30.

Gains of selected blue chips bolstered the average despite losses which ran to more than 2 points for some of the steels.

While plus and minus signs were mingled pretty freely, advances of some high quality issues went from 1 to 3 points.

Losses of more than 2 points were shown by U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens, Jones & Laughlin was off about 2 and Republic Steel stretched its decline to a fraction. Bethlehem edged off a fraction.

These losses were more than counterbalanced by gains among some pivotal chemicals, tobacco and other issues. Eastman Kodak, reporting a 20 per cent gain in profits, advanced about 3 points. Air Reduction and Liggett & Myers rose more than a point each.

Kansas City Southern advanced more than 2. Philip Morris was another 2-point gainer.

Du Pont, Lorillard and Phelps Dodge were up about a point each.

Big Three motors were all easy after making slight gains at the start.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .69 at 694.94.

Prices moved irregularly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds edged ahead. The trend was mostly lower among U.S. government bonds.

Yacht Figures In JFK Holiday

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy returned to paperwork today but planned to get in a third cruise aboard the presidential yacht during his Easter work-and-relax vacation.

During the next four days Kennedy will prepare for conferences with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who is scheduled to arrive in Washington Friday, the same day the President returns to the capital.

Easter Sunday was a relaxed and leisurely day for Kennedy.

In the morning, the President, his wife and two children went to the home of his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, for a private family Mass.

Then, under sunny skies, the President took his wife and several friends aboard the yacht Honey Fitz and glided out on Lake Worth.

Mrs. Kennedy, in a melon pink swim suit, displayed some expert water skiing, racing along on a single ski around the yacht for almost five minutes. She was towed by a speedboat.

The President, in gray slacks and sweater, relaxed in the big brown leather swivel chair on the back deck.

Members of the Kennedy family gathered here for Easter included the President's brother, Edward M. Kennedy, and two of his sisters, Mrs. Sargent Shriver and Mrs. Stephen Smith. Their mother is vacationing in Europe.

The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, former president of Notre Dame University, said the Mass at Joseph Kennedy's Spanish-type winter home on the Atlantic.

Crashing Jet Killed Couple

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — You are an Air Force pilot in a picked group flying over the Seattle World's Fair in an opening-day salute.

Directly over the 600-foot space needle, the engine of your F102 jet intercepted at Paine Field.

What do you do?

Capt. Joseph Wildt, 53, of Cincinnati, Ohio, faced that decision Saturday.

What he did, he said Sunday, was break away from formation, try unsuccessfully to start his plane, then attempt to dive it into Lake Washington and, at the last possible moment, bail out.

The plane plowed into a residential neighborhood, starting a fire which killed an elderly couple, destroyed two houses and damaged four others.

The dead were Howard Smith, 68, and his wife, 63.

Wildt was picked up by a private boat. He is in good condition in the hospital at Paine Field north of here, where he is stationed. He has a small abrasion over his right eye.

"I hesitated as long as I could and still realize any chance of escaping the aircraft," he said in an interview. "I just knew it was going into the water when I bailed out."

Instead it lifted momentarily, cleared a low hill and crashed into the residential area.

Wildt has been flying F102s since January 1957.
