Sidewalk Art Show Restrained

Order Issued To Prevent Blocking Eighth St.; Modification Seen

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

The sidewalk art show of the annual Fine Arts Festival had its spirit temporarily dampened when a restraining order was issued to prevent the blocking off of Eighth Street between Evans and Washington Streets...

However, legal representatives of the East Carolina Art Society, which operates the Greenville Art Center, and for Lewis G. Cooper, neighbor and petitioner, said today they were working on a modified restraining order...

The restraining order was issued by Judge W. J. Bundy, resident judge of the Third Judicial District, on Friday. Papers were served Saturday on Mrs. Bernard Jackson, director of the Greenville Art Center...

The art society and the Greenville Woman's Club are co-sponsors of the festival. The art center, where the sidewalk art show is held annually, is located on the south-west intersection of Evans and Eighth Streets...

A petition filed by Cooper, represented by Attorney S. B. Underwood Jr., seeks to restrain the East Carolina Art Society, their members, agents and employees from roping off, closing or otherwise interfering with flow of traffic from Eighth Street between Evans and Washington Streets...

Cooper, 70, was described in the petition as suffering with bronchial asthma and severe emphysema and an irregular rhythm heart condition which affects his breathing and curtails his activities...

The petition further said that "due to nearby business there is never any parking space on Evans Street accessible to the petitioner."

Officials of the sidewalk art show had planned to rope off the street section between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Thursday. Dave Reid, an associate of Frank Wooten, who serves as legal advisor to the East Carolina Art Society, said today that attorneys are working on a modified restraining order...

Cubans Warned Against Walkout Out Of Rally

HAVANA (AP) — Cubans had a warning today against any attempt to walk out on Prime Minister Fidel Castro when he addresses the big May Day rally in Jose Marti Plaza. The Communist newspaper Hoy said no one would be allowed to leave the plaza-site of major government-sponsored demonstrations...

Many Nations Represented By Visiting Officers

SPECIAL WARFARE STUDENTS . . . Over 100 representatives of the U. S. Army and allied nations, attending the Psychological Operations course of the Special Warfare School at Fort Bragg visited Pitt County, sites of the Voice of America, and East Carolina College Saturday. Included in the group, headed by Col. George C. Garrett of the Special Warfare School, were officers from Brazil, Burma, Germany, Iran, Italy, Korea, Nicaragua, The Philippines, the Republic of China, Turkey and the Republic of South Africa...

White House Hosts Large Collection Noted People

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy toasted his 173 dinner guests—Nobel Prize winners and men and women of letters—as the most extraordinary collection of talent ever gathered at the White House.

He called them all together Sunday night—a potpourri of the famed—to honor the Nobel Prize winners of the Western Hemisphere.

The 49 Nobel winners on hand for the biggest dinner held at the White House in modern times greeted each other with delight. They said no one before had ever thought to bring so many of them together at once.

In gay, good humor, some started after-dinner waltzing in the north entrance hallway where Air Force musicians were playing.

One of the first to take a turn in black tie on the marble floor was Dr. Linus C. Pauling, Nobel Prize winning chemist who only hours before was picketing the White House in the rain with a group protesting resumption of U.S. nuclear air tests.

Dancing usually is confined to the East ballroom. Mrs. Kennedy looking on with amusement at the impromptu display, declared it was a good idea and said, "We'll have to do this again."

Many of the guests—famed in fields from physics to peace—stopped the President and his wife to ask for autographs on their engraved dinner menus. There were some who had never before set foot in the White House. There was astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., only recently feted there as the nation's hero—the first American to orbit the earth. The President, raising his glass in a champagne toast, told his guests that the dinner party in a sense was an attempt to recognize two very basic drives and pressures in our lives—the pursuit of knowledge and the pursuit of peace.

He said he hoped it would encourage young people in America and in this hemisphere to develop these drives. Noting that the Nobel Prize was awarded without regard to nationality, Kennedy declared "this hemisphere has been able to develop an atmosphere which has permitted the happy pursuit of knowledge, and of peace."

Kennedy started his toast with a touch of humor. He reported that Nobel peace prize winner Lester Pearson of Canada had informed him a Canadian newspaperman referred to the dinner as "the President's Easter egg-head roll on the White House lawn."

"I want to deny this," said the President. When he called it the most extraordinary gathering of talent at the White House, Kennedy added lightly—"with the possible exception of when Thomas Jefferson dined alone."

Rush then added: "Secrecy and disarmament are incompatible." Rusk assured America's friends in CENTO that the United States would go on working with them to insure the defense and stability of the Middle East against continued threat of Communist aggression.

CENTO consists of Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and Britain. The United States takes part in its work as an associate member. The alliance grew out of the Baghdad Pact.

Pakistan, with the support of Iran and Turkey, has been urging the United States to play a bigger role in Middle East defense, possibly by changing its associate membership to full membership. Those nations also have been pressing for an American general to be commander of the CENTO planning staff, but neither the Americans nor the British like the idea.

Foreign Minister Abbas Aram of Iran urged the United States and Britain to pay greater attention to the economic needs of the regional members of the alliance—mainly by providing more help. Neither Defense Minister K. M. Sheikh of Pakistan nor Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin of Turkey in their speeches mentioned a desire for the United States to take a larger role. Rusk assured the ministers the United States is interested in cooperating with its friends around the globe in preserving common standards and interests.

The U.S. secretary's visit to London is the first of a series that will take him almost around the world. He goes next to Athens for a meeting of the foreign ministers council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Then he will fly to Australia to confer with U.S. partners in the Australian-New Zealand treaty.

Russian Passion For Secrecy Hit

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned today the East-West arms race cannot be ended unless and until Soviet Union abandons its obsession on secrecy. He spoke at the opening ministerial session of the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

"The Soviet Union has, thus far, been unwilling to agree to an effective treaty banning all nuclear testing," Rusk said. "In the circumstances, the United States has had no choice but to assume its responsibility to look to the common defense and conduct a limited series of atmospheric nuclear tests."

Rush then added: "Secrecy and disarmament are incompatible." Rusk assured America's friends in CENTO that the United States would go on working with them to insure the defense and stability of the Middle East against continued threat of Communist aggression.

Manhattan Tour Isn't So Easy For Cosmonaut

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov has discovered that going around the globe 17 times is a snap compared to orbiting nighttime Manhattan.

The Soviet spaceman and his pretty brunette wife, Tamara, 24, wasted little time Sunday night in hitting the tourist trail. At 6:30 p.m. they were walking down the ramp from a Soviet turboprop airliner at Idlewild Airport. At 7:30 p.m. they were arriving at the Soviet United Nations mission headquarters on Park Avenue.

They took only an hour and a half to freshen up before they were off again. The plan, apparently, was a quick and quiet tour of some of the sights of the brightly lit city. Thanks to midtown traffic, the tour wasn't as quick as intended. Thanks to the curiosity of the average New Yorker it wasn't so quiet either.

Before the tour started, Titov said he was anxious to meet American astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. "We will have quite a lot to talk about," Titov added through an interpreter. Titov is to attend the international space conference in Washington, D.C., later this week.

Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton and his wife, who have visited Premier Khrushchev in the Soviet Union were among 300 persons who greeted Titov and his wife at Idlewild.

During Titov's tour of Manhattan he kept smiling, and responding with friendly gestures to the attention that appeared to take him by surprise. At the skating rink in Rockefeller Plaza Titov pinned small medals on two young girls and a small boy in a sailor suit, and replied in Russian when the children said "thank you." The medals read "Vostok II" — the name of the spaceship that took him around the earth 17 times. "He's a little fellow!" was the surprised comment of one after another in the crowd.

At the close of his brief comments, Kennedy noted, "After being in the hands of over 1,400 members of the press for over four hours, we haven't gotten off so badly." The President was presented an inkstand which was a replica of the one used at the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The Prime Minister received a cigar box modeled on a Colonial tobacco box. As he accepted the inkstand, Pres. Kennedy said, "One of my predecessors signed a document using an inkstand such as this. And one of the Prime Minister's predecessors heard it." Macmillan replied suggesting the President was "looking backward a bit, too much."

JFK Tells C-of-C He Would Avoid Intervening

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told the United States Chamber of Commerce today he wants to see an economy kept stable by the free forces of competition so the government will not need to intervene in the price-setting process.

The President delivered to the chamber's 50th annual meeting a sober appeal for cooperation among business, labor and government. He said this would keep the economy stable, protect the dollar, and expand foreign commerce.

"These areas where conflict exists between private interests and government interest must be met by all of us who care for our country," Kennedy said. The President said there never again need be such events as his recent crackdown on the steel industry's attempted price increase — providing all forces join in achieving non-inflationary profits and wage increases within bounds of productivity increases.

Kennedy, assuring the business leaders there can be no prosperity without profits, received heavy applause at the end of his 20 minute address. But he was not interrupted by applause as was the retiring Chamber President Richard Wagner who followed the chief executive with a talk defending the steel price increase the President crushed 2½ weeks ago.

In his first speech to any business organization since he forced the steel industry to withdraw its April price increase — a move widely criticized in industry — Kennedy assured the 4,000 businessmen-delegates and their guests: "We do not seek to set prices."

Instead, he said, the government is trying to develop a climate in which there is cooperation of the several segments of the economy, and in which the free forces of competition will serve to prevent inflation from damaging the dollar and inflating prices to consumers.

Kennedy was greeted with a rising ovation as he entered Constitution Hall, but many of the delegates did not join in the applause. But he quickly produced laughter with an observation that he was pleased to see that the chamber had chosen for its new president a man from Massachusetts.

Then he added with a smile: "I don't know how widely that view is shared here." Kennedy complimented the chamber on its 50 years of service, declaring that the establishment of the chamber in 1912 was a turning point in the relationship of government with industry.

There was more laughter when he added: "And some say the events of this April also marked a turning point." From that reference to the steel-price battle, Kennedy went on to observe that he hoped this April would indeed have been a turning point in the sense that it may have awakened wider knowledge of the necessity for understanding between business, government and labor.

Even though the cheers from chambers of commerce around the country were not overwhelming or deafening when he was elected, Kennedy said, he has been impressed with the cooperation given by business groups ever since when the country has become involved in crisis. Kennedy said he is aware some consider the administration anti-business. But he said it is difficult to see how the government and nation can survive without business.

"I think our record, in totality, shows we are not unresponsive to the problems of business," Kennedy said. He mentioned its program in the field of transportation, its recommendation for setting up tax guidelines, its legislation to provide an 8 per cent tax credit for investment in machinery and equipment. And he said he does not regard vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws as anti-business. Actions in this field are based largely on complaints from businessmen themselves, Kennedy said.

And he said he does not regard vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws as anti-business. Actions in this field are based largely on complaints from businessmen themselves, Kennedy said.

The President reminded his audience that the administration has invoked the Taft-Hartley law — strikes, urged moderation on steel and other workers in bids for wage boosts, opposed the 25-hour work week, feather-bedding, racketeering and roadblocks to automation.

He said an economic upswing is continuing, and he is convinced 1962 will break all records for profits, employment and productivity. The President's tone was good-humored but serious. He drew a laugh by stating: "To the extent of your interest in protecting profit margins, our interests are identical—we in government have a large stake in your profits."

The government's interests also are identical with labor's in maintenance of equitable wages, he added. "The national government also lives off personal income taxes," he reminded his hearers. The government's effort to mollify business was underscored by the appearance, at the start of the chamber's opening session, of Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges. He spoke only a few sentences, but they were full of assurances of good will.

before, they had been traveling. The sound was gone. The men started again, then the sound returned, headed in the opposite direction.

"We've got to be quiet. Watch for sticks!" Then deeper and deeper into the woods. Then a path. The walking was easier. A left turn brought the five shadows onto a wider trail. "Watch out for that stick!" Then everyone was careful not to disturb the branch protruding out into the walkway.

A whispered warning. "They're coming in. . . . And everyone ran. . . . ran silently. Don't be heard or seen! That was the important thing now. This was the crucial time."

And then wait. Silently the five figures crouched behind bushes. Their hearts pounding. . . . hoping against hope that they had not scared the game away.

All eyes focused on the hunted. The 5 a.m. light was dim. But he could be seen walking around and checking. Then he turned and started back along the path. It was his show now. HIDE!

The five waited silently. Then a whisper. And one man moved. He would circle and come back up along the path. Another whisper and another figure moved. . . . to get deeper into the woods. Then a commotion. The hunted had returned. Two of them now. A small noise. And the hunted started to run.

"LET'S GO!" The five shadows became running figures in pursuit of the hunted. Down the trail yelling. . . . running. . . . running as fast as they could go. Then the hunted split. One to the right and one to the left. The hunters split too. Quickly now the chase was over. One had fallen in the underbrush and was quickly covered. The second was stopped by two men.

This had been what the officers had been waiting and planning for. Catch the operators of the still at the site. The hunters had been lawmen. The hunted, alleged law-breakers. Officers had discovered the still three weeks ago and had been visiting the unit for two weeks. Lawmen had been staked out around the illegal plant Saturday morning but no one showed up. Sunday was a sure bet.

The hunted? One had been Linwood Earl Forrest, 21, of Route 1, Ayden. The second, Harold Earl Jones, 28, of Route 5, Greenville.

These were not the owners of the plant. . . . only the operators. They were being paid $40 per week for running the still. . . . for breaking the law. Now they were caught.

Included at the still site was a 60-gallon boiler, two 55-gallon stills with two 55-gallon doublers. A 300-gallon cooler box complete with radiator condenser, four 350-gallon mash boxes and three 55-gallon mash barrels were also (Continued on page 18) thrilled with the activities. The yearly occasion is one in which most of the correspondents and photographers leave their cameras at home and gather to honor and heckle the president and this year were also fortunate enough to have the British Prime Minister on hand.

Macmillan arrived in Washington Friday afternoon for talks with President Kennedy which ended Sunday and, according to reports, were successful. To begin the dinner, master of ceremonies William Knighton, Jr., of the Baltimore Sun, welcomed the President and the Prime Minister. Knighton added that for a while there was some doubt whether or not Macmillan would be able to attend because of the directions to the New Frontier. And what were those directions? Well, according to Knighton, the way to the New Frontier is "Right to Harvard and then turn left." This seemed to set the pace for the rest of the evening.

Well, according to Knighton, the way to the New Frontier is "Right to Harvard and then turn left." This seemed to set the pace for the rest of the evening.

Entertainers Elliot Reid and Peter Sellers were on hand to do ceremonies of both Kennedy and Macmillan. Reid did a mock press conference in which he asked questions and answered them in a voice which was difficult to distinguish from Kennedy's. The particular press conference involved was the one in which Kennedy lashed the Steel Industry for increasing their prices.

Following Reid was Sellers with a takeoff on Macmillan. Both entertainers did excellent jobs and the two statesmen seemed to enjoy the whole thing along with the other guests. The opinion after the dinner seemed to be that Macmillan took the roughest beating from Sellers, but Reid was not far behind with his takeoff on Kennedy.

At the close of the entertainment, the President took the stand and turned the tables on the mocksters with his own take-off. An increase in the price of dinner tickets by the press associations was his target. "The sudden and arbitrary action to raise the prices by $2.50 over last year is wholly unjustifiable and not in the public interest," Pres. Kennedy said. "The American people will find it difficult to accept this decision," he added.

In commenting on Reid and Sellers, President Kennedy noted: "I've arranged for them to appear next week on the U. S. Steel Hour. Actually, I didn't do it. Bobby did," the President said.

At the close of his brief comments, Kennedy noted, "After being in the hands of over 1,400 members of the press for over four hours, we haven't gotten off so badly." IT'S DYNAMITE . . . these three officers hold smoking in their hands. The lawmen are in the process of dropping the explosives into each of the inter-connected containers which made up the illegal whiskey plant. Minutes later the still was no more.

"La Belle" Author Speaker At Annual Fine Arts Luncheon

By ANNE MATTOX
Reflector Woman's Editor

The 27th annual Community Fine Arts Festival was opened Saturday with a luncheon at the South Dining Hall on the campus of East Carolina College.

The Festival is sponsored jointly by the Woman's Club of Greenville and the East Carolina Art Society. Events are scheduled through May 12 in connection with the Fine Arts Festival.

Ovid Pierce introduced the luncheon speaker, Mrs. James L. Coker of Darlington, S. C. Mrs. Coker, author of a number of books, has also had numerous newspaper articles published through the years and poems in various magazines and anthologies. Mrs. Coker, who spoke on "How To Recapture A Bit of the Past," told how she went about gathering information for her latest book, "La Belle," published in 1959 by E. P. Dutton and Company, which is the life of Marie Boozier.

Dr. James Poindexter of the East Carolina College faculty recognized local people in the past year who have had works published: Dr. Howard McGinnis, "Know Your Bible Better"; Dr. James Batten, "Our Neighbors In Space"; Dr. John Ebbs, "Milton's Treatment of Poetic Justice In Samson Agonistes"; and Ralph Napp, "Sociological Aspects of Warfare."

Mrs. Tran Gordley made the presentation of awards. This year there were entries in all six divisions of the contest and awards made in each division. The largest number of entries came in the Lyric poetry division, and there were four honorable mentions in this division.

The poem "Searching" by Ronald Everett was awarded an honorable mention.

The poem "Secrets" by Mrs. Yuvon Page was awarded an honorable mention.

The poem "The Pool" by Eleanor B. Owens was awarded an honorable mention.

The poem "The Woods" by Gene Deans was awarded an honorable mention.

The selected poem "Time and Tide" by Claude B. West Jr. was awarded the Eva Berry Harris Award.

In the division for the best sonnet the Maymie Ives Woolard Memorial Award has been awarded to the sonnet "Flight Through Life" by Miss Peggy Coppoch.

In the short story division an honorable mention was given to the story "Suicide" by Norma Mintz. The Virginia Collier Tripp Award for the best short story was awarded for the story "Most Likely To Succeed" by Mrs. Herbert M. Wilkerson.

An honorable mention went for the one-act play "Housebroken" by Claude B. West Jr. The Chatham Book Club Award for the best one-act play was awarded for the play "Fair Was The Morning" by Elizabeth Utterback.

The Janie Gold Starling Award for the best essay was given for the essay "In Rebellion" by Norma Mintz.

An honorable mention was given to the children's poem

"Marble Time" by Janie Gold Starling.

The Eunice McGee Award for the best children's poem was awarded to the poem "A Friend Of Mine."

In presenting the awards, Mrs. Gordley said, "The Literary Contest this year exceeded our expectations both in the quantity and quality of entries. The success of the contest to a great extent can be attributed to the efforts of Mrs. Charles Gritzer who was in charge of the publicity for the contest. In some of the divisions the number of entries made it difficult to select only one winner and for this reason we are awarding honorable mentions this year."

Copies of the manuscripts receiving the awards and those receiving honorable mentions are to be placed on file at the Greenville Public Library until June 1st.

Mrs. Gordley thanked Dr. Cook, Dr. Frank Adams and Dr. Herron of the ECC English department for judging the contest.

Mrs. Dink James, president of the Greenville Woman's Club, presided. The welcome to East Carolina College and the invocation was given by F. D. Duncan, vice-president of the college.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., co-chairman of the Arts Festival, recognized guests and made announcements concerning events of the Festival. Greenville Garden and Book Clubs were presented at the luncheon attended by approximately 300 persons.

Mrs. Galloway recognized the Athenaeum, Clio, Chatham and Inter Se Book Clubs, which are observing their 25th anniversary.

Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss, soprano, rendered two solos, "May Morning" and "Floods of Spring." She was accompanied by Dr. Wolfgang Fetsch of the East Carolina College faculty.

Floral centerpieces for the luncheon tables were designed by the Greenville Garden Clubs.

The Community Fine Arts Festival was organized by the Woman's Club of Greenville and was sponsored solely by that organization for several years. It is now sponsored jointly by the Woman's Club and the East Carolina Art Society.

The purpose of the Festival is to stimulate greater awareness of the arts and their use in serving individuals and groups. It is concerned with the need of increasing interest of school personnel in art workshops and further expansion of art in the public schools of Eastern North Carolina and the entire state.

Essentially, it is the purpose of the Festival to affect vitally the quality of the various arts in this area.

One of the features of the Festival is the Eighth Annual Sidewalk Art Show Thursday.

Paintings, drawings, prints, ceramics, sculpture, photographs, and handicrafts will be exhibited by amateur and professional North Carolina artists and craftsmen.

Special programs will be on the demonstration of making artificial flowers by Mrs. L. T. Valentine ceramics by Paul R. Minnis and students, graphic arts by Donald Sexauer and students, textile weaving display by Francis Lee Neel and students, and fresh flower arranging by Mrs. S. H. Mitchell. There will be a photography and hooked rug exhibit.

Artists and craftsmen will display their work at the Greenville Art Center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Refreshments are to be sold by the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club.

From 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. a band concert will be given by the J. H. Rose High School Band under the direction of James Rodgers.

Whedbee, Mrs. Max Eggleston, Mrs. Ed Ricks, Mrs. William Jenkins, Mrs. Donald Petterson, Mrs. Paul Minnis, Mrs. Bernard Jackson, Mrs. James Bond, Mrs. B. B. Sugg Jr., Mrs. Edwin Monroe, Mrs. Connor Merritt Jr., Mrs. Tom Vickers, Alonza E. Forrest and R. E. Rogers.

Special exhibits this year at the Greenville Art Center are East Carolina College graduate students Thesis Exhibition (paintings, graphics and ceramics) May 1-19. There will be art work on display in each of the city schools and Junior High through May 12 and at East Carolina College in the Rawl Building on the third floor Hall Fine Arts Festival.

Gallery, the student show; Kate Lewis Gallery, Wayne Frick and Karen Best (sculpture and painting), May 1 through May 19.

There are motion pictures, lectures, assembly with glee clubs and grade groups performing a pageant of our Musical Heritage, modern dance, band concerts and many other events planned for the Fine Arts Festival.

May 9, 10, 11 in the Flanagan Sylvan Amphitheater at ECC, "The Merchant of Venice" will be presented by the East Carolina College Greenville Little Theatre. This is the fifth Shakespearean play to be given in this amphitheater as a part of the Fine Arts Festival.

PARTICIPANTS IN THE FINE ARTS FESTIVAL luncheon Saturday were Mrs. J. C. Galloway, chairman, Ovid Pierce who introduced the speaker, Mrs. Elizabeth Boatwright Coker, and Mrs. Dink James, president of the Greenville Woman's Club.

Story Of Michelangelo To Have Two Showings

"The Titan," a motion picture showing the life and works of Michelangelo, will be shown in McGinnis Auditorium tonight at eight o'clock and again on Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock and Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

The 67 minute film does a resourceful job at what only the movie camera can do: give motion and meaning to inanimate things. The story is narrated by Frederic March.

The Irving Stone Book "The Agony and the Ecstasy" has topped the best selling list for many months. Hundreds of people have become more interested in Michelangelo than ever before. The Arts Festival Committee hopes the three showings will give everyone interested an opportunity to see the film.

The film has been lent by the N. C. Museum of Art. Admission is free.

Grow Your Money

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many of you girls have inquired about ways to earn money at home because outside jobs are scarce.

Study your community's needs to determine what would be in demand.

Staging children's parties is an idea. You supply everything down to the cake and help run the party on the big day. Busy parents are likely to pay well for this service. Be careful to estimate your costs properly, tacking on your own fee.

Another made to order money maker for young people is raising and selling plants. Booklets and pamphlets on growing plants in your area may be obtained from state agricultural services. A book or two borrowed from the public library can further supplement your knowledge.

People who make money in plants usually specialize.

African violets are a popular collector's item. Their many strains may be propagated easily in little clay pots. Decorate the pots by spraying them and pasting a wide band of braid around the rim. Or search out attractive containers to place the pots in.

Garden vegetables can pay their way. If you get an early start. Many gardeners prefer putting in plantings instead of seeds. Give extra service such as wrapping tomato roots with newspapers.

Choose vegetables not commonly found in your area. Provide recipes along with your plants and you'll be especially popular.

Herbs are easy to grow and sell. Good herb books can acquaint you with all the lore necessary to provide a little pamphlet with your herbs. Remember, as a sales pitch, that some people make a potpourri of herb foliage to use for scenting linens.

Popular herbs are those used in salads such as tarragon and chervil. Basil, which has a long romantic history and is thought by many people to be indispensable to tomato dishes, is a good herb to cultivate.

People who sell herbs prefer to start them in pots as they are tender transplants.

The way to start a market is usually by simply advertising in a local paper: "Herbs for sale" or whatever you have.

Dishwashing Tip

Helen Worth, who runs a famous cooking school in New York City, offers this dishwashing tip: When you stack dishes after a meal, leave the forks and knives between plates.

This prevents grease from transferring to the clean under surfaces, and simplifies the putting in plantings instead of seeds. Give extra service such

Lingering Adverse Public Reaction

The steel industry, a giant in the American economy, will not quickly recover from the one-two-punch dealt in recent weeks by the Kennedy administration.

Adverse public reaction to the abortive price increase announcement still lingers in spite of the subsequent statements that the differences between the administration and Big Steel were smoothed over after the companies back away from the announced price increase.

Now with the indictment of three steel companies, five company executives and a trade association on charges of anti-trust violations, Big Steel again finds itself decidedly on the defensive in the public arena.

The steel companies have denied the charges brought against them, and the administration has asserted there is no connection between the present indictments and the recent controversy over price increases. The fact remains that for the moment at least in the minds of many Americans the steel industry has not one but two black eyes. If the government successfully prosecutes its case against electrical companies and executives, the entire steel industry will face a difficult uphill struggle to regain the favorable public image it obviously desires.

Even so, the fact that the steel industry has very recently taken a drubbing from the administration should not prove a stumbling block in the path of vigorous prosecution of the indictments that have now been brought. Neither should the recent denouncement of the steel companies by the President influence the decision in the cases that now go before the court.

In the interest of justice the two matters should be kept separate as much as possible. The differences between the administration and the steel companies and executives over the matter of the price increase were based on the divergent opinions of each. The validity of the present charges will be determined in a court of law, and solely on the basis of the testimony which will be heard during the trial.

Appears Shortsighted After Recent Call-Up

For a nation which has so recently witnessed dramatically the importance of its state National Guard units in a time of emergency or crisis, it appears rather shortsighted for the Army to order elimination of some 475 such units throughout the country.

It was last October when the Berlin situation degenerated to the breaking point that President Kennedy ordered to active duty some 110,000 reservists and National Guardsmen from the various states. These units afforded a quick build-up of America's military strength for ready use in case a shooting war broke out in Berlin or elsewhere. There is little question that the availability of these forces to the United States on quick notice emphasized their importance to the nation's security.

Does the Pentagon order to eliminate the 475 National Guard units indicate that the high brass feels there might not be another critical world situation in which these trained troops would be needed on short notice? Does the Pentagon consider the National Guard units it proposes to eliminate ineffective so far as the security of the nation is concerned?

On the heels of the Pentagon order to reduce the number of National Guard units came the announcement that some 110,000 reservists and Guardsmen called to active duty last October will be released during the early part of August. Is there any connection between the two announcements?

We find it difficult to understand how an organization such as the National Guard, which was so important to the nation's security a few months ago will now be subjected to a drastic reduction by the top military leaders.

Hopeful Data On Economy

By RALPH ROBEY
Readers of this column know that three or four times a year we have an off-the-record dinner with top management and outstanding private business economists to get their views on the outlook. There has just been one of those meetings and, as always, it was most informative.

At this dinner every section of the country was represented and the discussion covered the entire economy. None of the present would claim to be political experts and there were no forecasts in this field. Many of them, however, expressed dismay over what had just happened in the steel industry and some were quite vigorous in their criticism of the manner in which President Kennedy used his power and that of the Administration to force a rescinding of the price increase. This episode obviously disturbed them deeply, and raised some doubts as to the strength of the recovery from hereon.

It never is easy to summarize in meaningful terms the views of such a wide ranging analysis of what is ahead. Perhaps the best expression for this particular meeting is cautious optimism. No one foresees a boom in the immediate future, and conversely no one predicted a downturn during the remainder of 1962. It is widely expected that the next decline will come in 1963, but even there is only questionable reasoning to support this conclusion.

This dinner, it is worth emphasizing, was held immediately after a fairly large batch of reports revealing increased recovery over a wide area. For example:

Industrial production, as measured by the Index of the Federal Reserve Board, reached a new all-time high in March, and the Board said that it appears the increase is continuing in April.

Private housing starts, which have declined for four months, jumped in March by 23 percent, to an annual rate of 1,409,000 — the highest since last October.

Seasonally adjusted employment reached a new high in March, and there was another slight decline in unemployment.

Retail trade has broken out of its sluggish performance and now is clearly on the upgrade. Automobile sales also have taken a definite turn for the better.

Personal income continues to advance and is at a record level. Aggregate corporate profits for 1961 were a shade over $52 billion. That is, profits before taxes. The after-tax figure was only one-half that amount. And the rise in the total figure continued during the first three months of this year, but the rate of profit per dollar of sales is still distressingly small for business as a whole.

Gross national product in the first quarter was $549 billion. This is a new high, but it is the smallest advance from one quarter to another since the recovery began.

Now these data, both individually and collectively, may be interpreted in an encouraging manner, and the Administration is doing just that. But they do not warrant anyone throwing his hat in the air, and they do not indicate appreciable progress in solving any of the basic problems we face in this nation. There is a long list of such problems among which are an incredibly bad tax system, monopoly power of labor union leaders, a continued squeeze on profits, too much unemployment, an international balance of payments deficit, and so forth, and so on.

Management and business analysts are keenly aware of these problems. Until some real progress is made in solving these trouble spots, no one in management can be expected to become overly optimistic.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ONE THING ONLY
St. Paul in writing to the Philippians declares: "I count not myself yet to have attained, but this one thing I do. . . He reaches forward to the things which are before. He presses toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."
Life's greatest successes are made by those who say "This one thing I do." Thomas A. Edison did just one thing, or rather worked in just one area of life. The whole energy of his inventive genius was turned into the definite channel of investigating electricity and utilizing it. Other inventions bear his name, but the electrical inventions constitute the one thing into which he poured most of his life's energy. Lincoln, Lee, Carnegie, Ford — here were men to reckon with in the nineteenth century. They were men, some great, some all right, but they all had to forget a lot of things which past generations had assumed to be true. They all had to rid themselves of encumbrances. They kept their eyes upon a dim light in the future. They pressed on toward a mark.

That young person is well advised who decides to make himself or herself a specialist of some variety. Success in this line may not bring you great fame, but as Emerson pointed out even if it is only the making of a better mousetrap the world will make a path to your door.
"One thing I do. . . I press toward the mark for the prize."

Looking for Business

Tito Can't Be An Ally

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It must be accepted from now on that Tito, the dictator of Yugoslavia, who has taken more than a billion of our dollars, is an ungrateful cur, as they used to say in the dime novels. He is a plain bum who takes and bites the hand that gives him the hand-out.

He is now at peace with Soviet Russia, having to all intents and purposes entered the Soviet Universal State. At the next Communist Party Congress in the Kremlin, it is to be expected that Tito, wearing all his medals, decorated like a masquerader, will stand on the right of Khrushchev, an enemy of the United States. He will take Chou En-lai's place, now that the Chinese Reds have become Albanians.

Those who continue to believe that the Russians are not making political progress do not quite grasp what Khrushchev's objectives are and how he affects other Soviet nations.

Tito is and has always been a Communist. It has paid him to adopt the attitude of being a National Communist; that is, one who believes in the general principles of Marxism-Leninism but who also holds that this system can be adapted to each country's history and traditions and that it is not necessary to establish a Soviet Universal State.

Holding this view, he formed a separate alliance with Nehru and Nasser and established the doctrine of neutralism which resulted in the Bandung Conference (1955) and which today influences the position of most Asiatic and African countries. Tito, of course, was not present at Bandung but his influence was there.

Assuming that half a loaf is better than none at all, it was State Department policy during the Eisenhower Administration and it is policy now, but less so, to regard the neutral countries as worthy of our economic and military assistance. As a result of his neutralistic gambit, Tito got more than a billion dollars from us.

But he has now come out into the open. He is not only a Communist but he is an ally of Khrushchev. It would not at all be astonishing if Tito uses his new relationship to go after Albania, a little Communist country that lies adjacent to his but which is presently more allied to Red China than to Soviet Russia.

This must be understood about the Communist Revolution: it presents several facades. One is the fundamental, ideological Marxist-Leninist position on all phases of life and thought. This possesses the quality of religious ritualism and obedience. This side of Communist life is the same with all Communists and there can be no distinction among them. However, as this movement operates, it breaks into four groups, the Orthodox Marxists who are represented by the Chinese-Albanian group; the Right deviationists who used to be represented by Tito; the Orthodox Leninists represented by Khrushchev; the Stalinists of whom Molotov is the leader. The Stalinists and the Chinese-Albanian group tend to coalesce. Tito has now joined Khrushchev.

The inner politics of the Soviet Union State are in a constant state of flux. For instance, such satellites as Fidel Castro and Che Guevara cannot be readily identified. They will go as the wind blows. Such neutrals as Nehru and Nasser are frightened by the developments which must engulf them as they are helpless.

It is not sound to exaggerate the differences among these various groups and personalities; they are all opposed to democracy and capitalism. They all believe that the world — the entire world — must be conquered by Marxism-Leninism; that the mystical, monolithic religions have run their course, much as Christianity reduced the magnitude of Judaism and totally eliminated Manichaeism. They are uncompromising in their assumptions concerning dialectical materialism. They only differ as to the best mechanism for winning the battle and who is to be the chief. The error that Westerners (Continued on page five)

Coal In Civilian Defense

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — I do not expect a nuclear war unless one starts by accident. I do expect the cold war to last for some time, during which time fallout shelters will be constantly discussed. It is not expected that such "shelters" would protect us if our city or one nearby should be bombed. But a properly constructed shelter should protect from the "fallout" accompanying nuclear war, when some — not all — of our large cities would be destroyed.

STOCKING SHELTERS
It is one thing to build a shelter; but another thing to stock it properly with food and the many other articles needed to make it livable for two or more weeks. For details, send to the Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense, Washington 25, D. C. — or check with your local Civil Defense officials. At best, only a few of my readers will build shelters. Therefore, I wish to write this week about what the rest of us will do. Here is some good advice.

I am urging my family and friends to seriously consider how much we all owe to electricity. Lights, oil burner refrigerator, and often our cooking and other conveniences. Yet, whether or not we have a shelter, we would have no electricity if a nuclear war should start. Furthermore, those of us who would be compelled by law to remain indoors until the federal signal allowed us to go out should have enough food and water to care for our necessary requirements.

HAVE A DRIVEN WELL IF POSSIBLE
Our first expenditure should be for a driven well, to give an independent water supply. This would need a modern double-action hand pump to pump up the water. This pump should be located in the cellar, as near as possible to the "water table" level. Our city or town supply of water may be available in quantity; but it probably would be contaminated and dangerous. Whether boiling this water would make it safe to drink will be told us by Civil Defense authorities via CONELRAD (either 640 or 1240 on your radio dial).

Until a comparatively few years ago, most homes had a coal bin and a coal-burning furnace in the cellar; also, a coal-burning stove in the kitchen. That coal bin, filled with coal each fall, was a "safety deposit box" — it could be more important than one at a local bank containing stocks, bonds, and our will.

IMPORTANCE OF A FILLED COAL BIN
Such a coal bin, filled with coal, with a small coal furnace and small coal cookstove, should be a MUST for every family not near a gas reserve. At the first "shot" of a nuclear war, our electricity would be cut off. Therefore we should determine how to get on without it. A bin full of the best small anthracite or cannel coal would be the answer — plus some lanterns and a barrel of kerosene. Both the coal and the kerosene are merely stored heat — which can be used to keep us warm, cook our food, boil our water, and supply us with the light which satisfied American families for over 100 years. Readers who have no coal furnace and can buy none locally may write for free catalog to Holland Furnace Co., Holland, Michigan.

We are used to buying stocks and bonds to store in our safe deposit boxes; but during the months ahead I shall discuss stocks, bonds, and coal — with a pile of "hearts of pine" wood for starting a fire with matches. It is a shame that coal has been forgotten. Someday there will be a war from which we Americans will suffer, even if it is not a nuclear war. Just as Dr. Einstein discovered atomic energy, which led to the destructive bombs, so Col. Glenn by his triple orbit of the globe showed us where the next great war will be fought — 200 miles (1,000,000 feet) above our cities.

WE SHOULD REVISE OUR PLANS
Since February 20th we have been living in a new world. (Continued on Page 5)

Other Editors Saying Withholding UN Funds

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The United Nations Acting Secretary-General U Thant said several days ago what should be common knowledge for those who know anything about the U.N. organization. The U.N. chief said a powerful nation could bankrupt the U.N. by withholding its dues out of dislike for a U.N. peace keeping operation. That seems to be precisely what Russia and several other Communist bloc countries are now doing.

Bankrupting the U.N. would be one way of destroying the world organization and that is the ultimate goal of the Communist bloc. The Soviet Union's share of the cost of the operations in the Congo and Middle East has been one-sixth. Cost of the operation is $11.8 million each month, and up to the end of 1961 member nations had paid only 65 percent of the Congo operation and only 73 percent of the Middle East costs.

Thant frankly has discussed the possibility of bankruptcy for the U.N. The U.N. depends upon three M's for the peace keeping operations it assumes: men, money and materials. If these three M's are not forthcoming, then the future of the U.N. is quite gloomy. Those are the words Thant himself used.

Actually, the U.N. is solvent on its normal activities and running behind only on the Congo and Middle East forces. This means that the U.N. would be in relatively good shape financially if some of the delinquent countries would come through with their share of the costs.

It is understandable why Russia and some of the other Red nations would want to see the end of the U.N. It is not easy to understand why some of the Western nations deliberately set out to ruin U.N. prestige in its field operations by refusing to pay their share of the cost. That is what France, for example, is doing.

Along this same line, Thant defended the idea of every country having one vote in the U.N. General Assembly, however large or small its financial contribution. British Prime Minister Macmillan and U.S. Sen. Richard Russell both thought it unfair. Thus we have the spectacle of Russia not paying its dues, yet enjoying the same vote privilege of the U.S., which is paying far more than anyone.

Thant's attitude was that in regard to representation in the context of their (member nations) capacity to pay, "we should look at this problem in the light of the practices prevailing in many countries." Well, what goes on behind national borders hasn't anything to do with what goes on in U.N. headquarters in New York. Thant has missed the point: there, responsibility should be at least in proportion to the amount of money and effort each nation pours into the U.N. to make that organization a success.

BBB Has A Friend In Court

By ELMER ROESSNER

The United States Supreme Court, in a decision that was largely swamped by more important rulings last week, has turned up as a strong ally of Better Business Bureaus.

It upheld the Federal Trade Commission's order requiring a luggage company to cease ticketing its products when it knew that the products were customarily sold at lower prices.

The luggage company, as many companies have done in many lines, put tickets on its products that, the Federal Trade Commission charged, were about $2 above the price ordinarily charged by retailers in major Eastern markets. The ticketed price was from $12.50 to $22 an item.

set," offered for $7.95 and, if you were persistent, you could have bought them for $4.95. Blankets and bedding are often offered in stores at half the prices embroidered into the goods at the factory. I have seen sets of kitchen utensils with $25 factory price tags, although the tools were worth only one-tenth that.

Better Business Bureaus and other organizations have been fighting this widespread practice. Honest merchants fight it more vigorously than others, since each offering of these phony discounts makes the square-shooter look like a gyp.

Neither the FTC or the BBB objects to a retailer selling at below the regular price. But they object to items factory marked with a price that never was the regular price. They do not object if a violin, regularly sold for $99, is sold for $49. But they say the public is being gyped when a violin regularly sold for $49 carries a label saying the price is $298 or even $99 if that isn't true.

PARTIAL DECEIT NOT ALLOWED

In this case, the luggage maker argued that reduced prices were offered by retailers representing only 37 per cent of its total retail sales. The FTC order was ill-founded, the company contended, because most of the retailers across the country were selling the luggage at ticketed prices.

But, the Justice Department declared, "misleading" a "substantial" proportion of the retail customers is not excused by not having deceived the others. The "relevant" market area in question, it said, is where the customer, "deceived by false implication," buys.

In general, the Supreme Court has given the FTC full power to cite all manufacturers who use exaggerated prices on their goods. The fact that the so-called "list" price is asked in Alaska is not a defense if most of the market charges less. Thus a flight of a quarter of a century by Better Business Bureaus, and by almost as long by the Attorney General's office, has been won in the Supreme Court. But until the authority granted is generally exercised, a housewife going into a discount store and liking an appliance should weigh the words of the salesman who points out a $145 price tag on the item and offers it for $129. A good step may be to tear off the price tag and say, "My uncle Elmer told me about this," and then offer what she thinks it is worth — say $95.

SATURDAY FIRE . . . A Greenville fire truck stands in front of a house at 1400 North Washington St. which was heavily damaged by fire about 12:25 p.m. Saturday. Fire officers said the blaze originated in a closet and the front bedroom was completely engulfed in flames when they arrived. Heavy charring occurred in all parts of the house, occupied by Mrs. Mable Cross. Fire alarm box 423 at the intersection of Church and Allen Sts. was turned in for the fire.

Boy Admits He Set School Fire

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a 10-year-old boy admitted starting a fire Sunday that wrecked a Roman Catholic elementary school building in suburban Irondequoit. The loss was estimated at a half million dollars.

Police said the boy, not identified because of his age, would be turned over to juvenile authorities.

A fire official said the youngster admitted setting three fires in the two-story brick building at St. Ambrose School.

Touchy Abortion Topic Is Handled In Quiet Manner

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' "The Defenders" on Saturday night moved into a touchy area with a story about the trial of a dedicated doctor charged with performing abortions — operations illegal in 50 states.

The program was dropped like a hot potato by its three regular sponsors, and was denied airtime on a number of CBS affiliates because of its theme. But whether one enjoyed the program, or whether one approved of the doctor, the story certainly raised an issue or two.

The drama asked whether an unmarried girl should have only a choice between bearing an unwanted child or of submitting to an operation which is against the law. To make its point, the program had as one of the doctor's patients a girl who went to him for help after being criminally assaulted by a stranger.

Unfortunately, also in an effort to make its point, the story line took some pretty sudsy turns. For instance, the successful physician who turned to helping unfortunate girls did so because his own daughter died in the hands of a butcher.

E. G. Marshall as the defense attorney remained almost blandly aloof and neutral as the chips fell. But it was, all in all, a most interesting program, done with good taste and a quiet manner.

"Sixty Hours to the Moon" was an ABC briefing Sunday night on some of the study and preparation to put men on the moon and, after that, onto other farther away planets. Despite the practical statements by the experts and a down-to-earth commentary by astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., it's still hard for the post-teenage viewer to believe its all real and not science fiction.

As Marine Col. Glenn explained kids understand it all very well — it's just us adults who shake our heads.

The crime was perfect: the gang took two years to plan the holdup and they got away with almost $3 million. NBC Sunday night, in "The World's Greatest Robbery," showed in great detail how the Brinks robbery in Boston was accomplished. Unfortunately, the meticulous reconstruction was neither as interesting nor fast-moving as some of the cops and robbers shows it inspired.

Next week NBC will show how the crooks finally got caught — which will take another hour.

Admiral Hopes Battleship Reminds 'Why They Died'

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The U.S.S. North Carolina, moored here as a memorial to those who gave their lives in wartime, will serve as "an eternal monument to brave men and a source of inspiration for all Americans."

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke voiced these sentiments Sunday in the principal address dedicating the battleship which played a big role in World War II sea warfare in the Pacific.

The retired admiral expressed the hope that visitors to the ship in the years to come will "remember not only those who died — but why they died. And from this memory let us all strengthen our own resolve to protect and preserve the blessings of freedom, whatever the cost may be."

Gov. Terry Sanford and Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges, who preceded Sanford as Tar Heel governor, took part in the ceremonies aboard the ship. Some 2,000 on the ship, and other thousands in a nearby parking lot were in the audience.

Admiral Claude Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations, said the North Carolina will continue to serve her country, although in a different capacity.

"Her hull and her weapons may represent, in a way, a bygone era in the story of naval power and naval tactics, but her spirit remains modern and she will thereby continue to contribute in a great measure to the security of the United States and the moral fiber of her citizenry," Admiral Ricketts declared.

Burke, former chief of naval operations, included a stern warning against indifference to communism in his address.

He labeled the word "coexist" as one from the Communist dictionary, and said it means "not to live together in peace, but to exist without physical struggle, without war as we know it, under the domination of Communist leaders."

The great danger for Americans, Burke added, lies in "our wishful belief that the threat has gone and that communism and democracy can coexist."

Collision Badly Damages Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norwegian ship Tarantel, a great rip in her side and her stern all but submerged, inched toward port today with the bodies of two passengers who died in her collision with a Greek freighter in the pea-soup fog of Chesapeake Bay Sunday.

Towing the stricken passenger-cargo ship in her painfully slow trip to the Newport News salvage yard were a tug and a Navy salvage vessel. With their help, the Tarantel stayed afloat after the 6:20 a. m. collision with the freighter Hellenic Splendor.

The starboard side of the Tarantel was punctured from water line to deck when the prow of the Hellenic Splendor rammed her just about squarely amidship. The freighter was heavily damaged, too, but continued under her own power on a voyage to Philadelphia.

Passengers on the Tarantel who died in the collision were Richard Berry, about 40, of Westfield, N. J., and Mrs. Augusta Fabriani, about 55, of Montreal, wife of an Italian foreign service officer.

Three persons on the Tarantel were injured, none seriously.

There were seven passengers and a crew of 47 aboard the Tarantel as she headed into the bay from the Atlantic, en route to Newport News to pick up general cargo before proceeding to the Far East.

The Hellenic Splendor was heading out of the bay on a trip from Baltimore to Philadelphia when she collided with the Norwegian vessel at the mouth of the bay, a mile and a half east-southeast of the Chesapeake Bay lightship.

Suppose they do quarrel with each other; they will join each other under attack as we always join Great Britain and France when they are attacked. Those who put their trust in Mao destroying Khrushchev are whistling in the wind; they will join forces against us, as Tito signed up with Khrushchev. Both sides have ceremonial pictures of Marx and Lenin in their offices.

Most conclusions and measurements are useless. Even the most modern missiles may be outdated. On the other hand, those close to gas wells may see a renewed demand for property. Those of us in large cities further away may not be able to depend upon gas in case of war. I shall not count upon gas or electricity in an emergency, but only upon coal. Hence I talk about Stocks, Bonds, and Coal in my "Safe Deposit Box".

WE ARE OPPOSED TO THE ORGANIZATION OF CAROLINA TELEPHONE BY C.W.A.

Frankly, we don't believe the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO) is needed in our community or in our area.

Further, we feel the unionization will be detrimental to industrial development of this section.

We have viewed with alarm current trends in union activity — the strikes, strife, shutdowns, violence, and featherbedding, along with the makework practices, bitterness, and gangsterism which so often accompany unionization. Most recently we've been learning of the plush union offices being built and the 5-hour workday electrical workers' contract just negotiated. Yes, these things disturb us.

By contrast we are proud of the progress which Carolina Telephone has attained in its sixty years of existence. In all of that time, there has never been a loss of service due to a walk-out. A recent survey of 311 eastern North Carolina firms has indicated that the telephone company's wages and fringe benefits are equal to or above prevailing community levels.

Continued progress and modernization of telephone service are essential to the further development and industrialization of our area. We sincerely hope that our telephone employee friends and neighbors will reject the current union effort to organize them.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 19
After a ride of almost ten miles, Hugh Spencer and the Simpson brothers approached a substantial three story frame house.

"This is the place," Hugh said, and realized why the people of Westery had entertained suspicions about August Dale. Anyone who could afford to buy such a place was obviously wealthy, and a man whose source of income was unknown would inevitably draw attention to himself when he owned the finest house in the area.

Dave Simpson dismounted and opened the gate, then ran back to his horse, and the trio rode up a winding path to the front door.

A man wearing a well-tailored suit appeared. "I've been expecting you, Captain Spencer," he said with the accent of a London aristocrat.

Instantly alert, Hugh and the Simpsons followed the man into a small sitting room, where, to their astonishment, Benjy Flaherty was sitting in a chair near the hearth.

Grimacing apologetically, Benjy stood. "I thought I'd come out ahead of you and start the investigation. That's why Mr. Dale knew you were coming."

Hugh's reply was indirect. "Dave," he said crisply to the elder Simpson, "go around to the back and guard the rear entrance. Dick, stand guard at the front door. If anyone tries to leave, order him to halt, and if he disobeys, shoot."

The Simpsons raced out and Hugh turned to Benjy, his eyes hard. "Sergeant Flaherty, I ask you for an explanation of your disappearance from Westery."

There was a long silence, and Benjy humbly hid his head sheepishly. "When you asked me to join the army, Hugh, you wanted to know what I'd do if I ever met an old friend. I didn't know at the time, but I gave you your answer this afternoon. August is somebody I knew in England a long time ago."

If Dale was an old acquaintance of Benjy's, it was probable that he was a counterfeiter, and Hugh quietly gripped the hilt of his sword. "Is there anything you'd like to say, Mr. Dale?"

"I know why you've come here, Captain. Benjy has told me, but that wasn't necessary. I've been hounded by the people of Westery for months." Dale smiled briefly. "You'll find no evidence of the kind that you're seeking, Captain. Not in this house."

Hugh heard a sound behind a closed door at the far end of the small chamber. "Are you here alone, Mr. Dale?"

"You must have heard the fire crackling in the hearth in the parlor, Captain."

Hugh ignored the reply and walking to the door, raised the latch. He halted in astonishment when he saw the red-haired, green-eyed girl he had loved and had been unable to forget, even after she had betrayed him. "Sara Dean!"

August Dale was alarmed. "Don't shoot him, Kate! He brought some soldiers with him!"

Hugh realized that Sara was holding a pistol, and that she was pointing it straight at him.

"Don't come any closer," she murmured.

Hugh laughed grimly, reached out, and caught hold of her wrist. She struggled, but was no match for him, and the pistol fell to the floor. He kicked it into a corner, drew his sword, and took his own pistol from his belt. "I've been waiting a long, long time for this reunion," he said.

"Don't hurt her!" Benjy shouted. "Kate is harmless."

"My experience indicates that you're guilty of a gross understatement," Hugh replied coldly, keeping a wary eye on the two men while continuing to watch the pale, silent Sara Dean.

"Benjy is right, Captain," August Dale declared earnestly. "My daughter has never used firearms."

"Your daughter—if that's who she is—shouldn't point a pistol, particularly at someone who has cause to believe she's less than trustworthy."

The girl stood erect, her head high, and in spite of her predicament she maintained an air of dignity.

She was unable to look at Hugh, however, and averted her eyes when he stared at her. If he hadn't learned a bitter lesson, he thought, he would swear that she was feeling deep shame, but it was more likely that she was merely chagrined at having been caught by a man she had wronged. He roused himself and demanded, "How many others are in this house, Dale?"

"There's nobody else, Captain. Kate and I live alone."

Hugh called Dick Simpson and ordered him to search the place. He did not speak again until Dick returned, alone.

"I've looked everywhere from the attic to the cellar, Captain, and I ain't seen a living sign of anybody."

"Get your brother," Hugh realized he was alone with a group of acknowledged criminals, and braced himself.

Dave Simpson followed Dick into the room.

"Do you know these people?" Hugh asked.

"No, sir," Dick replied firmly and without hesitation.

Dave chuckled slyly. "It wouldn't bother me none if I got to know that girl, Captain."

She ignored the comment, but her eyes flashed angrily.

Hugh shifted his position slightly so he could fire at anyone who reached for a weapon. "I'll start with you, Flaherty. Explain your actions of this afternoon, and if you lie to me, I'll prosecute you as an enemy spy."

"I don't blame you for not trusting me, Hugh," Benjy said plaintively. "If we was wearing each other's shoes, I'd feel the same as you do. I didn't know August was here until the sheriff huffed down in Westery mentioning his name. We haven't set eyes on each other for five years, maybe six. He moved up out of my class long before I was sent to Newgate the last time. But we worked together years ago, and I—well, I was scared he was the man we've been hunting. So I came out here to warn him and give him time to get away."

Dale struck a pose and cleared his throat. "He's told you the whole truth, sir. All I can add is that I expressed my gratitude to him, but I assured him I had no reason to run. I've retired from my former profession, and I'm innocent of all wrong-doing."

The Simpsons, who were too simple to dissemble, were staring at him—a wide-eyed awe. "That's Deacon Dale!" they said to each other solemnly.

"I believe I acquired something of a reputation during my active days," Dale said modestly.

estly.

Dave Simpson was breathless. "Everybody in the trade knew you were so good that you were never arrested, not once!"

"There's always a first time," Hugh said ominously.

"You'll have to find evidence against me, Captain," Dale replied.

"Quite right," Hugh decided to take a chance and trust the Simpsons; he needed help, and as there was no one else to whom he could turn, he felt he could obtain their enthusiastic co-operation by playing on their vanity.

"Dave, Dick," he said, "do you want to become even more famous than this man you've been admiring?"

They nodded emphatically.

"You've just said yourselves that no one ever convicted him. Remember you're on the other side of the fence now, so locate his equipment. Go through this whole house, every room and every corner. Start in the attic and work your way down."

900-Mile Walk By 73-Year-Old

LAND'S END, England (AP)—Gustave de Jackheere, 73, arrived at this southernmost point of England Sunday after walking 900 miles from John O'Groats, northernmost point of Scotland.

He was met by one of his eight grandsons, the provost of Land's End and a crowd of wellwishers. He said he was in fine shape and only suffered one blister in the month-long hike.

Fund-Raising Project Was Rained Out

THE RAINS CAME, and a project bit the dust.

Sunday afternoon's rain cut short the Pitt County Cancer Crusade "roadblock" project, a fund-raising means that in past years has figured heavily in the April campaign.

"We had sixteen men on Greenville highway approaches at 2:00 p.m.," said special events chairman James Harris, "and thirty minutes later the rains came."

Despite his disappointment, Harris said there would be no follow-up attempt. "April is designated as 'Cancer Control Month' and we feel the Pitt Crusade should not be extended into May," he said.

The "roadblock" was the last fund-raising project for cancer scheduled by the sponsoring organization, the Greenville Moose Lodge. The Bowl-Down-Cancer feature, however, which was launched last week, will continue through Saturday of this week at the local lanes.

Other Events

Other Cancer Crusade events over the past weekend were a Red Sword Day Saturday, the distribution of tiny lapel emblems; and a "Tacky Party" dance at the Moose auditorium Saturday night.

The Red Sword Day work was handled by Florence Pyne and Margaret Harris.

The party-dance, sponsored by Women of the Moose, Harris described as being its customary success. It was directed this year by Mrs. Louise Carrigan.

Moose participating in Sunday's roadblock, were: Elmer

Installation

Formal installation of new officers of Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose, will be held tonight in the Moose Temple.

The occasion is open to the public.

Installing officer will be Harvey Sprinkle, deputy Supreme Governor of North Carolina Moose. The ceremonial begins at 8:00 p.m.

Parting Of Ways Over Snoring

TORTONA, Italy (AP)—Nolysleeping Umberto Berne snored his way into a hospital. Slumber-loving Giuseppe Fabbro is in jail for two years as a result.

Last June they occupied neighboring beds in a poor man's hostel. Berne's mighty snoring shattered the nocturnal calm. Fabbro tried shaking him, but Berne snored all the more. Finally Fabbro rolled the snorer out of bed and dumped a bucket of cold water on him.

That stopped the snoring but not the noise. Berne lay moaning with a fractured vertebra.

Fabbro was convicted Saturday of voluntary injury and sentenced to two years in jail.

Canvassing Wrap-Up Noting that Monday marks the last day of April, E. M. Baldree urged Crusade workers who yet had follow-up calls to make, to do so and submit final reports. Baldree's office at the Moose Lodge is serving as headquarters for the Pitt Cancer Crusade.

"I am deeply appreciative to the many volunteers who have worked so hard to make the Pitt Cancer Crusade the success it is bound to be when all reports are in," he said.

Marriage Licenses

The following is the only marriage license issued since April 20 to a white couple from the office of Mrs. Elvira Allred, Pitt County register of deeds:

John Arthur Henseff of Raleigh and Madie M. Lee of Rt. 2, Raleigh.

The following marriage licenses were issued to Negro couples during the same time period:

Harrison Dudley of Grimesland and Lucy LeRoy Chapman of RFD Vanceboro; Hubert Barnes and Velma Marie Bell, both of Rt. 1, Tarboro; James Earl Ruffin and Juanita Powell, both of Greenville; James Earl Chapman of Rt. 1, Ayden and Rosa Lee Spell of Rt. 2, Ayden; James David Parker and Lillie Levone Thompson, both of Simpson.

Moves Away To Cut Travel Time

LONDON (AP)—John Wheatley has moved 400 miles away to Scotland so that he can get to work in London quicker.

Wheatley, a senior pilot for British Overseas Airways, used to take two hours to drive the 35 miles of crowded roads from his suburban home to London Airport.

He moved to the village of Mladens in Ayrshire and now drives 15 miles to Prestwick Airport. There he catches a flight to London Airport. His total traveling time is 75 minutes — a saving of 45 minutes.

MENON ARRIVES

NEW YORK (AP)—V. K. Krishna Menon, India's defense minister, arrived Sunday to attend the United Nations Security Council meeting on the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan. He declined to make any statement at the airport concerning Kashmir.

Committee Will Judge Districts

FARMVILLE—Arch J. Flanagan, president of the North Carolina Association of Soil Conservation Districts, has announced a four-man committee to select the state's outstanding conservation district.

The judging committee will review score sheets of soil conservation districts entered in an annual recognition awards program sponsored by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The top farmer-conservationist chosen and a member of the district's governing board will be guests of Goodyear for a study-research trip to Arizona in December.

Judges in North Carolina are: Bryce R. Younts, Soil & Water Conservation Committee, Raleigh; Grover C. Dobbins, Extension Service, Raleigh; William L. Hamnett, Wildlife Resources Commission, Raleigh; and J. Frank Doggett, Extension Conservationist, Raleigh.

Winning districts and individuals will be announced in August.

Conservation program judging is being carried on in Puerto Rico, Hawaii and all 48 continental states to name the state winners who will receive trips to Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Judges score competing districts according to a uniform point system which rates accomplishments already made as well as future planned programs.

THE big musical, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," captured seven prizes, including one to Robert Morse as the male tune-show star.

The citation to Miss Leighton was for her portrayal in Tennessee Williams' "The Night of the Iguana."

It was the second straight year that the silver trophies for stellar dramatic acting went to visitors from London. The 1961 winners were Sir Laurence Olivier and Joan Plowright.

"Thanks for being so nice to the limeys," Miss Leighton enthused as she received her prize from Dame Judith Anderson.

The voting by the wing membership for the outstanding female musical star ended in a tie between Anna Maria Alberghetti of "Carnival" and Diahann Carroll of "No Strings."

Another tie was registered in the choreographer category. Agnes De Mille of "Kwamina" and Joe Layton of "No Strings" divided the honors.

The presentations were made before 1,500 guests at the wing's annual dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel by an array of stage luminaries including Helen Hayes, Robert Preston, Robert Gould, Celeste Holm, Jason Robards Jr., Ray Bolger and Helen Menken, president of the organization.

Special citations were presented to Brooks Atkinson, former drama critic of the New York Times; Bruno Zeffirelli, director-designer of the Old Vic production of "Romeo and Juliet;" and to composer Richard Rodgers. The latter also received the competitive tony for the season's outstanding score for "No Strings."

NEW YORK (AP) — Two English stars, a London play and an American musical are Broadway's 1962 Tony Award champions.

Paul Scofield and Margaret Leighton won the annual medals presented by the American Theater Wing Sunday night for distinguished performance. Named as the outstanding play — with five awards — was "A Man For All Seasons" by Robert Bolt, in which Scofield appears.

The big musical, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," captured seven prizes, including one to Robert Morse as the male tune-show star.

Engine May Be Luring Starlings

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A high-pitched twitter, comparable to the sound of crickets in late summer, may have caused the 1960 crash of an airliner in Boston.

The Federal Aviation Agency's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute here has reached that conclusion after a two-year study of the apparent affinity between starlings and Lockheed Electra aircraft.

The crash Oct. 4, 1960 killed 62 persons. Starlings — small birds that fly in flocks and feast on crickets — were found in the Electra's turbo-prop engines.

It wasn't the first time Electras had been bothered by starlings. The institute said. Several times before the Boston crash, Electras were forced to abort flights because of ingestion of the birds.

After the Boston crash institute researchers began to think there was something in the aircraft engines attracting the starlings, said Dr. Stanley Mohler, director, and researcher John Swearingen in their report.

The whine produced by the aircraft's engines contains a high-pitched twitter that sounds like a swarm of crickets, the investigators said.

Investigators made tape recordings of cricket sounds and the sounds of various aircraft engines, including the Electra.

The sound frequencies were analyzed on oscilloscopes.

"The only similar sounds were those of the crickets and the Electra engines," report Mohler and Swearingen.

This is the reason, said the researchers, the Starlings flock behind Electras as they taxi prior to takeoff.

Mohler and Swearingen, suggested that changing the number of revolutions per minute in the Electra's engines during takeoff and taxing would eliminate the sound frequency that attracts the birds.

The Mariana Islands were called the Ladrones by Magellan, researchers began to think there was something in the aircraft engines attracting the starlings, said Dr. Stanley Mohler, director, and researcher John Swearingen in their report.

Aquanymphs To Perform 2 Nights

"WATER SPRITES"—The East Carolina College Aquanymphs will have their annual free water ballet tomorrow and Wednesday nights at 8 p.m. in the East Carolina College indoor pool. Scenes as the one above will be only one of the many features. Floating patterns, precision swimming and a chorus line are also included in the program. (Reflector Staff Photo)

By MARTI MARTIN Reflector Staff Writer Last year people came and filled the stands by the East Carolina College indoor swimming pool to see the Aquanymphs Annual Water Ballet. And after the stands were filled to capacity, the people still came.

Instead of the usual one-night performance, the Aquanymphs will present two performances this year. "A Splash of Spring," theme of the 1962 water ballet, will be given at 8 p.m. in the East Carolina College Gym both tomorrow night and Wednesday night. There is no admission charge.

Precision swimming, a chorus line, oriental solo, comedy act and float patterns are a few of the features of the 1962 water show. "Twenty-one "water-sprites" will participate in the presentation, culminating over six months of practice and instruction on strokes, stunts and figures.

The Aquanymphs represent various college classifications and are students with a wide range of curriculum study. Only a few of the Aquanymphs are physical education majors. "In order to be a member of the Aquanymphs," one member stated, "one must be a woman college student who loves swimming as being a part of the Aquanymph team requires a lot of time and hard work."

Spotlighted in this year's performance will be Joyce Blizard, Ann Bradford, Anne Cates, Betty Cherry, Linda Churlton, Michelle Coviello, Dawn Culton, Jessie Dvinoft, Maria Ehrman, Ann Green, Becky Huffman, Grace Maxwell, Bunny McIlwain, Dottie Mulvey, Harriett Paylor, Ann Peaden, Judy Pear-sal, Nickie Rasmussen, Sandy Snyder, Donna Sumner, and Ann Weber.

Advisor and production director for the 1962 water ballet is Miss Gay Hogan, a teacher in the Physical Education Department at East Carolina College. The student production director for the second consecutive year is Miss Jessie Dvinoft, a senior physical education major at ECC.

The 12 selections and cast for Tuesday and Wednesday nights' performances are as follows: "Rustle of Spring," will introduce the Aquanymphs, who will form a flower with kick boards. In the second selection Anne Cates and Jessie Dvinoft will perform a duet, "Gone With the Wind," involving precision swimming.

Participating in "Climb Every Mountain," which consists of float patterns, are Ann Green, Dottie Mulvey, Nickie Rasmussen, Joyce Blizard, Grace Maxwell, Maria Ehrman, Shelly Coviello, Harriett Paylor, and Betsy Cherry.

"April Love" will be performed by Ann Weber, Dawn Culton, and Maria Ehrman. This selection involves an intricate pattern with many difficult stunts. "Ebb Tide" features solo swimmer Anne Cates with background movement by Ann Peaden, Donna Sumner, Grace Maxwell, Judy Pearsal, Bunny McIlwain and Joyce Blizard. "Rickshaw," an imaginary ride through Chinatown, will be performed by Shelly Coviello, Nickie Rasmussen, Dottie Mulvey and Betsy Cherry.

The seventh selection, called "Surprise," will be a comedy act by the faculty. A chorus line of girls and umbrellas will introduce "April Showers," which will be performed by Dawn Culton, Sandy Snyder, Jessie Dvinoft, Linda Churlton, Ann Cates, Becky Huffman and Ann Weber.

Performing a stroking pattern will be Ann Green, Judy Pearsal, Ann Bradford, Maria Ehrman, Ann Peaden and Linda Churlton in "Look For a Silver Lining."

An oriental introduction will be performed by soloist Jessie Dvinoft in "Baubles, Bangles and Beads." Aquanymphs Becky Huffman, Ann Bradford, Harriett Paylor and Sandy Snyder will circle the moon in "Moon River."

In the final selection, the 21 Aquanymphs will form a star with lighted candles against a darkened pool in "I Told Every Little Star."

Miss Gay Hogan is choreographer for the selections Rustle of Spring, Climb Every Mountain, background movement in Ebb Tide, and I Told Every Little Star.

Student choreographers and their selections are Anne Cates and Jessie Dvinoft in Gone With the Wind; Ann Weber and Dawn Culton in April Love; Anne Cates for her solo part in Ebb Tide; Shelly Coviello in Rickshaw; Dawn Culton in April Showers; Jessie Dvinoft in Look For a Silver Lining; and Baubles, Bangles and Beads; Becky Huffman and Ann Bradford in Moon River.

In charge of music for the two performances is Miss Lorraine Graff and Nancy Miller; lights, Imogene Turner, Hugh Creech, Mike Sinkler and John Creech; set construction, Janice Tripp, Anne Cates, Clarice Gallo, Cathy Anthony, and Hugh Creech.

Winston Tops Raleigh 13-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Not even the number 13 bothers Winston-Salem, breezing along in the Carolina League first place. For their 13th game of the season, the Red Sox piled up a 13-0 margin over Raleigh Sunday. Winston-Salem was helped to the win by 13 bases on balls, plus 10 hits.

The weather made bad luck for Kinston and Durham. Their game was rained out, and a doubleheader was set for tonight. Lew Randall and Bob Chance provided the home runs that helped Burlington to a 7-3 decision over Wilson. Greensboro beat Rocky Mount 5-4, on Frank Fernandez's 3-run homer in the 10th inning. Jerry Stephenson scattered seven hits in as many innings for the Winston-Salem win over Raleigh. It was the third win of the season for Stephenson.

The Tobs got off to a lead in their game with Burlington, but Randall's homer in the fourth evened things. Then a two-run homer by Chance in the fifth sealed the game for the Indians. Rocky Mount scored a run in the ninth to get an extra inning with Greensboro. A rally in the 10th was paced by Tony Perez, with a homer good for two scores. It went for naught, when Fernandez got his homer in the Greensboro side of the 10th. The games tonight: Kinston at Durham (2) Raleigh at Winston-Salem Greensboro at Rocky Mount Burlington at Wilson.

Deacs Get Chance To Pull Way Ahead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wake Forest, leading the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race by only a few percentage points, has a chance to pull away in a home game against North Carolina State today and at Duke on Wednesday. Then on Friday the Deacons will be host to Clemson's Tigers.

who are tied with them in conference won-lost records. Wake Forest has won five of its last seven games against all opposition and has a 5-2 league record. Clemson has won six of its last seven, and is 6-3 in the ACC. The Wake Forest losses in the last seven games were a surprising 3-0 shutout by Virginia last Friday, and a 6-4 loss to Clemson.

However, the Deacons came back to blank Maryland 5-0 Saturday. Clemson defeated North Carolina State 9-2. The defeat knocked Duke out of a tie for the lead, and the Wolfpack now has a 4-3 conference mark. Duke defeated Virginia 9-2 and South Carolina edged North Carolina 3-2 in other games Saturday. North Carolina at Wake Forest is the only game for ACC teams today.

Here is the rest of the week's schedule: Tuesday—North Carolina at Duke, Maryland at Penn State, Virginia at William and Mary. Wednesday—Wake Forest at Duke, Furman at Clemson. Thursday—No games scheduled. Friday—North Carolina at Maryland, South Carolina at Duke, North Carolina State at Virginia, Clemson at Wake Forest. Saturday—North Carolina at Virginia, South Carolina at Wake Forest, North Carolina State at Maryland, Clemson at Duke.

First Playoff In History

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—They didn't exactly burn up the course, in fact they shot their worst rounds, but defending champion Mickey Wright and persistent challenger Ruth Jessen still were around today for the first playoff in the 23-year history of the women's Titleholders Golf Tournament. Both posted uninspired 77s Sunday in the final round and finished with 72-hole totals of 295. Miss Wright, who won last year with a 299 total, had to sink a 10-foot putt on the difficult 18th green at Augusta Country Club to stay in the running for the $2,500 pot the girls will divide after an 18-hole playoff. The winner will pocket $1,400 and the loser $1,100. Miss Wright and Miss Jessen stayed in a deadlock after the second round. Each shot a 70 in the third round Saturday and with 54-hole totals of 218, each was ideally positioned for a successful assault on Patty Berg's record score of 291 in 1955. But wind and fourth-round pressure combined to send scores soaring.

Pirate Nine Fall Victim To Strong Pfeiffer Club

By CHARLES VAUGHAN Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina Pirates fell victims to a powerful Pfeiffer nine Saturday by a score of 17-7.

Liston To Open Camp May 2

By GEORGE ESPER PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jack Nilon, adviser to Sonny Liston, said today the No. 1 heavyweight contender would open his training camp Wednesday at South Fallsburg, N.Y., for his title fight with champion Floyd Patterson.

Nilon made the disclosure when asked if he thought the contract signed for the September title fight several weeks ago still would be valid in view of the New York State Athletic Commission's refusal last Friday to grant Liston a license for that state. New York had been announced as the site on the stipulation Liston received a license. "It (the contract) must be valid or we wouldn't waste our time and money going into training," said Nilon. "There is nothing in there that says the fight is predicated on Sonny being granted a license in New York."

Nilon said the next move would be up to the Patterson camp in obtaining a suitable site. In the original contract, the Patterson camp inserted a return-bout clause should Liston win. The National Boxing Association frowns up return bout clauses in championship fights.

Nilon said he felt the fight possibly would end up in Philadelphia or Chicago—in states which are NBA members.

The Los Angeles Angels won 17 and lost 10 games last July, their only winning month during their first season in the American League.

Earl Boykin was the losing pitcher while Hal Stealey was credited with the victory. Pfeiffer started the scoring early in the game by opening up with three runs on two hits, a hit batter, and a walk. Mac Lingerfelt led the frame off with an infield single. Boykin hit the next batter to put runners on first and second. Randy Ewing followed with a double scoring Lingerfelt and McManus. Ewing later scored on a fielder's choice. In the bottom of the first, the Pirates managed one run on one hit, a walk, and an error.

Pfeiffer picked up one run in the second and two runs in the fourth inning. Pfeiffer continued to overpower the Bucs as they came in to score nine runs in the top of the fifth. One of these nine runs came on a homerun over the rightfield fence by Billy Wynne. Pfeiffer also added two runs in top of the eighth frame.

The Bucs rallied in the bottom of the fourth to tally three runs on three hits, a walk, and an error. Lacy West led off the inning for the Pirates by arriving safely on first on an error. Bobby Joyce then laid down a perfect bunt to tally an infield hit and send West to second. Art Henriette, a pinch hitter, followed with a walk to load the bases for the Bucs. With one out, Carlton Barnes and Junior Green followed with back to back singles to score West, Joyce, and Barnes. The Pirates also managed to pick two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh. This was not enough, however, as Pfeiffer went on to win 17-7.

Lenoir Rhyne Leads CC Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lenoir Rhyne can take a big stride this week toward the Carolinas Conference baseball championship.

The Bears lead with an 8-2 record, followed by Newberry (5-2) and Pfeiffer (7-3). Lenoir Rhyne plays four games in the league this week, as does Pfeiffer. Newberry plays two. But both those games are against Pfeiffer, which could allow the Bears to gain ground while the runners-up chew on each other.

Catawba lost three out of four games last week and dropped to fourth place with a 7-5 record. Next in order are East Carolina 4-3, Appalachian and High Point 5-5, Elon 4-5, Western Carolina 3-5, Atlantic Christian 2-7 and Guilford 0-8.

This week's schedule:

Today—Presbyterian at Newberry, Lenoir Rhyne at Appalachian (2), Catawba at Elon.

Tuesday—High Point at Pfeiffer, Lenoir Rhyne at Catawba, Guilford at Elon, East Carolina at Atlantic Christian.

Wednesday—Atlantic Christian at High Point, Newberry at Georgia Southern.

Thursday—Guilford at Lenoir Rhyne.

Friday—High Point at Western Carolina, Newberry at Pfeiffer 2, Catawba at Atlantic Christian, Elon at Campbell.

Saturday—High Point at Western Carolina, Pfeiffer at Appalachian, Catawba at East Carolina.

Penske Takes Danville Race

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Roger Penske of Bryn Mawr, Pa., won the President's Cup sports car race here Sunday in a ding-dong duel with Bob Holbert of Washington, Pa.

Penske's, who'd won the President Cup race two years ago at Marlboro, Md., gunned his D-modified Telsa Cooper to the finish of the 2½-hour grind a scant 100 feet ahead of Holbert's E-modified Porsche RS61.

The race was cut to 2½ hours from the originally scheduled three hours because of tight racing schedule over the 3.2-mile Virginia International Raceway course, and for the first half hour was plagued by heavy rain. Times were extremely slow.

Walter Hansen, at the wheel of a Cooper Maserati owned by Briggs-Cunningham led for the first hour of the race but fell two laps behind when his car developed engine trouble. He made up ground quickly and was in the same lap with Penske and Holbert at the end, but lacked the time to do better than third place.

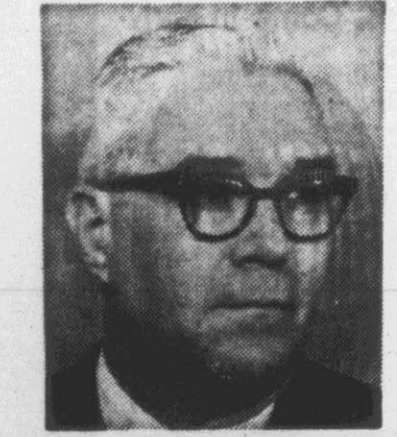

Arthur Tweedale of Arlington, Va., driving an Elva MK5, was third.

Rawls Favored To Win Tourney

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Betsy Rawls again is a favorite to win the $7,500 Peach Belt Women's golf tournament here annually in her honor.

Miss Rawls can expect strong competition from Ruth Jessen of Seattle, Wash., when the 54-hole event gets underway Friday at the Country Club of Spartanburg.

Miss Jessen won last year. Miss Rawls has won twice.

Chappell Signs With Syracuse Nationals

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Wake Forest All America Len Chappell, first college draft choice of the Syracuse Nats of the National Basketball Association, signed a contract with the Nats Sunday.

Terms were not announced.

The 6-foot, 8-inch Chappell, who weighs 225 pounds, worked his way to the top five of the nation's scorers this season, pumping in 892 points.

Wake Forest Coach Bones McKinney said the Nationals will use Chappell "much of the same way we used him at Wake Forest. Syracuse wanted him mainly for his strength off the boards, but they are getting good shooting ability as well."

McKinney added, "He's got a lot to learn from the pros, but he's got the size and stamina and shooting ability to make a really good pro player."

Chappell, from Portage, Pa., arrived in Syracuse Saturday and reached a verbal agreement quickly with Nats owner Don Blaisone. He boarded a plane for Winston-Salem after signing the contract Sunday.

The Wake Forest Deacons, with Chappell at the helm, were ranked third in the nation in a pre-season poll. They got off to a slow start but came back to win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. Then they went into the NCAA playoffs and became the third team in the nation, under top-ranked Cincinnati and runner-up Ohio State.

Chappell said he plans to attend summer school at Wake Forest and obtain his degree in business administration by August.

Patton Lives Up To His Promise

By KEN ALYTA

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — A few years ago when the Carolinas Golf Writers Association honored Tar Heel Billy Joe Patton by presenting him their Carolinas Golfer of the Year Award he accepted it conditionally.

At the time Patton hadn't created much of a stir in golfing circles since his one-stroke miss behind Ben Hogan and Sam Snead in the 1954 Masters and victory in the North and South Amateur Tournament here later that same spring.

But he promised the writers that he'd win something again to merit their high rating.

It took a while, but the 40-year-old lumberman from Morganton has backed up his promise. Starting gradually, he won the Carolinas Amateur last summer and followed up a few weeks later by running away from the field in the Southern Amateur at Knoxville, Tenn.

Last Saturday he won his second North and South with a 7 and 6 trounce of Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga.

In averaging a 1 up 36-hole loss to Manley in the 1951 finals, Patton was three under par for 30 holes, all in the morning.

He raced to a five-hole lead at the turn and led by six before three-putting on 18 to drop back to five at the luncheon break. It was his only three-putt green in the last four rounds he played.

Although he missed three putts of four feet or less during the morning 18, he balanced that lapse by making three of his famed trouble shots after bad drives had sent him straying far off the fairway. They earned him a half in birdies, a winning birdie and a half in par.

Owners Are Not Scaring Easily

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Owners and trainers with 3-year-olds eligible for Saturday's Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs apparently don't scare easily—even in face of recent eye-popping performances by Sir Gaylord and Riddan.

Sir Gaylord, unbeaten in four starts this year, and Riddan, all-winners last year and not far off that pace this season, stand out. Still as many as 15 horses are expected to start in the 1¼-mile $25,000-added blue ribbon turf classic.

The latest issue of the future book odds from Callente quoted Sir Gaylord the 7-5 choice with Riddan held at 2-1.

Riddan, beaten twice in Florida by Sir Gaylord before the latter was sidelined by an ankle injury late in February, won the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday in 1:47 3-5 one and one-eighth miles. He then finished out the derby distance in 01.2 two-fifths of a second faster than the derby record hung up by Whirlaway in 1941.

Sir Gaylord, making his first appearance since winning the Everglades at Hialeah Park, reeled off seven furlongs in 1:22 2-5 Saturday in taking the Stepping Stone Purse on the slower Churchill Downs track. He proceeded to work out the derby distance in 2:02 2-5.

Off the two displays of speed and stamina, the 88th run for the Patton pointed to his iron play as the key to his success. "They got the job done, hole after hole," he noted.

Casey's Mets Down Phillies, 8-0

LARGE ROCKFISH . . . J. Z. Garris of Greenville proudly holds a 22 and one-half-pound rock caught over the weekend. Garris netted the large fish in the Tar River below Greenville, along with two smaller ones.

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

It should have happened in Brooklyn. The Mets-Phillies game, that is. Dizzy as the Dodgers at their daftiest. The only thing lacking was Casey Stengel letting a sparrow out of his cap.

That was the fourth inning of the New York Mets' first game with Philadelphia Sunday. New York got seven runs on four hits, two hit batters, a wild pitch, two errors, a stolen base, a sacrifice fly and some incredible Philadelphia play off and winging to an 8-0 triumph that extended their winning string to two. The streak was halted in the nightcap when the Phillies bombed Casey's boys 10-2.

In a more sober affair at St. Louis, Stan Musial went 5-for-6 with two homers as St. Louis split with Cincinnati, the Cards taking the first 16-3, the Reds the second 4-3. In San Francisco, Jack Sanford and Billy Pierce had three-hit shutouts as the Giants swept two from Chicago, 7-0 and 6-0. In Los Angeles, Pittsburgh regained the top spot with a sweep against the Dodgers, 6-1 and 1-0. In Houston, Roman Mejias' ninth inning homer brought the Colts a 3-2 decision over Milwaukee.

In the American League, New York beat Washington twice, 3-2 and 11-6. Minnesota took two from Cleveland, 8-4 and 7-3. Chicago won a couple from Boston, 2-1 and 5-1. Detroit out-slugged Los Angeles 13-6 and Baltimore stopped Kansas City 8-3.

The Mets' fourth inning was as weird as Frankenstein and complicated as a Russian novel. It featured, among other things, the Mets putting two runners on third at the same time. All hands were safe and a run scored when the Phillie catcher tagged the wrong man and another player eventually threw the ball away.

Frank Thomas was hit by a pitched ball twice and by a thrown ball once while running the bases—all in the same inning. When it was over, the Mets had seven runs and rookie Al Jackson, who spaced eight hits, had his first victory. Home runs by Tony Gonzalez, Don Demeter and Wes Covington featured the angered Phil's 14-hit attack off four New York pitchers in the second game. Bobby Locke, who allowed only one hit over 4 2-3 innings, got the victory in relief.

Vada Pinson and Gordy Coleman of the Reds and Musial socked home runs in each game at St. Louis. Musial's big day boosted his average to .396. Ken Boyer drove in five runs and Curt Flood had four hits in support of Larry Jackson's six-hit pitching for the Cards in the opener. Eddie Kasko's ninth-inning home run pulled out the nightcap for the Reds and gave unbeaten Bob Purkey his fourth victory.

The Cardinal loss and the sweeps by Pittsburgh and San Francisco, dropped St. Louis from first to third.

Pittsburgh took over first on the pitching of Bob Friend (4-1) and Al McBean (3-0). Friend threw a four-hitter at the Dodgers in the first and McBean shut them out on seven hits in the second. Rookie Homer Goss' first major league homer brought the Pirates from behind in the opener. Dick Stuart's homer was the only run in the second.

Ed Bailey's home run and three San Francisco double plays supported Pierce's three-hitter against the Cubs. Willie Mays crashed his sixth homer of the season with a man on base, all the working room Sanford needed in his opening three-hitter. Sanford hit Ken Hubbs in the left ear with a fast ball in the first inning and Hubbs was carried from the field on a stretcher. Later, he was reported to have no serious injury.

Mejias' fourth homer of the season broke a 2-2 tie and won it in the bottom of the ninth for the Colts. Hal Smith and Jim Pendleton also had homers for the winners and Frank Bolling got one for the Braves. Dick Farrell, who faced only one man after relieving starter Hal Woodeschick in the ninth, got the victory.

Chappell And Burns To Get Teague Awards

RALEIGH (AP) — Len Chappell, Wake Forest basketball All America, and Marge Burns, Greensboro golfer, will receive the 1962 Teague Awards at a banquet here May 15.

They were chosen by sports writers and sportscasters as the outstanding man and woman amateur athletes in North Carolina and South Carolina.

The Lewis E. Teague Awards have been given annually since 1933. This marks the fifth time Miss Burns has won the award and her third straight.

Johansson Weds Birgit Lundgren

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson Sunday married his fiancée, Birgit Lundgren.

After the wedding the couple left for Geneva where they will spend the next month and where Ingemar will continue his training for a match against European champion Dick Richardson.

Birgit, a comely blonde, accompanied Ingemar on his three trips to the United States for title fights with Floyd Patterson.

Johansson now is in the midst of a comeback and is scheduled to try for the European heavyweight title in his next fight.

Weekend Fights

MIAMI BEACH — Joey Giambra, 157, Los Angeles, scored a TKO over Florentino Fernandez, 160½, Miami in the eighth round of a scheduled 10.

ACCRA, Ghana — Dramane Quadraogo, 146, Ivory Coast, outpointed Amaral Amarquaye, 142½, Ghana, 15.

Business Notes

Named Representative
F. Richard Atkinson has been appointed registered representative of McDaniel Lewis and Co. of Greensboro for Greenville and surrounding area.

Atkinson and his family, who live at 1905 E. Third St., came to Greenville five years ago from Florence, S. C. He was vice president of Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville when it merged with Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. He was vice president of Wachovia until February of this year when he entered the investment banking field to sell stocks, bonds and mutual funds.

Atkinson's new company, in business since 1922, is North Carolina's second oldest independent investment firm. It is active in all securities markets. Direct open wire service to the floor of the Midwest Stock Exchange provides prompt service on stocks listed on all exchanges.

In Greenville, Atkinson has served as chairman of the Pitt American Red Cross Chapter, Red Cross Eastern Regional Area Chairman and chairman of the Red Cross Eastern N. C. Coordinating Council.

In the First Presbyterian Church he has been chairman of the board of deacons and Sunday School superintendent.

He is also a member of the board, on the executive committee and treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce. He is a board member and vice president of Greenville Industries, Inc.

Shot Dead In His 4th Holdup

HICKORY, N. C. (AP)—Ralph Eugene Fry, 40, made a habit of working late night shifts.

For awhile he worked at an all-night curb market. Twice on that job he was held up.

Then he took a job with an all-night service station. Two men held him up one night and took a shot at him.

Early Sunday came the fourth holdup. This time Fry was shot dead and his billfold with about $80 was taken. Police found him lying about 10 feet from the gas-line pumps, clutching a paper towel—apparently on the point of cleaning a windshield before he was shot in the back of the head.

Police said about $200 remained in the cash register. They added there were no leads to the identity of the killer.

Dixie Days at Winn-Dixie

The vast contribution the South is making to the nation's economy is being marked this week by "Dixie Products Days" honoring growers and processors and featuring meats, staples and produce from Dixie.

The 500 Winn-Dixie supermarkets located in this area and throughout the south are observing the event from April 30 through May 6. Special decorations pointing up the importance of Southern agriculture are brightening each store.

Church To Have Active Tuesday

St. Paul's Episcopal Church will celebrate Holy Communion twice on the first day of May, the feast day of Saints Philip and James, two of the twelve apostles.

The Rector, the Rev. John W. Drake, will be the celebrant, and preach at services 7:00 a.m. and 10:00 a.m.

The Churchwomen of St. Paul's will meet Tuesday afternoon for tea at 3:00 o'clock, with Mrs. Charles King presiding. The program will consist of oral reports of delegates to the Churchwomen meeting of the Diocese in Wilmington last week. The delegates included Mrs. Lee Folger, Roland Farley, Charles King, O. L. Joyner, D. C. Wade, Robert L. Tunnell and Misses Henrie Long and Venetia Cox.

There will be a supper meeting of the laymen of the parish at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Featured speaker is the former Senior Warden, Dr. Walter H. Pott.

Following the Laymen's Dinner there will be a study session of the Lay Readers with the Rector.

On Wednesday afternoon the Canterbury will meet. They will gather for Holy Communion in St. Luke's Chapel at 5:00 p.m., to be followed by a dinner, and then hold a discussion on the ecumenical movement.

Thursday will see the regular midweek communions at 7:00 and 10:00 a.m. In the evening there will be the monthly healing service at 7:30.

Red China's regular army is estimated at approximately 3,000,000.

Pulitzer Prize Winners Will Be East Carolina College Speakers

Two noted American authors and teachers, both Pulitzer Prize winners in literature, will speak at East Carolina College Tuesday.

Mark Van Doren, Professor Emeritus of English at Columbia University, and Karl Shapiro, Professor of English at the University of Nebraska, will discuss "The Poet as Teacher" at 11 a.m. Tuesday morning and at 8 p.m. Tuesday night. Both meetings will take place in the Austin Auditorium and will be open to the public.

The programs are the third event in a 1961-1962 series of lectures at the college financed by grants from the Sperry and Hutchinson Co. of New York and the East Carolina College Student Government Association.

The lectures by the two noted men of letters will be presented as one of the contributions made by East Carolina College to the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

Each of the two programs will include a lecture and informal comments on "The Poet as Teacher." Mr. Shapiro will be principal speaker Tuesday morning and Mr. Van Doren will present Tuesday night. Mr. Van Doren's talk will be followed by comments by Mr. Shapiro.

Mr. Van Doren, for many years a distinguished teacher of English at Columbia University, received a Pulitzer Prize in 1940 for his "Collected Poems, 1922-1938." His critical studies of Thoreau, Hawthorne, Dryden, and Shakespeare are well known, and he has written novels and compiled several anthologies. In addition, he has taken part in many educational radio programs, among them the series known as "Invitation to Learning."

Mr. Shapiro's "V-Letter and Other Poems" won a Pulitzer Prize in 1944. His "An Essay on Rime," published in 1945, is a criticism in verse of modern poetry. He has been editor of "Poetry" magazine and is presently editing "Prairie Schooner" at the University of Nebraska. Other volumes of his poetry are "Person, Place, and Thing" (1942), "Place of Love," (1943), and "Trial of a Poet," (1947).

Cardinal Assails Polish Leaders

GNIEZNO, Poland (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski again has openly criticized Polish authorities, charging Communist youth programs violate freedom of worship.

The Roman Catholic primate of Poland in a sermon Sunday also accused officials of this 1,000-year-old central Polish town of inhospitality. He said they had ignored history by diverting the age-old annual procession of St. Adalbert, Catholicism's first patron saint of Poland, from the main street to the side streets.

Some 8,000 worshippers braved a cold drizzle to follow the hymn-singing procession of nuns, bishops, archbishops and Cardinal Wyszynski through the streets for an open-air Mass before 900-year-old Gniezno cathedral, the first Catholic cathedral in Poland.

The first map to show division between North and South America was made by Gerardus Mercator, a Flemish geographer.

N.C. Editorial Writers To Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Tar Heel newspaper leaders will be here Friday and Saturday for the 13th annual North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference.

The two-day session will include a debate on the statewide problem of reapportionment and critiques of North Carolina editorial pages.

State Sens. Archie Davis of Winston-Salem, representing the populous Piedmont, and Frank Banzet of Warrenton, representing the rural East, will argue both sides of the reapportionment.

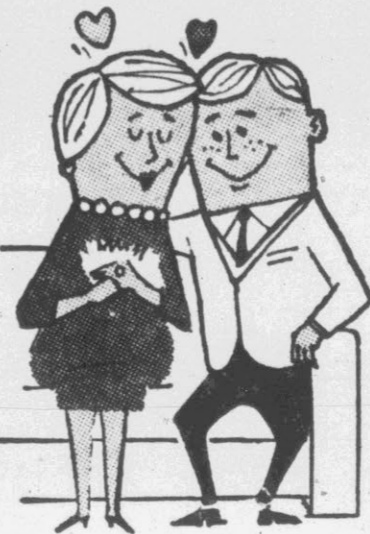

Precinct Meets Slated Saturday

RALEIGH (AP)—Approximately 25,000 Democratic party faithful are expected to take part in the biennial precinct meetings in North Carolina Saturday.

State Democratic chairman Bert Bennett issued an invitation over the weekend for full participation in the meetings.

Five-member committees will be elected at each of the 2,100 precincts across the state. At least two of the members must be women. Delegates also will be named to county conventions which will be held May 12.

'Thesis Show' Scheduled At Greenville Art Center

The Greenville Art Center will present an unusual exhibition in its coming "Thesis Show," which will feature the work of five candidates for the Master's Degree of the East Carolina College Department of Art.

The new show opens May 1. As a part of the requirement for the Master's Degree, the art student may choose to demonstrate a creative pursuit in a series of paintings with a particular theme; thus, the thesis show.

Those participating in the exhibition are Nelson Dudley of Greenville, Sue Koster of Wilson, Howard Woody of Roanoke, Va., Kenneth Nuber of Wesleyville, Pa., and Sally McLean Melver of Wilson.

Dudley will show a series of paintings using the same subject done in a variety of ways. A graduate with the B. S. degree from East Carolina College, Dudley has served on the faculty during the past year as a graduate assistant.

Miss Koster received her B. S. degree from Atlantic Christian College. Her paintings will demonstrate "action."

A third exhibitor, Woody, will present as his thesis subject, "The Crucifixion." Woody received the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the Richmond Professional Institute.

Nuber will show prints and ceramics and Mrs. Melver will

NCEA Unit's Dinner Honors Dr. Frank Fuller

The East Carolina College unit of the North Carolina Education Association honored Dr. Frank Fuller, recently elected NCEA vice president, and long-time professor in the college Education Department, at a dinner Saturday evening. Dr. James W. Batten, president of the college unit of the NCEA, presided as toastmaster at the surprise dinner for Dr. Fuller.

New officers of the NCEA college unit were elected at the close of the meeting. Dr. Robert L. Holt, dean of instruction at the college, and Dr. Richard S. Spear, professor of education, spoke of Dr. Fuller's professional, civic, and community service and noted his contributions to the North Carolina Education Association.

Await Nuclear Test At Island

WASHINGTON (AP)—A ban against shipping and air traffic was clamped today around Johnston Island where the United States is expected to fire soon its high altitude nuclear bursts—the most spectacular and perhaps the most important of its Pacific test series.

The order closing off Johnston Island was announced April 9 and does not necessarily mean testing will begin there immediately.

The Atomic Energy Commission has said the public will be advised three to four days before any high-altitude tests.

There was no advance word on the first two explosions conducted last week near Christmas Island. Both these explosions — from devices dropped by planes — were believed to have been at relatively low levels, under 30,000 feet. Some of the sky-high shots will be hundreds of miles up and the flash may be seen thousands of miles away.

The first man to take a ship through the Northwest Passage was Roald Amundsen in the early part of the century.

Responding to the tributes, Dr. Fuller voiced appreciation for the support of his colleagues on the East Carolina faculty in the election.

Speaking of the objectives of the United Forces for Education, in which the NCEA has a part, Dr. Fuller observed the need for more attention to the problems of higher education. North Carolina's progress in support of education and the leadership of Governor Sanford in this area have attracted the attention of school administrators across the nation, Fuller declared, as he reported on some recent experiences at a conference he attended in Chicago.

Fuller was presented a gift and Mrs. Fuller received an orchid corsage from Dr. May Lois Stagon on behalf of the East Carolina unit.

Dr. Clifford Nixon was elected president of the college NCEA organization; Mrs. Elsie Eagan vice president; and Miss Frances Daniels secretary for the new term. Nixon and Mrs. Eagan are members of the Education Department faculty and Miss Daniels is a member of the faculty of the School of Business. The nominating committee was headed by Norman Cameron of the School of Business.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, college president, and Dr. John H. Horne, registrar, were among the dinner guests honoring Dr. Fuller.

French Troops Withdraw From OAS Stronghold

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—French army units occupied the center of Oran Sunday in a maneuver aimed against the terrorist Secret Army Organization, then suddenly withdrew today without any explanation.

Officials said the withdrawal probably would be only temporary, but the sudden switch mystified supporters of the secret army. Army officers would not discuss the reason for the move.

The troops had gone into the heart of Algeria's second city presumably to enforce a new ban against all vehicular traffic and parking in the heart of the city. Citizens also were warned not to walk along roadways in the area or to form groups.

As soon as the units were withdrawn this morning, European settlers defiantly drove into the restricted area despite an earlier warning that security forces might fire on violators of the new restrictions.

The center of Oran is regarded by the secret army as its own territory.

There was some speculation that French officers, by shifting troops back and forth, were trying to draw hard-core secret army units into the open. The official attitude has been to invest the city without provoking an open and bloody clash with the French settlers' underground.

By midmorning a few troop patrols were back on the streets. They did not interfere with the illegal movement of traffic nor with pedestrians who defiantly walked in the streets instead of on the sidewalk.

What should you look for in a health protection plan?

You want a wide range of benefits and services to choose from, of course. But there are other advantages available to you that you won't find printed in any contract.

Look at the financial stability of the plan, for instance. You'll discover Hospital Saving Association of Chapel Hill has paid over $62,000,000 for subscriber benefits in the past 5 years alone.

And check executive experience. Hospital Saving administrators, with an average of 17 years of company service, assure you sound management of your health protection fees

... the kind of planning that brings you more for your money.

Include, too, the committee of doctors that works with Hospital Saving Association to review your Blue Shield benefits and keep them as liberal as possible. This partnership guarantees the most up-to-date doctor bill protection for you and your employees.

Ask any representative of Hospital Saving Association—North Carolina's Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plan—about these worry-saving advantages—and about the new In-Hospital Medical Endorsement that many companies are now adding to their coverage.

ASCS

Note Book

ASCS Performance Clerk

Price Support Clerk
Farmers are protected on the prices that they receive for their commodities under the price support programs offered by the United States Department of Agriculture. Our support program tries to accomplish two things:

- (1) Help our farmers receive the fairest price possible for his products and
- (2) Provide our consumers an adequate supply of products at all times.

All this is accomplished by orderly marketing. To help our farmers in marketing their products in an orderly fashion, the price support program discourages flooding the market at harvest time and then causing a scarcity later.

Many grain producers sell their crops at harvest rather than storing them for later sale, because they are not familiar with the price support and loan programs offered by CCC and handled through the County ASCS Offices. In order to take advantage of price supports, a farmer must plant within his acreage allotment where applicable, and provide adequate storage for the commodity.

There are three methods of obtaining price support:

Warehouse Loans—The farmer takes grain to a government-approved warehouse and a receipt is issued. The farmer takes the receipt to his county ASCS Office and applies for a loan. He pays a service charge of 1/2 cent per bushel at the time of application. A storage charge is paid on the grain from the date of delivery to the warehouse until the loan's maturity date. The farmer is not responsible for the grade or quality after the grain is accepted by the warehouse.

Farm Storage Loans—The farmer stores the grain on his farm in a satisfactory bin or other facility. To be eligible for loan, the grain must meet certain specifications as to grade and quality. If the grain is eligible, after a grade determination has been made, the farmer applies for a loan at the county office. A service charge of 1 cent per bushel is applied at the time of application. The farmer is responsible for the grade and quality of the grain until the loan is repaid or delivered to Commodity Credit Corporation. No insurance is required on these loans.

Purchase Agreement—The farmer has an option to sell Commodity Credit Corporation a certain number bushels of grain. In this way the farmer avails himself of price support for his grain subject to delivery to Commodity Credit Corporation. A service charge of 1/2 cent per bushel is paid at the time of application.

The 1961 loan rate for soybeans was $2.26 per bushel which was 79 percent of parity. Soybeans must grade No. 2 or better and not grade garlicky or weevily. Loans were available through Jan. 31, 1962, and will mature on May 31, 1962. Discounts from the loan rate were applicable for splits, foreign material and damaged kernels. A premium was given for moisture below 13.8 percent. There were 71 warehouse-stored loans for 20,588.45 bushels of soybeans in the amount of $47,183.25 disbursed in 1961.

The farmers having these soybean loans are urged to investigate fully the price they might be able to get to determine if it will be to their financial advantage to repay their loan. If they wish to repay their loan, the amount of the loan plus 3.5 percent interest to the Commodity Credit Corporation, and a handling charge to the warehouse where the beans are stored, must be paid by July 31, 1962.

The support rate was established for corn grading No. 3 or better at $1.29 per bushel. Loans were available on both ear corn and shelled corn from harvest time through Feb. 28, 1962, and will mature on July 31, 1962.

To be eligible for loan, corn must not grade weevily, nor contain over 14 percent moisture for shelled corn or 21 percent moisture for ear corn. Premiums are applicable for low moisture content, and for low foreign material content. Due to North Carolina's being in the Augumois Mth area, producers with farm storage loans may request delivery to Commodity Credit Corporation after April 1, 1962.

There were nine farm-stored loans for 14,162 bushels of corn in the amount of $18,268.98 disbursed in 1961. There were 168 warehouse-stored loans for 109,058.02 bushels of corn in the amount of $143,956.55 disbursed in 1961.

If they wish to repay these loans, the amount of the loan plus 3.5 percent interest to the Commodity Credit Corporation, and a handling charge to the warehouse where the beans are stored, must be paid by July 31, 1962.

Loans are also available on wheat, barley, grain sorghum, oats, and rye. We invite all farmers to examine the benefits of the price support program to see if we might help them. Come by the ASCS Office and get the facts.

Conservation Notes

Kenneth Futreal, soil conservationist, says:

"At this time of the year many farmers are preparing the land for planting. This leaves the land bare and exposed to the strong wind, which we have been experiencing the past few weeks.

"I am sure that many of you have observed the large amount of dust that has been blowing over the county. This dust is the topsoil from our fields. We may not think that we are losing very much topsoil but more of it is blowing away than we realize.

"The loss of the topsoil reduces the depth of the topsoil in the fields on your farms. This will eventually reduce the value of land, as far as producing crops is concerned. The loss of the topsoil not only will reduce the value of our land, but the dust blowing across a field will damage the crops that have been planted, especially tobacco. This same dust will fill up the streams and ditches, which results in increased cost of maintaining these streams and ditches.

"There are several ways in which the amount of topsoil lost can be reduced. By planting cover crops on the land the amount of topsoil lost during strong winds can be greatly reduced. But since this is not practical at this time of the year, strip cropping is probably the next best thing to reduce the loss of topsoil.

"By planting a strip of some close growing crop such as fescue grass, and a strip of some row crop, the speed of the wind can be reduced as it blows across the field. This strip of grass will filter out some of the dust particles as the wind blows across the field, thereby reducing the amount of topsoil lost from that particular field. The proper way to establish the strips of grass is to establish them perpendicular to the prevailing winds. By this I mean if the prevailing winds are from the West you should arrange the strips of grass to run from the North to the South.

"These grass strips can be used in your crop rotations. Most of you rotate your crops whenever it is possible to do so. By strip cropping your field you have your crop rotations already worked out for you. You can rotate your crops with the grass strips in your fields.

"Another practice which will reduce the amount of topsoil lost by planting wind breaks in large open fields. By planting rows of trees or shrubs perpendicular to the prevailing winds, the velocity of the wind can be greatly reduced as it blows across the field.

"By reducing the amount of topsoil that is blowing off the land you can do a great deal towards improving your farm, your neighbor's farm, Pitt County, the State of North Carolina, and the Nation."

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

The stored tobacco moth is a common pest on many farms and often causes serious damage to stored tobacco. Most damage caused by this insect occurs between the time the tobacco is cured and the time it is sold. This insect generally prefers to feed on the better grades of tobacco — those high in sugar and low in nicotine.

The life history of the tobacco moth is similar to most other insects. The moth lays eggs in or near the piles of stored tobacco. The larvae are tiny when first hatched, but grow to about one-half inch length. They are pinkish-white in color with a reddish-brown head.

When the larvae is full grown, it spins a weblike cocoon in which it transforms into a pupa and then emerges as an adult moth. Usually the tobacco moth passes the winter as an adult larva. In the fall most of the mature larvae leave the tobacco and migrate to cracks and crevices about the building, where they spin loose cocoons of silk in which to hibernate.

If you have not already cleaned the scrap tobacco from your packhouse it should be removed and burned as soon as possible. If corn or other grain has been stored through the winter in the packhouse, or has been moved from the building this spring, it is time to give the packhouse a thorough cleaning.

When cleaning, all slats should be removed from the walls, then the walls brushed down. After thoroughly cleaning the packhouse, the grading room should be sprayed with a five per cent DDT solution. This solution can be prepared by mixing two quarts of 50 per cent DDT emulsifiable concentrate with five gallons of water.

The walls, ceiling and floor of the packhouse should be sprayed now even if they were sprayed when cleaned in the fall. At the latest, the DDT solution should be sprayed at least one month prior to harvesting tobacco.

Prisoners Get Jaycee Charter

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — Dressed in white dinner jackets and black ties, 36 inmates of the West Virginia Penitentiary proudly received Sunday night the first Junior Chamber of Commerce charter ever granted behind prison walls.

They heard talks by Gov. W. W. Barron, state institutions commissioner Joseph Hodgson and Doug Blankenship of Atlanta, Ga., national Jaycee vice president, who presented the charter.

Accepting the charter was James T. Cantrell, president of the unit, organized under the sponsorship of the Marshall County Jaycee organization. Cantrell is serving a life sentence for murder.

Before planting a peanut crop it is important to check and regulate planting equipment. The planting operation is without question one of the most important steps involved in the production of a good crop of peanuts. Plates should be carefully checked to be sure that cell size is correct to avoid damage to kernels and that drill spacing is in the range of six to eight inches.

In the case of multiple row planters, it is extremely important that all planters be checked carefully for depth of planting to assure a uniform stand.

Good land preparation with thorough and deep coverage of old crop residue and a well pulverized seed bed contributed immensely to accuracy of the plant operation. Where soil conditions vary within a field, it is difficult to cover seed uniformly and frequently results in a poor stand.

In many cases planting equipment is operated above optimum speeds, causing damage to seed kernels and uneven distribution of seed, the final result being a poor stand and lower yields. Normally, peanut planting equipment should not be operated faster than three or 3.5 miles per hour.

Even the setting of the middle sweeps is important to be sure that each of the two or more rows being planted is uniform in shape and row spacing.

As a means of checking the performance of each of the planting units, so that necessary corrections may be made and thereby minimizing mechanical errors.

To facilitate accurate cultivation, a reasonably flat planting is desirable. Rotary hoes of either the power or ground driven types will work best with flat planting.

Since good stands and finally higher yields are not only dependent on good seed but also on precise and accurate planting, the planting operation justifies care and patience in adjusting equipment to do the best possible jobs.

Final Links In 4-Lane Highway Near Completion

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Commission says final links in a long-awaited four-lane highway between Greensboro and Durham are nearing completion. In fact, Chief Planning Engineer James S. Burch, reported Saturday that the road, Interstate 85, should be completed by Aug. 1.

Frequent checks during the planting operation should be made to assure that equipment has not gotten out of adjustment. In other words, a careful conscientious operator is as essential as good equipment.

Burch said it would mark the end of one of "the most difficult, distasteful and perplexing problems in the history of the highway agency."

The two remaining sections due for completion this summer are from the N.C. 54 intersection east of Burlington to Efland, and the N. C. 51 intersection east of Greensboro to N. C. 54.

Burch said the problem of the busy highway route has been with the commission for 15 years.

During that span, he continued, the road has been transformed from a two-lane highway running through several cities and towns between Durham and Greensboro into a four-lane divided highway by-passing the municipalities.

NOTICE OF SALE
NORTH CAROLINA COUNTY OF PITT
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by Dewey D. Page to Louis W. Gaylord, Jr., Trustee, dated the 2nd day of May, 1961, and recorded in Book M-32, page 678, Pitt County Registry, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock noon on the 10th day of May, 1962, the lot or parcel of land conveyed in said deed of trust, and described as follows:

Lying and being situated in Pitt County, North Carolina, Meadowbrook Subdivision, located about one-half mile north of Tar River, and more definitely described as follows: Located on the east side of Greene Street, and beginning at a point 115 feet, more or less, north of the intersection of Johnson and Greene Streets, or the northwest corner of Lot No. 5, and running thence eastwardly and along the northern property line of said lot No. 5, 143.67 feet, more or less, to the western property line of lot No. 9; thence northwardly and with the property line of said lot No. 9, 53 feet, thence westwardly and with the southern property line of lot No. 3; 143.67 feet, to Greene Street; thence southwardly and parallel with Greene Street, 53 feet, more or less, to the beginning point, and being Lot No. 4, in Block "H" as shown on map of the Meadowbrook Subdivision made by W. C. and J. M. Dresbach, R. S., dated 8-11-40, and recorded in Map Book No. 3, at page 145, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, to which map reference is hereby made.

All said will be made subject to all ad valorem taxes or other assessments now due or other constitute a lien on the above-described lot or parcel of land and the highest bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with said Trustee 10% of the amount of his bid up to $1,000, and 5% on all in excess of $1,000, pending confirmation by the Court to show his good faith.

This 6th day of April, 1962.

Wills on cash cattle price weak to 25 lower: steers and heifers, choice 24.50-25.50, good 23-24, standards 19-22.50; beef cows 14.50-17, canners 13-15.50; lightweight bulls 16-18, heavy weights 17-20.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers, steady, farm price 13, with some sales under contracts or agreements up to 1/4 of a cent higher and on an occasional lot one cent higher, delivered plant price 13 3/4 to 14 1/4.

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market jogged to the upside in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 at 248.80 with industrials up 1.50, rails up .30 and utilities up .40.

The list was higher from the start as selective buying bucked up the average. Some of the improvement was due to the fact that stocks last week had been hammered down to their worst setback in more than two years and many were low enough to attract buyers.

Early gains were trimmed, however, and there was no group leadership. Steels, farm implements, aerospace issues, oils, and drugs were mixed. Chemicals, nonferrous metals, building materials, airlines, rails and utilities were up on balance.

U.S. Steel halved an early recovery of more than a point. Jones & Laughlin was down about a point. Republic Steel was steady. Bethlehem eased.

The average was shored up by gains of around a point by Texaco, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Woolworth and International Harvester as well as by a 2-point gain for Du Pont.

General Motors was up about a point. Ford was about unchanged. Chrysler and American Motors gained fractions.

General Electric was weak, sliding more than a point. Westinghouse Electric eased.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.02 at 673.22. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregular.

Mickey Cohen Is Denied Review

WASHINGTON (AP)— Mickey Cohen, former Los Angeles gambling czar, was denied today a Supreme Court review on his conviction and 15-year prison sentence for federal income tax evasion.

Counsel for Cohen, the onetime boss of West Coast bookies, contended he had been twice convicted for what was in substance the same tax charges. His appeal argued the ex-mobster had thus been placed in double jeopardy, in violation of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment.

On his latest conviction, Cohen was sentenced in federal court in Los Angeles on July 1, 1961, to the prison term and fined $30,000. Ten years previously, he was convicted of a willful attempt to evade taxes by filing false returns. He was then fined $10,000 and imprisoned for 3 1/2 years.

After the 1961 conviction, lower federal courts refused to permit Cohen's release on bail pending appeals. But Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court ordered him released on $100,000 bail and commented that Cohen's appeal raised a substantial question for consideration by the highest tribunal.

Justice Douglas noted he favored hearing Cohen's appeal. Justice White took no part in consideration of Cohen's request.

Senators To Ask Funds To Keep Up Nat'l Guard

WASHINGTON (AP)— Some Senate Appropriation Committee members plan to seek appropriations sufficient to continue the National Guard at its "comparative present strength" Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said today.

McClellan, a member of the committee, commenting on an Army money bill without funds to maintain the National Guard at its present 400,000 men level, said:

"A number of us on the Appropriation Committee intend to make a strong effort to appropriate funds ample to insure continuation of the National Guard at its comparable present strength." The Pentagon proposes to cut the Guard.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said he hopes Congress will act to insure that the strength of the National Guard is maintained at its present level of 400,000 men.

Law Day Rites Slated Tuesday

RALEIGH (AP)— Law Day observances will be held in communities across the state Tuesday to focus attention on respect for the law and the courts.

In a weekend statement, Gov. Terry Sanford proclaimed May 1 as San Day. In his statement, Sanford congratulated the North Carolina Bar Association for its success in establishing its own building.

The structure, which will house Bar Association offices, is nearing completion in Raleigh. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by June 1.

Rites Tuesday For Janie D. Spencer

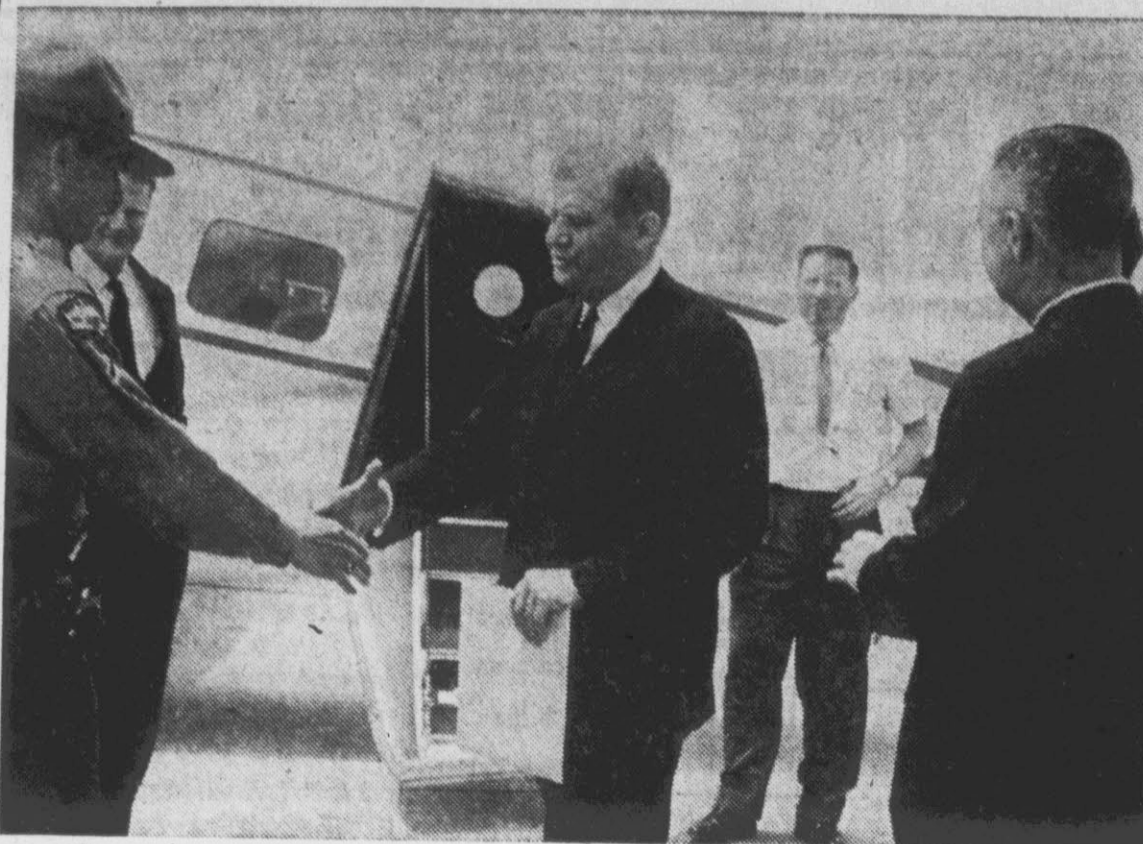

Janie Deane Spencer, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gipson Spencer of Black Jack, died at her home Monday morning at 2:30.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 by the pastor, the Rev. Floyd Cherry, assisted by the Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The body will remain at the home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Surviving are her parents; a brother, William Curtis Spencer II of the home; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Curtis Spencer of Black Jack and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley B. Tripp of Belvoir; and the great grandfather, J. Huel Crawford of Greenville.

Bow bells, silenced during a Nazi blitz of London 21 years ago, are again ringing out in St. Mary-le-Bow, oldest church in London.

Poster Girl Plays At Being A Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP)— Seven-year-old Kathy Battle of Weaverly, N.C., the American Cancer Society's 1962 Cancer Crusade poster girl, decided today it must be nice to be a congressman.

Kathy, who almost died of cancer when she was one year old but is now a blue-eyed picture of health, sat in the chair of Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., and announced "I'm the congressman." Taylor, whose district includes Kathy's home town, laughed and assured her, "I think it's more fun to be doing what you're doing."

Kathy, who has starred in an anti-cancer film and appeared on a national television hookup, was here with her parents and elder sister to visit her congressman, tour the Children's Hospital of Washington, and be guest of honor at tea.

Her mother, Mrs. James Battle said Kathy takes her many public appearances in stride—"she likes it."

Kathy posed for pictures with Taylor, who said, "we are proud to greet her both as a constituent and a representative of the American Cancer Society."

Then she toured the capital before visiting the Children's Hospital to present Indian headaddresses for the patients.

Cancer Society officials refer to Kathy as "a living symbol of the hopeful side of cancer."

The society said more than 4,000 children under the age of 15 died last year of cancer, the leading cause of death from disease among children.

Kathy was saved because her mother noticed the early signs of a Wilms tumor, a form of cancer which strikes most often in the kidneys of children under seven.

"With surgery, X-ray and new drugs over half of the children with this kind of cancer may be saved," a society spokesman said.

Elected To Post In Insurance Co.

NEW YORK—The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States has elected Karl M. Davies a vice-president, it was announced recently.

He will be in charge of the underwriting department, a post held by William E. Walsh, who will retire on May 1. He formerly was assistant vice-president in the department he now heads.

Davies' wife is the former Isabelle W. Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Whitehurst of Greenville.

Two and a half million persons visit the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C. each year.

ECC Language Workshop Was Well-Attended

Sixty teachers of French, German, Spanish, and Latin representing schools as far apart as Elizabeth City, Wilmington, Fayetteville, Fuquay Springs, and Norlina attended a Foreign Language Workshop sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages of East Carolina College in Greenville, Saturday, April 28.

Following group discussions and laboratory demonstrations directed by East Carolina College Foreign Language faculty, guests were invited to a "Get-acquainted" coffee break which gave them the opportunity to discuss mutual problems with their colleagues.

The Workshop was climaxed with a talk by Mrs. Tora Ladu, State Supervisor of Foreign Languages in the public schools of North Carolina. After reviewing the highlights of two recently held National Foreign Language Conferences which she had attended, Mrs. Ladu pointed up some of the changes that are taking place across the nation in the teaching of foreign languages. Most of these changes, she said, are quite in line with what North Carolina is attempting in its program of quality education.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures for the next five days will average 3 to 5 degrees above normal, turning a little cooler late Wednesday or Thursday, warmer Friday and Saturday. Rainfall will be moderate to heavy, averaging a half inch or more mainly Tuesday and Wednesday.

Sunday's Labors

There was 1,350 gallons of mash, and 17 cases of half-gallon jars.

The unit was fired by gas. Three gas cylinders and a set of burners were also destroyed.

The early morning air a mile from Reaston was suddenly shattered by two sharp explosions. These first two were gas cylinders. Then other dynamite was prepared for the still-proper. In all, 16 sticks of explosive were used.

"Fire in the hole!" And the lawmen hurriedly walked away from the plant. Then "BOOM... BOOM... BOOM... BOOM..."

Now there was no more still. The hunters? FBI ABC enforcers J. M. Ward, Walter Taylor and H. B. Lillye, Constable William H. Crandall and Federal Alcohol Tax Unit officer Don Alphin of New Bern.

Both Forrest and Jones were given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner, Mrs. Jeanette H. Attmore in Washington later in the morning and placed under $500 bond each on the federal charges of running the illegal device.

According to the enforcers, had the mash been run off, about 90-gallons of non-taxed spirits would have been made.

Working on Sunday had not paid off for the hunted.

Arrest Peeping Top Suspect

Greenville police have arrested a white man on charges of being a peeping tom at 1408-B North Washington St. here last night.

Officers said Ray Hardy of Calico Cross Roads was taken into custody after A. R. Stepps, a resident at 1408-B North Washington St., signed a warrant for his arrest on the charges.

Investigators said a report of the incident was received at 10:03 p.m. last night.

The first telephone booth was patented in 1833, seven years after the telephone was invented.

48 Miles Up

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X-15 rocket plane shot more than 48 miles into space today, a record for winged craft, and apparently achieved its goal of flying higher than it was designed to fly.

Scientists said a foulup in data from ground radar tracking stations made it impossible to be certain immediately that the designed altitude of 250,000 feet, or about 47 1/2 miles, had been passed. But preliminary computations, they said, indicated it had.

Hit-Run Charge Facing Driver

John A. Adams, Negro, of 212-B B. Reade St. was charged with hit and run driving following a collision on North Queen St. about 9:40 p.m. Sunday, officers reported today.

Police said the Adams vehicle collided with a car operated by Raymond Glennwood White, Jr., 16, of Bethel.

Total damage in the mishap was set at $80.

Border Guards Fire At Escapee

BERLIN (AP)— East German border guards fired 14 shots at a fugitive trying to escape over the Red wall early today, West Berlin police reported.

The man gave up his attempt close to the border and the Red guards led him away.
