Speakers Review Rule By Law

Court Joins In Noting Law Day

Judge Dink James' Pitt County Recorder's Court joined other courts throughout America today in observing "Law Day, USA."

Court was convened, as usual, at 10 a.m. before the judge announced the 10-minute ceremony paying tribute to the American judicial institution.

John Hill Paylor, the county court solicitor, introduced the ceremony as president of the Pitt County Bar Association. Judge James then read a President Kennedy proclamation designating today as "Law Day."

Brief addresses to the court by Bethel attorney Clifton W. Everett and Col. J. G. Dobson, commanding officer of the local Army Reserve unit, re-emphasized the importance of the American judiciary, based upon English common law and parliamentary rule.

Greenville Mayor Charles M. King, first of three speakers, paid tribute to "the rule of law, and its supremacy in the lives of free men . . ."

The remarks of Everett and Col. Dobson contrasted the American legal system with monopolistic rule in Communist countries. Everett reminded that, while Americans observe Law Day on May 1, May Day is the Soviet Russians' occasion to exhibit military might which supports "the existence and advance of a society which bases its whole philosophy of government upon rules laid down by . . . one man or a few men without participation of those to whom the rules apply."

Today's ceremony was planned for the Bar Association by Greenville attorney Sam Underwood. A group of attorneys joined about 50 persons in the courtroom for the ceremony.

New Post Office In Stokes Will Open Thursday

STOKES—Stokes postal patrons will get their mail from new boxes Thursday morning. And Postmaster James D. Glisson will have more than mere elbow room.

Stokes' new air-conditioned post office is scheduled to open for business at 7:30 a.m. Thursday. Technicians today were winding up installing of new equipment in the 725-square-foot facility.

Located near the northwest corner of the intersection of NC Highways 903 and 33, the new building replaces a 256-square-foot frame structure that has served as Stokes' post office for years.

Glisson reported today the new building is being furnished with all new equipment except for a safe, a desk and a distribution case that will be moved from the old building.

The new office includes 95 individual boxes for local postal patrons. There were 68 in the old quarters. Flanking the panel of new boxes will be new cabinets, a new counter and new equipment in Glisson's office.

Paving of the 20-car parking lot and the mail-loading area is scheduled as soon as the ground has been allowed to settle. The concrete block structure is fronted with buff-colored brick.

Dedication of the new facility, financed by J. Beverly Congleton, local merchant, and leased to the government, is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday, June 2.

Mail service will remain the same. Stokes is served by a Rocky Mount star route each morning and gets Highway Post Office afternoon service from a Beaufort-Rocky Mount route.

Traditional Propaganda, Big Rallies, Parades On May Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A police fight with snake-dancers in Tokyo and an ear-cracking propaganda battle between batteries of loudspeakers over Berlin's wall marked the celebration of May Day.

The traditional speeches, rallies and parades were held in Moscow's Red Square, Peiping's Heavenly Peace Square and other Communist capitals, and elsewhere. Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro presided over a mammoth parade of workers in straw hats—symbol of the Cuban peasant—in Havana.

In Tokyo, 200,000 Japanese massed in Meiji Park for a demonstration that put less stress on anti-American themes than in recent years. But 50 persons were injured when about 3,000 left-wing students, shouting "Stop the nuclear tests!" stopped traffic with a snake dance and clashed with police.

The first day of May was selected as international labor day by the international Socialist congress of 1889 and is observed in most industrial nations except the United States and Canada.

It was observed on both sides of Berlin's wall. About 700,000 West Berliners gathered within 300 yards of the wall to hear Gen Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's personal envoy to the city, West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and West German President Heinrich Luebke.

A battery of 42 Communist loudspeakers mounted on trucks tried to drown out Clay and the other speakers. They were answered by 30 truck-mounted loudspeakers from the Western side. Clay, making a farewell appearance on his mission to Berlin, was cheered when he declared the United States will live up to its commitments in the city.

In East Berlin, about 8,000 soldiers in goosestep paraded with military vehicles and rockets past a reviewing stand.

In Italy, where the late Pope Pius XII designated the day as the feast of St. Joseph, the Roman Catholic Church's pontiff Pope John XXIII received 20,000 people in St. Peter's and paid tribute to the humble carpenter of Nazareth.

Red China's radio said three million people participated in parades and festivities in squares, parks and stadiums in Peiping and elsewhere.

With Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other top leaders watching from atop Lenin's tomb as usual, the Soviet Union staged one of the least belligerent May Day celebrations ever seen in Moscow's Red Square.

The keynote speech by the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, contained only routine attacks on the United States and the usual pledges that the Soviet forces would beat off any attacker.

The military parade of troop carriers, tanks and rockets lasted only nine minutes and there was nothing new for Western military observers to see. While they rolled through Red Square before the 10,000 spectators, the television announcer recited poetry.

The facade of the historical museum, at the end of Red Square was dominated by a banner calling for "a mighty upsurge in agriculture" instead of the usual "forward to the victory of communism." Badly lagging farm production is the Soviet Union's current No. 1 problem.

After the military parade there came the usual physical culture demonstration and march of the "spontaneous demonstrators."

Malinovsky stressed that the great task of the Soviet Union was to show "the irrefutable advantages of the Socialist system." He said that to achieve this the Soviet Union needed peace and that was the reason for the Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence.

He claimed that the Soviet Union was doing everything possible to achieve disarmament. A German peace treaty and various other things that might bring peace closer. But he charged that the ruling circles of the Western powers "and in the first place the United States" were putting obstacles in the way of achieving this."

The defense minister said the Soviet Union would do everything to prevent World War III but that under current world conditions "it is logical that the Soviet Union will be vigilantly on guard and do everything for our defense."

An unusual spectator at the Red Square show was Belgium's Queen Mother Elisabeth, in Moscow for the second international Tchaikovsky music competition. It was believed the first time that royalty had attended the big Soviet Communist spectacle.

The East German army parade in East Berlin for the first time includel rockets. The Communist announcer said they were the same type that shot down Francis Gary Powers' U2 plane and that they were now regular equipment of the East German army.

Tanks, heavy guns, armored cars and goose-stepping soldiers paraded across East Berlin's Marx-Engels Platz for half an hour. The Western allies were expected to protest as usual that the parade violated occupation agreements against German military activity in Berlin.

The parade was reviewed by Walter Ulbricht, the East German chief of state who has just returned from a long cure in Czechoslovakia. With him was long-ailing Premier Otto Grotewohl, making a rare public appearance.

Stans And Byrd Predict Kennedy Is Facing Four Consecutive Deficits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's budget director told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today that the Kennedy administration's policies, "unless abruptly changed, are likely to produce four consecutive deficits."

Maurice H. Stans, now president of Western Bancorporation, San Francisco, said businessmen must take an active personal interest in politics if they are concerned over "near-confiscatory taxes" and budget policies which "are an open invitation to a crisis for the dollar."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., predicted the fiscal 1963 budget, for which President Kennedy forecast a scant surplus, will show "another deficit of $4 to $5 billion."

Both speeches were prepared for the Chamber's 50th annual meeting here.

Byrd told the 4,000 businessmen-delegates: "If such a deficit should develop next year, the three-year deficit would total $15 billion or more. This would be reminiscent of the huge deficits of 1958-59."

Both Stans and Byrd called for action to stem the loss of gold and correct teh U.S. deficit in intenational payments. Of the $16.6 billion in remaining gold stocks, Byrd said, nearly $12 billion are required as a backing for the currency but the drain is continuing.

"How much longer can we continue to be Santa Claus for the free world, baker for the free world, and policeman for the free world?," Byrd asked. "When will Judgment Day come? Perhaps it is approaching faster than we realize?"

Stans suggested that businessmen should work harder for the election of candidates "whose views are closest to yours."

"Would you dig down to contribute more—as much as five per cent or more of your pay—to the political campaigns of those who stand with your convictions?" the former official asked.

"Businessmen must seek to educate their employees and shareholders to the significance of political and economic issues," Stans said.

Stans also declared: "Despite new fancy theories of balancing the budget over the (business) cycles, we have gone in the red 26 times in the last 32 years and have paid our bills without borrowing only six times.

"The policies of the present administration, unless abruptly changed, are likely to produce four consecutive deficits.

"A large part of the increase in federal spending and debt is the result of a massive assumption of responsibility by the government for cradle-to-grave welfare."

In an address Monday, Kennedy told the Chamber delegates: "We have many burdens in Washington—we do not want the added burden of determining individual prices for individual products."

It was the President's first speech to a business group since he forced eight steel companies to back down in mid-April on an announced price increase of $6 a ton.

Since then several business leaders have expressed fear and suspicion of possible future government actions in the wage-price field. Kennedy tried to allay these fears.

Whether the President soothed feathers ruffled by his actions in his battle with the steel companies could not be determined. Most delegates said he seemed to be trying to be conciliatory, but they weren't sure he had succeeded.

Erwin D. Canham, editor of The Christian Science Monitor, called the talk "cautious and discreet, well balanced" but added that "it was not a landmark or a turning point in the relations of industry and government.

Elmer F. Pierson of Kansas City, Mo., a vice president of the Chamber said: "More important, I think, is what he didn't say—what is the government going to do to correct what's wrong with this economy?"

Outgoing Chamber President Richard Wagner, in a speech following Kennedy's, defended what he said were the right and need of the steel companies to raise their prices. Wagner said the President "seemingly wanted to be conciliatory, but they just were not talking the same language."

'Freedom Train' Is Heading West

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Some 20 Louisiana Negroes were en route to Los Angeles today, the first large group to take advantage of the segregationist Citizens Council's offer of free one-way transportation.

Their train, dubbed "Freedom Train West" by New Orleans Council director George L. Singelmann, was scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Another group of Negroes is en route by bus to New York. It is scheduled to arrive at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The Trailways bus left Atlanta at 7:45 a.m. today. It was to pass through South Carolina and North Carolina by way of Anderson, Greenville and Spartanburg, S.C., and Charlotte and Greensboro. It was due in Anderson this forenoon and in Charlotte in late afternoon.

The group heading for Los Angeles includes Peola Denham's family of 12 from Baton Rouge, La. The children range from 17 years to nine months.

"I don't have any promise of work but I expect things to be better in Los Angeles," Denham said.

Asked why he chose Los Angeles, Denham replied: "It's a lot warmer in California and I've got lots of kids."

Four others said they hoped to find jobs in Los Angeles. They identified themselves as Robert Therrio, 24; Washington Holley Jr., 19; Charley White, 22; and Fred Spooner, 22.

Singelmann saw the group off after depositing a check for $612 with ticket seller John Keretz. Singelmann gave each Negro $5 for expenses but gave Denham $100—"because he has such a big family."

There was some confusion as to how many Negroes actually went on the bus to New York.

Singelmann said there were 12, bus driver Eddie Sauer said 10. Newsmen interviewed four and saw Singelmann hand tickets to three others. One reporter got on the bus and counted only six.

Singelmann had said earlier that 100 Negroes would leave during the day. He said some were frightened by pressure from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality.

Two other Negroes left early Monday on a bus for Chicago.

Plan No Inquest In Death Of Bicycle Rider

No inquest will be held in the traffic death of a 25-year-old bicycle rider killed last week at Tripps Cross Roads, Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said today.

According to the official, Kenneth Melton Ross Jr. met his death "due to his own negligence" by turning his bicycle into the path of the oncoming car.

Harvey, noting the fatal mishap occurred April 24, identified the driver of the vehicle involved as Emily Moye Hadley, 408 West Fifth St., Greenville.

No charges were placed in the fatal collision, the sixth traffic fatality in the county this year.

Pitt District Scouts Bring Home 43 Ribbons

The Pitt delegation, including 20 units, totaled nearly 400 scouters and adults. Eighteen troops were registered for the affair, the remaining two units, newly-organized troops, visited the camporee site during the weekend.

District officials were pleased with the performance of the Pitt delegation. Nearly half the ribbons received by Pitt troops were blue ones. Twenty-one were blue ribbons, 16 were red, five were white and one green.

Asking $16,500 In Damage Suit

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — A $16,500 damage suit against National Airlines begins here today. It was filed by two Bruswick ounty farmers who claim their farms were damaged by an airliner that crashed near Bolivia, N.C., in 1960.

Horace Johnson and Richard Randolph have filed damage suits for $9,500 and $7,000, respectively.

The crash which took the lives of 34 persons was believed by the Civial Aeronautics Board to have been caused by a dynamite blast in the vicinity of the seat occupied by Juliah Frank, heavily insured New York lawyer.

President Told Sentiment Is For 'Medicare'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy got a report today that public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of his proposal to tie medical care for the aged to Social Security.

The report was given by Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts at the weekly breakfast meeting of Democratic leaders with the President.

The session took place only a few hours in advance of a White House meeting between Kennedy and the top echelon of the American Medical Association which strongly opposes the administration health plan.

McCormack said he personally found sentiment for the program very strong in Boston and Massachesetts generally.

He said he received similar reports from other members of the House on their return from Easter vacations at home.

McCormack said he is very optimistic that the medical care bill will be approved by the House. will be approved by the House.

U.S. Dollars Will Help Develop British Fighter

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced today his government will contribute between $30 million and $35 million to the development of a British fighter plane designed to take off vertically.

He is en route to Athens, Greece, for the four-day spring meeting of the North Atlantic Council.

The vertical takeoff P1127 was originated by Britain's Hawker Siddeley Aviation Co. and now is being developed under a cost-sharing agreement by Britain, the United States and West Germany.

McNamara said he understood the U.S. dollars will be sent to Britain to aid research in British plants.

The three-power agreement to develop the P1127 was announced in February.

Modified Restraining Order On Art Show Sponsors Signed

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Officials connected with the Greenville Fine Arts Festival, which sponsors the sidewalk art show, and Lewis G. Cooper have settled by consent a case involving an order to restrain blocking of a portion of Eighth Street during the art show.

A modified restraining order was signed by Judge W. J. Bundy, resident judge of the Third Judicial District, yesterday. It states that the modification will be permanent and the case will be taken off the docket. Originally, the case was scheduled to be heard May 17 in New Bern.

Both parties have agreed that each will share equal cost of the action.

The modified restraining order provides that officials of the art show will be able to use Eighth Street between Evans and Washington Streets for the purpose of pedestrian viewing of a display of art objects to be placed on the sidewalks; and that persons having business and residents of the street will have access to the street during the sidewalk art show.

The show will be held Thursday at the Greenville Art Center, under joint sponsorship of the Greenville Art Center and the Woman's Club.

A restraining order to prevent the blocking off of Eighth Street between Evans and Washington Streets was signed Friday by Judge Bundy. In a petition, it was stated that Cooper, 70, has a heart condition, asthma and severe emphysema and has been diabetic for over 30 years, so that he needs a supervised diet which he gets at home. The petition also stated that Cooper's "being unable to walk any distance or undertake any exertion" made it necessary for him to go to and from his home by automobile.

The drive to his home is located on Eighth Street, in the same area as the Greenville Art Center, located on the southwest intersection of Evans and Eighth Streets. Cooper resides on the northwest intersection of the same streets.

Signs restricting through traffic on the street during hours of the sidewalk art show may be erected by police, but will not prohibit free use of the street by Cooper and other residents.

Parties named in the original restraining order were The East Carolina Art Society Inc., of which Mrs. James S. Ficklen Jr. is president; Mrs. Bernard R. Jackson, director of the art center; Mrs. Joseph Miller, chairman of the show committee; and Mrs. Edwin Ricks, lunch chairman.

Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose, installed its officers-elect for the 1962-63 term last night.

Dr. Frank Fuller, Junior Governor for the concluded year, was duly installed as Governor.

Filling the post of Junior Governor is Merrill Bynum; that of Prelate, Jack Wallace; Treasurer, Sam Brooks; and Eli Bloom returned to another 3-year term as Trustee.

Other members of the board of officers are Past Governor Dr. Charles McAndrews, Trustees J. J. Stauffer and Lacy Harrell, and Secretary E. M. Baldree.

Harvey Sprinkle, of Winston-Salem, the Deputy Supreme Governor of North Carolina Moose, served as the installing officer.

Governor Fuller told the gathering of Moose, their families and friends, that he was entering upon his year of service with a mixture of pride, eagerness and humility.

It was with pride, he said, that he was joining the ranks of past Governors of the Greenville lodge who had contributed to the fraternal order's record of community service, service to Mooseheart and Moosehaven, and growth and progress of the Greenville lodge. Eagerness, to carry on that record and "to test myself" in striving to make a great lodge greater. And humility, in recalling giant strides of accomplishment in the past.

Four New Members For Aux.

On Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James Worsley on East Wright Road, the American Legion Auxiliary held its regular meeting.

After the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ann DeLaMater, a prayer was given by Mrs. Chester Harris, Chaplain, followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag. The national anthem and an Easter hymn "O Come All Ye Thankful" were sung and the preamble recited.

The names of four new members were presented and welcomed by the President. Their names were: Mrs. Grace Forrest, Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, Mrs. Margaret Mellon and Mrs. Carolyn B. Jackson. Mrs. James Worsley reported the following slate of new officers for the nominating committee: 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Eric Whichard; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Ann Briley; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Ann Phillips; Treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Martin; Chaplain, Mrs. Frank Taylor; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ann DeLaMater; Sergeant-at-Arms, Mrs. C. L. Dupree.

The program for the evening was on "The Republic of Colombia, South America" and was given by Mrs. C. A. Bowen. She bus pointed out that Colombia is our nearest South American neighbor and was named for Christopher Columbus but not discovered by him. It lies in the north west corner of South America adjoining the Isthmus of Panama. The basic racial elements are Spanish and Indian with some Negro blood. The present government has two parties and a President who serves four years. The women have had the vote since 1958. They are badly in need of teachers to teach both children and adults, and our country has responded by sending the Peace Corps to help them. The American Legion Auxiliary CARE program has been devised to provide self-help tools to villages engaged in Community Development, and our local Auxiliary has had a small part in this.

At the close of the program, refreshments of punch and cookies were served by the hostesses; Mrs. Julia Rogers, Mrs. Grace Forrest, Mrs. A. T. Schmidt, Mrs. Ann DeLaMater and Mrs. Orene Jordan.

Attraction Of Arts Festival

An attraction of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival will be the program on "Four Modern Dance Studies" given by Patty Rose Griffith and Jo Saunders, students at East Carolina College, on Wednesday, May 2, at 8 p.m. in the Woman's Club. "A Dancers World", a movie featuring Martha Graham and her dance group, will also be shown.

Jo Saunders, wife of Frank Saunders of the Department of Mathematics, is a graduate of Coker College, Hartsville, S.C., and is a candidate for the master's degree in physical education at East Carolina. She formerly studied dance at New York University Summer School of Dance at Connecticut College for Women in New London, Conn., under such outstanding artists as Doris Humphrey, Jose Limon, Martha Graham, and Louis Horst. She has also studied under Virginia Moomaw at Women's College, and taught modern dance at Coker College for a number of years.

Betty Rose Griffith, wife of Dr. Albert Griffith of the Psychology Department, attended the University of Alabama, and at present is completing her degree in physical education at East Carolina College. She has had training in the modern dance under Phoebe Barr of the University of Alabama. She has also studied under Ted Shawn and Myra Kinch at Jacob's Pillow in Massachusetts and has taught modern dance for several years.

This past year both have been active in promoting the modern dance club at the college and have performed in several modern dance programs.

The program will be narrated by Lorrayne A. Graff, Department of Physical Education.

The public is invited to attend this program.

Club Members Attend Lunch

Mrs. J. E. Winslow and Mrs. D. R. Taylor were hostesses to members of the Round Table Book Club and other guests at the Author's Luncheon, held in connection with the annual Fine Arts Festival, on Saturday, April 28th, in the South Dining Hall of East Carolina College.

The luncheon table was centered with an arrangement of yellow gladioli, white snapdragons and pom pons carrying out the club colors of white and gold.

Following the three-course luncheon, Ovid Pierce introduced the speaker, Elizabeth Boatwright Coker (Mrs. James Lide Coker) of Darlington, S. C., who chose as her subject "How to Recapture a Bit of the Past." She told of her experiences in acquiring information for her latest book, "La Belle," published in 1959, which portrays the life of Marie Boozer. Mrs. Coker's enthusiasm created in her audience a desire to read "La Belle."

Mrs. Allison Hearne Moss, accompanied at the piano by Dr. Wolfgang Fetsch, rendered two lovely solos.

Mrs. Winslow and Mrs. Taylor entertained at their special table 18 members of the Round Table Club and the following additional guests: Mrs. Norman Winslow and Mrs. Colin McClean of Washington, N. C.; Mrs. E. M. Vann of Rocky Mount; Mrs. J. M. Taft of Greenville, and Mrs. Harold Haine of Hartford, Conn.

A Day Suited For A Free Society

Today the Communist world is going through its May Day celebration with giant parades, displays of military machinery and long speeches by the favored few of the party all pointed to showing the might of the Communist system.

In the United States today, by contrast, Law Day is being observed much less elaborately. There will be no huge parades, no three-day holiday for the occasion. Some short speeches, perhaps, in courtrooms around the country, at civic club meetings and at a few other public gatherings, plus statements issued by state and national officials.

By outward appearance of the two celebrations one might get the idea that communism and May Day mean considerably more to those who live under the hammer and sickle than does Law Day and the laws of the land do to those who live in this democracy. In reality, however, it is a day that has great meaning for every citizen in this free nation. In a free nation the laws do not belong just to those who write them or to those who have a part in their administration. In a free society the laws belong just as much to one citizen as to the other, just as much to the little man as to the big man.

While each individual in a free society has equal rights under the law, his citizenship likewise imposes upon him a responsibility to see that the laws are upheld and that the affairs of his community, state and nation are conducted in accordance with the law. He shares with his fellow citizens the responsibility for seeing that justice under the law shows no partiality among the people of the land.

In other countries—and indeed in a few communities in our own nation from time to time—there has appeared to be a complete breakdown of the legal system and the system of justice. When these situations have occurred, almost without exception it has been because the citizenry as a whole did not throw its support behind the laws with firm demands that they be properly enforced. Responsibility for adherence to the law and the administration of justice under it cannot be left entirely to the courts, to the lawyers or to any other small group of citizens. The entire citizenry must share the responsibility.

One of the basic strengths of a free and democratic people is not what is done to emphasize the importance of the laws on one particular day of each year, but rather what individual citizens do each day throughout the year to emphasize their support for a system of fair laws and equal justice for all people.

'Cash Crop' In Flowers, Shrubs

By JACK RILEY
Carolina Power & Light Company
Guest Writer

The long Easter weekend tended to substantiate a pet theory of mine regarding a new economic opportunity for agriculture in Eastern North Carolina. That is: Ornamental and flowering shrubs constitute a "cash crop" of enormous potential.

Proof of this is seen not only in the established nurseries and roadside stands that are becoming more numerous throughout the state, but groceries and supermarkets are adding to the evidence. Five and ten cent stores and other variety shops also stock all manner of plants, balled-in-burlap trees and flowering shrubs for sale throughout the spring and fall planting seasons.

With most other establishments closed during the Easter Monday holiday—and with the weather conducive to out door work—the nurseries were literally crawling with customers eager to purchase anything and everything to take home and plant according to their own home-grown ideas of landscape gardening.

The speed with which huge stocks of plants move in grocery stores indicates the demand for ornamentals. Flower shows and seasonal festivals stimulate this urge to plant beyond normal proportions. Wilmington's annual azalea festival has prompted the planting of more azaleas throughout Eastern North Carolina than all the nursery advertising that has been employed in all media combined. The result has been most rewarding in community after community.

Camellia shows are being staged with growing regularity in more and more communities; and as Bugs Barringer of Rocky Mount points out so frequently, the male of the species is particularly susceptible to the camellia fever. Not many years ago, the average man would not be caught dead with a gardening trowel in hand, especially if he were suspected of cultivating "flowers." But today a surprising percentage of the prizes at camellia shows and rose shows are hauled home by male exhibitors.

During mid-May and later, the emphasis will swing from camellias and azaleas to roses; and the numerous shows scheduled shortly before and after Mother's Day will send new gardeners scurrying to the nursery for rose bushes — potted ones, of course, at this late season for planting.

When the sales begin and the nursery stock moves by the tractor-trailer load, the pity is that so much of it will be imported into North Carolina from other states. Tar Heels should be producing more of the stock within our own borders.

The state has the climate for it; the public has proven its demand for it; and now the key seems to be a concerted campaign to encourage landowners to put more acres into ornamentals and flowering shrubs. It could considerably boost the state's gross agricultural revenue, and it should be a crop that would not seen be restricted by acreage and production controls.

Such a new cash crop might well replace the revenues lost by the curtailment of tobacco acreage.

In mentioning tobacco and shrubs in the same breath, it may be appropriate to mention that tobacco—except the relatively slight percentage that finds its way into refined nicotine—is a plant that appeals purely to the senses. In other words, it does not supply any sustenance to the user but merely satisfies one or more of his purely physical senses. The same is true of flowering shrubs; they satisfy the aesthetic, which makes their appeal far more universal than that of tobacco. They appeal to all ages and classes, and do not necessarily have to be owned personally to be enjoyed.

Just as specific events and exhibits have stimulated specific plantings — camellias, azaleas, roses — so other planned promotions could develop other demands. These would have to be anticipated with contractual arrangements with Tar Heel farmers for growing stock in adequate quantity to meet the demand.

It is a challenging prospect which might well whet the imagination and initiative of some agricultural agency—the State Department of Agriculture, the extension service, agricultural experiment stations, etc.

Imagine the prospect of this crop's expanding to such an extent that we might be faced with the prospect of production control! That would mean that private homes and public gardens and parkways and highway rights-of-way had become so covered with ornamental shrubs that the supply threatened to exceed the demand! Wouldn't that be a beautiful state to behold?

Such a prospect might even make the proposition of promoting ornamental shrubs as a cash crop appealing to the Department of Conservation and Development. It might add a new dimension to the advertising which already truthfully can call us the "Variety Vacationland" to be able to advertise the "Garden Spot of the Nation."

That day lies a long way down the road of the future, but it is time we looked in that direction.

May 19 will bring the 14th annual Raleigh Rose Show to the Capital City and hundreds of breath-taking rose displays will be placed on exhibit. If the visitor asks the grower the source of their plantings, almost 100 percent will answer that the rose bushes came from outside North Carolina—Texas, Oregon, Washington, California, Ohio or New Jersey. If the visitor asks the exhibitors how much money they invest in the business, he will get another surprise; for the average rosarian in a nursery is inclined to spend money like a seagoing sailor on shore leave.

The time is overdue that we keep more of that money at home in North Carolina.

Appointing Coltrane Stirred Controversy

Election of David S. Coltrane as chairman of the Advisory Budget Commission appears to have started in earnest, rather than to have settled, the controversy over whether a right-hand man of the governor should also serve as chairman of the important Advisory Budget Commission.

The controversy does not involve any question about Coltrane's qualification for the two positions he now holds. Leaders on both sides of the controversy agree that he is well qualified for his job as Gov. Sanford's personal watchdog for economy and efficiency in government and for the top post on the Advisory Budget Commission. The question is whether one person should hold both jobs. It stems, of course, from the traditional feeling that the Advisory Budget Commission should not be under undue influence from the executive branch of government since its recommendations concern fiscal policies and matters determined by the legislative branch.

In proposing that Coltrane be named chairman of the Commission, Gov. Sanford expressed the opinion that a person qualified to serve as a member of the Commission is also qualified to serve as chairman of the group. Barring the question of a fight for control of the Commission between the legislative and executive branches of the government, it is a question with which most people agree.

The best interest of the state demand that the executive and legislative branches of government work closely together through the Advisory Budget Commission in setting fiscal policies of the state. Much more good can be accomplished in this manner than under a procedure where the executive and legislative branches would independently arrive at proposed fiscal policies and then fight an all-out battle to see which will prevail. The Advisory Budget Commission, after all, is as the name implies, an advisory group. It makes recommendations on expenditures but the final decisions on appropriations are made by the legislature.

Stuffiness Out Of The Summit

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jet planes have taken some of the stuffiness out of summit meetings and President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan may try to humanize them a little more.

If they do there should be more summits with the Russians but less of the fanfare which in the past made every summit look like the hinge of history while the world listened for each creaky sound.

The statement of the two leaders issued after meeting here Sunday, like others in the past, was one of those typical topical things that touched a lot of bases but revealed practically nothing.

Their most interesting point—not so much for what is said as for what it may mean in time to come — was on summit meetings.

Here they said "they reaffirmed their willingness to consider meetings of heads of government whenever there is an indication that such meetings would serve the interest of peace and understanding, and in this respect they took note of the opinion recently expressed by Chairman Khrushchev."

Khrushchev had always been ready for a summit at the drop of a diplomatic pouch containing an invitation. In a recent interview with American publisher Gardner Cowles, he did a turn around.

In the past, while the West insisted any summit should be preceded by a meeting of foreign ministers to see if the two sides could agree on anything, Khrushchev brushed the ministers aside as a waste of time.

Messengers, he called them. He said only the top men could solve anything. But now Cowles said Khrushchev told him that perhaps it would be better for ministers to meet first.

The Kennedy-Macmillan statement didn't say they would sprint to a summit without preliminary spadework by the ministers, but it also didn't say they would insist on a ministers' meeting first.

They said they'd go if there was an indication it would do good.

"Indication" is a flexible diplomatic word, nicely adapted to keep the door open for Kennedy and Macmillan to go in or come out as they wish.

They could go directly to a summit, justifying it by saying there was some indication it was worthwhile. Or they could use it for the opposite reason.

The Kennedy-Macmillan get-together — their fifth since the President took office — was in a sense a summit but without any preliminary buildup as a world-shaker. They had some problems to discuss and they did.

But Kennedy and Macmillan represented friendly powers. Their meetings have all been just friendly, casual summits. In the West, however, there is none of this relaxed approach to a summit with an antagonist, like Russia.

If a different attitude developed — that summits don't necessarily have to solve anything but could be useful in exchanging views — there would be more of them, perhaps with benefit to everyone.

More of them might make more sense than the present stiff and stuffy isolation of the world leaders from one another.

A few words exchanged among Kennedy, Macmillan and Khrushchev in a room together could be more effective than for each of them, thousands of miles apart, to be continually sounding off.

The whole concept of summitry

Don't Laugh, Mister—

Back To The Gun In Car

Your columnist was indeed proud to receive a letter as a result of last week's column. It came from Father Maurice of St. Gabriel's Mission in Greenville.

He started out by telling me he enjoyed my columns. This, only a columnist can know how to appreciate.

But then he went on: "I like your style of writing. And I like mysteries. Today's edition of the Reflector gave me what I like. However, I do prefer to have my mysteries solved. Now what I'm trying to figure out is this—how did the shotgun belonging to the irate father get into the Marine sergeant's car? Your story had a nice happy ending—but the mystery of that shotgun will have me dazed far into the night."

Father Maurice was referring to the story last week of Marine Recruiter Leo Smith's unhappy experience when calling on a woman marine prospect. Seems her father appeared at the door, grabbed a shotgun from the house and sent forth a blast in the direction of Sgt. Smith's truck.

As for the gun-in-the-car, I presume Father Maurice is referring to the sergeant's statement when the irate man showed up at the recruiting office a few days later.

"Did you leave your gun in the car?" the marine asked, so I quoted him.

Remember the sergeant was based in Raleigh, and the father of the girl would have had to driven there. Thus the sergeant was wanting to know if the man had brought his gun along with the idea of taking a second shot at him (the sergeant). The gun was not in the sergeant's car but in the girl's father's car . . .

Oh well . . .

Now that this is clear as good old Tar River mud, your columnist has a little mystery he wishes someone else would seek to clear up.

Father Maurice concluded his letter, "In scriptione tua, bene fecisti,—bene facis. Prospere et procede!"

No, that's not a run-away Linotype. I think it is Latin. I just hope it is complimentary.

Other Editors Saying . Let Well Enough Alone

(The Henderson Dispatch)

Change at any time is justified when it is for the better. But it is not always clear in advance that benefits will accrue. Change just for the sake of change does not hold water, as a rule.

Why the State Department of Conservation and Development now is demanding control over development of recreational centers at Kerr Lake is not clear particularly in the light of an earlier decision that it wanted nothing to do with the project and washed its hands of the whole program. C. and D. ten years ago was under entirely different management from now, of course, and those with new brooms often like to try them out to determine if they will actually sweep clean.

Or, is this agitation for C. and D. to absorb the Kerr Reservoir Development Commission and make that agency a mere puppet, only part of a movement to concentrate as much power as possible under bureaucratic direction in Raleigh?

The Kerr Reservoir Commission has done a remarkably good job during the decade in which it has functioned. Recreation sites have been made highly popular with thousands of people. It is difficult to envision how more could have been accomplished with limited funds available with which to work. C. and D. could not be expected to improve upon the record already established unless it should be able to coerce larger sums from the General Assembly.

The Kerr Commission has not attempted to do everything overnight. Out of necessity or otherwise it has been compelled to get along from year to year. Its activities have been deliberately planned and executed, and on every hand the results are evident.

If C. and D. can do a better job, more power to it. But there is small room for criticism of the commission's accomplishment. Its work has been carried on by board members serving without pay and dedicated to their responsibilities.

The commission was created by legislative act. No authority exists for circumventing that status. C. and D. also has functioned to the benefit of many sections of the State, but for all this there is no evident reason to suppose that it could do more for the Kerr Lake area than has been done.

If functions residing in the commission are to be usurped by the larger body, more convincing reasons should be offered than have been thus far, and assent to the General Assembly should properly be obtained before any shift is permitted. There isn't much point to one group attempting to take over where success has been achieved when there was refusal at the outset to have anything to do with the program in its incipiency because at that time it didn't look very promising.

No one can answer for all the people in contiguous territory who are concerned, but it is a reasonable assumption that areas around the lake are fairly well satisfied with accomplishments carried out on a shoestring, and who would like to have some assurance that a change, if made, would actually be for the better. It might be wise to let well enough alone.

Opinions In Brief

"As we get it, the theory behind 'Long term public improvements' is the optimistic view that there will be a long term public." — Nashville (Tenn.) Banner.

"If the boss is a crank, it's probably because there aren't many self-starters around."—Cochran (Ga.) Journal.

"Note to men drivers: Maybe, as you insist, you are better drivers than women. But you never heard of a woman wrecking a car because some man on the corner had nice legs." — Greenville (S.C.) Piedmont.

"It's easy to tell those who have never had much experience in committee work; they always get to the meetings on time."—Carlsbad (N.M.) Current-Argus.

"If the U.S. Supreme Court, which has many times skirted the issue but never acted upon it, should decide that the recitation of a prayer in a public place is unconstitutional, it would make for a considerable change in the practice of centuries."—Portland Oregonian.

Business Trend Heads Into May

By ELMER ROESSNER

It seems likely that the gentle rise in business during April will continue into May. Seasonal factors, of course, will be important. Agricultural employment and outdoor construction begin their seasonal rise. Auto sales have been increasing, promising continuing employment in that industry around present levels.

Steel users, fearing a strike, built up inventories of about four million tons of finished steel in the first three months of this year. Ordinarily, since labor peace is established, this might portend a slack in current orders. However, there is a strong conviction that the steel industry will eventually have to raise prices, notwithstanding White House pressures. Many users, therefore, will keep on fattening inventories. This, in turn, will sustain employment in the steel mills.

CONSTRUCTION SENSITIVE, TOO

The possibility of higher steel prices is likely to stir other activity during May. Construction declined more than seasonally in February, held at the same level during March, and perked up a bit in April. The threat of higher prices for structural steel should speed up activities in May.

The steel indictments should have been no surprise to either business or stock market operators. After the Kennedy boys had taken such a firm stand against the steel price increase, it was inevitable that Attorney General Robert should press for an indictment if supporting evidence was available. Failure to press for an indictment would create the false impression that President John F. had either made a deal to ease prosecution or that the threat of prosecution had been a sort of blackmail threat to force recision of the steel price rise. The Administration could not afford to let these impressions become widespread, regardless of their fallacy.

RETAILING OUTLOOK GOOD

Another consequence of the steel price situation will become apparent in May: industry leaders, fearful that their price increases may also be interdicted by the White House, will try to resist labor demands. And labor, recalling the White House pressure on the steel unions, may soften demands somewhat.

Housing construction is likely to continue its rise in May. After four months of decline, housing starts turned upward in March and, although the official figures will not be in for two or three weeks, the rise seemed to continue in April.

Increases activity in television manufacture is certain. Many manufacturers have announced intentions of unveiling new models, especially in portables and in big-screen consoles, at the June Music Show in New York, and this will spur employment and purchasing.

Retail sales, after a slow start, are likely to improve. The lateness of Easter caused many to make heavy apparel purchases in April, taking them out of "open to buy" positions early in May. But by the end of the month they will be back in the market, reinforced by personal income which, incidentally, should also continue its steady rise. (How to be a business prophet: keep predicting that inflation and the cost of living will continue to rise. You can't lose.)

Other fields in which greater activity may be expected in May: farm implements; pleasure boating; travel; chemicals, and sporting equipment.

PAPER COMPANY ACTS TO SPEED PATRONS THROUGH CHECKOUT

International Paper has concluded that the bottleneck at most supermarket checkout counters is caused by youngsters and other tyros bagging the customers' purchases. To burst the bottleneck, the company has prepared a kit for use in training baggers. It includes an eight-minute film, an instructor's manual, brochures for students, posters and a demonstration board. The kit is free to training directors of supermarkets and grocery chains by writing International Paper, 220 E. 42nd St., New York 17.

Trends Change Slowly

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When a President moves out of the White House to make room for another President, no very great change takes place. All the obligations and responsibilities of the departing President and of those who preceded him fall to the lot of his successor. The course of events remains unchanged.

For instance, the inflation which followed the Truman Administration continued throughout the Eisenhower Administration and into the Kennedy Administration. Inflation paid no attention to the change of Presidents. Similarly, the effects of the export of our gold reserve continued. The Eisenhower Administration apparently had no understanding of money and of the need for a metal reserve and the Kennedy Administration has not been in office long enough to succeed in arresting this movement.

As a matter of fact, the reversal of a trend of this nature may take years because involved in the process is not only the United States but friendly and unfriendly nations throughout the world.

Our labor problems have a long history. Even if we start with the 1921-1938 Depression, during which about 10,000,000 were generally unemployed and wages and prices fell low and were artificially raised by government intervention, it must be noted that efforts to stabilize labor-management relations tended to reduce the role of ownership, to expertize management, to elevate labor to the middle-class by high wages, fringe benefits, reduction of hours and assertion by their unions to a partial voice in management.

At first, an attempt was made to regularize labor union-management - associations relationships by the N. R. A., which the Supreme Court declared to be unconstitutional. The authority of the labor union was established by the Wagner Act and the establishment of the National Labor Relations Board which, in effect, monitors the situation. In addition, the authority of the Secretary of Labor has been expanded so that he or his representatives actually serve as participants in discussions.

A wage-price pattern developed as far back as the Roosevelt Administration and has been continuous up to President Kennedy's intervention in the steel strike. This pattern is that labor strikes, wages are raised, fringe benefits cost more, prices rise. The process halts for about two years while the entire economy adjusts to the change. Then it starts all over again—strikes, wage increases, fringe benefit increases, prices rise, the process halts. This is the process of inflation. What actually happened since 1946 is that the purchasing power of the dollar fell; the gold stocks began to fall, taxes rose; American goods were out-priced in world markets.

Whether Nixon or Kennedy was elected in 1960, these are the conditions which already existed and with which the new President had to deal. If John Doe or Richard Roe were elected, it would have been the same.

I am omitting the complicating factors of our foreign relations in this discussion but I cannot omit the organization of the Common Market, the shutting off of significant markets in the Soviet Universal State; the rapid recovery of West Germany and Japan; the continued disorder throughout the world because of Soviet Russia's insistence upon the permanent revolution and the emergence of the new African and Asiatic nations and the collapse of the European empires.

All of these complications had sharp effects upon the American economic system. The immediate problem that faced President Kennedy was whether to put on such controls as both Wilson and Roosevelt employed or to utilize the moral authority of the Presidential office to persuade the whole American people to co-operate to arrest all inflationary tendencies and to rescue the dollar.

Of the two methods, controls are the easier to implement but they produce a police state. President Kennedy rejected the

Pitt Democratic Precinct Meetings Slated Saturday

Democratic Party precinct meetings to elect precinct officers and choose county convention delegates are scheduled in Pitt County's 25 voting divisions Saturday at 11 a.m.

Pitt Democratic Chairman J. Henry Harrell of Greenville, in announcing the opening round of meetings in the party's organization, urged precinct chairmen to encourage large attendances Saturday.

The Saturday meetings will choose chairmen and vice-chairmen in each precinct. Those two officers with three more Democrats will serve as the executive committee for each precinct. Also to be elected Saturday are each precinct's delegates and alternates to the county Democratic convention, set for the Pitt Courthouse the following Saturday.

Harrell said party by-laws require no less than five registered Democrats must attend each precinct meeting to constitute a quorum. Party regulations also stipulate that at least two men and at least two women be elected to the five-member executive committee at each meeting.

Following election of the executive committees, the chairman, vice chairman and secretary-treasurer will be chosen from the committee's membership. One of the top two officers will be a man, the other must be a woman.

At the county convention, May 12, the precinct delegates will elect the county's delegates to the State Convention, Thursday, May 17, in Raleigh. At the county meeting, each precinct will be entitled to at least two votes. A precinct's maximum voting strength will be determined by the number of votes cast for Gov. Sanford in November, 1960. One vote is allowed for each 50 votes.

Following the county convention, scheduled for 11 a.m., the precinct chairmen and vice chairmen are scheduled to meet as the County Executive Committee to elect the county chairman.

Women In Space Still Far Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Robert Voas, training officer at the Langley, Va., space flight center, was asked in a radio interview Monday how soon he thought a female astronaut might be sent into space.

"Not in this decade," he replied.

Voas then was asked the prospects of sending a man and a woman together into space.

"I think all these things are pretty far in the future," he answered.

He took the occasion of his installation to pay tribute to his predecessor, Dr. Charles McAndrew. "This lodge," he said, "owes him a great debt."

Others singled out for mention were Secretary Baldree, Senior Regent Rachel Hobgood (of Greenville Women of the Moose), and an expression of appreciation for Deputy Supreme Governor Sprinkle's presence and role in the installation.

Dr. McAndrew was presented a plaque in recognition of his services to the Greenville Lodge and the fraternity, and a scrapbook which recorded community services accomplished during his tenure of office. The Past Governor, in his acceptance, pledged anew his continuing interest in serving the order.

Gov. Fuller announced the filling of three appointive posts: Boyd Cox as Sergeant at Arms, Leon Singleton as Inner Guard, and B. G. Martin as Outer Guard.

The new Governor has been a member of the fraternity for five years, serving as civic affairs chairman and the elective positions of Prelate and Junior Governor.

Junior Governor Merrill Bynum, a member of three years standing, has served as civic affairs chairman and as Prelate.

Wallace, a member of the Greenville Lodge for ten years, has previously served a term as Prelate as well as chairman of several committees; among them, civic affairs and conservation.

Treasurer Brooks has served on the Lodge degree team, as Sergeant at Arms and as civic affairs co-chairman. He has been a member for four years.

Eli Bloom was re-elected to a three-year term as Trustee, a position he has held for 2 terms. He also is continuing as entertainment committee chairman, and has been a Moose for 8 years.

Refreshments were served at the close of the ceremony.

ry is in an evolutionary phase. A hundred years ago, when travel was slow and a head of state might have to be away from government for weeks or months, a summit was a stupendous event.

Faster travel and the urgencies of World War II began to make summits — like those of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin — seem less awesome.

As travel got even faster there seemed less reason — except for the dead hand of tradition — for not have more meetings between the top men, not only among friends but with antagonists, too.

This may be what Kennedy and Macmillan had in mind Sunday although, by using the word "indication," they didn't stick their necks all the way out.

The more frequent summit meetings become, the less enormous each would look until finally the world would stop expecting final solutions from meetings which had become a place to exchange ideas.

Elaborate Presentation Set For Sylvan Theater

When the East Carolina Playhouse presents Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, audiences will see the most elaborately staged outdoor production yet to be presented on campus.

The stage crew, under the supervision of student technical director William Rackley, has constructed an immense forestage to supplement the existing playing space, so that the ground level area closely approximates that found in theaters such as the Globe and the Fortune in the Elizabethan era. In this way characters such as Shylock and Portia can move to a position only inches away from the first row of the audience to deliver their soliloquies and asides.

Another feature of the settings will be the use of simultaneous stages. The 20 scenes of the play take place in four different locales: a street in Venice, before Shylock's house, at Portia's country home in Belmont, and in a Venetian court. In order to avoid waits between scenes of the play three of these settings will appear on the stage simultaneously, while the fourth—the courtroom scene—will be substituted for Shylock's house during the single intermission.

In case of rain at the time of performance, the performance will be cancelled, and tickets for one of the other performances provided or money refunded. If there should be rain on two of the nights, a performance will be held on Saturday, so that at least two performances will be assured. The house management wants to emphasize, however, that rain during the day will not cancel a performance, as the seats dry very quickly and, if necessary, pillows will be made available.

College students may pick up their tickets in the College Union on the Monday and Tuesday preceding performances, or will be admitted at the theater itself. The general public will pay an admission charge of one dollar, with high school students and children being admitted for fifty cents.

expansion of government controls. Younger generations do not remember what a plague controls can be; how horrible the very existence of nachalniki—bothersome officials — can be.

The President apparently is going to employ moral suasion. The whole story of the steel situation comes down to a few simple postulates: management and the labor unions are free to assert themselves; but the government must protect the economy, to arrest inflation and to stabilize the dollar. The Administration's formula is sound but sometimes such actions can be too swift and too angry. However, a new formula has appeared and it will continue to be employed. We all shout against inflation but when an action is taken, we object for other reasons.

Djilas Going On Trial Again Soon

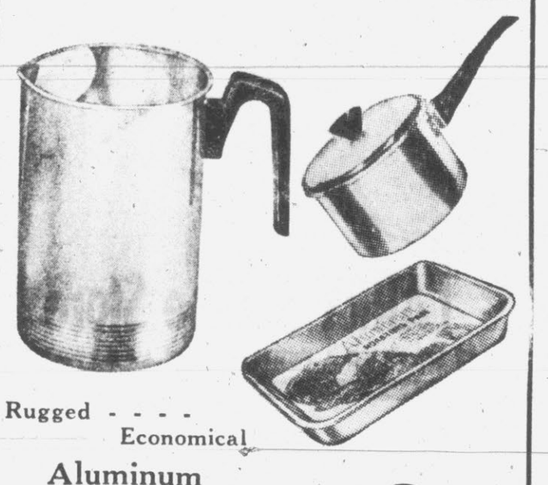

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Former Vice President Milovan Djilas is expected to go on trial soon for writing another book that roused the ire of Yugoslav President Tito's government.

Djilas, 51, once one of Tito's closest friends, was indicted Monday for writing "Conversations with Stalin", an account of meetings he had with the Soviet chief while serving as a Yugoslav official.

Authorities charged that the book, to be published in New York May 25, violated Djilas' parole from an earlier nine-year sentence he drew for writings critical of Tito's communism.

Georgians Meet High Hospitality

ATLANTA (AP) — A group of Georgia farmers, returning from a 3,000-mile tour through Poland and the Soviet Union, say their counterparts behind the Iron Curtain are 30 to 50 years behind the United States.

The Georgians, who returned home Monday night, said they feel generally that the Russians are making only slight progress in catching up with modern farming methods.

L. W. Eberhardt Jr. of Athens, Ga., assistant director of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, said that while the Russians have "made some progress, they've got a long, long way to go to get anywhere near U.S. production."

Soviet farmers are feeding their own people with enough potatoes, wheat and similar products, Eberhardt said, but they are "so far behind in meat production."

All the group were impressed with the red carpet treatment they were given. Jack Gilchrist of the State Department of Agriculture said, "We Southerners learned something about hospitality."

John Spooner of Donaldsonville said that of the 55 men on the trip there probably would be 55 different reactions. The two things that particularly impressed him were "the wonderful youth program and the high moral standards of the people."

Mose Coleman of Vidalia said, "it was amazing the way the Russian people wanted to talk to us. Everytime we would step out of the hotel they would gather around and block traffic in the streets."

Taking A Trip In His Wheelchair

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Brad Da Pont, 21, who has had no legs since he was hit by a truck at the age of 5, plans a cross-country trip this summer vacation—in a wheel chair.

The San Jose State College business management major, told his plans Monday at a news conference. He exhibited a specially built, $2,000-wheel chair, a gift from a company that makes such things. It has pneumatic tires, a chain drive, six speeds forward and is manually propelled.

Da Pont said he will leave San Francisco June 15 and hopes to reach New York City Sept. 20—at a speed of six miles an hour, 30 miles a day.

"AND SOME GET RAINED OUT" . . . You win a few and loose a few and some get rained out. This one got rained out Saturday. East Carolina College Students, Judy Elliott, 19, and Jim Willis, 20, both of Coates, had their bicycling trip around Greenville dampened by afternoon showers.

'Much To Do' In Social Services

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina has come a long way in social service since 1912, but there is still much to be done, Gov. Sanford said Monday night.

He listed drop-outs in public schools, juvenile delinquency, prison rehabilitation, and aid for migrant farm workers as some areas of need.

The governor was the speaker at the 50th anniversary banquet of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service.

The three-day annual session was to end this morning, after an address by D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville, a former conference president.

Sanford told the conference that proposals for social advance almost always draw attacks.

Happily the good sense and the good conscience of the large majority of the citizens of North Carolina and of America have not been scared away from social progress by the boogey men erected by the short-sighted," he said.

The governor expressed pleasure that the conference plans to tackle the problem of drop-outs—students who fail to finish high school. He said the state is working on it, too.

Sanford also reported he has invited 300 experts and interested laymen to a conference in Chapel Hill May 14 on the subject of juvenile delinquency.

New Rescue Techniques Described For Rotarians

Capt. Claude Christopher and Dr. Sam White, II, of the Greenville Rescue Squad discussed for Greenville Rotarians last night new techniques being used by the local rescue squad for heavy rescue operations.

Dr. White told Rotarians the Greenville Rescue Squad already has begun training for international competition in rescue operations to be held in Montreal next summer. The Greenville squad will represent North Carolina in the competition with squads from other states and the provinces of Canada. In competition last year the Greenville unit placed third with two Canadian teams winning first and second places.

Because of the advanced techniques used by Canadian teams in heavy rescue work, Dr. White said, the Greenville squad is learning the Canadian techniques in preparation for its competition.

Capt. Christopher exhibited for the Rotarians several models of apparatus used for heavy rescue operations and explained their uses. He also outlined the training program being followed by the local rescue squad.

Dr. Frank Longino, who introduced the speakers, praised the work of the Greenville Rescue Squad for the public service the unit is rendering.

In a brief business session the Rotary Club approved an appropriation of $1.85 per member for use of the steering committee from eight local civic clubs in studying and planning for a community center in Greenville.

Mays And Cepeda Blast Homers As Giants Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Slump-ridden Willie Mays has kick the habit and reformed the National League's No. 1 power combine with Orlando Cepeda for the streaking San Francisco Giants, back on top of the league standings after their sixth consecutive victory.

Both Mays and Cepeda continued their slugging Monday, each tagging a homer to support the four-hit pitching of rookie Gaylord Perry as the Giants knocked off Pittsburgh 4-1 and toppled the Pirates from first place.

Over that span Mays and Cepeda have reactivated the potent 1-2 punch that gave the Giants 86 homers and 265 runs batted in during the 1961 campaign. Mays now has seven homers, tops in the majors, plus 1[illegible] RBI, while Cepeda has hit six homers and knocked in 21 runs.

Mays was hitting a woeful .203 until he began to unlimber the big bat that accounted for 40 homers and 123 RBI last year. A 6 for-19 performance, including three homers in the last four games, has pulled him up to .250.

Cepeda, NL slugging king last season with 46 homers and 142 RBI, stepped up the pace when Mays started to connect and has hit at a .444 clip over the last six games, boosting his mark up to .338. He's third in the league in runs batted in.

While the Giants were extending their streak, Philadelphia snapped one, beating Milwaukee's Warren Spahn 6-4 for their first victory over the veteran left-hander since May 23, 1959. In the only other other games scheduled. Stan Williams' five-hitter gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-1 triumph over Chicago's Cubs.

The American League had a day off.

Mays got the Giants started with a bases-empty homer in the first inning off Vinegar Bend Mizell (1-1). But the Pirates came back to tie it in the second when Don Hoak singled, stole second and came across on Bill Mazeroski's single. San Francisco went back out front in the third when Tom Haller walked, took second on Perry's sacrifice and scored on Mickey Mota's single. Cepeda's two-run homer, after Mays had walked in the fourth, put it out of reach.

Perry (2-0), whose brother Jim pitches for Cleveland, was knocked out in his first major league start, then beat the Pirates to start the Giants' current streak.

Spahn (2-3), trying for the 312th victory of his career, was knocked out in the third whent he Phils scored five times on Ruben Amaro's double, singles by Tony Taylor and Tony Gonzalez, plus three walks, including a bases-filled one to Don Demeter. Rookie Jack Hamilton (2-2) won it, with relief help from Jack Baldschun in the ninth.

The Dodgers scored two runs in the fifth to win it, snapping a 21-inning scoreless string when an error by Andre Rodgers let Norm Sherry score and Jim Williams' single drove in Maury Wills. Andy Carey's homer in the sixth gave Williams some additional room. g room.

Time Is Now To Stop Yanks

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anybody is going to stop the New York Yankees, the time is now. In the next two weeks the world champions will be playing 10 of 15 games on the road, including series with the top contending Chicago White Sox and the Cleveland Indians. Detroit and Baltimore will be mingling strictly with second-division clubs. So will the White Sox and Indians, except for the Yankee series.

In sharp contrast with 1961 when Roy Hamey, the Yanks' general manager, spent hours on the telephone trying to shore up his pitching staff, Hamey is standing pat letting the others do the worrying.

"We're not interested in any trades," said Hamey in New York before leaving for the Chicago series. "I'm not bothering to phone and nobody is calling me."

The collapse of Art Ditmar and the ineffective work of Bob Turley threw such a heavy load on Whitey Ford last May that Manager Ralph Houk reorganized his staff and moved Bill Stafford and Roland Sheldon into the starting routine. This year the rotation of Ford, Terry and Stafford has been enough to handle most of the clubs.

Houk was pleased by Roger Maris' hitting in Washington where he boosted his average 110 points to .262 with 10 hits in 19 at-bats, including three home runs. With Clete Boyer batting .429 and Mickey Mantle averaging .359, Houk is sitting pretty.

The Yanks send Stafford against Juan Pizarro tonight in the opener of a three-game series at Comiskey Park with the White Sox only a half game behind New York. Pizarro worked the series finale at Yankee Stadium last week when the Yanks shocked the White Sox with a winning four-run rally in the ninth inning.

Cleveland, one game back of New York after being knocked out of first place by the Minnesota Twins over the weekend, has a chance to fatten up on Los Angeles and Kansas City and get revenge on the Twins before the Yanks come into town for the first time for four games, May 11-13.

The Indians get another look at Bo Belinsky, the Los Angeles Angels' colorful rookie tonight when Sam McDowell, highly touted Cleveland rookie, gets another start.

Detroit's home run hitters will try to give Jim Bunning a third straight victory in their night game with Kansas City, which has been an April surprise. Jerry Walker, winner of three in a row, will work for Hank Bauer's A's.

It will be Baltimore's turn to try to cool off the Minnesota Twins. Chuck Estrada gets the call against Camilo Pascual, a three-time winner.

Washington, streaking along in reverse with a 2-13 season record, hopes to snap its 13-game losing streak at home against the Boston Red Sox's Gene Conley. Pete Burnside, who has won half of Washington's games (one), will pitch for the Senators. Washington still is seven short of the American League record of 20 consecutive defeats set by Boston in 1906 and tied twice by the old Philadelphia A's.

There were no games in the league Monday. Three National League games made up the complete major league schedule, with the San Francisco Giants taking over first place with a 4-1 victory over Pittsburgh, Philadelphia beating Milwaukee 6-4 and the Los Angeles Dodgers edging Chicago's Cubs 3-1.

Large Field For 2nd Women's Invitational

About 170 golfers from 19 eastern towns are entered in the second annual Greenville Women's Invitational golf tournament scheduled for May 10.

The tournament is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. and lunch will be served at the end of the first nine holes. The second nine will follow the luncheon.

Ten flights are planned with about 17 or 18 golfers in each flight. They will be arranged according to their handicaps.

Three prizes will be awarded in every flight and ten door prizes will also be given. Extra prizes will be given for the longest drive and the closest to the pin on number eight and 15 which are three par holes.

Following the tournament a social hour will begin at 4 p.m. in the clubhouse and the winners will be announced and the prizes awarded at the end of the party.

The tournament committee has made up a booklet with a list of the participants and cartoons pertaining to ladies golf. Free drinks will be distributed on the course and favors will be passed out before the tournament gets underway.

Favored to win the event are two Rocky Mount golfers, Mae Gravely and Rae Johnson. Last year's tournament was the first one of its kind in the eastern part of the state. The event has started a trend because this year Wilson and Jacksonville are also holding invitational tournaments for women.

Towns to be represented in the tournament are Camp Lejeune, Plymouth, Grifton, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Cherry Point, Sanford, Farmville, Wilson, Morehead City, Washington, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Ayden, New Bern, Williamston, Jacksonville, Tarboro, Ayden and Geenville.

Wilson Defeats Burlington 7-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Carolina League record of 20 strikeouts for a game was equalled by righthander Pete Cimino as Wilson beat Burlington, 7-3, Monday night.

While he was a whiz at strikeouts, Cimino proved a little rough on the Burlington batters. He hit three. Catcher Buddy Booker was knocked unconscious by a Cimino fourth inning pitch, but recovered before he could be taken to a hospital for a check.

Durham got good pitching, too, in a doubleheader victory over Kinston that pulled the Bulls to third place. Wally Wolf struck out 15 in the seven-inning opener, won by Durham, 4-1. Marv Dutt fanned 10 in the regulation second game, which Durham took, 4-3.

Winston-Salem remained in the top spot by blasting Raleigh, 7-2. Steve Chamos came on in the third inning to relieve Wayne Tatum, and pitched one-hit, shutout ball the rest of the way.

Greensboro edged Durham, 6-5 in the other game of the night.

The record Cimino tied was set in 1945 by Charlie Timm of Raleigh, who struck out 20 in a game with Martinsville, now out of the league. Seven pitchers have struck out 19.

The games tonight:
Winston-Salem at Greensboro
Durham at Burlington
Raleigh at Rocky Mount
Wilson at Kinston.

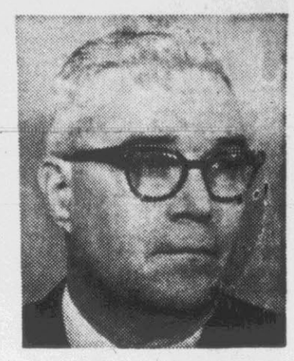

Hopes To Follow Dad's Footsteps

NEWARK, Del. (AP) — Steve Sundra Jr. hopes some day to follow in the footsteps of his late father who made the grade in the major leagues.

The father won 56 games and lost 41 in eight years in the American League. He played on two world championship teams, the New York Yankees of 1938 and 1939. He died of cancer in 1952, four days short of his 39th birthday.

Steve Jr. is the top pitcher on the University of Delaware staff. The 20-year old right-hander from Atlantic City, N.J., has a 4-2 record and has worked 38 1-3 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run.

"When I was about 9 years old," he said, "my father used to take me to a nearby ball park and teach me how to catch and swing a bat. He never did get a chance to teach me about pitching."

Brown At Top In ACC Standings

GREENSBORO (AP) — Tom Brown of Maryland, who set a new Atlantic Coast Conference record with eight pass interceptions last football season and also ranked second in the conference in punt-returning, collected six hits in two games last week and stole five bases to jump into a two-way lead in the ACC baseball individual performance chart.

Brown's batting heroics—Duke and Wake Forest together managed to retire him only three times in nine official times at bat—shot him into the batting lead with an average of .449, which is considerably above the single-season ACC record of .429 set in 1955 by Andy Cockrell of Duke.

A defensive halfback specialist for the Terp gridders and an outfielder in baseball, Brown has now stolen a dozen bases to lead that department of measurement as well.

ACC Service Bureau figures show that Brown supplanted Clemson's Johnny Jones as conference batting leader and leap-frogged over N.C. State's Wayne Edwards as well. Jones fell to third place at .412 with Edwards holding second at .422. These three are the only .400-or-better hitters remaining in the ACC.

Billy Scripture of Wake Forest with 10 and Roger Coon of the Deacons with eight trail Brown in stolen bases.

Buddy Nixon of Clemson, a .338 batter, continues to pace the ACC in slugging. He leads in home runs with five and runs batted in with 25. Coon and Scripture trail in homers with four each, Dave Uible of Duke is second in RBIs with 20, with Scripture (19) and Coon (18) trailing Uible.

George Hayworth of N.C. State is No. 1 in doubles with seven, followed by Scripture, Mike Budd of Wake Forest and Brooks Fader of Duke with six each. Several share the lead in triples with two.

In the pitching department, meantime, Pat McDowell of Wake Forest tops won-lost standings with a 4-0 record. Tommy Lyon of Clemson second at 5-1. Bob Conner of N.C. State leads earned run average with 1.86 and Dick Densmore of Duke is No. 1 in strikeouts with 53.

UNC And Duke To Play Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina and Duke played today to break their tie for seventh place in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball standings, and Maryland was at Penn State and Virginia at William and Mary in two non-league games.

Wake Forest widened its first-place margin Monday by beating North Carolina State 6-2.

Deacon sophomore hurler Bobby Biddix went the distance, pitching a six hitter. He worked out of tough spots in the first and second innings and held the Wolfpack scoreless except for the seventh.

Wake Forest took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, scored three times in the second, and twice in the seventh on a double by Billy Scripture and a home run by Roger Coon.

Wake Forest is now 6-2 in the conference and 13-5 over-all. N.C. State, with a 4-4 league record, slipped into a three-way tie for third place with South Carolina an Virginia.

Wake Forest has another chance Wednesday to take a tighter grip on the league lead when it plays Duke. Friday, the Deacons play second-place Clemson.

In another Wednesday game, Clemson will play Furman of the Southern Conference.

Texas Welcomes Liston Fight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas boxing director and an official of the Houston Sports Association said Monday night they would welcome a title fight between heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston.

"We'd like very much to have the Patterson-Liston fight. It would be a big thing for Texas," said Alton Erickson of Austin, the director and a representative of the National Boxing Association.

New York and California have refused to license Liston because of his background.

"I see no reason to deny Liston a license," Erickson said. He's paid his debt to society.

"Liston has fought here before and I believe he has a license to fight here right now," he said.

Success Goes To Star's Stomach

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Success goes to Ernesto de la Osa's stomach. It also seems to make him break out in a rash.

The Miami Marlins of the Florida State League have a budding Frank Merriwell in De la Osa, a young Cuban shortstop, if they can only calm him down—but not too much.

In De la Osa's first professional baseball game he made an unassisted triple play, and went three-for-four at bat. A crowd of 5,376 roared. The excitement was too much. He was sick to his stomach and ran a fever after the game. Taken to the hospital, he was diagnosed as a case of nerves.

Second professional game, next night. Sent up as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning, he smacked a triple that helped win the game. Back to the hospital.

"Nerves again," said General Manager Bill Durney by telephone today. "That and a possible case of colu-e-itis, or something—don't ask me how to spell it—which has to do with circulation. We're looking for a wonder drug for him."

De la Osa also has broken out in a rash.

Durney, a major league front office veteran, says De la Osa "has the makings of a fine ball player. He has real quick hands and covers lots of ground. He's a wonderful boy, who has only been over here from Cuba for about a month. He speaks very little English."

De la Osa pulled off his unassisted triple play against the Fort Lauderdale Yankees in the Miami opener on April 23.

"There were runners on first and second," Durney said. "The boy grabbed a line drive about six inches off the ground while moving toward second base. He stepped on the bag, doubling that runner, and then tagged the man coming down from first. He also tagged every one else in the park including the umpire to be sure he had everybody out.

"We didn't start him the next night against Fort Lauderdale since he was still a little upset. In the ninth inning, we were behind 8-3. Ernesto went in to pinch hit during our eight run rally, and hit a triple. We won 11-8."

Ernesto went back to the hospital to stay for a while.

De la Osa is a Philadelphia Philly farm hand, 20, 5-foot-11 and 165 pounds. He's in a good league if he has major league ambitions. Stan Musial started in the Class D loop, and Sid Hudson jumped straight from there to the major leagues.

Mickey Wright Shot Best Round

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Blonde Mickey Wright shot what she described as "the best competitive round of my career"—a three-under-par 69—to win top money of $1,400 in the 23rd women's Titleholders Golf Tournament.

Miss Wright had six birdies in her remarkable round under pressure Monday as she defeated Ruth Jessen of Seattle in the first playoff ever necessary in this event. Miss Jessen shot a respectable 37-35—72, matching men's par of 36-36—72 over the Augusta Country Club Course. She won $1,100.

The two West Coast entries—Miss Wright is from San Diego—wound up even at 295 at the end of the 72-hole event Sunday.

Maris Is Running In Front Of 1961 Pace

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Although homer king Roger Maris was batting a puny .152 before the recent four-game series at Washington, neither the New York Yankee slugger nor his manager, Ralph Houk, felt Maris was in any type of slump.

If anything, the man who hit 61 home runs last year appeared ready to take apart Chicago White Sox pitching again. Maris last year slammed 13 of his home runs against the Sox and the Yankees open a three-game series with the White Sox tonight.

"I never considered being in a slump," said Maris, who lifted his average to .262 with 10 hits including three homers against Washington over the weekend.

"I was hitting the ball well but always at somebody," he said. "Baseball is a game of percentages and eventually, when you're hitting the ball well it will start dropping in."

Maris, who has four home runs in 15 games, is well ahead of his 1961 pace. Last year he didn't hit No. 2 until the 16th game.

"I never even thought of his being in any kind of slump until the question was brought up," said Houk. "The big reason probably is that the Maris of this year is so much better a player than the Maris of last spring. Last year at this time he was struggling when popping up."

Maris agreed. "If anything, last spring was probably the worst of my career. I didn't think I would ever get started."

Dennis Bekemeyer, 18, of Champaign, Ill., will captain Dartmouth's indoor track team next season.

All She Wants To Do Is Swim

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Margaret Revell is 24, has a figure like a Las Vegas showgirl, the kind of face they put on magazine covers—and all she wants to do is swim oceans.

"My only romance is the water," the golden-haired girl from Miami said today. "I know some people will be shocked to hear that, but it's true. I won't be happy until I break every long-distance women's swimming record in the book."

Miss Revell is in New York completing arrangements for a summer's bid at what she calls a water marathon "grand slam."

She leaves May 15 for Seville, Spain. First, she'll tackle the Straits of Gibraltar. Then she'll go to Turkey for shots at the Bosporus Straits and the Dardanelles—tests of some 20 miles each.

"I think Florence Chadwick holds the record for these swims," Mary Margaret said. "My first aim is to beat the marks for all of these."

She will return home for a 75-mile swim from Port Huron, Mich., to Detroit in July and then, after a two-week rest, will take off for England where she will try to become the first woman to accomplish a round-trip, non-stop swim of the English Channel.

Mary Margaret, a blue-eyed Irish colleen, is the daughter of a Bakersfield, Calif., dentist, the oldest of five children, all of whom are outstanding swimmers and athletes.

She began swimming when she was 3, got the long-distance "bug" when she was still in high school but didn't do anything about it until she got out of a small California college. Her conquests include the 25-mile Catalina Channel in 11 hours, 50 minutes and the 16-mile Michigan Mackinac Straits in 7½ hours.

She proceeded to incorporate herself as "Mary Margaret Revell Enterprises, Inc."

"It's my business to make physical fitness your pleasure," her card says. She maintains offices in Detroit and Miami. She is her own company president, general manager and public relations agent.

"I'm a fanatic on physical fitness," she said. "I am up every day at 5 a.m. I swim at least four hours daily. I am careful about what I eat. I concentrate on fish and salads — never any meat or naughty things like eclairs or strawberry tarts. I don't smoke or drink.

"I like men. But if they take me out, they have to have me home by 9 p.m. I'm in training—and, as I said, water is my only love."

Palmer Is Not Afraid At All

BOSTON (AP)—Arnold Palmer, current king among professional golfers, is a mixture of "talent and guts," according to his constant rival, Gary Player.

"If you are leading and Palmer is two strokes behind you, you are conscious of him," Player said. "He's so bold he's not afraid of anything."

As for his own game, Player said:

"The best thing that has happened to me was to finish out of the money in the Bing Crosby tournament. I had won money in 50 straight events and became too conservative.

"When the streak ended, I began to play all out again, and that's the only way for me to play."

Day Of Decision For 8 Three-Year-Old Colts

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— This was the day of decision for eight 3-year-old colts.

Each needed a top performance in the mile of the $15,000-added Derby Trial at Churchill Downs to justify a place in the starting lineup for the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby which will be run for the 8th time Saturday.

It takes $250 to enter a horse in the derby Thursday morning and $1,250 more to start, and some of the owners and trainers of the Derby Trial field have said they are not about to plunk down $1,500 just to see their colors in America's premier horse race.

As it stands, the Kentucky Derby apparently has 13 sure entries headed by the highly regarded pair of C. T. Chenery's Sir Gaylord and Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan. The rest of Saturday's starting field will come from the Derby Trial.

The Derby Trial, from which four winners in the past have gone on to derby fame and riches, has one of the weakest lineups in years. Only two horses—Neil S. McCarthy's Royal Attack and T. A. Grissom's Roman Line—have figured in pre-Derby calculations.

Royal Attack won the Santa Anita Derby but was a disappointing sixth back of Doc Jocoy in the California Derby at Tanforan. Roman Line ran third in last Thursday's 1⅛-mile Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland after taking the seven-furlong Forerunner over the same track.

Others named for the trial include Sharp Count from the Reverie Knoll Farm, Golden Triangle Stable's Mister Pitt, Glenn W. Stevens' Boone Co., J. V. P. Stabie's Lee Town, L. J. Knight'd Bigger Bonus, and J. C. Pollard's Treasury Note.

"As far as I am concerned, Royal Attack must run a good race in the trial to go back in the Derby," said trainer Buddy Hirsch. "We believe he is a better horse than he showed in the California Derby, but he'll have to show us."

The last horse to win both the Derby Trial and Kentucky Derby was Tim Tam in 1958. The others were Dark Star (1953), Hill Gail 1952), and Citation (1948).

Actually, the second-place finishers have fared better in the big race. Six of them—Lawrin, Whirlaway, Gallahadion, Ponder, Middleground and Determine — used the runner-up honors as the spring board to victory in the first of three races comprising the Triple Crown.

CHAPTER 20

Katie Dale forced herself to look at Hugh Spencer and said, "You won't believe this, and there's no reason you should, but I had no idea you'd become involved in such serious trouble the last time I saw you. I thought you'd find some way to prove you were innocent. And I couldn't help you without jeopardizing myself. Pa and I left England before you were brought to trial, and I didn't read about your case until I saw a small article in the Boston Advertiser months later."

She paused, and there was a note of defiance in her voice as she added, "You'll think I'm lying, but that doesn't matter. I do want you to know I'm sorry."

Hugh glared at her, hoping he was concealing his feelings. It was absurd to discover that his old wounds hadn't healed and that he wanted, desperately, to believe her.

"Katie was miserable for months, I must confess," Dale said cheerfully. "You see, Captain, I hadn't planned to use you as a decoy to draw suspicion from me when I was bringing my most successful operation to completion. Katie has been ashamed of my profession and had invented a charmingly romantic background for herself when she met you. Sara Dean was a most ingenious device."

"Be quiet, Pa!" she cried furiously. "Captain Spencer doesn't care how I felt, and what I did was my business. It isn't any of his concern!"

Her father ignored the outburst. "Unfortunately, you had visited the house I was using as a headquarters, so it was necessary to take extraordinary measures to protect myself after you were taken into custody."

"Please, Pa! We ruined his life, so what does it matter how we did it?"

Hugh, still maintaining a stony facade, thought that Katie's feminine appeal was even stronger now than it had been when he had known her as Sara Dean. Certainly she had become more beautiful, if possible, and it was disturbing to know that she still had the power to upset his emotional balance. "The past no longer interests me," he said harshly. "I hold a commission in the army of the United States, and I fight her enemies. Counterfeiters who damage the spirits of the people hurt our capacity to wage a successful war, so they're enemies of America."

Benjy stared at his boots miserably.

August Dale patted his white hair carefully, and his poise deserted him for a moment. "You present the picture in a light I hadn't considered, Captain."

Hugh smiled cynically.

"Doubt me if it gives you pleasure, sir, but I have no love for England. I have developed a great fondness for the New World, however, and it would grieve me to see this infant nation lose her war for independence."

Tears appeared in Katie's eyes and she stamped her foot angrily. "Don't you realize that nothing you say is going to influence him, Pa? After the way we treated him, he wants to see us hang—and we can hardly blame him."

Dale looked pained. "A man can't be hanged for expressing his honest sentiments. I can state without reservation that I earnestly hope and pray that the United States will earn her freedom, and that I wouldn't harm her cause deliberately."

"Be quiet, Pa!" Katie cried furiously. "Can't you see he thinks you're just trying to influence him?"

Hugh inclined his head to her. "Your sensitivity to the feelings of others does you credit, Mistress Dean, or Miss Dale, or whatever you may call yourself," he said with heavy sarcasm. "You've convinced me that you grieved for me during the months when I was held in prison, particularly as it was in your power to arrange for my release rather than plot with your accomplices to ensure that I'd be convicted."

He broke off abruptly, aware that he was hurting her, and was surprised to discover that he felt no sense of triumph. He had dreamed of the day when he would force her to pay for her trickery, but realized he was actually searching for some way to rationalize and excuse her conduct.

Katie, conscious of the intensity of his gaze, turned away from him and stared out of the window.

There was a long, uncomfortable silence, and finally Dave Simpson returned to the sitting room. "Dick is starting all over again, Captain, but so far we ain't found one crumb of evidence. We always figured we knew everything about hiding presses and such, and we've turned this house upside down, but there ain't even a jar of ink in the place."

August Dale chuckled benevolently. "The zeal of your associates does them credit, Captain, and you have good reason to be proud of your own devotion to duty. Now that you've satisfied your honor, perhaps you'll drink a glass of sack with me before you leave."

Benjy, who had been twisting the buttons on his tunic, shifting his weight from one foot to the other, and frowning unhappily, suddenly caught hold of Dale's lapel. "August," he said miserably, "I can't let you do this."

Dale was too startled to reply. "I have my word of honor to serve America as best I could, and if I go back on my promise, I don't deserve to be a free man living in a free country. I never had any honor before I came to this country, and if I don't pay her for giving me my self-respect, I might just as well be rotting in a Newgate cell."

"Don't be hasty, old friend," Dale said, trying to hide his alarm. "Before you do anything rash—"

"Pa, you shut up!" Katie was weeping openly now, but she seemed relieved. "You have real courage, Benjy, and I admire you. I wish I had your strength."

Benjy patted her awkwardly on the shoulder. He turned to Hugh, straightened, and stood at attention. "Captain, I can solve this case for you."

Color drained from August Dale's face. "No, Benjy! Think of the years we've known each other!"

"I'm thinking of the United States and the oath I swore." Benjy walked into the parlor that adjoined the sitting room, and, moving straight to the cold hearth at the far end of the chamber, squatted and began to sift ashes through his fingers.

August Dale moaned softly.

After a few moments Benjy's search was rewarded and, his hands coated with dust, he returned to the sitting room carrying several scraps of charred muslin, which he placed carefully on a table. "Here you are, Captain."

Hugh was proud of him, but the bits of cloth meant nothing to him.

Katie saw that he was puzzled. "You'll need more than the muslin," she said in a choked voice, and moved to a small sideboard on which several decanters of wine were sitting.

"My own flesh and blood is deserting me," August announced, but his attempt to achieve an air of tragedy fell flat. He looked old and pathetically crumpled.

Katie unhesitatingly reached for a decanter. "This looks like blackberry wine, but it isn't," she said, and, removing the stopper, handed the container to Hugh. "Smell it."

He sniffed, and the odor of ink was unmistakable.

"It's Frankfort black diluted with water," she said. "Pa makes it thicker by boiling it until the water evaporates."

Hugh stared at her. "Miss Dale," he replied hoarsely, "it's only fair to tell you that your confession will be used against you."

"I know precisely what I'm doing," she declared.

"Katie dropped Hugh a deep, mocking curtsy and said, 'It isn't often that someone gets such rich revenge. . .' " the story continues tomorrow.

Yoshida Starts On World Tour

TOKYO (AP)—Elder statesman Shigeru Yoshida left today on a 40-day world tour during which he plans to meet President Kennedy and other leaders of the Western alliance.

The former premier, now 83, took a plane for Honolulu and the United States. He was accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law and three leading members of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party.

Yoshida was premier from 1947 to 1954 and signed the San Francisco peace treaty for Japan in 1951.

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—More than 20,000 African mine workers in Northern Rhodesia's copper belt have called a strike for Wednesday demanding more pay—eight shillings—$1.10—a shift — and vacation with full pay, the South African Press Association reported Monday.

Asks $1 Million For 'Death Row'

NEW YORK (AP)—A man who was only hours away from death in the electric chair a quarter century ago has filed a $1-million damage claim against New York City.

Isadore Zimmerman, now 42, claims he was wrongfully convicted and imprisoned for 24 years, including a 9-month period when he was "enveloped by the icy chill of death" while awaiting execution.

Zimmerman was only 18 when he and five other men were convicted of the slaying of a detective during a 1937 Manhattan holdup. They were sentenced to death.

Zimmerman spent nine months in Sing Sing Prison's death house.

Seven hours before his date with the electric chair, Zimmerman won executive clemency from the then Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Four of the men convicted with him were executed. The fifth also had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

During his years in prison Zimmerman steadfastly maintained his innocence. He contended that a key prosecution witness lied in pre-trial examinations and that the prosecution suppressed that fact.

Last January, an appellate court ruled that the alleged suppression had prejudiced Zimmerman's right to a fair trial and ordered a new one.

The following month, on petition of his attorneys, General Sessions Court dismissed the original indictment, and Zimmerman went free.

High Winds, Tornadoes Kill At Least 8; Damage Is High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes and winds of tornadic force plunged viciously into parts of the Midwest, South and Southwest Monday, leaving at least eight persons dead, up to 100 injured and millions of dollars in damaged property.

Up to 4½ inches of rain accompanied some of the storms. Hail ranged from 1 to 2 inches in diameter. Wind velocity was recorded at 105 m.p.h.

In the path of the scattered storms and tornadoes were parts of Illinois, where 4 persons died; Indiana, 2 dead; Michigan, 1 dead; Mississippi, 1 dead, Missouri, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Alabama and Ohio.

The Chicago Weather Bureau reported confirmed and unconfirmed tornadoes in the late evening in Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Missouri and Ohio.

The rainfall during a storm at Lufkin, Texas, totaled 4½ inches.

The chain of destruction started in eastern Missouri with a series of tornado alerts. Rain and powerful winds then whipped into St. Louis and adjoining communities, leaving downed utility lines, homes damaged, trees uprooted and scores of injured.

The storm moved into southern Illinois, hitting a dozen small communities. Damaged were homes, utility lines, farm property and public property.

Before noon, the storm hit Springfield, Ill., where one witness said it became as dark as midnight.

John Cavitt, principal of McClerland Grade School, saw the approaching storm and ordered the children outside the building. A section of the school crashed down two floors into the basement shortly afterward. Four hours later searchers found the body of a 12-year-old student.

The storm raced to Rantoul, Ill., where scores of trailers were damaged and roofs torn away from homes. It struck a supermarket, where a section of roof collapsed, killing two persons. Three others were injured.

Scores of other injured were reported at nearby Chanute Air Force Base. Damage at Rantoul was estimated at more than $1 million.

Whipping through a dozen other Illinois communities, the storm felled power lines, trees and homes. At Pontiac, Ill., a chimney collapsed and killed one man.

The destructive winds moved into the Chicago area within two hours, reaching a velocity of 105 m.p.h. at Joliet and nearly 70 m.p.h. in parts of Chicago. A similar pattern of property damage lay behind, as the storm moved eastward into Indiana.

Racing through Logansport, Kokomo, South Bend and Kentland, the storm bowled over cars, trucks, trees, and utility lines. A man was killed in Frankfort when a wall under construction collapsed on him. Nearly 50 persons were injured by debris routed by 70 m.p.h. winds at South Bend.

At Lima, Ohio, trees were uprooted, power lines were downed amid a swamping rain and hail. Six men were injured when a factory roof was torn away and a wall caved in.

Several radio stations were without service in Michigan when high winds knocked out power. A man was killed at Pontiac, other persons were injured at Niles and Pinckney, Mich.

A tornado at night leveled some houses in the rural community of pottsville in southeast Arkansas. Several persons were injured.

In Tunica, Miss., an elderly Negro woman was killed when her house collapsed during a storm. Other houses and property also were damaged.

Wife Wants All But $1.57 Of His Pension

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A defrocked priest's contest of the paternity of his wife's fourth child was scheduled to be considered in Superior Court here today.

Ex-priest Walter A. Ryan, 56, agreed in court last month to pay $100 a month for support of three daughters, but disputed paternity of the fourth. The youngest daughter is now 5 years old.

Ryan said he hadn't been home for seven years. He denied his wife's charge that their marriage was ended by his abduction by the Roman Catholic Church.

Ryan's blonde wife, Alice, 41, of Glen Head, Long Island, New York, has called Ryan's offer of $100 unacceptable. Her New York attorney, Philip T. Feiring, has said she needs at least $200 a month to support the family.

Ryan has testified that his only income is $201.57 monthly pension as a disabled Army chaplain. He is being treated at the Letterman Army Hospital for arthritic and heart conditions.

Confidence In Nike-Hercules

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP)—The Army officer in charge of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system toured North Carolina defense plants today after saying here Monday that the Nike Zeus can provide protection against intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Brig. Gen. John G. Zierdt, deputy commanding general for guided missiles at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, showed Rotary Club members films of the Nike Zeus successfully intercepting a supersonic Nike Hercules missile.

Zierdt said the Army has repeatedly demonstrated the ability of its missiles to destroy other missiles in flight. He said recent tests against electronically simulated ICBMs also had resulted in success for the Nike Zeus system.

The missile program director toured Western Electric Co. plants in Burlington and Greensboro today. Monday he visited the company's facilities in Winston-Salem. Western Electric is the prime contratcor on the Nike Zeus program.

The general said progressively difficult tests are pointing toward firings of the Nike Zeus on Kewa Jalein Island in the mid-Pacific at target nose cones boosted by Air Force ICBMs.

"I want to emphasize as strongly as I can that this is not Zeus against Atlas or Army against Air Force, three falls to the finish," Zierdt said. "'We want to find out what Zeus can do against the target it was designed to defend against."

Plan Exploring Phosphate Area

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A large phosphate deposit in Beaufort County will be investigated by Pamlico Mining and Chemical Corp.

Formation of the company by Kennecott Copper Corp. and American Agricultural Chemical Co. was announced Monday.

The new firm will take over operations and property of Bear Creek Mining Co., a subsidiary of Kennecott Copper. Bear Creek has been exploring deposits and making tests of phosphate deposits in the area.

The joint statement from President Frank R. Milliken of Kennecott and President C. M. Powell of American Agricultural said more than 10,000 acres has been acquired in the county. A drilling campaign is going on to probe the extent of the phosphate deposit.

Royalty Gathers For Birthday Of A Queen

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — Five reigning monarchs and a host of lesser titles converged on Amsterdam today to help Queen Juliana of the Netherlands celebrate her silver wedding anniversary.

The crowned and coroneted heads assembled on this traditional holiday of the working class for two days of pomp and ceremony honoring Juliana and her husband, Prince Bernhard.

Heading the guest list were Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, the Shah of Iran and Empress Farah, King Olav V of Norway, Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg and her husband, Prince Felix, and Belgium's King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola.

Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, was arriving separately after performing a parental duty. Philip was taking Prince Charles to northern Scotland to his new school, Gordonstoun, Philip's alma mater.

Amsterdam's Amstel Hotel was turned into a guest house for the crowned guests and another 100 members of Europe's royal houses invited to the glittering two-day social whirl.

Juliana and Bernhard will be hosts for their guests tonight at a dinner at the hotel. Then the royal party will take a boat ride through Amsterdam's canals—illuminated for the occasion—and go to a ball at the royal palace.

Juliana and Bernhard actually were married Jan. 7, 1937, but January weather in the Netherlands can put a chill on even a royal event. The observance was put back until spring.

The festivities began for the home folks on Juliana's 53rd birthday, putting the city in a holiday mood. Hotels were jammed, flags were flying and the tulips were cooperating.

The queen and her consort rode in an open carriage behind six horses through cheering crowds on Amsterdam's festooned streets. Behind them in another open carriage were their four daughters—Crown Princess Beatrix, 24, Irene, 22, Margriet, 19, and Marijke, 15. Police said a million persons witnessed the procession.

The festivities are of special importance for Marijke, for she is now entering the full public life of the Dutch royal family.

The young princess has been nearly blind since birth, an affliction that led to a stormy period in her parents' marriage. Desperate to help her daughter improve her sight, Juliana six years ago came under the influence of a faith healer, Greet Hofmans. Bernhard disapproved, and the issue became a matter of public controversy. Finally the government stepped in and Miss Hofmans was sent away.

Reorganization Will Be Studied

RALEIGH (AP) — Reorganization of the State Board of Higher Education will be studied Wednesday by committees of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

The committee on development of a system of higher education, and the committee on community colleges and new colleges, approved a reorganization proposal several weeks ago. There have been reports of possible changes.

The main feature would be an increase in board membership, from 9 to 15, and representation on the board for public and private colleges of the state.

Chinese Resigned To Deportation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seah Ying Leung, 53, packed an American flag in his suitcase and prepared to leave today for San Francisco where he will be put aboard a ship bound for Taiwan, Formosa.

The Chinese cook lost his battle to stay in the United States, a country he said he had learned to love because of the "freedom of life here."

The United States Immigration and Naturalization Service said he jumped ship 10 years ago and had been in the country illegally ever since.

Seah does not speak English. He said through an interpreter he was resigned to being deported.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady, steers and heifers, choice 24.50-25.50, good 23-24, standards 19-22.50; beef cows 14.50-17, Canners 13-15.50, light bulls 16-18, heavy bulls 17-20.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies adequate at some points, barely adequate to short at others, demand generally good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 27-28, medium, white 26-27, small, whites 19-20.

NEW YORK (AP) — Another selling squall drove stock market prices down sharply early this afternoon in heavy trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 2.20 to 243.70 with industrials off 3.00, rails off .10 and utilities down 2.10.

Losses of key stocks went from fractions to 2 or 3 points.

Many utilities leaders took steep losses and there was no immediate development in the news to account for it.

IBM, after steadying at the start, fell two dozen points to another new low of 430 for the year. It plummeted 31½ points Monday. After reaching the new low, IBM recovered a few points.

Steels, motors and rails resisted the selling onslaught pretty well, presenting a mixed picture.

Chemicals, aerospace issues, rubbers, nonferrous metals, oils, building materials, drugs and electrical equipments joined in the retreat.

Heavy selling piled up a volume of a million shares in the second hour of trading.

Fear of further sharp decline was the chief reason given by brokers for the continued unloading of stocks. As pessimism spread, however, short selling increased. This is the sale of borrowed stock in hope that profits can be made by repaying the stock through future purchases at lower prices.

Polaroid fell about 5 points, Xerox more than 6. Losses of about 2 points were taken by U.S Gypsum, Merck and Burroughs.

AT&T dropped more than points. Public Service Electric & Gas fell more than 3.

Fractional gains were shown by Republic Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Baltimore & Ohio and Santa Fe.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.39 at 659.94.

Prices were irregular in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. Most U.S. government bonds were steady.

Narcotics Found On British Ship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—U.S. customs agents and British authorities investigated today an international smuggling ring responsible for millions of dollars worth of narcotics seized aboard the British cruiser HMS Belfast.

Disclosure of the seizure—estimates of its value ranged from $2 million to $6 million—was made Monday by Frank Long, chief U.S. customs agent.

The attempt to smuggle 13¾ pounds of heroin and 26 pounds of opium into San Francisco was part "of a huge operation by an international smuggling ring," Long said.

The Belfast docked here Saturday on a goodwill visit.

British consulate and Royal Navy spokesmen announced the arrest of two Chinese crewmen in possession of the narcotics, Petty Officer Ah Lee Wong, 35, and Kan Ping Kwok, 27, civilian canteen helper, both of Hong Kong.

Some $70,000 worth of undeclared jade and diamonds turned up in sugar canisters. The gems were seized and 16 other crewmen were restricted to the ship in that connection. Importation of the gems into American waters constitutes no violation of customs unless an attempt is made to land them.

Long indicated prosecution is matter for the British since none of the contraband was landed in the United States and it was seized by the ship's officers on the high seas.

The agent emphasized that the Belfast's officers, headed by Capt. Morgan Giles, reported the case to customs and narcotics agents as soon as the ship docked.

Consul General Randle Reid-Adam said the matter of disciplining the crewmen could come before an admiralty court when the ship reaches Plymouth, England.

The two arrested Chinese told ship's officers they were supposed to drop the narcotics in Honolulu but missed their contact. They said they brought the dope aboard at Singapore.

Culprit Blamed Dummy For His Driving Arrest

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.C. (AP) — To control speeding on N.C. 87, state troopers made a dummy officer and put it in a patrol car, parked beside the highway about five miles east of here.

Nearby, they also put up a dummy speed trap. And in the next two or three days, tire marks popped up on the highway all around the set-up.

But the best results came when a live state trooper, patrolling in the same area, spotted a car weaving on the highway a couple of miles east of the dummy rig.

The officer stopped the car, and found the condition of the driver wasn't too good. The trooper placed the man in his patrol car, and started taking him back to Elizabethtown to lodge drunken driving charges.

When the officer and his passenger passed by the dummy, the man waved a not too steady hand toward the parked patrol car and stammered, "If it hadn't been for that damn guy over there, you woulda never got me."
