

New Director Of Pitt Industrial Training School Assumes Duties

Spaulding Experienced In All Parts Of Vocational Field

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

Lloyd F. Spaulding, a man connected with the vocational education field for 21 years, assumed his duties as director of the new Pitt County industrial training school this week.

He served as director of the Marlboro, Mass., Vocational High School from May of 1951 until he accepted appointment from the Pitt County Board of Education to become director of the local school.

Spaulding has seen all parts of the vocational field, from working at a trade to teaching and directing a vocational school.

A native of Athol, Mass., he graduated from the Athol high school and then went to work with the S. L. Starrett Co., manufacturers of precision measuring instruments, located in his home town. For 12 years he remained with this company, serving an apprenticeship and becoming a tool and dye maker.

In 1950, Spaulding decided to return to school and take special courses which would qualify him for teaching in the vocational schools of Massachusetts. It was during this school year that he began his teaching career.

He then began attending college on a part time basis and during this time was appointed director of the Marlboro Vocational High School.

In 1958 Spaulding received the B.S. degree in vocational education from the State College at Fitchburg, Mass., and in June of 1961 received the M.A. degree in education from the same institution.

He described the vocational high school in Marlboro as one with emphasis on the vocational skills, but which offered the required high school courses in English, history and other subject areas.

He became interested in industrial and vocational education "because I enjoyed teaching."

"I felt that so many young people were 'at sea' more or less, when they got out of high school and even before they got out of high school, and that the industry and trades would have to have teachers who would teach the trade and thereby preserve it," Spaulding said.

Vocational education was originally planned to preserve the trades in an era when specialization was stressed, he pointed out.

Spaulding said he enjoys teaching, as well as "working with young people, and industry and groups interested in the progress of young people in industry."

His only departure from the field of vocational education was three years served in the Air Force, from 1942 until 1945. He remained in the reserve following his discharge, as a first lieutenant. A pilot during his military service, Spaulding noted he began flying in 1939 and had his commercial license at the time he entered service.

He is married to North Carolina native, the former Jonnie Abernathy of Andrews. The Spauldings have two children, Sally Belle, 15, who will be a sophomore in high school next year, and Lloyd Frederick Jr., 12, who will enter the seventh grade next year.

The family plans to move here following the conclusion of the school year. They are members of the First Baptist Church in Marlboro.

AIRLIFT SUCCESS

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese planes and troops airlifted by 22 U.S. Marine helicopters killed eight Communist guerrillas and captured 22 Tuesday in the Mekong River delta.

Republicans Avoid Party Stand On Medicare Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators listened to an explanation of various health care plans for the aged today but came to no party stand on the politically explosive issue.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, described it as an educational session at which "no effort was made to get a consensus of views."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, party floor leader, had said in advance of the session he hoped some consensus could be reached on a party position.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who did most of the explaining at the closed meeting, told newsmen afterward that he was encouraged at prospects of some Republican support for his health care proposal.

Javits noted that he sponsored bills in 1960 and 1961 which were based on financing out of general treasury revenues.

But he said he concluded this year the only health care legislation which could pass Congress would have to be based on increased Social Security taxes.

Therefore, he said, he modified his earlier measure to include such financing, but retained a proposal that beneficiary could take the federal aid and put it into a private insurance plan.

This would be an alternative to government-administered plans. The White House proposal does not contain the private insurance provision.

President Kennedy is bearing down on House leaders for action in that body on a bill now tied up in its Ways and Means Committee to finance medical care for those over 65 through Social Security taxes.

If there existed any hope that Kennedy could reach a compromise which would remove the powerful opposition of the American Medical Association to this proposal, it went down the drain at a White House conference Tuesday.

After a seven-member AMA delegation spent about an hour with Kennedy, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, head of the group, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said there was no change in positions.

Kennedy argued for his bill and Dr. Edward R. Annis, chairman of the AMA Speakers' Bureau, made the doctors' opposition case.

This left the Republicans in something of a quandary. Many of them dislike voting for a proposal the AMA has tabbed as "socialized medicine." But few of them wanted to be put in a position where they can be accused by election opponents of ignoring the needs of older voters.

Terrorists Again Slay Moslems

ALGIERS (AP)—A booby-trapped car exploded in a crowd of 1,500 Moslems at a dockside hiring office today, killing 8 and injuring about 50.

The casualties were among 16 Moslems killed and possibly 100 wounded in a short time in this terror-ridden city as a result of bombings and shootings attributed to the European Secret Army Organization, which wants to prevent Algerian independence.

One of the main objectives of the secret army is to incite the Moslems to violence so that the French army would be obliged to act against them.

The thunderous blast of the booby-trapped car — the second such incident in a week — set off an angry, panic-stricken reaction from Moslem crowds.

Dock workers who swarmed along the water front caught one European and cut his throat.

At the sight of the crowd of Moslems pouring out on the dock area, a traffic jam developed. Many drivers hastily abandoned their cars to seek safety.

Europeans in the port area barricaded themselves in offices.

When police reached the scene, Moslem nationalist leaders, wearing white and green armbands, were on hand and working to hold excited Moslems in check.

They calmed the crowd and persuaded dock workers to return to the scene of the bombing.

Forty pounds of explosive packed into the car had torn a 10-foot wide crater in the pavement and hurled jagged metal bits in all directions.

As it exploded, it ripped up a water pipe, releasing a geyser of water.

The car was torn apart and pieces were hurled dozens of yards away. The blast lifted a car parked nearby and hurled it several yards onto the top of another car. Both vehicles caught fire.

Moslems sacked two pharmacies and made off with medical supplies to treat the wounded at improvised first aid stations.

These were jammed with Moslems bringing blankets, bandages and disinfectants. Moslem doctors and nurses bent over moaning patients.

Shortly afterward, gunmen in a speeding car in the center of the city shot down a cluster of Moslems, killing four and wounding four more.

In Oran Tuesday night, secret army terrorists attacked two fortified French command posts in the heart of the city. French troops returned the fire from behind sandbagged gun emplacements, and after a 40-minute exchange the attackers withdrew and dispersed.

The other Americans, Sgt. Wayne E. Marchand of Plattsmouth, Neb., and Spec. 5 James Gabriel of Honolulu, were wounded and their bodies later found two miles from the ambush scene.

Quinn and Groom said they had carried their wounded comrades for more than a mile until the Viet Cong guerrillas ordered them put down. They said they did not witness the final moments of the two, who apparently were murdered because they were slowing the Viet Cong escape.

The sergeants said the Communists gave no reason for freeing them. After their release, it took 2½ hours to make their way down the mountainside, led by a mountaineer who worked for the guerrillas.

Communist North Viet Nam's Radio Hanoi said today that Quinn and Groom were released on the order of Nguyen Huu Tho, president of the "South Viet Nam National Liberation Front."

"After being given a clear account of the aim of the South Vietnamese people's struggle," the Red broadcast said, "these two Americans requested the front to pardon and release them."

Army Secretary Stahr Resigning For Univ. Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. has resigned, effective June 30, to accept the presidency of Indiana University.

President Kennedy accepted Stahr's resignation today "with regret and reluctance."

Stahr takes over the university office July 1, succeeding Dr. Herman B. Wells, who has been president for 25 years.

The shift had been announced in advance of the word from the White House by William Hickman, president of the university board of trustees.

An exchange of letters between Stahr and President Kennedy was made public by the White House.

Stahr recalled in his letter, dated Tuesday, that he left the presidency of West Virginia University to become Army secretary "only because I shared your conviction about the need for our country to develop a much stronger Army in a time of prolonged and serious external threat to the basic values of peace, freedom and human dignity."

Stahr added: "The opportunity to lead one of America's great universities comes to few men even once in a lifetime, yet, even now that I have been invited to lead one of the greatest, I would be reluctant to ask you to release me after a year and a half as your Army secretary were it not that the Army has moved during that period to a distinctly higher plateau and our basic objectives for it have now been clearly mapped and moved far along the road to accomplishment."

Kennedy's reply, dated today, said Stahr's "personal dedication to the task, and to the Army, has been an inspiration to the men and women of the United States Army."

Kennedy called Stahr's conduct of Army affairs an outstanding example of good management and said his policies of recognition of young talent, of examination and adoption of new doctrines and techniques, and emphasis on vigorous leadership for the Army "marks your tenure as Army secretary."

The White House did not name a successor but attention focused on Stephen Ailes, 50, now undersecretary of the Army.

Stahr is a native of Kentucky and served in 1954-56 as provost and dean at the University of Kentucky, where he had been a 1936 graduate, majoring in English literature.

Sec. Rusk Sees No Relaxing Tension

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, arriving here for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting, told newsmen today he saw no prospect of immediate relaxation of world tensions.

"For the immediate future I wish I could hold out a prospect for relaxation but I cannot," Rusk said in an airport statement.

But he said the tide of freedom "is in the long term indeed irresistible as long as there are those who will work and sacrifice for that cause."

He praised Greece which, he said, has an especially warm place in the hearts of Americans because of its ancient heritage and the dedication of its people in liberty.

Foreign and defense ministers from the nations of NATO will make one of their periodic appraisals of NATO policies, touching on the Berlin situation, nuclear power and East-West relations, in sessions here.

Foremost among the nations facing the 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the delicate question of control of nuclear weapons, now essentially in the hands of the United States.

U.S. officials expect no agreement to emerge on the various proposals for a NATO strike force armed with American nuclear weapons. They hope some progress will be made.

The chief point at issue is the question of conditions under which the nuclear weapons would be ordered into action and what veto the allies would have over the firing orders.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk reportedly will offer the NATO allies detailed information on the numbers, types, general capability and potential use of weapons in the U.S. nuclear arsenal. The Kennedy administration reportedly hopes the information will reassure the allies and ease the pressure from some of them—particularly West Germany—for speedy creation of NATO's own nuclear force.

The nuclear issue will be discussed first by the defense ministers at a meeting Thursday. The foreign ministers begin their meeting Friday. The session concludes Sunday.

This left the Republicans in something of a quandary. Many of them dislike voting for a proposal the AMA has tabbed as "socialized medicine." But few of them wanted to be put in a position where they can be accused by election opponents of ignoring the needs of older voters.

After a seven-member AMA delegation spent about an hour with Kennedy, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, head of the group, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said there was no change in positions.

Kennedy argued for his bill and Dr. Edward R. Annis, chairman of the AMA Speakers' Bureau, made the doctors' opposition case.

Canal Studied By Farmville's Board

FARMVILLE—Town Commissioners Tuesday night dived into a canal project planned to lighten the water drainage load of present facilities in the southwest section of Farmville.

The board took no action but devoted most of its regular May meeting to study of a two-mile canal project's plans submitted by town engineer Jack McDavid.

McDavid's study indicated the canal would be necessary to improve drainage conditions in the area of Farmville that drains into Middle Swamp. The area is bounded roughly on the north by Lincoln Park and on the east by Formica's Plaqueboard plant.

The plans suggested a canal to begin at the rear of Morgan Oil and Refining Co. on the south side of W. Pine St. and terminate near the Varina Wholesale Co. on the north side of U.S. Highway 264 by-pass.

Attorney John B. Lewis was instructed to begin necessary procedures to obtain right-of-way for the canal that would run in a southerly direction from its point of origin.

The area to be drained by the canal is currently served by a system of canals and underground pipelines, but McDavid's study indicated the existing system is inadequate to drain the area sufficiently.

The commissioners approved payment of $8,575.90, minus 10 per cent, to S. R. White and Sons of New Bern for its work on the water and sewer line extensions into the R. T. Monk subdivision.

The 10 per cent was ordered retained by the town pending completion of the $9,025 project and test-runs of the new installations. Completion of the project is expected within the next few days.

The $8,575.90 was payment for work already completed and was based upon an estimate. The remaining $450 of the contract price and the 10 per cent will go to the White firm when final tests are complete.

In other action Tuesday, the commissioners: authorized securing of informal costs of an air conditioning unit to be used in the town's new water and light billing room and to cool the new municipal conference room.

Recommended that the Farmville Planning Board investigate the feasibility of requiring the building inspector to check each house under construction in Farmville a minimum of three times.

Eisenhower Hits Cultural Trends

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower compared American scientific and material gains in this century with "the vulgarity, the sensuality, indeed the downright filth," and said, "I wonder if we have advanced."

Speaking Tuesday at the dedication of the $3-million Eisenhower Library here, the former president asked, "What has happened to our concepts of beauty, decency and morality?"

Eisenhower was disdainful of some trends in modern art and entertainment. He referred to the new dance craze, the twist, saying he did not personally dislike it but "it does represent some change in our standards."

The former president called for a return to the standards and values of pioneer America.

He said the only danger to the United States "is in forgetting our glory, our traditions, our history, our ideals and aspirations so that we allow our fiber to weaken."

A crowd of several thousand persons stood in a hot sun to hear Eisenhower speak. Earlier about 25,000 lined the streets of Abilene's business district to greet him.

The library, built with private funds, will house Eisenhower's presidential papers. It is across the street from the house where the former president spent his boyhood.

Service League To Have Fashion Show In Grifton

GRIFTON—"Fashions in Living Color" will be the theme of the fifth annual Service League fashion show to be presented Friday, May 5, at 8 p.m. in the Grifton High School Auditorium.
 The show is produced and coordinated by the Service League in cooperation with a local Fabric Shop, Mrs. Jack Carson is chairman, and serving with her are Mrs. Paul Fisher, Mrs. Joe House, and Mrs. Edwin Reeves.
 All the garments shown will be hand fashioned and hand-made by seamstresses from Grifton and nearby towns. Well over 100 persons modeled garments, last year and as many entries are expected to appear in the Friday event.
 The show will be divided into five categories with prizes being awarded in each. The first group will be for pre-school children; the second, for children from six to 12; the third, for teenagers; the fourth, for adults; and the final one, for group entries which will be for matching or coordinated clothing, such as mother-daughter or brother-sister outfits.
 The only judging will be done the night of the fashion show, with style and appearance being the only factors considered. Judges are from out of town but are clothing or merchandising experts.
 Commentators for the show will be Mrs. Charles Nash, pre-school children; Mrs. Dick Cavebaugh, school children; Mary Lee January, teenagers; Mrs. Tom Gower, adults; and Mrs. Wayne Bronscome, group entries.

Jenkins Dinner Hosts To Two Visiting Poets

Dr. and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins entertained the two visiting poets, Mark Van Doren, Professor Emeritus of Columbia University, and Earl Shapiro of the University of Nebraska, at a buffet dinner preceding the lecture given by the authors at the college Tuesday evening.
 Among dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Poindexter, Mr. and Mrs. George Pasti, and Ovid Pierce of the college faculty, and the students who acted as hosts to the visiting poets while they were on the campus.
 The living room and dining room were decorated with roses and arrangements of iris, with tulips in the sun parlor where the guests assembled for tomato juice cocktails. Dinner was served from the buffet in the dining room, and young Misses Patty and Sally Jenkins assisted in serving dessert and coffee.

Personal
 Mrs. J. J. Perkins has been called to Washington due to the death of her aunt, Mrs. Horace Rowland. The funeral will be Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Start Spring Cleaning In Closet This Week

By JUNE WILSON
 Women's News Service
 No working girl—not the siren of the city room, the favorite nurse on your floor nor the brainy lady executive who commands the committee—has enough closet space. The simple truth is that there's no such thing as enough closet space.
 Even if there were, you don't have enough clothes to justify it. No woman does. But what you may not know is that you don't even have as many clothes as you think.
 What you have is a closet packed with "things." You don't wear them; you don't even see them.
 Start spring cleaning in your closet—this very week. Do it before the weekend because by Saturday you will have things to buy.
 When every single thing is out of that closet of yours, before you start the weeding of your wardrobe, take a look inside. It's bigger than you thought; it's messier than you dreamed!
 Good thing closets don't talk. It needs—it deserves—a fresh coat of paint. Or why not line the walls and ceiling with adhesive paper. It comes in a dozen or so designs and colors. It is washable and as easy to apply as cellophane tape.
 You can cover the closet floor with the adhesive paper or oilcloth, but a rug would be smart. Measure the space and shop for a tufted cotton one people with less savvy might use as a bathmat.
 One man you know is handy with a saw and hammer. Feed him a steak some evening and if your closet is deep, have him hang poles from front to back instead of only one across, and double your hanging space.
 But what about your clothes? You would not DARE put those horrible things into such a beautiful closet? Throw them away, give them away, leave them on a strange doorstep. And help yourself to a shopping spree.
 A working girl, especially, must have clothes to wear that are fit to be seen in!

Sorority Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the North Carolina Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority was held Thursday evening at the Silo Restaurant. The program was presented by members of the sorority.
 During the business session, an altruistic project was presented and accepted for the coming year.
 On May 25, the Iota Chapter will be guests of the Kinston Mu Chapter at a picnic in Kinston.

Whitley poured the lime punch while the guests were served party squares, cookies, mints and salted nuts.

Mrs. Keel wore a black silk dress complemented by a white corsage, a gift from the hostesses. Over 100 friends said the good-byes to Mrs. Clifton Keel.

Real Parents Ask Return Of Adopted Child

By MARGARET ANDERSON
MUNICH, Germany — (WNS) — The parents of Elizabeth Taylor's adopted German child, 15-month-old Maria, are petitioning the adoption court here for the return of their daughter.

The parents are Conny Johann Heisig, 31, a cold-cut factory worker, and Wilhelmina, also 31. They state in their petition that Miss Taylor's impending divorce from Eddie Fisher and the notoriety surrounding her life make it impossible for her to provide the child with the kind of home stipulated in the adoption papers.

The Heisigs contend their finances have improved substantially since they put Petra (the child's real name; Maria is the name selected by Miss Taylor) out for adoption. Then Heisig was jobless and Petra suffered from a hip bone ailment necessitating costly medical care.

Legal experts believe the court will order the child restored at once to court custody. German adoption laws are strict, and the foster parents are placed on probation for the first five years.

The Heisigs have two other daughters, Hannelore, 9 and Cornelia, 3. Heisig stated in his court paper that his chances for advancement at the wurst factory are excellent.

"I am now in a position to provide Petra with a wholesome family life of moderate comfort," his petition summarized, "although we can promise none of the extravagance and luxuries offered by Miss Taylor."

Munich Vormundschaftsgericht (adoption court) officials explained that the adoption was arranged anonymously, with the Heisigs at the time having no knowledge of the identity of their child's foster parents.

In Rome, Miss Taylor said she adopted Maria-Petra on her own initiative, independently of Eddie Fisher. But the court here states Miss Taylor and Fisher are listed jointly as the foster parents.

Court sources disclosed that Maria-Petra first came to the attention of Maria Schell, the German actress whose home is in Munich. Miss Schell introduced the child to Miss Taylor when she visited Miss Schell in Munich.

Although she has three children by former marriages Liz was instantly fond of the Munich child and pressed at once for her adoption. It is understood that Petra was renamed Maria after Miss Schell.

The court here has been advised in a declaration submitted on behalf of Miss Taylor by her Munich attorney, Dr. Walter Hass, that the actress intends to fight to keep Maria. "I want to keep Maria. My children are happy with me, and that is really important," Liz said in her statement.

There are many critics in West Germany of Miss Taylor as a mother. The recent sharp criticism of the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Della Domenica in this direction has been filed with the Munich adoption court in support of the Heisigs' petition.

Miss Taylor has instructed Dr. Hass, it is understood, to stress her intention of "devoting myself with full heart to motherhood." Liz was quoted as saying, "I am in no hurry for a divorce. My marriage is over, but I am not planning to rush into another."

"When Cleopatra (the film she is making in Rome) is completed I will go to my house in Gstaad (Switzerland) for several months. I just want to rest with my children."

Phosphate Mining Holds Promise

Formation of a phosphate exploration company in Beaufort County by two nationally known companies indicates an increasing interest on the part of major industrial concerns in the phosphate deposits located in our neighboring county.

Kennecott Copper Corp. for several years has shown its interest in the phosphate deposits in Beaufort County through its subsidiary Bear Creek Mining Co. It has now joined with American Agricultural Chemical Co. to form Pamlico Mining and Chemical Corp. which continue the exploration in Beaufort County.

This new development in the effort to bring about a phosphate mining operation in Beaufort County suggests both an intensification of the exploration and confidence by major national concerns that a successful phosphate industry will be developed. It is important for Beaufort County where large phosphate deposits are located, and it is also important to other neighboring counties which may be affected by development of a major industry in Beaufort.

During the several years that interest has been shown in phosphate deposits in Beaufort County by major industrial concerns, there have been indications that development would not be just another small industry for that county. If phosphate can be successfully mined in Beaufort County in appreciable quantity, it may be expected that industries which phosphate will grow up in the immediate area. While some of these will be located in Beaufort County, others may be located in near-by counties. The potential for new jobs in Beaufort and surrounding jobs could be significant.

Progress in the development of a phosphate industry in Beaufort County should be of interest to citizens of Pitt, and other neighboring counties as well as to Beaufort.

An Unusual Kind Of Dedication

By LYNN NISBET

BATTLESHIP — The formal dedication Sunday afternoon of the U. S. S. Battleship North Carolina as a permanent memorial to men and women who fought—and many died—for their country was an impressive ceremony. Admiral Arleigh Burke, who made the principal address, sounded the keynote when he said "Let us remember not only those who died—but why they died."

This was an unusual kind of dedication. It was not like the dedication of a bridge or a school or big new industrial plant such as the state has had many of during recent months. This ship had been christened when it was launched and had undergone a baptism of fire in numerous battles during World War II. Now it is dead, just recently retrieved from the junk yard. The engines which gave it life are gone. But somehow the five or six former commanders of the mighty battleship by their presence and in brief comment managed to bring back the spirit of life to the great hulk and it did not seem dead. In his address Admiral Burke and in his dedicatory prayer Father O'Connor made of the ship a lively symbol of courage and of faith, a fitting memorial to keep alive memories of great deeds.

It was estimated that more than 5,000 people attended the dedicatory services. 2,000 of them crowding on the ship itself. Although the ship is not yet fully renovated for show, and the adjacent grounds have not been landscaped, more than 110,000 people have visited it since it was berthed last October. As its fame spreads more people will come, and predictions are that half a million visitors a year from all parts of America will come to Wilmington to see the big ship. No more battleships are being built.

APPEAL—The battleship has universal appeal. It attracts old people who have sentimental memories of days when battleships were lords of the ocean; it attracts kids, especially little boys, who have no recognition of its history or purposes, but are delighted with its gadgets. Sunday afternoon nearly every place where a wheel could be turned a small boy was there turning it or trying to. This diversity of appeal adds to the value of the battleship as a tourist attraction and an economic asset.

CATFISH — "If anybody had told me a few years ago that I would pay $1,000 for catfish I would thought they were crazy," said Tommie Upchurch of Raeford, one of eastern North Carolina leading farmers and chief boosters. But he did just that.

He bought $1,000 worth of breeding stock catfish from Arkansas a few months ago and is stocking a number of ponds in his area with them. Already he has orders for hundreds of thousands of fingerlings to stock other ponds and to start a catfish industry.

We haven't got the full story; in fact it hasn't developed yet. But Upchurch says that with proper handling more food can be grown on an acre of water stocked with catfish than any other product. He sees in this venture an opportunity to add to the economy of eastern North Carolina to replace some of the losses suffered by the decline in cotton production. He thinks the farmers who go in for catfish culture will enjoy the work and profit by it, but he insists it is not a sporting lark. It is a real job requiring planning and careful attention.

ADVERTISING—We borrow from the Henderson Daily Dispatch some pertinent comments on the place advertising holds in the business set-up.

Certain so-called liberal political quarters are trying to make a villain out of advertising, says the National Association of Manufacturers. And politicians, it says, "have fallen for two untruths about advertising, and have overlooked the ways in which it is truly useful."

One untruth is that advertising adds to the prices of things. "This is not so," says NAM, "because low prices can only result from volume production and volume distribution. This can result only from volume sales, which are impossible without advertising."

A second untruth cited is that advertising is so sinister-clever that Americans are persuaded to buy things they don't want. "This is an insult to every housewife, who stretches her smallest budget to cover the needs of her family," says NAM.

Many services of advertising are cited: It makes new products known; helps the careful housewife find bargains; in effect forces competing companies to keep on their toes, develop better products, new products and power prices; services as a directory for every kind of need.

"Those who attack advertising or support advertising in limited abuses in advertising," says NAM, "must be suspected of either speaking in ignorance of the subject, or of deliberately seeking to deprive the free press and the broadcast media of foundation of support. Are they seeking a government press to replace our free press?"

The defense of advertising scarcely needs further elaboration or support. Advertising has justified itself in the expansion of industry, creation and sale of new products, increase in employment and reduction in the prices of merchandise through volume distribution. Everybody, even the politicians who fall for this line of criticism, should know better. The public is neither the fool nor the ignoramus these smart alec politicians would pretend. Consumers know their way around and do not need the would-be "papa knows best" breast-beaters to guide them.

Other Large Highway Projects Were Costly

State highway officials are moving ahead with plans to study the feasibility of an East-West turnpike across North Carolina, but with the stipulation by Highway Chairman Merrill Evans that "we are not tied to any one suggestion."

Evans announced this week that an engineering firm will be employed to study the situation and consider various possible routes. It will, he said, be a wide range study.

While the Highway Commission and Gov. Sanford appear to lean to the idea that a toll road is the only answer to providing a major East-West highway across North Carolina, the possibility of a major highway, minus the tolls, should not be eliminated. Careful consideration should be given the possibility of building such a major East-West Highway as part of the state system just as major North-South highways have been constructed through North Carolina without the necessity of resorting to tolls.

It would be a costly undertaking, to be sure, but other major highway projects undertaken by the state have also been costly. They have been completed because the need for them existed and because funds were made available without tolls to finance their construction.

Certainly a major East-West highway across North Carolina is needed as it has been for years. The existence of such a highway would be a great asset to the state and its economic development. In view of the need, consideration of the matter should not be limited to building such a highway as a toll road, or not at all.

Labor, Industry Left Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since President Kennedy got mad at the steel industry and made it call off a price increase, he's been telling business he's not mad at it.

And maybe he isn't. His shake-hands-and-let-by-gones-be-gones approach is even considered "conciliatory" by Richard Wagner, outgoing president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

But there's a difference between being friendly and turning soft or backing up. Kennedy has given no assurance to labor or business — if they try to push up wages or prices — that he won't use a club again. He has left them guessing, which seems to be precisely what he wants to do.

This is going to make the weeks ahead acutely interesting. Labor-management settlements are coming up in various industries, such as aluminum, rails, aircraft and missiles.

Kennedy's main theme in talking pleasantly to and about business — labor hasn't created a crisis for him yet — is that government, business and labor must get along and all have a responsibility for preventing inflation and keeping the economy even.

Beyond that he hasn't gone. He put it this way to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Monday: "I have been impressed that all the segments, including the national government, must operate responsibly in terms of each other, or the balance which sustains the general welfare will be lost."

He added a sentence which can be interpreted as a warning, just in case once again he has to throw the influence of his office against some action of labor or business.

"We have many burdens in Washington — we do not want the added burden of determining individual prices for individual products."

He left unsaid what power he might try to use — other than the denunciation, persuasion and threat of antitrust action he used in steel — if business again tries to puncture the inflation rim, or if labor tries.

There's no peacetime law giving him authority to hold down prices or wages. But, while many in business resent his intrusion in the steel case, no one is publicly talking of trying to test him or frustrate him.

The friendly attitude of the post-steel Kennedy toward business in general is the same attitude he has continually employed as a politician in a broad field of dealing with people when, apparently, he feels he has nothing to gain by showing anger.

For example, he has suffered a number of frustrations in Congress, particularly from some of his own Southern Democrats. He could tear into his opposition on any given issue on which he has been blocked.

But there are many pieces of legislation he wants passed. And men who work against him today for some special reason of their own will be working for him tomorrow on something else if he doesn't antagonize them.

You'll notice that Kennedy has done very little antagonizing since he took office. It's not that he's not capable of anger. He showed he was in the steel case.

In short: he's a cool politician who doesn't seem to get angry unless it's useful.

Quote

"Retraining of the displaced is a must if our country is to continue to prosper and to hold its place of leadership in the free world. Automation and changing trade patterns will create opportunity which can be met only by a better educated, higher skilled, more productive working force." — Memphis (Tenn.) Press-Scimitar.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Will there be a third world war? Probably not. The probability would seem to be 65 per cent that we will not have a war and 35 per cent that we will. It may be 80-20. It may even be 90-10 against war.

Why should the communists fight when they are making such tremendous gains without firing a single shot? We maneuver, back up, appease, reflect, and while we are so engaged communism moves in and takes over. Furthermore, they realize as well as we do what a war would do to their country. So we can be sure that communism will not fight if it can continue to grow without the pressing necessity of fighting. But there may be crises, and if there are these might start a world war.

Who would have thought that the incident at Sarajevo would have started the first world war? Or going back further, who would have believed that Lexington and Concord would have been the beginning of the war for American independence? Most of the determining events of life happens when humanity as a whole has its face turned the other way. Generations are almost never conscious of the great movements going on within their social framework day by day.

Even more to be feared than a world war is the silent and hidden decline, mentally, morally, and physically, which people believe is taking place in our life today.

We may not have to fight another world war if we oppose everyday the things which brought on two world wars.

How About Him?

By HENRY HOWARD

A Time To Think Quickly

A BRISK wind a couple of weeks ago blew through Evans Evans Street. Riding with it, unbeknownst to me, was just one of those things.

There are those unexpected occasions when a definite decision must be made with reckless speed. This occasion fits precisely into that group:

A charming young lady, arms well-laden with the results of a lunch-hour shopping trip, stepped smartly onto the sidewalk, near the row of shops. I was approaching her from the opposite direction, strolling along near the curb.

Being mutual acquaintances, we approached to within a few feet of each other and nodded our respective greetings. At that very instant, the playful wind swooped through the avenue and whipped the full skirt unbelievably high behind her head.

Grave alarm and dismay shone in her eyes, but she pivoted the upraised skirt gracefully but immediately toward the brick wall. Before there was time to speak, her eyes were pleading desperately for help.

That was the dilemma. Her own hands were rendered helpless by the bundles, obviously breakable. The wind was consistently merciless. My own hands may as well have been tied. It was a problem that begged for an immediate, if reckless, solution.

There certainly wasn't time to write Ann Landers, so I frantically grabbed for the armload of packages. Her hands rocketed to attack the erratic skirt. Instantly then, all was well.

She agreed we both attacked and conquered proper objectives.

From the episode comes an alarming axiom for cases of those judgments:

Snap judgements at worst seem best.

"AHHHH. THE SOUTH" the professor answered.

He wasn't asked for any reply. He volunteered it when a student informed him during class that she had not yet checked on the whereabouts of a book assigned at the first class meeting.

The professor marveled aloud at the consistent leisure in the Southern attitude and personality. His next comment was inconsistent in his English-teacher personality, but he said it: "It ain't necessarily so up North."

The student was totally unruffled by the professor's words. She smiled leisurely while the prof continued:

"That reminds me. You won't believe this. Yesterday morning I was teaching my 11 o'clock class. About 11:20 I looked out the window and there was the morning flag-raising. The flag of the United States going up at 11:20!"

A leisurely stirring was the class's response. It prompted the professor's final comment on the subject:

"That's Southern dawn," he said.

Other Editors Saying... Legislative Inequities

(Washington Daily News)

There is a familiar cry in North Carolina that populous counties of the Piedmont area are being discriminated against in the matter of legislative seats in the General Assembly.

If we look at the picture only from the standpoint of population, it would be easy to see that discrimination exists.

For instance, Mecklenburg county, North Carolina's most populous county, has today about 300,000 people living in it. Tyrrell county, North Carolina's least populous county, has less than 5,000 people living there. In the last session of the General assembly Mecklenburg county has a senator and four representatives. Tyrrell county had one representative and it did not have a senator. Thus Mecklenburg with 60 times the population of Tyrrell county had only five times the amount of representation in the North Carolina legislature.

From the practical standpoint there is absolutely no practical way of giving every county exact representation according to population.

Every county in North Carolina has at least one legislative representative. Then others are given to the more populous counties according to the people living there.

If we look at legislative representation in the national government we find the fact that there are great inequities. In the United States senate every state has two senators regardless of size and population. Thus Alaska with less than 50,000 population has as much power in the American senate as does New York state with more than 12,000,000 people.

In the lower house of the U.S. congress states have representation based solely on population. Thus Alaska has only one representative there while New York state has 45 representatives. Actually we see no way in any legislative body to have a situation where membership is exactly equitable all the time.

In North Carolina it has been sort of an unwritten rule that in state legislative representation we must consider area along with people. Thus Tyrrell county, with a very low population still have considerable area involved. If in North Carolina today we used population solely as the basis of determining legislative representation, we would find that the 25 largest counties of our state would be in absolute control of the legislative machinery of our state. The other 75 counties would in a real sense be at the sufferance of the largest 25 counties.

We can argue this point all we wish and we still can come up with no answer which will satisfy everyone. It just cannot be done. We suspect that our own state legislature does need some overhauling in this matter of representation. We suspect that some of the larger counties ought to have more representation. But to put it solely on the basis of population and without any consideration of territory would leave 75 counties at the political mercy of 25 counties.

North Carolina ought to try to work out some system whereby every 10 years the legislature is automatically reapportioned. It should not have to go on year after year with the same old arguments prevailing.

Reapportionment ought to be compulsory after every census, and it should be done then and there. If the Secretary of State, after every census could determine reapportionment by law, then we probably would be much better off than we are with the present biennial legislative arguments coming up every session.

Role Of Gov't Taxes

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Representative George M. Rhodes wrote to a reader of this column as follows:

"The tax bill had my support because it would enable the Federal government to receive at least $600 million in tax revenues that escape the Treasury every year. The legislation imposes no new tax."

The method of collecting taxes is as important and can be as brutal as the tax itself. When the income tax was accepted by the American people, it was said that the tax would not become burdensome.

For most Americans, the tax takes about 20 per cent of personal income. There are, of course, deductions which give some relief, but the burden is becoming unconscionable, particularly as there is a rise in prices due, in part, to excessive corporation taxes as well as many hidden taxes.

It must be taken for granted that in this time of war, the government must have enormous sums of money. Each orbiting effort, each bomb testing, runs into millions of dollars. This burden must be carried by the American people until we are safe from conquest by Soviet Russia. Our first problem is national security.

On the other hand, the income tax is too violent a method for gathering funds for the government in a capitalist country. It destroys incentive. It leaves young people without hope. It encourages cheating. It drives surplus money out of the country.

The times require a radical approach to taxation to get the country moving. I have, for many years, recommended the transaction tax as a substitute for the personal income tax. Perhaps the transaction tax is not the best remedy, but a remedy must be found because both the personal income tax and the corporate income tax are too damaging to the morale of the country.

What is the moral basis of our economic system? Is it that the individual labors to provide for himself and his family, to set aside an estate, to educate his children and to improve their status in the community and to leave something over for them when he dies.

All the social security devices have not succeeded in making the American people dependent upon government. Americans still want to earn their own way; want to build their own lives. This we might call the capitalist system, the free enterprise system, the better term for it is the System of Free Individuals joined together in families and living by mutual respect and aid.

The mechanism of this system is the exchange of goods, services and labor by means of money. Government, in such a system, rightfully performs only such tasks as individuals or groups of individuals cannot perform privately. Because of war and economic miscalculation, during the past half century, the tasks that have fallen to government or which government has assumed have grown more numerous.

For instance, the task of keeping the streets clean is a proper government function, long recognized and relatively inexpensive, but the orbiting of the Earth, the search for means to control weather, the need to maintain an equality of intricate defense involve new and ultra-expensive governmental costs. These costs force upon the individual as well as upon government a remedy and a revision of the tax methods of the nation, which requires a greater vigilance against cheating but a gentler approach to the individual and the corporation lest our economic system and morale be destroyed not only by the amount of taxation but by the methods of taxation. Confidence in the system of government can be destroyed by the tax collector.

From a political standpoint, this subject is extremely important. The present Administration is making a valiant effort to halt the inflation which is like a rotting disease. Psy-

Billion-Dollar Fight Being Won

By ELMER ROESSNER

It is beginning to look as if the shore people of New Jersey will win a billion-dollar fight. They will have the area sufficiently rebuilt by Memorial Day to welcome the annual crowds of holidayers.

It will be a triumph of cooperation between Federal, state and community governments free enterprise — some so free that the workers would not take a cent.

The terrific storm that struck New Jersey's 120 miles of coast on March 6 and 7 ripped up boardwalks, sliced beaches away, smashed convention halls and piers, tossed hundreds of homes about and left scores dead. Property damage was estimated at $100 million.

After the emergency rescue and repair work, the community faced an even greater economic threat. The resort and travel business along the coast brings in $1.6 billion a year and provides 40,000 jobs in 55 resort communities. Word went out that if the area was not ready for vacationers by Memorial Day, a whole season would be lost.

EVERYBODY PITCHES IN — With 28 days more to go, victory is in sight today. The Federal government allocated $10 million. The State voted $12 million. Cities appropriated more. But the biggest push came from businesses, mostly small, and individuals.

The Atlantic City Steel Pier is expected to be in operation by May 30; most of the Boardwalk has already been rebuilt. All hotels and many private homes have been restored, all by private spending and aid.

Ocean City is spending $787,000 to construct a 43-block bulkhead, which will be strengthened by stone. The main section of the Boardwalk has been completely rebuilt, and work is progressing on other sections.

Ocean City had a special problem. It was founded by religious groups and ordinances prohibit work on Sundays. But ordinances were suspended and work has proceeded around the clock.

It was given a start when 640 men from Allentown, Pa., carried their own tools to Ocean City and worked along side residents to rebuild the Boardwalk. The Fishing Pier was totally destroyed but decision has not been made on whether to rebuild it.

BOOTSTRAP REVIVAL — While Wildwood was not severely damaged, West Wildwood was hard hit and many cottages occupied by elderly persons were destroyed. Without outside aid, residents are raising funds for rebuilding. The local masonic organization has undertaken to rebuild a church.

While Asbury Park is expecting state aid, the city is floating a $500,000 bond issue to repair damage to its Boardwalk. Damage to the convention hall and homes has been largely repaired.

Long Beach Island also received help from Pennsylvania. A brigade of 254 workers, including clergymen from Stroudsburg, spent an April Sunday helping residents repair damage in return, they said, for the help Jerseyites gave during the floods in the Poconos in 1956. The Red Cross and the Salvation Army are continuing to help residents. More than 570 houses were destroyed.

Cape May is replacing the badly damaged old wooden Boardwalk with a 25-block retaining bulkhead and a concrete promenade, 11 feet above the beach level. City and state are sharing the costs. The city is receiving bids this week for the demolition of the Convention Hall, a total loss. A new and larger hall will be built, but on the land side of Beach Drive instead of on the ocean. Here, as in most shore communities, volunteers plunked in to help. Quakers, Mennonites and Lutherans sent in volunteer workers.

And in the other communities along the coast, the people are pitching in, working hard to get 120 miles of coast ready for Memorial Day. Make it! Looks like.

JAPAN SOYBEAN GROWERS SHIFT TO ADZUKI BEANS — Japan is having agricultural problems too. Japan, which once grew all its soybeans, has announced that it will import more of them. Most will come from the United States, which has a surplus.

Consequently, Japanese farmers have been shifting to adzuki beans, white potatoes, peanuts, vegetables and feed crops. The government has embarked on a price-support program which will probably be no more successful than the U. S. program. Meanwhile, Japanese importers are buying soybeans in Communist China.

EPPE'S BAND SENIORS—Ten C. M. Eppes High School seniors will be appearing in their final band Thursday at 8 p.m. when the Eppes band stages its annual Spring Festival of Music in the school auditorium. Under the direction of Johnny Wooten, the band's program will include three major musical works: "Ballet Paraisien" by Offenbach, Mozart's "A Mozart Festival" and "Three Modern Chorals" by Wagner, Brahms and Franck. The band will also present excerpts from Beethoven's fifth symphony and will play "The Blue Danube Waltz" by Strauss. Pictured above (from left, kneeling) are Marvin Jones and Marvin Anderson and (standing) Mary Know, Betty Wilkes, Rosa Brewington, Delores Ross, Christine Kilpatrick, Mary Daniels and James Chapman. Lillian Savage, another senior, was not present for the photo.

Highlights Of Eisenhower Years Listed By His Aides

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Early efforts to get Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for president. His quick wit. His forthrightness. Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Four members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet pick those incidents as highlights of their years in Washington.

The four—Fred A. Seaton, former secretary of the interior; William P. Rogers, attorney general; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general, and Neil H. McElroy, defense, reminisced Tuesday after dedication of the Eisenhower presidential library.

Former secretary of the Treasury Robert P. Anderson also attended the dedication but left immediately.

Brownell said his trip to Paris early in 1952 to try and convince Eisenhower to accept the Republican nomination was his outstanding memory of the Eisenhower years.

It be kept short. After he had talked a while, Eisenhower interrupted with a story in which a man told a neighbor he had half a dozen reasons for not attending church.

"The first was I was excommunicated and somehow the other five don't make much difference," the story went.

Brownell took the hint and cut the explanation short.

Use of federal troops during the Little Rock school integration crisis was recalled by Rogers as a major incident in his career. When he outlined plans for removing the troops by the end of the year, Eisenhower quickly ordered "Go ahead," Rogers said.

"The President gave Cabinet officers complete security and confidence," he said.

To Seaton, a Nebraska publisher and now a Republican candidate for governor, the most important event was statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

As secretary of the interior, Seaton had been governing official for the two territories.

McElroy remembered launching of the first Soviet satellite.

"The whole world was concerned because the Russians had made this tremendous jump," McElroy said. "About four months later we finally had a successful satellite."

Admiration of the Cabinet members for Eisenhower was repaid by the former President in an off-the-cuff speech.

"There has not been a Cabinet brought together since that compares in the abilities and wisdom of that group," he said.

RALEIGH (AP)—A plea for "substantially increased" appropriations for county welfare administration has been made by the North Carolina Conference for Social Service.

The action came in one of several resolutions approved by the Conference as it wound up a three-day convention here Tuesday.

The conference called for elimination of residence requirements for recipients of old age assistance and aid to dependent children.

Robert F. Campbell, editorial page editor of the Winston-Salem Journal, told the conference that state law, which requires recipients to have lived in the state for at least one year, is more restrictive than the federal program.

Campbell, reporting for the welfare panel, said his group recommended a study of the state welfare program and more efforts in public relations on the part of welfare officials and caseworkers.

The conference also approved resolutions calling for a strengthened adoption law, endorsing expansion of the state homemaker service, establishing a program of home nursing for the aged, commending Gov. Sanford for his efforts to curb juvenile delinquency, and calling for the licensing of day care facilities by the state welfare board.

Dr. Alexander Heard, dean of the University of North Carolina Graduate School, was elected conference president, succeeding Dr. C. Horace Hamilton.

Calls For More Welfare Funds

LA MARQUE, Tex. (AP)—There was a small chance that Margaret Elizabeth Smith would get to go home today—wherever home may be.

Margaret, 9, is the only survivor of a family of six. Her parents, two brothers and a sister drowned Sunday in Galveston Bay.

There were eight people in the 14-foot boat when a wave from a passing ship tipped it over. Only Margaret and Raymond H. Henry, 30, survived.

Searchers have found the bodies of three children. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and Danny Ray Henry, 12, are missing.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—If the Russians achieve a really significant breakthrough in space technology they may be able to deny other nations access to space—even for purposes of scientific research, says Gen. B. A. Schriever of the Air Force Systems Command.

"We must have the necessary strength to insure that space is free to be used for peaceful purposes," Schriever said Tuesday at a government-sponsored conference of engineers and scientists.

Schriever said the United States is ahead of the Soviet Union with two major missiles, the Minuteman and the Polaris, and said the Titan and Atlas missiles are equal to anything the U.S.S.R. has.

IPSWICH, Mass. (AP)—Ipswich reportedly has the lowest juvenile crime rate in the state.

Officials say here's how it's done:

Teen-agers from freshman through senior high school grades are eligible for the town's teenage club.

The club holds weekly dances, beach parties, minstrel shows and other events.

The organization has established two small scholarships—$100 each—for top-ranking members.

It collected $2,000 for the Jimmy Fund—an agency dedicated to aid cancer-stricken children.

All events are supervised by the club sponsor—Patrolman Joseph W. Carpenter.

He said, "Kids are good if they're kept busy."

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP)—A pair of German twins, one serving in the West German army and the other in the American forces, are the prize exhibits this week as the U.S. Army celebrates German-American Friendship Week.

chologically the attempt to do it by means of taxes was tried by the Roosevelt Administration which used taxes to alter the social system of the country. The method prolonged the 1929 Depression until 1938.

The Kennedy Administration would be well-advised to stimulate confidence in the economy of the country and its future. No one man knows all the answers to this question of tax reform, nor can it be left to the economists alone. It requires a very thorough study in which both the theoretician and the practical may play a role.

Judy Garland, Julie Harris Lead Nominations For Emmy Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Queen Victoria against Judy Garland—and Dr. Ben Casey shouldering his way through the crowded competition close behind them—as Emmy time comes again to television.

The nominations are in, and secret ballots to be cast by 6,000 members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will decide who will win the coveted awards at a May 22 telecast.

The 137 nominations—for 26 categories—were announced Tuesday.

Leading contenders for the 1961-62 Program of the Year honors are Judy Garland and the "Victoria Regina" biography of Queen Victoria, which starred Julie Harris. Miss Garland won a bid for her Feb. 25 special.

Ben Casey, ABC's young surgeon, won eight nominations, including a nod for the young star, Vincent Edwards.

Many of the famous old names of television—Jack Benny, Robert Young, Bob Hope and Dinah Shore—didn't get a tumble. A lot of eager youngsters skyrocketed into the top competition.

There was an emphasis on the documentary, news and public affairs program. Of the five Program of the Year nominees, three were in this area: "Biography of a Bookie Joint," "Vincent Van Gogh," and "Walk In My Shoes," a study of racial integration.

The ABC-TV network emerged as a top contender. Last year the network gathered in four nominations. This year it won 35. NBC-TV got 54 and CBS-TV 45.

In the dramatic field, "Victoria Regina" promised to make a sweep similar to that of last season's "Macbeth." The Harris vehicle scored in seven categories.

In addition to the program honor, Miss Garland also was in the running for the best musical performance—along with Perry Como, Yves Montand, Carol Burnett and Edie Adams. The Garland show was also up for best variety program, with the shows of Perry Como, Walt Disney, Edie Adams and Garry Moore.

Miss Harris is up for best single performance against Geraldine Brooks for "Call Back Yesterday," "Bus Stop," Susan Pleshette for "Shining Image" ("Dr. Kildare"), Inger Stevens, "The Price of Tomatoes" (Dick Powell Show); Ethel Waters, "Goodnight, Sweet Blues" ("Route 66"), James Donald as Victoria's consort is in the race for best single performance against Milton Berle "Doyle Against the House" (Dick Powell Show); Peter Falk, "The Price of Tomatoes" (Dick Powell Show); Lee Marvin, "People Need People" (Alcoa Premiere); Mickey Rooney, "Somebody's Waiting" (Dick Powell Show). "Victoria Regina" also was nominated for best dramatic program along with "People Need People" and the series "Ben Casey," "The Defenders," the Dick Powell Show and "Naked City."

Police Brutality Charge Denied

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Winston-Salem Police Chief James Waller has branded a report of police brutality here by a Washington, D.C. Negro man, as "an unmitigated and malicious falsehood."

Dr. George Simpkins Jr., president of the Greensboro Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Tuesday he received a notarized statement from Floyd Haywood McIntosh, 26, alleging he and a companion, James Brown, also of Washington, were roughed up by detectives after their arrests last weekend.

McIntosh said in his statement that a detective and a woman walked up to the car in which he was sitting and the woman said he (McIntosh) had taken her pocketbook.

"They took me to jail and later carried me up to a little room upstairs and started beating me. A detective called "Big Joe," he was a weightlifter. He snatched me up from the chair and hit me on the ear," McIntosh said.

McIntosh also claimed that Brown had been beaten with a rubber hose.

Police said Brown and McIntosh had been charged with vagrancy and that their car contained stolen goods from a Washington department store. Chief Waller said the car was stolen shortly after it was impounded by police.

McIntosh was released on $300 bond and Brown was held under the same bond.

Cosmonaut Tito Arriving For Talk In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov arrives today for a three-day visit that will include a scientific talk on space flight, some small talk with Washington officials and a sight-seeing tour guided by U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

The 27-year-old Russian space conquerer and his wife Tamara, 24, will motor from Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland to the Soviet Embassy, where Titov will hold a news conference in late afternoon.

Officially, Titov is in this country to appear before scientists of the Committee for Space Research. He is a member of the Soviet delegation to the international conference, being held here this week.

Before his U.S. visa expires next Wednesday, Titov will see a sizable chunk of the United States, attend a reception given by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and perhaps visit President Kennedy.

There's a chance Titov will call at the White House Thursday, the big day of his Washington visit, although there has been no official announcement.

Glenn, who made the first U.S. orbital flight Feb. 20, will take Titov sightseeing Thursday morning after both have registered for the science meeting.

They'll go wherever Titov wants, probably visiting the Capitol to see Congress in action, the Smithsonian Institution, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial and other tourist attractions.

Later, Titov will present a paper on space flight at the scientific gathering. Glenn will follow him on the platform. After another news conference Titov is to attend a reception for delegates sponsored by Johnson.

Titov will visit Baltimore and have a look at an industrial plant Friday. A likely choice is the Bethlehem Steel Co. at Sparrows Point.

Friday night there will be a press reception at the Soviet Embassy. Titov will tape a television interview to be broadcast Sunday.

Plan Dedicating Bridge May 10

RALEIGH — Upwards of 5,000 people are expected to attend the Lindsay C. Warren Bridge Dedication on May 10, 1962. The bridge which crosses the Alligator River and connects Tyrrell County and Dare County in Eastern North Carolina completes the final continuous link in the shortest route in North America from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The dedication is being sponsored by the Southern Albemarle Association, an organization formed by citizens of Beaufort, Dare, Hyde, Martin, Tyrrell and Washington Counties. V. J. White of Columbia, Chairman of the Bridge Dedication Committee, today announced further plans and the program for the event.

At 10:30 a.m. the ceremonies will begin with the unveiling of the bronze plaque erected on the western terminus of the bridge guardrail. This portion of the day-long program will be conducted by Highway Commission personnel and the veil will be lifted by a niece of State Senator Lindsay C. Warren, in whose honor the bridge has been named.

Following the plaque unveiling ceremony, the program participants and invited dignitaries will lead a parade into Columbia, N. C., for the further exercises of the day. Included in the parade will be floats from the six counties of the Southern Albemarle Association, as well as floats from East Carolina College and the College of the Albemarle, and the floats which will carry the Queen of the Association and her court.

U.S. Proposes Exhibit In Moscow, Leningrad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has proposed to the Soviet Union that an American exhibition be held in Moscow and Leningrad in view of the scheduled Soviet participation in the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The proposal follows the recent unexpected cancellation of plans for a world's fair in Moscow in 1967 on the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The cancellation deprived the United States of an opportunity to put on a national exhibition in the Soviet capital such as the Soviet Union is presumed to be planning for the World's Fair in New York.

A few days ago the State Department, it was learned today, sent a note to the Soviet Embassy proposing an American exhibition in the Soviet Union at a mutually agreeable date to match the Soviet exhibit at the New York fair.

The reciprocity policy is followed in all U.S.-Soviet agreements on cultural, scientific, industrial, agricultural and educational exchanges. It provides that when the Russians put on an exhibit or send a delegation to the United States, the U.S. government can put on a similar exhibit or send a comparable delegation to the Soviet Union.

Exhibit Work In Sculpture

Sculpture and other work in art by Wayne Thomas Frick of Knoxville is now being exhibited in the Kate Lewis Gallery, a raw building, at East Carolina College.

The show is one of a series of exhibitions by talented seniors sponsored by the Department of Art during the 1961-62 term.

Frick's primary interest in art lies in the field of sculpture where he has experimented with abstract and semi-abstract forms. His exhibition includes eight examples of work in this field, as well as paintings, drawings, tapestries, and prints.

SUPPORT THE 4-H DEVELOPMENT FUND

The day has past when a young man can succeed in farming simply by hard work.

Today, science and mechanization are essential tools for success.

Support our national 4-H Development Fund. By doing so, you help provide the basic foundation our young boys and girls need to encourage them to stay in farming as a business, through scholarships, recognition and awards, and our international farm youth exchange program.

Hold-Up Slaying Charged Youth

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—A teenage Marine, who police say set out to rob a service station in a stolen car last weekend, has been charged with first degree murder in the slaying of a service station attendant found shot in the back of the head.

Police identified the Marine as Pfc. Alvin M. Christopher, 18, of Gastonia, who was on a five-day pass from Camp Lejeune at the time of the fatal shooting.

Officers said Christopher, who was first arrested in Marion for the theft of a car, confessed Tuesday night to the slaying of Ralph Eugene Frye, 57, of Hickory early Sunday morning.

Frye's body was found near the gasoline pumps of a station located on U.S. 64-70 just west of here. A wallet containing about $80 had been taken from his pocket.

Investigating officers said Christopher stole a 1953 model auto in McDowell County, April 1, had it repainted and took it to Camp Lejeune.

Officers quoted Christopher as saying he parked the stolen car in Gastonia early Sunday morning and stole a 1952 station wagon. After the robbery, he returned to Gastonia where he returned to the first car and headed for Marion where officers said he had a girl friend.

Police said the Marine was first arrested when an officer in McDowell County identified the stolen auto by its license plates. They added that ticket stubs, given for a drawing for free gasoline, found in Frye's pocket, were one of several things which led to Christopher's apprehension.

Christopher was quoted as saying he approached Frye from the rear, gave him one quick command to halt, and shot before the attendant could turn around. The weapon, believed to be a small caliber pistol, had not been recovered.

Police said the young Marine confessed to the slaying after about 45 minutes of questioning.

Little Stress By Reds On Nonmilitary Status

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist world has paraded its might—military, that is—to celebrate its way of life. It put very little stress on its nonmilitary economic status, perhaps thinking the less said the better.

The United States could parade as dazzling a display of military might, but doesn't. And its greater economic might is there for all to see, even if many seem to forget it while watching the missiles speed by.

And the Communist world also parades on May Day what it calls its people's dedication. To Western eyes this may look more like fanaticism. For Americans don't talk much about dedication to their way of life—it's very much there, though, when the chips are down. And this means it's been there all along.

In this day of space races and nuclear weapon competition, it's perhaps too easy to forget the importance of economic strength.

The United States has it—in spades.

The fast economic growth rate of the Soviet Union in the last few years looks impressive because the start was so close to zero. But compare the two economies outside the military segment, and the United States wins hands down.

The real growth, rather than the percentage of growth, finds the United States much stronger today than the Soviet Union. The actual gap is wider than when the U.S.S.R. started its plan to catch up some 10 years ago. We have grown more, put on more economic muscle, even if the rate is a bit spectacular.

The gap between total industrial output of the United States and the Soviet Union has widened, in America's favor, according to a survey by the National Bureau of Economic Research. One reason appears to be a faster growth in production per man hour in the United States. It finds Soviet labor productivity only about 20 percent of the American level.

Americans' appreciation of economic growth in our capitalistic society may be clouded just now by a number of debates. One is that the rate isn't fast enough to pare unemployment as desired. Another is that government and business and labor have seemed to be at sword points over how best to speed growth, and how to divide the benefits. And, of course, stock market weakness always chills the public's enthusiasm and fires up its fears and uncertainties.

But much of the American economy is at or near record highs. And Americans themselves are doing very well. Total personal income is at a record high. Retail sales have set records—in spite of the fact that total savings have, too.

Federal Reserve figures show that personal assets earning interest now top $500 billion for the first time.

Evelyn Perry To Be Keynoter

Miss Evelyn Perry, Registered Nurse, and Assistant Professor of Medical-Surgical Nursing in the East Carolina College School of Nursing, will be the keynoter speaker during a workshop Friday at the Women's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro.

The workshop, sponsored by the Education Administrators, Consultants and Teachers Section, of the North Carolina State Nurses' Association, will begin at 9 a.m. with registration.

Miss Perry will speak on "The Student in the Clinical Setting." Group discussions according to clinical interest and reports of group discussions will later follow.

A native of Raleigh, Miss Perry joined the East Carolina faculty in March, 1962. She is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and of the Rex Hospital School of Nursing, Raleigh. At present, she is enrolled in the graduate school of the Public Health School of Nursing at Chapel Hill.

Miss Perry is a member of the North Carolina League for Nursing and serves as chairman of the membership committee.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Perry of 506 W. Aycock Street, Raleigh, N. C.

Vet Discovered Shocking Reason

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—A veterinary surgeon took a drink from a cow trough—and let out a yell of pain.

And that settled the mysterious strike of farmer Jim Gibbs' 16 Ayrshire cows.

The cows, pride of Gibbs' small farm near Glasgow, suddenly stopped drinking and their eatings fell off.

Then they stopped giving milk. The vet tried a mugful of their drinking water and it set his tongue tingling. Then he tried a drink direct from the trough and nearly jumped through the cowshed roof.

Electricians found a short circuit which connected the cow troughs to the farm's electricity supply. They fixed it and 16 contented cows are yielding milk again.

Letter For Mr. And Mrs. Bank

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The Marshall & Isley Bank, one of the city's biggest downtown banks, purchased a new automobile.

Soon afterward, the bank received a form letter signed by the president of the auto manufacturing firm. It read:

"Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Bank, "720 N. Water St., "Milwaukee, Wis. "Dear Mr. and Mrs. Bank: "Thank you for buying a 1962—"

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

FOUR-BEDROOM RANCH—This 1,677-square-foot house has brick veneer on wood stud construction, asphalt shingle roof and a full basement. The basement, of course, can be eliminated, making more space in the utility room. Interior features are a bath in the bedroom wing, half bath in the living area and living room fireplace. Architect of Plan HA228G is Elmer Gillock, P. O. Box 77, 358 E. Chicago St., Elgin, Ill.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures
Our recent story about the effects of excessive moisture inside the home has brought a flood of mail. But very little of the mail concerned high humidity. What the letters writers said, in effect, was: "Tell us something about the effects of a lack of humidity in the home; that's our problem."

When the relative humidity in the home is between 35 and 50 percent, the chances are that the members of the family feel comfortable, although every person has his own comfort level and these percentages may vary a little either way. Relative humidity, by the way, is the amount of moisture actually in the air compared with the amount of moisture which air at that temperature is able to hold.

Thus, if air has half as much moisture as it could hold at a certain temperature, the relative humidity is 50 percent. Change the temperature and you also change the humidity—since warm air can hold more moisture than cold air.

Dry air—when the relative humidity is too low—robs moisture from everything it touches. That's why wood shrinks, wall-paper cracks and veneer peels. Since our bodies are composed principally of moisture, we also are victims of too little humidity. Respiratory ailments and itchy skin conditions often are attributed to this condition. Another effect is a chilly feeling even when the temperature in the house is 75 degrees or higher. That's because, when the relative humidity is low, water evaporates quickly from the skin.

While a lack of humidity occurs in some areas as a fairly general condition, it is most prevalent during the winter in heated homes. Grandma might not have known the technical details, but she had the right idea in the old days when she placed pans of water on radiators. As the water got hot and moved in to the air as steam, Grandma was adding moisture to the air and raising the relative humidity.

Today, there are many different types of humidifiers available to the householder bothered with a lack of humidity. One of the most effective ways to solve the problem is by installing a compact humidifying unit in the furnace. This automatically puts vapor into the warm air stream to keep the occupants of the house comfortable no matter what the outside and inside temperatures are.

Hate Sponsors, But Taking Ride

SPARTANBURG (AP)—Leon Horne, a Negro preacher from Jackson, Miss., says he doesn't give "a darn" for segregationists who are paying his way to New York City.

"They could all drop dead for what I care," he said at nearby Greer Tuesday when the north-bound bus made a brief stopover.

Horne said he hopes to pursue a theatrical career in New York. Equally bitter sentiments were expressed by a fellow passenger, Roy Hamilton, 23-year-old former Air Force clerk. He said he "hated everything they (sponsors of the trip) stand for."

Other Negroes on the bus were Earl Campbell, 31-year-old truck driver and musician, and S. M. Williams, 39, a meatcutter.

Campbell acknowledged that the trip to New York was "a gamble" but said he was only looking for "a steady job."

The driver of the bus, who was unidentified, refused to allow passengers off the bus when it reached here. He did, however, allow a newsman holding a ticket to board the bus.

Casey Jones, news director of Greenville radio station WESC, rode the bus from Greenville to Spartanburg. He taped interviews with the riders on the way. Jones said the bus driver turned on a radio in the bus at full volume as he attempted to tape the interviews.

During a five-minute stopover here, the driver said "it is against company rules to allow a tape recorder on the bus."

House Takes Up Big Space Satellite Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today takes up a bill that promises to revolutionize world communications.

It would set up a new kind of semiprivate corporation to control a global network of space satellite relay stations, eventually capable of instantly flashing telegraph and voice messages and even television pictures anywhere around the earth.

The future potential of this startling concept may be gauged by the amount of controversy the bill already has generated. A long debate was scheduled, and the House may not complete consideration of the bill today.

Eventual passage does not seem in doubt, however. Bipartisan support was assured the measure Tuesday when the House Republican Policy Committee issued a statement in favor of the bill as "the appropriate vehicle to speed the development of this system."

Rep. William Pitts Ryan, D-N.Y., the House's lone declared advocate of government ownership of the satellite corporation, says the bill represents a give-away to private communications companies of research paid for by millions of taxpayer dollars.

Ryan called a strategy meeting late Tuesday to map plans to fight the bill on the floor. But he frankly expects to get little support for his view. Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., has carried on a similar fight in Senate hearings.

Ryan said only a handful of congressmen showed up at his meeting, but that he intends, nevertheless, to try to win support for his substitute bill that embodies the principle of government ownership.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., who favors the private, profit-making principle, also has said he plans to offer several amendments to correct what he calls inequities in the version approved by the House Commerce Committee.

The bill before the House is a compromise worked out in the Senate Space Committee, with minor variations.

It provides for a single class of stock to be split 50-50 between communications companies and the general public. Shares would cost $100 each instead of $1,000 as originally proposed by the administration.

The President would appoint three directors, the carriers would name six; 63 public stockholders would elect six. The House bill provides that if carriers do not subscribe their full 50 percent share of stock, their representation on the board would be reduced accordingly.

Wedding Hinted By Gary Merrill

HONG KONG (AP)—Actor Gary Merrill met actress Rita Hayworth at Hong Kong airport today with a big kiss and a hint that their globe-trotting romance was about to culminate in marriage.

Merrill told newsmen a Chinese fortune teller had predicted his third marriage would be his last. "Rita is the third," he said. He walked away without answering further questions. Miss Hayworth had nothing to say.

Merrill is working in an Italian-produced movie being filmed here.

Blue Room Open To Dancing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomats invited to a White House reception tonight will find something new added—dancing in the famous Blue Room.

A trio of Marine Corps musicians will provide the dance music for some 300 guests at the affair.

President and Mrs. Kennedy will be hosts to ambassadors and heads of the foreign missions in Washington, plus Cabinet members, House Speaker John W. McCormack, Chief Justice Earl Warren and top State Department officials.

Healing Service Slated Thursday

The monthly healing service held at St. Paul's Church will be conducted tomorrow, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. This is a regular event for the first Thursday in each month. The service is held in the church and is open to persons of all faiths.

The Rector, the Rev. John W. Drake, Jr. will offer a meditation on 1st John 5:1-12 as a portion of the service. In a very informal service prayers will be offered for healing and health; hymns will be sung about the strengthening grace of Jesus Christ; intercessions for the sick will lift up their names before God; the ministrations of laying on of hands will be proffered to those assembled. These persons can come for their own need or in behalf of others.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's climactic rally continued today but ran into profit-taking which left the list only irregularly higher early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .90 at 24.90 with industrials up .80, rails up .90 and utilities up .80.

Some industrials weakened under profit-taking while rails and utilities maintained a fairly solid front of plus signs. Most of the major steels, motors and chemicals were down.

Tobaccos, airlines, drugs, and electrical equipments also remained generally higher. So were a number of volatile issues, including IBM.

IBM, Tuesday's most active stock when it first plummeted 24 points and then rebounded 32 to close with a net gain of 8 points, was up another 18 early today before paring 5 points from the rise.

Union Carbide was ahead about 2 while gains of a point or so were scored by Litton Industries, Polaroid, Phillip Morris, Lorillard and Merck.

Du Pont was off about 2. Ford and Jones & Laughlin fell about a point each. U.S. Gypsum was off about 3.

Fractional losses were shown by Chrysler, U.S. Steel, Zenith, Goodyear, International Nickel and Southern Pacific.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 21 at 671.03. Prices were mostly higher in more active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. Among U.S. government bonds, some of the long-term issues edged but others showed little change.

Pitt Legal Liquor Sales For Quarter Show Gain

Legal liquor sales in Pitt County's ABC system during the first quarter of 1962 totaled $364,339. That total ranked the Pitt system 18th among 46 Tar Heel ABC units.

State ABC Board Auditor C. S. Wester announced the figures for January through March in Raleigh.

Wester's announcement showed a 12.5 per cent increase in sales over the first quarter, 1961. Two factors influencing the increase, he said, were the addition of six new administrative units since last year and the fact that the first quarter this year had 18 Saturdays compared with only 12 during 1961's first three months.

Of the Pitt total, N. C. State liquor tax (12 per cent of gross retail sales) totaled nearly $44,000. From the remainder of the $364,339 will come wholesale liquor costs, administration costs and expenses of the Pitt unit, and the profits divided among the county's municipalities and reserved for use in the county-wide general fund.

Wester's figures showed retail sales for the quarter ranged from a high of $3,274,198 in Mecklenburg County to a low of $11,090 at Ocean Isle Beach, one of the new units. Other units added were Burlington-Graham, Hertford, Jamestown, Sanford and Sparta.

Units in the Pitt County area posted the following totals: Craven County, $247,776; Edgecombe County, $278,686; Greene County, $53,226; Lenoir County, $501,875; Martin County, $111,622; and Wilson County, $438,690.

Await Bids On ABC Building

Officials today expected at least 21 contractors to submit bids Thursday on construction of new administrative offices of the Pitt County ABC Board and quarters to relocate its Evans Street store.

The project's architect, George Shoe, said today the number of prospective bidders "indicates interest in the project and includes good representation of contractors in the Pitt County area."

Bids are scheduled for opening in the Pitt Courthouse at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Shoe said the list of 21 expected bidders includes five general contractors, three electrical jobbers, five plumbing contractors and eight heating and air conditioning firms.

Plans call for a 3,500-square-foot brick building to be erected on the northeast corner of Second and Cotanche Streets in Greenville. The retail store will be allocated 1,900 feet of space while the ABC offices will require 1,600.

The building will be constructed in an L-shape with the 72-foot side parallel to Cotanche Street and the 65-foot side parallel to Second. Spacing from each street will provide off-street parking for about 25 vehicles.

Divisional Scout Camporee Set

Most of the Pitt Division's 17 scout troops are expected to gather with an estimated 1,000 East Carolina Council divisional scouts for the annual Divisional Camporee in Wilson this weekend.

Program for the event is similar to the program for the Council's camporee for districts in Wilson last weekend. Divisional officials expect the largest attendance in the history of the event.

According to Pitt Division spokesmen, Pitt's scouts are expected to comprise about one-fourth of the entire attendance.

School officials in Greenville's system and the Pitt County system have agreed to cooperate in aiding the boys in getting an early start Friday.

Scouts in the Pitt system will be allowed to leave school at 11 a.m. Friday. Greenville scouts will be free after noon to leave for the Wilson trip. Scoutmasters have been asked to send lists of scouts attending the camporee to each school principal.

Included on the three-day program are a series of events involving inter-troop competition for blue, red, white and green award ribbons.

The camporee will break camp Sunday following morning worship services.

Attend Forestry Workshop Meet

WINTERVILLE — Winterville High School's Future Farmers of America classes Tuesday attended a Forestry Workshop conducted by E. K. Pitman of Plymouth, conservation forester for Weyerhaeuser Co.

Accompanied by their instructor, J. H. Mobley, the boys heard Pitman explain the economic importance of forest land and forest products. He demonstrated proper methods to improve home farm woodlots.

Pitman conducted a field trip for each class into a tract of woodland near the school. Here the boys received instruction in planting forest trees, controlling cull hardwoods and in thinning pine grown for pulpwood to increase crop trees' growth rate.

The forester also distributed information on tree diseases and pests. He explained the method used in determining the age and growth rate of a tree.

Wiley R. Hardee Jr. Not Involved

A Ray Hardy of the Calico Crossroads section, who was reported in Monday's edition of "The Daily Reflector" as being arrested by Greenville police on charges of being a peeping tom, was not Wiley Rae Hardee Jr., 17, a resident of Rt. 2, Greenville.

Young Hardee is the son of Wiley R. Hardee, 41, prominent farmer and Ayden businessman who operates Baugh Chemical Co. in Ayden. The youth is a sophomore at Chicod School.

The Hardy reported involved in the case by Greenville police was listed as a resident of the Calico Crossroads section in Beaufort County and 1407 Van Dyke St., Greenville.

Young Wiley Rae Hardee lives with his family on Rt. 2, Greenville, about three miles north of Calico Crossroads.

Holding Health Coronation

WINTERVILLE — The annual Health Coronation Program for Pitt County Negro 4-Hers is scheduled for the gymnasium of Robinson Union School here tonight at 7:30.

F. H. Mebane, principal of Farmville's H. B. Sugg School, is featured speaker on the program. He will discuss the selection and crowning of junior and senior health kings and queens.

Rites Thursday For Miss Mildred Floars

AYDEN — Miss Mildred Floars, 52, died Tuesday morning at Caswell Training School in Kinston.

The body will remain at Britt Funeral Home in Ayden until Thursday afternoon. Graveside services will be held at the Caswell Training School Cemetery at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon conducted by the Rev. Ben Wolverton, Episcopal minister.

Surviving are one brother, J. L. Grande of Reidsville; one sister, Mrs. Jack D. Carter of Lexington.

Funeral

FARMVILLE — Funeral services for Wilbert Sutton, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. John T. Sutton, who died in Stamford, Conn., Sunday, will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at Mt. Mariah Holiness Church, Farmville. The Rev. R. V. Wheeler will officiate and burial will follow in Sunset Memorial Park.

Has Statement On Court Order

Lewis G. Cooper of 706 Evans St. has issued the following statement in connection with a restraining order, which was signed by Judge W. J. Bundy recently to prevent blocking of the portion of Eighth Street between Evans and Washington Streets:

"At no time has there been any objection or order with respect to the holding of the so-called Sidewalk Show."

"The Restraining Order made permanent provides:

"1. That the Society, its agents and employees are enjoined and restrained from roping off or closing Eighth Street, and from placing tables, chairs or other items in the roadway of said Street, or interfering in any manner with the right of ingress and egress of the property owners on Eighth Street."

"2. Pedestrians may use Eighth Street for the purpose of viewing a display of art objects to be placed upon the sidewalks abutting said Street. For such purposes the City Officials may in their discretion post a notice in said street during the hours of the proposed display to restrict through traffic traveling on said street. Nothing herein shall be construed as infringing upon the right of residents of Eighth Street from the exercise of their normal use and access to said street, or the right of any person having business upon said street to the normal use of same."

Big Turnout At Annual Banquet

AYDEN — About 100 persons attended the annual Rotary Club athletic banquet, which honored members of the high school baseball, basketball and football teams and the cheerleaders, on Thursday evening at the elementary school.

Letters were presented to team members by Coach Stuart Tripp and Coach Tommy Craft.

Clarence Stasavich, head football coach at East Carolina College, was principal speaker. He discussed playing the game and winning.

E. F. Johnson, principal of Ayden High School, introduced Stasavich, and also made brief remarks.

Special guests for the evening were Dr. O. R. Pearce, Dr. Fred Irons, Don Calloway and Wendell Smiley, all of the Greenville Rotary Club.

S. F. Peterson will be in charge of this week's program.

Man Arrested As Peeping Tom

Alfred Ray Hardy, 28, of Calico Crossroads and 1407 VanDyke St., Greenville, was taken into custody last night by Greenville police and Pitt sheriff's officers on charges of being a peeping tom.

Greenville detectives said Hardy was arrested on a warrant signed by A. R. Stepps of 1408-B North Washington St. They noted that the warrant had been issued Sunday night after a man, identified as Hardy by witnesses, was seen near the Stepps home.

Officers explained Hardy's two addresses by saying he spends some time with his mother in the Calico section in Beaufort County and sometimes stays with his father in Greenville.

Meet Thursday On Watershed

TARBORO — A meeting of landowners in the 64,139-acre Conetoe Creek Watershed is scheduled for 8 p.m. here Thursday in the Edgecombe County Courthouse Annex.

Planning Party Leader Lacy Coats is scheduled to submit a report of the progress in planning of the Conetoe Creek Watershed drainage project.

The project, which includes farm lands in the northern section of Pitt County, is sponsored by the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, Edgecombe Drainage District 2 and Edgecombe County.

Street-Patching Work Underway

AYDEN — Ayden workmen have embarked on street patching program throughout the town. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said this week.

Some streets are in "bad shape," Paylor said, principally due to winter weather. Town workmen will tear up the rough places and patch them with asphalt. Work is hoped to be completed during the current span of warm weather.

BOARD OF REVIEW

The Pitt Division board of review is scheduled at 7:30 tonight in the C. M. Eppes High School gymnasium in Greenville.

All scouts prepared to advance in rank have been urged to attend. Advancements earned will be credited to units participating in the camporee this weekend, thereby aiding units in obtaining blue ribbons in the scouting skills and performance competition.

MINERS STRIKE

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—More than 30,000 African miners struck at seven mines in Northern Rhodesia's copper belt today, demanding wages and vacation benefits equal to those given white workers.

In 1968 Mt. Rainier National Park was the first national park to admit automobiles.

Van Doren, Shapiro Discuss Poetry In Program At ECC

Pulitzer Prize winners Mark Van Doren and Karl Shapiro, poets, critics, and teachers, read and discussed their poetry at East Carolina College Tuesday at a series of three meetings attended by students, faculty members, and guests from Greenville and nearby towns.

Their visit marked the third program in a series of 1961-1962 lectures sponsored by the college and financed by grants from the Sperry and Hutchinson Co. of New York and the East Carolina Student Government Association. The program for the day was presented as a special event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival, now in progress.

Tuesday morning, Mr. Shapiro, Professor of English at the University of Nebraska, discussed the poet as teacher, describing the poet on the U.S. campus as "an American phenomenon," a teacher with an unconventional approach whose position places him not quite in or out of the academic community.

During the afternoon the two poets read selections from their

Special Promotion

Greenville merchants have planned a seasonal promotion event, "Straw Hat & Straw Shoe Day" for Friday and Saturday to spotlight new styles and fashions in straw shoes and hats.

The special promotion was planned by the Greenville Merchants Association's Trade Promotion Committee whose chairman is B. D. Johnston.

Store fronts will be decorated with window streamers and 100-pound blocks of ice with the latest straw shoe and hat designs frozen inside, will be placed at intervals along the business district's sidewalks.

Tenderfoot Investiture Service Is Planned By Stokes Scout Troop

STOKES — Stokes Boy Scout Troop 491, recently organized under the Pitt District's "Together Plan" sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club, has scheduled a Tenderfoot Investiture Service at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

To be held at the Stokes Christian Church, the service marks the first badges of rank to be presented to members of the new troop. Tenderfoot is the first rank in Boy Scouts of America's "Eagle Trail" advancement program.

Rudolph Alexander of Greenville, Pitt District Scout executive, is scheduled to attend the service to present the badges to the 22 boys who are charter members of the troop, organized here March 13 and sponsored by the Stokes Ruritan Club. Membership of the unit now totals 36.

Scoutmasters Charles F. Middleton and Raymond Fuch will present the following boys as Tenderfoot candidates:

Jamie and John Richard Barnhill, Leon Brown, Bruce and Mike Clark, Jimmy and Keith Congleton, John Corey, Gatha Harrell, John James, Tommy Johnson, James McKee, Bobby Nelson, Ward Parker, Jeff Rawls, Billy and Oliver Roebuck, Frankie Tyson, Hal Watson, Ashburn and Roy Whichard and Rodney Whitley.

Parents of the scouts have been invited to the ceremony.

Two Attended Oteen Meeting

Dean Eva Warren and Mrs. Louise C. Bullock of the East Carolina College School of Nursing attended the Joint Affiliate Committee Meeting Friday at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Oteen, N. C.

The purpose of the meeting was to review the nursing program.

"As a result of the meeting," Dean Warren stated, "it is anticipated that the East Carolina School of Nursing students will spend a summer session of 1963 at the V. A. Hospital in Oteen to study clinical facilities."

Gov. Faubus To Seek 4th Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he will run for an unprecedented fifth term.

Faubus called a news conference in his office and said he had changed his mind and decided not to retire after all.

He had said in a statewide television speech March 31 that he would bow out of politics, at least temporarily, to rest and write a book about his side of the Little Rock integration controversy.

Faubus will be running against former Gov. Sid McMath, the man who introduced him into politics.

McMath got into the race Tuesday night with a 30-minute denunciation of the Faubus administration on a statewide radio-television network.

McMath, governor in 1949-52, criticized Faubus' policies on subjects ranging from welfare to utilities.

McMath joined Rep. Dale A. Ford, D-Ark.; Marvin Melton, a Jonesboro farmer-businessman; Kenneth C. "Little Rock" attorney, and Vernon Whitten, a Mount Holly businessman, in the ranks of official gubernatorial candidates.

Only Faubus, McMath and A. Ford had an extensive political experience.

McMath has not campaigned since 1954 when he lost a close race against Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. He has been practicing law in Little Rock.

McMath was pushed out of the governor's office when former Gov. Francis Cherry defeated his third term bid in 1952.

Man Arrested As Peeping Tom

Alfred Ray Hardy, 28, of Calico Crossroads and 1407 VanDyke St., Greenville, was taken into custody last night by Greenville police and Pitt sheriff's officers on charges of being a peeping tom.

Greenville detectives said Hardy was arrested on a warrant signed by A. R. Stepps of 1408-B North Washington St. They noted that the warrant had been issued Sunday night after a man, identified as Hardy by witnesses, was seen near the Stepps home.

Officers explained Hardy's two addresses by saying he spends some time with his mother in the Calico section in Beaufort County and sometimes stays with his father in Greenville.

Meet Thursday On Watershed

TARBORO — A meeting of landowners in the 64,139-acre Conetoe Creek Watershed is scheduled for 8 p.m. here Thursday in the Edgecombe County Courthouse Annex.

Planning Party Leader Lacy Coats is scheduled to submit a report of the progress in planning of the Conetoe Creek Watershed drainage project.

The project, which includes farm lands in the northern section of Pitt County, is sponsored by the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, Edgecombe Drainage District 2 and Edgecombe County.

Street-Patching Work Underway

AYDEN — Ayden workmen have embarked on street patching program throughout the town. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said this week.

Some streets are in "bad shape," Paylor said, principally due to winter weather. Town workmen will tear up the rough places and patch them with asphalt. Work is hoped to be completed during the current span of warm weather.

Phants Top Roanoke Rapids 3-2

Coach Bud Phillips' Rose High Phantoms won their eighth baseball game of the season yesterday when they defeated Roanoke Rapids in an extra inning game 3-2.

At the end of the regulation seven innings of play the score was tied 2-2 and the contest went into overtime. It was the bottom of the ninth before Greenville was able to score the winning run.

The run was scored by Billy Williamson who got on with a single, stole second and went to third on a bad throw to second. Williamson scored when Spencer Harrington hit a fly to centerfield with nobody out.

The Phantoms opened up the scoring in the bottom of the fifth when they scored two runs. With two men out Kroghie Andersen connected for a single and Alan McArthur followed with a triple deep into left-centerfield scoring Andersen. McArthur scored on a single by Rommie Brock for the second run. The next batter, Billy James, filed out to the catcher retiring the side.

In the top of the sixth Roanoke Rapids managed to pick up two runs on one hit and an error. After starting pitcher Ken Joyner walked the first batter Coach Phillips put in Rodney Knowles.

Billy Wheeler picked up a single off Knowles advancing the first batter, Maxie Clippard, to second. Ronnie Vincent then got on with an error by Greenville's shortstop. Graham Dean was hit by the pitcher and loaded the bases. The next batter, Sonny Pruette hit a fielder's choice scoring Clippard leaving the bases loaded.

Charles Birdsong walked scoring Vincent. Dennis Gregory filed out to the right fielder. Wheeler was thrown out at home and Arthur Rose was thrown out at first to retire the side.

Neither team was able to score again until Greenville picked up the winning run in the bottom of the ninth.

The Phantom pitching staff consisting of Joyner and Knowles allowed three hits, walked four and struck out one for the victory. Joyner walked two, struck out one and allowed one hit before he was relieved by Knowles who struck out one, walked two and allowed one hit.

Pitching for the Yellow Jackets, Gregory allowed nine hits, struck out two and walked one.

This was the third win for the Phantoms over Roanoke Rapids this season. The two teams will meet again Friday in Guy Smith Stadium.

Wake Forest To Play Duke Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
League-leading Wake Forest visits Duke today in an Atlantic Coast Conference baseball game, and Clemson plays home state rival Furman in a non-conference game.

In games involving ACC teams Tuesday, Duke beat North Carolina 6-5 to break their tie for fourth place, and in non-conference games, Virginia beat William and Mary 7-3, and Maryland bowed to Penn State 6-5 in eleven innings.

The Tar Heels, who outfit the Blue Devils 10-7, had a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning before Duke took the lead. North Carolina tied the game 5-5 in the sixth before Duke scored its winning run in the seventh on a base-on-balls, a single and a throwing error.

The game gave Duke a 4-4 conference record and a 11-8 overall mark. North Carolina is now 3-5 in the league and 8-9 overall.

George Farson smashed a two-run homer in the first inning to give Virginia a good start in its victory over William and Mary 11-6 record.

Douglas Says It Is Tennis Year

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—If you think American tennis is in the doldrums, don't try to sell the idea to Jon (Jackie) Douglas. The U.S. Davis Cup ace isn't buying.

"This is our bounce-back year—you just take my word for it," the former Stanford University football quarterback from Santa Monica, Calif., said today.

"We have the players. We're whipping ourselves into top condition. Our morale has never been higher. I honestly think we can beat the Australians—that is, if we're lucky enough to get by the Mexicans and their mile-high atmosphere."

Douglas, 26, a tough ex-Marine who is the nation's fourth-ranked player, is too modest to say so, but he is one of the reasons that U.S. tennis hopes are soaring.

Associates say he's a good bet to win Wimbledon and lead the Yankees to victory in the long summer Davis Cup campaign.

"I've beaten the fellows I'd have to whip at Wimbledon. I beat Rod Laver at Queens a couple of years ago. I beat Roy Emerson on concrete but lost to him at Wimbledon last year, 7-5 in the fourth set. I have victories over both Whitney Reed and Chuck McKinley, our two top guys."

Douglas said he feared the Mexicans more than the Australians in the Davis Cup. "We play them at Mexico City and I remember the last time I was there I couldn't breathe and could hardly stand up," he added. "We're going there two weeks in advance to get used to the conditions. If we win, we'll beat the Europeans, whoever they are, and go against Australia all-for-broke."

"They're tough on grass and at home, those Aussies, but we've won before against the odds."

Gerry Leeman, Lehigh University wrestling coach, won the 128-pound title in the 1946 NCAA championships.

Pittsburgh Falls To San Francisco 4-2

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sensational? Phenomenal? Spectacular?

Take your pick—or use your own word—but make it on the super side for the pitching job being turned in by the San Francisco Giants' stoney staff.

Billy O'Dell added to the amazing record compiled by the San Francisco mound crew when he beat Pittsburgh 4-2 Tuesday night and ran the National League leaders' winning streak to seven games by becoming the fifth hurler in succession to go the distance.

In those five games against Juan Marichal, Jack Sanford, Billy Pierce, Gaylord Perry and O'Dell, opposing Chicago and Pittsburgh batters have been able to score only five runs. For that span the Giants' earned run average is an astonishing 1.13.

Al Dark's workmen have completed 10 of their 21 starts. Not one opposing pitcher has managed to last the full nine innings.

At Los Angeles, Doug Camilli's timely, run-producing single in the last of the 16th gave the Dodgers a 6-5 decision over the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis bopped Houston 5-4 and Cincinnati walloped the New York Yankees whipped Chicago's White Sox 6-1, Detroit beat Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, Washington nipped Boston 2-1, the Los Angeles Angels defeated Cleveland 8-6 and Minnesota beat Baltimore 8-3.

O'Dell ran his record to 3-0, scattering nine hits while going the distance for the second time. Singles by Donn Clendenen, Johnny Logan and Bill Mazeroski nicked O'Dell for a run in the second and Clendenen's ninth-inning homer ended the Pirates' production for the night.

The Giants put it away in the second with three runs on singles by Felipe Alou, Jose Pagan and Jim Davenport, a wild pitch, a passed ball and an error. Orlando Cepeda wound up the Giants scoring the next inning with his seventh homer, off Bob Veale (1-2).

Camilli's single in the last inning that could have been played—the league curfew rule would have halted play after the stanza—followed a walk by pinch hitter Daryl Spencer, a single by Willie Davis and an attempted sacrifice by Andy Carey that failed. Ed Roebuck (1-0) got the victory and Glen Hobbie (0-4) took the loss.

The Cubs tied it in the eighth on a two-base error by Davis and

Greene Hurls Pirates To Shut-Out AC Victory

WILSON — Coach Jim Mal-Joy's East Carolina Pirates defeated Atlantic Christian College here yesterday 6-0 with Nathan Greene pitching the Bucs' first shut-out of the season.

The Pirates scored four runs in the third frame and two in the sixth to pick up their runs. Bobby Joyce was the big hitter for East Carolina with two doubles and two singles in four times at the plate. He knocked in two runs.

The Pirates' runs in the third inning came off four runs, two walks. Third baseman Carlton Barnes connected for a single, Lacy West singled advancing Barnes to second and Bynum walked loading the bases. The next batter, Tommy Kidd, walked forcing in Barnes for the first run.

Then catcher Charlie Johnson singled in West and Bynum for the second and third runs. The

Ayden Golfers Defeat Grifton

GRIFTON—The Ayden High School golf team coached by E. F. Johnson defeated Grifton here Monday 330-383.

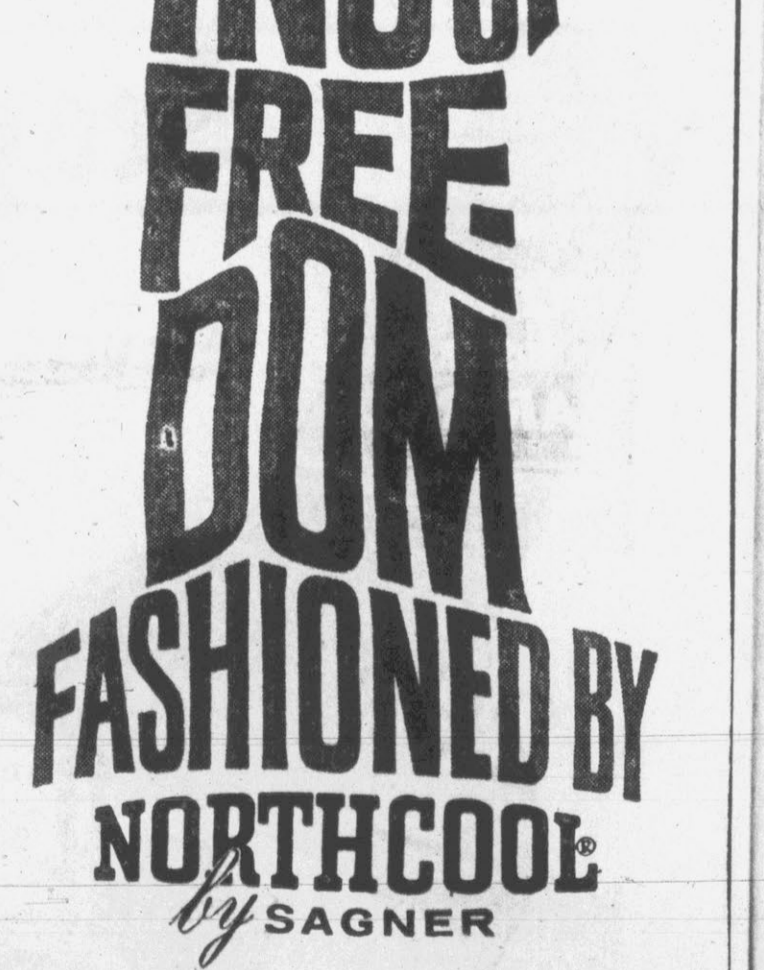

The two teams are the only high school golf teams in the county at the present time and Monday's match was the first for the two schools. Coach Johnson said golf this year is sort of an experiment and that he hopes to get into a regular schedule next year.

The Ayden team won the match with Tommy Dunn shooting a 79, Terry Smith an 80, Johnny Taylor an 83 and Joe Tripp an 88. For Grifton Tommy Riley was low with an 86, Steve Rogers shot a 92, Fred Israel had 87 and Charlie Pace shot 108.

A return match is scheduled on May 7 at 7:30 p.m. on the Ayden course.

New York Downs White Sox 6-1

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a touch of crowd-pleasing excitement for a rare bid for a two-man no-hitter, New York's front-running Yankees didn't quite pull it off, but they did overwhelm their closest pursuers, as is their style, and gained another length in the American League race.

Bill Stafford and Roland Sheldon staged the drama Tuesday night, holding the Chicago White Sox without a hit for eight innings.

The spell was broken when Sheldon was nicked for a run in the ninth but Marshall (The Sheriff) Bridges put on the workmanlike flourish by quelling the mild Chicago threat.

The three-man two-hitter resulted in a 6-1 Yankee victory, their sixth in a row, and stretched their AL lead to 1 1/2 games. Chicago fell into third, 21 percentage points behind the Detroit Tigers.

Vic Wertz delivered for the fourth straight time as a pinch hitter and gave Detroit a 3-2 decision over the Kansas City Athletics. Washington ended its 11-game losing string, nipping Boston 2-1 on Pete Burnside's fourth hit pitching. Leon Wagner took over as the majors' hottest home run hitter as Los Angeles topped Cleveland 8-6. Camilo Pascual's pitching and hitting led Minnesota over Baltimore 8-3.

In the National League, the pace-setting San Francisco Giants downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2. Los Angeles shaded Chicago 6-5 in a 16-inning affair lasting 5 hours and 6 minutes. The St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Houston Colts 6-4 and the Cincinnati Reds beat the New York Mets 8-2. Milwaukee at Philadelphia was postponed due to cold and wet grounds.

Stafford (2-2) turned away the White Sox without a semblance of a hit through five innings, then retired with a sore hip. Sheldon kept the string going until Nellie Fox opened up the last of the ninth with a sharp single up the middle. Joe Cunningham drew a walk and Floyd Robinson rapped a double to right, chasing in the lone Chicago run and bringing in the hard-throwing Bridges from the bullpen.

Bridges put away the first two men he faced, walked Sammy Esposito, and got Sherm Lollar on a foul pop for the final out.

With the help of two errors, the Yanks built up a 4-0 lead on losing lefty Juan Pizarro (2-2) before Elston Howard slugged a two-run homer in the ninth against Herb Score. Bobby Richardson, who has hit in all 16 games this year, collected two singles in the Yankees' 10-hit offense. Roger Maris had a single for the 13th hit in his last 24 at bats.

Wertz settled the issue between unbeaten right-handers Jim Bunning and Jerry Walker with his bases-filled, two-out pinch single in the top of the 10th at Kansas City. Bunning (3-) was touched for seven hits, including Jerry Lumpe's homer in the last of the 10th. The Tigers got 10 off Walker (3-1) one of them Al Kaline's sixth homer.

Burnside, who now has two of Washington's three victories, shut out the Red Sox after they got their run in the first on Pete Runnels' double, a sacrifice and Frank Malzone's single. Bob Johnson's double and Dale Long's produced the tying run for Washington in the fourth and the Senators got the winner in the eighth on Jimmy Piersall's double, a passed ball and Jim King's sacrifice fly. King got a second life when Jim Pappalardo dropped his foul pop behind the plate.

The win was the first for the Senators since April 13, when Burnside beat Cleveland.

Wagner, on a home run-or-nothing kick, connected his first two times up against Cleveland, with two on in the first against loser

Red Sox Defeat Greensboro 9-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Winston-Salem Red Sox unleashed another display of batting power in the Carolina League Tuesday night.

The league leaders blasted four home runs, including a grand slammer by catcher Ron Staples, to defeat Greensboro 9-2. First baseman Jim Russin hit two Jim Gosger connected for the other in the 11-hit attack.

An inside-the-park homer by Felix Santana in the seventh propelled Kingston to a 9-5 victory over Wilson. Santana led the attack with four hits, including a triple.

Raleigh came up with three runs in the 10th to defeat Rocky Mount 8-5. Ed Brinkman and Dalton Renfroe blasted back-to-back homers in the extra inning after Ed Montgomery had led off with an infield hit. Relief Ace Ernesto Figueroa got credit for the victory his third this season over Rocky Mount.

Burlington jumped off to a six run lead in the first inning and went on to rout Durham 10-4.

Probable Starting Field For Derby Swells To 16

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The probable starting field for Saturday's $125,000-added Kentucky Derby swelled to at least 16 today but Sir Gaylord and Ridan remained the firm choices to make a two-horse race of the 88th running of the blue ribbon classic for 3-year-olds at Churchill Downs.

Out of Tuesday's so-so Derby Trial came three fairly definite starters and one faint "maybe." The fairly definite are T. A.

Grissom's Roman Line, who won the mile test by six lengths in the fair time of 1:37 1/5 on a sloppy track; Shary Count from the Reverie Knoll Farm, who was third, beaten 6 1/2 lengths, and Neil S. McCarthy's Royal Attack, the Santa Anita Derby winner who ran a disappointing fourth.

There is one condition on Royal Attack's starting. Trainer Buddy Hirsch said the track must be fast. For Roman Line it would be his third race in 10 days. He ran his third race of Ridan and Decidedly in last Thursday's Blue Grass takes at Keeneland.

The "maybe" came from Steve Di Mauri, who trains Mister Pitt for the Golden Triangle Stable. Mister Pitt showed a burst of early speed, as expected, in the trial, then wound up last in the seven-horse field.

Trainer Casey Hayes said C. T. Chenery's great filly, Cicada, would be entered in the Derby with stablemate Sir Gaylord. "We'll enter both but only one will run," said Hayes. It costs $250 to enter a horse and another $1,250 to start. Cicada also is eligible for Friday's $35,000-added Kentucky Oaks on which she appears to have a lock. With 18 entries and 16 starters the Derby will gross $163,400 with the winner picking up $120,900. Post time is 4:30 p.m. EST. Nationwide television time (OBS) is 4-4:45 p.m.

Hayes and Leroy Jolley, trainer of Tidan, appeared confident. Both Sir Gaylord and Ridan wound up their heavy work last week with victories and went on to sensational workouts.

Trainers of such top contenders as Sunrise County, Sir Ribot and Admiral's Voyage were far from ready to throw in the sponge even though the early odds held Sir Gaylord at 8-5 and Ridan at 5-2. Sunrise County was the third choice at 8-1 followed by Admiral's Voyage at 10-1 and Sir Ribot at 12-1.

Stoped Trying For Home Runs

By IRWIN FRANK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Curt Flood took the advice of his batting coach, who told him to quit trying for home runs, and now finds himself the top batsman in the National League.

The 24-year-old St. Louis Cardinal center fielder leads the league with a .418 average. He's had 28 hits in 67 at bats, including four doubles, two triples and two home runs.

"It's taken me a year to get the full benefit of the change in my swinging pattern," the right-hander said. "George Crowe (former Card batting coach) told me late last season to use a shorter swing. I'm not a power hitter, all I'm trying to do is get some good wood on the ball."

Card Manager Johnny Keane says the shorter swing allows Flood to hit line drives and grounders through the infield rather than long flies to the outfield.

"He's got the speed to beat out some of those ground balls and he can stretch a single through the infield into a double," Keane said.

MR. ADVERTISER: HERE'S A PRESCRIPTION for more sales. Take something that is wanted or needed, mix in a generous bit of good service and attractive packaging, and stir up interest with a price that means good value. Then add ...the vital ingredient. Tell everybody what you're selling, why it's good value, and where they can buy it. Then put it all together in an advertising message and place it in the daily newspaper.

The newspaper takes your sales story into nearly 9 out of 10 homes every day.* If your sales are in a slump, if you're suffering from the nagging discomfort of "tired inventory," a good dose of vital look-alive newspaper advertising may be just what the doctor ordered.

THE PEACE CORPS ON THE JOB

PITCHING IN. Six-foot-five George Kroon of Wallingford, Pa., center, towers over the Colombian workers as they dig sand for use in cement blocks for a new community center building in Faguene.

Corpsman George Kroon operates a soil-cement block machine.

The U.S. Peace Corps has completed its first year with some 700 volunteer workers on the job in 12 countries on three continents. Further expansion has been ordered.

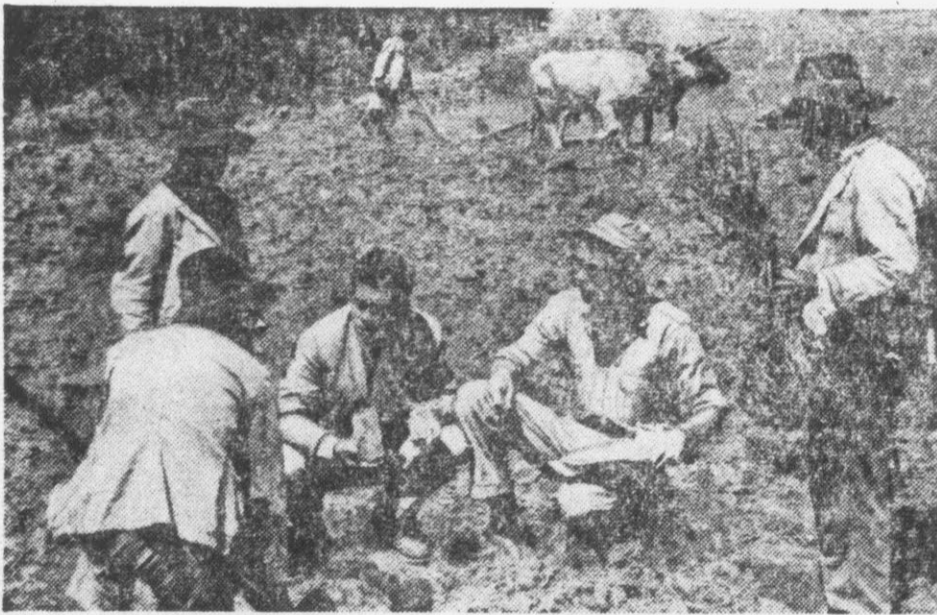

These now engaged have a wide variety of assignments, ranging from school teaching in Ghana, Nigeria, Sierra Leone and the Philippines to rural development in Chile, Colombia and Malaya, from road surveying and geological mapping in Tanganyika and health education in Pakistan and Thailand to agricultural extension in India and St. Lucia. New trainees are due for work in Ethiopia, Ivory Coast, Somalia, Tunisia, Togo, North Borneo, Honduras and Jamaica. Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver told a Senate committee recently that foreign countries were requesting far more Peace Corps members than the organization could supply.

As an example of what they're doing, here are some of the 62 young Corpsmen who are working in Colombia in teams of two over a terrain of lowlands, mountains and jungles. In general they are working with Colombian counterparts teaching the nation's peasants more efficient farm methods, how to drill wells, lay sewage pipelines, plant gardens and develop health programs. The tools and equipment they use are being provided by CARE, the overseas aid agency. Soon they will be joined by 61 more young Americans now completing their training in the States.

With pick on shoulder, tall George Kroon, in front, marches along with the workers down a dusty road leading to the sand deposit.

With members of the community, Corpsman James Welcome, second from right, plans farm project at Gacheta. In back, a farmer plows a field in primitive fashion, with bullocks.

James Welcome and his Colombian co-worker, Raul Hincapie, meet with youngsters at Hancheria to plan a rural youth club in the area.

Ronald Atwater, of Los Angeles, third from left, pitches in with volunteers in building of school at Gacheta. Handing Atwater a brick is Raul Hincapie, his Colombian counterpart.

Native lad shares ride with Corpsman Roland Yaeger of Rochester, N. Y., as Yaeger and Corpsman Enrique Morales of El Paso, Tex., cycle along road in Tupia. The corpsmen are on their way to survey village needs.

Colombian volunteer helps Corpsman Enrique Morales, right, in building new health center in village of Tupia.

Science At Work

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some results of satellite probes into space, and a look at the importance of sunshine on earth are subjects for science at work:

WINDS OF SPACE
Just how large are the clouds of cosmic gas traveling through space? How much cosmic radiation shoots through the reaches of our galaxy, the Milky Way?

Satellites gave astronomers and physicists a way to probe these mysteries, and at a recent meeting of the American Physical Society, some of the results were summarized.

Explorer XI, for instance, carried a telescope capable of seeing high energy gamma rays, but powerful bursts of rays that travel in straight lines and are not affected by magnetic fields.

The cosmic gases are clouds of the hearts of hydrogen atoms. When cosmic rays hit these atomic hearts, gamma rays are produced.

By measuring the gamma rays, physicists can deduce how many hydrogen hearts or nuclei and how many cosmic rays there are—and perhaps, eventually, where these winds in space come from. Current studies indicate there may be many more cosmic rays and more gases than estimated earlier.

WE AND OUR SHADOW
The earth apparently casts a shadow in space. It isn't a shadow of light and dark, but only an area sheltered by earth and its magnetic field from the winds of charged gases that pour through our galaxy.

Satellites, ranging far out into space, have shown that this sort of sheltered area or shadow exists. Its exact limits are not known.

Are these winds of space pouring out from the sun? If so, the shadow area would be on the dark side of the earth. The satellite data indicates it might be there, or it might be slightly from a different angle, indicating that the winds of gas that the earth sees might come from some unknown source other than our sun.

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT
Earth's sister planet, Venus, is a hot and uncomfortable place, astronomers say. Yet Venus is nearly the same size as earth, and only lies a little nearer the sun.

Now there is the possibility of one more important difference. Venus may have an extremely slow rate of rotation—and its day may be as long as its year. That is, it may take Venus as long to spin once on its axis as it takes it to turn once around the sun. This means that the same face of Venus is always turned toward the searing radiation of the sun, leaving one side in constant day, one side in constant night.

Many Injured In May Day Rioting

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — At least 27 persons were hospitalized Tuesday night and scores were arrested in turbulent May Day clashes between security forces and antigovernment demonstrators in Portugal's two largest cities.

Club-swinging police and troops crushed the outbursts, but scattered violence continued through the night.

Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar's directorship claimed the demonstrations—the most violent in years—were part of a Communist plan for a general uprising. The government asserted the Reds had failed to muster support except in Lisbon, the capital, and Oporto, Portugal's second city 175 miles to the northeast.

The regime had banned May Day demonstrations after the appearance of antigovernment leaflets signed "Duarte," the pseudonym of Alvaro Cunhal, general secretary of the outlawed Portuguese Communist party. Unconfirmed reports said Cunhal recently slipped back into Portugal after two years in Moscow.

In Lisbon, large numbers of security forces were waiting when the first group of workers crossed the Tagus River on ferry boats to protest Salazar's 32-year rule. The demonstrators surged into the waterfront streets and an estimated 2,500 of them massed in Black Horse Square, the center of government ministries. Hundreds of police and troops moved in to disperse them. The fighting raged for three hours.

Troops and police fought with clubs and water hoses and some reportedly fired in the air.

At least 17 demonstrators and two police were reported hospitalized, several with gunshot wounds. Witnesses reported dozens of demonstrators were arrested.

Security forces then cleared the area of traffic and pedestrians, ordered cafes and night clubs closed early and mounted machine guns on rooftops. Despite armed patrols antigovernment elements wrecked lampposts and broke windows in Lisbon's east end late into the night.

Eight persons were reported hospitalized and 30 others arrested in Oporto, site of several recent antigovernment demonstrations.

An estimated 2,000 police had herded would-be demonstrators away from the downtown area during the day, but they returned after dark and began taunting police. Police charged the crowd with clubs. Smaller outbursts continued in other parts of Oporto. An informant reported, "The city looks like an armed camp."

Powell Show Of Special Interest On Two Counts

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Dick Powell Show on NBC Tuesday night "Savage Sunday" was of special interest on two counts.

It was a pilot film, on the strength of which a network series for next season was sold, to be called "Saints and Sinners." It was also the first television return to the newspaper drama since the good old days of "The Big Story" and those stirring sagas about Steve Wilson, intrepid editor.

Speaking as an old newspaper hand, it gives me great pleasure to report that, judging from the preview, "Saints and Sinners" occasionally will show reporters reporting and writing.

In the other half-hour shows there just wasn't time for this realistic touch. The heroes were much too busy rescuing fair maidens and trapping vicious murderers to bother with typewriters, deadlines or even telephones.

The characters haven't changed much over the years. Nick Adams plays the usual brash young reporter, complete with a belted trenchcoat. There's the tough city editor with the heart of gold and, of course, the aging, ailing rewrite man. On top of all this, there was a rather familiar story about a naive girl assaulted and derailed by a pair of drunken ruffians.

Burt Lancaster isn't the only one walking out of "PM," late evening show. Mike Wallace, the host, is pulling out June 22 and the show is folding.

Anne Bancroft, a performer who can do anything from serious dramatic acting to singing and dancing, will be back on still another Perry Como show—May 23. Her guest appearances have been so frequent she's almost a program regular now.

CBS has apparently stalled on putting the projected "TV Tonight" variety hour into its next season's lineup, so it is not at all certain that Dennis Weaver will quit "Gunsmoke" after all.

Weaver, who plays Chester, earlier was reported to be leaving the horse opera even if he failed to land as head man in a variety hour. One thing sure, he'd be hard to replace.

Not all the perils of television are over-exposure—being seen too often. There is such a thing as being heard too much—a fate that may be rapidly overcoming Alexander Scourby, whose rich, mellow and highly identifiable voice seems to be heard more than any other on television.

Scourby is, by far, the most popular choice for narrator on those programs which require a fine, smooth dramatic voice—although they rarely show his face. He also does the voice part of a seemingly endless number of different commercials—from mouth washes to automobiles.

Recommended tonight: "Joey Bishop Show," NBC, 8:30-9 (EDT)—Milton Berle is guest star; "A Man for Oona," CBS, 10-11—Tallulah Bankhead in a comedy.

CARDINAL DEPARTS
NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman left by plane for Rome Tuesday night to attend the central preparatory commission for the Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church.

Symphony Band To Give Concert

The East Carolina Symphonic Band, appearing in its annual spring concert Thursday, will present a series of numbers chosen for both musical excellence and popular appeal. The program, directed by Herbert L. Carter of the faculty, will take place at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium and will be open to the public.

The concert will be a major attraction of the 1962 Fine Arts Festival in Greenville. Members of the band will appear on the stage in formal attire. Women will wear pastel evening dresses, and men will appear in tuxedos.

Opening selection will be "Overture for Band" by Dr. Martin Mallman, composer in residence at East Carolina. The work is a 1962 composition by Dr. Mallman and is one of several of his works performed at the college during the present school year.

Vincent Persichette, well known teacher, composer, and author, who was a guest at the college during the recent N. C. Contemporary Composers Festival will be represented by his "Symphony for Band." Also included on the program will be the "Good Friday Spell" from Wagner's "Parsifal" and "Jupiter" from Gustav Holst's "The Planets." Described by Mr. Carter as an "audience-pleaser" in lighter vein, Don Gillis's "Tulsa, A Symphonic Portrait in Oil" will close the program. The four sections of the work depict the land before the white man came; the settlement of the country; the bringing in of an oil well; and, as finale, a jovial celebration including a shirt-tail parade and a square dance.

Prisoner And Printer Apparently Aided Wrecking Counterfeit Ring

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A man serving a federal prison sentence and a Jacksonville printer apparently were the key men in helping Secret Service men break a huge counterfeiting ring here last month.

This was indicated today in details set forth in indictments returned at New Bern Tuesday by a federal grand jury against Earl Baysden, a Jacksonville businessman, and four others arrested here April 22 in a two-state crackdown.

The five will be tried at the May 23 term of Eastern District federal court at New Bern. In addition to Baysden, the others are Clemmie Humphrey and Norwood Whaley, both of Richlands; Edward D. Sparrow of Kinston, and Edward E. Thorpe of Richmond, Va.

James Mathew Walsh, now serving a prison term at the federal reformatory at Lewisburg, Pa., is named as a co-conspirator but not indicted in the true bills returned Tuesday.

Baysden, Whaley, Sparrow and Thorpe are charged in 14 counts of violating Title 18 of the U.S. Code, sections 471, 472, 474 and 475. These deal with conspiracy to print, possess and circulate counterfeit money, and with possession of a device to falsify or imprint the U.S. Treasury seal.

Walsh is mentioned throughout the indictment as having worked with Baysden and the others as "an expert printer."

Also mentioned in the indictments as a material witness is Alvin Raymond Sroufe, a Jacksonville printer. In an affidavit attached to the indictments, Sroufe said Baysden brought him $100,000 in counterfeit $20 bills along with ink and engraved plates of U.S. Treasury seals, and asked him to imprint serial numbers and the Treasury seal on the bills.

The indictment says the plot began on March 8, 1961, when Thorpe purchased two reams of "Crane's Crest" 16 pound, 8 1/2-by-10 bond paper from the Everett Waddy Co. in Richmond, Va., and had the paper shipped to himself via bus to Goldsboro.

On May 23, 1961, the indictment says, "Thorpe purchased a 16-inch 'Challenge' paper cutter from Graphico Ink, Inc., in Richmond. He paid $100 cash down on the cutter and ordered it shipped to himself at Jacksonville, via motor freight.

From May 23 to July 1, 1961, Thorpe purchased miscellaneous printing supplies such as sensitized plates and etching acids from Graphico, Inc. He paid for them in cash and gave a Jacksonville address.

The indictment says Thorpe and another person sold a Model 221 Davidson Press to Graphico on July 12, 1961. It was this press, the indictment charges, that Sparrow, Whaley, Thorpe and Baysden used to print about $600,000 worth of counterfeit $20 bills.

Walsh entered the picture on Feb. 7, 1962, according to the indictment. On instructions from Thorpe, Walsh came to Jacksonville from Richmond and represented himself to Baysden as a skilled printer. Baysden sought Walsh's advice in putting serial numbers and seals on a large quantity of counterfeit $20 bills.

Walsh apparently outlined printing requirements, the indictment said, because Baysden later contacted several persons in Jacksonville in an attempt to obtain money with which to buy equipment to print the serial numbers. The indictment says Baysden carried at least six of the bogus $20 bills with him in making these contacts.

Still later, Walsh, at Baysden's request, examined a "Craftool Printmaker" delivered by Whaley. Walsh and Whaley also inspected approximately 30,000 counterfeit $20 bills (worth $600,000), the indictment says, "and determined that about 2,000 of said bills were not of satisfactory quality."

The "Craftool" printmaker apparently wasn't the machine needed for the job, the indictment continued, for on Feb. 7, Walsh and Whaley took the machine in one of Baysden's trucks to Richmond and attempted to sell or trade it to Graphico Ink, Inc. They failed to reach an agreement and Walsh and Whaley returned to Jacksonville and told Baysden they would need $3,300 to get the proper equipment.

On Feb. 20, the indictment says, Baysden and Thorpe purchased two "Sunum" numbering machines from Graphico.

The indictment says that Baysden first contacted the local printer, Sroufe, on Feb. 1, and propositioned him to print serial numbers and the treasury seal on about $600,000 worth of $20 notes.

On April 14 of this year, the indictment says, Baysden delivered to Sroufe about $100,000 in counterfeit notes, along with engraved plates, ink and printing seals and serial numbers.

Sroufe says in an affidavit attached to the indictments that Baysden took the bills from a suitcase in the trunk of his car. "When I took them from the trunk I saw there were more of the same remaining there."

It was this $100,000 in bogus bills that federal agents seized when Baysden and the others were arrested.

Pitt County Students On ECC Honors Lists Are Announced

Three lists of students at East Carolina who have received official recognition from the College because of their excellent records in academic work during the winter quarter of the present school year have been announced.

Included on the lists are the names of 702 students, of whom 230 are men and 472 are women. North Carolinians number 637 and students from outside the state 65.

Fifty-four men and women who made the grade of "A" on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college, received top honors for scholastic achievement in an "All A's" List. The Dean's List and the Honor Roll include the names of students whose work was considered worthy of special mention and commendation.

The Dean's List, including 194 students, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two and one-half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below "C". These students did superior academic work.

The Honor Roll, with 454 represented, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour of all work taken, with no grade below "C". The work completed by these students was well above average.

Pitt County is represented on the honors lists as follows:

College Choir Elects Officers For 1962-63

The East Carolina College Choir has elected a new slate of officers for the 1962-1963 school term, Gordon Johnson, director of the college choir and faculty member in the music department has announced. Each officer will assume his duties during the middle of May.

Terry M. Coley of Belmont, nominated from the floor and receiving the highest vote, was elected as president.

Other officers are Brett Watson of Darlington Heights, Va., vice president; Kay Wiggs of Selma, secretary; and Becky Forbes of Williamston, treasurer.

An ensemble of fifty student vocalists, the East Carolina College Choir appeared in concert in seven towns and cities of North and South Carolina during their Ninth Annual Tour in March. During a recent meeting, it was decided that the choir will also appear in concert in Virginia next spring.

Jackie Sporting Cleopatra Style

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy is sporting a modified Cleopatra style hairdo, and the White House says it's no wig.

The First Lady showed up at the Capitol Tuesday for the annual luncheon of the Senate wives Red Cross unit. She was wearing her hair wide and bouffant at the sides, but there were no bangs.

She wore a small black velvet bow in front to go with her gray and white houndstooth checked suit.

One Senate wife wondered if it might not be a wig. There also were reports when Mrs. Kennedy visited Pakistan and India that she might be taking along a wig to ease her coiffure problems.

The White House denied the presence of a wig on the trip. It denied Tuesday's wig rumor, too.

BEAUTY IS WED

NEW YORK (AP)—Television personality Bess Myerson and Arnold N. Grant, a New York lawyer, were married Tuesday.

Miss Myerson, 37, was Miss America of 1945. Grant, 54, is a trustee of Syracuse University. It was the second marriage for both.
