U.S. Reported Willing To Share Nuclear Warheads With Allies

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization launched its spring meeting today amid reports the United States was willing to share control of its nuclear warheads in Western Europe with a politically strong European union including Britain.

Qualified Western sources described the U.S. position as a new approach to the years-old discussion of giving the 15-nation alliance an independent nuclear striking force.

Foreign ministers will open a three-day review of the allied defense position Friday.

Western source reported that Washington now was using nuclear armament as an inducement to the six nations — all NATO members — to get on with their political negotiations and to include Britain.

Spacemen Glenn, Titov Meet; Tour Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spacemen John H. Glenn Jr. and Gherman S. Titov met today for the first time and then took a tourist's turn around Washington, exchanging philosophy and a few jokes as they went.

Glenn and Titov start the day bright and early by registering at National Academy of Sciences for an international meeting on space research where both will speak later.

After meeting President Kennedy at the White House, Titov and Glenn will lunch together at the State Department, attend a space meeting, then hold a news conference and wind up the day at a reception given by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Only two fingers are envisioned in the concept of American partnership with the European political union that is the ultimate aim of the six-nation European Common Market. A qualified Washington (AP)—The meeting between the two space conquerors was a no-ceremony affair, and the tour was carried out as simply.

The Glens plan to go wherever Titov wants and may drop in to see Congress in action as well as inspect the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and other sightseeing standbys.

He kidded photographers for taking so much time to get his picture outside the theater, telling them through an interpreter a good reporter needs only a second.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first transmission of a television picture between two points on the earth by bouncing the signal off an orbiting satellite was announced today by the Air Force.

With their wives, the spacemen had coffee, then registered for the International Council of Scientific Unions where both had speaking dates later in the day.

Glenn laughed when the translation came to him and replied there is a joke among American spacemen that the needle-like monument "would never get off the pad."

He kidded photographers for taking so much time to get his picture outside the theater, telling them through an interpreter a good reporter needs only a second.

The distance between the two land points is about 2,700 miles, but the signal, traveling up to the orbiting satellite and back to earth, traveled 3,000 to 4,000 miles.

At the Lincoln Memorial, Glenn pointed out the inscriptions on the walls, saying when he came to the Gettysburg Address, "It's very short."

As in the first two tests, the device Wednesday was dropped from a plane. But it was at least twice as strong as either of the earlier shots.

Quality of the first picture was not good. It looked somewhat like a badly adjusted home TV receiver, with "snow." But the picture shown to newsmen today—a lettered card with the initials M.I.T.—was entirely recognizable.

Three Registered Yorkshire gilts were distributed yesterday among three Pitt County 4-H Club members, Negro Agricultural Agent Leroy James announced.

At the National Archives, as the spacemen stood before the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, the crowd grew quiet.

As in the first two tests, the device Wednesday was dropped from a plane. But it was at least twice as strong as either of the earlier shots.

Recognition for all advancements among Pitt County scouts attained since Jan. 1 will be made at the outdoor evening affair.

The Registered Swine Show will be held in October. Prizes will be awarded to 4-Hers exhibiting the top pigs.

In free moments the two hope to talk shop—to learn what the other experienced in his journey around the earth.

Washington authorities are sensitive to demands from overseas for an end to nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Thus officials say that efforts to improve detection equipment for all types of tests will be pressed.

Washington (AP)—The U.S. Department of Commerce backed, with two reservations, President Kennedy's trade expansion program and then heard a sharp attack on the Kennedy administration before winding up its 50th annual meeting.

The measure would require television set manufacturers shipping in interstate commerce to provide for reception of the 70 ultra high frequency channels as well as for the 12 very high frequency channels most commonly used.

Sanford Commends Choice Of Edwards For ARA Office

RALEIGH—Gov. Sanford today commended the U. S. Department of Commerce's Area Redevelopment Administration for its appointment of Charles S. Edwards, former Farmville mayor, as ARA coordinator for North Carolina.

The ARA was created by Congress in a May, 1961, act and is designed to provide "seed-corn" money to match local funds in starting new enterprises in designated areas suffering from high unemployment or low incomes.

Seven N. C. county projects have been submitted for approval by ARA. Two of these, in Cumberland and Madison Counties, have received ARA approval.

Gardening Today News And Notes From Grifton

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
 Irises and azaleas are two of our garden favorites.
 Grass is the green completion of every landscape plan. Plant multiplication is an interesting gardening procedure. Perennials make for cut flowers and background. Dogwood are one of the markers on spring's highway. The questions today deal with these plants.

Irises and Roses
 Mrs. Peg Haiswood, has questions dealing with these favorites as well as steps in multiplication of azaleas.

Q. How do you boost the blooming of irises?

A. Get them off to a good start. Work soil deeply. Put a little well-decayed cow manure into subsoil. Fork some bone meal into topsoil. Plant irises in July or through to September. Plant flat and half cover rhizomas. Top dress annually with leaf mold or decayed compost. Apply this in the fall. Keep faded flowers cut off. After frost cut off and burn old foliage. When flowers start to get smaller or fewer in number, lift and divide plants.

Q. When do you fertilize roses?

A. Use a small amount of commercial fertilizer each month up until September. Many roses have been killed by over feeding. Give plenty of water—don't let foliage get wet. Do not use fertilizer until plant is well established.

Q. How do you get grass to grow on semi-shaded spot? What kind to plant?

A. If you have tried several times and failed—plant a ground cover. Fescue does well in a semi-shaded area. Feed trees before you plant grass. Grass can't stand competition with the many roots of a tree.

Rooting Azalea

Q. How do you root azalea?
 A. When wood has hardened up (mid July) and snaps when you bend twig—this is the time to root azaleas. Clip off about 4 inches of terminal growth. Place cuttings in a plastic bag. Make cutting in early morning. Take only the amount of cutting that you plan to stick in that day.

Put about 4 inches of a mixture of sharp sand and peat moss in a flower flat. Insert cutting and keep moist, but do not keep rooting medium too soggy. Expose cutting to light about 8 hours a day. After this time put under cover of plastic, burlap or cheesecloth. More elaborate rooting beds can be constructed of building block, brick, etc. A mist system on large beds is the best, but for flats, use sprinkling can or hose with fine mist nozzle. A book on plant propagation should be helpful.

Q. When and how to plant perennial flower seed?

A. Plant in fall. Prepare seed bed on well drained area—pick place where it will get enough sunlight. Spread two inches of well rotted manure and 10 pounds of bone meal to every 100 sq. ft. Spade this into a depth of one foot. Sow seed—read and follow directions as to depth etc.

Mulch

Q. What is the best native mulch?

Miss Escalona AAUW Speaker

The American Association of University Women, Greenville branch, met Monday evening in the Alumni House of East Carolina College at six o'clock.

The hostess committee, comprised of Dr. Kathleen Stokes, chairman, Dr. Hermine Carraway, Dr. Kathleen Dunlop, Mrs. Daniel Taylor, and Mrs. J. E. Winslow, served coffee, nuts, and lemon chiffon pie from a table centered with an arrangement of yellow and white gladiolas.

Dr. Mildred Southwick, chairman of the Status of Women Committee, was in charge of the program, and she presented Miss Julia Escalona of the Foreign Language Department of East Carolina College. Miss Escalona spoke on the status of women in Chile, reviewing their history, social classes, and economic conditions. Her theme, "Woman is a naturally curious and stubborn creature wherever she is found," was interestingly and informatively brought out.

Das War, Indeed!

BERLIN—(WNS)—There is a rash of new phonograph records of songs about Lady Chatterly and her lover, mostly inoffensive. The latest is "Das War die Lady Chatterly," sung in three-four time by a group called "The Shocker Kings." The lyrics tell of a poor little rich girl who can't get along with her husband and turns to his gamekeeper for solace. No smut.

Q. Can you prune a gardenia bush? If so, when and how?

A. Yes. Anytime during growing season. Remove weak wood and cut flower back to next leaf when using in house as cut flower. Gardenias don't take up water when cut from stem and wrapped in wet tissue for indoor use.

Q. Does it hurt the dogwood tree to cut off branches?

A. No. Cut out only weak, diseased, dead or interfering branches in normal pruning. For indoor use cut back to node or leaf.

Reorganization To Meet The Future

Reorganization of the State Board of Higher Education is a matter which will be finally determined by the 1963 legislature, but there can be no doubt now that leaders in education in North Carolina feel that the best interest of high education in the state can best be served by the reorganization.

By a vote of 6 to 3 yesterday two subcommittees of the Governor's Commission on Education beyond the High School affirmed their early recommendation that sweeping changes be made in the Board of Higher Education. Under the new plan the Board would be increased from the present nine to 15 members, seven of whom would be either presidents or representatives of colleges, one from the State Board of Education and seven laymen.

It is a reorganizational step which is logical by every standard if North Carolina is to make the progress it should in the field of higher education. It would make the Board of Higher Education considerably more effective as a body for coordinating the work carried out by the various institutions of higher learning in North Carolina. It would at the same time represent a much more realistic approach to the matter of evaluating on an individual and collective basis the needs of North Carolina's colleges and universities.

The State Board of Higher Education in the past has been accused often of acting as a detriment to the progress of state supported colleges and universities in developing needed programs to serve the needs of the state. It often assumed the role of a regulatory rather than a coordinating body among the institutions of higher learning in North Carolina. Top college officials in North Carolina often found themselves being put in the position of having to challenge decisions of the Board of Higher Education in order to meet the essential needs of institutions of higher learning in North Carolina.

The proposed reorganization would make the Board of Higher Education a better coordinating group and at the same time it would provide sufficient safeguard of the public interest by having almost equal representation from the institutions and from the public.

In the years immediately ahead the colleges of North Carolina face a major challenge to meet the increasing demands for higher education on the part of the young people of North Carolina. These needs can only be met through careful coordination among the institutions and sufficient support from the people of the state as well as officials.

It is our firm conviction that the best interest of North Carolina, its citizens and its educational institutions will be served by the proposed reorganization of the State Board of Higher Education. The legislature, when it convenes early next year, should give its approval to the reorganization plan.

Asking Too Much And Offering Too Little

Administration trouble in getting its farm bill reported out of committee indicates a determination on the part of some agricultural interests of the nation that they must not have to face up to a choice between having price supports together with production controls, or having no production controls and no price supports.

It reflects an effort on the part of some of these interests to maintain the present situation in which price supports on many commodities are mandatory from the government while the government has no voice in the amount of the commodities produced by the farmers. Such a situation can only lead to continual increase in the already staggering surpluses of some farm commodities and an increasingly costly machinery for storing these surpluses.

In many instances it seems that producers of commodities want to be guaranteed basic prices for what they produce, but they likewise want a free hand in determining how much of a particular commodity they produce. They shout about government restrictions on their production, but they demand price supports for their crops. They put forth the argument that the government should not interfere in production, but that it has the responsibility to guarantee prices of crops regardless of the demand for them.

If the government is expected to guarantee a floor under prices for agricultural products, it should be expected to put a ceiling on production to keep the latter within realistic bounds. The present administration farm bill would leave it to the producers of the various commodities to determine whether the course of no supports and no controls would be followed or whether a program of supports with controls would be followed.

It seems to us that many agricultural interests are asking too much of the government and their fellow taxpayers to demand price supports without any control on production.

Placing Role Of Responsibility

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's policy with big unions and big industry — suggesting the kind of contract they should sign — has been a form of government interference. Now it has borne new fruit.

In the recent steel negotiations his policy could be considered indirect interference. He simply suggested a noninflationary contract which would not trigger a spiral of wage-price increases.

That he would stick the government's nose into labor-management negotiations even that much was resented by some people. His excuse for doing so was this: Since big unions and big industries affect the public welfare, when they raise prices and wages they have a responsibility to consider the public.

Tuesday night at the White House the President's Advisory Committee on Labor and Management — composed of representatives of labor, industry, the public, and government — made recommendations going farther than Kennedy.

It proposed changing the present Taft-Hartley Act so that when a labor-management dispute threatens to cause a national emergency — by ultimate strike or lockout — the President can do this: Set up a board which, after studying the situation, will recommend the terms of settlement. The T-H law doesn't go that far. The board provided for under T-H can only report facts, it can't recommend.

How did this committee, particularly since it has labor and management members, come to suggest that the government be given even more power than it has now to settle union-industry disputes?

It bought what Kennedy has been preaching and, in so doing, backed him up. It said that collective bargaining must be free but it must also be responsive to the public interest. Collective bargaining has never been absolutely free in this country since the passage of the Wagner Labor Act in 1935. For instance, that law said employers must bargain with a union representing its employees.

So a company was not free to bargain. Then in 1947 the Taft-Hartley Act took away some more freedom. For example, by laying down various rules and regulations as stumbling blocks to big strikes.

All this was done in the public interest and to protect both labor and management from each other's atrocities. Democrats and Republicans voted for it. Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio was its father.

Since then, as with so many conditions involving American freedom, public and congressional vigilance has been directed against diminishing labor-management freedom except where considered necessary for the general welfare.

From the foundation of the republic, when any question of government interference with any kind of freedom is involved, the big dispute always spins around the basic question: Is it necessary?

In this case the President's committee — which proposed other T-H changes also — thinks it is for the sake of the general welfare. Henry Ford II, a member of the committee, disagreed.

He opposed almost all the suggested changes and particularly said that "fact-finding boards with power to recommend terms of settlement would be both unjustified and unwise."

He added: "I believe that collective bargaining must be free and responsible, not free if responsible."

The rest of the committee made it plain it disagrees with those last four words by its recommendations which are intended to keep labor and management responsible by making them a little less free.

The Wagner Act and the T-H Act are evidence that the public, acting through Congress, is determined to keep labor and management responsible to some extent by putting controls on the actions and procedures of both.

Strange Dances Abound

The twist isn't the only interesting dance these days. There is something that looks like a chicken scratching the ground that is called the "Mashed Potato" (and rightly so). Then there's the "Continental" which is a civilized square dance routine. And the Limbo, but that's pure native really. And others... they'll all come and go.

Pretty soon they'll be calling a dance the "Bid John" and it'll be patterned after the President scratching his ailing back... or they'll have a dance called "The Swan" or "The Tease" after Jackie's hairdos.

Some other interesting innovations in the way of the dance might be "Fallout" or "Steel Beams."

Somebody pointed to a news story the other day that said a building "took fire," commenting he thought usually buildings caught fire or were set on fire. Well, it was a little unusual for that particular building to "take" fire, we guess.

A boy's father called long distance urgently; left word for the son to call immediately collect. The young man, finding the message, suspected a minor catastrophe at home. But, in the end, it was a fig tree the father wanted son to purchase and deliver to him.

We had occasion to know a person who has gone around telling club friends that he has voted for them in club elections. Well, somebody evidently had watched him tell this to several people then rared back and confronted him with: "I heard you tell that to two men who were running for the same office."

A man called all the way from Pennsylvania Wednesday morning and wanted to talk to somebody about the weather, so we accommodated him. He was on his way to the North Carolina mountains and wanted to know what the weather was in this here parts—cool, warm or what. It's not everyday we get that kind of call, but we sure hope the weather stays like we told him it was supposed to.

Nobody quite understood our attitude, not even our closest allies, particularly as we helped to break up the empires of our friends while we strengthened former foes and supported unfriendly neutrals. It was particularly impossible to grasp the meaning of our policy toward Soviet Russia and Red China. Toward the former, we seemed to be obsessed by a policy of disengagement which lacked meaning because the Russians declined to become disengaged and noted the discussion on this subject as another indication of capitalistic cowardice and degeneracy. The advocates of disengagement were countered by increasing entanglement in European, Asian and African affairs.

Strength For Today

Oh, the wonderful days of youth! There are, of course, some wonderful things about the days of youth. All of us look back on youthful years with a certain sensation of nostalgia. Yet it is probably true that most of us who have lived through the greater part of our lives would not go back to youth again if we had the opportunity to do so. There is no struggle in life greater than the struggle in which youth is continually engaged. Teenagers, apparently so self-confident and adequate, are usually miserable with a knowledge of their inadequacy and the fear they have that they may make some ridiculous mistake.

Insecurity is the bane of adolescence. Youngsters at this age do not appear to be insecure, but they are. They tremble, they perspire, they fidget, they yell out their opinions and try to make everyone — including themselves — believe that they are wise and their elders foolish, that they are completely adequate to every situation. Behind closed doors they bite their fingernails and weep over a sense of inadequacy.

If you have passed through the period of youth without too many casualties, thank God, and keep your eye on the future. There are more real satisfactions in life after thirty than there can possibly be before thirty.

Pray God to bless young people, but don't be so foolish as to want to be a younger person again yourself and have your life to live over. You are fortunate that you got through as well as you did.

Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR:

P.T.A.—three letters standing for the words Parent Teacher Association. To one just learning English this would imply an organization that was interested in matters of school and relations between teachers and parents. One would visualize problems of dating, studying, curfews, and telephone control of teenagers being worked out for the betterment of future citizens. You would think that parents were working together to cut down on teenagers petting, irresponsible behavior, and disregard for a need to study.

Being the mother of five children, two of whom are in school, and the wife of a high school teacher, plus a member of a P. T. A. group, I know different. We know that such trivial problems such as I have just mentioned are left up to the teenagers. We parents and teachers are more concerned with weightier problems—what is going on "up town."

I understand that next year the suggested programming for P. T. A. groups in N. C. is going to be more community in nature. But if the P. T. A. is going to work on community problems, who is going to work out problems which should concern teachers and parents?

The April 20, 1962 edition of Time magazine under the section of Modern Living there is an article entitled "Youth" that is enough to make one sick! I was pleased to note that in Charlotte, N. C., steps are being taken to countermand the growing trend toward letting children work out their social problems alone.

I wonder why mothers who get the "Well, Susie's mother lets her..." line don't ever bother to call Susie's mother and have a heart to heart discussion with her. Bett's mother would probably find that Susie was just saying to her mother, "Well, Bett's mother lets her..."

But suppose that Bett's mother did call only to find that Susie's line was busy? Susie's mother is too busy trying to solve some question that should be left up to the city council. So the two girls end up going to some social event, that is just like twenty thousand other parties, that should never have happened, and end up on class the next day unprepared for lessons, too tired to pay attention, and with a stomach too full of junk to desire a well balanced lunch.

Report cards come out and Bett has low grades. Her mother dashes to the principal's office with the complaint that Mr. English Teacher is too hard, his material is way above the children's head. (Here is another "wonder question": Why don't these mothers ever go to see the teacher in question, personally?) So what is the principal to do? He can't tell Mrs. Doe that the trouble is because she is trying to keep up with Mrs. Jones. He'd find himself without a job.

The only answer is for the parents and teachers to work together in matters of study habit, recommendations for social activities, and classroom activities.

We teacher's families cannot work this out alone, we need your help. Please, won't you help us. Parents of Greenville, and leave the city council and civic groups to work on community problems?

Book Publishing Industry Grows

By ELMER ROESSNER

Growth industries are usually new industries but, as Goodbody & Co. point out, one of the oldest industries in the world is in a period of dynamic growth. In the last ten years its growth has far surpassed that of the general economy.

The Goodbody opinion is that the industry "is not a large one" since its total sales last year were about $1.4 billion. "More than a score of our large corporations have sales in excess of the entire book publishing industry," it adds.

Goodbody's research study of the book publishing field finds that "the field of education is one of the most dynamic markets for the publishers." School enrollment has been rising at all age levels and at present there are 34,488,000 youngsters between 5 and 13 in the population; 12,900,000 in the 12 to 17 group and 10,691,000 in the 18 to 21 group.

OTHER FACTORS BOOM PUBLISHING

Population is not the full reason for the great growth of publishing. An important factor is the determination of a higher percentage of young people to attain higher education, partly because family income permits it, partly because more scholarships and loans are available, and partly because greater emphasis on education to keep ahead of the Russians.

"Many areas of book publishing, other than textbooks, have shown considerable growth also," Goodbody found. "Publishers of children's books have poured forth a great number of attractive and imaginatively created books. Higher family incomes have contributed to a tripling in encyclopedias sales in less than a decade."

And that's not all. Among the other factors cited are: The trend toward scientific teaching in elementary grades. More teaching of foreign languages at elementary levels. The increase in subjects taught at high school level.

PROGRAMMED INSTRUCTION

The introduction of new teaching methods such as programmed instruction and "teaching machines."

The addition of audio-visual aids and supplementary texts. The wider use of workbooks, flash cards, maps and globes. The increased use of later developments, such as films, video tapes and recordings.

The greater use of encyclopedias is also noted, with this observation: "Competition is not so much against other encyclopedias as it is for good salesmen." Supermarkets, it adds, have become a rich new outlet for encyclopedias.

CHILDREN'S TRADE BOOKS RISE

While paperbacks are not popular as textbooks, because of their short life, students are "perhaps the most avid buyers of paperbacks." Paper book stores, common in the East, are spreading across the country. The rise in demand for children's books and trade books. Over half the titles published each year are trade books. The Goodbody study covers

Image Gains Clarity

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The United States was recognized beyond question as the leading nation in the world during and after World War II. It was recognized by friend and foe that but for the intervention of the United States, the Allies could not have won that war. However, at the Tehran and Yalta Conferences, American delegations proved themselves not to be as capable as the Russians, although the Russians were, at the moment, dependent upon the United States. Stalin, at every turn, outwitted Roosevelt, as the documents and the subsequent course of events have proved.

Subsequent to World War II, the image of the United States became blurred. Although, with a generosity unequalled in history, the United States poured out its wealth to rebuild friend and foe, the image of the United States suffered not only because of the competence of Russian propaganda and organized Communism, but also because whatever gave the appearance of policy also gave the appearance of weakness. Gifts beyond the imagination of rulers were translated into bribes so that nation after nation demanded that "no political strings be attached" to the benefactions, a demand as impudent as it was absurd.

Instead of rejecting such demands as insults, the United States almost begged countries to accept its aids and grants and supported neutrals and even pro-Communist countries against its own interests. This was not accepted as Christian virtue or capitalistic benevolence but rather as weakness and stupidity and insults were hurled at us, not only upon us as a nation, but upon our President and Vice President.

Such an historical absurdity as the Korean War forced nation after nation to revise its judgement of the United States and most judged us unfavorably. The removal of General Douglas MacArthur damaged American prestige throughout Asia, just as the emergence of Castro in Cuba damaged us throughout Latin America.

Nobody quite understood our attitude, not even our closest allies, particularly as we helped to break up the empires of our friends while we strengthened former foes and supported unfriendly neutrals. It was particularly impossible to grasp the meaning of our policy toward Soviet Russia and Red China. Toward the former, we seemed to be obsessed by a policy of disengagement which lacked meaning because the Russians declined to become disengaged and noted the discussion on this subject as another indication of capitalistic cowardice and degeneracy. The advocates of disengagement were countered by increasing entanglement in European, Asian and African affairs.

As regards Red China, the assumption that the internecine ideological quarrel within the Soviet Universal State meant that Russia and Red China were on the brink of war evoked laughter among Communists. And when one heard that experts so believe, it was only possible to inquire who such experts are. The absurdity of the assumption gave much comfort to Khrushchev who, basing himself upon it, took a continually stronger attitude toward the United States.

What Khrushchev and all others did not understand is the cold Irish anger of a Kennedy. This needs to be seen to be understood and it runs through the breed. No Kennedy likes to be taken for granted and many politicians are already noting that characteristic in the President who beneath a suave veneer is a tough guy.

Although the President hates war, he hates an indignity more. The Russians adopted an attitude that it is correct for them to test 50 or more bombs but that not only is the United States forbidden to do any testing at all, but that international inspection and control is forbidden. In a word, Khrushchev's attitude is identical with Stalin's.

Thinks Railroad Outlook Better

RALEIGH (AP) — The president of Norfolk Southern Railway Co. says he believes the railroad "has turned one of those historical 'corners' and is headed for better times."

Henry Oetjen told the annual stockholders meeting of the railroad Wednesday the firm's first quarter reports this year "were even more favorable than we had anticipated."

The railroad had a deficit during the period of $21,032 compared with a deficit of $123,911 for the same period last year.

The meeting was the first at the company's new headquarters here.

Re-elected to three-year terms as directors were George C. Demas, William F. Knorr and Wilson Nolen.

Oetjen was re-elected president.

Scotland was called Caledonia by the Romans.

Sokolsky ....

plenty of time—in my judgment too much time—but when he struck back it was done to make Khrushchev look foolish. Even those nations that protested American testing were weak in their expression. No significant American resistance was expressed.

The American image now stands out clear against the sky. It is the image of a nation dignified and unafraid. It is the image of a nation that has a program and the will to carry it to a conclusion, whether that conclusion be a treaty for a peaceful settlement of outstanding issues or war. And war it well might be.

President Kennedy has, on balance, gained in strength domestically and internationally because he has indicated that patience must not be misunderstood for weakness.

East Carolina College's Symphonic Band (shown above) will appear tonight in its annual spring concert. Presented as an event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival, the program is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium and will be open to the public. Under the direction of Herbert L. Carter of the faculty, the band will perform a varied group of compositions by Dr. Martin Mallman of East Carolina College; Vincent Persichetti, noted teacher-composer and a recent visitor at the college; Richard Wagner; Don Gillis, contemporary composer; and others.

More Than A Mere Four-Leaf Clover

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer
"Does the newspaper care if I found a five-leaf clover?" a youngster's voice came over the phone.

Taken aback, the reporter replied: "Well, let's see now."

"But it's the healthiest one I ever did see," interjected the insistent young boy. "You want a picture of me and it?"

The reporter said no he didn't reckon so, but asked routinely: "Well, where did you find it?"

"Oh, Me and Timmy found it in his front yard."

This loosened him up and the whole story spilled out at once:

"We were lookin' for four-leaf clovers like we do some-times. Then we found this one."

Boy, were we lucky. If you keep it, it'll bring good luck, safe place."

The reporter wanted to know: "Have you had any good luck yet?"

"Naw," came the thoughtful answer . . . "but you got to give a chance to work. Ain't you never kept a five-leaf clover for a good-luck souvenir?"

The reporter said he "hadn't never" been that lucky. Then, since it was a slow afternoon, he asked where the charming clover had been filed for safekeeping.

"Oh! We got it in a box."

Man, we got that thing in a box. But we're gone put it in a book. And you better believe we're gone write down the page number."

Canada Gov't Devalues Dollar

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada devalued its dollar Wednesday night and pegged it at 92½ U.S. cents to give a boost to exports and ease the nation's chronic foreign trade deficit.

The president of the Canadian Manufacturing Association said he was delighted with the export boost but expressed surprise at the new rate, the lowest since Canada adopted a free, floating exchange rate in September 1950. The Canadian dollar had sold at 95¼ cents on the exchanges for the past two months.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming said in a statement announcing the new rate the government had taken progressive steps to bring the exchange rate down. The Canadian dollar in August 1957 was worth $1.06 in U.S. currency.

The drop in the rate is expected to give a strong boost to export earnings and to discourage import buying by raising import prices in terms of Canadian dollars.

It will mean, among other things, costlier vacation trips in the United States for Canadians and cheaper ones in Canada for American tourists.

For the government, the pegging of the dollar will mean that the government's exchange fund will have to intervene in the market by buying or selling U.S. dollars to ensure that the exchange rate doesn't move farther than one percentage point on either side of the 92½-cent rate.

The International Monetary Fund, which had been urging Canada to adopt a fixed exchange rate, issued a statement warmly welcoming the move.

The Republic of Chad proclaimed its independence in August, 1960.

Terrier Rescued By Another Dog

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A terrier named Dotty disappeared when it chased an armadillo under Carl Newcomer's house. Another dog, Scotty, ran under the house and started digging.

Half an hour later, Dotty was unearthed, still alive.

Newcomer said he believed Dotty chased the armadillo into its burrow and then scrambled out, caving in the hole on Scotty.

Says Education To Build Future

ATLANTA (AP)—North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford says education will be the foundation of his state's industrial development for the next 20 years.

Sanford also told members of the Atlanta Association of the University of North Carolina Wednesday night that he frowned on excluding out-of-state students from UNC. He said it would be "especially short-sighted, if not astigmatic," to adopt such a policy.

Sanford predicted in an interview that Rep. Charles B. Jonas R-N.C., would be defeated in the November general election.

The governor also said he thought the North Carolina Senate will redistrict itself next session. The House was reapportioned last year for the first time in three decades.

Sanford said North Carolina needs out-of-state students "as badly as they need us."

The proposal to exclude out-of-staters at the university, the governor stated, "is advanced with the utmost sincerity that we must take care of our own, and after that we may take students from other states, if any room is left. We are going to take care of our own, but that is only a part of the story."

He said the state must also look beyond its borders to recruit new faculty members for the university.

WINTERVILLE — Barbara Locke of Winterville and Amos Mills of Grimesland were crowned Senior Queen and King at the annual Pitt Negro 4-H Club Health Coronation and Dress Revue in Robinson Union School gymnasium.

Crowned Junior Queen and King were Gracie Mebane of Farmville and Benjamin Gorham of Stokes.

The 1962 Junior and Senior Kings and Queens of Health were crowned by Mrs. Hannah Brown, public health nurse.

F. H. Mebane, principal of the H. B. Suggs High School in Farmville, spoke on "The Health Accomplishments Through The Years." Approximately 600 persons attended.

Runners-up for the king and queen titles were, Junior King, Jasper Lang of Winterville Club and Jefferie Carney of Bruce-Falkland School; Junior Queen, Linda Cannon of Winterville Club and Jo Ann Brown of Sally Branch Club; Senior King, Willie Wooten of Farmville Club, Kenneth Mills of Winterville Club; Senior Queen, Dianne Hawkins of Grimesland Club and Phyllis Jones of the Farmville Club.

Mrs. Willie Hawkins, Home Demonstration Council president, presented sprays of red carnations to the Queens. Crown bearers were Harvey Strong of Haddock and Gloria Buck of the Gritton Club.

Other local kings and queens included in the court were Junior Club members Ann Dickson and Otis Bullock of Nichols; Dorothy Moore and Cary Stevenson of Simpson; Gail Ellison, Arlester Andrews, Jessie Hunter and William McCoy of Gritton; Linda F. Vance and Charles Vance of Haddock's, Nelson Tyson of Farmville; Henry Steward and Francine Raspberry of Ayden; Lenor Cherry and Jeff Mack of Bethel; Iva Hawkins and George Fermas of Grimesland; Connie Newton and Mary L. Ward of Fountain; Etta Wooten of Bruce-Falkland and Velma Robinson of Stokes.

Local Senior Club Kings and Queens were David Moore of Bethel and Peggie Perkins of Bethel.

Music selections during last night's program were rendered by the Farmville Senior 4-H Choir with Mrs. Bessie Redden, 4-H Club leader, directing. The devotion was given by Peggie Perkins of Bethel.

Also included in the program was a 4-H skit presented by the Senior Club of Bethel and a dress revue narrated by Amy Mills of Winterville with dances and songs from Falkland, Fountain and Grimesland Clubs.

Flowers were sponsored by the Pitt County Home Demonstration Council and were given to Pitt Memorial Hospital following the program.

Actor Lost Larynx To Cancer, Has New Voice

By ANDREW MEISELS

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the most that a man can lose? For a pianist, it's his hands. For an artist, it's his eyes. For an actor, it's his voice.

William Gargan, a veteran of 35 years on the stage, screen, radio and television, lost his voice, his livelihood and—he admits—even his hope, about a year ago.

But Gargan did not lose his courage, and today he can speak again; he has plans for re-entering the theater, and he is giving hope to others.

It was while appearing in "The Best Man," portraying a president of the United States who dies of cancer, that Gargan learned he had the dread disease. The cancer forced removal of his larynx—or voice box—and left the actor without the ability to speak. "God, why me?" Gargan recalls thinking. "Why my voice, which was my livelihood?"

But Gargan didn't give up. Five weeks after his operation, he began taking lessons sponsored by the American Cancer Society to learn how to speak through what is known as an esophageal voice. Through this method, air is swallowed and then erupted from the bottom of the esophagus in a manner not unlike belching. As the air comes up, a muscle at the top of the throat is vibrated to make sound, and the words are formed in the normal manner.

Gargan appeared Wednesday before a group of 14 men and women at the National Hospital for Speech Disorders.

The face was the same that had appeared in scores of movies beginning with "Rain," opposite Joan Crawford. It had been seen weekly on television playing "Martin Kane—Private Eye."

The voice, of course, was different, but it was audible and perfectly understandable.

The men and women in the room were, like Gargan and 20,000 others in the nation, without their voice boxes.

The actor stood before them and spoke. In his new-found voice, he told them that they, too, could speak. He told of his plans and, in a talk peppered with wisecracks, he urged them not to give up hope but to persevere and learn to speak again as he had. He spoke for about 10 minutes in his deep, quiet tone and then had a long interview with newsmen. He showed no sign of tiring.

Gargan, who recently appeared again as an actor on television, plans to continue his work

In the theater as an independent motion picture and television producer.

Sleep experts say the standard mattress length of 75 inches is too short for you if you are more than 5-foot-8.

Howard Powers Yanks To Win

BIG CATCH . . . Hugh Gray (left) and L. D. James of Greenville caught these nine rock in the Tar River near Grimesland Wednesday morning. Using cut herring as bait, the fish weighed from three to nine pounds. The two fishermen caught nine on Monday in less than an hour. This catch took about three hours.

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
"They can't get me out."
That's Elston Howard's credo. The rangy New York Yankee catcher doesn't say it with cockiness, but with quiet confidence. It was his simple explanation last year with his dazzling .348 average, and again this spring when he started off the season in rapid-fire style.

Now, after a slight skid, Howard is hot again. He powered the Yankees over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night, 4-3, with a ninth inning homer—his second in as many games and fourth of the season. It was the seventh successive victory for the Yankees now 2½ games to the front in the American League.

In the other AL night game, Kansas City cut loose against Detroit and outscored the Tigers 12-8. Prize rookie John Powell smashed a pair of two-run homers for Baltimore as the Orioles beat Minnesota 6-5 Wednesday afternoon. Bad weather knocked out the two other games on the schedule—Boston at Washington and Los Angeles at Cleveland.

In the National League—San Francisco ran its winning string to eight, edging Pittsburgh 3-2. St. Louis tripped Houston 4-1 and Chicago snapped a losing slump at seven games with a 3-1 decision over Los Angeles. Cincinnati at New York and Milwaukee at Philadelphia were rained out.

White Sox rookie Joel Horlen (1-2) turned back Howard his first three times up and held the Yankees to five hits as he took a 3-2 lead into the ninth. Then Yogi Berra opened up with a double and Howard promptly cashed in on his last chance with an opposite field homer into Comiskey Park's right field seats.

Yankee starter Ralph Terry doled out only three hits but trailed 3-2 when he gave way in the seventh to Jim Coates (2-0), who checked the White Sox on one single over the last three innings. Al Smith was the nemesis for both New York pitchers with a triple, single, two runs batted in and one scored against Terry and the lone hit off Coates.

The Yankees pushed across one run off Horlen in the first on Berra's bases-loaded ground out and scored again in the sixth when Bobby Richardson singled and Roger Maris doubled.

The Athletics whacked left-hander Don Mossi (2-3) and reliever Sam Jones for 11 hits and 10 runs in four innings and wound up their barrage against Ron Kline. Giyo Cimoli kept up his belting for the A's, opening their seven-run second with a triple, climaxing it with a two-run double, and adding another double later.

All told, Kansas City banged out 15 hits—including homers by Norm Siebern and Wayne Causey. Al Kaline and Dick Brown had a homer plus two singles each for the Tigers, while Bill Bruton hit a homer and a Jake Wood counted three singles. Rookie John Wyatt (2-1) picked up the victory in relief.

Almost lost in all the slugging was Vic Wertz's fifth straight pinch hit—a single in the seventh—tying the league record.

Powell, 20, bombed his first two major league homers and decided the Orioles' close one over the Twins. He poked a 370-footer to right against southpaw Jim Kaat (1-3) in the third and gave Baltimore a 6-0 lead with a 340-foot homer to left off right-hander Ted Sadowski in the fifth. Jackie Brandt drove in the Orioles' other two runs with a bases-filled walk and a triple, and also hit a double.

Skinny Brown (1-2) was the winner with help from Dick Hall. The Twins chased Brown with a four-run spurge in the sixth and Don Mincher put them even closer with a homer off Hall in the seventh.

Fastest Start Ever For Yanks Bobby Richardson

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Richardson, sturdy second baseman for the New York Yankees and a World Series whiz at the plate the last two years, is off the fastest start of his career—he has hit safely in all of his team's 17 games.

The 26-year-old Sumter, S.C., native, one of the best leadoff men in the business, collected a pair of singles in five trips Wednesday night to boost his batting mark to a gaudy .320. He also scored a run, but it was Elston Howard's two-run homer in the ninth inning that gave the league-leading Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox to extend their winning string through seven games.

Howard's blow, with the doubling Yogi Berra on base, was his fourth homer of the campaign and came after rookie Joe Horlen had struck him out twice in succession.

"It was an outside pitch—the same he struck me out with before," said Howard.

Richardson said his hitting streak was "encouraging."

"I'm usually hitting about .300 at this time of the year," he said. "This isn't my longest streak—I had 21 going at the end of 1959—but it's my best start. I usually don't perk up at the plate until it gets hot. But I've been lucky so far—some of my hits were flukes, bloopers."

Richardson said he didn't feel any pressure in trying to keep the string alive.

"How can you build up pressure when you think of Joe DiMaggio's 56-game streak?" he smiled. "But it's encouraging."

Richardson had a .301 mark in 1959, his highest since he came to the Yankees to stay in 1957. He was .261 last year and .252 in 1960. In both of those years he had a great World Series.

Last year he tied a five-game series record by getting nine hits against Cincinnati. In the 1960 series with Pittsburgh he recorded the most runs-batted-in in a series game (6) and the most RBI's in a series (12) among other batting feats.

"His batting averages in past years may not be impressive," said Manager Ralph Houk, "but Bobby really is a great clutch hitter. If there is a man on second or third in the ninth inning, there is no one better than Richardson to have up at the plate. He would make a fine pinch hitter, but never walks, doesn't strike out much and, on defense, he seldom makes a mistake. He is a very underrated player."

Liston At Mountain Camp Site

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTH FALLSBERG, N.Y. (AP)—It was a raw, damp day in the Catskills. A chill rain splashed against the windows of the plush country club-hotel where Sonny Liston is camping out.

For the first time in his checkered career, Liston has a camp in the mountains. Although he never has devoted many hours to bird watching, he can pursue flora and fauna to his heart's content until September.

The challenger for the world heavyweight boxing title (site to be decided one of these days) arrived in this bosky dell Wednesday. His entourage included six men identified as trainer, cut man, gym helper, sparring partner, secretary and attorney. The attorney helped him answer some of the more troublesome questions from newsmen.

Jose Torres a Puerto Rican middleweight who has been—and still is, as far as is known here—a stablemate of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, was on hand to interview Sonny for a Spanish-language paper.

Did Liston consider Torres a spy?
"I know Jose for a long time," said Liston. "Look, I box (in the gym), some guys I'm going to fight."

After a short pause, he added, "Patterson can come up here, too, if he wants to."

Patterson, training some 30 or 40 miles down the road, was not expected to take advantage of the invitation.

Are you going for a knockout?
"That's my plan," said Sonny. "I'm going to cut it short. One way or the other, the fight is going to end short."

When a fellow told Sonny it was customary to pick a round when he predicts a victory, Liston said "make it three or four rounds."

Liston recently was turned down by the New York State Athletic Commission when he applied for a license. He said he wasn't surprised because he had been led to expect it.

"I don't care where we fight," he said. "I don't feel bad about being turned down in New York."

"Not when some other states showed how much they wanted you? Isn't that what you mean, Sonny?" his attorney said.

"Yeah, that's it."

"Nothing worries you, is that right?" a fellow asked.

"Uh, uh."

Derby Winners Vary In Sizes

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Derby winners, like beautiful women, come in all shapes and sizes. And it doesn't figure to be any different Saturday when a hand-picked field of 3-year-old horses break from Churchill Downs' barrier in the 38th running of the $125,000-added turf classic.

If you like your horses tall and rangy with plenty of muscle in the hind quarters and with a broad chest, then your choice for America's No. 1 glamor race should be either Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan or Fred Turner Jr.'s Sir Ribot.

At 16 hands, two inches, they are the biggest horses in the prospective field of 18 entries and 17 starters, each weighs close to 1100 pounds. They are built to go the Derby distance of 1¼ miles.

Horsemen measure a hand as 4 inches, working from the base of the foot to the top of the right shoulder.

C. T. Chenery's Sir Gaylord, the 8-5 favorite, stands around 16 hands but is not as heavy as either Ridan, the 5-2 second choice, or the well liked Sir Ribot.

If you prefer a horse slightly smaller but with all the personality of a young lady capable of matching her ability against the best of the males, then look no farther than Cicada, stablemate of Sir Gaylord. She stands 15 ¾ hands. The only drawback is that she probably will not be in the starting field.

Trainer Casey Hayes said she will be a Derby starter only if something happens to Sir Gaylord.

Smallest horses in the field, outside of Cicada, probably are Vorne Winchell Jr.'s Doot for King and Crimson Satan, the 1961 two-year-old champ from Peter Salmen's Crimson King Farm.

As the trainers paraded into the racing secretary's office this morning bearing entry fees of $250, Roscoe Goose recalled the shapes and sizes of past Derby winners. Goose who has seen Derbies as a rider or trainer since 1907 and rode Donerail to victory in 1913 for the highest derby win price in history—$1290 for $2.

"Twenty Grand (1931) probably was the biggest Derby winner," said Goose.

"Black Gold (1924) should be considered the smallest although Clyde Van Dusen (1929) didn't have much size. Determine (1954) didn't have much in the way of height but he was a chunky—more the bull dog type.

"For beauty there is no argument in my mind. The honor goes to Count Fleet (1943). Pink Star (1907) is my choice as most undistinguished looking Derby winner."

With 18 entries, and 17 starters at an additional cost of $1,250, the Derby will have a gross value of $164,650 with the winner picking up $122,150. Only one winner ever banked more, $123,450 by Needles in 1956.

Snead Seeking Champ Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sam Snead, veteran of innumerable golf wars, set out today in quest of his second straight victory in the Tournament of Champions and a major share of its $58,000 purse.

The almost 50-year-old West Virginian was slated to tee off with capable Jay Hebert in the first twosome of the initial round over the 7,000-yard par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Rough Life For Pinch Hitter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"A pinch hitter has a helluva tough life," said Vic Wertz before Wednesday night's game between the Detroit Tigers and the Kansas City Athletics, won by the A's 12-8.

Then in the seventh inning of the game, the 37-year-old Tiger veteran batted for pitcher Hank Aguirre and collected his fifth straight pinch hit, a single to left.

The hit tied the American League record, set in 1953 by Johnny Mize of the New York Yankees and equalled by Bob Hale of Cleveland in 1960. The major league record for consecutive pinch hits is eight, set by Dave Philley of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1958.

Wertz, now in his 17th season in the American League, said Wednesday pinch hitters have a rough row, explaining:

"You sit around most of a ball game and you get in the toughest part of one. Maybe your club has been going good and you haven't played for a week because you were not needed. If you're on the road you haven't had much batting practice."

"Then you get called and everything hinges on what you do."

Investigation Underway Now

NEW YORK (AP)—An investigation of boxing touched off by the death of former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret has gotten underway with closed session interviews of principals in the fatal Paret-Emile Griffith title fight.

The probe is being conducted by a state legislative committee.

BROOKMEADE AUCTION NEW YORK (AP)—The entire racing string and yearling crop of the Brookmeade stable will be sold at auction at Belmont Park on June 4 by the estate of the late Mrs. Dodge Sloane.

News, Notes From Winterville School

By ANN JACKSON
WINTERVILLE — Jimmie Merrill, first place winner in the recent Pitt County beginners' typing contest, represented the county in the District competition at East Carolina College last week. In the advanced class, Andra Wichard, who placed second in the Pitt contest, represented the county.

Along with the two winners from Winterville, Ann Cox, Ann Jackson, Carole Porter, Linda Forlines, Judy Worthington, Jasper Loftin, Nevada Harris, Bettie Dall and Winnifred Averette represented Winterville High in the county contest.

The school placed second in the county competition. Scores were tabulated on a team basis and Winterville High edged Winterville by one-twentieth of a point.

Beta Officers
 Winterville's Beta Club elected its 1962-63 officers at its monthly meeting last week.

Mary Langston succeeds Judy Lawrence as club president and Dickie Allen will serve as vice president, following the new president.

Janie Jackson and Ann Jackson will serve as secretary and treasurer, respectively, succeeding Vivian Strickland and Carolyn Barnes. Nancy Whelihan was elected reporter to succeed Eleanor Hart.

At the organizational meeting, Winterville Beta members who attended the recent State Beta Club Convention in Raleigh submitted a report describing the activities at the convention. It was noted next year's state convention will be held in Asheville.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the Senior members and the meeting was adjourned.

Honor Students
 Principal Paul Clark last week

posted Winterville's honor roll and principal's list as report cards were issued at the close of the term's fifth six-week grading period.

Three WHS students, two juniors and a freshman, qualified for the honor roll by earning grades of A on all academic work and H (Honor) on conduct.

Freshman Laura Braxton and Juniors Janie Jackson and Connie Jones achieved the school's top scholastic rating for the six-week period.

Three sophomores and a freshman comprised the principal's list. Requirements include grades of A on at least half their academic work with no grade less than B and at least S (Satisfactory) on conduct.

Seniors included Alfred Gold, Vivian Strickland and Judy Lawrence. Lynda Hall and Sara Pat Olive were the juniors. Ann Jackson, Dickie Allen and Jacquelyn Kerr represented the sophomore class and Gayle Little was the freshman qualifying for the principal's list.

Friday Concert
 Winterville's Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Milton May, has scheduled its annual Spring Concert Friday in the school auditorium. Final practice run for the concert is set for Thursday night. This one follows four afternoon rehearsals and an April 26 evening session at Mrs. May's home.

On the musical agenda Friday are the following melodies: "Carnival of Melody", "I'm on My Journey Home", "Thank the Good Lord It's Friday", "One! Two! Three!", "Jericho", "Mumbly Word", "Into the Night", "Danny Boy", "Adoramus," "The Barrendaro", "Follow Every Dream", "Aura Lee" and "Man's Best Friend Is His Horse."

Knotty Problems Before TV Emmy Award Judges

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—What kind of a yardstick can be used to decide whether "The Judy Garland Show," "Victoria Regina" or "Biography of a Bookie Joint" was the better television program?

Is it fair to judge the performances of Carol Burnett on "The Garry Moore Show" and Perry Como in the same terms and in the same category with Judy Garland, Edie Adams and Yves Montand who starred in one-shot variety specials?

Who gets the short end when voters must say whether the best television drama of the season was a series ("Ben Casey," "The Defenders," "The Dick Powell Show"), one program in an anthology series ("People Need People" in "Premiere") or an adaptation of a Broadway hit, "Victoria Regina"?

The above are among the nominations for "Emmys," the little statuette which are television's equivalent of motion pictures' "Oscars." Five nominees have been made in each of 27 different categories—result of a massive effort to reduce the total number. But the big problem—pitting programs and performers of widely varying types against each other—still remains to be solved.

Between now and May 22—when the "Emmy Show" will be presented on NBC—the 6,000 members of National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will be balloting for the winners.

But, to take the "the program of the year" category for an example, how can one say that "The Judy Garland Show," however great, was superior to "Biography of a Bookie Joint"? One was a brilliant hour of variety and singing. The other was a fine example of journalistic enterprise.

Perhaps some day the knotty awards situation can be untangled. But until then, the presentation ceremonies will continue to be—no matter how long-winded and downright dull—among the most popular programs aired. Last month's "Oscar" awards program, in spite of being a two-hour yawn, turned up at the top of the most recent Nielsen ratings, far outdistancing its closest competitor in the size of the audience it attracted.

Network television is certainly making a big fuss over visiting cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov, dragging him before cameras for interviews as often as possible, bragging about its Titov "scoops" and planning special shows.

Unfortunately, Titov is an impossible television subject.

Those lengthy "exclusive" interviews consist mostly of waiting for the interpreters to translate back and forth between English and Russian.

It would have been just as informative—and a lot more interesting if the interviewers had just reported the gist of Titov's answers while letting us see what he looked like.

Recommended tonight: "Sing Along with Mitch," NBC, 10-11 (Eastern Daylight Time) tribute to composer Irving Berlin; "CBS Reports," 10-11—"Birth Control and the Law," pros and cons on a controversial subject.

Ordeal At Sea Will End Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A harrowing, 10-day ordeal at sea was to end today for the skipper of a converted World War II sub chaser and his 13-year-old daughter.

Jeff L. Hodges, 35, of San Jose, Calif., and his daughter, Sandra, were still aboard the 107-foot, wooden-hulled Pelican as it headed towards San Francisco, under tow by the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Taney.

Hodges left Gray's Harbor, Wash., in the old craft April 22, expecting to sail down the coast to San Francisco in about a week.

But the Pelican, which hadn't been sailed for seven years, developed engine trouble and Hodges and his daughter drifted helplessly for almost 10 days.

They were located southwest of Monterey Bay, about 95 miles west of Pt. Sur—after drifting some 200 miles. When found they were nearly out of food, because high wind had blown some overboard.

But the Coast Guard said both Hodges, an experienced seafarer, and Sandra were in good shape. They did not require medical attention and elected to stay aboard the Pelican, which Hodges plans to use as a cargo vessel.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 22

Hugh Spencer sipped his coffee and told Major Tallmadge, "It won't be easy to stop all traffic from New York. Even if we had two or three regiments assigned to do nothing but catch counterfeiters, counterfeiters could get their money out of the city."

"Precisely the conclusion I reached," Tallmadge replied.

"I seem to me," Hugh said carefully, "that the only way to stop the flow is to cut it off at the source."

Tallmadge nodded, watching him intently.

"In other words, we'll have to go into New York to catch the counterfeiters," Hugh took a deep breath. "My unit is the only A team assigned to perform the task."

"I can't ask you to go into enemy territory, Spencer. Captain Nathan Hale, who was executed during the campaign in New York, was an old friend of mine, so I'm particularly sensitive. I guess not only would you run the risk of being hanged as a spy if they should catch you, but you'd be a fugitive from British justice. Your situation is even worse than that of Sergea. Flaherty who was freed from his indenture."

Hugh smiled, but his eyes remained serious. "Can you suggest any alternatives, Major?"

"We have no agents in New York who know even a small fraction as much about counterfeiting as you and your men."

"Then it seems obvious that I have no choice," Hugh put his coffee mug on the table and turned it slowly. "August Dale is probably the most expert counterfeiter on earth."

"So I gathered from the written report that you sent to me, Spencer."

"The Simpson brothers are useful, and they have great physical strength, but they aren't very bright."

Tallmadge listened and waited patiently.

"Certainly Sergeant Flaherty has demonstrated his loyalty to us, so I'd trust him anywhere, under any circumstances. But he was a minor counterfeiter. He has a great deal of technical knowledge that he applied on a small scale, but he lacked the imagination to expand, as August Dale and his daughter did before we found them at Westerly. I don't know where Dale has hidden his money, but Flaherty assures me that he has a fortune. He was wealthy when he and his daughter came to America, and he's done even more since that time."

The major became tense. "Just exactly what are you trying to suggest, Spencer?"

"I'm volunteering to lead my unit to New York, find the counterfeiters of Continental dollars for your equipment. Naturally, if one of my men doesn't want to take the risks involved, I'll excuse him from the assignment."

"That's understood, of course," Tallmadge poured himself another cup of coffee from a pewter pitcher. "I thought you were hinting at something more."

"I was," he said.

"I have an unorthodox idea on how to do it, but I believe, The Simpson brothers and I are men of military age, and even Flaherty might conceivably be a pretty girl and a white-haired man with the manners of a great lord are the last people on earth the enemy would suspect. So I propose that Dale and his daughter be paroled into my custody and accompany the expedition."

Tallmadge stared at him for some moments. "To what extent is your plan motivated by personal feelings?" he demanded bluntly.

"I'm not sure I know the answer to that, sir. But I'll be frank with you to the best of my ability. There was a time, long ago when I imagined myself in love with Katie Dale, whom I knew under another name. It was her perfidy that caused all of my trouble with the crown, and I imagined I hated her. I don't, as I discovered on the day I arrested her and her father in Westerly. Also, I don't like being directly responsible for sending her to prison, which may be weakness."

"I think not. I can sympathize with your position."

"Thank you, Major." Hugh's hand trembled as he poured himself another cup of coffee. "I'm still attracted to her. I can't and won't deny it. But I'm not in love with her," he added, and aware that he was speaking too loudly, controlled his voice. "I couldn't love someone I don't respect, and it would be impossible for me to respect an adventuress who has spent her whole life as a counterfeiter's accomplice. I need hardly add that as she caused all of my woes, I find it difficult to look on her with favor."

Tallmadge weighed the reply and glanced around the room before asking, "What would be the advantage of using the Dale girl and her father in your venture, Spencer?"

"The success I've employed on a smaller scale utilizing the same tactics. Flaherty and the Simpsons have been valuable, but they're amateurs, relatively speaking. As I have good reason to know from personal experience, the Dales are a brilliant team. They're ruthless, they know every trick of the counterfeiting trade and they have an unmatched ability to escape from unpleasant situations. Our policy of using thieves to catch thieves has proved effective so far, and I believe that the Dales would be the best of all possible reinforcements for the Scoundrels' Brigade."

"You present a strong argument," Tallmadge said, "but there's a question you haven't answered. Can you trust them?"

Deeply troubled, Hugh looked across the table at his superior. "I don't know, Major," he said frankly.

"They saved their own skins at your expense once before. They might be tempted to do it again."

"I've thought of the possibility. But if they hand me over to the British, they'll be placing themselves in jeopardy. August Dale isn't in a position to let the crown authorities examine his background closely. He doesn't want to be sent back to England for trial."

"What incentive might persuade him to work for you?"

"The hope of gaining his freedom."

Tallmadge shook his head dubiously. "We couldn't promise him that Rhode Island would drop its charges against him."

"No, sir, of course not. But let's assume that he and his daughter help us to break up the counterfeiting ring in New York. If they perform a real service for the United States, a letter from General Washington would influence the Rhode Island court."

"I can't speak for the general, so I don't really know whether he'd be willing to write such a letter."

Hugh hid his disappointment. "I understand, Major."

"I'll speak to him when I return to headquarters, and I'll ask for a further postponement in the trial of the Dales until we can clarify the situation."

"Thank you."

"I'm prepared to recommend that General Washington accept your plan, Spencer, although I believe you're taking on a fresh burden that may cause a disaster. However, I believe in giving a competent man the authority to solve his problems in his own way. And even though your scheme doesn't appeal to me, you give me little choice."

"I believe the Dales can be a strong asset. Our chance of finding the counterfeiters will be improved by adding them to my unit."

"Surely you realize that you'd be taking a serious personal risk?"

Hugh smiled faintly. "It's a calculated risk. And if I should fall because of their treachery, I'd have no one to blame but myself."

August Dale volunteers, "I've had experience in confounding authority, vast experience that will prove beneficial to our venture." The story continues tomorrow.

Protests Fail Deter The Lady

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A woman bus driver, despite objections from the city, completed the job of cutting out a 10-foot section of curb with a hammer and chisel to form a driveway for her home.

"The city won't do it for me, so I have to do it myself," said Rachel Perkins Tuesday. "All they did was come out and mark off a section of the curb."

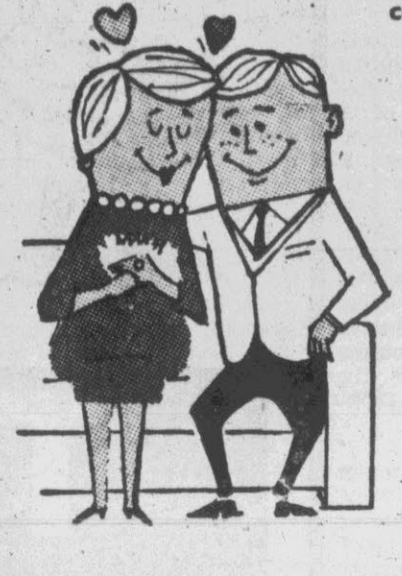

Public Works Director David Mann had objected, claiming the curb had to be cut out by a competent stonecutter.

But Mrs. Perkins, who had obtained a permit to put in a driveway, replied: "If I can drive a bus and build two houses, I can cut curbs. Only last week I dug a 175 foot ditch to drain one of my homes in Angola."

A LARGE STORY

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—The entire story of the Bible, from creation to the book of Revelation, is told in the language and character portrayals of a novel in Eugenia Price's new book, "Beloved World," published by Zondervan Publishing House here.

Punitive Verdict Ruled Out By Supreme Court

RALEIGH (AP) — Overnite Transportation Co. will not get $300,000 of an $863,193 verdict, it was awarded by a jury in a suit against the Teamsters Union.

The State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that the $300,000 in punitive damages which the jury assessed against the union "is without a proper foundation and is stricken from the judgment."

The suit stemmed from a strike called by the Teamsters against the trucking company. The high court said Overnite was entitled to $363,193 in actual damages awarded it by a jury in Mecklenburg Superior Court last December.

Overnite had asked for $1 million in damages. The company said in its complaint the strike was unsuccessful because a majority of its employees remained on the job.

Overnite contended its business was damaged by activities of the union during the strike which began May 17, 1959. The company claimed the union "induced and encouraged" the employees of Overnite customers and employees of trucking firms doing business with Overnite "to engage in a concerted refusal . . . to transport or otherwise handle" any freight going to and from Overnite.

The purpose, Overnite said, was to "force and require the plaintiff to recognize or bargain with the defendant."

In writing the Supreme Court opinion, Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins said that under the fed-

Association To Hold Meet Here

Members of the N. C. Unit of the Association for Student Teaching will hold their Eighth Annual Conference at East Carolina College Saturday, May 5.

Principal speakers will be Dr. Dan 'B. Cooke of High Point College and President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College.

Morning and afternoon programs in the Rawl building will focus attention on the college supervisor, the public school supervising teacher, and the student teacher, their work and their problems. Dr. Cooke's address will develop the topic "The Importance of the Supervising Teacher," at a meeting scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

A panel discussion at 11:30 a.m. will provide answers to the question "How Can Supervising Teachers Be of More Help To Student Teachers and College Supervisors?" With Fred Hollis of Pfeiffer College as moderator, panelists will be Mrs. Mary Rose Stocks, Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, Greenville; Mrs. Barbara Davis, West Charlotte High School; Mrs. R. C. Kuykendall, Kenansville High School; Lee Chapman, Junior High School, Rocky Mount; and Mrs. Ruth Davis, Wilson schools, all supervising teachers.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. in the college cafeteria, Dr. Jenkins will discuss "A Look at Teacher Education."

Student teachers from various schools in the state, participating in a panel discussion at 2:45 p.m., will present ideas on how

Faculty Members And Students To Convention

Nine students and all faculty members of the East Carolina College Industrial Arts Department will attend the annual State Project Fair in High Point May 4-5.

Director Kenneth Bing, Dr. H. B. Monroe, Dr. Thomas Haigwood and Robert Lett, who have just returned from the National Industrial Arts Convention in Pittsburgh, Harold Olsen, B. E. Scott, Paul Waldrop and Fred Broadhurst will represent the faculty at the meeting.

Students who will attend the meeting are: Billy R. Turner, Merry Hill; Virgil B. Harper, Kingston; Shelton Whitehurst, Rt. 3, Greenville; C. Clinton Green, Harmony; Johnny H. Respass III, Washington; James R. Glover, Butler; Nelson Hamill, Rt. 6, Greenville; Hubert K. Leggett Jr., Greenville; and Ronald E. Williams, Henderson.

Mr. Broadhurst will present a paper on "Drawing, Sketching, and Drafting as a part of General Education" at the general meeting of the North Carolina Industrial Arts Association, which sponsors the fair each year.

The NCIAA, made up of Industrial Arts teachers and college students, holds its annual fair to give recognition to junior and senior high school students throughout the state for outstanding work done during the school year. On display will be numerous articles and ideas pertaining to industry and industrial techniques.

Mercury Vapor Lights Installed

AYDEN—Mercury vapor lights have been installed on Second Street, it was announced this week.

Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said two of the lights were installed on the west end of the street and six on the east end of the street on Monday.

The Dutch tulip bulb originated in Persia several hundred years ago.

Wants Estate Go To Govm't

NEW YORK (AP)—A jeweler will direct that his $250,000 estate go to the United States government after the death of his mother, who is in her 80s.

"I make this bequest in appreciation of the freedom and liberty afforded in this country to all citizens irrespective of race, creed or color," wrote William Berns, who died April 20 at the age of 59. His will was filed for probate here Wednesday.

Berns bequeathed the income from his estate to his mother, Milly. Upon her death, the residuary estate is payable to the Treasurer of the United States of America.

Standard material for mourning dresses in the 18th Century was bombazine, a combination of silk and worsted.

Rare, Pleasant Suburban Mail

DETROIT (AP) — What he termed the first pleasant communication he has had from the suburbs in quite a while arrived at the offices of Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh Wednesday.

A Lincoln Park resident sent $200, with a request that the mayor give it to some worthy charity. "I cheated a man a long time ago," the letter said.

The $200 was sent to the Commission on Children and Youth. Suburbanites have been flooding the mayor's mail protesting his proposal to levy an income tax and apply it to all who work in Detroit as well as all who live here.

CHEVROLET Now...beautiful buying days during Chevy's GOLDEN SALES JUBILEE!

Spring's a-wasting! So why wait any longer to satisfy that new-car urge of yours? Beautiful buys have busted out all over the place at your Chevrolet dealer's—in the best selection of sizes and sizzle you'll find anywhere. Like in fourteen Jet-smooth Chevrolets. Or eleven new-size Chevy II models. Or a whole crew of frisky Corvairs. So now's the time to come on in and do your picking and choosing to your heart's (and budget's) content at your Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center.

NEW IMPALA SPORT COUPE
It couldn't look more like a convertible unless it were one! . . . A steel top molded into the crisp contours of a convertible. Chalk it up to Body by Fisher finesse. Then chalk up this Impala's room, richness and ride, and see if they don't add up to everything you expect in an expensive car—except the expense.

NEW CHEVY II NOVA STATION WAGON Space and spice in a new kind of saver. Just one of three new Chevy II wagons. Very parkable. Very packable, too. Has a load floor over 9 ft. long with second seat and tailgate down. Lots of wagon at a low, low price.

NEW CORVAIR MONZA CLUB COUPE The trim, sweet-handling, personal kind of car that started the bucket seat brigade. Here's rear engine scampers wedded to the road with tenacious traction and quick-silver reflexes. And it's as easy to own as it is to drive.

NEW BEL AIR 4-DOOR SEDAN This popular priced Jet-smoothie rides like a family room on wheels. Got a mammoth cave of a trunk, too. All these family-style virtues and a choice of six or V8 skedaddle! Any wonder Chevrolet is America's favorite buy?

NEW IMPALA 6-PASSENGER STATION WAGON Chevrolet wagoning at its most elegant. With up to a whopping 97.5 cu. ft. of cargo space—including a concealed compartment in the floor where you can stow your golf clubs and other valuables out of sight.

See the new Chevrolet, Chevy II and Corvaire at your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's

Author-Psychologist To Talk On Understanding Children

Dr. Harold G. McCurdy, author and psychologist, will discuss "Some Minimums in Understanding Children" at a workshop to be held at East Carolina College on Saturday under sponsorship of the Department of Psychology and the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

DR. HAROLD G. MCCURDY

The workshop, which begins at 9 a.m. at McGinnis Auditorium, is open to the public. Now a professor of psychology at the University of North Carolina, Dr. McCurdy is author of "The Personality of Shakespeare: A Venture in Psychological Method" and "The Personal World: An Introduction to the Study of Personality."

He has conducted a study on the childhood patterns of genius, the findings of which were published in the Smithsonian Institution Report in 1960. He studied the childhoods of 20 geniuses, with results suggesting that public school education thwarts the development of potential genius.

In his latest publication, "The Personal World: An Introduction to the Study of Personality" mentioned above, steadfast psychological theories are liberalized in treatment of such psychological phenomena as conditioned-reflex experiments, extrasensory perception, inductive learning, objective testing, perception and typology.

In addition to these publications, Dr. McCurdy has published a volume of poems entitled "A Straw Flute." One of his poems, "Murtiny," won second place in the Poetry Council of North Carolina's Poetry Day Contest.

A native of Salisbury, Dr. McCurdy attended Duke University, where he received the B. A. and Ph.D. degrees. Prior to joining the university faculty, he taught at Meredith College in Raleigh.

Professor McCurdy considers psychology to be a border science occupying a position between the pure natural sciences and the humanities. His newest book is intended for use in the college classroom at an intermediary level, and can also be used by the non-student to obtain a general picture of psychology.

Dr. McCurdy will speak at the luncheon session of the workshop at 12:30 p.m. in the Buccaneer Room of the college. He will be introduced by Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, chairman of the college psychology department. Dr. Frank G. Fuller, president of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, will preside.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium with a film showing of "Children Draw" Calvert Dixon of the E.C.C. Department of Psychology, will be discussion leader. A general session featuring a panel discussion on "Faces of Youth" will begin at 10:15 a.m., with Dr. Prewett presiding. Members of the panel are Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville city schools; Rev. John Drake, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Dr. Andrew A. Best, Best, Greenville physician; Mrs. Hazel Stapleton, guidance director with the Kinston public schools; and Dr. Philip G. Nelson, psychiatrist of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of the college, will bring greetings and make opening remarks. The workshop will be one of the highlights of the observance of mental health week.

Serving on the Pitt County Mental Health Association's committee for Mental Health Week are Mrs. Ellen L. Carroll, chairman; Dr. Clinton Prewett, workshop; Arthur Alford, county school programs; George McRorie, city school programs; Mrs. Rosalind Posey, television and radio publicity.

Guardsmen Face Field Training

RALEIGH (AP)—Two weeks of field training will begin June 10 at Ft. Bragg for between 9,000 and 10,000 members of the 30th Infantry Division of the North Carolina National Guard. Heretofore, the division has spent one week quartered in barracks and the second week in the field. Both weeks will be spent in the field this year because barracks are not available at Ft. Bragg to house them all.

Town Manager To Aid Seminar

AYDEN — Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said this week he has accepted an appointment to serve on the Seminar Planning Committee for next year's seminar of the City Managers Association.

The committee is an advisory group to work with George Esser of the Institute of Government, on planning the seminar. Jack Maynard of Wilson is president of the City Managers' Association of the League of Municipalities.

Measles Vaccine Test Effective

NEW YORK (AP)—A two-year test of a type of Enders measles vaccine has proved almost 100 per cent effective, according to officials of the city's Health Research Council and the New York University Medical Center. The one-shot test involved 4,000 infants and youngsters in the New York metropolitan area. Dr. Saul Krugman of the NYU Medical Center said Tuesday the test indicates the live vaccine provides immunity as certain as that provided by naturally acquired measles. The vaccine was described as a refined, weakened strain of that developed by Dr. John F. Enders of the Harvard Medical Center.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies fully adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers for clean, ungraded eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 28-29½; mostly 29-29½; medium, whites 26-27; small, whites 19-20.

NEW YORK (AP) — Selected issues got a play in a cautious market that nudged irregularly higher on balance early this afternoon. Trading was moderate. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 at 247.70 with industrials up .80, rails up .50 and utilities up .20. Changes of most key stocks were minor. Some went a point or so either way. Among the higher-priced or more volatile stocks, gains of 2 to 4 points were scored by several which attracted speculative attention.

Gains by a number of blue chips kept the list in plus territory despite losses in steels and scarcely any price movement among motors. IBM eased on profit-taking at the start, then erased the loss and showed a gain of about 4. Among wider movers, Beckman Instruments was up about 3. Champlin Oil and Texas Instruments more than 2 apiece. Minneapolis-Honeywell and Corning Glass about 2 apiece, and Walter E. Heller more than a point.

A 2-point jump by Phillip Morris was the feature among tobaccos. Liggett & Myers slipped more than a point. American Tobacco was more than a point higher.

Most of the top steelmakers took fractional losses. Youngstown Sheet gained a fraction. Ford was up ½.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors were about unchanged. Eastman Kodak recovered more than a point. Anaconda also was up more than a point.

AT&T, Royal Dutch, Woolworth and Union Carbide were fractional gainers. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.47 at 673.43. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. Treasury bonds were steady.

Man Squeezed By A Drawbridge

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A city employee was injured seriously when he became trapped and squeezed in the mechanism of a drawbridge.

It took firemen and police about 20 minutes to free the man, Henry Williams, 59, Wednesday. Williams was helping to clean a pit beneath the bridge when a signal sounded and the span was raised. His co-workers said Williams started climbing a ladder to the bridge surface instead of flattening himself against a wall.

Rosemary Says Jose Strayed

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-Television Writer SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Jose Ferrer after hearing Rosemary Clooney accuse him of infidelity while siring five children at home, answered her by pleading for a reconciliation.

"I'd come home tonight," Ferrer said.

His blonde wife tearfully testified Wednesday in their contested divorce trial that the Oscar winner had "affairs with other women from the beginning of our marriage."

Asked to comment on Ferrer's desire to come home, Miss Clooney, 33, answered: "I guess he would, if he could—and that's my only comment."

The trial is in recess until Tuesday.

Superior Judge Mervyn Aggeler suggested that both sides use the time to resolve their tangled financial situations.

"From what I've heard," the judge said, "both parties are as confused as the court."

Both Ferrer, 49, and his wife have given graphic accounts of how it is possible in Hollywood to earn millions and still be broke.

Miss Clooney, for instance, testified that she grossed $305,613.43 in 1955 and wound up with a net profit for the year of $4,190.38.

And that, apparently, was one of her better years because during eight years of marriage she grossed a total of $2,060,667.97—and now owes $63,632.99.

"Besides being insolvent," she said, "my doctor told me a week ago that I have an ulcer."

Testimony about Ferrer's alleged misconduct came after three days of detailed—and often dull—financial testimony.

Miss Clooney was choked with sobs as she accused her husband of sexual infidelity. The drama was so intense that Ferrer himself brushed away tears.

Then the singer described a meeting at which she said Ferrer told her that he could not promise to be a better boy. At this she cried uncontrollably.

Regaining composure after a few minutes, she asked her lawyer for a handkerchief.

Ferrer quickly jumped up from his seat at the counsel table and gave his own to his sobbing wife. She accepted it without looking at him.

Junketeers Will Make A New Try

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Six hundred Lancaster County residents who planned to attend President Kennedy's inauguration in 1961 but were snowed in by a sudden storm may get there yet.

A group of men who arranged the earlier junket plan another trip—this one for June 29.

Thomas M. Dougherty, a spokesman, said the idea for the second attempt followed a televised tour of the White House by Mrs. John F. Kennedy in which she urged as many Americans as possible to visit the White House.

Less Activity In S. Vietnam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The South Viet Nam government, in its briefest military communiqué in months, said today that "enemy activities appear to have abated in recent days."

The report claimed 10 Communist guerrillas were killed Monday about 20 miles southwest of Saigon in a mopping up operation.

Zoning Amendment Voted By Robersonville Board

ROBERSONVILLE—A zoning amendment was introduced at Tuesday night's regular Board of Commissioners meeting at the town hall.

The commissioners voted to amend the zoning regulation by allowing a funeral home and/or funeral chapel to be built on a lot adjacent to Purvis Street.

lying west of Broad Street and the lot adjacent to Outerbridge Street lying north of Green St. This area has been strictly residential. Eighty per cent of the residents of that area petitioned the council to vote on amendment. The amendment will again be up for a final vote on June 5 when the commissioners will hear any objections to the proposed use of the property.

The commissioners also voted to have the town clerk notify Paul D. Roberson, attorney for the town, to proceed with the matter of selling securities for the town to provide funds with those now available for the use of street improvement program. After a brief discussion the board passed the above motion by an unanimous vote.

Final business brought up at the meeting was the vote for the town to employ R. B. Lee at $85 a week, and an assistant director for a period of 10 weeks. The vote was unanimously carried.

All five commissioners were present at the meeting and Mayor Sherwood L. Roberson presided at the session.

$66,414 Raised By Demo Dinner

RALEIGH (AP)—The $25-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner here March 30 raised $66,414 for the state Democratic party, the second largest amount in history.

Party headquarters reported Wednesday that Wake County, which had a quota of $2,500, turned in $8,050 to lead the 100-county roll. The state quota was $2,900.

Meteor-Like Object In Skies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A meteor-like object blazed across the sky from west to east over the Southeast Wednesday night.

Karl Hujer, professor of astronomy at the University of Chattanooga, said the object probably was a meteor belonging to the orbit of Haley's Comet, due to be seen again in 1985.

Hujer said the earth's orbit overlaps that of Haley's Comet about this time each year, and sporadic meteors sometimes are seen.

Police Of Rocky Mount Win In Pistol Matches

The Rocky Mount Police Department Pistol team won the Eastern District match hosted by Greenville yesterday with a 99.3 average.

The Kinston department came in second with 97.9, Wilson was third with 97.6 and Greenville was fourth with a 92.1. Tarboro, the fifth team in the district, did not enter a team.

Five matches are held every year with each department in the district acting as host. The overall winner in the district will compete in the state match late in the summer.

J. B. Corrinth and E. D. Willford of Rocky Mount shot two perfect rounds in the match. A perfect round is 100 out of 100. Others shooting perfect rounds were Capt. H. F. Lawson and Chief Guy Langston of Greenville with one perfect round each.

Others members of the Greenville team were Maj. R. T. Rogerson, Cpl. M. T. Vernon, Ptl. W. R. Stokes and alternates Ptl. T. G. Darden and Ptl. T. L. Evans.

Simpson PTA Banquet May 7

SIMPSON—The Simpson School PTA will have its annual banquet May 7 at 7:45 p.m.

Crack Regiment In Thai Exercise

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A battalion of the U.S. Army's crack 27th Infantry Wolfhound Regiment will join Thai troops for maneuvers in jungle warfare during the next week, an American military spokesman said.

The Wolfhounds, one of the toughest American fighting units in the Korean War, participated in last week's Southeast Asia Treaty Organization ground-air exercise.

The spokesman said it was decided to keep the Hawaii-based troops here for another two weeks for an exchange of ideas with the Thais. The Wolfhounds have built up a reputation as experts in jungle warfare.

Edgar B. Smith Dies Here Early Today

Edgar B. Smith, 208 N. Library St., died at his home early today. He was 58.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mr. Smith was a native of Mayville but had lived in Greenville for several years.

Surviving are his wife, Fleetwood Tanner Smith; two daughters, Mrs. Anderson Hargett of Stella and Mrs. Elbert Blanton of Raleigh; his mother, Mrs. W. L. Smith Sr. of Greenville; two brothers, W. L. Smith Jr. of Maysville and Woodrow W. Smith, USAF, Ft. Knox, Ky.; two sisters, Mrs. Sam Jones of Wallace and Mrs. E. S. Brinson of New Bern; and three grandchildren.

Mr. Wall spent all his life in the Clay Root community of Pitt County and was a farmer. He was a member of the Vanceboro Masonic Lodge and Timothy Christian Church. He was married to Lena Smith of Pitt County, and she died in 1941.

Surviving are five sons, L. D. Rufus, Fred, Glenn, and Ivey Wall, all of Clay Root community; two daughters, Mrs. Clifton Forrest of Clay Root, and Mrs. Herbert Taylor of the home; 25 grandchildren; 24 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Miss Lizzie Wall of Clay Root.

Grifton Class Honor Students Announced

GRIFTON—Two outstanding Grifton High School students have been named valedictorian and salutatorian for the school's 1962 graduating class, it was announced today by Principal E. B. Bright.

Jane Mewborn, valedictorian, and John Triplett, salutatorian, were described by Bright as having been "particularly outstanding students during their four years at Grifton High School."

Chief marshal for the 1962 commencement ceremonies at Grifton, Bright said, will be Warner Burch, a junior. Mary Jo Quinerly is the other Junior Class representative among the marshals. Others include:

Sophomores Jean Christopher, Jo Lynn Hardison, Glenda Knowles and Connie Lewis; freshmen Jane Cobb, Charles Pace, Frank Davis and Stuart Rhodes.

JOHN TRIPLETT

Miss Mewborn, whose designation as valedictorian means her four-year scholastic average is highest in her class, has played varsity girls basketball for four years. She was named to the Pitt County All-Conference team for two years straight.

A Grifton High majorette, she is a member of the school's Beta Club chapter, the glee club and the yearbook staff. She has also been selected as a school marshal. Triplett, selected for a George Foster Hanks Scholarship to Wake Forest College and a General Scholarship to Davidson College, has played varsity baseball and basketball at Grifton.

He is a member of the school's Beta Club, band and marshal corps. A class officer, Triplett won an award this year in the Northeastern District Science Fair that qualified his display for a berth in this year's state-wide competition.

Chief marshal for the 1962 commencement ceremonies at Grifton, Bright said, will be Warner Burch, a junior. Mary Jo Quinerly is the other Junior Class representative among the marshals. Others include:

Sophomores Jean Christopher, Jo Lynn Hardison, Glenda Knowles and Connie Lewis; freshmen Jane Cobb, Charles Pace, Frank Davis and Stuart Rhodes.
