Bids On New ABC Building Opened; Board Defers Action

Low Construction Bids Total $44,867; Chairman Unable To Attend

Low construction bids on Pitt County's planned ABC administrative offices and retail store totaling $44,867, excluding electrical bids and architect's fees, were received Thursday by the ABC Board.

The board, meeting without Chairman J. W. Joyner of Farmville, took no action on the 12 bids opened. Joyner, out of the state because of a family death, returned to Farmville Friday and told the Daily Reflector today the board will consider the bids at its May meeting Monday.

Estimated total cost of the project, construction of new administrative offices and quarters for relocating Greenville's Evans Street ABC retail store, had been about $45,000.

Chapin Construction Co. of Greenville submitted the low general construction bid of $35,484 with an alternate bid of an additional $645 for substituting terrazzo floor for vinyl asbestos tile in the retail store area.

Other general construction bidders included Dubose Construction Co. of Kinston, $41,000, plus $1,400 for alternate; Eastern Construction Co. of Greenville, $36,439, plus $675 for alternate; and Leo Hawkins of Greenville, $35,747, plus $850 for alternate.

Low plumbing bid was submitted by City Plumbing Co. of Greenville, $2,244. Other plumbing bidders included Kinston Plumbing and Heating Co., $3,286; and Keel Plumbing Co. of Greenville, $2,460.

Coastal Refrigeration Co. of Greenville entered the low heating-and-air-conditioning proposal of $7,139. Other bidders were Kinston Plumbing and Heating Co., $9,805; Mechanical Contractors of Cary, $9,664; Riddle Brothers of Greenville, $7,895. Five prospective bidders in this category failed to submit bids.

Bids on the electrical work were not opened since there were only two. Architect George Shoe pointed out at least three bids are required before they can be opened.

Shoe said at least one additional electrical bid is expected during next week. When the minimum number has been received, he said, the board is authorized to open the proposals informally.

The planned structure is to be erected on the corner of Second and Cotanche Streets in Greenville. It is planned to include about 3,500 square feet of floor space and its plans call for buff-colored brick and liberal use of plate glass.

Action on the project is expected during Monday's ABC board meeting in the Pitt Courthouse. Shoe said revision of electrical and heating and air-conditioning specifications could result in a cost reduction in order to bring actual cost closer to the estimate. Architect's fees will be 6.5 per cent of total actual cost.

Franco Decrees 'Emergency' In Three Provinces

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco proclaimed today a state of emergency in three key provinces in Spain's industrial north to try to halt a spreading wave of strikes.

Franco's decree, to remain in effect at least three months, was aimed mainly at the Asturias coal mines, where 20,000 miners struck for higher pay a month ago leaving at least another 20,000 without work.

Bids On Pitt Hospital Supplies Await Review

Apparent low bids received yesterday on supplies for Pitt Memorial Hospital totaled $58,127.39, Hospital Administrator C. D. Ward said, but it will be late next week before the Board of Trustees acts to award contracts.

Ward noted that all the bids must be reviewed, with consideration given to alternate and substitute items. Discounts and tax have not been tabulated for all the bids as yet.

Bidding was on equipment in 16 categories including office equipment, lobby furniture, laboratory, x-ray, patients' rooms, sewing machines, dietary, medical and surgical equipment, janitorial supplies, linen and maintenance equipment.

Forty-two bids were received on the supplies by the hospital Executive Committee, meeting at the Pitt County Courthouse.

Following is a list of bids received:

Four-Car Mishap Occurs With Patrolman Witness

By GEORGE BRYANT Reflector Staff Writer

SCUFFLETON—A 38-year-old Rt. 1, Ayden, man was injured in a four-car accident here yesterday afternoon with a highway patrolman looking on.

Pt. R. E. Tayloe of Grifton said following the accident that it was "not even safe to stop a violator any more."

Tayloe had followed a car about a quarter of a mile into Greene County and stopped the vehicle for running a stop sign in Pitt County.

The patrol car and the violator were parked in front of a small

Claim Chinese Aid In Capture

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—American military sources said today they had confirming information that Red Chinese troops assisted in the capture of Muong Sing and his jungle airstrip in northern Laos Thursday.

Muong Sing, five miles from the Chinese border, has served as an alternate supply source and troop staging area for Nam Tha, the half-circled provincial capital 20 miles to the southeast.

The rightwing government announced that Communist forces followed up their success at Muong Sing by capturing another defensive position southeast of Nam Tha Friday.

The government, in reporting the fall of Muong Sing, had said two Red Chinese battalions and a Pathet Lao battalion staged the successful attack.

The Red Chinese then withdrew back over the border, the government said.

American military sources until today disclaimed any confirmation of this.

Meanwhile, the Communists advanced closer to Nam Tha from the southeast by taking another defense post.

DEATH TOLL RISES (TOKYO AP)—The death toll in Japan's triple train crash Thursday rose to 155 today when salvage workers found the mangled body of a 51-year-old man beneath a shattered, overturned commuter car.

store on Rt. 102 with both vehicles about 15 feet off the highway when the accident occurred.

An automobile operated by Edmond Taylor, 68-year-old Negro of Snow Hill, stopped next to the patrol car to turn left onto the Kinston-Hugo Road.

Taylor was waiting for two oncoming vehicles heading east on 102 to pass before turning. However, the first car operated by Herman Smithson of Rt. 1, Ayden, skidded into the front of Taylor's car, slid around and struck a parked vehicle belonging to David Butler of Rt. 2, Grifton.

The second vehicle, operated by Charlie Eugene Bowen, 16, of Rt. 1, Ayden, to avoid collision with the Taylor auto and the Smithson car, veered to the left of the highway, running over some signs and mailboxes and just missing the stopped patrol car.

Pt. M. Tayloe said he was standing beside the patrol car when he saw what was happening and managed to jump into the car to avoid being hit by the Bowen auto.

Smithson was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital and officials there reported today his condition was good. He suffered some fractured ribs and minor cuts and bruises.

Pt. J. P. Whitehurst of Snow Hill estimated the total damage in the 3 p.m. accident at $575. However, had the vehicles involved been newer models the cost would have been much higher, Whitehurst said.

Damage to the Taylor vehicle was estimated at $300, the Smithson vehicle at $150, the Bowen car at $75 and the Butler car at $50.

Pt. M. Tayloe noted that he and Smithson and Bowen vehicles were traveling at a high rate of speed as they approached the intersection just prior to the accident.

Pt. Whitehurst charged both Smithson and Bowen with excessive speed and careless and reckless driving.

Five Disappear In Violent Oran (ORAN, Algeria (AP)—French authorities disclosed today five Europeans have disappeared from strife-torn Oran in the last few days and claimed some had been kidnaped by Moslems.

New violence was reported in both Algiers and Oran, as security forces pressed their house-to-house search for terrorists.

Secret army gunmen killed two Moslems and wounded one in Algiers, while four Moslem youths were shot to death in Oran's Jewish quarter.

Witnesses said the Moslems had been spending through the Jewish quarter firing at passersby. The car crashed into a parked auto and the driver of the Moslems' car was killed.

The four passengers fled down narrow sidestreets. But they were quickly slain by gunmen from the Jewish quarter.

Reject Union

TARBORO—Plant Department employees of Carolina Telephone Friday rejected unionization.

Employees voted 581 to 164 against a bid by the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO) to become collective bargaining agent for the group.

With some 750 non-supervisory plant employees eligible to vote in the election, 745 votes were cast. The election was conducted by representatives of the National Labor Relations Board at 17 locations within the area served by the company. Voting was by secret ballot.

The company provides telephone service in 41 Eastern North Carolina counties and employs approximately 2,300 men and women.

Clay Promises U.S. Will Stay

BERLIN (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay told West Berliners today the United States would keep troops in Berlin until the city and German nation were unified, "provided you still want us here."

President Kennedy's personal envoy to Berlin, who is leaving for the United States Tuesday, made the pledge as Mayor Willy Brandt named him an honorary citizen of the city—the first foreigner to get the honor since Czar Nicholas I of Russia.

U.S. Afraid Of Peace: Izvestia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia says the United States is afraid of peace and at the same time hopeful that the arms race will damage the Russian economy.

Izvestia took the unusual step of drawing on the Communist party paper's official commentator, Viktor Mayevsky, to write the article under the pen name "Observer," usually used to express the Kremlin's official view.

The article attacked the United States for resuming nuclear testing and said the nuclear race was intended to bolster the American economy and undermine the Soviet economy.

"The Soviet Union is not going to beg for disarmament," he wrote. "Our country has mighty armed forces. It is strengthening and will continue to strengthen its defense capacity day by day. The Socialist economy has all the possibilities at its disposal for successful fulfillment of its plans."

U.S. Agrees Give NATO Data On Nuclear Arms

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The United States agreed today to give its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies more information on the extent and power of American nuclear stockpiles, an official source said.

The U.S. move was disclosed as the NATO allies meeting behind closed doors reportedly adopted a new nuclear policy calling on alliance members to work out guide lines on how and when atomic tactical weapons should be used in event of a Soviet attack.

NATO's foreign and defense ministers had been seeking agreement on a proposed policy for resort to nuclear arms in case of Red attack that would still give President Kennedy the final decision.

The plan was contained in a report read by NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker.

Sources said Italian and French representatives expressed reservations on Stikker's report, but diplomatically avoided any action that would obstruct implementation of the policy.

As a result—informed sources said—the NAO Permanent Council, which meets in Paris, will handle the information exchange while military representatives of the NATO members work out the guide lines.

Stikker's report provided for such a procedure. After a brief discussion, the ministers agreed to this procedure—in effect adopting the new nuclear policy.

France reportedly has reservations about the nuclear policy because it will not go as far as President Charles de Gaulle would like. It does not change Kennedy's right to veto the use of nuclear weapons, something the French reportedly would like to see changed.

The idea of the guide lines is to work out the conditions under which nuclear tactical weapons might be used in war. These conditions would guide field commanders in determining when to apply to the President of the United States for permission to use such weapons.

A purpose of unified policy on guide lines is to give all NATO members a sense of participating in crucial nuclear decisions. West Germany has especially wanted more say on nuclear matters—even a nuclear strike force under a NATO commander.

But the United States and other members are not prepared for the creation of such a supranational nuclear force, which would in effect put nuclear arms in West German hands.

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An anti-NATO rally backed by Greece's pro-Communist Pame political party fizzled out today.

The demonstration was called by the Union of Nazi War Victims, a leftist group. Pame backed the rally, called as a protest against the presence in Athens of German representatives.

Only a few dozen demonstrators showed up at the meeting hall. Outside there were more police than demonstrators.

Outer Banks Will Be Test-Site Of New Space Fuel

COROLLA, N.C. (AP)—An 8-mile stretch of beach on North Carolina's Outer Banks will serve as the testing ground this summer for a paste-like fuel which could become "the workhorse of the space industry."

"We have tremendous hopes for the gel-booster," said Chemical Engineer Joe Burton. "We hope it will become a real workhorse booster."

The fuel already has been tested successfully in a booster with a diameter of two feet. Ultimately, the fuel is to be tried in a booster 20 feet in diameter.

The new type fuel can generate billions of pounds of thrust. Phillip Reilly, head of Atlantic Research's development group, said the fuel has the advantage over the hard-to-handle liquid fuel.

The tests will determine whether the fuel is feasible for use in booster rockets which could power spacecraft to the moon and beyond elsewhere in outer space.

Falkland's Fifty Ballots Readied

FALKLAND—Fifty freshly-printed ballots stand ready for Monday's voting here, among the smallest-scale municipal elections in the state.

Former mayor and town clerk Mrs. Virginia Stancil said one ballot has been prepared for each registered voter in the tiny Pitt County municipality, whose 1960 census population was 140. No candidates have filed for the mayor's job, held currently by James R. (Pet) Norville who succeeded Mrs. Stancil when she resigned.

Only one incumbent among the three commissioners filed for re-election. Veteran Willard Woolen is seeking another two-year term on the board along with newcomers Linwood Earl Peaden and C. B. Joyner.

Unless a write-in candidate is elected mayor Monday, Norville, who has said he no longer wants the job, is expected to resign. In that case, the newly-elected commissioners would appoint a mayor.

Norville, as mayor pro tem on the board elected two years ago, moved into the mayor's chair upon Mrs. Stancil's resignation. Former town clerk Lewis Lawrence was appointed to fill Norville's position on the board.

Neither Lawrence nor the other incumbent commissioner, Brown Mayo, filed for re-election.

Officers elected Monday are scheduled to be sworn in at the town board's regular May meeting Monday night.

Falkland for years has held the distinction of receiving the small-Bill funds, state money for municipal street work. In 1961, Falkland's share of the nearly $7.36 million in Powell Bill funds amounted to $292.02 for its .05-mile municipal street.

Joint Landing On Moon Would 'Please' Titov

CHICAGO (AP)—Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov said today he would be pleased if the effort to place the first man on the moon was a joint American-Russian project.

At a news conference during a brief stopover at O'Hare Field on his trip from Baltimore to Seattle, the spaceman was asked when man would land on the moon.

He shrugged and replied he would be glad if the project were carried out jointly by the United States and the Soviet Union in a special space ship.

"That would be splendid," he said through an interpreter.

Titov also was asked if he thought the U.S. is making a mistake in conducting its space shots in the open.

He said none of the U.S. flights have revealed anything the Russians didn't already know.

Newsman asked what impressed him most during his visit to this country. Apparently the humans made a good impression on him but not the things that humans have built.

And, he said, there are too many automobiles.

Yakov to run all the time, he said.

He arrived at O'Hare field at 9:15 a.m. in a United Air Lines jet and boarded a jet of the same line that left at 10 a.m. for Seattle.

The Soviet cosmonaut left Baltimore's Friendship Airport earlier en route to Seattle to see Century 21, the world's fair.

Titov and his wife Tamara were seen off by a score of persons from the Russian Embassy in Washington, including the ambassador, Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

COMMISSIONERS MEET Pitt County's Board of Commissioners is scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. Monday in its regular May meeting. The session is set for the Commissioners' Room at the Pitt Courthouse.

Nine student members of the Opera Theater of East Carolina College and Paul Hickfang of the faculty, their director, will tour the western Mediterranean area to entertain U. S. troops for a four-week period in December of this year, President Leo W. Jenkins has announced.

Arrangements for the tour by the talented group of student singers and instrumentalists have been in progress since March. Final plans have just been concluded with the United Services' organization in New York.

Chosen from the membership of the Opera Theater to make the tour are Mrs. Martha Bradner of Greenville; Mrs. Betsy Hancock Bullard of Fairmont and Scotland Neck; Terry Coley of Belmont; Bonnie Currin of Oxford; Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss of Greenville; Bill A. Newberry of Rockingham; Jerold Teachey of Washington, N. C.; Anne Vickery of Winston-Salem; and Brett Watson of Darlington Heights, Va.

The Opera Theater will begin the tour December 1, according to plans, and will visit bases in Spain and North Africa for four successive weeks. At the end of the tour, the group will spend seven days visiting various areas of Europe.

"This is a marvelous opportunity for us to serve our country and to gain a tremendous educational experience at the same time. Definite study plans for languages and cultural aspects of the different countries to be toured will be a part of the group's activities between now and December," Hickfang stated.

Pleads Guilty To Welfare Fraud

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A grand jury investigation will be sought here after a disclosure that a pretty brunette who lives in a $31,000 home accepted welfare payments for her three illegitimate children.

Supervisor Martin J. Spangler said Friday he would demand a complete probe of the Santa Clara County Welfare Department.

The woman, Clara Teresa Bray, pleaded guilty to a charge of fraudulently accepting $215 a month in aid to needy children funds in the past year.

Deputy Dist. Atty. William Hoffman said Miss Bray, in addition to her home, owns a $3,200 sports car and a $1,030 miniskirt—gifts of a San Jose business man.

Clearance, weather information, assigned altitudes and airways, landing instructions... we take these for granted. We simply fly from point to point, our progress and safety undergirded by an intricate web of scientific communication.

Perhaps that's why, today, so many assume that some celestial system ought to assure everyone comfort, success and happiness. But the control tower can operate only because every pilot respects its purpose and has faith in its instructions.

Our moral progress and our spiritual security are the constant concern of the Church. Its worship and guidance undergird the lives of all who respect its Purpose, and have faith in the truths of God which it teaches.

Grayson Waldrop and Jacland Frank ReVelle who will be married in Greenville on August 4 met in Charlotte, where Grayson has been teaching in the second grade at Eastover School the past year after graduating from Duke University. The prospective bridegroom, a Wake Forest graduate, is associated with Wachovia Bank in Charlotte where the couple will make their home.

Jack Wallace's daughter, Linda Lou, will be married June 23 at La Recoleta Church in Lima, Peru to Dr. Elias Mendoza Habersperger, a member of the Peruvian Diplomatic Corps now assigned to Vice Consul in the Peruvian Embassy in Buenos Aires, Argentina. After a wedding trip to Santiago, Chile and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the newly weds will establish their home in Buenos Aires.

A Stokes girl, Cynthia Parker, will study at the Sorbonne (University of Paris) this summer. She was graduated in foreign languages at East Carolina College last year and has been awarded an R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company Scholarship for study abroad this summer. She will leave for France July 3 and will travel in western France for two weeks before beginning her studies.

Doring Prideaux Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Jenkins of Rock Spring Road will leave on June 4th for Minneapolis, Minn., where she will begin a five weeks training period as an airline hostess with Northwest Airline; with flights to Alaska, Hong Kong, Thailand and various places in the United States. Doring will graduate from East Carolina College on May 27 with a degree in primary education.

It has been called to my attention the number of women participating in League Bowling in Greenville. There are 145 women who are members of the Greenville City Women's Bowling Association under the direction of the Women's International Bowling Congress, and League bowling is enjoyed through organized bowling on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

The leagues are comprised of 24 teams and women in Pitt County are invited to join in the sport. The summer leagues which are forming now will include membership in the regular leagues throughout the year.

There are so many things the Greenville Art Center needs. Check your attic or other storage room for the items listed below.

For the kitchen: plastic dish pan (square), two round pots with cover, one good coffee service, dish drainer, dish towels, three kitchen knives and many old pieces. Tools for the house: vacuum cleaner, small hand drill, small crow bar, floor polisher and small saw. Tools for the yard: lawn mower, rake, spade, weeder and edger. Furniture for the house: one large overstuffed chair, one coffee table, card table, filing cabinets (need two with three or four drawers each), and gallery benches. Studio equipment: six adjustable easels, folding TV trays, folding camp stools, three large waste baskets, record player, electric iron and four tall kitchen stools.

You may have other items of household goods, furniture, etc., that you would be willing to give the Art Center. All such gifts will be appreciated.

Three Brides-Elect Plan Summer Weddings

MISS GRAYSON WALDROP . . . is betrothed to Jacland Frank ReVelle of Charlotte. The prospective bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jack F. ReVelle of Charlotte and the late Mr. ReVelle. An August 4 wedding is planned.

MISS LINDA LOU WALLACE . . . of Lima, Peru engagement to Dr. Elias Mondoza Habersperger of Buenos Aires, Argentina, is announced by her father, Jack Wallace of Greenville and her grandfather, Anthony Franco of Lima. The wedding will take place June 23.

MISS NANCY MAE RACKLEY is the daughter of Mrs. Lettie P. Rackley of Sharpsburg, N. C., who announces her engagement to Lynn Christian Jorgensen, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen of Greenville. The wedding will take place June 3.

Mrs. Jenkins Installed As President Of Delta Chapter

A talk by Mrs. Phebe Emmons of Raleigh, State President of the North Carolina Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma society for women in education, and installation of new officers of the Delta Chapter were highlights of a dinner meeting of the chapter Thursday night in the Parish House of St. Paul's Episcopal Church here. Mrs. Ellen Carroll, Delta President, presided at the program for the evening.

Mrs. Emmons reported to members on the recent state meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma in Charlotte and outlined plans for the national meeting of the society in August at Philadelphia, Pa.

Delta Kappa Gamma, she told her audience, is an organization with a "unique quality" hard to define, but including the fact that members of the organization have the ideal of service and carry on a program which "means something worthwhile to people in the state."

Mrs. Harriet Brown Harris of Washington introduced Mrs. Emmons to her audience.

Mrs. Edgar Jenkins of the faculty of East Carolina College, newly elected president, and other officers of the Delta Chapter were installed in a ceremony during which present officers turned over to them their posts and their duties.

Serving with Mrs. Jenkins are

Mrs. John Zey, vice president; Mrs. Austin Perry, second vice president; Mrs. W. W. Howell, corresponding secretary; Miss Frances Daniels, treasurer; Dr. Hermine Caraway, parliamentarian, all of Greenville; and Mrs. Harriet Brown Harris of Washington, recording secretary.

Mrs. Antoinette S. Jenkins

Mrs. Myrtle B. Clark of Greenville, representing the Delta Chapter, presented to Mrs. Carroll a President's Pin in a recognition and appreciation of her outstanding leadership during her term of office. In accepting, Mrs. Carroll thanked members of the chapter for their support and cooperation during her term of office.

Two members who are retiring as teachers at the end of the school year received silver bowls in Paul Revere design as an expression of good wishes from chapter members. Miss Elisabeth Hyman presented the gifts to Miss Eunice McGee of East Carolina College and Miss Mary H. Greene and Dr. J. H. Stewart, third.

Miss Patricia Ayscue, East Carolina student, pianist, and Mrs. Sam Garrard, vocalist, gave a program of music as a special attraction of the dinner meeting. Both are from Washington.

Among a number of special guests at the dinner meeting were Miss Edith Gilbert of Raleigh, executive secretary of the Eta Chapter of North Carolina, and Miss Ruth Fortner of Concord, East Carolina student.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

The Faculty Duplicate Club played a Master Point game last evening at the Planters National Bank and Trust Co. with eight tables engaged in the game. Winners North-South were Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Conway, first; Mrs. M. H. Bynum and Miss Marguerite Rouse, second; Miss Mary H. Greene and Dr. J. H. Stewart, third.

Winners East-West were Dr. and Mrs. George Martin, first; Mr. Bobby Bungardner and Mr. John Creech, second; Mrs. M. L. Wright and Miss Ruby Edens, third.

The next session of the club will be May 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Floor Show Has Fourteen Acts At Junior-Senior Prom Last Night

By SHERBY EVERETT

Have you ever wanted to go back in time to the 1920's and attend an old-fashioned fair? Of course, that is impossible now—almost.

Using the combined theme, "Carousel and the Roaring Twenties," the junior class depicted a fair scene with booths, ferris wheels, cotton candy, candy apples, and clowns for the annual Junior-Senior Prom Friday night.

Models of a candy apple and cones of cotton candy decorated one part of the Moose Hall. On the opposite side a mural showing a fair scene with concessions, some clowns, and people enjoying themselves was painted.

A huge clown face stuffed with colored napkins adorned the back wall near the refreshment table. Papier-mache masks and a mural of a lion decorated the foyer.

To the left of the stage was a huge ferris wheel and opposite that was a merry-go-round which extended to the ceiling. Carnations spelled out "Carousel" along the front of the stage. Giving the room a fair atmosphere, the ceiling was decorated to look like a tent. A clown on a trapeze hung from the ceiling.

A street scene was placed on the stage to be used as props for the floorshow. The scene included a barber shop, a theater, a nightclub, and a fortune-telling booth.

Celia Parsons was overall chairman for this formal occasion at which the Duke Ambassadors played.

Floorshow Contains Fourteen Acts

As a couple from the 1920's, depicted by Ann Carol Gulise and Howard Hadley, walked about the Junior-Senior fairgrounds, they saw many singers and dancers straight from the "Roaring Twenties."

Singing "If I Loved You" and "What's the Use of Wondering" from "Carousel" were Anna White and Pat Carter. Freddie Stokes starred in a skit of a doctor performing an operation, after which Ruth Johnson and Tommy Brown danced a Salty Dog rag.

Harmonizing were Harry Williams, Tommy Brown, Lane Ferris, Charles Vincent, and Tom Duncan who formed the original barbershop quintet. Carolyn Allen and Donna Gammon teamed up to sing "The Man I Love" and "I Want To Be Loved by You."

Donna Whitley performed a jazz number to "Ooh Boom." Jake Gaskins played "Concerto in F."

Doing a pantomime of "Johnny Jingo" were Ann Nichols and Ruth Johnson. Lane and Linda Ferris sang a medley of songs including the old favorites, "Linger Awhile," "I'll See You in My Dreams," and "Peg o' My Heart."

Betsy Coughlan danced to "Bye Bye Beerland" after which Brenda Thigpen played "Alice Blue Gown." Another skit featured Kay Berry and Betsy Coughlan who sang "Have You Ever Been A-Fishin'?" Madame Joesh, portrayed by Doris Phillips, predicted the future of some seniors.

As a grand finale, the group presented the "Carousel Waltz." Tom Campbell authored the floorshow script.

Variety of Refreshments

Since the Moose Hall was not big enough to seat everyone for a banquet, the refreshments committee planned a variety of food for the juniors and seniors.

Ham and turkey biscuits, doughnut holes, potato chips, small cakes, mints, hors d'oeuvres, and punch comprised the main part of the menu.

After-Prom Party

After the Junior-Senior Prom Stuart Ficklen entertained the juniors, seniors, and their dates at an early-morning party at his house from midnight to three o'clock. A combo known as the "Nomads" played for this occasion.

The juniors and seniors went home to change to Bermuda and then returned to dance underneath the stars.

Committee Chairmen

Working as chairmen for the various committees of the Junior-Senior were Carol Radford and Karen Martin, who were in charge of ceiling decorations; Alan VanDyke, stage scenery; and Barbara Berryman, papier-mache masks.

Janice Williams, ferris wheel; Marsha Terpenning, cotton candy; Carolyn Altam, coat and hat check; Martha Henderson and Ruth Johnson, floorshow; and Sara Basnight, refreshments conclude the list.

Again A Lesson In Civics

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

My friend and colleague, Westbrook Pegler, wrote a sentence which gives me an opportunity to return to a favorite subject, namely, the increasing lack of precision in describing our form of government. We have three coequal branches in our government: the Legislative, Executive and Judicial. They are equal in authority, but there is a system of checks and balances in the Constitution which ties them together while simultaneously keeping them apart.

The Executive consists of an elected Administration which includes the President, the Cabinet, the independent agencies and more recently, such war agencies as the National Security Council, the Atomic Energy Commission, etc.

The President is absolute in his authority over the Cabinet. Our Constitution makes no provision for independent Cabinet officers. They are all secretaries to the President, assistants to him, the effective servants of his policy. Pegler says:

"The Department of Justice was so partial to any administration whose creature it happened to be that the idea of enforcement of laws against the party's own henchmen was ridiculous in a bitter way."

If an Attorney General disagrees with the policies of his President, he is always free to resign and to make a public statement as to the reason for his resignation. In Great Britain, of course, it is different. Each Cabinet Officer is elected to Parliament and therefore holds office in his own right. He does not resign from Parliament if he leaves the Cabinet. He may defend his course by a speech in Parliament, as a result of which the Government might fall and a new election would have to be held.

One form of government has a long history, preceding the Constitution (1788). Since the Constitution was adopted, there have been 23 Amendments to it. The first ten, generally referred to as the Bill of Rights, are really an integral part of the original document and some of them appeared earlier in some colonial charters and in the Constitutions of newly-formed states. Without them, the Constitution could not have been adopted.

The Prohibition Amendment was cancelled out by the Anti-Prohibition Amendment.

Of the 23 Amendments, therefore, 12 have not really been amendments. The remaining 11 in no substantial manner altered our form of government, which is today perhaps the most unchanged form of government on Earth. And in it, the Department of Justice is an office which is part of the Administration and is therefore under the final direction of the President, who alone is responsible to the citizens for it at an election.

A citizen who finds himself enmeshed in a quarrel with the Department of Justice has three possible recourses:

1. He may go into the Courts, and bring a complaint either as to law or equity. The Federal Courts, on the whole, have a long history of jealous independence of the Administration and the Attorney General does not necessarily win his case;

2. He might appeal to a Congressional Committee for an investigation. This is a political act, because Congress is a political body;

3. The citizen might appeal to the President, to his Senator or Representative, or to the Press.

It is unfortunate that in this generation, even informed persons speak loosely of our form of government and of the responsibilities of particular officials. Perhaps a reason for this is that as the Executive has grown so enormously and so many personalities emerge into headlines the centers of authority and responsibility are often obscured.

For instance, the foreign policy of this country is the responsibility of the President. He alone makes final decisions. The Secretary of State is the President's assistant in this field. In the Kennedy Administration there are many men of out-

How Well Did The Adults Do Job?

Within the next few weeks in this and other counties of Eastern North Carolina thousands of boys and girls will be donning their caps and gowns for the most important event in their young lives . . . graduation from high school.

Some of them will be looking forward to the college years which lie before them, but others will be looking forward to moving into the work-a-day world, finding a job and beginning to make a living for themselves.

It was 12 years ago that most of the youngsters who make up this year's high school graduating class entered the first grade to begin their formal education. It was about the same time that Eastern North Carolina was becoming concerned about the lack of balance in its economy. The area was beginning its efforts to lift its economy by combining agriculture with industrial development.

It was pointed out then, as it is now, that opportunities for employment for young people in Eastern North Carolina were limited. Young men and women graduating from high schools in this section of the state were moving into other parts of North Carolina and into other states where the economic opportunities were better, where jobs were more plentiful and the grass looked greener. Not only was the East lagging the rest of the state in economic development, it was losing many of its young people, the adults of tomorrow.

If industries could be attracted to this section, the economy improved, job opportunities made more plentiful, it would benefit the section immediately and guarantee in the future that the youngsters a decade or so from now wouldn't have to look to other sections when they were ready to set out on their own.

Well, the first graders of the Spring of 1950 are ready to put on their caps and gowns, receive their diplomas. They have done their school work during the past 12 years, accomplished the tasks set before them by their teachers, and have met the requirements for graduation.

Have the adults, comparatively speaking, done as well in the past dozen years in their efforts to lift the economy of the section, create new job opportunities and provide conditions which would eliminate the need for the 1962 graduating class to look to other parts of North Carolina and to other states for good job opportunities?

Certainly members of the graduating classes of 1962 will find job opportunities in their native Eastern North Carolina better than did their counterparts of a dozen years ago. But how many of this year's high school graduates will have to look outside their native area for good job opportunities?

The youngsters are ready now for the jobs that were being planned for them a dozen years ago. To how many of them will the adults of Eastern Carolina say this year, "We're sorry, but we didn't get our job done quite as quickly as you did yours?"

Moving Further Into Wage, Price Controls

The Kennedy administration in recent weeks has moved much closer to instituting wage and price controls in some of the nation's largest industries than any administration since World War II.

President Kennedy's role in the steel industry settlement and the resulting controversy over a proposed price increase is still a topic of wide conversation. On the heels of that has come the report of a public board's recommendation concerning the settlement of a wage dispute involving the nation's railroads and some 450,000 non-operating employees.

While the President has not endorsed the settlement recommendation put forth by the public board, he has asserted it was within the economic guides laid down by the administration. He has also asserted it is now the responsibility of the railroads and the unions to reach a "responsible and non-inflationary settlement in their own and in the public interest."

It is significant that spokesmen for both railroads and for the union have denounced the proposed settlement as unrealistic, if not going so far as to say it is unacceptable.

The board recommended a wage increase of approximately 10.2 cents an hour as contrasted to the union demand for a 25c per hour increase. The recommendation would cost the railroads about $100 million a year in additional expenses, or more than 25 per cent of the net income of all U.S. railroads during 1961.

President Kennedy has asserted as late as this week that his administration does not intend to control wages and prices, but at the same time he insists that wage and price levels be kept non-inflationary. Obviously the administration has definite ideas about what wage price changes are "non-inflationary" and it has indicated it uses its authority to keep wages and prices within those limits.

The outcome of the railroad settlement, coupled with the recent administration in the steel settlement, should give a picture of what may be expected from the administration in the way of "unofficial" wage and price controls.

A Difference In The Two Cases

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Even President Kennedy himself has stepped gingerly around his own emergency board's recommendation Thursday night that railway workers get a pay boost of about 10 cents an hour.

This railway case vividly illustrates the complex nature of the American free enterprise system and the task of the Kennedy administration in trying to prevent what it considers inflationary contracts.

The recommendation comes just a few weeks after the crisis in the steel industry where about the same number of workers, 450,000, got about the same amount of increase in the contract they signed.

Under the board's proposal the railway workers — the non-operating people who service and maintain the trains — would get a flat pay boost. The steelworkers got their increase not in direct pay but in various benefits.

To make up for the boost in their costs the major steel companies tried to raise prices, only to be backed down under pressure from Kennedy and after some of their smaller competitors refused to go along.

Last week the American Association of Railroads put out a statement indicating that any wage increase for railway workers would force some roads to raise their rates.

The statement said an increase of only 1 cent an hour would cost $10 million a year. By that reasoning the board's recommendation of 10 cents an hour would cost $100 million.

But there is a difference between the steel industry and railroads when it comes to raising prices or rates. The government has no control over steel prices. It does over railroad rates.

The steel industry therefore could have defied Kennedy and let its price increase stand. If the railroads tried to raise rates, the Interstate Commerce Commission could stop them.

It could, on the other hand, let a rate raise stand. The ICC, an independent agency, doesn't necessarily have to follow the President's economic thinking.

Kennedy, in a very cautiously worded White House statement, avoided giving his own flat endorsement to the recommendation of the three-man board he appointed March 3.

The board's purpose was to try to find some solution to the dispute going on since September 25 cents an hour more, protest 10 cents an hour is much too little and unfair.

From a tactical standpoint, whether 10 cents an hour is too much or too little, by picturing themselves as martyrs the unions could try to put the companies — which seem certain to protest the board's recommendation is unfair and too much — on the defensive before the public.

But the companies could hardly do otherwise than protest — in view of their indicated threat to boost rates if there is an increase. If they do not take a rate increase, approval for a rate increase.

The Art Of Double-Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — It's time we had another brush-up drill on double talk, the modern art of saying one thing while you're thinking another.

Double-talk has one great social advantage: it enables you to use your mouth and your brain at the same time — but without getting yourself into trouble.

Only the very young or the very old ordinarily have either the ignorance or courage to say at all times exactly what they mean. The rest of us must temper our conversational valor with a little judicious fudge. We rarely utter what our minds mutter.

For those wishing to polish up their skill in double-talk, here are a few typical examples — followed by their literal meanings:

"Oh, what a lovely new mink stole." (Those poor rabbits sure died in vain.)

"Mother says she never worries about me when I'm out with you, John." (Mother would rather have me bored to death than thrilled to pieces.)

"There's no doubt of it — that boy of yours really has a head on him." (Too bad he doesn't have another one just like it; then he could at least count on steady work with a carnival.)

"Don't tell me you made that pretty dress all by yourself." (I'd wear nobody could turn out anything awful with only 10 thumbs.)

"It must have been a terrible blow to you when your dear aunt died." (Particularly when you read the will, and found out the old girl left her money to her other niece.)

"How did a child her age ever learn to play the piano like that?" (With a hammer, or by wearing roller skates on her hands?)

"No, Jim, I could never bring myself to marry a man just for his money." (Not for the kind you make anyway.)

"I'm not very hungry. Bob, I think I'll just have a club sandwich." (I'm starved, but if I order the steak the cheapsteak is likely to faint.)

"Frankly, I've always regarded her as one of my dearest friends." (She doesn't like me either.)

"Why Mabel, darling, your hair looks so lovely. Whatever did you do to it?" (Pur molasses over it, and run it through a clothes dryer?)

"Now let's be sure to keep in touch with each other." (Don't call me — and I won't call you.)

Other Editors Saying A Nauseating Refrain

(Greensboro Daily News)

The old refrain about the anti-intellectualism of the South sets a trifle nauseating now and then, especially when it comes from the pen of writers like Editor John Fischer of Harpers Magazine, who ought to know better.

In an "Editor's Easy Chair" piece Fischer goes on at length about the anti-intellectualism of the Air Force, a point which may have some validity:

"In the early days it (the Air Force) attracted a bunch of raunchy, rebellious kids — the sort who can't live without noise, excitement and fast action. As one old-timer put it, 'You had to be a little crazy to climb into one of the canvas-and-piano wire contraptions we flew in those days.'"

Today the same kind of youngster has to settle for a motorcycle and a black leather jacket.

"They weren't thoughtful types; and the Army didn't encourage them to do much thinking. The prewar brass candidly regarded fliers as irresponsible upstarts, who had no place in the councils concerned with strategy and military policy.

When General Billy Mitchell made a nuisance of himself with his new-fangled ideas about aerial bombardment, he promptly got slapped with a court-martial. All the Army expected from its airmen, in those days, was raw courage and quick reflexes."

All this has a ring of authenticity. But then Fischer pulls a Toynbee and wanders on into a miasma:

"Their (the airmen's) environment didn't help much either. Most of the early air bases were located in the South, where the weather is good for flying the year round, but where the intellectual climate is not invariably stimulating. (Even today the men at the Air University depend for their daily news on the Montgomery, Alabama, papers which are still petulantly defending the Confederacy, and cover events in the outside world with notable myopia.)"

Naturally, too, many air cadets married Southern girls. As we all know, the Southern belle has a great many dazzling qualities; but a dedication to the life of the mind is not usually one of them.

Come, come, Mr. Fischer. Does the South really differ so much from the environs of West Point or Annapolis or Denver, Colo.? And are the newspapers so superior everywhere else?

We wouldn't deny that certain parts of the South remain intellectually and otherwise, but it strains a point to imply that the military environment everywhere else is bubbling over with intellectualism and "dedication to the life of the mind" while the South remains the Sahara of the Beaux Arts.

And these Southern belles — are they really more vacuous and scatter-brained than their counterparts around Boston, San Francisco or Chicago? Beneath her charm the Southern belle camouflages more brains than she ever intends to reveal. But that, Mr. Fischer, is another story.

THE JOY OF SACRIFICE

"When the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord began with trumpets" (II Chronicles 29:27).

The picture is that of the Jewish people assembled in the temple for worship. When the burnt offering is offered up there is a marked response on the part of the people. They do not stand in gloomy silence as if they were doing a hard duty which they would not do if they could help it. When the burst of jubilant music comes, when the song of ministering priests rises up and with these the sound of trumpets, then the worshippers respond not in a perfunctory manner but with genuine delight.

To use the words of an ancient saint, the inward self leaps with joy, the soul is completely one with God. The act of sacrifice has culminated in a jubilant spirit. Sacrifice should always lead us to joy. If we sacrifice with a sour countenance, giving up something simply because we have to do so, there is no spiritual reward in it.

If we sacrifice because we love God and our fellow men, because there is some great need to be met, then God is ready with His rewards to pour them bountifully into our hearts.

The sacrifice is offered up. The song begins. The trumpets blast. This is a scene of joy. This is the mood into which sacrifice should lead us and in to which it will lead us if we have hearts that are generous and kind.

"If we sacrifice because we love God and our fellow men, because there is some great need to be met, then God is ready with His rewards to pour them bountifully into our hearts.

Secretary McNamara, in hearings before Congress, showed little interest in underwriting the construction of passenger ships that could be used as troop transports. This suggests that the Administration believes the next real war will be settled by intercontinental ballistic missiles and A bombs.

Cheers for Mother! A quick survey of promotions now in the works indicates that Mother's Day will get the biggest twirl ever this year. The date, May 13, comes just as pre-Easter spenders have recovered from those outlays.

Higher steel: Nothing has happened to change earlier prediction: Steel prices will rise later this year, perhaps first on special shapes and later fairly generally.

Waterless window washing: A West Coast company is developing a method by which superionic waves may be used to clean windows. An Ohio company is working on the same idea. Supersonic dishwashers, as reported before, are possible but not yet practical for home use.

Plastic refrigerators: Plastic insulation has already displaced other kinds from refrigerators, and plastic walls and shelves may soon reduce the amount of steel in them. But steel still dominates the motors!

Safety steering: Also under development is an auto steering wheel of woven wire. It gives in an accident, protecting the driver.

More twist: Don't discount the twist in merchandising, even if youngsters turn to a new dance. Oldsters are just now catching up, in bulk, with the twist, and twist products will appeal to them. Twist styles, twist drinks, and twist games are still on the way.

Just wondering: How long is it since anybody ordered a horse's neck? Or a sloe gin fizz?

"Time was," said the Old Promoter, "when the girls doing the commercials on TV were the glamor pussies of the nation." We were sitting in Spike's Gingerale Parlor discussing trends and events, and I agreed he was right.

"Then the advertising agencies decided that the ordinary soap-buying men and women would believe better if the models were more like typical housewives. An ordinary Joe might believe that Zsa Zsa Gabor is ideal for displaying emeralds, but not for demonstrating a washing machine. Have you seen any TV lately?"

I allowed that I had. "What does they have demonstrating?" he exclaimed. "If the kind of girls they have showing how soap, refrigerators and garbage disposers work are typical American wives, no wonder the divorce rate is so high."

True. But then every man can't marry Zsa Zsa!

Few Attend But Many Complain

IMPORTANT — Should Mr. Average Tar Heel bother himself with attending the 100 Democratic Party County Conventions on Saturday? (May 12) That's a fair question, and it is an important question. And the sad truth is that virtually all Mr. Average Tar Heels won't bother to go. It is just as sad a truth that most of those who won't bother to attend will be the ones who will complain loudest during the next two years about the evils of the Democratic party.

Yet, in not attending their county convention, and in not attending the Democratic precinct meetings Saturday, those same Tar Heels were missing their only opportunity to really do something about how party government is handled in North Carolina, and in every other state for that matter.

PARTIES — The base of organization of the North Carolina Democratic Party — or the North Carolina Republic Party or any party in any state — is the precinct. At the Democratic precinct meetings Saturday, each precinct in the State elects its five-member precinct executive committee and its delegates to the county convention. Any precinct which wished to do so also could send to its county convention any resolution on which it wanted action.

The county conventions will perform a variety of party organization chores. They will elect their delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Raleigh on May 17. They will elect their members of the various party executive committees. They will pass up on any resolutions which are presented to them, and if desirable forward them to the State Convention for action. Each convention will have a keynote speaker, and in the 100 counties the oratory will vary from the very good to the very meaningless.

PURPOSE — The chief purpose of the county convention is to whoop up party solidarity for the November general election. The conventions are held during the closing days of the primary campaigns, and are designed to help heal any breaches being made in party ranks by the primaries. If possible, the healing is done at the very time the breach is being made, which is a neat political trick and which is accomplished in an amazing percentage of cases.

Each county convention will draw all the candidates within the county. It is a golden opportunity to shake hands with the working Democrats, and the candidates make the most of it. The keynote speaker is supposed to be selected from the ranks of those not too closely associated with any particular faction of the party or any particular party. The idea is that he must be the kind of man who can appeal to all Democrats, who can infuse in them the enthusiasm which will be so badly needed in November.

WHY? Why is it important for a man, or woman, who wishes to have a part in government to attend these county conventions, and the State Convention next week? The average Democrat will sit silently, will have no chance to talk, will have little or no opportunity to influence the action taken at either convention.

But, the important thing is that this is the opportunity to have that influence, and it is in truth the only real opportunity the average Democrat can ever have. He can speak if he wants to speak. If he has any particular subject in mind, he can do the groundwork among his fellow delegates ahead of time, winning support for his proposal.

EXAMPLES — There are many examples of why it is so very important for the average Democrat to have his hand in helping select the party machinery.

At the county conventions, the members of the various Democratic party Executive Committees, with the exception of the county committee which was selected at the precinct meetings, will be picked. Those committees include the State Executive Committee, the Congressional District executive committees, judicial district committees, state senatorial district committees and solicitor district committees.

Those various executive committees have the very important jobs of nominating persons for vacancies which occur too late to be filled in the primary. The State Committee this year will nominate two candidates for the State Supreme Court, for example.

A favorite example of the power these executive committees have can be found in 1938, when the Sixth Congressional District Democratic Executive Committee had to nominate a man for Congress. It nominated Carl Durham, then a relatively little known Chapel Hill pharmacist. Mr. Durham was elected, and reelected every time he ran and became one of the country's best congressmen. Yet he was originally picked by a handful of men, Superior Court Judge W. Y. Bickett of Wake was originally nominated by this judicial district executive committee.

Elmhurst Places First In School Track Meet Friday

Elmhurst school won first place yesterday in the Greenville Recreation Department's grammar school track meet held at Guy Smith Stadium when they picked up 71 points. The winning school captured nine first places, eight second and one third.

The recreation department sponsors the meet each year after the schools hold two practices and a school meet. The winners in each event then represent their school in the meet at Guy Smith Stadium to determine the city champion.

The boys are divided into three age groups for the meet. The eight and nine year olds compete against each other, the ten and eleven and the twelve and older.

Palmer To Play In Raleigh

Arnold Palmer, golfdom's current top money winner and three-time Masters titleholder, will meet perennial links champion Gary Player in Raleigh at the Carolina Country Club in a head to head match on May 16.

Match time is scheduled for 1:30 with a clinic and exhibition to precede the tee-off.

Riding a four-tournament winning streak and leading all golf professionals in the money department by almost $16,000, Palmer will be playing against Player's toughest opponent.

Player nosed out Palmer for the Masters title in 1961 and leads the ex-Wake Forest athlete in the world-wide head-to-head series in which the two are engaged. An extra 18 holes were necessary before Palmer could regain his Masters title from Player last month in Augusta.

All net proceeds from the match will go to the Bud Worsam Memorial Fund, a scholarship established by Palmer for worthy students to attend his alma mater in memory of a former golfing partner killed in an automobile accident.

Tickets to the outstanding event may be obtained at a pre-sale reduced cost from many pro shops in Piedmont and Eastern North Carolina or by writing R. G. Yancey Jr., P. O. Box 9602, Raleigh.

UNC And Duke Track Meet For

DURHAM — The biggest dual track meet of the season came this afternoon when old rivals Duke and North Carolina staged their annual cinder path affair in Duke Stadium.

The meet was scheduled to start at 3 o'clock and, as usual, the largest fan turnout of the year was expected to be on hand to watch what could turn into a real battle.

The Tar Heels, on a basis of comparative scores, were favored but if a few points in some of the various closely-figured events fall to the Blue Devils it might be close.

North Carolina had very little trouble with South Carolina, 79-57, while Duke had to go down to the final event to get a 70-65 win over the Gamecocks. The affair was tied up before the mile relay which Duke won.

Against potent Maryland both teams lost, but the Terrapins' win over Carolina was by 74 1/2-61 1/2 while Maryland walloped Duke, 93 1/2-42 1/2.

The Tar Heels topped Virginia 90 1/2-40 1/2 and Duke's victory margin was 85-47. Carolina's lone loss was to Maryland while the Blue Devils were edged by Miami to open the season and also lost to Maryland. The Carolina record is 4-1 while Duke is 4-2.

Top Tar Heel performers are Jerry Stuver in the mile and 880; Rhett Everett in the two-mile; Jim Brown in the hurdles; Scott Brent, 880; Tom Clark, high jump; Bob Hart, 220 and 440; and Heath White and Barry Piedemann, pole vault.

Duke's heavy point winners have been Jerry Nourse, Penn relay champion in the two-mile, who will also run the mile in this event; Dick Gesswein, shot and discus; Louis Van Dyck, mile and 880; John Zwerner, 100 and 220 and 440 relays; and Barry Howe, javelin.

Fine races were expected in both the two-mile the mile and 880 as both teams have able performers in these events.

EC And Catawba To Meet Tonight

Coach James Mallory and the East Carolina Pirates will be looking for their sixth conference win tonight as they meet the Catawba Indians. The Buc's play host to the Indians at 8:00 o'clock tonight in Guy Smith Stadium.

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—Twenty-one years ago when Oliver (Coke) Mills, former University of Illinois cager, named his first child Doug after the Illinois football and basketball player who now is its athletic director, he had fond hopes his offspring could duplicate the varied athletic talents of his namesake, Doug Mills.

His hopes have been more than realized.

He'll be the first since Tom Haller to win letters in three major sports in one school year, provided everything goes well. He's already won his first football and basketball monograms and this spring should earn his third baseball.

If time permits, young Mills likely could earn a fourth in golf. He has a four handicap.

Carboni Praised For RM Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Rocky Mount pitcher Joe Carboni was receiving plaudits in the Carolina League today for a brilliant no-hit, no-run pitching performance against Wilson.

The big righthander struck out 19, just one short of the record, as Rocky Mount defeated Wilson 10-0. After Wilson's leadoff batter fouled out to first, Carboni struck out the next 11 batters. He now has a 1-1 record.

Carboni was outlit 15-8 by Raleigh Friday night for the second night in a row but pulled out the victory 6-4. The Caps led 13 men stranded on the bases. Pat Owen

Southern Loop Ends Meeting

By DEL BOOTH MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP)—Proposals to alleviate so-called hardship cases in its area stand defeated by the Southern Conference.

But, another proposal—to allow an athlete injured in an early-season contest another year of eligibility—may be revived at the December meeting in Williamsburg, Va. This proposal lost eight-to-one as the conference ended its spring meeting Friday. Its revival in December is expected to be coupled with a proposal to ban "red shirting"—holding an athlete out of competition for a year.

The conference agreed to have its 1963 spring meeting in Morgantown, W. Va.

Conference backing was voted for the new United States Federation, proposed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, in basketball, track and field, and gymnastics. They could supplant current control by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Conference Commissioner Lloyd Jordan was instructed to continue efforts to get conference games on the 1963 national or regional college football television schedule.

Richmond again was selected for the annual basketball tournament and the commissioner was asked to study tournament facilities in the conference area.

A total of 2,853 different thoroughbreds raced at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga in 1961. Total starters were 17,345.

Big Crowd On Hand For Kentucky Derby

By ORLO ROBERTS LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky Derby, its luster dimmed by the sudden withdrawal of the star and two strong members of the supporting cast, drew about 100,000 fans to Churchill Downs today for its 88th running.

Ridan, a big, tough son of Nantullah racing in the silks of Mrs. Moody Jolley, was the two to one choice to whip 14 other three-year-old colts, earn the $119,650 winner's share of $162,150 jackpot and don the blanket of roses with which the winner is attired at the end of the grueling one and one-half miles.

Post time was 4:30 p.m., with national television and radio scheduled for 4:15 to 4:45 p.m. on CBS. The weatherman forecast showers during the day and temperatures up to 84 degrees.

But, should the rain stay away it is figured to be a pleasant outing for the thousands who pack the rambling stands crowned by the famous twin spires, gathered at the bars for the traditional mint julep and spewed into the flower-bedecked infield in picnic fashion.

Ridan, unbeaten in seven starts as a two-year-old and no worse than second in six outings this year except for disqualification, became the horse to beat when Sir Gaylord suddenly came up lame Friday. The C. T. Chenery star had been the eight to five choice off four favorites this year, two at the expense of Ridan.

Shortly after Sir Gaylord's racing career was ended by a hairline fracture of the sesamoid bone in his right front ankle, Chenery also decided against using Cicada, his ace filly, as a substitute. Then Verne Winchell Jr. withdrew his California colt, Donit King, because of an infected ankle.

Table Tennis Tournery Sunday

By CHARLES VAUGHAN Reflector Sports Writer The Greenville High School baseballers captured their ninth win of the season yesterday by defeating Roanoke Rapids 3-0.

Dennie Hardee hurled an almost perfect game as he faced only twenty-three batters in going to victory.

Hardee pitched seven innings without allowing a hit. It was the first no-hitter of the year for Hardee and Rose High, and perhaps the first no-hitter in Pitt County for quite a while.

Earlier this year, Dennie Hardee defeated the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets by allowing only one hit. Hardee struck out four batters, walked one, and hit one with a wild pitch. In the seventh frame, Hardee threw only three pitches as all three batters grounded out on the first pitch.

Rose High began the scoring in the bottom of the second inning as Billy James rapped a single to centerfield. The next batter, Tom Smith, connected with a hard single to rightfield. Smith's single got past the right fielder and James came all the way in to score. Smith later came in to score on a wild pitch to set the score at 2-0.

James Scores The Greenville Phantoms added their third run in the bottom of the third frame on two hits. Kroghie Andersen led the Phantoms in the bottom of the third with a single to bring Alan MacArthur to the plate. MacArthur forced Andersen out at second but beat the double play to reach first safely. James came through again as he rapped an infield single to score MacArthur.

With three runs as insurance, Dennie Hardee apparently had little trouble in taking the sting out of the Yellow Jackets. The victory leaves Greenville with nine wins and one loss.

The Phantoms play host to Tarboro on Tuesday in Guy Smith Stadium at 2:30 o'clock.

Score box: Greenville AB R H I Joynor, cf 3 0 0 0 Andersen, ss 3 0 1 0 MacArthur, lb 3 1 0 0

More Seats For Atlanta Race

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta International Raceway has announced the purchase of 9,000 grandstand seats from Griffith Stadium, Washington, for the Atlanta 500 stock car race June 10.

The seats from Griffith Stadium will be erected on the backstretch of the 1 1/2-mile asphalt track at the Atlanta raceway, providing a total of 39,000 seats.

Twice postponed because of rain in March, the Atlanta 500 was rescheduled for June 10, with June 17 set as the alternate date in the event of rain again.

A WINNING RECORD

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP)—In 75 years of baseball, Colgate University teams have won 652 games, lost 459 and tied 14. The University has had only 14 baseball coaches in that span, the last three serving a 42-year period.

Elmhurst School Had Field Day

Over 600 students of Elmhurst Elementary School participated in the annual field day Friday, which culminated the physical fitness program for the year.

Purpose of the event is to give students an opportunity to participate in all kinds of activities with an emphasis on sportsmanship and fellowship rather than on winning. Mrs. Helen Wolff, principal, stated.

Some of the activities included chinning, broad jumps, dashes, team games, folk dances and relays.

Team games and relays comprised the first part of the program, from 9 until 10 a.m., with all children divided into gold or blue teams. Children only participated in their own age groups.

From 10:30 until 11:30 each age level presented demonstrations of folk dances. Mrs. Vivian Branch's rhythm band presented calypso music during this event, which included five folk dances.

In addition to the dances, the day event was also held for third-year children in primary school, and for fourth and fifth grades separately.

Concluding the period were two all-school relays, an obstacle relay and a dash relay. Two students from each class in the school participated in the final relays, with the gold team winning the overall events of the day, Mrs. Wolff reported.

A grand finale consisting of all 19 classes forming circles and marching counter-clockwise to each other concluded the program.

A number of parents participated in assisting direction. Leland Allsbrook, a student in the East Carolina College recreation department, directed the program.

Local Man Ends Twenty Years At Air Station

Bud Jordan, now residing at 701 Howell Street, Greenville, retired April 27 after 20 years of service at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.
His retirement was marked by presentation of a silver bowl and citation by Capt. L. Lovig Jr., SC, USN of the NAS Supply Center.

Now 66 years old, Jordan treasures a letter of commendation resulting from an occasion when he cashed a number of checks at the Station bank and was inadvertently overpaid $56. Jordan discovered the discrepancy after the bank closed, and returned early on the following Monday to make restitution to the teller.

Hodges Pushes For Export Rise

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The nation is not utilizing its productive capacity in moving goods for export, U.S. Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges said Friday.
He said he was ashamed the nation exports less than four percent of its gross national product while other world powers sell from 18 to 31 percent of their gross national product to other countries.
Hodges spoke at the 11th annual meeting of Birmingham's Committee of 100.
We can and must do more if we are to compete with the Common Market of Europe, he said.
Hodges stressed the need of securing more industry and pointed to his home state of North Carolina as an example.
New industry produces new taxes, new revenues, new jobs, new payrolls, and other benefits, he said. North Carolina established 204 committees of 100 in four years, he said, and set up a $1 million development fund for small business. In that four years, $1 billion in new business moved into North Carolina, he said.
Birmingham's Committee of 100 is an all-white group. Normally President Kennedy's cabinet members do not address segregated groups, but Hodges reportedly had Kennedy's approval to speak here because Hodges is considered an expert on desegregation and set up the first token desegregation in North Carolina while governor.

Pitt Chairman Is Appointed For Cerebral Palsy Campaign

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., of Greenville, has been appointed as general chairman of the "53 Minute March" in Pitt County on cerebral palsy to be conducted for 1962.
The appointment of Mrs. Galloway was announced by Bill Gibson, Athletic Director at Wake Forest College, who is the Cerebral Palsy State Campaign Chairman.

"I am particularly honored to be chosen as general chairman of the United Cerebral Palsy's '53 Minute March,'" Mrs. Galloway said, "for this is one of the most worthwhile causes I know."
The newly appointed Pitt County Chairman also stated, "There is real urgency to our 1962 campaign. There are many cerebral palsied children and adults in our community. We must make certain that funds are available to take advantage of the dramatic advances in professional skills and medical knowledge now available to help the cerebral palsied here."
"I am confident our objectives, so vital to the cerebral palsied of this community, will be accomplished because of the wholehearted support given to our cause in the past and the purposeful dedication of our volunteers and staff to make our objectives a reality."
Mrs. Galloway has been active in working with the Pitt County Cancer Drive and Red Cross. She is a past president of the Woman's Club and a former elementary school teacher at Grimesland.

Saskatchewan Doctors Boycott Medical Plan

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—Saskatchewan's College of Physicians and Surgeons waited for the provincial government to make the next move today after resolving not to work under the compulsory medical care insurance plan which is to go into effect July 1. The college's stand was taken Friday at an emergency meeting attended by about 600 of its 904 members.
But another resolution urged doctors not to leave the province. As many are threatening to do, spokesmen for the doctors said they had been advised by legal counsel there is no way they can maintain private practice outside the plan, and that they refuse to practice under it. If no way can be found to practice privately outside the plan, the doctors said, they will limit their services to emergency work. What would be considered emergency work was not spelled out.

Favoritism In Dept. Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A veteran employe has charged that some Agriculture Department officials showed what amounted to favoritism when they did not press for criminal action against Texan Billie Sol Estes last winter in connection with cotton marketing quotas.
His former superior denied there was any favoritism.
The Estes cauldron seethed for more than three hours Friday at an Agriculture Department news conference.
N. Battle Hales, a lawyer who has spent 25 of his 48 years with the department, charged Estes was shown the equivalent of favoritism when the department did not turn his case over to the Department of Justice for criminal action last winter.

Will Invite Air Conditioner Bids

Invitations to bid for air conditioning and lighting at the Greenville Post Office will be issued by the General Services Administration on Monday, with the bid opening date set for June 1. It was announced yesterday afternoon by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner.
The contract will allow 150 calendar days for completion of work, the announcement said, which apparently means the local postal employes won't have air conditioning for the summer.
Estimated construction cost of the project is about $50,000, Bonner said.

Adlai Stevenson, for instance, was twice a candidate for the Presidency; Averell Harriman has been Governor of New York State; "Soapy" Williams of Michigan. But the final responsibility rests with the President. Any one of these men may agree or disagree with him but the decision is his. When William Jennings Bryan, several times a candidate for President and beloved by many Democrats, disagreed with President Woodrow Wilson, it was Bryan who got out. When James Byrnes disagreed with President Truman, Byrnes got out.

Historic Houses Open To Public Today In Bath

BONNER HOUSE IS RESTORED IN BATH . . . tradition says that lower portion moved to present site from Ocracoke before 1800.

PALMER-MARSH HOUSE . . . architecture said patterned after English tavern to serve as residence and business. (Photos by Washington, N. C. Daily News.)

By JOHN G. DUNCAN Today they are opening to the public the Marsh-Palmer House and Bonner House in Bath. It will give North Carolinians and out-of-state visitors an opportunity to take a look back to colonial days. Work is taking place on route 92 and when this highway is completed, travel to Bath Town will be easier.

Spring Day This spring day there is a light wind ruffling the waters of Old Town Creek. Along Main Street trees are leafing out and the shade is soft. Dooryards are bright with colors of spring and the town seems to be standing on the doorstep of brighter days. Those people you talk with say the restoration of historical places in the town should bring in quite a few visitors.

Quick Trip A quick trip around town with the aid of paper and pen may whet your appetite towards coming down and seeing for yourself. Against the background of history, the town and its buildings take on new meaning. Here the historian, the curious and those who just happened to be driving down this way might pass a well spent hour or two.

History The town was laid out on the sixty acres of land John Lawson, Joel Martin and Simon Alderson bought from David Perkins in the fall of 1704. Perkins had settled here in 1695. John Lawson laid out the town and he in company with Alderson and Martin were the founders and first town commissioners. To keep out the Indians and wild beasts of the forest, a fence was built on the northern and eastern borders of the town. At the junction of the town was a gate that opened out on the road to Edenton and another gate opened where Craven and Kings streets met. This gate opened on Woodstock Road. Woodstock Road led to "Kirby Grange", home of Christopher Gale, first chief justice of the colony.

St. Thomas Church is the oldest building in Bath. It was started in 1734 and finished in 1740. In a small bell tower near the church is the Queen Anne's Bell—this bell is eighteen years older than the Liberty Bell. Built a little later in 1740 was the Buzzard Hotel. This building is still standing and is now a private residence. With the possible exception of the church it is said to be the oldest building in Beaufort County. A man by the name of Abraham Duncan built a tavern near the Edenton gate in 1743. It was said to be the best of this type of place in its day.

Looking out toward the Pamlico from Town Point you see on your right Archbell Point. Gov. Robert Daniel bought this place and had a plantation there. In 1716 his widow sold this place to Tobias Knight— that shadowy figure between Gov. Eden and Blackbeard the pirate. A little above Archbell Point, north of Brickhouse Creek, Gov. Eden bought a plantation in 1718. They say a tunnel dug from the bank of Old Town Creek led to a cellar under Eden's house. It was through this tunnel that Eden's share of Blackbeard loot was passed.

Right opposite from Eden's place was Plum Point. Here the pirate had his home. It was here the bearded one rested between his plunderings.

In 1720 the Assembly authorized the purchase of 195 acres. This purchase lay outside the town fence and was known as the Town Commons. It was used by the citizens of Bath to graze their livestock.

House Restored The focal point of the restoration is the Palmer-Marsh House. This house was built in 1744 by Captain Michael Coutanch. Coutanch came to Bath by the way of Boston from his home on the Isle of Jersey in 1739. He was town commissioner and member of the Assembly for a number of years. In 1764 the house was acquired by Colonel Robert Palmer. Palmer was colonel of the Beaufort County militia.

In 1802 the house was purchased by Jonathan and Daniel B. Marsh. It remained in the Marsh family for more than a hundred years. Today the old house faces a new beginning. The grounds have been planted with wax myrtle, crab apple, and live oak. Around the house is a planting of periwinkle. And beneath one of the old live oaks that has seen so many years and many happenings, there is a clump or two of daffodils and azaleas in bloom.

Glimpses through the window of the red shuttered place show pieces of furniture that date back to the days when the house was young.

In a few days the old house will come alive again—knowing perhaps, as old places surely do, that being used, and being appreciated is truly life itself.

In the backyard buried under the mulberry tree are a few that knew its doors and sleep within its walls: William T. Marsh, who died of wounds at Antietam on Sept. 17, 1862. Nearby is the flat stone that covers Michael Coutanch. And just beyond the drop of the pecan tree lies Mrs. Mary Evans, who at the age of 19 pined away, so some say, of a broken heart.

At Town Point the white fence shut in the Bonner House. It was built according to some about 1750. Here beneath the ground have been foundations of a house thought to have belonged to John Lawson.

This property was acquired prior to Jan. 1, 1830, by Daniel B. Marsh, for on that date his widow sold it to John Mixon. John Mixon sold it to Joseph Bonner during the same year. For more than a century it belonged to the Bonner family. Then it was acquired by the Oscar P. Smith Memorial Foundation as part of the restoration plan.

May 5, 1962 When these places are open to the public today those visiting will see firsthand the results of plans and dreams of such people as Edmond Harding, Mrs. E. L. Ives and others, who conceived and carried out the restoring of these houses. They will see the results of money spent and the skill and handwork of the workmen, who under the direction of Donald Carrow, brought back yesterday with the tools and knowledge of today.

There will be no admission fees on the opening day. But after today, adults will pay one dollar, children, fifty cents and school children with teacher, twenty-five cents.

These small fees paid by those of today will enable those of tomorrow to have a look at yesterday—when the land was young—when the Indian lurked beyond the town fence and Blackbeard's rough crew swaggered down the streets of Bath Town.

Herd Of Cattle Belongs To Past

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—William Jones of Stirling, Scotland, has the job looking after the strangest herd of cattle in the world. They're pure-bred, shaggy white animals—descendants of the wild cattle the Druids used to sacrifice centuries ago. And there are only 26 of them left.

They are allowed to roam wild in the grounds of Chillingham Castle, in Northumberland, over the border in England. And it's Jones' job to see they get velvet glove treatment.

For one thing, they cannot stand the sight or smell of humans. If Jones touched one of them, he might well be sentencing it to death. The others, incensed by the human odor, might gore it to death. This actually happened to a bull that was returned from Whipsnade Zoo, near London, two years ago.

The "white terrors" of Chillingham have been known to chase men who were on a tractor. They have chased cattle-men up a tree. In the summer the cattle graze outside. During the winter Jones has to supervise their feeding in a special stone building. The hay is pushed through small holes in the wall to prevent contact with humans. Jones says the herd doesn't worry him. He's a former inspector with the Hong Kong police.

Former Mental Hospital Patient Recalls She Had To Go Seek Help

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

The last two weeks have seen a veritable festival of poets in Greenville, with X. J. Kennedy, Karl Shapiro, and Mark Van Doren at the college.

One attractive feature of Kennedy's work is that he writes in quite an unsolemn way and really seems to enjoy saying and even singing his poetry. And some of his poems are memorable in their succinct suggestiveness, as the following:

Little Elegy (for a child who skipped rope) Here lies resting, out of breath, Out of turns, Elizabeth Whose quicksilver toes not quite Cleared the whirring edge of night.

Earth whose circles round us skim Till they catch the lightest limb, Shelter now Elizabeth And for her sake trip up Death.

Natural Beauty A new book which is being widely advertised is Gaylord Hauser's "Mirror, Mirror, on the Wall."

Hauser advocates "natural cosmetics" for ladies, and at first glance, it's difficult to tell how seriously one is supposed to take him. Maybe one needs a feminine mind to react properly to a blurb which grows "eloquent over a "mayonnaise facial" and Rabbit Family Several weeks ago, Time had a note about a baby who was recently named Peter Rabbit, III. Last week, the child's father, Peter Rabbit, II, wrote a letter to the magazine telling how he himself had been ashamed of his name until the "amazing warmth and kindness that it has evoked has led me to really appreciate my good luck. He attributes this to the nostalgia which everyone feels for one of the most famous of all children's stories.

Arts Festival The women of Greenville have done themselves proud again with the Fine Arts Festival.

Always one of the highlights is the Sidewalk Show, Thursday, the area around the Art Center looked like a section of Montmartre on a gala day. Especially handsome was the work displayed by Don Sexauer of the College Art Department. The demonstration of print-making done by a group of college students under Don's direction was another highlight.

Thesis Show Inside the Center, the show consisting of thesis work by graduate students at the college (this will be up until May 19) is interesting. A pink and black abstraction by Sue Koester is especially handsome. Miss Koester's work consists of a series of studies of action and motion.

Nelson Dudley has eight canvases, all studies of the lobster, in the show as his thesis work. These are worth seeing too, as is Howard Woody's series on the Crucifixion.

According to Marjorie Jackson, director of the center, there will be an open house at the center, Sunday, 2:00-4:00 for these young artists. Everyone is invited.

New Look Another collection of artistic interest in town is the work which has been done by Donald Jackson for the Greenville Redevelopment Commission. This consists of a series of sketches and paintings which are meant to give an impression of what the Shore Drive Development Area will look like when the slums are pulled down and rebuilding has been effected. These pictures have much more than artistic interest for local citizens, and we are hoping that an exhibit of them can soon be arranged at the center. Badger Johnson of the Commission says they are available for such a purpose.

Calendar One important feature of the Arts Festival is yet to come and should not be overlooked. That is the production by the College Playhouse of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" next week, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Sylvan Theater, 8 p.m. Admission will be one dollar for adults and 50 cents for students.

Another movie in the Foreign Film Series will also be coming up next week. This is the Argentine "Age of Innocence," a study of the problems of a girl growing up in an aristocratic Argentine family in the 1920's. It will be shown in Austin, 7:00, Wednesday.

Backward Look Now Up To Date BALTIMORE (AP)—In a book about Baltimore, published 25 years ago, Meredith Janvier lamented the passing of the city's old-time charm.

He said he knew of only three hitching rings embedded in curbstones, only one hitching post, only six carriage blocks and only a handful of doorway footscrapers.

Today in Baltimore, there are 110 known hitching rings embedded in curbstones, 7 hitching posts, 67 carriage blocks and 600 footscrapers.

Following is a story which resulted from an interview with a former hospital patient who suffered from mental illness, told in the words of the patient rather than in psychiatric terms. The patient didn't receive the help she needed from her husband; it was her own initiative that brought her to seek medical help for her problems.

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

"When I left the hospital I was afraid.

"A lot of people fear they will be rejected when they come out of a mental hospital. I was afraid all the frustrations would be coming back; I had hoped some of them would be eliminated, but I guess it is not to eliminate but to adjust.

Then I found the public is really not that way; my family and friends have been understanding. I feel that those who are not receptive have problems themselves."

The young woman talking to me was pretty, with eyes that were large and sparkling. She has spent several months in a hospital undergoing psychiatric treatment and since has been a patient of group therapy at a mental health clinic. She feels now she is making progress.

Her story began some years ago, when she suffered a first breakdown which resulted in treatment by a general practitioner and then a second breakdown, which resulted in a hospital stay of a few weeks.

All the time, her own frustrations were complicated and aggravated by the problems of a husband who spent late hours out and came home drunk. The marriage has since been dissolved.

"It was my own idea to get help when I had my first breakdown. Several years later I had another breakdown and went to a hospital for two weeks.

"All this time I didn't have too many frustrations and I felt I could handle my problems pretty well. After leaving the hospital, I began going to a psychiatrist at intervals.

"I don't think all that time I really understood my problem. I always felt there was something lacking, but I didn't know what.

"Now I think my problem basically is a lack of confidence in myself. I have been too dependent on others and have failed to assume responsibility. I've felt inadequate and felt at times that I had abnormal feelings. I never felt comfortable in groups.

caller one night, telling me that my husband was running around.

"I saw it all coming. I knew our marriage was going to end or that one of us was going to an institution."

The end came. "I went to a physician and told him I wanted to be admitted to a hospital. I couldn't stand it any longer.

"At first I didn't want any visitors, though the hospital encouraged me to have them. But I didn't want anyone to see me because I felt others could tell how upset I was and I wanted to make progress first. I knew it hurt the relatives who loved me to see me like I was.

"For about two weeks, I was very withdrawn, but then I had company.

"I decided to try occupational therapy. I was willing to try anything to help. We had occupational therapy about twice a week, which kept me pretty busy. My first accomplishment was weaving a basket. I was afraid I would make one mistake; I tried very hard not to make any mistakes. When I finished, it was almost perfect, and I felt much better.

When, some time later, the patient did go home, she found much the same family situation, though she said her husband tried. It was very discouraging to her for the husband to continue coming in late, and it was apparent he had a girl friend.

It was late one night when she left home. Her husband never showed much interest in re-establishing his home life on a more solid basis. It seemed to his wife that he was not ready for marriage.

This young woman is still trying to work out her own difficulties and feels the group therapy she has experienced has benefited her immensely.

"I feel more confidence in myself and can express myself better. I feel more comfortable in groups. I feel I can handle responsibility better. I can remember the time when I was even afraid to drive downtown alone," she said.

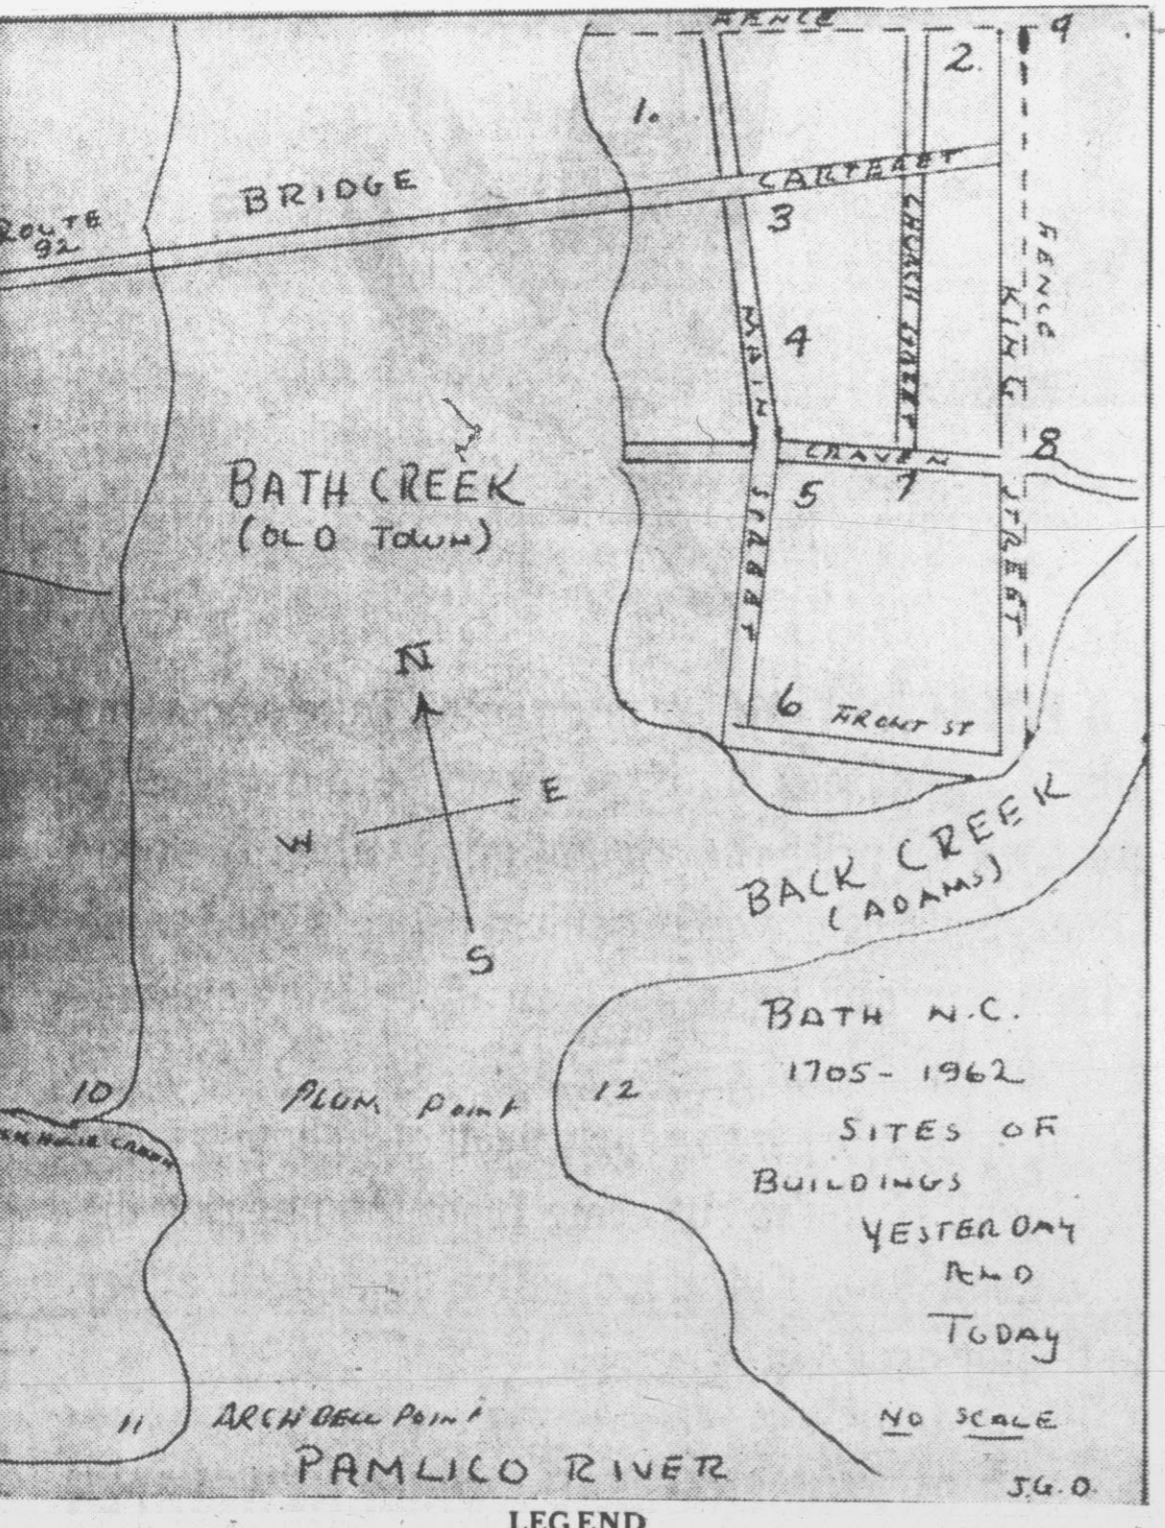

"There are not enough doctors for mental illness, not enough for all the people who need them.

"I was willing to do this because I hoped it might help someone else find help," she said.

Girl Can Cheat In Poetry Field

CAIRO (AP)—A man who wants a wife among the western desert tribes of Egypt must be a poet. The woman can cheat a little — by getting someone else to help her write the verses.

By ancient custom, courtship usually flourishes around some desert well in the early morning hours. A boy seeing a girl who brings that old light to his eyes will begin singing a poem he has composed.

Critical Appraisers Opine Press Could Do Better Job

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Three well-known North Carolinians expressed belief today the state's newspapers can and should be doing a better job.

Invited by the North Carolina Associated Press News Council to make a critical appraisal of Tar Heel newspapers, they had some kind words but many that were blunt. In prepared remarks, all called for better-trained reporters.

Irving Carlyle, Winston-Salem attorney and chairman of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School, said: "Too much of what is being published in our papers in North Carolina is low in quality." He praised the papers for their efforts to protect the public's right to know.

Jesse James, former Charlotte and Burlington police chief, said most reporters assigned to police departments are fair and sincere but try to report the news accurately. "But when you find the young immature reporter who is more interested in himself than in being fair, you have a problem," said James. He suggested there are too many such reporters.

Roy Wilder, a newspaperman for many years before he entered public service, said: "With more good reporters, perhaps there would be less need for press agents in government. Inexperienced, lazy or bridled by their bosses, some newspaper reporters press agents necessary."

Wilder, now assistant director of the State Board of Conservation and Development, said good reporters should have shed light on the price-fixing and highway scandal stories before the state government exposed them. Wilder also suggested that editors and editorial writers "get out of their air-conditioned ivory towers" and get acquainted with news and how it is made. "Wilder suggested some newspapers may be guilty of suppressing news—the charge they often level at others. The three men comprised a panel which was a highlight of the Spring meeting of the AP Council, which is composed of managing editors and editors of newspapers which are members of the news cooperative.

Joe Brown, Council president and managing editor of the High Point Enterprise, presided at the session, which included discussion of studies made by editors of the AP news and photo reports.

Ernest Cuts, managing editor of the Charleston Evening Post, was scheduled as banquet speaker tonight.

Carlyle, a former state senator and House member and long an advocate of improving public education, emphasized that he has a high regard for the state's newspapers. He predicted success in their fight to open public records and courts to full reporting, because "secrecy in government is not in the public interest."

"Far more harm than good results from transaction of public business behind closed doors," Carlyle said. "It breeds public distrust. It blunts the power of public opinion because sound public opinion must be based on knowledge. It causes corruption. It perpetuates unfit men in authority. "The press of North Carolina is too intelligent to yield to economic or political pressure. It understands its mission too well. But the supreme obligation of the press to let the people know can be defeated, and is being weakened, through failure to report the facts effectively."

Carlyle recommended an intensive annual seminar for reporters at the University of North Carolina, in conjunction with the Law School and Institute of Government. He urged that reporters continue to study and practice after going to work.

Wilder said: "Editorial writers, often pragmatic and dogmatic, need to get out on the street, to get their feet on the ground and give their essays some depth and balance." Of reporters, he said: "Good reporters are in short supply. They are your front-line troops in your fight for the reader's time."

As photographers urged Jayne to give Mickey a reconciliation kiss for the early editions, the eager Berman came out of left shrubbery and darted for center camera.

He never made it. Marcel Demaertelaere, the Hargitays' handyman, stopped him and asked for his press credentials.

Berman, nonplussed, could only mutter, "I don't have any."

In a matter of seconds, Marcel was hustling the Brooklyn cab driver past the heart-shaped swimming pool, the heart-shaped barbecue pit and onto the heartless street, shutting a pink gate behind him.

All the while this was taking place, Jayne was explaining why she filed for divorce in the first place.

"Well, Mickey and I had our first big fight," she said. "He didn't want to take the three children and four dogs to Italy while I make a picture, and I did. "We compromised. We're taking the children, but only one dog."

All Is Calm On Hargitay Front; Drop Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Love is bustin' out all over again on Sunset Boulevard.

Mickey loves Jayne. Jayne loves Mickey — and Stanley the gatecrasher hates Marcel.

Actress Jayne Mansfield proved Friday that divorces can be even briefier than marriages in Hollywood.

About 21 hours after she had filed a divorce suit in nearby Santa Monica, she called a news conference by the heart-shaped pool in her backyard. There to Mickey Hargitay, her Hungarian Tarzan, she vowed: "Mickey, I'm your Jayne. I always loved you, darling, even while I was filing for divorce."

It was a day of romantic triumph for Jayne and Mickey. But for Stanley Berman, whose gate-crashing has allowed him to sit with presidents and Oscar winners, it was a day of humiliation.

He tried to beat Jayne at the game she knows best — publicity and failed miserably.

As photographers urged Jayne to give Mickey a reconciliation kiss for the early editions, the eager Berman came out of left shrubbery and darted for center camera.

He never made it. Marcel Demaertelaere, the Hargitays' handyman, stopped him and asked for his press credentials.

Berman, nonplussed, could only mutter, "I don't have any."

Bailey, Nelson Give Talks

In recognition of Mental Health week, Mrs. M. P. Bailey, executive secretary, and Dr. Phillip Nelson, the local psychiatrist, of the Pitt County Mental Health department talked to the student body Monday about the work of the local clinic and careers in mental health.

"Mental health is the number one health problem, but it can be cured if caught in time," stated Mrs. Bailey. She explained that the clinic educates people to recognize mental health in time.

"The real satisfaction in this type of work is knowing that you brought sick minds back to reality," she concluded.

"The clinic meets the needs of the community with realistic attitudes to the ill," said Dr. Nelson. "We help the patients help themselves. The mentally ill are not crazy, just troubled."

Faculty vs. Monogram Club In a very different way of playing basketball, the faculty edged the Monogram Club 10-8 in the annual Faculty vs. Monogram Club game.

Some of the time both teams had as many as eight or ten players on the court at one time; therefore referees O. E. Dowd and Kirohgie Andressen were kept busy calling fouls.

The faculty team consisted of Bud Phillips, James Nicholson, Wilkie Burt, Donald Bennett, Roland Farley, Ronald Capps, R. C. Norris, Ted Williams, Walter C. Briley, Charles L. Shepard, and Jack Guthrie. The last five are student teachers.

Ronnie Williams, Kenneth Cox, George Van Nortwick, Sonny Parkinson, and John Adams composed part of the Monogram Club team.

Others were Burney Morris, Russell Fields, William Allen, Ed Smoot, Wayne Surrrell, and Stanley Bowers.

Richard Taft, Kenny Joyner, and Jack Foley were cheerleaders. Cheerleading Officers Chosen In recent meetings, the newly-chosen cheerleading squads elected their officers for next year.

Betsy Coughlan will lead the varsity squad with the assistance of Frances Harvey as co-chief. Diana Hodges and Barbara Minges will act as secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The junior varsity group has as its chief, Judy VanDyke, and as co-chief, Martha Taft. Cheryl Lee will be secretary while Julia Brinkley will be treasurer.

Richard Boone Asserts Paladin Role Nearing End

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Boone and gun already are traveling into their sixth and—his final year on television.

Paladin fans needn't rush to protest. Not yet, anyway. "Have Gun, Will Travel" will be seen through the 1962-63 season.

"Boone is in the curious situation of preparing a whole season's product before the first show goes on the air. The reason for this is his plan to star next fall in a Broadway play, "Sergeant Stetson."

No relation to the Dr. Styer he once played on "Medic."

"The urge to go back to the stage is inescapable," the muscled actor explained on Paramount's Western Street. "Motion pictures are a director's medium, without a doubt. It is only on the stage where an actor gains full control of what he is doing."

"So I am going back. It's got to be for satisfaction as an actor; I can't be doing it for the money. The pay will be paltry compared to what I could earn in television."

Somehow money doesn't worry Boone. It shouldn't. He made a fabulous deal when he sold his Paladin rights to CBS.

"It's kind of nice to know that the bills will be paid for the next 20 years," he admitted.

The future of Paladin? "I think six years is enough," said Boone. "As far as I'm concerned, it is, and I should think that CBS would agree."

"I would hate to hang around too long. It's a shame when great shows like "I Love Lucy" and "Dragnet" continue past their peak, and people start saying, "Oh, are they still on the air?" I'd rather quit while people still care. And the ratings this year indicate that they do."

Arrest Suspect In Meat Theft

Jessie Jasper Kinney, 49 year old Negro, has been bound over to Superior Court under $1,000 bond on charge of stealing hams and shoulders from a smoke house.

Deputy Duke Andrews said Kinney was arrested Thursday afternoon and given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Luther Moore.

He is accused of entering a smoke house of Joe Cox, Rt. 2, Greenville last weekend and taking the meat.

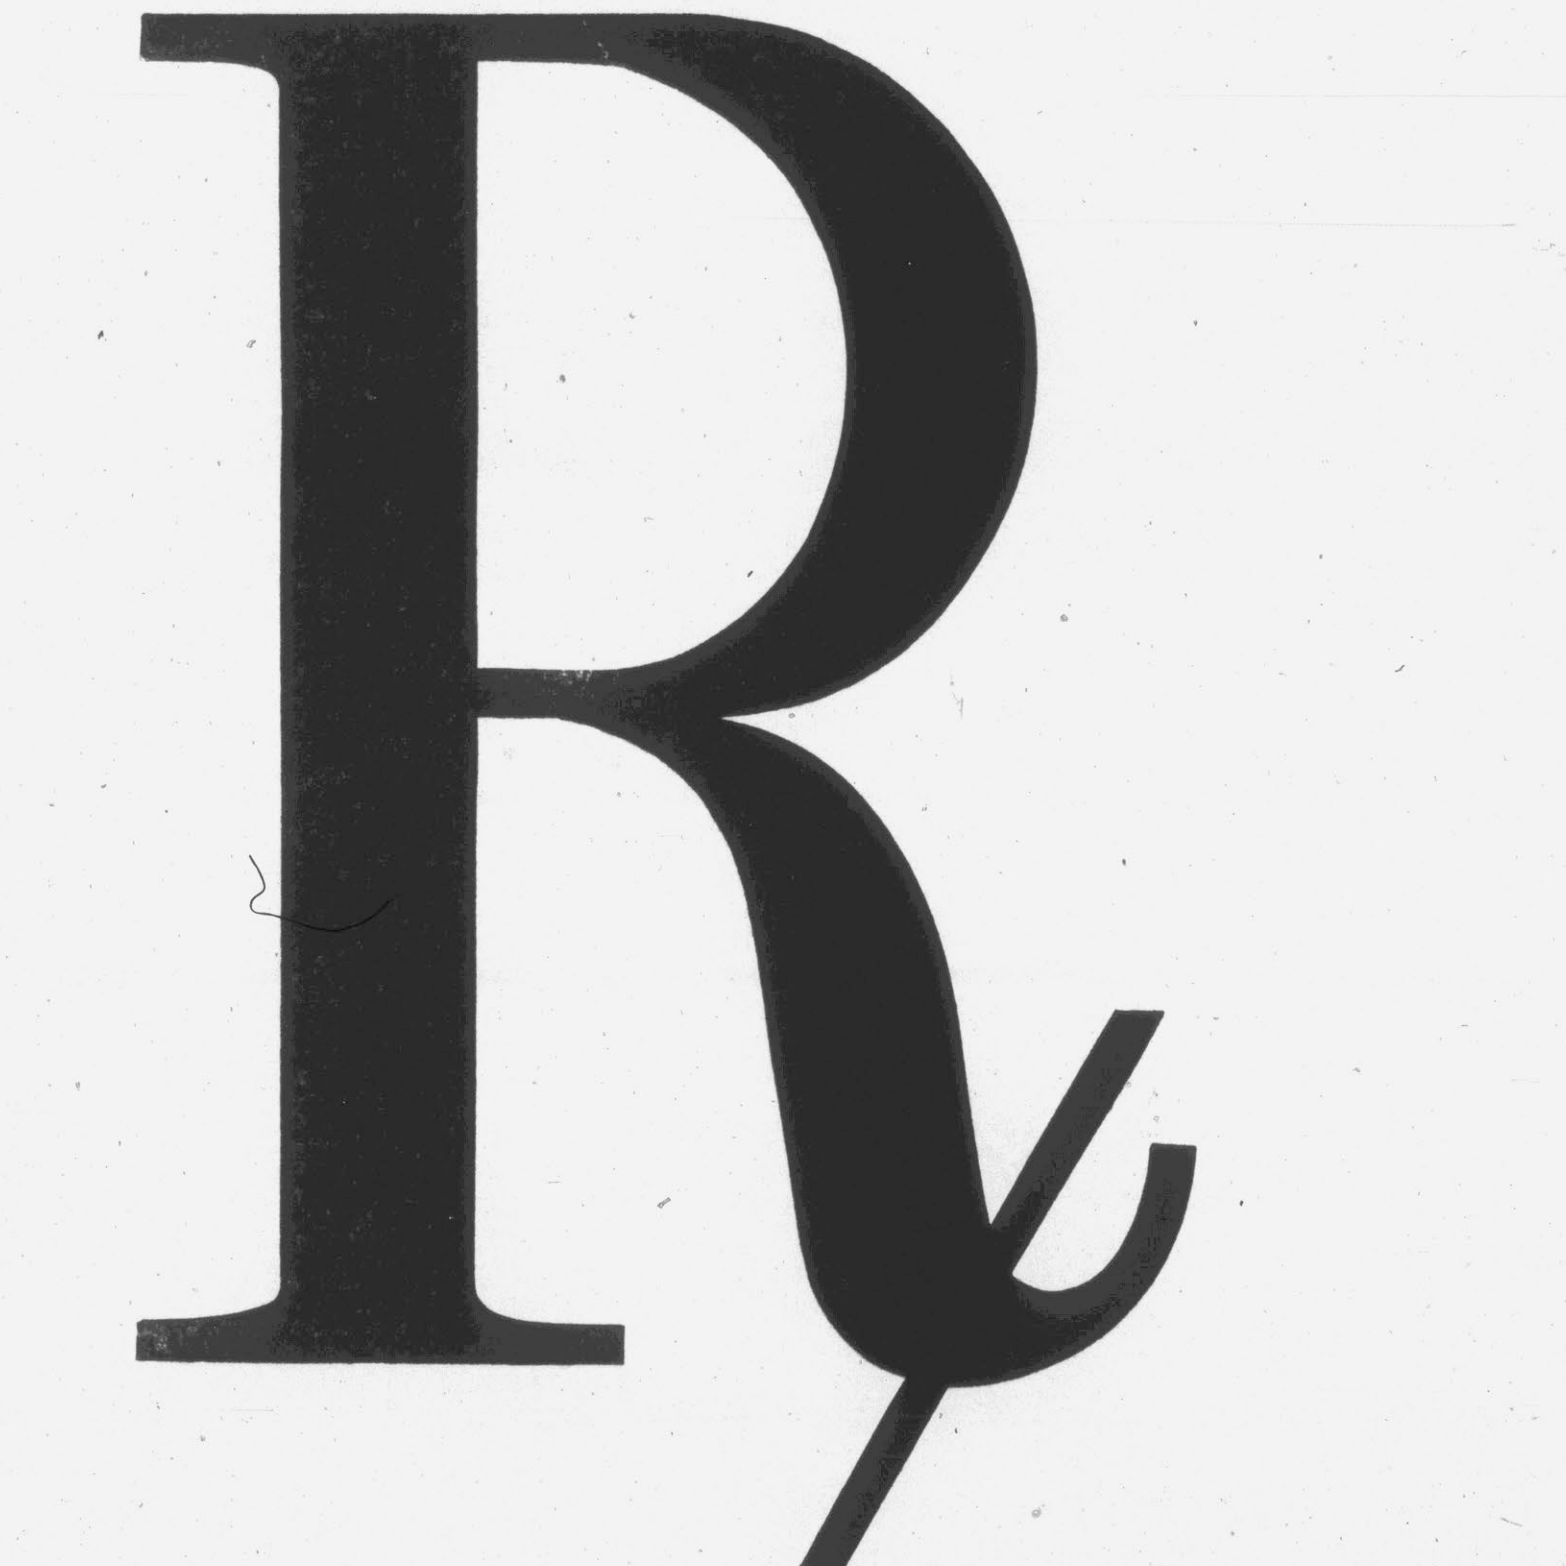

Deputies were assisted by Constable Joe Joyner in the investigation.

Kinney's address was listed as Kershaw, Long Island, N. Y.

X-Ray of Head

THE MISSING CHEEK-BONE IS VERY EVIDENT IN THIS SKETCH—

YOU SEEN THIS?

OF COURSE, IF HE STILL WEARS FACE PUTTY MAKE-UP AS HE DID WHEN HE WAS AN ACTOR—

IN ANY EVENT, IT WOULDN'T CHANGE HIS GENERAL FEATURES ENOUGH TO MATTER.

AND BEING THE FUGITIVE HE IS, HE DARE NOT SHOP FOR FACE MAKE-UP ANYMORE—TOO RISKY.

YES, HE'S GOT TO STAY OFF THE STREET.

SPEAKING OF STAYING OFF THE STREET—

BOY DID HE GET HUFFY JUST BECAUSE YOUR CIGARETTE BURNED A HOLE IN HIS MATTRESS.

GRAB THAT PAPER!

BUT HE SLAPPED OUT THE FIRE WITH HIS HANDS AND SAVED MY LIFE. HE MUST BE OKAY.

HE SLAPPED OUT THAT FIRE LIKE HE WAS PROTECTING SOMETHING ELSE BESIDES YOU.

HEY! HOLD EVERYTHING!

Public Notice

NOTICE OF SALE
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by W. S. Shine, widower, dated February 17, 1954, and recorded in Book R-27, at page 345 in the Pitt County Registry, North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and said deed of trust being by its terms subject to foreclosure the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the court house door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 11:00 a. m. on Friday, May 18, 1962, the property conveyed in said deed of trust described as follows:
"That certain lot or parcel of land lying and being situated in the County of Pitt and State of North Carolina; said lot being located south of and near the City of Greenville and bounded as follows: BEGINNING at Mary Forbes Clark's northeast corner of Greene Street as extended and running thence in a westerly direction with the northern boundary of the said Clark line about 110 feet to a corner; thence in a northwesterly direction parallel to Greene Street 60 feet to a corner; thence in an easterly direction parallel to said Clark's line about 110 feet to a stake, a corner; thence with the western boundary line of Greene Street in a southerly direction 70 feet to a corner, the point of BEGINNING, containing about one-half acre more or less and being the identical property conveyed to W. S. Shine by L. C. Arthur and wife, Nellie F. Arthur, and James L. Little, Trustee, by deed dated November 25, 1927 as recorded in Book E-17, at page 51 in the Pitt County Registry, EXCEPTED from this property is Lot conveyed by W. S. Shine, unmarried, to Jonah Reese by deed dated September 19, 1947, as appears in Book A-25, at page 398 and being the southernmost thirty feet by one hundred and thirty feet of the W. S. Shine lot as described in Book E-17, at page 51 of the Pitt County Registry."
This sale will be made subject to all outstanding taxes and municipal assessments.

A ten percent deposit will be required of the highest bidder to be held by the Trustee until such time as final confirmation of sale is made, at which time the balance of the bid price shall be due and payable to the Trustee.
This the 17th day of April, 1962.

CHAPTER 24
"Who is the enemy, you or the British?" Katie Dale asked Hugh Spencer, vehemently. "How easy it would be for you to denounce me as soon as we arrived in New York. Pa is usually so shrewd, but he can't see that you plan to hand us over to the crown and vindicate yourself."

"I've taken an oath to support the government of the United States, and I intend to remain faithful to the uniform I'm wearing," he said flatly, refusing to lower his dignity by giving her a fuller explanation. "We're alone, so you needn't pretend to be so noble."

"I believe you know just enough about me to realize that I won't let my father walk into a trap alone. After you've sent him to an English prison, you think I'll follow and try to help him." Katie's expression was mocking. "There, I've uncovered your little secret, haven't I?"

"Then behave sensibly!" He had felt the warmth of her body beneath his touch, and his anger was dissipating. "Thank you, I've eaten nothing since breakfast," Hugh said, glancing at Katie, then turned to Beny. "Toby needs a rubdown."

"I'm not leaving this room until I hear what's happened," Katie declared, flaring. "Beny made no move, either. Hugh smiled as he removed his gauntlet gloves. 'The major has approved our plan to move into New York immediately.'"

"And the money?" Beny asked eagerly. "Did you get the money?" "Some of it, but not as much as I wanted. Funds at headquarters are limited, and there's very little to spare for intelligence."

"I could manufacture a supply of excellent English ten-pound notes before we leave. I think their ten-pound bill is the finest work of art I've ever produced anywhere."

Hugh grinned, but shook his head firmly. "Ah, well. If Major Tallmadge didn't give you enough, perhaps I can supply the difference myself, using legitimate currency."

"That's very generous," Hugh replied, surprised. "No, I'm anxious to ensure my own safety, so it's completely selfish. I've learned that the greater the risk involved in an enterprise, the greater the need for a fat purse."

Thirty-One Cases Disposed Of In Pitt Superior Court
