

JFK Asks Labor Four Pitt Prison Camp Escapees Are Adopt Policy Of Captured; Seven Felons Still At Large Public Interest

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—President Kennedy pledged today a continuing effort to maintain wage-price stability, saying that if people considered this improper they could get a new White House occupant.

Kennedy clearly outlined his view that the times call for a strong president, in a rousing address to more than 10,000 delegates and observers at the United Auto Workers convention.

"I believe," Kennedy said, "it is the business of the President of the United States to concern himself with the general welfare and the public interest—and if the people feel that it is not, then they should secure the services of a new president."

Kennedy said he has never suggested statutory wage-price controls but believes it is a continuing governmental responsibility to make the nation's interest abundantly clear in maintaining wage-price stability.

It is the government's role, he said, "not to seek to compel, but to seek to lead to be sure that the parties who are involved in these great decisions are aware of the effect . . . upon the national interest and the national security."

Some 10,000 delegates to the UAW convention and onlookers thronged to Atlantic City's Convention Hall to hear the President, who made a whirlwind trip to this resort and back to Washington this morning.

Kennedy drew the loudest roar from the friendly crowd when he predicted Congress this year would enact a program of medical care for the aged financed through the Social Security system.

He based his appeal for non-inflationary wage and benefit settlements on "gains out of the fruits of technology instead of the pockets of the consumers." In effect, he called for generally holding increases to the same ratio as rises in productivity.

Only a week ago Kennedy had voiced a similar appeal to business for support of his economic moderation policies. In an address to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Kennedy had also, as he did again today, pledged assurance the government will steer clear of wage-price fixing.

His remarks today were often interrupted by thunderous applause. The crowd was augmented by the fact Atlantic City school children had been released from their classes for the occasion.

Banners and balloons festooned the Convention Hall. One huge banner said "UAW All the Way with JFK." Another proclaimed that "We have a good President."

Grifton Elects Commissioners

GRIFTON—Voters here yesterday re-elected Commissioners W. M. January and J. C. Hart to office, and elected a former commissioner, B. G. Tucker, to serve with them on the Town Board of Commissioners.

S. lost in their bids to capture Jerry Green and R. E. Dixon Sr. lost in their bids to capture seats on the Town Board.

In addition to the above candidates, 10 local residents received write-in votes during the balloting, which attracted about 160 persons to the polls out of a registration of 598.

Voting was tabulated as follows: January, 126; Hart, 119; Tucker, 102; Green, 82; and Dixon, 26.

Write-in votes were cast for J. A. Rogers, G. L. Tucker, W. H. Gower, W. M. Edge, Tom Owens, Paul Fisher, Edwin Reeves, H. P. Quinley, Sam Nelson and Walter Murphy.

Miss Louise Mewborn was registrar for the election and judges were John Scarborough and Mrs. Helen McGlohn.

The Public Housing Authority received an appraisal of property for the non-white housing site last night and revealed that appraisals of the white site have been halted until its complete feasibility can be established.

No one appeared before the Authority last night to object to either of the sites. Authority members had expected some protests since approximately 100 citizens appeared at the April City Council meeting to register protests.

The council at that time told the group that they should first take their complaints to the Public Housing Authority which is charged with the responsibility of choosing the sites.

Chairman Charles Howard said he had heard there had been

we need a better Congress."

Kennedy departed considerably from his prepared text, not mentioning for one thing the opening line of his text saying "In the legislative and political battles which lie ahead, I am counting on your support."

Kennedy did not mention an economic policy conflict which had developed between him and Reuther. However the President said he and Reuther did not always agree on everything.

"He is happy to admit it and I am reluctant to," Kennedy said.

This apparently referred to Reuther's contention, as stated to the convention, that wages should rise faster than productivity gains until such time as there is a different balance between wage income and profits.

Reuther took occasion to amplify this position in a statement Monday night saying he subscribed to Kennedy's economic moderation policies. Kennedy, who was repeatedly called for holding wage increases generally within the rises in productivity, restated that principle today.

The free enterprise system has served us well, Kennedy said. Yet deliberations which take place in industry—deliberations that affect wages and prices—have a public impact, he said.

Parties involved in the decisions must be aware of the effects, he said, and he stressed the need for a sense of public responsibility on carrying out their roles.

Kennedy said that while he was determined to avoid wage-price controls and believed in continuing the operation of free enterprise, the responsibilities of the nation to itself and its free world partners require the government to make stability wage-price guides clearly known.

Thus within a month of his successful battle to force Big Steel to roll back its price increases, Kennedy has advised labor the same standard will be applied to wage increases—the public interest.

Howard succeeds Walter B. Jones of Farmville who has served as president of the organization for the past year.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting of the organization last night were David J. Whichard II, Greenville, vice president; J. M. Horton, Fountain, secretary; and James W. Joyner, Greenville, treasurer.

Elected to the United Fund Council were Kenneth Hite, James T. Little and Dr. Ray Minges of Greenville.

den; J. Herbert Waldrop, Greenville; B. B. Sugg Jr., Greenville; Sam Nelson, Grifton; and Mamie Dall, Grimesland.

C. Wade, Greenville.

The new president of Pitt County is a veteran of United Fund work having been active in local campaigns since he moved here two years ago. Last year he was elected to the board of directors of the Pitt county organization. While in Salisbury before coming to Greenville he served as campaign chairman of the Salisbury United Fund.

Howard served with the U.S. Air Force during World War II as a pilot with the rank of captain. He joined Wachovia Bank and Trust Company in Salisbury in 1948. In addition to his United Fund work in Salisbury, Howard was active in many other community affairs serving as chairman of the Rowan County Industrial Committee, president of the Salisbury Merchants Association, president of the Country Club and in local offices.

In Greenville he is a member of the Rotary Club, a director of the local Chamber of Commerce, and was appointed by Gov. Sanford as a member of the executive and finance committee of the N.C. Citizens Committee. He was also a member of the Picklen Stadium Fund committee which recently raised more than $270,000 for a new stadium at East Carolina College.

"No one can question the fact that progressive Pitt County must continue to actively support the United Fund and I have every confidence that the (Continued on page 12)

Director William Cochran read a letter which had been sent prior to the meeting inviting councilmen to attend. Chairman Howard expressed appreciation to the mayor for his attendance.

Cochran also read correspondence he had obtained from the office of Robert Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Cochran explained that in answer to a letter written by Mrs. Selma S. Lang, the Washington office had replied that Greenville's tentative public housing sites were approved Oct. 1, 1961.

This proved to be incorrect, Cochran said, and the Washington office subsequently wrote a corrected letter informing Mrs. Lang that the tentative sites were approved Jan. 19.

Cochran said the original date had been made the subject of Seven of the 11 escaped convicts who fled the Pitt County Prison Unit early yesterday are still being hunted by prison officials. The remaining four are back in custody after only a day of "freedom."

Lawmen in South Carolina captured two of the escapees, Lloyd Laye, 27, and Leroy Darden, 17. They also recovered a car, stolen from Greenville shortly after the jailbreak. Their capture came about midnight last night.

Earlier last night, the only life termer, George E. Staples, was taken by officers as he walked beside N.C. 11 about a mile and a half south of Bethel.

Patrolman Luther Long and Prison Department Lt. Hal Reicha spotted Staples and drove up beside him, Capt. L. P. Dail, superintendent of the Pitt prison, said.

Staples saw the officers coming, Dail commented, and quoted the escapee as saying he was "tired, sick and ready to give up."

"He was ready to come home and the officers obliged him," the official explained.

This was about 10 p.m. The first of the four convicts to be returned to custody was Robert Picarski, 20, who was chased down by bloodhounds.

Picarski walked from a wooded area and out onto N.C. Highway 903 with his hands raised about 4:45 p.m. This was near the intersection of N.C. 11 and N.C. 903.

Capt. Dail theorized there are "probably at least five" of the escapees still in Pitt County. "I think probably two went off in the pickup truck," he stated.

The pickup truck Dail referred to was a truck taken from a dwelling near the Prison Unit about 2:10 a.m. Monday. It was the theft of this truck which led to the discovery of the jailbreak by Capt. Dail.

Greenville police officer A. G. Whitaker, a former Pitt Prison employee, called the camp head at his home when he received the report of the stolen truck. Dail went to the unit to check and discovered the hole sawed in the bars. He immediately alerted local, county and state officials and the search for the fugitives began.

Dail said Staples told him that he was one of the last to slide through the 12 by 18 inch hole, scale the prison fence and flee into the woods. However, he did not know who or how many other men made the break, Dail quoted him as saying.

The pickup truck was owned by Benjamin Edwards Thomas Jr. of Route 6, Greenville, while the auto recovered in South Carolina is owned by an East Carolina College student, Kenneth Ross of Charlotte.

Of the four prisoners returned to custody, only one, Staples, has escaped before. In addition to his life sentence for first degree murder, he was under a six-month sentence for escape.

Still wanted by authorities are seven prisoners: Johnnie Cobb, 44, of Rocky Mount, who was serving a 10-year term for breaking, entering and larceny from Edgecombe County. He is six feet, one inch tall, weighs 162 pounds and is of slender build.

John T. McMurray, 21, of Albemarle, serving a two- to four-year sentence from Cabarrus County for breaking and entering and a six-month term for escape from Franklin County. McMurray is of medium build, 6 feet, one inch tall, and weighs 165 pounds.

Marvin Tew, 28, of Kinston was serving a five- to nine-year sentence for breaking and entering from Greene County. He weighs 150 pounds, is five feet eight inches tall and is of medium build.

John W. Shealy, 22, of Hickory is six feet, one inch tall, weighs 160 pounds and is of slender build. He was serving an 18-24 month sentence from Lincoln County for breaking and entering and six months for escape.

James B. Wilson, 41, of Beckley, W. Va. was serving a seven-year sentence for escape from the Pactivolus School District.

Commissioners Continue Show Rest Home Interest

Interest stirred again Monday in erection of a new rest home of at least 40 beds for the aged and infirm of Pitt County.

Bruce Strickland, third district County Commissioner of Bell Arthur, was appointed chairman of a revitalized subcommittee on the matter after Greenville physician Dr. S. R. Bartlett, who has been active in investigations of erecting such a facility, appeared at Monday's meeting.

Discussion among the commissioners and Bartlett indicated the project has been allowed to lull in hopes that private capital would be interested in construction of a rest home in Pitt. During the past 18 months there have been several indications of private interest, but none have materialized.

Bartlett, in appearing before the board, suggested the possibility of a bond issue to finance the structure. He said the need is as intense as ever. The commissioners agreed investigation into the rest home project should now go forward.

Strickland said he would call his committee—which includes Bartlett, J. H. Waldrop of Greenville and others—into session soon to seek a recommendation to the commissioners.

Bartlett told the commissioners a year-old "outside" cost estimate of a rest home is about $4,000 a bed. That figure would place estimated cost of the proposed project at a minimum of $160,000.

Earlier, the commissioners—at the request of the county's Overall Planning Committee—had faced a dual problem; construction of a facility to include nursing and rest home capacities. Bartlett said a Norfolk firm has indicated interest in raising local capital to invest in a nursing home operation, thus allowing the county to concentrate its efforts on the rest home facility.

In other business, the commissioners stamped official approval on a Chicod School district referendum that adopted a 10-cent increase in the district tax levy. The board's resolution gave final approval to the April 21 vote that favored the tax rise by an overwhelming majority, 124-9.

Supervisor R. S. Moyle reported his office collected $33,265.79 in taxes during April. His report showed collections from July 1 through April 25 totaled $1,502,325.99, more than $55,000 above the $1,447,019.82 collected during the corresponding period a year ago.

The commissioners approved the following tax releases: Donald Gorham (heirs) Falkland Township, $409, real estate double-listed; E. H. Taft and Wachovia Bank, Greenville Township, $50.23, tax assessment based on completed horse that was only half completed; Alex Cuthrell, Ayden Township, error in value of truck; City Drug Co., Farmville Township, $109.96 (1961) and $56.64 (1962), inventory listed incorrectly in both cases.

The board authorized advertising for bids for a new tax-billing machine for Moyle's department. Since delivery of the equipment will require an estimated 90 days, funds for the machine will come from next fiscal year's budget.

In other action, the commissioners noted May 30 will be observed by county employees as the Memorial Day holiday.

Rose High Faculty Entertains Dowds

Principal Orren E. Dowd and Mrs. Dowd were honored at a dinner party Sunday evening, given by the Rose High School faculty at the home of Miss Frances R. Smith on Johnston Street.

Members of the school hospitality committee—Mrs. Grace H. Caraway, chairman, Mrs. Mary A. Hendrix, Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin, Mrs. Nancy Singleton, and Mrs. Margaret B. Farley—acted as hostesses for the occasion.

Mrs. Caraway and Miss Smith greeted the guests at the door and invited them to the sun porch, where they were served tomato cocktails by Mrs. Hendrix and Mrs. Evelyn B. Moye.

Mrs. Dowd was presented a corsage of yellow roses and Mr. Dowd, a boutonniere.

The home was thrown en suite for the party. Floral arrangements consisting of yellow chrysanthemums, snapdragons, shasta daisies, and roses were used throughout the house.

A white nylon tablecloth over pink taffeta covered the buffet table. A crystal epergne filled with pink roses and lighted white tapers formed the centerpiece.

On the honor table in the living room, which was covered with an imported linen cutwork tablecloth, were two silver epergnes filled with pink sweet-peas and sweetheart roses and lighted white tapers. A manzanita branch holding miniature May baskets of Sweet Williams and mock orange decorated the mantelpiece. Shasta daisies and lighted white tapers in silver candleholders were used as centerpieces on the auxiliary tables.

Mrs. Ruth T. Bing, in presenting an attache case to Mr. Dowd as a memento from the faculty, expressed the feelings of the staff in the words of W. R. Hunt, which in essence indicate the principal-teacher relationship at Rose High: "A few friends who understand me and still remain my friends."

Mr. Dowd's words of response revealed his appreciation not only for the friendly atmosphere at the party but for all other associations with the staff at work and at play.

Robert G. Mulder, at the keyboard, entertained the guests with several selections.

Presiding at the main table was Miss Deanie B. Haskett, who was assisting in serving by Curtis Simpson and Launa Brewington, Rose High School employees.

League Fashion Show, Tournament May 11

Final plans were made Monday morning at the Service League's May meeting for the fashion show-bridge tournament to be held May 11 for the benefit of the Laughinghouse Bed Fund.

The fashion show will be presented at both morning and afternoon tournaments. The morning game will be held from 10 o'clock until 12:30 with the afternoon game from 2 until 4:30.

Mrs. C. C. Abernathy and Mrs. Cecil Bultro, co-chairmen, stated this benefit will be held at the home of Mrs. John G. Clark, 2007 East Fifth Street Extension. Reservations are being accepted and those interested should telephone Mrs. P. K. Andersen, PL 2-4815, or Mrs. C. C. Abernathy, PL 2-7555.

Belvoir H. D. Club Has Meet

The Belvoir Home Demonstration Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. T. Dupree at her home on the Belvoir-Falkland Road.

The meeting was opened with the group singing a new club song, "Onward, Ever Onward," with Mrs. E. R. Lewis at the piano. Mrs. R. F. Clark gave a short Bible reading followed by The Lord's Prayer.

Home Economics Agent Mrs. Sue May gave a demonstration on "Safe and Approved Methods of Food Conservation." She asked that we produce, can, and freeze more of our yearly food supply on our farms, and that we shop for what we buy at the markets, being careful to read labels on canned foods.

She discussed three methods of conserving foods at home—freezing, canning by pressure, and canning by hot water bath, stressing especially that all non-acid foods must be canned by the pressure canner method. String beans, squash, and other non-acid vegetables canned in hot water are considered not safe to eat.

Mrs. J. T. Dupree gave a family life report on the problems of our older people, using quotes from the first regional conference of the American Medical Association on aging. The hostess served refreshments.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With More Comfort

FASTEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Mrs. Selby Coffman, projects chairman, requested members to be prepared to submit their May hours when telephoned May 20 in order that the yearly hour reports could be completed. All committee chairmen are to submit final reports to Mrs. Wade by May 10. Mrs. Wade, in the absence of Hospital Bed Chairman Mrs. W. S. Bost, reported two patients being helped at present through the Laughinghouse Bed Fund.

Mrs. James T. Little, Coffee Shop chairman, thanked League members who assisted at the shop during Easter vacation. She asked the volunteers working this term to watch for pertinent notices to be placed on the cash register. League members who have not received their aprons should contact Mrs. Little. The exhaust fan in the Coffee Shop has been replaced and is working efficiently.

Hospital activities chairman Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr. reported 115 tray favors made and delivered to the hospital. Also during the Easter season, Easter baskets were placed on the third and fourth floors and flowers placed at the main desk and in the dining room.

A slate of officers for the ensuing two years was read by Mrs. George Lautares and approved unanimously. This slate listed Mrs. W. S. Corbitt Jr., president; Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr., vice president; and Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr., 2nd vice president.

Mrs. Charles Adams, League member, announced that the recent tetanus clinics held in Pitt County had received statewide acclaim for their huge success. She commended all community volunteers who made this possible. Mrs. Milton Williamson, in charge of League volunteers for this effort, was thanked by Mrs. Wade for serving as chairman.

One Girl Scout campership and two Boy Scout camperships for the summer of 1962 were approved by the membership.

Single Bathroom Dilemma Solved

If the entire family shares a single bathroom, try scheduling the children's tub baths for bedtime. This will alleviate delays at get-up time.

An alternate suggestion to prevent early morning bickering is to supplement the bathroom facilities by installing a wall-hung wash-basin in one or more of the bedrooms.

Washable-type artificial flowers are a thrifty investment because they can be "laundered" regularly by dipping into a solution of warm soap or detergent suds, and rinsing the same way. Many of these blossoms are so realistic that even the touch barely reveals that they are made of plastic.

This provides a waterproof surface which can be wiped off weekly with soap or detergent suds.

Ample Grounds For Estes Inquiry

There appears ample room for investigation of relationship between officials of the Department of Agriculture and Texas financier Billie Sol Estes, but any such investigation should not be undertaken with a preconceived political party viewpoint.

Sufficient questions regarding Estes' dealings with the Department of Agriculture have been raised to warrant a complete and unbiased investigation. The citizens are entitled to know whether any favoritism was shown Estes or his associates in his widespread agricultural activities. Regardless of party affiliation, members of Congress who may be called on to make the investigation should do so forthrightly and let the chips fall where they may.

Already the matter of a full investigation into the Estes relationship with the Department of Agriculture has begun to take on partisan political overtones. Unfortunate as that is, these political overtones should not pave the way for an investigation purely on political grounds.

It seems to us officials on both sides of the political fence should want to know—just as the average citizen wants to know—whether there was any improper or unwise conduct on the part of any officials within the Department of Agriculture. They should also want to know how Estes was able to carry out the deals which he apparently did. If such information is not brought to light fully, how are safeguards to be taken against similar occurrences in the future?

The investigation of the matter, it seems to us, should be prompt and thorough and conducted forthrightly without partisan bickering between the political parties.

Something Is Amiss When 11 Can Escape

Something obviously is amiss when 11 prisoners have both the equipment and the time to saw their way out of a prison camp and escape during the night.

The incident which occurred at the Pitt County prison camp Sunday night or early Monday morning is a matter which should have the careful attention of prison authorities of the state, as well as local prison camp officers.

In recent months there have been a number of escapes by prisoners assigned to the Pitt County camp. Although most of those prior to Sunday night have occurred while the prisoners were on work assignments, it appears to us that the frequency of escapes has been higher than might be expected.

Certainly it is not unreasonable for the people of this county to look forward to some explanation of how the prisoners were able to obtain the saw with which they were able to cut the iron bars that opened the way for their escape. Neither is it unreasonable for the people of this immediate area to expect a satisfactory explanation of how the prisoners were without surveillance for sufficient time—even at night—to complete the job of sawing through the bars.

The public expects that prisoners will escape from time to time even under the most rigid security conditions, but the incident which occurred at the Pitt County camp this weekend appears to us far more serious than the routine escape in which a man manages to slip away from a road gang.

Nothing Constructive In This Legislation

Members of the Senate tomorrow will vote on whether to close off debate of the proposed legislation that would set a sixth-grade education as the only literacy requirement for voting.

If the move to end debate is successful the Senate will go on to decide the issue. If it is unsuccessful, the matter, in all probability, will be shelved for the rest of the current session.

Such legislation would be another major step in taking away from the states one of their traditional powers of setting qualifications for participating in elections. Moreover, it would not eliminate the possibility that some registrars in a few scattered precincts would try to bar from registering persons who should be qualified to cast their ballots.

The legislation offers nothing truly constructive in the broad effort to prevent discrimination against potential voters. If anything, it will provide a device which could be used for greater discrimination against individual potential voters than the system of state laws now in use.

Congress and the states should insist that their laws governing qualification of voters be administered fairly to all citizens, but this proposed legislation, it seems to us, is moving at the problem from the wrong direction.

The Senate would do well to kill the bill which has held its attention for the past two weeks with the long debate.

Former Help Is Never Recalled

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—What have you done for me lately?

This is something neither labor nor business mentions when they howl in protest against government interference with their freedom, particularly their freedom to deal with each other.

President Kennedy's troubles with labor and business are piling up just now, luckily for him, his troubles with Premier Khrushchev are quieting down a bit.

His hope of persuading labor and management to keep wages and prices down to avoid inflation got another jolt Sunday from Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO Auto Workers.

In a report to the UAW convention Reuther rejected Kennedy's hope — sometimes called a formula, although it's pretty vague — as a long-term goal. He called for higher wages than Kennedy has in mind.

The free enterprise system hasn't been completely free — real freedom must also include freedom from depending on the government for help — since the first Congress passed the first tariff act to protect American producers from foreign competition.

The desire for this kind of government help, or protection, is still there. Last week a strong group at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce meeting tried to undercut the chamber's limited support of Kennedy's proposals for federal aid to companies and workers damaged by rising imports under the pending trade expansion program.

Various segments of business, just like the farmers who want government price supports, are glad to get government subsidies, tax benefits or other help.

Labor, which always talks vigorously about freedom in dealing with management, was delighted with the 1955 Wagner Act which interfered in labor-management relations by saying employers must bargain with a union.

Labor wants all the benefits it can get, like government assistance upon a minimum wage, a 40-hour work week or less.

Add up all that both sides want in the way of government help — which invariably means government intrusion in their affairs — and they are not talking about the principle of absolute freedom.

They're talking about not wanting to give up any more freedom than they can help, without government intrusion.

Very often this is a myth. Too, there hasn't been a steel labor settlement for years without the government's having to take some part in it because the union and the industry couldn't reach solutions themselves.

Last Feb. 23 a presidential railroad commission — made up of labor, management and public members — issued a report after studying for many months union-railroad troubles. The commission blasted both sides for their failure to get along, use their heads and modernize themselves.

This board, incidentally, suggested eliminating 35,000 to 45,000 jobs as unnecessary, although the railroad unions have wanted no part of that.

Last week a Kennedy-appointed three-man board, while recommending a pay raise of about 10 cents an hour for 450,000 railroad employees who don't work on trains, also criticized both sides for their failure to settle their own problems without involving the aid of outsiders.

Also last week an advisory committee appointed by Kennedy — made up of labor, management and public members — figured it was about time the government should butt into labor-management relations a little more by creating fact-finding boards to recommend settlements.

Last month Kennedy had to get a court order to halt — if only temporarily — a maritime strike. He angered the steel industry by the pressure he asserted to force a rollback in suddenly raised steel prices.

This apparently angered a lot of businessmen, as indicated by reports on the reaction Kennedy got when he addressed the U.S. Chamber of Commerce last week.

Kennedy faces more trouble with other unions in the months ahead.

The various reports from committees and commissions are building up the impression that labor and management are dragging their feet when it comes to settling their problems intelligently.

Why Are You Still Here?

Fire Across The Water

A big fire across the sound from Atlantic Beach early in the morning is a rather awesome sight but there it was I awoke in the cottage where I stayed this weekend.

A huge column of smoke arose from it and, high in the sky it gradually dispersed as it floated lazily towards the sea.

The blaze itself was surprisingly vivid considering the distance across the sound waters to the mainland. As with all extremely hot fires a great yellow ball of fire would occasionally belch skyward and then disappear into the dense smoke.

I speculated on what it could be as I watched it through the window. It was obviously west of Morehead but it was also east of the Morehead-Biltmore Hotel which I could plainly see on the far shore.

Apparently firemen were on the job for after a time the flames began to disappear. On ly an orange tongue would occasionally lick upward. Then this, too, ceased.

After that, the huge column of smoke turned blacker still, a sure reminder that something had been destroyed.

Later in the day I rose across the bridge to Morehead and then out U.S. 70 to see what it was all about. I found the scene of the fire. The Rex Restaurant had burned to the ground.

Jaycees most of us know as young men between the ages of 21 and 36 who carry on an unusually large number of projects in the community. As a club they are sometimes brash and often go against the established order of things in a community.

How many of us know what a Jaycee is statistically, however? Well, according to a publication I recently came across, the North Carolina Jaycee is statistically 30 years old. Eighty-seven percent of them are married. One of each three Jaycees is in business for himself and 82 percent have served in the armed forces. The average Jaycee's income is $5,633. He owns 1.22 cars, trading every three years, and more than likely sports of one kind or another is his hobby.

Of every 100 Jaycees, 65 are college graduates and nearly 90 attended college. The typical Jaycee has been in his club just over four years and he gives an average of six hours of his own time each week to his club's civic service projects.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WHAT'S THE RUSH?

We are accustomed to the warning, "Stop, look and listen." At railroad crossings we give it some attention, but as a general admonition regarding our everyday activities we pay slight attention to it.

In other words, we are all too likely to make hasty decisions and to plunge precipitantly into courses of action. There are occasions when we have only a little time — perhaps a split second — to make a decision. But in most decisions we can take a reasonable amount of time to mull things over.

We speak of hasty marriages. Such relationships entered into hastily frequently lead to the divorce court. We can all remember times in our lives when we made a hasty business decision, or decided upon some course of action which we later regretted. There is such a thing, of course, as spending too much time in thinking about an issue, until we become introverted and morbid. But more often we err on the side of too hasty a decision.

What's the rush anyway? Is it not true that in making most of our decisions we can at least take a little time? If this is true, then let us not make the mistake of precipitant, or perhaps reckless, action. An extra hour, an extra day, an extra year given to reflection on some vital issue may someday pay big dividends.

A little reflection and self-restraint now may save a lot of trouble later on.

Large Corporations' Earnings

By ELMER ROESSNER

Each quarter the First National City Bank of New York compiles statistics on earnings of large corporations. The figures for the first quarter of 1962 show that 44 iron and steel companies had earnings 168 per cent higher than in the first quarter of 1961.

Profits in the first quarter of 1962 were $78,852,000; in the first quarter of 1961, they were $214,689,000.

At first glance the figures seem to substantiate President Kennedy's charge that the steel companies do not need a price increase to meet higher labor costs. But a closer look shows the figures do not necessarily support that.

BEHIND THE FIGURES

For one reason, as the bank pointed out, there was a rush to buy steel during the first quarter as users built up inventories to protect themselves in event of a strike. Demand caused the industry to operate at a rate of 124 million tons of ingots a year, whereas it operated at a rate of only 80 million tons in the first quarter of 1961.

For another, the profits in the first quarter of this year were down 38 per cent from the first quarter of 1960 and down 33 per cent from the first quarter of 1959.

And for still another, profits in the first quarter of 1962 were down 11 per cent from the last quarter of 1961.

Despite the steel company's showing—and it was a good showing, despite comparisons—it paled in comparison to that of 40 railroads, whose profits rose from $6,357,000 in the first quarter of 1961 to $69,641,000 in the first quarter of 1962, a gain of more than 1,000 per cent. Of the 967 corporations in the tabulation, the aggregate gain from the first quarter of 1961 to the first quarter of 1962 was 29 per cent, but the change from the fourth quarter of 1961 to the first quarter of 1962 was a decline of 9 per cent.

In the comparison of the first quarter of 1961 to the first quarter of 1962, a group of 77 auto and parts companies showed increased earnings of 137 per cent, and 30 textile and apparel corporations increased profits by 92 per cent.

Twenty-four nonferrous metal corporations had increased earnings of 50 per cent. All other groups made lesser gains and none showed losses.

However, in the comparison of the last quarter of 1961 to the first quarter of 1962, all but two groups showed lesser profits. One group, 59 electric power,

Living Longer Today

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I dropped in to a luncheon which Mary Lasker gives annually to award prizes to some who write about medical matters. Mary Lasker's luncheons are interesting because those who are there are often doctors, of some sort or other, and the table conversation can be rich. The medical sciences and arts, and their associated disciplines, are achieving wonders not only in prolonging life but in making life more comfortable. As evidence, I offer myself, who, during the past six years, has had all major illnesses and has only missed four days of work.

Even half a century ago, this would have been impossible. I should surely have died by now. Alive, even gay. I laugh at those who these days live in fear. Feeling very cheerful after Mrs. Lasker's lunch, I bought myself a pretty necktie, went up to my doctor's and got a B-12 shot, just for fun.

And that is really the whole point of the luncheon and all the speeches that were made, except by the politician—as he himself said—Abraham Ribicoff, who wanted us all to favor his ideas about attaching old-age health care to social security, which I do not like, because I have no faith in social security.

It is, of course, tough not to have the money to pay the doctor or the hospital or the undertaker. But then, poverty is always tough and intolerable and is, in many instances, due to shiftness and profligacy and an unwillingness to be thrifty and to work hard, and to push along. It is preferable to save for a rainy day as Albert Lasker did.

Nevertheless, it must be noted that as old folks grow older and as children do not like to be burdened with aging parents, something must be devised to safeguard these individuals. This is one of the few countries where there are no beggars; on the other hand, it is also a sign of moral decadence that children do not honor their parents by protecting them from dependence on government.

The general cry is that hospitals charge too much, which is true, if one does not have the money to pay the going rates. On the other hand, how much is too much about anything? For instance, when my life was saved from a cancer, I regarded the cost very small indeed, because I enjoy living. It is an extremely pleasant episode.

For one who does not enjoy remaining alive but who hopes to take a trip to Hong Kong rather than to pay a doctor, the price is too high. But it is not so long ago that nobody survived certain illnesses which are today handleable by capable doctors and surgeons. This is what the Lasker Foundation luncheon seeks to make known by stimulating interest in medical reporting.

For instance, there was an interesting discussion about retarded children, for which Rolf Hertzgaard of WBAL-TV of Baltimore won a prize. One constantly meets retarded children and even retarded adults. The slow-witted, as they used to be called, are part of our citizenry and have a vote. Apart from the sufferings of their parents and kinfolk, they only too often become bad citizens. The wisest thing I can remember, after I possess long-sighted memories, being blocked on all subjects but one, and that one is sometimes self-preservation which forces them to be liars and cheats.

I can recall, in my childhood, how we used to make fun of such children, but today apparently much can be done for them. The psychologist plays a great role in this reconstruction of children. If only they could reconstruct some adult life, I am sure, "stick your tongue out!" The application of every science to the preservation and prolongation of life gives us new responsibilities. For instance, the problems of the older grow more serious and numerous every day, particularly as employment rules are made to conform with life insurance company attitudes that are often unrealistic. The problems arising from our better knowledge of foods are numerous, for we socially inherit tastes which have been proved medically to be damaging.

But the greatest problem today is the unwillingness of the layman to understand that, dur-

2-Year-Old Dies Of Rat Poison

A two-year-old Negro youth, who accidentally drank rat poison, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 4:20 p.m. yesterday.

Melvin Ray Hopkins, 308 Center St., was admitted to the hospital at 1:09 p.m. after drinking about three ounces of rat poison and died some three hours later, Pitt coroner E. W. Harvey said.

According to Harvey, the child drank the poison just before noon and was taken to a doctor between 12 and 12:30 p.m. sick and convulsing.

Investigation showed that the child's six-year-old brother knocked over a six-ounce bottle of poison from a shelf while reaching for some other items. The younger brother drank half the contents of the bottle then placed it on a lower shelf.

Harvey, who identified the boy's parents as Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hopkins, Jr., ruled the death accidental poisoning. Greenville police investigated the incident the official noted.

COMMISSION TO MEET

The Commission on Christian Social Concerns of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Church office.

New Moose Lodge Chairmen Selected

Jack White, the 1962 Pitt County Cancer Crusade Chairman, last night accepted the role of civic affairs chairman for Greenville Moose Lodge.

Lodge Governor Frank Fuller expressed his satisfaction over chairmanship of what has come to be known as a major appointment among committees of the Greenville fraternal organization. "The chairman's past willingness to accept responsibility are a matter of record," he noted, "and I am sure I speak for the board of officers in saying we are pleased Jack White will fill this important post in this organization."

The Greenville Moose have earned recognition on the state and national level for community service, one of the pillars upon which the fraternity is built.

Other committee chairmen named by the newly-installed Governor, are: Eli Bloom, Entertainment; Henry Flake, Ritual; Ernul Willis, Auditing; James Harris, Conservation; S. L. Rowland and D. C. Schlenz, Publicity. Jack Morgan, chairman of the Membership committee for the past year, is staying on.

Relative to the current membership drive aimed at presenting a record class of candidates for the June 24 visit of National Moose officials, Secretary E. M. Baldree noted the process of signing new members is "roughly on schedule."

He read a letter from Herbert Hillman, National Director of Membership, at Mooseheart, praising the growth of the Greenville Lodge.

"The Greenville Lodge is one of ten, so far in the entire fraternity, that have completed their assigned fifth quota for the year," wrote Hillman. "This is a tremendous accomplishment," he added, in assigning yet another membership quota.

Baldree remarked in passing that "our membership drive has already met that sixth quota, and our lodge has every reason to be proud of the pace it is setting in meeting that June 24 deadline."

Appointive officers who will serve during the 1962-63 term, as announced by Gov. Fuller, are: Boyd Cox, Sgt.-at-Arms; Raymond L. Smith Jr., Ass't Sgt.-at-Arms; Leon Singleton, Inner Guard; H. W. Noble, Ass't Inner Guard; P. A. Martin, Outer Guard.

It was also announced that no more tickets are available for the Jan Garber dance, scheduled for Thursday night. The tickets were issued on a "first come-first served" basis. A limit on the distribution was set with initial announcement of signing the Garber band, in order to accommodate the limited space available for dancing.

Curiosity Over A Recent Grave

DIXON, Ill. (AP)—A freshly dug grave near the gate of Oakwood Cemetery aroused the curiosity of cemetery superintendent Edward Slain.

The wooden headstone read: "Reggie Allen, born Jan. 28, 1962. Died April 29, 1962. We didn't have him very long."

Slain had the grave dug up to investigate. The deceased, was a pigeon.

MONEY-SAVERS

Answers to 8 questions on car care that Shell dealers often hear

Shell dealers answer thousands of questions every year. Here are 8 that crop up all the time. The answers have helped many motorists save money. They may do the same for you.

1 What's that funny noise I hear? All cars make some noise. But be particularly alert for any squeals, squeaks, clicks, or rattles that crop up suddenly. Could be anything from a sticking valve lifter to a loose wheel lug. Ask your Shell dealer to help you track down any unusual noise. You may save yourself a big repair bill later on.

2 How can I get more mileage from my tires? Rotate all tires, including the spare, every 6,000 miles. Drive at moderate speeds. Tires can wear twice as fast at 70 miles per hour as at 45. Avoid fast cornering, "jackrabbit" starts, sudden stops. Try not to bang tires against curbs. And check your tire pressure frequently.

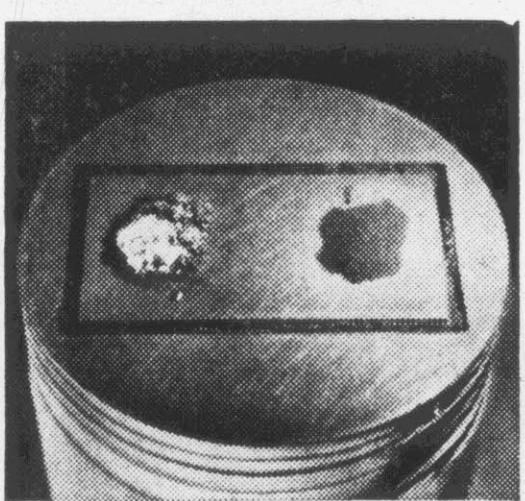

3 Do I really need a lube job every thousand miles? Yes—unless you have one of the newer models that doesn't require it. But with any car, remember that frequent lubrication offers your serviceman a chance to spot trouble before it costs you a lot of money. That's why Shell dealers give you a bumper-to-bumper inspection with every Shelllubrication.

4 Can knock hurt my engine? Usually it's more annoying than harmful. But persistent knocking hampers performance and can lead to engine damage. That's why Shell scientists are such sticklers about knock. They even listen for it with stethoscopes and insist that Super Shell contain no fewer than three knock-fighting ingredients.

5 How can I make my battery last longer? Here are four suggestions:

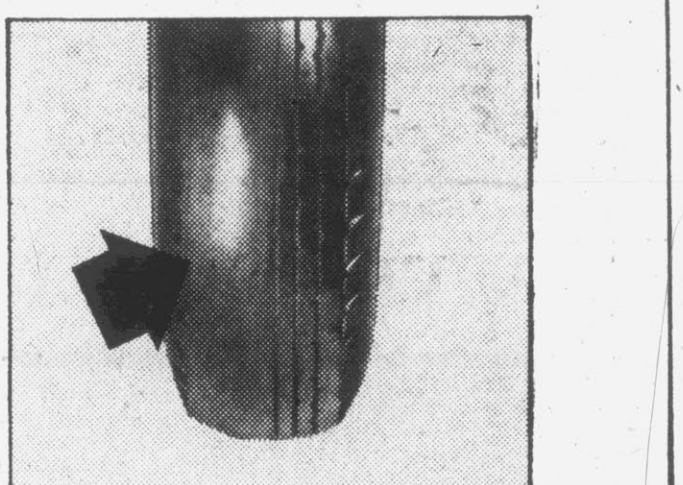

1. Let your Shell dealer check your car's electrical system. Worn wires and loose connections can drain power. 2. Always maintain battery water to the proper level. 3. Avoid prolonged idling with radio turned on. 4. Go driving! Long drives help charge your battery.

6 What does TCP do? Shell's unique TCP* is a combustion control additive. The hot piston device above shows one way TCP works. The glowing deposit on the left has not been neutralized with TCP. In your engine, glowing deposits can ignite fuel too soon, wasting fuel and power. Deposit on right has been "fireproofed" by TCP. No glow — no power loss.

7 How often should I change oil? The American Petroleum Institute recommends an oil change every 30 days in winter, every 60 days during summer.

Note: New Shell X-100® Premium is the first premium motor oil that leaves no additive ash deposits. It fights four other internal troubles that can shorten engine life.

8 Why do my tires wear out on just one side? Most likely cause: wheels out of alignment. Result: your tires drag against the road and wear unevenly. Unbalanced wheels can also cause uneven wear and make your car shake or shimmy. That's why it's a good idea to keep tires balanced and have wheel alignment checked twice a year.

Now a question for you

Is your car giving you top performance? If there's any doubt in your mind, try a tankful of today's Super Shell. It contains 9 ingredients including a gum preventive, three knock-fighters, "cat-cracked" gasoline, a mileage booster, an anti-icer, quick-starting Butane, and Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.

Colts Triumph Over Dodgers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Turnabout, which has always been considered fair play, was bound to happen after the National League stocked its new clubs through a player draft. And the No. 1 "turncoat" today is Houston's Bob Aspromonte.

The infielder, playing against his former Los Angeles teammates for the first time this season, stroked three hits and drove in the winning runs with a three-run homer in a 9-6 Colts' triumph Monday night that continued the Dodgers' nose dive.

Grabbed by the Colts for $75,000 in the expansion draft last October, Aspromonte, now 23, was the chief executioner among the cast of castoffs who combined to hand the Dodgers their fifth defeat in the last eight games.

The skid has cost the Dodgers 4½ games in the NL pennant chase. Nine days ago they were only a half game out of first place. Now they're five back of pace-setting San Francisco, idle Monday as everyone in the majors was but the Dodgers and Colts.

Aspromonte crashed the crusher in the seventh off rookie Pete Richert (1-1) with two out. Former Dodger Norm Larker walked with one out to get things started.

An out later Hal Smith singled to bring up Aspromonte, who drove one 380 feet into the left field seats for an 8-6 lead.

Aspromonte's homer gave re-ever Bob Tiefenauer all the working room he needed, but Johnny Weekly's homer in the eighth latched on an insurance run. Tiefenauer, getting his first decision, allowed only one hit in three innings.

That was by Doug Camilli, the young Dodger catcher filling in for injured John Roseboro. The son of former Dodger star Dolph Camilli wound up with a double and two singles for his night's work, giving him an 8-for-10 mark on the season.

The Colts took a 5-0 lead in the second when Joe Moeller and Ron Perranoski forced in runs with bases-loaded walks and Larker tagged a two-run single.

The Dodgers peeked away on the hitting of Camilli and Willie Davis, who had three hits to raise his average to .358, and finally moved ahead 6-5 in the sixth with a three-run spurge. Camilli drove in a pair with a single.

That set the stage for Aspromonte's game-winning.

The Dodgers will be at Houston again tonight as all 20 teams head back into action.

The first-place Giants invade St. Louis for a three-game set with the second-place Cardinals while the American League pace-setting New York Yankees are home for a two-game series with Boston.

The Giants, who had their 10-game winning streak snapped over the weekend, will send Juan Marichal (4-2) out to oppose the Cards' Larry Jackson (3-2). It's the start of a key 12-game stretch for St. Louis, which will meet the Giants and Dodgers six times each.

Winners of 9 of their last 11 in a spurt that has carried them to the top, the Yankees will go with Whitey Ford (2-1) in an attempt to lengthen their 1½-game edge over runner-up Cleveland. The Red Sox plan to start Bill Monbouquette (2-2).

The Indians will be at Minnesota, Kansas City at Baltimore, Detroit at Los Angeles and Chicago at Washington in other AL games. Filling out the NL program are Philadelphia at Cincinnati, New York at Chicago and Pittsburgh at Milwaukee.

Meanwhile, managers will be making last-minute decisions on which players to trim from their rosters to reach the mandatory

25-player limit by the Thursday midnight deadline.

In transactions Monday, the White Sox optioned one-time 22-game winner Herb Score to Indianapolis, the Tigers sold outfielder George Alusk to Kansas City and sent pitcher Terry Fox to their Denver farm club, and the Cardinals optioned pitcher Paul Toth to Atlanta.

Wake Forest Is At VPI Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest, leader in Atlantic Coast Conference baseball standings, was at Virginia Tech for a tough non-conference challenge today after slipping by East Carolina 12-11 Monday.

In conference games today, Duke was at North Carolina, South Carolina at Clemson and Virginia at Maryland.

The Deacons, who have only to win one of four remaining ACC games to take the conference championship, were out to avenge a 7-2 defeat by the Techmen earlier in the season at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Monday's game was also a point of honor for the Deacons. They lost to East Carolina 10-9 in March.

Deacon third baseman Bob Worrell was the power at the plate for Wake Forest. He slammed an inside-the-park bases loaded home run, a triple and a single to be credited with seven runs batted in.

Wake shot ahead 5-0 in the first, but East Carolina tied the game in the top of the second when Lacy West hit a grand slam homer over the left field fence.

Wake Forest scored three runs in the bottom of the second but tenacious East Carolina evened the score with one run in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Worrell's home run came in the sixth when Wake Forest loaded the bases on two walks and a hit batsman.

The victory gave Wake Forest a 17-5 overall record. In the conference, the Deacons are 9-2. They meet Virginia Friday in their next conference game.

Wednesday, South Carolina is at Furman and Maryland is at Georgetown.

McDowell, Burnette Are Still Undefeated

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) —

Wake Forest left-hander Pat McDowell, 6-foot-2 junior from Norfolk, Va., and ace of the mound staff of the league-leading Deacons, last week upped his Atlantic Coast Conference record to five wins against no losses.

Only McDowell and Clemson relief specialist Bill Burnette, 3-0, remain unbeaten with a reasonable opportunity to conclude the season that way.

Tommy Lyon of Clemson (5-1), Bobby Biddix of Wake Forest (4-1) and Duke (3-1) Johnny Boughan of N.C. State (3-1) and Dick Densmore of Duke (7-2) and Don Roth of Wake Forest (4-2) are the top challengers for season won-lost leadership in the conference. Four decisions are the minimum for contention.

Latest ACC Service Bureau figures show that Burnette, still a decision shy of the minimum, owns the conference's best earned run average, 1.80. Bill Spencer of Virginia (3-2) is second in ERA with 2.07. Jack Lund of Maryland (1-2) is third at 2.18 and Bob Conner of N.C. State (4-3) is fourth at 2.26. McDowell's ERA is 2.62.

Densmore continues to set the pace in strikeouts with 65, and Lund and Spencer own the best control records. Lund has walked only three batters in 33 innings. Spencer eight in 35.

In the league batting race, Tom Brown of Maryland leads with a .424 average, followed by John Jones of Clemson with .403; Jack McCathern, South Carolina, .389; Roger Coon, Wake Forest, .375 and Wayne Edwards with .368.

Buddy Nixon of Clemson tops the ACC in home runs with five. Brown is No. 1 in stolen bases with 13. Coon, Nixon and Dave Uible of Duke share the runs batted in lead with 26 each and Mike Budd of Wake Forest, Brooks Fader of Duke, George Hayworth of N.C. State and Bill Scripture of Wake Forest share the top in doubles with eight each.

Carry Back displayed a fine brand of speed as a 2-year-old. He set a Gulfstream Park record for five furlongs. The time was 0:57 3-5. His record still stands.

Wake Forest Slips Past Pirates For 12-11 Win

WINSTON-SALEM — Wake Forest's ACC-leading Deacons had their hands full before notching a 12-11 win over the East Carolina Pirates here yesterday afternoon for their 17th win of the season and their sixth in a row.

The Deacons, who have lost only five times this season and lead the ACC with a 9-2 record, evened the score with Coach Jim Mallory's Pirates. In an earlier game at Greenville the Pirates took a 10-9 victory.

Both clubs came up with some lusty hitting. East Carolina had five extra base hits, including a bases-loaded homer by Lacy West over the leftfield wall in the second. The Pirates had four doubles, two by Junior Coon.

Wake Forest also had a four-run homer—an inside the park blow by third baseman Bob Worrell in the sixth—to go with three doubles and a triple. Worrell had the triple and a single and batted in seven runs.

Worrell's homer, a liner which took a big hop over centerfielder Bobby Joyce's head and rolled to the 400-foot mark proved to be the deciding blow since it broke an eight-all deadlock.

The Pirates came back for their final three runs in the eighth on four straight walks and a two-run single by Charlie Johnson, before Ed Mandly, the fourth Wake Forest hurler, was able to get things under control.

Sophomore Jerry Pardue got the win for the Deacs—his second against no losses—while Pete Barnes, the second of three hurlers used by the Pirates, was credited with the loss.

Farmville Tops Sto-Pac 6-0

FARMVILLE — Coach Elbert Moyer's Farmville Red Devils ended their conference games yesterday when they defeated Stokes-Pactolus 6-0.

The winning pitcher of the afternoon was Ben Monk who went the distance for Farmville. He allowed only one hit, struck out five and walked one.

The losing pitcher, Donnie Whitehurst, allowed four hits, struck out three and walked six.

The Red Devils' first run came in the opening frame when leadoff batter Robin Rouse walked and scored on a double by Bob Fiser. Another run was picked up in the second when Johnny Hardison got on with a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Rouse after a teal.

In the fourth inning Farmville scored three more runs. Gerald Fugwell and Danny Windham both walked and scored when David Quinn got on on an error. Quinn came in on a wild pitch for the third run of the frame. The winners added one more run in the fifth when Rex Hodges walked and scored on a double by Ben Monk.

Farmville now has a record of 6-2. They have two non-conference games with Greene Central left to play.

Shrine Bowl To Be Discussed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The fate of the Charlotte Shrine Bowl football game, which has netted $2 million to help crippled children in the last 25 years, will be discussed here Wednesday by the Advisory Committee on Athletics of the State Board of Education.

The future of the game, which matches high school seniors from North Carolina against those from South Carolina, is endangered by a ruling passed some years ago by the state board banning all-star games.

The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations has ruled that it must approve games involving players from two states.

South Carolina officials already have approved the game, but North Carolina, as the host state, must seek approval from the national federation. This year's game is scheduled Dec. 1.

Two million dollars in Shrine Bowl profits have been given to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital at Greenville, S.C., in the last 25 years. The money is placed in an endowment fund to insure continued operation of the hospital.

The game annually draws the best of high school football talent from the two states.

Bizerte is called "the French Gibraltar" because it is on the narrowest part of the Mediterranean Sea.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

They would make a longer journey than the other members of the Scoundrels' Brigade, so August Dale, Benny Flaherty, and the Simpson brothers planned to remain at the farm until the following morning, and if everything went according to plan, the two groups would be reunited in New York in four days.

Katie, who was an accomplished rider, had her own mare, and Hugh, who was mounted on Toby, led a gelding carrying boxes of clothing and bric-a-brac that had been packed under August's supervision.

Hugh, marveling at the old man's cunning, could understand why he had been so successful in his career as a counterfeiter. August had insisted that the baggage should substantiate the claim that the couple were refugees, so Katie had taken more clothing than she would need, and Hugh, who had purchased only two civilian suits since he had decided to invade enemy territory, had been told by August to invest in other items of apparel before he reached British-held territory.

Several pieces of silver, a cut-glass vase and a pair of battered pewter mugs were stuffed into one of Katie's leather boxes too, and Hugh approved heartily of August's foresight. The household items were precisely the sorts of objects that a woman leaving her home would take with her.

As they waved to the men who watched them from the entrance of Black Ox farm, Katie said, "You and I will have to reach an understanding right now, Hugh." She addressed him by his Christian name for the first time since he had seen her in America. "My father loves adventure for its own sake, but I don't. I like living quietly in my own home, and I certainly don't enjoy the prospect of being hanged in New York as a spy. I've come with you for two reasons. Naturally, I hope Pa and I will win a pardon. And if I can, I want to repay my debt to you. I was unkind to you in London, so I'd like to help you now. Please let me finish. I don't expect to win either your friendship or your respect, but I'm not stupid, and I know we'll be caught if we don't work together. So, even though this may be hard for you to believe, I won't lie to you."

Giving him no chance to reply, she spurred ahead and took the lead on the road to Westerly. They didn't converse again all morning, and Hugh, after trying to evaluate Katie's alleged desire to help him, decided it would be in his best interests to give her no credit for the statement. She had fooled him once, and he would be courting disaster if he allowed her to influence him again.

Shortly before noon they reached the Thames River, and dismounted on the ferry that carried them across the stream to New London. They stood together at the rail of the clumsy, broad-bottomed boat, and Katie startled Hugh by laughing. "Pa thinks he's so clever, but he's forgotten the most obvious token of all, and so have you." She held up her left hand.

Hugh looked at her blankly. "We're going to pose as a married couple when we reach British territory, but I have no wedding ring."

He said he would rectify the oversight immediately, the found a silversmith's shop in New London.

On the third day of the journey they crossed the Connecticut-New York line, cut across the upper portion of Westchester County, and were ferried over the Hudson River several miles above the British sentry outposts. Hugh knew precisely where he was going, but offered Katie no explanation.

They were tense and exceptionally quiet during the latter part of the day, but no incidents marred their journey, and Hugh pressed ahead long after night fell, pausing occasionally to study a map by the pale moonlight of a half-moon.

At last they came to a large, dark farmhouse, and Hugh dismounted at the entrance. Katie watched him curiously as he tapped five times on the door, and after a long pause a chain rattled, the latch was raised, and the door was opened a crack.

"Liberty or death, Patrick Henry," Hugh said.

A man grunted approval softly. "All men are created equal and independent. Thomas Jefferson First draft of the Declaration of Independence." Hugh paused for a moment, then asked, "Counterterstien?"

"Put none but Americans on guard tonight, General Washington," Hugh relaxed, and the door opened.

"Who are you?" The gaunt, elderly man in the entrance looked like a simple farmer.

"Captain Spencer, of Tallmadge's staff, and a lady."

The old farmer called out an order, and Katie was surprised when four or five other men came out of the house. She was helped to the ground, and the horses were taken to the rear. An old woman who was waiting inside the dark house conducted her to a bedroom, brought her a plate of cold food, and told her that under no circumstances should she light a candle.

Hugh disappeared until the following morning, and when he tapped at Katie's door shortly after the sun rose, he was dressed in a suit of dark green wool with velvet lapels. His military sword had been replaced by a lighter blade of the type that civilians carried.

"I assume that we're going into New York today?" Katie asked. "Yes. I've now changed my identity, and I won't come back for my uniform until our mission is completed."

Where are we?"

"In New Jersey. It's better for you if you don't know any details. Butcher Billy Cunningham, General Howe's provost, has developed a remarkable technique for forcing prisoners to reveal information."

She was grateful for his thoughtfulness.

"Are you ready to leave?"

There was a trace of impatience in Hugh's voice as he glanced through the window at the sky. "We'll eat quickly while the horses are being saddled."

Vote Standards For Brake Fluid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a bill Monday that would set federal standards for hydraulic brake fluid used in motor vehicles. A voice vote sent the measure to the Senate.

Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts, D-Ala., sponsor of the bill, said standard brake fluids are believed responsible for many cases of brake failure that lead to accidents.

The bill would authorize the secretary of commerce to set the specifications and provide criminal penalties of up to one year in jail, a $1,000 fine or both.

DOG-BEATER, TOO

DETROIT (AP) — Virginia P. Dawdy won a divorce Monday on grounds that not only did her husband, Jess, beat her but he also beat her Pekinese dog, Petel so that she would feel bad.

Write-In Votes Elect New Mayor Of Falkland

FALKLAND — Edward N. Warren, principal of Belvoir-Falkland High School and former Falkland mayor, was elected to another two-year term by 14 write-in votes here Monday in Falkland's municipal election.

As the town's new mayor, Warren succeeds James R. (Pete) Norville who declined to seek reelection. With no candidates filed for the office, Warren received the 14 write-in votes from a total of 19 ballots cast.

Other write-in votes for mayor went to Mrs. Joyce Peaden (2), wife of one of the commissioners, and Ernest Wooten (1).

Grimesland ...

(Continued from page 1) Falkland, Bethel and Stokes-Pactolus high schools. The Grimesland High School also was included in the request.

The survey report suggested that consideration be given to dissolution of the several special districts for capital improvement purposes; that consideration be given to an adequate countywide supplemental tax levy; joint planning between city and county administrative units; one central high school to serve Belvoir-Falkland, Stokes-Pactolus and Bethel High Schools.

It also recommended that elementary schools for grades one through eight be retained at existing sites; more efficient use made of existing facilities; that due to the location of Grimesland high school, pupils there might one day apply for entrance to Greenville's high school; and that ultimately three central high schools could serve the secondary school needs of Pitt County.

Schools involved in the survey had been asked to present their views and reactions to the Pitt board of education.

The Belvoir-Falkland delegation included Woodrow Wooten, E. N. Warren, principal, and Mrs. Evie Wooten. Appearing with them from Stokes and Pactolus were W. J. Edwards, Eric Whitchard, Elmer Windham, C. S. Whitchard, D. R. House Jr., G. B. Causby, principal, and D. M. Moore.

Chairman of the board J. S. Moye thanked all the groups for their interest in education shown through their appearance at the monthly meeting.

The three men seeking election as commissioners were elected unanimously by the 19 Falkland voters. Elected without opposition were Willard Wooten, Linwood Earl Peaden and C. B. Joyner.

Outgoing Mayor Norville was expected to conduct swearing-in ceremonies for the four officers at the town hall tonight.

Warren, a native of Stokes, has been a Falkland resident for the past eight years. He served as principal of Falkland's Elementary School until he was appointed principal of Belvoir-Falkland High School, a position which includes supervision of the Falkland School, four years ago.

In a statement today, Warren said he had not sought the position but would accept it and would devote as much time as possible to the municipal office.

His duties include presiding at monthly town board meetings and the judgeship of Falkland's Mayor's Court.

He is present secretary of the Falkland Ruritan Club, treasurer of the Falkland Fire Department and second vice president of the Pitt County chapter of the North Carolina Education Association.

Warren is president-elect of the Pitt County High School Athletic Association.

Cost Reductions Are Sought In New Pitt ABC Building

Cost-cutting reductions were sought Monday by the Pitt County ABC Board as it ordered revision of specifications for construction of its new administrative offices and retail store.

In reviewing bids received Thursday, the board rejected bids on heating and air conditioning, ordering revision of plans; left unopened electrical bids, calling for changed plans; and requested architect George Shoe to negotiate a contract with the low bidder on general construction, Chapin Construction Co. of Greenville, incorporating two changes.

Major revision of the general construction specifications ordered by the board include a switch from buff-colored to red brick and deletion of certain pavement in the proposed parking area.

Both were economy moves geared to offset the board's desire to install terrazzo instead of asbestos vinyl flooring in the retail store area.

The Chapin Co. submitted a low bid of $35,484 plus $645 for the alternate plan calling for terrazzo flooring.

Shoe said today his office will redesign the building's heating and air conditioning system in an effort to reduce cost. Low bid received Thursday in that category was $7,139 by Coastal Refrigeration Co. of Greenville.

Both the heating and air conditioning and electrical specifications will be subjected to new bids. The board indicated no change in the plumbing work.
