Two City Officials Ask Additional $75,000 From Utilities For Next Year

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Two city officials appeared before the Utilities Commission last night to request an additional $75,000 in turn-over for the coming fiscal year.

The money would be in addition to the normal turn-over made by the Utilities Commission to the city, which this year amounts to $156,669.66.

The appeal for additional money was made by Mayor Charles M. King who was accompanied by Councilman Ford McGowan.

Mayor King said the request for aid was being made "to help us carry out our program this year." He said that the city would be $150-175,000 short on its budget for 1962-63. He said the council would try to cut this in half and on the basis of this, he asked for $75,000 in additional turn-over.

"If we don't get it, we will have to raise taxes about 25 cents," he declared. "I feel like we are going to have to cut out a lot of things if we don't get it."

Under a Utilities formula for computing turn-over, there would be an increase of approximately $5,600 next year regardless. The formula was instituted two years ago precisely for the purpose of allowing the city to share in Utilities growth.

The formula sets turnover at six percent of the net investment in gas and electric departments plus an amount equivalent to city property taxes on gas and electric properties.

It is computed one year in advance so that the city will know the amount it will receive when it begins preparing its budget.

The six percent return on investment this year comes to $149,555.04 while the amount in lieu of taxes is $12,705.33 for a total of $162,260.37.

The formula does not include water and sewer investments since these are considered governmental functions and produce little or no profit.

Utilities Chairman Charles Horne told the city officials the commission would take the request under consideration.

"It boils down to whether or not we will have money left after carrying out long range plans," he noted.

He pointed to a $300,000 water system improvement program which the Utilities has learned from a study it must carry out immediately. "This is one thing we are going to have to fit into our program and we are going to fit it in," he declared. Failure to do so could affect the city's fire insurance rates, he continued.

Nevertheless, Mayor King maintained, "I believe you all are financially better off than we are."

McGowan pointed out that the city of New Bern received approximately $330,000 for its Utilities operations. Members of the commission replied that New Bern is preparing to float in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 in bonds for water and sewer improvements.

"We're sitting on the same problem of growth that you all are and we're trying to meet it," Horne stated.

Councilman McGowan said, "We've had so many things thrown at us by poor management and so forth, it is hard to recuperate from these things."

Commissioner J. Ed Waldrop pointed out that in addition to the cash turn-over to the city, the commission also retires $100,000 in bonded indebtedness each year.

Senate Refuses To Halt Debate Or Table Bill On Literacy Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted 53-43 today against shutting off debate on the Kennedy administration's voter literacy test bill, and then rejected 64-33 a motion to table and thus kill the measure.

The two votes left the Senate back where it had been when it started the day—with the issue still before it and with Southern foes of the measure still free to carry on unlimited debate, or filibustering, against it.

The bill, under debate for two weeks, would exempt persons with a sixth-grade education from having to pass a literacy test to vote in federal elections. Backers of the bill contend such tests have been used in some Southern areas to keep Negroes from voting.

The main argument advanced against the bill is a contention that it would be an unconstitutional invasion of the right of the states to fix the qualifications for voters.

With 96 senators present and voting, 64 affirmative votes were needed to limit debate. On the 53-43 division, the backers of this were 21 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed.

Democrats split evenly on this with 30 for and 30 against. Republicans were 23 to 13 against debate limitation.

The failure to get even a simple majority for debate limitation was a heavy blow to those backing civil rights legislation.

However, it was recognized the vote did not show sentiment on the bill only, but reflected the aversion of many senators to cutting off debate.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, in a maneuver aimed at obtaining a test of sentiment on the bill itself, then moved to table the measure. This was defeated 64-33.

The party division here was 38 Democrats and 26 Republicans against tabling, and 23 Democrats and 10 Republicans in favor of it.

Mansfield had announced in advance he would vote against the tabling motion and would take other votes against tabling as a sign of support for the bill.

He filed a second debate-limitation petition shortly after the voting. He was joined by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and a bipartisan group of other senators.

Not since 1927 has the Senate voted to puts its debate-limiting antifilibuster rule into effect. And the rule never has been successfully employed to smash a filibuster against a civil rights bill.

Defeat of the leadership effort to restrict debate became assured even before the Senate completed a roll call vote.

At that point, more than one-third of those in the Senate chamber had voted against invoking the anti-filibuster rule.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had conceded in advance, in a talk with newsmen, that the leadership couldn't muster the needed two-thirds vote to restrict debate. He said it "looks pretty close."

Mansfield said he will move to table—and thus kill—the bill even though he favors its passage. A tabling motion is not debatable, and Mansfield said he will vote against it and will take other votes against tabling as showing support of the bill.

If the vote against tabling approaches a two-thirds majority, he said, he will continue to keep the bill before the Senate for a brief time and then make a second attempt to shut off debate.

Should a second effort to invoke the Senate's antifilibuster rule fail, Mansfield said the literacy bill then will be dropped for this session.

The literacy test bill, the chief civil rights measure urged by President Kennedy, was offered by Mansfield and Dirksen just two weeks ago today.

Southern opponents have hammered away at it as an unconstitutional attempt to deprive the states of the right to fix the qualifications of voters.

The measure provides that anyone with at least a sixth-grade education shall not be disqualified from voting in presidential and congressional elections because of failure to pass a state literacy test.

Seven Pitt Prison Camp Fugitives Continue Elude Large-Scale Hunt

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Prison officials and other law enforcement agencies are still searching today for seven criminals who sawed their way through prison bars then scaled a prison compound fence in an 11-man break-out at the Pitt Prison unit Monday.

Only four of the 11 have been recaptured, two in Pitt County within a few miles of the prison and two in South Carolina.

Prison officials as well as local lawmen check out each report of suspicious men in hopes it will lead to the return of at least some of the felons still at large.

The prison break was discovered about 2:45 a.m. Monday by Prison Superintendent Capt. L. F. Dail. Dail had been called at his home by the Greenville Police Department which had received a report of a truck stolen near the detention camp. The official immediately went to the camp and found the hole in the barred window.

The two guards on duty at the time of the break were discharged for "major custodial negligence." One of the men was on duty within the prison between the two cell blocks while the other was on grounds patrol.

A total of 45 prisoners were housed in the cell block from which the 11 men fled. Forty-five other men, all trusties, were quartered in a separate detention hall.

First of the four recaptured was Robert Picarski, who was flushed from a wooded area by bloodhounds about 4:45 p.m. Monday. The second escapee returned to prison was the only life term member of the escape party, George B. Staples.

Staples, sentenced to life for first degree murder, was picked up by officers while walking beside N.C. 11 about one and a half miles south of Bethel.

The two other men were placed in jail by South Carolina officers at Ridgeville, 40 miles northwest of Charleston. Loyd Laye and Leroy Darden were placed in jail, and a car taken from Greenville shortly after the prison break was recovered and stored.

Local officials say the Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating the inter-state transportation of the stolen vehicle.

At noon today, prison officers were working in the Belvoir area, investigating the possibility that two of the escapees may have been responsible for a break-in at the Belvoir-Falkland High School.

Officers said the school was entered sometime during the night and the drink box opened. An estimated $1.50 in change was taken from the machine.

Prisoners still at large are Johnnie Cobb, 44; John T. McMurray, 21; Marvin Tew, 28; John W. Shealy, 22; James B. Wilson, 41; Thomas Woodman, 21; and Woodrow Whitfield, 48.

Four of the seven, McMurray, Shealy, Woodman and Whitfield, have records of previous escapes.

When the prisoners ran, all were wearing brown prison clothes.

Purchasing Policy Voted By Utilities Commission

A purchasing policy which provides for formal bids on equipment, material or labor costing more than $3,500 was adopted by the Utilities Commission last night.

The policy calls for advertisement for bids two weeks prior to the date for opening them. It also provides that formal bids must be accompanied by a bid deposit. Bids will be opened at a specific time and place.

Contracts for labor or labor and material will be covered by a 100 percent performance bond, under the policy. Purchases will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder taking into consideration specification performance and time limits.

The policy provides for informal bids on purchases from $500 to $3,500. Although it provides that purchases from $500 to $3,500 may be made without informal bids, it states that "it would serve the best interest to secure informal quotations as often as possible."

The policy states that it is its intent to allow purchases without competitive bids only for small items or when necessary for emergency needs."

It is recognized in the policy that certain items, such as transformers, are priced on an identical basis. It sets forth that such items may be purchased without bids. However, prices quotations on these items are to be obtained quarterly.

Members of the city's Redevelopment Commission appeared before the Utilities Commission last night to discuss Utilities facilities which will be required in the Shore Drive area.

Director William Cochran said estimates show the improvements would cost approximately $774,390 and of this $610,000 would directly serve the Shore Drive area. This means the city would receive credit for this amount on its share of the redevelopment cost.

In answer to a question as to when the Utilities would have to install the facilities, Cochran said Shore Drive plans are expected to be before the council by mid-summer. After the council approves the plans, acquisition of property will begin. This will require at least two years, Cochran said. Utilities would be installed as the area is developed and Cochran said it would be 12 months from the council's approval of Shore Drive plans before the Utilities would begin work.

Councilman Ford McGowan asked if the Utilities Commission could not be compensated by the Redevelopment Commission for engineering work the Utilities has done in making the estimates. Officials from both commissions said they would look into this.

Chairman Charles Horne stated that the commission anticipates no rate increases due to Utilities work in the Shore Drive area. He also emphasized that the Utilities Commission looks at the project only as installing facilities to serve its customers. This is the same procedure it follows in installing facilities in any other portion of the city, he stated.

Members of the commission emphasized that it was not their position to approve or disapprove of the Shore Drive project.

"If the council approves it, we will cooperate," Commissioner B. B. Sugg Jr. said.

The commission awarded the contract for auditing its books to John C. Proctor for a $900 fee. Proctor has made the audit for a number of years.

Director Leonard Bloxam reported that Water Pollution Control Plant is operating. "I'm fairly well happy with things although there are still a few problems, mostly related to equipment."

The plant has not yet been accepted by the Utilities.

Commissioners approved an agreement with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to install gas lines on its right-of-way to serve Lynndale subdivision.

It heard a request from Charles Cobb for water and sewer lines in the N.C. 11-U.S. 13 area south of Greenville. Cobb is building apartment units south of the U.S. 264 intersection. He said that the water table in the area would make installation of septic tanks impractical.

Chairman Horne asked if Cobb felt property owners would be willing to finance their share of the cost. Cobb replied that he believed most property owners would be willing to do this.

He said a private engineering firm had been retained to present a concrete proposal for Utilities consideration.

Unemployment Figures Fall Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dropped by 430,000 in April and went below the four-million figure for the first time this year, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg announced today.

Although the improvement was normal for the season, Goldberg said the decline—and a simultaneous rise in employment to an April record—was an encouraging sign of continued business expansion.

The unemployment rate remained at 5.5 per cent of the civilian labor force, the same as in March as against the 6.9 per cent of a year earlier.

The rate is based on seasonal adjustments, and remained unchanged this month because the drop was expected.

The number of long-term unemployed — those out of work 15 weeks or longer—was unchanged at 1.5 million, Goldberg said.

He told a news conference: "The country can do better and will do better."

With the drop in unemployment, the total counted as jobless in April was 3,952,000.

The number of employed increased by 711,000 over the month to an April all-time high of 67,027,000.

The latter figure was 1,293,000 greater than the number holding jobs a year earlier.

Dept. Of Justice Is Intervening In Hospital Suit

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Department of Justice, seeking a federal court order outlawing racial segregation in hospitals built with federal aid, has intervened in a suit filed here by 11 Negro physicians, dentists and patients.

The suit, filed Feb. 12, was among the first steps by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to end hospital segregation in the South.

The Department of Justice asked court permission Tuesday to join in the suit against two hospitals that have received $2.8 million in federal aid for construction.

The department contended that a provision in the Hill-Burton Act of 1946—which permits grants for hospital construction—was unconstitutional.

The challenged provision allows grants "where separate hospital facilities are provided for separate population groups."

A Justice Department attorney filed a motion in U.S. District Court here to intervene in the suit against Moses Cone Hospital and Wesley Long Hospital.

The suit is directed against the separate-but-equal provisions in the Hill-Burton Act, which has been used to distribute hundreds of millions of dollars for construction of hospitals.

The suit charged the two hospitals with discriminating against Negroes in violation of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution. It also asks that Negro doctors and dentists be allowed to practice at the hospitals.

Herbert S. Falk, attorney for Moses Cone Hospital, declined to comment on the Justice Department move. He said, "We will say what we have to say at the time of the trial."

First Lady To Visit Mother

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy will pay an extensive visit at the Newport estate of her mother and stepfather next September.

The President's wife spent two hours with her mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, at her Hammersmith Farm after christening the Polaris submarine Lafayette at Groton, Conn.

Press secretary Pamela Turnure said the visit was so Mrs. Kennedy could make plans for the September stay.

Hong Kong Ousts Refugee Chinese

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong police and British troops have rounded up thousands of refugees from hunger-ridden Red China in recent days and returned them to their Communist homeland.

Overcrowded Hong Kong doesn't have room for them. Other non-Communist nations won't take them.

Some had endured almost incredible hardships in their futile flight by land over rough terrain or by sea crammed below the decks of smuggler junks.

Border patrols caught many as they hid in the underbrush-covered hills on the Hong Kong side of the border.

Others were trapped aboard junks or picked up on side roads as they tried to make their way to the crowded cities of Hong Kong and Kowloon.

They were gathered at a police camp in the closed border area, fed, given some food to carry, and then returned to border crossing stations in police vans and trucks. Their fate, after their forced return to Red China, is unknown.

Government officials refuse to say how many illegal immigrants have been returned. The conservative English-language Morning Post, quoting sources close to the police, said several thousand had been forcibly returned to China in the last week.

Residents said they saw 20 or more truckloads of men, women and children hauled to the border every afternoon.

Since 1948, the year the Chinese Communists mounted their final drive to seize control of the mainland, more than a million refugees have crossed the China border into this tiny British colony.

Most of them—and their children born since then — are still here. No other nation has been willing to accept them in significant numbers.

Hong Kong's population — 600,000 at the end of World War II—has swollen to nearly 3.5 million. The colony has an area of only 391 square miles.

Government officials say the colony no longer has the capacity to care for the natural increase of its present population — 91,000 more births than deaths in 1960—and the 10,000 or more refugees who try to sneak into the colony every month.

In the past six years, the government has built some 200 multi-storied apartment blocks, and has resettled 440,000 refugees. There still are a half million living in board and tar paper shacks perched on the hillsides, 80,000 in similar huts on rooftops, an estimated 225,000 in substandard tenement quarters and more than 10,000 who sleep on sidewalks or stairways.

Driving Piles For Ficklen Stadium

PILE DRIVER AT WORK—Pile driving has begun at the site of the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium. Bids were recently awarded for construction of an 8,400-seat portion of the stadium costing a total of $245,577. Construction of the stadium will begin as soon as the pilings are placed. The contractor has 150 working days after pilings are completed to build the first portion of the stadium. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Rain Welcome For Pitt Crops; No Damage Noted

Farmers of Pitt County saw last night's rain as beneficial to their tobacco crops, according to reports received today.

No damage was reported from the electrical storm in Pitt, except for some hail which fell in the Tripps Crossroads section near Pactolus. Areas around Ayden and Bethel reported no hail, only beneficial rain.

D. M. Nobles, agriculture instructor at Stokes High School, said rain there was much needed and helped wet down the area, which had become dusty from the recent dry spell. Light rain was reported in the Ayden area by S. F. Peterson, and D. T. House Jr. said rain in the Bethel section "did good rather than damage."

In Greenville there were minor power problems, but none of the main feeder circuits were affected, L. P. Bloxam, utilities director, said. He noted that transformer fuses blew due to lightning, and some individual customers had line fuses which blew out. He said the longest any customer was without power was about 30 minutes. Repairs took only a few minutes, he said.

Some .33 of an inch of rain fell here before midnight, L. M. Bullock of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported. Winds reached 15 to 20 miles per hour in gusts last night during the thundershower.

High and low temperatures for yesterday were 94 and 64 degrees respectively. For today, the 8 a.m. temperature was 70 degrees.

The weatherman was predicting somewhat lower temperatures today, with partly cloudy through Thursday and a chance of scattered, mostly afternoon and evening thundershowers.

The Tar River level today was 3.9 feet, Bullock said.

Kennedy Supporters Win Demo Primaries In Tuesday Tests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida and Robert Taft Jr., son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, won decisive primary election victories Tuesday in their bids for Congress.

Two other Florida candidates, Sen. George Smathers and Rep. Dante Fascell, also won Democratic renomination. Like Pepper, who was a staunch New Deal supporter in the '30s and '40s, they had strongly endorsed President Kennedy's program and had received the President's blessing.

Results of the voting in five states included:

OHIO—Sen. Frank J. Lausche and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle won Democratic renomination. A man named Kennedy—real estate man Richard D. Kennedy, was nominated over 10 other Democratic candidates to oppose Taft in the November race for congressman at large.

INDIANA — All 11 incumbent congressmen were renominated.

WEST VIRGINIA—All six incumbent congressmen were renominated.

NEW MEXICO — State Rep. Jack M. Campbell won Democratic gubernatorial nomination and the state's two congressmen, both Democrats, were renominated.

The Florida primary drew the most interest.

Sen. Smathers had little trouble in disposing of Roger L. Davis of Fort Lauderdale and Douglas R. Voorhees of Miami in his bid for a third term.

Fascell had a hard campaign with conservative State Sen. David Eldredge but came out on top. The Miami congressman has been Kennedy's most consistent supporter among the Florida delegation.

Pepper, whom Smathers unseated in the 1950 Democratic primary, made his comeback in the 3rd District. He campaigned hard for the President's program to finance medical care for the aged through Social Security.

The issue appeared to have drawn a mixed reaction in two other Democratic congressional primaries in Florida, a state gaining four new congressmen because of population gains.

One supporter of the Kennedy medical care program, chiropractor John A. Marcello, was defeated by Rep. D. R. Matthews, bidding for his sixth term in Congress.

Another Kennedy supporter, State Rep. L. B. Vocelle, made it into a runoff election with former State Sen. John A. Sutton in the 11th District.

In Ohio, Lausehe and Taft ran away from their opponents but DiSalle had stubborn opposition from Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy before winning the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. DiSalle had said at first he wouldn't seek a second term as governor, then changed his mind.

John Marshall Briley of Toledo, a former business executive and onetime state GOP finance chairman, won the Republican nomination to oppose Lausche. He nosed out State Sen. Charles Fry of Springfield and two other opponents.

Taft, leader of Republican forces in the Ohio House, easily outdistanced State Sen. Thomas Lowell Fess in their battle for the GOP nomination for congressman-at-large. Fess, like Taft, is the son of a late U.S. senator.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes crushed William L. White of Mount Vernon by a 10-1 margin for the Ohio Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Twenty-two Ohio congressmen won renomination. Only four had contests, and none was close. Rep. Gordon Scherer of Cincinnati ranking Republican on the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities did not seek re-election.

Indiana's 11 incumbents also won renomination, six without a contest including House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck. Winning their primary tests were Republican Reps. Ray J. Madden and Winfield K. Denton.

In West Virginia, six incumbent congressmen cleared the primary hurdle. Only two—Democrats Ken Hechler and Elizabeth Kee—had contests. Each won easily.

Rep. Cleveland Bailey, a Democrat, and Rep. Arch A. Moore, a Republican, will fight it out in a new district in November due to West Virginia's loss of representation in the House from six to five because of a decline in population.

The New Mexico Democratic gubernatorial primary was a close race between the speaker of the state House, Rep. Jack M. Campbell of Roswell, and State Sen. Ed V. Mead of Albuquerque. Campbell finally prevailed. Campbell will meet Gov. Edwin Mechem, unopposed for the Republican nomination to his fifth term.

Rep. Joseph M. Montoya was well ahead of two rivals for the Democratic nomination to the state's other congressman, Rep. Thomas G. Morris, had no Democratic opposition for renomination.

She Keeps Training

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Emily Ruth Mehrer, a spry little lady of 64, has been working on the railroad for 29 years and there's not one thought of retirement.

"There's still a magic to railroading, and there's still plenty to do."

Mrs. Mehrer is a switch tower operator at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Pavonio yards in Camden, just across the Delaware River from Philadelphia.

She works a 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift, Monday through Friday, controlling trains with hundreds of cars, mainly freight, that weave in and out on the yards' 44 tracks.

She first went to work there in 1918 but retired nine years later to marry. Her husband, William Mehrer, naturally, a railroad man, worked 46 years as a freight conductor before retiring in 1959.

She went back on the tower control job in 1942 as a World War II replacement and stayed.

The buzzer in her tower perch sounds.

"Okay 10-A," she barks into a telephone. "You're cleared," then adds aside: "See, there's still plenty to do."

Bardot Bodyguard Besieged

LONDON—(WNS) — Francois Corne, the French wrestler, was a sellout here when he billed himself as "Official Bodyguard No. 1 to Brigitte Bardot." He said he lost much of his strength when he was forced to sign 572 autographs for teen-age girls before his match. But he won it nevertheless.

Wash Most Baby Wear With Laundry

With a new baby in the house, it's wise to get into the habit of doing laundry every day or two—instead of letting it pile up. It is more convenient to do a little at a time, and clothes are easier to suds clean before soil has become embedded in fabrics.

Baby's laundry can be done right along with other loads of family wash that require similar washing temperatures and cycles. Only diapers need to be washed separately.

If you want to restore your energy, try taking a warm bath followed by a contrastingly cool shower.

Top Cop Becomes Sellout Artist

HAIFA, Israel—(WNS)—A 29-year-old policewoman referred to by the press as the Blonde Bombshell has left the Israeli force after 10 years to take up painting.

A few months ago Sergeant Amalia Arbell was called to investigate smuggling in the picturesque old town of Acre. She traced the smugglers to the ruins of a 12th century castle overlooking the Mediterranean and fell in love with the place.

Amalia and her husband, Nahum, a well known Israeli painter, moved into the castle, cleaned it up, restored several halls and galleries and turned one of the towers into a private apartment.

When the sergeant started showing her work, she was acclaimed by critics as one of Israel's most promising artists. Now tourists wait in line to visit the castle, and they buy paintings as fast as Amalia and Nahum can produce them.

Before she resigned, the sergeant was named one of 10 top sleuths in the Criminal Investigations Branch of the Israeli Police. So far no thieves have tried to steal her art treasures.

Pre-Treat Trim On Beach Umbrella

Before washing a garden or beach umbrella, pre-treat any white cotton fringe trim with a solution of soap or detergent suds "spiked" with bleach.

Dip a handful of fringe at the time into this solution until all is wet. Then let the cover drip over the edge of the washtub for 10 or 15 minutes. This gives the suds-bleach a chance to loosen the dirt before washing the entire cover.

Students' Welfare Comes First

Problems concerning proposed consolidation of schools in Pitt or any other county should be resolved on the basis of what is best in the long run for youngsters the county is seeking to educate and what is best for the county as a whole.

If considerations other than these—such as community jealousies, reluctance of citizens to give adequate support to the school system or others—become paramount to the best interest of the youngsters and their education, the school system and the youngsters are bound to suffer in the long run.

As Pitt County explores various possibilities for a consolidation program among its high schools, in order to afford better educational opportunities to many youngsters, each community should endeavor to consider the overall problem rather than just its own individual problem. Its citizens should weigh carefully the advantages and disadvantages of their students attending larger high schools that would be able to offer broader opportunities.

It is certain that nothing constructive for the county's school system or its school age youngsters will be gained through bickering between the individual school districts. It is certain that the best interests of the students cannot be served by continuing indefinitely to operate a number of high schools whose enrollment is too small to justify an adequate program for the students.

The various school districts of the county have worked closely together over a long period of years in seeking to overcome the problems which confronted public education. The school administrative units of Greenville and Pitt County have worked closely together in meeting and resolving programs as they have arisen, and for the most part they are continuing to do so. Certainly one example of this cooperation is the fact that some 150 students from various districts in the county administrative unit this year are enrolled in schools in the Greenville unit and a comparable number of children living within the Greenville district are enrolled in schools under the county administrative unit.

We view as unfounded and irresponsible innuendoes that some school districts of the county are seeking to gobble up others or that the Greenville administrative unit is seeking to "engulf" some of the school districts in the county administrative unit.

If the county as a whole is to face up to the problem of providing better educational opportunities for its students, there obviously is a need for further consolidation of the high schools that now exist in Pitt. School officials and individual citizens throughout the county have a responsibility to put their best thought to this problem and diligently seek a solution which will provide for better education for the young people of this county and at the same time will be a practical and workable program.

If the welfare of the youngsters and their opportunity for obtaining the best possible high school education are made secondary to other considerations, Pitt County will be depriving its youngsters of advantages they should have.

A Lot Of Demos Vote Republican

By ASHLEY B. FUTRELL
Editor & Publisher,
Washington Daily News
Guest Writer

LARGE COUNTY POLITICS — In 1960 the 10 largest counties in North Carolina cast 35.3 percent of the state's total vote. The total vote in these 10 most populous counties of our state amounted to 482,937 in the presidential race between John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon.

The 10 most populous counties are: 1. Mecklenburg with 87,612 votes; 2. Guilford with 74,337 votes; 3. Forsyth with 57,409 votes; 4. Buncombe with 51,423 votes; 5. Wake with 44,436 votes; 6. Gaston with 41,354 votes; 7. Catawba with 33,626 votes; 8. Durham with 33,620 votes; 9. Davidson with 31,091 votes; 10. Rowan with 30,046 votes.

In these 10 counties Richard Nixon received a majority in eight, with only Wake and Durham counties giving Mr. Kennedy a majority. The total Nixon majority in the 10 counties comes to 38,437.

On the state basis in these 10 counties six of them gave Robert Gavin, Republican candidate for governor, a majority. Only Mecklenburg, Wake, Gaston, and Durham counties gave Governor Sanford a majority. In the 10 counties the totals show that Mr. Gavin received a majority of 15,988 votes over Mr. Sanford.

POLITICAL FACTS — The biggest political fact which can be drawn from the picture of the statistics is that a lot of registered Democrats go to the polls in May and June and vote in Democratic primaries and then go to the polls in November and vote for Republican candidates.

In far Eastern North Carolina Beaufort county is overwhelmingly Democratic in registration. In that country there are more than 10,000 registered Democrats and only 900 registered Republicans. There are no Republican primaries in this county, and seldom does any local Republican opposition show up in November elections. Yet in 1960 John F. Kennedy polled 6,039 votes and Richard Nixon polled 2,694 votes.

At the same time Terry Sanford polled 6,004 votes and Robert Gavin polled 2,695 votes. It is estimated in Beaufort county that 2,000 registered Democrats, many of whom had participated in the Democratic primaries in May and June, thus went to the polls in November and voted Republican for national and state officers. And a look at the figures will show that all over North Carolina this very same picture is in evidence.

DIVIDING LINES — If we look at the figures today in North Carolina, it is safe to say that two-thirds of our state votes Republican in both the races for governor and for president. The present dividing line is Highway 301 which runs from Halifax through Rocky Mount, Wilson, Dunn, Fayetteville, and Lumberton. The territory West of Highway 301 gives the Republican party a majority in the races for governor for president. The territory East of Highway 301 gives the Democrats such a substantial majority all the way that the state is thrown in the Democratic column in both races.

Thus the dividing line has moved Eastward by some 75 miles over a period of 20 years. In 1940 the dividing line was Highway 501 which runs from Roxboro through Durham, Chapel Hill, Aberdeen, and Laurinburg. Thus North Carolina has dropped a couple of hundred in the highway number.

POLITICAL HISTORY — In 1940 J. M. Broughton beat Robert McNeil, GOP gubernatorial candidate, by a margin of 76 to 24. In 1944 Gregg Cherry beat his opponent, Frank Patton, by a margin of 70 to 30. Kerr Scott in 1948 beat his GOP opponent, George Pritchard by a margin of 72½ to 27½. In 1952 William B. Umstead beat his Republican opponent, Chub Seawell, by a margin of 67 to 33. In 1956 Luther Hodges beat Republican Kyle Hayes by a margin of 68 to 32. In 1960 Terry Sanford beat Robert Gavin by a margin of slightly less than 55 to 45.

CONCLUSIONS—Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party.

Family Men Make Up Our Armed Forces

Renewal of authorization for families of servicemen to accompany them on overseas assignments for the Armed Forces reflects the growing recognition that the military forces of the United States are now made up of family men.

There was a time when the general concensus—right or wrong—was that most men in the armed forces were men without families, or men who left their families at home when there were assigned outside the United States. In recent years, however, the trend for the family to accompany the husband in uniform to his overseas assignment has become prevalent.

The earlier order which restricted travel of soldiers' families overseas was based in part on the need of the country curtail the spending of U.S. Dollars overseas in order to gain a more favorable gold balance. Economists both in and out of the administration are still concerned about the outflow of gold from the United States but apparently the benefits to be gained by having the soldier's family accompany him outweighs the disadvantage of the greater outflow of the nation's stockpile of gold.

Today's military men, by and large, are professional men who like most others do their job better with their families close at hand rather than thousands of miles away.

Another Move Seen Ill-Fated

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The second of two Kennedy administration civil rights moves is coming to a climax. This one, an attempt to knock out literacy tests as a bar to Negro voting in federal elections, figures to lose.

This is hardly news. It looked foredoomed from the start. The administration got another civil rights measure—against poll taxes—rolling. That's a long way from final success, too.

White registrars in the South can apply literacy tests to wouldbe voters, refusing to let them vote if they fail. The tests can cover writing, reading, or interpreting the constitution.

Interpreting the Constitution can be quite a chore, even for Supreme Court justices.

Last month Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the literacy test was the most widely used Southern device to keep Negroes from the polls.

He said it keeps hundreds of thousands of Negroes from voting in federal elections.

"We have had dozens and dozens of Negro college professors declared illiterate while white citizens with virtually no education have been allowed to vote," Kennedy said.

The Kennedy-backed bill would prevent anyone with at least a sixth-grade education from being barred from voting in federal elections, even though he failed a literacy test put to him by a registrar. This would apply to both whites and Negroes.

When this measure was brought up in the Senate two weeks ago, Southern Democrats parted company with the Kennedy administration and started a filibuster which has been going on ever since.

Their main argument is that under the Constitution states can fix their own voting qualifications without interference by the government.

The Northern Democrats and Republicans on the other side argue that the Constitution also guarantees citizens against being deprived of their rights, including voting rights, because of race or color. Therefore, they say, Congress can step in to protect those rights.

One of the Southern captains—Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D.-N.C., said 20 or 21 states have literacy tests but only seven of them, including North Carolina, are in the South.

Kennedy said the literacy tests were not discriminatory outside the south, or in North Carolina, so far as he knew.

The Senate debate, as usual, dragged in a lot of things besides discussion of the issue. For instance, Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., used the debate as an excuse to attack the Supreme Court for decisions involving Communists.

Southerners accused the Northerners of putting on a show to endear themselves to Negroes in their states.

The Northerners suggested the Southerners were certainly not putting on their filibuster to appeal to Southern Negroes who don't vote but rather to find favor with white Southerners who do.

Now the Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders, having allowed what they consider ample time for the Southerners to state their case, are ready to try to shut off debate by forcing a vote on what is called cloture.

This means two-thirds of the senators present on the floor—not necessarily all 100 senators—must vote to shut off debate or it can't be stopped.

But never in this century have two-thirds of the senators been willing to shut off debate on a civil rights bill. Many of them might favor the bill but cherish unlimited debate since they know some time on something else they might want to use it and wouldn't want cloture.

So those now favoring cloture haven't much hope that it can be invoked. If by some miracle this happened and the Senate passed the measure, it still couldn't become law unless the House also approved.

Earlier this year the Senate did shove through a proposal to outlaw the payment of a poll tax before a person could vote. Only five Southern states have such a requirement.

In earlier days the impossibility of digging up enough money to pay the tax may have kept some Negroes from voting. But it's no longer much of a factor. That may account in part for the sort of half-hearted fight the Southerners put up on this one.

But this was probably a more important factor: the anti-poll tax proposal was not in the form of a bill which would become law if passed by both house and signed by the President. It was in the form of a constitutional amendment.

To pass the Senate required a two-thirds vote. It passed, with votes to spare. But that's only the start. Now it must pass the House by a two-thirds vote. The house may act.

If it does and approves, there's still more to do. The whole thing dies and the Constitution won't be amended unless at least three-fourths of the 50 states, or 38 states, also approve. That's tough going.

The Omitted Sidelights

BECAUSE OF journalistic style, the newspaper-reading public sometimes is deprived of the really interesting side of the news.

For example, First Mondays in Pitt County generally contribute rather trying chronicles for the reader in the form of various official acts by the County Commissioners.

In listing these official actions, the newspaper again performs the eternal duties dictated to it by the journalistic ethic and ideal.

As it should be, readers who mark ballots and pay taxes are entitled to know the disposition of their tax dollars and the various actions by their choices as commissioners.

But, what about the men as persons? That, it often seems, is the side of First Mondays' news chronicles that formal newspaper style skirts around.

Look, for instance, at the personality action in Monday's meeting of the five commissioners:

—Bruce Strickland, only man in the room wearing a heavy-weave sport coat, by-passed his more lightly-clad mates in pleading for less exertion by the air conditioner.

—Bob Martin, who had reflected aloud on his plan to attend his daughter's recital that evening, set what may be a precedent by singularly and comfortably withdrawing his stockinged feet from their slippers for the duration of the afternoon session.

—Bob Little and Vance Perkins arbitrarily arose at one point, as if by prior mutual consent, and, using monies from their own pockets, treated officials and delegates alike to a round from the drink machine.

—Alton Gardner, the chairman, applied harsh action to persuade a stubborn tin-foil wrapper to relinquish its grasp on a mellow, Havana cigar.

INSIGHT, perhaps, into the woes of public office-holding was aired at Monday's meeting.

Retiring district solicitor Bobby Rouse of Farmville was concluding a discussion with the commissioners with a passing comment:

"It's such problems as this that cause the hairline to lift so rapidly," he said, gesturing oward his own hairline that has undergone some recession during his eight years in office.

With that, veteran county auditor Reg Gray, whose hairline recession has now reached the point of diminishing returns, beamed up from his clerk-to-the-board duties with this:

"Bobby, you ain't seen nothing yet."

Chopping Constitution

TO THE EDITOR:

When yesterday's front page of The Daily Reflector carried a news item about Russia's cosmonaut Titov in his tour of this country and his remarks about seeing "no God nor angels" during his orbiting the earth, I was saddened to reflect upon the fruits of atheistic Communism whose only god is materialism, worshipped by creatures whose highest purpose for living equals that of the beast of the field—content to eat, drink, and be merry, and tomorrow, die.

He who insinuates there is no Jehovah God because "I did not see him," could reason, with as much intelligence, that "I explored the brain of man, cutting it into a thousand parts. Aided by a microscope, I searched for a thought; but I failed to find a thought. Therefore, there is no atmosphere. And, we talk about electricity. Though aided by a telescope and microscope, I have never seen electricity. Therefore, there is no electricity."

With more intelligence, one can reason that "though I cannot see a thought, I can see marvelous manifestations of it on every hand. Therefore, Thought is real. Though I cannot see a germ of life, I can see the plant that springs from it and the fruit that grows from it. Therefore, the germ of life is a reality. Though I cannot see the atmosphere, I can see trees swayed by it and the mountains moved by it. I can feel the gentle pressure of it on my brow. When it is shut off, I suffocate. Therefore, Atmosphere is very real. Though I cannot see electricity, I can see objects moved by it and light caused by it. Therefore, Electricity is a reality."

Therefore, a Christian reasons that "though I have never seen God with my natural eye, I have seen things innumerable that tell me that God is. In the world about me I can see design; and where there is design there must be a Designer. I can see the heavens—a beautiful building; and where there is a building there must be a Builder. I can see portions of the universe — a universe wonderfully regulated; and where there is regulation there must be a Regulator. All around me I can see beings endowed with life; and where there is life there must be a Life-giver. And, holding before me the message of life—the Bible whose contents no man can produce—I am convinced there is a Messenger. With this overwhelming evidence, I am convinced, not only that God is, but also, that God hath spoken!"

In steadfast faith, we may conclude that while "the fool hath said in his heart, There is no God," the wise hath said in his heart, "God is a wonderful reality."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WAIT UPON TIME

Truth has a way of unfolding before us if we give it time. In speaking to his disciples Jesus said on one occasion: "What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter" (John 13:7).

One of the strange things about the unfolding of truth is that it sometimes comes upon us unawares. We think deeply about some issue. Then, unable to settle the question we put it aside. Suddenly sometime later — perhaps weeks, months, or even years — we awake to the realization that the problem has been solved. Apparently it has been working down in the very center of our minds. Just as a forgotten name will pop us after we have long tried unsuccessfully to recall it, so an issue which we could not decide comes to the surface with a decided and well worked out plan or explanation some time later.

Let us trust the fact that human life is so constructed that it operates continuously. We pay little attention to the workings of our vital organs. We are almost unconscious of the fact that we breathe, or that our hearts beat. We sink into sleep at night and the vast processes of nature continue to operate.

So it is with the whole of life. A world controlled by a good God is working out divine destiny for nations, races, and individuals. What we do not know today we shall, under such a world order, come to know later.

Bureau Level Idiocy

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When a dairyman faces fines amounting to $20,899.99, because a bureaucrat says so, it is time for all citizens to have a look at the situation. Dairyman Jesse R. Stalker of Ravena, New York, in September 1958, purchased a 20 quart can of sweet cream from Crowley's Dairy's Albany Division. This was an accommodation for his customers because his own herd of 175 cows did not produce enough milk that month for him to process cream.

The following October and November, he ordered three more cans each month. Had Stalker purchased the cream in two quart containers, he would not have been in trouble, but as he bought them in 20 quart containers, he had violated a regulation. Thereupon the Department of Agriculture decided to ruin him, put him out of business, destroy him. He is, in effect, ordered, to pay a fine. As Representative Riehlman says:

". . .Because Mr. Stalker was unaware of this small technicality in the law, it is likely to cost him most of what he and his wife have spent a lifetime of hard work building up. He will be forced to sell his entire dairy herd or he will be forced to mortgage his farm. Incidentally, the regulations will only let him sell his herd between the months of June and November."

Who does these crazy things?

Well, the Department of Agriculture, on December 1, 1961, issued Order No. 2 "Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New York-New Jersey Marketing Area," which prior to January 1, 1962, was Federal Order No. 27. (Do not question me about these dates, I am copying them exactly as they appear on the cover of the document.) No wonder that milk, when it comes to the big cities, costs so much — one needs to hire a specialist to read the order. If a farmer misses a slight point in the New York-New Jersey Marketing Area geography, which includes areas in New York State, New Jersey and—Oh, the Devil with it—here is the description:

"The following counties and parts of counties in the State of New York; Albany; Broome; Cayuga (except the townships of Sterling, Victory, Conquest, and Montezuma); Chemung; Chenango; Columbia; Cortland; Delaware; Dutchess; that part of Essex consisting of the townships of Schroon, Ticonderoga, Crown Point, and Moriah; Fulton (except the township of Stratford); Greene; Herkimer (except the townships of Webb, Ohio, and Salisbury); Madison; Montgomery; Oneida (except the townships of Ava, Boonville, Forestport, and Florence); Onondaga; Orange; Oswego (except the townships of Redfield and Boylston); Otsego; Putnam; Rensselaer; Rockland; Saratoga (except the townships of Day, Edinburg, and Providence); Schenectady; Schoharie; Schuyler; that part of Steuben consisting of the townships of Addison, Corning, and Erwin; Sullivan; Tioga; Tompkins; Ulster; Warren (except the townships of Johnsburg, Thurman, and Stony Creek); Washington; and Yates (except the townships of Italy, Middlesex, and Potter); and in the State of New Jersey: Bergen; Essex; Hudson; Hunterdon; Middlesex; Monmouth; Morris; Ocean (except the boroughs of Barnegat Light, Beach Haven, Harvey Cedars, Ship Bottom, Surf City, Tuckerton, and the townships of Eagleswood, Lacey, Little Egg Harbor, Long Beach, Ocean, Stafford, and Union); Passaic; Somerset; Sussex; Union; and Warren."

There apparently is a Marketing Administrator, who has the powers of a Czar. He can "make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions" of the order. All good law places the burden of proof on the complainant. For instance, if a man is arrested for stealing, the police must prove that he stole. Not so a milk handler. Sec. 1002.31 under the title "Burden of proof," puts the burden on the handler.

The object of regulation is not to provide advantages to big operators or to molest small or

Factor Of The Atomic Quotient

By ELMER ROESSNER

A new factor has been injected into the selection of new plant locations. It is:

What is the atomic quotient?

America is on the move. Factories from the Northeast are moving into the South and other regions. Defense plants are migrating from East and Central states to the West. There are surges to the Northwest, and to other sections.

Golden Lollipops are held out to companies that will move. "Come with us," say regional promoters, "and we will give you cheap, unorganized labor. Join us and enjoy bountiful water. Move from your high-tax state to our commonwealth where we scarcely know the meaning of taxes."

Many plants and factories are on the move this very moment. Some are fleeing burdensome state and city taxes. Others are running away from unions. Still others, perhaps are trying to escape city governments that bleed and blackmail small businesses. But a new consideration has appeared.

Up until now, water has been the most important factor in decisions to move. Even if a plant, such as a dressmaking factory, used little water, an abundant supply was important. Management never knew when a new fabric or a new process would require endless amounts. And to factories that required heavy supplies, water was even more important.

After water came the question of labor supplies. Every moving company wants intelligent, trainable, unorganized workers—available in abundance. No moving plant wants to move into a strike area.

TAXES IMPORTANT

A moving plant is also interested in taxes. Can it get tax forgiveness for ten years or so? If not, can it get other tax concessions? If no concessions, what is the outlook? Thousands of kids soon to demand more and better schools? A disproportionate amount of pre-college tax-eaters?

And what about security? Is the local police force reasonably honest or will it join with gangsters in raiding local businesses? Are company cops required? Is local fire protection adequate? Can you bribe the health inspectors?

While these have long been fundamental questions, a new one is arising that threatens to outweigh all others: What is the atomic protection?

MEASURE THE FALL OUT

Companies planning to move may put these questions at the top of their lists:

1. Is the new site out of a prime target area? Is it safely away from secondary target areas?

2. What safety facilities are available? Is there sufficient shelter area so that production could be resumed after an atomic bomb hit near-by?

3. If an atomic bomb was dropped within X number of miles, in how many days could production be resumed?

4. Is the site protected by hills and other geographical features to shield it from blast?

5. Is there a good regional defense plan?

6. Are residents willing to muster into civil defense organizations, not only for atomic attacks, but for other dangers?

These and related considerations today may be more important than other factors in locating a new plant. Who wants cheap janitors and handymen if all are to be blown away tomorrow?

FEWER MEMBERS HELD BY UNION ORGANIZATIONS

A new study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows that while there were 17.5 million union members in 1956, there were only 17 million at the start of 1961.

The study shows that the ten largest unions had almost half the nation's union members at the start of 1961, of which the largest was the Teamsters, with 1.5 million members.

Books On Mental Health Presented To Libraries

COLLECTION OF REFERENCE BOOKS . . . on Mental Health were presented this week to the two city libraries and to the East Carolina College Library by the Pitt County Mental Health Association. Above are, left to right, Mrs. M. P. Bailey, executive secretary of the Pitt Mental Health Association; Mrs. Belle Atkinson of Carver Library; Miss Elizabeth Copeland of Sheppard Memorial Library; Wendell Smiley of the E.C.C. Library. (Reflector staff photo)

The Pitt County Mental Health Association this week presented a set of 11 reference books to the two city libraries and to East Carolina College's library.

Another recent book presentation was by the Civitan Club, which gave "The Fabulous Octogenarian" by Courtney W. Shropshire, M.D., to Sheppard Memorial Library. This book tells the story of the founder of Civitan International and its organization.

The mental health reference collection totaled several hundred dollars in value. Librarian Wendell Smiley of East Carolina College, Miss Elizabeth Copeland of Sheppard Memorial Library and Mrs. Belle Atkinson of George Washington Carver Library accepted the books presented by Mrs. M. P. Bailey, executive secretary of the local mental health association.

Each of the three libraries received the following books: "The Americans View Their Mental Health" by Gerald Guerin, Joseph Veroff and Sheila Feld, which explores some of the satisfactions, tensions, problems and methods of coping with them in a sample of the American population; "A Mind That Found Itself" by Clifford W. Beers, autobiography by the founder of the mental hygiene movement; "Breakdown" by Robert E. Dahl, story of one man's experience with severe mental illness and the confused, out-of-focus world he faced; "Community Resources in Mental Health" by Reginald Robinson, David F. de Marche, Mildred K. Wagle, discusses such facilities as child welfare, public assistance, public health nursing, mental health services connected with schools and courts and mental health clinics.

Also, "Current Concepts of Positive Mental Health" by Marie Johoda, reviews theories of the major thinkers in this field in an attempt to clarify the question "what is mental health?"; "Discovering Ourselves" by Edward A. Strecker, M.D., and Kenneth E. Appel, M.D., a view of the human mind and how it works; "Mental Health Planning for Social Action" by George S. Stevenson, M.D., survey of services available and what is needed to care for the mentally ill and others.

Also, "The Mentally Ill in America" by Albert Deutsch, historical review of care and treatment of the nation's mentally ill; "The Pane of Glass" by John Bartlow Martin, account of a mental hospital and its operations; "Psychiatry for the Curious" by George H. Preston, M.D., presentation of psychiatric thinking about normal and abnormal behavior; "You and Psychiatry" by William C. Menninger M.D. and Munro Leaf, discusses in simple, readable style the structure and growth of personality from infancy to psychological maturity.

Other books given during 1962 to the library as gifts include "Young Men Can Change the World," the Jaycee story by Booton Herndon, presented by the Greenville Jaycees, as announced earlier; "The Byerlys of Carolina" by Wesley Grimes Byerly Jr., presented by the author; "The American Cause" by Russell Kirk, presented by the Farm Bureau Ladies of Pitt County.

Split Between U. S. And Bonn Poses Hazard

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A potentially dangerous open split between the United States and West Germany clouded the outlook today for future U.S. talks with the Soviet Union on terms of a possible Berlin settlement.

U.S. officials said the Kennedy administration is fully determined to go ahead with the probing conversations. But there was some uncertainty as to just how fast Secretary of State Dean Rusk would be able to move. He is due to have another meeting with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in the next week or so.

President Kennedy was expected to discuss the situation at a midafternoon news conference, probably emphasizing his intention that the conversations be carried on in full consultation with West Germany and other directly interested countries.

Officials here said it was not possible to assess immediately the full impact of the open break between Adenauer and the Kennedy administration over the conduct of the U.S.-Soviet talks.

But any such rift in Allied ranks is always worrisome and potentially hazardous because of the possible impact on other Allied problems.

Washington officials said the situation was complicated further by an evident disagreement within the German government itself.

The line which Adenauer has taken in public discussion at Berlin this week was described by these officials as differing sharply from the line which Foreign Minister Gerhardt Schroeder took in talks with Rusk at Athens as recently as last weekend.

Adenauer told a news conference Tuesday that "I see no ground for continuing the talks" between American and Soviet officials. He also asked at one point in the news conference: "Do you think there is no danger in continuing talks indefinitely without result?" The effect of his question was to suggest that he thinks it might prove dangerous to carry on the exploratory discussion indefinitely.

The State Department, about the same time, reacted to comments which Adenauer had made earlier in Berlin when he assailed as unworkable a U.S. proposal for creation of an international authority to operate the supply lines between West Berlin and West Germany.

A department spokesman said: "Both the President and the secretary of state have repeatedly stated . . . that in view of the potentially dangerous nature of the Berlin problem and the personal sacrifices which the American people have been, and may yet be, called on to make in connection with the fulfillment of our commitment to West Berlin, it was incumbent on the United States government to explore the possibilities of reaching some measure of agreement with the Soviet Union on the Berlin problem."

Adenauer had already made clear in diplomatic conversations that he objected strongly to the international authority proposal. His objection reportedly centered on a provision that the 13-member board would include representatives of East Berlin and East Germany as well as West Berlin and West Germany. The East German regime has already rejected the U.S. plan.

The State Department said it was not unchangeably committed to its authority proposal. It challenged Adenauer or any other Allied leader to come up with a better plan. In the absence of an alternative, however, the State Department said the proposal offers a basis for exploratory conversations.

Outdoor Drama Begins Tonight

Shakespeare's comedy "The Merchant of Venice" opens tonight at 8 p.m. in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater at East Carolina College and will be presented also Thursday and Friday nights, May 10 and 11.

Produced by the East Carolina Playhouse as its annual spring outdoor drama and as an event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival, the play has a cast of students and faculty and staff members from the college.

In case of rain at the time of performance, Director J. A. Withey has announced, the performance will be cancelled, and tickets for one of the other performances provided or money refunded. If there should be rain on two of the nights, a performance will be held on Saturday, so that at least two performances will be assured. The house management wants to emphasize, however, that rain during the day will not cancel a performance, as the seats dry very quickly and, if necessary, pillows will be made available.

Propitious Year To Open A Road

NEW DELHI (AP) — The first road linking India with the hermit kingdom of Bhutan will be opened formally in early 1963 because 1962 is a "black year," according to the Bhutanese calendar, the foreign ministry said Tuesday.

The India-Bhutan road takes on added significance because of Red Chinese activities along the northern Himalayan borders.

Bhutan is an independent kingdom with its foreign policy guided by India.

Tribesmen Being Returned Home

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—The United Nations Command has started transferring more than 42,000 Baluba tribesmen who have been jamming a ramshackle refugee camp outside this provincial capital for nearly eight months.

The command hopes to return 3,000 Balubas weekly to their native townships. They flocked here last September seeking U.N. protection from their political foe, Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

CHAPTER 27

Hugh Spencer looked around the room on the top floor in dismay. It was tiny, with a sloping ceiling that made it impossible to stand erect on the left side.

A large four-poster bed was the most prominent piece of furniture, and the only other items were a small dressing table, a chest of drawers, and a straight-backed chair. It was too late for regrets, but Hugh realized he should have accepted the offer of a suite regardless of the price.

"Rather cozy, isn't it?" Katie Dale giggled as she folded a cloak and put it in the chest.

It would be virtually impossible to maintain any sort of privacy in such a cramped room, and Hugh started back toward the door. "I'll tell Walker we've changed our minds and that we want the suite."

"You can't. You were very emphatic when you said we couldn't afford the price, which we can't, I suspect that Walker has a sharp mind behind that round, red face, and we don't want him to speculate too much about us."

"I suppose you're right," Hugh said, and started to unpack his own belongings.

He finished in a short time and, with nothing else to occupy him, sat on the edge of the bed and watched Katie. She was the last woman on earth with whom he would have imagined himself sharing such intimate quarters, and a sense of unreality gripped him as he watched her taking petticoats and stockings, nightdresses and negligees from the leather boxes. She took her time, deliberately dragging out the process, but at last she came to the bottom of the one remaining box.

She looked at her reflection in the silver-backed mirror she had brought with her from the farm. "I'll have to do something about my face," she announced, and sat down at the dressing table.

Hugh jumped to his feet immediately. "Shall I wait for you in the taproom?"

"If you disappear every time I do something about my appearance, it's going to be terribly inconvenient for both of us." She smiled absently as she began to take pins out of her hair. "Please sit down."

Hugh obeyed, and watched in fascination as she brushed her hair, which almost reached her waist. A sense of excitement began to mount in him, and he had to remind himself that this was the girl who had betrayed his love.

He had chosen to work with her for the benefit of the United States, but it would be insane to let himself become involved with her too deeply, and he tried to look away, but found it impossible to take his eyes from her as, holding her mirror in one hand and manipulating her hair with the other, she twisted and patted and coaxed. Order finally emerged out of chaos, and her hair was piled high on her head, with one long curl dipping over her right shoulder.

She was aware of Hugh's scrutiny, but said nothing until she was satisfied with her hair. "It's growing dark," she said. "Would you light some candles, please?"

He struggled briefly with a tinderbox and flint, then lighted three candles and an oil lamp, which he offered to Katie.

She was pleased that he had discovered it, and he went back to the edge of the bed while she applied a delicate green salve to her eyelids, outlined her mouth with rouge, and dusted her nose, forehead, and chin with rice powder. Katie studied herself closely and was pleased with what she saw.

Hugh looked at her for a long moment. "I haven't told you for a very long time that I think you're lovely."

Katie laughed lightly. "You can say that after watching me use pomades and salves and pasting this velvet patch on my cheekbone?"

"That," Hugh replied with mock severity, "is a less than subtle attempt to win another compliment." He realized he hadn't allowed himself to enjoy a conversation with her since he had first discovered her at Black Ox farm.

"If you think I won't disgrace you, we should go down to eat before the food is gone." She slipped her arm through his, and they walked together into the corridor and down the stairs to the taproom.

After dinner, back in their room on the top floor, Katie turned to the dressing table and began to remove pins from her hair.

Hugh stood behind her, watching. "I assumed," he said, speaking slowly, "that when we arrived here we'd have quarters large enough to ensure each of us some measure of privacy."

"So did I." Katie did not turn around.

"Would you have agreed to come with me had you known we'd be given a chamber like this?" he asked suddenly.

She shrugged, removed a large comb, and shook her hair free. "You seem to forget that I had no real choice."

Hugh, unable to see her face, was uncertain whether she was mocking him. Her tone had been bland, almost too innocent. "Katie!" he said harshly.

She was removing her beauty patch gently, and gave no indication she had heard him.

"Look at me."

"Is that an order?" She made no attempt to conceal her irony now.

"Yes," Hugh told her.

She turned slowly, and her eyes were expressionless. "I don't know whether it will be enough to say, 'Yes, sir, Captain,' or whether I'm supposed to salute, too."

The knowledge that she was goading him helped him to curb his temper. "We have an obvious problem, and it will be easier to solve if we discuss it without bitterness."

Katie smiled mischievously. "The solution is obvious," she said flippantly.

"Is it?" He hoped she didn't know that his heart was pounding.

"Of course. One of us will have to take a blanket and sleep on the floor."

"That isn't necessarily the only solution," he replied flatly.

Color rose in Katie's face, and suddenly she stamped her foot. "Is that why you insisted I come with you and pose as your wife?"

Her unexpected anger startled him.

"I understand now." Katie glared at him. "You've wanted revenge since the day you discovered me at the farm, and you've planned to treat me like a bawd. I haven't blamed you for hating me, but I didn't think you could be so vicious."

Hugh looked at her in silence.

"You're contemptible! You think you've outmaneuvered me, but you're wrong. I'll go to the British with the whole story, and I don't care if they send me to prison. They'll arrest you, too."

Hugh took a step toward her, and she raised a hand to strike him, but he caught her wrist and pinned her arm to her side. "I have no intention of treating you like a bawd," he said firmly.

Katie laughed wildly.

She was so furious that words wouldn't convince her that he had no desire to humiliate her, so he took her in his arms. She struggled violently to break away from him, but he gripped her more firmly and bent to kiss her. She continued to fight for a time, then became limp, and he released her for an instant, grasped her by the shoulders, and kissed her again, gently.

"Maybe that will convince you," he said, and was surprised by the hoarseness of his own voice.

Tears appeared in Katie's eyes, and she tried to reply, but couldn't speak.

"We've waited enough years, don't you think?" Hugh said as he moved toward her again.

---

Hugh has to face Katie's father, and "Although he could think of no reasonable explanation, he was prepared to accept full responsibility." The story continues tomorrow.

Retraining Stepped Up On A Broadening Scope

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe most of us are going to have to learn new tricks the way jobs are changing.

That, anyway, is the idea of the man steering the federal government's latest drive to aid the hardcore unemployed. Retraining also is being stepped up on two other levels, by local or area projects and by individual corporations and unions.

The federal government, starting July 1, will put $500 million into the job to be spread over three years. Some 8,000 unemployed in depressed localities are already being retrained by the Area Development Agency of the Department of Commerce.

And next week in Dallas, Tex., the American Society of Training Directors of Madison, Wis., will consider ways of retraining automation's refugees. It will consider the plight of both managers and workers faced with new and often bewildering electronic machines. Subjects range from automation mastery to teaching machines. Much of the work eventually will be done by the corporations or industries affected.

In Scranton, Pa., Seymour L. Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Labor, charged with retraining the unemployed, has studied the possibilities of utilizing home studies as well as group or classroom meetings. He says the new Manpower Training and Development Act lets the government sign contracts with all kinds of educational facilities—correspondence schools, any private institutions, the public schools, a union which is running a training program.

And employed workers are also included in many retraining movements. John Villaume, president of International Correspondence Schools, estimates that more than a million workers are now taking job-related studies at home. Together with their employers or their unions they are investing more than $100 million a year in the race to master the new techniques before these sweep over them and leave them stranded.

Retraining is aimed both at older workers with obsolescent skills and youngsters with little or no skill at all. Wolfbein hopes to convince the older worker that he has an equal chance.

Corporate and union programs tend to aid both those now laid off and those still employed but needed for more skilled work. The federal program is aimed more specifically at those out of a job or about to be.

NSF Grants For 2 ECC Students

Two biology majors in the Science Department at East Carolina College have been awarded National Science Research Grants in the Field Crops Department at N. C. State College for the summer of 1962.

Eldon Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Nelson of Morehead City, N.C., and Linda Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Ennis, Delco, N.C., both sophomores, are the recipients of the grants.

big operators. It is to assist an industry to provide efficiently a good product, at a fair price. Agricultural regulation had for its objective the protection of the American farmer so that he would not sink to the status of a peasant. But the regulators are job-holders and status-developers and unless they are regulated themselves they become mandarins, who give the impression of being superior to all other humans.

Congress ought to investigate that $20,899.99 fine and other farmers ought to rise in their wrath at such nonsense. It is not only injustice; it is stupidity. The OPA was like that and we still have OPA-minded regulators.

FAIR WIND TO NEW YORK——The German training ship Gorch Fock, sails billowing in a brisk breeze, arrives in New York harbor with a crew of 65 and 180 naval cadet officers. it is the first German navy vessel to call at a U.S. port in 25 years. Favorable winds on the journey from Kiel, West Germany, brought the 240-foot three-masted barque into New York three days early for the port welcome scheduled May 7. (AP Wirephoto)

Another Radio Satellite For Amateurs Is Scheduled

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A tiny robot radio named Oscar II is about to punch a hole in the curtain of secrecy drawn around military satellite launchings.

The Air Force has authorized Oscar (short for orbiting satellite carrying amateur radio) to hitch a ride into orbit aboard a military satellite later this month.

Amateur radio operators around the world, including Russians, will track its signal, as they did the signal of Oscar I launched from here last Dec. 12, in an effort to set up an amateur communications network for use in major emergencies.

To do this they will need to know the time when it was launched and how long it takes to circle the earth.

However, since the first of the year the Department of Defense has ordered a blackout of all information about the performance of military satellites. The launchings are no longer open to newsmen. The Air Force announces only that a satellite has been launched.

It does not say what kind of satellite, the period of orbit, or even whether it went into orbit.

This will impose a real hardship on the hams trying to track Oscar II.

They were advised weeks in advance of the scheduled launching date of Oscar I, which rode piggyback aboard Discoverer 36, a Thor-Agena B combination rocket. The hour of launching and period of orbit—93 minutes—were carried on news wires.

Tracking Oscar I was so easy that more than 5,000 reports came in from hams around the world, including some in Moscow.

How are the hams going to locate and track Oscar II?

"We'll do it, all right," promises M. C. Towns of Sunnyvale, Calif., chairman of the Oscar Association. "We'll flash the time of launching over the international ham network.

"We've already advised them to expect it to achieve approximately the same orbit of 93 minutes. We know the frequency on which Oscar II will transmit—45 megacycles, so we'll try to pick up that signal at the place in the sky where we can expect it to be."

An Air Force spokesman said he could not say what kind of satellite would carry Oscar II aloft, but Towns' preparations make it pretty obvious that the parent vehicle will be another Discoverer.

The Air Force has not identified a satellite as a Discoverer since Feb. 27, when Discoverer 38 went into orbit.

Since the world's radio hams, including several behind the Iron Curtain, will be tracking Oscar II, why is the Department of Defense insisting on secrecy?

"It's a good question," says Towns, who in his working hours is an engineer for Lockheed's Space Division. "I can't understand the restrictions, but we're certainly going to abide by them. The Air Force has approved everything we're doing."

Towns said the Air Force is interested in Oscar as a forerunner of a network of satellites to be used by amateur radio operators.

Towns said that tracking Oscar II's signal—four dots and two dots that spell "hi" in Morse code—would not precisely disclose the parent vehicle's location in the sky.

The 10-pound radio transmitter will be ejected shortly after the parent vehicle goes into orbit and will send out its signal for at least three weeks, or as long as its batteries last.

"But I can't tell you how far it will be ejected," Towns said. "That might help an enemy pinpoint the parent vehicle position."

Well, it has arrived; we mean that long looked for moment when we can invite you to the Grand Opening of our completely redecorated and enlarged home furnishing institution. The acquiring of the large building formerly occupied by John Collins' Furniture Company has given us the required display space so very much needed in order that we might give you, you and you a more "home like" setting for the huge display of America's leading lines in top quality home furnishings, floor covering, electric products, musical instruments and adequate quarters for a fine interior decorating department. All this means better service.

With the rapid pace in innovations, changes and improvements in American architecture today, coupled with the equally speedy improvements in furniture styling and finishes, the ever increasing beauty of fabric weave and coloring, along with that natural instinct of every home maker to show her skill and ability in assembling lovely pieces. This expansion, in order for us to keep pace with this, the fastest growing section in North Carolina, became very evident several month ago. It is these new arrangements in room displays, in color beauty and home like setting that we invite you to see on this occasion.

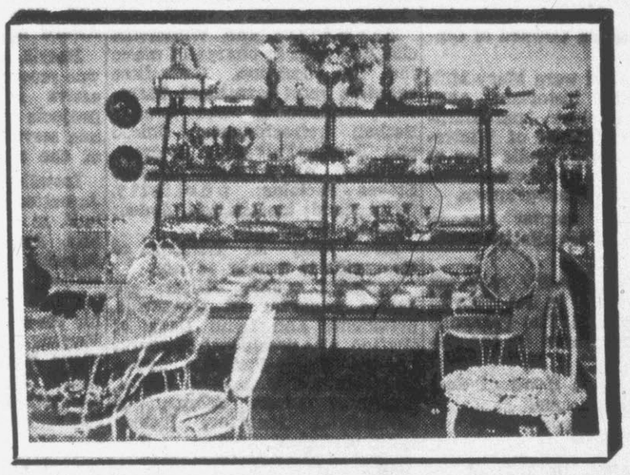

Certainly we could not let this occasion pass without thanking you for your fine loyalty, your friendship and your generous patronage during the many years we have been serving you. Our first customers were quick to recognize that our principles were founded on solid, simple, rugged policies; your quick and continuous acceptance of this original plan has inspired us to rededicate our efforts to give you dependable, quality merchandise at prices consistant with good sound, safe business principles. This store will continue to be conducted along the same lines. We believe you like our method too.

The Services of Interior Decorator Is Available

The many delicate and important details involved in correctly furnishing a home is most frequently enhanced with the keenly interested and capable assistance of one who has made a professional and practical study of area balance, color harmony and multitude of other elements which have to be included in order to present correct emphasis for beauty and livability. We especially invite those who wish to only re-arrange their present furnishings or those who may wish to add a slight change to feel free to discuss these problems with us.

A graduate of The New York School of Interior Design is directly in charge of this important division, is available for consultation and is also ably assisted by a core of thoroughly trained and experienced personnel. This type service is available on a no-charge basis for our regular customers, each of whom has access to not only the furnishings for a room or home but all necessary accenting pieces along with a lovely line of fine silverware; and, too, you will appreciate the skillful and artful manner in which our floral pieces are designed. ## Board Changes Buying Plans

GRIFTON — Grifton commissioners held a short, special meeting on Friday night and rescinded a former motion to buy water meters from Badger Meter Co. and also accepted a low bid on a pickup truck.

The Town Board decided to accept a low bid on water meters from the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. of Atlanta, Ga. because they are less expensive than those sold by Badger Meter Co. Previously, the board had decided to purchase meters from the latter company, whom they bought meters from before.

Cost of the Rockwell meters are $27 each, while cost of the Badger meters are $27.95 each. The town plans to order 200 meters, Town Clerk Nannie Smith said.

Low bid for a one-half ton pickup truck was submitted by West Machinery Co. of Kinston at $1,626.10.

Other bids on the truck were W. H. Jones Motors Inc. of Kinston, $1,632.10; S.&E. Motors of Ayden, $1,637.20; White Owl Motor Co. of Kinston, $1,700; Leo Venters Motors Inc. of Ayden, $1,702.69; Harvey Motor Co. of Kinston, $1,656.40.

The meeting lasted about 30 minutes.

Officers Named By Home-School Ass'n

The Home-School Association of St. Raphael's School elected officers for the next school term at its final meeting last night.

Dr. C. H. Strong was chosen president; Mrs. June Menard, vice president; Mrs. Carolyn Dorroll, secretary-treasurer.

Principal Sister Mary Barbara announced graduation of grade school pupils would be held June 3, and exercises for the kindergarten group were planned for May 31.

This is Sister Barbara's final year with the school in Greenville. She expressed her appreciation for cooperation of the Home-School Association and its services. Her next assignment is as yet undetermined. She has been with St. Raphael's School for six years.

Father Maurice Spillane briefly addressed the gathering and said he was pleased by the interest manifested by parents in the school, and happy "with everything I have seen here in the few short months I have been in Greenville." He held out some hope the number of sisters teaching at St. Raphael's might be increased for the next school term.

Outgoing president Nick Simonovich voiced appreciation to Mrs. Dolly Hill and Mrs. Daisy Basso who have served as the refreshment committee during the 1961-62 term.

Other retiring officers are vice president Dail Laughinghouse and secretary-treasurer Mrs. Mary Lou Baxter.

Parent-teacher interviews were held before and after the meeting.

Their meeting climaxed the annual birthday party given for Truman by hometown friends. Guests included Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Phants Trim Tarboro To Clinch Divisional Crown

Greenville's Phantoms trounced Tarboro 12-1 here Tuesday afternoon to clinch the Northern Division crown in 3-A Northeastern Conference baseball action.

Coach Bud Phillips' diamondmen stretched their league record to 10-1 and put the title out of reach for Elizabeth City which has already dropped three conference tests. Thus the outcome of Friday's Phant trip to Elizabeth City, last of the regular season, will have no bearing on the Northern Division championship.

In downing Tarboro, Greenville moved into the best-of-three series here next week to determine the Northeastern Conference baseball king fo 1962. The Southern Division titleholder, to be decided among Washington, Kinston, Jacksonville and New Bern, will be Greenville's challenger.

Bat power and a two-hit pitching performance by husky Alan McArthur enabled the Phants to breeze past Tarboro's Tigers Tuesday. Kroghie Andresen and Billy James blasted solo home runs to lead the hit parade that plagued three Tiger hurlers with 13 hits.

The outcome was never in doubt after Greenville's first turn at bat when 10 Phantoms paraded to the plate. They bunched four singles, two Tiger errors, a walk, a wild pitch and a two-run double by Tommy Smith for a 5-0 lead.

Greenville picked up another run in the second and added three each in the third and fifth frame for their 12-1 victory. Tarboro was stifled by tight infield play and McArthur's mound performance.

A hit batsman, an error and a sacrifice fly, in that order in the fifth, produced Tarboro's only run. McArthur held the Tigers hitless until the sixth when he yielded a two-out single that died on base. Tiger first-sacker Charlie Harrell lined another fruitless single in the seventh.

In going the distance, McArthur—also a star football and basketball performer for Greenville—struck out 11 while his mates backed him up with tight defensive play. The Phants were guilty of only two miscues in the field. Aiding the Greenville cause were six Tiger errors.

Tiger pitchers could not retire Phantom catcher Rommie Brock who had two singles and a booming triple to deep left in three trips. Smith banged a pair of doubles in three official at-bats and Billy Williamson picked up a two-bagger to combine with homers by James and Andresen.

Tarboro juggled its lineup only in efforts to subdue the loud Greenville bats. Phillips used 15 players in the game.

Pirates Beat High Point By 8-1 Margin

HIGH POINT—East Carolina grabbed the lead in the first inning and went on to beat High Point 8-1 in a Carolinas Conference baseball game here Tuesday.

The Pirates scored three runs in the top of the first with three hits and three walks. High Point picked up its run in the bottom of the first with two hits and a Pirate miscue.

Three Panther pitchers went to the mound in the fifth, but ECC continued to roll, chalking up five more runs with the help of seven free passes.

ECC's victory gave the Bucs a 6-4 conference record and left High Point 7-9 in conference.

Pirate righthander Lacy West went the distance for ECC to gain credit for the victory.

TWO FOR APPRENTICES

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Only two apprentice jockeys have won the Kentucky Derby. Ira Hanford, winning on Bold Venture in 1936, was the first to turn the trick. Bill Boland, who booted Middleground home first in 1950, was the other.

Most of Lehigh's single-season basketball scoring records are held by Norm Brandl of Roselle, N. J. He made 521 points for a 24.8 average as a 1959-60 sophomore.

San Francisco's Surging Giants Set Fast Pace

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco's surging Giants march on while other National League contenders stand still—or worse. Whatever became of that multiple-team, wire-to-wire pennant race?

Taking on their closest pursuer and an old pitching nemesis Tuesday night the Giants carried away a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, boosting their lead to four games.

To gain the narrow win, the Giants had to beat Larry Jackson, who had whipped them eight straight times over a two-season span, and withstand some late Cardinal trouble. They did both on the tough pitching of Juan Marichal (5-2) and the star hitting of Orlando Cepeda, winning for the 12th time in their last 13 games.

Los Angeles counter-rallied against Houston for a 9-6 decision in 10 innings, Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 6-4 and New York's Mets got out of last place for the first time in their young history and shoved Chicago into the cellar, downing the Cubs 3-1. The Milwaukee Braves and the Pirates were rained out at Milwaukee.

The American League managed to get in only two games, Cleveland beating Minnesota 6-3 and Detroit bombing Los Angeles 10-1. Boston at New York, Chicago at Washington and Kansas City at Baltimore all were rained out.

The Marichal-Cepeda combination paced the Giants, with Felipe Alou and Ed Bailey chipping in with vital hits. Cepeda slugged a two-run double against Jackson (3-3) in the first inning, then he and Alou connected for successive doubles in the eighth, breaking a 2-2 tie. Bailey came through with a single, delivering what proved to be the winning run.

The Cards played long ball against Marichal, counting a homer and double by Stan Musial, a homer by Carl Sawatski and Ken Boyer's double among the five hits off the youthful righthander. Sawatski's homer came in the bottom of the ninth. Marichal weathered the uprising for his fifth complete game and the ninth in the last 11 games for Giant pitchers.

The amazing Musial, 41, with a host of records to his credit, climbed into the league batting lead with a .388 average. San Francisco's Harvey Kuenn, with 1-for-3, dropped to second at .381.

The Dodgers dissipated a five-run lead against the rambunctious Colts but pulled it out behind the hitting of rookie Larry Burright and Maury Wills. Burright, who tripled and doubled earlier, legged out a bunt single off Bob Tiefenauer (1-1) with two away in the 10th and moved to third on Frank Howard's pinch single. Wills then crashed in the winner with his third single of the night. Two more runs scored on Dick Farrell's wild pitch and catcher Merritt Ranew's bad throw.

Reliever Ron Perranoski (2-0) was the winner.

The Dodgers pulled ahead 4-0, then 6-1 but the Colts kicked back by collecting 10 hits against Sandy Koufax and Larry Sherry, who each gave up a bases-filled walk.

Cincinnati was given one chance after another by Philadelphia's shaky pitching and defense, banging out 15 hits, drawing four walks and helped along by three Phillie errors. The telling figure was the 16 runners stranded by the Reds. Winning southpaw Chris Short (1-1) yielded 12 hits before he was replaced in the eighth by Dallas Green, who was tagged for Frank Robinson's two-run single. Jack Baldschun took over for Green in the ninth with one on, gave up two singles, then finished with a flourish by setting down the final three batters.

Billy Klaus' two-run homer was the big hit as the Phils built a 4-0 lead against Jim O'Toole (2-4). They nailed it down with two more off Howie Nunn in the sixth.

The Mets eased out of the cellar with help from the Cubs' erratic outfield play. One New York run came in when Billy Williams muffed a pop fly for his second two-base error of the game. The Mets wrapped it up when Felix Mantilla's key single skittered through George Altman's legs.

Hook (2-1) gave up one of the four Cub hits to the first man he faced, Lou Brock, then uncorked a wild pitch as Brock went for a steal of second. He continued on to third and scored on Williams' sacrifice fly. Don Cardwell, out for two weeks with a sore arm, gave up two singles to exteammate Sammy Taylor and nothing more until the sixth, when a walk, Charlie Neal's single and Williams' error produced the tying run. Two walks and Mantilla's single coupled with Altman's misplay produced the deciding runs against Bob Anderson (0-4) in the seventh.

NAAU Absorbs Another Blast

CHICAGO (AP)—From a relatively chill quarter, another shot was fired today at the reeling National Amateur Athletic Union by the Ice Skating Institute of America.

The skating institute Tuesday opened a three-day session with a blast directed at the United States Figure Skating Association which represents the AAU in international competition.

The AAU long has been bombarded by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which has launched national federations for track, basketball and gymnastics to operate independently from the AAU.

The Ice Skating Institute, headed by Mike Kirby, once a partner of Sonja Henie, is composed of 150 rink owners from throughout the country.

The blast at the AAU-affiliated U.S. Figure Skating Association was leveled by David Comb, rink owner from Belmont, Calif., who called for a program to bring the USFSA into "realisitic thinking," or break with the AAU group completely.

Comb and Kirby both said that the Figure Skating Association set ridiculous standards for maintaining amateurism among young skaters of promise who skate at public rinks.

Southern Crown All But Claimed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Virginia's Mountaineers have all but nailed down their second consecutive Southern Conference baseball championship even though they don't wind up their league season until a week from Saturday.

The Mountaineers were practically handed the title Tuesday when George Washington's Colonials handed Richmond's runnerup Spiders a 4-1 setback that dropped Richmond into a tie with Furman's Paladins.

West Virginia is 8-1 in league play with two games to play — a doubleheader at home May 19 against Virginia Tech. Richmond is 6-3 with two games left, while Furman is 4-2 with three games remaining.

One West Virginia victory or Richmond defeat knocks the Spiders out of the running. In the case of Furman, the Paladins must win all three of their games while West Virginia is losing its two.

The Mountaineers ran their overall record to a good 16-4 with a 5-4 victory Tuesday over Ohio University in the only action aside from the Richmond-GW encounter. Virginia Tech's scheduled game with Atlantic Coast Conference leader Wake Forest was canceled because of rain.

S.C. Crushed By Clemson, 27-17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

South Carolina plays nonconference Furman today after being smashed 27-17 by Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference game Tuesday that set at least 11 Clemson records.

In another game today, Maryland, which bowed to Virginia 3-1, Tuesday, was at Georgetown.

North Carolina beat arch-rival Duke 8-7, Tuesday, and Wake Forest at Virginia Tech was rained out.

Clemson trailed 7-1 after two innings of play, but started smacking the ball around in what Clemson Coach Bill Wilhelm called "a helluva game."

Among the 11 Clemson record smashed was eight home runs by the Tigers, five in the sixth and three on consecutive pitches. Other records included most hits in one game, 26; most runs, beating the old record by one; most total bases, 56; and most total bases by both teams, 94.

The victory gave Clemson a 7-5 conference record. South Carolina came out of the game with a 3-6 league record.

Duke, packing all its runs in the last three innings, fell one short of tying North Carolina in the ninth.

Trailing 8-4 going into the ninth, the Blue Devils scored three times on two hits and two walks off a pair of Tar Heel pitchers. But North Carolina's fourth hurler of the day, Bobby Cox, got the last three outs to end the game

North Carolina is 4-7 in league play and Duke is 6-6.

In the Virginia-Maryland game, Cavalier pitcher Bill Spencer missed a no hitter when a bad hop single in the bottom of the eighth eluded the shortstop.

Virginia is now 5-4 in the conference and Maryland is 3-8.

Intercollegiate Elephant Racing Ready To Bow In

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — There's no ivy in the halls of 3-year-old Orange County State College.

But there's going to be plenty of ivory on campus Friday when the school hosts the world's first internollegiate elephant racing meet.

Orange County says it has 12 entries lined up—and may get one more—as a result of what started as a tongue-in-cheek challenge to an elephant race to 18 universities two weeks ago.

Since then the school has been flooded with inquiries and good wishes. Administrators even got a telegram from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who advised the sponsoring elephant racing club: "Best of luck to you. I know from sad experience that there's more to pachyderm pacing than meets the eye."

The elephants, rented from circuses, zoos and animal farms for $150 and up, come in a variety of sizes.

The largest is a five-ton gray eminence nicknamed, by students of sponsoring Chapman College, "Calvin Coolidge"—because he doesn't choose to run.

Harvard's entry, weighing 4½ tons, is named "Sonita." There's a dainty entrant called "Popsie," sponsored by Santa Monica City College.

Other entries come from the University of Nevada, California Institute of Technology, California State Polytechnic at Pomona, California Lutheran, Long Beach State, Santa Ana College, Fullerton Junior College and the Northrop Institute of Technology at nearby Inglewood.

Orange County State's entry was rented a week ago from a private zoo.

Dean of Students Ernest A. Becker said the University of Washington is trying to enter the meet, which would bring the number to 13.

On Way Back After Injury

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee catcher Del Crandall, a four-time all-star game performer sidelined most of last season with a bad shoulder, is well on his way back—both at and behind the plate.

The 32-year-old Crandall has been one of the most pleasant surprises as the Braves, as preseason contender in pennant picks, struggle along with a 10-14 record.

82-Year-Old In Senior Tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) —John Braswell, 82, of Rockingham will be among the oldest entrants Friday when the first Carolinas Golf Association senior golf tournament opens.

Among those already slated to play were Tom Robbins of Pinehurst, 1958 winner of the U.S. Golf Association senior championship; Rock F. Zammiello of Gastonia; James G. Fearing of Statesville, senior champion of the Southern Golf Association; Quinn McCombs, Burlington, former Southern seniors champion; and Francis Hough of Lancaster, S.C.

The Citadel Set For Net Finals

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—Favored George Washington and defending champion The Citadel were set today to battle it out for the Southern Conference tennis championship.

The Colonials sent contestants into seven of the nine finals, while The Citadel had entrants in five championship events today George Washington held a 16-13 point lead over the Cadets.

Stengel Continues As Top Spellbinder

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Casey Stengel peered out of the dugout at Wrigley Field—the first time he had been there since leading his old Boston Braves against the Chicago Cubs in 1943.

"Must be a dozen fans up in the stands," said the New York Mets skipper. "Must be the cold weather. It couldn't be because the Cubs are playing us."

The opening of the three-game series—the battle of the National League cellar—actually drew 1,396 customers Tuesday. It was the smallest Wrigley Field gathering of the season.

The Cubs disappointed them by losing 3-1 as Jay Hook stifled them on four hits in his second route-going job. Fielding errors by Billy Williams and George Altman gave the Mets two unearned runs as they climbed out of the basement for the first time. The Cubs dropped to last.

Before the game, Stengel spellbound a large delegation of newsmen, who filled the visiting dugout as if it were World Series time.

"I just met my two new pitchers (Vinegar Bend Mizell and Bob G. Miller) and this is what I said to them: 'Miller, how many innings you pitched?' He looked at me and said: 'Three or four.' I said: 'I guess you are ready for us anyway, so now you can consider yourself one of my early starters.'

"I said to Mizell: 'Can you pitch?' He said: 'Yes.' I said: 'OK, you pitch for us here in the last game of the series.'

"So, you see, we all got acquainted real quick.

"Our pitching staff is really shattered and I always have a lot of re-arranging to do. Some people think I have 10 starters, but actually there are only three—Hook, Craig (Roger) and Jackson Al).

"And that reminds me. We have lost nine of 11 games at home in the Polo Grounds. The secret there—and I found it out when I was playing for the Giants in 1921-22-23—is to keep the pitches low and make the batters hit to centerfield. If you have a good centerfielder you are all right. But don't let them pull down the right and left lines. Apparently, we aren't getting our opponents to hit to centerfield.

"And that brings me to training. We spent a lot of money getting players, and if they don't pan out after 30 or 35 days we'll get rid of some of them and may get a new batch. Any player who doesn't want to train or play for me can go to Weiss (George Weiss, general manager) or me and ask to be traded. They might go, or they might find themselves in the minors for more conditioning.

"As for talking about umpires, I think Bill Klem must have been the greatest of all. He must have been because no batters or pitchers had wirds with him—and that's about the best thing you can say in judging an umpire.

"As for me, I was always afraid of Klem."

Warming Up For Ft. Worth Event

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Most of the 58-player field of the $40,000 Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament warm up today for Thursday's opening rounds with a crack at the $3,500 in pro-am money.

Sitting out today's rounds with the Simon Pures will be Arnold Palmer who Tuesday got the kiss of death from the working press, radio and television men who cover the tournament.

They picked him to win his sixth current championship and his first at Colonial.

But the fourth estate has never correctly picked a winner. In fact, in two tournaments since the poll was startel in 1955, the ultimate winner failed to get a single pretournament vote from the press corps.

Racing Driver's Career May End

LONDON (AP)—Star auto race driver Stirling Moss suffered such severe brain injuries in his April 23 crackup that it may end his racing career, a hospital report implied today.

"Now that the conscious level is so much improved and he has quite lengthy and lucid periods, it is possible to say with certainty that he has a marked weakness of the whole of the left side of the body, involving race, arm and leg," the hospital said. "This weakness is due to severe bruising on the right side of the brain."

"There is a possibility that full recovery of the functions in the arm and leg will not take place," the report added.

LEADING WINNER

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—With his final-stroke victory in the Tournament of Champions, Arnold Palmer increased his 1962 professional golf winnings to $52,308. He is more than $20,000 ahead of his nearest rival in the money-winning race.

ON EAST'S ROSTER

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two All-America linemen, tackle Billy Neighbors of Alabama and guard Roy Winston of Louisiana State, were added today to the roster of the East squad for the second All-America Bowl football game June 29.

Annual Student Art Show Marked By Many Exhibits

By TRAN GORDLEY

One hundred and five pieces of student work are currently on display in the Hallway Gallery of the third floor, Rawl Building, at East Carolina College.

Six display units located at the entrance of the Rawl Building complete the hallway exhibit. Represented in these cases are examples of commercial art, sculpture, ceramics, weaving and crafts design, and art education. Seated nude by Patricia Farrior of Southern Pines, executed in direct cement, is prominently displayed in front of Rawl steps and welcomes one to see the sixth annual student show.

The character of this year's show is consistent with those of previous years in that it demonstrates the Art Department's policy of instruction within the interest and ability of the student. Freedom and variety are personified by the student works on display.

Fourteen oil paintings included in the show vary in style from realism to abstract expressionism. One figure painting by James Sanders of Rose Hill is clearly realistic in form, yet personal in color interpretation. On the other hand, James Brinson of New Bern offers a figure painting of inventive form and color. This student has used the figure as a motif to reinforce the structural quality of his painting.

Joanne Lackey of Greensboro has a painting rendered in soft pastel colors depicting cats or cat-like forms. Her work may be considered abstract impressionism in style.

The softly moving colors and formless atmosphere of a non-objective canvas, by Lawrence M. Blizard of Whiteville, also included in the show, completes the range of approaches to art which may be seen in the current exhibition.

Many semi-abstract compositions are also to be found upon viewing the student exhibition. These fill the gap between the realistic and the non-objective works thereby offering many different types of painting. Eleven tempera paintings by freshmen in the Art Department have been selected to be included in this year's show.

Graphic work is also represented by twelve woodcuts, etchings, six serigraphs, and one lithograph. Not only do the prints cover different graphic processes but like the paintings in the show, demonstrate several ways of handling subject matter or absence of subject matter within the possibilities of the medium used.

Commercial art is represented by sixteen plates including advertising design, interior illustration, and story illustration.

Twenty-six pieces of sculpture line the hallway opposite the wall of paintings and prints. Carved walnut, carved cement, plaster, wire sculpture are some of the materials used to create three dimensional objects of representational and non-objective types.

The Sixth Annual Student Show will be on display throughout the month of May. In conjunction with this show is the Art Department's Graduate Student Show on display at the Greenville Art Center. The public is cordially invited to view both of these exhibitions which represent the creative pursuits of art students at East Carolina College.

'College Bowl' MC Will Quit After Six Seasons

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Allen Ludden, after two weeks of pondering, came to a painful decision. He will quit "College Bowl" at the end of this season after six years as master-of-ceremonies and stay on with "Password" in its daytime and evening versions.

The decision was forced on Ludden when CBS decided to put the evening edition of "Password" into a Sunday spot next season, separated only by a half-hour from "College Bowl." Sponsor of the latter program felt that, even though "College Bowl" was earlier, the two programs, so close together, might prove a little too much Ludden.

Ludden, who was enthusiastic about his long, happy association with the quiz show, said he "finally decided I should go along with a program that had grown from a daytime game show to a primetime evening show.

" 'Password' offers scope, and a challenge," he added. "It has turned me into a fulltime performer. Besides, I'd done the other show for a long time, so it wouldn't prove anything much to me if I did another season of it."

"College Bowl" is busily sorting out applications for Ludden's replacement. Producer John Cleary said that the host doesn't have to be all brain—the difficult questions can be studied in advance, and the big words in the question are spelled phonetically.

"Any intelligent guy can do it," he said. "The secret is maintaining the pace of the show—fast. He has to establish his authority over the show and let the student teams know he understands what each question is about."

Douglas Edwards, who wanted to be released from his CBS contract when the network pulled him out of his evening news show, must feel better about things now. He will be anchor man in a series "news extras" on the network next season—shows which will be CBS' adaptation of NBC's successful series of "instant news specials" anchored by Frank McGee during the past year.

Recommended tonight: Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11 (EDT)—dramatization of the story of a Cuban journalist who fled the Batista regime and returned to Castro and disillusionment.

Uncover Section Of British Fort

DETROIT (AP) — Historians took over supervision of digging at a building construction site today after workmen turned up parts of a British fort built in 1779.

Wooden structures found by diggers at a new bank site were authenticated Monday as parts of Fort Lernoult, built on what is now Fort and Washington, a busy intersection in the city's heart.

The Detroit Bank and Trust Co. and building contractor Sam Minskoff invited historians to excavate further for more relics.

Report Tritium In Solar Flares

WASHINGTON (AP)— A European space scientist says tritium, the heavyweight form of hydrogen used to make H-bombs, has been detected in giant flares that sometimes erupt from the sun.

Asserting the tritium was detected by one of the United States' Discoverer satellites, Prof. Cornelius de Jager of the Astronomical Observatory, Utrecht, said Monday this is an indication that some kind of nuclear process may be involved in the production of these stormy eruptions from the sun's surface. He spoke at an international space symposium here.

Baby Camel Is Born At Zoo

DILLON, S.C. (AP) — Like many another baby, Ohso came when the doctor was away. Her midwife was a gardener, but he delivered the 100-pound baby in 20 minutes.

Ohso, daughter of Sheba the camel, stood up within an hour after birth and took a few halting steps. She seemed to have trouble pointing her feet in the right direction. But everyone was happy.

Sheba, along with foster father Omar, are owned by Alan Schafer, Grand Lemac of Omar Camel Herders, the fund raising unit of the Omar Temple of the Shrine at Charleston. Now there are plans to march all three camels in Shrine parades in South Carolina and North Carolina, once Ohso gets a little better oriented.

Ohso — whose name is taken from the initials of the four Shrine temples in the two states, Omar, Hejaz, Sudan and Oasis — was born Monday at 4:07 p.m., attended by gardener John Mixon. All the next day she was feted with telegrams, flowers, cakes and visited by newsmen.

The camels are stabled in an Arab tent at a small sandy oasis at a highway tourist spot.

No one here seems certain who is the father. Omar is from New Jersey. Sheba arrived here pregnant from Florida some time ago.

Record Number Of Babies In '61

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were 4,282,000 babies born last year in the United States—a record.

And, according to a report today by the Public Health Service, the infant death rate reached a new low.

Those were contributing factors to a net increase of 2,580,000 in the population, without taking immigration into account.

The service, on the basis of provisional figures, said, the 4,282,000 births during 1961 compared with a previous record of 4,257,650 in 1960.

There were 108,200 infant deaths in 1961, down from 108,800 in 1960, and the infant mortality rate was 25.3 per 1,000 live births, down from the 1960 rate of 25.7, the previous low.

Swallowing Of Goldfish Revived

NEW YORK (AP)—Four Fordham University students revived a campus cultural activity of decades past Tuesday. They swallowed 57 goldfish.

The four volunteers set up a table in the campus center and began the gulpathon to push lagging sales of tickets for a Saturday night Roaring Twenties party. Every time a ticket was purchased, one of the volunteers would swallow a 1-inch goldfish.

By day's end, Don Ross had swallowed 24, Gary Oswald had downed 14, Ed Morris had consumed 14 and Bob Bogucki had gulped 5.

Bogucki said he would have swallowed more but had to get to a class.

West Germany's population is estimated at over 55 million.

Conservation Notes

HUGH WINSLOW, supervisor of the Coastal Plain Soil Conservation District from Pitt County, has purchased 100 pounds of Hairy Indigo seed to sow on 10 acres of poor sandy soil on his Bensboro Farm up in Belvoir.

This is land which needs a lot of "building up" and Winslow says: "I am using Hairy Indigo because it is being tried on this type soil. It is said to have the good qualities of crotalaria as a soil builder, and none of its bad qualities, since Hairy Indigo is often used for cattle grazing in Florida.

"It is resistant to root knot, is a legume, and is said to produce from 7-10 tons of green matter per acre containing 90 to 130 pounds of nitrogen." Winslow continued:

"It is economical to seed since 8-10 pounds, costing about $3 is sufficient for an acre. Sow broadcast and cover lightly with a weeder. We hope many of our farmers will try this new soil building crop this season. Seed may be purchased locally. Inquire at your SCS or County Agent's office."

James Griffin, former Soil Conservationist at Edenton, and Talmadge Wiggins, Conservationist at Kinston, both report favorable results from trials of Hairy Indigo as a substitute for crotalaria on our poor sandy soils.

---

WALLACE JAMES, a farmer near Flat Swamp Church in upper Grindle Creek Watershed, received assistance in planning his farm recently.

Two of the jobs to be done this spring, according to the plan, were the construction of a shaped bucket ditch alone one side of the long narrow farm and then the installation of 2300 feet of drain tile in the wet side of this year's tobacco field.

The land was so miry that a neighbor's four-wheel drive truck stalled in trying to cross it. Wallace was putting tobacco in this field to get it in a three-year soil conservation rotation.

Today Wallace said, "Two weeks ago Wayne Phillips from the SCS office helped me stake and survey the ditch and tile according to plan. I secured a dragline and cut the ditch to grade and planned depth of 5-6 feet. I ordered the tile and got the services of a tile trenching machine.

"It took us a little over half a day to install the tile. It began draining the land immediately. We marveled at the water running out. Yesterday many of my neighbors were complaining about their land being too wet to set tobacco, but not ours. We were setting right on. We are mighty pleased with the job, and have faith in it."

---

CARL SCOTT of Belvoir and the Wildlife Resources Commission says:

"We have packages of annual seeds for wildlife food patches for distribution. Each package contains peas, millet, Korean lespedeza, and other seeds sufficient for one eighth of an acre.

"If you are interested please contact me or your Soil Conservation District office in the Old Hospital Building in Greenville. It is time to plant now."

Tommy House of Bethel told us today that he will plant several patches. Durwood Hines, farming with Graham Jefferson, came in for half a dozen packages for as many food patches for the birds.

---

BRANTLEY SPEIGHT, district supervisor, says "Soil Stewardship week" comes the last of May.

Have you asked your preacher to join in this great movement by preaching a sermon on Soil Stewardship? We have a well written booklet for free distribution to our ministers. We want to give you one.

---

R. D. JEFFERSON, district cooperator of Fountain, had a spoilbank from a canal leveled off. The old raw clay subsoil would not produce.

Jefferson says, "I came to my Soil Conservationist for assistance. He advised two tons of ground limestone, 1,000 pounds of 0-14-14 fertilizer and 40 pounds of Kobe lespedeza per acre. The lespedeza grew 20 inches tall, and was all furred under as planned.

"It did the job. The corn the next year was as good on the old spoil as in the remainder of the field. The clay soil was mellow and no longer dry and hard."

Anniversary Of WAC On May 14

May 14 marks the 20th anniversary of the largest of the "Women in the Armed Services" units, the Women's Army Corps, Greenville Army Recruiter, Sgt. Eugene Hall, serving this area, noted today,

"The date is appropriate as it occurs during the observance of "Armed Forces Day", a day of tribute to the teamwork of the 'Armed Forces Week,' which culminates May 19 in the 13th annual 'Armed Forces Day,' a day of tribute to the teamwork of the the American people," Sergeant Hall said.

From a small nucleus of patriotic women at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, in the dark days of 1942, the Women's Army Corps grew to a wartime peak, in April of 1945, of 100,000.

Some 17,000 members served in overseas theaters, including Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, China - India - Burma, the Mediterranean, and the Pacific. They proved their value to the Army and to the nation in hundreds of jobs ranging from stenographer to electrical engineer, and from psychiatric social worker to executive.

From World War II the strength of the Corps remained at about 7,000 until the outbreak of hostilities in Korea. Then it began to expand again, reaching some 14,000 in December of 1951.

---

ARCH FLANAGAN, district chairman, and Conservationist Roy Beck, gave the programs to the Kiwanis and the Rotary clubs in Farmville on successive nights last week.

They discussed ways to further the watershed program in Pitt County, and at the same time get sufficient personnel to meet the demands of our Pitt County farmers for technical assistance in soil and water conservation.

---

The "North Carolina Soil and Water Conservation Needs Inventory" has just been received by all USDA agencies in Pitt County. The information, broken down by counties, represents a cooperative effort by all interested agencies at the county level.

J. Frank Doggett, Extension Soil Conservationist, says "This is good information that focuses attention on the importance of soil and water, and the conservation of these resources to the welfare and prosperity of the community."

ASCS Note Book

By AILEEN CLARK
Production Adjustment Clerk

It has been announced that a tobacco variety discount program will be in effect again in 1962 as in the last five years.

Discount variety tobacco checking will be much stricter this year, than during the past years. This will be done by specialists employed by the North ASC State Committee.

About 10 percent of the flue-cured tobacco farms in the State will be visited at about the time the tobacco has reached the maturity stage.

The outlawed or, as we call them, discounted tobacco varieties include Coker 139, Coker 140, Dixie Bright 244 and Coker 187-Golden Wilt as well as mixtures and strains of these varieties, and also unreleased breeding lines with the same quality or chemical characteristics.

In 1957, scientists classified these varieties as being low in flavor and aroma, being objectionably light bodied and enjoying poor acceptance with the trade. As a result the Secretary of Agriculture announced that these varieties of flue-cured tobacco would be supported at only one-half the support rate of comparable grades of other varieties.

Co-op Program

This discount variety program was sponsored by the tobacco trade as well as the tobacco farmers who also played a prominent part in shaping up the program because tobacco farmers, especially those in this state, are well aware that we have to limit our production not only to the quantity of tobacco that domestic and foreign markets will absorb, but also to the quality of tobacco which will be acceptable to the buyers.

This program has enjoyed nearly total acceptance and cooperation of flue-cured tobacco farmers — in fact during 1960 and 1961 there was virtually no planting of these varieties. This indicates universal support of the program by flue-cured tobacco growers.

Every farm operator will be asked to certify whether any discount variety tobacco is being planted on his farm or any farm operated by him. In addition farms on which flue-cured tobacco is planted will be visited by ASCS employees for the purpose of variety examination. This variety examination will be made at the same time ASCS makes its annual survey of acreage planted to allotment crops.

In any case where there is a question as to varieties being produced, green leaf samples of tobacco will be collected for chemical analysis. This chemical analysis will serve as additional information to be used in the variety determination.

Support Halved

In case a farmer is found producing one of the discount varieties a limited support marketing card will be issued for the farm. This limited support card indicates that the farmer is entitled to half the support rate.

This limited support marketing card may later be exchanged for a full support marketing card if other varieties of tobacco from the farm are available for marketing and the farm operator has sold, accounted for, or satisfactorily disposed of all discount variety tobacco.

Discount variety tobacco will be identified on the auction warehouse floor by different basket tickets. The identification will apply both to producer sales and to resales by dealers and warehousemen. This floor identification plan was developed so that buyers could bid on the acceptable varieties with knowledge and confidence.

The variety discount program is a cooperative effort on the part of farmers themselves to see that tobacco produced is as near as possible to the quality of tobacco currently in demand for domestic and export use.

A plot is planted in this county to be used by the specialists in determining the growth characteristics of discount varieties.

Farmers should be reminded of the fact that this program is intended to benefit them—that it does benefit them—and they are only hurting themselves if they do not plant recommended varieties.

Phil Silvers Makes Sentimental Return

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Phil Silvers is a charming, intelligent and talented comedian.

How do I know that?

He told me.

"Tell you how to start your story," said Silver in his ratatatat style. " 'Phil Silvers is a charming, intelligent and talented comedian.' "

Phil was making a sentimental return to 20th Century-Fox, where he spent eight of his youthful years.

"Just dropped in to see my old friend, Dean Martin, and what happens?" he said indignantly. "They put me to work."

The work is playing a cameo role as an insurance man in "Something's Got to Give." Silvers made it seem more like play than work as he and Martin gagged between and during scenes.

"This is your world," Silvers scoffed, "Mine is the theatuh. Ah, to be back on the boards again."

The boards will have to do without Silvers for a while. After winding up "Do Re Mi" in Detroit, he moved his family here. He has enough work to engage him. In fact, he is cast in three films currently shooting. Besides this one, he is to play Tony Curtis' boss in "40 Pounds of Trouble" and a con man in "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

Silvers admitted things weren't the same at Fox on his return: "I'm not following John Payne around."

One of the major reasons for Silvers' settling back in his old haunts is his family. A late starter, he has managed to amass a harem that consists of wife Evelyn, daughters Tracey, 5, Nancy, 3, plus twins Cathy and Candie, 9 months.

"This is a great place for kids," the comedian observed.

"The only place!" said Martin, himself the father of six.

Summer Study Scholarship For Sugg Teacher

Mrs. E. C. Frazier, French teacher at the H.B. Sugg High School in Farmville, has received a National Defense Education Act Scholarship to study French at Hollins College, Virginia, this summer.

Mrs. Frazier is a graduate of North Carolina College in Durham and has done Post Graduate work at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Participants in the summer institute at Hollins College will receive nine graduate credits from the college upon the successful completion of the program.

The institute aims to increase the participants' competency in the four basic language skills, to introduce them to the latest methods of teaching foreign languages, and to present new insights into French contemporary civilization and culture.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Words of caution for the gardener and some hints about childlessness are subjects with a focus on health.

Beware Power Mowers

There are perhaps some 20 million power lawn mowers in use in the United States—and now with summer and grass cutting season here, power mower owners should beware.

So warn Drs. Erick M. Chazen and John L. Chamberlain III of Vanderbilt University.

They cite cases where power mowers, usually rotary types, catch objects in the lawn and fling them outwards, sometimes hitting bystanders, or sometimes the operator of the mower.

There is a local ordinance in Louisville, Ky., making it illegal to employ anyone under the age of 18 to operate a power mower, and similar laws have been proposed in New York, New Jersey and California, the doctors say.

The cause of accidents is sometimes poorly designed mowers, sometimes carelessness by the operators. Removing debris from the lawn before mowing can often prevent accidents.

Lawn Sport

Many kind words have been written about the cool green lawns, the pleasant gardens. But the American Medical Association warns that while it is good exercise to garden, there are also hazards.

In the first place, go at it gradually. Give yourself a chance to get used to strenuous activity after sitting around all winter, if you have been.

Since tetanus germs grow in the soil, especially where barnyard fertilizer is used or farm animals exist, it's wise to get a tetanus shot as a hedge against lockjaw.

Use weed killers and bug killers carefully. Many also kill people. Be sure they are capped tightly and put out of the reach of children.

If you are extra sensitive to insect bites, see your doctor about getting some protective shots that will make you less sensitive.

Childless

The subconscious mind can keep a woman from having children, says Dr. Irving C. Fischer, New York obstetrician.

The unconscious desire not to have children can produce a physical climate where miscarriages occur, he writes in the physicians' newspaper, Factor. The same is true of men who subconsciously want to avoid fatherhood, he adds.

Tension and anxiety can affect the reproductive organs, much as they can affect other glands and organs of the body. For example, he says, the desire to remain childless may trigger spasms in the Fallopian tubes, preventing the union of male and female sex cells. Similar physical changes can cause miscarriages, he believes.

Officers Installed By Math Club

The Maria D. Graham Mathematics Club, student organization at East Carolina College, installed a new slate of officers at the annual banquet of the Mathematics Club.

Wiley Moye Waters, Jr., of Winterville was installed as president of the club for the 1962-1963 school term.

Other officers installed in addition to Waters were Mack Worthington of Winterville and Anne Green of Greenville, co-vice presidents; Melba Rhue of Swansboro, secretary and treasurer; Lavonne Vinson of Swansboro, reporter; and Sue Worthington of Winterville and Faye Brown of Wilson's Mills, social chairmen.

A skilled charcoal burner can tell condition of the wood which is being heated to manufactuer charcoal, simply by running his hands through escaping smoke.

Eradication Of Polio Said Near

RALEIGH (AP) — Thanks to the aid of vaccine, eradication of polio is "within our grasp," the State Board of Health and State Medical Society were told today.

"Coming within reach is the possibility of the control of measles and possibly its eradication as well," said Dr. Jacob Koomen Jr., assistant state health director.

Dr. Koomen reviewed current progress in the control of polio, measles and infectious hepatitis. He said much research is yet to be done before control can be expected for infectious hepatitis, a disease of the liver.

Koomen indicated that with Salk vaccine and the new types of Sabin oral live vaccine, it may be expected that "poliomyelitis will disappear as an important clinical and public health problem."

Koomen told a joint meeting of the state board and medical Society that there were 275 paralytic cases of polio in North Carolina in 1959. Only nine cases were reported last year.

"The great progress in control," he said, "is largely attributable to the widespread use of Salk vaccine." It remains to be determined, he added, whether oral vaccine will determine life-long immunity.

Want Test Ban Include France

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union declared today it will never sign any nuclear test ban treaty without France.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin announced the Soviet position at a session of the 17-nation disarmament conference discussing the test ban negotiations of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Zorin referred to the recent French underground test in the Sahara.

"There is another power now testing nuclear weapons. This power is refusing to take part in the negotiations and has never said it would adhere to a nuclear test ban treaty," Zorin said.

"The Soviet Union will not sign any treaty on banning nuclear tests unless France is a party to it."

France has never taken part in the test ban talks, and has boycotted the disarmament conference since it opened March 14.

The United States detected the French nuclear test before Paris announced it and Zorin used this to support the Soviet position that no international control system is necessary to police a test ban.

"The fact that the test was picked up by the United States bears out our assertion that all tests can be detected by national detection systems," Zorin declared.

The test ban negotiations are deadlocked by the Soviet refusal to discuss any arrangements allowing for compulsory inspection of suspicious earth tremors. The United States and Britain refuse to accept a test ban without such a control system.

Swift Approval Given For Gold Medal Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Banking and Currency Committee, usually concerned with matters involving big money, laid aside such affairs Tuesday to give swift approval for a gold medal for comedian Bob Hope "in the name of the people of the United States of America."

Chairman Brent Spence, D-Ky., interrupted a hearing on export controls to listen to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who is piloting the gold medal resolution through Congress. It already has been passed unanimously in the Senate.

Symington said of the wise-cracking comedian that no man has given more generously in traveling to entertain American troops abroad. He noted that such medals have been struck for songwriters George M. Cohan and Irving Berlin.

The committee went into executive session and in five minutes approved the resolution too strike the gold medal. The mint does such jobs, which puts them in the banking committees field.

Seek Causes For Centaur Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Radio signals and telescopic camera films were analyzed today by technicians seeking the cause of the in-flight explosion of the first Centaur high-energy space rocket.

The study was watched closely by Project Mercury officials for any clue which might force a delay of the orbital space flight of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, scheduled for May 17.

The 105-foot Centaur blew apart 30,000 feet above the Atlantic Ocean 55 seconds after it was fired on its maiden flight Tuesday.

The spectacular failure dealt a severe blow to U.S. plans to develop the rocket as a booster for sending heavyweight payloads into earth orbit and to the moon, Mars and Venus.

Mercury officials were concerned lest the trouble be traced to the Centaur's Atlas first stage. There were indications that the Atlas was at fault.

A similar Atlas missile in on a launching pad here being prepared to loft Carpenter into space on a three-orbit mission similar to that made by Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. on Feb. 20.

The Atlas is a complex vehicle with more than 300,000 moving parts. If the Centaur failure is traced to the Atlas system, then that part of Carpenter's booster would be checked thoroughly before a green light would be given to his space ride. Analysis of the data may take two or three days.

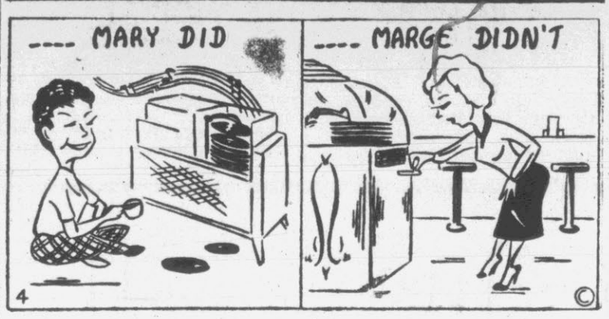

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had hoped for a successful first flight of the Centaur to help reduce nearly a year of frustrating delays in launching the rocket. The main problem stems from developing high-energy liquid hydrogen as a propelant for the second stage.

Controlling this tricky, super-cold fuel, which must be kept at a temperature of 423 degrees below zero to remain liquid, is the key to Centaur's extra muscle.

Once harnessed, liquid hydrogen will produce 40 per cent greater thrust per pound of fuel than chemical fuels used on present rockets like the Atlas. Centaur's second stage has two hydrogen-driven engines with total thrust of 30,000 pounds—a potent kick when ignited in the vacuum of space.
