DeGaulle Firmly Opposes Changing Berlin's Status

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle declared today the Western powers must keep their present rights in Berlin without change.

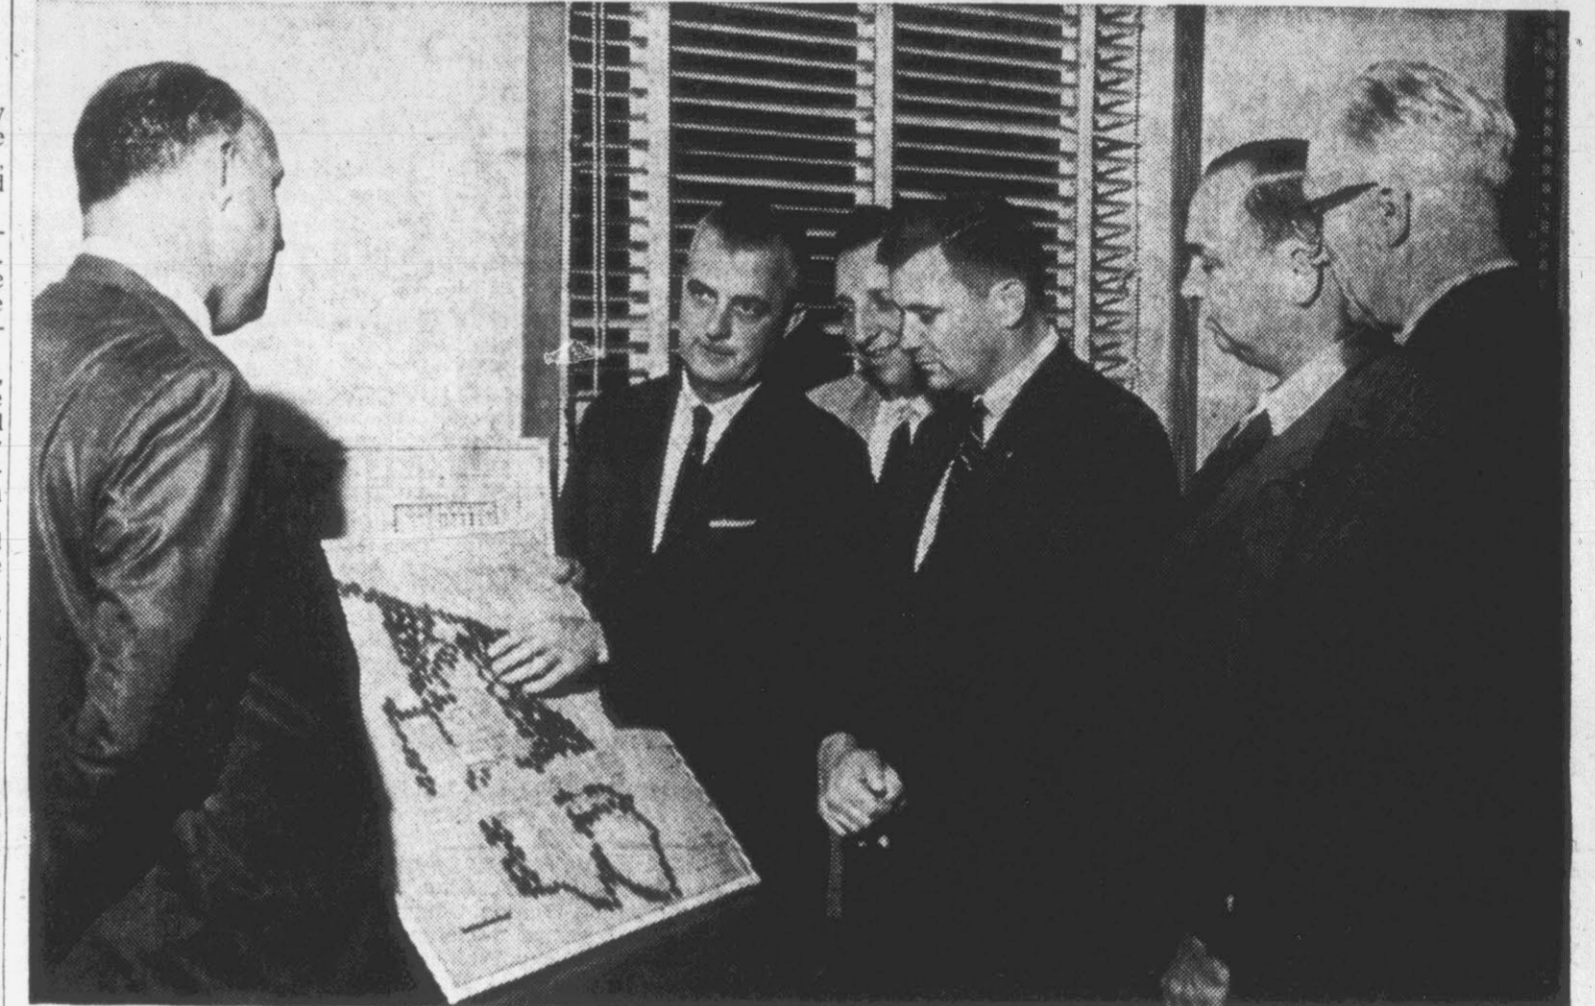

De Gaulle said France does not object to the United States' probe of Soviet intentions on Berlin.

the problem of Germany in a satisfactory manner. "The Soviets are demanding that the West finish with the German problem and they are using the Berlin crisis for this end."

Terrorists Step Up Slaughter

ALGIERS (AP) — Secret army terrorists launched a new wave of death and destruction today, killing at least 35 persons and wounding 13, mostly Moslems.

Greenville Recreation Master Plan Adopted; Has $638,000 Price Tag

AT RECREATION MEET . . . Director Gordon Goodman, Dr. Leo Jenkins, J. S. Stevens, Louis Collie, Dr. Ray D. Minges and Charles M. Graves look over drawing of proposed Elm Street Center.

Senate To Shelve Its Literacy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — With all sides reasonably satisfied that political profit has been squeezed out of it, the Senate may shelve today the administration's voter literacy test bill.

It was aimed primarily at about 100 counties in the South where its supporters said state tests were used to keep Negroes from voting.

De Gaulle asserted that in the current international circumstances it is vain to try to settle loose confederation.

Police said 26 persons were killed and 88 wounded by commandos of the Moslem National Liberation Front who drove at high speed through Algiers with machine guns blazing.

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer The Recreation Commission last night accepted and endorsed a Master Plan for Recreation in Greenville and indicated it will start action on the "immediate needs" portion of the proposed program.

At Elm Street Park, the plan calls for the construction of a building and pool across from the present facility and adjacent to the Kiwanis Park.

Collie Chairman Recreation Body

Louis Collie was elected chairman of the Greenville Recreation Commission last night, replacing Dr. Leo W. Jenkins who has served as the Commission's head for the past two years.

Members of the commission are selected to three-year terms and may serve no more than two successive three-year appointments.

Local Firm Planning $225,000 Plant In Expansion Program

New and enlarged quarters for Carolina Dairy Products Co. of Greenville, estimated to cost some $225,000 when completed, are now under construction on U.S. 13-NC 11 south, inside the city limits.

addition supplies milk for both Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro and Cherry Point Marine Base.

Webb stated that the new plant and offices will "permit us to give far better service to our customers and enable us to affect efficiencies in operation, in that added storage and production facilities will be available to us. We feel that it is a real step in keeping with the progressiveness of our city and community."

The Moslem rampage ended only after authorities imposed a curfew in the city and ordered police to shoot on sight anyone caught on the streets.

Graves described as "things we need today—immediately"—a new building and swimming pool at the Elm Street recreation center; an addition to the present building at South Greenville Park and the construction of a swimming pool there;

Final portion of the immediate objectives section is the acquisition of 60 acres of land. Graves, who emphasized his estimates would have to be adjusted to local situations, estimated the price of this land at from $95,000 to $110,000.

Indonesian Paratroops Drop Into New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—Four Indonesian transport planes supported by two Mitchell bombers dropped 40 or more paratroops and supplies into West New Guinea at dawn today to reinforce encircled Indonesian guerrillas, the Dutch reported.

A spokesman said none of the four was shot down. There was no report of contact on the ground between Dutch forces and the invaders.

A NEW PLANT AND OFFICES . . . for Carolina Dairy Products are now under construction on U.S. 13-N.C. 11 across from the Kenland Motel. Construction is expected to take about six months.

Graves, in breaking down the various sections of the "immediate needs" topic, emphasized that this is what Greenville needs now to bring its program up to the average.

Hottest Day Of The New Spring Reported Here

The hottest day of spring sprang early today. At 4 a.m. the temperature was 70 degrees and by noon the mercury had climbed to 94 at the Greenville Utilities Plant.

In Jakarta, Indonesia's army chief of staff, Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, declared today that armed Indonesian "volunteers" have been dropped in several parts of West New Guinea.

"We can take West Irian (West New Guinea) at any moment," he declared. "The Indonesian armed forces are prepared at any moment to render assistance to our youth by air and sea."

Pitt May Join In Area Program

Pitt County's possibility of participation in the new Area Redevelopment Administration is scheduled for discussion at Wednesday's regular May meeting of the Pitt Development Commission.

Indications were that this might set some kind of a record for a high temperature on May 15.

The Dutch said the paratroops were dropped east of Fakfak while the supplies were unloaded north of the village in the general vicinity where the first contingent

Reports on the authority's first year of work are expected to be heard and election of officers will be held.

Make Your Own Toffee

TOFFEE CRUNCH, that ever popular sweet, makes a fine hostess gift when you pack it in pretty containers.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
HERE'S A bargain.
When you buy toffee crunch in small bars it's on the expensive side. But you can make a big batch of the candy for a little over a dollar.
We doubt that there's a sweet more popular, take it along to a party, send it to deserving relatives or youngsters away at school. Or make a painful just to have on hand for enjoyment at home.
The first step in the candy's preparation takes time. Low heat is necessary while the sugar dissolves. So draw up a stool to the range and prop a book in front of you: stir and read.

Or make up the candy when a couple of neighbors drop in for morning coffee. Enlist their aid.
This toffee crunch stands up nicely at room temperatures. Refrigeration, we found, eventually changes its texture.

TOFFEE CRUNCH
1 1/2 cups margarine
1 3/4 cups sugar
1-3 cup light corn syrup

1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts
4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts (if desired)
Melt margarine in 2-quart saucepan. Add sugar and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is completely dissolved—this will take about half an hour. Stir in corn syrup. Cook over low heat, without stirring, until mixture reaches 290 degrees on a candy thermometer, or until 1 teaspoon of mixture is brittle when dropped into 1 cup very cold water. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts just until mixed—do not overmix. Pour immediately into ungreased 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Cool. Place chocolate over hot, not boiling, water until soft; stir to blend. Pour over cool toffee, then sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Chip candy into irregular pieces. Makes about two pounds.

Mrs. Spruill Spain New DAR Regent

FARMVILLE—The May meeting of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, DAR, held Saturday in the chapter house, was featured by a program of vocal music rendered by Mrs. Thomas G. Bullock, a local soprano, with Mrs. Haywood Smith as accompanist.

Selections included "Morning" and "Maytime," Oley Speaks; "I Love Life," Mana-Zucca; "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Dvorah (the singer dedicated this to mothers); "A Spirit Flower," Campbell-Tifton; "Into The Night," Clara Edwards; "The Star," James Rogers.

Mrs. Lyda Tyson Robinson of Nashville introduced the musicians and in brief remarks stated that the program was a part of the chapter's observation of National Music Week, Mrs. N. P. Hearne of Macleesfield and Mrs. Charles R. Townsend were joint hostesses with Mrs. Robinson. Assisting in receiving and serving were Mrs. Jack Riley of Raleigh, daughter of Mrs. Townsend, and Mrs. Charles R. Townsend Jr. of New Bern, a daughter-in-law.

A report by the Regent, Miss Elizabeth Lang, of the National Society's 71st Continental Congress held recently in Washington, D. C., included excerpts from the welcoming address of the President-General, Mrs. Doris Pike White, on the chosen theme for the year, and the accounting of the three years of her stewardship in her report to the Congress. Demands requiring the attention of the President-General were such that with the exception of five weeks, she spent the entire time at her desk in Washington or on official visits and appearances which totaled 120,000 miles during the three years.

Increased scholarship and enlargement of DAR schools were among projects mentioned by Miss Lang as was the Doris Pike White auditorium-gymnasium, constructed during this administration at a cost of $130,000. Promotion of national defense, good citizenship and the study of American History by American students were among outstanding achievements which won for the President-General a George Washington honor medal from the Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge and for the Society a citation. "An outstanding achievement in helping to bring about a better understanding of the American Way of Life."

Student Recital To Be Given

Mrs. J. Henry Whitehurst will present her piano students in a recital May 18 at 8 o'clock in the Stokes-Pactolus High School auditorium.

Those participating are Sandy Bullock, Marsha Brown, Sandra Hardy, Linda Rawls, Gwyn Gilson, Carol Hardy, Edwin Congleton, Wilbert Putrell, Claudia Barnhill, Juanita Gilson, Cherry Ann Lewis, Johnette Whichard, Ginger Martin, Ricky Whichard, Wanda Bland, Annette Nobles, Treavyn Bland, David Nobles, Jeffrey Rawls, Jimmy Congleton, Olivia Whichard, Janell Tetterton, Cathy Watson, Elaine James, Betsy Rogers, Jewell Perkins, Brenda Hart, and Rosalyn Fleming.

Birth

Daniels
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Daniels of 802 Colonial Ave., Greenville, a daughter, Kimberly Dee, on May 12, 1962 in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

In the opening ritual, the Regent led in the American's Creed, the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" with Mrs. Haywood Smith as accompanist.

Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, chaplain, read as a scriptural reference for her meditation "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good" (I Thess. 5:21), an exhortation chosen by the National Society DAR as a program theme for the ensuing year.

Mrs. John B. Wright read the minutes. Mrs. J. O. Pollard, treasurer, reported a recent and sizable contribution to the maintenance fund. Mrs. C. H. Moring, DAR schools chairman, spoke in regard to a spring box of used clothing to be sent to Crossnore, and Mrs. C. S. Eagles reported seasonal cheer sent to the chapter's scholarship student there. Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, of the membership committee, made a report. Buffalo nickels for Indian work were collected. Mrs. M. V. Jones was appointed to the Board of Governors, which controls maintenance and use of the Chapter House. The chapter voted to cancel the June meeting due to the proposed painting of the Chapter House.

Mrs. Joe Batchelor, historian, introduced Janice Thompson, fifth grade student of Farmville, and awarded her a copy of "The White House—Home of the Presidents," by Randall Bond Truett, as a winner in the History Essay Contest, sponsored in the 5-8 grades by the chapter. Her essay was on Gov. Charles B. Aycock. The winner's mother, Mrs. T. W. Thompson, a special guest, was introduced also. Mrs. Batchelor announced that Cordelia Lewis, eighth grade student, was a winner also with her essay on Gen. Bryan Grimes and would receive an award.

Following adjournment, a social hour was held. A dessert course, consisting of iced topped with strawberries, pound cake and salted nuts, was served. Rosebuds graced the plates and served as favors. Demitasse and cheese straws were served from an appointed table by Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Townsend Jr.

Alice Edwards Honored At Bridge Luncheon

Miss Alice Leota Edwards, bride-elect of June 9, was honored at a bridge luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jenkins Allen, 808 Oakland Avenue, Rocky Mount, on Saturday with Mrs. Allen, Mrs. James S. Allen, Mrs. W. L. Green and Miss Ann Green of Greenville as hostesses.
Mrs. Allen welcomed the guests who were served cocktails by Mrs. James Allen from an antique bowl. The bride-elect was presented a chrysanthemum corsage edged with miniature lace hearts complementing her dress of pale yellow linen. The bride's mother was presented a corsage of miniature white chrysanthemums.
Guests were seated in the den and served a three course luncheon at individually appointed tables. Floral arrangements of white daisies interspersed with wedding bells centered each table. Spring flowers were used throughout the home.

Bridal was played throughout the afternoon. A gift for high score was presented to Mrs. L. W. Edwards and to Miss Gay Hudson, a gift for second. A gift of silver in her chosen pattern was presented to Miss Edwards.
Guests for this occasion, in addition to Miss Edwards, were her mother, Mrs. L. W. Edwards, Misses Nancy Brown and Katherine Oakes of Greenville; Miss Gay Hudson, Grimesland; Mrs. Ted Bisette, Spring Hope, Mrs. Julius Budasz and Mrs. E. A. Warren of Robersonville, and Mrs. Rachael Stanley of Rocky Mount.

Showers Given Bride-Elect

Miss Alice Lee Edwards, bride-elect of June 9, was feted at a kitchen shower recently given by Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., Mrs. W. E. Morgan, Mrs. Willie Pate, Mrs. Edgar Denton, Mrs. S. C. Winchester and Miss Katherine Winchester at the Winchester home on the Farmville highway.
A white and pink color scheme with wedding bells was used with a bridal doll in the decorations.
The honoree and her mother were presented corsages upon arrival.
Mrs. Charles Jackson conducted bridal games.
Bridal ices, nuts, mints and bridal cakes were served from an appointed table.

Mrs. Kenneth Jackson played music while the guests were assembling. Mrs. Tyson and Mrs. Lucy Allen played two piano duets.
The hostesses presented Miss Edwards with a Mixmaster, steam iron and electric percolator.

Miss Alice Lee Edwards was honored at a miscellaneous shower recently at the Red Oak Community Building. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Scott Heath, Mrs. Bob Page, Mrs. J. T. Braxton Jr., Mrs. J. S. Brown and Mrs. S. A. Paramore.
Arrangements of multicolor iris and mock orange were used to decorate the building.
A receiving line composed of Mrs. Heath, Miss Edwards and her fiancé, Sherrill Bryant, Mrs. L. W. Edwards and Mrs. B. L. Tyson welcomed the guests, who were registered by Miss Laura Alice Braxton.
An arrangement of Snow White Iris and fern, flanked by a three-branched candelabra, were used on the refreshment table. Refreshments of lime ices, bridal cakes, mints and nuts were served.

Weddings Fun, No Headaches!

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Women's News Service

Note to an unknown benefactor. Dear Friend, that package of headache powders I found on my desk when I got back from getting my oldest gal young'un married up looks mighty reassuring and I thank you for them.

But if you had in mind ministering to head pains derived from mother-of-the-bride-ing I hasten to tell you it isn't necessary. Weddings, I've discovered, are the happiest commotion that can befall a family.

In fact, I cannot recommend a wedding — even a small, just-family wedding — too highly.

There's the stir of having kin-folks assembling in gala mood for one thing. The house is fun, every bed taken, the table has been stretched to its full length, the pots are jumping on the stove and it doesn't matter what's cooking.

The thing is that whatever it is, there's a big-family lot of it. The phone rings, doors slam, people sit up late every night talking, tell family stories you never heard before or have heard so many times they have taken on the well-loved patina of cherished oral antiques.

There are secrets and surprises all over the place and times when people mill around and nobody ever finishes a sentence because of the interruptions.

Neighbors cut their best roses and their gold and blue ribbons and bring them to bedeck the house. Packages arrive and friends drop by to offer to put up overflow relatives or to do errands. Your child's new in-laws run by to bring a fresh baked pound cake and a box of homemade jams and jellies because you're having all the company and they want to help.

For a little while there the little household is swept from its mundane, workaday moorings and soars giddily on a kind of off-season Christmas cloud.

I admit there were times when I was afraid things were going too well. My mother, Muv, was holed up on the sleeping porch because it was "out of the way" and then stayed in the thick of things, assured me that I was like the old lady who prayed for the mountain to be removed, arose from her knees to find it still there and said triumphantly, "I thought so!"

She said I had to have faith in good fortune and I passed this word along to the bride, who expected to have wedding day jitters.

"I'm all right," she assured me as she loafed about in pedal pushers and curlers. "I don't feel a thing."

But about lunch time she fixed me with a stricken gaze.

"Mother I think I'm going to be sick at my stomach!"

"If you must, do it now," I told her. "It would be awful to be sick at the chapel."

Whatever psychic distress threatened her blew over. But on the way to the church in her uncle's car she said suddenly, "My mouth's curled up! Look I can't get it down!"

"Silly," said her younger sister loyally. "Your mouth's all right. It's just that you're cracking up. Want to call off the wedding?"

"NO!" said the bride-elect with unexpected force.

And, of course, she didn't. And I'm glad because of all the things that happen to a family I believe I like weddings best.

So I'm saving your package of headache powders for another day. Or is that a lack of faith?

For Sunday morning brunch, serve delicate thin pancakes with thawed sweetened frozen sliced strawberries. You can thicken the berry juice, if you like, with a little cornstarch.

9 Ways Suggested To Check Blemishes

There are nine helpful rules you can follow, according to dermatologist Harold V. Glick. They will benefit your skin and general state of health whether you have acne or any of the unsightly blemishes common to young skins:

1. Avoid fatty foods. Shun chocolate in any form, including cocoa, cake, sodas, sauces and cola drinks. This is admittedly hard to do, but results are sometimes immediate. Also stay away from nuts, especially peanuts. Don't serve them at your parties; ignore them when you go out. Ditto for sharp cheese. Cream and cottage cheeses are safe however.
2. Drink six glasses of water a day. If you have digestive problems, seek to correct them or discuss it with your doctor.
3. Avoid wool or rough fabric next to the skin. This can aggravate acne on the back, neck, shoulders and chest. Fur neck pieces or collars may cause flare-ups on the lower cheeks and chin. Use colorful silk scarves as a smooth protection for your neck area.
4. Check general body health. Chronic infections of the teeth, sinuses, tonsils, also anemia and menstrual disturbances may easily affect the skin. Visit your family physician if you have not had a general examination within the last six months. A dental check-up will not hurt, either.
5. Use caution with sun and sun lamps. Each skin condition is different. Overexposure to sunlight and sun lamps is always bad for the skin and worsens the acne. However, a certain amount of sunlight or sun lamp exposure can be beneficial. Get specific instructions from your doctor or dermatologist and follow them to the letter.
6. Avoid iodized salt. While iodized foods are essential to the body, they may safely cut out of your diet for several months. Certain cough mixtures and other medicines may contain iodides. Look at the labels and avoid taking them as much as possible.
7. Don't use pancake make-up. It may appear to cover blemishes, but it only aggravates them. Ask your doctor to recommend a medicated foundation or other cosmetics to use as a combination treatment and camouflage until your skin is once again able to take pancake.
8. Wash your hair twice weekly. This way you can remove accumulated excess oils on the scalp. If a special scalp solution is used, the twice-weekly shampoo will speed its action.
9. Steer clear of magic treatments. Take no chances with your skin. "Magic" skin treatments by quack practitioners can scar you for life. Go to an accredited skin clinic or dermatologist. If you don't know one, ask your family doctor or call your local hospital or medical association. The most successful treatment for acne is the X ray, which may take several weeks but does not cause pitting or scarring.

In fact, says Dr. Glick, scarring is not due to treatment. On the contrary, the longer the acne goes untreated, the greater the danger of visible scars.

Sewing Machine, If Used, Is An Excellent Investment

By MORTON YARMON

NEW YORK — (WNS) — A sewing machine can be a great boon to the family budget—but only if used often and for special jobs.

Before you buy, consider the kind and amount of sewing you will do over the next 10 years, the minimum life of a good machine. A sewing machine can save money more than it costs, but only if it is used wisely.

The home seamstress who intends to make a few house dresses or simple clothing for the children soon finds that she can buy these articles in finished form for just about the cost of her retail fabric.

A simple $4 house dress, for example, is probably cheaper when bought in a store than the cost of the fabric to make its duplicate on the home machine.

Similarly, an inexpensive pair of ready-to-hang window draperies might cost $10 or $15. At regular prices, the same fabric alone would cost as much or perhaps even a bit more.

But if something unusual in texture, color or size is wanted, it can be made at home on the machine for little more than the cost of the fabric. Custom-made draperies of the same quality cost up to $70.

Remodeling clothes and furnishings on the machine is even more sensible, since it costs nothing but time. Some of the most satisfied sewing machine owners have never purchased an inch of cloth. They have paid for their machines over and over again, though, by darning, mending, repairing and remodeling clothes and home furnishings. All that takes is time, time for training and time for sewing.

Repair and remodeling can be practiced on men's clothes as well as women's, incidentally. The perfectly good suit that is no longer stylish enough for Dad can be altered to fit one of the fast-growing older children.

Training is important. While no one would buy a car without soon learning how to drive it, it is startling to see how many women will invest in a sewing machine, then fail to learn to operate it well.

Sewing skill determines not only the kinds of sewing a homemaker can do but also how often a machine is used.

A $250 machine can pay for itself in a month if used every day for some worthwhile project. But if it stands idle, it may never pay. The more you sew, the more you save.

Adequate sewing machines are on the market for under $100, and sometimes for as low as $50 during sales. These straightstitching machines sew well enough but cannot do button-holing, basting or any other elaborate work without special attachments.

Despite all this, sewing is not only a dollars-and-cents proposition. The satisfaction of creating something of value on a machine in your own home can well outweigh the price of the machine.

Rubber-Stamp Role Is Not For N.C.

North Carolina officials should make it clear to their counterparts in Virginia that this state does not intend to perform merely as a rubber stamp to our neighbor in the matter of building highways to tie in with the bridge-tunnel system at Norfolk.

The bridge-tunnel system across the Chesapeake Bay is of great importance to North Carolina and Virginia. It is also of importance to the route south of the bridge-tunnel system be as practical and attractive as possible in order to increase the traffic flow through the system.

The apparent attitude on the part of some Virginians—that North Carolina need not be consulted in the matter of highways to tie in with the project—is both shortsighted and unwise. Presumably North Carolina will spend state funds to construct free highways to connect with the toll system in Virginia. Over a period of years such a project may be expected to cost well into the millions of dollars of Tar Heel public funds. The caliber of the connecting system which is constructed in North Carolina will certainly have an effect upon traffic south of the bridge-tunnel installation.

This state over the years has sought to cooperate with its northern neighbor in the matter of building highways that would be of mutual benefit. There has been no indication from North Carolina that this attitude has changed. If the state of Virginia is no longer interested in what North Carolina does about highways that feed into the Virginia system, it can hardly expect continued cooperation from Tar Heel. The Virginians might well expect, however, that such a situation would prove detrimental to their own state as well as to North Carolina.

Local sectional disputes within a small part of Virginia may have created the unfortunate situation which now exists between the states so far as future cooperation is concerned, but it is of sufficient import to both states to require immediate attention and action by top officials of both states.

Party Affairs Given Boost At Grass Roots

The resolution unanimously adopted by the Pitt County Democratic Convention should prove an important step in stimulating interest in party affairs at the grass roots level in this county.

Under the resolution the county named its members to the State Executive Committee and other committees at the county convention rather than in a caucus usually held in Raleigh on the evening preceding the state Democratic convention.

The new practice adopted by the local Democratic convention is one which is followed in many other counties in the state. It puts the naming of these committees closer to the individual party members and it should likewise generate considerably more interest in the county party convention.

By increasing interest in party affairs, the new system of naming committee members should likewise increase participation in party affairs, not only at the county convention, but on a continuing basis. It gives every party member and every precinct in the county a more direct voice in the selection of individuals who serve on committees.

It is a resolution which should stand the Democratic party of Pitt County in good stead in years to come as it strives for continued harmony, party loyalty, and the attraction of young people to active participation in party affairs.

Business 'Digs' For Education

By RUDOLPH PATE

American business is digging deep into its corporate pocket at a record-breaking rate in dedicated support of higher education.

A prime example of this support is currently evident at North Carolina State College. The State's Land-Grant Institution.

The year 1960-61 marked the end of 19 years of foundations work at State College. Total support over this period amounted to $7,941,591.42.

During 1960-61 fiscal year, the various foundations at the college received $990,154.11 — the ninth consecutive year in which record contributions have been received. This compares with $844,815.65 contributed during 1959-60. Four foundations — Agricultural, Dairy, State College and Polk and Paper — had record years of financial support.

The Polk and Paper Foundation has made available $775,000 to the college for development of a Faculty Recreation Center — a faculty fringe benefit of great magnitude. During 1961, $200,000 of this amount was received by the State College Foundation to begin work on this facility.

BIG GRANTS. During the 1960-61 academic year, State College's School of Engineering was awarded a grant of $760,000 from the Ford Foundation to further develop its excellent doctoral programs. In order to qualify for the full grant, the Engineering Foundation was asked to raise $225,000 above its usual budget during the three-year period, 1961-64.

Also during the 1960-61 academic year, the Kellogg Foundation granted the college $780,000 to develop sounder agricultural policy, and the Rockefeller Foundation gave $125,000 to further advance the already excellent work in genetics at the college.

Added to this is the superb support being received by State College through its Alumni Association and the Student Aid Association (Wolpack Club).

NEW HIGH — In 1960-61, alumni giving reached a new high of more than $45,000 alumni contributions in 1961-62 have already reached $75,000 under the leadership of Roy H. Park of Ithaca, N.Y., then alumni president.

During the same period, the Wolpack Club received $125,855.13.

Corporate and alumni support to State College has enabled the institution to strengthen its teaching, research, and public service programs.

Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of State College, focused attention on the principal results of the financial support given the college when he declared in his annual report for 1960-61:

"The faculty and staff of North Carolina State College are probably more able, better trained and more professionally active than in any previous time in the College's history. The College is not only educating more students; it is educating them better."

North Carolina businessmen have been solidly behind State College through the years as it has attempted to improve the quality and increase the scope of its vast functions as the State's principal center of science and technology.

This support is at an all-time high and assures the institution of pushing its programs of teaching, research, and public service in its chief areas of responsibility — agriculture, design, education, engineering, forestry, physical sciences and applied mathematics, and textiles.

On the national front, in a survey made in 1961, facts and figures show that voluntary support of education by business concerns was some $178,000,000. This had increased 30.4 per cent over the previous survey year in 1958 when corporate support was about $136.5 million.

In a recent report, the Council for Financial Aid to Education (CFAE) stated, "This is substantial aid, and welcome to the colleges. But by 1970, when enrollment in the nation's colleges and universities is expected to be at least 6,500,000 the fair share of voluntary support which business and industry may feel obligated to contribute will be $500,000,000 as a minimum."

This statement points up an evident problem — though corporate support of higher education has increased, it is still a movement among few leaders and not the general attitude of business toward support of education.

SOBERING FACT — A total of 670 companies were included in the 1960 CFAE survey. Of these, 556 reported gifts to higher education, and these were large companies who are leaders in the field of support for higher education. The over-all picture, however, is more sobering. The CFAE estimates that only about three per cent of more than one million companies reporting to the Federal Internal Revenue Service each year make contributions to higher education.

Seventy-eight corporations from 16 Southern states are included in the business corporations which participated in the CFAE surveys of 1956, 1958, and 1960. The average contribution of all corporations in the survey was $243,169.

America's wealth is based on the vitality and vision of the corporations and businesses of this nation. That wealth, when invested in higher education replenishes the store from which it came and extends vast benefits to all sectors of American life.

The Garden Path Of 'Neutrality'

By ALVIN TAYLOR

True Story, No Names

Your columnist has been told that one local Jaycee who attended the state convention last weekend ran into considerable trouble.

Now, don't get pricking up your ears. I say, here and now, this is one story in which I'm not going to mention any names.

Anyway this Jaycee returned to his room Saturday night but found he had forgotten his key. So, like anyone else in such a situation, he began knocking in an attempt to wake his wife.

This racket became louder and louder until finally the house detective appeared.

The dialogue is supposed to have gone about like this:

"What's the trouble?"

"I forgot my key and can't wake my wife."

"Well, I can help out, if that's all. I have a pass key."

Whereupon the detective who opened the door and with a enter the darkened room.

The detective then departed, satisfied that he had safeguarded the serenity of the hotel's other guests.

He was wrong. In a few moments there was a blood curdling scream from the aforementioned room. A red faced Jaycee came sailing out the door.

Wrong room, wrong wife.

Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR:

Will this happen?

As the residents of The Shore Drive Area are being driven from their homes to make room for business, an area one block north of Dickinson Ave., is being changed from a Residential Area to a Residential Business Area. From potential business to Residential by the simple process of locating a housing project within the area bounded by Farmville Blvd., Line Ave., Chestnut St. and Boyd Ave. This plan is proposed by the Greenville Redevelopment Commission and the Greenville Housing Authority. The use of the land in the above mentioned plan is a part of the master plan that was prepared by Mr. James Godwin and Associates supposedly to be a guide for planning the future growth of Greenville. The Godwin Land Use Plan which is supposedly to be a guide for planning the future growth of Greenville was accepted by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission as reported in the January 25, 1962 issue of the Daily Reflector.

Mr. Godwin and Associates were employed while the immediate past City Administration was in office. The Council members in control of that Council favored both Urban Renewal and Public Housing and during this term of office appointed every member of the present Housing Authority, four of five members of the Redevelopment Commission and four out of five of the appointed members of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

If the Planning and Zoning

Commission together with the Redevelopment Commission and the Housing Authority had the cooperation of the Greenville City Council the future growth of every area in Greenville could be controlled according to the wishes of the ruling members of the City Council. The Council appoints the members to the three boards and the boards should not be selected from one small section of the city. The members should be drawn from all sections so every area would be represented. While the past City Administration was in power Mr. Godwin prepared The Land Use Plan. At the same time the Planning and Zoning Commission together with the Redevelopment Commission made plans for the Shore Drive Development. Through Urban Renewal the "Down Town Business Area" will be expanded at the expense of the adjoining Residential Areas and with the aid of the Federal Government but not the consent of many of the residents and property owners. While the business area is being extended in The Shore Drive Area the opportunity of future business expansion will be eliminated in the area adjoining West Dickinson Ave. This will be done by rezoning all the area bounded by Farmville Blvd., of the property owners this rezoning paves the way for the Housing Authority to locate a Housing Project in this area. Extend "Down Town Business Area. If all the Boards cooperated. Most of the property owners involved do not wish this.

Who does?

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE MUST TRUST

If there is one fact in our religion which stands out with unavoidable prominence it is that mere belief is not enough to make any of us Christians. Belief is important. Faith is even more so, for faith is belief in action. But when one probes down into faith to find what is at its very center, he discovers that the center of faith is trust. We can believe in God. We can have such faith in Him that we try sincerely and continuously to obey His commands and put His laws into operation. Yet even belief and faith do not make a Christian until a person has learned how to trust God. We have to trust that the Bellie is God's message to us even though we do not fully understand some of its teachings. We have to trust that God who made us, and who so often seems indifferent to us and at times even harsh, is nevertheless a God of love. We have to trust that Jesus Christ who promised to be our Companion really is such and daily stands ready to extend to us a friendship which will make all other human relationships seem as nothing. Husband and wife have to trust each other. Men have to trust one another in business. Trust lies at the basis of true friendship. And trust lies at the basis of vital religion. This is not easy. But it is necessary and infinitely rewarding.

Social Rules Needed

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Apparently the Liberals have discovered another subject for mental exercise. The President of Vassar, Sarah Gibson Blanding, after considerable cogitation, expressed opposition to premarital relations and promiscuity among Vassar girls. That does not mean that all Vassar girls have such relations; it does mean that Vassar chooses not to be a place for those who do. And it is Vassar's prerogative to make the choice.

The Liberals feel that all sex relations are a matter for private decision and that if girls choose to be bums, that is strictly their own affair. On the other hand, a college, a university, or even a club or hotel, it would seem to me, is entitled to have some say as to who is to be admitted into its buildings. Most American colleges, these days, permit their students to marry and it does seem a sight for sore eyes watching a student, big with child, marching about a campus. I can see no particular objection to married students although it does strike me as more seemly if the girls waited until after they are graduated.

It is the "shacking-up" which I do think is very objectionable and I am sure Miss Blanding had that in mind although she preferred to speak of it more professionally. It is, of course, a private matter how one chooses to go to the Devil, or, if anyone objects to references to the Fallen Angel, it is possible to say, how one destroys herself. But it becomes a social question when so large a number of marriages result in divorces which only too often means broken homes and the sacrifice of children to the lost and passions of sex experimentation. It also is a social question when sex relations destroy physical fitness and the propriety of a nation by the acceptance of unusual and perverse relationships as normal.

The assumption that the college has nothing to do with character building of the nation is to relegate such institutions to an intellectual isolation unrelated to the life and welfare of the community. This cannot be the purpose of any college.

The Liberals suggest that the real trouble with such schools as Vassar is that they are for females only, which, they say, is abnormal and means that the girls, have been maleless for five days, bust loose and go wild. This is nonsense as the standards are tougher and the grades are higher and many girls do their majoring in tough subjects.

Marriage is still a popular enterprise among young ladies and from my observations, most girls accept the customs of the land and of the moment without too much fuss. There are periods of puritanical attitudes and periods when anything goes. Those who believe that promiscuity and other forms of assertive emancipation are evidences of Liberalism confuse words and acts. The real danger is that when girls in college attempt personal adventures without adequate preparation, they often get fouled up, like the 19 year old girl in the Bronx, who had an abortion and was caught by the police.

It is easy work for the armchair philosopher to write advice to the lovelorn and to take an uncompromising attitude toward individual rights, but Miss Blanding shows better sense based on broad experience. She knows that it is the girl who gets into a jam and who is, only too often, deserted by the guy who cannot do much about it, anyhow, because he is a jerk in the first place. She knows that decent parents are concerned about what happens to their children and that it becomes costly to a school if it gets a bad name.

Perhaps if the modern students, male and female, were not so sloppy in dress and in manner, their minds would not be so devoted, even on weekends, to illicit sex and taverns and motels.

The girls' colleges have long histories and have existed through many changes of customs and habits. They have their place in our society, just as the co-educational college (Continued on page five)

Tax Savings In Divorces, Too

By ELMER ROESSNER

As is well known, a man can sharply reduce his income tax liability by marrying a girl with little or no income. And if he watches his step, he can also save taxes when they are divorced, according to a new study by the Prentice-Hall.

When the terms of the divorce require the husband to make payments to another on behalf of the ex-wife, and if the payments are periodic, they are deductible by the husband and taxable to the wife, the tax service finds.

It cites a case in which a husband, as part of a divorce decree, agrees to pay premiums on his life insurance policy and irrevocably assigns the policy to his former wife. Then he may deduct the premiums, and the wife must pay income taxes on them.

OTHER SITUATIONS — Furthermore, even if the husband can stop payment when his wife remarries, his tax reduction is not affected. If his assignment is irrevocable, the wife could continue paying premiums, as long as the policy is irrevocable. However, if the wife has only a contingent interest in the policy, the payments would not be deductible.

In another case, a couple were divorced and the husband was ordered to make periodic payments to his former mother-in-law as well as his former wife. The payments were ruled deductible.

In still another instance, a wife was given exclusive possession of the family home, which was owned by both of them. The husband was ordered to pay instalments due on principal and interest, insurance and taxes. The Internal Revenue Service ruled that the instalments were deductible by the husband but taxable to the wife.

So if you are about to be sued for divorce, take your tax accountant as well as your lawyer along with you to court.

TAX COLLECTORS GET MORE OF CONSUMERS' SPENDING — While consumer expenditures for goods was the same in 1961 as in 1960, merchants got less and state tax collectors got more, according to a report of the Federation of Tax Administrators.

State collected a total of $9.1 billion from consumers last year, an increase of 5.4 per cent over the $8.7 billion collected in 1960 which, in turn, was 8 per cent over 1959. These taxes were from sales taxes, gasoline taxes and tobacco taxes.

Michigan, West Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina each collected 10 per cent more taxes on consumers, either by adding new taxes or increasing items taxed.

Revenue from tobacco taxes exceeded $1 billion for the first time last year. State sales taxes reached $4.5 billion, but in six of the 34 states levying such taxes, revenues actually declined.

Urge To Merge Spreading In U.S.

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The urge to merge continues to change the makeup of the nation's business.

In retailing, transportation, publishing, banking, manufacturing, and a dozen other fields the movement spreads as a means of achieving savings, promoting efficiency, and a branching into new and important fields.

Some companies grasp merger as a ready-made tool for diversification, as when Ford Motor Co. acquired Philco to branch out into electronics and space work.

Government trust-busters now and then claim to detect other motives, as in banking where they clamped down or tried to—on courships among giants with smaller competitors.

Nowhere is the ferment more striking than in public transportation, where financially ailing carriers are striving to redraw the nation's railroad and airline map.

Some rail leaders foresee a day not far distant when the 106 major roads will be regrouped into less than a dozen mighty regional systems—unless the government turns thumbs down.

In regulated transportation, where federal agencies have the final say-so, the wave of mergers, long gathering, is getting down to the brass tacks stage.

Hearings opened in Washington last Thursday on proposed union of American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines, second and fourth ranking among long distance domestic carriers.

If they are permitted to join, rival lines—watching in the wings, and sizing each other up as prospective partners—are to crystallize a new sheaf of proposals.

In a few months, the Pennsylvania and New York central railroads, first and third largest, similarly will go to bat on joining into a $5 billion, 20,000-mile Go-liath.

First Selected For Dance Role

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Miss Pelagio Green, 19, a college sophomore, is the first Negro ever selected for the St. Louis Municipal Opera's dancing chorus.

"I almost fainted when my name was called," said Miss Green, daughter of a mail carrier, who is known to her friends as "P.G." She was selected yesterday on her fourth attempt.

"I realize now I wasn't good enough the first two times and last year I was overweight. So I went on a spartan diet and slimmed down," she said.

Miss Green, who is majoring in English at Harris Teachers College in St. Louis, has ambitions to perform on Broadway.

"I figure if I can make it here, I can make it in New York," she said.

Eisenhower Golf Secret Is Told

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—One of former President Eisenhower's best kept secrets—his golf score—has been revealed by the manager of the Eldorado Country Club here.

Eisenhower left the plush desert resort April 29. He told acquaintances he would return next winter.

United States And W Germany Continue Differ

By SID MOODY
AP Staff Writer

BONN, Germany (AP)—The United States and West Germany have reduced their differences to what they call "details," but informed sources said one detail is a key provision of U.S. proposals to the Soviet Union for a Berlin settlement.

A communique issued after a two-hour meeting between U.S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday said the two nations were in "full agreement in all essential points."

"There will be further talks over several details," the communique added. "It is the intention of both sides to remain in close touch."

Informants said disagreement continues to center on the U.S. proposal for East German representation on a 13-nation authority to control access routes to West Berlin.

The Bonn government, after seemingly rejecting the whole idea last week, once again says it favors the basic principles of an international authority but objects to East German participation. The West Germans fear that this would imply further international recognition of East Germany's Communist regime.

Adenauer also objected to inclusion of three neutral nations on the authority. He said this would give them control and place on them a responsibility they would not accept.

Informants said there was also disagreement over other points but further details were not disclosed. The communique said the meeting concerned U.S.-West German relations with "special consideration of the German-Berlin question, problems of European unity and the general world political situation."

President Kennedy ordered Dowling to call on Adenauer after the chancellor indicated at a Berlin news conference last week that he felt the U.S.-Soviet talks on Berlin should be broken off.

Publicly agitated, Kennedy at his news conference invited the West Germans to make their own proposals. It was understood that none had been made so far, but that West German counter-proposals could be expected soon.

Ike Says America Facing Destiny

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Any citizen, any party, or any administration that hopes to stir the nation to greatness must appeal, after God, to America's love of country, former President Eisenhower says.

Eisenhower, addressing the United League Monday night and basing his remarks on the occasion of its centennial, said America was in the dawn of its destiny.

But, he added, "Americans themselves—should they forfeit individual opportunity in exchange for governmentally guaranteed security, or concentrate on selfish profit or soft life—can imperil its attainment."

Titov Points To Mighty Rocket

By SID MOODY
AP Staff Writer

Major Gherman Titov, a cosmonaut of many orbits but few details did drop a comment of interest to space race handicappers during his recent tour of the United States.

At one point, Titov off-handedly mentioned the size of the rocket that orbited him 17 times last August. It had 132 million pounds of thrust, he said.

That's a lot. It could mean Russia's farther ahead than ever. Can Titov be believed?

"There's never any reason to doubt Russian space claims," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Until very recently American estimates put the power of the Russian space boosters at about 800,000 pounds of thrust. This is approximately double the power of the largest operational American rocket, the Titan.

Now Titov is saying the Soviets have had for at least a year a rocket of 1.32 million pounds of thrust. This is not far below the power of the American Saturn superrocket. Furthermore, Saturn, which was hoped to bring America up at least even with Russia, has only been tested (successfully) twice and isn't even scheduled to be operational until 1964.

The first Saturn, the C1, will have 1.59 million pounds of thrust in its two stages, 270,000 more pounds than Titov's booster.

That's not much of a margin. Or is it? There's no way of telling unless the Russians do. And here, Titov included, don't. What's more, the Russians obviously are not standing still in rocket development.

For one Russian pound of thrust isn't necessarily the same as an American pound. The actual value of that pound is how much of an operational payload it can put in space, be it pound of astronaut, navigational satellite or what have you.

A Cadillac is much more powerful than a Volkswagen. But both can readily take milady to the supermarket.

The question is: Do the Russians need all that booster power to do what they have so far done in space?

If they do, their booster lead does not mean as much. If they don't, if they have power to burn, it will probably be only a matter of time before they pull off some more spectacular.

Pays $5,200 For Two-Cent Stamp

NEW YORK (AP)—A 2-cent postage stamp showing an upside-down railroad train brought $5,200 at an auction held by H. R. Harmer Inc.

Dr. Louise Greer Invited To Speak At Baylor Univ.

Dr. Louise Greer, faculty member of the Department of English at East Carolina College, has been invited to appear as speaker at the annual program honoring the poet Robert Browning at the Armstrong Browning Library, Baylor University, Waco, Texas. This program and one at Westminster Abbey are held each year on December 12, in commemoration of the death of the noted British poet.

Dr. Greer is the author of "Browning and America," a 1952 publication of the University of North Carolina Press. The work has been recognized in this country and abroad as a major contribution to Browning scholarship. Last year Dr. Greer discussed the story behind her book at the Boston, Mass., Browning Society.

The Armstrong Browning Library at Baylor University was established by the late Dr. A. J. Armstrong, Head of the English Department there, and is considered the largest collection in the world of materials about the poet.

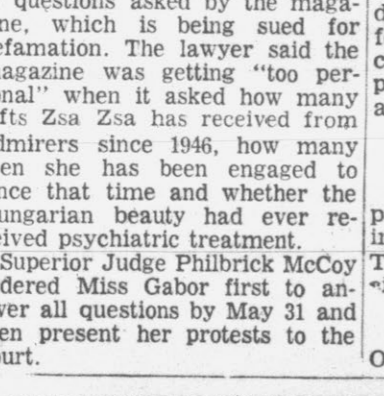

Zsa Zsa Balks At Questioning

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, suing Cavalier Magazine for $6 million, is balking at answering some of the pre-trial questions in connection with the suit.

Her attorney objected Monday to questions asked by the magazine, which is being sued for defamation. The lawyer said the magazine was getting "too personal" when it asked how many gifts Zsa Zsa has received from admirers since 1946, how many men she has been engaged to since that time and whether the Hungarian beauty had ever received psychiatric treatment.

Superior Judge Philbrick McCoy ordered Miss Gabor first to answer all questions by May 31 and then present her protests to the court.

Students must be judged by the marks they get in hard subjects and by their character as displayed when among other human beings. Those who cannot restrain themselves, who try everything that comes their way, who leave trails of disturbance behind them, are not worth much in the long run.

Most parents will support Miss Blanding's point of view.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 32
As Hugh Spencer swung one leg over the rail, the bo's'n stood at attention and saluted. "Will any of the other gentlemen be coming back tonight, sir?" Suddenly he realized he had been fooled. "You ain't Lieutenant Perkins!"

Dave Simpson leaped onto the deck, and before the British seaman could shout for help, brought his lead pipe down on the back of the man's skull. The bo's'n, his mouth still open, slumped forward and fell to the deck. "He won't wake up for a spell," Dave muttered.

Wasting no time, Hugh began to drag the unconscious man toward the base of the mainmast. Dave hurried to help him, and together they hid the limp bo's'n behind several pieces of equipment. Dick Simpson was on deck now, with Benjy Flaherty close behind him. They saw what had happened and Dick ran to the mainmast, but Benjy scooped up the seaman's lantern, a heavy sea lamp. Its wick was still burning, so Hugh told Benjy to keep it and started aft. The first obstacle had been overcome, but the officer of the watch was still at large, and it was reasonable to assume that at least three other officers and seventy-five members of the crew were asleep in their bunks.

They moved together into a narrow passageway directly below the superstructure of the quarter-deck. Hugh paused, took the lantern, and raised it as he peered down the deserted passage.

The door at the far end, which stood at the stern, was the entrance to the captain's quarters, so the suite on the portside probably housed the equipment he had been seeking for so long.

The Simpsons crowded into the passageway and Hugh handed the lantern back to Benjy, drew his sword, and opened the door. By the feeble light of the lamp they saw a printing press beneath a square window on the far side of the cabin. The search was ended.

"Close the door," Hugh said. "Open that window and throw the presses overboard. But save the engraving plates. We'll take them with us." The door to an inner cabin opened, and two burly men in civilian breeches and shirts glowered at the intruders. Apparently they were either printers or guards. "Get out!" one of them said angrily. "You know Sir Thomas's orders. No members of the ship's staff or crew are allowed in these quarters." Too late he saw Hugh's naked sword. The blade sang as it cut through the air, and in spite of the bad light, Hugh's aim was true.

Dick Simpson, always anxious to prove he was as strong and intelligent as his brother, attacked the other civilian with his lead pipe, but the man sidestepped, and they grappled with each other. Dave came to his brother's assistance, and one short, sharp blow was enough: the civilian moaned, then slumped on the deck.

Someone stirred in the inner cabin, and Hugh decided to investigate immediately. "Get rid of that equipment," he said. "Benjy, I hold you responsible for the plates." He dashed into the adjoining quarters, where two lamps that swung from bulkheads were burning, and he was surprised to see at least ten double bunks lining the exceptionally large cabin. Two tables were nailed to the deck, and it was obvious that the men who made the counterfeit dollars ate and slept here.

At first glance all of the bunks appeared to be empty, but Hugh heard a stealthy, scraping sound, and, looking up, saw a heavy-set man in an upper bunk frantically loading a pistol. Hugh raced across the cabin as the man finished his task, raised his weapon, and cocked it. Hugh lunged desperately, and the blade penetrated the man's wrist before he could fire. He screamed, and as he fell back onto his narrow mattress, the pistol dropped to the deck.

Hugh kicked it under one of the lower bunks, realizing he should kill his enemy, but he couldn't force himself to murder a foe who was wounded and could not protect himself. Nevertheless it was vitally important that the man be given no chance to scream again, so Hugh drew one of his own pistols from his belt, and using it as a hammer, held it by the barrel and brought the butt down sharply on the civilian's left temple, knocking him unconscious.

Feeling ill, Hugh shoved the pistol back into his belt, and suddenly became aware of a scuffle in the outer cabin.

He opened the door fearfully, prepared for another battle. Dave was winning a fist fight with a brawny sailor, and the bodies of several other seamen were on the deck. Dick and Benjy were heaving the last pieces of printing equipment out of the open window into the river. To Hugh's amazement, August Dale stood in the middle of the cabin clutching several thick steel engraving plates.

"Excellent imitations," he said, smiling weakly. "I couldn't have made better myself." "What are you doing here?" "I thought you and the lads needed help."

Benjy turned away from the window just as Dave knocked the groggy sailor to the deck and, for good measure, bent down and hit him again. "That's the last of it," Benjy said breathlessly.

The members of the Scoundrels' Brigade followed Hugh through the passageway to the deck and to the ladder. Benjy was the first to descend and steadied August, who followed him. Hugh took a last look around the deserted, dark deck of the Phoenix and lowered himself to the boat, which was bouncing in the water. The current was so strong that he took a pair of oars and told Benjy to do the same. He directed August to sit in the prow and warn them if they rowed too close to a wharf, and he moved to the stern, and got braided coat so he wouldn't be recognized as an officer if they were seen from a quarter-deck. "Hold her as close to Manhattan shore as possible," he told his companions.

Waves soon drenched the party, and there was no opportunity to talk again as the oarsmen battled the wind and current. August was strangely silent and twice failed to warn his comrades that they were drifting close to a British ship.

Benjy became aware of the danger the first time, but the second resulted in an accident that almost proved fatal. The rig struck the hull of a hammock ship of the line with such force that she almost capsized. August smiled apologetically when Hugh twisted around for an instant, and the old man looked wan, desperately tired. The adventure had drained his strength. Hugh thought, but there wasn't time to dwell on the state of August's health.

Benjy August, and the Simpsons were in greater danger than he had anticipated, so he changed his plans and decided that all of them would leave New York at once. Minutes were precious, and improvising as he rowed, he concluded that the best course of action would be to dock at one of the civilian wharves near the Queen's Walk.

The first dirty gray streaks of dawn were appearing in the sky, and when Hugh caught sight of the first commercial docks off to his right, he called to his companions and they veered toward the shore.

A few moments later the bedraggled group climbed onto a stone quay. Hugh explained the change in plans briefly, and the men started up the waterfront road toward the Queen's Walk, which was now silent. Benjy soon recovered his breath, but August continued to lag behind, so Hugh took his arm and, remembering that the old man still had the counterfeit plates in his possession, took charge of them.

Katie will be forced to face indignities at a road block. Can she prevent her quick temper from tipping off the game? The story continues here tomorrow.

Amnesty Slated In South Korea

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea's military government announced today it will pardon 13,180 convicts and reduce prison terms for 8,790 others in a sweeping amnesty on the first anniversary of the May 16 coup.

Of those pardoned, 3,837 will actually leave the gates of 21 prisons Wednesday morning, officials said. The others have been paroled under suspended sentences.

Gen. Chung Hee Park, chairman of the ruling junta, said many of the convicts had committed offenses "under inevitable circumstances" during previous civil government when, he said, corruption and injustice prevailed.

Drown Before Fish Attacked

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Autopsies on six men hauled from barracuda-infested waters show they drowned before the fish attacked them.

Deputy Coroner Eugene Miller, who earlier had said shark bites could have been an "equal" cause of death, announced findings of the autopsies Monday.

Meanwhile, the search continued for the victims' three other fishing companions aboard a 25-foot cabin cruiser that sank four miles off Newport Beach.

Still missing were Richard Cain, 28, of Bell Gardens; Robert Gibson Jr., 21, Norwalk, and E. R. Huffman, 35, Longview, Tex.

Six bodies, five mangled by fish, were recovered from the ocean Sunday. Two buoys, fishing poles, and a bait box also were found.

The Coast Guard said examination of the bodies showed they had not been attacked by sharks, as first suggested. Oceanographers and the Coast Guard later concluded the bites and tears on the bodies were more probably inflicted by barracuda.

The Coast Guard has ordered an investigation of what it terms a major marine disaster. It said the cruiser, known both as the Happy Jack and the Cindy, apparently was swamped in choppy seas some time Saturday.

White House To Host Top Brass

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy will entertain about 800 top-ranking military officers from all services at an outdoor reception tonight.

It is the first time the Kennedys have scheduled one of the traditional White House social functions as a lawn party.

A buffet will be served from striped tents on the south lawn for the 6-to-8 affair. The Marine Corps Band, the Air Force strolling strings, Army Drum and Bugle Corps and a Navy combo will provide music.

Classic Contest In 8th District

By PHIL CORNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

A classic battle between liberal and conservative is being waged in North Carolina's newly-aligned 8th Congressional District.

Incumbent Congressman A. Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro, seeking a fourth term on his conservative record, and youthful John P. Kennedy of Charlotte, a veteran of two General Assembly sessions, will settle the issue in one of four intra-party squabbles to be settled May 26 in the Democratic primary.

The other Democratic battles match A. G. Whitener of High Point against incumbent Horace P. Kornegay of Greensboro in the 6th District; S. A. Chalk Jr. of Morehead City against incumbent David Henderson of Wallace in the 3rd; and State Rep. William Z. Wood of Winston-Salem against incumbent Ralph J. Scott of Danbury in the 5th.

Kennedy, who helped build his reputation as a liberal by pushing through the 1961 legislation a bill beefing up the state's minimum wage law, has called his opponent "dangerously shortsighted, an isolationist and a non-Democrat."

The 39-year-old Charlotte attorney, making his first try for a congressional seat, said Kitchin has voted "No, no, no..." regardless who is in power in Washington.

Kitchin, 53, has attacked what he calls "pseudo liberals" who he said, were "willing to cut away representative government for a limited democracy and a controlled economy."

He said these "pseudo liberals have no confidence in the people and are willing to accept any questionable decision of the Supreme Court which broadens the power of the federal government."

The winner of the fight in the 8th District, which includes populous Mecklenburg County, will have to face Rep. Charles R. Jonas, the state's only Republican congressman, in the fall.

The 1961 General Assembly, which eliminated one of the state's 12 congressional seats, did so by redrawing the lines and placing Kitchin and Jonas in the same district.

Whitener entered the primary against Kornegay when he was unable to gather enough signatures to form his own conservative party.

A prosperous wood-working supply man, Whitener has come out against the United Nations, Social Security, foreign aid, farm subsidies, the federal income tax and both political parties.

He said he has never joined "any extreme group" when asked if he were a member of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society.

Kornegay, 38, elected to his first term two years ago, has spent most of his time in Washington since the campaign began.

He voted against President Kennedy's successful move to enlarge the House Rules Committee, but has been with the President on other matters, including increasing Social Security payments, extending unemployment insurance, area redevelopment, public housing and boosting the federal minimum wage.

In the 5th District, Scott has said he would run on his record. Wood, who served one term in the State House of Representatives, announced his candidacy by saying he would be happy to have Scott run on his record "and I assure you that I will leave no stone unturned in bringing the truth about that record to the people."

Chalk in his campaign has accused Henderson of voting for some policies "that are bound to cause trouble."

Chalk is seeking the seat won two years ago by Henderson in a bitter five-man fight.

The winners of the Kornegay-Whitener and Scott-Wood battles, like the winner of the Kitchin-

Kennedy primary, will face Republican opposition in November. The Henderson-Chalk winner gets his seat outright.

Two Tar Heel congressmen, Reps. Herbert C. Bonner of Washington in the 1st District and L. H. Fountain of Tarboro in the second have won re-election since neither has opposition in the primary or the general election.

Reps. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville in the 4th District, Alton A. Lennon of Wilmington in the seventh, Hugh Q. Alexander of Kannapolis in the ninth, Basil Whitener of Gastonia in the 10th, and Roy A. Taylor of Black Mountain in the 11th won Democratic nomination to new terms because of the lack of opposition.

But all will face Republican opponents in the November election.

Presbyterians Affirm Membership In National Council By Heavy Vote

By BRYAN HAILSLIP
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—The Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern) has reaffirmed its membership in the National Council of Churches.

By a vote of 294 to 91 Monday night, commissioners (delegates) to the General Assembly rejected a proposal to pull out of the council.

Contentions that council statements have a Communist slant and fall outside the range of Presbyterian doctrine were voiced during debate on the issue.

The 102nd General Assembly session ends today after a final round of reports from church boards and agencies. More than 450 ministers and laymen registered for the meetings, which began last Thursday.

One report was from the Committee on Christian Relations which urged action to support enforcement of laws against obscenity to stem what it called a flood of pornography.

The vote on the National Council of Churches issue was the second defeat Monday for the conservative element at the General Assembly. The other was on the content of the Laymen's Bible Commentary, put out by the John Knox Press, official publishing agency for Southern Presbyterians.

The commentary was attacked as a departure from proper interpretation of the scriptures, and defended as an aid to Bible understanding through modern research and scholarship. Criticism of the commentary was rejected and its work praised by a wide margin.

Groups of churches in South Carolina and Mississippi called for an end to membership in the National Council of Churches. The Standing Committee on Inter-church Relations approved the overture (proposal), but a minority brought out a report recommending continued council membership.

Dr. Edward D. Grant of Baton Rouge, La., elected moderator at the start of the General Assembly last Thursday, stepped aside during the debate. He said he could not preside because of his position as avice president of the National Council. Dr. Wallace Alston of Atlanta, Ga., immediate past moderator, wielded the gavel.

A parade of commissioners, including two former moderators, called for Southern Presbyterians to stay in the national organization despite differing views on some subjects.

On the other side, a long list of speakers urged the denomination to withdraw rather than be a party to council statements and activities.

Randolph Lee of Patrick, S.C., charged that council leaders are "doing everything they can to support the Communists." He said

Says Knowledge Worth The Cost

AMHERST, Mass. (AP)—A $20 billion U.S. effort to put a man on the moon ahead of the Soviet Union will be worth it because of the knowledge to be gained and not because of any strategic values, rocket expert Werner Von Braun says.

Von Braun said Monday night that he agreed with predictions by others in the field that the United States can put a man on the moon within 10 years.

"It will cost about $20 billion to put a man on the moon and the byproducts of the lunar project will make it worthwhile," he told a University of Massachusetts audience.

Old Salem, N.C. used a form of modern plumbing in pre-Revolutionary days. Water was piped through hollow logs to every house in town.

he agreed there might not actually be Communists involved in the council, but he asserted, "Socialism is the Trojan horse through which communism gets into both our church and our nation."

The Rev. Daniel Carlton of Asheville also said he makes no claim that National Council leader are Communists, but "they are saying the same things the Communists are saying."

They Have 18, Anticipate First

CARMEL, Calif. (AP)—Like many an expectant couple, Navy Chief Warrant Officer Francis Louis Beardsley and his wife Helen hope their first child will be a boy.

That's just fine with their other 18 children too.

In 1960, Beardsley's first wife died of diabetes. They had 10 children. That same year, Helen North lost her Navy officer husband in a jet crash. She was left with eight children.

They heard of each other through a friend and exchanged sympathetic notes. They met. He proposed six days later. She accepted. Last Sept. 9 Beardsley, 45, and Helen, a pretty brunette who is 31, were married.

They set up housekeeping with their 18 children.

The Beardsleys happily announced Monday that another child is on the way. Beardsley described the other 18 children as wild with excitement.

Beardsley added, "Nobody can appreciate the scene we told the children. It was exhilarating. It was like winning the Irish Sweepstakes."

Beardsley works in Monterey at the Navy's postgraduate school. He says the child will be born in the nearby Ft. Ord hospital about July 19.

"We'll name him John Joseph," Beardsley declared. "The girls outnumber the boys now 12 to 6."

And if it's a girl?

"We haven't decided on a girl's name," Beardsley said.

The 18 children range in age from 2 to 17 years.

Creator Would Like To Hear The Lone Ranger Riding Again

By ANDY JOKELSON
ARCADE, N. Y. (AP)—Remember when The Lone Ranger called a hearty "Hiyo, Silver" to his big, white stallion and then began half-hour Western radio adventures that enraptured youngsters for 25 years?

Fran Striker remembers, too. He created the series 30 years ago.

"I've dreamed of the day when one of the radio networks would come on the air at 10 or 10:30 one night a week on a trial basis and rebroadcast one of those shows from the old days of radio," he says.

Striker feels radio has become almost strictly a medium for disk jockeys. "There's a tremendous radio audience waiting for some good programming."

Striker, a short, white-haired man of 58 whose strong views are cloaked by a placid exterior, says he's working just as hard as he ever did.

He recently completed a novel, "One More River," based on the actual government camel expedition in the Southwest in 1857. He has written the editorial matter for The Lone Ranger newspaper comic strip since 1938 and for several years has been teaching a coeducational creative writing class at the Buffalo YWCA.

He has been married for 32 years and lives with his wife, Janet, and a 17-year-old daughter.

FRAN STRIKER

ter, also named Janet, in this Western New York village 35 miles southeast of Buffalo.

One of his three sons, Robert, 29, is working as an engineer in Detroit, and 23-year-old Fran Jr., is in the Army. Donald, 22, died of a rare bone disease in 1957.

Striker said The Lone Ranger came about after Detroit radio station WXYZ asked him in 1931 to create a Western series with a mysterious continuing lead character. At the time, Striker was a free-lance writer of amateur stage theatricals.

The Lone Ranger first went on the air in Buffalo in January 1932, and several weeks later WXYZ bought the show and signed Striker to a five-year contract as the program's writer.

Since then, The Lone Ranger has become the subject of a widely rerun television series, 18 books written by Striker, two motion picture serials, two full-length movies, countless comic books and the newspaper strip.

Striker, who also created the popular Green Hornet radio series, sold the rights to The Lone Ranger at the outset and now is paid just for the comic strips he writes.

The Lone Ranger's Indian companion, Tonto, was not in the original radio show. The character was created later because "The Lone Ranger had to have someone to talk to," Striker explained.

An Indian was chosen for the part so that he wouldn't steal The Lone Ranger's thunder, but would have knowledge and contacts that The Lone Ranger didn't have, Striker said.

As for the Padre and his Spanish mission, Striker said, "There had to be some definite location where people could send messages that The Lone Ranger would get."

Striker believes there is not enough good entertainment for adults today.

"The best creative brains we have are producing sick things. Tennessee Williams never wrote a healthy thing in his life."

"Corn is the most beloved of all American products. I don't think we have enough corn today."

Hit-Run Car Is Found In Woods

A vehicle involved in a hit-and-run collision Sunday at Shelmerdine, was located by officers yesterday hidden in a wooded area near Chicod.

An auto, Patrolman R. E. Tayloe of Grifton, said, collided with a car driven by Jessie Ray Mathews, 34, of Route 1, Vanceboro, about 6:45 p.m. Sunday on N.C. 43 at Shelmerdine, then left the scene of the accident.

Yesterday, the hit-and-run car was found concealed about two miles back in a wooded area near Chicod, the trooper reported.

Ptl. Tayloe said even though the registration plates had been removed from the auto, the owner has been identified and will be charged with hit-and-run driving as well as reckless driving.

Damage to the Mathews vehicle was estimated to be about $250 while damage to the hit-and-run auto was placed at from $500 to $600.

FARMVILLE SCHOOL DEATH . . . Officials are shown inspecting area where four-year-old Cynthia Heath of West Pine St. was fatally injured at the rear of the Little Red School kindergarten about 10:20 a.m. yesterday. The child died enroute to Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville of head injuries received when one of the three 55-gallon oil drums struck her. The three drums were thrown to the ground when a wooden rack on which they were supported toppled over. Pitt Coroner E. W. Harvey has ruled the death accidental.

Craven Farmers Push Livestock

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Farsighted tobacco farmers in Craven County are taking steps to counteract what local leaders have termed "possibly the greatest threat to the economy of the area since the depression." Livestock will meet the threat.

When the Treaty of Rome established the European Economic Community, better known as the Common Market, no one in Craven County gave it a second thought. But, when Great Britain applied for membership in the free trade union, some of the leading farmers saw ahead to possible disaster.

The Commonwealth countries of Canada, Rhodesia and Nyasaland are producers of tobacco in quantity and quality. If these countries were admitted to the Common Market with Great Britain, farm leaders here surmised, American tobacco with its tariffs would be squeezed out of its market in Europe.

About one-third of the tobacco grown in the United States is ex-

Greenville Police To Hold 'Open House' Wednesday

Greenville Police, as part of their observance of Police Week, May 13-19, will hold open house at the local department Wednesday and will hold a memorial service in the city court room as part of Peace Officers Memorial Day.

Police Week was established by a joint resolution of Congress and signed by the President, June 21, 1961. This resolution sets aside this week in honor of lawmen and established May 14 as Peace Officers Memorial Day. The memorial day was set up by Congress to honor federal, state and municipal officers killed or injured while on duty.

Police Chief Guy C. Langston said visitors will be given a guided tour through the various departments within the local police establishment from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Memorial services will be held at 4 p.m., conducted by the Rev. R. B. Crawford.

Optimists Hear Lt. Col. Barry

Greenville's Optimist Club Monday heard a description of the equipment and mission of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro in an address by a speaker in behalf of Armed Forces Week.

Lt. Col. Michael Barry of Seymour Johnson outlined for Optimists the physical layout of the Goldsboro base and insisted, "despite our space age, the common denominator still is, and always will be, man himself."

Col. Barry said literary predictions of the 1930's that the future would bring "push-button" battle tactics were "pure fiction." He said: "In conducting a military operation, man will never be obsolete."

In describing the base, Col. Barry noted a military-plus-dependent population of about 15,000 at Seymour Johnson, supported by a monthly payroll of about $13 million. Capital investment at the base, including aircraft, he said, amounts to about $300 million.

Based at the Goldsboro installation, one of 40 U.S. Strategic Air Command bases, are portions of SAC, the Tactical Air Command and the Air Defense Command, the unit assigned to aerial defense of Eastern North Carolina.

Prior to Col. Barry's address, Optimist President "Tom" Money announced the club's president-elect, E. R. (Pete) Carraway was attending a special meeting of the Rotary Club. Money also announced the Optimist Little League baseball team will begin its regular-season schedule this week.

Park Director To Give Version

RALEIGH (AP)—National Park Service Director Conrad Wirth will have a chance May 31 to present to the Highway Commission his side of the Grandfather Mountain road controversy.

Highway Commission Chairman Merrill Evans said Monday he had granted Wirth's request to appear before the commission to present basic materials relating to the proposed routing of the Blue Ridge Parkway across the mountain.

Evans said Hugh Morton of Wilmington, owner of Grandfather Mountain, has been invited to attend the session. Wirth is slated to appear before the commission at 1:30 p.m. in the Highway Building Auditorium.

The park service wants the parkway to cross the mountain at a high elevation while Morton wants it to cross a lower level. A stretch of about seven miles in the Grandfather Mountain area is one of the few links in the parkway that has not been completed.

Sanford, has sided with Morton. He told his news conference recently the state will not attempt to acquire right-of-way for a "high level" routing of the parkway across the mountain.

Sanford said that in 1939 the state purchased right-of-way from Morton for a low-level route across the mountain. He added it was "doubtful if the state could condemn additional lands for the purpose."

Overweight And Fat, Not Same

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Being overweight and being fat are far from synonymous, two doctors from the School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., told a medical Convention here recently.

Capt. James R. Wamsley and Dr. James E. Roberts studied the body composition of 51 airman selected at random. A body composed of as much as 20 percent fat was considered obese.

The studies showed 15 of the 51 were obese but not overweight and six were overweight but not obese, while only five were both overweight and obese, the doctors said.

Elevated Train Car Has Mishap

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The third car of a four-car elevated train derailed at the platform of a terminal in northeast Philadelphia early today, injuring 12 persons.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Transportation Co. said the train wedged against the platform.

Ten of the injured were treated and released at Frankford Hospital but told to report back for X-rays, the hospital said.

Two others were detained. They were in satisfactory condition.

Other Jaycee Clubs Will Help Airport Petition

Farmville and Ayden Jaycee clubs have agreed to circulate petitions calling for establishment of a centrally located airport to serve Eastern North Carolina.

Carlton Taylor and George Coffman, co-chairmen of the project, said the Farmville club is now circulating the petition. Ayden is expected to begin soon.

Greenville Jaycees began circulating the petition last week with plans for calling on other Jaycee clubs in Eastern Carolina for assistance. Club members have hopes of obtaining 25,000 or more names.

The petition, suggested by W. W. Speight who is counsel for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission, will be used as evidence before the Civil Aeronautics Board of it should order an area investigation.

Local authorities have requested such an investigation and it has the support of the federal Bureau of Economic Regulation. Taylor said 1,500 to 2,000

Roth Caricature Back In Gallery

NEW YORK (AP)—Lillian Roth has been restored to the picture gallery that is a feature of Broadway's best-known theatrical restaurant (Sardi's) after a 20-year absence.

Miss Roth was one of the first celebrities to be caricatured by the restaurant's first artist, Alex Gard, but the portrait was stored away when she slipped out of show business. She recently resumed her career as a principal player in the musical "I Can Get It for Your Wholesale," and the rehanging ensued.

Anticipated Triumphs By Russia Figure In Quarrel

NEW YORK (AP) — Towering Russians traveling through the country, whipping American basketball teams, while this nation's best players are sitting on the sidelines.

That's the picture that is shaping up today, as the battle for control of amateur sports in the country daily grows more bitter.

The Russians could well be the ones that crack it wide open. They are due in November for a series of games in this country. Instead of playing the country's top college teams, they are likely to face some rag-tag pickup clubs.

The resulting furor could extend clear to the White House. It will affect U.S. chances in the 1964 Olympics, and the outcome of the fight will shape U.S. athletic policies for many years to come.

The Amateur Athletic Union, which is handling the Russian tour, said it had asked the colleges to let their top teams play the Russians, during the November tour, but had been refused. Col. Don Hull, the AAU's executive director, said November was an awkward month, but that the time was selected by the Russians, through the State Department, and there was nothing he can do about it.

Walter Byers, for the NCAA, pointed out that college rules forbid teams playing before Dec. 1. "I can not accept placing the blame for the timing of the Russian trip on the State Department. It is another example of poor management of the AAU," Byers said.

"It would take a convention to change our rules to let our teams play in November, and the AAU didn't ask us in time for the convention."

Both sides agreed there was a possibility that individual colleges might be able to play on an all-star-type team against the Russians, but each appeared to be waiting for the other side to make the first move.

The same situation will come up in December, when it comes time to select an American team for the world basketball championships in Manila, and again for the 1963 Pan-American Games and the 1964 Olympics.

Tigers Shutout Deacons 6-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Damon Vincent, Clemson right-hander who's had so-so success with his pitching this season, came up with his top performance Monday night.

The 5-11, 162-pound junior, struck out 17 and allowed only four hits as the Tigers shut out Wake Forest 6-0 in an Atlantic Coast Conference exhibition game. He also swatted a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

In four previous games this year, in which he broke even, Vincent had fanned only 21. He struck out 62 in 61 1-3 innings last year when he posted a 5-3 record.

His strikeout performance was four short of the Clemson record of 21 set by Billy O'Dell against South Carolina in 1952.

The loss was league-leading Wake Forest's third straight, all to conference foes. Monday night's game won't be included in the standings.

Meanwhile, North Carolina State edged North Carolina 8-6 Monday night. It was the Wolfpack's first baseball victory over the Tar Heels since 1957.

N.C. State, trailing 5-0 scored four runs in the seventh and four more in the eighth.

The Wolfpack is now 7-6 in the conference. North Carolina finished its conference schedule with a 4-10 record.

A pair of non-conference games are on tap today. Clemson plays at Furman, and South Carolina entertains The Citadel.

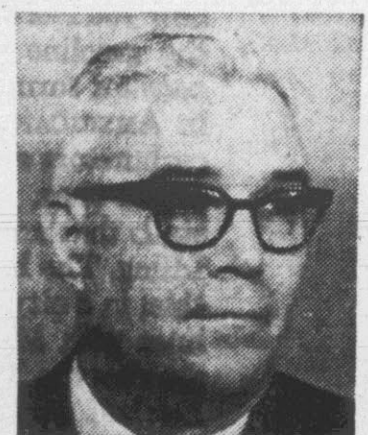

Teague Awards Given Tonight

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The 1961 Teague Awards will be presented to Wake Forest basketball star Len Chappell and Greensboro golfer Marge Burns tonight.

They will be honored at a banquet here for being chosen the outstanding man and woman amateur athletes in North Carolina and South Carolina during 1961.

Louis J. Fisher of High Point, president of the National AAU, will address the banquet.

Miss Burns has won the Teague Award five times, the last three in a row. Chappell has been a top Atlantic Coast Conference basketball player the past two seasons.

Carolinas Conference Commissioner Advised

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Carolinas Conference will receive a recommendation at its meeting in Salisbury Saturday that a full-time conference commissioner be appointed.

A special committee has recommended that the commissioner's office be set up and that Joby Hawn of Winston-Salem be appointed commissioner.

Dr. E. G. Purdom of Guilford College, president of the conference, confirmed Monday that the committee, which has been studying the matter for several months, will make the recommendations.

In the past, a commissioner has been named by the conference from among faculty members. If the committee recommendations are carried out, Hawn would be the first full-time commissioner.

Hawn is now employed by Hanes Hosiery in personnel and recreation work. For many years he has officiated college football, basketball and baseball. He also is secretary of both the Atlantic Coast Conference booking offices. These offices supply officials for college athletic contests.

Palmer To Play In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — Arnold Palmer, golf's leading money winner for the year, and Gary Player meet here Wednesday in an exhibition match expected to draw about 1,500 persons.

A driving exhibition and clinic will precede the match which is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. at the Carolina Country Club.

Wake Forest Basketball Coach Bones McKinney, armed with his 46-inch driver, will take part in the driving match.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Noe has said "yes" to the University of South Carolina's offer that he become its head basketball coach.

Chuck Noe, coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute for the past seven seasons, accepted Monday the university's offer of a four-year contract at an undisclosed salary.

At the same time, VPI announced that Noe's assistant there, former VPI cage star William B. (Bill) Matthews would succeed Noe as VPI's head basketball coach.

VPI Athletic Director Frank Mosely said Noe has done an outstanding job and added, "I regret to see him go. We have made much effort to improve our basketball program during the last several years, and Chuck has contributed greatly to the success of that organization."

"I have been in Virginia for 18 years," Noe said, "and I will regret leaving. This is the hardest thing I have ever had to do. It will be just like starting again."

Matthews, 28, was a star player, finishing at VPI in Noe's first season as a coach there.

He said, "I don't think there'll be any radical changes," in the VPI program. "All I know I've learned from Coach Noe."

University of South Carolina athletic director Marvin Bass said of Noe, "His record at VPI speaks for itself as an endorsement of his coaching ability. We felt he was the most qualified man and we are delighted that he has accepted."

Noe is expected to take on his new duties in a few days. A primary problem will be hiring an assistant coach.

Noe is married and he and Mrs. Noe have two young daughters and two young sons.

He is 35, a native of Louisville, Ky., who starred in baseball and basketball while a Navy pre-flight student at the University of Virginia. He played professional baseball in the Boston Red Sox farm system before a leg fracture cut off his baseball career.

After coaching in Virginia high schools, he was basketball and baseball coach at Virginia Military Institute for three seasons before going to VPI.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes . . . Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms. Primatene—$64, at any drugstore.

Friends Betting Frankfurter Will Return To Duty

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The betting among friends of Felix Frankfurter is that—barring some turn now unforeseen—the peppery judge will bounce back and take his seat on the Supreme Court again next Oct. 1.

The jurist, 79, is still at George Washington University Hospital, where he was taken April 5 after suffering what his physician called a brief interruption in normal blood flow to the brain.

The physician, Dr. George A. Felsler Jr., said Monday that Frankfurter was "doing well." A friend of the justice went further and said "he is showing amazing progress."

"It's going to take more than this illness to keep the justice down," another friend said.

Frankfurter has been receiving some friends in his hospital room and his long-crippled wife, the former Marion A. Demman of Springfield, Mass., has been taken to a wheelchair to see her husband.

Mrs. Frankfurter was stricken by arthritis more than eight years ago and requires around-the-clock care at the Frankfurter home in the Georgetown section of Washington.

The day after Frankfurter collapsed at his desk in the Supreme Court building it was announced that he would remain at the hospital "for a short period of rest."

Asked if he had not stayed longer than expected, a friend suggested that since Mrs. Frankfurter was unable to care for him, it was considered better for the justice to complete his recuperation at the hospital.

Frankfurter is reported to be frequently out of bed, handling some of his stacks of correspondence, making phone calls and otherwise displaying more than a trace of his legendary energy.

Frankfurter does not plan to return to the bench this term, which is now nearly over. But the next term, beginning Oct. 1, is another thing.

N.C. Senators Urge Funds For Flood Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina senators urged Congress today to provide $280,000 to begin engineering work on the proposed New Hope flood control project in the Cape Fear River basin.

Democratic Sens. B. Everett Jordan and Sam Ervin, asked a Senate Appropriations subcommittee in their prepared testimony to approve the funds contingent upon congressional authorization of the project later this year and also of dams at Randleman and Howard's Mill.

The $25,612,000 New Hope project would be built in the vicinity of Monroe, N.C., where New Hope Creek and the Haw River meet to form the Cape Fear River.

Only opposition to the Army Engineers' recommendation for the three flood control projects, including New Hope, has come from Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C. He prefers the Soil Conservation Service plan for 232 small dirt dams in the basin development.

Jordan said he and Ervin are asking for the unusual procedure of approving funds prior to authorization "because of the urgent need for construction of the New Hope dam and because of the widespread support it has received from our congressional delegation, the state, and the many municipal, industrial and agricultural interests which would be vitally affected by it."

"We cannot attach too much importance to the Cape Fear project," he said, "the project is one of the real keys to the total development of our water resources. It is part of the total development procedure that includes the Wikesboro Reservoir on the Yadkin River and the Neuse River Basin survey."

The money they seek would be for use in the year beginning July 1.

It All Started With One Fish

WESTON, Mass. (AP) — "Get a net and scoop out that fish," the order was issued by Irving Keene, biology instructor at Weston High School, to students on a field trip.

The students scooped the fish—a trout—from a stream near the school.

The fish captured the fancy of Irene MacLeod, who decided to study it as a biology project. She got other students to help her build a trout pool in front of the school. The state chipped in other trout.

Now the pool is going to become the centerpiece for improvements in the area.

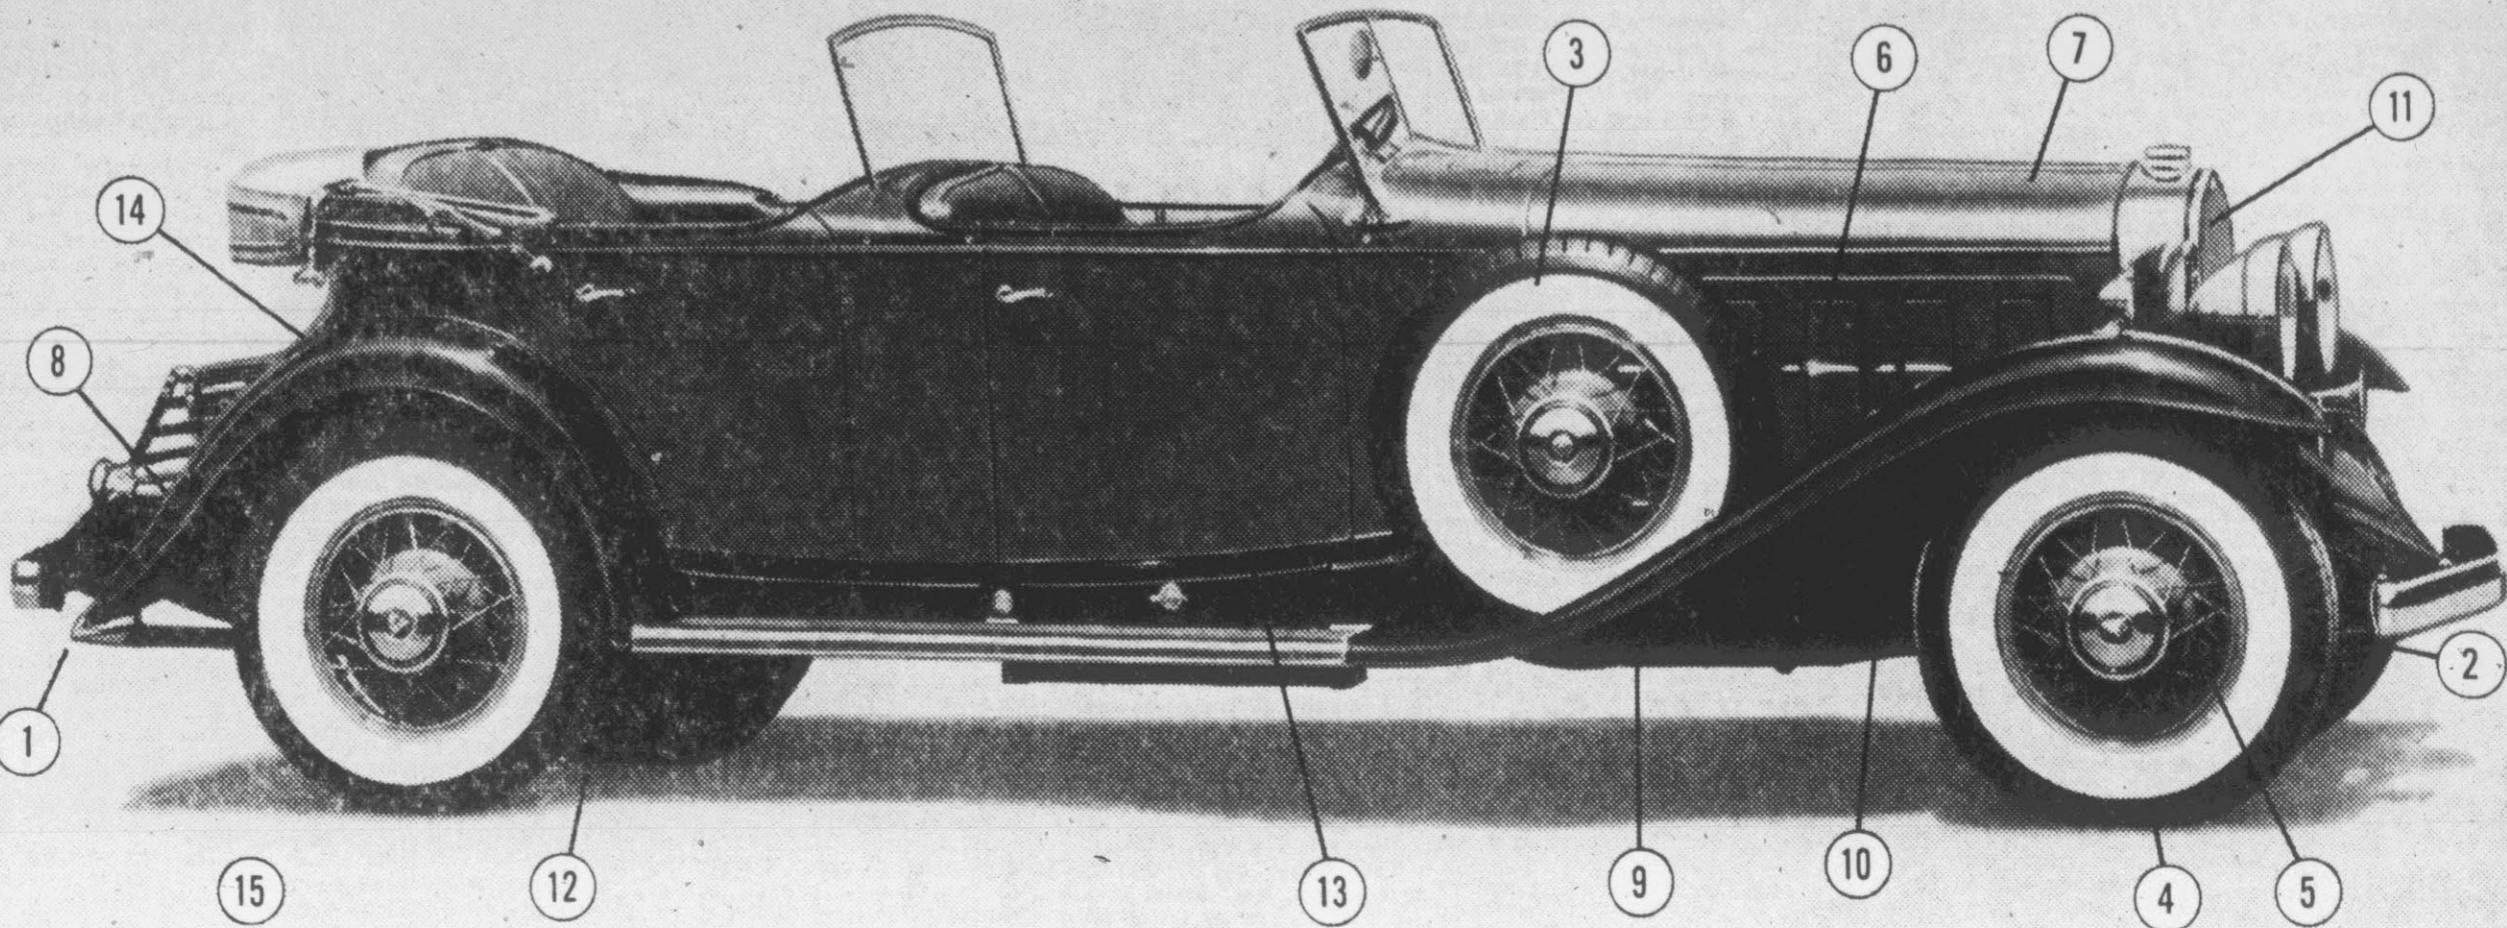

Weston's Country Garden Club has donated $200 to improve the pool area.

And Irene knows enough about trout now to speak at a sportsmen's club which has donated an additional $50.

Japan Lashed By Wind, Rain

Shell's automotive experts have developed many ways to make their own cars run better and last longer. The numbers on this classic 1930 V-16 indicate some of the areas deserving attention, as described below.

Shell dealers suggest 15 ways to make your car last longer

Shell scientists dedicate their working lives to the care and feeding of automobiles.

They can offer dozens of tips on prolonging the life of what is probably your second biggest investment. Here are some useful samples:

AMERICANS spend more than 2 billion dollars a year on automotive replacement parts. This expense is enough to give every man, woman, and child in the U. S. a $12 birthday present.

With a little care, you can avoid much of this expense and keep your car youthful. Here are a few tips from Shell's experts.

1. Learn to read tail pipe smoke signals. Blue smoke means too much oil is getting into the combustion chambers. Your piston rings may be worn and need replacing.

Black smoke is an indication of too much gasoline in the air-fuel mixture. Your carburetor may need an adjustment. White smoke is mostly water vapor. Don't worry about it.

2. Check wheel alignment and balance. The shock of hitting curbs or dropping into deep holes can cause misalignment.

An out-of-line wheel can increase tire wear as much as 50 percent. An unbalanced wheel pounds the tire against the pavement, wearing the tread unevenly.

It's a good idea to have wheels balanced and front wheel alignment checked twice a year.

3. Rotate tires every 6,000 miles. Be sure to include your spare. This helps tires wear evenly, last longer. NOTE: See your Shell dealer for a set of valve caps. They will help prevent dirt from getting in around the tire valve.

4. Avoid high speeds and save your tires. Every extra mile your tires last is money in your pocket. High speeds increase wear drastically—by as much as 80% over normal wear—so it pays to go easy.

5. Use your engine to save your brake linings. Anticipate your slowdowns. Try to avoid sudden, hard braking.

When you see you'll have to slow down, take your foot off the accelerator early and let the engine's compression do some of the job.

6. Warm up slowly. Racing an engine to warm it up ages it fast. A short warm-up at moderate speed is good for your car in summer, and even more important during colder months when the oil tends to move sluggishly at first.

But never race your cold engine to warm up. It may damage critical working parts before lubrication can be fully established.

7. Have your engine's spark timing set to proper specifications. Spark timing determines whether your plugs fire at the right instant. With incorrect timing, you can lose power and mileage. Also, your car may knock. And chronic knocking can damage your engine.

8. Use a gasoline that controls knock. If your engine persists in knocking, you may need a gasoline with more anti-knock components, for a higher octane rating.

NOTE: Today's Super Shell with 9 ingredients contains all of the anti-knock ingredients required to help your car deliver knock-free performance.

9. Have your oil checked whenever you fill up with gasoline. An oil-level check is a simple safety check for your engine. It is also free, and takes less than a minute.

Oil does not wear out. But it can be lost through leaks or burning. And it does get dirty. Worse yet, oil can become contaminated by combustion by-products—including acid.

Suggestion: use new Shell X-100® Premium Motor Oil. It only costs about $3.60 more per year than regular oils—no more than most premiums.

New Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil fights engine acid and four other troubles that can shorten your engine's life.

10. Change your oil filter element regularly. Abrasive specks as small as 1/1000th of an inch in diameter can shorten the life of your engine. The oil filter element in your car has the exacting task of keeping tiny, dangerous specks of metal and other abrasives out of the engine, while allowing oil to flow freely.

The filter catches and holds these foreign particles until it can hold no more. But when the oil filter is clogged, it can't work efficiently. Replacing the filter element at regular intervals helps your engine last longer.

11. Have your car's cooling system checked in spring and fall. Cooling system rust inhibitors can wear out. Rust, corrosion and sediment may then start to form.

In the spring, let your Shell dealer inspect your entire cooling system. When he drains and refills, he'll add a special Cooling System Protector.

In the fall, you get a free cooling system inspection when you have Shellzone anti-freeze put in by your Shell dealer.

12. Get a lubrication job regularly. Dirt and moisture can work into chassis joints and bushings, causing friction and wear. Grease can also eventually pound out, leaving the parts unprotected. Shell lubrication at frequent intervals helps protect those vital parts.

13. Keep door and body panel drain holes clear to foil rust. You never see them, but there are little drain holes at the bottom of body panels and doors. They can get clogged so that the panels actually hold water.

Result: Rust forms more easily, can even eat holes through the metal. Make sure drain holes are clear.

14. "Bandage" minor scratches in your car's finish. Small scratches in the finish expose bare metal which can rust. Until you can have the scratches refinished, keep rust from forming with a coat of touch-up paint or even a strip of cellulose tape on the scratches. Use clear nail polish on scratches in the chrome.

15. Let your Shell dealer help your car last longer. Your car may have cost you thousands of dollars.

After your home, this is probably your biggest single investment.

Treat it carefully. Feed it well. Let your Shell dealer help you on both counts. You will save money—and increase your driving pleasure, too.

Chicago Businessmen Are Ready To Bury Hatchet

EDITOR'S NOTE — Can the split between the Kennedy administration and much of the business community be healed? In this, second of three self-contained articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, tells what Chicago executives say would do the trick.

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
CHICAGO (AP)—Many business leaders in the Chicago area would like to bury the hatchet and work in better harmony with the Kennedy administration—even if most think this is a pretty long chance just now.

"Government and business are partners and need each other," pops up again and again in interviews with Chicago's top men in industry and trade. Usually it is said with wonderment that relations got out of hand so fast in the battle between the President and the steel companies over the short-lived price rise.

Austin T. Cushman, who just became chairman of Sears, Roebuck, says both sides should work for a better business-government climate so the nation can do its best and achieve the economic growth goals.

Charles H. Kellstadt, retiring Sears chairman, says: "All groups—government, business, labor—must be more temperate in words and actions. All must consider carefully before making statements or taking actions. It is vital to our economy that we maintain our free enterprise system."

"Ours is a business economy. And I'm sure the President is aware of that. There should be no penalizing of business as such, or of business as such, or of the desire and need of making a profit."

Kellstadt brushes aside many of the more extreme fears now expressed for the immediate future of business, such as the tremors in the stock market following the steel price clash, with the assertion: "In my opinion our economy is sound—if they all just quit tampering with it."

President Kennedy wins applause from at least one business leader for his attempt to halt a new wage-price spiral.

Ross D. Siragusa, chairman of Admiral Corp., says the President was right in championing the public interest. The head of the electronics and electrical appliance firm says he feels sure the President wants business to prosper and thinks fighting inflation is the right way to achieve it.

"This wage-price spiral should have been halted long ago. The President is right in telling both business and labor to moderate their price or wage demands if these are going to start up inflation again," Siragusa says.

Most business executives interviewed feel that the chances of much coming out of the White House Conference on National Economic Issues, May 21-22, have been lessened by the flare-up between government and business.

But a Chicago member of the President's Labor Management Advisory Committee thinks otherwise.

Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel, the company that cracked the steel price boost line, says one of the big troubles all along is: "The three elements in our economy—government, business, labor—usually talk only to themselves. Mostly they don't know what the others are saying."

"The President's conference should let each side see how the other side thinks. Also it will let the public see what the issues really are. All this could help."

Scholars Restore Head To Old Egyptian Statue

By ANDREW MEISELS

NEW YORK (AP)—A 2,500-year-old Egyptian statue that lost its head centuries ago has it snugly in place today—but nobody knows for how long.

The statue is a likeness of Westir-Wer, who was a top administrator of the temples of Amun and Monthu at Thebes in the 4th century B.C. The reunion of its head and torso is the result of an epic piece of scholarly detective work on the part of a Belgian Egyptologist.

Here's how it came about: The statue of Westir-Wer, 28 inches high, was carved in about 350 B.C. in gray-green schist, an extremely hard stone. Somewhere along the line, however, the top part of the figure was broken off, and the two sections maintained a separate existence since then.

The torso and base have been in the Egyptian national art collection since 1903. Unbeknownst to anyone, meanwhile, the head was right nearby in the Cairo Museum.

Here the plot thickens, for in 1955 the Brooklyn Museum here bought the then unidentified head at a sort of rummage sale held by the Cairo Museum and removed it to the United States—5,000 miles from its torso. The head's been here ever since, on display in Brooklyn.

At this point, Dr. Herman de Meulenaere, 35, enters the picture. He has made a science out of joining the missing pieces of ancient art objects.

De Meulenaere works from about 10,000 photographs of fragments from all over the world, which he keys into an elaborate cross-filing system.

Working at the Queen Elizabeth Egyptological Foundation in Brussels, De Meulenaere learned from his files that a column of hieroglyphs begins at the top of the head in the Brooklyn Museum, on the back, and then stops abruptly.

In an astounding feat of memory, the professor recalled that some hieroglyphs appear on the back of the headless statue in Egypt. A comparison of the head and the statue—with the hieroglyphs on each—showed they belonged together.

Westir-Wer, all of him, was joined together at a brief ceremony in the Brooklyn Museum Monday. The statue—held together for the time being only by wax—goes on exhibition today for six months.

After that, Westir-Wer may go to pieces again, although officials here hope to come to some transatlantic agreement that will let the old boy keep his head after all these years.

Tony Randall Reports On Phone Bill Savings

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Every consumer dreams of somehow licking the public utilities. Tony Randall has done it.

Randall was in Hollywood for... well, he wasn't quite sure. "I guess I'm here to kiss my agent goodbye before I go to Europe," said the New York-based actor. He is taking his first trip abroad to film "Not On Your Life" for Warner Bros.

Any visit by Randall to these shores is welcome, since he always offers some novel, unconfirming views on our conforming society. He told of his conquest of the telephone company.

"I have an unlisted phone number in New York," said he. "One day three years ago, the telephone company sent me a notice that I would henceforth be charged 50 cents per month to have my number unlisted. If I were going to play the game right, I would pay."

Apparently unlisted phones cost them money. People are always trying to find out numbers that are unlisted, and such inquiries have to be answered. It ties up a girl.

"I thought of a way out. I filled out the application to have my phone listed under the name of Reuben L. Pischmann (This name has been changed to protect Randall).

"Think of it! I am saving 50 cents a month. That adds up. In three years I have saved $18. In a thousand years, it would amount to $6,000!"

Besides the saving, Randall is provided with a source of amusement. Like all listed numbers, he is subjected to that modern nuisance, the telephone salesman.

"I have a ready reply," said Randall. "I usually answer in the voice of my secretary. When the salesman asks if Mr. Pischmann would like to have his drapes cleaned, I tell them in a sobbing voice. 'This is Mrs. Pischmann—sob!—Mr. Pischmann died this morning.'"

We went on to other matters, such as Randall's future in the movie game. He admitted that he plays second lead to Robert Preston in "Not On Your Life," which will be filmed in Athens and the Greek Isles.

"But that is the last time," he vowed. "After that, it is top banana or nothing!"

He explained: "You see, 'Pillow Talk' got me into a trap. It was so darned successful—$14 million in this country alone—that I was in demand to play the leading man's friend. This has paid extremely well (he gets $150,000 for "Not On Your Life"), but I could end my days playing Rock Hudson's friend."

French Railway Workers Strike

PARIS (AP)—Railway workers went on strike throughout most of France today, paralyzing the state-operated rail system.

In Paris, many city bus drivers also struck and several subway lines halted during the morning rush hour. Only about 10 per cent of the familiar green and white Paris buses were operating.

The strike was called for 24 hours, beginning at 4 a.m. Long-distance trains en route at the time continued to their destinations.

The transport workers are seeking a shorter week and other benefits that the government has refused. More strikes in nationalized industries and the administration are scheduled later this week.

Patience Needed For Bus-Driving

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — Bill Knox drives a school bus between Gunnison and Sapinero in western Colorado. One chilly night, he wheeled the empty bus up to his house and started to get out for the hot supper awaiting him.

A 6-year-old boy reared up from the back seat and sleepily asked: "Where are we, Mr. Knox?" He had stretched out on the rear seat and slept through his stop.

There was nothing for Knox to do but take they boy home — a 50-mile round trip.

No Charges Filed As Car Overturns

CAR . . . which overturned on Evans St. last night.

No charges were placed following a one-car mishap on Evans St. near the Brentwood subdivision last night, Greenville Traffic officers reported.

Police said that a car, driven by Leo Brody, 54, of 1008 North Queen St., Kinston, overturned as it rolled down an embankment on the West side of Evans St., causing an estimated $300 damage to the auto.

Brody, who was quoted as saying his vehicle left the roadway as he was attempting to roll up a rear window, received minor abrasions to his left hand. He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

In addition to the damage to the vehicle, an estimated $25 damage resulted to a fence at the bottom of the grade.

The mishap occurred about 10:32 p.m.

Scholarship For S. Ayden Senior

AYDEN—Robert Daniel Brown, senior at South Ayden High School, has received one of four $1,000 scholarships awarded through the national alumni program of the North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College of Greensboro.

Brown was awarded the scholarship on the basis of a national competitive scholarship examination, ranking in the top fourth of the exam participants.

An "A" student throughout high school, Brown is co-valedictorian of his graduating class. He has been active in 4-H Club work, the New Farmers of America, Choral Club, school band, Dramatics Club, Safety Patrol and junior varsity basketball. He is a member of the Crown and Scepter Honor Society.

He was accepted at the National Science Foundation Summer Institute at N. C. State College during the summer of 1961.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown of 222 W. Barwick St.

Artillery Shell Stopped Auction

MARKET LAVINGTON, England (AP)—Auctioneer George Austin was about to sell a set of matched chairs at an open-air auction on a local farm Monday when a 25-pound high explosive shell fell in a field several hundred yards away with a terrific blast.

Two hundred startled people attending the auction rushed for cover.

The shell brought down a power line, shattered windows in two nearby buildings and showered stones and earth on a farm shed.

The shell was fired from an army artillery range a mile away from the village.

"This shell was a 'plus' shot," an army spokesman said. "It was on a correct line of flight but overshot by about 2,000 yards. A board of inquiry has been convened to investigate the cause."

RALEIGH (AP)—A committee studying the community college and four-year college needs of North Carolina is scheduled to make its report June 10.

What is recommended could decide the future of Charlotte, Wilmington and Asheville, all of which now have two-year community colleges.

Conservation Notes

HUGH WINSLOW, one of Pitt County's Coastal Plain Soil & Water Conservation District supervisors, and soil conservationist W. C. Eagles met last week with the Greenville Ministerial Association to ask cooperation during Soil Stewardship Week, May 27-June 3.

Winslow distributed to each member of the group, of which the Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr., pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, is chairman, a copy of a Soil Conservation Service pamphlet entitled: "Stream of Life."

The ministers indicated they would cooperate in the observance of Soil Stewardship Week. They requested and received copies of a fly-leaf entitled: "The Earth is the Lord's", to be inserted in church programs and bulletins on Soil Stewardship Sunday.

In discussing the special week with the ministers, Eagles pointed out the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts has sponsored the week for the past eight years.

(Additional information and literature on Soil Stewardship Week is available at the offices of Pitt County's branch of the Soil Conservation Service, 709 Johnston St., Greenville.)

KENNETH FUTREAL, soil conservationist, says: "Many Pitt County farms have little draws where severe erosion takes place during heavy rains. Unless these little gullies are checked with grass, they grow steadily into large gullies."

"The best way to stop this gully erosion is to cooperate with nature by shaping and smoothing the depressions into waterways. Then lime and fertilizer can be applied and the waterway can be seeded with fescue in the fall and overseeded with Koba lespedeza in early spring. Thus we can help nature establish a channel for surface water to flow without the dangers and damages of water erosion."

W. C. LITTLE reports that he, E. W. Venters, F. McKay Tripp and H. L. Bowen have completed construction of Reedy Branch Canal, an outlet for water on their farms.

Little expressed appreciation for cooperation in this project. The Soil Conservation Service assisted in planning and checking, the A.S.C.S. cost-shared with ACP money, the Pitt Industrial School assisted in right-of-way clearing. (It is an outlet channel for the school's drainage system) and the State Highway Commission lowered a road culvert two feet to give proper depth and fall to the ditch.

Little has already spread the soil on his land and is preparing, fertilizing and seeding soybeans for the summer. In September, a strip along the canal about 30 feet wide will be seeded with fescue as a field border to prevent erosion and to furnish space for a farm path. A low area will have a pipe over-fall to let surface water into the canal without erosion.

Davis was found in his store with a bullet in his head last Nov. 28, and died four days later. Lt. Anton Glover and Sgt. James Cadden of the Baltimore Detective Bureau said Monday the defendant gave them the statement. They said the statement gave this account:

Bagley entered the store, found Davis alone and decided to rob him.

Bagley put his hand in his coat pocket, and declared that a hold-up was in progress, causing the storekeeper to remove a pistol from his desk.

A struggle began and the gun went off.

Prosecutor Abraham L. Adler told the all-male jury that Bagley was brought here from Durham in February after his arrest there on a forgery charge.

Trial before Baltimore Criminal court Judges Shirley B. Jones and Joseph R. Byrnes resumes today.

Elmer Bland, Soil Conservation Service technician of the job, speaks highly of the cooperation received from Dennis Johnson, who has charge of the maintenance of County roads in the State Highway system. The day the dragline reached the road and was ready to dig out the culvert, Johnson had a crew of men there ready to assist.

Leland Forlines, in charge of school maintenance, has agreed to sow Weeping Love grass on the sides of the sloping ditch. The seeds are being furnished by the Soil Conservation Service.

The object is to prevent erosion on the sides and thus protect the ditch. Bland points out that this demonstration "will be of much interest to farmers because many ditches erode and fill at least a foot the first year."

Parking Ramp Is A Lovers' Lane

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A multistory parking ramp has turned into a modern day lovers lane.

An executive of a six-story parking ramp reported that couples have been driving up the ramp to the fifth or sixth level to do their smooching.

"It's a perfect spot," he said. "No cops to bother them, no curious strangers."

"After all, when you rent space in a parking ramp, the space belongs to you—there's no law that says you have to get out of the car."

She Saw It, And Misunderstood

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Even clearly worded government notices on television can be misunderstood, as a postal worker here discovered.

A woman who said she wanted to register as an alien, in answer to a clerk's questions, said she was born here. But when she was told she didn't have to register in that case, replied emphatically:

"I know better. I saw on television the other day that everybody who was allin' was supposed to register. . . and I've been allin' for a long time."

More Hearings On Hospitals Set For June 19

GREENSBORO (AP)—Further hearings are scheduled in U.S. District Court June 19 on a suit asking that the section of the Hill-Burton Act allowing racially segregated hospitals to receive federal money be declared unconstitutional.

The date was set Monday by Judge Edwin M. Stanley. He also held that the federal government may not intervene in the case until the defendants have a chance to answer the government's motion.

The Department of Justice has asked that it be allowed to intervene in the case on the side of the Negro plaintiffs.

Arguments on this motion were scheduled for June 19, as were arguments on:

Ends Quarrel By Driving Car In Picture Window

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A suburban Lansing husband got the last word in a day-long quarrel with his wife by driving his convertible through the picture window of their home.

Before he headed for the house, police said, John Clayton McDonald, 41, started a fire in the attached garage.

Neighbors called the sheriff complaining of a domestic quarrel. They called police when McDonald started breaking windows around the house and called the fire department when they saw the fire, police reported.

McDonald's wife, Patricia, told police she heard the crash just after she left the house to go to a neighbor's home.

McDonald was jailed on a reckless driving charge.

Police estimated damage to the car and house at $4,000. McDonald, they said, suffered only a minor cut.

1-A motion by defendants, Moses Cone and Wesley Long hospitals, for dismissal of the suit on grounds the court lacks jurisdiction.

2-A motion by the nine Negro doctors and dentists, and two patients, who filed the suit, for a summary judgment.

3-A motion by the plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction against the hospitals to admit the Negro doctors as staff members.

The Justice Department, which asked last week to be allowed to intervene, claimed Monday the government had an "unconditional right" to do so because the constitutionality of an act of Congress is challenged.

An attorney for the hospitals indicated Monday the government motion may be challenged on the basis of legal precedent. The attorney said the government had intervened in cases to uphold federal laws, but he knew of none in which it had intervened to ask that a law be declared unconstitutional.

Robbery-Killing Said Confessed

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police have testified that a 21-year-old Durham, N.C. man reenacted the robbery-slaying of a Baltimore meat dealer and gave them a signed statement in the case.

Nick Donald Bagley of Durham is on trial in the death of Don J. Davis, 38.

Davis was found in his store with a bullet in his head last Nov. 28, and died four days later.

Lt. Anton Glover and Sgt. James Cadden of the Baltimore Detective Bureau said Monday the defendant gave them the statement. They said the statement gave this account:

Bagley entered the store, found Davis alone and decided to rob him.

Bagley put his hand in his coat pocket, and declared that a hold-up was in progress, causing the storekeeper to remove a pistol from his desk.

A struggle began and the gun went off.

Prosecutor Abraham L. Adler told the all-male jury that Bagley was brought here from Durham in February after his arrest there on a forgery charge.

Trial before Baltimore Criminal court Judges Shirley B. Jones and Joseph R. Byrnes resumes today.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE VALUABLE PRIZES

That Will Be Given Away During The Grand Opening Of Our Completely New Home!

- $79.95 Sealy Posture Pedic Mattress
- $69.95 Ezera Storm Innerspring Mattress
- $59.95 Platform Rocker by McCall

An intimately fair and most unique plan has been devised for the fair and equal distribution of all other door prizes. The prizes have all been catalogued by numbers and each one hundredth customer either paying on account or making any type purchase will be awarded the next prize in line. In other words, those buying a rose bud for a dime or those purchasing a complete home outfit will each share and share alike. Of course, the same method of those paying on accounts will be in force until every single prize has been awarded.

Maryland, Pennsylvania, Nebraska Voting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Voters in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Nebraska pick nominees for state and federal offices in primary elections today. Turnouts of less than half the registered voters in each state were predicted.

The Maryland campaign has been liberally faced with charges of corruption and patronage peddling. The Nebraska and Pennsylvania campaigns have been more sedate. None of the Democratic primaries has directly involved President Kennedy.

His personal choice, Rep. William W. Scranton, 44, is the front-runner in the Pennsylvania gubernatorial primary. Fred Senton, who was secretary of the interior in Eisenhower's Cabinet, appears a shoo-in for the Nebraska gubernatorial nomination.

Seven Democrats seek the gubernatorial nod in Maryland, including incumbent Gov. J. Millard Tawes. His stiffest opposition has come from George Mahoney, a contractor who has scored some near misses in losing biennial tries for the Democratic nominations for Senate or governor since 1950. David Hume, an attorney, has no organization to match Tawes or Mahoney but was ranked as a darkhorse possibility. The campaign was a rough one. Baltimore political leader Jack Pollack, who supported Tawes in 1958 but has switched to Mahoney this year, produced a tape recording portraying his alleged gift of $5,000 to Tawes in exchange for the right to name several Baltimore judges. Tawes conceded he discussed patronage with Pollack in 1958 but said the politico's demands grew too great and he broke with Pollack in 1959.

Husband Is Accused Of Kidnapping Wife

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Eugene W. Howard, 41, formerly of Santa Barbara, Calif., was held in city jail Monday night pending action by his wife, who accused him of kidnapping her.

Police said Howard was held under provisions of a suspended sentence under which he was to stay away from his 40-year-old wife Stella.

Wires Crossed, Wrong Delivery

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The switchboard operator at the Tucson Daily Citizen took the call. "This is Dr. Blank," said the caller. "Give me delivery, please. Quickly."

The switchboard girl dutifully connected the doctor with the circulation department of the newspaper. After a few minutes of confused conversation, the doctor admitted he had the wrong number. He wanted the delivery room at St. Mary's Hospital.

Hebron Colony Director To Speak At Church In Grifton This Evening

The Rev. Harold Katmann, achieved have been such that director of Hebron Colony, Hebron enjoys the endorsement of a Christian home for alcoholics of clinics, courts and churches. The meeting in Grifton is being sponsored by the Grifton-Ayden Christian Church, Grifton, N. C. at 8:00 p. m., tonight.

Rev. Katmann was born and raised in the Midwest. He graduated from Wheaton College with a B. A. and later from Faith Theological Seminary with a B. D. He has also done some further graduate study.

Hebron Colony was organized in 1946 by Dr. E. A. Dillard and was the first such home in the entire southeast and second in the nation. Since that day several thousand men have accepted the physical and spiritual help offered during their eight weeks stay. Of that number a very large percentage have gone on to live sober, useful, Christian lives. Every fall, over the Labor Day weekend hundreds of happy "grads" come back for homecoming. Because of this impact on the lives of once hopeless alcoholics Hebron has come to be known across the country as the "House of Miracles!" The treatment at Hebron is spiritual rather than medicinal and results

MIGs Forced Landing In Cuba

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Venezuelan transport plane returned Monday night after being forced to land in Cuba by two of the Fidel Castro regime's Russian-built MIG jet fighters.

The pilot and copilot said Cuban officials released them after brief questioning at the Camaguey airport in Cuba. The pilot quoted the Cubans as saying the forced landing had been a mistake.

The plane was returning from Miami, Fla., with cargo when the MIGs appeared.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carried its rally higher but some gains had been whittled away by the end of the afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.90 to 240.40 with industrials ahead 4.10, rails 1.10 and utilities 2.00. Trading lagged behind the 5.99-million-share pace of Monday's hectic session but the ticker tape trailed transactions almost to the opening bell.

Brokers agreed Monday's action was a selling climax but were being cautious about accepting it as the one that would put the market on a sustained upward course.

Gains ranged from fractions to about 2 points with a few wider movers.

President Kennedy's order for Marines to land in Thailand apparently had little effect on the market.

Steels were slightly higher following a report that the Kennedy administration has decided against endorsing antitrust legislation aimed at the steel industry.

IBM was up 6 points after having been ahead 7 1/2.

Mail order-retails, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, nonferrous metals, chemicals, oils and tobacco advanced. Motors and rails were mixed.

Sears Roebuck and Woolworth gained a point or so. Boeing added 1 1/2. AT&T advanced 2 1/4.

Du Pont up 1/2. Xerox up 2 and Polaroid up 5 were off a little from earlier highs.

Republic Steel was up U and Chrysler EM.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.27 to 632.47 after having been ahead 8.46 at 11 a.m.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. Government bonds gained.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices steady to 25 cents higher. Tops of 15.75-16.75 Wilson, Nantux, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, 16-16.50 Rocky Mount, 15.75-16.25 Smithfield, Spring Hope, 15.50-16.25 Pembroke, 16.25 Bethel, Rich Square, Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Murfreesboro, Robersonville, 16 Goldsboro, Greensboro, Albemarle, 15.75 Siler City, Lillington.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady: Steers and heifers choice 24.50-25.50; good 23-24, standards 19-23.50; beef cows 14.50-17, canners 13-15.50; light bulls 16-18; heavy bulls 17-20.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly stronger. Supplies fully adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: grade A large, whites 26 1/2-27 1/2; medium, whites 21-23; mostly 21-22; small, whites 17-18.

Ends 30-Year Police Career

J. W. Piver, Sr. retired from the Greenville Police Department yesterday after 30 years in law enforcement work.

Piver, who started as a motorcycle officer in Greenville, has served with the Kinston Police Department also.

J. W. PIVER, SR.

Piver, 65, held the rank of Captain.

For the past eight months the officer has been in charge of communications and supplies for the local department. Prior to that time he served as head of the uniformed patrol.

Supervisory officers at the department presented the retiring policeman with a $50 gift certificate.

He will now be engaged in the home building business.

Escape Charges Filed Against Six Convicts

Pitt County Prison officials disclosed today that six of the eleven convicts which escaped from the local camp May 7 have been charged with escape, and two of the six, are awaiting federal action in a South Carolina jail.

Capt. L. F. Dail, superintendent of the local camp said the six recaptured men will face trial on the escape charges. When returned to custody, the remaining five will also be tried on escape charges, he emphasized.

According to the prison officer, George B. Staples and Robert Picarski, picked up in Pitt County the day of the break, are still being held at the Pitt County detention unit, while Loyd Lave and Leroy Darden, taken into custody in South Carolina with a car stolen from

County Adding To Its Car Pool

Pitt County Monday advertised for bids on three 1962-model automobiles scheduled for use by caseworkers in the Pitt Department of Public Welfare.

The three cars would bring Pitt's car pool to a total of about 25 units, thus stretching the County Commissioners' current policy of adding county-owned transportation when budgeted travel allowances reach a higher cost than purchase and maintenance costs.

Sealed bids will be opened on three "new 1962 model fordor sedan American-made compact automobiles" at 10 a.m. Monday in the County Commissioners Room of the Pitt Courthouse in Greenville, according to the advertisement. Proposals will be received by County Auditor H. R. Gray until that time.

An additional factor influencing the Commissioners' decision, in late April, to purchase three units was the fact, reported by Welfare Director J. S. Grimes, that federal-state participation would offset 46 to 47 per cent of the purchase cost.

Specifications for the three vehicles are available in Gray's office in the courthouse.

Pierce Fellowship Club To Meet Wednesday

Members of the 40-plus-year-old John Pierce Fellowship Club are scheduled to gather at Camp Contentnea southwest of Ayden Wednesday for another annual session of hand-shaking, back-slapping and barbecue-munching.

J. Beverly Congleton of Stokes, this year's president of the club, is scheduled to preside at the annual business meeting that will follow the 1 p.m. outdoor, buffet-style lunch. Registration for the annual get-together begins at 10:30 a.m.

Traditionally an event when hard-running political candidates uncross their swords for a day of relaxation just before the Democratic Primary, this year's fellowship session relaxes a relatively inactive campaign during a lulling off-year.

A. F. Rowe of Ayden, secretary of the club, has notified all the club's members of Wednesday's meeting. Each year, the club's officers invite new memberships for ensuring annual meetings.

Other 1961-62 John Pierce officers include Woodrow W. Wooten of Falkland, vice president; and R. H. Worthington, treasurer.

Conducted at Camp Contentnea each spring since 1937, the John Pierce Fellowship dinner was inaugurated by John Pierce at Peele's Beach near Washington more than 40 years ago.

Convention Day Subsistence Pay

RALEIGH (AP) — Records show nine members of the State Highway Commission received state subsistence pay when they stayed in an Asheville hotel the night a Democratic party-fundraising dinner was held in Asheville.

The commission met in Asheville on Oct. 27. The Vance-Aycock dinner was held at Asheville's Grove Park Inn the night of Oct. 28, and Highway Commission Chairman Merrill Evans said the commissioners continued to work on highway matters until mid-afternoon the day of the dinner.

Hotel bills of several of the commissioners were considerably larger than the $12 a day the state paid.

Local Firm ...

(Continued from page 1) is under contract to Eastern Construction Co. of Greenville. The architectural drawings have been supervised by H. L. McLawhorn of Greensboro, who has designed and supervised construction of a number of dairy plants in the south and who is a specialist in this field, Webb said.

Holiday of Jamaica Stone will be used to front the building and brick construction will form the back and sides of the plant.

Carolina Dairy Products now employs 100 people in their distribution area, operating 55 trucks and working 45 routes. Ice cream production is in excess of a quarter of a million dollars annually.

The annual purchases of milk from producers in the area served is over $1 million annually.

Since the plant's opening in Pitt County in 1936, processing of milk has grown from 300 gallons daily to 10,000 gallons daily.

Recreation ...

J. S. Stevens, assistant director of the North Carolina Recreation Commission, also attended the meeting last night and supported figures contained in Graves' report, showing Greenville behind other comparable cities in North Carolina on the amount spent for recreation.

The average of 15 cities used in the comparison, which included Kinston, Rocky Mount, Wilson, New Bern and others, was $3.27 per capita. Greenville's expenditure is $2.11 per capita.

Funeral Today For Mrs. H. H. Bradham

FARMVILLE — Mrs. Rebecca Short Bradham, 54, wife of Herman H. Bradham, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville early Monday morning following an illness of three months.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Baptist Church in Farmville by her pastor, the Rev. Roy Silvers, assisted by the Rev. Don Bryant of Farmville and the Rev. E. W. Holmes of Wilson.

The body was taken from the Farmville Funeral Home to the church at 1 o'clock. Burial followed in the Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville.

Mrs. Bradham, a native of Rocky Mount, had resided in Farmville for 28 years. She was a member of the First Baptist Church. She attended Salem College and graduated from East Carolina College.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Frank L. Bradham of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Alex Jones of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Robert H. Maury of Annapolis, Md., and Mrs. Robert Daughtridge of Rocky Mount.

Five thousand visitors attend the Azalea Trail Festival in Mobile Ala., each year.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. R. S. Joyner

FARMVILLE — Mrs. Carroll Bowers Joyner, wife of Rhoderick S. Joyner, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville Monday following declining health of several months.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Farmville Funeral Home by her pastor, the Rev. Allen C. Lee, assisted by the Rev. E. S. Coats.

Burial followed in Forest Hill Cemetery in Farmville.

Mrs. Joyner moved to Farmville four years ago from Chicago and was a member of the Farmville Methodist Church. Besides her husband she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Charles W. Johnson of Charlotte.
