First Contingent Of U.S. Jets Reach Bangkok; Troops Arriving

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A dozen U.S. Air Force jets flew into Bangkok today as the spearhead of a new U. S. Southeast Asian command to help defend Thailand from any Communist thrust from Laos.

They were to be followed at dawn Wednesday (about 5 p.m. EST Wednesday) by 1,800 combat Marines to be landed at a Thai naval base south of Bangkok from units of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Gulf of Siam.

Military sources said C130 transport planes would be flown into Bangkok's Don Muang Airport to airlift the Marines.

The Royal Laotian government said in a communique from Vientiane that six pro-Red battalions had withdrawn from the border area around Houei Sai toward the Red Chinese frontier.

The Air Force also says that pilots can't maintain an acceptable level of efficiency in bombing through the infrequent training they get while on temporary assignment to other bases.

Lack Of Bombing Range May Result In Fighter Wing Leaving Goldsboro

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The News-Argus said today it has learned that the Air Force, frustrated in its efforts to find a bombing range in eastern North Carolina, may have to consider moving its largest unit from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base here.

The Air Force had selected a section of Lake Mattamuskeet for the range. The principal opponent of this was Rep. Herbert Bonner, D-N.C., who expressed fear the range would hurt wildlife.

The Air Force also says that pilots can't maintain an acceptable level of efficiency in bombing through the infrequent training they get while on temporary assignment to other bases.

Housing Authority Keeps Howard In Chairman Role

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Charles Howard last night was re-elected chairman of the Public Housing Authority as the group held its first annual meeting.

Howard, president of Greenville Tobacco Co., has served as chairman during the first year that the Housing Authority has been in existence.

The Authority also elected James E. Sutton as its vice chairman succeeding Dr. Earl Trevathan. Dr. Trevathan's one-year term on the authority has expired.

Another Govm't Aide Fired For Link To Estes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate pumped more juice into its investigation of the crackling Billie Sol Estes case today as another government aide—James T. Ralph—was fired for his connections with the free-wheeling financier.

The newspaper identified the unit involved as the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing. Three thousand of the base's 6,200 men are a part of the wing.

Astronaut Calm In Preparations

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—As blast-off time for his orbital flight nears, astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter is reported going about the business of preparation with the thoroughness of a test pilot eager to try out a new plane.

There has been no indication as to whether or not Dr. Trevathan will be reappointed to the Authority. Appointments are made by the mayor.

Housing Figures

The Public Housing Authority's annual report cited these facts from the 1960 U.S. Census of Housing:

1. There are 6,438 housing units in Greenville, of which 391 are vacant. Of the occupied units, 3,955 are white and 2,092 are Negro.

Action Taken By Ayden Board On Acquiring New Water Well

AYDEN—Construction of a new water well in Ayden and enforcement of an ordinance pertaining to sanitary requirements were principal items of business at Monday night's meeting of the Town Board of Commissioners.

The board took the action on a motion by Robert Harris, seconded by J. Will James, in view of the fact that only two of the town's four wells are pumping at maximum efficiency and that last summer there was indication that one of the primary wells might not be functioning properly.

Temperatures will average around 4 degrees above normal along the coast and up to 8 degrees above normal in west, during next five days. No important day to day change in temperatures. Rainfall will occur as widely scattered afternoon showers, and will be light.

Believes County Lines A Barrier To Development

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Are county lines a barrier to progress? Dr. Selz C. Mayo, head of the department of rural sociology at N.C. State College, says county lines are "a barrier of major significance to the development of our human resources and institutions, including local government itself."

Third 'Bang' Was One That Hurt

LONDON (AP)—Martin Butler, 3, walked up behind his mother Tuesday and said, "bang! bang! you're dead."

Simple Housewife Or Devious Red: What Is Janet Jagan Really Like?

Dowdy appearance of Janet Jagan, wife of British Guiana's Marxist premier, belies fact that she is the most controversial, powerful and potentially dangerous woman in the Caribbean. She is at her Georgetown, British Guiana, home with 6-year-old daughter, Nadira.

Is the wife of British Guiana's Marxist premier a diabolically clever mistress of communist intrigue? Or is she a simple housewife who has plunged into political seas far above her head? Betty Reef, Women's News Service special writer, tested the redness of Janet Jagan's soul and throws new light on this strange and curious woman. First of two articles:

By BETTY REEF
Women's News Service
GEORGETOWN, British Guiana — (WNS) — I've spent the better part of two puzzling days with a female political enigma named Janet Jagan, friend and admirer of Fidel Castro and wife of Dr. Cheddi Jagan, British Guiana's Marxist premier.

This is the Chicago girl who quit the United States and gave up American citizenship for political action in a steamy, undeveloped British colony on South America's north coast. Largely through her and her husband's efforts in the People's Progressive Party, which they founded and led, British Guiana is scheduled for early independence, despite the attack of strikes and riots in the Capital. I have no categorical answer to the question of whether Mrs. Jagan is a shrewd and devious Communist agent, a fuzzy leftist who will soon be an out-and-out tool of the Communists or a simple housewife used by an unstable, egomaniacal man she married and now being pushed out of his political and personal picture. But I can present the facts I found.

Whatever her motivation, Janet Rosenberg Jagan is the most controversial, potentially dangerous and politically powerful woman in the Caribbean area today.

Mrs. Jagan is widely admired for spearheading demonstrations in defiance of the British. She is considered an international rebel by many. Some hold her to be the real brains of the Jagan team and the power behind her husband's shaky hold on the government. (His PPP is the ruling party by a slim plurality.) The soft, slatternly woman who greeted me at beleaguered PPP headquarters scarcely does credit to her reputation. Her relaxed calm seems to stem as much from lack of imagination as from courage.

She appeared controlled and good-humored during the extensive interview, the first "press invasion" she has permitted since reporters swarmed in on her last August during the hotly contested election which kept her husband in power.

"Afraid? Why should I be?" she asked, smiling. "After all we've never been popular in Georgetown. Our support comes from the people in the country, on the sugar plantations. They want to come now with their cutlasses to protect us, but Dr. Jagan is holding them back. It would mean bloodshed in the street of Georgetown, and we are absolutely opposed to violence."

"The strikers here and the burning were the result of a mob artificially inflamed by irresponsible opposition party leaders," she said. Mobs had looted and burned a major section of the city. "We're still getting threats. By phone, by mail, in handbills and in shouts on the street, they say they will kill us."

"I think it never dawned on them that British troops would support us," she cried, with a defiant little giggle. Smiles, laughter, and that frequent, embarrassed but ingratiating giggle divide her comments. Behind thick glasses her myopic light blue-gray eyes are friendly. Her manner is informal and warm.

A barrette holds her light brown hair, now graying, in a long pony tail. Her rumpled, soiled cotton dress revealed the flabbiness of a once-lithe figure, and her jawline suggests the sag of middle age. At 42, she's not coy about telling her age, though vain enough to have tried contact lenses recently and to wear large dangling earrings.

She came home only briefly, say the Guianese, for a public display of party unity in support of her embattled husband, from whose side she has been conspicuously absent. Their rift is said to be personal, not political, with Janet a neglected wife.

The rumors are fed by certain facts. The Guianese were shocked when she did not run for office last summer. Though she had worked hard for four years as Minister of Labour, Health and Housing, Dr. Jagan did not re-appoint her to public office.

In conversation she calls her husband "Dr. Jagan," and refers to her 6-year-old daughter, Nadira, and her 12-year-old son, Joe, (nicknamed for Stalin, she has told friends, though he was officially named Cheddi for his father and Bradlaugh for a British Socialist), as "my children."

Dr. Cheddi Jagan was the best and busiest dentist in the country when he dropped his practice in 1957 "except to take care of my children's teeth," said

Mrs. Jagan. He charged low fees and did such excellent work on plates and dentures that he developed a huge practice. They made enough money to live in comfort while sending eight of his 10 brothers and sisters abroad for training and education. One is still in medical school in India. It was Dr. Jagan's gentle drill as much as his tough anti-colonial talk which won friends and influenced enough people for him to start a political party in 1950, Mrs. Jagan said.

I asked why she held no public office. "I'm too tired," she replied. "It's too much, trying to run the party, do a Minister's job and manage a home. I could hardly find time for my children."

Yet out of office, she spends even less time with them. They are cared for by Cheddi's pretty sister, Edith, either at "The Red House," the red-painted wooden Premier's residence on High Street, or at their grandmother's house on a sugar plantation in Port Mourant.

"Without Edith, none of this would be possible," Mrs. Jagan continued, waving her hand to cover the PPP offices. That wave also covered her rise to power and influence as the backbone of the People's Progressive Party, and innumerable trips away from home.

Most of her travels were party-plumping visits to poor sugar estate families in the country. Many carried her to meetings and parleys abroad (as far abroad as the Soviet Union, Guianese insist), and for repeated visits to Cuba, of whose leadership and political system she and her husband have been ardent advocates.

Janet Jagan is the kind of patient woman who gives the troubled a hearing. As a cabinet member, she said to set aside two days a week to listen to problems, giving help where possible and sympathy to the rest.

With Janet back in town, the troubled were again on her telephone. Some came in person to the shabby PPP building to report housebreaking, stone-throwing, threats and violence from anti-Jaganites and anti-East Indians, and even domestic quarrels and battles with neighbors.

Recent politics has sharpened the country's racial problem. Nearly 300,000 rural East Indian sugar cane workers (who gave Cheddi, their own former sugar estate boy, his small plurality) are in opposition to 200,000 Negroes and "colored" who consider him "just another coolie" with a power complex.

West Indians generally regard

Dr. Jagan as a fuzzy-minded, radical with a charming personality. Janet, they think, is the brain who furnishes direction. If she had been around, they say, her headstrong husband would never have rocked the boat three months before independence by imposing an austerity budget.

Yet Mrs. Jagan told me she saw nothing wrong with the government's controls on currency and valuables, and said she approved of the budget.

The telephone rang. "You say two men are beating you and your sister? Did you call the police? How long ago? Well, call them again and I'll try to send someone over," she said, and turned to me.

"It takes the police a long time to come. Did you hear about the lunatic who broke into my house at night last year? For 15 minutes while he held me by the wrist I tried to calm him by talking until the police arrived."

Not so long ago, this woman who speaks glibly enough to address leftist rallies and peace congresses was ill at ease in public. On a platform, she hesitated, repeated herself, shifted from foot to foot, while her political action buddies laughed behind their hands.

"She's a hard and thorough worker, the sort of person who gets jobs done and answers letters right away," said Mrs. Winifred Gaskin, the handsome Negress who was Mrs. Jagan's intimate for years and who established B.G.'s first women's political action group. "But she was hopeless as a speaker. She couldn't think of anything to say but 'We want action.' In fact, we used to call her We-want-action Jagan."

"A lot of people connect Janet with communism," added Mrs. Gaskin. "I don't. Look at her! Does she behave like a hardcore, Iron-willed, party-trained Communist? Does she have a forceful personality?"

"She's feminine and fun-loving. Her political patter parrots her husband's Marxist line. Every other word out of his mouth in the old days was Russia. Since it was soon after the war in which Russia was an ally against Nazism, this didn't bother us. Later when we saw what the Soviet Union was up to, we were disturbed by Cheddi's views."

"But Janet's usual conversation is not deep. She is not without ability. She has common sense and a native keenness plus a gift for intrigue, but she is not a great brain. She likes movies, dancing, and triya, and she has a giggle. "She's a warm-hearted woman with a social conscience," Miss Gaskin went on. "As a Jew and second-class citizen in the United States—Negroes are the third class—she ran into discrimination. I think it made her anti-white. That's why she married Cheddi."

"If she had married a man less fanatic than her husband and less power-hungry, I think she'd have become a keen social worker."

"He has never been considerate or tender, or even courteous, though he can be quite charming with other people. He never held her chair or opened a car door for her. With him she was soft-willed in any discussion, while he made his point even if it meant insulting her in front of friends.

"He rarely took her out, though she loves dancing and sports. He spent all his free time at trade union and political meetings. She was always welcome to come along so she did.

"Alone in an unfamiliar land, she went along with him. Success in their anti-colonial and political agitation gave her a sense of importance and power. "That's most of what she and Cheddi have in common—they both love power," said Mrs. Gaskin.

Camp Hardee Committee Members Meet At Camp

Members of the Camp Hardee Committee met with Coastal Carolina Council representatives Miss Kathy Creamer, Field Supervisor, and Miss Cathy Crumpler, District Advisor, at Hardee this week.

Final decision to remove three buildings which the committee had termed unusable was made.

In addition to giving consideration to various methods for correcting the bank erosion problem, members planned the location of a chain barrier to be placed near the entrance of the camp grounds. Parts for the chain barrier are being donated by Nick Simonowich, Greenville Parts and Metal Company. Such a barrier will eliminate much of the public traffic through the camp. Although Hardee will not be operated this summer, repairs to buildings and equipment will be attended to for the preservation of camp facilities for future use.

Camp Hardee, which earlier had been designated as a Brownlee Camp by the Coastal Carolina Council of Girl Scouts, has been temporarily closed by the Council due to the dangerous bank erosion near Goldsboro, originally planned as an Intermediate Girl Scout camp by the Council Camp Pretty Pond, near Wilmington, will offer Senior Girl Scouts a varied water sports program this summer.

Individuals and organizations wishing to give camperships to Camp Trailee or Camp Pretty Pond for use by local Girl Scouts may contact Mrs. Charles C. Skinner, PL 2-3016.

One-Act Plays To Be Held

When the curtain rises for an evening of one-act plays tomorrow night at East Carolina College, the audience will have an opportunity to "sit back and relax" while talented students at the college perform during two plays—"The Valiant" and "A Sunny Morning."

The performance, last in a series of entertainments at the college for this school year, has aroused much interest among students and townspeople. With all theatergoers invited to attend, the first play will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Austin Auditorium.

Dr. Ralph H. Rives of the college English Department is co-ordinator of the performances.

Minnie Gaster of Rt. 1, Elion College, directing "The Valiant," is well known for her acting in the leading role of "Auntie Mame" which was presented at the college during the winter quarter.

C. Thomas Jackson of Washington, N. C. has the title role of James Dyke, a condemned prisoner, in "The Valiant." A freshman student at East Carolina, Jackson shared honors in "Auntie Mame" when he played the role of Patrick Dennis, the nephew of Auntie Mame.

Four other experienced actors will share honors in "The Valiant" along with Jackson.

In "A Sunny Morning," Carmen A. V. Raynor of Greenville and Puerto Rico will perform as the leading Spanish lady, and Dr. Rives, as the Spanish lover.

Directing "A Sunny Morning" is Carole Barham of Seaboard who appeared in one of the leading roles of "South Pacific," a spring musical which was rated as a smash hit at the college in 1961. She was also a member of the cast in "The Lady's Not For Burning" in 1960.

Reception In Country Setting

Saint Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Memrie Taylor Mosier and Perry Joshua Lewis on Saturday, May 12, at 6:30 in the evening. The Rt. Rev. Thomas H. Wright, Bishop of the Diocese of Eastern North Carolina, and the Rev. John Drake were the officiating ministers.

Miss Mosier is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Willis Mosier of Greenhill Farms, Greenville. Mrs. Lewis Lupe of San Antonio, Texas is the mother of the bridegroom.

Nuptial music was presented by Miss Elizabeth White, soloist, and Mrs. Allison Hearne Moss, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of ivory peau de soie which featured a scooped neckline and calla sleeves. The back neckline of Watteau design complemented the cathedral train where peau de soie flowers and folds fell into the train. A raised mantilla of rosepoint lace was worn by the bride.

A sheaf of phalaenopsis tied with net was carried by the bride. She wore a wedding brooch of seed pearls and diamonds which belonged to her maternal grandmother and was worn by her mother and grandmother on their wedding day.

Miss Mollie Bennett Lupe of New York City, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Mrs. Douglas P. Murray of Lumberton was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Steven L. Wilkerson of Greensboro, Miss Catherine S. Potter of Beaufort, Miss Nancy Ann Hoet of Greenville and Miss Penelope W. Dunn of Winston-Salem.

John B. Lupe was his brother's best man.

Groomsmen were Donald Bruckmann of New York City, Schreiner Nelson of San Antonio, Texas, James Schulz of Evanston, Ill. and David Willis Mosier Jr. of Greenville, brother of the bride. William Hinnant Mosier, brother of the bride, was acolyte and cross-bearer. Ring-bearer was the bride's brother, M. E. Taylor Mosier.

Mrs. Mosier, mother of the bride, wore a pale-pink chiffon sheath with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Lupe, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of beige lace and chiffon with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble of black and white silk with black leather accessories. A black straw hat with black and white sash complemented the outfit.

Personals

Representing the Greenville Woman's Club, Mrs. W. C. Harris, Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, and Mrs. Dink James are attending the 60th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs May 16-18 at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Edna Craigmiles and two children of Newport, R. I. will spend three months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Flake, Rt. 1, Greenville.

Mrs. P. C. Kemp is a surgical patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Bake Sale
The VFW Auxiliary will have a bake sale at Overton's Super Market Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. Proceeds go for the building fund.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh and the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. The bridegroom is a graduate of Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., and Princeton University and is now associated with the investment brokerage firm of Lee Higginson and Company in New York City.

The couple will make their home at 1614 Charlotte Street, Anniston, Ala., until late August when they will return to New York.

Reception
Immediately following the Lewis-Mosier wedding ceremony, a reception was given at the bride's parents' home, Greenhill.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Sr. The receiving line, which formed in the drawing room, was composed of the parents of the bride, Mrs. Lewis Lupe, mother of the bridegroom, bride and bridegroom and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. K. Hinnant.

The Mosier home was decorated with arrangements of peonies, snapdragons, gladioli and roses in silver-urns. Guests were invited into the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Duff. Refreshments were also served on the terrace, which was lighted by candlelight and torches.

Assisting in the home were Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. Tyrus Wagner, Mrs. R. B. Lee, Mrs. James S. Ficklen, Mrs. W. E. Debnam, Mrs. Egbert Lloyd, Mrs. O. L. Joyner, Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mrs. C. C. Skinner and Miss Hennie Long.

Wedding Breakfast
On Saturday at half past noon, Miss Memrie Mosier and Mr. Perry J. Lewis were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Greenville Country Club.

Guests were greeted upon arrival by the hosts: Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stuart Ficklen, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bissette, Mr. and Mrs. James Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tebeau and Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Duff.

Open House
An open house for the Mosier-Lewis wedding party and out-of-town guests was held prior to the wedding breakfast Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Debnam, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nobles, Mr. and Mrs. Badger Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Waldrop were hosts at the Debnam home in Sheraton Place. Assisting the hostesses were Miss Betty Debnam, Miss Donna Bissette and Miss Esther Johnson.

Buffet Luncheon
Mr. and Mrs. John G. Clark Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Ficklen Jr. entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests for the Lewis-Mosier wedding at a buffet luncheon Friday at the Clark home on Orton Drive.

Guests were seated at round auxiliary tables set up throughout the Clark home. The tables were overlaid with cloths of pastel shades with center arrangements of spring flowers. Elsewhere in the home similar flower arrangements were used.

Newcomers Meet

The Greenville Newcomers Club met Thursday morning at the Cinderella Restaurant for cards and coffee followed by a dutch luncheon at noon.

One new member, Mrs. Ruby Brooks, formerly of Raleigh, was welcomed and introduced to the group by the membership chairman, Mrs. K. R. Bradbury.

Mrs. W. R. Brooks reminded the group of the bridge tournament being held at St. Raphael's on May 16.

Six tables of bridge were in play and after several progressions gifts for scoring were awarded to Mrs. I. G. Murphy, Mrs. R. T. Rogerson and Mrs. Janie J. Johnson.

Remedial Steps Now Up To States

With the civil rights proposal put aside by the Senate, that body can now turn its attention to other legislative matters after weeks of debate in Washington.

At the same time the states at which the measure was particularly aimed should give their attention to charges that state literacy tests are deliberately used to deny voting rights to some individuals.

The bill which would have established a sixth grade education as the only literacy requirement for voting in federal elections was aimed primarily at some 100 counties in the South where proponents of the measure asserted literacy laws are unfairly administered to deny voting rights. There can be no question of the rights of the individual states to set requirements for voting by the citizens, but neither can there be any question about the responsibility of the individual states to see that their voting laws are fairly administered to all citizens.

The states whose counties were named in the Senate charges of discrimination in connection with literacy requirements for voting should immediately investigate the matter carefully to eliminate any unfair administration of their state laws.

By its action in putting aside the proposed federal law concerning literacy tests for voting, the Senate in effect has upheld the states' rights to set voting requirements. The Senate has also recognized the fact that discrimination charges in voter registration are confined to isolated instances in some states. Elimination of the discriminatory practices which take place in some counties would also remove grounds for further efforts by some members of the Senate to have Congress adopt an unwise measure such as the proposed federal literacy test law.

The states, which through the long debate insisted that the federal government had no constitutional right to establish voting requirements, should now insist that its election officials see to it that no individual is unfairly denied the right to vote under the laws of their state.

Spooner's Creek Lures Wealthy

By CHARLES PARKER
Director North Carolina News Bureau, Guest Columnist

MILLIONAIRE BAIT — A place with the unlikely name of Spooner's Creek is putting out a passel of millionaire bait in Eastern North Carolina.

The baitmaster is a Pittsburgh lawyer named Sherman Rock who was introduced to North Carolina via the Cherry Point Marine Air Station in World War II, but that's not the reason he came to Carteret County to build what he describes as the largest privately owned boat harbor in America.

He went all up and down the East Coast looking for a location for a year round deluxe resort for the yacht trade. Of necessity it had to be on the Intra-coastal waterway, ice free in winter and unsweltering in summer. He backed up his judgment that he had found just such a place at Spooner's Creek on Bogue Sound five miles west of Morehead City, to the tune of around a million dollars—and says several million more are on the way for the five-year old project that was just opened to the public last fall and is still largely unpublicized.

Rates at the 12-unit guest house already built at Spooner's Creek, which the plans show as the predecessor to a 200-room hotel facing Bogue Sound, are $15 and $25 a day, without meals. His first customers were people weary of sleeping aboard their bluish yachts anchored in the 34-slip section already completed in the marina designed for expansion to accommodate over a hundred yachts. Plans also call for development of estates for year round living.

Already, Developer Rock says, there is nothing to compare with Spooner's Creek Marina this side of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

HEAD SHAKERS — Sherman Rock's neighbors in Morehead City and Atlantic Beach who have taken the trouble to go out and say Howdy are not unanimous that what he is doing with his money makes sense. Morehead's tourist economy is geared to the medium-priced motel room and $2 deluxe seafood dinner. Not many Moreheaders believe there are enough millionaires to pay Spooner's Creek prices. They aren't impressed with names like DuPont and Rockefeller cropping up on Spooner's Creek register. Those same names have been passing through the present Morehead Marina for several years without leaving much live green in North Carolina. Besides, Sherman Rock and his Yankee associates are pretty demanding. When they want something from Morehead stores, and find it out of stock, they insist it should be ordered pronto by telephone from the wholesalers. A lot of Eastern Carolina merchants aren't accustomed to doing business that briskly.

PLANT LOCATIONS — The people who patronize Spooner's Creek deluxe hotel and establish estates there are also the people who control location of new industries, says Sherman Rock, and tax laws being what they are, many a corporation executive is prone to establish a branch factory near a playground. It is happening like that in Florida, Rock asserts, why not in Eastern North Carolina? He knows that already several plants have been established in North Carolina because of the proximity of recreational attractions. For this reason alone, he believes the industry seekers out of the Governor's Office and C&D may have a special interest in Spooner's Creek.

FORESIGHT—Land on which the Spooner's Creek development is located is property purchased from members of the family of President Theodore Roosevelt. It was generally known that the Roosevelt family owned extensive ocean and sound-front acreage on Bogue Banks which is now being developed as Pine Knoll Shores, but it was not so well known that the Roosevelts made extensive investments on the mainland of Carteret County when such property was very cheap prior to World War I. The tract purchased by Sherman Rock and the associates includes acreage with ocean frontage on Bogue Banks. This will permit guests in his sound-side hotel and residents living on the shores of his land-locked harbor to speed boat across Bogue Sound to their private ocean beaches.

NEW ACCESS — Until this month, the road on Bogue Banks dead-ended at the west end. No more. A toll-free State ferry began operation May 1 from N. C. Highways 24 and 58 on the mainland to Emerald Isle beach. This opens up the west end of a 20-mile ocean drive on Bogue Banks. Development in the area has already anticipated installation of this ferry service. The theory is that where there is a ferry there will eventually be a bridge.

EXPANDING — Building on Atlantic Beach and development of Emerald Isle and other Bogue Bank beaches has been startling since Hurricane Hazel made a shambles of the banks in 1954. The number of motels has more than doubled. Several have swimming pools and prices to match. The big growth, however, has been in summer cottages. In Morehead City, additional deluxe motels have been added. Tony Scammon is doubling the size of his famous seafood restaurant to seat 800 diners. Outlying Morehead Billmore Hotel has a meeting room and banquet room to handle conventions up to 800 delegates.

This rapid expansion outmoded old U. S. Highway 70 Morehead's main street, and it is being planed from the intersection of N. C. 24 west of the city.

Learning To Take The Crises In Our Stride

The Southeast Asia affair illustrates, we think, a degree of new American maturity in our crisis-ridden world.

Ordering troops into Thailand, the sending of a task force to the troubled area, the possibilities (good and bad) haven't stirred up the public as have comparable gestures of the recent past.

Out of Washington there were no rallying calls or boasts or pronouncements heralding the move. No glinty-eyed commander has told the world "we'll clobber anything and anybody that is looking for a fight".

There is no great tension on the home front. Demobilization of reserves called up several months ago is scheduled to proceed as planned, no frantic measures to accommodate what may be presumed to have been an unexpected deployment of available military forces, supplies and equipment.

The people aren't worked up about it . . . as though the country was becoming conditioned to uncertainties of the times and felt a confidence in being able to cope with just about anything that came along.

Recognition that such measures as those taken in Lebanon, South Viet Nam, and now Thailand, are a part of the order of things, is a good sign.

Americans were amply warned during the presidency of Harry Truman that there was no end in sight to the era of distrust and friction and unrest on a global scale. The reminder was again heard during the Eisenhower administration, with the added thought that generations might pass before we could look for a true relaxing of tensions.

But on reflection, even this glum prospect is a relatively cheerful one. The world seems to have always had its rivals, factions, ambitious rulers, would-be conquerors and the like. So, if we can get through the next 80 years, there is something to look forward to.

Sorry Story Of Inadequacies

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Algerian mystery is not how the Secret Army Organization is able to kill Moslems in bunches every day but why French President de Gaulle has not used the French army to smash the assassins.

It raises an unpleasant question about De Gaulle who takes such a strongman role against the Russians that he has refused even to join the United States in discussing a Berlin settlement with them.

How could he hope to cope with the gigantic Russian military power if he lacks the ability, or the will, to crush the comparatively small group of organized murderers in Algeria?

The answer is simple enough: He couldn't stop the Russians for five minutes without American help, although this might not be guessed from his attitude toward American efforts with Russia.

Through months of murder, committed on the public streets, the French army in Algeria has arrested a few leaders of the secret army but has never made any wholesale effort to crush it.

It has stood by while the murderers piled up. In these months, while the secret assassins slaughtered their people, the Moslems refrained from fighting back. They feared it would eventually involve them with the French army and destroy their hopes of independence.

They finally reached the breaking point Monday after scores of their women had been shot down, and cut loose.

Until last March in Algeria, Moslem nationalists fought the French more than seven years for their independence.

In 1958 when De Gaulle's predecessors in office headed toward a settlement with the Moslems, the regular army joined the settlers in revolt against the government in Paris.

The thought of losing Algeria, the last big remnant of French colonialism, seemed too overwhelming for the French troops who had seen their empire cut away from Lebanon, Syria, Tunisia, Morocco, and Indochina.

It was after this that De Gaulle took over. In time, last March, he worked out a settlement with the Moslems, which was intended to keep Algerian links with France but let the Algerians choose independence.

After the history of their years of revolt — and the fact that they outnumbered the European settlers 9 to 1 — there was no doubt the Moslems would choose independence.

The decision was to be made in a referendum about next September. The secret army, which had already turned Algeria into its own private slaughterhouse, redoubled its efforts.

Any head of a competent state might be expected to act against organized murder. De Gaulle's reluctance to do so doesn't speak well for the ability of the French government, under him or someone else, to control its destiny.

It has been said he fears that an attempt to use French troops against their countrymen among the assassins might cause an army revolt on behalf of the settlers who don't want the Moslems to run the country.

But this is one more example in a sorry history of French inadequacies, both at home and in its former colonies. For example: the endless succession of French governments since the

WHY GROW OLD?

Why should we grow old? What makes people old? Doctors have many answers to questions such as these. There can be no doubt that certain deteriorations take place within the human structure as the years pass, producing gray hair and feeble knees, trembling hands, stiff joints, dull ears, and eyes that have lost much of their vision.

But there is undoubtedly a psychological aspect to the situation also. We cannot stay young simply by determining that we will be young, whether or no, but certainly we can make ourselves old by dwelling too much on our falling powers. Those who believe in the sovereignty of God do not doubt but that the moment of their departure from earth is determined and arranged by God, but how we are going to live before that time arrives is something that is largely up to us. If we eat too much, worry too much, long to have people wait on us, and give in on all occasions to irritation and anger, we may expect to grow old prematurely. If we strive to live a useful life, continue our activity to the very limit of its reasonable bounds, take an interest in our fellows, and love all men, we may expect to live longer.

A man was telling recently about his father who lived to be a hundred. "And did he die of old age?" someone asked. "Oh, no," was the reply, "he fell out of an apple tree."

Your Lack Of Confidence—

By HENRY HOWARD

Still The Best We've Got

The American Association for the United Nations continually circulates information derived from various surveys in an effort to stimulate favorable public opinion in behalf of the UN's mission.

Among latest attempts at this sort of thing is a fragmentary compilation of two opinion polls, one in California, another in New Jersey. The two are compared, with an interesting result, with the latest nationwide Gallup poll on the subject.

Clark M. Eichelberger, executive director of AAUN, says the information is circulated "for those who wish to spike the rumors that the vociferous right wing elements are passing out as truths about the United Nations."

William E. Widnall, New Jersey Republican congressman, asked his constituents questions that included these three:

"Do you regard the UN as the best hope for maintaining world peace?" Answers: yes, 83.95 percent; no, 13.55 percent; no opinion, 2.5 percent.

"Do you believe the UN has been effective in maintaining a better understanding between nations in the past?" Answers: yes, 79.01 percent; no, 16.05 percent; no opinion, 4.94 percent.

"Do you believe the purpose of world peace could be achieved by strengthening the UN?" Answers: yes, 81.84 percent; no, 12.5 percent; no opinion, 6.02 percent.

California Democrat Rep. James Roosevelt asked these two in his West Coast district:

"Do you think the UN offers the best hope of keeping world peace?" Answers: yes, 84.8 percent; no, 15.2 percent.

"Do you think further strengthening of the UN would help advance the cause of world peace?" Answers: yes, 87.6 percent; no, 12.4 percent.

Eichelberger compared the congressmen's samplings with the Gallup survey that showed 90 percent favored the United States' maintaining its UN membership. Eighty-three percent felt it "very important" that the U. S. try to make the UN's mission successful. In addition, 78 percent thought the UN is doing a "good or fair job" in trying to solve world problems.

What all this evidence is supposed to mean is that the American people in the operation of the United Nations. That the AAUN strives to publicize favorable public opinion indicates real opposition exists among the confident public.

It's quite likely that the average man-on-street actually knows very little about the daily routine inside UN headquarters. He probably realizes that the business of hearing and seeking to solve international problems is one of the toughest jobs.

He generally contents himself with the knowledge that the giant United Nations building in New York was constructed at a cost of about $67 million (financed by a $65 million U. S. interest-free loan); that the 1961 operating budget was nearly $73 million; and that the UN membership now stands at 165, including names of countries he'd never before heard of.

With this understanding, skippy as it is, the average man still realizes that, whatever the UN is not, it is the best of its sort we've got.

Steady Flow Of Business Books

By ELMER ROESSNER

The tide of business books continues unabated. Almost every publishing house has a business books division now. Some have hundreds of titles. Many authors have been enriched.

Surely, many of these books are bought by aspiring young men, second vice presidents and other beavers who, for about the price of a fifth of bourbon, hope to find the formula for success. Surely, some do read and succeed.

But there are other buyers of these books: public libraries; colleges; company libraries, and corporations who are determined that their men must have all the book-learning available.

Among the individuals who buy these books, many must learn something; one new learned fact may be worth ten times the cost of a book. LAW OF PERCENTAGES

Furthermore, the law of percentages is working for the authors and the publishers. Suppose, for instance, a writer types out a book called "How to Succeed in Business by Just 1/2 Trying," and sells 100,000 copies.

The law of averages dictates that of every 100,000 males who can read, at least 100 will eventually achieve some economic superiority, that at least 10 will become vice presidents (I am a vice president, aren't I?) and that at least one will become president of U. S. Steel or some equally well-known corporation.

Thus the very law of averages nourished the idea that reading a business book will improve one's chances of success.

THE GOOD AND THE DULL

The tide of new business books beats steadily on the shores of this column. Stacked up, they wait for me. I keep telling myself that some day I will catch up with them.

And then, on days like today, when I worm into them, I come out the other side exhausted.

Some are obviously ghosted to make some stuffed shirt appear even more stuffed. Some are written by authors skilled in convincing beavers that they can be lions. And others are hypnotic sand thrown into the eyes of readers.

For example, a new book talks about "Creative Thinking" and discusses "two fundamental free-association processes" thusly:

"There is an unstructured one wherein the mind simply starts wherever it happens to be at a given moment, then drifts along freely, as in our opening paragraph, until it gets somewhere—This is one that underlies such CT techniques as Brainstorming and the Catalogue Technique; i. e., it is what explains these others, what makes them work."

SELF-HYPNOSIS?

This is typical of a number of books that seem to generate a sort of self-hypnosis which leaves the reader, after the final chapter, to feel that he is charged with whatever it is he wants to be charged with to become a corporation dynamo.

Judd Will Be Heard

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Few members of the House of Representatives ever build a national following or can claim a national reputation. The House mirror's the nation and achieves it by having a variety of members, some educated, others dull; some interested in certain problems, others not interested in their own election. Each represents a comparatively small area and a small part of the total population. The device for forming the House of Representatives was designed to bring these persons close to the people.

Dr. Walter Judd halls from Minnesota but his experience has been enormous. He has been a Protestant medical missionary in China, devoted to the Chinese people. The Communists imprisoned him, but he was repatriated by the Japanese. Since returning to the United States, Dr. Judd has given up his medical practice and has devoted himself to politics. One of the country's most brilliant speakers, he has travelled over the land, telling the story of China, of the Communists and of the need for the United States to defend itself against a conspiracy of conquest.

His first-hand account of what the Communists have done in China has had no better reporter. He has been elected to the House of Representatives 10 times, serving for 20 years and the probability is that, with great effort, he could be elected again. His district has been reapportioned in an outrageous manner with the object of eliminating Dr. Judd.

Of Dr. Judd has said: "I counted in a new district I spent most of my time just running for office, but that would deny me the opportunity to do the kind of thing for which I entered political life. I left the medical profession for politics in order to work at ideas, both domestic and international, which I considered essential for a strong and sound America in a world of peace. Under this new situation, I must now leave politics in order to continue working for the same purposes and ideas."

Perhaps the politicians of the Minnesota-Legislature do not appreciate that their state is honored by such a Representative as Walter Judd, whose reputation is international and whose standing in the Congress exceeds the size of his district or the function of his office.

Few men are prophets among their own people and it is likely that by his constituency Dr. Judd is the greatest Republican politician. In him, they have a profound thinker, a leader in the intellectual renaissance of this country, a person of such experience as few Americans have had. His departure from the House of Representatives will be a loss to the United States.

One of the weaknesses of our relations with the Far East is that since the 1930's, our government has eschewed counsel with those who have long lived in Far Eastern countries and who have been close to the peoples of those lands. "The Old China Hand," for instance, was regarded so unfavorably during the Roosevelt Administration that a wealth of experience was lost.

The small fry who were accepted as experts proved their worth by believing that the Chinese Communists were "Agrarian Reformers," as stupid a phrase as the description of Fidel Castro as a Democratic Revolutionary.

Dr. Walter Judd went into the Congress where he could not be ignored. He took to the lecture platform. He forced the truth about China into the open and his witnessing to the truth forced the liars and hypocrites to flee before him.

The medical missionary was, in my days in the Far East, a beloved figure, for he not only preached a doctrine of love and devotion but he healed the sick and brought comfort into families in despair and hopelessness.

I have known such missionaries living in outposts, without the comforts which we, in this country, regard as so essential. I have seen them deliberately go into plague areas, among those suffering from smallpox and from cholera, to do their work of mercy.

Boat Owners Warned To Meet Regulations

Boat owners were warned to keep abreast of state and federal boating laws today by Pitt County Wildlife Protector J. O. Teel who said everything aboard a boat should be in proper legal order before the unit is placed in the water to be used.

Teel, urging compliance with both state and federal laws, said boat operators will be prosecuted if they do not comply with these rules.

Only Coast Guard Approvable

livesaving devices will be considered as legal equipment, the officer explained, "with citations being issued to those not using proper equipment."

"State and federal laws are explicit about boat numbers," Teel added, and citations will be issued to operators of improperly numbered boats.

The number assigned to the boat and no other is required to be attached to the bow and must be visible and clearly legible.

Demos Begin Arrive At Site

RALEIGH (AP) — The vanguard of Tar Heel Democrats began arriving today for the biennial state convention which opens at noon Thursday.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, will serve as temporary convention chairman and deliver the keynote address. Gov. Sanford also will address the delegates.

Secretary of State Thad Eure is expected to be named permanent convention chairman. Registration begins this afternoon at the Hotel Sir Walter. About 3,000 or more delegates are expected for the convention which will be called to order by State Democratic Chairman Bert Bennett Jr.

Informal caucuses will be held tonight by delegations from many counties and congressional districts to lay the groundwork for Thursday's meetings.

The formal congressional district caucuses are slated for 10 a.m. Thursday. At that time delegates will gather in 11 meeting places to choose members of the State Democratic Executive Committee and other party committees.

Will Confer On Flood Study

AYDEN—Within the next few weeks, representatives of the Engineering Division of the U. S. Army Engineering District headquarters in Wilmington will confer with Ayden officials on a flood plain study.

Town Manager Cleveland Paylor had written requesting the study several months ago. He pointed out that Ayden is located on such flat land, that water takes some time to drain off.

Attending the conference will be a representative of the engineers, a representative of the N. C. Dept. of Water Resources and the Ayden officials. The visiting representatives will seek to gain a better understanding of the local problem and assist in preparation of a formal application for a flood plain study.

Water Safety Demonstration

A water safety demonstration will be held Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock in the East Carolina College Pool, according to Dr. Ray Martinez of the ECC faculty.

The demonstration of water safety procedures will be given by Dr. Martinez's aquatics class as a class project.

Varied methods of safety in and around water, such as pools, lakes, and rivers, will be demonstrated. Small-craft safety will also be included on the hour-long program.

There is no admission to the program and the public is urged to attend.

Light Damage In Traffic Mishap

An estimated $100 damage resulted yesterday when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Elm and 14th Sts. about 7:13 p.m.

Investigators, who made no charges, identified the drivers involved as James Harvey Butler, 21, of Wilmington and Donna Peterson of 1610 Longwood Drive.

Damage to the Butler vehicle was set at $150 while damage to the Peterson car was estimated to be $40.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 33
At the Duke of Albany Inn, Hugh Spencer's stallion and Katie Dale's mare had been saddled, boxes had been tied to the broad back of the pack horse, and the Simpson brothers were sitting on the carriage box.

Katie was inside, ministering to her father who apparently had been stabbed during the raid on H. M. S. Phoenix.

"Katie," said Hugh, "you'll ride with him in the carriage. Benly, take her mare." He slammed the carriage door, mounted Toby, and signaling to the Simpsons led the way out of the courtyard.

When they reached the road block in New Jersey, Hugh noted that the troops appeared to be relaxed. Howe's capture of Philadelphia was still influencing British thinking, and Hugh intended to take full advantage of the enemy's joviality.

A sergeant major stepped into the center of the road, and when he held up his hand, Hugh halted obligingly. "This is Lieutenant Carruthers' station I believe?"

"Yes, sir." The soldier didn't move. "I'm carrying a personal message for the lieutenant."

"I'll fetch him, sir." Lieutenant Carruthers came out of the largest of the huts and it was obvious that, although it was only midday, he had been drinking.

Hugh went to him quickly and introduced himself. "I dined with your father a few nights before sailing back to the colonies," he said glibly, "and I promised I'd give you his love."

The young officer blinked in surprise. "Then he's forgiven me for running up those gambling debts?"

"Lord Bournemouth isn't one to carry a grudge," Hugh replied, improvising suavely. "Carruthers laughed savagely. 'You don't know him. He expects perfection from his sons. Cedric will inherit the title, so I suppose it's fair enough for him to toe the mark, but I don't see why the rest of us must behave like angels.'"

"His Lordship is very fond of you, Lieutenant. That's all I know."

The odor of brandy was strong on Carruthers' breath as he leaned closer to Hugh and murmured, "If that's true then perhaps I'll be relieved of duty at this dismal outpost. He was responsible for my transfer here after I'd had a particularly bad streak of luck at the gambling tables, and I've been afraid he was using his influence to keep me here until the end of the war. You're quite sure he sounded friendly, Mr. Spencer?"

"So sure that I've traveled out of my way to give you my message," Hugh's smile was reassuring, and he refrained from saying that, if a superior saw the lieutenant in an intoxicated state while he was on duty, he would be dismissed from the army. Eventually Carruthers would be caught, so Hugh added truthfully, "I think you can count on spending the winter in Philadelphia or New York."

"That's the best news I've heard in months. We'll celebrate it together. I can offer you much in the way of hospitality. Mr. Spencer, but I hope you'll share a cup with me."

"I wish I could afford the time," Hugh said. "But I'm anxious to reach Philadelphia. I own considerable property there, and I want to see how much the rebels damaged and stole."

The lieutenant sighed. "As soon as I put my affairs in order," Hugh declared, "I intend to write Lord Bournemouth and tell him I've enjoyed the pleasure of seeing you. Perhaps you'll be good enough to conduct the inspection yourself so my party and I can resume our journey."

"It's the least I can do for a friend," Hugh took his arm and they walked slowly toward the carriage. The Simpsons and Benly looked relieved, and Hugh could see Katie peering out of the carriage window.

"You have the necessary travel passes, of course," Carruthers' voice was thick. "Hugh forced a laugh. 'My dear fellow, they aren't necessary any longer. Now that we occupy both New York and Philadelphia, travel between the cities is unrestricted.'"

"I haven't received any orders telling me of a change in regulations," the lieutenant frowned, then shrugged. "Headquarters never sends me orders promptly. Sometimes I think they've forgotten I exist."

"You'll enjoy a change of scenery soon," Hugh said with conviction. "That's my secretary, Flaherty, and those men on the box are my servants, of course." Carruthers ignored the trio and let Hugh guide him to the carriage.

"My father," Hugh said, as he opened the door on August's side of the coach and gestured toward the unconscious man, "celebrated Sir William's capture of Philadelphia a trifle too enthusiastically last night."

"I envy you. I wish I had that sort of father," Carruthers caught sight of Katie and his interest quickened. "Who have we here?"

Hugh winked at him. "I've been alone for months," Carruthers said unhappily. "Come out, sweetheart, and let the lieutenant see you." Hugh simulated the callousness that members of the gentry habitually displayed in their dealings with courtesans.

Katie didn't know what was in his mind, but realized she was required to play a part, so she climbed down to the ground and walked around the carriage to the two men, her hips swaying.

Hugh put an arm around her waist and drew her to him roughly. "She makes it easier for me to tolerate the barbarian colonial life, don't you, sweetheart?"

Katie's coarse giggle was so completely in keeping with her role that it startled him. Carruthers moistened his lips. "Will she stay in Philadelphia with you, Mr. Spencer?"

It was impossible to ignore the officer's broad hint, and Hugh decided not to take any chances. "For the present," he said, "we have a satisfactory arrangement." Carruthers' bleary eyes gleamed. "I'd like to return your kindness with a word of warning. Sir William is very fond of the ladies, but he insists that they must be ladies. Your doxy will cause you considerable embarrassment, and if I know General Howe, he won't forgive your indiscretion."

"Thank you, I'll remember your advice," Hugh was growing increasingly restless. "I can solve your problem for you," Carruthers smiled lasciviously. "I'll gladly take the wench off your hands."

Hugh controlled himself with an effort. "You've given me an idea," he said quietly. "I promised to take her to Philadelphia, and frankly, I'm afraid to face her anger if I don't live up to my word. But I'll be even more candid and admit that I've wondered how to get rid of her."

Carruthers' smile became broader. "I'm sure you'll be transferred in another week or two at the most, so I can send her here to console you during your last days in this lonely wilderness," Hugh held out his hand.

The lieutenant grasped it enthusiastically, then turned to the men who were guarding the gate that blocked the road. "Remove the barrier for my friend," he shouted.

Hugh tipped his hat as he rode past the sentries, and Carruthers, weaving unsteadily on his feet, tried to catch a last glimpse of the girl in the coach.

"The British will be searching for a red-haired wench who looks like a troll, so you will be our decoy." It is Hugh's news for Katie. Continue the story tomorrow.

Student Elections At Farmville High

By SANDRA ALLEN
FARMVILLE — Highlighting the annual meetings of the current school term for five Farmville High School student organizations were annual officers elections.

Within recent days, the Science Club, the local Future Teachers of America chapter, the Farmville Future Business Leaders of America and the Key Club and Keyettes named 1962-63 officers. In the Science Club, Bobby Fisher was re-elected president. Serving with him will be Melvin Gay, vice president; Nancy Winstead, secretary; Dall Harris, treasurer; and Ernie Petteway, reporter.

Officers in the Future Teachers of America Club for next year are Dottie Newton, president; Frances Thorne, vice president; Charlene Edwards, secretary-treasurer; and Mary Lamar Simpson, program chairman.

The Future Business Leaders of America elected Chester Ellis, president; Mary Avery, vice president; Linda Mosley, secretary; Sandra Windom, treasurer; Anne Letchworth, historian; and Beeky Young, reporter.

Mary Avery will preside over the Keyettes as president for the next school year. Vice president will be Dottie Newton; other officers are Irene Baker, secretary; Louise Speight, treasurer; Julia Jones and Sondra Windom, program chairmen; Su-Su Dixon and Marion Allen, song leaders.

The Key Club members elected Bobby Bass to serve as their next year's president. Melvin Gay, vice president; Ernie Petteway, secretary; and Jimmy Dilda, treasurer; are the other officers elected.

Spring Concert
A Spring Concert was presented by the high school band and glee club Friday night, May 4.

The band, conducted by W. A. Glasgow, began the program by playing "Flashing Sabres March." This was followed by the playing of "Minuet," "Apple Valley Overture," "Little Suite for Band" (in three parts, prelude, ballad and festival), "Witch Doctor," "Linda Muler," and "American Heroes March."

Marion Allen, Julia Rives, Brenda and Peggy Moyer and Phyllis Corbett sang "The Loveliest Night of the Year," followed by the Girls' Chorus which sang "Open the Gates of the Temple." The entire Glee Club continued the program with the singing of "The Sound of Music," "Magic Moments," "Climbin' Up the Mountain," (a capella), "Autumn Leaves," "Ole Mar River," and "Brother James Air." The program was concluded with the singing of "Nation's Prayer."

Mrs. Lehman Holmes directed the Glee Club.

Honor Students
Five Farmville High students were included on Principal Sam D. Bundy's honor roll announced at the close of the fifth six-week grading period.

Receiving grades of A on all academic work were Jean Allen, a senior; Louise Speight, junior; Douglas Joyner and Carol Blackley, sophomores; and Mary Lamar Simpson, a freshman.

Twenty-three students received grades of A on at least half their courses and no grade less than B to qualify for the Principal's List. They were:

Seniors Kay Bell and Jimmy Everett Jr.

Juniors Sondra Windom, Irene Baker and Rebecca Young.

Sophomores Betsy Allen, Evelyn Andrews, Judy Bass, Dall Harris, Judith Joyner, Margaret Mazingo, Nancy Winstead, Jimmy Dilda, Ernest Petteway, James Taylor, Nick Moore and Robert Grant.

Freshmen Betty Ruth Dunn, Frances Thorne, Ruth Ann Wooten, Paul Allen, J. P. Burnette and Cathy Walston.

'Roman Holiday'
Farmville High juniors escorted the graduating class of 1962 on a "Roman Holiday" for the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

Junior Class President Kenneth Dilda presided at the 6:30 p.m. Roman-style banquet. After his official welcome to the seniors and guests, John Owens, the seniors' president, formally responded in behalf of his classmates.

Roman heralds Brenda and Peggy Moyer sang "Goodbye to Roma" before Principal Sam D. Bundy entertained the group with a humorous discussion of "Nero Fiddles While Rome Burns."

More heralds, Marian Allen, Julia Rives and Phyllis Corbett sang "Three Coins in the Fountain" to set the stage for personality skills entitled: "Thumbs Up — Thumbs Down," by Sandra Bass, a senior, English instructor Mrs. Evelyn Joyner then discussed values in life with an address to the group entitled: "Render Unto Caesar."

Characteristic gifts were presented to Senior Class members by the juniors and the heralds concluded the banquet with "The Loveliest Night of the Year."

Following the banquet, the prom, held in the gymnasium, began at 9 p.m. In accordance with the theme, "Roman Holiday," the gym was decorated to resemble a Roman courtyard. The "Melodaires" of Fremont furnished dance rhythms.

Highlighting the prom was the traditional figure dance featuring class officers of the juniors and seniors with their dates. As each couple was announced, they took their places on the floor to form a giant "J.S."

Following the dance, a late movie—"Where the Boys Are"—was provided at the local theater. At 3:30 a.m., after the show, some went to various houses for an early breakfast, some called it a day and some departed for a weekend at the beach.

Two junior girls, Nancy Thomas and Irene Baker have been selected by the Daughters of the American Revolution chapter in Farmville to attend Girls' State.

Scheduled for June 17-22, the annual event will be held, as in the past, on the campus of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

During the week, Nancy and Irene will be participating in a program designed to teach by experience the operation of a parliamentary-type government.

Reflecting On SPORTS

By George Bryant

Little Leagues Open

The 1962 Little League season in Greenville opened today with both leagues taking to the field. In the Tar Heel League at Elm Street Park the Elks were to take on the Exchange team and in the North State League at Guy Smith Stadium the Lions were to play Texaco.

This opening day begins a season which will run until July 7 and provide 180 boys on Greenville Little League teams with a great deal of fun and competition. The boys will learn how to get along with others and most of all they should learn what competition means and what good sportsmanship is.

The local Little Leagues were first begun in the spring of 1951 with six teams and one division. Since that time the interest has grown so fast that the size of the Greenville program has doubled. There are now 12 teams and two leagues, the North State and the Tar Heel. The teams are made up of boys 9-12 years of age with 15 players on each team.

When the program was first organized here, the city officials passed a resolution letting the Little Leagues use the facilities at Elm Street Recreation Center as long as the leagues kept up the field it was grown up and not fit to play on.

With the volunteer help of parents and supporters—some donating money, some time, and some equipment—the Elm Street Park Little League field took shape with dugouts, bleachers, concession stand and all the other necessary things for a ball park. Volunteer labor each spring kept the facilities up and this year the first major repairs were necessary. The original dugouts were of wood, but they were replaced this spring with cement block structures which should last a good many years.

The Guy Smith Park was built in 1959 the same way as the Elm Street Park and was first used during the 1960 season. The addition was necessary due to rapid expansion of the program.

The Leagues are operated by the parents and friends of Little League. According to W. C. James, supervisor of the local program, the leagues are able to raise the necessary funds to keep the program in operation. The parents, sponsors and an annual supper are the main means of financial support.

All of the coaches and managers work on a volunteer basis and to watch them at practice you would think they were being paid a top salary to coach the team. The six original teams were Exchange, Moose, Jaycees, Kiwanis, Elks and Lions. The six additional teams are sponsored by Security Life, Texaco, Optimist, Coca Cola, Pepsi Cola, and Greenville Tobacco Company.

This year the annual supper is scheduled for May 23 across from Elm Street Park. The players have been selling tickets for several weeks now and the boy in each league that sells the most tickets gets a prize.

Taking everything into consideration we feel the Little League program is a good one that plays a big part in a growing boy's life. Greenville is very fortunate to have as fine a program as it does and one which can take care of as many boys. And for those boys who do not make a Little League team there is a recreation department program in which all those that wish to take part can.

GCC Tourney In Semifinals

The Greenville Golf and Country Club match play tournament has progressed to the semifinals for all six flights in the men's division.

However, one quarterfinal match was scheduled to be played today in the championship flight. That match will consist of Simon Moye and Jim Mallory.

The winner of the Moye-Mallory match will then play Joe Exum who advanced to the semifinals by defeating Ray Masten, Harry Rainey and George Lautares. In the other championship flight match Ben Harrison and Er-cell Webb will compete for a berth in the finals.

Harrison reached the semifinals by defeating Ed Harris, Billy Davenport and Reynolds May. Webb moved up by downing Harry Coleman, Jack Gates and Wally Howard.

Of those who are still in the running at the present time in the championship match Moye and Webb are previous champions. However, the outcome of today's match could leave Webb as the only previous winner in the semifinals.

Other previous winners of the club tournament are Dallas Clark, 1960, Bo Farley, 1956 and 1959, Reynolds May, 1940, 1949, and 1952 and six time champion W. L. Allen. Don Conley, who won the event in 1957 and 1961, was unable to defend his title this year because he is in the service.

In the semifinals of the first flight are Joe Harvey who will play Allen and Carl Pierce who will take on Henry Coleman.

In the second flight semifinals Troy Riddle will play Louis Phelps and Paul Julian is matched against the winner of the Bob Lang and D. Vincent quarterfinal match.

Don Hays and N. M. Jorgensen will play in one semifinal match of the third flight and Lacy Harrell and Erskine Duff will meet in the other match.

The fourth flight semifinals are Ed Warren and P. K. Andersen and Barney Barrett and Bob Messner.

In the fifth flight Billy Jenkins will meet C. L. Lupton and Andy Dunn will play Julian White in the other match.

In the Junior Club tournament championship flight Burney Warren will play Sonny Parkinson and Jim Moye will meet Wally Howard in the semifinals. First flight semifinals are Eddie Harrington and Burney Morris and Tom Duncan and Rick Sauve.

Playing in the semifinals of the boys second flight were Bobby Elks and Van Harrington and Gregg Hardy and Charles Boyd. Elks and Hardy won their semifinal matches and will meet in the second flight final.

Semifinalists in the third flight are Edgar Exum and Billy Respass and Carl Pierce who will play the winner of the Frank Longino and Robert Underwood match.

Prep Baseball Playoffs Set

The Northeastern Conference baseball playoffs between the two divisions were scheduled to begin at Guy Smith Stadium Thursday, but due to a tie in the southern division the two out of three game series will not begin before Friday.

However, Thursday afternoon at 3:30 Kinston and New Bern will play at Guy Smith Stadium to break the southern division tie.

On Friday the playoffs for the conference championship will begin with Greenville's Rose High Phantoms, northern division winner, taking on the winner of the Kinston-New Bern contest.

Pfeiffer Wins CC Baseball

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP) — A 10-3 victory over Elon Tuesday clinched the Carolinas Conference baseball title for Pfeiffer.

The victory gave Pfeiffer a 15-3 record with one game to play. Lenoir Rhyne has finished the season with a 12-4 record. Pfeiffer has a 24-11 over-all record.

Gary Stealey, who allowed Elon only four hits, was credited with the victory.

Giants Whipped St. Louis 6-3

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

That wind tunnel known as Candlestick Park has turned into a Garden of Eden for the San Francisco Giants.

Continuing the amazing run that has catapulted them to the top perch in the National League, the Giants hopped on Curt Simmons and whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 Tuesday night for their 16th victory in the last 19 games.

It also was the ninth consecutive triumph and the 15th in 17 games at home for the Giants, who apparently have learned to cope with the shifting windy currents in Candlestick Park and made home a paradise.

Billy Pierce posted his fifth win without a loss as San Francisco held its four-game edge over second-place Los Angeles and pushed the third-place Cardinals six back. The Dodgers used a six-run seventh-inning outburst to subdue Houston 10-7.

Cincinnati's defending champion Reds won their fifth in a row and the 10th in 12 games by beating Philadelphia 3-2. Pittsburgh broke a six-game losing streak with a 5-4, 10-inning decision over Milwaukee and the New York Mets outlasted the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 13 innings.

In the American League, Kansas City knocked off league-leading Cleveland 6-5. Boston walloped the second-place New York Yankees 14-4. Minnesota defeated Detroit 4-2. Chicago's White Sox edged Washington 4-3 and Baltimore belted the Los Angeles Angels 7-1.

Simmons (5-1), who last week became the first pitcher to throw a complete game at the Giants, was bombed for six runs in three innings and that was it as Pierce scattered nine hits until he tired and needed Stu Miller's help in the eighth inning. The decisive runs scored in a three-run third on a double by Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda's single and doubles by Felipe Alou and Jim Davenport, the last off reliever Ray Washburn.

Shortstop Maury Wills drove in four runs for the Dodgers, knocking in the go-ahead run in that wild seventh with a single after pinch hitter Doug Camilli had singled across the tying tally. Trailing 7-4 with two out in the inning, the Dodgers erupted for six hits and a half dozen runs that kayoed Colts starter Bob Bruce. Larry Sherry (2-1) picked up the win in relief while Bob Tiefenauer was charged with the loss.

The Reds got away in front on home run No. 12 by Vada Pinson in the first, then put it away with two runs in the second as Leo Cardenas' double and a single by winning pitcher Joey Jay (5-3) each knocked in a run. That made Art Mahaffey (2-5) a loser for the fifth consecutive time.

Dick Groat drove in the tying run for the Pirates with a single in the seventh, then singled and scored the winner in the 10th on a two-out single by Smokey Burgess off Jack Curtis (1-3). Harvey Haddix (2-1) won it. Rookie Denis Menke accounted for all the Braves' runs with a grand slam homer in the fourth after Earl Francis had walked three consecutive batters.

Rookie Cal Koonce walked pinch hitter Hobie Landrith with the bases loaded and two out in the 13th, forcing home Gil Hodges with the winning run for the Mets. George Altman was 4-for-6 with two homers for the Cubs, who replaced the Mets in the cellar.

ACC Baseball Action Pressurepacked Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The baseball comes pressure-packed in the Atlantic Coast Conference today, with the pressure on title contenders Wake Forest and Virginia.

Virginia, 7-4 in the conference, was to play Maryland at Charlottesville, Va., today. Wake Forest, leading the league with a 9-4 record, closes conference play at North Carolina State tonight.

Here's the title picture: If Virginia and Wake Forest both win, or lose, the Cavaliers could tie for the title by beating South Carolina in a pair of make-out games. The games were rained out earlier.

If Virginia loses, Wake Forest could clinch the title by beating the Wolfpack. And if Virginia wins and the Deacons lose, Virginia could take the ACC championship by winning the two make-up games with South Carolina.

Wake Forest Coach Jack Stallings is expected to start lefty Pat McDowell (5-0) against the Wolfpack. Righthander Bob Conner (5-3), who's won four straight games, is expected to start for N.C. State.

Clemson and South Carolina won non-conference games Tuesday. Clemson trounced Furman 11-1 on four-hit pitching of Tommy Lyon, and South Carolina edged The Citadel 3-2.

Tommy Lyon had a single, double and a homer in four times at bat for Clemson.

Ohio's Lucas Says He Will Sign With Pipers

By BARRY DAVIS
CLEVELAND (AP) — Jerry Lucas, three-time All-America from Ohio State who repeatedly said he didn't want to play professional basketball, may have saved pro basketball in Cleveland, and he has given the year-old American Basketball League a shot in the arm.

The 6-8, 225-pound center, who led the Buckeyes to a national championship and two narrow misses, said in a copyrighted story in Sports Illustrated released Tuesday he will sign a two-year contract with the Cleveland Pipers of the ABL.

The Pipers are expected to announce that Lucas has signed a contract at a 10 a.m. news conference today. Lucas will be present.

Speculation has arisen that John Havlicek, Ohio State captain and Lucas' teammate for four years, also would accept a contract with the Pipers. Havlicek has been drafted by the Pipers and the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League who believe he would make a fine pass catcher, although he hasn't played football since high school.

With Lucas and Havlicek under contract, the ABL probably would be able to negotiate a national television deal similar to that under which National Basketball Association games are shown. Until now, the ABL didn't have any major personality attractions to interest prospective backers of televised games.

Lucas got a more lucrative offer—reportedly $100,000 and an automobile for a three-year contract—from the Cincinnati Royals of the NBA. His contract with the Pipers, according to Lucas, calls for a salary of about $10,000 a season, plus an investment portfolio worth $40,000.

Lucas said Pipers' president George Steinbrenner persuaded him to change his mind about not playing pro ball. Lucas added: "The Pipers had carefully studied my objections to professional basketball. They came prepared with answers. Mr. Steinbrenner began at once that first day talking about education."

"He said the ABL schedule had been cut to about 70 games—at his suggestion—and would not open until December. Therefore, I could finish school. He offered a two-year contract instead of three. After two years, he said, the club would see that my way was paid through the graduate school of my choice."

Bowling Awards Are Awarded

The Service Station bowling league presented awards last night at their banquet held at the Moose Lodge.

First place honors went to Tripp's City Service by four and one-half games. The team members were Marvin Curtis, J. T. Cox, Bob Dash, Tom Boyd, Billy Wells and Captain Brownie Tripp.

Taking second place awards was Avery's Gulf. Members of this team are J. Banks, J. Garis, B. Ellis, S. Vincent, R. Broughton and Captain J. Churchill.

Individual awards were presented to Dash for the highest average, and Tripp for the high single game and high three-game series.

Handicap awards were presented to R. Broughton for the highest average and high three-game series. T. Smith also received an award for the high three-game series as he was tied with Broughton.

Sportsmanship awards were given to P. Brohawn, L. Lawrence and A. Brooks.

Roxboro Wins Prep Tourney

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Wade Briggs and his Roxboro teammates are the state high school golf champions.

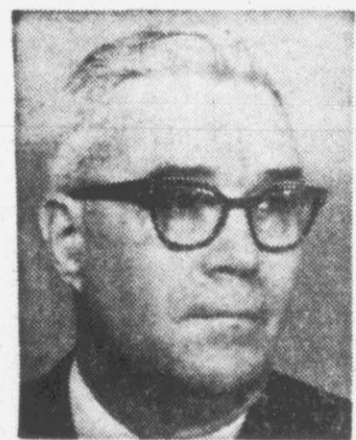

Briggs, the defending champion, shot a par 72 Tuesday to go with his first round 71 to take the individual crown with a 143, three strokes better than his closest pursuers. Roxboro won the team title with a total of 607. It was the first time a Class 4-A school failed to win the title. Roxboro is Class 3-A.

David Kiser of Charlotte Myers Park, the first round leader with a sizzling 68, blew to an 82 on Tuesday to finish at 150.

Deadlocked at 146 were Steve Kallman of Henderson, Dan Hill III of South Durham, Scott Weldon of North Durham, and Sherwood Jessup of Greensboro Senior. David Owen of Fayetteville was next at 147, and Lee Ball of Durham shot a 148.

Roxboro's 607 team total was 11 strokes better than runnerup Greensboro Page Winston-Salem Reynolds was third at 620.

Eddie Arcaro has won the last three runnings of the Jockey Club Gold Cup. He has won the race 10 times.

No AL Team Is Pulling Away

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Nobody's pulling away from anybody in the American League chase—not New York's seemingly invincible Yankees or Cleveland's surprising Indians. Not the way Minnesota, Chicago and Baltimore have been moving.

While Cleveland and New York were being set back Tuesday night, Minnesota knocked off Detroit 4-2 with home run help from Vic Power and Harmon Killebrew, the White Sox nipped Washington 3-2 as Al Smith contributed a vital pinch double, and Baltimore swamped Los Angeles 7-1 behind Milt Pappas' strong pitching.

Ninth-place Kansas City slid by Cleveland 6-5 and Boston rocked New York's shaky pitching for a nine-run outburst in the sixth inning and swamped the Yanks 14-4.

As the highly bunched race stands now, Cleveland has a one-half game edge on the Yanks, the Twins are just 12 percentage points behind New York, the White Sox are only one game off the pace and the Orioles two. For good measure, the Angels, Tigers and Red Sox are tied for sixth, 3½ lengths back, and the ninth-place A's are only five behind in the National League, front-runner San Francisco topped St. Louis 6-3; Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 3-2; Los Angeles overcame Houston 10-7; Pittsburgh ripped Milwaukee 5-4 in 10 innings; and New York struggled out of the cellar, beating Chicago 6-5 in a 13-inning game lasting 4 hours, 54 minutes.

Power socked a two-run homer as the second man to face Tiger right-hander Frank Lary, sending the Twins off winging toward their eighth win in the last 11 games. Lennie Green's sacrifice fly delivered the clincher in the seventh.

Left-hander Jack Kralick yielded only five hits to Detroit before leaving in the eighth with a blister on his hand.

The White Sox, winners of six of their last eight, pulled it out against the hard-luck Senators in an eighth inning rally keyed by Smith's pinch hit. The double followed singles by Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox, tying the count at 3-3, and Fox came in on Mike Hershberger's ground out.

Rookie John Powell, with a brace of homers and a single in three at bats, and the four-hit pitching of Pappas highlighted the Baltimore runaway.

Powell's first homer climaxed a five-run first inning as Baltimore stashed it away early by bombing out Ted Bowsfield before he could retire a man.

Norm Siebern also belted a pair of two-run homers for Kansas City, who also were helped by two singles and some nifty base running by Dick Howser. With the game even at 4-4, Howser got the seventh with a single, 1-lerged the throw to second, fielder's choice play, moved another notch on a sacrifice and scored on a fly. He moved Marian Coughtry to third with another shot in the eighth, and the run that stood up as the winner scored when Cleveland's Frank Funk wild-pitched.

Cleveland knocked out winning reliever Dave Wickersham in its one-run ninth, but rookie Diego Berti applied the stopper. Gary Bell was the loser.

Carl Yastrzemski paced Boston's masacre against the reeling Yankees, who again showed pitching troubles in their third straight loss. Yastrzemski whacked a two-run homer off Ralph Terry in the first, had two singles in the Red Sox nine-run pounding of Terry and Jim Coates in the sixth, and later added another single.

Boston hammered out seven singles, a double and a sacrifice fly in the explosive sixth, and were helped along with three walks and a Yankee error. Bill Monbouquette pitched the first six innings for the Red Sox and rookie Dick Radatz sparkled again finishing up, closing out the romp by fanning Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle.

Chappell Makes Classic Plea

RALEIGH (AP)—A plea for reinstatement of the Dixie Basketball Classic was made Tuesday night by Wake Forest basketball star Len Chappell.

He and Marge Burns, Greensboro golfer, were presented Teague Awards as the outstanding man and woman amateur athletes in North Carolina and South Carolina for 1961.

Chappell said, "To me this past season didn't seem complete with the Dixie Classic gone. The holiday tournament was discontinued last year as a result of the basketball gambling scandal."

"A lot of young fellows make mistakes," he added, "but to de-emphasize basketball is the wrong thing to do."

Louis J. Fisher of High Point, national AAU president, reviewed the AAU's dispute with the NCAA. He said "approximately eight higher up" college officials were responsible for the squabble.

"It is the desire — it will be the policy — of the AAU to try to get the NCAA to go along with us," Fisher stated. "We must get together if we hope to do anything in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo."

Traffic Engineer Pleases Nobody

(New Yorkers say there is only one way to solve the traffic problem: make all streets one way leading to the Holland Tunnel—then it becomes New Jersey's problem. Henry A. Barnes, a city traffic expert, was hired in January to find a more practical solution.)

By CHARLES WEST
NEW YORK (AP) — "If you come up with a good traffic idea for a street," says City Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes, "everybody living there will agree it's a good idea—for some other street."

That is only part of the headache Barnes accepted when he left Baltimore and took $27,500 a year to try to untangle New York's perpetual traffic snarl. There are 8.5 million New Yorkers, owning 1.4 million vehicles, jammed into 315.5 square miles. Four tunnels and 59 bridges shut the still more honking cars into the city. Studies show there are 600,000 cars in lower Manhattan alone, from 57th Street south, every day.

To this add a few miles of red tape and political infighting. Finding the answer is Barnes' job. Barnes, 55, four months on the job, said "our toughest problem" is to speed the flow of cross-Manhattan traffic at midtown.

He wants to designate a few streets as nonstop, all-rolling, one-way routes. But so far, between 30th and 60th Streets, Barnes hasn't found one on which he could ban all parking.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner promised Barnes a free hand to come here. "We are all aware," the mayor said, "that he is facing a massive and complicated task that can't be done quickly or easily. But Barnes is uniquely qualified to achieve the sustained improvements that we must have."

If that didn't set up Barnes as a handy target for political brickbats, the commissioner's own words some time later did. "Maybe some toes here are going to get stepped on," Barnes hinted. "Maybe I'll be my nose punched in."

Barnes tangled immediately with Park Avenue doctors and diplomats. He ordered a crackdown on double-parked limousines bearing the letters "MD" or "DPL" on their license tags.

"If you're going to grant parking privileges to one class, you have to grant them to all," Barnes declared. "Ticket them and let them go to court."

The mayor's official car—he wasn't in it—got a parking ticket during Barnes' first week on the job.

Barnes also has experimented with the "Barnes Dance," during which all traffic lights at a corner are turned red at the same time and pedestrians scramble in all directions.

But he has spent most of his time getting his staff organized, building public support for his program—and warning off the public attacks and investigations of the department.

One solid achievement is an extra million dollars in the department's new budget, a little step toward the $108 million he estimates it will cost to straighten out the traffic situation.

After disputing the doctors and diplomats, Barnes took on Robert Moses, apparently unwittingly. Barnes suggested publicly that express buses be allowed to use the parkways reserved for cars, and that parks might be used to alleviate the parking crunch. Moses, holder of a dozen important state, regional and city offices, replied as chairman of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel

Authority. "There is plenty of room in New York for men of Mr. Barnes' courage and energy," Moses advised the newcomer. "But they can't function in a vacuum, as some say New York is just a bigger Baltimore or that wisdom began with them."

Moses further advised that the parkways, many of them planned by him, were restricted to passenger cars for more leisurely travel.

"I agree heartily," Barnes replied. "Some of the most leisurely driving in the world takes place on the parkways here—about five miles an hour in peak periods. Cars go bumper to bumper and fender to fender."

Their word battle is still raging.

Several Openings Noted For Prisons Employment

Major James Langley, district supervisor of Prisons for this area, announced today there are several openings for prison department guards in this district, including six eastern counties.

To qualify for the position, a person must be 21 to 45 years of age, have at least a ninth-grade education, and weigh from 150 to 240 pounds, depending upon height, which ranges from five-feet eight-inches to six-feet four-inches.

The applicant's health must be good and he must not be physically deformed or handicapped.

Any record of conviction for a crime, except minor traffic violations, whether or not the applicant actually served a sentence, shall be disqualifying.

An applicant cannot be employed in the same prison division with a close relative, and no applicant addicted to the use of intoxicants or drugs will be employed.

Starting salary for these positions is $3,288 per year in felon units and $3,132 a year in misdemeanor units with sleeping quarters, uniforms and laundry of uniforms furnished free.

Prison guards receive the same benefits as other State employees, including paid vacation, sick leave and retirement benefits.

Prison guards now work a 60-hour week, 12 hours per day for five days a week. As soon as sufficient guards can be recruited and trained, all guards will work a 48-hour week, 8 hours a day, six days a week.

The prison department has a Custodial Officers Training School at Asheville, Raleigh and at the Caledonia Prison near Halifax. All new guards are sent to these schools and must successfully complete the course in defensive tactics, firearms instruction and custodial training.

Full salary will be given while attending the school.

Interested persons may contact the nearest prison unit or apply at the local Unemployment Security Commission office for further details or an application.

Senior Citizens Meet Thursday

The Senior Citizens of Greenville will hold their regular meeting this Thursday, at 10:00 a.m. at Elm Street Park.

The program will feature reports from the fourth annual Senior Citizens Conference, held in Durham on May 9 and 10. Members attending from the Greenville chapter were the following: Mrs. Ellen Petrie, Miss Ellen Proctor, Mrs. H. W. Tarkington, Mrs. W. G. Holt, Mrs. L. W. Tracy, Mrs. Terry Agner, Mrs. Annie Robertson, Mrs. Harriette Roseveare, Mrs. T. I. Moore, Mrs. Eva Corbette, and Mrs. J. E. Dees.

In addition, the Thursday meeting will feature a covered dish luncheon. Each member is asked to bring a dish of food for the luncheon.

In case transportation is needed, members are asked to contact Mrs. Terry Agner, PL 2-2335.

Shrine Club Is Invited Attend Thursday Event

Pitt County Shrine Club members have been invited to a Thursday gathering at Island View Shores east of Bayview. It was announced Tuesday by Shrine President C.M. (Smug) Respass of Greenville.

Respass said the entire membership of the organization has been invited to the 6:30 meeting at the cottage of J. Henry Harrell of Greenville, a Shriner. The Shrine president said a feature of the Thursday meeting will be the attendance of William A. Prince of Goldsboro, potentate of Sudan Temple.

Scheduled also at the meeting is a Moslem Feast. The dinner meeting will count as the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt club.

Harrell's cottage is eight miles east of Bayview. Respass said signs will be erected along the route from A. N. Roper's Store to the meeting place.

RETRIBUTION WAS SWIFT

CASHION, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Edna Marion declined to file charges against a burglar she caught in the act.

She told sheriff's deputies she clubbed him on the head several times with a rolling pin and felt that was punishment enough.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed its advance into the third straight day but on a more modest scale early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 to 242.30, with industrials up 80, rails up 20 and utilities up 1.00.

Brokers said they considered the relatively small forward move to be a normal hesitation after two sessions of sharp gains.

Gains of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so.

Police Work Is Topic At Club

AYDEN—The Police Department, its activities and its efforts in public relations were topics of discussion last week at the Ayden Rotary Club meeting, in a program presented by Police Chief W. D. Brooks.

Chief Brooks was presented by Bill Bullock, program chairman for the evening.

Brooks said that the local Police Department is interested in public relations, realizing that the police officer will be a "number one salesman" to anyone coming into the town. He expressed appreciation to the people of Ayden for their cooperation with the department.

Guests for the evening included Dr. Stephen Sudor of Ayden, brought by Curt Cavleir; and Jerry Britt of Ayden, guest of Larry Davis.

Rotarian Jim Abernathy was welcomed back to the club following an illness of several weeks.

Ayden Board ...

ing a report by the Library Commission, headed by W. C. Ormond, on recommendations for a location for a prospective new library building. The Library Commission suggested four vacant lots and two lots that contain buildings which might be remodeled.

Representatives of the Charlotte Hawkins Brown Library appeared last month to ask the town about the possibility of erecting a new building, providing a suitable lot was secured by the library.

In other business the board received word that reodification of town ordinances has been completed by the N. C. League of Municipalities. A meeting of town representatives and league officials will be held May 30 to review the reodification.

—Agreed that Williams and Wall, Certified Public Accountants of Raleigh, would conduct the audit of town books for the period July 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962.

Mortar Shelled Moslem Home

ALGIERS (AP) — Six mortar shells hit a Moslem home in the Casbah today and the Secret Army Organization's gunmen renewed attacks on Moslems elsewhere in the area of the capital.

The shelling brought troops and police streaking to the Casbah, the crowded home of 80,000 Moslems. It was learned at least three Moslems, including a child, were killed. This brought the day's toll of secret army slayings to 19.

The location of the mortar, perhaps on one of Algiers' thousands of rooftops, was not immediately determined.

Street attacks took the lives of 16 persons, all but two of them Moslems. Nine persons, including two Moslem women, were killed. One of the slain European was a priest, Abbe Baudet. A European woman was shot to death in her shop.

A concussion grenade, noisy but relatively harmless, was tossed at a line of Europeans in front of the Bab el Oued police station. They were seeking official permission to leave Algiers. Nobody was hurt. The secret army wants Europeans to stay in Algiers.
