Gaston College Plans Endorsed

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Higher Education gave tentative approval today to a new community college in Gaston County.

The final okay rests with the Advisory Budget Commission which may take up the matter at its June meeting.

If the budget agency approves, a $500,000 bond issue would be submitted to Gaston County citizens in a referendum scheduled for late September or early October.

The $500,000 would be matched by a similar amount of state money. The county would use $850,000 to construct two general purpose buildings and $150,000 for a 160-acre site slightly more than a mile north of Gastonia on U.S. 321.

Chairman Ray Craig of a special community college committee presented Gaston County's case to the higher board which approved the institution unanimously.

It would be the sixth community college in North Carolina, joining two at Charlotte and one each in Elizabeth City, Wilmington and Asheville.

Craig said plans are to open the college in the fall of 1964. He estimated initial enrollment at about 250, growing to a minimum of 600 by the beginning of its third year.

Buildup In Thailand Is Smooth

General Says 'Little Change' In Conditions Which Precipitated Step

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Gen. Paul D. Harkins flew here today to size up the new U.S. combat force in Thailand and said there is no basic easing of the crisis in Southeast Asia.

The general, over-all commander of the force in Thailand and the U.S. Military Assistance Command in South Viet Nam, planned to visit the Marine outfit camping in a rice paddy field only 30 miles south of the Laos border.

The danger of Communist aggression from Laos prompted Thailand's government to request the sending of an American force.

"There's not much change in the situation which precipitated the crisis," Harkins told a news conference.

Lt. Gen. James L. Richardson Jr., the jungle warfare expert in charge of the Thailand command, and U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Dodd Young were present.

The U.S. buildup in this pro-Western Oriental land moved swiftly and smoothly toward a planned peak of 5,000 Army men and Marines.

Trucks, jeeps and other equipment, flown in C130 Hercules transports, flowed in at 15-minute intervals today as crowds of friendly Thai stood by.

Asked whether he thought there still is a serious threat to Thailand from Laos, Harkins said: "The Communists are in a position to do what they did in Nam Tha. The potential is still there for them to do the same again."

He referred to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao's offensive at Nam Tha near the Red Chinese border which swept the Lao royal army out of northwest Laos.

Asked if the Marines could shoot suspected Communist infiltrators from Laos, Harkins said: "No. The troops do not have the right to fire on suspect infiltrators as of now. The troops are here under the SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) agreement at the request of the Thai government. We go where they think it is best."

The landing in Bangkok of 1,800 combat-ready U.S. Marines was completed Thursday night within 18 hours after the first Leatherneck touched shore. A continuous airlift ferried them to northeast Thailand.

Launch Of Aurora 7 Put Off 3 Days

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The world orbit flight of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter has been delayed three days until next Tuesday to improve reliability of the parachute system on his spacecraft, Aurora 7.

The surprise announcement of the delay came late Thursday night after a mission review meeting attended by Carpenter, Operations Director Walter Williams and other top Project Mercury officials.

Discussion centered on a question raised nearly three months ago: Why did the small stabilizing parachute on Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s capsule unfurl at 27,000 feet instead of the intended 21,000 feet?

Mercury officials apparently were convinced at that time that it was a random failure, not likely to happen again, and no parachute changes were made in Carpenter's capsule.

Plans had been progressing smoothly for a flight scheduled Saturday.

But at Thursday night's hastily-called meeting, Williams reviewed completely the Glenn three-orbit flight and, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said, "began to ask questions about the parachute deployment."

Williams wanted to know if there was a possibility the small parachute could pop out even sooner, perhaps during orbit. If so, it would burn up on re-entry and lose its value as a stabilizing force for the capsule.

Engineers were not able to explain the malfunction to Williams' satisfaction, the spokesman said, and at 10:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, after a 2 1/2-hour session, Williams decided to postpone the flight to provide a backup parachute deployment switch.

The correction involves installing a second aneroid barometer switch which is sensitive to altitude changes. When atmospheric pressure reached a certain point—in this case 21,000 feet—the switch expands and releases the stabilizing chute.

The old and new switches will be hooked in series so that both must function before the parachute unfolds. A similar switch releases the main 63-foot parachute at 10,000 feet. The second chute worked fine in Glenn's flight and no change is planned on it.

Concerning the postponement, Carpenter was quoted as saying: "This is part of the continuing process of greater reliability—taking advantage of past flight experience—and it gives me a chance to work with confidence."

Earlier Thursday, preparations for the flight were marred by a plane crash near Nairobi, Africa, that killed 13 Air Force men involved in support of emergency recovery operations for the Carpenter flight.

Most of the victims were mechanics flying to a contingency site at Nairobi to clear away wreckage which would be used to search for Aurora 7 should it land in an unscheduled spot in the Indian Ocean or eastern Africa. The plane, a U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules carrying spare parts for the rescue planes, crashed and burned.

NASA said the crash would not delay the Carpenter flight.

The postponement to Tuesday gives unfavorable Atlantic Ocean weather a chance to clear away. Weather experts had given the flight only a 50-50 chance of getting off the ground Saturday because of winds and high waves in two ocean recovery areas.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, astronaut spokesman, told newsmen it was known the day of Glenn's flight that his drogue (stabilizing) parachute had deployed too soon.

Asked why nothing had been done in the weeks since, Powers replied: "In evaluating a flight, there are 90 million things to do. When it comes to a countdown, this is the time people toe the mark and ask why this or that didn't work before."

Indonesians, Dutch Fighting In New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—Heavy fighting between Dutch troops and at least 100 Indonesian paratroopers was reported near Fakfak today.

District Commissioner J. Dubois also reported a drop of Indonesian paratroopers Tuesday about seven miles east of Kaimana. Fakfak is on the west coast of New Guinea. Kaimana is 100 miles to the southeast.

Another Indonesian paratroop landing about 20 miles east of Kaimana Thursday night was reported to Dutch military authorities in Hollandia but could not be confirmed immediately.

It was not immediately clear just which group of paratroopers the Dutch were battling.

At least 40 Indonesians were reported dropped six miles east of Fakfak on Tuesday. Immediately after that drop, Dutch marines carried out a fast amphibious operation and made fighting contact with the Indonesians, who withdrew into the jungle.

Another 50 Indonesian guerrillas parachuted into the jungle near Fakfak on April 27, but the Dutch reported earlier their forces had bottled up these troops in an area 17 miles north of Fakfak.

The news was brought to the sleepy village of Kaimana—a population about 1,000—by a Papuan Protestant minister, the Rev. M. Besiwarua. He carried a letter from a Papuan teacher in the jungle who told of seeing men "fall down from the sky" about May 11 or 12.

The Dutch governor of New Guinea, P. J. Platteel, flew to Kaimana. After a brief stay there, he was to fly on to Fakfak for an overnight inspection of the situation.

Fakfak, a copra port of 5,000 on the Ceram Sea in westernmost New Guinea, has been the scene of repeated Indonesian attempts to gain a foothold on the Dutch-held territory Indonesia claims. Dubois said the town was calm today.

Dutch planes downed an Indonesian transport plane Thursday off the West New Guinea coast near Fakfak the Dutch said. Dutch marines two days before captured 20 Indonesians trying to make an amphibious landing near Fakfak.

President Says U.S. Will Continue Role In Europe's Decisions On Peace, War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy wants French President Charles de Gaulle—and other European leaders—to understand that as long as the United States carries the ultimate burden of Western Europe's defense it will participate fully in the great decisions affecting war and peace in Europe.

Kennedy, in an open but restrained clash with De Gaulle, laid out the U.S. side of the great transatlantic debate in a speech Thursday night and a news conference Thursday afternoon.

In effect he told De Gaulle that Europe cannot have a blank check to draw on U.S. defensive power when disaster threatens but bypass this country in the earlier stages of policy decisions.

Administration officials say De Gaulle's policy line at a news conference in Paris Tuesday indicates he wants a decreasing U.S. role in European affairs through Europe would rely on American nuclear power for its ultimate protection.

At the news conference Kennedy challenged De Gaulle's decision to make France an independent nuclear power, saying it would lead to a dangerous situation in the world and would weaken the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He called for greater unity in Europe, including British participation in the Common Market, but said this should be achieved within the larger framework of an Atlantic community.

The President tackled the problem of allied disagreements in an address Thursday night to the Conference on Trade Policy, a bipartisan group of business, labor, farm and consumer organizations interested in foreign trade.

It was folly to think that the United States may some day abandon its commitment to European security, Kennedy said.

"The United States cannot withdraw from Europe, unless and until Europe should wish us gone. We cannot distinguish its defenses from our own. We cannot diminish our contributions to Western security or abdicate the responsibilities of power."

His speech and remarks earlier in the day at a news conference were considered a reply to French President Charles de Gaulle, who spoke out earlier this week against Western Europe's heavy reliance on U.S. military power.

Kennedy told the trade group: "Our commitment, let it be remembered, is to a common united defense, in which every member of the Western community plays a full and responsible role, to the limit of his capability and in reliance on the strength of others—and it is that commitment which will be fulfilled."

The President went on to loud applause: "As long as the United States is staking its own national security on the defense of Europe, contributing today 425,000 men at an annual cost of $1.6 billion and calling up 160,000 men in a far greater effort than that of any other nation in response to last summer's crisis, we will continue to participate in the great decisions affecting war and peace in that area. A coherent policy cannot call for both our military presence and our diplomatic absence."

Kennedy said the United States neither hopes nor plans to please all its European allies, who do not always agree with each other, on every topic of discussion. Nor, he said, will the United States base its decisions "which affect the long-run state of the common security on the short-term state of our popularity in the various capitals of Europe."

This declaration also was met by applause. Earlier in the day, at his news conference, Kennedy said that when Europe was able to defend itself the United States would be relieved of its military burden there, but "that day has not come."

At the same time Kennedy expressed fear that De Gaulle may be creating a dangerous situation in the world and threatening the unity of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization by developing a national nuclear force for France.

Pitt Farm Bureau Board Favors Program Changes

AYDEN—Pitt County Farm Bureau's board of directors Thursday approved three points in a sweeping 10-point statewide organization revision program and endorsed a plan for expansion of Soil Conservation Service activities on area watershed projects.

Meeting in the Pierce Community Building near here, the board favored these three planks in the N. C. Farm Bureau's expansion platform:

—establishing and expanding a more active and efficient county office. The board is currently investigating the possibility of erecting a Pitt County Farm Bureau headquarters.

—a more elaborate system of record-keeping.

—an expanding program of spreading Farm Bureau and other information.

State Bureau officials have pointed out the 10-point program would call for a sizable increase in revenue. They have proposed to meet this need with a 100 per cent increase in annual dues, from $5 to $10.

Brantley Speight of Winterville, one of Pitt's three supervisors on the board for the Coastal Plain Soil & Water Conservation District, explained the needs of expanded SCS work in the county. The board agreed with Speight's assertion that more services are needed.

The Pitt SCS unit has asked Pitt County's Commissioners for a $33,000 appropriation—largest ever requested from county funds—for its planned expansion program. The service normally draws its funds from the federal government through USDA.

Royce Pierce of Greenville, assistant area supervisor of USDA's grading service, discussed problems and methods government graders encounter and use in "attempting to do a creditable service in grading tobacco in warehouses."

Following a question-and-answer period, Pierce invited farmers of Pitt County to discuss grading processes with government graders. Pierce was accompanied by Lloyd Kittrell, a government grader in Winterville Township.

Four Pitt Men Inducted Today

Four men from Pitt County were inducted into the armed services today, while 12 were sent for pre-induction, or armed forces physicals.

Those inducted were Johnnie R. Braxton, Marion C. Braxton, Marvin E. Hathaway and James E. Chapman.

Two Accidents In Greenville Thursday

One person was injured and an estimated $875 damage resulted in two separate accidents in the city Thursday.

Greenville officers investigated an accident on W. Tenth St. about 10 p.m. in which a 40-year-old Negro was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated for bruises on the face and released.

Officers identified the injured man as Aaron Holman of 1406 S. Greene St. who was operating a 1952 model car which was being pushed by Roy Howard, 72, of 903 Douglas Ave.

Investigating officers said Holman lost control of the vehicle and struck a utility pole belonging to Greenville Utilities Commission.

The accident caused an estimated $200 to both the Holman vehicle and the Howard vehicle and another $175 to the pole.

Holman was charged with operating without a license, no liability insurance and improper registration. After his release from the hospital he was held in the city under $500 bond.

Officers also investigated a 4:05 p.m. collision in the 500 block of Dickinson Ave., involving two vehicles. Nobody was injured.

The drivers of the cars were identified as Carolyn Jean Roebuck, 16, of 1008 Cotanche St., and James Wesley Perkins, 28, of Ayden.

Officers noted that the Roebuck car was backing into a parking place when the vehicle operated by Perkins collided with it causing an estimated $150 damage to both cars.

Perkins was charged with failure to see intended movement could be made in safety.

Nine Flights To Moon Planned

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The head of the nation's space agency says plans call for nine flights to the moon in 1964 and 1965 with a more advanced spacecraft called Surveyor.

James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration told a symposium at Duke University on Thursday night "some of these nine Surveyors will orbit the moon and take detailed pictures of its entire surface."

"Others," he added, "will make a soft landing with two or three hundred pounds of instruments, including television cameras and a drill for sampling down to a depth of three feet."

Webb said another Ranger rocket will be shot to the moon later this year and several more next year.

The Duke Symposium was on the regional implications of space research.

Webb and Gov. Sanford lauded the regional approach to space research as sound.

Sanford, who introduced Webb, told the audience that North Carolina was late in getting in on the industrial revolution "but there will be no reason, and no excuse, for our being late in getting in on the space age."

He added "We in North Carolina do not intend to be late this time! Evidence of that fact is this meeting...and the other sessions that will be held on this campus during the symposium."

Djilas Says Stalin Gleefully Predicted New War

By WILLIAM N. OATIS NEW YORK (AP)—Milovan Djilas says Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin foresaw Communist gains from the last war in Europe and gleefully predicted another war in 15 or 20 years after 1945.

Djilas, ousted vice president of Yugoslavia, quoted those views in a book called "Conversations with Stalin," to be published next week by Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc.

A Belgrade court this week sentenced Djilas to eight years, eight months in prison on grounds he discloses state secrets in the book. He has already served two prison terms—three years under the pre-war Yugoslav royal government and four years under the Communist government.

"Conversations with Stalin" tells of meetings Djilas had with the Soviet leader on official Yugoslav missions to Moscow in 1944, 1945 and 1948. It is a story of gradual disillusionment.

Djilas relates that at a dinner in April 1945 Stalin said, "This war is not as in the past; whoever occupies a territory also imposes on it his own social system."

He says Stalin added that the Slavs had to maintain solidarity because in 12 to 15 years the Germans would be on their feet again.

"He got up," writes Djilas, "hitched up his pants as though he was about to wrestle or to box and cried out almost in a transport. 'The war shall soon be over. We shall recover in 15 or 20 years, and then we'll have another go at it.'"

Stalin's armies, Djilas observes, "had already trampled half of Europe under foot, and he was convinced they would trample over the other half in the next round."

Djilas fails to mention that the Soviet armies were counter-attacking a German invasion. But he does say Stalin's own cruelties "did not worry him one bit, for he was convinced that he was executing the judgment of history."

At a meeting in January 1948, Djilas says, Stalin came out with the idea that postwar Germany must remain divided: "The West will make Western Germany their own, and we shall turn Eastern Germany into our own state."

He says Stalin also declared that since the United States and Britain would not permit a break in their Mediterranean line of communications, the Greek Communist uprising could not succeed and so must be stopped.

In that connection, Stalin remarked that after the war with Japan, the Russians asked the Chinese Communists to seek an understanding with Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese Nationalist leader.

Instead, he quotes Stalin as saying, "They mustered their forces and struck. It has been shown that they were right, and not we. But Greece is a different case."

Djilas charges that Stalin withheld support at decisive moments from the Chinese, Spanish and Yugoslav revolutions because "he felt instinctively that the creation of revolutionary centers outside of Moscow could endanger its supremacy in world communism."

He says Soviet policy is the same today. While Djilas makes only passing references to Hitler, he calls Stalin "the greatest criminal in history," his conscience untroubled "despite the millions who have been destroyed in his name and by his order, despite the thousands of his closest collaborators whom he had murdered as traitors."

Simpson H. D. Club Meets At Community Bldg.

Miss Lillie Hall, assistant home economics agent, gave the demonstration entitled "Food conservation—Safe Approved Methods" to members of the Simpson Home Demonstration Club on Tuesday.

The meeting was held at the Community Building with Mrs. Johnnie Hardee hostess.

Mrs. Hall said that Pitt County homemakers should conserve more food to help boost the income of Pitt County. She said that the median income of Pitt County is below the state's average.

She also reminded the group of some important rules during canning and preserving to have a better and safer product. Snap beans require the pressure cooker method. Frozen food stored at home should be kept at 0 degrees Fahrenheit.

When buying canned foods, she said, you could save by considering for what the food would be used and that the content label listed the foods of higher percentage first. During the business session reports were heard from Mrs. Jennie Porter, gardener; Mrs. L. C. Edwards, education; Mrs. Jimmie Edwards, treasurer; Mrs. S. D. Tucker, who presided, announced that Farm and Home Week would be held in Raleigh June 18-22. Mrs. Ella Pate was nominated to represent the club.

Dr. Winsberg Guest Speaker

Mrs. John O. Reynolds was hostess to the Aries Book Club for the final meeting of the year.

After a short business session, presided over by Mrs. S. R. Bartlett, the vice president, Mrs. Virginia Basnight, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Morton D. Winsberg, of the E. C. C. Geography Department.

Dr. Winsberg, who was a Research Fellow for the Social Science Council, gave an illustrated talk with slides on his year's experience in Latin America during 1960-61. He commented on the cultural, political, and economic life in Argentina, Uruguay, Chile, Bolivia, Peru and Ecuador. He said the best fed people were found in Argentina. Steaks were quite common but chickens were considered a delicacy. Uruguay had the fewest slums. He told of the contrast of wealth in such countries as Argentina with the poverty of the mountainous countries of Peru and Bolivia. In the discussion that followed, Dr. Winsberg remarked that the Peace Corps and the Alliance for Freedom could render a real service to our American neighbors.

At the close of the meeting, books were exchanged. Mrs. Carl Pierce assisted the hostess in serving punch and assorted cakes to the members and guests.

Says Solution Is 35-Hour Week

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, says a 35-hour week without any reduction in pay would solve the problem of unemployment in the United States.

He predicted Thursday the AFL-CIO would start a nationwide drive for the shorter week "unless we very quickly see the end of this unemployment problem, unless we see the economic growth step up beyond the 2 1/2 per cent which is slowly but surely going to relegate us to the status of a second class nation, unless this happens right soon."

Meany addressed the biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union which gave him thunderous applause.

The clothing workers, a 400,000-member AFL-CIO union, voted Wednesday to seek the shorter work week with no pay cut.

The stand was taken only one day after Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg had told the convention the Kennedy administration categorically opposes the shorter work week. Goldberg said the administration considers it no solution to the problem of unemployment.

It's Time To Save

Surely There Is Available Space

It is difficult to believe that in all of Eastern North Carolina, with its abundance of swamp and marsh land, the Air Force has exhausted all possibilities for a bombing range except the site near Lake Mattamuskeet which created such a controversy several months ago.

The report from Goldsboro that the Air Force may consider moving its largest unit from Seymour Johnson base because of lack of a bombing range has been disclaimed, but such a move would be a severe economic blow to Goldsboro and this section of the state which no one would want to see. We have every confidence that all of Eastern North Carolina would give whatever cooperation it reasonably can to the Air Force and to Goldsboro in order that no unit will have to be transferred from the Goldsboro base.

At the same time, it must be realized that Hyde County has an important economic stake in the wildlife preserve at Lake Mattamuskeet which is one of the largest wintering grounds for waterfowl on the Atlantic flyway. Indeed, all of North Carolina has an important economic stake in the Lake Mattamuskeet area because of the numerous tourist sportsmen who come from all over the country to hunt there each winter.

With proper effort on the part of Air Force and civilian officials, and on the part of interested citizens in this section of the state, there should be some alternative other than either having a bombing range in the Mattamuskeet area or transferring the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing from Seymour Johnson.

There is considerable acreage under military control in the Fort Bragg area which should be explored for possible use as a bombing range by the planes stationed at Seymour Johnson. There is considerable area along Pamlico Sound just north of Cedar Island which is used by the Marine Corps for a bombing range that might be considered. In addition to these two immediate possibilities, there are other isolated areas in this section of the state which might fill the needs of planes stationed at Seymour Johnson.

Eastern North Carolina could ill afford to give up the economic asset provided by Seymour Johnson Air Force Base and the units presently stationed there. At the same time it could likewise ill afford to jeopardize the future of the Lake Mattamuskeet area—economically and otherwise—by risking its abandonment by wildlife if a bombing range is located close by.

It is a problem to which the entire section and its leaders—not just those in Goldsboro or in Hyde County—should give their attention in an attempt to fill the Air Force need of a bombing range in the area and at the same time not jeopardize Lake Mattamuskeet area as a major attraction to sportsmen.

Juvenile Courts Of N. Carolina

By JUDGE MASON P. THOMAS
Wake County Domestic Relations and Juvenile Court
Guest Columnist

INADEQUATE—Forty-three years ago, North Carolina set up a state-wide system of juvenile courts. The Clerk of Superior Court was made judge of the juvenile court in each of our 100 counties. Little change has been made in this basic legislation since 1919. Our present program of juvenile court service is outdated and inadequate. We have heard much about court reform of the courts who serve adults. Little thought is being given to improvement of court service for children.

WHO IS A JUVENILE?—Any child under the age of 16 is a "juvenile." When you mention juvenile court, people immediately think of delinquent children. The responsibility of any juvenile court is much broader. It has responsibility for protection of dependent, neglected or abandoned children. In Wake County, one-half of the children appearing in juvenile court come because of their own delinquent behavior. The other half come because of what has happened to them—neglect, custody cases, dependency, and abandonment.

North Carolina is one of the few states who try 16 and 17 year old offenders in the regular criminal courts. Most states continue juvenile court services until a child becomes 18. Locally, the age jurisdiction of our juvenile courts should be raised to include children of 16 or 17. We must first do a better job of offering court service to the group under 16 years of age.

PRESENT PICTURE—As you look across our state to examine court services for children, one fact becomes quite clear—the quality of juvenile court services available depends on where a child happens to live. Some counties have adequate programs. Most do not. Three patterns of court program emerge:

1. Eight of our larger counties (Buncombe, Mecklenburg, Guilford, Gaston, Wake, Johnston, Forsyth, Cabarrus) have organized domestic relations and juvenile courts which usually have their own staffs of probation personnel to do pre-hearing studies and provide probation supervision or children. The judge is usually employed on a full-time basis. While most of these court programs have their special problems, they present a significant step toward placing family problems in a specialized court setting.

2. A few communities have set up special juvenile court programs where someone other than the Clerk of Superior Court serves as Juvenile Court Judge. Two counties have such juvenile courts offering county-wide service. (Durham, Richmond.)

There are six city juvenile courts (Burlington, Hendersonville, Hickory, Mount Airy, Rocky Mount, Wilmington). In these communities, the Clerk of Superior Court is juvenile court judge for those cases arising outside the city. The city court juvenile judge serves those cases arising in the city limits.

3. In 90 of our 100 counties, the clerk of superior court continues to serve as juvenile court judge.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THIS SYSTEM?—The Clerk of Superior Court is an elected public official who has been given a multitude of legal responsibilities. Many have done well as juvenile court judges. Others have disliked this job and performed inadequately. Many responsible Clerks of Court would like to be relieved of the juvenile court responsibility.

The Clerk of Superior Court never has any special staff to carry his responsibility as juvenile court judge. He must use the staff of the local department of public welfare to do pre-hearing studies and provide probation services. Since county departments of public welfare are overburdened with their own responsibilities. The juvenile court services to children may be lost in the confusion. The Clerk may find himself holding juvenile court hearings without adequate information concerning the child involved. The whole process is cumbersome.

WHAT IS HAPPENING TO OUR CHILDREN?—When one takes a look around in North Carolina, certain facts should make us feel guilty:

1. In counties where there is an adequate juvenile court program, the court staff will be more likely to work with the delinquent child in his own community through probation supervision. In areas where the juvenile court program is poor, the same child may be committed to one of our state training schools for delinquent children with little or no effort to work with him in his own community.

2. North Carolina is sending a higher per cent of the children referred to juvenile courts for delinquency to training school than many other states. There are several reasons. One is lack of other resources, such as foster homes or children's institutions providing group care who will work with delinquent children. Another is the lack of qualified probation personnel to work with children in certain cases. A third factor is money. If the child is placed in foster care, the county pays the bill. If the child is committed to training school, the state foots the bill. The needs of the child should control the decision. The judge must sometimes choose in terms of funds and resources.

China's Belief In Self

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I am used to calling it French Indo-China, which it was in the days when I lived in the Far East and a lively town Saigon was. Today, it is all divided up into Laos, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam, but the division is part of the grand design of Red China to reach the Bay of Bengal.

The principal error in Western thinking about Red China is that the Westerner fails to recognize that just as Soviet Russia set out to conquer the world, so Red China plans to expand China to the Chienlung Line which means, in Southeast Asia, that its actual territorial control would have a line from Turkistan to the Bay of Bengal. Furthermore, Red China is much concerned over its rice supply and whenever it can add rice lands to its own territory, it achieves an enormous victory. Therefore the surprise in Washington that the Red Chinese should have sent forces to participate in the Laos war is shocking to anyone familiar with the Far East. Old French Indo-China lies on the borders of Red China and is closely associated with the provinces of Kweichow and Yunnan. In Yunnan particularly, the peoples are very mixed and some are very close to those of French Indo-China, now called Laos and Viet Nam. It is impossible to draw an absolute ethnological line in border territory.

As the Red Chinese plan is to reach the Bay of Bengal and to include in China all the territory east of it, it should have been presumed by our experts that sooner or later, they would intervene in any situation which imperiled their hegemony over this area.

Therefore, the disarmament talks in Geneva were a foregone, futile effort because it is the Red Chinese who are not planning disarmament but who are planning imperial expansion at any cost. The Chinese are always called their country, Chung Kuo, the Middle Kingdom. Even Dr. Sun Yat-sen's republican government continued the name, but added the word Republic to it, in a word, the Republic of the Middle Kingdom.

What was actually meant was that China is the center of the universe and that all the rest of the world would have to become satellites to it.

The famous letter of Commissioner Lin Tse-hsu, who brought on the war with Great Britain, called the Opium War, to Queen Victoria in 1839, mirrors the thinking of all Chinese. I shall quote only the pertinent sentences:

"In your honorable nation which lies 20,000 li (about 7,000 miles) away, separated by several oceans, these ways of God and feelings of mankind are the same; there is no one who does not understand the distinctions between death, life, profit, and injury. Our divine House reckons as its family all within the Four Seas; and our great Emperor, as though with the goodness of God, offers shelter to all alike. Our constant wishes and far off countries sharing with us in life and in the means of nourishment.

"It may be added that rhubarb, tea, silk, etc., are among the most precious products of the Middle Kingdom, and that if the Outside nations were unable to obtain these, they would be deprived of the necessities of life. That our divine House, regarding all with equal goodness, allows these goods to be sold without stint for export beyond the sea, and extends its favours to sympathy with the foreigner, is solely to model its own feelings upon those of God and Mother Earth.

"Our divine House controls the myriad nations by a spiritual majesty which is unfathomable; do not say that you were not warned in time!"

Perhaps another paragraph might be cited from Liang Chichao, a recent Chinese philosopher and politician, who attended the Paris Peace Conference in 1919:

"The greatest country in the greatest of the five continents of the world,—which is it? My country, the Middle State, the Flowery Land! The people who number one-third of the human

No Longer The Fear Of Other Summers

It was just a few years ago that the coming of summer weather brought with it the threat of a dreaded disease called polio. Year after year the toll was heavy, leaving behind large numbers of deaths and numerous crippled, many of them children.

When the hot weather comes now, there is no longer the fear of polio that existed just a few years ago. With the development of effective vaccines, polio has been removed as one of the major threats to the nation's health. Its annual toll has dropped sharply to the place that a polio victim is now relatively rare. The disease, in just a few short years, has been removed from the category of major killers, to the category with typhoid, smallpox, diphtheria and other diseases which have been controlled and conquered.

It is a tribute to the vast medical research program being carried on in this and other countries, and to the effective use being made of research findings by the doctors of the nation.

Notes After A Hard Day

By DON SCHLIENZ

As a rebuttal to complaints that newspapers only prefer to print "bad" news, it is pleasant to reflect that in a matter of a few days newspapers all over the land will be reporting names of graduates and their accomplishments.

Even the smallest papers will make a special effort to carry pictures of their community graduates; and all take pride in citing the scholarships and honors won by the young students.

Completion of high school, or college, is something editors like to see in their papers. It is, in a manner of speaking, putting the record in perspective.

The record of our young people, as manifested by their accomplishments over the long haul of education, far overshadows the failures of the few who go astray.

Reflecting further on the approach of the school term's end

I'll bet the most faithful PTA meeting-goer in the county is very conscious their season of conscientious attendance is drawing to a close.

If the final meeting of the school year has not yet been held, it certainly soon will be.

Our family are beginners in this particular field; only two years' worth of service stripes; but there are thirteen to go.

A friend who sat through one of those hours-long movies had a complaint.

Not about the movie, he said that was okay; but he was disgusted with the "conditioning" of television.

"Every time there was a slight interruption in the film, as when switching from one projector to another, I could feel an automatic impulse to get up for a cigarette, a drink, a stretch, or something," he said. "It was as though my subconscious was anticipating a 'commercial,' and reacting on cue as when I was watching TV."

He enquired of others, and found they too felt that "trigger."

Curious, I posed the same question.

Some said "yes," some didn't remember.

But it's evident we're all subject to surprising influences.

The writer attended last night's board meeting of the local American Cancer Society unit, and was particularly struck by the emphasis that cancer-awareness isn't something for one month of the year.

Reports indicated more people were given cancer information material this past April in Pitt than may have been reached in other years.

A doctor told the group he had witnessed a surprising increase in requests for a specific cancer test in his examinations, and credited it to a greater awareness among the public as to the stitch-in-time theme the Cancer Society has been preaching.

The heart of his message was this: more lives, by the score, could be saved here in Pitt County, by the general practice of having an annual physical examination with the goal of catching cancer in its early stages, when the odds of a cure are immeasurably greater.

It makes good sense.

Opinions In Brief

"The duty to reapportion after every census is not a fictive contrivance of the United States Supreme Court. It is a prime directive of the Constitution of the state of Alabama."—The Montgomery Advertiser.

"People see things in different ways. An archeologist will call the Grand Canyon a wonder of natural science, a clergyman will say it's 'one of God's glories,' and a cowboy will say 'That's a heck of a place to lose a cow.'—Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont.

Start Of Big Medicare Push

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Kennedy talks on television and radio Sunday about medical care for the aged it will be a start of the big push for his program and a vivid insight into a way he handles Congress.

For almost a decade—ever since President Truman left—there have been no brawls between the White House and senators and representatives.

President Eisenhower, while sometimes critical of the Democrats as a party, followed an opposite technique for eight years in dealing with individual members of Congress in both parties.

He didn't attack or criticize individually, Kennedy pursued the same system. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, because that's the way he operated in the Senate, probably would have done likewise if he were president.

Whether Eisenhower was, or Johnson is, an influence on Kennedy is not clear. Probably not. After 14 years in Congress himself, Kennedy could be expected to operate this way. It's his way.

But just because medical care for the aged is one of his major programs and one of those for which he will fight hardest, his tactics in pressing it illuminate a number of things about his presidency.

By avoiding head-on clashes with individual members of Congress who oppose him on one issue, he puts no personal reason in the way of their support on other programs where they have no particular stake or feeling.

Other Editors Saying Textbook Censorship

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Time was when textbooks for our schools were used through several generations without anyone questioning the use of such books, for whatever reason. Well, perhaps that wasn't a healthy situation, with absolutely no one around to question the advisability of using this or that textbook for one's children. On the other hand, we can go too far in the other direction, too. In fact, that seems to be what we are doing today.

The current climate is one of pressure group censorship on educational publishers. Never has pressure been greater than it is today from so many different groups. And such pressure is not aimed solely at books, but at movies, television, radio, almost anything one cares to name. And such pressure is not haphazard; it is organized, well-heeled, persistent—often vicious.

The situation in textbooks has been serious for several years, only now it is taking on new shapes with new groups getting into the act of censorship of educational materials.

There are four well-known types of censorial attacks leveled at textbook materials. First, attacks from so-called patriotic organizations which allege that books are Communist tainted or else not quite American enough.

Second, people who raise the racial issue, saying minority interests aren't represented enough or, on the other hand, are too well represented. Third, people who feel their privacy is being invaded by such means as test materials on family relationships where, for example, the question might be asked: "Do you hate your brother?"

And fourth, complaints honestly intended to question the style and taste of materials and instruction. This latter type of complaint is to be desired, for with such interest comes improved textbook materials. Usually in such complaints as this type there is no ulterior motive, no selfish purpose. It is an honest, constructive type of complaint.

The others spring purely from self-interest. Pressure groups, whether of a minority nature or a majority, seem to have gained the field. They are particularly effective in influencing government agencies.

We saw a classic example of this sort of thing back several months ago when the New York chapter of American Italians decided it wasn't very nice of the TV program, "The Untouchables," to tell about all those Italian gangsters who were put away by law enforcement agencies during the Thirties.

That's just one case. The school books are another example. One wonders just what kind of watered-down version of Robinson Crusoe on kids will be ultimately reading if such pressures aren't resisted.

By ELMER ROESSNER
Probably the most significant speech of the day is one scheduled to be delivered by Conrad Taeuber, assistant director of the Bureau of the Census, before the annual meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board in New York.

Taeuber's subject is not the coming rise in the price of steel, the future of the stock market, or the drain in the American gold. Far more important to business is his topic: people in 1965.

The number of people—every one of them a consumer—is the most vital factor to be considered in long-range business planning. And the Census man's figures point to a lot of consumers, although in changing brackets.

POPULATION: 196 MILLION IN 1965
Here are some of the points in Taeuber's talk.
The population of the United States may be 196.2 million in 1965, assuming a continuation of the present birth rate and no nuclear war. There are about

Population Rise And Business

186.3 million today.
An increase of 3.5 million youths between 15 and 19 years over the number in 1960 may be expected.

An increase of 5 million in all the teenagers in that period.
By 1965, there will be 36 million in the 10 to 19 bracket, compared with 22 million in 1950.

There will be a decline in the number of persons in the 30-to-40 bracket, indicating a shortage of skilled craftsmen and young executives.

INCREASE IN SENIORS
There will be an increase in persons in the 40-64 bracket, probably experiencing less competition for jobs because of the drop in the 30-40 group.

The population over 65 will continue its rapid increase.
The total labor force will be almost 89 million, compared with 75.6 million in March of this year.
There will be a sharp rise in demand for people with professional, technical and related skills.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TRUE RELIGION AND FALSE
In a world containing many bad things, nothing is worse than bad religion. When this source of inspiration becomes corrupted, and when men who are supposed to administer in the name of Christ lend themselves to the manipulation of evil forces, then such religion becomes an offense in the sight of all good people.

Such did the Russian church become previous to the Bolshevik revolution. The Church in that country had for centuries served tyranny and oppression. It was corrupt, venal, and lacking in most of the qualities which would make it a true Church of Christ.

But the Russian Church today is different. It is said to have humbled its heart and to have become a true and living Church indeed. Its leaders realize the mistakes of those who went before, and they are trying now to do everything possible to fulfill their service to the Russian people. In Moscow, churches are said to be crowded, even though the insufferable communists do everything in their power to make and keep the Russian people atheistic.

In 1943 the Russian Church began every Sunday using a prayer, one sentence of which is as follows: "Let our prayer help on the work of reconciliation among those whom our feeble witness to our faith stimulated in opposition to Christianity."
The worst enemies of the Christian Church are those who claim to be Christian but who believe their pretensions. The only way we can win the world to Christian faith is by demonstrating in our daily lives that we adhere to that faith, and live up to its demands.

The Day of the Lord

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Boescher

Scripture—Psalms 138; II Peter 3: Jude.

Peter warns that "in the last days" the world will seem overrun with scoffers, who say the Lord has not fulfilled His promise to come in glory, and that things have been the same since creation.—II Peter 3:3-4.

However, Peter says, God reckons time differently, counting "one day as a thousand years." Also, "the creation" was the result of a Creator, who once destroyed in a flood what He created.—II Peter 3:5-6.

The apostle Jude concurs, mentioning that God gave an example of the punishment He was prepared to mete out to those who repudiated the faith, in destroying the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah.—Jude 5, 7.

Both apostles urge Christians to cling zealously to their faith, so they may "be found by Him without blemish" on Judgment Day, when "the elements shall be dissolved."—II Peter 3:10, 14. GOLDEN TEXT: II Timothy 1:12.

The Day of the Lord

TWO NEW TESTAMENT PROPHECIES OF A TIME OF WORLD-WIDE APOSTASY AND FUTURE TROUBLE

Scripture—Psalm 138; II Peter 3; Jude.

By N. SPEER JONES
THE LAST chapter of Peter's Second Epistle and the Epistle of Jude have often been compared in their prophetic preoccupation with what commonly has been called Judgment Day, the Day of the Lord or the Day of God.

This "day" is not to be interpreted literally as a day, but rather as a time or period. In the Old Testament, the phrase was somewhat ambiguous, being used to refer both to immediate manifestations of God's power and distant premonitions of it.

With the New Testament, the meaning of the phrase becomes fixed via the apostles, imbued with the Holy Spirit's revelations. It means a period beyond our notions of time, when God will be supreme in men's thoughts, when human things shall loom insignificant beside the Eternal, and when all men must give an account of them-are immutable, or that the laws do not imply a Lawgiver.

It is easy to imagine what a period of cynicism must have flourished about the time that these two letters were written; most of the early church leaders had died ("the fathers fell asleep"—II Peter 3:4) and still Christ's promise to return again had not been fulfilled.

It needed the faith and insight of the Holy Spirit to understand that God's time was not reckoned the same as man's, and that God's promises must be fulfilled in God's time, not man's ("one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day") II Peter 3:8.

Peter's description of the "new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness" (II Peter 3:13) may be considered a magnification of the rebirth of an individual when he receives Christ.

The New Testament mentions

selves. As Christ says, "For every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give an account thereof in the Day of Judgment" (Matthew 12:36); Peter asserts that "unjust men are reserved unto the Day of Judgment to be punished" (II Peter 2:9).

One commentator, C. F. Keil, terms the Day of the Lord the time when God issues a judgment "through which everything that has been brought to eternity by the stream of time, unjudged and unadjusted, will be judged and adjusted once for all, to bring to an end the whole development of the world in accordance with its divine appointment and perfect the Kingdom of God by the annihilation of all its foes" (quoted in "Pealouet's Select Notes," p. 184).

Peter brings out a fallacy very common in this scientific day—the supposition that because things appear to work by certain fixed laws, these laws based on copyrighted outlines produced National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. three men named Jude (or Judas or Judas). One was the infamous Judas Iscariot, one is mentioned in John 14:22, and the third, the author of our letter, was apparently a member of the family of Joseph and Mary, "brother of James" (Jude I) and of Christ Himself.

Jude's letter is entirely concerned with one problem—that of apostasy, or repudiation of faith. It has often been compared with the second chapter of Peter's Second Epistle, with many Bible scholars attempting to prove that one was based on the other.

Our lesson includes an alleviation from the dire warnings of these two New Testament prophecies—Psalm 138, which reminds us that those who are working sincerely for Christ have nothing to fear on Judgment Day. "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou wilt revive me. . . Thy loving-kindness, O Jehovah, endureth for ever" (Psalm 138:7-8).

Open House Will Open Prints Exhibit

JAMES A. WALKER . . . a former supervisor of art for Greenville schools, will present a one-man show of serigraph prints at the Greenville Art Center beginning with an open house this Sunday.

Open house will be held at Greenville Art Center Sunday from 2 until 4 p. m., signifying the beginning of an exhibition of serigraph prints by James A. Walker of Flint, Mich.

The prints will be on display through June 15.

Walker was art supervisor of the Greenville city schools from 1949 until 1956, and a critic teacher of art for East Carolina College during the same time. In 1953 he exhibited 30 watercolors here, which received favorable review.

While in Greenville, he was one of 30 North Carolina artists selected by Lucy Cherry Crisp to represent the state at the Clinton Court Gallery in New York City in 1956. He has also exhibited at the Creative, Caravan and Arkep Galleries in New York City.

His work has been selected twice for the Michigan Watercolor Traveling Exhibition. Walker has had one-man shows at the Norfolk Museum, North Carolina Museum of Art, Wilmington College and Peace College. In addition, he has been represented in group shows such as the Irene Leach Memorial at Norfolk, several North Carolina Annuals; South-eastern Artists Annuals in Atlanta; several Washington Watercolor Club National Competitions; and numerous local, state and national exhibitions.

As well as an exhibiting artist, Walker has written and published eleven art education articles. His work has been cited in recent editions of "Who's Who in American Art."

A native of Indiana, Walker holds a B. S. degree from Western Michigan University, an M. A. degree from Columbia University and a M.F.A. from Michigan State University. He is a member of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters and the Michigan Watercolor Society. Walker's "Woodland," presented by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, is in the permanent collection of the Greenville Art Center. The Winston-Salem Women's Club owns his "Spring Green"; and the Norfolk Museum owns his watercolor, "Hecate's Slave."

He is now art instructor at Northern High School and the Mott Foundation in Flint, Mich. He has received three "honorable mentions," a first and third prize in graphics in six Flint Institute of Arts exhibitions.

His work has been colorfully appraised by art critics, such as Jill Johnston of "Art News" magazine, who labels his prints as "lively." S. Gordon Gapper, art critic for the Flint Journal, said Walker is a prolific printmaker for whom silkscreen prints "are a happy medium." He added, "The result is always a colorful design inviting interpretation. Walker's work is that of a painstaking craftsman, highly decorative, hardly impassioned or introspective but unstilted and showing a highly inventive mind."

Walker numbers his prints, rather than giving them titles, mainly because of handling and accounting for some 70 prints in a traveling exhibition. Every print of a limited edition is called an original.

Serigraphs are better known as silk-screen prints, and as an artist's medium, are not much more than 20 years old. However, they are now accepted by museums, galleries and collectors as a fine arts form of limited and original prints. They are not to be confused with commercial silkscreen print.

The Greenville Art Center is open daily Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m., except on special opening dates, such as Sunday's open house. The public is invited.

Reports Heard By Cancer Board

The board of directors of the Pitt County unit of the American Cancer Society was told last night that April's Crusade could be expected to match last year's figures in terms of receipts, and that distribution of educational material was on a bigger scale than ever before.

Crusade Chairman Jack White said not all reports had been received, but could be expected within a few days.

And, in keeping with its emphasis on education and information, the board voted to purchase a film projector to further the work of the Education Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert Holt.

Holt's report in this field was given by Mrs. Marvin Turner, who said programs had been given 17 civic organizations, seven industrial plants, on two TV programs and four theater showings since January. Twenty teacher kits, she said, had been placed with schools in the county.

Dr. J. E. Clemens, chairman of the Medical and Scientific committee, reported the "Conquer Uterine Cancer" program sponsored by the N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs had spread an awareness of the importance of check-ups and examinations to a great degree, and could be counted as an important asset in the over-all program.

Mrs. C. L. Lupton, chairman of the Memorial Fund program, reported the year-old organization as gaining ground. Representatives of the Fund were designated in each community of the county.

Dr. Howard Gradis, president of the Pitt Unit, called attention of the board to elections scheduled at the September meeting.

A film, "Prognosis, Hope," was shown. Prepared by the American Cancer Society, it dealt with the story of the one-in-three cancer patients now being saved by early detection of the malignancy, and the continuing work of the ACS in the fields of research and alerting the public to the need for early diagnosis.

$450,394 Is Shared By Church-Related Colleges

GREENSBORO (AP)—Checks totaling $450,394 were presented 23 church-related North Carolina colleges here Thursday at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges.

They represented gifts from 332 corporations, partnerships and individuals.

President of the foundation board, Archie K. Davis, chairman of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., reported that in the foundation's nine-year history it has contributed $2,116,086, all of it going to increase faculty salaries.

Davis was re-elected as was President Clyde A. Milner of Guilford College, president of the foundation.

Stuart T. Saunders, president of the Norfolk and Western Railway and chairman of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, was the dinner meeting speaker. He told his audience that without the 23 private institutions their tax bill could have been 30 per cent higher than the $8,700,000 required to maintain and operate 17 tax-supported schools in the state last year.

Here's how the money was distributed:

Atlantic Christian College $23,525; Belmont Abbey $16,939; Brevard $15,633; Campbell $25,624; Catawba $20,949; Chowan $19,422; Elon $23,467; Gardner-Webb $17,941; Greensboro $17,848.

Creative Program For Typing Class

A typing class conducted at Belvoir-Palkland High School in conjunction with the Pitt County Schools program for the gifted has not only taught these students to type, but also to use the typewriter as a means of creativity.

Mrs. Mary H. Fabor, in charge of the program for the gifted in county schools, said students of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades have used typewriters in writing creative stories, poems and making designs. The students were sometimes given an assigned topic to write on, and other times were allowed to write whatever they wished.

The program has been highly successful for the few months it has been offered to these students, Mrs. Fabor said.

Cambodia Will Buy UN Bonds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cambodia informed acting Secretary-General U Thant Thursday it intends to buy $5,000 in U.N. bonds.

This brings to 32 the number of countries that have purchased or pledged to purchase a total of $64,946,175 of the $200 million bond issue. Pending congressional approval, the United States is expected to buy up to another $100 million.

Dr. Geo. Douglas Named Civitan Zone Lt. Governor

The selection of Dr. George Douglas of the Greenville Civitan Club as new Lt. Governor of Civitan Zone 14 was announced at the Thursday night meeting of the local group.

Present Lt. Governor Zeb Hopkins of Havelock presented Douglas with a pin denoting his new office. Dr. Douglas will serve an annual term beginning July 1 as governing officer of the 10 Eastern N. C. Civitan Clubs comprising Zone 14.

Hopkins also presented a plaque from Civitan International to Dr. Kenneth Quiggins honoring the recipient for "outstanding contributions to Civitan projects." Hopkins cited service Dr. Quiggins has rendered in the mentally retarded children's field.

A special guest of the evening was Paul Loth, manager of the Greenville Water Pollution Control facility. Loth, born in Indonesia of Dutch parents, recently immigrated with his wife and five children to this country from the Netherlands.

Through the assistance of a group in Winterville the family obtained furniture and housing there and now reside in that town. A marine and mechanical engineer, Loth obtained his current position with the Greenville Utilities shortly after his arrival in this area.

He recalled his experiences as an employee of American oil companies in the East Indies and his internment in a Japanese prison camp during World War II.

Noting the crowded conditions in his native Holland, Loth cited

"more space, opportunity, and other things offered by America" as reasons for his coming to this country.

Prior to Loth's introduction by Pat Taylor, Club President Herbert Wilkerson read a letter from Martha Henderson, Secretary of Rose High School Band, which expressed appreciation for the club's recent donation of $500 to the band. Bill Taylor and Louis Jones, Civitan representatives on the new Civic Building committee, reported on progress made towards the construction of the planned center.

Bill Hicks attended the meeting as a guest of the club.

Greenville, the northern division winner was scheduled to travel to Kinston today to meet the Red Devils in the first game of a two out of three series to determine the conference championship.

Kinston opened up the scoring in the bottom of the second inning after holding New Bern to three up and three down in the first and second frames.

The Red Devils picked up four runs in the second off three walks, two hits, a wild pitch and an error.

Johnny Biddle and Charles Whitley both walked and the bases were loaded when T.A. Dodson connected for a single to centerfield. Ralph Lyon then hit a double over the leftfielder's head scoring all three men on base. Lyon advanced to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch.

Neither team was able to score in the third inning, but Kinston came back in the fourth for four more runs.

Dodson got on base off an error by the third baseman and stole second. Lyon then walked and Bob Koehler loaded the bases when he connected for a single.

A base hit by Julian King scored Dodson from third leaving the bases full. The other three runs came in on two singles and a fielder's choice.

In the fifth frame Kinston continued to add to their score when they picked up two more runs. Lyon walked and King was safe on a fielder's choice advancing Lyon to second. The next batter, Tommy Dail, connected for what should have been a double scoring Lyon and King, but Dail tried to make it to third and was thrown out.

New Bern's only run of the game came in the top of the sixth when Donnie Davis hit a single and stole second. Davis scored on a base hit by Mike Hardison after Norman Swindell was hit by the Pitcher.

The winning pitcher for Kinston was Dail who allowed seven hits, struck out eight, and walked one. Credited with the loss was Mike Hardison who hurled the first four and one-third innings for New Bern. He allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked eight.

Little League Play Postponed

Little League games scheduled for today were postponed because they conflicted with school activities.

The games between Exchange and Pepsi Cola and Texaco and Kiwanis have been rescheduled for June 6 which means a doubleheader for both leagues.

Talks Possible Move For Club

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles O. Finley has discussed with other American League club owners the possibility of moving his Kansas City Athletics to Dallas-Fort Worth, The Associated Press learned today.

It could not be confirmed immediately whether Finley officially requested the transfer. Finley's proposal, which has been reported in the works for some time, was made here Thursday at a closed session of league officials and team owners.

Security And Jaycees Both Win

Tarheel
Security Life won their first game of the season yesterday when they defeated the Moose nine 6-1 in Tar Heel Little League action.

The Moose team opened up the scoring in the top of the first inning when Carl Abee got on base off an error by the shortstop. He advanced to second on a wild pitch, stole third and scored on an error by the first baseman.

However, the Moose lead was short lived as Security Life picked up three runs in the bottom of the inning. Leadoff batter Tommy Cox connected for a single and advanced to third on a double by Barry Sautler. Cox and Sautler both scored on a double by Richard Spivey who stole third and home for the last run of the frame.

Neither team was able to score in the second inning, but Security Life strengthened their lead in the bottom of the third when they put three more runners across the plate. Cox got to first on an error by the shortstop and an error by the third baseman advanced him to second. Cox moved to third when Ed Vincent got a fielder's choice.

A double by Sautler scored Cox and Vincent while Sautler managed to steal third and home. The winning pitcher for Security Life was Billy Dunn who allowed three hits, struck out six, and walked five. Losing pitcher John Lautesque gave up four hits, struck out two and walked none.

Doing the hitting for the winners was Cox who was one for three, Sautler who was two for three, and Spivey who was one for two. Abee was one for four, H. T. Wainright was one for three and David Harrington was one for two for the Moose nine.

The next game in the Tar Heel League will be Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Elm Street Park when Security Life meets Greenville Tobacco Company. The game will be followed at 5 o'clock by Coca-Cola and Optimists in a North State contest.

North State
The Jaycees, coached by Wiley Forbes, successfully opened their season yesterday as they defeated Coca-Cola by a score of 7-2. Cleve Branch was the winning pitcher while William Moyer was credited with the loss.

Coca-Cola opened the scoring in the top of the third as they collected one run off of a walk, a hit batter, and an error. With one out, Bob Smith reached first base safely on a walk. The next batter, Dick Clark, was hit by a wild pitch putting Coca-Cola runners on first and second.

Both boys then stole third and second respectively to advance to good scoring positions. Branch was put out at home as he attempted to steal on a wild pitch, however, Clark advanced to third on the play. Ralph Vincent stepped into the batter's box and rapped a hard grounder to second. Clark came in to score as Vincent reached first safely on an error.

The Jaycees were unwilling to fall behind in the contest as they came to bat in the bottom of the third. They picked up two runs on three hits. With one out, Ronnie Leggett tripled to deep centerfield to bring Cleve Branch to the plate. Branch came through with a single to score Leggett, tying the score 1-1. Ken Hite then followed with a long double to send Branch home and put the Jaycees ahead 2-1.

In the bottom of the fifth, the Jaycees captured five runs on no hits, two walks, and five errors. Coca-Cola returned in the top of the sixth to gain one run on two hits, however, this was not enough for a victory. Branch, the winning pitcher, struck out five, walked four, allowed two runs, and two hits. He also scored two runs and collected one hit for the afternoon.

Moyer, the losing pitcher, struck out seven, allowed six walks, and gave up seven runs on three hits. Only two of the seven runs were earned as Coca-Cola made six errors during the contest.

The next Little League games are scheduled to be played Saturday afternoon at Elm Street Park. There will be a double-header as Security Life meets Greenville Tobacco Co. in the first game at 3 o'clock and Coca-Cola goes up against the Optimists at 5 o'clock.

SC Player Says He Had Many Sleepless Nights

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — "I didn't sound bad the way it was but it has caused me a lot of sleepless nights since."

Those were the words of Larry Dial, former University of South Carolina basketball player whose name was linked Thursday with gambling fixes of college basketball games.

Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan mentioned four former South Carolina players. Others named were Richard Hoffman, Mike Callahan and Bob Frantz.

"We're after the ones who got us mixed up in all this," said Dial. "What's been done can't be undone but we can cooperate in every way possible in hopes the same thing won't happen to someone else."

"I can't explain it," he went on. "I acted like a high school kid. You never know what you will do until it happens to us. It happened to me that one game and I made the mistake although I never really did anything wrong."

Hogan said Frantz and Dial were paid $500 each to lose the game with North Carolina State here on Dec. 8, 1959, by three or more points. He said the players were required to give back the payments after South Carolina won 71-70.

Frantz, married and the father of a young child, said he resigned his job with the Richland County supervisor's office Wednesday when he realized that "a lot of publicity" was imminent.

Frantz said he didn't think he or Dial face prosecution.

Hogan said Hoffman was paid $1,000 to throw a game with Georgia in the State Bowl tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., on Dec. 29, 1957. Georgia beat South Carolina, 77-58.

Hogan said Hoffman was involved in two other games. The district attorney said Hoffman was paid $1,000 for his services in the game played at Columbia on Feb. 22, 1958, which Wake Forest won 72-58.

Hogan said Hoffman was no longer eligible to play when given $1,000 for himself and $700 to fix some other player to dump the game with Georgia Tech at Atlanta on Dec. 20, 1958. However, said Hogan, "There is no evidence that this game was fixed. Tech won, 92-62."

The district attorney said Callahan, captain of the team, was bribed $1,000 to dump the game with Wake Forest at Columbia on Feb. 24, 1959. Wake Forest won, 88-58.

Frank Johnson, South Carolina

basketball coach in 1957-1958, and Walter Hambrick, coach during 1958-1959, said they were shocked to learn of Hogan's latest statement.

Johnson said Hoffman played only about a minute and a half in the Gator Bowl game won by Georgia.

"He (Hoffman) didn't score and he didn't foul anyone as far as I can remember," said Johnson.

Of the Dec. 20, 1958, game won by Georgia Tech, Hambrick said: "Nothing went right in practice and then in the game. I thought we had a good chance of winning but after the first three minutes I knew we never would. Tech really could have poured it on if they had wanted to."

Dodgers Take A Step Closer

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The fleet feet of rally-maker Maury Wills have pulled the Los Angeles Dodgers another step closer to the top in that National League pennant chase.

Held to two hits going into the ninth inning, the Dodgers got rolling against Houston Thursday night on a bunt single by Wills, then whipped the Colts 3-4 in the 10th inning.

The victory pulled the Dodgers within three games of the league-leading San Francisco Giants, blanked 1-0 by third-place St. Louis on Bob Gibson's six-hitter.

Wills, a .248 hitter, opened the ninth against Jim Golden with his bunt single and when the inning was over Golden was gone, the Colts 4-0 lead had disappeared and the Dodgers had sent it into extra innings. Wills then singled in the 10th and scored the clincher on Wally Moon's single.

Cincinnati fell back into fourth place with their six-game winning streak cut off by Philadelphia's 9-6 triumph and Milwaukee belted Pittsburgh 7-2 in the only other games scheduled.

In the American League, the New York Yankees moved into a tie for first place with Cleveland by edging Boston 2-1 and Baltimore defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-4. The other clubs were not scheduled.

The Colts built their 4-0 lead with former Dodgers driving in all the runs. Norm Larker accounted for two. Bob Aspromonte's single knocked in one and Carl Warwick got the other with a homer.

Wills' single, one by Jim Gilliam and a double by Moon finished Golden and brought in Bob Tiefenauer (1-3), who was touched for a single by Tommy Davis. Davis scored the tying run on a single by Ron Fairly. Gilliam's single and an intentional walk after Wills got on set it up for Moon's game-winning. Ed Roebuck (2-0) picked up the victory in relief.

The Cards used an unearned run to end San Francisco's 10-game home victory streak after Gibson (5-2) worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth. Billy O'Dell (5-1) lost it.

Unbeaten Cal McLish, backed by a three-homer barrage, registered victory No. 4 in beating the Reds with ninth inning assistance from relievers Jack Baldschun and Chris Short. Don Demeter's three-run homer capped a five-run surge in the fifth that put it away for the Phils and handed Jim O'Toole (3-5) the setback.

The Braves scored all seven runs in the first inning, chasing Pirates' starter Bob Friend (4-4). Tom Surdiant came on and gave up three additional runs on an intentional walk, a single and Howie Bedell's triple. That made it easy for Bob Shaw (4-1), who coasted with an eight-hitter—one a homer by Bill Virdon.

Kinston Raleigh Game Rhubarb

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kinston fans are still talking about a rhubarb that occurred Thursday night in a Carolina League game with the Raleigh Caps.

Raleigh jumped to a three-run lead in the first and went on to win 7-1. Shortstop Roberto Pena and Kinston Manager Pete Peterson were ejected and another Kinston player, Gene Michael, was called out on strikes while not even in the batter's box.

During the argument, chairs and other objects were thrown into the field but no one was injured. The rhubarb was touched off when the plate umpire called Pena out on strikes.

Burlington, outfit 6-5, came from behind with one run each in the fourth and fifth innings to defeat Greensboro 2-1.

Top place Winston-Salem broke loose with eight runs in the second inning to defeat second place Durham 8-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Bobby Marr.

A 13-hit attack behind George Miller's six-hit pitching gave Wilson a 6-1 victory over Rocky Mount.

Tonight's games: Greensboro at Burlington; Kinston at Raleigh; Wilson at Rocky Mount; Durham at Winston-Salem.

Concentration On Qualifying

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Such perennial contenders as Jim Rathmann, Troy Ruttman and Eddie Sachs will forget about records and concentrate on making the program when the Indianapolis Motor Speedway opens Saturday for the final weekend of qualifications for the 46th 200-mile Memorial Day race.

Parnelli Jones set a hard-to-reach record of 130.37 miles an hour for the 10-mile test last weekend as 21 spots were filled in the 33-car lineup.

Former winners Rathmann and Ruttman will have to start far back in the field, regardless of their speeds.

Cars already qualified will hold their positions, unless some of them are eliminated when "bumping" starts. This begins after 33 cars have qualified. The slowest can be eliminated by a better performance.

Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers has fanned 177 or more batters a season in his five full years in the American League.

NY Pitchers Get Timely Lift

Greenville To Play Kinston Away Tonight

The northern and southern division playoffs between Greenville and Kinston for the Northeastern Conference championship will be held tonight and Saturday.

The two clubs will meet tonight in Kinston at 7:30 for the first game of the two out of three series and they will play the second game in Guy Smith Stadium Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The playoffs were originally supposed to begin yesterday, but because of a tie in the southern division the dates had to be shifted. Kinston won the southern division at Guy Smith Stadium yesterday when they defeated New Bern 10-1 to break the tie.

Just when it was needed most, the New York Yankees' battered pitching crew has gotten a lift from two longshot prospects.

Bob Turley and Marshall Bridges collaborated Thursday as the Yankees squeezed by the Boston Red Sox 2-1 and into a share of the American League lead with Cleveland.

Turley, making his first start since July of last year, allowed only two singles over seven innings and Marshall finished up for the victory. Towering right-hander Gene Conley lost it.

In the only other AL game scheduled, the Baltimore Orioles beat Bo Belinsky and the Los Angeles Angels 6-4.

In the National League, St. Louis trimmed San Francisco 1-0. Los Angeles rebounded in the ninth and tenth innings for a 5-4 victory over Houston; Philadelphia ended Cincinnati's winning string at six games, 9-6; and Milwaukee romped over Pittsburgh 7-2. The Mets and the Cubs were idle.

Turley, who fireballed his way to the top after being acquired by the Yankees from Baltimore in 1954, was acclaimed baseball's foremost pitcher in 1958 after a 21-7 season and a brilliant World Series showing.

But he plunged to an 8-11 mark the next year, then really ran into trouble last season when arm trouble rendered him all but useless and he finished at 8-8.

Definitely a question mark this season, Turley made three brief relief stints before drawing yesterday's big assignment. Powerful and poised, he faltered only in the second when singles by Jim Faglar and Gary Geiger and Carroll Hardy's sacrifice fly produced the lone Boston run.

Turley was lifted in the eighth Thursday for pinch-hitter Roger Maris, out of the regular lineup with a pulled leg muscle. Maris flied out, but the Yanks went on to gain the tying run.

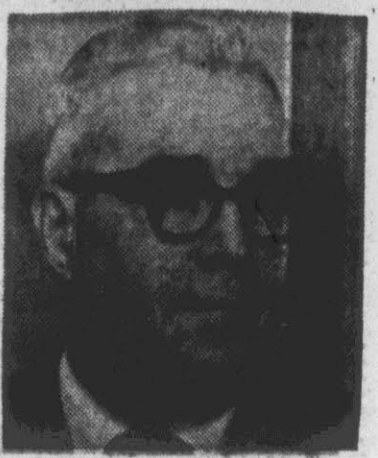

Mickey Mantle walked then raced to third on a stolen base and scored the winner on Elston Howard's fly.

Bridges was felled in the eighth by Pete Runnels' line shot. The husky left-hander waved off first aid and a stretcher crew, gave up a single to Ed Bressoud, then proceeded to retire the final four Red Sox in order.

Bridges, who has proved a solid stand-in for sore-armed Luis Arroyo, cashed in his first American League victory and is unscathed on in nine appearances totaling 9 2/3 innings.

Belinsky, boasting an impressive 5-0 record including the no-hitter of May 5 against the Orioles, was soundly trounced at Baltimore. The southpaw gave up a walk, successive homers to rookie John Powell and Jackie Brandt in the first and was lifted after doubles to Jerry Adair and Gus Triandos plus a walk in the third.

Los Angeles batters sprayed 12 hits off winning rookie Art Calkins and knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm but 11 Angels struck out and 11 more were stranded on the bases.

Molinas Arrested On Cage Fixing Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—There may be another fiery burst or two remaining in the Roman candle college basketball scandals which flare and subside, flare and subside again.

The latest flare was the arrest Thursday of Jack Molinas, 30, a former college and professional player, on charges of conspiring to fix college games over wide portions of the country.

Molinas was named in a five-count indictment as the master mind of a ring of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and St. Louis gamblers who allegedly negotiated deals with 22 players in 12 cities in an attempt to fix 25 games.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Molinas was the tenth fixer arrested in the mushrooming, widespread scandals. Nine others already have pleaded guilty. Hogan, however, declined to say if further arrests are expected.

Molinas, a 6-foot-5 Brooklyn attorney, was released in $5,000 bail. No trial date was set. Molinas played professionally for a time after his college career at Columbia, but then was barred by the National Basketball Association on charges of betting on his own team, the Fort Wayne Pistons.

The indictment includes three counts of bribery in alleged payments of $1,000 each, to William Dennis (Bill) Reed, 21, of New York, who played with the Bowling Green, Ohio, University team. He also was charged with conspiracy and with subornation of perjury in connection with Reed's testimony before a grand jury.

The indictment charges that Molinas conspired with players and gamblers named as co-conspirators, but not defendants, from Nov. 20, 1957 to March 17, 1961, to fix college games.

The players, colleges and games named in the indictment pushed the number listed in New York and North Carolina indictments to 49 players for 25 colleges and universities in 18 states. Only one of the 49 players reported the corrupt offers to authorities, Hogan said.

Thirty-two players were involved in point shaving deals in connection with 67 games from September 1957 to March 1961, Hogan said.

Hogan said Molinas paid Reed to dump three games, two in December, 1959, and one in December, 1960. No charge was placed against Reed.

All-Star Cast In Tonight's Relays

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 22nd annual Memorial Coliseum Relays, big show of the week for track and field patrons, goes on tonight with an all-star cast and such attractions as:

A clash in the "miracle mile" featuring New Zealand's great Peter Snell, who holds the pending world record; Oregon's Dyrrol Burleson, the American record holder, and Jim Greife of Los Angeles, a member of the sub 4-minute mile lodge.

Two men who have pole vaulted 16 feet, Marine Lt. Dave Turk and John Uelses of Washington, D.C.

The first meeting between the only 9.2 sprinters in the world, Frank Budd of Villanova and Bob Hayes of Florida A&M.

The spotlight centers on the mile, scheduled to be run at 8:25 p.m., PDT.

The 23-year-old Snell, a rather muscular 170-pound, 5-foot-10 1/2 young man, eclipsed the world mark of 3:54.5 held by Australia's Herb Elliott when he blazed the distance in :54.4 in New Zealand last Jan. 27.

Burleson, 21, a senior at the University of Oregon, defeated Snell at one mile and again at 880 yards in the winter of 1961 in New Zealand. He set his American record of 3:57.8 at Eugene, Ore., May 23, 1961.

Palmer Plays In Asheville

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Decidedly, the Kentucky Derby winner, and 10 other top colts tangle Saturday in the 86th Preakness with the odds all heavily against the star of Louisville capturing Pimlico's great classic for 3-year-olds.

The main stumbling block to California-bred Decidedly in this 1 1/2-mile race appears to be Jaipur, who was purposely withheld from the Derby by owner George D. Widener. Jaipur, a leading 2-year-old in 1961, has started only twice this year and won both races—the Gotham and the Withers mile at Aqueduct.

But Jaipur or no, Decidedly still would have powerful opposition in his bid for the second leg of the coveted triple crown—The Derby, Preakness, and Belmont.

Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan, the Derby favorite who finished third at Louisville May 5, could steal it all with his tremendous speed. So could T. A. Grissom's Roman Line, second in the Derby; Townsend B. Martin's unpredictable Sunrise County; or Crimmon King Farm's Crimmon Satan, the 1961 champion 2-year-old who seems to be returning to his best form.

Seven of the 15 horses who fought it out in the Derby are in the Preakness. In addition to George A. Pope Jr.'s Decidedly, Roman Line, Ridan, Sunrise County and Crimmon Satan, they are Mrs. Joe W. Brown's Green Hornet and Robert Lehman's Prego.

Jaipur, Brandywine Stable's Greek Money, Frank E. Power's Vimy Ridge, and Jope Stable's Flying Johnnie are the newcomers.

If all start in the classic to be televised and broadcast (CBS) from 4:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, the gross will be $188,300 with $135,800 for the winner. That would make it the second-richest Preakness. In 1959, Royal Orbit earned $137,800 when the pot was $190,300.

The Pimlico track oddsmaker lists Jaipur as the 5-2 favorite. He made Decidedly and Ridan co-second choices at 3-1.

Bill Hartack, who won the Preakness with Fabius in 1956, again will be aboard Decidedly. Manuel Ycaza is back on Ridan. Bobby Ussery, who won the Preakness with Bally Ache in 1960, will be aboard Jaipur.

The weatherman calls for fair skies with no rain in sight. They broke a track record in a routine race at Pimlico Thursday, and there's enough speed to menace Nashua's 1955 track and Preakness record of 1:54.3-5.

CARTER A. VAUGHAN'S Exciting Novel of Revolutionary Romance SCOUNDRELS' BRIGADE

CHAPTER 35
The days passed slowly. British patrols visited the farmhouse frequently, but the precautions Major Edwards had taken proved effective, even though the enemy searched the property systematically.

August Dale's hiding place was not discovered, Hugh Spencer and the other men concealed themselves in the underground vault beneath the cellar with several members of Edwards' unit, and Katie Dale fitted smoothly into her new role.

Her spirits revived when her father's condition began to improve, and she threw herself into her new part with such zest that even Hugh scarcely recognized her when he was allowed to come into the open.

It was significant that the men who had observed her with such interest when she had arrived at the farm paid no attention to her now, and Hugh told her that her new transformation was the most remarkable she had made.

Her hair, dyed a dull black, was scraped back from her forehead and hung listlessly in two long pig-tails; a shapeless dress of coarse lumpy woolseye gave her figure a lumpy appearance, and she experimented with several vegetable oils until she found a mixture that gave her skin an unappetizing sheen.

August failed to recognize her the first time he saw her after he regained consciousness, and she was so pleased by her ingenuity that his own will to live became stronger. Katie spent several hours with him each day, but hurriedly returned to the living quarters whenever a lookout beat on a small gong, a signal that an enemy patrol was approaching the place.

Hugh saw August frequently, too, and sought Katie's company when she wasn't busy, but she seemed ill at ease in his presence, and often reminded him that she was still his prisoner.

Major Edwards reported that the British were still searching for the bold raiders who had boarded the Phoenix, but a spy arrived from New York with the encouraging word that the group had escaped through the lines successfully. Then, in mid-October of 1777, the British had something far more urgent to occupy their energies and attention.

A messenger arrived at the farm late one night with news so breath-taking that Edwards and Hugh found it hard to believe. General John Burgoyne, one of England's most competent senior commanders, had led an army into New York from Canada, and General Howe had promised to send him support.

But Howe was enjoying life in Philadelphia, and Colonel Barry St. Leger, who was leading a column of Tory regiments and Iroquois Indians, was defeated by Mohawk Valley settlers defending their homes.

The Indians vanished into the forests, and Lord Burgoyne's divisions faced the Yankees alone. An American army of Continental and militiamen commanded by General Horatio Gates fought valiantly, then faltered, and for a time it appeared as though a dreary, familiar story would be repeated. But General Benedict Arnold of Connecticut rallied the Americans, who recovered and defeated the redcoats so decisively that Burgoyne was forced to surrender.

The Battle of Saratoga was the greatest victory the United States had won, and Hugh sat up until dawn with Major Edwards, discussing the triumph. Both men wondered whether the British would be forced to withdraw from Philadelphia and whether the War Office in London would replace Sir William Howe with another field commander, but neither knew enough about the enemy's situation to indulge in anything other than speculation.

But in less than a week they learned all they needed to know: Howe was drawing in his outposts and maintaining only a single, direct line of communication between New York and Philadelphia. General Washington was maneuvering near Philadelphia, men from every state were joining him daily, and the risk of capture by a British patrol was reduced to a minimum.

August had regained enough strength to travel, so the entire Scoundrels' Brigade left the farmhouse early one morning for Pennsylvania. However, Hugh preferred to take no unnecessary chances, and the carriage remained in Edwards' barn. The whole group rode on horses, all wore civilian clothes, and Katie was still disguised as a plain, black-haired country girl.

August tired easily, so the journey was made in easy stages, and Hugh called a halt each night at small country inns that Major Edwards had marked on a map. The owners of these establishments were confirmed patriots, so the party encountered no troubles anywhere.

But Katie continued to avoid Hugh, and finally August told the younger man in confidence that she was morose because the mission had ended, there was no useful function she could perform, and, having learned the significance of true personal integrity, she dreaded the prospect of being returned to Providence and standing trial as a common criminal. Hugh listened carefully, but kept his views to himself, although it was obvious that August was disturbed about his own future.

Early one afternoon in late October, Hugh rode into the American bivouac at the head of his motley command. A young officer led the group to the commander-in-chief's headquarters, and soon Hugh was sitting in Major Tallmadge's tent with his superior.

Tallmadge listened quietly to Hugh's report, examined the counterfeit plates carefully, and finally extended his hand. "General Washington will want to see you and offer you his congratulations, Hugh. In the meantime, accept mine."

"Thank you, Ben." Hugh leaned forward on the empty barrel that served as a stool. "This is a good time to remind you of your promise before I took this assignment. I hope I'll be returned to duty with a combat unit."

Tallmadge stretched his long legs beneath the board, supported by two kegs, that he was using as a desk. "The Battle of Saratoga," he said, "is going to make an enormous difference in the conduct of the war, although we don't expect specific results before next April, at the earliest. General Washington is confident that our envoys in Paris will be able to persuade the French government to sign a treaty of alliance with us now. But we face several problems in the coming months."

"There's a place waiting for me in my old regiment," Hugh said firmly. "Tallmadge didn't reply directly. 'Look at these.' Reaching under a pile of papers on the board, he drew out several Massachusetts two-pound notes and handed them to Hugh.

"Counterfeit?"
"Yes, and clever ones at that." Tallmadge paused for an instant. "I've recruited several more men for you during the months you've been in New York. Naturally, you'll want to interview them yourself, and you're under no obligation to accept any you don't want."

Hugh threw the money on the makeshift desk. "I'm a combat soldier!"
Tallmadge looked at him gravely. "You're one of the finest intelligence officers in the army, and the only man qualified to command a unit that will rid the country of counterfeiters."

"Are you rescinding your promise?"
"I have no choice, Hugh. Massachusetts is being flooded with false money, there are complaints from Georgia and South Carolina, and counterfeit notes are beginning to appear in Baltimore. I'd release you if I could, but I need you."

The fate of the Scoundrels' Brigade is revealed here tomorrow as the story reaches a swift conclusion.

The destroyers, Bradford and Brown, both 2,100-ton ships, have entered the Puget Sound, Wash., naval shipyard to be readied for takeover by their Greek crews this summer, the embassy said.

Coutts made the announcement in a speech from the throne, on behalf of Prime Minister Milton Obote, at the opening of a new session of the National Assembly.

JFK Claims Estes' Case Opened By Govm't; Mundt Says Too Soft

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says his administration cracked open the Billie Sol Estes case and is "staying right on Mr. Estes' tail." But Republican Sen. Karl Mundt charged today the administration held back on a crackdown on the indicted financier.

Mundt called it "complete capitulation to a guy out on the make."

At his news conference Thursday Kennedy disclosed that 75 FBI agents have been assigned to tracking down evidence on the Texas whose business empire—cracked by scandal and debts—collapsed.

Twice Kennedy emphasized that Estes' financial manipulations were brought to public attention when the federal government indicted him April 5.

"This matter came to public attention because this administration indicted Mr. Estes before a state agency in Texas or any place else moved," said the President.

But Mundt, senior Republican member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee exploring alleged influence dealings by Estes under federal farm programs, told reporters the subcommittee's investigators reported evidence that the Agriculture Department under Secretary Orville L. Freeman knew since July of Estes' complex, lucrative and allegedly illegal dealings in cotton acreage allotments. He said the department canceled the allotments in December, reinstated them in January, and finally imposed penalties on Estes last week which are "milder than its own rules call for."

Mundt said the order cancelling Estes' cotton allotments was rescinded at a meeting at the Agriculture Department attended by Estes, who was accompanied by a senator and a congressman.

John Bagwell, Agriculture Department counsel, told a newsman that Estes, accompanied by his attorney, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., came to the department on Jan. 6 to discuss the allotments.

The meeting was held, Bagwell said, in the office of Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy.

"I regarded it as a routine meeting," Bagwell said, "like many we have with citizens and their congressmen."

He said Estes argued the allotments were valid and that the department offered to give him time to prove it.

"Naturally we held up the cancellation procedures to give him a chance to provide the proof," said Bagwell. "When he failed to do this, we canceled the allotments."

Yarborough told a reporter he attended an Agriculture Department meeting in January at which Estes' troubles over the allotments were discussed. The senator said he does not recall the exact date.

Yarborough, who has acknowledged receiving $1,700 from Estes to help finance the senator's weekly radio broadcast to Texas, volunteered Thursday to testify before McClellan's subcommittee. Yarborough also has acknowledged he recommended Estes' appointment last year to the National Cotton Advisory Council.

Yarborough said he had no knowledge of the background details of the acreage matters in dispute at the meeting. He said he attended it at the request of Estes' lawyer, after having refused a request by Estes that he attend. He said he refused because he misunderstood the issue, but agreed to go after the lawyer had explained it more fully.

Yarborough said he told the department "each case (allotment) should be investigated and decided on its merits. I did not recommend any blanket finding that they were bona fide."

A complicating factor, he said, was the fact that natural gas had been found under some of the acreage which Estes had sold to farmers, then leased back their acreage allotments on the land.

The Estes case was the topic of the first question tossed at the President at his news conference Thursday and he obviously was primed for it.

Kennedy said the government will tolerate no employee who can even be suspected of serving two masters. Any official involved in improper deals with Estes will be "immediately disciplined appropriately," he declared. Two government aides have been fired and two others have resigned in the fast-boiling case.

Kennedy said Estes got his first government grain storage contracts in 1959 (under the Eisenhower administration), and that $5 million of the $7 million or $8 million fees the government paid on the contracts were received by Estes prior to 1961. Kennedy took office Jan. 20, 1961.

The President said FBI agents still are investigating the case, that action already has been taken against some government employees who figure in the inquiry.

"This government, is staying right on Mr. Estes' tail," he said. Chairman William E. Miller of the Republican National Committee Thursday issued a sharp dissent to Kennedy's claim that the administration's action first brought Estes to public attention.

"The President's statement does not square with the record," said Miller.

"Weeks before the Kennedy administration began to stir on the scandal, the Texas attorney general's office was in action, and newspapers across the nation were exposing sordid details of how the free-wheeling Texas promoter was juggling finances and lavishing gifts upon government officials in a position to favor him," Miller said.

Miller, in a statement by the GOP National Committee, called upon Kennedy to give Freeman a leave of absence as secretary of agriculture pending the findings of congressional investigators.

Cites No Losses For FHA Loans

Melvin H. Hearn, state director of the Farmers Home Administration for North Carolina, said today that during the 12-year operation of the FHA's rural housing loan program in North Carolina there have been no losses on these loans. The statement was based on the status of all loans obligated up to last Dec. 31.

More than $16.7 million has been advanced in rural housing loans in North Carolina. Hearn said, and principal and interest payments totaled about $5.8 million. "Not one dollar has been written off as uncollectable," Hearn said.

In Pitt County 16 rural housing loans have been made for a total of $148,205. The majority of these loans have been made during the last 2 years. One has been paid in full and all are current with their payments.

A fifth of all loans have been repaid in full, the FHA State Director said. Payments of principal and interest on the 1,754 loans outstanding total $3,318,000, or 111 percent of the amount that has become due.

"This is a remarkable tribute to the financial integrity of rural families, and their ability to manage their financial affairs," said Hearn. "Loans under this program are made only to those who cannot obtain financing from conventional sources. As a result, the 2,170 families who obtained these loans have had to be extra diligent in meeting their repayment obligations."

The repayment record on rural housing loan borrowers also is a tribute to the judgment of the 273 FHA county committeemen in North Carolina who assist in evaluating soundness of the loans, the state director said.

"This program provides benefits throughout the entire rural-based small town economy," he added. "Contractors, small businessmen supplying contractors and building trades workers all benefit through increased business. Their stepped-up activity in turn stimulates the entire rural economy."

"The approximately $6,000,000 in housing loans FHA will make available this year is the equivalent of many new industries in terms of more jobs and greater purchasing power," Hearn said.

VOTERS OF PITT COUNTY

I like to go forward, although I certainly realize that looking backward sometimes can be gainful experience for us in the future. I find the great thing is not so much where we stand, but in what direction we are moving to reach our destination.

Your vote for me for County Commissioner from the Fifth District will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
R. GUY JACKSON

Bishop Against Too Many Roles

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A Methodist bishop warns that the church has tried to do everybody's job "all the way from that of the Kiwanis Club to the psychiatrist's couch."

"If the church is not to become insignificant in our time," Bishop James K. Mathews of Boston said Thursday, "it must do its own job—to wit, to bear the word of God to the world."

He addressed the sixth assembly of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

Thin marble panels in the ceiling of the Lincoln Memorial were treated with beeswax to give translucence.

NEW YORK (AP) — A dawdling stock market moved into a narrow lower range early this afternoon in dull trading.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .20 to 240.10 with industrials off .20, rails unchanged and utilities off .30.
Price changes mainly were confined to fractions.
Steels, motors, mail order-retails, nonferrous metals and to baccos declined. Aircrafts, rails and drugs were mixed. Chemicals held a slight upside margin.
The market ignored some favorable predictions about the business outlook.
At a National Industrial Conference Board meeting in New York, economists expressed the opinion that a mild business upturn will continue this year, and businessmen predicted a sales gain.
Tobacco put a drag on the averages. American Tobacco and Reynolds lost about 2 points and Liggett & Myers and Lorillard were down more than a point.
Republic Steel, with a decline of about half a point, topped fractional losers among the steels.
Chrysler fell about a point while General Motors and Ford were off by lesser amounts.
Losers of half a point or a little more included Goodrich, RCA, International Nickel, Allied Chemical and Merck.
IBM declined more than 3 points. Polaroid lost 1 and Xerox half a point.
AT&T picked up 3-4. Du Pont was unchanged.
Fractional gainers included U.S. Rubber, United Aircraft, General Dynamics, Union Carbide and Texaco.
The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.65 to 648.14.
Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in quiet trading.
Corporate and government bonds were mixed.

Man Arrested After Child Hit By Bullet

Sanford said he had been told by an Air Force general that men and planes are now sent to Nevada to train at considerable expense and inconvenience.

A bombing range had been proposed in Hyde County, but the Air Force was stymied by protests that it would harm waterfowl hunting at Lake Mattamuskeet.

In reply to another question, Sanford declined to comment on whether the highway commis-
