CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Technicians checked Aurora 7, the Mercury spacecraft of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter and its Atlas launching rocket in detail today. If they find no more "bugs" in capsule or missile—if other factors are favorable, then the Aurora 7-Atlas combination will blast off next Thursday between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

A successful launch would fling Carpenter into the same type of 100-mile high, three-orbit flight that Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. made Feb. 20—but with several new experiments to be performed. The national Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned last week to launch Aurora 7 Tuesday. Discovery of a possible defect in an electrical device that keeps the Atlas flight control system from freezing up forced a postponement of at least two days.

President Leads All-Out Appeal To Public For His Medical Care Of Aged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kennedy administration, with the President leading the assault, has carried a plea for its medical care for the aged program across the nation in an attempt to bring pressure to bear on Congress. The American Medical Association goes on nationwide television tonight to counter the move. While President Kennedy addressed 17,400 persons at New York City's Madison Square Garden Sunday, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and other administration spokesmen sounded calls for support of medical care for the aged under Social Security at more than a score of rallies across the country.

Many listeners, including some gray-haired prospective recipients of benefits under the King-Anderson bill, chanted "We will, we will" when the spokesmen told them to write their congressmen and urge support for the measure. Kennedy whose speech was carried on nationwide television, predicted that the bill would pass Congress "this year, or as the tide comes in, next year." He noted that Britain adopted similar legislation 30 years ago. The American Medical Association, which vigorously opposes the Kennedy-backed measure, takes to the air at 7 p.m. (EST), tonight in a network television program (NBC) designed to answer the administration.

Secretary Stewart L. Udall told 700 persons that the medical care plan will provide for persons who helped build the United States with lifetimes of hard work. "This is the democratic way," he said. Dr. Martin Chersky, director of Welfare Secretary Abraham Ribicoff or the bill's sponsors—Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M.—and set a "concise explanation" of the proposal. Kennedy said the administration wants the help of doctors "and gradually we are getting it."

Pitt's Tobacco Could Use Some Rain This Week

While a serious hot-and-dry weather threat to Pitt County's 26,000-acre tobacco crop was not seen today by Pitt's Agricultural Extension Service tobacco specialist S. J. Weeks, the farm agent believed a shower this week would be "very beneficial."

Weeks said his statement was based upon observation of only one section of the county because he and other Pitt agents were in Asheville last week attending a state-wide meeting for county agents.

He reported, however, that young plants in that section were developing healthy root systems without irrigation at this point. Weeks said that, while some irrigation systems have been placed in operation, others have not yet been assembled.

Moisture content in the section Weeks examined, he said, appeared ample for the present "but rainfall within the next few days would be very beneficial."

Last rainfall recorded by the Greenville Utilities Commission was eight days ago, 15 of an inch on May 13. At 12:30 p.m. today, rainfall total recorded stood at 82 inches including the heaviest shower of the month, 33 of an inch on May 8.

If the eight-day drought extended itself, artificial watering operations of the tobacco crops would be expected to become more widespread around the county, Weeks said.

Named To Army Secretary Post

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Cyrus Roberts Vance, hard-working general counsel for the Department of Defense, has been named to succeed Elvis J. Stahr Jr. as secretary of the Army.

President Kennedy announced the appointment, subject to Senate confirmation, in New York Sunday. Stahr is resigning as of June 30 to become president of the University of Indiana.

Vance, 45, is a former naval officer and Yale-educated Wall Street attorney. He entered government work in 1957 as special counsel of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, then headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

He is the third Johnson man to hold a secretaryship at the Pentagon. Both former Secretary of the Navy John Connally—whose house Vance recently bought—and Connally's successor, Fred Korth, are Texans and friends of Johnson.

Vance was named general counsel for the Defense Department Jan. 29, 1961. Shortly afterward, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara gave him the additional responsibility for management and organizational planning within the department. His new job pays $22,000 a year.

Service Station Here Robbed

Officers are investigating the theft of some checks and cash from a service station at the corner of Fifth and Reade Streets over the weekend.

The theft was reported by R. T. Rickert, operator of the station. Investigating officers said the amount totaled $269.92.

The money disappeared sometime between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning from a desk drawer in the back office of the station, officers said.

Officers have questioned the employees of the station and investigation is continuing.

SPECIAL MEETING The Public Housing Authority will hold a special meeting tonight. The meeting will be in City Hall beginning at 8:15.

Europeans Flee Bloody Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—Driven by Secret Army Organization terrorism and the fear of Moslem reprisals, 2,600 Europeans fled Algeria by plane over the weekend.

So great was the demand for air passage that military authorities had to add four planes to 12 flights previously scheduled for Sunday.

In the five days preceding the weekend, officials said about 2,000 persons departed with no apparent intention of returning to terror-plagued Algeria. Outgoing flights normally carry 1,600 passengers a week.

A similar rush for ship passage was reported along the Algerian docks, as alarm spread over increasing slaughter by killers of the Secret Army Organization and the threat of reprisals by Moslem commandos.

All week the airport was jammed, mostly by women, children and elderly persons.

Those with police priority tickets were allowed to board outgoing planes first.

Thai Satisfied With U.S. Presence On Crisis Scene

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—The United States held out hopes today other Southeast Asia Treaty Organization powers would send forces to Thailand but Thai officials were reported satisfied American support is enough to ward off any Communist incursions from neighboring Laos.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia, said after an inspection tour of the border front that his men had the "situation well in hand."

Tanks were on the way from Hawaii with the buildup moving steadily toward a total strength of 5,000 men.

United States Ambassador Kenneth Young said the Americans would remain as long as the Red threat to this pro-Western kingdom existed and would welcome troops from other SEATO nations joining them.

With the exception of France, all other members of the eight-nation anti-Communist alliance have indicated a willingness to send token forces if Thailand asks for them.

The Thai government called on the Americans but there has been no report further help would be sought from others, at least at this time.

The Laotian border was quiet, but the Communist bloc warned the massing of American troops along the frontier threatened to stir up trouble.

The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda warned the American landings in Thailand may "cause retaliatory action from the other side."

"Such actions of the United States," Pravda said, "will increase the danger of war, not only on the frontiers of Laos, but in all the area of Southeast Asia."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Bulgarian Communist party leader Todor Zhivkov, in a communist regime under his leadership.

visit to Bulgaria, called the American troop landings in Thailand "an extension of the aggressive actions of the United States against the people of Southeast Asia."

The Peiping People's Daily, official voice of Red China, charged the American troop movements "constitute a serious threat to the security of China."

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the man whom both the West and East hope will take Laos out of the cold war, said the American troops in Thailand posed no threat to Laos even though he regretted they were sent there.

The neutralist leader was in a confident mood during a stopover in Calcutta on his way back to Laos for negotiations on formation of a national unity government.

He predicted these sessions would halt all fighting in Laos and bring about an independent, neutral regime under his leadership.

The president of Lions International, Per Stahl of Sweden, will be the speaker tonight at a banquet honoring North Carolina district governors.

The North Carolina State Association for the Blind, which the Lions work in close connection, also is holding its annual meeting here today.

Outing Held For Bingo Addicts

LONDON (AP)—More than 300 bingo addicts took an excursion to seaside Brighton Sunday. The members of a North London bingo club, celebrating the club's first birthday, played bingo all the way down.

They dashed from the train to a bingo parlor in an amusement arcade. After lunch, they went for another session.

They played bingo on the train all the 50 miles back to London, then dashed from the railroad station to a North London picture house for a final bingo session.

Lynn Nisbet Retires, Veteran Newsman To Assume Position

William A. Shires, veteran North Carolina newspaperman, will become Raleigh correspondent and Bureau Manager for the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies next month succeeding Lynn Nisbet who is retiring.

The appointment was announced today by C. M. Ogle of the Hendersonville Times-News, Association president, and Hal Tamer of the Goldsboro News-Argus, chairman of a special selection committee.

Shires, 36, has a wide range of news experience. He has been Raleigh bureau manager and North Carolina news manager for United Press International since 1951. He has reported several sessions of the North Carolina Legislature, several state-wide political campaigns, and politics in general at all levels.

He joined United Press, now United Press International, in Atlanta in 1947. In 1948 he was appointed Richmond, Va., bureau manager and moved to Raleigh three years later.

In 1959, he was named Southern Division night news manager in Atlanta and two years later returned to Raleigh as state news manager for UPI.

Shires' news coverage experience includes reporting of the two-governors impasse in Georgia in 1947, the administration of Govs. William Tuck and John S. Battle in Virginia, elections, political campaigns and major news events in North Carolina and the South during the past 10 years. He is one of the top sports writers in the state.

A native of Jackson, Tenn., Shires began his newspaper career on the Jackson, Tenn., Sun and the Memphis, Tenn. Commercial-Appeal.

He attended public schools in Tennessee and is a graduate of Lambuth College, Jackson, Tenn. He has had further study at the University of Minnesota and North Carolina State College.

Shires is married to the former Katherine Myers of Corinth, Miss., and Forrest City, Ark., and they have two children, Kenneth, 10, and Elizabeth Archer, 8.

They live at 2208 Watkins St., and are members of Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Salvation Army Week To Be Observed To May 27

Salvation Army Week in Greenville has been proclaimed by Mayor Charles M. King as May 20th to the 27th.

Citing the organization's 35 years of service to those in need in the community, the Mayor called upon the people of Greenville to express their gratitude to the Salvation Army during this time.

In the proclamation, signed today in the presence of Chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board H. L. Ormand and Commanding Officer Captain Earl Reagan, the Mayor said, "The high spiritual and humanitarian principles of the Salvation Army have been an integral part of American life for 82 years and have contributed immeasurably to the betterment of our community life."

The mayor further urged that all citizens give their full cooperation to this effort to draw attention to the work of the Salvation Army in the United States.

The Mayor also said in the proclamation, "The principles for which the Salvation Army stands are mighty bulwarks against spiritual and physical need, and our tribute to this organization during Salvation Army Week is well earned and greatly merited."

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges discussed the program before 500 persons at a Boston rally, and Anderson, co-sponsor of the bill, spoke for the plan in Houston, Tex.

At a Kansas City rally, Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall told 700 persons that the medical care plan will provide for persons who helped build the United States with lifetimes of hard work. "This is the democratic way," he said.

Dr. Martin Chersky, director of Welfare Secretary Abraham Ribicoff or the bill's sponsors—Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M.—and set a "concise explanation" of the proposal.

Kennedy said the administration wants the help of doctors "and gradually we are getting it."

"This is not a campaign against doctors," he said, "because doctors have joined with us. This is a campaign to help people meet their responsibilities.

"We do not cover doctors' bills here. We do not affect the freedom of choice. You can go to any doctor you want, and you work out your arrangements with him. We talk about the hospital bill, and that is an entirely different matter."

Kennedy later visited briefly at Grace Mansion with 106 mayors from across the country. The mayors, members of the Mayors Committee for Health Care for the Aged Under Social Security, were invited to attend the rally by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Vice President Johnson carried the administration plea to St. Louis, where he told an openly partisan audience of more than a thousand that the program is a "sound, reasonable and dignified" approach to the health problems of the aged.

In Detroit, United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther attacked the AMA, saying it was "manipulated by a small group of witch doctors."

In Buffalo, N.Y., Reuther's brother, Roy Reuther, joined James Quigley, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare, in urging passage of the program.

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges discussed the program before 500 persons at a Boston rally, and Anderson, co-sponsor of the bill, spoke for the plan in Houston, Tex.

At a Kansas City rally, Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall told 700 persons that the medical care plan will provide for persons who helped build the United States with lifetimes of hard work. "This is the democratic way," he said.

Court Overturns Six Contempt Convictions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court overturned today the contempt convictions of six persons who balked at answering questions from congressional committees investigating Communist activities.

The high tribunal, in an opinion by Justice Stewart, said the convictions had to be set aside because the indictments returned by the grand jury against the six failed to identify the subject under congressional subcommittee inquiry at the time each witness was interrogated.

Stewart said Congress had expressly provided that no one could be prosecuted for refusal to answer questions of congressional investigators except upon indictment by a grand jury.

"This court has never decided whether the indictment must identify the subject which was under inquiry at the time of the defendant's alleged default or refusal to answer," Stewart continued.

He then stated that the court today was holding that the indictment must contain such an averment, and for this reason the judgments against the six had to be reversed.

Mrs. Charles Adams introduced Mrs. Kitty Bailey, Executive Secretary of the Pitt County Mental Health Department, who spoke about mental health. She noted that we have more mental patients in hospitals than we do all other diseases combined. The primary function of the Mental Health Department is to educate the public. She emphasized the importance of child development. Parents control the child's destiny, and we should try to provide a well adjusted and happy home for him.

Mrs. D. L. Moore then turned the meeting over to the new president, Mrs. Selby Coffman. Refreshments, consisting of cakes, nuts and coffee were served during the social hour.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. A Scholarship Given By The State President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College, in a guest column which appeared in The Daily Reflector and 25 other afternoon newspapers of the state last week, pointed out something on which there has been too little emphasis in North Carolina for too many years.

Dr. Jenkins asserted: "Every student in a state supported school is to a degree the recipient of a scholarship given him by the citizens of the state. This fact should be known to all our youth and to their parents. They should be the first to understand that it is not the teachers and administrators alone who have a primary interest in and responsibility for admission policies. College facilities are owned, operated and controlled by our citizenry."

In spite of the stiffening of admission requirements to most state-supported colleges in North Carolina in recent years, there are still far too many students and parents who fail to recognize that every citizen of the state has a financial interest in the college education of every student in a state-supported facility. Even though the student or his parents pay the full cost of fees, tuition and other charges of the college, each student is subsidized by the citizens of the state through their tax payments.

The citizens of North Carolina, in return for subsidizing students in our colleges, have the right to expect that only those who are capable of doing college work should be admitted to colleges. They likewise have the right to expect that each student who enters a state-supported school—and thereby accepts from the citizenry part of the funds to pay for his college education—should apply himself to gain as much as possible from the time he spends in college.

The student not only owes it to himself to gain as much as possible from the time he invests in a college education, he owes it to his parents and other citizens who foot the bill for providing him with the opportunity to attend college.

Too many youngsters enter college today without this fact being properly impressed upon them. Too many parents fail to recognize that adults other than themselves have a financial interest in sending their children to college. They likewise fail to recognize that they also have a financial interest in the college education provided children other than their own.

The point made by Dr. Jenkins should be emphasized time and again to every parent and to every student in North Carolina.

Planning Today For State Fair

By DOUGLAS COXE
Director of Public Relations
North Carolina State Fair
Guest Columnist

STATE FAIR IMPROVEMENTS—Among improvements scheduled for completion prior to the opening of the 95th State Fair, October 15-20, are additions to the rabbit and pigeon barns, enlargement of the Village of Yesterday, and the winterizing of the cafeteria of the Youth Center.

Making the dining hall of the Center usable all year by enclosing the side walls with louvre-type aluminum windows and installing heating equipment will make this widely used facility an even more valuable property of the State. Located in a quiet, pine-forested section of the fairgrounds, the Youth Center was originally planned for housing junior exhibitors who show livestock and other exhibits at fairs which require their presence throughout the week.

The two dormitories and the home for the superintendent were equipped for all-weather use. Due to the mildness of the weather in October, it was thought the dining hall would be adequate if it were boxed in and screened. But, with the increasing demand for use of the Center for groups of students attending State College short courses, housing for visiting athletic teams, bands, 4-H'ers, and folk attending conferences, a need has grown for all-weather recreation and study facilities.

STUDY HALL—The cafeteria is operated only at fair-time and during the Everett Case Basketball School. However, there are several hundred business men who attend study courses at the Banker's Course in Modern Farming, and other State College short courses who are housed at the Youth Center. They will find adequate and comfortable study space during their two to three-week stay. Several thousand other North Carolinians who spend one or more nights at the Center with both scholastic and adult groups will be able to use the hall for meetings, band rehearsals, etc.

MANY USES AND SERVICES—In this connection, many other buildings and areas of the fairgrounds are used throughout the year with great frequency. Hundreds of Wake County student drivers get their instructions and practice driving lessons on its eight miles of roadways. A number of the employees of an electronic concern learned their skills at the Lounge Building. It served both as a manufacturing plant and training center until the company's new building was erected at Cary.

Building contractors for a State building often use storage space in the exhibit halls for furniture and fixtures which have arrived before the new structure is ready for their installation. For several years great quantities of surplus goods have been stored in Fairgrounds buildings until the State Surplus Agency were built. Much other equipment, many cars and trucks of both the State and Federal Governments are stored here from time to time until assigned to individuals, divisions and agencies.

SELDOM IDLE—For those who think the State Fairgrounds sit idly by from October to October each year, there have been few weeks in the past several years during which no event has been scheduled for at least one or more of its nearly 50 buildings. Many days have seen several unrelated activities in progress simultaneously in various areas of its 228 acres, with several hundred people participating in each affair. In fact, few state facilities served so many people in so varied a manner, in addition to their intended special purposes, as do the various buildings and grounds of the State Fair.

And, except for appropriations for erection of some of the larger permanent structures, very few tax dollars are spent on the grounds. Production of the annual Fair, premiums, salaries, management, maintenance and other annual operation costs are paid out of profits of the Fair and the rentals of facilities during non-fair time.

FOCAL POINT—Of principal interest to the first-time visitor is the famous Arena. Thousands of school children on tour of the Capital City area visit this building weekly during the spring of the year, and a steady flow of tourists from the world over finds its way about the building. Some one hundred and fifty or more days each year the J. S. Dorton Arena is used, adapting itself admirably to such divergent affairs as: midget auto races and the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner; tremendous display of plant maintenance machinery and the Garden Show; cow sales and the South's biggest horse show; dances, company picnics, barbecues and a Jay-Cee banquet; a rodeo, or a circus—affairs, a basketball school, a political rally and a faith healer's services; a top pianist in concert and a rock 'n' roll show; Mobilization Nights of a religious group and a big Christmas party; a gospel sing and a farm machinery show. Many of them being annual affairs that are scheduled as regularly as the livestock judging during State Fair time.

Area Development Is Gaining Recognition

Growing recognition of the importance of the concept of area development in North Carolina was evidenced at the recent state conference of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Two principle speakers at the meeting asserted that the area approach to development is becoming more essential in North Carolina. It was further asserted that efforts to enhance economic development on a self-contained county basis are doomed to failure.

Such statements point up the importance of the effort now underway in this immediate section of North Carolina to bring about a working area development group. Pitt and five other counties have joined together to form such a group and the organizational process is now being completed with committee selections. After the organization is completed, the group will set about to cope with economic and other problems not merely on a single county basis, but on the six-county area basis.

Obviously the idea of area development is not confined just to the matter of creating new smokestacks in the area or attracting more industries. As evidenced by the various committees designated by the group to which Pitt belongs, attention will be given almost every phase of possible development from cultural advances to agriculture.

County and community development groups will continue to play an important role in the overall development of North Carolina, but it is also evident that area organizations will likewise have an important role.

These factors point up the necessity of the individual counties and their citizens lending their full support to the undertakings of the area development organization just as they support their county and community development programs.

Stand-By Power To Cut Taxes

By RALPH ROBEY

Last January President Kennedy, in his Economic Message, said that he was going to ask for three specific measures to help him combat any future recession. These were pegged on improvement in the unemployment compensation system, stand-by authority to order large public works, and stand-by authority to reduce personal income taxes.

Messages outlining the first two of these proposals were sent to the Congress long ago, but the one on taxes has just been submitted.

At present our personal income tax rates range from 20 to 91 percent of taxable income. The President wants the authority to reduce these rates by up to five percentage points, or to a range of 15 to 86 percent. It is officially estimated that such a reduction would amount to some $10 billion a year.

Mr. Kennedy insists that he is not asking for a delegation of the power of the Congress. As he explains the suggestion, it still would be up to the Congress to establish the conditions under which tax rates could be lowered. Further, there would be a delay of 31 days between his order and the reduction taking effect. During this interval the Congress could vote to the reducing. If action were taken when the Congress is not in session, the reduction would go into effect on the following 31st day, unless a new order were made on this.

First, there is no possible agreement on how to determine just when a recession starts. The President mentions the date (Continued on Page 5)

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRISTIANITY IS PRACTICAL. Lyman Beecher, father of Henry Ward Beecher, was a man in many ways far in advance of his day. He was a great evangelist, and his conversions ran into the thousands. One thing he always maintained was that one's spiritual state largely depended upon one's physical state, and he often scandalized people by the questions he asked them. Instead of asking a man who wanted to be saved what he believed about God, he would often ask such a person by asking about his habits in life—what he ate, how many hours sleep he got each night, Beecher believed a deep sense of sin often had its origin in dyspepsia, and that what some people needed to make their spiritual life right was a little whole, one common-sense advice: he care of their bodies. Men who came to Lyman Beecher seeking help of theological matters were often sent away after being given a straight talk on physical and mental hygiene. Beecher believed that heart, eye and stomachache often are to each other the relation of cause and effect. Such a point of view can be argued easily by pushing to the point where we are all when we begin to worry about our souls to ask ourselves whether or not we are giving our bodies a square deal.

Strange Economy

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Jim Farley Fills The Bill

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

All sorts of Democratic persons in New York State offer themselves as candidates for the Governorship. It is a good year to run because Democrats believe that there is a chance that Governor Rockefeller can be defeated.

Unfortunately most of the names thus far mentioned are nondescript from a political standpoint. If one candidate is popularly known in his own particular bailiwick, he is not known elsewhere. An aspirant must fill all the provisions of a formula that fits New York State. He must:

1. Have a following among the more conservative Democrats up-state;
2. Be acceptable to the Reform Democrats of New York City;
3. Be acceptable to the Liberal Party;
4. Have such a reputation that he will draw away Republican votes from Rockefeller;
5. Be acceptable to the Kennedy Administration and to Mayor Wagner who is the virtual leader of the Democratic Party in New York.

The man who fits this bill is silent. He will not say Yes! and he will not say No! He does not need the job, as he has one that pays more and gives him a chance to travel throughout the world. He manages to attend public luncheons and dinners every day. The name is James A. Farley, familiarly known as Big Jim. To those who still remember it, he was responsible for Franklin D. Roosevelt becoming President of the United States and he served as Postmaster General. He broke with Roosevelt over the Third Term and the American people endorsed his view by passing the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution.

Farley is, obviously popular, not because he is neutral or all things to all men, but because he is an independent person who turns out to be right generally. The only objection I have heard to the candidacy of Big Jim is that he is old, 74 years old. In our modern world, age is not a matter of years but of arteries and ulcers and such matters. Farley possesses the stamina of a man in his 50's.

If this description of the man seems excessively enthusiastic, biased, partial, I can only admit that the description is correct. And that is one reason why I believe that Farley can be elected. So many Republicans believe that if Farley ran against Rockefeller, they would vote for Farley and many Democrats say that they will not vote for the other names mentioned either for factional reasons, or because the persons mentioned have insufficient stature to warrant running.

The story goes the rounds that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is a candidate for the office of Governor. He has actually not lived in New York State for a number of years. He has lived in Washington, D. C. where he is in the automobile sales business. Even when he ran for Congress, his address, at one time, was the up-town Esplanade Hotel where he had a room. It was obviously a makeshift address.

It is doubtful that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., can fit all the conditions stated above. Certainly he would draw no Republican votes from Nelson Rockefeller. While he bears his father's name, which means much in New York City, it is clear that that name is a liability so far as Republicans and many independent voters are concerned.

New York State has about 17,000,000 persons, which is equivalent to the population of the whole of Canada. The population is very mixed; there are many large cities and many rural areas; the racial complex (Continued on page five)

In a real sense the political futures of three men are at stake. Many believe that if Mr. Jonas loses, he will be eliminated as a GOP contender for governor next time. If Mr. Kitchen loses now or in November, his political future is probably derailed. Mr. Kennedy is young, but a defeat will place him at the political crossroads.

Any way one looks at the Eighth district, the races now and in November are most interesting.

Political Conformity Does Help

By ELMER ROESSNER

Having political connections may not be necessary to run a small business but, like being crazy, it can help. And the small enterpriser may find that if he has no political leverage, at least it pays to be on good terms with city hall.

This, heaven forbid! does not apply in your community, huh? Or does it?

On the local level, it frequently pays to go along with the party in power. In exceptional cases, the small storekeeper who does not buy tickets for benefits for various political and city employee groups may find his curb often blocked with vehicles and his customers often ticketed for minor parking offenses. And he gets his hickles up, fire and health inspectors may find enough violation of obscure ordinances to keep the merchant in court and in lawyer costs for many weeks.

Such a point of view can be argued easily by pushing to the point where we are all when we begin to worry about our souls to ask ourselves whether or not we are giving our bodies a square deal.

These retailers who go along with the powers that be may find advantages. The street in front of their shops may be kept free of potholes, broken street lights will be promptly repaired and, should the city decide on new lighting standards, some of the first will be erected in front of their places of business.

There may be other benefits. Conforming storekeepers may string banners across streets, despite local ordinances and they may send forth the spluttering melodies of recorded music.

The ordinances of most American cities are so complex that it is almost impossible to operate any business, even selling peanuts or chestnuts from a cart, without violating many of them. In fact, there's a ripe suspicion that many were written that way purposely. The purpose was to give policemen, health and other departments the power of life and death over each business.

State legislatures often help the scales in state politics. State legislatures are inclined to pass or turn down laws permitting manufacturers to fix retail prices depending on the relative political power of groups favoring and opposing such legislation. If a state's druggists and appliance dealers are strongly organized, legislatures often see the wisdom of such laws. But if discounters, price-cutters and consumers deploy their political strength better, such laws are usually defeated.

One amazing fact of American political history is that legislatures of at least 17 states have passed so-called fair trade laws that were unconstitutional.

On both city and state levels, political power, more than the power of religious groups, often determines the passage and enforcement of Sunday closing laws. I'll have some more facts and analysis in a later column.

NEW WARNING LABELS MUST AFTER JULY 31
Time is short for manufacturers to comply with the new Federal law requiring safety information on labels of common household products containing hazardous substances. The Hazardous Substances Labeling Act was effective in February but the Food and Drug Administration postponed application of the technical provisions until August 1.

The law requires polishes, bleaches, detergents, furniture waxes, lighter and cleaning fluids and paints and thinners to carry statements as to the nature and the degree of the hazard, plus first-aid instructions. The word "danger" must appear on the label if the product is extremely inflammable, corrosive or highly toxic, and "poison" must appear on the label of highly toxic preparations.

SEES GOOD PROSPECTS IN CONSTRUCTION
A reasonably effective recovery will be attained in construction in this decade. Elmer C. Braft, head of the Lehigh University department of economics, told the National Industrial Conference Board. No extensive overbuilding exists, he added.

Rail Stocks Today

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—Investors are like flocks of sheep. They run all together and blindly follow a leader. It was not many years ago that investors were enthusiastic about railroad stocks; now they are dumping such stocks indiscriminately. They are putting their money into armament stocks that are largely dependent upon government contracts which must come toward an end.

IMPORTANCE OF DIVERSIFICATION
The wise investor will not only diversify among many industries — railroad, chemical, gas, and public utilities, etc., but should keep his investments fluid and remember that each classification is growing either better or worse. Hence a few airplane stocks are advisable; and a few shipping stocks. Certainly Greyhound should not be forgotten. But don't have too much invested in any form of transportation.

Without doubt the passenger business of railroads is coming to a virtual end, except where subsidized by the Government. Short lines should be avoided; also lines subject to severe water competition. Certain of the rich railroads, such as the Union Pacific, are still advertising passenger business; but they are paying for the loss from their passenger business by their oil, gas, and other mineral investments along the right of way which they own.

MANY MORE MERGERS ARE AHEAD
This is because if the automobiles and good roads had come before the railroads, only about a third of the present railroad mileage would have been built. It is one thing to argue in favor of mergers, and it is another thing to reason with labor. Labor appears to have no regard for the nation's welfare.

The basic reason why investors should be shy of railroad investments is because of the attitude and power of labor. It is not only necessary to eliminate "featherbedding" which everyone, except the politicians, believe to be wrong; but labor insists on dictating as to merger, passenger rates, pullman equipment, and even train schedules.

BANGOR & AROOSTOOK EXPERIMENT
I believe the most forward-looking railroad president in the country is W. Gordon Robertson, head of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad which runs from northern Maine southerly to tidewater. It once prospered greatly by hauling wood and pulp, and later newsprint. It also prospered from the great potato industry of Northern Maine. President Robertson realized that he must have the most efficient rolling stock to make a profit during the seasons when this freight was hauling but he also devised a plan of renting the road's most modern diesel engines in the off seasons.

Even under the most efficient operation, his railroad could not compete with trucks. He therefore turned to a very original plan: He organized the Bangor & Aroostook Corporation, which owns 90 percent of the stock of the railroad company. This new corporation, however, is able to carry on any kind of business which shows a profit. An investor can keep his old Bangor & Aroostook Railroad stock if he desires, or he can exchange it for the stock of the new business corporation. I believe President Robertson will make a success of his new corporation and many other railroads will follow his example.

THE KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN PROGRAM
The Kansas City Southern Railway also has a progressive forward-looking president, W. N. Deraamus, who operates this road most efficiently notwithstanding water competition. However, he has now come to the same conclusion, and has formed a separate corporation — Kansas City Southern Industries, Inc.—which will be able to do anything from running supermarkets to operating oil wells along the line of the Kansas City Railroad. Too many railroad stockholders have forgotten the great value of the rights-of-way and adjoining property. The stockholders of the K. C. Railroad are to be given the opportunity of exchanging their stock for stock of the new corporation. The management will substitute good bus service for all passenger travel; it will develop a fast door-to-door freight business. But, most important, it will enter into other growing industries and should be very successful. This experiment is being watched by many of the railroads, and may result in their stocks again becoming valuable. In the past month, though the market or all stocks has gone off sharply, Kansas City Southern has gone up 10 points.

Coventry Cathedral Completed After Twelve Years Of Labor

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Coventry's new cathedral Church of St. Michael is complete after more than five years of planning and seven years of building. Queen Elizabeth, who laid the foundation stone in 1956, is due to attend the consecration service Friday.

It is the first cathedral in 300 years to be built in Britain as a single planned operation. It cost $4.2 million.

Dr. Cuthbert Bardsley, bishop of Coventry for the Church of England, believes he will be the first bishop in history to have seen the foundation stone laid and the final consecration of his cathedral.

"This is a new kind of cathedral that is speaking to the world in traditional words and yet in a modern dynamic way," he says. "This architecture looks forward as well as backward."

The cathedral is 298 feet long and 88 feet wide, built of warm gray-pink Hollingston stone, and gives an impression of fortresslike strength.

The sturdy walls, more than 3 feet thick, follow a zig-zag line paralleling the nave, with five bays on each side. In each bay is a stained glass window 73 feet high.

The windows are angled to direct their light on the altar, yet are invisible as one walks up the nave.

From the altar the aisle windows by Lawrence Lee, Geoffrey Clarke and Keith New, are seen in all their glory.

More than 4,500 square feet of stained glass was used. John Piper's baptistry window alone measures 80x51.

Architectural writer Peter Rawlstone, in the Daily Herald, says: "There has not been glass like this since the medieval wonders of such places as Lincoln and Gloucester cathedrals."

The brilliant blues, reds, purples and greens of the stained glass are picked up by the polished black marble of the chancel floor.

The simple high altar has an oak table of exceptional length—21 feet—inspired by the Leonardo painting of the Last Supper.

The design of the altar's silver gilt cross, by Geoffrey Clarke, is based on the charred oak cross in the ruins of the 14th century cathedral which was left a shell by German bombing in 1940.

Graham Sutherland's controversial tapestry, "Christ in Majesty," covers the entire east wall in the Lady Chapel behind the altar.

It is one of the largest tapestries in the world—74 feet.

Asked how he felt now that the cathedral is completed, architect Sir Basil Spence said: "Relief. It almost excludes every other feeling, except, perhaps, surprise."

He recalled it as 12 years of struggle against those who thought his designs too revolutionary.

ability of attaining full employment. That is all to the good, but someone has to define full employment — and the definition must be in terms of the volume of unemployment.

Our data on unemployment are as honest as any in the world, but the volume depends to a major extent upon how we define unemployment. That definition is subject to constant criticism, and as a result many persons refuse to accept the accuracy of the figures.

Second, with personal income taxes subject to change by a mere order of the President, no one could make firm plans as to what his tax bill was going to be. And for business, which has to withhold taxes, the burden of collection would be enormous.

Third, there is no way of knowing that a reduction of taxes by this means would give a lift to either business or employment. Such a lowering of the tax take would be temporary, and its effects would be quite different from a permanent reduction. Much of the released funds might simply be hoarded, and that helps no one.

is Italian, Irish, German, Negro, Puerto Rican, Jewish, variously Slavic, with a large Protestant Anglo-Saxon and Dutch rural and suburban voting element. The strongest religious group, from a political standpoint, is the Roman Catholic.

Block voting is not unusual in New York State and a candidate must have, not an appeal to all groups, but surely to basic antagonism. The Italo-Americans, most of whom are Democrats, regard themselves as having been discriminated against politically and they will have to be given consideration but like all groups which mature in this country and are on the verge of assimilation, they would not want candidates of their nationality to be persons of less significance than others on the ticket. They would want a top-notch personality. The Italo-Americans probably constitute the largest voting group in the State.

This is the present situation. It could change, of course.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN NORTH CAROLINA arrangements were made to transfer the Confederacy's naval ordnance center from Norfolk to Charlotte because of inland safety and good railroad to Wilmington. North Carolinians saluted this new commerce with glasses of beer.

For even then, beer was North Carolina's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for North Carolinians, and a good living for many of them—not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for North Carolina farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year insects reduce the value of the tobacco crop. Insect abundance varies from field to field and from year to year; therefore, it is essential that growers examine their tobacco field frequently and treat with a recommended insecticide when necessary. It is very important that insecticides be used when the insect damage is serious enough to justify the expense. In order to avoid excessive insecticidal residues and to save money, do not make applications using excessive rates.

The flea beetle often causes damage to the tobacco crop soon as it is transplanted in the field. This insect can be controlled by applying either DDT, Endrin, or Dieldrin.

Grasshoppers cause serious damage to some fields. They can be controlled by applying either Aldrin, Heptachlor, Dieldrin, or Chlordane. These insecticides should be applied evenly to the tobacco foliage and to barrier strips 15 to 30 feet wide around the tobacco field.

Budworms are usually prevalent each season in the tobacco fields. Unusually close examination is often required to detect this insect before it does considerable damage. When controlling the budworm, the insecticide should be applied in the bud of each plant. This can be done best early in the morning, preferably before 10:30 a.m. Since the budworm is closely related to the corn ear worm, corn meal bait is one of the most effective means of control. Bait can be prepared by mixing one part DDT or TDE with 75 parts of corn meal. Endrin and Thiodan can also be used and will give effective results when applied as a dust or spray. More information on rates of application of insecticides for tobacco insect control can be obtained from the County Agricultural Agent's Office in Greenville.

Gagarin Making Visit To Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Cosmonaut Yuri A. Gagarin said today Soviet space research "is developing rapidly and a trip to the moon may come about sooner than expected, possibly within five years from now."

The 28-year-old Soviet major, the first human space traveler, made this statement in an airport press conference shortly after arriving for a nine-day private visit to Japan.

Gagarin was greeted by about 2,300 flag-waving leftists at Tokyo International Airport and a handful of rightists who shouted over loudspeakers "Gagarin go home!"

Gagarin and his wife, Valentina, were accompanied by a Soviet air force general, two members of the Supreme Soviet and seven Soviet newsmen.

Japan is the 30th country Gagarin has visited since his space flight.

Egypt has been a republic since 1953.

Coca-Cola Picks Up First Win Of Their Little League Season

NORTH STATE
Coca Cola picked up their first win of the season Saturday afternoon as they defeated the Optimist 6-3. The contest followed an earlier contest in which Security Life downed Greenville Tobacco Company 3-0.

Bob Smith went all the way for Coca Cola on the mound as he struck out two, walked three, and allowed three runs on six hits. Smith gave up two runs in the first inning off four hits, however, he allowed only one run and two hits during the last five frames.

The Optimist got the scoring underway early in the contest as they picked up two runs off four hits in the top of the first. Al Wainwright, the lead-off man, connected to send a single to score Wainwright and put the Optimist in the lead. Clean-up hitter, Bob Roberts connected with a single to advance Heath to third. Bruce Jackson followed with another basehit to score Heath. Coca Cola then settled down to retire the side.

In the bottom of the first, Coca Cola picked up one run on a hit batter, two walks, and a single. Kevin Price led the frame off for Coca Cola as he was hit on the arm by a wild pitch. Bob Smith followed with a walk to put runners on first and second. Catcher Dick Clark rapped a hard grounder to the shortstop and forced Price out at third. With two outs, Randal Williams hit a single to score Smith. Clark also attempted to score on the play and was thrown out at home to retire the side.

In the bottom of the third, Coca Cola returned to bat to tally three runs on three walks and three hits. Price picked up his first hit of the day as he connected with a single to right field. Dick Clark followed with a walk to bring clean-up hitter William Moye to the plate. Price was thrown out as he attempted to steal, however, Clark went to second on the play.

Moye then connected for his first hit of the season as he singled to drive Clark home and tie the score. Moye came in to tally on a single by Ralph Vincent. The next two Coca Cola batters worked to load the bases. Vincent came in to score on a wild pitch before the Optimist settled down to retire the side.

The Optimist picked up one more run in the top fifth and Coca Cola tallied two runs in their half of the inning. Coca Cola also made two double plays in the contest, one of which was an unassisted effort by Randal Williams.

Boys Interested In Am. Legion Ball Meet Tues.

Jim Mallory, American Legion baseball coach, has announced that there will be a meeting of all boys interested in the team Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the East Carolina baseball field behind the gym.

Coach Mallory noted that the team needs boys from all of the schools in the county. However, a boy must not reach his 19th birthday before Sept. 1 in order to be eligible.

The meeting will be short and important because certificates will be handed out which must be signed by the parents and returned to the coach.

Mallory said that the first game is scheduled at Rocky Mount on June 1 and the following day the Greenville team will host Raleigh. The coach hopes to hold several practice games in addition to regular practice sessions before the season starts.

The four teams in the league, Ahoskie, Greenville, Raleigh and Rocky Mount, will play 12 games during the season.

Season tickets to the contests are now on sale by members of the American Legion.

Orioles Sign Up Robin Roberts

CLEVELAND (AP) — Robin Roberts, the pitching star who won 234 games during 14 seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies, was signed today by the Baltimore Orioles.

The 35-year-old right-hander was expected to join the Orioles tonight in Cleveland.

Roberts was sold by the Phillies after a disappointing 1-10 record last year, and he failed to stick with the New York Yankees during a spring trial.

Pfeiffer Enters NAIA Playoffs

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Pfeiffer College, baseball champion of the Carolinas Conference, has accepted an invitation to compete in the NAIA Area 7 playoffs at Statesboro, Ga., May 24-26.

Salem, W.Va., Carson-Newman and Georgia Southern are other teams in the field.

Pfeiffer won 26 of 37 games and had a 16-3 conference record under coach Joe Ferebee. The Falcons had a 15-game winning streak, including 12 in a row in league play.

The Greenville High School Phantoms lost the second game of a two out of three series Saturday when they dropped the contest to Kinston 3-1 in the Northeastern Conference playoffs.

Kinston collected two runs on two hits, two errors, and a walk in the first inning. Lead-off man, Bob Koehler started the frame off with a single to bring Julian King to the plate. King connected and was safe at first on an error by Greenville's second baseman. Koehler moved to third on the play. Ralph Lyon followed with a walk to load the bases for the Red Devils.

Carolinas Conf. Favors Full-Time Commissioner

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — The Carolinas Conference has moved to set up a full-time commissioner's office and approved negotiations with H. C. (Joby) Hawn of Winston-Salem concerning his appointment to the post of commissioner.

Hawn indicated his acceptance of the job hinges on the length of the contract the league committee in charge of the project offers. He intimated he would not be interested in a contract of less than three years.

The plan was approved by the conference at its spring meeting here Saturday. Dr. Jim T. Hamilton of High Point College heads the committee negotiating with Hawn. Plans call for the office to be in operation by Sept. 1.

Hawn attended Saturday's meeting in his capacity as supervisor of football officials for the conference.

With one out, Charles Whitley hit a ground ball to second and the second baseman lost control of the ball to allow Koehler to score and Whitley to gain first. Johnny Biddle followed with a single to send King across the plate for Kinston's second run of the afternoon.

Rough Going For Phants
The Greenville Phantoms found the going rough as they were unable to score against the Red Devils until the last inning. Kinston pitcher, Danny Dionis scattered three hits through the first six innings of play and walked only one man.

In the bottom of the fourth frame, Kinston returned to bat to gain one run on two hits and two errors. Babe Hardison led the inning off as he picked up his first hit of the day with a single to leftfield. Johnny Biddle followed with an infield grounder to force Hardison out at second, however Biddle was safe at first. T. A. Dodson then collected his second hit of the afternoon as he singled to right to drive in Biddle.

Greenville Attempts Rally
The Greenville Phantoms attempted to start a rally in the bottom of the seventh as they collected one run on one hit, a hit batter, and an error. Ed Smoot, Greenville's first batter, was hit by a wild pitch to give the Phantoms a runner on first. Spencer Harrington followed with a ground ball to force Smoot out at second, however Kinston's doubleplay effort failed as Harrington was safe at second. Dale Gidley, a pinch hitter, connected with a single to put the tying runs on base for the Phantoms.

Wade Summerlin stepped to the plate and rapped a hard hit ball down to third base. Kinston's third baseman bobbled the ball and all Greenville runners were safe which loaded the bases. Ken Joyner then grounded out to first base but Harrington came in to give Greenville their first score. The Phantoms were unable to tally again as pitcher Dionis settled down to retire the side.

The winning pitcher, Danny Dionis, struck out one, walked one, and allowed one run on four hits. Dionis pitched perfect ball for the first three innings as he faced only nine batters.

Ken Joyner was credited with the loss for Greenville although he only pitched one-third of an inning for the Phantoms. Joyner struck out none, walked one, and gave up two runs on two hits. However, both of Kinston's runs were scored on errors. Relief pitcher Rodney Knowles went the remainder of the contest striking out three, walking two, and giving up one run on four hits.

ECC Freshmen May Wear Beanies, If Issue Ironed Out

Beans may make their debut on freshmen heads at East Carolina College next year. But, not without some controversy and deep thinking on the part of the students.

The beanie—dubbed a "dink"—possibility loomed after the Student Government Association passed a resolution specifying that college freshmen recently graduated from high school would wear beanies from sundown until sundown the first few weeks of school.

Then, at the first home football game about Sept. 29, the freshmen would throw up their beanies in the air and be rid of them, an action symbolizing membership in the student body of the fast growing college.

Tom Mallison, president of the Student Government Association, said the basic idea of the "dinks" was to create school spirit and a unifying force among members of the freshmen class. The beanies would also serve as identification for freshmen of other members in their class. Giles Hopkins originated the idea.

Since there was a close vote in the college assembly on the matter, and there has been some controversy, the beanie issue may be coming up again in the student meeting.

Mallison explained that if the beanie idea has the endorsement of the students, it could help the college; without the support of the upperclassmen, the whole idea would "flop."

The sophomore class would be in charge of seeing that freshmen wearing beanies are not "hazed" or made fun of.

Already, several large schools in the nation utilize the beanie for freshmen head adornment.

East Carolina College might be going "big time" with the beanies. But not without some controversy.

Music Teachers Ass'n Begins Certifications

The plan of the North Carolina Music Teachers Association for certification of music teachers of the professional status of the got underway Saturday when a board of examiners passed on the qualifications of the first applicants.

The Certificate of Professional Advancement was awarded to Sister M. Cecilia Lewis, Sacred Heart Jr. College; Phillip Morgan, Woman's College; William S. Newman, University of North Carolina; Stuart Pratt, Meredith College; Clemens Sandresky, Salem College; Mrs. E. Leonidas Smith, Winston-Salem; George A. Stegner, Queens College.

Teachers who qualified for the Certificate of Experience are Isabella Gamble Gibbs of North Wilkesboro, Annette Lee Kahn of Raleigh, and Elizabeth Buffaloe Scott of Charlotte.

Teachers who qualified for the Basic Certificate are Edna Deitz Busby of Raleigh, Marion Smith Cable of Raleigh, Mrs. A. H. Kerr of Clinton, and Neil Bruchhaus Middleton of Warsaw.

The North Carolina Music Teachers Association expects that certification will lead to higher standards in private teaching and will help gain recognition of the professional status of the private teacher.

On the Board of Certifications are Mrs. Philip F. Cable of Raleigh, chairman of the Administrative Committee; Kenneth Lee of Lenoir Rhyne College, vice-chairman; Lydia James of Chapel Hill, secretary; and Sister Mary Cecilia Lewis of Sacred Heart Jr. College, treasurer.

The Credentials Committee is composed of Stuart Pratt of Meredith College, chairman; Loren Withers of Duke University; Dr. George Stegner of Queens College, and Phillip Morgan of Woman's College, president of the association.

Police Guard For Liz Taylor

ROME (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor is under police protection following a threat against her life unless she stops dating Richard Burton.

An Italian police source said Miss Taylor sought protection after a threatening letter arrived at her Appian Way villa four days ago.

"The letter could be a joke but we cannot run any risk," the source said.

Three plainclothesmen were detailed to escort the actress to and from the movie studio. A police car was stationed in front of her residence.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

County Agricultural Agent

The N. C. State College has developed an insect control program for the cotton boll weevil that is practical and reasonable.

In the past the general recommendation has been to start treatments when the percentage of squares showing punctures reaches 10 per cent.

The new program calls for four treatments spaced at five day intervals beginning at the eight leaf stage. This timing is important to assure a high percentage kill of the overwintering weevils. These treatments will cover a three week period or until about time of the first blossom. During the next four weeks no treatment should be required, but the grower should keep close watch on his cotton and if five per cent or the squares are punctured at any time during this period an application of insecticide should be made. At the end of this four week period or about July 24 treatments should be resumed on a 5-day interval as long as the cotton is squaring.

There are 10 insecticides which give equally good control of boll weevil, boll worm, and aphids. They are listed here in alphabetical order:

Aldrin - DDT, BHC - DDT, Dieldrin - DDT, Endrin, Guthion - DDT, Heptachlor - DDT, Malathion - DDT, Methyl Parathion - DDT, Sevin, Toxaphene DDT.

Any of the above will control Thrips without the DDT.

For red spider mites use Demeton, Ethion, or Trithion.

Cotton producers should be shooting for a yield of 1 1/2 to 2 bales per acre. Without an effective insect control program, high yields are almost impossible.

Find Damage In Jets' Engines

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Air Force officers are investigating the cause of damage to the engines of jet planes flown by the 326th Fighter Interceptor Squadron stationed at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base here.

The number of engines damaged has not been determined. The squadron normally has 26 of the single-engine F102s.

Col. Kenneth E. Rosebush, squadron commander, said Wednesday the damage by some foreign object was uncovered in a routine check.

It has not been determined there has been intentional damage, he said.

Nicholson will attend an eight-week course in science at Converse College under N.D.E.A. sponsorship. Phelps has been accepted at Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone for the language institute, also an eight-week course.

McRorie, guidance counselor at Rose High School, will attend a six-week institute at N. C. State College in Raleigh, specializing in guidance counseling.

All institute courses give credit toward the teachers' graduate work. Nicholson and McRorie already hold the Master's Degrees, while this summer's language institute will complete Phelps' Master's Degree requirements.

Selection for these institutes is competitive, based on test scores and other requirements.

What should you look for in a health protection plan?

You want a wide range of benefits and services to choose from, of course. But there are other advantages available to you that you won't find printed in any contract.

Look at the financial stability of the plan, for instance. You'll discover Hospital Saving Association of Chapel Hill has paid over $62,000,000 for subscriber benefits in the past 5 years alone.

And check executive experience. Hospital Saving administrators, with an average of 17 years of company service, assure you sound management of your health protection fees . . . the kind of planning that brings you more for your money.

Include, too, the committee of doctors that works with Hospital Saving Association to review your Blue Shield benefits and keep them as liberal as possible. This partnership guarantees the most up-to-date doctor bill protection for you and your employees.

Ask any representative of Hospital Saving Association—Blue Cross and Blue Shield—about these worry-saving advantages—and about the new In-Hospital Medical Endorsement that many companies are now adding to their coverage.

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

CHAPTER 1

Julie Pendleton rounded the bend in the road and saw moonlight spreading across the green pastures. She pulled the sports car off the road into a stand of sycamores, shut off the motor and lights and burst into tears.

She had trouble opening her evening bag and found it necessary to remove her long white gloves. Then she dabbed at her eyes with the lace edge of her handkerchief and felt perfectly miserable.

She'd been having too many fights with Britt Fabian and if squabbling with him meant she was head over heels in love, she ought to be thinking of him in terms of endearment and rapture. For the past twenty minutes she'd been seriously considering his murder—if she could find some slow and painful way.

She was calmed by the moonlight and the intriguing shadows thrown by the twisting, gnarled branches of the fantastically designed trees. It was a magnificent night—not exactly rare for Kentucky, but not so common as to be ignored. It was not a night to be angry at anyone.

If Britt chose to dance too often with Millie Caswell, that was his affair, provided it went no further. Besides, she recalled, she had had a spat with him right after they had reached the country club for the pre-Derby dance and she hadn't really been very pleasant to him all evening.

She stepped from the car, shook out her white evening gown and walked slowly up the dirt road. As she moved forward she thought of herself as a ballet dancer performing against a backdrop not set designer could ever fashion. She laughed at the idea.

Behind her, the sycamores were throwing their absurd shadows farther and wider. The spring breeze through the heavy blue-green grass made the soft noises with which she had been familiar since she had romped and played here as a little girl.

The road cut between the Pendleton and the Fabian farms. It led to a knoll and then down onto a level plateau where a private training race track had been built. Here, the race horses of both farms were raced, away from prying eyes.

Yet this dirt road was something else. It was a spite fence, because there was a bitter enmity between her father and Britt's. But even the two older men refused even to speak to each other, they had not been so foolish as to expect their children to share in their feud and she and Britt had always been friends.

Grown up now, and undeniably handsome, Britt had fallen in love with her and she had accepted him as a matter of course. Their casual feeling about their friendship, and now their courtship, worried her more than she liked, but Britt was persistent and clever and kind, most of the time, so she continued to let the arrangement stand.

The perfume of the freshly cut grass suddenly made her surer than ever that she would marry Britt. That would mean she'd stay in the bluegrass country the rest of her life. For this privilege she could put up with Britt's minor tantrums.

Her shoes were going to be a mess, but she didn't care. She fell to wondering how her father was faring up North, where he'd gone to attend a sale of yearlings. It was going to be a problem when she and Britt were married.

If the father of the bride attended, the father of the groom would stay away. If her mother or Britt's, were alive, things might have been smoothed over, but the feud between the two men had been of such long standing now, it would probably never be settled.

She made up her mind to go as far as the top of the rise. Then she'd return to the dance and drive Britt home. His car had betrayed him and stalled, which really had been the start of his clumsiness.

It was always so quiet and calm at the knoll that she could think clearly here, see matters in their perspective. There were pleasant memories, too. There had been so much that she had often wondered if she was worthy of it all.

Her life had been one concerned with horses. If she tried hard, she could almost hear the hoofbeats and not within the shell of her mind, but real and thundering against the track. The sound of a horse being run at top speed at this time of night.

She ran to the top of the rise and the horse was just rounding the far turn, arching his neck for the back stretch. The rider was plainly outlined, but it was impossible to identify him or to ascertain if he wore jockey silks. But he knew how to ride and that horse knew how to run.

There was something weirdly familiar about the way he ran. That long, sailing stride the way his neck arched, his head held high. It was like seeing something out of the past. Something named Bounbrook, when he'd been a three-year-old, winning every race he ran, up to and including the Kentucky Derby.

Bounbrook had set many a track record with that peculiar stride of his and no other horse, except possibly Man o' War, ever had it. Bounbrook was outstanding because of it—and this horse, now going into the final turn, was duplicating that stride.

To Julie it was a ghost running—for Bounbrook had been retired three years now and was growing ancient and slow. He wouldn't have been able to run like this even if he were drugged.

There was more than just the style of running. Much more. The same sleekness, about as many hands high, about as heavy, with the narrow, shining white mark down the head. No other horse had ever looked quite like Bounbrook, so it must be Bounbrook, incredible or not.

The horse and rider came around the turn and settled down for the stretch. Julie was watching a champion run, watching a Thoroughbred making history, because he ran as fast as Bounbrook in his youth. Perhaps faster.

She raised both hands over her head and shouted and began to run toward the track. It was all an impossible dream. A horse retired for three years, running like a fresh two-year-old. A horse turned out to pasture, back on a track and breathing the wind as Bounbrook always had.

The horse and rider flashed by the starting post and, scarcely slowing, veered to leave the track by the gate just beyond the small caretaker's shed. The horse seemed to keep on going, on and on until the shadows deepened as if by plan and the moon was obscured so that she was unable to penetrate the temporary darkness.

Then, when the cloud passed and the moon rode the sky again, there was nothing to see. No movement, no sound. Horse and rider had been swallowed up.

Slowly, the first twinges of a creeping fear began to come over her. It was the strange and weird kind of apprehension that comes from a face-to-face meeting with the unknown or the impossible.

Silly though the idea seemed later on, she felt that Bounbrook must have died and she'd been a witness of his start toward the Valhalla of Thoroughbreds. The thought made her shudder and she turned back and found herself running toward her car.

Will Try 6 This Week For Counterfeiting

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Six men charged in the counterfeiting of $20 bills are to be tried in the one-week term of Eastern District federal court opening here today.

There will be two related trials involving the seizure of $80,000 in bogus bills by Secret Service agents. The government says the alleged counterfeit money ring operated from Jacksonville, N.C. There are five defendants in one case. They are William Earl Baysden, 44, Jacksonville furniture store operator; Clemmie Humphrey, 38, and Norwood Whaley, 34, both of Richlands near Jacksonville; Edward D. Sparrow, 62, of Kingston; and Edward Thorpe, 55, arrested at Richmond, Va.

All were arrested last month. They face a total of 14 counts involving conspiracy to print, possess and circulate counterfeit money, and possessing a device for falsely imprinting the U.S. Treasury seal.

Secret Service agents said they arrested Baysden April 21 and confiscated $100,000 in homemade twenties.

In 1958 agents seized $700,000 in counterfeit bills in a deep freeze in Baysden's store. Baysden was convicted, but the 4th Circuit Appeals Court reversed the decision on the grounds a search warrant was improperly drawn.

Baysden and Sparrow also are to be tried in the 1958 case, along with William Dewey Jacobs, a key government witness in that trial.

Ula Hall, Baysden's brother-in-law, was convicted in the 1958 trial. He was fined $5,000 and given a suspended sentence of five years. Reversal of Baysden's conviction did not affect the sentence of co-defendant Hall, who did not appeal.

WANTED! MEN - WOMEN

from ages 18 to 52 Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months. Government positions pay as high as $446 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service helps thousands prepare for these tests every year. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

For FREE information on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries fill out coupon and mail at once—TODAY! You will also get full details on how you can qualify yourself to pass these tests.

Don't delay—Act NOW!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market dragged its heels with prices moderately lower in slow trading early this afternoon. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 80 at 240.10 with industrials off 1.90, rails up .20 and utilities unchanged.

Losses of key stocks went generally from fractions to about a point. Steels, Big Three motors, aerospace issues, electrical equipments, nonferrous metals, tobacco and chemicals were mostly lower. The pattern was irregular among utilities, rails, drugs, oils and rubbers.

Hopes that last week's advance would continue after the weekend were disappointed from the start when the market moved routinely and without much direction. The major steels took a string of losses. Down about a point were U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin. Bethlehem and Republic dropped fractions.

General Motors lost a fraction. Ford nearly a point and Chrysler eased. American Motors held firm.

A drop of about 2 points by Du Pont depressed the averages. A 1-point loss by AT&T had the same effect. IBM slipped more than 3 points in a fairly routine move. Litton industries dropped more than a point.

Tobacco resumed their reactionary tendencies, with Liggett & Myers down more than a point and Lorillard down about a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 3.18 at 647.52.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange worked generally higher in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were firm with industrials off U.S. government bonds declined slightly.

GOP 'Positive Approach' Urged By Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called on Republicans today to take a "positive approach" to national issues in a hard-hitting campaign for control of the House in the November election.

Eisenhower breakfasted with 10 GOP members of the Senate and House at his Gettysburg office for discussion of a forthcoming statement of Republican principles to be used in the campaign. The former president told a news conference afterwards he was interested in giving the statement more impact and in trimming the 3,200-words of a preliminary draft prepared by the Senate House Committee.

Answering questions, Eisenhower replied vigorously to President Kennedy's charge Saturday that the Republican party doesn't stand for anything.

"All you have to do is look at the record of the eight years when I was in the White House," he said. "There was a lot of constructive work done in that period."

In response to other questions, Eisenhower opposed Kennedy's health care plan for the elderly financed through Social Security taxes. Kennedy campaign vigorously for this plan in New York Sunday, declaring it "basically sound."

Eisenhower said during his administration he proposed legislation which became the present Kerr-Mills law. Under this legislation the federal government matches state funds to provide health assistance for the needy.

Eisenhower said he was disappointed the measure did not include provision for federal assistance in cases of catastrophic illness. He said if this were added needs of most of the elderly could be met.

"I believe the proper approach is the voluntary not the compulsory approach under the Social Security system," the former president said. Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., spokesman for the Senate and House members, said Eisenhower's advice would bring some changes in the party statement. Laird said the document will be ready for submission to Senate and House Republicans at separate meetings June 7.

Eisenhower broke up the news conference, held on the grounds of Gettysburg College, with a quip about a group of about 100 coeds in shorts who turned out to listen to what he had to say. Turning to the senators and House members, Eisenhower observed with a wide grin: "Why couldn't we have had the good luck to go to a college where all the coeds wear shorts." Laird earlier had predicted that a much more terse statement of the issues would emerge from the meeting.

Plan Evacuation In New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—Dutch authorities today prepared to evacuate Dutch women and children from this island's western tip following an invasion by 120 Indonesian paratroopers. Gov. P. J. Platje announced that 120 women and children would be moved from the town of Teminabuan to the east coast of Vogelkop, the island's westernmost peninsula, and to the nearby island of Blak.

The announcement gave the first disclosure of the size of the paratroop landing Saturday. It said some of the paratroopers dropped near Teminabuan, a three o'clock by air and that the Dutch garrison had rushed up reinforcements. The Dutch said an army unit station in Teminabuan "launched a rapid aggressive action," killing the Indonesian commander and another paratrooper and wounding three. The Dutch said they had no losses. Reinforcements were sent to the area for "further neutralization of the demoralized and scattered paratroopers," the Dutch said. Sukarno's government said Sunday night a general election scheduled for later this year had been postponed until West New Guinea is liberated.

Mercury Again In Upper 90's

Temperatures in Greenville had reached 97 degrees by noon today.

The hot, dry weather which has persisted during the past few days is expected to continue during the first part of this week, with temperatures ranging two to six degrees above the seasonal average, the weatherman said. Partly cloudy weather is forecast for today through Tuesday, with widely scattered mostly afternoon and evening thunder showers.

Last night's low temperature was 73 degrees, as recorded at the Greenville Utilities Plant, Linwood Hudson reported. Sunday's high and low temperatures were 96 and 73 degrees. The Tar River level today was at a 3.2-foot level, and dropping slowly, Hudson said.

Woman Injured In Wreck Today

No charges were placed in a two car mishap in which one person was injured on Memorial Drive at Stantonburg Road at 7:40 a.m. today.

Injured in the accident was Mrs. Virginia Reel Strickland of Bell Arthur, wife of County Commissioner Bruce Strickland. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital with head and back injuries by the Greenville Rescue Squad and admitted.

Investigating officers identified the drivers of the vehicles as Vivian Ann Strickland, 17, daughter of the injured woman, and Johnny Ray Stancil, 25, of 2109 Montclair Drive.

Officers said the Strickland vehicle was heading east on Stantonburg Road and stopped at the intersection of Memorial Drive. Miss Strickland then pulled to the middle of the four lane highway and stopped again before turning into the north-bound lane.

As the vehicle turned onto Memorial Drive the Stancil auto heading north collided with the Strickland vehicle. Officers estimated damage to both cars at $600.

Two Weekend Traffic Mishaps

Greenville police officers investigated two traffic accidents in the city over the weekend with estimated damages totaling $800 and no personal injury.

In the first accident officers charged James Arley Buck, 21, of Rt. 1, Chocowinity, with reckless driving following a collision on East Tenth St.

Officers said the Buck vehicle collided with the back of a truck operated by Allen Ray Elks, 19, of 546 Evans St., as Elks was making a turn. Estimated damage to the Buck auto was $175 while damage to the truck operated by Elks was set at $25. Both vehicles were traveling west at the time of the accident.

In another collision at 6:24 p.m. Saturday an estimated $600 damage was done when two cars collided at the intersection of North Village Dr. and Line Ave.

Investigating officers identified the drivers of the vehicles as Annie Vandiford Godley of 1806 B. Myrtle Ave. and Keith Kerr of Rt. 1, Greenville.

Officers noted that the Kerr auto was traveling south on Line Ave. and turned onto North Village where the other vehicle was stopping at the intersection when the wreck occurred. Damage to both cars was placed at $300.

Kerr was charged by investigating officers with operating under the influence.

Hopes Regain U.S. Citizenship

ZELIENOPLE, Pa. (AP)—Robert Webster, who gave up his American citizenship in the Soviet Union in 1959, has returned home disillusioned and tired but with hopes of undoing "the wrong I did."

Webster, 33, a former plastic technician in Cleveland, Ohio, arrived at Greater Pittsburgh Airport from New York Sunday night. He rode some 20 miles by taxicab to Zelenople where he went into seclusion at his father's home.

Webster, who left his wife and two children behind when he defected after going to the Soviet Union in 1959 to set up a Rand Corp. plastics exhibit in Moscow, said he would take any job he can get.

James Rand III, president of the Rand Corp., has said he felt a responsibility for Webster and would attempt to get him a job, though not with Rand's own firm. Webster, wearing the same blue suit he bought in Cleveland and wore to the U.S.S.R., said he had no immediate plans except that he wanted "to rest a little." He told newsmen he was confused and tired. He also appeared nervous.

Webster said he is in America to stay.

Superior Service Award Presented Greenville

RALEIGH — Benjamin H. White of Greenville, former Pitt County supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration and current PHA real estate officer for North Carolina, has received one of six Superior Service Awards presented this year by PHA.

Melvin H. Hearn, state PHA director, said White's award, presented for his service in Pitt County, was made Friday at the annual awards ceremony at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument grounds in the Nation's Capital.

In announcing White's award, Hearn said: "This is a very high honor that has come to one of our employees—one that brings great credit to Mr. White and also to the Farmers Home Administration."

He continued, "It is especially noteworthy since only six PHA employees in the nation received this award in 1962, and we are very proud that one of them is from North Carolina."

White's citation reads: "For meritorious leadership in providing assistance to many operators of adequate family farms enabling them to improve their tenure, adjust their operations and become successful farmers, thereby reaching program objectives."

White is a veteran of about 13 years' service with PHA. He is a member of the Greenville Rotary Club, Greenville Moose Lodge and the Immanuel Baptist Church. He is past district governor of the Greenville-Goldsboro Ruritan District. Married to the former Nellie Ricks of Severn, White and his wife have two sons, Ben Jr., a student at Wake Forest College, and William, a high school senior.

White plans to move his residence to 1631 St. Mary's Street in Raleigh about June 1. In attributing White's award to his Pitt County position, Hearn said: "The outstanding job Ben White did in Greenville was largely responsible for his promotion last December to the Loan Officer's position in Raleigh."
