Awards Day Program Held For Eppes Seniors

Five Eppes Graduates Qualify For Prospective Teacher-Loan Award

Five graduating seniors of C. M. Eppes High School have qualified for prospective teacher-loan awards, made available by the N. C. State Department of Public Instruction, it was announced yesterday during the school's Annual Awards Day.

This was an unusually large number of students from one school to qualify for the teaching scholarships. In addition, other students received scholarships from different sources.

Recipients of the teaching award included James Ebron, Olga Nichols, John Lloyd, Shirley Dupree and Mary Knox. The teaching scholarships are valued at $350 per year, or $1,400 for four years of college.

Ebron and Miss Nichols also were recipients of other scholarships. Ebron has been awarded a $1,300 scholarship to Talladega College; a $1,200 scholarship to Shaw University in Raleigh; and a $150 scholarship to N. C. College in Durham. He also received a $50 cash award as the student having the highest scholastic average for four years of high school. The award was given by State Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville.

Miss Nichols received a $1,200 scholarship to Shaw University and was awarded a full tuition grant from Hampton Institute. She was one of two recipients of $150 scholarships given by the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship.

Lillian Savage, graduating senior, received a $1,500 scholarship award from Livingstone College and also the Delta Sigma Zeta Award of $25.

Six scholarships went to other seniors. Rosa Brewington received a $200 award to Southern Business College; Betty Wilkes received a $75 award from Barber-Scotia College; Ruby Sherrod received a $50 award from Civella Beauty College.

Shady Clark Jr. was the other recipient of a $150 scholarship from the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship to Johnson C. Smith University. In addition, Shirley Dupree received a $125 scholarship from Barber-Scotia College and John Thomas Lloyd received a $150 scholarship to John C. Smith University.

OUTSTANDING SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS . . . at Eppes High School during the annual Awards Day held yesterday were James Ebron, Olga Nichols and Lillian Savage. Ebron received four scholarships and a cash award for the highest academic average; Miss Nichols received three awards and Miss Savage received two.

University. Miss Nichols was recipient of the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award. Other achievement awards were given, as well as awards made by Dr. A. A. Best, chairman of the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship. The senior class gave $1,000 to the school bus fund, which now totals $2,700. The following students were recognized by the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship as noted: Citations for the best notebooks: Mary Kilpatrick, Edna Adams and Mavis Gardner.

Citations for excellent performance as team members at the Health Achievement Day contest: Mavis Gardner, Mary Kilpatrick, Linda Adams, Kathryn Harris and Cornelius Williams.

Citations for excellent performance during the entire course of personal hygiene: Mary Baker, Larry Joyner, Ann Lewis, Teresa Pierce, Robert White, Patricia Forbes, Robert Atkinson. Alma Morris was cited for making the most progress during the personal hygiene course.

Permit Granted For Pitt Fair

The North Carolina Department of Agriculture has granted a permit for holding the Pitt County American Legion Agricultural Fair, Oct. 8-13. Ford McGowan, president, announced. Preparation of the 1962 fair premium book is now underway by Extension workers and others. There are to be $3,800 in premiums offered for agricultural exhibits and livestock.

County Agent S. C. Winchester will again serve as director of the men's division and Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics agent, will serve as director of the women's division. All exhibits will be limited to residents of Pitt County. McGowan also announced that various improvements are planned for the fairgrounds prior to the 1962 fair.

Mrs. Norman Stanley will again serve as entry clerk and receptionist. Premium books will be ready for distribution in early August.

CIVIL TERM

A one-week term of Pitt County Superior Court for hearing of civil actions is scheduled to convene Monday with Judge Joseph W. Parker of Windsor presiding.

Pitt County Sheriff Ruel Tyson Dies This Morning

Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson died at 4:45 this morning following several months illness. Death came to the 59-year-old sheriff at his home, 304 S. Jarvis St.

Funeral services will be held at Memorial Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock conducted by his pastor, the Rev. Percy Upchurch.

Burial will follow in Pinewood Memorial Park.

The body will remain at Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of the service.

Sheriff Tyson was the son of the late Charles Lee and Mary Willoughby Tyson. He was born and reared in the Renston community of Pitt County.

After having engaged in farming, he became a deputy sheriff

June 25, 1938 and was appointed sheriff Nov. 1, 1943 to fill the unexpired term of J. Knott Proctor, who resigned to become postmaster.

He was elected to a full term in 1946 and re-elected in 1950, 1954 and 1958. He announced earlier this year that he would not seek re-election due to reasons of health. However, he would have continued in office until a successor was chosen in the general election next fall.

Ironically, Sheriff Tyson died on the day of the Democratic primary when the party nominee for sheriff will be chosen.

Sheriff Tyson had seen his department increased from two deputies to seven during the time he served as sheriff. The county jail operations have also been consolidated under the sheriff's office and there are two full-time jailers.

He had seen two-way radio added to the department. The county also began furnishing cars for the deputies and about two years ago the county began outfitting the deputies with uniforms.

Sheriff Tyson was a member of Memorial Baptist Church, a former deacon, a member of Ellen Bible Class and Greenville Rotary Club. He had served as president of the North Carolina Sheriff's Association and at the time of his death was president of the Pitt County Peace Officers Association.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Annie Bert Gupion, a native of Louisville, a son, R. W. Jr., is now teaching at Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin, Tex. Also surviving are two grandsons and two sisters, Mrs. George B. Strickland of Kinston and Mrs. William H. Rackley of Smithfield.

The family requests that no flowers be sent. Anyone desiring to do so may send a tribute in his memory to the American Cancer Society or his own church building fund.

Cite Evidence Of Internal Blast In Airliner's Crash

CENTREVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said Saturday that an explosive force of unknown origin occurred within a Continental Airlines jetliner, causing it to crash and killing 45 persons Tuesday night.

Edward E. Slattery Jr., CAB public information officer, said in a statement:

"Investigators have determined that an explosive force of unknown origin occurred within the aft section of the fuselage and caused the aircraft to break up in flight."

The $5.5 million Boeing 707 crashed on a farm near Unionville, Mo., while on a flight from Chicago to Kansas City and Los Angeles.

Debris from the plane as it disintegrated in flight has been found as far as 150 miles northeast of the crash scene.

"Portions of the cabin interior and fuselage structure have been sent to Washington for laboratory analysis to ascertain the nature of the explosive ingredients," Slattery said.

It was reported that the maximum insurance coverage, $225,000, was bought for one passenger just before the plane took off from Chicago. Backgrounds of the passengers are being checked intensively.

There also were reports that fragments of the tail section show marks of an explosion, and that there may be powder burns on some of the bodies.

W. Mark Fell, in charge of the FBI's Kansas City bureau, hurried back to the scene of the crash near Unionville, Mo., Friday with a squad of agents. He would not say what they were looking for.

Robert Six, Continental president, said in Denver the company believes some man-made condition tore the plane apart in the air, instead of the turbulent weather which the plane's crew was trying to avoid.

ECC To Bestow 1,000 Degrees

With alumni returning to the campus today for their annual spring business meeting, a luncheon in the North Dining Hall, reunions in the afternoon, and a tea at the home of President Leo W. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins, events of Commencement weekend at East Carolina College got underway this morning.

Graduation exercises for approximately 1,000 candidates for degrees will take place tomorrow afternoon in the College Stadium. Preceding the exercises, the East Carolina Symphonic Band will give a quarter-hour program of music beginning at 5:30 p.m. The exercises will begin promptly at 6 p.m.

U. S. Commissioner of Education Sterling M. McMurrin will deliver the Commencement address. Dean Robert L. Holt will present candidates for degrees, which will be conferred upon graduates by President Jenkins. D. D. Gross, Director of Religious Activities at the college, will give the invocation.

Music for the exercises will present works by two North Carolina composers which will be performed by the East Carolina Symphonic Band and the East Carolina College Choir. Selections are "Alleluia" by Martin Mailman, Composer in Residence at the college here, and "Sinai" by M. Thomas Cousins of Berea.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. the East Carolina Symphonic Band will give a concert of popular music on the South Quad, in honor of the Class of 1962 and visitors on the campus. The public is invited to attend.

Events of Alumni Day on the campus began this morning at 9:30, when visitors were entertained at a coffee hour in the Mamie E. Jenkins Alumni-Faculty House. Members of the Greenville Chapter of the Alumni Association acted as hosts and hostesses.

Fodie E. Hodges of Kinston, President of the Alumni Association, presided at the annual business meeting of the organization at a meeting beginning at 10:30 in the Austin auditorium.

New directors of the association chosen in an election conducted early this month were announced at the meeting this morning.

Assuming their new duties today as they were inducted into office are the following: Lester R. Ridenhour, Burlington, District 4; Mrs. Joseph A. Temple, Selma, District 6; Hiram J. Mayo of Edenton, District 8; Harvey L. Davis of Goldsboro, District 10; and Donald H. Smith, Wilmington.

Senators OK Stiff Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats overcame stubborn Republican opposition and passed a farm bill containing most of the mandatory production controls sought by President Kennedy in an effort to reduce surplus wheat and feed grain stocks.

The vote Friday after a week of debate was 42 to 38 with one Republican joining 41 Democrats. Eight Democrats voted with 30 Republicans against the measure. It now goes to the House, where a similar bill has been approved by the Agriculture Committee and awaits floor action.

The new program would be put to a vote of farmers, with a two-thirds majority needed for adoption. The main feature of the bill is higher price supports and substantially reduced production quotas from wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley.

If growers rejected the program, production would be unlimited but price supports would be substantially lower and the secretary of agriculture would be authorized to dump some of the present surplus stocks on the market, further depressing prices.

Other features of the bill: —Increased penalties for sale of excess production of these crops. —A 25-acre exemption from production controls for farmers raising wheat or feed grains for their own livestock.

—Payments to wheat growers who divert wheat land for three years.

—A $10-million pilot program for assisting in establishment of recreation facilities on land removed from crop production. Kennedy also sought controls on oats and rye, but the Senate exempted those crops from the bill.

Republicans said the bill will lead to government regimentation of the meat, dairy, livestock and poultry industries.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., predicting farmers will reject the program, said it would mean higher food prices and lower farm income unless there were heavy new government subsidies.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., called it "a giant step toward a planned economy."

Even Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, the only Republican to vote for the omnibus measure, said he opposed the new wheat and feed grain provision.

The administration got nowhere in its bid for lower dairy marketing quotas accompanied by higher price supports.

The committee rejected all dairy proposals, leaving the program as it is now. And an attempt to write in higher support for milk producers who voluntarily hold production to this year's level was defeated 70 to 13.

Greenville police today reported that a 16-year-old youth spent the night in the city jail after officers arrested him on charges of damage to city property.

Officers said the youth, Melvin C. Haddock of 1210 Dickinson Ave., was charged after throwing soft drink bottles through windows at Rose High School. He was not a Rose High student, police noted. He was released from jail at 11:15 a.m. under a $50 bond. The arrest was recorded at 12:30 a.m.

Light Turnout Of Pitt Voters Indicated In Morning Survey

A late morning survey of the polls indicated a light voter turnout today for the Democratic party's nomination primary in Pitt County.

A check of 13 precincts, including the county's largest, between 11:30 and 11:50 produced a total of 2,179 ballots cast. Most poll holders expected volume to increase during the afternoon.

Apparently leading the early balloting were Ayden and Farmville with Winterville and Greenville's seventh precinct close behind.

By 11:30, Ayden poll holder A. W. Sawyer reported a total of 369 ballots cast with a waiting line on hand. Farmville's James H. Kilpatrick reported Winterville poll holder Mrs. Frances Dixon had counted 285 and Bruce Koonce in Greenville 7 reported 275 at 11:49.

At stake in county-wide races were party nominations for Pitt's House seat, the sheriff's job to succeed Ruel W. Tyson whose early morning death marred election day, the Fifth District County Commissioner post and two seats on the County School Board. Races for constable posts in six townships were referred to voters today.

Polls were to close at 6:30 p.m. and the Daily Reflector planned to tabulate and post early unofficial returns as soon as pollholders and judges had completed the ballot count in the county's 25 precincts.

Other results of the Reflector's morning survey of the 13 precincts included: Bethel at 11:32 had voted 144; Chicoc 3 had voted 24 by 11:36; Fountain by 11:40 had counted 43 voters; Greenville-1 had voted 112 at 11:42; Greenville 4 had counted 194 by 11:44; Greenville 6 reported 185 at 11:45; Grimesland 1 had seen 37 at 11:47; Grifton had counted 210 by 11:49.

Weddings Planned By Roberts, Johnson, Wright, Mobley

MISS SUSAN ANNE ROBERTS . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus B. Roberts of Washington, N.C. who announce her engagement to Gene Daniel Lanier son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeannie D. Lanier. The wedding will take place on August 19.

MISS EVELYN CAROLINE JOHNSON is betrothed to James Bryant Kirkland, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland of Raleigh. Daughter of Mrs. Carson Monroe Johnson of Clinton, and the late Mr. Johnson, the engagement is announced by her mother. A late summer wedding is planned.

MISS JANE IREDELE WRIGHT . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Laurens Wright of Wrightsville Sound who announce her engagement to Marvin Key Blount Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Key Blount of Greenville. The wedding will take place on August 25.

MISS BETTY JEAN MOBLEY . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mobley of Winterville who announce her engagement to Jesse Van Jackson of Winterville. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Rick Jackson. A July 22 wedding is planned.

All About Town
With Anne Mattox

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dail sailed Wednesday from the Morehead City Port Terminal aboard the M.S. Victoria for a five day cruise to Bermuda.

Evelyn Johnson will receive her masters degree in elementary education and administration tomorrow from East Carolina College. At the same time her fiance Jimmy Kirkland will receive his B.S. in business education. The couple met at a political party at ECC in 1960. They plan to live in the Piedmont section of the state following their June wedding.

A Washington girl, Susan Anne Roberts, will marry Gene Lanier who is Order Librarian, at East Carolina College in an August wedding in the First Methodist Church in Washington.

Mrs. Sam Mitchell has been notified that she is now a National Accredited Flower Show Judge. Qualifications to become a national flower show judge are: member of a Garden Club and that Club must be a member of the Garden Club of North Carolina and The National Council of Garden Clubs.

They must successfully pass the following courses: all phases of horticulture, artistic arrangements, wild flowers, flower show practice, landscape design, must successfully pass point score judging in four schools, after passing three courses one can serve as a student judge, then just judge in five Standard Flower Shows. To become a national judge one must receive five blue ribbons in a Standard Show, divided between artistic and horticulture.

Among Billie Mitchell's ribbons was the award of merit, best exhibit in horticulture and the award of distinction, best in arrangement class. Upon completion of the preceding feats, 27 books must be read covering all subjects taught in schools; she had to pass the National examination given by the National Council. A prospective judge has seven years to complete the requirements; Mrs. Mitchell completed hers the fifth year.

Centi-Centi Book Club members are entertaining for their husbands at a dinner at the Washington Yacht and Country Club tonight.

Miss Ginny James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. James, of 412 W. 4th St., will graduate from Peace College on May 27. Her parents and her grandmother, Mrs. Robert L. Gaston plan to attend the graduation exercises tomorrow.

Craig W. Worthington, '61 Rose High graduate, was one of 18 Duke University freshmen recently tapper for membership in Beta Omega Sigma, the school's sophomore leadership honorary.

Membership in the fraternity, one of the highest honors available to freshmen, is based primarily on leadership as shown by scholastic achievement and 6 active participation in extra-curricular activities. The honorary promotes active student participation in campus affairs as a means of developing the leadership potential of its members. Craig, who will serve next year as a Duke Chronicle news editor, MSGA Educational Affairs committee member, homecoming planning committee member, and a BOS officer, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Wardell Worthington of near Ayden.

President, Mrs. Jenkins Entertain 1,000 Guests

More than 1,000 guests, including members of the 1961-1962 graduating class of East Carolina College, their escorts, and heads of the college departments and their wives and husbands, were honored at a Patio Party at the home of President Leo W. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins Friday evening.

The Jenkins home featured Japanese lanterns which were hung on the front lawn. Beneath the softness of the lighted lanterns were 25 tables covered in red and white checked tablecloths. A wrought-iron lighted lamp on each of the tables was made attractive with an arrangement of red and white carnations.

Student Recital To Be Sunday

Mrs. L. B. Tucker will present the following pupils in a recital at Eighth St. Christian Church Sunday at 3:00 p.m.:

Deborah Warren, Susan Tice, Jackie Crawford, Betty Jo Carroll, Sandra Eubanks, Pat Allen, Pam Allen, Rae Harris, Cheryl Carpenter, Shelby Jean Barber, Donna Glisson, Jeanne Cannon, Marcia Worthington, Pat Boyd, Janice Corbett, Montgomery Abbott, Vickie Williams, Tommy Landen, Donnie Brewer; Sallie Hardee, Brenda Kay Buck, Linda Cannon, Tyrone Williams, Beth Oliver, Brenda Smith, Judy Williams, Zelle Gurganus, Harriet Tice, Sue McGregor, Peggy Rose Wallace, Joy Pollard, Jayne McGregor, Elaine Griffin, Janice House, Linda Carroll, Michael Reagan, Brenda Sutton, Tanya Porter, Glenda Hardee and Danny Griffin.

The public is invited to attend.

Of focal interest for the occasion were the large hurricane lamps which outlined the front patio of the home. With music by Jerry Liles and his Orchestra, dancing on the patio and in the driveway was enjoyed by guests.

An appointed table on the back patio, where punch and cookies were served by Dean of Women Ruth White and Miss Janice Hardison, who has been appointed Alumni secretary, was centered with an arrangement of summer flowers. On either side of the tables were large Williamsburg lamps entwined with ivy.

Fifteen marshals, chosen for their academic achievements, assisted in serving refreshments. They are Mary Jo Lancaster of Windsor, chief marshal; Melba Ann Rhue of Swansboro; Sue Ellen Hunsucker of Winterville; Ann Adkins of Rocky Mount; Patricia A. Waff of Edenton; Linda Efland of Efland; Donna Bingham of Cary; Nancy Garner of Roanoke Rapids; Barbara L. Hooper of Greenville; Geraldine Kennedy of Beulaville; Linda Pearlman of Greensboro; Eleanor R. Poole of Wake Forest; Paulette Ward of Durham; Laura Williams of Fayetteville; and Sue Worthington of Winterville.

Nancy Tinder Complimented

Miss Nancy Tinder, June 28 bride-elect of Fitzhugh Dade, was feted at a shower Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Teresa Saieed. Co-hostess was Miss Lorraine Smith.

The honoree received a gift of china and a corsage of miniature carnations from the hostesses. The home was decorated with white carnations, gladioli, and pansies.

During the evening, bridge was played and the high-score prize was received by Mrs. Agnes Barrett.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect

A floating miscellaneous shower was held at the Winterville Community Building Wednesday night honoring Miss Sandra McLawhorn, bride-elect of June 10.

Hostesses honoring Sandra were Misses Nesa Ann Page, Judy Worthington, and Carolyn Cayton.

Miss McLawhorn was presented a corsage of white roses and a gift of glassware by the hostesses.

A white linen cloth, centered by an arrangement of mixed lavender flowers, covered the refreshment table.

Guests were served punch by Miss Nesa Ann Page. They helped themselves to cookies, nuts, and mints.

Breakfast Clubber Chosen

Miss Clara Seago of Greenville was named "Breakfast Clubber of the Year" Tuesday at the installation luncheon of the North Carolina State Convention of Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs at the Queen Charlotte Hotel.

Miss Seago is a past president of the Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club. She was International Project Chairman this year and taught the study course in her club.

New officers were installed by Mrs. Ethel Wilkinson of Charlotte, past president of the Dixie Council of Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs.

The new president, Mrs. Winifred Taylor of Kannapolis, announced her appointment of three state officers. Mrs. Wilkinson is State Parliamentarian; Mrs. Coleen Childers of Kannapolis, State Corresponding Secretary.

News From Bethel

Mary Lambeth Circle
The Mary Lambeth Circle held its May meeting in the home of Mrs. Robert Whitehurst. Mrs. Raymond Whitehurst presided in the absence of the chairman. The minutes were read and approved after which routine business was transacted.

The devotional and program were given by Clara Roberson and Mrs. R. B. Edmondson. They used as their topic "The Responsible Christian Citizen". Mrs. C. M. Burton also participated in the program.

After the adjournment the hostess served refreshments.

Inter Nos Book Club
Has Final Meeting
The final meeting of the Inter Nos Book Club met with Mrs. Hal Manning. The living room was decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. B. R. Ayres. The secretary read the minutes which stood approved. The program was turned over to Mrs. Sam Carson. She introduced Jack Wynne who showed color slides of his trip to Europe.

The hostess served refreshments to club members and one visitor, Mrs. Charles Matthews. After the books were distributed, the meeting was adjourned to meet again in September.

Bridge Luncheon
A bridge luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Robert P. Michaels, Jr. The guests were: Mrs. T. E. Andrews, Jr.; Mrs. Leighton Blount, Jr.; Mrs. William Gadet Whitehurst, Jr.; Mrs. William Moody; Mrs. Van Taylor, Jr.; Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst; Mrs. Frank Hemmingway; Mrs. Joseph Butterworth; Mrs. Curtis Martin was also present for lunch.

Bridge prizes were awarded Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst and Mrs. Leighton Blount, Jr.

Pink and white roses were used to decorate the house when Mrs. Bill Johnson was hostess to her bridge club recently. There were two tables of bridge with five members and three guests present. Guests were Mrs. Bob Bowers, Mrs. Tom Carson and Mrs. William Earl House. Mrs. House received high score prize, and Mrs. Janie Anderson received the consolation prize.

Ice cream parfaits, cake and nuts were served between the two progressions of bridge.

Will J. Carson is confined to Pitt Memorial Hospital with a broken hip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown are home after spending a few days at Atlantic Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McRae of Jacksonville North Carolina spent the weekend in Bethel with relatives.

Each Graduation Brings New Hope

Some 640 young men and women will don their caps and gowns in Pitt County within the next several days to receive their high school diplomas signifying successful completion of 12 years of academic endeavor.

For some it will be a step toward college where they will continue their academic training. For others it will mark the end of their formal education. But for all of these young men and women it will mark the transition from high school days new responsibilities as young adults in society.

The transition will not be easy, and the new challenges which are brought with the change may prove more difficult than those they have faced during their high school careers. For most of them their new status will be one of greater independence and greater self-determination than they have ever known. They will find it necessary to rely upon their own judgment and their own resources to a greater extent than in their previous years. They

Battle Looming Over Utilities

By WEIMAR JONES, EDITOR
The Franklin Press and
The Highlands Maconian
Guest Columnist

Look for reverberations in the next General Assembly from a battle that has been raging for more than two and a half years in the southwestern tip of North Carolina.

That has long been likely. Last week, it became a virtual certainty.

It became a virtual certainty when Governor Sanford announced last week that Nantahala Power and Light Company had declined his request that it rescind a heavy power rate increase in the six mountain counties it serves. The increase, estimated to give Nantahala a million dollars a year additional revenue, is said to average about one-third. Complaints that have reached the Governor, however, cite figures to show instances where the boost was 100 percent, or even more.

The increase was put into effect last July, under "bond", pending a still-awarded decision by the State Utilities Commission on the matter.

Had Nantahala acceded to the Governor's request, it would have taken some of the heat off. Its refusal is likely to send the temperature still higher. And the more that is said about the situation, the more people in other parts of the state become aware that the same sort of thing could happen to them.

The increase was put into effect by Nantahala under a depression-passed law that most people didn't know was on the books. Under that law, any utility can put any rate increase in effect, pending action by the Utilities Commission. It could happen to gas rates in Piedmont North Carolina, to telephone rates in Eastern North Carolina, to utility rate anywhere in the state. Moreover, there is no limit. Rates can be hiked 100 percent of 1,000 percent, and nobody can prevent it; the customer must pay the higher rate until the Utilities Commission makes a final decision on it. Such decisions are often slow coming—as the people of Southeastern North Carolina have learned in the last 10 months.

This local controversy could lead to the legislators taking a long, hard look at the whole subject of public utility regulation.

There is a second issue, also pending before the Utilities Commission, closely tied in with this one.

In September, 1959, a proposed sale by Nantahala of its distribution system and franchise to Duke Power Company was announced. Nantahala, however, would retain its major hydroelectric dams and generating facilities. Under the plan, Duke would build a transmission line and bring steam-generated power into this waterpower area. Duke's rates, it was admitted, were generally higher than those then charged by Nantahala.

There was a storm of protest. The public demanded that Nantahala sell, "lock, stock, and barrel", or not at all.

Here was the argument: Nantahala (which is wholly owned by the Aluminum Company of America), in its capacity as a public service corporation, had the power of eminent domain. It had acquired sites for its dams through condemnation, or the threat of condemnation. It had no right to do this, except so it could serve the public. Now it proposed to sell its distribution system — and its customers—but to keep all the power generated at these sites, for the exclusive use of its parent corporation, Alcoa.

Nantahala had long sold the bulk of its power to Alcoa, at great-reduced rates, labeling it "secondary" power. As the public demand for power grew greater and greater, there was less and less left for Alcoa's aluminum plant.

In his letter to John M. Archer, Jr., president of Nantahala, Governor Sanford put it this way:

"The course taken by Nantahala gives the impression of a company interested only in dropping its obligations to the public, but keeping the fruits of the resources which originally belonged to the people, and taking a last-minute increased profit as a going-away present."

Many in Western North Carolina call the issue involved here a "moral" one, adding that, if this sale is permitted, something similar could happen to the natural resources of other regions in the state.

Month after month, opposition to the proposed sale continued, and month after month, Nantahala and Duke deferred filing application for its approval with the Utilities Commission. At one point, W. B. McGuire, Duke president, frankly said they were waiting for opposition to subside. So, when Nantahala filed its application for a big rate increase, on slightly higher than Duke's, that action was generally interpreted in the mountains as a club to drive the people of the area into accepting the sale to Duke.

If that were the purpose, it back-fired. All the evidence is, it merely hardened opposition. Whether there was any connection, in a matter of speculation, but it is a fact it was only when this hardening of opposition became apparent that Nantahala and Duke finally filed their application for approval of the sale.

Whatever Nantahala's motives and whatever the merits of the case, the next Legislature is going to hear from this. And it may hear from it from points outside the mountains.

will face circumstances of life as they cross the threshold into the adult world, and they will find a basic requirement is that they be able to stand on their own feet in good times and in bad, in the face of pleasant situations and in the face of crisis.

The Reflector offers its congratulations to those young people who make up the high school graduating class of 1962. In all probability they have received during their 12 years of public school better training on the whole than those who graduate before them. They eagerly await the new challenges and new responsibilities with self-confidence. From their former status they have viewed flaws in the adult society into which they will soon enter, and without doubt they are resolved to correct many of those flaws, to make their lives and those around them better.

We would not dissuade them from this resolve.

The hope of the adult generation lies in the young people who each year bring new life and new blood into the adult society of the community, the state and the nation. In spite of what might be said to the contrary at times, most adults look with confidence upon the young people who are making the transition each year. Spoken, or not, they find a certain pride in seeing a young man or young woman—whom perhaps they have known since infancy—step through the threshold of graduation into a new status. With each graduation class there comes new hope for a better future for all people. Among the graduating class of this year there are the leaders of the adult world of tomorrow. Whether it is a better world a few decades from now depends upon the leadership these young people afford, beginning now.

To the graduating class of 1962, we would say: You have our confidence, you have our best wishes and in you there is our hope for the future.

Texas Case Could Be Duplicated Elsewhere

New findings in the death a year ago of a federal official checking into the affairs of Billie Sol Estes is of significance completely apart from any bearing it may have on the Estes affair.

It offers a new suggestion that many states—not just Texas—might take a long careful look at the coroner system followed within their boundaries. In the case of the death of Henry Marshall on his Texas farm a year ago, a magistrate, acting as coroner, conducted an inquest which resulted in the verdict that Marshall's death was suicide.

Now a year later, the physician who has performed an autopsy on Marshall's exhumed body has reported, "There is the barest possibility of suicide." The physician found that Marshall's blood contained almost enough carbon monoxide gas to have caused death. In addition, the autopsy revealed a severe blow on Marshall's head. And as for the five rifle wounds in the body, the autopsy indicated the possibility that one of the shots hit Marshall in the back.

If such information had been available during the initial coroner's investigation of Marshall's death in Texas, would the verdict of suicide be rendered in the case? Were qualified medical people called in initially to help determine the cause of death of the Agricultural Department employee?

In Texas—as well as in North Carolina and other states—there are no requirements that people who hold the office of coroner have any medical or other special training to equip them to determine the cause of death. It is true that many coroners do not have such special training make it a practice to call on medical and other experts in connection with investigations. But on the other hand, there are many coroners who rarely call for outside assistance in an effort to determine the cause of death in cases they investigate.

What has been revealed not in the case of Marshall in Texas could have just as well occurred in many counties of North Carolina, and numerous other states.

Such cases will continue to crop up in many states until sufficient attention is given to setting up requirements for the office of coroner which will assure that those responsible for investigating questionable deaths are completely competent to conduct such investigations.

Administration Plays It Cool

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) —

One of the best insights into President Kennedy's policy of not making people mad at him shines through his handling of the medical care for the aged bill.

He's all out for the Anderson-King bill. Another program for giving the aged medical care, the Kerr-Mills Act, has been law for almost two years. It's much more limited in scope than the Anderson-King measure.

Kennedy is pushing the latter because he doesn't think the Kerr-Mills Act goes far enough or covers enough people.

This Kerr-Mills Act is one of the Kennedy's administration's main obstacles in getting passage for the Anderson-King bill. It only because it is backed by Kennedy's main opponent, the American Medical Association.

The AMA's position is that the Kerr-Mills Act is good, goes far enough—and will get better. Yet, the administration has been very gentle and sparing in criticism of the Kerr-Mills measure.

Back in 1960 Congress passed this act sponsored by two powerful Democrats, Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma and Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas.

Under this program the federal government shares expenses with states which set up a system for providing medical care to needy old people who may be able to pay their living expenses but not their medical bills.

But not all states have set up such a system. The AMA says 33 states have. The Health, Education and Welfare Department says only 27 have. And each state sets its own standards.

Thus in one state a person with over $1,800 income can't get help under the Kerr-Mills Act. In another a person with over $1,200 income can't. And the kinds of benefits vary.

In March about 86,000 people, according to HEW, qualified to receive aid under this system but three-quarters of them were in only four states: New York, Massachusetts, California, and Michigan.

So the Kennedy administration is campaigning now for a program which, it thinks, would cover more people not only better but in the same way everywhere, without variations or tests for income.

This one is sponsored by two other Democrats: Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico and Rep. Cecil King of California. It would work like this:

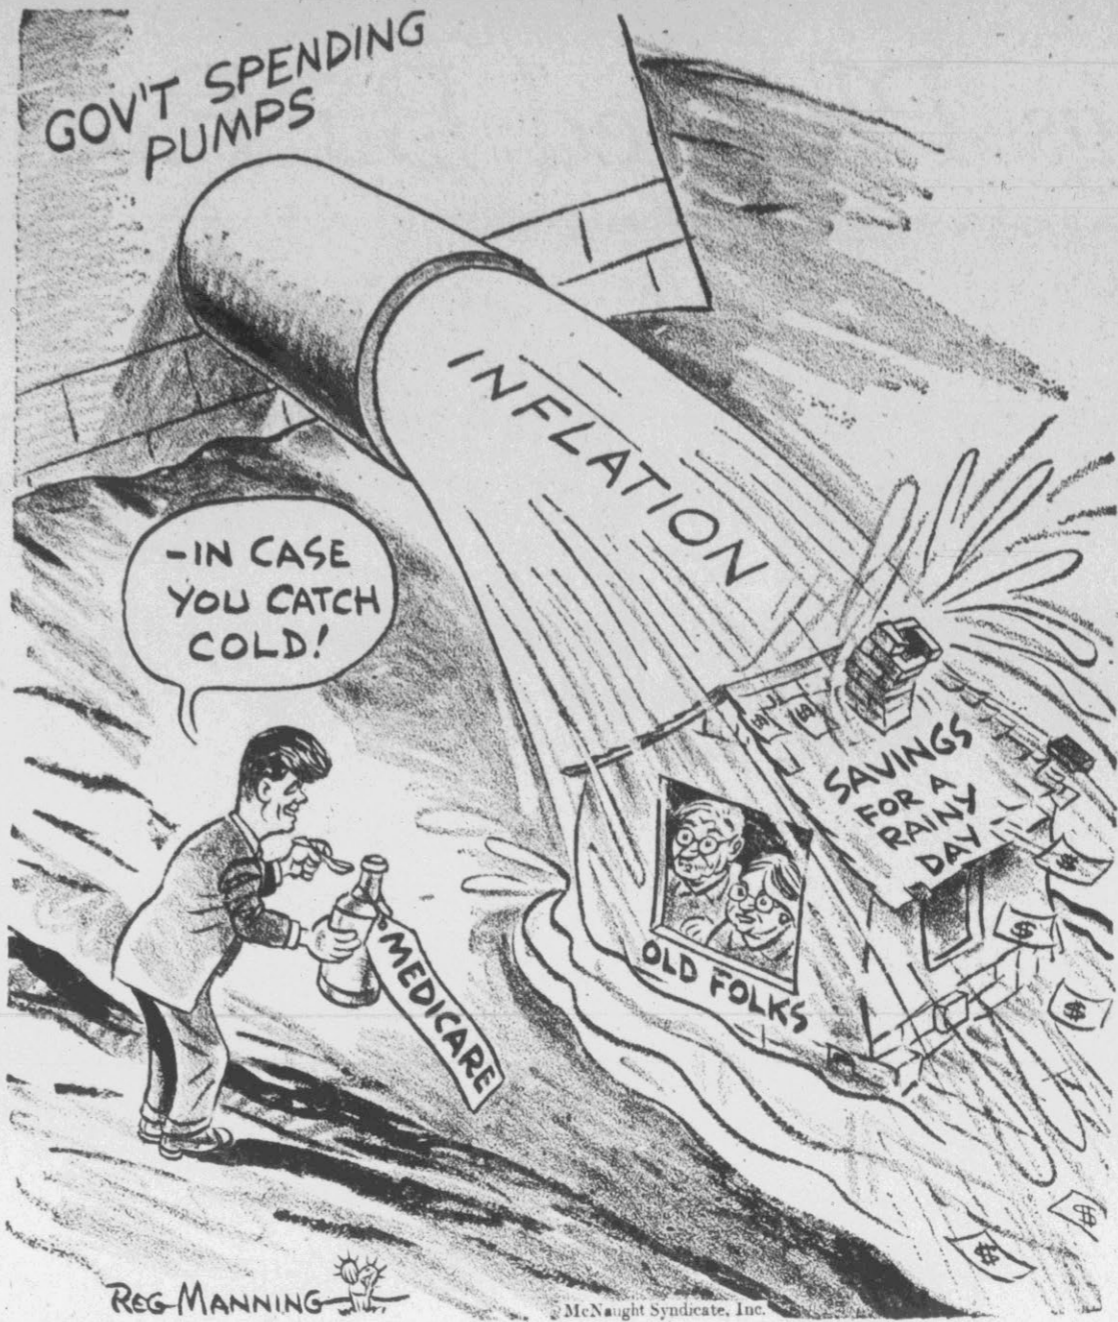

Let all people over 65 — if they're entitled to receive Social Security or Railway Retirement benefits — get hospital and nursing care at a cost of no more than $90 and for months at a time.

The cost for this would be paid by a slight boost in the present Social Security tax. The government, however, would not pay these people's doctors' bills. They'd have to pay those themselves.

And not everyone over 65 would be covered by this program, either. The administration figures about 14 million out of 38 million over 65 would get the benefits.

But Rep. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and a major opponent of the Kennedy-backed Anderson-King bill, is more than just an

Everybody Has Sideline

NEW YORK (AP)—There was a time when a business office was merely a place where people went to earn a living.

Today, however, the average office has become an unofficial department store.

You no longer have to do your shopping during lunch hours or on Saturdays. One of the fringe benefits of modern office life now is that you can shop leisurely on company time without leaving your desk.

Seated comfortably in your swivel chair you can purchase anything from a grand piano to a stuffed polar bear.

This is because every office employe today seems to be a part-time salesman. The hired hands spend half their working time buying something from or selling something to each other. The bait is always the same:

"I can get it for you wholesale."

You arrive in the morning and what happens the very first thing? Why, old Hank, the lovable janitor, sweeps up and says:

"I see you got egg on your necktie again. How much did you pay for that tie — three bucks? I can get 'em wholesale, two for a dollar, and they come in 29 colors, not counting plaid. Shall I bring you in a dozen tomorrow?"

You try to buckle down to the job, but along comes Bill, the treasurer's assistant, for a friendly chat. After looking around furtively, he pulls out a box containing some unset diamonds.

"I happened to overhear you say you and your wife are celebrating your 10th wedding anniversary next month," he says. "How about surprising her with a sparkler? These are a third of what they'd charge you at a jeweler's."

You tell him that your wife is allergic to diamonds, but that does not stop Bill. He reaches in his other pocket and pulls out two ladies' wrist watches.

"How about one of these then?" he demands, "guaranteed for a full year."

You start in to see the boss, but Genevieve, his secretary, stops you.

"I'm helping my little niece sell Girl Scout cookies," she says brightly. "My, are they yummy! How many boxes shall I put you down for?"

You back into the boss' den, and he looks up and says:

"Well, what's on your mind? Oh, by the way, do you have an American flag in your home? My wife is selling flags to help her church's missionary program, and I thought I'd take a few orders here at the office for her."

You explain apologetically you have all the flags you need at the moment.

"Oh, that's all right," replies the boss airily. "How about some Christmas cards? My wife is selling them for her church, too."

At quitting time you have a guilty feeling you haven't got much work done. But there is at least one satisfaction as you leave for home. The day hasn't been a complete waste.

Two employes have tentatively agreed to buy backyard swimming pools from you. That's your sideline.

Other Editors Saying Requiem For A Blue Law

(Greensboro Daily News)

North Carolina's state-wide Sunday blue law had a short, unhappy life before the State Supreme Court administered an overdue mercy killing this week. It was, as Justice William Bobbitt noted, speaking for the court, a prime example of bad legislation—"vague, uncertain and indefinite."

About all that can be said in extenuation of any blue law is that the sentiment behind it, when it is a genuine desire to set aside a day of rest from trade, is admirable. But the 1961 act lacked even the redeeming purity of sentiment, since there was ample evidence that it arbitrarily penalized one kind of merchandising for the well-being of another. It was written primarily for retail merchants, and its strictures were largely directed against their competitors, the discount houses and the 24-hour, all-purpose drug stores.

The telling point against the law, and what proved to be its downfall, was that it was too vague to be satisfactorily enforced. It banned the sale of certain items on Sunday, excepting "novelties, toys, souvenirs and articles necessary for making repairs and performing services."

The question, as four Charlotte discount houses posed it in their original brief in Mecklenburg Superior Court, was this: When does an article—a paper clip, to take a trivial example—cease to be an office appliance and become an article "necessary for performing services"? When does a bucket of paint cease to be illegal Sunday merchandise and become "necessary for making repairs"?

A law, Justice Bobbitt noted, "must be sufficiently explicit to inform those who are subject to it what conduct on their part will render them liable to its penalties."

Two other things might be noted of the 1961 blue law. The first is that like so many other "state-wide" laws passed by the General Assembly, it offered a loophole by which county governments could take their counties out of its provisions if they wish.

Regardless of the merits of the law, this is bad legislative practice, for it is easy to see that if local and county authorities may withdraw from a "statewide act," there is less incentive on the part of legislators in Raleigh to weigh legislation carefully. In fact, if this loophole had not been written into the blue law, it might never have passed in the first place.

The second noteworthy thing about the Supreme Court decision is that it does not close the door to a state-wide blue law. Justice Bobbitt's opinion did not reach the merits of blue laws in general, and thus left undecided the question whether blue laws are, inescapably "arbitrary or discriminatory."

The Daily News is convinced that it would be most difficult to write a blue law, particularly at the state-wide level, that would not be arbitrary and discriminatory, and despite the narrow ground on which the Supreme Court killed the 1961 law, it is to be hoped that this will be the Legislature's last venture into blue laws.

Will Encourage Some Mergers

By ELMER ROESSNER

Despite labor's strong opposition to railroad and airline mergers, the Administration will approve and even encourage some of them.

Railroad profits are low; some roads are in bankruptcy; some are teetering on the edge. Higher rates won't solve the problem. They would simply drive passengers and freight to planes, buses and trucks.

Airlines are little better off. Harry F. Guggenheim, chairman of the Cornell-Guggenheim Aviation Center, warned a few days ago that unless the airlines are permitted to make a profit, they face bankruptcy and the government may have to take over their operation.

Government subsidies or mergers may be the only answer, and mergers will be more politically tolerable than subsidies.

Clarence D. Martin, Jr., Undersecretary of Commerce and chairman of a governmental inter-agency commission to study transportation mergers, told the Transportation Association of America that the commission faced painful decisions on "which of several present merger proposals should be endorsed and under what conditions."

This was assumed to mean that the Administration would actually endorse mergers under certain conditions, an implication that Martin did not dispute.

Here are other look-aheads in business:

Battle over air "protection": Many advertising agencies and most television networks may become involved in a fight over "protection." That's the term for the broadcasting practice of refusing to use competing commercials within certain periods. Thus each advertiser is protected against competition from the maker of a competitive product. "Say, shouldn't the Federal Trade Commission look into this?" Networks want to shorten the protection period. It's now 15 minutes; one network is trying to make it 10. Advertiser agencies are screaming and one is threatening to pull its business off one of the networks.

Several companies have been experimenting with simultaneous downtown and suburban releases with good results. New refriger door: Trade reports say some 1963 model refrigerators will feature a new door system. The upper (freezer) door will swing out and upward on a cantilever principle.

New breed of stocks: One of the most successful trade publishers is considering marketing its stock to the public. If the public likes the idea, several other publishers will follow suit.

Vivien On The Scene

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Feature
Syndicate, Inc.

Miss Vivien Kellems is a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in the politically confused state of Connecticut. She offers herself to succeed Senator Prescott Bush, who is retiring at the end of his present term.

Vivien Kellems is a vivacious business woman who has done remarkably well for herself. She gained national fame by refusing to collect the withholding tax, unless she was paid to do it by the government. Her argument was a good New England one, that the laborer is worthy of his hire and that, as she was not hired to be a tax collector, she would not be one. She had a whale of a time with the Treasury which was not prepared for Miss Kellems' intelligence or experience.

She recently sold her business. After 35 years of experience, she is convinced that the small businessman, in this country, faces extinction not only because of high taxes, but also because of the expensive method of preparing for taxes. This also affects the self-employed. The burden of satisfying the tax-collector is beyond the ability of many to pay.

It is from the small businessman and the self-employed that some of the best ideas in industry come. The only hope for such persons today is to try to build up a sufficient business so that it might be acquired either by a growth company or by one of the larger organizations. Acquisitions have become increasingly numerous, the small businessman and the self-employed accepting stock in the larger company and thus establishing an estate for his family after he dies.

It is not to be said that acquisitions are not beneficial to the individuals concerned. What is important is that smaller businesses go out of existence; that the self-employed become lost in great corporations; that initiative is often lost in corporate bureaucracy.

Miss Kellems, if nominated and elected to the Senate, would bring that body the experience of the small manufacturer whose business has gone through this process. She issued a statement:

"Equally important with small business is the forgotten man; the thousands of decent, hard-working, self-respecting men and women who work every day and who find at the end of the week, a pay check from which 20 percent has already been deducted, and the remaining few dollars so shrunken in value that they will barely stretch to pay the rent, or the mortgage on the house, the installment on the car, clothes for the children and food for the family. Someone must go to Washington to speak for these people living in constant fear of disaster in this daily hand-to-mouth struggle."

The automobile industry, for instance, has now come close to having only two major companies. Even if one calls it four major companies, it means that the high cost of sales and the financing of new models has driven from business.

Public Forum

To the Editor—

It is my privilege in representing the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society to publicly express our appreciation to those individuals, groups, news media and business firms through whose efforts the recent tetanus immunization program carried out by our Society enjoyed such a successful response. The Daily Reflector through Mrs. Patricia Moore, television stations, (here and in Washington), radio, and civic clubs all were most helpful in the promotional efforts of the program. The Pitt County Health Department with Director Dr. John Fretwell ably assisted by Mrs. Adelaide Dunn, utilizing their facilities and very nearly their entire staff contributed a very large and irreplaceable measure to all phases of the program. Volunteer groups and individuals who supplied the clerical assistance played an indispensable part—among those were The Service League, The Medical Auxiliary, PTA Units, Women of the Moose, Jaycettes, American Legion Auxiliary, The Pilot Club, and many individual community minded citizens.

Our Society wishes this program successful and worthwhile principally because of the large numbers of people now having basic immunization against tetanus who otherwise would have future need for protection and need to be given anti-toxin—a more risky procedure.

Again let us express our thanks to all who participated either directly or indirectly in this effort.

All-Conference

Greenville's Phantom baseball team placed five players on the All-Conference team which was selected this week by the coaches.

This year the Northeastern Conference was divided into two divisions and the northern which Greenville was member had 10 representatives on the honorary squad and the southern placed 12 players.

Selected from Coach Bud Phillips' Rose High team were three seniors, a junior and a sophomore.

The seniors, all infielders, were Billy James, Alan McArthur and Kroggie Andresen. The three boys held down second, first and shortstop respectively during the season. However, James went to rightfield during the last few games.

Named to the list of outfielders Kenneth Joyner, a junior, who also pitched some for the local club. Sophomore Rommie Brock was selected among the catchers.

Others named to the squad from the outfield were Norman Swindell of New Bern, Jimmy Epeley of Elizabeth City, Tommy Dail of Kinston, Hank Crowson of Jacksonville and Jimmy Hall of Tarboro.

Infielders in addition to those from Greenville were Fred Willett of Jacksonville, Charles Turner of New Bern, Donald Davis of New Bern, Sonny Pruette of Roanoke Rapids, Danny Mayo of Washington and Kelly Lanier of Jacksonville.

Babe Hardison of Kinston and Don Matthews of Elizabeth City were the other two catchers. Pitchers were Larry Poore of Washington, Ronnie Dail of Elizabeth City, Charley Stovall of New Bern and Cecil Turner of Kinston.

The northern division consisted of Greenville, Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids and Elizabeth City. The southern was made up of conference champion Kinston, New Bern, Jacksonville and Washington.

GCC Tourney Finals Played This Weekend

The finals in the Greenville Golf and Country Club match play tournament were scheduled to be played this weekend with Joe Exum and Erceel Webb competing in the 36-hole championship flight.

Exum and Webb were to play the first 18-holes today at 1 p.m. and the final round Sunday at the same time. In the semifinals Exum won over Simon Moyer for a forfeit and Webb defeated Ben Harrison for the final berth.

In other final rounds scheduled to be played today Joe Harvey was to meet Carl Pierce in the first flight, Burney Warren was to play Erskine Duff in the third flight, and Julian White and W. L. Jenkins were to play the final round of the fifth flight.

In the second and fourth flights the finals were played Friday afternoon. Louis Phelps defeated Paul Julian in the second and P. K. Andresen topped Barney Barrett in the fourth flight.

Friday Jinx Strikes Once Again

Cozy Group At Top Of American League

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two of the big reasons it's such a cozy group at the top of the American League standings are:

1. A crafty old lefty.
2. A late-blooming veteran of eight minor leagues who's finally found a major league home at age 30.

Point No. 1 concerns Detroit's Don Mossi, who got tough when it counted, beat New York's defending world champions 5-4 Friday night and became the first left-hander to score over the Yankees this season.

Point No. 2 concerns Chuck Essegian of Cleveland, whose 12th homer of the season brought the Indians a 2-1 decision over Washington and pushed Cleveland into a share of the top spot.

With Los Angeles edging Kansas City 5-4; Baltimore taking Boston 9-5, and Chicago beating Minnesota 5-4 in the others, only four games separated the leaders and the seventh place Tigers.

In the National League, first-place San Francisco belted Philadelphia 10-7; second-place Los Angeles clobbered the New York Mets, 17-8; Cincinnati edged Chicago's Cubs 2-1; Milwaukee blasted St. Louis 11-8, and Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 in 13 innings.

Essegian, whose career reads like a travelogue, may have found himself steady employment for the first time in a 10-year career as the sparkplug of the Indians.

Stops along the way included tours of duty in the Pacific Coast League, the Western International, the California League, the Texas League, the Southern Association, the Northwest League, the International League and the Eastern League. He also had appearances with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore and Kansas City before finally landing with the Indians.

His two hits Friday night pushed his batting average to .383, which put him in a tie with Kansas City's Manny Jimenez for the league lead.

The first was a double that set up Cleveland's first run and his homer made it 2-0, enough to offset Danny O'Connell's homer for the Senators and provide Pedro Ramos with his first victory of the year.

Mossi spread 11 hits about as well as possible and survived four Tiger errors in going the distance for the victory over the Yanks. He was in and out of trouble all evening, but spiked the Yankee runs in the clutch, leaving 10 runners stranded.

The Tigers managed only five hits, but they included a three-run homer by Dick McAuliffe and a solo job by Chico Fernandez.

Leon Wagner bounced a single into center in the eighth and drove in Albie Pearson for the Angels' winning run against Kansas City, giving Jack Spring his third victory without a loss. Jimenez drove in two Kansas City runs on a double and his ninth homer.

Baltimore's victory over Boston was featured by Jim Gentile's two-run, 500-foot home run drive deep into the center field stands. It was Gentile's 63th and tied him for the league lead with Detroit's Al Kaline. Gentile drove in two more with a ninth inning single that fed the victory for Chuck Edwards.

A pair of triples by Al Smith and another by Nellie Fox accounted for three runs and were the big blows in Chicago's victory over Minnesota. It was the third straight loss for the third place Twins.

Lions And GTC Both Gain Wins

NORTH STATE

The Lions rallied in the fourth and fifth innings yesterday to come from behind and hand the Jaycees their first loss of the season 4-2. Al Gurganus was the winning pitcher while Cleve Branch was credited with the loss.

The Jaycees opened the scoring in the top of the second as they tallied two runs on one hit, three walks, and two errors. Mike Harrington and Ben James led the frame off for the Jaycees as they both received bases on balls. Tommy Trevathan followed with a single to score Harrington. James was thrown out at second. Leslie Davis, the next batter, walked to bring Dew Forbes to the plate. Forbes rapped a grounder down the first base line and was safe at first on an error. Trevathan came in to score on the play.

In the bottom of the second, the Lions scored one run on one hit, and one walk. Charles Marston walked to lead off the inning and with one out Jim Adams doubled. Marston came in to score on the double to put the Lions back in the ball game.

The Lions tallied a run in the bottom of the fourth to tie the contest at 2-2. Jim Adams reached first safely on an error by the shortstop and then came in to score on a double by Al Gurganus. In the bottom of the fifth, John Peel led the frame off with a single to bring Dennis Harrington to the plate. Harrington walked to put base-runners on first and second. With one out, Frank Longino singled to drive in both Peel and Harrington to give the Lions a two-run advantage over the Jaycees.

The Jaycees loaded the bases in the top of the sixth inning but they were unable to score. Gurganus settled down to retire the Jaycees and leave three men on base.

In today's game, Coca-Cola meets Texaco at 3:00 while the Elks clash with Security Life at 5:00. All Saturday games are doubleheaders at Elm Street Park.

The Greenville Tobacco Company won their first Little League ball game of the season yesterday as they defeated the Moose 7-3. The winning pitcher was Billy Calloway while Randy Hodges—was credited with the loss.

Carl Abee walked in the top of the first frame to give the Moose their first base runner. With two outs, Henry Wainright doubled to drive Abee in to score. The Moose gained one run on one hit, a walk, and no errors.

The Greenville Tobacco Company tallied three runs on two hits, a walk, and one error. David Hahn reached first base safely on an error and was followed by Johnny Speight who also reached base safely. Billy Calloway, the next batter, doubled to score Hahn and tie the contest at 1-1. Kim Calloway followed with a single which scored Speight and Billy Calloway.

In the top of the second, the Moose returned to collect two runs on three hits, two walks, and no errors. William Harrington led the inning off for the Moose with a walk and was followed by Jimmy Hatton who also was given a base-on-balls. With one out, Bobby Boone singled to score Harrington. Hatton was thrown out at home as he attempted to score on the play. John Lautares followed with a single to score Boone and once again the contest was tied.

Greenville Tobacco Company was determined to stay in the lead as they came to bat in the bottom of the second. They tallied four runs on three hits, two walks, and no errors. Jimmie Bond started the frame off for his team as he drew a base-on-balls and was followed by Terry Harrington who also walked. With two outs, Johnny Speight connected to hit a homerun out of the ball park and tally three RB's. Bond, Harrington and Speight came across the plate to give Greenville Tobacco Company a 6-3 advantage. The Calloway boys were not to be outdone as once again they teamed together to provide another run. Billy Calloway followed Speight's homer with a double to bring Kim Calloway to the plate. Kim Calloway produced his second single of the day to score Billy Calloway and increase his team's lead to four runs.

Neither team was able to score in the remaining innings as the contest ended 7-3. The loss was the Moose's third straight defeat.

Remaining Spots Decided Today

CHARLOTTE (AP)—With most of the top drivers already qualified for Sunday's World 600 stock car race, starting positions for the remainder of the 50-car field were to be determined today.

Starting slots 25 through 30 were to be decided in today's concluding time trials. The final 20 unqualified cars were to compete in a 30-mile race to determine the order of the rest of the field.

Jim Reed of Peekskill, N.Y., was Friday's fastest qualifier with four-lap average speed of 135.533 m.p.h. in a 1962 Ford.

He nailed down the 17th starting position for Sunday's 600-mile grind.

Reed barely nosed out Nelson Stacy of Daytona Beach, Fla., Stacy, who won the Rebel 300 at Darlington, S. C., early this month, qualified at 135.236 m.p.h. in a 1962 Ford. Both had single laps around the 1 1/2-mile track of 135.814 m.p.h.

Other qualifiers Friday:

Bob Welborn, Greensboro, N.C., 1962 Pontiac, 135.059 m.p.h.; Buck Baker, Charlotte, 1962 Chrysler, 134.823 m.p.h.; Richard Petty, Randleman, 1962 Plymouth, 134.529 m.p.h.; Larry Thomas, Trinity, N.C., 1962 Dodge, 134.178 m.p.h.; Yarborough, Timmonsville, S.C., 1961 Ford, 134.103 m.p.h.; and Bunky Blackburn, Fayetteville, N.C., 1962 Plymouth, 133.193 m.p.h.

The pole position was won Wednesday by Glen (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., with a speed of 140.150 m.p.h. in a 1962 Pontiac, a record for 1 1/2-mile tracks.

The No. 2 starting position is held by last year's World 600 winner, David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C. He also will drive a Pontiac Sunday.

A top driver still without a starting spot is Jack Smith of Spartanburg, S.C. He could manage only 132.515 m.p.h. in his 1962 Chevrolet and Concord.

U.S. 29 is the main highway serving the track, but Patrol officials said other roads would be used to expedite traffic.

Indianapolis Sprint Program

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Most of the top drivers in the 46th 500-mile auto race next Wednesday will give their car owners an uncomfortable Sunday afternoon by bumping hub caps in a hazardous sprint car program at new Indianapolis Raceway Park.

The owners of cars qualified for the 400,000 Memorial Day Classic at old Indianapolis Motor Speedway would like to lock up their drivers from the time they qualify until the 500 start.

The top drivers, men like national champion A.J. Foyt Jr., Parnelli Jones and Roger Ward, demand to race every chance they get.

The sprints are for smaller cars than the Speedway vehicles and none of Wednesday's 33 qualified speedsters will be hazarded at Raceway Park.

Maris Is Being Paid For Homers

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Has Roger Maris been advised by the front office to stop trying to build up his batting average and go back to swinging for the fences?

All principals in this little drama were mum on the matter today but the report persists that Roy Hamey, the general manager of the New York Yankees had a private chat with baseball's home run king and told him, in effect: "Hey, Rog, quit going for those singles. We're paying you 70 grand to hit home runs. Remember?"

Of course, those weren't the exact words, but there was no doubting the interpretation, according to the informant.

The Yankees aren't exactly overjoyed with Rog's slugging figures, a mere seven home runs and seven doubles in 135 official times at bat. In contrast, rookie

Joe Pepitone, in only 54 times at bat, has hit five home runs, three doubles and two triples.

Maris' runs batted in totals are not overly impressive, either. He's driven in 22 runs, trailing Elie Howard and rookie shortstop Tommy Tresh in that category.

With Mickey Mantle, the other half of the homer tandem, sidelined with a pulled muscle, the spotlight on Maris is sharper than ever. Hamey is convinced that homers bring in the customers and he wants more of them from Maris.

This would not be the first time that Hamey whispered a few words of advice into Maris' ears. Just about a year ago, at a time when Roger was in the throes of a dreadful batting slump, Hamey and Dan Topping, the club president, summoned Maris to their private chambers and told him they weren't concerned with his batting average.

"We're paying you to hit home runs," the outfielder was told. "Forget about the batting average. You have the power and the swing. Just concentrate on the fences."

The rest is omer history.

Owens Captures Seniors Honors

RALEIGH (AP)—John W.A. Owens of Atlanta walked off with top honors in the Southern Seniors R. E. Duke Memorial golf tournament here.

Owens posted a 79 Friday to go with his 70 of Thursday for a 149 total.

Maurice Smith of Charlotte won in the 65 and older class with a 151 total, firing a 76 Friday for the best round of the day.

John Roycroft of Durham was the winner in the 55 to 64 age class with 153.

X. A. Sherman of Richmond, Va., scored an unofficial hole-in-one on the par three 125-yard fourth hole. The shot is not recognized officially because it was made from a temporary tee. The hole usually is a 332-yard par four.

Fault Leading Civitan Tourney

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mary Lena Faulk says she doesn't consider herself a long ball hitter or a "particularly good" wind player.

But today she leads a field that includes the best known names in professional women's golf into the third round of the $10,000 Civitan Open.

And the 36-year-old Georgian's impressive five-stroke lead came Friday as she slammed her driver through the brazen, 30-mile per hour wind.

Blonde Miss Faulk, voted last year's most improved player on the LPGA tour, put a second round 72 with Thursday's 70 for a par 142.

Mickey Wright, the tour's leading money winner, and Betsy Rawls, who shared the top spot with Miss Faulk after first-round play, were next with 147.

The tournament will continue on the 6,500-yard Glen Lakes course through Sunday.

The mourning dove lays only two eggs and they are pure white.

Lining Up For NAIA Playoffs

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP)—The lineup of games today of the Area 7, NAIA baseball playoffs, to select a team for the championships at St. Joseph, Mo., June 5-9, might be taken for some sort of Chinese puzzle.

First, Carson-Newman of Jefferson City, Tenn., and St. Bernard College of Cullman, Ala., were to resume a 12-inning, 3-3 game which was called because of darkness Friday.

The winner of that game meets Georgia Southern of Statesboro, Ga., and that winner plays Pfeiffer College of Misenheimer, N.C., for the championship.

If Pfeiffer loses, which would be its first setback in the double-elimination tournament, then another game would be necessary.

Villanova Has 10 Qualified

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)—Villanova qualified 10 men for today's effort to sweep the 86th outdoor ICAAF track and field championship and retire a cup waiting 30 years for a final resting place in some trophy case.

Led by sprint ace Frank Budd and Paul Drayton, the Wildcats of coach Jim (Jumbo) Elliott appear a cinch to easily win this competition among 46 colleges and universities. It would be their fifth outdoor title in the past six years.

In the 86-year history of the ICAAF, only four colleges have retired the cups, with Harvard getting two and Yale, Southern California (no longer a member) and Cornell taking the others. This fifth symbol of track and field supremacy has had the longest life.

Budd, holder of the world record for 100-yard dash (9.2 seconds) and unofficial co-holder of the 220-yard mark (20.9 seconds), led qualifiers in both events. He won the 100 in 9.5 against about a four-mile-an-hour wind Friday and took the 220 in the best time of 20.6.

Two meet records were broken and one tied in the trials. Gary Gubner, New York University's 255-pound sophomore sensation, tossed the shot put 62-feet, 1 1/4 inches to smash the meet mark of 57.94 set by Jim Fuchs in 1950.

Morgan State's mile relay team of John Bethea, Bob Bailey, Hubert Brown and Lawson Smart, hustled to a 3:11.6 triumph in its heat, cracking the 3:12 record set by Villanova two years ago.

Yale qualified nine for the finals, but coach Bob Glengengack conceded that his team lacked the depth to catch Villanova, which won this meet a year ago with almost the same team.

Evidence Slim In Texas Probe

By BOB ROOKER

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Chairman Charles Ballman said Friday night his Texas House Investigating Committee had not turned up sufficient evidence to get an indictment on rumored Southwest Conference basketball game fixing.

Ballman made the statement following the committee's third hearing in a probe of gambling and possible point shaving in conference basketball games.

However, he said, the committee had obtained evidence to turn over to grand juries for possible indictments against bookmaking and other gambling enterprises.

Two Southwest Conference referees told the committee that they had never rigged a basketball game in which they had officiated.

The referees, O'Dell Preston of Waco and Bill Johnson of Lorena, testified at the close of the committee's two-day public hearing. The first two sessions were held in secret.

Their statements were sandwiched between testimony by the supervisor of officials for the conference and a Department of Public Safety lie detector supervisor who told the committee they believed the two referees were involved in game rigging.

Ab Curtis, supervisor of officials, told the committee, "I hate to do this. But I believe they definitely have participated in shaving points. I sure do. I've had that feeling for some time—since early this year."

H. A. Albert, supervisor of the department's polygraph (lie detector) Division, administered tests to 22 conference officials.

He said he believed Johnson "was untruthful when he denied participating in rigging and point shaving."

Albert said that Preston took two lie detector tests, but results of both were inconclusive. The second test results showed responses which were "very erratic and distorted" he testified.

Eighteen witnesses had filed before the committee and a total of almost 700 Fifth Amendment pleas were made when questions about gambling were asked during hearings.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants is baseball's highest salaried player for the second straight year. He will get $90,000 for 1962.

Junior High Intramural Team Was Undefeated

In a three-team intramural baseball league among Junior High students a team coached by Earl Castellow came out in first place with a 9-0 record.

The other two teams were coached by Dallas Hollingsworth and James Johnson.

Clark and Fuller were the top pitchers and Smith, Dail, Jenkins and D. Taylor led the team at the plate.

Three Calls For Local Firemen

Greenville firemen responded to three fire calls yesterday, two of them box alarms.

First of the calls came at 2:20 p.m. from Box 223 at the intersection of 12th and Cotanche Sts. when a truck, owned by George Pleasants, caught fire.

The blaze, out when fire units arrived, caused no damage, officers said.

The second alarm came from Box 155 at the intersection of West Fifth St. and Roosevelt Ave. last night about 8:30.

Responding firefighters found a house at 506 McKinley Ave. on fire.

Officers said the blaze caused an estimated $200 damage to the bathroom and kitchen of the dwelling. The fire started in the bathroom when clothes left there began to burn.

The third call for the day came at 11:25 p.m.

Firemen said a car owned by Ed Ballance caught fire near the East Carolina College power plant.

Light damage resulted, it was reported.

Heavy Damage In 2 Collisions

Police said an estimated $1,750 property damage resulted yesterday from two collisions on Greenville streets.

Heaviest damage came in a 3:55 p.m. three-vehicle mishap at the intersection of First St. and Woodlawn Ave.

Officers said the collision involved cars driven by James B. Fields, 27-year-old Negro of Amityville, N.Y.; Mrs. Doris Baker Evans of Route 3, Greenville; and Mrs. Margaret Biggs Dobson, 800 Willow St., Greenville.

Investigators said the Fields vehicle, headed east on First St., collided with the Evans car which was traveling north on Woodlawn Ave. The Fields car spun around and struck the Dobson car, headed west on First St.

Damage to the Fields car was set at $1,000 while an estimated $500 damage was done to the Evans car. Damage to the Dobson car was placed at $50.

Mrs. Fields was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

In the second mishap of the day, an estimated $200 damage was done to a car driven by A. P. Curtis, 26, of 803 Ward St., following a 9:42 a.m. wreck at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Ficklen St.

Officers identified the driver of the second car involved as Mrs. Harriet R. Demain of 611 Snow Hill St., Ayden. No damage resulted to her vehicle.

Mrs. Demain was charged with following too close.

Susan Demain, 4, a passenger in the car, received bruises in the mishap.

Sunday School Picnic Planned

St. Paul's Episcopal Church will hold its annual Sunday School picnic at Ravenz Swimming Pool Sunday. Each family will bring a picnic lunch to eat at 1 p.m. The Parish will furnish the drinks and dessert. Following the lunch the pool will be opened for swimming.

At 6 p.m. the Bishop of East Carolina, the Right Rev. Thomas H. Wright, D.D., will administer the apostolic rite of confirmation to a class to be presented by the rector.

This is a special visitation by the Bishop. To be confirmed are Rick Chance, Bill Drake, Garth Bloxam, Richard Pierce, Travis Flanagan, Iverson Mackenzie, Michael Thompson, Ben Harrison Jr., and Graham Clark III.

Merchants Are Happy With Big Promotion

Merchants Association officials said today that they were pleased with the outcome of H-Neighbor Days held here Thursday and Friday.

Nick Dorroll, chairman of the event, said local merchants were "trying to let the people know we have good will." He felt that the street displays, the free gifts to out of town people and free drinks on the streets, was an "outstanding display . . . which gave an atmosphere of a carnival."

The children especially enjoyed the afternoons, Dorroll commented, with Bongo the clown giving away free balloons. Popcorn, peanuts, cotton candy and candy apples were available.

"It was a welcomed change," he emphasized.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. Dock Wilson

Mrs. Florence Hight Wilson, 75, of near Vanceboro, died in a Raleigh hospital Friday night after several years of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Vanceboro Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. J. E. Eatman. Burial will be in the Lewis Family Cemetery near Vanceboro. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Wilson spent most of her life in the Vanceboro Community and was married in 1902 to Roscoe P. Beavers. After his death she was married to Dock Wilson, who died in 1954. She was a member of the Vanceboro Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Erby C. Burton of Vanceboro, Mrs. J. A. Creed of Suffolk, Va., Mrs. J. C. Barr Sr. of Chocowinity, and Miss Mary Ruth Beavers of the home; two sons, Roscoe P. Beavers of New Orleans, La., and Robert N. Beavers of Hot Springs, Ark.; 18 grandchildren; 13 great grandchildren; and a brother, Robert L. Hight of Florence, S.C.

'Decent Burial' For An Old Car

WICK, Scotland AP—James Cormack watched with a contented smile as his custom-built Cadillac plunged over a precipice and sank 50 fathoms into the North Sea.

"I guess I'm just a romantic," he said Friday. "It was a good old friend and now it's had a decent burial."

The 77-year-old Cormack said he had the car made in Detroit 22 years ago. "I drove every-where in that old car, far more than 20,000 miles."

Last winter vandals broke into his garage and set it on fire.

"I loved it too much to sell for junk, or to let it fall into the hands of someone who might mistreat it. So, I decided to bury it," he added.

The Stories Told Of Blackbeard

BLACKBEARD DEPICTED IN DRAWING . . . from "A History of Colonial Bath" by Dr. Herbert R. Paschal, Jr.

By JOHN DUNCAN

It was November 22, 1718, and a stiff cold wind was blowing in off the Pamlico. The cry of "Sails, ships on the water," brought the people of Bathtown to their feet.

Grog shops and houses emptied, men and women and children throwing on something against the chill, ran outdoors. Some ran toward townpoint while others ran down to the town dock.

White caps were racing along the waters of Old Town Creek and two ships were standing off Archbell Point.

The coming of one vessel was usually enough to cause excitement in the town, but two coming when no ship was due, caused fear to sweep through the crowd.

One was a sloop flying the Royal Ensign, the other larger and more cumbersome displayed no colors.

But Gov. Charles Eden and Tobias Knight, looking out of their windows as the ships passed, knew about the larger ship. They had helped outfit it and send it to sea. They also knew about the ship flying the Royal Ensign, and they had seen a sight that caused shivers to run up and down their spines.

A sight that would cause the town people to gasp in horror. For impaled on the bowsprit of the sloop was a large, hairy human head — the head of the man who had lived across the creek at Plum Point.

A man who had swaggered down these very streets. A big sturdy man whose name was enough to make even the strong grow weak. It was the head of Edward Teach — Blackbeard the pirate.

Drummond Blackbeard's real name was Drummond, and he came from Bristol, England. At one time he was an honest seaman. He had made many voyages and had proven himself to be skillful and brave. Then he had the misfortune to go to the West Indies. In that pirate infested area, induced no doubt by the lure of gold and easy carefree climate, a hidden bad streak in Drummond took root and sprouted. He changed his name to Edward Teach. And then signed on as corsair under a captain named Hornygold. Under the guidance of his captain, Teach picked up the business fast. In fact, the captain recognized a potential threat to his own leadership in his pupil and transferred Teach to a prize vessel they had captured.

The Queen Anne's Revenge Teach called his boat the Queen Anne's Revenge. She was 100' long, 20' in the beam and its square sails made it capable of good speed. Forty guns were mounted on its two decks. A ship called the "Great Allen" was his first prize. This was the beginning of that long, and bloody trail the pirate Blackbeard would leave behind, in and around the West Indies and up and down the Atlantic Coast. His very name would cause seamen to tremble and coast dwellers to live in dread.

Devil's Kinsman Ugly to begin with, the pirate allowed his huge beard to grow down to his chest and spread over his face until only his beak-like nose and rum-shot eyes were visible. He looked more like a beast than a man — and he was. He killed and looted for the sheer pleasure it gave him. To make his awesome appearance more frightening, he lit long, slow burning matches in his hair under the broad brimmed hat. Armed with a sword and six pistols in a bandolier and fortified with rum, he was almost certain death to anyone he happened upon after boarding a vessel.

They say at one time during a calm at sea, he sought to live things up for his crew by suggesting that they make a hell of their own and see who could stand it the longest.

So they took pots and filled them with sulphur and pitch and placed them in a hold on the ballast stones. Teach and several of his crew went down and the hatches were closed. Then the pots were lit. Soon this earthy mixture of fire and brimstone caused all of the others except Teach to claw their way to fresh air, coughing and spitting. But the devil's kinsman seemed at ease in his surroundings. After quite a while, the crew began to think Teach had made the real trip. However, the hatch top lifted and Edward Teach stood before them with swollen eyes, but none the worse for his experience. A few shots of rum and he was himself again.

Charleston When the pirate ran out of medicaments and bandages for his men, he made a bold decision — he would get them at Charleston. Some of his crew had seized a hostage or two and they used them as levers to pry what they needed out of the citizens of this South Carolina town. Gov. Johnson of the colony wasn't the pirate lover that Eden was and Teach knew it. It was only last minute deliberation on the part of Johnson — weighing the fate of the hostages with the pirate's demand that 400 pounds and a chest of medicaments and bandages were sent to Blackbeard's ship.

Blackbeard released the hostages, but he plucked them clean taking 6,000 pounds from a Mr. Wrang. He took half their clothes away and they were put ashore half naked.

Act of Grace In 1670 there had been passed a General Pardon for offenders against the Crown. Learning that this act had been renewed, Teach and his crew set off for Bathtown to take advantage of it.

This motley assembly met in Gov. Eden's house and raising their hands, promised to depart from their evil way. Teach started out on this new path by buying one of the finest country seats.

To Sea Again Not only this, but he took unto himself his fourteenth bride — a young girl of sixteen.

His house at Plum Point was often the gathering place for his old shipmates. They had a time, swigging rum and telling of the old wild days. Events that must have caused his young bride's eyes to pop out with wonder.

Teach often amused his company by shooting out the light of the candles in the room. Sometimes the glancing bullets found other marks. And this threw the party into a gleeful uproar.

During his tenure as a country squire, Teach got real friendly with Eden and Tobias Knight.

But a stronger urge was calling out to the pirate. The smooth waters of Old Town Creek and the life on its banks, were too placid.

About a year after he had taken the oath, he was ready to call it quits.

With the help of Eden and Knight, he fitted out a ship and put to sea. His first prize was a French ship loaded with booty. He divided the spoils with his cronies and then set out for the outer banks to wait for other prey.

It was here he learned by letter from Tobias Knight that Gov. Spotswood of Virginia had dispatched two sloops under Capt. Ellis Brand and Lt. Maynard to capture him.

Finish for a Pirate But Teach felt safe and secure in his anchorage at Oracoke Inlet. Boozed up as he almost always was, he took Eden's warning sent by Tobias Knight with a grain of salt. Even when he saw the two sloops under Maynard and Brand come in sight that evening, the pirate wouldn't let himself be disturbed. He glugged himself on liquor and food.

The next dawn the sloops flying the Royal flags moved toward Teach's ship. The pirate fought his ship savagely and almost won out. But the devil must have needed Teach in closer proximity for Maynard killed the bearded one and cut off his head. Letters were said to have been found in the pirate's cabin that showed Gov. Eden and Tobias Knight "were hand in glove with him." Among them was the letter of warning sent by Knight.

These findings made the officers mad and they determined to teach the colony a lesson. So they impaled the head of Blackbeard on the bowsprit of the sloop "Pearl" and sailed toward Bathtown with the late pirate's ship following.

In Knight's shed, they found loot from one of Blackbeard's latest hauls.

So ended the bloody stay on earth of Blackbeard alias Edward Teach, who had started his seafaring as a seaman, able and brave, and who ended up with his head on the bowsprit of the H.M.S. Pearl.

Susie White Blackbeard had a sister by the name of Susie White. She lived near Boyd's Ferry on the Tar River. It was here the pirate came between voyages. On the Bryan Grimes farm is a field called the Susie White field. In this field, the home of the pirate's sister, is said to have stood. Nearby she was buried.

Close by in the lowlands once stood a giant cypress tree known as "Table Top". Teach had spikes driven into its sides so he could climb to the top. From here he could see down river below present Washington.

Rumors of his buried treasure persisted down Grimesland way for many years. Susie White's grave was dug into by those treasure seekers. Much spade work was done along the banks of the Tar. But if those who had gone to all of this searching and digging had only recalled the words of Blackbeard to a member of his crew the night before he died, they would have saved themselves much work.

For it is said that he told an inquiring sailor that only he and the devil knew, and it would go to the one who lived the longest.

So it seems reasonable to assume that the pirate's treasure has been the devil's property since the early hours of Nov. 22, 1718.

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

This is the time of the year for graduation and for graduation gifts.

What could make a better present for a young man or woman just leaving college than a book, personally selected to suit his or her interests and the donor's pocketbook. Besides, every college graduate should be proud to own at least one book.

He wouldn't have to read it. Incidentally, there is a rental outfit in Los Angeles these days which installs complete libraries in houses where they are needed for special occasions, like the visit of a famous author to Hollywood.

Speaking of gifts, the Duchess of Westminister in her autobiography, "Grace and Favour," says that when she married the richest duke in the English peerage, among all the people who gave her presents, "the friend who I think showed most imagination was the one who commissioned a bookplate from Rex Winslow."

This is another idea for a graduation gift.

Junk Mail In Washington, Congress has been debating the Conte Amendment, which would have rescinded the measure passed last fall to allow members to send out junk mail; that is, letters simply addressed "Occupant. Naturally, the Amendment was defeated in spite of the fact that all the best magazines in the country are facing extinction if postage rates rise again.

Meanwhile, the workroom in the House Office Building, where Congressmen take personal letters to their constituents on automatic typewriters and sign them with mechanical pens, continues to grind along too — at the expense of those who are being duped.

Ghosts Another item of news from Washington is that Stephen Shadegg, a "helper" of Senator Goldwater on his writing projects, is running for the other Senate seat in Arizona. A win for Shadegg could be a loss for those who read Goldwater's letters to editors, press releases, speeches in Congress and elsewhere, syndicated columns, and magazine articles.

Speaking of ghost writers (not that Shadegg is one, of course), there is the story of the ghost for a prominent but difficult science writer saying, "No one who has ever written one of his books ever wants to do another."

In some backward parts of the world, there are apparently ghosts who even write signs and placards which are carried in various types of spontaneous demonstrations. Somewhere the other day an excited native carrying a banner inscribed "Down

KOREAN GENEROSITY SEOUL, Korea (AP)—In a country where the average annual income is less than $100 per person, Korean Methodists last year gave their church an amount equal to $1 for every man, woman and child in the 108,000 membership.

Building Church 1400 Years Late SIRACUSA, Sicily (AP)—After 14 centuries at the bottom of the sea, a church once shipped in pieces from ancient Greece has been found and will be built in modern Sicily.

The undersea research ship Seadiver, brought here by an American marine engineer, Edwin Link, located the marble pieces of the church in the cargo of a Greek ship which sank off Cape Passero, outside Siracusa Harbor, in the Sixth Century A.D.

Almost the entire cargo was salvaged. Margus Parnonias Oargalis, president of the Sicilian Institute for Underwater Research, said the discovery lent weight to a theory that ancient churches and temples in Sicily had been assembled from prepared marble shipped from Greece.

Polio Couldn't Stop This Pitt Student

By ROSALIE TROTMAN

Reflector Staff Writer

It has been a struggle, but Annette Chauncey will graduate with her class May 30, despite the lingering effects of polio.

On Sept. 20, 1956, at the age of 12, Annette was stricken with polio. "I went to school 11 days in the seventh grade before I had to stop. After my family found out that I had polio, I was taken to Central Carolina Convalescent Hospital in Greensboro," she recalls.

Annette was in the hospital from September, 1956 until March, 1957. She returned to school in August, 1957.

"While in the hospital, we had a teacher who taught each individual. We had English and arithmetic workbooks that we filled out each day after our hour of lessons was finished. The teacher called out spelling words just as we had them in school," Annette states. "We also received report cards every six weeks. When I returned home in March, 1957, I had qualified as passing the seventh grade. I then was able to start to school with my same class in the eighth grade."

"After I had stayed in bed for six months, I was then able to get up in a wheel chair," she says. When asked about recreation, Annette replies, "We had a gameroom and occasionally eight or ten girls would get in wheelchairs, and accompanied by a nurse, go to a soda shop that was across the street from the hospital. This was always a lot of fun, because we had a ball.

"While I was in the hospital and saw other people on crutches, I realized that I might be in the same condition someday. When I found out that I would be handicapped, I accepted the fact because I realized that I was in much better condition than some who were there," Annette remembers.

"Some of the people were in iron lungs and wheelchairs.

"When I returned to school in the eighth grade, I felt out of place. . . but everybody was so nice and helpful I soon felt right at home, having fun and enjoying school as before."

Annette was the second highest in her class when she graduated from the eighth grade at Pactolus School.

"In my opinion, my case of polio was mild compared with a lot of other people—it could have been a lot worse. I don't let my handicap keep me from doing things that I want to do — dating, shopping and going on the senior class trip to Washington, D. C.," she said.

"Since I have been going to Stokes, Pactolus High School, everyone has always been willing to help in any possible way. Peggy Eastwood carries my books and goes to the lunchroom for me. Billy Hudson and Bobby Harris carry me up and downstairs in a chair. Sometimes we go so fast, it actually makes some of the elementary teachers cringe. Of course, there are many others who help a great deal, but these people really stick by me all of the time. Our principal, Jack Edwards, has been helpful in every way. He always makes sure I am okay," she comments.

Some of Annette's high school activities includes: FHA treasurer; senior superlative; junior commerce award; student council; and school librarian.

Mrs. Elsie Lewis, senior advisor at Stokes-Pactolus, comments, "Annette has done her part in class activities—selling annual ads novelties. She is a remarkable person and her classmates are considerate of her and yet accept her as an equal.

"She does average to above average school work and has maintained a good grade average during her four years in high school."

After graduation Annette plans to enter King's Business College in Raleigh.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chauncey of Rt. 5, Greenville.

STRONG ARMS lent by strong friends, classmates Bobby Harris (left) and Billy Hudson, provide transportation for Annette to up and downstairs classes.

Monday Deadline For Entries In Pitt Dairy Princess Contest

Monday is the deadline for organizations to submit names of entries for the Pitt County dairy princess contest, co-chairmen Mrs. Sue B. May and Charles Alfred Forbes said this week.

June Dairy Month, which features the dairy princess contest as well as other related activities, is the largest single promotion in the food industry, with this year marking the 26th anniversary of the nationwide Pitt County dairy princess district contest will be held in Thursday night, June 7. The contest will be held this year on Greenville on Saturday, June 16.

To enter the dairy princess contest, a girl must be at least 17 years of age by June 1 and must be under 25 as of June 1. She also must be at least a senior in high school for the 1962-63 year and must not be nor have been married.

Those under 21 years of age need a signed statement of consent from their parents or guardians to enter the competition; also a health certificate stating good health and signed by a physician. Contestants must be residents of North Carolina for a minimum of one year and at least, and must be regular consumers of milk and dairy products.

The county dairy princess winner will represent Pitt in the area contest and will be the recipient of a sports wear gift.

In addition to the dairy princess contest, activities during June Dairy Month in Pitt County will include a dairy breakfast in Greenville for eastern Carolina agricultural and business leaders. The breakfast will be followed

Sokolski...

(Continued from page four) ness too large a number of companies. It is often suggested that General Motors provides the managerial personnel for its competitors; at any rate, that has happened to the Ford Company since its founder died.

In the manufacture of electrical supplies and electronics, the process is similar to what it was in the early days of the automobile. Large numbers of companies and individuals are entering this field and are doing remarkably well through initiative and inventiveness. But the cost of administration, including taxes, and the cost of finding a market for the products is becoming so costly that the joining of forces becomes inevitable.

Then come the lawyers who warn against the perils of the anti-trust and anti-cartel laws. To reduce costs, it is often necessary to form what in effect are holding companies, producing and marketing diverse and unrelated products to keep plants working all the time and to cut down the cost of administrative expenses per unit.

In European countries and Japan, this problem has been solved by encouraging the cartel, which is a government authorized trust. Often governments participate in such trusts which are regarded as national institutions. They are often encouraged by the Treasury of their country to dump goods in countries whose exchange is needed. Tax relief is offered under such circumstances. Often such companies are protected against imports.

There is room in the United States Senate for Miss Vivien Kellems whose specialized knowledge would be of great value.

Marlow...

(Continued from page four) extremely powerful Democrat. As chairman of his committee he's in a key position to damage the administration in other programs. Actually, in other programs he's been a big help.

On the Anderson-King bill, however, he's keeping it bottled up in his committee and keeping it from getting up on the House floor for a vote.

But you never hear any criticism of him from Kennedy or his administration. Kennedy never even referred to the Kerr-Mills stumbling block in his nationwide talks from Madison Square Garden last Sunday.

That speech, off the cuff, was not one of Kennedy's best. Although it had been planned at least two months ahead of time, the President didn't seem to have prepared himself thoroughly.

He made a glaring mistake twice when he told millions of listeners that the Social Security tax to pay for his medical care plan would cost them $12 a month. That would be $144 a year. Actually, it would cost $12 a year.

While it's true Kennedy's handling of the steel price increase made some businessmen mad at him, his handling of the medical care program is a typical example of how he tries to do the opposite day in and out.

Winterville F.W.B. Announcements

The Winterville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday School, with Mr. Clyde Hines as superintendent, meets at 10 a.m. At the 11 a.m. worship service the church choir will sing "In Thy Holy Temple." The Rev. Carl Moore, of East Rockingham, will deliver the worship message at the morning service. There will be no evening worship service due to the baccalaureate sermon at the school at 8 p.m.

On Tuesday at 8 p.m. the Sunday School Council will meet at the church.

The second chapter of Galatians will be the subject for study at the prayer service on Wednesday evening at 8:00. Choir practice will follow the prayer service.

First Presbyterian Announcements

"The High Cost of Privilege" is the title of the sermon to be delivered Sunday by the Reverend Richard R. Gammon at the First Presbyterian Church.

There will not be a meeting of the Youth Fellowship this Sunday evening.

Mrs. Dink James will attend the Seventeenth Annual North Carolina Synodical Training School, June 18-22, at Davidson College. She will attend as a delegate of the Women of the Church.

Beginning June 11 and continuing through June 15, Vacation Church School will be conducted in our Church from 9:00 to 12:00 each day. There will be classes for children in the Kindergarten, Primary and Junior Departments. The School will be directed by Mrs. Morris McGahey, director of Christian Education for this Church.

An excellent nursery is kept open during the morning worship hour at this church, and parents of small children are invited to make use of this service.

Prayer meeting and Bible Study will be held on Wednesday evening at 8:00. The topic of study will be "Saul and David" (I Samuel 16:31).

Mount Pleasant Announcements

Sunday School begins at 10 a.m., followed by the morning worship service at 11:00. During the morning worship the choir will sing "I Have Heard of a Land." The sermon for the morning is entitled "Worship: What's It All About?"

The class in "The Meaning of Church Membership" will have its fourth and final meeting at 8:30 p.m. There will be no C.Y.F. meeting or evening services.

Special Reason For Slacks-Wear

BLACKDUCK, Minn. (AP)—Heavy rains that swelled lakes and rivers in this northern Minnesota area prompted this note from Mrs. Howard Bowers to the high school principal:

"Please excuse Sandy in slacks today and tomorrow, as she has to go by boat three miles to catch the school bus."

BIG FIRE LOSS

MANILA (AP)—A big fire raced through the town of Angeles in central Luzon island today. Three persons were reported killed, 6 missing and 15 injured. Police estimated damage at $4 million.

Cancer Memorial Fund's Role In Pitt Explained

In response to numerous requests from families, other groups and individuals, the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society has inaugurated a memorial fund to which families and friends of cancer victims may contribute, according to Mrs. C. L. Lupton of the local unit.

"The memorial fund has been established to provide a practical and fitting means by which families or friends can commemorate a loved one who has died of cancer or other cause," Mrs. Lupton said.

"Contributions made in memory of a family member or a friend are acknowledged by the American Cancer Society, and a Memorial Card is sent to the family, other group or individual stating that a Memorial has been received and giving the name of the donor. These contributions may be in any amount and are tax deductible," she added.

Mrs. Lupton said "Memorial funds are used in support of the Society's unceasing fight against cancer through coordinated programs of research, education and service.

Although the major source of funds for these programs comes from the Society's annual April Crusade, Memorial Gifts received throughout the year are becoming increasingly important to the Society as more families and individuals become aware that they can contribute in the name of a loved one toward ultimate victory over the dread disease of cancer," she said.

"Memorial funds should be sent to Mrs. C. L. Lupton, 1800 E. Fifth Street, Greenville, N. C.

Hooker Memorial Announcements

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
An angry Brit Fabian because he had neglected her to monopolize another girl's dances, Julie Pendleton left the pre-Kentucky Derby dance close to tears. Driving alone on a moonlit road, she passed the "spite fence" separating the private race course breeding farm from Britt's father's home acres.

Julie was grasped from her thoughts of Britt by a sight that was like a dream. There, racing round the track was Roundbrook, the old Pendleton Derby winner long retired to pasture. The moonlight faded, horse and rider disappeared over a knoll, and Julie, who had got out of her car, turned back to it, unable to believe her own eyes.

Going to the country club, wanting to talk to Britt to reassure herself, she heard that he had come. Shaken still more by this, Julie drove away again impulsively. Puzzled by her behavior, Casey Jeffries, a neighboring guest, followed her to the Pendleton stables, where they found Roundbrook's stall empty. Searching, they came upon the horse, winded and lathered as after a hard run.

Later, alone again, Julie heard the Thoroughbred stirring the stables. The obvious cause was Big Blue, a mean stallion. Some one had tossed an old rolled-up coat into his stall, provoking his nervousness. Sidling in beside the dangerous horse to remove the coat, Julie heard the unmistakable click of the latch behind her. She had been locked in the stall! Escaping luckily without injury, she phoned her father of the strange events. He cancelled business engagements to fly home immediately.

CHAPTER 6

The aroma of freshly baked biscuits and newly brewed coffee sharpened Julie Pendleton's appetite and she ran down the steps to the small breakfast room off the kitchen.

Britt Fabian sat at the table, calmly buttering what was probably his tenth biscuit. The plate before him had been eaten clean of scrambled eggs and he had a large cup of coffee half consumed.

She always thought he was one of the handsomest men she'd ever seen in all her life, right on down from his sleek blond head, along his six-foot-two of frame and including the deep cleft in his chin below the wide mouth that could fashion itself into the most infectious grin. Or, Julie knew, purse itself, sour-apple style, when things didn't go right for Britt Fabian.

Julie said, "Good morning," with just the proper amount of ice crusting it. She had no intention of overlooking his behavior of the night before.

She proceeded straight on into the kitchen and found the beaten eggs ready. She slipped them into a pan, took out the golden-topped biscuits, transferred them to a plate, then scrambled the eggs after they were partially set.

While she worked, she half expected to find Britt's arms about her. She was disappointed, though careful it didn't show when she carried out her breakfast and found him comfortably reading the newspaper. His one concession to politeness consisted in having poured her a cup of Della's black, strong breakfast coffee.

He reached over and helped himself to one of her biscuits. "That Della—trying to fool me into thinking there were no more." He buttered the biscuit generously.

"I don't think I care for your company this morning, Mr. Fabian," Julie said mildly. "I don't make a practice of inviting a man to breakfast the morning after he practically deserted me

"I deserted you? Why, my charming and very lovely hostess, you were the one who ran out on me."
"I had a mighty good reason to."
He looked as dismayed as Britt Fabian could possibly look. "I'm a confoundedly thoughtless man. I admit it. I object to apologize."
"Well, at least that's a little better."
"I'm forgiven then?"
"You are not," she said promptly.

"I don't blame you for staying angry at me. I don't know why I do those things. I want very much to be forgiven."
"Did you go straight home?"
She weakened and slid some of her eggs onto his plate. He appropriated three biscuits at one time.

"No, ma'am," he replied. His voice held a tantalizing note of amusement. "I parked with Millie Caswell and I told her I was in love."
"Britt Fabian, you can just close your mouth until after I've eaten. I don't like my appetite spoiled."
He went right on, talking over her words: "with the most beautiful specimen of womanhood this old state of Kentucky ever produced. Namely, Julie Pendleton."

"And what did Millie say to that?"
"She was some put out, I can tell you."
Julie giggled. "I can imagine."

"Makes my day bright to hear you laugh and to know I've been forgiven," Britt said.
"You have not. Not by a long shot. You were thoughtless and selfish."
"May I say a very important word or two?"
"Oh, I don't suppose I can stop you."

Reason I'm asking your forgiveness is a very simple one. It's awful hard to ask a girl to marry you when she's all-fired sore as you are."

Julie carefully placed the uneaten part of her biscuit back on her plate. She knew what he'd said, every wonderful word of it. She could see the sincerity in his eyes and the beginnings of an alien nervousness.

She'd been waiting for him to put this into words for what seemed two lifetimes. He'd told her he loved her—very often and with evident sincerity—but he'd never before followed it up with a marriage proposal. Although she had expected it for a long time, it was nonetheless something of a shock.

"Are you asking me to marry you?" she said quietly.
"I am," he replied earnestly. He leaned back, his table and spoke in a voice that rang with sincerity. "Julie, I should have married you a long time ago. I guess we grew up knowing we were in love and neither hedges nor high water was going to come between us. I suppose I knew I was going to marry you when I was twelve or fourteen. But I was slow growing up."

"We were too close," she said softly. "We took each other for granted."
"Well—yes, but a man who takes a girl like you for granted is a fool because he's risking losing too much. Funny thing—last night when you were sore at me—that's when I knew I was going to ask you to marry me this morning. You're very lovely when you're angry."

"I'll settle for any way I look when I'm not angry," she said. He leaned back, once more supremely sure of himself.
"Shall I tell you why I made up my mind to marry you right away?"
"Well, being the party of the second part, I am interested."
"I shall feel very sorry for you. Marrying you may soften the blow of losing the Derby. You see what a kind man I am?"

"What makes you think, in your insufferable egotism, that we're not going to win?"
"Oh," he said, "Templar hasn't got a chance against Dad's Lysander."
"You think so?"
"I know it. So do you. So do the experts. Wait'll you see the odds."

"I've seen a horse with a thousand-to-one odds against him romp in first and the one favored a thousand times to win limped in last. This is a horse race, Britt. Anything can happen."
"Well," he said with a smile, "it's two days before the race and I thought it might be wise to ask you now so you wouldn't think I was marrying you out of pity."
"I wish I had your ego," she
