Stock Market Has Needed Rest After Dizzy Whirl

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a much-needed rest today after a dizzy whirl in which it rallied from its steepest dive since 1929.

will be sufficient to hurdle the holiday breather. Some brokers were optimistic but conceded it would be an uphill struggle to sustain an advance in a market that has been declining since mid-March.

The advance, with blue-chip stocks in the vanguard, jerked Wall Street from a shroud of gloom. Brokers on the floor and speculators in the gallery at New York Stock Exchange cheered as the closing bell rang at 3:30 p. m.

Big gains were posted on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco in one of the biggest trading days in its history. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, sightseeing in San Antonio, Tex., after a speech, said the rally may be a good sign but declined to venture an opinion on what the market might do next.

of about $13.5 billion being borrowed against a total market value of about $75 billion. Now about $5 billion is being borrowed against about $350 billion.

No government action was taken to stem the decline when it was in progress. President Kennedy expressed concern but said he felt the economy was sound. He had said earlier he felt the market would move along with the economy.

The market's gyrations provoked a rash of comment from congressmen in Washington. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said there had been nothing in Kennedy's actions in rolling back the steel price increase or new spending proposals to give the investment world any confidence.

Diplomas Given Eppes High Grads Last Evening

C. M. Eppes High School Tuesday night presented graduation diplomas to its 58-member Senior Class of 1962. Dr. E. B. Aycock, chairman of the Greenville Board of Education, presented the certificates of graduation as the Greenville Negro school closed out its 1961-62 school term.

large dinner assemblies. He said the cafeteria and a new Eppes activity bus are expected to be ready for use when school opens in September. Rose cited the 1961-62 school term at Eppes as a "year of great progress in education. We are marching forward to a new day in education in North Carolina," he said.

scholastic achievement. In addition to Ebron, Clark and class officers James Earl Staton, president; Johnny Lee Tyson, vice president; Betty Jane Wilkes, secretary; and John Thomas Lloyd, treasurer, diplomas went to these seniors: Bettie Jean Anderson, Clarice Anderson, Marvin Calvin Anderson, Peggie Ann Atkinson, Marie Lucille Batts, Cora Estella Best, William Arthur Blackwell, Robert Winston Bradley, Rosa Lee Brewington, Melvin Louis Bryant.

A total of 1,287 vehicles were safety-inspected yesterday by the four free vehicle safety check lanes operated here. Luther Moore, chairman of the Pitt County Safety Council-sponsored program, indicated pleasure at the number of cars checked, and said he was "very happy" with the number of drivers rejected their first time through the check station who returned to receive a sticker.

Missing Military Advisers Rescued

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Two U.S. military advisers missing since the fall Sunday of a royal government outpost near Houei Sai were recovered by helicopters attacking force, which they could today and returned looking fit after a three-day ordeal in the jungle. They had escaped with the garrison.

Confusion ensued and everybody ran into the surrounding jungle, they said. They said it took the attacking force, which they could today and returned looking fit after a three-day ordeal in the jungle. They had escaped with the garrison.

Pardoned After Serving 2 Years

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Sanford has granted a pardon to a Raleigh man who served two years and five months of a life sentence for rape. Ezra D. Norris, 37, was released from Central Prison Tuesday. State Paroles Board Chairman Johnson Matthews said there was "very, very grave doubt of guilt."

Two Houses In Grifton Burned

GRIFTON — Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed two houses here about 3 a.m. Tuesday. Fire Chief Wilbur Murphy reported. A home usually occupied by Allie Cannon on Waters Street first caught fire and burned completely, firemen said, but Mrs. Cannon was not in the house at the time. The second dwelling, located next door to the Cannon house, burned as a result of the first fire. Owned by Theodore Grimes, it was occupied by Viney Harris. Both the Harris and Cannon women are Negroes.

1,287 Vehicles Safety-Checked of the 1,287 cars and trucks checked, 134 were found defective in one or more respects. Sixty of these returned to be rechecked and were passed. Included in the rejects were 74 faulty lights, 57 improper turn signals, 17 improper horns, 12 for faulty brakes, and six faulty windshield wipers. Included in those rechecked and passed were the 12 cars which had faulty brakes and five of the vehicles which had faulty windshield wipers. The free vehicle inspection lanes will be in operation tomorrow in Ayden, Bethel and Farmville.

European Stock Exchanges Rally

LONDON (AP)—Stock exchanges of Britain and Europe bounced back strongly today in the wake of Wall Street's recovery. Buying orders poured into the London Exchange to the point where most of the previous day's losses were retrieved within the space of two hours. The Financial Times Index of 30 industrial common shares, which had slumped 18 points Tuesday, rebounded 16 points by lunch time.

Utilities Commission Decides Unable Give City Extra Money

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor
Utilities Commission Chairman Charles Horne was to tell Mayor Charles M. King today that the commission will be unable to increase its turn-over to the city for 1962-63 beyond that already planned. Commission members agreed that this would be their answer last night after they looked at estimated income, operating expenses and proposed capital improvements last night.

6-County Drive

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Highway Patrol plans to shift additional manpower into six selected counties for an all-out highway safety drive which begins July 15. The operation, called "Project Impact," is aimed at reducing traffic accidents and deaths in the six counties—Buncombe, Cumberland, Forsyth, Guilford, Naywood and Robeson. The drive will continue about six months. Plans for the drive were outlined at a meeting here Tuesday of more than 100 state and local officials. Gov. Sanford told the group the project will require cooperation from local engineering, enforcement and court officials. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt told the group, "We will use every means at our command" to enforce the traffic laws. State Highway Director W. F. Babcock said highway engineers will seek to make the highways in the area safer in a number of ways, including better marking, signing and signalling.

Utilities Commission Decides Unable Give City Extra Money

med, however, to a balanced budget. The commissioners were considering a request by Mayor King for $75,000 in additional turn-over beyond the $162,260.37 already set for next fiscal year. Mayor King made his request at the Utilities meeting May 9. At that time the mayor told the commission the city would be $150,000 short in making up its budget for next year. The council would try to cut this in half, he said, but the city would still need $75,000 to make up the deficit. The mayor talked in terms of a 25 cent tax raise if the additional turn-over was not forthcoming. The commissioners last night instructed Horne to show the mayor a copy of the proposed spending for next year. "Let that be self-explanatory," Commissioner J. Ed Waldrop said. Commissioner Ray Minges said city officials should be told "what we have before us." He pointed to the sewer charge—a percentage of the water bill—which was added to Utilities charges recently. "We didn't want to, but we had to do it," he declared. "I hate a tax increase, but it is not going to be a one-year thing." Chairman Horne after the meeting noted that any tax increase voted by the city would reflect to some extent in the turn-over for 1962-63. This is true because a portion of the formula is based on an amount equivalent to city property taxes on gas and electric assets. The formula sets turn-over at six percent of the net investment in the gas and electric departments plus an amount equivalent to taxes on the properties. The six percent return on investment this year amounts to $149,555.04 while the amount in lieu of taxes is $12,705.33. If the city's tax rate were increased this latter figure would increase accordingly. The formula for turn-over was devised under Chairman Horne a couple of years ago. Under it, turn-over would increase approximately $5,600 next year over 1961-62. Turn-over increased $6,667 this year over the previous year. Tentative figures for 1962-63, considered last night, showed an expected revenue from all departments of $3,141,000. Total operating expenses were estimated at $2,440,000 and net income before depreciation was estimated at $1,085,466.74. Among capital improvements items the Utilities expects a major increase in spending for water mains next year. Included in the proposed improvement program was $451,207 for this item, compared with $68,777.92 for the present year. This was included because a water flow study recently completed showed that immediate water system improvements are needed costing over $300,000. Utilities officials have said the improvements must be made to provide adequate water flow to fire hydrants in certain sections of the city. The proposed spending for next year includes $105,000 for an elevated water tank at 14th and Greenville Blvd. Capital improvement expenditures listed in the estimate totaled $1,085,466.74. Commissioners last night also discussed a policy for extension of water and sewer lines beyond the city limits. A written policy is expected to be presented at the next meeting for the commission's consideration.

FBI Moves Into Airliner Crash

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The FBI has taken the job of finding the source of the explosive which ripped open a jet airliner over northeast Missouri May 22 and sent 45 persons to their death from 39,000 feet. W. Mark Fell, in charge of the FBI office in Kansas City, declined to comment about the investigation. However, agents were known to be checking into the background of a passenger, Thomas G. Doty of Kansas City, who was reported to have about $300,000 in insurance and faced charges of robbery and carrying a concealed weapon. Doty, 34, was divisional sales manager for Lutzer Inc. of Kansas City, a cosmetics firm, until March 20. He had worked about nine months with Mrs. Geneva Greenwood Fraley, 34, Kansas City district sales manager for Lutzer. Lutzer officials said Mrs. Fraley had resigned, as of June 15, and they understood she planned to join Doty in an interior decorating, party goods and gift business. Mrs. Fraley was the only woman passenger on the plane.

Algerian Settlers Seek Own Treaty

ALGIERS (AP)—Desperate European settlers are trying to pressure the Moslem nationalists into negotiating Algeria's future with them instead of with the French government. Offers to negotiate a "system of coexistence" have been made by the terrorist Secret Army Organization and the General Union of French Workers of Algeria, which represents virtually the whole European labor force. They have not put their demands into concrete form. But as their part of the bargain, the European terrorists are proposing to stop their murder of Moslems and systematic destruction. The labor unions are offering to halt the exodus to France of the European labor force. In a pamphlet and a pirate broadcast, the secret army hinted that leaders of the European extremists already have had contacts with the provisional Algerian executive installed by the French and members of the Moslem National Liberation Front, the FLN. The provisional executive denied such contacts. One of the key members, Chekik Mostefai, said the secret army's hints were "a system of intoxication which can further jeopardize the future" of Algeria's European community. "The secret army has no political future," Mostefai said. There has been no formal comment so far from the FLN government in Tunis. The nationalists' attitude has always been that the secret army represents no valid political force and that it can be destroyed in 15 days if tough enough means are used. Both the provisional Algerian executive and the FLN contend that all possible guarantees for the Europeans have been stipulated in the Evian cease-fire agreement. The European settlers regard Evian agreement as a declaration of intention and not as a binding contract. They want to discuss their future with the Moslem nationalists before the self-determination vote July 1. The French workers' union issued a virtual ultimatum demanding direct negotiations with the Moslems before the referendum or its members would quit Algeria. "If we leave, the economy would collapse," the settlers say. But the Moslem nationalists are determined to achieve their political objectives—in dependence and control of the country—no matter what the cost. European terrorism swooping down on Moslems in Algeria's major cities has not stamped the nationalist leaders. "We are waiting," said one. "We suffered eight years; we can still suffer five weeks. Later, we will know how to deal with the problem. If we wanted to, we could send our commandos into the streets of Algiers today and 30,000 Europeans would be dead." The government reported that two unarmed secret army commando groups—in all—have been arrested south of Oran, at the town of Perregaux. Their leaders were two officers who deserted from the French army and two ex-foreign Legionnaires. The government said 42 Europeans were expelled from Algiers Tuesday for suspected subversion. The unofficial death toll in the terror Tuesday was 30 persons, including 22 Moslem men and 2 Moslem women. Seventeen persons were wounded. French gendarmes still were investigating two mass graves found in a Moslem suburb of Algiers. They contained the bodies of 15 Europeans believed kidnapped, tortured and slain by the Moslems in retaliation for secret army killings. Last week 17 mutilated European bodies were found in an empty lot east of Algiers. The special court set up to try terrorists handed down its first death sentences Tuesday. The two defendants, Dominique de Cristo and Jackie Berthomieu, admitted being secret army killers.

Junior High SCA Presents Flags To School

New flags, including the American flag and the North Carolina state flag, were presented to Greenville Junior High School by the Student Council Association in ceremonies yesterday. The student association raised money for the flags through sale of pennants, beanies and sweat shirts. Some money was taken from sale of pictures and an additional source of aid came from gifts left by Coleman A. Gentry, a former teacher. Joe Cox, outgoing president of the SCA, noted that the school needed new flags this year. Ann Horne presented the United States flag and Gary Fields presented the state flag to incoming SCA president, Ronica Johnson. They were assisted in presentation by four outstanding scouts including Jimmy Wells, Toby Cobb, Mike Carson and Steve Fuller. Another highlight of the final assembly of the school year was installation of SCA officers by Cox. Incoming officers, in addition to Johnson, president, are Malcolm Williams, second vice president; and Jean Hodges, secretary. The first vice president and the treasurer will be elected next year by the incoming seventh graders. Outgoing SCA officers in addition to Cox are: Gary Fields, second vice president; Sue Pierce, secretary; Ann Horne, first vice president; Ben Irons, treasurer. All received merit banners. Incoming President Johnson received the president's gavel from Cox. During the assembly program, Mrs. Joyce Zeh and Mrs. George Franklin, SCA advisers, were presented a gift in recognition of their help and guidance. Joseph Smith, principal, was also remembered with a gift. Cheryl Lee presented a reading of legacies, or "The Last Will and Testament." The reading consisted of 63 bequests. Cox presided over the program, with Ricky Webb in charge of the devotion and Joy Pollard accompanying the singing of "America."

European Stock Exchanges Rally

LONDON (AP)—Stock exchanges of Britain and Europe bounced back strongly today in the wake of Wall Street's recovery. Buying orders poured into the London Exchange to the point where most of the previous day's losses were retrieved within the space of two hours. The Financial Times Index of 30 industrial common shares, which had slumped 18 points Tuesday, rebounded 16 points by lunch time. "There is a mad rush to get back in," one busy jobber told newsmen. In Zurich, where even blue chip bank stocks had been badly hit, confidence also returned quickly. Soon after trading on the bourse began prices were virtually back to levels which prevailed before the onset of the panic-tinged selling. Buyers appeared in large number in Frankfurt to take advantage of what they regarded as bargain-basement prices prevailing after the shake-out. Gains of 20 to 40 points quickly developed through much of the German stock list. In Paris, buying stabilized stock prices on the bourse a few minutes after opening. In some cases there were substantial markups, along with some auto shares, along with Suez company issues, had virtually made up the losses suffered during the past two days. The Rome market, which had shed an over-all 5 per cent of paper values, regained more than half of the losses. On April 23, about a month after he quit his $650 a month job, Doty was arrested in Kansas City, Kan.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Herring-Patrick

WALSTONBURG—Miss Barbara Jean Patrick, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Patrick of Walstonburg, became the bride of Charles Tyndall Herring, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Herring, of 917 Hood Street, Wilson, on Sunday afternoon, May 20, at half after four o'clock in the Free Union Free Will Baptist Church, Walstonburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's father and the Rev. S. A. Smith of Beulaville. The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Andrew Heath, pianist, and Miss Ann Letchworth of Snow Hill and Mr. Norman Letchworth of Saratoga.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of white organza and imported French re-embroidered lace. The bodice of silk organza and imported French re-embroidered lace with portrait neckline trimmed with seed pearls and crystal aurora tear drops, and was fastened in the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The skirt with draped bouffant sides and cathedral train was appliqued with matching lace motifs.

Her three tiered silk illusion veil was attached to a crown of iridescent aurora crystals and pearls. She carried a bridal fan of white roses and phalaenopsis orchids centered with a yellow throat white orchid. For tradition she wore her maternal grandmother's wedding band.

Mrs. Ray Clark, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Sue Patrick, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. They wore floor length dresses of Nile green fashioned in the modern shepherdess look in taffeta, aproned and bustled in demure sweep over bouffant chiffon and taffeta with matching picture hats and mitts. They carried Nile green summer baskets of yellow rosebuds, mums, and snapdragons with bows of yellow ribbon. Her bridesmaids were Miss Jewel Dean Patrick of Ayden, cousin of the bride, Miss Pat Herring of Columbia, S. C., cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Ann Walston of Walstonburg, Miss Carol Taylor of Hookerton and Miss Louise Tyndall of Snow Hill. Junior bridesmaids were Misses Kimberly Harris and Dee Gie Jones of Snow Hill. Flower girl was little Miss Debbie Cunningham of Walstonburg. All the attendants were dressed like the maid and matron of honor. Master Jackie Cunningham of Walstonburg was ringbearer.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Jo Etta Worthington of Middlesex, Miss Trudy Britt of Walstonburg, Miss Linda Taylor of Hookerton and Miss Jane Tyndall of Snow Hill. They wore dresses of yellow dacron cotton trimmed with white lace.

Mr. Herring was his son's best man.
Ushers were Wayne Patrick, brother of the bride, and Ray

Clark, brother-in-law of the bride, both of Walstonburg; Stuart Hamm and Jimmy Tyndall of Snow Hill, Carson Harrison of La Grange, Tommy Simpson of Wilson and Bill Robbins of Raleigh.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple, their parents and attendants along with Mrs. Frank L. Walston Sr., their Sunday school teacher, received on the front lawn of the church.

Moving Day Tip

Moving day plans should include a box marked "clean linens for tonight" — packed with enough sheets and pillow cases to make up fresh beds the first night in your new home or summer cottage.

After a tiring moving day, the whole family deserves a good sleep between spanking clean sheets. Don't take a chance on discovering at midnight that all the bedding is packed in a trunk for which nobody has the key!

Pointing Up The Divided Opinion

The most recent hearing held in our neighboring city of Washington on the matter of phosphate mining in the Pamlico and Pungo Rivers points up clearly a divided opinion in Beaufort County over the matter.

At a hearing last week conducted by the Board of Conservation and Development, predominant opinion expressed by some of the leaders or the county was against mining operations in the river. In the Monday hearing, however, it was apparent that a great many of the average citizens of Beaufort County are anxious that the hassel over river mining not block the possibility of developing a major phosphate industry in Beaufort County.

They recognize the county's need for industrial development, and they are anxious that operations—thwarted several years ago by the state's decision not to lease river bottoms for mining—not be killed off again.

Certainly the Department of Conservation and Development recognizes the importance of the Pungo and Pamlico Rivers to Beaufort County and to the state. It is evident, we think, that the state is taking sufficient precautions in drawing the proposed leases, to assure that the rivers and their fish and wildlife will not suffer because of the mining operations. It is also evident, we think, that it would be shortsighted indeed both for Beaufort County and for the state, for the proposed industrial development which would come to the mining operations to be denied for that county and for the state.

We cannot accept the assertion of some opponents of the mining operations that Beaufort County must decide between having the industry and ruining its rivers, or preserving its rivers and keeping out the industrial development. There is no reason for Beaufort County not having the phosphate industry and also retaining its two rivers which are recognized as great assets. In our opinion the state is seeing to it that sufficient safeguards are being provided in the proposed leases to assure that the rivers will not be ruined.

The state has the obligation to help protect the rivers, but it likewise has the obligation to the people of Beaufort and surrounding counties to help encourage industrial development rather than becoming a tool which will deny important economic opportunity and potential to the people.

A Coordinated Effort To Help Able Student

While laymen and educators discuss the merits of whether every high school graduate should be given a chance at a college education—regardless of what his previous record of scholastic achievement might have been—we find ourselves much more concerned about a problem at the other end of the scholastic scale.

We find ourselves concerned about the number of top students in high school graduation classes who are not going to college because of economic or other conditions although their scholastic records indicate they are capable of gaining most from a college education.

In North Carolina, which has the dubious distinction of being the 49th state in the number of its college-age people actually enrolled in college, more attention needs to be given the problem of getting more of the top students into college. There are many valedictorians and salutatorians among graduating classes from smaller high schools in North Carolina this year who have no plans to attend college. For many of them the cost of a college education is the major stumbling block. Either they have not sought out sources of help, or they have not been sought out by the colleges of the state.

It seems to us that a greater coordinated effort needs to be made by the public school systems of each county and by the colleges and educators of the state to get these students of high scholastic ability into college following their graduation from high school.

Charity Or The Paying Program

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two things stand out in the windstorm kicked up over the medical care program backed by President Kennedy and the one the American Medical Association likes.

1. There's a basic difference in principle between them. It is the difference between charity (the AMA program) and self-paid insurance (the Kennedy program).

2. Neither is the complete answer to old people's expenses when they get sick because neither covers all people over 65 and neither covers all their costs.

Take the two programs separately. Under the one the AMA likes (the Kerr-Mills Act which has been in effect since 1960) people who need help—and can qualify for it—get it free. But not all can qualify.

The federal government and the states pitch in to pay the bills. Not all states have this program. Those which do set up their own standards.

This means that one state will pay more kinds of medical bills than another. It also means the limits on who can get the coverage vary.

In one state a person with more than $1,800 a year income can't get it. In another, a person with $1,200 a year income can't get it.

When people do qualify, what they get is free. The program Kennedy supports (the King-Anderson bill now in Congress) is based on the principle of self-paid insurance through a Social Security tax. No one could get this either if it became law.

Only those over 65 people are eligible, or about 14 million of the 17 million now over 65.

Those other three million would not be eligible under the King-Anderson bill and would have to get protection under the Kerr-Mills Act if they could qualify or find some other way of paying their bills.

The Kennedy-backed proposal would not cover all the medical bills. It would pay most of the hospital costs (each person would have to pay from $29 to $90 of his hospital bill) and nursing home costs.

Under the Kennedy program each person would have to pay his own doctor's bills. At a time when the Kennedy administration and other supporters of the King-Anderson bill are supposed to be going all out for it, they are showing an extraordinary reticence in criticizing the Kerr-Mills Act, which they don't think goes far enough at all.

It has become regular policy with Kennedy not to say anything critical of fellow Democrats or their handiwork, presumably because he thinks some day on some other issue he will need them.

Two very important Democrats—Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma and Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas—were the sponsors of the Kerr-Mills Act.

Under the aggressive leadership of Chairman Paul Rand Dixon, the Federal Trade Commission is seeking to establish a new power, under which businesses could be forced to face anonymous charges at public hearings without full benefit of counsel.

If it establishes this power, Rand will become one of the most powerful men in America today, able to use faceless charges to besmirch businesses without the businesses able to defend themselves fully—although there is no suspicion that he would do it.

Rand staked out this power for himself in a little-noticed speech early this month before Law School annual banquet of the Wisconsin Club of Marquette University. Most of his talk was a discussion of how, over the years, by Congressional action and court decision, the FTC had increased power to subpoena records, require reports and examine witnesses.

Exporting Their Surplus

Truly Forgotten Man

NEW YORK (AP) — The government safeguards the whooping crane and the bald eagle.

The government has programs to protect the young and soften the last years of the old.

The government has programs to aid the manufacturer and help the farmer.

Name any group in America and the government has thought up something to do for it.

Every group, that is, except one—the middle-aged.

This governmental neglect of the middle-aged is hard to understand when you consider they are one of the nation's great natural resources—as important in their way as iron ore, lumber or the corn crop.

Middle-aged people hold most of the votes, pay most of the bills, and do far more than their fair share of the national worrying.

If all the middle-aged people in America went on strike and did nothing but sit on their hands for a month, civilization as we know it would crumble like a fallen cookie.

Realizing their own key importance in the scheme of things, more and more thoughtful middle-aged people are beginning to ask,

"When is the government going to do something for us?"

The problem is—What can be done?

Obviously, it would be impractical for the government to provide a federal sanctuary for the middle-aged, as it has done for the whooping crane. Middle-aged people simply do not thrive in a wilderness swamp.

There are too many of them also, it must be admitted, for the government to reward them with a bonus for merely being alive. That would bankrupt everybody else.

But here are a few things Congress might do to foster, sustain, develop, encourage and protect the middle-aged:

Pass a law making middle-age respectable. One of its provisions would require the young to salute or hold their hats over their hearts whenever anyone between the ages of 40 and 65 passes by.

Pass a law making it a federal offense to laugh at, interrupt, annoy, worry or harass a middle-aged person in any manner whatsoever.

Pass a law establishing a national "Middle-aged Day" during which the rest of the populace would do nothing but honor, admire, cherish, soothe, console and pat on the back every middle-aged person they met.

Let Congress establish legislation such as this and no one who reached middle-age would any longer have to feel like he had committed a crime. It would be a downright privilege, and people would fight for the chance to be over 40.

Anyway, it's an idea.

Other Editors Saying After Graduation What?

(Washington Daily News)

There was a time not so many years ago when a boy or a girl graduating from one of our high schools had something of a choice to make in regard to his or her future.

As we see the picture today, the choice has been narrowed considerably. Thirty years ago a senior could look toward college, toward going to work, or toward marriage and family.

The world of 30 years ago was not in the turmoil the world is today. The education challenge of 30 years ago was far different from what it is today.

The present world conditions and home picture combine to present a very different challenge to our youngsters.

The boy must think not merely in terms of education, marriage, and home, and job, but he must also think in terms of his debt to Uncle Sam in the form of military service. And the young women must fit their schedules so often to conform with the decisions of the young men.

Today college standards have risen so high that a great many boys and girls, even if they want to go to college, may find that they are unable to get enrolled. Thirty years ago collegians sent out field men urging the members to go to this college or that college. No longer do the field men come out and contact seniors. On the contrary boys and girls today, it appears have many discouraging factors facing them as they seek to acquire higher educations.

The whole world has changed, because people have changed. The space age where technical knowledge seems to be in such great demand has placed mankind in a new focus. Communism versus democracy has created two world camps where mankind is still seeking recognition. Control of men's minds has become the great obsession among the big powers.

It is not the boy or the girl who has changed so radically. It is the world around them in which they must be a part. These boys and these girls did not fashion the present world into a tension packed arena it is. It is the elders who have created the picture in which the youngsters find themselves.

But it is the youngsters who must meet the challenges, make the future decisions, and fight wars or find peace as the case might be.

Are we drifting into a world where only the strong can survive? Well, if nuclear war comes, the strong will hardly be more able than the weak.

So today when we look at a senior class, we are filled with awe and wonder. We are thinking in terms of the boys and girls in caps and gowns in terms of humanity at its best and most precious. And yet we must also think of the mess that we of another age have placed in their laps.

Maybe we should feel sorry for them. But they do not ask sympathy. They merely ask for opportunity, and it is up to us, the adult population, to give our boys and girls every weapon at our command so that their decisions will be based on knowledge and wisdom.

Graduation is with us. Then what? Today's picture is not a pretty one. But the decisions soon will be in the hands of today's greatest hope — our young people. Maybe they can do better and act more wisely than their elders.

Called Constitutional

The court said this appeared not to violate the Constitution. This would put the FTC in the position of running hearings like Fidel Castro does. A businessman or a company could be called before a public hearing to reply to charges by a nameless accuser. He could have a lawyer by his side to console him, but the lawyer could not question the accuser. He might not even see him.

Nonsense? The FTC is trying to do exactly that.

In its most investigation, it has called Kroger Co. and three officers to testify at a public hearing in Indianapolis not to defend themselves against any charges, but to expose themselves, without counsel participating, to whatever charges may be developed possibly by "complaints from undisclosed informants."

It would be possible, of course, for anonymous charges to be made against Kroger or any other company. If proved, appropriate action could be taken. But if not proved, the issues might never be brought to trial; the accused would never have their day in court, and their denials would never catch up with the accusations.

Kroger is fighting back. It has filed suit in Federal Court in Chicago, seeking to bar the FTC's novel assertion of authority. The FTC is resisting the suit and in the end, it may go to the Supreme Court.

Longer Life Is Goal

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Science and courage are conquering time and space. Men and women in laboratories are conquering disease and prolonging life. We simulate nature and manufacture textiles from coal, water, salt and numerous chemicals. Our knowledge is growing so vast and so plentiful that even youngsters playing with toys know, with accuracy, about distant planets and remote stars. Children in the lower elementary classes, in some schools, are taught by visual means, involving rabbits or hamsters, how life passes from generation to generation.

But what is life? Since most primitive times, the mind of man has been concerned with this problem. Sides, stones, images, stars, the sun, a heaven filled with love-making and quarrelling gods, the monotheistic God who created man—all these have had their impact upon the mind of man to explain not only life but the rhythm of life upon this Earth.

And now, a profoundly imaginative study by scholars and scientists will be made of life in the minutest cell.

The Salk Institute for Biological Studies has been established by the National Foundation through the March of Dimes. Dr. Jonas Salk, whose work in polio has saved so many millions of lives, will be its director. Its devotion will be to pure science and to research with the objective of discovering what life is and what the processes of life are.

A tiny dot is the beginning of life in the body of a female who has ovulated and whose ovulation has been fertilized by a male. This tiny, little, almost imperceptible dot is alive. To it has been given life. Out of that dot comes a mechanism more complex than an astronaut's capsule. Within it are not only material bones and flesh and skin and a vast amount of varied chemicals, functioning together by means of specialized controls, built-in instruments, but also housing the imponderable mind and spirit and such amazing qualities as courage and self-reliance and faith.

What is this living dot and how does it work? We know much about it. Ancient philosophers made remarkable guesses which later scientists verified and corrected. But more needs to be known—very much more. Dr. Jonas Salk says:

"Let us look, for a moment, at the effects of man's probing into the processes of life. He has brought about control over many diseases and over many of the natural forces that previously limited human survival. The potential benefits that have been brought into existence thereby, with the potential for reduction of human suffering, have in some parts of the world, brought about an increase, rather than a decrease, in the total amount of human suffering, when one considers the smaller number who would otherwise have existed to suffer, had man not been so successful."

In a word, when we know the processes of life in the cell, we may be able to reconstruct life so that it, like the atom, may be controlled by man. Dr. Salk further said:

"... man knows that such goals will not be attained by chance alone. The unleashing of the power locked in the nucleus of the atom was the result of human intention and design. Man has overcome the force of gravity sufficiently to be able to orbit the earth. This, too, was by design. In man capable of conceiving and executing corresponding feats in controlling the forces within substance of living things? Recent advances that have been made in biology are testimony to the affirmation of man's desire and man's ability in this respect."

The mind of man is imaginative and flexible and moves, from century to century, in diverse directions. It alters ways of life and the order of society, as its knowledge increases. Feudalism, for instance, was undoubtedly an excellent device for maintaining law, order and productivity after the collapse of the enormously superior Roman Empire. But even during this period, sometimes called

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

CHAPTER 9

Ira Pendleton offered his hand. "So you're Casey Jeffries," he said. "First of all, I want to thank you for being so kind to Julie last night."

"I was glad to be of some help, Mr. Pendleton," Casey replied. "Tell me, can you account for what she saw?"

"You refer to the ghost horse, of course."

"It wasn't a ghost, Mr. Pendleton. I don't believe your daughter is given to fancy."

"Ah—a straightforward compliment you should appreciate, my dear," Ira reached up and took Julie's hand. "I can see how you had such a devastating effect upon my daughter."

"Devastating?" Casey asked, with a very small smile. "I met her last night and this morning she's engaged."

"Something else happened last night, Mr. Jeffries," Ira said. "Tell him, Julie."

"I'm not sure—what actually did happen, Casey. Right after we found Big Blue in his stall and I found a dummy in his stall. When I tried to get it out, somebody closed the stall door and things were a bit touchy for a little while."

"You're certain the door didn't close by itself, Julie?" Casey's concern was as obvious as his interest.

"There was no one about when I left. I'm certain, because I made it a point to look. And no one drove up the road to the farm. Nor did I pass anybody on the way to town."

"What I wonder is who was up on Boundbrook," Julie said. "Somebody rode that horse."

"That's what worries me most," Casey said. "You saw someone all right, no doubt about that. Why hasn't he come forward and admitted he was exercising the animal?"

Ira interrupted them. "You're new here, Mr. Jeffries. You live with your uncle, I'm told."

"Yes, sir."

"That would be Claude Barton?"

"Yes, sir."

Ira nodded. "I've known Claude all my life. He's a fine friend of mine and I know for an absolute fact that Claude has neither brother nor sister and never has had. He was an orphan. Now, would you be kind enough to explain why you claim to be his nephew?"

Casey hesitated for a moment, but he was flustered at the first time since Julie had met him. "No, sir, I will not explain."

"You aren't Claude's nephew, of course," said Ira. "Does he know you're passing yourself off as a relative?"

"You'll have to ask him, sir."

He was being stiff now, resenting this knowledge of Ira's, which had quite obviously upset his plans of his scheme.

"I intend to," Ira said coldly. "Good afternoon, sir."

Casey was staring at Julie. She turned away from him. He spoke her name softly, but she didn't stop. She walked straight to the barn and disappeared inside it.

Julie told one of the stableboys to saddle Big Blue and when she led him out into the open, neither her father nor Casey was there. Her anger made her cold and tense. She didn't want to see Casey again. One thing she hated was a liar.

She swung into the saddle and tapped Big Blue with the crop. She had to take out her rage upon something and Big Blue had it coming. He was going to get a workout he wouldn't forget.

She rode the great stallion out across the fields and sent him heading at a timber jump. Big Blue was a steeplechase horse—a chaser—and a timber jump was a challenge as much to him as to his rider. He sailed over the jump cleanly and came down so gently that Julie was hardly jarred. She slowed him, leaned forward and patted his neck. A horse who could jump like that had a right to be mean if he wished. She had words of praise she didn't usually apply to Big Blue.

He seemed to respond to this confidence and kindness for he took the next jump—a brush—using scarcely any effort at all. It was, to her, as if Big Blue were trying to recompense her for being an outlaw the night before. She'd always known he'd make a fine jumper. He was afraid of nothing except water. He would refuse at any sign of water, even a two-foot-wide stream.

Julie was well aware of this—he'd shipped her more than once when he came headlong upon a small puddle of mud deep enough or wide enough to look ominous to his strange psychosis. If he was to become a good jumper, he had to be broken of this fear and Julie was determined to do so.

She had planned carefully, using a trick that had worked with other similarly affected steeplechasers. For over a week now she'd had the water drained off one water jump. It lay behind a bush and was a seven-to-eight-foot-wide shallow pit. Big Blue had never taken this jump.

With the water removed, Julie had filled the space with a bedding of straw. Big Blue had jumped into straw before, and in that peculiar manner of smart horses, he knew it was there even if he couldn't see it through the brush. The dry straw pricked his legs unpleasantly every time, so when he knew there was straw on the other side of a hurdle, he'd really stretch to clear it.

She'd have the straw removed little by little, and a tiny pool of water added. Then the water hazard would gradually grow wider and deeper.

The jump was ahead of her and she snugged down in the saddle to take it. Big Blue was picking up speed to clear the tightly woven hedge and he was as intent on his work as Julie. He was moving very fast and she urged him on with a sharp word. She felt his big body arch out, his forelegs pointed the way through the air and his hindquarters delivered the impetus necessary for the flying leap.

Then she knew it was all wrong. Even Big Blue hadn't sensed it until now, but instead of the bed of straw in the pit, there was only water, and plenty of it. Big Blue twisted crazily, panicked in mid-air and gave a violent lurch to the left. Julie couldn't possibly hold on. She let herself be shipped over his head and she went sailing through the air as if she'd been fired from a cannon in a circus.

With Big Blue in full flight, so suddenly checked, the momentum that threw Julie off was terrific. She had no time to protect herself. She flew through the air and crashed down spread-eagled on the ground. There was one wild, blinding wave of pain and then nothing.

Counselor Sees Marriage End

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A marriage counselor who refused to consult one was divorced Tuesday.

Shella I. Simmons obtained a default divorce from her marriage counselor husband, Robert. She testified that when they began having problems he told her she could see a marriage counselor if she wanted to, but he didn't want to because he felt the marriage couldn't be saved.

Simmons, she said, "didn't believe there was anything wrong with him."

Car's Accident Not On Schedule

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A car that was on its way to have an accident Tuesday had it too soon.

The intent was to hoist the auto into the air by helicopter, then drop it 240 feet onto the rock ledge of a quarry.

The wreckage, supposed to be what a car would look like after a head-on collision at 60 miles an hour, was designed as a demonstration to frighten Memorial Day motorists.

As the 'copter was carrying the 1952 model car, a chain broke and the car plunged into a swamp about half a mile away.

Kiwanis Rally For 6-0 Victory; Tobs Gain Win

TAR HEEL Greenville Tobacco Company upset the Elks yesterday by coming from behind to win 7-6. David Hahn was the winning pitcher while Bobby Lee was credited with the loss.

managed to maintain their lead as Greenville Tobacco went on to win 7-6. The loss was the Elks' first defeat against three victories while the win was Greenville Tobacco Company's second against two defeats.

In the fourth, Kiwanis tallied six runs on four hits and two errors. Van Williams and Timmy Tyner led the frame off for Kiwanis as they both reached first safely on errors. Leland Briley followed and sent Tyner score Williams and sent Tyner racing to third. On the next pitch, Briley stole second. With one out, Cecil Bilbro rapped a double to centerfield to drive Tyner and Briley across the plate. Mark Tipton followed with another double to score Bilbro and increase the Kiwanis lead to four runs. Bob Brown stepped to the plate and connected for his second homer of the season and set the score at 6-0.

NORTH STATE

Kiwanis rallied in the bottom of the fourth inning to surge ahead of the Optimists and they maintained their lead as they went on to win 6-0. Van Williams was the winning pitcher while Al Wainright was charged with the loss.

Neither team was able to produce a score in the remaining innings as Kiwanis went on to win 6-0. The win was Kiwanis' third against no defeats while the loss was the Optimists' third against one win.

Tigers Defeat Baltimore 12-4

Strong Competition For Legion Baseball

Greenville's American Legion Junior Baseball entry, embarking on its third straight season after a long lay-off, faces strong competition in its five-team league, expanded this season to include perennial contender Raleigh.

Other leading performers on the squad's tentative roster include Winterville infielder Bobby Hobgood, Billy Neal James of Rose High in Greenville, ace Robersonville pitcher Jimmy Robbins who plays any position, lanky Rodney Knowles of Rose High and others.

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer

It took them a while to find the range, but Detroit's surging Tigers have finally zeroed in. The next target in their rapid rise is the big one—the American League lead.

Don Mossi's seven-hitting pitching backed by an offensive barrage that included four homers carried the Tigers over Baltimore 12-4 Tuesday and put them a mile closer to the top.

The Tigers, stiffest opposition for the New York Yankees last year and expected to make another challenge this season, have steadied themselves after an erratic start. They were ninth early this month after a string of five losses and 13 days ago were seventh, 5 1/2 games off the pace.

Since then they've won 9 of 11 in a climb that has taken them to fourth place, two games behind first-place Cleveland.

In other AL games, Kansas City shaded New York 2-1, dropping the Yankees out of a tie for the lead as John Wyatt and Bill Fischer combined for a seven-hitter; Boston beat third-place Minnesota 8-5; and Washington edged Los Angeles 7-6 on Jim Piersall's home run in the 10th inning. Cleveland and Chicago had the day off.

In the only two National League games, Pittsburgh inched ahead of St. Louis into third place with a 7-6 decision over the Cardinals, and Milwaukee outscored Chicago 11-9 despite six Cub home runs, including three by Ernie Banks.

Baltimore took a short-lived 2-0 lead against Detroit in the second on homers by Jackie Brandt and Dave Nicholson, but then the Tigers roared. Dick Brown and Rocky Colavito homered with one on in the second and third off loser Jack Fisher, and Norm Cash hit one worth three runs as the Tigers pounded in six runs in the fourth. Chico Fernandez homered leading off the fifth.

Nicholson closed out the Orioles' production against Mossi with a two-run homer in the ninth. The Tiger left-hander finished with his fourth complete game of the season and his third straight victory, building his record to 5-4.

Charlie Maxwell, filling in for the injured Al Kaline, collected three of Detroit's 15 hits, while Cash, Colavito, Fernandez, Brandt and Mossi all had two each.

Wyatt and Fischer frustrated the Yankees at virtually every turn as the defending league champions again showed a lack of punch for the big inning. They loaded the bases with one out in the first, got their first two men on in the fifth, and had another chance in the eighth with two on. But they failed to score each time and stranded 10 runners.

The Athletics netted their two runs in the first off rookie Jim Bouton. Dick Howser led off with a walk and was forced by Jose Tartabull, who flashed all the way to third on Norm Siebern's infield single. Tartabull came in on a passed ball and Manny Jimenez, who raised his league leading average to a sparkling .398 with a pair of hits, singled in Siebern.

The Red Sox swept their second two-game series in as many weeks from the Twins on some robust hitting by rookie Bob Tillman. Carl Yastrzemski and Chuck Schilling.

Galen Cisco was the winner in relief and Ted Sadowski lost it. Piersall's 10th inning homer off Jack Spring at Los Angeles was his first hit in four games against the Angels this year. The Senators went into a 6-0 lead against Ken McBride with two runs in the first and four more in the fourth, but the Angels tagged Don Rudolph for three in the sixth and sent it into overtime with three more in the ninth.

The Terps got 72 points to Duke's 70 1/2 in the final tabulation announced here Tuesday by ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver. North Carolina placed third with 67 1/2 points, followed by Virginia with 46 points.

The cup is presented as a memorial to the late William Donald Carmichael Jr. of Chapel Hill. In the tabulation of records, each sport counts equally with eight points for first, place seven for second, etc.

Duke led during the fall season with North Carolina and Maryland close behind. The Terps then took three of the four winter championships to take first place. North Carolina slipped into second place during the winter and Steve Hamilton nailed down the pitching victory with 12-3 innings of hitless relief.

hind first-place Cleveland. Rain Clouds Could Delay Start Of Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — All 33 qualified cars lined up at the Indianapolis Speedway today to run the annual 500-mile race, but rain clouds lingered from early morning thundershowers.

The first 3 1/2-hour race would take an average speed of 142.857 m.p.h., against Foyt's record of 139.130 last year in his 8 1/2-second victory over Eddie Sachs.

The race has been postponed only once, in 1915, when it was held up from Saturday to Monday. The 1926 race was stopped by rain at 400 miles and the 1950 race at 345 miles.

Although warm south breezes dried the asphalt track rapidly, a forecast of intermittent light rains left the scheduled start at 11 a.m. (EST) under a little doubt. Scattered thundershowers also were forecast for this afternoon.

Harroun needed over 6 hours and 42 minutes to win at 74.59 miles an hour in 1911.

If the race goes beyond 250 miles, the leader wins. A restart is necessary after any halt at a shorter distance. The cars would line up, single file, in their order on the lap preceding the stop.

A vehicle with a big fan like an airplane propeller moved over the track, trying to speed the drying and creating a deafening roar. Workers also used brooms on the wetter spots.

The time was brought under 6 1/2 hours by Jimmy Murphy in 1922, under 5 hours by Peter DePaolo in 1925, and under 4 1/2 by Lee Wallard in 1951. The track surface has been improved by the contour is the same.

The finish announced at the end of the race will be unofficial. The official final standings will be released at 8 a.m. EST Thursday after an all-night study of the electric timing tape. The prize distribution will not be announced until the victory dinner Thursday night.

The crowd, expected to run around a quarter million, gathered slowly under the gray skies, hoping to see records smashed in a tradition going back to cigar-chewing Barney Oldfield, wine-bibbing Jules Goux and the immortal Ralph DePalma.

A series of bad wrecks, or rain, could spoil any record attempts, but the speedway has had phenomenal weather luck.

For the most part, the average driver on the road is cruising—which is what his car is built for. These boys on the speedway are charging every foot of the way. They are pushing the maximum capacity of every vital unit in their machines.

There was tremendous excitement when Parnelli Jones turned the first 150-m.p.h. lap in the 500 qualifications. Even the 500 preliminaries drew crowds estimated at 150,000.

Today's starters included Jim Rathmann, who set the world closed course competitive record of 170.262 m.p.h. at Daytona International Speedway in 1959. He got considerably more publicity (and cash) by winning the 500 the next year at 138.767.

State College Athletic Director Roy Clouston told the Wake County Wolfpack Club Tuesday, "We hope to have it ready by 1964."

There was a chance that today's Memorial Day classic would be run under 3 1/2 hours for the first time—little more than half what it took Ray Harroun to win the 1911 opener in his Marmon Wasp.

Why are these sleek racers so much more vulnerable than your buggy which cries for no more than gas, water and oil after being pushed hard on the road for an entire day?

College Chancellor John T. Caldwell issued a statement in which he expressed hope that plans for the stadium could be "brought to early fruition."

The crowd at the 46th running had every reason to expect a record performance from a field that included the top drivers from the U. S. Auto Club's championship, sprint car and midget circuits. It averaged a record 147.33 m.p.h. in the trials, almost two miles faster than the 1961 record.

Here's an explanation, in layman's terms, by Ted Halibrand, head of an engineering company which produces virtually all the wheels, axles, spindles, rear ends, steering gears and brakes on speedway cars.

L. E. Wooten and Co., a Raleigh consulting firm, is making a study to determine how much it would cost to build the stadium. A report has said it would be about $2 million.

Jones, the defending sprint champion, was a popular favorite after cracking the 150 m.p.h. barrier but he faced formidable competition from four former winners—USAC big car champion A. J. Foyt Jr., Troy Ruttman, Roger Ward—and Jim Rathmann.

It's the same difference between walking and running around a golf course. Just about anybody can walk 18 holes, but how many sprinters would you have left after the first four or five holes?

John (Buck) O'Neil, 50, was named the Cubs 11th coach Tuesday. He had served the club as a scout since 1956, and formerly played first base with the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League and managed them.

That foursome had the combined experience of 36 previous 500 starts.

Halibrand pointed out that the greatest of the many pressures, strains and stresses that hit the Indianapolis racers comes in decelerating in coming into each of the four turns on the 2 1/2-mile strip and accelerating in coming out of them.

State College Athletic Director Roy Clouston told the Wake County Wolfpack Club Tuesday, "We hope to have it ready by 1964."

Parnelli led twice last year in his first 500.

Banks Slugs 3 Homers In Row

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—"You can call 'em headache homers," says Ernie Banks, who returned to the Chicago Cubs lineup with a bang Tuesday.

Banks, running his homer output to 14 for the season, had been hospitalized in Cincinnati for observation until Sunday morning.

State Proposes New Stadium

RALEIGH (AP) — Proposed plans call for North Carolina State College to erect a 40,000-seat football stadium on a 50-acre site a half mile west of the State Fairgrounds here.

"Monday night, my head ached and I didn't think I could play Tuesday. But when I got to Wrigley Field I felt better and decided to give it a try.

Terps Capture Carmichael Cup

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Maryland piled up the points in winter sports and finished just 1 1/2 points ahead of Duke to capture the Carmichael Cup, awarded to the Atlantic Coast Conference team with the best record in all sports.

The Terps got 72 points to Duke's 70 1/2 in the final tabulation announced here Tuesday by ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver.

The cup is presented as a memorial to the late William Donald Carmichael Jr. of Chapel Hill. In the tabulation of records, each sport counts equally with eight points for first, place seven for second, etc.

Duke led during the fall season with North Carolina and Maryland close behind. The Terps then took three of the four winter championships to take first place. North Carolina slipped into second place during the winter and Steve Hamilton nailed down the pitching victory with 12-3 innings of hitless relief.

Dispute Sale Of Cincinnati Reds

By HAROLD HARRISON
 CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Last year as the Cincinnati Reds surprised everyone by sweeping to the National League pennant, the question often asked was, "Are the Reds for real?"
 This year the question may be "Who owns the Reds?"
 The question began to come to a head Tuesday when Ohio Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy disclosed in Columbus that he was delving into the sale of the franchise to veteran major league executive William O. DeWitt last March.
 DeWitt paid $4,625,000 for the club and Joseph F. Rippe Jr., a Cincinnati Realtor, claimed he and a group of associates offered $5.5 million.
 McElroy said he might upset the deal with DeWitt if the Rippe group meets certain conditions. He said he was asking trustees of the Crosley Foundation, which sold the club, to open the books for Rippe's study. Ted Saker, McElroy's chief assistant, said a court order would be sought if the books are not made available.
 McElroy indicated that if Rippe comes up with an offer higher than that paid by DeWitt it might be in the public interest to recommend acceptance.

The attorney general figures in the deal because, under Ohio law, he is responsible for supervision of actions of charitable trusts such as the Crosley Foundation.
 The will of the late Powell Crosley Jr. left the club to the Crosley Foundation. It sold the team to DeWitt and still unnamed associates last March.
 Rippe claimed then he had made a higher offer.
 Charles Sawyer, attorney for the foundation, called the McElroy move "an extraordinary and untimely action." He also called it a "bizarre effort x x x to interfere with DeWitt's very successful operation of the club."
 DeWitt said only that "I'm too busy trying to help the Reds on the field to devote a lot of time to this matter."
 Still in the background was the fact seven of the National League Club owners must approve the sale of a club—if McElroy should decide Rippe ought to have the franchise.
 National League President Warren Giles said: "It all sounds like a terrible thing. I have every reason to believe the sale of the club to DeWitt was made in good faith and the league is happy to have the club in the hands of such a man."

Hit On Head Did Not Seem To Bother Banks

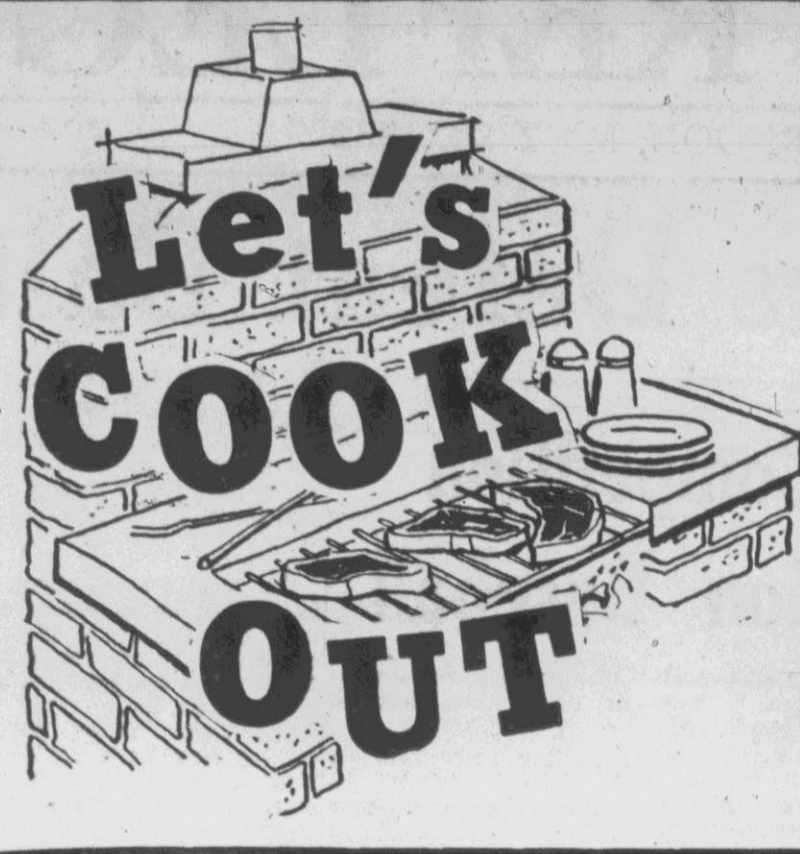

By MIKE RATHET
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Cancel those get-well cards for Ernie Banks, who returned to action only four days after a pitch plunked him in the head, and fired a home run salvo that shot him right up among the leaders in the National League home run derby.
 Fortified with aspirin to relieve his aching head, the 31-year-old Chicago Cubs' slugger returned to action Tuesday, doubled in his first appearance, then followed with three consecutive homers in an 11-9 loss to Milwaukee.
 Banks drilled a double in his first at-bat since a pitch by Cincinnati's Moe Drabowsky sent him to the hospital last Friday night, hit a two-run homer in the third and wound up his one-man shoe with bases-empty homers in the fifth and seventh.

to score for the Pirates in the last of the ninth. The Cards had moved in front 6-5 in their half of the inning when Bill White drove in a run with a triple and continued the home when Bill Mazeroski fumbled the throw in from the outfield. Tom Sturdivant (3-2) won it with Bobby Shantz (1-2) taking the loss.

Near Perfect Game Bowled By Broughton

The Greenville Bowling Association's first annual tournament ended over the weekend with Ralph Broughton capturing the All Events Handicap Championship with a nine-game total of 2020.
 Henry Kwiatkowski scored 1879 to take the nine-game scratch honors. The singles event was won by Phil Halstead with a 681, three game total, with Bob Miller placing second with 666 and Billy Wells third with a 665.
 Broughton and Arnold Averett teamed up to take the doubles event with a total of 1385. Broughton scored a 290 in the first game with a spare in the first frame and eleven strikes in a row. Averett appeared to be duplicating this feat in the second game as he spared in the first and struck the next seven frames with a couple of spares and a strike to finish with a 256.
 Andy Carrigan and Kwiatkowski scored 1272 to take second place honors in the doubles event.
 The team honors were won last week by New York Life over Atlantic Credit by a score of 3080 to 3078.

EXCHANGE NAPKINS—Exchange Club officer Hoyt Naron sells five boxes of napkins to Mrs. Peggy Hardee to launch the local civic club's annual Napkin Sale to raise funds for its projects, including aid for children with handicaps, assistance for the Mental Health Association, providing summer camps for children, sponsorship of Crime Prevention Week and sponsorship of a Little League baseball team. Exchange Club members are scheduled to canvass the Greenville area with a house-to-house sale of the napkins Thursday and Friday nights. Exchange President John Behr and the club's Napkin Sale Chairman Tom Patterson said the club has 4,500 boxes of the napkins on hand for Thursday and Friday. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Conetoe Creek Watershed's Planning In Its Final Stages

TARBORO — Final draft of plans for the 63,139-acre Conetoe Creek Watershed drainage and flood control project may be completed within three weeks, according to an announcement here.

The watershed area includes lands in the northern area of Pitt County.

Lacy Coates, watershed planning party leader from the State office of the Soil Conservation Service, informed leaders of the local project that the first draft of the final plan is being reviewed by the State office of the Soil Conservation Service.

After that review is completed, the plan goes to the Soil Conservation Service, Spartanburg, S.C. and Washington, D. C., offices. The draft will then be returned to Coates for completion of the final plan. That plan will be presented to the local sponsors for approval and signing of a watershed work plan agreement.

Preliminary estimate for renovating the Conetoe Creek channel and numerous laterals sets the cost at $894,235 of which the Federal Government will pay $602,356 if the project is approved.

This leaves $391,889 to be shared by the local sponsors. Actually, only some $196,810 of the local cost will be cash out of the pockets of local landowners.

Coates explained that the total figure for local cost share includes land valued at $192,679 for easements and right-of-way along the channels that are to be enlarged. A figure of $2,600 was included in the estimate for administration of contracts.

After the local sponsors—the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, Edgecombe County Drainage District Number 2, and Edgecombe County—execute the watershed project agreement, the plan will be submitted to committees of Congress for final approval.

Despite the fact that planning work has been pressed forward at maximum speed, doubt was expressed that the plan would reach Congress in time for processing during the present session.

Land treatment measures to be applied by the 450 landowners on their individual farms represent a major job that will make the project effective. Application of basic conservation farm plans, prepared with assistance of Soil Conservation Service technicians assigned to the Coastal Plain Soil and Water Conservation District, will help hold water on the land where it falls and keep soil from washing into the enlarged channels.

It will probably take a minimum of eight years to complete all the soil conservation work planned.

About 23 man-years of extra technical assistance will be poured into the watershed area to help farmers speed up the soil and water planning and application work, according to an estimate given by Coates.

It has taken three years of examination, field surveys, compilation and determination to reach the present stage of planning. The original application for a watershed project, addressed to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, was submitted to the N. C. State Soil Conservation Committee in 1959.

Rock-Dropping Crow Must Go

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A crow that drops rocks on youngsters drew the wrath of mothers in a northeastern Portland suburban area Tuesday.

They told sheriff's deputies that Shorty, the crow, must go.

He also pulls hair, dive-bombs children and dogs, greets each dawn and other neighborhood activities with loud caws, and in general makes a pest of himself, the women complained.

Shorty is the pet of the William H. Free family, which has four children. They have had Shorty two years. He sometimes follows them to school. On other occasions he flies escort for the family car.

Free admitted Shorty could be a trial to others. "We'll do something. Maybe clip Shorty's wings," he said.

Town Decided To Have Own Time

WACO, Tex. (AP)—This town of 5,000 in the center of Texas is breaking with the rest of the state and will go on daylight saving time Friday.

Purpose, says Chamber of Commerce manager Larry Miller, "is to give our fishermen more time to fish, our golfers more time to golf, our swimmers, bridge players, skiers and other lovers of leisure more time for their favorite recreation."

Tougher Soviet Cold War Policy

By DORIAN FALK
GENEVA (AP)—High Western diplomats believe Moscow's scuttling of the only significant East-West agreement thus far of the 17-nation disarmament talks fore-shadows tougher Soviet policy on such cold war issues as Laos, South Viet Nam and West Germany.

The diplomats note that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made particular mention of these three cold war theaters in explaining his government's repudiation of the three-day-old agreement to condemn war propaganda.

A harder Soviet position also would be in line with the resumption of Soviet nuclear tests, expected within two weeks, the Western diplomats added.

Zorin stunned the non-Communist delegates to the conference Tuesday with the unexpected withdrawal of his government's agreement to the war propaganda document, which was worked out in weeks of patient negotiations between Zorin and U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, the conference co-chairman.

War propaganda is only a side issue of disarmament, but the agreement to condemn it had been hailed as an encouraging sign for the generally deadlocked conference.

What worried Western diplomats was the reason behind the Soviet about-face. They were convinced the reason must be major to outweigh the loss of prestige the Soviet Union is certain to suffer among the noncommitted nations at the talks.

Western sources speculated that the Kremlin may have made some dramatic and still unknown major policy decision over the weekend.

Last week Zorin had adamantly opposed any suggestion of revisions in the war propaganda document, even by the U.N. General Assembly to which the declaration eventually was to be submitted. Zorin reversed this stand Tuesday by offering numerous amendments unacceptable to the West and delivered a blistering attack against the United States.

Prehistoric Bone Cache Uncovered

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Bones belonging to four prehistoric beasts of half a million years ago have been found a block from Jack London Square by workmen building a twin to the Posey Tube which links the cities of Oakland and Alameda.

On May 21, a bulldozer took a bite of blue clay from 30 feet under the topsoil and came up with a bone fragment.

Paleontologist John Rensberger of the University of California identified it as the canine tooth of a Pleistocene epoch bear named Tremarctos, a large name for a brawny brute taller than nine feet.

Next, a highly fragmented limb bone from a Taramylodon, a giant ground sloth perhaps six feet long was uncovered.

Also discovered were a fairly intact front leg bone from a mammoth elephant and two teeth and possibly a shoulder bone from a monster prehistoric bison.

Predicts Atomic Arms In 1964

PARIS (AP)—France's air chief says France will have atomic warheads for its own nuclear striking force by early 1964.

Gen. Paul Stehlin, chief of staff of the French air force, made the disclosure in a military publication. President De Gaulle's government had not said previously when its nuclear weapon program would progress beyond the experimental stage.

Stehlin said the first missiles will be air-to-earth with about a 200-mile range. They will be fitted aboard Mirage IV jet planes, 50 of which have been ordered for delivery starting in mid-1963.

Ex-Governor, Senator Dies

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Frank A. Barrett, former U. S. senator and governor of Wyoming, died today.

Barrett, 69, had been ill from leukemia, a blood cancer. The disease was diagnosed May 15 and Barrett spent several days in a hospital before returning to his home in Lusk. He had a relapse Monday and was taken to a Cheyenne hospital where he died at 5:50 a.m.

Dedicate Post Office Saturday

STOKES—Formal dedication ceremonies for Stokes' new post office are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Included among guest dignitaries for the occasion are scheduled to be First District Congressman Herbert C. Bonner and Jack William of Raleigh, area postal service officer, according to an announcement from Stokes Postmaster James D. Glisson.

Another feature of the Saturday afternoon ceremony will be recognition of five previous Stokes postmasters who preceded Glisson, postmaster here since January, 1954.

Former postmasters include Mrs. Addie Stokes, W. S. Overton, G. H. Roebuck, C. S. Whitford and G. L. Clark.

The new facility, a 725-square-foot masonry structure, was opened for service May 3 when Stokes postal patrons began receiving their mail from the 95 new individual boxes.

Dedication ceremonies Saturday will be conducted at the post office, located on the north side of NC Highway 903 just west of its intersection with NC 33 in the heart of the community.

The new facility replaces 256-square-foot quarters used here for years. Including parking space for 20 cars and space for mail-loading operations, the project was financed by J. Beverly Conleton of Stokes and leased to the U. S. Post Office Department.

The public is invited to the ceremony Saturday, Glisson said.

Seymour Johnson AFB Housing Help Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been asked to provide $80,000 "to alleviate dangerous, unsanitary, unsightly and unhealthy conditions currently existing in a housing area at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near Goldsboro, N.C."

This was disclosed today in hearing testimony made public by a House Appropriation subcommittee.

Col. W. H. Parkhill of the Air Force led the committee the design of the 1,300-unit housing project was necessarily austere and storm drainage was provided by open drainage ditches rather than underground piping. The project was completed in 1959.

"Our experience of the past three years indicates that during heavy rains, ponding of water results in some areas from the open ditch method of draining and is a hazard to children," he said.

He said the proposal is to spend $80,000 to correct the drainage situation by providing an underground drainage system that will eliminate the storm water ponding.

This money was included in a request for a total of $655,000 for the base for the year starting July 1. The other funds would be used to build a 3,202-square-foot weapon calibration shelter, to perform boring and harmonization of installed fixed forward firing control systems on assigned aircraft; to add 3,175 square feet to an armament and electronic shop needed to service electronic weapons systems of the fighter aircraft; to add 3,025 square feet to a precision measurement equipment laboratory; for a supply and equipment shed; and for an addition to the administration office to provide space for 166 office personnel.

Honors Going To Ayden Grads

AYDEN—Scholastic honors will be accorded graduating seniors Barbara Jane Yorke and Arde Campbell McGlohon tonight at Ayden High School.

Miss Yorke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Yorke of 204 Verna Ave., is valedictorian of the graduating class this year. McGlohon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McGlohon of 407 Park Ave., is salutatorian. They will deliver the valedictory and salutatory addresses in commencement exercises at the school.

In addition to her high academic record, Miss Yorke has served this year as president of the National Honor Society, co-captain of the basketball team and vice president of Tri-Hi-Y.

She also participated in chorus activities, Student Council, the National Forensic League, Athletic Association and is a past member of band and Future Homemakers of America.

McGlohon has served as president of the Athletic Association and has participated in baseball, basketball and football. He was selected for the All-Conference Football Team this year.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council, band and a past member of the National Forensic League and chorus.

New Skipper For Damaged Sub

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—Three weeks ago the nuclear submarine Permit was run over and scrapped by a freighter while on a shake-down cruise.

The Permit, with a new captain and new paint covering the scars, was commissioned Tuesday at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard as the U. S. Navy's 25th nuclear sub.

The collision cost Cmdr. Ernest R. Barrett his job and elevated Lt. Cmdr. Robert H. Blount to skipper.

The Permit is 278 feet long and has all the latest underwater sound equipment, weapons and weapon controls.

U.S. Success In Locust-Battle

TEHRAN, Iran. (AP)—Official reports say U. S. spray planes have waged a successful campaign against the locust plague in western Iran and the region will have its biggest wheat crop in 10 years.

In parts of southern Iran, said earlier reports, the locusts had too far a head start and crops were destroyed.

FOREIGN MINISTER
ROME (AP)—Sen. Attilio Piccione has been named Italian foreign minister to succeed Antonio Segni who became Italy's fourth president May 11. Premier Amintore Fanfani, a Christian Democrat, picked Piccone, 72, a founder of the party, after Democratic Socialist Giuseppe Saragat turned down the post.

Revised Working Agreement Signed

SNOW HILL—Soil supervisors approved a supplemental watershed work plan agreement to include installation of pipe drop inlets and shaping and seeding of the spoil on the Grindle Creek Project in Pitt County.

In other action taken by the Board, the District signed an amendment to the watershed application for the Johnson's Mill Tail Watershed Project east of Grifton, to increase the size of the project from 6,294 acres to 13,200 acres to include some farmlands that could not be practically included in watershed projects for Swift Creek, or Little Contentnea Creek.

The added farmlands will not be effected in anyway by the construction of canals in Johnson's Mill Tail. But these added farms will be eligible to receive the extra Soil Conservation Service technical assistance for planning and applying conservation programs on individual farmlands as part of the speed-up land treatment program included in watershed projects.

The board voted to delegate authority to the four individual county supervisor boards for signing agreements involving receipt and expenditure of funds appropriated to the individual county units by their respective boards of county commissioners.

Chairman Edwards announced plans for holding the Northeastern Area Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts' annual banquet at East Carolina College on Nov. 16, with David E. Weaver of Raleigh as speaker.

RUTH COTTON CLARK was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution Prize for having the highest academic average in the freshman class at Mount Olive College during commencement exercises on Sunday. She also won the Spivey Music Medal for making the greatest single contribution to the musical program of the college. She is the daughter of Mrs. R. L. Taylor of 1719 S. Elm Street, Greenville.

Funeral Set Friday For Alfred Taylor
Mr. Alfred Taylor, 51, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville Wednesday morning at 6:20 following two and a half years of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home near Pacolus Friday afternoon at three o'clock by the Rev. Willis Wilson, Free Will Baptist minister of Robersonville. Burial will be in the Robersonville Cemetery.

Mr. Taylor had spent most of his life in Pitt County and was a farmer. For the past two years he had been living near Pacolus.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Gurganus Taylor; his mother, Mrs. Ed Taylor of Chowan County; three sisters, Mrs. H. L. Newsome of Suffolk, Va., Mrs. Dave Langley of Chowan County, and Mrs. Howard F. Donor of Baltimore, Md.; and a brother, B. W. Taylor of the Beargrass community.

Wanted Revises Her Own Library
STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—It wasn't that Frances Thoman wanted to increase her home library—she just wanted to rearrange the titles a bit.

So Mrs. Thoman checked 84 books out of the Stockton library the past few weeks, says librarian Margaret Klausner, removed the library's little card envelopes from each and pasted them in her own books.

Then she returned her 84 unwanted volumes to the library.

Miss Klausner and a squad of detectives raided Mrs. Thoman's library Tuesday night, recovered the 84 books and tried to decide if charges should be filed.

Mrs. Thoman said she liked books.

Graduation Exercises At Winterville High Tonight

By ANN JACKSON
WINTERVILLE—Graduation exercises for Winterville High School's class of 1962 are scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight in the school auditorium.

Alfred Gold, class valedictorian, and salutatorian Judy Lawrence are scheduled to deliver their addresses during the commencement program.

Other seniors participating in tonight's program are Eleanor Hart, Vivian Strickland, Alice Garris and Carolyn Barnes—all Winterville Beta Club members.

Also included on the program tonight is music by the Winterville High Glee Club and band.

The valedictorian, Gold, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gold of Winterville. He has been a class officer, a member of the Beta and Glee clubs and was editor of Winterville High's yearbook for 1962.

Arrest Woman On Liquor Count
Pitt ABC enforcers reported Eliza Underwood, 46-year-old Negro of 1517 South Pitt St., was arrested yesterday afternoon when a gallon of non-tax-paid booze was found hidden under a tub of fishing worms in her back yard.

Officers said the jar of illegal whiskey was found during a search of the premises. She was charged with possessing non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale and released under a $300 bond for appearance in Greenville Recorder's Court Thursday.

Lawmen said the woman has a record of five convictions on liquor-law violations charges stemming from 1953.

Taking part in the arrest were J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor.

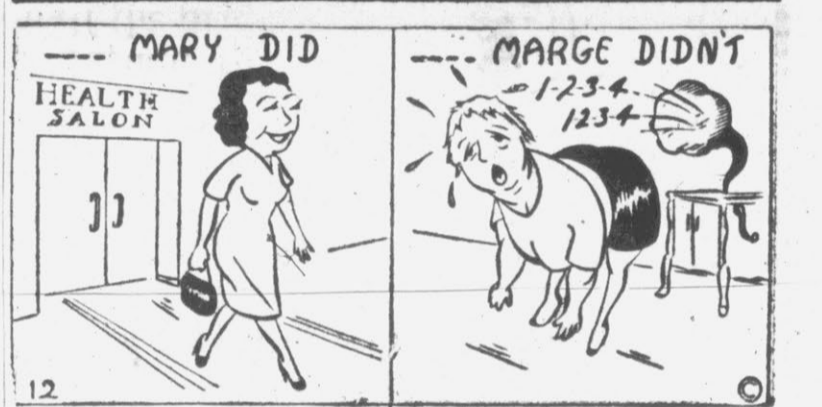

Plan Developing Of Pope AFB

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force plans to spend $4,753,000 at Pope Air Force Base, N.C. the main base for supporting Army troop airlift. Pope is on the Ft. Bragg reservation.

In testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee made public today, the Air Force said the reason for the large build-up at this time is that the Army will be supported with larger aircraft, C130s and C124s, in the future.

The money must be appropriated by Congress and would be spent in the year starting July 1 if it is granted.
