Eichmann Hangs On Israeli Rope; Defiant To End

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Defiant to the end, Adolf Eichmann walked firmly to the gallows Thursday night and paid with his life for his role in Nazi Germany's systematic extermination of 6 million European Jews.

The young state of Israel hanged the former Gestapo colonel at two minutes before midnight on an improvised scaffold in a third-story storeroom of Ramleh Prison near Tel Aviv.

It was the first execution in the 14-year history of this Jewish nation which counts among its citizens thousands of relatives of Jews whom Eichmann, 56, helped speed to death in Hitler's gas chambers.

Eichmann was cool and unrepentant as this Jewish nation carried to conclusion its announced determination to record the history of the Nazi pogrom and mete out justice in the name of all Jews.

A faint smile on his face, Eichmann spurned the traditional black hood and even chided his fallers for making it difficult for him to stand on the gallows' trap door.

My belief as correct," the former head of the Gestapo Jewish affairs section declared. "I had to obey the rules of war and my flag, I am ready."

At a command from an Israeli guard, Eichmann stepped to the trap door and lunged to his death almost in a single motion.

Death was instantaneous, prison officials said. Eichmann was condemned to death last December by a special three-judge tribunal which found him guilty of acts of unparalleled enormity against Jewish people and against humanity—the only crime subject to capital punishment in Israel.

The balding, bespectacled Hitler disciple had insisted he was only a minor cog carrying out orders from above in the Nazi campaign for "the final solution to the Jewish problem"—extermination.

request—to stop and blow his nose. Dressed in brown slacks and a brown shirt open at the neck, he mounted the scaffold by a single step and stood directly under the noose which was suspended over his head on a chain. His hands and ankles were bound with white cloth.

As the noose was fitted over his head, Eichmann half closed his eyes and looked downward at the floor. As the black hood was proffered, Eichmann said: "I don't need that."

Eichmann spoke his last words to a small group of officials, guards and newsmen gathered to witness the execution. "My belief was correct," he said. "After a short while, gentlemen, we shall all meet again. So is the fate of all men. I have lived believing in God and I die believing in God."

"Long live Germany. Long live Argentina. Long live Austria. These are the countries with which I have been most closely associated and I shall not forget them. I greet my wife, my family and my friends. I had to obey the rules of war and my flag. I am ready."

Eichmann, the father of four sons, was born in Austria, served Germany and hid out after World War II in Argentina. Eichmann's wife, Vera, was the only member of his family to see him in prison.

Moments before Eichmann stepped Thursday night on the black square marking the trap door, a guard shouted, "Muchan"—the Hebrew word for ready—and Eichmann disappeared from view.

"Jesus, Jesus," repeated the Rev. Mr. Hull, the only clergyman present.

Pilot Unhurt In Airplane Wreck Near Farmville

FARMVILLE—A pilot escaped unhurt from a light aircraft he was flying when the crop-dusting rig, on a check-out run, crashed into a field just west of here Thursday afternoon.

The plane came to earth shortly after 3 p.m. in the edge of a tobacco field on the farm of T. C. Turnage about a mile west of Farmville on the north-west side of U.S. Highway 264-A.

Damage to the plane, one of four crop-dusting units operated by Craft Spraying, Inc., here, was estimated at about $2,000 by Jim Craft, owner of the firm.

The Federal Aviation Agency branch in Raleigh was notified immediately. An FAA spokesman later notified Craft an investigation of the crash scene would not be necessary, Craft said.

Officials are exploring in other directions. They hope to learn if he has other safety deposit boxes and are seeking evidence for a court order to permit an examination of any and all such repositories.

Forbes Challenges; Second Primary Set

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

W. A. (Red) Forbes, second-place finisher in last Saturday's Democratic Primary, announced today he will challenge incumbent Rep. Frank M. Wooten in a run-off duel June 23.

Forbes, who nosed out Grifflon's Robert D. Wheeler by seven votes for second place last Saturday, said he would submit his written request for a second run immediately to Board of Elections Chairman D. S. Spain Jr.

In announcing his continued candidacy, Forbes said he has "a genuine desire to serve the people of Pitt County as representative" in the House.

He continued: "I feel that the 62 per cent of the voters who voted for either myself or Mr. Wheeler should be given an opportunity to express themselves again."

Forbes received 2,446 votes last Saturday to finish just ahead of Wheeler's 2,439. Wooten's 2,689 votes gave him 38 per cent of the total ballots cast, 7,874. The incumbent was 949 votes shy of a majority.

In the second primary, Wooten will pit his three-term seniority against Forbes, who is seeking his first elective office. The incumbent is seeking to retain the lone House seat left in Pitt following the General Assembly's 1961 reapportionment which reduced the county's lower house representation from two for the first time in its 200-year history.

Last Saturday, Wooten carried 15 of the county's 25 voting precincts in leading the ticket. Wheeler and Forbes divided Belvoir Precinct, 59-59. Forbes' column showed six precincts including a big majority in Winterville Precinct—and Wheeler carried three boxes, including Ayden, the county's largest.

Wooten received nearly half of Greenville's 2,967 votes in the city's eight balloting districts. He received a total of 1,455 in Greenville, including 387 of the 749 votes cast in Greenville 7, Pitt's second largest precinct. Wheeler and Forbes about equally shared the remaining votes in Greenville.

In the county's five most populous voting districts, Forbes carried two Winterville and Farmville, ranked third and fourth. He finished with 268 behind Wheeler's leading 335 in Ayden and placed third in Greenville 7 and Greenville 8, fifth largest precincts. Farmville's 647 votes were about equally divided (Forbes 219, Wheeler 215, Wooten 213).

In the Forbes column were Winterville, Greenville 1, Farmville, Chicod 1 and 2 and Arthur. Wheeler won Ayden, Grifflon and Grimesland 1. The remaining 16, except Belvoir, went to Wooten, including seven of Greenville's eight boxes.

Humphrey Urges Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., today urged a cut in individual and corporate income taxes "to strengthen the economy and the stock market."

3. A massive overseas selling campaign and immediate approval of the Foreign Trade Expansion Act.

"It will take more than expressions of friendship and cooperation from the White House and other areas of government to strengthen the market," Humphrey said in a statement.

Humphrey said that in addition to income tax cuts there should be immediate action on the investment tax credit designed to help business modernize its plant and equipment. This is included in the tax bill passed by the House but tied up in the Senate Finance Committee.

"What is needed is action," he said. "Delay by Congress or administration will bring further economic trouble."

Utilities Director Leonard Bloxam said the line is being extended now to provide water for construction purposes. Later Utilities crews will install sewer lines to the plant.

The Assistant Senate Democratic leader, who talked Thursday in New York with stock exchange officials and other financial leaders, proposed cuts of 2 to 4 per cent in corporation levies and 2 per cent in personal taxes.

Meanwhile, the recent gyrations of the stock market prompted Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, to ask Congress to approve a $750,000 investigation of the market by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

"Congress ought to know what influences the stock market and how these influences affect the health of the business and credit systems," said the Texas Democrat.

Tuesday's surging rally of the New York Stock Exchange continued Thursday and over the two days an estimated $20.8 billion was added to the quoted value of listed stocks. This more than made up Monday's $19.5-billion loss.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee Thursday the administration was not supporting any immediate income tax cut.

The Treasury has said, however, that such cuts probably will be proposed next year as a part of a tax overhaul measure which will include some provisions to increase revenues in other ways.

Humphrey proposed the tax cuts in a four-point program in which he also called for: 1. A commitment by government and private industry that unemployment will be reduced not more than 4 per cent of the work force. The rate now is 5 per cent.

2. A stepped-up and expanded public works program placed into operation at once.

Week May Tell Outlook In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expects to know within a week if a neutral government can be formed in Laos, removing the Southeast Asian kingdom from the cold war arena.

One box was uncovered in a Texas bank, authorities disclosed Thursday, but they said neither Estes nor his lawyers showed any inclination to let investigators check the contents.

He did not spell out the nature of the problems, but obviously was referring to a continuation of a drive by pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas to complete their conquest of the country.

Adopted Kitten May Take Up Barking, Too

ADOPTED KITTEN Blue, a four-year-old Beagle came home to Dan Owens after being away for two days. Somewhere along the way she picked up a kitten which she decided to raise along with her one puppy. The dog originally had five pups and another dog killed all but one. Blue's 15-year-old master said she usually runs cats, but this one seems to be an exception. Dan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. # Pioneer Heart Is Strengthened With Grandmother Carr's Bread

This is another of a series of articles by Mrs. Cornelius Vandervilt Whitney on life and cooking.

By MARY WHITNEY
Women's News Service

Grandmother Carr's parents were Welsh immigrants. Whether from Cardiff or Merthyr Tydfil, or from some far more sing-songable and unpronounceable hamlet in the hinterlands of Wales, this descendant remembereth not. Anyway, there's a Welsh strain in my crowded category of genes.

A small girl in a copious family of 12, Grandmother Carr came from northern Illinois to Missouri in that hot-rod of the prairies—the covered wagon. Whether she also covered herself with glory by helping load a musket to gun down marauding Indians, I do not know.

I do remember her telling me that her party of "tourists" was accorded great hospitality in the farmhouses en route. They all slept between clean-smelling sheets and devoured the fresh, wholesome bread — the staff of life for those weary pioneers. It was almost as good as taking out a card in the Diners' Club.

Grandmother Carr was another stunning beauty — what more could any granddaughter ask than to have two beautiful Grandmothers? In spite of her farm background, she entertained with a veritable taste and grace — a desirable homespun duchess presiding over her lovely bone china and glistening silver.

Here is her favorite recipe, a throwback to her pioneer days.

HOME MADE BREAD

- 1 1/2 packages active dry yeast
- 1-3 cup lukewarm water
- 3 cups scalded milk
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 4 tablespoons shortening
- 9 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Add yeast to lukewarm water. Do not stir. Let stand five minutes. Mix milk, sugar, salt and shortening, and cook to lukewarm. Stir milk mixture into yeast. Add flour gradually and mix until soft but not sticky. Toss dough onto lightly-floured board. Knead dough until smooth and bubbles are spaced evenly under the surface. Put in greased bowl; brush top with melted shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until double the size.

Knead again until satiny. Divide dough into three loaves and put in greased loaf pans. Brush with melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place until double in size. Bake 15 minutes in 425-degree oven. Turn loaves out immediately on rack. Brush the bread with melted shortening, to make crust crisper and handsome!

Here is bread, which strengthens man's heart, and therefore called the staff of life.

Matthew Henry My grandfather, Dr. E. D. Carr, was a Harvard graduate who became famous in the annals of Missouri. His ambition was to be a minister, but his family strenuously objected and wanted him to study medicine. Being an obedient son, he obliged them and obtained his degree of M. D., but grandfather became dissatisfied with his rigorous life as a country doctor, and went back to school to study dentistry. He became one of Kansas City's most prominent and affluent dental surgeons.

Grandfather Carr was proud of being a cousin of Mary Todd Lincoln and told many a sad story of that much-maligned woman's life—the furor she created throughout the country when she exceeded the $20,000 Congress allotted for the White House furnishings, and the more tragic tales of how William H. Herndon attacked her in print and on the lecture platform for her "spasmodic madness," also quoting her as having told him that "Mr. Lincoln is not a technical Christian."

Besides being an excellent raconteur, Grandfather Carr was famous for his trotting horses. One reason I am fond of the movie "The Missouri Traveler" is that trotting plays an important role in it.

A believer in hearty breakfasts ever since his boyhood days in upper New York State, Grandfather Carr doted on this particular dish to start the morning right.

How to make coffee the very best way.

Nonconforming Swimsuits In The Swim On Riviera

By IRENE FERRIS
CANNES, France—(WNS) —

This season when skirts are short, knees are exposed, arms are bare, necklines are deep and fabrics are transparent, a girl has to show more than bare flesh and curves to attract attention on French beaches.

"What you have to show is your originality," said swimsuit designer Therese Laroche. "You also should show some wit and impudence in the selection of your bathing suit."

Nudity won't shock, so young

Parisiennes bound for the seashore have been searching for what will. Thus there have appeared nonconformist suits that amuse, startle and puzzle, but that definitely don't bare all.

Favorites of the new crop are those that flutter, fly, flap and jingle. Among the oddities:

(1) The all-fringe suit. It consists of 12 rows of two-inch nylon fringe attached to a Helanca nylon mousseline foundation. On emerging from the water, the wearer dances the twist for seven minutes, shaking her fringe provocatively, and — "hop!" she's dry.

(2) The strapless black suit covered with out-sized white bouncing-ball fringe. This is shown with a black straw beret topped with one huge red pom-pom.

(3) Suits with swinging tassels attached here and there. Funniest perhaps is a one-piece affair in zebra print jersey with one tall-like tassel attached at the spine. Inconsistent as things French can be, it has a kangaroo-like zipper pocket in front.

(4) The "Hindu" swim-dress. It's a short, gold-bordered sari of sheer red nylon, over a red bra and bikini pantie of Helanca nylon.

(5) The Grecian tunic suit. Equally sheer, it's one-shouldered, gold-bordered and also worn over a Helanca bikini.

For wild women who get riled up in a mid sea, there are wild animal swimsuits. Jersey, nylon, satin, cotton, Helanca or velvet must be printed to resemble only the most savage of beasts to gain admission to the French Riviera Zoo.

Panther, zebra stripe, leopard, jaguar, cobra and crocodile are favored in prints. When it comes to genuine fur trims, a little mink on a velvet suit is very regal.

Queen Fabiola's penchant for white clothes trimmed in dark mink has inspired a swimsuit trend. Among these, the white satin suit with dangling mink tails manages to be both queenly and saucy at the same time.

Pert owners who have already gotten these suits wet report that mink takes to water like a beaver.

For shock fabrics, the best are considered to be velvet, leather, straw, lace and clan-plaid woolen. Gold and silver lurex, as well as iridescent fish-scale, are now considered too obvious and overdone.

Sillest suit of the lot boasts plaid suspenders to hold up its shorts, which are so low slung that they come up only to the hips.

Most "oo! la! la!" swimsuit is the "what is it, an undie?" It's a one-piece fragile affair of black nylon and black lace. According to Mlle. Laroche, it should be worn, if at all, with a sign reading, "It's not what you think, it's a swimsuit."

Use 1-3 to 1-2 cup lemon juice when you are making French dressing with a cup of salad oil. Add a little paprika to the flour, salt and pepper mixture in which you are rolling chicken pieces before frying. The paprika helps to give good color.

days, and co-ed activities weekly with Boy Scout Camp Tuscarora. ## Registration Open For Camp Traillee

Camp Traillee, operated by the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, a United Fund Agency, is open to all girls 7 through 17. Brownie and Girl Scouts may attend at a lower rate than Non-Scouts since they sell cookies to help maintain this camp.

Traillee is located just south of Goldsboro, 3 miles east of U. S. 117. It is situated on a beautiful hilly, wooded area surrounding a 2 acre spring-fed pond. The main lodge, just inside the entrance to camp, sits on a hill overlooking the cool, fresh-water pond. Here the girls eat all their meals and carry on part of their rainy-day and evening programs. Girls live in three units completely separated from each other. Each unit has screened cabins to accommodate 20 campers and four staff members.

One end of the pond has been set up by Red Cross and Girl Scout standards for swimming. All campers are given the Red Cross swimming test to place them in the proper area. Non-swimmers and beginners may take swimming lessons and advance at any speed they desire. Swimmers are taught water ballet and unison swimming in preparation for a water show put on each session.

Meals at Camp Traillee are planned by a qualified dietician to insure three well-balanced meals each day. In addition, drinks and snacks are available for afternoons or evenings.

Girls live in troop size units with girls their own age. Here, with the help of three counselors, they plan and carry out their own program through the Patrol System and Camp Council. Each girl is housed with at least one "best friend" and four or six others who will become best friends by the time they return home.

This year at Camp Traillee, girls may choose activities from the following available program: campercraft, hiking, cooking out, picnics, off-site overnights for Intermediate Scouts, swimming, volleyball, softball, horseshoes, nature crafts, basketry, knotting and braiding, beadcraft, nature trails, compass instruction and games, campfires, games, dances, puzzles, contests for rainy

The German florists have begun a campaign to encourage husbands to take flowers home to their wives once a month.

Designer Recalls Association With The Duchess Of Windsor

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-five years have passed since Mainbocher designed the wedding gown that has been called one of the most photographed, most copied dresses of modern times. Wallis Warfield Simpson wore it June 3, 1937 at her wedding to the Duke of Windsor, who had given up the British throne six months before to marry "the woman I love." She later gave the dress to the costume institute of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

"It was of interest at the time," Mainbocher recalls, "because it was a two-piece dress with a long, simple skirt and the first of the tops where the jacket is not supposed to be removed."

For the last 22 years Mainbocher has had his couture house in New York, and alone among American designers sells only to private clients. But back in the thirties when the royal romance was making headlines, he was a leading couturier in Paris.

"Mrs. Simpson had been my client for some time. When it came to the trousseau she asked me to make it, and also the wedding dress," he remembers.

Although the design was a closely guarded secret, a copy was spirited to the United States and put into production practically at the same time the vows were being exchanged at a French chateau. At first copies were relatively expensive, but soon the famous dress was showing up on the $10 racks.

The silk crepe was a special blue. "I named it Wallis blue, a blue of which there never was a sample available to anyone," Mainbocher comments drily. But the hue approximated by the enterprising American garment industry swept the country.

And a U.S. magazine pointed out at the time that the jacket's corseted insert and closing using tiny covered buttons was "a style note copied by many designers."

Mainbocher reminisced about those days. "She was staying with friends at a chateau near Tours," he said. "She didn't come to Paris at all. I sent a fitter down on Saturdays to spend the day fitting the trousseau. He went five or six Saturdays."

"I myself went down on the Saturday before the wedding to see her in the dress." The duchess-to-be must have been well pleased. The day before the wedding, a hectic time for most brides, she stopped long enough to send him a picture inscribed "to Mr. Bocher with my grateful thanks. Wallis Warfield."

By addressing him as Mr.

Bocher she was paying tribute to a fellow American. For the Chicago-born designer was christened Main Rousseau Bocher—the Main was his mother's Scotch family name and the Rousseau was contributed by his father, an ardent Francophile although he had never been to France. When he opened his Paris salon he discovered the French couldn't pronounce his name, so he ran it together and gave it a French pronunciation — "man-bo-shay."

Short, stocky, white-haired Mainbocher, who believes in dressing women to look like women, is visited by the duchess when she comes to New York, although he no longer clothes her exclusively. "She has always been a joy to fit," he says. "She can take a longer fitting at one sitting than most. She has fabulous energy and concentrates on what she's doing."

"She's cooperative. She stands so quietly. She doesn't intrude until the fitters finish their work."

Falkland Fire Dept. Fully Equipped For Big Role

FALKLAND FIREFIGHTERS . . . Volunteer firemen stand beside Falkland's new fire fighting unit which arrived last week and is now in service.

FALKLAND — The Falkland community has joined the ranks of Pitt County rural areas which have formed and placed in operation a fully equipped fire department.

A bright red truck arrived a week ago and has already answered its first fire call.

The truck was purchased with funds raised from the property owners who would be served by the department on an assessment basis. Total cost of the truck fully equipped was $4,000. A surplus truck was brought and then reworked and modified at a Rocky Mount firm which deals in custom-made fire apparatus for rural areas.

President of the Falkland Fire Department is Atlas Wooten, with J. F. Parker Jr., as Vice President and Ed Warren, Secretary-Treasurer.

Woodrow Wooten is chairman of the board of directors who direct the operation of the department. Members are from the various sections which the truck will serve.

Heading up the fire fighting will be Fire Chief J. P. Stancil, with Dick Harrill, serving as Assistant Chief and George Cates, department mechanic. The Falkland used the following formula for raising funds for the Commercial building, $10.00; main residence, $7.50; and buildings of tobacco barn size and up $5.00 each.

A number of years ago Falkland had a very destructive fire which burned a large portion of the community's business buildings. Since that time there has been interest in formation of a fire department but it was climaxed over the last year when interested community leaders pushed the movement.

The Falkland Department now completes area fire protection in the Western and Northern parts of Pitt County. Falkland joins the boundaries of the Belvoir, Fountain, Farmville and Red Oak Fire Departments.

Thus the only section of Pitt County which does not have planned fire protection is the section of NC 43 South of Greenville to the Craven County Lines.

Pitt Firemen's Association officials have been attempting to create interest in that section and have offered their services to any group interested in forming a fire department. Fire officials say that there is an acute need for at least two and possibly three departments along the NC 43 stretch. Effective rural fire departments should be located a maximum of five miles from points which they would cover.

Board of Director members of the Falkland department are Louis Smith, E. W. Wooten, F. E. Jones, J. D. Mercer, Joe Moore, R. R. Stokes, A. D. Leonard, Lewis Lawrence and Joe Duke.

Fire Training School To Start On Monday Night

The second annual Fire Training school sponsored by the Pitt Firemen's Association will start Monday night, June 4th.

More than 100 Pitt county firemen from both city and rural community fire departments are expected to attend the session. Roy Hardee, President of the Firemen's Association announced.

Chief Ed Hemingway, of the Station-House fire department is chairman of the training school which is being sponsored for the second year by the County Fire Association.

Hemingway said that fire instructors from the Greenville Fire Department will conduct the school which will include two nights of classroom work and two nights of field work. "We hope to climax each of the two weeks of training with an actual fire burning if possible."

Those planning to attend are urged to report to the Greenville Fire Department prior to 8:00 for class work. To receive credit for the course each man must attend all four sessions. Should he miss one session he will have an opportunity to make that meeting up on the following week providing membership is not too large.

"We would like for the department this year to send those men who have not had any formal training at previous schools to the first week on instruction," Hemingway said. Our goal is to see that every fireman in Pitt County receives proper fire fighting training at the schools held each year. A fire school lasting two weeks and a pump school for one week are now annual projects of the firemen association.

"We urge all departments to take part in the program of training and know that particularly our newer departments benefited greatly from the training last year, Hardee said.

Pitt County's fire protection has grown from five fire departments in a period of a few years to 15 at the present time.

Any department which has not fully formed as yet but is planning a community fire department is urged to attend the training sessions.

Some Value In Carpenter Film

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Prints which are usable for scientific study have been made by Eastman Kodak Co. from water-damaged movie film taken of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter during his three-orbit flight on May 24.

Kodak said Thursday that while new prints of the damaged film are not good enough for publication, they are "adequate for engineering evaluations."

The new prints were sent to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington. The film, taken from a movie camera trained on Carpenter inside his space capsule, was damaged when ocean water seeped into the capsule prior to recovery.

Funeral Saturday For E. C. Huband, Jr

WILMINGTON — Funeral services for Earl Carlton Huband, Jr., who died in a plane crash Wednesday night, will be conducted at 11 a. m. Saturday from the First Christian Church by the Rev. David L. Alexander.

Mr. Huband died in a South Carolina plane crash Wednesday. Four other persons died in the crash. He was enroute to Wilmington and was to take his family from there to Texas where he had been employed by the National Aeronautics Space Administration in Houston.

Mr. Huband was married to Elizabeth Brown Huband, formerly of Greenville. She attended Belvoir Schools and graduated from East Carolina College. Her mother, Mrs. Peter Brown, lives in Greenville.

Mr. Huband was born in Wilmington June 21, 1919. During World War II he was with the Army Corps of Engineers in Australia. He worked with the Engineers District office in Wilmington until he was recently employed by the NASA in Houston. He was an elder in the First Christian Church and a member of the Gideon Society.

They Will Live, Even In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — When you swing it, they live—Even in Moscow.

Benny Goodman's band souped up an old Cossack melody, "Meadowlands," with some good old Mississippi River sludge Thursday night and had young Muscovites hopping.

The American "king of swing" brought fans out of their seats and marching toward the stage—a gesture of a happy crowd in the Soviet Union.

A few firm volunteer police wearing red arm bands kept the enthusiasts in check but didn't try to put a damper on the gay festivities.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's stamp of approval, showing up at the opening concert the night before, put the audience in a relaxed mood for music they often had heard officially criticized.

The government brass stayed home Thursday night and the crowd of 5,000, including Soviet beatnik poet Evgeny Yevtushenko, let go.

Goodman was called back for 25 minutes of encores. At several points the audience began whistling—usually a sign of displeasure but this time clearly approval. Apparently they got the idea that whistling is what jazz lovers in the United States do when they want more, so they tried it.

Joya Sherrill, girl vocalist with the Goodman band who caught Khrushchev's fancy opening night, again was the big hit. She sang "Katusha" in Russian with an accent that would have brought blushes to a linguist—but the crowd loved it.

Seniors Attend Church In A Body

FARMVILLE — The senior class of H. B. Sugg High School observed fellowship last Sunday by attending St. Matthews Baptist Church as a group and later having lunch in the school lunchroom.

Immediately following the service, the 53 seniors and their parents were entertained on the lawn of the principal and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Mebane.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL — Daily Vacation Bible School in the West Greenville Presbyterian Church will be held Monday through Friday from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. for all age groups.

Phases Affect Us All

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Two phases of the Marxian Revolution affect all peoples today:

1. The Church—that is, the Marxist ideological concept and ritual which has been developed into a crusading Communism. This exists in all countries, Communist, Neutral, or Western.

The principal agency of this movement is the Communist Party which in a country such as Italy is still large in membership although Italy is an anti-Communist country. In the United States, this Party is very small.

Its indirect influence is extensive because many of its ideas have been absorbed both by the intelligentsia and the populace. For instance, there is no longer a capitalist country in the 19th Century sense. Everywhere there is some kind of mixed economy, the best example being the United States where there are not only numerous controls over the means of production and distribution but also a large number of government owned and operated enterprises.

There are many manifestations of Marxism but what concerns us most is the concept of Communism. And there are many types of Communism. For instance in Soviet Russia, Marxism is a socialism which employs many of the devices of capitalism. The more industrialized Soviet Russia becomes, the less "pure" are its Communist characteristics. What actually is happening there seems to be that an incentive system is producing a new type capitalist elite, similar to the American self-made men of the early 20th Century.

On the other hand, in Yugoslavia, there seems to be a wider division of the benefits of production, while in Red China, an effort was made to turn an anarchistic, patristic society, vestigially feudal, by a great leap, into a primitive Communist society.

Nowhere has Marxism succeeded in its major effort which is: by redistribution of the income from production and distribution to create a classless society. In fact, it may be said without contradiction, that the idealistic economic aims of Marxism are more manifest in such countries as the United States and Great Britain than in any Communist country where the standards of life remain contemptibly low.

2. The driving force of the Marxian Revolution has been an evangelical effort to convert the entire world not only to the economic and political forms of Marxism-Leninism but also to its basic sociological concept which is that man is a social product of the struggle for biological form and existence.

Out of this evangelical effort, which at first was propagandistic, then politically infiltrating, has developed an imperialism both political and military.

Soviet Russia has conquered a good part of Europe, becoming the successor to the Hapsburg Empire as well as to the Romanoff Empire. It took a large part of Germany from the Nazi Revolution. As the principal beneficiary of World War II, Soviet Russia conquered China and presented it to the Chinese Communist Party. It also developed a political enclave in the Moslem countries of West Asia. Its rise was so rapid and successful that a number of important European, Asiatic and African countries either became satellites or declared themselves neutral between the United States and Soviet Russia.

Red China, as I have already indicated in these columns, is moving imperially throughout East Asia, seeking to build an Empire as large as that of the Emperor Chienlung. The technique of Red China is to stimulate civil war within a country, to support one faction with arms, "volunteers" and money, and then to pacify the country by means of "advisors." The present wars in Vietnam, Laos, Thailand and Indonesia are examples of Red Chinese technique.

Cuba is another example of Soviet Imperialism. There never was a time when the Castro Revolution was not Communist. There never was a time that our government was not accurately informed that Castro, his brother Raul, Che Guevara and the principal men in the

An Arbitrary Figure Is Unrealistic

The decision of the Greenville Utilities Commission not to turn over an extra $75,000 requested for the city's general fund in the coming fiscal year is, in our opinion, a realistic approach to the matters of city and utility financing.

Several years ago a formula was adopted by which to determine the annual turnover from city utility operations to the city's general fund budget. Under this formula the city has received during the current fiscal year $156,667.05 from local utilities operation.

Prior to the implementation of this formula in the current fiscal year, the city had for several years received $150,000 for its general budget from utilities operations. In the budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1, the Utilities Commission, under the formula, is scheduled to pay $162,260 into the city's general fund. This will represent a $12,260 increase over the turnover two years ago.

At the time the formula was adopted to govern the annual turnover from the Utilities Commission to the city's general fund, it represented a much more business-like method of determining the annual amount than just arriving at an arbitrary figure from one year to the next. The formula still represents a more business like approach to the matter.

If, in the opinion of city officials, the formula by which the annual figure is arrived at is not realistic, then the formula should be studied with a view to revising it. But to go back to the old method of just taking an arbitrary figure each year for the Utilities Commission to pay into the city's general fund would be a backward step indeed both for the city administration and for the local Utilities Commission.

The formula takes into consideration the city's tax structure and includes an item paid by the Utilities Commission in lieu of taxes on the value of its property. It also takes into consideration the amount invested in the gas and electrical departments of the Utilities operations.

On the basis of the formula the annual turnover from the Utilities Commission to the city's general fund will increase as local utilities facilities are expanded. This of course, must come with the growth of the city.

Arriving at the annual turnover figure on the basis of a sound and realistic formula is much better for both the Utilities Commission and the city administration, than just taking a figure out of the hat each year at budget time.

We trust that both the Utilities Commission and the City Council will continue to abide by the formula in the interest of both the city and the utilities operations and the citizens of the city as a whole.

Continuing Goal For The Column

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
BEGINNING—At the outset it is proper to set down resolves, chart a course and define some goals. In this case, it was done a long time ago.

It will be a continuation of a column of wide interest and appeal, a column that has been a fountain of facts and information which appeared in North Carolina's newspapers for more than a quarter of a century.

It is and has been dedicated to truth, a word which an old English professor in college contended was one of the four most beautiful words in the language, and which certainly is one of the most meaningful.

It is hoped that the column may always be interesting and never lousy nor without perspective.

It is the intent of the column to observe and report the trends and the changes, and those things that resist or withstand change, to tell about North Carolina, its people and its way of life.

It will range from the State Capitol and new Statehouse, from Fayetteville street in Raleigh and Trade and Tryon in Charlotte to the byways and even the backwoods — an entire panorama of North Carolina.

CATCHING UP — Around Capitol Square. There were many who supported and voted for the statewide Sunday blue law of the 1961 General Assembly who privately had doubt that it would stand up in a court test.

What buoyed the hope of its proponents was that it was patterned after a Pennsylvania statute which had been upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court.

But there were some differences and when less than a year later the State Supreme Court handed down its decision it had found some fatal flaws.

The court found the statute too vague about what could and could not be considered items necessary for making repairs and performing services. It contained provisions which were not defined clearly and which thus were open to legal question. If not specific it was in effect not enforceable.

The court did recognize the right of the state and subdivisions to regulate trade and commerce in the public interest. Blue law proponents, including N. C. Merchants Association are now expected to take one or the other of two courses:

—Seek the adoption of stricter, stronger local ordinances to regulate merchandising on Sunday, thus carrying out the local option provisions of the statewide statute, or —Ask the 1963 General Assembly to enact a new, more specific statewide statute.

RALEIGH IN FOCUS — The new Statehouse is nearly 75 per cent complete and will be ready for the General Assembly next winter. The roof is on and interior work will be started shortly.

It will command a view which not only includes the Capitol and a complex of state government buildings, but also a produce firm's warehouse and sheds, old houses which once were in the residential heart of Raleigh, a car wash establishment and the smokestack of a new state central heating plant. In idle moments, the lawmakers may also gaze out on Raleigh's Downtown Boulevard, a block away. This is, by traffic count, the busiest traffic artery in the state — at least during peak hours of going and coming by the thousands of state employees who work in the Capitol area.

This distinction of being the busiest street or highway in the state is open to dispute — and has been disputed. The boulevard itself is new, in terms of being built only three years ago. But already it is described as outmoded, inadequately and poorly planned. It takes a horrendous turn in and out of the state government complex, entering and leaving the "old" streets of downtown Raleigh which were laid out at straight right angles during the planning of more than a century ago.

The statehouse itself is plopped in the middle of what formerly was Halifax street. It is thus an attempt to extend the plan of Capitol Square several blocks northward, taking in the old houses, a freight loading station and other places that fell. That part of Halifax street left between Capitol and Statehouse may soon be just a memory, too — there is a move to convert it into a mall.

Taking A First-Hand Look At The Prospects

It's encouraging to note that the State Highway Commission is undertaking a study of east-west roads in the state without hiring an outside firm for the job and without attaching the word "toll" to the highway study.

The State Highway Commission and the Sanford administration obviously have not abandoned consideration of making a major east-west highway a toll road. At the same time the administration appears to have shifted from the former position that such a highway could be constructed only on a toll road basis. This, we view as progress in the right direction.

For many years there has been a great need for a major east-west highway across the state. The need grows more acute with each passing year. It is evident, we think, that filling this need must not depend solely upon the feasibility of making such a highway a toll turnpike.

By undertaking the study with its own engineers, the Highway Commission will acquire data needed without going to the extra expense of hiring a private firm whose study would be based on the idea of a toll road. Once the highway personnel has completed the preliminary study, the Commission may give further consideration to the toll idea if it desires. At the same time, the study will provide a basis for also considering building a major east-west highway on a non-toll basis in keeping with the traditional policy of North Carolina.

It is our hope that the Highway Commission and the administration will make every effort to build a major east-west highway North Carolina so desperately needs and do it without imposing tolls for use of the highway.

You Never Know In Dizzy World

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Trouble goes double, up is down, and opposites look alike at a dizzy time in a dizzy world where you meet yourself coming back.

Moscow took a gleeful look at the downspin of the New York stock market and announced the sharks were swallowing the sardines. But Red China was having the worst economic trouble in the history of communism.

It was in trouble with food, factories and fugitives. And Republicans who complained President Kennedy was throwing his weight around too much were talking of wanting him to do something about the stock market.

Billie Sol Estes, the big wheeler and dealer from Texas, got his hands so tangled in Agriculture Department business that Secretary Orville Freeman said Wednesday he is reviewing everything "upside and down."

But Russia was having trouble with some of its manipulators, too. In Moscow three apple operators were sentenced to death for double-dealing with middlemen.

In his speech on behalf of medical care for the aged Kennedy asked people to write to Washington, apparently thinking the tide would wash his way.

But he hasn't said much since about the letters he got and there's some indication the letter-writers are not all on his side at all.

The Western allies are pulling, hauling, hemming, hawing and dickering to get their Common Market set up for better trading. But Premier Khrushchev is screaming it's all a plot to hurt communism.

American aid in Viet Nam seems to be stopping the pro-Communist guerrillas but right next door in Laos the pro-Communist guerrillas seem to be pushing right along and may swallow the country.

In Geneva the Russians one day agreed that a declaration condemning war propaganda was a very fine thing, and badly needed. Five days later they did a switch-around and backed out.

The Red Chinese let refugees from their present chaos flood into nearby Hong Kong by the thousands, almost as if they didn't know about it. Then suddenly they closed the frontier and stopped the flood.

Wednesday Khrushchev, on his way to hear Benny Goodman's jazz band in Moscow, said he wasn't on his way to listen but just on his way to drink some beer. Instead of beer he sent Goodman a note of cheer.

And the French, those unpredictable of the 20th Century, did something that even shocked themselves.

Their high military tribunal let Gen. Raoul Salan, leader of the Secret Army murderers in Algeria, off with a life sentence but sentenced to death his next-in-command, Gen. Edmond Jouhaud.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS EVERYWHERE

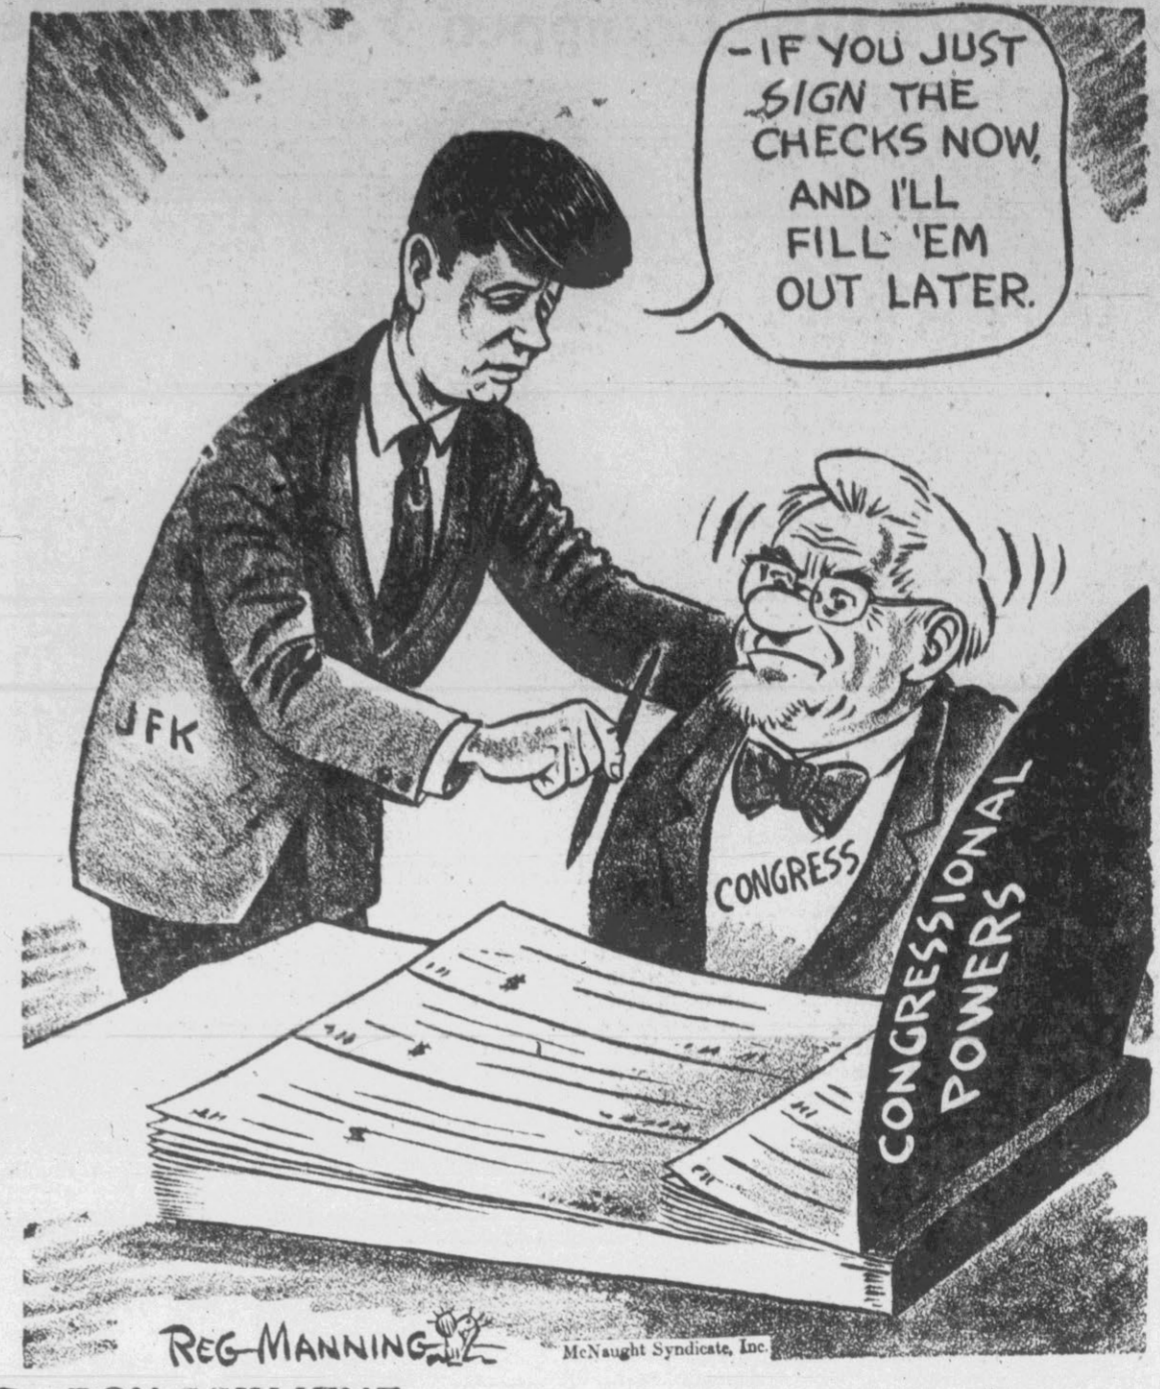

It took the people of the world, and especially of the United States, weeks to get over exclaiming about John Glenn and his exploit. Especially everyone was impressed by John Glenn himself. His modesty, his penetrating sense of humor, his generosity in ascribing to others the major part of the praise due his great achievement.

He made one interesting statement about religion. "To try to limit God to one particular section of space is very foolish," declared Glenn. "He'll be wherever you go."

This was not only the word of a scientifically trained astronaut but the word of a fine and humble young Christian believer brought in a devout home and committed with similarity and completeness to the requirements of his faith. How foolish it would be for us to try to limit God within some section of space. And, as a matter of fact, what is space? Our telescopes rove the heavens and see a little area which probably can be compared to a square mile on a great continent. In one little section — this celestial area our lives are lived. Are there others living out on planets circling about those distant stars? Probably. Will we ever communicate with them? That, of course, opens up even more exciting possibilities than John Glenn's biblical achievement.

But God is out there. He is here. He is in the heart. He is on the earth. He is in the highest heaven and throughout it.

An Opinion Of 25 Years

A thundercloud of thought, induced by reports of consideration given to introducing the "beanie" at East Carolina College, has been hovering somewhere near the borderline of conscious and subconscious mind.

Initial reaction, based on personal experience, could be summed up in two words: Freshman Beware!

Sadly I remember the beanie ordeal, and mourn for all good freshmen thrust back into the dark ages of higher education.

In this, his critical feeling-out period at college, when anonymity and a degree of inconspicuity are to be desired, the beanie-wearing freshman is a marked man. His personal sensation is roughly equivalent to being lit up with neon lights . . . blinking, too.

Smiling sophomores (traveling in packs) waylay the poor lamb to dutifully instruct on such topics as humility, courtesy, status and school spirit.

Contemplation of such deadly important subjects as "where is room 309?" and getting to a dining hall in plenty of time is disrupted, distracted and diverted into a limbo of chaos.

I would not say the little cap invites hazing; but the humble wearer unaccountably becomes adept in identifying sophomores at 100 paces.

Of course on every campus there must be sophomores; but beanie-wearing freshmen become in time prone to question the premise. And even today, 25 years after wearing a beanie (we called them "rat caps" then), I look on sophomores with suspicion.

A sympathetic proof of that

Other Editors Saying Climate That Counts

(Richmond Times Dispatch)
The stock markets of the United States often are described as a "mirror" of the nation's mood, but the image leaves a good deal to be desired.

Over the long haul, the market of course will give an accurate reflection of economic conditions, but nothing in the wild fluctuations of the past week should be taken as proof that the country was in despair on Monday and in raptures on Tuesday.

A dozen significant factors played a part in the market's dizzy dive. Analysts have been warning for weeks that many stocks were overpriced in terms of a company's dividends or assets. Investors who had bought on an assumption of continued inflation were, due for a fall.

Foreign influences played an important part once the rout was on. Margin requirements became critical, as banks and brokerage houses sent out weekend calls for cash. And as every market observer has remarked, fear breeds on fear like mold on a piece of cheese.

The other side of that proposition is that hope breeds in the same fashion, and yesterday's avalanche of buy orders suggested that the wild bear market had passed and a bull movement was on. Over today's holiday, major investment houses doubtless are continuing the determined effort they launched at noon yesterday to develop an upward counter trend.

But why did all this happen in the first place? Why did sound stocks tumble with their weaker sisters? The primary answer, in the view of most experts, lies in the one word, climate. When the business climate is good, the market holds firm; buying is selective and trading volume moderate. But when the climate is uneasy, one or two thunderclaps and a sudden cold wind can create a panic.

Lately the climate has been most uneasy. It was not the steel crisis alone that caused this, though steel stocks have suffered heavily in the debacle. It was an accumulation of many things: Senator Kefauver's hounding of the drug industry, a rumor that Federal regulation might require some "health label" on tobacco products, threats of new anti-trust proceedings, dissatisfaction with the Administration's gestures of tax relief. There were tiny straws in this wind: In February, for an astounding but typical example, the Federal Trade Commission solemnly charged Topps Chewing Gum, Inc., with illegally monopolizing the baseball picture card industry.

Contrary to the public policy of the United States and to the detriment of free and open competition.

Well, the rains came, and investors fled, and the picnic was ruined. Yesterday a bright and steaming sun appeared anew; but one does not have to be a trained market analyst — one needs only a capacity to read the news from Washington — to know that the climate remains most unsettled. And it will take some powerful work by the weatherman in the White House to persuade the customer that prolonged sunny skies lie ahead.

Opinion On Economy Recalled

By ELMER ROESSNER
Gratulations of the stock market focuses new attention on an opinion of the economy delivered about two months ago by Dr. Roy L. Jenkins, former president and chief economist of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York.

Dr. Refelson, to be sure, did not forecast the market's decline. In fact, he said it was then too early to anticipate a turn-to lower levels of economic activity as a whole. He did, however, warn that the lower backlog of orders may be reducing the momentum of business activity and lead "more rapidly than heretofore to a general business sag."

The banker-economist blamed the huge pile of individual-individuality, and labor policies and government policies.

NO R. ERVE SPENDING POWER
The rise of personal indebtedness, which reached $270 billion by the start of this year, "has left the public with less of a credit reservoir out of which to augment its purchasing power and to support economic expansion in the early sixties."

"In the past decade, the proportion of such debt to personal income after taxes, rose from 45 per cent to about 75 per cent. Its expansion was accelerated by public policy, especially in the field of mortgage financing.

General economic and labor policies since the thirties must share some blame for unemployment, he said. "While higher pay and shorter hours at one time may have contributed to broader consumer markets, the more conspicuous result in the present environment is higher unemployment."

FEATHERBEDDING CUTS OPPORTUNITIES
He said policies directed toward full employment and successively higher minimum wage rates have reduced individuals' incentives to develop their skills and have accelerated the substitution of machinery for manpower. "Finally, the economy is honeycombed with restrictive labor practices that add to production costs and thus limit the ability to broaden markets and job opportunities through lowering prices."

"While sales prices can no longer be raised with ease and have in some cases been reduced to hold markets, labor costs continue upward, although not as rapidly as a few years ago. Pressures on profits have been especially conspicuous in transportation, notably the railroads and the airlines, and in the durable goods industries, thus adding to the deterrents against dynamic investment spending.

"Clearly, the rise in unemployment, the squeeze on profit margins, the lag in investment activity and the slackening in economic growth are not unrelated developments." Dr. Refelson went on record April 6, speaking at the annual business conference at Indiana University.

GOVERNMENT WOULD PENALIZE THINGS IT DOES ITSELF

Arnold Saxe, chairman of the government affairs committee of the National Restaurant Association, has made an interesting point. The government is seeking to limit business deductions for travel and entertainment. But, he pointed out, the government is one of the biggest spenders for travel and entertainment — and it does it with tax dollars, too.

"There's nothing wrong with good-will entertaining," he said. "It is an American tradition. It is part and parcel of doing business in our great country and one of the reasons why American business is so far ahead of other countries."

Christ Speaks to the Churches ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 1:8; 11:25-29; Revelation 1-3.

The last words of the risen Christ to His disciples before His ascension were, "And ye shall be My witnesses both in Jerusalem . . . and unto the uttermost part of the earth."—Acts 1:8.

This evangelism was being practiced well some 15 years later at Antioch, large and fast-growing city. When Barnabas had taught the Christians there all he knew, he brought Paul to the city.—Acts 11:25-26.

When a prophet named Agabus warned of severe famines to come, the Christians at Antioch voluntarily decided to establish a relief fund for their fellow-Christians in Judaea, which would suffer more.—Acts 11:27-29.

Later, the ascended Christ revealed Himself amidst seven lampstands (churches), carrying seven stars (the churches' spirits); he commended each for its good works, condemned it for the bad.—Revelation 1-3.

GEN TEXT: Revelation 3:20.

Christ Speaks to the Churches CHRIST'S LAST MESSAGE BEFORE HIS ASCENSION AND HIS LATER MESSAGES THROUGH THE HOLY SPIRIT TO SEVEN ASIAN CHURCHES

Scripture—Acts 1:8; 11:25-29; Revelation 1-3.

By N. SPEER JONES TODAY'S lesson concerns evangelism. This is evident in our opening selection, in which the risen Christ gives what was probably His last message to His disciples before His ascension. It is both a command and a prophecy; His disciples shall be His witnesses—that is, they shall evangelize the world. The Greek word which is translated "witness" is "martus" from which has come our word "martyr." Originally it meant one who testified at a trial. As so many Christians who thus testified about what they knew and had observed of Christ, were rewarded with death, the word changed to its present meaning—one who dies for a conviction. Our next selection (Acts 11: 25-29) occurs about 15 years

Looks Forward To College Role

CHICAGO (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, in Chicago for a 19-day crusade for Christ, says he is looking forward to the day when he can return to Christian education work in a small college. "I don't know when the last crusade will come, but I do know these years of the revival have taken a great physical price," Graham said Thursday. "I don't seem to have the reserve, the strength that I used to have." The North Carolina evangelist, 43, added "I'm tired of traveling and I'd like to be home with my family." "Beyond this, my heart is centered upon Christian education work, and that's why a small college is so appealing to me," Graham was quoted as saying. Northwestern College in Minneapolis from 1947 to 1952. Some 25,000 persons attended the second night's meeting of the crusade in McCormick Place. Approximately 200 persons made "decisions for Christ," bringing the two-day total of decision makers to about 650. Graham told the revival rally that man cannot achieve the salvation of the world by the solitary means of his intellect. He said the United Nations cannot, alone, save the world and added that President Kennedy's efforts to have this nation led by the top minds available are not sufficient to prevail against sin. "Man's intellect has been affected by sin," he said. "Man cannot come to Christ intellectually, alone." "No doctor of philosophy, no matter how educated he is, can understand the Bible on intellect alone. Sin has weakened man. It has broken down his resistance and he must return to God to acquire the faith which will make the knowledge in here (the Bible) comprehensible."

Red Oak Christian Announcements

The Rev. Wilbur Wallace, Director of Church Development for the Christian Churches of N. C., was guest speaker for the Red Oak Christian Men's Fellowship Sunday night. Mr. Wallace announced that the CMP Retreat would be held at Camp Caroline August 18-19. He then presented a talk on "The Holy Land" using slides he took while visiting there in 1960. Our summer schedule begins June 3 with Sunday school from 9:45-10:40 a.m. and Morning Worship from 10:45-11:30 a.m. All of our members and friends of the Greenville area will note this change of time. "Atlantic Christian College" Day will be observed at Sunday's 10:45 a.m. worship service with Professor Eugene G. Purcell, Jr. as guest speaker. The Rev. Purcell teaches in the college's Department of Religion and Philosophy. He received his A.B. and B.D. degrees at Duke University.

Astronaut Back To Mundane Job

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP) — Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who only one week ago orbited the earth three times, Thursday got down to the more mundane task of looking over his mail. "There was lots of it waiting him in the office at his old space training grounds he shares with America's six other astronauts. Carpenter, absent from here for a month, flew in from Denver late Wednesday night with his wife, Rene, and their four children.

Sokolski . . .

(Continued from page four) Castro Revolution were Communists. And so a Marxist state was established in Cuba and it followed the general pattern of Marxism everywhere. Therefore, one of its first functions has been the evangelical one of seeking to establish Marxist states throughout the American continents. The question that needs to be considered is upon which form are we to concentrate our opposition, the Church or the Empire—Soviet Russia, Red China, Jugoslavia, Cuba. Should the Empire fall, the Party will wither on the vine.

Moose & Tobs Both Win In Tarheel Doubleheader

TAR HEEL The Tarheel League played a doubleheader yesterday with the Exchange and the Moose meeting in the first contest. The Moose scored in the fifth inning to provide the winning margin 2-1.

In the first frame, John Lautares led the Moose as he gained first base on an error. Lautares came in to score as he circled the bases on wild pitches.

Exchange came back to tie the game as they tallied one run on one hit, two walks, and an error. Billy Taylor led the inning off with a double and was advanced to third by a sacrifice bunt.

Exchange was unable to tally in the next two frames, however they loaded the bases in the bottom of the sixth. With two outs, Glenn Nichols, Drake, and Fred Mallory walked to load the bases for Exchange.

However, the next batter hit a sharp grounder to first and was out on an unassisted play by the first baseman.

Winning pitcher, H. T. Wainright struck out two, walked six, and allowed one run on one hit. Dave Springett, the losing pitcher, struck out four, walked one, and gave up two runs on three hits.

Today, Exchange meets the Elks in a single game at Elm Street Park. The game is scheduled to begin at 4:30. At Guy

Smith Park, Coca-Cola plays the Optimist in the first game of a double-header. In the second contest, Kiwanis meets the Jaycees. The first game will be played at 3:00 with the second game immediately following.

Greenville Tobacco Company won their third game of the season yesterday as they defeated Pepsi Cola 9-4.

Greenville Tobacco Company opened the scoring in the bottom of the first frame as they tallied four runs on no hits, four walks and four errors. Jimmy Bond the first batter, walked to bring Billy Calloway to the plate.

Calloway hit a ground ball which advanced Bond to second on an error. Bond came in to score on a wild pitch and Billy Calloway moved to third.

With two outs, Kim Calloway reached first safely on an error which scored Billy Calloway. Doug Jones and Joey Pridden followed with walks to load the bases. Alvin Hathaway followed with a hard hit grounder which was bobbled by the Pepsi Cola team to allow Kim Calloway and Doug Jones to score.

Pepsi Cola rallied in the third, fourth, and fifth innings to collect four runs on four hits. This was not enough as the Tobs continued their scoring to pick up runs in the second, third, and fourth frames.

Losing pitcher, Ray Cannon struck out three, walked twelve, and allowed nine runs on four hits. The Greenville Tobacco Company pitching staff struck out eight, walked seven, and gave up four runs on eight hits. Jimmy Bond was the winning pitcher with Bob Fleming and Joey Pridden sharing the relief duties.

The Jaycees defeated Texaco yesterday by a score of 9-4 to gain their third win of the season.

In the bottom of the first inning, the Jaycees opened the scoring as they tallied one run on three hits. Dew Forbes led off the frame as he singled to bring Cleve Branch to the plate.

Branch also singled to move Forbes to second. With two outs, Mike Harrington doubled to drive Forbes across the plate with the first run of the contest.

Texaco returned in the top of the second to tally two runs on one hit, two walks, and five errors. Ronnie Eggers and Herbie Bunting led the frame off as Eggers walked and Bunting singled. Both boys later came in to score on errors by the Jaycees.

The Jaycees were not to be outdone as they went on to score eight additional runs throughout the remainder of the contest. Texaco fought hard, but they only scored twice more and this was not enough.

The winning pitcher was Ronnie Leggett while Bobby Hardy was credited with the loss.

This afternoon features a double-header at Guy Smith Park. Coca-Cola meets the Optimist at 3:00 with the Jaycees and Kiwanis immediately following.

Roebuck Wins For Dodgers

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody gave up on Ed Roebuck except Ed Roebuck. Counted out at least three times and placed on the disabled list from April 1 to Sept. 1, 1961, the veteran right-hander is the key to the Los Angeles Dodgers' bullpen.

When the Dodgers stretched their winning streak to 11 straight Thursday night with a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets and moved within one half game of the league-leading San Francisco Giants, Roebuck was the winning pitcher.

Roebuck hadn't pitched more than 3 2-3 innings at any one stretch until he worked five Thursday night. He allowed only one hit but finally had to let Ron Perranoski mop up after two walks and an error by Larry Burritt loaded the bases with none out in the ninth.

Sheer guts is the only way to express the way Roebuck fought his way back to the active list, breaking down the adhesions behind his right shoulder by constant toil. He worked out at the Arizona Instructional League last winter and also threw to the Dodgers' farm kids.

"The more I work the better am," he said. "I think I am throwing better than ever because I am throwing overhand. I was disappointed that I didn't finish. There is no more pain in the shoulder."

Walter Alston, the Dodger manager, admits the doctors gave up on Roebuck last year. "If Roebuck hadn't bounced back the way he has, we would have had to carry two or three kids on our roster to protect the bullpen," Alston said.

Surprising Reds On The Move

Annual Jaycee Golf Tournament June 8

The local Jaycees will sponsor their annual junior golf tournament the weekend of June 8 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The tournament is open to all boys who will not reach their 18th birthday prior to the National Jaycee Tournament which is scheduled this year for Aug. 20-25.

Local Tournament Chairman Jack Whichard has announced that all boys who wish to take part in the event are to sign up at the pro-shop with Harold Thomas prior to the opening day of the tournament.

The Greenville tournament is a 36-hole medal play affair with 18-holes on Friday and the final round on Saturday. The four lowest scores will represent Greenville as a team in the State Jaycee Tournament in Kingston July 23-24.

From these the four leading North Carolina golfers will compete in the national event in Huntington, W. Va.

Of the four boys that represented Greenville last year two are expected to be among the top contenders again this season. They are Wally Howard, the recent junior club champion, and Charles Vincent. The other two members of last year's squad are Bobby Thomas and Jimmy Moyer. However, they will be out of the running this year as both have passed the age limit.

The winner of the local tournament will be presented a trophy by the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company.

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer It's still the powerful San Francisco Giants and the dazzling Los Angeles Dodgers bunched at the top of the National League. But the surprising Cincinnati Reds, who took it all last year, are on the move.

The Reds clicked again Thursday, beating Milwaukee 7-4 behind steady pitching by Bob Purkey and resurgent slugger Frank Robinson. Purkey became the majors' first nine-game winner with a seven-hitter and Robinson had a double and a decisive three-run homer.

The Dodgers won their eleventh in a row as they pinned the 11th loss in a row on the New York Mets, 6-3, on a three-hit pitching job by Joe Moeiler, Ed Roebuck and Ron Perranoski. Philadelphia's Art Mahaffey trimmed the Giants 2-1.

The results left the Giants with a mere half game edge on the Dodgers and the Reds.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh won its fifth straight 5-4 over St. Louis and Houston whipped Chicago 10-6.

In the American League, Cleveland boosted its lead to a full game by overcoming Baltimore and Robin Roberts 4-3. Detroit crushed Chicago 13-5 and Kansas City edged Washington 1-0. The other AL clubs were not scheduled.

Purkey, a 16-game winner for Cincinnati last year was tagged for a homer with one on by Hank Aaron in the sixth and yielded two more runs in the eighth.

Robinson's double got off Carl Willey in the third and he powered Cincinnati into a 7-2 lead in the seventh with his homer, which followed singles by Don Blasingame and Marty Keough.

The Dodgers played even with the Mets until the sixth, when Larry Burritt broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run triple and scored on a sacrifice fly. Roebuck allowed just one single in his five-inning stint but came out in the ninth after the Mets loaded the bases. They managed one run before Perranoski slammed the door.

Mahaffey stymied the Giants with speed and control before wavering slightly in the late going. He was nicked for two singles in the eighth, then was finally reached for a run in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's triple and Felipe Alou's single with one out. The Phils collected four of their six hits and both their runs off lefty Billy O'Dell in the first.

Bob Friend ended a string of five losses with ninth-inning relief from Elroy Face and Diomedes Olivo as the Pirates nipped the Cardinals, Friend, now 5-6, and Dick Groat batted in two runs each and Bill Mazerowski's homer proved the winner.

The Pirates rapped Curt Simmons for six of their nine hits and routed the St. Louis left-hander in their two-run second. Lindy McDaniel went the rest of the way for the Cards.

Carl Warwick supplied the ninth-inning clincher for the Colts with a two-run single and Jim Pendleton applied the crusher, a three-run homer. The victory went to Don McMahon. Don Elston was the loser.

Ken Hubbs, Ron Santo and Lou Brock homered for the Cubs, with Brock's giving them a 6-5 lead in the seventh.

Legion Team Is State Board Clears To Open Tonight

Greenville's American Legion baseball team travels to Rocky Mount tonight for their 7:45 p.m. opener and will return home Saturday to host Raleigh in Guy Smith Stadium at the same time.

The opening contest tonight will begin the third season since the league was resumed in Greenville after a long lay-off.

Leading the local club on the mound tonight will be Garland Little of Ayden as the team takes on the defending champions.

The team will be coached by Ray Pennington, an assistant football coach at East Carolina College, and he will be aided by Pirate baseball coach Jim Malory.

The club has attracted high school baseball stars from the area, some of whom are the cream of the prep crop. Some of the top performers are All-East stars Wayne Britton of Robersonville, James Braxton of Winterville and Bruce Biggs of Bath.

Britton will probably start in right field, Biggs in centerfield and Braxton will most likely be held over to pitch in the home

State Board Clears Way For Shrine Bowl

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The State Board of Education has cleared the way for continuation of the annual Shrine Bowl all-star high school football game at Charlotte.

The North Carolina board gave its official sanction to the contest Thursday, but indicated that any additional post-season games involving high school athletes would be looked on with disfavor.

A new regulation passed by the board will permit post-season all-star games only when sanctioned by the high school athletic association to which the school belonged.

In the case of an interstate game, such as the Shrine Bowl which matches North Carolina and South Carolina teams, sanction would be required from the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

The regulation was worked out and approved by an advisory committee on athletics. Any student who participated would lose further eligibility in the sport involved. In effect, it would limit seniors to post-season competition.

Under the new regulation, other present all-star post-season high school games can be continued as long as they are approved by the athletic associations concerned.

Deacons Take On Florida Tonight

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Wake Forest and Florida, winners of Thursday's first-round games in the NCAA District 3 baseball tournament, collide here tonight.

An earlier game (1:30 p. m.) matched first-round losers West Virginia and Florida State. Two losses eliminate a team.

The final game of the night matches the winner of the West Virginia-Florida State game and the loser of the second game. The three-game slate was set up when Thursday night's two scheduled games were rained out.

Florida lefty C. W. Price and FSU's Larry Hawkins hooked up in a pitching duel Thursday, each allowing just four hits, but a walk and a triple by Tom Moore gave the Gators a 1-0 victory.

A four-run seventh inning splash, sparked by a relief pitcher with a .111 batting average and a catcher hitting .225, gave Wake Forest an 8-3 decision over the Mountaineers.

A single by Deacon catcher Pat Williams, and a double by reliever Bob Biddix, started the rally and sent West Virginia's Tom Shafer down to his second loss of the year. He's won nine.

Shafer gave up four hits and seven runs in 6 1-3 innings. The victory went to Biddix, who's now 5-2 for the season. He relieved Bob Muller, who gave up six hits and three runs in six innings. Biddix allowed just two hits over the last three innings.

The Deacons' first three runs came in the fourth inning without a hit when Shafer walked three batters and was walked with two wild pitches. An error also figured in the scoring. Two of West Virginia's three runs came on a homer by Rod Thorn, WVU basketball star, with a man on base.

Florida's run was scored when Al Lopez Jr., son of the Chicago White Sox manager, drew a walk and scored on Moore's triple.

The Seminoles loaded the bases with two out in the second, but couldn't score. They threatened again in the ninth when two men reached base, but again Price put out the fire. Price now has a 7-3 record, and Hawkins is 3-3.

Durham Blanks Winston-Salem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Timely hitting and effective pitching paid off again Thursday night for the Carolina League's front-running Durham Bulls.

Southpaw Kenny Pate hurled a seven-hitter as Durham blanked the faltering Winston-Salem Red Sox 8-0 at Durham. The victory was Durham's 17th in the last 19 games and increased its league lead to 3 1-2 games. It was Winston-Salem's 12th defeat in the last 14 starts.

Raleigh rallied for six runs in the seventh to defeat Kinston 13-10 in a free-scoring affair that was marked by three big innings. Raleigh scored five runs in the second and Kinston five in the seventh.

Rightfielder Bob Tano led the attack with two home runs as Wilson defeated Rocky Mount 9-7. Tano homered with one on in the fourth and banged a solo shot in the eighth.

Rain caused postponement of the Burlington at Greensboro game. Tonight's games: Burlington at Greensboro (2) Raleigh at Kinston, Rocky Mount at Wilson and Winston-Salem at Durham.

Promoters Hope For $5 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—Promoters of the Floyd Patterson-Sammy Liston heavyweight championship fight in Chicago Sept. 25 predict it will bring in gross revenues of more than $5 million.

The fight will be staged in Comiskey Park which has 46,500 permanent seats, plus 10,500 temporary seats that can be added. Tickets will range from $100 down to $10, all on a reserved basis, but the biggest slice—an estimated $4 million—will come from closed circuit television shown in theaters across the country with Chicago blacked out.

The estimate on gross revenue—the money received before expenses—was made by Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc., the promotion syndicate handling the fight.

He predicted the bout will "dwarf all other fights in history from a financial standpoint and from a performance standpoint."

Champion Patterson will receive 45 per cent of the live gate and 55 per cent of the ancillary rights including radio and television charges. Liston will receive 12 1/2 per cent of the live gate and ancillary rights with a $200,000 guarantee. Championship Sports will receive the remainder.

The two fighters will come to Chicago in two or three weeks for formal contract signing. The major details of the bout were settled Thursday and approved

Baseball's Civil War Could Erupt Again

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The civil war of baseball could break out all over again tonight when the Giants return to their old Polo Grounds naughts to meet the new tenants, the Mets.

The Met, New York's new National League entry, tangled with old Giants in San Francisco last week for the first time. They are still talking about the feuding and fussing.

Roger Craig, the ex-Dodger who pitched for the Mets, touched off a wild uprising in Candlestick Park Sunday by hitting Orlando Cepeda of the Giants with a pitched ball.

Cepeda started to charge the mound but was persuaded to take first base. A few seconds later when Ello Chacon got into a tuss with Willie Mays at second base, Cepeda and Craig went at it.

The only disciplinary action taken by the league office was a $100 fine to Chacon for his part in the brawl.

With the Giants returning to the Polo Grounds for the first time since they left in 1957 and a full house of 50,000 plus expected, it was natural that Craig would draw the pitching assignment against Billy Pierce.

"I hold no grudge against Cepeda or anybody else," said Craig after Thursday night's game with Los Angeles. "The only feud that I have is that I want to beat them."

"Look, we've lost 11 straight. All I want to do is get us out of it. I usually pitch pretty good against the Giants."

How about Cepeda? Does he crowd the plate?
"No, he stand off pretty good," said Craig. "You know the way I pitch, working on the outside corner. When some of those batters crowd me and take away that outside corner, I have to protect myself. I never threw at anybody to hit them yet."

Detroit Tigers Have Moved To Within Two Games Of Loop Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
AL KALINE is out with a broken shoulder, Frank Lary, a 25-game winner last year, has one victory. Batting champion Norm Cash and slugger Rocky Colavito are hitting .238 and .235, respectively. And the Detroit Tigers have moved within two games of the American League lead.

How've they done it? With key contributions from the slowly reawakening C boys—Cash and Colavito, and with outstanding performances from players such as infielder Jake Wood, outfielder Billy Bruton and pitcher Paul Foytack.

The trio combined Thursday as the Tigers won their 10th in 12 games by belting the Chicago White Sox 13-5.

Foytack, who had been relegated to the bullpen at the start of the season, ran his record to 4-1 since being restored to the starting rotation when Lary was injured.

Cleveland upped its first-place edge over the idle New York Yankees to a full game by beating Baltimore 4-3. In the only other game scheduled, Kansas City blanked Washington 1-0 behind Jerry Walker's six-hitter.

In the National League, Philadelphia edged first-place San Francisco 2-1. The Los Angeles Dodgers won their 11th in a row, 6-3 over the New York Mets. Cincinnati whipped Milwaukee 7-4. Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 5-4 and Houston drubbed the Chicago Cubs 10-6.

Backed by the slugging of Wood who drove in five runs, and Bruton who drove in four, the Tigers had little difficulty with the White Sox, although Foytack had to have relief help in the seventh. Foytack gave up six hits before Ron Kline took over. Don Zanni (2-2), first of four Chicago hurlers

Sweet-Talked Into Safe Driving

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts motorists are being "sweet-talked" to safety.

Motor Vehicles Registrar Clement A. Riley says accidents on Boston's Southeast Expressway have been reduced more than 90 percent since he assigned two pleasant young officers to patrol the route.

The personable motorcycle officers never resort to the time-worn demand: "Where do you think you're going, to a fire?"

Their approach is more like this: "Good morning. I hesitated to stop you, but I thought I should for your own safety and that of others. You're traveling a little too fast. Won't you please reduce your speed and observe other safety rules?"

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger in fast driving. Have a happy trip — and good luck."

Detroit Boat Races Canceled

DETROIT (AP)—The sponsors of the only two major powerboat races scheduled for the Detroit River canceled both races Thursday.

"We cannot possibly raise the $18,000 which is necessary to stage the race and furnish the prizes," said the Detroit International Regatta Association.

The races, scheduled Aug. 25-26, were the Detroit Memorial and the Silver Cup.

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

CHAPTER 11

"How did it go with Big Blue?" Ira Pendleton asked his daughter.

"All right," Julie lied. "He still needs a lot of work, but he'll do."

"I understand Mr. Jeffries was so worried about you he borrowed one of our horses and went after you."

"Yes, that's why he rode out," Ira regarded her closely. "Your clothes look as if you took a spill."

"Not a very serious one."

"I'm glad that. Aren't you going to ask me what I did about Casey Jeffries?"

"Should I?"

"Well, if you regard him as a friend—or you did—"

"I'm not particularly interested, Dad."

"Which means you are, so I'll tell you. I telephoned Claude Barton and told him Casey was claiming he's Claude's nephew."

"She quickly sat down beside him. "What did Mr. Barton say?"

"Ah—it does mean something to you. Claude said it was very interesting and he admitted he felt as if he really were Casey's uncle."

"But he didn't say he was?"

"How could he, Julie? I pressed him and you know what? He hung up on me. Oh, gracefully enough, but he ended that conversation abruptly. I don't know what to think."

"Then why bother, Dad? I called Casey on it and he admitted he claimed blood relationship with Mr. Barton because it might advance him socially. Perhaps in a business way too, though I haven't the foggiest idea what his business is."

"Frankly, I don't like it, Julie. A strange young man who is remarkably reticent about himself showing up so conveniently when you needed him."

"I think," she said firmly, "we can forget all about Mr. Casey Jeffries. We parted on an unfriendly note. I doubt he'll be back and frankly I don't care because I haven't time for him. After all, I'm going to be married soon. I've a million things to do."

"Let's win the Derby first, Julie. I'd give half my stable to trim Britt's father, Templar might do it. There's a chance, though nobody seems to know much about Lorne Fabian's entry. I know they've raced Lysander out West, but not around here."

"There's been so little written about him in the sports columns or the racing magazines. They're keeping him well under wraps."

"I've seen no motion pictures of any of Lysander's races and there's been practically no publicity about him, though I know he lost several races to horses I'd consider inferior."

Julie nodded. "It would be just like Lorne Fabian to deliberately lose a few races and win only enough to get Lysander into the Derby."

"It worries me," Ira said. "You don't keep a fair-to-middling horse so secret. He has to be very good and I'm afraid Lysander is. Does Britt talk about him?"

"Only to boast how he'll beat Templar. He's awfully sure of that horse."

"Templar can beat the rest of the field, I'm sure. The Morgan colors have Lazy Luck, a very good horse, but Templar is just a little better. I wish I could compare Templar to Lysander, though."

Julie touched his cheek fondly and rubbed the faint stubble of beard. "Even if Lysander wins, it will be all in the family. Though Britt will be absolutely impossible with his bragging for a long time after the race."

"Ira looked at her keenly. "I'm worried, baby."

"Don't be, Daddy. No race is worth it."

"I'm not thinking about the race. It's about you."

"Me? Why should you worry about me?"

"For a moment she wondered if he had, somehow, heard the true story of her spill off Big Blue."

"Your eyes don't shine when you talk about Britt and the man you're going to marry."

"Of course they do," she said indignantly. "Anyway, that's no indication of how I feel. And if you think they shine when I speak of Casey Jeffries, it's because I'm so darned mad at him for the way he lied—"

"I know, I know," Ira said with a mild chuckle. "What you're better do, young lady, is get ready for the dance tonight. Which reminds me—Britt phoned and asked if you'd mind driving over yourself. He's tied up, it seems, with the party and the race—"

"Dad him!" Julie said. "How can I drive over there all dolled up in that new gown of mine? It's as big as a hoopskirt—"

"I'll drive you over."

"Thank you, Daddy. Why don't you join the party? Just horn in. It's been done."

"No, Julie. If Lorne had asked me, I'd be glad to go, but I wouldn't even accept Britt's invitation if he gave me one. But you have a good time. I'm sure you will. Stubborn as Lorne can be, he does put out a good Derby party every year."

"I think this feud between you two has reached the silly stage," she said. "You've got to end it. Otherwise how can I marry Britt?"

"If you marry Britt, it will end. I promise you, Julie. Even if I have to make a public apology for something I didn't do, I'll cooperate in every way, but only if you marry Britt."

"Dad, I told you, I do intend to marry him."

"Your eyes didn't shine."

"Oh—" she exclaimed and then she laughed at him, hugged him and fled to the house. It was late and there was still so much she had to do.

Della had heard the news, of course, and while Julie bathed, Della pattered about, mumbling half approval, half disapproval. Julie's iridescent green taffeta gown, specially ordered for the party, hung on the door. A violet stole of the same crisp taffeta lay on the bed. They were the racing colors of the Pendleton stable.

Della placed Julie's green evening gloves and purse alongside the stole, then took it upon herself to speak up. "What about this new man, Julie honey?"

"Do you mean Casey Jeffries?"

Della smiled broadly. "Now who else would I mean?"

"Why, Della, you've never even met the man."

"I've seen him," Della replied promptly. "And the stableboys been talking plenty in the tackroom. They say he never takes his eyes off you."

"That's a lot of nonsense," Julie said.

"And I watched him myself when he was here this afternoon. I didn't need glasses to see what he thinks about you."

Goldwater Said Feeling Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new political biography of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., pictures him today as feeling he would have a good chance at winning the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. And it suggests he might take a stab at it if the GOP's prospects look bright.

In any event Goldwater is said to believe the party's conservative wing, for which he is the chief spokesman, will hold the balance of power at the next GOP national convention.

"I am reasonably certain that the Republican presidential nominee in 1964 will have to accommodate the conservatives," Goldwater is quoted as saying in "Mr. Conservative: Barry Goldwater," published today and written by Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer.

In suggesting he might throw his hat in the ring in 1964 if he thinks he has a fighting chance, the Arizona senator cited the historical precedent that the incumbent president—President Kennedy, in this case—always has the inside track the second time around.

He says he doesn't think Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential candidate, or New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller would run in 1964 if Kennedy "looks good" at the time.

On his own chances, Goldwater says: "I think my strength would lie in the South, the Middle West, and the Rocky Mountain West. Certainly, I wouldn't have great strength in the big states like Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, and New Jersey. But I would have some in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio."

Rise In Assault Cases Expected During Summer

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover warned Thursday the approaching vacation season is expected to bring an increase in sexual assaults and murders.

"According to established seasonal trends, forcible rape will rise approximately 16 per cent above its annual average during the next several weeks," Hoover said in his monthly message to law enforcement officials.

He said murder and aggravated assault are expected to climb 12 per cent each and a similar increase is expected in attacks on children.

The FBI director said the closing of the school year adds an extra burden to the important roles of parents and guardians in protecting children.

He said parents should warn children to avoid secluded spots, refuse rides and reject gifts from strangers.

Perplexed Moo From Rooftop

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Susie the cow spent several hours on the roof of Castleberry High School and greeted Principal Joy James Thursday morning with a perplexed moo.

James said Susie, a 30-pound Holstein was looking mournfully over the side of the two-story building. Susie was lowered by ropes—apparently the same way she got to the roof.

James said he had caught several boys and Susie on the school grounds Wednesday night. But, he said, he took the cow, locked her in the football stadium and sent the boys home.

.... this year his pockets are full!

.... because last year his tobacco crop paid more than ever before. And the reason behind the extra money in his pockets is the Gastobac Curing System in his barn.

With a Gastobac gas-fired curing system, he cured out his tobacco crop at low temperatures leaving greater weight in the leaf. Valuable oils and gums weren't cooked out. His tobacco earned more because it was heavier-bodied with richer aroma.

He actually worked less to earn more. Gastobac automatically cured out at the temperature this grower set. This left extra time to do other things. This year, why don't you cure the safe, profitable, easy way—with Gastobac gas-fired curers.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Reacting from the gains made in its big recovery, the stock market pendulum swung lower early this afternoon in heavy trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.60 to 223.90, with industrials off 2.30, rails down .70 and utilities 1.10.

By ordinary standards it was a substantial loss but it was trivial compared with the wide swings made earlier this week.

Key stocks fell from fractions to 1 or 2 points. The volatile "growth" stocks and other high-priced issues took losses ranging to about half a dozen points.

Volume in the morning swelled to 2,320,000 shares—a big figure but far below Thursday's morning total of 3,710,000.

The ticker tape ran as much as 19 minutes behind transactions, then began to catch up gradually. At the comparable time Thursday it ran 42 minutes late and grew progressively later until it was one hour and 55 minutes late at the close.

Generally, the biggest gainers in Thursday's upswing were the losers today, and there seemed little discrimination about the selling.

A T & T sank 2 1/2 to 111 1/2 and then widened the loss slightly.

As trading wore into the afternoon, IBM and Xerox were off about 6. Polaroid 5, Litton Industries more than 4.

Steels, motors, utilities, rails, tobaccos, drugs, chemicals and most other groups joined in the sell-off to a greater or less extent.

Jones & Laughlin was down about 2. Losses of a point or more were taken by U.S. Steel, Ford, International Harvester, Zenith, Union Carbide, Lorillard, Merck and others.

Du Pont was ahead nearly a point. Texaco and United Air Lines held fractional gains.

As the ticker tape showed less of a lag, most key stocks moved up a bit from their lowest prices.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.07 at 608.29.

Prices worked lower in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were steady to a bit lower. U.S. government bonds held firm.

Agronomy Class Visits Seed Farm Operation

A 15-member N. C. State College agronomy class visited the seed farm operation of Brantley Speight near Winterville Thursday afternoon.

Headed by Dr. Jim Lewis, professor in crops, and Dr. D. A. Miller, soils professor, the group was in the second day of a planned six-day tour that will carry the agriculture students from the Coastal Plains to North Carolina's mountains.

Speight and his aide, Charlie Davis, conducted a tour of the seed farm operation during the late afternoon. Speight treated the group to a 6 p.m. barbecue supper at his home.

Among guests for the stop at Speight's farm were Pitt County Agent S. C. Winchester and the county's tobacco specialist, S. J. Weeks. Accompanying the students was E. F. Goldston of Raleigh, a top state agriculture specialist.

The class arrived at Speight's farm about 4 p.m., then remained in Greenville overnight before traveling to Duplin County today and returning to Raleigh tonight.

The entire tour included a Wednesday visit to the Elizabeth City area after stopping off at Wilson and Rocky Mount.

Monday the students will begin their western swing which will carry them as far as Statesville by Monday night. Tuesday's itinerary includes Iredell County, Asheville and Waynesville. After remaining in Waynesville overnight, the students' tour will carry them back to Raleigh by about noon Wednesday.

Dr. Lewis explained the purpose of the tour program, an annual activity for State agriculture students: "By actually visiting various agricultural areas in the state, our boys can see many things in progress that are very difficult to cover in the classroom."

Class Addressed By Rev. Edge

GRIFTON — "Imperative Choices" was the subject of the baccalaureate sermon delivered by the Rev. William Edge, pastor of Grifton Christian Church, Sunday to members of the Grifton High School senior class.

The Rev. Mr. Edge stated that no person is without a purpose and that it is up to the person to decide or choose whether he will let "God use us or not." He urged students "To have love for Christ and believe in the power of God and the right choices will be made in our lives."

Mrs. Sue S. Branch was pianist and accompanist for the Glee Club, who presented special music. Mrs. Alma Buck is glee club director.

The invocation was said by the Rev. W. I. Wolverton Jr. and the benediction by the Rev. Irvin Adcock.

Senior class sponsor was Mrs. Helen T. Nixon. Mascots were Donna Sue Casey and Gerald Cox.
