Redevelopment Group Housing Body Unfettered

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer. City Councilmen last night they have no control over the actions of the Public Housing Authority or the Redevelopment Commission.

The announcement came after a question from the audience regarding the straw vote held in May of last year on the issues of public housing and urban renewal.

When councilmen asked Lee if, in fact, this was true, he replied, "yes." "They can build houses without our permission," he emphasized.

Carver Library Bids Approved

Low bids for the new George Washington Carver Library received approval last night in action taken by the City Council.

On a motion by Councilman Dr. Ralph Brimley, approval was given to bids totaling $43,407 for construction of the new George Washington Carver Library and contracts were awarded the low bidders.

Councilmen also approved a petition to curb and gutter a two-block section of East Wright Road, from Slay Drive to Umstead Ave.

Councilmen said work could be started on the project as soon as payment is made by the property owners.

City Attorney R. B. Lee was instructed to advertise the plot for annexation to the city as soon as possible.

Commenting on Dr. Wooten's appointment, Dr. Trevathan said "I would like to commend you for appointing Dr. Wooten. He is a good man and I would like to commend his appointment."

laws of North Carolina as corporations, independent of the City Council.

Councilman Jimmy Lee, commenting on the lawyer's statement, said, "Up until tonight I thought we had the final say," then asked if the two bodies could be dissolved by the City Council.

Attorney Lee replied, "It cannot be dissolved," noting once more that the council has no control under state law.

Both Councilmen Brimley and Aldridge said they felt if this approval was final approval of the authority, it was not intentionally misrepresented by Howard.

Then, Mayor King said he thought the Authority would request Council approval of their plans before any project is undertaken.

The discussion was then closed. Action was again postponed on the annexation of Stratford Subdivision, addition 3.

Last night a motion to take the subdivision in without the required curb and gutter was made by Councilman Jimmy Lee but the motion failed to receive a second.

On a motion by Councilman Brimley, a committee including one city councilman and the city engineer was approved to meet with representatives of the subdivision and work out a solution to the problem.

One committee, including Mayor King, Councilman Aldridge and City Engineer Holliday was appointed to study a change in the annexation and paving ordinances of the city.

In his remarks, Mayor King suggested that the ordinances be changed so that a subdivision could be brought in without requiring the paving and curb and gutter first being installed.

Councilman Aldridge, noting he could see no advantage to the proposal, said, "what if it will amount to is a large part of the city will be dirt streets if we change it back. This is where we were a few years ago. If other cities have it they are not as advanced as we are."

Familiar Tragedy Again Enacted

AT DROWNING SCENE . . . 12-year-old youth's body recovered from farm pond.

Boy Loses Life Thursday In Pitt Farm Pond

AYDEN — A 13-year-old Ayden boy drowned in a farm pond about two miles from here yesterday afternoon.

The sheriff said young Edwards was swimming with two other boys on the farm of Gene Smith, south of Ayden. The other two youths were identified as Robert Jones, Negro and Don Braxton, a 13-year-old white youth, both of Ayden.

The boys told officers that Sammie got in deep water and when they saw he was in trouble they called to him to stay above water. They threw a board in the pond, but Sammie was unable to reach it.

Greenville and Ayden rescue squads were called to the scene and the body was recovered about 6:30 p.m. The drowning was believed to have occurred around 2 p.m.

FAA Endorses 24 New Airports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-four North Carolina cities and towns are among 514 sites recommended by the Federal Aviation Agency for new airports.

N.E. Halaby, FAA administrator, submitted to Congress Thursday a five-year "national airport plan" estimated to cost about $1.135 billion.

The plan also recommends improvements at 2,613 existing airports. Halaby said these changes are needed to relieve congestion at other airfields.

Foreign Aid Limit Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has voted a $4.7-billion ceiling on foreign aid spending next year—just about what President Kennedy requested.

But there's evidence Congress intends to slash away at the aid program before it finally provides the money that may be spent.

Wednesday the Senate voted 57 to 24 to bar foreign aid to such countries. But, with heavy pressure from the White House and Democratic and Republican leaders, the Senate retreated Thursday and voted 56 to 34 to exempt gifts and sales of surplus food.

It still left the ban on any assistance under the foreign aid bill itself, including 310 million in economic development loans the administration had programmed for Yugoslavia next fiscal year.

Only a short time later administration forces succeeded by the narrow vote of 45 to 40 in rejecting an amendment by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., which would have denied foreign aid to countries which export arms or strategic materials to Sino-Soviet bloc countries, including Cuba.

It carries authority for $600 million for fiscal 1963 for the Alliance for Progress program in Latin America and $800 million for each of the succeeding three years.

In addition it authorizes $1.5 billion for military assistance and $1.25 billion for economic development loans outside Latin America, authorized last year.

Neither of these items were subject to reduction in the authorization bill but likely will be the targets for sharp cuts when the appropriations bill comes up.

Award $327,000 To Duke Univ.

DURHAM (AP)—The National Science Foundation has awarded Duke University an additional $327,000 for research and training in biological oceanography.

The funds bring to $945,282 the amount the Foundation has made available for the program since last spring, according to Dr. C. G. Bookout, director of the Duke Marine Laboratory at Beaufort, who made the announcement.

Pitt County Welfare Director J. S. Grimes was elected president of the North Carolina Association of Directors of Public Welfare at a meeting this week in Raleigh.

Grimes has been with the Pitt County Welfare Department since 1958 and has been its director for the past three years. He just completed a year as vice-president of the state association.

In commenting on his election Grimes said, "It is a very distinct honor and I am most pleased at having been elected. It is our purpose to join hands with the County Commissioners Association and all others who are interested in order to provide, as far as practical, the necessary services for North Carolina citizens."

As president Grimes will be working with the association's allied organizations such as health and school and with the legislature. The office also calls for setting up various committees to carry out the work of the association.

Since he has belonged to the association Grimes has served on many committees and other appointed offices such as public relations.

A 12-year veteran of welfare work, Grimes is a graduate of Wingate Junior College, received a political science degree from the University of North Carolina

Bladen Lakes Area Offered Air Force

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford offered Bladen Lakes State Forest to the Air Force today as a site for a practice bombing range in eastern North Carolina.

The Tactical Air Command at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base has been trying to locate a practice range near Lake Mattamuskeet, a Hyde County hunting area.

By suggesting the Bladen Lakes site in a telegram to Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert, Sanford sought to resolve a year-long controversy.

Several members of North Carolina's congressional delegation, the 1961 General Assembly and the Wildlife Resources Commission have been vehemently opposed to the Hyde County proposal.

They have contended it would be detrimental to hunting in the area. Bladen Lakes Forest is a 36,000-acre tract in Bladen County, about 65 miles south of the Seymour Johnson Base. It is operated as a forest management area by the State Conservation and Development Department.

The Hyde County site consists of 32,000 acres, about four miles northeast of Lake Mattamuskeet. Air Force officials said recently the range would not hurt hunting there. They said the practice bombs have an explosive force of an 8 gauge shotgun shell with the pellets removed.

They added that all assurances would be given to protect wildlife and the range would be shut down during the peak hunting season.

During the controversy, Sanford has been considering the possibility of offering an alternate site. In his telegram to Zuckert, he said he recognizes "the importance of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base to North Carolina."

Sanford suggested that Zuckert direct Air Force officials to contact State Conservation and Development Director Hargrove Bowles about the Bladen Lakes Site.

NC Revenue Up Over Estimates

RALEIGH (AP)—The pace-setting income tax, with one month to go, already has taken in $5.2 million more than the 1961 legislative estimate for the current fiscal year.

State Revenue Commissioner William Johnson predicted Thursday that total state tax collections for the fiscal year will run $20 million over estimates.

The estimate for the income tax was $136.5 million for the year. It already has amounted to more than $141.7 million, Johnson noted. When the fiscal year ends June 30, he added, income tax collections likely will have exceeded estimates by $11 million.

Johnson made his comments in releasing the monthly revenue report, which showed May collections of $43 million, compared with $35.4 million for the same month last year. The May figures included $32.8 in general fund collections, and $10.2 million in the highway fund.

For the fiscal year to date, the general fund has collected $341.7 million. The legislature, in preparing the state budget, estimated collections of $343.5 million, for the year.

The general fund took in $19.7 million last year, the commissioner said. He predicted the same month this year will do well enough to push the total collections $20 million over estimates.

During May, the income tax amounted to $11,999,999. This compared with $7.2 million a year ago.

At a news conference earlier this week, Maj. Gen. J. H. Moore of Seymour Johnson said Air Force officials had inspected all prospective sites between Virginia and Georgia, and the only one up to standards was the Hyde County location.

Moscow Renews Berlin Threats

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union warned the Western powers today it will not permit West Berlin to continue as a base for what it called "revengist and militaristic circles."

A note to Britain, France and the United States threatened that "The Soviet Union will not hold the position of a disinterested observer and, in case of necessity, may be compelled to take the needed measures to fulfill its commitments to the (East) German Democratic Republic," which is an ally of the Soviet Union.

The notes added: "The Soviet Union cannot allow West Berlin to be used continuously by revengist and militarist quarters for purposes hostile to the cause of peace and to remain one of the dangerous sources of tension in the heart of Europe."

The notes were delivered to the British, French and U.S. embassies Thursday, but published only this evening.

They were the toughest statements the Russians have made recently on the Berlin problem. Issuance of the notes followed lengthy conferences here between Premier Khrushchev and East

Germany's Communist leader Walter Ulbricht.

"The intensified intrigues of the revengists and militarists in West Berlin prove once more how ripe the task of normalizing the situation in West Berlin and for elimination there of the occupation regime," the notes said, meaning withdrawal of the Allied garrisons.

The notes said the incidents had the character of "openly aggressive actions," adding, "They are clearly directed and organized by the hands of those who are trying to provoke a serious sharpening of the situation in West Berlin."

The British Foreign Office confirmed the receipt of the note without commenting officially on its contents.

A spokesman said the communication is under close study.

Probers Told Of $400 From Estes

WASHINGTON (AP)—James T. Ralph, former assistant secretary of agriculture, testified today he received two $100 money orders from Billie Sol Estes last January and his assistant, William E. Morris, got two more—a total of $400.

On the heels of this testimony, Robert E. Manuel, dismissed Republican counsel to the House subcommittee investigating the Estes case, charged that numerous others also received such money orders—including some members of Congress and at least one "very high ranking administration official."

Manuel said Morris has a list of those who received the money orders.

Manuel, fired by the subcommittee Thursday for giving a confidential Agriculture Department report to a newspaper reporter, came out fighting today.

He issued a statement that the subcommittee's investigation "is being distorted—and the truth suppressed" and then held what amounted to a news conference to comment on the day's hearings.

One of the assertions in Manuel's statement was that an Agriculture Department employee had told Manuel that Estes tried to pressure him by invoking the names of the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, but that Johnson's name never came out when this man testified publicly.

Ralph testified that when the money orders came in the mail he asked Morris what they were for, and Morris replied he thought they were for tickets to a $100-a-plate Kennedy inaugural anniversary dinner to be held soon in Washington.

As Ralph put it, "Estes made a contribution of $100 to the Democratic National Committee through me."

He said he endorsed one of them to the California Democratic committee, and one to the national committee. He said Morris took the money orders to the committee headquarters and got the dinner tickets, which were given to Estes.

Ralph said there was no letter of transmittal with the money orders, just two square $100 money orders in an envelope with Estes name on it.

"Because I didn't like this sort of thing," Ralph added, "I had my assistant write a memorandum to the secretary" about it. He meant Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

He said he did not talk with Estes at any time about the money orders, but saw him at another table at the dinner later that month.

Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., asked why he did not send the money orders back to Estes. Ralph said the thought was in his mind that somewhere in the Post Office Department would be "unexplained money orders with my name on it and with Estes' name on it."

He said it was his and Morris' best judgment that they were meant for dinner tickets and that they handled it that way.

Asked by Fountain why Estes didn't make his contribution directly to the national committee, Ralph said, "I can't explain Mr. Estes' actions."

Mary Carolyn Barnes Chosen Pitt County Dairy Princess

Mary Carolyn Barnes of Winterville was crowned Pitt County dairy princess last night in competition held at Agnes Fulleove School.

The winner will compete in the area contest to be held here next Friday night. She was sponsored by the Remston-Nobles Home Demonstration Club.

First runner up in the Dairy Princess contest was Leila Dennis, sponsored by the Canons Home Demonstration Club, and second runner up was Joyce Norville, sponsored by Fountain Home Demonstration Club.

Miss Barnes, a 1962 graduate of Winterville High School, plans to enter East Carolina College this Monday for first session of summer school. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Barnes of Rt. 1, Winterville, she is 17 years old.

She was a member of the Beta Club. She attends Missionary Baptist Church.

Among the new queen's hobbies are swimming, reading, and beekeeping. She is a former state 4-H Club winner in beekeeping.

Miss Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dennis of 1002 W. Second St., Greenville, is also a 1962 high school graduate. Miss Norville is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Norville of Rt. 2, Farmville, and a sophomore at Chowan College.

Miss McLawhorn, as 1961 princess, made her farewell address during the evening and later performed a dance routine with her escort, Tommy Manning. In entertainment of the new queen and her court.

Dr. Paul L. Holt, dean of East Carolina College; and Miss McLawhorn.

Mrs. Ted Bissette, the former Betty Lane Evans of Greenville and a former Miss North Carolina was director of the pageant.

Ralph Tucker, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, was master of ceremonies, and Alton Gardner, music leader for Pitt County home demonstration clubs, directed music. Ercel Webb of Carolina Dairies gave the welcome. Dr. Joe Pout, area chairman of the June Dairy Month Promotion, made remarks.

Ushers were Burney Baker and Charles McLawhorn and officia hostesses were Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, mother of the 1960 princess, and Mrs. Perry McLawhorn mother of the 1961 princess.

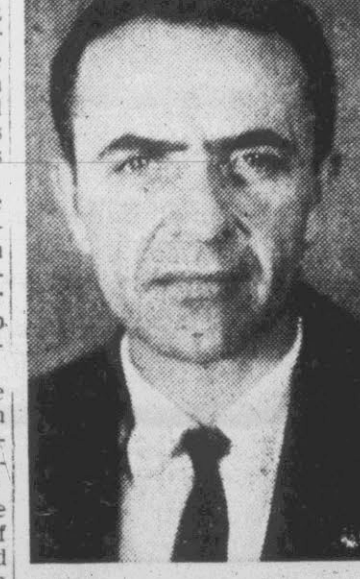

Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics agent of Pitt County, was chairman of the event, and Charles Alfred Forbes was co-chairman.

"The dairy princess pageant is an annual event of June Dairy Month, which will also feature the area dairy princess contest next Friday night and a dairy breakfast on Saturday morning.

'Richest Woman' Wilhelmina Jazzing Up Dutch Exchange

By MARGARET ANDERSON
AMSTERDAM — (WNS) — Former Queen Wilhelmina is reported investing heavily to support stock prices on the Amsterdam bourse, one of the world's major stock exchanges.

Holland's former queen is credited by the financial community here with being a major force supporting the Dutch stock list. On her own initiative, it has been learned, Wilhelmina began buying a week before the New York Stock Exchange's "Black Monday" sell-off.

Wilhelmina, 84, stepped up buying as the shock wave of the New York market break hit the Continent. Working with officials of the Amsterdam bourse and government financial experts, the former ruler has continued buying as market developments dictate.

It is probable that the mere fact the former queen is buying has a much greater psychological effect on the market than the volume of her investment (which is reported in the millions of dollars).

For Wilhelmina is believed to be the richest woman in the world, with a fortune estimated at $600 million. She is a modern Hetty Green without a distaff peer.

While the astute dowager might conceivably construe it as her duty to help rally the sagging Amsterdam bourse, few financial authorities here believe this is her overriding consideration. For Wilhelmina amassed her fortune by the shrewd purchase of stocks considered worthless — at a time when they were out of fashion and badly depressed in price.

Early in her financial career she was regarded as a profligate whose market "plunging" should be placed under royal restraints lest it involve the public purse. However, Wilhelmina used her own money, then sat on her investments until they hatched handsome profits.

Wilhelmina's fiscal felicity is all the more appreciated in The Netherlands because by now it belongs to the national legend. Every Dutch schoolboy learning bourse basics begins with the story of Queen Wilhelmina and her investment in Royal Dutch Petroleum.

The queen started shoring most of her royal paycheck in the then almost worthless shares of Royal Dutch, whose prospects were at their nadir. But Wilhelmina believed Royal Dutch would succeed in a big way, and her confidence never flagged over the years as she continued buying shares.

Wilhelmina's money was invested early in other struggling Dutch companies which since have boomed to blue-chip status, including Unilever N.V. and Philips Lamp Works.

It is understood here that Wilhelmina, in addition to buying heavily on the Amsterdam bourse, has also been buying Dutch stocks — Royal Dutch, Unilever N.V. and KLM — on the New York Stock Exchange.

The former-queen retired in 1948 after 50 years as a ruling monarch — but she didn't retire from business. Aside from tending her investments, Wilhelmina operates a hotel and a restaurant near the palace where she lives in Apeldoorn.

She keeps the books herself, and she insists that both establishments operate in the black. "I am a businesswoman now," she likes to say, "and the test of business success is profits. I try to be a success in whatever I attempt."

Wilhelmina usually puts her friends up at the hotel, explaining, "I hope you understand and don't mind. Protocol is usually bad for profits. It's cheaper to put you up for the night at my hotel than to open up the visitors' wing of the palace, which we would have to heat."

Mr. and Mrs. David Parker spent Sunday in Goldsboro as guests of Sgt. and Mrs. Fred Stenquist.

Miss Brenda Rose is vacationing at her home here after studying at Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount.

Misses Ann and Alice Dixon, students at ACC, are at their home for a visit with their parents.

Miss Esther Hill Coward and Miss Wilma Patrick, students at Woman's College in Greensboro, are at their respective homes here for a vacation.

The guest list were Mesdames Sam Nelson, Clay Burney, Roger Johnson, Ben G. Tucker, Roy L. Jackson, Kenneth Talton, J. M. Hart, Nick Susnjur and Clifton Jackson.

Mrs. Edwidge Reeves was hostess at bridge on Thursday night with guests for two tables. Garden flowers in mixed bouquets decorated the living room where the tables were placed for the games.

A salad plate with fruit bars and coffee was served as cards were laid aside.

Mrs. Joe House and Mrs. Gay Gnagey were highest scorers for the evening. Others playing were Mrs. George Dedrick, Mrs. Richard Cavanaugh, Mrs. Jack Carson, Mrs. Charlie Hardee and Mrs. Tom Owens.

The Thursday Bridge Club met with Mrs. J. S. Chapman as hostess last week at her home on Church St. Three tables were placed for the games amid a setting of bouquets of white summer hydrangea. As guests arrived, they found their places at the card tables and the hostess served a salad plate with iced tea and chocolate cake as dessert.

Mrs. J. W. Short and Miss Bert Johnson received the high score prizes. The other players were Miss Louise Mewborn, Miss Hazel Patrick, Mesdames Richard Nelson, Thurman Williams, Eleanor Gower, L. L. Mewborn, Jack Tucker, H. P. Quinerly, Robert Mewborn, J. L. Quinerly. They were joined for supper by Miss Marie Chapman.

Mrs. Walter Murphy entertained last Friday night at her home on Queen Street at supper and bridge. Guests were her club members and invited players. In the living room, lilies and rose arrangements were used as decorations.

A chicken salad plate with sandwiches and nut balls and iced tea was served before the games.

Mrs. Clifton Jackson, Mrs. Dave Rucker and Mrs. Wilbur Murphy were club high scorers. The visitors high was held by Mrs. Woodrow Smith. Completing the guest list were Mrs. David Parker, Mrs. Conrad Hart, Mrs. Johnnie Smith, Mrs. John Glenn, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. Bryan Davis, Mrs. Helen Speight and Mrs. Edward Hart.

Don't Chase Them

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—If you want to get a husband, don't go where the boys are. Don't even exert yourself to attract them.

Just make yourself so fascinating they flock to you, advises Helen Gurley Brown.

Oh sure, you say, nothing simpler.

But heavy sarcasm is lost on Mrs. Brown, who until she was 37 enjoyed the state of spinsterhood herself. Enjoyed it the right word.

"I think it's terrific being single as long as you're smart, interesting, fascinating."

HELEN GURLEY BROWN strikes sophisticated pose.

"Of course you feel very alone sometimes, especially when all your friends are getting married around you.

"But if you want a husband, you'll get him—and a far better one at that—if you make it a secondary aim. First become a whole, complete person. Stop looking for a husband and start looking for your own personality."

Theory in Book

Mrs. Brown realizes she sounds like Pollyanna on a soapbox. But her philosophy worked well for her and some of her friends. "Of

She Curates For Jackie

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mile-sized Lorraine Waxman Pearce grew up in the Bronx surrounded by modern furnishings. Yet since her appointment last year as the first curator in the history of the White House, she has been literally living with the past.

The pretty 27-year-old begins the day in a Victorian vintage home on Capitol Hill that she, with husband John, an assistant curator at the Smithsonian Institution, is carefully refurbishing with rare antiques.

Their 2-year-old son, Charles David, sits to wakefulness in a 19th century bed; teeters during the day on a century-old rocking horse, and in the evening plays under a Lannuier pier table while his parents dine above by candlelight.

Deluged With Letters

Always with an armful of antique periodicals under her arm, Mrs. Pearce jostles down to the White House around 9 a.m. on a street car, waves past the security guards at the gates, and ducks into her office on the ground floor.

"Every day you do everything you can to improve yourself, to succeed WITH trying—but in a quiet, nonbrassy way."

"A married woman can get caught up in taking care of children and home and let her personal development slump. But she does have those around her to love and protect her."

"A single girl doesn't have an excuse in the world. She has the time to make something of herself. All she needs is incentive."

"She should work hard at her job, do everything to improve her appearance, go in for extracurricular things such as learning French or reading the Great Books or taking up a sport."

"Instead of going out with the girls on Saturday night she should do extra work or win contests to make money so she can get better clothes or a handsome apartment or take a trip to Europe."

Can Have Plenty of Men

There's no doubt about it, she says, it helps to have money. And most single girls who learn how to handle the stuff will be their 30s.

Even if she doesn't intend to marry she can have plenty of men around her. "Little girls looking for husbands are so selfish, so wrapped up in their own wants," she says. "A single girl needn't be without men depending on her—not as a wife, but as a friend, a colleague, to tell their troubles to. And if she does decide to marry, she'll make a better wife for knowing so much about men."

Now You Can Dye Your Shoes

AP Newsfeatures

To dye a black shoe white use to be out of the question. To transform a pair of suede shoes into soft, kidlike ones was also considered an impossibility, until recently.

Now a shoe dye kit is on the market which permits an indecisive female to change the color of her shoes every hour, if she wishes.

She can switch from dark to pastel, and back to dark, or to vivid. She can use any of 24 prepared shades as is, or she can mix them to match a certain article of apparel, graying down the tones by adding a bit of black.

Or if she's an artist, she can reproduce floral or geometric prints of her costumes on her shoes.

The formula works on leather, not plastic. Calfskin, kid and snakeskin retain their finish, but suede becomes kidlike. Manufacturers claim the treated shoes will not crack, nor will they run or spot when wet.

The dyes may be used on fabric or leather belts and bags, too.

Gardner-Godley Vows Spoken

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Godley, Chocowinity, N. C., announce the marriage of their daughter, Patsy Lea, to Robert Morgan Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Oswald Gardner of Greenville.

The wedding was solemnized at the Christian Church in Winterville on June 1, 1962.

The couple will reside at 1509 N. Washington Street in Greenville.

"Our Phone Never Sleeps"

She Serves World

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP)—A Korean war you might say, founded World Medical Relief, Inc., which has distributed free since 1953 an estimated $29 million worth of drugs and medical equipment to every continent — and on what still is a threadbare financial shoestring.

Mrs. L. G. Auberlin is World Medical Relief, and vice versa, and one of her proudest possessions is a copy of the late Dr. Tom Dooley's last book, "The Night They Burned the Mountain." Over the autograph of the physician who devoted his life to the people of Laos is this inscription:

"To Mrs. L. Auberlin, with my warm gratitude for making so much of the 'good' in this book possible."

The Korean war appeared on a television newscast with a chaplain who had adopted him and who pleaded for help for others like him.

She's Non-Paid President.

Mrs. Auberlin saw it, "and something struck me to get some clothing and vitamins together." She did.

Now, nine years later and at 65, Mrs. Auberlin, a Catholic, is dedicated to spending the rest of her life helping others as the full-time, non-paid president of World Medical Relief, Inc.

Headquarters is a drafty, five-story Detroit warehouse that has a warmth all its own for those who labor there.

Among those who give their time in sorting and packaging medicines and repairing and sorting surgical instruments and hospital equipment are retired pharmacists, accountants, doctors, truckers, dentists, nurses, housewives and others. Most give a day a week; some more.

"It rubs right off on you, this feeling of rendering service to people you'll never see," Mrs. Auberlin explains.

Keep Playpen Clean Enough To Eat

Teething takes a toll on the playpen—and on baby, too—if the "chewing" surface isn't kept clean. A careful mother protects the safety of her child by washing the frame regularly with soap or detergent suds, then rinsing and wiping it dry.

Plastic-covered bumpers should be suds-sponged to help keep the infant's surround germ-free during the vulnerable teething period.

Blanket Provides Maximum Warmth

A newly developed cotton blanket features an air-cell weave construction to provide maximum warmth without weight. It is pre-shrunk, stain resistant, and said to retain its shape through numerous launderings in the hottest possible suds and rinses.

This type of blanket, which will be available for home use later, is being tested in hospitals where it can be boiled and sterilized repeatedly to avoid transmitting contagious diseases.

Facilities Needed To Do The Job

East Carolina College's request for $10.4 million from the state for capital improvements in the next biennium is certain to cause raised eyebrows in some sections of North Carolina.

At the same time, officials of the school would not be fulfilling their responsibility if they failed to present realistic capital improvements to meet the needs of this large and fast-growing institution. They would not be fulfilling their responsibility to the young people seeking a college education or to other citizens of the state if they ignored needs of the school for the sake of presenting a lower request for capital improvements.

It is significant that although the request is some $2.5 million more than the one presented by East Carolina College two years ago, it would be under the 1961-63 request had the items included in last November's bond issue been approved by the voters of the state.

Of the $10.4 million being requested by East Carolina now, some $3.4 represents improvements that were approved by the 1961 General Assembly and included in the state-wide bond issue for capital improvements at institutions of higher learning. As is the case with most other state-supported colleges, East Carolina now faces the task of providing improvements to meet its future demands, but likewise the task of making up for facilities it should already have but doesn't.

In the words of President Leo W. Jenkins, East Carolina is already four years behind in capital improvements to meet its needs. The making up for this lost time in meeting capital improvement needs makes the request appear larger than usual. But unless the facilities are forthcoming, East Carolina will find itself in the position of having to turn away more and more prospective students who are seeking a college education. It is our feeling that the college already is having to turn away too many prospective students for lack of facilities.

If North Carolina citizens expect East Carolina and other major colleges of the state to meet the demands being made upon them by an ever-increasing number of applicants, it is essential that these colleges be provided with the physical plants needed to handle the greater number of students. If North Carolina expects to pull itself from its next-to-the-bottom position among the 50 states in the number of college-age people who are actually in college, it must both improve and expand its facilities for higher education.

Although the $10.4 million requested for capital improvements by East Carolina is a large request, it is obviously realistic when viewed against the backdrop of the needs of the institution, the demands being made upon it, and the position it is expected to fill in higher education in North Carolina.

Without classrooms, without dormitories and without other needed additional facilities, neither East Carolina nor any other college can expect to meet the greater demands for higher education being made by the young people of North Carolina.

Emphasis Is On Traffic Safety

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
IMPACT — North Carolina is about to begin a concentrated, coordinated drive against and study of traffic accidents, doing things that have never been done before in the age of the automobile.

Officials in charge of Project Impact fully expect that one result will be a marked reduction in accidents, deaths and injuries in the six counties carefully selected for the effort.

It is one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken to curb and study cause and effect involved in the problem. A number of other states and the National Traffic Safety Council already have expressed interest and will be watching the project closely.

The first orientation and briefing for officials involved in the project was scheduled this afternoon (Friday) in Fayetteville, with other kick-off sessions to be held later in Greensboro and Asheville.

SCOPE — Three areas, one in the East, West and Piedmont, were chosen for Project Impact. The areas comprise two adjoining counties each — Cumberland and Robeson in the East, Guilford and Forsyth in the Piedmont and Buncombe and Haywood in the West.

These areas were chosen on the basis of accident rates, geography, topography, highways, varying and peculiar traffic problems and altogether present virtually every traffic situation which might be encountered in the state.

Guilford and Forsyth are among the most populous counties in the state, presenting urban and expressway traffic situations. There are industrial and suburban areas, shopping centers and congested areas.

Cumberland has both urban and rural traffic problems, plus the largest military installation in the state, Ft. Bragg. Robeson, a large, mostly rural county with numerous small towns, has three racial populations — white, Negro and Indian — represented, and has one of the highest accident fatality rates in the state.

Resort areas, tourist traffic, parkways, mountains and other factors are found in Buncombe and Haywood counties.

There are State Highway patrol troop headquarters and highway department district headquarters in each of the three areas, facilitating the coordinated effort which is planned.

EFFORT — It will be the first time that such full coordination between the Highway department and Motor Vehicles department has been achieved.

The courts, other officials, the relatively new North Carolina traffic safety council and the general public also will be asked to cooperate in the project emphasizing the "Three Es" of an effective traffic safety program — education, engineering and enforcement.

An all-out traffic safety education will be carried on. The highway department will undertake a massive engineering program of speed limits, signing, signals, marking and other traffic flow and accident-prevention measures.

Maximum enforcement is planned. The highway patrol likely will increase its strength in the selected project areas by as much as 50 per cent, using every speed and unsafe-driving deterrent it can muster. An official said new methods, materials and imaginative treatments would be employed.

Additional highway and highway patrol personnel and equipment will be moved in for Project Impact. Gov. Terry Sanford has appealed for "necessary cooperation of public officials on the local level."

RESULTS — The officials in charge of the project say it is almost certain, a proven fact, that the continuous, rigid enforcement and other phases of the campaign will quickly reduce the traffic accident rate.

"This we know for certain," says Phil Ellis, executive director of the N. C. Traffic Council. "But more important, we believe this sort of coordinated effort and study will show just where and how a program of this sort can be most effective. If there is a falldown somewhere, we should be able to pinpoint it."

The goal, of course, is to determine methods and policies along with improvements which may be indicated and apply them on a state-wide, continuing and permanent basis. Exact impact, the engineering and enforcement measures to be employed have been proven effective and are merely being demonstrated on a concentrated scale.

The "third arm" of Project Impact — the only factor which officials believe is untested — is public support.

BELTS — The Traffic Safety Council's effort in cooperation with Junior Chambers of Commerce to get seat belts into use in North Carolina resulted in 60,000 seat belts being sold on a non-profit basis.

Council officials point out the magnitude of the traffic safety problem in the toll of 1,254 persons killed and 34,428 injured in traffic accidents in North Carolina in 1961.

Now, What Seems To Be Your Trouble?

Seasonal Urge Upon Us

By DON SCHLIENZ

After struggling through a long fall, a longer winter and brief spring, thoughts gravitate to vacations.

It's part of Nature. Like the migration of birds or the return of salmon to their spawning grounds.

Parts of the vacation phenomena is that people advise other people to take them. And, despite each experience of sunburn, exhaustion, aching muscles and slimmer wallet, the approaching season spurs a yearning to walk on new ground, travel down strange highways, see new scenes and depart from the accustomed rut of daily living.

For some it means the cool clean breeze (closer to Heaven) at a mountain resort; for others the burning sun, sand and salty foam of the beach.

True, some travel for the sake of travel: a holiday spent on the road; each hour, each day providing a new panorama as it sates a hunger for novelty and beauty.

Visiting a foreign land is no longer an unusual vacation treat. Mexico, Bermuda, Canada are all within easy range. And almost any place in Europe is only hours away.

The curative effects of vacationing are such that they should be taken only infrequently. The constant vacationist is in time prone to becoming a bum. But when judiciously taken, the subject is an inspired laborer in the vineyard.

That familiar restlessness has been growing more acute, and waking and sleeping thoughts are bent on briefly departing from a hitherto comfortable rut.

Come the end of June, and zooooommmmm.

As an amateur connoisseur of such things, I'm mildly miffed by writers at home and abroad for putting Benny Goodman and his band in the jazz category.

That artiste of the clarinet simply doesn't belong in any one category.

To me, and I'm not alone, "jazz" denotes a quality of musical improvisation with only one constant: the beat. A melody is never played twice the same way.

Benny Goodman and his band depend on arrangers who leave little room for straying from the score. The element of musical discipline is needed when a band is in the spotlight and quality must always stay well above average.

The Goodman name has been long linked to "swing", a phase of popular music that grew out of an era that knew uninhibited jazz. The odds are, that when Goodman & Co. played "One O'Clock Jump" in Russia, it was nearly identical with that number's last performance by the band in the U. S.

Sure, Goodman can improvise with the best.

But that is not the basis of his popularity for past decades in this country. He is, and has long been, "the King of Swing."

He was one of the bandsmen who formalized jazz to meet the change in popular tastes. And, if you should by chance listen someday to a Goodman recording, check that precise tone, the giving each note its proper and distinct due, the mechanical perfection blended with an uplifting and happy spirit.

All in all, a very good choice to send overseas to illustrate one of the happier sides of American culture.

The uncommitted world is going through the most extraordinary period of condensed and intensified growth, hurtling into independence, economic growth and social change. A huge popular impatience is straining against delays and the inertias of the past. What is remarkable is the comparative poise and good sense, speaking generally, of these untrained and untried peoples in the midst of such turmoil. Communism has made surprisingly few gains, and has lost many of these.

What is really happening in our time is a great acceleration of the spread of good concepts and good things and an intensified contest between these trends and the forces which would misuse or resist them. In Lincoln's phrase the times are piled high with difficulty. But there is no case for despair. Looking at the members of a graduating class at this season of the year we would not wish to give them rhetoric, but the evidence that intelligence and good will are at work on all sides to an unprecedented degree.

Water Safety Remains Largely Up To Parents

Each hot day from now until September will stimulate the desire of most youngsters for a cooling dip in a nearby pond, pool, river or stream. And in the refreshing waters of each of these will lurk potential tragedy for those who are ill equipped to safely venture in.

In recent weeks there has been an increasing number of accidental drownings in rivers, streams, farm ponds and other unsupervised areas where youngsters and adults have sought relief from the rising temperatures. As the summer bears down and the mercury goes higher, it is probable that the number of such tragedies will increase.

They will increase, that is, unless adults in every community make more than the normal effort to instruct youngsters in water safety techniques, to provide for supervised swimming in specific places, to seek to prevent youngsters from cooling themselves in unsupervised ponds and streams. There must be a concerted effort by parents to impress upon their youngsters the importance of water safety, the dangers which may be encountered and the tragedy which may result from what starts out to be a carefree, refreshing dip.

Organized agencies during the next few months will give swimming lessons and water safety instruction of literally hundreds of youngsters and adults. But even with this effort, many children will be left to learn for themselves about the water, how to swim, what is safe and what isn't. The major responsibility for preventing water tragedies during the summer months will rest with the parents and the instruction they give their own youngsters.

S. Viet Nam Aid Not Publicized

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — There is probably no activity in which the Kennedy administration has been so vague — or silent — as on the economic and military aid it is giving South Viet Nam.

The United States, under the Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations combined, has put about $2 billion in aid into South Viet Nam in its fight against Communist guerrillas.

President Kennedy has sent a force of perhaps 6,000 military men there, plus various kinds of military equipment, including about 50 helicopters.

Exact information on the equipment, the men and what they're doing is supposed to be classified technically as a military secret.

The French, before they gave up, held South Viet Nam as a colony. Now the country, with its own government under President Diem, is in effect, a dictatorship. The Communist guerrillas had been making a lot of progress.

When Kennedy was a senator he emphasized repeatedly that South Viet Nam needed economic aid and reforms to give the masses of the people a tangible reason for opposing the Communists and their promises.

Last October Kennedy sent

Other Editors Saying To A Graduating Class

(Christian Science Monitor)

A thoughtful look around the world today produces exactly the opposite impression from the daily headlines. This is not a time of confusion drifting toward catastrophe. It is a world where people are hard at work, conscientiously and with a surprising show of good sense and intelligence, attacking their problems.

To say this is not naive optimism. It is to look through the surface confusion to the real forces at work in today's world.

The West is not soft with prosperity. On the contrary, the more fortunate countries in material terms are very much on the alert in several respects.

They are resisting that peculiar kind of stagnation, that let down of effort, which comes in the soothing lap of prosperity. Europe is opening up a great new market with an extraordinary burst of enterprise. Britain and the United States are refusing to settle back in apathy and self-satisfaction. They are bracing themselves to join with the new European progress but to turn it outward, to make it consistent with their larger international responsibilities.

At the same time they are making unprecedented efforts to help the new and developing countries and to remain militarily strong to keep communism in check.

This is a formidable battery of constructive efforts. They are all beset with problems but all making headway.

The trends in the Communist world can be looked at in two ways. One is to rejoice in the discomfiture of one's enemies which is a dubious luxury and unproductive. A better way is to see that a slow working of humane values is putting pressure on the Communist system and that economic difficulties—like the painful meat shortage in the Soviet Union and the farm setbacks in China—are making state controls look a little ridiculous.

Make no mistake. Communism is a powerful opponent. But the greater strength and resilience of the free system in all its departments is beginning to tell.

The uncommitted world is going through the most extraordinary period of condensed and intensified growth, hurtling into independence, economic growth and social change. A huge popular impatience is straining against delays and the inertias of the past. What is remarkable is the comparative poise and good sense, speaking generally, of these untrained and untried peoples in the midst of such turmoil. Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ELEMENTS OF PRAYER
A general in the Air Force has written this about prayer: "The man who prays, this has certainly been true of my thirty-year career as a rated officer, when I was graduated from the old Advanced Flying School at Kelly Field, Texas. And I know I am not an exception."

This same officer advises those who pray not to wait until crisis stands before them. He reminds all who will listen that thanksgiving is the most important element of prayer, and that thanksgiving should continually be on the lips of those who have received.

Prayer has been defined as conversation with God. All true prayer has about it the element of communion. In prayer we commune with God, become one with Him in purpose, bend our wills until they become one with His. Praise is also an important part of prayer. Why does God want us to praise Him? He knows the perfection of His ways, and certainly our praise of Him does not further convince Him along this line, for "He needs no such convincing. Praise, as a matter of fact, is so necessary because in it we hold before our consciousness the things God has done. We contemplate them. We come to see how wonderful they are. Little by little we grow into the image of the One we praise. We find ourselves not only submitting to Him, but submitting gladly. His life becomes ours.

The Billy Sol Estes case, among other things, spotlighted commercial finance companies, a phase of business financing little understood by many businessmen.

Commercial finance companies, currently financing $16 billion worth of business loans, are institutions somewhere between commercial banks and factors.

In financing business, they are not as starchy as banks, nor do they usually take over receivables or control of products the way factors often do. HELPED MANY TO GROW.

Were it not for commercial financing, some of the companies which would not be big business today, include Monsanto, Buitoni Foods, Dow Chemical, National Airlines and United Artists.

ing moved with commercial finance dollars. For example, the last part of a shipment of 341 American taxicabs, all financed by A. J. Armstrong Co., is now on an ocean freighter bound for Peru.

Commercial finance companies do not compete with banks; they supplement their money service. When banks find that an otherwise sound company does not qualify under its criteria for credit, commercial finance companies are called in, frequently by the banks themselves.

Companies with growing-money pains are favorite clients of commercial finance companies. They make loans against collateral such as accounts receivable (short-term or revolving), raw materials, work in process, machinery and equipment, and finished inventory.

DIFFERS FROM FACTORING
Accounts receivable are the usual collateral. This differs from factoring which is the outright purchase of accounts receivable by the factor, who takes the total credit risk.

Many commercial finance companies do both commercial financing and factoring, as well as rediscounting for smaller finance companies, financing of time sales and equipment leasing.

More and more banks are discovering commercial finance companies as allies. Commercial financing often preserves for the bank a good customer who might otherwise be lost.

Many firms urgently in need of dollars for expansion, mergers, buyouts, or because they suddenly hit the sales jackpot, find they cannot meet their bank's loan standards. Also, many businesses do not have sufficient seasoning to obtain normal bank credit on their unsecured notes. Thus, the young growth companies are

Years Kind To Exiles

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When King Edward VIII of Great Britain, etc., resigned his post to marry an American woman from Baltimore, Maryland, there were those who said that such a marriage would fall; that the Duke would regret his act. Twenty-five years have now passed and the Duke and Duchess are still husband and wife. This marriage has not failed.

The Duke and Duchess usually live in France, but they come to this country once each year for about a month. Most of their time is spent in New York where they have many friends. They are a cheerful pair, who have no side to them, as the expression goes. Of course, there are Americans who thrill at meeting royalty.

But when all that is done, one finds the Duke of Windsor a well-informed man who has a sharp nose for the nuances of public affairs. He is in these parts so often that, in many ways, he has become one of us and is undoubtedly an excellent ambassador from the United States to Europe.

There are very few kings left in the world. The beautiful fiction conception of noblesse oblige is one of the qualities which we have lost in our ascent to freedom. Also, in our civilization, where there are two types of aristocracy, the lesser one, based on brains and the more numerous one, based on wealth, too often inherited from a rough-neck, self-made ancestor, the characteristics of an aristocracy based on ancestry are hardly understood.

Many of the so-called European refugees who go by all sorts of feudal titles are not far removed from the fringes of ancient families who, in the thousand years of feudalism, were permitted to hold a fief and were rewarded with some ownership of land. The great families of Europe were few.

Others, who ply various trades and give the impression that they have come down in the world, have, in reality, been elevated by being permitted to live in this country where they can earn a living of one kind or another and are often invited to dinner for their titles.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are, of course, not of this breed. They lend tone and add zest to the waning society of New York and the Duke gets to know what is going on. He likes to meet people and has a flair for understanding.

It is none of our business how the British treat the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. But 25 years is a long time to get over a disappointment or an anger and most Americans like a marriage and a Duchess and a couple who find happiness.

I first saw the Duke when he was Prince of Wales and visited Japan. Since those merry years, much has happened to everybody's life. I saw him and his lady a few days ago and as we spoke, I could not help feeling that the years have really been kind to this man and that he has found a happiness in marriage which he could not have found as a king. For there is about one who does not like to take advantage of his position; it must be very trying to have to toe a ministerial line and not speak up for himself. This is nowadays required of a king or queen.

The Duke is an extraordinarily attractive person and he and the Duchess make a charming pair. They are not regal, in the motion picture sense and one does not imagine anyone playing, "Fanny Hill and Circumstance," as they enter a room. They are a comfortable middle-aged couple, who, having been married to each other for a quarter of a century, obviously like the estate. Perhaps it is thus established that the "Woman I Love" is worth a throne. At any rate, there seem to be no regrets.

Americans can remain a vengeful people who can not an angry very long. To most of us it is a surprise that the British people do not ask the Duke and Duchess to come to London to celebrate their silver wedding. After all, London is home to them.

No one has lost anything or suffered in any way because the Duke married the Duchess 25 years ago. He had, before that, travelled the world to make Great Britain better liked. He was regarded as Great Britain's best salesman. Then the Duke spoke up like a man about Another stumbling block for such small business is the annual cleanup required by banks, which dislike "locked in" loans that practically amount to working capital. Then a commercial finance company can fill both the credit gap and a corporate piggy bank.

Once a business has established itself as a good credit risk with its regular bank, it leaves the customer roster of the commercial finance company, which doesn't mind a bit. As expressed by David Sells, president of Armstrong:

"Losing a customer to a bank is an honor of which we are proud." Commercial finance companies appear to stand to lose considerable money in the Estes affair. However, they are gaining something in wider understanding of their operations.

Tax Cut Proposal Equivalent To General Pay Raise

By STERLING F. GREEN
 AP Economic Affairs Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The tax cut proposed by President Kennedy for next Jan. 1 would have the stimulative effect of a multi-billion dollar pay raise for wage earners and a profits boost for industry.

Kennedy's advisers are talking tentatively about a $5-billion net reduction in the tax package the President will ask Congress to approve. Some think it should be bigger, some don't want to lose that much revenue.

The President's decision may depend on how much of a booster shot the economy seems to need by the time the massive tax reform and reduction bill goes to Congress late this session.

By that time the economic impact, if any, of the stock market's swooning spells and recoveries will have shown up in the indexes of production, income, sales and jobs.

Then a judgment can be made on how heavily to load the booster to strengthen and prolong the recovery — and, if possible — to achieve the Kennedy goal of reasonably full employment by mid-1963.

Top-to-bottom rate reduction in individual income and corporation taxes was part of the original Kennedy blueprint to "get the country moving forward"—a program which had been roughly sketched out within weeks after he took office.

But that was to have been a tax-reform program, not a tax reduction plan. The rate reductions were to be offset completely by loophole-closing and the trimming of deductions, exemptions and preferences now enjoyed by many groups.

That's no longer the case. The idea of a net tax cut for all began shaping up after the business recovery hesitated in January and February. There was a strong spring pickup, but not the kind of full-fledged boom that would reduce joblessness to 4 per cent by mid-1963, or keep Kennedy's budget in balance.

The stock market's convulsions reinforced the decision to cut as well as reform. Its symptoms of nervous distress also advanced the date on which the big tax overhaul would take effect.

Originally it was believed that Congress would act on tax legislation at a snail's pace on next session and quite possibly part of the 1964 session in dealing with massive overhaul. Tax relief would have waited.

Now Kennedy has announced his willingness to cut taxes only six months and three weeks from today. The bill will be sent to the Capitol this summer; it will be weighed and argued through-out the congressional election campaign. It will be waiting for enactment, with a retroactive date of Jan. 1, as soon as Congress can handle it after convening in January.

By his announcement Thursday, Kennedy may have quashed the demands of some Congress members for an emergency, quickie tax cut while achieving virtually the same effect—assuring workers and business managers that their take-home pay will be bigger and their after-tax profits larger, only a few months from now.

Estimates of the net tax relief are running as high as $7 billion. Five billion is more frequently mentioned, as being about the minimum cut which would make enough difference in consumers' paychecks to encourage purchases of new cars, homes and major appliances.

Reductions in the top income tax rate from 91 per cent or perhaps 65 per cent has been considered. At the other end of the taxable income scale, the basic 20 per cent might be dropped to 16 or 18 per cent.

The corporation tax rate of 52 per cent probably would be cut to something below 50 per cent. A range of 47 to 49 per cent has been under discussion.

Some bad news would accompany the good. A whole bundle of reforms is under consideration, to eliminate the patchwork of special concessions and exemptions tacked onto the tax structure over the years for the benefit of special groups. But all taxpayers would come out ahead.

Such a tax reduction would mean at least one more year of budget deficit. Revenues presumably would be cut seriously in fiscal 1964, a year in which government spending is expected to rise to $95 or $96 billion. The anticipated increase of about $3 billion from this year's budgeted outlays is mainly the result of built-in increases in the space and military programs.

Despite the prospective red ink, most administration advisers are said to be convinced that strong medicine is needed to fortify—not to rescue—Kennedy's grand strategy for American growth in a world of heightened competition.

The Kennedy strategy is two-sided.

It involves:

First, enlisting the cooperation of labor and management in keeping wage settlements and price decisions noninflationary. In January the White House offered voluntary guidelines which, in the opinion of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, would keep wage increases within the bounds of the annual gain in output per manpower.

Second, making it possible for business to amass the funds needed for modernization of the nation's industrial plant. Tax incentives are being offered as an alternative to price increases which—in the administration's view—would simply discourage demand and price American goods out of the world's markets.

The first approach has run into grave trouble. Steelmakers rebelled at price restraint and set out to improve their profits in the traditional way—a price boost. Kennedy reacted angrily and forcefully to salvage his grand design.

Many businessmen felt he overreacted. The charge that Kennedy is "anti-business" has gained wider acceptance; it apparently worsened the spectacular stock market break of 10 days ago and has contributed to the uncertainty evident in the market since then.

The second approach is faring better. The Treasury shortly will issue liberalized tax allowances for depreciation on machinery and equipment, and Congress seems likely to enact most of Kennedy's first-phase tax revision program, built around a tax credit for big and little companies which invest in new plant equipment.

The administration is confident these measures will remove many of the financial obstacles to the cutting of costs and the improvement of efficiency. If so, they may incidentally make business less anti-Kennedy.

There is no way to be sure, however, that the tax savings actually will be plowed back into the industrial economy. For any manufacturer, the best incentive to spend money is the promise of strongly rising demand. Such assurance is not evident in the moderately paced upturn now in progress.

Kennedy's advisers believe the obvious answer—and perhaps the only one since Congress would certainly reject massive government spending as a stimulant when the economy was moving up—is tax reduction.

Their hope and expectation is that an initial deficit in the federal budget would be more than offset in succeeding years by the rising tax collections generated by expansion of employment, income and profits.

The accusation that the administration is buying votes with the tax cut certainly will be made in this fall's congressional election campaign.

But on this question, at least, Kennedy is likely to find a majority of businessmen behind him. Last week, the Council of the United States Chamber of Commerce issued a study which said: "Tax reduction and tax reform should take precedence over new spending programs as a means of stimulating the economy."

Stock Price Variation Hikes Price Of Gold

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—Wide swings in stock prices here and overseas have sent the price of gold up after months of stability. Gold Mining stocks also have been strong, especially on the London market.

Gold always glitters more when stocks look uncertain. And helping just now is a big upswing in U.S. imports this year. This raises anew the problem of what to do about the continuing deficit in U.S. balance of payments and the renewed outflow of U.S. gold in recent weeks.

The American dollar isn't in its present danger. Pressure on it in world financial marts hasn't been great, despite all the furore on Wall Street and the talk of big Treasury deficits ahead.

The U.S. Treasury has new means of protecting the dollar through a pool worked out by the central banks of the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and other financial centers. The pool can be drawn upon to ward off any moderate run on a threatened currency.

But any jump in the price of gold on the London free market catches the eye of those charged with protecting the dollar. The memory of the run on our gold stores in the fall of 1960 is still fresh.

Gold was quoted on the London exchange Thursday at $35.09% an ounce, up from $35.08% the previous day. Only a few weeks back it had fallen below $35.08—roughly the cost of buying an ounce from the U.S. Treasury.

The premium now over the U.S. official price could lead European central banks with surplus dollars to exchange them for gold. While a number of these banks, principally the Bank of England, have been doing just that this year, the move was to strengthen their resources, and presumably was done with the knowledge and approval of the U.S. government.

While the current rise in the demand for gold on the London free market—gold can't be bought or sold in the United States except for industrial and artistic uses or for the account of a foreign central bank—is due largely to the weakness in the stock market. Other factors are involved.

One is uncertainty about the course of U.S. government finances. Will taxes be cut? Will tax collections drop enough to bring on a big Treasury deficit? Will pump priming or other government spending have the same result?

Another is the uncertainty this year in the deficit in the balance of payments—a deficit lasting now for several years because we sent more dollars abroad than we got back.

The balance of trade, on the other hand, has been in our favor. This is the excess of exports over imports. But this year imports have risen to an annual rate of $16 billion, well over the 1961 pace of $14.8 billion for the entire year. April imports were the highest in more than two years.

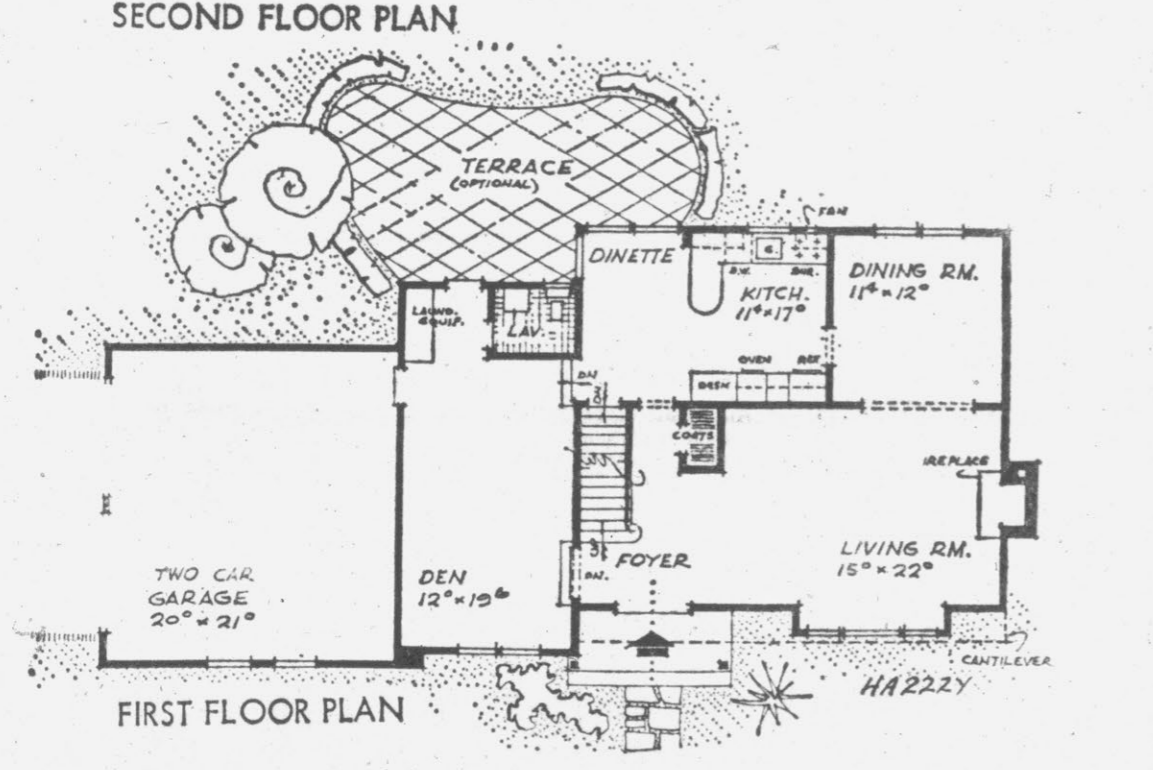

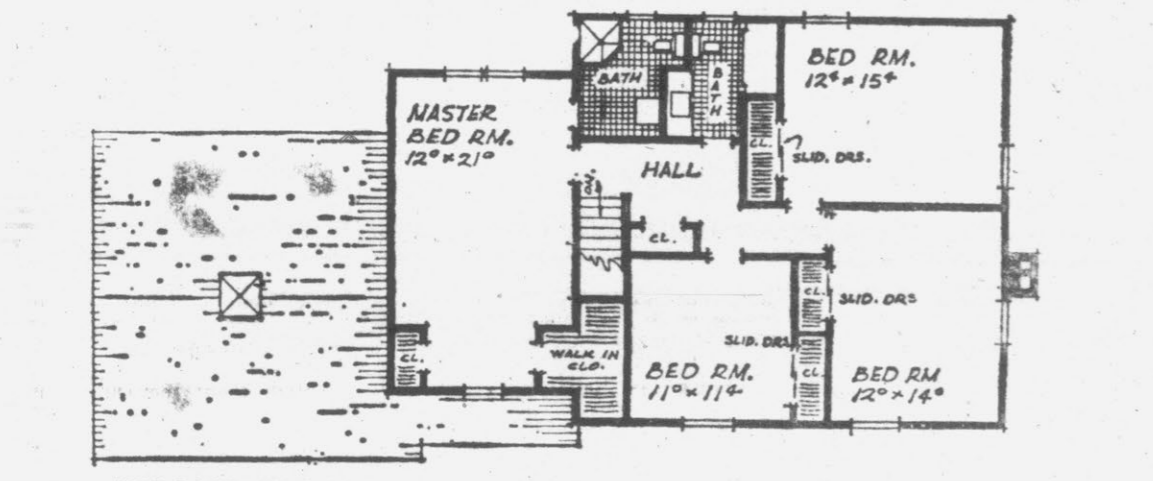

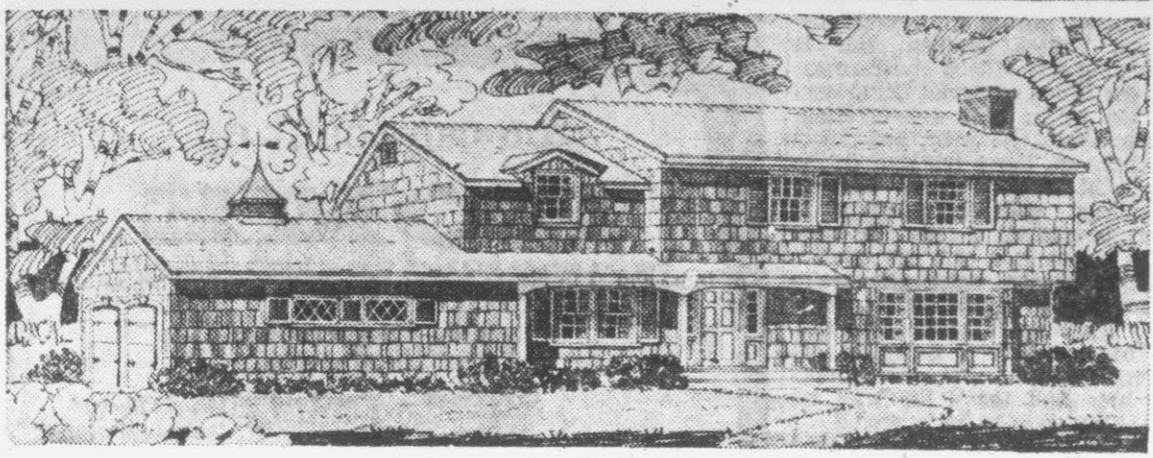

No Executions During The Year

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time since the end of World War II, New York state has completed a full year without an execution for a capital offense.

A state commission is studying capital punishment as part of a survey of the state's criminal law, but a spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller rejected Thursday the idea that the governor unofficially might have suspended the death penalty, pending recommendations of the commission.

The spokesman said the hiatus was the result of delays that had been caused by many legal steps in appeals to state and federal courts by persons under death sentence.

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

CHAPTER 17

Because the sunlight was in her eyes, Julie Pendleton couldn't identify the rider at first. Then she saw him raise his hand and wave and she knew it was Britt Fabian.

She looked somewhat wildly in the direction Casey Jeffries had taken, but he was out of sight and the cloud of dust he'd created had already settled back on the dirt road.

"What have you been doing?" Britt asked. "Worshipping the sun?"

"I've been riding around looking at the trees and the grass and the foals in the lower pasture," Julie replied.

"Several friends phoned me to say they were happy about us, Julie. They also said they called you, but nobody was home. I was a bit worried, so I rode over."

"She was certain now he had no idea Casey had been there and she made up her mind not to tell him. She also determined to let him know the full truth of what had happened.

"I'm glad you rode out, darling," she said. "Let's go back very slowly. I'm going to tell you about a deliberate attempt to harm me."

"The night of the country club dance someone put a dummy in Big Blue's stall. I went in to remove it and someone closed the stall door. Big Blue did his best to squeeze me."

"You're sure?"

"I'm not sure of that, either. I saw a horse running around our track the night of the dance. I thought the horse ran and looked like Boundbrook, but I know now I was wrong. Still, someone wanted me to think it was Boundbrook, because I found Boundbrook had been run hard."

"Let's go," Britt said abruptly. "Where? Britt, what are you going to do?"

"Two things—talk to your father about it and call the police."

"All right, Britt. I think we'd better."

"He held his horse back. 'Does Casey know about this?'"

"Yes, he helped me look for Boundbrook. We didn't just go walking in the moonlight as I told you. And then—the next day when Big Blue shipped me, Casey came along and helped me."

"You don't think he had anything to do with setting these things up?"

"No, Britt. I'm certain he didn't. He was concerned over the events of the night before and he was watching me when Big Blue refused the jump. Casey was only trying to help."

"Then he's my friend for life. I haven't felt kindly toward him Julie—I've a feeling he's been trying to cut in on me, but from here on, he's my friend. Why didn't he go to the police with this?"

"He was afraid Dad had too much on his mind, this would only upset him."

"Well, he's probably right, but we're not going to take any chances. I've a friend on the police force who'll know what to do about this."

Detective Lieutenant Fallon was a middle-aged man, lean and hard, with sharp eyes and an easy manner that Julie sensed was most deceptive.

"I've talked to some of the stableboys," he told Julie, her father and Britt. "And I was told Big Blue squeezed one of your men, Mr. Pendleton. Hard enough to put him in the hospital."

"That would be Duke Vogel," Ira Pendleton said. "He wasn't much of a hand around horses, anyway. I'd warned him to stay out of the stall."

"Vogel," Fallon said, "spent three days in the hospital getting his ribs treated. They fixed up the ribs fine for him, but I don't think anybody fixed Vogel's disposition, which was crusty, to put it mildly."

"But why should he take it out on Julie?" Britt asked.

"That's what I'm getting at, Britt," Fallon closed the notebook in which he'd been writing details of the incidents. "Now, Miss Julie, your seeing that horse that night of the dance is something which could be easily explained if you could find the people who were running the horse. It wouldn't be the first time someone had appropriated the use of a private training track to time a horse."

"I'm sure it was as harmless as that," Julie said. "I simply don't understand why seeing it would mean I had to be injured or even killed."

"Well," Ira said, "it's perfectly obvious to me that's what happened; otherwise, how do you explain two completely separate incidents aimed at Julie?"

"I'm trying to puzzle out these things," Fallon said. "Suppose the two attempts made upon Miss Julie's life—if that's what they actually were—happened to be aimed at someone else?"

"But I was alone," Julie said. "Not quite," Fallon said with a smile.

"Lieutenant, I was alone—"

"Big Blue was present, in both instances."

Britt whistled sharply and Ira slapped the top of his desk. Julie still didn't understand.

"The two attempts were aimed at Big Blue, not you, Miss Julie," Lieutenant Fallon said. "At least, it's a theory that seems to hold up because we have a motive."

"Vogel," Ira said. "Big Blue squeezed him and this was his way of getting back."

"With never a thought that Julie would be hurt, too."

"I don't think a man like Vogel would give a moment's thought to anything but hurting the horse. A dummy in the stall would make Big Blue rear up, kick out and in the confined space of the stall, possibly hurt himself. When that didn't happen, Vogel could have switched the straw at that jump, hosed the pit full of water, then posted himself somewhere to see Big Blue possibly break a leg."

"Vogel would do that," Britt said positively.

"I'm afraid you're right, Britt," said Ira.

Julie felt limp. "That must be it. There's no other answer. I'm so grateful, Lieutenant Fallon."

"Well, it's still just a theory—a hunch, but it makes more sense than you being the intended victim, Miss Julie. I'll send out an order to pick up Vogel, and you might warn your stablehands to keep an eye out for him."

"Thank you," Ira said. "It was a splendid bit of thinking."

"Well, I've got to be fair and admit that Britt more or less gave me the idea. He said there was no reason for any attempts on Julie's life and it had to be aimed at someone else. I thought of the horse, the pieces fell into place and that's all detective work is. A matter of elimination and luck."

A seemingly innocent question stirs suspicion anew. Continue the story to a climax here tomorrow.

Again Informed Husband Is Dead

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Six years ago, military authorities informed Rebecca Ann Foucher that her husband, Spec. 2 Richard E. Foucher, had been killed in an automobile accident in France. She later remarried.

Monday, the department of the Army notified her that her second husband, Cpl. William R. Deal, died after a fall while inspecting an army vehicle in Germany.

The jail administrator, Sgt. Frank A. Cavado, said he would put it back "when they the prisoners learn to behave themselves."

Plane Accident Victims Of 1943 Will Be Paid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Court of Claims ruled Thursday that singer Jane Froman and two other wartime troop entertainers injured in a 1943 plane crash overseas should receive $20,000 each from the federal government.

The ruling was requested by Congress, which asked the court to determine how much should be paid. Congress will have to appropriate the money.

Miss Froman and the two other entertainers, Gypsy Markoff and Jean Rosen, were aboard a commercial plane which crashed near Lisbon, Portugal, with a loss of 23 lives. They were badly injured.

The court said that while none of the entertainers has any legal claim they are entitled under broad and equitable considerations to $20,000 each.

Nobody To Take Bull By Horns

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Nobody would take the bull by the horns Thursday. So a policeman shot it and winged a bystander.

The wild bull session began when the animal, brought here aboard a Turkish ship for a pending bullfight, escaped and charged through a maze of narrow streets into the bazaar area.

Kicking and snorting, the bull injured 16 pedestrians, wrecked stalls and tried to crash into a jewel shop.

The policeman added to the list of injured when he fired and hit a pedestrian in a leg.

His second shot went true. It hit the bull in the neck and killed it.

Soviet-Style Jazz May Be Ready Burst Into Bloom

EDITOR'S NOTE—First the Soviets banned it, then they claimed to have invested it. Now that they've got around to playing and composing it, the Soviets may next try to outproduce us. If this sounds like the same old jazz, it's not. Those cool cats behind the iron curtain have developed a jazz style all their own. American jazz expert Leonard Feather, who accompanied Benny Goodman's band to Moscow and met most of the leading Soviet sidemen and composers, examines the future of Soviet jazz in an article written exclusively for The Associated Press.

By LEONARD FEATHER
Written For The Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP)—After hot jazz, New Orleans jazz and cool jazz, West Coast jazz and East Coast jazz, will the next step be Soviet jazz?

The possibility is not as remote as it might seem. Today there are indications that after many years of being completely stifled and a couple of years of being tolerated, jazz in the Soviet Union may be entering a third phase in which its advocates, dealing with it as though it were steel or fertilizer, will try to outproduce the Americans and develop techniques of their own.

Already there are jazz clubs in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev. Their main objectives are no longer merely to listen to American music or try to imitate it, but rather to evolve a new style of music along similar lines.

At jazz festivals held annually since 1957 in Tartu, Estonia, and recently at Leningrad University, new works by some of these composers have been introduced. Unlike the stiff, heavy over-orchestrated music of the older Soviet composers who have tried to grapple with jazz, these works are authentic and leave considerable freedom for improvisation.

Typical of these young writers is Vadim Sakun, a hard swinging pianist who has written one work, "With Inspiration" that would provide a thoroughly suitable vehicle for Dizzy Gillespie, Miles Davis or almost any other top American Show Thursday morning. And with her, of course, was Vanden Heuvel who had a chance to talk about the refugee committee's effort on network television.

If the subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan decides to open its public hearings on the Billie Sol Estes case to television cameras, the viewing public may have ringside seats, the way they did at the Kefauver crime and McCarthy-Army hearings.

And, along with baseball, the hearings certainly would enliven television's traditional season of dormancy.

Obviously, the three major networks will leap at an opportunity to televise the hearings. Their intra-mural competition is fierce. Much of the testimony, however, promises to be dry and technical—about cotton allotments and such—so some of the hearings would probably be handled on a "highlights" basis as was done during the recent Federal Communications Commission hearings.

ABC's "Premiere" anthology series will start its series of summer reruns July 3 with what was the best of the lot: "People Need People," starring Lee Marvin. So if you missed it first time out, make a note to catch it second time around.

Luckiest Hong-Kong Girl Enjoyed TV Connections

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The luckiest girl in refugee-clogged Hong Kong was certainly Deanna Chu. She had American television connections.

They helped move her out of the city and into the United States. Deanna, 23, became the first Chinese to reach New York under the administration's emergency program to admit several thousand emigrants from Hong Kong.

She was in the first group leaving Hong Kong. Deanna's older sister is a writer on NBC's "Today Show."

Doreen, the older sister, and the rest of the Chu family emigrated to the United States eight years ago. Deanna was forced to remain behind because of a trace of tuberculosis, now cured.

Then, a couple of weeks ago, reporter Doreen was assigned to interview William Vanden Heuvel, president of the International Refugee Committee, before he took off for the Orient to arrange to bring in the first of the emigrants. Doreen told him about her sister's plight.

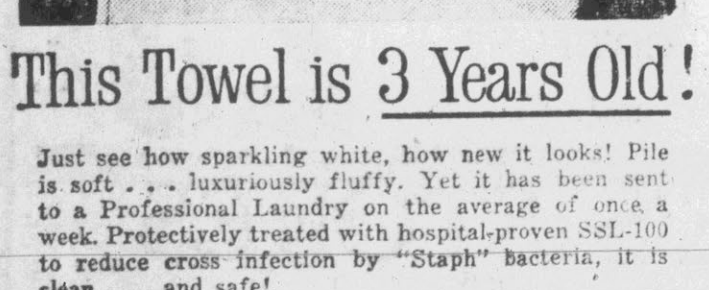

Happy, grateful Deanna—who fortunately speaks excellent English—popped up on the "Today Show" Thursday morning.

The Fellowship of Love

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I John 3:11-18; 4:7-21; II John; III John.

John, Christ's "beloved disciple" who wrote the fourth Gospel...

John's greatest message, the message "which you have heard from the beginning..."

We must love in deed, not word, writes John. To love is also to follow God's commandments...

To Gaius he writes commending him for his evidence of brotherly love and hospitality...

The Fellowship of Love

THE SOURCE OF LOVE: THE GREAT EXAMPLE OF ONE WHO LIVED FOR OTHERS AND SOME TESTS OF TRUE LOVE

Scripture—I John 3:11-18; 4:7-21; II John; III John.

By N. SPEER JONES THIS WEEK we continue our study of the letters of the apostle John...

"is a murderer." Despite the fact that man is made in God's image, he is selfish until this image is matured...

This was the apostle who lived to be almost 100 years old, after suffering earlier as a slave on the island of Patmos...

Love is to man's moral life what growth is to his physical existence.

John was the most profound thinker of all the original 12 apostles. His philosophy was of such stature that it bears the title, the "Johannine theology."

Love itself is such a God-like attribute that it may be considered an essence of God.

Man's love always follows the Lord's; it does not precede it. As John says, "we love, because

"Let us not love in word or speech, but in deed and in truth."—I John 3:18.

The Golden Text

"Let us not love in word or speech, but in deed and in truth."—I John 3:18.

obedience to them, through the Spirit of God (considered by John to be the equivalent of belief in Jesus as God's Son), and through love.

He first loved us" (I John 4:19). Our faith does not come before His love leads us to it.

It is this last aspect of God's communication of Life to us that concerns us here. Indeed, love is the aspect on which John himself dwells most, returning again and again to it in his writings.

Another attribute of love is the complete absence of fear. "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear, because fear hath punishment; and he that feareth is not made perfect in love" (I John 4:18).

As John says, love "is the message which you have heard from the beginning," not only since Christ's ministry, but away back in Genesis 4, when a child of the world's first family killed his own brother from lack of love (Genesis 4:1-8).

John also reminds us that the proof of love is in the doing, not the saying. "Let us not love in word, neither with the tongue; but in deed and truth" (I John 3:18).

PRELATE OPPOSES GHETTO-LIKE LIFE BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing has proposed that Catholic professional groups open their conventions to non-Catholics. The Boston prelate Thursday night told the National Council of Catholic Nurses they should have invited Protestant nurses to the conclave as observers. "The whole lot of Catholic councils for professional peoples, youngsters, laymen and laywomen need to be modernized," he said. "We have no need for these organizations if it's going to mean only Catholics getting together. We don't want to live in a ghetto." Cardinal Cushing predicted there will be Protestant observers at the Ecumenical Council in Rome next fall.

SOKOLSKI... (Continued from page four) some coal miners and all the vested interests came down on him. There were other instances of independence. So, the politicians used the excuse of his marriage to exile him. Well, they had their way and most of those who badgered him are now dead and gone. GREENVILLE RAFT . . . Members of Post 205 built this raft for Explorer Scout Flotilla. Pictured as they stopped in Greenville on the first day of their trip to Morehead are the boys taking part in the trip. Standing at right is Billy Clark, captain of the local raft. Notice the chair which joins two of the sections together. Unlike the other rafts in the group this one consists of three sections. The boys claim this enables it to ride the waves better and it also handles well. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Policy Set Down By Church Session Southern Baptists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Troubled by a book, Southern Baptists don't want it banned outright. But they want their agencies to be more careful about what they publish—and teach.

This was the policy-setting word from the big church body's annual convention as it neared a close today.

More than 10,000 assembled "messengers" also turned down a proposal that they expand their organizational territory beyond the country's borders.

Opponents said such a step would cause dangerous, divisive and damaging rivalry with Baptist bodies in other nations.

However, it was the doctrinal teaching and publishing controversy, flaring through the 10-million-member denomination in recent months that roused the convention heat.

Conservative forces, charging liberal theological tendencies in seminaries and other agencies, centered their protests on a book, "The Message of Genesis," by an Old Testament scholar, Dr. Ralph Elliott of Midwestern Seminary in Kansas City.

In a tempestuous, see-saw battle, moves were twice launched to force Broadman Press, run by the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, to suppress the book and call in all copies from outlets.

One Midwestern minister, at the urging of Baptist leaders, voluntarily withdrew his motion for such action. But another pastor, the Rev. Ben D. Windham of Portland, Ore., Thursday night again pressed the same proposal.

It was narrowly defeated, by a standing vote.

In his book, Dr. Elliott takes the view that some sections of Genesis present religious truth in figurative rather than literal terms.

Church Session Hears Reports

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Despite the theological unrest stirring their annual convention, Southern Baptists were tending to much other church business here, with progress and prospects promising.

The huge gathering, with an official count of 10,600 messengers, present heard reports from a score of boards, commissions and other agencies reflecting the surging growth of the 10-million-member church body, which has spread from the South into every state.

Members poured more than $300 million dollars into church operations, locally, nationally and abroad in the past year.

To run national convention agencies next year, the meeting set a record budget of $19,792,500, an increase of $780,000.

The Rev. Dr. Baker J. Cauthen, of Richmond, Va., reported the denomination has a swelling army of 1,548 missionaries serving in 47 countries, with more being recruited.

The Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, which handles the denomination's vast production of study materials in Nashville, Tenn., reported that more than 167 million pieces of literature were turned out last year.

The Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivan, head of the board, said its Broadman Press also published 44 books and issued 14 motion pictures and 16 film strips.

The convention reported denominational assets stand at 239½ million dollars.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon White and son Charles will attend the 47th annual convention of Kiwanis International in Denver, Colorado, June 10-14. White, a member of the Kiwanis Club of Winterville, and his family will be among 15,000 Kiwanians expected to participate in the convention.

Tickets Await Followers Of Fire Truck

BETHEL—Fire Chief George Abeyounis announced this week that the State Highway Patrol will start writing tickets to those who follow any fire truck on the way to a fire in a rural area.

Chief Abeyounis stated that on the last two fires to which the Bethel firemen were called, firemen had to fight to get into the burning area in order to put out the fire, and had to fight to get out.

He stated that "had we needed the truck somewhere else we could not have gotten the truck out in time to have done any good."

Spectators have jammed the fire area, according to Chief Abeyounis, and have not only endangered their own lives, but the lives and property of those who are in need of the Fire Department's aid.

Unseated By The Goat That Rides

MESSINA, Sicily (AP)—For weeks Maria, a 2-year-old goat, has waited in the main street of the hamlet of San Marco d'Alunzio for Nino the donkey to amble by.

Each day Maria jumped on Nino's back, rode 10 yards along the street, then hopped off and trotted back to her pasture.

Thursday Basilio Notario, 70, was riding Nino when the donkey came to town.

Maria jumped as she always had.

The peasant was sent sprawling into the dust. Maria had her daily ride.

Complain Over Tobacco Firm Eighty-Two Are Enrolled In City's Summer Kindergarten

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has charged the American Tobacco Co. at Reidsville, N. C. with racially-based pay scales and refusal to admit qualified Negroes into training programs for skilled jobs.

The charge is the latest of a series filed with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, attempting to get Negroes into skilled jobs in the tobacco industry in the South.

The NAACP also charges American Tobacco with refusal to promote employees on the basis of Seniority.

Previous complaints were filed against Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co. and the Tobacco Workers International Union, in behalf of Negroes at Durham, N. C.

Eighty-two pre-school children are currently enrolled in the summer kindergarten program sponsored at three Greenville schools by the City Council P.T.A.

Kindergarten began on Monday at Third Street, Agnes Fullilove and Elmhurst Elementary Schools, and will continue until July 6.

Mrs. Ellen Carroll, director of instruction for Greenville-city schools, said that the kindergartens are "one of the most important things that can be done for these children before they start school." The purpose of the program, which was conducted here for the first time last summer, is to expose children to the school environment, thus facilitating their first-grade adjustment.

The program has the approval of the city schools superintendent, J. H. Rose, and the Greenville Board of Education.

Mrs. Carroll pointed out that the child benefits from kindergarten by being exposed to the school he will attend in the fall, to teachers, and to other children and being away from home. The child learns to share with other children. She noted that the "emotional upset of being away from parents for the first time is particularly trying for a child."

In addition to these advantages, screening by public health nurses of the Pitt County Health Department serves to discover and offer suggestions for correction of defects in vision, hearing, and physical handicaps before the child starts first grade. Otherwise, these adjustments would also have to be made after the child has started school.

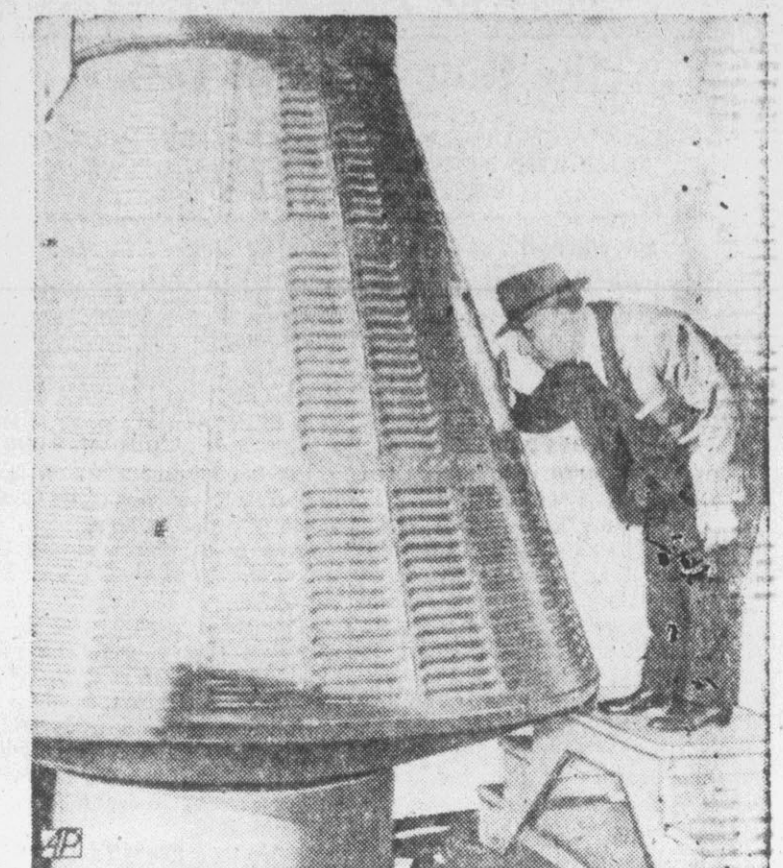

Kindergarten teachers this year are Mrs. Peggy Denton and Mrs. Walter Calhoun at Third Street School; Mrs. Dorothy Brown at Agnes Fullilove; and Mrs. Betty Sue Forrest at Elmhurst.

Various organizations throughout Greenville and Pitt County have provided funds to help finance the summer kindergarten and pay tuition for those children who would not be able to pay for themselves. "Without the help of these people, we couldn't carry this out," Mrs. Carroll said.

Organizations which have pledged financial help for this year's program include:

Clio Book Club, Round Table Book Club, Athenium Book Club, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, United Church Women, Delphian Book Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Women's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Women's Society of Christian Service of St. James Methodist Church, Inter Se Book Club, Pitt County Mental Association, Lions Club Activities Fund, Women of the Moose, Christian Women's Fellowship, Semi-Century Book Club, Presbyterian Local Fund, Fidelis Class of Memorial Baptist Church.

Cosmos Book Club, Pickwick Book Club, Sans Souci Book Club, Kiwanis Club, Wahl-Coates P.T.A., Greenville P.T.A., City Council, Rotary Club, American Association of University Women and Lector Book Club.

CHIEF CHECKS—Spanish head of state Francisco Franco peers into replica of the Friendship 7 space capsule on exhibit at agricultural fair outside Madrid.

Herbert Hill, labor secretary for NAACP, said, "A rigid pattern of separate racial seniority lines exists in the Southern tobacco industry. This becomes very apparent in all collective bargaining agreements between the major tobacco manufacturing companies and the Tobacco Workers International Union, AFL-CIO.

"The NAACP finds that all colored workers are employed in unskilled and janitorial jobs with limited seniority rights, and these rights apply only in all-Negro menial jobs."

Hill said an NAACP investigation at Reidsville indicated the American Tobacco Co. plant there has no Negro operators of cigarette machines. He declared the plant hires Negroes only as sweepers, janitors and toilet attendants.

Capitol Luncheon Given Sir Walter, Elizabeth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two teachers who have the roles of Queen Elizabeth I and Sir Walter Raleigh in "The Lost Colony" outdoor pageant at Manteo, N.C., are to be honored at a capitol luncheon today. This is the show's 25th season.

The two are Mary Long, who has been in the drama for nine seasons, and Ken Cauthen. Both are on the faculty of Winthrop College, in Rock Hill, S.C.

Also scheduled to be at the luncheon were Mrs. Fred Morrison, chairman of the Roanoke Island Historical Association which produces "The Lost Colony"; Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and Mrs. Ervin; Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and Mrs. Jordan; Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, D-N.C., and Mrs. Bonner; and Mrs. Luther Hodges, wife of the secretary of commerce.

Also due in North Carolina are four other "Lost Colony" players who will participate Saturday in an early American wedding scene for the Pan American women's production of weddings around the world. It will be presented at the Brazilian Embassy, Marjalene Thomas, who teacher school in Elizabeth City in the winter, has been in the production every year since 1937, the first season. She will portray Eleanor White Dare in the stage wedding Saturday. Tommy Hull of Goldsboro, N.C., will play the part of Ananias Dare. The Dares' daughter Virginia was first child born to English parents in this country and the Dares' wedding enactment is in commemoration of the 375th anniversary of Virginia's birth.

Mrs. Lillian Thornburg and Mrs. Wallis Meadows, both of Chapel Hill, N.C., will be bridesmaids in the scene.

Bible School Has Good Average

The Bible School at the Grace Church averaged around 200 for the five-day school. The workers and children have been faithful. They have prepared a good program for the commencement tonight at 7:45. It will be very encouraging to the teachers and children if the parents will come with their children for this program. Ralph Mills will be in charge.

AUTHENTIC TOUCH—Famed composer Igor Stravinsky points as he checks score during recording of his latest work, "The Flood," at Hollywood. Opus, his first written especially for television, will have world premiere on CBS-TV on June 14.

Hyde Range

In the news recently has been the possibility of establishing a practice bombing range in the Lake Mattamuskeet area of Hyde County. A press conference was held in Greenville this week in which the Air Force presented their side of the matter. We feel there is no question in the minds of eastern North Carolina residents as to the importance of the range as far as the military is concerned and also the economic advantages which the military brings into the state.

However, a range in the Hyde County area poses a problem to the residents of that area and to the hunters who have for many years enjoyed the excellent facilities of Lake Mattamuskeet and the surrounding area.

The three problems raised by the people are the possibility of a bombing range being a fire hazard, the matter of removing the land from the tax books and disturbing the wildlife.

The Air Force has answered the first two problems to our satisfaction, but there is some doubt about the wildlife question.

The military claims the range will not disturb the wildlife and they also state that the range will not be used during the migratory season. However, at the press conference the Air Force was unable to say just when the migratory season is and they did note that closing down more than three months would not be acceptable.

The birds begin coming into the area in October and remain until March. Thus, at least five months are involved. The Air Force also said they would work with the Wildlife Commission and they would not use the range when the flying operations disturbed the birds.

This is all well and good, but we feel the Air Force would have to enter into a definite written agreement as to what they would do and would not do. This should be worked out with the Wildlife Commission. We also feel the range should be on a trial basis for the first year. And then, if it does not hinder the hunting it could be continued. Seymour Johnson officials said at the press conference that even using the range one year would be a worthwhile saving. Thus, they should be willing to go along on a trial basis to prove to the people the range will not hinder the wildlife situation.

The Air Force has already said the range will not disturb the birds, based on ranges in other parts of the country. However, they also noted that ducks and geese have not been involved on the other ranges. Officials pointed out that the Stumpy Point range is close to Mattamuskeet. But, this range, used by the Navy, and is more than four miles from the lake.

Taking everything into consideration, we feel a range must not be put into operation until proper written agreements are set up concerning the wildlife and hunting.

Palmer Is Trailing; Still Threat

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—"Arnie is just giving the field a head start this week."

That was the laughing analysis offered by two-time National Amateur champion Jack Nicklaus when 45 players scored better than Arnold Palmer in the first round of the $100,000 Classic tournament at the Upper Montclair Country Club.

It was given, however, with a slightly rueful chuckle that indicated nobody, least of all his rivals, figures Arnie will be far away when the $25,000 first prize is handed out Sunday night.

Gene Brewer, heavy-hitting Kentucky-bred pro who plays from Crystal River, Fla., solved the tricky greens on the 7,055-yard course to take the first round lead with 33-33-66.

He was one stroke ahead of Gene Littler, who is tuning up here to defend his U.S. Open championship at Oakmont, Pa., next week, and Earl Stewart, 40, a club pro from Dallas, Tex. Palmer, winner of six tournaments this year, favorite to add to his immense earnings here and probable favorite for next week's National Open, had a 73, one over par. He was still feeling the effects of a cold that has bothered him for more than a week.

Two players, Fred Hawkins and Dave Ragan, had 68s and six had 69s, among them Nicklaus.

After today's second round, the field will be cut to the low 90 pros and the four amateurs who started. Another cut to 60 and ties will be made before the final round.

Brewer, 30, who has won three tournaments in seven years as a pro, but none this year, was first round leader in last week's Memphis open. He finished tied for 10th.

Twins Continue Surprise Showing; Climb A Notch

By JIM HACKLEMAN
It's June and the Minnesota Twins are still within striking distance of the American League lead—which must rate as one of the more startling developments in what is turning into a season of startling developments.

Cards Get Boost Beating Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stimulated by a psychological boost that carried them out of a great depression, the St. Louis Cardinals are primed for the first place Giants who open a four game series here tonight.

Manager Johnny Keane said the great lift came Tuesday night when the Cards pulled from behind an 9-1 deficit and went on to beat the Cincinnati Reds 10-9 in 11 innings on Stan Mustial's homer.

"They wouldn't have gotten the same boost if they had won the same 1-3 in nine innings," Keane said after the Cards had completed a three game sweep of the series with the Reds, winning 8-2 on 18 hits. The victory string followed eight straight losses.

"It takes a long time to fall back into a slump once you're out of one," the manager said—obviously pleased that the darkest slump of the year was behind him.

The Twins climbed a notch Thursday, beating Kansas City 5-2 behind the pitching of right-hander Joe Bonkowski and the key hitting of Rich Rollins.

That victory, coupled with the New York Yankees 4-0 shutout of Cleveland reshuffled the top of the standings. The Yanks kept their hold on first place, but Minnesota jumped up to second—one game out—and the Indians fell to third, two games behind.

In other games—Boston tripped Detroit 5-4, Chicago beat Los Angeles 8-4, and Baltimore crushed Washington 12-5.

In the National League—Chicago nipped San Francisco 4-3, Pittsburgh rallied for a 3-2 decision over Los Angeles, St. Louis rapped Cincinnati 8-2 and Houston overcame Milwaukee 3-2. New York and Philadelphia had the day off.

Bonkowski, 21, a slender Pennsylvanian, held the Athletics to six hits. He struck out five and did not allow a walk, winning his fifth against four losses.

Kansas City starter Dave Wickersham took the defeat. Bill Stafford's shutout was the Yanks' second straight over Cleveland in their abbreviated two-game series with the Indians. Stafford faced only 29 men, retiring the first 10 in order.

Roger Maris led off the fourth with his 10th homer for New York's first hit off loser Jim Perry, and it stayed 1-0 until the Yankees got three insurance runs in the eighth.

The Red Sox nipped the Tigers with an eighth inning run. Before that it had been a home run duel with pitcher Earl Wilson and Eddie Fisher got the victory in relief of Juan Pizarro.

The Orioles scored in all but two innings against the Senators, hammered out 14 hits, collected seven walks and rolled up their biggest score of the season. Jack Fisher was Baltimore's starting pitcher but failed to last past the third. He was taken out after Chuck Hinton's two-run homer and Billy Hoelt went the rest of the way. Washington left-hander Pete Burnside, chased in the Orioles' four-run second, was the loser.

Gary Geiger connecting for Boston and Rocky Colavito and Jake Wood for Detroit. Arnold Earley was the winning pitcher and Rou Kline the loser.

Al Smith sparked the White Sox over the Angels, getting five hits in five tries. In all, Chicago batters collected 14 hits off five Los Angeles pitchers, starting with loser Eli Grba.

The Orioles scored in all but two innings against the Senators, hammered out 14 hits, collected seven walks and rolled up their biggest score of the season. Jack Fisher was Baltimore's starting pitcher but failed to last past the third. He was taken out after

Richest Belmont Stakes Has Unpredictable Field

By JOHN CHANDLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The richest, and one of the most unpredictable of all Belmont stakes since the great classic was inaugurated in 1867, will be raced Saturday at Belmont Park.

Seven 3-year-olds are scheduled to go postward in the 1¼-mile test barring any late developments at the secretary's office where official entries were to be made this morning. Seven starters would make the purse $152,050, with the winner grabbing $106,300. Sherlock took a record $104,900 last June.

The big four consists of George A. Pope Jr.'s Decidedly, Donald P. Ross' Greek Money, George D. Widener's Jaipur, and Peter W. Salmen Sr.'s Crimson Satan.

Three others, who can't be counted out after last year's experience with Sherlock ($132,100 for $2), are Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage, Frank E. Power's Vimy Ridge, and Louis Wolfson's David K.

Decidedly broke the Churchill Downs track record in winning the Kentucky Derby five weeks ago. But ran poorly in the Preakness at Pimlico May 19, as Greek Money nosed Ridan in their rough finish line thriller.

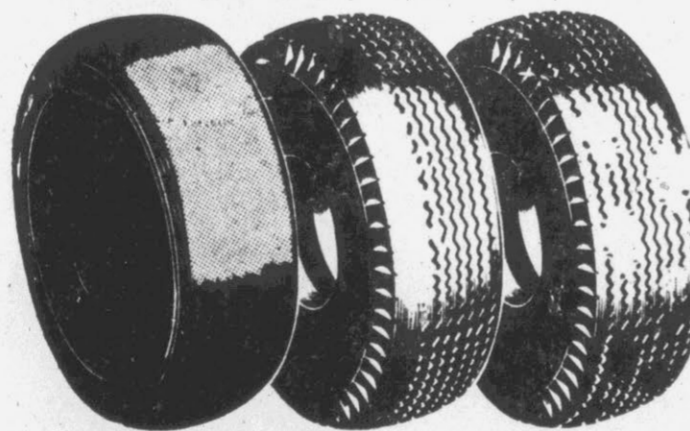

Crimson Satan, who was voted the best 2-year-old in 1961 but failed badly in the earlier classics this year, finished first by a nose in the wild-eyed Jersey derby by finish May 30 at Garden State Park. Jaipur nosed out Admiral's Voyage for second. Then the stewards disqualified Crimson Satan, dropping him to third and Jaipur was made winner, with the Admiral second.

The weatherman promises partly cloudy weather, warm, but with no rain in sight until Saturday night. If the weather cooperates fully, a crowd of 50,000 is expected. The race will be broadcast nationally (CBS radio and TV) from 3:30-4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Fish in the perch family can be distinguished from those of the sunfish family by their dorsal fins. Sunfish have their two dorsal fins joined while the perches' are separated.

Kiwanis Rallies In Third, Defeats Lions By 3-2

NORTH STATE

Kiwanis came from behind yesterday in the third inning to go ahead of the Lions and hold on for a 3-2 victory.

The Lions opened the scoring in the first frame as they collected one run on two hits. Glenn Johnston opened the frame with a single. Jeff Wilson followed with a single which advanced Johnston to third. The next batter, Dennis Harrington was safe at first on an error which enabled Johnston to score.

Kiwanis came back in the third to score two runs on one hit. Bob Brown and Randy Boyd both reached base safely on errors. Van Williams followed with a double to drive Brown and Boyd across the plate to send Kiwanis ahead 2-1.

Kiwanis returned in the fifth to score one additional run on two hits. Boyd led the frame off with a single. Van Williams collected his second hit of the day as he tripled to drive Boyd home.

The Lions rallied in the bottom of the sixth to produce one run on one hit. Dennis Harrington singled and later came in to score. With the bases loaded, Allen Ramsbur walked to force Harrington across the plate. The next batter struck out for the third out of the inning to retire the side.

Brown, the winning pitcher, struck out eleven, walked one, and allowed two runs on five hits. Al Gurganus, the losing pitcher, struck out six, walked four, and gave up three runs on seven hits.

This afternoon, Coca-Cola meets Texaco in Elm Street Park at 5:00.

Pepsis Defeat Carolina Dairy In Teen-er Play

In Teen-er League ball last night, Pepsi-Cola defeated Carolina Dairy 7-1. The winning pitcher was Billy Crawford while Benny Hooks was charged with the loss.

Pepsi-Cola opened the scoring in the top of the first as they tallied two runs on two hits. Leo Cannon led the rally off as he walked to put Pepsi's first runner on base. Billy Crawford followed with a single to move Cannon to third. With two outs, Paul McLawhorn singled to score both Cannon and Crawford to provide Pepsi-Cola with a 2-0 lead.

In the top of the third, Pepsi-Cola returned to score five runs. Cannon, Crawford, McLawhorn, Danny Keel, and Horace Letchworth all scored in their team's big inning.

Carolina Dairy scored their only run of the night in the bottom of the sixth as they tallied one run on two walks and an error. Benny Hooks led the frame off for the Dairy as he collected a walk. With one out, Bob Yopp walked to put runners on first and second. Kenneth Brown followed with a hard hit grounder that went through the shortstop to score Hooks. However, Pepsi-Cola settled down to retire the side and claim their first victory.

Tonight, Carolina Dairy will play College View at 7:30 in Guy Smith Stadium.

Sulking Sadecki Case Resolved

ST. LOUIS (AP)—All is harmony at last on the surface, in the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals, where a small tempest boiled up over young southpaw pitcher Ray Sadecki.

It all started Tuesday night when Sadecki gave up five runs on two home run balls and made two errors in one inning against Cincinnati.

Manager Johnny Keane said Sadecki was goofing off, called it the poorest effort he had ever seen on a major league diamond and fined the 21-year-old $50,000 bonus baby $250.

Sadecki went into a sulk and didn't bother to show up for the next night's game.

Keane, backed up by General Manager Bing Devine, suspended Sadecki, who has a 2-3 record.

Sadecki demanded that he be traded and Devine said that was out of the question.

Thursday afternoon Sadecki, Devine and Keane went into a session behind closed doors and after the meeting Devine issued a terse statement that said Keane and Sadecki "resolved their differences." Sadecki's suspension has been lifted.

On Jan. 10, Martini II, the winner, Band Master, who ran fourth, and Roman Don, the seventh finisher, went off co-favorites at $3.65 to $1 in a race at Hialeah Park.

TAR HEEL

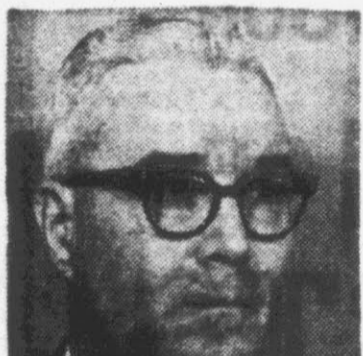

Pepsi-Cola collected two runs in the fourth frame yesterday and went on to defeat Exchange 2-0.

After a close three and a half innings, Pepsi-Cola opened the scoring in the fourth by tallying two runs on no hits. Tommy Sugg led the frame off by draw-

Local Legion Nine Wins Again

RALEIGH—Greenville's American Legion Post 39 won their fourth game of the season last night as they downed Raleigh by a score of 9-6.

Greenville took an early lead in the first inning but Raleigh fought back in the second frame to tie the contest. In the top of the third, however, Greenville once again took the advantage and maintained the lead for the remainder of the contest.

Post 39, coached by Ray Pennington, produced three runs in the first frame off of a hit batter, a single, and a home run by Rommie Brock. Bobby Hobgood led the rally off for Greenville as he reached first safely after being hit by a wild pitch. With two outs, Wayne Britton singled to bring Brock to the plate. Brock followed with an inside-the-park home run which highlighted the inning.

Raleigh fought back in the bottom of the first as they tallied two runs on one hit. Joyner, the first batter, was hit by a wild pitch to give Raleigh their first baserunner. Ramsbur reached first safely as he hit a ground ball which forced Joyner out at second. Chappell followed by reaching base safely on an error. Both Ramsbur and Chappell came in to score as the next batter Mickey Lineau doubled.

Raleigh produced another run in the bottom of the second to tie the game at 3-3. However, Greenville came back with two runs in the third to go ahead to stay.

Wayne Britton, Rommie Brock, and Billy James provided Greenville with plenty of hitting power as they collected seven of their team's nine hits. James connected for two hits in five trips to the plate. Britton collected three hits in four at bats, and Brock was two for four. One of Brock's hits was a home run.

Rodney Knowles, pitching his first game for Post 39, was the winning pitcher. Knowles came in to relieve starting pitcher James Braxton in the bottom of the third. Knowles struck out Kelly, c walked four, and allowed no runs on three hits.

Greenville travels to Ahsokie tomorrow night to play Ahsokie for the first time of the season. Next Wednesday, Post 39 will play their third home game of the year when they meet Ahsokie in Guy Smith Stadium.

Rodgers Saves His Berth With Cubs; Timely Hits

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Andre Rodgers, who exchanged his cricket paddle for a baseball bat, was traded for a manager and repudiated before he got to play a game with his new mates, may have saved his latest job with a sudden display of power for the Chicago Cubs.

The young shortstop stroked a bases-loaded single in a three-run fourth inning uprising against National League leading San Francisco, then tagged a homer in the sixth for the deciding run as the Cubs whipped his former teammates 4-3 Thursday.

Rodgers, 27, Bahamas-born cricket player, originally came up with the Giants, failed to make it as their shortstop and wound up in the trade that brought Al Dark from Milwaukee to become San Francisco manager. He didn't play a game for the Braves before he was shipped to Chicago.

Hitting only 263, Rodgers might have been on the bench if Alex Grammas, acquired in a trade two days ago, had reported to the Cubs. At game time Grammas still was missing, Rodgers played, and won it.

Second-place Los Angeles lost an opportunity to take over first place when Dick Stuart hit a three-run homer in the last of the ninth and gave Pittsburgh a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers. That kept the Dodgers a half-game back of the Giants.

Elsewhere, St. Louis won its third straight after snapping an eightgame losing streak by beating Cincinnati 8-2 and Houston came from behind to edge Milwaukee and Warren Spahn 3-2. The New York Mets and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

In the American League, Bill Stafford pitched a two-hitter as the first-place New York Yankees blanked Cleveland 4-0.

Coastal League Opens Monday

The Coastal Boys League will officially open Monday night June 11 with a double-header to be played at South Greenville Park at 6:30 p.m.

Pregame ceremonies are scheduled to begin at 6:00. City officials are scheduled to be present as well as will be other distinguished persons.

Free gifts will be given away to persons holding the lucky number. If this number corresponds with a number to be announced later, the holder receives a free gift.

Church Softball

Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church defeated the Winterville Free Will Baptist yesterday by a score of 14-0. The winning pitcher was Ralph Wintgate who pitched a no-hitter while Dean Hines was credited with the loss.

Industrial Loop

In last night's industrial league play, Carolina Dairy and Cox Armature emerged victorious.

Carolina Dairy defeated the Moose by a score 17-7. Hayward Outland was the winning pitcher while Bob Joyce was the loser.

In the second game, Cox Armature downed Venters Motors 3-2 in ten innings of play. Vern Weirs was the winning pitcher while Charles Odum was credited with the loss.

WONDERING what makes the daily newspaper the top advertising buy? It's the number and quality of the people the daily newspaper reaches, and their friendly reaction to newspaper advertising. When an advertiser invests in any medium, he's buying an audience for his sales message. The newspaper audience is large. Almost 100,000,000 people read a daily newspaper every day in the U.S.* And that audience remains very constant. There's no "summer slump" in newspapers, no peak listening or viewing hours, no special moment when you must nail down an audience or miss out completely. The daily newspaper sells around the clock. Readers can study it at their leisure...enjoy it...relax with it...clip it...buy from it. And they do.

'Share Time' Partnership For Catholic Schools Is Debated

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Should Roman Catholic schools, under the pressure of heavy enrollments and the controversy about state and federal aid, work toward "share time" partnership with public schools?

Two Catholic superintendents of schools debate the question in articles in the June issue of The Catholic Educator.

The Very Rev. Arthur T. Geoghegan, superintendent of schools of the diocese of Providence, R. I., who favors the recently suggested plan, begins his discussion with a definition:

"Briefly stated, shared time means that a pupil in a church-sponsored school would receive part of his instruction in a neighboring public school and part in the church-sponsored school. He might, for instance, attend classes in spelling, penmanship, mathematics and science in the public school and study religion, history and literature in the church-related school."

Msgr. Geoghegan and The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Justin A. Driscoll, superintendent of schools of the archdiocese of Dubuque, Iowa, agree on the point that the optimum educational plan, in the Catholic viewpoint, is a full-time program in a church-affiliated school.

However, Msgr. Geoghegan asks, "To how many children are Catholic schools available? With more than 25 per cent of the children born annually in the United States baptized Catholics, fewer than half of them can hope to attend Catholic elementary schools. Catholic secondary schools can accommodate still fewer. By 1970 only one out of every three Catholic children, will be able to attend a Catholic school."

He sees shared time as a means of freeing Catholic teachers and classrooms during part of the day for the instruction of pupils who would otherwise receive no church-sponsored education.

Msgr. Geoghegan also believes the Catholic pupil's education could improve qualitatively with shared time.

Msgr. Driscoll, who opposes shared time, says, "I do not favor the shared time plan simply because I do not think it is sharing anything."

"About the only thing it shares, or establishes, is the fact that the child has a right to participate in part time instruction of the public school, that the school can legally collect money for doing a half time job, perhaps in the physical sciences and in the practical or manual arts."

Secondly, Msgr. Driscoll objects because, he says, the shared time plan rests on "a false concept of the state's rights in education."

"In my way of thinking, the shared time plan," he says, "is based on the erroneous idea that the child must be enrolled in a school in the distribution of the educational goods of the state."

And thirdly, Msgr. Driscoll says "I also find it difficult to fit this program into the Catholic viewpoint on education."

"The fundamental principles upon which Christian education is based must be observed in every aspect of the curriculum."

East Germans Hijack Boat In Freedom Try

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—Bringing a baby with them, 13 young East Germans hijacked a 500-ton river excursion boat early today and escaped to freedom over a hall of machine-gun bullets.

East German police, firing from a watch tower, a pier, a bridge and a patrol boat, pumped over 200 bullets into the fleeing vessel. Nobody was hurt.

West Berlin police fired 10 shots back at the East Germans to check their fire. The boat, the Friedrich Wolf, was riddled and there were bullet marks on buildings on the West Berlin shore.

The escapees included eight men, all employees of East Berlin's "white fleet" of excursion boats, five women, and one couple's 5-month-old boy. The adults, all about 30 or under, told police they had been planning the escape for a week.

Thursday night the men in the group went aboard the Friedrich Wolf at her mooring beside the River Spree and began drinking with her captain and engineer. When the two were off guard, they jumped them and tied them up.

Under cover of darkness they spirited their women and the baby aboard. Then at dawn the men got the two-deck boat moving. They swung into the Spree and headed toward the center of Berlin, making for the point where the left bank of the river becomes the border between East and West Berlin.

Posts of Vopos — as the East German police are called — opened fire.

Racing the engines at their top speed of 10 knots, the men aboard the Friedrich Wolf suddenly swung left and rammed the boat into the entrance of the Landwehr Canal — Western territory.

The escapees, moving quickly in twos and threes, sprang ashore. They flung themselves to the ground to escape the whipping bullets. When the West Berlin police fired, the Vopos checked their fire.

The whole thing was over in 20 minutes. The boat's captain and engineer were allowed to get the boat under way and return to East Berlin.

Enlarging House For Lion Skin

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Warren Johnson shot a mountain lion in Utah last fall and had the hide made into a rug.

But the rug measured 8 feet and 4 inches, nose to tail, and it was longer than the room in which Johnson wanted to use it.

Johnson asked the city for permission to add three feet to his house. Sorry, said Building Commissioner Harold Christian, that would put the house too close to the property line. But he had a suggestion. Cut off the lion's tail.

Nothing doing, said Johnson. So after much consultation, Christian relented.

Now Johnson can enlarge the room to fit the cat.

Heart-Replacing Surgery Coming

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Replacement of a bad heart with a good one is possible in humans within the next five or ten years, ago.

a Yale University professor of surgery said today.

Such transplants have been made with dogs but have been only partially successful, mainly because the body seems to reject tissues of a strange heart. Dr. William W. L. Glenn told the Kentucky Heart Association.

Development of remarkable plastic materials may speed the day of human transplants, he said.

The mammoth, an elephantlike creature, became extinct in North America some 8,000 years ago.

Report 136 Pitt Births In May

Minority Favor Extra Service

GRIFTON — Ballots received by Carolina Telephone Co. in connection with extended area service between Grifton and Kinston indicate that only 46 per cent of the subscribers who voted favor the proposed service.

So far, only about 85 per cent of the Grifton subscribers have returned their ballots. Of this total, 233 voted in favor of the proposal and 272 voted against it. Ballots received within the next few days will be counted in the total.

J. E. Cutler, local manager for the company, said that the poll resulted from expression of interest from a number of Grifton subscribers for toll-free service to Kinston. Provision of the new service was endorsed by the Town Board of Commissioners, Cutler said.

"Unless a clear majority of subscribers votes in favor of extended area service between Kinston and Grifton, we will not recommend it to the Utilities Commission," Cutler said. He noted that extended area service between Grifton and Kinston would result in an enlarged calling scope for subscribers of the two exchanges.

Cutler indicated that if sufficient interest is shown in the future, the company will conduct a second poll.

President Plans To Visit Father

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy is coming here late Sunday to visit his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, who is reported improving at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

The President, it was reported here, plans to stay at the Hotel Carlyle Sunday night and return to Washington Monday morning. His father is under treatment for the after-effects of a stroke suffered last winter.

The President's wife visited her 73-year-old father-in-law Thursday.

The White House said she planned to visit the patient again today and return to Washington after lunch following a three-day visit here.

Storms Ground Goodman's Band

TBLISI, U.S.S.R. (AP)—Benny Goodman and his jazz band arrived in this capital of the Georgian Republic today after rain storms grounded them at Sochi all day Thursday.

The band, dog tired from its journey, was to have given its opening concert here tonight. But this was postponed until Saturday night.

The American jazzmen will play in the 8,000-seat Tbilisi Sports Palace, biggest hall on its six-week tour. Tickets have been sold out weeks in advance.

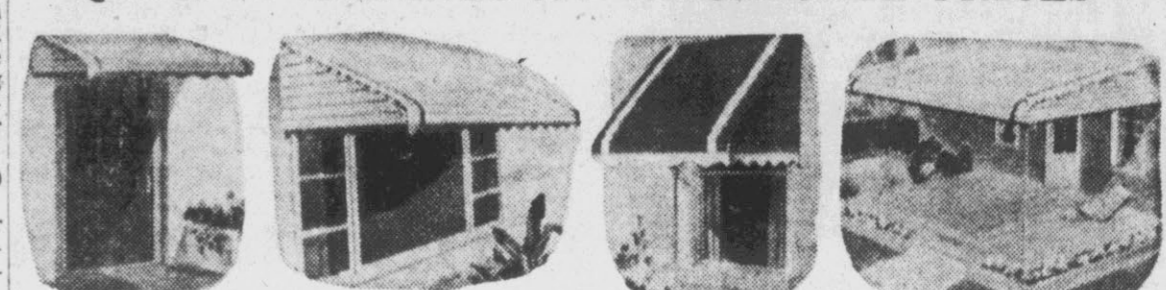

APPOINTED — Lt. Gen. John K. Gerhart has been named by the White House as commander of the North American Air Defense Command. He replaces Gen. L. S. Kuter.

President Talks Tax Cut As Prosperity Strategy

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy plus his strategy for prosperity on a five-point tax package that includes across-the-board income tax cuts starting next January.

"There is no need for this country to stand helplessly by and watch a recovery run out of gas," Kennedy told his news conference Thursday.

"We have a program to boost it and I hope that all those who are concerned about their stocks or their profits or their jobs will help us get action on this program," he added.

Thus inviting public support, including support from critics who contend administration policies upset the stock market, Kennedy urged Congress to get down to business quickly on his proposals.

Tax talk highlighted the news conference in which Kennedy snapped back at Republican detractors and said he would take the stump for Democratic candidates in the November elections.

He made clear the administration does not intend to recommend an immediate cut in income taxes. But he said he will offer a tax reform bill providing reductions in both personal and corporate income taxes, effective Jan. 1, for congressional action next year. Details are being worked out, he said, but will result in a net loss—the reductions "will not be wholly offset by other reforms."

Kennedy conceded his goal of a $570-billion gross national product, the value of the nation's output, probably will not be achieved this year. The stock market decline won't help, he said, but adoption of his tax package would improve chances "of being close."

He listed these other points in the program:

The House-passed tax credit for money invested in new machinery and equipment.

Repeal of the 10 per cent tax on rail and bus transportation and cutting the tax on air travel in half, to 5 per cent.

"Action on this tax package will provide our economy with all of the stimulus and safeguards now deemed necessary," Kennedy said, "and I hope such action will be forthcoming."

The President distinguished measures in the package from his proposals to withhold taxes on dividends and interest and to prevent corporations from finding tax havens abroad. But these proposals also ought to pass, he said.

Kennedy declared he will be active in the fall election campaigns.

And he congratulated former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for winning the GOP gubernatorial primary in California. That's one state in which Kennedy is expected to appear, on behalf of Nixon's opponent, Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Other states which party sources believe he is most likely to invade are Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Michigan, Kentucky and possibly Oregon, Utah and South Dakota.

Kennedy took a swing at Republican National Chairman William E. Miller and other GOP leaders after repudiating a statement by Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey accusing Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York of prejudice against Negroes. He said he had been waiting "for about a year and a half" for leading Republicans to repudiate some of the charges Miller had flung against him.

To the laughter of newsmen, but to his own admitted regret, Kennedy prolonged the conference for one more question after the traditional "Thank you, Mr. President" had been called out and reporters with early deadlines scurried toward the doors. The additional question forced him smilingly to acknowledge a difference of opinion with Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York over Rep. Charles A. Buckley, D-N.Y.

Kennedy supports and Wagner opposes Buckley. "And that is the way it is going to be, I guess," Kennedy said.

On other matters:

Foreign Aid—Kennedy said he was glad the Senate restored at least the government's authority to aid Poland and Yugoslavia with surplus food. The Senate Thursday exempted foodstuffs from the ban it voted Wednesday on any assistance to Communist dominated countries. Kennedy said the United States requires flexibility in its foreign aid program.

Medical Care—Passage of his plan to finance medical care of the aged through Social Security, Kennedy argued, would nullify the Kerr-Mills law. Under this law Washington supplies funds to help pay medical bills of the needy in states which set up programs of their own. Kerr-Mills assistance would still go to persons not covered by Social Security, he said, and he would support additional measures to aid people in that category.

De Gaulle—Kennedy said he hadn't heard anything of a report he and President Charles de Gaulle of France are arranging to meet. He also said there is no relationship between the question of furnishing nuclear information to France and improving relations with De Gaulle.

Legislation—With time growing short and Congress members eager to get home in this election year, Kennedy said a priority list of legislation the administration particularly wants passed will have to be drawn up. He mentioned aid for higher education, but not general school aid, among the proposals to be considered for the list.

Spain—The President answered with a terse "No" when asked if he had met with Spanish Republicans while in Venezuela last December and told them he would work to overthrow the Franco regime in Spain.

Mexico—He still intends to visit Mexico the end of this month, Kennedy said, and he doesn't intend to get into a quarrel over disparaging remarks about the United States by Mexico's ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Cigarettes—Kennedy declined to comment on the controversy over the possible effect of cigarette smoking on lung cancer, other than to cite pages of the Public Health Service to appoint a panel of experts to study the question.

Meanwhile, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced that he now was certain the votes were available to knock the withholding plan for dividends and interest from the House-passed bill now before the Senate Finance Committee which he heads.

This is supposed to provide half of the revenue to finance the investment credit feature designed as a $1.35 billion incentive to business to modernize its plant and equipment.

Byrd is announced to feel that if withholding is beaten, the investment credit also will fail—since otherwise the bill would be too costly.

Enough is enough said Buren Grant, so he has resigned as the only police officer in this community of 750 persons.

He says he called it quits after the Board of Commissioners wanted him to haul garbage and cut the town's grass in addition to his other duties which include reading water meters, checking the town pumps, doing some street repairing, and hauling gravel for the streets.

Grant made $74.50 a week.

The Final Straw For Policeman

U.S. Influence On Poland May Lie In German Issue

An AP News Analysis
By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—The United States can influence Poland more by siding with it on German issues than it can by economic aid.

Polish officials would particularly welcome U.S. recognition of Polish sovereignty over the pre-war German territory Poland has occupied since World War II.

With great passion, Poles argue that the United States has completely forgotten the war and is gambling blindly with its support of West Germany.

There has been no official reaction here to the Senate vote Wednesday to ban aid to Communist-dominated countries or to the Senate's modifying action Thursday.

It is hard to measure the amount of leverage on Poland's Communist government the United States has achieved in exchange for the half billion dollars worth of food and other aid it has given Poland since 1957.

Many Americans consider it woefully small.

But it is generally agreed that if the United States gives no aid to Poland, Wladyslaw Gomulka's regime will pay far less attention to America's desire that the Polish people be free of repression.

Poland handed the United States two mild rebuffs within five days.

Last Sunday came an announcement that Foreign Minister Rakowski would leave this weekend on an official visit to Fidel Castro's Cuba. Polish officials demonstrated little or no concern for the unfavorable impact it could have on U.S. opinion.

The second incident involved a U.S. offer to include Poland on the exhibition tour astronaut John H. Glenn's space capsule is making.

The U.S. Embassy, with a tentative go-ahead from Warsaw, started arrangements to bring the capsule here from Cairo June 14-17. But a U.S. Embassy spokesman announced Thursday that the American offer was withdrawn because the Poles later "were unable to give a positive reply."

It appeared the Polish government set cold feet when it realized the Soviet government refused last month to let the capsule be shown in the Soviet Union.

Universal Pictures Sees Its Fiftieth Anniversary

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Happy birthday, dear Universal Pictures, happy 50th birthday to you.

Carl Laemmle founded the company in New York City on June 8, 1912. That makes it older than any other movie empire, but younger than many leading men.

Universal has always seemed young, despite its half-century of existence. From the start it was a scrappy little independent, fighting the big studios with nerve and talent. It has undergone many a change in operation, and soon will get its biggest change.

I can't report on the early days, but the film history books record that Laemmle was a battler. He stood up to the trust that controlled the industry in the spawning days by strict enforcement of patents. A crusty little German immigrant, he shared what other movie pioneers had: An instinct for entertainment.

Laemmle may well have started the star system by hiring Florence Lawrence at $1,000 a week and billing Mary Pickford with her own name, instead of "the girl with the curls."

He started building the sprawling Universal lot just over the hill from Hollywood in 1914. The studio boasts that it is the biggest single lot in town—"bigger than Princess Grace's Monaco."

It is also the only studio with its own post office—Universal City.

Feelings High In Slaying Of Boy

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—A manslaughter charge against a 40-year-old man may be taken directly to the Carteret County grand jury because of feeling reported running high in the family of the victim, a 15-year-old boy.

Robert C. McLean was held Thursday in an undisclosed jail outside the county. He failed to make $5,000 bond in the slaying of William Francis Sample.

Police Chief W. H. Griffin said McLean apparently shot someone he thought was a prowler. The person turned out to be the Sample youth, who was a guest of McLean's son for the night and apparently had been on a beach outing in the wee hours of Thursday morning.

The chief said the Sample and McLean families were good friends. The dead boy was the son of Mrs. Sample and Francis Purfoy, former operator of a party boat, by a previous marriage. Chief Griffin said feeling was "rather high" among the Sample and Purfoy families.

Coroner Frank Menden said he would leave to District Solicitor Robert Rouse the decision on holding an inquest or taking the case directly to the grand jury.

Another change in management saw the take-over by William Goetz and Leo Spitz with their International Pictures. This led to the redundant and bothersome title of Universal-International.

The Goetz-Spitz combine concentrated on quality films with fair results.

Lacking hit products, Universal shut down for a soul-searching period. Eventually it sold the studio property to the bustling new television giant, Revue, and rented back space.

Universal converted to a policy of a few, specially tailored films, hopefully blockbusters.

Now Universal is on the verge of a merger with Revue. With such an infusion of energy, Laemmle's lot is likely to be in business for another 50 years.

Seymour Johnson - Based Bomber Sets Record Long Distance Flight

SEYMOUR JOHNSON AIR FORCE BASE, N.C. (AP)—Capt. William F. Stevenson took aboard 50,000 gallons of jet fuel a couple of days ago and set off to do some flying.

When he and his crew returned here at 2:38 p.m. (EST) Thursday, they had traveled a record 11,420 miles without refueling in their B52H eight-jet bomber.

They were aloft 22 hours and 38 minutes. Capt. Stevenson, of Miami, Fla., commented, "We still had enough fuel for about another hour and a half."

The plane broke two records, for distance flown in a closed circuit course—that is, leaving from and returning to the same point—and the world Class C-1 distance record for heavy jets. The old marks were set at 10,078 miles in 1960 by a B52G of the Strategic Air Command.

The B52H left here at 4 p.m. Wednesday, proceeding to Bermuda, north to Stentrom, Greenland, west to Anchorage, Alaska, south to Los Angeles, east to Key West, Fla., then north to Seymour Johnson.

"We never entered complete darkness," Stevenson said. "There was a sunset around Nova Scotia. When we got up to Greenland, there was a sunrise again. There was a sunset over Anchorage, another sunrise at Seattle. We were either in daylight or various shades of sunrise or twilight."

"We also saw a missile shot at Cape Canaveral. We were about 40 miles away and there were thunderstorm clouds all around, but we saw the missile as it came up through the clouds."

The plane and crew are stationed with the 19th Bomb Wing at Homestead AFB, Fla. The trip was planned for Seymour Johnson for operational reasons. Both are SAC bases.

Last January a B52H flew from Okinawa to Madrid, setting 11 records, including the mark for distance for all types of aircraft without refueling. The Air Force pointed out that this flight was in a straight line and the pilot could take advantage of high speed winds aloft, while Capt. Stevenson's plane had to follow a set pattern.

Other crew members with Capt. Stevenson were Capt. Floyd J. Schoendienst, 27, the pilot, of St. Louis; 1st Lt. Frank R. Wing, 27, co-pilot, Buffalo, N.Y.; 1st Lt. Donald B. Avey, 27, radar navigator, Redding, Calif.; 1st Lt. David B. Wilson, 25, electronic warfare officer, Southgate, Calif.; 2nd Lt. Ronald J. Bella Pietra, 23, navigator, Miami, Fla.; and T. Sgt. James W. Savage, 34, gunner, of Whitesboro, Tex.

Astronaut Cites Grads' Horizons

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter urged a stary-eyed Boulder High School graduating class Thursday night to reach for the moon.

"Your horizons are limited only by your own vision," said the Navy lieutenant commander, who was graduated from the same school 19 years ago.

Carpenter, 37, received a standing ovation from the 318 seniors and 2,500 relatives and guests.

The hometown hero, who two weeks earlier orbited the earth, said: "Going to the moon is no longer fantasy. There's a slight chance that men my age might someday be on the moon. Possibly people of your age will land not on the moon, but on the moons of Mars, and then on Mars itself."

Recalling his youth, Carpenter termed the world one of chaos when he was graduated in 1943.

"But the world you enter, in case you've heard news to the contrary, is rich with promise," he said. "You really don't know what riches await you. They await but they're not going to drop into your lap. You have to go get them."

Carpenter said the graduates have their work cut out for them.

"We are engaged now in a battle with another ideology for the minds of men, the effects of which may be felt for another 1,000 years," he said. "It is your responsibility, whether you like it or not, to see that our God-fearing way of life continues and that freedom survives."

Scholarships, Awards To Graduates Of Sugg High

FARMVILLE—Officials of H. B. Sugg High School announced this week scholarships and awards presented to graduating seniors during commencement. Among them was a $350 per year scholarship presented to Jimmie Lee Diddy to attend North Carolina College in Durham.

Willie Eugene Ellis received a full athletic scholarship from Livingstone College. Ransie Redden received the H. B. Sugg Adult Class Scholarship of $100 and also the J. P. Social Club award of $100.

Charles Gay, salutatorian of the class, received a $1,200 scholarship from A.&T. College in Greensboro and, in addition, a $150 scholarship from the North Carolina Joint Council on Health and Citizenship, to be awarded for four years.

Hardy Wooten was recipient of the "ten plus three" Club award of $100. Laura Ann Hopkins, valedictorian, received a $1,400 scholarship from Elizabeth City Teachers College and the H. B. Sugg Scholarship of $200.

Fayetteville State Teachers College awarded Joyce Phillips a $150 scholarship to be given for four consecutive years, and a similar scholarship from North Carolina College.

Willie Steele received a $600 athletic scholarship from Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. Mary Alice Newton received a $150 continuing scholarship from Fayetteville State Teachers College.

Citations and awards were presented to other students, also.

Tempers Rise Near Close Of Hearing On 'Muzzling'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tempers ignited today as a special Senate subcommittee neared the end of its investigation of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that anti-Communist military men have been muzzled.

Thurmond told Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, "I believe you have been taken in by antimilitary propaganda."

"I see no ground for your comment," Sylvester retorted. His tone was level but his face flushed angrily. He called the statement a "gratuitous insult."

There was a sharp exchange, too, between Thurmond and Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the subcommittee now approaching the windup of a marathon investigation of Thurmond's charges.

Sylvester is the last scheduled witness in the off-and-on hearings which started last Jan. 23 to explore Thurmond's allegation that censorship and curbs on military participation in anti-Communist seminars for the public amount to muzzling, and reflect a no-win foreign policy.

Thurmond protested at one point that Stennis was trying to cross-question him. The South Carolina senator had sought to test Sylvester's knowledge of revolutionary antimilitarism as used by Communists against the U.S. military.

Stennis said he didn't understand the term and asked Thurmond to define it.

"I am not a witness," Thurmond retorted. He is a member of the subcommittee, and had been doing most of the questioning.

"If you are trying to cross-question me, this is not the time and place," Thurmond snapped.

Stennis said he was not trying to cross-examine a fellow senator but Thurmond heatedly replied: "Well, it looks very much like it."

Sylvester acknowledged he had not read some of the testimony about allegedly Red-inspired efforts to discredit military anti-Communist seminars and, as Thurmond put it, smear some of the participants. Sylvester also said he is no avid reader of allegedly left wing publications to check what they are doing.

Thurmond told Sylvester "it is apparent to me you have little or no interest in apprising yourself as the secretary of defense (sic) in this area of public affairs in which a concerted effort or propaganda is directed against the military defenses of our nation."

Thurmond added that this didn't surprise him, either.

German Couple Will Soon Visit Grandchildren

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Karl Quint, German grandparents of three little girls whose mother was killed last January will arrive here July 1, their travel expenses paid from a fund drive by the Salem Ruritan Club.

The couple, of Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, will be seeing their granddaughters for the first time. They are Henrietta, 4; Barbara, 3, and Jacquelyn, 17 months children of Army Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Alexander Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson and her father-in-law were slain by Ralph Nesbitt Cook, 25, since ruled mentally incompetent.

The Ruritan Club raised $2,069.29 in three weeks, well over its $1,800 quota, to pay for the trip. Another daughter of the German couple, Mrs. Henrietta Bonderson of St. Peter, Minn., will act as interpreter here. The couple will stay two weeks.

Traffic Stopped By Rocket Man Floating In Air

BOSTON (AP)—The reason hundreds of people gawked upward and traffic stopped on a Charles River bridge—there was a man floating in the air.

He was dressed in a sort of science-fiction uniform and corset with a whopping pack on his back which let out an ear-splitting roar from rocket steam jets.

It was a demonstration Wednesday by Harold M. Graham, 27, a test pilot for Bell Aerosystems, of what is called a small rocket lift device developed by Bell for the Army.

After rising some 20 feet, he soared lazily over a parked automobile in the paved parking space of the Museum of Science and then made a landing in which he bounced about a foot high.

He wore heavy boots, an orange brain-bucket helmet, coveralls and knee and elbow guards. And to protect his eardrums from the rocket racket he wore ear plugs.

In his belt and pack were 50 pounds of hydrogen peroxide solution which was turned into steam at 1,300-degree temperature.

Pacifists 'Ready To Die' To Prove Testing Wrong

HONOLULU (AP)—Dr. Monte Steadman says he and two other pacifists will sail Monday for the Johnston Island nuclear test zone and are prepared to die to prove nuclear testing is wrong.

"The government will not stop us because it has no right to," said the handsome, ear-nose-throat specialist on leave from Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco. He is spokesman for the protest effort.

Dr. Steadman, 41 is captain of the 28-foot twin-masted ketch Patry Jean, renamed the Everyman II. The protest craft Everyman I was seized on federal order off the California coast with its crew May 26.

Dr. Steadman's crew is Franklin Zahn, 54, Claremont, Calif., and George Benello, 36, Berkeley, Calif., who will be navigator. The doctor said he has never sailed on the open sea.

CLOSING EXERCISES

Vacation Bible School at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church will have its closing exercises Saturday evening at 7:30. Public is invited to attend.

Court Approves Ten Divorces

In last week's term of civil court, Superior Court Judge J. William Copeland granted 10 divorces and ordered one case a mistrial.

White couples granted absolute divorces after two years separation were Dorothy Peadar Williams and Bobby Edward Williams, Grace Wood Cox and Theron Cox, Jean P. Hardee and Dennis L. Hardee, Linwood I. Rouse and Sue T. Rouse, and Jesse Miles Jerrigan and Charlotte Mathalee Jernigan.

A mistrial was ordered in the case of Edward Hill and Beulah Dixon Hill.

Negro couples granted divorces were Eliza D. Evans and Junior Evans, James Collins Wilkes and Beatrice Joyner Wilkes, John Robert Maye and Ethel Outlaw Maye, Ben F. Green and Lizzie T. Green, and Sam Carney and Florence M. Carney.

Farmville Native Is Wed In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA—St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church of Los Angeles was the setting here last week on Saturday, May 26, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the marriage of Miss Lula Mosley Fields, daughter of Mrs. Claude Fields, Sr., and the late Mr. Fields of Farmville, N. C., to Kloviz Z. Walker. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Walker of Wichita, Kansas.

The Reverend E. Lawrence Carter, Rector of St. John's performed the ceremony. Attorney George L. Vaughn, Jr., gave her hand in marriage. The bride wore a long-sleeved sleek sheath of ice blue silk organza covered with motifs of threaded Alencon lace appliqued onto the fabric with tiny chalk beads. Slim silhouette offset by fullness of panel of plain silk organza attached at back of waistline. Her chapel train veil of matching organza was secured by a crown of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a Prayer Book topped with white ribbon streamers, Lily-of-the-Valley and a white orchid. The bride's gown was designed by Philip Hulitar of DePinna of Fifth Avenue, New York.

Mrs. Thomas Barnes, Jr., of Farmville, was matron of honor for her sister and Mrs. Jessie Ruth Estes, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The Reverend Mr. Xerxes E. Walker was his brother's best man. Ushers were William Fields, David Bryant and Charles Rogers. Music was by Dr. James Vail, Professor of Music, University of Southern California. Mrs. Christine Smith, soprano, was soloist.

The reception was held at the home of the Joseph Martins, Sr., of South Wilton Place, Los Angeles, following the ceremony.

The bride graduated from the H. B. Sugg High School of Farmville. She attended Howard University and graduated from the Cortez Peters Business College of Washington, D. C. She graduated from the Vogue Modeling School of Los Angeles; attended Bevans School of Drama of Hollywood and is presently studying speech and drama under British actress Hilda Plowright. She is a member of Tau Gamma Delta Sorority. Her husband studied at Friends University of Wichita and received his A. B. Degree from the University of Wichita School of Logopedics. The couple honeymooned in Ensenada, Mexico and will live in Los Angeles.

MRS. KLOVIZ Z. WALKER

Panel Of Veteran Editors Prepare Standards For A 'Good Newspaper'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The test of a good newspaper is how well it meets the standards of integrity, accuracy, responsibility and leadership, says a committee of veteran editors.

The committee, made up of members of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, spent 18 months of study in drawing up a proposed code to help the public and press evaluate newspapers.

Called a "Criteria of a Good Newspaper," the code represents the first broad-scale effort ever made to establish such guidelines.

John H. Colburn, managing editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch and committee chairman, said it now embodies the suggestions of nearly 50 editors and publishers and heads of 15 journalism schools.

"It is only now ready for examination, criticism and revision by newspapermen at large," he said. "We hope to get suggestions for its improvement from the profession as a whole."

J. Edward Murray, managing editor of The Arizona Republic, of Phoenix, conceived the idea for the code two years ago when he was president of the managing editors association.

He suggested that the criteria be drawn up to fit any good newspaper, regardless of size, and be clear enough for the average reader to use in judging his own newspaper.

The code, he said, could serve as both a working standard and a goal for the many excellent papers which have never made the lists of "the ten great newspapers."

In addition to Colburn and Murray, other members of the committee were Frank Everly, managing editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; Vincent S. Jones, executive editor of the Gannett Newspapers; James S. Pope, former executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times; and J. Montgomery Curtis, director of the American Press Institute.

Colburn said it is hoped that publication of the code also will demonstrate that the vast majority of the nation's 1,768 daily newspapers are both responsible and informative.

Here are some of the things the code says a good newspaper should do:

tion and editing of its contents as well as in all relations with news sources and the public.

"Deal dispassionately with controversial subjects and treat disputed issues with impartiality..."

"Label its own editorial view or expressions of opinion..."

ACCURACY

"Exert maximum effort to print the truth in all news situations. Strive for completeness and objectivity."

"Guard against carelessness, bias, or distortion by either emphasis or omission. Correct promptly errors of fact for which the paper is responsible."

RESPONSIBILITY

"Use mature and considered judgment in the public interest at all times. Select, edit and display news on the basis of its significance and its genuine usefulness to the public."

"Edit news affecting public morals with candor and good taste and avoid an imbalance of a sensational, preponderantly negative or merely trivial news.

"Accent when possible a reasonable amount of news which illustrates the values of compassion, self-sacrifice, heroism, good citizenship and patriotism..."

"Respect rights of privacy..."

LEADERSHIP

"Stimulate and vigorously support public officials, private groups and individuals in crusades to increase the good works and eliminate the bad in the community."

"Help to protect all rights and privileges guaranteed by law.

"Serve as a constructive critic of government at all levels, providing leadership for necessary reforms or innovations, and exposing any malfeasance in office..."

"Oppose demagogues and other selfish and unwholesome interests..."

The report gave this guide for a good newspaper:

"A good newspaper should be guided in the publication of all material by a concern for truth, the hallmark of freedom, by a concern for human decency and human betterment, and by a respect for the accepted standards of its own community."

Spelling Title Called Luck

WASHINGTON (AP)—The co-winners of the National Spelling Bee contest agree that luck, more than anything else, makes a champion speller.

"Most of the words I never heard of," admitted Michael Day, 14, Hardin, Ill., who shares the 1962 title with tall brunette Nettie Crawford, 13, Roswell, N.M.

"It was pretty rough," Nettie thought.

Because most of the words were so difficult the two eighth graders waged what amounted to more of a guessing game in Thursday's final round of the 35th annual spelling bee. Their battle finally was declared a draw.

Nettie and Mike became champions by spelling correctly such tongue-twisters as "unguiculate," meaning having claws or nails, and "monocotyledon," a botanical term referring to seed plants.

The two winners each pick up bronze trophies and a $1,000 prize at a windup banquet tonight and then they'll head for an all-expenses paid sightseeing weekend in New York City.

Nettie's father runs a 600-acre cotton and alfalfa ranch and Mike's dad is with the Social Security Administration in Hardin.

Massachusetts Demos To Decide Big Fight Tonight

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Bickering Massachusetts Democrats try to simmer down enough tonight to get a preliminary answer to this politically explosive question:

Who will it be, Teddy or Eddie?

In more formal language, will the Democrats endorse Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, brother of the President, or the state attorney general, Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, for U.S. senator?

the national dynasty issue now," he explained. "The Republicans would have the greatest domestic issue if Ted is elected, but if Ted is defeated the dynasty issue is dead."

Kennedy denied emphatically that his own news session rumors that income tax investigations, deportation proceedings and promises of postmasterships were being used to swing delegates into his camp. McCormack specifically mentioned 52 postmasterships left unfilled.

"Then I challenge him," Kennedy declared.

Although the convention has had all the hard fighting and all the backstage huddling of a national political convention, the truth is that it's almost meaningless.

For the loser can, and probably will, enter the primaries, too, and a victory here won't necessarily be of great advantage.

Furthermore, the final Democratic winner to come out of the primary may have to run against still a third nationally famous family representative.

The report gave this guide for a good newspaper:

"A good newspaper should be guided in the publication of all material by a concern for truth, the hallmark of freedom, by a concern for human decency and human betterment, and by a respect for the accepted standards of its own community."

Party chieftains will put in a full day before reaching their big decision, probably late tonight.

Both men—Teddy is 30, Eddie is 38—flashed brilliant, confident smiles and claimed victory.

Kennedy—"We will have a clear majority" with possibly 1,000 votes.

McCormack—"I have 916."

Since it takes 862 votes to win if all the delegates are present, somebody's arithmetic is remarkably shoddy.

Charges and counter-charges flew. McCormack told a news conference he is "doing the President a favor" by attempting to defeat his brother.

"There is a lot of talk about

Kennedy answered that such charges "insult the integrity" of McCormack supporters.

McCormack charges pressure and "arm-twisting" have been used to lure his delegates. He said he has affidavits to prove such pressure but did not want to use them because they could hurt the President in 1964.

Kennedy made an unqualified denial that either of his brothers, the President or Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, had used their influence to help him.

Newsman told him McCormack had said he would keep his affidavits secret unless Kennedy challenged him to disclose them.

For George Lodge, 34, is contending for the Republican nomination against U.S. Rep. Laurence Curtis. George's father is Henry Cabot Lodge, former ambassador to the United Nations and GOP candidate for vice president in 1960.

John P. Kennedy beat Henry Cabot Lodge for this same Senate seat in 1952—and with that victory took a giant stride toward the White House.

St. Augustine, Florida, founded in 1565, is the oldest city in the United States.

President James Buchanan was a bachelor.

Liz And Eddie Can't Agree On Divorce Plans

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor—separated by an ocean—appear to be in disagreement on how their divorce is to be handled.

Fisher said here Thursday that it wouldn't be gentlemanly for him to shed the actress, so he'll sue for divorce in Las Vegas, Nev., and she'll get the decree by countersuit.

The couple will cooperate to end the marriage, the singer said.

But Miss Taylor's personal secretary, who is with the actress in Rome, said the screen siren knows nothing about the announced divorce-filing plan.

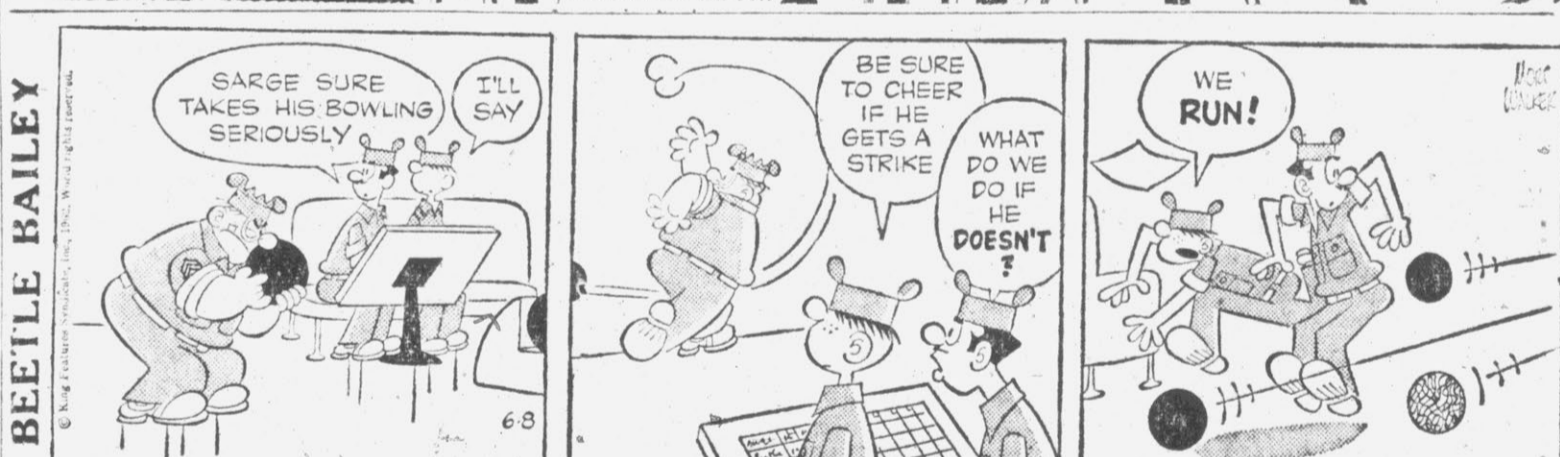

Richard Hanley said Miss Taylor had no comment when told about Fisher's statement.

Fisher said the divorce grounds would be mental cruelty. He'll start the required six-week Nevada residence on July 24 when he begins a night club engagement in Las Vegas.

Miss Taylor is playing Cleopatra to Richard Burton's Marc Antony in a film in Rome. Burton is the actor involved in the rift in the Fisher-Taylor marriage.

Marines To Lose Unusual Battle

VENTIMIGLIA, Italy (AP)—The U.S. Marines are going to take part Sunday in the most unusual battle they ever fought. And they will lose.

The fight is the annual battle of flowers. Vice Adm. David McDonald of the U.S. 6th Fleet gave special permission Thursday for the Marines to join in the battle.

Big floats decorated in elaborate designs with the flowers for which the Riviera is famous are paraded through the streets. Pretty girls on the floats pelt the spectators with flowers.

The city's young men—this year the Marines—run alongside and pelt the flowers back.

The girls always win. They have the most ammunition. Their carts are loaded with thousands of flowers.

Another Recess By Laos Princes

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)— Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma said today the three princes summit conference has decided to adjourn its sessions until Monday to give its members time to reflect on the formation of a coalition government.

Emerging red-faced from a half-hour afternoon meeting with his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, and pro-Western Premier Prince Boum Oum, Souvanna told reporters: "One or two unsettled points obliged us to postpone the meeting until Monday and each party has demanded time for reflection."

He added that he hoped Monday's meeting will be the last one before he announces a formation of a coalition Cabinet.

Boum Oum and his delegation, which includes strong-man Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, flew back to Vientiane and will return here Monday.

Souvanna, who is to head the coalition if it is formed, told newsmen Thursday "very great progress" had been made in the first session and he hoped for a final agreement today. He said the three factions had agreed on the key issue, which group would get the ministries of defense and interior and through them control of the army and police.

Souphanouvong, Souvanna's half brother who heads the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, told reporters he was satisfied and was "sure that a solution of a coalition is inevitable."

Gen. Phoumi also expressed optimism and said the talks were going smoothly. But he said no agreement had been made on the distribution of jobs.

That officials in Bangkok, who have close ties with Phoumi, said the general and Boum Oum were proposing a version of the troika—or three horse—system of control for the defense and interior ministries, as the Soviets proposed last year for the United Nations.

The Thai sources said the Vientiane troika plan calls for Souvanna to be minister of defense and interior and through them control of the army and police. But in each ministry he would have three assistant ministers—one from each faction—and all three would have to agree before any administrative action could be taken.

Funeral Set Sunday For Clifton Carrow

Mother Of Local Man Succumbs

URBANA, Va.—Mrs. Eunice P. VanWagenen of Urbana, mother of John VanWagenen Sr. of Greenville, died yesterday in Richmond following several weeks of illness. Mrs. VanWagenen, a native of Virginia, was 87.

Among her survivors are two grandsons, John VanWagenen Jr. of Greenville, Byron VanWagenen of Ayden, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Leroy Byrd of Greenville.

Auditors Trying Find $5 Million

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Auditors are trying to trace $5 million which disappeared from bank accounts of Billie Sol Estes in 14 months, the Dallas News reported today.

"Some creditors think the money went to Switzerland," reporter Harry McCormick wrote in the newspaper's copyright story.

Estes, Pecos, Tex., promoter, has been indicted on fraud and theft charges and is being investigated by two congressional committees. His multimillion-dollar grain fertilizer sales interests are in the hands of a receiver.

FBI agents arrested Estes March 29. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said he ordered the move because there were reports Estes might flee to Brazil.

CARD OF THANKS

The Johnson, Hardy and Williams families wish to thank both white and colored for their many acts of kindness during the illness and death of their loved one, Mrs. Enichel Hardy Johnson. May God bless all of you.

He then made the motion to study the proposal and it was passed.

A committee including Dr. Brimley, Willard Pollard, Frank Brown and J. T. Williams was appointed to work with Building Inspector J. W. Wilson on a proposed adoption of the N. C. State Plumbing Code.

Wilson presented the new code to the Council and said that the code had been adopted by the N. C. Building Code Council.

The city's present code is several years old, he noted.

In other business the council voted to require property owners to participate on a one-third cost basis for the paving of Brook Road, and recommend that Mayor King meet with interested parties and reach an agreement on paving of Cozart St.

No action was taken by the council on a request by Charles Cobb, chairman of the Neighborhood Conservation Committee, who asked that an inspector be hired to work with the Neighborhood Conservation program.

"I would like to see this program get started," he emphasized.

Cobb commented that "if such a committee were appointed we would be superfluous and I would resign" when Mayor King suggested a government-assisted program of Neighborhood Conservation might be set up under the Urban Redevelopment Commission.

Farmville Temporarily Is Shelving Shelter Project

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Board of Commissioners have temporarily shelved the plans for a fallout shelter, but noted that action could be revived should world tension increase and the need become more acute.

Town Clerk H. M. Allred told the group that the funds collected for the shelter had been returned to contributors. He also noted that there was some doubt if the shelter would ever be built on the site obtained near the National Guard Armory because members of the association could not agree on the merits of the property.

In other business the commissioners agreed to notify state agencies that W. A. McAdams would continue as superintendent of the light and water department. The notification is necessary because McAdams has reached the 65-year retirement age.

The group offered $1,125 to Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti for eight-tenths of an acre of land near the power plant for the purpose of erecting a garage to house municipal equipment.

The board also requested help from the state for labor and equipment, if not in funds, to open drainage ditches and install tile near South Main St. in the southern end of town. This request was necessary because the state is doing work that requires these improvements by the town.

The Highway Commission notified the board that it will survey a section of U.S. 258 north of the city limits for widening of the
