Pay Increases In North Carolina Are Boosting Income Taxes

Revenue Commissioner Expects Collections 15% Over Estimates

RALEIGH (AP)—Pay increases in North Carolina during the past year have been like a shot in the arm to the state's income tax collections. Revenue Commissioner W. A. Johnson said Tuesday that when the current fiscal year ends June 30, the State Revenue Department expects to have collected more than $95 million in individual income taxes. This is an increase of 15 per cent over estimates of the 1961 Legislature and 12 per cent above collections for the previous year.

The 1961 Legislature approved pay raises for some 45,000 school teachers and higher education faculty members. The boosts increased the total education payroll by $20.5 million to $123.5 million in the first quarter of 1962 over the same period last year. Quarterly tax collections from the education payroll jumped from $72,000 to $2,388,000.

Refused To Tell Source Of Cash

NEW YORK (AP)—A French national trying to leave the United States with $247,400 cash in a valise has been sentenced to six months in jail for refusing to say where he got the money. The Frenchman, Antoine B. Riniere, 42, said he is an international art dealer. A Federal Narcotics Bureau agent said he is well-known to the bureau and had been under surveillance since his arrival in this country.

Sec. Rusk Fails Budge DeGaulle

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk today began a round of consultations with North Atlantic Treaty Organization military and political leaders after a meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle that made no real progress toward smoothing differences between France and the United States.

Rusk arrived in Paris on Tuesday for the first stop on a West European tour to shore up the unity of NATO. American sources said his initial talk with De Gaulle was animated, friendly and searching but that it didn't budge the French leader.

Rusk met first today with Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander, and then talked with Ambassador Thomas K. Finletter, the permanent U.S. representative of the 15-nation NATO Council. There was no immediate indication of the substance of their talks. It was thought likely they briefly reviewed current NATO problems, including the issue of giving America's allies a greater share in deciding on when and how NATO's arsenal of American nuclear warheads might be used.

Dave Beck Takes Road To Prison

SEATTLE (AP)—Millionaire Dave Beck, 68-year-old ex-boss of the Teamsters Union, began the road to prison today. The Beck party headed for Tacoma, 30 miles away, with U.S. Marshal Donald F. Miller and Beck's lawyer, Charles S. Burdell, following in a car behind.

Beck will serve a five-year term at McNeil Island penitentiary, near Tacoma, for filing two fraudulent union income tax returns. Beck rode in the back of a limousine driven by a Teamsters Union official. He carried a statement, which he promised to issue before he goes to prison. On the eve of his five-year term for filing fraudulent tax returns, he told a reporter: "You don't have to fall down just because you've been knocked down. What matters is, 'Do you get up again?'"

Airlines Strike Is Staved Off

Goldberg Claims Progress In Marathon Negotiation With Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said early today there has been progress toward settling a dispute between the Flight Engineers Union and Trans World Airlines.

Goldberg gave the hopeful report as he recessed the marathon negotiations at the request of union officials who asked for a chance to confer with their local chapters.

He declined to reveal the reason for the union conferences but presumably the flight engineer representatives want to sound out members on the government's latest proposal for solving the wrangle over jobs in the cockpits of jet airliners.

Goldberg presented the proposal to the airline and Flight Engineers International Association Tuesday just at the 2 p.m. deadline the union had set to strike TWA's transcontinental and overseas operations.

The union postponed the strike but not in time to head off picketing at New York's Idlewild Airport and at TWA terminals at Kansas City and San Francisco. The pickets finally withdrew.

Few flights were reported delayed but a TWA spokesman in Kansas City said the airline suffered a substantial loss of business because of confusion over the strike situation.

The flight engineers promised Goldberg they would hold off on the strike until they considered the new government proposal.

Its terms were not made public immediately but it was believed to contain job and union security pledges for the engineers.

For several years, the engineers union has been locked in a feud with the Air Line Pilots Association over job rights aboard jet airliners.

The argument between the two AFL-CIO unions was over which would represent the third man.

To Talk Details Of Mining Lease

RALEIGH (AP)—State officials and representatives of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. plan to confer here Thursday to clear up questions which have arisen over proposed phosphate mining in Pamlico River.

The New York company was high bidder recently on a lease for phosphate mining in an area about one mile square in the Pamlico River near Washington in Beaufort County. It offered to turn over to the state 12.5 per cent of its gross sales from any phosphate mined from the river bottom.

E. C. Hubbard, secretary of the State Stream Sanitation Committee, said one purpose of the meeting is to discuss the methods the company will use in protecting the quality of the water in Pamlico River.

He said he wanted to discuss with company officials the manner in which they propose to conduct their operations.

Thor Missile Again Fails Mission In Pacific Test

HONOLULU (AP)—The malfunction of a Thor missile forced the United States to destroy a gigantic nuclear device in flight near Johnston Island late Tuesday night without exploding it.

The abortive attempt to set off a nuclear device at high altitude above the Pacific test site was the second failure in two tries.

No specific explanation was given for the failure. Joint Task Force 8 said in its official statement that the shot was scrapped "due to a malfunction in the system."

The nuclear device was blown apart and dropped harmlessly into the ocean. There was no nuclear detonation.

It was assumed, however, that the term "the system" referred to trouble with the Thor's tracking system—the same problem that caused failure of the first

Johnston test shot June 4. Tuesday night's test was to have been the biggest and highest in the United States' current Pacific test series. The nuclear package was classified as megaton-plus in yield—more powerful than one million tons of TNT. Its power had been estimated unofficially at about 10 megatons.

Previous announcements said the detonation was to be at an altitude of hundreds of kilometers. Unofficially, estimates were 200 miles.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, announced the failure about 20 minutes after launch. He had returned hours earlier from Johnston Island.

Announcement of the failure followed a silence on radios monitoring the countdown. It said: "A Thor booster was launched tonight at about 10:47 p.m. HST (4:47 a.m. EDT) carrying a nuclear device, designed for one of the high-altitude tests in the current U.S. test series from Johnston Island. Due to a malfunction in the system, the nuclear device was purposely destroyed without a nuclear detonation.

"The debris fell into the open sea well within the safety area which was previously designated. There was no danger to human life or hazardous levels of radioactivity in the ocean."

A JTF spokesman said it was not immediately known how long it will be before another shot will be held at Johnston.

The failure was a disappointment for thousands of Hawaiians who lined beaches and highlands, hoping to see the big shot.

The test was expected to have been visible in Hawaii, 750 miles northeast of Johnston Island.

The order to destroy the latest shot came shortly after the Thor blasted off from its launching pad on the Johnston Island shore.

Officials declined to pinpoint the area where the debris fell. The safety zone around Johnston extended 530 miles at sea level in all directions.

The announcement carefully noted that the nuclear device posed no danger to "human life or hazardous levels of radioactivity in the ocean" but made no mention of possible effects on ocean life.

This comment apparently was prompted by a complaint by the Soviet Union following the June 4 failure, that the debris threatened fish and contaminated the area where it fell.

The earlier Johnston Island test device was of lower yield.

Moslems Are Pressured To Begin Implementing Terms Of Peace Pact

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algiers leader of the Secret Army Organization pressured Moslem nationalists today to carry out a peace accord with the European terrorists despite his own failure to extend peace outside the Algerian capital.

Jean-Jacques Susni Tuesday night gave the nationalists 48 hours in which to begin implementing the agreement he reached over the weekend with Dr. Cheikh Mostefai, representative of the Moslem National Liberation Front (FLN) on the Algerian provisional executive.

"If time goes by without results, Algeria will again be reduced to chaos," Susni warned in a private radio broadcast.

The nationalist regime in Tunis has shown no inclination to endorse Mostefai's vaguely worded promise to enlist Europeans in local security forces and his pledge of amnesty for European terrorists "as soon as conditions of sovereignty permit."

The Susni-Mostefai agreement also has only limited support from secret army elements. Terrorism ceased in the Algiers area but secret army commanders elsewhere in Algeria disavowed the pact.

European terrorists fired 10 mortar shells into a Moslem quarter of Oran Tuesday, wounding 18 French soldiers. Europeans continued to regroup in five west Algerian towns around Oran for a last ditch stand against the Moslem takeover after the July 1 independence referendum.

Despite the renewed terrorism in western Algeria, Susni asserted in his radio broadcast that the secret army had kept his pledge to halt the fight. He demanded that the Moslems within the next two days live up to Mostefai's promise to incorporate Europeans in the local police force the provisional executive has been raising.

Unless the Moslems take concrete measures, the 28-year-old former medical student declared, the secret army will not be responsible for the continuing exodus of Europeans and the creation of European defensive strongpoints in west Algeria.

Nationalist Premier Youssef Ben Khedda indicated he felt the provisional executive and Mostefai had exceeded their authority by negotiating with the secret army. Ben Khedda also indicated doubts that the Susni-Mostefai agreement could effectively halt European terrorism.

The two days of quiet in Algiers did little to halt the exodus of thousands of Europeans certain that the secret army and the nationalists could not establish a lasting truce. Ignoring appeals from the secret army and labor union leaders, 67 plane loads of refugees left for France Tuesday.

With 2,911 students already registered for work during the First Summer Session at East Carolina College and approximately 200 registered for workshops scheduled to be presented before July 17, enrollment is estimated at 3,111 for the six-week period.

This figure establishes a new record in number of students at a summer session and exceeds the 2,830 total for the same session last year by 281 students.

Many of those taking courses at the college this summer are following an accelerated program which will enable them to complete requirements for a degree in three, rather than four, years.

"We have been encouraging as many students as possible to plan their work so that they may take advantage of work offered during the summer," President Leo W. Jenkins stated today.

"This accelerated program not only helps the student but also gives the college opportunity to utilize facilities more advantageously," he explained.

"Realization of complete participation by students," he added,

"is necessarily limited, for many must work during the summer months in order to finance their college work during the regular academic year."

The First Summer Session June 11-July 17 will be followed by a second Summer Session July 18-August 23. For these periods courses are offered in fifteen departments of instruction and the Schools of Business and Nursing.

In addition, eleven workshops and clinics in various areas of special interest to teachers and school officials and two travel-study tours to Europe and to the northwestern states in this country, now in progress, are included in the summer program at the college.

Others Okayed Specifications For N.C. Signs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense lawyers established today that Highway department officials, the State Highway Commission and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads had to approve sign specifications before projects could be let to contract.

They cross-examined Area Traffic Engineer W. A. Ward, a key state witness in the trial of six men and two Newark, N.J., firms accused of influence peddling in highway sign procurement. The defendants include former Traffic Engineer Robert A. Burch.

Ward testified Tuesday that he was directed by Burch to draw specifications modeled after products patented by one of the accused firms, Traffic & Street Sign Co. The other firm is Pfaff & Kendall.

Under cross examination, Ward said that in addition to Burch, all projects required approval of the Highway Department's chief engineer, Highway Director W. P. Babcock, the Highway Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads, an agency of the Department of Commerce.

Democrats try such a maneuver they will find they have a fight on their hands.

"We will certainly be loaded with ammunition in this case," Dirksen said. "This proposal will require lengthy and detailed discussion in the Senate. We will be ready for them."

Asked if Republican talk might delay a possible mid-September adjournment of Congress, Dirksen shrugged. He said that would depend somewhat on when the Democrats chose to make their move.

With some notable exceptions congressional Republicans appear ready to take their case to the voters in November without any additional legislation in the field of health care for the elderly.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., is sponsoring a modified version of the Kennedy bill. But he has only limited support among the minority.

Dirksen has called for an additional year's experience under the Kerr-Mills Act, under which the government puts up the major share of funds to finance state programs for aged needy persons.

Sen. Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview that if the

AGVA Officials Lashed For Closing Eyes To Racket Links

WASHINGTON (AP)—Daniel P. Sullivan, operating director of the Greater Miami Crime Commission, pictured strip tease night clubs in the Florida city today as tied in with a prostitution racket.

The police must be aware of this, Sullivan told the Senate Investigations subcommittee, and so must officials of the American Guild of Variety Artists.

He called the conditions "so blatant that only a blind man could fail to see" what is going on.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is exploring allegations of collusion between hoodlum-owned "clip joints" and some high officials of AGVA, an AFL-CIO affiliated union for entertainers.

forced contracts designed to protect entertainers from exploitation.

On the basis of the testimony so far, McClellan declared Tuesday that the AGVA should be kicked out of the "house of deceit" unionism.

He said union officials had "willfully, deliberately, premeditatedly" failed to enforce contracts against exploitation.

The AFL-CIO said today it had no comment on McClellan's remarks.

Federation officials said that when the hearings are finished and AGVA has been given an opportunity to present its rebuttal the AFL-CIO will examine the hearing record to determine what action it may take.

Sullivan told the subcommittee there has been a big rise in the number of strip tease and exotic dance clubs in the Miami area since World War II, using "B-girls" to bustle drinks to male customers and engage in prostitution.

"The modern day clip joint is a pool of illegitimacy," he said. He said a crackdown ordered by the office of the then Gov. LeRoy Collins in 1960 put some of the worst clubs out of business, but efforts to close others have been bitterly fought and the fight is still being waged through the courts.

Xavier Cugat, Abbe Lane Given Days, Last Decade

By CINDY ADAMS

NEW YORK—(WNS)—“When I married Xavier Cugat 10 years ago, everybody said it wouldn't last. Because he's older than my parents, people didn't even give us six months. They gave us days,” grinned Abbe Lane.

“It was Cugie's third marriage and he'd been in show business longer than I was alive. He was 50. I was 30. The wiseguys figured I was just using him to get somewhere. But I'd been dating since 15. I had nothing in common with young guys.”

The gorgeous saloon singer, movie star was sporting knee-length diamond and emerald earrings plus a solitaire the size of a soup bone, so it seemed for sure she had something in common with Cugie.

I asked Abbe, who is currently wriggling and writhing her 36-23-34 twice a night at Brooklyn's Town and County night club, if Cugie is jealous since her picture is larger in the ads than his.

“We're wonderful together romantically as well as professionally,” she said happily as we sat on the terrace of their 18th floor apartment overlooking the East River. “Cugie's the one who pushes me. He's my biggest booster. Of course, he teases me. Like he says, ‘Next year our act will be Abbe Lane and Friend.’”

“But we're not like those phony husbands and wives who are envious of each other. Those Hollywood guys are only interested in themselves and God help the wife

If she gets a bigger close-up than he does.

“Those couples aren't happy. They just make a pretense. That is why I couldn't live in California. We had a house there. Had to sell it. I couldn't stand it.”

She giggled. “In Italy, where I make a great many movies, they sometimes get a little carried away. You know. So we did have one amusing thing happen. We received a letter addressed to Signor and Signora Lane. Cugie laughed. He said, ‘I knew that day would arrive.’”

“He's no Mr. Abbe Lane, though. I mean, it's not like Eddie Fisher was.”

“Everybody has great respect for him. He stars on European television, he conducts and arranges the music for my movies and last year in Spain he had a 45-man orchestra. I got a great thrill watching him.”

“He's a very modest man, but let's face it, there's only one Cugat. Another thing about us is we're never separated. Wherever I am, Cugie is. And vice versa.”

She peered into the tangerine, gold and white living room which matched precisely the tangerine, gold and white sheath she wore.

“That's one reason we have nine rooms just for two of us. When we're together constantly you have to arrange to be alone some of the time.”

Besides bringing home the diamonds financially, red-haired Abbe also brings them home practically. She handles the family's business affairs. “Cugie used to sign checks without seeing what he was signing,” she said. “I don't go for that. We work too hard for our money.”

“So I began to watch. I discovered a slight discrepancy. Seems our accountant had slipped us the same choreographer's bill for $2,000 three times. I got the money back from him. Then I got rid of him.”

“I'm not a big spender. I'm very practical. I'm not the type who ever asks for anything big. I'm satisfied with whatever my husband gives me.”

And what did simple self-satisfied Abbe get for her 10th anniversary? There was silence, then, “A Rolls Royce. A beige one.”

And what did practical Abbe give Cugie?

“I'm so ashamed. He has everything. What can you give him?”

“That's what I wanted to know,” I said. “What did you give him?”

“Sportshirts,” she sighed. “And from my father's store yet. I didn't even pay for them!”

She Likes The Change She Finds In Daughter

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Women's News Service

People who have sought to comfort me for losing my little girl young 'uns to matrimony must have forgotten how wonderful fine it is to see the young female progress from a care-free teen-ager to woman's estate. It is a most remarkable transition.

My elder daughter had been married a couple of weeks when she telephoned to tell me that the cruel Army was plucking her bridegroom from their shiny new apartment and sending him off for more schooling.

“I'm coming home for three weeks,” she said bleakly. “She can't do that!” protested her brother. “We just got rid of her.”

But she came and in the midst of grumbling he offered her his room because hers, stripped of curtains and bookshelves and piled high with boxes and trunks, looked so uninviting. And then, along with the rest of us, he began to notice some changes in her.

She took an interest in kitchen matters and suddenly seemed brisk and efficient about clearing the table and washing the dishes, performing these chores casually as if she were thinking of something else instead of the old agonizing combination of dread and smugness.

She asked about recipes and she was severe with us about the amount of bacon we consume and the price we pay for it.

“A pound of bacon just vanishes in this house!” she reported in horror. “Why, we get good bacon in the commissary for 49 cents a pound and it lasts us two weeks. Of course, I don't always cook some for myself and Mother, you shouldn't either—it's fattening!”

Her brother's freckled countenance was a study in amazement. She spent a morning going through the shelves of patterns and buttons and odd dress lengths I have acquired through the years in short-lived bursts of ambitious dressmaking.

She lectured me mildly about starting and not finishing things and quickly stitched herself up a pair of shorts, started two summers ago, to be worn around her house in the morning while she cleans.

She is suddenly interested in furniture and has dragged out all the old homemaking magazines I've saved for years. Her scarred dressing table with the mirror ornamented with school and fraternity stickers and the remnants of old corsages was pulled out, its drawers dumped, and I came home from work to find her barefoot and in shorts dousing it in paint remover.

“Come look at this wood!” she cried in great excitement. “Isn't it lovely? Would you say it was honey maple?”

“I always did say it was honey maple,” I remarked dryly. “For years I've thought you should take that ivory enamel off it.”

“Yes'm,” she admitted, smiling at me sunnily. “But now I'm going to put it in our house.”

Her brother still professes not to understand. “It's funny she never took an interest in refinishing stuff when we were doing it,” he observed.

Males can be obtuse about these nesting urges. Women understand and I personally find a married daughter mighty compatible.

Bride-Elect Feted Saturday

Miss Carol Ann Tadlock was entertained at a dessert bridge party Saturday afternoon by Mrs. G. J. Bell and Mrs. Rodney Roberson at their home on Library Street.

Upon arrival the bride, wearing a light blue dress, was presented a corsage of blue tinted daisies.

The bride's table was centered with a miniature bride and groom amid greenery. The auxiliary table held a silver bud vase in which was a gardenia. The home was decorated throughout with gardenias and hydrangeas. A dessert of lemon tarts, nuts and coffee punch was served.

During the bridge progressions Coca-Colas and party crackers were served.

Mrs. Beulah Staples received high score, Mrs. Reve Vincent the consolation prize.

The hostesses remembered the bride with a set of silver inlaid steak knives.

Irish moss, specified sometimes in old-fashioned recipes, has to be soaked in cold water, then heated to 140 degrees or above to dissolve. The moss "gels" liquid mixtures.

Four Pilots Die In Jet Collision

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—An American flying here and three West German air force pilots were killed Tuesday in the collision of four supersonic jet fighters.

The four planes, U.S.-built F104 Starfighters, were flying a tight, low-level formation in rehearsal for an air show when they collided and crashed about 10 miles southwest of Cologne.

An eyewitness said the planes were flying in box formation. The top pair collided and dropped onto the lower two. They were too low for the pilots to bail out.

The American victim was Capt. Jon G. Speer, 29, of Los Angeles, one of a group of U.S. Air Force instructors with the West German air force.

Speer was about to be awarded the Air Medal for landing another F104 safely two months ago after a lightning bolt had smashed the plane's nose and knocked out 90 per cent of its controls.

He had been cited for extraordinary flying skill displayed in one of the most unusual incidents in American aviation history.

The four-plane crash caused cancellation of the air show.

Report Progress On Installation Of Sewer Pipe

GRIFTON — Progress was being made here this week on installation of sewer pipe, as workmen completed St. Joseph's Street and the northern end of Wall Street.

They were working yesterday on installation of sewer pipe on St. David Street, it was reported.

Work began about May 16 on extension of water and sanitary sewer lines by A. J. Jenkins and Son of Warsaw, general contractors. The projects are part of a bond issue approved in May 1961, which also included provisions for a new deep well and construction of a new sewage disposal plant.

In conjunction with the above projects, Utilities Superintendent Luther Lewis said that sewer taps are being made by town workmen in the same areas in which the construction is going on.

Ed Warren, newly selected principal of Ayden High School, attended the meeting as a guest of Corey Stokes. President Gwynn Merritt presided at the meeting, held in the community building.

This week the club will devote its session to a treasurer's report as presented by Joe Sumrell.

Hoffman Speaks On Recreation At Ayden Rotary

AYDEN — A program on recreational projects in Ayden was presented to the Rotary Club at their meeting last week.

Jim Abernathy, in charge of the program for the evening, presented recreation director, Frank Hoffman who spoke briefly on recreational projects for the summer.

During the meeting, L. Hal Moore entertained the club with a selection of organ music.

Ed Warren, newly selected principal of Ayden High School, attended the meeting as a guest of Corey Stokes. President Gwynn Merritt presided at the meeting, held in the community building.

This week the club will devote its session to a treasurer's report as presented by Joe Sumrell.

Mrs. Wiley B. Rogerson was in Norfolk Wednesday to visit her daughter, Miss Betty Ann Rogerson.

Saturday morning Miss Linda Carson went to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Britton, in Everett to accompany her to the services at the Beargrass Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Clark, Frances Clark, and her brother, Wayne, returned Wednesday from a vacation in Indiana.

Mrs. Davis Van Nortwick, Eric and Elaine left Friday to spend a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Glenn Earl Whitehurst, G. E. Whitehurst and children, David, Carol Lynn, Valerie, and Mary, in Titusville, Fla.

Those from Martin County who met at the Agriculture Building Monday morning to attend the 4-H District Demonstration Day in the grammar school at Louisburg were: Aleda Tyler of Robersonville; Albert Martin, Jr., from Jamesville; Julia Griffin, and the two agents, Miss Elizabeth Wilson and Roger Bunch from Williamston.

Miss Toni Green is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard of Fayetteville.

The Summer Rally of the Albemarle District of the Christian Youth Fellowship will be held in the First Christian Church Washington, N. C., on June 19 at 3 o'clock. The meeting will close at 7 p.m.

Grifton Obtains New Tennis Net

GRIFTON — A new tennis net has been purchased and installed at the recreation building grounds by the town of Grifton, in conjunction with the new recreation program here, it was reported this week.

The Town Board of Commissioners had approved purchase of the net at its recent meeting. An active tennis instruction program is being carried on here by the Grifton Recreation Organization, which organized during the spring. No planned program of recreation was in existence prior to that time.

Planning Attend Greenville Meet

AYDEN — Several representatives of the town of Ayden will attend the regional meeting of the League of Municipalities to be held Thursday in Greenville.

Those planning to attend include Mayor S. P. Peterson, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor, Commissioners Norman Dail and Elton McLawhorn, Building Inspector Kenneth Branch and perhaps others.

Goulart Asking For New Cabinet

BRAZILIA, Brazil (AP)—President Joao Goulart has called on Foreign Minister Francisco S. Tiago Dantas to form a new Cabinet, a presidential spokesman said Tuesday.

The present Cabinet plans to resign June 26 to permit several members to qualify for the October congressional elections.

Dantas, who would be prime minister in the new Cabinet, earlier had insisted he intended to run for Congress. Cabinet ministers and other public officials must resign 90 days before election to qualify.

Installing 5 New Mercury Lights

AYDEN — Five new mercury lights are being installed here this week, replacing older, less illuminating lights.

The lights will be installed at the end of W. Second Street; on Juanita Avenue; S. East Avenue; in the alley between East Avenue and Blount Street; and in the county on contract.

All are replacements except the alley light, which is an addition, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said.

Change To Fill Needs

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

George Washington's Cabinet consisted of five members. Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State, Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, Edmund Randolph, Attorney General, General Henry Knox, Secretary of War, and Samuel Osgood, Postmaster General. There were no political parties at the outset, and Cabinet members were advisors to the President as well as Administrative officials.

By the time of the Eisenhower Administration, the Cabinet had grown to 10 members, in addition to a Secretary of the Cabinet. Furthermore, the Vice President was given a seat at Cabinet meetings and the heads of various agencies were called in at specific sessions. A Cabinet meeting took on the aspect of a large committee.

During the Kennedy Administration, the announced meetings of the Cabinet would indicate infrequent sessions. As the size and nature of government changed, the Cabinet took on different characteristics. For instance, Woodrow Wilson's war advisors included such persons as Bernard Baruch, Herbert Hoover, Col. House and others who were not members of his Cabinet at all but to whom were delegated authorities and responsibilities beyond those of Cabinet officers.

The National Security Council, in the Kennedy Administration, consists of the President, the Vice President, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, the Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs and the Deputy Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs. It has had a Council of Economic Advisors. Such a document as Alexander Hamilton's "Report on Manufactures" would today come from the Economic Advisors. Statisticians must have more than numbers; they must have sense. Intelligence used to be provided by State, Army and Navy, but now is the function of the Central Intelligence Agency which came into existence in 1947.

Even the newest of governmental functions, the conquest of space, has been turned over to the National Aeronautics and Space Council which consists of the Vice President, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. There are a large number of independent agencies which perform administrative and quasi-judicial functions simultaneously which do not report to any Cabinet officer.

Thus the Cabinet has been relegated to a lesser position and its members have become largely Administrative functionaries whom the President consults concerning political or general policy. The change in attitude toward the Cabinet has this point of public significance. When Presidents relied upon their Cabinets, the people had a better idea as to where the President got his advice and information. It is true that all Presidents have had private friends and close relatives who whispered in their ears and whose advice, at times, might have been of value. Lincoln, it is known, not only disliked but distrusted some of the members in his Cabinet. Franklin D. Roosevelt had little confidence in the judgment of his Secretaries of State and preferred to deal with other members of the State Department.

Nevertheless, the Cabinet was, in public, at any rate, the principal advisory group to the President. Everybody knew who they were and there have been many instances when Cabinet members were as distinguished or more distinguished than the

Can't Afford Waste In Big Budget

The 24c tax increase tentatively set by Greenville's City Council for the fiscal year which begins July 1 is by far the largest tax increase the city has had in recent history.

It reflects an increase of approximately 17.4 per cent of the existing tax rate of $1.38 and will bring the city's tax rate to $1.62 per $100 valuation. At the same time the Council has given tentative approval to an increase in city expenditures amounting to approximately $99,000 during the coming fiscal year, an increase of approximately 11 per cent over the current year.

In spite of the increased tax rate and the increase in spending planned for the coming fiscal year, the budget, on the surface at least, appears to be a "tight" one. There is little earmarked for capital expenditures other than the funds budgeted for construction of the Carver Library. There is no indication from the fire department budget that any plans have been made to construct the new fire substation for which bonds were approved two years ago, because there is no indication that additional personnel are to be added to the fire department.

Although the amount of the tax levy earmarked for debt service has been increased by six cents, the total amount of bonds and interest to be retired by the city during the coming fiscal year is approximately $2,000 less than in the current fiscal year. The difference in the proportion of the tax rate designated for debt service is merely a matter of shifting of more ad valorem revenues from the general funds to debt service and more revenue from other sources from debt service into the general fund.

Of the approximately $1,017,000 earmarked to be spent in city operations during the coming fiscal year, approximately $23,000 will come from ad valorem taxes (property taxes). The remaining revenue for the city's operation—slightly less than half—will come from sources other than ad valorem taxes.

The net effect is that citizens will be paying approximately $85,000 more in property taxes for city operation during the coming fiscal year than during the current fiscal year.

Although the proposed city budget does not appear to be a fat one from the standpoint of operations of various city departments, the fact a 25c tax increase has been found necessary imposes an even greater responsibility upon the Council to see that every reasonable economy is effected during the coming year. It imposes a greater responsibility upon the Council to see that every tax dollar is spent in the wisest possible manner and that taxpayers receive full value in terms of services for every dollar spent.

Another Day For Pitt Voters To Go To Polls

Saturday is another important day for Pitt County voters and one which should find the qualified voters of the county making their way to the polls to cast their ballots.

At stake in the Democratic party second primary is the county's seat in the House of Representatives. This seat is of particular importance in this year's primary because of the fact that for the first time in two centuries, Pitt will have only one member of the House instead of two. Until this year Pitt has been entitled to two representatives in the lower house of the legislature, but because of reapportionment of that body, Pitt now will have only one member.

Some 8,000 of the county's registered voters turned out on May 25 to vote in the first primary. Although that number was small compared with the total number of registered voters, there are usually fewer voters to cast ballots in a second primary than in the first.

The Reflector urges all the registered voters of the county to make a sincere effort to get to the polls Saturday to cast a ballot in this election. It is not only the privilege of registered voters to participate in the election of officials, it is their responsibility as citizens to do so. We trust the citizens of Pitt will conscientiously discharge this citizenship responsibility by going to the polls and voting on Saturday.

Vast Political Importance

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers and city dwellers alike should keep their eyes on a case the Supreme Court has just decided to review. The outcome is likely to be of enormous political importance.

It may give a tip-off on just how much political power the man-with-the-hoe, or in modern parlance the man driving the tractor combine, must surrender to his city and suburban cousins. The Supreme Court has already ruled that courts have jurisdiction to handle complaints of metropolitan residents that state voting systems are "invidiously" unbalanced.

In more than 30 states, there is ferment. City and suburban citizens have started lawsuits, forced special sessions of state legislatures—or threatened to—launched movements for state constitutional amendments or taken other steps. Their aim: to get more representation in state legislatures, in keeping with their vastly increased numbers.

One big trouble is that, so far, there are no sure guidelines on what constitutes invidious, unconstitutional discrimination. Must state voting systems give each man's vote the same weight as every other man's, or nearly so? Can one house of a state legislature be apportioned on a population basis like the U.S. House of Representatives and the other according to geography (like the U.S. Senate)? Nobody knows for certain.

On April 22, a three-judge federal court threw out a century-old county unit system in Georgia, even though it had been slightly modified. This system was used in Democratic primaries for governor and other officials. Under the old system a rural resident's vote could be worth 99 city votes.

The Democratic party of Georgia appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court. The tribunal agreed Monday to hear the case, but not until the term starting next October. This apparently means that, with the county unit system out the window at least temporarily, Georgia will select its governor Sept. 12 on a basis of popular votes. The three-judge lower court suggested that a unit system would not be invidious if the difference in the weight of individual votes in various counties were no greater than in the U. S. Electoral College.

This would allow much leeway. The greatest disproportion in the Electoral College is between Alaska, which has three electoral votes, and New York, which has 45. This amounts to one electoral vote for 76,000 citizens of Alaska and one for 375,000 citizens of New York.

Will the Supreme Court go for this standard of reasonableness? The decision next term may tell. It may take another decision, or several more, to determine guidelines for state legislatures. For example, the Maryland Legislature reapportioned this year to give metropolitan areas control of the House of Delegates for the first time. It left rural sections in command of the Senate.

Now there is a fight in the state circuit court to force realignment of the Senate as well. But Judge O. Bowie Duckett has indicated he will not do it. He pointed to the federal plan whereby each state, no matter what its population, has two seats in the U. S. Senate.

Again under court pressure, Alabama Gov. John Patterson has called his legislature into special session, though not without a blast at what he called federal invasion of states' rights. The legislature is now in its second week but has not acted. Various bills have been offered, to reapportion one or both houses. Members of a small-county bloc threaten a filibuster in favor of a "Senator for every county" plan.

In Oklahoma a federal court is on the point of ruling on complaints that heavily populated areas lack sufficient representation in the legislature. In Wisconsin, the legislature convened at Gov. Gaylor Nelson's call, to reapportion or have a federal court do it instead. Nelson is a Democrat and the Republican-controlled legislature is not happy. One GOP leader said: "Nobody is going

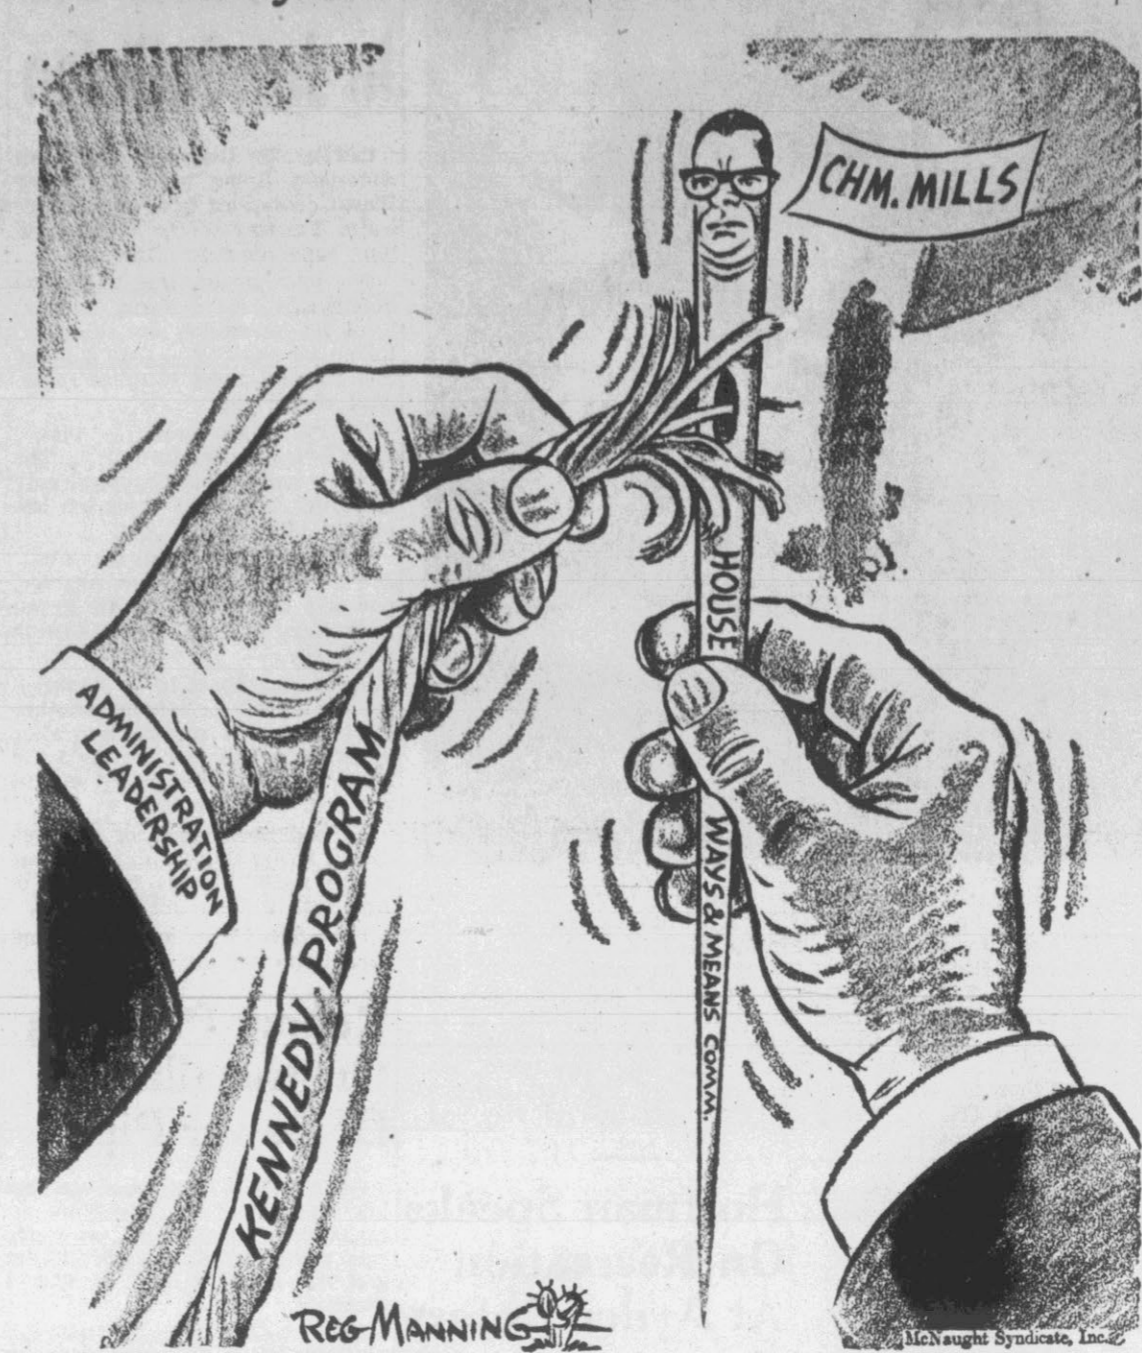

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THAT MINORITY OF ONE
After Jesus had healed a boy afflicted with a terrible malady the lad fell down on the ground and the Biblical account has it "that the more part said, He is dead."

The majority expressed an opinion and it was wrong, Jesus, the minority of one, called the boy back from collapse to restore health. "The more part" often decides that a cause is dead. Someone has stood up for a righteous cause and has been rewarded by the scoffs and jeers of his contemporaries. "You can't put that thing across," they say. "The issue is dead. Oh to be sure it would be the right thing to do, but it can never be done."

have been turning thumbs down on projects which registered advance. Anyone who believes that the voice of the people is the voice of God needs to go back and read history. Crowds have been wrong just as often as crowds. The tyranny of one man is debasing but the tyranny of a mistaken majority is even more so.

All this encourages us to figure out for ourselves what we believe to be true and to act accordingly. Pay no attention to "the more part." They are just as likely to be wrong as you are. All the mistakes on the pages of history have some where along the line had majority support. Don't be afraid to constitute a minority of one and to speak out bravely what you believe.

Campaign Moves Along

HOT, SULTRY weather around here lately lends an overall impression of "draggy-ness" the drug-store cowboy in the air-conditioned drug store was saying Tuesday.

He applied his "draggy" theory to the usual wide range of topics available to few but drug-store cowboys. After a time, he reached the empty-cigarete-pack-drive-for-stadium-funds under-way in behalf of East Carolina's Ficklen Memorial Stadium.

He wondered aloud if that, too, is dragging. SUGGESTION by that quasi-cowboy spurred a lazy amount of hot-weather research. Evidence uncovered indicated attitude, that the penny-a-pack campaign jogs listlessly along, is misleading.

In fact, the empty packs seem to be piling high at this early stage of the game. For example: —a company spokesman said his staff handled a spot-check in the Greenville area the other day to determine response to the campaign. He said 100 of the circular collection boxes yielded about 8,000 Chesterfield, Oasis and L&M packs. That's 80 bucks' worth.

—response to 15,000 alumni letters, paid for by Liggett & Myers, brought early replies including a note from an elderly lady who said she didn't smoke cigaretes but she wrote her thoughts that the campaign was a good idea. She lent authority to her thought with an attached $10 check.

—another letter brought in a stack of neatly-folded silvery inner-wrappers from the packs. They appeared pressed with a hot iron to resemble silver dollar bills. It's an assumption the company will fork over at least a penny each for them, too.

"WIDE-OPEN" is descriptive of the company's offer to donate a penny a pack during the drive for empties. East Carolina may extend the campaign for as long as it likes.

And there are no strings attached. Liggett & Myers appears to be leaning over backward to play its name and the names of its brands down while boosting the name of the stadium and the college.

The company has taken more than casual interest in the local project. An L&M vice president reportedly visited Greenville from his New York office last week to see how the drive was going.

Such campaigns have been quite successful in other parts of the country.

ECC football coach Clarence Stasavish says he's heard a similar drive at a Michigan university brought in 10 million empty packs and $100,000.

Other Editors Saying Water - - - How Long?

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Should mankind survive the age of nuclear insanity he may very well face extinction in another form — the lack of usable water. That may sound farfetched since three-fourths of the earth's surface is water. But note we said usable water.

An authority on the subject, Dr. H. G. Baitly, see little hope for the promise of using sea water as a substitute for fresh water. Dr. Baitly is a University of North Carolina professor of sanitation. He spent 10 years helping to direct the United Nations World Health Organization. He was in back in Chapel Hill last week lecturing to engineers, sanitation and health officials on the problems that now beset the world through wasteful use of our resources.

One of the urgencies of today is the rapid consumption of the earth's riches, including water. Man is making too few plans for his survival beyond the next 18 to 38 years. The resources most of us have taken for granted and which were assumed to be inexhaustible are actually so limited as to disappear from practical usefulness within the lifetime of our children's children.

There are two kinds of natural resources — those that are used up and are gone forever—such as coal, oil, iron ore, and those which with proper care can be used again and again, like air and water. Planning only 38 years ahead is too short-sighted in view of the explosion of population today.

At the time of Christ, Dr. Baitly pointed out, the world's population was about 300 million, consequently the demand on the earth's resources was only fractional. In the next 16 centuries it doubled to 600 million and in the next 300 it quadrupled and 90 years from now it will quadruple again. What kind of demand does that place on water, air, coal, oil, timber?

Depending on science to manufacture substitutes as quickly as mankind uses up the real resources is not the solution, especially when it comes to water. Dr. Baitly sees great hope for the southeastern section of the U.S. because its water supply is "unique in the world."

We have a treasure beyond value and we must protect and conserve it with the utmost jealousy and care. Dr. Baitly warns. The South is developing at a fast rate. People from other regions were slow in finding this area that nature has so abundantly blessed with climate, topography, water and industrious people.

This delay is fortunate insofar as water resources are concerned, because we have been given the time to see the experience and mistakes of other regions, to witness the tragic abuse of water in the most populated and industrialized regions, and to put into effect sane and thoughtful measures for sharing water resources for a long time to come.

A Bad Year For These People

By ELMER ROESSNER
Probably one of the worst businesses to have been in last year was the manufacture of furniture. For every 10,000 establishments, 289 failed, according to a study of commercial failures through 1961 by Dun & Bradstreet.

The study showed that losses through failures topped $1 billion for the first time last year. The number of failures was the highest since the depression year of 1933. The study showed a rise in failures in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore and Cincinnati, and a decline in Los Angeles and Houston.

By states, Oregon had the highest ratio, 195.6 per 10,000 listed concerns. California was next with 136.9, Florida third with 133.1 and New York fourth with 129.5. However, D & B explained, "A high failure rate does not necessarily indicate an unhealthy economic condition. It can merely indicate unusual economic activity."

lowest rates

Wyoming, with 1.7 failures per 10,000 businesses, was the lowest in the nation. South Dakota was next with 8.2 per 10,000. Among industries, manufacturers of transportation equipment were second to furniture makers in ratio of failures: 231 per 10,000 took the Federal bath. The failure rate per 10,000 manufacturing companies in other major industries were:

Leather and Shoes 183
Electrical Machinery 130
Apparel 130
Textiles 114
Metals, Primary and Fabricated 103
Chemicals and Drugs 76
Paper 69
Machinery 66
Printing and Publishing 68
Lumber 52
Food 45
Stone, Clay and Glass 42
In retailing, infants' and children's wear establishments suffered the worst with 150 failures per 10,000 establishments. Someone must have overestimated the population explosion.

The rates in other retailing lines:
Sporting Goods 134
Furniture & Furnishings 126
Women's Ready-to-Wear 115
Men's Wear 103
Cameras & Photographic 103

Books & Stationery 52
Jewelry 49
Eating & Drinking Places 46
Auto Parts & Accessories 46
Hardware 40
Drugs 36
Groceries, Meats & Produce 29
Farm Implements 27

The low rate of grocery, meat and produce establishments is interesting since they constitute one of the largest segments of retailing. Margins are generally low, and suppliers tend to cut off deliveries as soon as payments slow down.

The study supported the old surmise: Few businesses (3.2 per cent) fail the first year. During the second, third, fourth and fifth years, the failure rate is high. After that, it levels off.

NOW THEY HAVE TO LEARN TO FIGURE IT OUT?
The Detroit Research Institute is planning to teach businessmen the fundamentals of mathematics in three weeks time. The course, starting August 6, will cover algebra, trigonometry, analytical geometry and calculus, as well as such modern mathematical concepts as set and matrix algebra. To find the 40 per cent markup on a $2.90 item, write Detroit Research Institute, 12 E. Hancock, Detroit 1.

THE DARK RIDER

A Racing Novel of Suspense by GERALDINE THAYER

CHAPTER 27
Julie Fendleton was unable to sleep. Her mind was a whirling dervish of thoughts, ideas and contradictions. Through her personal problems intruded the Kentucky Derby and all it meant. Then there was the question of Britt Fabian, only complicated by Lorne Fabian's formal announcement of their engagement.

thing about himself."
"And what of Britt?"
"I've been lying here trying to think how to tell him."
"Just tell him."
"Yes, I intend to. It has to be done before the race. I don't want anyone to think our losing—or winning—the race has anything to do with my change of heart."
"There never was a change of heart," Ira said. "Trouble was, you grew up with Britt Fabian and expected to marry him. Perhaps if Casey hadn't come along, it would have worked out. Though I'd say, and not from experience, mind you, that it wouldn't have. That's why I'm glad Casey came along."

tell him. Not at the track, not just before the race, but now. Right now, when she could explain quietly and try to make him understand.
She was vaguely worried about what his reaction would be. This, she knew, was caused by his cruel treatment of Vogel. No matter what the man had been guilty of, or almost guilty of, Britt had had no right to be so violent.
She rode up over the knoll from which she'd seen the strange horse running that night, the moment from which all the events of the last few days had stemmed. She found herself wondering about that horse.
She was certain the horse she had seen had looked the run like Boundbrook. It had to be so, otherwise there would have been no earthly reason for Boundbrook to have been stolen from his stall and run through the pastures in the dead of night so he'd work up a sweat and she would think it really had been Boundbrook on the track.
She had no idea what horse she had seen, but it did occur to her that it might have been Lysander. But why would they be timing a nervous Thoroughbred at night? It was dangerous to horse and rider, and unnecessary—unless there was a very good reason why Lorne Fabian couldn't afford to let Lysander be seen before the big race.

"The worst part of it is the fact that while Vogel undoubtedly was going to set fire to the stable, he wasn't the man who threw the dummy in the stall or put water into the jump."
"Who told you that?"
"Casey Jeffries was here. He and Lieutenant Fallon."
"I see." Ira was thinking deeply. "If Fallon told you this directly, or through Casey, then it's true. What about Casey?"
"I'm in love with him, Dad."
"I don't mean that. I've known all along you've been in love with him, even if you didn't know it yourself. I mean his arrest."
"Lieutenant Fallon went away alone. Casey remained. We talked. He didn't tell me any-

"Your mother," Ira said softly, "hated horses."
"But, Dad, how can that be? She always rode—she taught me how to ride."
"Nevertheless, she was terrified of them. But they were my life, so they became hers. I hope Casey doesn't take you away. I've built these stables up hoping that someday you and yours would take over, but I'd rather raze the whole shebang to the ground than have you unhappy for one single moment. Well, try to get some sleep. We do have a race to run tomorrow."
"Are you worried?" she asked.
"Very much. I don't think we'll win. Of course if we don't, it won't bankrupt us, but now that you're going to marry Britt, I'd like to see Templar come in three lengths ahead of Lysander. I've never wanted to win a race more than this one, but I think Templar will no more than place. Lorne Fabian has been conducting himself and his horse in such a manner that we can be pretty sure he has a winner going for him."
"I'm sorry, Dad. I'd like to win, too."
"He bent down and kissed her. 'Well, as the saying goes, it's a horse race and you can't predict the outcome until the judges run up the winning number.'"
Julie smiled. "I'll yell as loudly as I can."
"I probably won't see you again until after the race. I have to be there very early in the morning. Good night, my dear, and good luck with Britt."
He walked to the door and turned around just before he exited. "And with Casey," he added. "Especially with Casey. The man is growing on me even if I don't know him very well. I wonder why Lieutenant Fallon didn't hold him? Have you thought of that?"
"I've thought of everything possible concerning Casey, Dad. I haven't any answers, either."
"Yes, you have," he said. "The most important one. You love him. Good night."
He closed the door and Julie settled down beneath the covers. When she awoke it was about an hour after dawn, but she felt wide awake. She heard her father driving away from the house, which meant he was on his way to the track to handle the last-minute details.
Della heard her stirring and brought up a cup of coffee, but she didn't linger.
"Soon as I get my work done," she said, "I'm heading for the track. I got a whole month's pay on Templar. If Mr. Britt's horse wins, I'll take his next batch of biscuits with red pepper in 'em."
Julie had plenty of time before she would leave for the race. Her nerves were still on edge, so she decided to ride for an hour or two and she was going to use Big Blue.
An exercise boy saddled the stallion for her. She found the animal frisky, but peaceable inclined. At least he didn't try to take a playful nip out of her.
Before she'd been riding ten minutes, she knew she was heading in the direction of the Fabian farm. She had to find Britt and "He made a grab for her, just as she knew he would, and she was prepared. . . ." the story continues tomorrow.

Pilots To Train At Nevada Base

SEYMOUR JOHNSON AFB—Lt. Col. Paul Hoza, commander of the 335th Tactical Fighter Squadron, 4th Tactical Fighter Wing, will lead his F-105D Thunderchief pilots in flight to Nellis AFB, Nev., for a 30 day weapons training program.
First segment of pilots and support personnel of this Tactical Air Command base will depart here Thursday. As the first group of pilots complete their training others will depart here to replace them until all pilots of the 335th TAC Squadron have completed the required semi-annual weapons training.
While at Nellis the F-105D's will participate in air-to-air, air-to-ground, normal ordnance and nuclear training. This is the first time the bombing range at Nellis has been used for aircraft completely equipped with radar control as the THUNDERCHIEF F-105.
A total of 110 enlisted personnel to support the 10 F-105D's will remain at Nellis during the training period.

ECC Department Of Art Is Adding To Its Faculty

East Carolina College's growing Department of Art will have two additions to its present staff of twelve members when the Fall Quarter of the 1962-1963 academic year begins in September. Director Wellington B. Gray has announced.
Dr. Emily Farnham, at present a member of Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., will teach painting and art history. Robert Sample Edmiston, now director of education at the Des Moines, Iowa, Art Center will teach sculpture.
John Tyler Goodheart of Baltimore, Md., a May, 1962, graduate of East Carolina, will also join the Department of Art as a graduate assistant and will teach art education while working toward the master's degree.
Dr. Farnham, a native of Kent, Ohio, holds the B. S. degree from Kent State University and the M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from Ohio State University. She has taught at Ohio State, Michigan State, and Utah State universities, and Southern Illinois University, and done extension work with the University of Virginia.

Mary Carter's MAIL BAG

Dear Mary Carter:
Before I married my fifth husband, Gregory, I was a lion tamer with the circus, but I gave it up for him. Now, after five years of marriage, Gregory is becoming very inattentive. He does nothing but mope and sulk around the house. I've tried poking at him with a kitchen chair and once in a while I crack a whip over his head, but nothing seems to snap him out of it. It's getting so he doesn't even perk up when I throw his dinner at him. What do you think could be wrong?
Mrs. Z. K. E. L. P. O.

Dear Mrs. Z., etc.:
I can't imagine. Perhaps you should take Gregory to see a vet. Quite likely, though, all he needs is to have his surroundings brightened up a bit. Have you tried redecorating his cage—that is, his room? Sometimes a change of colors will do wonders for a husband who's been out of sorts.
Take Gregory for a visit to your neighborhood Mary Carter Paint Store—it'll do him good to get out, anyway—and have a look at the hundreds of decorator shades available in all my quality paints.
Every second can of Mary Carter paint is free of extra cost, you know, and custom tinting is always available with Tint-O-Rama at my stores from coast to coast.

Methodists Seek Increase College Sustaining Fund

By MICHAEL ROUSE
KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Methodist Conference was asked today to increase its annual allotment to the college sustaining fund for Methodist colleges this year by $40,000.

The increase, requested by the conference's Commission on Higher Education, would bring the total conference allotment to $370,000.

Sources close to the commission said it might also ask the conference to renew a drive for capital funds for colleges. But some factors in the conference were said to be against such a drive.

The drive for pledges totaling $5 million was started in 1958, the year construction began on Methodist College at Fayetteville and North Carolina Wesleyan at Rocky Mount.

Some $4 million was pledged, but little over $2 million was collected.

A special committee to study the need of a capital funds campaign recommended Tuesday that the conference "support such plans as may be devised by its Board of Education and Commission on Higher Education to fulfill the commitments to capital funds of these institutions (colleges)."

There was some feeling that this referred to a possible request that the drive for college funds be renewed.

Most of the increase in the college sustaining fund request was earmarked for North Carolina Wesleyan and Methodist College. Their slice would be $108,855 each, $18,335 bigger than last year.

Other allotments were: Duke Di-

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's newest weather satellite, Tiros V, orbiting on its hurricane and storm hunting mission, may prove to be the first step toward a cooperative space program between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The weather watch satellite, launched Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, will photograph cloud cover over a much greater area of the world than any of the previous four Tiros satellites. Included is the sky above most of the Soviet Union.

During its anticipated four-month useful lifetime, Tiros V's two wide-angle cameras are expected to snap hundreds of pictures of weather systems over the U.S.S.R. A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said the photographs will be available to Soviet meteorologists if they want them.

Presumably the Russians will ask for the pictures. Earlier this month, American and Soviet scientists signed a pact in Geneva agreeing to share data received from their respective weather satellites—with a long-range look at possibly building a broad mutual space research program.

The representatives of the two major space powers also discussed the possibility of coordinating tracking, launch dates and satellite objectives to reduce exploration overlaps. There was no provision for a common launching.

As yet, the Soviet Union has not launched a weather satellite. It reportedly is developing one, but it is not known whether it is similar to the Tiros system.

The pact was the first concrete result of an exchange of letters earlier this year between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Kennedy proposed five areas of space research and Khrushchev six in which the nations might cooperate.

The non-controversial meteorological satellite was selected as the first area of discussion, with communications satellites expected next. Further discussions between the scientists of the two nations are scheduled soon in Moscow.

Tiros V is whizzing about the earth every 100.5 minutes at peak speed of 17,140 miles an hour and altitudes ranging from 367 to 604 miles.

A guidance error shot the satellite higher than planned but this did not interfere with its camera eyes.

On the first orbit, the vehicle transmitted pictures of cloud cover over the southeastern United States and a few orbits later relayed photos of storm clouds off Newfoundland.

The launching was timed to coincide with the 1962 hurricane season, which began last week. Tropical storm activity normally does not reach a peak until late August and September, and Tiros V's cameras are geared to be aimed at the spawning grounds in that period.

With its wider coverage—including all territory between the Arctic and Antarctic circles—Tiros V will be able to record Pacific typhoons, ice breakup, fog and large storm systems in the northern latitudes. Ground stations can command its cameras to photograph a suspected weather disturbance practically anywhere in the world.

TV Public Shows Pure Entertainment Wanted

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—The 1961-62 television season has, for the most part, come to a quiet end. As the reruns crowd the home screens, there will be few mourners at its passing.

For a second year in a row, it has been a period rarely sparked by creativity—a period dominated by formula writing and production-line entertainment containing very little that was fresh or novel.

The high points of the season, curiously enough, were the news shows—the cameras on the launching of manned rockets into space, a tour of the White House, an investigation of the operation of a book-making establishment.

It was a time when the industry—really nervous about strong criticism by Congressional subcommittees, the Federal Communications Commission and articulate critics—seriously attempted to curb scenes of violence.

It was a time when there were

Fountain Youth Joins Marines

Thomas H. Baker, 18, of Fountain was enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps this week for four years and left for the Marine Corps Recruit Training Depot at Parris Island, S. C., according to the local Marine Recruiter, Staff Sergeant Leo Smith.

After 10½ weeks of recruit training and 4 weeks of individual combat training, Thomas will be eligible for 20 days leave at home before receiving his assignment at a Fleet Marine Force unit or to a formal school.

Thomas attended Belvoir Falkland High School and graduated the first of this month.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carson D. Baker of Route 1, Fountain.

Jaycees Defeat Kiwanis; Pepsi Tops Exchange 18-1

TARHEEL
The Pepsi-Cola nine downed the Exchange Club 18-1 in Tar Heel Little League action on the Guy Smith field yesterday. The winners opened the scoring in the top of the second when Billy Holland connected for a single by Dean Wilkerson and Barnhill came in when Ray Cannon walked. Sugg scored on a walk by Jimmy Sugg. In the third frame Bruce Taylor led off as he got on with an error by the pitcher. Holland followed with a walk and Barnhill connected for a single which loaded the bases. Walks by T. Sugg and Dean Wilkerson accounted for runs by Taylor and Holland. Barnhill came in on a double by Cannon and J. Sugg walked. The next batter, Mike Joyner was safe on an error by the second baseman which accounted for a run by Wilkerson. Cannon, J. Sugg and Joyner all scored on a single by Jack Gordon who later scored on a double by Taylor as he came up for his second time at bat in the inning. In the top of the fourth Pepsi-Cola continued their scoring efforts as they collected six more runs. T. Sugg opened the frame with a single and Wilkerson followed with a walk. The bases were loaded on a single by Cannon. A single by Joyner scored T. Sugg and Wilkerson came in on an error by the rightfielder. Cannon stole home for the third run. Joyner scored on an error and Gordon came in on a double by Holland who scored on a single by Barnhill. The only run for the Exchange team came in the bottom of the fifth when Chuck Odum walked, advanced to second on a hit batter and scored on a single by Gary Sumrell. The winning pitcher was Holland who allowed four hits, struck out seven and walked four. Credited with the loss was Gordon Summerlin who allowed 13 hits, struck out five and walked 10. The Moose nine was scheduled to meet the Elks today at 5 p.m. in a regularly scheduled Tar Heel League game at Guy Smith park. Pepsi 048 600-18 13 3 Exchange 000 010-1 4 0

Drysdale Has Rein On Temper

Juniors Seek 6th Straight

LEGION BATTERY—Lanky righthander James Braxton of Winterville shows ball grip to catcher Rommie Brock of Greenville. Braxton is Coach Ray Pennington's choice tonight as the local American Legion Post 39 juniors carry their 5-1 mark—the locals are tied for first with Rocky Mount—to Ahsokie tonight for a league contest there. Brock, in addition to his duties as Braxton's receiver, provides a strong bat for the Greenville juniors who return to Guy Smith Stadium Saturday night for an engagement with Roanoke Rapids. If he can just control his temper the pundits have been saying for the last six years, there's just no telling what he might do. A 20-game winner? Easy, the story went, just get that temper under control. He has everything, the experts said; size, stamina, speed. Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers is finally making the experts look good. With a firm rein on the fiery temper that has been one of the chief reasons he has failed to make the magic 20 wins in six previous seasons, the 6-foot-6 1/2 right-hander is off to his best start. He is one of the prime movers in the Dodgers drive to the top of the National League. He notched his 11th victory of the season Tuesday night as the Dodgers moved out to a 2 1/2 game advantage over the faltering San Francisco Giants. Last season Drysdale didn't get No. 11 until Sept. 4. His steady nine-hitter and his eighth complete game, along with some lousy hitting by Frank Howard, helped the Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over St. Louis while San Francisco was taking a 6-4 drubbing by the surprising Houston Colts. In other National League games, Cincinnati took over third from Pittsburgh by edging the Pirates 2-1. Chicago came from behind to beat Philadelphia 9-5 and the New York Mets broke a seven-game losing string, 6-5, against Milwaukee. In the American League, Minnesota climbed to within a half game of the leading Cleveland Indians with a 9-4 victory over Chicago. Boston topped the Indians 4-2. Los Angeles moved into third place by virtue of a 7-4 decision over Kansas City. The New York Yankees dropped their fifth in a row, 3-1 to Baltimore, and slipped into fourth, and Detroit shut out Washington 5-0. Howard's 10th homer of the season got the Dodgers off to a 2-0 lead in the first and he scored the winner on a misplayed grounder in the seventh. He was on third, Ron Fairly on first and there was one out when Duke Snider bounced back to the pitcher, Lindy McDaniel, who unaccountably threw to first while Howard lumbered in with the winning run. Curt Flood homered for the Cardinals, who have now lost four straight. Houston right-hander Dick Farrell choked off a Giant rally in the ninth as the Colts won their fifth in six starts and knocked San Francisco another game off the pace. The Colts belted Billy O'Dell (7-6) for three runs in the first and were never headed. Hal Smith homered for the winners in the sixth, and drove in another with a single. Jerry Lynch's single, his third hit of the game, drove in Don Blasingame with the run that broke a 1-1 tie and pulled Cincinnati into a third-place tie with the Pirates. It was the Reds sixth victory in seven games with Pittsburgh. Lynch also scored the first run after a fourth-inning triple. Jim Maloney set the Pirates down on four hits in eight innings, but weakened and needed relief help. The Cubs collected their fifth straight victory in the comeback against the Phillies. Philadelphia had a 5-3 lead going into the ninth, but the Cubs jammed in six runs against five Philadelphia pitchers. Roger Craig's (4-9) seven-hitter and home runs by Gene Woodling and Joe Christopher were the big items in the Mets victory over Milwaukee the sixth time in 10 meetings the league's tail-enders have beaten the Braves. Eddie Mathews had his 12th homer for the losers.

Angels Top Athletics For 3rd Place In AL

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Could be the Los Angeles Angels have taken the New York Yankees' place in more ways than one. The ever-surprising Angels took over third place from the Yankees in the ever-surprising American League race Tuesday night and they did it by beating the Yanks' favorite patsies—the Kansas City Athletics. Their 7-4 decision was the Angels' sixth straight victory over the A's and their ninth in 12 meetings this year. Boston knocked off Cleveland's front-running Indians 4-2. Minnesota moved up by rapping Chicago 9-4. Baltimore won its fifth in a row and handed the Yanks their fifth successive defeat, 3-1, and Frank Lary recorded his first victory in over two months with a neat six-hitter as Detroit blanked Washington 5-0. The results left Cleveland a bare half game ahead of the Twins. Los Angeles 2 1/2 back in third, and the Yankees slumped to fourth, three games behind the Indians. In the National League, first-place Los Angeles shaded St. Louis 3-2. Houston dropped runner-up San Francisco 2 1/2 games behind with a 6-4 decision over the Giants. Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 2-1. Chicago overwhelmed Philadelphia 9-5 and the New York Mets ended their latest losing string at seven games by downing Milwaukee 6-5. The Angels socked four homers, three doubles and collected six walks against four Kansas City pitchers but had to struggle to beat the A's, who have been doing pretty well themselves—against everyone except the West Coast club. Angel starter Ken McBride homered off loser John Wyatt in the third and Leon Wagner raised his league-leading total to 19 when he connected with a man on in the fifth. Los Angeles got two more homers from Felix Torres and Lee Thomas, but the A's made a run for it down to the wire. McBride was chased in the seventh when George Alusk hit a pinch homer, Jerry Lumpe tripled and Manny Jimenez singled. In the last of the ninth, Lumpe, Jimenez and Norm Siebern belted reliever Art Fowler for singles producing a run — before Ed Charles bounced into a game-ending double play. The Orioles, shut out the last four times Chuck Estrada started, finally gave the hard-throwing right-hander enough runs to win against the Yankees. Brooks Robinson paced Baltimore with a tie-breaking homer against Ralph Terry in the sixth inning and a run-scoring single in the eighth. Estrada gave up seven hits and three walks to the Yankees in eight innings, but the once-awful Bombers again showed a frustrating lack of punch by stranding 10 runners in their eighth loss in their last nine starts. Harmon Killebrew launched Minnesota's assault on the White Sox when he cracked his 15th homer with one on in the first off Juan Pizarro. The Twins got two more off the Chicago lefty in the second on four straight walks and a sacrifice fly, then ripped Don Zanni with a five-run explosion in the fifth. Southpaw Jim Kaat slugged a homer, Vic Power did the same, and Bob Allison followed with another with two aboard. With all this support Kaat breezed to his seventh victory in 11 decisions. Bill Monbouquette cooled off the Indians, who had won four in a row and nine of 12, pitching a four-hitter. The Boston right-hander had a shutout going until the eighth, when a walk and Gene Green's pinch homer gave Cleveland its two runs. The Red Sox collected all 10 of their hits and three of their runs against Ruben Gomez, the ex-National Leaguer making his first start in the majors since 1960. Lary posted his second victory of the season after eight futile tries and won for the first time since April 13 with his shutout over Washington. The 23-game winner of last year, hampered by a sore shoulder recently and now 2-4, limited the Senators to six singles, walked one and struck out five. Another Tiger who has been in a long slump, 1961 batting champion Norm Cash, drove across two runs with his 17th homer and a single.

Players batting over 300 in the Tar Heel League to date are as follows:
Pepsi-Cola — Ray Cannon, .471; Jack Gordon .367 and Mike Joyner .412.
Security Life—Richard Spivey .435 and Barry Sautler .370.
Elks — Bobby Lee .450 and Louis Gaylor .433.
Greenville Tobacco Company — Billy Calloway .370.

NORTH STATE

In North State Little League action Tuesday the Jaycees walked over Kiwanis 18-3 on the Elm Street Park field. The winning pitcher was Cleve Branch who allowed five hits, struck out three and walked three. Credited with the loss was Bob Brown who along with three other Kiwanis hurlers tallied 10 hits, struck out four and walked 21. The Jaycees took an early lead in the contest when lead-off batter Dew Forbes and number two man Randy Briley both walked. Branch and Harrington both singled with Harrington scoring Forbes for the first run of the game. A single by Ronnie Leggett scored Briley and a sacrifice by Ken Hite put Branch across the plate. Harrington scored on a walk by Leslie Davis and Leggett stole home for the fifth run of the frame. In the bottom of the first the Kiwanis picked up one run when Brown connected for a double, stole third and went home on an error by the second baseman. The top of the second saw the Jaycees strengthen their lead when they gained three more runs. Briley hit a double, Branch walked and Leggett hit a double which scored the first two runners. Leggett again managed to steal home. Neither team was able to score in the third and fourth frames, but the winning Jaycees picked up seven more runs in the fifth when all but two batters scored. This big inning was aided by seven walks, two singles and a fielder's choice. In the top of the sixth the winners rounded out their scoring with three additional runs. Harrington walked, Leggett singled and Wayne Singleton walked to load the bases. Three additional walks accounted for the scoring. Kiwanis gained two runs in the bottom of the sixth when Van Williams walked and Randy Stokes got on with an error advancing Williams to second. Both boys scored off a walk and another error before the side was retired. The Jaycees were to meet Coca-Cola today in the regularly scheduled North State game and Pepsi-Cola and Security Life were scheduled to make up a game which was rained out on June 12. The makeup game will be played at 3 p.m. Jaycees 530 073-18 10 1 Kiwanis 100 002-3 5 1

Hal Newhouser, pitching with Detroit, and Bob Feller, hurling for Cleveland, were the last American League hurlers to take 26 decisions in one campaign.

Cleaners Down Planters Bank 7-1

In Teen-er League action at Guy Smith Stadium Tuesday night College View Cleaners defeated the Planters Bank nine-7-1 after breaking a tie in the top of the seventh. College View opened up the scoring in the top of the first when Malcolm Williams connected for a single forcing leadoff batter Gary Bostic out at second. A walk by Frank Moye advanced Williams to second and he scored off an error by the rightfielder. Neither team was able to score again until the bottom of the sixth when the Bankers tied the game 1-1 after Mike Reagan got on with an error by the shortstop. Reagan stole second and third and scored on a single by Mike Morton. However, the tie did not last long as College View put on the steam in the top of the seventh and put six runners across the plate safely for the win. With one out, Moye hit his third single of the night to begin the scoring action. Jimmy Mullins followed at an error and got on with an error by the second baseman. Both Mullins and Moye were able to steal which put runners on third and second. The next two batters Dave Nichols and Bobby Tripp, both walked which brought in Moye for the first run of the frame. The next batter, Van Stubbs, connected for a grand-slam homer, which pushed the College View lead by six. Sonny Taylor followed with a single and Clint Joyner walked. Taylor advanced to second on a passed ball, stole third and scored on an error by the catcher. Joyner stole second, but was unable to go the rest of the way before the side was retired. The winning pitcher was Nichols who allowed three hits, struck out four and walked two. Credited with the loss was Jerry Clark who came in for Mike Smith in the seventh with one out. Clark allowed two hits, struck out none and walked two. Smith allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked eight.

In Teen-er League action tonight Pepsi-Cola was scheduled to play State Bank. College View 100 000 6-7 9 4 Planters Bank 000 001 0-1 3 3

Strangers Helped Keep 8 Orphan Children United

WARROAD, Minn. (AP) — The orphaned Foster family of nine children is happily bewildered today, but still together—thanks to the generosity of strangers.

When both of their parents died within a year, it looked as though the eight young Fosters remaining at the home here would have to move in with relatives.

Foster died last September from cancer, a year—almost to the day—after the same disease had claimed his wife.

But 20-year-old Rita, the oldest of the clan of nine brothers and sisters, quit her job in Minneapolis and came to Warroad last fall, determined that the family keep on "growing up together."

Her determination attracted attention of the Grand Forks, N.D. Herald, which made its story on the Fosters available to the Associated Press for national distribution, along with a family picture.

Touched by Rita's decision to take on this responsibility, the nation answered with nearly 2,000 letters containing some $4,000 in cash and gifts.

A Mississippi lad sent his $1 weekly allowance, there were clothes for the children and the employees of an Ohio industrial plant set up a $450 charge account for the family at a department store in nearby Roseau, Minn.

"I just don't understand it yet," says Rita. "Why, these people have never seen us, they never even heard of us before."

Still the letters trickle in. Rita never asked for help but she admits that the letters were a major factor in keeping things going until railroad retirement and veteran's benefits due her father started.

The family now lives on those official payments. The gift money remaining has been banked against future emergencies. Everybody goes to school regularly, except "Mother" Rita.

Among the thousands of letters, Rita revealed, there were several proposals of marriage. But she brushed them off with the comment that "I've got enough trouble now without looking for more."

Once, however, she jokingly told one of the 4-year-old twins that she was going to accept one of the proposals. "Oh goody," was the reaction, "more kids."

Kids Scared, Unhurt As School Bus Flips Over

INMAN, S.C. (AP) — A school bus with a substitute driver at the wheel edged off a road here Tuesday night into a ditch, flipped over and slid upside down 25 feet into a tree. The 33 children aboard apparently suffered nothing more serious than bruises.

Spartanburg General Hospital kept S. J. Tapp, 8, and his sister, Ruth Ellaa Tapp, 11, of Rt. 2, Inman, for observation overnight. The others were treated and released. Their ages ranged from pre-school to 18 years.

Injuries mainly were bruises, abrasions and burns from raw gasoline.

The bus was carrying the children home from vacation Bible school at Rock Hill Baptist Church three miles from here. As it approached State Route 9 on Brock Street extension, its left front wheel ran off the road's shoulder at a curve, then hit a driveway and hurled the bus into a ditch. The tree that halted the vehicle's slide down a 25-foot bank kept it from continuing another 35 or 40 feet into a creek.

James E. Brown, 18, of Rt. 2, Inman, told newsmen he was supposed to be driving the bus but had let Ernie Ramsey, 17, a Chapman high school student, take the wheel.

A motorist parked near the scene said he heard a loud noise from the bus before it left the road. This led to a theory that the booster brake failed.

Mrs. Edith Maxwell, who lives nearby, said she was awakened by a crash, and then "the heavens opened up with screaming."

She said someone called and told her the bus had overturned, spilled gasoline and was going to catch fire. She telephoned help.

The bus did not catch fire, and firemen who answered the call helped load the children onto ambulances for the hospital.

A church spokesman said the Bible classes were held at night because many of the older youngsters work in peach orchards during the day.

Teacher Chosen To Attend UNC Annual Seminar

CHAPEL HILL — Mrs. Beatrice P. Aycock, teacher in the Farmville High School, is among those selected to attend the fourth annual Financial Institutions Seminar at the University of North Carolina, June 18-20.

Sponsored by the university and the N. C. Savings and Loan League, the purpose of the course is to provide secondary school teachers of social studies, business and distributive education subjects with additional information in the areas of finance and economics for teaching purposes, and to provide practical information relating to personal finance and investment.

Fellowships to the seminar are awarded by the N. C. Savings and Loan League and its member associations. J. Boyd Flynn, assistant professor of business administration, is director of the seminar.

Dr. Bateman At Annual Meeting

WINSTON-SALEM — Dr. Joe Bateman, Greenville veterinarian, is attending the 61st annual meeting of the N. C. Veterinary Medical Association here this week. Mrs. Bateman accompanied her husband.

The meeting concludes Wednesday, after presentation of outstanding specialists in the field of veterinary medicine from all sections of the nation. A feature of the meeting will be the use of closed circuit television for one day, through which the veterinarians may view operations and surgical procedures from the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Three Recent Grads Are Now With The Air Force

BASS, CHURCHILL and BUCK

Charles D. Bass, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bass of 207 S. Eastern Street, Marvin C. Buck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck of 404 Hooker Road, and James H. Churchill, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Churchill (all of Greenville) recently enlisted in the United States Air Force. Charles Bass and James Churchill enlisted on June 7 and Marvin Buck enlisted on the 18th.

The "threesome" were to be enlisted together as a buddy group, but Buck was delayed because of his special enlistment as a future bandsman in the Air Force.

All three men graduated from J. H. Rose High School this year. Each of the "trio" made excellent scores on the IQ test and the Aptitude test given by the Air Force before enlistment. Along with the IQ and Aptitude test Airman Buck was auditioned by an Air Force Bandmaster before enlistment; he received a letter of proficiency which will automatically place him in an Air Force band after basic training should he desire to continue his musical career in the U. S. Air Force. Sgt. Skipper, the local Air Force Recruiter, states that Buck's assignment is to the 564th AF Band at Langley Air Force Base, Va. Airman Bass and Airman Churchill enlisted to fill vacancies in the aptitude areas of their highest scores. Their AF Base assignment and technical training schools will be determined sometime during their first phase of basic training.

After being sworn into the Air Force during an impressive and colorful ceremony at the USAF Recruiting Hq in Raleigh the men flew commercial airlines to San Antonio, Texas, for basic training at Lackland AFB.

Wants Closer Ties With Reds

TOKYO (AP)—Prince Souvanna Phouma, premier-designate of the coalition Laos government, has called for strengthening of ties with Red China, the New China News Agency reported.

In a broadcast monitored here the agency said Souvanna messaged Premier Chou En-lai his thanks for Red Chinese support "accorded us at the Geneva conference and in Laos itself in our struggle for peace, neutrality, national independence."

Secret Service Pay Checks Tied Up In Lawmakers' Prestige Feud

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prestige of the House and Senate fly like battle flags over a clash that has thrust into the light a shadowy dispute over status and has tied up pay checks of Secret Service agents.

The House, fed up with being known as the "lower body," would like to cut the king of the hill down to size. "We are equal and coordinate bodies," declare House members.

The Senate is comfortable with the status quo.

Defending each side's cause are two octogenarian chairmen—Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., 84, head of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., 83, head of the House Appropriations Committee.

Conflict in the middle are some money bills, including a $500-million supplemental appropriations bill to tide over government agencies which ran out of money until the new fiscal year begins in July.

Because of the feud some of the bills have been hanging fire for two months.

The Secret Service, which guards the President, was the first to feel the pinch. Its 706 agents and clerks won't receive their pay this week and are working on the cuff.

Seven states are waiting for more than $70 million in public assistance grants.

Some other agencies that asked for extra money are keeping their heads above water by scrimping and by bookkeeping maneuvers.

A Justice Department spokesman summed up the situation by saying, "It's tight."

There is no sign that the deadlock will clear up quickly.

This is the situation: When the Senate and House appropriations groups meet to iron out differences in bills, the meeting has always had a senator for chairman. The House committee wants to change that and rotate the chairmanship.

The senators have come up with a counter proposal—if they agree to rotate the chairmanship, then the House members must agree to let the Senate originate half of the money bills. The House starts them all now as it has for years and years.

Neither side has accepted the other's demands. Neither has shown any signs of wishing to compromise. Each has accused the other of being stubborn and unreasonable.

Both Hayden and Cannon are backed to the hilt, says informants, by their committees.

One source said the problem now is that neither wishes to retreat from the contest and losing face.

Cannon, said an informant, won't budge. He says the next move is up to the Senate.

Talking the situation over with a newsman Cannon said the House passed last week a resolution to provide temporary payroll authority to meet such empty-pocket problems as faced by the Secret Service.

The Senate is free to act on the resolution anytime, said Cannon—"It's on their desk and their conscience."

All Those Shots Weren't Intended

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The way Lloyd L. Ward told it to police, he was sleeping soundly when his wife turned off the late show on television.

Startled awake, Ward seized a pistol, cried, "What's that?" and stumbled over a table. The pistol fired, putting a hole in a bedroom wall.

Mrs. Ward grabbed the pistol, threw it into the carport and told her husband to leave it there until morning.

But Ward, a broker, said it was too valuable and picked up the pistol. While he was trying to remove the shells, the gun fired again, knocking a hole in the carport wall.

Police arrived and arrested Ward Tuesday, a judge agreed with the prosecutor that a charge of carrying a pistol should be dismissed.

ECC Newspaper Staff Appointed

Staff appointments for the East Carolina College student newspaper, the "East Carolinian," have been made by Editor William Griffin of Jacksonville, for the Summer School editions.

Approximately eight newspapers will be edited during the two summer sessions, according to Editor Griffin. Papers will come out weekly instead of semi-weekly as during the regular academic year.

Handling the financial affairs for the newspaper will be Keith Hobbs of Warsaw. Walter C. Faulkner of Henderson, will assume the duties of associate editor. The managing editor position is shared by Montrose Mills of Shelby, and Kaye Burgess of Rt. 2, Hickory, Va. Thomas McAllister of Raleigh, will cover the athletic events for the summer sessions, as sports editor.

Proofreading will be handled by Carla Schiller of Wilmington, and Yatesy Cantrell of Gastonia. Jackie Polk of Plymouth, will head the subscriptions and exchange departments.

Trick Of Balancing Nat'l Budget Further Complicated By Debate

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Balancing a budget is a neat trick if you can do it — as many a family man knows.

On a national scale the attempt has, more often than not, frustrated presidents for decades.

And now the balancing trick is complicated still more by a big debate just starting.

Is balancing the federal budget really the virtue it's cracked up to be? Should we abandon the type of budget we've used for decades in favor of one of several other devices in vogue in Washington?

Or maybe, should we adopt the kind of deficit-ignoring bookkeeping they've used in Europe with seemingly marked success since the war?

The debate should be bitter. It will challenge some strongly held beliefs. President Kennedy has termed some of these conceptions myths.

You probably will choose sides, depending on whether you believe a Treasury deficit is a sin to be paid for in rising prices later on, or that in the present state of world and domestic affairs a deficit can be an economic tool to encourage growth and make more jobs and greater prosperity.

You may find yourself on the side of those who think taxes should be cut and government spending, too. But you may line up with those who see a continual rising federal debt as a small problem in an economy that is growing still faster.

The federal budget which a president is required to submit in January, and which the Congress spends the following six months changing or adopting, is called the administrative budget. It dates back only to 1921. In that year Congress set up the Budget Bureau and ordained the formal, or administrative, budget. The object was to keep a tighter fiscal control over the ordinary programs of government.

But since then a lot of other programs have been set up, and they aren't included in the administrative budget.

About one-fifth of Uncle Sam's fiscal activity isn't recorded in the administrative budget at all. And yet this fifth plays a big part in shaping the national economy.

Take Social Security — not included in the administrative budget — as an example. If you are under 65 and working, what is withheld from your paycheck is money you can't spend — and that means some deprivation to you, but a lot more in the total of all deductions, in lost sales for the merchants and purveyors of various services.

If you are over 65 and drawing Social Security payments, the checks mean quite a bit to you. The total of these checks mean a lot to all the makers of goods and to the service industries where the money comes to rest.

The economy, therefore, is directly affected by whether the sums the government is taking out in the form of withholding exceeds or falls short of the sums it is putting into the economy in the form of benefit payments.

And yet this deficit or surplus isn't shown in the administrative budget which a president submits and Congress passes upon. Other funds exempted from this budget also can, and do, affect the real fiscal deficit or surplus.

Wednesday: Economists compare three federal budgets—the official, the cash, and the national income accounts.

Actor Dan Blocker Not Abashed By His Weight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Amid a nation of calorie-counters, "Bonanza's Dan Blocker stands out like a monument. He's 260 pounds of unabashed bulk.

None of that safflower oil and gluten bread for Dan. Why should he ruin his meal ticket?

Yet when I met up with the towering Texan, he was lunching on cottage cheese salad and gelatine. "Picked up eight pounds on P.A.'s," he explained, referring to personal appearances, any television star's bread and butter.

"Trouble with those tours is everybody wants to feed you. They give you a big breakfast and a big lunch and then a big dinner, thinking they're doing you a favor. You feel like a hee-oo to eat."

Dan admitted he would probably take off 50 pounds if he gave up the beer and booze. But he hasn't yet found enough reason. And he'd be in danger of destroying the image of the big, blustery Hoss Cartwright on NBC's Sunday night Western.

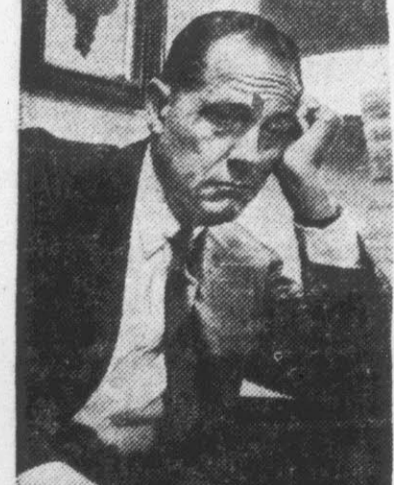

Health problems? He's got none. Even got a top rating in an insurance physical exam recently.

"Can hardly remember when I didn't weigh at least 200 pounds," he said. "Never worried me, though my folks thought about it, I guess. Once when I was about 0 and weighed 200, they put me in the car and took me to a pediatrician in Lubbock, Texas."

"He examined me and said, 'There's nothing wrong with this boy; he's just going to be a big son of a gun.'"

The Army gave him the same bill of health, even though at 310 pounds he was well over the usual limit. "We'll make an exception in your case," said the doctor, and Dan replied, "thanks a bunch."

"Bonanza" is now ending its third and best season, and the company is already grinding out a fourth. Dan figures it could go another year, perhaps two at the most.

Why "Good-Time" Charlie Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild, but annoying bladder irritations — making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. And if restless nights, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery — don't wait — try Doan's Pills.

Doan's Pills act 3 ways for speedy relief. 1 — They have a soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2 — A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. 3 — A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years.

For convenience, ask for the large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

Rash Of Stealing Cars In Poland

POZNAN, Poland (AP)—Police roadblocks have been thrown up around this central Polish city to stop car thievery at the Poznan International Trade Fair. Fifteen cars have been stolen since the opening of the fair 10 days ago brought an invasion of automobiles from throughout Europe.

The victims include the director of the fair, Adam Askanas.

Border Guards Trigger Happy
BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police announced today that sand-bag barriers and shelters are being erected at exposed points along the Red wall for protection of their men from East German gunfire.

Police said East German border guards have become trigger happy since one East German policeman was killed Monday in trying to stop a tunnel escape by four East Berliners.

More than 100 shots were fired along the border that night and at least 20 shots were heard Tuesday night.

The East German government charged Tuesday that the policeman was killed by a West Berliner helping in the tunnel escape. West Berlin police said he was killed by his own comrades shooting at the West Berliner.

The policeman has been promoted posthumously to a corporal. East Berlin newspapers printed his picture, framed by a black border of mourning, and called his shooting a murder.

Another East German policeman was killed a few weeks ago in an exchange of fire with West Berlin police helping a wounded refugee boy out of the water after he had swum to freedom.

So far no West Berlin police have been killed along the wall. The 20 shots heard along the wall Tuesday night presumably were fired by East German guards at persons attempting to escape.

Firemen Respond To Two Alarms
Greenville fire units responded to two calls yesterday, one a false alarm and the second a call to wash down gas spilled on a street.

Officers said the first call came at 11:45 a.m. to the 300 block of Evans St. where gas had spilled on the pavement.

Firemen washed the gas from the area with high pressure hose lines.

The second call came at 11:30 p.m. when Fire Alarm Box 72 at Fleming Street School was pulled. Fire officials listed the alarm as false.

Chicod Group At F.F.A. Camp
Nineteen members of the Chicod School Chapter of Future Farmers of America attended F.F.A. camp last week. They were accompanied by their advisor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson.

The chapter ranked third in sports and other activities at the camp, out of approximately 15 chapters represented. They were champions in water ball, runners-up in shuffleboard and reached the semifinals in basketball and ping pong. The club approached the quarterfinals in volleyball and checkers.

Attending with the Chicod chapter members were one representative of the Winterville chapter and one from Grimesland.

Ayden Committee Plans Dinner Meeting July 2

AYDEN—The Downtown Improvement Committee, recently established by the Chamber of Commerce to study downtown improvements, will hold a dinner meeting on Monday, July 2, at the community building.

Russell Wooten, dinner chairman, said that primarily merchants and building owners were being invited to the dinner.

A feature of the 6:30 p.m. dinner will be color slides of the downtown area prepared by Grady Dixon. The community building will be temporarily air conditioned for the special event, Wooten noted.

The Downtown Improvement Committee is composed of a group of citizens interested in making suggestions which would result in improvements to the business area, thus making it a more attractive shopping center.

The committee is an outgrowth of the Chamber of Commerce's Trade Promotion Committee, and has replaced it with broader authority.

Purposes of the new committee are to study the prospect of off-street parking in Ayden; investigate inexpensive improvements which could be made immediately to existing buildings; and study long range improvements to building fronts, or a planned program of improvements.

The off-street parking committee consists of Hall Miller, chairman, Jamie Ross, Kenneth Branch, Ross Persinger and Harry Mumford. The long range planning committee consists of Cleveland Paylor, town manager, chairman, Floyd Rowe, Frank Peterson, mayor, and Tom Wheless. No committee has been named to study short term projects.

PCDC MEET
Pitt County's Development Commission is scheduled to meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Board of Directors Room of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. at Fifth and Washington Streets in Greenville. Director C. Sylvester Green said today the commission's June meeting promises to be a routine session with no unusual items on the agenda.

Ayden Quits Flood Study
AYDEN—Ayden's participation in a "flood plain study" with assistance of the U. S. Army District Corps of Engineers, Wilmington, has been discontinued, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

He explained that the study would not benefit the town of Ayden as officials first thought. Ayden has a problem with slow drainage of water in certain sections of town, but the study was geared more to new developments in municipalities, and dealing with problems of deep ravines.

Mayor S. F. Peterson, Town Manager Paylor and Commissioner Harry Mumford met this week with survey officials.

Finally, the deputy answered. Nothing was wrong, he said. It was just that a skunk had gotten between him and his car and he preferred to wait for the skunk to move on.
