Tobacco Harvest Sees Early Start

PITT TOBACCO HARVEST UNDERWAY—Simpson community farmer Lyman Mills (left) inspects harvested leaves as field workers dump armloads of lugs into mule-drawn truck for tractor journey to barn for stringing. Mills had planned his first harvest Thursday but was delayed until this morning. Ready for harvest, he said, were lugs on about five of his near-seven acres. His crop, Mills said, looks "mighty good, I think, for lugs." His acres are planted in Coker 316 and he has used irrigation when needed. Mills' harvest was the earliest report received by the Daily Reflector; however, Mills' neighbor, Dennis Manning, had also planned to begin his harvest today. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Fear For Lives Of All On Crashed French Jetliner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A Boeing 707 Air France liner with 108 or more persons aboard crashed today on a forested hillside of the Caribbean island of Guadeloupe. Circling search planes reported no sign of life in the wreckage. Debris was reported to have burned. The $5.5-million plane met disaster as it headed in for a landing before dawn at the airport of Pointe-a-Pitre on a regular flight from Paris to Santiago, Chile. The U.S. Coast Guard said the air traffic control center at Pointe-a-Pitre Airport reported the big jet had been cleared for its final approach when its radio went dead. A small local plane later spotted the wreckage 2 1/2 miles inland from the north coast of the Basse Terre section of Guadeloupe, the Coast Guard said. Weather was reported clear at the time, and the pilot had radioed he was making a visual approach to the field. The Coast Guard in New York said its information was that the plane was carrying 102 passengers and 11 crewmen. The Civil Aeronavics Board in Washington said it was told there were 103 passengers and 5 crewmen aboard. However, a list announced by Air France in New York showed 10 crewmen, counting the hostesses and stewards. The crash occurred at about 4:25 a.m. local time (3:25 a.m. EST), the hour the plane was due to land at Guadeloupe on a flight from Santa Maria, the Azores. First word that the Air France liner was in trouble came at 6:19 a.m. (EST) when the Coast Guard received this message: "Distress, Air France Flight 117, B707, overdue."

Pitt Prisoner Escapes Prison Work Crew And Stabs Woman

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer A Pitt County Negro, convicted in Pitt County Court of assaulting a female May 25, bolted from a prison work crew Thursday and sought out and stabbed the same woman he had been convicted of assaulting. Alfonza Mann, 42, of Route 1,

Grifton, was placed in Pitt County Jail in charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill yesterday afternoon following his recapture about 2 p.m. Maj. James Langley, district prison supervisor, identified the attack victim as Celia Canady Mann, about 40, of Route 1, Grifton. Prison officials said Mann, in custody at the Greene County prison unit, was assigned to a work crew mowing grass between Ormondville and the county line at Scotland on N.C. Highway 102. Mann flagged down a passing motorist, Lawyer Dancy, Route 1, Grifton Negro, and forced Dancy to drive him to Mann's home in the St. John's section of Pitt County. Mann allegedly threatened to attack Dancy with a crow bar if he failed to follow instructions. After arriving at his home, Mann chased his common-law wife and stabbed her with a screw driver. She had been mowing grass in the yard, officers noted. She was taken to a Kinston hospital in serious condition. Prison officials said today doctors' reports showed that one of her lungs had been penetrated by the weapon. Mann's escape came about 8:30 a.m. Thursday while the stabbing occurred about mid-morning. Prison units, members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, highway patrolmen and a N.C. Forest Service aircraft from Kinston, joined in the search for the fugitive. Mann was taken into custody in Craven County near the Pitt line by Maj. Langley, Pitt Deputy Sheriff Ralph Tyson and prison guards. Mann was hiding in a hog pen when found. Maj. Langley, praising officers who aided in the search for their cooperation, gave special emphasis to his remarks regarding the help of the Forest Service. He credited the airplane with restricting the movement of the escapee and thereby keeping him in the area. Maj. Langley noted Mann will be charged with escape by the prison department and noted a possibility the fugitive will be charged with kidnapping Dancy in Greene County, pending further investigation by the Greene County Sheriff's department.

Kennedy's Farm Bill Killed In House; Shocks Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's farm bill is dead. The surprise defeat of the far-reaching bill in the House Thursday night by a 215-205 vote was all the more shocking to administration leaders because up to the last minute they thought they would win. The sudden death came at 8:47 p.m. in the tension-filled House; 48 Democrats, not all Southern conservatives by any means, helped 167 Republicans do it in. Only one Republican—Rep. Phil Weaver of Nebraska—voted with 204 Democrats against scuttling the bill by sending it back to committee. The White House immediately issued a statement saying the defeat "will cost the taxpayers of the United States at least an additional $1 billion next year and return the country to the ruinous deficit farm programs with accompanying growth in our already staggering $9 billion surplus."

"It is regrettable that the Republican members of the House, with only one exception, chose to make party issue of this matter instead of voting in the national interest. They will now have to bear the responsibility for the continuing chaos in our agricultural surplus situation." The statement made no reference to the Democrats who voted against the bill. The powerful American Farm Bureau Federation, which led the fight against the bill, called the House action a "victory for farmers, consumers and taxpayers," adding "the only losers were the political empire builders in Washington." The bill would have placed mandatory acreage reductions and national marketing quotas for the first time on feed grains and wheat. These crops have contributed most to the massive surplus stocks now held by the government. Such controls were the only hope of reducing costs of federal price support programs, backers of the measure claimed. The Senate already has passed a bill very similar to the one snuffed out in the House. The Senate measure could be brought to the House floor if it is approved by the House Agriculture Committee. But this did not appear likely because the committee approved its own bill by a margin of only one vote. Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and floor chairman of the bill, indicated it was unlikely the House would act on the Senate bill. Nor did he show any enthusiasm for a quick attempt to get present emergency feed and wheat programs extended for another year. In the absence of any legislation, the law reverts to the 1958 act of former Republican Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, which the Democrats claim is largely responsible for the present mountainous pile of surpluses. There is no doubt the administration played every card it had to try to win passage of its bill. Capitol Hill telephones had been kept jangling with calls from the White House. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had invested an enormous amount of time and effort to persuade his fellow Democrats to vote for the bill, and spent most of the three-day debate in an office just across a hall from the House chamber. Republicans derided his efforts as pressure tactics and arm-twisting. Just after Thursday night's vote Freeman emerged from the office looking stunned and unbelieving. "I expected it to go the other way," he said. "I'm still trying to find out what happened."

House Democratic leaders had been quietly confident all along that they had enough votes to put across the bill. Post mortems on what went wrong were the order of the day. Observers agreed that it was Kennedy's most damaging setback in Congress this year, and that its adverse political effect could hardly be overestimated. The defeat is bound to lend encouragement to opponents of other major Kennedy bills, such as tax revision, reciprocal trade revision and medical care for the aged. And it was perhaps the most challenging test so far of the new House Democratic leadership of Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts. He obviously failed the test from the administration point of view. Republicans refrained from crowing, but they murmured approval during the tense roll call as they noted more and more Democrats joining them.

Jury's Verdicts Scolded

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — "I think it is a sin and a shame," Judge W. E. Bundy, angered by the acquittal of three persons tried for drunken driving, used those words Thursday in criticizing the jurors that heard the cases.

In at least two of the cases, he said, the evidence "was beyond any reasonable doubt" that the defendants were drunk. "You turned them loose," he told the jury, "and you told them 'go do it again.' That's what it amounts to." "If you read in the paper where one of these men runs over anyone and kills him while driving drunk, don't forget what you have done here this week," the judge continued.

He said he had refrained from commenting before while there were cases remaining to be tried. The judge noted that one man was tried for assault with a deadly weapon, and convicted of simple assault. "Under the evidence, that defendant could very well have been acquitted," he said. He said he thought he could understand how a jury could have given one of three men charged with drunken driving the benefit of a reasonable doubt. "But as to the other two cases . . . I am completely at a loss to understand how these two defendants were acquitted under the evidence in the case, if you considered the evidence at all, or had any regard for your duties as jurors." The jurist noted that in one case in which the defendant was acquitted there was "scientific testimony that the alcoholic content of the man's blood was 22 per cent, almost 50 per cent more than has been found by research to be necessary for a man to be under the influence of intoxicants."

Bundy, a former superior court solicitor, told the jurors they had a responsibility to acquit any defendant they felt innocent, but he said it is equally important for a man who is guilty to be convicted.

Petition For CAB Inquiry Into Regional Needs Authorized Here

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission this morning authorized petitioning the Civil Aeronautics Board for an investigation of Eastern North Carolina Airport needs. The petition will carry a letter of endorsement from Gov. Terry Sanford. Attorney W. W. Speight said associate counsel James M. Verrier in Washington has been instructed to file the petition with the CAB. The governor's letter, in addition to endorsing the area airport concept, pledged the state's cooperation in building necessary highways from the cities involved to the airport site. "I request that you give full consideration to Pitt County-

Greenville Airport Commission's request for your aid in establishing a regional airport centrally located in Eastern North Carolina," the governor's letter to Alan S. Boyd, chairman of the CAB, read. "I hereby endorse the commission's petition for an area airport investigation by your board in Eastern North Carolina.

Rowan County Educator New Rose High Principal

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer Guy T. Swain, principal of the new East Rowan consolidated high school, has been hired by the Greenville Board of Education to become principal of Junius H. Rose High School, Superintendent J. H. Rose announced today.

Members of the Greenville Board of Education approved the selection of Swain, a highly recommended educator, at a special meeting last night. He will spend next week in Greenville working with O. E. Dowd, who resigned as principal to accept a position as dean of students at The Methodist College in Fayetteville. Swain officially assumes his duties July 1.

A graduate of High Point College, he holds the master's degree from Appalachian State Teachers College and has done work there beyond the master's degree. He served three years in the U. S. Navy. During 12 years experience as a school principal, Swain has served three years in Surry County as principal of a 10-teacher school, grades one through 12; three years as principal in Alexander County of an 18-teacher school, grades one through 12; three years as principal at Jonesville school in Yadkin County, of a 36-teacher school, grades one through 12. He has just completed his third year as principal of the East Rowan High School near Salisbury, a 37-teacher high school consisting of grades nine through 12. The enrollment is 637. The East Rowan School, one of the new consolidated high schools in Rowan County, was built at a cost of $1.25 million. Rose stated that Swain organized the school and through his efforts the school already has been accepted as a member of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges.

GUY T. SWAIN

Dr. V. M. Mulholland, a former principal of the Greenville high school and now director of research for the State Department of Public Instruction, stated that Swain has done an outstanding piece of work in the Rowan school. Swain also has been highly recommended by Superintendent C. C. Erwin of Rowan County Schools, who said that his work in curriculum study has been outstanding and one of his strong points is selection of a strong staff of teaching personnel. "He is a good organizer and his school has been well disciplined and generally satisfactory to the people in his area," Erwin said of Swain. He further described Swain as a man who "believes that a school is a place for work" and as one who interprets the school's programs and activities to parents and community."

Rose noted that he feels Swain "will be an asset to the schools and the city and will continue the fine traditions of the Greenville city schools."

It was pointed out that the Greenville Board of Education has offered the position as principal of Rose High School to only one person—Swain.

A native of Washington County, Swain, 36 years-old, is married to the former Barbara Reddit of Aurora. Now residents of Aurora, the Swains plan to move to Greenville with their five-year-old son.

Company Officials Relate Brewer Role In Business

RALEIGH (AP) — Two more sign company officials testified today at the Burch-Brewer influence peddling trial. One of these was John Montgomery, an official of Vulcan Signs and Stamping of Birmingham, Ala., and its predecessor firm, National Safety Engineers. Montgomery testified that Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer served during part of 1960 as Safety Engineer's manufacturers representative and received commissions totaling about $6,000.

Brewer and seven other defendants, including two Newark, N.J. sign firms, are being tried on charges of influence peddling in connection with state highway sign purchases. Montgomery said his firm had a license under which it was able to manufacture signs using a process patented by one of the accused firms — Traffic and Street Sign Co. (TASSCO). The state has offered evidence that this process was called for under specifications prepared under the direction of Tolbert A. Burch, a former highway engineer and one of the defendants. Montgomery said sign specifications of other states contained drawings of the same type as those prepared by TASSCO to illustrate its process.

The other witness was Donald W. Smith, formerly an official of General Outdoor Advertising Co. He said the firm landed a couple of state sign projects but had to obtain a portion of the signs it erected from TASSCO because of that company's patent on a process used to join aluminum sheets used in making signs. J. A. Coblenz, sales engineer for Union Metal Manufacturing Co. of Canton, Ohio, told the jury Thursday he was introduced to Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer in 1957 by former state highway engineer Robert A. Burch. He said they had lunch at Brewer's home. Brewer, a onetime candidate for lieutenant governor, and Burch who was fired last January from his state post, are key defendants. Brewer was a manufacturers representative for several sign companies. The state has accused Burch of drawing specifications for highway signs and poles to benefit the two companies — Traffic and Street Sign Co. and Pfaff and Kendall, both of Newark, N.J. Coblenz said Burch took him to Brewer's home and that they had lunch beside the indoor swimming pool. "Do you mean Mr. Brewer has more than one swimming pool?" asked special prosecutor Charles Hagan.

The seven defense attorneys sprang to their feet and raised an objection which was sustained by Judge Raymond Mallard. Coblenz said that after Burch left, Brewer approached him about the possibility of being a manufacturer's representative for Union Metal. The sign company official testified he did not have the authority to hire Brewer but that Brewer was subsequently employed by Union Metal as a representative. Brewer was offered a 10 per cent commission, he added. Hagan wanted to know what duties were assigned to Brewer. Coblenz replied that "He was to follow up new jobs, obtain plans and specifications and check out complaints." Coblenz told the court that on another occasion he and Burch and Brewer went to Durham in Brewer's converted bus which he termed an "executive cruiser." Others on trial are Traffic and Street Sign Co.; Pfaff and Kendall; Burch's son, Robert M.; and Martin J. Hamilton, George Masfield and Walter Schenckel, present or former officials of the two companies. They are charged in a 12-count indictment with violating a law which forbids anyone from offering a gift to an employee to influence his conduct in his employer's business.

Mining Firm To Avoid Polluting Pamlico River

RALEIGH (AP) — A geologist for the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. says his firm plans to carry out extensive experiments so that proposed phosphate mining operations would not pollute the Pamlico River. Dr. Leo Miller assured officials of the State Stream Sanitation Committee Thursday that this would be done. The New York Company was high bidder recently on a lease for phosphate mining. It offered to turn over to the state 12.5 per cent of its gross sales of any phosphate mined from an area about one mile square in the Pamlico near Washington in Beaufort County. Action on the lease is being held up by the state until the Stream Sanitation Committee looks into the possibility of mining damage to the river.

It will carry a letter of endorsement by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, who has supported Pitt-Greenville all along, in addition to the governor's letter. In its last petition, Pitt-Greenville had the support of the Bureau of Economic Relations and the CAB Bureau, the legal arm of CAB. Hagan wanted to know what duties were assigned to Brewer. Coblenz replied that "He was to follow up new jobs, obtain plans and specifications and check out complaints." Coblenz told the court that on another occasion he and Burch and Brewer went to Durham in Brewer's converted bus which he termed an "executive cruiser." Others on trial are Traffic and Street Sign Co.; Pfaff and Kendall; Burch's son, Robert M.; and Martin J. Hamilton, George Masfield and Walter Schenckel, present or former officials of the two companies. They are charged in a 12-count indictment with violating a law which forbids anyone from offering a gift to an employee to influence his conduct in his employer's business.

PAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Miss Carol Lisbeth Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter BeVier Cole, was married to Byron M. Eisman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron M. Eisman Sr., of Morris-town, Tenn., in the Central Methodist Church at seven o'clock Saturday evening, June 16.

The Rev. Harold O. Eggensperger, pastor, assisted by Dr. A. W. Martin, Director of Wesley Foundation at the University of Arkansas, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The vows were spoken before an altar of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and greenery, flanked on either side with a candelabra holding lighted tapers. Jim Anthony, organist, provided the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Karen Russell, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace with sabrina neckline, outlined with pearls and sequins. The sleeves formed points over her hands and the bouffant skirt swept into a Cathedral train. She wore a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms with elbow length veil of English illusion accented with a French pouff and a face veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Russell McConnell Jr. of San Antonio, Tex. was her cousin's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Leroy Barrow of Louisville, Ky., also a cousin of the bride, Mrs. Don Franks, and Mrs. Doug Douglas. They wore light aqua taffeta dresses with semi-full skirt accented in the back with a full white lace panel coming to a point at the Welcome Guest?

How does the mother of your best friend feel after you've spent a weekend at their home?

Your own mother may be accustomed to your heavy walking on a staircase, banging doors or slurring with soda straws. But these may be the very things that drive other mothers to distraction.

Every home has its own tolerance level. If you want to be asked to make another visit, consider these mom irritants:

1. Giggling, snickering and whispering. Says one mom: "It's so rude, and young people think it's funny."
2. Being indefinite, such as "I get up whenever I wake up," or "I'll have either the strawberry or vanilla," or "I don't know when my family will call for me." Mothers like to know when, where, how many, and how much.
3. Hanging laundered items conspicuously indoors or outdoors, especially on weekends. The average girl should have enough clean undergarments to last one weekend, they feel. If she is staying for a longer period, she should discuss washing possibilities.
4. Being inconsiderate, such as putting wet glasses on furniture surfaces, or throwing wet bathing suits over chairs, combing hair over wash basins or spilling powder over bureaus.
5. Acting like a paying guest. This makes everyone feel the girl thinks she isn't welcome, says one mother, staying in her room or going away for the day, showing up just for meals.
6. Monopolizing the bathroom in a small house with limited bathroom facilities. Such as taking three or four showers a day although there is a limited warm water supply, using the bathroom to make up her face, set her hair and comb it out.
7. Scrambling legs in the presence of male members of the family—crossing the legs with skirts too high and other poses.
8. Answering the telephone or door without being asked. Making toll charges on the telephone.
9. Lacking necessities needed for her stay, such as warm sweater, comb and clothes brush.
10. Sliding with your friend audibly to pressure her mother in the matter of curfew, mealtime, dating or other family regulations.

Stokes H.D. Picnic Held

The Stokes Home Demonstration Club held its annual picnic Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cole.

Approximately 12 members were present and they served ham, chicken, turkey, deviled eggs, potato salad, potato chips, slaw, cucumbers, beets, snap beans, cornbread, biscuits, iced tea, cakes and pies to their families and out-of-town guests. Mrs. Dora Rawls, Mrs. Eunice Little of Robersonville, Mrs. Hugh James and children of Bethel, Mrs. A. C. Shackelford and Mrs. Stuart Shinn of Greenville.

Sweet Gum Club Meets

"Quick and Easy Meals" was the topic of the demonstration given by Mrs. Heber Briley when the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club met at the Community Building Thursday.

Mrs. Howard Briley gave the devotionals, closing with prayer. During the business period, Mrs. Johnnie Meeks, president, presiding, the club voted to donate $5.00 to United Cerebral Pund. The group also voted to have their annual picnic July 6 at seven o'clock at the Community Building and to hold their August meeting at the regular time.

In connection with her demonstration, Mrs. Briley served a park casserole she had prepared that could be frozen.

Mrs. John Whichard and Mrs. Eric Whichard served refreshments which included a dairy product.

walstine and finished with an aqua velvet bow. Their hats and shoes were of matching color and wore short white gloves. They carried bouquets of American Beauty Red Roses.

Kellie McConnell, dressed in a pale pink embroidered nylon, carrying a basket of pink rose petals, served as flower girl.

A. Quillen Eisman of Morris-town, Tenn. served his brother as best man. Ushers were Russell McConnell Jr. of San Antonio, Tex., Don Kyle, Doug Douglas and Robert Trewatha.

Candlelighters were Mary Ruth Quillen and York Quillen III, cousins of the bridegroom. She wore a pink taffeta dress fashioned like those of the bridesmaids and wore a wrist corsage of American Beauty Roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Wesley Hall of the church where guests were received by the bride and groom, their parents and members of the bridal party.

For travel, the bride wore a soft green embroidered linen sheath dress with matching hat and ivory-white shoes and bag accented with gold embroidery. She pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

After their wedding trip to St. Louis, Chicago, Niagara Falls and points in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Eisman will spend the summer at Buck Hill Falls Camp Club, Pa. Then they will return to Greenville, N. C. in the fall where they both are on the faculty in the School of Business Administration at East Carolina College.

Girls Sweetened With Lemons

VALENCIA, Spain—(WNS)—Citrus growers are enthusiastic over the increasing use of lemons as a beauty product here.

Isabella Cardona, who trains teen-age girls in beauty care, uses a lemon mask to transform dull complexions. It is made of oatmeal flakes mixed with milk and a spoonful of lemon applied to face and neck for 10 minutes, then rinsed off with hot water.

Hands and elbows become white and smooth when rubbed regularly with half a lemon, Miss Cardona said. And a shampoo rinse of lemon juice and water leaves hair supple, sleek and brilliant.

The Spanish beauty expert recommends drinking a glass of lemon juice and hot or cold water each morning before breakfast. "It brightens your eyes, reinforces your teeth, and stimulates your nerves," she said.

A glass of lemon juice and water before each meal keeps the figure properly thin. "It diminishes your appetite so that you eat only what you need."

Lemon beauty creams and lemon perfumes make you fresh, springlike and "muy guapa."

"And in a lemon-colored dress you look younger and happier," insisted Miss Cardona. "Especially with orange lipstick and lime-green eyes."

Mrs. Pate Gives Demonstration

"Quick and Easy Meals" was the topic of the demonstration presented to members of the Simpson Home Demonstration Club by Mrs. Ella Pate on Tuesday.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. McLawhorn. Mrs. S. D. Tucker, president, presided.

Mrs. Pate's purpose was to help homemakers plan and prepare tasty, nutritious meals even on the busiest of days. She said when prepared in a hurry, a meal should have variety in food value, flavor, color and texture. Each member was given recipes for foods that could be prepared and stored in the refrigerator or home freezer for use later.

Mrs. Gentry Porter served a meat ball casserole which she prepared from the recipe.

During the business session plans were made to have a picnic Aug. 18 at the Community

Expert Offers Guide To Finding First Job

By JEANNE SAKOL
NEW YORK—(WNS)—Finding that first job may seem the hardest challenge a young person has to face. Yet, according to job expert Elmer Winter, if you go about it with equal parts zeal and intelligence, you're certain to succeed.

Mr. Winter, who is president of Manpower, Inc., and the author of "A Woman's Guide to Earning a Good Living," recommends these routes to the right employment:

- (1) Check help-wanted ads in the newspaper. Read the ads carefully and make a list of those for which you qualify. Then follow instructions exactly. For instance, if the advertiser says, "Apply by phone in the morning," don't go in person in the afternoon. Knowing how to follow directions is the first thing an employer seeks.
- (2) Ask relatives and friends. Never hesitate to use "pull." While knowing somebody will often help you to get a job, it won't guarantee your keeping it if you aren't up to the work. Think of all the people you know—your best friend's brother who works for an insurance firm, your neighbor's uncle who runs a taxi company, your cousin who's a copywriter.
- If you know—or know of—anyone connected with the sort of place you might like to work in don't be too shy to ask for advice. Most people are delighted to help you get started. Spread the word to everyone you know, young and old, that you're job-hunting and want some leads.

You'll be astonished at the number of people who are not only willing but eager to give you an introduction. Months from now, don't let it be said by those near you, "But why didn't you ask?"

- (3) Check private employment agencies. Private agencies may be found through newspaper ads or in the phone book. They will ask you to fill out an application listing your schooling, skills, interests and experience (even if unpaid). A fee is paid for placing you, sometimes by you, sometimes by the employer. Before you register with a private agency, find out exactly what the fee is and how it is to be paid. If in doubt about signing, take the form home and show it to your parents.
- (4) See your state employment service. Every major community has a branch of the state employment service, staffed by people qualified to discuss your vocational future. They know what's going on in the local job market, where the openings may appear and when and how to arrange an interview for you. There is no fee.

In addition, Elmer Winter suggests contacting your local Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. and similar organizations. Many firms needing office help ask the Y to post a notice on its bulletin board. The Y's are interested in helping young people find appropriate work and they have excellent affiliations with the business community.

Job expert Winter urges young people to get their foot in the door by taking any job they can get, however humble, as long as it is related to their ultimate goal. Work, study, listen and soak up all the information you can, he says, and keep your eyes open for that second job!

Flexible Hours, Low Costs Advantages Of Home Study

By MORTON YARMON
NEW YORK—(WNS)—If you need training for a job and can't get to a school or college, a home study course may be just the thing. There are many advantages. Among them:

1. You choose your own study hours and thus can make excellent use of your spare time.
2. You progress at your own rate, never being held back by a class schedule. You don't miss points forever, as you often do when you are taking a lecture course.
3. You save both the time and money that normally is expended going to and from school.
4. You often can get instruction not available in schools in your own neighborhood or state.
5. Instruction will follow you if and when you move, as so many Americans often do.
6. Instructional material often is more clearly written and easier to absorb than are classroom texts. This is becoming even more true with the introduction of teaching machines and programmed learning.
7. Kits of well-chosen equipment, tools, and parts make even technical and trade training practical for home instruction these days.

8. You have the time to master every part of the course since it waits for your convenience.
9. Home study usually is less expensive than resident study, and home study courses from private schools usually are cheaper than college correspondence courses.
10. You can earn while you learn, if necessary, keeping your regular job while you extend your education in your spare time.

Not all subjects, of course, lend themselves to such courses. Among those that have been well-learned through home study instruction are accounting, advertising, art, business and commercial subjects (typing, shorthand, bookkeeping), dressmaking and fashion designing, hotel and motel work, interior decoration, landscaping, machine trades, photography and real estate.

Subjects where demonstration and practice are required, such as swimming and driving, are not suitable for correspondence courses. Some schools in practical nursing, airline work and other fields requiring practice offer a short period of resident instruction after the home study is completed.

Besides making sure that the subject you are interested in can be adequately taught by home study, you should ask yourself a number of questions to determine whether you have the abilities and personal qualities for success in this field:

1. Do you know definitely what you want to learn and what you want to do? If you're not sure, confer with teachers or workers in the field before enrolling.
2. Have you the aptitudes and abilities to make good in this field? Find out before you enroll: speak to a vocational guidance agency, a university vocational counselor, a public employment office counselor or a counselor in an adult education program. If necessary, take tests.
3. Are you persistent? This is a quality you will need.
4. Can you schedule your time? Can you motivate yourself to reserve time for study? If not, better forget it.
5. Can you work independently? You must be mature enough to be a self-starter and to work under your own steam.
6. Can you read and follow instructions? Some people learn better through hearing and do better in resident classes. Others are visual learners, and do well in home study. Are you in this second group?
7. Can you pay for the course?

Year-Round School Use Is Growing

While many changes have taken place in the field of education in recent years, perhaps one of the more significant changes is the move to greater year-round utilization of school facilities.

On both the public school and the college level, summer school enrollment has grown rapidly and the variety of courses offered during summer sessions has likewise been expanded.

There was a time not many years ago when summer sessions on both the public school and college levels were looked upon as "make-up" sessions for students who had fallen behind in their work during regular school terms. Now summer schools generally are conducted more to enable students to do advanced work than to provide a period for making up work missed in other regular terms.

On the high school and college levels, summer sessions have become increasingly popular. Many high school students use summer sessions to get in more courses during their high school careers than would be possible if they attended only regular school terms from late fall to early spring. An increasing number of college students look upon class attendance as a year-round job rather than a job for nine months out of the year. More and more students are using summer schools to enable them to complete the normal four-year college course in three calendar years.

As education requirements for the many kinds of jobs increase, it is natural to expect that more and more young people take a greater interest in obtaining the formal education they will need in later years. More so than in previous years there seems now to be a greater urgency on the part of young people to get their formal education behind them so they can move into the work-a-day world. And for the most part the youngsters recognize not only the need for college training, but likewise the need for graduate work in an increasing number of fields of employment.

The transition which has taken place in summer sessions of school in the past decade is, in our opinion, a factor in improving the quality of education on both the high school and college levels. There can be no questions about the fact that greater utilization of the summer months by schools helps to overcome some of the problems involved in crowded classrooms and other facilities during the regular school terms.

It may be years yet before summer school enrollment even on the college level approaches that of the regular school term, but the gap is being reduced with each passing year.

Criticism Important Only If Constructive

In political life, the opposition party or the party on the "outside" has a responsibility that reaches far beyond that of just heaping criticism on the leaders of the "ins".

There is a place for criticism, to be sure, but it should be constructive criticism that will lead to solutions of problems at hand. It should not be just criticism for the sake of taking a slap of the proposals of the opposing political party or its individual leaders.

Assertions by Democrats that Republican strategy is merely to criticize proposed farm legislation of the administration without offering any alternate solutions to the problem is stoutly denied by the GOP. There have been many cases in the past, however, not only in Congress but elsewhere, where it appeared that criticism in itself became part of the strategy of opposing a proposal.

Such criticism usually does not take into consideration the problem itself or the need for solving the problem. It merely declares that the proposed solution is unsound, unreasonable and without merit. The strategy, of course, is to focus attention on the proposed solution with the idea of killing it. There appears to be little concern for the problem itself or means of solving it.

Certainly constructive criticism plays an important role at any level of government. But the criticism plays an important role only if it is constructive. And usually it is constructive only if it provides some alternative for solving a problem that is recognized to exist.

Fortunately in our democratic society every citizen has the right to criticize the government or officials connected with it. This right, however, carries with it the responsibility to provide constructive criticism, to seek sound solutions to problems of a public nature. This responsibility is not discharged by the political group or individual who criticizes merely for the sake of criticizing.

The House Has Its Pride, Too

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — You'd better smile, pardner, if you call the U. S. House of Representatives the "lower house."

Otherwise you're in trouble with House members.

For there is nothing in the Constitution which says the Senate is higher than the House. They are co-equal. As a matter of fact, some authorities feel that if either branch is expendable it is the Senate, not the House.

But though House members get the same pay—$22,500—as senators, it has long been surmised that many of them have ridden inferiority complexes. For one thing, the size of the House (437 as against 100 senators) tends to dilute an individual member's prestige.

And to get any work done, the House has developed rules which regiment its run-of-the-mill members. No representative can make a marathon speech, for example.

At any rate, the House has long suspected the Senate of haughtiness. So now representatives have their backs up. They are insisting that the chairmanship of Senate-House Conference Committees appointed to iron out differences in appropriations bills shall rotate instead of always being held by a senator. This dispute has tied up several appropriations bills and many government employees face payless paydays, including the valiant Secret Service.

Though the Constitution makes no mention of it, some people contend Congress has a "third house"—namely its system of conference committees.

When Senate and House pass a bill in different form a conference committee usually is appointed to reconcile the differences.

Working in secret, conferees wield great power. Sometimes in the past they have altered legislation almost beyond recognition. And sometimes, especially in session-end logjams, Congress has passed the conferees' "compromise" without knowing exactly what was in it.

Suggestions sometimes have been made that America could get along with a one-chamber Congress. Many foreign countries and one American state, Nebraska, manage to do it. But it is inconceivable that either Senate or House would vote for a constitutional amendment to put itself out of business.

The present clash between Senate and House, though tense, is conducted quietly in gentlemanly fashion. Both chambers have rules against using the floor to speak ill of colleagues in either house.

Gone are the good old days when Congressman ("Sockless Jerry") Simpson (1842-1905) of Kansas could arise on the House floor and call a colleague "a political cannibal autocrat."

Nowadays the steam seems to have come out of presidential language too. It is hard to imagine President Kennedy saying of any senator what President Andrew Jackson wrote of John C. Calhoun in 1832: "His best former friends say he ought to be hanged."

Emerson counseled us to "hitch our wagon to a star, but we can do better than that by hitching it to the Maker of the star. God is not a radiant abstraction; He is a gracious Person who knows our frame and remembers that we are dust.

So often in life we have to turn to the comforting power of God's care. Everything about us goes down in ruin. We experience sorrow. We had great expectations which did not materialize. We had sufficient of this world's goods and then experienced loss.

In such times we have to be able to look up to a Power which is above us. We have to have an anchor that we can cast out to keep ourselves from being dashed to pieces on the rocks.

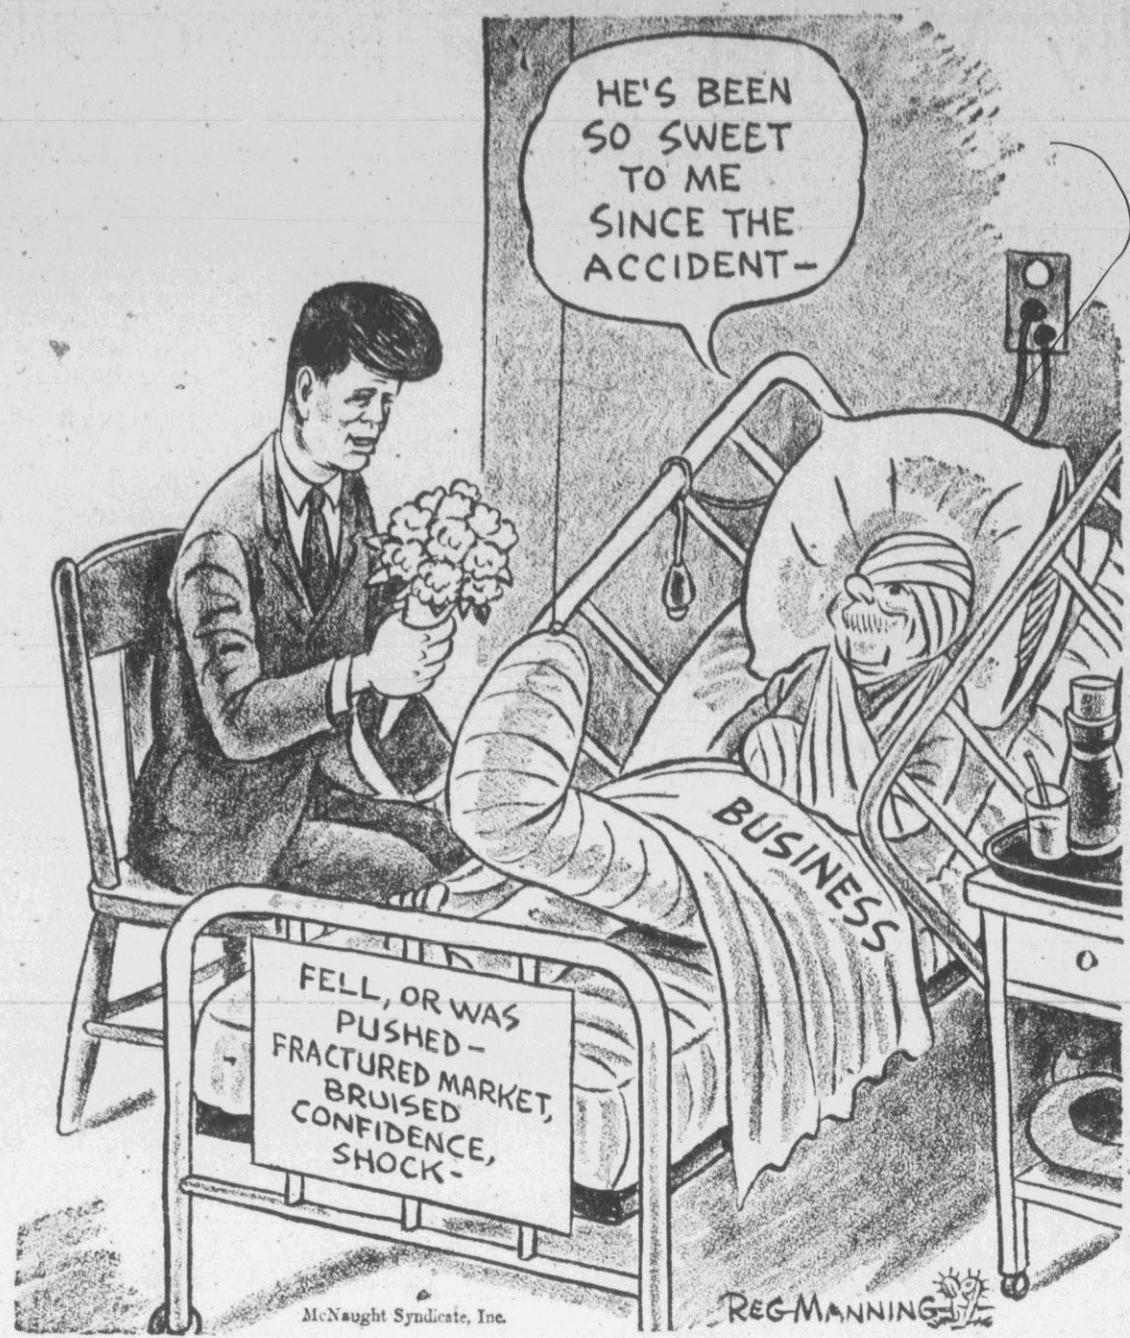

Let us remember these things in the dark hours.

By DON SCHLIENZ

Luck Of The Albatross

The Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner teaches us early in life that while it is risky to walk under ladders, and riskier to break mirrors, it is just plain madness to kill an albatross.

Not everybody is in a position to kill an albatross, because the great proportion of our population does not live on the coastline, which is a food thing, too; because small boys with rifles, slingshots, archery sets and crossbows could not avoid tempting fate and thus presumably affect the course of American history. (Imagine a country whose future rested in the hands of a generation of albatross-hunters.)

Less well-known is the tradition that he who helps an albatross in distress is assured of so much luck they can retire from hunting four-leaf clovers and horse shoes, and even afford to walk back and forth under a ladder, with aplomb.

There is a catch to so much good luck (there always is): one seldom finds an albatross in distress. They are naturally reluctant to let humans in on so much good luck, so they use it all themselves.

But the other day I was told of a Greenville lady who rescued an albatross in the worst kind of distress. (Sorry, no names. You have to accept my second-hand version and live with it.)

The story began at Nags Head when Mrs. X saw a sea bird being mauled and pounded by the surf. She went into the water after the bird, presumably unaware it was an albatross and the rewards involved. I would also guess she gave no thought to what a frightened bird with a long beak and tremendous wings (they sometimes spread to eleven feet) could do to a person.

Well, the bird was pulled from the surf, and sure enough it was an albatross which had had the misfortune to become coated in tar or waste oil products from a passing ship.

A local wildlife representative was contacted, and the albatross was de-tarred and rested; and after a suitable length of time returned to the beach where with a running start it was again airborne.

On hearing the story, it struck me that the albatross had almost used up all his luck and there wasn't much left for Mrs. X. Others scornfully insist the writer's knowledge of albatross-luck is woefully inadequate for making any kind of conclusion, and that obviously this was the luckiest bird along the Atlantic seaboard. Otherwise, they say, he wouldn't be a bird with a future.

So be it. Mrs. X apparently has 20 years of good fortune to look forward to. But were I in her shoes, I'd play it safe and keep an eye out for one more albatross in distress.

Just to be sure. The end of the fiscal year for the blood bank is staring at us, and Pitt County has to dig up 257 pints to balance its account.

With the bloodmobile in Farmville next Tuesday and in Greenville the following day, there is a fair to middlin' chance it can be done.

It wouldn't hurt our blood-giving record to match the blood-truck, and we're close enough for a good try.

The county can meet its goal providing two "ifs" are overcome: If a lot of new faces show up at the collection centers (the majority of donors always seem to be repeaters.)

And if, the let's-get-away-from-it-all-on-Wednesday-afternoon impulse can be curbed just this one time. (There will be other Wednesdays.)

But it's the new faces at the blood collection centers that are really needed; and to them, a word: Try it. For days afterward, you have a convenient item of conversation. I started in 1958 and haven't quit talking since. There is less pain involved than stubbing your toe; you feel "good" afterward, there is a psychological lift (and only a couple of generations ago the family doctor prescribed a little bleeding for what ailed you.)

Aside from giving, you receive. There is a physical check-up and free advice if you're found wanting; and it represents a bit of insurance for yourself and your family if the occasion should arise when blood or plasma is suddenly and urgently needed.

Give once, and odds are you'll come back. The number of repeaters at the collection center is testimony to the fact.

Other Editors Saying Cobb Gets New Trial

(Washington Daily News) The North Carolina Supreme Court has granted a new trial to William Cobb, chairman of the N. C. Republican Executive Committee, after a jury in Madison county found him guilty of libel.

The jury awarded Zeno Ponder, Madison county Democratic boss, the sum of $40,000, and two others were awarded four dollars after a lengthy trial.

When the Superior Court trial was completed, this newspaper said at the time that the $40,000 fine seemed to be too much, and that we wondered how much politics figured into the case.

Now the North Carolina Supreme Court not only has awarded Mr. Cobb a new trial, but as we interpret what the high court has said, we understand the meaning to be that "Cobb gets a new trial, but we doubt that there is sufficient evidence of malice prevalent to get a conviction." That might not be what the high court really said, but as we read the Supreme Court decision, that is what we believe the justices have said.

If we are correct, then it is quite probable that the case will never come to court again. After all, Mr. Ponder, and his group will have to start all over again in bringing the suit, and such a suit is costly, win or lose. If he feels that he has no chance of winning at all, then he might just drop it.

In political campaigns many things are said which should not be said. But the high court has ruled that Mr. Cobb was saying what he did as chairman of a major political party, and that as such he had done so without malice. The high court said that the presiding Superior court judge, J. Frank Huskins, erred in his charge to the jury.

When anyone goes to court in any trial, the political party with which he is affiliated, the color of his skin, his economic position or social prominence ought to have nothing whatsoever to do with ascertaining the truth. The fact that William Cobb is a Republican and what he was saying was directed at Democratic election officials does not change the truth nor lessen the need for justice one bit.

The more we read and hear about Madison county politics, the more we wonder just when the political atmosphere there will be cleared.

Ever so often there are charges stemming out of Madison county. Just recently a ballot box was thrown out there when it was believed that many more ballots were in the ballot box than there were voters casting ballots.

We do not agree with the political philosophies of William Cobb in any sense. He is a Republican, and this editor and this newspaper are Democratic. But justice is for all, and we feel that the Supreme court does not feel that justice was found at that trial.

And we sincerely doubt that another trial will be held. We believe the Supreme court has said "we'll give a new trial, but we doubt that a conviction can be found."

Where Are The Grads Going?

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

GRADUATES — This being June and Commencement month, with thousands of young men and women receiving diplomas and saying farewells to high school classmates before going out into the world, it is perhaps fitting to take a look at where they are going.

A study was made of the stated intentions of the graduating seniors of a typical small town North Carolina high school. It gives fair indication that immediate employment opportunities for high school graduates, even the most promising and talented, is severely limited.

It further indicates that only a small percentage of both boys and girls in the graduating class plan to go to college. More than two thirds of each sex have immediate plans that do not include furthering their education. These plans ranged from marriage to indefinite.

SCHOOL — For purposes of the report, the school and the town will not be identified.

It is typical of dozens of smaller North Carolina towns located in predominantly agricultural areas with little if any local industry. There are only one or two major industrial plants anywhere in the immediate vicinity. There is no college or university within 30 miles.

There were 34 graduates in the senior class this June with 15 boys and 19 girls.

The valedictorian, a boy, will go to North Carolina State College in September. The salutatorian, a girl, will enroll at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

COLLEGES — The plans for college by the valedictorian and the salutatorian of the senior class were the exception rather than the rule for the majority of graduates.

Barely 25 per cent of the boys had plans for college and only 30 per cent of the girls listed plans to go to college.

Three of the boys signified intentions to attend North Carolina State—one of them specified the school of agriculture.

Only one other of the 15 boys listed an intention to go to college. He planned to attend another state-supported school. Not one of the 15 boys had plans to attend a private or church-supported college or university.

One of the girls planned to attend the same co-educational state-supported college as the fourth boy. It is a school strategically located in the geographic division of the state in which the town is located, and the college is less than 100 miles from the student's home town.

Seven of the 19 girls listed plans for college. One of these is a technical school rather than a college, i.e., a beautician's school. Another is a business college.

One of the salutatorian plans to attend Woman's College and three plan to go to church colleges. One listed marriage and a church college education. In addition to the seven planning college work, one girl listed intentions to study X-ray technology at a general hospital in an out-of-state city.

OTHER — Seven of the 19 girls planned to do secretarial work. One of these seven listed marriage and one to marry and work and one to marry and go to college.

One girl planned to work in a nearby out-of-state city. Only one of the 19 girls said she was undecided about her future.

One of the seven who listed secretarial work for her future plans was one of the seniors with outstanding scholastic and extracurricular records, including Beta Club and also having been a contestant in a local beauty pageant.

OUT-OF-STATE — Two of the boys listed military plans, both specifying National Guard service. Two, in addition to the one who specified the State college school of agriculture, planned to go into farming presumably immediately after finishing high school.

One planned to enter civil service. Two of the 15 planned to take jobs in the plant of the one nearby major industrial concern. Two planned to go to work in an out-of-state shipyard. And two of the 15 boys were undecided as to their future plans.

STUDY — Earlier studies showed North Carolina ranks near the bottom of the list in number of high school graduates attending colleges. This percentage has caused concern and there are numerous studies of cause and effect being made. There are also programs either in effect or planned to encourage more graduates to continue their formal education.

About Eddie Gilbert

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

For several years, I have seen Eddie Gilbert about New York. He had moved from the wrong side of the tracks into the social and moral morass known as Cafe Society. By the way his name appeared, with regularity, in certain gossip columns, he must have had a press agent to proclaim his significance and to make his adopted name and his profession as a financier a household word.

Eddie Gilbert bought friendships by picking up the tab for his social superiors. He gave parties at which were present some who are always present at parties and whose presence requires a headwaiter to give a preferred table, if any table is ever really preferred.

He owned a house on the Riviera, which is a European Gaza strip where ladies and gentlemen during the season disport themselves, as they do during another season at Palm Beach and at Newport or Atlantic City. It is the thing to do and does not cost too much if you know someone like Eddie Gilbert who has sleeping space for distinguished names and whose Sunday breakfasts, with champagne and an orchestra, brought together those who go everywhere and are known to everybody.

Eddie Gilbert sure made it. Now, of course, he has taken refuge in Brazil, which is a sanctuary for American swindlers. If you have any intention of being a swindler, do not jump out of a window, if your consoling tricks you just take a plane to Brazil and join the colony of expatriates there.

Eddie Gilbert's partner in this gaiety was a rather demure young lady, his wife, Rhoda. She did not go to Brazil with Eddie because they are now living apart. Rhoda recently got into a tizzy over some jewelry which she picked up at Cartier's; not one piece, but a couple of handfuls. She expected Eddie to pay. He declined. She was forced to return the jewelry.

His fortune, estimated at $15,000,000 had disappeared in the complications of the deflation of paper values. He not only was broke but he had helped himself to $2,000,000 or thereabouts and ran off to Brazil. He said in an interview that he hoped "to pay everybody back and make everything whole some day." That is the spirit! But when is some day? Meanwhile, Eddie is in Brazil and if he has any of the $2,000,000 that he swiped from his company, he can, of course, trade on European exchanges, even in American securities, securities, evading income taxes which will be a help. If he is found to be trading on American exchanges, his funds will probably be seized. Eddie is not likely to do that.

Eddie, in this purported interview, says that if he returned to the United States he would be crucified. He is in error. We do not crucify. He would undoubtedly be arrested, indicted by a Grand Jury, tried by a judge and jury in a Court of Law and he would perhaps be convicted and sent to prison. After 10 years or so, he might get out of prison for good behavior and probably find that all those for whom he picked up the tab in fancy restaurants, no longer knew him. It is a habit in those circles, to run fast from trouble.

Eddie holds that he did nothing to hurt anybody intentionally. Nevertheless a great many people suffered because of Eddie's financial genius, particularly those whom he guaranteed against losses. One of Eddie's complaints is that a "lot of important people on Wall Street disappointed him." This is not surprising.

There are very few important people on Wall Street. In such an extremely as the present one, the brokers and bankers of Wall Street strip themselves of refinement and become Shylocks who demand their due. It was Wall Street's hardness of heart in its dealings with the Bank of the United States that got the 1929 Depression rolling. Anyone who believes that he can depend on "important people" in Wall Street might just as well depend on an IBM machine.

Eddie must have picked up the tab for those "important people." Now he asked anyone who has had dealings with "important people," he would have been told that they always run away. When, in trouble, it is best to go to unimportant people.

Strength For Today Not Much Fear Of Cigarettes

By ELMER ROESSNER
Regardless of how you feel, the rest of the world is not alarmed about cancer from cigarettes. New figures by the Foreign Agricultural Service shows that exports of unmanufactured tobacco last year was almost 1.7 billion pounds, a new record and a 10 per cent rise over the 1960 figure.

The FAS attributed the rise to growing demands for cigarettes in most countries, smaller domestic crops in some consuming countries, and some stock building. United States exports in 1961, 501,000,000 pounds worth $390,800,000, set a new record. West Germany, Japan, Thailand and Denmark also reported gains. West European markets took about 76 per cent of the total American exports. Thailand, also an importer, Japan and Australia were also large buyers of American leaf.

OTHER RECORDS SET
Exports from the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland also set records. Turkish exports were equal to the 1957 exports and Greek exports were close to the 1957 record. India was a heavy exporter, ranking behind the U. S. and Rhodesia and Nyasaland in free-cured shipments. India's best markets were Britain, Aden, the Soviet Union, Belgium, France and the Netherlands.

Importer of Brazil leaf, taking in 900,000 pounds, compared with 300,000 pounds in 1960. Other major exporting countries included Columbia, Algeria, Italy and Canada. Exports from Cuba, Yugoslavia and Indonesia fell from 1960 marks.

Britain, where most of the agitation against cigarette smoking flourished last year, cut its exports, but only slightly. It imported 365 million pounds in 1960, and 345 million pounds last year.

Paper Penny Drive Sees First Plateau Next Week

Pick up, count up, and pay up in the first stage of the "paper penny" campaign to raise funds for the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium at East Carolina College is scheduled for next week.

Sponsored by the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company and the Student Government Association at the college, the fund drive began in the spring this year. Posters and receptacles provided by the company have been placed on the campus in the Greenville business section, and in various Eastern North Carolina localities for empty packs of Liggett and Myers cigarettes. The tobacco company will pay one cent for each pack collected.

H. D. Rouse of the Richmond Office of Liggett and Myers was on the campus early this week making arrangements to conclude the first stage of the campaign.

At the intermission pay up will take place when President Leo W. Jenkins of the college will accept a check to be applied to funds for the stadium.

At this time new goal in the "paper penny" campaign will be set in anticipation of a second pick up, count up, and pay up in September. The fund-raising project will continue into December, 1962.

The paper penny fund-raising campaign has created much interest among friends of the college both on and off the campus.

A number of alumni both in and out of the state have mailed in collections of cigarette packs as contributions to the drive.

The James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium is now under construction. The much-needed facility was made possible by a drive conducted by a steering committee of Greenville businessmen. A total of $264,435 in cash and pledges had been contributed on May 31, 1962, by students, faculty members, and friends of the college. The stadium is expected to be ready for use this coming fall.

Private Hargrove Still Is Battling The Brass

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twenty years later, Private Hargrove is still battling the brass.

The difference is that his adversaries are not the top kicks and shavetails from whom he extracted his wartime best seller, "See Here, Private Hargrove."

Now he is contending with the production minds of the Hollywood studios. I might add that as one of the town's most in-demand comedy writers, his pay is somewhat different this time.

Hargrove appears to have prospered in spite of his refusal to kowtow under the Hollywood system. But he admitted in his cozy Universal office that it sometimes pays to be cautious.

"Most of the time I am writing satire," he explained, "but the trick is never to tell the producers that it is satire. That would scare them."

Hargrove came here in 1955 to research and write a comedy about the peacetime army. "The Girl He Left Behind," for Warner Brothers. He persuaded the studio to let him write the yarn as a book while a script writer followed a few paces behind, turning it into a scenario. Hargrove's hilarious passages came out serious in the script; Hollywood was on a drama kick.

While waiting for the studios to come over to comedy, Hargrove turned out a pack of television Westerns — "the way Westerns should be written," that is, funny. His "Mavericks" were pure satire but no one admitted it out loud.

Hollywood finally found out that comedies sell, and he was in demand for features. He converted his sport with bossman J. L. Warner doing so.

Hargrove did an adaptation for the Kim Novak comedy, "Boy's Night Out," but battled with the director. "I had to apologize for calling him a frustrated writer," Hargrove recalled. "I told him it was his writer who was the frustrated writer."

Wealthiest Community In U.S. Proud Of Schools

By FRANCIS STILLEY
SCARSDALE, N. Y. (AP) — Volunteer firemen still race to blazes in the nation's wealthiest community. Only one of four companies gets paid.

The community still calls itself a village, though it has about 19,000 residents. Some houses were built before the American Revolution.

There isn't a single major industry in the 6.3 square-mile area of tree-lined streets. Barking dogs annoy people just as they do everywhere, and sometimes bite high-toned tycoons.

Doctors, lawyers and businessmen run school and town boards on a non-partisan basis, and love to spend spare time doing it.

Teen-agers get into trouble running "drag races" with cars.

Scarsdale is a residential suburb just north of New York City, situated in heavily Republican Westchester County. Its residents are largely luminaries of business, law, the arts and other professions.

Sales Management magazine this week tabbed it the nation's wealthiest community, saying the average family income is $29,276 a year. The magazine estimated that 86.5 of its households have income over $10,000. Among its residents are 10 or 12 millionaires—or possibly more.

The announcement caused little surprise in Scarsdale. It had won the honor before.

But the people who occupy Scarsdale's mansions take pride in things other than money. For instance, schools—which the citizens like to call "our only industry."

Fifty per cent of the tax dollar is spent on education. Teachers earn more than the average, and nearly half of the teachers hold advanced degrees.

For the second successive year, the high school drama group is being sent to perform in European countries. Nearly 99 per cent of the high school graduates will go to college or take advanced studies.

Despite all, Scarsdale isn't stuffy. Its populace includes a wide variety of nationalities and religious affiliations. Last year it set up a civic fair housing group to make sure of a "welcome climate for all races, creeds, colors and nationalities."

Village expenditures are on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Dean Rusk was a resident until he left for Washington to become secretary of state. Others still enjoying the quiet, dignified atmosphere include Charles E. Wilson, retired president of General Electric; Murray Silverstone, movie mogul of 20th Century-Fox; Louis Marx; Laurence Tisch, president of Loew's theatrical enterprises, and numbers of noted New York doctors and corporation lawyers.

Find Supply Of Drugs, Poison

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A wrecking crew dismantling an abandoned drugstore uncovered 30 pounds of arsenic and large quantities of narcotics Thursday.

Detectives said the stock apparently was abandoned when the store was sold to the State Highway Department to make room for expressway construction.

"The owners have been out of here six months," police reported. "Kids or anyone could get in here."

A sanitation department crew loaded the stock on a truck and hauled it off. "We'll find a safe place to bury this," an official said.

Caught Speeding 2 Days In A Row

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—John Floerding Otto, 19, arrested for speeding on two consecutive days, was convicted in Recorder's Court on both counts Thursday.

He was fined a total of $25 and court costs, and his driver's license was revoked for six months.

Patrolman D. L. Nivens followed Otto from the courtroom.

Nivens said Otto got into his car and started to drive away. Nivens arrested him for driving after his license had been suspended. Otto posted bond of $100 on that charge.

Claim Wrecking 2 Castro Trains

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The "Cuban Raider Command" claims credit for wrecking two trains in Castro Cuba.

Capt. Santiago Perez, head of the anti-Castro exiles raiding unit, said Thursday three of his men got safely out of Cuba after derailling one freight train at Guanabacoa and another at Central Hershey. Both sites are in Matanzas Province, east of Havana.

The Castro government radio recently told of a freight derailment at Guanabacoa. The broadcast said the Camaguey-bound train's engineer was killed and its fireman was injured.

No word of a derailment at Hershey has been heard.

Philippines Are Claiming North Borneo Sector

MANILA (AP)—President Diosdado Macapagal today claimed Philippine sovereignty over British North Borneo and proposed that Britain and the Philippines begin negotiations to settle the issue.

Macapagal told a news conference he had received a note from the British government asserting British ownership and sovereignty over the disputed territory.

"I have today instructed the acting secretary of foreign affairs to have a note to the British ambassador embodying our position which is to assert ownership and sovereignty to North Borneo," the president said.

Macapagal discounted the idea that the Philippine claim might have disturbing effects in Southeast Asia.

He said the Philippines and Britain have always maintained friendly relations and "the government of the Philippines believes any dispute between the two countries can be settled amicably."

The Philippine claim is based on the contention that the sultan of Sulu leased and did not sell North Borneo to founders of the British North Borneo Company in 1878. The British contend the territory was sold.

Philippine congressmen have been urging the government to press the claim.

British North Borneo covers an area of 29,387 square miles at the northern end of the big island southwest of the Philippines. The other nine-tenths of Borneo—the world's third largest island—includes the British protectorate of Brunei and colony of Sarawak along the northern coast, and Indonesian Borneo. The Indonesian territory covers more than two thirds of the island.

Explosive Point Near Over West New Guinea

SINGAPORE (AP)—A potentially explosive point has been reached in Indonesia's dispute with the Dutch over West New Guinea.

President Sukarno's attitude on the issue is swinging toward open conflict. It will be hard for him to back up without losing face. He has promised the Indonesian people West New Guinea will be theirs by the end of this year.

Sukarno has bluffed before, but there is an air of concern that this time he means what he says.

His public statements, until early this month, put more emphasis on a negotiated settlement of the West New Guinea issue under a plan sponsored by American diplomat Ellsworth Bunker. This proposal eventually would give the right of self-determination to the predominantly Papuan population of New Guinea.

The president's attitude now has changed and he is making no mention of concealing it. His chief spokesman, Foreign Minister Subandrio, says Sukarno is telling his advisers that a military showdown is the only solution.

Indonesian officials from Subandrio down, talk more today of open conflict than they do of a diplomatic decision. Senior military officials, especially those working with the present operations against New Guinea, are ready to take the plunge.

The shifting feeling in Indonesia apparently stems partly from a belief that the Dutch are not sincere in their official statements supporting a negotiated settlement.

Officials in Jakarta also have said the Dutch are stalling in the hope Sukarno will be removed or Indonesia will suffer a sharp setback in its already shaky economic position.

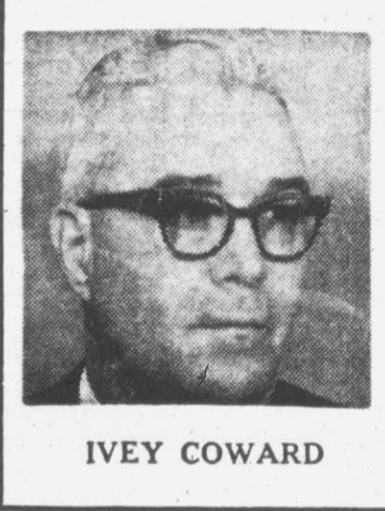

Indonesia could be changing its approach for other reasons. The Dutch, avoiding a war of words, have been steadily strengthening their military position in New Guinea. Indonesia has been beefing up its armed forces, mainly with the help of the Soviet Union, which recently sent jet bombers.

Sukarno may feel the time is appropriate to launch an attack before the Netherlands can tighten its defenses in West New Guinea still further. But military observers say Indonesia faces a tough fight if it tries to take over the forbidding, mountainous jungle-infested land.

Sukarno can be assured of support from his people if he decides on an all-out fight. He still wields a magnetic influence over his 96 million people who believe "Bung Karno" can do no wrong.

The government-controlled press is urging him to discard any thought of negotiation and to launch a full-scale liberation campaign.

Indonesian officials appear convinced that the major Western powers would not interfere if war comes over West New Guinea. They look to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries to support their cause.

Shipping Peace Pact Is Reached

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Contract agreement was reached in the West Coast maritime dispute Thursday night, nine days before the end of an 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling off period.

The nine-month quarrel erupted in a four-week strike in March and April that idled some 60 ships and several thousand men, caused a shortage of some food supplies in Hawaii and brought on presidential intervention.

James J. Healy, special mediator and President Kennedy's personal representative, announced the agreement at a news conference and said representatives of the ship owners and the unions would submit it to their respective memberships, with recommendation for approval.

Healy, former Harvard professor, said the proposed contract runs to June 15, 1965.

J. Paul St. Sure, president of the ship owners' organization—Pacific Maritime Association—said the proposal provides:

1. A 2 per cent across the board wage increase for some 10,000 seamen retroactive to last Oct. 1. That would add about $1 a month to the pay of able-bodied seamen.
2. An immediate increase in paid vacation from three days a month to five days a month.
3. A pension increase in October from $125 a month to $150 a month.

St. Sure, Healy and Morris Weisberger, spokesman for the three unions involved, declined to give further money details pending the votes of the memberships. The unions are the Sailors Union of the Pacific, Marine Firemen and Marine Cooks and Stewards.

Negotiations that began last year deadlocked this spring and the unions struck on March 16. President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law on April 11.

Quadrangle Swim Meet To Be Held Saturday

A quadrangle swimming meet will be held at the Raynez Pool Saturday afternoon at one o'clock with teams from Chapel Hill, Kinston and Tarboro taking part along with the local team.

Last week the Raynez team traveled to Raleigh for the Dixie Open in which there were about 480 contestants trying for 56 titles.

Donnie Pierce of the local team touched out Sizemore of Charlotte in the 100-yard backstroke for the only local win. Pierce's win kept the Charlotte ace from sweeping all of the 15-17-year-old age group events.

Although only eight boys on the Raynez team took part in the Raleigh meet last weekend, there are 18 members on the squad. The team is made up of those boys involved in the competitive swimming program this summer.

The Chapel Hill team, coached by Greenville's Bob Bilbro, former co-captain of the University of North Carolina team, expects to bring 50 swimmers to the Raynez event.

Kinston Coach Tom Tucker plans to bring 40 contestants to the meet and Tarboro Coach Paul Godfrey has entered about 45. Tucker was a former East Carolina swimming star under Coach Martinez.

The Raynez team participated in meets last summer, but the meet this weekend will be their first as host.

A good many of the boys on the local team were members of the Rose High swimming team this past year. In addition to his win in the Dixie Open, Pierce is the state high school backstroke champion.

Members of the local team in addition to Donnie Pierce are Ed Bartlett, Russ Bartlett, Mike Aldridge, Robby Peel, Joe LeConte, Richard Pierce, Billy Brown, Jehu Taff, David Carter, Staton Martin, Chuck Bisette, Scott Tabar, Lee Garcia,

Tobs Defeat Pepsi, Lions Down Optimist

TARHEEL

In Tar Heel Little League action Thursday the Greenville Tobacco Company defeated Pepsi-Cola 9-1 on the Guy Smith Stadium field.

The winners took an early lead when they scored two runs in the top of the first. David Hahn got on with an error and Billy Calloway singled scoring Hahn. Calloway advanced to second and third on passed balls and scored on an error by the catcher.

In the top of the second the Tobs added another run to their lead. Doug Jones got on with an error and advanced to second on a single by Joey Pridden.

Jones scored on a walk. In the bottom of the third the Pepsi nine gained their only run of the contest when Jack Gordon connected for a single, advanced to second on a base hit by Bruce Taylor and scored on a double by Billy Holland.

In the top of the fourth the Tobs gained two more runs when Kem Calloway walked and Hahn singled. Three additional walks scored both runners with the help of a passed ball.

The final runs of the game were scored in the top of the sixth when Jimmy Bond hit a double. Doug Jones got on with an error by the second baseman and Joey Pridden hit a single to load the bases. Bond went home on an error and Jones scored on a double by Terry Harrington.

Pridden scored on a single by K. Calloway and Harrington went home on an error by the first baseman.

The winning pitcher was Billy Calloway who allowed six hits, struck out 10 and walked two. Credited with the loss was Ray Cannon who along with relief pitcher Earl Barnhill allowed 11 hits, struck out four and walked seven.

Today she played defending champion Judy Hoetmer in a semi-final match.

Miss Hoetmer, a June graduate of the University of Washington, played strongly Thursday as she defeated Sharon Fladoos of the University of Iowa 2 and 1.

Miss Palmer came from three down at the turn and upset Helen Marie Welland of Rosemont, 1 up in 19 holes.

Julie Hull of Anderson, Ind., who plays for Purdue, upset medalist June Robinson of Oregon State, 2 and 1. Her opponent today is Carol Sorenson of Arizona State University, who beat Mary Jo Campbell of New Mexico 1-up.

The tournament winds up Saturday with a 36-hole final round.

The National Football League schedule for 1962 includes 98 games during a 14-week period.

ond on an error by the third baseman, Mike Aldridge walked and Philip Dorroll hit a fielder's choice which would have loaded the bases, but an error by the third baseman allowed Harrington to score. Aldridge scored on a fielder's choice by Charles Register and Dorroll came in on a passed ball.

In the bottom of the third Roberts led off as he got on first on an error by the shortstop and Wayne Heath followed with a single. Other singles by Al Wainright and Jerry Jones along with a walk by Bruce Jackson accounted for runs by Roberts and Heath.

The Lions picked up one more run in the top of the four when Dennis Harrington singled and scored on a double by Aldridge.

In the bottom of the fourth the Optimist also gained one run when Roberts singled after two outs and stole second. Heath followed with another single and an error by the rightfielder scored Roberts and sent Heath to third. However, the side was retired before Heath could get home.

The final run of the contest came in the top of the sixth when the Lions' John Peel connected for a double, advanced to third on a single by Harrington and scored on a single by Aldridge.

Texasco was scheduled to meet Kiwanis in North State action today at Elm Street Park.

Batting—Carroll Hardy, Red Sox, hit a two-run homer for all the scoring Boston needed in a 3-1 conquest of American League-leading Cleveland.

Pitching—Whitey Ford, Yankees, troubled with an arm injury all season, shut out Baltimore on three hits before retiring after 8 2-3 innings, ending a five-game New York losing string.

CHAPEL HILL—The Board of Control of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association meeting here yesterday turned down the proposed new Eastern Carolina All-Star game which would have been played in Greenville.

The board also gave its official sanction to the continuation of the annual Shrine Bowl football game which is held in Charlotte between the top North Carolina prep stars and those from South Carolina.

The Eastern Carolina All-Star game was to have been a charity affair benefiting the Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw under the auspices of the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The original plans were to hold the game in the East Carolina College Stadium over the Thanksgiving weekend which would lessen the number of school days the players would have to miss to participate.

It was also hoped that if the game was okayed boys from some of the smaller schools in the state would be given the opportunity to play. Most of the Shrine Bowl players come from the larger schools.

Appearing before the board on behalf of the contest was an eight-man delegation headed by Walter Jones of Farmville. Others on the delegation were David J. Whitchard, editor of the Reflector, J. Sanders Dallas, High Point, chairman of the Boys Home Board of Trustees; Brick Glascoe, chairman of the Jaycee Boys Home Committee; and trustees Hap Collier of High Point, Stacy Budd of Sanford, W. M. Baco of Whiteville and Dorsey Welch of Washington.

After the delegation outlined the plans to the board the vote was 11-6 against the contest. In rejecting the game the board said it "recognizes the worthiness of this project," but would not sanction any more high school All-Star game for 1962-63 pending further study.

L. J. (Hap) Perry, executive secretary of the board, summarized the background of sanctioning All-Star contests. He noted that these games held during the school year have never been approved in the past, but South Carolina has requested that the Shrine Bowl receive the endorsement of the board. This endorsement would comply with the regulation of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

The State Board of Education recently said that such games could gain approval, but along with this statement came notice from State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Charles Carroll which said that any new All-Star games would meet with disfavor from the Board of Education.

The vote for sanctioning of the Shrine Bowl was unanimous, 18-0.

Kinston Downs Rocky Mount

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Second place Kinston picked up a game and a half Thursday night on front-running Durham in the tight Carolina League race.

While Kinston was defeating Rocky Mount 8-4, Durham was dropping a doubleheader to Greensboro 2-1 and 4-0. It moved Kinston within a half game of first place.

Jim Breneman and Pen Parker turned in brilliant pitching performances to cool off the hot Durham club. A crowd of 2,471 turned out at Greensboro and saw Breneman pitch a four-hitter in the seven-inning opener. Parker gave up only three hits in the nightcap.

Kinston jumped off to a four-run lead in the first inning and added four more runs in the sixth in winning over Rocky Mount.

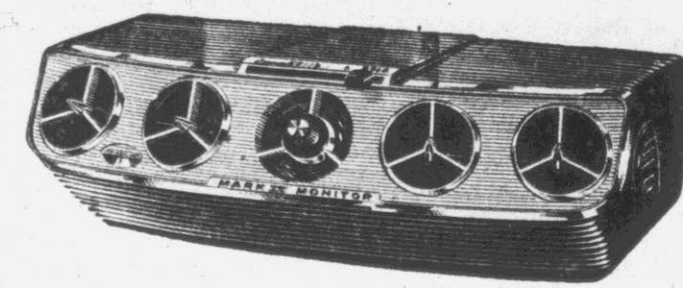

The Wilson Tobs swept a doubleheader from Raleigh 10-3 and 6-3. Wilson staged a pair of four-run innings in winning the seven-inning opener. In the nightcap, the Tobs scored five runs in the first inning and added one run in the second to coast to victory.

Burlington and Winston-Salem split two games. Burlington took the abbreviated opener 2-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Dick Beres. Winston-Salem came back to grab the nightcap 2-1 on the seven-hit pitching of Dave Busby.

Tonight's games: Winston-Salem at Raleigh; Greensboro at Rocky Mount; Wilson at Burlington; Durham at Kinston.

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—It's Texas against the field today as the NCAA Golf Tournament plays its quarter-final round.

There's a Texan in each of the four matches. In fact there are so many Southwest swingers still around the Duke University Golf Course that one match pairs a couple of North Texas State teammates.

Medalist Kermit Zarley of the University of Houston, was matched with comeback kid Jim Ewing of Southern California in the opener. Don Wilson of North Texas State, a rummy 6-foot-2 who is dwarfed by 6-6, 235-pound teammate Bill Garrett, met him in the second match.

In the lower bracket, Jim Ferrell of Louisville drew the red-hot Homero Blancas of Houston and Tom Shaw of Oregon moved against Mark Hopkins of Houston. Quarter-final winners move into semifinals this afternoon, with the title match over 36 holes Saturday.

Zarley, not sharp enough last year to win a place on Houston's tournament team, has been playing at near peak form here this week. His 140, 2-under-par, total for 36 holes over the Duke course won the medal.

He shot seven holes in one under par Thursday to complete a matched halter by rain Wednesday as he put out Ed Moeblin Jr. of Northern Illinois, 3 and 2. In the second round, in the afternoon he was 2-under-par in beating Ken Folkes, Atlantic Coast Conference co-champion from Wake Forest, 2 and 1.

Blancas, only surviving member of the 18-man All-America squad the golf coaches picked earlier this week, won 3 and 2 over Labron Harris Jr., of Oklahoma, then ousted Bobby Greenwood of North Texas State, also 3 and 2.

The third round produced the tournament's shortest match, a 7 and 5, 2-under-par romp for Hopkins over Bill Faish of Stanford. Earlier, Hopkins edged Dick Sikes National Public Links champ from Arkansas, 2 and 1.

Shaw had the longest, a 20-hole in the second round to beat Frank Luke of North Texas State. Shaw followed with a 1 up, last hole victory over Tom Grace of Notre Dame.

Ewing, trailing by one after seven holes, won the next six, three with birdies, to trim Bill Munn of Texas in his third round.

Belinsky Says He Is Changed Person

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"I'm definitely a changed person," said Bo Belinsky, the young no-hit pitcher for the Los Angeles Angels just before he took the mound Thursday night to win his first game in a month, 3-1 against Kansas City, to put the Angels into second place in the American League.

The Athletics had him in hot water early but he wiggled out of it and capped the victory by retiring nine men in order over the last three innings.

It was his seventh try for his seventh victory of the season and his first since some all-night partying got him in $250 worth of trouble with Manager Bill Rigney. A losing pitcher in the minors, Belinsky catapulted to baseball fame when he pitched the season's only no-hitter against Baltimore in mid-May. He had a two-hit, 1-0 shutout against Boston on May 20 but then went into eclipse——as a pitcher.

Show business took him up in a gaudy whirl when the Angels returned to Los Angeles just before Memorial Day for a long home stand.

Bo and Dean Chance, another Los Angeles rookie flinger, left a party for Eddie Fisher at 4:45 a.m. in Bo's red convertible. At 5, Gloria Eyes, 33, a cashier in a Hollywood steakhouse, ran from the convertible to a police car and complained Belinsky was beating her. Belinsky and his date, Bridget Whitaker, 33, said Miss Eyes became belligerent. Bo ordered her from the car and she bumped her head getting out.

Miss Eyes had a cut above her left eye but declined to press charges. The Angels fined Belinsky and Chance $250 apiece for being out after hours and Manager Bill Rigney read a riot act to them in front of the squad.

Wright Is Seven Behind Leaders

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)—The favorite Mickey Wright, found herself seven strokes back of the co-leaders in the J.E. McAuliffe Golf Tournament for women professionals today, after the first of four rounds.

Miss Wright, of Dallas, hardly justified her favorite role on the first day of play over the par 73 Plainfield Country Club course Thursday. The winner of the U.S. Women's Open three of the last four years took a 38-41-79.

Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., and Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., each hit 72s to lead the 27 pros in the field.

The girls are shooting for $9,000 in prize money in the tournament, a 72-hole medal play event.

In third place, at even par 73, was Carol Mann of Olympia Fields, Ill. Beth Stone of Muskogee, Okla., and Barbara Romack of Grossingers, N.Y., were in fourth position with 74s.

Albie Pearson of the Los Angeles Angels made 7 hits in 14 trips in his team's first 1962 visit to Detroit. Six hits were doubles, the other a triple.

Real Swinger In CGA Junior

COLUMBIA (AP)—A rummy 15-year-old from Laurinburg, N.C. has caught the attention of observers following the Carolina Golf Association's Junior Tournament.

"He's a real swinger," said Forest Lake Country Club Pro Melvin Hemphill of Leonard Thompson.

Thompson was one of eight young golfers from the Carolinas who moved into today's quarter-final matches.

Thompson defeated Danny Filer of Columbia, 5 and 4, in the second round of play Thursday.

Joe Jelks of Greenville moved into quarter-final competition by upsetting defending champion Jay Langston of Rock Hill, 1-up in 20 holes.

In other matches Thursday: David Bennett of Florence defeated Tucker Laxton of Charlotte, 3 and 2; George Holliday of Gallants Ferry defeated Chuck Hawkins of Lancaster 3 and 1; Jim Gerring of Union defeated Terry Gardner of Lancaster, 7 and 6; Larry Seward of Laurens defeated Charles Pinwal of Winston-Salem N.C., 6 and 5; Cameron Seely of Charlotte defeated Paul Green of Sumter 3 and 2; Dale Fox of Gastonia, N.C., defeated Kirk Ham of Florence, 7 and 6.

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Eight championships with several world records endangered, go on the line tonight as the National AAU track and field carnival starts a two-night run.

More than 400 athletes are gathered for this 74th annual meet and such world title claimants as Dallas Long, Frank Budd and Robert Hayes are scheduled to compete in the opening program.

The site is Mt. San Antonio College's Memorial Stadium, a 12,000-seat arena tucked away in the rolling San Jose hills near Los Angeles.

Meet director Hilmer Lodge listed, no less than eight world records which he feels are in danger, including tonight's 100-yard dash, the 120-yard high hurdles, the shot put and broad jump.

Other final events tonight are the 440-yard hurdles, the javelin and the 6-mile run.

Dallas Long, who has a claim in for the world shot put mark at 65 feet, 10 1/2 inches, and Gary Gubner of New York, with a best of 64-11, dominate the event.

The 100-footers Frank Budd, who holds the world time of 9.2, Hayes, who has tied 9.2, and Harry Jerome of Oregon, who hopes to improve his best of 9.3. The 120-yard high hurdles might well be the top race of the evening. A veteran of 23, Hayes Jones, from Detroit, faces tough opposition from Jerry Tarr of Oregon. Tarr has a best mark of 13.3 this year.

Michigan State and UCLA, Rose Bowl rivals in 1954 and 1956, will meet again in 1962 at East Lansing.

Underdogs Get Three Berths

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—The underdogs came through in a bunch to grab three of the four berths in today's semifinals of the NCAA Tennis Tournament, reversing half a week of formful play.

Rafael Osuna, Mexican Davis Cupper from Southern California, was the only one of the top four seeded players to survive to the round of four as Marty Riessen of Northwestern and Bill Lenoir of Arizona pulled upsets Thursday.

Osuna, seeded No. 1, almost didn't make it, needing nine match points before he eliminated Rod Mandelstam of Miami, 6-2, 8-10, 6-4. Osuna was obviously bothered by a strained right knee.

Riessen, son of the Northwestern coach, ousted second-seeded Larry Nagler of UCLA, 6-6, 6-2. Lenoir routed third-seeded Bill Bond of USC, 6-1, 6-2. Riessen and Lenoir will meet today.

CHAPTER 29

Big Blue plunged into the creek, gave a wild scream of rage, reared up on his hind legs and savaged the air with his front hoofs.

Julie Pendleton slid off his back as if it had been greased. Big Blue gave a wild lurch, lost his balance, fell into the water, kicking furiously in his complete terror. Julie waded away from him, going into the deeper part of the stream so that she'd be out of the way of his crazy tossing and pawing.

Then Big Blue gained his feet and stood there shivering in fury and terror. He threw back his head and went plunging, not back to the bank from which he'd been driven, but toward the opposite one. The bank Julie had been trying to make, where there was safety in the clear level meadow where a horse like Big Blue couldn't be overtaken.

She was up to her waist in cold water and as she moved to try to teach the other bank where she might be able to catch Big Blue, she stepped into a pothole and went down over her head.

She surfaced, soaking wet, floundering on the slippery bottom of the creek, and knowing very well that it was all no use. No use, whatsoever, because Britt was already at the bank and ready to ride in after her. His horse had no fear of water.

But instead of riding in, he slid out of the saddle and stood there looking at her. She had never seen such intense rage on a man's face before.

Then he was in the saddle again, his horse already in the stream moving toward her. She screamed because she saw now why Britt had dismounted momentarily. He'd gathered up three heavy rocks from the bank of the creek and he was balancing them on the saddle.

She knew what he meant to do. He'd smash those rocks down on her, or knock her unconscious so that she'd drown in this four-

Deficit Financing Can Be Virtue, Insists President

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy seeks to make deficit financing a respectable term in a changing world. He has an uphill fight on his hands.

To most Americans a Treasury deficit is a bad thing—unavoidable in a war or other national emergency, but unfortunate under any circumstances.

The President's argument is that the United States is entering a new world where deficit financing can be a virtue. His aim is to use it as a tool in building the economy to assure full employment and full use of industrial capacity.

Treasury deficits aren't new. There have been 11 of them in the 17 years since World War II. And the 11 total some four times as much as do the six surpluses. That is why the federal debt has risen to a record 1300 billion. And a 12th deficit—virtuous or not—seems likely in the 1963 fiscal year starting July 1.

Americans have been brought up to compare the Treasury deficit to one in the family budget when unpaid bills pile up in excess of current income. When the creditors won't hold off any longer, the family borrows to pay the bills—or goes bankrupt. The Treasury meets its deficit by borrowing to pay its bills and by asking Congress, year after year, to raise the legal limit of the permissible federal debt.

But economists see a difference in the Treasury's and a family's deficit and borrowing. In the United States the Treasury usually borrows by tapping the banking system for funds. This means expanding the supply of money and credit, as distinguished from borrowing through sales of U.S. savings bonds to individuals, which doesn't inflate the supply of money.

Orthodox economic doctrine is that expanding the supply of money and credit may trigger economic growth by making it easier for business to expand its activities or plant, but that in the long run this inflation of the money supply leads to rising prices and wages.

Treasury surpluses, on the contrary, are held by orthodox economists to deflate the supply of money and credit, to put a brake on runaway booms, even to invite recessions—since the Treasury is taking more out of the economy in tax collections than it is putting back in by spending.

President Kennedy challenged this orthodox view in his speech at Yale. He points out that Treasury surpluses after the war—$745 million in the 1947 fiscal year, and $8.4 billion in 1948—didn't prevent a big spurt in the cost of living. Orthodox economists reply that these surpluses were chickenfeed compared to the huge inflation of the money supply during the war, the real culprit in the postwar rise in prices and wages.

The President also points out that Treasury deficits in the last few years—a peacetime record of $12 billion in the 1959 fiscal year—left wholesale prices unscathed while retail prices rose very little.

Orthodox economists hold the real reason was that much industrial capacity was idle, and what was in operation faced fierce competition, holding prices down at the expense of contracting profit margins.

A few more Treasury deficits, the President says, could help the economy expand faster and in time mean higher tax collections, bringing the budget back into balance.

His opponents charge that such reasoning is just an excuse for more government spending.

Havana Reveals One Went Wrong

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The tale of a trusted comrade who went wrong was related sorrowfully by Havana Radio.

Seems a storekeeper in the Havana suburb of Marianao joined the defense committee in his block and watched his neighbors for signs of counterrevolutionary activity—but all the time he was operating a black market in clothing at his shop.

Said the radio: "He infiltrated the defense committee to conceal his dark intrigues."

The fate of the luckless comrade was not announced.

Contestant Had No Competition

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Glenn Payne, 28, came from his home at Brewer, Maine, to enter the best speaker contest at the Junior Chamber of Commerce national convention. He had won the competition on the state level.

The national competition was called off two years ago, Payne found. He said he'll attempt to have it reinstated next year.

Administration Conflicts Result In Reviving Rules

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—After several weeks of watching its officials take conflicting measurements of the economy, the Kennedy administration has revived procedures for coordinating domestic policy statements.

President Kennedy reportedly was concerned, and executives around the tables of corporation board rooms confused, by the spray of opinions from Washington.

Now, according to administration sources, speeches and statements in thorny areas will be coordinated. That means they'll be screened, probably at the White House, to make sure they express consistent policy.

A statement this week by Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, accented the situation. It prompted a quick contradiction by Clague's boss, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Ever since the stock market took its big dip, administration spokesmen have been insisting the economy is in good health. All of a sudden Clague was quoted as saying a recession is likely next year and the only question really is when it will happen. Goldberg swiftly countered that "the economic facts do not bear out such an assumption." Then Clague issued a statement contending he's been misinterpreted—that he had not predicted a recession but was analyzing economic trends which show a downturn every 3 or 3½ years.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said on June 4 the administration would recommend "top to bottom" income tax cuts for next year. Two days later stories appeared in several papers that Kennedy had decided to propose immediate income tax reduction, or at least had it under the deepest kind of consideration. The reports obviously stemmed from an administration source, reportedly one in the White House.

The next day Kennedy announced his five-point package to bolster the economy. It included income tax reduction—next year.

Last week Solicitor General Archibald Cox made a speech saying the government must play what amounted to a third party role in major wage-price decisions even if only to the extent of asserting its general views. Although Cox emphasized he was speaking in a private capacity, some Wall Street observers speculated his remarks—implying greater government activity in the management-labor field—contributed to the day's decline in prices.

Kennedy, replying to a news conference question the next day, said he had not read Cox's speech.

The President advocated policies to permit business to compete and stimulate the economy but said in a free economy "we have to attempt to work out solutions on a voluntary basis."

Administration sources insist there will be no muzzling in connection with domestic policy utterances. And they say the understanding among various agencies

Snoring Inmate Has No Friends

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A new arrival at the Tennessee State Prison got nowhere fast at making new friends.

"We can't sleep," his cellmates complained to guards. "This new guy snores all night long."

Officials moved him to another cellblock only to hear the same complaints there. Several cellblocks later they arrived at a solution.

The newcomer now keeps the gate between the cellblocks and the hospital-athletic field area. There's one bed in the gatehouse—his.

to assure coordination came about as a natural development, not as the result of a directive.

'Christmas' For Ten Children

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—It was Christmas in June Thursday for about 10 Ashland children who watched wagons roll out the back end of a trailer truck.

The unwilling Santa Claus, James McBride of Brooklyn, N.Y., estimated about 200 wagons were scattered over the ground when the truck he was driving fishtailed on a sharp curve and struck a pole.

McBride said about 10 of the wagons were taken by children who saw the accident. The back door of the trailer flew open from the impact.

No one was injured.

McBride, who said several of the wagons were damaged, bundled up the rest of his shipment and continued on his way.

Laughter Grets His Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The final amendment—No. 72—to the omnibus farm bill was offered Thursday night with a straight face by Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. It would have added a new section providing that "employees in the Department of Agriculture shall at no time exceed the number of farmers in America."

Griffin's amendment was greeted with a shout of laughter by both Republicans and Democrats and gleefully approved on a voice vote.

But Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma was not amused. He demanded a head count and Democrats rallied and defeated it 230-171.

NEW YORK (AP)—A technical rebound early this afternoon erased most of the stock market's morning losses taken in a continuation of this week's steep decline. Trading was heavy.

Showing only a fraction of the market's decline in the morning, The Associated Press average on 60 stocks at noon was off .60 at 25.30, with industrials unchanged, rails down .90, and utilities off .40.

Having broken through the previous 1962 low in Thursday's severe selloff, the market was under heavy selling pressure early today as some big blocks of leading issues were unloaded.

The list repeated a familiar pattern as stocks rallied above their lows in a sharp turnabout with the ticker tape running 10 minutes behind transactions. Then prices began to soften once again as trading went into the afternoon.

As stocks declined for the fifth straight session, the backdrop of news included items reflecting a dimmer business outlook.

News that Phelps Dodge may have to reduce copper output, a drop in department store sales below a year ago for the first time in three months, and its lowest since scheduled at its lowest since Christmas week due mainly to the strike at Ford's stamping plant.

IBM converted a loss of more than 4 to a gain exceeding 3. Xerox erased a loss and gained 3. Polaroid was up about 3.

All Big Three motors substituted gains for losses. Chrysler adding about a point.

Houston Light & Power, a 4-point loser Thursday, was up more than a point. A similar gain was made by Liggett & Myers.

Steels were mixed with Lukens off about a point. U.S. Gypsum dropped more than a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.30 at 549.19. Prices declined in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to higher.

There are a few things I would appreciate your advising as possible:

First, where is the typewriter? Did you carry it with you? It is not here.

Second, where is the stick we use to beat on the air conditioning unit in the window so that it will come on? I am sweltering.

Third, trust number 77 just ambled in and said he had a step missing in the house on River Street. Those people must be burning the house up to keep warm. Our records show we bought a step last fall. Wasn't that the same tenant?

I heard when I got back that you were the only girl in a class of 40. Did you know that when you left? Why didn't you tell me? I know you are dwelling in Beulahland now! Don't forget your promise to stay on here for at least one more year.

Red China's Military Buildup Considered Largely Defensive

By ROY ESSOYAN

HONG KONG (AP)—Most Western intelligence sources in Hong Kong believe Red China's current military buildup opposite the Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu is defensive. But they do not discount the possibility of a Communist attack.

These sources believe that any Red attack would most likely be triggered by fears that President Chiang Kai-shek's regime was going to try to make good his vow to retake the Chinese mainland.

"I'd be very surprised if the Chinese Communists launched an offensive," one well-placed intelligence informant said today. "I think the chances are about 3:1 against it. But if they felt the Chinese Nationalists were about to attack, they would probably want to beat them to the punch."

Top Nationalist officials have been predicting an offensive against Red China for some time. But the possibility seems remote.

The Nationalists have said they would launch an attack only after an uprising on the mainland. The recent exodus of hungry refugees from Red China to Hong Kong prompted anti-Communist newspapers here and in Formosa to declare the time for an assault had come. But Western officials

Shaw University President Fired

RALEIGH (AP)—The Board of Trustees of Shaw University in Raleigh has fired Dr. William R. Strasser as president of the Negro institution.

Dr. John W. White, chairman of the trustees, announced Thursday that the board had "concluded that the best interests of the school requires a change in the administration." He said Dr. Strasser's services will be terminated effective Aug. 1.

Dr. Strasser has been president of the Baptist College for the last 12 years. He had no comment on his dismissal, but he said he might make a statement in a few days.

believe the Red regime is still firmly in power, despite critical food shortages in China.

A Nationalist attack also would need U.S. logistic support at least to have any chance of success. The United States has given no indication that such aid would be forthcoming.

Nationalist officials in Taipei received Washington and London reports of the Red buildup with outward calm.

Chinese Nationalist military commanders are confident they can withstand an all-out Communist assault on Quemoy, the larger of the two islands, even though it is flanked on three sides by the Chinese mainland.

Communist artillery fired 39 shells at Quemoy in an 85-minute period Thursday night. This was not unusual, however. The islands are "much better defended today than in 1958 when the Communists made a determined but unsuccessful effort to crush them by artillery bombardment."

might have erroneously contributed to the conclusion that extensive military movements are under way. They said it is possible the Chinese Communists are making large-scale shifts of urban populations to rural areas in an attempt to speed up farm production.

But Hong Kong intelligence sources confirmed that the Chinese Communists are moving more planes and troops into the Fukien coastal area. Other sources indicated that the Communist military has taken over almost all railway facilities in Fukien and neighboring areas.

Attempted Rape Case Going To Superior Court

GRIFTON—The case of a 26-year-old Grifton man charged with attempted rape was referred to Pitt County Superior Court yesterday after a hearing in Grifton Recorder's Court before Judge J. A. Rogers.

The man was identified by Grifton Police Chief Luther Lewis as Joseph Baker of Main St., Grifton. He reportedly is married and has three children. Baker is charged with attempting to rape Mrs. Sarah Garris Wiggins of Rt. 2, Vanceboro, on Tuesday night. Chief Lewis said Mrs. Wiggins is divorced.

The incident allegedly occurred about midnight Tuesday outside Grifton.

Bond for Baker was set at $500, Judge Rogers said.
